ACADEMICS

Susan Whaley

The Class of '69, University of Idaho, will, in a sense, always be a special one to me for we shared a common "freshman year" together at this institution. Now as this is written and we contemplate the completion of baccalaureate work for many of you, another item of special significance comes to mind. 1969 marks the 80th anniversary of the University and emphasizes the fact that at the time most of you who graduate now will be reaching peak effectiveness in your chosen careers, roughly 20 years hence, Idaho will be entering its second century of existence as a University.

Over the years this long and venerable history has produced a distinguished and loyal alumni body which you who graduate now will join. We hope you will give serious thought to your status as alumni for during your undergraduate years especially, the alumni organization has taken on increased significance for the University.

As our impact on both state and nation increases we are finding an ever increasing need for the continuing active concern of our alumni in our policy determinations. This year for the first time a National Advisory Council to the University President will meet with our Regents in June. Consulting councils in Law, Engineering, Forestry and other professions, largely featuring alumni in their membership, have joined the long-standing council in Agriculture giving our professional schools invaluable assistance in the development of curricular, research, and service programs. The Fund for the Performing Arts Center is an alumni developed and sponsored project.

It has often been said that great universities are characterized by strong alumni organizations. As Idaho stands within a generation of the century mark it is fast achieving the library collections, the physical plant, the research range, and the traditions of excellence that make for greatness. Your help in the development of a strong alumni organization can assist in adding this needed element. For as the University grows in stature, so do its alumni. The effect is reciprocal. I have chosen therefore not to consider this as a farewell message to the Class of '69 but merely the acknowledgment of a new relationship. Your University is proud of your achievements as a Class to date; we know we shall be prouder of them in the future. As Idaho sends you forth it also goes forth with you. May both you and your University enjoy continuing success.

As one progresses through life he must learn that the secret to success is turning stumbling blocks into stepping stones. Success in this life begins by conquering small obstacles, and life is made more perfect by constantly striving to turn liabilities into assets.

It is vital to recognize opportunities when such opportunities arise. Many people cannot find opportunity because it is disguised as hard work.

Honesty with oneself is the first step in progress. Desire to progress is the first step to wisdom.

Success comes to those who are too busy to look for it. The glory of this life is doing what others say cannot be done. Members of the class of 1969 have shown their persistence to achieve success in their quest for a better life. Nothing in the world, including talent, genius, and education can take the place of persistence.

The future is yours; success can be yours.

You have crossed the bay—the ocean lies before you.

College of Agriculture

The College of Agriculture, one of the first schools to attain the status of a college on the University of Idaho campus in 1901, offers curricula in agriculture phases of education, engineering science, and management. Actual classroom techniques are applied in the college-maintained greenhouses, farms, and land acreage which is used for instruction and research. Through its graduates and its many services offered throughout the state, the College of Agriculture has played a vital role in Idaho's agricultural economy.

JAMES E. KRAUS
Dean
College of Agriculture

In this fast moving world young people have a unique opportunity to be a part of one of the most fascinating times in this century. I did what many young people do in college today. I started out to be an engineer, but after one year decided my real love was in the science of agriculture. Others of my class started in agriculture and transferred to a different field. The important thing a student should do is to select a curriculum or major in which his greatest interest lies. People who are most successful are those who are doing something they really like to do. I would urge a student to select his or her major field of interest and excel in it.

The majors may graduate in accounting, business, and applied science, economics, finance, foreign trade, general trade, general business, marketing, and office administration.

DAVID D. KENDRICK
Dean
College of Business

It has been gratifying to be in a position to place the growth of the College of Business Administration in its proper perspective. I first saw the University of Idaho as a student in 1930. After graduating in 1935 with a B.S. Business degree, I left the campus and except for occasional visits did not return until 1946. At that time, the war had not been over long enough for the College to make its adjustments. When I returned in 1957 as Dean I could see that we were getting ready for some basic changes and advances. The striking aspect of our growth is that it has been on a solid foundation of attention to principles. We have always learned to take advantage of developments in teaching methods and to modern machines such as computers. It is exciting to consider what we will offer our students by 1972.

College of Education

The College of Education consists of the departments of Education, Psychology, Health, Physical Education and Recreation, with special programs in Music Education, Business Education, Industrial Art Education, and Library Science. In addition to specialized preparation in the major and minor fields, the college provides a broad general education background. It is fully accredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

The College of Education is the official teacher education division of the University. Its functions are: to prepare personnel for professional service as teachers, administrators, and specialists in elementary, secondary and higher educational institutions; to promote and conduct educational research; to provide consultation in local educational development; and to provide professional leadership. The new College of Education complex will greatly enhance and facilitate the faculty in meeting these functions.

College of Engineering

The engineering profession affords an exciting opportunity for those interested in using scientific principles to create useful works for the benefit of man.

Your College of Engineering is meeting the challenge of preparing young men and women for a very wide variety of careers in the engineering profession. Our essential objective is to provide a sufficiently basic but practice related professional education so that our graduates may develop and find their best and most satisfying niches in the complex real world of professional engineering. A professional man's advancement depends on how he builds on the basic knowledge he acquired during his formal education; this is especially true for an engineer because the exploding rate of new scientific knowledge will rapidly force him into obsolescence if he does not keep abreast of the time. We expect that our 1969 graduates will join almost 3,500 College of Engineering alumni in demonstrating their ability to build successful professional careers on their University of Idaho educational experience.

College of Forestry

ERNEST WOHLTZ
Dean
College of Forestry

The College of Forestry, nationally top rated, draws students from every state and many foreign countries. A four year program is offered to the students in forest, range, fish and game management, and wood utilization. The college operates two tree nurseries, an arboretum, and an experimental forest. These offer facilities unexcelled in the United States and provide forestry students opportunities for knowledge and experience under field conditions.

The significance of confidence in one's self and faith in others was forcefully brought to my attention during my college days. An incident will illustrate the point.

In my senior year I was offered the opportunity to become a teaching assistant in a course which I considered to be extremely difficult. Lacking confidence in my ability and faith in the judgment of the Dean in choosing me, I declined. As a result, I received a good dressing down from him. To put it bluntly, he told me that I would take the job, and if I failed to do good work, a $10 bill which he placed in the drawer of his desk would become mine. Following the completion of the course he called me into his office, took the $10 bill from the drawer, and placed it in his wallet.

Most of us at one time or another need a boost like this in order to build confidence and to increase our faith in others.

College of Law

The College of Law is the only law school in the State of Idaho. It is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and is fully accredited by the American Bar Association. Long hampered by inadequate physical facilities, it received approval of the 1969 State Legislature to begin planning and construction of a new law building on the campus.

This year the College of Law will graduate thirty-one young attorneys. The number would have been larger but for limited facilities. However, this is not an unmitigated evil, for the group was carefully selected from a much larger number of applicants by sheer necessity. Trained by techniques of Socratic discussion, the trial of cases in Practice Court and the counseling of the poor in the Office of Economic Opportunity's legal services program in the Lewiston area, these graduates now take their place in the profession. The law faculty has complete confidence that they will discharge their responsibilities well.

College of Letters and Science

The College of Letters and Science established in 1901, seeks through a liberal studies background to strengthen and contribute toward the advancement of integrity, character, and personal development. The academic departments of the college include Art and Architecture, Biological Science, and Social Science.

