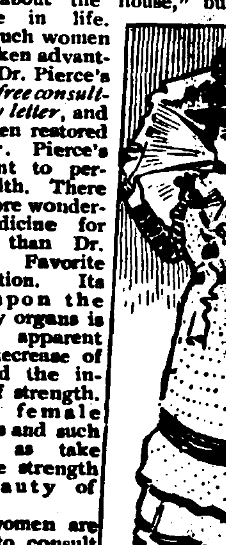
—Capt. B. H. Cheever of the Sixth U. S. cavalry was in Lewiston examining and gathering horses for the government in the Philippines. Geo. Flinn was down Saturday with several animals. The government is not accepting only the best horses for cavalary purposes and out of thirty-six inspected that day eight were accepted.

—Last Friday J. L. Rice's little girl was chased by a cougar while she was delivering some milk to workmen on the White Cross mine. She was riding a pony and soon after she left the mine for home while passing through some timber and brush the pony took fright and started off on a lively gait, and looking back she noticed a cougar following here. The animal kept up the chase for half a mile when it disappeared in the brush.—Mirror.

—Father Joseph Joset, the famous Indian missionary, died at De Smet Mission, not far from here, on the 20th, among the sorrowing Cœur d'Alene Indians, whose spiritual guide he had been for the past fifty years. He was the last of the noble band of Jesuit missionaries of which Father De Smet was the leader, which had come from distant Europe as early as 1840, and had taken up its abode among the Flathead and Pend d'Oreille tribes.

In The Summer

Of life a woman may find herself fading and failing. She doesn't understand it. She goes to doctors, who treat her for this or for that, but she gets no better. She grows frail and pale. She can just "drag about the house," but has no pleasure in life.



Many such women have taken advantage of Dr. Pierce's offer of free consultation by letter, and have been restored by Dr. Pierce's treatment to perfect health. There is no more wonderful medicine for women than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Its action upon the womanly organs is at once apparent in the decrease of pain and the increase of strength. It cures female weakness and such diseases as take away the strength and beauty of women.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Before I commenced to use your medicine I was in a bad condition (for eight years) and four doctors treated me," writes Mrs. Bettie Askew, of Garysburg, Northampton Co., N. C. "They, of course, gave me at the time some relief, but it did not last long. I was some days in my bed and some days I dragged about the house. I have used five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and five of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of the 'Pellets.' Now I feel like a new woman, and I want the world to know it."

The action of the "Favorite Prescription" is assisted by the use of "Pleasant Pellets" when the bowels are irregular.

THE 4th of-July orator has reeled off his little speech. It was an easy matter to soar this year, particularly for those who believe in expansion protection and upholding the laws of the country. In this free country one man is as good as another as long as he obeys the laws. The children of the poor as well as the rich, under our free school system have made it possible to obtain an education which coupled with industry, perseverence and sobriety, will secure for them any position of honor or trust within the gift of the American people. What an incentive to the youth, the young men of America, to strive for a high position in a nation whose flag guarantees protection to all its loyal subjects the world over. Who would not be an American citizen and glory in the name, and join in voice and gladsome song on this occasion, the anniversary of our independence.

It Saved His Leg.

P. A. Danforth of LaGrange, Ga., suffered for six months with a frightful running sore an his leg; but writes that Bucklen's Arnica Salve wholly cured it in five days. For ulcers, wounds, piles, it's the best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c. Sold at Kennedy'y drug store.

Starvation never yet cured dyspepsia. Persons with indigestion are already half starved. They need plenty of wholesome food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat so the body can be nourished while the worn out organs are being reconstructed. It is the only preparation known that will instantly relieve and completely cure all stomach troubles. Try it if you are suffering from indigestion. It will certainly do you good.

White Man Turned Yellow.

Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. A. Hogarty of Lexington, Ky., when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed coloo, also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. His malady was yellow jaundice. He was treated by the best doctors, but without benefit. Then he was advised to try Electric Bitters, the wonderful stomach and liver remedy, and he writes: "After taking two bottles I was wholly cured." A trial proves its matchless merit for all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Only 50c. Sold at Kennedy's.

The Best Remedy for Stomach and Bowel Troubles.

"I have been in the drug business for twenty years and have sold most all of the proprietary medicines of any note. Among the entire list I have never found anything to equal Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles," says O. W. Wakefield, of Columbus, Ga. "This remedy cured two severe cases of cholera morbus in my family and I have recommended and sold hundreds of bottles of it to my customers to their entire satisfaction. It affords a quick and sure cure in a pleasant form." Sold by all druggists.

Unless food is digested quickly it will ferment and irritate the stomach. After each meal take a teaspoonful of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and will allow you to eat all you need of what you like. It never fails to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia. It is pleasant to take.

BEFORE the nomination of Mr. Stevenson was made unanimously by the "band-wagon" vote the standing of the principal candidates was as follows: Stevenson 559½, Hill 200, Towne 89½. Silver republicans and populists were knocked down at every turn. Mr. Stevenson is a respectable man, filled the office of vice-president under Cleveland with dignity, and during the silver fight was as silent as an oyster. Being on friendly terms with all factions of the democratic party he should prove of considerable assistance to Col. Bryan. He is sixty-five years of age.

BARTLETT SINCLAIR a republican once more! This does settle it. He is Idaho's present state auditor and was elected by the fusionists by a majority of 4,500. Sinclair had charge of the suppression of the riot in the Cœur d'Alenes and says no republican took part in the assassinations and violence. "The republican party is the party of law and order in Idaho and everywhere else and I have decided to support the McKinley administration and our state republican ticket," says Mr. Sinclair, and "the democrats in congress unanimously condemned us for trying to sustain the law against the assaults of the dynamiters and anarchists." The silver question is dead, says Bartlett. Kill the calf—the prodical has returned.

THE two state conventions hold forth next week—fusionists at Pocatello and republicans at Boise—17th. According to the democratic Boise Capital the republican aspirants are very numerous. It says Morrison, Heyburn and Sweet have longings for Senator Shoup's place; that McConnell will bob up serenely at Boise and shy his castor into the ring for the congressional nomination; Huston and Stewart will lock horns over the judgeship; Bishop Budge wants to be an elector; Editors Iffs and Wallis will "come together" on the lieutenant-governorship; Stanrod and Parsons will clash over the governorship along with Ramsay; Borah's friends would like to honor him with the highest office within the gift of our people; Mr. Bagley is also being groomed for the judgeship. Rees Davis wants to see Morrison capture the congressional plum. North Idaho is not considered in this array unless we lay claim to McConnell. The tripartite party has troubles of its own. The first thing to be settled is whether Steunenberg will rule the roost; if not, then Dubois wants attention; Joseph Hutchinson would like to step in front of "Honest John" Hailey and secure the gubernatorial toga; Morris of Lewiston will be urged for the governorship; Wilson will loom up if the division comes right; Sinclair wants something; and of course the populists must be reconed with. Well, we'll tell you all about it in the next NEWS.

SINCE the Kansas City convention "took a fall out of Towne" he may well wonder, if his boom was so soon to be done for, what was it ever begun for.

CAPT. J. M. Walker, of Kendrick, a prominent citizen, died Friday and was buried Sunday at Moscow. Mr. Walker came to Idaho in 1891, was frequently mentioned for governor of this state by his democratic friends, and was generally held in high esteem. The deceased leaves three children—Ramsey Walker, of Kendrick; Mrs. J. R. Hall, of Moscow, and Mrs. J. M. Pearce, of Lenore. He will be sadly missed by his many friends.

THE Bryan county convention held at Moscow Tuesday was well attended and very harmonious, those getting left taking their medicine without a whimper. After organization was effected everything passed off like clock work, nearly all the nominations being made by acclamation. It was a regular love feast, Genesee delegates say. Here is the ticket put up:

For sheriff—Mike Driscoll.

For assessor—Mr. Bellvale.

For school superintendent—Miss Plummer.

For probate judge—Tom Griffin.

For prosecuting attorney—Geo. W. Coutts.

For county surveyor—D. W. Hannah.

For coroner—Dr. P. S. Beck.

For commissioner this district—Mr. Beardsley of Moscow.

For state senator—Frank Moore.

For representatives—John Ogden, Wm. Hunter, H. H. Bangs, Andrew Crawford, Mr. Sorsdall.

The offices were well distributed around the county and for that reason the ticket is considered a strong one by the delegates. Genesee captured the best office—sheriff—and the coroner, the two winners being popular men and will poll the full party vote. Frank Moore for senator will prove a strong vote getter. When the names of Bangs and Coutts are mentioned a smile or something of that sort creeps over the face of the average citizen. Mr. Hannah will make the dust fly when the time comes for corraling the votes. A pretty clean set of men as far as we know. Will tell you more about them as the campaign advances. The title of the ticket will be "The Bryan Direct Legislation Ticket," and the platform adopted favors direct legislation, advocates the free and unlimited coinage of silver, denounces imperialism and trusts. The plan is to have each party meet later and separately nominate the ticket named above, if the plan of the fusion in the state provides for placing three tickets on the ballot. We fear in this case the silver republicans would appear in a sorry plight, as we are told there are only three in the county.

HERE is the latest guess on how the electorial vote will stand next fall, gotten up by the New York Commercial-Advertiser which concludes that McKinley goes into the campaign with strong odds against Bryan. It claims for the republican ticket the assured support of states having 206 electoral votes, or 18 short of a majority. States given to McKinley:

California	9	North Dakota	3
Connecticut	6	Ohio	23
Illinois	24	Oregon	4
Iowa	13	Pennsylvania	32
Maine	6	Rhode Island	4
Massachusetts	15	South Dakota	4
Michigan	14	Vermont	4
Minnesota	9	Washington	4
New Jersey	10	West Virginia	6
New Hampshire	4	Wisconsin	12
Total			206

The states given to Bryan are:

Alabama	11	Montana	3
Arkansas	8	Nebraska	8
Colorado	4	North Carolina	11
Florida	4	South Carolina	9
Georgia	13	Tennessee	12
Louisana	8	Texas	15
Mississippi	9	Virginia	12
Missouri	17
Total			144

The doubtful states which are likely to go for McKinley:

Delaware	3	Kansas	10
Indiana	15	New York	36
Total			64

The doubtful states which are likely to go for Bryan:

Idaho	3	Nevada	3
Kentucky	13	Utah	3
Maryland	8	Wyoming	3
Total			33

On this calculation McKinley and Roosevelt could lose New York and yet win. Indiana from the doubtful list would save the republicans. Or, lose both New York and Indiana with Nevada, Utah and Wyoming, McKinley could win with Kansas and Idaho or with Kansas and Delaware. With the above tables the republicans could win with Kentucky, Maryland, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Delaware and Kansas and lose the three big states of Illinois, Indiana and New York. Thus it will be seen that McKinley and Roosevelt's chances of election are much brighter than their opponents, Bryan and Stevenson.

BRYAN AND STEVENSON is the democratic team! It suits the republicans. They believe they can elect McKinley and Roosevelt in a canter. Had Hill been nominated the democrats would have worried their opponents considerably. The silver issue will not cut much of a figure in this campaign. The so-called issue of "imperialism" is given the leading place in the platform, and expressly declared to be the paramount issue. Then "militarism," trusts, and put money fourth. The platform is inconsistent on the Monroe doctrine. It says, "We insist on the strict maintainance of the Monroe doctrine in all its integrity, in letter and spirit, "but later the platform voices meddlesome inteference between Great Britain and the Boers, in open disregard of the Monroe doctrine. Has a strong plank against trusts, but says nothing of Croker's ice trust. The Dingley tariff bill and the currency bill enacted at the last session of congress are denounced. The Porto Rican law enacted by congress and the policy of the administration in Cuba and the Philippines, and the shipping subsidy bill are condemned. "We earnestly protest against the republican departure which has involved us in so-called world politics, including the diplomacy of Europe in intrigue and the land grabbing of Asia, and we condemn the ill-concealed republican alliance with England, which must mean discrimination against other friendly nations and which has already stifled the nation's voice, while liberty is being strangled in Africa." The poor Chinaman was forgotten. Four years ago the silver issue was a hot number—give us silver or give us death; mankind was to be crucified under a crown of thorns upon a cross of gold. But now the sovereignty of the United States must be withdrawn from the Philippines and from Porto Rico, or Liberty is dead! On with the fight.

GOV. ROOSEVELT, be it said, has made no sacrifice of principle, says Review of Reviews. Through all his public life he has shown himself willing to do hard work steadfastly in positions where no one could accuse him of seeking anything else except the service of his country through his party. It is exactly in that spirit he yielded his own preferences at Philadelphia to what finally came to him as a unanimous party demand. We do not believe the sacrifice ought to have been demanded; but doing what he believes to be his duty has become a fixed habit with Theodore Roosevelt. His friends will not for a moment attribute to him any reason for changing his decision at Philadelphia other than his belief that it was his duty. The party to which he now shows such loyalty will have a strong sense of allegience to him. He will be 46 years old in 1904. If one must indulge in predictions, it is far safer to prophesy that he has 35 or 40 years of active and valuable public life yet before him than to assume that the vice-presidency would necessarily end his political career. Four years of constant observation and study of national affairs from the safe vantage-point of the chair of the presiding officer of the senate, added to Governor Roosevelt's existing qualifications as an executive officer, would make him unquestionably the best equipped man for the real work of the presidency that the party could bring forward four years hence. Let his admirers, therefore, take the view that they have now the opportunity to transfer him from the sphere of New York state politics, and from work of intense activity, to a place that affords the best conceivable chance for the deliberate study of every question of national importance, and of every phase of life and work of the Federal Government.

A Review From the States of Washington, Idaho, Montana and Oregon—News of the Past Week Boiled Down.

MONTANA.

Walter Foods of Butte had all the fingers of his right hand blown off by a firecracker.

The Fourth of July was celebrated in various and sundry ways in Philipsburg this year.

Fred Gehring, an old timer who has lived 30 years on Silver creek, was kicked to death by a horse last week. He was 60 years old.

Helena celebrated the Fourth quietly, little going on besides the Great Falls-Helena ball game and a celebration at Central Park.

There is a well-defined rumor current that the Montana Central railway has in contemplation the removal of its car repair shops from Great Falls to Helena or Clancy.

"Ben King, reported to be a member of a prominent Montana family, in a room over a Nome saloon on Snake river, June 16, ended his life with a bullet from a 38-calibre revolver.

Missoula has seldom passed a quieter Independence day than the Fourth. Aside from a baseball game between the Butte second nine and Missoula, there was little public entertainment.

The celebration of the Fourth at Deer Lodge was carried out in proper form. The day was all that could be desired as to weather except a chilly shower at 5 o'clock in the afternoon that made it disagreeable.

Abraham Parquette, son of a half-breed Canadian Cree Indian named Henry Parquette, was instantly killed last week in an accident in Sawmill gulch, about six miles southwest of Butte.

Somehow or other the weather does not seem disposed to give the Fourth of July any of the best of it in Anaconda. The last two Fourths have been nothing to boast of in the way of fancy weather.

Nearly all those injured in the Great Northern wreck are on the road to recovery, and in only one case are there unfavorable developments. That was the case of Robert Ewing, the boilermaker from Kansas.

The celebration at Thompson Falls was the most successful ever held. There was plenty of enthusiasm and a large crowd was in from the neighboring lumber and mining camps. Everybody had a good time and the town was lively all day.

Railroad men say that Havre had its usual lively time on the Fourth—only one man killed, but there were numerous others that bear bruises and cuts that will be a reminder of the day for some time to come.

Dorothy, 7-year-old daughter of Mrs. Walter Whitaker, was fatally burned on the Fourth, while playing with firecrackers. A smouldering bit of firecracker lodged in the fluffy material of which her dress was made, and in a moment, before any of her companions noticed it, the back of her dress was in flames.

Further inquiry into the new Great Falls cut-off branch of the Montana Central to be built into Great Falls from the main line at Floweree, shows the work to be of greater magnitude than would at first seem. The line will be of heavy grading almost throughout, and there will be three enormous steel bridges besides a number of fills.

The weekly crop bulletin, issued by the Montana section of the climate and crop service of the weather bureau, shows: There was practically no change in the condition of crops during the past week. The crops in the eastern portion are practically a failure, with few exceptions, and the hay crop will be about a two-thirds crop. The first crop of alfalfa has been cut and many farmers have commenced to cut wild grass hay.

WASHINGTON.

There isn't a locality in eastern Washington where there is a poor crop of wheat.

Senator Turner has appointed as alternate to West Point Leo P. Quinn of Spokane, the son of Attorney P. F. Quinn.

The celebration at Ritzville the Fourth was participated in by a good crowd from the country, Lind and other towns.

The contract for a new combination bridge over Union Flat creek, at Leachville, four miles from Colton, for $775, has been let.

Around Walla Walla harvest has already begun, and the yield will average at least 40 bushels, with many fields going 60.

The first annual shooting tournament of the Walla Walla Gun club last week was a great success, and prizes amounting to $800 were paid.

There is reason to believe that the census will show that there are 4,000 inhabitants on the North half of the reservation within the limits of Ferry county.

From the Palouse all reports are encouraging. The fall grain is far enough along to commence haying, and the harvest will at least be a month earlier than last year.

The feasibility of an electric railroad from Spokane through the Spokane and Colville Indian reservations to a connection with the Spokane Falls & Northern has been recently pointed out.

The increasing business of the Spokane postoffice has made an addition to its force imperative, and four new men will be put at work October 1. Three of the men will be carriers and one will act as clerk.

Wagons have been abandoned on the Wilson-Kettle Falls stage line and Concord coaches substituted. Travel over the road is increasing rapidly. The incoming passengers more than double the outgoing.

Jay Lynch, agent of the Yakima Indian reservation, has issued orders prohibiting the keeping of characters once ordered off the reservation in the employ of persons doing business there. A strict enforcement of the law is to be made.

Perhaps the biggest outlook for the Inland Empire in crops in comparison with average years is in fruit. Three and four carloads a day are already shipped by Spokane merchants, and this will increase as the season advances.

Barley and oats, according to the best reports, are going to compare at least favorably with average years, though in some localities the barley heads are short, and consequently will not give as good a yield as was at first expected.

Henry Yeomans, the Spokane boy who has made a record for himself in collegiate work at Harvard, has recently returned from his alma mater to spend his vacation. He returns in the fall to take up his duties as assistant professor of history in that institution.

The managers of Spokane's exposition have adopted a scale of prices for admission that should prove much more satisfactory to the public than any arrangements made in former years. The price for general admission will be 15 cents; the added charge of 10 cents for seats will be cheerfully paid.

Fred Brown, the stock dealer of Colfax, has returned from Seattle and brings an interesting story of a bunch of Whitman county steers which he fed at Colfax last winter and in March shipped to Seattle, where they were sold. On his last trip Mr. Brown met the man to whom he sold the cattle. The latter had just returned from Dawson City, where he took the steers, going by boat to Skagway and thence across the mountains to the end of the railroad, and then driven over the ice and lakes and rivers to Dawson. At Dawson the cattle were sold at 35 cents per pound, the 50 head being sold for $600 per head, the remaining 15 bringing $450 each. It cost only $175 per head to take the cattle to Dawson.

IDAHO.

Cy Jacobs, an old pioneer of Boise, died recently.

Boise now has hopes that she will secure the Midland railroad.

The Payette river is lower than is was ever known at this time of year.

General Weaver says that Idaho could be depended upon for about 400 men to fight the Chinese.

The Boise and Payette valley people are going to experiment in sugar beet raising this summer.

Dan Cotter has gone to Payette lakes with 300 head of cattle, which he will run in that locality for the season.

The Fourth Annual Convention of the Idaho State School Association was largely attended recently at Pocatello.

The heavy frosts recently made some of the potato crops look rather brown, and did considerable damage to tender garden truck.

The hum of the mower is heard on all sides, which reminds us that haying began three weeks earlier than last season, with a much heavier crop.

A severe hail storm visited Idaho county recently. Much grain and fruit were destroyed and pigs and chickens were killed in large numbers.

While one of the bicycle races was being run at Weiser, John Cato was thrown violently from his wheel and rendered unconscious for a time.

Bob Rentowl, was drowned at Frehman's fery, near Caldwell, while trying to take some horses across the river. The animals crowded him into the stream.

The Fourth in Weiser was celebrated with a good program and an excellent time. The attendance was large. The address by S. H. Bashor, the principal feature.

The Pocatello Indians have shipped six car loads of horses east this week, and will ship about as many more next week. Up to date they have sold about 1500 head, and will probably sell as many more.

A case of kidnapping occurred a few miles up the lake from Couer d'Alene on July 4. Agnes and Metha, the 14 and 11-year-old daughters of Herman Molkenthin, were enticed from their home by a Swede named Gus Johnson, a neighbor of the Molkenthins.

A distressing accident happened to Mrs. Harry Richardson of Nes Perce city on the evening of the fourth. The lady was engaged in firing cannon firecrackers, when one exploded in her hand, tearing off two fingers and a thumb, horribly mutilating her and making an amputation necessary.

M. Griffith, for sixteen years a resident of Troy, shot and wounded his wife and attempted to murder Bonney Seagrave. Griffith and his wife had trouble some time ago and separated. The would be assassin has been captured and is now in the custody of officers.

OREGON.

Hay hands are scarce in Klamath county. The ruling wages are $2 and $2.50 per day.

W. J. Edwards of Mayville sold 25 head of dry cows to Reynolds & Burke at $30 per head a few days ago, says the Fossil Journal.

THE TELEGRAPH SUMMARY

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF.

A Complete Review of the Events of the Past Week—In This and Foreign Lands—Taken From the Latest Dispatches.

Boston unionists have been injunctioned for boycotting liquor stores.

According to a dispatch from Cape Town, President Kruger is reported to have moved to Nelspruit, the Transvaal station for Lydenburg.

A car on the Webster & Dudley street railway and a car on the Worcester & Webster road came together on a down grade at East Webster, Mass. Nearly a score of persons were injured, three of whom it is feared may die.

The dead: J. H. Hamilton, general superintendent; Bradley Reeves, engineer; Edward Shannon, telegraph operator; Yardmaster Carr, Master Mechanic Lalime and Conductor Bradford.

Quartermaster Captain Chas. T. Baker of the U. S. A. transport Sumner will shortly appear before San Francisco superior judges to show cause why he should not be compelled to pay $10,000 damages for assaulting and imprisoning John Calway, formerly chief steward of the same vessel.

A complaint has been filed in which Calway alleges that on June 9 Baker assaulted and imprisoned him in a compartment six feet square. Here, he says, he was kept on bread and water for two days and nights in a temperature which varied from 70 to 120 degrees. The complaint is backed by several affidavits.

On the Fourth in New York city in the search for victims of the North German Lloyd fire three bodies were found off Fourth street. One was identified as that of a longshoreman named Henry Kunz. The two others were charred beyond recognition. A fourth body was taken from the river at the foot of Bay street, Jersey City. It was that of a painter on the Saale.

At the Ohio River railroad shops in Parkersburg, W. Va., a yard engine running at a good rate of speed went through an accidentally opened switch and struck a large train of gasoline cars. One of the tanks took fire. A cannon ball was fired through the remaining tanks of oil to let the fluid out. Instantly after the shot was fired one tank exploded. The smoke rose hundreds of feet into the air, and after it had cleared away dead bodies were scattered here and there and injured were lying all over the surrounding territory.

As a result of the celebration of Independence day with firearms, toy cannon, giant crackers and other forms of explosives 30 persons were killed and 1325 wounded, according to reports received from 125 cities. The toy pistol and the toy cannon are shown to have done as deadly execution as sometimes has been done in war, as those loaded with bullets and aimed to kill. Skyrockets and powder explosions, the premature discharge of Fourth of July cannon help to complete the list of mishaps. In several instances persons were killed through runaway accidents due directly to fireworks.

A fire loss of $125,000 was caused by the fireworks.

In Chicago a boy was killed. There were no costly fires in the city. Frankfort, Ky., alone suffered a fire loss of $60,000 due to firecrackers. Other cities also suffered heavily. Out of this total of 1325 people hurt, 442 can attribute their injuries to crackers and dynamite torpedoes. The deadly cannon firecrackers did most of the execution. Out of 152 injuries by firearms in 67 cities the toy pistol caused 105.

PROGRESS OF CHINESE WAR

THERE IS STILL SOME HOPE.

Were Safe July 3—Boxers Have Lost Many Leaders—Many Rumors Afloat—Tientsin in Bad Straits—Action of the Powers.

London, July 8.—The foreign office has issued the text of a telegram from Acting Consul General Warren, at Shanghai, confirming from thoroughly trustworthy sources the news received from Peking July 3, by way of Shanghai, to the London office of the inspectorate of Chinese maritime customs, saying that two legations were, the day the courier left, holding out against the troops and Boxers, and that the troops had lost 2000 men and the Boxers many leaders. Mr. Warren adds that the messenger says the troops were much disheartened by their losses, and that the Boxers claim their mystic powers have been broken by the foreigners, and that they dare not approach the legations.

It is further asserted that the foreigners at Peking ought to be able to hold out for a long time, as they have sufficient food and ammunition.

One From Goodnow.

Washington, July 8.—A cablegram was received at the state department this morning from Consul General Goodnow at Shanghai, dated July 7, saying that the legations were standing on the 3d instant and that recent attacks of the Boxers had been slight. They seemed disposed to adopt starvation methods.

Murders of More Missionaries.

Jardine, Mathes & Co. of Shanghai have telegraphed to their London house as follows:

"Shanghai, July 8.—The British legation was standing July 2. There are reassuring reports regarding the lives of the Europeans."

London, July 8.—There is one ray of hope regarding the fate of the legations at Peking in yesterday's dispatches from Washington and messages from other scources indicating that the legations were still standing on July 3, and that recent attacks by the boxers had been slight.

News from other points was distinctly disquieting. A report from Chefoo, dated July 7, says the Catholic bishop, two priests and two nuns have been murdered.

A report from Moukden, dated July 5, says the Danish mission at Hin Yun was surrounded by Boxers.

According to the report it would be possible to hold out only two days. A party of Cossacks, residents of Moukden, and the British consul had started for the relief of those beseiged at the Danish mission.

The situation at Tientsin on July 3 is said to have been most serious. Japanese and Russian forces are reported to have been hurrying there from Taku, but according to some accounts mutual distrust exists between the allies.

A report from Shanghai, dated July 7, says the British war ships are vigilantly watching for the purpose of preventing any attempt of the Chinese to cross the Yang Tse Kiang.

American Troops Available.

Washington, July 8.—The issuing of the formal orders for the dispatch of more than 6000 troops from the army posts of the United States was a manifestation of the energy with which the government is about to act in the Chinese matter. True, the nominal destination of these troops is the Philippines, to replace the volunteers now there, but it is admitted that they are being sent out by a route that will easily admit of deflection to Taku or some other convenient Chinese port. Possibly Consul General Goodnow's cablegram reporting the legations as being alive as late as the 3d instant may have something to do with this radical action. Whatever the cause, if these troops are landed in China, together with the Ninth infantry, supposed to be now at Taku, and the marine contingent, the United States will have a force in action commensurate with her interests and in proportion to the European forces. Japan is to begin today with the full consent of Europe and it is calculated that full foreign reinforcements, including our own, will arrive in China, if they are landed at all, in season to finish the work left by the Japanese.

As Seen in England.

London, July 8.—By the average Britisher the present situation in China is generally referred to as "a crime of the powers." This view is shared by most everybody not connected with the foreign office. With the uncontradicted rumor that the helpless European women and children were tortured to death at Peking, there has come home to all classes, all papers and all parties, a keen, sickening sense of Great Britain's helplessness. Some go even farther, and describe Great Britain's attitude as an ignominy unequaled in her history. It must not be gathered that this selfish criticism excludes equally severe criticism upon the other powers concerned. The preponderance of criticism is only directed against the home government in the hope that it will bring some result. The cry is: "What is the good of Lord Salisbury saying that the international understanding is harmony when that harmony will not let Japan step in and save the lives of our minister, and the men, women and children in his charge."

The events and rumors of the week have completely changed the public attitude toward China. It is no longer a question of spheres of influence and the maintenance of British power in the far east, but it is a matter of saving human life if possible, and if that is baffled, an overwhelming desire for a speedy and terrible revenge. Emperor William's stern invocation of vengeance has had a heartfelt echo in Great Britain, and there are indications that the foreign office is awakening to the strength of feeling and is taking such steps that international harmony shall not in future interfere with independent action when great emergencies arise.

In Germany.

Berlin, July 8.—The news from China overwhelms everything here. The usually quiet, self-contained German people, both high and low, have become deeply nervous. Every bit of news from China is commented upon heatedly everywhere. Opinions differ locally among the masses, but the majority believes with the government, that the Chinese situation is most serious. This results, too, from Emperor William and a number of the cabinet ministers having postponed their summer vacations because it is expected that before long the weightiest decisions must be taken.

His majesty's Chinese reward dispatch is commented on by the press. The Tageblatt says:

"This manifestation of the solidity of the interests of all the civilized nations shows the broadness of the emperor's views and sentiments."

Emperor William will on Monday accompany the German ironclad division, bound for China, into the North sea. It is known in the emperor's entourage that his majesty, in his usual impulsive way, not only gave utterance to many undiplomatic thoughts and opinions on the news of the assassination of Baron von Ketteler, the late German minister at Peking, but it was with difficulty that he was restrained from following the dictates of his heart and forthwith ordering a regular army corps to be mobilized and sent to China.

The more sober views of the minister of foreign affairs, Count von Buelow, prevailed only after several lengthy conferences.

Among those who were ear witnesses of the emperor's remarks to the marines at Wilhelmshaven, previous to their departure for China, it is known that his address was much more strongly worded than officially reported, and the newspapers at Wilhelmshaven and that vicinity publish the original version, in which was the following:

"I hope to re-establish peace with the sword, and take vengeance in a manner never before seen by the world. I send you to eradicate the dishonor done to the fatherland by barbarians. I shall not rest until the German colors fly from the Peking wall."

In France.

Paris, July 8.—In the chamber of deputies the minister of foreign affairs, M. Del Casse, replying to a deputy, said:

"Japan has expressed to us her desire to act in accord with the other powers and do nothing without them. France has informed the Japanese government that it will see with pleasure the co-operation of Japan in the common cause."

Four thousand French troops, he continued, had already started, and another 4000 will leave before July 20. Other troops will follow, according to the emergency of the situation. Measures will also be taken to make the naval force worthy of France, who never intended to abdicate any of her rights. In conclusion M. Del Casse dwelt upon the powers and declared that such accord really exists at the present time.

Marines From France.

Brest, July 8.—A detachment of 600 marines and 1000 artilleryists have started for Toulon to embark for China. Crowds of people cheered them off.

Gold From Dawson.

Vancouver, B. C., July 9.—The steamer Amur has arrived from Skagway, bringing $250,000 in gold dust and 140 passengers. Of these, 30 were returning miners, who had sacks of from $3000 to $10,000 each, while several Vancouver merchants brought large returns from their northern branch stores.

The most interesting news brought by the Amur was that of the finding of the body of Karl Olson, who was murdered last December with Clayson and Relfe, two other American citizens. Olson's body was found on a sand bank near Selkirk and was taken down to Dawson by the steamer Yukoner.

Passengers leaving Dawson 10 days ago on the Columbian met the Yukoner going down the river. There were said to be marks of violence on Olson's body, and the authorities consider the evidence of his murder conclusive.

H. M. Martin, mining recorder at Selkirk, was out duck shooting, when his gun accidently discharged and the contents of one barrel emptied into his forearm. He will also lose two fingers.

A stampede of miners to the new placers near White Horse is reported. Dominion and Hunker Creek clean-ups are turning out much better than expected.

Dr. Carrol, a prominent physician of Vancouver, spent several days on claims on Hunker, and says several men there were taking out $100 an hour.

Captain John Irving, a well known steamship owner and former member of parliament, came down on the Amur. He states, on the authority of government officials in Dawson, that the gold yield on the Yukon for the season is much larger than last year.

Wheat.

Portland—There is a firmer feeling in the wheat markets, but there is such a smal amount of business doing in Portland that it is a difficult matter to make an accurate quotation. Walla Walla is nominal at 56@57c and valley at about the same figure. Bluestem, 59@60c.

TO FIGHT CHINESE BOXERS

CHING GOES TO THE RESCUE.

Arrived at Peking With an Army to Protect the Foreigners Till the Allied Troops Arrive—Situation Is More Hopeful—A Chance Left.

Brussels, July 10.—A dispatch from Shanghai received here says a Chinese newspaper asserts that Prince Ching's troops have arrived at Peking to revictual the Europeans and defend them against the rebels.

Confirmed by Admiral Bruce.

London, July 10.—Admiral Bruce has sent a telegram from Taku to the admiralty under date of July 7 to the effect that there are grounds for hoping that Prince Ching, with his army, is at Peking protecting the legations against Prince Tuan, his army and the Boxers.

Washington, July 10.—Though fearful of giving false encouragement, the state department officials are bound to admit today that there is reason for hope now respecting the welfare of the legationers at Peking. Minister Wu's cablegram from Sheng, taken in connection with the report of Admiral Bruce from Tientsin, has done much to encourage this hopeful feeling. Mr. Wu brought his telegram to the state department this morning in person and pointed out to Secretary Hay what he regarded as some signincent and gratifying features of his dispatch. Such, for instance, was Sheng's declaration of the Chinese who are attacking the legations as "rebellious troops and rioters," and the positive statement that the Chinese government is opposing them.

There is reason to believe that much of the credit of the awakening of the Chinese government to the sense of its responsibility for the safety of foreign ministers is due to Minister Wu's personal efforts. At least three weeks ago, when it was realized that the ministers were in peril, Minister Wu set about their protection as far as lay in his power. Unable to reach the government at Peking himself by telegraph, he was in constant communication by cable, not only with Sheng at Shanghai, but with the great viceroys of the southern provinces, including Li Hung Chang.

He cabled to these officials the most earnest appeals for the exercise of their good offices with the Peking government to secure the safety of the legations. He pointed out the inevitable disaster to China that would follow the destruction of these ministers, and he implored the viceroys to avail themselves of any means in their power to ensure the presentation at Peking of his representations. He believes that these representations have reached the imperial government and that they have at least contributed to the decision of that government to render what protection they can to the foreign ministers.

Rewards Offered.

Washington, July 10.—Minister Wu has cabled to Sheng, director general of imperial posts at Shanghai, and to the viceroy at Nankin, a request that they take steps to have it known in Peking and vicinity that heavy rewards will be paid by the American people for the salvation of the people in the legations. The minister did not acknowledge this representation upon the authority of the United States government, but upon many statements made to him by prominent American citizens. He was approached yesterday by some friends and relatives of some of the people who were with Minister Conger when the outbreak occurred beseeching him to offer rewards which they would pay to any one who would help the besieged.

Imperialism the Issue.

Kansas City, July 6.—There will be no minority report on the platform. The opposition has decided that such a report would be useless.

The committee on resolutions completed its work on the platform and adjourned sine die.

The vote on the adoption of the report was unanimous. The conservative element of the committee on platform are highly pleased with the making of imperialism the issue of primal importance, and some of them express the opinion that this declaration will be of greater benefit to them than the omission of reference to the ratio would have been.

The platform committee has changed the order of the presentation of subjects and placed the question of imperialism in the front place, making it in this way, and also by actual declaration, the paramount issue. It says: "While other issues are vital, the question of imperialism strikes at the very existence of the republic."

American Gets Contract.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 10.—J. P. McDonald, a Knoxville railroad contractor, has just been awarded the contract to build a railroad in Ecuador for the Ecuador Association of Scotland. The contract price is $16,000,000. The road will be 200 miles in length and will extend from Guayaquil to Quito, through the Andes mountains.

Captain Huston Is Dead.

Washington, July 9.—The war department has received the following cablegram from General MacArthur at Manila.

"Captain Robert M. Huston, Forty-seventh United States vounteers, died of typhoid fever at Manila, July 6.

Restlessness is not energy.

American Athletes Won.

London, July 9.—The American athletes won eight out of 13 amateur events for the championship of Great Britain. The Amateur Athletic association championship games were held at Stamford Bridge, and as the Americans competed in only 12 events they won all but four of the contests in which they took part. Such a clean sweep is without parallel. More especially is it noticable when it is remembered that they opposed the best amateurs not only of England, Ireland and Scotland, but the colonies as well. The New York Athletic club got the lion's share, taking the weight putting, hammer throwing, pole vault and four-mile run. Pennsylvania was second, winning the high jump, the hurdles and the long jump. Georgetown university won the 100-yard dash. Princeton university secured second place in the 100-yard dash and the high jump, while Chicago university secured the same place in the quarter-mile run, and Pennsylvania added to her laurels by getting second place in the pole vault. Syracuse university failed to put in an appearance, both her men not arriving in time to enable them to participate in the events.

Several Americans did not enter the events, owing to being so out of form, due to the climate, or probably every event would have been won by them, but with Cregan of Princeton in ill health, scarcely knowing whether he was to run until the bell rang, and Terry of Princeton entirely knocked with a water knee and Orton and Alexander Grant unable to come within 20 seconds of their normal time.

Bodies From the Saale.

New York, July 10.—Three bodies were recovered Monday from the wreck of the steamer Saale. This makes 149 corpses thus far recovered of victims of the fire which destroyed the North German Lloyd pier at Hoboken and burned the steamers Saale, Bremen and Maine on June 30.

Just a Little Out of Sorts

That is the way many serious troubles begin. The stomach gets a little out of order, is neglected, and chronic dyspepsia follows. The blood becomes a little impure, as occasional pimples testify, and in time a long array of blood diseases attack the system. It is safest to cure these troubles at once by thoroughly purifying the blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla. It maintains the health and cures disease.

Trade Report.

Bradstreet's report for the past week is as follows:

Business is unusually dull at this season and this year is no exception to the general rule is remarked. A review of the past six months, however, gives little comfort to pessimists. Bank clearings, it is true, are smaller by about 11 per cent than they were in the first half of 1899, but railway earnings are about 10 per cent larger and business failures are the fewest reported to Bradstreet's for 18 years back, with liabilities of failing trades the same, with one exception, and that last year, since 1892.

Winter wheat has about all been harvested in the southwest and the yield there has been large. Copious rains in the northwest, too, have apparently worked some improvement, judging from the more cheerful tone of advices received thence this week.

Wool is dull and manufacturers are supplying only actual wants. Prices are the lowest point reached this season, in sympathy with the lower opening of July wool sales at London, where finer grades are relatively weakest. In manufacturing lines dullness and weakness are most marked in products of iron and steel. Talk of an effort by the great combine to control prices in the latter industry is heard but in the almost total lack of new business, the basic material—pig iron—weakens steadily with some authorities predicting a 25 per cent reduction from present prices, which are not attracting buyers.

The settlement of labor troubles is reflected in the better demand for building materials at affected centers, while rains in the northwest have allowed white pine manufacturers to open their works and give employment to many thousands of men. Southern pine prices are weak and the market for that material is dull. Anthracite coal has advanced 25 cents a ton and while the demand has not increased heavily the feeling in that trade is rather more cheerful.

Sugar has been marked up again this week, coffee is higher, while tea holds the full advance scored on the outbreak of the Chinese troubles.

Wheat (including flour as wheat) shipments for the week aggregate 3,018,328 bushels, against 3,184,144 bushels last week, 3,758,972 bushels in the corresponding week of 1899; 2,728,612 bushels in 1898; 2,502,608 bushels in 1897 and 2,167,076 bushels in 1896.

Business failures in the United States for the week number 196, as compared with 250 last week. Business failures in Canada number 25 as compared with 18 last week, 25 in this week a year ago, 16 in 1898, 34 in 1897 and 32 in 1896.

All the Passengers Are Safe.

Buffalo, July 9.—The large passenger steamer Pearl, running as an excursion boat to Crystal Beach from Buffalo, was driven on a reef on the Canadian shore by a storm which swept in from the shore. The Pearl had on board several hundred excursionists. The tug office was notified and two tugs attempted to go to the rescue of the Pearl, but both were unable to breast the heavy sea and were driven back to port.

A message from Crystal Beach says the Pearl went aground as she was leaving her dock. Of the 900 passengers on board 700 had been taken ashore when the message was sent and there was no doubt the others would be landed without difficulty.

Another Petrified Man.

Reno, Nev., July 9.—A couple of miners, while prospecting about three miles north of Reno, came upon the body of a petrified man embedded in three and a half feet of porphyry.

The features are nearly as perfect as in life. It was found lying on its side with legs drawn up.

It was a wonderful specimen of petrifaction and is exciting much interest in Reno.

J. W. HOPP, CHAS. POWER } Editors and Proprietors.

—C. G. Nolan moved down to Magnolia to harvest his grain.

—John Bell received the nomination for auditor of Asotin county. Good for John.

—Paul Cann and Milt Johnson and families returned from their huckleberrying trip to the mountains.

—Jesse Scroggin, brother of Mesdames Glover, Ward and Gilbanks, came over from Pomeroy on a pleasure and business trip.

—Our local democrats set the anvils to singing Saturday evening in honor of Bryan and Stevenson. Considerable powder was burned, and the boys think they have a ticket that is a sure winner.

—The fusion combination elected the following delegates to Tuesday's convention from Genesee precinct: Dr. P. S. Beck, August Beckman, W. M. Welch, A. Stamps, H. B. Hodgins, Dr. J. L. Hayes, Al. Whitted, Peter Johann, Ed. Peterson, P. W. McRoberts, Matt Fuchs, Vic Hasfurther. They put up a job on the republicans this week and say they are prepared for the battle.

—The binders are being oiled and put in readiness for the great grain crop before us. Reports from all over the Genesee valley at this date agree that the grain promises an enormous yield. Binders will start up in the Rimrock district next week and the week following the machines will be singing their songs in this vicinity. The weather for maturing has been ideal. There is much wheat as finely and as plumply filled as ever grew on our soil and there will be many 40 to 45 bushel fields, while none will be below the average. Farmers are well pleased with their crops and only worry over the antics of the bulls and bears.

—What's the latest from China? Well, the war is on and killing the heathen Chinese has commenced. British, French, Russians and Japanese forces are in the field throwing lead. A fierce battle is reported to have taken place in which many Chinamen were killed. The allied forces are well equipped with heavy guns and plenty of ammunition. Japan expects to have 63,000 troops in China in a short time. It is not yet known whether the legations are dead or alive, but if alive the civil war may save them. Germany has sent armored ships to the front, and when the squadron sailed Emporer Williams said: "Remember you have a cunning foe to fight, provided with modern weapons, to avenge the German blood which has flowed. But spare the women and children. I shall not rest until China is subdued and all the bloody deeds are avenged. You will fight together with the troops of various nationalities. See that you maintain good comradeship with them."

—The Lenville stage makes close connections with the afternoon passenger train.

—Geiger & Xambitch shipped in a carload of fine Loon Lake ice for their own use.

—A couple specimens of the Weary Willies had the cheek to come this way and beg for something to eat, this week, while farmers are hunting high and low for help. Tramps should be made to work on the thoroughfares at this time of year and eat green apples and cucumbers.

—Marshal Driscoll, the nominee for sheriff, was setting up the cigars to the boys the next day after the convention. Mike's many relatives and friends throughout the county will see to it that a large vote is rolled up for him on election day. The republican nominee must be a good man to down Michael.

—Thresher Pritchard was down from Oakesdale the first of the week in consultation with Mr. Cool regarding the grain-threshing campaign. "Prich" says the grain up that way will not yield as heavily as people expected awhile back, claiming that the wheat heads are not filled out as in former years.

—J. L. Naylor is back from his trip to Missouri. Said he passed by the large democratic hall at Kansas City, but as the Bryanites were so busy resolving against the republicans he decided to make himself scarce. Mr. Naylor is making hay on his ranch near town and next week will go to the Boise convention and assist in putting up a job on the democrats.

Paris Fair.

The American exhibit at the Paris Exposition will be an open volume, whose lessons of skillfully directed endeavor, unfaltering energy and consummate performance may be read by all, of every age. The United States Government Building is about completed, and no effort has been spared to make it worthy to represent our nation. It was by the same American perseverance, industry and unfaltering energy, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the famous dyspepsia cure, was first produced. Since that time, it has never failed to perform its duty—the cure of constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria, fever and ague, liver and kidney troubles. It is an excellent tonic for the general health. All druggists sell it. There is nothing to equal it.

Your health depends largely on your teeth, but poor dental work makes matters worse. Get the best. Call on Dr. Lemman. Prices lower than the lowest.

Is Baby Thin this summer? Then add a little SCOTT'S EMULSION to his milk three times a day. It is astonishing how fast he will improve. If he nurses, let the mother take the Emulsion. 50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

—A sure way of preventing a hen from setting—tie her legs together and hang her up.

—Women and children are forced into the Kansas grain fields and much harvesting is done by lamplight.

—Mrs. D M. White, of Lewiston, a sister of Mrs. Sarah Elliott, visited at the Dick Ruddy farm home the past week.

—Mr. and Mrs. L. Jain spent several days the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Lamphear among the tall pine trees in eastern Latah.

—As will be seen from a notice elsewhere Messrs. W. A. Forgey and J. L. Goodnight have dissolved partnership in the stock business.

—Geo. Steltz secured the contract for the construction of the two-story St. Joseph school building and pastorial residence. The material is to be of Sound lumber and Genesee brick. The stone foundation is nearing completion and as soon as the lumber arrives from the coast carpenters will rush their work.

AS AN INDUCEMENT for intending purchasers to buy THE BEST and not ride an interior wheel, I am instructed to accept orders for Columbia ladies' wheels at $35 each for the next 30 days.

—Mrs. May Hobson has been on the sick list the past week.

—C. E. Wood left Wednesday for Portland and other coast points.

—Richard Ruddy is up in the Thunder Mountain district searching for gold.

—Mr. and Mrs. Boliou will reside in the Porter residence near the school house.

—John M. Henry is down from Spokane on a vacation of two or three weeks.

—Miss Lena Steltz returned last week from a visit with her sister at Belmont, Wash.

—The Boer war and Aguinaldo's foot race have become mere sideshows to the big circus in China.

—"Red" and G. N. Hollister came out from Pierce last week and report much activity in the mines.

—The trainmen say that Hall Bros. have seven or eight headers at work in their grain near Pullman.

—Louis Lallier and J. G. Rehberg, of Oklahoma and S. Dak., are among new arrivals looking for homes.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Johnson have moved to town and are occupying the Daggett house opposite Easterbrooks.

—Mrs. Wm. Harris and Mrs. Roberts were down from Pullman Wednesday and attended the Platt wedding.

—Haying is in full blast now. Several loads of fine hay have been brought to town and pronounced No. 1 quality.

—Ed. and Gus Peterson each have purchased a binder and will commence cutting their grain soon. They also purchased a steam engine and will put it to work this fall.

—Eastern people who contemplate coming west can find no more productive soil, no better climate, or better people than to be found in Idaho. Look us over now—see the waving grain fields and full orchards.

—Pullman's fourth was not a huge success. The baloon didn't ascend, the parade was disappointing, and things generally lagged. The lid was taken off the patriotism but somehow the officers failed to inject life in the fourth bird.

—A dozen deaths occurred in Chicago one day last week from heat. In fact the people in the middle states have been suffering from intense heat for several days and nights, while the climate in Idaho for the past two weeks or more has been enjoyable, a little cool at times.

—N. W. Hiestand, of Hiestand-Warner Co., San Francisco, was in Genesee over Wednesday night. He is in the Palouse settling up warehouse accounts of the old firm. Mr. Hiestand will continue in the grain business at 'Frisco and hopes to be able to secure some of our barley and flax. A pleasant gentleman.

—People still die by thousands in India. From all sides come pitiful accounts of the conditions of things. In some of the remoter districts people are literally dying by hundreds, in their houses, by the roadside, struck down by cholera, or killed by starvation. The vultures and jackals are gorged with the unaccustomed feast, and dead bodies lie unburied for days together on the ground.

—D. B. Grant has sold his fine 400-acre farm to Messrs R. L. Burdic and J. H. Chambers for $10,000, Mr. Grant retaining a half interest in this year's grain crop. This sale does not include livestock and machinery on the place. The farm is one of the cleanest and best in Latah county, has good improvments and it is the intention of Burdic and Chambers to stock it. Mr. Grant is undecided as to his future plans, but the NEWS sincerely hopes he and his good family will remain in Genesee.

—Married, at the home of the bride's parents, Wednesday evening, [illegible], 1900, John Platt and Miss [illegible] Batdorf, Rev. C. R. Howard officiating. Only relatives witnessed the ceremony. These young people are too well and favorably known to most people in this community to need an introduction. The groom was born and reared here and is one of Genesee's best and most industrious young men. He is associated with his father in the cattle business on Salmon river. The bride resided in Genesee a number of years and by her pleasant manner has gathered around her a large circle of friends. Some three years ago she moved with her people to Hollister, Cal., and returned last week to make Idaho her future home. Mr. and Mrs. Platt have the best wishes of the NEWS and many friends for a long and happy life.

—Latah commissioners are in session with a three weeks pull.

—A boy was born to the wife of Arthur Harris Friday night, July 6.

—Edward McMunegle is taking steps to secure a divorce from Eliza McMunegle.

—John E. Reed came down from Spokane Tuesday and accompanied Cashier Brewer to Lapwai Wednesday.

—Another kiln of about 50,000 or 60,000 brick will be burned the last of next week, most of which will be used in the construction of the new school house.

—Earl Morse was down from the Nezperce country a few days and returned the first of the week with Charley Hutch. Earl takes to farm life like a duck to water we are glad to learn.

—John C. Jackson and wife have been down from Fletcher visiting the John Gentry people for a week. John says his country can show up some excellent flax and wheat fields—but the twenty-five miles distance to a real railroad takes some of the enthusiasm out of the producers.

—The flax crop in Nez Perce and Idaho counties is placed at 600,000 bushels, Nez Perce's portion being placed at 400,000 bushels. A large amount of the flax was contracted at 91½ cents with the right reserved the farmers to realize more if the market price permitted. The price has gone up in Chicago and the producers may receive $1.25 per bushels. The lowest possible rate which the railroads have made to Chicago is 30 cents per bushel.

—The Idaho Club has been started at Spokane for the display of our minerals and curios. The collection at the world's fair, owned by Jay Rand Sanburn, of Cœur d'Alene City, is here on exhibition, and it is the intention to exhibit other minerals, cereals, grasses and other products of our soil. When in the metrepolis you are invited to call at these quarters on the sixth floor of The Fernwell block, corner Riverside Av. and Stevens St., in the heart of the city.

—Sam Owings is accused of loosening all the teeth on one side of the face of Clarence Eddy. It seems that Eddy hypothecated a lot of mining stock to secure some $50 he was owing Owens in the lease of the Democratic Times, and he wanted to redeem the stock by paying $16. This Owings refused to do, whereupon Eddy called him some vile name, and Sam's left immediately connected with Eddy's jaw. It is supposed Eddy will immortalize the episode in heroic verse, says the Troy News.

—The frame for Dr. Beck's new residence is up and inclosed.

—Mrs. Boliou came down from Troy with George and bride for a visit.

—Dan Moore had business on Fix Ridge way Sunday and reports seeing fine crops.

—Barber Decoursey and family now occupy the Vollmer house next to the Robinson brick.

—Ralston Vollmer is taking his vacation—visiting Lewiston and Ruby creek mining disirict.

—Antone Mertes acted as marshal while Mr. Driscoll was away corraling the fusion nomination for sheriff.

—Messrs. Burr and Swensen are up Burnt creek district locating gold mines, feeding fish and scaring bears.

—Mark Means has been busy with three or four helpers shoving out machinery to the farmers—mowers, binders and headers.

—The large Scharnhorst barn was completed yesterday. Geo. Miller of Lewiston nailed on the shingles at a swift gait, 10,000 a day.

—C. B. Horen of Pullman, and A. C. Nichols of Lapwai, grain buyers for the Tacoma Grain Co., were in Genesee Monday and Tuesday.

—Census Enumerator Peterson of the Thorn Creek district came in on the hurricane deck of a cayuse this week to report his work finished. He will take in the university this fall.

—Ed. Follett has a stitching machine that is a dandy. Stitch anything in the harness line from tug to bridle. The machine will walk through an inch board without any trouble.

—Dr. W. H. Ehlen returned from his trip to the coast where he visited his father who has been quite feeble. Reports Portland and Aurora making substantial improvements, but the farmers in the Willamette valley have poor grain crops and lousy hops on account of too much rain and are not so prosperous. Thinks Genesee valley a pretty good country.

—T. J. Bibb, the Tacoma Grain Co. boss, was in Genesee over Monday night and gave Mr. Dickson a tip on buying grain. Mr. Bibb stated that he believed the price of grain this fall would hang close around the 50-cent notch in the Palouse. Said that was a fair price and believed the farmers would sell quite readily. When a fair price is offered it is much better for all if the farmer unloaded soon after harvest. One hundred thousand bushels of the old crop yet remains in our houses, and in his opinion, holders would do well to sell it before the new crop comes in as the 1900 wheat will be of a superior quality and brighter color.

ROYAL Baking Powder

The strongest, purest, most efficient and wholesome of leavening agents. Not lowest in price, yet the most economical; indispensable to all who appreciate the best and most healthful food.

Our country is enjoying prosperity almost unsurpassed in its history.

For every one there is money enough to buy that to eat which is pure, sound, good, wholesome.

Why should we use cheap, impure, unhealthful articles of food? There is no economy in them; they endanger the health, they may cost life. There are reported almost daily cases of sickness caused by eating cake, puddings or biscuit made with the cheap, alum baking powders.

In all articles for food buy and use only the best. The good health of the family is of first consideration.

Alum is used in many baking powders because it makes them cheap. It costs less than two cents a pound. Alum is a corrosive poison. Think of feeding it to children! Yet the manufacturers of well-known alum powders are actually denying that their goods contain it.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

—A number of the Epworth Leaguers drove over from Moscow Sunday.

—Mrs. Fred. Nagel's parlor contains a new piano from the Mark F. Jones house.

—Preaching at the Congregational church next Sabbath both morning and evening.

—Henry Martinson has set the binder to work in his fine field of 400 acres of grain.

—Whenever a laboring man showed up in Genesee this week he was picked up and hustled to the haying fields. Time for work now.

—J. L. Goodnight returned from Montana last week and immediately departed for the coast where Mrs. Goodnight has been ill for several days.

—Mr. Hasfurther reports considerable smut in grain out his way and does not know of any remedy for this pest unless it is the shipping in of new seed from the eastern states.

—John Platt went to Spokane to meet a young lady, but as passengers from the west for the Palouse are transferred at Marshall Junction, he missed her and returned next day alone.

—Mr. and Mrs. Hans Knudson arrived home from Norway Wednesday. Mr. Knudson says he saw nothing between New York and Idaho to compare with the Palouse country crops and is glad to get back.

—T. Driscoll is having a new floor and driveway put in at the warehouse he recently purchased, the Hiestand-Warner building. Mr. Driscoll is a safe, square business man and farmers will give him all the grain he can look after properly.

—Henry Hough, a former Genesee boy, now of Spokane, secured a good prize in the Examiner drawing. He drew a ticket to the Paris fair. The Examiner wrote him asking if he desired the ticket or the cash required to make the journey. Henry replied he would take the cash little thinking he would get anything. In a few days he received a check for $666.

—Next Saturday and Sunday will be the 4th quarterly meeting at the Methodist church. Rev G. H. Gibbs, P. E., will be present, preaching Sunday morning and evening. TIMELY TOPICS.

Everybody is waiting impatiently for the coming of the age of the horseless laugh.

That the Senate did not favor pneumatic tubes has no bearing on the popularity of the bicycle.

To that extent erecting a hotel of twenty stories in height indicates the increase in modern high living.

A man who wrote poetry thirty years ago has gone to the poor house in New York. Retribution is sometimes slow, but it generally gets there.

With milk that will kill cats and butter that will kill rats, the scientific adulteration of food products has reached a high stage of efficiency.

Whether men are capable of loving or not, the women evidently believe the stories the men have been telling them from time to time about such things.

An Eastern man 80 years of age has divorced a girl wife and married one of mature years. If he lives long enough he may become quite a sensible chap.

That Philadelphia woman who, according to the verdict of a jury, alienated $50,000 worth of affection, has decided to appeal the case. It does seem a trifle exorbitant.

Maitre Labori is coming to America to lecture. For the benefit of people who do not know Labori we will say that once upon a time in France he defended a man named Dreyfus.

A pretty New York girl of 16 tried to commit suicide because she was spanked. Perhaps another administration of this early and highly approved form of parental justice would set her right.

Queen Wilhelmina is not engaged, but when she wants a husband she will probably have no more trouble in securing one than does the Indian Territory maiden with 10,000 acres of land.

Joaquin Miller, the poet, is classified in the San Francisco city directory as a "fruit farmer." If Richard Le Gallienne lived in San Francisco the directory people would probably list him among those people who are in the hair business.

John L. Sullivan refused to pay for a portrait of himself painted by a New York artist because it is not true to life. If John L. were possessed of the spirit of philosophy that which now appears to him a defect in the picture would greatly enhance its value.

That Boston man who has exposed the true inwardness of Sheridan's famous ride at Cedar Creek springs his story a little too late in the day. He can't shake loose the impression made by that gallant gallop any more than he could destroy the romance of Tell's apple or Washington's hatchet.

The Associated Jewish Charities of Chicago have taken a laudable step in abolishing henceforth all balls, fairs and charity bazaars as methods of swelling their fund. They have resolved to give of their means according to their ability, and promise that their already magnificent philanthropists shall not suffer by the change. Gentiles may well ask themselves if their own "entertainments" are not sometimes repulsive rather than attractive.

In 1806, Gen. Garfield, then in Congress, made a strong speech in support of the measure which finally took form in a national bureau of education. "The children of to-day," said he, "will be the architects of our country's destiny in 1900." The prophecy was easy to make, because certain to be fulfilled. Yet there is something impressive in the fact that the affairs of church and state, and all the complex interests of civilization, are now largely in the hands of those who thirty-four years ago were passing through the public schools. To them, too, is committed the custody of those who, in turn, will make the history of the swift-coming future.

The Indian girls of the Chickasaw Nation seem to be "up-to-date." The evils arising from the marriages of white men with Indian girls have become notorious. Usually, the unions were sought by whites of worthless character, merely in order that they might get possession of the valuable lands allotted to the brides. In view of this a law was enacted by the Indian Legislature establishing the marriage fee in such cases at one thousand dollars. As a remedial measure, much was expected of the law. It has recently come into effect, and at Ardmore, Indian Territory, recently, some thousand or more Indian girls, in meeting assembled, indignantly "resolved" that the law and the instigators thereof were intolerable interferers with woman's inalienable right to marry whom she would. And the end is not yet!

Despite the disgraceful postal scandal, the American officials in Cuba have not altogether failed to demonstrate that our ways are preferable to those which have so long prevailed there. If our presence on the island has resulted in nothing more than in- tions Havana has been recognized as the breeding place of yellow fever. To-day that dread scourge is practically wiped out. The death rate for a recent month was the smallest for any month, except one, during several years, and there was not one death from yellow fever. The latter statement is one of great interest. Of only two other months in over ten years can this be said, the two other exceptions being February and May, 1899. Typhoid fever and pernicious malaria are almost unknown, though formerly very common. American sanitary measures will in a few years transform Cuba from the graveyard of foreigners into a veritable health resort.

Only a few days ago a distinguished iconoclast asserted and proved that, while there was a Barbara Fritchie, she did not flaunt the Stars and Stripes from her window in the face of the Confederate troops as they passed through Fredericksburg, Maryland. She did not say: "Shoot if you must this old gray head," nor did Jackson threaten a dog's death on any one who accepted the old lady's challenge. None of these things happened for two very good reasons: Barbara Fritchie was bedridden, and Jackson and his soldiers did not march anywhere near her house. Now come forward Maj. Gen. Joseph W. Keifer and Gen. Stephen H. Manning, both of whom were officers under Gen. Phil Sheridan, with the statement that "Sheridan's Ride" was all poppycock, and that he did not save the day at Winchester. According to these commanders, Sheridan did make the ride all right, but long before he arrived the battle had been practically won. Sheridan mistook a handful of stragglers and a few wagons for his retreating army and could never afterwards be convinced of his error. Generals Keifer and Manning assert that Sheridan had absolutely nothing to do with winning the battle, and that the credit belongs to the late Gen. Wright, who was in command of the Federal forces. One by one our idols are being shattered, and soon nothing will be left but a choice collection of old pedestals on which there is nothing to mount.

This country pays so much attention to education that anything bearing on the subject naturally becomes of general interest. Questions of suitable studies, proper hours, textbooks and similar matters have frequently been discussed in the past, as they no doubt will be in the future. So, too, the subject of punishment for refractory scholars has often been a theme of thoughtful consideration. And yet, notwithstanding the time and attention bestowed upon this latter feature of our public school system, it does not in places appear to have got beyond the stage of experiment. What gives substance to this assumption is the fact that a short time since a teacher in a Connecticut school, feeling herself especially annoyed by her pupils constantly whispering, determined to take heroic measures to break up the practice. As a step to this end she announced that any boy caught in the act would be compelled to kiss a girl pupil named by the teacher in the sight of the whole school. Strange and unnatural as it may appear, this order produced the desired effect. The boys kept mum and the girls took on a look of mingled regret and indignation until a gleam of hope a day or two ago irradiated their gloom by a handsome little fellow being captured with his lips close to the ears of a neighbor. As he claimed, however, he was deaf and had not heard the anti-whispering order when first given out, he got off, while the feminine portion of the school dropped back into its previous depression. The main fact, however, is that the deaf boy's uncle is a school committeeman, and has brought a charge against the teacher of cruelty in school punishment, a thing not tolerated by the laws of the Nutmeg State. While it's true that section of our great country once aided and abetted the blue laws in their conspiracy against human happiness, it remains to be seen whether the influence of that period so far lingers in the community as to make kissing, even in its most innocent, amateurish, immature and vealy form, a crime of serious magnitude.

Breaking Horses in South Africa.

The way in which horses are broken to saddle in South Africa is one which I have never seen practiced in any other country. It is charmingly simple, and has its good points as well as its bad ones. It consists of tying the head of the neophyte close up to that of a steady horse by means of a cord connecting the respective headstalls worn by these animals. After they have both been saddled and bridled, the "schoolmaster" is first mounted, and then another man gets on the young one, who is powerless to buck, rear, or run away, on account of his head being fixed. Besides this, the fact of his being alongside another horse gives him confidence, and, no matter how wild he may be, he will learn in a short time to carry his burden and regulate his pace according to that of his companion. As he settles down quietly to work, the connecting cord may be gradually loosened out, until at last it can be taken off altogether. This is a capital plan if one has a good break horse, and if one knows no better way. Its great fault is its tendency to make a horse unwilling to go alone. Of course it has no pretensions to giving a horse a good mouth.—From "Among Horses in South Africa," by M. H. Hayes.

WHEN YE'R GROWIN' OLD.

There's a sadness stealin' o'er ye,
When ye'r growin' old,
Th' don't 'pear so much before ye,
When the world grows cold,
Ye'r a' standin' in th' evenin'
Where th' shades unfold,
When th' light o' day is leavin'
An' ye'r growin' old.

Night is drawin' of a curtain,
Sof' a bell is tolled,
Things look sort of gray, uncertain,
Where th' shadows fold
Th' landscape's waverin' pictures
That are all unrolled,
When ye'r life is in th' twilight
An' ye'r growin' old.

Like a fire that's sort o' fadin'
When the ashes hold
But a sort o' ghostly shadin'
Of a joy that's cold,
Like a sweet song, but whose echo
May ye'r memory hold,
When the sunset gilds the hilltops,
An' ye'r growin' old.

But the's light beyond th' hilltops,
When ye'r gray an' cold,
Out beyond the crimson sunset,
There is dawn unrolled,
The's a glow o' promise beamin'
Of hopes that fold
Ye'r heart and bring it comfort
When ye'r growin' old.

THE BANDOLERO.

PANCHO PARCO leaned lazily against his gate on the outskirts of the Southern California town, and looked down the road. It was a beautiful Sunday morning in May. Pancho was an old man, but there was nothing in his appearance indicative of his age except his bristling gray mustache, the deep lines in his brown face, and the dull, bloodshot black eyes that must once have been as fierce as those of an Indian. With his arms resting on the gate, Pancho rolled himself a huge yellow-papered cigarette, which he proceeded to enjoy. Suddenly he pulled the brim of his big white sombrero further down over his face as he descried a man walking toward him on the path beside the road. The newcomer was a young man, and Pancho's opposite in every particular.

"Como esta, senor?"

'Good morning, Pancho. Has Senorita Helena gone to church?"

"No, senor. Pretty soon she come. You go with her?'

"If she'll allow me."

"Oh, she glad to take you to church—glad to take any one. She is good. She want to make poor Pancho go, but he no go any more."

"Did you hear of the hold-up on the Santa Maria road, Pancho?" asked the American, casually.

At once it seemed that the sombrero cast a darker shadow over Pancho's face, while his eyes narrowed into slits.

"Si, I heard of him. They make big fuss 'bout little thing. It was deefferent, senor, in early days before——" His inborn politeness gave him pause.

"Before the gringos came?" supplemented the other, laughingly.

"Si, senor, before the gringos came. I born here, senor, feefty—seexty—seventy years ago. My father had un rancho grande near here. Every one know el Rancho Parco. No banks those days, senor. We keep all the money in the casa de rancho—what you call house. Plenty of bandoleros then, you bet. You not know a bandolero. You meet him in the mountains; he take all you got; the next day you meet him in town and shake his hand, but you not know him."

"Well, Pancho, it's pretty hard to identify him these days," watching him closely.

"Oh, I don' know, eef you smart. What your beesiness, senor?"

The question was asked with much apparent indifference, but George Howard was not deceived. Suspecting, he saw himself suspected. "Real estate," he replied, promptly; "I'm down here looking up the purchase of some land."

"So?" said Pancho. "And will you

"Father is pitching into the Americans, as usual, I suppose?" said a girlish voice behind them.

Both turned to look upon Helena Parco, dark, bright-eyed, with the rose and the olive blended in her cheek.

"To hear my father talk," she went on, blithely, "one would think he was a foreigner, while he is an American himself."

"Si," broke in Pancho, "un Americano, but not——"

"A gringo," interpolated Howard.

"Well, it is foolish of you, dear old father, to talk so. In a cosmopolitan country such as ours"—and then as she realized that her language was unintelligible to one of her hearers, at least—"but, Mr. Howard, I must go to church. The Mission bells are ringing already and I am the organist. I will be glad if you will go with me. Like the Salvation Army lassie, I want every one to come to our hall."

The two went down the road together, leaving Pancho meditatively smoking his cigarette. And as he smoked he [illegible] about many things. Helena was so unlike a Parco, he thought. She was not content to mix with the Spanish people exclusively, as her mother had done before her, but was welcomed everywhere. She did not hate the Americans, but told him, her own father, many times that it was wrong to cherish hatred against any one. Surely she was a strange, dear child. But the Parco blood would tell even in her if the occasion arose—he was sure of that.

Making himself another cigarette, Pancho strolled idly into the town. He joined several groups of Spanish-Americans standing on the sidewalks in their Sunday clothes, nodded familiarly to the store-keepers in front of the shops, and finally brought up before a crowd of men and boys who had surrounded and were listening to Sam Smith's description of the recent hold-up. Sam was the stage-driver.

"I threw out the box all right enough," Sam was saying, with great caution, "but it was my old fake box. The right one was on behind, tied up in a roll of blankets. The fellow was just about the build of Pancho there——"

Pancho passed on as if he had not heard, but a knowing smile of satisfaction played about his lips.

The delightfully monotonous summer days of blue sky and yellow sun came and departed before the town was again awakened from its languorous sleep of satisfied traquility. In the vicinity of Los Alamos Sam Smith was held up once more. The lone highwayman compelled the doughty and shrewd Samuel to descend from his seat and produce the express box from a roll of blankets. This being accomplished, the luckless passengers were lined up on one side of the road and the man with the gunny-sack over his head and the Winchester in his hand relieved them of their valuables in turn.

The following day the broken express box and a piece of the gunny sack were found in the bushes near the scene of the robbery. Pancho was suspected on Sam's report and his house searched. There the rest of the gunny sack was found. Pancho had already taken to the hills, and a large reward was offered for his capture.

Sympathy, sincere and universal, went out to the old man's daughter, but with the blow a change came over her. Every glance of pity was met by a look of suppressed indignation and scorn, for pity implied a belief in her father's guilt. In her eye a new fire kindled—a fire that burned in Pancho's eyes when he was young. Except her own, no roof knew her now but that of the Mission. But all this was only the brave exterior. In a little while it was known she was ill. Within two months she was dead. The wise doctors gave the cause as quick consumption.

Two days afterward two men moved cautiously down the slope of the cone-shaped mountain, at the foot of which stood the Mission. Both were armed, and both crept crouchingly from bowlder to bowlder and from bush to bush, as if they feared detection. As they did so the bells of the Mission began to toll. The sweet-toned sound from the little bronze bells—cast in old Spain—came up the mountain, and the two men stopped and looked down at a funeral procession passing slowly along the country road to the grave yard, a short distance away. For one of them that funeral was a magnet. Following the hearse came a wagon in which sat a number of young girls clothed in white, and behind it many buggies, wagons and a motley description of vehicles filled with people.

The man in the rear gazed intently at the moving spectacle for a time, and then his eyes wandered searchingly over the mountain slope. Suddenly he stood erect and brought his gun to his shoulder; for the first time he had discovered the other man, leaning against a slanting rock, not twenty feet away.

"Hands up, quick!" he shouted, "or I'll fire."

"Carajo!" burst from Pancho's lips, as he made a movement to seize his gun.

"Don't! I'll kill you."

Slowly Pancho's hands went up. How-

[redacted]'s turn: "You no come!" he cried.
[redacted] You not take me alive."
[redacted]ard stopped. The two looked at [redacted]ther steadily. The Mission bells
[redacted]lled, and the funeral procession
[redacted]d its way along the country road.
[redacted]u must go with me, Pancho. I'm [redacted] but I must do my duty."
[redacted]say I no go!" cried Pancho, his [redacted] blazing with excitement. "You think a Parco go to jail?"

"It'll be all right, Pancho, old man. If you're not guilty you can easily prove it."

"Geelty? You mean I no hold up the stage? You want me say that. I no say it. I did hold him up, but I not geelty. How is it when the damned gringos take all Pancho got? The gringos geelty, eh? What you say? Pancho no bandolero. Pancho only take a leetle of what is take from him. But no use talk. Every one say Pancho geelty. I no care. Nina mia, dead. You see down there? They take Helena to the grave. I no want leef. I no 'fraid death. When they put Helena mia in the grave, Pancho die too. You watch, senor—you see."

The procession was entering the grave yard.

"But I won't allow you to kill yourself."

"You not allow?" Pancho laughed derisively. "But you make meestake. Pancho no keel himself. Helena mia say that is wrong—say es malo. I not do what Helena mia say not do. You keel me, senor."

"I kill you!"

"Si, senor, you keel me, or—I keel you. I got right to do that."

"But Pancho, Pancho," Howard al- [illegible] as he saw in the other's face the sudden resolve and the plan to effect it, "you must not make me do it. No, you will not, Pancho. Think of Helena. Helena would not want you to do that. She would want you to live and be a Parco." As he pleaded for the other man's life, he became fearful of his own nerves.

Pancho had turned his face in the direction of the little cemetery and the people standing around the open grave. Even at that distance his eyes were fixed upon the coffin which was being gradually lowered. To him came the cadence of the last notes of the bells. Suddenly he wheeled about and his hands dropped from the rock above his head upon which he had been resting. "Now!" he cried, as he made a motion to sieze his gun.

The Mission bells were still, but the shot from Howard's gun reverberated through the hills.—Argonaut.

Preaching Etiquette.

"Madam," he began as the door opened, "I am selling a new book on 'Etiquette and Deportment.'"

"Oh, you are," she responded, according to Pearson's Weekly. "Go down there and clean the mud off your feet!"

"Yes'm. As I was saying, ma'am, I am sel——"

"Take off your hat. Never address a strange lady at her door without removing your hat."

"Yes'm. Now, then, as I was saying——"

"Take your hands out of your pockets. No gentleman ever carries his hands there."

"Yes'm. Now, ma'am, this work on eti——"

"Throw away your pipe. If a gentleman uses tobacco he is careful not to disgust others by the habit."

"Yes'm. Now, in calling your attention to this valuable ——"

"Wait. Put that dirty handkerchief out of sight and use less grease on your hair in the future. Now you look a bit decent. You have a book on 'Etiquette and Deportment.' Very well, I don't want it. I am only the servant girl. Go up the steps to the front door and talk with the lady of the house. She called me a downright, outright, no-doubt-about-it idiot this morning, and I think the book you're selling is just what she requires."

Useful Palm Trees.

There are several kinds of palm trees which flourish in Africa. One is the date palm. The tree is very beautiful, and when one knows the uses that the natives make of it, it is a question what the people would do for food and shelter if the date palm did not grow there. It provides them with food equal to any of the grain foods with which we are familiar It also provides them with sugar, with wine, vinegar and oil. Their houses are built of it, and their furniture is made of it, and the roofs are thatched—that is, covered—with its leaves. They have learned to make paper of it, so that the history of the country such as it has, is written upon it. In South America there is another kind of palm—the cocoanut palm. This kind not only provides the South Sea Islander with food, with timber for his house, and wood for his furniture, and thatching for his roof, but it also supplies him with dishes, for the nut of the cocoanut is his drinking cup. It also provides with a drink, for the milk of the cocoanut, an American writer tells us, is as cool as any hillside spring, and so delicate as to be incomparable with any other drink furnished by nature.

Sacred Flowers in India.

In the Hindu religion bright-colored or fragrant flowers take a prominent place as offerings to the gods, whilst the leaves or flowers of other plants are held sacred either for special historical reasons, or for their fancied resemblance to mythical objects. The list of flowers held sacred by the Hindoos alone is an immensely long one. The holiest flower in India is that of the Kadamba tree, which is specially dedicated to the god Krishnu. The flower of the Pippul tree are venerated by the Hindoos because the Diety Vishnu is supposed by them to have been born amongst its branches. Other peculiarly sacred flowers with this people are those of the Asoca, the Bakula, the Mango, the Bela and the Kadaniba. The most celebrated sacred flower is the Lotus. In India it was supposed to spring from Vishnu, and in its unfolded blossom Brahma appeared; it was also the attribute of Ganga. In Egypt it was concentrated to Isis and Osiris, and symbolized the creation of all things from water, the rise of the Nile, and the return of the sun.

Regalia of Knight of the Garter.

A Knight of the Garter dressed in the regalia is an imposing sight. He wears a blue velvet mantle, with a star embroidered on the left breast. His trunk-hose, stockings and shoes are white, his hood and surcoat crimson. The garter, of dark blue velvet edged with gold and bearing the motto, "Honi soit qui mal y pense," also in gold, is buckled about the left leg, below the knee. The heavy golden collar consists of twenty-six pieces, each in the form of a garter, bearing the motto, and from it hangs the "George," a badge which represents St. George on horseback, encountering the dragon. The "lesser George" is a smaller badge attached to a blue ribbon, worn over the left shoulder. The star of the Order consists of eight points, within which is the cross of St. George encircled by the garter.

New Method of Sealing Bottles.

In a new method of sealing a bottle a capsule fits over the neck with slits for the passage of a cord or ribbon, the ends of which are drawn together and pressed into a stamped lead seal.

Preaching on Railroad Trains.

"That's one of the Best plans I ever herd of," paw sed last Nite, after maw Got thru putting a Poletuss on His sore thum.

"What is?" maw told Him.

"Thay are Going to have preachen on Ralerode trains that Run on Sundies," paw anserd. "It's a grate thing. I tell you what it's a pitty Sum of Our ansestors that thot they New a Few things Can't come back here and see what a naige of progress is with Steam up."

"It duzzent Seam to me they are enny sents having preaching on Trains," maw says. "I think it Would be rong to Do sutch a thing too. It would seem almost Like a sin."

"Oh shaw," paw told Her, "they wouldn't be Ennything rong about it. People that wouldn't want to hear the Preachen wouldn't Haft to. They could Go in the smoken Car and make the Limmut five sents a corner or sumthing Like that. But they are a Hole lot of Good things about the plan. One of the Best is that it Would make more Jobs for peeple that have to Good a neducashun to Tamp ties and Are too proud to Begg. Just think what a goddsend it Would be to some Deserving yung men That never had a goddsend Before if Every ralerode had its regular preachers the saime as it Has conduckters and Brakemun and Candy butchers. Then they Could have the ralerode preachers' union too and mebby Get dubble time for Worken on Sundy."

After maw thot about it Awhile she sed:

"They won't never have enny sistum Like that becoz the ralerode cumpneys wouldn't want to pay out So mutch munny. How could they afford to have a preacher on every train, and mebby not even Half of the lower Burths taken?"

"They wouldn't need One for every trane," paw told her. "Sposen the preacher Got on the 10 o'clock trane going South. He could save all the soles that needed it By the Time the Enjunneer whisled for Kokomo, and then Catch the 'Leven twenty Back, makin thurty or forty sinners on the Return trip wisht they were nobuller and better men. If he Got thru with the Surmon before it was time To start out on the next run He could pass around Dodgers amung the saved saying it was the shortest and most Direct line to the East, west, north And south, Landing you in the very Hart of the sittie, and if the cumpny had ennuy trubble Getting bizness from the Other lines he could say sumthing in his Surmon about the Dainger of Going to Purdishen or Fort Worth by enny other Root. Cause for a Retreat.

Maj. Marchand's father is an old carpenter, still hale and hearty, dwelling at Thoissey, in the in, and he is vastly proud of his son's achievements. Young Marchand spent a twelvemonth at the Thoissey College and was then five years with a notary as his clerk. His dream was to be a soldier. He wished to volunteer at the age of 18, but his mother opposed the idea. So great was young Marchand's taste for military matters that he studied tactics in his leisure moments. "What he was as a boy," says his sister, "he has remained, zealous and energetic. He was always thoughtful, and the reverse of talkative, keeping his plans to himself."

MINES AND MINING NEWS

OUR NORTHWESTERN MINES.

Items Gleaned From Late Reports—All Districts Are Being Developed—A Prosperous Year Is Predicted—Mining Notes and Personals.

A sensational copper discovery has just been made on Goose Creek four miles southeast of Sanger and about 25 miles northeast of Baker City, Ore. The ledge on the surface was four feet wide. At a depth of ten feet the ledge is 10 feet wide and widening as depth is attained. The discoverers of this promising find are D. E. Beard and L. Vaw, both of whom were in the city recently with samples of the ore, which they exhibited and which created considerable interest among mining men.

REPUBLIC.

The winze on the Quilp in Republic camp has reached a depth of 200 feet, below the tunnel level. Stoping in the 50-foot level and the 100-foot level will soon begin.

The specimens ore from the Roaring Eagle on Bride Creek near Republic, taken from the 10-foot ledge matter averages $81 per ton. There is three feet that runs very high. The whole ore body can be concentrated about five to one. This would bring the concentrates up to a value of $405. This is showing a higher average than any other ore that has been sampled on the reservation, when its quantity is considered.

At the present time the pay roll of Republic camp is about $50,000 per month. Within the next 60 days is will certainly be much greater, and by early winter there will be at least 800 persons on the roll, which means $2,800 per day, or $75,000 per month. In the matter of employes, the Republic takes the lead with 159; then comes the Mountain Lion with 75, the Quilp with 29 and the Tom Thumb with the same number.

The mines of the camp are the Republic, Mountain Lion, Tom Thumb, Quilp, San Poil, Black Tail, Lone Pine Surprise, Ben Hur, Princess Maud, Morning Glory and Knob Hill.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

All the Rossland mines were shut down last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday to give the employees a chance to celebrate.

Notice has been served upon persons owning graves upon the smelter property at Northport that the bodies must be removed at once to provide room for building purposes.

Now that the prospectors are out on the hills and all the big mines are working, the Slocan and Ainsworth towns are rather quiet. Still good work is being done in camps that are feeders to them. From Sandon comes the report that local people are figuring on taking over the Wonderful group, which is owned by a Spokane Company. J. M. Harris, the owner of the big part of Sandon townsite, has decided to uncover the quartz lead which was discovered right in the center of the town when the Goodenough block was built. It may be more profitable to open up this lead than to rebuild the block. Men are now clearing the debris which was left by the fire.

The Golden Wedge near Silverton, is to be opened up this season by J. W. M. Benedum.

The Rambler-Carribo is going to put in more machinery. A ten-drill compressor and a 280-horse power boiler are on their way here.

The lower tunnel of the Big Four mine at Rossland has penetrated the ledge at a distance of 111 feet. The ore is similar to that of the Le Roi, War Eagle and Center Star, the ledge matter being white quartz. The ledge cut is 45 feet wide on the surface and is believed to have been broken into through the hanging wall. Crosscutting will continue to the foot wall.

The Noonday and the Ruby over on Slocan Lake, are being actively developed. A rich strike is reported on the latter, while the Stewart Brothers promise interesting news from the Noonday in a few days. The Ruby ore shute is from four to eight inches, and carries gray copper and galena. The Wakefield was the only Silverton property to ship last week, when is sent 40 tons to the trail smelter. The Hewitt will soon have another shipment ready. Two carloads are now being packed down which are expected to net the owners about $2,000 per carload.

In consequence of the output of the Le Roi increasing in the manner it has done of late and of the expected output of the Le Roi No. 2, including the No. 1 and Josie, and of the Le Roi No. 3, the Nickel Plate, it has been definitely decided to considerably enlarge the capacity of the smelter at Northport. It is at the present of a 650-ton capacity, but is able to deal with a large amount of ore through subsidiary treatments to a capacity which is nominally double, 1250 tons. New batteries of boilers, which are in the aggregate upward of 750 horse power, have been ordered and are already on the way. A new engine of commensurate capacity has already been shipped. Some of the minor machinery, which will be readily erected, has not as yet been decided upon, though deliberations are now taking place as to what particular species of this machinery is most desirable. The addition of this new plant will double the present capabilities of the smelter. As the excavations and grading for the new engines and boilers were provided for at the erection of the original plant and as a flue has alreay been built for the new boilers there will be no time lost in getting the new works into order. The new part of the smelter will probably be blown in before the middle of September. In the meantime the ore of the British American Corporation properties which can not be treated at Northport will be sent to Trail.

MINING NOTES.

A ten-stamp mill has been ordered for the Oregon-Colorado mines in the Quartzburg district in Oregon. Ten tons of ore have been shipped to Sumpter.

Within less than 100 miles from Spokane and three miles west of the town of Hope, Idaho, lies the Trestle Creek mining camp. Quietly and unobstructed development work has been going on here for the last two or three years, but the outside world has heard but little about this part of the Pend d' Oreille mining district.

That a satisfactory agreement has been made by the lead producers of the United States for the securing of better prices for their output at the meeting held in New York recently, is the important statement recently made by John A. Finch, of Spokane.

News comes from the Manila in Keller camp that the ledge has been crossed for 105 feet and the wall is yet far distant. It has always been believed that the ledge was close to 140 feet wide and this seems not improbable. Some are of the opinion that the Cuba, which is near it, and apparently has the same ledge as the Manila, is destined to be as good as the latter. Every practical mining man who comes from the south half is imbued with the idea that that section will soon become the banner mining region of the state.

In the Palmer Mountain tunnel, at Loomis, Wash., the last 30 feet driven has gone through a formation highly mineralized, giving assays each day running from $3.47 to $37 in gold. Yesterday's shot at the face broke into a well defined ledge, showing much blue quartz full of mineral which may prove one of the most important in the history of the tunnel. This ledge is in a different formation from that of the other 22, and the good values preceding the cutting of the footwall make the crossing and testing of this 23d vein a matter of special interest. As all the mines close down to give the men a three days' Fourth of July celebration it will probably be the first of next week before the importance of this strike can be determined.

As a result of the latest move in the Daly-Clark feud may come the closing down of all, or nearly all, the smelters in Butte. Clark's latest move was to put Daly in the worst kind of a hole. Either way the latter moves Clark will profit. This Clark move is the agitation for an eight-hour day for the miners, mine laborers, smelter men and all others connected with that industry here. It is generally believed that August Heinze, who is now with Clark, originated the move.

Clark employs only about 300 people in Butte, while Daly and the corporations in which he is interested employ between 4,000 and 5,000. Friends of Daly assert that he has always kept up wages despite Clark's efforts to lower them. They say that Clark's big force is employed in the United Verde mine, at Jerome, Ariz., where the wage scale is very low and an eight-hour discussion is discountenanced and frowned upon. Recently Clark and Heinze have induced Butte labor men to start an eight-hour day movement. Mr. Clark "gracefully consents" to grant the eight-hour day to all of his employes and is egging on the unions to force the Anaconda people to grant the same concession to all their thousands.

Will they do it? is the vital question. If they do it will cut down the dividends and the prestige of Marcus Daly with the eastern stockholders in his company. If they do not there will probably be one of the most serious labor difficulties ever had in the west. Anyway, Clark will profit. His United Verde mine is a big copper producer. The Anaconda copper is about 40 per cent of all produced in the United States. If the Anaconda shuts down the price of copper will go up and Clark will profit enormously in his United Verde product. As he maintains a low wage scale there, his profits will be all the greater. Any way the situation may be viewed, it looks bad for Daly and may be serious for all the mine laborers there.

General Buller in Pretoria.

London, July 9.—The war office issued the following notice from Lord Roberts:

"Pretoria, July 9.—General Buller has arrived. He looked very well, and is apparently none the worse for the work he has gone through the past eight months."

Another dispatch has been received by the war office as follows:

"Pretoria, July 9.—The general commanding Ladysmith telegraphs that 800 prisoners belonging to the Yeomanry and Derbyshires have been put over the Natal border from Secretary Reitz's advance party and have reached Actom Homes, en route for Ladysmith. No officers accompanied the men."

Lord Roberts also transmits the following:

"Vlakfontein, July 9.—A convoy has passed Greyling station. Before reaching a defile in the hills the Boers shelled the advancing column. Thornycroft's men occupied the hills to the right of the narrow pass, keeping the Boers back on a ridge to the left, while the infantry deployed in plain sight and the artillery occupied a position under the ridge. The Boers worked their guns rapidly, but the howitzers replied with effect and drove back the Boers over the ridge. The convoy passed safely.

Russia Is at Peace.

London, July 6.—According to a St. Petersburg dispatch the senior Russian naval commander at Taku recently telegraphed to St. Petersburg for instructions as to the disposal of the Chinese prisoners on his hands, and the reply he received is said to have been indefinite and to the effect that Russia was not yet in a state of war with China.

A BIG FIRE AT PITTSBURG

SEVERAL MEN WERE KILLED.

All the Victims Were Firemen—Fire Started in a Crockery Store—Smoke Was Intense—Money Loss Will Be Large—All Insured.

Pittsburg, July 9.—Pittsburg's downtown section was visited by another disastrous fire, the second within a week. Four men are dead and six others are in hospitals suffering from injuries which may prove fatal. All the victims were firemen. The dead:

F. Griffit, St. Clair Crawford, Max Batterbaugh, John Lewis.

The injured: Captain Dan Campbell, Stewart Burns, Edward Kearney, William Erb, George Munn, William Derile.

The fire had its origin in the basement of Evans & Co.'s glassware establishment on Fifth avenue, between Wood and Market streets. The dense smoke from burning excelsior and other material used in packing chinaware baffled the firemen for a long time, but after fighting for more than an hour they got the upper hand though the building was deluged with water.

At about 5:30 when all danger seemed to have passed 10 members of Engine companies Nos. 4 and 11 were working on the second floor, knee deep in water. The weight of the water with the already heavy weight on the floor in the shape of the big jewelers' safe of Goddard, Hill & Co., was too much and the floor gave way. In its plunge down it dragged the third floor along with it clear down to the cellar. The firemen were buried deep under the debris and it was believed at first none would escape. Heroic efforts were made by the remaining firemen to rescue their comrades, and in a little while they could be conversed with, but they were still pinned down by the masses of debris.

The men still in the wreck were alive until 7:30 o'clock and conversed with the rescuers. About that time the fire broke out afresh just over the spot where the poor fellows were pinned down. Dan Campbell, captain of Company No. 4, was in sight of the rescuers, but was pinned down by heavy timbers on his legs. While the men were working with fierce energy to release him, the fire reached him and burned his feet. He begged his fellows to hurry the work.

To rescue Captain Campbell a jack was pushed forward and other jacks were required to raise a large portion of the broken floor. He was under the floor two hours, yet he was the least injured of any taken out. The others were badly bruised and cut and one or more may die from the effect of their injuries.

The money loss will reach $100,000, of which E. G. Evans & Co. lose $50,000; Goddard, Hill & Co., $20,000; Davis Maher, $5000; O. McClintock, $5000; Allegheny National Bank, $1500. All were covered by insurance.

CONSUMPTIVES WORK CHEAPLY

Those Sojourning in California Are Ruining Some Lines of Business.

"What they call 'consumptive competition' out on the Pacific coast has certainly become a grave problem," said a visitor from California at one of the hotels. "From San Francisco to Los Angeles the country is simply overrun with one-lunged individuals who have emigrated from the East to save funeral expenses and are willing to work for anything that will keep them alive. The trouble is that most of them are so distressingly competent. I know men who held positions at their old homes that paid them $6,000 a year who are willing and anxious to go to work for $5 a week. Of course, the services of such chaps are in demand, and they are rapidly filling all the good jobs to the exclusion of healthy natives. I was talking to the proprietor of one of the largest hotels in 'Frisco the other day and he was boasting about his crack office force. 'There's my head bookkeeper,' he said; 'he used to be general secretary of the 'Steenth Avenue Street Railroad in New York and is one of the finest actuaries in the United States. My chief clerk was formerly manager of the Victoria in London. He speaks four languages.'

" 'You must have to pay them fancy salaries,' I remarked. 'Oh! I don't know,' he replied; 'the bookkeeper gets $15 a month and the clerk $20. Of course,' he added, 'that includes board.' Without exaggeration that's a fair sample. To be sure, the average consumptive doesn't last very long, but another is always ready to take his place, and the way those who are unemployed size up the incumbents of good positions and calculate their chances of holding on is somewhat horrifying to an outsider. They will chaff one another about it, too. I was in a big dry goods store recently when a hollow-cheeked gentleman sauntered up to one of the department managers and asked him how he was feeling. 'Having night sweats, eh?' he said; 'then I suppose I can take hold here about October. But don't hurry on my account. Take your time, old man; take your own time!' Consumptive competition was really behind the late effort to have a bill passed restricting cases of tuberculosis from entering the State. The talk about infection was all a bluff. It was a matter of cheap labor—same as the Chinese."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Profitable Gardening.

Ten years ago, says the Concord (N. H.) Patriot, Joseph Dow bought thirty acres of rough land on the Bow Hills, cleared it gradually and began growing small fruits and vegetables. He now has the land paid for, a new two-story house, barn and outbuildings, and this year cultivated three acres in strawberries, one and a half in raspberries, one and a half in blackberries, one and a half in musk and watermelons, one in tomatoes, one in squashes, three-fourths of an acre in onions, one and a half in turnips, two in potatoes, three in corn. In addition, enough hay is raised to keep four horses, with several tons for market. When bought, the farm would not cut hay enough for one cow. Another source of increase is from the sale of strawberry, raspberry and blackberry plants. Hard labor, energy and perseverance will secure a good living even on the rugged hills of New Hampshire.

How Emery Is Quarried.

Emery comes from the island of Naxos, in the Eastern Mediterranean, whence it has been exported for the last two centuries or more. The beds are in the northeast of the island. There are about three hundred men engaged in the trade, all of whom have to be married before they are admitted to the fraternity. The material is much too hard to be dug out or even blasted. Great fires are lighted around the blocks till the natural cracks expand with the heat, and levers are then inserted to pry them apart. This system is continued until the blocks are reduced in size to masses of a cubic foot or less, and they are then shipped as if they were coal. There are said to be twenty million tons yet available at Naxos, and the last reported year's export was three thousand nine hundred and fifty tons. It is one of the hardest substances known.

A Lively Imagination.

A Pennsylvania man had to exaggerate a little when he wrote home of the corn they raised out there. This is how he did it: Most of the streets are paved, the grains of corn being used for cobblestones, while the cobs are hollowed out and used for sewer pipe. The husk, when taken off whole and stood on end makes a nice tent for the children to play in. It sounds queer to hear the feed-man tell the driver to take a dozen grains of horse feed over to Jackson's livery stable. I don't see how they ever would harvest the corn, as the stalks would grow up in the air as high as a Methodist church steeple. However, when the ears get too heavy, their weight presses the stalk down into the ground on an average of ninety-two feet; this brings the ear near enough to the ground to be chopped off with an ax.

Palatial Cow Car.

Experts recommend the use of milk from the same cow, and hence the little daughters of the Czar take their cows with them when they travel. During the visit of the Czar to Germany a palatial cow car, with two Holstein cows, was attached to the imperial train.

Pipe and Whistle.

An inventive genius has produced a tobacco pipe which has a whistle in the stem in order to enable the smoker to summon a cab without taking the pipe from his mouth.

STRONG AS SANDOW.

LEWIS YETT, BLACK GIANT OF TEXAS.

Rides a Wounded and Enraged Bear Out of a Cave, Floats a Grounded Excursion Boat, and Carries a Balky Pony Across a Bridge.

Lewis Yett, a jet-black African, about 30 years of age, frequently astonishes the people of the frontier of Texas by exhibitions of his wonderful strength. He can at any moment easily demonstrate that he deserves to rank with Sandow and other giants of modern times, but he has done things on the farms and out in the corn camps which created greater surprise with those who witnessed such feats than one experiences over seeing him raise some great weight in the streets. He is an uneducated, common laborer, and very modest and timid about making any display of his strength. Lewis spent most of the years of his boyhood in a cattle camp on the frontier, and long before he was fully grown he had become famous as an expert roper, a daring rider and the very best all-around vaquero in the Southwest. He never boasted of his accomplishments as an equestrian, but up to the time that he was 20 years of age he had never been thrown from the back of a mustang. He won a gold medal and prize of $200 at Eagle Pass when he was but 15 years old, by sticking to the back of a famous bucking broncho known as Blanco Diablo. This celebrated horse had thrown the best riders in Old Mexico and many of the most fearless Texan cowboys. Lewis stayed on his back for more than an hour, though the enraged animal bucked and bellowed until he was covered with foam and ready to fall from exhaustion.

Old-time cattlemen—the boys who rode the plains before the days of locomotives and barbed wire—never tire of telling stories of this giant negro's prowess. No long horn ever grew too big for Lewis. Whenever he got his rope on the steer, that animal had to go his way. He could catch a big Mexican steer by the horns and drag him about in a corral as another man would have handled a calf. Upon one occasion Lewis was riding an unruly mustang and upon approaching a bridge the animal "sulked," and though the cowboys applied quirts and ropes to his hide with great violence he refused to move out of his tracks. Lewis was in a hurry to catch up with the herd, and to the amazement of his comrades he dismounted, and coolly picking up the surprised mustang in his giant arms he threw him across his shoulder and carried him over the bridge.

Having been told that a bear had been tracked into a cave in the mountains of the Colorado near a cattle camp where Lewis was employed, the venturesome negro, accompanied by several cowboys, all lovers of Bruin's flesh, went to the place to investigate the story. With a flaming torch in one hand and a revolver in the other Lewis boldly entered the bear's den, and he did not go very far before he found just what he was looking for. Bruin had composed himself in his favorite position, with one paw in his mouth, for a long nap, and when the negro stole in so unceremoniously upon him he slept on unconscious of danger. Lewis gazed at his fat, oily ribs and his mouth began to water. Never did a bear hunter determine upon a greater risk. Lewis placed the pistol close to Bruin's head and touched the trigger. He did not have time to turn before the bear struck him with one paw and knocked him sprawling upon the floor of the cave. The light was extinguished and the pistol lost. Lewis grappled with his antagonist, and by some means in the darkness he managed to get on the bear's back, and the amazed cowboys saw this strange combination of man and beast emerge from the cave as if they had been ejected from the mouth of a cannon. Fortunately, the bear was fatally wounded, and with blood and brains oozing from his head he rolled down the side of the mountain dead. It is doubtful whether just such another feat has ever been accredited to a bear hunter in all the literature of the world embraced under the fascinating title of "bear stories."

Lewis can take a common dining room table in his teeth, and, while an ordinary man is seated upon it, he can raise it several feet above the floor. Not long since, at the Austin and Northwestern depot at Marble Falls, he picked up a bar of railroad iron in each hand and walked five steps forward and then backward to the place of starting.

An excursion boat with a party of tourists on board ran aground at the head of the lake a short time since, and while the crew was preparing to throw out spars Lewis jumped overboard and, putting his shoulder against the bow of the boat, pushed her afloat and then sprang aboard, seemingly unconscious of the fact that he had done something that amazed the boat's crew and passengers.

Lewis is hardly six feet high, but he weighs 204 pounds, and his muscles are as firm and unyielding as a piece of wood. He says that he has always been able to lift more than any five or six men who were working with him, that he is stouter than any horse or steer that he ever handled, and that he is not afraid of anything on earth but his wife, and she only weighs ninety pounds.

Neither Sugar Nor Salt.

A story is told of the energy and vigor of the Archbishop of Canterbury. At the last church congress his grace had taken part in an absorbing discussion, followed by a vigorous speech to a men's meetings and an address to an overflow meeting, and was about to wind up the day's activity by a walk to the railway station and a late journey back to town to be ready for the ordination of two bishops on the morrow.

"May I call a cab for your grace?" anxiously inquired a clergyman, who feared the effects of exposure after so much exertion, but the archbishop gave him briefly, yet firmly, to understand that his sympathy was misplaced.

A few yards farther on another clergyman, recognizing that the head of the church of England is no longer young, in spite of his air of [illegible] business, stepped across [illegible] his grace to allow him t[illegible]

"What for?" asked the archbishop with some abruptness.

"Why, your grace, rain is coming on."

"Well, if you are made of sugar, I am not," rejoined the archbishop, as he sturdily strode forward.

Easy Enough.

At a certain murder trial a policeman was in the witness-box.

"How many minutes after the shot was fired did the man die?" said the defendant's counsel.

"Two, sir," answered the witness, without the least hesitation.

"You seem positive about the time," remarked counsel, with a truculent air. "Now I'm going to test your ability to judge time. I will hold my watch here for two minutes. When you think the time is up, say 'Now.'"

The lawyer looked very serious, but the policeman seemed perfectly at his ease. He sat staring vacantly about the room, and at the exact second when the two minutes had expired he said, "Now!"—smiling defiantly. Counsel was staggered, and the prosecuting counsel proportionately delighted. At the adjournment for luncheon he slapped the constable on the back.

"Constable," said he, "you were a wonder! How did you do it?"

"Do it?" replied the constable, pointing to a big clock on the opposite wall. "Why, that was dead easy!"

A Noted Noble Oarsman.

For his years, Sir Charles Dilke is probably as fine an oarsman as could be found. One of Sir Charles' favorite recreations is sculling. When at his riverside retreat at Shepperton he is often to be seen in a pair-oared boat in company with some famous rowing man, pulling away with as much energy as an athlete half his age.

—The state is preparing to offer a large quantity of North Idaho white pine for sale. At Moscow on August 16 the timber on 23,320 acres in Latah county will be offered, and at Wallace on August 8, that on 16,440 acres in Shoshone county will be put up. The timber must bring as much as its appraised value.

—This section is fast coming to the front in the raising of bees. The greatly increased growing of white clover is doing its share toward the work. During the past few weeks a number of swarms have been hived in this neighborhood which were found at large. Bees are also being found now back in the timber.

—The cattle rustlers are strickly in evidence on the praire according to the Grangeville Press. Their latest exploit consists in the running off of 16 head of cattle belonging to John Crea, who is now offering $100 for the apprehension and conviction of the thieves. The sheriff has had four men scouring the country on both sides of the Salmon and Clearwater rivers for several days and no trace of the thieves or cattle has been found. It has been known for a long time, by hard and costly experience, that that section is infested with the most daring band of rustlers ever known in the west, and while it is suspected that they have their headquarters and rendezvous on the reservation, no evidence sufficient to convict has ever been advanced, and as a consequence their immunity from punishment makes them more and more daring in their adventurous career.

—Kansas, too, has a stingy man. A man who was too economical to take his home paper sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by his neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a $4 stand of bees and in ten minutes looked like a warty summer squash. His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance, and failing to notice a barb wire fence, ran into that, breaking it down, cutting a hand full of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a $4 pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the cornfield and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the wife ran, upset a four-gallon churn full of rich cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the whole flock. In her hurry she dropped a $7 set of teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the spilled milk and into the parlor, ruining a brand new $20 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man; the dog broke up eleven setting hens and the calves got out and chewed the tails off four fine shirts. Take your home paper.

—The three Caswell boys are home from Thunder Mountain mines and brought out $5000 in gold dust, the result of 72 hours piping on their claims. With 60 to 70 inches of water flowing for that short period they took out enough of the yellow metal so they can rest the balance of the year or spend the time preparing for next season's operations. It is, perhaps, one of the most remarkable mining propositions in the world. Quartz—decomposed—is mined like placer ground. The pay is stripped from the side of the mountain and each year the action of the elements slacks more ground that can be worked the following season with the facilities at hand. The owners of this mine were prepared for a much longer run this year, but they lost three or four weeks on account of trouble with their pipes. Next year they expect to have a much longer run and therefore, a much bigger sack to bring to the assay office. The Caswell properties were discovered in 1895 and have paid well ever since. One of the boys said if they had 300 inches of water and could run through the ordinary placer season they could clean $100,000 a year as easily as they did $5000 this season. The entire mountain is rich, as was demonstrated in running a tunnel through a "hog-back," penetrating a part of the ledge in order to lay a box in it. Through this box dirt from the other side of the hill was run through the ground sluice. Enough gold was washed from decomposed matter taken from the tunnel to pay the cost of running it. Although no riffles were placed in the tunnel sluice box, gold caught on the splinters caused by rocks going through it until the bottom looked like a yellow sheet. One day so much gold collected in the sluice that one of the boys slept alongside it that night.

In The Summer

Of life a woman may find herself fading and failing. She doesn't understand it. She goes to doctors, who treat her for this or for that, but she gets no better. She grows frail and pale. She can just "drag about the house," but has no pleasure in life. Many such women have taken advantage of Dr. Pierce's offer of free consultation by letter, and have been restored by Dr. Pierce's treatment to perfect health. There is no more wonderful medicine for women than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Its action upon the womanly organs is at once apparent in the decrease of pain and the increase of strength. It cures female weakness and such diseases as take away the strength and beauty of women.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Before I commenced to use your medicine I was in a bad condition (for eight years) and four doctors treated me," writes Mrs. Bettie Askew, of Garysburg, Northampton Co., N. C. "They, of course, gave me at the time some relief, but it did not last long. I was some days in my bed and some days I dragged about the house. I have used five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and five of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of the 'Pellets.' Now I feel like a new woman, and I want the world to know it."

The action of the "Favorite Prescription" is assisted by the use of "Pleasant Pellets" when the bowels are irregular.

—As a result of the celebration of Independence day with firearms, toy cannon, giant crackers and other forms of explosives 30 persons were killed and 1325 wounded according to reports received from 125 cities. A fire loss of $130,000 was caused by the fireworks. The accidents were numerous, the street railway wreck at Tacoma being the greatest.

—Vollmer kicked up some excitement last week. F. M. Griffith, believing his wife untrue to him shot her, and leaving her for dead, proceeded to pump lead into Mr. Bony Stargraves, but the latter dodged the bullets and escaped. Officers chased Griffith and captured him the following day. Though weak from the wound and shock, the lady is resting well and it is expected she will recover.

It Saved His Leg.

P. A. Danforth of LaGrange, Ga., suffered for six months with a frightful running sore on his leg; but writes that Bucklen's Arnica Salve wholly cured it in five days. For ulcers, wounds, piles, it's the best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c. Sold at Kennedy'y drug store.

Starvation never yet cured dyspepsia. Persons with indigestion are already half starved. They need plenty of wholesome food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat so the body can be nourished while the worn out organs are being reconstructed. It is the only preparation known that will instantly relieve and completely cure all stomach troubles. Try it if you are suffering from indigestion. It will certainly do you good.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

White Man Turned Yellow.

Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. A. Hogarty of Lexington, Ky., when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed coloo, also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. His malady was yellow jaundice. He was treated by the best doctors, but without benefit. Then he was advised to try Electric Bitters, the wonderful stomach and liver remedy, and he writes: "After taking two bottles I was wholly cured." A trial proves its matchless merit for all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Only 50c. Sold at Kennedy's.

The Best Remedy for Stomach and Bowel Troubles.

"I have been in the drug business for twenty years and have sold most all of the proprietary medicines of any note. Among the entire list I have never found anything to equal Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles," says O. W. Wakefield, of Columbus, Ga. "This remedy cured two severe cases of cholera morbus in my family and I have recommended and sold hundreds of bottles of it to my customers to their entire satisfaction. It affords a quick and sure cure in a pleasant form." Sold by all druggists.

Unless food is digested quickly it will ferment and irritate the stomach. After each meal take a teaspoonful of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and will allow you to eat all you need of what you like. It never fails to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia. It is pleasant to take.

Now that the fusionists and republicans have put up jobs on one another—put up state tickets—the war to follow will be so hot that in comparison the China or Boer war will seem tame.

HORACE GREELEY PERRY, who so ably wielded the pen on the Pocatello Advance for Bryan and Steunenberg, has assumed editorial charge of the Boise State Journal. She will run a hot republican paper, one which no good democrat can read without wincing.

THERE will be no reduction in trans portation charges for grain from the Palouse to the coast this year. Instead of reducing charges the question with railroad companies will be where to get cars enough to handle the im mense crop. Washington's legislature should next winter take up the freight question. A five cent reduc tion would be a great help, saving the farmers of the Genesee valley many thousand dollars annually.

THE Daily faction declare that their rejection by the national convention and the admission of Mr. Clark's delegation under existing circumstances releases them from their obligations to the democratic party, and they promise that Mr. Clark will never be allowed to enjoy the usufruct. In other words, they threaten to throw their influence for the republican ticket in Montana, and if they carry out their threat it will be elected.

CHINA has a big job to whip the world, with the following number of people, 330,000,000, divided: United States, 75,000,000; Germany, 55,000,000; France, 40,000,000; England, 40,000,000; Russia, 80,000,000, and Japan 40,000,000. The Chinese number not less than 400,000,000 people. The seriousness of the affair should it embroil all classes of Chinese, is manifest. But there is consolation in the fact that a single Japanese is equal to two or three Chinamen and one good American or European soldier is equal in fighting ability to almost a dozen of them.

UPON the perusal of extracts printed elsewhere taken from the leading democratic and independent newspapers of the country it will be seen that Bryan has certainly a hard roe to hoe. No other way could we so forcibly tell our readers of the disaffection in the democratic party. We could give plenty other clippings but these will suffice to show the feeling of the influential democrats in the great centers of the east. Harpers Weekly might be added to the list. The silver republican papers like the Denver Republican and the Detroit Tribune which supported Bryan in 1896, have taken a stand for McKinley. With all this evidence, and republican harmony, who can doubt which of the two great parties is in the better shape to win?

—Dr. Hicks' predictions of droughts in the grain growing districts of the northwest are all coming true, but what is more distressing, he says these droughts will be greater next year and crop failures will be numerous.

—The Agricultural Department gives the following: As a means of destroying the root lice, and particularly the wolly louse of the apple, the most generally recommended measure hitherto, is the use of hot water, and this, while being both simple and inexpensive, is thoroughly effective, as has been demonstrated by practical experience. Water at nearly the boiling point may be applied about the base of young trees without the slightest danger of injury to the trees, and should be used in sufficient quantity to wet the ground to the depth of several inches, as the lice may penetrate to nearly a foot below the surface. To facilitate the wetting of the roots and the extermination of the lice, as much of the surface soil as possible should be removed.

—It is estimated that there must be 20,000 people in Nome at present. Very little prospecting and beach digging has been done yet by the newcomers, at last reports, as the people are busy making homes and places in which to store their goods. After the first excitement shall have passed, the true estimate of the stability of a mining district can be made. Wages for common laborer are now $1 per hour; carpenters $1 50. Lumber is in great demand, selling for $125 per 1000 feet. Coal sells for $75 per ton. A lunch of the "hand-out" style is 50 cents, "a good square," $1 to $2, and the poor man's standby, coffee and doughnuts, 25 cents. Rich strikes and adverse stories come down now; however, this summer's work will tell the story.

—Blackleg in cattle is caused by the introduction into the system of a germ known as the blackleg bacillus, says a Nebraska professor. The usual manner of infection is through a wound of the skin or mucuous membrane. The germs do not pass out with the excretions, hence the disease is not communicable from animal to animal. But if a blackleg carcass be skinned and the blood and juices be allowed to enter the soil, or if such a carcass be allowed to decompose without being buried, the germs form spores, or "go to seed," and in this form may live in the soil for many years, ready to begin life anew as soon as conditions are favorable. Thus the pastures may be a constant source of infection. To prevent this the carcass must be burned immediately, or buried at least six feet under the ground.

THE republican party is doomed! Mary Yellin' Lease has quit Bryan and now talks republicanism.

—Messrs. Thos. H. Brewer and A. W. Conway made a tour of the reservation and Camas prairie countries and report seeing fine crops and happy people. From Cul de Sac they struck out for Nezperce city, stopping on the way at Hetel de Lowery and filled up on good things prepared by Lowery bachelors. Dave is reported as having one of the finest improved ranches on the reserve and only needs a bird in his cage to make him the happiest man in seven states. Kamiah, Stuart, Grangeville and other towns were visited. Mr. London is reported as doing a good business and correspondingly happy.

—C. F. Burr of Genesee, Idaho, arrived in the city yesterday, enroute to Daisy, Stevens county, called there by the death of a sister. Mr. Burr is a pioneer resident of Genesee, having settled there 12 years ago when the town consisted of but a few cabins. He is engaged in the real estate business, and says: "We have the best prospects for crops, both in grain and fruit, ever known. The yield will be the largest in the history of the settlement, and all we want now is a good market price and we will have money to throw at the birds. The town of Genesee has a population of about 1500, and is not only out of debt, but has $3000 surplus for public improvements. There have been a number of new settlers during the past year, all of a good class of immigrants and all from the eastern states. There are several new dwelling houses in course of construction, and in fact there is not an idle person in the town. While we have had no boom, we have had a steady growth and the people are contented and happy."

—Con M. Monahan writes the NEWS from Taal, Batangas Province, P. I., under date May 27, from which we extract: "I have been taking a little spin around the Island, as that is about all a fellow can do here now. Our troops occupy a large number of towns and the only danger is in going from one village to another. A scrap may come up when least expected. This city has about 30,000 inhabitants and is 100 miles from Manila in the mountains. The people are away on a visit and we expect a hot time when they return with guns and bolos. The rainy season will soon be on and then the niggers may get a move on themselves, but they cannot do much. The sickness is not alarming and I am in the best of health. The chief industry here is sugar and the manufacture of a course cloth similar to mosquito netting. All right here for a lazy man or a capitalist, but no good for a man wanting employment. I will stay a while longer, and Macawber like, wait for something to turn up. I can eat rice like a Tagalo, and by the time I see you I will be able to spit Tagalog and Espanol. Will return to Manila in a few days. Regards to Knights, Sisters and all friends. Would like to be in Genesee and give you all a visit."

—The timothy crop is being harvested in fine condition, and being the best feed for horses, will bring a good price. Considerable of this hay is being shipped to the Philippines.

—The fourteen head of cattle stolen on Camas prairie recently, of which mention was made in our last, were found at Colfax, Butcher Brown having purchased them from E. A. Allen who claims residence near Leland. Two or three days after the sale J. W. Crea and the Idaho county sheriff located the cattle and took every hoof home, leaving the butcher out $350. It is thought the thief will be apprehended.

—The finest lot of wheat, experts say, which has ever been grown in Nez Perce county, was yesterday hauled to Lewiston. It is clean in every particular and pure, and tests sixty-two pounds to the bushel, which is one and a half pounds more than the standard of the state of Washington for choice milling bluestem. It came from the ranch of Ira Small, who has this year over 1000 acres of this wheat to be harvested, which will run fully 35 bushels to the acre. The first load arrived July 11, which is exceptionally early.—Tribune.

—There is a big grain crop browning in this corner of the universe. Now we can talk about the estimate of the grain crop with some degree of certainty. The fall wheat has now reached the stage of maturity that renders it practically safe until after harvest, and the spring wheat is not likely to encounter anything destructive. The average of fall wheat is believed to be nearly 20 per cent greater this year than last and that Genesee's pile will be about 800,000 bushels. There will be many disappointed farmers in this vicinity if their wheat does not average from 35 to 45 bushels per acre. The yield of the Palouse will be several million bushels greater this year than any former year. The big grain men look to this valley for their plumpest and best grain and the NEWS hopes the farmers will be able to save the cereal from wet weather.

Was It A Miracle?

"The marvelous cure of Mrs. Rena J. Stout of consumption has created intense excitement in Camack, Ind." writes Marion Stuart, a leading druggist of Muncie, Ind. She only weighed 90 pounds when her doctor in Yorktown said she must soon die. Then she began to use Dr. King's New Discovery and gained 37 pounds in weight and was completely cured." It has cured thousands of hopeless cases, and is positively guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Kennedy's Pharmacy.

After many intricate experiments, scientists have discovered methods for obtaining all their natural digestants. These have been combined in the proportion found in the human body and united with substances that build up the digestive organs, making a compound called Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and allows all dyspeptics to eat plenty of nourishing food while the stomach troubles are being radically cured by the medicinal agents it contains. It is pleasant to take and will give quick relief.

Announcement is made that that George H. Davis has been appointed manager of the New York baseball club, displacing "Buck" Ewing. The change, it is stated, was necessitated by the inability of Ewing to suppress the feeling of factionalism that has existed among the players during the present season.

Four men were caught in the act of robbing Mason & Whitehill's general store at State Center, Iowa last week. A number of citizens surrounded the building and a pitched battle ensued. Ben. Whitehill, one of the proprietors, was shot in the leg. One of the robbers was also wounded, and with one of his associates was captured. The other two escaped.

"The gold democrats will not put a ticket in the field this year," says W. D. Bynum, chairman of the gold democratic executive committee in 1896. "We cannot get our electors on the official ballots in New York, because the votes were cast for the party candidate for governor in 1898 and the state law requires that a certain number of votes shall have been cast for state officers in the preceeding election before the nominees of any party can go on the official ballot in the pending contest.

Charles W. Barnes, suspected of being one of the robbers who stopped the Illinois Central train and looted its express car of $10,000, three miles south of Wickliffe, Ky., recently, has been arrested at his home in St. Louis. John Nelson, of 3658 Finney avenue, Barnes' partner, escaped from the detectives, leaving a trail of blood. 40 shots were exchanged between the fugitive and the officers, who pursued him to Vandevanted station, where he eluded them.

Fire destroyed five large and three small buildings formerly used by the Chicago Great Western railroad as repair shops at West Park, just outside St. Paul. About three carloads of shingles were destroyed. Loss, $200,000. There was a high wind blowing, and the flames spread from the oil house to the adjoining buildings and freight cars, of which there were a great number in the yard. The shops had been used as store houses by the Coast Shingle company, and 300 carloads of their product were in the buildings.

The secretary of the treasury has received a letter from G. Rudolph, 826 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., on the situation at Cape Nome. The department sees no reason to doubt the trustworthiness of the story told by Rudolph. It is becoming daily more apparent to the officials that the conditions in the new gold fields are almost certain to result in great suffering during the coming winter, especially as epidemics of smallpox and typhoid fever are threatened. Rudolph takes a very gloomy view of the outlook at Nome, where he arrived on June 12, and whence he departed on June 20.

Michael Won.

New York, July 16.—In the presence of 7000 spectators with scarcely a breeze to interfere with the riders Jimmy Michael defeated Floyd McFarland of San Jose, Cal., in a 20-mile motor-paced race at the Manhattan Beach track Saturday. He also clipped 21 2-5 seconds off the track record for the distance. The conditions of the race were that if an accident happened to either rider or pacers during the first mile the men were to be recalled and the race started anew. This saved Michael from defeat by a narrow margin.

The Saale Floated.

New York, July 16.—The Saale was floated out of the mud cradle which surrounded her. According to a prominent official of the company it will cost the German Lloyd $5,000,000 in paying pensions to the dependents of victims.

The Boy Killed His Father.

Victoria, B. C., July 16.—By the accidental discharge of a Winchester rifle in the hands of a 10-year-old boy, the boy's father, R. McClure, was killed and his 14-year-old sister wounded. The boy is so crazed with grief that he attempted to drown himself.

IDAHO.

The Northern Pacific Hospital at Oro Fino has been closed.

Thomas Birch, one of the pioneer and leading citizens of Wilford, is dead.

The receipts for the past fiscal year at the Lewiston postoffice were $10,330.

W. F. Kittenbach has been chosen manager of the Lewiston Athletic association ball club.

The Vollmer flouring mill is running day and night. Duthie & Carrin are building a large cold storage warehouse 33x80 feet.

Lieutenant I. M. Busby of Wardner, who was an officer of the First Idaho volunteers, has offered to raise a company of 120 men for service in China.

The governor has been informed that the government has approved the bill of $4850.48 for transportation of volunteers to Boise at the time of the mobilization of the Idaho regiment.

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Agnes and Metha Monikenthin has been cleared up by the presence of the girls at Valley City, N. D. and the capture there of Gust Johnson, who had abducted them.

Harrison, on Lake Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, is having quite a boom. Two large manufacturing industries, a mammoth sawmill and a large planning mill, box and sash and door factory, are to be erected there in the immediate future.

July 11th was miners' union day, formerly a greater day than the Fourth of July in the Coeur d'Alenes, but this year it passed unnoticed. There was no demonstration of any kind at Wallace, nor at any other point in the Coeur d'Alenes, so far as heard from.

Dr. G. A. Dorsey, curator of the anthropology of the Field museum, Chicago, has been at Spalding and vicinity looking up and collecting Indian relics and curios and studying the modes of living of the reservation Indians. He secured many interesting articles of Indian manufacture.

Harvesting is in progress in the vicinity of Troy. Timothy cutting in the timbered sections has been under way for a week. The crop, both as regards quantity and quality, is far above the average. Fall wheat will yield 30 bushels to the acre, oats and barley will average 50 bushels to the acre. Spring wheat, while still presenting a fair appearance, needs rain. Blades on much of the spring wheat are turning yellow, the cause of which is causing considerable discussion, some attributing it to rust and others to insects.

MONTANA.

The Missoula land office has been granted a new clerk, who will be chosen by the civil service commission.

From reports received at Missoula and from what has already been seen, the potato bug is playing havoc with vines in that portion of the state.

Work is being pushed on the Livingston-Big Timber extension of the Rocky Mountain and Bell Telephone company. The line will be run via Hunter's Hot Springs and follow the county road on the north side of the river.

So far as heard from all of the practical mining men from Montana who went to Nome have formed a poor opinion of the country as a mining proposition.

Old timers who have good memories say this year is a counterpart of that of 1876. In that year there was an extremely dry summer, the ranges burning up. In the fall there were heavy rains, the winter was mild and the cattle in the spring were rolling fat.

The secretary of the interior has appointed J. B. McIntire, of Kalispel, Montana; Jas. H. McNeeley, of Evansville, Ind., and J. H. Hoyt, of Beatrice, Nebraska, commissioners to deal with the Crow, Flathead and other Indians under the act of June 6, 1900.

The jury at Butte in the case of Edgar Marshall, charged with the murder of Mrs. Georgia Creech, brought in a verdict of acquittal. The verdict has arroused general indignation, for the killing was the result of trying to kill the husband of the dead woman.

Superintendent J. B. Collins, of the forest reserves, has received authority from the secretary of the interior to receive applications for permits to graze sheep on the Lewis and Clarke reserve. The permits will be limited to 75,000 head of sheep and no permits will be issued on any reserve except the one mentioned.

Frank Bateman, an old resident of Butte and baliff of the United States Court, was accidently killed last week while driving on Montana street. A runaway team collided with the team he was driving and knocked him out on the ground. He sustained a fracture of the skull and died within three hours.

Apparently there is no excuse for any man to remain idle who is willing to work. Laborers are in great demand, and there is an especial scarcity of ranch hands to handle the hay crop. The haying season in the Big Hole basin is now in progress, and unless more men are secured the ranch owners will not be able to handle all of this year's crop.

Some days ago the Anaconda Company, through its local representative Mr. Dudley, gave its answer to the committee of the Miners union to the application for the adoption of eight hour shifts for underground men. The answer stated that the company regretted that it could not grant the request, and it declined to accede thereto. That insistence on a demand for the proposed change would compel the company to close the mines and smelters.

WASHINGTON.

The State Bankers' Association will meet next year at Spokane.

The aggregate deposite in five Spokane banks is over $5,000,000.

Andrew Miller, 21 years of age was drowned in Walla Walla river at Lowden, last week.

The school teachers of Whitman county will hold mid-summer institute at Pullman Aug. 1 to 7.

100 hundred men are wanted in Ritzville badly to assist in harvesting the immense wheat crop of Adams county.

Horse on an average are 20 per cent higher than they were one year ago. was the recent statement of a prominent horse dealer of Spokane.

The State Red Cross has given $10 to the fund being raised for the relief of Nils Hilsen, the Washington volunteer, who is dying in St. Paul.

Spokane County Commissioner P. Campbell was killed by being crushed by a train on the crossing at Latah. He was attempting to drive across the track. Death was instantaneous.

The business failures of this year as compiled by Bradstreet's, show that Washington's record is more than three times better than the average states of the union.

The Reardan mill of the Washington Grain & Milling company, owned by Spokane men is shut down for a short time pending the installation of some new machinery.

The Reardan Exchange bank has recently forwarded to the Central India Relief committee at New York the sum of $26. They will continue to receive and forward subscriptions.

Fire has destroyed the saw mill of the Buckeye Lumber company, 17 miles north of Spokane, at the crossing of the Spokane Falls & Northern and Little Spokane river. By hard work the planing mill and 1,000,000 feet of lumber in the yards were saved. The loss is about $30,000, on which there was only $5,000 insurance. The mill will be rebuilt.

The 4-year old son of John Greif, of Walla Walla, was run over by a stacker while playing in the street. The heavy wheels of the stacker passed over the stomach of the lad, and how he escaped instant death is a wonder. The little fellow is doing nicely, with strong chances of recovery.

George D. Brown of Tekoa, has just completed harvesting his wheat crop of 100 acres. It is of the Arcadian variety, and this is the first time that it has been experimented with in this section of the country. The heads are well filled with large kernals, and Mr. Brown is confident that it will make a greater yield to the acre than the varieties usually sown.

The fruit shipments from North Yakima are growing larger every day, and soon a special car will be necessary for loading before time for the regular trains to reach the depot. The crop is unusually large, and all varieties of peaches, apples, pears and berries are exceptionally fine.

Spokane Odd Fellows spent one day last week at Loon Lake on their Annual Picnic. The occasion drew 800 city residents to the shores of the pretty body of water at the north. Moonlight rides and dancing were the features.

