Dedication

To all the men and women who have ever attended the University of Idaho, whether it has been for four years or but four weeks, and who are now in various branches of the armed services fighting to maintain the traditions of democracy and freedom of the press and speech, we dedicate this 1944 GEM OF THE MOUNTAINS.

Especially, to those among the sixty-four men listed on page 7 who have died in this war, we dedicate this publication and hope that the sacrifice they made by giving their lives will not have been useless, and, that some day in the not too distant future, the world of serenity they left behind at Moscow will again become a reality.

We hope, too, that posterity will remember the heroism and valor of these men and will master the lesson that they tried to give us before dying, so that tomorrow and tomorrow will be a world of peace and tranquility and that these men will not have died in vain at the peak of their lives.

Foreword

Members of the senior class who received their diplomas in May, 1944, were the third class to graduate from the University of Idaho during World War II—and the last "for the duration" who could say that they had seen a normal school year on the Idaho campus. For three war years had wrought great changes in the college life they had first known. During these years, they had seen Idaho dwindle in enrollment from over 2000 to about 700. They had seen traditions firmly established in the past completely put aside, because of the war. They had seen the coming and going of hundreds of soldiers and sailors who received training at Idaho. They had experienced changes that were common to all university students in a United States at war.

These seniors left behind them a school that resembled in few ways the University where they had started their college life in the fall of 1940—but they left behind them a student body which, though small, would keep alive the desire which had motivated so many Idaho students. This desire was to keep alive as much of the old University of Idaho as possible, so that Idaho fighting-men in the South Pacific, in India, in Britain, in the Aleutians, in Italy may some day return to what must to them constitute a very large share of those cherished memories of the homeland for which they fight.

With this in mind, the GEM OF THE MOUNTAINS has tried to present on the following pages a picture of this war-time university and of the students who tried to keep alive the old traditions. Reduced in size, produced on a budget of approximately half the size of former years, printed without benefit of expensive layouts, art work, and coloring, the 1944 GEM OF THE MOUNTAINS is in complete accord with the rationing imposed upon every phase of wartime life.

Governor C. A. Bottolfson

Message:

All of you are working hard toward a common goal—that of preparing yourselves for whatever is to come in and during your respective lifetimes. The accomplishments which you will make and the accomplishments already achieved in this war by your classmates of yesteryear prove once more that Aristotle was correct when he declared: "All who have meditated on the art of governing mankind have been convinced that the fate of empires depends upon the education of youth."

Our educational system, of which this University is an important part, is and always will be the bulwark of this democracy of ours . . . because America is ever dependent upon well-informed citizens.

Books may gather dust for the duration, but they will be thumbed again on the 'morrow as young men and young women return to pursue higher learning that is the key to resources that will endure as long as life itself endures.

C. A. BOTTOLFSEN

Board of Regents

Supreme in the administration of the University of Idaho is the Board of Regents, which, at its February meeting, made several decisions concerning the University's post-war policies.

C. E. Roberts, Boise; Judge W. F. McNaughton, Coeur d'Alene; Mrs. A. A. Steels, Parma; J. F. Jenny, Cottonwood; Asher B. Wilson, Twin Falls; Judge J. H. Anderson, Blackfoot

Harrison C. Dale*

President's Message:

You have carried on; you have proved the vitality and persistence of Idaho traditions; you have taken over where others have left off; you have not failed or shirked or faltered; you, the students of the University of Idaho, have met the challenge of your day, and thus we know that you will meet the challenge of the hard days that lie ahead with the same faith and courage and resolution.

HARRISON C. DALE

Administrative Officials

The University administrative personnel experienced several changes in their ranks during the past year. W. A. Goss, former purchasing agent, was replaced by Mrs. Evelyn M. Albrecht last spring. Dr. Harold D. Cramer, university physician, was called into the Army in February. Dr. J. G. Wilson and Dr. C. J. Klaaren, Moscow physicians, jointly assumed the responsibility for student health until the position was filled.

The "unsung heroes" of Idaho, the Administrative officials, do all the duties that the Idaho student takes for granted. Maintaining University buildings and grounds has been no easy task, with labor shortages, priorities, and other difficulties to face. The University infirmary has had the added job of caring for both Army and Navy personnel, as well as students. With the advent of war, the director of dormitories was given the extra job of providing housing facilities for service men training on the campus.

The purchasing agent has had the difficult job of finding and then obtaining needed supplies and equipment for the University. The job was handled well—no pinch was felt by the students this year.

These difficulties were not handled by sitting back and wishing. Hard work and hard thought accompanied each administrative accomplishment. Government priorities, labor shortages, cuts in available funds, and other exigencies of war harrassed but did not stop the group. Despite the many problems and added responsibilities, University administration continued to operate smoothly and efficiently.

The "hats off" department gives a vote of thanks to Idaho's administrative officials. They have proved the old adage on the importance of the "man behind the gun"—without him, the fight is lost.

Graduate Manager

Theodore A. Sherman
Acting Graduate Manager

Control of the purse strings of the Associated Students was given to Ted Sherman last March. He replaced Perry Culp, who left Idaho to take a Red Cross field directorship.

The graduate manager's office is the "clearing house" for all student functions. It handles finances for all class projects, ASUI dramatic productions, debate, music, publications, and athletics.

The graduate manager is the business agent of the student body. He works for the student body and represents it, both for the University and the public in general. The office keeps the books and finances of the students in balance and sees to it that they receive their full share of all funds and allotments due them.

Arlene Watts
Secretary to Graduate Manager

The problem of the graduate manager this year has been to keep every possible student activity in existence in times when a drop in enrollment makes fewer people available to participate in these activities.

The office has managed to keep athletics alive more than have most northwest conference schools. It has worked with the Army to keep an excellent, full-sized Argonaut in publication. The manager has also cooperated in helping to publish an Army year-book, and in promoting dramatics.

An important cog in the graduate manager's office this year was Arline Deobald Watts, Mr. Sherman's secretary. She resigned in March, and was replaced by Mrs. E. A. Whitehead. Both did an excellent job of writing letters, keeping ASUI records, and answering queries of ambitious class officers and assembly chairmen.

The future can not be prophesied, but returning students may be sure their interests have been held together . . . that the ASUI will be in a position to return to normal school activity, when the "big crowd" comes back.

Department Heads

The war continued to force many adjustments upon Idaho's department heads. Vacancies caused by the call of government and defense positions added to the problem of keeping the University's educational machinery running smoothly.

The Army Specialized Training Program doubled the teaching schedule of many department heads. Despite the heavy demands made on their time, they continued to give assistance to any and all students who needed their guidance. Idaho's heads have proved that to them a student is more than a name on a registration card, by helping their charges over the personal mountains that war places in front of "war-babies."

The department heads can mark the past year as a successful one. They were asked to meet the war with the students, and they did a job of which both the students and the University can be proud.

ASUI Leaders

War again reared its ugly head and added further to the changes and adjustments that the ASUI executive board had to meet this year. The two members of the board who did not return, Jerry Skiles and Sherman King, were replaced by Barbara Long and Bruce Jepson. Marian Franson, secretary, left school temporarily because of illness, and Florence Marshall replaced her. Barbara Long was chosen secretary to fill the vacancy.

Carl Minden, able ASUI president, and Rey Reinhardt, board member, graduated at the semester. Vice President Edith Jones moved into the executive post, and Bruce Jepson was elected vice president. Frances Larsen and Fred Watson took over the positions left vacant by these changes. Kathleen Woodworth left the University in March, and Ruth Leth was her successor.