Education has five elements in action and reaction—knowledge, students, teachers, clientele, and institutions. The transmission, the extension, and the application of knowledge among students, teachers, clientele, and institutions becomes the major objective of the university. Knowledge, whether it is achieved in research, discovered, borrowed or found by accident is the principal, although not the only, objective of the institution. The University should select knowledge on the basis of present needs and its contemporary practical application as well as for its historic value.

One of the major objectives of the university in the pursuit and dissemination of knowledge is to help every student realize the dream of individual opportunity. The University must accept the equalitarian spirit, and must be deeply involved in the concept of equality of opportunity. In this sense, in American democracy, education is a utility because society benefits by the development of the individual. The product of the University must be prepared, regardless of major, to adjust to technological, economic, political, and social change.

Of almost equal importance in the pursuit of higher education is the preservation and enrichment of the cultural heritage. The University has the obligation to make the vast body of knowledge and insights already acquired a heritage of beauty and reality to all students. These insights based on liberal and humanistic learning are among society's finest possessions. Learning and living are interrelated. Thus for the individual, education is both a means of individual development and social progress. Consequently, as a utility, education and the University in particular, must continue the drive toward education for development of both the responsible citizen and the well-rounded man. In order to achieve this, the University must: (1) transmit the cultural heritage, (2) push back the walls of ignorance and replace them with knowledge, (3) prepare students to intelligently participate in a changing technological society, (4) develop the talents of each student to the top of his potential, (5) train students to participate in the intelligent solution of the problems of their day whether they be domestic, social, intellectual or moral, (6) encourage a constant communication, or traffic in ideas, between students, faculty, institutions, and clientele.

College of Mines

The College of Mines, because of its location near one of the chief mining areas of the world, provides excellent opportunity for field observations and study of the natural geological structures in this area. Jobs are plentiful in this field, providing students the chance to take advantage of many opportunities. Degrees are granted in Mining, Metallurgical and Geological Engineering and also in Geography and Geology.

In these days of change, students must be thinking intensely about choice of personal values. Choices for a way of life are perhaps more numerous and widely varied than ever before, in view of our rapid technologic growth. Yet people have not changed very much, if at all; therefore, one may still look to the past to see how various systems have worked and how our present situation compares with the past. Through comparisons with past systems, one may make reasonable predictions about the future—each person must work out his own predictions, decide which he wished to see happen, and then live and work in such a way that it can come to be. My own experience indicates that hard work and individual responsibility have been, are, and will always be important. Much of life's satisfaction lies in the joy of a difficult task well done.

Graduate School

The graduate school, which was organized in 1925, offers the opportunity for advanced studies, specialization, and research in more than 50 departments. In addition to developmental studies in his particular field, the graduate student may also take advantage of programs planned in conjunction with Washington State University and the National Reactor Testing Station in Idaho Falls.

MELBOURNE L. JACKSON
Dean
Graduate School

The Graduate School at Idaho has been growing at a rate considerably above the national average and each spring semester sees an increase in enrollment over the fall term. This year at commencement over 20% of the more than 1300 degrees are at the masters and doctors levels, and the 1969 ceremonies will approach the 5000th graduate degree given in the history of the University. Unique among many state universities, Idaho has all usual disciplines and professional fields in one location and the interdisciplinary nature of graduate work can readily be fostered. Also unique are the graduate course exchanges with Washington State University and the large graduate program operated at the National Reactor Testing Station at Idaho Falls.

The Graduate Dean also acts as the Coordinator of Research and promotes the research effort of the University. Funds are distributed to faculty to get research projects started and assistance is provided in obtaining funds from sources outside the state. Ninety percent of the Federal academic science funds coming into the state are to the University of Idaho. Costs of the graduate level are high for both instruction and the individual graduate student. Funds are made available through NDEA, NSF, NASA and NIH training programs and other sources to assist students in pursuing their studies.

DEAN JACKSON

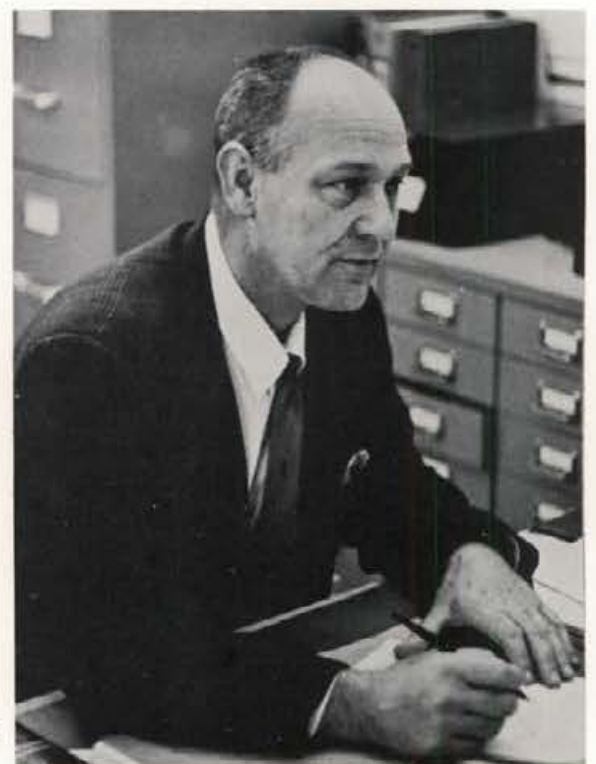

Adult Education

The division of Adult Education and Summer School coordinates and directs the nonagriculture extension services, summer school activities, and correspondence courses of the University. An opportunity for a University education is provided to more than 4,000 throughout the state.

Changes in our world are so apparent that documentation is unnecessary. New scientific discoveries conceived in laboratory have found their birth in technological developments. These technological developments and changes have allowed and caused changes in the social and cultural patterns of our lives. New methods of production along with exposure to the newer mass media have allowed the culturally and socially deprived to seek better kinds of lives. New methods of communication have caused the trials and tribulations of distant people to be our problems. New technologies require that all persons continue to learn and re-educate themselves throughout their lifetime.

The activities of the Division of Summer School and Continuing Education are based on the proposition that there does exist on the University campus a quantity of experts to aid in the orderly adjustment of man to change. The Division seeks to facilitate the dissemination of this expertise through a wide variety of vehicles including evening extension courses, concentrated workshops and symposiums, the Summer School program, etc. For the most part, these programs are designed to help the individual increase his knowledge and keep up-to-date in his profession.

Junior Class Officers

The officers slate of 1968-69 for Junior Class read: President Jim Mottern, Vice President Jeff Williams, and Secretary Linda Youngberg. As sponsors of the annual blood drive the Junior Class collected 850 pints of blood. Another project of the class, beginning this year, is a scholarship program for juniors. To earn money for the program, the class presented the New Christy Minstrels to the University.

Juniors Sponsor U of I Blood Drive

Freshmen

Steve Russell, President; Paul Nelson, Vice President; and Niki Mattmiller, Secretary-Treasurer, led the Class of 1972 through their first year at the University. Annual Frosh Week activities were conducted April 21-25.

ACTIVITIES

Joan Maltz

Students Come and Go

As students arrived at Idaho they experienced both excitement and expectation. The first week of college life included . . . new and renewed friendships . . . panic in unfamiliar surroundings . . . homesickness . . . confusion . . . and friendly welcomes extended by the living groups. These and the quest for new experiences and freedoms constituted a new beginning for students at the U. of I.