The hop situation is very satisfactory at North Yakima and sales are being made rapidly. Several contracts for future growing have been made with dealers at 10 cents per pound. Among the recent contracts are those of George A. Bosdet for 24,000 pounds for this year, and a similar amount for the next two years; Timothy Lynch has contracted 20,000 pounds at 10 cents, and probably 100,000 pounds additional have been sold at this price by Coffin Bros., Charles Kinne, J. L. Morrison and others.

OREGON.

Good reports come from Milton regarding the fruit crops. One half the Walla Walla river valley is within Umatilla county, and is one solid fruit belt. Throughout this entire region the fruit of all varieties is first-class in quality and the yield is unusually large.

Wheat is coming to some warehouses notably in the east end, near and at Milton, where threshing has been in progress for the past few weeks. Although no figures are given indicating what the yield per acre is to be this fall, the quality in every instance is said to be straight No. 1. All the samples brought to Pendleton from the threshers are of No. 1 grain. One field of barley has been all threshed and the yield was 30 bushels to the acre, the quality being No. 1.

In the territory to the northwest of Pendleton, where in ordinary years the wheat and barley crops are not depended on to turn out very large, this season the yield runs from 20 to 30 bushels to the acre. Elsewhere in the county the yield is expected to be not so large as in some former years, but will be good, however, and the quality excellent. Every farmer in Umatilla county will be at harvest by next Monday and most of them have already cut some grain.

The explosion of a boiler at the De Force Oil Works recently, resulted in the death of Jack Shaw and the fatal injury of Engineer James Moore. Chris. R. Rentz, another employee who was in a boat moored to the factory dock, is missing, and is believed to have been blown from his boat by the concussion and drowned. The accident is said to have been due to a defective boiler. The factory was totally destroyed. Moore came here from San Francisco, and was formerly a locomotive engineer. Almost at the same time as the explosion Mr. De Force's handsome residence, over three miles distant on the shore, caught fire and burned to the ground.

Every fear takes something from life.

ALLIED FORCES DEFEATED

COLONEL LISCUM KILLED.

Allied Forces Made Desperate Attempt to Capture Tientsin—Were Repulsed With Heavy Losses—One-Fourth of Americans Wounded.

Tientsin, July 13, via Chefoo, July 16, and Shanghai, July 17.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon 7000 of the allied troops were attempting to storm the wall of the city. The attack began at daylight. Its success is doubtful. The Chinese on the walls are estimated conservatively at 20,000. They are pouring a terific hail of artillery, rifle and machine gun fire upon the attackers. The Americans, Japanese, British and French troops are attacking from the west and the Russians from the east.

The Americans suffered terribly. As the Associated Press representative left the field the chief surgeon of the Ninth infantry said a conservative estimate was that 25 per cent of the Americans were hit. Colonel Liscum is reported mortally wounded as he was walking in front of the troops. Major Regan and Captains Buckmiller, Wilcox and Noyes are among the wounded. The marines' losses contain Captain Davis, killed, and Butler, Leonard and several others wounded.

Officers declared that it was hotter than Santiago. When the correspondent left the Americans were lying in the plain between the wall and the river under an enfilading and a direct fire. It was equally difficult for them to advance or retire. The correspondent counted 300 wounded men of all nationalities.

The officers of the United States marine corps mentioned in the foregoing dispatches are probably Captain Austin R. Davis, recently in Manila, killed, and First Lieutenant Smedley D. Butler of the U. S. S. Newark and First Lieutenant Henry Leonard, recently on duty at Cavite, and also of the Newark, wounded.

Probable Error in Name.

Washington, July 17.—It is stated at the war department that no such person as Captain Wilcox, who was reported wounded, is in the Ninth infantry. The officials here think it might be Major Wallace of the Ninth.

Confirmed by Remey.

Washington, July 17.—The navy department this morning received official confirmation from Admiral Remey of the reverse of the allied forces at Tientsin on the morning of the 13th. The dispatch is dated Chefoo, July 16, and says:

"It is reported that the allied forces attacked the native city on the morning of the 13th, the Russians on the right, with the Ninth infantry and marines on the left. The losses of the allied forces were large: Russians, 100, including artillery colonel; Americans, over 30; British, over 40; Japan, 58, including colonels; and French, 25.

Colonel Liscum Killed.

"Colonel Liscum of the Ninth infantry was killed, also Captain Davis of the marine corps. Captain Lemley and Lieutenants Butler and Leonard were wounded.

"At 7 o'clock in the evening the allied attack on the native city was repulsed with great loss. Returns are yet incomplete and the details not confirmed.

"REMEY."

More Than One Hundred Killed.

London, July 17.—The Evening News prints a dispatch dated at Shanghai today giving a detailed account of the attack of the allied forces on the native city of Tientsin, as reported in the dispatch to the Associated Press, dated Tientsin, July 13, via Chefoo, July 15, and Shanghai, July 16.

According to the Evening News dispatch the allies were repulsed and compelled to retreat with a loss of more than 100 killed, the British losing 40 and the Japanese 60. The Americans and Russians, it is added, also suffered heavily. Among the Americans killed were Colonel French of the Twenty-fifth infantry and Colonel Liscum of the Ninth infantry. A Russian colonel of artillery was also killed.

The dispatch adds that the Chinese fought with great desperation and their marksmanship was accurate and deadly.

Mistake About Colonel French.

Washington, July 17.—The report that Colonel French, Twenty-fifth infantry, was killed at Tientsin is not understood at the war department. Officials state positively that Colonel French is not in China. There is but one Colonel French in the service, and he commands the Twenty-second infantry, two battalions of which are in the Philippines and the third one in this country. On June 30 Colonel French was in New York on sick leave.

No News From Peking.

Washington, July 17.—Consul General Goodnow cabled to the state department from Shanghai there is nothing more to report since his cablegram of the 13th inst. That dispatch reported the attack on the legations at Peking as about to begin. Mr. Goodnow's statement is a direct contradiction of the Shanghai story that all foreign consuls were informed Saturday that the legations had fallen and the ministers were killed.

Cabinet in Council.

Washington, July 17.—Secretary Hay called a cabinet council this morning to consider the Chinese question. Few cabinet officers are in the city and the only attendants were Secretarys Hay, Root, Long and Gage. The cabinet council lasted for some time and the Chinese situation was thoroughly discussed. In all probability the president will come home within the next two or three days to remain a day or two. There is reason to believe that 8000 or 10,000 troops will be gotten together as rapidly as possible and hurried to China. Some of these probably will be taken from Cuba. If the situation requires more men congress will have to be called together to provide for them.

His Heart Is Touched.

Berlin, July 17—The German consul at Chefoo, having communicated to the governor of Shan Tung Emperor William's offer of a reward of 1000 taels for the rescue of foreigners at Peking, has received the governor's reply, which is dated July 13, to the effect that the shutting up of foreigners in Peking has deeply touched his heart, but that attempts to relieve them have failed owing to the revolt in Chih Li, but the governor adds that he will do his best to effect their release.

Prescott, Arizona, Burned.

Prescott, Arizona, July 16.—The most disastrous fire in the history of the town started in a row of buildings known as the Scopel block on Montezuma street. Every building on the west side of the plaza as far north as Gurley street, including the Burke hotel, is destroyed. The fire is spreading, and there is no telling where it will stop. The principal business houses so far destroyed are those of Sam D. Hill, D. Levy and the Ed block. The Courier office is destroyed and the Journal Miner office is in danger. Firemen are powerless, as there is no water. Over a dozen stores were blown up, without effect. It now looks as if the entire north end of town would go. The loss at present is not less than $500,000 to $700,000.

Later.

Prescott, Ariz., July 16.—A scene of the greatest desolation and a feeling of deepest gloom pervade the town. All that remains of the principal business portion of the town is tottering walls and piles of charred and burning debris. The fire which started at 10:45 o'clock Saturday night was not under control until 3 o'clock Sunday morning, when the fire fighters went a considerable distance in advance of the flames and blew up the buildings on the south side of Goodwin street, preventing fire from crossing that street. The most conservative estimates of the total losses are from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. The burned district embraces five blocks, in which were located the principal mercantile houses, both telegraph offices, four hotels and every saloon and every restaurant except one in the town, besides scores of private residences.

To add to the prevailing gloom a high wind has prevailed all day, sending smoke, dust and burning embers in every direction, requiring the greatest vigilance to prevent another outbreak of the flames. Owing to the chaotic condition existing today it is impossible to obtain an accurate account of the losses or individual insurance. From interviews with insurance agents, the total insurance does not exceed $250,000.

Notorious Bunco Men Jailed.

Boston, July 16.—The police arrested on the Cunard liner which arrived Saturday Edward McGrath of New York and Henry Gordon and John O'Brien. The latter two are well known to the police of this country. When searched more than $5000 in bills of large denominations were found on the men. Chief Inspector Watts identified Gordon as George Mason, alias "Punch." Mason is a notorious gold brick man. He is wanted at Windsor, Ont., for obtaining $5000 from a farmer for a gold brick swindle. He belongs to Seattle, Wash.

Healy Sent to an Asylum.

Port Townsend, July 16.—Upon complaint of Dr. Gardner, in charge of the United States marine hospital, Captain Healy of the United States cutter McCulloch was examined by the county board of physicians, who pronounced him insane, and a commitment to the asylum will be issued. The examination developed that during the four years while on waiting orders he was subject to many attacks of insomnia, lasting from a week to 10 days. It is understood he will be sent to Washington to the national asylum.

Will Come to America.

Cape Town, July 17.—When the war in South Africa is over 10,000 Boers, chiefly naturalized citizens of the Transvaal, will emigrate to the United States. Irish-Americans are arranging the preliminaries for this movement. The latest Amichodorp advices state that President Kruger will refuse to surrender until his supplies are exhausted.

Wyatt Earp Shot at Nome.

San Francisco, July 16.—News has been received from Cape Nome that Wyatt Earp, who refereed the Sharkey-Fitzsimmons fight, and gave the decision to Sharkey on a foul, was shot recently in the saloon which he is running at Nome. At last accounts Earp was still alive.

W. A. Clark Raises Wages.

Jerome, Ariz., July 16.—Eight-hour shifts for all underground men at the United Verde mine and an increase of 15 per cent in wages for miners in certain portions of the mine were announced Saturday.

First Census Bulletin.

Washington, July 16.—The census office has issued its first bulletin, giving the population of the District of Columbia at 278,718. This is an increase since the last report of 20.98 per cent.

Governor General of Australia.

London, July 16.—It is announced the queen has approved the selection of the earl of Hopetown as governor general of the Australian commonwealth.

Chefoo, Monday, July 13.—It is reported on good authority that Prince Tuan has become insane. In consequence of the movements of the rebels towards Tsin Tau the Germans have withdrawn some of their troops from Taku to protect Tsin Tau.

The women and children from New Chwang have arrived here.

Shanghai, July 13.—It is reported that a Chinese merchant here has received a letter from Peking dated June 30, saying the legations were demolished and that the foreigners had been killed. It is announced from a good source that 30,000 Russians are marching on Peking from the north.

WEN CHOW COMMUNITY SAFE

LANDED SAFELY AT SHANGHAI.

Germany Is Getting Her Troops Ready in Splendid Fashion—For a Year's Campaign—General Miles Is Preparing Americans.

London, July 16.—The only news from China Saturday night was the following, issued at midnight:

"The foreign office has received information from the consul general at Shanghai that the whole foreign community from Wen Chow has been landed safely at Shanghai."

As no mention is made of the alleged statement of Cheng, the director general of telegraphs of China, to the consuls at Shanghai, announcing the murder of foreigners in Peking, it is presumed that this story, crediting Cheng with these assertions and announcing that he blamed Prince Tuan for the attack on the legations, is one of the many inventions emanating from Shanghai.

According to a dispatch from Berlin, the mobilization of Germany's expeditionary force is being carried out in splendid fashion. Some 10,000 volunteers and 416 officers have already been accepted. It is announced that the government contemplates chartering 30 of the largest vessels belonging to two of the most important companies, the Bremen and Hamburg lines, as transports.

The expedition is being organized on the basis of a year's campaign.

General Miles and Minister Wu.

Washington, July 16.—Lieutenant General Miles called at the Chinese legation today and had a talk with the Chinese minister, Mr. Wu. This aroused comment in connection with the vague rumors afloat that General Miles might go to China. It was stated later, however, by those in position to be thoroughly informed of General Miles' plans, that the call on Minister Wu was entirely devoid of official significance and that General Miles has no present purpose of going to China. The relations between General Miles and Mr. Wu are friendly and personal, so that they frequently meet and exchange informal greetings. It is stated that General Miles has not asked for service in China and that such a move would not be considered for a moment under the present circumstances. At most, the army to be placed under foreign commanders does not exceed 10,000 men, and it is pointed out that such a command would be quite inadequate for a lieutenant general.

It is appreciated, however, that the situation may develop at any moment so that a large army will be required, in which case General Miles might determine to take the field in person.

At present he is exercising care in the preparations for getting the American troops on the ground, watching the details of supplies, transportation, etc. The diplomatic instructions of General Chaffee, who is in immediate command of the forces in China, are quite apart from those of a military nature.

Great Britain Anxious.

London, July 16.—The fate of the legations at Peking continues to absorb almost undivided interest in Great Britain. As the days of silence drag into weeks, the public tension and anxiety increase There is a feeling of gratitude here for the strenuous efforts the United States is making to compel China to give Minister Conger a chance to cable a message from Peking, and while faint hopes are entertained that they will be successful, it is generally felt that some such effort might well have been attempted by the British foreign office.

One of the clearest pronouncements upon China comes from Archibald Ross Colquhoun, the well known correspondent of the London Times, whose study of far eastern conditions has made him an authority on the subject. Writing to Mr. Brodrick, the parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, Mr. Colquhoun declares that unless prompt relief arrives the Europeans will be massacred, and if able to hold out until the revolt subsides there will be "an indelible impression on the Chinese mind that their escape was due, not to the strength and determination of Great Britain, but to their own forbearance." He adds: "The loss of prestige will be incomparable. I am convinced that a determined assault on the city of Tientsin would clear the situation and open the way to Peking."

The commanders now at Tientsin are not winning golden opinions from the English public, which, while suspending severe criticism, fails to see why the united forces should be so impotent and so apparently outclassed by the Chinese, not only in numbers, but in artillery and, some people are almost inclined to believe, in strategy.

Legations Massacred.

Shanghai, July 17.—An official telegram was received Sunday from the governor of Shan Tung stating that a breach was made in the wall of the British legation at Peking after a gallant defense, and when all the ammunition had given out all foreigners were killed.

Sheng Cables Bad News to Wu.

Washington, July 17.—Under date of Shanghai, July 15, Sheng, director general of telegraphs, has cabled Minister Wu in this city, in reply to his telegram of inquiry, as follows:

"Peking news of July 7 says that General Tuan Fuh Siang, in disobedience of imperial orders, was about to use guns. The legations and the government will be in peril."

Western Tennis Championship.

Chicago, July 16.—Kreigh Collins of this city won the western tennis championship by defeating Sumner Hardy, the California crack. Collins' victory was won on the Kenwood club grounds.

A MINIATURE BOOMERANG.

A New Toy that Affords Lots of Amusement.

To make this miniature boomerang all that is needed is a sharp knife and some heavy cardboard. Cut a semicircle, as shown in the picture, making one end slightly broader than the other. To shoot this boomerang place it just under the nail of the forefinger of the left hand. Do not put it there at the center, but place it in such a way that the larger part of the boomerang is towards the left. Then give it a flip with the thumb of the right hand and the boomerang will act like the famous weapon of the Australian savages, striking the object at which it is aimed, and then returning to the person who shot it. It will require some little practice and experiment to get the shape of the boomerang exactly right, and at the same time to place it in the proper position and give it the proper stroke. This is, of course, a play boomerang compared with the wooden boomerangs which the Australians throw with such force that they can strike and often kill a man or animal at 200 yards, the weapon returning to the hands or feet of the person who threw it.

YOKE THAT LINCOLN MADE.

Now in the Agricultural Museum of the University of Illinois.

A recent rearrangement of relics in the Agricultural Museum of the University of Illinois brought to light the old ox yoke made by Abraham Lincoln and presented to the university in the early '70s. By orders of President Draper the yoke was inclosed in a glass-topped case, made of boards from the old Lincoln home at Springfield.

The yoke was made by Lincoln when he was on a farm near Decatur. For several years it was in service about the Lincoln homestead. The yoke is of black walnut, and shows evidence of hard usage. The workmanship is rough, the iron parts being especially crude, indicating that they were made at a country blacksmith shop.

A Fin-de-Siecle Church.

The rector of St. Mary-at-Hill Church, Monument (the Rev. W. Carlile), in whose church the electrophone has for some time been installed, is now arranging for the introduction of a large gramophone, to be used at the 1:15 o'clock daily limelight service in the church. By means of the gramophone the congregation—wholly composed of city merchants and clerks—will hear brief addresses from the leading dignitaries of the church and from a number of prominent laymen.—London Globe.

MINES AND MINING NEWS

OUR NORTHWESTERN MINES.

Items Gleaned From Late Reports—All Districts Are Being Developed—A Prosperous Year Is Predicted—Mining Notes and Personals.

The initial report of the United States assay office at Seattle, Wash., for the fiscal year, which ended June 30, has been issued, and the receipts show a marvelous gain over those of the previous year. During this time 5808 deposits, with an aggregate value of $13,630,326.58, have been made. This enormous sum in weight represents 849,611.10 ounces of virgin placer gold. In the previous year the deposits numbered 3429, and were valued at $6,505,926.64.

REPUBLIC.

The record of mine development for June shows that but few mines are being worked and most of those that have continued work do not make much of a showing as compared with June of last year. The only mine in the ditrict upon which work was done during the past month that came up to the record of a year ago is the Mountain Lion. It is in the lead, with no close competitors. There have been many drawbacks that contributed to the small amount of development work on several claims that have held fairly good records in the past. The most prominent cause is the installation of machinery. That interfered with mine development. During the month machinery was intalled on the Quilp, Tom Thumb and Morning Glory. These mines will make some progress during the present month and in all probability there will next month be a wonder[..]rovement all along the [..] Tail and [..]

The Tom Thumb was idle the greater part of last month.

The Lone Pine-Surprise ceased work before the end of last month.

One hunded and forty feet of shaft and drift were run on the Chico in the month of June.

The Golden Harvest run 85 feet of drift and 10 feet of cross cut last month

The Oversight run 30 feet of drift in June.

The machinery in the Morning Glory mine, Republic, has been started and the well known property is now being worked once more. No work on the ore body has been done for the last seven months, owing to the placing of the new machinery in the mine. From now on the developing work will be continued.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

In the East Kootenai mining has been rather quiet so far this season. This seems to be the condition everywhere, except in those places where there are producing mines, as in Moyie and near Kimberly. At Kimberly 100 tons of ore are being shipped from the North Star and 25 tons from the Sullivan daily. This, with the St. Eugene concentrator's shipments, makes a good showing for East Kootenai, and will this year place the district in a far better position than before as an ore producer.

On Wild Horse creek and its tributaries considerable work is being done The Golden Five is being steadily worked with a small force. A large amount of supplies were sent in last week for the men employed on the Bill Nye, a galena and copper proposition. The ore is high grade.

Phoenix is seeking incorporation and asking government aid for a proposed road to Summit camp.

Several men are at work on the John Bull, at the head of Sheep creek. This is another attractive high grade property. On Boulder creek several men are at work on the Big Chief. Over the divide from Boulder creek is the Star Group, said to be one of the biggest copper and galena showings in the district. This district is an attractive one for the prospector. The surface indications far exceed those of many other British Columbia camps in the early days. It will not be long before East Kootenay will be as well known as any section of the province.

The situation looks brighter in the Slocan than for a long time. In the Boundary the situation is favorable. There is about 6000 tons of ore in the bunkers of the Old Ironsides and Knob Hill and fully 8000 tons broken in the stopes and workings of the two mines ready for the smelter as soon as cars can be obtained for its shipment.

At Grand Forks the finishing touches are being put on the Granby smelter. The water will be in the flume about the last of the month and sampling will commence at once. It is probable that the smelter will be able to blow in about August 15. There is now on hand at the smelter over 1000 tons of ore from the Lincoln and City of Paris, and it will take but a short time to place there enough to give a large reserve for the start. The smelting plant, power house and water power plant seem as nearly perfect as they can be made. It will take only a few weeks to break in the crews at the smelter and get the machinery running to best advantage. Then the Boundary district will be on its feet for good as a producing camp.

Shipments of ore to date from the B. C. mine, Summit camp, to the Trail smelter, exceed 4800 tons. The total workings aggregate 4000 feet. The main shaft has attained a depth of 272 feet. About one-sixth of the development has been sinking and raising, the balance being drifting and crosscutting.

MINING NOTES.

A shoot of immensely rich silver ore is being entered in the east drift of the Blue Bird mine, on Black Tail mountain, Lake Pend d'Oreille.

Assays from a ledge recently located by Thomas Butler and others, two miles above Orofino, Idaho, gave 70 ounces in silver per ton. The ledge is located along the railroad track, and it is said if the ore body proves with development of sufficient size to be of value it will make one of the easiest mines to ship from in Idaho.

A report comes from the Summit mining district, Washington, generally known as Gold Hill, that a rich pocket of wire gold has been struck. The report is verified by different parties just returned from the mines, who claim they saw the ledge as opened, and could stand off 10 feet and see the gold shining in the rock. The report has caused much excitement among mining men and several new outfits will be sent at once, to the district. J. C. Carter, a Montana expert, says the country is a perfect mass of gold and copper. Every claim so far developed shows rich copper and gold deposits.

A remarkable discovery of ore has just been made in the Golden Era mine in New Era district, near Colville, and so promising is the showing that a mill test of the ore has been sent to the smelter. If this proves the values to be what is expected, shipments will be made by the carload at an early date. The fact that the Golden Era has been under development for less than six weeks makes this one of the swiftest reaches toward success that has been recorded in the annals of successful mining in the state, with one or two exceptions. If the tests prove as satisfactory as the ore indicates at this time, there remains no question about the future of this property being brighter than was ever anticipated, even by the original owners.

The Big Buffalo is working three shifts. The shaft is about 100 feet deep, with an improvement in the appearance of the ore.

Conjecture shipment produced gratifying returns from the June output. Less than 24 tons of ore and concentrates netted the company nearly $1,000. Crude ore went over $63 in silver. The shipment represents a fortnight's work.

No trail followed by the footsteps of human industry is so involved in and environed by romance, pathos and tragedy, in the failure of the expected and the arrival of the unexpected in magnificent proportions as in the search for discovery, extraction and reduction of the precious metals, gold and silver.

According to the sworn statement filed with the state board of equalization, the net profits of the Utah dividend-paying mines of the current year were $2,370,026, as compared with $1,782,264 for the same period last year.

Sad and distressing stories come of hardships and disappointments endured by the great majority of the people who have rushed to Cape Nome. The place is now under martial law awaiting the arrival of the law officers, provided to administer the laws under the Alaskan bill passed by the last congress. Small-pox is prevalent as well as pneumonia and typhoid fever. It proves far from what it has been represented to be, yet those who are able to remain until conditions are adjusted for legitimate mining, will no doubt be rewarded.

Development in Viola mine, Black Horney district, Idaho, are of a most important character. The ledge has been cut in the long tunnel and drifted on both ways, the operation with the uprises surrounding one of the biggest bodies of ore that has been opened in the vicinity for a long time. The tunnel was run in 750 to 800 feet before it encountered the ledge, which was cut at a depth of about 400 feet from the surface and fully 250 feet below the upper workings, from which some high grade ore was taken. The ledge at the point of intersection is 22 feet wide between walls. The ore is base, but is said to carry high values. As soon as the extent of the body was known Manager Anderson ordered everything closed down and the mine nailed up. This was done, it is said, because there is no place to put the ore. There is already 400 tons of very good ore on the dump. It is understood to be that company's purpose to install a large plant at the Viola as soon as po[..]

TRIED TO TAKE CHINESE GUNS

THE ATTEMPT UNSUCCESSFUL.

British and Americans Together—Japs Helped—Several Killed and Wounded—Americans Are Anxious to Enlist for Chinese War.

Tientsin, July 6, via Shanghai, July 16.—At noon today the British and American allies tried, unsuccessfully, to capture a Chinese 15-pounder, mounted last night, which was enfilading the advanced position of the allies. From 2 to 4 o'clock in the morning an artillery duel of 11 guns took place, the Chinese shelling the settlements from the native city. The British and Japanese guns shelled the forts from the viceroy's and yamen's city gates. The practice was good, the British silencing two of the guns of the Chinese. The fire of the enemy burned one of Mackenzie's wool warehouses. The loss was over 100,000 taels. It is estimated that over 500 shells fell in the settlement, wrecking practically all the buildings. Undoubtedly spies are informing the enemy of the condition of the troops and of the situation in the quarters of the allies, especially after a bombardment has taken place. The Chinese trained one naval gun on the allies. Efforts were made to capture a silenced gun and a tremendous fire was encountered. Today's casualties were as follows:

Killed—Two blue jackets and two members of one of the Chinese regiments.

Wounded—Three officers, two blue jackets, two marines and five members of one of the Chinese regiments.

Relief Close at Hand.

Tientsin, July 7, via Shanghai, July 16.—A thousand French soldiers and 1500 Russians are expected here today. Twelve hundred Americans are at Taku awaiting transportation to this port.

Anxious to Fight Chinese.

Washington, July 16.—Applications continue to come to the war department from persons who are anxious to serve the army during a campaign in China. Today's mail brought one letter from Secretary Curley of the National Rough Riders' military encampment offering to raise a company of 100 men or more. Adjutant General Corbin in his reply has informed the writer that the executive has no authority to accept more organizations than are now in the service, still the men desiring Chinese service may be enlisted individually by the army recruiting officers in the principal cities. The men may select their regiment.

Fire Losses Increase.

New York—The increase in the fire loss of this country and Canada has been abnormal. The record shows a total loss of $123,189,900 for the first six months of the year 1900, as against $65,699,150 for the same period of 1899. The great difference between 1900 and 1899 and 1898 is shown. The losses for the first six months of 1898 were $58,377,100; of 1899, $65,699,750, and of 1900, $123,139,900.

The heaviest loss this year was the Ottawa-Hull conflagration, amounting to $12,000,000, and the next in point of destruction of value, though taking precedence as to loss of life, was the Hoboken disaster of last Saturday.

The Standard Oil fire is, of course, not included in these figures. The months of April and June show greater advances than the others Fires of $500,000 and over in destructiveness which have occurred since January 1, 1900, are presented in this compilation: Philadelphia several department stores, $700,000; Lead, S. D., various, $500,000; Dayton, Ohio, tobacco factory and others, $500,000; St. Louis, department store and others, $975,000; Newark department store and others, $1,000,000; Pittsburg, department store, $1,200,000; Ottawa-Hull conflagration, $12,000,000; Sandon, B. C., various, $700,00; Fisher, Wis., various, $500,000; Virginia, Minn., business portion of town, $500,000; Bloomington, Ill., various, $1,800,000; Pierce, Ariz., mining property and mill, $700,000; Morenci, Ariz., mining property, $800,000; Hoboken, steamship docks, storehouses, ocean steamers and cargoes and barges, $5,850,000.

The officers of fire insurance companies have had a turbulent experience during the past two years. Many companies have been forced to the wall and others have had their financial strength so depleted that they must succumb before the January 1, 1901, statements are required to be filed. From present appearances insurance rates will need to be largely increased to keep up with the constant, serious drain on insurance capital.

California Forest Fires.

Grub Gulch, Cal., July 16.—Since July 4 a fierce fire has been raging in the district south of Fresno river and up to date territory to the amount of 20 square miles has been burned. The fire was started on the Fourth of July at the Holton place near the Chinese store on the Coarse Gold road by a firecracker set off by a little girl. The flames rapidly spread eastward, sweeping everything before them. All fences have been burned and three families rendered homeless. The fire reached North Fork Tuesday. The whole population turned out to fight the fire. It took 100 men to keep it from the houses. The flames passed around the town and are still sweeping eastward. The old Waterloo stamp mill, together with thousands of dollars worth of machinery, was burned Thursday. A terrific explosion Monday announced that the powder mill at Quartz mountain had been blown up. Hundreds of cords of wood have been burned. There is no telling when the fire will stop.

No Wonder He Got a Seat.

A young man got into a tram-car, and saw to his delight that the only vacant seat was by the side of a young lady acquaintance. He made for that seat with joyous strides, and her eyes answered his delighted looks. But just as he got there an elderly man on the same side moved up into the coveted place.

The young man approached more slowly, and accosted the young lady.

"How is your brother?" he asked; "is he able to get out?"

"Oh, yes," she answered.

"Will he be very badly marked, do you think?" he continued, and the old gentleman grew suddenly interested.

"Oh, no," said the fair deceiver, "with the exception of a few small marks in the middle of his forehead, you wouldn't know that he had ever had it."

"Were you not afraid of taking it?" the young man went on, while the old gentleman broke out in a cold perspiration.

"Not at all," she replied; "I had been vaccinated, you know."

The seat was vacated instantly, the two young hearts beat as half-a-dozen, and the prattle of "nice talk" strewed that part of the vehicle, while a grayhaired old man scowled upon them from the farther corner of the tram-car.

Designs on Stone Steps.

A new invention that is already on the market in Germany is that of artificial stone steps. A design imitating staircase carpets of any desired color is pressed into the steps when still soft, and as the design or figures penetrate to a considerable depth they last as long as the steps. Beautiful designs can be used and have been found suitable for fine residences.

Cost of the Great Canals.

The Suez canal cost $100,000,000, the Manchester ship canal $90,000,000, the North Sea canal $27,500,000, the North Holland and the Corinth canals $15,000,000 each, while the partly completed Panama canal has swallowed up over $250,000,000.

—D. B. Grant departed Sunday morning over the Northern Pacific for Ohio to visit a sister who has been very ill for some time. He will be absent about three weeks.

—Mrs. Chas. W. Kays arrived from her former home in Moscow yesterday to join her husband, who is now employed at the Kjos store as bookkeeper.—Lewiston Tribune.

—Rev. and Mrs. Howard left Tuesday for a three weeks camping trip to Hayden lake, seven miles from Cœur d'Alene City. They will be joined at Spokane by his brother and family.

—If the hay harvest lags any it is because of the lack of help. Harvest hands will be more plentiful in another week. Some of the town people have been pressed into service and the way they make hay fly is a caution.

—The dry weather is quite general. The late sown spring grain here is affected; in parts of Nebraska and on south the corn crop is shortened; and through Illinois and Wisconsin corn and potatoes suffer. Light rains in the parched districts of the Dakotas have improved the grain some.

—About thirty of the Moscow Leaguers came over Sunday a week and took part with the Genesee League and Christian Endeavor societies in union service. The program was pronounced excellent. Special mention should be made of the paper by Miss Fern Headley.

—Albert Freng returned from Tacoma last week and will assist in the harvest fields. He was at that awful street car wreck in fifteen minutes after it occurred and states the scenes presented were beyond description. Times are good and laboring men can get plenty to do at good figures.

—Our politicians to the state conventions at Pocatello and Boise—W. J. Herman and F. K. Bressler to the former place, and G. W. Daggett, J. J. Owen and F. D. Hasbrouck to the latter—left early Sunday morning via Moscow. Mr. Hasbrouck will continue his journey on to Michigan to visit his old home which he left ten years ago, expecting to return the last of August.

—Loose timothy hay is selling at $6.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Hall of Uniontown visited the Platts and Hermans this week.

—Mrs. Geo. Ingraham and Miss Edna Pickering came down from Spokane Sunday.

—Robt. Gray and family and Chas. Spurbeck's family picniced in the white pine belt last week.

—There were thirty-three prostrations and several deaths in New York last Tuesday. Pretty hot.

—Mrs. Johnson and granddaughter, Mary Hellen London, are here from Grangeville visiting friends.

—Have you seen Larrabee's new wind-wheel? It will not run until John gets his patent safely secured.

—Ed. Coltom accompanied by his wife from N. Dakota, arrived here this week looking for a location for a hardware and furniture store.

—The St. Louis Button Co. sends the NEWS sample campaign buttons of McKinley and Roosvelt which are all right. Candidates wanting buttons with their mugs on them would do well to write this firm.

—Hank Stracker received a new threshing machine the past week, the Agitator, with a straw-blower and all the late improvements. Joseph Schauber also received a new machine at the same time

—Mike Glover has sold his grain crop and he and Joe Wells have secured a new header from Mr. Driscoll and will harvest grain for farmers who have not the necessary machinery. Mr. Mochel secured Mike's crop.

—Every man who wants work can get it either in the hay or grain harvest or in the mines with good pay. In fact Genesee farmers are complaining about the scarcity of hands. They wish to push work and save the fine crops before them.

—Geo. W. Holloway returned recently from a trip through Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, and New Mexico, and thinks there is no farming country in the west equal to this part of Idaho. After harvest he will go to the mountains after big game.

—Charley Burr received a message Saturday stating his sister, Mrs. Mary Potter, living near Kalispell, Wash., had died, and left next day to attend the funeral. The deceased was 33 yrs. of age, and leaves a husband and several small children, one only a few days old.

—The Methodist people had a "jolification" on the church lawn Monday evening on account of the wiping out of the church debt. The lawn was lighted up with Japanese lanterns and an appropriate program was rendered. Ice cream and cake was served all who attended.

—Harvest hands wanted. Several farmers have been in this week to secure help but were compelled to return home without any. A portion of the few men coming in are either too lazy or independent to work when it is offered them. Pay is good, ranging from $2, $2.50 and $3 per day. Many small boys have been pressed into service, earning $1 and $1.25 a day.

—Walters has campaign buttons.

—M. A. Means transacted business in Lewiston this week.

—Express Route Agent Miller was here from Spokane Monday.

—John Platt is getting more orders for baling hay than he can fill.

—R. J. Whitted and wife were here from Juliaetta yesterday with a load fruit.

—Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will visit Seattle and other coast points next week.

—Young Vanouck let his horse roll over him this week and ever since has been on the retired list.

—Here is the latest pun: What is the difference between Bryan and Buffalo Bill? Buffalo Bill has a show.

—Harvey Lawson is down from Spokane for the harvest. His father is in Boston selling mining stock.

—White section hands at Tekoa have been displaced by Japanese. The town's business men do not like the change.

—Alex D. Bennett, the hustler for the leading paper on the Sound, the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, worked Genesee yesterday.

—Harold Hobson and a couple of green apples had a hot time the other night but Harold got the best of the fight by morning Enemies now.

—Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Means, of Wichita, Kansas, arrived here this week. Mrs. Means is a sister of Mrs. Smith Prunty and have not seen one another for twenty one years.

—Rev and Mrs. J. M. Harris returned to Genesee after a visit of nearly a month with his sons, Al. and William at Spokane and Pullman. They are glad to reach home again.

—The financial statement of the condition of the Genesee Exchange Bank appears elsewhere in this issue. Look it up. The showing it makes is very flattering and speaks well for the managers.

—R. Ruddy, with his pack train loaded with specimens of free milling ore, arrived home Tuesday from the Thunder Mountain region where the mineral wealth lies only waiting for development to become the richest mines in the world.

—G. A. Vowels has thrown up the Lenville stage contract and taken to the large Crandall grain field. Mr. Vowels has worked faithfully for Uncle Samuel since a year last November, but thinks the pay too small for these good times. Understand O. P. Merrill will try his hand at mail carrying.

—The subject of the sermon at the Congregational church next Sabbath evening will be "The life that is, completed in the one to come." As the pastor expects to commence his vacation a week from Monday he hopes to see the attendents on the services all present next Sabbath evening and at both services a week from Sabbath. No preaching next Sabbath morning. Communion one week from next Sabbath.

Paris Fair.

The American exhibit at the Paris Exposition will be an open volume, whose lessons of skillfully directed endeavor, unfaltering energy and consummate performance may be read by all, of every age. The United States Government Building is about completed, and no effort has been spared to make it worthy to represent our nation. It was by the same American perseverance, industry and unfaltering energy, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the famous dyspepsia cure, was first produced. Since that time, it has never failed to perform its duty—the cure of constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria, fever and ague, liver and kidney troubles. It is an excellent tonic for the general health. All druggists sell it. There is nothing to equal it.

...illustration on the compara... hopelessness of The Hague peace conference is furnished in the fact that the English Government has a plan under consideration whereby every lad in the public schools of that country is to receive a military training with a view to future possibilities of being called on to serve as a soldier. If the plan matures about four million children will be subject to this new branch of learning. It is proposed to start in with their martial tuition at about the age of 11 and continue it for at least three years. During this time they will use dummy guns. When they leave school they will form armed cadet organizations, and so become in miniature exact counterparts of the present militia or volunteer regiments. All of which is quite a commentary on the way modern education is inclined to teach the young idea how to shoot.

To wed early or late, that is the question which is now agitating the minds of people who want to keep the human race headed in the right direction. Whether 'tis better to rush blindly into matrimony when one feels that he is up to his ears in love or, by waiting, run the risk of meeting some one later on who will not be opposed to taking in boarders or looking after a grocery if necessary. Mr. Edward Bok, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, informs us that no man can afford to marry before he is 25 years of age. Mr. Bok himself remained a bachelor until he was well past 30, and we infer from the advice he now gives out that he regards his present happiness as sufficient to repay him for all the lonely years that elapsed before he really began to live. An irreverent Western critic suggests that perhaps Mr. Bok looks back upon his years of single blessedness with so much pleasure now that he wants to help prolong the happiness of others as much as possible by warning them against undue haste; but we dismiss this insinuation as unworthy of notice and too base for serious discussion.

Judge Simeon E. Baldwin recently delivered an address before the American Social Science Association on "The Natural Right of Man to a Natural Death." He took the position that a man who was hopelessly ill should be permitted to die without effort to prolong his life, and that medical men should not lengthen the lives of persons suffering from incurable diseases. To understand the startling proposition it ...ll to understand that Judge Bald... a man who does not enjoy mak... statements simply to see the effect ... amused by the adverse criti... is a judge of the Supreme ...onnecticut and a lecturer on ...al law at Yale. Think of the men who have been pronounced hopelessly ill who are to-day walking the streets in the enjoyment of perfect health. Their lives had been prolonged; and then came recovery that in many cases is unaccountable. Man has a natural right to live as well as to die. Life is sweet to most persons, and their wish to live is paramount to any reason of expense and burden to others that they might be. No medical man's judgment is infallible, and few physicians would care to assume the responsibility of the profession if those believed to be hopelessly ill were to be denied medicine and attention that would prolong life. Judge Baldwin's proposition is contradictory to the highest instincts of humanity.

PUGILIST WANTED HIS CHANGE

Bantam Annoyed the Conductor and Trouble Resulted.

The bantam-weight prize fighter, immaculate in a new spring overcoat and a blonde hat, stepped on the street car with a confident air and leaned against the rear dashboard. The conductor looked him over with poorly concealed contempt. He was not to blame, for the bantam carried no three-sheet posters on his overcoat telling who he was.

"Fare," said the conductor rather sharply. The slugger yawned and fished up a coin. The conductor shoved it in his pocket and rang up the fare. Then be gazed into the car and rode for some moments motionless.

The bantam touched him on the arm.

"Well, what is it?" demanded the conductor, turning savagely.

"My change?" said the little fellow mildly.

"Change? Whatcher want?" cried the nickel snatcher; "change for a nickel?"

"I gave you a quarter," suggested the bantam.

"You what? Well, say, young feller, another crack like that an' off you go in the ditch," said the polite conductor. The bantam looked him in the eye and said:

"Are you going to give me my 20 cents?"

"S-s-sp-p-p——" the conductor started to say, linking his words together so fast that they fell over one another. And then he incautiously reached forth an arm toward the dapper little man in the light coat.

When they had stopped the car to take the conductor off he was fit for a surgical clinic. What the little fellow did to him was certainly sufficient from a scientific standpoint, and the messenger boy on the platform methodically rang up ten fares before he declared the conductor "Out." Meanwhile the little man was standing on a corner several blocks back lighting a cigarette and telling a friend that some of these conductors would get hurt some time if they got gay.—Chicago Chronicle.

LESSON FOR BOYS.

The Rise of Frank O. Lowden a Former Burlington, Iowa, Teacher.

Frank O. Lowden, of Chicago, attorney and practical head of the Pullman Palace Car Company, and husband of Florence Pullman, and at one time a school teacher in Burlington, was in Davenport, Iowa, recently. His short stay there inspired the following in the Davenport Democrat:

"Not many years ago Frank Lowden was an Iowa farmer boy. He eventually got into the Iowa State university, where, as people of this city who knew him then tell it, he held the banner for country verdancy and awkwardness, but along with it he held the reputation of being one of the best students and quickest learners in the institution. He taught in the Burlington high school for a time, then gave up teaching for the bar, then went to Chicago, and then the rest came easily. Any bright boy might do the same. He succeeded in having one of the richest girls in the country fall in love with him, and when her father conveniently died he came into the management of his vast estate, and a foremost position as a successful attorney and a man of affairs. Every Iowa farmer boy ought to look up and take heart with the inspiring vision of Mr. Lowden's success to encourage him."

Life of Laborers on Boer Farms.

The native laborers on the Boer farms—often thirty or forty miles from the nearest village—have hard times compared to their brethren who work in the dorp (town); they are badly fed, badly housed, and too often treated as if they were cattle. One often wonders why an ill-used family of Kafirs does not pack up its few cooking pots and leave a cruel master; but the real reason of the Kafirs' submission is that they are always induced to make agreement to serve for a certain time—perhaps a year or two years—and if they go away within that period they can be brought back, beaten, and put in the tronk (as the jail is called). The only food given Kafirs on the farms is mealies (corn), of which they make a very coarse flour and then boil into a thick porridge; and perhaps once a week they get a piece of mutton as a treat for specially hard work.

Large Families.

Small families are hardly the rule among the English upper ten. The average is six or seven. The queen is the mother of nine and the Princess of Wales of six children. Lord Abergavenny is the father of ten, the Duke of Argyll of twelve, the Dowager Countess of Dudley is the mother of seven children, the Earl of Ellesmere boasts of eleven, the Earl of Inchiquin of fourteen, and the Earl of Leicester of eighteen.—Indianapolis News.

If you want to make a woman good and mad, ask her when she appears in a new dress where she had it dyed.

HIGH INTENT.

A steadfast high intent is bankable
On this or any other plane.
A fiendish motive, found at last, will tell
The criminal, and prove him sane.

'Tis the red fury in the very blood
That gives the color to our life,
And the intent, whichever, bad or good,
Begets the broods of love or strife.

Happy for us, if we can, fold by fold,
Unwrap God's universe, and see
Where refuse only is, and where the gold,
And which is best for you and me?

If there might early dawn on our dull eyes
The sweet repose of boundless hope,
So that the soul serene might realize
Its wondrous destiny and scope?

If its enormous claims would early give
The high chivalric sense of right,
And marry this to wisdom, we might live
Empurpled in the robes of might.

And thus, with quenchless faith in noble things,
And the infinitude of good,
Our high intent will spread its heavenly wings,
And mount where whitest saints have stood.

Then we shall herd no more with murmuring ones,
But cut the sinews of our grief,
And hearken to the sweet inspiring tones
Of an enrapturing belief.

And live, with room enough for self-denial,
And trust enough for each event,
And God enough to cheapen every trial
And glorify our high intent.

—Charles W. Fairrington, in Rockford Register-Gazette.

A CLEVER MAKE-UP.

HENRY APPS, of Hoxton, completed the fixing of the wires on the lawn of Husleigh Court. He looked up at the dim light in the dressing-room, and chuckled softly as he bent the last yard of wire.

"A trip in time," says Mr. Apps, "saves nine."

He threw the rope ladder gently in the air, and at the first effort it caught the projecting nail.

"Once on board the lugger," quoted Mr. Apps, facetiously, as he mounted the rope ladder, "and the girl is mine."

He opened the window very gently and soon stood inside the dressing-room. Near the table in the corner of the room was an iron safe.

"Well, I'm jiggered," exclaimed Mr. Apps. He loosened the flaps of his fur cap and mopped his brow with the back of his hand. "Well, I'm jiggered! If they 'aven't been and left the key in for me. I might have saved myself a lot of trouble if I'd a knowed."

Mr. Apps swung open the heavy door of the safe and listened to the music downstairs. Young Lady Staplehurst was giving (as Mr. Apps very well knew) a dance, a fancy dress dance, on her return from the continent, after her term of widowhood.

"I'll just see first of all," he said, "that the coast is absolutely clear, and then—then for a bagful."

Henry Apps stepped out into the broad passage. He slouched, with his jimmy sticking out of his capacious side pocket, a few steps toward the stairs. Suddenly a girlish figure turned the corner.

"Bless my 'art!" cried Mr. Apps.

"Why, how do you do?" said the young lady, stepping forward. She gave a soft laugh that was very pleasant. "This is really delightful. Do you know, I recognize you in spite of the costume?"

She held the hand of Mr. Apps for a moment, causing that gentleman to gasp for breath, and calling one of the maids.

"Just bring me a pencil and a card," she said. "I must arrange for a carriage to take Captain Norman back to his hotel in the morning. I wasn't sure that he would come."

"I can walk," remarked Mr. Apps, with restored self-possession.

"I won't hear of it. When shall we say, now?"

"Say in an hour's time," said Mr. Apps. "I can go upstairs again alone, change my togs and do all I want to."

"And can't you stay longer?"

She gave the card to the maid and ordered it to be dispatched at once.

"I've got a busy night before me," urged Mr. Apps, excusingly. He thought of his dog waiting on the lawn, and feared it might give an inopportune bark. Besides, the safe was still open and the diamonds were waiting for him. He had noticed with satisfaction that Lady Staplehurst was wearing none.

"You were always an active man, Captain."

"Always a-doing something," agreed Mr. Apps. "If it isn't one thing it's another." He shook his head reflectively. "I often wonder I don't write a book about it all."

"I don't believe you will know anybody here, Captain Norman," she said, as they walked downstairs, "but I couldn't help sending you a card, seeing how friendly we were on Peshawur. Do you remember those evenings on deck in the Red Sea?"

She was really a very fine young woman, and in her costume she looked extremely well.

"Do I not?" said Mr. Apps, with much fervor. "Shall I ever forget 'em?"

"And then the journey from Brindisi, you know, and that funny little German—you remember him?"

"He was a knockout, that German was."

"And the girl who played the banjo, and——"

"It was great," agreed Mr. Apps—"great."

The large ball-room was very full. A small covey of brightly dressed young people flew toward the young hostess to complain of her temporary absence from the room, and a broad-shouldered gondolier shook hands with her and took up her card with something of an air of proprietorship.

"I thought I had left the key in the—excuse me." The young hostess took back her card from the gondolier. "I am engaged to Captain Norman. You don't know him? Allow me."

"Pleased to meet you," said Henry Apps.

"'Ow's the world using you?"

"That's an original costume of yours, Captain Norman," remarked the gondolier. "I don't know that I've ever seen anything so darlingly neat before."

"Well, wot of it?" demanded Mr. Apps, with sudden aggressiveness; "wot's the odds to you wot like to wear? You needn't think you're——"

"Captain Norman," interposed the young hostess, laughingly, "you mustn't overdo your part. Look here, I've put your name down for this waltz, but if you like we'll sit it out—that is, if you promise to keep up that diverting East End talk. I like it. Do you think you can manage to do so?"

"Rather!" said Mr. Apps.

"And it is a capital make-up, Captain Norman," she went on. "Do you know that at first, just for one moment, I thought you were a real burglar."

"Fancy that now!" said Mr. Apps. He was relieved at seeing an obvious way out of his difficulty. "There's nothing like doing the thing in a proper, striteforward w'y."

"And," said Lady Staplehurst, with her fan on his arm as they walked across the room, "you have got the East End accent capitally."

"'Tain't so dusty, is it?"

She beckoned to the gondolier.

"Captain Norman and I are great friends," she said in an explanatory way. "He has not been long home from abroad, and he knows scarcely any one."

"Not a blessed soul," echoed Mr. Apps.

"Isn't it capital?" asked Lady Staplehurst of the gondolier, delightedly. "How much more interesting it would be if every one would make only talk to me in their character."

"Well, blow me!" said Lady Staplehurst, screwing her pretty mouth in her effort to imitate the cockney's accent; "blow me if this ain't a fair take—I mean like dah," she laughed. "It's no use, Captain Norman, I can't talk as you can."

"It's a gift," said Mr. Apps, that's what it is."

"You don't want to be introduced to anybody here, I suppose?"

"Not me."

"You have heard of——"

She pointed in the direction of the gondolier.

"All I want to."

"He's really making a big name in the house, you know. I watch his career with great interest."

"Thinks a jolly lot of himself."

"Oh, I think a lot of him, too," remarked Lady Staplehurst, pleasantly. "And is that a jimmy sticking out of your jacket pocket? This is, indeed, realism. You don't know how it works, I suppose?"

"Well, I've got a kind of hidea," said Mr. Apps. "Look 'ere. You put this end in and——"

Mr. Apps found himself getting quite excited in the explanation that he gave. It was a new sensation to meet one who showed an intelligent interest in his profession, and he could not help feeling flattered. Looking up, he saw the gondolier gazing at him.

"He don't look 'appy, that chap," said Mr. Apps.

"Will you excuse me for one moment?"

"Wot are you going up to?" he said, apprehensively.

"I want to speak to him."

"Oh!" (with relief) "I don't mind that."

While Lady Staplehurst was making the gondolier resume his ordinary expression Mr. Apps thought and thought. The couple promenading after the waltz looked curiously at him.

"You are in the worst fix you were ever in, 'Enery," said Mr. Apps; "you're a 'aving 'em on toast, you are; but you'll be glad to get upstairs agen. You want them diamonds, that's wot you want. Time means money to you, 'Enery."

Lady Staplehurst hurried toward the doorway. A murmur of amusement went through the room as the guests saw a new arrival in the costume of a police constable, accompanied by a man in plain clothes. Mr. Apps, thinking over his exploits, gazing abstractedly at his boots, regretting their want of polish, did not see them until the plain clothes man tapped him on the shoulder.

"What, Apps again!" exclaimed the man.

"Yus," said the burglar, discontentedly. "Yus, it is Apps agine, Mr. Walker. And vurry glad you are to see him, I've no daht."

"Always a pleasure to meet a gentleman like you," said Mr. Walker, cheerfully, as he conducted him to the doorway. "I've wanted to run up against you before."

Much commotion in the ball-room at the diverting little scene. General agreement that Lady Staplehurst was a perfect genius at entertaining.

"But, loveliest," said the gondolier confidently to aLdy Staplehurst, "isn't this carrying a joke rather too far? That's a real detective."

"I know," said the loveliest girl, trembling now a little. "That's a real burglar, too."

"A real——"

"Yes, yes. Don't make a fuss. I don't want the dance spoiled. Take me down to supper, like a good fellow."—The Columbian.

BETS THAT ARE SURE THINGS.

Feats that Are Seemingly Easy, but Impossible of Performance.

Bets to be avoided by those who are cock-sure they can do all things are those relating to athletic feats. It would seem that a good runner could easily give a start of fifty yards in 100 to a man who was doing the fifty yards by hopping on one leg. But few runners, if any, can afford to give that amount of start to any man who is at all strong on his legs. For the first five yards or so they go at practically the same pace, so that to run ninety-five yards while his opponent is hopping forty-five he has to go more than twice as fast, and it is a weak man indeed who cannot hop fifty yards in ten seconds.

An ordinary wooden match is easily broken in the fingers, but, although there are many who will bet they can do it, none succeeds in accomplishing the task if the match is laid across the nail of the middle finger of either hand and pressed upon by the first and third fingers of that hand, despite its seeming so easy at first sight. No one can crush an egg placed lengthwise between his clasped hands—that is, if the egg be sound and has the ordinary shell of a hen's egg. It is safe to bet a man that he cannot get out of a chair without bending his body forward, or putting his feet under it if he is sitting on it, not at the edge of it. Another equally certain wager is that a man cannot stand at the side of a room with both of his feet touching the wainscoting lengthwise. It is safe to bet any man, save one who is blind, that he cannot stand for five minutes without moving if he is blindfolded.—New York Press.

Unwise Marriages.

The test of equality, such as should exist between man and wife, must be applied to character, to intellect, and to taste. For example, it is quite conceivable that a woman may be more fortunately placed than the man with whom she falls in love, that her mode of life when under her father's roof may be considerably more comfortable, or even luxurious, than the life she can hope to live during the earlier years of the married state, and that her pecuniary resources as her father's daughter may seem to dwarf the income of her husband, and yet the real inequality between the pair, in later years, may take the form of wifely inferiority. The husband, by his type of character, his energy, his force of mind, his adaptability to work that carries personal distinction, may rise to a position which his wife may fail to adorn, to even to passably sustain. The advance of the man may carry him beyond the woman, and so difficulties may grow with the years. The only safeguards against such results are to be found in power and adaptability of character, intelligence, fine and receptive taste, and general good sense. Where these exist husband and wife will develop together. Woe to them if they do not! For love in a somewhat inferior person is sensitive, jealous, resentful of its position and rights, and the continual assertion of these produces continual bickering and final unhappiness.

Picturesque Havana.

Havana is dilapidated and picturesque, and the traveler will find as much of the bizarre and unique in a stroll up the Prado and about the lesser streets as he has perhaps ever encountered in a like distance anywhere. To me the most interesting hour in the day in one of those antique towns is in the very early morning, when the place is just getting awake and the hucksters are coming in.

These country people arrive in all sorts of ways for the daily market. One group comes afoot, with tremendously heavy loads of fruits and vegetables carelessly balanced on their heads or swung on their backs. Here is a swarthy fellow leading a horse bearing capacious reeded panniers of fruits and stalks of sugar-cane.

Lumbering wains come straining into town, drawn by heavy-necked yokes with restraining nose-hitches. A four-team of these cattle and their great cart will alone block the average side-street, so the country ox-carts rarel get very far into town. When two of them meet there is an ably conducted debate on road rights and considerable native profanity. An ambulating haystack adds a picturesque touch to the scene and a breath from the fields. As the diminutive horse under the load swings down the way the grass often brushes the houses on either side and crowds the footmen to the extremity of the eighteen-inch sidewalks.—Woman's Home Companion.

Light from Lump Sugar.

The curious discovery has recently been made that light may be procured from common sugar. All you have to do is to get a few pounds of lump sugar and put it in the open sunlight for some hours. On taking it into a dark room it will begin to glow, faintly at first, but afterward with quite a bright light. So strong is this luminous glow that photographs have actually been taken by the light. These sugar-light photographs are quite distinct, even if not quite so clear as ordinary photographs.

SIGNAL TOWERS ON THE LAKES

Will Be Placed at Points Along Michigan, Superior and Huron.

In the near future the national weather bureau will begin the erection of a large number of signal towers at various points in the country for the benefit of shipping interests. From these towers will be displayed flag, pennant and light signals to warn vessels of predicted storms and tell them the directions from which the storms will come.

Twenty-one towers will be erected within the jurisdiction of the Chicago weather office. Lakes Michigan, Superior and Huron are under the Chicago office and at the various ports on these lakes steel and iron structures are to be built. They will first be placed at those points where the signal staffs heretofore in use have been blown down or have about reached the end of their usefulness. The total height of the towers, including topmasts, will be seventy-five feet. At the base the structure will be ten feet square. The four standards or corner posts will slant inward and come together at a point fifty feet above the ground. This will be the top of the tower proper. From this point a mast or flag pole will rise twenty-five feet. From the top of this mast will be displayed the flag and storm pennants. Forty-five feet above the ground will be placed the red light and ten feet above this the white light. These will be the only light signals. Wherever it is possible incandescent electric lights will be used for the lanterns. In case no electric lights are available the finest oil lamps will be utilized. Where electricity is employed the white lantern will be supplied with two lights of fifty candle power each and the red lamp will have four lights of fifty candle power each.

When the red light is displayed alone

it will indicate that there is a storm coming from an easterly direction and when the red and white are both turned on the storm is approaching from a westerly point. Prof. Cox says that although the two lights are placed ten feet apart they will appear to occupy almost the same point when seen from a distance beyond five miles. Consequently the light signals can be of no value when observed so far away.

The Government recently issued an interesting document on the subject of the tower to the public in general and to intending bidders on the construction of the signal stations. In this it is stated that the tower is to be constructed of galvanized structural steel, "the design being similar to that of the ordinary steel towers used for windmills, except that the tower is extended upward in the form of a staff."

A SINGING MOUSE.

Little Rodent that Warbles Just Like a Canary.

Mrs. M. E. Marshall, of Brownwood, Texas, has in her possession a singing mouse. This wonderful little animal was captured in a trap in Mrs. Marshall's home several months ago. Previous to its capture the inmates of the house frequently heard loud and most beautiful singing which seemed to come from the walls of the building. The notes of the music were almost identical with that of the canary bird, except the volume of music was much louder. Many long and fruitless searches were made for the supposed hidden canary, and finally some of the people who knew of the remarkable musical phenomena had their superstition aroused and the report was circulated that the house was haunted. Mrs. Marshall, however, was willing to live with such a musical ghost. One morning a beautiful dove-colored mouse was found in a trap in the pantry. The color and general appearance of the little animal attracted immediate attention, and while the household were gathered about the trap inspecting the captive it began to sing like a canary. The notes were strong and clear. The news that a musical mouse had been captured at Mrs. Marshall's home soon spread throughout the town, and hundreds of people called at the place and saw the little animal and heard it sing. A handsome cage was provided for it and it soon became completely domesticated. It sings hour after hour and seems to enjoy the distinction which it has attained. The house has been visited by people from far and near, and no one is able to explain the remarkable gift which it possesses.—Austin (Texas) Correspondence Chicago Record.

THE HEALTH OF YOUNG WOMEN

Two of Them Helped by Mrs. Pinkham —Read their Letters.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am sixteen years old and am troubled with my monthly sickness. It is very irregular, occurring only once in two or three months, and also very painful. I also suffer with cramps and once in a while pain strikes me in the heart and I have drowsy headaches. If there is anything you can do for me, I will gladly follow your advice."—MISS MARY GOMES, Aptos, Cal., July 31, 1898.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—After receiving your letter I began the use of your remedies, taking both Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. I am now regular every month and suffer no pain. Your medicine is the best that any suffering girl can take."—MISS MARY GOMES, Aptos, Cal., July 6, 1899.

Nervous and Dizzy

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to express my thanks to you for the great benefit I have received from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered constantly from terrible sideache, had chills, was nervous and dizzy. I had tried different kinds of medicine but they all failed entirely. After taking three bottles of Vegetable Compound and three of Blood Purifier I am all right. I cannot thank you enough for what your remedies have done for me."—MISS MATILDA JENSEN, Box 18, Ogdensburg, Wis., June 10, 1899.

Blame the Motorman.

Tacoma, Wash., July 16.—The coroner's jury which has been holding an inquest over 43 victims of the street-car accident July 4, rendered a verdict charging "that the accident was caused by car No. 116 running at a dangerously high rate of speed and leaving the track while in charge of Motorman F. L. Boehm and Conductor J. C. Calhoun.

"And we further find that said F. L. Boehm was grossly careless in operating the car, by starting over a long and dangerous grade at an excessively high rate of speed, thereby immediately losing control of his car and failing to regain such control by the manipulation of the mechanical and electrical appliances furnished for the control of the car.

"And we further find that the said Tacoma Railway and Power company was grossly and criminally careless and negligent in permitting said motorman, F. L. Boehm, to go out on No. 116, over said dangerous grade, without any previous effort to ascertain his efficiency.

"And we further find the Tacoma Railway and Power company was grossly and criminally careless and negligent in maintaining said dangerous grade without installing any safety appliances when the necessity of such appliances had been fully demonstrated by a previous accident to a freight train at the same point.

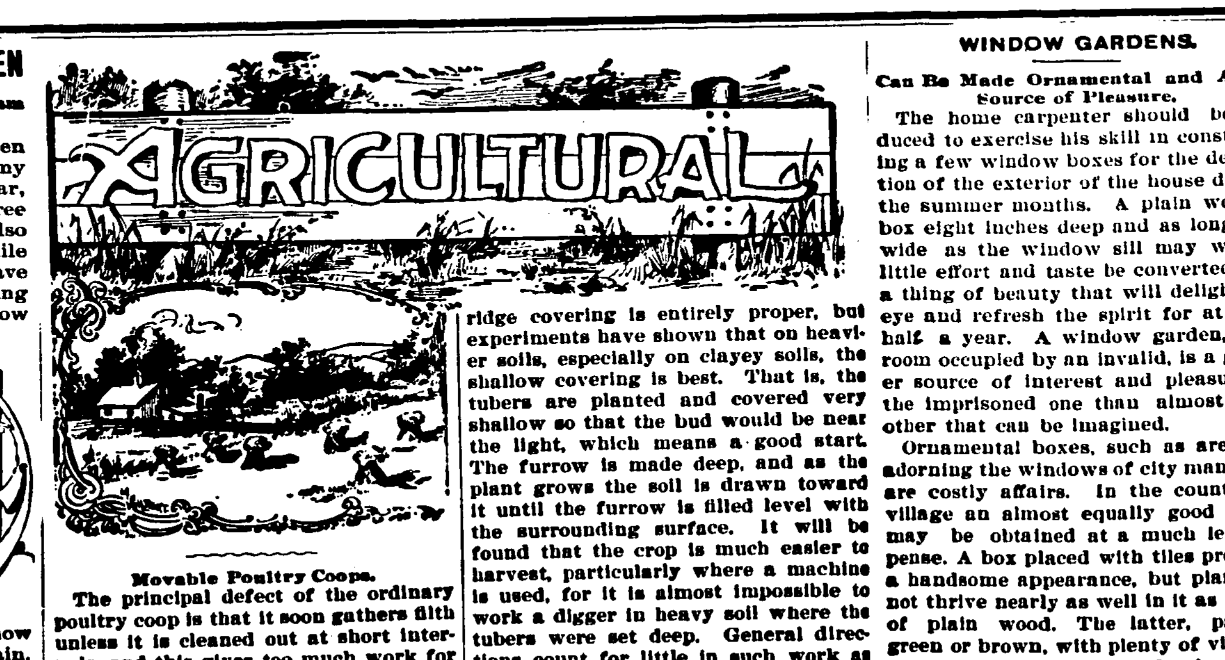
AGRICULTURAL



Movable Poultry Coops.

The principal defect of the ordinary poultry coop is that it soon gathers filth unless it is cleaned out at short intervals, and this gives too much work for the average keeper of fowls. Even the professional one needs as a matter of economy to study the art of keeping his fowls clean with the least expenditure of labor. The kind of coop used is of the greatest importance. Of course it must be of such a kind as will secure dryness, cleanliness and safety. All these are attached to the two kinds of coop here shown; the first is in every respect desirable, and if kept in a dry spot from which the water will flow off in all directions, as the top of a small knoll, it will satisfy every need of the chicks. Indeed this kind of coop makes an excellent nesting place for fowls, and especially for turkeys; when they have chosen a nest this coop may be set over it, and thus furnish every means of safety to the old bird and the brood. There is no need for any floor. It is better without, as every new location will give a clean, dry floor for the coop. The open one is easily closed in by a sufficiently large piece of fine wire netting, for safety during the night.

Future Wheat Crops.

And now Sir William Crookes of England is figuring out a future scarcity of food, or at least of the wheat supply. He says that in 1897-98 the wheat crop of the United States was 540,000,000 bushels, and with less than 75,000,000 population, we were able to export 217,000,000 bushels to Europe. But by 1931 we shall have 130,000,000 people to feed in the United States and will have no surplus to export, and the millions in Europe must go hungry if there is not some other source of supply, which he sees no prospect of there being. We are not worried, because we do not expect to be here in 1931, but some of our readers of to-day probably will be, and they will probably see a much larger surplus of wheat for export than there is now. If no larger area is sown then than now, we have little doubt that better methods of selecting seeds, fertilizing the land and caring for the crops will before that time give us a crop which will be double the average amount per acre grown in 1897. If from 540,000,000 bushels we could sell 217,000,000, besides feeding 75,000,000 people at home and seeding our land, from 1,080,000,000 bushels we can feed 150,000,000 people at home and then have about 400,000,000 bushels to sell. Nor will it do to leave the great northwest of British America, or the broad steppes of Russia now lately opened up by the railroad to China, out of the calculation. Their productive capacity is almost incalculable, and we think no one living now will ever see the time when the world's supply of wheat will not be sufficient to feed the world's population, if it can be properly distributed.

Covering for Potatoes.

There is always considerable argument as to whether covering potato seeds deeply by the ridge method when planting or covering shallow is the better plan. There is little doubt but that on light and rather sandy soils the ridge covering is entirely proper, but experiments have shown that on heavier soils, especially on clayey soils, the shallow covering is best. That is, the tubers are planted and covered very shallow so that the bud would be near the light, which means a good start. The furrow is made deep, and as the plant grows the soil is drawn toward it until the furrow is filled level with the surrounding surface. It will be found that the crop is much easier to harvest, particularly where a machine is used, for it is almost impossible to work a digger in heavy soil where the tubers were set deep. General directions count for little in such work as the above, for the farmer can learn more to his own satisfaction on his own grounds in a single season than by reading the arguments on both sides for a year.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Cultivating Peanuts.

If any one desires to grow his own peanuts they can do so by giving to any dry soil a thorough pulverization and fertilization with decomposed stable manure. Have the surface even, and plant about the time of planting beans, getting fresh unbaked nuts, which should be removed from the shell. Plant in hills from 2½ to 3 feet apart, with two kernels to a hill, so as to insure at least one plant to every hill. The surplus can be transplanted. When they come up keep the land clean by hoeing. When they begin to run and show blossoms the vines and blossoms should be covered with earth, to a depth of about an inch, leaving the ends of the vines just out of the ground.

With good cultivation the vines will grow rapidly and the earthing process must be continued. They will continue to grow until frost comes, and then they should be lifted from the ground. Leave the nuts clinging to the vines, in which condition they must be thoroughly dried. Do not let them mold. With good culture and luck a quart may be gathered from a single plant. If the farmers' boys prefer to grow their own peanuts, either for use, or as a curiosity, there is no great difficulty attending the operation.—Clifford Ebert, Plantsville, Conn.

Unslacked Lime for Rats.

A correspondent of the Country Gentleman says that to keep rodents out of oats, "take unslacked lime, just sprinkle it over the floor or platform on which one will put his grain, then a layer of sheaves and another liberal spread of lime. Continue in like manner, lining each layer of grain to the last, not smothering the last layer, and that is all there is to it. I keep rats and mice out of my corn cribs in the same way and it is invariably a success. I also keep large quantities of unthreshed oats in barn free from rats and mice the same way. One barrel of unslacked lime is enough for 2,000 or 3,000 bushels of corn or eight tons of sheaf oats."

Country Grain Weights.

Because of the lack of uniformity in legal weights of the measured bushel, farmers often fail to get all that is due them in selling to country buyers. For example, in some instances a shipper at country elevator will require 50 to 52 pounds barley to the bushel in buying from the farmer, while weighing out only 48 pounds to the bushel in selling it on the Chicago market. The same is true of oats and other cereals, of onions, etc. The difference may not be much on a single wagon load, but in the crops of a year means many dollars. Farmers should understand what is the legal weight and refuse to deliver more in selling to the local dealer.

A Good Whitewash.

A good whitewash is made by putting a piece of lime weighing about five pounds in a granite pan or bucket. Pour on it a gallon of water, allow it to boil and slack until the steaming is over; then take from this two quarts of the liquid lime, put it in a wooden or granite bucket and add sufficient water to make it rather thin. Add a small amount of pure indigo sufficient to give it the proper color; add a teaspoonful of salt and half a teaspoonful of lampblack; stir well. If you wish it colored, add one of the colorings which can be purchased at any druggist's, stating that it is to be used with lime.

Corn as Poultry Food.

Poultry writers inveigh too much against corn as a poultry food. There is no single grain that can take its place. All corn, of course, is not so good as a variety, but half corn and half 'variety' is unobjectionable, and the proportion of corn may be increased beyond that ratio without anything resembling disaster. When fattening for market corn is not only the best but the cheapest food known. The universal preference of chickens for corn whole or in any possible state for comminution should be regarded.—Texas Farm and Ranch.

Basis of Creameries.

Commissioner Norton of Iowa thinks that the man who imagines that all the attention should be paid to the immediate interests of the creamery has an entirely wrong idea of dairying. He argues that the basis of the creamery industry is not the man who makes the butter and sells it, but that the cow and the man who milks her constitute the basis and that when they do not produce milk at a profit there will be no use for creameries.

WINDOW GARDENS.

Can Be Made Ornamental and Are a Source of Pleasure.

The home carpenter should be induced to exercise his skill in constructing a few window boxes for the decoration of the exterior of the house during the summer months. A plain wooden box eight inches deep and as long and wide as the window sill may with a little effort and taste be converted into a thing of beauty that will delight the eye and refresh the spirit for at least half a year. A window garden, in a room occupied by an invalid, is a greater source of interest and pleasure to the imprisoned one than almost any other that can be imagined.

Ornamental boxes, such as are seen adorning the windows of city mansions, are costly affairs. In the country or village an almost equally good result may be obtained at a much less expense. A box placed with tiles presents a handsome appearance, but plants do not thrive nearly as well in it as in one of plain wood. The latter, painted green or brown, with plenty of vines to ornament it, may be made beautiful enough to satisfy the most fastidious taste. Split or half-round pieces of spruce or cedar nailed over a plain box in a pattern produce a rustic effect that is particularly pleasing and appropriate.

In a box intended to be placed in a sunny window it is a wise precaution to insert a partition lengthwise in the front, leaving an air space of about half an inch. This helps to keep the plant roots cool. A few holes should be bored in each end of the box, near the bottom. As a foundation for the soil, and for purposes of drainage, nothing is better than broken charcoal strewed to the depth of about three inches in the bottom of the box. A thin slice of sod, grass side down, placed over this will keep the soil from washing through.

To insure a pretty effect, plants for the window box must be chosen with care. Scarlet geraniums are showy and hardy, and with an edging of periwinkle vine and a little blue lobelia set in front, are very effective. Sweet alyssum and blue lobelia, with a fringe of vines, are also lovely. Variegated petunias alone will bloom bravely all summer long and suit a delightful fragrance. A very successful result was attained in one window box with daisies, buttercups and red and white clover, raised from seeds. When watering the plants in the window box it must not be forgotten that their foliage needs refreshment as well as the roots. A florist's syringe is most suitable for spraying the leaves, but a whisk broom dipped in water and shaken over them repeatedly is a very good substitute. Large leaves may be lightly washed with a sponge.

One sometimes sees window boxes with rough surfaces in variegated colors. These are produced by applying Portland cement to the surface, mixed with half as much sand. Bits of colored glass, crockery, pebbles, chips of granite or other stone are imbedded in the soft compost and allowed to harden. The edges of the box are bound with strips of wood painted a suitable color.

Where the necessity for strict economy does not exist, lovely windows may be constructed with additional sashes or fitments and prettily slanting roofs, such as are shown in the accompanying illustrations. From twenty to thirty dollars may be profitably expended on such charming additions to the exterior of a plain house.

Trade Report.

Bradstreet's report of last week's business says: While trade is still of only mid-summer volume, the beginning of improvement in demands is apparently becoming visible. The improvement is still one of tone, rather than of demand, but with a yield of 540,000,000 bushels of wheat, a next to record breaking yield of corn and a large production of oats, the western crop situation contains many encouraging features. The Southern cotton crop has undoubtedly suffered, and conditions are unprecedentedly low for this season of the year, but the acreage planted was a leading one and prices are so much higher that a satisfactory financial return is confidently looked for. In addition railroad earnings point to the maintenance of the business of the country at a volume in excess of last year.

Army of Forty Thousand.

Washington, July 16.—Plans are under consideration by the secretary of war which contemplate keeping a military force of 40,000 soldiers in the Philippines for some time after the withdrawal of the volunteer troops that will have to be mustered out of the service by the first of July, 1901. It is estimated that it will require this number of men to properly police the Philippines, as there is no intention of relinquishing control in any part of the islands. General MacArthur has frequently recommended holding all the island garrisons and persistent policing of the territory occupied. General MacArthur has asked for more cavalry, but this the war department is unable to give him, and arrangements have been made to provide him with sufficient horses to mount at least two infantry regiments. Orders have already been issued for the shipment of 3500 cavalry horses to Manila, to be distributed to cavalry regiments and to be used in mounting infantry.

WHAT DEMOCRATIC PAPERS SAY OF BRYAN'S NOMINATION.

The safe, conservative financial policy of the Administration is promoting the business interests of the country and its commercial intercourse with other lands. Why disturb this prosperity by ressurrecting the specter of silver inflation?—Philadelphia Ledger.

The democratic platform is like a superb diamond with a huge, disfiguring flaw. And if we are to have a financial system more distinctively American, why not an American commercial system, an American yardstick, pound weight and gallon measure?—New York Sun.

The candidates and platforms of the two parties are before the country, and the people will instantly make up their minds about them. The decision must be made, as it was made in 1896, between National honor and National dishonor, between ruin and safety. There is but one issue, and it is sharp and clear. We have full confidence that the American people will decide this question as they decided four years ago. For what he is and believes and for what he would do Bryan deserves and will encounter a terrible defeat. For his record and his achievements, for the qualities of character that make him an eminently safe President, for the prosperity of the Nation, for its continued maintainanee of the position it has taken among the nations of the earth during his administration, Mr. McKinley deserves and will receive a vote of renewed confidence and re-election to the office he has well administered.—New York Times.

The democratic convention has put forth the weakest candidate on the wickedest platform that has been offered to the American people by any leading party. The candidate is the same man that he was four years ago, but he is weaker, because the country knows a great deal more of him. Silverism ought to be defeated permanently this time.—New York Journal of Commerce.

In all the republican platform there is not a word to offend any nationality. Irishmen and Germans, Englishmen and Scandinavians can read it without having their blood rise in protest against some slur upon their race and upon their native land. But unfortunately this cannot be said of the resolutions adopted at Kansas City. The democrats so far forgot themselves as to make a direct attact upon a nation whose sons are numbered by hundreds of thousands in this country. In a reckless effort at demagogy which deceives no one they have repelled the great majority of our citizens who are of British or Canadian birth or parentage. There are 2,000,000 Englishmen, Scotchmen and Colonials here and their grown sons of American birth must come into the account also. They contributed largely to Mr. Cleveland's success, but will now naturally go to McKinley.—Chicago Times-Herald.

A more mortifying confession of the reduction of the democratic party to a Thespian dreamer, who is also a fanatical egotist, could not be registered. There never was anything like it before in politics. There should never be anything like it again.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Silver is subordinated, but its sinister presence, written all over with failure, division and defeat, is still there to work woe to the party that was not wise and courageous enough to leave it quietly inurned.—Detroit Free Press.

Mr. Bryan is a dangerous citizen. He is radical, self-willed, head-strong, imperious, determined to have his way, and not fit for president. In charge of the craft, he would run it upon the rocks.—Charlotte Observer, Official paper of North Carolina.

The control of of Mr. Bryan, which under threat of withdrawal forced the free-silver falsehood down the throat of the Kansas City convention, points to a pathway already traveled over in the journey to democratic defeat. This pathway the Globe refuses to follow. It refuses to support the candidate.—St. Paul Globe.

A gentleman recently cured of dyspepsia gave the following appropriate rendering of Burns famous blessing: "Some have meat and can not eat, and some have none that want it; but we have meat and we can eat—Kodol Dyspepsia Cure be thanked." This preparation will digest what you eat. It instantly relieves and radically cures indigestion and all stomach disorders.

THE FARMER WORKS HARD

For a living. He has to. He must "make hay while the sun shines," no matter how he feels. The result is overwork. The stomach usually gives the first sign of strain. The organs of digestion and nutrition are deranged. Food does not nourish. Indigestion appears. In such a case Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery re-establishes the health by a complete cure of the diseased organs of digestion and nutrition. It cleanses the stomach, purifies the blood and removes the causes of disease. It is a temperance medicine, and contains no whisky nor alcohol.

"I was troubled with indigestion for about two years," writes Wm. Bowker, Esq., of Juliaette, Latah Co., Idaho. "I tried different doctors and remedies but to no avail, until I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he told me what to do. I suffered with a pain in my stomach and left side and thought it would kill me. I am glad to write and let you know that I am all right. I can do my work now without pain and I don't have that tired feeling that I used to have. Five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and two vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets' cured me."

Sick people can consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE republican papers of Idaho are tickled over the result of their state convention, believing they have clean and able men up for each office. Hon. J. T. Morrison, for congress, is one of the brightest men in Idaho, and created a favorable impression in his canvass of former years. A man of culture and sound reasoning.

D. W. Standrod, for governor, is well liked in southern Idaho where he has resided for twenty years. He held the position of judge of the fifth judicial district for eight years and left the bench with a clean record. Judge Standrod is qualified in every way for the position and will make an excellent governor.

For lieutenant governor, A. A. Crane was selected. His friends in Kootenai say he is a man of the strictest honesty, uprightness and purity of character.

For secretary of state, Mart Patrie, the present incumbent, received the nomination by acclamation. His past record speaks for itself. Democrats as well as republicans speak kindly of Mr. Patrie as an officer.

For auditor, Harry J. Syms, editor of the Elmore County Republican, was unanimously nominated. He was lieutenant in the Idaho volunteers in the Philippines.

For supreme judge E. C. Steele was nominated and a more popular man in North Idaho could not have been named. Prominent democrats in this part of the state will give Judge Steele their hearty support.

For superintendent of public instruction, Miss Jessie Riley, of Hailey, was named. Miss Riley is an Idaho girl, taught school for several years and has been principal of the Ketchum school for three years.

Geo. E. Gray, of Malad, for attorney general, is highly spoken of and is said to be well qualified for the position

...ated, and we demand the abolition of said system; we further demand that all civil and political rights guaranteed by the constitution and the laws be immediately restored to all citizens of our beloved state."

The resolution settled it. The democrats unanimously rejected it and proceeded to nominate a ticket, as follows, the silver republicans being given the senator and secretary of state:

For supreme judge—C. O. Stockslager of Blaine county.

For congress—Capt. James Graham of Kootenai.

For Governor—Frank N. Hunt of Lemhi.

For lieutenant governor—Tom G. Terrill of Bannock.

For secretary of state—C. J. Bassett of Ada.

For attorney general—Frank Martin of Ada.

For auditor—J. S. Bassett of Bear Lake county.

For superintendent—Miss French of Blaine.

For mine inspector—C. H. Harvey of Blaine.

For treasurer—J. J. Plummer of Owyhee.

For senator—F. T. Dubois of Bannock.

Presidential electors—J. W. Reid, E. J. Dockery and S. J. Rich.

Mr. Hunt, the nominee for governor, served as a lieutenant in the Philippines with the Idaho volunteers and was promoted to a captaincy. Mr. Graham also served with the volunteers.

Instead of taking to the woods the populists took to the middle of the road, and after adopting the resolution asking for the abolishment of martial law in the Coeur d'Alenes, hoisted the following ticket:

For congress, T. L. Glenn of Bear Lake county.

For governor, J. W. Ballantine of Blaine.

For lieutenant governor—L. N. B. Anderson, of Latah.

For secretary of state—M. F. Eby of Ada.

For auditor—E. W. Jones of Boise.

For treasurer—A. M. Slattery of MORRISON is so far above his competitor as to cause a sigh of relief at the defeat of McConnell. Standrod is a gentleman in every respect and one against whom the tongue of slander has never uttered a word.—Pocatello Advance, dem.

DUBOIS, the joker, says the pops will withdraw their state ticket now that Steunenberg is shelved. In this event, as a candidate for senator he thinks he will be able to carry every county in the state with the possible exception of two, Ada and Latah.

THE NEWS is in receipt of a pamphlet and map of the proposed home for volunteer soldiers at Ft. Sherman, compliments of Geo. L. Shoup. The United States has eight of these homes and only one located on the Pacific slope—at 'Frisco. In view of this fact the measure is considered a meritorious one and it is hoped the home will be established on the shores of beautiful Cœur d'Alene lake.

POSSIBLY General Miles may be sent to China, now that all chance of his winning a great military reputation that might make him a formidable candidate for the presidency is over. He is anxious to go, and the advantages of sending a high ranking officer in the event of joint international operations are quite material. It is probable that the senior officers sent to the scene by other governments will outrank Brigadier General Chaffee, who is the highest ranking army officer detailed for duty in China. There are apt to be many questions of command and authority, and a decision in favor of one or another officer may mean a great deal.

THE struggle in Idaho epitomizes the struggle in the Nation. It is the death grapple of two antagonistic conceptions of government. In Idaho, especially in Northern Idaho, have gathered from all over the country devoted adherents of the communist, collectivist doctrines to which the democracy is rapidly capitulating. The determination of these theorists to conquer the state for their schemes is the underlying fact that explains the so-called labor troubles of the Cœur d'Alenes. It was against these undemocratic notions that Gov. Steunenberg, old-line democrat that he was, threw himself with such vigor and success. When he got to Washington as a witness before the committee of inquiry, he found that the party that once knew him knew him no more. He found his stand for law and order, for freedom of private enterprise and against communism and paternal...

—A representative of this journal recently made a trip over the Great Northern railway, from Spokane to points along the coast. Some fine scenery was seen along the route, particularly when passing over the Cascade range of mountains. The greatest piece of engineering work in the whole country is to be seen here as the train ascends and descends the steep mountain sides, the track winding like a serpent, and in making a distance of a mile or two the train is compelled to go several miles. Many men are at work day and night boring a hole through the mountains and it is said this great tunnel will be completed by October 1st. It will be lighted by electricity. It is reported President Hill of this great railway will soon operate that portion of the road from Everett on the bay to Leavenworth on the east side of the mountains with electric motors, doing away with the locomotives. The distance is 120 miles. The road can be operated cheaper by this method. Electricity developed from water power under such conditions as exist in the Cascades is by far the cheapest possible power. The expense of operation is but a trifle when once the plant is installed. Now all trains go over the switchback, which takes two hours for freight and one hour for passenger trains. When the trains run through the mountains much time will be saved and the Great Northern will then have an advantage over competing lines to and from the coast. The line running north from Seattle to New Whatcom penetrates some fine valleys and bodies of timber and the towns along the route are lively and prosperous. The Big Bend country east of the mountains is blessed with fine wheat, barley, flax and fruit crops. The Great Northern is bringing in homeseekers and in this way building up an extensive business for itself. The road is doing much improving on the coast and much is expected from it when those large ships now building commence to carry our grain and other products to China, Japan and to the Philippines. H. A. Jackson is the accommodating commercial agent at Spokane to whom you can address for any information concerning the road or country tributary.

Was It A Miracle?

"The marvelous cure of Mrs. Rena J. Stout of consumption has created intense excitement in Camack, Ind." writes Marion Stuart, a leading druggist of Muncie, Ind. She only weighed 90 pounds when her doctor in Yorktown said she must soon die. Then she began to use Dr. King's New Discovery and gained 37 pounds in weight and was completely cured. It has cured thousands of hopeless cases, and is positively guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Kennedy's Pharmacy.

After many intricate experiments, scientists have discovered methods for obtaining all their natural digestants. These have been combined in the proportion found in the human body and united with substances that build up the digestive organs, making a compound called Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and allows all dyspeptics to eat plenty of nourishing food while the stomach troubles are being radically cured by the medicinal agents it contains. It is pleasant to take and will give quick relief.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

During last May my infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered. The child is vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail.—Mrs. Curtis Baker, Bookwalter, Ohio. THE CHINESE WERE ROUTED

BY AMERICANS AND BRITISH.

Our Boys aCptured a Fort and Eight Modern Guns Without the Loss of a Man—Another Decree Issued.

New York, July 24.—A dispatch from Chefoo says:

A brilliant dash against a large force of Chinese at Tientsin was made this morning by a detachment of the American troops assisted by some English fusileers. The object was to capture a battery of large calibre cannon which had been doing great damage.

The Anglo-American troops charged a large fort across an open space and when exposed to a hot but poorly directed fire from the enemy. They dashed into the fort, and after engaging the Chinese in a sharp hand-to-hand fight, put them to flight and remained masters of the fort.

Eight large modern guns were captured, together with carts and all the accessories. The battery was immediately turned upon the fleeing enemy, who, under the well directed fire, suffered heavily.

The victory was won in an incredibly short time against an overwhelmingly superior force, and, despite the charge under fire and fight in the fort, neither the Americans nor the British lost a single man.

Washington, July 24.—The state department was the center of interest in the Chinese situation Monday. Secretary Hay was at his desk by 9 o'clock and for an hour was busily engaged with a matter of such importance that he declined to be interrupted by anyone. About 10:15 the Chinese minister arrived, and was with the secretary for some time. On the departure of the minister the department gave out the imperial edict of the Chinese emperor, the substance of which had been previously made known.

The state department has received a deluge of dispatches form all quarters of the globe relative to the Conger message. These show the attitude of foreign governments. Without exception the official view taken by all foreign officers is that the dispatch is not genuine, and does not afford a basis for action. This incredulity is also shared by United States Consul Goodnow at Shanghai, who has communicated to the state department his disbelief in the authenticity of the message.

The text of these several messages is not made public, as they were inconclusive, and not adding anything in the way of definite news to the situation at Pekin, the entire tenor being one of doubt and suspicion. The official doubts are based on various theories. One of them is that the deception was practiced by the tsung li yamen itself. Still another is that it emanated from a Chinese official —a man holding a high position like that of Sheng or Prince Tuan, the latter being at the head of the anti-foreign element and at last accounts connected with the tsung li yamen.

Notwithstanding this flood of doubt from foreign official quarters, the state department has not varied its position as to the authenticity of the message, Secretary Hay's position being now, as it always has been, that there is little probability that a fraud may have been perpetrated. But as against this remote possibility, Mr. Hay feels that there is absolutely no motive for the perpetration of such a monstrous deception. The Washington government is unshaken, therefore, in its position on the message, while the rest of the world has made it known to this government that this message is not accepted as coming from Conger on the 18th instant.

Concerning the proposition of mediation made to the United States by China, the [illegible] prepared today [illegible] surmised whose residence at the capital was necessary to the transaction of business between the two countries, affected us very deeply.

"It is the duty of the authorities concerned to cause stringent orders for the speedy arrest and punishment of the murderers to be carried out.

"Since the commencement of the attack on Tientsin there are foreign subjects and missionaries who have on account of local disturbances suffered death or loss of property through no fault of their own. We hereby command the governor of Pekin and the viceroy of Chihli to cause investigations to be made by their respective subordinates of all such claims except those rising directly from the said attack, with a view to their ultimate settlement. Moreover, local outlaws and rebellious subjects have of late given themselves up to burning, killing and plundering, to the great disquiet of our loyal subjects. This is in utter defiance of law. We hereby command the said governors general, governors and commanders of our forces to investigate the situation and to take such measures for the punishment of offenders and restoration of order as the necessities of the case demand. We hereby command this, our general edict, to be made known for the information of all it may concern. Respect this."

A significant statement in the above edict is noted in that passage which directs an investigation of all claims "except those arising directly from the said attack" (attack on Tientsin) with a view to their ultimate settlement.

This appears to make plain not only that the Chinese government will settle claims for actual losses, but that it has now formally decreed an exception of the claims arising directly from the attack on Tientsin. It seems to indicate that the Chinese government holds that the attack on Tientsin was unwarranted.

Fighting at Wei Hai Wei.

St. Petersburg, July 24.—Two encounters are reported to have taken place between British and Chinese forces near Wei Hai Wei. The latter, it was reported, were repulsed after a stubborn encounter. No dates are given.

Credited to Prince Tuan.

Washington, July 24.—The state department made public the following:

The state department has received a dispatch from Mr. Goodnow, the consul General at Shanghai, saying that Prince Tuan wires that an officer of the tsung li yamen saw all the ministers on the 18th; that none was injured and that no attack was at that time being made. He does not say to whom the dispatch of Prince Tuan was addressed and it is to a certain extent at variance with the dispatch of Mr. Conger of that date, describing the legations as being under fire at that time.

The above dispatch was shown Minister Wu this afternoon. He said he had no explanation to offer, but said he placed no dependence on any of the Shanghai dispatches. He advanced the theory that Prince Tuan, after all, might not belong to the Boxers, but might be supporting the government.

The officials of the state department, after reading Goodnow's dispatch, express the belief that a mistake has been made in the transmission of the message, and that the name Tuan should have been Yuan, governor of the province of Shan Tung.

Hancock Will Go to Taku.

The war department is considering the advisability of sending the Hancock, which sails from San Francisco July 28, with four batteries of artillery and 500 marines, direct to Taku instead of to Nagasaki. These troops were to have gone on the Meade, which sails August 1, but it has been decided, owing to the urgent necessity of getting reinforcements to China, to have the Hancock make a special trip. She will carry stores and provisions only for the troops in China.

The Meade on the [illegible] proximo will take out one battalion of the Fifth infantry, [illegible] Nagasaki.

The steamer Cutch has arrived from Skagway, bringing the largest gold shipment received at Vancouver this season from the north. There were $300,000 in gold dust on board, besides a large amount in drafts. The majority of the 60 passengers brought large packages of gold, some of more weight than one could carry off the boat unaided. There were no very wealthy winners of the yellow metal, but there was a fair distributnon.

At Cayuse station, on the main line of the O. R. & N., the west bound Portland-Chicago fast passenger train crashed into the rear end of a freight train which was standing on the track at the station. A light engine was also at the rear of the freight train and was crushed into the caboose. Both engines, the caboose and three cars were badly wrecked. Engineer Mathenson and Fireman William Guion of the passenger train and Brakeman Sanders were slightly injured. No passengers were badly hurt.

about women's ills can be frankly told by one woman to another.

Remember that Mrs. Pinkham is a woman. Remember that her advice and medicine have cured a million women of weaknesses peculiar to their sex.

Remember that no man ever sees a letter written to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, that the letter is opened, read and answered by women, and no testimonial ever published without special permission.

Remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the recognized safeguard of woman's health.

Remember these things when some other remedy is suggested, and remember them when you want advice. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

Attack by Boers.

London, July 19.—The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Roberts:

"Pretoria, July 18.—The enemy made a determined attack on the left of Pole-Carew's position and along our left flank, commanded by Hutton. The positions held by the Irish Fusileers and the Canadian mounted infantry, under Lieutenant Colonel Anderson were most gallantly defended. The enemy made repeated attempts to assault the positions, coming in close range and calling to the Fusileers to surrender. The enemy suffered severely. They had 15 killed and 50 wounded, and four were taken prisoners. The British casualties were seven killed, including the 30 wounded and 21 missing.

"Ian Hamilton's column advanced to Waterval yesterday unopposed and proceeded to Hamms Kraal.

"Fifteen hundred Boers with five guns managed to break through the cordon formed by Hunter's and Rundle's divisions between Bethlehem and Ficksburg. They were making toward Lindley, being closely followed by Paget's and Broadwood's brigades."

In the dispatch dated today Lord Roberts pays a tribute to Lieutenants Borden and Rich, whom in his dispatch given above he reported killed. Lord Roberts says:

"They were killed while gallantly leading their men in a counter attack on the enemy's flank at a critical juncture of their assault on our position. Borden was twice before brought to my notice in dispatches for gallant and intrepid conduct."

Boundary Survey Complete.

Managua, Nicaragua, July 22.—General Alexander, who was appointed by President Cleveland as boundary arbitrator between Nicaragua and Costa Rica, has arrived at Managua with his engineers, having completed the boundary survey. LATE TIDINGS FROM PEKING

FOREIGN MINISTERS ARE SAFE.

Story to That Effect Told in Brussels—Paris Says Protection Is Given—Troops Delayed a Month—Views of Nations.

Brussels, July 22.—The minister of foreign affairs, M. Fabreauv, has received the following telegram from Shanghai, dated today:

"A telegram from the governor of Shang Tung announces that the ministers were safe July 20. They were under the guardianship of the Chinese authorities.

"Li Hung Chang has arrived at Shanghai."

Told at Paris.

Paris, July 22.—Yu Keng, the Chinese minister here, today handed to the minister of foreign affairs, M. Delcasse, an imperial edict, dated July 18, giving the assurance that all the foreign ministers in Pekin except Baron von Ketteler, the German minister, were then safe and sound under the protection of the imperial court.

The edict, which, as stated above, is dated Pekin, July 18, was transmitted by the viceroy of Nankin, under date of today, and is as follows:

"For a month past, with the exception of the German minister, who was assassinated by rebels who are under apprehension of severe punishment, we have ordered all foreign ministers well protected by the court, and, happily, they are safe and sound."

Allied Troops Can Not Move.

London, July 23.—The request of Secretary of State Hay to the powers to make an immediate forward movement on Pekin is not likely to meet with any success in England. Lord Salisbury is just as eager as the American secretary of state to adopt such a step, but he is practically convinced that it will not be possible until September owing to local conditions and the allies' lack of equipment. Beyond a courteous reply that England is willing to co-operate in any movement that the commanders on the spot may deem advisable, nothing is likely to come of the latest American effort to reach the Chinese capital, for all advices received here indicate that a dash toward Pekin in the immediate future would be military suicide. The government's attitude may be taken as a philosophic determination to grin and bear it, hoping for the best, yet fearing the worst, until troops and climatic conditions enable the powers to enter Pekin and ascertain without a shadow of doubt the extent and cause of China's present disintegration. Until that is accomplished every opinion worth repeating is suspended, not only regarding the future of China but also as to the nature and severity of the retribution to be exacted.

Meanwhile English journals, which are bound to express opinion of some sort, and a majority of English people who are unable to restrain their feelings in the face of this, declare that in so great an emergency no risk is too great, and couple with this a sentiment of genuine appreciation of American efforts to alleviate the situation, especially as regards sending W. W. Rockhill as a special commissioner to China and in the attempts to communicate with Mr. Conger and the sensible methods employed in diplomatic endeavor to provide the allies with a common basis of action. Between what is generally termed the lethargy in Downing street and the activity at Washington there are many comparisons drawn that have all the sting of acute self-criticism.

In United States.

Washington, July 22.—After 24 hours of deliberation, and after giving due consideration to the incredulous criticisms of the European authorities as to the Conger message, the state department remains unshaken in its first conclusion that the message is authentic and that Mr. Conger was alive on July 18. Corroborative evidence came to the department this morning through Minister Wu from two widely removed sources, the one from Sheng at Shanghai and the other from the viceroy of Nanking. They make it clear that an edict certainly has been issued relative to the condition of the foreign ministers and containing other matters of information of the greatest value and interest, if they be true.

It may, however, be mentioned that this consideration was duly discussed by Secretaries Hay, Root and Long this morning—that all of these communications from Pekin at two points passed through the same channel. At Shanghai, Sheng receives nothing in Washington Mr. Wu is the medium. The point of this is that this additional evidence is deprived of a good deal of its corroborative value.

In Germany.

Berlin, July 22.—The Chinese situation takes on a radically different phase on news which has reached here from Russia. What Europe hitherto knew about the troubles in Manchuria was what the Russian government chose to let pass. Now a number of reports, some of them official, but a majority private, have reached here from St. Petersburg, which tally in the main and paint the situation in Chinese Manchuria and along the 1500 kilometers of borderland on the Siberian side, of which the Amur river forms a frontier, as much more dangerous for the Russians than has hitherto been supposed.

In France.

Paris, July 22.—"Is it anarchy or war?" If this question were answered to the entire satisfaction of the powers there might be some light on the situation in China, but with the absolute lack of trustworthy information all are acting in the dark. No one is willing to hazard a guess as to what the outcome is to be. The powers perceive in the present tension of the anti-foreign movement the birth of a spirit of patriotism which they never met with before in their dealings with the Chinese people. In the Chino-Japanese war, central and southern China held aloof.

Trade Report.

New York—Bradstreet's report for last week says:

Improved crop conditions furnish the keynote of the trade and price movement. As a result of them nearly all staple agricultural products are lower in price and at the same time a perceptible livening up of demand for fall delivery is noted at the west, northwest and south. The beginning of fall trade is consequently more clearly visible in the sections mentioned, while at the east the markets are slow to experience this improvement and are consequently reasonably dull. Bank clearings as yet fail to reflect any perceptible improvement in distribution and railway earnings, and though of large volume, are, owing to comparisons being made with exceptionally good results last year, showing less notable increases both in gross and net returns. An increased cost of repairs, betterments, fuel and wages are unitedly responsible for this latter feature, because gross receipts for later periods reported show continued, though small, gains.

Hog products have gone lower with corn, as has also wheat, in which continued liquidation has been noted with the result of inducing a partial return of export inquiry banished from the heavy rise. On the basis of a crop of 550,000,000 bushels the outlook is that an expert of 132,000,000 to 150,000,000 bushels will be possible without reducing visible and farm supplies materially from the totals estimated held on July 1.

Iron and steel prices are evidently scraping on the bottom, if reports from leading centers of the cost of raw material and wages are correct. Bessemer pig at Pittsburg is on a $17 basis with billets at $21, against respectively $20 and $33 a year ago, so that much of the "boom" prices have been cut. Eastern and southern iron markets are lower than a week ago, No. 1 northern foundry being off $1 per ton and low grade southern iron is accumulating. A favorable feature is the increasing number of inquiries from Europe. Soft coal is going abroad, too, a cargo leaving for London shortly. Tin is cornered locally and higher on the week, while copper is firmer. Anthracite coal is steady and confidence in future prices is notable.

The textile situation is a mixed one. Present prices for raw cotton and finished material do not harmonize. Chinese troubles have checked export trade in brown cottons, and a summer shut down of mills producing these goods and print cloths is looked for.

An encouraging feature of the wool market is the rather better inquiry for raw wool at Boston, but manufacturers will not apparently do much until the light weight season opens. Advices from London sales are that that market has regained most of the loss shown early in the season.

Wheat (including flour as wheat) shipments for the week aggregate 3,029,381 bushels, against 2,091,873 last week, 3,408,723 bushels in the corresponding week of 1899, 2,303,978 in 1898, and 3,073,780 bushels in 1896.

From July 1 to date this season, wheat exports are 7,878,123 bushels, against 10,430,860 bushels last season, and 7,942,938 bushels in 1898-99.

Business failures for the week number 202, against 221 last week, 174 in this week a year ago, 188 in 1898, 227 in 1897, 280 in 1896. Canadian failures for the week number 26, as compared with 19 in this week a year ago.

HEALTHY WOMEN.

Mary J. Kennedy, manager of Armour & Co.'s exhibit at the Trans Mississippi Exposition, at Omaha, Neb., writes the following of Peruna, as a cure for that common phase of summer catarrh, known as indigestion. Miss Kennedy says:

"I found the continual change of diet incidental to eight years' traveling completely upset my digestive system. In consulting several physicians they decided I suffered with catarrh of the stomach.

"Their prescriptions did not seem to help me any, so, reading of the remarkable cures effected by the use of Peruna I decided to try it and soon found myself well repaid.

"I have now used Peruna for about three months and feel completely rejuvenated. I believe I am permanently cured, and do not hesitate to give unstinted praise to your great remedy, Peruna."

The causes of summer catarrh are first, chronic catarrh; second, derangements of the stomach and liver; third, impure blood.

Such being the case anyone who knows anything whatever about the operations of Peruna can understand why this remedy is a permanent cure for summer catarrh. It eradicates chronic catarrh from the system, invigorates the stomach and liver, cleanses the blood of all impurities, and therefore permanently cures by removing the cause—a host of maladies peculiar to hot weather. The cause being removed the symptoms disappear of themselves. "Summer Catarrh" sent free to any address by the Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Appeal to Laboring Men.

Denver, July 23.—The executive committee of the American Federation of Labor has issued an appeal to all wage workers to organize and confederate. It says:

"Throughout our country a struggle is raging between the oppressor and the oppressed, the possessors of wealth and the laborers; concentration of industry and wealth is the order of the day. Everywhere the workers must suffer disastrous results unless they organize and federate to protect and promote their mutual interests. In this combination and concentration of wealth the possessors permit no sectional or state lines to interfere with their power, and it therefore behooves the toilers, the wealth-producers, to unite and federate regardless whether they are located east, west, north or south; irrespective of sex, politics, color or religion.

"The hope of the workers, the prayer of all our people for justice and right and the perpetuation of republican institutions lies in organized labor. Recognizing these essential truths, the executive council of the American Federation of Labor appeals to all wage workers of whatever trade or calling to organize unions where such do not now exist, to join those already organized, to form unions and international unions of their respective trades and callings and to affiliate in one common bond of labor upon the broad platform and under the proud banner of the American Federation of Labor.

"In calling upon the workers to unite and federate we aim to do no one a wrong, but to establish justice for all."

Manslaughter the Charge.

NEW AND GREAT!!!

DRY GOODS and MEN'S CLOTHING

WILL ARRIVE IN A FEW DAYS AT THE BIG STORE.

WHY GREAT? The representatives of the Vollmer stores of Lewiston, Genesee, Asotin, Uniontown and Grangeville met at Lewiston and spent two weeks in buying from the lines of the largest eastern houses, the greatest bill of DRY GOODS, DRESS GOODS and CLOTHING, ever purchased for the Northwest. On Staples alone they saved 13½ per cent, and on Dress Goods 15 to 50 per cent. over all their competitors by reason of their large purchases.

As a specialty in our immense stock will be a line of DRESS GOODS, and WAIST PATTERN NOVELTIES, no two alike. THE LATEST AND CHOICEST THE EAST AFFORDS.

We intend to spare no effort or money to make our DRY GOODS and CLOTHING DEPARTMENTS the most complete and attractive and of better value than can be found at any other store.

We are Headquarters for Harvesters Supplies. Carry Everything.

—Grain-hauling receipts for sale at the NEWS office.

—Mr. Herman states that Pocatello did herself proud in the entertainment of delegates at the recent convention. He also believes that Pocatello is a town with a very bright future.

—Central Idaho and Eastern Washington will be changed into a gold mine if a merchant marine is established and a ready market found for our wheat. Dewey did a great favor for the wheat raising country when he took possession of the Philippines. The victory at Manila will inevitably result in the establishment of a profitable trade with the Orient.

—There is a growing belief that after all the ministers at Peking are safe, though the authenticity of the Conger dispatch is doubted by many. The governor of Shangtung says they were safe July 20. Kwang Ksu, deposed Emperor of China appeals to McKinley to bring about restoration of order and peace. When it is definitely known that the ministers are safe there will be general rejoicing throughout the civilized world.

—The athletic girl is apt to be influential, to have power—and most of us like this—and when she expresses an opinion she is generally listened to with respect. A sound mind in a sound body is the superlative of attraction, and this a girl may and should possess. For most girls, as for many older women too, it is well to strive for the rounded life, the life of symmetry, the life which is not unduly developed in one direction at the expense of another.—August Ladies' Home Journal.

—Col. Bryan says: "Every one believes it, is the duty of our government to protect the lives and property of American citizens residing in China, and I have no doubt the administration will do so." The administration is doing so, although some of Bryan's friends are having "imperialism" because it is doing its duty. McKinley's dealings with the Filipinos are actuated with the same patriotic motives and based upon the same principles. Here the president is protecting national rights and American lives and property, just as he is in China.

—The Canadian hybrid wheat is growing in favor with many of our farmers. It is claimed the grain ripens earlier than most varieties, yields well and never rusts or winter-kill. Matt Fuchs, overseer for the many Vollmer farms, saw many fields of this grain on his recent trip north, and in each headers were busy while other wheat looked green. Another good feature of this Canadian cereal is that it ripens long before wild oats and foul weeds mature. It is claimed that by using binders the land can be cleaned from all weeds and oats with —The politicians have returned from the state conventions. From all accounts they had a dusty trip and a "warm time" at both gatherings. The republican meeting at Boise was a side show in comparison to the triangular war dance of the braves at Pocatello. The Dubois-Hawley-Steunenberg following mopped the earth with one another, while the pop clowns danced to the music. Even McConnell's shirt-dance had no attraction for the combatants. Messrs. Bressler and Herman are comparing notes with Owen and Daggett, and while each couple had lots of fun, the latter own up they would have had more had they gone on to Pocatello. Dubois was squarely knocked down flat on his back, one day, but that night some potent influence was brought to bear upon five recanting warriors and the scene was changed—Steunenberg fell. Of this bout the local democratic paper, Advance, says "these gentlemen are not diamonds in the democratic jewel of consistency and that fact should be remembered by the party."

—The gallant Colonel Liscum, of the 9th, fell while leading his regiment in battle, and was buried at Tong-Ku. He was the first American soldier of his rank to fall in battle on foreign soil when American troops were fighting side by side with British, German, French, Italian, Austrian and Japanese troops against a common foe. After two days of hard fighting, which assumed the proportions of a general engagement, the allies have taken and are strong enough to hold Tien-tsin, which is a place of considerable strategic importance and value, commanding as it does two lines of railway communication between Peking and Shanghai. The capture of this important town was at the cost of many lives, the Americans losing one officer and 17 enlisted men and wounding 77 men. Active operations against Peking will not be resumed until all the reinforcements ordered by the allies have arrived which will not be much before the middle of September. Germany is sending picked troops—a full division—three squadrons of cavalry, four batteries of artillery and eight battalions of infantry—nearly 9,000 men. The U. S. will send nearly as many more from Cuba and other islands and altogether there will be eighty thousand soldiers landed in North China. As the Gulf of Pe-Chi-Li and its harbors are obstructed by ice for several months, beginning with November, all supplies for the allied forces must be landed by that date.

—Frank Standish this week finished painting the Joe Kambitch farm residence.

—At the recent national convention at Philadelphia, delegates and visitors were agreeably surprised to find a Burlington Route fan in every seat. This bit of thoughtfulness on the part of a western railroad, a thousand miles distant from the Quaker City, was widely commented upon by the eastern newspapers.

—If the present drought is not too severe the Kansas corn crop will be a hummer—worth $60,000,000. When this crop is shipped it will require 200,000 box cars to transport it. Divided into trains of fifteen cars, the number would be over 13,000. If it were possible to run all the cars in one train, they would make a continuous string over 1200 miles in length, reaching from Topeka to Buffalo.

Paris Fair.

The American exhibit at the Paris Exposition will be an open volume, whose lessons of skillfully directed endeavor, unfaltering energy and consummate performance may be read by all, of every age. The United States Government Building is about completed, and no effort has been spared to make it worthy to represent our nation. It was by the same American perseverance, industry and unfaltering energy, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the famous dyspepsia cure, was first produced. Since that time, it has never failed to perform its duty—the cure of constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria, fever and ague, liver and kidney troubles. It is an excellent tonic for the general health. All druggists sell it. There is nothing to equal it.

STOVES AND RANGES.

FRIDAY, JULY 27, 1900.

—Mrs. McDougall was here from Colton over Tuesday night.

—Many header beds have been taken to the country this week.

—Jim Deacon took a promenade on Moscow's paved square Saturday.

—Mrs. Gilbert and family, Johnson, visited the Dickson people here the past week.

—Henry De Bow and Mike Glover came near getting lost in the reservation grain fields this week.

—L. N. B. Anderson, populist nominee for lieutenant governor, was here from Moscow Wednesday.

—Miss Bell Chilton, of Pullman, grand-daughter of Mr. Henry, visited in Genesee Sunday and Monday.

—Our job department this week furnished L. F. Darr with a large supply of stationery for his fall rush of business.

—Dutton & Co. are erecting for C. E. Wood a 9x80 foot platform adjoining the mill on the north side. A needed improvement.

—If you want to roll out the chickens get one of those incubators at M. A. Means and some eggs and go at it. Dr. Hayes set a machine in motion last week.

—There will be no service in the Methodist church Sunday morning. Johnie Spencer will conduct service in the evening. Sunday school at 10 a. m. Epworth League at 7 p. m.

—The Rimrock Mills yesterday closed down for a couple of weeks to clean up and make needed repairs. As soon as the new wheat is in condition to mill they expect to run day and night throughout the winter.

—J. W. Kane, a freighter, fell from a wagon at Lewiston Tuesday evening and was instantly killed, one of the forward wheels passing over his body and crushing his ribs against his heart. He resided near Forest.

—Farmers' wives do much of the shopping these busy days while their husbands look after the hired men in the field. The ladies know how to buy and we would like to see the clerk that can get the best of them in a dicker.

—Dave Lowry, the best looking unmarried man on the reservation, has been with us the past week. Dave made the trip over to make the purchase of another Peter Shuttler wagon at the Vollmer store. He says the only objection he has to them is that they make his horses necks sore holding them back.

—Hans Knudson, who recently returned from a trip to Norway, England and other points beyond the Atlantic ocean, thinks America offers better inducements for the young and the laborers than the old countries. If the Palouse had better markets it would be the equal of any agricultural community in the world.

—Miles Miller and Dave Potter of Colton while returning home from a visit here Saturday, got mixed up in a runaway just west of town. A small boy playing at the side of the road frightened their team. Their rig was upset and so badly disabled that it was necessary to return to town and get a new outfit before continuing their journey home.

—There is no cessation in the tide of immigration flowing to the Pacific coast states says the St Paul Press. At this time when farmers and homeseekers are supposed to be in the midst of gathering crops, the movement is as strong as it has been at any time for a year. Washington and Idaho are the objective points. This week about fine hundred homeseekers passed through St. Paul for the West, at least four-fifths of whom were bona fide homeseekers, who are going West to invest their money in farms. It is an old story, but it is a pleasant story for the railroads to hear, and one that means increased traffic and full cars each way across the continent.

—Lewiston is kicking up some excitement over a murder or something of that sort. Frank Henderson came out from Buffalo Hump with from $300 to $400 on his person and was accompanied by Kitty Ross and Fred Beck of Grangeville. Saturday the three drank freely and during that night at Hotel de France Henderson died from poison. Most of the money is missing and the man and woman placed in jail for the crime. An inquest was held Monday over the body of Henderson, the verdict returned reads: "We, the coroner's jury in the matter of the inquest on the body of Frank Henderson, deceased, find that said Frank Henderson came to his death by poison administered to said Frank Henderson by some person or persons unknown, on or about July 22."

—Ernest Miller is assisting Kempf & Stadler during their rush of work.

—Floyd Hough is down from Spokane to assist in garnering our big crops.

—The stores will remain open Sundays from now until after the busy season is over.

—Mrs. Johnson returned to Lewiston and Grangeville Wednesday after a pleasant visit of ten days with Genesee friends.

—R. H. Russell has material on the ground for an addition of 40x100 feet to his warehouse. This will double his present capacity.

—Impounded stock will be offered for sale by the marshal tomorrow. You may be able to get a span of fine horses for six-bits or a dollar.

—Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hodgins brought Miss Minnie home and visited here from Saturday till Monday, returning to Moscow in the evening.

—Messrs. W. H. English and Will Herman and Misses Pearl Follett and Madge Fowler visited Lewiston Tuesday and found the city a little warm.

—Dutton & Co. have put the finishing touches on the Fred Kieck farm residence and returned to town. Frank Standish is now treating it to a coat of paint.

—Miss Pearl Owen went to Sprague Tuesday in response to a message, stating that her sister, Mrs. McKenna, was very ill. Later news reports her improved.

—Mrs. J. W. Hopp returned home from the coast last week and reports the Leitch people at New Whatcom as well as usual, clams ripe and picnic parties numerous along the beach.

—Marshal Driscoll harvested a couple of harvest hands Monday night while on his beat. The troublesome boys are coming in and from this on the cooler will be more frequently visited by this official.

—Messrs. Thatcher, McRoberts, Milt Johnson and company lit out early Tuesday for the white pine belt in search of the sportive trout. They propose to stay long enough to prove their angling capacities.

—More harvest hands are wanted. We have raised the largest crop in the history of the country, and with the scarcity of help it seems impossible that we can get the grain in the warehouse unless we are favored with a long dry spell. We have about half enough men to do the work.

—New matter in Vollmer's advt.

—The cool weather given us Wednesday morning was welcomed by all

—Miss Mattie Walby is down from Spokane for a couple of week's visit with her people.

—The Rebekahs and the Knights each had installation Tuesday night. How the people perspired!

—Misses Mabel Montgomery and Saidee Fulford came up from Lewiston for a visit of several days.

—If we are a little shy on news just blame the "warm" sun. We sleep at night time, hence miss many good items.

—Elzer Carter, a merchant at Peck, and wife (nee Mae Hollister) visited parents and friends here this week. Daughter Gladys was the center of attraction.

—The header has been in operation in the Nordby 300-acre field and next week if all goes well the thresher will tell us if the wheat is rolling out at the 45-bushel gait.

—Sanford Evans wears the belt for having threshed the first wheat, Monday morning he started his machine and expects to make quick work of sacking his immense crop.

—J. J. Mullaly was down from Orofino a day or two this week. Reported his section of country in a flourishing condition, gold mines in operation furnishing the people considerable money. The coal mines are all right, and as soon as a few cases are settled in court, development work will be pushed.

—New sidewalks are going down as per order of the council. Dr. Lenman gets a double shot from the council, his property being situated on two streets where new walks have been ordered down. The money is not thrown away—the property is worth just that much more—and besides, we must have walks for the promenaders.

—We understand the Portland Mill Co. secured the grain warehouse at Johnson that Mr. Rice leased and expected to operate this fall. This company will soon have a house or two in every Palouse town, and before we are aware of it, will have control of the bulk of our grain. We all want to see sharp competition between the grain buyers. Home concerns should receive every encouragement as in this way we build up our town and country.

—Lots of fine hay has been saved.

—Mr. and Mrs. Zack Erqhardt visited at the Biram residence this week. From Moscow.

—The school grounds will be decorated with new walks before another week rolls by.

—T. H. Wilson, one of Moscow's disciples of Blackstone, was a Genesee visitor Wednesday.

—F. B. Ball is in this neighborhood from Seattle buying beef cattle for the Nome and Klondike trade.

—Henry Martinson has about 200 acres of grain in the shock. Farmer Pea has his new crop in the stack.

—J. Rosenstein was up from Lapwai the past week and the store was run by son Mark. A little warm below.

—Fruit venders promise to give us Idaho melons another week. The valley farmers will send out this fruit three weeks earlier this year than usual.

—The Congregational Sunday school people had a big time out at the fine Bullwinkle or Meyer grove yesterday, chasing one another up the trees, around hay stacks, eating, singing, etc.

—Mr. and Mrs. Welch spent several days in the white pine section picking berries. Mr. Welch reports the forest fire as having done no great amount of damage and that it has been subdued.

—The Portland Mill Co. secured control of the Wood warehouse in Colton. Talk about trusts! The grain trust forming on the coast bids fair to equal the ice, coal, and iron trusts of the east.

—A small blaze licked up some lumber, hay, shed and other material for Drayman Biram yesterday morning at four o'clock. A horse belonging to Mr. Erqhardt was singed. How the fire originated is a mystery, but it is supposed some worthless individual roaming the country trying to evade work must have camped under the shed during the night.

—Preaching at the Congregational church next Sabbath. As it will be the last Sabbath before vacation, it is hoped that all attendants will be present. The subject in the morning will be: "Hope is an element of the religious life." In the evening: "Religion, profitable in the life that is." Sabbath school at 10 a. m.; Christian Endeavor meeting at 7 p. m.

—Old Sol's rays bore down on us poor mortals pretty severely for several days since Friday last. The thermometers hanging in the shade on the south side of buildings touched 90, 92 and 94 notches and wanted to climb higher, but the kicker kicked the weather clerk down cellar and that settled it. The late sown spring grain has been considerably shortened in the Palouse, but fortunately the Genesee valley farmers are not materially affected. The bulk of our crop was planted last fall.

—NEWS is ten years old today. The publishers believe their efforts to please the people with a newsy sheet are appreciated. At least they are given very good support and are told almost weekly of how the paper is read by every member of the family and then loaned or sent away. NEWS will compare favorably with any of the eighty papers in the state for local news and neatness. We aim to make the paper interesting for every member of the family and when a person becomes a subscriber we aim to keep him. With bright prospects ahead for the people of the Genesee valley we expect our business to increase along with the business of other firms. Work together, trade at home, and build up Genesee.

Baking Powder Economy

The manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder have always declined to produce a cheap baking powder at the sacrifice of quality.

The Royal is made from the most highly refined and wholesome ingredients, and is the embodiment of all excellence possible to be attained in the highest class baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price, and is cheaper at its price than any similar article.

Alum powders of mixtures made in imitation of baking powders, but containing alum, are frequently distributed from door to door, or given away in grocers' stores. Such mixtures are dangerous to health in food, and in many cities their sale is prohibited by law. Alum is a corrosive poison, and physicians condemn baking powders containing it.

Don't let a great smash in crockery surprise you, especially in China.

The Methodist conference having dodged the amusement question the members are also likely to dodge it.

The popularity of horse shows would indicate that the animal still stands so many hands high in popular estimation.

The Methodists do not approve of all kinds of amusement, but they appear to have had all kinds of amusement at the conference.

The remains of some gigantic but unknown creature of other days have been unearthed near Atlantic City, N. J. It may be the skeleton of the prehisteric mosquito.

Diamond thieves fed an ostrich $45,000 worth of gems while en route to Europe. This is an insult to the capacity and facilities of that time-honored institution, the goat.

A murderer arraigned, tried, convicted and sentenced, all within one day, is the latest item in the fine annals of "Jersey justice." That is not necessarily "railroading." It is avoidance of "the law's delay" and administration of justice that, like the giving of alms, is twice as effective because it is done quickly.

It is the crowning honor of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, who has recently celebrated her eighty-sixth birthday, that the world does not so much say how much money she inherited, or how much she is now worth, as how much she has given away for the good of her fellows. More than five million dollars is the record of her beneficence, and there are few that surpass it.

"One-fourth of the lawyers," said Governor Shaw, of Iowa, recently, "can try a case no better to-day than when they began." "There are also women who can cook no better than on the day they were married, and are told so three times a day." What commencement oration could better set forth, in co-educational terms, the common principle of failure? Not to advance, as Lord Bacon insisted long ago, is simply to go back.

Stock-raisers among our farmer readers may be interested in learning that, according to information sent to the State Department by the consul at Mainz, a simple preventive against the hoof and mouth disease, so fatal in its effects among cattle, is reported to have been discovered by a scientific investigator of the disease. It is said that if well-boiled milk, taken from the diseased cattle, be fed for a period of about eight days to those of the herd not yet affected, they will acquire complete immunity from the disease thereafter.

The recent postal frauds in Havana emphasize, by the law of contraries, the marvellous reach and honesty of the mail system throughout the world. An Ohio soldier, lately returned from the Philippines, displays a little jar of jam addressed to him in Manila. It received the postmarks of San Francisco, Honolulu, Guam and Manila; and then, after a brief pause, recontinued its long chase. Iloilo, Negros, Jolo and back to Manila; Hongkong, Yokahama, San Francisco again; and finally that of the Ohio village in which it was properly delivered. The journey occupied eight months, and cost 38 cents.

At the recent marriage of the crown prince of Japan, immense multitudes in the streets watched and applauded the bridal procession, but not a person looked out of an upper window. To the American eye and mind this seemed strange. But the Japanese explanation of it was simple. It is contrary to etiquette—indeed, to royalty—for a Japanese to look down, either literally or figuratively, upon a member of the royal family. One smiles at the quaint conceit that would interpret the visual angle as a slight. Yet there is much that is admirable and worthy of emulation in scrupulous regard for what are esteemed duty and honor.

In a little Western town, originally settled by Quakers, stands a church in which the practice of seating men and women apart still prevails. A few years ago, a newcomer mustered courage to cross the aisle and sit beside his bride. The second Sunday another man committed the same offense, and the third Sunday saw a generous sprinkling of bared heads alongside spring bonnets. The aged minister, with outraged sense of propriety, chose for his text: "Let destruction come upon him at unawares; and let his net that he hath hid catch himself;" and minced no words in exposition. The men who had dared to stray from established custom rebelled at being eternally doomed for sitting beside their wives, and left the church in a body. The result is that to-day in that little town stand two church buildings, side by side, counterparts in size and paint and outlook; but in one the sexes are divided by a middle aisle, while in the other "promiscuous sitting" prevails. The trivialities which hinder Christian comity may travel far for an apter illustration.

The Journal of Education gives information as to the plan in vogue in Iowa for the transportation of rural children to school. The law permits the authorities of one township to contract with those of another for the instruction of children who live at an unreasonable distance from their schools. Where the saving of expense or increased advantage to the pupils may warrant it, arrangements may be made for the transportation of any children to and from the school. The plan is in operation on the largest scale in Winnebago county. There forty-nine children are conveyed from two and one-half to five and one-half miles, using four teams, at a cost of $25 a month. Since the plan was put in operation the county authorities have been able to dispense with four schools saving $480 a year. The plan should be taken advantage of in more Iowa districts. There are now 233 school districts or sub-districts in Iowa, where schools are maintained for an average attendance of less than six pupils, while in 2,500 the average attendance is less than eleven. Such methods of instruction are wasteful when time and money could be saved by the transportation of pupils, and the larger classes, graded schools, and better class of teachers that could be secured would be of benefit to the pupils.

Samuel Rogers has verified the story of Ginevra, the beautiful bride of Francesco Doria, whose loveliness and pranks had been "the theme of every tongue." At the bridal feast the bride was wanting, nor was she to be found. Francesco threw his life away in battle with the Turk. The father lived long after, seeking always the blithe girl whose fate remained a mystery for fifty years, when, her family gone and the palace in the hands of strangers, a moldering chest was found in a gallery. On being moved, it fell apart, and there the skeleton of Ginevra revealed the tragic joke the bride had played in trying to make the bridegroom and the guests seek her in a secluded haunt. She knew not that the chest had a snap lock, and involuntarily made herself a prisoner unto death. Familiar as is the legend, it does not warn against the snap lock. Frequently the newspapers report fatal cases of fright or smothering from the snapping of locks on folding beds or on doors not openable on both sides. The most recent case, that of the wife of a well-known author, emphasizes the danger of the snap lock on railroad cars. Mrs. Hamlin Garland had to be removed through a window as the only means of escape after being imprisoned in a railroad car drawing room whose snap lock would not yield to key, spring or tool.

That the Indian is leaving his native trail for the "white man's path" is well evidenced by statistics gathered from the annual reports of the United States Indian agents. A greatly increasing number of Indians on the reservations, or what have lately been reservations, can read. Nearly a hundred thousand of them have completely adopted the white men's dress. Almost all of them have discarded the original dress of the people of their tribes. Eleven hundred dwelling houses were built by Indians last year, and the Indians on the reservation now possess more than twenty-five thousand dwelling houses. They are, as a rule, no longer nomadic, no longer dwellers in wigwams. Externally, at least, they are rapidly adopting the ways of civilization. Are they at the same time "becoming civilized" in the true sense? It is not possible to answer yes with confidence. They are learning to read, to live in houses, and to wear white men's clothes; yet unfortunately, in some cases at least, the vices of civilization seem likely to overpower some of the native virtues of the race. To civilize means to endow with the proper qualities of a citizen; and so far as the reading and house-dwelling Indian lacks these qualities, his transformation into the outward semblance of a white man fails in its chief purpose. The duty of the white people toward the Indian is far from being ended with imposing upon him the superficial marks of their civilization.