A BMOC at Idaho, Carl Minden took time out from winning scholarships to earn membership in Silver Lance, Blue Key, and Sigma Tau. He served on the Interfraternity Council and was president of SAE, among many other important activities.

Edith Jones broke a long-established precedent by becoming the first woman ASUI president in several years. Among her activities were Mortar Board, Cardinal Key, and Phi Chi Theta. She was president of both Hays Hall and Elizabeth House, a member of the Associated Caucus, and the Independent Council, and held a class office in her sophomore year.

Vacancies on the publications staffs were a sharp thorn in the executive board's side. Claire Bracken and Marian Franson were chosen co-editors of the Argonaut. In November, Marian submitted her resignation. Betty Smithers, managing editor, replaced Marian as co-editor, and Mary Jane Donart became managing editor. Claire resigned in January, Mary Jane and Shirley West taking over the co-editorship for the remainder of the term. Betty Echternach was appointed managing editor to replace Mary Jane. Helen Howard served as business manager for the entire year.

Many accomplishments were recorded in the executive board log. The board worked in collaboration with the Student Activities Board in studying relationships between the service men and the students on the campus. University dances, a dating bureau, house exchange dances, and other social functions resulted from the efforts of the two organizations. They were more than successful in establishing a "close-to-normal" campus social life which the students had sadly marked as another "war-casualty" last fall.

The Rally Committee continued to operate under the direction of the board. Despite recurring vacancies on the committee, the board kept it in active operation. A new yell queen and six duchesses were selected.

The executive board did not confine its activities to war problems and current student activities, but delved into post-war plans for Idaho's returning students. Discussions were held on maintaining student activities on as normal a basis as possible, to guarantee the continuance of these activities after the war. The need for enlarging the Student Union Building has been recognized for some time, and the board formulated plans and suggestions to help make the project a reality as soon as circumstances permit such action to be taken.

The board can record both mistakes and accomplishments in its record this year. But in the light of the problems and difficulties which it has had to overcome, the success of the majority of its projects show the balance to be in its favor.

Associated Women

Anne Thompson
AWS President

The full weight of World War II was firmly grounded in the minds of Idaho's co-eds this year. The gaiety and social activity, so much a part of AWS functions, were set aside last year for more serious national defense activities. This year that policy was continued by the organization.

AWS gave its full support to relief drives and other defense activities. The traditional AWS Carnival was cancelled this year, as last, in accordance with the campus policy of banning costly social functions, because they "were not in tune with the times."

The women again sponsored an All-Women's Play Party in December in the Bucket ballroom. Introduced for the first time last year, it proved to be very successful, and will continue to be an annual affair. The party consisted of a buffet luncheon, group singing, and country dancing.

Women's activities end on May Day at Idaho with the annual May Fete. At this time, an elected May Queen is crowned, leading campus honoraries tap new members, and the Spurs hold their traditional May Pole dance. Also, on that day, AWS sponsors a tea in honor of visiting mothers.

Heading AWS activity was Anne Thompson, president. Other officers were: Drexel Brown, vice president; Marian Franson, secretary; Frances Marshall, treasurer; and Muriel Axtell Smedley, orientation chairman.

AWS COUNCIL

Seated: Betty Lou Kilpatrick, Joanne Hunter, Frances Sanborn, Marie Chaney, Frances Marshall, Muriel Axtell Smedley, Anne Thompson, Drexel Brown, Amy MacGregor, Lorene Bales, Betty Cardwell . . . Standing: Maryella Sanford, Jean Gochmour, Helen Urness, Elizabeth Benny, Frances Larsen, Frances Freeman, Billie Keeton, Kathleen Woodworth Rosen, Edith Jones, Virginia Newton, Lucille Cummings, Marjorie Childs.

A keynote of the Associated Women Students is its representative form of government. Besides its regularly elected officers, the group has a governing body composed of one junior and one senior member from each women's group on the campus. This body, the AWS Council, has the function of formulating and enforcing women's rules and regulations on the campus.

Each year, the council meets with Dean Beatrice Olson and discusses all campus rules for women. Desirable changes in regulations are made, and these are published in the AWS Handbook. The Handbook also includes advice, rules, and information for new women.

To assist new students, the AWS sponsors a counselor service and meets trains and busses bringing students to Moscow in the fall. They answer questions and help to orient new students on the campus. The counselor system is directed by the orientation chairman who, during the summer, sends out letters to girls planning to attend the University. All counselors act as guides during registration days, and are stationed at various points on the campus to help new women.

A new problem for sorority women this year arose from the fact that rushees were placed in the various sorority houses during rush week. In previous years they were housed in Hays and Forney halls, now occupied by Army personnel. The AWS counselors in each house were kept busy carrying luggage and bedding and explaining the procedure of rushing and registration.

Student Activities Board

One of the most active committees on the Idaho campus this year was the Student Activities Board, established in 1942. Headed by Marylu Jensen, the activities group directed Student Union Building policies and worked in collaboration with the A.S.T.P. in promoting campus social affairs, including both the Army and the students. A "dating bureau" aided the Army and student "date-seekers" to get acquainted.

VICTORY COMMITTEE

Victory Committee

The Victory Committee, active last year, did little this year, although it continued to aid Idaho's "Minute Maids" in their war stamp sales. Ben Martin was chairman of this committee, which worked under the guidance of the executive board.

Despite the war and the fact that the senior class was greatly decreased in size as compared with former years, members still held their annual senior ball before Christmas vacation. Barbara Long was general chairman of the dance, and records indicate the crowd was as large as in many pre-war years.

The majority of remaining senior men were deferred to finish either engineering or medical courses, but with revised draft regulations, many of them had to leave throughout the year. Reports showed many of the seniors were finishing by correspondence courses, even though they had to quit before graduation.

At the fall election, Jud Guernsey was chosen president; Jean Beadles, vice-president; Lorene Bales, secretary; and Kent Barber, treasurer.

One of the highlights of the spring social season was the annual "Junior Week," which was sponsored by the class of 1945, during the week-end of April 20-21. Due to the war, the formal promenade was cancelled this year, but the popular Cabaret was held Friday evening, April 21, with Red Jensen's orchestra playing. Fred Watson was in charge of the activities for the week, and Jean Armour directed the serenade, which was April 20. Darwin Brown was master of ceremonies at the Cabaret.

The number of last year's sophomore class who returned to Idaho this year was few, as a considerable number of both men and women were in the armed forces. Others were engaged in essential war work. However, those returning to the campus were unanimous in electing Jay Gano as president; Bette French, vice president; Billie Keeton, secretary; and Elaine Thomas, treasurer.

Many members of the sophomore class were prominent in campus activities throughout the year, due to the fact that the number of upperclassmen had decreased so greatly. Sophomores were more prominent in publications, dramatics, and athletics than ever before.

The annual Holly Week, which was held before Christmas, was also acclaimed a success. Dale Ablin was chairman of the formal Holly dance.

During elections, the Greeks captured every office when class members elected Mary Jane Hawley as president; Jerry Riddle, secretary; and Betty Echternach, treasurer. Jerry Hagedorn was chosen vice president and was replaced by Evelyn Thomas when he had to leave at the semester.

Instead of having a sweater dance during "Frosh Week" as in previous years, members of this year's freshman class held a Red Cross benefit hop at various group houses with proceeds going to the Red Cross War fund. Joanne Hudelson and Louise Schlegel were co-chairmen of the dance.

Women dominated the class elections when June Williams was chosen president; Louise Schlegel, secretary; and Bette Scott, treasurer. Ken Chattin replaced Rod McDonald, who left at the semester to join the army, as vice president.

The influence of war was also felt among members of the first year class, as many of the students who entered in the fall were able to remain only one semester before being called by the draft.