Rush

Rush . . . Rush . . . Rush . . . Rush week was a time of Greeks meeting future Greeks, nervousness, invitations, skits and parties, more nervousness, late nights, meeting people and climactically—"Squeal Day."

Frosh Orientation

Frosh orientation—the first gathering of the class of 1972 . . . President Hartung's expression of University expectations and requirements . . . a brief "what to expect at registration" . . . and a Frosh welcome dance introduced the collegiate atmosphere.

Registration

Registration: a new experience for many and frustrating to most. Over 6,000 students, a record number, stood in lines talking to their counselors, filling out IBM cards, concentrating on schedules and having ID photos taken. Then there was the fast pace of buying books and being prepared for the next day of classes.

WSU Walk

The Idaho Vandals, after being defeated 7-14 by the Washington State Cougars at Albi Stadium in Spokane, made the traditional walk to the WSU campus. WSU President Ray Crabbes washed ASUI President Larry Craig's feet in the customary foot-washing ceremony. The Idahoans then returned to their home campus.

Co-ed Capers

Co-ed Capers was an entertaining culmination of dance practice and costume ingenuity. Participation of women's living groups, the chill night air, and good food made the evening a success. The dance competition was won by Delta Gamma.

Homecoming 1968

Homecoming started off with a noisy rally in the Memorial Gymnasium and the crowning of Sally Armstrong, 1968 Homecoming queen. The theme of the hectic—"Grizzlies Caged in a Vandal Zoo" highlighted decorated houses, a parade featuring bands from throughout the state and floats from living groups on campus.

The Vandals "turned on" the Idaho crowd with a victory over Montana State, 54-45. The remainder of the weekend was filled with open house, a Harper's Bizarre concert, and the Homecoming Dance featuring The Scrapbook and a Jellystone Park light show.

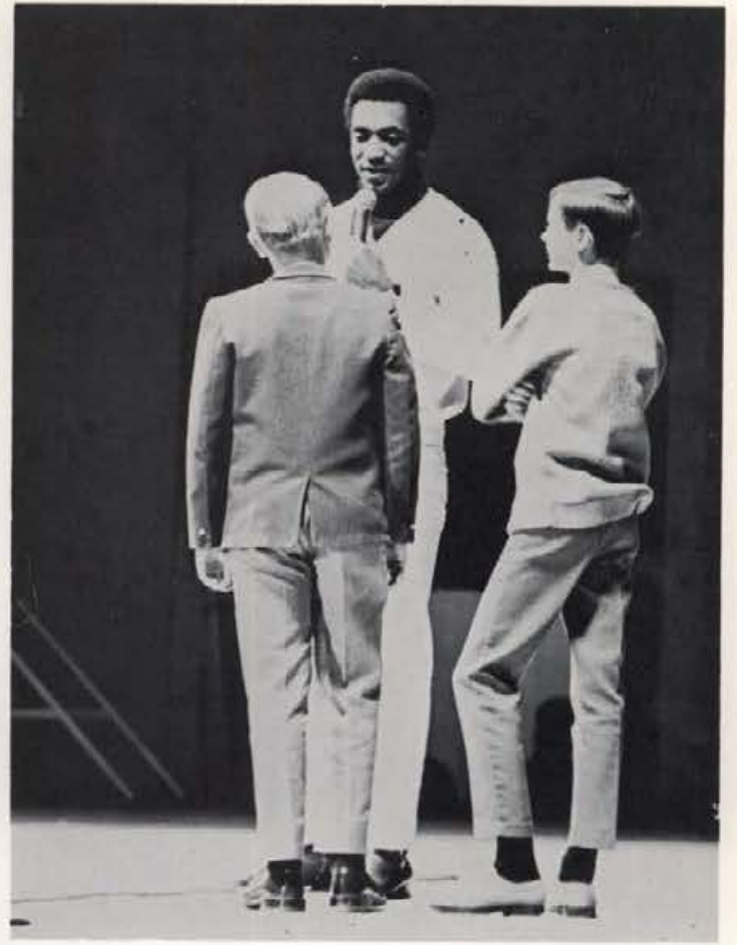

Homecoming

Dad's Day 1968 started off with the traditional freshmen Turkey Trot from Neale Stadium to the Ad lawn. Awards were made to Phi Gamma Delta for the best house decorations. The afternoon was highlighted by a victory over Weber, 50-42, and the announcement that Warren Shepherd of Plummer was chosen Dad of the Year. During halftime the marching band and Vandalettes performed a field show using themes from Camelot. Each living group had open house and there was a SUB buffet. In the evening Bill Cosby and the Pair Extraordinaire performed followed by a dance in the ballroom. Shirley and the Dream Factory provided the music.

Fall Dances

Fall Dances

Campus Scene

Holly Week

Holly Week brought caroling, parties, dances and thoughts of Christmas cheer to the U of I. Sophomores, sponsors of the season's activities, caroled at the different living groups, judged house decorations, and selected Holly Queen candidates. The week of yule festivities was climaxed by the dance "Sock it to 'em, Santa." Frances Tovey, Gamma Phi Beta, was crowned Queen and Sigma Chi fraternity was awarded first place in house decorations.

Navy Ball

Naval ROTC in uniforms, girls in long formals, dancing, and regality—the Navy Ball “Blue Pacific.” Highlighting the evening was the crowning of Marilyn Dalby as the new Navy Color Girl. Excitement, joy, a few tears, the coronation, and the last dance ending a wonderful evening.

