The of the Mountains 1945

Fonewond

C ACH minute, hour, day, week and month of this year has seen a changing Idaho . . . an Idaho slowly making the transition from a wartime university to a peacetime school which seems imminent now with "V-E" day marked in history.

During the past chaotic year since "D" day, the pattern of college has gone on much the same as it did back in the pre-Pearl Harbor days before Joe College traded slacks and sport coats for the GI Joe olive drab and navy blue. It's true that there has been a sparseness of men and that maybe the formal dances aren't the same without corsages. But still the shadowy maples line the campus walks . . . and the warm sun lulls students to sleep in their classes . . . and swing music pours from the Bucket juke box any date night until the 12:00 o'clock curfew blows.

For some freshmen, it is difficult to visualize what Idaho might have been like before the first gun was fired in 1941 . . . even though indications now point to a banner year for the university before another Gem goes to press . . . a year which will be more like ones the present seniors remember . . . a year more normal not only from the standpoint of a larger student body, but one holding the promise of more curricular and extracurricular events.

To the class of 1945, this year has lacked something, a fact that can not be denied. But the Gem has endeavored to keep pace with the current spirit of our university and to present and picture a meager cross-section of one war year at Idaho despite the shortages and handicaps.

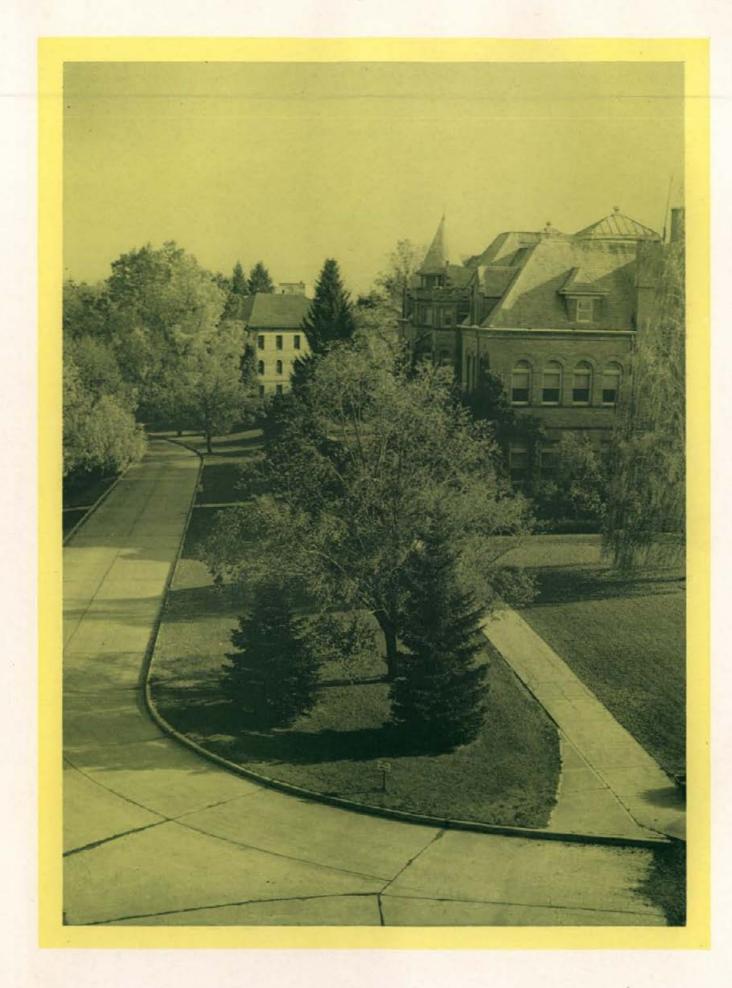

And it is hoped that ten years hence, you can peruse this yearbook and relive and recall not altogether a sentiment, a motto or a philosophy, but an unsurpassable combination of Vandal life which was attempted to be combined between the covers of this forty-third Gem of the Mountains.

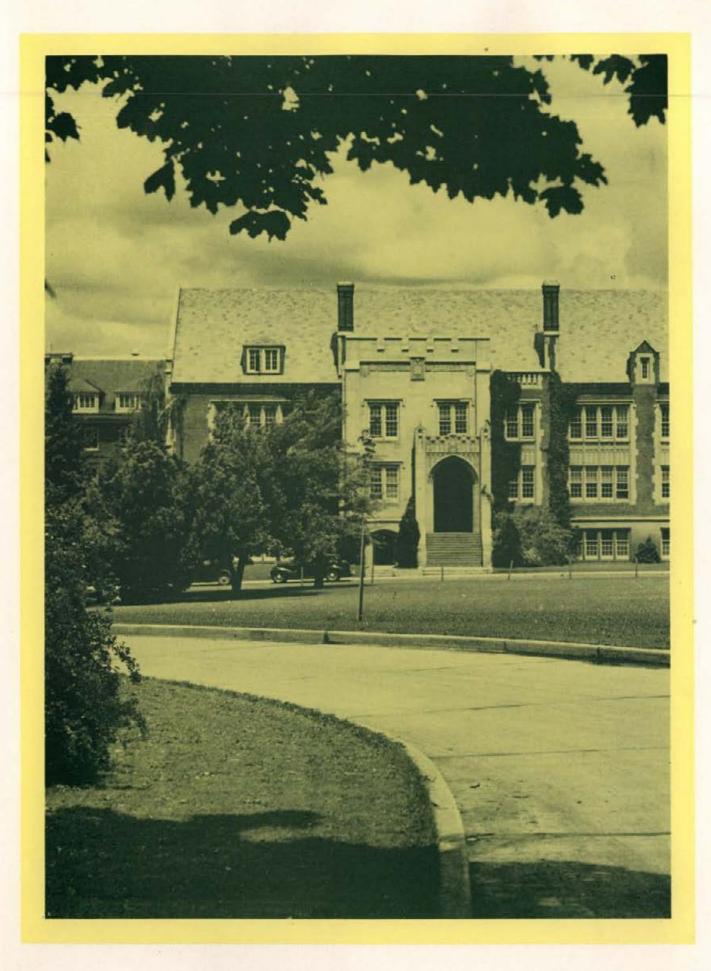

Dedication

ITH the publication of the forty-third Gem of the Mountains, events of another year in the history of the University of Idaho have been recorded. This third wartime Gem is dedicated to the sons and daughters of Idaho who now are serving their country, but especially to those 167 valiant men who will grow no older than their last snapshot depicts them. They have fallen nobly performing their duties. Unflinchingly they have died; and it is up to us, the living, to prove to them, the dead, that the ghostly taps which came to them was not a hollow tune that must be played again in years to come.

NSTILLED in Idaho hearts are memories of university days . . . thresholds of stately buildings are crossed to be met inside by the knowledge and experience of the years. As a monument to alumni and undergraduates, the Engineering building stands supreme, holding its place of honor on the administration drive. Centered here is the college of engineering, one which has won acclaim throughout the nation and which attracts heterogenously scattered students to Idaho soil and the Gem state institution of higher learning.

AILY, Idaho students concentrate their efforts within the realms of the Science building in their attempts to conform to that maxim, "Prove All Things." These students of today, like the many who have gone before them, will emerge as technicians and specialists in the various scientific fields. The hours diligently spent gazing through a microscope will not have been in vain; whether one may discover the cure for cancer or spend years as an assistant technician, each shall contribute to a better world for tomorrow.

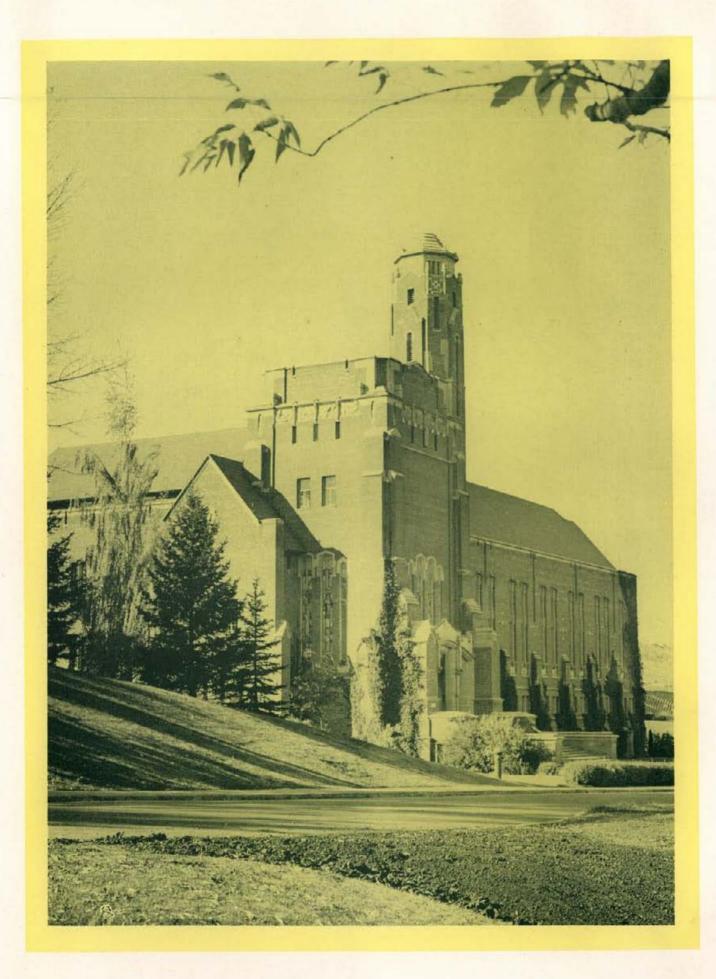

KEYNOTE for gracious living is the Student Union building, center for campus extracurricular activities. Housed within the red brick walls are the publications and ASUI executive offices, the student book store, lounge, ballrooms and the Blue Bucket Inn. Dancing at the impressive Senior Ball or in the comfortable lounge, "coking" in the Bucket, and meeting friends for chats, Idaho men and women store for the future, memories of university days at Idaho.

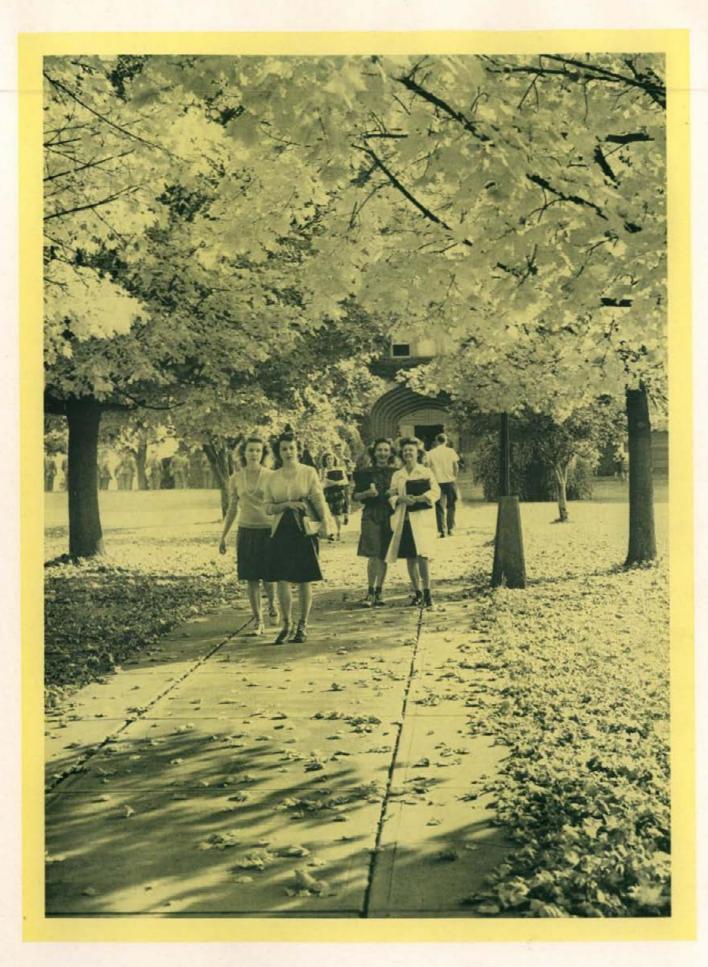

STUDENT UNION

HOME of many Idaho athletes, Memorial gymnasium stands as one of the newest and most beautiful structures on the campus. Through the years, Vandal teams have participated in various athletic contests, and whether they win or lose, they give their all. Some of these Idahoans have transferred their efforts to lead our militaristic teams to victory on the battle fronts of the world. Individuals may win personal honors, but it is as a team, just a part of the great all-campus team, which represents and promotes the constant building of a greater world and a greater Idaho.

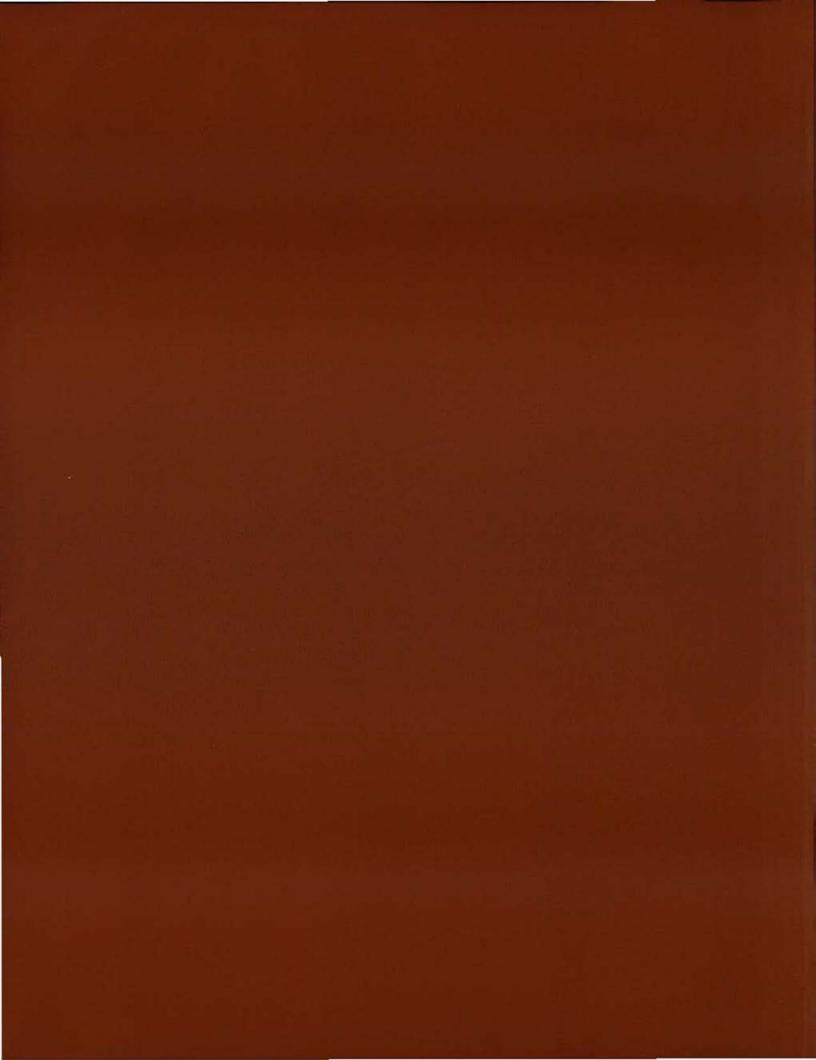

NWARD trudge Idaho men and women . . . on to the greater, wider fields which await them. Up the Ad building walks, freshmen go for orientation courses. They will come down these same walks three years from now and take their places as citizens in a war-torn, chaotic era. And, theirs shall be the job, as worthy citizens, to bind the peace when "V-J" day arrives. They shall be the leaders of the state and nation in future decades. The University of Idaho is imparting to these builders of tomorrows, the seeds of strength and wisdom.

Governor Charles C. Gossett

To the men and women of the University of Idaho, I desire to extend my sincere greetings and very best wishes.

During these days of war when so many of Idaho's sons and daughters are engaged in defending and preserving constitutional government in Idaho and these great United States so that liberty and freedom might not perish but live forevermore, it is befitting to recognize your ability and determination to keep the University of Idaho functioning in its proper manner so that when peace comes, these sons and daughters now so gallantly serving our country may return and take up once again the building of their educational careers to the end that this great State of Idaho may in due time fulfill its destiny.

CHARLES C. GOSSETT.

Board of Regents

Final decisions concerning the university rest with the board of regents at their regular quarterly meetings. They pass upon the distribution of appropriations and have the last word for appointments. Center topic this year is the allocation of the money for research of Idaho's resources and industries.

Seated G. C. Sullivan, Mrs. A. A. Steel, Asher B. Wilson Standing: Judge W. F. McNaughton, Dr. Allan R. Cutler

President Harrison C. Dale

In the midst of war, our thoughts turn to the coming days of peace. You, who are now students in the state university, are carrying on with admirable fidelity the cherished traditions of years forever gone and you are setting the pattern and molding the future of the greater University of Idaho that lies ahead. You have assumed responsibilities which you are discharging in a spirit of which we may all be vastly proud.

HARRISON C. DALE.

Administrative staff calls University signals.

Despite no relief from government priorities, labor shortages and great cuts in available funds, university administration officials have continued to operate the school smoothly and efficiently, as evidenced by maintenance of pre-war educational standards, well-kept buildings and lawns.

Keeping up university supplies and equipment has been a difficult job these war years, but Mrs. Evelyn M. Albrecht, acting purchasing agent, has handled it well. D. D. DuSault, appointed registrar late last summer, has helped keep academic requirements up to pre-war standards. O. A. Fitzgerald, university editor, keeps Idahoans informed of university doings through bulletins to newspapers.

Robert F. Greene, director of dormitories, who converted civilian dorms into Army and Navy headquarters, was faced this year with reconverting them back into civilian quarters. Chrisman Hall already has Idaho men living in it, and Willis Sweet Hall is now being reconverted for occupation next fall.

Overseer of the library is Miss M. Belle Sweet, who keeps the university book haven supplied with latest best sellers and important reference books, including government bulletins pertaining to all colleges of the school.

Frank Stanton, bursar, is the man to see about all finances—administrative and student—where the university is concerned. Superintendent of buildings and grounds, C. A. Truitt, was handicapped by lack of labor, but the university's physical assets have remained in fine shape—lawns are as well-cared-for as in former years.

Dr. C. A. Armstrong and Dr. C. J. Klaaren, Moscow physicians, have jointly assumed the position formerly held by a full-time physician at the infirmary. They are not only responsible for student health, but have the added job of caring for the physical well-being of the Army unit.

The "hats off" department gives a vote of thanks to Idaho's administrative officials—for their untiring efforts to keep giving students the things they take for granted, despite present hardships.