The Gem of the Mountains

Anne Thompson
Editor

Editing this year's Gem was no easy job, but Editor Anne Thompson has produced a year book which is equal to any pre-war model. She spent many long hours revising the dummy to meet slashes in the cost of publication, but this did not seem to interfere with Anne's academic work. As the guard for her Tri Delt pin, she wears the "Phi Bete key." A language major, Editor Thompson hails from Lewiston, and this year served as president of the Associated Women Students. This spring, Idaho coeds chose her as queen of the May Fete, the highest honor any senior woman could hope to attain. Alpha Lambda Delta, Cardinal Key, Mortar Board, and house presidency are among the numerous activities which have filled Anne's busy college life.

"Right-hand man" to Editor Anne Thompson was Marylu Jensen, business manager for this year's Gem. In charge of the sales, distribution and advertising staffs, Marylu quickly organized her staffs and made quick work of the job that has proven a headache to so many previous business managers.

A business major and a straight "A" student, Marylu has served as chairman of the Student Activities Board. Much of the success of the program of army-student relations should be credited to this co-ed. Besides being president of Canterbury society and Alpha Lambda Delta, Marylu has been secretary for the school of business. She claims Spokane as her home town. Last spring, she trekked across campus with the other residents of Forney Hall to make the Beta house her campus abode.

Absent this year from the smoke-filled, tiny room, birthplace of the Gem of the Mountains, was the sound of the voices of male staff workers. This year, the staffs were manned almost entirely by women students.

Few students realize the work these unpraised workers do—sacrificing coke dates and sleep to write copy, secure lists of members, schedule pictures and identify members of organizations. All this is done in the three short months after Christmas vacation. Complicating the work more than ever this year was the constant shift of club officers, departure of students from school, and the general upheaval in all the organizations on the campus. But now the work is completed, and as the Gem copy finally reached the presses, these students settled back for a much-needed rest.

The business staff also found they had a hard "row to hoe." Decreased sales due to the small enrollment, the usual grim task of persuading business men to take ads, and the ever-increasing number of Gems to be mailed were only a few of the problems facing this staff.

Although inexperienced at Gem work, this year's staff members were willing and ready workers. When the war drained Idaho of its proficient Gem workers, these students took to the helm like veterans and made the 1944 Gem a reality.

The inexperience of workers was not the only headache Editor Thompson had, as she was faced with other war worries. Shortage of photographic and engraving supplies, constant departure from college of student members of organizations before their pictures were taken, and the unprecedented change of officers in organizations were but a few of the trials.

To last year's Gem editor, Don Carlson, Idaho students owe a vote of thanks. While stationed here with the other ROTC students in the ASTP, Private Carlson took shots of campus activities and "pinch-hit" when Charlie Dimond, Gem photographer, was unable to do the job.

Reductions in the amount of money appropriated to finance the Gem meant revisions in the dummy—some activities left out, and some cut down.

Gem Staff

Although not radically different from previous Gems, this year's book lacks elaborate layouts and color schemes. In simple black and white, this book shows Idaho in the third year of World War II.

Responsible for nearly all photographs is veteran Gem photographer, Charlie Dimond. This year, with fewer experienced amateur photographers on the campus, his work was doubled. Staff workers also owe a vote of thanks to Art Dunn, who not only provided expert advice regarding art and layout problems but also designed the cover and opening section.

Not to be excluded when praises are sung are those lowly personages, Oveta Molly Pitcher and Blossom, the two canine residents of Forney Hall, their greatest contribution being the maintenance of morale during tedious hours of photo mounting and typing.

When spring definitely came to the Idaho campus, the Gem had reached Printer Ralph York. Co-ed workers breathed sighs of relief, and allowed dust again to settle on equipment not to be used for another year. Idaho co-eds had successfully carried out a tradition of their "Alma Mater" by publishing the Gem of the Mountains.

Argonaut

Claire Bracken
Co-Editor

The list of Argonaut editors reads like a page in a telephone directory, but backbone of most editions of the Arg was Claire Bracken, political science major. Each Tuesday and Wednesday she was found down in the Arg office writing Jason or checking copy. This capable co-ed not only maintained a high grade point average but also acted as secretary in the law department. Spurs, Mortar Board, Cardinal Key, Alpha Lambda Delta, Theta Sigma, and AWS treasurer are only a few of the activities which marked her as a "BWOC." Beginning her editorship with Marian Franson last spring, Claire broke in three new co-editors before she resigned her position at the beginning of the second semester this year.

Like any regular newspaper, the Argonaut could not be printed without the advertisements of Moscow businessmen. In charge of the financial end of each week's edition is Helen Howard, Delta Gamma, from Boise. A transfer from Boise Junior College, Helen is a junior in the school of business. Membership in Phi Chi Theta, national business honorary, demonstrates her capabilities and scholarship. This athletic-minded coed is best known among women athletes for her ability to play softball. On warm spring days, she can be found practicing for the spring softball tournament by playing catch out in the street with the Phi Deltas.

Turnover in editorship of the Idaho Argonaut this year was almost as great as that of the previous year. Marian Franson and Claire Bracken put out the first three editions; however, Marian had to resign her position, due to rheumatic fever. Next to "learn the ropes" of editorship was Betty Jo Smithers.

Co-editors Bracken and Smithers published nine issues of the paper before Claire resigned. With the approval of the executive board, Mary Jane Donart filled the vacancy. At the semester, Betty Jo Smithers quit to accept a job as cub reporter on the New York Herald, and again there was a vacancy. Shirley West replaced Betty Jo and the new team was Co-editors Donart and West. When the Gem went to press in April, these two were still at the helm.

One of the few male workers on the editorial staff was Tom Ryan, who faithfully handed in his sports copy until he left school at the semester. He was replaced by Jack Goetz and Len Pyne.

The war made many Moscow business men reluctant to buy advertising space in the Argonaut, even though there was only one issue per week instead of two as in pre-war days. However, energetic members of the advertising staff were successful in their soliciting efforts and at the end of the year, records showed column inches of advertising per issue were almost as great as in previous years.

One of the numerous publication tasks which most people disregard is that of mailing Argonauts to out-of-town subscribers. This year, there was a greater non-resident circulation than previously, due to so many students being in the armed services. But a conscientious circulation staff could be found working every Thursday afternoon wrapping and addressing papers for mailing.

Argonaut Staff

One of the wartime innovations to the Idaho Argonaut was the Army Specialized Training Program page, which was edited by soldiers who were studying foreign languages.

Another addition to the post-Pearl Harbor paper was the appearance of new editorial staff members who had never in the annals worked on the staff before—two canines, Oveta Molly Pitcher and Blossom. The two petite puppies claimed Forney Hall as their home, but adopted the Arg and Gem offices during the week and soon became invaluable members.

The army page, which dealt with all the events of soldiers stationed on the campus, not only gave new life to the paper, but also made a regular instead of a tabloid-size publication possible.

The Idaho Engineer

Twice a year, in December and May, engineers desert their slide rules and surveying equipment long enough to publish The Idaho Engineer. This technical publication, covering all fields of engineering, is circulated gratis to all engineering students and members of the Idaho Society of Engineers. Charles Ohms is editor of this year's issue. The staff publishing the May issue was almost entirely new, because a large percentage of the old members left at the semester. Staff members who are chosen from all the fields of engineering, write reports on interesting work carried on in their phase.

The Idaho Forester

Each spring Idaho foresters pound the typewriters for copy for their annual forestry student's yearbook, which rolls off the presses in May. This year, because the war has stripped this school of experienced student workers, members of the department were responsible for the publication of The Forester. Articles contained in this paper cover both technical and commercial fields of forestry research and techniques. Dean D. S. Jeffers and Edith Jones, secretary to the dean of the school of forestry, compiled all the materials written for this year's Forester.