Forester's Ball

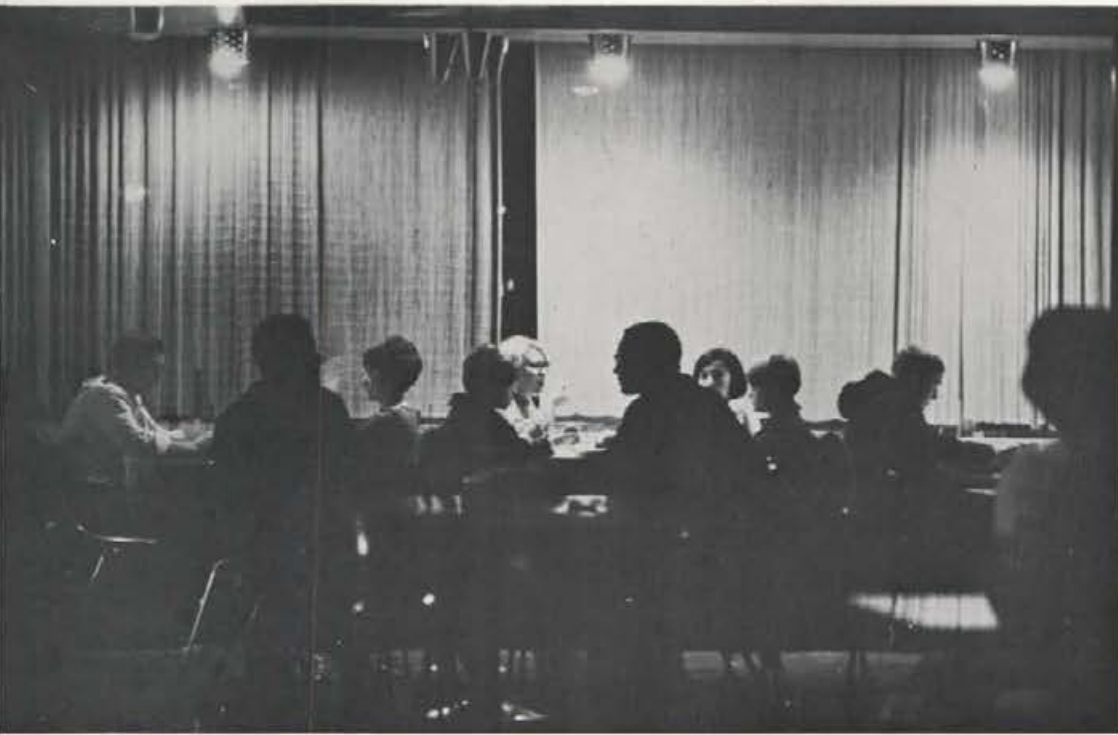

Block and Bridle Activity

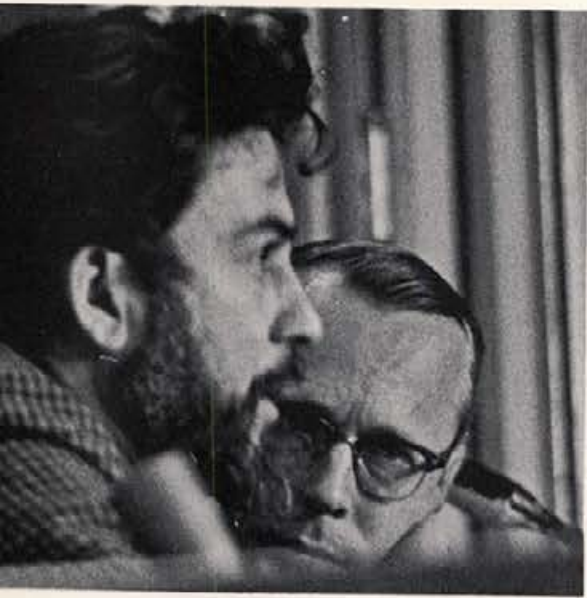

SUB

The Sub is the scene for studying, conversation, eating, nonsense and enjoyment for students. The stereo lounge, eating facilities, game room, work areas, and conference rooms have much daily use while the Dipper and Ballroom are sites of weekend activity. Communications are also centered here with the KUOI office, Argonaut and Gem staff rooms, and the Public Relations service.

SYM

POSIUM

Campus Elections

Political conventions — nominations — campaign speeches — acceptance speeches — smokers — campaign promises — visitations to living groups — voting — swearing in and the winners' party — GOVERNMENT BY THE PEOPLE! Students at the University of Idaho gain experience in politics by actively participating — as ASUI officers — E-Board members — Class officers — officers of AWS — and as VOTERS.

Mock UN

The annual Model United Nations was held in the SUB with a record number of living groups participating. Active participation in demonstrations and chants added to the debate on the issues at hand. Red China was admitted with the expulsion of Nationalist China. Resolutions were passed condemning France for their aid to the Biafrans in Nigeria, censoring Israel for the six-day war and demanding return of the land, and censoring Russia for the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Big Name Entertainment

The University of Idaho student body was entertained royally during the 1968-1969 school year. Entertainers included the Harpers' Bizarre, Bill Cosby and the Pair Extraordinaire, Don Shirley Trio, Oscar Peterson and the Grassroots, and the New Christy Minstrels.

Public Events
and
Symphonic Orchestras

Attempting to inform Idaho students and to bring culture to the campus, the Public Events committee scheduled many events. Dr. Harry Gideonese spoke on "Student Activists and Faculty Irrelevance," Joseph P. Lyford discussed "Our Most Dangerous Entertainment," and Dr. Harlan Hatcher covered the question "Have We Lost Control of Our Cities?" The Utah Symphony Orchestra conducted by Maurice Abravanel favored Idaho with a performance as did the Whit-Lo Singers from Pullman and the San Francisco Ballet.