One of the most prolific fields of operation for wily swindlers has for many years been the "unclaimed estates" and the "estates in chancery" in England, advertisements of which are continually appearing in the American newspapers. These advertisements are skillfully worded and bring to the schemers thousands of letters from people who are already possessed of a little money and have a natural desire to possess much more. From the great list of applicants for information the swindlers select a few—of those who they have reason, after investigation, to believe will fall most readily into the trap and prove the best plucking. The cupidity of the victims is aroused and then comes the process of obtaining from them sums of money, constantly increasing in size, for the pretended purpose of pushing the claims, developing evidence, proving lineage, etc. Hundreds of confiding Americans have been trapped, and, from the number of such advertisements as are still appearing, we should judge that the supply of gudgeons was yet far from being exhausted. The whole thing is a fraud and a barefaced swindle, and the State Department of the United States Government has sent out a warning against all such advertisements and announcements. There are no great unclaimed estates in England, and the few dormant funds are small, averaging not more than $1,800 each. Over 1,000 claims have been referred by the United States embassy at London to a firm of solicitors, and of not a single one has any validity whatever been proven. Don't be a gudgeon!

IF.

If, sitting with his little, worn-out shoe
And scarlet stocking lying on my knee,
I knew the little feet had pattered through
The pearl-set gates that lie 'twixt heaven and me,
I could be reconciled, and happy, too,
And look with glad eyes toward the jasper sea.

If, in the morning, when the song of birds
Reminds me of music far more sweet,
I listen for his pretty broken words
And for the music of his dimpled feet,
I could be almost happy, though I heard
No answer and but saw his vacant seat.

I could be glad if, when the day is done
And all its cares and heartaches laid away,
I could look westward to the hidden sun
And with a heart full of sweet yearning say,
"To-night I'm nearer to my little one
By just the travel of a single day."

If I could know those little feet were shod
In sandals wrought of light in better lands,
And that the footprints of a tender God
Ran side by side with his in golden sands,
I could bow cheerfully and kiss the rod,
Since Bennie was in wiser, safer hands.

If he were dead I would not sit to-day
And stain with tears the wee sock on my knee;
I would not kiss the tiny shoe and say,
"Bring back again my little boy to me!"
I would be patient, knowing 'twas God's way,
And that he'd lead me to him o'er death's silent sea.

But, oh, to know the feet once pure and white
The haunts of vice have boldly ventured in,
The hands that should have battled for the right
Have been wrung crimson in the clasp of sin!
And should he knock at heaven's gate to-night
I fear my boy could hardly enter in.

LOVE AND LAW.

"JIM," said Mr. Perkins to his office boy, "put on some more coal."

"Yes, sir."

"And, do you hear? Take this packet of papers around to Penn & Ink's, and ask 'em what they mean by sending me such a blotted piece of work."

"Yes, sir," and Jim, evidently preferring the snow-freighted air and slippery sidewalks of the outer world to the close little law office, darted off like an arrow out of a bow.

Mr. Perkins took out a fresh bundle of quill pens and a quire of legal foolscap and began to work in good earnest, when, all of a sudden, a tap came to his office door.

"Come in," said Mr. Perkins, in a voice that sounded considerably more like "Clear out," and a young lady entered, dressed in currant-colored merino, with a little plumed hat and a neat-looking flat satchel on her arm.

"I haven't anything to give," said Mr. Perkins, sternly.

The young lady sat down uninvited, and then Mr. Perkins saw that she was very pretty.

"I was not begging, sir," she said.

"May I ask, then, what was your business?" said Mr. Perkins, more frigidly than ever.

The young lady took a parcel from her bag.

"I don't want to buy anything," said Mr. Perkins.

"I was not selling, sir," said the lady.

"Please explain your business at once," said he, tartly. "I have no time to spare."

"Please allow he to do so, then," said the young lady. "I was soliciting subscriptions for——"

"I don't want to subscribe," hastily interrupted Mr. Perkins.

"How do you know whether you do or not," inquired the young lady, with some spirit, "until you have seen the work, at least?"

Mr. Perkins smiled a little. She was brusque, but he didn't altogether dislike that. And, besides, she was decidedly original.

"Because there have been at least three of your craft before you this morning," said he, "all selling 'Illustrated Lives of Great Men.'"

"But mine is quite different. Mine is 'Careers of Famous Women,' with steel plate engravings," persisted the young lady.

"Your business is overcrowded," said Mr. Perkins. "No; you needn't take the trouble to show me the book. Why don't you do something else?"

"Will you tell me what?" said the young lady, despairingly. "Will you help me to get anything whereby I may support myself?"

"What can you do?"

"What can I do! That is what everybody says," she answered, "and between you all I should starve. You are a lawyer. Will you give me some law copying?"

"Can you write a clear and legible hand?" Mr. Perkins asked.

The young lady sat boldly down at a desk by the chimney-piece.

"I'll show you what I can do," said she.

Mr. Perkins looked over her shoulder as she wrote, in a quaint, distinct style, the words:

"My name is Amy Archdale, and I want to earn my own living."

"Amy Archdale," repeated Mr. Perkins. "Rather a romantic name, isn't it?"

"I had no hand in naming myself," retorted Miss Archdale, "so I can't justly be held up to blame in that matter."

Mr. Perkins looked meditatively at her for a second or two.

"I should think you might teach," said he.

"I did try it," said Miss Archdale. "I was governess in a private family."

"And why did you give it up?"

"Is this a catechism?" said Miss Amy, smiling. "Well, I haven't any objection to answering. Do you want me to tell you the plain truth?"

"Certainly."

"Well, then, it was because my lady employer did not like to have her grown-up son address me with common politeness. Perhaps she thought I was endeavoring to fascinate him, but she was entirely mistaken."

"Oh!" said Mr. Perkins. "Please write down your address."

"Are you really going to give me some copying to do?" she asked eagerly.

"I am going to try you."

For the first time the tears came into her eyes.

"I'll try my very best—indeed, I will," she faltered. "For—I don't mind telling you now—I haven't got a single subscription, and I was so discouraged."

And so Miss Amy Archdale walked off with a red-tape-tied parcel of papers under her shawl.

"If she does them well and promptly," said Mr. Perkins, in a sort of mental soliloquy, "there's no reason I can't let her have some more work. If she doesn't it won't be the first case of female swindling in New York. But she had a pretty, innocent little face, too—hang it, I've half a mind to go to her address on the sly and see if she really is a deserving object of—charity, I was going to say. But it isn't. She wants work, not alms. There's always somebody wanting something in this great, chattering Bedlam of a city of ours," added Mr. Perkins, irately, as he drove off two match boys, an apple girl, and a vender of pins and shoestrings from his doorstep.

Mr. Perkins followed up his crochet and walked up to No. 6 Meassey street about dusk that self-same evening, heedless of snow and sleet.

"Does a lady named Archdale live here?" he asked in the grocery which occupied the first floor.

"Yes, sir, she do," the grocer's wife interrupted, pushing herself before her husband, "and a nice, hard-working young lady she is as ever breathed the breath of life, and pays her rent regularly every Saturday night, if she has to live on a cup of water and a crust. And if she's got any rich relation——"

"I'LL SHOW YOU WHAT I CAN DO."

"You mistake my purpose," said Mr. Perkins, coldly. "I am no rich relation—to any one."

Yet the woman's testimony, coarse and rudely given as it was, unconsciously influenced him in Amy Archdale's favor.

She brought the folios next day, neat, legible, and without blot or erasure, and Mr. Perkins gave her some more work.

"You needn't bring it," said he. "I—I have business that way and I'll call for it myself."

* * * * * * * * *

"We haven't seen your Uncle Elisha lately, dear," said Mrs. Molyneux Martin to her eldest daughter. "Kate must work a penwiper for him, and you must embroider him a pair of slippers. It won't do to let him lose sight of his nearest relatives."

"Ma," said Miss Katherine, "it's a pity you discharged Miss Archdale so suddenly, because she was so handy at fancy work."

"And, besides," added Edith Rosabelle, "it really and truly wasn't her fault because Walter chose to make eyes at her!"

"Don't use such vulgar expressions, my dear," said the mamma. "She was a pert, bold-faced thing, and would have eloped with your dear brother if she had remained in the house another week. And I told her so, pretty plainly, too. Who's that? The postman? Give me the letter at once, Edith Rosabelle!"

"Somebody has sent us wedding cards," cried the youngest hope of the family of Molyneux Martin. "Open it, mamma, quick, and let us see whom they are from."

Mrs. Molyneux Martin hastily tore open the envelope, and giving one glance at its contents, fell backward with an hysterical scream.

"Elisha Perkins!" she shrieked. "Girls, it's your uncle. Alas! my poor, disinherited pets!"

For Mrs. Molyneux Martin has educated her daughters in the full belief that each and every one of them was to be an heiress in the right of Uncle Elisha Perkins' money.

"But, mamma, who's the bride—whom has he married? You don't tell us the name," persisted Katherine, who was endowed with a goodly spice of Mother Eve's bequest.

"I don't know! I don't care!" screamed Mrs. Molyneux Martin, tapping the soles of her slippered feet on the carpet in a way that threatened a yet more violent attack of hysterics.

"Pick up the cards, Kathie, and look," urged Edith Rosabelle.

"Amy Archdale," she read aloud "Why, ma, it's the governess you discharged! It's our Miss Archdale."

"The old fool!" shrieked Mrs. Molyneux Martin. "To go and marry a girl young enough to be his granddaughter! Well, that caps the climax!"

"You forget, ma," said Edith Rosabelle, "Uncle Elisha's only two years older than you are. I've heard you say so lots of times."

"Hold your tongue, you ungrateful, undutiful daughter," ejaculated Mrs. Molyneux Martin. "I'll never speak to him again."

But she did. Sober second thoughts convinced her that it was better to submit to the inevitable—and she was one of the first to call on Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Perkins in the elegant brownstone house that the lawyer bought and furnished for his bride.

And perhaps one of the most triumphant moments of Amy Archdale's life was that in which she extended a gracious and patronizing greeting to the woman who had turned her out of doors scarcely three months before.

"Things do balance themselves evenly in this world, if one only has patience and faith to wait!" she said to her husband.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NAVAL BATTLE OF THE FUTURE.

How Maritime Engagements Will Be Fought in the Next Century.

The Stranger—Excuse me, I am a stranger here. Will you kindly inform me why all these gayly dressed people are loitering on the shores of this bay?

The Native—Eh? Don't you know? Why, a great naval battle is being fought here, and the people for miles around have come to enjoy the event.

The Stranger—I'm new in this part of the country, but I'm not as fresh, perhaps, as I look. You tell me that a great naval battle is being fought here. And yet as far as the eye can reach I can discern no boat—no, nor even a ripple on those placid waters.

The Native—That's all right. It's a submarine battle fought by submarine boats. They are now at it tooth and nail somewhere about the middle of the bay.

The Stranger—You astonish me. These people do not look as if they were attending a battle. The women wear summer frocks, and the men are in afternoon clothes, with top hats. And, see, there is a band over there!

The Native—Oh, yes; it's quite a function. That's the Marine band, and those women and men about it are the special guests of the Secretary of the Navy. You wait around a little while and we'll have some news. There, see!

At that moment a black object like a mammoth strong cigar leaped upward from the waters and lay quivering on the surface. Every opera glass was leveled at it, and the stranger slanted his hand above his eyes so he could see better. A grimy man crawled from the midst of the thing and raised a huge megaphone to his lips.

The Native—Hooray! That's old Commodore Bob Evans' grandson!

The man with the megaphone shouted in a stentorian voice:

"We've licked the blankety-blank-blank socks off of 'em!"

Whereat there arose a great cheer and a flutter of handkerchiefs, and the Marine band played, and the Secretary of the Navy held an impromptu reception, and then everybody went home to dinner.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Memories of Galatea.

"Did you ever try to dance with a foreigner?" asked a Louisville gentleman, who had been traveling abroad, of the Detroit Free Press man. "I did once," he continued, "and that experience was more than enough for me. It happened at a ball at Mustapha, at the Hotel St. Georges. I asked an Austrian countess to waltz, and when we started I supposed we would dance in the leisurely American fashion.

"The countess had a different idea in her head. She preferred to whirl madly, like a dervish, on a space that could be covered with a parasol, and, on account of her superior strength, I clung to her and we began to spin.

"Finally, when it seemed to me that we were performing our antics on the ceiling with our heads hanging down, I could stand it no longer, and, gasping for breath, suggested that we sit down. I saw two chairs galloping around the room and prepared to catch them on the next lap. We steered for them, I clinging helplessly to the athletic lady, and then we sank down. I sat dazed and almost insensible until I was aroused by the countess saying:

"'Excuse me, but we are sitting on the same chair.'"

Caesar Wasn't There.

The man on the street car was talking to a friend about his trip through Greece and the tombs of the ancients he had met with, and, after awhile, the old man opposite, who had been listening closely, leaned forward and remarked:

"Sir, do I understand that you were in Greece?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply.

"And you saw tombs?"

"Plenty of them."

"Did you happen to run across the tomb of Julius Caesar?"

"No, sir. Julius Caesar was not a Greek, you know."

"That's so—that's so. Now, that you mention it, I remember that he wasn't. You see, I had kind of got Julius Caesar and Christopher Columbus and George Washington mixed up, and I'm glad you set me straight. Thankee, sir. Do as much for you some time. Go on with your tombstones."—Washington Post.

Pa on Early Marriages.

"I see they are a lot a Tawk goin on About marridge Laitly," maw told paw.

"Are they?" paw says.

"Yes," maw anserd. "Sum peeple say folks ot to Get married Soon and Some say they Ottent."

"Well," paw sed, I don't blaim them. That's the great Trubble with peeple these Days. Thay put it off too Long. Look at Our pairunts, the way they yoost to Do. You didn't see Them waiting Around till They had to take medasun for the Room mut Tizzum Before they Got to Havin luv's yung Dream becoz they were afrade they mite make a Mistake. No. The furst Time, thay felt Like getting married thay got, and Lots of times Before a man would Get old enuff to vote he wouldn't Have enuff trundle Beds in the House to go Round. Did it Hurt Them to get married Erly? I gess not. Thay could go rite on Growing up to Vigerus manhood Just as well as Before thay Got to be the Hed of a fambly. My Uucle Dan got married when He was Ate Teen and his wife was fifteen Her next Burthday, but she new How to Trim down a man's trowsers to Boy's size all Rite, just the saim.

"It makes me Sad whenever I think how the Children that are agoing to Get Born in the Dim fewcher will Be robbed of Their burthrite."

"I don't see How it'll be Bad for their Burthrite becos their paruntz Don't get married yung," maw told him.

"You would," paw says, "if a Wommun could Look ahed like men with Reesuning powers and see things. Where are they ennything That is plesunter for a boy than Having a grandfawther? Boys that never Had enny grandfawther don't no What they mist. Look at me when I was a little shaver. My paw ust to hammer the life nearly out of me when I would forget that He told me not to Do things and it offen makes my Hart ake when I look back and Think how I had to sneak in thru the kitchen when I would be off Swimmun or fishin all Day without the aid or consent of paw and wanted Him to forget about it Before the next morning. That's whare it Comes in handy to have a grandfawther. When I would go to Visut grandpaw He would let me clime trees and Fall out of the Hay mow and tie things to the cow's tail without all the Time trying to get me Discurridged and down harted by Saying I was the worst Boy he ever saw. "The way to Do is shut your eyes and Gulp it Down without Thinkin. That's my motto in Life."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Origin of "Setting the River on Fire"

In old English times, when each family was obliged to sift its own flour, it sometimes happened that an energetic man would turn his sieve so rapidly as to cause it to catch fire. The style of sieve used in those days was called a "temse," and it became a customary saying that a lazy man would never set the temse on fire. Now it happens that the name of the river Thames is pronounced like the name of this old flour sieve, and after many years, when the old-fashioned temse was forgotten, it was thought that setting the temse on fire meant setting the river on fire, and that is why to-day we say that a stupid person will never set the river on fire.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Rewards for Fecundity.

Bulgaria is going to take effective means to increase its population. For every son born beyond a minimum number 20 francs will be paid to the father and 20 francs to the mother. A soldier showing a dozen sons will receive a pension large enough to support him, and, besides, will be given a decoration. The same will go to his wife.

If there is any pig in a man's nature it is sure to crop out when he travels.

The more worthless a man is the longer he seems to live.

—W. E. Hibbs has equipped him...self and is prepared to handle grain in good style. Try him a whirl.

—J. V. Creighton, general traveling agent of the Northern Pacific railway, transacted business in Genesee Monday.

—A Chinese vegetable peddler in Spokane cut off his queue to convince skeptical persons that he was not a Boxer, but a Christian.

—The government advertises for 5000 tons of hay and oats to be delivered at Seattle for the Philippines. This should advance the price.

—Nagel, Bomberg & Goodnight sent out two carloads of fine fat cattle to Seattle the past week intended for the Nome hungry gold seekers.

—Rev. V. Koren, of Decorah, Iowa, attended a meeting on the coast last week and stopped off here a few days to visit his relatives, the Ingwall and Detlief Smith people.

—Mr. Wood has had some wheat threshed, the first new brought to town, and weighed full 60 pounds. The grain is of fine color and the berry large and plump, extra good for milling.

—The owners of logging camps in the vicinity of Gray's Harbor are experiencing considerable trouble in getting enough hands to run their camps. Never in the history of these camps has there been so many men employed, and wages are from $2 to $4.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Thompson returned from their trip to Portland, Tacoma and Seattle. Mr. Thompson looked up the hay market and has commenced shipping since returning. Says there is large quantities of hay put up in the Yakima and Ellensburg countries and on the Sound.

—Genesee merchants are enjoying good trade on account of harvest time. You can buy goods in Genesee for less than you can in Spokane or in any of the surrounding cities. Each of the stores will carry larger and better stocks of goods from this on than ever before. Recently the traveling men have been given large orders to fill, and as we are assured of better times the merchants are going to carry heavier stocks in the future.

—Mrs. Ben Caldwell is here visiting her people, the Con Steltz family.

—Mrs. Dr. Lemman is in Spokane caring for her mother who has been seriously ill for some time.

—Dr. C. A. Follett came up from Dayton, Wash., to enjoy a week's recreation with Genesee friends.

—Mrs. H. C. Baughman and little daughter came up from Lewiston for a visit with Mrs. Harry Thatcher.

—Dr. Beck's dwelling is about completed by the carpenters and painters Cann and Steltz have it in hands.

—M. P. and D. A. Crosbie, cousins of the Murphy boys, of Ohio and Butte, Mont., arrived here this week and will remain awhile.

—Mr. Erickson, the live sawmill man, came down from the reservation and stopped in to see the News as he passed on to his grain fields.

—Mrs. Gray is up in the Big Bend country looking after the harvesting of their grain crop. Our station agent is quite an extensive farmer.

—The suit of Peter Steltz vs. City of Genesee has again been decided in favor of the city. It is to be hoped that this will end the controversy.

—Cashier Scroggin of The First Bank is stacking up the gold and preparing to accommodate the harvesters and farmers during the long busy season before us.

—The Vollmer people have let the contract for the erection of a grain warehouse just east of the Driscoll house north of the railroad track. It is to be 80x30 and will be used for the storage of grain raised on the Vollmer farms in this vicinity.

—The record of the land office at Lewiston shows that in contests involving over 5000 acres of land, wherein the state of Idaho is plaintiff and the settlers are defendants, the latter have been succesful in all but 640 acres, which are still in litigation.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pollok were visiting Genesee friends from Leland Friday and Saturday. They were looking exceptionally well and evidently are being treated kindly by the people over there. Crops are good around Leland and Frank was here ordering goods from traveling men for the fall and winter trade.

—The question of water-works is being agitated again. A petition has been circulated for signatures asking that an election be held for this purpose. Several persons have signed the petition who were opposed or neutral when the question was voted on before. With waterworks Genesee people could have green lawns and beautiful shade trees and cool dwellings. If the election was held today nearly every woman would vote yes and three fifths of the men would do likewise. A standpipe seems to be in favor over a reservoir on account of supplying residents on the hills.

BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure

Made from most highly refined and healthful ingredients.

Assures light, sweet, pure and wholesome food.

Housekeepers must exercise care in buying baking powders, to avoid alum. Alum powders are sold ch ap to catch the unwary, but alum is a poison, and its use in food seriously injures health.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

—C. E. Wood was looking after his contracted flax interests in the Kamiah country last week.

—Farmers, protect yourselves from loss by using wheat hauling books. For sale at this office.

—Isaac Kipp came up from the Lapwai country where it has been a little torrid for a week or two.

—Agent Gray will drink water hereafter, the company finding an abundance at the depth of sixteen feet.

—Moscow will build a four-room school house not to exceed $4000 in cost, to accommodate the increasing number of scholars.

—Arrangements are practically completed for the purchase of Spain of two Philippine islands accidentally omitted in the Paris treaty.

—Peter Gross saw many stars one day last week when a hay fork struck him on the head, compelling Dr. Ehlen to take several stitches.

—Charles, the negro desperado of New Orleans, killed two policemen and a boy, mortally wounded four men and injured several others. He was smoked out and shot.

—John M. Henry, who has been taking in the ranch home for three weeks, returned to Spokane Tuesday to resume his work with the Great Northern railway, being a rapid manipulator of the type-writer.

—A. W. Severance, the heavyweight blacksmith, and son Dearl, came down from Pullman Wednesday afternoon to see how Genesee was getting along. Mr. Severance recently sold his half interest in a blacksmith shop at Walla Walla.

—Mr. Timothy Keane died early yesterday morning at his home in Genesee. He was nearly ninety years of age and death came without pain. The funeral will take place this morning at ten o'clock from the Catholic church. Obituary next week.

—T. Driscoll is prepared to give farmers prompt service with his two warehouses. J. B. Lees has been installed to take charge of one of the houses and assist in a general way and a better man could not have been secured. Plenty of sacks on hand.

—Miss Katherine M. Higgins left Tuesday morning for her home in Chicago. The lady is so well pleased with Idaho that she intends to return next spring. When she came here two months ago could scarcely get off the train without assistance, but she is now stout and rugged. Miss Higgins said that if Genesee had a system of waterworks and one or two manufactories it would be an ideal place in which to live.

—The Belgian hare craze is spreading in Iowa and Minnesota to such an extent that the people are preparing petitions to their congressmen asking that measures may be taken to protect the agricultural interests of these states from the rabbit plague. It is claimed the hare is like a wild rabbit in the destruction of trees, vines and garden truck.

—News learns that two of our enterprising ranchers will soon have substantial fruit dryers up and in working condition. They are D. R. Davis and Geo. W. Kays. We will tell you more about them in a future issue. By the way, would it not be a good plan for Genesee to have a good dryer, or evaporator? We believe the town could well afford to give a bonus to some farmer here to erect such a plant and take care of the fruit raised in the Genesee valley. Get one industry established others will follow.

THE TELEGRAPH SUMMARY

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF.

A Complete Review of the Events of the Past Week—In This and Foreign Lands—Taken from the Latest Dispatches.

W. A. Clark says he is a senator, and expects to take his seat at the opening of the next congress.

A fusion ticket in Kansas is the program. The democrats and populists make a division of the offices.

The trouble at Steveston, B. C., with the striking fishermen is practically settled. The presence of the militia has taken all the fight out of the strikers.

One of the worst forest fires ever known in northwestern Montana is now raging in the Swan Lake country on the western part of the Lewis and Clarke forest reserve.

A solid vestibuled passenger train, south-bound on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway, was wrecked near Benton, Ill. Otto Neinal was killed and 25 other passengers were injured.

The recent rains came too late and crops in eastern states are less than for years.

Most of the pantmakers in Manhattan borough, N. Y., have struck for 10 hours' work and an advance of 10 per cent in wages. There are 5000 pantmakers in New York, Brooklyn and Newark.

General MacArthur has cabled the war department announcement of the successful erection of another municipal government in the Philippines under the terms laid down by the Philippine commission. This particular government is established at Vigan, on the northwest coast of the island of Luzon, at a point made memorable by the landing of Young's forces during the pursuit of Aguinaldo. The alcalde referred to in General MacArthur's dispatch corresponds to the Spanish alcalde or American mayor.

Lord Roberts reports several minor engagements with the Boers.

The transport Crook has sailed for Cuba to ship the members of the First United States infantry under orders to return to the United States for foreign service.

Bryan says he must have at least one day of rest, and will not talk on Sunday.

The iron and steel companies are to close down their mills as there is an over-production.

There is a race war in New Orleans. The negroes were attacked by a mob of white hoodlums.

Charles H. Hoyt, the playwright and theatrical manager, has been adjudged insane at Hartford and taken to a retreat there. His condition is critical.

The runners and drivers at the Delaware & Hudson mines at Scranton, Pa., have struck for increased wages. Four mines here and three at Oliphant are now idle. In all 4000 men and boys are employed at the mines.

Mr. Ye, the Korean charge here, took to the state department a dispatch from his government denying positively the published stories that the Boxer movement had extended to Korea or that any Chinese Boxers had crossed the Korean frontier.

A plot to assassinate the governor of Santiago, Ramon Caceres, has been discovered and 25 of the conspirators have been imprisoned. Several military officers are involved. The accused will be tried by court martial. President Jiminiz is visiting the interior. The country generally is [illegible]

[illegible] Charles F. Robe, lieutenant colonel of the Forty-seventh infantry, who succeeded to the command of the Ninth infantry on the death of Colonel Liscum while gallantly leading his forces at Tientsin, has been ordered to proceed at once to China for the purpose of assuming command of his regiment. Colonel Robe is now at Manila awaiting transportation to Taku.

Fire which broke out at Chicago re-

While the recent report omits the technical details of the injury received by the Oregon in running on a rock in the Gulf of Pechili, Captain Wilde is known to have supplied some of these details. They indicate that although the structural strength of the great battleship is still intact, her injuries were of an ugly character.

Charles A. Towne will be withdrawn from the populist national ticket about August 15. During the campaign Mr. Towne is to be utilized as a campaign orator to whom will be assigned the most desirable tours. A cabinet position is assured him in the event of Bryan's election.

The National Association of Retail [illegible]cently in the building at 225-227 South Water street, occupied by the commission firm of H. L. Brown & Co., caused damage estimated between $50,000 and $75,000, and created a panic among a score of girls, caused the death of 6000 chickens, and for a time threatened the whole block. Three girls were reported missing, but it is believed they escaped.

The ownership and control by boards of trade of an elaborate system of telegraph wires connecting all the leading commercial exchanges of the country, to be established at a cost of $1,000,000, may be the outcome of meetings held in the 'private warehouse' of the board at Chicago.

The steamer Alameda, which has arrived in San Francisco from Sydney via Honolulu a day ahead of her schedule, brought $2,500,000 in gold from Australia. She made the trip in 22 days.

A treaty of peace between the Panama government and the revolutionists has been signed. This action followed after the most desperate battle of the entire revolution, in which the losses on each side were very heavy.

The strike agitation, in New York, continues among the east side clothing industries. A circular issued to the pantmakers now on a strike for a new wage schedule strongly advises them to become naturalized citizens.

The Philippine commissioners contemplate sending natives of the islands to the United States to study. The first news of this new scheme was brought by Bernard Moses, professor of history in the University of California and a member of the Philippine commission, in a letter just received by President Wheeler.

Druggists is considering various plans which will tend to create better conditions in proprietary medicines and to put an end to cutting of prices.

It is reported that a large section of the Boxers have revolted against Prince Tuan, alleging that he is making tools of them for his own ends. A desperate conflict took place outside of Pekin recently. Prince Tuan personally led his followers, two of his generals having deserted him. The battle lasted several hours and Prince Tuan was defeated and killed.

After a desperate battle lasting several hours, in New Orleans, in which he succeeded in killing Police Sergeant G. Porteus, Andy Van Buren, keeper of the police jail, and Alfred B. Bloomfield, a young boy, and fatally wounding Corporal John A. Lally, John Banville, ex-Policeman Frank H. Evans and A. S. Lociere, one of the leading confectioners, and more or less seriously wounding several other persons, the negro desperado, Robert Charles, who killed Captain Daly and Patrolman Lamb and wounded Officer Mora, was smoked out of his hiding place in the heart of the residence section of the city and literally shot to pieces. Tremendous excitement reigned as the battle went on between the police and citizens and the negro with his Winchester. After the tragedy was over Charles was dragged out from the mud and slush in which he had fallen, with the mob howling for the burning of his body.

Emperor William's Address.

Berlin, July 30.—Emperor William's address to the soldiers comprising the China expedition forms the subject of general discussion. The emperor's instructions to spare no Chinese and make no prisoners are condemned by nearly everybody one meets and also by the press.

The Lokal Anzeiger pretends that the emperor did not mean what his words implied; but that he merely wished to caution the members of the expedition that they would meet a foe who does not spare and makes no prisoners. But nearly all the other papers, commenting on the emperor's speech, strongly argue against it. The Tageblatt, in a specially caustic manner, reminding the emperor that telling his soldiers to carry civilization into China and in the same breath enjoining them to deal with ferocious severity there do not tally. Besides, the paper argues, the emperor has no right to so instruct the expedition, because the expedition will form mand of a chief of some other nationality whose instruction solely they must obey.

The paper maintains that "the emperor's behavior is likely to split up the harmony of the powers, as doubtless some of the powers will not agree to the emperor's instructions."

Several papers draw a parallel between this latest speech by Emperor William and one he delivered in 1898, dedicating to the Redeemer the church at Jerusalem, on which occasion the kaiser preached the gospel of Christian long-suffering toward all nations.

New Orleans Again Quiet.

New Orleans, July 29.—Mob violence seems to have spent itself and the city is quiet again. No fresh outbreaks are reported, the burning of the Thomy Lafin school having evidently been the crowning piece of mob violence. Mayor Capdeville says that the lawlessness, such as that which has shocked the community for the last few days can only be suppressed by force. He said today that he had no intention of disbanding the special police or discharging the militia until the last vestige of mob violence had disappeared. Among the communications received by the mayor today was an offer "from the leading citizens of Tangipahoa for a sufficient number of able bodied men to annihilate the negroes of New Orleans."

Tornado in North Dakota.

Hillsboro, N. D., July 29.—A severe tornado passed through Traill county and across the river into Minnesota, where it split into two parts. The path of the storm in Traill county was 37 miles long and four miles wide. Three miles north of Caledonia the house of Thomas Everson was demolished and his 17-year-old son killed. At Caledonia the city hall and Presbyterian church were wrecked and nearly every building in town was injured. So far as known the Everson boy was the only one killed.

Street Cars Dynamited.

St. Louis, July 29.—Five cars of the Transit company were damaged by dynamite placed on the tracks at different points. Nobody was injured as far as learned.

Street Car Accident.

Toledo, O., July 31.—Ten people were injured, one fatally and two seriously, in a street car accident here tonight.

Five Thousand Boers Surrenderd.

Cape Town, July 31.—General Prinsloo with 5000 men has surrendered unconditionally to the British.

A pretty and wealthy young widow is never a-miss.

LEGATIONS SAFE JULY 22

BRITISH ARE NOW CONVINCED.

News Believed at Washington—Chinese Forces Attacked the Legations July 10, but Were Trapped by Americans and British and a Thousand Were Killed.

London, Aug. 1.—The British consul at Tientsin telegraphs to the foreign office that a letter from a Japanese colonel in Pekin states that the legations were safe July 22. There had been no firing on the legations since July 17. The consul adds: "A reliable messenger who failed to enter Pekin, but reached there, returns stating that there was no firing on the legations between July 15 and July 19."

In view of this evidence the British government is convinced that the legations are safe.

Word From Pekin.

New York, Aug 1.—A dispatch from Chefoo, July 27, says:

The Japanese consul at Tientsin sent a runner July 15 to Pekin. On the 19th the runner left Pekin, bringing a cipher telegram to the Japanese government. It reads:

"We are defending ourselves against the Chinese very well, but now the attack has stopped. We will keep up to the last of the month, although it will be no easy task. The Japanese casualties are: killed —diplomatic attache, a captain and one student, and also a few marines; wounded—five or six; slightly wounded—very many."

The Chefoo consul says that nothing was written about the other ministers.

From German Embassy.

Berlin, Aug. 1.—The German consul at Tientsin has telegraphed under date of Saturday, July 28, to the foreign office as follows:

"The German secretary of legation at Pekin, Herr Gelow, writes July 21:

"'Thanks for your news. July 19 the condition of Cordes satisfactory. The remaining members of the legation are all right. The detachment of the guards lost 10 killed and 14 wounded. The houses of the legation, much damaged by cannon fire, are held by the guard. The attack of the Chinese troops on us ceased July 16. Speediest possible advance of relief troops urgently necessary.

"'According to trustworthy report the body of Baron Von Ketteler has been buried by the Chinese government.'"

The Cordes mentioned in the above dispatch is the second interpreter of the German legation. He was with Baron Von Ketteler when the latter was murdered, and himself was wounded. He escaped to the legation.

Led Into a Trap.

Tientsin, July 22, via Shanghai, July 31.—The latest advices from Pekin under date of July 15 say that the legations are holding out. The Chinese attacked the legations on the night of July 10, but were led into a trap by the Americans and British and 1000 of them were killed. Afterwards they continued bombarding the legations more freely.

Among the Chinese killed was General Ma.

The legations were subsequently attacked with constantly increasing fury.

These advices were brought from Pekin by a courier.

Word From Chaffee.

Washington, July 31.—The war department has received the following telegram from Major General Chaffee:

"Chefoo, July 30.—Adjutant General, Washington: Left Nagasaki at daybreak on July 26. Arrived at Taku at 10 on the night of July 28."

View at Washington.

Washington, July 31.—The view which the Washington cabinet has taken from the beginning, that, with the exception of Baron Von Ketteler, the legations at Pekin were alive there after the date which was said to have marked their massacre, is being slowly but surely confirmed. The most important contribution in support of our government's position since the receipt of the Conger autograph letter representing the foreign ministers to have been alive on July 4, came today from United States Consul Fowler at Chefoo. The letter referred to by the consul as coming from the German legation at Pekin is supposed here to have been an autographic letter, and as such absolutely removed from the possibility of fraud. The Japanese report is also understood to have come down to the sea without having passed through Chinese hands. It was one of the first results of the private messenger system inaugurated by the commanders of the allied forces. Taken in conjunction the two reports submitted by Mr. Fowler added overwhelmingly to the weight of the testimony in favor of the existence of the legations.

General Chaffee, whose arrival is reported by cable this morning from Chefoo, certainly has made remarkable time in going from Nagasaki to Taku in two days, showing that the transport Grant must have been pressed to her utmost. The general's horses are expected to arrive there in about a week, when the forward movement on Pekin will probably begin.

British Convinced.

London, July 31.—At last the British government is convinced that the ministers at Pekin are safe. Brussels, Berlin and American advices were regarded with doubt, but once the British consul at Tientsin confirmed them all doubt vanished. At this hour (5:30 p. m.) the good news has not become sufficiently known to the public to cause great rejoicing, but the feelings of relief of the officials who have read the dispatch can hardly be described. Almost in the same breath that they express their delight they say this afternoon's dispatches may be regarded as a striking vindication of the United States secretary of state, Colonel John Hay.

LATER.

"All the women and children are in the British legation. The casualties to date are sixty-two killed, including Captain Strouts. A number of wounded are in the hospital, including Captain Halliday. The rest of the legation are all well except David Oliphant and Warren, killed July 21. MACDONALD."

THE BOERS GET NO TERMS.

Lord Roberts Insists Boers Must Make an Unconditional Surrender.

London, July 30.—A special dispatch from Cape Town says:

"General Christian Dewet has offered to surrender on condition that his followers be permitted to return to their homes unmolested. Lord Roberts has refused anything except unconditional surrender."

A dispatch from Lord Roberts to the war office yesterday said:

"Broadwood is still watching Christian Dewet, who has taken up a position on the high hills near Reitzburg, about seven miles south of the Vaal.

"P. Dewet, a younger brother of Christian, surrendered at Kroonstad yesterday."

President Loubet's Decrees.

Paris, July 29.—President Loubet, on a proposition from the minister of war, has just signed a series of decrees, reforming and reorganizing the superior council of war and certain departments of the war office. The first decree appoints four lieutenant commanders to the army corps, namely: Generals De Saucier, Tanshot, Ladron and Tisseyre, thus modifying a former decree of General de Gallifet, according to which all the members of the council of war, instead of residing in Paris, are bound to be commanders of the army corps and consequently are required to reside at the headquarters of their corps.

The second decree makes several changes in the war office, including the appointment of General Lejoinere as director of the infantry in place of General Millet, who replaces General Tanshot as commander of the division of infantry.

The third decree appoints General Florenton as military governor of Paris, succeeding General Brugiere, who, when appointed on July 4 as president of the council of war, expressed a desire to devote his entire time to his new duties.

The fourth decree replaces General Negris, who, a year ago, was relieved by General de Galliet, having issued an imprudent order of the day.

In France.

Paris, July 29.—Yu Keng, the Chinese minister here, says he is convinced the legations in Pekin are safe and sound, although some buildings have been destroyed.

While this conviction is not shared by the official and political world here, dispatches from the far east during the past week have raised renewed hope that some —if not all—of the members of the legations are still alive. Minister Yu Keng thinks the silence of the ministers at Pekin not so ominous as it is considered abroad, and he asks that China be given another five days' credit to produce authentic and satisfactory news of the legations, or perhaps of the ministers themselves. He himself is still in ignorance of the actual situation in Pekin, but concludes from dispatches he has received from the provincial viceroys and from telegrams asking for mediation of France that Emperor Kwang Hsu and the empress dowager have the upper hand and that Prince Tuan has been definitely mastered.

"Happily for my country and for the foreigners," he said, "Yung Lu and Prince Ching are, I believe, now in power, and this leaves me hopeful—even though the presumption of the ministers may prove correct—that the legationers are still alive."

Ex-Consul Reed's Statement.

New York, July 30.—Sheridan P. Reed, ex-consul at Tientsin, says:

"When the allied relief forces reach Pekin I think they may find the capital deserted by the court and the envoys gone. It is not unlikely that the empress, and possibly the emperor, have fled with their court under the escort of Manchu banner men from Pekin to Sinan Fu, taking with them the ministers at least as hostages and leaving the other foreigners in Pekin to a horrible fate. If the ministers are being held as hostages and are being removed to the remote inland city of Sinan Fu, a place more difficult to reach, it is necessary that the Chinese should put forth all their finesse and cunning to conceal this move until they are safe across the mountains.

"Sinan Fu was a capital of China in ancient times. It is situated on the so-called 'Marcopolo' road. The only way it could be reached would be by way of the Yang Tse from Hankow up the Han river and Tan river valleys. This would be a most herculean task. Sinan Fu is larger and cleaner than Pekin. Like all Chinese cities it is massively walled."

Ten Persons Hurt.

Springfield, Ill., July 30.—Ten persons were injured, two fatally, by the premature discharge of the evening gun at the national guard encampment, Camp Lincoln, Sunday evening. The explosion was caused by some one throwing a lighted cigarette into powder which had fallen to the ground. The accident occurred in the presence of a large crowd of visitors to the camp.

Fire in Seattle.

Seattle, July 31.—The Pacific Door and Stave Company's plant was completely destroyed by fire. Loss $10,000, no insurance.

An extraordinary development in regard to woman's work is reported from Pittsburg, Pa. Five hundred girls and women are there employed in the foundries, doing the work for $4 and $5 a week for which men were formerly paid from $14 to $16 a week.

The effeminate young man and the manly young woman are more to be pitied than censured.

MINES AND MINING NE[WS]

OUR NORTHWESTERN [illegible]

Items Gleaned From Late [illegible] All Districts Are Being [illegible] —A Prosperous Year Is [illegible] Mining Notes and Perso[nal]

Another rich ore shoot h[as been en]countered on the Black Bea[r] mis. It is in the east dri[ft] 250-foot level. For the last [illegible] this drift has been running [illegible] any of the other workings of the [illegible] so that the strike is an entirely n[ew] body of ore. Free gold is visible al[l] through the face of the drift, and the ore will undoubtedly run exceedingly high, though no assays have yet been made. The finding of rich ore outside of the area of pay ore already explored is important, as it increases the value of the deposits to an as yet unknown extent. There was much jubilance over the find.

REPUBLIC.

The value of the ore in the Quilp is increasing rapidly.

It is expected that the Morning Glory will be cleared of water and ready for work in a few days.

The Surprise, in Keller camp, continues in rich ore, and the owners feel confident that they have the rich Dewey lead.

It is stated on reliable authority that the Republic Reduction company's plant will be in full operation by September 7. If this proves true the Republic mill and the custom mill will commence operations about the same time.

The water has been taken out of the shaft and drift on the Flag Staff in Cody camp. It was considerable of an undertaking, as the shaft is 100 feet deep and there is nearly 80 feet of drift. The water came close to the 50-foot level.

It is reported in Republic that the Mountain Lion company would declare a dividend of 5 cents per share on August 1. As far as can be learned no official announcement of the dividend has been made, but it is stated from an insider that such a course is more than probable.

The station being cut on the 200-foot level of the Quilp is completed. The ore in the raises never looked so well as it does now and it certainly assays far better than ever before. The values for a long time previous to the past month have ranged from $15 to $25 per ton, but since then the increase has been considerable.

The Badger Girl group of mining claims, which are being worked by eastern capital under the management of S. Bennett, has made a splendid strike of rich galena ore at the bottom of the incline shaft. This ore is the richest galena yet found in the camp and the quartz with which it is mixed is reported to assay high in gold values. Mr. Bennett is more than elated over the outlook for the property, which is rapidly developing into one of the foremost mines of Meyers Creek camp.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

It is reported that the Grand Forks smelter will blow in about August 15. There is about 3,000 tons of ore now in the bins of the smelter and the first roast pile of 1,000 tons has been fired.

If the rumor that the B. A. C. is seeking to secure the Trail smelter also proves true it is thought probable that that also will be enlarged. The shipments from the Le Roi alone are beginning to tax the present plant to the utmost, and when the mines of the subsidiary companies of the B. A. C. commence shipments a far greater capacity will be required.

Great excitement was caused in Kaslo last week by the news of three magnificent strikes on the south fork of Kaslo river. The most remarkable of the three was that made on the Bismarck claim, which was bonded at one time by Frank Sherwood of Spokane. The find was most unexpected. It was made about 20 feet to the east of the upper tunnel and consists of clean galena from four to 12 inches wide. The vein has been stripped for 30 feet, and old-time miners say that it is the most important event of the year.

Another good find is the one made on the Cork mineral claims, owned by the French syndicate. They have eight feet of galena in an open cut. They are driving a tunnel to crosscut. The Cork is at the bottom of the same hill at the summit of which is the Bismarck.

The Granite King is the claim on which the third strike was made. It is owned by Kaslo people. A few feet below the surface they encountered 32 inches of galena, and they have struck the same lead 10 feet below. This property is a gold as well as a silver one.

There is much activity throughout the district around Nelson since the settlement of the labor troubles, and important results are assured from the work under way and being started. The Venus' new mill is running full blast, and is proving a complete success. It was the first time that a rotary mill had been tried in that section, and much interest attached to its working. The mine is being worked with a full force of 38 men and is looking well. The work of pumping the water out of the Hall mines has started, and all preparations are being made for the resumption of active development as soon as that is done. The Birdseye has resumed work with a good force, and there is considerable activity in its neighborhood on Morning mountain. The St. Mary's country is also receiving a lot of development, and gene[illegible] specul[illegible] out of [illegible] rarely menti[oned] [illegible] ore carries con[illegible] there is also consid[erable] [illegible] in some of the ledges. [illegible] carry silver, lead, gold and co[pper] [illegible] a whole the values of the ore in [illegible] ledges is rather high.

As a result of the visit of the stockholders of the American Mining & Investment Company to their property near Curley, Wash., a smelter will be in operation on the Drummers mine this fall.

The contract was let in Spokane for the addition plant to bring the Northport smelter up to a daily capacity of 1100 tons. The contract was secured by the Bradley Engineering & Manufacturing company. The addition[al] plant includes a steam power engi[ne] with a maximum capacity of 600 ho[rse] power, a Bradley furnace of abou[t] [illegible] tons daily capacity and Conners[ville] No. 8 blowers to correspond.

Work has been started with a goo[d] force on the Umatilla, at Keller, Wash., the claim recently bonded by W. C. Morris. Mr. Morris let a contract for the extension of the tunnel immediately on his arrival and the work of exploiting the big vein is to be pushed with all speed. He says the syndicate is in a position to equip the property with a plant to make it a big producer as soon as its value can be demonstrated.

The Hecla Mining Company, a Spokane corporation operating the well known Hecla mine at Burke, Idaho, paid its first dividend of 2 cents per share at 2 cents per share, $20,000 in all, last week. The Hecla is one of the Finch & Campbell properties in the Coeur d'Alenes, and though there is a small quantity of the stock distributed throughout the country, the greater part of the $20,000 is paid in this city. The payment of this dividend marks another important step in the development of the Coeur d'Alenes by Spokane capital and adds another to the list of mines yielding rich returns and with possibilities of steadily growing profits to local operators.

Superintendent George Miller of the Ben Hur believes that he will connect the lower level of the mine with the intermediate level within the next five days. The lower level is 230 feet below the surface and the intermediate on[e] 115 feet below. A raise is being m[ade] from the lower and a winze is b[eing] sunk from the intermediate. Wh[en] these are connected the mine will [be] well ventilated. It is then proposed to [sink a] stope on the lower level and it is not improbable that the shaft will be continued down 100 feet. The ore in both the winze and raise is of good grade, running from $20 to $40 per ton. The superintendent thinks that the average is not far from $30 per ton.

A report has reached Wallace, Idaho, of a new strike on Stevens peak which promises well. It was made by the Livingston brothers on a claim they own on the very eastern part of what is known as the copper belt of that region, but the ore was lead instead of copper. They were ground-sluicing in the bed of a creek about where the ledge was supposed to cross. They uncovered it showing 16 inches of the finest kind of shipping galena and several feet of concentrating ore alongside of it. The pure ore is in the form of large cubes, breaking readily with the fingers. The wagon road building in there from Mullan is now nearing the summit, but it will run considerably to the west of the strike.

There is an excellent state of affairs at the Conjecture, on Lake Pend d'Oreille. Stoping was commenced a few days ago in the roof of the main tunnel, 500 feet from the mouth. The rich pay streak, which has been found the whole length of the ledge as far as it has been opened, but which has been only about 12 to 15 inches thic[k], widened above the tunnel to three an[d] a half feet and the high values are no[t] only maintained but are improving and the best ore in the mines is now being taken out of this stope. The three and a half feet of ore runs about 300 ounces of silver to the ton. The shipments of ore from Lake Pend d'Oreille since work was resumed last April have been about 225 tons. Estimating this ore as averaging $70 per ton, a conservative estimate, the yield from the district has been nearly $16,000 in about three months.

LABOR NOTES.

According to Bradstreet's report wages have advanced from 12 to 15 per cent. in the United States during the last two years, while the cost of living has increased from 25 to 33 per cent.

The great strike at Rotterdam, Holland, is spreading and the strikers becoming riotous. They lately fired upon the soldiers, wounding ten of them. The troops will be reinforced. Warships are protecting the shipping and docks.

The prince and princess of Naples are on board the Yela, yachting in the Levant.

The city presents a normal aspect this morning, the news of the murder not being generally known.

Signor Saracco, the premier, will leave for Monza at 7 o'clock this morning with the vice president of the senate to draw up the certificate of decease of the king. [illegible] will be brought to Rome. The prince of Naples is at Piraeus on his return voyage.

The council of ministers is still sitting.

Churchill-West Wedding.

London, July 29.—Lady Randolph Churchill (nee Jerome) was Saturday married to Lieutenant George Cornwallis West at St. Paul's church, Knight's Bridge. The church was thronged with handsomely dressed people. There was no restriction upon the number admitted to the church to witness the ceremony except the capacity of the church, but only relatives and intimate friends were bidden to the subsequent wedding breakfast and no reception was held.

The usually quiet neighborhood of Wilton Place, where St. Paul's church is located, was Saturday morning early astir. Before 9 o'clock crowds had collected outside the church gates. By 10:15 the crowds had swelled to enormous proportions. The late opening of the church doors caused great inconvenience to early guests, who were pushed here and there and almost swept from their feet when the gates were actually opened, and a rush was made for the doors by the crowds, fighting and pushing to enter the church. It was only with the aid of policemen that they were controlled.

The church was not overcrowded. It was sparsely adorned with palms and white blossoms. The two front pews which had been reserved for the family of the bride were quite unoccupied, while the Cornwallis-West family was not represented.

Rathbone Put in Jail.

Havana, July 29.—Estes G. Rathbone, recently director-general of posts in Cuba, was arrested here on four charges. These allege the unlawful drawing of two orders for $500 each, paying his private coachman and gardener from the postal funds, and drawing per diem allowance when not entitled to do so. Mr. Rathbone was held in bonds of $25,000. He remained in the court room all day awaiting the decision of the judge in the matter of acceptance of Francisco Gamba, one of the richest Spanish merchants of Havana, as bondsman for $25,000. Rathbone was obliged to go to the guard-house because the judge ruled that Gamba could not go on the bond without the consent of his business partners.

W. A. Clark Donated $100,000.

New York, July 29.—Senator W. A. Clark of Montana has left on the Lucania for a vacation in Europe. He will be gone two months and will visit the Paris exposition, Switzerland and France. Before sailing Mr. Clark was asked if he had made a contribution towards the democratic campaign fund. He replied:

"Yes, I have given a check for $100,000 to the democratic campaign fund. Perhaps it was for more than that amount. Of course I sent the contribution. That was my duty as a democrat. I believe it is to the advantage of the country and my own personal interest to help elect democratic candidates."

From Klondike.

Vancouver, B. C., July 30.—The steamer Cutch has arrived from Skagway with nearly $250,000 in gold dust on board. The most prominent passenger was E. C. Senkler, the gold commissioner at Dawson, who is on his way to Ottawa to consult with the government there on official matters. He will probably advise a reduction of the Yukon royalty, as he says the miners are urging very strongly its injustice.

On the way up the Yukon a miner named Ranson, who was leading with a stampede party for the upper Stewart, was shot and killed by James King.

Prince Alert Paced in 2:02.

Cleveland, July 30.—The last day of the grand circuit meeting was marked by another sensational performance. The world's record for pacers in hobbles which was broken on Tuesday by S. C. Honey, when he went a mile in 2:02 3-4, was again lowered by Prince Alert, when he covered the mile in 2:02.

The strange relations of the rich man are usually poor.

TRADE REPORTS.

New York—Bradstreet's report for the past week says:

Important changes in trade and speculation are notably lacking this week but counter currents of demand in various sections and industries lend a rather more than usually irregular appearance to the general situation. Among the notable features calling for notice are the practical assurance of an immense corn crop by the recent copious rains in the further west, the continued cheerful reports from the sections which have gathered and are now gathering a large winter wheat crop, advices of continued improvement in tone in the northwest, with reports of renewals of earlier canceled orders for fall goods, fairly satisfactory gains in gross railway earnings, less weakness in prices of the country's leading cereal products, based apparently on renewed buying for export and rather more inquiry for raw wool by manufacturers.

Unfavorable elements in trade probably find their chief and greatest exposition in the iron and steel business. That industry is, if possible, more depressed than at any time for three years past, and expectations that price declines will be checked by the arrival of finished matter at a cost basis have been disappointed, because this week steel bars have been sold in some instances at one cent per pound, which is unquestionably below the basis of the cost of raw materials and manufacture.

That a large tonnage of this material and southern pig iron has been worked off seems certain, but it is still a buyer's market, with everything that this implies.

Export business would undoubtedly expand if ship room were available. Among other metals tin is locally lower on freer arrivals, after touching the highest price in 20 years.

Rather more inquiry for wool at eastern markets is a sign of manufacturers getting ready for the light-weight season.

Wheat (including flour) shipments for the week aggregate 2,362,743 bushels, against 3,029,281 bushels last week, 3,366,482 bushels in the corresponding week of 1899, 2,371,872 bushels in 1898, 2,348,021 bushels in 1897 and 2,641,748 bushels in 1896.

From July 1 to date this season wheat exports are 11,241,814 bushels, against 13,797,292 bushels last season and 10,381,810 bushels in 1898-99.

Business failures are smaller, numbering 188 in the United States, compared with 202 last week, 179 in this week a year ago, 189 in 1898, 259 in 1897 and 241 in 1896.

Canadian failures number 13, as against 26 last week, 16 in this week last year, 34 in 1898, 32 in 1897 and 24 in 1896.

Prices Paid in Spokane.

Poultry and Eggs—Chickens, old, 10@11c per lb, live weight; springs, $4.00@4.50 per doz; ducks, $4.00@5.00 per doz; geese, dressed, 12c per lb; turkeys, live, 10@12c; dressed, 12@13c; eggs, fresh, $4.00@4.50 per case.

Vegetables—Potatoes, 30@40c per cwt; onions, $1.00@1.50 per cwt.

Live stock—Beef, live steers, 4c; dressed, 6¼@7¼c; live cows, 3c; dressed, 5½@6½c; veal calves, dressed, 7@8c; mutton, ewes, 3c; wethers, 3½c; hogs, live, $4.75 per cwt; dressed, $7.00 per cwt.

Sheep skins—Shearlings, 10c each; short wool pelts, 30@50c; medium wool, 50@75c; long wool, 75c@$1.00.

Wheat.

Portland, Ore.—Most of the exporters decline to bid above 55c, and the market is stationary at that figure.

Tacoma, Wash.—Wheat—Quiet, unchanged. Bluestem, 59c; club, 56c, both for export.

Metals.

New York—Silver certificates, 61½@62½c; bar silver, 60⅞c; Mexican dollars, 48c.

San Francisco—Silver bars, 60⅞c; Mexican dollars, 49@49½c.

London—Bar silver, 27 15-16.

The brokers' price for lead was $3.95 and for copper $16.50.

New York—Metals—The feature of operations on the metal exchange was the announcement from London that 1,000 tons of tin had been shipped. This statement weakened our market considerably, offerings of spot being at $34.[illegible]

Copper ruled quiet and unchanged here. In London it was 5s higher, at £73.

Lead and spelter—Dull and unchanged at $3.87½@4.02 and $4.25@4.30 respectively.

Iron and steel were weak again. Pig iron warrants show a decline of 25 points to $12.75.

Fishermen Strike Is Off.

Vancouver, B. C., July 29.—The Fishermen's union of New Westminster, after a prolonged session Saturday afternoon, declared off the Fraser river salmon strike, but the membership of that union is not large as that of the union at Steveston.

The strike situation at Steveston remains the same. The union fishermen held two uneventful meetings today. Labor Commissioner Bremner has not yet succeeded in effecting a settlement between the cannery men and the strikers. Meanwhile the militia will remain at Steveston.

News was received today from Skeena river that the salmon run there is better than heretofore, boats making an average daily catch of 160 fish. On the Fraser river the catch has fallen off again.

The garment workers of Baltimore, Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco have affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and number over 10,000 men.

WILD RUMORS FROM CHINA

MORE EDICTS WERE ISSUED.

Plans of the War Office—Massacre Is Reported as Authentic—Three More War Ships at Shanghai—Views of Germany, France and England.

Washington, July 29.—The day brought forth the usual crop of edicts and reports from various quarters and the usual visit from Minister Wu to the state department bearing directly upon the welfare of the ministers in Pekin. This contrary mass of assertions is beginning to have a cumulative effect upon the skeptics and there is a noticeable increase in the hopeful view taken of the state of affairs today. Beyond the fact that it is scarcely conceivable the Chinese authorities should persist in repeating and strengthening these stories up to the rapidly approaching moment when the whole truth must be disclosed by other agencies it appeared upon careful consideration of the reports that there really was little more ground for hope as to the safety of Mr. Conger and his colleagues at Pekin today than there was yesterday.

The depressing fact is always in mind that [illegible] the authorities by their own statements are able to communicate with the legationers but, for some mysterious reason, do not permit these unfortunates to communicate with their own governments. Minister Wu's explanation of this —that the Chinese methods are different from our own—is scarcely sufficient for the officials here. The minister, however, is honestly trying to get a direct communication through from Mr. Conger, and it may be that success in this undertaking [illegible] a brilliant finale [illegible] at least he shows a wonderful lot of confidence [illegible] the fate of the legations, and manages to impress this in a degree upon the officers and others with whom he comes in contact.

There is nothing of interest from China respecting the military or naval forces there. The war officials now calculate that General Chaffee, with his troops on the [illegible] at Taku, [illegible] report of the fact can reach the department. The irregular and unsatisfactory character of the present system of communication between Taku and the cable office has been taken into account by the war department, and it is said that one of Chaffee's first acts on taking command of the United States forces ashore at Taku and Tientsin will be to establish a line of small boats running from Tientsin to Shanghai or Nagasaki.

While the positive statement is made that it is not the present intention to send any more troops from Manila to China, at the same time it is known that all contingencies have been canvassed and that if an emergency should arise in China which made it imperative to have additional troops, they would be drawn from the Philippines for temporary duty at least. Some time ago General MacArthur was advised by Secretary Root to maintain sufficient transports to carry supplies between Manila and Taku and these thus would be available for emergency troops. The Pennsylvania, Indiana and Sumner, when the latter arrives at Manila, will probably be held for service between Manila and Taku and are available for the contingency, but the department does not expect it to arise.

Chinese Reports of Safety.

Washington, July 29.—The secretary of state has received the following dispatch from the American consul at [illegible] midnight on the 26th:

"This morning, by request of the allied admirals, I wired the governor (supposed to be the governor of Shan Tung) their wish to get news from ministers themselves. The governor replies:

"'I have received today edict from the emperor saying that the ministers are well. They are sending provisions to the legations. I am confident the ministers are out of distress, and request you (Fowler) to transmit this preliminary announcement of the admirals.

"'YUAN, Governor.'"

A later dispatch from Fowler, dated 1 a. m., 27th, to the state department, is as follows:

"Another telegram from the governor says: 'I have received an imperial edict of the 24th, saying that the various ministers, except the German, are well and that some days ago the governor had provided provisions to the legations. I am satisfied the ministers are out of distress. YUAN, Governor.'"

Secretary Hay also has received a cablegram from United States Consul McWade at Canton, stating that the viceroy Tak assures him that the ministers were all alive and well on July 24.

Paris, July 29.—The Chinese minister at Paris, Yukeng, has received the following imperial dispatch, dated July 24:

"Foreign ministers are, happily, at the present time safe and sound, with the exception of Von Ketteler. We are having the foreign legations supplied with provisions and fruits as a token of the interest we feel in them."

Confirms Report of Massacre.

New York, July 29.—Cable messages were received by both the Presbyterian board of foreign missions and the American Bible society, corroborative of the report that the missionaries at Pao Ting Fu had been massacred.

Minister Reported Killed.

London, July 29.—The Daily Mail's Shanghai correspondent telegraphs that a Russian banker who left Pekin July 7 and arrived at Shanghai Wednesday, July 25, says that when he left Pekin all the legations had been destroyed and all the foreigners murdered. The ministers, seeing that death was inevitable, shot their families.

Sir Robert Hart, the banker adds, committed suicide in despair.

The full text of the Daily Mail's cablegram is as follows:

"Shanghai, July 29.—Newspapers here publish a statement by an influential banker, residing in Pekin, that the British legation, who arrived at Shanghai July 25, having left Pekin July 7. He states that the legations were then destroyed. All the foreigners had disappeared and he could not say positively they had been murdered, as he was too frightened to inquire."

The Mail's correspondent proceeds:

"[illegible] this information [illegible] in question [illegible] not disclose his name, fearing that to do so would cause him to lose his head."

Li Hung Wants a Warship.

St. Petersburg, July 29.—A dispatch has been received from Li Hung Chang, dated July 26, which says that the Chinese government telegraphs him under date of July 23 that the ministers are all well. Li Hung Chang also complains that none of the powers has consented to place a warship at his disposal for his journey north, and he added that he would be compelled to encounter many difficulties by land journey.

Nine Killed at Chang Chow.

Shanghai, July 29.—It is reported here that nine members of the China inland mission have been massacred near Chang Chow. Three additional warships arrived today. There are now 2500 troops at Woo Sung forts, 17 miles from Shanghai, on the Yang Tse. Three thousand troops are now at the arsenal. Small [illegible] are arriving daily. Canton [illegible]

EDICT OF TAK IS SUSPICIOUS.

Suppose Only to Secure Delay—Minister Wu's [illegible] to Washington Is Confident of Legationers' Safety.

Washington, July 27.—Notwithstanding signs of activity, the state department had nothing this morning of interest touching the China [illegible]

The imperial edict promulgated yesterday [illegible] left a disagreeable impression here. Despite the Chinese minister's views to the contrary, the edict is looked on suspiciously like a preliminary to a formal declaration of war, and only a step toward acquiring time to move Chinese forces into a better position for defense against the international forces.

[The noti]ce that came to the state department that Korea is free from Boxer agitation was well received, for it is believed that Russia will thus be able to spare many more troops from her Siberian army for use in the international force. With it the navy department sent over a copy of a dispatch received from Admiral Remey [illegible] the marine corps.

Minister Wu came down and asked for half an hour with Acting Secretary Hill, but he declared he had nothing from home, though he was confident of important developments in the immediate future. The Chinese minister expressed to Secretary Hill his continued hope that the ministers in Pekin were still safe, and said he believed he would be able to deliver to the department a message from Minister Conger [illegible] that hope certain. The state department has no information of any kind from its officers in China. Acting Secretary Hill said the Chinese minister had received no communications from China, and had no information to impart and the conference with the minister was simply an interchange of courtesies.

Colonel Meade Disabled.

[illegible], July 24.—[illegible] 26.— Bureau Navigation, Washington, D. C.: Colonel Meade has been condemned to the Mare Island hospital on account of rheumatism. Major Waller will succeed to the command of First regiment. My obtainable information clears the marines of any imputation of burning houses or looting at Tientsin. REMEY.

Not Unexpected.

Washington, July 27.—The fact that Colonel Meade, who was in command of the marines at Taku, has been invalided home on account of rheumatism has created no surprise among the comrades of the navy who know him best. While a man of indomitable will, Colonel Meade's vitality has been below par, and it has been an almost constant struggle for him to perform his duties. Colonel Meade has been the ranking marine officer at the Cavite naval station since its establishment. His departure from Taku will leave Lieutenant Colonel Coolidge of the Ninth in command of the American land forces. The latter's command, however, will be only temporary, as the arrival of the Grant with General Chaffee within the next few days will place him in supreme command.

Major Waller, who is now the ranking marine officer, also will give way to Major Biddle, who sailed [illegible] on the Grant two companies of the Fourth battalion of marines. The acquisition of the 225 marines will bring the force of marines close up to 700.

Owing to the largely increased force of marines and the reinforcements which are on the way from the United States, Colonel William S. Muse, who is now stationed at the Mare Island navy yard, San Francisco, may be assigned to command them.

The navy department is very much gratified to hear from Rear Admiral Remey a denial of the imputation that American marines participated in any way in the burning and looting of Tientsin, after its capture by the allies. However, this has been understood to be the fact from the first.

The ornamental glassworkers, we are informed from Chicago, are planning the formation of a national union, and they request that all craftsmen fall in line. Information can be had by corresponding with H. H. Halverson, 355 West Erie street, Chicago, Ill. Labor and friendly papers please copy.

Over ten per cent. of the members of the trades unions employed in the glass trade and industry in England are idle.

—The republican county central committee meets tomorrow to fix a date for the holding of their primaries and convention.

—Farmers in the Walla Walla district have suffered much loss this season from fires in their wheat fields, mostly resulting from locomotive and threshing engines.

—Several trainloads of cavalry horses have been received at Seattle the past ten days from Walla Walla, Idaho, and the horse heaven country. These horses will be sent to Manila for use on the islands.

—The apple crop this year will be enormous. All through this apple belt the trees are loaded, and every indication points to an abundant harvest. If the farmer can realize fifty cents or more per box he will have lots of money. The chances are he will get more than this sum for winter fruit. Last winter Idaho apples brought the farmers $1 per box.

—The farmers with binders have considerable grain saved from the elements. Many stacks are already to be seen, and some of them ungainly looking things. But this is not to be wondered at, as the straw is as stiff as a board and the stackers a little new at the business. However, the people with these stacks are more contented than those who are waiting for the header to clip their grain.

—The drouth is killing trees in states along the Atlantic coast. The people in the central states complain. A Utah paper says: "The outlook for the sheep business in Utah is anything but bright. In fact it is dark, darker than a long time. The ranges are dried up, the sheep are poor and prices have fallen rapidly in the last 60 days, particularly the last 30. What the outcome will be no man can forsee, except that the losses will be heavy. They are already heavy and many sheep men are discouraged."

—Hicks forecast for August gives a warm period for this week followed by storms. A break in high temperature about the 7th Reactionary storm period on the 11th, in some sections in the southern states violent storms will occur, after which the remainder of the month will partake of the autumnal equinoctial perturbation; some bad storms are promised, more particularly on the south coast. Rain, wind and cooler weather about the 17th. Hailstorms are to be apprehended during the last of August. "We firmly believe much of the country already specified will have to grapple with great drouth this season and next. Pacific coast regions will have more rainfall than in years just passed." Poor coast!

A gentleman recently cured of dyspepsia gave the following appropriate rendering of Burns famous blessing: "Some have meat and can not eat, and some have none that want it; but we have meat and we can eat—Kodol Dyspepsia Cure be thanked." This preparation will digest what you eat. It instantly relieves and radically cures indigestion and all stomach disorders.

Collapse.

Caused by overwork? No, caused by undernourishment. Work rarely causes collapse. It is worry—the outcome of a low condition of the nervous system and inadequate nutrition which generally causes collapse. The collapse seems sudden, but in reality it is a slow process. The stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased, the nourishment in the food eaten is only partially extracted and imperfectly assimilated. The blood becomes impure; the very fount of life is poisoned, and some day all the faculties and functions go on a strike. That's collapse. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition, purifies the blood and builds up the weak body with sound healthy flesh.

"I was cured of a very bad case of indigestion, associated with torpid liver, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. G. B. Bird, of Symsale, Putnam Co., W. Va. "Before I began the use of Golden Medical Discovery I had no appetite; could not sleep, nor work but very little. Bowels constipated, and life was a misery to me. After taking four bottles I felt so well that I went to work, but soon got worse, so I used it about eight weeks longer, when I was permanently cured."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for paper covered book, or 31 stamps for cloth, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

—The grasshoppers are doing a great deal of damage to the orchards east of Lewiston. Rob't Schleicher, who has one of the finest fruit farms in Idaho, says the grasshoppers have about completely devastated his orchards and are now playing havoc with his orchard. It is said that the Porter, Delaol and other places are being visited by the grasshoppers who seem to be very numerous this year.

—One of our new farmers from Dakota bought a binder and commenced harvesting last week. He secured a man to do the shocking and told him he would have a swap to shock the grain cut by the binder—could lie in the shade nearly half of the time. This pleased the hired man immensely. A start was made but in a few hours it dawned on the h. m. that if he was to take in any shade it would be the shade of night for he was rapidly losing sight of the binder. Both men discovered that it required two good shockers to keep up with a machine in Idaho. We raise grain here.

GOV. STEUNENBERG says he is no bolter, and will support the ticket. This is like raw garlic in the dynamite stew, says the Wallace Press.

WHEN it comes to a question of flaying, the Governor of New York can be depended upon to do entire justice to the ex-Governor of Illinois. His saber is double-edged.

GEN GROSVENOR figures up McKinley's certain electoral vote at 278, which is 54 more than enough to elect. Bryan's certain vote is placed at 132, leaving 37 in doubt from Kentucky, Nebraska, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, Idaho and Montana. In this he does not claim Washington, South Dakota and Kansas for Mc.

"THE democratic party proposes generally to legislate against combinations and encourage, as far as possible, a return to individualism and free competition. The republican party proposes to recognize the right of capital to combine, but to bring combinations under government control. The Outlook believes that the safeguarding of the republic is to be found in perfecting combination and bringing it under government control rather than in preventing combination and trying to return to individualism and free competition. The economic advantages of combination are too great and too immediate to be sacrificed. The Standard Oil company carries oil to the farmer's door; travel is more comfortable under railroad kings than in the days of petty railroads competing with each other; better beef is supplied by the great packing houses than when every village butcher did his own killing. And while the public is better served, the servitors are better paid. The wages of the modern factory weaver are better paid than the profit of the individual weaver in the days of Silas Marner. In brief, the remedy for the oppression of capital is not generalism legislation against trusts and an attempted return to individualism, which we would not accomplish if we would and would not if we could, but a frank recognition of the right of capital and labor to combine and a government strong enough to compel the combinations to serve the public with justice and equity." This is from a widely circulated religious journal and gives much light.

THE Palouse country is flooded with petitions for signers asking the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern and the O. R. & N. to give this section special rates on wheat to eastern markets. It is set forth that the crop is not up to expectations, that prices have not risen as they had hoped, that the expenses of production have increased, and if forced to market the grain at Pacific coast terminals, on the basis of existing high ocean freight rates, there will be no profit, and times will be hard the coming year. The petitions are being signed by wheat-growers merchants and business men in all the towns from this end of the Palouse to Walla Walla. If the railroads will grant the concessions it would be a great relief to our people and stimulate business generally. Here is the petition being circulated:

"We, the undersigned, citizens of eastern Washington and patrons of your road, respectfully petition and represent: That being heavy shippers, our interests are closely identified with yours; that during the present season owing to the low price of grain, and the high price of labor, sacks, twine, and all things pertaining to placing our grain on the market, we will have nothing left after the sale of the 1900 crop, unless we get relief of some kind; that this condition would materially decrease the incoming and outgoing freight in this section for several years to come; that owing to the present freight rate from this section to the coast, coupled with high charters caused by foreign wars, we can see no relief in view unless your road would declare an emergency and assist us in this crisis by making an emergency rate on wheat of not more than 25 cents per bushel to Chicago, or 20 cents per bushel to Duluth, Minneapolis and St. Paul; that your petitioners would greatly appreciate such action and know that only through such a measure will eastern Washington and neighboring territory be able to avoid a crash similar to the one of 1893, a repetition of which would be equally disastrous to you and to us; that it is absolutely necessary for the mutual benefit of your road and your petitioners that you act favorably and promptly.

At present the rate is 36 cents per bushel to Chicago and 20 cents to St. Paul and Duluth. If this low rate can be secured it is believed the bulk of this year's grain will go east where it is needed owing to the crop failure in the Dakotas and Minnesota, and at the same time give the empty cars in the above states something to do. It is hoped by everybody in the Genesee valley, where a million bushels of grain will be garnered, that the railroads will come to the rescue and assist the toilers by granting them the rate asked.

THE Spokane Review, which is the heavy-weight fusion-silver daily of the northwest, says in an editorial: "If the democracy of Idaho had been set on upholding the results of Gov. Steunenberg's administration, it would have stood by Gov. Steunenberg. It would not have repudiated its official head to follow Dubois in a mad chase after the dynamiting element. It has been tried and found wanting, and cannot be trusted at this critical moment. Even now, under the leadership of Dubois, and in spite of the jilting it received at Pocatello, it is courting a post-convention alliance with the party that has declared against the permit system in the Cœur d'Alenes, and for restoration of the old-time dynamiting organization and the pardon of men convicted of high crimes. If negotiations and concession will do the work, there will yet be a combination of Boyce and Dubois. The republican party of Idaho is courting no such alliance. No emmissionaries of Ed Boyce hung around the doors of the convention at Boise City. No couriers are bearing messages between the republican and populist party camps in Idaho. For these convincing and sufficient reasons, The Review hopes that, however the voters of Idaho may line up on the national ticket, they will give their overwhelming support to the republican state and legislative tickets. For Idaho to relapse into the intolerable conditions which existed when Shoshone county was under the tyranny of dynamiters and assassins would be a calamity."

—Water in the Snake, Clearwater and Palouse rivers is reported lower than for some years.

—Starting with Monday Chicagos have been having a season of very hot weather, from six to a dozen deaths occurring daily from the deadly heat.

—Bears have been killing yearling cattle in the Willowa country this summer. In a radius of ten miles seventeen carcasses were found by the cattle men while making a tour of that section.

—The Spokane exposition will have a celebrated band from Italy. Mr. Smith of the Hazlewood company will have supervision of the exhibits, while Storey Buck has been chosen press agent.

—The sheep men of eastern Washington are becoming a little alarmed over the outlook for the sale of their crop of lambs. There is a drouth in Montana, Utah and Wyoming. This gives the eastern buyer a much better chance to buy at a better advantage, getting their lambs very much cheaper.

—Reports from the threshing machines in eastern Oregon indicates that the wheat crop will only be about one-half crop. With such disappointing reports from the west and the great shortage in the states to the east of us, News cannot understand why the price should not advance considerable before many months.

—On to Pekin has been the cry of the soldiers in China the past week. Tuesday the news came that a great battle had been tought by the allied forces and the Chinese were repulsed. While Russia and Japanese lost heavily, the loss of the Chinese is believed to be many thousands. Now that much blood has been shed there can be but one settlement. Chinese armies must give way to soldiers of superior skill. The allied forces have gone so far that they will not withdraw until they secure what they want. Every battle and every outbreak will serve to strengthen the bond of brotherhood between the different nations against China.

—Rev. C. R. Howard of Genesee, Idaho, is in the city and will occupy his brother's pulpit in the Methodist church South tomorrow.—Saturday's Spokane Chronicle.

—Several Italian families of Warner are en route to their old home in sunny Italy. They accumulated a fortune and are returning to their native heath to enjoy it.

—A farmer near Farmington, H. C. Harlow, sowed 20 acres to timothy and received two and one-half tons of hay to the acre. Sold the hay for $9 per ton, and after paying all expenses of bailing, etc., the land netted more than $15 per acre.

—The best military hospital in this country is being completed at San Francisco for the care of soldiers wounded in China. It will contain an electric light plant, steam heating, a fully appointed laundry, a disinfecting apparatus and an ice-making machine and refrigerator.

—North Yakima makes shipments of baled alfalfa hay daily, much of it going to the Hawaiian islands. The crop is estimated at fully 200,000 tons for the year, if four cuttings are made. Prices are about $6 per ton on board cars. The sheep industry is also of considerable importance now. Two carloads of sheep were recently shipped in from eastern Canada, the lambs selling for $18 and the rams for $30 each.

—Politics may simmer and boil, but Canyon county soil will show up the largest crops of any county in Idaho. Oats will average 60 bushels per acre, wheat 40, and alfalfa 5 tons, while the fruit trees are bending with all kinds of fruit.—Caldwell Recbrd. All very nice, Bro. Your county is not one whit more productive than Latah or grand old Nez Perce. Come up and see our grain fields and orchards—no better anywhere.

—Hobos are kept so busy dodging jobs in the Palouse that they have made themselves scarce. We hear very little of "millions unemployed" this year. Any man that wants work in the fields, mines timber can get it with good wages—from $2 to $4 per day. In fact we are so short of hands that much work is left undone. Our citizens the past week raised the cash and caused advertisements to be inserted in all the daily papers surrounding us calling for men and teams. Work on every side.

"Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach" says O. P. M. Holliday, of Deming, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better at once. Sold by all druggists.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy took two doses and was entirely cured' says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called another doctor who treated him for some and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said no. I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. For sale by all druggists.

Chinese are dangerous enemies, for they are treacherous. That's why all counterfeits of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve are dangerous. They look like DeWitt's, but instead of the all-healing witch hazel they all contain ingredients liable to irritate the skin and cause blood poisoning. For piles, injuries and skin diseases use original and genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Story of A Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. Geo. D. Williams of Manchester, Mich., says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, menancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. It is a godsend to weak, sickly, run-down people. Cure guaranteed. Only 50c. Sold by Kennedy, druggist.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. look out for them. It cures piles and all skin diseases.

THE GENESEE NEWS.

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT GENESEE AS SECOND-CLASS MAIL MATTER.

Subscription rates, one year, $2; six months, $1.

J. W. HOPP, CHAS. POWER } Editors and Proprietors.

—Mr. Wood received 30 bushels to the acre from his spring sown wheat, blue stem variety.

—D. W. Hannah was over from Moscow Saturday counting the many Mark Hannas in the Genesee neighborhood.

—Steve Reuben, our Nez Perce friend, was in town the other day selling apples, plums and peaches of his own raising, and they were fine.

—T. H. Brewer and Geo. Daggett, attended meeting of republican county central committee at Moscow Saturday. It was arranged to hold the convention on Wednesday, September 5, and the primaries Thursday, August 30 The apportionment provides for 160 delegates.

—The Northern Pacific shops at Tacoma just completed an order for 400 flatcars and the workmen are now engaged in rushing to completion an order for 250 boxcars. The shops are also busy with an order for the frames and woodwork for 250 boxcars to be built at Brainerd, Minn.

—Will Foresman, one of the Teller hustlers, was up from Lewiston Tuesday. He held down the NEWS ink keg for an hour and swapped lies. Said the wheat fields across the river yielded better this year than for a long time and that Ira Small would have close to 90,000 bushels for his 1900 work. Come again, neighbor.

—An unusual sight was witnessed near Peck says the Press. A large eagle was flying over, hotly pursued by a band of crows, which seemed much wrought up about something. The eagle bore in its talons a body, and when enjoined their shouts with the crows' racket he dropped his burden to the rocks below. It proved to be a coyote pup, weighing 10 pounds.

—The yield of wheat in the vicinity of Moscow is disappointing. Where from 30 to 40 bushels per acre were confidently expected, the actual return is from 20 to 25 bushels, says the Star. An examination of the heads of the unthreshed grain shows that the shortage is caused by the failure of the heads to fill on account of the hot weather. The same disappointment exists at Pullman. In fact the grain and vegetables are shorter than for several years at Pullman.

—Register West of the Lewiston land office, says: "Any person who has heretofore filed a homestead entry and has thereafter commuted the same is now, under Act June 5, 1900, entitled to make another entry the same as though the former entry had not been made. Also that any person who before June 5, 1900, filed a homestead entry or thereafter relinquished the same is entitled to make another homestead entry. Applicants will be required to furnish an affidavit designating the former entry by number, date, description and office where made."

—Dr. Lemman departed Sunday morning for a ten days recreation at Medical Lake, Spokane and Ritzville.

—Miss India Snyder, who has been visiting her grandparents and uncle, Mr and Mrs. and Jeems Finson, returned to her home in Genesee.—Troy News.

—According to the tally of the threshing machines the Genesee country wheat fields are turning out better than the fields in any other part of the Palouse which bears out the claim that our soil is richer and retains the moisture better than that of other sections of the Inland Empire.

—The Lewiston people are offering some excellent fair premiums. To the couple getting married on a certain date during the fair a fine $40 bedroom suit and stove will be given. Liberal premiums are offered for best displays of art work, bread, jelly, grain, fruit, etc., etc.

—John Clancy, an aged laboring man who was seriously beaten at Boise by two young companions, Gill and Black, on the night of July 2, died recently as a result of his injuries. The lads have been in jail awaiting the result of the old man's injuries, and will now have to face a charge of murder.

—C. Haworth, aged twenty-four years, was drowned in the Snake river at the junction of that stream with the Clearwater, Saturday afternoon. He was in swimming with another man and ventured out into deep water with a swift current. The young man was employed in the sawmill at Lewiston, of industrious habits and high character.

—Tacoma is making great strides to become the grain market of the coast. The warehouse facilities are being enlarged by the erection of an entirely new system, work is in progress upon the dredging of a 500-foot channel, 25 feet in depth, for half a mile, largely for the accommodation of the wheat-shipping trade. Tacoma can store six million bushels of grain and then do business with the farmers and the exporters.

—President Mellen and party of the Northern Pacific are in the northwest inspecting the lines. They will visit the Clearwater branch in a day or two and size up Idaho. President Hill of the Great Northern is also on a tour of inspection on the Pacific coast. His private car is said to be the finest in the world, a veritable palace on wheels. Inside is an observation room, dining room, two staterooms and the commissary rooms, kitchen, etc. The finishings are in mahogany and oak.

—Next Wednesday, the 15th, marks the opening of the chicken season. The hunters are getting guns and dogs in trim and a big time is expected at the opening day. We sometimes eat chicken.

—According to reports the Russians are no better than the heathen Chinese. The way they butcher the Chinese, spear children and toss from bayonet to bayonet is inhuman and almost beyond belief, yet it is true. Think of such barbarism at this age of the world.

—The Palouse Republic tells of a great wheat field near there. The bundles from the Harvester King are thrown regularly within three feet of each other. A number of machines have been tried, but all failed to take anything like a full swath, so heavy is the grain. The heads are well filled and the grain is hard and plump. Many estimate the yield at from 50 to 60 bushels to the acre. There are 138 acres of this wheat, of the Red Russian variety, sown on summer fallow.

Forty Years Among Cannibals.

The French adventurer who was a captive among cannibals in Central Africa for 40 years, has decided to write a book, which will no doubt prove interesting. We can sympathize with his release from his horrible captivity, which must have been as joyous as that of a man who finds himself suddenly released from the captivity of a refractory stomach, by that peerless remedy, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has done more to promote health than any other in existence. This is the medicine to take, if you are a sufferer from dyspepsia, constipation, indigestion, biliousness, nervousness or insomnia. Don't fail to give it a trial. Ask for Hostetters and do not accept a substitute. The genuine has Private Revenue Stamp over the neck of bottle.

BELTING AND PACKING.

STOVES AND RANGES.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 10, 1900.

—Lot of sacks at T. Driscoll's.

—Miss Mattie Walby left yesterday for Spokane.

—Miss Bomberg left Sunday morning for Spokane.

—Operator Wheeler transacted business in Pullman last Monday.

—H. E. Pape is in our midst contracting for hay for shipment.

—Mrs. Palmerton is down from Pullman the guest of Mrs. Dickson.

—D. Spurbeck lost a valuable horse and Geo. Flinn a fine cow this week.

—M. A. Means was over to Asotin this week looking after his farming interests.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wes Dorchester rode out on horseback from Forest Wednesday.

—A carload of fat hogs went out of here yesterday for Spokane, Nagel & Bomberg shippers.

—Miss Carrie Whitted is assisting Artist Hanson in catching shadows of our handsome people.

—Wherever you see three or four boys, young or old, it is safe to bet there is a watermelon close by.

—Geo. Steltz has a force of men at work on the new school building and another on Vollmer's warehouse.

—D. B. Grant leaves today for Ashland, Ore., to look after his 200 acres of land in the Willamette valley.

—A little fire in the office stoves during the forenoons of this week made things more congenial. Perfect weather for the harvesters.

—L. G. Pattullo, representing Balfour, Guthrie & Co., Tacoma, was here Wednesday. He thinks Genesee valley hard to beat for wheat raising.

—Mrs. Wright, formerly of Livingston, Mont., but now of Spokane, arrived here Wednesday and is the guest of the Rev. Fowler people. Her husband is a journalist.

—The ladies of the M. E. church will give a dime social next Wednesday in the lecture room of the church. Lunch will be served from 5 o'clock on. Cheap way to get your supper.

—The Nordby 300-acre field of fall wheat averaged 40 bushels to the acre. This was the best looking large field of wheat in this community, though there are small fields in the neighborhood nearly as good.

—The harvesters and header-beds have some pretty hilly fields to go over and it is strange so few accidents occur. A header-bed tipper over the other day with Alonzo Hanson and held him fast to the ground. He was hurt some but seems to be all right again.

—Prof. French of the university experiment farm is on the road to Iowa to purchase a carload of pure short horn cattle. The cattle will be placed on the university farm and on neighboring places, and make an important step toward grading up cattle breeds in this section.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Mounce, Mrs. Geo. Ruddle and Rev. J. A. Pine of the Christian church, came up from Lewiston Tuesday for a visit with the Mr. and Mrs. Goodnight people. Mr. Mounce is a brother of Mrs. Goodnight. Mrs. Ruddle will remain several days.

—Dr. P. S. Beck leaves Sunday for Salt Lake to attend the meeting of the Woodmen of the World, he being the representative from North Idaho. He expects to be absent about two weeks. Members wishing to pay their dues will find the books at Vollmer's store during the doctor's absence.

—Con Monahan writes on the ocean that he is headed for the hot place in China. He also writes the glorious news that he had just dropped on a scheme where it is not necessary to work longer to enjoy life, see the world and get plenty to eat. We always liked Con and we hope he will give us the consolidation. It is far better than soldiering.

—There was a marriage in Genesee Wednesday morning, June 9, which enlivened the town somewhat. Three carriages drove in from the Rimrock district, and after the six occupants, three young ladies and three gentlemen, alighted and visited the stores, marched to the Congregational parsonage where Rev. W. C. Fowler united in marriage Mr. John Goldsmith and Miss Daisy Shaffer. The people reside in Nez Perce county not far from Uniontown. Nice appearing people and the NEWS extends congratulations. May the example set by this this couple be followed by those who acted as sponsors. Mr. Goldsmith, aged 20, presented the following letter when securing the license from his parents: "The bearer, John Goldsmith, says he wants to get married, so we might as well say yes, for we must remember the past ourselves. Let him have a license, if he stands the cigars."

—Mrs. Rob't Near returned to her Nezperce home.

—Driscoll & Thompson's big field of wheat averaged 30 bushels per acre.

—Farmers, protect yourselves from loss by using wheat hauling books.

—Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Sampson came up from the Clearwater valley for a short stay with her people.

—Tom Jacobs' 200-acre field yielded 40 bushels of wheat to the acre. Jno. Keane got 35, S. P. Sorenson 36, Ben Jackson 36, August Beckman 30. All fine milling wheat.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Vollmer and all the children came up from Lewiston and spent Sunday at their beautiful ranch west of town formerly owned by Mr. Barringer.

—The NEWS job department turned out a stack of printing for De Bow & Raymond this week, fruit shippers. The apple label is in three colors and more like fruit than the fruit itself.

—The large pipes brought down the line a few days ago are to be used by the company in place of the small bridges. A length of pipe is long enough to reach across the road-bed.

—The Ladies Aid Society of the Congregational church will meet with Mrs. J. L. Conant, Jr., Wednesday 2 p. m. All members and ladies interested in church work invited to be present.

—D. R. Davis is busy hauling sand and 12,000 brick for his new fruit dryer and evaporator which is to be of four-ton capacity. Mr. Davis expects to be able to dry fruit for some of his neighbors.

—Sanford Evans is getting along fine with his harvest of 500 acres. The wheat is rolling out at the rate of 35 bushels to the acre and is just what he wants for his mill. The Rim Rock is our best wheat country this year.

—Henry Stracker was well rewarded for toiling the past year. His 300 acres yielded him 42 bushel to the acre of fine wheat. Not a drop of rain has fallen on the grain, the berry is large and hard, just what the millers need in their business.

—Rev. G. S. A. Eyrich, of St. Paul, Minnesota, arrived in Genesee last week to take charge of the German Lutheran congregations at this place and at Uniontown. He will reside in Genesee. Rev. Eyrich likes what he has seen of the west. The Lutherans are to be congratulated upon the fine appearance of their new minister and we trust they will use him right.

—There were many disappointed people around town Tuesday morning when it was learned that the city council had failed to act on the water works proposition. It was hoped the election would be called at once and the voters given another opportunity to express themselves. About all the business people have signed the petition asking the council to call a special election for voting bonds and they should be given that opportunity. The reason given for the postponement of action is on account of one of the aldermen being absent. The next regular meeting does not occur until the first Monday in September.

—Mr. Thompson fitted out Ben Mochel with a hay baler this week.

—Mrs. Messenger Owen and children are at Medical Lake taking life easy.

—Dr. Follett pulled himself away from Genesee Monday for his home at Dayton.

—The warm wind one day last week injured the peach crop in the valleys considerable.

—If you want a cider mill, machinery or lumber, see L. F. Darr's ad. He deserves a portion of you trade.

—Mrs. Geo. Ingraham and Mrs. Chas. Power took Saturday's passenger for Spokane, the latter for a week's visit.

—You can register tomorrow at the NEWS office if you live in East Genesee precinct. If you don't register you can't vote.

—Mrs. Crosbie came out from Montana to join her husband and for the present will reside in the rooms lately vacated by Mr. Brewer.

—Miss Emma Nebelsieck spent Sunday in Genesee with her people. She seems well pleased with her position at the court house.

—The rain of Wednesday afternoon laid the dust nicely and brought quite a number of harvesters to town yesterday. No damage done but did considerable good.

—The brick burned in Genesee last week are pronounced excellent. 50,000 more Genesee brick could have been sold here this spring had they been on the market. Another kiln will be burned as soon as the force can prepare it.

—Marshal Driscoll interferred with an Indian Wednesday who was about to have some fun with two bottles of whisky. The Indian went home a disappointed man, but what did Mike do with the whisky?

—The people of Weiser are pulling for water works. The taxpayers are getting up a mammoth petition to the city council to hold a special election as soon as possible, to bond the city for $50,000 for light and water.

—Reports from the corn-wheat growers, the new grain introduced here this season, are encouraging as far as we have heard. With proper attention the farmers experimenting believe it will yield all the way from 40 to 75 bushels per acre.

—The Rebekahs had a time Tuesday night. Mrs. White, president of the order in Idaho, was present from Kendrick and gave the members a talk. Her husband was also present. Misses Pearl Follett and Ida Reese rode the goat for the amusement of the people. A fine supper followed the evening's program.

—D. B. Grant returned to Genesee Sunday from his trip to Ohio where he visited a sister who is quite ill. Times generally are quite good and late rains have improved the corn, oat, and potato crops along the route he passed over through Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, but in Dakota and Montana crops were shortened by the drouth. Mr. Grant saw Don Johnson who told him the west would see him again in a short time.

Royal BAKING POWDER

-Absolutely Pure-

For the third of a century the standard for strength and purity. It makes the hot bread, hot biscuit, cake and other pastry light, sweet and excellent in every quality.

No other baking powder is "just as good as Royal," either in strength, purity or wholesomeness.

Many low priced, imitation baking powders are upon the market. These are made with alum and care should be taken to avoid them, as alum is a poison, never to be taken in the food

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

Obituary.

Timothy Keane was born in Limerick, Ireland, in 1812. In 1846 he was married to Johanna O'Donnell of the same place. He came to America in 1850 and settled in New York where he remained until 1857 when he moved to Wisconsin. There he engaged in farming for thirty-five years after which he came to Genesee, Idaho, in 1892 and remained until his death which occurred August 2nd, 1900. He leaves a wife and five sons and one daughter to mourn his loss.

The funeral took place from the Catholic church Friday forenoon at 10:30 o'clock and was largely attended by friends. The remains were buried in the cemetery west of town.

CARD OF THANKS.

We hereby return our sincere thanks to the many friends who so kindly assisted us at the death and burial of our beloved husband and father.

MRS. TIMOTHY KEANE AND FAMILY.

—W. M. Welch left Tuesday morning on a trip to Portland.

—Evans & Fowler are anxious to handle your grain. See ad.

—J. F. Edwards and junior Edwards were up from Magnolia the past week.

—V. Sires, a former Dakotan but now of North Yakima, Wash., arrived here this week to help gather our grain.

—The NEWS will be pleased to have farmers report their grain yields, that a fair and reliable estimate of the country's crop may be obtained.

—Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lockridge, of Oklahoma and Iowa, arrived in Genesee the past week to remain permanently if they like the country. Mr. Lockridge is a brother of Mrs. Fred Follett.

—Hank Stracker has a great machine and rolls out the wheat at the rate of four sacks a minute. James Hanson says the thresher keeps all hands, including the sack-sewer, on the jump.

—The possibility of the ostrich being used for a kind of two legged saddle horse, as the natives of Abyssinia are said to have employed it, was demonstrated at Pasadena, Cal., recently. A man not only mounted a full-sized male ostrich and rode 100 yards on its back, but also had a photographer take a picture of him on his feathered steed.

—Dr. Frank Leitch, who has been prospecting the hills on Middle Fork with Martin Williams the past six weeks, returned to his Charleston, Ill., home Tuesday morning in response to a message stating that one of his children was very sick. The doctor had just got nicely interested in Idaho mineralized soil when he received word to hasten home.

—Messrs. Peter Jackson, Rud Miller and Mr. Uhre came out from the Ruby Creek mining district last week with as fine looking ore as you care to look at taken from claims owned by them—the Reindeer, Blue Bird, Gray Eagle and Lucky Boy. Ten or twelve thousand dollars have been expended on these claims and as soon as the railroad is constructed to that rich section mining will take a great boom. A 460-foot tunnel has been put in the Reindeer, a 60-foot shaft and a 275-foot tunnel in the Blue Bird, 300-foot tunnel in the Gray Eagle, and a shaft and tunnel in the Lucky Boy. Much of the ore assays big, carrying gold, silver, copper and pyrites of iron. The gentlemen have worked hard and faithfully for several years and we are pleased to know they have the claims developed enough to assure them of a good fortune when Ruby Creek is brought to the attention of the mining world, which will not be long now.

—Rev. Sloan, who came west in 1858 and materially assisted in Christianizing the Indians, recently died in Pennsylvania.

—Rattlesnake stories are all the go now. One day last week 74 were seen in one den on the Thomas Butler mining property 1½ miles from town, and Tom has to keep a hair rope around the mouth of his tunnel in order to keep them out of his way while at work.—Orofino Courier.

—Canada boasts of one of the most wonderful farms in the world. Its peculiarity lies in the fact that everything is worked by electricity. Two waterfalls within the bounds of the farm, some 60 feet and 180 feet high, furnish the motive power, a central power house being erected near, and the current is transmitted by wire to every available place on the farm.

—The census office has already counted nine million people or about 12½ per cent of the population of the country, and within a short time now will have been counted to admit of some pretty accurate guessing as to total population. Census officers say that the center of population of the United States is probably at Bloomington, Ill Six miles a year is about the gait the center travels westward. It has moved westward in the last 100 years in a northwestern symmetrical manner, varying less than 25 miles north and south. In 1890 the center was in Decatur county, Indiana.

—Plats of right of way according to the recent survey east from Kamiah to the mouth of Locksaw river will be filed in a few days says the Lewiston Tribune, with an indemnifying bond of $15,000 against damages to the forest reserve by reason of the construction of the road. The Tribune says this development is most important as showing that the O. R. & N. has been steadily pursuing its plans as outlined during the activities of the Clearwater fight last year. It was then stated in New York railroad circles that the most probable ally of the O R. & N. was the Burlington road which now has its western terminus at Billings, Montana. It was argued that the Oregon road, to meet the prospective move of the N. P. in building the Butte-Lewiston cut-off, must of necessity have an outlet beyond the Clearwater country, thus affording transcontinental facilities. It can be recalled that even at the time of this announcement the O. R. & N. had a party of surveyors working up the middle fork toward the Nez Perce pass, the entrance to Montana, and the development of last week seems to indicate that the purposes of the company have not been discouraged or slighted by the terms of the truce that have prevented actual construction work.

—The people are talking more railroads for this part of Idaho. Genesee may get the O. R. & N. yet. All sorts of rumors are flying since the announcement of last week that the truce between the Northern Pacific and the O. R. & N. expires August 15 and the fact that right-of-way agents of both lines have been busy in the Clearwater of late. The announcement of the Northern Pacific declaring off the Wallula exchange on freight destined for Albina lends encouragement that the roads mean to do a little fighting for business in this community. Last year the N. P. turned over to the O. R. & N. at Wallula Junction 28,000 tons of grain for Portland and Albina, but this year the grain will go to Tacoma where great warehouses have just been completed. And as much of this grain is produced in the Genesee and Clearwater valleys it is only natural to believe that the O. R. & N. will extend its lines immediately and get its share of business. This stand of the N. P.'s hurts Portland, and as the O. R. & N. backers are principally Portland capitalists, the N. P. will not be allowed to hold this territory without a severe struggle. It is the belief of Portland people as well as our people that to protect itself the O. R. & N. will extend its lines up the Clearwater and build numerous feeders in eastern Washington and Idaho. We may have more definate news next week when the truce expires.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

A woman has a right to be positive on matters which are matters of personal knowledge and experience. Every woman who has used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for diseases of the womanly organs is positive as to its wonderful curative value, and confidently recommends it to similar sufferers.

Women who suffer from inflammation, ulceration, female weakness, or nervous diseases caused by disease of the womanly organs will find a complete cure by the use of "Favorite Prescription."

"Several years ago I suffered severely from female weakness, prolapsus, and menorrhagia, and used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with splendid effect," writes Fannie Shelton, of Washington, Iowa. "Glad I have not needed it for a few years past, but if I should have any return of the old trouble would surely try 'Favorite Prescription.' I have recommended it to a number of my lady friends. I always tell them to try a bottle, and if they are not benefited by it I will pay for the medicine. In every case they have spoken in praise of it."

FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG AND SICK WOMEN WELL.

—It is said the Northern Pacific is preparing to realize full value out of a natural advantage which the Chinese situation gives that line over the Great Northern. The Japanese government has confiscated two or three of the ships of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha Steamship company, or in English, the Japanese merchants' marine, which operates in connection with the Great Northern. Northern Pacific officials think that the Chinese trouble will cause a large amount of freight to move back and forth. The ships of the Northern Pacific being owned by American and English financial interests are not amenable to Japanese laws and will remain in the trade.

Prevented a Tradgedy.

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, O., saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of its power to cure all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1. Guaranteed. Trial bottle free at Kennedy's drug store.

Millions will be spent in politics this year. We can't keep the campaign going without money any more than we can keep the body vigorous without food. Dyspeptics used to starve themselves. Now Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and allows you to eat all the good food you want. It radically cures stomach troubles.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

That Throbbing Headache.

Would quickly leave you, if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for sick and nervous headaches. They make pure blood and build up your health. Only 25c. Money back if not cured. Sold by Mr. Kennedy, druggist.

It will surprise you to experience the benefit obtained by using the dainty and famous little pills known as DeWitt's Little Early Risers.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

You assume no risk when you buy Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. All druggists will refund your money if you are not satisfied after using it. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful remedy in use for bowel complaints and the only one that never fails. It is pleasant, safe and reliable.

THE Boise Clipper is the latest journalistic venture in Idaho. It is from Boise and is a clipper. Though it claims to be owned by no party or faction, it talks republicanism quite stronly. It is newsy and we wish it success, hoping it will receive its full share of the contents of that campaign bag.

VERY generous offer! A big printing house offers to give the NEWS a printed sheet every week during the campaign free of any charge whatever if it will agree to circulate with this paper. The sheets will have "the very best republican matter and be illustrated by timely cartoons," etc., etc. Thanks, gentlemen, but we must decline your generous (?) offer. This 6x9 sheet can hatch up enough good republican doctrine to make the hardest democrat weary if it sees fit. Our fort is news and we will let the city journals take care of national questions and issues.

ABOUT 90 per cent of the negroes have been disfranchised in North Carolina. An amendment to the constitution was voted on whereby negroes who cannot read or write are barred from the polls. The change in the law affects only the unlettered colored folk; a white man may be as ignorant of the alphabet as a South Sea Islander, and yet have the right to cast his vote. The browns and blacks of the Philippines are as ignorant as our negroes, and yet the party distranchising the North Carolinas say the Filipinos should be allowed to govern the islands. Consistency.

THE Teller comes near the mark when it says Idaho is in need of a practical state wagon road that will connect our pan-handle to the pan, and wants to make this a campaign issue. The proposed road by Rapid river and Little Salmon meadows has been built by settlers until it now has only a break of 35 miles to unite the extremes of the state by a practical wagon road. It is indeed a sad commendatory upon the progressive economy of the commonwealth that this barrier should be left to interrupt trade indefinitely. With a north and south road much more business would be transacted between the north and south Idaho people which would result in much good to the state.

IN his letter of acceptance Mr. Bryan tries to strengthen himself with the eastern democrats by dropping the silver issue and make prominent the expansion and trust questions. But the American people will not put entire confidence in his utterances any more, after making this prediction in 1896: "The gold standard is dearer money, dearer money means cheaper property, cheaper property means harder times, harder times means more people out of work, more people out of work means more people destitute, more people destitute means more people desperate, more people desperate means more crime." Did Bryan's awful prophecy come true? No. The times have improved from coast to coast and Mr. Bryan admits it when he turns from the money question to other issues.

—You can see the big Ringling circus at Spokane on the 27th and 28th of August if you have the price. The Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets on the above dates good to return on the 29th for $4.55.

—Mules are in demand now. The government is finding great difficulty in securing good cavalry horses for service in the Orient. Agents are canvassing the coast states for desirable mounts. Agents for the German empire who are buying up horses for the German cavalry are also in the field and find the supply is limited. Good mules will be taken.

—Much fault is found with the Arcadian variety of wheat around Colfax. The yield is not nearly so good as other varieties of wheat and the grain shatters so badly that it is unprofitable. One farmer says of it: "I have tried it by the side of Genesee Giant, Canadian Hybred and Jones Fife, either of which is a far better wheat for this country. The Arcadia will not do for a wheat to head, for it shatters so badly before it is ripe enough to bind that there is a serious loss. Little Club and Red Chaff are the best on light soil and Red Russian is the best for the heavier soil."

—The Seven Devils country is remarkable for copper and scenery. Mayor Richards of Boise returned from there last week and says the Peacock mine has 10,000 tons of shipping ore, that it was being hauled as fast as teams could take it to the railroad; the Blue Jacket mine is working 45 men and the Decorah 30. Work is now in progress on a tunnel to tap a ledge 2200 feet below the apex and if it holds to expectations nothing can prevent the Seven Devils becoming one of the greatest producers in the world." Regarding the scenery he says: "Looking down from the highest point, fully 5000 feet, I saw the Snake river, winding it tortuous course between the mountains. Looking back, I saw the mountains, in never-ending billows, receding from the peak on which I stood. It was grand. I was never before more impressed with the majesty of our mountains. It appeared as though if a man were to fall from the point where I stood he would land in Snake river, scarcely touching the mountain side. I involuntarily shrank back mountainward. The Kleinschmidt grade winds down the side of the mountain to the river. It is 19 miles long, and was built to get down a distance of a mile. That will give some idea of the sharp angle of the mountain side."

—F. E. Justice and A. Lockwood, of Lewiston, were callers at the NEWS office this week. The former is a Minnesota printer and is giving Idaho a whirl.

—Hamlin Garland, author of stories of western life, is in Spokane. He is after material for new stories, and is in search of Chief Joseph, who has taken many scalps of white people.

—Miss Addie Scully was in town last Monday from Genesee. She reports farm help so scarce in that locality that her father offers double wages to any man who will help him in haying.—Vinelander.

—Wallace is just now boasting of a building boom. Brick structures under way cover a floor space of 80,400 square feet, or two acres. The largest one is a warehouse, 52x142 feet, fireproof throughout A new brewery is in course of erection.

—Many hard stories come down from Nome. Starvation and shooting on all sides. Gen. Randall, department commander, estimates 1000 men will need aid at the close of navigation. He desires to be authorized to send all destitute persons out of the country before winter sets in.

—News comes from Paris that Idaho scooped in several fruit prizes. The fruit was grown last year and kept over in remarkable good condition. Idaho fruit was voted the best at the World's Fair at Chicago and at the Mid-Winter fair at San Francisco. Idaho can raise excellent fruit.

—Marshal Driscoll has been confiscating more Indian whisky and has now enough to make a campaign tour of the county. The marshal is on his beat now until about three o'clock in the morning and on some nights has considerable fun. He is keeping the boys under control in pretty good style.

—Two or three harvest hands lit out for other parts the first of the week because they could not get $3 or $4 per day. They would not accept less and the farmers cannot afford to pay the price demanded. One farmer said he was going to vote for Bryan and if elected he would be able to get men much cheaper.

—George Watts came over from Genesee last Sunday and visited a few hours with his many Asotin friends. Mr. Watts was mum on the matter of not returning to Asotin on July 4th to celebrate......Mark A. Means from Genesee, who, nearly twenty years years ago, drove stage between Lewiston and Asotin, paid this city a visit Monday. It had been eight or ten years since Mr. Means last visited this place, and he was much surprised at the way Asotin had improved during that time....J. W. Kennedy visited Genesee Monday in the interest of a horse deal. He expects to return to the Genesee country again in a few days with another lot of horses.—Sentinel.

—Farmer Dick Bittenger was acquitted at Lewiston of the charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

—One night last week at Oakesdale six men of a threshing crew, sleeping outdoors, were "held up" and robbed by four men, who masked their faces with red handkerchiefs. They got $60 and a watch. They then forced their victims into a freight car, and made good their escape.

—Watermelons have fallen. They are selling for 15 or 20 cents where a week ago they sold for double that. The increase in the number which are coming into the market is the cause of the decrease. Pumpkins, sweet corn, cucumbers, pears, apples and grapes are plentiful and cheap.

—President Hill of the Great Northern railway says Seattle will be a great city, greatest in the west, and will start booming the latter part of 1901, after he gets his great ships to carrying grain on the Pacific ocean. Thinks the trade with China, Japan and the Philippines will make the coast states very prosperous.

—Taken as a whole the apple crop of the United States and Canada promises better this year than for any recent year, says G. C. Richardson of Leavenworth, Kan., one of the largest apple-growers and shippers in the world. The outlook in the apple-raising portions of Illinois, Missouri, and Kansas is for a good half crop, in Arkansas, Nebraska and Iowa 40 per cent of a full crop, Colorado and Montana an average crop, in the coast states a full crop, full crop in Michigan but dropping badly, western New York and New England average crop. Mr. Richardson believes the apple business is yet in its infancy, and that there is no danger of over-production, as the increasing population and growing foreign demand will more than keep pace with the supply. Says if a man lets his orchard grow up in weeds and the ground become hard and baked, so the undergrowth will consume the moisture which the trees should have, he will be disappointed in his crop. Spraying is equally as essential to prevent culls and poor fruit. Many orchards are being planted in the west, but comparatively few in the east. The most popular varieties of apples are still the Ben Davis, Jonathan and Missouri pippin. These are all showy winter apples and find a ready market abroad.

"Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach" says O. P. M. Holliday, of Deming, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoouful of water and he got better at once. Sold by all druggists.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy took two doses and was entirely cured' says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called another doctor who treated him for some and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said no. I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. For sale by all druggists.

Chinese are dangerous enemies, for they are treacherous. That's why all counterfeits of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve are dangerous. They look like DeWitt's, but instead of the all-healing witch hazel they all contain ingredients liable to irritate the skin and cause blood poisoning. For piles, injuries and skin diseases use original and genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Story of A Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. Geo. D. Williams of Manchester, Mich., says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, menancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. It is a godsend to weak, sickly, run-down people. Cure guaranteed. Only 50c. Sold by Kennedy, druggist.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. Look out for them. It cures piles and all skin diseases.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

It Helped Win Battles.

Twenty-nine officers and men wrote from the front to say that for scratches, bruises, cuts, wounds, sore feet and stiffjoints, Bucklen's Arnica Salve is the best in the world. Same for burns, skin eruptions and piles. 25c a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by Kennedy, druggist.

The quicker you stop a cough or cold the less danger there will be of fatal lung trouble. One Minute Cough Cure is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. You will like it.

Express Messenger Charles Lane's body was riddled with bullets in his car at Columbus, O. The safe had been blown open and all valuables removed. Lane made a desperate struggle for his life. The robbers secured $45,000.

Mrs. Nettie R. Craven has again suffered defeat in her battle for the millions of the late Senator James G. Fair. In a decision rendered Judge Troutt of San Francisco holds that she is not the widow of the deceased millionaire and is not entitled to any allowance out of the estate.

Mrs. Henrietta Hand, who knew personally eight generations of her family, died at her residence in Brooklyn of water on the brain, resulting from old age. She was born December 31, 1808, in New Haven, Conn., and was the daughter of Rev. Horace Hand. She remembered well her great-grandmother. She had 13 children, nine of whom are alive; 38 grandchildren, 50 great-grandchildren and one great-great grandchild. Her husband died in 1845.

In Victoria, B. C., an important announcement was made in the railway committee of the government policy regarding granting Yukon charters. This was to refuse all applications until settlement of the boundary question, thus conserving trade for the all-Canadian route and desisting from the upbuilding of American towns. The government is in communication with Ottawa regarding the Canadian project with a view to harmonious and combined action.

News brought from Australia by the steamer Aorangi is to the effect that terrible floods have occurred in New South Wales during July, as a result of which some hundreds of people were rendered homeless, while the property loss was enormous. People had to flee for their lives from the floods while the result of years of toil were swept away in a few hours. Hawkesbury and the Napean valley suffered most. Appeals are being made for aid throughout Australia.

The two Union Pacific robbers located at Goodland, Kan., are dead—one shot to pieces and the other burned to death in the house on Bartholomew ranch. After a fight, when the first robber was shot, the citizens armed themselves and went to the ranch. The man inside the house was armed with a Winchester and a too near approach to the house drew his fire. Some men, by crawling through a cornfield, got in a shed near the house and from this place threw two railroad fuses on the top of the house, setting it on fire. It was not many minutes until the entire building was in flames, but the robber made no sign, and if he was not shot by a bullet from the many that were fired from the outside, he found his death in the flames.

President Steyn of the Orange Free State is seriously ill.

There is much lawlessness at Cape Nome. The camp is overrun by thieves and other desperate characters.

Count Lamsdorff, who was recently placed at the head of foreign affairs, has been appointed permanent foreign minister.

A cable dispatch received from Bluefields, Nicaragua, gives details of a fire last night which did $175.000 damage in the heart of the town.

A Bellefontaine car of the St. Louis Transit company was recently blown up at North St. Louis. It is the first case of daylight dynamiting since the strike occurred.

War office telegrams received from eastern Siberia show the Chinese have destroyed the railroad in several places, interrupting the passage of trains. Repairs are proceeding. The Cossacks now guard 2000 vestas of the frontier railroad.

President McKinley has appointed Daniel A. Tompkins of North Carolina a member of the industrial commission, to succeed Ellison A. Smythe, resigned. Mr. Tompkins is largely identified with the cotton interests of the south and is one of the principal owners of the Charlotte Observer.

Veterans of the Philippine war will organize a national society at the reunion at Denver.

The Indian famine relief fund at New York has reached the $200,000 mark, the contributions received amounting to $200,020.

Secretary Root says the latest reports from General MacArthur show the sickness in the Philippines as 8 per cent, which he considers a remarkably good showing.

The Union Metallic Cartridge company of Connecticut is working night and day to fill orders from several governments for ammunition.

Eleven person died one day last week in New York from the excessive heat.

It is persistently rumored in Lorenzo Marquez that President Steyn has committed suicide.

The Catholic Journal announces new massacres and a disaster to the missions in the southeast province of Chihli, China. It says that five priests have been killed.

The wife of Dr. A. C. MacDonald Westwater of Liao Yang, Manchuria, committed suicide at Armia, in consequence of mental depression caused by her exciting experiences at New Chwang just before her departure from China.

The grape growers and wine men are now at war in California. The wine men have called in their buyers and say that they will buy no more grapes, as the growers are holding them too high. They are asking $18 for black grapes and $15 a ton for muscats.

The following dispatch from Lord Roberts has been received at the war office: "As Warren has pacified the western districts of Cape Colony, I am allowing him to return home and am replacing the whole of the troops in the colony under Forestier-Walker."

After a two years' flight, in which they almost circled the globe and outwitted the police in a score of European and American cities, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Weinberg were arrested in their apartments on State street, Chicago. They are charged in Kansas City with embezzlement.

Three steamers from Cape Nome have arrived in Seattle, all bringing gold and a large number of passengers. The Oregon brought $345,000, the largest consignment of Nome gold since the discovery of treasure in that district; the San Pedro brought about $150,000, and the Charles D. Lane $50,000.

Paul Jansen, who was arrested at East Rutherford, N. J., three weeks ago, charged with counterfeiting, hanged himself in his cell in the Hudson county jail, New York. He tore his coat into strips, which he twisted into a rope and fastened to the bars of his cell door. Then, tying the end about his neck, he threw his weight on the cord and was slowly strangled to death.

The allotment of £5,000,000 of the £10,000,000 English war loan to the United States is received in the higher financial world as a good thing for London in the present position of the English banks. The brokers and small investors severely, almost passionately criticize the chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, for privately arranging for half of the so-called public loan and allowing the investment "plum" to go out of the country.

While there has been a noticeable absence of earthquakes in the last fortnight, a volcanic eruption has taken place near where, 10 years ago, the greater part of Mount Bandaison was hurled into the air. Azuma Yama was the scene of an awful explosion last week, a sulphur factory employing about 100 hands being suddenly annihilated by a subterranean explosion. Only 20 of the hands escaped. The fall of debris covered the ground two feet deep at a distance of four miles from the center of the disturbance.

Bryan's Notification.

Indianapolis, Aug. 9.—William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska and Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois were notified of their nomination for the offices of president and vice president of the republic in Military park shortly after 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Thousands of people witnessed the ceremonies. Senator James K. Jones, chairman of the democratic national committee, was introduced by Mayor Taggart as presiding officer. Senator Jones in a brief speech introduced Congressman James D. Richardson of Tennessee.

Congressman Richardson was received with wild cheers as he mounted the stand to officially notify Mr. Bryan of the fact that he had been selected as presidential nominee of the democratic convention at Kansas City.

When Mr. Bryan arose to reply a demonstration occurred which perhaps has never been equaled in this city. When order was finally restored Mr. Bryan began his address, which was of considerable length. Cheer upon cheer greeted him at every telling period.

Prominent Civil Engineer Dead.

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 14.—Charles B. Talbot, a prominent civilian and mechanical engineer of the coast, and who secured to Portland, Ore., her unsurpassed water supply, died here of congestion of the brain. The body will be taken to Portland for interment in Talbot Heights cemetery.

Suffocated by Steam.

New York, Aug. 15.—Three employes of the New York Steam Heating company were killed this morning by the explosion of a 15-inch pipe elbow. They are: Frank Sherrick of Jersey City, George Jenkins and Edward Brown, colored, of this city.

Major F. A. Whitney Dead.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Adjutant General Corbin has received a cable message from General MacArthur saying Major F. A. Whitney of the Sixth infantry died at Manila on the 11th inst. of heart disease.

TROOPS ADVANCING FAST

ARE HALF WAY TO PEKIN.

Uncle Sam's Reply to Li Hung Chang—First Relieve Ministers—Russians Said to Have Made a Mistake—Wild Rumors Afloat.

Washington, Aug. 14.—A dispatch has been received at the war department from General Chaffee, dated August 10, which is as follows:

"Arrived at Hos Pi Wu yesterday."

This place, which is spelled Ho Wo on the war department maps, is about half way between Tientsin and Pekin.

Reply to Li Hung Chang.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The department of state has made public the reply of the United States government to Minister Wu's communication delivered on Sunday morning notifying the department of the appointment of Earl Li Hung Chang envoy plenipotentiary to negotiate with the powers. This reply was sent to Minister Wu at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon and is as follows:

Memorandum: Touching the imperial edict of August 8, appointing Li Hung Chang envoy plenipotentiary to conduct negotiations on the part of China with the powers and a request for a cessation of hostilities pending negotiations, communicated to Mr. Adee by Minister Wu on the 12th of August, 1900.

The government of the United States learned with satisfaction of the appointment of Earl Li Hung Chang as envoy plenipotentiary to conduct negotiations with the powers and will, on its part, enter upon such negotiations with a desire to continue the friendly relations so long existing between the two countries.

It is evident that there can be no general negotiations between China and the powers so long as the ministers of the powers and the persons under their protection remain in their present position of restraint and danger, and that the powers can not cease their efforts for the delivery of those representatives to which they are constrained by the highest consideration of national honor, except under an arrangement adequate to accomplish a peaceful deliverance. We are ready to enter into an agreement between the powers and the Chinese government for a cessation of hostile demonstrations on condition that a sufficient body of the forces composing the relief expedition shall be permitted to enter Pekin unmolested and to escort the foreign ministers and residents back to Tientsin, this government being provided and secured by such arms and disposition of troops as shall be considered safe by the generals commanding the forces composing the relief expedition.

ALVAY A. ADEE, Acting Secretary.
Department of State, Washington, August 12, 1900.

The text of this reply to the overtures communicated by Minister Wu was telegraphed to the representatives of the United States for communication to the governments of the powers co-operating in the relief movement.

That the United States has taken this course had already become pretty well understood by the announcement of the message disclosing the firm policy which the United States has adopted. The importance of the action taken by this government lies to a considerable extent in the wording of the message. China had made overtures for peace and had thus opened the way for a possible compromise or for further diplomatic temporizing. The United States, in its response, lays down certain specific preliminaries to any peace overture, including an entirely new demand, namely, that a sufficiently large force from the allied column shall be allowed to enter Pekin unopposed to conduct the members of the legations and their followers from the Chinese capital to Tientsin.

Chinese Minister Threatened.

New York, Aug. 14.—A special dispatch from Paris to the Evening Telegram today says:

An artful attempt at poisoning by the use of perfume, which recalls memories from Lucrezia Borgia, is exciting all the gossips of Paris. Thursday the Chinese minister, Yu Keng, received a letter. It was signed "Julie Czerwinska" and contained some dried flowers which the writer asked him to accept.

Storms on Lake Michigan.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Exciting experiences during a storm on Lake Michigan Sunday night reported by passengers, who, having started to cross from South Haven, Mich., were either compelled to return to the Michigan side or to fight the waves and wind throughout the night.

One Is Killed, Another Wounded.

Albuquerque, N. M., Aug. 15.—A pitched battle occurred near Graham, N. M., between a posse under Deputy Sheriff W. K. Foster and two bandits who robbed a store in Graham in broad daylight. One of the robbers was killed. The other was wounded, but escaped.

Grain Elevator Burned.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 15.—The Dakota elevator was burned, entailing a loss of $500,000. The fire started in the machinery loft, and within 15 minutes the cupola was a mass of flames, working its way downward through the machinery room to the bins.

Suicide at Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 14.—Harry M. Randall, third officer of the Valencia, shot himself on board that vessel, and died almost instantly. No cause is known. He had been with the Valencia for 17 months and was well liked.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, will deliver the Labor Day address at Cleveland, Ohio.

TRADE REPORTS.

New York, Aug. 11.—Bradstreet's report on last week's business is as follows:

Trade was still exhibiting many of the irregularities incident to the transition period between midsummer and early fall trade. Despite the hot wave, with its effect on the growing distributive demand, and also because of the reports of damage to the corn crop which it has incited, a more cheerful feeling is perceptible in general trade, and the booking of fall orders for dry goods, clothing and hardware at leading western centers and heavy engagements in iron and steel products at lower prices are of encouraging proportions. Prices are not showing the precipitate declines noted some time ago, and among the really encouraging features is the advance in wheat, mainly based on improved export inquiry.

Wool was rather firmer than of late, because of the better inquiry, though it must be admitted that this steadiness is somewhat at the expense of new business.

Cotton goods partake of the strength of raw material, and where weakness is still perceptible in brown cottons, print cloths and wide sheetings, the natural corrective of reduced production is being increasingly sought. It has been a remarkable year in cotton and cotton goods, and although the goods market is comparatively weaker than the raw material, a great deal hinges on the next month's business in dry goods circles. It is regarded as certain that with a 11,000,000-bale crop values will be maintained at prices lower, it is true, than the present quotations for raw material, but still high when compared with last or previous years range. The spring "light weight" season has opened with prices 2½c to 4c higher than a year ago, and much depends on buyers in guiding manufacturers to purchases of raw material. While the dry goods demand as a whole is still classed as backward for the season, the hot weather is credited with some of the responsibility, and the trade attitude as a rule is one of hopeful expectancy.

An immense business in steel products is reported booked at Pittsburg and Chicago, and steel bars are really firmer, with an advance of $4 per ton, announced by western manufacturers who have sold their product up to the close of the year. Pig iron is still rather neglected, but inquiry for this material is really better at the south, largely on large export.

Current production is claimed to be the lightest for months for more than a year past, and further announcements of shut-downs are scheduled as far ahead as September 1. A significant feature of the trade is the strength of structural material. A large quantity of material is reported required for railroads, but steel rails are nominally unchanged at $35 per ton. The other metals are dull and tin is weak here and abroad at a recession from last week's quotations.

Fifteen Persons Killed.

Slatington, Pa., Aug. 13.—Fifteen persons were instantly killed and 11 others seriously hurt Sunday night on a grade crossing three miles east of this city, a passenger train on the Lehigh & New England railway crashing into an omnibus containing 25 persons. All the dead and injured were in the omnibus. But three of the occupants escaped injury. The dead are: Eli Remaley, aged 70; Mrs. Eli Remaley, his wife; Mrs. James Kern, their daughter, aged 32; Samuel Mummy, aged 60; Mrs. Samuel Mummy, his wife; Mrs. Elias Sourwine, a widow, aged 53; Mrs. William Kane, aged 31; Mrs. Carrie Smith, aged 22; Mrs. Tilguman Kuntz, aged 35; Mrs. James Minnich, aged 33; Mrs. Stephen Rheinhard, aged 61; Mrs. Susan Cohen, aged 67; Mrs. Alfred Rhorig; Mrs. Robert Siebeft; David Kern, aged 5, son of Mrs. James Kern; and several were injured.

Massacre of Armenians.

Constantinople, Aug. 10.—Advices received from Bitlis, Asiatic Turkey, say that 200 men, women and children had been massacred in the Armenian village of Spaghank, in the district of Sassun, by troops and Kurds under Ali Pasha, the commandant of Bitlis. He is also said to have ordered the village to be burned.

Two Trains Telescoped.

Rome, Aug. 15.—The railroad accident which occurred about midnight 12 miles from this city turns out to have been more serious than anticipated. It now appears that 12 persons were killed and 40 wounded, of whom 15 are seriously injured.

The disaster was caused by the telescoping of two sections of the trains on the railroad from Rome to Florence bearing notable persons who had been attending the recent ceremonies there.

Drowned at Zillah.

North Yakima, Wash., Aug. 12.—Word comes from Zillah of the drowning of George Grant, a son of Adolphus Grant of Toppenish. The boy was 10 years old.

Prices Paid in Spokane.

MINES AND MINING NEWS

OUR NORTHWESTERN MINES.

Items Gleaned From Late Reports—All Districts Are Being Developed—A Prosperous Year Is Predicted—Mining Notes and Personals.

The entire surface plant of the Parrot Mining Company at the mine in Butte, one of the Amalgamated properties, was destroyed by fire. Loss estimated at $100,000; insurance, $30,000. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have started in the carpenter shop by a spark from a passing engine. There were 164 men at work in the mine at the time, but all escaped through workings of adjoining mines. The mine is 1600 feet deep and employs about 200 miners on a shift. These miners were rescued through the levels of an adjoining mine.

REPUBLIC.

The double-compartment shaft on the Butte & Boston is down 250 feet.

All the machinery of the Tom Thumb compressor plant is in place and in complete running order.

The winze on the Princess Maud has been sunk 110 feet under the new management. The mine is looking well.

The crosscut on the Chico, 40 feet south of the shaft, is making good progress. The ore is improving in value.

Work on the Knob Hill is going forward with considerable rapidity. The ore is of fine grade and the mine is being put in shape to produce ore in considerable quantity.

The Tom Thumb shaft is being prepared for the installation of a cage, which will be in operation in a few days. The Tom Thumb is the first mine in the district to operate a cage.

The water that drove the fan for the Golden Harvest became too low and last week Superintendent Frank Gauthier built about 700 feet of flume to tap the creek at a point where the flow is ample.

The Morning Glory is looking exceedingly well. The machinery is doing excellent work. The winze is to be sunk as rapidly as possible. Some excellent ore has been taken out of the mine recently.

Quartz of magnificent quality is filling the raise from the tunnel level in the Quilp. The ore is literally bespangled with blotches of mineral that carries a high percentage of silver and a considerable quantity of gold.

It is the intention of the manager of the Gold Ledge to run a tunnel that will cut the ledge at the depth of about 400 feet. The mine is to be equipped with a good plant and work rushed in the future to the fullest extent.