Dramatic Presentations

This year one of the greatest contributors to life on the Idaho campus was the Dramatics Department. Although many other organizations have not been active, the Dramatics Department has disregarded all obstacles and had presented three plays and begun preparations for a fourth when the Gem went to press.

Orchids for this accomplishment go to Miss Jean Collette. Because there has been only one director, the amount of responsibility taken and work done by the students has been greater than in the past.

The dramatic season started out last fall with "The Romantic Mr. Dickens," a comedy-drama by H. H. and Marguerite Harper. Victorian costumes by Hooker-Howe, Haverhill, Massachusetts, were of special interest in this show.

This was followed by "Hotel Universe," which was given after Christmas vacation. The fantasy by Philip Barry took those who saw it "out of this world" by having a curtain of cheese cloth which added a mystic aura to the performance.

A sell-out of tickets for three performances of "Gee-Eyes Right" indicated the enthusiasm with which this local show was received. Written by Ted Sherman and Geoffrey Coope with music by Hall M. Macklin, this musical comedy was put on by the army and civilian students. Lt. Col. W. A. Hale, in a letter to the authors and director, observed that "the production has done a great deal to bring students and trainees together on a basis of cooperation and understanding. It has helped greatly to improve morale during a very trying period, and above all it has been of decided educational value."

"The Late Christopher Bean," a comedy by Sidney Howard, was scheduled for the last of April.

"Gee-Eyes Right"

The musical comedy, "Gee-Eyes Right," included a dancing chorus, men and women's chorus, army dance band, specialty tap numbers, song specialties, and speaking and acting parts. Over 150 students took part in the show, Bette French and Winton Wood playing leading roles.

Miss Marion Featherstone acted as costume advisor and Mrs. Ruth Marty directed the dancing routines.

Otis Walter played the leading role of Mr. Dickens, and Marion Wilson had the feminine lead of Caroline Bronson in the "Romantic Mr. Dickens," a play built around the love affairs of Charles Dickens.

Very elaborate costumes of the Victorian period were a feature in the staging of the show.

"Hotel Universe"

"Hotel Universe" was a play of unreality and magic which quickened the pulses and stirred the minds. Jack Rowe portrayed the leading male role of Patrick Farley, and Drexel Brown played the leading woman's part of Ann Field.

Highlights of the show were the special lighting features, the curtain of cheesecloth through which the play was viewed, and the fact that there was no intermission.

Debate

Despite restrictions and a general contraction of the campus personnel, Idaho debaters participated widely in tri-state meets, including forensic meets at Pullman, Washington, and McMinnville, Oregon. The Vandal debaters opened the season early in December at Walla Walla in a triangular meet. In January, Idaho played host at the annual Inland Empire junior college tournament. Completing the season, two teams were sent to McMinnville, Oregon, to compete in one of the biggest events of the year at the Linfield College tournament.

All Idaho teams debated pro and con the question, "Resolved: That the United States should cooperate in establishing and maintaining an international police force upon the defeat of the Axis."

Representing Idaho in a triangular meet at Walla Walla, December 10-11, were eight women: Frances Freeman, Joyce McMahan, Betty Echternach, Doris Mae Holz, Elaine Anderson, Eleanore Andrew, Clara Beth Young, and June Sutton. Of the sixteen debates against Whitman and Washington State, Idaho won seven and lost nine.

The Inland Empire Junior College debate tournament was held in Moscow on January 15. Lewiston State Normal, Whitman College, and W.S.C. participated, entering a total of fourteen teams. Lewiston State Normal placed first with four straight wins.

Linfield College was the scene of the biggest forensic and debate event of the year as the host of the Western Association of Teachers of Speech. Two Vandal teams attended, entering in debate and other speech competition. Joyce McMahan, Frances Freeman, Elaine Anderson, and Eleanor Andrew made up the Idaho teams. One team entered the debate finals. Frances Freeman won first place in the interpretative reading contest and Elaine Anderson was a finalist in impromptu and extemporaneous speaking.

Ridenbaugh Hall was the winner of the intramural debates this year, sponsored by Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary. The tournament was open to all university students who had not previously participated in intramural debate at Idaho or in other collegiate competition. Five teams entered; Ridenbaugh Hall, winner; Gamma Phi Beta, second; Kappa Alpha Theta, Mary House, and Delta Gamma. Ridenbaugh's winning team was comprised of Frances Freeman and Mary Stanek. Joyce McMahan, Jean Parker, and Betty Ring were runners-up.

Debate awards were given to Frances Freeman, Joyce McMahan, Elaine Anderson, Betty Echternach, Doris Mae Holz, Eleanore Andrew, Clara Beth Young, and June Sutton.

Music Faculty

Head of the music department is Alvah A. Beecher, voice instructor and conductor of University Singers and Vandaleers. This amiable gentleman, one of the best liked of the university faculty members, is prominent not only on the campus but also in music circles all over the country. National president of Phi Mu Alpha, Mr. Beecher spends many months of the year attending music conventions and meetings.

Other members of the music faculty include Carl Claus, orchestra leader and violin instructor; Robert Walls, voice; Hall M. Macklin, piano, organ and composition; Edmund J. Marty, band and instrumental instruction; and Joseph Brye, piano.

Idaho's music department lost one member to the armed forces when Hall M. Macklin, took leave from music to join Uncle Sam's army.

Newcomer to the department second semester was Joseph Brye, pianist and an assistant professor of music. His arrival at Moscow was extremely sensational, as the train on which he arrived struck a car stalled on the tracks at the crossing near the new depot. The car was carried along for about twenty feet and then hurled against a street lamp. The climax was when the dislocated street lamp toppled over onto a car belonging to Edmund J. Marty, music instructor, who had come to the station to meet Mr. Brye.

Most outstanding contribution by a music faculty member this year was the composition of the musical score written by Hall M. Macklin for the ASUI-ASTP production, "Gee-Eyes Right." The lyrics for these numbers were written by Geoffrey Coope, assistant professor of English, and Theodore A. Sherman, acting graduate manager.

Although enrollment in music classes has dropped since the beginning of the war because music education is on the "non-essential" list, music instructors have presented the usual number of concerts and other events according to plans.

Band and Orchestra

The scarcity of male participants in the University Band made the usual military band an impossibility during the 1943-44 season. However, with the ROTC regiment numbering less than fifty, a military musical group would have been of little value. Under the leadership of Director Edmund J. Marty, these musicians presented several concerts throughout the year and provided music at various other functions.

The University Symphony Orchestra, directed by Professor Carl Claus, is composed of university students who, after a consultation with the conductor, are deemed qualified for membership. This organization has been functioning for twenty-two years, and the orchestra has grown from a dozen to almost sixty members. This year, despite a decrease in enrollment at the University, membership is close to fifty. Annual concerts are presented each fall and spring. The able musicians of this group supply all the music for the services connected with graduation.

Music Groups

Outstanding among Idaho's musical organizations is Vandaleers, an a cappella choir, which was founded in 1934. Members of this mixed chorus are chosen annually by Vandaleer Director Alvah A. Beecher, and this year membership in Vandaleers was open to army personnel stationed on the campus. Highlighting the activities of this group is their annual Candlelight Service, a religious concert held during the week before Christmas vacation.