Ted A. Sherman

Graduate Manager

Graduate Manager Ted A. Sherman is business agent of the student body. Upon his shoulders fall the problems of handling finances for all ASUI and class projects, ASUI dramatic productions, athletics, publications and other activities that concern the student body as a whole.

Through the graduate manager's efforts, ASUI events have been kept alive and publicized throughout the state.

Secretaries

Secretaries to the graduate manager this year were Mrs. A. E. Whitehead, who resigned in March, and Mrs. Virgil Cherrington, who took her place.

Keeping ASUI files and writing letters is only half the secretary's job. The other half consists of answering innumerable queries of harried class officers, assembly chairmen, and other activity leaders to facilitate ASUI activities.

Mrs. A. E. Whitehead

Mrs. Louise S. Carter

Herbert E. Lattig

Dean of Women

Mrs. Louise S. Carter, acting dean of women, finds herself busy as director of women's activities. Her job is a much greater responsibility in war days because of the greater number of women enrolled in the university this year . . . Member of Spur . . . Received degrees from University of Washington and Columbia . . . Dean Carter has the last word on women's activities . . . establishes lockout hours, passes on social functions, and all in all watches with a motherly eye over a brood of university women. She retains friendships when saying "yes" or "no" to that ticklish task, and retains her enthusiasm for campus events.

Dean of Men

Herbert E. Lattig, acting dean of men, was former head of department of agricultural education. Dean Lattig now takes up his comparatively new position by serving on the student-faculty council and some half dozen other student and faculty committees... acting as NYA administrator and coordinator of reserves and draftees, he has his working day most thoroughly filled. Naturally at this time his job is abnormal, but with the men students gradually returning to the university, his duties will be shifting toward a more pre-war campus life. His calls to men's houses and halls will be more frequent and an increasing number of men's activities will be guided.

Jen Deans keep schools running on even

L. C. Cady, dean of the college of engineering, moved up this year from professor of chemistry and head of the departments of chemistry and chemical engineering. An Idaho graduate, he studied for his doctorate at the University of Wisconsin . . . has been an Idaho faculty member since 1922.

Arthur W. Fahrenwald, dean of the school of mines, takes on added responsibilities as professor of mining and metallurgy. Studying at the South Dakota and New Mexico schools of mines, he has taught at Idaho since 1919. Considered an expert in his field, he is credited with developing the flotation process.

Jay G. Eldridge, Idaho tavorite since 1901, is dean of the faculty and heads the department of modern languages. He received his bachelor, master and doctor's degrees from Yale, and doctor of letters from the College of Idaho. He learned to speak fluent French and German from study in those countries.

Ralph H. Farmer, graduate of Oberlin college, came to Idaho in 1927 and now is dean of the school of business administration. Teaching his favorite subject, banking, Dean Farmer has served several summer terms on the faculty of the University of Washington's school for bank officers.

keel despite wartime uncertainties, strain.

Pendleton Howard, after eight years of professional experience as assistant district attorney of New York City, came to Idaho in 1929 and within five years was made dean of the college of law. Graduate of the University of Texas, he received his master and doctorate degrees from Columbia—is well known as an author.

Dwight S. Jeffers, dean of the school of forestry, has a doctor's degree from Yale, puts his classroom knowledge to practical use and can keep up with any Paul Bunyan. He has helped keep the Idaho forestry school tops in the nation since his arrival in 1935. Dean Jeffers serves as adviser to the ASUI executive board.

C. W. Hungerford, dean of the graduate school and acting dean of the college of agriculture, serves on the academic council and public events committee. Receiving his bachelor degree at Upper Iowa university and master and doctorate degrees from the University of Wisconsin, he has been at Idaho since 1919.

T. S. Kerr, dean of the college of letters and science and chairman of the public events and athletic committees, came to Idaho in 1924. He received degrees at Indiana university and the University of Michigan. In addition to heading the department of political science, he has found time to write several books on law.

E. J. Iddings, student of farming conditions in 16 European, as well as North American countries, came to Idaho in 1910. Dean of the college of agriculture, and director of the extension division and agricultural experiment station, he is on leave of absence this year. He received his master's degree from Colorado Agricultural College.

J. Frederick Weltzin was appointed dean of the school of education last September after directing the school of education at Denver, Colorado. Receiving his training at the University of North Dakota and Columbia, he has had 14 years teaching experience—is the author of numerous articles on education.

Thirty-two department heads cooperate

European History

With the prospect of an increased post-war enrollment in the not too far distant future, Idaho department heads are already planning for the demands which the university must meet. Returning service men will not find that their alma mater has been at a standstill during their absence. Each head of a department is prepared to aid new and returning students and to act as friendly counselor, just as he has done in the past.

Chemistry

Men's Physical Education

As the world begins to concentrate on the various phases of post-war living, among which education is of prime importance, the University of Idaho, as well as other institutions of higher learning, is putting into motion the wheels of a new educational machine designed for bringing "G.I. Joe" back into the role of "Joe College." In this program, the part of the department head is not a minor one. Just as he met the task of adjusting to war-time university teaching, he will meet the task of adjusting to post-war university instruction.

It has always been to Idaho's advantage that, as one of the nation's smaller universities, it has enabled students to meet department heads who come to know them well enough to take a sincere interest in their problems. Even under the increased load occasioned by the loss of instructors to government and defense positions, department heads have continued to find time for student guidance conferences.

As the link between instructors and deans, whose busy schedules make them less approachable, the department heads have given many a student encouragement and advice founded on years of watching and helping other students overcome the trials of making the grade.

A department head, who at large universities may be a distant figure to members of the student body, is at Idaho another "good Joe" in whose office students are easy and at home and with whom they can really thresh out their difficulties.

All evidences a successful year.

Freshmen, as well as transfer students, have found department heads at Idaho ever willing to aid them in their problems. The business of entering and working out a curriculum for an academic career is one that takes much advice and thought, both on the part of the student and counselor. It is in the latter capacity that the department head finds himself besieged with questions at the beginning of each semester.

This year, as during last year, department heads were given the added task of doubling up on teaching schedules, for the Army Specialized Training reserve program has demanded expert instruction, and these heads have done their share in the program. These men had not deserted their call to the colors when Uncle Sam called on them to do the job for which they were best fitted during the war. Students at Idaho are proud of the way their school and faculty have responded to the need of the hour.

Student Administration

ASWI officers head student government

Fred Wateon Fresident

Billie Keeton Vice President

Jean Bruins Ferry

Last fall the students of Idaho returned to discover that their duly elected ASUI president, Marian Franson, had taken leave from the campus to other realms. Idaho found itself not without a student president, however, for Fred Watson, elected vice president last spring, stepped up to the presidential job, which duties he has capably and efficiently performed throughout the year. "Doc" was elected by the independent political vote, though October found him a member of a Greek living group. A bad position politically, Doc has kept the scales balanced between his divided loyalties.

The registrar claims he's a mechanical engineer, but the music department places him high on their list; he's a member of both Sigma Tau, engineering fraternity, and Phi Mu Alpha, men's music honorary. Countless committees have counted him a member, but the big job came last spring when he chairmaned Junior week to a successful end. Now he's reaping the benefit of three years of hard work only to find himself supervising the entire organization of student government.

Elected by the executive board to the vice presidency, Billie Keeton is the only two-year board member. She knows campus problems, and the ins and outs of all political rings from spending four years as an active member of various organizations, including Spurs, Cardinal Key, Mortar Board, WAA, and co-chairman of the Senior ball. She also is the only two-year Idaho member of Who's Who in American Colleges.

Jean Bruins Ferry took time off before Christmas to be married, but soon returned to continue following once again the paths of the campus leaders. She's the girl who records the executive board sessions, besides keeping up Phi Bete grades, Mortar Board work, and a lot of other heavy jobs.

It has been with these three at the helm, and with the cooperative work of the executive board and student organizations, that we chalk 1944-45 up as being another good year for Idaho.

and carry out executive board decisions.

Idaho's executive board has the job of determining and promoting student administration. This group approves awards for participation in ASUI contests and appoints leaders for all-school committees and activities. The board abolished the former Rally committee and added its duties to those of the Student Activities board. With the establishment of the Publications board last spring, many of the problems of student publications were ironed out before being presented to the executive board for approval.

These executives were hosts to the WSC board of control for their annual exchange dinner dance held late this spring. Idaho was also represented at the Pacific Student Presidents' association conference which met at the University of Washington late in April. Dean Dwight Jeffers, faculty advisor to the board; Ted Sherman, graduate manager; Bette French, AWS president; and Argonaut editors Shirley West, Mary Jane Donart, Tom Campbell and Betty Echternach served as ex-officio board members.

A. W. S. officers plan women's activities;

Vera Anderson Secretary

Marian Krussman Treasurer

Bette French was the girl behind the gavel at A.W.S. meetings this year, climaxing four years of campus leadership. Making the highest grades in her pledge class entitled her to the diamond in her Alpha Chi Omega pin. Spur, Cardinal Key and Mortar Board member, Bette was chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities this year. She calls Rupert her home—is receiving a degree in business administration.

Florence Marshall Hanny, vice president of A.W.S., took time out to be married, but returned to the university second semester. She, too, worked up the activity honorary ladder through Cardinal Key and Mortar Board, and has been active in the Women's Athletic association and Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honorary. "Floss", as she is known to her friends, came from Idaho Falls to major in home economics.

Minutes of A.W.S. are kept by Vera Anderson, outstanding W.A.A. participant, member of Spurs and Cardinal Key. Marian Krussman, in addition to being A.W.S. treasurer, keeps up in Cardinal Key and is associate editor of The Gem—was a Spur her sophomore year. Joanne Hunter handled the technical duties of orientation chairman, directing the counselor system to aid women students planning to attend the university. She has been outstanding in dramatics, portraying the lead in several ASUI plays, and in publications, serving as circulation manager of the Argonaut.

Keynoting the Associated Women Students is its representative form of government. Junior and senior representatives from each women's group on the campus and officers of the organization make up the A.W.S. council, formulating and enforcing women's rules and regulations on the campus, in cooperation with acting dean of women, Mrs. Louise S. Carter.

For the second consecutive year, A.W.S. met the problem of housing rushees in sorority houses instead of halls during rush week. Counselors in each house were kept busy during this period carrying luggage and bedding and explaining to rushees procedures of rushing and registration.

all groups are represented on the council.

Abounding in energy to promote campus activity along win-the-war lines, Associated Women Students this year succeeded in getting whole-hearted cooperation between the local Red Cross chapter and houses and organizations on the campus. When a proposal to establish an individual unit on the campus was deemed unadvisable because the women thought that the temendous responsibility of maintaining their own unit would interfere with actual results achieved, the A.W.S. Council appointed one of its members to meet with the Moscow Red Cross unit and bring back work which the coeds could do in their spare time.

The A.W.S. sponsored a Minute Maid war bond and stamp dance because the Maids, being a non-profit group, have no funds. Also, on December 7, A.W.S. sponsored the third annual all-women's play party, featuring a buffet supper, group singing and dancing.

May Day brings the annual May Fete, concluding women's activities at Idaho. At this time, an elected May Queen is crowned, leading campus honoraries tap new members and Spurs hold their traditional May Pole dance. Also, on that day, visiting mothers are feted at a tea sponsored by A.W.S.

Publications Board

With membership composed of the editorial and business heads of the Argonaut and Gem, a member of the executive board, the head of the department of journalism, and the graduate manager, the publications board settles disputes and problems regarding publications, and appoints editors subject to executive board approval. Argonaut business staff salaries were increased.

Soated: Marian Krussman, Shirley Stowell, Julien Paulson, and Patty Kulzer.

Standing: Donna Freeman, Jane Meyer, Evelyn Thomas, Ruth Leth, Vera Anderson, Joyce McMahon, and Marina Dochios.

Headed by Julien Paulson first semester and Elaine Anderson second, the Student Activities board functioned as the major ASUI committee. They directed the policies of the Student Union building, sponsored all-campus dances, and took over the job of the Rally committee, climaxed by the pajama rally.

When a student gets to be a senior, he has a number of activities chalked up to his record, and senior class officers are elected, on the basis of outstanding activity leadership on the campus, by members of the senior class.

Carl Spalding, president of the senior class, is a veteran who returned to the campus his junior year to complete academic training. An outstanding geology major, president of Phi Delta Theta, and a member of the Interfraternity Council, he was selected for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Elaine Thomas, vice president, has been a campus leader since her freshman year, making Spurs, Cardinal Key and Mortar Board. In addition, she has been active on the Argonaut business staff, president of the Delta Gamma house, president of Pan-Hellenic council, and was chosen May queen. She, too, was selected for Who's Who.

Secretary of the senior class is Shirley West, a Kappa who transferred from Boise Junior college her junior year. A journalism major, she served as co-editor of the Argonaut for a year and held a staff position on The Gem. Marion Wilson, treasurer, is best known on the campus for outstanding work in the dramatics department, portraying the lead in several ASUI plays. She presidented the Gamma Phi Beta house.

Senior officers' main job is directing senior week, which this year consisted of an assembly, serenade and semi-formal ball, February 15-17.

Junior officers represent those students who have made good in their college careers up to date, who are prominent through activities and likeability, and who are prospective campus leaders during their final year.

Heading the list this year is Len Pyne, who in his three years at Idaho has proved himself on the maple courts as high-point man during his sophomore and junior years, and as a baseball player. He has taken an active part in class events—belongs to Sigma Nu fraternity.

Ada Mae Rich, vice president of the junior class, is known for outstanding work in the political science department. She was chosen president of the International Relations clubfor outstanding scholarship was chosen for Alpha Lambda Delta her freshman year, served as president of Spurs and was chosen for Cardinal Key. She makes her home at the Alpha Phi house.

Junior class minutes are kept by Kappa Kappa Gamma Evelyn Thomas, music major who belongs to Sigma Alpha Iota, national music honorary, and who has been active in Spurs and Cardinal Key. She was chosen for the All-Girl Singing orchestra this year.

Sumner Johnson, Kappa Sigma, was elected treasurer of the class after serving a year as duke of the Intercollegiate Knights and becoming an outstanding baseball player. Serving as treasurer in more than one capacity, he had charge of money collections from men's groups in the Red Cross drive.

Junior officers direct Junior Week activities, consisting of a promenade April 16, and a parade, cabaret and serenade May 3-4. Bert Berlin was chairman of the entire week.

David Stidolph Treasurer

Elected by members of their class to direct Holly Week December 3-9, sophomore officers this year directed a successful serenade, assembly and semi-formal dance. Eileen Quinn and Willie Defenbach were general chairmen and Mary Holden was elected queen to reign over the Holly dance.

Betty Ann Craggs, president of the sophomore class, earned merits in Spurs and as feature editor of the Argonaut. A member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, she was elected yell leader for A.W.S.—is majoring in bacteriology.

Vice-president of the class is Ethel Jane Kopelman, Delta Delta, who was chosen for Spur, elected to the W.A.A. board, and for scholarship achievement her freshman year, to Alpha Lambda Delta.

Lalene Cargill, Spur, made Sigma Alpha Iota for work in the music department—was elected as an officer in the Pan-Hellenic council this spring. She belongs to Kappa Alpha Theta. Dave Stidolph, treasurer, returned to Idaho after an interlude with the Army. From Elmhurst, New York, Dave has earned a staff position on the Argonaut—feature editor—and has turned out for track.

Thomas Kauffman

Prospective "who's whos" on the campus in future years are freshman officers, elected by members of their class after the cream of freshman groups have been put up by every house and hall on the campus.

Virginia Campbell came from Anaconda, Montana, to live in the Alpha Chi Omega house walked right into campus honors with the freshman class presidency. To add to her laurels, she was a finalist in the Sigma Chi sweetheart contest.

Vice president of the class is John Taylor, Phi Gamma Delta, who after making unusually high grades in a science course, was chosen to Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's scholastic honorary. In addition, he found time to be on the first basketball squad and turn out for track in the spring.

Bob Gardner of the Delta Tau Delta house is secretary of the class—has been an active Intercollegiate Knight all year, and is a member of the Interfraternity council.

The office of freshman treasurer has rotated in the Sigma Chi house. Tom Kauffman was elected at the beginning of the year—earned a position on the basketball squad and participated in cross country. When he left for the Navy, Dick McKevitt took over. He has been making himself known as a member of the track team.

Freshman students and officers are responsible for Freshman Days in the spring.

Beverly Weber

The Gem of the

Beverly Weber, Editor

No introduction is necessary for Editor Beverly Weber. Stepping up from the associate editor's job last spring, she is the second woman in history to edit an Idaho Gem of the Mountains. Upon organizing her staff, she was then faced with increased costs and material shortages. Confronted by an acute paper shortage just before the Gem was sent to the printers, Editor Weber called paper houses all over the West coast: result—the Gem went to press. In addition to coping with emergencies, "Bev" spent long hours revising the dummy and working with staff members.

Leader in student activities, ye editor has been a Spur, Cardinal Key, Mortar Board, Theta Sigma, prexy of Westminster Guild, and this last year was chosen for the college Who's Who. A journalism major, she comes from Spokane—makes her campus home at the Gamma Phi Beta house.

Business Manager, Ruth Leth

The responsibility of keeping the Gem publication costs out of the "red" this year fell to Ruth Leth, business manager, who worked up from assistant. With the help of well-organized sales, distribution and advertising staffs, Ruth made the 1945 edition a financial success.

Transferring from the College of Idaho in Caldwell as a sophomore, Ruth has chalked up an enviable list of activities, including Home Economics club, Phi Upsilon Omicron, Interchurch council, Pem club, Mortar Board and president of the Women's Athletic association. She was chosen for college Who's Who—served as president of the Delta Delta Delta house.

Majoring in home economics hasn't hindered this senior's interest for sports and journalism, for she's proved a leader in both. Home town—Buhl.

Ruth Leth

Mountains goes to press.

From the tiny room in the Student Union building called the "Gem Office," the 1945 yearbook emerged, after long hours of work on the part of editors, artists, copy writers and business staffs.

Few students realize the extent of work done by these staffers who were on constant call, who sacrificed cokes and sleep to run down to the Gem office and take or identify pictures, write copy or secure lists of organization members. Although preliminary work was laid early in the year and even in the spring of the year before, most of the tiresome details had to be attended to in the three short months after Christmas vacation. Pictures were mounted, copy written and checked with picture proofs over and over again, and changes made in the dummy to fit last-minute needs.

The business staff coped with decreased sales due to the small enrollment, the usual task of persuading business men to take ads, and an ever-increasing number of Gems to be mailed to men in the service.