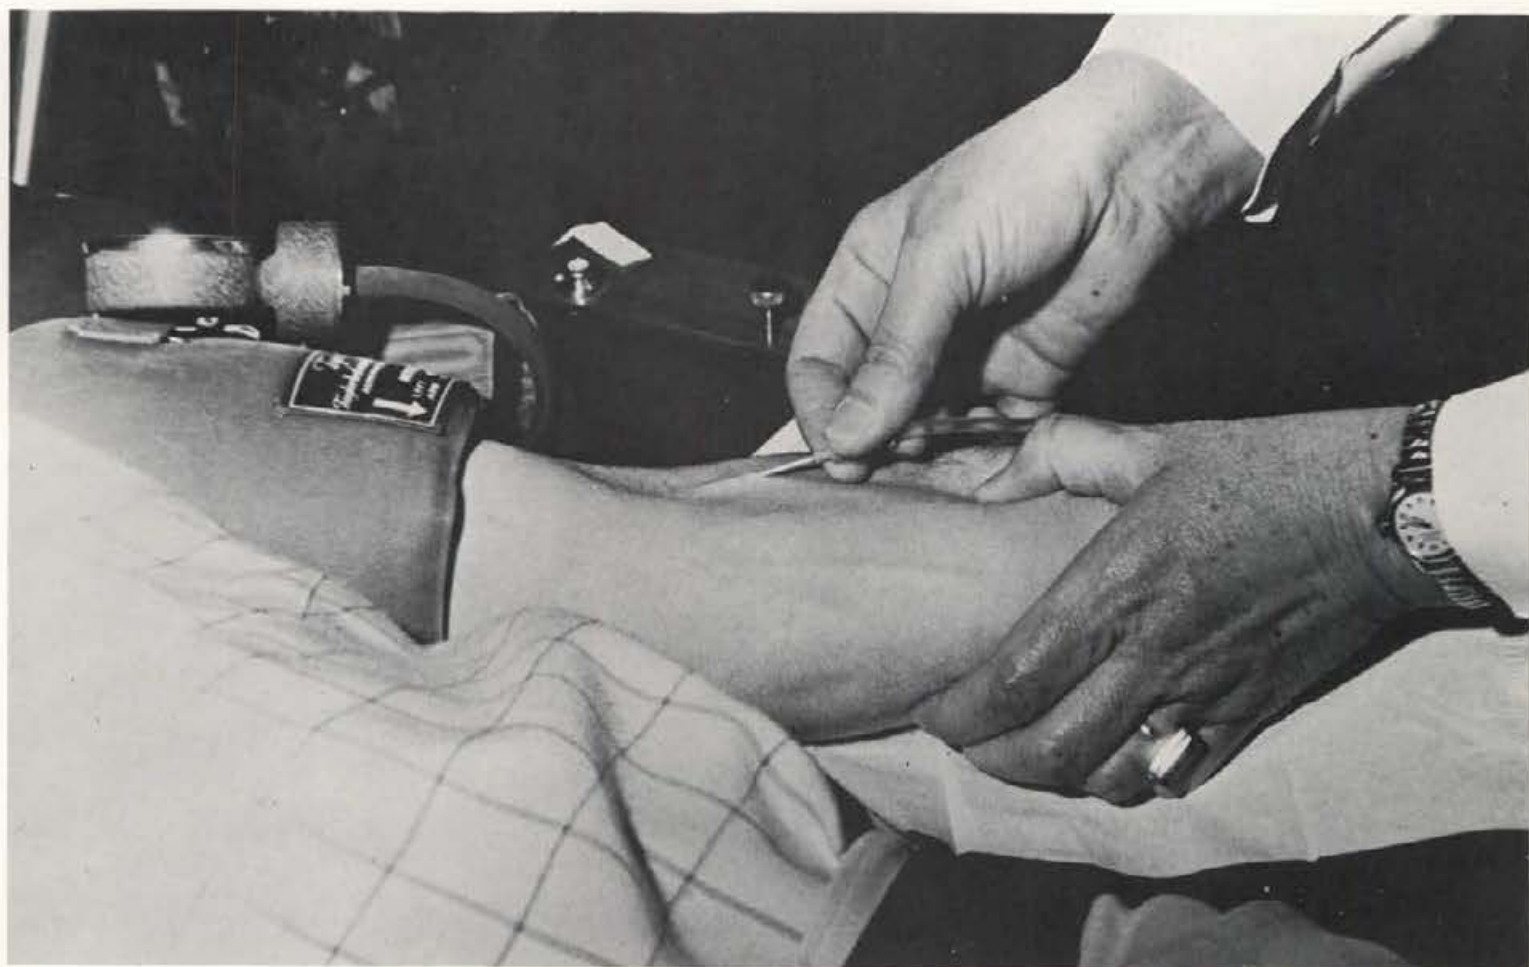

Frosh Week

Frosh Week Activities in April showed a united class of 1972. Activities included a pie eating contest, Miss Legs contest, and a tug-of-war between the classes of 1971 and 1972. The class of '72 proved victorious. The King and Queen dance ended the week of festivities with the crowning of Jack Goddard and Marsha Martin.

Blood Drive

The annual blood drive sponsored by the junior class totaled 851 donated pints. Living group competition was won by the Pi Kaps and Pi Phis.

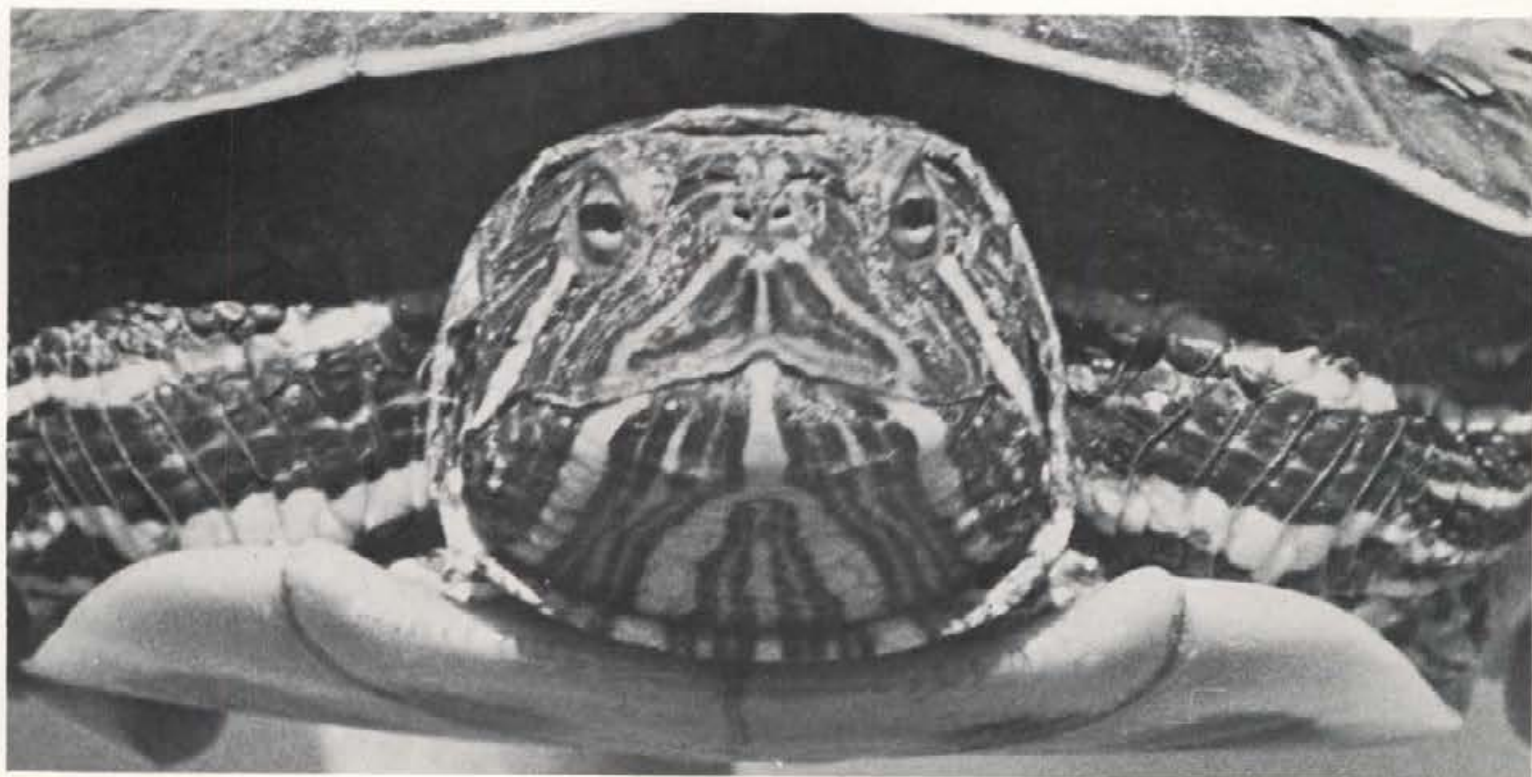

Campus Chest

Living groups worked hard to collect money for their Ugly Man and Miss Campus Chest. Several groups presented dances with a trophy going to the dancers receiving the most votes—votes determined by contributions. John Durhan was crowned Ugly Man and Diana Aguirre, Miss Campus Chest. All money was given to charity.