A desire to sing and regular attendance are the only requirements for membership in University Singers. Until 1941, this group was a combined men's and women chorus, but was then divided into two separate organizations—University Women Singers and University Men Singers. During the first semester of this year, these groups were again combined into one organization. Army and a few civilian men composed the male section of the chorus. In October, Vandaleers began to practice on "Elijah," a religious oratorio; but this production was cancelled due to the lack of male voices for solo parts. With the beginning of the new semester, the group was again returned to a women's chorus and this spring members gave their annual concert.

Winners of the music scholarships awarded each year in the various fields were Jean Gochnour, Burley, organ; Sidney Buchanan, Emmett, piano; Winton Wood, Coeur d'Alene, voice; Virginia Eggon, Seattle voice; Jean Armour, Moscow, violin; and Phyllis Claus, Moscow, cello. Winners of these scholarships are chosen each fall by the members of the music faculty, and the scholarship allows each winner two free lessons a week during the school term.

The University String Quartet, composed of Clara Rowell, viola; Iris May, violin; Jean Armour, violin; and Phyllis Claus, cello, is directed by Professor Carl Claus, orchestra conductor. This quartet performed on many musical programs throughout the year including the SAI Victory Musical and orchestra concerts.

Another instrumental quartet heard many times on the campus was the University Brass Ensemble. Members included Dale Ablin, Marina Dochios, Edmund J. Marty, John Bonnett, Gladys Larson, Ruth Fisk, Virginia Transue, and Manford Morris.

Pep Band

If Edmund J. Marty, University band director, had not assumed the leadership of the Pep Band, Idaho students would not have had any music at their pep rallies, basketball games, and football games this year. Although the band was not completely organized and the practices were irregular and infrequent, these musicians gave forth with true "jive" between halves at all the basketball games. Membership in this year's Pep Band was not limited to university students, but it was open to servicemen and high school students who came and played when they could.

Mr. Marty not only directed the band, but the versatile director also "pinch hit" for any band member who was unable to attend.

The annual Pep Band show, usually one of the highlights of campus events each spring, was cancelled this year, due to the shortage of student musicians.

Idaho students recall past days when the widely-known Idaho Pep Band traveled to all the high schools throughout the state advertising the University of Idaho. However, gas rationing, crowded traveling facilities, and the lack of funds put these tours on the rationed list.

Clubs and Honoraries

Mortar Board

SENIOR WOMEN'S HONORARY . . . Chosen each year at the May Fete are the senior women outstanding on the campus maintaining a high average. During the year, the organization sponsors an orientation tea for freshmen women, Narthex Table, and the Spinster Skip. Each Friday, the members wear the traditional black sweater and skirt and Mortar Board emblem. A Mortar Board plaque is presented each year to the junior woman who has had the highest scholastic average during her first two years.

Phi Upsilon Omicron

HOME ECONOMICS HONORARY . . . Membership in the Zeta chapter of this national fraternity is open only to upperclassmen in the upper fourth of the grade strata who maintain professional attitudes and activities in the field of home economics. The aim of the organization is to promote interest in home economics. Besides its bi-monthly meetings, Phi U annually engraves upon a plaque the name of an outstanding home economics freshman.

Idaho Coaches

Four coaches of the 1942-43 staff and four new men composed Idaho's well-equipped athletic department. This year, heading the veterans, was J. A. (Babe) Brown, head basketball coach and athletic director. Coach Brown took over as Athletic Director when George Green received a commission in the Navy during the spring of 1943. It was Babe's third year of coaching at the University, having been at Lewiston High and Moscow High schools before coming to Idaho.

Mike Ryan, track coach and trainer, managed to keep his excellent record intact by taking second place in the Pacific Coast cross-country meet held in Spokane during the fall. Francis Schmidt, head football coach, and Bob Knox, boxing coach, were the other two holdovers from the 1942-43 department. Because of the manpower shortage, football was discontinued and Coach Schmidt was forced to coach an army football tournament and military P.E. His contract expired in March and was not renewed. Coach Knox was head of the military P.E. program and directed an army boxing program when varsity boxing was discontinued.

All four of the new coaches, Rich Fox, Bill Ramsey, Henry Juran, and Ernie Wohletz, handled military P.E. classes throughout the year. Rich Fox, who was head baseball and basketball coach at Idaho a few years back, was the Northern Division Basketball Commissioner as well as military P.E. instructor. It was the first time that the northern division has had a commissioner, and Fox did an excellent job.

Besides his military P.E. classes, Coach Bill Ramsey trained a civilian swimming team until the sport was dropped early in the season. Ramsey also took care of a civilian tennis team during the spring.

Ernie Wohletz, a forestry professor, found time to help with the army military P.E. classes. Wohletz also handled civilian P.E. classes. Henry Juran, former Idaho wrestling champion, supervised both army military P.E. classes and civilian P.E. classes.

Yell Leaders, Rally Committee, Twirlers

Behind every pep rally and rally for service men leaving the campus was the untiring spirit of the Rally Committee. This organization meets only when necessity calls, to plan ways of keeping the "old Idaho spirit" alive. Arrangements for all half-time entertainment during basketball and football games are also made by this committee. Outstanding in half-time entertainment this year were the tumbling act by the Army Air Corps cadets from Pullman and the annual Spur Waddle.

One member each representing the IK's, the Spurs, the Pep Band, the ASUI executive board, and a student selected from the student body at large constitute this committee.

This year, Idaho's beautiful major-ettes were without a military band to lead. After they had spent much time synchronizing their twirling, these lasses had but one performance for the whole year, which was as half-time entertainment at a basketball game.

Under the able leadership of Connie Hansen, yell queen for the 1943-44 season, six fair lasses kept the rooting sections at basketball and football games lively and full of pep. These yell duchesses and their queen were chosen by the rally committee and approved by the executive board. This year, more duchesses were selected so an adequate number would be present at all games.

YELL TEAM: Betty Ring, Lorraine Brassfield, Eleanor Andrew, Helen Morlitt, Dona Harding, Mary Holden. Kneeling: Connie Hansen, Yell Queen.

RALLY COMMITTEE: Paul Olson, Kathleen Woodworth, Ada Mae Rich, Marvel Houx, Connie Hansen, Drexel Brown, Dale Ablin.

TWIRLERS: Meryl Dunsmore, Joyce McMahon, Billie Keeton, Evelyn Thomas, Marjorie Sorgatz, Beryl Dunsmore.

Basketball

Idaho's "giant killers" finished the 1943-44 basketball season in third place in the Northern Division race with five victories and eleven defeats. After a slow start, Coach "Babe" Brown brought his boys into shape and trimmed Washington State four straight times—a feat that hadn't been equaled by an Idaho team in over 30 years. Another high point of the season was the 55-53 victory over the conference champions, the Washington Huskies.

Coach Brown had only one letterman, Tom Collins, with which to build a team for the season. With Captain Collins leading the way, the Vandals won two of their seven pre-season games.

Lettermen for the 1943-44 season included Tom Collins, Jay Gano, Dale Ablin, Len Pyne, Bill Carbaugh, Paul Olson, Bob Stewart, Darwin Brown and Rich Morse. Tom Ryan was varsity manager for the first semester, and Jack Goetz and Bert Dingle, second semester. Collins was the leading Vandal scorer for the entire season with 194 points. Gano took second spot with 179 points, and Pyne third with 178.

For the first time in seventeen years, Idaho defeated the Cougars in four straight games. In the first game on the home court, Idaho obtained a lead early in the first half and the game was "in the bag." In the second game at Moscow, Vandarmen repeated their previous performances against W.S.C., only made the victory more decisive.

In the first game on enemy territory, Idaho knocked her old rivals out of the key position in the Northern Division race. Although trailing slightly throughout the game, Idaho, in the last few minutes, burned up the lead and ended the game with a six-point advantage. The second game found the Vandal lead threatened but never overcome.