Editors faced wartime difficulties, foremost of which was a severe paper and cover shortage at the last minute. Color pages were hard to get due to expense and lack of dyes, there was a shortage of trained workers, and many supplies taken for granted in peacetime are on the wartime "unavailable" list.

When spring came to the campus, the Gem was in the hands of printer Ralph York. Staff members breathed sighs of relief and allowed dust to settle on equipment in the tiny office during the summer, and Idaho traditions were in permanent record form for another year.

Just one minute of all the hours necessary to line up the pice for the class pictures . . . West, Donart and Weber take time for two minutes of silent meditation and prayer—or are they just trying to prove it's Luckies 2-to-1? . . . Don't let this one floor you, they're really working . . . Same old question, "Where does this picture go?" . . . Photographer extraordinary, Charlie Dimond . . . Another means of "sticking" things together.

Wartime shortages caused increased work

A yearbook staff can not function without organization, which is the job of staff heads, who keep tab on the activities within their departments, making an integrated setup with one leader at the head.

Right hand women to Editor Weber were Marian Krussman and Mary Jane Donart, associate editors. Marian concentrated on the photo section of the book, while Mary Jane took charge of copy. June Williams, photographic editor, was usually the one who called about pictures, then checked to see that everyone was there. Sue Wittmann and Shirley West worked on activities—with Sue checking pictures and information and Shirley writing copy.

Ann Hite and LaRaine Stewart, on the art staff, spent time on layouts and relied on their talent when a spot showed up needing drawings or designs. Mr. Alfred Dunn has given valuable advice in regard to art work. Also in connection with art, Ora White, head of photo mounting, arranged the pictures on the pages after the "glossies" came back.

Bette French completed her third year as head of the administration department, and Tom Ryan and Jack Anderson, two Argonaut sports editors, collaborated on the Gem sports section.

for staff heads to meet their deadlines.

The business side of the Gem was represented by a group of workers as eager to put out a good yearbook as the editorial staff. Jean Thompson, associate business manager, has worked hand-in-hand with Manager Ruth Leth, planning advertising, distribution and sales. Clara Beth Young, as head of distribution and sales, not only sold books last fall, but met as many requests for them during the year as she could.

In charge of advertising, Dona Harding solicited ads from business houses throughout the state, to keep the Gem on an even keel financially. Jeanne Edwards collected money from organizations, while Ralphine Strub handled class pictures.

Charlie Dimond has taken pictures for the Gem for over 20 years and was behind the camera again this year, as were Frank Henderson, Bert Dingle and Ted Sherman, the graduate manager. Sacrificing many an evening when everyone else played, these men were always ready to load a camera and snap a picture on a minute's notice.

No organization would be complete without secretaries to tend to routine, but necessary, details. Jean Pugh, on the editorial side, got typists to the office when copy came in, and Mary Jane Hawley supplied the business staff with office workers.

Thursday noon finds students

Mary Jane Donart and Shirley West

Editors

The title of "hard working women" rightfully belongs to Arg co-editors, Shirley West and Mary Jane Donart, who managed to keep the school paper up to full size, despite war shortages here and there.

Working on the Arg last year and majoring in journalism gave Shirley co-editorship of the paper, although she entered the university from Boise Junior college as a junior. A wearer of the Kappa key, she also belongs to Theta Sigma and is secretary of the senior class—calls Boise home.

"Babe," as she is known to her friends, is a Delta Gamma majoring in English. She worked into co-editorship from the position of managing editor. After three years at Idaho, she has added to her record Spurs, Cardinal Key and Theta Sigma. Southern Idaho and Weiser claim Mary Jane.

Managers

Business Manager Helen Howard and Advertising Manager Elaine Thomas saw to it that the financial end of putting out the Argonaut was carried out to the "nth degree."

A Boisean, Helen transferred from Boise Junior college as a sophomore. Working hard on the advertising staff for three years has entitled Helen to the job of business manager for two of them. A business major, she was tapped for Phi Chi Theta, national business honorary, and is active in women's sports.

"Tommie" has worked on the Arg all four years of her college career, starting at the bottom as reporter and working up to advertising manager. Spurs, Cardinal Key, Mortar Board, Theta Sigma and Panhellenic council, as well as class offices are a few of the activities that have marked her as a BWOC. She calls Idaho Falls home. Both leaders of the business staff are Delta Gammas.

Elaine Thomas and Helen Howard scanning "Jason" in The Argonaut.

Taking over where Shirley and "Babe" left off were this semester's co-editors, Tom Campbell and Betty Echternach. Both students have served as managing editors on the Arg, so they automatically stepped into co-editorship. Betty worked under Shirley and "Babe," and Tom, who attended the university from 1939 to 1942, served under Bob Leeright, then editor.

Betty has long been known for her ability to drag down high grades, as illustrated by her membership in Alpha Lambda Delta. As one of the leading women on the campus, she has been active in many activities, including Spurs, Cardinal Key, debate and sophomore class. She has worked on the Arg since her freshman year at Idaho, starting as a reporter. A political science major, she makes her home on the campus at Gamma Phi Beta and claims Lewiston as her home town.

Tom, also a native of Lewiston, comes from a well-known newspaper family. He entered the university "way back when"—and worked on the Arg for three years, attaining the title of managing editor when he was a junior. At the close of the second semester of '42, Uncle Sam called and placed him in Alaska for the next 15 months. Out of the Army, Tom came back to Idaho to complete his senior year under the supervision of the journalism department.

During his first three years on the campus, Tom was not only active within his fraternity, Sigma Chi, but also was on the inside workings of Freshman Week, Sophomore Holly Week and Junior Week.

Betty Echternach and Tom Campbell, co-editors second semester... We see four editors—just before the big shuffle... Looks as if Art Brownlow is trying to talk Ech and Tom into changing the front page make up... Must just be routine check-up: Elaine Anderson and Frances Rhes don't look as if they're being bawled out... Campbell pleading for headlines... West and Donart relaxing—or maybe they're plotting, who knows?... Art Brownlow, the backshop king whom editors hold in reverence.

Editors and staff heads worry, reporters

Turnover of staff positions on the Argonaut was toned down this year almost to normal—except for the lack of male members. Although there were a few men around who took an active interest in publications work, women still had the upper hand in governing policy and editing the news.

When Tom and Betty took over, they made a few changes in the staff and carried on to the end of a successful year. Their right-hand woman was Pat Miller, managing editor, who worked into the position from a diligent year's work as rewrite editor.

Romaine Galey became news editor at the semester, replacing Jean Bruins Ferry. Her job was to be johnny-on-the-spot as to campus news, make out the assignment sheet and check in the stories.

Jack Anderson became sports editor last fall, replacing Tom Ryan, who left the campus. When the Gem went to press, Jack was still at the helm with much-looked-for weekly "Jose" quips at the end of his column. The Argonaut's chief-of-staff at the Idahonian was Helen Terhaar, night editor, who put the final check on proofs.

write frantically to have copy to "fill".

Little change in general appearance has taken place in the Argonaut—there are fewer rah-rah activities to write about now—and there was no full Army page this year, but the ASTR students were represented through a weekly column, written by an Army reporter, for the paper.

Headlines are a technicality in any paper, and masters of the Argonaut type were Dorothy Anne Hauge and Jean Seymour, copy desk editors first semester. Judy Boon replaced Dorothy Anne and Jeanne Parker took over the editorship by herself shortly after the second semester.

Louise Schlegel, through a year's work on the advertising staff, has earned the position of assistant business manager—helps the crew that keeps the business side of the paper running. Joanne Hunter, circulation manager, does her job on Thursdays, directing the mailing staff.

Proving their merits as reporters, Frances Rhea and Geraldine Shortridge, freshmen, became rewrite editors at the semester—both plan to major in journalism. Dave Stidolph, always handy for feature articles, took over editorship of that branch of the editorial side, a position held by Betty Ann Craggs first semester. Assistants on the sport page have been Len Pyne, a sportsman in his own right, and Russ Ward, journalism major with future eyes on the sports column of a daily.

The Idaho Forester

Forestry students are busy every spring publishing their yearbook, The Idaho Forester, 1,000 copies of which are circulated widely among forestry libraries, supervisors within the state, high school libraries and former students and alumni, many of whom are in the service. The theme of the book centered around "Wildlife" in 1944-45, and David Seaberg was editor-in-chief.

The Idaho Engineer

With the Idaho Society of Engineers working closely with the Idaho Engineer staff, this magazine publication comes out twice annually, in December and in May. The 500 copies are distributed to students, faculty, alumni and to several colleges to advertise and promote a widespread interest in Idaho's school of engineering.

Ray Dills was editor of the Idaho Engineer this year, while Harvey Hemingway and William Abbott were business managers for the December and May publications, respectively.

The University Newsletter

Mrs. Mabel E. Gill war records secretary and O. A. Fitzgerald university editor

The eagerness with which Vandals at war welcome the newsletter coming to them every other month from the publications office—via the home folks—is ample proof that news from home is No. 1 on the G.I. Hit Parade. The first letter was issued in January, 1944, to a list of less than 1,000. March, 1945, saw the tenth issue go out to 3,800, so splendid has been the cooperation of all in contributing names of U. of I. people in the service.

All together, over 200,000 words of news have gone out in these war letters, and hundreds of messages of appreciation have come to O. A. Fitzgerald, chairman of the war finance committee, from Vandals all over the globe praising this service as a first-class morale builder.

Associated Women have made it their responsibility to assist all new women students who arrive on the campus through the publication of the Co-ed Code, which contains information about rules, regulations, activities, honoraries, campus clothes and social behavior. The handbook is sent out to prospective students during the summer and given to both freshmen and upperclassmen upon request during the school year.

Editor of the Co-ed Code this year was Jean Bruins Ferry, member of the A.W.S. council, who worked on the publication in cooperation with the council and Dean Louise Carter.

Drama and Debate

Dramatists answer call of the footlights

Miss Jean Collette

Grace Lillard, Marion Wilson, Marian Krussman, Marjorie Mock, Elaine Anderson
Assistant Directors

Wartime restrictions, which have eliminated or cut down numerous campus activities, have meant enlarged attention focused on the university dramatic department. With more emphasis on play production, more responsibility for improved performances falls to the director. Idaho's Jean Collette stepped into the job, and with student assistance, managed to produce three box office hits during the year.

With only one director in the department, it has been necessary for Miss Collette to supervise and solve even problems of stage setting. Weeks before the opening night, she can be found painting or building sets backstage. Mending, pressing and securing costumes falls largely to the director, too, and all-important question as opening night draws near is "Where's the board and iron?"

Selection of casts for all productions is done by Miss Collette, but she relies on student criticism to guide her final choice. Following casting, rehearsals begin, which means directing work every night of the week. Any spare moments are spent searching Moscow for needed properties. Even publicity has been handled by the director, with the result that sales have topped any for the last several years.

Attributing her success to student cooperation, Miss Collette has her advanced drama students act as assistant directors. Those who have acted in this capacity are Grace Lillard, Marian Krussman, Marion Wilson, Marjorie Mock and Elaine Anderson, all of whom have many hours of dramatic experience behind them.

Production work goes ahead until the week preceding the play, which is left free for relaxation and any necessary last-minute work. Important rule for Collette success is prompt curtain opening, and once the lights have dimmed, the director can usually be found observing from the audience.

Cooperation with the university administration has kept the entire dramatics department running smoothly—has provided excellent entertainment for the student body.

and stage three productions for the year.

With headquarters in the University Hut, Idaho's dramatic department met with an unprecedented successful season, with sell-out sales for the majority of performances.

Dividing the year to include three productions, "Lady Precious Stream" was chosen to open the series. Presented according to the rules of Chinese drama, the comedy was met with enthusiasm from the minute of the opening curtain. Sound effects were furnished by Chinese music, which changed with the mood of the scenes. Acclaimed as most humorous by audience reaction was the necessary pantomime acting done by the cast.

With a swift change from Chinese to Pennsylvania Dutch came the presentation of "Papa Is All." Cast members spent all extra time learning the unusual dialect of the characters, with peculiar phrases and mixed sentence order. The exceptionally small cast with few male roles was made necessary by the limited number of men on the campus. In addition to its humor, "Papa Is All" claimed large ticket sales since the author, Patterson Greene, is an Idaho graduate.

"Fresh Fields" casting began after the close of the first semester with Joanne Hunter and Steven Buck carrying lead roles. Scheduled production dates for the play, also a comedy, were the end of April. Included in the cast were new and experienced dramatists from past productions.

"Lady Precious Stream" tells of China.

"Lady Precious Stream," initial play of the year, is a Chinese drama, complete with Oriental theater mannerisms. Stealing prominence for their roles were the black-clad property men, who changed settings in view of the audience. Elaborate costumes of bright colors made a vivid contrast for the sombre black backdrops.

Appearing in the play's lead roles were Joanne Hunter, as a Chinese princess, and Ralph Joslyn as the poor, but romantic Chinese gardener. William Davidson, as Wang, and Enid Almquist as Madam, played the roles of Precious Stream's father and mother.

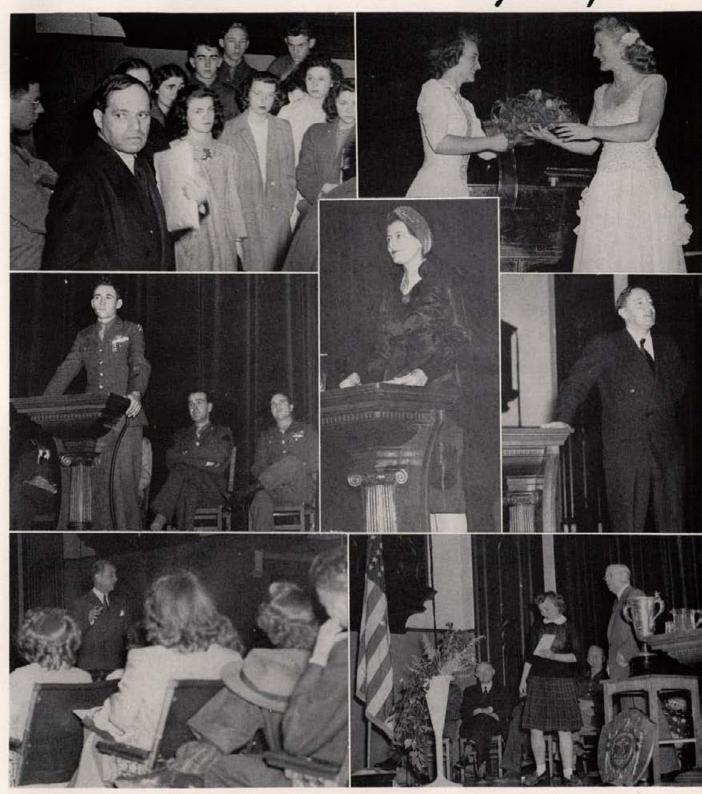

"Papa Is All" shows the Mennonites.

A Pennsylvania Dutch farm house made the setting for the humorous play, "Papa Is All," a story of a tyrannical Mennonite father who ruled his family with an iron hand. According to the restrictions of their religion, as enforced by "Papa Aukamp," the family at the beginning of the play had not even the most simple modern conveniences. With the disposal of papa in the final scene, the family changed the farm drastically and began to lead a normal life.

William Davidson played the part of the overbearing father with Grace Lillard playing opposite him as "Mama." The Aukamp children, Emma and Jake, were portrayed by Marion Wilson and Edward Dalva.

Debaters arque concerning "world policy".

Winning high acclaim in debate leagues, many honors came the way of Idaho students this year. Idaho won each of the four competitive contests in which students participated. Winners of the intramural women's debate tournament were Elaine Anderson and Margaret Arnold. The question debated was, "Resolved: That legislation should be enacted for the compulsory arbitration of labor disputes."

December 9-10, Frances Rhea, Clara Beth Young, Ada Mae Rich, Geneva Ferguson, Frances Freeman, Joyce McMahon, Elaine Anderson and Geraldine Merrill won the annual triangular series with Washington State College and Whitman. A trophy was presented to the group by the Walla Walla Chamber of Commerce.

The second tournament was held at Pullman and was also won by the Idaho delegation, who then were presented with the Nalder trophy.

At Lewiston State Normal on February 24, Idaho again carried away high honors, winning six out of the eight contests in which they entered.

At the fourth tournament, which was held at Linfield College at McMinnville, Oregon, Elaine Anderson reached the finals in the women's senior debate division by winning seven out of ten contests. Shirley Brandt took third place in the interpretative reading contest.

Coach A. E. Whitehead accompanied the debaters on each of their trips and assisted in judging the contests.

Idaho team wins honors in varsity meets.

On April 18-20, the University of Idaho was host at the Pacific forensic league for men. Representatives at the meet were from colleges and universities throughout the northwest. On the program planned for the league were a series of round-table discussions, held on the subject "What type of post-war organization should be established?"

Delegates from Idaho for these discussions were Wade Fleetwood and Peter Rowell. Entering the oratorical contest for the university was Dan Strmac, with Sam Vance competing for honors in the extemporaneous speaking contest. Idaho's contestant for the after-dinner speaking contest was Jack Anderson. Trophies are awarded every year to the winners of the latter three divisions.

Competing in the semi-finals of the men's intramural debate tourney were teams representing Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Kappa Sigma. SAE contestants were Dan Strmac and Albert Wellman, debating with the Kappa Sigma team of Don Wyckoff and Sam Vance. Subject discussed in the tournament was, "Resolved: That there should be one year of compulsory military training for all able-bodied men of 18." The finals were yet to be held when the Gem went to press.

Music

Musicians bring harmony to Idaho.

Alvah A. Beecher, voice instructor and originator and conductor of the All-Girl Singing orchestra, is head of the music department. Coming to the University of Idaho in 1940, Prof. Beecher has done much to promote interest in music, not only on the campus but throughout the state. He is national president of Phi Mu Alpha, music honorary, and is busy attending music conventions and meetings throughout the year.

Newcomer to the faculty last year was Joseph Brye, pianist and assistant professor of music. Before coming to Idaho, he taught at Stephens college in Columbia, Missouri—has proved to be one of the most popular people in the music department. Carl Claus, orchestra leader and violin instructor, studied at Idaho and at the Belgian conservatory—has been an instructor here since 1922. Miss Ruth Erickson came this year from McCook Junior college in Nebraska and established herself in the Idaho department through leadership of University Singers.

Miss Miriam H. Little, a faculty member since 1930, instructs students of the string instruments and theory. Hall M. Macklin, instructor in piano, organ and composition, added to his schedule this year the accompanying of the All-Girl orchestra. Edmund J. Marty, in addition to band and instrumental instruction, has taken an active part in class activities, directing the senior serenade. Robert Wall, voice coach, has given freely of his talent at several university programs.

A highlight of the year for the entire music department centered around an assembly program in presentation of a Steinway grand piano for the auditorium.