Turtle Derby

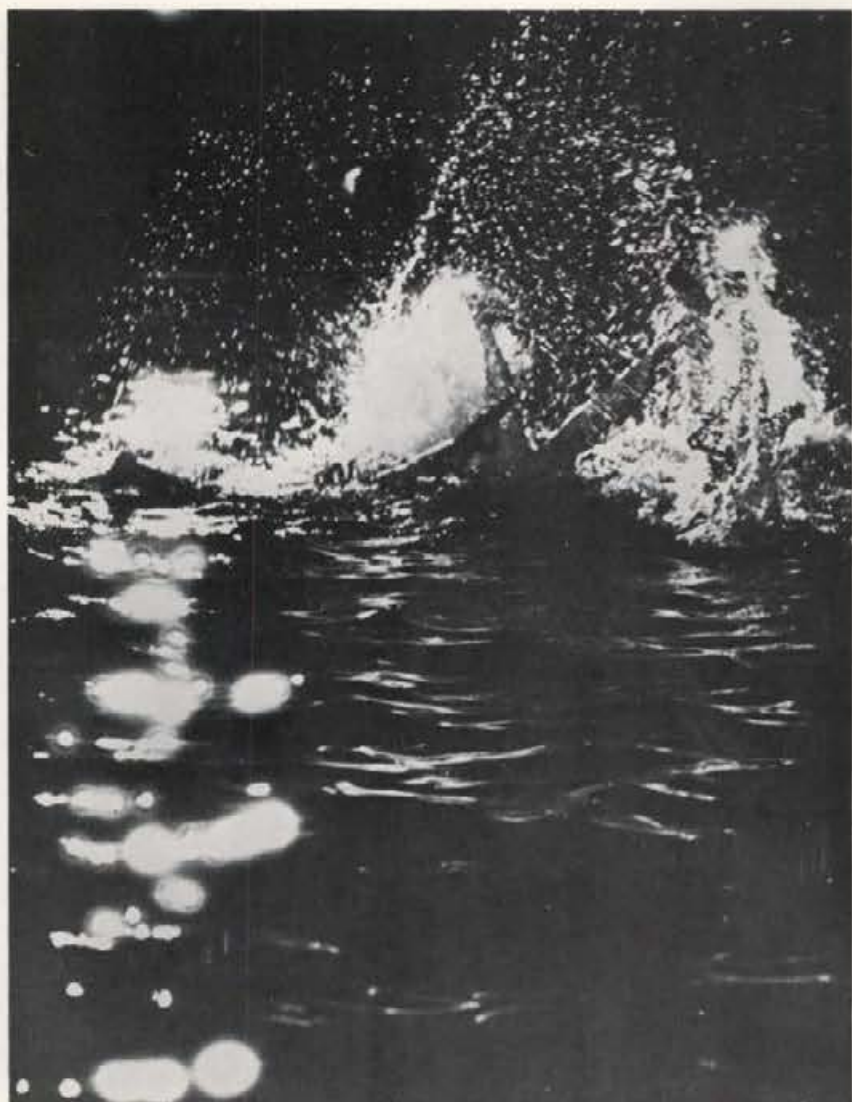

Top honors at the Phi Delt turtle derby went to the Tri-Delt's Sweet Pea who also beat the hare. Kappa Kappa Gamma was awarded the "most money bet" trophy for the sixth consecutive year. Olesen had the best cheering section and the Hays' turtle was "Best Decorated." A total of $465 was donated and was presented to the Moscow Opportunity School. The Go-Go contest was won by Paula Mayer and Marilyn Olmstead from Carter Hall.

Emphasis Education

The purpose of Emphasis Education was to take an exploratory look at the University of Idaho. Some of the facets covered by speakers and in open discussions were the parental role, living groups' functions in education, counseling services, minority group problems, student-faculty relations, and progressive education support at all levels.

Many different types of groups make up the University instrumental groups. The Concert Band, directed by Mr. Robert Spevachek, gives a winter and spring concert. The Orchestra gives concerts conducted by Mr. LeRoy Bauer. This group accompanied "Bartered Bride" on Mother's Weekend. The Wind Ensemble is under the direction of Mr. David Seiler and tours Northern Idaho and performs a fall concert, spring concert and at Commencement. The Jazz Lab Band, under Mr. Seiler, featured Bub Brisbois, Henry Mancini's lead trumpet and sponsored Jazz Festival involving 15 bands competing from four states.

University Music Groups

The University of Idaho has a very complete music department. The Marching Band is a combination wind ensemble and concert band and other interested persons, lead by Mr. Spevachek. It gave shows Dad's Day, Homecoming, in Boise and Spokane. The Pep Band under the direction of student Tom White performs for basketball and baseball games. Vocal groups include: Vandaleers Concert Choir, conducted by Mr. Glen Lockery, toured southern Idaho; University Singers, directed by Mr. Norman Logan is for any interested person. The Opera Workshop, under Mr. Charles Walton, presented "The Bartered Bride" for the Mother's Day weekend.

University Music Groups

University Pace

The Blue Key Honorary once again "put together" a varied talent show. The variety of talents included dancing groups, singing groups, soloists, pianists, guitarists, instrumentalists, and readings. The audience had an enjoyable evening—glad that they did not have to decide the winners.

Blue Key Talent Show

Miss U of I Pageant

The 1969 Miss U of I Pageant was climaxed by an evening of swimsuits, formals, talent and excitement as the eight contestants vied for the title. Miss Kathy Jo Jacobs, Alpha Chi Omega, was crowned as the new Miss U of I.

Pansy Breakfast

The Tri Delta sorority honored senior women at a tea on May 11, 1969, at 9 a.m. Future brides entered through a ring of pansies, and then the over 200 people attending enjoyed the traditional bridal style show. Marilee Sacket and Jim Willms as Bride and Groom ushered in the style show. The $300 Tri Delta scholarship was presented by Dr. Walter Steffens to Phyllis Unzicker, Alpha Phi. Special entertainment was provided by Leslie Leek.

ABM Forum

A forum presenting and discussing pros and cons of the antiballistic missile was held at the U of I during the spring. The afternoon session on the Ad lawn featured speeches by the Deputy Undersecretary of the Army and several professors from our nation's universities, followed by a panel discussion. The evening program opened with a security council member, U.S. representative, and Argonne physicist speaking. Then a panel composed of the day's speakers answered questions asked of them by several state newsmen.

Mother's Day Weekend

Many mothers arrived in Moscow the last weekend in April to be entertained by their sons and daughters. The mothers were rushed from activity to activity. Mothers cheered turtles on to victory at the Phi Delts' annual Turtle Derby. Special performances were given by Orchesis and Helldivers. The Opera presented "The Bartered Bride."

The Awards Festival featured presentation of Spurs, IK's, Outstanding Seniors, Mortar Board, Silver Lance, grade achievement awards and Spur Songfest. Larry Craig received the Theophilus outstanding Senior Award. After a busy weekend, Mothers headed home to rest.

The Drama department again went on a tour with the plays, "Leaves of Grass" and "The Taming of the Shrew." These showed much hard work which proved very worthwhile from the audience response. The play "Beauty and the Beast," although presented mainly to children, was one of the main productions on campus during the year. The costumes and props were very elaborate with the whigs made by Mr. Chavez, costumes by drama students and Mr. Chavez, and props under the direction of Mr. Thompson. It was a busy and successful year for the U of I Drama Department.