University of Washington, emerging Northern Division and Pacific Coast champions, hit a snag when a determined Idaho team defeated them in the last game of the season. An over-confident

Husky team was bewildered by the speed and accuracy of the Idaho quintet. In the last few minutes of the game, the Vandals forged ahead and put the game on ice. In the first game at Moscow, the Huskies surged to a one-sided victory despite the Vandal rally in the second half.

In the first game at Seattle, the Vandals were off form and dropped the game 64-32. The second game found Idaho stronger, but still not powerful enough to stop the Husky advance.

O.S.C. emerged victorious in all four games of the 1944 Vandal-Beaver series. During the first game of the Beaver invasion, the Idaho team matched the Beavers basket for basket, only to lose in the last few minutes of the game. The second game proceeded along the same lines as the first encounter.

While in the Beaver camp, Idaho dropped both games only after a fierce battle. In the first game, the Beavers never enjoyed more than a three-point lead until the final minutes of the game. Whereas, in the second game, Idaho came within eight seconds of winning 44-43 until an O.S.C. player dropped in a free-throw, tying the score. In the overtime, the Beavers outshot the Vandals to win the game.

Oregon won all four games in the 1944 Vandal-Duck series. During their first meeting of the season at Moscow, the Vandals couldn't overcome the superior height and superb shooting of the Webfeet, although they did force the game into an overtime period. The second game of the Duck invasion was far less spectacular. Lacking the support of their captain, Tom Collins, who was injured, team members could not break the big lead held by the Ducks.

At Eugene, Idaho lost Collins and Pyne early in the second half of the first game, making victory less complicated for the Webfeet. Second encounter found Idaho in better form but still not powerful enough to halt their opponents.

Women's P. E.

Heading the women's physical education department, in the absence of Miss Jeanette Wirt, is Mrs. Frances Bascom. Other members of the staff are Miss Margaret Mylne and Mrs. Ruth Marty.

One of the most active organizations on the campus, Women's Athletic Association activities begin early in the fall with a picnic for freshmen women. This group sponsors after-school tournaments in various team sports. For participation in these tournaments women are awarded points and are eligible for membership after earning 100, as specified under the WAA point system.

W.A.A. Executive Board

Women's "I" Club

All women who earn 1200 points in WAA receive the women's "I" sweater and are automatically eligible for membership in this exclusive organization. At their irregular meetings, they dreamily make plans for their over-night trip up the Snake River in April. Each year, the "I" Club supplies golf clubs and other equipment for its protege, WAA.

When members accumulate 2000 points in WAA activities, they are awarded "I" blankets. Receiving these awards this Spring were Cherry Stranahan, Helen Newman, and Dorothy Ann Outzs.

This year, physical education major, Helen Dittman heads the organization, which brags of the largest membership in eight years. Other officers include Dorothy Ann Outzs, vice president; Billie Keeton, secretary-treasurer; and Barbara Long, historian. Advisor of this group is Miss Mylne, instructor in the Women's Physical Education Department.

Women's Sports

Soccer

Sports in WAA are classified into two main groups, major and minor sports. Soccer and volleyball, which are played the first semester, are deemed major sports.

Four nights a week during the chilly fall, Idaho co-eds are seen out on the soccer field mastering the arts of soccer. Quietly they suffer bruised shins and ankles until they at last become skilled players. At the end of the practice period, which is about five weeks, class teams are chosen for the inter-class tournament. When the dust of the battle cleared away this fall, the senior team, victorious in the three previous years, emerged as winners.

Volley Ball

After a week of recuperation from the soccer tournament, WAA participants begin volleyball practice. Novices become experts at propelling the ball swiftly over the net in the short time allowed for practice before tournament time. Although less vigorous than the preceding sport, much skill is required before perfect teamwork is developed. After four seasons of playing together, again the senior women carried away the title of victors.

WAA participants who are not chosen to play on class teams form color teams. An individual tournament for these teams is held at the same time as the class tournament.

WAA President Barbara Long stated that the turn-out for these two major sports exceeded all others in the history of the organization.

Women's Sports

Basketball

Second week of the semester finds basketball practice in full swing and Idaho amazons throng to the women's gym to develop their latent talent of hitting the basket. This year, team work and secret plays were developed by underclassmen as they prepared to defeat the powerful senior squad. In spite of the determination of the other teams to win the title of champions, the senior team again emerged the victor.

Softball

As the Gem went to press this spring, softball practices were under way. Future "Babe Ruths" were polishing up their batting eyes in preparation for the final WAA tourney. Softball fans, remembering the tournaments of previous years, are putting their bets on the invincible senior women.

In order to be eligible for a team, a player must have eight practices. Teams are chosen by the team captains, sports manager, and the advisor of the organization. Each member of the class team receives 100 points and members of color teams receive 50 points. Extra points are given to the captains of each team and winners of the tournament.

Responsible for the machinery of the tournaments and the recording of points received are the members of the WAA executive board. Officers of WAA include Barbara Long, president; Helen Newman, vice president; Florence Marshall, secretary; Muriel Whiteman, treasurer; Muriel Axtell Smedley, recording secretary; and Virginia Newton, leisure sports recorder.

Minor Sports

In only two minor sports, archery and swimming, the Idaho amazons pit their skill and strength against that of co-eds from other colleges via telegraphic meets. Times and scores are recorded and then compared by mail with those compiled at other colleges.

Representatives of Idaho in the minor telegraphic meet, held in the fall, were Jane Meyer, Lucile Vance, Muriel Whiteman, and Gwen Hamilton. These feminine "William Tells" from Idaho placed twelfth in a nineteen school meet. Representing Idaho in the beginners division were Nadine Moore, Pat Miller, Evelyn Fisher, and Betty Ozburn. These coeds placed twenty-ninth in a meet in which fifty schools were competing. The major telegraphic meet is held each spring, after the Gem has gone to press.

Star of the Idaho mermaids is Erma Smith, who placed first in the 100-yard breast stroke event in the western division of the telegraphic swimming meet. Other members of the Idaho team were Helen Urness, Ethel Jane Kopelman, Joella Gage, and Barbara Bloomsburg. This team placed sixth in the western division and third in the minor division, composed of schools having less than one thousand women students.

Other tourneys held throughout the year are badminton, shuffleboard, ping pong, free throw, tennis, and golf. Winners of some of these tournaments are shown in the photographs. At the bottom of the panel are pictured some of the members of the all-conquering senior teams.

Idaho Campus

WINTER . . .

Students of the Idaho Campus, 1944, will long remember the "big frost" in January, which transformed the campus into a fairyland of white-coated trees and shrubs . . . Above are scenes taken on campus during the frost, and in the arboretum when winter really came.

WINTER . . .

Idaho students are particularly proud of the beauty of their campus, which shows to good advantage any season of the year . . . But perhaps most to be remembered is the winter-time . . . Few will forget the crisp February days of brilliant sunshine on the new-fallen snow.

NEW BUILDINGS . . .

Although the Idaho campus seemed to be shrinking in size as far as regular students were concerned, two brand-new buildings were ready for use when Vandalville came to life last fall . . . The Kirtley Engineering Laboratory, down across from the heating plant, and the new Dairy Science Building next to Morrill Hall, will be ready after the war when men are not a rarity on the Idaho campus.

S. U. B. . . .

Hub of student activity is the Student Union Building . . . Here meet committees, boards, clubs, honoraries, cauci . . . Above, the ASUI Executive Board in action . . . Here the girls meet for a coke and a hand of bridge . . . Here students buy books and supplies at Chet Kerr's Student Book Store . . . Here dance civilian, soldier, sailor, and now and again a marine . . . The women "table hop" and have a serious discussion.