The Flag Hill is employing five men. Only day shifts are working. The shaft is being sunk and one shift is crosscutting from the tunnel for the east ledge. The property is one of the promising prospects of the camp and has produced some high-grade ore.

The Mountain Lion mill is dropping its stamps with its accustomed regularity, and the results are reported to be as satisfactory as in the past. The mine is holding its own in all particulars. Two machine drills are working in the south drift on the 425-foot level.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The North Star at Rossland is to be operated from the Iron Colt workings.

The Planet Mining Company has just started mining on Campbell creek, opposite Kaslo.

It is reported that operations on the Galena Farm, in the Slocan, are to be largely increased.

J. C. Drewry, managing director of the Canadian Gold Fields Syndicate, has returned to Kaslo from Whitewater and states that a rich strike has been made in the Whitewater mine. It consists of three feet two inches of clean galena. It was discovered in the lower tunnel.

Prospects of a great change in the mining situation at Kamloops are apparent. Representatives of two large companies are looking over the mineral claims with a view of forming an estimate of the steady output of ore that could be guaranteed, with the object of building a smelter.

The Smuggler mine, which is being operated under the charge of Dickenson and Felt, is situated on the divide at the head of Ten Mile, Kokanee and Kaslo creeks, and is at present giving employment to 40 men. A large amount of underground work is being accomplished, all the tunnels now being driven ahead and a winze being sunk in No. 2 tunnel.

The Lillooet district will be heard from in a mining way before many months are past. One hundred dollar rock, such as is being crushed by the arastras on Bridge river, is bound to bring capital to the country, despite unfavorable reports about the district owing to the unfortunate Golden Cashe fiasco. The mill at the Anderson Lake mines will soon be started and running regularly. At the Ample mines the mill is reported as having been successfully started.

MINING NOTES.

The new steam hoist and other machinery for the Drummers group, in Curlew camp, Wash., has arrived.

The road from Northport, Wash., to the Velvet mine, on Sophia mountain, will be completed about September 15.

The Essex, on Beaver creek, near Delta, Idaho, has made a good showing of galena in several places in its 700 feet of tunnels.

The Christina mine, which is owned by the Kettle River Mining Company, an organization promoted by S. T. Langly of Rossland, is now in active operation.

The Robinson Creek Mining Company has been organized in Minneapolis to operate the New Century group, on Robinson creek, in the upper Methow, Wash.

The wagon road into Buffalo Hump has been completed and it is lively with teams hauling freight into the camp, according to advices received by the office of the Buffalo Hump Syndicate.

Word was received at Mullan, Idaho, from the Stevens Peak Mining Company's property, near the "S" bridge, that the ore shoot in the drift was widening and improving in quality rapidly.

First in magnitude of the shipping mines on Canyon creek, Idaho, is the well known Hecla, which is installing a new air-compressing plant and a hoist which will both be ready for operation before long.

A rich clean-up of the five-stamp mill of the Mammoth, on Slate creek, Methow district, has been made. Reports say that the returns were equal to $450 per day, though the official figures have not been given out.

Development of importance is under way in Methow camp. The Eureka mill is doing good work. Ore in sight for three years' run. Mammoth vein is seven feet wide and gives big averages. Tacoma's good showing.

It is reported that a crosscut from the main tunnel on the Humboldt, in Keller camp, Wash., has encountered several stringers of ledge ore, and it is thought that the main ore body is not far away. The crosscut is in 20 feet.

Work will soon be begun on a 1200-foot tunnel through which to carry the tailings at the placer diggings of the Milwaukee Placer Mining company, which owns 120 acres of valuable ground on Granite creek, about six miles west of Granite, Ore.

The mineral exhibit at the Spokane exposition this fall is to be made of greater importance than ever before. To that end Manager Hawley has thoroughly organized the work of collecting specimens and has representatives in the various districts in the area around Spokane, getting the specimens ready for shipment.

Good reports are coming from what is almost a new Coeur d'Alene camp. It is that on the boundary of Idaho and Montana, near Saltese, Mont., in which the Monitor is the leading property. This camp is on the outer end of the Coeur d'Alenes copper belt, and recent developments have brought it into considerable prominence.

The Magnolia mine, four miles north of Granite, Ore., has reverted back to the original owners—John Coyle of Granite, P. A. Conde of Baker City and Al Jones and brother of Sumpter. The $10,000 payment due August 1, under the option by W. L. Vinson, in the interest of an English syndicate, failed to materialize.

July was prolific in the way of development and has decided many questions of importance to Loomis, Wash., district. The Palmer Mountain tunnel is in 3450 feet, with 1250 feet vertical depth. One vein, the 23d, was cut during the month, and the finest quartz ever found on the mountain is coming from drifts on veins No. 21 and No. 22. It is literally alive with free and visible gold, which is the coarsest ever encountered, while it comes from the greatest depth attained anywhere in the state, 1000 feet.

An important mining commission has been given C. M. Fassett of Spokane. He has been selected by an American company operating immense gold mines in Ting Yan, the northern province of Korea, to superintend the installation of a cyanide plant to treat the tailings from the mills at the mines and will go to Korea this month for the purpose.

The labor leaders of Butte are already preparing to make the celebration of Labor Day a noteworthy one, surpassing any previous attempt. Although the celebration of Labor Day is booked for some time ahead, September 30th, committees have already been appointed to take charge of the affair. It will probably be a joint celebration, Anaconda and Deer Lodge participating.

Murray, Idaho, has just had a mining excitement that reminded the old-timers of early days in the camp. It was brought about by the discovery of two ledges on the divide separating West Eagle from Lost creek. The ledges carried ore very rich in gold, silver, copper and lead, and as soon as some of the ore was brought in there was a regular stampede.

Charles D. Lane, the well known miner who has returned to San Francisco from Cape Nome, where he has large interests, says:

"From 5,000 to 10,000 people at Nome are facing absolute destitution and their only possible relief is through the United States government. Steamers now running to Nome could not possibly bring out the destitute gold-hunters even if the owners could be expected to give them free transportation. Senator Lindsay of Kentucky and Congressman Julius Kahn, to whom I have explained the condition at Nome, have written the war department urging prompt relief measures of some sort.

"General Randall has been successful in maintaining peace, but the military force there finds it next to impossible to enforce the sanitary regulations necessary to preserve the health of the community. Practical miners have left the beach and are prospecting in the gulches. Rumors of good finds are heard occasionally, but they are without confirmation."

Millionaire Duryea Is Dead.

New York, Aug. 12.—Edward Duryea, millionaire starch manufacturer, died suddenly at his residence at Glen Cove, L. I. His wealth is estimated at $3,000,000.

In Hamburg, Germany, 8,000 longshoremen, nearly one-fourth of all the men employed about the docks in that city, have been locked out.

J. F. McCissick, the well-known farmer of Tammany, reports that the wheat in that section is nearly all threshed.

During the month of July 42 carloads of horses were shipped from Mountainhome. The majority of them went to Chicago, Kansas City and Omaha.

The stockraising industry seems to have struck the Potlatch country, as several of the farmers have already gone into the business and have accumulated herds.

Burglars were operating recently in Moscow, but their work does not show the marks of professionals. At Elder Bros'. implement store they opened the safe by turning the day combination back and secured $35.

Word was received by Coroner Baum of Lewiston that an Indian had been drowned in the Clearwater river near Spaulding. The name of the Indian was not given. It is stated that the Indian was intoxicated at the time of the drowning.

A new war has broken out at Wallace over constructing wooden buildings in the fire limits, a member of the city council who was prosecuting Jones & Deane for a similar offense a week ago, being one of the parties opposed to the city this time.

I. S. James of Wallace was kicked by a horse recently, receiving injuries which are expected to prove fatal, although he is still alive. He had gone to turn a neighbor's team loose to get water when one horse kicked him. No one saw the accident.

In spite of the fact that there is a shortage in the yields in different localities Big Potlatch ridge farmers seemed to have been especially favored. The yield on that ridge is running on an average of from 30 to 40 bushels, and the threshing is being pushed along at a good rate.

Will Bahme, an employe of the Idaho Lumber Company, at Post Falls, met with an accident recently, which caused the loss of three fingers. This is the second accident Mr. Bahme has suffered this season while operating the same machine, in the first instance crushing the fingers.

There were but 67 instruments filed with the county recorder last week at Wallace, one of the slackest weeks of the year. Their aggregate value was given as $28,370.75. Of the 22 deeds, 10 were for the consideration of $1 each. There were also one real estate and two chattel mortgages and two patents. The locations recorded embraced 20 quartz lodes and one water right. Two marriage licenses were issued and one new company filed articles of incorporation.

Within 60 days from the present time articles of incorporation will be filed for the Hayden Lake Irrigation Company, with a capital of $100,000.

Work has been commenced on a new creamery plant in Ellensburg. The buildings will have a good location, and be furnished with new up-to-date machinery for first-class work.

The Inland Telephone company has a large force of linemen at work putting on the wires as fast as the posts are set on the line between North Yakima and Ellensburg.

A party of surveyors under the direction of F. H. Newell of Washington, D. C., will soon make preliminary surveys of the headwaters of the Ahtanum and Klickitat rivers with a view to locating reservoir sites.

The Washington Evaporating & Canning Company, new firm which has just been organized in Spokane, will erect a $10,000 plant this fall for the purpose of making Spokane the center of this kind of work in eastern Washington.

M. D. Harpole died in North Yakima recently from the effects of a dog bite. Being poor and having no medical attendance, he did not have the wound cauterized. The bite apparently healed but in a few days turned to blood-poisoning.

The hop-growers of Yakima valley are expecting better prices this year than have prevailed for some time. The general shortage throughout the hop sections of the United States gives this assurance. Reports from buyers in the market centers give the estimate of this year's crop at fully 25 per cent less than last year's.

While many of the orchards in the valley will fail to yield a crop this year, the prune orchard of Wright, Calbreath & Goucher, west of McMinnville, is a notable exception. Throughout the entire 70 acres the petites are abundant and have required thinning, while the Italians will average half a crop. The favored fruit section this year seems to be in the foothills of the coast mountains.

The big liner Glenogle cleared Tacoma last week for Japan. There were only a few cabin passengers and about 20 Chinese in the steerage, but she carried 99,460 sacks of flour, mostly the product of Washington mills, destined for Japan and coast cities in China. In addition to the flour she has a great quantity of general store supplies. About 2500 steel rails were taken to Japan to build driveway tracks in the mines.

The naval board of engineers appointed under the terms of the current naval appropriation bill to report on the desirability of the location of a dry-dock at the mouth of the Columbia river has reported adversely to the navy department on the project.

Reports submitted by the officers of the eastern Oregon state normal school at Weston, as stated by the president of the board of regents, R. Alexander, show $5400 in cash on hand in the state treasury, with $7000 of prospective expenditures before the next appropriation can be made by the legislature. Any deficit occurring, however, will be made up in the coming appropriation, it is thought by all the members of the board. Some improvements will be made at the school by the building of new walks and the painting of the buildings. The attendance has been satisfactory during the past year, and it is believed that more students will register next fall than ever before.

MONTANA.

During July the police of Helena made 106 arrests.

Parties in from the Wild Horse Lake country bring the news that some of the enterprising harvesters operating in that section have met with some difficulty lately with the queen's own. The hay cutters could not distinguish the boundary line and cut and stacked some hay on the queen's domain, expecting to haul it into Havre later. The Canadian authorities asked for a donation of $4 per ton before it could be moved.

The Montana State Pharmaceutical Association, at its annual session at Butte, elected the following officers: President, E. E. Gallogly; vice president, L. G. Smith; secretary, S. J. Coffee (re-elected); treasurer, F. A. Werner. The following names were voted to be submitted to the governor, who will select from the number one to act upon the state board of pharmacy: Howard Rockefeller, E. E. Gallogly, F. A. Werner, J. M. Doull and C. B. Hoskins.

The Japanese working along the line of the Great Northern in the vicinity of Kalispell, are certainly very patriotic. Ever since their country has been engaged in war with China they save up their earnings and transmit their money to Japan, in order to assist their countrymen in the struggle. The sums monthly passing through the Kalispell postoffice are of no mean total, as high as $3,000 having been mailed in one month.

The mill workers of San Jose and Santa Clara, Cal., have organized to secure an eight-hour day.

CHINA'S APPEAL USELESS

THE U. S. PAYS NO ATTENTION.

She Has Troubles of Her Own—Many Plans Come Up—Japan's Objection a Myth—Russia's Legation Leaves Pekin.

Washington, Aug. 12.—It is stated officially that this government will pay no attention whatever to the latest appeal from China, transmitted in the form of a memorial from the southern viceroys, begging the United States to use its influence against the landing of British troops in the Yangtse valley. This memorial was transmitted to the state department this morning by the Chinese minister, Mr. Wu. It urged on this government the serious consequences that would follow the landing of a British force at Shanghai and represented that the preparations already made had induced a panic among the resident Chinese and would paralyze commercial activity in that part of the empire almost as much as a formal declaration of war by Great Britain.

This government decided, however, that not only would it be entirely out of its province to interfere with the British program in southern China which was being carried forward by Admiral Seymour on the ground with the full knowledge of local conditions, but, in view of China's present attitude and the lack up to date of even an acknowledgment of our latest demand concerning the safety of our minister, the United States was not inclined to shoulder any of China's troubles with Great Britain nor any other of the powers. Consequently the appeal of the viceroys will be ignored. It is possible that the communication from Minister Wu may be turned over to the British government for its information, on the general friendly principle that has been adopted by the powers of keeping each other informed of the various developments in the situation. Even this step, however, has not been decided upon yet and will be left to the judgment of the president.

The course of such negotiations as outlined by a diplomat conversant with Pekin would be along the following general lines:

The first move would be for a truce on both sides, during which hostilities would be suspended. But it is recognized the powers would insist as the first condition of the truce that the initial action under it would be the rescue of the ministers and all other foreigners at Pekin. To accomplish that, it is stated by this diplomat, the most advisable course would be to have the international column proceed to a point about two miles outside the east gate of the imperial city and there camp, with a distinct assurance from the commander that no assault on the city would be made. This east gate is the nearest point to the place where Minister Conger and all the other ministers and foreigners are now located, it being one and a half miles from their compound. The international forces could then wait for the imperial government to deliver the foreigners to the camp of the allied forces.

It was stated by the diplomat who outlined this plan that it was entirely feasible, and that at the present emergency it was essential that some such means of meeting the complexities should be devised.

It is realized the suggested plan would be hazardous and open to objection but it is said to have the fewest features of substantial objection.

In connection with the proposed landing of Admiral Seymour's force it may be said that the report of Japan's objection to this move is without official confirmation here.

Terrible Privations.

"Chefoo, Aug. 12.—Bureau of Navigation, Washington, D. C.: Taku, Aug. 9.—Chaffee telegraphs from front: Sixth Yang Tsun occupied Casualties about sixty wounded. Many were prostrated by heat and fatigue; next move is yet unknown. The general commanding the English at the front telegraphs:

"'We marched from Peitsang nine miles toward Yang Tsun, when we formed for an attack with the Americans on the right and the Russians on the left. After a rapid advance of three miles under a hot rifle and shell fire our troops carried the first line of defense. Casualities were about 50 killed or death from sunstroke.'

"REMEY."

The chief interest in the Chaffee dispatch as made public by the navy department is the indication that the American command was in the thick of the fight at the capture of the important town of Yang Tsung, but the reference to the deaths from sunstroke indicated that the international forces were undergoing terrible privations from the tropical weather along the Pei-ho river.

Ask Landing of Troops Stopped.

Washington, Aug. 11.—The viceroys of China, including Li Hung Chang, have addressed a request to the United States government to use its good offices with the powers to stop the landing of foreign troops at Shanghai. The state department received the communication today from Minister Wu, who received it late last night. The document states that an agreement was made about a month ago by which the foreign governments exercised the right of protection over the city of Shanghai. This protection, it is claimed, can be amply carried out without the landing of troops, as the viceroys state 20 foreign warships are now in the harbor, and are able to protect the interests of foreigners and maintain order. The viceroys also maintain that the landing of troops will incite disorder.

As a Precaution.

London, Aug. 12.—A special dispatch from Shanghai, dated Friday, August 10, says the British consul general, replying to protests of Chinese merchants against the landing of troops, explains that this is merely a precautionary measure, due to the fact that the disturbances north are spreading and coming daily nearer to Shanghai. He also says Kiang Su is already in a state of revolt, and that at Tai Tung there has been serious rioting, the telegraph station having been burned.

Russia's Minister Will Go Alone.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 12.—The Official Messenger today publishes the following:

"The foreign office received a telegram today direct from M. De Giers, the Russian minister at the Chinese capital, from Pekin. The dispatch was evidently taken by special courier to Tsi Nan from the capital of Shun Tung and was thence telegraphed, August 7, by the local yamen.

"M. De Giers announces that the siege of the legations continues, the besieged still having some provisions left. The Chinese government proposes to transmit the ministers' messages and that they leave Pekin. As the ministers had not sufficient guarantee they replied that they must receive the permission of their governments before leaving the city."

The Messenger then announces that the czar's approval has been given for M. De Giers to start for Tientsin with his entire staff and the marine guard, on condition that the existing government at Pekin and the emperor afford them a sure guarantee that the journey can be undertaken without danger.

At the same time M. De Giers is expected to call attention to the heavy responsibility of the Chinese government will insinuate that the Chinese government will incur should there be the slightest infraction of the inviolability of the persons accompanying them to Tientsin.

LANE'S MURDERER CONFESSED.

Chas. R. H. Ferrell, a Former Express Messenger, the Man.

Columbus, O., Aug. 13.—Charles R. H. Ferrell, a former employe of the Adams Express Company, has been arrested in this city and confessed to the killing of Messenger Lane and the robbery of the way safe of the Adams Express company on the Pennsylvania east-bound train last Friday night. One thousand dollars of the stolen money was recovered.

Ferrell was to have been married Thursday next to Miss Lillian Costlow, a daughter of an engineer on the Pennsylvania line. He had been discharged from the employ of the Adams Express Company and confessed that the motive of the robbery was to secure money for the approaching wedding. The money recovered he had given to Miss Costlow to keep for him, saying he had saved it from his earnings.

The confession of Ferrell disclosed a premeditated and blood-curdling crime almost impossible to believe. He said he had become desperate because of his inability to secure employment and he came to the conclusion he must have money to carry on the approaching marriage. The robbery, including the murder of Express Messenger Lane, had been planned carefully. Ferrell had no accomplices and no confidantes to help execute the crime. He knew that considerable money was always carried by the messenger between St. Louis and Columbus, and that he was certain to secure a large sum if he robbed the way safe.

English Weary of War.

London, Aug. 12.—This can hardly be said to have been a lively week in England, for obituaries and funerals have taken the largest space in the newspapers. Particular groups had plenty to think about. Nevertheless, financiers have been busy with the "American loan," politicians with the dying parliament and the general election prospects, and society with country amusements.

The way the South African war drags out wears upon Englishmen, and no news would be as welcome as that some well-wisher of the Transvaal had convinced President Kruger that nothing in Europe or China will make Great Britain relax her ever-tightening grip on South Africa. Everybody in the army, or who has anything to do with it in South Africa, wants to come home and is heartily sick of the whole thing, but knowing that it must go on to a finish, the dregs of war are having some bitterness.

The plot to kill British officers at Pretoria is taken in England as showing the savage temper of the Boers, while the Britishers are reported to be doing some things which are provoking adverse comment in Great Britain.

France Objects to Waldersee.

Paris, Aug. 12.—Though official France, when forced to decision was graciously admit the superior rank of Field Marshal Count von Waldersee and acknowledge him as a generalissimo of the allied forces in China, the Paris press and French citizens will meet the situation with a grimace such as bitter medicine produces. Though years have passed the time is not long enough to efface the memory of the day when the German troops marched along the Champs Elysees, and so it is even thought an expeditionary force under a German commander will be sufficient to throw the anti-republican press into qualms of resentment. Naturally Germany is the government against which they hurl their anathemas.

Scottish Record Broken.

London, Aug. 12.—Twenty thousand persons witnessed the annual sports of the Celtic Football club at Glasgow Saturday. Among the American athletes who entered were W. W. Tewksbury of the University of Pennsylvania, who won the 120-yard handicap in 12 seconds, and Maxwell E. Long of the New York Athletic club, who won the quarter mile handicap in 50 seconds, breaking the Scottish record.

Seattle's Big Fair.

Seattle, Aug. 12.—At a meeting of business men recently $500,000 was pledged for holding an international exposition in this city in 1904 in commemoration of the Louisiana purchase and the Lewis and Clarke expedition. The plan differs from that of any similar event ever held in the world, inasmuch as its primary object is the development of commercial expansion and the growth of trans-Pacific trade.

CHINESE WANT PEACE NOW

LI HUNG CHANG TO ACT

Will Be Peace Envoy Between the Powers and China—The United States Still Adheres to First Demands—Will Not Stop Army.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Indications of the desires of China for a peaceful settlement of her present differences have been multiplying for several days. Official evidence of that desire has been presented to the department of state. It was in the form of an edict promulgated by the emperor, Kwang Hsu, appointing Li Hung Chang as envoy plenipotentiary to negotiate with the powers for an "immediate cessation of hostilities," pending a solution of the problems which have grown out of the anti-foreign uprising in the empire. Earl Li is to act directly for the emperor, and a fair inference is that whatever terms he may reach with the powers will be approved by the imperial government.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Secretary Adee, by direction of President McKinley, has presented to Minister Wu for transmission to his government the reply of the United States to the imperial edict appointing Li Hung Chang envoy to negotiate with the powers for a cessation of hostilities. In effect, however, it is a reiteration of the demands previously made by the United States upon China, coupled with a vigorous intimation that no negotiations will be entered into until the Chinese government shall have complied with those demands.

This government, inspired by a determination to effect the rescue of the legationers besieged in Pekin, takes advantage in its reply to the edict to reiterate the demands previously made on China. These demands first were made by the president on July 23, and subsequently were reiterated substantially by Acting Secretary Adee by direction of the president. The demands for the protection of the ministers, for free communication between them and their respective governments and for the restoration of order in China, form the keynote of the memorandum forwarded to the imperial government by the president today.

The iteration and reiteration of the demands must, it is thought, make it perfectly clear to the Chinese government that no negotiations will be entered upon until a square-toed compliance with them has been made. Should the demands be acceded to, there will be no obstacles, it is believed, in the way of a settlement of other questions which have arisen out of the pending troubles.

Is Now King of Italy.

Rome, Aug. 12.—King Victor Emmanuel III. has taken the formal constitutional oath before parliament. The senate chamber was draped with mourning, the benches and tribunes being covered with black furnishings, bordered with silver. The chamber was filled with senators and deputies, royal missions, high officials of state and the diplomatic corps.

The booming of cannon announced the departure of the royal party from the Quirinal.

All along the route large crowds were assembled and gave the new king an ovation. He was received on the steps of the senate by the committees of the chamber of deputies and senate in a pavilion specially erected and handsomely decorated.

When the cortege entered the senate chamber, the king being accompanied by the duke of Aosta, the count of Turin and the duke of Genoa, the deputies and senators arose, and then began a long and exciting scene of enthusiasm. His majesty later took the oath and delivered an address. The weather was beautiful.

Legations Fired Upon.

Tientsin, Aug. 14.—Reliable couriers who left Pekin August 2 have arrived at Tientsin. They say the empress dowager fed the foreigners for a few days.

The former viceroy of Shan Tung, who is bitterly anti-foreign, arrived with new troops, according to these couriers, and planted two batteries on the walls near the legations. The enemy began shelling and opened a terrible rifle fire, which was kept up for two days. The head of the missionary board, with a party, while trying to get provisions, was killed.

Forest Fires in Colorado.

Glenwood Springs, Col., Aug. 15.—For 100 miles in each direction from Glenwood Springs fires can be seen. So numerous are the fires in the forest reserves that the chief of the supervisors, W. T. S. May of Denver has caused to be posted by the forest rangers notices that hereafter no persons will be allowed on the government reserve near the White river or the Battlement without being provided with a stove of some kind for cooking purposes.

Two Sailors Were Drowned.

Newport, Ore., Aug. 12.—The steamer Roberts reports the drowning of two sailors of the schooner Lizzie Prim on Siuslaw bar. Captain Hansen of the Lizzie Prim with two sailors were in a small boat taking soundings. The boat capsized. Hansen clug to the upturned boat and drifted to shore, but the sailors were drowned. Their names were not learned.

Drowning at Spokane.

Spokane, Aug. 14.—Two boys discovered the body of Mrs. Carrie Smith floating in the river a short distance west of the Olive street bridge. The police were notified and the patrol rushed to the place. The body was taken from the river, but life was extinct.

The hackmen and drivers of San Francisco, Cal., have organized a union.

Wheat (including flour) shipments for the week aggregate 3,318,760 bushels, against 3,327,003 last week, 3,616,154 in the corresponding week of 1899, 3,928,606 in 1898, 3,460,591 in 1897 and 2,635,216 in 1896. From July 1 to date the season's wheat shipments are 17,876,966 bushels.

At Dover, N. J., 1,000 miners demanded a 10 per cent increase in wages. The same being refused, they quit work.

The Hebrew bakers of New York city, to the number of about 1,000 men have won their strike for a ten-hour day.

—H. E. Palmerton spent Sunday in Genesee and returned to Pullman with his family Monday morning accompanied by Miss Ilena Wood.

—C. F. Burr was at Moscow Tuesday and found that burg no livelier than Genesee. Politicians are dead and the farmers are busy harvesting.

—The republican primaries will be held Thursday, October 30, and the convention Sept. 5. Genesee precinct will have eighteen delegates to said county convention.

—A delivery wagon in Spokane ran over a woman. When the team was stopped a front wheel rested on her neck, badly bruising her. The collar-bone was broken.

—Sanford Evans' big field of wheat is yielding 35 bushels per acre and the grain weighs a fraction short of sixty-two pounds to the bushel. The Rimrock will make great flour of this grain.

—Ed. Steltz with blankets around him fell 14 feet from the barn and landed between two horses without receiving a scratch. He was aroused from his slumbers when he struck the hard plank floor.

—Misses Saidee Fulford, Mabel Montgomery and Dorothy Driscoll came up from Lewiston Saturday. They returned to Lewiston Wednesday morning with Mrs. Driscoll and came back in the evening.

—Mrs. C. S. Roberts, wife of the school superintendent of Whitman county, died last Thursday of acute Bright's disease. The reporter adds: "They were married only last December. Mr. Roberts seems particularly unfortunate. This was his third wife, although he is less than 40 years old."

—Dispatches say that China is suing for peace. Can it be true? It was only a few weeks ago China was eager to whip the world. It is evident that the Chinese government is at last thoroughly scared by the formidable preparations of the powers for an advance on Pekin and by the comparative ease with which with only a small fraction of the great army they are assembling for that purpose they have captured one after another of the Chinese strongholds and put the Chinese troops to flight. Poor Li Hung Chang wants to negotiate for peace. The wily old rascal has tried to play upon the fears of the several governments for the safety of the ministers as a means of inducing them to call a halt to the advance of the troops on Pekin. Let peace negotiations go on and also the march to Pekin. The ministers and all foreigners should be rescued and protected from all harm. Li should spell his name L-i-e as that is the way the people sizes him up.

Republican County Convention.

Moscow, Idaho, Aug. 4, 1900

The Republican County Central Committee met this day in compliance with the call of the chairman for the purpose of determining the time and place of holding the county convention.

It was decided to hold the primaries in the different precincts on Thursday, August 30th, from 2 to 7 p. m., and the county convention at Moscow on Wednesday, Sept. 5th, 1900, at 10 a. m., for the purpose of nominating a county ticket. The representation was decided on the basis of one delegate for every 12 votes or major fraction thereof cast for A. B. Moss for governor in 1898, and one delegate at large from each precinct. Including the delegate at large, the several precincts will be entitled to the following number of delegates:

Cora	4	Palouse	6
Four Mile	4	Gold Creek	8
Pine Creek	2	Kendrick	12

It was then moved and carried that the central committee earnestly request all delegates elected at the primaries to attend the county convention in person and that each primary pass resolutions setting forth, that in the event of it being impossible for any delegate to attend, his or her proxy be carried and used only by a member of his or her own precinct delegation and that the county convention be urged to honor no proxy unless held by a delegate from the same precinct.

Committee then adjourned subject to call of chairman.

—C. P. Huntington, the millionaire and president of the Southern Pacific railway, died suddenly of heart disease this week.

—The town of Hailey in south Idaho is taking on much activity again. During the early eighties the mines produced $25,000,000 in silver and lead and today it is developing into a copper and gold district that give promise as fully as great a production. Besides, the shipment of live stock from there is contributing not a little to the prosperity of the town. It is stated this year Hailey will ship from 750 to 800 carloads of stock. Some 400 or 500 cars of sheep will be sent out of there during 1900. Good for Hailey. Neighboring towns are showing similar signs of prosperity.

Forty Years Among Cannibals.

The French adventurer who was a captive among cannibals in Central Africa for 40 years, has decided to write a book, which will no doubt prove interesting. We can sympathize with his release from his horrible captivity, which must have been as joyous as that of a man who finds himself suddenly released from the captivity of a refractory stomach, by that peerless remedy, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has done more to promote health than any other in existence. This is the medicine to take, if you are a sufferer from dyspepsia, constipation, indigestion, biliousness, nervousness or insomnia. Don't fail to give it a trial. Ask for Hostetters and do not accept a substitute. The genuine has Private Revenue Stamp over the neck of bottle.

—A. Stamps will try his hand at making crosswalks for the city.

—George Dunlap was killed by a falling tree at Buffalo Hump last Sunday.

—The telephone has been rushed with business since harvesting commenced.

—Burglars have been operating in Moscow the past week, making several small hauls.

—Lou Martin was here from Colfax with another gentleman in the interest of the Deming Investment Co.

—Dr. and Mrs. Dunn came over from Winchester last week for a visit with our photographer and returned home Monday.

—Frank Standish is throwing paint all over the Congregational church building. On the next coat he will do some artistic work.

—C. A. Bassett, the bridge carpenter and who has charge of the construction of the Russell warehouse, was in Genesee in the early days.

—W. F. Curtiss has been taking in Lewiston, Pullman and other towns. He was in good company, having with him Misses Florence Moxley and Grace Hibbs.

—A distillery is being erected in Lewiston for the manufacture of alcohol. Martin, Justin and Ferguson are the gentlemen who expect to turn out the "hot stuff" next month.

—The body of C. Hayworth, who was drowned on the 4th in Snake river, of which mention was made in our last, was found Sunday at Candle Rock beach, badly decomposed.

—Herman Moreshaick, south of town, lost some 40 tons of hay by fire last week. As usual matches and children did the business. The lady of the house had a hard time to save the home.

—Matt Fuchs is busy this week with a force of young people picking and packing a carload of fine peach plums for the eastern market. The fruit is being gathered from the Vollmer ranch west of Genesee.

—Fred Nagel, one of our enterprising butchers, will start on a trip to Germany October 1st if he can arrange his business affairs. He is certainly deserving a respite from business and a two month's visit at his old home will do him much good.

—The officials of the Union Pacific have promulgated an order prohibiting the use of cigarettes and cigars by its employes while on duty. Any conductor, engineer, brakeman, office clerk, division superintendent, switchman or yardman, in whatever capacity he may be, will be dismissed if caught smoking.

—Charley Hively, a young man about 21 years of age, was drowned while bathing Sunday forenoon just below the railroad bridge above Spalding. The young man was swimming with some companions when he suddenly sank without an outcry. The body was found about two hours later in twelve feet of water.

—There will be a social held in the basement of the Congregational church on the evening of August 24th, to which all interested in the welfare of the church are invited to be present. There will be roll-call of members. Any one not able to attend will please send a response to be read at the call of their name. Reports of officers will be given. Election of new officers and other matters of interest will be brought up.

—H. R. Smith, Latah's able county attorney, was in Genesee Saturday, being called over to straighten out a family affair. The judge stated the county was escaping much useless expense this year and was in better financial condition than at any time for many years. All petty suits were squelched, thus saving many dollars to the county. With warrants at par the county is in a condition to get along with a much lower rate of taxation from this on.

—A large number of hands have found their way to the Genesee valley the past week and harvest has been in full blast for several days. Every man in the country is employed. The strangers have been picked up with their beds before they had time to get comfortably settled on a shady side of a building. While the reports received have been from the section south of town where the grain ripened before the hot spell came on, which have been of encouraging nature, enough is known of the grain fields north and west of Genesee to assure us of a good yield, something like 30 bushels per acre. There are fields that will go 35 bushels or more notwithstanding the hot wave.

—R. Jackson is in Spokane.

—Mrs. Caroline Bressler and Miss Arta Scroggin left Sunday morning for a few weeks visit with friends at Cheney.

—Mr. Crease's wheat, on the Mertes ranch, yielded close onto 40 bushels to the acre. Mr. Williamson got 33 bushels and Fred Hampton 35.

—Andy Banks and father and mother, arrived here Saturday from Missouri to make Idaho their permanent home. They are friends of Ed. Simmons on the reservation.

—The Genesee Exchange Bank celebrated its third anniversary Tuesday by declaring a 7 per cent dividend, making 36 per cent since its establishment. Pretty good.

—Somebody swiped some 40 sacks of wheat from Driscoll & Thompson this week from the field. Constable Hayes and J. J. Brown tried to locate the grain but failed to. Catch the thief and send him over the road.

—We noticed Rev. Fowler among the hunters who came up main street Wednesday evening, the opening day of the chicken season. Of course he had chickens, for those who return with an empty bag usually take the alley.

—At the Methodist church the pastor will preach from Matt. 6 9-13 in the morning. Evening subject, "The Wedge of Gold." A church conference will be called following the morning service. All the members are urged to be present. Some very important business is to be transacted.

—E. E. Harris, a former Geneseeite but now of Ahsahka, four miles this side of Orofino, was a visitor here Saturday. He secured some goods from the Bee Hive and intends to operate a store at that point. Mr. Harris is registrar of that precinct, and in fact is very near the "whole thing" of that hamlet.

—Friends of Church Bros. arrived in Genesee Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Clark, of Harvard, Ill., accompanied by Miss Edith Church, of Spokane. Mr. and Mrs. Clark are on a tour of the west, visiting San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and Spokane before reaching here "You have a magnificent country here," said Mr. Clark to a NEWS man, "and if my home was on wheels I certainly would locate in the west. Spokane is a wonderful fine young city. In the east the only northwest cities talked about are Seattle and Spokane."

—Mr. and Mrs. Welch transacted business in Lewiston this week.

—J. J. Johnson has a barrel that is a barrel, holding 320 gallons of spirits.

—C. A. Christopher is here from Seattle circulating among friends. Says Seattle is all right.

—Grandma Simmons, 80 years of age, this week started for Iowa on a business and pleasure trip.

—Mrs. Fred Bressler and Carrie went to Moscow yesterday From there Carrie will go to Waitsburg.

—Fred Wilkison is up among the savages at Kamiah and Greer, taking in flax and wheat for C. E. Wood.

—J. L. Goodnight and son started for the mountains Wednesday to do assessment work on mining property.

—Belgian hare parties are the rage now in the cities. The supper is composed mainly of the toothsome meat.

—The Christian Endeavor people will have a social time all by themselves at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Reed on the hill Saturday evening.

—De Bow & Raymond have a force at work packing fine fruit and expect to send out several carloads of their goods to Montana and Dakota within a few days.

—Prof. Hartzell Cobbs closed his school in the Cœur d'Alene country and returned to Genesee Saturday. He is at Moscow this week assisting with the institute work.

—Mrs. Samsel was elected registrar in the west Genesee precinct last Saturday and is now ready to register all voters residing in that precinct which extends to the state line.

—Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Howard and children have returned from their three week's outing, dividing the time between Spokane and Hayden lake. Report a pleasant time.

—The ladies of the Methodist church will give a "pie supper"—consisting of all kinds of pies, from apple pie to chicken pie—in the rooms formerly occupied by Mrs. Steuart's millinery store, on Wednesday evening, beginning at 5 o'clock.

—Many of the threshing machines at different points in Oregon have pulled in from the fields, claiming that the wheat is turning out so poorly that expense of operating them cannot be made. Grain is reported as yielding from 6 to 15 bushels per acre, about one half of what was expected.

—If there is any advantage in early county conventions the fusionists of Latah are strictly in it. They have had time to put up all sorts of jobs on the republicans but somehow they are resting easy. Must be waiting to see how Hanna's cat performs. We'll be in the midst of a hot battle before we know it.

—Aaron Cox, charged with mayhem on the person of Abe Hudson of Russell, came in town today and gave himself up to the custody of the sheriff. Cox and Hudson became engaged in an altercation some weeks ago and in the fight which followed Hudson was badly beaten and his ear bitten off.—Tuesday's Teller.

A. SCROGGIN.

—While the grain yield was shortened by the few hot days at a critical time, the reports of the threshing machines are not disheartening. Nick Jacobs received 32 bushels of wheat per acre, Ed. Kempf and Frank Lowen 35, Geo. Follett 25, Ben Jackson 40; Mr. Baldus received 50 bushels of barley per acre.

—A fire destroyed about 200 acres of fine wheat for John Sullivan last Tuesday about noon, nearly all of which was in the stack. Smoke was seen during the forenoon some distance away by the harvesters but little attention was paid to it until the noon hour when the wind by spells would fan the flames to large proportions. When the alarm was sounded for help to subdue the rapidly increasing flames the workingmen soon discovered they had a wicked foe to fight. They secured sacks and water, teams and plows, and in a short time an army of men were fighting heroically to save grain, house and barns belonging to Mr. Sullivan and the adjoining fields. At times the fire would be almost under control when a gust of wind would come along and start it up again, carrying burning straw several rods. The men at times gave out from overwork and several were considerably scorched. The fire came within ten feet of the house and was saved by hard work. Though Mr. Sullivan is well to do, the loss will be keenly felt. The fire licked up a few acres of grain for Dan Healey in an adjoining field. Had it not been for the unceasing efforts of the kind neighbors and harvesters Dan's entire crop would now be in ashes. Mr. Hailey appreciates their kindness and desires through the NEWS to thank one and all, and particularly Clark De Bow, for the activity displayed in subduing the flames. The origin of the fire is unknown. John Lorang also had a narrow escape from losing his crop and wishes to thank the Hasfurther brothers, Peter Johann and Frank Terharr, as well as others, for subduing the flames.

TIMELY TOPICS.

If a house divided against itself will fall, what is likely to happen to a country divided by others?

The Sultan of Turkey is buying Krupp guns, perhaps to be used in standing off bill collectors.

In view of various things just now, the resemblance between the American eagle and the dove of peace is less than ever.

Perhaps it has been decreed that China shall pay in blood for the accumulated misery its firecrackers have wrought upon mankind.

If any other nation has any sort of a grievance against anybody, now is the time to make known the fact. A war or two more doesn't matter.

A man the other day compelled a woman to become his wife by threatening to chop her head off with an ax if she refused his offer. There is one household at east in which the "woman's rights" question is not likely to be a subject for discussion.

Maxim, the gunmaker, says that the world is on the verge of a war greater than any which has happened in the past. The deep sorrow of Mr. Maxim, should such a struggle come, and the heartbroken sobs with which he would fill large orders for his cannon, can be easily imagined.

To all who have been seasick come tidings of encouragement. The Saxonia, with more than a thousand passengers aboard, recently steamed into Boston harbor on her maiden trip. The health officer climbed aboard. "A clean bill," said the captain, "and not a soul seasick." Many of us can now put to sea without a tremor.

Youth and age seem to be on even terms in politics. Mr. Morgan of Alabama and Mr. Gear of Iowa have been re-elected to the Senate, although both of them have passed their three-score years and ten by half a decade. Mr. Beveridge of Indiana, on the other hand, is hardly more than half the age of either of them, and yet he is not the youngest man in the upper house.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives has been authorized to sit during the recess of Congress, with a view to preparing a bill to reduce the taxes which were imposed or increased at the outbreak of the Spanish war. This committee, according to present plans, will assemble in Washington about ten days before Congress meets in December. Much of the time of Congress is saved by committee work during recess.

If village improvement societies are organized to make a town more beautiful, why not public progress boards, to make it more busy? Such a society has just been organized in Castine, Me., and its present purpose is to induce some shipbuilding firm to locate its plant in that pretty town, which is a great deal more likely to get its wish than it would be if it sat down and waited to be discovered. Many a decaying place would be prosperous to-day if it had sent its advantages to market instead of expecting some capitalist to come after them with his own wagon.

A timely warning is sounded against any wholesale rush of fortune-seekers to South Africa. The ending of the war and the absorption of the Boer states into the British empire will doubtless stimulate migration to those regions, and will also increase the opportunities of profitable settlement there. But it will not be prudent for any one to go thither without some capital, or at least sufficient resources to maintain him for some time in independence of anything he may or may not do there. It is an expensive country to live in, and the gold mines and other sources of profit can be worked only at considerable expense. It is a country in which capital will find profitable investment, but not one in which the penniless adventurer is likely to pick up a fortune.

The neuron is a nerve cell. Neither Pythagoras nor Plato knew that man had neurons. These philosophers had no microscopes. When the neurons were discovered they were immediately studied with fervor. A scientist of repute put forth the theory that each neuron had an independent life. When a man went to sleep it was because his neurons contracted and failed to touch one another. Hence, the communication with his brain was broken. When the neurons got rested they stretched themselves once more. They touched and formed a continuous line in the nerve. The brain was again placed in connection with the outer world and its owner woke up. The brain being also made up of neurons, this theory pictured man as a conglomeration of minute but independent beings. He was a colony of tiny creatures. They ruled him. His consciousness was simply the aggregate of theirs. He had no real personal existence. But science delights in reversing its own findings. A microscopist, by staining the neurons, has made them more visible under the glass. It is found that they are not independent. Their protoplasm or cell substance intermingles. They are not separate entities. Their reign is ended. The neuron theory is untenable. This is a triumph for the foes of materialism. It replaces man on his pedestal as an individual. He is not a mere colony of separate cells.

Probably there are many worried Americans who would find it greatly to their interest to adopt a few of the suggestions made by Daniel Gregory Mason in an article which he contributes to Scribner's Magazine. Mr. Mason, commenting on the numerous maladies that modern man is heir to, points out that men and women generally have fallen into a bad habit of "physical self-consciousness." On the one hand there are the hypochondriacal sufferers who cannot read a medical dictionary without having all the symptoms therein described. On the other side there are the faddists who in taking up some physical-culture scheme or rest cure or restricted diet keep their maladies perpetually in mind by the very earnestness with which they endeavor to evade or destroy them. In short, neither the hypochondriacs nor the conscientious worriers who watch their daily symptoms under the beneficent influences of some health-getting program are pursuing the right way to be healthy and happy in this world. Manifestly Mr. Mason's advice that men trust to a natural "tendency to health" might be carried too far. A man who really has a broken leg or an inflamed stomach needs to devote enough "physical self-consciousness" to his case to telephone for a doctor. But in general, and for a vast number of the ills, imaginary and real, which humanity bears, it is a question if the sufferer might not do much better just to trust to "the tendency to health," not trying merely to forget his troubles—whereby he would only the more keenly realize them—but getting up a lively interest in something else.

It is long since this country has had to face the shock of a disaster so appalling in the loss of life and so destructive of property as the great fire at the Hoboken docks of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company. Hundreds of lives lost by fire or water, the hospitals crowded with other hundreds of injured, great docks and three big Atlantic steamers burned to the water's edge and many millions of dollars' worth of property destroyed by the flames make a catalogue of horror grievous to record. In its grewsomely spectacular quality the disaster is without a parallel. On the west bank of the North river, just opposite the most crowded part of lower New York, the great fire burned the lives out of helpless men and women by the score in full view of thousands of spectators who were powerless to aid them. Always there seems a peculiar irony in the destruction of a ship and the loss of life of its crew and passengers by fire. The first thought is that the very proximity of a limitless supply of water ought to act in some way as a saving element, and yet even here, where every means of protection was at hand, with all the fireboats of New York at prompt command and the supposedly perfect appliances for fighting fire on the docks and the steamers themselves, where fire drills are practiced with regularity, the flames had their own way virtually unchecked. With scores of ferries, tugboats and other harbor craft hovering about the burning docks, little could be done to save life. Three steamers—the Main, the Saale and the Bremen—were burned. The splendid new Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, second of all steamers on the Atlantic, narrowly escaped destruction, suffering considerable damage. Great docks and warehouses, valuable cargoes and freight in storage or ready for shipment, went up in flames. Lighters and barges by the dozen were destroyed and are hardly enumerated, so hidden is that smaller loss in the greater. The North German Lloyd Steamship Company has endured a blow which might disable a weaker corporation. Yet all these things are overshadowed by the tales of suffering and death. The Main, burning at the pier and smothering imprisoned men who were helpless even to fight for life, seventeen of them saved after hours of torture in the lowest coal bunker, where they baked as in a furnace; the Saale, drifting down with the current to be beached on Communipaw flats, where the tide rose and poured through the lower porthole, drowning the helpless men and women who had their faces turned toward the sky and liberty, so close to the men who sought to rescue them that they could be given water to drink, yet penned in by the stubborn steel plates that formed the side of the ship; the Bremen, towed up the river and left a hulk so hot that no one could examine it to see how many bodies it would yield, and the host of men and women driven from the vessels by the flames who found a refuge and death in the stream—these are but a part of the horrors. There is one bright spot in the painful story. We are told of instances of courage among the dying and of persistent effort to save life. Always brave men appear in such dreadful scenes to call attention more emphatically to the sad waste of valuable lives in a hopeless situation.

In a Roundabout Way.

The statement is made on the authority of one of our South American consuls that nearly all the hams imported into Brazil are of American origin, but were first exported to England and there packed by English dealers in accordance with Brazilian requirements and reshipped across the Atlantic to Brazil. This accounts for the fact that Brazil imported from this country directly only thirty-eight packages of hams in 1897.

ARE HUMAN FIENDS.

CHINESE PRACTICE DEVILISH FORMS OF TORTURE.

Of All Peoples on Earth They Are the Most Cruel and Delight in Long-Drawn Out Punishment—Some of Their Systems.

HOW THE CHINESE TORTURE AND KILL.

Victim bound to a cross, while the executioner with a sharp sword slices off parts of his body. The torture sometimes lasts for a day before death ensues.

Of all races on the face of the earth the Chinese are the most cruel, the most devoted to fearful torture of those in their power and the most adept in devising ever new forms of martyrdom for the objects of their hatred. In their almost simple cruelty they are lower than the animals. If they merely delighted in torturing, one might say it was a perversion. But they do not merely delight in it. They torture living creatures, from rats to man, as a simple matter of course, and the native victims accept it equally as a matter of course. There is something supremely terrible in the matter-of-fact, stolid way in which they subject a prisoner to demoniac pain with as much readiness as a magistrate would sentence a man to spend ten days in jail.

To begin with, there is the whipping and scourging with bamboo rods. This is so common a method of "preparing" a victim for trial that it is hardly considered punishment, much less torture. Yet the bamboo is laid on hard enough to bring blood at each stroke, and, especially when it is applied to the soles of the feet, the victim often faints from pain and loss of blood combined. One hardly can enter a Chinese court of "justice" without witnessing a flogging.

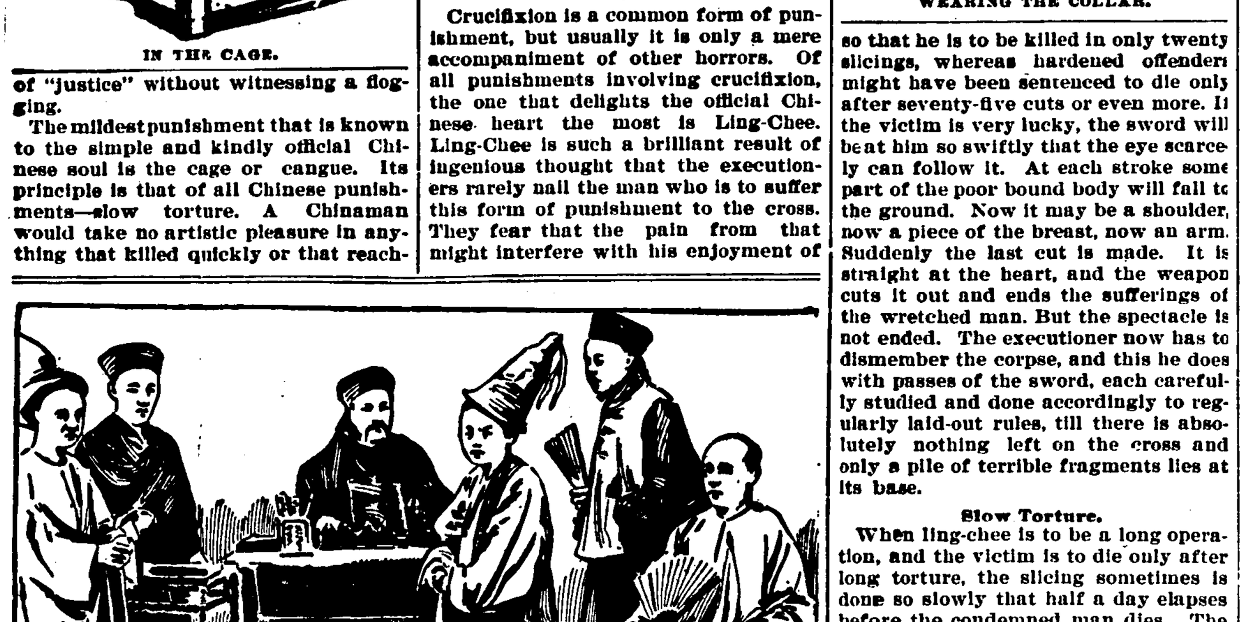
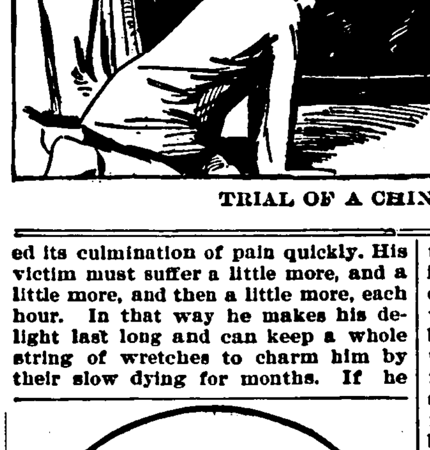
The mildest punishment that is known to the simple and kindly official Chinese soul is the cage or cangue. Its principle is that of all Chinese punishments—slow torture. A Chinaman would take no artistic pleasure in anything that killed quickly or that reached its culmination of pain quickly. His victim must suffer a little more, and a little more, and then a little more, each hour. In that way he makes his delight last long and can keep a whole string of wretches to charm him by their slow dying for months. If he killed them at once his fun would be over too soon.



TRIAL OF A CHINESE BOXER.



HUNG HEAD DOWNWARD.

The cangue, then, is formed to keep the agony of the penitent up for months, till madness or death end his sufferings. It is a delightfully simple thing—so simple that there is nothing at all terrifying about it at first sight. It merely is a large frame of wood, with a collar in the middle. It weighs about fifty pounds, and is so made that it can be locked around a man's neck. When it is so locked it rests directly on the muscles of the neck and on the bones of the shoulder, and it is so constructed that it cannot be shifted even a tenth of an inch, nor can the weight be relieved with the hands. In addition, the collar has a sharp rim underneath. At first the victim does not suffer much, except from inconvenience. He is turned loose as soon as the cangue is locked on him, and for an hour or two he waddles around in fair comfort. But gradually, as the sharp edge of the collar cuts deeply into the flesh of his neck, and all his muscles are drawn more and more tense, pain begins to conquer him, and in a week the torturers have the felicity of seeing a maddened wretch stumble and fall around blindly, weeping and yelling with anguish.

The bamboo furnishes favorite implements for Chinese legal torturers. Sharpened slivers of bamboo are used for countless purposes in countless ways. Indeed, if the reader will imagine just what he would hate most to have done to him with a bamboo sliver, he will hit something that the Chinese are sure to do. The most simple and merciful deeds are to stick tiny slivers all over their victims and to leave them there to fester. Worse still is the cheerful practice of driving wedge-shaped pieces of bamboo under the finger or toe nails of accused persons. This is done slowly with a mallet.

How They Crucify.

Crucifixion is a common form of punishment, but usually it is only a mere accompaniment of other horrors. Of all punishments involving crucifixion, the one that delights the official Chinese heart the most is Ling-Chee. Ling-Chee is such a brilliant result of ingenious thought that the executioners rarely nail the man who is to suffer this form of punishment to the cross. They fear that the pain from that might interfere with his enjoyment of the real performance, which is nothing less than slicing him to death with diabolical skill. Therefore the man who is to suffer ling-chee generally is bound to the cross. Then there arrives the executioner. An executioner skillful at ling-chee is viewed with high respect in the empire, much as a successful bull-fighter is viewed in Spain. To bungle in ling-chee and to slice so much from the victim early in the game that he faints, or, worse still, dies before he has suffered all the slicing that has been decreed, would blacken the executioner's name forever, and might even make him the next subject for ling-chee.

The executioner is received with a little murmur of approbation, for his record is as well kept in mind as is the record of an athlete in America or England. He bows to the high dignitaries and then takes one of his swords from the sword-carrier who has followed him. They are wonderful swords that are used by the ling-chee executioners. Sometimes they are hundreds of years old and have records so long and bloody that a person with nerves might well shudder to touch them. The executioner does not shudder. He knows what depends on his delicacy of touch. Swiftly he swings the great weapon around his head till it whistles. Satisfied that it is ready for business, he approaches the victim slowly. First he feints at him and withdraws. Then he makes believe again. Suddenly the sword shoots in wickedly, and one of the victim's eyebrows is sliced off so neatly that it scarcely draws blood. Now begins wonderful work—wonderful and devilish. It may be that the condemned man has been the subject of great imperial mercy. In that case he may have been blessed beyond compare by having his sentence commuted so that he is to be killed in only twenty slicings, whereas hardened offenders might have been sentenced to die only after seventy-five cuts or even more. If the victim is very lucky, the sword will beat him so swiftly that the eye scarcely can follow it. At each stroke some part of the poor bound body will fall to the ground. Now it may be a shoulder, now a piece of the breast, now an arm. Suddenly the last cut is made. It is straight at the heart, and the weapon cuts it out and ends the sufferings of the wretched man. But the spectacle is not ended. The executioner now has to dismember the corpse, and this he does with passes of the sword, each carefully studied and done accordingly to regularly laid-out rules, till there is absolutely nothing left on the cross and only a pile of terrible fragments lies at its base.

Slow Torture.

When ling-chee is to be a long operation, and the victim is to die only after long torture, the slicing sometimes is done so slowly that half a day elapses before the condemned man dies. The executioner knows just what to cut without killing, and he goes to work as carefully as would a surgeon. Muscles and tendons and flesh are stripped from the body with the razor blade of the sword, until only a dreadful framework remains that still has awful life in it. And at this terrible spectacle the Chinese gaze stolidly, without an expression either of pleasure or loathing.

Another ingenious torture that is much used is to suspend the condemned man with his head down in a pit. At the bottom are snakes, toads and all kinds of loathsome reptiles, which writhe within a few inches of the victim's face. Here he is left until the torture of the position, hunger, thirst and reptile bites kill him.

The Tone of Bells.

Many persons suppose that the varying tones of the bells in a cathedral chime depend chiefly upon the size and thickness of the different bells. But a writer in the Scientific American says that the tone is governed by the protuberant ring of metal on the flange of the bell a little back from the edge. The bell-founder who desires to impart a particular tone to a bell is very careful about the thickness which he gives to this ring, and its dimensions are calculated in advance.

Models of Inventions.

R. C. Gill, superintendent of models in the patent office at Washington, has charge of about 400,000 models of United States inventions granted during a period of something over a hundred years.

HANDSHAKING AN OLD CUSTOM.

Practice Now in Vogue Dates Back to the Beginning of Time.

"It is said by ancient astrologers that shaking hands is a scientific custom which dates back to the beginning of time. There is all the difference in the world between the various modes of shaking the hand of stranger or friend as to the resulting impression obtained by and through that operation, consciously or unconsciously," said a society woman at a select afternoon tea yesterday. "I claim that the results depend upon the proper position taken by the two hands clasped, although a mere touch will tell much. We shake hands in order to form a connection between us which will result in the exchange of planetary vibrations which notify us whether we have met a friend or foe. Few people go into such an exact scientific analysis go into such sons, but perhaps think that they do it because other people do it; that it is the custom of the country, or because the person met offers the hand. It remains an indisputable fact, however, that we form likes and dislikes upon touching the hands of strangers and that friendships or dislikes often start at that point, whether we realize it or not. The exchange of impression is strong at the moment of contact of the palm. It makes us unhappy to touch some people, and we will not if we can help it.

"The most effective handshake is not the close clasp in all cases, although it may be in many, but varies according to the sizes and shapes of the two hands which clasp each other. However they may meet, there is one spot which is the magnetic center of the entire being—the mount of the sun, speaking from the standpoint of palmistry—which has the most direct nerve contact with the brain and also most direct blood connection with the heart, and is, therefore, called the 'ring finger'—with the magnetic pole at its base.

"The physical and mental strength are there united in the strongest magnetic center of the body. If the two hands thus clasped are placed with their magnetic centers in close contact, no matter where the rest of the palm may be, I insist that there is a strong magnetic current established between these two people.

"It may be intensified in effect if the mounts at the bases of the other fingers also be brought into as close contact with each other, thus bringing the minor magnetic poles also together. Then, if the third or 'ring finger' curl around the mount of Venus—astrologically situated at the base of the little finger, above the heart line and traversed by the marriage line or lines—and the thumb extends across the back of each friend's hand to the knuckle at the base of the 'ring finger,' clasping those chief magnetic poles the more closely, the law of magnetics is carried out to complete perfection, the effects are most pronounced and we enjoy the pleasurable interchange of vibrations, whether we know the 'whys and wherefores' or not.

"In all probability we do not care why—we only know that we enjoyed the hand clasp."—New York Tribune.

The Bolometer.

Prof. S. P. Langley has now carried his delicate heat-measuring apparatus, the bolometer, to such a degree of perfection that it will register a ten-millionth of a degree, Centigrade. In a recent description of this device he says that for a certain part of it, the dampening mechanism of the galvonometer, he uses a dragon-fly's wing, on account of its lightness and rigidity.

Folding Hay Door.

It has always been a good deal of trouble to close the end door to a barn where hay is taken in with a horse hay fork. We prefer to drive in the barn to unload the hay, but will admit that a barn will hold more when it is taken in at the end. The cut explains itself. The upper part of the door is hung to the lower part and folds in when open and will open clear back under the cornice and can be easily closed by closing the lower part first and raising the upper part from the inside. This closes the opening sufficient to keep out all storms provided the barn has a hood to accommodate the hay fork, and all barns should have a hood to keep the hay from rubbing against the barn so hard. The hood is not shown in the sketch, as it would hide the view of the door.—Ohio Farmer.

Watering Places.

There is need of concerted action or a State law providing suitable watering places for horses along the much traveled roads. In the olden times the roadmakers, when the road crossed a brook or ran along the edge of a pond, left places where one could drive in to water the horse, and perhaps swell the felloes of the wheels if the tires were loose, but now the brooks are bridged over to the width of the road, and the ponds fenced at the roadside to keep animals out, because the water supply for some town or village is taken from it, and it must be kept pure. This is all right when the town has provided public watering places where man and beast can quench their thirst, but when economy prevails to such an extent that these are not put up, and one may drive on a much traveled road for ten or fifteen miles without a chance for the horse to wash the dust out of his mouth, it is time that provision were made, even if we returned to the village pump and watering trough. They were very well where no brooks were available, but the pump sometimes would not work well, and sometimes the driver would not work the pump handle, and the poor horse got lukewarm and filthy water, or none at all, unless the driver wanted a drink himself.—American Cultivator.

Curing Clover Hay.

Alvah Agee tells in the National Stockman how he cured five acres of clover hay this year, in which he goes farther than we have advised in the way of curing it in the heap, and we have been accused of being very radical on that subject. He followed the advice of T. N. Ralston, as given at the Farmers' Institute in Armstrong County, Pennsylvania. The clover was cut from June 12 and June 13, in cloudy weather, and light rains followed nearly every day until June 18. Most of it was put in the heaps after about two hours wilting. One lot was left an hour longer, and this came out dark. One lot was racked and bunched before much wilted, and some of this was moldy. The bunches were opened out and aired on the following Monday not more than is usually thought necessary in ordinary handling, and then drawn to the barn. With the exceptions above noted, where the clover was wilted not enough or too much before heaping, the hay was quite green in color, with all heads and leaves on and no waste. He considers the experiment a success.

Care of Greenhouses.

Insects and fungous diseases are bad enough in the open field, but much worse when they get into the greenhouse. An occasional scalding of the benches and shelves, and washing them down with a solution of carbolic acid or sulphuric acid, will help much to keep them out, but if this fails it may be necessary to clean them out, removing the earth and putting in a new supply, then close and fumigate with burning charcoal and sulphur, taking care not to inhale the fumes, or let them get into another house where the plants are. Remove earth from all pots, wash them with carbolic acid solution, wash off in clear water the earth from roots of plants, and repot in fresh earth. Much work it is, but what is the use of a greenhouse when plants will not grow?

Hog Cholera.

I have been raising hogs for eight years, and have never lost one from cholera, although the cholera has been in my neighborhood several times during that time. Two years ago the cholera attacked my nearest neighbor's hogs. I advised him to give them equal parts of wood ashes, salt, charcoal, sulphur and soda, in one tablespoonful doses for each hog, twice a day. He did so, and of five sick hogs which received the treatment two died and three got well. About the same time a very fine pig of mine became sick and I gave him the same treatment. He recovered in two or three days. I gave the same remedy to my other hogs, and none of them were sick.—A. J. Legg, in Epitomist.

Dairy Dots.

The feed does not affect the richness of the milk. You cannot tell by the looks of milk how rich it is.

You cannot afford to run cows on half time.

To get high grade milk brush the cows before milking, and it is advised by many that the udders be clipped.

Manage to have the cows come fresh, so as to maintain a uniform supply throughout the year.

It is claimed that summer silage will stop summer shrinkage.

Don't make a strainer do too much work. Have a fresh one for every ten or a dozen cows.

Cool the milk and keep it at a given temperature.

Care, cleanliness and cold are the three "c's" of milk production.

Foreign Insect Pests.

Some of the insects brought to this country from abroad do more damage to crops than in their native countries. They are the more destructive here because their natural enemies (such as parasites) were left behind; hence the insects are kept in check in their native localities and have greater opportunities to multiply in America. The cabbage worm, so destructive here, has a parasite in Europe which prevents it from doing great damage. The Hessian fly parasite, however, has been imported to this country, and has done much to keep the fly in check.

Poultry Specializing.

There is much said about the necessity of specializing in the poultry business, but the fact remains that nearly all the successful poultrymen are uniting the egg and market poultry branches. The necessity for keeping up the plant the year around and employing all the time and facilities seems to make it necessary to raise broilers and market chickens as well as layers. Besides, the broiler men who depend upon others to furnish satisfactory eggs for hatching are likely to be disappointed.—Farm and Home.

Pennsylvania Oleo Law.

The Superior Court of Pennsylvania decided that what is known as the color clause of the oleo law is sound. This means that oleo cannot legally be sold. Yellow is the standard color of butter, and it is illegal to counterfeit other fats by coloring them yellow. Instead of grieving over this the oleo men ought to rejoice, for it gives them a grand chance to prove that people are eager to buy oleo. Let them put it on the market for just what it is, uncolored and with no attempt to call it butter.—Rural New Yorker.

$290,000,000 Worth of Poultry.

Two hundred and ninety millions of dollars for poultry, the proceeds of one year, compared with $186,000,000 for hogs for the same time, tells with emphasis the enormous magnitude of the poultry business. It becomes startling when it is remembered that we are still importers of eggs, for we should supply every home demand and be able to export besides. England imports 135,450,111 dozens of eggs at a cost of $20,305,326, and we furnish 447,033 of the amount, or did in 1897.

Marketing Wool.

Thousands of dollars are annually lost by woolgrowers by reason of the slovenly manner in which the clips are sent to the market. Many a clip is discounted a full cent or more per pound on account of the bad condition in which it comes to the market, while nothing is gained by the seller either in saving of time or labor. A clean, well-tied fleece always meets a warm welcome among buyers, sorters and millmen.—Sheep Breeder.

Salt for Asparagus.

In sandy or comparatively dry soil, salt is an excellent article to apply to asparagus beds. It will not, however, take the place of strong manure. Its chief office seems to be to encourage a plentiful supply of moisture.—Meehan's Monthly.

To Destroy Thistles.

Cut down the plants as low as possible and pour a teaspoonful of sulphuric acid on the crowns of the plants, the acid to be used only in glass, as it attacks all metals and wood and should be handled with great care. If properly applied it will destroy every thistle.

GREAT AMERICAN EYE-OPENER.

Coffee the Favorite Stimulant in the United States.

The acquisition of a considerable area of coffee-growing territory as a result of the Spanish-American war gives more than ordinary interest to the statistics of coffee consumption in this country. The American people have become, without question, the greatest coffee drinkers in the world. We are not only consuming more coffee than any other nation each year, but statistics show that the amount consumed per capita each year is constantly on the increase. It has become by far the most important item in the American dietary and its consumption is not confined to any class. It is the sustaining solace of the wage-earner and the favorite stimulant of the man whose work calls for a high degree of mental energy.

Following are the figures which show the importations of coffee in pounds in the years named, with the population of the country for the same years:

	Pounds.	Population.
1874	285,000,000	42,000,000
1880	446,000,000	50,000,000
1890	499,000,000	60,000,000
1892	640,000,000	65,000,000
1893	563,000,000	67,000,000
1897	809,000,000	72,000,000
1898	804,000,000	74,000,000
1899	878,000,000	76,000,000

The countries that consume the greatest portion of the world's coffee crop are Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, the United States and Germany. It is claimed, however, that the popularity of tea, so great in England and Russia, is now on the decline and their consumption of coffee is increasing at such a rapid rate that they will soon rank with Germany and the United States as coffee drinkers.

Hygienic and dietetic authorities will doubtless view this increase in the consumption of coffee with much apprehension. They stoutly maintain that coffee drinking is injurious to the race. They trace all sorts of digestive derangements to the excessive drinking of coffee. Other authorities, however, are disposed to regard this increase in coffee drinking as a hopeful indication of an increasing tendency to abstain from alcoholic stimulation. Indeed, there are many who adhere to the belief that coffee is a specific for alcoholism, and that any marked increase in its consumption means a decline in the use of spirituous liquors. It is noted in this connection that Germany, the most extensive consumer of malt liquors, is next to the United States the greatest consumer of coffee. Whatever diverse views may be entertained regarding the hygienic or food value of coffee, there is no denying the fact that it appears to be essential to meet the dietetic requirements of modern American methods of living.—Chicago Times-Herald.

THE BOXERS.

Described by a Man Who Recently Returned from China.

Clarence Carey, a member of the University Club, who returned from China a few months ago, explained last night what the Boxers were in China and told of their origin.

"The Boxers," said he, "originated in the Shang Tung province, in which the Germans claim the sphere of influence. They began among villagers who were allowed by the local Chinese governors to carry arms to put down robber bands in their particular neighborhoods. Gradually they became possessed with the idea of turning robbers themselves and they gathered in all of the malcontents and the many who were out of work on account of the great drought last winter. When they became possessed of considerable strength in numbers they went west to Pao-Ting Fu, the terminus of the Lu Han Railroad, about sixty miles from Pekin. There they murdered an English missionary named Brooks. They advanced along the line of the railroad, tearing up tracks and burning stations, until they reached the main line, Feng Ti, which they also tore up and destroyed in sections.

"The name is an arbitrary one, given to them doubtless by some English-speaking person who got it from their Chinese name—I Ho Tuan. This being interpreted means faith, righteousness and the two fists. I suppose we would call it the 'Good Right Arm' Society or something like that. They are doubtless taking in all of the old secret societies and all of the lawless and discontented ones. They have only been in existence for a year and no one knows much more than this about them."—New York Sun.

Mexican Criminal Laws.

They have some very curious criminal laws in Mexico. For instance, it is twice as much of an offense to mutilate the face of a woman as that of a man. The law seems to be based on the idea that a woman's best possession is her beauty, and that to mar it does her a great injury. There is another curious law. If a person should be wounded in an encounter the punishment to the offender is fixed by the number of days his victim has to stay in the hospital or under a doctor's care. A line is fixed at forty days in the way of a general division. If the injured man occupies more than forty days in his recovery the penalty doubles up.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cures Them—Two Letters from Women.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to tell you of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I was sick in bed about five weeks. The right side of my abdomen pained me and was so swollen and sore that I could not walk. The doctor told my husband I would have to undergo an operation. This I refused to do until I had given your medicine a trial. Before I had taken one bottle the swelling began to disappear. I continued to use your medicine until the swelling was entirely gone. When the doctor came he was very much surprised to see me so much better."—MRS. MARY SMITH, Arlington, Iowa.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was sick for two years with falling of the womb, and inflammation of the ovaries and bladder. I was bloated very badly. My left limb would swell so I could not step on my foot. I had such bearing down pains I could not straighten up or walk across the room and such shooting pains would go through me that I thought I could not stand it. My mother got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me to try it. I took six bottles and now, thanks to your wonderful medicine, I am a well woman."—MRS. ELSIE BRYAN, Otisville, Mich.

Terrible Mistake.

New York, Aug. 14.—A special cable dispatch to the Evening World today, dated Chefoo, August 9, via Shanghai, says:

A terrible mistake occured at the taking of Yang Tsun. The Russian artillery opened fire on the American troops. Before the mistake was discovered many American soldiers had been killed or wounded by Russian shells.

The Fourteenth United States infantry took part in the attack on the Chinese trenches. As the Chinese fled the regiment entered and occupied one of the Chinese positions. A Russian battery some distance off did not notice the movement. It opened fire on the position and planted shells among the American troops. The Russians were quickly notified and ceased their fire.

My Condition Could Have Been No Worse. In the fall of 1897 I contracted Blood Poison. I tried three doctors, but their treatment did me no good; I was getting worse all the time; my hair came out, ulcers appeared in my throat and mouth, my body was almost covered with copper colored splotches and offensive sores. I suffered severely from rheumatic pains in my shoulders and arms. My condition could have been no worse; only those afflicted as I was can understand my sufferings. I had about lost all hope of ever being well again when I decided to try S. S. S., but must confess I had little faith left in any medicine. After taking the third bottle I noticed a change in my condition. This was truly encouraging, and I determined to give S. S. S. a thorough trial. From that time on the improvement was rapid; S. S. S. seemed to have the disease completely under control; the sores and ulcers healed and I was soon free from all signs of the disorder; I have been strong and healthy ever since.

FIGHTING ON THE VAAL RIVER.

Methuen Is Thought to Have Intercepted Gen. Dewet's Forces.

London, Aug. 10.—The following report, dated Pretoria, August 8, has been received from Lord Roberts:

"Kitchener was informed yesterday by an escaped British prisoner that Dewet's wagons had crossed the Vaal. Afterward I heard the sound of guns, which I think must have been Methuen's, as I directed him to take up a position between Potchefstroom and Lindique, where he could intercept the enemy, who crossed the river at Dewetsdorp. Kitchener is crossing the Vaal with cavalry and mounted infantry.

"Hunter reports that he made 1440 prisoners in the Bethlehem-Harrismith district, a majority of whom are now en route for Cape Town. Three guns and 10 wagon loads of ammunition and 195,000 rounds of ammunition were destroyed.

"The garrison of Elands river, which I fear has been captured, consisted of about 300 bushmen and Rhodesians. I had hoped that Carrington had been in time to withdraw the garrison, but it seems that Delarey, learning of Ian Hamilton's approach to Rustenburg, hurried westward and surrounded the garrison before Carrington arrived.

"Methuen telegraphs that he engaged a part of Dewet's force yesterday near Bentersknoon. He drove the enemy off of a succession of hills, which they held obstinately. Our casualties were seven killed or wounded, including four officers."

HOT WEATHER IN THE EAST

THIRTY-THREE MET DEATH.

Records for Heat Broken—Children Suffer Most—Reports From Cities Where Heat Was Worst—101 at Washington.

New York, Aug. 12.—Death reaped a harvest Saturday from New York's humidity. At least 33 persons died in the city and vicinity, 30 from prostrations and three children from falling from fire escapes, on which they had crowded to get some relief from the torturing heat.

Since August 6, when the temperature was 91, the conditions have been growing worse. All in all it is the hottest continuous weather New York has had.

The greatest sufferers were the children. Within the four days, during which the heat has been oppressive, there has been an average of 66 child patient at Bellevue dispensary alone, the ages of the children ranging from five months to two years. There was no more humidity today than has previously been reported, being .53 per cent early in the morning and advancing during the day. Many horses were sunstruck.

At Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Six deaths here were due to the heat Saturday and there were 25 prostrations, three of which will prove fatal. The mercury touched its highest point at 3 o'clock, when 93 was reached in the weather bureau office. Down on the street it was 95 and 97.

Hottest in United States.

Washington, Aug. 12.—Sunday this was the hottest city in the United States. The official thermometer at the weather bureau registered 101.

A Death at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Aug. 12.—One death was ascribed to the heat today, also one prostration. The record for eight days shows nine deaths and 18 prostrations of grown people and about 25 fatalities due to heat among infants.

Two Deaths at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Aug. 12.—The mercury rose to 95 Saturday afternoon. The deaths by sunstroke were two. There were nine prostrations.

At Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Aug. 12.—Two deaths and eight prostrations by heat is the record for Saturday. The government thermometer registered 98 at 4 o'clock.

Passing of the Horse.

So soon as nature sees an improvement there is a change. The candle gave way to electricity and the horse to the automobile. The fact that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has been sold for over a half a century, proves its value. There is nothing to equal it for stomach or liver trouble. Be sure to give it a trial.

WHERE CUSTER FELL.

The national cemetery, which occupies the scene of the massacre of fifteen officers and 247 men of the 7th cavalry, is two miles from the Crow agency, Wyo., and the stone house erected for the custodian and the grim shaft of granite which marks the spot where Custer made his last stand are visible from the Burlington railway. The cemetery is as dry as a bone and Custodian Grover is compelled to haul water used there. This is a military cemetery intended not only for victims of the Custer massacre, but the bodies of all the soldiers killed by Indians in that section.

Gen. Terry, in June, 1876, was able to bring the flatbottom steamer Far West up the Big Horn river within a few miles of the battlefield, where, two days after the massacre, he learned from the lips of Curley, the Crow Indian scout, that Custer had been annihilated. As soon as the number of the Indians were disclosed General Custer sent Curley to notify Gen. Reno and Col. Benteen, who commanded the other batalions, of the situation and order them to join his force as soon as possible. Many think Curly might have made his way through the lines of the enemy, but when he saw the warriors bearing down upon Custer's little command he fled for the nearest shelter and remained concealed until the day after the fight when Gen. Terry appeared. Curley is now living on a farm near the agency. He is sober, industrious and makes money. White Swan, another Crow scout who was with Reno in the fight, lives here. He was badly wounded and draws a pension from the government.

When Gen. Terry arrived at the battlefield the Indians had scattered over the country, and, assisted by the survivors of the 7th cavalry under Reno and Benteen, he buried the dead where they fell and marked each grave with a stake. Where the bodies could be identified the names were given, and afterward marble slabs were erected. The field at present is inclosed by a wire fence, and Custer's last stand is near the northern boundary the summit of the ridge. Around Custer lay the bodies of some thirty soldiers, including his two brothers, and it is apparent he is one of the last to fall. You can see clearly by the location of the marble slabs over the field where attempts were made to rally and drive back the savages. At several spots are groups of 30 and 40 headstones standing closely together. Then there will be an interval of a few scattering stones showing where the men dropped in retreat, one, two and sometimes three together. Far from their fellows in remote parts of the field are white stones standing alone. These indicate that some of the soldiers endeavored to escape and were shot down by their pursuers.

The bodies of two of the officers were never found—those of Dr. Potter, the surgeon of the regiment, and Lieut. Harrington of Tom Custer's company. Mrs. Harrington became insane, with a mania that her husband was a prisoner among the Indians, and visited several of the agencies in the northwest searching for him. Several years ago the skeleton of a man and horse were found in a coulee four miles from the battlefield, which some people think might have been Harrington's. This theory is chiefly based upon a story told by one of the Indians who was engaged in the fight. Harrington rode "Sorrel Dan," the fastest horse in the regiment, and it is said he in trying to escape was surrounded by Indians who attempted to take him alive, but as his horse fell wounded he drew his revolver and fired a bullet into his own brain. Shortly after the Custer expedition leaving Ft. Lincoln Harrington wrote a melancholy letter to a friend, full of forbodings. He felt that he would not return alive, and illustrated his premonitions by sketching himself tied to a tree, with a band of howling savages throwing knives at him. That he said would be his fate, and it is perhaps true that, failing to escape, he took his own life as related by the Indians. This letter and sketch, which unfortunately fell into the hands of Mrs. Harrington caused insanity.

Jack Stillwell, one of Gen. Sheridan's favorite scouts, is now in charge of Buffalo Bill's ranch near Cody in the Big Horn basin. It was he who carried the message from Gen. Sandy Forsythe when the latter, with a band of scouts, was intrenched behind a barricade of dead men and horses upon a little island on Republican river in 1868, surrounded by several thousand Indians. It was imperative to get word of their predicament to the garrison at Fort Harker, 40 miles away, and Stillwell then a mere boy, volunteered for the duty. It was a perilous mission. Forsythe's command was surrounded on all sides and it was necessary to pass through the Indian lines. When darkness fell Stillwell stripped the body of an Indian warrior that had fallen in a charge upon Forsythe's little band. He clothed himself in the war trapping of the dead savage and crept through the Indian tepees. But the camp was so large that morning dawned before he could escape and he sought refuge in the carcass of a dead buffalo which lay on the side of a hill. Carefully covering himself with the hide and head of the dead buffalo, he lay there all day with the Indian children playing around him. When darkness came again he crept out and made his way across the plains to Ft Harker, where he delivered Forsythe appeal for rescue. It was written in simple language and gave no idea of the desperate plight of the beleagured scouts Within two hours after Stillwell's arrival at the fort 1000 dragoons were galloping across the prairie with Stillwell at their head, and the Indians scattered before they arrived. A son of Henry Ward Beecher was with Forsythe and was killed the first day of the fight. Writes Wm. E. Curtis, who visited the scenes July 28, last.

THE Spangle Sun has ceased to shine. It was dead for some time but its ghost haunted us of late. Now the ghost is dead.

GOV. ROOSEVELT'S western itinery will include Idaho. In this state he has many ardent admirers. The rough rider is to be tagged by Towne who will only be a mere side-show.

DUBOIS and Heitfelt returned from Chicago and are now attempting to unite the populists and democrats on one state ticket. The silver republicans have all come in out of the wet—returned to their first love—except a handful who are after office.

A SON of Judge Claggett, who has just returned from the Philippines to his home in the Cœur d'Alenes, and who has served several years on the islands subduing the Filipinos, announces that he is in favor of holding the islands and will work for the election of McKinley.

JOHN J. INGALLS, senator from Kansas for three terms, and who made the senate chamber ring with his sarcasm and ironies, died last week. He feared no man in the chamber but many feared his tongue. Circumstances of temperment, possibly both in part, prevented Mr. Ingalls from attaining the rank among statesmen which many of his gifts justified him in expecting.

THE voters of Washington will have opportunity, November 6, to vote on the following constitutional amendment: "That the Legislature shall have power, by appropriate legislation, to exempt personal property to the amount of $300 for each head of a family liable to an assessment and taxation under the provisions of the laws of this state, of which the individual is the actual and bona fide owner."

AT Chicago last week Gen. Joe Wheeler said: "We are now a great world power and the destiny of the human race is in the future to be largely guided by our influence. This should be impressed upon the rising generation and the memory of the flag of our country floating over the school house and songs breathing patriotic devotion within its walls should be indelibly connected with the first impressions of the youth of our land."

LAST week Gov. Steunenberg visited Salt Lake and the Daily Tribune had this to say: "The Governor smiled a far-away smile when asked what he thought of the way his party had dealt with him at Pocatello, and smiled again when he was asked what he thought of Fred Dubois' chances for election to the United States Senate. But his excellency declined to express any opinion, although he stated candidly that he held decided views on the situation."

LISTEN to what Henry Watterson, the democrat, says of Gov. Roosevelt: "Youthful, well balanced, a gentleman, a cow-puncher, a man of letters, a man of action, a clear-headed politician, a dashing soldier, he has the respect of those to whom ability, both mental and physical, appeals, and he has the admiration of those whom accomplishment, whether in the field of politics, arms of literature, impresses."

F. A. FENN, chairman of the republican central committee of Idaho, makes these statements: "After making a thorough canvass of the southern portion of the state, I am convinced that the republicans will carry every county. The populist demand for a majority on the pardon board conceded by the democratic nominee for governor has tended to weaken the fusion cause, and many democrats will vote the republican state ticket. Silver republicans have but a name in Idaho. All have returned the party's fold."

A FARMERS' trust has been organized in Kansas. The object of the trust is to control the prices of agricultural products, and in the printed prospectus, which reads like a populist convention platform, the farmers of that state are admonished to hold on to their wheat and not sell a bushel for less than a dollar. The trust not only proposes to grapple with the octopus, but will act as selling agent for its members for the usual commission. The head agent claims to have pledges of cooperation from several thousand farmers, and expects to control the sale of the greater part of the 78,000,000 bushels of wheat and the 400,000,000 bushels of corn harvested in Kansas this year. If the grain is held until $1 per bushel is received for it, the Minneapolis millers headed for the Palouse will have to push up on the price of our cereal.

THE coming political fight in Montana promises to be the most dramatic ever fought in the west. No principle or policy at stake—just two democratic millionaires want to rule the state and corral the United States senatorship. Clark and Daly are the rivals. Both factions are laying pipes and stringing wires with a view to commencing operations soon. The influence of the newspapers are being bought up and new ones started. It will be a three-cornered fight—Clark and Daily will have a state democratic ticket and the the republicans will have a state ticket. The republicans will have a good show of winning if too many of them are not bought up by the opposition. Mr. Daly never gives up and in his own picturesque language promises to keep up the fight until the bottomless pit freezes over, and then continue the controversy on the ice. The fact that he was turned down and Clark recognized at Kansas City only made Daly the more determined and revengeful.

THE republicans will open the state campaign August 25th at different points. They expect to have two very effective and brilliant orators from outside to expound republican doctrines eloquently and logically. Judge Stanrod, the nominee for governor, and Hon. P. M. Bruner will open the campaign at Bonner's Ferry August 25th and work south through Latah and Nez Perce counties. Are billed to to speak at Moscow September 6, Genesee 7, Kendrick 8. Will hold forth at Leland September 11, Lewiston 12, Orofino 13, Stuart 14, Grangeville 15, Denver 17, Cottonwood 18, Morrow 19. Mr. Bruner is said to be a very effective public speaker. He was formerly a populist but left that party a year ago.

THE figures of the total commerce with Cuba, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines show in each case a marked growth, especially in exports. To Cuba the total export of the year are $26,513,613, against $18,616,377 in the fiscal year 1899, and $9,561,650 in 1898. To Puerto Rico the exports in 1900 are $4,640,435, against $$2,685,848 in 1899, and $51,505,980 in 1898. To the Philippines the exports of 1900 are $2,640,558, against $404,193 in 1899, and $127,804 in 1898. To the Samoa islands the exports of 1900 are $146,267, against $56,522 in 1899, and $39,982 in 1898. To Gaum the exports of 1900 are $13,247, against $6,883 in 1899, and $4,070 in 1898. Thus it will be seen our trade with the different islands is rapidly increasing. Then why not hold them? Commerce between this country and Puerto Rico during the two months in which the new tariff act has been in operation shows an enormous increase over that of the corresponding two months of the preceding year—more than double. This is the more observable because of the assertion which has been frequently made this summer that the island is practically impoverished since the big storm last year. Let us increase our trade.

—A 72-year-old recruit has passed the doctors' examination for the Imperial Yeomanry. He had served 28 years in the Black Watch, the Gordons and other Highland regiments, and has six sons serving in the army, four of them at the front in South Africa.

—Pres. Blanton loses in his case against the regents of the university asking that they be prohibited from interfering with his exercise of the office of president of that institution. His complaint cites that he was employed for three years at $4,000 per year, that he has been removed without cause and without an opportunity for a hearing and that he has been damaged thereby in his profession. Judge Steele holds that court cannot interfere with the action of the regents under the law.

—The farms of Kansas yield this year over $160 to every man, woman and child in the state.

—Looks like we were going to have an early fall. Wallace reports heavy frosts and snow on Sunset Peak.

—Hawaii has closed its last school for teaching the native language. Hereafter the young Hawaiians will be taught to talk English.

—Flamoe & Wolmer, enterprising threshers, mourn the loss of about $280 because one of our renters sold his crop and pulled out for other fields before squaring bills.

—The fall term of the Lewiston normal opens September 5th. The past year added twenty-three to the roll of its alumni, and the coming year promises even a larger class.

—During last month forty-two carloads of horses were shipped from Mountainhome to Chicago, Kansas City and Omaha. Rexburg shipped 1,000 lambs or 15 carloads to Chicago last week.

—The Japanese Foreign Office announces that the government of Japan has prohibited all emigration of Japanese laborers to the United States and Canada. That is good news. Now let China do likewise.

—On Union Flat and Penewawa Creek, threshers are charging 10 cents per bushel for threshing bound grain from the shock, and 7 cents per bushel for threshing headed grain. The price was formerly 6 and 7 cents. The advance is due to large straw, small yield of wheat and the high wages which threshers are obliged to pay.

—J. C. Elder is so well pleased with the outlook for the sugar beet crop that he says he will plant 75 acres next season. He believes that the sugar beet industry will be the means of giving the farmers a surer crop every year and eventually stop the practice of planting wheat and taking chances on low price and poor yield, says the Mirror.

—A Pullman cow, according to the Tribune, was suffering from an abscess. A veterinary surgeon found a metal point protruding between her ribs. He extracted 13 inches of the steel rib of an unbrella, with the fork, and a second piece several inches in length. Since its removal the cow has grown steadily better. The concensus of opinion is that the cow swallowed the rib with hay and it worked through the stomack and side.

"Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach" says O. P. M. Holliday, of Deming, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoouful of water and he got better at once. Sold by all druggists.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy took two doses and was entirely cured' says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called another doctor who treated him for some and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said no. I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. For sale by all druggists.

Chinese are dangerous enemies, for they are treacherous. That's why all counterfeits of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve are dangerous. They look like DeWitt's, but instead of the all-healing witch hazel they all contain ingredients liable to irritate the skin and cause blood poisoning. For piles, injuries and skin diseases use original and genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Story of A Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. Geo. D. Williams of Manchester, Mich., says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, menancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. It is a godsend to weak, sickly, run-down people. Cure guaranteed. Only 50c. Sold by Kennedy, druggist.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. Look out for them. It cures piles and all skin diseases.

Russia's occupation of New Chwang without adequate reason has caused the decision to land troops at Shanghai, in which Great Britain is supported by Japan. Germany, apparently, is paying no heed to Russia's action in the north, but objects to the action at Shanghai, and proposes to offset it by stationing a squadron there.

A sensation has been caused by the discovery that Wharton Barker, middle-of-the-road candidate for president on the populist ticket, is ineligible for the office to which he aspires. It is said that while superintending some improvements in Russia some years ago Mr. Barker was made "lord of St. Wiecesiass" by the czar. Before accepting the title he did not ask congress to grant him the privilege, and he is therefore ineligible because he forfeited his citizenship by accepting the honor without permission of the United States.

Such a furious ebullition of race hatred as found vent in the rioting that occurred at New York recently, the outgrowth of the murder a few days ago of Officer Thorpe by a negro named Arthur Harris, has not been equaled in New York in many years. As a result of the disturbance, which raged from midnight until 3 o'clock and burst out in a flame of passion and violence at intervals until daybreak, there were about 50 persons injured by pistol balls, razors or knives, rocks and clubs. Of these, one negro, Lloyd Lee, may not recover and of Policeman Kennedy is also seriously injured.

CHINA IS FOR PEACE NOW

WANTS THE U. S. TO START IT.

Li Hung Chang Made Application to All Powers—He Does Not Ask Any Favors—War Still Continues—Empress Escaped.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The Chinese government, through Li Hung Chang, has made application to the United States for the appointment of Minister Conger or some other American official, with authority to open negotiations for the establishment of peace and for fixing definite terms for the settlement of the present trouble. The application came to the Chinese minister today and was taken by him to the state department.

Li Hung Chang's application for the appointment of a peace commissioner expresses willingness to conduct the negotiations at a point desired by the powers, and it is expected that this will be Pekin or Tientsin. A similar application has been made by Earl Li to all of the powers interested. His suggestion of Minister Conger as the commissioner is based on the idea that as Minister Conger has been rescued he has now the opportunity to proceed to the point where the negotiations will be held and conduct them. The application does not suggest any particular terms, nor does it ask for the withdrawal of troops. It requests that the negotiations shall be for the purpose of bringing about a cessation of hostilities.

Allies Still Fighting.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The Japanese legation has received several important dispatches. One received from Tokio, dated August 19, says:

"After entry to Pekin was effected by the allied troops the Chinese troops on August 15 betook themselves to and remained in the imperial palace. A body of Japanese troops was told off to guard the palace, and there they met with obstinate resistance by the Chinese troops. Fighting is still going on. The headquarters of the Japanese army is in the legation and the division is mainly quartered in the villages outside of An Ting Man."

Another telegram, dated the 19th, gives the report of the Japanese consul general at Shanghai, saying Sheng credits the report that the empress dowager and probably the emperor also had left Pekin, as the privy council crossed Luken bridge on the 15th bearing the banner of the imperial cortege. Also that Prince Ching is still in Pekin, although Prince Juan has followed the empress dowager.

Cable From Remey.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The bureau of navigation has received the following cablegram from Admiral Remey:

"Taku, Aug. 20.—I have an authentic report from Pekin, dated the 15th, from Lieutenant Latimer. The troops are moving on the imperial city and clearing out the Tartar city. All the Americans who remained in Pekin are well except one child. Captain Myers has recovered from his wound, but now has typhoid fever, the crisis having passed and he now being convalescent. Assistant Surgeon Lippett was wounded in the upper left leg, the bone being fractured. The leg was saved and he is now recovering. The following were killed during the siege in Pekin:

"Sergeant J. W. Fanning, Privates C. D. King, J. W. Tucker, J. Kennedy, R. E. Thomas, A. Turner and H. Fisher. The wounded were Private J. Schroeder, elbow, severe, now dangerously ill with fever; Seaman J. Mitchell, upper arm, severe, now recovering. All the other wounded and sick have returned to duty.

"Casualities in Major Biddle's command in an attack on Tan Pating were First Lieutenant Butler, chest; Private Green, wrist; Private Warren, right temple, all slight. It is reported from Chinese sources that the royal family have escaped and are en route to Sian Fu. "REMEY."

Dowager and Emperor Escaped.

London, Aug. 21.—The Japanese cavalry has left Pekin in pursuit of the dowager empress and her court, according to telegrams from the north received at Shanghai by Chinese officials. These dispatches aver that the empress and her treasure train, protected by 30,000 troops, have already arrived at Wu Tai San, in Shan-si province. The field telegraph north of Yang-thsun is interrupted and nothing under Pekin date appears to have reached Yang-thsun since August 17. Heavy rains have been falling in the province of Pe-chi-li.

Germany's Views.

Berlin, Aug. 19.—The flight of the dowager empress and the disappearance of the emperor of China are here regarded as of much greater and lasting importance than the taking of Pekin, and the complications resulting therefrom are speculatively discussed by the press, and in political circles the overwhelming opinion is that, since all the powers have agreed to install a strong central government at Pekin, it becomes necessary first to destroy, or at least render harmless, the fugitive government, which is responsible for the whole Chinese eruption. Therefore, it is claimed, it is necessary to follow and capture the fugitives. This probably will call for the employment of large additional forces besides those which are now in China.

Surmises as to whether the United States, Great Britain and Japan will also share their influence or leave the burden to Russia, France, and above all, to Germany, fill the papers today. The German government adheres to the view that perfect harmony prevails among the powers regarding immediate action in China. A number of papers express deep satisfaction with the ignoring of the reichstag and the whole of the emperor's China policy, declaring it far exceeds the limits laid down by Count von Buelow, the minister of foreign affairs, in his circular to the ruling princes of Germany, on July 11.

TRADE REPORTS.

New York, Aug. 17.—Bradstreet's report for last week was as follows:

Among the favorable features reported this week are advices of further expansion in fall trade distribution at leading western centers, with relatively the best buying proceeding from those sections of the southwest which have profited by good crops, a rather better distribution by dry goods jobbers at the east, a firmer tone and a perceptible growth in confidence, accompanied by heavy buying in some classes of steel and iron, and a disposition and belief that an average corn and oat crops are assured. Steady increase in current gross railway earnings over a year ago and an exceptionally favorable net earnings reported for the first half of the year are additionally encouraging features. The list of unfavorable elements in the trade situation is at best a negative one, the approach of a presidential campaign, though less effective than usual in this respect, the backward demand for spring woolens and the slow demand for the raw material, the restriction in production of some makes of cotton goods, the dullness in building materials, notably lumber, and the backward inquiry for boots and shoes at the east being among these. Speculation in nearly all lines, and especially in food products, is at a low ebb, and what price changes are noted are mainly because of this, though weather and crop conditions have played some part in wheat, corn and cotton, respectively.

The money market, as a whole, is still easy, the only increase in demand being noted at the west, where trade is expanding, but where moving crops are still in the future. The prices of staples are perhaps slightly irregular, but changes are small and the large number of staples are unchanged.

Wheat (including flour shipments) for the week aggregate 3,319,642 bushels, against 3,318,760 last week, 4,040,009 in the corresponding week of 1899, 3,988,348 in 1898, 5,316,803 in 1897 and 2,991,693 in 1896.

From July 1 to date this season wheat exports are 21,001,280 bushels, against 26,165,069 last season and 22,343,076 in 1898-99.

Corn exports for the week aggregate 3,017,089 bushels, against 2,890,704 last week, 5,531,405 in this week a year ago, 3,196,021 in 1898, 3,929,035 bushels in 1897, and 2,769,601 in 1896.

From July 1 to date this season corn exports are 24,881,114 bushels, against 32,526,669 last season, and 20,228,365 in 1898-99.

President McKinley's Plan.

New York, Aug. 21.—A dispatch to the Herald from Washington says:

President McKinley is considering the advisability of proposing to the powers the organization of an international congress which shall sit in China and recommend to the several governments represented a permanent solution of pending questions.

The president recognizes the fact that the duties United States Minister Conger would be called upon to perform would be so exacting and arduous that it would be unfair to ask him to take the additional burden of discussing a method of settlement of the matters in controversy; that Special Commissioner Rockhill will be too busily employed in obtaining information and in communication with high Chinese officials to give time to them, and that direct negotiations between the powers is likely to prove unsatisfactory and give rise to complications which might otherwise be avoided.

Talks with diplomats here indicate that their governments would be willing to join in a congress for settlement of the Chinese question, and the German charge d'affaires, Baron von Sternberg, has been suggested as the representative of Germany.

Steel Works Are Closed.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 19.—The puddlers, helpers and mill hands of the Diamond State Steel company received notice that they were indefinitely laid off until the mills resume running. It is estimated that 1000 to 1500 hands are affected. The employes were notified in case they wished to return to work when the mills start again to leave their names with the foreman.

Chicago's Population.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—A dispatch from the census bureau at Washington, received, makes the population of this city 1,698,575 people. This is an increase of 599,725, or 54.4 per cent, over the 1890 census figures.

Mrs. Pinkham

The one thing that qualifies a person to give advice on any subject is experience—experience creates knowledge.

No other person has so wide an experience with female ills nor such a record of success as Mrs. Pinkham has had.

Over a hundred thousand cases come before her each year. Some personally, others by mail. And this has been going on for 20 years, day after day and day after day.

Twenty years of constant success—think of the knowledge thus gained! Surely women are wise in seeking advice from a woman with such an experience, especially when it is free.

If you are ill get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once—then write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Von Waldersee Has Sailed.

Berlin, Aug. 21.—Field Marshal Count von Waldersee, accompanied by his staff, has left Berlin, en rout for China.

Supreme Court Sustains the Foot-Ease Trade-Mark.

Justice Laughlin, in Supreme Court, Buffalo, has ordered a permanent injunction, with costs, and a full accounting of sales, to issue against Paul B. Hudson, the manufacturer, of the foot powder called "Dr. Clark's Foot Powder," and also against a retail dealer of Brooklyn; restraining them from making or selling the Dr. Clark's Foot Powder, which is declared, in the decision of the court, an imitation and infringement of "Foot-Ease," the powder for tired, aching feet to shake into your shoes, now so largely advertised and sold all over the country. Allen S. Olmstead, of Le Roy, N. Y., is the owner of the trade-mark "Foot-Ease," and he is the first individual who ever advertised a foot powder extensively over the country. He will send a sample Free to any one who writes him for it. The decision in this case upholds his trade-mark and renders all parties liable who fraudently attempt to profit by the extensive "Foot-Ease" advertising, in placing upon the market a spurious and similar appearing preparation, labeled and put up in envelopes and boxes like Foot-Ease. Similar suits will be brought against others who are now infringing on the Foot-Ease trade-mark and common law rights.

Small Corn Crop in Kansas.

Kansas City, Aug. 21.—Two-thirds of Kansas, west of the three easternmost tiers of counties, is experiencing one of the most severe drouths in the history of the state, and the general opinion is that the Kansas corn crop will be the smallest in proportion to its requirements for feeding that has been raised in many years. In 1899 there was 225,000,000 bushels. Secretary Coburn's report of conditions in August indicated a yield this year of about 145,000,000 bushels. Since then there have been two weeks of hot weather, which has further materially reduced conditions, and the most liberal estimates of well informed men on change do not exceed 100,000,000 bushels, while many place the crop at not over 75,000,000 bushels. The plowing for winter wheat is delayed by the dry conditions of the soil. Pastures are dry and stock water in many cisterns is scarce.

England Irritated.

London, Aug. 20.—England is thoroughly irritated over the government's seemingly changeable course respecting the landing of troops at Shanghai. Even the semblance of yielding to pressure by the powers or the Chinese viceroys is regarded as impairing British prestige in the east and in Europe. The papers, from the Times down, are lecturing the government on its supposed vacillation and faint-heartedness. British troops, after all, occupy the nerve center of the richest region in China, which sustains 150,000,000 of people, and were landed with the consent and approval of the powers. The foreign office adjutants are bewildered at the ado raised throughout the country by what they consider an amusing little game of Lord Salisbury, ending to England's advantage.

Drowned While Bathing.

Cape May, N. J., Aug. 21.—Ellen Young, Salina Newhouser and Albert J. Schwab, all of Philadelphia, were drowned in the surf at Cape May point today. They were bathing and got beyond their depth. Schwab made a noble effort to save his companions, holding their unconscious bodies above the water for some time. Just as a boat which went to their rescue reached his side he loosened his grasp on the women and sunk out of sight. The women were taken ashore, and although the usual methods for resuscitating drowning people were resorted to, they could not be brought back to life. Schwab's body has not yet been recovered.

There are 271 log school houses in Michigan.

SHANGHAI THE NEXT POINT

OUR GOVERNMENT SATISFIED.

Many Dispatches Received—Will Bring Troops Toward Shanghai—Trouble of Allies to Be Adjusted if Possible.

Washington, Aug. 19.—The government, now fully satisfied by the the advices that the international troops have entered Pekin and that the legationers are saved, is camly awaiting detailed statements from its own officers. Dispatches are received from General Barry, at Chefoo, and Consul General Goodnow, at Shanghai, repeating the main fact of the capture and relief. Neither General Chaffee nor Admiral Remey was heard from, however, and it is to them, particularly to the American commander at Pekin, that the government looks for advices, not only on what has occurred, but on the local developments from which an intelligent determination can be made of what still remains to be done.

The President, Secretary Root, Acting Secretary of State Adee, Acting Secretary of the Navy Hackett and other officials were in conference during the afternoon. It was said afterwards that no additional details had come concerning Pekin, and it was understood that the conference had to do with the situation at Shanghai.

Word reached the navy department during the afternoon that the United States cruiser New Orleans had reached Shanghai, at which point British warships and transports are already in force, while the French, Russians and Germans are hurrying their men to the same destination. The American government so far has kept out of the entanglement, and in view of the reported landing of the troops by some of the powers, it was stated that the landing of American troops had never been contemplated.

Although the officials declined to give out any specific information, it is understood generally the government was in possession of word that the landing of the British forces was begun today, and it was probable that this would be followed by the landing of German and French forces. As these several forces had as the ostensible purpose of their landing the maintenance of peace and order, it is not assumed to be likely that any disorder can arise from the course pursued. As a result of the conference held today, it is believed that a dispatch was forwarded to the commander of the New Orleans, advising him of the course to be pursued.

The general situation at Shanghai caused by the proposed landing of British troops and the protests of Germany and France continues to be strained, although the authorities are rather more hopeful of satisfactory adjustment than heretofore.

The state department does not treat the matter as at all grave, and regards it rather as a misunderstanding, one side holding that British activity is confined to Shanghai, while the other insists that this activity is desined to cover the whole Yangtse region. One of the diplomatic officials who have been most active in the affair said today that in any event there could be no serious rupture, and even if troops were landed it would increase the security and order prevailing. It seems to be accepted that if the British troops land, German and French, and possibly Russian troops also will land. About 1000 French troops have arrived at Hong Kong, destined for Shanghai, and German ships are now on their way to the same point.

The German, French and Russian charges d'affairs called separately at the state department today. The situation was discussed, but no important changes developed.

The general policy of the government towards China heretofore has been made known both to General Chaffee and Minister Conger and it was stated authoritatively tonight that there was no necessity of sending these officials additional instructions.

The fact is emphasized by administration officials that the policy of the government is stated in Secretary Hay's note of July 3 and that nothing can be added now to that document except an elaboration of the points stated therein.

The dispatch from General Yamaguchi, giving the details of the capture of Pekin, was accepted by the war department officials as giving the most satisfactory account thus far received. General Yamaguchi is in command of the Fifth army corps with the rank of major-general and is regarded as one of the fighting generals of the Japanese army. His report discloses for the first time that the Americans shared in the assault on the city, and that they marched with the British troops to the south gate, while the Japanese and Russians operated against the east gate.

What was most noticeable in the Japanese report was that the Japanese killed are given at 100 and the Chinese killed at 400.

All Will Watch.

As the result of an exchange of cablegrams between the powers concerning affairs at Shanghai, an agreement has been reached by which all the admirals of the several powers represented at Shanghai will act concurrently in a survey, or watching, of the Chinese Yangtse fleet, instead of having this duty performed entirely by the British admiral at Shanghai. This Chinese Yangtse fleet consists of four cruisers and several torpedo boats and destroyers. As many transports are carrying troops of the various powers to China, it has been deemed necessary to see that the Chinese warships did not attack the unprotected transports.

The British commander has been executing the watch alone, but under the new arrangement all will share in this responsibility. The United States cruiser New Orleans is or will be at Shanghai within the next day or two, and she will participate with the other foreign ships here in this duty.

Later.

The cablegram from Admiral Remy contains some important information not mentioned by General Chaffee. He makes the startling statement, on Japanese authority, that the inner city of Pekin was being bombarded by the allied forces. Admiral Remey says also that the dowager empress is detained in the inner city by Prince Youngedo. Advices received last night from the foreign office at Tokio, Japan, by the Japanese legation in this city, confirms and amplifies previous accounts of the capture of Pekin by the allied troops.

Two Guns Captured.

London, Aug. 21—The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Roberts:

"Ian Hamilton captured two Krupp guns at Oliphants nek August 11. Three British were wounded. Hamilton engaged the Boers all day August 19, at Roodekopjes and Crocodile river. There were few casualities.

"Rundle reports that 684 Boers surrendered in the Harrismith district August 19."

Colonel Hore Relieved.

London, Aug. 19.—Lord Roberts reports that Colonel Hore, who was besieged at Elands river and has just been relieved by Lord Kitchener, lost 12 men killed and 48 wounded, including Lieutenant Colonel DeLisle.

The tripping feet—the sparkling eye—the graceful movement—belong not alone to the budding maiden.

These graces are the right—aye duty of every woman until the hair whitens—and regal dignity replaces them.

The mother who guards her strength has so much more to devote to the care and education of her dear ones. She should be a comfort—a cheer—always.

Yet how many feel that they have the strength to properly balance the home? The world is listless, weary and morbid. Its blood moves sluggishly and is full of impurities. It needs a kindling, invigorating tonic to set it afire—it needs Pe-ru-na, in the world which women may rely upon positively. Pe-ru-na is good for everyone, but particularly for women. The various weaknesses which afflict their delicate organism spring from inflammation or catarrh of the mucous lining, and Pe-ru-na is a specific for catarrh in any organ of the body. Any congestion of a mucous membrane simply means catarrh of the organ affected. This is why Pe-ru-na cures all sorts of troubles where other remedies fail. If there is a catarrhal affection the matter with you anywhere Pe-ru-na will cure you.

THE ONE MEDICINE

BAD BLOOD, BAD COMPLEXION.

The skin is the seat of an almost endless variety of diseases. They are known by various names, but are all due to the same cause, acid and other poisons in the blood that irritate and interfere with the proper action of the skin.

To have a smooth, soft skin, free from all eruptions, the blood must be kept pure and healthy. The many preparations of arsenic and potash and the large number of face powders and lotions generally used in this class of diseases cover up for a short time, but cannot remove permanently the ugly blotches and the red, disfiguring pimples.

Eternal vigilance is the price of a beautiful complexion when such remedies are relied on.

Mr. H. T. Shobe, 2704 Lucas Avenue, St. Louis, Mo., says: "My daughter was afflicted for years with a disfiguring eruption on her face, which resisted all treatment. She was taken to two celebrated health springs, but received no benefit. Many medicines were prescribed, but without result, until we decided to try S. S. S., and by the time the first bottle was finished the eruption began to disappear. A dozen bottles cured her completely and left her skin perfectly smooth. She is now seventeen years old, and not a sign of the embarrassing disease has ever returned."

S. S. S. is a positive, unfailing cure for the worst forms of skin troubles. It is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and the only one guaranteed purely vegetable.

Bad blood makes bad complexions.

SSS purifies and invigorates the old and makes new, rich blood that nourishes the body and keeps the skin active and healthy and in proper condition to perform its part towards carrying off the impurities from the body.

If you have Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Salt Rheum, Psoriasis, or your skin is rough and pimply, send for our book on Blood and Skin Diseases and write our physicians about your case. No charge whatever for this service.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A PANIC AT THE BIG FAIR.

Second Serious Accident Cast Gloom Over the Festivities.

Paris, Aug. 19.—A second serious accident has happened at the exposition. It occurred upon the occasion of the most successful fete given, casting a deep gloom over the city. It had been decided to give a night fete befitting the day, when the prizes were distributed, and consequently all the buildings were brilliantly illuminated. All the Paris exposition was crowded, including the bridges joining one part with the other, and it was on one of these wooden structures, that joining the Invalides to the Italian pavilion, that the accident occurred.

It was rumored at first that the bridge had fallen, but it was found that this was not absolutely correct, as only the hand-rail on one side had given way under the following circumstances:

Just before 11 o'clock some one passing over from the direction of the Champs de Mars, shouted: "It creaks," and although there was no justification for the cry it was repeated by the crowd, causing a panic. Through the pressure of the crowd on the Invalides side, 30 persons were precipitated to the roadway, three yards below. Two of these were killed. Most of the victims were women.

The minister of commerce, M. Millerand, visited the scene and President Loubet sent General Dubois to represent him.

Hideous Murders.

Leavenworth, Kan., Aug. 21—Dr. Arrington, in Platte county, Missouri, near Leavenworth, shot and killed James Wallace, a wealthy farmer, and Mrs. William Wallace. James Wallace and Arrington, who were neighbors, had quarreled over a line fence. Wallace was greasing his buggy this morning when Arrington approached and without a word fired two shots, one taking effect in Wallace's head and the other in the breast, killing him almost instantly.

Arrington then drove across the river to Leavenworth, taking his young daughter with him, purchased 250 cartridges and returned to the home of Mrs. William Wallace, a widow, who was his mother-in-law. Arrington entered the woman's house unbidden and shot her to death before she could make an outcry. Arrington then climbed into his wagon and drove off with his daughter.

He was pursued by Sheriff Dillingham and a posse. The posse came up with Arrington near Farley. The man opened fire, wounding Dillingham in the breast and producing a fatal wound. As he fell Dillingham shot Arrington through the heart. Saturday night Arrington drove his wife away from their home by threatening to kill her. She slept in a cornfield and is still in hiding.

SEN. MASON BLAMES HAY

THE ALASKAN LINE QUESTION.

He Says British Got Too Much Land—Boundary Line Marked Plainly—Will Bring Action of Hay Up in Next Congress.

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—Senator Mason, of Illinois, who has just returned from Alaska, is in this city. In speaking of the boundary situation, he scored Hay, saying: "Secretary of State Hay is anything but an American, and he has committed an act for which he will be called to account in the next congress. Fifty-seven years ago the United States bought from Russia certain territory in the north, and that territory has been held and protected by our government for more than half a century. The boundary line is marked by a church and a monument at one point and it made me indignant to see the British flag had driven out the Stars and Stripes from a highly valuable territory. This is the assinine work of Mr. Hay in agreeing to a temporary line of boundary. The American policy, which is well fixed, is to never give up a foot of land that has been honorably obtained, and this policy should most certainly be followed in Alaska. It is anything but a pleasant experience to have American miners come to one with tears in their eyes and show where they are ruined by the fact that the protection of the flag had been taken from them and they had been placed under the dominion of the British. There is no excuse for the situation in the northwest, and the matter will most certainly receive serious attention in the next congress."

The companion, a half brother of the unfortunate man, is in jail and may give some valuable testimony, being the only eye-witness.

—On the fifth of September the Lewiston Normal School will begin another year under the most favorable conditions. The past year added 23 to the roll of its alumni, and the coming year promises even a larger class. Numerous applications for admission have been received from students so that the enrollment is likely to exceed that of any year in the previous history of the School. Two well equipped Dormitories where the cost of board and room will not exceed $2.50 a week, plenty of room at a low rental for self-boarders, a first-class faculty, and a fine equipment for teaching Science, are among the substantial attractions of this institution. The Training Department will be under the direction of Mrs. S. B. Hawes of Boise, who will also have charge of the Girls Dormitory. This will insure a profitable year for the Senior Class in the application of Methods and a delightful home for all who enter the Dormitory. The Boys Dormitory will be under the supervision of Prof. H. L. Talkington. are practically annihilated by the ocean cables and land telegraph systems which now belt the circumference of Old Earth in so many different directions. "Foreign parts" are no longer foreign in the old meaning of the term. Europe, Africa, Asia, are "next door" to us. What happens there to-day we know to-morrow—if we read THE CHICAGO RECORD, whose Special Cable Correspondents are located in every important city in the world outside of the United States. No other American newspaper ever attempted so extensive a service; and it is supplemented by the regular foreign news service of The Associated Press. For accurate intelligence of the stirring events which are shaking the nations—of wars and rumors of wars—of the threatening dissolution of old governments and the establishment of new—of the onward sweep of the race in all parts of the world—the one medium of the most satisfactory information is the enterprising, "up-to-date" American newspaper, THE CHICAGO RECORD.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 24, 1900.

—Register before it is too late.

—Miss Pearl Follett went to Pullman yesterday.

—Mox Ebel is now employed in a dry goods store in Spokane.

—Geo. McMahon is making himself useful at the Herman hardware store.

—Conant & Conant now handle Geo. W. Pitkin Co's celebrated paints.

—Lars Asleson is out and gradually growing stronger, we are pleased to report.

—See Rosenstein's new ad. Will tell you more about the new goods in our next issue.

—Mrs. Fannie Gilbert came down from Pullman early last week for a visit with her people.

—Miss Pearl Owen returned from Sprague last week and reports Mrs McKenna recovered her usual health.

—James McIntyre, a former Genesee resident, recently joined the regular army at Spokane and is now enroute to China.

—The rain came yesterday just to give the harvesters a chance to rest a little. And the wetting will help the feed situation.

—The school board met and decided to start up school on the third Monday in September—the 17th. Remember the date, scholars.

—Mr. and Mrs. George had a few words yesterday and then May took the train for Wardner, Spokane and Spangle. Harold accompanied her.

—Watch and chain was lost by W. M. Welch on Lewiston grade one day last week. Finder will please leave same at News office and get suitable reward.

—John Reed came in from the Gage-Nordby wheat field where he saw piled up over 10,800 sacks of No. 1 cereal. If the price was a third high er the toilers would have some cash out of that amount of wheat.

—The following themes will be the foundation of sermons Sunday morning and evening respectively, at the Methodist church: "Vows," "The Conversion of St. Paul." A collection will be taken for Church Extension cause.

—Peter Johann has a new variety of wheat or grain called Speltz. He received 52 sacks from one acre and a half, or 80 bushes to the acre. People say the grain makes excellent flour. Mr. Johann's wheat averaged 34 bushels to the acre, the Broemling boys got about the same.

—The new addition to the R. H. Russell warehouse is completed and Robert has lots of room now to handle grain. Everything is arranged very convenient for handling wheat. Give Mr. Russell a portion of your grain—he will treat you right. He has lots of money to loan on wheat tickets at 8 per cent. See ad on opposite page.

—Dr. Ehlen looked after a case of appendicitis the past week. John Fuchs near Leon is afflicted with this disease and was taken to the Colfax hospital Wednesday. Later.—Mr. Fuchs died at Pullman on this way to the hospital. Too bad. He leaves a wife to mourn his sudden taking away, having been married a year.

—Mrs. Jacobs, mother of Nick Jacobs, returned from her summer's visit at St. Cloud, Minn. With her came two of her relatives, Miss Anna Warner and Lena Kiepbach, the latter from Rockville. They report poor crops in Minnesota and the Dakotas and that many people want to come west. What the ladies have seen of Idaho the past ten days they think it a very productive country and superior to the east.

—Word comes from Moscow that the 1900 teachers' institute is one of the most successful in the history of Latah county. Superintendent Headington may congratulate herself on the fact that she is assisted by an able corps of instructors and that the teachers of the county are present in large numbers and as a rule exemplify the spirit of progress, and a determination to climb higher in their profession. About 200 persons are in attendance.

—Geo. H. Raymond has purchased C. H. DeBow's interest in the fruit and cold storage business at Genesee. Mr. Raymond's intentions are to enlarge the business and work up a good trade among the wholesalers of Montana and the Dakotas. He will personally oversee the packing of fruits and has had handsome labels printed. Mr. Raymond expects to do quite an extensive business this season and we trust he will be successful. A couple of carloads of fruit boxes, barrels and kegs were received this week for use of the orchardists in this vicinity.

—Ladies Aid meets with Mrs. R. Pickering next Wednesday.

—Excursion to the Ringling circus, Spokane, next Monday.

—Dr. and Mrs. Phillips were Genesee visitors from Lewiston Saturday.

—Mrs. Cecelia Spurbeck returned from a two week's visit in Spokane last week.

—Though in his 73rd year, Jules Verne is at work on a new book of travel.

—D. E. Thornberg, district organiser and insurance rustler of the Modern Woodmen of America, has been laboring in this community.

—Mrs. J. Rosenstein and Miss Gussie left Wednesday for a visit with friends at Portland. Miss Gussie will attend school at Portland the coming year.

—Parties ordering small packages shipped from the east will do well to call at depot and enquire as to difference between express and freight rates before doing so.

—The election for the purpose of electing two members of the school board will be held on the first Monday in September, the 3rd. The members retiring are H. F. Krum and Geo. L. Mochel.

—Mel Lovell's threshing crew took a few days rest. Their machine got to chewing straw so ravenously that few of the concave teeth played out. It was necessary to send to Spokane after new molars.

—Preaching service will be resumed at the Congregational church next Sabbath. Subject for evening service: "The deceitfulness of riches." Sabbath school at 11 a. m. C. E. meeting at 7 p. m.

—W.N. Gibbs is so nearly recovered that he sometimes forgets and limps on the wrong foot. He fell from a hay stack over a month ago and ever since has been unable to do any work. The accident came at a time when his services were most needed.

—Mr. Nordby has rented the Daggett residence opposite Easterbrooks and will move his family to town in a few weeks. Mr. Nordby is nearly through with his year's work and is feeling pretty good, having over 8,000 bushels of wheat and some other grain to his credit.

—The cornfields in this community are looking well this year. James Willows on the Rimrock has a large field that is looking exceptionally fine. The farmers should save seed from the best and most productive spots—the ears should be large and firm. Corn is a plant which tends to acclimatize itself in places where at first it does not do its best. Corn grown in a colder climate will do the best here.

—Cool is laid up—fell off the walk.

—Attorney Stillinger was a visitor from Moscow last week.

—Chas. Power visited Spokane from Saturday until Tuesday.

—Our city is having lots of substantial crosswalks built now.

—Announcement of fall and winter goods is made in the Bee Hive advt.

—Miles Miller, cashier of the Colton bank, and daughter Edith, were Genesee visitors Saturday.

—Mrs. Mathews is here from Pendleton visiting the Geo. Daggett people for a few weeks.

—Dr. Lemman returned Monday from Spokane and reports Mrs. Lemman's mother recovering.

—Neighbor Higgins is a pretty lonesome man since Mrs Higgins left on a visit with the Finch people at Wallace.

—The farmers east of town are keeping Robert Gray busy in the harvest fields and won't allow him to come to town. Pretty tough on a retired farmer.

—E. J. Dyer, president of the Spokane Exchange National Bank, Geo. R. Dodson, a prominent jeweler, and R. J. Hurd came down Tuesday for a two days' hunt for the feathery tribe.

—Mr. Kays expects to be able the middle of next week to give his new fruit dryer a test. It is to be of 6 ton capacity and it is Mr. Kays' intention to dry considerable fruit for his neighbors.

—Editor Herman of the democratic paper at Moscow, Idaho Independent, was a visitor at the NEWS office Wednesday. We found him an agreeable young man, lively, with apparently one fault, a lover of Col. Bryan. Mr. Herman is getting out a live paper and if he keeps up present licks will make it interesting for his opponents. Call again, neighbor.

—Frank Fraley, a cousin of Charley Kays and who came out from Nebraska a week ago to look over Idaho, met with a painful accident Sunday at Oscar Niles' place. While at tempting to ride a horse into a barn he threw up one of his arm and in some manner it was broken at the wrist. He came to town with Charley and had Dr. Ehlen reduce the fracture and is now doing nicely.

—The elements have been entertaining the people in the prairie states east of the Rockies and put up good exhibitions. Each engagement included some lively acting in lightning, wind, hail and rain Considerable damage is reported to crops and buildings in many places, and after the circus passed one town the editor of a paper writes "the dealers in glass have since been having a brisk trade." The hot weather brought forth several twisters.

—Work is progressing nicely on the new school building.

—W. H. Rozen is up from Lewiston assisting in storing away grain in Elevator A.

—Vincent and Joe Lorang are out from the Salmon to assist in gathering the grain.

—Geo Rabald is getting in a good stock of fall and winter goods at the Rosenstein store.

—Miss Rachel Biram returned home Sunday from a week's visit with her friends at Moscow.

—Mrs. Andrew Jacobson and sister arrived from Tacoma last week and will remain awhile.

—Will Dorchester left for Spokane Tuesday to resume his position as brakesman on the Great Northern.

—The Beechler and Wood large fields of beans are exceptionally fine and the work of harvesting will soon begin.

—The Gailbraith boys had limbs bruised and broken the past week—from a horse and hay press. Dr. Conant is administering relief.

—W. T. Adderly, operator at Spokane, and wife, visited Genesee Saturday and Sunday, returning Monday with Mr. Herman's Belgian hares.

—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kays came up from Lewiston to spend Sunday with his people and to inhale our cool and exhilerating atmosphere. Charley is as handsome as ever.

—Tom Tierney has a very heavy stand of wheat. Two machines at tempted to cut it but were compelled to withdraw because of the height and thickness. Gus Tonning nearly lost himself in the grain.

—You can see the big Ringling circus at Spokane on the 27th and 28th of August if you have the price. The Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets on the above dates good to return on the 29th $4.55

—That field of flax belonging to Billy Gage, Fred Bressler and Thos. Brewer yielded a little over twenty bushels to the acre. NEWS visited this field July first and prophesied it would yield 18 bushels, but the neighbors said that was too high by many bushels and that the NEWS had wheels. How now? Mr. Brewer gets a fine hat on the strength of the big yield.

—For the benefit of outside readers the NEWS will give more information regarding the crop yield of this community; for in no other way can it better tell what the soil and climate is doing. The tally of the threshing machines give Clark De Bow 40 bushels of wheat per acre, Rue Burdic on the large Grant field 37 bushels of wheat, on the Burdic ranch 32 bushels, John Anderson 40 bushels, W. A. Ingle 35, Mr. Moreshaick 35, M. Beechler 35, Wm. Mervyn 37.

A short time ago Prof. Harry Thurston Peck, in the interests of science, declared he never taken part in any gigantic enterprise such as the construction of steamships, railroads, etc. Evidently he had not heard of the native women of India, who make up a large proportion of the laborers in the engagement of public works. employed all over India are women and girls, said to be quite as efficient as men, digging canals, making embankments, working on roadways and building railroads.

Poison recently ended the life of a 33-year-old Connecticut woman who was not only remarkable in herself, but also in the peculiar quality of husband she possessed. It was while she was indulging in her eighth consecutive elopement with other men and the seventh case of forgiveness on the part of her better half that the latest and finishing phase of her fate overtook her. There is nothing in the circumstances, however, to affect Connecticut's historic claim to being the Land of Steady Habits, for anything more steady after one elopement than one and this in the way of pardoning is rather hard to realize.

In the six rocky Mountain States of Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nebraska, Utah and Wyoming, agriculture is largely dependent on irrigation. The administration of the water supply is regulated by law, and costs about one dollar per acre. Nebraska and Wyoming have water commissioners, who receive all applications and determine all controversies. In the other four States there is much litigation. But when the ranchman is water rights are once established, he thinks himself far more sure of regular crops than the farmer in "the humid States," where there is always liability of drouth or excessive rainfall, while he has the exact amount of moisture he needs when he wants it, and at no other time—and always on tap.

A couple of years ago an old gentleman who has great common sense remarked: "Don't wake up the Chinese. They are now sleeping; they can work for nothing; there are millions of them. If they once learn our system of manufacturing we cannot compete. Don't wake up the Chinese." It begins to look as if this statement were true with regard to military matters. The speedometer which the foreign powers have to solve is an intricate one. The Chinese have been laying in great stores of ammunition, guns, etc. If their soldiers are drilled in modern tactics it would seem an impossible task for the foreign powers to subdue them. If China remains a united empire the task is impossible. If it is split into several kingdoms, each independent of the other, there may be some chance for foreign powers to establish governments on a modern civilized basis. The consequences of "waking up" 350,000,000 people may be serious.