Plays

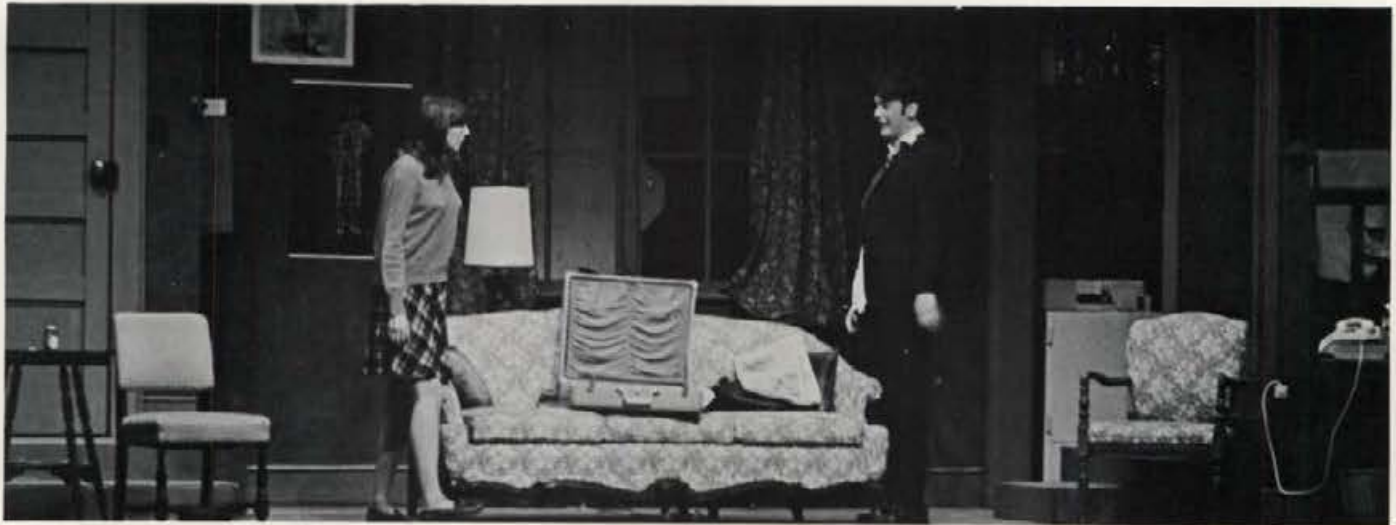

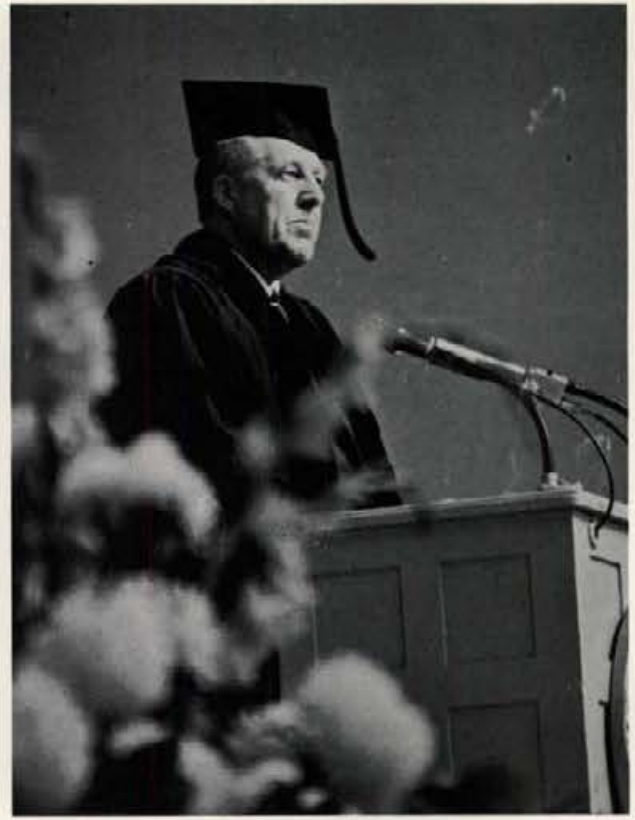

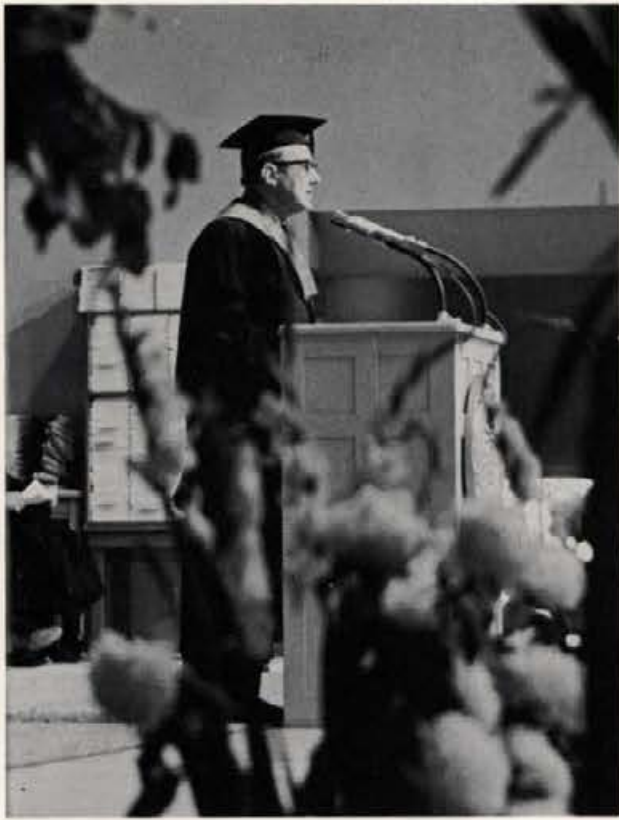

The Drama department worked hard during the year to present many plays under the direction of such people as Edmund Chavez, head of the Drama Department; Forrest Sears, Mr. Thompson, and John Naples. Many beautiful costumes made the play presented by the children's Theatre, "Beauty and the Beast," very colorful. It showed much work done by the drama staff and students. The "Bartered Bride" showed unity between the Drama and Music departments. "Hedda Gabler" was a stirring play presented in the fall and "Barefoot in the Park" ushered in the spring feeling.

LARRY CRAIG
ASUI President

ASUI of the University of Idaho is that organization on campus of which every student becomes a member by virtue of his or her enrollment at Idaho. This organization through the years has assumed the role of providing the students with the programs they mostly desired.

Because of a community setting ASUI now involves itself in a large body of recreational, educational, and social activities which other student bodies do not provide.

Executive Board, Student President, and Vice-president serve as elected officials of ASUI and are held responsible for determining policy which will best affect the student and his surroundings.

With the growing demands for student involvement and participation in the academic community, your student government has worked towards a decentralized structure which allows a greater number of students to become involved.

Now with the coming of Community Council Government to our campus, students have an even greater opportunity to participate in policy making that affects a large part of the total University.

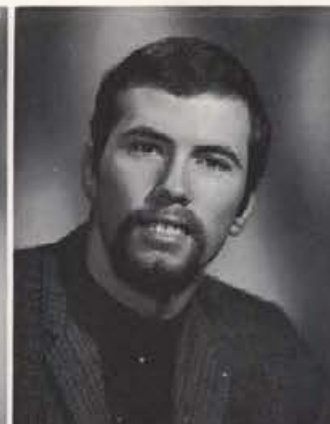

Having been given the opportunity to serve as your Student President, I have come to realize the importance of ASUI. It has in the past and I hope will continue in the future to provide the Idaho Student with a real avenue of approach to making the University of Idaho an increasingly better place to obtain one's education.

For beginners in the publishing business, it's been a long hard year, but it has been most rewarding to become acquainted and work with the Gem staff and the University. The 1969 Gem is a cooperative effort between Editors, Section Editors, Photographers, and Staff. Each person must shoulder his share of the responsibility and complete his work in order to make the book a success. The Gem staff hopes the students will appreciate the many long hours of work that went into this Gem. Many new ideas have been used in an attempt to create an exciting and memorable book.