STUDENTS . . .

Students registered in a changed school, in the fall of '43; some, at least, seemed visibly depressed by the change . . . "Life as usual" was attempted with some success . . . War does not interfere with hosiings, evidently . . . Vandalites got a taste of football when the AST companies formed teams and played before rather limited crowds . . . Lack of varsity competition did not save Butch from a trip to the Mary House front step . . . Basketball provided an almost normal winter athletic season, and this year the Spurs did "Waddle,"

LEAP YEAR . . .

Women students jumped the gun on Leap Year when they celebrated Sadie Hawkins Day between the halves of an inter-company football game last fall . . . Bob Stillinger had the right idea, but the gals were too much for him in the long run . . . The eternal pursuit was further illustrated in February when Gert furnished Ike with the proverbial ball and chain at the Mortar Board Spinster Skip.

R. O. T. C. . . .

Happy was the day when the Idaho ROTC came back to the campus . . . Sad was that one when they left for Fort Benning late in the winter . . . Lawyers, foresters, political scientists, and what-have-you suddenly found themselves budding engineers for the sake of Uncle Sam, and proved their efficiency in their new art on various occasions. Herb Larson, Jerry Chapman, and Keith Carlson chat over a machine gun . . . The boys take a last look at their old Alma Mater with mixed emotions . . . Col. Hale tells his boys good-bye.

HAYS FIRE . . .

The fire at army-occupied Hays Hall furnished a thrill one Saturday afternoon . . . Army men and students gathered in the snow to watch while the fire laddies struggled and certain unfortunates gathered up clothes and bedding . . . A charred room gives evidence of the fury of the blaze, origin of which is a military secret.

DANCES . . .

A full schedule of class and army-sponsored dances kept everyone quite happy about their social life . . . Familiar sight at all dances were the uniforms of soldiers and sailors, which quite outnumbered the mufti of men students . . . Sophomore Class President Mary Jane Hawley and Jack Johansen lead the Grand March at the Sophomore Wintersset Dance during Holly Week . . . Typical Bucket Lounge scene . . . Alpha Phi entertains the Army at a dance . . . After a meeting, busy students take time out for a dance or two in the Lounge.

INTERFRATERNITY DANCE . . .

The Interfraternity Council revived just in time to sponsor a dance at the ATO house before most men left the campus . . . Top, Beta is represented by Reed Clements, with Virginia Barrows . . . ATO by Tom Ryan, with Elaine Thomas . . . Teke by Bob Wethern, with Betty Faye Solberg . . . Sigma Nu by Darwin Brown, with Eldene Mulcahy . . . Delta Gamma well represented.

PARTIES . . .

When men are lacking, the women have to make their own fun, which they did at the all-women's Play-Party sponsored by AWS . . . Mrs. Farmer and Dean Lattig "cut a rug" at an Alpha Phi Omega party . . . Brother-sister honoraries, IK's and Spurs, have an exchange at the Bucket . . . APO proved to be one of the most active men's groups on the campus this year . . . Lower, scenes at an APO party and banquet.

PEOPLE . . .

Distinguished people and events on the Idaho campus this year . . . Governor Bottolfsen addresses students at annual fall Award Assembly . . . Dorothy Ann Hauge wins the Mortar Board Plaque award . . . Col. Hale congratulates ASTU Queen Jackie Melgard . . . Kent Barber and Joyce Halley, 1944 Sigma Chi Sweetheart, and the coveted cup . . . Sigma Alpha Iota national president, Mrs. Davison, visits Idaho and meets A. A. Beecher, Phi Mu Alpha national president . . . Minute Maid President Fern MacGregor sells first ticket for SAI Victory Musical to Col. Hale as SAI Prexy Marvel Houx looks on.

MAY FETE . . .

Last big event of the Idaho school year before graduation is the annual May Fete at which the Spurs dance around the Maypole . . . the May Queen is crowned with the Maid of Honor and Page officiating . . . Cardinal Key taps . . . Mortar Board gives a red rose to each of its new members . . . and Spurs announce their choice to wear the "jingle-jangle-jingles."

Astude

The ASTUDE is published by and for the Men of Army Specialized Training Unit 3926, University of Idaho, Moscow, as a supplement to the Gem of the Mountains, U. of I. yearbook. The editor is Henry Santiestevan; associate editor, Harold Shaw. The main character, created by Artist Howard Chanler, is called Astu.

Army Specialized Training Unit

Integral part of the University of Idaho in 1943-44 was the Army Specialized Training Unit of Engineers and Language Students, who dwelt in Hays, Lindley, and Forney Halls.

The Gem of the Mountains could not be complete without a considerable share of its pages devoted to the Army. Due largely to a highly cooperative group of officers, the ASTU made possible an almost normal schedule of social events. And despite any initial difficulty in Army-Student relations, by the time Uncle Sam shipped out the boys in O.D., the students felt that Idaho was losing an important part of itself, and many soldiers evidenced reluctance in leaving the school that had been their home for so many months.

Among the many activities of the AST men are the following: Idaho's only football was provided by the teams representing each of the three companies. The Argonaut was kept a full-size sheet by the cooperation of a group of Army men who came down every week to put out copy to make page 2 one of the outstanding attractions in the weekly student publication. Women students were serenaded by the different companies on various occasions. Biggest dramatic event in many a year at Idaho, "Gee-Eyes Right" owed its success largely to the whole-hearted participation of the soldiers, who not only played leading roles but designed the most elaborate set yet to be seen on the Auditorium stage. Last but not least, publications-minded soldiers put out, under the auspices of both Army authority and the ASUI, a most successful yearbook, the "ASTUDE."

The following section is comprised of pages taken from the ASTUDE, and presents a picture of Army life at the University of Idaho as seen by the soldiers themselves. The book was edited by Private Henry Santiestevan, who also served as first-semester editor of the Army page of the Argonaut. "Santy" experienced a bad few days late in the winter when the ASTUDE did not appear on schedule, due to an unforeseen delay in the shipment of covers from the East. But the books showed up in the nick of time the week before the G.I.'s were shipped out.

Not all men in uniform seen about the Idaho campus wore the Army olive-drab, for some were in the navy-blue of the Naval Radio Training School, whose Gobs inhabited Chrisman and Willis Sweet Halls. Unfortunately, the Gem is unable to present a pictorial record of the sailors. Strict naval regulations make it very much more difficult to get pictures of the Gobs, and a shorter training period made it much more difficult for the Navy group to amalgamate with the civilian student body, than it has been for the Army.

Officers

Lt. Col. William A. Hale

Like all other soldiers through the ages, Astu sometimes gripes about his officers; secretly he admits they aren't such bad guys after all, and there are times when he thinks he might rather enjoy having bars on his own shoulders some day. Astu's commanding officer in ASTU 3926 is Lt. Col. William A. Hale, a veteran of World War I and the Army of Occupation in Germany. Assigned to the University of Idaho in 1931, he retired in 1935, was recalled to active duty in 1940. He became commandant of army units here in the fall of 1943 after Col. C. W. Jones was transferred to another post. Capt Hugh M. Rutledge succeeded Colonel Hale as executive officer. Other officers: Capt. Lorin D. Parkin, special service; Lt. George D. Hayenga, classification; Lt. John H. Swain, adjutant; Lt. Morris S. Herzog, supply; Lt. Alan P. Graves, Company A; Lt. William C. Wideman and Lt. Jack W. Cushman, Company B; Capt. Richard A. Van Pelt and Lt. Russell R. Adair, Company C, and Captain Daniel W. Applegate.