Despite repeated and unquestionable proof of its poisonous nature, the sale of the cigarette is increasing. If it is not to become a prolific cause of physical and moral degeneration, especially among the young, more efficient and more general means must be exerted against its use. It is known to produce in children disorders of the nervous system ending in hopeless imbecility. The insane asylums have had to open a new column of statistics for its victims. Its deleterious effects are not confined to insanity, but easily and heroically become constitutional. Many corporations, especially those dealing with human life, tolerate among their servants no one who drinks intoxicating liquor while on duty. The effects of the cigarette upon the brain are worse than the effects of alcohol. One great Chicago corporation has announced that it will carry on its pay rolls no one who uses the cigarette. General opposition of this practical nature may check the sale of the poison. Moral and scientific protests have proven ineffectual.

That the remarkable growth of outdoor sports in the last twenty years is the salvation of those who are unfortunate enough to be handicapped by wealth and fettered by leisure is apparent to the most casual observer. A man does not need to be an athlete or a tennis player or a wheelman to note the effect of these fine outdoor pastimes upon those whom stern necessity has not condemned to ordinary physical employments. Netmaking, golf and rowing have received all applications and determine all controversies. In the other four States there is much litigation. But when the ranchman is water rights are once established, he thinks himself far more sure of regular crops than the farmer in "the humid States," where there is always liability of drouth or excessive rainfall, while he has the exact amount of moisture he needs when he wants it, and at no other time—and always on tap.

Bacteria as Purifiers.

At the last meeting of the Society of American Bacteriologists Prof. Klinkauf gave an account of the change of opinion now occurring in England in favor of the purification of the sewage of cities by means of bacteriology, which, disseminated through it, rather than by chemical treatment, as heretofore employed. The bacterial system, he thought, offered the cheapest and most effective method of purifying the sewage so that it may be discharged into rivers without polluting them.

Speak but little and let that little be the truth.

GOD WILL SPRINKLE SUNSHINE.

If you should see a fellow man with trouble's flag unfurled
An' lookin' like he didn't have a friend in all the world,
Go up and slap him on the back and holler, "How d'you do?"
And grasp his hand so warm he'll know he has a friend in you.
Then as him what's a-hurtin' him, an' laugh his cares away,
And tell him that the darkest night is just before the day.
Don't talk in graveyard palaver, but say it right out loud,
God will sprinkle sunshine in the trail of every cloud.

This world at best is but a hash of pleasure and of pain;
Some days are bright and sunny, and some all slashed with rain;
And that's just how it ought to be, for when the clouds roll by
We'll know just how to 'preciate the bright and smiling sky.
So learn to take it as it comes, and don't sweat at the pores
Because the Lord's opinion doesn't coincide with yours.
But always keep remembering, when cares your path enshroud,
That God has lots of sunshine to spill behind the cloud.

A THOUSAND ODD.

"OLD on, Fred! Got something to tell you!"

Fred Harkins turned, and seeing his special chum Charley Green sprinting toward him, stopped and waited for him to come up.

"Why weren't you at school this forenoon, Fred?" Charley, breathlessly.

"Too busy," answered Fred, with an important air. "Jerry's sick to-day and father's away, so I'm boss at the store. But what have you got to tell me, Charley?"

"Why, I caught that big woodchuck! He's a smasher, Fred! Come and look at him, just a minute?"

"Oh, can't stop. Don't think I'm that way," replied Fred, as glancing around he saw a well-dressed stranger on the piazza of the village hotel near by. Though bright and sensible, Fred was over-fond of "showing off," as the phrase is, and he thought this a good chance. So "winking at Charley he went on: "Besides, there's all the money father's going to put in the bank to-morrow lying there in the safe. A thousand-odd's too much to fool with."

"That's so!" said Charley, catching up the joke. "Well, come over after you close up, then."

"All right!" and the boys separated, Charley for afternoon school, and Fred for his father's grocery.

Fred had often helped about the store, but he had never been "boss" before. Let a boy average but of 14 be was very proud of the position. He hustled round, imitating his father and every one clerk, and feeling every inch a man as he waited on his customers.

Finally closing time came. The youthful proprietor, having put everything in order that was just preparing to leave when the door opened and a man stepped inside.

"Gives me change for a five," he said, abruptly.

At a glance Fred recognized the well-dressed stranger on the hotel piazza. But something, perhaps the shadowy form the flaring lamp, now gave his face a hard and even desperate look. Instantly the boy recalled

"Everything put away," he objected. "It's too late for business."

"Not for my kind of business, I reckon," answered the man with a harsh laugh. "Come, cut with it!" There was the click of a key in the lock, a sudden gleam of steel, and Fred found himself facing the revolver not three feet away and pointed straight at him.

Fortunately he was brave and quick-witted. "Out with what?" he repeated, trying to gain time to think. "What do you want? Change for five dollars?"

"I want the thousand-odd in the safe," was the impatient answer. "And be quick about it!"

In an instant Fred realized what his silly boasting had done. The well-dressed man was a robber, evidently a criminal in disguise. What would he do when he found himself disappointed?

Fred braced himself up to tell the truth. "Why," he said, forcing a laugh, "the money isn't really there. That was just a joke of mine."

"Oh, cut that out!" the stranger. "And this is a joke of mine!" pointing the pistol nearer. "But unless I have that money inside of two minutes it will be the worst joke you ever knew, my boy!"

This completely staggered Fred. How was he to convince the robber? Perhaps by showing him how small a sum there really was. Unlocking the safe, he took out the money. Forty-seven dollars, all told.

"There," he said, pushing it forward. "It's all there is. You can see for yourself."

Still keeping his aim, the man stuffed the bills into his pocket with his left hand. "That's the odd," he said. "Now where's the thousand?"

"But there isn't any thousand—" the poor boy began, but interrupted the robber. "If you don't hand over that money before I count fifty, I'll let daylight through you!"

Felt that that the desperado was in earnest. A cold sweat broke out over him. His heart beat like a drum in his ears. Yet still his wits kept at work as he mechanically followed the fatal numbers.

Thirty!—How many more seconds now?—Thirty-five—A faint sound suddenly reached his ear. Had his father returned? Now if he could only gain time!—He held up his hand. The man stopped counting.

"So you've come to your senses?" he muttered, with savage triumph. "Bring on the thousand, then!"

"Yes—" hesitated Fred, as slowly as he dared. "Yes—I'll get it for you! If—if you'll promise me my share—"

"You precious young rascal!" The robber started forward. There was a flash, a report, a confusion of sounds—and the room seemed to whirl round with Fred.

When his wits came back again, he found himself standing just where he had stood a few seconds before. He was certainly alive and unhurt. But the robber? Beyond the spread smoke puff the boy saw a form lying motionless at his feet, while nearby, Tom, the big grocery cat, sat with his back up, spitting at a thin stream of blood that crept over the floor.

Next moment the locked door was violently shaken. "Fred!" shouted his father's voice. "Open the door, Fred! What's the matter?"

Fred ran to open the door. Mr. Harkin's anxious face cleared, for he had heard the shot, and feared some accident. Then he bent over the still unconscious form on the floor.

"What's the matter?" he repeated.

"A burglar—" stammered Fred, excitedly, pointing to the open safe. "He's got all the money!"

"Give me that rope," said his father. "He's more stunned than hurt, I guess. Lay the revolver on the counter. Now tell me just what has happened."

While the robber was being securely bound, Fred described what had taken place up to the point when the pistol went off.

"But how came he to shoot himself?" asked Mr. Harkins. "Did he stumble, or what?"

Fred's puzzled look changed to sudden comprehension. He burst out laughing. "Why, that's just it!" he exclaimed. "It must have been Tom."

"Tom? I don't see how a cat could fire a pistol," said his father, laughing.

"Well, he could make somebody do it fire it, if 'twas already cocked," persisted Fred. "I know the first thing I saw afterwards was Tom spitting, with his tail as big as two, and then he went asleep upon the shelf, and when the man went for me it waked him up, and he jumped down right in time to see then he jumped, too, and hit himself instead." Fred hurried on, with a reckless confusion of pronouns. Anyhow, there was a big noise just before the pistol went off," he added.

"H'm," said his father, who meanwhile had been searching the robber's pockets. "Here, Fred, lock this money up in the safe, and then run over for Mr. Greene. This fellow is going to wake up before long."

Fred soon came back with their neighbor Greene and Charlie into the bargain. Charlie missed the excitement of the whole affair as a first-class entertainment.

"Caught a burglar!" he repeated, in delight. "That's a jolly sight better'n my woodchuck!"

As Mr. Harkins thought, the desperado was more stunned than hurt, the wound proving very slight. He soon came to himself they put him, tied hand and foot, into the team and took him over to the county town, where he safely locked up. They learned afterwards that he was a notorious criminal, whose appearance had assisted him in all sorts of villainy. In fact, he was evading arrest in a distant State, when he was suddenly brought to punishment by Tom—as Fred believes.

Mr. Harkins believes so, too. She is convinced that the cat and nothing else saved her boy's life that night. Nothing else could have put away," he objected. "It's too late for business."

"Not for my kind of business, I reckon," answered the man with a harsh laugh. "Come, cut with it!" There was the click of a key in the lock, a sudden gleam of steel, and Fred found himself facing the revolver not three feet away and pointed straight at him.

Fortunately he was brave and quick-witted. "Out with what?" he repeated, trying to gain time to think. "What do you want? Change for five dollars?"

"I want the thousand-odd in the safe," was the impatient answer. "And be quick about it!"

In an instant Fred realized what his silly boasting had done. The well-dressed stranger was evidently a criminal in disguise. What would he do when he found himself disappointed?

Fred braced himself up to tell the truth. "Why," he said, forcing a laugh, "the money isn't really there. That was just a joke of mine."

"Oh, cut that out!" the stranger. "And this is a joke of mine!" pointing the pistol nearer. "But unless I have that money inside of two minutes it will be the worst joke you ever knew, my boy!"

This completely staggered Fred. How was he to convince the robber? Perhaps by showing him how small a sum there really was. Unlocking the safe, he took out the money. Forty-seven dollars, all told.

"There," he said, pushing it forward. "It's all there is. You can see for yourself."

Still keeping his aim, the man stuffed the bills into his pocket with his left hand. "That's the odd," he said. "Now where's the thousand?"

"But there isn't any thousand—" the poor boy began, but interrupted the robber. "If you don't hand over that money before I count fifty, I'll let daylight through you!"

Felt that that the desperado was in earnest. A cold sweat broke out over him. His heart beat like a drum in his ears. Yet still his wits kept at work as he mechanically followed the fatal numbers.

Thirty!—How many more seconds now?—Thirty-five—A faint sound suddenly reached his ear. Had his father returned? Now if he could only gain

AN ALLOWANCE.

I KNOW from my intimate knowledge of families that men are careless in the matter of allowances for wife and children. The best husband and fathers in the world are careless right here, and many a wife or daughter suffers daily humiliation rather than ask for money. Sons are different. They have little sentiment on the subject and are perfectly willing to ask for all they want. There is an amount of self-respect conveyed in an allowance, no matter how small. A woman feels that it is all hers, and experiences some of the satisfaction which a man feels in personal property or real estate. She can spend it as she pleases, and in nine cases out of ten she gets its full value by a judicious investment. I cannot imagine what would happen if I were suddenly placed where every cent of my spending money depended upon a weekly allowance. I cannot even call up such a picture in my present independent condition. I believe, however, that I should go beyond my allowance, and my husband would have a understanding on money matters, and state plainly that I must have some money to call my own or I'll run in debt. Before I could move he fired, and just plowed into the ground at my feet. He did not remain much longer in the tree. I have his knob-kerrie and his photo now as mementos.—From "The Matabele Campaign," by Major General Baden-Powell.

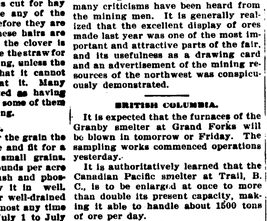
Curious Poison.

Certain Indians of South America use a curious poison which is called ecoal. A grain of it has the effect of starting an irresistible desire for exertion. The victim begins walking briskly round and round, and if he stops his legs drops dead in his tracks. There is no pain, but much excitement.

Unhealthy Sections of India.

The extraordinary unhealthiness of British India is fully detailed in a recent report of the Burma valley, which is estimated to contain about 2,500,000 people, there were only 75,000 births in 1898, but 94,000 deaths; and in the Assam valley there were 71,031 births and 85,000 deaths.

An Irish student says the posthumous works of an author are those he writes after he is dead.



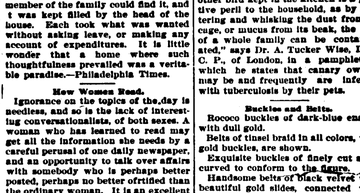
IMPROVED TETHERING DEVICE.

Horse Tie for Stables.

Horsemen will appreciate the value of the device pictured in the accompanying cut, the object of the invention being to reduce to a minimum the liability of accidents to the animal's feet tangled up in the tethering rope, and also to keep the rope out of the way while the animal is eating. By means of a specially constructed halter the connection is made on the upper instead of the under side of the nose strap, and the tie extends to a point level with or above the animal's head. The invention also includes an arrangement for taking up the slack in the rope, without in any way pulling on the halter sufficiently to annoy the animal. The rope is passed through the front of the manger, resting on a pulley, which may be adjusted to any desired height, and a small weight is attached to the outer end, which is sufficient to hold the rope taut, no matter in what position the animal puts his head. A patent on the device has been granted to William H. Bartrum, of Derby, England.

Cheap Poultry House.

A plan for a cheap double house for fowls of two kinds, which may be kept separate, or both may be kept in part, is here given. It is seven feet high at the eaves, eighteen feet wide, and may be as long as may be required. Five feet from the floor the flocks kept in it. For two flocks if it is divided in the middle, each half having its yard, which may be fenced in on the ends. Where the sun is not large one flock may be kept in the covered run, while



A DOUBLE POULTRY HOUSE.

One would not expect an infant of a few years or months to walk and talk, or to be physically and mentally developed as a child of several years. Why, then, should we expect the brain, the most complex thing built on or within the whole body, to develop so much faster than any other member? It is simply not possible or safe to force it. It is far better to allow the baby to take his amusement and mental development into his own hands at least for a time, and if he go beyond his powers or endurance, he will be restricted, and the progress will be slow and sure. Very little amusement outside of his own resources will suffice for him at first; for instance, taking the baby on your lap for a while, or giving him a chair to climb to the window, taking him to another room, and, when he is willing to go out, the daily airing, are all means enough for his amusement, and as much as he should have.—Mrs. Burdure.—Marianna Wheeler in Harper's Bazar.

Dressing the "creeping period" it seems impossible to keep baby's shoe thin a good condition for more than a day or two. Even the daintiest and the strongest of the new shoes become unsightly after a day's creeping about the floor. This can be avoided by fitting a cap of kid (cut from the top of your old shoe) to the little shoe. Let it come back as far as the hollow of the foot on the bottom, and to the buttons on the sides. Then run a row of stitches across the back and slip over the shoe across the ankle. This can be easily slipped off and on, and will save shoes and patience.

Renewing an Asparagus Bed.

An old and run out or neglected asparagus bed can be best improved after the season for cutting is over, by putting on a liberal dressing of manure in June or July and plowing it in, not taking much care to prevent breaking the roots or to save seedling plants. The plants are apt to become root bound, and they will grow all the better for a little breaking up of the matted roots. Keep the weeds out all the summer, and in early spring, or even in February, if the ground is open, put on from 600 pounds to a half ton of good fertiliser to the acre. This will push it along to make a good growth, and it will be better if it is not cut very freely that spring or not at all after the first of June.

Danger in Crimson Clover.

The little stiff hairs, only about one-eighth of an inch long, which are to be seen on the heads of crimson clover are barbed, and when the clover is ripe they are stiff and hard. When they are fed to animals they lodge between the tuno balls in the stomach and intestines, refusing to pass away in the excrement. Cases have been known where such balls have been inches in diameter, and with such a ball in the intestines it is almost impossible to save the life of an animal. For this reason when the clover is cut for hay it should be done before any of the heads mature, or even before they are in full blossom, while those hairs are soft and pliable. When the clover is grown for seed, do not use the straw for feeding or as for bedding, unless the animal is so fastened that it cannot reach the bedding to eat it. Many always ask your hostess what her plans are for the day and abide by them.

Keep your own room neat.

Disorder is most trying to the maid, who will complain of it.

All visitors should recollect that their evenings belong to the host and hostess, and they are expected to add to their enjoyment.

Absent yourself some hours in the morning, so that the mistress of the house will have a chance to settle her affairs. This sort of consideration is appreciated.

Be stone blind, deaf and dumb to all family matters of an unpleasant nature in a household. The putting out of the linen is a discipect to your hostess—bad form for yourself.—Washington Post.

Business Women's Dress.

The business woman especially, cannot afford to scorn the appearance of being well dressed, but she must be far-seeing and avoid exaggerations and conspicuous effects. Manufacturing styles, especially, are to be avoided. She may be stylish and becomingly dressed, but she will avoid anything like ostentation. She will eschew all jewels, except the needful watch. The tailor-made gown, well fitted and in black or some quiet, dark, neutral color, gives always a refined and ladylike air.

No Place for Canaries.

"In my opinion the canary or any other bird in the kitchen is a positive peril to the household, as by fluttering and whisking the dust from its cage, or mucus from its beak, the food of the family can be contaminated," says Dr. A. Tucker Wise, L. R. C. P., of London, in a pamphlet in which he has treated of the subject. The whole affair as a first-class entertainment.

How Women Read.

Ignorance on the topics of the day is needless, and at the lack of interesting conversationalists, of both sexes. A woman who has learned to read may get all the information she needs by a careful perusal of one daily newspaper, and an opportunity to talk over affairs with somebody who is perhaps better posted, interchange of views often better than the ordinary woman. It is an excellent practice to read every subject that interests the world, and that thing is not always done in the hurry of every-day life. Nearly every woman reads the newspapers after a fashion—the weddings and the deaths, the accidents, crimes, scandal and some of the general news. How many ever read the editorial page, from which better information on current events can be obtained than from any page in a paper? Men turn to editorials the minute they unfold the sheet, do it instinctively, because they have learned where to place the best reading matter.

Dress and Complexion.

Dark complexions, with sallowness in them, are greatly modified and improved by the juxtaposition of yellow. Yellow is a most becoming shade for nearly all brunettes. The cheeks with light hair and blue eyes, and with clear complexions, may wear pink, pale blue, mauve, heliotrope, myrtle green, and white. Black and white, particularly suited to blondes, especially when the eyes are gray and blue, but a gay costume should always be relieved by a touch of color here and there. It is generally a safe rule to repeat the color of the eyes in the dress; for this reason dark hair and blue dresses are always so attractive if worn by blue-eyed women. Fur is becoming to every complexion, being very softening in its effects, and all kinds of fur may be worn next the skin with impunity.

Wives Who Study.

How often a husband and mother bewails the fact that she has missed her opportunities of an education. There need be no such thought to her. She has her life before her, and it lies with her whether it shall be in interested, happy progress, or an aimless giving way to what she deems the inevitable. No child is the worse for its mother picking up the ends of her time and devoting them to study. No husband is less happy that his wife is a cheerful student as well as a housekeeper. There is much truth in the theory that the finds time for the things she really loves to do.

The Thin Girl's Temper.

No thin woman can afford to lose her temper. "Nothing," says a good authority, "will make you look so angular or give your face such an undesirable look as the free indulgence of your own will." A girl who was thin to a really painful degree gained thirty pounds in sixty days on the following regime: Twelve hours' sleep a day, well-ventilated and cold room in sleep in, with lots of fresh air all the other is let out. The house is a two story one, having built on common strips around the yard, and of rough boards covered with tarred roofing paper well overlapped to allow space. It is of a specially constructed halter the connection is made on the upper instead of the under side of the nose strap, and the tie extends to a point level with or above the animal's head. The invention also includes an arrange-

Selling Hay.

We have heard of a man who thought he was making money by selling his hay grass standing or hiring it cut and selling the hay. He had what is often called a natural grass farm, moist enough to insure a pretty good crop every year, when in fair condition. For many years he had run it as a dairy farm, keeping considerable stock, and manuring his fields heavily. At last old age and a well-earned competence decided him to leave the farm, and instead of renting it out to some one else to skin off what he had put on the land, he put it all in grass. Then he sold grass by the acre standing at the time, and when the fields began to get thin they were given a very liberal dressing of manure, and harvested as before. He received more than the fertilizer cost, enough to enable him to lay up more money than he could when working the farm. How long he would be able to do this we do not know, but we think the soil would soon begin to show a lack of some one or more other element of plant food. But if he succeeds according to his plan it will be by reason of the condition of the soil when he began, the liberal application of fertilizers would be likely to keep the condition good for a long time. Not every one could do so well.—Exchange.

MEANING OF DREAMS.

Crossing a bridge in a dream indicates future success in love.

A dream about a ghost indicates vexation, loss or disappointment.

Combing your hair in a dream betokens success in love, or trade, or both.

Fighting in a dream means that you will soon suffer some loss of property.

A dream about dice means a speedy arrangement from some very dear friend.

If you dream that you have an ague, the sign is that you will become a drunkard.

A dream of a smooth, clear river is indicative of future happiness and general success.

A dream of a new pair of shoes foretells that you will succeed against your adversaries.

To dream of seeing guns fired means future difficulties, generally of a business character.

To dream that you are drinking out of a wash basin is a sign that you are soon to fall in love.

To dream of eating beans is a foreboding of sickness and quarrels with your acquaintances.

A dream that you stand among buildings means that you will shortly change your residence.

To dream about a piece of bacon, particularly if it is on your own plate, means the death of a relation.

It is fortunate to dream about your relations, indicating prosperity and success in business enterprises.

To dream that you are driving cattle means that you will become rich through some enemy and lawsuit.

To dream of cats is always unlucky, and some unexpected misfortune is sure to follow during the next few days.

MINES AND MINING NEWS

OUR NORTHWESTERN MINES.

Items Gleaned From Late Reports—All Districts Are Being Developed—A Prosperous Year Is Predicted—Mining Notes and Personals.

A mineral exhibit for this year's Spokane exposition that will be far better than any made before is assured by Manager Hawley. Owing to the rather scant information that has been made known regarding the mineral exhibit this year the impression has got about that this end of the exposition was being side-tracked, and a good many criticisms have been heard from the mining men. It is generally realized that the excellent display of ores made last year was one of the most important and attractive parts of the fair, and its usefulness as a drawing card and as an advertisement of the mining resources of the northwest was conspicuously demonstrated.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

It is expected that the furnaces of the Granby smelter at Grand Forks will be blown in tomorrow or Friday. The sampling works commenced operations yesterday.

It is authoritatively learned that the Canadian Pacific smelter at Trail, B. C., is to be enlarged at once to more than double its present capacity, making it able to handle about 1500 tons of ore per day.

The first shipment of ore from the Le Roi No. 2 mines was made to the Northport smelter last week. It consisted of four carloads from the No. 2. All preparations are being made for regular shipments from that mine.

In July the St. Eugene Consolidated Mining Company paid out in wages $25,400. This is the largest sum ever paid out by the company in a single month. In May its pay-roll was $17,000 and in June $21,000. The increasing monthly pay rolls of this company are having a telling effect on the town, which is in a healthy and prosperous condition. Business in all lines is exceedingly brisk at this season and the merchants especially are reaping a harvest.

Contracts have been made between the Rossland Great Western Mining company and the Canadian Rand Drill company for the purchase of a 60-drill electrically-driven air compressor, to be delivered within five months, and with the West Kootenay Power and Light company for electric power to operate the machine. The contract for the electric motor, which will have 800 horse power, will probably be let to-morrow. The compressor is to be an exact duplicate of the one just completed at the Black Bear, but without the steam cylinder.' This machinery will be installed on the Nickel Plate flat between the boiler house and the mine. It will be connected with the other two machines on the Black Bear ground by pipe lines, so that any or all of the three may supply power to any of the British America corporation mines. When this machine is installed the nominal capacity of the British America corporation compressors will be 120 drills, but its actual capacity will be nearer 150 drills, for in large mines all the drills are not in operation at the same time and the number which can be operated is thus increased in proportion.

REPUBLIC.

A new strike is reported from the Big Six in Meyers creek district. The nature of the strike is unknown. The property is owned by McCarthy & Ryan of Chesaw, and is considered one of the best prospects in the district.

The biggest consolidation of mining interests in the history of the northwest is under consideration. The expected union is of several of the leading mines of Republic camp and the man most prominently identified with it is Senator Miller of New York. Senator Miller is known to represent the control of the Republic and Quilp and large eastern capital behind the movement. It is believed that an effort is being made to join to the Republic and Quilp one or more of the leading mines of the camp. What these are is not definitely known, but the Lone Pine-Surprise is mentioned as one and the Tom Thumb as another.

MINING NOTES.

The Antelope claim on Fifteen Mile creek, owned by John Hall and R. E. Lee, of Colville, is attracting considerable attention on account of its copper showing, which is improving with every shot.

Eighty carloads of machinery for the Sweeny syndicate are said to be on the road and expected to arrive soon at Sitles, Idaho, from which place it will be taken to the Hump over the new wagon road by way of Badger.

Seats in the Colorado City mining exchange have advanced from $125 to $3,850 within a period of two years, and Colorado City is not a mining district nor are there any great mines adjacent.

The final clean-up of the Sterlin mine in eastern Oregon, for the season, was completed last week and amounted to $9,000 ounces. The entire amount taken out during the season is about $100,000, which is an average yearly clean-up.

Assays of from $49.60 to $166.20 are reported to have been made of ore taken from a shallow shaft on the Silver King, on Bullion mountain, in the north end of Perry county. A tunnel is being run to cut the ledge 100 feet down. The Silver King is near the well known Silver Butte, and is controlled in this city.

It seems that the negotiations which for quite two months have been pending between the American Smelting and Refining Company and the lead producers, have resulted in a contract that will keep the price at $4 per hundred during the balance of the year.

The mine-owners in the whole Kootenay country have joined as one man in protesting to the Dunsmuir government at Victoria against the proposal to change the tax on ore from 1 per cent on the net output to 2 per cent upon all monthly shipments above two carloads.

An important discovery has been made near the well known Alamo, at Cedar Canyon. A big ledge running parallel to the Alamo ledge has been uncovered on the surface. It is 16 feet wide and averages about $13 in gold per ton. The find was made by J. G. McGuigan of the Alamo.

It is estimated that over $20,000 will be expended in development work alone in the New Era district this fall. The Jolly Boy and the Golden Era have now a good showing of shipping ore in sight. The New Era tunnel will be pushed forward to cut the ledge at a depth of nearly 500 feet.

The Ethiopia is the only property at present working in Long Lake camp, excepting, of course, claims upon which the custom assessment work is being done. A crosscut is being run at the 100-foot level of the Rambler, at Pass creek, where indications are favorable for a body of good ore being shortly encountered.

The water power of Post Falls, on the Spokane river, is to be converted into electrical power and to be transmitted to the Coeur d'Alene district and furnished to the mines for their operation. The project has been in contemplation for some time and it is learned on the authority of R. K. Neill one of the most prominent mining men in the northwest, who is the promoter of the big project, and who is associated with a number of the largest mine owners of the Coeur d'Alenes, that it has been definitely decided to go through with the matter and is taking it at once. The plans are for an electrical plant with a capacity of 5000 horse power. It is estimated that this will furnish sufficient power to operate all the Coeur d'Alene mines for from two to three years. The available power of the falls is about 10,000 horse power, and all of this will be used when required.

The Belcher, in Belcher camp, on the north half, is producing some fine ore. Ade ledge, which is from 4 to 6 feet wide on the surface, was the first attraction in the camp, but as work progressed deeper the ore appeared to widen, and at a depth of 60 feet the pay shoot measures over 9 feet and gives an average assay of from less than $20 per ton.

The Legal Tender Company is rapidly developing its group on John Tom creek, one mile east of Keller, and work is progressing both day and night on the 400-foot tunnel. On the 70-foot level they cut through slight feer of ore which assayed well in copper. They are now running a tunnel on the lower ledge and are in fifty feet, with fifty more to go before they reach the vein.

The rich strike made on Butte creek near Murray, Idaho, by the Simmons brothers last month has been followed by others every few days. The latest is on a claim called the Oro Fino, a mile and a half from the original discovery. A ledge of quartz from 12 to 20 inches wide has just been uncovered on the claim. The original strike was at a depth of seven feet and the ledge, ore ever found in the Coeur D'Alenes, and nearly the whole width of it was of a good shipping grade. This has created much excitement throughout the district at the time and there was a rush to the neighborhood. Prospecting has been going on since with good results. Work has been actively pushed on the original discovery and the big vein is showing well in depth, and are dangerous even before tasting food.

A machine to renovate and straighten out old tin cans is being successfully operated in St. Louis.

The recently organized International Brotherhood of Stove Mounters and Steel Workers will hold its first annual convention at Findlay, O., beginning October 1. The organization now numbers a total of forty organizations in good standing.

As long as a man is of a forgiving disposition he seems to wonder little whether he pays his debts or not.

There is a probability that the 24,000 organized builders in the United States will go on strike soon unless their demands are to be granted. At present $5 to $5.50 a ton be granted.

The National Cash Register Company of Dayton, O., is having labor trouble. On August 3 all the woodworkers in the company's employ struck. Work was continued in other departments until August 9, when the polishers struck, and it is reported that the factory will be closed indefinitely unless the strike is settled before next Monday. The strikers are members of the Amalgamated Wood-Workers' Association, and have quit work because the company refused to deal with their regularly appointed shop committee.

Already nine Victoria Crosses have actually been given for gallantry during the present war in South Africa.

The teamsters who struck about two weeks ago at Portland, Ore., for an increase in wages from $2.50 to $2.50 per day, have settled by compromising on $2.25 per day.

The upholsterers' national union has joined the A. F. of L. Watchmakers have formed a national organization and also applied for a charter.

On August 31 the local unions of Alabama will meet in convention in Birmingham to form a State Federation of Labor. It is estimated that about a hundred delegates will be in attendance.

The railway workers in Denmark are demanding a ten-hour day and an increase of wages. If this is not conceded a national strike will be ordered.

Wallace	20,000

Several others below $6,000.

—Last week Jack Driscoll on Driscoll ridge lost his barn, 30 tons of barley hay, a new top buggy, several sets of harness, seeder and other farming implements, Troy News tells us. Loss over $1000, no insurance. Hugh Hutchinson, for several years bridge carpenter of the Palouse branch, died in Spokane recently from appendicitis, which was caused by the swallowing of a watermelon seed at Kendrick a few days before.

—President Hill of the Great Northern railway will build a brick depot in Spokane and a large stone one at Seattle. Of the latter place he said last week: "Seattle has reached a point in her growth that it is as high as she can hope from her present resources, and that is why I have made such efforts to establish an Oriental line connecting with this point, and why I am today expending nearly six millions of dollars in the construction of two of the greatest freight-carrying steamships that have ever been undertaken in the history of the world. During the winter I shall lay the keels of two new steamers to be put upon a new line plying between Seattle, Honolulu and Hilo. These boats will be built at the same yards where our monster freighters are now being constructed, and this is a part of additional ocean trade that will be turned to Seattle. The Chinese war will not affect my Oriental plans in the least. Indeed, it may benefit them. Our trade may temporarily drop off—the trade of the nation, I mean—but the presence of so many American and European soldiers will serve ultimately to increase the sale of our food products and to introduce our manufactories and increase the demand therefrom."

Prevented a Tradgedy.

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, O., saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of its power to cure all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1. Guaranteed. Trial bottle free at Kennedy's drug store.

Mothers endorse it, children like it, old folks use it. We fer to One Minute Cough Cure. It will quickly cure all throat and lung troubles.

Into the future would sadden many a happy woman. The misery of marriage often results from ailments which maidenly modesty kept hidden. When doctors are at last consulted they frequently fail to help. They do not understand the root of the trouble. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has cured in thousands of cases where doctors entirely failed.

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness," writes Mrs. M. B. Wallace, of Muenster, Cook Co., Texas. "I tried four doctors and none did me any good. I suffered six years, but at last I found relief. I followed your advice, and took eight bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and four of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I now feel like a new woman. I have gained eighteen pounds."

Republican County Convention.

Moscow, Idaho, Aug. 4, 1900.

The Republican County Central Committee met this day in compliance with the call of the chairman for the purpose of determining the time and place of holding the county convention.

It was decided to hold the primaries in the different precincts on Thursday, August 30th, from 2 to 7 p. m., and the county convention at Moscow on Wednesday, Sept. 5th, 1900, at 10 a. m., for the purpose of nominating a county ticket. The representation was decided on the basis of one delegate for every 12 votes or major fraction thereof cast for A. B. Moss for governor in 1898, and one delegate at large from each precinct. Including the delegate at large, the several precincts will be entitled to the following number of delegates:

Cora	4	Palouse	6
Four Mile	4	Gold Creek	8
Pine Creek	2	Kendrick	12
Little Potlatch	5	Juliaetta	6
South Moscow	17	Bear Creek	4
Mt. Meadow	5	White Pine	6
Thorn Creek	8	Cornwall	5
Gold Hill	3	Troy	17
East Moscow	19	West Moscow	11
Genesee	18

It was then moved and carried that the central committee earnestly request all delegates elected at the primaries to attend the county convention in person and that each primary pass resolutions setting forth, that in the event of it being impossible for any delegate to attend, his or her proxy be carried and used only by a member of his or her own precinct delegation and that the county convention be urged to honor no proxy unless held by a delegate from the same precinct.

Committee then adjourned subject to call of chairman.

BRYAN and Roosevelt addressed big Chicago labor crowds Monday.

THE NEWS is sorry to learn that Clarence M. Eddy, who edited and published the Democratic Times at Moscow before it suspended, has been adjudged insane and ordered committed to the asylum at Blackfoot. The ailment is said to be hereditary, as one of his ancestors was afflicted the same way. Mr. Eddy was much given to writing verse, and during the last weeks of the defunct paper it contained a page of poetry written by himself and Shelby Sutton who became associated with him.

SOME shifting now but mostly from the Bryan party. Capt. Wm. E. English of Indianapolis is among the recent converts to republicanism. In a letter he says: "I care not the snap of my finger for party or private criticism. I care nothing for office I love liberty, I love equality of rights, and I love justice, and when the party I belong to is too cowardly to make a stand for the right, I leave it and leave it for good." At one time Mr. English stood high in the councils of the democratic party and was boomed for president.

WASHINGTON, Oregon and Idaho wheat-growers are to be congratulated. It matters little to them how the wind of commerce blows this year—they are sure of demand and profit anyway. With war in China and a big crop in Minnesota and the Dakotas, the farmers of the coast region would have been caught between fires and squeezed by low prices; but with war in China and poor crops in the Middle West, they are bound to receive good prices for all they have to sell. It is probable that we shall witthe rarity of Pacific Coast wheat being sold to Minneapolis millers—an invasion which would mark a new era in the agricultural history of the Northwest.—St. Paul Northwest Magazine.

THE old battle-scarred veterans at Chicago last week gave evidence that they were not in favor of lowering the flag on the islands. "No human being now living ever will see the flag come down." These words regarding the stars and stripes in the Philippines were spoken by Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, the Grand Army veteran and hero of Gettysburg, and express the universal sentiments of the veterans throughout the country. The storm of cheers and applause that greeted this utterance, as reported by dispatches, testifies to the feeling of the general public on the subject. Col. Bryan's proposition to haul down the flag at Manila and send our boys home in disgrace is no more popular in the east than on this coast. These veterans are from every state and their enthusiasm for McKinley's policy is a straw what the sentiment is from ocean to ocean.

IN the southern papers much space is devoted to "the consent of the governed." Many fail to distinguish the difference between the Filipinos and the colored race in their own states. Negroes of one country are no better than those of another.

THE Lewiston Teller makes complaint regarding Idaho's stringent prohibition measures, which it claims, do not prohibit. Says the gambling vice is more prevalent in Idaho today than at any time in the past. Larger sums are lost and won; and men are seduced into secret dens who would refrain from a more public practice. The strict provisions of the law enforce a rigid secrecy which seems to allure men to the gambling dens. The Teller may be correct, generally speaking, but Genesee must be excepted. It also alludes to the temperance law on reservations that does not prohibit. In face of the federal law liquor is so introduced, sold and consumed in extensive quantities all over the Nez Perce reservation. It contends that a man with a slight inclination to controvert ordinary social or legal restraint is aggravated by prohibitive measures, and is an easy victim of the sure-thing manipulators. The inexorable penalties of the Idaho anti-gambling law is fostering a host of these protected robbers, and the pacalls for a remedy.

THE position of the Uuited States will be favorable to the maintainance of the Chinese empire rather than to the partition of China among other powers. But there will have to be much investigation and discussion before wise and intelligent action can be decided upon, the Review of Reviews says. It seems to us that the situation affords a most excellent opportunity to set in motion that part of the machinery of the recent Hague Treaty framed at the peace conference which provides for international courts of inquiry as preliminary to the settlement of a dispute or difficulty. What the world most needs now, in the Chinese situation, is a correct understanding of all the facts. We know that the Chinese government has been guilty of serious duplicity; but how far that duplicity has gone, and to what extent the government has been responsible for the outrages committed by the Boxers, can be known only after considerable inquiry. Such investigation, of course, can be greatly aided by Pekin survivors like Sir Robert Hart and the members of the various legations; but it would be well if a formal court of inquiry were established. Germany shows a disposition to be very severe toward China, with the assassination of her minister as the principal excuse. The United States, as the most disinterested of all the powers, will be able to exercise great influence in the solution of some of the difficult international problems that must now be considered.

FROM WEST TO EAST, AND EAST TO WEST AGAIN.

Our trip to Boise was dry and dusty and without any particular incident. Boise city shows thrift and enterprise. Leaving here July 15 over the O. S. L. going east one can gain a very good idea of the southern part of Idaho. We traveled many miles almost parallel with the Snake river, which affords plenty of water for irrigation for this vast tract of land. At Granger the U. P. continues the chain of R. R. In Wyoming a person sees only a sage brush country for many miles, and devoted mostly to stock raising and mining. Cheyenne, the capital, is the largest city in that state and is quite a railroad centre. The U. P. passes through the southern part of Nebraska, one of the "great corn states of the middle west." Corn and other crops were not looking good. We noticed many acres planted to beets for sugar. Making sugar from beets is one of the leading industries here. Omaha, the chief city, has decreased 25 per cent in the past 10 years according to the census reports.

Iowa is a splendid state, and from the car window a person would judge that the crops were normal. The state of Illinois has but few equals. Here we arrived at Chicago where 2,000,000 people are on the "hustle." "Business is Business, that is what I say, look out for the automobile." Ten years makes many changes from the "Gem of the Mountains" to the second city in the union In seeing such a city as Chicago a person can in a great measure judge of the vastness of this great country of ours. The Michigan Central R. R. carries one out of Illinois, through Indiana, along Lake Michigan and into the state of Michigan. Here one finds similar conditions in agriculture, manufacture and commerce. Passing through the cities of Battle Creek, Albion, Marshall and Jackson, one sees the smoke of many furnace fires and hears the busy hum of machinery on every hand. Jackson and Ingham Co's are practically level. The farms are well tilled, and on every hand can be seen many varieties of shade trees—hard maple, butternut, walnut and fir. The U. S. mail is delivered every morning by the rural system in many places. And it is not uncommon for the farmer to have a telephone of his own. Creameries are established in nearly every city or town of any importance.

The general condition of the farmer is good and prices of farm products are in line with the general prosperity of the country at large. Wheat was selling at 75c, clover hay $6 per ton, beans $1.25 per bushel, hogs 5c, cattle in good demand, cows $45 to $50, lambs 5c, creamery butter 18c. The wheat crop is light owing to an insect working last fall. Other crops are promising.

Returning by the C. & N. W. and G. N R R. a person passes through Minnesota, N. Dakota and Montana. For miles and miles in Minnesota and N. Dak is seen a level country devoted to wheat raising. At this season of the year the wheat is cut and in shock. On account of the recent heavy rains the wheat is still standing in shock and reminds a person of the damp fall in Idaho in 1893. The opinion would be that much of this grain is unfit for market if thrashed. The famous Red River valley is as fine a looking country as a person ever saw, but it must be cold and desolate in the winter season. In Montana vast herds of cattle and bands of sheep are seen feeding on the short grass. Want of rain in the spring and summer of this year has almost destroyed every avenue of wealth in the northern part of these states.

The Palouse country with its many acres of grain has no equal. The agricultural counties of the Pan Handle of Idaho, rolling as they are, have many features to recommend them to the owner as well as the prospective purchaser. Thus we have run over a vast region of this country, and as far as careful observer can see, peace, prosperity and employment is furnished on every hand. Labor as well as wealth are marching on hand in hand. The West and the East are in a thriving condition, our people are all employed, and we should be contented.

F. D. HASBROUCK.

THE Wallace Press (dem.) says Shoshone county has been shamefully represented in the legislature for the past few years and now wants men sent to make laws who can spell cat and dog. It wants educated men sent to Boise. This is in line with the NEWS warning of last week. There is important work ahead and men of character and standing should be elected. Let us send our best men—no ignoramuses this time.

Endured Death's Agonies.

Only a roaring fire enabled J. M. Garrettson, of San Antonio, Tex., to lie down when attacked by Asthma, from which he suffered for years. He weites his misery was often so great that it seemed he endured the agonies of death; but Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption wholly cured him. This marvelous medicine is the only known cure for asthma as well as consumption, coughs and colds, and all throat, chest and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1. Guaranteed. Trial bottle free at Kennedy's drug store.

"Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach" says O. P. M. Holliday, of Deming, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoouful of water and he got better at once. Sold by all druggists.

Still More Counterfeiting.

The Secret Service has unearthed another band of counterfeiters and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always selected by counterfeiters for imitation, notably the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators but no equals for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and general debility. The Bitters sets things right in the stomach, and when the stomach is in good order it makes good blood and plenty of it. In this manner the Bitters get at the seat of strength and vitality, and restore vigor to the weak and debilitated. Beware of counterfeits when buying.

To prevent consumption quickly cure throat and lung troubles with One Minute Cure. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

The Bravery of Woman

Was grandly shown by Mrs. John Dowling of Butler, Pa., in a three years' struggle with a malignant stomach trouble that caused distressing attacks of nausea and indigestion. All remedies failed to relieve her until she tried Electric Bitters. After taking it two months she wrote: "I am now wholly cured and can eat anything. It is truly a grand tonic for the whole system as I gained in weight and feel much stronger since using it." It aids digestion, cures dyspepsia, improves appetite, gives new life. Only 50c. Guaranteed, at Kennedy's drug store.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy took two doses and was entirely cured' says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called another doctor who treated him for some and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said no. I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. For sale by all druggists.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. Look out for them. It cures piles and all skin diseases.

Republican County Convention.

The Latah county republican convention held at Moscow Wednesday, was very largely attended, every precinct being represented by full delegations. The delegates were enthusiastic, the proceedings were harmonious and the work completed and the ticket hoisted by five o'clock. Mr. Mitcham was made chairman and Charley Jones secretary. It was a very orderly convention and the fu sionists got little comfort from that gathering.

The first contest came over the office of sheriff, the aspirants being Messrs. Collins, Webber, and Christie, the former winning on the second ballot, the vote standing—Collins 85, Webber 52, Christie 20.

For assessor W. R. Trull, B. J. Jones, W. E. Gage and J. J. Swartz contested, Mr. Jones winning on the third ballot against Mr. Gage.

Miss Minnie Fry was nominated for treasurer by acclamation. The lady made a very pretty speech of acceptance, pleasing all present.

One vote settled the probate judgeship, the present incumbent, J. R. Strong, winning over Mr. Lukens.

Only one ballot was necessary to settle the contest on the office of superintendent, Mattie Headington giving such universal satisfaction that she easily won over Miss Ransom.

Considerable interest was manifested over the county attorney contest, the contestees being H. R. Smith, G. G. Pickett, Thos. Wilson, Wm. Stillinger, the former winning on the second bout. Mr. Smith has given excellent satisfaction as prosecuting attorney and lacked only two votes on the first ballot of receiving the nomination.

Mr. Ben Bush, who is now acting as surveyor by appointment, was nominated for that office by acclamation.

L. D. Jamison was nominated by acclamation for coroner.

The present board of county commissioners have engineered the affairs of the county so well that they were honored with a renomination by acclamation.

For state senator Rev. W. C. Fowler was nominated by acclamation.

For representatives ten names were presented—Thos. H Brewer, B. F. French, A. Watkins, J. C. Munson, D. W. Driscoll, B. H. Hilliard, J. L. Samsel, Chas. Peterson, Mr. Austin, C. S. Kinman. The five highest on the first ballot were—Brewer, French, Kinman, Drikell, Munson—and declared elected.

In East Genesee precinct C. F. Burr and E T. Platt were named for justices and G. N Hollister for constable. In West Genesee precinct John Hudson was named for justice and Geo. Mochel constable.

Committeeman in East Genesee Chas. Power and in West Genesee G. W. Daggett.

—The Uniontown school opened Tuesday with Prof. W. M. Savage as principal and Miss Emery as assistant.

—The Church Bros. volunteer barley yielded over 35 bushels to the acre. A good piece good for at least 15 bushels was left uncut.

—The census returns show a couple of Indians on the Nez Perce reservation who are over 100 years of age. They are man and wife, were born in January, 1800, and have been married 76 years.

—It is talked again that the O. R. N., as a result of the grain war at Moscow, will extend its line to Genesee, the greatest wheat center in Idaho, and secure the lion's share of our grain. This looks reasonable. The Portland millers and shippers visited this city during the summer and know from examination that the Genesee valley produces the largest quantity of milling wheat of any portion of the Palouse country. As the road would have the most direct and a down-hill route it could get the bulk of our wheat if were so disposed. The farmers are hoping the road will be built to this point at an early date.

—Judge Hanford, in the U. S. court at Spokane, rules that a bankrupt under the national bankruptcy act is permitted to retain all property that is exempt from execution and attachment under the laws of the state, and in the case in question holds that the bankrupt is entitle to the exemption of a homestead, the value of which is not in excess of the amount allowed by statute. A mooted point of the decision reads: "Since the law allows exemptions there can be no legal fraud upon the creditors in permitting them to select from their estates property to the amount and value of the kind which the statutes say shall be exempt."

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound per day by taking an ounce of SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food, which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

Scott's Emulsion

You will find it just as useful in summer as in winter, and if you are thriving upon it don't stop because the weather is warm.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

—The rains of last week brought quite a number of harvesters home to Troy. They generally seemed in good spirits and reported good crops and good runs, particularly those that had been operating in the Genesee country where the grain seems to bear a better proportion to the amount of straw than elsewhere. Tom Shinson and John Brock, both of whom are threshing in the neighborhood of Genesee report a daily average of nearly nine hundred sacks. Yields were running from 30 to 45 bushels of wheat per acre and there yet remains a large amount of threshing to be done.—News.

The emergency bags sent by a church society to Kansas soldiers in the Philippines contained among the necessities a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the well known cure for piles, injuries and skin diseases. The ladies took care to obtain the original De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve knowing that all the counterfeits are worthless. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Editor's Awful Plight.

F. M. Higgins, Editor Seneca (Ill.) News, was afflicted for years with piles that no doctor or remedy helped until he tried Bucklen's Arna Salve, the best in the world. He writes, two boxes wholly cured him. Infallible for piles. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c. Sold at Kennedy's drug store.

For a few weeks Dr. Lemman will do dental work so cheap that no one should miss the opportunity of having his teeth fixed or false one's made. Call at once.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1900.

—Register now.

—Frank Edwards visited Genesee this week.

—Miss Pearl Follett is clerking in the Bee Hive store.

—A. L. Bird, section foreman at Hay, has a new daughter.

—W. A. Nixon sold two work horses for $250. Pretty good price.

—J. K. Bell was down from Greer last week looking after his property.

—Candidates' cards at this shop—a guarantee of your election goes with each pack.

—Miss Marie Nebelsieck is back in the central office yelling hello to every tap of the bell.

—Miss Emma Nebelsieck came over from Moscow to spend Sunday and Monday at home.

—Chas. H. Sanders, of Owatonna, Minn., nephew of Mrs. Biram, arrived here this week to give Idaho a trial.

—The warehouse men have been hard at work the past ten days piling wheat sack next to the roof.

—Monday was labor day and the holiday was observed in this community by the people laboring. These are busy times.

—Among the visitors to Moscow convention day from Genesee, Mrs. J. W. Hopp, John Reed, Geo. Mochel, Mike Driscoll, W. M. Welch.

—Geo. F. Higgins is a bachelor no more, Mrs. Higgins having returned from her trip to Spokane and Wallace. She had a most enjoyable time.

—Please step in at the NEWS office you voters in east Genesee precinct and register. Mrs. Samsel will register voters in west Genesee precinct.

—Operator Wheeler spent the forepart of the week in Genesee. He left Tuesday stating he was going to St. Paul and Iowa to spend his vacation.

—Wallie Owen is having a residence erected on his acreage property in the northwestern part of town—12x30 with a wing. The upright will be built later.

—C. F. Burr has plum and prune trees so heavily loaded with fruit that the trees are breaking down. A pail full of the fruit was picked from a branch 5½ feet long.

—Preaching at Cong'l church both morning and evening. Subject of morning sermon, "The warfare of faith," and of the evening sermon, "The new birth."

—The Athenian club held its first session Monday evening at the home of Mrs. T. Driscoll. The members will familiarize themselves with the work of the leading authors this winter and look forward to many pleasant meetings.

—Readers, allow us to introduce to you Idaho's next governor, Judge D. W. Standrod. His visit to Genesee is for the purpose of getting acquainted with you. He is a man of ability, clean, broad in his views and well qualified for the exhalted position to which he aspires.

—Mrs. Mathews, who came here from Pendleton to visit her mother, Mrs. Daggett, was taken very ill Sunday evening with appendicitis. On Monday morning she was taken to the Spokane hospital for treatment and was accompanied by Dr. J L. Conant, Jr., and Mr. Daggett.

—Capt. Gilbert, a former Geneseeite, loves Nome no more. Lastspring he went north in search of gold, and we are told was held up by bold, bad highwaymen and robbed of all his wealth. He has returned and is now twisting brakes on the Great Northern. Lots of hard luck comes his way.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Rehberg and eight children arrived here from Summit, So. Dak., to make this their future home. Mr. Rehberg is a hardware merchant but is yet undecided as to what he will follow. He likes Idaho and he has seen ot it and makes the change of location on account of ill health. Mr. and Mrs. Rehberg have commenced housekeeping in the Bowman residence east side of town. Welcome to Genesee.

—It was thought the school election in Genesee would be a quite affair, but not so. About noon, Monday, things commenced to simmer, and by three o'clock the ladies commenced to roll out and the fun was on. The busy people did not take time to vote, but over a hundred ballots were cast just the same, as follows: G. L. Mochel 59, Ed. Follett 58, J. L. Hayes 58, A. Stamps 23, R. Pickering 16, W. J. Herman 6, T. H. Brewer 2. Since the election it transpires that Mr. Follett cannot serve on the board for the reason that he has a homestead in the white pine belt. Mr. Hayes being the next highest will either serve or another man will be elected or appointed.

Does Your Baking Powder Contain Alum?

Prof. Geo. F. Barker, M.D., University of Penn.: "All the constituents of alum remain (from alum baking powders) in the bread, and the alum itself is reproduced to all intents and purposes when the bread is dissolved by the gastric juice in the process of digestion. I regard the use of alum as highly injurious."

Dr. Alonzo Clark: "A substance (alum) which can derange the stomach should not be tolerated in baking powder."

Prof. W. G. Tucker, New York State Chemist: "I believe it (alum) to be decidedly injurious when used as a constituent of food articles."

Prof. S. W. Johnson, Yale College: "I regard their (alum and soluble alumina salts) introduction into baking powders as most dangerous to health."

In view of such testimony as this, every care must be exercised by the housewife to exclude the over and over condemned cheap, alum baking powders from the food.

Baking powders made from cream of tartar, which is highly refined grape acid, are promotive of health, and more efficient. No other kind should be used in leavening food. Royal Baking Powder is the highest example of a pure cream of tartar powder.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK

—Follett Bros. & Larrabee talk in a business tone to you in their ad.

—Marion Henders had the misfortune to lose his baby last week which lived only a few hours.

—Misses Teresa Walby, Opal Swank, and maybe Minnie Stamps will attend the Lewiston Normal this fall and winter.

—Dr. Lemman is all smiles again—Mrs. Lemman and the baby returned from Spokane accompanied by Miss Cora McIntyre.

—A carload of fruit is sent out by Raymond & Co. today to the eastern market. Hands are at work preparing another for shipment.

—You can go to Portland on the 10th of September for $10.75—the occasion being the exposition—via the Northern Pacific. That's a low sum for the round trip.

—E. T. Platt made a trip last week to the Lake Chelan country to find a stock range and bring home Mrs. Platt. He did not find a suitable range and will make another trip in that direction. Of course Tom just happened in Spokane when Ringling Bros. circus was there and could not pass by without seeing the elephant, fat woman, snake charmer and the funny clown.

—Genesee republicans elected the following men to assist in putting up a county ticket Wednesday: Charles Power, H. C. J. Tweedt, Walter Jain, Thos. H. Brewer, Hartzell Cobbs, W. C. Fowler, W. W. Gray, Jas. Hanson, C. F. Burr, J. L. Goodnight, W. E. Cool, E. T. Platt, J. L. Samsel, J. J. Owen, H. Nebelsieck, John Hudson, Clark De Bow.

—The farewell reception tendered to Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Grant Tuesday evening was an event long to be remembered by all who participated, and especially by the guests of honor. The Rathbone Sisters never do anything by halves, and on this occasion, assisted by the Knights, put forth extra efforts to make the occasion an enjoyable one. Progressive high five was the principal diversion, ten tables being used. At eleven o'clock a long table was unveiled loaded down with the choicest fruit, cakes, salads, pickles, ham, buns, coffee, etc., a spread fit for Queen Victoria The fifty guests discussed the good things in a way that would do credit to a threshing crew. The people lingered till after the midnight hour visiting, when they withdrew to their homes, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Grant good luck in their new location. Socially this couple have been very popular and will be greatly missed, their places not being ones readily filled.

—Mrs. Hoover is visiting Union town friends.

—Herman Schuler, our next door neighbor, is rejoicing over the arrival of a boy last Sunday.

—Mrs. Richards and baby left on Wednesday's train for a month's visit with friends at Pullman, Kendrick, Leland and at her country home, and now Joe wants a cook.

—It is believed the Northern Pacific will build to Grangeville this fall. It is stated that surveyors are now at work on the middle fork of the Clearwater surveying the Butte-Lewiston cut-off, having found in the vicinity of the Lolo trail a highly satisfactory grade.

—The NEWS visited many Genesee valley orchards the past week and saw a world of fruit—pears, apples, plums, prunes, nectarines, grapes and peaches. Hundreds of four and five year old trees are so heavily loaded with pears and apples that those not propped up are breaking down—fruit the equal of which is not grown in many states. We would like very much to have eastern friends visit our young orchards at this time. Seeing would be believing. We may write as much as we please and yet the people could not comprehend the loaded condition of the young trees. In the well kept orchard of Church Bros. south of town, the trees are planted twenty-two feet apart, yet the branches have made such growth that they interlock and rest on the ground full of fruit. A few dwarf trees here are loaded with red apples as large as saucers which attract attention of people living in this fruit country. The orchard should be seen to be appreciated. Sanford Evans has three or four orchards—ranging from 3 to 13 acres—full of choice fruit. Like Church Bros., Mr. Evans has every thing in the way of fruit, vegetable and garden truck that inner man can crave. The same may be said of the orchards belonging to Mr. Mervyn, Mr. Ingle, Mr. Morgan, L. Jain, Al. and J. W. Brigham, A. Charles and many others. This year the fruit is almost entirely free from worms and other pests and should command the highest market price east of the Rockies. A great fruit valley.

—Harvy Lawson returned to Spokane this week.

—A. S. Haun, an enterprising farmer north of town, is a happy man since the new arrival at his home last Sunday.

—Robert Beechler, W. A. Nixon, F. D. Hasbrouck, Sanford Evans and Richard Ruddy went to Lewiston yesterday as delegates to the republican county convention.

—Jeweler Walters is offering his goods at cost, intending to leave Genesee on account of not being able to find a suitable place in which to do business. See bills.

—Christina Bigham, the eloper on Fix Ridge, passed through Genesee last week. Her husband advertises that he will not pay any debts the woman contract after this date.

—Special revival services are in progress at the Methodist church under direction of Evangelist Martin. These services will continue until next Tuesday evening. All are cordially invited.

—Architect Dutton has drawn the plans for Mr. Grant's new residence, which is to be a handsome two-story structure with hot and cold water and all the modern improvements Ashland will get another good building.

—Miss Ada Pettijohn of Fix Ridge, while on her way to Moscow last week, was violently kicked in the forehead by a horse, laying open to the skull a wound necessitating a large number of stitches.

—Genesee valley farmers are pretty well through garnering their 1900 grain crop, and all in all, it is the finest ever put in the warehouses here. It is all No. 1, fit for milling. Now give us a little better price and we'll be happy.

—Rev. J. W. Compton will preach his farewell sermon at Troy Sunday night, and will shortly move to Oregon where he will continue his ministerial labors. Mr. Compton has been preaching in this community for four years and in that time has earned the esteem and good will of all with whom he has come in contact. His departure is much regretted.—Troy News.

—Rev. Geo. L. A. Eyrich preached two excellent sermons here on last Sunday to a good sized congregation and has, by his masterly way of presenting his subjects, added new laurels to his already good opinion formed of him by his congregation.—Uniontown Gazette. The reverend has made many warm friends in Genesee during his short stay. All speak highly of him as a minister and as a gentleman.

I wish to announce to the ladies that I will open my fall millinery season on Saturday, Sept. 1, with a full display of fall and winter goods for ladies, Misses and children. Business hours from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. All old accounts must be settled in the next week. Yours truly,

MARY KEANE WELCH.

—A Chicago packing company has received an order from the Russian government for 6,000,000 pounds of "beef on the hoof" to feed the soldiers engaged in the war with China. This is the largest order of the kind in the history of the Chicago meat trade. It will take 5,000 fatted cattle to fill the order. The cattle will be sent from San Francisco via Hawaii and Japan.

—American naval contractors have the secret of imparting the "get there" qualities to our navy. The big battleship Alabama in her trial trip last week was pushed through the water for four hours at an average speed of 17 knots, breaking all record except of 17 04 knots, made by another American battleship, the Iowa. Backed by the well known characteristic of the American seaman of never utilizing this speed to get away from an enemy, these fighting machines are the most formidable of any that sweep the sea.

—Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for September illustrates the possibilities of a magazine which aims to keep in touch with the serious interests of the more intelligent men and women of today, as well as to amuse every reader by cleverness and variety. The leading article is a personal record of almost unparalleled adventure, written by W. Walton, chief quartermaster of our navy, who shared with Lieut. Gilmore a captivity of more than eight months among the Filipinos. Thrilling as a story, the narrative gives one a new insight into the character of the Filipinos people. The much talked of Wu Ting-fang, Chinese Minister at Washington, contributes an intelligent paper upon his own people, and this is reinforced by an article telling just the facts about the Boxers which few people know, and everybody wants to know. An instructive article gives an account of the wonderful processes of Uncle Sam's mint, and a highly exciting one by the chief of Uncle Sam's secret service, tells of the greatest "haul" of his career.

—The state of Idaho is among the youngest and heretofore least known of the United States, although embracing several mountain chains, great rivers, magnificent waterfalls, wide plains, beautiful lakes, extensive forests, fertile valleys, and an exhaustless grazing area of nutricious grasses. Its natural products, scenery, great mineral deposits, mild and healthful climate; its mountain-peaks, weird canyons, hot and cold mineral springs, extensive fruit orchards and alfalfa fields; its herds of cattle, horses and sheep; its legends and phenomena, and the steady growth of its commerce and population are now attracting much attention. Possibly the new portion being opened up may without exaggeration be termed the most inviting and varied in its resources and attractions; is probably less explored than other sections; but it is destined to soon claim the earnest attention of the scientist, mineralogist, capitalist and those seeking new homes, health, or the pleasures of outdoor life and sport found in the mountains, forests, lakes, and streams. Few people are aware that Idaho is more favored with climate, natural resources, products, and great water supply in lakes, streams and springs than almost any other state. While the opportunities for mining are among the greatest in the intermountain region, yet there are many ideal places where colonies as large as the Greeley Colony of Colorado could locate and devote their energies to the lumbering, agricultural, horticultural and stockraising industries, and provide for themselves permanent homes. Two hundred thousand people could secure homes, and the country abounds with beautiful locations for homes and ranches, where the lands can be secured direct from the government. Here the inexhaustible forests on the mountain-sides supply, for the simple labor of cutting, material for fencing, building, and fuel. These facts are told in the Northwest Magazine "for the benefit of those who are in search of health, homes, farms, orchards, fruit lands, cattle, sheep or horse ranges, mining, hunting, fishing, scenery; or for those who are seeking any class of entertainment or investment."

Powder Mill Explosion

Removes everything in sight; so do drastic mineral pills, but both are mighty dangerous. No need to dynamite your body when Dr. King's New Life Pills do the work so easily and perfectly. Cures headache, constipation. Only 25c, at Kennedy's store.

Poisonous toatstools resembling mushrooms have caused frequent deaths this year. Be sure to use only the genuine. Observe the same care when you ask for DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is safe and certain cure for piles and skin diseases. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

A TRYING POSITION

"My position is a trying one" was the joking remark of the cloak model of a fashionable firm. But there is less jest than earnest in the statement. It is trying to be on the feet all day, to be reaching and stooping hour after hour from morn until night. And that is a very meager outline of a business woman's day. With many such women the ordinary strain of labor is intensified and aggravated by a diseased condition of the delicate organs, and they become victims of that terrible backache, or blinding headache, which is so common among business women.

If you are bearing this burden, bear it no longer. For the backache, headache, nervousness and weakness which spring from a diseased condition of the womanly organs there is a sure cure in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Half a million women have been perfectly and permanently cured by this wonderful medicine.

"My niece was troubled with female weakness for about four years before I asked for your advice," writes Mr. J. W. McGregor, of 6ed St. and Princeton Ave., Chicago, Ills. "You advised her to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription which she did faithfully for nine months, and now we must acknowledge to you that she is a well woman. We cannot thank you enough for the cure."

Sick women can consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. Address, Buffalo, N. Y.

UNIVERSITY ANNOUNCEMENT.

To the Citizens of Idaho:

The 9th session of the University of Idaho at Moscow, will open Monday, Sept. 20th, with a full faculty and every provision for the welfare and advancement of students, male and female. The University has an annual endowment of $51,000, of which $45,000 is derived from federal funds, and as this liberal revenue is equal to that of some of the most noted private institutions, it can be seen the University is in a position to render the very highest educational service to the youth of Idaho. Recently the faculty has been strengthened by finished special educators from the greatest institutions of learning in the east and abroad. The buildings are noble and impressive, the site healthful and lovely, the environment itself instructive and refining. All that earnest and able hands can do to make the University a source of strength and education to the state has been done or is being done, and the people are invited to use its benign usefulness throughout the state.

Besides giving full courses and conferring degrees in the various departments of the liberal arts, the University also gives complete instruction in civil engineering, mining and metallurgy, scientific agriculture, stock breeding, dairying, horticulture, floriculture and in the attendant industries upon which the productive life of this particular state is founded and which cannot possibly be attained elsewhere in their direct application to local conditions.

The total living expenses need not exceed $3 per week. For catalogue and full or special information address—The Registrar, University of Idaho, Moscow,

THE state papers that howled silver until black in the face, have switched and now its i-m-p-e-r-i-a-l-i-s-m! But the voters will not be frightened with this bugaboo.

IN the September Review of Reviews will be found a comprehensive treatment of the "imperialism" issue, with particular reference to Mr. Bryan's Indianapolis speech. The editor's review of Mr. Bryan's Philippine propositions will be read with interest, alike by the adherents and the opponents of the democratic candidate's policy.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers are prompt, palatable, pleasant, powerful, purifying little pills, at Kennedy's.

REPUBLICANS SATURDAY NIGHT IN GENESEE.

The republicans will have speaking at Elliot hall tomorrow (Saturday) night. Ex-Congressman Willis Sweet, will entertain the people for an hour. Hon A. A. Crane, candidate for Lieut. Governor of Idaho, and Hon. J. H. Shoup will make addresses. Everybody invited. Voters should come out and hear all the speakers this year so they can vote intelligently.

SECRETARY GAGE and Carl Schurz are doing their turn in the political vaudeville with considerable dramatic fire.

THE campaign in Latah county was formally opened in Genesee last Thursday night by the republicans, Judge D. W. Standrod, candidate for governor, and Hon. P. M. Bruner, being the artillery used. Volley after volley was fired into the enemy. A fair sized audience greeted the speakers. It was plainly evident that the people of this community are deeply interested in the issues of the present campaign and are willing to listen to and weigh the arguments presented. Voters of all political parties were present and much pleased with Judge Standrod's appearance and behavior. The Judge gave a business talk and not a word of abuse or censure for the opposition escaped his lips during his entire address. If elected he promised a business-like administration. He briefly reviewed the three last administrations, showed by figures that the administration before and after Cleveland did a much large volume of business, and referred to the prophecies of Bryan four years ago all of which have been proven groundless. It was a rich treat and it was evident to all that a scholar occupied the platform. He pleased all present Mr. Bruner followed and dealt out sledge-hammer bolws, avoiding as much as possible to not wound the feelings of the opposition. He is an eloquent speaker and rattled off a whole lot of truths in a short time. It was proven by figures that the laborers of this country are better paid and our products bring a higher price than in any other country by reason of protection and expansion. Greater trusts are found in free trade England than in this country. By expansion the Pacific coast states would realize great profit on their prodncts and prosperity would be permanent. Mr. Bruner's remarks about the fusionists talk on the Declaration of Independence as if they were the sole guardians of this Ark of the Covenant, brought forth some laughter. Reference was also made to the opposition leaders quoting from Lincoln and other republicans—while they were crushing human slavery in the 60s, as now in the Philippines, the democracy denounced war, and then as now, said it was a failure.

THE apathy that prevails throughout the country is alarming the republicans. The democrats of the east seem to be well supplied with funds and where it comes from the republicans cannot guess. The reduction of republican majorities in the early September elections would serve as a warning to people who think that McKinley's election is assured.

OUR good neighbor, the Lewiston Tribune, is forging to the front, glad to note. Last week it added a fine typesetting machine and the news service greatly improved. The Mergenthaler has the capacity of four hand compositors and is recognized as being the highest achievement of mechanical invention. Hurrah for the Trib.

F. D. HASBROUCK of Genesee captured the nomination for state senator of Nez Perce county at the republican convention last week. Here is the balance of the ticket: A. W. Lee, C. W. Richardson, for the legislature; Frank Leachman, sheriff; Viola McCouville, treasurer; M. S. Johnson, attorney; R. A. Langford, probate judge; B. F. Bashor, assesor; E. Riggs, surveyor; L. C. Neal, coroner; S. G. Isaman, W. A. Black, S. S. Brooks, commissioners.

THE word trust is repulsive to the ordinary human being, the same as the gold standard was four years ago. A trust is a combination of firms in the same business working in harmony instead of competing. The avowed object generally is the curtailing of expenses. For instance, two Genesee gentlemen combine their capital and experience for the transaction of business. They combine because they can carry larger stock, get along with less help and clear more money. These firms in a town agree on prices. They form a trust on a small scale. Many instances where two or more persons unite can and do buy and sell cheaper than if they carried on business separately and on a smaller scale. People of every community are always glad to see a big firm come to town because they believe they will get better prices for what they raise and be able to buy cheaper. If it were not for large corporations we would have no railroads and a thousand other conveniences. We have good trusts and bad trusts. The bad trusts should be looked after and regulated. The trust that cheapens the cost of a product to the consumer and does not advance its interests by oppressive methods is a good trust; a trust that increases the cost to the consumer, or one that maintains a high price when the conditions are such as to permit a reduction, is a bad trust. The bad trusts, like the Tammany ice trust, deserve no quarter. NEWS hopes that when the jumping jacks mount the rostrum and scream t-r-u-s-t-s ! that the voters will not be frightened out of their wits.

WONDERS will never cease. Attorney Herrin, it is reported, is employed at the democratic headquarters in Chicago to send out literature for the enlighenment of the people Hope he will send us something on the "paramount" issue.

No matter how Idaho politics may go this year, all candidates may have the sweet satisfaction of knowing there is plenty of work to do, whether in office or not.—Lewiston Tribune. Everybody can get work and secure big wages.

HERE is the Latah county prohibition ticket: Henry Asbury, sheriff; Ella Anderson, treasurer; C. B. Sanders, assessor; H. McFarland, probate judge; J. J. Anthony, superintendent; G. Hogue, surveyor; W. E. Talbott, coroner; senator, Chas. Gibson; representatives, Jennie Headley; J. W. Carrick, E. Thornquest, M. C. McGrew, Ida Moody; commissioners, A. Smith, W. A. Lauder, C. W. Yockey.

THE Chicago newspapers are commenting on the widely different character of the speeches delivered respectively by Gov. Roosevelt and by Col. Bryan on Labor Day in that city, as typical of the widely different characters and methods of the two men. Roosevelt dwelt on questions which concern the interests of labor, while Bryan took advantage of the big crowd and talked politics—solely for himself. Which acted the gentleman ?

THE Latah county republican ticket is strongly ratified by the party. One of the cleanest tickets ever put up. Especially clean, strong men, men of character and standing, have been named for the legislature. In the convention Fowler, French, Brewer and Munson showed themselves to be popular, receiving about all the votes. The personnel of the ticket is first-class, and the offices well distributed. Even the democrats are well pleased with the nominees.

—One day last week a big black bear appeared at the residence of J. S. Mounce east of Lewiston and forthwith began to create a commotion. The hogs were all driven to cover and the cattle and horses were stampeded, reports the Teller. The women and children were driven into the house, into the barn and other places of refuge and probable safety. After consternation had reigned for some time Mr. Mounce appeared upon the scene with a club and disputed the bear's authority. The beast reared up and assumed a John L. attitude, wearing at the same time an impressive expression of rage. Mr. Mounce cracked the bear over the nose, luckily hitting a tender spot and knocking the beast prostrate with one blow. He followed the advantage up vigorously till the bear was dead. Quiet was thereupon restored on the Mounce ranch. Mr. Mounce is now a hero.

—The fruit crop of Latah county is valued at $300,000. Several carloads of pears are being shipped east from Moscow netting the farmers one cent per pound. The apple crop is a fine one The prune crop is heavy. Trees are loaded until they are at the point of breaking, and the fruit is bright, clean and of excellent quality. Perhaps a dozen dryers have been erected in Latah county during the past year.

Endured Death's Agonies.

Only a roaring fire enabled J. M. Garrettson, of San Antonio, Tex., to lie down when attacked by Asthma, from which he suffered for years. He weites his misery was often so great that it seemed he endured the agonies of death; but Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption wholly cured him. This marvelous medicine is the only known cure for asthma as well as consumption, coughs and colds, and all throat, chest and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1. Guaranteed. Trial bottle free at Kennedy's drug store.

"Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach" says O. P. M. Holliday, of Deming, Ind. The Bravery of Woman

Was grandly shown by Mrs. John Dowling of Butler, Pa., in a three years' struggle with a malignant stomach trouble that caused distressing attacks of nausea and indigestion. All remedies failed to relieve her until she tried Electric Bitters. After taking it two months she wrote: "I am now wholly cured and can eat anything. It is truly a grand tonic for the whole system as I gained in weight and feel much stronger since using it." It aids digestion, cures dyspepsia, improves appetite, gives new life. Only 50c. Guaranteed, at Kennedy's drug store.

The most dainty and effective pills are De Witt's Early Risers. Are unequaled for all liver and bowel troubles. Never gripe. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy took two doses and was entirely cured' says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called another doctor who treated him for some and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said no. I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. For sale by all druggists.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. Look out for them. It cures piles and all skin diseases. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Reports from northern Labrador reveal the existence of great distress among the shore men, owing to the ice remaining on the coast so long. Many vessels have been crushed in the floes, losing their supplies and fishing outfits. The others are meeting with but poor success. The Labrador cod fishery is a virtual failure.

The census bureau up to last Saturday, had tabulated the returns of 54 cities. These show a population of 14,644,711. This is an average increase in population per city of 27.90 per cent. The same cities in 1890 had a population of 11,150,045, making a total gain of 3,494,666. The percentage of increase in 1890 was calculated on the aggregate gain and not on the average increase per city. The result was that the percentage of gain, according to the census bureau officials, while appearing to be larger, namely, 31.33, was not so in fact, owing to the different method followed in making the calculations.

President Sends Sympathy.

"Washington, Sept. 11.—J. D. Sayers, Governor of Texas: The reports of the great calamity which has befallen Galveston and other points on the coast of Texas excite my profound sympathy for the sufferers, as they will stir the hearts of the whole country. Whatever help it is possible to give shall gladly be extended. I have directed the secretary of war to furnish supplies and tents on your request. WILLIAM M'KINLEY."

A copy of the foregoing telegram was sent to the mayor of Galveston, as well as Governor Sayers.

"Austin, Tex., Sept. 11.—The President, Washington: Very many thanks for your telegram. Your action will be greatly appreciated and gratefully remembered by the people of Texas. I have this day requested the secretary of war to forward rations and tents to Galveston.

"JOSEPH D. SAYERS,
"Governor of Texas."

Appeal for Aid.

Houston, Tex., Sept. 11.—The following official appeal has been issued to the people of the United States:

"Our sister city of Galveston has been visited by a frightful hurricane, and is still cut off from all rail and wire communication with the outside world. Refugees bring alarming reports of great loss of life and property. The newspapers give extended accounts of this awful calamity, which place it among the most distressing of modern times. The people of many towns and villages are now in sore distress, and as further reports come in the death list grows and damage to property increases. Much stock is killed and the crops are ruined. We urgently ask your liberal and immediate assistance. Houston was in the track of the storm, but will take care of her injured and help those more seriously affected. Contributions sent to either of the undersigned will be gratefully received and judiciously expended. S. H. BRASHEAR, Mayor.

"B. A. REASER,
"Chairman Relief Committee."

Government Renders Aid.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The officers of the national government have taken steps to render all possible aid and assistance to the flood sufferers of Texas.

Missionaries Killed.

Shanghai, Sept. 12.—John Goodnow, the United States consul general here, after inquiries in every possible source, learns that the number of British and American missionaries murdered during the uprising in China has been 93, while 170 others stationed in Chi Li and Shan Si provinces are unaccounted for, and there is reason for the belief that they have met the same fate. Of those whose deaths have been absolutely proved, 22 were Americans—eight men, eight women and six children; 34 were British—nine men, eight women and 10 children.

Maine Goes Republican.

Portland, Me., Sept. 11.—Carrying out its tradition of many years with but one break, Maine went republican in the state election today by a large majority. The republican state ticket was elected, with all four congressmen and a great majority of the legislature. There was every incentive for voting, and the campaign had been a spirited one. The vote was not quite as heavy as in 1896, but exceeded that of the 1898 election.

Corbett Leaves His Wife.

New York, Sept. 9.—There is little doubt that ex-Champion Corbett is bound for England on the Campania and that Marguerite Corneille, an actress, is on the same vessel. Corbett said nothing to his wife about going, but left a note to be delivered to her four hours after he had gone, telling that he had gone to England and intimating that he would never return. There is also a report that just before sailing Corbett sold his saloon. Mrs. Corbett will bring suit at once for divorce on grounds of cruelty and desertion.

Arthur Sewall Dead.

Bath, Me., Sept. 6.—Hon. Arthur Sewall died of apoplexy at 8:30 a. m. yesterday at his summer home, Small Point, about 127 miles from this city. He was 64 years of age.

The consideration named in the deed is $1, but that instrument bears $230 in revenue stamps, indicating an actual consideration of $230,000.

REPUBLIC.

The record of development on the mines in Republic camp in August was the smallest for two years. In some instances half the force was laid off. The Ben Hur closed down totally for an indefinite period. No ore was stopped on the San Poil, Black Tail or Quilp. Some of the mines, in fact most of them, will do no more than a little development work until some machinery is in operation for crushing custom ores. The Tom Thumb worked but a small part of the month on account of installing machinery. The Republic did 110 feet of drifting south from the location of the 150-foot winze on the 600-foot level during the month of August. No other work was done in the mine. Ninety feet of crosscut tunnel was the record of the Rebate for the month. There was 20 feet of double compartment shaft sunk on the Butte & Boston and 20 feet of crosscut run from the 250-foot level. The Chico ran 30 feet of drift south from the location of the 285-foot shaft. On the San Poil there was 60 feet of development work done. About 55 feet of crosscut was driven on the Gold Lelge last month. There was but 30 feet of tunnel driven on the Golden Harvest during the month. The Quilp takes the first rank in the development for the month of August. About 30 feet of raise and winze was completed on the Ben Hur. No work whatever was done after the middle of the month. The shaft on the San Juan is being timbered and enlarged. When this work has been finished the shaft will be sunk an additional 100 feet to 250 feet in depth. The drift that is being run west from the 260-foot level of the Butte & Boston is in 20 feet. It will probably take 100 feet of crosscut to reach the ledge. As the rock is hard not more than three feet will be driven each 24 hours. The Chico is still south from the bottom of the 285-foot level. Work is progresssing favorably on the Morning Glory. Drifts are being run north and south on the 200-foot level of the Princess Maud. The south drift is in 46 feet and the north 50 feet. The ore averages 4 1-2 feet in width and is of good grade. The boiler on the Tom Thumb has been repaired. Work of development is going on from the 285-foot level. At the point where the crosscut from the shaft passes through the west ledge it is 10 feet wide and carries the same grade of ore that was found on the 160-foot level. The California, on O'Brian creek, is producing fine ore. Some of it assays from $1.50 to $500 per ton. A shipment of eight tons has been made to the Grand Forks smelter. There has been a force of five men working on the Flag Hill for some time. The superintendent states that good progress is being made in the shaft. The mines on Lambert creek are attracting an increasing part of public attention. The first mine in the camp that came into prominence was the Belcher. It was among the first on the reservation to begin development and has continued uninterruptedly. It is a most promising property. The ore varies greatly in value, ranging from $10 to $50 in gold.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The Snowshoe mine will shortly begin shipments to the smelter at Grand Forks.

The new ore bins and sorting floor at the Nickel Plate at Rossland will be finished in a few days.

Machinery for the Chapleau stamp mill has arrived at Lemon Siding from Fraser & Chalmers, Chicago.

The Winnipeg mine has made a contract with the Granby smelter for the treatment of 1,000 tons of ore.

The owners of the Canadian Belle, on Copper mountain in the Similkameen, are preparing for extensive development.

The new machinery at the Center Star at Rossland is reported to be working well and a steady output is being kept up.

The construction of the sampling mill at the Le Roi has commenced. It is expected that it will be completed some time next month.

The Monitor at Three Forks has been bonded by the London company which some time ago took over the Ajax. The Monitor has been a shipper from the grass roots.

The contract has been let for the 150-ton concentrator for the Highland (Kootenay, B. C.) Mining Co., limited. The plant is to be rushed into cperation with all speed and the company expects to have it working within 90 days.

The tearing down of the Hienze refinery at Trail, B. C., is completed. The structure was removed to make room for the new lead furnaces for the smelter. The last part to come down was the big stone chimney, which was 60 feet high.

During the last month or two many substantial and important improvements have been going on around the Old Ironsides and Knob Hill mines at Phœnix, while development and the breaking down of thousands of tons of gold-copper ore has been continuously conducted underground. The changes on the surface have all been of a character that will tend to reduce the cost of ore-handling to the lowest possible figure.

The suit of the Center Star versus the Iron Mask, which has been pending before the courts for the past two years, which was partially tried at considerable cost for experts, etc., before Justice Walkem of the supreme court about a year ago, has been settled.

During August the ore shipments over the Kaslo & Slocum railway to Kaslo totaled over 1,000 tons, of which more than half came from the Whitewater mine to the ore sampler. The Payne sent to San Francisco 210 tons and also exported via Sandon about the same amount. The Rambler-Cariboo forwarded to the smelter at Everett 104 tons while the American Boy kept up its average by shipping 42 tons. The Reco is again among the shippers, having sent to the Kootenay Ore company 13 tons within the past few days.

Ore of an excellent grade has been found on the New St. Elmo at Rossland. The drift on the south vein is in 225 feet. In this drift the ore body is four feet wide and the values are better than they ever have been, running up to $36.50 in gold and silver alone to the ton. The ore is that characteristic of the camp, chalcopyrite and pyrrhotite, with a quartz gangue. The ore which is being taken out is being piled up on the dump for shipping. The face of the south drift from which this ore is being taken, has a vertical depth of 400 feet.

The second furnace at the Granby smelter will be blown in as soon as the Canadian Pacific provides additional ore cars. Small shipments have been made by the Winnipeg, Athelstan and Gold Eagle mines. The plant continues to run very smoothly. Although the furnace now in operation has a guaranteed capacity of only 250 tons per day it handles an average of 300 tons per day. A series of assays of the matte is made daily. Thus far they give an average of one per cent more values than the returns from a similar series of assays of the ore.

MINING NOTES.

The construction of another smelting plant at Northport is in contemplation.

A second carload of ore from the Lakeview, in Palmer Mountain district, was made last week.

The ledge has been found on the Donohoe in Keller camp. The ore is galena, and indications point to a large body of it.

A big new pump for the Peacock mine at Cuprum, Idaho, is being installed. Its capacity is about 300 gallons per minute.

The country around Iron creek, on the South Half, where a recent strike was made, is reported to be full of prospectors and much ground is being staked

Arrangements are under way for a large display of mining machinery at the exposition at Spokane this fall. An ore exhibit has been promised from Boise, Idaho, for the mineral department.

Considerable activity is reported from Kruger mountain, in the northeastern part of Okanogan county. Several good strikes have been made. Most of the are is copper-gold, though there is some silver-lead and a little free milling.

Northport will probably have another shipper soon in the Galena Queen. This is a promising property that lies on the mountain just back of Stoddard's ranch, and is owned by Messrs. Croft, Rose, McGinty and Chris Adams, all of Northport.

A strike of importance is reported in the Rainbow, a comparatively young property that adjoins the Conjecture, near Lakeview, on Lake Pend d'Oreille, Idaho. The company has been driving a tunnel to tap an ore shoot 500 feet below a short shaft at the summit of a hill. According to advices received, about 300 feet in a six-inch streak of very rich silver ore has been encountered and it was strengthening with progress in a way that gave excellent promise of continuity.

A deal was recently made by which William Williams and John Perglass of Milwaukee undertake to develop the Wonderful group on Stevens peak, Idaho, securing a working bond from the owners for $40,000. This is the group on which 16 feet of galena was struck a few weeks ago, when ground sluicing hunting for the location of the ledge where it crossed a creek. Since then ore has also been found in another location. The group includes three claims, the Wonderful, Oro Fino and Aguinaldo.

The Standard Mining company at Wallace, Idaho, is putting in a new air compressor and electric plant at the mine. The foundation is completed and some of the machinery is on the ground. The new compressor will have a capacity of 50 drills, the present being only of 15 drills. In putting it in the company is looking far into the future. The 15-drill compressor is nearly large enough at present, and the company does not desire to work over 20 drills if they had ever so much power.

Six feet of ore was the report at Wallace, Idaho, last week, from the Clark tunnel on Sunset peak. The ore body has widened two feet since the ledge was cut. The face of the drift is about 700 feet below the apex of the vein and a short distance west from directly above it the ore comes to the surface. By following the vein 1,000 feet either way it will run out of the hill, thoroughly exploring it for most of the way through two claims, and giving an air circulation equalled by no mine in the Couer d'Alenes. A part of the west drift is already done, having been made years ago,and in that old work there is a crosscut showing 27 feet of ore.

Sanitary Dairy Appliance.

The thorough cleansing of milk cans by hand is a difficult operation, and yet the cans must be carefully attended to each day or the milk will sour quickly. Chadles Marwitz, of Oak Park, Ill., has designed a portable washer, which can be readily transferred to each can and operated by hand, a cut of the device being shown below. The object of the invention is to provide a scrubbing brush which will fit closely to the interior of the can and be easily rotated from the exterior, and at the same time be folded to permit insertion and removal from the can. A clamping mechanism is provided to center the vertical shaft in the neck of the can, and the upright rod extending above the gearing is used to turn the brushes opposite each other, after they have reached the interior. The brush frames interlock and grip the shaft, which is rapidly revolved by the gearing to force the brushes to scrub the interior, the can being filled with water previous to the operation.

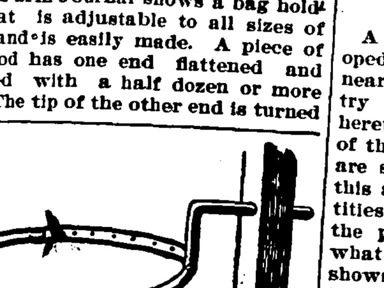
IMPROVED MILK-CAN WASHER.

Value of Garden.

The market garden business is a very good business usually when one makes it his entire business. Yet there are always failures and disappointments in it. Some crops fail to grow well, and others yield abundantly and cannot be sold at a satisfactory price. But the family garden, a little larger than needed for the home supply, well manured and well cared for, is never a disappointment. If some crop is a partial failure it may not have any surplus over the home demand, but there will be something else to substitute for it. If another is over abundant and low priced it can be used freely, and will taste just as good as if the price were twice as high. If there is a market for the surplus and it is sold, it seems almost like finding money, and if it cannot be sold there are some who find much pleasure in supplying the wants of poorer neighbors who cannot afford to pay the price asked by retail dealers. Plan each year to have a good garden, and trust to luck only for the market.—American Cultivator.

Bag Holder.

The Farm Journal shows a bag holder that is adjustable to all sizes of bags, and is easily made. A piece of steel rod has one end flattened and punched with a half dozen or more holes. The tip of the other end is turned over and drawn out to fit these holes. The rod is then bent into a circle, the ends lapping and a bent support welded to it. By the side of each grain, apple or potato bin a hole can be bored in which to insert this support. Any blacksmith can make it.



ADJUSTABLE BAG HOLDER.

Work of Agricultural Colleges.

The work of the agricultural college does not consist altogether in sending its students back to the farm in condition to become better tillers of the soil or better breeders of stock than their fathers were, says the American Cultivator. This is but a small part of what we should expect of them. They should send out many who are qualified to instruct others by becoming teachers themselves. It is not all of a teacher to understand his subject, but he must be able to impart his knowledge to others so that they will understand it. One of the best teachers we ever knew was not what would be called an educated man, but what he knew he could explain so that almost the simplest intellect could learn from him. There are others so highly educated that they speak in terms that are as "unknown tongues" to those whom they desire to instruct. They cannot teach those who are more than one degree below them in attainment. They need an interpreter. Some such have written for agricultural papers, and we have even seen some bulletins from colleges and experiment stations that we thought were written by such learned ignoramuses, whose writings were of little use to farmers seeking information. Then there are others whose college education and natural abilities fit them to be always students. They will investigate carefully and with much painstaking, perhaps, only in the end to find that they have but proven scientifically facts that the practical man learned long ago by costly experience. Yet many of their investigations lead to a knowledge of new facts, which practical men make useful. The investigations of Franklin into the nature of electricity, apparently useless at the time, opened the way for the inventions of Morse, Bell and Edison. One investigator or one teacher may accomplish more in the line of agricultural improvement than a hundred sent back to labor with their hands or even their brains in the every day duties of a farmer's life, therefore let us not think the work of the college is in vain because all its graduates have not gone back to the farm.

Alfalfa Roots.

Of course I have always dimly realized that in its subterranean habits alfalfa differed from most other plants, but the full extent of this difference was never fully brought home to me until last fall while excavating for a cellar in alfalfa sod. The soil in question is a light loam, with occasional thin streaks of clay. It had been well plowed in the fall of 1897, and the winter frosts left it in prime shape for seeding in early May. I used twenty pounds of seed per acre, which proved to be rather too much, considering the fine condition of the soil, as it gave a probable average of twenty plants per foot. The excavation was made five and one-half feet deep. Much to my astonishment, one square foot of the cellar bottom showed twenty-two of the tough, white tap-roots shooting straight down into the unknown depths below, while over the whole area an average of thirteen or fourteen was maintained. In six months' growth two-thirds of these plants had sent their tap-roots more than five and one-half feet in quest of water.—F. M. Crane, in Farmer's Advocate.

Topdressing After Haying.

There are many cases where an application of fine, well-rotted manure directly after the first crop of grass is taken off will do much to start a good second growth, but this year it has been so dry in this section that there seems little benefit would have been found by such a topdressing. We would wait until after the cutting of the second crop, if there is any, or until about October, and apply it then, not considering it so important to have the manure fine, as it will become so before next spring, or can quickly be made so by the use of a light harrow or brush. But if manure is all needed for hoed crops, do not make the mistake of applying commercial fertilizer this fall. Wait until early spring and then make a mixture 1,200 pounds of raw bone, 400 pounds each of nitrate of soda and muriate of potash, or in that proportion, and use from 250 to 400 pounds per acre, according to whether you want a heavy or very heavy crop. For a clover field one-half that amount of nitrate of soda would be enough, or on land which has been lately heavily manured with stable manure.—Exchange.

Poultry in the South.

A large poultry farm is being developed near Hamilton, Va. Throughout nearly all sections of the South poultry is receiving more attention than heretofore. This is particularly true of the nearby southern sections, which are sending poultry in carload lots to this and other markets in larger quantities than ever before. The quality of the poultry is much improved over what it was in previous years and shows that the standard is steadily being raised in all the leading producing sections.—Southern Field.

Trolley Roads Helping Farmers.

Many of the farmers of the neighborhood surrounding the city of Toledo have had special wagons built for sending the produce to market. The wheels of these wagons are fitted to run on electric lines. The farmers load the wagons and drive them up to the nearest trolley line, when a motor car picks them up, one after another, and hauls them to the city. The City Council of Toledo has granted the right to run these rail wagons over the city street railway tracks. As the hauling is done mostly in the night time, it interferes very little with city traffic.—Exchange.

At the imperial court of Austria the chef of Emperor Francis Joseph estimates that of $250,000 expended on the tables every year, the "unused" represents about $100,000.

Since 1868 the corn production of this country has increased more than 122 per cent, while the production of wheat has increased nearly 350 per cent.

GERMANY STAYS IN PEKIN

WILL HOLD HER TROOPS THERE.

Wants to Avoid Trouble, but Thinks Troops Should Stay—New Questions Arise—Other Powers Demand Modification of Proposals.

Washington, Sept. 7.—The attitude of the German government on the Russian proposition for the evacuation of Pekin has been made known to the authorities here. It comes in a communication from the American charde d'affaires at Berlin, Mer. William Jackson, and with clearness sets forth the German position. In substance it states that Germany is desirous of avoiding friction betwwen the powers, but she considers the conditions at Pekin such as to require the German forces there.

The statement of Germany's views is made in such form as to be taken as conclusive that it is Germany's purpose not to withdraw her troops from Pekin, even though Russia should do so. It is said to be more in the line of a simple announcement than of argument or answer. It is presumed that it reflects the views made known by Germany to Russia. While there is no definite information as to the attitude of most of the other countries, there is reason to believe the German position in favor of remaining at Pekin finds more sympathetic approval at other European capitals, and that it will be the basis of like action by other powers, if indeed they have not already made it known that they are in favor of remaining at Pekin.

In this connection a new consideration has arisen, namely, whether the ministers shall remain at Pekin along with the troops, as it appears to be generally accepted that the troops of some, if not all, of the powers will remain at the Chinese capital, upon the ground that a military force is necessary to preserve order. There is no such necessity for continuing the presence of the foreign ministers, so that the negotiations are taken into consideration as to the departure of the ministers to Tientsin even if the troops should be retained.

Military Conditions.

As to the reports of the military conditions, they came to Washington today from three sources, namely, General Chaffee, General Barry, and finally from Mr. Conger. Each of them indicated that quiet prevailed in Pekin and that the troops are meeting with no opposition in their occupation. All are silent as to the political situation there.

A telegram has been received from Minister Conger, dated Pekin, September 1, stating that a military parade passed through the imperial palace on that date, and that the European servants were the only occupants.

Viewed in London.

London, Sept. 7.—What is now designated in some quarters as an attempt to establish a "Russian Monroe doctrine" in Asia seems doomed to modification. Hence the prospects of a continued concord of the powers are believed to be improving. It is thought that the announcement of the names of the four personages appointed by the imperial edict as Chinese peace commissioners will furnish Russia with a plausible reason to join the American demand for the appointment of a more satisfactory commission and give Russia grgound for delaying the withdrawal of her troops from Pekin until the Chinese imperial party shows a more conciliatory disposition.

Remarkable Statement.

A special dispatch from Hong Kong contains the remarkable statement that Li Hung Chang has received advices from Pekin to the effect that the allied forces are gradually handing over the government of the capital to the Chinese, and that Prince Ching, former president of the tsung li yamen, has been placed in charge of the imperial city.

Metals.

New York—Metals—The feature of operations on the metal exchange was the announcement from London that 1,000 tons of tin had been shipped. This statement weakened our market considerably, offerings of spot being at $34.

The brokers' price for lead was $3.95 and for copper $16.50.

Copper ruled quiet and unchanged here. In London it was 5s higher, at £73.

London—Bar silver, 27 15-16.

Lead and spelter—Dull and unchanged at $3.87½@4.02 and $4.25@4.30 respectively.

Iron and steel were weak again. Pig iron warrants show a decline of 25 points to $12.75.

San Francisco—Silver bars, 60⅞c; Mexican dollars, 49@49½c.

New York—Silver certificates, 61½@62½c; bar silver, 60¾c; Mexican dollars, 48c.

Wheat.

Portland.—Wheat—The bulk of the wheat needed for nearby tonnage has been secured and exporters have reduced their limits to 56 cents for Walla Walla and 59c for bluestem. There is a good milling demand for valley at 59@60c.

Tacoma—Wheat—Market steady and unchanged. Bluestem, 58c; club, 55c, both for export.

The Golden Vase.

Boston, Sept. 9.—Will C. Stinson of Cambridge won the "golden vase" six-hour bicycle race, two hours a night, which was concluded at Charles River park Saturday, with 202 miles 1631 yards to his credit. Score at the finish: Stinson, 202 miles 1631 yards; Archie McEachern, 202 miles 727 yards; Albert Champion, 198 miles 205 yards; J. F. Moran, 193 miles 855 yards.

A blight has damaged the tomato crop at Hood River this summer.

TRADE REPORTS.

New York.—R. G. Dun's Weekly Review of Trade for last week will say:

The volume of business does not materially enlarge at the east and there is only moderate improvement at the west and south, but if expectations of great activity when politics cease to disturb are realized current operations will be found to have laid a substantial foundation. The most important event of the week in the industrial world was the agreement on the tin-plate wage scale with the Amalgamated Association, granting about 8 per cent advance to 3000 hands long idle. Other metal workers' disputes are nearing a settlement, while the Borden purchase of 500,000 pieces of print cloths at 2⅞ cents clears up the Fall River market and is believed to preclude serious wage differences there.

Prices of grain are little altered, good crop reports coming in freely, but the effect is being neutralized by the foreign estimate of a world's crop below requirements. Wheat stocks carried over were ample to meet the discrepancy and traders do not seem able to advance prices more than 5 cents over last year's price for wheat and 6 cents for corn. This difference is apparently satisfactory to growers, as 7,430,372 bushels wheat were received at interior cities in the first week in September, against 5,945,697 bushels last year. Exports from Atlantic ports amounted to only 1,902,540 bushels of wheat (flour included) against 2,900,950 bushels a year ago. The Atlantic shipments of corn made a better comparison than in recent weeks, 2,927,079 bushels against 3,051,560 bushels last year. Cotton is strong in the face of a larger yield than in recent years.

Iron and steel products increase and the mills are actively employed. October 1 is mentioned as the probable date of a general resumption. It is significant that ship yards on the lakes and the Pacific coast are full of orders for eight months or more. As to pig iron, the outlook is no better. In spite of a decrease in production to 331,778 tons weekly, according to the Iron Age, furnace stocks have increased to 594,218 tons, a gain of 89,877 during August, but the increase on the demand was noteworthy until August 15. Railroads have refused to make reduction in freight rates, which it was hoped would increase exports. Bessemer pig and gray forge further declined $1 per ton at Pittsburg, although no change is reported at other points. Copper continues firm with electrolytic higher at 16⅝c bid, and tin advanced moderately.

Last week's shipments of boots and shoes from Boston were only 70,345 cases against 71,277 in the previous week, and for the year thus far the decrease compared with 1899 has amounted to 254,315 cases.

Sales of wool at the three chief eastern markets declined to 2,833,000 lbs. against 4,234,800 lbs. in the previous week; 9,225,200 last year. The dullness was not accompanied by any pronounced weakness, although Coates Bros.' circular for September 1 made the average price to 20% for all grades against 20½ cents a month earlier.

In the woolen goods market there is rather a deceptive appearance of greater activity. The bulk of the business in new lines recently put out a substitute for standard goods and a lower price.

Failures for the week were 145 in the United States against 132 last year, and 24 in Canada against 10 last year.

New Department at Yale.

New Haven, Conn.—A new department has just been opened at Yale where students of limited means can secure an education by their own labor. Prof. C. L. Kicell has been appointed head of the new department, which is a sort of employment agency. He will be a go-between the Yale men who need assistance and the merchants who are willing to give them work. Professor Kicell will also investigate applications for remission of tuition, scholarship, fellowships, the kind of employment offered and the manner in which the work is done by the Yale applicant.

The opportunities for paying expenses at Yale are classified as follows by the faculty: Prizes and scholarships, monitorships and choir work, tutoring, remission of tuition, waiting on table, organizing eating clubs, acting as subscription agents, newspaper writing, typewriting and stenography, teaching in the schools, positions as clerks, telegraphers, conductors and motormen on street cars, ushers, ticket sellers at theaters and concert halls, and caring for yards, furnaces or residences of private families in the city.

The force of men employed for electrical work by the Yale athletic organization is now recruited almost entirely from under-graduates. In the theological school a new system goes into effect today in the distribution of the money paid to the undergraduates. The divinity students will make pastoral visits, lead prayer meetings, call upon the sick, take charge of city missions and will be paid part or the whole of their scholarships' expenses, according to the amount of the work they do. This policy of distribution of scholarship funds was made at the demand of President Hadley, who believes that the system formerly in vogue tended to pauperize the students.

The Yale officials state that never before have there been as many chances for earning a part or all of the college expenses as at present. The class which was graduated last June shows that of 327 members, 15 entirely paid their expenses, 15 others nearly all and a total of 69 paid a large part of their way.

McKinley's Letter.

Washington, Sept. 10.—The letter of President McKinley accepting the nomination of the republican national convention for the office of president of the United States was made public Sunday night. He states that the gold standard is the all-important platform plank.

WILL WITHDRAW FROM PEKIN

CHAFFEE PREPARING TO LEAVE

Gets Orders From Washington—Will Go to Philippines—Views of Three Countries on the Chinese Situation—Credentials Are Doubtful.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Orders have been cabled to General Chaffee to prepare his forces for withdrawal from Pekin. Further than that the war department has taken steps to have at Taku a sufficient number of United States transports to remove these troops to the Philippines as soon as they reach the port. These orders are preparatory and do not necessarily indicate that our government has decided finally upon immediate withdrawal from China. It is simply placing itself in a position to carry out the pledge conveyed in the reply to the Russian note in this language:

"The result of these considerations is that unless there is such a general expression by the powers in favor of continued occupation as to modify the views expressed by the government of Russia and to lead to a general agreement for continued occupation, we shall give instructions to the American forces in China to withdraw our troops from Pekin after due conference with the other commanders as to the time and manner of withdrawal."

In London.

London, Sept. 9.—Pending Lord Salisbury's return this week Great Britain is apparently pursuing a policy of inactivity, which possibly will hereafter appear to have been masterly, even though it is, in reality, another instance of the flabby, weak-kneed irresoluteness so often attributed to the cabinet in recent years. By the time Lord Salisbury arrives the situation will probably have brightened, reports will have been received from the Pekin representatives, and such views as her majesty's government may have formed will have been communicated to the powers. Diplomats appear to be rather pleased that Lord Salisbury has been lying perdu in the mountains, as a member of the diplomatic corps remarked to a representative of the Associated Press that continental statesmen felt that the situation had been ameliorated thereby, as England has been thus safeguarded from rushing to a hasty conclusion. "Of course," said he, "the premier is in constant touch with the foreign office, but he is enabled to take a calmer view in the quietude of his summer refuge than he could possibly have reached under the pressure of the more excitable members of the cabinet."

In Berlin.

Berlin, Sept. 9.—The numerous cablegrams arriving imputing to Germany compromise propositions in answer to the Russo-American proposals, appear baseless. The correspondent of the Associated Press learns authoritatively that Germany, replying to the advice to withdraw her troops from Pekin, has sent Russia detailed reasons why this seems inopportune and calculated to prolong instead of shortening the war. The arguments cited in detail in support of this contention were those already given to the Associated Press by a foreign office official recently, and appear identical with the arguments advocated by several other powers.

The situation in China still continues difficult in a diplomatic sense rather than from a military standpoint. The question of doubtful credentials in the case of Li Hung Chang and other would-be negotiators continues to play an all-important role. It is understood that Mr. Mumm von Schwartzenstein, the German minister to China, reported from Shanghai to the foreign office here that he does not believe Li Hung Chang is properly authorized, judging from repeated information which the minister received there on the subject.

In France.

Paris, Sept. 9.—France is in a dilemma. Russia's proposition to withdraw from Pekin has resolved itself into a problem for her which French statesmen are now tackling gingerly. The complete withdrawal from Pekin, after careful consideration, is not deemed to be altogether in line with France's views and as the most effective method of dealing with the empress dowager and her clique of advisers. France is now forced to choose between the course she would rather adopt and the policy dictated to her by the Russian alliance, and French statecraft has been devoted for the week past to an endeavor to splice these two conflicting policies into a compromise which will not jeopardize her friendship with Russia and at the same time will not prejudice her own position in China. The suggestion, therefore, that while the bulk of the troops be withdrawn from Pekin a small international force be still retained in the city comes as a peculiarly acceptable idea to France. Russia and Germany appear to be the only serious stumbling blocks in the way of a general acceptance of this compromise, the first named desiring the total withdrawal of the allied forces and the latter wishing a continued occupation. Should the proposition fall through and Russia and America withdraw all their troops, France would immediately follow suit. It would be too rude a shock to the Russo-French alliance for France to abandon her ally and remain in Pekin with, as her associates, her hereditary enemies, England and Germany.

The French government appreciates the great element of wisdom in the Muscovite proposal, recognizing that a continuance of the present form of occupation would present early and direct negotiations with the empress dowager, who fears to return to the capital, and that, moreover, the administration of the affairs of the city would throw immense responsibility and labor upon the European commanders. They would need to undertake the proper policing of Pekin, with its millions of inhabitants, all of whom are now filled with hatred for the "foreign devils"; to arrange sanitary and fire precautions and an endless list of other municipal details. This would be a well-nigh impossible task, in view of the diverse nationalities and languages of the army of occupation. The provisioning and keeping open of communication with the sea coast for a large force in Pekin during the winter, when the country is snow-covered and frozen, also presents a problem of extreme difficulty.

—S. A. Burke has rented the Laufer farm and will see what the soil and climate will do for him on that land

—N. Y. Weekly Tribune 6 months for 20 cts; Tri-Weekly 6 mos. for 45 cts. Come quick if you want either.

—The Nez Perce commissioners made a tax levy for the county this week, the total being $2.60 per hundred, the same as last year's levy.

—W. E. Payne, Geo. Clay, John Keane, John Green and Geo. Blume were selected to represent Rimrock in the democratic county convention to be held at Lewiston next Wednesday.

—Not all the traveling men are for Bryan as has been extensively advertised. A hot discussion took place on the depot platform yesterday morning and it was found four favored McKinley and two Bryan.

—The republicans on Wednesday evening partially effected an organization for a club. They adopted a constitution and by-laws and elected some of the officers. Rooms next to the NEWS have been leased and plenty of reading matter will be furnished all who wish to post themselves on the issues of today. Special meeting Saturday evening.

—The fusionists of Idaho have not opened their campaign yet. They—or rather Dubois, Heitfeld and two or three outside leaders—have worked hard to unite the silver forces for three weeks and up to yesterday accomplished but little. Some of the populists to not want to come off the state ticket, and there's the rub. If fusion is not accomplished within a few days the matter will be dropped and the speakers sent out.

—Vermont and Maine held their state elections and rolled up the usual republican majorities, though perhaps a little reduced from the high water mark of four years ago when the gold democrats stampeded to McKinley. The democratic New York Evening Post confesses that there is no evidence of any democratic gains from the republican party on the new issue of imperialism to be discovered in the returns from these states. Mr. Hanna professes to be somewhat alarmed and tells the republicans to arouse themselves or New York and Indiana may slip away from them.

—The NEWS presents both the republican and Bryan county tickets for the edification of our readers. The paper gets supports from all parties and it certainly can afford to print the tickets so the people may learn the candidates up for office. The paper will carry on a clean campaign and no abuse will be allowed in its columns. If the people will only study the issues in a careful manner we do ... We all want to —Great care should be exercised in regard to fire during this dry spell It would be good bye to a large portion of Genesee if a fire once got a good start.

—Smallpox, which has been prevalent in light form at Colville during the summer and was pronounced harmless by physicians, is growing malignant with the advent of cool weather.

—There will be no preaching in the Methodist church next Sunday owing to the absence of Rev. C. R. Howard who is attending conference at Dayton, Wash. From there Mr. Howard will go to Milton, Ore., to assist in the opening of the Columbian College at that place.

—Buyers are offering five cents for live hogs and complain because they cannot get enough to supply the demand. Beef is also in brisk demand, an ordinary calf brings $12 and a yearling from $20 to $22. Sheep meat is equally as high. Continue these high prices a few years and we'll see a very prosperous country.

—A number of special days already have been assigned at the Spokane Industrial Exposition, which opens Oct. 2. Those days which have been asked for and granted thus far are:

Wednesday, Oct. 3, Fire Chief's Day and fireman's tournament and parade.

Thursday, Oct. 4, Fruit Grower's Day.

Friday, Oct. 5, Red Men's Day.

Saturday, Oct. 6, Press Day.

Tuesday, Oct. 16, Spokane Day.

Besides these, others have asked for special days which have not yet been determined upon, among them being the Eagles, the Knights of Pythias, the Woodmen of the World, the Foresters and the traveling men.

Does the Baby Thrive

If not, something must be wrong with its food. If the mother's milk doesn't nourish it, she needs SCOTT'S EMULSION. It supplies the elements of fat required for the baby. If baby is not nourished by its artificial food, then it requires

Half a teaspoonful three or four times a day in its bottle will have the desired effect. It seems to have a magical effect upon babies and children. A fifty-cent bottle will prove the truth of our statements.

—Senator Henry Heitfeld is spending a few days on his fine ranch a few miles southwest of town. Hope he will visit Genesee before returning to Washington for the winter.

—John Wesley Stump took one dear drink the other day at Colfax. Just to be a good fellow he drank once with a stranger. When he came to consciousness he was lying beside the railroad track with his head beaten into a jelly and $110 of his money gone.

—The rural delivery system in this county is giving excellent satisfaction and the patrons are greatly pleased with the service. When the farmers go home at noon and find papers and letters awaiting perusal it is pretty fine. The Smith boys, Hove, Greiser and others think it all right. The service is a great convenience, and will result in farmers being better posted whenever they can take advantage of market reports. Some of the patrons say they would be about as well satisfied with a three-times-a-week service, and would be pleased to see their unfortunate neighbors enjoying the free delivery privilege. Perhaps if this matter was properly brought before Senator Shoup or the department at Washington the system would be extended.

The emergency bage sent by a church society to Kansas soldiers in the Philippines contained among the necessities a box of DeWitt's Wich Hazel Salve, the well known cure for piles, injuries and skin diseases. —Raymond & Co. will buy all the fruit you have to sell.

—Mr. Thompson is building more hay warehouse room.

—Mrs. Caroline Bressler returned from Cheney last week.

—Sweet, Crane and Shoup tomorrow night. All hear them.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Goodnight visited Lewiston Wednesday.

—Evangelist Martin departed for Lewiston Wednesday morning.

—F. D. Hasbrouck left Sunday morning for Boise to attend the Masonic grand lodge.

—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Attig, of Nebraska, visited the Wolfer people a few days the past week.

—Mrs. T. Kennedy is taking advantage of excursion rates and is on visit with friends at Seattle.

—Lou Krum and Chas. Ingle have been in and loaded up with choice reading for the coming year.

—Miss Robin Conn, of Pasley, Ore., niece of G. N. Hollister, arrived here last week to remain permanently.

—The Baxter residence in the western part of town is receiving the finishing touches. A neat dwelling.

—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Power drove to Moscow yesterday, the former to attend the meeting of the central committee.

—Johnnie Spencer left Wednesday morning for Milton, Or., where he will attend the Columbian College. Best wishes go with him.

—Mrs. Frank Edwards of Cul de Sac has been visiting friends in Genesee this week. E. T. Brandon of the same place was also here this week.

—Genesee is in need of a creamery. During the past month it has been almost impossible to get butter of any kind, even the very poorest quality.

—There must be some patriotic people on the hill at the John Reed residence. The stars and stripes are floating in the breeze high in the air. It is a Roosevelt flag.

—A ball is advertised for tonight the proceeds to be given to James Deacon. The Swidensky orchestra of Lewiston will furnish the music. Trip the light fantastic and help poor Deacon.

—The Grant people took their departure Sunday morning for their Oregon home. A number of people went to the depot to bid them farewell and wish them happiness in their new location.

—The weather has been a little on the warm order since Sunday, something like 86 under Kennedy's shade trees. Old timers predict a long dry fall and an early winter.

—Spokane fruit fair. The round trip fare, October 1st to 16 inclusive, $4.55. Tickets limited five days from date of sale. Final limit not later than October 19. Children between ages 5 to 12 half of above rate.

—Tom Stinson has operated a threshing machine for many years and says he never threshed as much No. 1 milling wheat in one fall as he has this year. The other threshers make similar claims.

—A business college has been opened in Moscow under management of Wm. Perkins. A person can begin at any time. Fall term opens Sept. 17. Good character and a desire to learn are the only qualifications required. Book-keeping, commercial arithmetic, spelling, penmanship, grammar, typewriting, stenography, etc., will be taught.

—D. H. Knott, a neighbor and who came over from the Asotin country with Mr. Buell to work in our harvest fields, came to Genesee Wednesday to return home, not knowing his friend had died. Mrs. Buell returned home with him. The lady is very grateful to all who so liberaly contributed money, and through the NEWS desires to thank all, and especially Jim Long for the active part he took in securing much of the money. After paying all expenses which amounted to over $50, Mrs. Buell had $119 to take home with her.

—The grain movement from the farms to the warehouses the past two weeks has transformed railroad avenue or front street into a regular Chicago market street. Driscoll and Wood each have one house filled and are rapidly filling their second. Russell, Evans and Hibbs, and Mr. Dickson will have all the grain they can shelter. The new house of Mr. Vollmer's will be filled to the rafters and likewise the two flouring mill establishments. With ten large buildings it is feared additional platforms will have to be constructed. The back street presented many lively scenes of late.

True Economy

The difference of cost between a good and a poor baking powder would not amount for a family's supply to one dollar a year. The poor powder would cost many times this in doctors' bills.

Royal Baking Powder may cost a little more per can, but it insures perfect, wholesome food. In fact, it is more economical in the end, because it goes further in leavening and never spoils the food.

Royal Baking Powder used always in making the biscuit and cake saves both health and money.

You cannot, if you value good health, afford to use cheap, low-grade, alum baking powders. They are apt to spoil the food; they do endanger the health. All physicians will tell you that alum in food is poisonous

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

—Dr. Hayes visited Moscow over Tuesday night.

—C. B. Rhodes has leased the Glidden place on Fix Ridge.

—Miss Lulu French's genial countenance is with us again.

—Several on the sick list this week—too much fruit and watermelon.

—Mrs. Mattie Conway and children of Magnolia have been entertained by Genesee people the past week.

—J. D. Williams, of Portland, a lightning compositor, is assisting the NEWS during the rush of work.

—The large elevator and shed of the Tacoma Grain Co. are about filled and more room has been added.

—Beautiful weather still continues. The weather for harvesting has been the finest we have had for many years.

—Jimmie Armstrong was up from Lewiston this week, on a sheep-buying expedition. He has a flock of 2,500, getting 1,500 lambs this season from 1,000 ewes.

—Jim Dutton, the architect, left Wednesday morning for Ashland, Or., to assist in the construction of Mr. Grant's residence. He expects to be gone about six weeks. The business of the firm here will be carried on by his partner John Nelson.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. Erickson came down from the reservation Tuesday. Mr. Erickson says the farmers up his way are happy in the midst of a great harvest, and getting $1.25 a bushel for their flax. They came down to look after their grain and fruit crop near Blaine.

—Married, at the home of the bride's sister in Genesee, on September 2nd, 1900, by Rev. C. R. Howard, Frank Bowman and Miss Sarah Calbriath, both of this vicinity. Only a few relatives and friends were present to witness the ceremony. Friends join the NEWS in extending hearty congratulations to the young couple.

—R. H. Russell is a very busy man. He is taking in grain right and left, and though it has been only about ten days since he had finished a 100-foot addition to his large house, it is now nearly full of grain and carpenters are at work making more store room. An army of men are at work from early morn till late at night taking good care of the wheat. Robert is striving hard to please his customers and is succeeding admirably.

[redacted]

—The J. A. McDonald family, of Lewiston, moved into the Davis house, recently vacated by the Grant people.

—The Rimrock Mill is grinding new wheat. A shipment of 200 barrels was made up the Clearwater this week.

—Will Burr and Z. W. Delander left Monday morning to take in the exposition and sights at Portland. We hope they will escape the blue coats with brass buttons.

—Owing to the fact that Ed. Follett cannot serve as a member of the school board, the place will be filled by appointment. The board received legal advice in this matter.

—Geo. W. Daggett returned from Spokane Tuesday and brought the cheering news that Mrs. Mathews was out of danger and in a fair way to recovery. This is good news.

—A stiff breeze started up yesterday noon which may wind up in giving the earth a needed soaking. It is quite likely to rain as Mr. Al. Haymond has the thrashing crew at his place.

—Mr Lambert, the creamery man, and family, came up from the valley last week to take a look at Genesee. The people like this favored locality, and we believe if the truth was known, they are sorry they did not locate in our city.

—Genesee public schools open next Monday, Sept. 17. The six teachers are on deck ready to perform hard work. It is hoped by the board and teachers that as many children will start in Monday as can possibly do so as it will help the instructors to better arrange the classes. By starting in at the opening will also be better for the scholars.

—It is rumored that a change will be made in the train schedule of this branch. Genesee is to be given two trains daily. All of our train men will be taken to Pullman to reside and the train made to make two trips each day—forenoon and afternoon. While the train service might be improved, Genesee will not like any change that will take away four or five good families. Hope it's only a rumor.

—The Catholic school started up last week with an attendance of sixty scholars. Four ladies are installed to assist Father Keyzer: Sister Lucia in charge of the higher class; Sister Augustine in charge of the primary; Sister Caecilia in charge of the music, and Sister Francis of the kitchen. As soon as the busy season is over and the new building completed, many more scholars are expected. Another instructor will be secured. Last year the scholars made great advancement and greater progress is expected in the future.

10 acres of land, house and barn, at Pine Grove school house, for sale. Inquire of Mrs. Rev. Harris, Genesee. A good orchard on the place.

—Grand millinery opening next Wednesday, Sept. 19. Latest styles in hats and bonnets will be exhibited.

MARY KEANE WELCH.

—John T. Emerson, of Lewiston, was a Genesee visitor this week.

—Frank Kraut has rented the Akin ranch and will try his luck there.

—Wm. Hickman started yesterday for Forest on the Salmon with Mr. and Mrs. Dorchester.

—Frank Harrington, the waiter and cook at the Cool restaurant, made a trip to Lewiston Tuesday night.

—M. A. Means visited Orofino the past week where his store is doing a thriving business Since his return he sold a $500 bill of clothing to a Cul de Sac merchant.

—Wheat 42 cents. It is believed that if the Chinese blockade was raised and allow the ships to ply the waters, a good price would be offered our farmers for their cereal. This war is as tame now as the Filipino and the Boer wars.

—D. Spurbeck had rather a close call one day this week while feeding a threshing machine. A tooth in the cylinder broke lose, knocking Mr. Spurbeck's hat off as it whizzed by him. An inch closer and it is hard telling what would have been the result.

—Mrs. Mary Keane Welch and her mother took advantage of the excursion rates and left for Portland Monday to visit friends and buy goods. Mrs. Keane will visit a brother whom she has not seen for thirty years. In their absence Mr. Welch will trim and sell hats between political bouts.

—Some of the young people got out the other evening and routed Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Boliou from their slumbers. When their mission was made known the door was opened and in filed Misses Hodgins, Stamps, Lorang, Nebelsieck, Messrs. Kennedy, Delander, Vollmer. Cool, Moore. Cards and refreshments occupied the attention of the people for three hours.

—Here are the rules adopted for the Genesee public schools: Disobedience—Any pupil who shall be guilty of disobedience or insubordination or whose example is injurious and whose reformation appears to be hopless, shall be suspended by the Superintendent and notice of such suspension shall be given immediately to the parent or guardian and to the clerk of the board. The Superintendent shall have power to suspend; the board reserves the right to expel. Tardiness—Each tardiness or half-day absence or absence of greater length of time must be accounted for by a written excuse. In case the pupil does not furnish the written excuse, such negligence suspends until reinstated by the board. Excuses—The only valid excuses shall be: 1st, sickness of the pupil, or some member of the family requiring the attendance of the pupil at home. 2nd, Some urgent case rendering attendance impossible or extremely inconvenient. Parents are requested not to send their pupils to the school until after the ringing of the 8:30 bell.

Still More Counterfeiting.

The Secret Service has unearthed another band of counterfeiters and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always selected by counterfeiters for imitation, notably the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators but no equals for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and general debility. The Bitters sets things right in the stomach, and when the stomach is in good order it makes good blood and plenty of it. In this manner the Bitters get at the seat of strength and vitality, and restore vigor to the weak and debilitated. Beware of counterfeits when buying.

No excuse for not getting your teeth fixed as Dr. Lemman is doing work at rates cheaper than eastern prices.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Will the new shirt waist man scream at a spider?

Brother Diaz of Mexico is on about as good terms with his job as any statesman now on the payroll.

A burglar in New Jersey tickles the feet of his victims when he robs them. This is to show them where the laugh comes in.

China has one-fourth of the world's population, one-twelfth of its land surface and is likely, in the near future, to have the largest graveyard on record.

The Sultan is horrified at the treatment of Christians in China. We suspect, however, that he has a good chuckle all to himself after every thrill of horror.

It is really startling to learn that the New York "pantsmakers" have been on strike. One would naturally suppose that in Gotham they would be "trousers constructors."

The whale that sank the pilot boat may feel very cocky over his success, but some day he will try his little game on a torpedo boat and then old Neptune will see a commotion on his premises.

A religious (?) man rents a pew for $3,000 a year and it has been discovered that he sublets half of it at a little advance on $3,000. The eye of the needle will be extremely small for that man.

Writing love stories caused the insanity of a young woman of Cleveland. The particular difficulty is not specified, but it is probable that her mind became unbalanced from efforts to settled the mooted question, "How should men propose?"

The circumstance that three Paris physicians have, after deep and exhaustive investigation, discovered an anti-alcoholic serum is, of course, important. Its importance is somewhat lessened, however, by the circumstance that a San Francisco physician made the same discovery about four years ago. Being an American, he got scant recognition. Medical discoveries, like other prophets, require a foreign trademark in order to secure attention.

When it is said that the Deutschland has crossed the Atlantic at an average speed of twenty-three knots an hour the average landsman is much impressed. Yet he usually does not realize the full significance of the statement. A knot, or nautical mile, is 805 feet longer than a statute mile. Therefore an average speed of twenty-three knots means that the Deutschland made an average of twenty-six and a half miles an hour, or 636 miles a day. The most incredible performance of the human mind is the ocean steamship. The most incredible part of that performance is the marine engine.

The extraordinary carelessness of parents in leaving dangerous drugs within reach of children is in marked contrast with governmental supervision over druggists and physicians. A few weeks ago a man bought some chloroform with which to kill a dog, and while waiting to use it, wrapped the bottle in a cloth and tucked in into a work-basket. Two little children found it, presumably fancied it a sick doll, and took it to bed with them. In the morning the child clasping the uncorked bottle was found dead; the other unconscious, past recovery. So bitter an experience emphasizes the oft-repeated and oft-forgotten warning that the first essential for the family medicine-chest is a lock and key.

Miss Helen Gould knows how to be happy, though rich. The pretty story of the dance at Fort Yellowstone, in which Miss Gould waltzed with the troopers and had a good democratic time, is one of many. It is the art of being human—human in manner, thought and sympathy. It is not easy for one overburdened with wealth to escape the sin of pride and avoid the aloofness which draws a line between fortune's pets and common humanity. But Miss Gould does it, simply and naturally. It is an example worthy of imitation. Great wealth can be made the means of happiness only when employed as other gifts should be—in making others happy. Selfishness is the one unfailing source of misery. To be happy one should think nothing of one's self, but everything of others. Miss Gould seems to be unostentatiously practicing this human art.

Once more the dark shadow of tragedy rests upon the Italian peninsula, as it so often has rested in its great past. The assassination of King Humbert of Italy at Monza, the ancient capital of the Lombard kings, comes with a greater shock of surprise now to the civilized world than it would have done eight or ten years ago, when his country was staggering under the enormous burden of taxation necessary to keep Italy in line with the other members of Europe's famous "league of peace," the triple appliance. Had it occurred even so late as the Abyssinian war, when all Italy turned to its king and despairingly asked, "Where are the legions we sent to Adowa?" it would, in either of these cases at least, have been explainable, even though unjust and foolish. Coming now when Italy, though still under heavy burdens, has reached a condition in striking contrast to that of eight or ten years ago, when time has healed, partially at least, the wounds of Adowa, the dastardly crime which has shocked the world lacks any explanation except the obvious and charitable one of insanity. It is true the socialists and anarchists as late as 1898 succeeded in raising riots which at one time seemed to threaten the perpetuity of the government, but the people as a mass did not sympathize with these foes to order and settled progress. The peasantry have been gradually gaining in comfort, education and self-respect; the country is at peace; the son of Victor Emmanuel was recognized as the "loyal king," the ruler who always kept his word; as the "gentleman king," the monarch always courteous to his humblest subjects; and as the "soldier king," whose valor was never questioned. Under these circumstances it is charitable to believe that the assassin who has plunged Italy in mourning is insane. Should it prove otherwise the terrible crime would make the friends of progress and order throughout the world less optimistic in their hope and belief.