Singers in the All-Girl Singing orchestra include: first sopranos, Billie Adamson, Barbara Collins, Virginia Eggan, Dorothy Monico, Shirley Moreland, Bette Scott, and Hilma Sweet: second sopranos, Lalene Cargill, Betty Dodd, Jean Gochnour, Eileen Medved, Artys Powell, Madelyn Sanberg, Dorothy Tilbury, and Helen Turner; altos, Leona Bales, Evelyn Deering, Eloise Deobald, Ragnhild Endahl, Ada Mae Rich, LaRaine Stewart, Evelyn Thomas, Winifred Tovey, and Lois Meister.

Orchestra personnel are: Jean Armour, Bernice Bakes, Jean Bonneville, and Margaret Spring, violins; Clara Rowell, viola; Doris Snodgrass, cello; Helen Horning, bass; Betty Cardwell, flute: Betty Io Gregerson and Mary Dochios, clarinet; Elaine Smith, bass clarinet; Marina Dochios and Peggy Pence, trumpets; Ruth Fisk, horn; Joan Clark, percussion, and Virginia Chaney, plano.

The All-Girl Singing Orchestra

The All-Girl Singing orchestra made its debut on the campus this year and proved to be one of the most outstanding music organizations of the last few years. Due to the lack of male voices to fill the ranks of "Vandaleers," a cappella choir of former years, Prof. Alvah A. Beecher instituted the orchestra and choir. With rehearsals underway in the early fall, the group was ready with a repertoire which was to make it famous throughout the state.

Traveling to northern Idaho and Washington cities to sing for Army and Navy hospitals and camps, as well as civilian groups, the All-Girl orchestra presented some 40-odd numbers, all of which were either composed or arranged by members of the music faculty. In April, the musicians' final trip took them to south Idaho cities on a 12-day tour.

Uniforms of the group are duo in nature—formals for formal presentations, and black sweaters and skirts with music emblems for informal and weekly wear.

Music groups occupy student interest.

Three group organizations in particular have been extremely active in the music department this year—the University Band, Concert Orchestra and Singers.

Fifty-two members participated in the band, acting in the capacity of the old Pep Band, which made its exit this year due to war conditions. Practicing behind closed doors in the old ballroom of the Blue Bucket, the band emerged with a floor show depicting "life on the farm" which it presented at the half of the first home basketball game with Washington State college. The band lent color and enthusiasm to both football and basketball games throughout the entire seasons, spurring the Vandal spirit forward. In recognition of their willingness to participate at athletic and rally functions, the ASUI executive board agreed to finance an award system through which band members may be awarded a letter.

In addition to regular performances at athletic functions, the band presented a spring concert during national music week, provided music for the May Fete and played for ASTP graduation exercises on March 29. A highlight of the year for band members was the Snake river trip, which the group took May 4 and 5. Edmund J. Marty was director.

The University Concert orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Carl Claus, was hampered by a decrease of students, but upheld its shining record made in peace-time years, when the orchestra grew to 60 pieces. Its 30 members of 1944-45 presented an annual spring concert during music week and played for Commencement exercises. Although no outside trips were taken by the group and their activities were curtailed, the orchestra rendered its services whenever called upon and did its part in keeping classical music popular. Established in 1922, the University Orchestra has become a permanent part of the Idaho campus.

University Singers, directed by a newcomer to the faculty, Miss Ruth Erickson, turned in a splendid performance just before Christmas vacation when they gave a vesper service of Christmas carols. In addition, U. Singers gave a spring concert during national music week. A desire to sing and regular attendance are the only requirements for membership in this organization. Until 1941, the group was a combined men's and women's chorus, but was then divided into two separate organizations—University Women Singers and University Men Singers. During the first semester of last year, the group was again combined, but due to a dearth of male voices, was returned to a women's chorus.

The search for perfection is constant.

From participation in fall rallies to spring tours and concerts, music students whole-heartedly took part in campus activities, climaxing all their efforts in national music week, May 6-13, which brought out the showmanship of individual students and emphasized the expert leadership of the faculty. University band, orchestra and singers all presented their spring concerts during this week.

Pep band has been abolished for the duration, but in its place the University band carried forth Vandal spirit at football and basketball games. The usual tours have been somewhat curtailed, but members of the All-Girl Singing orchestra kept the University of Idaho on the map by entertaining thousands of servicemen and civilians in Spokane, Pasco, and southern Idaho. In addition to group presentations, individual musicians gave concerts throughout the year, so that nearly every week-end music lovers could enjoy some phase of musical talent.

Scholarships are awarded yearly to outstanding students in various fields, allowing them two free lessons a week during the school term. Chosen by the music faculty, this year's winners were: Deane Hamilton, Coeur d'Alene, voice; Lucile Thompson, Moscow, piano; Jean Bonneville, Coeur d'Alene, violin; and Betty Jo Gregerson, Pierce, clarinet.

Athletics

Idaho coaches keep up strong program

For the third war-time year, the Idaho physical education department succeeded in completing a full scale athletic and physical education program. Creditable teams were fielded in all conference sports.

Football was kept alive on an intra-school basis with one civilian and two army teams contending for the all-school championship.

An intramural program, comparable to pre-war years, was formulated and participated in by all men's living groups.

J. A. (Babe) Brown in his third year at the Vandal helm, was basketball coach and athletic director.

Coach Mike Ryan completed his ninth year as coach of the cross-country and track squads, and trainer for major sports.

William Ramsey coached swimming and tennis, directed intramural basketball, and taught physical education classes.

Ernie Wohletz, borrowed from the forestry department, coached baseball and taught army physical education classes.

Dave Strong, newcomer to the staff, sponsored an effective intramural program of latewinter and spring sports.

John Cermak, at the university on an education fellowship basis, was a part-time instructor and civilian football coach.

and the yell team cheers for Victory.

Only returning member of last year's cheer leaders was Mary Holden, who this year was named yell queen. To add pep to the old yells, six new ones were added. Ably assisting her were Betty Newell, Betty Ann Nelson, Peggy Estes, Shirley Brandt, Mary Mansisidor, and Dean Moser, newcomer at semester time.

New bright-gold sweaters and white linen skirts were obtained for this fair crew of pep instigators. Pom-poms of silver and gold were a sparkling flash of color as the cheer leaders urged the basketball crowds to cheer their team on to victory.

Dean Moser, human dynamo of pep and vitality, was not elected by the executive board as the others were, but rather adopted by the squad because of his special talent for instigating enthusiasm.

The basketball game with Washington State college was preceded by a pajama rally which turned out to be a "Rip Van Winkle" night dress parade, with night gowns and stocking caps complete. Sponsoring and leading the line of p.j. wearers were the cheer leaders. Flaming torches illuminated the streets as the paraders made their rounds around the campus avenues. The termination of the rally was in the Blue Bucket lounge, where yells were led.

Mary Holden, yell queen, backed by her five assistants, Peggy Estes, Mary Mansisidor, Betty Ann Nelson, Shirley Brandt, and Betty Newell, led varsity cheering at all major athletic contests.

Football survived another "Dark Year" at the university even though the manpower shortage was more acute at Idaho than it was at any of the "Big Sister" schools of the conference who gave up the sport altogether. The athletic department instituted football on an intra-school basis for the purpose of keeping the sport alive and giving the available men on the campus some rugged type of activity to keep them busy and physically fit.

The stadium was cleaned, yell teams elected, rallies held and cheering sections organized to keep up the traditions of King football. Although play was necessarily not up to pre-war standards, the color, noise, and excitement was there.

Athletic Director Babe Brown headed the program and the physical education staff coached the teams.

Company A of the ASTR, coached by Ernie Wohletz, opened the season with a win over Company B and lost to the Civilians in the finale. Fullback Marvin Carr and left half Dixie Basille were the big guns for Company A, demonstrating running ability and a general savvy of football. The passing combination of quarterback Dean Barth and right end Lanie Farrell accounted for several touchdowns during the season. Big Jasper Munsen's educated toe added conversions for the A Company.

Company B, after taking a drubbing in the season's opener, bounced back in the second game to hold the title winning Civilians to a scoreless tie with unpenetrable goal-line stands. Harry Lang streaked down the side lines for a 61-yard touchdown-run against Company A; this representing Company B's only score of the game. Coach Bill Ramsey reorganized his B Company's line for the next week's game, and despite being the lightest of the three forward walls, they proved too solid for the Civies.

Idaho was the only northwest school to field an all-civilian team; this aggregation, under the direction of John Cermak, plunged its way to the mythical all-school championship. Diminutive Ed Bybee, left half, bore the brunt of the Civilian attack, packing the pigskin into pay dirt consistently.

Credit must be given to the ASTR teams who, through their efforts and hard work, made possible the completion of the intra-school gridiron program. These men were under no obligation to the school, but entirely of their own accord willingly underwent the rigorous training commensurate to the requirements of the sport.

It is hoped that better Army-student relations were fostered through competitive athletics which brought both sides together on the playing field and also in the stands, urging their colors on to hoped-for victory.

Football . . . the word brings thoughts of crisp autumn afternoons, blaring bands, riotous color and the feeling of suspense as the referee blows his whistle for the kickoff . . . the cheering crowds . . . sun glinting on the drum major's baton . . . all these are brought to mind as something essentially American . . . a feeling that nothing else can quite instill . . . also a something for which our men are fighting.

After a successful pre-conference series, the Vandals found the going tougher when they ran into the taller coast teams, and were able to win only three games, thus finishing in the conference cellar. The University of Oregon won the championship in a three-game playoff with the Washington State Cougars. Highlight of the season was a new conference scoring record set by Vince Hansen, WSC center, who racked up 253 points to break the old record by 29 points. Hansen's mark surpassed the 20-game record set by Oregon's Laddie Gale in 1939.

Len Pyne, Bill Carbaugh and Rich Morse were the only returning lettermen to start the season for the Brownmen; Darwin Brown drew his suit late in the year after recovering from an appendicitis operation, and Paul Olson received the thumbs down sign from the medicos.

Pyne led the Idaho scoring during the conference play with 130 counters, followed by Bill Carbaugh who tallied 120 points.

Three freshmen earned starting berths on the squad, John Taylor, center, and Jeff Overholser and Bob O'Connor at forwards. Letters were awarded to: John Taylor, Bob O'Connor, Bob Smith, Jeff Overholser, Max Call, Charles Schiferl, Bill Carbaugh, Richard Morse, and honorary captain Len Pyne.

The Vandals won 10 of their 16 non-conference tilts, all of which were played against powerful servicemen teams. Eastern Washington college gave the Brownmen a double drubbing, and went on to the western playoffs at Kansas City.

Bob O'Connor, rangy freshman forward, led pre-conference scoring with 131 points, followed by guard Len Pyne's 94 tallies.

The preliminary season saw the Vandals beset with injuries as Charles Schiferl, headed towards first string play, contracted a knee infection and was unable to return to the line-up until late in the season. Len Pyne, fireball of the team, also spent time in the hospital from an infected floor burn.

Pre-season games give experience before

For pre-conference games, the Idaho basketball team had to accept competition where they could find it, because most small colleges, usually on the Vandal schedule, were out of business in the hoop sport. Consequently, the early season games were, on the whole, tougher than in ordinary years, as most of the games were played against service teams studded with former college stars.

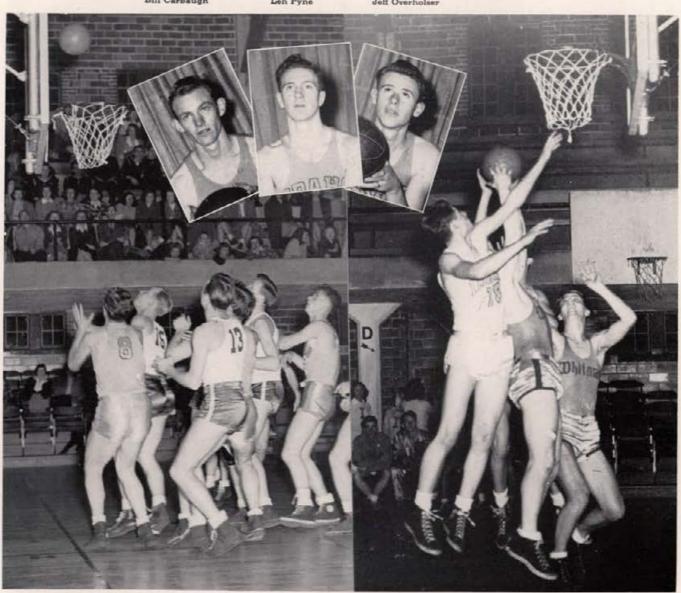

Len Pyne, fireball guard, finished second in pre-conference scoring, led Idaho in conference scoring, and was given honorable mention in Don Dunphy's All-American team chosen for Pic magazine.

Highlight of the pre-conference season was the upsetting of Fort George Wright's powerful Air Base Commandos, who had not previously been defeated by a college team.

Starting with a rush, the Vandals ran away from the V-12 trainees in the first half of the Seattle opener. Washington's civilians rallied to knot the count in the second frame and go on to victory. The next night, the Navy powered its way to bury the hapless Moscownians. In their invasion of the Palouse country, the Huskies proved to be weakened without their trainees and suffered two setbacks at the hands of the Brownmen. In both games, Idaho built a lead then stalled in the final minutes, taking the ball out of bounds as a result of continuous Husky fouling in desperate attempts to get the ball.

Track

The Vandal thinclads have short season.

At the beginning of last year's track season, the outlook for the cinder sport looked hopeless, as there were only 100 men on the campus. When the call for candidates was issued, one-fourth of the male enrollment turned out for track. Meets were arranged with Whitman and the University of Washington; they represented the only available competition, both having naval trainees to bolster enrollments.

Most of the men who turned out were inexperienced but ambitious, and despite usual losses in manpower from ineligibility and injuries, a representative squad carried through the season. The season's accomplishments are to be measured not in wins, but in the spirit of being able to field a team and keep the sport going while neighboring schools with larger enrollments looked on, but did nothing.

Coach Mike Ryan justly deserves recognition for his decision to build a track team in a year when he knew that chances for a winning team, a coach's pride and joy, were slight.

Early season workouts were held indoors, and were prolonged by a rainy spring, which made outdoor practice impossible, thus hampering proper conditioning. The preliminary meets with the high school and army teams gave competitive experience to some who had never donned spikes before entering college. Home meets with Whitman were not productive of team victories, but individuals took firsts in their specialties. The concluding test of the season was the northwest collegiate championship, held at Walla Walla, in which the Vandal thinclads finished behind the V-12 sprinkled University of Washington and Whitman teams.

Jay Gano, lanky junior, was awarded the Douglas Dingle trophy, given each year to the track man who by achievements, sportsmanship and character was most outstanding in the eyes of his team-mates. Jay ran the high and low hurdles, high jumped and broad jumped, garnering 18 points in one meet to lead Vandal point scoring. Tom Arima, engineering senior, ruled the distance lanes, running the mile and two-mile. Dick Newport, freshman, turned in creditable showings in the pole vaults, and as anchor man on the mile relay team.

Cross-Country

For the first time in eight years, the Idaho hill and dalers finished below second in the annual Pacific coast cross-country championships, held at Spokane on Thanksgiving day. Loss of five key men in the early season crippled Idaho's team balance. Jack Anderson, the only returning letterman, ran first in five meets of the regular season and finished third in the collegiate division of the Coast meet. With the exception of Anderson, Idaho's team was composed of first year men.

Spring Sports

Baseball sever evidences heavy schedule.

Fifteen aspirants checked out their equipment, went through the period of sore arms, bruising, sliding, practice and batting before an array of erstwhile hurlers; Idaho was having business as usual in the baseball department. Holding to the university's war-time policy of athletics for the student body, Coach J. A. Brown molded a snappy ball team from the limited number of candidates to meet Idaho's 1944 schedule.

Bill Carbaugh, portsider from Spokane, headed the Vandal pitching staff by tossing six victories and being nicked for only two losses during the season. Carb twirls in the Spokane semi-pro league during the summer months. Johnny Kuroda, freshman, was the best sticker on the Vandal squad with a fat .349 average for the season. Kuroda was called into the service before the end of the season.

Len Pyne was the only returning letterman on the squad and can also boast a semi-pro background. The "Lightfoot" plugged the gap between second and third and finished third in team batting honors. Chuck Kerr, freshman, played in the backstop position for Idaho, and is probably the lightest man to ever don the inflated protector and mask for the Vandals.

Jennis

Coach William Ramsey's tennis squad completed a successful season, winning three matches from Washington State and dropping two to Whitman's navy-powered racquet wielders.

Larry Douglas and Byron Anderson were the only experienced men around whom Ramsey could build his team; however, Cecil Saunders, Dean Dinnison, David Schwalbe and Bob Asmussen improved rapidly under competition to give the Vandals a well-balanced squad.

Weather conditions limited early season practice, and the first meets were entered without adequate conditioning.

Anderson and Douglas, Saunders and Dinnison were the pairings for doubles play.

Whitman swept the initial series, taking both singles and doubles with ease. Experience gained in the Whitman series enabled the Gem staters to revise their style of play, subsequently defeating the Cougars three straight by the identical scores of 5-2. Larry Douglas was named captain of the squad and letters were awarded also to Byron Anderson, Cecil Saunders, Bob Asmussen and Dean Dinnison.

Intraschool Golf

Frank James, golf pro at the university links, inaugurated an all-school golf tourney in the early fall which is to become an annual affair. There were over fifty entries, and after three weeks of competition, Tom Ryan emerged the winner—going through all brackets without a defeat. In the semi-finals, Ryan nearly lost out to Jack Anderson, who was leading with a one-up advantage on the sixteenth hole. Steady golf on the last two assured Ryan of meeting Byron Anderson in the finals.

The finals, which were to have gone 18 holes, ended on the twelfth, where Ryan held an 8 and 6 advantage.

In the second flight, Bud Oylear defeated Jim Pieroni 7 and 5 for the championship.

A trophy was awarded to the winner of the championship flight, to be retained for a year. Oylear won a prize donated by Frank James to the winner of the second flight.

Enthusiasm looks a little low—must be the drowsy effect of their costumes ... Mary Holden and Betty Ann Nelson rouse up ye olde "light" spirits ... Ben Martin got there first.

Women's Shorts

Women's athletics sponsored by W. A. A.

Mrs. Ruth Marty headed the women's physical education department in the absence of Miss Jeanette Wirt this year. Assisting her were Miss Verda Sanders and Mrs. Mary Low Fahrenwald Acuff.