These men are regular students of the University of Idaho—most of them juniors—who were called to active duty in the army because of their membership in the Reserve Officer Training Corps. Most of them have since left the campus and are now attending the Infantry Officer Candidate School at Ft. Benning, Ga. One is in the Air Corps and one is studying Japanese in a Military Intelligence school.

Most of these men left the University of Idaho in June, 1943, for summer training at various army camps, but had returned to the campus the first of November.

March time

T/Sgt. Alfonso Esposito left a military band to enter the Army Specialized Training program—and soon found himself waving a baton again at the University of Idaho. As director of the ASTU military band, piccolo-playing Sergeant Esposito has developed a brisk, smart marching organization. It has been a feature of all the unit's important formations. Drum major is stocky Roger Widder, formerly an oboe soloist with the Milwaukee Symphony orchestra. The band was organized in August, 1943, by Captain Lorin D. Parkin. It has a membership of 25.

The band personnel, as they appear in the picture above. First column (front to rear): Earl Couch, Paul Mize, James Laing, Walter Giles and Calvin Metz. Second column: Harold Hamilton, Hugh Donovan, Warren Goodwin, Joseph Grundtner and Lerry Long. Third column: Roger Widder (drum major), Edwin Bennisson, Melvin Edwards, Herbert Bloicher and James Bothwell. Fourth column: Leland Babcock, Vernon Shermeyer, Paul Barkal and Robert Stapleton. Fifth column: Matthew McVicker, Lorenz Mowry, Kenneth Kern, Verne Brooks and Paul Elmen. Technical Sergeant Alfonso Esposito, director, appears at extreme left.

Dance time

A slender, dark-haired young man named Kenny Odekirk, who formerly played a saxophone in Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra and once was Mickey Rooney's stand-in, last fall organized this ASTU dance band. It has played for more than a dozen functions during the year—all-school dances, mixers, private parties and USO-Camp Show presentations (contributing pre-curtain entertainment at the latter). It sponsored the President's Birthday ball on the campus. It also was featured in the all-campus musical show, "Gee-Eyes Right." When Odekirk became ill, leadership was assumed by Pianist Larry Long. The band is managed by Jim Lainq, trumpet player.

Scribes

This is a soldier's book. Every line of copy, every layout, every idea from the birth of the book to its final production is the work of the enlisted men of ASTU 3926, University of Idaho. A diligent staff of talented and experienced men has taken the materials of a soldier-student's life, diurnal stuff as familiar as a chow-line, and worked them into print and picture. Here, the ephemeral has become engraved and given form and substance. But why memorialize the ordinary? Because it is to the usual, casual things of life that memory returns, to ruminate that it was here and thus that life was good. So the staff has gathered the normal and the ordinary, and with much pain and patience made a book of memories.

COMPANY REPRESENTATIVES FOR ASTUDE STAFF . . . Seated: Herman Ausubel, Company B; Herbert Beck, Company A; Rod Swanson, Company A, and Julie Domowitz, Company B. ★ Standing: Dale Sauerby, Company C; Donald Walker, Company C, and Don Carlson, Company B. ★ Not in Picture: George Garland, Company A; Donald Cooper, Company A, and Howard Way, Company C.

Week after week a hectic, genius-ridden crew of ink-drunk GIs turned out a page, or two, for the Argonaut. There was competent sportsman, Shaw, who snapped out the make-up every week, and wrote a column on anything, anytime. There was quiet, efficient Norton who furnished dependable reporting. Saltzman, the lone lad from Maine, wrote the heads and tossed out Bunk Fatigue. Behrens, the boy of inspired promotions, gave fascinating facts in stories; while Shea and Chanler collaborated on an inimitable series of GI Joes, with the temperamental Irishman doing the lyrics to Howie's art. Howie also created the little man to the right, Astu, brother of Snafu. Elfish Warnock and the earnest Del Tufo would contribute whimsical or distinguished copy, respectively; and Sewell would occasionally awaken. Santiestevan? Oh . . . he hung around.

Kickoff

Playing heads up football, the Engineers of Lindley Hall took the football crown last fall by knocking off Company B, 6 to 0, in the season's first game, and then blasting out a 25 to 6 win over the Haysmen of Company A.

In the second game of the season, the men from Forney Hall managed to smash the Basics by the count of 26 to 6. In the fourth game B and C played to a thrilling scoreless tie.

An army ruling prevented Astu from playing in intercollegiate games and so the GIs here were forced to play on an intramural basis.

Outstanding players included Al VandeWaa and Loren Angel, Company C, Julie Domowitz and John Ryan, Company B, and Paul Barkal and Jim Ferry, Company A. Francis X. Schmidt handled the three teams.

Astu and other Astudes live in barracks. They also study, play, read and do laundry in them. They do not like standing at attention. But they like Mail Call and Girls.

Mail Call is the Astude's favorite formation. It brings letters from home and sugar reports. And tax reminders. Astu also enjoys music and sports. And this year book . . . we hope!

The girls are Jackie Melgard, elected Queen of the Astudes, and a few of the court cuties. Which one does Astu get? He gets guard duty, as usual. The guy phoning may be luckier.

One Eighty-One

TIME OUT . . .

To relax and listen to hot or sentimental strains of music played by the best bands in the land . . . to enjoy dancing at the many campus affairs held throughout the year . . . to meet your friends at informal gatherings or club meetings held in the various rooms of the building. Lasting friendships are made in college and memories originating under Blue Bucket hospitality will linger throughout a lifetime.

PENNEY'S

• PENNEY CO., INC.

Moscow, Idaho

Briefly . . .

Maybe that friend of yours who has "so many clothes on so little money" knows the secret of choosing from our $4.98 dresses. They're wonders!

Hosiery, Gloves, a Slip, and—oh yes, I must go over to Penney's Softie Bar—I need a little dash-around hat for in between times.

Somehow men who have once worn our $1.98 shirts never want any other kind!

The boy who "lives in" slacks and sweaters is usually the son of a thrifty mother who shops at Penney's!

MOSCOW IDAHO

*An Institution
As Old as the University Itself*

*W*HEN DAVID'S STORE was founded, there was written into its policies an inflexible rule concerning the reliability of merchandise. It is not too much to say that our present growth is due entirely to the policy of never selling anything—however small—that we can not fully guarantee. And the most impressive phase of that success that has come to us lies not in its magnitude but in the ever-growing satisfaction, so freely voiced by thousands of our customers, in the reliability of their purchases.

★ "Idaho's my Alma Water too!" ★

Throughout the world . . . in army camps . . . at naval stations . . . on the fighting fronts . . . wherever you find the boys who are winning this war, you'll find the yearbooks of their respective schools, treasured keepsakes of a happier day.

We at WESTERN are proud of the part we have played in helping these boys perpetuate their school-day memories and our sincere wish is that we may continue to serve their Alma Maters during this historic period and in the brighter days ahead.

We salute our boys on the fighting fronts! We are happy to have played a small part in giving them respite from their more arduous duties.

MORE THAN BEFORE

IDAHO men and women are attacking our enemies in every theater of war—in Italy, over Germany, among the islands of the North and South Pacific, in India, Burma and China. The War Records office of the University lists more than 3,000 names on its Honor Roll.

Here at home we must back their attack by producing for their needs, training to assist them, and providing the money to support them.

The Fifth War Loan Campaign begins June 12.

Volume 42 GEM is a war-time product in keeping with war-time conditions. It faithfully records, in permanent form, a year at Idaho and merits the thanks of student body and alumni to its first "all-girl" staff.

This book represents the 17th consecutive edition of THE GEM to come from our presses.