The action of the officials of the Rock Island Road in placing a ban on cigarette smoking on the part of employes, following similar action by the Burlington road, will not fail to impress the public mind with the fact that the movement against the cigarette is one of business and not of sentiment. Discussion of the cigarette habit has been confined largely to the domain of ethics, although we are treated to occasional disquisitions from the medical fraternity upon the deleterious effects of the practice upon the mind and body. The public has learned, however, that it is not always necessary to take the doctors seriously upon these questions. The doctor has been found to be a very fallible human being, given to much guessing and learned speculation. It is found that men quite often grow fat on diets and drinks that are condemned by the physician. But when a lot of hard-headed railway officials, who are not animated in their business by sentimental considerations, promulgate ironclad edicts against the use of the cigarette among their employes it is a safe assumption that they have found the habit to be positively harmful, so much so that it impairs the usefulness of those who are addicted to it, and, if indulged in to excess, renders them unfit for the peculiar responsibilities that belong to the railway service. There is perhaps no industrial service in this country that depends for its success upon the steady nerve and the unflinching fidelity of employes as does the railway service. It is found that excessive cigarette smoking shatters the nerves and clouds the intellect. Men who become slaves to the habit are not dependable men. They cannot be relied upon in the emergencies that are incident to the railway business. Rather than make any rules governing or regulating indulgence in the habit, the railway companies wisely concluded that the safest course is to forbid the practice entirely. When the railway managers and the doctors get together on the cigarette question all defense of the pernicious habit might as well be abandoned.

Charm of the Crimea.

In the late Charles A. Dana's "Eastern Journeys," there is a fine word picture expressive of the charm of the Crimea, and the delight it has in store for travelers, who are not too much in a hurry:

"Starting in the morning from Sebastopol, and driving with one or two changes of horses, we traversed the southern projection of the peninsula, and at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon passed through the Gates of Baidar, as the passage through the Iaila Mountains is called, and looked down upon one of the noblest spectacles in the world. Immediately before us lay the boundless sea, the shore rocky and broken, with villages, churches, castles, and little seaports, all made accessible by the great road cut into the mountain side here and there, and then built out upon walls over some abyss or valley below, alone enough to make the name of Prince Michael Worontzoff forever memorable in all southeastern Russia. The vegetation of the mountain slopes toward the sea is wonderfully varied and interesting. The prevailing trees are oaks and beeches, with pinion pines, cypresses, myrtles, mulberry trees, and occasionally fig trees mingled among them.

First View of a Live Cow.

The passengers on a Coney Island trolley car were entertained the other day by a small boy who on this trip, which he was making with his mother, saw his first live cow; this animal, which interested him greatly, being tethered in a vacant lot and quietly grazing.

"What's that, mother?" he asked, suddenly, as from the flying trolley car his eye fell on the cow.

"Why, that's a cow," was the answer.

"A real cow?" said the youngster.

"Certainly."

"Looks just like the pictures, doesn't it?"

"Yes."

"Give milk?"

"Yes."

"Looks something like a horse."

"Yes, something."

"But it's got longer hair," and so on, with the whole car trying not to laugh loud enough to disturb the inquisitive small boy's mother.—New York Sun.

Excusing Railroad Conductors.

The Supreme Court of Michigan recently held that a conductor is not bound to give women and children assistance in alighting from the cars.

Ravenous Wolves in Russia.

The wolves of Russia devour annually 180,000 head of cattle, 500,000 sheep and 100,000 dogs.

You're a coward. You may deny it, but down in your heart you know you're one.

GREEN BUSHES.

The green bushes when first I loved you,
When we met and my heart approved you,
Tossed the gold and the scarlet high,
Gold and scarlet went drifting by.
Ochone, the wind and the weather!
Days when you and I were together;
Much we heeded the leaf on the tree;
'Twas hearts' springtime to you and me.

The green bushes when we were married
White rose and red rose carried,
When you drew me your threshold o'er,
Rose and white for our wedding floor.
Ochone, the days that are over!
I beloved, and you my lover,
Little we cared what the world might say,
You and I on our wedding day.

The green bushes grow thin and shiver,
You and I we are lovers ever;
Cheek to cheek and heart to heart,
Still true lovers that none can part.
Ochone, winter goes sighing,
Love in a world of care and dying;
Ah, forget that I made you sad,
Yet remember I made you glad.

The green bushes grow gay and vernal,
Spring comes back and Love is eternal;
In your arms come kiss, forgive me;
Had you ever the heart to grieve me,
Ochone?

A QUEER BLUNDER.

The morning sun brightened the gilt letters on the sign above the entrance to the stanch old warehouse, but its radiance was lost on the young man with keen, gray eyes who stood at the office door and hesitated before he turned the knob. In that brief moment he tried to recall the directions that Emily Quarles had given him.

"Father is peculiar," she had said. "You must know him before you can appreciate him." And Spencer Grant wondered how long it would be before this appreciative stage could be reached. He hadn't met this peculiar father, and here he was standing on the doormat of his office mustering up courage to go in and ask him for his daughter.

What else had Emily said? "Do not contradict father. Do just what he tells you to do. Let him have his own way. If he blusters and fumes, wait quietly. He will soon cool down. Father's gruff manner is largely assumed. If you have tact you will discover the way to handle him. Tell him truthfully, if you have a chance, how we met at Aunt Stanhope's, and that as soon as we were quite assured that we were all in all to each other, which, you must add, came to both of us as a complete surprise, I sent you directly to him. I will prepare him as far as I think judicious for your coming. Keep up a stout heart and guard your temper."

Spencer turned the knob and went in. There were several clerks writing in the outer office, but they did not look up as he passed along the narrow space before the high railing to the door marked "private." He knocked at this door, and a gruff voice bade him come in. Spencer summed up all his resolution and entered.

A sharp-featured old man with heavy eyebrows was seated at a desk, with his bushy gray head bent above a handful of papers.

"Sit down," he said, without looking up.

Spencer obeyed, and after a little the old man raised his head, glanced at the clock, and then gave the young man a long, searching glance. As he did so he drew a letter toward him and glanced at a page of it. Again he stared at Spencer.

"Well," he said abruptly, "you are exactly on time. You were to be here precisely at 10. This argues well for your early training. You have made a good impression on me to start with."

Spencer murmured his pleasure at this favorable comment, but the old man interrupted him.

"Your father says here that you resemble him. He writes that the resemblance is so strong that I couldn't help but know who you were if I chanced to meet you elsewhere. I don't agree with him, though there is a family resemblance. You are much better looking than he ever dreamed of being."

"Did my father say that?" inquired Spencer hastily. He knew the thing was quite impossible. Emily's father was laboring under some queer delusion. But he didn't mean to contradict him.

"Yes, he did," chuckled the old man, with a grim smile. "Fathers with but one child are apt to be asses." Then his tone changed. "What can you do? Can you write shorthand? Do you understand typewriting? Can you compose a good letter? Can you spell?"

"I think," said Spencer, quietly, "that I can best answer that by saying that I have a pretty thorough business training that was picked up in four years of practical work. I've been hard at it, in fact, ever since I left college."

"Your father doesn't make any such claim," said the old man, referring again to the letter. "All he says is 'Try him.' I will. I've made a place for you. I am going to indulge in the luxury of a private secretary. Ha, ha, ha! Here, take these letters. See what answers they need. Answer 'em. That's your little side room there. Leave the door open—I may want to call you."

Spencer smilingly took up the letters and without a trace of hesitation went into the little room assigned him. He found the conveniences he needed, and with his amused smile deepening he went at his task.

Presently he heard the outer door of the office open and shut, and a moment later the following dialogue came to him through the half-closed door:

"So you have come," growled the old man.

"Yes, sir," said a mild voice with a little quaver in it.

"Well," said the old man, with a dangerous rising inflection, "I want to tell you that it can never be!"

"Do you mean that I won't do?" inquired the mild voice.

"That's just what I mean," snarled the old man. "Your comprehension does you credit."

"But how can you tell till you've tried me?" protested the mild voice.

"Tried you!" roared the old man. "What do you mean by that?"

"I mean, sir," said the mild voice hurriedly, "that I hardly think it's fair to condemn me unheard and untried. I was led to think you would show me more consideration."

"Oh, you were, were you?" snapped the old man. "Well, sir, you have been falsely led. I know my daughter much better than you do, sir!"

"Your daughter, sir?"

"Yes, my daughter. And don't you dare to mention her name."

"I—I had no intention of doing so, sir."

"Eh? Coming to your senses, are you? That's right. She's only a foolish, headstrong girl. In a month she'll forget your existence."

"But I don't see what your daughter has to do with it. She is nothing to me, sir."

"Spoken like a sensible youth. I thought I'd convince you. There, there, let the whole thing drop."

"And you positively refuse to give me a trial?"

"Confound you, there you go again! Do you take me for an idiot?"

"I—I wouldn't go as far as that, sir. You don't seem to understand that I was led to believe you would give me an opportunity to show my worth. I am greatly disappointed, sir."

"Heavens, man, are we going over all that again?"

"Try me for a month, sir."

"Not for a minute!"

"For a week."

"Leave the room, sir! Go, sir! Go to the idiot asylum and marry somebody in your own mental class."

"I'm going, sir. My father will be greatly surprised at your unreasonable treatment."

"Your father! Who cares for your father? Why doesn't he keep his weak-minded children at home?"

"Good day, sir."

The door closed with a sharp bang, and there was a brief silence.

"I wonder what the deuce he meant by saying he'd tell his father?" Spencer heard the old man mutter. "Who's his father? Well, whoever he is, his son shall never marry my daughter. What in the world could she have seen in such an unbalanced fellow?"

His heavy step sounded on the floor, and when Spencer looked up the old man was gazing down at him from the doorway. His face was very red and his white hair still bristled with indignation.

"Well, Mr. Secretary," he said, "how are we coming on?"

"Very well, sir," replied Spencer. "I'll lay these replies upon your desk in a few moments."

"Good," said the old man.

"By the way," said Spencer, "what do you want me to say to Van Annam & Co.? They make an offer for your stock of cochineal, you know."

"Accept it and tell them we'll ship the stuff to-morrow."

"I wouldn't do that," said the secretary.

"Eh!" cried the astonished old man.

"You don't seem to know that there is a corner forming in dyestuffs," said Spencer, with a slight smile. "Wait a minute, and I will telephone fo[redacted] latest quotations."

He arose as he spoke and stepped [redacted] the outer office and entered the [redacted] phone box.

"It is just as I supposed," he sa[redacted] he rejoined the old man. "Coch[redacted] jumped 34 per cent at the openi[redacted] the market this morning."

"Well, papa?" she cried, as she stepped forward.

The old man's lips tightened. "I sent him packing," he said rapidly. "A most reprehensible young fellow. You didn't know him, my dear."

Before she could indignantly reply an astonishing apparition appeared in the doorway of the inner room. It was Spencer—it was Spencer, bareheaded, with a pen in one hand and a bundle of letters in the other. As he caught her eye he put his finger to his lips, shook his head at her over the old man's shoulder, and drew back."

"Oh, father," was all Emily could say.

"Don't feet bad, my child," said the old man, with a little tenderness in his tone. "You will soon forget him." He lowered his voice. "I've got a young fellow inside here"—he jerked his thumb toward the inner door—"who is just the man for you. Smart, splendid family, good-looking, bright as a new dollar. Saved me $2,735 this very morning! Hadn't been at work twenty minutes. Wait a little, and I'll introduce him."

"Let me have a look at him!" cried Emily, and she darted to the door.

"Good morning," she said to Spencer.

"Good morning," answered that smiling youth, with an eloquent grimace.

Emily turned to her astonished parent.

"He'll do," she said. "Come out here, sir,' and they came forward hand in hand.

"Bless my soul!" cried the paralyzed father.

"You are quite right, papa," said Emily. "He is just the man for me. In fact, I've thought so for some time, and yet I don't believe you really know who he is. You are getting reckless, daddy. Tell him who you are, Spencer?"

The young man gravely straightened his face.

"I am Spencer Grant, of Spencer Grant & Co., importers of dyestuffs and druggists' supplies, and entirely at Mr. Richard Quarles' service."

"Spencer Grant & Co.!" gasped the old man, as a look of horror came over his face. "Then who was the other fellow?"

"I'm afraid," said Spencer gently, "that it was the highly-recommended son of your old friend."

"Awful!" groaned the old man. "I was right when I said fathers with one child are asses. How can I explain?"

"Suppose you leave the explanation to your new secretary," said Emily.

"Let me suggest," said Spencer, with a happy smile, "that you leave it to the junior member of the new firm of Quarles & Grant."

And then the grim old man chuckled.

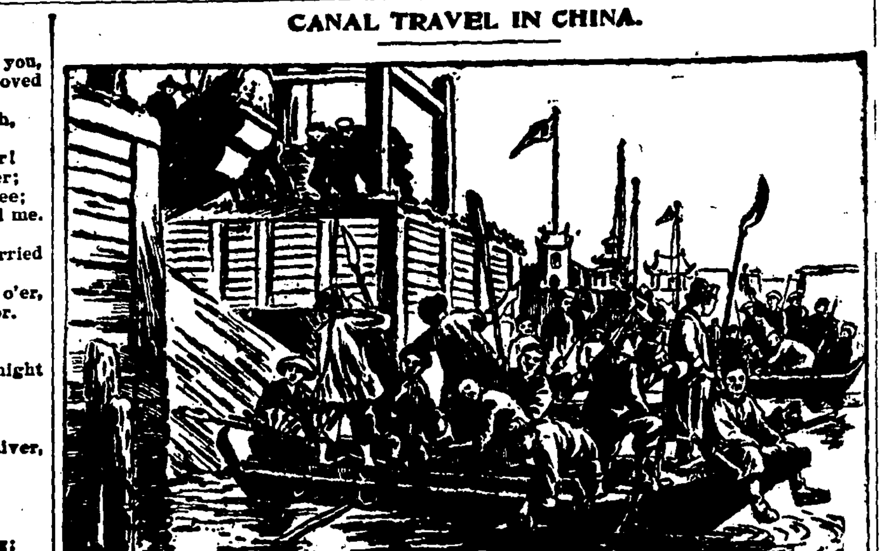
CANAL TRAVEL IN CHINA.



Travel in China is principally by canal, the greatest of which is the Imperial or Grand canal, connecting Canton and Pekin. Innumerable branches passing through countless cities, towns and villages connect the utmost limits of the empire with this main artery of waterways. To overcome the difference of level between two canals, a peculiar and ingeniously constructed glacis, sloping at an angle of 45 degrees, is used, and by means of a capstan or two the boat is drawn over until, having passed the point of equilibrium, it is launched into the lower canal. To prevent the boat shipping too much water, a screen of wickerwork is fixed at the bow. The rivers and canals are the real highways of China, and by these the hordes of Boxers from the inland provinces flock to the coast towns and foreign settlements. The illustration shows a band of Boxers on the way to fight the "foreign devils."

Home Feeling.

As Swiss love their mountains, so the Eskimos of Alaska love their bleak, desolate country. The supply of food is limited, and the natives are at times in danger of starving. As they number about five thousand, and could be stowed in half a dozen emigrant ships, it has been proposed to send them to a land in which it is fit for human beings to live.

The proposal overlooks the fact that the Eskimos think they are living in the most beautiful country in the world, and therefore would not go to another. Dr. Field, in his narrative of travel through "Our Western Archipelago," tells a pathetic story illustrative of their love of their native land.

Now and then one or two Eskimos are brought to the United States, but how downcast and miserable they look! Our climate is intolerable to them. Plucky Girl.

New York.—Five persons were saved from injury or death recently by Miss Ada Mayo Railey, daughter of Col. Charles L. Railey, a well-known horseman of Lexington, Ky. A. H. Calef of New York, secretary and treasurer of the Missouri Pacific Railroad company, with Mrs. Calef and their guests, Miss Alice Neale and Mrs. Winston Barrett of Chicago, and Miss Railey, had driven in an open 'bus from Mr. Calef's cottage at Sea Bright to Pleasure bay, and were returning when, after having gone some distance, they discovered that the coachman was not on the box and that the horses, a pair of powerful animals, were running away.

Mr. Calef jumped in an effort to gain the horses' heads, but was thrown on the ground and the team dashed on, every moment gaining speed. Miss Railey, who is known throughout Kentucky as a horsewoman of remarkable skill, climbed through a window scarcely large enough to admit her slender body sidewise, managed to get hold of one line, and threw one of the horses, bringing the vehicle to a sudden stop on the edge of a ditch near the approach to the bridge across the bay. The frightened occupants climbed out, and with the assistance of a passerby untangled the animals from the broken harness. No one was injured except Mr. Calef, who was severely bruised by his fall.

Big Strike Delayed.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 9.—After an all-day session the national executive board of the United Mine Workers of America adjourned after issuing a statement postponing the order for a strike pending negotiations. Officials say that influences are at work to adjust the trouble, but decline to say what they are. This action means that the miners of the anthracite region may not strike tomorrow, although danger of a strike has not been removed. The men are ordered to remain in readiness to go out. The mine workers' officials refuse to say how far negotiations have progressed or by what means they are being carried on with the operators.

Strikers Refused Credit.

At Sugar Notch and Warrior Run the miners have been notified that if they go out on a strike Monday all credit will cease from that date. In past strikes the miners, as a general thing, were given liberal credit by the storekeepers.

Scabs Get Protection.

Shamokin, Pa., Sept. 9.—All the superintendents of the local collieries today issued notice to the men that the mines will not cease operation and that all men desiring to continue work next Monday will be given full protection.

King County Strike.

Seattle, Sept. 9.—One hundred and fifty men employed in the Leary coal mines of this county have gone out on strike because of the company's refusal to accede to a demand for 10 cents per car increase in wages and an additional 25 cents per day hire for the common laborers.

Washington's Prohibition Ticket.

Seattle, Wash., Sept 6.—The prohibition state convention nominated the following ticket:

For governor—R. E. Dunlap of Seattle.

Lieutenant governor—C. T. Hall of Walla Walla.

Representatives—J. A. Adams of North Yakima, Guy Posson of Seattle.

Supreme judge—Everett Smith of Seattle.

Auditor—A. W. Steers of Seattle.

Secretary of state—J. W. McCoy of Waitsburg.

State treasurer—C. C. Gridley of Vancouver.

Attorney general—Ovid A. Byers of Seattle.

State land commissioner—J. C. McKinley of Everett.

Superintendent of education—A. H. Sherwood of Everett.

Electors—F. L. Gwin of Garfield, G. W. Plummer of Tacoma, H. D. Skinner of Spokane, H. H. Brown of Bay Center.

Prices Paid in Spokane.

Poultry and Eggs — Chickens, old, 10@11c per lb, live weight; springs, $4.00@4.50 per doz; ducks, $4@5 per doz; geese, dressed, 12c per lb; turkeys, live, 11@12c; dressed, 12@13c; eggs, fresh, $4@4.50 per case.

Vegetables—Potatoes, 30@40c per cwt; onions, $1@1.50 per cwt.

Live stock—Beef, live steers, 4c; dressed, 6½@7½c; live cows, 3c; dressed, 5¾@6½c; veal calves, dressed 7@9c; mutton, ewes, 3c; wethers, 3½c; hogs, live, $4.75 per cwt; dressed, $7 per cwt.

Sheep skins—Shearlings, 10c each; short wool pelts, 30@50c; medium, 50@75c; long wool, 75c@$1.

The local mills pay the following prices for grain, delivered: Club wheat, 45c bulk, 47c sacked; bluestem, 47c bulk, 49c sacked; red, 43c bulk, 45c sacked.

Wonderful Invention.

Chicago—The Chronicle says: G. W. Ritchie, superintendent of the Chicago University observatory, has perfected a device which makes it possible for astronomers to use the ordinary visual telescope for photographic purposes. This means that a tremendous advance will be made in photographic astronomy. Heretofore only a particular style of telescope could be used in photographing the constellations.

Prof. Kurt Laves of the astronomy department, says: "The new device will be the means of adding a vast fund of information to the data recently obtained by photographs of the Milky Way and the small planets."

Boys Perished in a Mine.

Seattle, Sept. 9.—Ulysses Kelly, aged 12 years, and George Oglesby were killed by fire damp in an abandoned shaft at Newcastle. The former descended into the hole to look for a chicken which he had thrown therein, and was followed by Oglesby. Both were overcome by the vapor and fell to the bottom of the shaft.

Spokane's Exposition.

The Spokane Industrial Exposition, will be held this year from October 2d to the 16th inclusive. The management is new and many new features are to be added. Mr. W. E. Hawley, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is secretary and manager. The work of preparing for the Exposition was commenced earlier than ever before and in consequence many improvements are promised. It has been decided to reduce the admission fee from the twenty-five cents of last year to fifteen cents, which will undoubtedly make the attendance larger than ever before. Many new entertainment features already have been secured, the greatest of which is the Royal Marine Band of Italy, forty pieces, twelve soloists and one tenor singer. This is the finest musical aggregation which ever came west and only was secured because they desired to make a trip to San Francisco. Music lovers of the east have gone mad over the magnificent music of this band.

Among a long list of entertainers who will contribute to the amusement as well as instruction of the visitors to the fair, in addition to the band, two or three famous performers have won world-wide reputations. Among these is Atlantic, who in beautiful flowing robes performs wonderful feats of fire dancing, all the while posing upon a large globe of fire which rolls about the stage under the control of the beautiful dancer. Little Nero, the wonderful 4-year-old tight-wire walker, is another big attraction.

The premium list for the exposition has been prepared with great care this year. It is now ready. A large amount of money has been appropriated for cash prizes, and in addition some splendid special premiums are offered. As usual generous cash prizes will be awarded to the county and district exhibits, and a $150 Studebaker wagon will be given to the best individual fruit exhibit raised on one farm; a $75 double set of harness will be awarded for the best individual exhibit of grains, grasses, roots and vegetables; a $50 steel range for the best exhibit of canned goods and preserves; a $50 improved Spokane sewing machine for the best exhibit of jellies and pickles; a handsome $85 light wagon for the best individual display of garden truck; a $175 buggy for the best general exhibit of fruits, grains, grasses, roots and vegetables, raised by one man in either the Palouse or Big Bend country.

Last year the mineral department was universally pronounced one of the best, if not the best, at the exposition, and this year there will be a still better display of the mining resources of the Northwest.

TERRIBLE FLOODS IN TEXAS

HURRICANE WITH HEAVY RAIN

Galveston Suffered Most—Houston Also Suffered Heavily—Many Lives Lost and a Great Deal of Property Was Destroyed.

Houston, Texas, Sept. 9.—A hurricane, accompanied by a heavy rain, has been blowing along the Texas coast and for a hundred miles inland today. Galveston is shut off entirely. The last report from Galveston states that the Gulf waters were encroaching rapidly on the beach and that the flood reached into the residence portion of the city for several blocks. The waves were very high and boisterous in the bay and considerable damage was being done to small craft, though the big boats were not in any danger.

At Houston.

Houston, Texas, Sept. 9.—The wind blew 60 miles an hour in Houston at midnight and great damage is being done to business houses and residences throughout the city. The Associated Press wire is the only one that is working, all other telegraph and telephone business being shut off. The electric-light plant has been closed down, as the wires became crossed with telephone wires and some persons were shocked, though none was seriously injured. Several great brick and iron stacks have been blown over and tin roofs are as numerous on the ground as on houses. The streets are utterly deserted. So far there have been no casualties.

The storm has spread to the interior, and there is great anxiety in this city. Persons are offering extraordinary sums to the telegraph companies to get messages through to Galveston and other points, but nothing can be done for them. Up to midnight nothing has been heard from Galveston.

Rumor of Great Damage.

There is an unconfirmed rumor that the hurricane played havoc with the town of Rockport, on the lower coast, and that the great club house built by E. H. R. Green, near there, has been blown away, with loss of life.

Galveston Dispatch.

St. Louis, Sept. 9.—A dispatch to the Post-Dispatch from Galveston, Texas, says:

It is storming here now harder than ever known before. The waters of the gulf will be up in the streets of the city if the present blow keeps through the day. The water is very high now.

Low-Lying Parts Are Flooded.

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 9.—Possibly the last dispatch out of the flooded city of Galveston was received in San Antonio by Jerry Gierard, announcing the death of his brother by drowning. The entire lower portion of Galveston was then flooded and the people were huddled on higher ground, in the pouring rain, for safety. Gierard's brother was carried out to sea and drowned while endeavoring to rescue a family in a shanty that was being dashed to pieces by the waves.

All Texas Is Worried.

New Orleans, Sept. 9.—A special from Dallas, Texas, says:

All Texas is in the keenest state of doubt and uncertainty concerning the fate of Galveston island and city. It is said that the bridges leading from the mainland to the island have been swept away by the terrible force of the wind and the rolling up of the water in the bay. The bridges are four in number, three for railroad uses and one, the Galveston county wagon and pedestrian bridge. It seems hardly credible that all these bridges could be swept away without the city suffering great loss.

2500 Reported Drowned.

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 10.—The startling news has just flashed over the wires informing Governor Sayers that a messenger, at great risk of his life, has reached Virginia Point from Galveston with the report that 2500 persons are probably dead as a result of the fearful storm. An urgent appeal to all Texas for help was made. The messenger said that the grain elevators at the water front are wrecked and hundreds of buildings have collapsed or were carried out to sea. The greatest distress is said to prevail.

"Austin, Texas, Sept. 10.—Information has just reached me that about 3000 lives have been lost at Galveston, with enormous destruction of property. No information from other points.

"JOSEPH D. SAYERS, Governor."

Galveston Isolated.

Houston, Texas, Sept. 10.—Stories from Galveston tell of 2500 people drowned, the city submerged and awful suffering. Buildings have crumbled, occupants being thrown into the water which everywhere covers the island. All approaches from land are swept away, there is lack of water and food will be short.

Every southern Texas town that is reached reports one or more dead, and the property damage is so great that there is no way of computing it accurately.

Galveston remains isolated. The Houston Post and the Associated Press correspondents made efforts to get special trains and tugs today with which to reach the island city. The railroad companies declined to risk their locomotives. All sorts of rumors prevail, but with no substantial basis.

The Destroyed District.

St. Louis, Sept. 10.—A special from Austin, Texas, says:

From Red river on the north to the gulf on the south and throughout the central part of the state Texas has been storm-swept during the last 30 hours by a hurricane which has laid waste property interests, caused large loss of life and effectually blocked all telephonic and telegraphic systems, while operation of railroads has been seriously handicapped. Starting with the hurricane which visited the gulf coast Saturday and is still prevailing here to such an extent that no communication can be had with the island to ascertain what the loss of life and property is, the storm made rapid inroads into the center of the state, stopping long enough last night at Houston to damage over half the buildings of that city. Advancing inland the storm swept into Hempstead, 50 miles above Houston; thence to Chapel Hill, 20 miles further; thence to Brenham, 30 miles further, wrecking all three towns and terrifying the inhabitants. The Brazos bottom, which was the scene of disaster last year as the result of flood, suffered a large share of damage at the hands of the cyclone and was swept for fully 100 miles, everything being turned topsy turvy by the high winds and much destruction resulting to crops as well as farmhouse property.

Winds were accompanied by a heavy rainfall.

Later.

Dallas, Sept. 11.—Houston & Texas Central Railroad officials at noon received bulletins from their general offices in Houston that the loss of life will reach 3000 in Galveston. The M. K. & T. relief forces near Galveston and along the coast telegraphed at noon that the loss of life will not be less that 5000 and may reach 10,000.

Latest From Galveston.

Galveston, Sept. 11.—Fifteen hundred to 2600 persons drowned, a city almost in ruins, the wharf front entirely gone, every ocean steamer stranded and death and destruction on every hand, with a money loss that can not be estimated now, is, so far as can be learned at this hour, the result of the appalling calamity that has befallen Galveston. The great storm has left her helpless, and her stricken people are compelled to appeal to the outside world for aid. The estimates of loss of life vary between the figures given, but an accurate count of the dead is impossible now, and the real number killed in the storm will probably never be known. No one attempts to estimate the damage to business and residence property. The fine steamer Alamo lies upon the top of the Mallory wharf and a big English cotton-laden steamer was driven ashore at Texas City. Other vessels are aground in different parts of the bay, some hopelessly wrecked. The tug Louise of the Houston Direct Navigation company is under water at Redfish. Two of the crew were drowned, the remainder escaping in the lifeboat.

Rare Philippine Jewels.

The rarest corals in the world are to be found in the Philippines. As precious as this jewel is, there is still a rarer one, and that is health. It may be possessed by any one who will use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters for indigestion, dyspepsia, belching, heartburn or sleeplessness. Try it.

Russia Is Firm.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 9.—The support of Germany and Great Britain is not despaired of. But if they do not agree to do so, Russia, it is again asserted, will nevertheless firmly maintain her decision to withdraw her troops from Pekin.

The Merit of a Medicine

Is determined by the test,—Does it cure? We know Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure. People who take it for any disease caused by bad blood or a low state of the system say it cures. It is the great pure blood maker, stomach tonic and nerve strengthener. It cures dyspepsia, nervousness, debility, that tired feeling, and all blood diseases. Get only Hood's, because

SORES AND ULCERS.

Sores and Ulcers never become chronic unless the blood is in poor condition—is sluggish, weak and unable to throw off the poisons that accumulate in it. The system must be relieved of the unhealthy matter through the sore, and great danger to life would follow should it heal before the blood has been made pure and healthy and all impurities eliminated from the system. S.S.S. begins the cure by first cleansing and invigorating the blood, building up the general health and removing from the system all morbid, effete matter. A CONSTANT DRAIN UPON THE SYSTEM. When this has been accomplished the discharge gradually ceases, and the sore or ulcer heals. It is the tendency of these old indolent sores to grow worse and worse, and eventually to destroy the bones. Local applications, while soothing and to some extent alleviate pain, cannot reach the seat of the trouble. S.S.S. does, and no matter how apparently hopeless your condition, even though your constitution has broken down, it will bring relief when nothing else can. It supplies the rich, pure blood necessary to heal the sore and nourish the debilitated, diseased body.

Mr. I. B. Talbert, Lock Box 245, Winona, Miss., says: "Six years ago my leg from the knee to the foot was one solid sore. Several physicians treated me and I made two trips to Hot Springs, but found no relief. I was induced to try S.S.S., and it made a complete cure. I have been a perfectly well man ever since."

SSS is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known — contains no poisonous minerals to ruin the digestion and add to, rather than relieve your sufferings. If your flesh does not heal readily when scratched, bruised or cut, your blood is in bad condition, and any ordinary sore is apt to become chronic.

Send for our free book and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge for this service. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

CAN MAKE TERMS OF PEACE

LI HUNG CHANG HAS POWER.

He Is Authorized by Imperial Edict—Complete Settlement—Chinese Ministers Also Given Power—Emperor Will Be Produced.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The Chinese minister has received an imperial edict conferring on Li Hung Chang extraordinary powers for the complete settlement of the Chinese trouble. It gives him authority to make any terms according to his own discretion without referring them to the emperor. This is unusual authority, and it is claimed at the Chinese legation gives Li Hung Chang credentials adequate to meet all the objections heretofore raised to his power to negotiate for peace. The edict is dated two weeks ago, but is just forwarded from Li Hung Chang. Minister Wu delivered it to the state department this morning.

Ministers Will Co-Operate.

London, Sept. 11.—The Chinese minister in London, it is understood, has received credentials authorizing the opening of peace negotiations. It is intimated that similar powers have been conferred on the Chinese ministers at other capitals and that their credentials are such as will satisfy the American and European governments.

Will Produce the Emperor.

Pekin, Sept. 8.—It is unofficially but probably stated that Prince Ching will produce the emperor. The situation seems to hang upon this condition.

If Prince Ching can discover the emperor, his majesty's rule will probably be re-established, as there is no other likely candidate. Prince Ching comes under the imperial edict, and two other leading Chinamen will be deputed to assist to negotiate a settlement, one of whom will probably be Li Hung Chang.

Chung Li Arrested.

New York, Sept. 11.—A dispatch from London says:

Chung Li, military commander of Pekin, who is responsible for the murder of the German minister, has been arrested and is confined under German jurisdiction.

Negotiations Suspended at Taku.

Taku.—Adjutant General, Washington: Afternoon 4th—Evidence accumulates that diplomatic relations will not be resumed here for a long time. The Russian legation will leave very soon for Tientsin. It appears to me certain that the Chinese government will not return here while the foreign army remains, and if this is true our legation can transact no business. My opinion is that Pekin is to be merely a camp for the foreign army pending a settlement by the powers at other points.

"CHAFFEE."

Will Remain.

London, Sept. 11.—A special dispatch from Berlin says that Great Britain and Germany have agreed not to evacuate Pekin until further satisfaction for the recent outrages has been obtained.

Condition of Wheat Crop.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The condition of winter and spring wheat is 69.6 against 70.9 last year. That of corn is 80.6.

The banana trust, according to the Minneapolis Journal, destroyed 101 carloads of bananas near St. Louis so as "to maintain the price."

During the present season about a dozen strikes have taken place in Dayton, O., which is one of the best organized towns in the country, over 12,000 workers being affiliated with the central body. No less than 3000 of these workers have been injunctioned by the courts and the laborites are beginning to regard restraining orders as a mere farce.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Missionaries Murdered.

Shanghai, Sept. 9.—Ten American missionaries and three American children, two Danish missionaries and one British missionary, stationed in Shansi province, were murdered late in July, according to accurate reports received. They were: Stationed at Ten Chow Fu, Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Prince, Rev. and Mrs. E. R. Atwater, all of the American board, one child of Mr. and Mrs. Prince and Mr. and Mrs. Atwater's two children; Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Lundgren, Danes, and Miss Aldridge, British. Stationed at Taiku, Rev. and Mrs. D. H. Clapp, Rev. G. T. Williams, Rev. F. W. Davis, Miss Rowena Bird and Miss Mary T. Partridge, all of the American board. The Ten Chow Fu party left the station under a Chinese escort for the coast and were murdered en route. The Taiku party were killed at that point.

FROM NEAR THE NORTH POLE.

DAWSON, N. W. T., Aug. 19, '00.

FRIENDS HOPP & POWER, NEWS:—

I have received several copies of your paper and must say it is a welcome visitor. Keep it coming.

You have no doubt heard about Nome; it is a frost. A number of people are coming back. I received a letter today from Mr. Harris in which he states it a very poor camp and greatly overdone. Many a poor man will drop his hard earnings and go home sadder but wiser by the experience. There are of course some good claims there, but very few being operated owing to a scaricity of water. A friend of mine that came over the ice last winter has six claims there writes that there is nothing for him there. Nome is now about twice as large as Dawson. Outgoing vessels are crowded with disappointed men. Provisions are cheap—flour selling at $5 per cwt., canned meats and vegetables 3 cans for $1, rolled oats 10c per lb, beans 5 to 8c, oil $5.50 per case of 10 gals., sugar 15 to 20c, coal $50 per ton, lumber $100 per M.

Freight for Dawson is coming up very slow, preference being given to Nome, but think we'll get plenty of goods for winter yet. The Susie got up last night from St. Michaels with 400 tons of freight, and 800 passengers, 80 being from Nome. The Hannah got in the night before with 1600 tons of freight. People from there say only about 10 per cent of the money at Nome in circulation is in dust, the balance being chechako money. We are looking for a big trade from Nome this fall. The streets here now are crowded with idle people looking for work. The Koyukuk and Tanna na camps are turning out bad also. Lots of machinery was shipped in here this summer and considerable winter work will be done. As it is more expensive to mine in winter little work is expected. The output of gold dust from here is placed at eighteen and a half million dollars.

During the summer we have had no darkness, it being daylight all night. You'd see as many people on the streets at midnight as you would at noontime, but now the days are much shorter, reminding us that autumn is approaching. We have lots of holidays here—observe both Canadian and Uncle Sam's holidays.

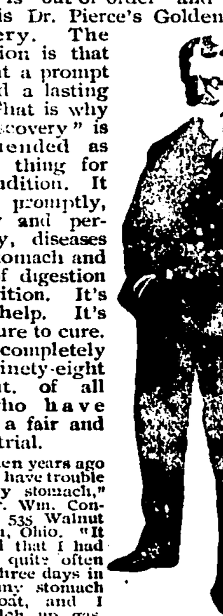
Last Tuesday Lord Minto the Governor General of this territory with Lady Minto and their train of assistants came in on the Sybil. The business houses all closed and the town was decorated with flags and bunting. Huge evergreen arches were erected across the streets through which the royal party were driven. They were escorted from the boat by a guard of Johnnies or Red Coats and N. W. Mounted Police and given a grand welcome. They visited several of the mines on Bonanza and Eldorado creeks, stayed three days and then left for White Horse and Ottawa.

Charley Harris is still with the Hotel McDonald and has a good position. I am with the Trading & Transportation Co., but am intending to spend the winter in Idaho. May come out via St. Michaels and Nome. Will tell you then more about the country. John Brandimeyer is still on Sulpher creek doing very well. With kind regards to all the Genesee people, I am, Yours very respectfully,

FRANK JONES.

Don't Hesitate.

There is just one thing to use if your stomach is "out of order" and that "one thing" is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The supposition is that you want a prompt cure and a lasting cure. That is why the "Discovery" is recommended as the one thing for your condition. It cures promptly, perfectly and permanently, diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. It's sure to help. It's almost sure to cure. It has completely cured ninety-eight per cent. of all those who have given it a fair and faithful trial.



"About ten years ago I began to have trouble with my stomach," writes Mr. Wm. Connolly, of 535 Walnut St., Lorain, Ohio. "It got so bad that I had to lay off quite often two and three days in a week, my stomach would bloat, and I would belch up gas, and was in awful distress at such times. I have been treated by the best doctors in this city but got no help whatever. Some said I had cancer of the stomach, others dyspepsia. I have bought and tried everything I saw advertised for dyspepsia and stomach trouble, but continued to get worse all the time. About twelve months ago I was in such a condition that my friends had some fear about my recovery. It was then I wrote to you for advice. You told me that by my symptoms you thought I had liver complaint and advised the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' in connection. These medicines I have taken as directed, and am very happy to state that I commenced to get better from the start and have not lost a day this summer on account of my stomach. I feel tip-top, and better than I have for ten years."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the liver.

UNIVERSITY ANNOUNCEMENT.

To the Citizens of Idaho:

The 9th session of the University of Idaho at Moscow, will open Monday, Sept. 20th, with a full faculty and every provision for the welfare and advancement of students, male and female. The University has an annual endowment of $51,000, of which $45,000 is derived from federal funds, and as this liberal revenue is equal to that of some of the most noted private institutions, it can be seen the University is in a position to render the very highest educational service to the youth of Idaho. Recently the faculty has been strengthened by finished special educators from the greatest institutions of learning in the east and abroad. The buildings are noble and impressive, the site healthful and lovely, the environment itself instructive and refining. All that earnest and able hands can do to make the University a source of strength and education to the state has been done or is being done, and the people are invited to use its benign usefulness throughout the state.

Besides giving full courses and conferring degrees in the various departments of the liberal arts, the University also gives complete instruction in civil engineering, mining and metallurgy, scientific agriculture, stock breeding, dairying, horticulture, floriculture and in the attendant industries upon which the productive life of this particular state is founded and which cannot possibly be attained elsewhere in their direct application to local conditions.

The total living expenses need not exceed $3 per week. For catalogue and full or special information address—The Registrar. University of Idaho, Moscow.

—The Thompson McGrew suit, in which the plaintiff secured a judgment in the district court for $3,172, has been settled.

—Mr. Sherman marketed 12 pigs at Garfield which were under 8 months old and aggregated 240 pounds. The price paid was 5 cents a pound. It is figured that Mr. Sherman netted 60 cents a pushel on the wheat used to fatten them.

—That was an awful disaster occurring in Texas last Sunday. News from Galveston tell of 3,500 people drowned, the city submerged and awful suffering. Buildings and bridges are swept away by wind and water and plantations and orchards made bare.

THE Colton News says: "It is no joke or dream, but a hard cold fact that many of the Filipinos think that Aguinaldo is running on the ticket with Bryan."

LINCOLN was called an "imperialist in 1864 and in 1872 Gen. Grant was given the same title by the same party. And now McKinley is called an imperialist But then that word never frightened anybody.

TO LAY politics aside a moment, the paramount interest of the people in this campaign is to do nothing that will interfere with the general prosperity that is now enjoyed by all parts of the country. No man need to beg or go without work.

THE people of the west are pretty well posted on silver, living so near the mines. It is the east that needs enlightenment, and we cannot see why Towne, the greatest silver apostle, is not soaring in the Atlantic coast states. And there is Senator Allen talking silver to us. Go east, gentlemen, and convert the gold democrats.

THE speech making advertised for last Saturday night drew out a good crowd of people. Many were disappointed upon learning that Willis Sweet was unable to be present, being detained in the mines longer than he had expected. However he will be out soon and will then come to Genesee. Mr. Shoup, brother of our senator, made a good address, full of thought and sound sense, and though not a flowery orator, his remarks carried weight. He reviewed the past history of the two old parties, which he said, was enough to convince people that Major KcKinley should be re-elected. Every dire prediction made by Bryan four years ago proved false, while every promise made by the republicans had been fully kept. Mr. Miller followed and kept the audience in good humor. He slashed right and left, and between the thrusts, he would tell a story on the Irish, being a good specimen himself. His arguments were sound and points brought out did not always suit the populists. The Roosevelt glee club favored the auditors with an appropriate song.

EDITORESS SARGENT of the Pullman Tribune agrees and she doesn't agree with the NEWS trust editorial of last week. She says one of the evils of trusts means more men out of employment. "just what our country has been and is suffering from." Holy smoke! Statistics taken a month ago show that two million more men and women were then employed than four years ago. Who employs them? Why, the trusts who operate the factories, mines, wholesale houses, etc. "We agree with the NEWS in the assertion that 'if it were not for large corporations we would have no railroads," but when they combine then they become trusts. Yes, young lady, we still stick to our text, "We have good trusts and bad trusts." Trusts have flourished under McKinley be cause times have improved. McKinley is opposed to the trusts, as our senator and neighbor, Mr. Heitfeld, will tell you. He so stated last week at his home. A bill was introduced in congress against the trusts, and it is a matter of record that, those shouting the loudest now against the trusts worked the hardest to defeat the measure. Gov. Roosevelt is a trust fighter, and for the past two months has been making it "hot" for the Tammany ice trust in which Croaker, Van Wyck, Murphy and others figured conspicuously. If they are not cinched it will not be Teddy's fault. As he said in a speech this week: "We have had four years of going forward and abuses are sure to come. We want to devote our best energies to get rid of those abuses." Let us fight the trusts, Minnie, by electing men opposed to them.

ORATORS of the imperialist stripe are trying to convince the people that Lincoln, if president today, would not suppress by force the rebellion in the Philippines. Answer is found in his war on the secessionist or rebels when he said:

You have no oath registered in heaven to destroy the government, while I shall have the most solemn one to preserve, protect and defend it.

He added that he would use every means to suppress the rebellion. In reply to a Baltimore committee in '61, Abraham Lincoln said:

You come to me and ask for peace on any terms, and yet have no word of condemnation for those who are making war upon us. You would have me break my oath and surrender the government without a blow. There is no Washington in that, no Jackson in that. There is no manhood or honor in that.

In his letter to Horace Greeley in 1862, President Lincoln said, regard ing his was policy:

I shall do less whenever I shall believe what I am doing hurts the cause, and I shall do more whenever I believe that doing more will help the cause.

Carl Schurz, the great critic of the present war policy, who would have us believe that he speaks from his close association and sympathy with Lincoln, received this reply in November, 1862, from Old Abe:

The purport of your letter is that we lost the late elections and the administration is failing because the war is unsuccessful, and that I must not flatter myself that I am not justly to blame for it. If I must discard my own judgment and take yours I must also take that of others, and by the time I should reject all that I should be advised to reject I should have none left.

Then turning to Schurz's special complaint, Lincoln said:

I wish to disparage no one, certainly not those who sympathize with me, but I must say I need success more than I need sympathy.

After reference to reformers, aiders and abettors of rebellion, in June '63, replying to the New York democracy, Lincoln said:

He who dissuades one man from volunteering or induces one soldier to desert weakens the Union cause as much as he who kills the Union soldier in battle. The man who stands by and says nothing when the peril of his government is discussed cannot be misunderstood. If not hindered he is sure to help the enemy; much more is he who talks ambiguously, talks for his country with "buts" and "ifs" and "ands."

Referring to the copperheads of Vallandigham and others, said:

Must I shoot a simple-minded boy who deserts, while I must not touch a hair of a wily agitator who induces him to desert? In such a case to silence the agitator and save the boy is not only constitutional but withal a great mercy.

No anti-imperialistic talk in the above. It is not now a question of taking the Philippines. Possession has already been taken. We have acquired them as an incident of successful war. The Spanish crown exercised governmental power in the islands. The war with Spain ceased in the treaty of Paris in December, 1898. Spain relinquished her sovereignty over the Philippines when she ceded them to the United States under that treaty. By that treaty we bound ourselves to admit Spanish ships and merchandise to the ports of the islands on the same terms as our own ships and merchandise for ten years. We paid $20,000,000 and are the owners of all the buildings, forts, wharves, public highways and other property which belonged to Spain. We'll not take the back track and donate our vast interests to the Aguinaldos, not this year at any rate. Stand by the flag now as in '60-'64.

MR. TOWNE and Lieut. Gov. Hutchinson held forth in Boise last week, latter severely criticising such silver republcans as Sweet, Borah, Patrie, Parsons and others who refused to go into the Bryan party, charging them with perfidy and dishonor. These men went with the democratic party in 1896 because it made silver the paramount issue. Here's the plank:

"Believing the question of bimetalism to be more important to the general welfare and prosperity of our people than any other question now before the country, we declare ourselves to be in favor of the honorable union with all other political forces that are willing to make the restoration of silver the one paramount issue and that are ready to subordinate to it all other questions of party policy."

Imperialism is the paramount issue this year. The silver republicans declared on that question:

"We are in favor of extending our commerce, protecting our sea coasts, and in favor of building a navy strong enough to protect American citizens and American property in all parts of the earth."

Speaking of "territory acquired by this nation" in the Spanish war it says:

"Therefore voicing the sentiment of the silver republicans of Idaho we declare it to be our firm conviction that all territory over which the United States has acquired sovereignty or control is ours, henceforth to be owned, controlled and governed as an inseparable part of the territory of the United States."

The silver republicans, to be honest and sincere, could do nothing else but return to their old party.

—Within another week the Great Northern tunnel in the Cascades will pierce through the mountain, as by that time the workmen now extending the great bore in from each end will meet. For a week the workmen at each end could plainly hear through the wall of the dividing rock the noise of the blasts and the drills at the other side. Upon the completion of the tunnel will follow the abandonment of the famous switch back, by which the trains now climb over the great hill. The use of the tunnel will save much time to both freight and passenger trains, and will greatly reduce the cost of operation of the Cascade division of the road. The tunnel, derided as "Hill's folly" when the Great Northern president first broached his plan to capitalists in the east, is now the object of wonderment by the engineering world. Almost the entire expense have been met from the revenues of the road, and this has caused the energetic president to be looked upon as a still shrewder man in business affairs. The expense of the tunnel is estimated that it will aggregate between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000.

Endured Death's Agonies.

Only a roaring fire enabled J. M. Garrettson, of San Antonio, Tex., to lie down when attacked by Asthma, from which he suffered for years. He weites his misery was often so great that it seemed he endured the agonies of death; but Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption wholly cured him. This marvelous medicine is the only known cure for asthma as well as consumption, coughs and colds, and all throat, chest and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1. Guaranteed. Trial bottle free at Kennedy's drug store.

"Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach" says O. P. M. Holliday, of Deming, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better at once. Sold by all druggists.

The Bravery of Woman

Was grandly shown by Mrs. John Dowling of Butler, Pa., in a three years' struggle with a malignant stomach trouble that caused distressing attacks of nausea and indigestion. All remedies failed to relieve her until she tried Electric Bitters. After taking it two months she wrote: "I am now wholly cured and can eat anything. It is truly a grand tonic for the whole system as I gained in weight and feel much stronger since using it." It aids digestion, cures dyspepsia, improves appetite, gives new life. Only 50c. Guaranteed, at Kennedy's drug store.

The most dainty and effective pills are De Witt's Early Risers. Are unequaled for all liver and bowel troubles. Never gripe. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy took two doses and was entirely cured' says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called another doctor who treated him for some and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said no. I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. For sale by all druggists.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. Look out for them. It cures piles and all skin diseases. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

"Lobster" as a term of derision and contumely is said to be of most ancient origin, archaic delving having shown that the people of Boston called the red-clad British soldiers "lobsters" as far back as 1770. This discovery having been duly authenticated, the name of "lobster" assumes a wholly different signification—changes, in fact, its whole style and character. The Anglomaniac should now feel proud to be dubbed "a lobster," while an Irishman should feel far more deeply insulted over the crustaceous title than in former days.

Happy is the man who forms, early in life (or if not early, then late) the habit of taking all the light and warmth and cheer he can get with a fine glow of appreciation, looking, meanwhile, somewhat sidewise at those opposite experiences he can not escape. Let him squint a little, or look the other way. He will be a happier man, as well as more popular, than the self-appointed devil's advocate who sedulously notes the mugginess of the weather, the feebleness of his pulse, or the fact that he is "tired" (which, God help us, we all are—until we get rested).

We wish we could draw a lesson from the downfall of W. C. Cuthbert, who was sentenced recently from Chicago to the penitentiary, but the moral eludes us. He didn't drink. He didn't gamble. He didn't frequent the race tracks. He didn't associate with disreputable women. He didn't use drugs. What he did do, and this was his only bad habit, was to forge checks and notes. For which small dissipation he was sent to Joliet. But perhaps there is a moral in this story, after all. Perhaps crime is not caused by bad habits and bad associations, but by a criminal tendency, and that one of the manifestations of a criminal tendency may be bad habits and bad associations. Physicians of the soul, as well as physicians of the body, have frequently mistaken cause for effect.

A vigorous crusade against profanity has been instituted in Washington, D. C. In the interest of morality and good taste let us wish a prosperous career to the movement. "Cuss words" are convenient to those whose vocabulary is meager and whose stock of ideas is depleted. But the man of mature mind and dignity of character does not need profanity to help him over a crisis. Aside from the question of morals, profanity is to be condemned as vulgar. Purity of thought is reflected in purity of speech. No man who has as much respect for himself as he ought to have will disparage himself by using language which does not express the best that is in him. "Let your communications be yea, yea, nay, nay." More than this is of evil origin. This is the same as to say: Say what you mean, neither more nor less. If your meaning is pure and manly your words will correspond.

As a target for political talk and a factor to be dealt with in campaign tactics the young man just passing his eventful majority, and ready to be gathered into the fold of one or the other party, has become more and more important. The advantages of "young blood" are frequently emphasized in the arena of vote-getting. Young men are given the reins of party management, and sometimes, when their elders are reluctant to yield, enter a vigorous struggle for supremacy. This is a signal of the advent of a new era. The people and their public servants are progressing to a stage where the ideas and standards of a quarter of a century ago no longer dominate. It is doubtful, however, if numerous accessions of young men to State and national legislative bodies is altogether a hopeful sign. Young men have served with distinction as legislators at different periods during the last century, there being no more conspicuous example than that of Henry Clay, who became Speaker of the House when he was one of its most youthful members. Young men must come to the front, and old and tried leaders must give way with the mutations of politics, but it is the almost universal verdict that politics as a business is not profitable. This is true, most of all, for the later generation of voters. There is a phase of the question, however, which is proper cause for congratulation. Progress in political methods and in the selection of candidates which stimulates men to an interest in popular government, to attend the primaries, turn out on election day, and assist in keeping down abhorrent influences, is good. The agitation regarding the attitude of young men in the campaign, as far as it quickens zeal to that end, is altogether to be commended. We have enough ward heelers and professional politicians of immature years.

The Jester case presented difficulties for the philosopher which the common sense of a jury has removed. Thirty years ago Alexander Jester was indicted for the murder of Gilbert W. Gates. He escaped from jail and was not found until a few years ago. A new indictment was prepared against him, and he was prosecuted by the State, with the assistance of lawyers hired by wealthy relatives of the murdered man. But the Jester accused of the murder of Gates in 1871 and the Jester tried for the murder in 1900 were two different men. The first Jester was comparatively young, hot-headed, and passionate; the Jester brought back for trial was an old man, bent with years and worries. If he ever was a homicide the murderous instinct had long perished in his bosom. But the law was plain. There is no statute of limitations for murder. Jester, the septuagenarian, must stand trial for the offense of the other Jester, and if the jury found him guilty must hang. Fortunately, juries are human, though the law is stony. The evidence against the prisoner was strong, but in the eyes of the jurors it did not appear as evidence against this white-haired old man, but against another person whom the inexorable years had slain. They refused to put a noose around the neck of Alexander Jester in 1900 for the crime perpetrated by the Alexander Jester who had been his predecessor in that withered frame. In short, they modified the law to meet the requirements of good sense. No public benefit could be conferred by the punishment of this poor, dead volcano. Since the purpose of the law in decreeing death for murder is not to kill the murderer, but to make an example, they acquitted the prisoner, holding that neither the human race in general nor that part of it residing in the State of Missouri would be benefited by the spectacle of a man of 70 swinging in air for the crime which another man had committed. We think they were right about it.

Superstition About Photographs.

The Formosan aborigines regard photography with strong superstition. Toward the close of September last the heir of the chieftain of a certain tribe and several other young men visited the Toseikaku pacification and reclamation office, and in the course of their stay they offered themselves to be photographed. Lately several of those young men appeared at the same office and requested that their portraits should be returned to them, for they heard to their surprise from the elders of the tribe that persons who are photographed are in a similar condition as if their souls had been abstracted, and hence they would be sure to suffer serious injury. The only way to provide against this calamity lay in burning all the photographs. The people earnestly tried to undeceive the young men, but without effect, and were therefore obliged to give them their photographs.

X Rays and Vegetation.

An Italian scientist who has been investigating the effect of Roentgen rays on vegetable life concludes that their action is identical with that of light. Continuing his experiments in the realm of micro-organisms, he thinks he has discovered that on these also their action is similar to that of light. Various investigators have previously obtained negative results, but these he attributes to the brief duration of the exposures.

A Punishment that Fails.

In opposing capital punishment, Whately said wittily, but with evident truth: "Every instance of a man's suffering the penalty of the law is an instance of the failure of that penalty in effecting its purpose, which is, to deter."

Salaries of Canadian Preachers.

It is stated that five-eighths of the pastors of the Methodist church of Canada live on salaries ranging from $500 to $1,000. Three hundred and eighty receive less than $500 and only ten receive $2,000 a year.

I'VE GOT THREE SWEETHEARTS.

I've got three sweethearts and I'm a married man;
Now think of something worse than that if any of you can;
My wife is pure and faithful, she's always good and true,
And her hair's like burnished sunshine, her eyes are honest blue.

She's the queerest little woman, she don't mind this mix at all;
One sweetheart "taught me how to pray" that He knows the sparrow's fall.
She's old and wrinkled, bent and gray; I love her like no other—
One sweetheart that my wife don't mind is my own, my darling mother.

The next one is a "terror," full of happy, childish glee,
And the picture is a sweet one when he's at his "grandma's knee."
He calls my wife "his mother" and we know him as "our boy,"
So I can love this sweetheart and my wife without alloy.

Oh, thou who guardeth the angels, hover them with thy wing.
Grant all three Thy blessing in every little thing;
Guide me to know "the only way," so when my life is past
I may join the woman, boy and girl at Thy "gates of pearl" at last.

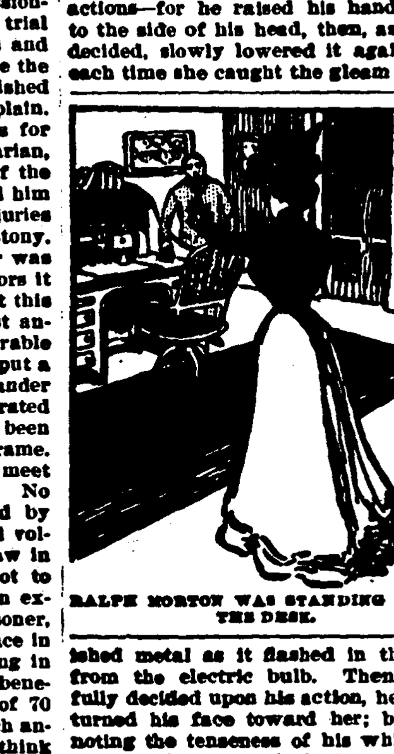
THE REDEMPTION OF RALPH MORTON

When Miss Amy Warden, only child of the wealthy broker, Anthony Warden, tripped into her father's office one December afternoon she was the embodiment of beautiful, healthful 18. Nodding kindly toward the clerks, who had for a moment ceased their scribbling, she approached the door of her father's private office. A privileged character, as she well knew, she turned the knob gently, intending to surprise him in the usual way.

As she peeped into the dimly lighted room she discovered at a glance that her father was not there; but his confidential clerk, Ralph Morton, a good-looking young man of 25, was standing before the desk. For a space she was puzzled by the young man's peculiar actions—for he raised his hand twice to the side of his head, then, as if undecided, slowly lowered it again, and each time she caught the gleam of polished metal as it flashed in the rays from the electric bulb. Then, as if fully decided upon his action, he partly turned his face toward her; but she, noting the tenseness of his white features, realized in a flash the awful import of his action, and darting across the room snatched the deadly weapon from his hand and held it behind her. For a space he stood, regarding with wild eyes the beautiful, terrified face before him, then, uttering a low groan, he sank into a chair and hid his face in his hands.



RALPH MORTON WAS STANDING BESIDE THE DESK.

She stood looking at him, the color gradually returning to her face; then she said, a wondering pity in her tone: "O, Mr. Morton! How could you think of such a thing?"

He slowly raised his head and met her pitying gaze wildly.

"Why do you stop me, Miss Warden?" he said, brokenly. "I am a thief! I caught the accursed fever of speculation and used your father's money. I prefer death to discovery and dishonor."

His eyes closed, as if blinded by her accusing gaze.

"And do you imagine this will save you from dishonor?" she said, gently, holding out the revolver. "O, Mr. Morton, do you not realize that it will only add to it? Will such an act restore my father's money or absolve you in the eyes of the world and—God?" Infinite pity shone in her eyes as she softly breathed the last word.

He did not look up, and she continued: "You are young and talented, Mr. Morton, perhaps above the average. The world is before you. Do you presume to dictate in this way to the tender mercy that has bestowed such priceless gifts upon you? My father may not overlook this, but there is one, at least, who will. How much money have you ta—used?" she concluded.

He threw out his hands despairingly. "'More than I can repay,'" he faltered. "Two thousand dollars at least."

She remained silent so long that he ventured to look at her. She seemed to look beyond him, a smile like that of a pleased child on her now flushed face—the warmth of a high, noble resolve.

"Your case requires no such desperate remedy as this," she said, turning her face a little from the growing eagerness of his gaze. "Supposing that I—I replace this money, would—"

He sprang to his feet. "No! no! Miss Warden," he cried, entreatingly. "You must not think of such a thing. I have sinned; I must suffer."

"You must do as I say, Mr. Morton," she firmly replied. "My father, I know, would not forgive you; but that is no reason for sacrificing your future career. Besides, you can repay me some day."

He regarded her through a mist of tears, then held out his hand. "I will accept your offer, Miss Warden—the offer of an angel," he said, huskily. "But I must leave this place and redeem myself among a strange people."

She started a little, but, laying her soft hand in his, whispered: "It may be for the best; but, wherever you go, God be with you," and she left him.

Five years had passed by when Ralph Morton again entered the city of his past folly. He did not bring the proverbial fortune, but he had amassed a competence which many less fortunate might envy.

During all this time he had never forgotten the sweet-faced young girl—his savior. Thrice had he written to her, but no answer came; and now, when he went to the old office, he was told that Anthony Warden had failed three years previously and had died, leaving his daughter penniless.

He determined to find her if money, backed by love, could do so; but all search was unavailing. She had disappeared, like many unfortunates, into that mysterious realm where despair, perhaps, is the larger portion.

"You will find her yet, Ralph," said his friend, Dr. Banks, to whom Ralph Morton had confided his story. It was a bleak winter evening, and they were on their way to the doctor's house.

"Heaven will surely guide me to her," answered Ralph.

As they turned into a side street a young woman a short distance ahead stopped and uttered a low cry. A drunken ruffian had barred her path. He had already grasped her arm when Morton, running forward, planted a well-directed blow that sent him reeling. Ralph caught the young woman, half fainting, in his arms; then, as the doctor hurried up, he turned her face to the light. It was a thin, pale face, though beautiful—a beauty matured by days of struggle and sorrow.

Ralph Morton almost dropped the light burden as he gasped: "It is she—Amy! O, Fred, thank heaven I have found her at last!"

It was in the doctor's cozy house, after he and his wife left them alone, that he said: "You were my guardian angel once, Amy; will you continue to be such? The debt I owe you can only be repaid with a life's devotion. Will you accept it, dearest?"

And she whispered: "I believe I loved you then, Ralph; at least I was sorry to have you go."—Boston Post.

Sugar Juice Piped.

One of the marvelous accomplishments of the Utah Mormons is their beet sugar industry in the valley of the Great Salt Lake, where 18,000,000 pounds of white sugar are turned out each year. Cheap as sugar is, the Mormons make a good profit in the manufacture of it, and largely because of their ingenious device to deliver the juice from the vats to the factories, twenty-two miles distant. Instead of transporting it at what would be pretty heavy expense, the Mormons pump the juice from vat to factory in a three-inch pipe. This enables the juice to be made into sugar close to the producing center, and saves a large amount of money that would have to be employed otherwise, in the transportation. The beet sugar industry of these people is in the hands of a company that apportions to each farmer the amount of land he may devote to the raising of the beet. The company pays cash dividends regularly of 10 to 20 per cent a year and dividends of something like 20 per cent on the stock.—New York Press.

A Lingual Tangle.

Farmer Hornbeak—While I was at the village this afternoon I heard a drummer in Hopper's store say he had jest read that Hi Chang Lang—h'm—that don't sound right; Hang Ling Chi—no; Lang Chung Hi—eh-h'm—lemme see. It's Hang—no; Chi Lung Hang—oh, pshaw;—Ching—no; Lung——

Mrs. Hornbeak—Mercy on us, Ezry! What in time are you tryin' to git off?

Farmer Hornbeak—Why, I was jest goin' to say that Hing Lung Chi—oh, drat it! Chang, Lang, Hang, Jang, Dang, or whatever it is——

Mrs. Hornbeak—Great day, Ezry! What nonsense are you tryin' to recite? You talk like a dinner bell.

Farmer Hornbeak—I guess I do, for a fact. I was tryin' to say the name of that great Japanese or Chinese statesman.

Mrs. Hornbeak—Oh, you mean Li Hung Chang. Well, what about him?

Farmer Hornbeak—I—I dunno.—Puck.

A Discouraging Entry.

The performance of the Shakspearean drama of "Hamlet" was dragging itself slowly along. The time had come for the appearance of the ghost. There was a slight delay, owing to the tardiness of the ghost in responding to its cue. The profound stillness that followed was broken by a loud voice in the front row of the main balcony: "Mamma, there are thirty-seven men down there with round white spots on top of their heads!"

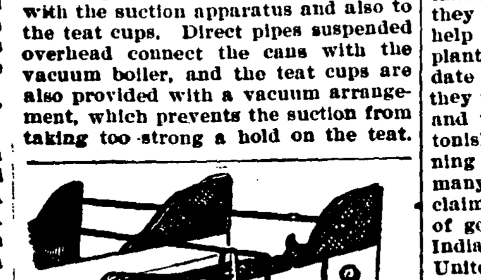
And no stage ghost ever made its appearance under more discouraging auspices than the armor-clad phantom that came stalking upon the stage at that moment.—Chicago Tribune.

Occasionally a man refuses to drink beer unless his physician recommends it—or unless he thinks he ought to recommend it.

Two weak partners are seldom able to make a business firm.

Another Milking Machine.

Recently we illustrated a machine which would milk a single cow and transfer the milk to a can. We now show an apparatus which can be used to milk a whole herd of cows at once, needing but two men to operate the machinery. One man is stationed at the reservoirs to watch the indicators and operate the pumps when necessary, and the other passes along the stalls, attaching the teat cups and starting the flow of milk. At intervals are placed receiving cans, which are connected with the suction apparatus and also to the teat cups. Direct pipes suspended overhead connect the cans with the vacuum boiler, and the teat cups are also provided with a vacuum arrangement, which prevents the suction from taking too strong a hold on the teat.



WHOLESALE COW-MILKER.

This is accomplished by forming the teat cups with double walls and connecting the secondary vacuum system with the pockets inside the cups, the operator who attends the machinery preserving the proper vacuum in each set of pipes to do the work without injury to the cows. Valves are provided to start the milk flowing as soon as the cups are fixed in place. With the new machine a large herd can be milked in the time it usually takes to milk a single cow, to which may be added the advantage of cleanliness and the desirability of a method which shall operate exactly alike at each milking. The animals soon become used to the machine, and stand as readily as when milked by the old way.

A Hold-Tight Sawbuck.

The accompanying illustration shows how a sawbuck may be arranged so that a log of wood will remain perfectly stationary. The buck itself is made like any ordinary sawbuck, but on one end a lever, a, is attached and so arranged that it can be pushed down and fastened with the peg, e, thus holding the log, b, firmly. By arranging holes, c, in one arm and a series of small holes, d, on the other, the buck will hold any size log. This lever should be of hard wood, 1½ inches wide and 1 inch thick. A large wire nail will answer very well as a pin. By the use of this device the operator is not required to exert any effort in holding the log in place. The small figure shows how the sawing is to be done if the log is to be cut into four pieces. First saw off the cut marked g at 1, then the second cut h at 2, then finally saw the remaining portion in two at 1, 3.—E. Dawson, in American Agriculturist.

Oleo Formula.

Notwithstanding the protests of the oleo trust and its friends in Congress, the various formulas for making oleomargarine have been made public, and they are at least interesting. One of the processes for making the kind of butter that is sold in Pennsylvania as a dairy product is thus described in the patent office records:

"The process consists in first forming a soap emulsion of the fats or fatty oils with caustic soda; then precipitate the lyes; then applying chlorinated alkaline lye or chlorinated gas to the soap emulsion."

That sounds like a recipe for making soft soap, but when the color is added the result is gilt edge "creamery" butter for the Pennsylvania market.

Here are a few of the constituents of the "advanced product of the farm:" Bisulphate of lime, borax, salicylic acid, benzoic acid, orris root, cottonseed oil, bicarbonate of soda, glycerine, capsylic acid, alum, capsic acid, sulphate of soda, cows' udder, sulphuric acid, pepsin, tallow, lard, salt, cornstarch, butyric ether, caustic potash, castor oil, chalk, slippery elm bark, caul, oil of sesame, oil of sunflower seed, olive oil, turnip seed oil, bromo chloralum, chlorate of pootash, oil of sweet almonds, oil of peanuts, peroxide of manganese, stomach of pigs, sheep or calf, nitrate of soda, mustard seed oil, nitric acid, dry blood albumen, sugar, butyric acid, bicarbonate of potash and caustic soda. One cent a pound is a very modest rate of protection for such a formidable array of mineral and organic poisons and abominations.—Philadelphia North American.

A New Study at College.

The Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas has begun to show that it is worthy of its double name by establishing a new industry which combines in one the two interests of agriculture and mechanics. On June 9 they began work in a canning factory, and at the time the report was written they had put up 4,000 cans of peaches and intended to put up as many more. This year they have not made their own cans, but have bought them in Baltimore, Md., at a cost of 2½ cents each delivered at the college. The cost of growing and gathering the peaches, peeling and canning them, and cost of cans is 11 cents a can. They expect to reduce this another year, and to have all the work done then by the students of the college. Now they do it all but the processing and general directions. The students are thus learning an excellent business, which may be made available almost anywhere in that land of fruit, and at the same time they are earning 12½ cents an hour to help pay their college expenses. The plant in use this year had cost up to date the small sum of $300. Possibly they may enlarge it and try other fruits and vegetables later on. It is an astonishing thing to think how the canning industry has grown, and how many canned goods are used. It is claimed that last year 3,000,000 cans of goods were put up in the State of Indiana alone, and 9,000,000 cans in the United States.

The Influence of Food.

It is the food that gives the flavor to the milk, the egg, the flesh of animals or fowl, or we may as properly say the food and drink, for both are absorbed by the digestive organs and passed into the system. In our search for the cheapest food, or that which will produce the most, we are apt sometimes to forget that the quality needs to be considered for home use and for market. Good corn and its products gives a better flavor to all the above than any other food we know, and it gives to these products as much nutritive qualities as any other food that is not objectionable in flavor or in some other way. It is not a perfect food, or a complete food in all ways, but needs other foods with it, and one of the arts of the skillful feeder is to see how he can best combine those foods so as to feed as much corn as may be profitable without injuring the health of the animal. We all know how much better is the flesh of the steer or hog fattened on corn than on other feeds, and poultry, eggs and milk are also much better when corn is a large part of the diet than when cheaper grains are used, while many foods may actually give unpleasant flavors.

Deep Soil Needed for Roots.

The Cornell Experiment Station showed by illustration in a recent bulletin the difference in form between beets grown upon a plot where the subsoil was well loosened so that roots could penetrate it easily, and those grown where the subsoil was hard. In the former case the beets were smooth and a regular taper from just below the crown downward. Those on the hard subsoil were shorter and were obliged to branch out a number of side roots, making them hard to handle and less valuable for sugar making. They also grow more out of the ground. A similar result was noticed when fertilizer was used for growing beets. The same thing must be true of many other root crops, and they suggest that if potatoes had a more mellow and well drained soil beneath the seed they would not be so likely to expand upward and grow out of ground. They may be correct in this point, but we have thought that the growing out of ground was a matter in which the variety made most of the difference, some kinds requiring much hilling up to prevent out growing, while others put their roots down deeper when on the same soil.

Lightning in the Potato Field.

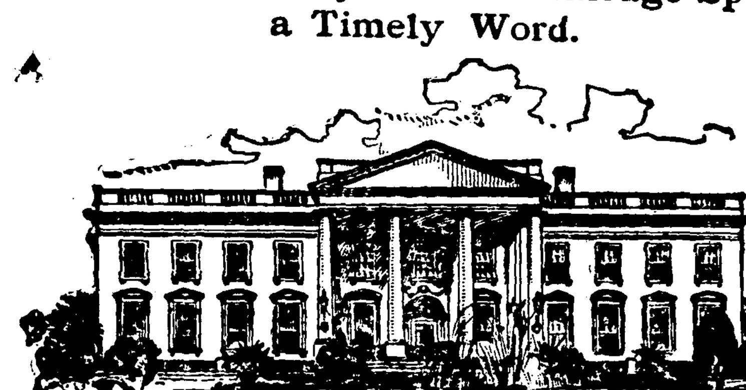
A London dispatch says: Experiments in growing potatoes by electricity have ben undertaken by the Irish Agricultural Board. Father Glynn, of Athea, Limerick, in charge of the experiments, studded a potato patch with lightning conductors connected by wires running through the patch. The result was an increase of 80 per cent in the yield in the section so treated. Should the official experiments bear out this experience, a solvent for the chronic distress in the west of Ireland will have been found. Horace Plunkett, M. P., Vice President of the Agricultural Board, says: "This most remarkable phenomenon may be the forerunner of a revolution in agriculture. The evidence furnished and the genuineness of Father Glynn's experiment are incontrovertible."

Hay Tea for Calves.

Tea, which is quite satisfactory for rearing young calves, can be made by boiling hay in a reasonable allowance of water. The soluble nutrients of the hay pass into the water under such treatment, and are palatable and nourishing to the young calves. To the hay tea add mixtures of either linseed meal, oatmeal or middlings cooked in gruel form. For calves a few months old, feed any and all the grains just named, according to the wishes of the animal, for prices for feeding stuffs are not important in comparison with thrifty animals and satisfactory gains.—W. A. Henry, Farmers' Advocate.

PRESIDENT TYLER'S DAUGHTER,

A Venerable Lady of Noble Lineage Speaks a Timely Word.



WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

"One of the most aristocratic faces seen in Washington is that of Mrs. Semple, daughter of President Tyler. She has passed her 80th year and yet retains an exceedingly youthful complexion. Personally she is charming, and impresses one as stepping out of the European courts," so says the National Magazine, under the heading "Social Sidelights at the Capital."

The following is a letter from this interesting lady, written from the Louise Home, Washington, D. C., to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, concerning their great catarrh tonic, Peruna. Mrs. Semple writes:

The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen—"Your Peruna is a most valuable remedy. Many of my friends have used it with the most flattering results and I can commend it to all who need a strengthening tonic. It is indeed a remarkable medicine." Sincerely Letitia Tyler Semple.

Peruna is a specific to counteract the depressing effects of hot weather. A free book entitled "Summer Catarrh," sent by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

ASSASSIN OF VON KETTELER

HAS CONFESSED HIS GUILT.

Was Trying to Sell a Watch With the Baron's Initials Engraved—Russian Cavalry Engaged—Americans Also Fought—Americans Get Protection.

Pekin, Sept. 14.—The Japanese have arrested the assassin of Baron von Ketteler, the late German minister to China. The assassin, who has been handed over to the Germans, has confessed his guilt. He was arrested for trying to sell to a Japanese a watch with the initials which he admitted taking from the body of Baron von Ketteler. He afterward admitted the crime, saying that the imperial government ordered the commission of the act.

Vice Admiral Alexieff has arrived for a three days' visit and inspection.

Colonel Pretiekoff's party engaged 500 Boxers seven miles from Machipo. The Boxers were armed only with swords and spears. The Russian cavalry charged on them, killing many of them with sabers. The charge as made through a cornfield and the Russians succeeded in killing the commander of the enemy's force. The casualtie among the Boxers are estimated at 200. A Russian officer was wounded and two Cossacks were killed.

Americans in a Fight.

Pekin, Sept. 14.—A troop of American cavalrymen sent to act as a convoy for cattle surprised 300 imperialists on the 3rd at the Temple Shaho. They killed 30 and captured 120 rifles. The enemy fled northward.

The Boxers recently attacked two companies of Russians who were guarding a railway working party at the South Maapo station. Reinforcements succeeded in dispersing the attacking party. Two of the Russians were wounded. As this was not the first occasion when attacks of this nature have occurred a punitive force under Colonel Pretiekoff was sent with orders to burn the surrounding towns.

Li Will Protect Americans.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Minister Wu has received a cablegram from Li Hung Chang answering the hope expressed in the American note of a few days ago that his powers are sufficient to protect American lives and interests in China. Earl Li says he has that power and will see that the protection is given.

The Chinese government has made swift answer to the latest communication from the state department relative to the recognition of Li Hung Chang as an envoy competent to negotiate peace settlement. There has never been any doubt here as to the sufficiency of Li's credentials as a plenipotentiary, but the effort of the state department has been to cause him to use any extraordinary powers he might have for the protection of American life and property in China, pending a final settlement. It has succeeded in attaining this object, as indicated in the response from Li Hung Chang presented to Assistant Secretary Hill this morning by Minister Wu. The department asked Li Hung Chang "without further delay to give assurance that the life and property of Americans might henceforth be respected throughout the Chinese empire."

The viceroy has given the assurance asked for.

People Leaving Galveston.

Galveston, Sept. 18.—The stream of refugees from Galveston is kept up. Every departing train across the bay is packed. There will be refugees leaving for a week to come.

No sadder sight could be imagined than the picture presented by a boat load of refugees, when the ropes were cast off and the craft swung out into the bay and away from the storm swept city. Every face was turned toward the ruin, eyes moistened by tears. So great has been the rush to leave that the Lawrence, the boat which connects with trains at Texas City, has not failed to leave her wharf a single day without denying passage to a portion of those who wanted to get away.

Latest List of Dead.

Houston, Texas, Sept. 18.—The latest printed list of the dead in the Galveston disaster, revised to date, accounts for 4078 persons. The number of people who have left Galveston, it is now stated at relief headquarters, is over 8000. Of these about 5000 are in Houston being cared for. Others have gone on into the interior of the state or to other states.

Governor Sayers has now taken charge of the relief work here as well as at other points, and money is being given out were needed, more than provisions and clothing.

Feeding the Sufferers.

The total number of people fed in the 10 yards Saturday was 16,144, estimating four persons to each one applying. Sunday the number increased slightly. Supplies are now flowing in steadily, and all orders for provisions and clothing are being given on general stores in the city. No accurate statement of the account of supplies can be obtained, as they are being put in general stock as soon as received. A number of prominent citizens of Galveston here today spoke of the situation hopefully, and are making preparations to resume operations at the earliest possible moment. Contracts are being taken for buildings and orders sent in for new material. Telephone communication was established today with Galveston, and two wires are working fairly well.

Short in Accounts.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—A shortage of $20,000 in the accounts of the First National bank has been discovered through an investigation prompted by the suicide recently of Teller George S. Forbes. Before the bank teller sent a bullet into his heart yesterday he wrote a farewell note to his mother, in which he said: "I was weak and let the one I considered my best friend get me into trouble. I have not seen him since the 1st of September and do not know where he is." Officials believe that the friend referred to in the letter is William B. Dunton.

Hundred Boxers Killed.

Berlin, Sept. 18.—An official dispatch from Shanghai says a German naval battalion, accompanied by 40 Bengal lancers, captured and burned the town of Liang September 11. A hundred Boxers were killed. The Chinese regular troops occupying the place had previously fled. The German loss was one man killed and five wounded.

The memory of a past happiness is a wrinkle on the face of time.

MINES AND MINING NEWS

OUR NORTHWESTERN MINES.

Items Gleaned From Late Reports—All Districts Are Being Developed—A Prosperous Year Is Predicted—Mining Notes and Personals.

The fall season of 1900 opens with the brightest and most flattering prospects known in Baker City, Ore., camp in many years. New York and Chicago capitalists, or their representatives, are in the Cable Grove, Granite, Cornucopia and Brazos districts inspecting different properties with a view of purchase. They say there is plenty of money in the east now for investment in Oregon mines and expect to see a number of deals closed before winter. There are one or two propositions on foot involving more than half a million dollars each, and numerous small deals are under way on every hand. Activity in railroad circles and the completion of the Sumpter Valley extension, with the prospect of the building of Balliet's line to the Seven Devils, have all added to the general and very noticable improvement in business. A telegram from Mr. Balliet states that he will be there the first of next week and commence work on his recent purchase, the gold Ridge mine, adjoining the White Swan. The new machinery is already on the ground, and he expects to do a large amount of work this fall.

President Thomas Burke and General Manager J. E. Esselstyn returned recently from the North American Mining company's copper mine at Burkemont. As to the progress of work there Mr. Esselstyn said that everything was moving very smoothly. Captain H. C. Thompson, manager of the Bunker Hill mine, Cable Cove district, reported that in the lower level of the Bunker Hill the workmen had run into a large body of high grade ore. It was reported by one of the owners of the Mormon Boy mine, which is situated in the Cable Cove district, near the Golconda, that that property had just been bonded to New York capitalists. If reports are correct, James Arthur, an old and experienced prospector, is the owner of a wonderful body of ore a mile and a half north of the limits of Baker.

REPUBLIC.

Supt. McEntire, of the Review mine, near Chesaw, Wn., reports the long tunnel in a distance of 500 feet.

The wood flume for the Republic company has been completed. The water has been turned into it and run for more than five miles of the distance. It promises to be a complete success.

The management of the Princess Maud has decided to sink a winze a farther depth of 100 feet. It is 200 feet below the tunnel level. The tunnel cut the ledge at a depth of about 250 feet by the dip of the ledge.

The force on the Quilp has been reduced slightly. The work of sinking the shaft has been discontinued, and so has the diamond drilling. A force of men is operating one machine drill in the raise, which is being made about 50 feet north of the winze.

The Mountain Lion has one battery in the mill disabled and is not likely to be again in operation for five or six days. The cause was a broken pulley. A new one is on the way and should reach there by Sunday. Two machine drills are working in the lower or 450-foot level, and there are also two machines working in the 300-foot level.

Work has been suspended in the Republic mine pending the completion of the mill. This has been rendered necessary because there is no place to store the ore that was being mined. Work could go on, but it would be at an unnecessary expense. The mine is in a position to commence producing a large output and to maintain it at any time, and it is therefore needless to continue mining when this means only extra handling of the ore. This is the condition that prevails at almost every mine in the camp, especially the Quilp, Black Tail, San Poil and Tom Thumb, the only exception being the Mountain Lion. As its mill has been running constantly and treating about ninety tons of ore per day, there is plenty of room in the stopes for all the ore that can be broken.

Three faces in the Morning Glory show up remarkably rich, one on the second level and two on the first level. On the first level there is about seven feet of ore. On the second, or lowest level, the ledge is nine feet wide. The ore runs from $10 to $600 per ton for a width of six feet and for a length in the drift of 16 feet. Gold is visible to the naked eye in considerable quantities in the face of the drift on the lower level. An average of 46 assays gives a value of $150 per ton. Eighteen tons is ready to ship at a value of $150 per ton. This shipment will be made soon.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

It is expected that the second furnace of the Granby smelter will be blown in in two or three days.

Work is shortly to be renewed on the Spokane in Camp McKinney, owned by the Acme Gold Mining company.

A thirty foot shaft has been sunk on the Yellow Jacket in the Boundary, with the object of striking the Snowshoe lead.

A ten-stamp quartz mill has been bought for the treatment of ore from the Yellow Jacket, on Champion creek, near Ymir.

It is expected that the Jewel mine, Long Lake camp, will soon begin making shipments of ore to the Silica reduction works near Rossland, for test purposes.

The dismantling of the Lily May at Rossland, which was sold for indebtedness some time ago, is almost completed. All the machinery but the hoist has now been removed. The property is not likely to be worked for some time.

Within the past six months the Knob Hill, Old Ironsides, Gray Eagle and the Granby Consolidated will be consolidated into one company, with a capital of 15 or 20 million dollars according to a Montreal dispatch to the Toronto World. A refinery is to be built at Grand Forks and the smelter capacity largely increased.

In connecting the workings at the new shaft to those of the old at the 200-foot level on the Nickel Plate at Rossland, a fine body of ore was encountered in the crosscut about two weeks ago. This has since been proved in two places. In the second a stope has been commenced, which is 28 feet wide and of a good shipping value clear across its width. This lies about 200 feet south of the main ledge of the mine and is practically a new ore body which, it is thought, will prove equal in extent to that of the old. This makes the third vein of pay ore found in the mine.

A serious accident at the Le Roi mine last week resulted in the injury of four men—Larry McElvay, Charles Hensley, Owen Bigland and Mike Sefik—who were at work in the sinking of the big shaft about 60 feet below the 800-foot level. The skip from the 300-foot level and its weight of several tons gathered terrific momentum in the descent. It tore away all obstructions until it reached the machine bar at the bottom of the shaft. The four men were imprisoned beneath it but were promptly released. Sefik's wounds were sligrt. Bigland got an ugly scalp wound. Hensley had his collar bone broken and some of his fingers were so badly crushed that they had to be amputated. McElvey had a leg broken and may have suffered internal injuries. His condition is critical.

MINING NOTES.

The Idaho Little Giant company at Warrens has purchased the five-stamp mill which was formerly used on the Poorman mine in Florence, and the mill will be running in its new location by October 1.

The tunnel on the Decorah mine, in the Seven Devils, Idaho, has cut the vein. The vein was located by the diamond drill and the tunnel has also already found the ore which it will follow. There will be 2200 feet of ground over the tunnel when it shall have been over the crest of the hill. The lode at the point where the tunnel has struck it is 45 feet thick.

There is considerable excitement at Weippe, Idaho, over a quartz discovery near that place and a stampede is promised. The quartz carries high values in gold and silver. Mr. Wells says a Wisconsin company has a man in that section buying all the timber land that can be obtained and that he has already spent $50,000 for timber land. A large sawmill is to be erected at the mouth of Lo Lo creek and will begin operations early next spring.

The crosscut tunnel on the Headlight at Wallace, Idaho, is in 150 feet. It has already cut through the Little Chap vein, finding considerable galena in it. That vein lies from 300 to 400 feet south of the Standard and Mammoth vein, and has produced some ore in Mammoth ground directly east of the Headlight. Where the Headlight tunnel is there was no depth, it having been found soon after the workmen were in solid ground, showing up there 75 feet between walls.

The Blake brothers shipped a carload of ore from the Yankee group last week. This group of claims is on Big creek, south of the Polaris. It has been worked for years in a small way, making occasional shipments. Ore shoots have been discovered on each of the three claims, all with the same general characteristics. All are small, running but a few inches in width of shipping ore, but it is the richest galena ever found in the Coeur d'Alenes. It yields about the average amount of lead and from 150 to 250 ounces of silver to the ton.

The directors of the Amador at Wallace, Idaho, are considering two propositions for the erection of a concentrator on their property at Iron Mountain, with the probability that one or the other will be accepted. Should both be rejected an air-compressor will be put up, and a concentrator be added a little later, although it is probable that the entire plant will go in at the same time and be ready to run by the end of the year. The company already has 2000 tons of good copper ore on the dump, which has been taken out in doing development work and it is calculated that there is enough copper in it to pay for a concentrator of the size contemplated—one with a daily capacity of from 40 to 60 tons of crude ore.

A machine is being introduced in the eastern worsted mills which displaces about one-half of the men employed in wool sorting.

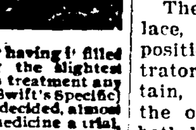
Rheumatism

Rheumatic pains are the cries of protest and distress from tortured muscles, aching joints and excited nerves. The blood has been poisoned by the accumulation of waste matter in the system, and can no longer supply the pure and health sustaining food they require. The whole system feels the effect of this acid poison; and not until the blood has been purified and brought back to a healthy condition will the aches and pains cease.

Mrs. James Kell, of 707 Ninth street, N. E., Washington, D. C., writes as follows: "A few months ago I had an attack of Sciatic Rheumatism in its worst form. The pain was so intense that I became completely prostrated. The attack was an unusually severe one, and my condition was regarded as being very dangerous. I was attended by one of the most able doctors in Washington, who is also a member of the faculty of a leading medical college here. He told me to continue his prescriptions and I would get well. After having it filled twelve times without receiving the slightest benefit, I declined to continue his treatment any longer. Having heard of S. S. S. (Swift's Specific) recommended for Rheumatism, I decided, almost in despair however, to give the medicine a trial, and after I had taken a few bottles I was able to hobble around on crutches, and very soon there after had no use for them at all, S. S. S. having cured me sound and well. All the distressing pains have left me, my appetite has returned, and I am happy to be again restored to perfect health."



SSS the great vegetable purifier and tonic, is the ideal remedy in all rheumatic troubles. There are no opiates or minerals in it to disturb the digestion and lead to ruinous habits.

We have prepared a special book on Rheumatism which every sufferer from this painful disease should read. It is the most complete and interesting book of the kind in existence. It will be sent free to any one desiring it. Write our physicians fully and freely about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

BOXERS MADE AN ATTACK

BUT WERE BADLY ROUTED

Company of the Fourteenth Engaged—British Reinforcement Came Up—Two Hundred Chinese Killed—Li Hung Chang at Taku.

Tientsin, Sept. 17.—A British signal officer reports a sharp engagement between a company of the Fourteenth United States infantry and 2,000 Boxers at Matoa, on the road to Pekin. The Americans made a gallant stand and a detachment of Bengal Lancers nearby, hearing the firing, came to their rescue and charged the Boxers in the rear. The Chinese were routed, leaving 200 dead. The Americans had no casualties. The Germans report an engagement with a heavy force of Boxers west of Pekin yesterday (Thursday). The German loss is said to have been 20.

Indications now point strongly to the withdrawal of all the powers from Pekin to Tietsin. The British have issued an order prohibiting the selling or renting of any building within the limits of the British concession.

General Fukashima is here arranging winter quarters for the Japanese troops. The Germans are pouring into Tientsin and all nationalities are scrambling for buildings. One battery of British and 200 Austrians have arrived.

William W. Rockhill, special representative of the United States to China, has left for Pekin. In an interview before leaving he said he did not expect to remain there more than a few days. Li Hung Chang is at Taku on a Russian vessel. It is not believed that he will come to Tientsin.

Chinese Go to Work.

Pekin, Sept. 11, via Taku, Sept. 14.—The allied generals were in conference four hours today, the principal topic being how best to encourage the Chinese to return to work. It was agreed that looting should stop and foraging parties should be accompanied by an officer who should give receipt for all supplies taken.

The question of working at Tietsin was brought up with a view of ascertaining if possible the attitude of the Russians. General Linevitch admitted that most of his troops would rather winter there.

At the Japanese legation it is not believed that the man who claims to have killed Baron von Ketteler is the actual criminal. The Japanese believe that he has been paid to accuse himself by the Russians, in order to discredit Prince Ching. The Japanese favor Prince Ching and Russians Li Hung Shang.

The Sixth United States cavalry will leave tomorrow for the western hills, where is located the summer house of the United States legation.

Two thousand Germans under General Hoepfner have left for Siangshiang, a walled city occupied by Boxers who recently attacked a party of German soldiers. The city has one gun.

—The Blair Business College takes space in this paper. This is considered one of the best institutions of the kind in this country.

—Theo. Goedde of Uniontown had 80 acres of Red Russian wheat that yielded 8,000 bushels—50 to the acre—and his little club averaged 35, reports News-Letter.

—The democrats and populists of the state have not effected a complete fusion yet. We presume that is the reason their speakers have not been sent out. When dates are made for Genesee NEWS will devertise them.

—If any one has the slightest doubt about the growth and prosperity of Idaho just let him keep his eye on the increases of taxable values and in the population of the various counties. More people and more property are the best evidences obtainable, rightfully speaks the democratic Lewiston Tribune.

—Hon. John T. Morrison, republican candidate for congress in Idaho, and Mart Patrie, who was elected secretary of state by the fusionists two years ago but who has since returned to the republican fold, will speak in Genesee Monday evening, October 15. Both gentlemen are good entertainers. It will be remembered that four years ago Mr. Morrison gave the most scholarly address delivered in Genesee that year.

—Mr. Smith, the superintendent of the Fort Lapwai school, makes the most despairing report for the year. He says he has great difficulty in securing attendance, a problem that yearly becomes more difficult. Last year but a third of the children of school age took advantage of the schooling offered them. He thinks the payments to the Indians, leisure, hunting, fishing and eternal visiting are tending to break up the school, and, without the authority to compel attendance, he sees no remedy for the defects. He looks for a decrease rather than an increase in attendance during the present year.

—The Northern Pacific railway takes another step forward. On the 16th, last Sunday, the Burlington & Missouri River R'y opened its new line between Alliance, Neb., and Denver, via Sidney, Sterling and Brush. The opening of this line will make the distance from Denver to Billings 114 miles and makes the Billings road the Short Line between common Montana and eastern Washington points. The North Pacific has short line rates from all points west of Billings to points as far west as Gunnison and Leadville, also to New Mexico and all territory south of Pueblo, to Texas as far west as El Paso. This makes the Northern Pacific's rates from Genesee, Idaho, to Denver $35.85 second class, $45 first class. Try the new picturesque route; quick time is made.

—Bald Butte is getting a reputation for raising timothy hay. Though over 4000 feet above the sea level, G Schieser raised twenty seven tons of hay from nine acres.

—Eighteen double deck stock cars loaded with sheep were sent east this week over the Northern Pacific. At least 200 cars loaded with Washington and Idaho sheep have gone east this summer.

—A large tract of the Bitter Root forest reserve is to be opened through the efforts of W. B. Heyburn. The entire tract is larger than the state of Connecticut and extends into Montana. Contains many mining camps.

—Very little plowing has been performed for fall seeding, consequently the amount of fall seeding will be materially reduced. The amount of summer-fallowed ground is not over one-third of former years. The dry summer and fall will shorten the number of acres of fall seeding which means more work next spring.

—Mrs. E. M. Rock, an aged lady residing north of Nezperce was killed last week in a runaway accident on a steep grade, reports the Herald. She and her son-in-law with an infant child were in a buggy and going down a steep grade when the horses became unmanageable. In her fright the old lady threw the infant out while she herself was thrown out over the dash board and was kicked to death by the horses. The young man was also seriously hurt and at last accounts his recovery was doubtful. As is nearly always the case in such accidents, the infant child was lucky enough to come out of the accident unhurt. The Herald also reports the death of John L. Jolly, a boy of eleven years in the same locality, which occurred in another runaway. Dr. Reese conducted the funeral.

—A car of apples went out yesterday from the cold storage and hands me at work preparing another car.

—The University of Idaho has been honored with a diploma from the Paris exposition for a collection of photographs.

—Editor Shaver and H. R. Smith were over from Moscow Saturday and attended the speaking that night. Mr. Smith has many friends in this community regardless of party who were glad to shake hands with him. We look to see his majority at the counting of the ballots very large.

—Agent Stranahan at Lapwai has received word that the drafts for last Indian payment would leave Washington soon. The payment will be $92,717, the per capita being $55. On the last roll 1,706 names were admitted. There are a number of small claims aside from the above. The red boy will then have to "fish or cut bait" along with the pale faces.

—Conrad Webber, while attempting to go down the Uniontown grade the other day upon the hurricane deck of a threshing engine, met with an accident. His engine got off the trail and Conrad was thrown to the ground. Reports are conflicting as to the man's injuries, one has it that he was nearly killed, while another has it that he sustained slight injuries and will be all right in a short time.

—A noticeable feature of the Spokane fruit fair this year is the many single farm exhibits to be seen. Why cannot the Genesee valley make a display? No finer fruit, grain, grasses, vegetables or garden truck grows than that produced in this section. Let us do something to advertise the many resources. Farmers, what say you? The drouth will send many homeseekers west during the next year, in fact many are coming now to Spokane. Our business people are in favor of making an exhibit and will assist. W. J. Herman is among the most enthusiastic in such a move and might be prevailed upon to take charge or assist in arranging the display. Time for action now. The products should be brought in next week and taken to Spokane. The fair opens October 2.

—James Reed died at Vineland last week from a peculiar cause. He was engaged with a threshing crew driving a team of horses, which were harnessed to a derrick fork. The tines broke and struck him in the abdomen. At the time he felt no serious ill-effects, but went home in the evening unable to work. That night he grew worse and died early the next morning.

should always be kept in the house for the following reasons:

FIRST— Because, if any member of the family has a hard cold, it will cure it.

SECOND— Because, if the children are delicate and sickly, it will make them strong and well.

THIRD— Because, if the father or mother is losing flesh and becoming thin and emaciated, it will build them up and give them flesh and strength.

FOURTH — Because it is the standard remedy in all throat and lung affections.

No household should be without it. It can be taken in summer as well as in winter.

—Register now.

—Read Herman's new advt.

—The Nordby people moved to town Wednesday.

—The Ladies Aid meets at Mrs Leon Follett's Wednesday next.

—Mrs. F. B. Harrington came up from Lewiston to join her husband.

—M. S. Hooper and wife have been in our midst this week selling zithers.

—A special meeting of the W. R. C. Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in K. P. hall.

—See Herman Nebelsieck's ad and then let him fit you out with a neat suit of clothes.

—Mrs. Ida Bell left yesterday morning on a visit with friends at New Whatcom, Wash.

—Charley Kennedy and S. P. Burr visited the Juliaetta and Leland sections Wednesday and Thursday.

—When you market you grain just drop a few dimes in the NEWS slot machine and see smiles appear.

—T. Driscoll has his two houses nearly full to the rafters with wheat and has commenced to pile outside.

—I. J. Mullaly came down from Orofino to exchange places with Bill T. Bennell, in the Mark Means stores.

—M. D. Neeley is home from Genesee where he spent the last two months building new houses.—Colton News-Letter.

—The moving pictures exhibited by the Taylor-Paddock Co. in Genesee Wednesday night pleased those who ventured out.

—Come in and register. Ladies seem to be very backward. Perhaps they dislike to give their ages away. Everybody should vote

—G H Hobson took a ride up to Spangle Friday and returned Tuesday with his better two-thirds. Mrs. Hobson reports having a fine visit.

—Rimrock people will find W. H. Gage at his home on Saturdays here after. Please register. Later on he may hold forth in Genesee a day or so —Several of our citizens have been sending away sample apples weighing twenty ounces or more to eastern friends to show what Genesee soil can do.

—Charley Spurbeck left a muskmelon of the banana variety that measured over 26 inches in length, with us this week. 'Twas good and of fine flavor.

—The NEWS is turning out a large grist of printed stationery for the Vollmer institution which is indicative of the amount of business they are transacting.

—The Bryan club has leased the old postoffice building and will hold weekly meetings commencing with Saturday evening. Plenty of literature will be provided.

—Fireman Dan Smith, who was taken to the Missoula hospital a few months ago, had another operation performed and is not getting along as well as friends hoped.

—NEWS learns that Messrs. Frank Pollok and Horace Sampson have decided to quit business in Leland and are selling off their goods at greatly reduced prices. Where they will reenter business we are not informed

—W. E. Cool took a run up to Oakesdale the last of last week to look after accounts made by his threshing machine. Says the average yield of grain in that vicinity is about ten bushels under that of the Genesee valley.

—The W. R. C. will give a bean bake on Wednesday evening, Sept 26, at K. P. hall to begin a 5 o'clock. Supper 25 cents; children under 13 15 cents. Everybody come and get a square meal and enjoy the event. Help the ladies out.

—Wade Owen and family moved into their new quarters yesterday and when they get settled will be pleased to receive callers. Mr. Owen has a nice band of Belgian hares which he takes delight in showing to people. Mr. Miller of Spokane helped the Owen people to devour a portion of one animal for breakfast yesterday morning and declared it the finest meat he ever set his teeth in.

—The excursionists to Portland—Mrs. Keane, Mrs. Wade Burr and Mr. Defender—returned much pleased with their trip, the exposition and the city of Portland. To say that Mrs. Keane enjoyed a visit with her brother whom she has not seen for thirty years, is putting it mildly. She was taken over the city and shown all sights and prominent places. Mrs. Kennedy who accompanied the excursionists as far as Seattle, returned with them. She reports having a delightful visit with her daughter and a fine time at sight-seeing.

ROYAL

Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

Makes hot breakfast-breads wholesome—no yeast germs, no alum. Makes cake, biscuit and pastry of superior fineness, flavor and delicacy. Makes food that will keep moist and sweet. Is most economical, because it is the purest and greatest in leavening strength. In the easy, expeditious preparation of the finer cakes and pastries, Royal is indispensable.

Care must be taken to avoid baking powders made from alum. Such powders are sold cheap, because they cost but a few cents per pound. Not only will they spoil the cake, but alum is a corrosive acid, which taken in food means injury to health

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

—The Vollmer people are disposing of many wagons this season.

—Mrs. H. L. Hardy and mother returned from their Pullman visit.

—Miss Bernice Harris is stopping with her Genesee people again.

—The crab-apple crop is heavy, too Genesee Cold Storage want some for shipment.

—Hank Stracker has pulled his machine in and is satisfied with his fall's run—threshing about 100,000 bushels of grain.

—The rain of Sunday night and since put smiles on the farmers faces. Fall seeding on summer-fallowed soil can now proceed.

—Mrs. and Mrs. Miller, of Michigan, and Mrs. Wilson, of Canada, were looking over Genesee yesterday, the ladies being sisters of Tom and Bill Stinson.

—The reading room of the republican club is open at all hours of the day now. Free to all. Great enthusiasm will be infused into the approaching campaign by the league.

—Fresh oysters will arrive on Saturday's train for the Cool restaurant. If you want some leave order early as only a small quantity has been ordered owing to the scarcity of ice.

—Spokane fruit fair. The round trip fare, October 1st to 16 inclusive, $4.55. Tickets limited five days from date of sale. Final limit not later than October 19. Children between ages 5 to 12 half of above rate.

—Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Darr and Mrs. Kirkpatrick left last week for a visit to Missouri and Illinois. Mr. Darr will return the first of October but his wife will stay a couple of months longer.

—Now that our bountiful grain crop has been saved in the best of condition, take time and shelter your harvest machinery properly for you may have use for it another season. Many thousand dollars worth of machinery is ruined yearly through negligence. "A dollar saved is a dollar earned."

—It will require five large tents, instead of four at the Spokane Industrial Exposition this year to hold all the exhibits and people. Nez Perce, Whitman, Lincoln and Stevens counties all are preparing exhibits with which each hopes to capture the capital prize. Genesee valley should be in the race.

—Upon reading the rules of the public schools of Genesee in the last NEWS, a patron said that another good rule should be added, the ringing of the school bell promptly at the minute set, and he suggested to use railroad time as that was the time all kept. A point well taken. The bell should tap on the minute, then scholars and parents know how to gauge themselves.

—Cul de Sac has an abduction case. It is reported a halfbreed Indian, Inez Fairfield, is charged with the crime of enticing Lillie E. Parks, a 14-year-old daughter of C. A. Parks, away from home. The enraged father went after the young man with a Winchester and got into the clutches of the law himself. A big rumpus is expected. The girl is secluded and cannot be found by relatives. Fairfield is in charge of Deputy Sheriff Lyden awaiting preliminary trial. Cul de Sac is getting up quite a reputation as a center of notoriety.

—P. W. McRoberts is assisting in the Vollmer emporium.

—John Sanford was convicted of horse stealing at Lewiston this week. Others will be cinched.

—Howard Henders moved overland to his Dayton home this week. His brother Marion left last week.

—Mr. Vandevalker is through garnering grain here and pulled out for his Moscow home Wednesday.

—A. L. Morgan, of the law firm of Morgan & Morgan, Moscow, visited in Genesee Saturday and Sunday.

—Rev. W. C. Fowler left for Seattle Monday morning to attend the yearly association of the ministers of the Congregational denomination.

—The well diggers, Steltz and Hudson, put down a good well for Mr. Jamison and are now putting one down at Dan Healey's new residence.

—The harvesting is finished and the harvesting hands are returning to their respective homes. All seem to be well pleased with their work in the Genesee valley.

—Mr. Wood is a very busy man. Between his flouring mill and grain houses he manages to keep a large force of men on the jump day and night. Good enough.

—Frank Williamson was in Spokane last week and heard Senator Allen speak. Says if the Review had reported the speech entire the people would take little stock in the man.

—Prenty Burr visited here a couple of days before re-entering the University which opened yesterday. His brother Will will also attend college with him. Two good sober young men and will be heard from later.

—The benefit dance was not as largely attended Friday night as was expected it would be. A good time was had nevertheless, and after paying all expenses Jim Deacon received seventeen dollars. Prof. Swidensky did not play owing to the failure of the arrival of his instrument.

—L. J. Lockridge arrived here this week from Red Cloud, Nebraska, with a carload of household goods and live stock. The family is on the way and will arrive in a couple of days. A number of their relatives preceded them and sent back glowing accounts of this wonderfully productive country. There is now an unusual number of new faces to be seen in this community every day and the families of those who have come to make their homes with us and become part and parcel of the great and growing west.

—Considerable complaint comes from our shippers and dealers in grain, hay and fruit because enough cars cannot be had to move crops out. Though there is nothing for cars to do in the Dakotas and western Minnesota, yet it is almost impossible to get any for use at Genesee. We have a bountiful crop of fruit, and unless the earlier varieties are shipped when ripe they soon rot and become worthless. The cold storage at this point waited for more than a week to get two cars and only by constant dinging were able to get them. Shippers of hay and grain make similar complaints. This shows something. It shows that the railroads have all they can do and that the country is in a flourishing condition The railroads are humming with business and keep step with the sweet music of the factories.

—Genesee public schools opened auspiciously last Monday, the attendance being larger than at any previous opening day. The pupils return to their studies with vigor and gladness, and there are still many more to enter. An excellent corps of instructors have been employed and the school rooms with new seats, tables and shelves, are in better trim than ever before, thanks to the board. By request NEWS visited the opening and found Prof. Cobbs busily engaged arranging the grades, books, etc. His room has 30 bright pupils; F D Hasbrouck in charge of the grammar department has 25 pupils; Miss Lulu French in charge of grades 3 and 5, has 39 scholars; Miss Antonnette Halvorsen in charge of grades 3 and 6, has 54 scholars; Cecelia Spurbeck in charge of grade 2, has 34 scholars; Miss Maude Burdic in charge of 1st grade, has 17 little tots. The two latter instructors showed us their agricultural departments decorated with samples of the different grains, grasses, trees, cones, birds nests, statuary, flags, paintings, pictures of prominent men, etc., etc.; also calanders with each month representing something of nature. The Perry pictures will be used in illustrating many things. Scholars will be taught the uses and values of these articles and will be made to actually perform some work. Much time will be devoted to geography and language work, drawing and arithmetic. The new departure should be encouraged—growth of plants, the feeding of some of these to animals; the making of articles; all these should be known, they enter into the daily life and the occupations of the farm. The pupils should also be taught to respect the truth, and to admire and emulate strong, sound morality. These virtues will be taught largely by the personality and deportment of the teacher. They should be able to make the simple, everyday mathematical calculations with accuracy. One of the greatest curses is to train a child an intellectual miser—a mere hoarder of facts, or fill him with Latin phrases. The high school has many aspiring to enter the freshman class at the University. The work mapped out should be productive of good results and everything points to an unusually successful school year. We shall expect progress.

Still More Counterfeiting.

The Secret Service has unearthed another band of counterfeiters and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always selected by counterfeiters for imitation, notably the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators but no equals for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and general debility. The Bitters sets things right in the stomach, and when the stomach is in good order it makes good blood and plenty of it. In this manner the Bitters get at the seat of strength and vitality, and restore vigor to the weak and debilitated. Beware of counterfeits when buying.

ALUM BAKING POWDERS IN CONGRESS.

Report That Evidence of Their Harmfulness Is Overwhelming.

The committee on manufactures of the senate were some time ago directed to investigate food adulterations, and accumulated a volume of testimony upon on the subject from the best informed parties and highest scientific authorities in the country.

One of the greatest sources of danger to our foods, the committee state in their report, exists in alum baking powders. The committee found the testimony, they say, overwhelmingly condemnatory of the use of alum in baking powders, and recommended that such use be prohibited by law.

Senator Mason, discussing in the senate the report of the committee said the several bills introduced to carry the recommendations of the committee into effect, said:

"When we made this report we made it based on the evidence before us, and the evidence is simply overwhelming. I do not care how big a lobby there may be here for the alum baking powder, I do not care how many memorials they exhibit, there is no place in the human economy of human food for this thing called alum. The overwhelming evidence of the leading physicians and scientists of this country is that it is absolutely unfit to go into human food, and that in many cases—if the gentleman will read the evidence—some of the physicians say they can trace cases in their own practice—there are diseases of the kidney due to the perpetual use of alum in their daily bread.

"When you mix a mineral poison, as they all say that alum is, it is impossible to mix it always to such a degree that there will not be a residuum left or alum, which produces alumina, and which contributes largely to the disease of kidney trouble in this country.

"I want to give the senate an idea of the class of men we have called. They are the leading scientific men from every college of the United States that we could get hold of."

Senator Mason, from a long list of scientists who had testified as to the hurtfulness of alum baking powders, and as to the healthfulness of cream of tartar powders, mentioned the following:

Appleton, John Howard, professor of chemistry, Brown University, Providence, R. I.

Arnold, J. W. S., professor, University of New York.

Atwater, W. O., professor and director, government experimental station, Washington, D. C.

Barker, George F., professor, University of Pennsylvania.

Caldwell, G. C., professor, Cornell University, Ithica, N. Y.

Chandler, C. F., professor, Columbia University, New York.

Chittenden, Russell H., professor, Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

Cornwall, H. B., professor, University of Princeton, New Jersey.

Crampton, C. A., professor, Division of chemistry, Washington, D. C.

Fairhurst, Alfred, professor, chemist, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky.

Gihon, James, professor, State College, Pennsylvania.

Jenkins, Edward H., professor, department of agriculture, state of Connecticut.

Johnson, S. W., professor, Yale College, New Haven, Conn.

Mallet, John William, professor, University of Virginia.

Mason, Max, professor, Army and Medical Department, United States government.

Morton, Henry, president of Stevens Institute, Hoboken, N. J.

Munroe, Charles Edward, professor of chemistry, Columbian University, Washington, D. C.

Prescott, Albert B., professor, University of Michigan, Ann Harbor, Mich.

Price, A. F., medical director, United States, Naval Hospital, Washington, D. C.

Smart, Charles, lieutenant colonel, assistant surgeon general, United States Army.

Mr. PETTIGREW. Was there any testimony which showed that there were cases of injury to health as a result of the use of alum?

Mr. MASON. Yes; I can turn you to the testimony.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I do not care to have the senator turn to it. I simply want to emphasize the point. I agree with the senator that I have always been my own impression that alum baking powder is injurious, but I wanted to bring it out and make it emphatic, if the proof existed to that position.

Mr. MASON. I quite agree with the senator. It is claimed that there is not a country in the world that has not prohibit the use of alum. Certainly three or four of the leading countries of Europe to which I have had my attention called prohibit the use of alum in baking powder.

Mr. PETTIGREW. Did the chemists who came before the committee, these professors, generally testify—was it the result of their evidence—that the cream of tartar baking powder is healthy and does not leave a residuum which is injurious to health?

Mr. MASON. Yes; I say emphatically yes; that the weight of the evidence is that whenever any of these distinguished men, who have a national reputation, the leading chemists of the colleges, were interrogated upon the point, they stated that fact, every one of them, to my recollection.

The nation that produces the most marriages is fascinated.

He was chosen for the work because of his intimate knowledge of the Indians.

Big Strike Is On.

Philadelphia, Sept. 18.—Reports from the anthracite coal fields of this state indicate that the tie-up caused by the strike for higher wages of more than 140,000 mine workers is at least as complete as the leaders of the United Mine Workers of America organization back of the strike, claimed at any time. Companies and individuals owning mines who had claimed that their workings would operate as usual, despite the strike order, apparently reckoned without accurate knowledge of the attitude of their men. Not a shot was fired anywhere in the Hazelton region were working Monday with as high as 50 per cent of the men at work, nevertheless the greater number of men in the district were idle.

In the Scranton and Wilkesbarre districts the tie-up was practically complete.

It was expected the Schuylkill region, with Pottsville for a center point, was at work with very few defections. These men have not the same organization as those in the other districts, and if they go on a strike it will be largely through sympathy.

President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers, who has established headquarters at Hazelton and is personally directing the strike, estimates that over 100,000 men are out and that 15,000 more will join them tomorrow.

Russians Repair the Road.

Washington, Sept. 18.—The war department has received the following telegram from General Chaffee:

"Taku.—Adjutant General, Washington, September 13: The Russian commander assures me he has ordered repair of railroad from Port Arthur, Vladivostok and the United States, and that he feels assured the railway will be repaired in two months. I need 50 storm flags and 5000 more small flags, the latter being required for Chinese houses to show our protection. Goodnow telegraphs under date of the 6th, at Shanghai, of Li Hung Chang, that the latter leaves Shanghai within a week or so.

CHAFFEE."

It is thought at the war department that the Russians will be in Pekin by the time the message left Pekin. The railroad mentioned is the line between Tientsin and Pekin.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Common Sense Talk with Women

If a person is ill and needs a medicine is it not wise to get one that has stood the test of time and has hundreds of thousands of cures to its credit?

A great many women who are ill try everything they hear of in the way of medicine, and this experimenting with unknown drugs is a constant menace to their already impaired health.

This cannot be too much said, for there are remedies which are no experiments and have been known years and years to be doing only good.

Take for instance Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For thirty years its record has been one unbroken chain of success. No medicine for female ills the world has ever known has such a record for cures.

It seems so strange that some people will take medicines about which they really know nothing, some of which are new, and are really harmful while on the other hand it is easily proved that over one million women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

We have published in the newspapers of the whole country the genuine testimonial letters that have ever been published in the interest of any other medicine.

All this should, and does, place a spirit of confidence in the hearts of women which is difficult to dislodge, and when they are asked to take some other medicine they say, "No, I will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I know what it has done, and everything I are distressed me, and there was a bad discharge.

"I was confined to my bed when I wrote to you for advice and followed your directions faithfully, taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Liver Pills and using the Wash, and am now able to do the most of my housework. I believe I should have died if it had not been for your Compound. I hope this letter may be the result of benefiting some other sufferer.—Mrs. Mary Vaughn, Trimble, Pulaski Co., Ky.

Monthly Suffering is Always Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, also Backache and Bearing-down pains.

"I suffered untold agony every month and could get no relief until I wrote you. I had been under the care of a doctor and a few bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have done more for me than all the doctor's medicine among her troops.

Another Case of Womb, Kidney and Bladder Trouble Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR FRIEND.—Two years ago I had child-bed fever and womb trouble in its worst form. For eight months after birth of babe I was not able to sit up. Doctors treted me, but with no help. I had bearing-down pains, fainting in stomach, kidney and bladder trouble and my back was stiff and sore, the right ovary was badly affected, and everything I ate distressed me, and there was a bad discharge.

SALISBURY AND THE CHINESE

HELD CONFERENCE IN LONDON.

Other Countries Were Represented There—Peace Plan Withheld—Why It Is Somewhat Cleared for a Settlement—Rumors Denied.

London, Sept. 16.—Lord Salisbury is back at his post. Sir Chih Luh, the Chinese minister, had a conference at the foreign office with Lord Salisbury. The United States, Germany, France and Russian representatives were also there, yet no one of the great London dailies has a word of editorial comment on the subject that is uppermost in the thoughts of the world's diplomats. It is a striking exemplification of how completely befogged is the public of every European nation with regard to the purpose of their representatives. The Associated Press, however, hears from circles in close touch with the foreign office that a definite exposition of the diplomatic situation and the aims of the powers may be expected early this week, together with some inkling as to how it is proposed to attain the objects in view, but at the present writing the main point of discussion continues to be the question whether the powers shall or shall not evacuate Pekin. This, it is reasserted, it is already provisionally settled, Great Britain and Germany, who are hopeful of gaining the united adhesion of the powers to a temporary postponement of the evacuation of Pekin. It is understood that Germany was not the only power not permitting looting and maintaining the strictest discipline among her troops.

Chasing the Boxers.

Pekin, Sept. 16.—A squadron of the Sixth cavalry will leave here tomorrow to relieve a native Christian village, which was attacked by Boxers, 46 miles southeast of Pekin.

Several small parties have been attacked between Tue-chow and Hoosklawan, where British and American troops are stationed. Civilians going to Tientsin are warned not to travel without a military escort.

The Russians have received word of reverses in Manchuria, where 200 miles of railroad has been destroyed and a number of stations have been burned. Japan has been much frightened and many Russians have been killed. Three regiments have left Pekin on their long overland march to Manchuria.

A gradual reduction of the Russian forces in Pekin has begun.

The printers of Skagway, Alaska, have organized a union.

After the Flood.

Galveston, Tex., Sept. 16.—Every hour brings Galveston nearer to normal conditions and the improvement of each day shows a decided gain over the preceding day. It will be weeks and possibly months before the city will be in good running shape, but matters are fast rounding into a condition which compared with the chaos in the early part of the week, is comfort and happiness. The great immediate need of the city at present is money—not subscriptions, but cold, hard cash. It is needed in every direction, and for a multitude of purposes. The most important of these is to pay the men who are cleaning up the streets. Adjutant Scurry said today: "I have not a dollar to pay the men who are working in the streets all day long. I am not ashamed to say that one of these men: 'You shall be paid for your work.' We must have this city cleaned up at any cost, and with the greatest speed possible. If it is not done with all haste and at the same time done well there may be a pestilence, and if it once breaks out here it will not be confined to those who will suffer. Such things spread, and it is not only for the sake of this city, but for others outside of this place that I urge above all things the matter of speed. Of all the poor people here not one has anything. A majority of them could not furnish a single cent in money. Many are employed in cleaning, although they had the money to rebuild the room. Those people have absolutely nothing except what is given them by the relief committee. They are in a condition of absolute want; they lack everything, and save for the splendid generosity of the nation would be utterly without hope."

The city water, which was turned on yesterday afternoon for a short time, was on again this morning in full force and will remain on. The water works, never badly damaged, have been put into a condition that affords a fair supply, and this will be increased on every hand. The mains were thoroughly flushed this morning and for several hours the hydrants played into the gutters. The effect was like one of great rains. Ever since the storm there has been a mass of dark, foul-smelling slime over parts of all the streets, and this has occasion a terrible stench as long as it was allowed to exist. This has now been almost entirely removed and the offensive odor that filled the air has disappeared with the early part of the week in consequence been greatly abated.

The work of burning bodies is still going on, they are being hurried to the fires as soon as possible after being taken from the water. All of last night and all of today there were numerous fires burning and by evening in every one of them were from three to 20 bodies. There is no longer the slightest attempt at identification. No effort is made to ascertain whether the body is that of white or colored persons. All of them have been so long in the water under a burning sun that identification is decidedly difficult to determine the identity of any body unless by the clothing.

The Losses.

Based on reports believed to be accurate, the following statement is probably as nearly correct as anything can be given of the loss in Texas as a result of last Saturday's storm.

	Lives Lost.	Property Loss.
Galveston	7,000	$10,000,000
Houston	200	200,000

Damage to railroads, estimated average crop of cotton, 2,500,000 bales, 50 cents per bale		2,500,000
Total		$20,000,000

The stock can not be estimated, but thousands of head of horses and cattle have been killed all over the storm district.

Nineteen Million From Klondike.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept 16.—A. Bauer, a mining engineer of this city just returned from Dawson, says this country probably has reliable information in possession of the gold commissioner's office at Dawson, showing the output in 1900 to be $19,000,000. Royalty will be paid this season on $10,000,000. The steamship will be $10,000,000 before Bauer left Dawson encouraging reports came from Stewart river placers, 200 miles distant, and other new placer fields in that section also. Good reports have also come from Little Salmon, from which great results are confidently expected.

Prices Are High.

Johannesburg, Sept. 16, Friday.—Provisions are selling at famine prices here, eggs bringing 2 shillings and 6 pence a pound, and pork the same price, while fresh staple articles are proportionately dear, while many necessities are not obtainable at any price.

Marcus Daly Ill.

New York, Sept. 16.—Marcus Daly, the millionaire copper mine owner of Montana, is very ill at his hotel in this city. Mr. Daly arrived here on the Etruria two weeks ago and since been in a condition of much suffering, occasioning anxiety to his family and business associates. His ailment is heart trouble.

All Were Drowned.

Columbus, Ga., Sept. 18.—It is reported that the steamer W. C. Bradley, one of the finest boats on the Chattahoochee river, has sunk with all on board at some point down the river. The Bradley left here last Thursday on her regular trip.

TRADE REPORTS.

NEW YORK.—Bradstreet's report for last week says: Expanding demand at advancing prices in many lines of trade finds its chief exemplar in the market for raw cotton, which has witnessed the greatest excitement, heaviest trading and largest gain in price for at least a decade. Rarely if ever in the history of the trade, as conducted to modern times, has the interest displayed on the product been greater and the manufacturing interests of the world find the situation a perplexing one, while the prospects of large profits to producers are stimulating all lines of southern trade. Even Irish spinners who are reported very generally short of supplies, are considering drastic methods of meeting the requirements. In American cotton markets the situation, from being a buyers market a short time ago, is now reversed and sellers are in a position to dictate terms. So suddenly has the outlook as viewed by the trade generally changed, however, that manufacturers are unable or unwilling to accept new business, do so on a distinct basis of cost of raw material, despite reports of past years are low, dealers are apparently panic stricken and predict famine stocks for the year, the year, even with reduced consumption.

Most food prices are either firm or higher on the week, at least being influenced by better export demand and bad weather at the northwest, proved by the low grade of much of the recent crop. Corn is in good demand, with scant supplies of old crop and pork and lard sympathize therewith. Raw sugar is still scarce and higher on the week and coffee is fractionally higher.

Among the great products that are lower are butter and tea.

The trade in cloths is out of the market, printed cloths and southern cotton yarns have advanced. Wool is still rather weak and values for spring and light weight men's goods is still disappointing. The predicted anthracite coal miners' strike is almost the only unfavorable feature of the industrial situation.

The iron and steel situation has not materially changed, and irregularity in demand and prices is still a feature. Rather more talk is heard of the influence of election uncertainties upon business, and certainly some additional weakness is felt at the leading pig iron markets, while on the other hand finished material is more firmly held.

Examples of this are afforded in the weaker tone of pig iron at Philadelphia and at Birmingham and in the sales at Bessemer pig on a $14 basis at Pittsburg. On the other hand some large sales of pig are noted at Chicago on a basis of $16 advance and 25,000 tons of plates have been placed at that city of firmer rates, while bars are active and higher. Wire products are reported well cleaned up and stocks are light. More is doing in bars at other western points. Hardware is in good demand and a good fall business is likely. The outlook as to steel rail prices is unsettled, but lower quotations are not looked for.

Wheat (including flour) shipments for the week aggregate 4,665,895 bushels, against 4,536,556 bushels in 1899, 3,685,290 bushels in 1898, 6,289,940 bushels in 1897, and 3,568,426 bushels in 1896. From July 1 to date this season wheat exports are 34,983,348 bushels, against 42,012795 bushels in 1899-99.

Business failures in the United States for the week number 207, against 154 last week, 149 in the week a year ago, 194 in 1898, 169 in 1897, and 312 in 1896.

In Canada failures number 24, as against 26 last week, 25 in this week a year ago, 20 in 1898, 36 in1897, and 41 in 1896.

Lieut O'Flaherty Discharged.

Washington, Sept. 16.—A magnificent specimen of physical manhood is First Lieutenant Edward O'Flaherty of the Third Volunteer Infantry, a resident of the state of Washington, who has just been honorably discharged from the service of the United States at the war department in this city. Six feet one inch in height, broad-shouldered, deep-chested and straight as an arrow. He has won an honorable record in two campaigns, one in Cuba and the other in the Philippines, from which he has but recently returned.

Black Imp Wins.

New York, Sept 16.—The black whirlwind, Imp, won the second special at Gravesend amidst the wildest excitement. With the Brighton and Suburban Handicap winner, Kinley Mack, the mighty Ethelbert and the good 3-year old Meekin behind her, Ethelbert was a big favorite at 7 to 10, while Imp was the outsider, closing at 7 to 1.

Jewel Reported Killed.

New York, Sept. 18.—It is rumored in Johannesburg that General Christian Dewet, the Boer guerrilla, was killed on the 7th instant near Potchefstroom.

Imports and Exports.

New York, Sept. 16.—Exports of gold and silver from this port to all countries for last week aggregate $860,115 silver bars and coin and $32,914 gold.

The imports of specie were $17,687 gold and $16,840 silver. The imports of dry goods and merchandise were valued at $8,810,666.

About 30,000 operatives in the textile and silk industries at Paterson, N. J., are idle.

Tax Levy of Latah County Fixed at $2.20 Per Hundred.

Moscow, Ida., Monday, Sep. 10.

The board of county commissioners in and for Latah county met on the second Monday in September pursuant to adjournment. All members present.

This being the time prescribed by law for the fixing of the tax levy for the year 1900, after due consideration, it is ordered that the same be and it is ordered that the same be and is fixed as follows:

State General......	.552
State Wagon Road..	.05
School............	.50
Current Expense...	.518
Bridge..........	.17
Warrant Redemption	.20
Road............	.18
Bond Interest......	.03

Being $2.20 on each $100 of taxable property within the county.

In the matter of the petition and bond of H. R. Russell et al for a public road in district No. 10, it is ordered that the viewers' report therein be and the same is hereby accepted, and date for hearing set at 2 o'clock P. M. of the 10th day of October, 1900.