Women's Athletic Association started this year of activity with a play party picnic for all freshmen women, and during the year, provided athletic inter-class tournaments. By participating in these tournaments, women earned their required 100 points for WAA. Awarding of the "I" club plaque to the living group with the greatest percentage of participation in sports is made at the spring picnic. Other awards at this time include WAA pins, "I" blankets and "I" sweaters.

Members: Billie Keeton, Ruth Leth, Joella Gage, Muriel Whiteman, Frances Marshall, Erma Smith, Catherine Dochios, Mrs. Mary Low Acuff, Vera Anderson, and Olive Dillman.

Women's "I" Club

Membership in the women's "I" club is limited by the requirement of earning 1250 points in WAA, which requires several years of consistent participation on WAA teams and in leisure sports. Few women can claim eligibility for "I" club, and fewer still reach the 2000-point goal necessary to receive an "I" blanket.

Distribution of all WAA equipment is controlled by the club and they sponsor the leisure sports and encourage the participation in them. Awarding the "I" plaque to the women's living group with the greatest percentage of participants in leisure sports takes place at the WAA spring picnic, given by the club. Renting skates and cleaning the lockers in the women's gym are other activities of the club.

Project of the club each year is maintaining the activity board in the basement of the women's gym, but the big activity that actives anticipate each year is the trek to Snake river's famed Hell's Canyon. Plans for the over-night trip are started early in the year and the journey is made in the latter part of April.

Surprisingly, a home economics major, Erma Smith, heads the group as president. Filling the other important offices are Ruth Leth, vice president; Billie Keeton, secretary-treasurer; Joella Gage, point keeper; and acting as historian for the club is Muriel Whiteman. Mrs. Mary Low Acuff is the adviser of the club, and during the Christmas holiday season is hostess to the group at a Christmas party.

Membership ranks were enlarged with the initiation of Frances Marshall, Vera Anderson, Olive Dittman, Mary Dochios, and Jane Meyer.

All major and minor sports and leisure

Soccer was the first major sport to claim the women sports enthusiasts' attention last fall. Battling many afternoons in the wind and rain for the tournament championship, the juniors, captained by Joella Gage, won top honors.

As the winter months came, the women turned to the indoor game of volley ball and after developing a skill of unique playing, the sophomores, led by Margaret Dempsey, walked away with the championship.

First of the second semester sports was basketball, which appealed to many of the activity women. After hitting the maple courts hard during practice, the juniors won the tournament, captained by Katherine Beaver.

Softball champions of last year were the seniors, and the champions for this year are not yet known as the Gem goes to press.

Using the tournament ladder system, women's minor sport enthusiasts vied with each other for first place honors. Anyone on the bottom step of the ladder could challenge the players on the top rungs, and the winner of the round stepped into the top spot. Minor sports were opened to all university women, and many turned out.

Each year, the women interested in archery participate in the national inter-collegiate telegraphic meets. Many hours of practice are spent before entering this major minor sport tournament, and each year the Idaho team has made a fine showing. Last of the minor sports tournaments during the year is the free throw.

Badminton honors were claimed for the third time last year by Beverly Weber, while Rose-mary Meehan placed first in the golf tourney, and the fall golf honors were won by Barbara Sutcliff. Horseshoe champs were Barbara Long and Cherry Stranahan; Florence Liening won the ping pong tournament, and Madelyn Sanberg was shuffleboard champion.

Mermaids strive for Hell Divers' ranks.

Rhythmic body movements expressing various ideas in mood, dynamics and direction is the object of the modern dance. Gracefulness and lithefulness are the qualities obtained by these would-be Zorina's.

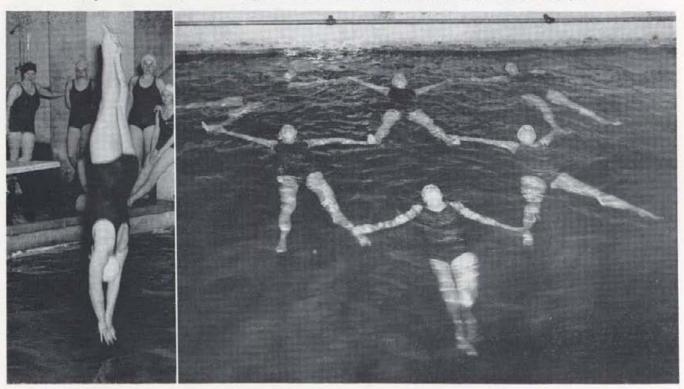

Another dance department is the folk group which practices European folk dances first semester and British Isles and American square dances the second half of the school term. Tap and clog constitute the remaining rhythmic dance classes.

Aquatic activities this year included the duffer swim meets in which Sharon O'Donnell, freshman, starred. Managing the WAA swimming was Erma Smith, who arranged for many meets among the girls interested in swimming.

Taking part in the telegraphic swim meet, Erma Smith won the breast stroke, and Marion Eisenhauer the Australian crawl. Composing a team of mermaids larger than the teams of the past few years were Erma Smith, manager and captain; Barbara Bloomsburg, Phyllis Swayne, Joella Gage, Marian Stillinger, Ethel Jane Kopelman, Barbara Miller, Betty Bohnert, Gwen McKay, and Olive Dittman.

Military

The University of Idaho military staff

Benjamin H. Hensley Colonel, Inf.

Idaho can be proud of the uniformed commanders of the university's ASTRP and ROTC units, for our campus has received some of the best trained men available to direct the units. This training has enabled them to instruct members of the units in military matters and equip them with essential knowledge of army life.

Col. B. H. Hensley became commander of the units during the fall semester and succeeded Lt. Col. W. A. Hale in that position. A veteran of World War I and Pulijahn (Philippine Insurrection campaign), Col. Hensley has held many important positions during his 39 years in the army.

Holding the position of assistant PMS & T and director of military training here is Capt. William C. Wideman. Along with these duties, Capt. Wideman is also Company Commander of Company A.

Lt. John H. Swain and Lt. Morris S. Herzog have weathered the army life together since they attended officers' training school in army administration and were in the same company. Lt. Swain is classification officer, and adjutant and personnel officer. Lt. Herzog holds the positions of supply officer and Company Commander of Company B.

Since the establishment of the ASTRP unit on the Idaho campus, many 17-year-old men have received basic and introductory courses which will enable them to complete the freshman year of college or pre-college work. ASTRP is a field installation of the Ninth Service Command and provides instruction, not only basic curriculum, in military tactics and physical education. For instance, basic B-60 curriculum requires approximately 26 contact hours of classroom work, 18 hours of supervised study, six hours of physical education, and five hours of military instruction.

Instruction at the university is given in widely varied courses such as mathematics, physics, chemistry, English, history, geology, and engineering 1. Similar courses are taught at different levels.

At the present time there are 170 men in ASTRP, but 250 men have graduated. Terms given vary with the age of the students, but a qualified student will receive two, three, or four twelve-week terms of training before entering the army. They are called to duty at the end of the term in which they reach their eighteenth birthday, as this program is only for 17-year-olds. Students are then assigned to a training center for regular basic training. Those who desire and are qualified may enter the Army Specialized Training Advanced Program for soldiers on active duty, and thus will be returned to college after completing basic training for instruction in engineering or foreign area and language courses.

Qualifications for entrance into the training program include examinations which determine what the student's value to the army will be by instruction in academic curriculum. Those qualifying must be 17 years old, but not yet 17 years and nine months of age. An ASTRP qualifying test is given to applicants, and a physical examination is required to determine if the applicant is physically fit. Evidence of high school graduation, and citizenship in the United States are also qualifications for this program. After receiving the written consent of their parents to enlist in the Enlisted Reserve Corps, applicants are sworn in as members of the ERC and may receive assignment to ASTRP.

Shrinking from an enrollment of over 600 in 1942, the ROTC units of the Idaho campus now have 35 students participating, although there were 63 enrolled at the beginning of this year. With such a limited number of students taking the course, former activities of the group have been curtailed, but those enrolled continue to receive virtually the same instruction as their pre-war predecessors.

Four hours of military instruction a week is required and in these hours, students take subjects allied with a basic military training course. ROTC is required for all freshmen and sophomores, and credit is given for the subjects.

Annual inspection of the unit was held April 12 this year, and it was the only exhibition given by the students. Idaho's rifle team, although composed almost entirely of ASTR's, won first place in the ninth service command tournament, and the university has received an engraved plague in recognition of this accomplishment. Two of the ROTC cadets were members of the team.

Disappointing to hopeful "Private Hargraves" of the campus units is the abandonment of Pershing Rifles and Scabbard and Blade, honoraries which in past years chose members from students in the ROTC unit. However, post-war plans reveal that the units will be re-established as quickly and efficiently as possible.

Col. B. H. Hensley is PMS & T in the ROTC unit, and is assisted by members of his military staff.

S/Sgt. Charles V. Kramer explains the mechanics and operation of a machine gun to R.O.T.C. men Darrell Gallup, Glen Benjamin, George Thompson, Jack Gooding, Jim Leeper, Bert Dingle and Alvan Dunn.

Adjourning to the great outdoors, students work in small groups to plot tactical maneuvers—Dick Magnuson, Howard Faux, Kenneth Cook, Earl Naylor and Phil Peterson.

Blue lapels differentiate the ROIC men.

With membership composed from the intelligentsia of the college of letters and science, Phi Beta Kappa ranks as a supreme academic achievement. However, members are not chosen for fine grades exclusively; the purpose is not merely recognition of past achievement, but promise of enlistment in the cause of scholarship thereafter. The record of every student eligible is scrutinized for evidence of serious scholarly purpose and correlation of work. Grades give no prescriptive right to election.

Founded at William and Mary in 1776, Phi Beta Kappa was established at Idaho in 1926, and the chapter now has 273 living members. Those elected at some interval following graduation are designated as Alumnus Members; those elected as undergraduates, as Members-in-Course.

Mortan Board

Mary Pennell Mangum - - - President

Jean Bruins Ferry - - - - Vice President

Frances Freeman - - - - Secretary

Frances Marshall - - - - Treasurer

Founded nationally in 1916, Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, was established seven years later on the Idaho campus. Women are selected from a campus poll and must have a .3 average above all other women. Service, scholarship, and leadership are the basis on which women are chosen.

This organization each year presents a scholarship award to the woman having the highest cumulative scholastic average for her freshman and sophomore years. The activity tea, held November 3, was a joint AWS-Mortar Board service project for all freshmen women. At Christmas, members sold holly for the first time, and sponsored the time-honored Spinster Skip. Narthex Table honors outstanding junior women in the spring.

Cardinal Key

Patricia Hagan - - - - President

Vera Anderson - - - - Vice President

Eloise Deobald - - - - Secretary

Jane Meyer - - - - - Treasurer

Standing: Betty Echternach, Marian Krussman, Evelyn Thomas, Barbara Smith, Jean Thompson, and Ada Mae Rich.
Seated: Mary Jane Donart, Elaine Anderson, Jane Meyer, Vera Anderson, Patricia Hagan, Clara Beth Young, Mary Jane Hawley, and Eloise Deobald.

One of the most active organizations on the campus is Cardinal Key, service honorary composed of junior women chosen the last of their sophomore year on the basis of outstanding scholarship, activities and personality. Members wear blue uniforms with red and gold emblems each Tuesday.

Main project for the year was the sponsoring of exchange dinners among the women's living groups to further acquaintances and friendship among women on the campus. Under the direction of the Moscow Red Cross chapter, Cardinal Keys facilitated bandage rolling at women's houses Saturday afternoons. Besides their weekly meetings, they sponsor several banquets. New members are tapped at the May Fete.

Spurs

Geraldine Merrill - - - - President

Ethel Jane Kopelman - - - Vice President

Betty Ann Craggs - - - - Secretary

Ora White - - - - Treasurer

First row: Joyce McMahon, Betty Ann Craggs, Eileen Ouinn, Ethel Jane Kopelman, Jane Meyer, Mrs. Ruth Marty, Geraldine Merrill. Ora White, and Lalene Cargill.

Second row: Mary Bookman, Catherine Tegarden, Jeanne Parker, Madelyn Sanberg, Joan Clark, Bette Scott, Lucile Thompson, Evelyn Fisher, Ruth Abraham, and Louise Schlegel.

Third row: Helen Moulton, Ruth Gochnour, Kay Kenagy, Leona Bales, Marian Griggs, Twyla Shear, Marina Dochice, Dorothy Doumecq, and Virginia Geddes.

Two sophomores from every women's living group who have maintained a 2.5 grade average and who have participated in at least three activities are chosen to Spur membership in the spring of the year. They don white uniforms, with the golden spur emblem, each Wednesday and generally promote activity on the campus, carrying on Idaho traditions.

This year, Spurs didn't "waddle" at basketball games as they did in other years, but they did carry on all the other activities for which the honorary is noted, such as the alumnae breakfast and the Nickel Hop. Gowned in pastel formals, they wind the May pole at the May Fete and present their newly-tapped members.

The national Spur organization was founded in 1922, and at Idaho in 1924.

Intercollegiate Knights

Sumner Johnson - - - Honorable Duke

Paul Olson, Don Collins - - Junior Knights

Wallace Conine - - - - Worthy Scribe

Fred Keiper - - Chancellor of the Exchequer

Seated: Fred Keiper, James Pieroni, David Wooters, Robert Gardner, Oscar Arstein, Gene Miller, John Mait, and Sumner Johnson. Standing: Wallace Conine, Carl Neiwirth, Charles Schiferl, Paul Oison, Alex Swanson, James Pearce, Ellery Morrison, Earl Naylor, Kenneth Goldsberry, Donald Collins, James Mann, Warren Harvey, and Eugene Mesenbrink.

One of the few men's organizations which has remained intact during the war, the Intercollegiate Knights, a service organization, are well known for their dances and ushering at campus events. Organized in 1922, Ball and Chain chapter of Idaho is a charter member of the national association. The IK's have as their purpose the promotion and fostering of college spirit with the ultimate aim "Service."

Each men's living group chooses its quota of freshmen and sophomore representatives, ranging from two to six. The Duke and Junior Knights are picked from the sophomore group to remain in the organization during their junior year.

Who's Who in American Colleges

Students chosen to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities have no officers or function on the campus; the honor of being chosen is bestowed upon them on the basis of past activities and outstanding work.

An outstanding honor to juniors and seniors in colleges and universities throughout the United States is that of being chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, in which is published material concerning the great body of college students. On the basis of character, leadership, scholarship, and potentialities, seventeen students of the university were selected for the 1944-45 edition of Who's Who, a reference volume published at the University of Alabama.

A faculty committee of judges nominates any number of students from one to twenty, and from these the membership is chosen. There are over 600 institutions of higher learning which make contributions to Who's Who. Originated nine years ago, the first edition was published in 1934.

Alpha Lambda Delta

Joyce McMahon - - - - President

Ruth Abraham - - - - Vice President

Margaret Sutton - - - - Secretary

Ora White - - - - - Treasurer

Seated: Dorothy Doumecq, Margaret Sution, Joyce McMahon, Ruth Abraham, Ora White, and Pat Miller.
Standing: Mavis Carlson, Miss Marion Featherstone, Madelyn Sanberg, Geraldine Merrill, Lalene Cargill, Bette Faye Solberg, Lucile Thompson, Clara Beth Young, and Ethel Iane Kopelman.

Incentive for freshmen women to make high grade averages is Alpha Lambda Delta, national scholarship honorary and a younger sister of Phi Beta Kappa. The Idaho chapter of this organization sponsored a tea soon after the nine-weeks' grades of the first semester were announced. Purpose of this activity was to acquaint freshmen women who attained a 3 point average or over with the qualifications necessary for admittance and with the goals which have been set for Alpha Lambda Delta members. Formal pledging took place during the latter part of March in which women who attained a 3.5 average were admitted to the organization. Women who receive a cumulative average of 3.5 during the two semesters of their freshman year are also eligible for membership.

Kappa Delta Pi

Mary Pennell Mangum - - - President

Muriel Whiteman - - - - Vice President

Betty Cardwell - - - - Secretary

Marjorie Aeschliman - - - - Treasurer

Seated: Dean J. F. Weltzin, Dr. W. W. Smith, and Dr. R. D. Russell.

Standing: Mrs. Wayman Williams, Betty Cardwell, Marjorie Aeschliman, Mary Mangum, and Muriel Whiteman.

Beta Zeta chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national education honorary, was installed on the Idaho campus in 1928. Eligibility for this honorary requires undergraduates in the school of education to maintain a 3.0 average, and to complete the required credits in the school. Members are tapped in the spring.

The purpose of this organization is to encourage high professional, intellectual and personal standards, and to recognize outstanding contributions to education.

One of the outstanding events for Kappa Delta Pi members this year was the initiation of Dean J. F. Weltzin into the fraternity as an honorary member.

Phi Chi Theta

Eldoris Erickson - - - - President

Bette French - - - - - Vice President

Helen Howard - - - Recording Secretary

Mary Lu Adamson - - Corresponding Secretary

Marjorie Spencer - - - - Treasurer

Seated: Helen Howard, Eldoris Erickson, Marjorie Spencer, and Bette French.
Standing: Ioan Benoit, Mary MacRae, Velma Wilkerson, Karma Smith, Mary Lu Adamson, and Jean Thompson.

Students majoring in the school of business are eligible for membership in a national organization which has many chapters throughout the United States. The group mentioned is, of course, Phi Chi Theta, the national business honorary.

To be eligible for Phi Chi Theta, a student must have a cumulative grade point average of 2.8 for three semesters, besides majoring in the school of business.

Phi Chi Theta is an honorary and thus sponsors only one social function during the year—the annual tea for all women majoring in business. Meetings of the group are held regularly.

Phi Upsilon Omicron

Lucile Eyrich - - - - - President

Erma Smith - - - - Vice President

Julien Paulson - - - - - Secretary

Nadine Comnick - - - - Treasurer

Front row: Erma Smith, Lillian Johannesen, Dorothy Anne Hauge, Lucile Eyrich, Dorothy Bowell, Julien Paulson, Frances Marshall, and Clara Beth Young.

Members of Zeta chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron, national fraternity, are juniors and seniors majoring in home economics, who are in the upper fourth of the grade strata. They must maintain a professional attitude in the field and participate widely in it.

With more than 20 years of Idaho history behind them, this group has as a yearly project the choosing of the most outstanding freshman in home economics, whose name is engraved on the Phi U plaque and announced at the awards assembly. Phi Upsilon Omicron members hold a fireside every fall to entertain home economics students who are eligible for membership, and another fireside each spring for members and faculty alumnae, in addition to their bi-monthly meetings. Files concerning data about graduates are kept, listing present addresses and the field of special work they are in.