Vandal Football

Ten broken records, the most amazing of which was "yards gained passing—329" out of a total of 509 yards, proclaimed that the changes rumored and seen in the Vandal team were not simply superficial. Though crippled by mistakes which ended at least three drives deep in M.S.U. territory, the Vandals blazing offensive indicated to all contenders that the exciting brand of football promised by Y. C. McNease was a reality. The aerial duo of split end Jerry Hendren and sophomore quarterback Steve Olson was the offensive core with Hendren setting a single game record of 185 yards gained receiving and Olson setting a game mark of 23 passes completed; but the ground attack was potent too as backs Rob Young and Jim Pearsall helped to pile up 227 yards rushing. Exciting the team certainly was; however it was "so keyed up" as Coach McNease later said that "... they made too many silly mistakes at critical times."

A hard fought game in packed Albi Stadium, Spokane handed the team their second defeat of the season as the Vandal offense couldn't move the ball against the Cougars. Steve Olson shared leadership with sophomore quarterback Mitch Lansdell, the former being sidelined for a good part of the game by Y. C. McNease.

Smashing a total of 14 Idaho and 12 Big Sky records enroute, the Vandals steamrolled their southern cousins to gain their eighth straight intrastate victory and first win of the season. The passing attack again proved powerful with a new record of 371 yards gained aerially.

In their second win of the season the Vandal team almost duplicated scores with their game the week before at Pocatello. With the game stalemated in the third quarter at 14-14, Coach McNease changed tactics by putting the ball on the ground where the running backs quickly rolled up impressive yardage.

When the other team has 45 points Idaho alumni and fans are accustomed to seeing the Vandals lose; thus it was with overwhelming elation that most spectators sat, drenched, and watched the team win by eleven points. As Y. C. McNease explained the night before the game "You . . . at Idaho want a winning football team and an exciting football team and you are going to get it!"

Although Jerry Hendren caused coach McNease to proclaim him "the best receiver I've seen in college ball," and Steve Olson threw 45 for 21 completions, a string of penalties that had Idaho punting for three times in a row from the Oregon 27 and called back one touchdown for clipping kept the team scoreless until the final quarter.

There were no four leaf clovers popping out of the "Astro turf" for the Vandals as they played the Washington Huskies in Seattle. The less than first rate passing of an injured Steve Olson and the strong pass rush and pass defense of the Huskies combined to hold Idaho's air attack to a minimum and total yards gained to a low 209. A punt blocked by Bob Juba and caught by Brock Jackley on the Washington 11 resulted in the single Idaho score. The rest of the game was characterized by a stalled Vandal offense which allowed eight interceptions by the Huskies. Jerry Hendren, at the time the nation's second leading receiver, caught only two passes.

At half time and a score of 29-2 it appeared that the Vandals had thoroughly routed the Wildcats. Dozens of fans filed out of the stadium to await the final score dry and comfortable at home. Quite different notions, however, were entertained by the Weber State team which in a blazing late game rally scored 40 points in a passing spree which paled the Vandals first half efforts by comparison. Although the Idaho defense had fallen apart in the second half, the offense with performances from Jeff Guillory who gained 130 yards in 22 runs and Jerry Hendren who broke a season record for pass receptions managed to keep the Vandals ahead in what must be called the wildest win of the season.

"Do you know the way to San Jose?" may not be the question that Coach McNease put to the Vandals but he certainly got the answer to it. The Idaho players charged after the Spartan team for one of the greatest come-from-behind wins in Vandal history. Scoreless in the first half, the offense, led again by Olson and Hendren cracked the San Jose pass blitz and flew on to score 35 points, 21 in the last quarter. The reversal of roles from the week before also seemed to reverse the trends of Idaho teams in the past which have run out of gas in the final period as Y. C. McNease said.

In the culmination of record breaking, Jerry Hendren set a new single game record for pass receiving with 238 yards gained and Kenny Dotson scored his first touchdown on a pass interception which tied an Idaho season record of 9 interceptions.

A weary Idaho football team went to the lockers for the last time in 1968 after what seemed in retrospect an almost fated repeat of the debacle of a year before. For the first 20 minutes it seemed as if the Vandals would be able to play a real ball game against Houston as the defense put up a stiff battle keeping the score to a realistic 7-3. However, with the loss of All-American fullback Paul Gipson with a broken nose the Cougars decided to try the aerial game. The 35 points they scored before the half was no small token of the Idaho defensive secondary's inability to catch Elmo Wright. After the half the route ensued although the Vandal defense put up a late stand to hold Houston to one touchdown in the final quarter. Discouraging as it was to fans and team alike, the loss was taken more lightly by Coach McNease who said "They were a good club. No, a great club tonight. I can't get upset about the loss to such a fine club."

Swimming

The Vandal swim team started a tough dual meet schedule in December of 1968 with a meet against WSU. The Cougars had little difficulty dominating the meet as they swept every event. On January 10, 1969 the Vandals traveled over the great divide and engaged in a pair of dual meets on that weekend. The Vandal's times were coming down but their Washington adversaries, University of Puget Sound and Pacific Lutheran University were off and rolling on another great season. Bob Bonzer, Marc Greenwell, Dan Kirkland, and Jim Dean all turned in good times and were all double winners even though suffering losses in the meets. The following week the Vandals returned home and picked up a win, their first of the season. It was against Eastern Washington and Bob Bonzer, Jim Dean, Marc Greenwell, Dan Kirkland, and Terry Thiessen all scored double wins. The Vandals got a lift from this victory and it carried them through for wins in eight of the last nine dual meets. The dual meet season ended nine and four. After a serious bout with influenza and some hard preparation the Vandals journeyed to Missoula for the Big Sky championships. The Vandals finished fourth in the Conference and much below what they felt they were capable of doing. Outstanding swimmers in conference were Marc Greenwell, Jim Dean, Dan Kirkland, and Dick Curtis. At a team meeting after the season Dick Curtis, graduating co-captain was voted most inspirational swimmer and Terry Thiessen and Dan Kirkland were elected co-captains for next season.

Acknowledgment Page

From the editor's desk comes a special thank you to many indispensable people.

It has been a pleasure for me to work closely with many people and for the University. The staff has been enthusiastic and has worked hard to complete this book. We appreciate the opportunity to record your college life in your Gem.

Many students do not realize the enormous amount of work that goes into a yearbook—the search for staff, new ideas, scheduling, rescheduling, writing copy, drawing layouts, lost pictures, lost copy, typing, proofreading, indexing, taking and developing pictures, special effects, and endless phone calls. It takes cooperation, hard work, a sense of humor and most important a “Gem spirit.” Many people have made it possible to complete the 1969 Gem and to these people my sincere thanks.

Jo, 1968 editor—for getting us started.

Ed and Steve, Photographers—for their creativity, long hours of photographing and sleepless nights of developing. A special thanks for their work on the Cover, Introduction and Ending Sections, and for remaining after school was over to finish developing.

Jo, for stepping in as Co-editor. Your help and advice were greatly appreciated.

Section Editors—Susan, Connie, Jo, Sue, Steve, and Carol.

Dean Vettrus, SUB General Manager—for his patience, encouragement, and help.

The ASUI office staff.

Mr. Kim from Rudy's, Mr. Priest from Shamrock's and Thonneys.

All those groups and organizations who rescheduled pictures.

Dick Starkey, Eric Korte, Robert Bauer—for photographs.

Those friends, roommates, and living groups who put up with those trying moments and one special guy who was very understanding.

Best of luck to 1970 editors, Steve and Ed.