At this time the board proceeded to open bids for the construction of a bridge across Palouse river near Kennedy Ford, which bids are in figures as follows:

A. Valk $925, $840 for benches.
William Oliver $910 for crib.
Wm. Moorhead $850 for benches, $910 for crib.

The matter of awarding contract for construction of bridge near Kennedy ford was continued.

In the matter of the application of Joseph Rogers et al for an appropriation for the improvement of public road in road district No. 30, it is ordered that the sum of $50 be expended for such purpose under the supervision of the Road Overseer of said district.

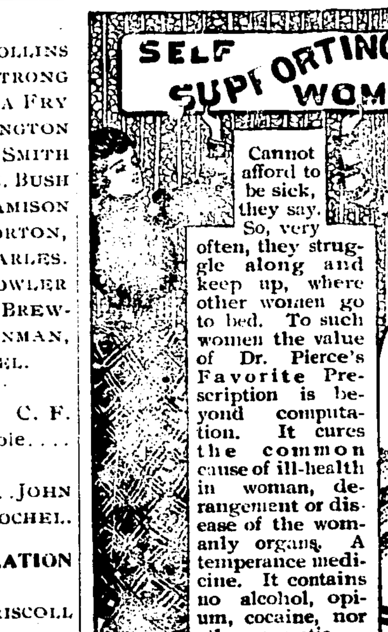
At this time the board entered into contract with John E. Lind for the construction of a wagon bridge near Dahlberg's Mill for the sum of $65, bridge to be 36ft. span with 12ft. approach on each end; the lumber for the same to be furnished by the county and all nails and bridge iron by the contractor John E. Lind; bridge to be built according to plans and specifications on file with clerk of the board.

In matter of bids for a wagon bridge across Palouse river near Kennedy Ford, it is ordered that the bid of William Oliver for $840 be and the same is hereby accepted; whereupon the board entered into contract for the building of said wagon bridge, said Wm. Oliver agreeing to allow the county 5½ cents per pound for all bridge iron from the old bridge ready for use.

In the matter of the petition of C. F. Thyr et al for a private road in district No. 25, the tender of $60 awarded to Fred Osterberg as damages having been accepted, and the consent and deed of right of way therein having been filed, the road is hereby declared a private road, and ordered opened and recorded.

In the matter of the petition of Fred Johnson et al for a road in Dist. 42, the consent and deed of right of way therein having been filed and the conditions under which the road was granted having been complied with, the road is declared a public highway and ordered opened and recorded.

Adjourned to meet in regular session on the second Monday in October, 1900.



"I had female trouble for eight years," writes Mrs. L. J. Dennis, of 828 East College Street, Jacksonville, Ills. "For three years I suffered continually. Words cannot express what I suffered. I sought relief among the medical profession and found none, until induced by kind friends to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I began taking this medicine I weighed ninety-five pounds. After taking 'Favorite Prescription' I was built up until now I weigh one hundred and fifty-six pounds—more than I ever weighed before. I was so bad I would lie from day to day and long for death to come and relieve my suffering. I had internal inflammation, a disagreeable drain, bearing-down pains in the lower part of my bowels, and such distress every month, but now I never have a pain—do all my own work, and am a strong and healthy woman. Thanks to your medicine. I consider myself a living testimonial of the benefits of your 'Favorite Prescription.'"

—A Boise man has started a car of fruit for London, England. The car will be taken direct to New York, where it will be transferred bodily to the hold of one of the big liners of the American Steamship Company. A car was shipped last year.

—The supreme court rules: "We are of the opinion that the state is not entitled to recover from the county its proportion of the delinquent taxes until the same is collected by the county, by the redemption or otherwise disposition of the property struck off to the county for such delinquent taxes. It is the duty of the county treasurer to turn over to the state its proportion of delinquent taxes, together with its proportion of the penalties and interest whenever the same is received by him, and unless he does so the state has its action against him to recover the same."

—Fourteen deaf and blind children were taken from this city Wednesday by Miss Permeal French, who will place them in an institute at Colorado Springs. Miss Margaret Reeves also took twelve to the school at Ogden.... Real estate men say that Boise was never in a more prosperous condition. Families who are arriving daily find it hard to procure vacant houses and the building of new homes is progressing rapidly....The Bank of Commerce opened for business Tuesday with a capitalization of $100,000. The new building, with capacious vaults, fixtures, etc, is the best in the state. —Boise Capital.

—Bob Burdett's advice to young men is: "My son, follow not in the footsteps of the loafer, and make no example of him who is born tired, for verily I say unto you, their business is overstocked, the seats on the corners are all taken, and the whittling places are all occupied. It is better to saw wood at two bits a cord than to whittle in a loafing match and cuss the government. My son whilst thou hast left in thy skull the sense of a jay bird, break from the cigarette habit, for low, thy breath stinketh like a glue factory, and thy whole appearance is less intelligent than a stone dummy. Yes, thou art a cipher with the rim knocked off.

The emergency bags sent by a church society to Kansas soldiers in the Philippines contained among the necessities a box of DeWitt's Wich Hazel Salve, the well known cure for piles, injuries and skin diseases. —Work is about to begin on the construction of a four-masted schooner at Everett.

—President Blanton, late of the University at Moscow, has left the democratic party and will work for the election of Judge Standrod, republican, for governor.

—Ground was put in excellent condition for plowing and seeding by the rains early in the week. Judging from the talk of farmers they will lose no time in rolling over the soil and seeding.

—A Boise dispatch to Tuesday's Review states that there will be no complete fusion in Idaho this year. Three or four of the populists will not come off their ticket to suit the politicians.

—W. F. Morrison, from The Flat, has moved his family and household effects to Lewiston, where they will make their home in the future. The Sentinel is sorry to see the Morrison family leave Asotin county, for they are good citizens, but we wish them well.—Sentinel.—The Morrison people lived here several years and made many warm and lasting friends.

—Wallace is one of the prosperous towns of Idaho. A careful count of the new buildings already completed this year or in course of construction shows an even 100, besides which new ones are being commenced. It is said on an average of 20 calls a day are made for vacant houses to rent. We are told Motter, Wheeler & Co. of Moscow will open a large store at that point this fall.

—The democratic ticket put out in Nez Perce county last week: Senator, Louis Clark; representatives, Eben Mounce, Peter Triesch; sheriff, A. W. Kroutinger; assessor, W. E. Stoddard; probate judge, Dr. C. S. Reese; attorney, Carl Davis; treasurer, J. R. Lydon; superintendent, Miss Ella Ward; commissioners, C. A. Leeper, Perry Miller, Geo. Brammar; coroner, Ben Chaney.

—Lawyer John L. Samsel and Lumber Merchant Hoover, of Genesee, were in town yesterday....W. J. Herman and wife, of Genesee, were in town this week. Mr. Herman was looking after cordwood and while here picked up several carloads....Milton Sims has wired his relatives here that he is enroute home from Manila and at the time of sending the dispatch was in Portland.—Troy News.

—A logger on Hood river was arrested for being drunk. He resisted and one of the truck wagons was called into requisition to get him to the town jail. He was handcuffed and his legs were tied together, but it is said it took six men to hold him down in the wagon. He was rolled down a steep hill over rocks by a rope and shoved into the jail. In the jail was incarcerated another drunk, who, upon the arrival of the logger, began to pummel him with his fists. The door was closed and the two drunks allowed to fight it out —Young Owen Mounce, the jockey, won nine races at the Sacramento meeting. Five of the races were stakes ranging from $650 to $1,050 each, and he was the leading jockey of the meeting. Young Mounce will be an attraction at the fair races here next month.—Lewiston Tribune.

—W. S. Johnson near Colton had a field of red turkey wheat that yielded 49 bushels per acre. Joseph Sempler had Sonora wheat which weighs from 63 to 65 pounds to the bushel and brings a premium on the market. He also has a lot of New Zealand wheat which he finds makes an excellent fall wheat.

—The Latah county silver people have been fusing all summer. The fuse went off and as a result we are to have a Bryan Direct Legislation ticket, a democratic ticket, a populist ticket, a silver republican ticket. All these tickets will contain the same names with a different heading. Principle! Lord bless you, there's tons of it going to waste! You can vote your ticket straight now.

—S. W. Bigham received a lengthy letter from his wife, who is working at Ellensburg, Wash, by yesterday's mail. After condemning the perfidy of the one that induced her to leave home and the unfriendliness of the world at large, she implores forgiveness for great mistakes that she has made and pleads, as only a contrite heart can, for forgiveness and that she may come back to her home and children....Bert Humes will arrive home from the Philippines about October 1. He has been sick for a long time with malaria fever, and not being able to stand the climate he was discharged. —Kendrick Times.

—The Cascade mountains have been pierced. The tunnel, of which mention was made in our last issue, was finished Saturday by the Great Northern railway. Work of digging commenced in December, 1896, but earnest work by heavy machinery did not begin until August, 1897. About 800 men have been employed, working in three shifts of 8 hours each from each side of the hill. The length of the tunnel is 13,252 feet, or 2½ miles. Its east portal is in Chelan county, its west in King. The summit of the Cascades towers at an elevation of 2200 above the tunnel floor at a point a short distance west of the center of the tunnel, and this is the county dividing line. The big bore has a clear width of 20 feet and a height of 24 feet through the rock. Inside of this is a concrete lining. Nowhere in the state is the snowfall so great as on the switchback, hence the tunnel will be a great saving in time, expense and rolling stock. The Great Northern will worry its competitors in the freight and passenger traffic to and from the coast. When plans now under way are matured, Jim Hill's line will be the greatest in existence.

—Some ideal weather of late. The farmers are busy seeding, plowing and hauling grain to the houses.

—The Great Northern tunnel under the city of Everett, Wash, has been completed. When put in use several miles of the present line will be abandoned. The trains will run into the center of the city, and the long run around the penisula, between the Sound and the Snohomish river, will be saved.

—The apple crop in the Genesee valley is abundant this year, and the markets are glowing with their rich, ruddy colors. The Big Potlatch and other sections have large crops, but the fruit is not as free from worms and other blight as the fruit in this locality. To appreciate a fall apple to its full one must eat it as it falls from the tree with Nature's own accompaniment of orchard and meadow perfumes. But to know the wealth of flavor and juiciness of the winter varieties they should be selected from the heaping bins and served with a banquet of cider, popcorn and butternuts before a roaring open fire and to the tune of merry story telling. It is probable that more home memories cluster about the apple than any other fruit. Women and apples, beginning with Mother Eve, have ever been associated together. In classic lore Pomona had the apple especially under her care, and in Rome she was peculiarly honored, having a splendid temple built for her exclusive use. She is represented in ancient sculpture and painting as a maiden fair to see, with a crown of apple leaves upon her brow, while her hands uplift a fold in her robe, in which are heaped apples, with other fruit. In those times also, the golden apple was awarded to Venus for her splendid charms, and the story of Atlanta and Hippomenes is interesting, and told by Bacon in his essays. From the earliest ages, way back in the dim distances of mythology, apple has been the favored fruit, associated with human happiness, typifying human prosperity and even associated with the idea of immortality. Witness the story in Northern mythology of its power to confer immortality upon those who eat it. The trees were carefully guarded by the goddess Iduna, so that when the gods felt themselves growing old they could come to her, eat of the fruit of gold and feel the blood of new life coursing through their veins. In the time of the Druid priests they were accustomed to bless the apple, which became a charm, warding off evil and bringing good to those who were fortunate enough to possess the magic gift. In the field of English literature the golden fruit gleams through prose and poetry and lingers lovingly at the feasts in hall and cottage, and when the poet wished to depict the freshness and the fairness on a maiden's cheek he could find no more suitable simile than that given by the apple blossom.

—Idaho's prize yield of wheat is claimed by A Von Barger, living near Cottonwood. The wheat is of the Red Russian variety, and Mr. Von Barger harvested a 75-acre tract which yielded an average of 51 bushels to the acre, of wheat weighing 63 pounds to the measured bushel.

—We are in receipt of E. T. Paull's latest and greatest march, just from the press, entitled "Dawn of the Century March." Mr. Paull is author of "Ben Hur Chariot Race March," "A Warmin' Up in Dixie," "Charge of the Light Brigade," "America Forever." This latest piece is said to be the finest and is for either organ or piano. In consideration of our mentioning this new march, the publishers agree to furnish any of our readers a copy for 25c in stamps. Address E. T. Paull Music Co., 44 W. 29th St., New York.

—"There are but four classes at home," said an Englishmen, after a five year's residence in the United States, "the peerage, the gentry, tradespeople and working folk. There are five hundred classes in America! In yonder big shop where I am, the owner is looked up to as a sovereign by his clerks; the saleswomen speak to a floor-walker with bated breath; the drivers, the messengers, the cash boys, the porters, each form a different social rank. Nobody thinks of equality In every alley in New York there is an exclusive aristocratic set to which other sets are working up, struggling to enter. My head swims. I have made up my mind to go home, where the footing of every man is secure.—Ladies Home Journal.

Endured Death's Agonies.

Only a roaring fire enabled J. M. Garrettson, of San Antonio, Tex., to lie down when attacked by Asthma, from which he suffered for years. He weites his misery was often so great that it seemed he endured the agonies of death; but Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption wholly cured him. This marvelous medicine is the only known cure for asthma as well as consumption, coughs and colds, and all throat, chest and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1. Guaranteed. Trial bottle free at Kennedy's drug store.

"Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach" says O. P. M. Holliday, of Deming, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoouful of water and he got better at once. Sold by all druggists.

Poisonous toatstools resembling mushrooms have caused frequent deaths this year Be sure to use only the genuine. Observe the same care when you ask for DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is safe and certain cure for piles and skin diseases. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Editor's Awful Plight.

F. M. Higgins, Editor Seneca (Ill.) News, was afflicted for years with piles that no doctor or remedy helped until he tried Bucklen's Arna Salve, the best in the world. He writes, two boxes wholly cured him. Infallible for piles. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c. Sold at Kennedy's drug store.

You assume no risk when you buy Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. All druggists will refund your money if you are not satisfied after using it. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful remedy in use for bowel complaints and the only one that never fails. It is pleasant, safe and reliable.

To prevent consumption quickly cure throat and lung troubles with One Minute Cure. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

The Bravery of Woman

Was grandly shown by Mrs. John Dowling of Butler, Pa., in a three years' struggle with a malignant stomach trouble that caused distressing attacks of nausea and indigestion. All remedies failed to relieve her until she tried Electric Bitters. After taking it two months she wrote: "I am now wholly cured and can eat anything. It is truly a grand tonic for the whole system as I gained in weight and feel much stronger since using it." It aids digestion, cures dyspepsia, improves appetite, gives new life. Only 50c. Guaranteed, at Kennedy's drug store.

The most dainty and effective pills are De Witt's Early Risers. Are unequaled for all liver and bowel troubles. Never gripe. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy took two doses and was entirely cured' says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called another doctor who treated him for some and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said no. I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. For sale by all druggists.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. Look out for them. It cures piles and all skin diseases. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

A Condensed Review of the Events for the Past Week in This and Foreign Lands—Summarized From the Latest Dispatches.

Many vessels were recently wrecked by the storm on the Alaskan coast.

Kruger is not a deserter, as the Boer agents say he was authorized to leave the Transvaal.

Mr. Kruger, the former president of the South African republic, did not sail for Europe on the German steamer Herzog September 24, as he originally intended.

The ranks of the strikers in the Hamilton district have considerably increased recently by recruits from nearly every colliery in the region.

At Wyman, Nev., recently three masked men entered the First National bank and robbed it of a large sum of money, the exact amount not yet being known.

Spring Lake, N. J., a summer resort near Sing Sing, has been destroyed by fire. Among the buildings burned were the Monmouth and Essex hotels in the place. The total loss is estimated at $250,000. Most of the hotels and cottages had closed for the season.

The town of Belgrade, Mont., was nearly wiped out by fire recently and can now, West Riley, was burned to the ground. The only building left is the hotel owned by Riley. The property loss is $15,000. Nearly all the business houses were destroyed, there being no fire department or apparatus.

Roebuck, France, was the scene of a fire recently which destroyed property to the amount of value valued at 4,000,000 francs. An enormous warehouse belonging to the Magasins Generaux, packed with goods, is gutted. An explosion is attributed to the cause of combustion. The warehouse was worth 800,000 francs, in addition to the contents.

Calvin Pardee, owner of the Lattimer and Pardee collieries in the Hazleton district, in an interview says: "Under no consideration will the operators yield to the United Mine Workers. We will let the strike run its course, and the operators will fight to a finish and the operators will win. So far as I am personally concerned, I have ordered the mules to be kept at work and the engines will be kept in motion. The engineers and firemen might be brought to change their views in the interest of harmony."

No inkling of the nature of Washington's attitude had reached Downing street this morning except through press dispatches. The feeling prevails at the foreign office that America is so close to the election that she can not be expected to take in the immediate future any new or important step in regard to China, either as a deterrent or as an aggressive factor, and interest in the announcement from Washington concerning the latter, in other words, it is believed that if European powers can unite under Germany's lead the United States, even if approached, will not join any league adopted, would be only a passive objector.

A foreign office official, being asked by a representative of the United Press if, beneath the mass of diplomatic intricacies, he saw any reason to believe that a serious disagreement were probable, said:

"Judging from the present conditions, the negotiations ought to come out all right. The powers of the world have been negotiating for the past month before and have not yet begun to call each other names. This German proposal is the first thing which has taken on the slightest forward movement in a month, and being so it naturally calls out more diversified opinions. But even should the majority of the powers reject it, which seems improbable, I do not believe it would mean a break up of the concert. Russia may, and I believe will, withdraw practically all her troops."

Suicides in New York.

New York, Sept. 24—There were many suicides in New York today.

Magnus Swennin, a cabinet-maker, drowned himself in the North river after tying his own hands with his shirt.

George Burdick, an insurance solicitor, shot himself in Tompkins' square. He had been complaining recently of a carbuncle on his neck.

John Myer took poison in a Third avenue hotel, then turned on the gas and was found dead later.

Mrs. Campbell fatally shot himself in Central park. He had been drinking.

Edward Schwarzolo also ended his life in Central park.

Insurgents Are Active.

Manila, Sept 24.—The insurgent demonstrations last week prove to have been more extended than was at first reported. From Cagayan and Isabella provinces and the northwest districts of Luzon come accounts of insurgent operations and American protective military measures. Merchants in the province of Albay are getting their hemp to Manila as fast as possible, fearing it will be burned by the insurgents.

At Iloilo there was considerable anxiety lest an uprising should occur, but the insurgents there are ceasing their activity.

The Amalgamated Society of Engineers, including machinists, blacksmiths and patternmakers, report having on hand $1,750,000 and a membership of over 86,000.

United States Senator Hanna will make an extensive tour of the west, particularly in Nebraska and South Dakota.

Colonel Joseph H. Wood, grand marshal of the Grand Army parade during the recent national encampment in Chicago, is dead.

James J. Corbett, the pugilist, will return to New York by the first available steamer to effect a reconciliation with his wife.

All the trainsmen's brotherhoods' men of Sunbury, Pa., about 1,000, employed by the Pennsylvania, have instituted a boycott against the Reading Railway company.

A recent fire in New York totally destroyed the large grain house and elevators on the Atlantic dock, Brooklyn, causing a loss of $100,000 to buildings and contents.

Four masked men recently held up the express car on the St. Louis-Portland train on the Burlington road at the village of Woodlawn, a few miles northwest of Lincoln.

Methuen has recently completely routed a Boer convoy at Hart river, west of Kleiskoorp and recaptured a 15-pounder Creusot gun which had been accounted for when Methuen was also captured 25 wagons, 8,000 cattle, 4,000 sheep, 20,000 rounds of ammunition and 23 prisoners.

The national party, composed of men who feel that they can not conscientiously vote for either McKinley or Bryan, held a conference at Steinbach and abandoned the idea of keeping a political ticket in the field.

The great weekly statement of the daily average of the associated banks shows: Loans $833,141,000, decrease $2,689,400; deposits $967,471,500, decrease $4,470,; circulation $29,662,400, increase $184,600; legal tenders $67,121,400, decrease $2,900,200; specie $175,782,000, decrease $1,767,900; reserve $240,904,300; decrease $6,752,600. Reserve required $234,677,875, decrease $3,692,350. Surplus $16,553,325, decrease $4,333,850.

Lord Salisbury in No Hurry.

London, Sept. 26.—Lord Salisbury has not yet answered Secretary Hay's proposal. Nor has he even discussed its terms with his advisers. It is likely that several days will elapse before Great Britain puts on record regarding the suggestion of Emperor William. As Lord Salisbury is the sole arbiter, and as he has refrained from communication in writing, or gained any confirmation in his intimates, it is naturally impossible indefinitely to forecast the nature of Great Britain's reply. Those persons who are familiar with Lord Salisbury's confidence surmise guardedly that he will fall into lies with Germany, though he may exact a good slight modification of the latter conditions. Moreover, it is believed that the German note may prove a source of a somewhat lengthy exchange of communications before the consensus of opinion of the powers is ascertained, and even individual powers might be brought to change their views in the interest of harmony.

CLOUD BURST IN TEXAS

NUMBER OF LIVES WERE LOST

Much Property Destroyed and Many Bands of Sheep Lost—Ranches Are All Swamped—Railroad Tracks Under Water.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—A dispatch from Dallas, Texas, says: A cloudburst in the Neuces River country, 90 miles west of the Southern Pacific road, resulting in a terrific flood and much loss of life is reported. Meager details have been received, but it is claimed from 30 to 40 employes on the sheep ranches were drowned and all the ranches swamped. Many flocks of sheep have been lost and a large amount of property destroyed. From the most reliable information obtainable tonight extensive storm damages have been inflicted on the Upper Colorado and the Concho River valleys, particularly near Brownwood, Blanket and San Angelo. Communication with all these places is cut off and the railroad lines damaged so that no trains can reach them.

Reports indicate that the heaviest damage is at San Angelo, although bridges in Brownwood have been wrecked or injured. It is also feared many lives have been lost. The last report from Brownwood stated the town was flooded and destroyed by water and that people and goods were being removed to places of safety in row boats and rafts.

Trainmen from Temple state that tracks of the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe are under water to the depth of 18 feet south of Brownwood and nothing can be heard from places up the line. The rain is pouring down and streams still rising. The country districts can not be reached.

It is raining hard for approximately 100 miles from Brownwood and as the streams rise in that part of Texas are very treacherous in the matter of sudden rises a disaster is feared.

Later.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 25.—City Marshal Deaton of Dublin, Tex., telephoned as follows:

The disaster at Brownwood is reported here today as being a very serious one. Eight persons have been drowned and much of the town badly wrecked by water. The town is entirely cut off, both by wire and mail. The Fort Worth & Rio Grande railroad at Dublin is crippled by washouts, and as the wires are down trains that have been laid out can not be heard from. No lives have been lost near Hamby, but the property loss is large.

The Leon river and its branches have swept over an immense area in the country around Dublin. Further to the west, in the Brownwood section, the Colorado, Chonco, Pecan and other rivers and their tributaries have made widespread damage.

A bulletin from Temple at 1 p. m. says: "Can't hear a word from Brownwood country. Wires gone and traffic suspended by immense damage to road."

Mexican Village Wiped Out.

St. Louis, Sept. 25.—Dispatches from Nexican, Mex., say a cloudburst in a little Mexican village, La Aigle, on Gallardo creek, a branch of the Neuces, not a jacktimber is left standing as a result of the flood. A Mexican family of four and two American campers, supposed to have been deer hunters from Eagle Pass, perished. The only means to get word from Castellville, which was wrecked by a flood a year ago, failed owing to the washing away of the telegraph wires.

Situation in Galveston.

Galveston, Tex., Sept. 23.—Trains are coming in, passengers regularly and freight of all sorts as they can be accommodated. So much track has been washed away by the storm or is still strewn with wreckage that facilities for handling freight trains are limited. Three freight trains, one entirely of cotton; the other two of general merchandise, have arrived this week.

Advertisements have been printed calling for 2000 men to clean the streets and 500 teamsters. Work is now in the contractors' control. Labor is scarce and in great demand.

Beginning Tuesday, the relief committee will discontinue giving supplies to families of able-bodied men. This move is expected to stop many negroes who are now coming from the communities are unwilling to work so long as they can get free food.

The city is brightening and getting in better shape every hour. It will be a month before the whole city is clear, but each day shows marked extension of business and renewed activity of industry.

Sixty-four bodies were recovered today, 14 being taken from one building at Twenty-second and Beach streets. With the beginning of the abolishment of the temporary hospital, which was established in the United States custom-house directly after the storm, there were no developments in the health situation today. The sick and injured who applied for treatment received attention.

Edmiston Wants Debate With Hanna.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 23.—Vice Chairman J. H. Edmiston of the populist national committee has challenged Senator Hanna, chairman of the national republican committee, to a joint discussion. Mr. Edmiston makes his desire known in a long communication, which contains a list of 34 questions for Mr. Hanna to answer in public.

Glass-Workers on a Strike.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Two hundred and seventy-five ornamental glass workers quit work here Monday because the principal local firms refused to sign their agreement calling for an increase of pay for certain classes and a reduction of hours from 10 to 9.

RESULT OF A FALL.

SAN FRANCISCO ATTORNEY BALLS FROM PLATFORM OF STREET CAR—STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

Shock to the System Brings on Nervous Prostration—How a Cure Was Affected.

Volumes might be written in praise of a popular remedy for the creating of rich, new blood and the up-building of a worn out body, but it is doubtful if anything half so convincing could be demonstrated as is done by the letter-setting story related by Mr. Edward T. Dudley, a practicing attorney for 25 years in San Francisco, with offices at 26 City Hall avenue. Twelve years ago, when 39 years of age, Mr. Dudley lost his balance while standing upon the rear platform of a street car, causing him to fall, striking the ground with the back of his head, which brought on a feeling of numbness and eventually paralysis, loss of memory and strength which, however, has yielded to proper treatment as explained by him below:

Feeling thankful for the good done him and realizing many others are in a similar condition, Mr. Dudley authorizes the following statement of his case:

"After the fall there was the car I passed 15 by as an accident that had left no apparent ill effects; yet a few weeks later, in endeavoring to get on a car, I found I could not raise my foot. From this time paralysis began in my lower limbs and in time my lower limbs became entirely helpless, only a ghost and is brought on a bloodless condition of my system. From being a strong, healthy man of 180 pounds I was reduced to 145 pounds, and my doctor told my wife that it was only a question of time when I should have to take to my bed. My wife asked if was I going to die, and he said, 'No, but the chances are that he will lie on the bed of his back for 30 years.' Thought I would fool him. Medicines prescribed by the doctors and taken by me did no good, and my system was so drugged, my blood so impoverished and I was so debilitated that at the time I started to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, if I had died for want of nourishment from what I have told you of my condition, you can imagine how weak and pale I was.

"After trying Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I could see in a very short time that I was picking up color and my blood and general system was being renovated. I did not change my diet, nor did I take any other medicine, and I can assert that as a blood maker and nerve builder on top of the earth they are invaluable, as my increase in weight from 145 to 165 pounds I can lay to nothing else than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I have recommended them to hundreds whose blood was impoverished, whose nerves were shattered and who needed building up, and shall continue to do so, as I believe they are the best medicine in the world for that purpose."

Signed, EDWARD T. DUDLEY.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 10th day of July, 1900.

JUSTIN GATES, Notary Public, in and for the city and county of San Francisco, state of California.

All the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves are contained in a condensed form in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, over work or excesses of whatever nature.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

The Big Strike.

Shamokin, Pa., Sept. 25.—Notwithstanding the efforts of operators, none of the collieries in this city resumed work this morning. All collieries are heavily guarded.

The strikers scored a victory by inducing 75 per cent of the men in the North Franklin colliery at Treverton to stay at home today. A carload of deputies went to this mine early today.

Confessed to the Murder.

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 25.—George Pearson, a servant of Annie Griffin, who was instantly killed Sunday night while driving from Watertown, confessed to the murder and is lodged in jail.

What are Humors?

They are vitiated or morbid fluids coursing the veins and affecting the tissues. They are commonly due to defective digestion but sometimes inherited.

How do they manifest themselves?

In many forms of cutaneous eruption, salt rheum or eczema, pimples and boils, and in weakness, languor and general debility.

How are they expelled? By

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Which also builds up the system that has suffered from them.

It is the best of all medicines for all humors.

MINES AND MINING NEWS

OUR NORTHWESTERN MINES.

Items Gleaned From Late Reports—All Districts Are Being Developed —A Prosperous Year Is Predicted— Mining Notes and Personals.

Superintendent L. K. Armstrong of the mining department of the Spokane Industrial Exposition, which opens in Spokane on the 2d of the month, is very enthusiastic over the splendid display of minerals which will be made this year. It is evident the tent which will be given to this department will be crowded to its utmost capacity. Many camps which were not represented last year will have good exhibits this time and almost all those which were present at former fairs will be there with better displays this time. Among the camps which will have prominent exhibits this year are Slocan, Nelson, Trail, Ainsworth, Rossland, Boundary, East Kootenay, the Coeur d'Alenes and Central Idaho, Libby, Montana, the South Half, and last, but not least, Eastern Oregon.

REPUBLIC.

A force of five men is working on the Rebate This property adjoins the Tom Thumb on the southwest. It is being developed by a crosscut tunnel. It is probable that the ledge will be cut within 60 days.

The wince being sunk in No. 2 tunnel on the Quilp Fraction is reported 30 deep. Superintendent W. M. Crummer states that the ledge is three and a half feet wide and that the values are the same as those encountered in the development to an additional 150 feet depth has enabled more definite plans of work to be made.

The arrangements for the display of minerals at the Spokane exposition are rapidly nearing completion. Space has been allotted to the various districts and special forms of display are being designed by the superintendent of the mineral department and those who are assisting him. The mine owners have given ready response to the requests of the fair management for exhibits. The indications are that this will be the best exhibit ever given.

Midway between Wallace and Delta, Idaho, is a group of claims the ownership of which are about 30 patent claims belonging to different members of the Hill family of Minneapolis. Patents have been issued for all these claims and while but little if any mining has been done on any of them since 1895 until recently, they are considered by the Hill Mining company to work part of the group. An officer of the company came out here and let a contract to build a tramway and 500 feet of tunnel. Colonel B. R. Creedon taking the contract.

Harry Expenance, one of the old-time miners who hails from Pioneerville, was in Boise the other day, on his way to the world's exposition at Paris. Mr. Expenance came to this country from France when a mere lad, and made his way to California, where he spent quite a long time prospecting and placer mining. He came to Idaho over 17 years ago, and has since been actively engaged in the early rush to the Wood river country. Lately he has struck some paying claims and now in prosperous circumstances, says the Statesman.

There is renewed activity in the Hoodoo mining district, Idaho, and considerable excitement over the development of the Mother Lode mine. Ore, richer than anything ever known in that part of the country, has been discovered in the second tunnel of the mine. In crosscutting the ledge at a depth of 150 feet below the original tunnel more than a ton of ore that is believed to be worth over $6,000 was taken out and shipped. The ore is said to be plainly visible to the naked eye, and an assay of what is said to be an average of the entire lot shows $67.60 to the ton.

Word has been received from Lake Fend d'Oreille that the new hoist for the Bonanza has been installed on the collar of the winze from the main tunnel, and that work has just been started on the winze. All other work in the mine has been suspended to give development to an additional 150 feet depth has enabled more definite plans of work to be made.

Missed Soldiers at Shamokin.

Shamokin, Pa., Sept. 23.—A battalion of soldiers of the Twelfth regiment passed through this town on their way to Shenandoah. A large crowd along the track did not see the boys in blue, as they were on the scene following the trouble at Shenandoah. A special train was provided each excitement and ill-feeling.

Parade of Child-Workers.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 23.—A parade of 2000 slate-pickers, runners, drivers, doortenders and helpers from the mines of Lackawanna county marched in honor of the strike recently. The parade was planned by Organizer Dilcher to show how many children, who ought to be in school, were kept out of the mines by reason of their fathers being paid such poor wages. It was a sight that would move the hardest heart. Fully a third of the little army appeared to be about 9 or 10 years old, and inquiry among them elicited the startling fact that not a few 8-year-old children were numbered in the parades.

Wyoming Valley Quiet.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 23.—The close of the first week of the great miners' strike is generally tranquil in the Wyoming valley. There has been no disturbance of any consequence during the six days. It is thought that if any trouble arises it will be in the Hazelton region, where some of the collieries are still in operation.

In From the Philippines.

San Francisco, Sept. 23.—The United States transport Grant has arrived from the Philippines and China. The Grant brings home over 500 discharged soldiers, including nearly 200 sick and wounded. She will probably remain in quarantine several days.

Labor day in Cincinnati, O., witnessed a monster Labor day parade with 15,000 unionists in line.

TRADE REPORTS.

Bradstreet's report for last week says:

The unfavorable turn given the industrial situation by the strike of the anthracite coal miners and the possibility of wage disputes in the iron trade with rather less activity in the latter industry and some increase of weakness in prices of crude forms have given an appearance of irregularity to the general trade and business situation. On the other hand, the course of staple prices has been very generally upward this week; fall distribution of dry goods, clothing, hats and millinery have been of large volume at nearly all markets; there is a decidedly better tone noted in the boot and shoe and kindred trades, and the strength of cotton goods, though apparently in excess of that shown by the raw material, has been regarded as indicative of confidence on the part of manufacturers. The premature opening due to the hot, dry weather is responsible for part of the heavy movement of cotton to market, but back of this, of course, is the desire to profit by the present good price basis. The rush of receipts has been too much for the bull movement, however, and prices are materially lower on the week. The cotton and cotton goods have parted company as to prices this week. The rush of buyers to secure supplies has advanced print cloths, ginghams, bleached goods, prints, and in fact, nearly all classes of cottons, while materially reducing stocks in hands of manufacturers, manufacturers are refusing to take orders ahead except on the "value" based on the cost of raw material. Failures reported as doing in raw wool, but it is mostly to supply current needs of manufacturers, and no large amounts of wool can be moved except at concessions. The spring business in men's woolens is still disappointing. Reports of damage to the spring crop in the northwest, reinforced by northwestern buying at Chicago, furnished by the key to the advance of nearly 2 cents in wheat in the last week, followed by a gain of 20c to 25c in flour and of 1¼c in corn. Some of this advance in wheat was afterward lost in reaction, but the prices were higher, pork and lard advancing on better export business, and butter and cheese on improved weather.

The iron and steel are rather quiet as a whole, and some weakness is noted in southern pig and steel billets at Pittsburg, the other leading finished products are as a rule firm and bars are to be advanced $1 at Chicago. Export inquiry continues good, but the volume of business and the scarcity of any kind of freight room renders the outlook uncertain. In the meanwhile American bars and plates are underselling Scotch goods at the latter points of production. The next week will probably see final action taken as to the new wage scale as to which the depressing reports are current.

In the general metal market the feature was the collapse of tin prices, due to the reports of the smashing of the tin corner.

Wheat (including flour) shipments for the week aggregate 3,355,857 bushels, against 6,625,823 bushels last week, 4,640,765 bushels in the corresponding week of 1899, 5,224,927 bushels in 1898, and 3,825 bushels in 1897 and 3,830,406 in 1896.

From July 1 to date this season wheat exports were 38,519,690 bushels against 46,913,506 bushels last season and 41,694,018 bushels in 1898-99.

Business failures for the week in the United States number 183 as against 167 last week, 147 in this week a year ago, 182 in 1898, 237 in 1897 and 321 in 1896.

Canadian failures number 21 as against 25 last week, 13 in this week a year ago, 19 in 1898, 35 in 1897 and 34 in 1896.

PORTLAND—The wheat market is still showing considerable strength and the selling movement continues heavy, but there is not much export business and prices above the actual value based on existing freight rates. Fifty-seven and one-half cents was bid to-day, and there is reports that a fraction more was paid east of the mountains for Portland delivery. The mills are paying 57½c for milling. Barley is steady at 60c and 61c per bushel.

TACOMA—Wheat—Half cent lower; bluestem, 59½c; club, 56½c.

DOINGS OF WOMEN.

WOMAN SHOULD NOT PROPOSE.

THE radical difference between men and women is the secret of their attraction for each other. As this difference is recognized and emphasized, rather than ignored or minified, every form of comradeship between the sexes takes root, blossoms and bears fruit, as they could not were the sexes on a dead level of similarity. I am glad that men wear short hair and women long hair. Let men wear no bangles, and women no bloomers. I do not like to see a woman's chirography resemble the bold handwriting of a man. I like large bones in a man's body and small ones in a woman's.

I like a woman's voice to be small, but a feminine voice in a man I do not admire. A man must have deep, rich tones, sinking into a whisper only when he feels especially tender. The man will carry the woman across the stream when they walk through the woods on a fair summer day, but that she should insist him ought to offend his sense of fitness if he be every inch a man, says Ida Gatling Pentecost in the Buffalo News. Like wise when a woman will bear the burden (if it be one) of the proposal.

A thorough and complete man will not have the vague enquiry in a woman's asking him to marry her. No, let him have a man's spirit, even if the girl he wants has a million and he not a cent. Any man's wife whose future esteem and self-respect are better when he does the proposing. If a man has not the courage to propose, he will not have sufficient courage for other things in life, and should not marry. If a woman cannot inspire and attract a man sufficiently for him to offer his hand in marriage, she is unfit to become a wife. She could not increase his love, nor even hold it. Therefore, I can conceive of no circumstance arising when the woman is justified in proposing. The role of suitor is not becoming to her.

In the only instance I know of where a woman asked a man to marry her, the man refused. Had she waited or expressed unmistakable desire, doubtless Miss Stuart Wildersee is one of the most brilliant courtiers in Europe, and has powerful influence with the Queen Regent, and much of her husband's success is due to her.

Women with Beards.

There is a barber in New York who makes a specialty of shaving women. He has a number of regular customers. One of them is a wealthy Cuban woman, who spends a great deal of time at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. None of them ever look at a razor as a possible, but the heat, of a verity equaled by no other will admit that the women of China are always peculiarly dignified and modest in their relations with men. Even the girls sold into slavery, who are thus doomed to what are held to be immoral lives, are entirely free from the wantonness of women of a similar moral status in civilized countries. The classic literature of our people bears evidence of the pure thought animating the relations of men and women. Our classics, unlike the Latin and English, may all be put into the hands of a young girl to read."—Harper's Bazar.

An American Wife.

The Countess Von Waldersee, wife of the German field marshal in China and generalissimo of the allied forces, was born in New York, the daughter of a wholesale grocer named Reade. Her first husband was Prince Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein. The marriage on terms of equality the Prince sacrificed his title and royal rights. Her husband was very old at the time of the marriage, was ill and died soon afterward, leaving his immense fortune to the widow, who at the end of two years' mourning married the Count Von Waldersee, a young count. Countess Waldersee is one of the most brilliant courtiers in Europe, and has powerful influence with the Emperor, and much of her husband's success is due to her.

Woman Auditor.

Miss Mamie Muldoon has been appointed Deputy State Auditor of Nebraska by Auditor Cornell. Miss Muldoon is a member of the Auditor's clerical force since she went into office three years and a half ago. She is a stenographer, and in that capacity and as a clerk proved to be an efficient and capable assistant. Her home is in Lincoln and her parents were among the early settlers of Lancaster County. Miss Muldoon has been serving as Deputy Auditor for several months, since Deputy C. O. Hall was obliged to leave the office on account of his declining health. The salary of this position is $1,200 a year, and the responsibilities are great, as evidenced by the $50,000 bond required.

MISS MULDOON.

For Dress Shields.

The tiny safety pins, not more than half an inch long, are the latest for the quick change of dress shields. They are specially useful for service in shirtwaists, and are to be preferred, for almost any bodice, to the use of needle and thread. Double-faced dress-shields should be bought by the dozen and sent through the family laundry with the regularity of face cloths and handkerchiefs. With the small pins the burden of frequent replacing is much less.

Live Up to Your Ideal.

To college girls and women alike to all who must be wage earners, the practical veritles appeal. Set a high value on yourself, dear toiler, and live up to your own estimate. Have before you an ideal of true womanhood, and pray daily that you may not fall below it. If the precise work you wish for does not offer itself, take something else, even if you do so only temporarily.—Margaret E. Sangster.

REPUBLICAN SPEAKING.

Miss Jessie M. Riley, republican candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, and Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, a celebrated lady speaker, will address the voters of this section, at Elliott Hall, Wednesday evening, October 3rd. Tell your friends and be present.

—E. H. Warren, the horse dentist, has been in our midst several days the past week, relieving the dumb animals of teeth, aches, and so forth.

—And still there is more warehouse room being made in Genesee for the grain coming in. A few cents more for No. 1 wheat would place most of our people on "Easy Street."

—The Northern Pacific is laying five miles of new track in its yards at Tocoma in order to provide accommodation for excessively heavy freight traffic being handles there occasioned by the Oriental trade.

—A lone highwayman held up the passengers on Saturday's train at Athol, a short distance east of Spokane, and secured between $400 and $500 in money before escaping to the woods. Officers left Kingston Tuesday with bloodhounds on track of the daring man.

—Clarence Williams, the young son of C. W. Williams of Lewiston, regained consciousness last Friday after being in an unconscious condition for sixteen days as a result of a fall from a horse. The boy is rational this week and is in total ignorance of how the accident occurred.

—Harvest is still in full blast in the Nezperce city country. The new towns are all showing much stir since grain hauling set in. At the little town of Peck the Press says: "Just to show how mony goes out for flax the Peck Merc. Co. cashed $1,600 worth of checks Wednesday and could have had as much more if the money had been available. They are shipping in money every day to accommodate the people generally."

—University regents met Tuesday and elected James A. McLean as president of the institution. There were five applicants in person before the board from whom the selection was made. President McLean is a graduate of the University of Toronto, afterward receiving the degree of A. M. and Ph. D. from Columbia University of New York. He was then elected to the chair of political science in the University of Colorado, which position he has held the past six years. He is thirty-four years old and unmarried. F. A. Huntley was elected to the horticultural chair, and A. S. Miller to the Mining. The University now has the largest attendance and the largest number of new students it has ever had at a like period.

—Spokane fruit fair. The round trip fare, October 1st to 16 inclusive, $4.55. Tickets limited five days from date of sale. Final limit not later than October 19. Children between ages 5 to 12 half of above rate.

—The Northern Pacific filed on 6,080 acres of land this week situated on the North fork of the Clearwater near the mouth of Washington creek. This is heavily timbered, and it is reported that there will be 50,000 acres more filed upon in a few days.

—Judge Langford of Lewiston held Harry Noyes, Frank Lowe and Will Finney to the district court on the charge of horse stealing, fixing the bonds at $2000 each. The complaining witness is Peter Slickapoo, who alleges the loss of 40 head of horses. Benton Denny is now having his trial before Judge Steele for horse-stealing.

—A number of young people from this neighborhood have either gone or are preparing to go to the state normal at Lewisto: Fred C. Miller, Misses Tweedt, Snyder, Hagan, Swank and the Misses Wardrobe and Misses Tiel. Fred Miller came in Monday to register, expecting to leave next day, and said he did not want to miss the chance to vote for a republican president.

—Many will attend the Lewiston Interstate Fair which opens October 15 and lasts a week. From the premium list we learn that over $8000 in premiums and purses will be offered, open to the world. The racing association expect to have many fine races with purses ranging from $50 to $1000 each. Liberal cash prizes and premiums will be offered for all kinds of agricultural exhibits, live stock, poultry, pastery, fancy work, paintings, dairy products, and so on. George Cummings, the freighter, says the show will surpass that of the Spokane exposition. The racing feature will be a great drawing card.

"What's the Time?"

A booklet with this title, just published by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, should not only be in the hands of every traveler, but should have a place on the desk of every banker, merchant or other business man.

The four "Time Standards" which govern our entire system and which are more or less familiar to most of the traveling public, but by many others little understood, are so fully explained and illustrated by a series of charts, diagrams and tables that any one who chooses can become conversant with the subject in question. There are also some twenty-four tables by which almost at a glance, the time at any place being given, the hour and day can be ascertained in all the principal cities of the world.

A copy of this pamphlet may be had on application to Geo. H. Heafford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, enclosing two-cent stamp to pay postage.

Summons.

In the District Court, Second Judicial District of the State of Idaho in and for the county of Latah.

MARY E. MORSE, Plaintiff, vs. CHARLES E. MORSE, Defendant.

To Charles E. Morse, Defendant: The people of Idaho send greeting:

You are hereby notified that there is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of said State, in Moscow, county of Latah, the complaint of the above named plaintiff in an action brought against you of the nature in general terms as follows: Plaintiff prays that a decree be made and entered in his court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant and forever releasing them each from the other in relation thereof, giving the plaintiff the legal charge and control of the said Harry D. Morse, the minor child and decreeing that the said real and personal property be and remain the separate property of the plaintiff herein, and plaintiff prays for such other and further relief as seems to the court right and just, the particulars more fully appearing in Plaintiff's complaint on file in this said office to which reference is hereby made.

And you are also notified that unless you appear and answer to said complaint within ten days after the service hereof, if served within Latah county, and within twenty days if served out of said county, but within said Judicial District, and within forty days if served out of said district (exclusive of the day of service), the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief as praged for in complaint.

Given under my hand and seal of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of the state of Idaho in and for Latah county, this 25th day of September, A. D. 1900.

—Register now.

—Earl Morse came down from the reservation for a visit.

—Mrs. M. C. Harris returned from her visit to Nezperce.

—Lambert, the creamery man, was up from Vineland Wednesday.

—Two to three feet of snow fell in the Colorado mountains Monday.

—Ben Caldwell and wife have moved to Juliaetta where he is section foreman.

—Mr. Putnam was around town the other day for the first time since he had a leg broken.

—Misses Lulu Baumgarner and Hattie Kessler, of Moscow, are in the city canvassing.

—H. C. Chamberlain, the revenue collector, and wife, were here from Lewiston yesterday.

—Next Sunday Evangelist F. F. St. Clair will fill the Methodist pulpit morning and evening.

—Take down your pitcher, pail or keg to the cold storage house and get some apple juice or cider.

—Mrs. Roland Hodgins came over from Moscow Tuesday with her boy for a few days visit at the Hodgins residence.

—B. M. Easterbrook is busy plastering the Catholic school building. Mr. Tertling of Lewiston will have charge of the brick-veneer work.

—J. W. [illegible] of the Spokane Drug Co. tarried in Genesee over Wednesday night. He is an old Little Falls, Minn., friend of George Hobson.

—The breath of wintery air these nights bring out the overcoats and start the smiles to playing over the faces of the coal and wood dealers.

—Attorney Samuel attended court in Lewiston Saturday. We learn that a decree of divorce was granted in the case Ed. McMunegle vs. Eliza McMunegle.

—Ralston Vollmer visited Lewiston Sunday and Monday. Misses Genevive and Norma Vollmer and Norman Vollmer left this week for the east to enter college.

—Mrs. Mathews, we are pleased to learn, has improved so far as to be able to walk across the room. She will return to Genesee next week with her mother, Mrs. Geo. Daggett.

—The W. R. C. ladies gave an excellent supper in the hall Wednesday and realized a neat little sum of cash. The ladies are fine cooks and many a person stored away enough good things to last a week.

—The Rebekahs celebrated their anniversary last week by decorating graves of the departed. By invitation they halted at Sister Hanson's home and ground out and drank apple juice. Jolly time is reported.

—The couple which chooses to get married this year at the Spokane fair which opens next Tuesday, will be honored with a wedding march played by the Royal Marine Band of Italy, which is considered the best band in America today.

—Quite a number of young people assembled at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Biram, Friday evening, and gave Chas. Sanders "a warm time." The time was pleasantly passed at games and luncheon. This date was also Mr. Stussa's 76th birthday.

—Our "flyer" has been from two to three hours late each day this week occasioned by extra work along the line to Spokane. If the shippers got the cars they have been calling long and loud for, there would be no room on the line for the passenger train. We are tickled to get a train at any old time.

—Mr. Thompson is very active in the hay business. The hay is shipped to the coast as fast as cars can be secured where it is re-baled and made into bales half the present size and shipped to the Philippines. The islands are sending the price of hay up —which means thousands and thousands of dollars to our farmers. We favor expanson, most certainly.

—Frank Jones came swooping down on Genesee Wednesday from near the north pole with icicles still hanging to him. Frank came via of Nome and says he had a great trip—was in a storm that tossed the ships around as though they were mere toys. The storm wrecked several boats and a number of persons were drowned on the Nome beach. Mr. Jones says the opportunities are many in Alaska for people to make money if they have something to start with. Dawson people handle many hundred thousand dollars in gold dust during a year. Says M. C. Harris may come down this fall if he can get away, but Charley will remain. Friends are glad to see Frank back again.

Royal Baking Powder

Makes The Food More Healthful

Royal Baking Powder possesses peculiar qualities not found in other leavening agents, which arise from the superior fitness, purity and healthfulness of its ingredients.

Royal Baking Powder leavens the food perfectly by its own inherent power without changing or impairing any of the elements of the flour.

Thus the hot-breads, hot-rolls and muffins, and the delicious hot griddle-cakes raised by the Royal Baking Powder are wholesome and digestible, and may be eaten without distress, even by persons of delicate digestion.

Alum baking powders are low priced, as alum costs but two cents a pound; but alum is a corrosive poison and it renders the baking powder dangerous to use in food.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK

—Cool will have more oysters tomorrow afternoon.

—See advt. of L. F. Darr, the machinery and lumber dealer.

—Dol Terry left yesterday for Seattle to remain during the winter.

—Jim Deacon received $12.25 from the dance instead of $17 as previously reported.

—Miss Maude Hall of Uniontown has been the guest of Miss Mae Herman this week.

—H. K. Krum will serve on the school board in place of Ed. Follett who failed to qualify.

—A brother of W. A. Forgey died in Montana last week. The remains were buried in Asotin.

—Ora Carson sold his team and wagon and lit out for the Cœur d'Alene country to "paddle his own canoe."

—M. W. Welch and Peter Johann were in Moscow Tuesday as spectators at the hoisting of the democratic ticket. No Genesee democrat took part in this meeting.

—Joseph Moresch has purchased twenty acres from Cashier Scroggin back of the Catholic church on which he will build a home sometime in the near future. Mr. Scroggin expects to make another sale of land in the same neighborhood very soon.

—Fred Nagel left Sunday morning over the Northern Pacific for New York from which point he will sail for his fatherland, Germany. May he have a safe journey. Chas. Bomberg will look after the shop here in proper style during Fred's absence.

—The Methodist church people are quite encouraged over the report of last year's work. In addition to raising nearly all assessments in full, the pastor's salary being over paid, the church debt of $550 has been raised with the interest. This conference year they feel hopeful and anticipate an almost unprecented period.

—There are 234 pupils in attendance at the public schools, as follows: Prof. Cobbs has 35, F. D. Hasbrouck 25, Miss Halverson 55, Miss French 49, Cecelia Spurbeck 37, Miss Burdic 33. Miss Burdic also has a class of twenty scholars to instruct in history and geography in the afternoon. The teachers will have all they can do when the scholars are all enrolled.

—Genesee merchants are enjoying good trade. There is no reason why they should not. They are getting in larger and better stocks than ever before, and as they are under less expense than the city merchant, sell cheaper. Traveling men say Genesee merchants sell goods at lower figures than those of any town in this whole country, and they know. Farmers should bear this in mind.

—The ladies of the Methodist church will serve dinner on election day.

—The Congregational ladies will serve dinner and supper on election day.

—Dr. Beck and wife moved into their house last week and are very comfortably situated.

—Charles Swenson has leased his farm for three years and will move to town to give his children the advantages of city schools.

—Mrs. J. Rosenstein returned from Portland Monday where she spent several weeks pleasantly visiting friends and sight-seeing.

—Among friends of the NEWS in to load up with choice reading for the coming year: James Willows, J. H Frizzell, Charley Jain, T. R Haskin.

—G. S. Trueblood and wife came down from Nezperce last week for a visit with friends here. Floyd Trueblood and Howard Headrick of the same place started last week for Boise valley where they will ride the ranges.

—G. R. Howton and family, who left here some three years ago with the Barringer people for Watsonville, Cal., returned a short time ago and will reside in Genesee. Mr. Howton says Mr. Barringer is now living in southern Idaho.

—H. E. Church was seen escorting two gentlemen around the grain houses Wednesday. One was a brother, L. C. Church, and the other was John Lawson, of Walworth and Delevan, Wisconsin. They are on a tour of inspection of the west and in all their travels never saw as productive a spot as the Genesee valley. The gentlemen filled up on fruit until they could hold no more.

—The merry laughter resounding over the school grounds before the bell rings is delightful and forcibly brings to our mind that one generation succeeds another in rapid succession. Book-stores have been veritable bee-hives and the scholars to both temples of learning have got down to hard studying. The critical eye of the NEWS is watching results along with anxious parents. Latin has been taken up by a number of pupils who intend to enter college.

—The Spokane fruit fair opens next Tuesday. That these fairs have been of great benefit to the Inland Empire there can be no doubt. The wonderful resources are shown to the people of the world. The agricultural and mining districts have been greatly benefitted. Spokane people may expect to see a big crowd next Tuesday when the Royal Marine Band of Italy marches down Riverside avenue, and with Miss Lulu Kirby, of Peck, Idaho, opens the doors of the seventh annual exposition. That day will be heard the chorus of 1,000 school boys and girls, and a great parade is advertised on that date.

—M. A. Means received a large invoice of gents' fall and winter clothing besides other goods.

—Some of the young society people had a time in K. P. hall Saturday evening. Games and grub kept them smiling for sevsral hours.

—Carpenter Smith will soon move back from Moscow. He is now building a fine house for Einer Johnson near town. Wonder what Einer wants of a dwelling?

—Messrs. Harris and Welty have leased the creamery connected with the Pullman agricultural college, and are operating it under the name of the Harris Creamery Co.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Hasfurther moved to town last week and occupy their residence west of the school house. What Joe intends doing we are not informed, but he evidently has his eye on something.

—We learn that Jim Dutton, upon arriving at Ashland, mistook a sulphur spring for a soda spring and did not discover the difference until he had swallowed a goodly quantity of the water which did not tickle his throat to any great extent. James is carried away with the town, one of the many charming features being the large number of rich widows there.

—A farmer near Thornton put in 23 acres of timothy which produced an average yield of two tons to the acre. This he sold at $10.50 per ton f. o. b. The total cost of producing the crop and placing it on board the cars was $3 per ton, leaving a net profit of $7.50 per ton or $15 per aare. This, it will be seen, is far better than wheat raising. The farmer says he will put in his entire farm to timothy the coming year. He sold six weeks ago and if he had held until now he could get $15 per ton for his hay, giving him a profit of $24 per acre. The hay is going to the Philippines and to China. Genesee farmers should give this proposition attention.

—The Lutheran congregation last Sunday was a good sized one, the occasion being the installation of the new pastor, Rev. G. S. A. Eyrich, by the Rev C. Hopf, of Cameron, Idaho. The delay of this ceremony was caused by the close confinement to work of the pastors of the different parishes of the west and to the busy harvest. Rev. Hopf delivered an able sermon, mainly dwelling upon the ministerial calling and its rights, and discussed the doctrines of the Lutheran church. The text was taken from Acts 10, 33-36. The attendance was very good despite the stormy weather. Rev Hopf. and Rev. Eyrich are old friends, having known each other in Minnesota for a number of years, and a good visit was enjoyed by the gentlemen.

—The rains early in the week drove several of the threshing machines to cover, leaving but a couple of crews to finish up the work of threshing. A few settings still remain unthreshed. The threshers are well pleased with their fall's run. Farmers are also satisfied with this year's yield, all of the wheat grading No. 1. With from 5 to 10 cents a bushels more, this community would contain the happiest lot of farmers under the sun. With the price of hogs, cattle, sheep, hay, flax, butter, eggs, etc., soaring high, and fair prices for fruit, grain and vegetables, the producers have much to be thankful for. Let us hope the present condition will continue a few years longer at least until we are on a more solid financial foundation. In the meantime if we can find a better country or goverment across the sea, let's go to it. NEWS is satisfied with this country.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Victor Emmanuel is only five feet in height. Let's hope he'll be every inch a king.

The Chinese name for the Boxers is Big Sword; the American name is Big Bluff; that's the difference.

No scientist of standing alleges the dog days are so-called because they come towards the tail-end of summer.

As a matter of fact the vacationist who spends all his time camping in the woods may be out less than those who put up at expensive hotels.

A man whose wife wants him to get a divorce so that she can marry another fellow refuses to do so, saying she must suffer for her sins. The "other man" seems to be having all the best of it in this mix-up.

Handwriting experts are themselves the ones to abolish their testimony farces, for they have placed prohibitive tariff on their services. Now, if the insanity specialists would follow this example judges, lawyers and the public generally would be vastly relieved.

Baron Russell of Killowen, Lord Chief Justice of England, was a great lawyer in the largest sense of the term and he was a man of great attainments outside of his profession. An Irishman by birth, he inherited the wit of the Celt and joined to it the deliberative faculties of the Englishman. The combination made him almost irresistible at the bar and luminous on the bench. He was a worthy successor to the long line of illustrious jurists who have been chief justice of England.

In 1790 the proportion which the population of the towns of 8,000 inhabitants or over bore to the aggregate population of the United States was 3.35 per cent. By 1840 this proportion had increased to 8.52 per cent. In 1870 it was 20.93, and in 1890 it was 29.20. It will undoubtedly be considerably over 30 per cent in 1900, and probably it will be in the neighborhood of 33 per cent, so that at present about a third of the aggregate population of the United States reside in towns of 8,000 inhabitants or over.

It is generally admitted that meats which have been frozen and kept long in cold storage are deficient in flavor. The Sanitary Record declares that after a time frozen meat also loses some life-giving principle essential to its nourishing quality. Those who eat it for any great length of time develop disorders of the digestive organs, lose weight and suffer in general health. The same evils follow the continued use of canned fruits and vegetables, and even more surely the use of stale milk or eggs. Preservatives may arrest the grosser processes of decay, but they cannot avert this intangible deterioration.

Chicago manufacturers who own fifty-four thousand acres of woodland in Missouri have applied to the Division of Forestry of the Department of Agriculture for advice as to how to make the best use of it. It is desired to remove the merchantable timber and increase the producing power of the forest, and the government foresters will provide a "working plan." This, it is said, is the first attempt of an American manufacturing establishment to apply modern forestry methods in raising timber for its own use; but it should not be the last attempt. The man with the ax, who chops down every tree that stands in his way, has become a national nuisance. If our forests are to be preserved, if they are to be enlarged, private individuals must unite to suppress him, and then co-operate cordially with the experts who work systematically.

Every day some wise man arises to show people with small purses how to live upon limited amounts. But what is really needed is a philosopher who can teach one how to be economical in a graceful way. The man who wears his economical heart upon his sleeve, who is constantly reminding one not of how well he can do with a little but of how much he could accomplish with more, is one who makes poverty ugly. To live upon mush and yet to be pining for mushrooms, to wear blue jeans and to be sighing for black broadcloth is to show the seamy side of economy. The wise economist will show how much more meritorious is mush than mushrooms and how much superior in the matter of durability is jeans than broadcloth. Of course, when poverty pinches sufferers must scream, but so long as this dreaded enemy only ventures to nudge the victim he may be treated with dignified disdain, or, better still, with wholesome hospitality.

The world loves to reward its great artists. Mr. Fitzsimmons, professor of the manly art, received about $16,000 for his excellent work at New York recently. And Mr. Rublin, who also did very creditable work at the same place, received some $4,000 for his efforts. A colored artist named Dixon has, it is said, been remunerated by the public to the extent of $97,000 in the course of his career. Unfortunately, this gentleman has not been thrifty and is now afflicted by penury. All great artists cannot be saving, but in this particular line of art they can all make a good living. Artist Fitzsimmons and Artist Ruhlin, it will be observed, both receive a good profit on their work, although the last named did not turn out the masterpiece he expected to achieve. What the public looks for is a certain devotion to art, and if that be in evidence, it is willing to overlook certain shortcomings. We cannot all be professors of the manly art, otherwise there would be no social problem to solve. If every man could win from $4,000 to $16,000 in a single day by a simple display of art, who would do the world's arduous and plain work?

The gentleman in the shirt waist should not despair. He should remember that only a few years ago the man in knickerbockers was banished even from second-rate restaurants, so inflexible apparently is the law of custom. Recalling our frequently expressed position concerning the attire of the summer girl, we think that the nearest approach to such a vision of loveliness would be a nice little man with rosy cheeks and attractive locks in a pink shirt waist and duck trousers. Of course, for the present, we must expect that prejudiced and uncultivated restaurant-keepers and hotel proprietors will make the usual remonstrance, but we cannot advise our shirt-waist friends to cover up their loveliness with heavy, cumbersome and unsightly coats. Let them provide themselves for such emergencies with dainty taffeta Eton jackets, such as the ladies affect, or, better still, let them throw around their shoulders the enticing fluffy fascinator, with that degree of coquettishness that would immediately disarm all hostile criticism. It is our belief that a nice young man in shirt waist and fascinator would be too sweet for anything, and if he could wear a pretty bow or a becoming rose in his hair he would be "simply grand." Then let us not despair. Time will avenge us.

A curious feature of the long record of charitable and educational donations in the United States is the growing frequency of cases in which the donors withhold their names. Since the beginning of the present year the total given by unknown donors is $1,158,000. Two anonymous donors in New York have given a total of $500,000 to charitable enterprises. Unknown benefactors have given $100,000 to Columbia College, $80,000 to Cornell, $50,000 to Harvard, $102,500 to the University of Chicago, $100,000 to Barnard College, and $50,000 to the Illinois Manual Training School. Other donations of smaller amounts bring the total to the figure named above. It is quite evident that a desire for glory is not one of the motives leading to the generosity of these donors. Whether the increasing tendency to keep their identity unknown is caused altogether by modesty and by the desire not to let the left hand know what the right hand is doing, is not so certain. Apparently the wish to avoid an inundation of begging letters and importunate callers has something to do with fostering a retiring disposition on the part of the donors. Whenever anybody gives a few thousands to any charity or school he or she is at once made the target for hundreds if not thousands of appeals for money. Probably the wish to escape this undeserved penalty for a good deed has led many donors to keep their names unknown. This theory is confirmed by the experience of Miss Helen Gould, who probably receives more requests for pecuniary assistance than any other woman in the country. Great as her wealth is, if she were to comply with all these requests she would be penniless in less than a year. Few of these begging letters ever reach her hands, for they are read and answered by two secretaries, who lay before her only such as they think may interest her. Lately the secretaries have taken to inclosing in each letter of refusal a statement of the appeals received in a single week, with the sums asked for. The objects for which money is asked range through the whole field of human wants, frivolous or otherwise. In all there were 1,303 letters during the week, calling for a total of $1,548,502. With perennial persecution of this kind staring them in the face, it is not strange that some wealthy persons with a desire to do good in their own way should prefer to do it anonymously.

About Paderewski.

That superb pianist, Ignace Jan Paderewski, who has had the honor of playing before the Queen, owns one of the most beautiful homes in the world at Riond Bosson, on the borders of the lake of Geneva in Switzerland. As he says, it is too beautiful for work, but, none the less, it was here he composed and orchestrated the greater portion of his opera, which is to be produced at Dresden. By birth he is a Russian-Pole, having first seen the light of day at Podolia on Nov. 6, 1860. After studying at Warsaw and Berlin he became a music teacher, and in 1884 he decided on his life career as a virtuoso. He first went to London in May, 1890, when he played at St. James' Hall.

Fruit Kept from Apprentices.

In the sixteenth century there was a curious law in England, whereby street hawkers were forbidden to sell plums and apples, for the reason that servants and apprentices were unable to resist the sight of them and were, consequently, tempted to steal their employers' money in order to enjoy the costly delicacies.

TIME'S BALM.

When first I met the fair Marie,
My smitten heart at once surrendered,
And in a week, with eager haste,
My love and all I have I tendered.
Marie was very calm and cool,
Though I was greatly agitated,
And when I came away—refused—
To endless anguish I felt fated.
But, oh, since then so many girls
I've seen, far prettier, sweeter, brighter,
That all their loveliness has made
My load of woe distinctly lighter!
In fact, since she said "No" I've met
A lovely girl whom I like better,
And now, whene'er I meet Marie,
I think, "Thank heaven I didn't get her!"

LITTLE JIM.

THERE were five men of us and a boy in the far Western stage coach as it rolled over the rough roads of Dakota. We had been together for four days. We called the boy Jim because his father did. We knew his father to be Col. Weston, banker, cattleman and mine owner. The Colonel wasn't a man to whom a stranger would take at first glance, and even after four days of his company none of us could say we liked him. When you came to study him closely, you saw that he was revengeful and relentless. The boy was frank, chipper and good-natured, and you took a liking to him as soon as you looked into his big blue eyes. His age was about 10, and he had wit and knowledge beyond his years. We had yet twenty miles to go to reach the terminus, and the hour was about 2 o'clock in the afternoon when the coach came to a sudden halt as it toiled up hill. Next moment the driver called to us:

"All you folks what don't want your heads blown off had better get down and line up. We've been stopped by a road agent."

We had arms in plenty, but no one moved to resist. Every bullet fired by the robber would bore its way through the coach and find a target, while the robber had the cover of the horses and was safe from our fire. It seems cowardly when you read it, but to get down and submit to be robbed was the wisest thing to do under the circumstances.

Little Jim was not a bit frightened. On the contrary, he rather enjoyed the situation. It was not so with the Colonel. I saw him turn pale and heard him cursing under his breath, and he was the last man to get down.

The robber had a double-barreled shotgun in his hands. He cautioned the driver to hold the coach where it was and then advanced upon us. He glanced carelessly into each face until his eyes rested on the Colonel. Then he gave a sudden start, drew in his breath with a gasp, and we realized that there was a recognition. The Colonel grew white under his look and began to tremble. The boy had no sooner looked into the road agent's face than he cried out:

"Why, it's Mr. Pelton—Mr. Pelton! Say, Mr. Pelton, I'm awfully glad to see you. Where've you been this long time?"

"So it's you, Jimmy," laughed the robber as he held out his hand for a shake. "Well, you have been growing since I saw you last. It's a wonder you knew me at first sight."

"Oh, I used to like you so well I couldn't forget your face," replied the boy. "Are there robbers around, Mr. Pelton?"

With gentle hand the man pushed the boy back in line and then stepped back a pace or two. As he did so his face grew very sober, and I saw a flash in his black eyes I did not like. His voice was low and steady as he finally said:

"I'm much obliged for your promptness in climbing down and lining up, and I think I'll let you off this time. The four of you may go back into the coach and go on. I'm leaving your guns with you, but don't attempt to play me any trick."

The Colonel took his son by the hand and attempted to enter the stage with us, but the robber motioned him back.

"W-what do you want of me?" asked the Colonel in a voice which quavered.

"I'll tell you later," was the reply.

As the coach started on we looked out to see the three standing in the road. Little Jim still had hold of his father's hand, but had reached out the other and caught the robber's sleeve.

When we had gone 200 feet, the road turned and shut them from our view.

At the disappearance of the stage the man turned on Col. Weston and pointed to the hillside on the right and said:

"Move on that way. Jimmy, give me your hand, and I'll help you along."

The white-faced Colonel entered the pines and held a straight course up the hill. Behind him came the robber and his son. The boy had been full of curiosity at first, but presently he was awed and frightened by the looks cast upon his father.

Two or three years before he and Mr. Pelton had been great friends. Mr. Pelton had been manager for his father. One day there had been a bitter quarrel, pistols had been drawn, the sheriff had rushed in, and Mr. Pelton had fled to escape arrest. He remembered his father calling the fugitive a thief and of men being sent out to hunt him down. All this came back to him as they followed the father up the rough way, and though he knew nothing of man's vengeance there was a feeling of dread in his soul. Now and then the robber ordered the Colonel to the right or left, but these were the only words spoken until they finally reached a rude camp high up among the bowlders. By and by the robber half turned to look the Colonel in the face and said:

"I've waited for this for two years. I could neither die nor go away until I had killed you."

"It will be murder—cold-blooded murder," replied the Colonel as he folded his arms.

"If it was murder a hundred times over, I'd do it. Do you suppose I can forget Rose Harper? Who separated us? Who maligned me? Who wrecked my life and sent her to a suicide's grave? Who drove me to be a fugitive from justice on a false charge? I'd kill you if 1,000 men surrounded me."

The Colonel was silent for a time. He did not look at his boy, but past him. The boy's eyes were fastened on his face, however, and a chill crept over him as he noted the look of a man standing in the shadow of death. It was the first time he had ever seen it. He turned from his father after awhile to look at the robber.

There was another look strange to him. It was a set determination to kill—the look of a man who had hated and thirsted and waited.

"Take the boy away first," said the Colonel with a touch of entreaty in his voice.

"Yes; that will be proper," answered Pelton. "Come, Jimmy, let's take a walk."

"What—what you going to do with father?" whispered the boy as he walked slowly over and put his hand in that of the would-be murderer.

"Never mind. Do you see that big rock up there? Well, go up there and see what is hidden behind it. Shake hands with your father before you go."

The boy crossed over to his father in a puzzled way, and the father lifted him up and kissed him. When he put him down, he said to him:

"Run along, Jimmy. If you don't find me when you come back, Mr. Pelton will take care of you."

"Oh, yes, Mr. Pelton will take care of me and see that I get home," replied the lad. "I'm awfully glad to see him. Wasn't it queer to meet him 'way off here? I was saying only a week ago that I wish'd he was back with us so that he could mend my wagon and help me make kites. Mr. Pelton was always good to me. I won't be gone long, and you and Mr. Pelton must be good friends. Don't you remember that mother said she was sorry for him? We want him back, don't we?"

Little Jim started off for the rock, but he hadn't taken ten steps before he was back again to say to the robber:

"And I want you to make me a new water wheel, and the handle has come out of the hammer, and nobody will sharpen my knife for me. If you don't come back, I don't know what I shall do."

"Perhaps I'll come back," whispered Pelton as he turned his head away.

"Oh, but you surely must. I've heard lots of people say you were a good man and shouldn't have gone away. Mother told me if I ever met you I might speak to you just as I used to. I'm going now, but remember that you are coming back."

The boy went away almost gleefully, and the two men heard his footsteps and his voice as he made his way toward the rock. The father looked after him until he was hidden by the trees and then turned to the robber and quietly said:

"Before he comes back. And you'll help him to get home?"

"Yes; before he comes back," replied Pelton as he drew his revolver. "It won't be murder, Col. Weston. It'll simply be retribution. Do you want a minute or two to ask God to forgive you?"

The Colonel sat erect with folded arms. He closed his eyes, and his lips moved. By and by he heard the click of the pistol. He did not open his eyes, but he felt that it was leveled at his heart and that his life was measured by seconds. Of a sudden came a call from little Jim. Half way to the rock he had turned about to shout:

"Oh, Mr. Pelton, don't forget to think up some new Indian and bear stories to tell me. Nobody has told me a story since you went away."

The Colonel's eyes opened. The revolver was lying on the ground, and Pelton had his hands over his face. When he dropped them, there were tears in his eyes. He rose up, put the pistol in his pocket and said to the man waiting for death:

"I can't do it. Little Jim would know it some day. When he comes back, take him and go down to the road. It's only three miles to Cedarville."

With that he walked off into the brush and was out of sight in a moment. When little Jim returned, he found his father sitting as he had left him and gazing into the woods.

"What is it, father?" he asked. "What's the matter with you and where is Mr. Pelton?"

The man rose up slowly, took his boy's hand in his, and without a word in answer he led the way down to the stage trail and safety.—Butte Miner.

Discoveries in Crete.

Arthur Evans, who dug up the palace at Gnossus in Crete, gave some interesting details about his discovery to the Hellenic Society recently. A large paved area he spoke of as "the original dancing ground of Ariadne." In one corner of the palace was a throne room, the throne having "crockets" and other details that anticipate Gothic designs. There are frescoes of flowers, water, fishes and crowds of men and women, the former with red faces, the latter with white. The headdresses and costumes of the women are "truly Parisian." The figure of a bull in painted plaster, found there, may be intended to represent the Minotaur.

Now Come Glass Fence Posts.

A glass firm lately received an order for 500 glass fence posts, to be of the usual size, and grooved for the reception of wire.

FARMS AND FARMERS

Poultry as a Farm Product.

The belief seems to prevail generally that the rearing and feeding of poultry is not really a special farm industry, but that it is one of the by-ways as may be said, to gather in odds and ends of profit by using up some wastes of the farm that would otherwise be lost. We have at times mentioned some facts which go to show that expensive poultry keeping may be made greatly more profitable than some other branches of farm work and that the demand for this kind of farm produce is increasing so rapidly and continuously that there is no risk that it may be easily overdone.

Let us make a comparison. A cow is worth as much as thirty hens anywhere. It needs an average of five acres of land to support a cow, and two under the most intensive system of soiling and the silo. It requires the time of one person to attend to ten cows as it should be done. Thirty hens may be kept on one-fourth of an acre of land with ease, and one one-fourth as much food as a cow must have, and one person can attend to 300 hens with ease. Suppose we then take this comparison, thirty hens equal one cow as to cost; then how is the income in comparison? The figures given by a noted creamery as to a herd of fourteen cows kept by the leading patron show that the average income, over and above cost of feeding of these cows, was $18,67. In truth the actual average of all the cows existing is estimated at about half as much as this, and thus not more than the average net income from four average hens making $2.50 each. This fact should go far to raise this useful farm animal in the estimation of those persons who are seeking profit-making from rural pursuits. And if there were no other items to go to the credit of the industrious and tireless hen, this one should be sufficient to give her prominence as one of the means of making rural life and industry profitable, and indeed alluring.

The business of rearing poultry is simple and already well understood, entailing no excessive labor, but simply calling for attention at intervals through the day. The work required, of course, is precise, and needs attention, but it is in no sense laborious and is not without attractive conditions. The result of certain investigations is shown in the accompanying illustration which represents a hen, a bushel of corn she consumes in the year, or the equivalent of the mixed rations required and the peck basket of eggs numbering 100 or the average yield per hen of a fairly good flock, but not counting the brood she will rear in addition, and which is estimated at ten; thus leaving for profit, if there be no other, ten times her original value. But the eggs will pay twice over for the cost of keeping, including all expenses incurred, and the proportionate time employed by the attendant, estimated at two dollars a day.—Montreal Herald.

Under the Barn Floor.

When we were young it was found that the planks in the stable floor were so damaged that it was desirable to take them up and replace them. They had probably not been taken up for many years, and the amount of fertilizing material that was dug out there and thrown into the barnyard was a revelation to us. We think we dug at least four feet deep, and doubt if we got the whole of the valuable material, and perhaps much less than half of it. Certainly it was well saturated or had been with the liquids from the stables, and it was richer than the ordinary barnyard manure, as we found when we put it on the land, or when the crops grew upon which we put it. The hole we made was filled up with dry sand, and if it has not been cleaned out since we would warrant that there are several loads of good fertilizer there now. This taught us to appreciate the value of a barn cellar in which the manure, both liquid and solid, could be saved, and although we now would not keep cows in a stable with a cellar under it, or at least would never plan to have manure cellar under the cows, we still think that a large share of the fertilizing value of the manure is lost when there is not some arrangement for saving the liquid as well as the solid. And for this we would have a cement floor, with a movable plank floor over it. We would not have the fumes of the manure coming up through the floor into the room where we had to do the milking.—American Cultivator.

Care of Farm Work Horses.

Isn't ten hours of labor in the field enough for man or beast? If so, you should come in from the field at 6 in the evening. We find that we do as much work in ten hours as the fourteen-hour men, and our horses don't come in all fagged out either. From spring until fall when we come in from the field at night we unharness the horses and turn them out. They roll and drink; then away they scamper to grass. Our pasture isn't a barren field, but it is nice and green with a good growth of six or seven different grasses. Their feed is placed in their mangers, and just before dark the doors are opened and the horses called. They come readily, for they know that a good feed is awaiting them. As grass is digested in about half the time dry feed is it would seem as though it should be the first feed instead of the last. Our horse barn is 26 by 40, with east and west doors and a window in front of each team; no bad light or ventilation here. There is plenty of good straw given for bedding, and the horses look well, are never sick and do as much work as the average horse.—Homestead.

Stall for Kicking Horses.

A correspondent of the Michigan Farmer submits a diagram of a stall that he used for ten years. "Fasten the chain about 3½ feet above floor and 8 feet back from manger," says he.

STALL FOR KICKERS.

"Have a hook at one end, so you can open easily. Wire the other fast, that you may always have chain at hand. I never have had carpenter work to do behind horse tied in this stall."

Grass for Pigs.

Notwithstanding the anatomy of the pig would seem to dispute the proposition, grass is necessary to its best development, says Texas Farm and Ranch. The small stomach would seem to indicate a grain ration or concentrated food of some sort, and so it does. Hogs are wanted to consume a large amount of feed, converting it into pork. Therefore the first thing required is to enlarge his capacity to eat, or, in other words, to enlarge his stomach. Grass, being bulky in proportion to its nutritious qualities, is the very thing and involves the only known method of enlarging the stomach. At the same time it furnishes the protein needed to develop flesh, muscle and bone. Then when we have a large frame built up with enlarged digestive capacity it is an easy matter to put on the fat with corn or other carbohydrate feeds.

Orchard Blight.

We notice in the Western papers there is much complaint of blight among the fruit trees. For several years they have noticed it among the pear and quince trees, but not until this year has it done much damage to apple trees. The sultry weather has been just what was needed for rapid growth of the spores, and when frequent thunder showers prevail it seems to spread more rapidly. Every diseased branch contains millions of these germs, and insects transmit them from one tree to another. They are most apt to affect young and tender branches of rapidly growing trees. We know of no efficient remedy excepting to cut off and burn every affected limb, and cut at some distance below the apparent disease, as it spreads downward by means of the sap. No spray has yet been discovered which checks its progress.—American Cultivator.

The Pea Louse.

We advise those who have grown peas and lost their crop this year by reason of the pea louse on the vines not to become discouraged and cease planting them. Unless they differ very much from other plant lice, a year that sees them most abundant may be followed by many years before they are troublesome again. To cease planting peas will not exterminate them, as they live also upon clover and other plants. If they make the pea crop less profitable a few years, enough may stop planting peas to make them a good crop for those who have them with no lice on them.—American Cultivator.

Handling Apples.

The time seems to be at hand when cold storage must come in general use for all late varieties, as the fruit comes out so much brighter. Apples keep better when barreled tight as soon as picked. And here in New Jersey we are in the habit of gathering too late for best results. Dr. Hoskins' rule that when the seeds color is the proper time to store may in the near future be adopted by all apple growers, says a New Jersey orchardist.

Smoking the Meat Barrel.

Did any reader ever try smoking the barrel instead of the meat? It answers just as well and is much quicker done. Dig a hole in the ground, turn your barrel over it for a couple of days and in a short time it will have the desired smoky taste. Must be dry salted or put in brine.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Woman's Kidney Troubles

Why trifle with health when the easiest and surest help is the best known medicine in the world?

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is known everywhere and thousands of women have been cured of serious kidney derangements by it.

Mrs. Pinkham's methods have the endorsement of the mayor, the postmaster and others of her own city.

Her medicine has the endorsement of an unnumbered multitude of grateful women whose letters are constantly printed in this paper. Every woman should read these letters.

Mrs. Pinkham advises suffering women free of charge. Her address is Lynn, Mass.

Americans in England.

London, Sept. 24.—Charles Yerkes' London railroad deal, the purchase of the franchise of the Charing Cross, Euston & Hampstead (underground), creates considerable interest. He is said to be paying £1,900,000 for the right, which has yielded the promoters a handsome profit. The present plans of the syndicate involve nearly £40,000,000. The fact that all the capital is coming from America and the English are not asked to subscribe creates astonishment which the Daily Telegraph well voices, saying: "Further developments in connection with electric traction are talked of by Mr. Yerkes, but by far the most startling development is the change which such events as the building of an underground road in London with American capital proves to have taken place, in the economic conditions of the United States.

"Until the last few days Europe had to supply a large part of the capital needed for the development of American industries. In 1895 it was foreign capital that saved her from disaster. Now her capitalists are not only subscribing to English war loans in exchequer bonds and German treasury bills, but an American syndicate declares its intention of spending several millions in order to build a railway in London on which, at the best, the profit can be but medium."

The American jockeys have been doing splendid work lately. How splendid can be judged from the fact that a London daily heads today's racing report: "The American Peril." During the week L. Reiff reached the top of the jockey list, but finished just two wins behind Loates, closely followed by little Johnny Reiff. At Lingfield, Lester rode three and Johnny four winners in succession. Johnny, at Birmingham, won all but one race.

"Some of our English jockeys," remarked an evening paper, "had better sell their breeches and boots." A well-known society woman is said to have won £10,000 by consistent backing of Lester Reiff.

Danny Maher's appearance has brought out many compliments from the English critics. A well-known trainer, after exhaustive experiments with the English and American styles of riding, declares the secret lies in the fact that the seat, even with experienced jockeys, increases a horse's stride 24 yards in every mile. The results of the experiments receive considerable publicity.

Wage Scale Signed.

Cincinnati, Sept. 23.—A conference committee of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers and of the manufacturers have signed the wage schedule that will be effective until July 1, 1901. It is known as the yearly scale, which begins always with July 1. Owing to the unusual fluctuations of the market the new scale had not been signed when the mills shut down June 30, and the conditions have been unfavorable since June, so that the mills have been idle for almost three months. As soon as the scale was signed this morning messages were sent in every direction before the conferees breakfasted, ordering the fires built at once. Some mills will start tomorrow, and all others as soon as possible.

This decision means employment to over 60,000 workingmen who have been idle since June awaiting the adjustment of their wage scales.

Elkes' Record Beat.

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 23.—Harry Elkes won the second of his series of three races with Johnny Nelson at Charles River park tonight, breaking all records from 40 to 50 miles. Elkes rode 36 miles and 726 yards in one hour and finished 8 1-2 laps in the lead. He covered the 50 miles in 1:22:22 2-5.

THE UNITED STATES REPLIES

THE ANSWER TO THE POWERS.

Will Withdraw Troops From Chinese Territory—Answers Were Brief, but Complete—Conger to Act Immediately.

Washington, Sept. 25.—The state department has made public the text of the notes addressed by it to the governments of Germany, Russia and China in answer to inquiries from them as to the attitude of the United States toward various phases of the Chinese problem. The forecasts of these notes made in the press appear to have been accurate, for although nowhere in the text is reference made to the withdrawal of the United States troops from China, the official statement issued by the navy department in advance of the publication of the notes bears out the prediction that the government finally has decided upon such a material reduction of its military force as will amount to a withdrawal of the army as an offensive instrument. This statement from the navy department, moreover, is full of significance of a purpose on the part of the government to see to it that if there is any subsequent attempt at territorial aggression on the part of any of the powers who already have declared themselves as willing to abide by the expressed determination of the United States to refrain from seizing upon Chinese territory, then the United States is to lose no right or privilege which it now enjoys by such action.

The notes themselves are brief, considering the importance of the topics treated. The Russian and Chinese answers, being in the form of diplomatic memoranda, are short to a degree rarely seen in diplomatic exchanges. But in both cases, being completely responsive and favorable to the inquirer, they will escape criticism on that score. The answer to the German note is carefully phrased, so as to soften the unqualified refusal of the United States government to make the punishment of the Chinese ringleaders a condition precedent to negotiations. Also it is noted that in the expression of a purpose to insist upon the ultimate and proper punishment of these offenders the state department goes far beyond the German declaration on the subject. The announcement that the department intends immediately to begin, through Mr. Conger, conferences with Ching and Li Hung Chang, although distinctly marking the fact these are only preliminary to final negotiations, will have the effect to force the other powers to an immediate determination of their policies in this matter.

Former U. S. Consul Sentenced.

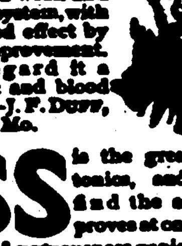
Hamburg, Sept. 25.—Leon Bard, a former United States vice consul here, has been sentenced to 15 months' imprisonment for misappropriating 23,500 marks, part of an inheritance which he received for two American women.

Fell Overboard and Drowned.

San Francisco, Sept. 23.—Chris Ellefson, boatswain of the steamer Columbia, fell overboard and was drowned during a gale recently, when the steamer was off Shelter Cove on her way to this city from Portland.

No External Symptoms.

The blood may be in bad condition, yet with no external signs, no skin eruption or sores to indicate it. The symptoms in such cases being a variable appetite, poor digestion, an indescribable weakness and nervousness, loss of flesh and a general run-down condition of the system—clearly showing the blood has lost its nutritive qualities, has become thin and watery. It is in just such cases that S. S. S. has done some of its quickest and most effective work by building up the blood and supplying the elements lacking to make it strong and vigorous.



"My wife used several bottles of S. S. S. as a blood purifier and to tone up a weak and emaciated system, with very marked effect by way of improvement. We regard it a great tonic and blood purifier."—J. F. Duff, Princeton, Mo.

SSS is the greatest of all tonics, and you will find the appetite improves at once, strength returns, and nervousness vanishes as new rich pure blood once more circulates through all parts of the system.

S. S. S. is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known. It contains no mineral whatever. Send for our free book on blood and skin diseases and write our physicians for any information or advice wanted. No charge for medical advice.

Archie McEachern Won Race.

Baltimore, Sept. 23.—The six days' paced bicycle race on the Coliseum "bowl" track between Archie McEachern of Canada, Burns Pierce of Fall River, Mass., and Henry Smith of this city, one hour a night, ended in a victory for McEachern by a score of 212 miles, 5 laps and 16 yards, to 212 miles, 1 lap and 146 yards for Pierce. Smith was far in the rear. On Wednesday night both the leaders broke all previous records for 5, 10 and 15, 20, 25, 30 and 35 miles.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Exposition Opens Oct. 2.

All preparations for the Spokane Industrial Exposition, which opens on the second of October, are proceeding splendidly, and the indications are the fair and exposition this year will be much better than ever before. This will not only be true of the whole show, but it will be true of almost every separate department. The entertainment features from the Royal Marine Band of Italy down to Little Nero, the four-year-old acrobat, are of the highest order and never before have been equalled at the fall fruit fairs in Spokane.

Last year the fruit exhibits all were accommodated in one tent, 50x128. This year a larger tent was set aside for these exhibits, but it has been found that it is far too small and that it will be necessary to build another the same size as the first. The fruit displays therefore will fill two large tents, each of which is 60x150 feet in size. Another tent, 50x128 feet, will be filled with garden truck, grains and grasses. Therefore, instead of four large tents, as last year, this time there will be five and there are indications that they will be crowded more than they were a year ago.

The opening day programme is quite elaborate and will be fine. A big parade will precede the opening of the doors. The band will lead, playing a march written by a Spokane young lady. Following the band will come the exposition officials in carriages and next the chief personage of all, Miss Lulu Kirby of Peck, Idaho, Goddess of Plenty. She will be attended by two maids of honor, who will ride with her in the carriage upon which will be a footman and a driver. She will also have two outrider escorts. Her carriage is the same one which was presented to President Lincoln by the business men of New York when he was inaugurated the second time. It is the same in which he road to Ford's theater and it is the same one in which he was driven home after that awful tragedy. After the Goddess will come the fire department, civic societies, the national guard, the Gonzaga cadets and the United States cavalry from Fort Wright. After these will come numerous merchants' floats.

But one of the best parts of the entire exposition will come on this first day and can not well be missed if a person wishes to enjoy something grand. It is the chorus of 1,000 school boys and girls who will sing several choruses. All remember the singing of the 600 children last year. Dr. Heritage again will drill them.

The San Francisco, Cal., Typographical union No. 21 has issued an announcement to the effect that on and after October 1 next the nine-hour day for printers will go into effect.

Lu-tai is situated about 20 miles due north of Taku.

Germany's Views.

Cologne, Sept. 25.—The Kolinische Zeitung publishes an inspired telegram from Berlin in which the Washington government's reply to the German note is characterized as a manifesto to assist the Chinese government to accept the proposals with regard to the punishment of the leaders in the Chinese trouble.

The telegram points out that, though the American reply shows an indulgent disposition, it must not be deduced therefrom that Washington thinks the United States trade and missionary interests require less careful protection than those of the other powers, but that the United States government is compelled to be indulgent owing to the unfavorable effect upon the situation in the Philippines caused by the transfer of troops from those islands to China. As a matter of fact, the telegram adds, the vigorous and exemplary punishment of the guilty counsellors of the Chinese court will be in accordance with the interests of both American trade and missionaries.

For a settlement between the powers and China, it makes no difference, however, asserts the telegram, whether America co-operates any further or not. Forces sufficient for all emergencies will remain to secure the expiation demanded by the civilized world.

Two Canals Binding Atlantic.

It is asserted that the future will see two canals binding the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean. The value of such connection can not be estimated. HERE is the straight of the Philippine situation as reported by the commission, composed of high minded men such Judge Taft, Chief Justice Ide, Bernard Moses, author of "Spanish Rule in America and professor of the University of California. This report will have tremendous weight with doubting minds in this campaign of education:

Natives desire to enlist for the suppression of the small attacks of the Tagalogs which alone are making warfare. If judiciously selected and officered, there will be sufficient force for the maintainance of order and will permit an early material reduction of United States troops. It is conceded by all but men in arms, and is implied in their proclamation, that if the election confirms the present policy the remnant of insurrection will disappear within 60 days by the surrender of the leaders and the fading out of the rank and file. A change of policy by turning the islands over to a coterie of Tagalog politicians will blight their fair prospects of enormous improvement, drive out capital, make life and property, secular and religious, most insecure, banish by fear of cruel proscription a considerable body of conservative Filipinos who have aided the Americans in the well founded belief that their people are not now fit for self government, and reintroduce the same oppression and corruption which existed in all the provinces under the Malolos insurgent government during the eight months of its control. The result will be factional strife between jealous leaders, chaos and anarchy, and will require and justify active intervention of our government or some other. Business, interrupted by the war, is much improved as peace extends, but investment of new capital is retarded by doubt concerning the policy of the United States. More sugar is in cultivation than ever before. Cultivation of rice in some provinces is retarded by loss of draft cattle through disease and war. Meat is now 15 cents.

Customs collections for the last quarter were 50 per cent greater than ever in Spanish history, and August collections show further increase. The total revenue for the same period was one-third greater than that of any quarter under Spain, though the Cedula tax, the chief source of Spanish revenue, has been practically abolished. The efficiency and economy of the military government have created a surplus fund of $6,000,000, Mexican, which should be expended in much-needed public works, notably the improvement of Manila harbor, the conditions of which, with subsequent delay and landing goods, is a greater embargo on business than many nearly prohibitory tariff rates inherited from Spain and still operative. With proper tariff and facilities, Manila will become the great port of the Orient. The tariff now prevents importations from America of canned goods, machinery and other necessaries. The bad condition of the currency hinders business.

Steps should be taken towards the early resumption of the gold standard.

Cannot afford to be sick. They say so. So, very often, they struggle along and keep up, where other women go to bed. To such women the value of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is beyond computation. It cures the common cause of ill-health in women, derangement or disease of the womanly organs. A temperance medicine. It contains no alcohol, opium, cocaine, nor other narcotic.

"I had female trouble for eight years," writes Mrs. L. Heusle, of 841 East College Street, Jacksonville, Ills. "For three years I suffered excruciatingly. Words cannot express what I suffered. I would cry during the medical treatment, grow and faint some, until induced by kind friends to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I began taking this medicine I weighed ninety-five pounds, and was a skeleton in appearance. I must say that now I weigh one hundred and fifty-six pounds—more than I ever weighed before. I was so bad I would lie from day to day and long for death to come and relieve my suffering. I had internal inflammation, a disagreeable drain, bearing-down pains in the lower part of my bowels, and such distress every month, but now I never have a pain—do all my own work, and am as strong and healthy woman. Thanks to your medicine. I consider myself a living testimonial of the benefits of your Favorite Prescription."

Dr. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION

MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG AND SICK WOMEN WELL.

We are preparing a most stringent civil service law, giving equal opportunities to Filipinos and Americans, with preference to the former where the qualifications are equal, to enter at the lowest rank and by promotion reach the head of a department. Much needed reform in civil and criminal procedure, the criminal code and the judicial system, favored by the Filipinos, but not by the Secret Railroad franchise should at once be granted. Railroads will revolutionize life and business in this wonderfully rich, beautiful and healthful tropical islands. The calls from all parts of the islands for public schools, school supplies and English teachers are greater than the commission can provide until a comprehensive school system is organized. Night schools for teaching English to adults are being established in response to popular demand. The children show aptitude in learning English. The creation of a central government within 18 months like that of Porto Rico, under which substantially all rights described in the bill of rights in the federal constitution are to be secured to the people of the Philippines, will bring to them contentment, prosperity, education and political enlightenment.

—The cranberry marshes of Pacific county, Wash., will yield about a third of a crop this year, probably 1000 barrels, worth at least $6000. Pickers are now in the field.

Still More Counterfeiting.

The Secret Service has unearthed another band of counterfeiters and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always selected by counterfeiters for imitation, notably the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators but no equals for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and general debility. The Bitters sets things right in the stomach, and when the stomach is in good order it makes good blood and plenty of it. In this manner the Bitters get at the seat of strength and vitality, and restore vigor to the weak and debilitated. Beware of counterfeits when buying.

The emergency bags sent by a church society to Kansas soldiers in the Philippines contained among the necessities a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the well known cure for piles, injuries and skin diseases. The ladies took care to obtain the original De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve knowing that all the counterfeits are worthless. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers are prompt, palatable, pleasant, powerful, purifying little pills, at Kennedy's.

SELF SUPPORTING WOMEN

Cannot afford to be sick. They say so. So, very often, they struggle along and keep up, where other women go to bed. To such women the value of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is beyond computation. It cures the common cause of ill-health in women, derangement or disease of the womanly organs. A temperance medicine. It contains no alcohol, opium, cocaine, nor other narcotic.

"I had female trouble for eight years," writes Mrs. L. Heusle, of 841 East College Street, Jacksonville, Ills. "For three years I suffered excruciatingly. Words cannot express what I suffered. I would cry during the medical treatment, grow and faint some, until induced by kind friends to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I began taking this medicine I weighed ninety-five pounds, and was a skeleton in appearance. I must say that now I weigh one hundred and fifty-six pounds—more than I ever weighed before. I was so bad I would lie from day to day and long for death to come and relieve my suffering. I had internal inflammation, a disagreeable drain, bearing-down pains in the lower part of my bowels, and such distress every month, but now I never have a pain—do all my own work, and am a strong and healthy woman. Thanks to your medicine. I consider myself a living testimonial of the benefits of your Favorite Prescription."

THE GENESEE NEWS.

VOL. XII. GENESEE, LATAH COUNTY, IDAHO, OCTOBER 5, 1900. No. 10

—Messrs. Waechter and Stuber are on their return trip to Alaska and are expected at Uniontown any day.

—In the district court last Tuesday in the case of the State vs. Stephen Reuben and Amos Williams, the two Indians who robbed L. H. Gibson near this place a few weeks ago, resulted in the acquittal of Williams and the conviction of Reuben who was given two months in the county jail.—Cul de Sac Register.

—Our citizens were very much disappointed Sunday when it was announced that no Spokane Review came that day. Generally the many Review readers in Genesee while away Sunday afternoons reading the many pages. A large new press was installed and had not got down to business in good shape by the first of the week. With the finest press in the whole northwest, and with bright prospects ahead, the Review will more than make up for past mishaps and short comings. The Sunday edition consisted of forty-eight pages and arrived Monday.

—The world is only in its babyhood in mining says the Butte Mining World, and some day the earth will be full of people living within its bowels, delving and tending to the surface the metals which the inhabitants of the sunlit earth will mould and fashion to the requirements of the advanced civilization. This earth is 8,000 miles in diameter. Its inhabitants have penetrated only to the vestibule of its vast underground storehouses of treasures. Our mining shafts and tunnels simply creep along at the surface. They have not touched the sanctum sanctorum of the underground temple of wealth. When they do, at least one third of our population will abide underground as comfortably as they do now on its surface.

—The dispatches indicate that at last the Boers are getting ready to accept defeat as inevitable. Most of the fighting lately has been of a desultory nature. Now and then a squad of a few hundred men surrender to avert useless bloodshed. That the Boers should have entertained the heroic idea of fighting to the point of extermination rather than to accept British rule was what one might expect of those fearless patriots. But they have done all that brave men ought to do. Scattering bands of Boers may continue to wage a guerrilla warfare, but the majority may be expected to accept the situation. Unlike the Philippine insurgent, the burgher has practical ideas and intelligence. Oom Paul Kreuger is in foreign land seeking better health. The fight made for the independence of his country will not be overlooked by history, and no matter what may be said of him now, time will do justice to the old man's honesty, heroism and patriotism.

—Puget sound coal mines are at present unable to meet the demand made upon them for fuel, and cannot obtain a sufficient number of men to increase their output.

—The Idaho Mining Journal in a neat and newsy publiation issued at the capital, Boise. It contains mining news from every camp in Idaho and is deserving of a wide circulation.

—The action of the hoodlums toward the Roosevelt crowd in Colorado will not lose McKinley and Roosevelt any votes. The American people love fair play and will see that it is forthcoming. It will have the effect the mob least desired. Nothing is quite so sure to turn sympathy toward a man in this country as a lawless physical assault upon him while he is in the pursuit of his duties

—It is astonishing to note the large number of men that are going into the mountains beyond Grofino this fall, says the Courier. Heretofore at this late season the usual habit of prospectors has been to leave the higher altitudes and winter in warmer climates, but this fall the rule is reversed and hundreds of men, laden with supplies, are flocking to the mountains in defiance to winter's hardships. It is just such persistence, though, that has always preceded the development of all mining districts.

—The Democratic Times of this week attempts to injure the candidacy of H R. Smith for county attorney, by attacking his integrity as a public official. Some transactions that occurred eight or ten years ago are referred to and magnified and miscon-strued. The charges are not worthy of attention. They were made in the campaign of two years ago, the people considered them and passed judgment upon them. Mr. Smith was elected by nearly 400 majority. That ought to be a sufficient endorsement. —Star.

—There are many farmers throughout this valley who have from 25 to 150 pigs growing. This is a good indication that the ranchers are diversifying more than usual. Glad to hear it. Give the young pigs a good start —it will pay you. A young pig that has once been stunted will never wholly outgrow it, no matter how good the subsequent care may be. Any animal being grown for meat should have feed enough to make a good gain every day from birth to slaughter. If there is ever a time in that animal's life when no gain is being made in weight all feed consumed during that time is practically lost for the profit all comes from the feed that makes the gain above the amount required to maintain the animal's needs. The younger the animal the greater the gain for the feed consumed. As long as we continue to ship meats to the Philippine islands and to other foreign countries just so long will the price of pork remain at the present high notch.

—Some seeding has been done in this community the past week. The ground is too dry for good plowing and little headway has been made in that direction.

—Paul G. Kreuger, the minister who was here last spring in the interest of Oom Paul Kreuger, has been kicked out of the United Brethren church in Nebraska "for sufficient cause. Oom might get some ice from his nephew now if his twenty ton stock is getting low.

—Some other town has a Mike beside Genesee and a republican asked him: "Mike, how do you feel about the election?" "Bryan for shure," said Mike. "But, Mike, are you going to vote for Bryan?" "Shure I am, sor" "Why are you going to vote for Bryan, Mike? Mark the sage reply: "Oh, begorra, I have had work for four years, an' I want a rest."

—The bane of many a home is hurry. The father is in such a hurry to get to his work that if breakfast is not ready at the exact minute, he is out of sorts and frowns and fretful speeches are the results. Then to prevent this, mother must hurry to get breakfast, and all hurry to eat it, so there is no time for pleasant good greetings and cheerful chat. After breakfast father takes his hat and hurries away. Mother is in such a hurry with her work that she has no time to sympathize with, advise, encourage or mother the children in any way, but hurries them off to school. So it goes all day long, and at night they hurry off to bed so they may hurry up the next morning and begin the hurry over again. This constant hurry wears on the nerves, brings wrinkles to the face and fretful words to the lips, and robs life of half its comforts and enjoyments.

—The apple markets of St. Paul and of the Montana and North Dakota towns have been flooded with fruit from the east and from the west and in consequence the price has weakened. To get the top price the packing of fruit is of great importance. Many who take pains in raising fine fruit for market are often inclined to trust to good luck in disposing of their products. The apples should be picked with much care. Pick only the medium and large sized fruit and carefully put in box. Don't bruise, for bruised apples soon commence to rot. Remember that good, choice fruit, well handled, properly graded and neatly put up, will always sell at top prices. Fruit should be put up in an attractive form. Take out the small and inferior and make cider-vinegar, or feed to hogs. Fruit dealers are not fools and the fruit that is put up the nicest is the first sold. Establish a good reputation for excellent fruit and you can always secure the best market. Windfalls should be marked on the outside of the box. Take care of the fruit.

—Frank Cornwall is back to Moscow from Nome to remain.

—Howard, the Goebel murderer in Kentucky, will hang December 7.

—The Conant drug store received a large invoice of fine goods the past week.

—The Elks propose to make October 10 the biggest day at the fair in Spokane.

—Hon. D. T. Miller addressed the republicans of this community last Thursday evening. A fair-sized audience was present. Mr. Miller held forth for an hour reviewing the political situation from a republican standpoint, and his address was well received. He is a first-rate entertainer and kept the populists awake.

—Three little girls riding bicycles stopped at the city to get a drink. After drinking, one of them sprinkled some water on her wheel and said, "I baptize thee in the name of McKinley, because you made a good run." The second girl sprinkled her saddle with the remark, "I baptize thee in the name of Roosevelt, because you are a rough rider." The third girl sprinkled her tires and said, "I baptize thee in the name of Bryan because you are full of wind."

—Roosevelt and Bryan each address big crowds of people. The former spoke to an audience of 25,000 people at St. Louis Saturday, said to be the largest gathering ever addressed in that city by a republican. It is just a little mixed yet how New York and Indiana will go this year. Bets are being offered in New York $1,000 to $500 with no takers that McKinley will be the next president. Review says McKinley money in Spokane offered at the above ratio find no takers.

—Mr. L. F. Darr very agreeably surprised helpers and the public Sunday when he turned up safe and sound from his trip to Nevada, Mo., for which place he and wife and wife's sister left here on September 11. Mr. Darr says he is very well repaid for the time spent in going to knowing or seeing the conditions and things in his ten year's absence. Little girls then ten years of age are now married; but the best of all was his visit with his aged mother. The ladies, as also Mrs. Kirkpatrick, will return about the holidays.—Gazette.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver, of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in the back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c., guaranteed, at Kennedy's store.

—E. J. Maher and wife of Burke, Ida., are in the county jail charged with infanticide. One morning the body of a babe was found in a hotel. The coroner's jury traced it back to he couple.

—A Boise dispatch from Market Lake says E. M. Carr, an old time resident of Fremont county, living near Menan, was instantly killed at his ranch by a hay derrick falling on him. He had been stacking hay with the derrick, which under the strain of a heavy load, broke and fell on him, crushing him to death.

How We Use up Our Forest.

It is estimated that it takes twenty-two acres of spruce land to furnish enough wood pulp paper to run a large metroplitan daily just two days. The writer who makes this statement deplores the time, when, at this rate, our forests will entirely disappear, and paper be very scarce and expensive. Meantime, the art of printing continues, because there are many truths the world should know; among others that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a cure for diseases of the stomach, such as dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, biliousness, insomnia and nervousness. This famous medicine has been the standard remedy of the American people for fifty years. Do not accept a substitute. The genuine has a private revenue stamp over the neck of bottle.

Torturing skin eruptions, burns and sores are soothed at once and promptly healed by applying De witt's Witch Hazel Salve, the best known cure for piles. Beware of worthless counterfeits.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Dr. W. H. Lewis, of Lawrenceville, Va., writes, "I am using Kodel Dyspepsia Cure in my practice among severe cases of indigestion and find it an admirable remedy." Hundreds of physicians depend upon the use of Kodel Dyspepsia Cure in stomach troubles. It digests what you eat, and allows you to eat all the good food you need, providing you do not overload your stomach. Gives instant relief and a permanent cure.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. Look out for them. It cures piles and all skin diseases.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The Shah of Persia has become civilized enough to be in serious danger from anarchists.

A West Virginia girl named Lemon had a rib broken by an impetuous lover. The moral is easy.

There's nothing much in a shirt waist when a man wears it, but when a girl wears it—well, there's the girl.

It's unfair for the opponents of the shirt waist to charge it with unhealthfulness because the ancient Greeks practically wore nothing else and now they are all dead.

Some men the moment they are nominated for office lose all positiveness of opinion. They are colorless. They part with their convictions the moment they part with private life. The times will not tolerate that kind; men of conviction are wanted, men who have something to say. The proverbial "good fellow" will pass in a town meeting or a ward, but we want some stuff in the man we place in responsible management of public affairs. Better the wrong one in a while than nothing.

Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls, who died recently, was a man of great force of character, wide information and unusually intelligence. He just missed greatness because of the innate cynicism which paralyzed his faculties when they were most needed for public service. He could have been nobler had he been able to see more nobility in the mass of men. He would have been more useful to his country had he not overemphasized the selfishness of human nature and been more alive to the generosity of human motive.

Will contests are so common and so destructive of that one feels like applauding the wisdom of men who incorporate their estates under the name of, say, "The John Jones Company," and regularly transfer stock in the company just as they wish their property should be distributed. It costs something to incorporate, but it does not exhaust an estate, as the contest over a will might, and the chief corporator is able to guard himself against the tricks of "King Law" by retaining a substantial interest. The wonder is that managed men have not devised even better methods of protecting their estates against impudent claimants and greedy lawyers. The readiness with which wills are contested and the apparent ease with which they are frequently broken must have troubled the mind of every man who has property to bequeath.

The big family is not obsolete in America. For the comfort of younger members of such families, the story of the late Collis P. Huntington is encouraging. Mr. Huntington was the fifth son in a big family. Where are the rest of the children with whom he had to struggle for existence? Has he a better chance of advancement in life? Martin Luther is another example of one member of a numerous family of children achieving success in spite of the obstacles that stand in the way of a child born under such conditions. And there have been many others. We have no law of custom that one born of older sons and daughters, yet it is well known that these have many advantages over the younger members of a family. Better opportunity to get one's effort is a habit that can be acquired by individuals who are handicapped by conditions. Huntington acquired it. And it was a potent factor in his wonderful success.

The foreman of a ranch in California declares that rural free delivery is worth a thousand dollars a year to him personally, because it keeps the hands at home. This suggests one reason why the service should be extended. Restless boys will be less anxious to go to the city, when every day the postman brings the best of the city to them.

Dr. Frye-Smith, in an address before the British Medical Association, presented hard work as a remedy for many ills. He declared that regular and steady work is the best cure for the nervous ailments, and that this is true is shown by the fact that the hard working people are not those who are affected by these ills. He declared that nervous prostration, worry, and brain tension are too often synonyms for the effect of gambling and drink. There can be no question that hard work is healthy, for it is those who work hardest that live longest, and the lazy die young. One advantage of Dr. Frye-Smith's prescription is that it is easily followed and that the remedy is cheap.

Prof. Moses Coit Tyler of Cornell says that the United States of America is the only country of consequence without a distinctive name. He asserts that the name America belongs to the continent and not to the most important republic of that continent. However well it may be, the name America is generally accepted everywhere as that of this country, and the figure of Uncle Sam in the cartoons now appearing in the foreign press on the Chinese war is labeled "America," and not the "United States." The countries to the south of us do not dispute the title, and those that do call us Norh Americans. America is the name of this country for short and we are Americans. The United States is no part of the name of several countries, while America is that of but one. There is, for instance, a United States of Mexico, a United States of Brazil, and a United States of Colombia. Each of these countries is known by the distinctive part of its title—as Mexico, Brazil or Colombia. So the United States of America is properly called America for short, and the designation United States is more used here than abroad, just as the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland is seldom called the United Kingdom except in the official publications of the British Empire. The name American has come to mean a resident of this country, and even the Canadians no longer claim a right to the name, so Prof. Tyler's criticism is inconsequential.

A manufacturer of collar buttons complains that the defrauding done by the inattention of those to whom he sends unsolicited goods on approval. His complaint raises the question of the right of soldiers to offer their wares goods and themselves upon public attention. Newspaper and other printed advertisements may be read or neglected and even the billboard and waste paper box appeals may be passed by, although the roll of invalids made by the dreadful fascination of reading all the mails for advertising purposes has so over-reached itself that a glance in the majority of cases consigns anything bearing a resemblance to an advertisement to the waste basket. When the wasted effort of the sender and the receiver is counted (the postoffice department is the only one paid by the posting) the sum total demands the economists' attention. The call of the book agent has long headed the list of unnecessary annoyances, but an imposition when the agent assumes the guise of an acquaintance by calling for his victim by name or by sending in an ordinary visiting card. If all the housekeepers' doors should be besieged by an army of fruit and vegetable venders, old women with thread and needles, and Italians with cheap ornaments, who require the persuasion of the mistress herself to convince them that she needs nothing, the portico, suggests a pitiable state of municipal life that should be legislated out of existence. It may be possible for a man to resign himself to the indiscriminate of street peddlers to encroach upon the space properly belonging to foot passengers, as he goes to and from business, but he cannot rid himself of the belief that his home and office are devoted, the one to his family and friends, the other to his particular line of business; in them he refuses to recognize it as the field of active warfare over presents himself; neither can he bring himself to feel an obligation to open a correspondence with an unknown firm for no more needful a reason, although by his refusal he lays himself open to the charge of fraud made by those who price time and the freedom of a buyer at the value of a postage stamp.

His Own Weapons.

The extraordinary skill with which Sir Edward Landseer painted animals was due not merely to his mastery of the brush, but to his intimate knowledge of the animal world.

One of his many talents was the power of imitating to perfection the voice of any creature with which he was familiar.

One day, when the artist happened to be the guest of Lord Rivers, he was arrested in the act to see a very savage dog that was tied up in the yard. As Landseer approached the animal's fury increased, dropped quietly upon his hands and knees, and then, crawling forward, snarled so alarmingly that the dog, with a terror-stricken howl, dragged his chain, jumped over the wall, and was never seen afterward.

Simple Questions.

The beginnings of a new primer have been made by one of our exchanges. The questions are admirably concentrated by teacher and pupil.

"See the corn in the field. Can the corn walk?"

"No; the corn stalks."

"See the pretty cake. Does the cake stalk?"

"Never. But you should see a cake walk."

"I have a rope. Can the rope walk?"

"Yes, if it is taut."

"See the hen is in the garden. Does the hen rise?"

"No, the hen sets."

Swedish Steel.

Some remarkable specimens of Swedish steel have been shown in the Stockholm exhibition. One was a ribbon of steel, extremely thin, and over 4,000 feet long. It was so thin as to weigh only 40 pounds. The sample was rewound at the Sandvik works, where a very large proportion of the paragon umbrella ribs of the world are produced. It was then cut into lengths in order to maintain its standard, every piece is examined, and workmen cut out any parts that are burned, and removed the last particle of scale.

Powerful Magnets.

Electro magnets, capable of picking up five tons, are used by an Illinois steel company to transfer steel beams or plates from one part of the shop to another.

When a man and a woman are made one the question is which is the one. Sometimes there is a long struggle between them before the question is finally settled.

VIEWS OF THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

The Grand Palais des Beaux Arts is the great triumph of the Paris Exhibition. It is a magnificent pile constructed of marble, and covering an area of 22,000 square metres. The fine entrance consists of three great arches. A peristyle of Ionic columns runs the length of the building. The mural decorations on the outer walls add much richness to its aspect. Within are stored an immense collection of paintings and works of sculpture by all the leading artists of the world. At the close of the exhibition this palace will become a national museum of art.

The graceful architecture of the Petit Palais is planned to harmonize with that of the Grand Palais. The main entrance is under a beautiful portico, surmounted by a dome. A row of Ionic columns support the cornices. The court yard is laid out like a garden, with ornamental trees, shrubs, flower beds and statuary. Within there is a most interesting retrospective exhibition of French art objects in gold, silver, ivory, bronze, enamel, glass, iron and jewelry; also rugs, tapestries and furniture.

The Swiss village is not a part of the exposition, properly speaking, being just outside the grounds; but few visitors fail to spend at least half a day in its picturesque and realistic precincts. The illustration shows a cliffside settlement, the buildings in which are exact reproductions of real dwellings in Switzerland.

GIRL CARRIES THE MAIL.

Former Brooklyn Resident Has a Route in Far-Away Arizona.

Miss Sarah M. Burks is probably the only woman mail carrier in the West, and her route is one of the most desolate conceivable. From St. John's to POST WOMAN IN THE DESERT.

Jimtown, Ariz., she travels twice a week, covering a distance of 208 miles, as the towns are fifty-two miles apart. The intervening country is practically a wilderness, the settlers being few and far between.

It would be difficult to imagine a more uninviting region than that traversed by Miss Burks. What tiny streams are found there are poisoned with alkali. Navajo Indians and occasionally an Apache are somewhat plentiful, but white men seldom go there and then only to get the gold, silver and copper. Nothing in the way of vegetation can grow there. It is simply a region of rich minerals deposited in the titanic volcanic action ages ago.

Along the western border of this desolate, uncanny wilderness Miss Burks rides twice a week. Generally she is alone and if she has a companion he is likely to be a miner, a commercial traveler, or, mayhap, a lawyer who has rented a horse from Miss Burks' father, and she is to collect payment and to see to the care of the horse. She is always armed with shooting irons and when a child she was the crack shot of the mining camp at Harqua Hala. Her hat is a wide straw. She wears short skirts of blue serge, a corduroy or canvas jacket, leather leggings and heavy shoes. A belt and holster, in which a pistol rests, is always about her waist when she is on her horse. Then she has another revolver and a lot of cartridges in her saddle bags.

When chaffed by a visitor about the probable usefulness of this martial display she drew a gun as quickly and as deftly as a professional shooting man could do it and put all six bullets into a playing card posted thirty paces away. "I've never had any occasion to use it in earnest," she said as she carefully wiped out the barrel and refilled the chambers, "but I always feel safer with it."

An Iron Mountain in Mexico.

El Correo de Sonora, of Mexico says that an engineer employed by an American company, who recently visited the Cerro del Mercado in Durango, says that the iron in sight on this mountain is sufficient to furnish all the smelters of England with ore for a period of 330 years. The iron which may be obtained without excavating one inch exceeds 100,000,000 tons, and the value of the ore that may be taken out runs up to the astounding figure of 9,000,000,000 pesos, at the price of this product when the investigation was made. The newspaper cited asserts that the German engineer, Frederick Weidner, who has made a more careful study of the mountain of the Cerro del Mercado than any one else, avers that it contains 1,046,004,200 cubic feet of metal, which is sufficient to supply the smelters now in existence or which may come into existence for centuries to come. Mexican engineers agree that the iron mountain referred to is the greatest in the world, and are of the opinion that there are similar masses of iron in the country, which will be discovered little by little.

Had an Object.

"After I had watched a colored man fishing in a South Carolina brickyard pond for forty minutes without pulling up his hook," said the traveler, "I asked him if he thought there were any fish there to be caught."

"No, sah, I reckon not,' he replied. "I jes' wanted to be fishing.'

"'Yes, sah.'

"'But perhaps you are not fishing for fish?'

"I waited ten minutes for him to explain, but as he did not I finally asked him what particular object he had in view.

"'De objick, sah,' he repeated without taking his eyes off the pond or moving the pole—de objick of my fishin' fur fish wheer dere hain't any is to let de ole woman see dat I hain't got no time to pick up do hoe and work in de truck patch!'"—Washington Post.

American Ice-Cream Freezers.

Ice-cream freezers of American manufacture are sold all over the world, wherever ice, either natural or artificial, is used. The ice cream eaten in Calcutta or in Melbourne, Australia, any other city or country, European included, would be more than likely to have been made in an American freezer.

He Bore It Out.

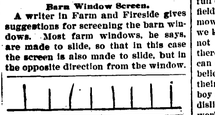
Unfortunately "good-hearted" people are usually tiresome companions.

Drying of Cows.

There is a well-founded belief that the cow who is a persistent milker does not produce the best beef. While this is so, the methods generally employed to overcome this trouble are far from satisfactory. The usual plan is to cut off the feed, oftentimes to the point of starvation; surely a most unwise move and in nine cases out of ten results in injury to the cow. The period of destitution depends more largely on the system of feeding than farmers are willing to admit, though ancestry must be back of it all, for the most intelligent feeding in the world will not make a long milker of a cow whose ancestors were in the habit of going dry for three months. Naturally, if the breed is a good one, the desire is to keep up the period of lactation as long as possible before the calves are born, in order that the calves may profit by the lactation, for if the heifer cow goes dry early after the first calf it will be extremely difficult to carry her beyond that period afterward.

Barn Window Screen.

A writer in Farm and Fireside gives suggestions for screening the barn windows. Most farm windows, he says, are made to slide, so that in this case the screen is also made to slide, but in the opposite direction from the window.



SCREENED WINDOW.

It is thus very easy to slide either the screen or the glass sash whichever way may be needed over the opening. It will be noticed that the artist has covered the window of glass with wire cloth, such as is used in poultry yard building. This is a good idea, especially if the window is in front of the horse where he readily may reach for other times he will throw his head against the glass with sufficient force to break it and usually cuts his face more or less.

Fatal Effects of Green Sorghum.

There has been much discussion in some of the western papers as to the cause of cattle dying suddenly after eating green sorghum. All were aware of the fact, yet chemists have been unable to detect any poison in the sorghum plant or in the organs of the animals that died from eating it. A writer in the Louisiana Planter, who says he lost in this way last year cattle that cost him $1,-050, thinks he can account for it. He says: "Cattle usually stuff when they are swallowed. It simply gets warmed and limbered a little, coats itself over with the digestive saliva, and by peristalsis, repairs to the glottis, pastes itself smoothly over that organ, closing the trachea, or windpipe, and the poor brute in the struggle for breath and misery comes to death—dies for the want of air. My remedy would be to swab out the throat immediately so as to remove the film of blades that has gathered themselves over the glottis, or opening to the windpipe. They will sometimes stick there in the upper part of the mouth. The saliva of the roots is more sticky than that of a human, and the smooth blades of sorghum stick together and to the roots. Any distraction seems plausible at least, and those who lose cattle in this way should examine the entrance to the windpipe to see if it is closed.

Abandoned Farms.

We have seldom seen a better excuse for the abandoned farms in New England than we find in the Farming World of Toronto, in an article from a Canadian correspondent, who tells why many of the early settlers in Canada had not met with the success which they deserved by their courage, their vigor and their hard work. He says: "Many of us settled on land which never should have been settled on, that should have been kept in woods, in which condition it would have been worth a hundred times more than it has been in a cleared condition." He also says that many cases those looking for locations were not qualified to judge for themselves as to the fitness of the land they were looking at, particularly when covered with unbroken wood, and their eagerness to become land of their own prevented them giving the timber due care to the subject that such an important subject deserved." We can give no better reason why many farms in New England, which are abandoned or should be, ever became settled and we rejoice wherever we hear of their being returned to the growing of forests, from which they never should have been diverted. Farms which were settled in this way should have been abandoned years ago, and left to the renovating process of a wood growth to bring them to a fertile condition again.—American Cultivator.

Hog Cholera Experiments.

The division of animal pathology of the experiment station at the University of Nebraska is perfecting its plans for the coming year's campaign against hog cholera. As is well known, this division has been very active in inaugurating experiments with this disease. One of the experiments under contemplation is the study of certain counties in which hog cholera exists and having experts there to note the mortality in the entire county and to aid the officials of the county in eradicating the disease, both by sanitary and popular methods, and by the use of serum. It is hoped that if certain counties will take up this idea of assisting this study in a great deal of good can be done, both in ascertaining how virulent the disease has been in the county and by reducing the per cent of mortality in the county. In other words, it is a kind of quarantine system, or stamping-out process, and it is hoped by this method that farmers can guard against this disease to a large extent. The plans are not as yet fully matured, but will be perfected before the work is begun.

Overworking Children.

We are sorry to see it stated in a Maine paper that a girl 13 years old and weighing 115 pounds has done the full work of a man during the haying season in one of the towns of that State. We have no special objection to having young ladies or older ones work out of doors on a farm if they like to and have the strength, and we think many of them would be in better health for such a chance to take exercise in the open air, but we protest at having such work done to excess. We want it kept within moderation, and we would not like to see either girl or boy of that age do any more than a slight physical build allowed to do a full day's work for a man in the haying field. Even if much of it was on the mowing machine, hay rake or tedder, we know from experience that they are not easy riding vehicles, and while there is much work that a girl or a boy can do in the haying field, we do not believe it right to work them beyond the strength of such an age. Many a boy and girl too has received a lasting dislike to farm life because of overwork.—American Cultivator.

Pig Notes.

Soak wheat twelve hours before feeding to hogs.

When the pig is grown he should be ready for market.

Early maturity is one way of lessening cost.

There is no benefit in keeping a sow that is vicious and unwelcome.

Do not arrange the pig pen so as to run the manure into a barn cellar.

A hog with a fair proportion of lean meat is the best hog to send to market.

Any farmer who keeps three or four hogs can afford to do without a pure-bred boar.

If a sow is not permitted to breed until she is eighteen months old, the pigs will be found much better than if she is bred younger, and this will be found true of her future litters.

Straw Horseshoes.

Straw is put to strange uses in Japan. Most of the horses are shod with straw. Even the clumsiest of cart horses wear straw shoes. In their case the shoes are tied around the ankles with straw rope and are made of the coarsest rice straw, braided so that they form a sole for the foot about half an inch thick. These soles cost about a half penny per pair, and since the horses wear out they are thrown away. Every cart has a stock of fresh new shoes tied to the horse or to the front of the cart, and in Japan it is extremely rare to come to grief through the use of straw shoes. Naturally, if the breed is a good one, the desire is to keep up the period of lactation as long as possible before the calves are born, in order that the calves may profit by the lactation, for if the heifer cow goes dry early after the first calf it will be extremely difficult to carry her beyond that period afterward.

MINES AND MINING NEWS

OUR NORTHWESTERN MINES.

Items Gleaned From Late Reports—All Districts Are Being Developed and a Prosperous Year Is Predicted—Mining Notes and Personals.

The copper boom has some curious international bearings. There are four distinct counties taking a hand in it. The new copper supplies come chiefly from the United States. The increased consumption which has so far enabled the advance in price to be maintained is German. The speculation in copper shares is French and it is through the London metal market that the "rig" is worked. The British share in the campaign is quite subordinate, in fact it is almost passive. English metal brokers find themselves compelled, whether they like it or no, to act as bottle holders to a Franco-American gamble.

Republic.

The latest advices from the mine on Lambert creek, north of Republic, is of the most encouraging character. The Belcher is steadily improving and ore is being taken out for shipment. A trial shipment will probably be made about ten days hence.

A double shift is working on the Midnight. This claim is situated on the summit of the mountains and is about five miles east of the Belcher mine. The ore is of shipping grade.

Work is being pushed on the Republic mine, which recently bonded the Juno group on Morning mountain, about four miles from Nelson, will start development work immediately.

It is learned on good authority that 1,000,000 shares in the Knob Hill group have been bonded by San Francisco capitalists for $160,000. The bond goes into effect October 1, and is for two years.