Sigma Alpha Jota

Jean Gochnour - - - President

Eloise Deobald - - - - Vice President

Marjorie Aeschliman - - - - Secretary

Doris Adams - - - - Treasurer

First row: Jean Gochnour, Fern MacGregor, Jean Bonneville, Clara Rowell, Doris Gochnour, Lois Deobald, and Joan Wittman.

Second row: Mrs. Glenn Jacoby, Sidney Buchanan, Joy Ashton, Jean Armour, and Barbara Ravenscroft.

Third row: Marjorie Aeschliman, Evelyn Fisher, Mary Lu Scott, Bette Scott, Lucile Thompson, Winifred Tovey, Lalene Cargill, Madelyn Sanberg, Evelyn Thomas, Iris May, Dona Harding, and Connie Almond.

Sigma Zeta chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, officially titled professional music fraternity, sponsors many activities during the year and this year was no exception. Co-sponsors of the Mother's Day song fest, receptions for all music students, the all-college sing, and ushering at recitals and concerts are only a few of the varied activities of this group. The victory musicale was not held this year, but SAI's proved themselves patriotic by participating in the All-Girl Singing orchestra tours.

A grade average of 3 point in music studies, and a 2.5 in academic subjects, besides being a music major or minor is required for membership. Mrs. Dorothy Frederickson Jacoby is advisor for the group.

Theta Sigma

Elaine Thomas - - - - President

Muriel Fugate Haegele - - - Vice President

Beverly Weber - - Secretary-Treasurer

Standing: Helen Terhaar, Jean Ferry, Betty Echternach, and Shirley West. Seated: Beverly Weber, Elaine Thomas, and Mary Jane Donart.

Theta Sigma, local journalism honorary for women, is for students who do outstanding work in the school of journalism or in Gem or Argonaut staff positions. Membership in the organization has been small this year, since only six women were pledged last year, making a total of eight active members on the campus. However, Theta Sigma continues to honor new initiates at a banquet held every spring:

Women are told of their pledging through a ceremony in which an Argonaut, set with a banner headline announcing the name of the woman tapped, is presented to each new pledge. Pins are a slug of type with the member's name imprinted.

Associated Engineers

Howard Kambitsch - - - President

Don Leeper - - - - Secretary

Jack Tallent - - - - - Treasurer

Seated: Arthur Schwartzenhauer, Prof. J. Hugo Johnson, Prof. Henry Gauss, Dr. L. C. Cady, Hubert Hattrup, Jim Mann, and Bob Gardner.

Standing: Bob Smith, Harold Berg, Art Humphrey, Sumner Johnson, Bart Chamberlain, Howard Kambitsch, Roy Davis, Jim Pearce, John Wren, Fred Watzon, Jack Gooding, Charles McKinney, Ray Dills, Garland Sterr, Jack Tallent, Bill Abbott, Jim Leeper, Sam Vence, Joe Doss, Prof. Gerhard Riedesel, Don Leeper, Ronald Kilborn, Henry Silka, and Albert Wellman.

Sponsoring the engineering ball, which was held December 2, is one of the most important activities of the Associated Engineers, a professional organization including all engineers on the university campus. The group has made this dance one of the most popular of the annual affairs and also sponsored the traditional smoker, held October 19. Another activity which the group originated this year was a lab party for the Associated Engineers.

The governing body of the organization is the engineering council, which consists of two men from each of the student engineering organizations on the campus. President and officers of the group are elected from the engineering council.

Attic Club

Ann Hite - - - - - President

Connie Melgard - - - - Vice President

Barbara Miller - - - - Secretary

Dick Albin - - - - - Treasurer

Seated: Ann Hite, Clara Rowell, Louise Cosgriff, Arline Durkoop, Constance Melgard, Lynette Davis, Margarete Walters, Lorna Jean Booras, and Grace Nesbitt.

Standing: Richard Albin, Barbara Miller, Mr. Alfred Dunn, Coleen Martin, Hazel Mooney, Jewell Tanner, Bobbie Douglass, Muriel Axtell Smedley, Miss Mary Kirkwood, Barbara Bedwell, Helene Rogers, Prof. T. J. Prichard, Mary Pat Sylvester, Patricia Burris, Saxon LaTurner, and Kenneth Goldsberry.

Members of Attic club meet every other Thursday noon in an effort to bring art students and the faculty of the art department together and arouse added interest in art. Students with a major or minor in the art department are eligible for membership in the active honorary.

Members this year sponsored a spaghetti dinner during the first semester, a picnic in the spring, and a going-away party for Professor T. J. Pritchard, head of the art and architecture department, before he took a leave of absence from the faculty at the end of the first semester.

The group tries each year to bring an art exhibit to the campus and sponsors programs of interest to artists. Plans also included instruction in painting murals and sculpturing and general campus improvement.

Curtain Club

Ralph Joslyn - - - President

Barbara Jo Smith . - - - Vice President

Barbara Smith - - - - Secretary

Marjorie Mock - - - - - Treasurer

Seated: Elizabeth Hadley, Edward Dalva, Grace Lillard, Eleine Anderson, Jean Pugh, Gerry Merrill, and Margie Mock.
Standing: Marian Krussman, Ann Smith, Don Rankin, Barbara Smith, Barbara Io Smith, Ralph Joslyn, Marian Wilson, and Miss Jean Collette.

A local honorary, Curtain club works for promotion of drama work on the campus. In honor of national drama week, this organization prepared exhibits placed in the administration building and the Bucket, which showed different divisions in which points may be accrued for membership. Not limited to only actors and actresses, property crew, stage crew, makeup, sound crew, and lighting crew workers are eligible for membership, and they gain entrance according to a point system which rates ability and effort expended.

This year, Curtain held two initiations and pledged seven members who participated in ASUI plays and other campus productions. Senior assembly directors and the university All-Girl Singing orchestra called on Curtain to direct backstage work.

Home Economics Club

Virginia Dempsey - - - President

Phyllis Wells Wheeler - - - Vice President

Patricia Hagan - - - - Secretary

Virginia Geddes - - - - Treasurer

First row: Shirley Oakley, Wilma Joyce Hartley, Virginia Geddes, Twyla Shear, Mary Condie, Marietta Grimes, Marion Watanabe, Nola Whybark, Frances Very, Dorothy Bowell, Phyllis Wheeler, Vers Anderson, Helen Morfitt, Phyllis Swayne, Julien Paulson, Margery Merideth, and Bonnie Kuehl.

Second row: Ragnhild Endahl, Frances Ward, Thelma Jardine, Betty Ann Wosener, Winifred Sersain, Frances Tilley, Geraldine Potter, Mary Isenberg, Elizabeth Glenn, Marilyn Lester, Catherine Shuey, Patricia Johnson, and Virginia Hansen.

Third row: Virginia Mooney, Gloria Grey, Delorea Gooby, Lillian Johannesen, Dorothy Anne Hauge, Iean Marie Kilpatrick, Erma Smith, Nadine Comnick, Adalain Taft, Mary Mulder, Barbara Smith, Clara Beth Young, and Ethel Nims.

Fourth row: Audrey Hartman, Geraldine Goddard, Carrie Smith, Dorothy Van Engelen, Lucile Eyrich, Betty Ann Norman, Ruth Leth, Helen Schlader, Anne Johnson, and Margaret Thompson.

Fifth row: Patricia Hagan, Ann Smith, Mary Holden, Mariam Hansen, Mary Louise Field, Bonnie Jean Brown, Elizabeth Wetter, and Camille Labine.

Members of the Home Economics club are the maids always on hand when it comes to food preparation or room decoration. As a special project this year, this professional group sponsored prominent speakers whose work deals with various phases of home economics, with the aim of acquainting Idaho students with future opportunities in the field.

Home Economics club members hold an annual picnic and keep their department on the third floor of the Administration building in tune with the times with the latest decorations.

"J" Club

Len Pyne - - - - President

Paul Olson - - - - Vice President

Sumner Johnson - - - - Secretary

Rich Morse - - - - Treasurer

Standing: Bill Carbaugh, Robert Deal, Jim Brown, Darwin Brown, Jack Anderson, and Bill Abbott. Seated: Richard Morse, Len Pyne, Sumner Johnson, and Paul Oison.

Seeing Idaho men in wine-colored sweaters with arm stripes is still not a rarity when the campus has an organization like the 'I' club functioning during the war years. Some of the traditions of this group have had to be abandoned, but the organization remains one of the most prominent at the university. This year Idahoans missed seeing the "I" club cheering section at major sports exhibitions.

One of the most important functions sponsored by the organization is the "I" club dance, with its selection of the "I" club queen from candidates of the various living groups. Students qualifying for "I" club must be in one of the major "I" sports. They are recommended by their coaches and approved by the ASUI executive board.

Minute Maids

Fidelia Zabala - - - - Presiden

Zelva Hodge - - - - - Vice President

Marina Dochios - - - - Secretary

Joyce Halley - - - - Treasurer

First row: Joanne Tucker, Mary Holden, Marina Dochios, and Lorreine Brassfield.

Second row: Fidelia Zabala, Zelva Hodge, Joyce Halley, and Berbara Dayton.

Third row: Barbara Twitchell, Jean Pugh, Mrs. Erma Standley, Mary Bockman, and Lynette Davis.

Blue caps and white collars became familiar sights as Minute Maids sold stamps from house to house every Wednesday during the dinner hour. Established on the campus in 1942, this group is one of the few war-time innovations that has functioned efficiently over a period of time.

In an effort to boost sales, Minute Maids sponsored a War Bond dance during the first semester and their "Thermometer contest" between living groups this spring. They also appeared at all campus activities.

Two women are chosen from each living group as representatives to this organization and nominations are approved by the Minute Maids.

Interchurch Council

Louise Schlegel - - - - President

Elaine Anderson - - - - Vice President

Dorothy Cowin - - - Secretary-Treasurer

Seated: Phyllis Wells Wheeler, Helen Campbell, Marjorie Aeschliman, Louise Schlegel, Elaine Anderson, and Beverly Weber.

Standing: Mr. William R. Mathies, Donna Hoxie, Dorothy Cowin, Beverly Ford, Geraldine Merrill, Ruth Leth, Jean Seitz, and Rev. Warren Fowler.

Idaho's Interchurch council established a record this year, when the annually sponsored World Student Service Fund drive netted a total of over $500, the largest amount ever solicited for this drive on the campus. To further the drive, the council imported Miss Mary Robe, traveling field secretary for the World Student Service Fund, to speak before a select audience—the key solicitors and members of the council.

An Easter sunrise service, an all-church party, and religious missions were some of the varied activities of the group. The council promotes good fellowship between protestant church groups, each group having two representatives on the council.

Canterbury Society

Patricia Hagan - - - - President

Barbara Bloomsburg - - - - Vice President

Frances Rhea - - - - - Secretary

Elizabeth Rofinot - - - - Treasurer

Seated first row: Anna Warshaw, Gloria Gray, Elizabeth Rofinot, Pat Hagan, Saxon LaTurner, Frances Rhea, Betty Silberg, Eve Smith, Barbara Bloomsburg, and Lyn Hopkins.

Infant among the church organizations on the campus, Canterbury society celebrated its fourth anniversary this year, and can now boast third largest attendance among church organizations. This group of Episcopal students studies church history and different types of religion and current events through discussions led by students and guest speakers. Guest speakers included Charles McKeon, who spoke on "Communism and Christianity"; Harry C. Harmsworth, "Racial Problems"; and Boyd A. Martin who discussed "Peace Aims."

Lambda Delta Sigma

Clara Beth Young - President of Tau Chapter

Russell Miles - - President of Alpha Chapter

First row: Marie Larson, Betty Brookbush, Venis Johnson, Wilma Adamson, Harold Forbush, Helen Bean, Eliza-May Taylor, and Karma Smith.

Fourth row: Gwen McKay, Ora White, Margaret Gamblin, Bottnie Bennett, and Geraldine Shortridge.

Fifth row: Edith Coble, Rae Parkinson, Donna Anderson, Russell Miles, and Kenneth Cook.

Sixth row: Mrs. George Tanner, LaRaine Stewart, Geraldine Merrill, Alvin Hamsun, Gordon Stirland, and Franklin Briscoe.

Back row: Clara Beth Young and Jewell Tanner.

Lambda Delta Sigma is an organization for students of the Latter Day Saints church, fostering fellowship among students of this faith and providing social functions. Membership is obtained after a pledge period lasting three weeks.

Activities consist of monthly meetings of the entire group and impromptu individual meetings of men's and women's chapters within Lambda Delta Sigma. The group holds dinner meetings and parties for members and an annual spring picnic.

Founded in Salt Lake City, Utah, in 1934, Lambda Delta Sigma was organized on the Idaho campus in 1937. Due to a decrease in students this year, the fall semi-formal dance was cancelled.

Newman Club

Sue Wittmann - - - - President

Madelyn Sanberg - - - - Vice President

Dorothy Schneider - - - - Treasurer

Patty Kulzer, Mary Stanek - - Social Chairmen

First row: Madelyn Sanberg, Eileen Quinn, Frances Swantek, Sue Wittmann, Mary Stanek, Patricia Kulzer, Mary Manzisdor, Peggy Estes, and Joan Lorang.

Second row: Louise Cosgriff, Margaret Deggendorfer, Jo Marie Cramer, Betty Ring, Fidelia Zabala, and Helen Morlitt.

Third row: Rosa Ascuaga, Peggy Mackin, Joan Benott, Jeanne Parker, Rosalys Bogert, Nancy Pieroni, and Jean Gregory.

Fourth row: Ann Price, Jonne Pearson, Margery Walters, Marjorie Balch, Helen Schlader, Dorothy Schneider, Margaret Hickman, Yvonne Hamlin, Shirley Yenor, Pvt. J. N. Smith, and Howard Kambitsch.

Fifth row: Frances Marshall, Alice Bastida, Patricia Dobberthrein, Pierina Truant, Eileen Medved, Helen Terhaar, Joan Wittman, Neva LeFavour, Jo Valadon, Mary Wicher, Denise Magnuson, Hazel Brodkord, Margaret Kerby, Betty Kincald, and Iris May.

Newman club, an organization of Catholic college students, is mainly for the purpose of spreading Catholic fellowship and to unite the group of students whose interests are such. Every other Tuesday evening, Newman club meets in the small dining room of the student union for discussion on religion, student problems, or international affairs.

After late mass on the last Sunday of every month, a communion breakfast is held in the parish hall for further discussion or entertainment.

Founded in 1915, DeSmet chapter of Newman club is one of the largest church groups on the campus, and has done much to increase religious activities and social functions.

Westminster Guild

Beverly Weber - - - President

Jean Thompson - - - - Vice President

Velma Wilkerson - - - Secretary

Joella Gage - - - Treasurer

First row: Ruth Leth, June McGee, Caroline Burg, Jean Thompson, Mrs. J. Furnas, Beverly Weber, Bonnie Kuehl, Doris Ring, Juanita Bryan, Joyce McMahon, Janet Madsen, and Rosemary Blackwell.

Second row: Joanne Tucker, Martha Tucker, Miriam Hansen, Geneal Cooper, Dona Harding, Marguerite Dore, Muriel Fugate Haegele, Paula McKeever, Pat Harris, Pat Bridewell, Joanne Smith, Barbara Spaeth, Betty Newell, Zoe Bean, Barbara Miller, and Jane Parks. Third row: Barbara Smith, Vera Anderson, Joyce Cooke, Jean Marie Kilpatrick, Lois Ellen Douglas, Marian Stillinger, Ruth Boyer, Nole Whyberk, Ann Johnston, Muriel Moss, and Mary Hutton.

Pith row: Dorothy Bowell, June Williams, Marian Blanksma, Joanne Howard, Ann Hite, Phyllis Harrison, Mary Lu Scott, Ann Ruckman, Pet Pugh, Marion Eisenhauer, Marquret Jane Dempsey, Phyllis Bristow, Jewel Mays, Pet Still, Jane Thompson, Dorothy Gemberling, Laura Burns, Catherine Shuey, Thelms Jardine, and Jean Spencer.

Carrying out the 1944-45 theme, "The Marks of a Christian," the members of Westminster Guild held semi-monthly dinner and discussion meetings. Each meeting of the group consisted of a devotional, a musical number, and talks provided by university faculty and student members. Topics were chosen on the basis of their bearing on the main theme of the year.

Each house and hall on the campus had a key girl to give news of the meetings to the women with Presbyterian and Congregational church preferences.

Social activities for the year included the monthly dinner meetings, and a spring picnic for installation of officers.

Alpha Epsilon Delta

Idaho Alpha chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta, pre-med honorary, holds meetings to discuss latest medical news. It is primarily an honorary and does not sponsor campus activities. Membership in this national organization is achieved by maintaining a 3.0 grade average in the school of medicine. At meetings, members consider articles appearing in Scapel, national medical journal, and latest advances in the field of medicine.

Officers this year were Bob Asmussen, president; Maxine Miller, secretary-treasurer; and Russell Miles, historian.

Members: Reed Fife, Barbara Sutcliff, Dr. W. H. Cone, Maxine Miller, Bob Asmussen, and Russell Miles.

First row: Hallock, Carnie, DeKlotz, Carlson, Handlin, Rowell, Meyer, and Deobald.

Second row: B. Reichert, Daffer, DeKlotz, Haight, R. Reichert, Kenagy, Brassfield, Cravens, Shulengerger, Williams, Daigh, Seitz, Seiter, Tilley, and Ploss.

Third row: Anderson, Tegarden, Justice, Lundgren, F. Freeman, D. Freeman, Campbell, Watanabe, Arnold, Hoefner, Aeschliman, Thompson, Cargill, O'Donnell, Rowland, Beem, Lampman, Hull, Robinson, Merideth, and B. Campbell. Fourth row: King, Talley, Steinmann, Kerby, Jellison, Bucholz, Sutton, Mays, Soule, Jemess, Maize, Solterbeck, Sellers, Potter, Wetter, Fifth row: Mrs. Orland, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Bliss, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Crites, Mrs. Hagedorn, Mrs. Frank Stanton, Mrs. Lola Fahrenwald, and Mrs. Jahn.

Kappa Phi

Kappa Phi, national Methodist women's honorary, is known as one of the most active church organizations on the campus. The Christmas candlelight service sponsored by these women, has become a traditional holiday ceremony. Members also concentrated on charity drives and held a Last Supper during the Lenten season. Members of Tau chapter chose as their officers: Lois Deobald, president; Jane Meyer, vice president; Donna Freeman, treasurer; and Elizabeth Sutton, corresponding secretary.

Established on the campus in 1936 was Phi Mu Alpha, national men's music honorary. The organization is for the purpose of promoting interest in music, and lists its requirements for membership as being scholarship, one or more music activities, leadership, and interest. To be eligible students must have a grade average of 2.5 and have been residents of the campus for at least one semester. Among the activities sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha is the co-sponsoring of the inter-house song fest, an annual event in the spring. Reed Fife is president of the group, Fred Watson, vice president and Don Collins, secretary-treasurer.

Phi Mu Alpha

Seated: Prof. Alvah Beecher, Don Coilins, Fred Watson, and Mr. Joseph Brye. Standing: Reed Fife, Prof. Robert Walls, Mr. Edmund Marty, and Prof. Hall Macklin.

Members: Howard Kambitsch, Prof. Hugo Johnson, Dr. L. C. Cady Prof. Henry Gauss, Fred Watson, and Burt Berlin.

Three students on the campus were left this year to carry on the tradition of Sigma Tau, national engineering honorary for juniors and seniors. Fred Watson, Howard Kambitsch, and Burt Berlin are the three remaining members of the organization and, because of the small number of members, elected no officers for the year. In the past, Sigma Tau has sponsored an annual dinner dance and formal dances. Members for the organization are chosen on the basis of scholarship, social ability, and being in the upper third of their class.

Sigma Jau

Bench and Bar

A local association, Bench and Bar was first organized on this campus in 1912. Eligibility is determined by merely requiring members to be enrolled in the college of law. The purpose of this organization is to create and develop an ethical and professional attitude among its members which will be of value in their chosen field. Officers in charge of the group this year were Gilbert Norris, chief justice; Catherine Dochios, secretary-treasurer; and Ben Martin, sergeant-at-arms.

Seated: Prof. W. J. Brockelbank, Dean Pendleton Howard, Prof. E. M. Shealy, Prof. Bert Hopkins, and Mrs. Phyllis S. Burson.

Standing: Gilbert C. Norris, Catherine Dochios, Darwin Brown, Al Kiser, Claire Drong, Leonard Wilson, Donald Wyckoff, Delmar D. Daniels, Donna Freeman, and Ben Martin.

First row (standing in water): Don Schaffner, Steve Shelton, Billie Keeton, Mary Mulder, Reed Brown, Olive Dittman, Barbara Bloomsburg, Jean Thompson, Ethel Jane Kopelman, Marian Stillinger, Billie Chamberlain, Cliff Streeter, and Don Miller. Second row: John Wren, Paul Olson, Bill Shull, Lorna Jean Booras, Joella Gage, Jean Seitz, Alice Woofter, Dan Strmac, Gwendolyn McKay, Phyllis Swayne, Joanne Tucker, and Erma Smith.

Hell Divers Disbanded since 1942, Hell Divers was re-established on the campus during the first semester. Members of this swimming honorary are required to have achieved proficiency in swimming and diving and to hold a senior life saving certificate. Project of the year was a course in life saving in anticipation of future members. Chosen by members of Hell Divers as officers were Billie Keeton, president; Joella Gage, vice president; Gwen McKay, secretary; and Erma Smith, treasurer.

Relaxing at a big steak fry last fall and at a barbecue this spring, members of the Associated Foresters took time off from studies and their discussion groups. Reduced membership kept the group from sponsoring their annual Foresters' Ball. Officers for the year were Jack Boder, president; Irvin Wentworth, vice president; and Richard Morse, secretary. Prof. Merrill Deters was faculty advisor. Membership is gained by enrollment in the school of forestry.

Associated Foresters

Members: Kyle Bates, Iack Boder, Wallace Kenyon, Ira Ellis, Bob O'Neall, Dave Mohn, Richard Morse, Warren Wiley, Paul Wykert, Gene Miller, Howard Faux, Allan Bunker, George Frazier, Warren Harvey, James Mattox, Bonald Schaffner, Frank Henderson, Phil Eastman, Reed Brown, Ted Lacher, Don Miller, Irvin Wentworth, Dave Seaberg, Earl Miller, Ernest Wohletz, and Dr. Merrill Deters.

Members: Kenneth Smith, Dean Mosher, Garland Sterr, Arthur Humphrey, Peter Rowell, Dr. L. C. Cady, Donald Leeper, Samuel Vance, Bart Chamberlain, and Richard Ohins.

Chemical engineers on the Idaho campus are an organization composed of enrollees of the chemical engineering department who are interested in learning more about their field of work through labs, discussion groups, and meetings held on various topics. Don Leeper is president of the group, and Peter Rowell is secretary-treasurer. Art Humphrey is junior representative to the engineering council. An annual event sponsored by these engineers is a party in the spring, usually a picnic. Mr. Dwight Hoffman is advisor for the organization.

Chemical Engineers

Electrical Engineers

Sponsors of the annual lab party are the electrical engineers, formally known as the University of Idaho branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Monthly meetings are held by the group, which is a professional organization for students enrolled in electrical engineering.

Chairman this year is Howard Kambitsch, with Jack Talbot holding the office of vice chairman. Gerald Hattrup is secretary for this branch of the engineers, while George Wallace is treasurer. Professor J. Hugo Johnson is advisor for the group.

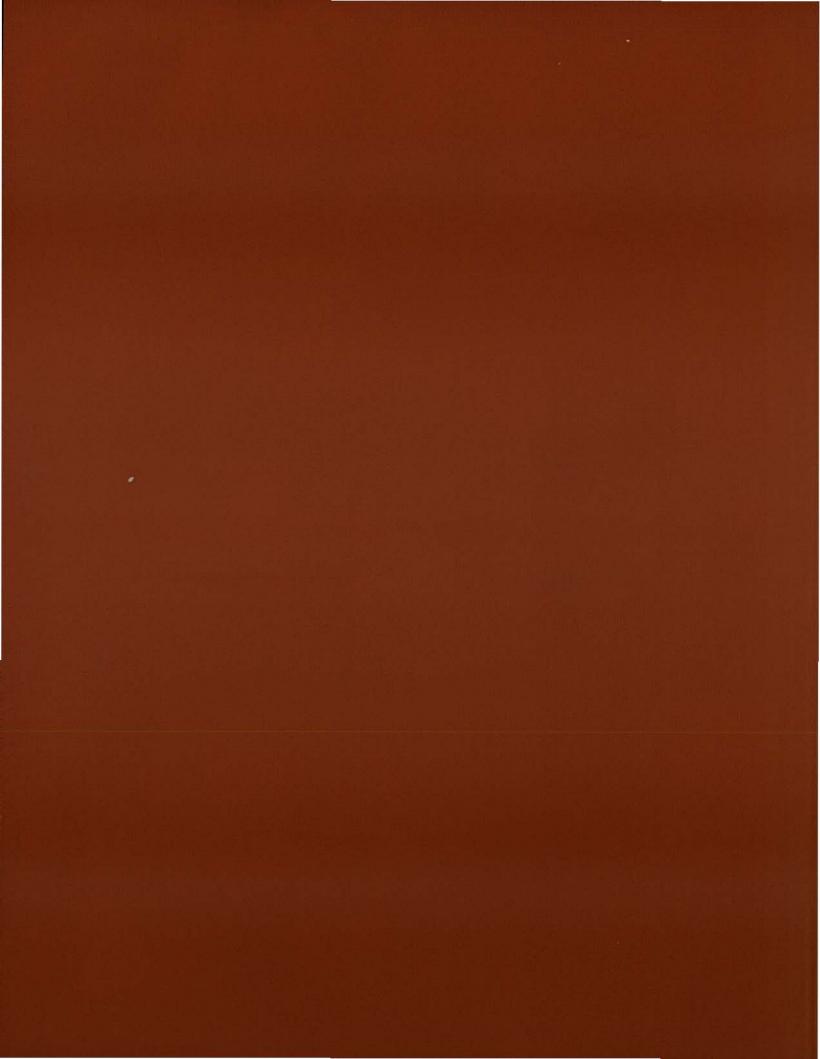

Members: Prof. J. Hugo Johnson, Howard Kambitsch, Richard Davis, George Walsh, Charles McKinney, Glen Benjamin, John Wren, and Mr. Hubert E. Hattrup.

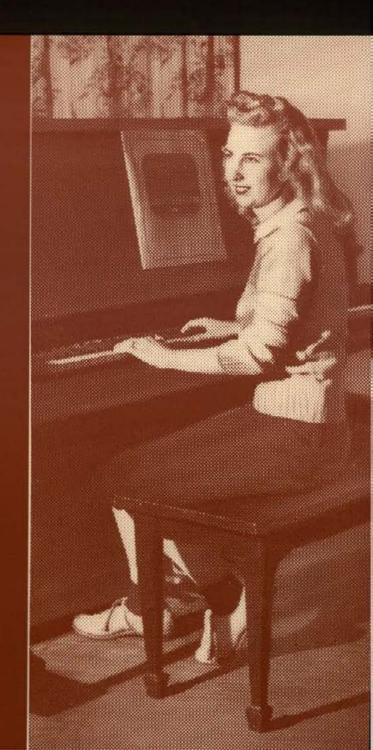

Seated: Donald Kamp, Prof. Henry Gauss, Joe Doss, and Ronald Kilborn. Standing: John Pointner, Bob Smith, Fred Watson, Bill Abbott, and Ray Dills.

Mechanical Engineers For promotion of interest in the profession, the mechanical engineers sponsor many activities on the university campus during the year. Inspection trips, films on engineering, and banquets are among their major functions. The mechanical engineers are a student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and are a professional society. Joe Doss holds the position of chairman of the organization, and Fred Watson is vice chairman, with Bill Abbott as secretary-treasurer.

Independent council members, spokesmen for the Associated political group, direct campus activities of hall men and women. This year, thirteen representatives were elected by independents to the council. Members came from LDS institute, Delta Tau Gamma, and Chrisman, Forney, Hays, and Ridenbaugh halls.

The council sponsored a leaf-raking and bonfire for the halls before fall elections and cooperated with Interfraternity and Pan-Hellenic councils in promoting the Christmas decorations contest for campus living groups. Also on their slate was the promotion of ASUI play parties in cooperation with Pem club to complete the activity roster. Reed Fife, LDS, was appointed by the council to membership on the executive board to fill the vacancy which occurred when Fred Watson stepped into the ASUI presidency.

With the main purpose of controlling fraternity rushing and promoting interfraternity relations, the Interfraternity council rounded out another year as one of the leading campus activity groups.

The annual Interfraternity formal, held March 17, carried out the St. Patrick's theme and was as always a popular social function. This group joined with the Pan-Hellenic and Independent councils in sponsoring the first Christmas decoration contest for two years.

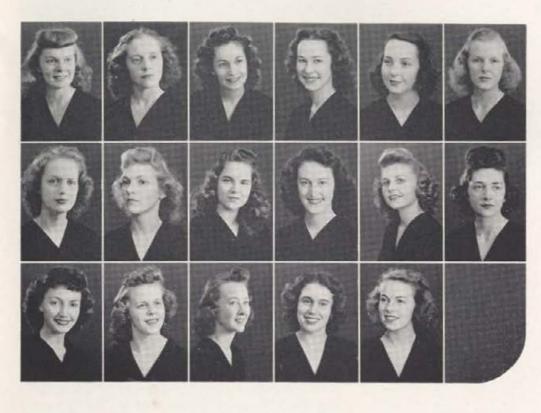

The council also sponsored the return of intramural athletics and took definite steps to abolish campus vandalism. The council is composed of the president and one representative from each active fraternity of the campus.

Within the Pan-Hellenic council, two representatives from each Greek women's house have an opportunity to discuss problems which beset their organizations, leading to better relations among these living groups. Members of the council planned the second accelerated war-time rush week, settled pledge rules and a maze of minor sorority problems.

Annually, they award a scholarship cup for the pledge class making the highest grades for the first semester's work. In addition, the Pan-Hellenic council, in cooperation with the Interfraternity and Independent councils, presented cups to the men's and women's houses displaying the best outdoor Christmas decorations. Kappa Alpha Theta and Sigma Nu took the honors this year.

Alpha Chi Omega

"Alpha Chi, how we love thy name . . ." and thy gray shingled house on fraternity row—leaders in campus life, the Alpha Chis extend their efforts every year to include projects benefiting the town of Moscow—gave toys to charity at Christmas time and planned a party at their house for underprivileged children.

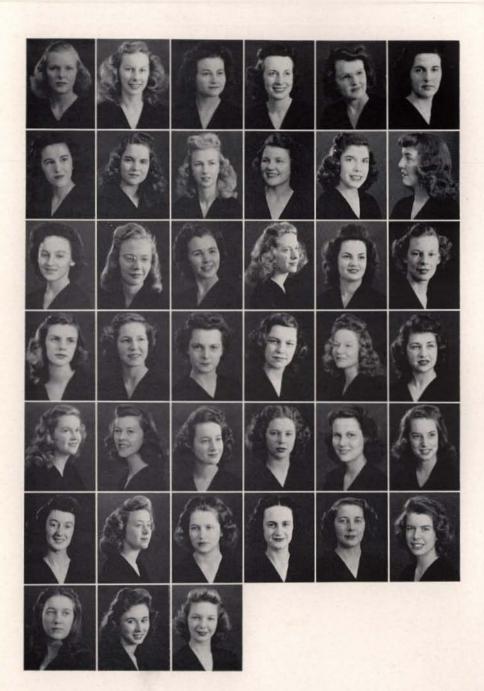

Some of the cream of Vandal activities is centered in Alpha Chi Omega, which houses Bette French, AWS president, Mortar Board member, Phi Chi Theta and Who's Who-er; Marian Krussman, Gem associate ed, SAB member, AWS treasurer and Pan-Hell vice prexy, Cardinal Key, as is Barbara Smith; they're both Curtain-eers. Barb's a Phi Upsilon Omicron; Dona Harding and Madelyn Sanberg, SAI's; Virginia Campbell, frosh class prexy; All-Girl singers count in Elaine Smith, Eileen Medved and Madelyn Sanberg; Spurs, Madelyn and Ora White; Dona Harding, WAA executive board member; and Gem staff heads Harding, White and French.

Twenty-one pledges were the inspiration of an "Angel" dance last fall—initiation brought out the "Lyre" theme at the traditional dance—a spring formal was given—pledges fought the Sigma Chis in a snow fight—senior breakfast and Mother's Day tea were kept on the annual list, and house bicycle picnics were planned for spring with the weatherman's consent.

Typically collegiate lasses, these Alpha Chis led the campus in bangs coiffures with 27 of their personnel in vogue.

Alpha Phi

"Sweetheart of Alpha Phi—I keep you in my thoughts where'er I go . . ." and remember the large colonial house at the far end of fraternity row—where the largest pledge class on the campus lives—all 29 of them.

Activity leader of the sisterhood is Billie Keeton, ASUI exec board member, Mortar Board, Hell Divers prexy, majorette leader and co-chairman of Senior Week-some of the activities that entitled her to Who's Who. The house has two class vice prexies Keeton, senior, and Ada Mae Rich, junior. ASTP sweetheart, Beverly Simon, resides at Alpha Phi; house fills ranks of All-Girl Singing orchestra with Billie Adamson, Bernice Bakes, Marge Spring, Gloria Vosburg, LaRaine Stewart, Lorraine Brassfield and Ada Mae-Phi Chi Theta prexy, Eldoris Erickson and members Mary Lu Adamson, Mary MacRea, Velma Wilkerson, and Jean Spencer live at Alpha Phi. Phi U.O. members include Nadine Comnick, C.B. Young, Mary Mulder, and Julien Paulson, while Alpha Lambda Deltas in the crowd are Betty Campbell and Jane Parks, with "C.B." Young as junior advisor; Clara Beth presides over Lambda Delta Sigma women's activities; Julien chairmaned SAB, and "C.B." and La-Raine Stewart keep up Gem work; Cardinal Keys are "C.B." and Ada Mae; Spurs Kay Kenagy and Evelyn Fisher; WAA offices are filled by Keeton, Rich, Paulson, Adamson and Maxine Slatter; SAI's are Evelyn Fisher and Billie Adamson.

Pledges danced at the Ivy Leaf dance; a spring picnic honored pledges as a turnabout of the sleigh ride pledges gave for members; Alpha Phis initiated the idea of pledge firesides for other campusites.

Delta Delta Delta

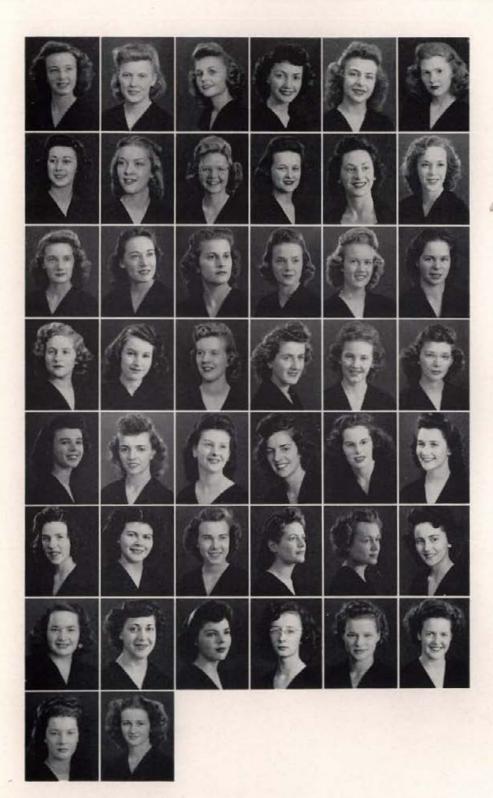

"When a crescent moon is shining and the stars peep through the trees . . . Tri-Delt sweetheart, just for you . . ." reminds the campus of the girls who live in the newest sorority house at Idaho at the far end of fraternity row. Majoring in almost everything a coed could study and having representatives in nearly every honorary and activity, these gals have fun, too—claim their Nightshirt and Wheatie clubs have elaborate pledging ceremonies and are extremely active within the house.

Prexy Ruth Leth has a lengthy activity list, including Mortar Board, WAA presidency, Who's Who, and Gem business manager. Mary Jane Hawley's a Cardinal Key; Joan Clark and Ethel Jane Kopelman Spurs—Ethel Jane represents the sophomores as vice president and belongs to Alpha Lambda Delta. SAI's Clara Rowell and Jean Bonneville sing in the All-Girl Orchestra, as do Shirley Moreland, Dorothy Monico, Joan Clark and Betty Norman Rutledge. Yell leader, Mary Mansisidor, keeps up varsity rah-rah, and Jean Bonneville represents the brains in the sisterhood with her Phi Bete key and music scholarship.

Traditions of Delta Delta Delta include a dinner for faculty heads, alumnae Christmas party, initiation dance, Heart Sister and Delta week, Sunrise dance, Pansy dinner and a dinner with the SAE's, their brother fraternity. Pledges danced in a "City Called Heaven" at their fall formal, and the Tri-Delts entertained at open house before and after Christmas vacation, held a Mother's Day tea, and a reception for their housemother, Mrs. Rose Bowen.

Delta Gamma

"I have found my dream girl . . ." could often have been sung to the DG's, for they possess more men's rings and pins than any other group. They set romance aside long enough to study and won the scholarship cup last fall.

Numerous activities are theirs: President Elaine Thomas also presidents Theta Sigma and Pan-Hellenic. is Arg ad manager, a Mortar Board and on the executive board—big thrill was her election as May Queen. Claiming other Arg positions-Mary Jane Donart, coeditor; Pat Miller and Romaine Galey, managing and news eds.; "Bounce" Howard and Jo Hunter, business and circulation managers, is evidence of their interest in publications. Also Cardinal Key "Babe" Donart and Attic club prexy Ann Hite were associate ed and head of the art staff of the Gem. Scholastic honoraries with DG membership are Curtain, with "Precious Stream" Hunter in the ranks; Phi Chi Theta, "Bounce" Howard; Phi U. Omicron, Marilyn Lester; Alpha Epsilon Delta, Barbara Sutcliff; and Jean Armour and Lucile Thompson, SAI. Billie Sweet and Jean are with the Singing Orchestra and Freshman Marilyn Williams was elected AWS yell leader.

The erection of stage sets find DG's working hard, while Spurs lead the religious group—Louise Schlegel as prexy of the Interchurch council and Lucy Thompson, the new Kappa Phi president. Looking toward the brighter side, they held informal Monday afternoon teas this spring and had a fall pledge dance. "Easter Bonnet" was the theme of the initiation dance. Most recent inhabitant is their adopted hound—"Hannah."

Gamma Phi Beta

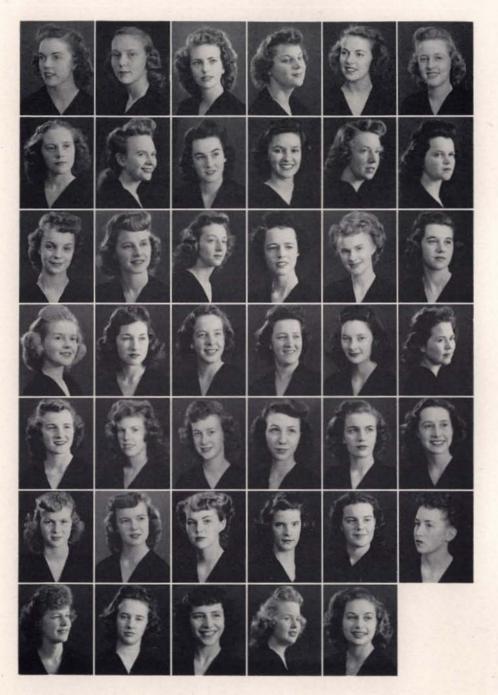

"Gamma Phi girl, I love you . . . I love your sweet smile, and I love your smart style . . ." Likeable little lasses, these Gamma Phis. Perched off up at the end of fraternity row, they have the advantage of having fewer steps to take to make that 8 o'clock. Publications and dramatics absorb hours of their time but they're "fun" gals, too. That institution called matrimony took a deep discount from their ranks.

Prexy Marion Wilson, star of several ASUI plays, takes her place also as a senior class officer. And then there's activity woman Bev Weber, Gem editor, Westminster guild prexy, executive board member and Mortar Board. Betty Ech also has staked out claims for a big name—Arg co-editor and Cardinal Key. Tiny Joyce McMahon heads the baby Phi Betes of Alpha Lambda Delta, and Mac and Geneva Ferguson and Shirley Brandt display oratorical powers in debate. Betty Cardwell, Jean Seymour, Betty Dodd and Jean Taylor make with the music with the Singing Orchestra, while Betty Ann Nelson and Shirley Brandt keep the varsity spirit aroused. Curtain, Phi Upsilon Omicron, Theta Sigma and Phi Chi Theta honoraries include the Gamma Phis as members.

Besides their annual Christmas party for their mothers, they had a dance last fall for their pledges with a Peppermint Candy theme. Spring initiation took 14 gals into the ranks as members and they were honored at their "Two-lip Time" initiation dance, April 21.

Kappa Alpha Theta

"Theta lips are smiling, Theta eyes are too . . ." Happy girls, traditionally the scholars, they're hard workers not only with books but in all their activities. These gals are members of SAI, Theta Sigma, Hell Divers, Curtain, Phi Upsilon Omicron, and Phi Chi Theta. Marriage claimed their prexy Jean Bruins Ferry, but she returned after Christmas to keep the Thetas represented on the executive board. Arg staff and Mortan Board. Undergraduate potentates of the clan are Bette Scott and Lalene Cargill; both are Spurs and music majors, and Bette was elected this spring to AWS office while Lalene is the new Pan-Hellenic treasurer. Freshman Eve Smith quietly stole the title of Sigma Chi sweetheart from the other five finalists. The return of Muriel Axtell Smedley also swelled their list of activity women, giving them another Mortar Board. Moscowite Peggy Estes was chosen for the yell crew.

Sets for any ASUI play were undoubtedly greatly due to the work of Liz Hadley and recruits from the sisterhood. House Christmas decorations of Old English figures walked off with the first prize.

As with every group, social life continued. One of the few houses to continue with a traditional costume dance, the Theta gypsy dance lived up to former standards. March found eight pledges sailing kites prior to their initiation and wearing of the badge. March 17 was the date of the initiation dance. With a new house mother last fall, they entertained representatives from all living groups at a tea in her honor.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

"There's a warm spot in my heart for KKG—for the girls who wear the little golden key . . ." and who live in the white-pillared house on Elm. Scholarly pledges managed to carry off the Pan-Hellenic cup and four Alpha Lambda Deltas were chosen—JoSmith, Barb Spaeth, Francie Rhea and Joan Wittman.

The Kappa Gams claim five presidencies of allcampus clubs or honoraries-Mary Mangum, Mortar Board and Kappa Delta Pi; Pat Hagan, Cardinal Key and Canterbury; Sue Wittmann, Newman club; an Arg editor and Theta Sigma, Shirley West; yell queen, Mary Holden. Activity-minded Kappas who have made good in their fields include such Curtaineers as Ann Smith and Joy Ferguson; Phi Chi Theta Enid Almquist; Spurs, Eileen Quinn and Marian Griggs; Cardinal Keys Hagan and Evie Thomas; All-Girl singers Evie and Art Powell; Joan Wittman and Evie, SAI's; Phi U.O. Pat Hagan, also new Pan-Hellenic prexy; "Penny" Mangum, Who's Who-er in the sisterhood; and two class secretaries-Evie Thomas, junior, and Shirley West, senior. Eileen Ouinn headed sophomore week as co-chairman and diminutive Mary Holden reigned as Holly queen.

But activities and scholarship don't take up all the KKG's time; cooked up the first all-girl fireside of its kind on the campus, entertained their pledges at the "Golddiggers' Drag" last fall, gave a spring formal, and juniors and seniors danced at the "Kappa Klub" dinner dance, April 21. Pledges retrieved their benches from atop the Sigma Chi roof . . . newest pledge in the house is 3-year-old "Cappy," the cook's granddaughter.

Pi Beta Phi

"There's a sweetheart so true, to the girl of Pi Phi, and the arrow she wears o'er her heart . . ." Those Pi Phis send their arrows into many activities; they're the sportsters in WAA and take time to bolster Arg and Gem staffs, stage crews.

Jean Thompson seems to make a speciality of presidencies. Twice elected to reign over the Pi Phis, she was elected this spring to the AWS top spot. They sport two Cardinal Keys—Jean and Vera Anderson. Vera served as an AWS officer this last year and is a member of Women's "I" club, as is Jo Gage.

Working as a group, the Pi Phis garnered the greatest total in WAA points to be awarded the "I" plague last fall. Jackie Ritchie, freshman, was the first to "catch her man" to win the Sadie Hawkins day race. Another frosh, Betty Newell, won a space on the yell team. Shingles of Phi Upsilon Omicron, Curtain, Hell Divers, Phi Chi Theta, and Kappa Delta Pi all hang on their walls. Golf stars are Vera Anderson and Betty Ann Craggs—and Betty Ann was elected president by the sophomore class.

The traditional December ski dance was overlooked this year, but the theme was carried out at a fireside. "Star Dance" was the theme of their pledge dance in November, and their 15 initiates were the center of attraction at their initiation dance.

Forney Hall

Frances Marshall, president first semester

Eloise Deobald, president second semester

Built in 1923. Named for Mary E. Forney of Moscow.

"Where life is happy, and cares are few, Oh dear old Forney, we all love you . . ." 'Tis gladly that the residents of Forney sing the praises of their campus home, and justly so, for these girls have much claim to fame.

Twin Mortar Boards are indeed a rarity—but that's "Fritz" and "Floss" Marshall for you. "Fritz" was hall prexy first semester, a member of "I" club and both are members of Phi U. Omicron. "Floss" was vice president of AWS—last name was changed to Hanny when she returned at semester. "Fritz" and Erma Smith were both chosen for "Who's Who" and Erma also is prexy of "I" club and is a Phi U. Elaine Anderson and Lois Deobald both made the jump to Cardinal Key; Elaine being the Associated candidate for ASUI president and member of Curtain and Interchurch council—is on the Arg staff. Lois, an SAI, was on the executive board, president of Kappa Phi, and toured with the All-Girl orchestra—was hall president second semester.

Spur president Gerry Merrill gets her sleep at Forney when she can take time from activities of Curtain and Interchurch council. With freshman Margaret Arnold, Gerry captured the debate cup to decorate Forney shelves. Other honoraries are well represented with Karma Smith a Phi Chi Theta; Maxine Walter, Phi U. Omicron; and Sidney Buchanan, Joy Ashton and Winifred Tovey, SAI's.

Social life is far from lacking—spring and fall semiformals dot their calendars, too.

Hays Hall

Muriel Whiteman, president first semester

Jane Meyer, president second semester

Built in 1928. Named for Gertrude Hays of Boise.

"And she's the only girl for me, sweet Sal from Idaho . . ." for the girls that live within the walls of Hays hall are all Sals, true Idaho gals. Their first semester president, Muriel Whiteman, can even boast being one of the "I" club girls along with being a member of Kappa Delta Pi, Independent caucus, an active WAA girl and being chosen for "Who's Who."

Musicians galore, Jean Gochnour, Marjorie Aeschliman, Doris Gochnour, Virginia Eggan, Virginia Transue and Rosa Ascuaga all attend SAI meetings, and Jean Gochnour, Virginia Eggan, Betty Jo Gregerson and Virginia Chaney travel with the All-Girl orchestra—Chaney especially providing diversions.

Potential career girls of Phi Chi Theta are those business majors, Helen Moulton and Barbara Dayton; Kappa Delta Pi claims Marj Aeschliman. Hays is the pleasant retreat for Grace Lillard, Curtain member, who was one of the leads in "Papa Is All."

President second semester, Jane Meyer, Cardinal Key, took on the added troubles of the Spurs in her role as their junior advisor. A botany major, she weeds out top grades. Three freshmen, Mary Ann Plastino, Frances Schaplowsky and Bonnie Bernett, with extraordinary grade averages, are now among the ranks of Alpha Lambda Delta.

The big roomy living room of Hays hall must be conducive to super-entertaining, for formal or semi-formal, per year they entertain more than any other group. "Dear Diary" is a traditional theme for their novel semi-formal, which this year was held in Merch.

Ridenbaugh Hall

Frances Freeman, president first semester

Mary Dochios, president second semester

"Vandal sweetheart, it's you—Vandal sweetheart, so true . . ." typical Idaho song applying to the 60 women of Ridenbaugh, oldest hall on the campus. Housing fun-loving girls and activity women, Ridenbaugh probably has more home ec majors than any other house—25 of them.

Frances Freeman and Barbara Ravenscroft, whose activities merited them Who's Who membership, call Ridenbaugh home—Frances has chalked up Mortar Board, won debate honors and was a backbone in International Relations club — Barbara represents Associateds on executive board, is an SAI as is Doris Adams. Softball manager of WAA is Twyla Shear, also a Spur with Marina Dochios. Mary Dochios serves on the SAB—two of the women made Alpha Lambda Delta, Billie Justice and Donna Chapman—Lucile Eyrich served as prexy of Phi Upsilon Omicron—Marjorie Mock is a member of Curtain club and the president of International Relations club—and the Interchurch council has Frances Tilley and Donna Chapman.

Outstanding dance of the year was the "Lilac" dance, annual spring formal—Valentine party is an old tradition, when the third floor gals escort their second floor dates to the big doin's—birthday dinners are held once a month—seniors get a ducking every spring—and a newly engaged Ridenbaugh girl gets the privilege of eating pie under the table, minus the helpful tableware—character in the hall was "Mrs. Moffitt" of the feline family.

Named for Mary E. Ridenbaugh, then vice president of the board of regents. Built in 1902.

"Silver and the gold . . . Proudly we sing to our Idaho". They made Idaho the birthplace of a national group, for Alpha chapter was the originator of a town girls' association. Though they live at home, they enjoy the fraternal spirit and companionship. Mary Bockman, Spur and Minute Maid, also joints the ranks of Phi Chi Thetas. Helen Terhaar burns the Arg midnight oil when checking proof as part of her night editor's job—she's also a member of the student activities board and the independent caucus. The honoraries also claim Helen, who is a Theta Sigma, and Mavis Carlson, Alpha Lambda Delta. Keeping up the social angle, they used "Indian Summer" for their pledge dance held in November. 'Twas to the strains of "Blue Champagne" that they danced at their initiation dance. They also sponsored two all-campus dances for the students and the army and navy units which remained on the campus during Christmas vacation.

Founded nationally at Idaho in 1926. Idaho Alpha founded in 1924.

"She has the love of a Beta, told by the pin she wears . . ." The Betas may come and go in a hurry, but they've left a few badges with their Beta girls. Last fall found the Betas without any student members, so rush week found Dean Eldridge proving his worth as an alum as he pledged seven lads. Initiated in Spokane, they, too, gradually joined the brothers as servicemen, leaving Sam Vance to hold chapter meeting alone. In normal times, they composed a third of the Miami triad for the picnic and dance. Were the only house governed by a full time house mother whom they jealously squired around. Fought with the Phi Delts over their bell and had a whingding snowfight with them; Hallowe'en party with the DGs. Reports from the fighting fronts indicate that the Beta boys plan a great return.

Founded at Miami university, Ohio, in 1839. Gamma Gamma chapter established in 1914. Colors: Shell pink and sky blue.

"While I live, my life I give to my gueen of Delta Tau . . . "Yes, the Delts are loyal. Their persistence in keeping the English house up Morrill way the home of an active fraternity despite the shortage of members displays their fraternal pride. Leader of the group, Al Kiser, is a law student and member of Bench and Bar, as well as an old-timer on the United caucus. President of both the mechanical engineers and the electrical engineers, Howard Kambitsch, also calls the Delt house home. Freshman class treasurer, Bob Gardner, is another that lists this as his abode; he's active with the IKs. Having to cut down on the big dances because of their small number, the Delts have nevertheless missed only two weeks without having a fireside. They joined with the Betas for their pledge dance, held just before Christmas.

"She is loyal to our colors, to the scarlet, white and green . . ." And that loyalty can be stretched over many years, for the lads from the multi-pillared mansion are from the oldest Idaho national fraternity. Law student president Ben Martin of Greek caucus fame is assisted in running the place by Sum Johnson, house manager; Sum also is treasurer of the junior class, and when not over Pi Phi way can be found on the baseball diamond or with Herb Rees bossing the IKs. Burt Berlin was the final chairman of Junior Week while John Dailey was dance chairman for Frosh Week. Top honor of the year was Kappa Sigma's for their brain power in winning the scholarship cup last fall. Taking pity on the Betas (when they were still in the plural) they offered shelter to Dean Eldridge's boys.

" And among these dreams of the past come the strains of "the Bowery, the Bowery," for the annual Bowery Brawl, with all its advance advertising, is a favorite SAE tradition. Despite their happy life, the lads of the Deakin street palace came out the winners of the men's living group scholarship cup for a year's work. This year, after a near-colossal rush week, they came out with the largest men's house on the campus—with many turning out for track and football sparked by Dan Strmac, listed many on the Idaho teams. Great debaters in past years, the boys kept their top spot-Albert Wellman and Dan Strmac meeting the Kappa Sigs in the final tourney. Will Defenbach was co-chairman of Sophomore Week.

HEN DAVIDS' STORE was founded, there was written into its policies an inflexible rule concerning the reliability of merchandise.
It is not too much to say that our present growth is due entirely to the policy of never selling anything—however small—that we can not fully guarantee. And the most impressive phase of the success that has come to us lies not in its magnitude but in the ever-growing satisfaction, so freely voiced by thousands of our customers, in the reliability of their purchases.

Briefly

Maybe that friend of yours who has "so many clothes on so little money" knows the secret of choosing from our $4.98 dresses. They're wonders!

Hosiery, Gloves, a Slip, and—oh yes, I must go over to Penney's Softie Bar—I need a little dasharound hat for in between times.

Somehow men who have once worn our $1.98 shirts never want any other kind!

The boy who "lives in" slacks and sweaters is usually the son of a thrifty mother who shops at Penney's!

Suppose this is the real "McCoy" or since when did fellows and girls get to study together for semester finals?—sounds like a good idea to us . . . Ah ha, we caught Marie Lampman and George Frazier right in the act of robbing the Sigma Chi kitchen—what would Mrs. Miller say if she had seen them first?

Electricity's WARTIME RECORD

* Production Up

* Prices Down

* No Rationing

* No Shortages

It has been accomplished by America's light and power companies in spite of rising costs and taxes.

It was done by efficiency and experience and sound business management—by the same American enterprise which built our nation and on which its future depends.

Rumor has it that it's the "Vogue" on the Idaho campus this year to have bangs, or else maybe Marge Ring, "Red" Miller and Marian Kittleson just got a "bang" out of cutting hair—sounds like a "bang" job to us... It definitely can't be said that Coeds Moreland, Sanburg, Taylor, Cargill, or Sweet had "mike" fright on the night of their debut on the Idaho campus with the All-Girl Singing orchestra, as everything was sweet and lovely—excuse the pun, Billie.

Throughout the world . . . in army camps . . . at naval stations . . . on the fighting fronts . . . wherever you find the boys who are winning this war, you'll find the yearbooks of their respective schools, treasured keepsakes of a happier day.

We at WESTERN are proud of the part we have played in helping these boys perpetuate their school-day memories and our sincere wish is that we may continue to serve their Alma Maters during this historic period and in the brighter days ahead.

We salute our boys on the fighting fronts! We are happy to have played a small part in giving them respite from their more arduous duties.