The resumption of shipments from the Center Star to the Trail smelter and the operation of the Trail copper smelter have created demand for smelter men. The progress of the work at Trail is being retarded by a lack of all classes of workmen, the eighth of an inch of the cucumber on the stem. Then slit the stem with a knife from its end to the vine twice, leaving a small portion of the cucumber on each division. On each separate slit there will be a cucumber as large as the first. By shelling corn you will only need one-fifth the ground that you would need if growing cucumbers in the old way.—Walter Strosnider, in Epitomist.

THE GERMANS AND ENGLISH

DISAGREEMENT ON PROPOSALS.

Salisbury Will Probably Not Answer German Note—Report That Emperor William Will Waive the Condition of Vengeance.

London, Sept. 30.—Judging from appearances the British press is preparing the way for the announcement that Lord Salisbury has failed to agree to the proposals contained in the German note. The papers which at first assignly declared that the statement made to the Associated Press was inaccurate are now either silent or are taking the view that after all it is doubtful if it would be advisable for Great Britain to become a party to such a stringent measure. As a matter of fact, the statement regarding Lord Salisbury's determination created so much excitement and brought such severe comment from Berlin that it may result in Great Britain's formal reply not being delivered and may induce Germany to agree to a compromise arrangement. The long delay in Great Britain's formal reply reaching Berlin increased the likelihood of this happening. It is pointed out that it would certainly insult Lord Salisbury, as he has indicated, to incur German animosity if it can be avoided.

Meanwhile the attitude of the European powers towards China remains in the same chaotic state. The conservative party managers would, so far as Great Britain is concerned, see this policy of delay extended over the next two weeks, so that no more handles can be afforded the liberals in their attacks upon the government. The chief object of these—Mr. Chamberlain—seems to be losing his temper. In reply to a public statement by Hon. Philip Stanhope, liberal president of the National Reform union, regarding the Hawksely documents, Mr. Chamberlain telegraphed to the latter telling him he would not be "blackmailed by Stanhope or anyone else," and adding: "There is no correspondence, and never has been, to prove my complicity in the raid, which I did my utmost to stop."

Mr. Stanhope replied: "I will not stop to qualify the vulgarity of your language, but I am prepared to substantiate in the courts every statement I have made concerning you."

Mr. Chamberlain, however, is not expected to take the matter into the courts. But he hit back hard with a personal bitterness quite foreign to traditions of the usually astute cabinet minister.

Russia Leaves Pekin.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 1.—The following dispatch, dated Pekin, September 27, has been received from M. De Giers, Russian minister to China:

"In accordance with orders from the highest quarters, I am leaving for Tien-tsin with the whole legation."

Silver Goes Up.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Owing to the advance in the price of silver Director of the Mint Roberts today increased the price to be paid by the government for silver purchased from 55 to 57 cents a standard ounce. The government at present purchases only such silver as is contained in gold deposits from the Klondike and other gold-producing sections. Under the existing status all silver in gold deposits is paid for at the market price. The price has advanced steadily since 1896, when it touched 47 cents for a standard ounce. The new price is to go into effect on Monday. The mints and assay offices will be ordered by the rupee from its silver to its gold value, to go into effect at the beginning of the quarter. Although England placed India on a gold basis some months ago no official information was received to that effect until very recently. The silver rupee will probably be the standard of the Indian coin and was valued at 20.5 cents. Under the gold standard the rupee will be reckoned on at its gold value, 32.4 cents.

Warning by Great Britain.

London, Sept. 30.—Great Britain has sent a note to the Dutch government, according to a dispatch from Amsterdam to the Daily Mail, which contains a warning that if Mr. Kruger is allowed to carry bullion or state archives on board the Dutch warship which is to bring him to Europe it will be regarded as a breach of neutrality on the part of the Netherlands.

Germany Ready to Back Down.

London, Sept. 30.—A special dispatch from Berlin to a news agency here says:

It is reported in official circles that Germany is willing to drop the condition that functionaries should precede negotiations for a settlement. It is recognized that satisfaction of Germany's vengeance is a special condition, and should not be imposed upon the other powers.

Stamps and Prisoners Gone.

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 30.—Between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning the postoffice at Chiva, 12 miles from Phoenix, was robbed of $1000 in stamps and $200 in cash. Later in the day two men suspected of the crime were arrested and lodged in jail at Tempe. Some time in the afternoon a suspects sawed through the prison and escaped.

Let America Act as Mediator.

Washington, Sept. 30.—The Chinese minister, Wu Ting Fang, today expressed his strong approval of the suggestion by Li Hung Chang that the United States act as mediator for the settlement of the entire Chinese question. The minister was much gratified at the favorable character of the advices from China.

CAREER OF JUDGE RASSIEUR.

New Commander of Grand Army Prominent in St. Louis.

The election of Judge Rassieur to the head of the Grand Army was practically conceded a year ago, when the St. Louis veteran, who had been urged for the honor at that time, withdrew in favor of Commander Shaw. He had shown much strength in the contest, and his action won him many friends. The delegates left the encampment convinced that the Judge would be the next G. A. R. commander.

Judge Rassieur is among the younger veterans. He was born in Germany in 1844 and came with his parents to this country, settling in St. Louis in 1851. He was educated in the public schools of that city, and at the age of 16 took a position in a law office. It was at this time in his life that the civil war broke out. When not quite 17 years old he was selected by the loyal Germans of South St. Louis as their representative at a meeting held for the purpose of deciding whether the citizens of the locality should express their intention of standing by the Union or remain neutral. At the call of young Rassieur, who had been ruled out of order by the COMMANDER RASSIEUR.

Chairman of the meeting, the loyal men in attendance organized a meeting place and adopted a set of resolutions in favor of the Union, which has become historic in the annals of Missouri.

Rassieur enlisted in the First United States Reserve Corps, Volunteers, May 7, 1861, and was made orderly sergeant of Company B. He was mustered out of service April 20, 1865, with the rank of major, which commission he received at the age of 20 years. At the close of the war he studied law and was admitted to the bar in St. Louis April 1, 1867. He practiced law until 1896, when he was elected Judge of the St. Louis Probate Court on the Republican ticket. At the expiration of his term in 1898 he resumed the practice of law, in which he is still engaged. From 1874 until 1878 he was a member of the Board of Directors of the public schools of St. Louis, holding the office of Vice President during the last year of his incumbency. In 1880 he was selected as attorney for the School Board and held the position ten years.

Judge Rassieur is Commander of Frank P. Blair Post, No. 1, G. A. R., of St. Louis. He was Department Commander of the amalgamated association and several steel companies whose works employing 60,000 have been idle, while 100,000 men were affected by the shut down of the Susquehana Iron and Steel company by the strike. In the east the conditions seem generally favorable for a quick recovery from the strike over, while in the west there has been no noteworthy reduction in the distribution of any class of goods. Weather conditions have been favorable for late crops and farm work is progressing favorably except for some damage to grain in the shock in the northwest.

Aside from the expected reduction to $23.75 per ton in the sale of Bessemer pig at Pittsburg at $13.75, the whole list of iron and steel products is unchanged. The feeling grows stronger that the bottom has been reached. Taking the 11 articles quoted in our price tables it will be seen that, after an advance of over 10 per cent in 1899 the prices have declined only about 35 per cent this year, and there is already a tendency toward a higher level. The company is considering the purchase of 10,000 tons foundry iron and an export order for 6500 tons of rails has been placed. More coke ovens are in operation but the price is unchanged.

Wheat again rose to 83c but failed to maintain the advance. Corn for prompt delivery was scarce and advanced 10c above the price at this date last year, or 12 per cent. This naturally disposed of foreign buyers and exports for the week were only 1,560,068 bushels, while for four weeks 8,476,516 bushels went out at Atlantic ports against 12,155,904 bushels a year ago.

Wheat shipments from the eastern coast were 2,783,713 bushels (flour included) against 3,928,626 bushels last year. In the cereals, as with cotton, considerable increase freely at the current level of prices.

Another increase of 5570 cases in shipping boots and shoes from Boston makes the outlook more encouraging for that industry and manufacturers are discussing a wide range of orders, while the jobbing stocks of all grades have reached a low point. Needs are imperative in many sections. Jobbers at this city and western buyers ask prompt shipment. After a long period of stagnation the present moderate volume of trade is most welcome. Leather is sharing the improvement, but the situation as to hides is rather depressing because of heavy current receipts of cattle and the probability of still larger arrivals.

Sales of wool amount to about one-quarter of last year's and 100 grades quoted in the Philadelphia market show a decline of about half a cent.

Failures for the week were 204 in the United States against 157 last year and in Canada against 21 last year.

NEW HONOR GOES TO TUAN

GIVEN AN IMPORTANT OFFICE.

Indorsed by the Empress—Anti-Foreign Prince to Be President of the Privy Council—A Number of Other Officials Have Been Honored.

Washington, Sept. 27.—It is stated in diplomatic quarters that definite and official information has been received that Prince Tuan has been appointed president of the privy council of China, instead of grand secretary, as first reported, and a number of prominent officials, conspicuous in the recent uprising, have been similarly honored. The Chinese minister has not been advised of Prince Tuan's appointment, but he expressed the belief, after calling at the state department today, that the report probably was true. The position of president of the privy council is said to be one of the foremost in importance, similar to that of secretary of state or premier.

London Report From Germany.

London, Sept. 27.—The British authorities discredit the report that Germany will present an ultimatum to China, and intimate it was probably concoted at Shanghai with the object of causing friction between Germany and Great Britain, and thus delaying united action. The officials at the German embassy declare the "ultimatum" story to be absolutely groundless.

Chaffee Goes to Tientsin.

Washington, Sept. 27.—The following has been received from Adjutant General, Washington: Acknowledge your No. 40. I leave for Tientsin this morning. Will be absent about two weeks. General Wilson remains here. Li Hung Chang is at Tientsin, and I understand he starts here soon. I have offered him an escort, which he declines. The country is very quiet, with good order in Pekin.

"CHAFFEE."

The dispatch from General Chaffee has no date showing it came from Pekin, but war department officials are satisfied that it was sent from the Chinese capital.

Treasury Statement.

New York.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade for last week says: Had Wall street always been the entire business world watches the progress of efforts to bring about a settlement of the coal strike with active interest. This week the paralysis of the anthracite industry was more complete than last and the effect was seen upon the distribution of merchandise in the east and the placing of new orders with the manufacturers. Prices of coal rose 25 cents above last week and many of the larger companies refused to name a price. The strike involves directly about 15,000 more miners and hundreds of train men, but the working force has increased largely through the action of the United Mine Workers' association and several steel companies whose works employing 60,000 have been idle, while 100,000 men were affected by the shut down of the Susquehana Iron and Steel company by the strike. In the east the conditions seem generally favorable for a quick recovery from the strike over, while in the west there has been no noteworthy reduction in the distribution of any class of goods. —J. Ellen Foster of Iowa, a woman of national reputation in Christian temperance work, who has been engaged by the republican national committee to deliver a number of campaign addresses, was advertised for an address in Genesee Wednesday evening, but before the ink got dry on the last News word came over the wire that the lady could not come. She may come later.

—Among the fusion nominees who came to Genesee to participate in the meeting Wednesday night at which Dubois was to give a talk was Geo. W. Coutts of Kendrick, candidate for county attorney. Mr. Coutts is a silver republican. In company with W. M. Welch he visited the business men of Genesee, not forgetting the News. We found his an agreeable visitor and said if elected he would do the best he could for the county.

—New York Harald, independent, has made a poll of the voters of each state and claims an overwhelming majority for McKinley. The republican national committee claim 226 electoral votes for McKinley, 112 for Bryan, and 54 doubtful. The doubtful states are Colorado, Idaho, Kentucky, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, Nebraska and Utah. The national democratic ticket made a poll but will not make it public.

—Following the example of England in her recent issues of exchequer bonds, Germany has placed a loan of $20,000,000 in New York. The bonds run five years at four per cent. and sold at par. It's a big feather in our cap to be able to loan money to such old countries as England and Germany.

—The visitors to Spokane fruit fair from Genesee are not as numerous this season as in former years. The reason of it is not easy to find. The people have the money. It must be because no new attractions are offered at the exposition. If the managers desire to build up the fair and make it the greatest agricultural show in the northwest, they must add the stock feature. Farmers and two-thirds of the population of towns love to see fine stock. The stock feature has made the fair at St. Paul the greatest west of the Mississippi. People attend from the different states. The northwest is entitled to a great show of this nature and Spokane should take steps to secure one.

Consumption

is, by no means, the dreadful disease it is thought to be—in the beginning.

It can always be stopped—in the beginning. The trouble is: you don't know you've got it; you don't believe it; you won't believe it—till you are forced to. Then it is dangerous.

Don't be afraid; but attend to it quick—you can do it yourself and at home.

Ordinance No. 50.

An Ordinance Providing for the Issuance of Coupon Bonds of the City of Genesee, Latah County, Idaho, for the Purpose of Providing for the Construction and Maintainance of Necessary Water-Works for said city, and Supplying said City with Water.

Be it ordained by the Mayor and Council of the City of Genesee, Idaho, as follows:

Section 1. On the 10th day of November, A. D. 1900, between the hours of eight (8) o'clock A. M. of said day, and seven (7) o'clock P. M. of said day, there shall be held in the City of Genesee aforesaid, an election, for the purpose of empowering the Mayor and Common Council thereof to issue bonds creating thereby a new indebtedness of said city, in the sum of Seventeen Thousand Five Hundred ($17,500) Dollars, for the construction and maintainance of necessary water-works including a system therefor, and providing for sufficient water supply and supplying said city with sufficient and necessary water, which said bond shall be made payable, principal and interest in gold coin of the United States of America.

Sec. 2. The city clerk of said city shall cause to be published in The Genesee News, a weekly newspaper of general circulation published in Genesee, Idaho, the same being the only newspaper therein published a notice of said election, giving thirty (30) days notice thereof specifying in such notice and designating therein the time and place where such election will be held and the time and place where such election will be held and the time the polls will be opened and the time the polls will be closed on said day.

Sec. 3. Each of the inhabitants of the said city of Genesee, who is a legally qualified voter otherwise, and who is a tax-payer of such city of Genesee, shall be entitled to cast one ballot at such election.

Sec. 4. At the election provided for in this ordinance the ballots must contain the following words:—

"In favor of issuing bonds to the amount of Seventeen Thousand Five Hundred ($17,500.00) Dollars, for the purpose stated in Ordinance No 50."

"Against issuing bonds to the amount of Seventeen Thousand Five Hundred ($17,500.00) Dollars, for the purpose stated in Ordinance No. 50."

Sec. 5. The provisions to be made for the payment of the interest on the bonds to be issued by virtue of such election, are that a levy of a tax sufficient to meet and pay such interest as it accrues and becomes due, as well as to create a sinking fund for the payment of the principal of said bonds in twenty years, will be made each year during the life-time of the said bonds, and such tax when collected, will be applied to the payment of such obligations and will be kept in a separate fund for that purpose.

Sec 6. The bonds referred to herein shall be of the denomination of One Thousand ($1,000 00) Dollars each, except the last one to fall due, which shall be in the sum of Five Hundred Dollars ($500), and such bonds shall bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of January and the first day of July of each year, during the life-time of said bonds.

Sec. 7. At such election, if two-thirds (⅔) of the qualified electors of said city who are tax-payers, assent to the issuance of the bonds as described, an ordinance will be drawn and passed, providing for such issuance, and for the construction and maintainance of necessary water-works system, and providing for the maintainance of sufficient water supply to meet the necessary wants of the said City of Genesee and the inhabitants thereof; and also an ordinance for selling such bonds to defray the expense so incurred.

Summons.

In the District Court, Second Judicial District of the State of Idaho in and for the county of Latah.

MARY E. MORSE, Plaintiff, vs. CHARLES E. MORSE, Defendant

To Charles E. Morse, Defendant: The people of Idaho send greeting:

You are hereby notified that there is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of said State, in Moscow, county of Latah, the complaint of the above named plaintiff in an action brought against you of the nature in general terms as follows: Plaintiff prays that a decree be made and entered in his court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant and forever releasing them each from the other in relation thereof, giving the plaintiff the legal charge and control of the said Harry D. Morse, the minor child and decreeing that the said real and personal property be and remain the separate property of the plaintiff herein, and plaintiff prays for such other and further relief as seems to the court right and just, the particulars more fully appearing in Plaintiff's complaint on file in this said office to which reference is hereby made.

And you are also notified that unless you appear and answer to said complaint within ten days after the service hereof, if served within Latah county, and within twenty days if served out of said county, but within said Judicial District; and within forty days if served out of said district (exclusive of the day of service), the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief as prayed for in complaint.

Given under my hand and seal of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of the state of Idaho in and for Latah county, this 25th day of September, A. D. 1900.

—Register now.

—Candidates are hustling.

—The R. R. Gray family moved to town recently.

—Cast your eye over Vollmer's new advertisement.

—A soaking rain fell Wednesday. It was needed for plowing.

—John Park, of the Clearwater valley, visited at the T. Driscoll home this week.

—Ladies aid of the Cong'l church will meet at the parsonage Wednesday afternoon.

—The Hoover family moved in the Jim Bell residence and Mike Glover occupies his own now.

—Morning subject at the Methodist church, Temptation," evening subject, "The model preacher."

—Mrs. Casper sustained a small grain loss by fire a week ago. Mr. Samsel adjusted the insurance.

—The corner saloon closed the first of the week, and the Gilbank people will move back to Pomeroy, their old home.

—H. A. Samsel on Tuesday started for his ranch near Nezperce with his family where he will make his future home.

—Dr. J. L. Conant, Jr., left Wednesday morning for Boise to attend the meeting of the state medical association.

—S. P. Soby has sold his ranch east of town to Ralston Vollmer. Mr. Soby intends to quit farming. The 80 brought $1,600.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hardy have moved into more comfortable quarters—to the building recently vacated by Wallie Owen and family.

—J. J. Johnson sold his Star Saloon business to Mr. Bru and struck out for the coast Sunday. Mr. Bru will conduct the place in an orderly manner.

—J. F. Edwards was up from Magnolia Saturday and Sunday. Telegraphic news in the Sunday papers announce the appointment of Mr. Edwards as postmaster of his town.

—Henry J. Herman visited Colfax and returned home Sunday. We could not get close enough to him for an interview, but we presume he was in attendance at the stock show.

—Two young Germans from Iowa have been looking over this section with a view to buying farms. We understand they bargained for some land near town and have left for home to report to their families with the expectation of wintering in Idaho.

—Mrs. J. R. Dunham and Miss Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Williams, left Monday for the east, the former going to North Carolina for a visit, and the latter to Pennsylvania to enter school. Fred Hampton sent his baby back with Mrs. Dunham for his good mother to take care of.

—Wm. Smolt received a large gasoline lamp for street purposes that is a dandy. It is 500 candle power. A few lamps of this kind would light up Genesee as well as the electric light system in operation here a few years ago. The councilmen are investigating and may purchase a few for the city's use.

—Rev. Fowler is on his road to Boise to assist in the re-election of Senator Shoup. He is making several stops at the principal points in Latah county, learning the wishes of the people, and when they are announced on November 6, he will continue his journey to the state capital He will roll up a big majority on election day.

—Among the visitors to the Spokane fair from Genesee are: Mr. and Mrs. James Hobson, Mrs. C. H. De Bow, Mrs. Con Steltz, Mrs. Chas. Power, Miss Pickering, John Lorang and two sons, Thos. Lorang, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Craig, Mr. Rice, Mrs. Seymour, Mrs. Standish, Mr. and Mrs. John Kambitch, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Steltz, Mrs. Chas. Meyer and others whose names we have forgotten Several Indians went up.

—So few members of the lodge of Rathbone Sisters have been attending the meetings of late, barely enough for a quorum, which requires seven persons, that it was decided last Friday night by a vote to disband, for a while at least. The meeting tonight will be the last regular meeting unless a change in the program is made. Members in arrears can pay up and secure a card. A farewell blowout is to be given next week Friday evening to which members in good standing and Knights and partners are invited. Fresh oysters will be served. It is too bad the Rathbones are to quit for it means a less number of social events this winter.

ROYAL

is the baking powder of general use, its sale exceeding that of all other baking powders combined.

Royal Baking Powder has not its counterpart—at home or abroad. Its qualities, which make the bread more healthful and the cake of finer appearance and flavor, are peculiar to itself and are not constituent in other leavening agents.

Great efforts are made to sell alum baking powders under the plea that they are so many cents a pound cheaper than Royal. The admission that they are cheaper made is an admission that they are inferior. But alum powders contain a corrosive poison and should not be used in food, no matter how cheap.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

—See Means' new advt. Means business.

—Veterinary Surgeon Warren will be in Genesee Oct. 13. See ad.

—Eighty scholars are enrolled at the Catholic school in Genesee so far.

—G. N. Hollister is the city marshal now. He takes to the work like a duck does to water.

—Roy Hough was down from Spokane the past week and showed the boys here a few city tricks.

—The party who borrowed a pick a few weeks ago from Kempf & Stadler will please return same as they have use for it.

—L. F. Darr visited at the News this week. He is keeping up a good lumber yard at this point and is deserving of liberal patronage.

—The United Brethren minister of Juliaetta will preach at the Gray Eagle school house next Sunday at 11 a. m. Let there be a good attendance.

—Mike Driscoll has thrown up the city marshalship and has started after the position of sheriff of Latah county. Mike is popular, extensively known as an honest man, and with many influential relatives scattered over the county, will poll a surprising big vote. Mike will not be asleep from this on.

—News is told that a rural free delivery route will be established here before November 1. This will be nice for the farmers, particularly those living out some distance. Lenville and the Potlatch country people would greatly appreciate the service, in the winter time at least. Senator Shoup is behind the project.

—Register J. B. West of the Lewiston land office, was in Genesee Friday calling on friends. He told the News that the land office had been instructed by the department at Washington that anyone wishing to commute can do so by paying $1.25 per acre. It has heretofore been $3.75 per acre. This will be good news to many.

—The case of Means vs Jacobs tried in Justice Burr's court Saturday resulted in judgment for plaintiff. The defendant was sued on a book account and some hay and a baler attached. Notice of exemption was served on the plaintiff and his attorneys. The case will likely go to the district court. S. S. Denning and John L. Samsel represented the plaintiff and H. R. Smith the defendant.

—E. S. Overacker is among the many who are on the ground ready for the great plunge for land to be made next Tuesday, October 10. George Vennigerholz is another "sooner." The Colville reservation lies direct north of Spokane in Stevens and Okanogan counties. Some 300,000 acres are said to be adapted to agricultural pursuits, and no doubt will all be promptly taken under the government homestead act. The reservation comprises mountains, plains, valleys, prairie, timber and rich minerals. Its climate is mild, and the soil is capable of producing large yields of grain and fruit. A great drawback in many places is the scarcity of water.

—John Stadler is among the fair visitors at Spokane.

—Messrs. Hoover and Gage visited the white pine this week.

—Miss Westlake arrived in Genesee last week from Pomeroy, Wash.

—Geo. H. Raymond is in Spokane looking at the big red apples and pumpkins at the fair.

—Mrs. Dr. Lemman is off on a visit with Farmington and Garfield friends. The doctor is also away for a few days.

—Capt. Gilbert is not in the employ of the Great Northern but is holding down a position at the court house in Spokane.

—Mrs. Dr. Ferguson, of Iowa, who has been visiting at Pullman, visited the D. Spurbeck people a couple of days this week.

—John McMartin was down from Oakesdale Saturday and Sunday, using his arm as a pump handle when meeting his many friends.

—Attorney Denning spent a couple of days in Genesee the past week. He is thinking some of sticking out his shingle at the growing town of Wallace.

—G. R. Howton is assisting around the Means store. Mark is a busy man, enjoying good trade at each of his three stores—Genesee, Lewiston and Orofino.

—The W. R. C. people gave Mrs. Lisne a surprise Monday afternoon, and an enjoyable time was had. Mrs. Lisne is going to Grangeville to reside with her husband and friends gave her a set of silver knives and forks to remember them by. Three of the children will remain here and attend school. The house will be occupied by Mr. Schmader, the engineer at the Wood flour mill.

—Book agents are numerous. They must find this a good field.

—The Soren Halverson family occupy the Spurbeck residence vacated by the Lees people.

—Mrs. J. K Bell came down from Greer, on the Clearwater extension, after household goods.

—Miss Smith, registrar for Thorn Creek precinct, will be at the Bangs school house next Saturday to register voters.

—Mrs. Inman, president of the W. C. T. U. of Idaho, came up from Lewiston Saturday and gave a lecture at the Cong'l church Sunday evening.

—Sherman Case, late of Astoria, Oregon, has moved into the Hogan house, on the north side. Mr. Case will teach a term of school in the Ingle district the coming winter.

—Mr. Gilbanks and Norman Sampson drove to Pomery, Wash., Monday and that evening Mr. Sampson and Miss Eva Gilbanks were united in marriage. We do not know where the young couple will make their future home, but rumor has it they will reside in Oregon.

—The democratic meeting Wednesday evening proved a failure, mainly because ex-Senator Fred T. Dubois failed to put in an appearance on account of being unable to make train connection at Colfax and Pullman. E. J. Dockery, the second speaker on the list, was present as was also J. J. Plummer, of south Idaho, candidate for treasurer, but for some reason did not talk. The weather was disagreeable, wet and muddy, and the attendance was light. An effort will be made to have the speakers here later on.

"What's the Time?"

A booklet with this title, just published by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, should not only be in the hands of every traveler, but should have a place on the desk of every banker, merchant or other business man.

The four "Time Standards" which govern our entire system and which are more or less familiar to most of the traveling public, but by many others little understood, are so fully explained and illustrated by a series of charts, diagrams and tables that any one who chooses can become conversant with the subject in question. There are also some twenty-four tables by which almost at a glance, the time at any place being given, the hour and day can be ascertained in all the principal cities of the world.

A copy of this pamphlet may be had on application to Geo. H. Heafford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, enclosing two-cent stamp to pay postage.

Coeur d'Alene Strikers Released.

San Francisco Oct. 2.—The United States circuit court of appeals has rendered a decision on the quashing of the indictments against the ten men who were arrested at Coeur d'Alene during the mining strike there last year for interfering with the United States mails. It was shown that the men did not know that the train they interfered with carried United States mails. Ten men now imprisoned at San Quentin, Cal., under the indictments will be released as soon as the decision reaches Idaho and the necessary papers can be sent from that state to the warden at San Quentin.

The 10 men who are now imprisoned at San Quentin as a result of the former trial, and who will be released in accordance with the decision of the court of appeals are: Francis Butler, Mike Malvey, P. F. O'Donnell, Arthur Wallace, John Lucianette, Henry Maroni, Louis Salla, Edward Albinola, J. R. Burris, Dennis O'Rourke.

Another Railroad.

The letter carriers re-elected John Parsons president and refused to affiliate with the A. F. of L., the second class postoffice delegates knocking out the proposition.

ESCAPED DEATH.

THE UNUSUAL EXPERIENCE GRANTED LE ROY BOWEN.

Given Up to Die by Four Doctors Because of a Serious Complication of Diseases—How He Saved Himself

From the Enterprise, Mapleton, Minn.

To escape death after being given up by four doctors, and bidden good-bye to family and friends is an experience not granted every man. Yet it happened to Mr. Le Roy Bowen, of Decoria township, Blue Earth county, Minn.

Mr. Bowen is a farmer, but formerly resided in Mapleton, where he was clerk and city marshal for a number of years. He is a well-known member of the Masonic fraternity and enjoys an enviable reputation for his sterling honesty and uprightness of character.

He told his story of miraculous relief and cure to a reporter recently and it is a story of the greatest interest. He said:

"I was suddenly taken sick in the spring of 1895. The pain was intense. The doctor was hastily summoned. He pronounced my case one of gravel and said that the pain was caused by the passage of a stone from the kidneys to the bladder. I doctored with him for three months, but was not benefited.

Frequently, once a week, I would have a bad spell of two or three days duration, during which I suffered untold agony.

"Finally I went to Mankato and consulted a specialist. He stated that I did not have gravel, but thought it was rheumatism of the stomach. I continued to visit him until the end of August. Then I became completely bedridden and sent for another doctor. He called my complaint inflammation of the bowels and treated me for that.

I became better, but in one week my legs swelled up and I was worse than ever.

"The doctor laid my case before the faculty of Rush Medical College, Chicago, and it was decided that I had neuralgia of the stomach. I was treated for that until December, but continued to grow worse. Then the doctor said, 'I can't do you any good. All the help I know for you is an operation.' 'Very well,' I replied, 'go on and operate if that is left for me.' This was on Sunday. The time of the operation was set for Tuesday. My children were sent for, and I prepared for the worst.

"The appointed time came; the four doctors present examined me for two hours, then they retired and consulted for the same length of time. They concluded that they did not know what ailed me. The head physician asked permission to 'cut,' as he expressed it, 'and find out.' I asked how big a place he wanted to cut. He said 'he thought four inches far enough.' I knew enough not to allow any such hide-and-seek game to be played with me, so the operation did not occur. I continued under the doctor's care, but my case was considered hopeless. I made my will, balanced my accounts and made every preparation for death.

"I continued to grow steadily worse. Day after day was passed in intense agony. As a last resort I told my hired man to bring me, the next time he went to town, a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had read considerable about them and thought I would try them. Immediately after beginning the use of these pills I commenced to feel better. At first, I took one pill three times a day, but increased the dose to three pills three times a day. In two weeks I was out of bed and around.

"In five weeks I took a trip to Mankato, but this trip was a little beyond my strength and I came home and had to go to bed. I again began the use of the pills. The effect was as before; in four days I was on my feet, and have been there ever since, thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

I hereby certify the above statement is true, to the best of my knowledge and belief. LE ROY BOWEN.

Witnesses: J. A. Biddeson, Mrs. Le Roy Bowen.

Mr. Bowen's postoffice address is Beauford, Minn. He will gladly answer any inquiries to those enclosing stamp for reply.

It was nature's own remedy that accomplished this cure caused by impure blood, for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are composed of vegetable remedies that exert a powerful influence in purifying and enriching the blood. Many diseases long supposed by the medical profession to be incurable have succumbed to the potent influence of these pills. This universal remedy is sold by all druggists.

British Guns Recaptured.

London, Oct. 2.—A dispatch from Lord Roberts says:

"Rundle's troops in the Bethlehem district have recaptured from the Boers a mountain battery gun lost at Nicholsen's nek, and also 65,000 rounds of Martini-Henry ammunition."

Chas. Wilson of Greenwood, B. C., has been appointed organizer for the American Federation of Labor for the Boundary country.

Um! It's up to Teddy. New York electrical workers heard about Roosevelt bragging about the Empire State's "labor laws" in his Chicago Labor Day address, nnd now they want to know why the myriads of bosses in New York are not prosecuted for disregarding "labor laws."

Women, Remember This Fact

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are communicating with a woman—a woman whose experience in treating woman's ills is greater than that of any living person—male or female.

A woman can talk freely to a woman when it is revolting to relate her private troubles to a man.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they should have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probable examination of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman, whose knowledge from actual experience is unequaled.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to freely communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass.

All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only.

This is a positive fact—not a mere statement. It is certified to by the mayor and postmaster of Lynn and others whose letters, all in a little book, Mrs. Pinkham has just published. Write for a copy, it is free. Thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken and has induced more than 100,000 sufferers to write her for advice during the last few months.

Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Here are some of the cases we refer to:

Mrs. Pinkham Helps Two Women Through Change of Life and Cures Another of Sterility. Read Their Letters.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I feel that it is owing to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I am alive today. It has taken me out of a sick bed where I had lain for six weeks with a good doctor to tend me twice a day. My trouble was change of life, Had frequent hemorrhages. Your medicine checked the flow right away. I am now able to do all my work, and backache is unknown. I am forty-three years of age and enjoying good health."—MRS. ANNIE FOSTER, Cascade Locks, Oregon.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—When I first wrote to you, I was in a very bad condition. I was passing through the change of life, and the doctors said I had bladder and liver trouble. I had suffered for nine years. Doctors failed to do me any good. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my health has improved very much. I will gladly recommend your medicine to others and am sure that it will prove as great a blessing to them as it has to me."—MRS. GEO. H. JUNE, 901 De Kalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—It was my ardent desire to have a child. I had been married three years and could not become a mother, so wrote to you to find out the reason. After following your kind advice and taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I became the mother of a beautiful baby boy, the joy of our home. He is a fat, healthy baby, thanks to your medicine."—MRS. MINDA FINKLE, Roscoe, N. Y.

Two More Women Who Acknowledge the Help they Have Received from Mrs. Pinkham.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—The doctor says I have congestion of the womb, and cannot help me. There is aching in the right side of abdomen, hip, leg, and back. If you can do me any good, please write."—MRS. NINA CHASE, Fulton, N. Y., December 20, 1897.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I followed your instructions, and now I want every woman suffering from female trouble to know how good your advice and medicine is. The doctor advised an operation. I could not bear to think of that, so followed your advice. I got better right off. I took six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used three packages of Sanative Wash; also took your Liver Pills, and am cured."—MRS. NINA CHASE, Fulton, N. Y., December 13, 1898.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—Have been suffering for over a year and had three doctors. At time of menstruation I suffer terrible pains in back and ovaries. I have headache nearly every day, and feel tired all the time. The doctor said my womb was out of place. Would be so glad if you could help me."—MRS. CARL VOSS, Sac City, Iowa, August 1, 1898.

"Please accept my sincere thanks for the good your advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I did everything you told me to do, and used only three bottles, and feel better in every respect."—MRS. CARL VOSS, Sac City, Iowa, March 28, 1899.

STRIKERS ARE WINNING OUT

STRIKE LEADERS COURTEOUS.

Mine Owners Seem Ready to Arbitrate Now—Troops Have Been Sent Home—Is a Very Orderly Strike.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—Late developments show that the efforts to bring about a hurried settlement of the big coal miners' strike are still in a chaotic condition. While there is every surface evidence of honest intention on the part of the mine-owners and operators to grant the more important demands of the mine-workers, the difficulties in detail in reaching the basis of a settlement grow more confusing. In a conference at Wilkesbarre, an important residential point of mining, railroad superintendents, big individual mine-operators and mine foremen were called in to take part in the discussion. The foremen were questioned regarding powder, dockage, etc., indicating that the operators were endeavoring to reach a common ground where justice would be found for each side. So far as can be learned no definite conclusion was reached.

The general opinion among those in a position to comprehend the differences is that the settlement of the strike is yet remote. All interests involved, however, seemed to be willing to reach an early settlement, and concessions, it is understood, will be readily accorded by both sides in the controversy.

The strike leaders are cautious in their movements, but so far as can be learned have not taken the ground that trickery was being played, a precautionary notice of which point they had previously sent to all the strikers. It has now apparently settled itself down to a common sense discussion of the differences.

The strikers made big gains today in drawing out men who have heretofore continued at work. The Markle employes tonight sent out word to the firm that arbitration was not to be further considered. So many of the employes of that firm in its five mines near Hazelton have joined the strikers that they concluded there was no further advantage to be obtained by their old agreement that the men would continue at work pending arbitration of their differences, which had been presented to the firm, wholly apart from the general grievances of the United Mine-Workers. This was their escape from the condition of the agreement and they concluded to declare all previous agreements ended.

The entire region was tranquil yesterday, and Gen. Gobin, in command of the three regiments of state troops in Schuylkill county, concluded that the soldiers were only idling away their time, and he informed the sheriff that he would send one of the regiments home today. The strike leaders continued their campaigning by a mass meeting today, and many who have been working joined their ranks. There were today more idle mine-workers than at any time since the strike began.

Raised Wages.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—The following notice bearing date of October 1 has been posted in the vicinity of all the collieries of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron company in the anthracite region:

"Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—This company will pay an advance of 10 per cent on the wages of all men and boys employed at its collieries. This advance takes effect today.

"R. C. LUTHER,
"General Superintendent."

Beneath this notice another was posted which read as follows:

"Fellow Mine-Workers, United Mine-Workers of America: Do not pay any attention to this notice posted by Mr. Luther of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron company but wait until you hear from President Mitchell of the United Mine-Workers of America, or until you have decided by your own locals what is right for you to do.

"C. B. POTTER."

Mr. Potter is an officer in the district branch of the United Mine-Workers of America.

At Shamokin.

Shamokin, Pa., Oct. 1.—Notices were posted here today by the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron company to the effect that beginning with tomorrow an advance of 10 per cent on the net wages of all men and boys would obtain. While some strikers said they were ready to go to work in the morning, others hold that it would not be wise to act until President Mitchell had issued official notice as to the course the men should pursue.

Interest is manifested as to whether the Reading company's collieries will be able to work tomorrow, irrespective of the recognition of the Mine-Workers' union by the mine operators.

Will Arbitrate Now.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 1.—At every colliery in the anthracite region a notice will be posted Tuesday morning announcing a 10 per cent increase in wages, based on the present scale, to be effective October 1, and that the operators will arbitrate any grievances with the employes.

PE RU NA

Many a woman, sick and weary of life, dragged down by weakening drains, painful irregularities, depression, and the hundred and one ailments which affect women only, has found in Pe-ru-na a bright star of hope, which has changed her misery to joy, her suffering to health.

No woman need suffer from the derangements peculiar to her sex, if she will give Pe-ru-na a fair trial.

The majority of weaknesses which make woman's life a burden, spring from a simple cause. The mucous membrane which lines the pelvic organs becomes weakened and inflamed owing to strain, cold, overwork, etc. This causes catarrhal congestion, inflammation, painful irregularities, depression of spirits, irritability, weakness and suffering. It shows in the haggard lines of the face, the dull eyes, the sallow complexion and angular form.

For the prompt cure of such ailments try Pe-ru-na. It drives away "the blues," clears the complexion, brightens the eyes, changes thinness to plumpness, and cures pains, aches and drains, because it immediately strikes at the root of such troubles and removes the cause.

Death of an Illinois Pioneer.

Freeport, Ill., Sept. 30.—Jacob Schaelsel, one of the most prominent men in this section, who has been heavily interested in various banking institutions in South Dakota, and who was widely known in the west, died tonight, aged 84 years.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Spokane Exposition Opened.

The Spokane Industrial Exposition opened its doors promptly on time Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Among all the other attractions at the Exposition this year, and there are many of them, the one first mentioned, most often spoken of and most enjoyed was the music of the royal marine band of Italy.

A large crowd was present at the opening of the big fair. The band led a procession which marched down Riverside avenue amid the cheers of the people. Next to the band came the Goddess of Plenty, Miss Lula Kirby, the choice of Nez Perce county, Idaho, which last year won the first prize for the best exhibition of fruits, grains, grass seed, roots and vegetables. She rode in the same carriage which was presented to Abraham Lincoln by the business men of New York city after his second election. Her costume and that of her attendants was of the colonial style.

On reaching the grounds the Goddess of Plenty and her retinue halted at the pavillion and the band proceeded the Goddess and her atendants, then entered the pavillion, and as she ascended to the platform, a chorus made up of 1000 children, selected from the best voices in the public schools above the fourth grade, saluted her with the opening bars of the grand chorus. This chorus was under the direction of Dr. R. A. Heritage.

Following the rendition of the open-opening ode, which formally opened chorus the Goddess announced the opening code, which formally opened Spokane's Industrial Exposition. This ode was composed by Miss Pauline Dunstan, the Spokane elocutionist, and is as follows:

"Loyal subjects, one and all,
Gathered at my mandate's call,
Greeting here your Goddess brings,
While the joyous welcome rings.
For your pleasures you will find,
Treasures rare in form and kind,
Golden grains and fruits so fair,
Ores from old earth's hidden lair,
Dances tripped by dainty feet,
Music grand and songs most sweet.
These your Goddess gives to thee,
For your pleasures, full and free.
Take them, use them for your cheer,
Emblems of a bounteous year.
Thus let gladness have full sway
And begin our festal day.

The ode was followed by the opening address by Dr. E. D. Olmsted, president of the Exposition and by Mayor J. M. Comstock.

The Exposition this year as far as the exhibits are concerned is fully up to those of former years and in some respects is better. In the agricultural and fruit departments the exhibit from Nez Perce county, under the charge of the Hon. Thomas C. Kirby, is very large and contains about everything which can be raised in the North temperate zone. But a striking change in the agricultural department is the large number of exhibitors who are competing for the different prizes offered for the best individual exhibits of farm and fruit exhibits. There are many more of these than ever before and they are much better. This is one of the striking features of the agricultural departments.

The mineral departments is all that it was last year with many new camps represented. This is one of the best and most important parts of the big show. A poultry department and machinery department are interesting sections.

But the attractions at the Exposition which brings more people and which holds them there longer and causes more admiration than anything else and everything else is the band. Such a musical organization never before came west. It is a wonderland; is equally admired by the best musicians and by those who do not pretend to be musicians or judges of music. There are forty members of this band and included in that number are a dozen soloists which makes a very attractive part of the program.

Outside of the band, the biggest attraction at the Exposition is Atlantis, the globe and fire dancer and juggleress who is the greatest in her line ever seen in America. Her unique dance while moving about the stage on a globe is exceedingly clever and interesting.

Another of the best turns at the Exposition is that of Little Nero. "Nero" is the cutest little acrobat and slack wire performer in the country. He is only 4 years old and about three feet high, yet with his father he carries out a regular professional act.

The Sisters Waterman in rag time music and dancing are very fine in their line ahd are considered one of the best attractions. The Malvern Bros. are excellent too, in fact the entire programs are better than at any former Exposition.

The reduction of the price of admission to 15 cents, is making a big hit.

TRAMPS KILL AN OFFICER

NEAR PROSSER, WASHINGTON.

Shot Through the Head—Murderers and Highway Robbers Escaped—W. F. Edwards, a Tourist, Was Also Mortally Wounded.

Prosser, Wash., Oct. 1.—On the arrival of the extra west-bound tonight a shooting affray took place in which W. W. Scott, a merchant of Kiona, was instantly killed, one bullet entering his left breast and another passing entirely through his head, entering at the mouth. Another man who claimed his name is W. F. Edwards, from Indiana, who was hoboing his way, was shot in the right side, the bullet nearly passing through his body from behind. He is probably fatally injured.

The three robbers climbed into a box-car on an east-bound freight which was pulling out about 4 o'clock and robbed two hop pickers, one of $40 and the other of $25, then jumped from the moving train, remaining at Prosser.

The hop pickers, on reaching Kiona, told their story and Scott started with them for Prosser for the capture. Scott, together with the hop pickers, began a search and located them in a box-car with 8 or 10 hoboes. They were all ordered out of the car and when identified to Scott one of them opened fire and discharged five shots, killing Scott on the spot and wounding Edwards. They then dispersed, some one way and some another, darkness preventing any successful efforts toward their capture and it is supposed they boarded some freignt going west.

Scott's body was taken to the city hall and the wounded man sent on a freight to North Yakima to be cared for in the hospital.

Eruptions

Dry, moist, scaly tetter, all forms of eczema or salt rheum, pimples and other cutaneous eruptions proceed from humors, either inherited, or acquired through defective digestion and assimilation.

To treat these eruptions with drying medicines is dangerous.

The thing to do is to help the system discharge the humors, and to strengthen it against their return.

Hood's Sarsaparilla permanently cured J. G. Hines, Franks, Ill., of eczema, from which he had suffered for some time; and Miss Alvina Wolter, Box 212, Algona, Wis., of pimples on her face and back and chafed skin on her body, by which she had been greatly troubled. There are more testimonials in favor of this great medicine than can be published.

—Plans have been submitted to the war department for approval for a steel bridge to span Snake river opposite Vineland.

—Jack Allen, a well known educated Nez Perce Indian, was killed at Joseph about ten days ago while on a drunken spree. He was stabbed by a 16-year old Indian boy by the name of Hill and died seven hours afterward. He exhonorated the boy from all blame.

—James Stussi and the Courtney brothers engaged in a shooting affair at Grangeville. It appears that Stussi had been doing some work for the Courtneys on their claim and the trouble arose over the question of wages. No one seriously hurt.—Orofino Courier.

—The terminus of the Northern Pacific railroad at Stites on the Clearwater river is the exact spot where the Nez Perce Indians were driven across the river July 16, 1877. After chasing the hostiles all around Salmon river and Camas prairie, they were finally engaged on the plateau between the forks of the Clearwater directly east of Stites. After two days fighting, during which General Howard lost over 50 men, a charge was made and they stampeded down a steep canyon, closely followed by the infantry, artillery, scouts and volunteers. Crossing the river at this point they made a stand on a bench overlooking the river, firing at their pursuers from the bank and loopholes they had cut in the fallen pine trees, but such was the irresistable charge of our boys that they were given no time to organize and left pell mell for the hills surrounding, leaving lots of plunder. The Indians retreated across the hill to Kamiah, crossing the river there and taking to the hills by the Lolo trail, sending their squaws, papooses and stock several days ahead, leaving their warriors behind to keep the troops back as long as possible. General Howard sent Col. Frank Parker to Mt. Idaho with orders to bring down a big gun to shell them from their position on the ridges. He was in the saddle 48 hours without sleep, but the gun was dragged down; the Nez Perces took the hint and followed the rest of their tribe and were not engaged again until attacked by Gen. Gibbon at the Big Hole, in Montana, where they lost over 100, our troops also losing about 60. This broke their backbone and they retreated through the Yellowstone country, Judith basin, crossing the Missouri, and finally surrendered to Generals Howard and Miles at Bear Paw mountain; from whence they were taken to the Indian territory, where they lived several years until being finally returned to the Colville reservation, where they now are, says Grangeville Press.

Job Couldn't Have Stood It

If he'd had itching piles. They're terribly annoying; but Bucklen's Arnaca Salve will cure the worst case of Piles on earth. It has cured thousand. Pains or bodily eruption, injuries it's the best salve in the world. Price 25c a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by Druggist Kennedy.

Safe.

The little child is safe from ordinary dangers in the care of the faithful dog. But neither the dog's fidelity, nor the mother's love can guard a child from those invisible foes that lurk in air, water and food—the germs of disease. Children need to be specially watched and cared for. When there is loss of appetite, lassitude and listlessness in a child, an attempt should be made to revive the appetite and rally the spirits. In Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery parents have found an invaluable medicine for children. Its purely vegetable character and absolute freedom from alcohol and narcotics commend it to every thoughtful person. It is pleasant to the taste, unlike the foul oils and their emulsions offered for children's use. "Golden Medical Discovery" makes pure blood and sound flesh, and absolutely eliminates from the system the poisons which feed disease.

Mrs. Ella Gardner, of Waterview, Middlesex Co., Va., whose daughter suffered from malarial poisoning and catarrh, writes: "My little daughter is enjoying splendid health. I am glad I found a doctor who could cure my child. She took twelve bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' eight bottles of 'Pellets,' and one bottle of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and she is well. We thank God for your medicines."

Give the little ones Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets when a laxative is needed. They're easy to take and don't gripe.

—There is a distinct saving in weight of potatoes by disposing of them as soon as dug, says Farm and Fireside. No matter how dry the ground may be at digging time, and how clean the potatoes, there is considerable loss in weight and in bulk within a few days after digging. Now is a good time to dig the spuds.

—This is the proper time to select out your old hens—those over two years old—and sell them. The American Poultry Journal says it has often been proven that hens over two years do not pay. Chickens can be raised with profit, and the more raised greater the profit. Pullets bring as much now as when two years old.

—The Northern Pacific have reduced the rate on apples to St. Paul to 65 cents a hundred, thus enabling this section to compete with the eastern growers. But the reduction in freight rates does not raise the price of fruit for the producers. The retailers and wholesalers announce they are selling apples just that much lower. Lower freight does not necessarily mean better prices to the producers.

Take in the Lewiston Fair.

Never has the old adage "that westward the course of empire takes its way" been more applicable than it is today to Lewiston and her suburb Vineland; for when a community of 5,000 inhabitants has the push, energy and industry for the investment of the necessary capital to promulgate and initiate an enterprise similar to the Lewiston Inter-State Fair, it is an evidence of the rapid growth of northern Idaho and should receive the commendation and encouragement of all who are interested in the welfare and future of our great and growing state.

Primarily neither time or expense has been spared by those who have the matter in charge to make the event a grand success. The NEWS desires to be among the first to assist and encourage such an enterprise, and after careful inquiry and investigation, we learn from one who has personally visited the ground at Lewiston, that they are second to none in the completeness of their equipment and in the thorough excellence of the new one mile track at the Vineland fair gronnd. The Association have offered $8000 in purses and premiums the results of which are apparent in the 100 horses now on the grounds or en route, and the large number of requests for accommodations for the various kinds of live-stock. Several of the largest stockbreeders in the Northwest have engaged accommodations for their exhibits of thoroughbred cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry, and the lover of fine stock will view the exhibit in these lines not to be found short of the state fairs in the older and more advanced states. The Snake river valley, famous for her fruit, will outdo herself on this occasion and a glance at the fruit and vegetables now in the warehouses and cold-storage is a show in itself. The entries to the races at Lewiston have been larger and more numerous, and the quality of horses entered are of a higher class than that of any race meeting held on the coast this year, with the possible exception of that of the state fair at Salem, Ore. The track buildings and general equipment of the grounds are ornaments to the community and will furnish the best accommodations for the convenience of exhibitors and comfort of spectators. The track buildings and general equipment of the grounds are ornaments to the community and will furnish the best accommodations for the convenience of exhibitors and comfort of spectators. The program embraces two harness and three running races each afternoon, with a general parade of livestock and other attraction during the forenoon.

To all the above named attraction, the management have secured Jarbour's Oriental Midway shows, with ninety-five people who travel in a railroad train of their own. This magnificent aggregation includes the famous Midway Plaisance and Persian dancers, of the late World's fair at Chicago, and was the principal attraction of the recent street fair in Portland; having been brought to that city at an expense of over $10,000, by the order of Elks. Among other attractions they have dens of wild animals, trained camels, kangaroos and donkeys, a Mexican theatre streets of Cairo, streets of all nations, Turkish acrobats and in fact one of the greatest shows of the era.

Ample accommodations have been provided for the visitors in the way of board and lodging; and also free camping ground for those who desire it. Taking it altogether it is one of the greatest, if not the greatest, event in the history of Idaho and Washington and those who miss seeing the Lewiston fair will certainly regret it. In conclusion, the task of securing a representative mining exhibit has been placed in the hands of a competent specialist and this exhibit will be worthy to represent this vast mining district.

—E. E. Thornberg was up from Lewiston in the interest of M. W. A.

—The county fusionists will hold forth in Genesee October 20, at Thorn Creek 22nd, Leuville 23rd, Troy 24th, Cornwall 25th.

—Some of the exchanges seem to be laboring under the impression that the weight of the whole political "cheese" is resting upon their editorial utterances. The world will wag on after the ides of November, boys.—Silver City Avalanche.

Correct, Bro. York. But were it not for these campaigns such sheet could not exist. They contain but little news and receive support accordingly.

—Thos. H. Brewer, candidate for the legislature, is out making the acquaintance of the people and learning their wants. Mr. Brewer is receiving hearty support not only from his party but from many other sources, and we look to see him pile up a handsome majority on election day. He is a clean, fair-minded man, and in the legislature would work for laws of most benefit to all the people.

—Latah county commissioners are in regular session. Though there is considerable work to do the members expect to get through within a few days. By the way, this has been a business board. All warrants are at par and the county is saving much in interest money. Though the board constructed several large county bridges and improved roads and opened new ones, the tax levy was reduced to $2 20 on $100 valuation. And with all this extra work the salary of the commissioners last year and this is considerable lower than that of any of their predecessors since 1894. The commissioners could have drawn nearly $200 more apiece than they did. Any one disputes this we will print the salary list for their benefit. We have it in our possession. Can you elect better servants?

—Saturday was the last day on which declinations of nominations could be filed. Fusion between the democrats and populists on state offices is now impossible. Democrats have the names of three populists on their ticket—Glenn for congress, E. Jones for auditor and M. H. Jacobs for mine inspector—but there are no democrats on the populist ticket. There will be five vacancies on the populist ticket—one elector, governor, lieutenant governor, justice of the supreme court and attorney general.

—Mr. Bryan is devoting much of his time to "trusts," believing he can get more votes in that way than by talking silver. "I shall recommend such additional legislation as may be necessary to dissolve every private monopoly which does business outside the state of its origin." That Bryan should think such legislation either possible or effective proves him either ignorant or insincere. Every state now has power to prevent corporations organized in other states from doing business within its borders. Congress cannot decree that an Idaho corporation shall not sell its products in the state of Washington. Neither can congress or the state legislature prevent the citizens of any state from buying and using trust-made goods. The Inter Ocean gives this example: Illinois can absolutely prohibit the Standard Oil company from making, keeping for sale, or entering into contracts for sale of, its products within this state But Illinois cannot prohibit its citizens from buying Standard Oil products in Indiana, either personally, by letter, or by order to a traveling salesman, and having them delivered in Illinois. Nor can Illinois forbid its courts to enforce claims for payment for goods so purchased and delivered. The contract of purchase and sale may have been illegal in Illinois, but if legal where made, in Indiana, the Illinois courts must enforce it. To refuse to do so would violate the constitution by "impairing the obligations of contracts." Neither can congress, so long as any state chooses to give the Standard Oil company legal existence, prohibit the people of other states from buying its products, nor forbid the federal courts to enforce contracts for the purchase and sale of such products. Such prohibition would infringe the freedom of contract guaranteed by the constitution. These facts have been established by repeated decisions of our highest courts, and NEWS cannot understand why Bryan makes false assertions. The states must treat with these trusts or we must have a constitutional amendment. Such a measure before congress was opposed by the Bryan party last winter. Let us have facts.

For sprains, swellings and lameness there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Try it. For sale by all druggists.

—The republican state central committee made a partial poll of Idaho and claim they will elect their ticket by a good majority. The number of votes canvassed is 23,062—less than one-half that will be cast next month. The canvass shows 10,700 for the republicans, 6,319 democratic, 1,297 populist, 4,000 silver republicans, 36 prohibitionist and 3,783 doubtful. The polls shows the republicans have over 48 per cent of the votes canvassed, while 16½ per cent is doubtful.

—The Nebraska authorities are after the starch trust and the Nebraska City stockholders in the local starch factory are getting after the authorities—with a sharp stick, it is said. The local stockholders are legion, and their interests as citizens of a commonwealth engaged in a "monster" hunt, and they have already held a meeting and adopted resolutions denouncing the proceedings against the starch trust. They threaten to move the plant to Kansas City if the suit is pushed.

—Fusion orators who are attempting to create disconte among farmers are finding it a difficult task, especially when they run up against one who has the statistics in his pocket. The Department of Agriculture keep posted on prices and make monthly reports on products raised by the farmers and can be had by everybody. The price of wheat east of the mountains is 75 cents per bushel. It would be 50 odd cents in Genesee if ships were plentiful. Here are the average prices of the leading farm products from 1896 to 1900, September 1 of each year as reported by the Department:

Wheat No. 2 bush	$.55½	.85	.62¼	.69⅝	.73¼
Corn per bushel	.19¼	.27	.29	.31½	.40½
Oats per bushel	14¾	18⅞	.20¼	.11	.21½
Rye per bushels	.30½	46	.42¼	.54	.51½
Baled hay per ton	8.00	8.50	7.50	9.50	11.00
Wool, XX washed	.17	.25	.29	.30	28
Eggs, per doz.	.9½	.10	.11	.11	.13
Hogs per 100 lbs.	2.45	3.60	3.40	3.90	4.00

Cattle hogs and sheep are much higher in this northwest country, and has been for two years, than quoted above. The NEWS gives these figures just to keep these eloquent orators from soaring too high.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver, of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in the back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c., guaranteed, at Kennedy's store.

—Another cattle thief "goes over the road." John Sanford was last week sentenced to serve four years in the state penitentiary by Judge Steele. Sanford was convicted on the charge of stealing two head of horses from John Hanson, a reservation farmer. He is a married man and has been residing on the Cox place south of Lewiston.

—This is not the age of high prices in the true meaning of the term. As an illustration, many tools which in the past have been too expensive to find their way into the tool-kit are now being made by such improved methods and in such large quantities that it is possible to sell them at prices which make them available to the most economical buyers. In all lines of manufactures, goods of better quality than those of only a few years ago are now being sold at much lower prices then were then paid.

"For three days and nights I suffered agony untold from an attack of cholera morbus brought on by eating cucumbers," says M. E. Lowther, clerk of the district court, Centerville, Iowa. "I thought I would surely die, and tried a dozen different medicines but all to no purpose. I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and three doses relieved me entirely." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

—The race of all free peoples, says a writer in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for October, who was long in the service of the Imperial Government of China, and of the United States in particular, after such punishment as civilization permits of has been meted out, is quite clear. The Chinese Empire must not be treated hereafter as a sovereign state. The integrity should be maintained, not only in order to prevent a conflict between the Western Powers, but also because it will be easier to govern the millions of Chinese through the forms to which they are accustomed. But government should be put into commission, the most enlightened and trustworthy natives protected in their effort to teach the masses, and the policy of the empire confined to a disciplined native army, officered by foreigners and commanded by the Foreign Board at the capital. The whole civil service should be under foreign inspection, as the Maritime Customs and Postal Departments already are. And lastly, the national schools should be reorganized, so that the natural intelligence and application of the Chinese may find safe and profitable channels, and eventually prepare them to self-government.

Nerve Food

If you have neuralgia, Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil will feed the nerve that is crying for food—it is hungry—and set your whole body going again, in a way to satisfy nerve and brain from your usual food. That is cure.

Ordinance No. 50.

An Ordinance Providing for the Issuance of Coupon Bonds of the City of Genesee, Latah County, Idaho, for the Purpose of Providing for the Construction and Maintenance of Necessary Water-Works for said city, and Supplying said City with Water.

Be it ordained by the Mayor and Council of the City of Genesee, Idaho, as follows:

Section 1. On the 10th day of November, A. D. 1900, between the hours of eight (8) o'clock A. M. of said day, and seven (7) o'clock P. M. of said day, there shall be held in the City of Genesee an election and election for the purpose of governing the Mayor and Common Council thereof to issue bonds creating thereby a new indebtedness of said city in the sum of Seventeen Thousand Five Hundred ($17,500) Dollars, for the construction and maintenance of necessary water-works including a system therefor, and providing for sufficient water supply and supplying said city with sufficient and necessary water, which said bond shall be made payable, principal and interest in gold coin of the United States of America.

Sec. 2. The city clerk of said city shall cause to be published in The Genesee News, a weekly newspaper of general circulation published in Genesee, Idaho, the same being the only newspaper therein published a notice of said election, giving thirty (30) days notice thereof, specifying the time when such election will be held, and that at such election ballots will be used and the time and place where such election will be held and the time the polls will be opened and the time the polls will be closed on said day.

Sec. 3. Each of the inhabitants of the said city of Genesee, who is a legally qualified voter otherwise, and who is a tax-payer of such city of Genesee, shall be entitled to cast one ballot at such election.

Sec. 4. At the election provided for in this ordinance the ballots must contain the following words:—

"In favor of issuing bonds to the amount of Seventeen Thousand Five Hundred ($17,500.00) Dollars, for the purpose stated in Ordinance No. 50."

"Against issuing bonds to the amount of Seventeen Thousand Five Hundred ($17,500.00) Dollars, for the purpose stated in Ordinance No. 50."

Sec. 5. The provision to be made for the payment of the interest on the bonds to be issued by virtue of such election, is that a tax of six (6) mills on the dollar of all taxable property is sufficient to meet and pay such interest as it accrues and becomes due, as well as to create a sinking fund for the payment of the principal of said bonds, and that a tax of six (6) mills per year during the life-time of said bonds, and such tax when collected, will be applied to the payment of such obligations and will be kept as a separate fund for that purpose.

Sec. 6. The bonds referred to herein shall be of the denomination of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars each, except the last one to fall due, which shall be in the sum of Five Hundred Dollars ($500), and said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of January and the first day of July of each year, during the life-time of said bonds.

Sec. 7. At such election, if two-thirds (⅔) of the qualified electors of said city of Genesee, as tax-payers, assent to the issuance of the bonds as described in Section 1 hereof, the Mayor and Council shall proceed to the construction and maintenance of necessary water-works, and sufficient for the water supply and sufficiency of sufficient water supply to meet the necessary wants of the said City of Genesee and the inhabitants thereof; and also an ordinance for selling such bonds to defray the expense as incurred.

Summons.

In the District Court, Second Judicial District of the State of Idaho in and for the county of Latah.

MARY H. MORSE, Plaintiff,
Vs.
CHARLES H. MORSE, Defendant.

To Charles H. Morse, Defendant: The people of the State of Idaho send greeting:

You are hereby notified that there is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of said State, in Moscow, Latah County, Idaho, the complaint of the above named plaintiff in an action brought against you for the cause of general divorce as follows: Plaintiff prays that a decree be made and entered in his court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant and forever releasing them each from the other in relation thereto, giving the plaintiff the legal charge and control of the said Harry D. Morse, the minor child and decreeing that the said real and personal property be and remain the separate property of the plaintiff herein, and plaintiff prays for such other and further relief as seems to the court right and just, the particulars more fully appearing in Plaintiff's complaint on file in said office to which reference is hereby made.

And you are also notified that unless you appear and plead to said complaint within thirty days after the service hereof, if served within Latah county, and within twenty days if served out of said county, but within said Judicial District, and within sixty days if out of said district (exclusive of the day of service), the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief as prayed for in complaint.

Given under my hand and seal of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of the state of Idaho in and for Latah county, this 25th day of September, A. D. 1900.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1900.

MORRISON AND HEYBURN.

Hon. John T. Morrison, republican candidate for Congress, and Mart Patrie, candidate for secretary of state, will address the people of Genesee and vicinity on the issues of the day next Monday night, Oct. 15. If the weather will permit a torch light parade will be had.

Hon. W. B. Heyburn will speak in Genesee Monday night, Oct. 22nd. Mr. Heyburn's superior does not live in Idaho. Two fine speakers are coming and each should be given a large audience.

—Register now.

—Mrs. Thatcher is visiting Lewiston friends.

—Miller Fowler started Monday morning for coast points.

—T. Driscoll left yesterday for Spokane and other points.

—Chas. Swenson and family occupy the residence east of Mike Driscoll's.

—Geo. H. Hobson and his mother, Mrs. James Hobson, visited Moscow this week.

—Mrs. Martinson is living at Oakesdale; her household goods were shipped to her this week.

—J. S. Simmons has built a house for Mrs. Sanford in old town—18x24—neat and comfortable.

—Martin Mayer and mother and George Bultwinkle leave Monday for Humbolt, Cal., for a visit.

—The Congl church building is neat in appearance since Painter Standish got through with it.

—E. H. Warren, veterinary dentist, who will be in Genesee tomorrow, will be at the Lewiston fair next week.

—Fireman Gardner was this week transferred to the Lewiston-Kamiah run and L. C. Emfield transferred to this line.

—The display of fruit and vegetables for sale in the stores of Genesee excel the exhibits at many of the fairs in the eastern states.

—L. D. Martin was here Tuesday and in company with R. Pickering visited the country in the interest of the Deming loan company.

—W. J Herman's green house will be ready to receive plants in a short time. A fine building is being constructed for this purpose.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bru are living in the house recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Johnson. Mrs. Johnson is living with her people.

—Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Beck are very comfortably situated in their new residence. With a nice garden, plenty of chickens, hogs and cows they are not worrying about the cold blasts of winter.

—"Red" is acting mysteriously of late. Rumors and rumors. He went to Cul de Sac and now he's taking in the pumpkin show at Spokane. He should have somebody to look after him and give him Fits.

—The Rathbun Sisters will not hold their social tonight owing to the absence of a number of the members. It will be given two weeks later. The vote to disband was reconsidered and meetings will be held as usual for a time and an effort will be made to increase the interest and membership. Come out, members.

—Dr. J. L. Conant, Jr., returned from his trip to Boise Tuesday. He reports the capital city lively owing to the Inter-Mountain fair now in motion. Though these trips to attend the meetings of the state medical association at Boise are a little expensive, they must be made in order to keep well informed on the profession. On his way home the doctor ran into a nest of physicians at Colfax headed for Tekoa where a meeting was held. They surreptiously took the doctor along with them and a profitable time was had.

—Geo. W. Kays' new fruit-dryer and evaporator burned to the ground Saturday night. How the fire originated is a mystery. The night man was on duty, and about twenty minutes after he had taken off the prunes the fire was uncontrolable. It is certain the fire could not have started from the furnace. NEWS dislikes to believe that a night prowler in that vicinity mean enough to set the building on fire. The structure was brand new, well equipped for business and in operation only a few hours. Was partially insured. The loss will not only fall heavy on Mr. Kays but on the prune growers as well as another drier cannot be put up in time to save all the fruit in that locality.

—Mr. Oldag went to Kendrick the first of the week.

—Martin Sullivan spent the front part of this week in Genesee.

—J. H. Gentry and wife departed the first of the week for Wintersett, Iowa, on a visit.

—Rev. Chr. Anderson will conduct services in the Lutheran Chapel next Sunday at 11 o'clock.

—Martin Henry is making seats for the Jamison hall and in a few days it will be at the public's disposal.

—Mr. and Mrs. Darnell, of Lake Chelan, Wash., visited their daughter here this week, Mrs. Houghton.

—John Mertes has moved into town from the ranch and occupies his residence in the northern part of Genesee.

—The Indian trade has been quite good of late. They are sharp buyers and this shows that Genesee merchants are underselling those of neighboring towns.

—W. E. Gage intends starting for the Coeur d'Alene mining district in a few days where he will remain the coming winter and possibly next summer. He may move his family there.

—Dan Healey's team took a spin around the western suburbs on Tuesday last and succeeded in smashing the tongue of his wagon and damaging one horse. Too many oats, Daniel.

—The Methodist church will be formally dedicated and set apart for worship next Sunday at 11 a. m. Evangelist St. Clair of Pullman will preach the dedicatory sermon. The church people congratulate themselves upon being able to raise the $500 debt of eight years standing. The public is cordially invited to attend.

C. R. HOWARD, Pastor.

—The work on the Catholic school and parsonage is progressing rapidly under the supervision of Contractor Stelts. The masons are doing their work well and the painters will soon give the buildings the finishing touches. The school building will be well lighted and arranged and a great credit to the people constructing it.

—The case of the State vs. Carson came up on Tuesday in Judge Pickering's court. The defendant was arrested on a complaint made by Mrs. Carson for the purpose of putting him under bonds to keep the peace. By an agreement made by John L. Samsel representing the state and S. S. Denning and Mr. Quallior for the defendant the case was continued to November 26. In the mean time the defendant was allowed to go on his own recognizance.

—Good reports come from the meetings addressed by W. C. Fowler in the different sections of the county. He is doing good work. The Kendrick Times says the people there are highly pleased with the talks made by Messrs. Fowler, Brewer and H. R. Smith. The gentlemen do not abuse their opponents, but give attention to matters of importance to our people and country. These men are clean, capable, honest, and voters make no mistake in honoring them with their votes.

—Many young people are taking advantage of the fine schools here in the northwest. Genesee has excellent schools, and there are three fine colleges within a radius of twenty five miles, beside business institutions. These schools are all very largely attended. They are well equipped with excellent instructors and replete with all parahernalia that is today seems necessary in order to thoroughly clothe one for any office, occupation or position. In the commercial, shorthand, and the different departments of business —the bank, the wholesale, the transportation offices; agriculture, stock-raising, mining—all these are taught by competant instructors. Many of these will be taught by actual experiments which should commend itself to the young people who are thinking of securing business training. The young who can attend one of these schools, should certainly do so, in order to make their lives successful. As this is now a business world young persons are certainly unprepared for any vocation without business training. NEWS is always delighted to hear of and note the entering of its young readers at these schools. It means that they are on the right road and will be able to take care of themselves later on in life.

FARM LOANS.

Parties desiring to renew farm loans or to obtain new loans, can save money by obtaining my figures before closing contract.

10-11-1900. R. PICKERING.

—Gilbert Crawford went down to Pullman end of last week.

—Mrs. McDougall was at the Gage residence over Sunday from Colton.

—Win Howland was in Genesee from Moscow Saturday and Sunday. Monday he entered the University for the winter term.

—Mr. Simmons returned from the reservation a week ago and reports a heavy crop of grain and much threshing yet to be done.

—J. L. McCormack who has occupied the Johnson property in the west part of town the past two months, started for the mines on the Upper Clearwater.

—The weather has been fine and much seeding and plowing has been done the past two weeks. H. A. Thomas has fall wheat a couple of inches high and is looking fine.

—About seventy persons have registered in West Genesee and in East Genesee 200. Three weeks more—November 3rd—the books will close. The indication now is that there will be a fair vote this fall.

—A well attended meeting of the Ladies Aid Society was held yesterday at the parsonage. Plans were completed for the dinner and supper to be given on election day. Among the good things to be served for dinner will be an abundance of chicken pie.

—Raymond & Co. are getting in boxes and preparing to handle the fruit crop of this section in the best possible manner. Wholesalers write that the fruit from the Genesee house arrive in finer condition and sell more readily than that from most any other section. The lower freight rates give the eastern orchardists the advantage and allow them to sell their inferior stock.

—Stephen and Samuel Knudson, who returned from Nome last week, will attend the University this fall and winter and return north in the spring. Stephen paid the NEWS a visit and exhibited many views of the great tent city. He says there is lots of gold up there, but it will take time and machinery to get it. Of course many will return to the United States broke and disgusted with the country, but he thinks the honest laborer can make money up there.

—Many of the people of Genesee and vicinity are taking in the sights of the metropolis of the Palouse along with the fair. Almost every day the train bears sightseers to and from the city. NEWS is unable to get names of all the excursionists, but a few not previously reported, are: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Follett, Mr. and Mrs. John Reed, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Brown, Artist Hanson, Chas. Power, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gaiger, Geo. Ebel, Mrs Seymour and Myrtle Brown, Rev. Father Keyzer, Chas. Kennedy, Ralston Vollmer, Will Herman, Geo. McMahon.

How We Use up Our Forest.

It is estimated that it takes twenty-two acres of spruce land to furnish enough wood pulp paper to run a large metroplitan daily just two days. The writer who makes this statement deplores the time, when, at this rate, our forests will entirely disappear, and paper be very scarce and expensive. Meantime, the art of printing continues, because there are many truths the world should know; among others that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a cure for diseases of the stomach, such as dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, biliousness, insomnia and nervousness. This famous medicine has been the standard remedy of the American people for fifty years. Do not accept a substitute. The genuine has a private revenue stamp over the neck of bottle.

—See Means new ad.

—Mrs. Mathews, daughter of Mrs. Daggett, who underwent a surgical operation at Spokane a few weeks ago, is getting along nicely.

—Mr. Rosenstein is papering and otherwise repairing his tenement property in the west part of town. Henry J. Herman will occupy it and send his children to school.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Glidden recently purchased the Garrison ranch near Cornwall and moved thereon. The NEWS promised to keep them posted on the happenings of this vicinity for two dollars a year.

—Died, October 6, 1900, Alta, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Howton, aged 8 months and 11 days. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. C. R. Howard at the home of James Howton, on Monday, the 8th.

—The company controlling the Lewiston-Clarkston steel bride which is the largest on the coast, will, during fair week cut their rates for foot passengers, those in public conveyances and on horseback to half price or in exact figures to five cents per round trip. A view of this wonderful structure is well worth a visit to Lewiston alone.

—Burton L. French, one of the finest and most popular men in Latah county, who made an excellent record in the last legislature, was in Genesee yesterday, accompanied by J. R. Collins, republican nominee for sheriff. These gentlemen are canvassing the county together and report meeting with much encouragement. Straight boys, wideawake, and if honored with a majority of the votes on election day, we believe the people will never have cause for regret. They will hold forth in Genesee one week from tonight, Oct. 19.

Jewelry Cheap.

I will continue the low prices on my jewelry for a while longer. Goods must go! ED. WALTERS.

—Fresh bread for sale; will bake bread for parties and families on short notice. MRS. CARSON.

Take Warning.

You are hereby warned against buying barley ticket No. 127, dated Sept. 25, 1900, 35 sacks, weight 3320, issued to Charles Jain from the H. A. Thatcher warehouse. CHAS. JAIN.

Notice of Special Election.

Notice is hereby given, that a Special Election will be held in the City of Genesee, Idaho, on the 10th day of November, A. D. 1900, towit: In the First Ward at the office of R. Pickering, and in the Second Ward at Jamison Hall, for the purpose of voting for or against bonding the city of Genesee, Idaho, in the amount of $17,500, as proposed in Ordinance No. 50, passed and approved by the city council of said city, October 1, 1900, for the purpose of constructing a system of waterworks.

By order of the City Council.

R. PICKERING, City Clerk.

Dated October 3rd, 1900.

When you cannot sleep for coughing it is hardly necessary that any one should tell you that you need a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to allay the irritation of the throat, and make sleep impossible. It is good. Sold by all druggists.

Dr. Lemman will be out of town one week commencing Oct. 6. Call and get your work done or make engagements before he goes, thereby securing the low rates.

10 acres of land, house and barn, at Pine Grove school house, for sale. Inquire of Mrs. Rev. Harris, Genesee. A good orchard on the place.

BLACKSMITH COAL, IRON AND STEEL, at W. J. HERMAN'S.

It Happened in a Drug Store.

"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says C. R. Graudin, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her I could freely recommend Chamberlain Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cogh Remedy. I consider that a very good recommendation for the remedy." It is for sale by all druggists.

—When Mr. Bryan goes to New York on the 14th inst. he will meet with a very different reception from that which he experienced in 1896, when he first invaded "the enemy's country" and addressed such a chilling audience at Madison Square Garden. Next week when Bryan visits Gotham he will see a procession for which 134 bands will make the music. The escort to be 100,000 men under direction of Boss Croker who was in Europe in '96 when Bryan visited that city. Why this change. Bryan is the same chap now that he was four years ago. It is simply this: The Tammany boss has been assured, if democrats win, of the federal patronage of New York.

—A. Castel has received a check of $50 from Estes & Hines, snake farmers, Rochester, Minn., for 200 pounds of snakes. He has turned the job over to J. H. Jadine, who will catch and ship them. "There is nothing new under the sun"—except common water snakes being worth 25 cents a pound. We have millions of dollars worth in the town, and we wouldn't take an alfalfa ranch in trade for our front yard, unless the snake market takes a big slump.—Klamath, Ore., Falls Express. The water snakes were shipped by express from Ashland Sunday and will be used for the purpose of extracting the oil out of them. The 700 snakes in the above shipment were caught in three hours. They were all wadded up in the box and don't need any food.—Ashland, Ore., Record.

Motherhood ought always to bring happiness. But it is often the beginning of life-long unhappiness. As a preparation for motherhood, and as a preventive of the ills so often following maternity Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been hailed as a "God-send to women." It heals diseases peculiar to women, tones up the system, makes motherhood practically painless, and establishes the sound health which insures healthy children.

"During the past year I found myself pregnant and in rapidly failing health," writes Mrs. W. J. Kidder, of Hill Dale Farm, Broseburg Center), Rhoshurg, Vt. "I suffered dreadfully from bloating and urinary difficulty. I was growing perceptibly weaker each day and suffered much sharp pain at times. I felt that something must be done. I sought your advice and received a prompt reply. I took twelve bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and also followed your instructions. I began to improve immediately, my health became excellent, and I could do all my own work (we live on a good sized farm). I walked and rode all I could, and enjoyed it. I had a short easy confinement and have a healthy baby boy."

—In educating a boy it is well to look after his fitness for certain vocations in life. See that he tries to educate himself along lines that are in harmony with his liking, and don't try to make a farmer out of a boy that has little taste for farming even tho' he has been brought up on a farm. A man succeeds better when he likes his vocation.

—"England is the best friend we have got in Europe, and we are the only friend she's got on earth. No one ventures to suggest a formal offensive and defensive alliance, but it is to our mutual interest that sentiment along that line should grow in the hearts of our people. The time is coming when each of the two great peoples will need it in their business. It is not of my line to be pessimistic, but I think that the Chinese concert, which has already become a comedy, is likely to end in a tragedy. When the crash comes it will be best for England, best for America and best for the world that the union jack and the stars and stripes should wave together."—Said Mark Twain last week, as a result of his observation during his long residence in Europe.

HON. J. T. MORRISON IN GENESEE

A rousing republican rally was held in Genesee Monday evening and was addressed for nearly two hours by Hon. John T. Morrison, candidate for Congress. The audience was the largest political gathering held in Genesee this year.

The republicans started the ball rolling by giving a torch-light procession during which time main street was lit up by red fire. The men in line carried transparancies, appropriate and comical, which created considerable merriment all along the line of march.

At the outset Mr. Morrison stated that this was his 36th meeting this fall and had been accorded fine receptions everywhere. He began by saying that the real issue of this campaign was not a mere contest between candidates, nor scarcely between parties, but whether the splendid achievements of McKinley's administration should be set aside and the reins of the government turned over to the opposing elements—democrats, populists and others who differ in their platforms but fuse for office. Stated that the republican party is one of affirmation and progression—took hold of the reins of the nation in the darkest hour of its history, pushed the war to a successful ending, and ever since has met the new issues in a creditable manner until today our country is the marvel of the world. Only once, in Cleveland's time, did our country take a backward step—hard times came and the country suffered. His picture of the graveyard wherein lie buried the democratic bugaboos—under the daisies "Abolition," "Centraliza tion," "Force Bill," "Gold Bug," and the grave was already dug for "Militarism," had its effect.

Mr. Morrison stated that no sooner was McKinley placed in the chair when he called a session of congress and had passed the Dingley tariff bill from which time the mills and factories commenced to hum, idle men employed, price of our products advanced and new markets established in foreign countries—statistics proved his assertions and were enough to open the eyes of any person. He also referred to the fact that under McKinley's administration the per capita circulation had increased $6, raising it from $21 to $27. Four years ago the populists said if the circulation was increased to $25 we would have good times, and wanted to know what they had to say now.

The hall was full to the door and every person present gave the speaker their full attention. The democrats liked the appearance of Mr. Morrison and found not a word of fault with his address. He stated facts within the knowledge of everybody and in such a way as to convince all who were open to conviction. Gave a clear and comprehensive exposition of republican principles. Mr. Morrison has a pleasing appearance, is intelligent, clean, and will compare favorably with any of his colleagues in the next Congress.

Give John T. Morrison your vote on November 6.

WATER-WORKS.

MR. EDITOR:—The thought has occurred to me, that perhaps interest in our local affairs was being almost entirely absorbed in the political contest now engaging our attention. While we are undoubtedly concerned to a greater or less extent in the outcome in the present political campaign, yet we should bear in mind, that our homes will still remain in our little city, regardless of whatever decision may be rendered at the polls on the 6th day of November, and we should not lose sight of those local questions which are of so vital interest to us, individually and collectively as citizens and taxpayers of Genesee.

The leading question before us locally, and which the Mayor and Council have provided for submission and decision of the taxpayers, in the passage and approval of Ordinance No. 50, in the matter of bonding our city in the sum of $17,500 for the construction of a system of water-works. It could scarcely be expected that a majority, or even any great number of our citizens would be entirely willing to risk passing judgment upon so vital a question, without having some data from which to form an opinion.

It has been urged by some of our good people, that the sum provided for in the Ordinance will be only a starter, and that the expenditure of the above amount will leave us with a system incomplete, and insufficient to meet the demands required. In a future communication we will submit figure which we think will be sufficient to convince the most skeptical, that the proposed improvement can be placed for a sum well within the limits of the amount of funds provided for in the bonding proposition.

It certainly appears, that the interest we should center in our home surroundings would be sufficient inducement for us to put forth every energy, to place our city in line with the enterprising cities of the Palouse country, thereby offering an inducement to intending investors to cast their lot with us, in the end, that it may still more redound to the credit of its citizens as being a community of beautiful homes, made so by the enterprise and public spirit of its people.

As a supporter of the proposition before us, I am not so for the purpose of obtaining a luxury, but rather the necessities and convenience of life. It certainly is our duty as heads of families to render the labor and responsibilities of those who care for our households, as light and agreeable as possible, to save the weary steps and tired hands of our wives and daughters. It is also our duty as parents to make our home surroundings bright and cheerful with the green foliage and bright colors provided by nature for our enjoyment. Interest our children in the cultivation of beautiful flowers and green lawns, and the memory of the home of childhood days will linger long after their heads are whitened with age. ANON.

STEUNENBERG, our excellent governor, is doing nothing—saws wood and winks the other eye.

FOR the information of the Kendrick Gazette we will state that Hon. Willis Sweet is making a red hot campaign down in Custer and Lemhi counties. Give us something hard.

BRYAN was called down last week by Acting Secretary of War Meiklejohn on the Sultan of Sulu proposition which some of our local orators should read:

MR. BRYAN:—In the press reports yesterday of your address at Tipton, Ind., in which you refer to the overof human slavery in the United States resulting from the success of the armies of the Union, you are also reported as saying in that connection: "We fought then for the adoption of a constitutional amendment that provided that no man could own a slave, and yet before the Philippine war is ended we have the Sulu treaty, which recognizes slavery."

Permit me to invite your attention to the following extract from the letter of the Secretary of War to Major General E. S. Otis, commanding the United States forces in the Philippines, under date of Oct. 27, 1900:

"The President instructs me to advise you that the agreement signed Aug. 27, 1899, between Brigadier General John C. Bates, representing the United States of the one part, the Sultan of Jolo, the Dato Rajah Muda, the Dado Mattik, the Dato Calbi and the Dato Joakanin, of the other part, is confirmed and approved, subject to the action of Congress provided for in the clause of the treaty of peace between the United States and Spain, which provides that the civil rights and the political status of the native inhabitants of the territory hereby ceded to the United States shall be determined by Congress, and with the understanding and reservation which should be distinctly communicated to the Sultan of Jolo, that this agreement is not to be complied in any way to authorize or give the consent of the United States to the existence of slavery in the Sulu archipelago, a thing which is made impossible by the 13th amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

It is probably unnecessary to call your attention to the fact that in the absence of the approval of the President it is impossible for us to have a "Sulu treaty" or any other treaty.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver, of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in the back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c., guaranteed, at Kennedy's store.

A PROMINENT Genesee democrat received a letter from an influential man at the head of one of the departments in Washington, D. C., in which he speaks of Senator Shoup: "He is one of nature's noblemen. He possesses a great influence here, being chairman of committee on Territories, and a member of committee on Military Affairs. For the good of Idaho he should be returned." As the men on the republican legislative ticket are men of character and standing, they should receive a rousing vote. The recipient of the above mentioned letter is for Shoup and will do all in his power for the republican legislative ticket.

BUYS in New York on the general result are very few. The Herald, an independent paper, says $3 to $1 are offered that McKinley will win with no takers. The Tribune in a lengthy editorial, after receiving advices from every state in the Union, concludes as follows: "With election day still four weeks ahead President McKinley's probable vote in the Electoral College seems to stand at 269 and Colonel Bryan's at 142, with the thirty-six votes of Kentucky, Indiana and Nebraska still in the balance." All of the members of the Cleveland cabinet excepting one are working for McKinley—Carlisle, Morton of Nebraska, Lamont, Vilas, Bissell, Hoke Smith, Fairchilds, Don M Dickinson; also Gen. Bragg, ex-Controller of Currency James Eckels—all disciples of Jefferson, Jackson and Benton.

COL. BRYAN is taking a tumble to himself Now admits there are some good trusts. Recently he gave utterance as follows: "The democratic party makes no war upon honestly acquired wealth; neither does it seek to embarrass corporations engaged in legitimate business." Bryan changed front on many questions during the past few years—trusts, expansion, silver and on other questions. Anything to catch votes. Now if Bryan will go back to the Sherman anti-trust law and investigate, he will see that many concerns were driven out of existence by relentless prosecution under republican administrations; since which time corporations have formed under other forms. To subdue the bad trusts an amendment to the constitution must be had. A bill to strengthen the Sherman anti trust law was unanimously passed by the republicans in the lower house of congress, but solidly opposed by the opposition. We have thus seen how factitious and absurd are Mr. Bryan's attempts to make a party issue out of the trusts—why he has found it necessary to arraign the republican party which has always been far in advance of the democratic in all legislation looking to the restraint of trusts or consolidated aggregations of capital. It makes us smile when he says that there are "some corporations engaged in legitimate business."

As to Chinese Arbitration.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The Russian suggestion that the international court of arbitration of the Hague be given jurisdiction over divergencies of views arising on the question of Chinese indemnities was submitted to Secretary Hay by M. De Wollant, the Russian charge in Washington, in a note on October 3. It has received the adherence of the American, French and Russian governments, thus giving the suggestion the approval of three of the foremost powers, and strong assurance o its general adoption.

M. De Wollant's note has not yet been made public. It can be stated, however, that it was the result of extended exchanges between the French and Russian governments relative to the six proposals in the French note. It expressed approval of the various proposals and then added the new suggestion relative to giving the Hague tribunal jurisdiction of indemnity in case there should be divergence of views.

Give News Too Soon.

London, Oct. 15.—No words can express too strongly the irritation of the British foreign office over the latest developments in the Chinese situation and its hopelessness of any settlement being arrived at in the near future exceeds if anything its irritation, the chief cause of which, to quote an official, is the extraordinary and unreasonable publicity given diplomatic communications even before they are officially known to the other powers.

America, according to the view taken by the official, whose opinion may be presumed to be Lord Salisbury's, is among the offenders in this respect. "How," continued the informant of the Associated Press, "can we be expected to arrive at conclusions when the Chinese are given the opportunity of knowing every step in the negotiations, which in themselves are as intricate as the world has seen. The advantage which this unprecedented publicity has given the Chinese can not be over-estimated.

Queen Greatly Worried.

The critical condition of the Dowager Empress Frederica of Germany is causing grave anxiety in England, not only on her own account, but through the effect of her death on Queen Victoria. The loss of her son, the duke of Edinburgh, and her cousin, the duchess of Teck, and the terrible death roll in South Africa have tried the queen sorely. Another family loss, it is feared, might wrench to the breaking point the wonderful fortitude of Great Britain's ruler. It is said she is already much upset and strongly desirous to go to the bedside of her eldest daughter. But the queen's physicians are endeavoring to dissuade her.

STRIKERS TO ACCEPT RAISE

WITH TWO PROVISIONS MADE.

Must Be No Sliding Scale—Scale to Extend to Next April—Will Extend Strike Unless Accepted by Mine Operators.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 15.—The anthracite coal miners now on strike, after a two days' convention, have decided to accept the 10 per cent net increase of wages offered by the mine-owners providing they will continue the payment of the advance until next April and will abolish the sliding scale. If the operators consider the proposition unacceptable the miners are willing to arbitrate the questions at issue. They also decided to continue the strike until the operators agree to the convention's proposition. The resolution is as follows:

"We, your committee, respectfully submit the following preamble and resolutions for your consideration:

"Whereas, The anthracite coal operators have posted notices offering an advance of 10 per cent over wages formerly paid and have signified their willingness to adjust grievances with their employes;

"Whereas, They have failed to specify the length of time this advance would remain in force, and have also failed to abolish the sliding scale method of determining wages, we would recommend:

"That this convention accept an advance of 10 per cent providing the operators will continue its payment until April 1, 1901, and will abolish the sliding scale in the Lehigh and Schuylkill regions, the scale of wages in the two last-named districts to remain stationary at 10 per cent above the present basis price, and that the companies will agree to adjust other grievances complained of with committees of their own employes.

"Should this proposition be unacceptable to the operators, we recommend that the convention propose that all questions at issue be submitted to a fair and impartial board of arbitration.

"We would further recommend that under no circumstances whatever shall there be a resumption of work at any of the collieries until the operators signify their acceptance of this proposition and you are notified officially that the strike is ended, and all return to work in a body on the same day."

Judging by the unanimity of the miners in accepting the above resolutions and by the determined stand taken by the operators, it is generally believed that a long contest between the strikers and the mine-owners is not unlikely. There was great enthusiasm in the convention when the counter-proposition to the operators was carried, and three cheers were given for President Mitchell. The resolutions were drafted by a committee of 13 appointed at the morning session, of which the national president was chairman.

Later.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 15.—A canvass of the operators of the Wyoming valley today shows there is considerable opposition to granting the miners any more concessions than those outlined in the original offer, namely: 10 per cent increase without any conditions. The individual operators especially are opposed to tieing themselves up to any agreement. One operator said the only way the strike can be settled is for the strikers to accept the 10 per cent without any provisions.

Superintendent Charles of the Lehigh Coal company said: "Not much dependence can be placed on the men when it comes to arbitration. This was shown in the case of Mr. Markle. He favored abitration, but at the behest of Mr. Mitchell his miners repudiated their agreement with their employer. The demand of the strikers that the operators should agee to pay the increased wages for a fixed period is too arbitrary, and the operators will hardly agree to it."

Despite the views of the operators the impression here is that the strike will be ended this week.

Shamokin, Pa., Oct. 14.—The terms of the Scranton convention are not acceptable to operators and representatives of coal carrying companies in this place and Mount Carme. The Reading officials do not think the sliding scale will be abolished by the company, while operators are averse to signing a contract binding them to pay the 10 per cent increase until April. No orders have been received as yet from headquarters of any companies instructing superintendents to resume work tomorrow. Miners say they will not go to work until officially advised by President Mitchell.

O. R. & N. Makes Low Rates.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 15.—General Passenger Agent Hurlburt of the O. R. & N. has received advices that its connections through Huntington had agreed to the new settlers' rate put on by the northern lines. This opens all the Pacific northwest to the new rates, making them available from Chicago and Missouri river points through either Huntington or Spokane. The new rate will go into effect next Tuesday.

A Dayton cigar manufacturer was fined $50 and costs for violating the child labor law.

Trade Report.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade for last week says:

More seasonable weather has had an important influence throughout the country, but the coal strike continued as a restraining factor in business. As speculation everywhere is on a small scale, the effect is minimized. Lower prices recently for some iron products have been without disturbing force, and the firm market for print cloths and strong quotations for lumber, show that in some directions in the great industries a small increase in demand is capable of raising prices. The situation still promise a recovery when politics and the strike are settled. Distribution of merchandise at the west is still active. The working force is increasing steadily, and in railroad and manufacturing circles in the middle west scarcity of labor is causing uneasiness. Fear of tight money has made some men hesitate, but higher rates result from the activity of the movement of cotton at high prices in the south. At the moment the movement of gold from Europe has tended to releve the tension in New York, and gold is still coming in from Australia.

Pig iron production has been further reduced, according to the Iron Age. On October 1 the weekly capacity of furnaces in blast was 223,169 tons, against 231,778 September 1 and 296,376 June 1. Stocks at furnaces continue to accumulate, gaining 36,841 tons in September. A gratifying feature is the evidence that supplies in consumers' hands are low. Quotations of iron products are steady, and foreign buying continues, two contracts of importance being placed. Pipe makers are buying quantities of pig iron, while car and ship-builders are also urgent bidders for material. Much disappointment was apparent among cotton traders when the official crop report appeared, for the anticipation of a gloomy report had put the price up to 11 cents. When the statement indicated a point improvement in Texas in September prices dropped sharply.

Wheat also declined without the aid of a government report. Domestic conditions are generally satisfactory, and foreign crop news cheerful. Atlantic exports in two weeks amounted to 4,861,761 bushels, against 6,177,149 bushels last year.

Shipments of boots and shoes from Boston at the rate of 88,415 cases weekly mean the most active business since April and exceed the heavy forwardings of last year. Improvement is general, with orders from all parts of the country and frequent requests for immediate shipments. Leather is sharing in the increased activity at the chops, and the average price of hides at Chicago advanced ¼ per cent.

Sales of wool at the three chief eastern markets steadily increased, reaching 3,947,000 pounds, against 3,417,265 the preceding week. There is no such speculation as a year ago, but the sales go into the mills immediately. Prices are not affected by figures at the London sales, which had been discounted.

Failures for the week were 222 in the United States, against 194 last year, and 23 in Canada, against 27 last year.

Wheat.

Portland.—In the local wheat market there is not much doing, and most of the exporters dropped their limits back to 54c and 54½c, the latter being quoted as an extreme figure for Walla Walla. Bluestem is easy at 57c and 57½c.

Tacoma.—Market decidedly weak and 1c lower. Bluestem, 57c; club, 54c.

Operators in Convention.

Scranton, Oct. 16.—A conference of the individual coal operators and the general mining superintendents of the coal-carrying roads was in session Monday afternoon behind closed doors. It was attended by all the representative mining interests of the Wyoming and Lackawanna valleys.

The only feature that the operators and their superintendents here dislike is the failure of the miners to incorporate the powder question in their proposal. This being left undecided will tend to keep the matter on edge for several days at least, and is regarded as a possible source of trouble in the future.

President Mitchell of the United Mine-Workers will leave Scranton this afternoon for Hazleton, but before he goes he may be in possession of some important news relative to the strike situation.

Yerkes in London.

New York, Oct. 15.—Charles T. Yerkes, the financier and former owner of Chicago street railway systems, returned to America today on the steamship Deutschland.

Mr. Yerkes was asked for some details of the $5,000,000 Charing Cross underground railroad franchise which he secured while in London.

"All I care to say has already been printed," answered Mr. Yerkes. "Of course, in a way, the London deal was what I might term my masterpiece. I really cannot say when the road will be completed. Some of the contracts have been let, and the work of construction will be promptly begun."

Advanced on the Calendar.

Washington, Oct. 16.—The supreme court has granted motions advancing the Neely cases and the cases involving the question of extension of the constitution over the Philippines and Porto Rico to the second Wednesday in November. A number of minor decisions were handed down today.

Believed to Be Murderer.

Philipsburg, Mont., Oct. 16.—Miss Amanda Fairman, a prominent young lady here, was found dead in her room, having been shot with a shotgun. A shotgun was lying on the table. The suicide theory is denied and it is believed she was murdered.

Albert R. Green of the general land office has been selected as chief of the new division of forestry of the interior authorized by congress.

MINES AND MINING NEWS

OUR NORTHWESTERN MINES.

Items Gleaned From Late Reports—All Districts Are Being Developed—A Prosperous Year Is Predicted—Mining Notes and Personals.

The rail makers in reducing steel rails from $35 to $26, a reduction of about 25 per cent, open up for themselves a market for, in round figures, 2,000,000 tons of rails, or the bulk of the rails that will be needed for the foreseen requirements of 1901. As to the reduction itself, it is a sham. The railmakers could have gone $4 more and made rates $22 and yet pile up profits faster than any other industry on the American continent except the Standard Oil company.

Republic.

A shaft is to be sunk on the Accident claim to 50 feet depth.

The work of hauling ore from the No. 3 tunnel of the Republic has commenced.

The Gold Leaf, near Republic, has started preliminary development on a small scale. A 50-foot tunnel is to be the first work done.

Another carload of ore is being shipped to the smelter from the Morning Glory.

Ten feet of ore on the east ledge of the Mountain Lion assayed $23.40. This is on an entirely new opening.

The long tunnel on the Review mine in the Myers Creek district, near Chesaw, is reported to be nearing the ledge.

The Gold Ledge showed rich rock last week. It was sampled by Frank Raborg. An 18-inch streak went $418.99, and four feet of the balance, $15.28.

The Quilp is sacking ore and will send a carload by wagon to Grand Forks at once. This is to be the first of regular wagon shipments to the smelter if it proves a success.

One of the bigest deals that has yet been made in Republic properties is now pending. It is the transfer of the Tom Thumb mine to a Canadian company and from them into English hands.

The sampler at the Republic mill is now running at full speed. It crushes 25 tons an hour, or one-third more than the estimated capacity. It is estimated that by running it 12 hours daily it will keep the mill fully supplied. The ore is crushed to about half-inch pieces. It is then elevated to a revolving screen and all that will not pass through it is returned to be recrushed in another machine to the required fineness. From the sampler it is conveyed to the mill for treatment by elevated tram.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

A 10-stamp mill is to be erected at once on the Referendum, on Forty-nine creek, Nelson district, and work will be resumed at once.

The wagon road which the government is building up Toby creek is nearly completed to Spring creek, and it is one of the finest ore roads ever built in Canterbury mountain country.

The government has started surveyors up Horse Thief creek and an appropriation of $10,000 for a wagon road up the creek has been made. The grade of ore throughout the camp is exceptionally high, the average galena running over 60 ounces in silver.

An extraordiny special meeting of the sharedolders of the Broken Hill Mining and Development Company, limited, was held at the office of the company at Ymir, when it was decided not to accept the offer made by a French syndicate for the taking over of the property of this company.

The output from the Rossland camp has been diminished, as the LeRoi No. 2 has stopped shipping altogether for the present and will not resume until the plants at the smelter and at the Le Roi are in a sufficient state of preparedness to allow of resumption. It is probable that one or two irregular shipments may be made from time to time, but the output from the Le Roi No. 2 has practicaly ceased for the present.

MINING NOTES.

There are marked signs of a revival in the pioneer mining camp of Washington, the Bonanza district in Stevens county, a few miles from Bossburg.

One of the mining regions of the northwest around which clusters more history and romance than almost any other is the John Day valley in Grant county, Oregon.

The members of the Brokers' association at Spokane and the machinery men gave a banquet to the mineral exhibitors of the fruit fair and the members of the Royal Marine band of Italy on last Friday evening.

J. H. Hays has returned to Troy, Idaho, from Bear creek, where he has been doing some development work on the Victor mine. Mr. Hays shows samples of the ore which contain free gold that can be seen with the naked eye.

The Venus Gold Mining company, which is operating the Venus mine, on Morning mountain, about three miles from Nelson, has just discovered that the mine contains a great wealth of the metal uranium the market price of which is $6 per pound.

W. L. Vinson of Sumpter fame, and one of the founders of that camp, has just made the biggest strike of the season in his Carrol B. mine, Virtue district, 12 miles southeast of Baker City and 2½ miles from Letson Balliet's White Swan mine.

The first strike in any of the mines of Butte for some time occurred last week, when the engineers of the Gagnon mine, one of the properties of the Amalgamated company, went out. They are still out and the prospect is that they will stay out. They struck for $5 per day instead of the $4 they have been receiving.

A mineral product of somewhat unusual character for this country is gypsum, a valuable deposit of which in the Burnt River district, a short distance west of Huntington, Ore., is represented by specimens in the mineral tent of the Spokane exposition.

"Canada will produce $50,000,000 in gold in 1900," said a well known mining engineer. "Klondike will produce $35,000,000, British Columbia about $12,000,000, and the rest of the country $3,0000,000." I am inclined to think this estimate is not so far astray as the first glance might seem to indicate.

Of the several districts of Washington that have mintral exhibits at the Spokane exposition probably the best represented is Okanogan county. Though some of the samples were exhibited before, there are a large number of new ones, and the developments of the last year in many parts of the county make the exhibit of particular interest to mining men.

The lower tunnel in the Congress group, on Bridge creek, in the South Half, in Washington, has reached the ledge, and the values are fully as high as the rich returns secured from the upper workings, according to Barney Quinn, a well-known prospector, who has been in this country for many years.

The final payment on the Free Coinage mine has been made. The property adjoins the Golconda in the Cable Grove district, near Baker city, Ore. The property has 125 foot shaft and 190 feet of drifts. The force will be increased and development work pushed rapidly.

Contrary to general expectations, September was one of the liveliest months of the present year in mining throughout the Palmer mountain district. The number of working properties has increased, and several new companies were incorporated and will begin development in the near future.

Of the total number of instruments filed with the county recorder at Wallace, Idaho, during the year, about one-half come in during the last quarter, nearly all the proofs of labor on mining claims being filed during that time. This class of papers is beginning to come in freely, and the total number of filings for the past week was swelled to 94, the aggregate valuation being $126,419.36. Of the 22 deeds but four for $1 each. Three patents were also recorded.

At Jerome, Ariz., miners employed on the 50-foot level of the great United Verde copper mine noticed the ground giving way over their heads. The alarm was immediately given, and in a short time the 300 men employed in the mine were taken to the surface without injury. The sink extended in succession to the various levels of the mine until the top was reached, the sunken ground showing that about 300 feet square had been affected. The railroad, with a train of cars, was low. boiler and blacksmith shops were all badly damaged. The foundry was also lowered some ten feet. Work is in progress repairing the damage.

MONTANA STATE MINE SIGNALS.

1 bell hoist, 1 bell stop (if in motion.)

2 bells lower men, 3 bells hoist men.

4 bells, blasting signal, engineer must answer by raising bucket a few feet and letting it fall back slowly.

Then 1 bell hoist men away from blast.

5 bells steam on, 6 bells stem off.

7 bells air on, 8 bells air off. 3-2-2 send down drills. 3-2-3 send down picks.

9 bells danger signal (case of fire or other danger), then ring the number of station where danger exists. No person shall ring any signal bell except the station tender, except in case of danger, or when the main shaft is being sunk. Engineers must slow up when passing stations when men are on the cage.

New York, Oct. 13.—A dispatch from Rome says:

The anarchist Bertollani, arrested at Milan as a suspected accomplice of Bresci, has made a confession about anarchist plots.

"I have known these plots for a long time," he said. "It was I who sent the letter to the crown prosecutor at Naples warning him in advance that Italian anarchists were coming from America to kill the king, but they paid no attention to my letter.

"At an anarchist meeting in Paterson, N. J., seven men were selected to kill kings and chiefs of states. One of them was alloted to kill McKinley or Bryan during the presidential campaign. I do not know the name of the man who was assigned to this duty.

"The recent Chicago plot was independent of that hatched at Paterson. I believe other plots having the same object have been organized in the United States.

"Anarchists have killed kings and queens, now they should kill a president of a republic to show the world that for anarchists there are neither monarchies nor republics, and that a king is as cheap as a president."

The situation in the anthracite coal fields presents no change, except that the ranks of the miners are more solidified than ever. The rumors of concessions on the part of some operators are still afloat, with evident view of determining the weakness of the strikers. The union men, however, are firmly standing for their original demands and are loyally adhering to their unions.

The Label League of Chicago is preparing to go before the next convention of the American Federation of Labor with a proposition that a universal label be adopted, to be put on all goods manufactured by union men, believing that it is a better method of securing union conditions in all branches of industry.

THE MELANCHOLY DAYS OF SCHOOL.

CHILDREN RENEW ACQUAINTANCE WITH THEIR TEACHER.

ALWAYS TELL MOTHER.

Always tell mother. She's willing to bear,
Willing to listen to tales of despair.
Tell her when trials and troubles assail;
Seek her for comfort when sorrows prevail.
Take mother's hand when temptations entice;
Ask her for counsel; seek mother's advice.

Always tell mother. In mother confide;
Foster no secrets from mother to hide.
Train your thoughts nobly, nor let your lips speak
Words that would kindle a blush on her cheek.
Mother stands ready her aid to impart,
Open to mother the door of your heart.

Always tell mother. Your joys let her share;
Lift from her shoulders their burdens of care;
Brighten her pathway; be gentle and kind;
Strengthen the ties of affection that bind.
Tell her you love her; look up in her face;
Tell her no other can take mother's place.

Always tell mother. When dangers betide,
Mother, if need be, will die by your side.
Though you be sunken in sin and disgrace,
Mother will never turn from you her face.
Others may shun you, but mother, your friend,
Stands, ever ready, to shield and defend.
Mother's devotion is always the same.
Softly, with reverence, breathe mother's name.

THE KING OF HEARTS.

THE bright spring sunshine was pouring in at the window, flecking with gold the hair of a young girl who stood gazing at a photograph in a heart-shaped silver frame, which held the place of honor on the mantelpiece. Her thoughts were evidently far away from her surroundings, as she failed to hear footsteps approaching, and was only recalled to herself by the maid announcing "Captain Stewart." A flush of burning color swept over Elsie's face, and quick as thought she snatched the heart-shaped frame from its place, and holding it in her left hand, advanced to meet a tall, fair man, whose pale face showed signs of recent illness, and who carried his right arm in a sling.

"Why, Jack!" she said, "I had no idea you were in London; did the doctors give you permission to travel?"

Her pretty face was still flushed, and after answering her questions as to his health, Jack Stewart felt a difficulty in returning to their old friendly footing; there was a subtle difference in her manner to him that made him vaguely uneasy.

So it was more by way of conversation than a desire for information that Jack asked, laughingly:

"And who is the 'King of Hearts' now? Roberts, Kitchener or Buller?" Then as his glance fell on the vacant place on the mantel-piece, he started and said, more seriously:

"'The King of Hearts' not in his accustomed place! What is the meaning of this, Elsie?"

Once more a blush swept from brow to chin, and Elsie, averting her eyes, remained silent. Then it was that caught sight of the frame in her left hand.

"Why, you have it there!" he said in astonishment. "May I not see your new hero?" Then, Elsie remaining silent, with his free hand, gently took the frame from her unresisting clasp, and without looking at it, laid it face downward on a table near, and, resuming his seat by her side, looked at her with troubled eyes.

But three short months had passed since he had sat in that room, and had learned from her lips that though she did not love him, she loved no one else; and he had started off to South Africa with his regiment, buoyed up with hopes of ultimately gaining her love. A month ago he had been invalided home, and as soon as his doctors had pronounced it safe for him to travel he had come straight to Elsie, only to find she had a secret from him that bade fair to lessen his hopes. From childhood Elsie had been a hero-worshiper of the most ardent kind, and had a collection of her heroes' photographs that would fill a good-sized album. On her fifteenth birthday Jack had given her a heart-shaped photo frame, which was destined to contain her hero of the moment, who was laughingly dubbed by Jack the "King of Hearts."

Many and various were the faces he had seen in that frame, but now he feared that the real king had come, who would not only retain undisputed possession of the photo frame, but would also reign in Elsie's heart.

With a visible effort Jack Stewart roused himself from his painful thoughts, and turning to Elsie said:

"As I may not see your new hero, perhaps you will tell me about him?"

"Anything you ask me, except his name," she replied, meeting his gaze for the first time.

"He is a soldier, of course?"

"Yes," she answered quietly.

"Good-looking."

"Very good-looking," she said earnestly, but with averted face.

Jack, feeling his fears confirmed by her tone, went on hurriedly:

"Well, we have got this far, at any rate; he is physically perfect."

"I did not quite say that," she said, looking mischievously at him.

"No doubt you mean that. What about his character. Do you know him very well?"

"I have known him a long while," she answered demurely.

"And I have not even heard of him," he exclaimed in astonishment.

"But it is only lately that he—that I——"

"That you have started a mutual admiration society," he interrupted, rather bitterly.

"Not quite that, Jack," she rejoined, giving him a queer little smile. "But what else would you like to know about him?" Her former embarrassment had left her, and she was quietly attentive to his words.

"Is he renowned for his brains, or for bravery only?"

"His intellectual faculties are quite above the average," she returned, flashing a merry look at him.

He was puzzled by her manner, and continued rather lamely:

"It is his bravery then, that has gained him your favor?"

"He is the truest, bravest and best man in the world," she answered, with earnest, shining eyes.

"Elsie!" it was almost a cry. He rose from his seat and turned away from her.

"What is it, Jack?" she asked; and going over to him she made him look at her. Something in his face frightened her, and she said again: "What is it?"

"Oh, nothing," he answered; "only I conclude this to be your way of telling me that all is over between us."

"That depends on you, Jack," she said softly.

"I wish it did," he answered sadly, but incredulously.

"But it does, Jack. Look at that photograph."

It was almost a command, so he, with evident reluctance, took up the frame and looked at the face within it.

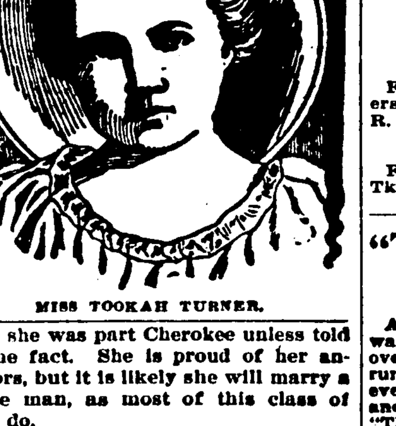
"Elsie!" and that one word contained a mingling of relief, wonder and, above all, joy.

For it was his own face that looked up at him out of the heart-shaped frame.—The Penny Pictorial Magazine.

SWELL INDIAN GIRL.

Miss Tookah Turner, a Highly Accomplished Quarter-Breed Cherokee.

The most beautiful Indian girl in the West, according to photographers, is Miss Tookah Turner. She is a quarter-breed Cherokee girl, and lives at Muskogee, I. T. Her father is a wealthy merchant. He is a white man, while her mother is a Cherokee Indian. Miss Turner is highly accomplished, having graduated from several colleges and schools of music and art. She is considered the swellest dresser of any of the girls of the Cherokee tribe, and that is saying a great deal. Some of her clothes are made in Paris. She has a fine collection of diamonds and jewelry. Miss Turner has none of the features of an Indian, and one would not believe she was part Cherokee unless told of the fact. She is proud of her ancestors, but it is likely she will marry a white man, as most of this class of girls do.



MISS TOOKAH TURNER.

Having an Easier Affair.

Haying is now a far different affair from what it was half a century ago when nearly all the work was done by hand with much bigger crews of men than are now found in the field. Two men will harvest as large a crop now as half a dozen could then and do it in much less time. The work is less picturesque than in the old days, but it is easier and the crop is secured in better condition. It used to take a month or more for the average farmer to get his hay, but now a period of two weeks sees the greater part of the crop under cover and in many cases the owner of the small farm finds a week sufficient for the task.

Favorite Food for Animals.

Sea lions, seals, walruses and pelicans are fed on fish when in captivity; monkeys, young lions and hippopotami drink milk—a full-grown hippopotamus will absorb fifteen quarts of milk in a day. Polar bears live on bread; monkeys like fruit.

Though men do a share of the world's creditable deeds, when it is said of them "Just like a man," nothing complimentary is intended.

When an old maid knows how to smooth a man's plumage, an ideal wife is lost to the world.

—One week from tomorrow, Oct 27, there will be offered for sale at Moscow by the state land board, a large amount of agricultural and timber land, all situated in Latah county, the timber lying along the Potlatch. The timber land was offered for sale last August at an appraisement ranging from $1 25 to $1.75 per 1000 feet, but as the appraisement was considered to high by timber men, there were no bidders, and a new appraisement was made, as follows: White pine 95 cent per 1,000 feet; yellow pine 75 cents; red fir 75 cents. On the same day there will be offered 32 40 acre tracts of school land, the appraisement for which runs from $10 to $45 per acre. This is agricultural land and the first year's interest and 10 per cent of the purchase price is due on the day of sale.

Both dormitories are full. The attendance thus far is the largest in the history of the institution for such an early date.

The Normal students are anticipating a holiday lasting through Thursday and Friday. The trustees have granted them this privilege in order that they may attend the Fair across the river.

The Normal Athletic Association is thoroughly organized and will play a game of foot ball on Friday, Oct. 19, at Moscow with the U. of I. team. The Normal boys are very confident that they will prove too much for the Varsity team.

Blood.

We live by our blood, and on it. We thrive or starve, as our blood is rich or poor.

There is nothing else to live on or by.

When strength is full and spirits high, we are being refreshed, bone muscle and brain, in body and mind, with continual flow of rich blood.

This is health.

When weak, in low spirits, no cheer, no spring, when rest is not rest and sleep is not sleep, we are starved; our blood is poor; there is little nutriment in it.

Back of the blood, is food, to keep the blood rich. When it fails, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. It sets the whole body going again—man woman and child.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample its agreeable taste will surprise you.

Ordinance No. 90.

An Ordinance Providing for the Issuance of Coupon Bonds of the City of Genesee, Latah County, Idaho, for the Purpose of Providing for the Construction and Maintenance of Necessary Water Works for said City, and Supplying said City with Water.

Be it ordained by the Mayor and Council of the City of Genesee, Idaho, as follows:

Section 1. On the 10th day of November, A. D. 1900, between the hours of eight (8) o'clock A. M. of said day, and seven (7) o'clock P. M. of said day, there shall be held in the City of Genesee aforesaid, an election, for the purpose of empowering the Mayor and Common Council thereof to issue bonds creating thereby a new indebtedness of said city in the sum of Seventeen Thousand Five Hundred ($17,500) Dollars, for the construction and maintainance of necessary water works including a system therefor, and providing for sufficient water supply and supplying said city with sufficient and necessary water, which said bonds shall be made payable, one year after date hereof in gold coin of the United States of America.

Sec. 2. The city clerk of said city shall cause to be published in The Genesee News, a weekly newspaper of general circulation published in Genesee, Idaho, the same being the only newspaper therein published a notice of said election, giving thirty (30) days notice thereof, specifying in such notice and designating therein the time and place where such election will be held and the time and place where such election will be held and the time the polls will be closed on said day.

Sec. 3. Each of the inhabitants of the said city of Genesee, who is a legally qualified voter otherwise, and who is a taxpayer of such city of Genesee, shall be entitled to cast one ballot at such election.

Sec. 4. At the election provided for in this ordinance the ballots must contain the following words:

"In favor of issuing bonds to the amount of Seventeen Thousand Five Hundred. ($17,500.00) Dollars, for the purpose mentioned in Ordinance No 90."

"Against issuing bonds to the amount of Seventeen Thousand Five Hundred ($17,500.00) Dollars, for the purpose stated in Ordinance No. 90."

Sec. 5. The provision to be made for the payment of the interest on the bonds to be issued by virtue of such election, are that a levy of a sufficient to meet and pay such interest as it accrues and becomes due as well as to create a sinking fund for the payment of the principal of said bonds in twenty years, will be made each year during the life-time of the said bonds, and such taxes when collected, will be applied to the payment of such obligations and will be kept in a separate fund for that purpose.

Sec. 6. The bonds referred to herein shall be in the denomination of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars each, except one for Five Hundred Dollars, and one for the sum of Two Hundred Dollars, and each bond shall bear interest from date at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, the first interest coupon to be due on the day of July of each year, during the life-time of said bonds.

Sec. 7. At such election, if two-thirds (2/3) of the qualified electors voting at the polls on the taxpayers, assent to the issuance of the bonds as described, an ordinance will be drawn and passed providing for such issuance, and for the construction and maintenance of necessary water works system, and providing for the maintainance of sufficient water supply to meet the necessary wants of the said City of Genesee and the inhabitants thereof, and for the disposal of the said bonds to defray the expense so incurred.

CHARLES E. MORSE, Plaintiff,
vs.
CHARLES E. MORSE, Defendant.

To Charles E. Morse, Defendant: The people of Idaho send greeting.

You are hereby notified that there is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of said state, in Moscow, county of Latah, the complaint of the above named plaintiff in an action brought against you of the nature in general terms as follows: Plaintiff prays that a decree be made and entered in his court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant and forever releasing each such from the other in relation thereof, giving the plaintiff the legal charge and control of the said Harry D. Morse, the minor child and decreeing that the said real and personal property be and remain the separate property of the plaintiff herein, and plaintiff prays for such other and further relief in the premises as may right and equity in the particulars more fully appearing in plaintiff's complaint on file in this said office to which reference is hereby made.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer to said complaint within ten days after the service hereof, if served within Latah county, and within twenty days if served out of said county, but within said Judicial District, and within forty days if served out of said district (exclusive of the day of service), the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief as prayed for in complaint.

Given under my hand and seal of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of the state of Idaho in and for Latah county, this 25th day of September, A. D. 1900.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1900.

POLITICAL MEETINGS.

United States Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota will speak in Genesee tonight. Hear him. Hon. R. V. Cosier, Mr. West, and the county candidates on the republican ticket will be present.

Come out tomorrow night and get some of the essence of democracy or populism. Mr. Bashor, from Iowa, is billed to give a talk. A parade with Japanese lanterns will be had.

Judge W. B. Heyburn speaks in Genesee next Monday night, Oct 22. A very able speaker.

The republicans will wind up their campaign work with a grad rally on Saturday evening, November 3rd. Hon. Willis Sweet will be present and entertain the people in his happy manner.

The fusionists are planning on winding up their campaign on November 5, night before election. Particulars later.

—Register now.

—Mr. Herman has a very complete line of hardware and furniture now.

—John Johann has enlarged his residence quarters in the western part of Genesee.

—Mr. Shurl moved to Waterville to take charge of Agent Gray's farm for two years.

—Joe Hasfurther has enlarged and improved his city residence property. New kitchen, celler, etc.

—Al Whitted has baled a very large amount of hay this season—hardly lost a day's time since August.

—A very substantial plank walk was put down in front of the Follett & Larrabee store. A new walk also adorns the front of the Bee Hive.

—Miss Lizzie Clark and Robert Hayes were united in marriage at the Lewiston fair and secured a bedroom suit, a stove and a barrel of flour.

—A communication relative to water works will be found on front page. We would be pleased to print articles on both sides of the question. Election November 10. Discuss it.

—Fireman Smith, who has been in the hospital so long in Montana, was able to visit Spokane last week. Mrs. Smith arrived in Genesee Wednesday to look after her household goods and is stopping with Mrs. Will Hickman.

—Miss Emma Nebelsieck was in Genesee over Sunday visiting her numerous friends from Moscow. She is well pleased with her position in the auditor's office. Miss Emma returned Monday morning with our democratic friend and hustler for the sheriff's office, Mike Driscoll.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Platt left this week for the Salmon river country, their home. John is in the stock business quite extensively and in a few years, if he does not meet with reverses, will be in a condition to take life easy. Before leaving Mr. Platt came in and secured four of the best papers published, NEWS at the head. Forest will be their postoffice.

—In response to the announcement a large audience was present Sunday morning to listen to the dedicatory service at the Methodist church. All were pleased with the sermon delivered by Evangelist St. Clair. After the service the pastor called for subscription for improvement of church property. A very liberal subscription was taken and the church enters hopefully on the new year.

—Nearly one-half of our population visited the Lewiston fair this week. Among the many visitors: Mr. and Mrs. Leon Follett, Mr. and Mrs. T. Driscoll and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Follett, Mr. and Mrs. John Keane and children, Mrs. Ruddy, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whitted, Tannes Miller, Theo. Lorang and family, Mrs. Welch, Mrs. Nagel, Miss Nebelsieck, Miss Whitted, Miss Halterman, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Mr. Decoursey, Geo. Watts, Mrs. Peter Steltz, Mrs. Herman and Mae and William, Madge Fowler, Bill Barr, Tom Barr, Ora McMahon, Earl Morse, Carroll Conant, Ralston Vollmer, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mochel, Rev. and Mrs. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Glover, Miss Patterson, Chas. Stamps, the Flinn people, Mrs. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. L. Jain, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Shutte, Harry Wyckoff, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Hobson, R. Pickering, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cummings, Ora Carson, the Wardrobe people, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hoover, Attorney and Mrs. Samsel, and many others.

—Stoves and stoves at Driscoll's. See advertisement.

—Mr. Biram is enlarging his residence and otherwise improving.

—The leaves have been dropping from the trees at a lively rate the past week.

—Flinn & Porter kept two teams busy between Lewiston and Genesee this week.

—As far as attendance goes the Spokane and Lewiston fairs have met with great success.

—Registrar Gage of Rimrock precinct will be in Genesee on Fridays from this date until election day to register voters.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smolt and Eddie visited the Spokane exposition a few days the past week. So did Geo. Watts and others.

—The rain and wind storm yesterday soaked the ground and fair visitors in great style. Somebody's prayer must have been answered.

—NEWS learns that Messenger Owen's rabbits, or rather Belgian hares, captured two first prizes at the Spokane fair. Good for Wallie.

—Mrs. Clara Watson, formerly of Genesee, but now of Hatwai canyon, Nez Perce county, with her three children, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dearing of the Cove.—Mt. Idaho Mail.

—Alfred Miller, the NEWS learns, is having a neat cottage erected on his reservation farm and has bought a fine large range stove. A bird passing this way says a lady well known hereabouts will shortly be installed in the new cage.

—Chris J. Freng, from Blaine way, was a welcome caller Wednesday. Said the farmers were busy seeding and plowing and would be very happy if the price of wheat was 55 cents, as it should be were it not for the high rates of the ships in the Pacific ocean.

—John C. Jackson was down from Fletcher way last week and made his annual visit to this print shop. Said that country has undergone a great transformation the past two or three years. The gift of 160 acres to each of the settlers has been a boon to them all. Come again, neighbor.

—Lo Pickering visited the Spokane exposition. He had a visit with C. B. Grimes, a former Genesee merchant but now operating a store at Davenport. Mr. Grimes is doing an excellent business. Mrs. Grimes is still at Everett where they have good property. Ol is in Colorado.

—The meeting of the different grand lodge bodies of the order of Odd Fellows in Lewiston this week were very largely attended, several hundred persons registering. The Genesee delegates were Mrs. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Follett, Geo. Mochel, C. F. Burr. Between the meetings and the fair the visitors were royally entertained.

—Our fair visitors, or many of them, favor a fair for Genesee next year. An excellent idea. We have the fruit, vegetables, grains, stock, bees, artists, fancy workers, and artists in the culinary line. Mr. Herman suggests that the space west of the Conant drug store be used for such purpose. Undoubtedly a troupe could be secured to occupy the boards at our elegant opera house. Let us have the fair by all means.

—Work is progressing on the establishing of two rural free delivery routes from Genesee. One will run directly north of Genesee to John Hove's ranch, thence west to the state line, thence south to Nez Perce county line, thence to Genesee. The other route will go east of Genesee to the Little Potlatch, taking in Lenville, Mr. Keane and so on bearing northwest until it reaches the Genesee-Moscow road, thence to place of beginning. When these two routes are in working order an effort will be made to establish another route for the benefit of the farmers south and west of Genesee. Rural free delivery seems to have passed the experimental stage, and to have become an established part of the postal system of the country. At present about half a million people are served by the rural carriers, and in some instance so many fourth-class post-offices have been superceded that free delivery has proved cheaper than the old plan.

10-11-1900. R. PICKERING.

—M. A. Means and wife and daughter arrived Sunday from Genesee to spend fair week.—Tribune.

—Mr. and Mrs. Leon Follett visited at Moscow and Kendrick on their way to the Lewiston fair.

—Dan Haylett, on the Rim Rock, who has been quite ill for the past two weeks or more with typhoid fever, is improving now, Dr. Ehlen informs us.

—The Asotin Sentinel is issuing a daily during fair week that is a crackerjack. Boys, there's not a fly on you; a very creditable daily and you deserve well at the hands of your people.

—The laboring men of this community are all employed. The Cold Storage people hunted the town high and low, Saturday and Monday, trying to get men to assist in gathering the fruit, but could not get a man. Only two or three boys could be induced to go out.

—Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Thostenson came down from the reservation country—Howard, with the postoffice named Mohler—for a week's visit. Report the reservation country prosperous, much of it caused by flax selling at $1.25 per bushel. They will visit the Lewiston fair today.

—Married, at the home of the bride's parents near Mt. Idaho, Sunday, Oct. 7, at 4 p. m., George Allen and Miss Mattie M. Dearing, Pastor W. N. Knox officiating. The wedding was a quiet affair. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dearing of the Cove, and a popular and estimable young lady. Mr. Allen is a well known young farmer of the Milk Springs neighborhood on the reservation. The Mail unites with their many friends in wishing the happy couple long life and abundant prosperity.—Mount Idaho Mail.

—Mr. O. D. Olson, whose home is in the Blaine community, had a horse hitched to some brush and was leading the animal down a steep hill when it became frightened and ran away. In some manner Mr. Olson became entangled in the brush and was dragged a hundred yards. When found he was dead and lascerated in a fearful manner with nearly all his vital organs torn out of his body. At Nez Perce city a little girl named Miller last week met with an accident which resulted in a broken arm. It seems she was playing with a calf that was quite tame and while the calf was lying down she climbed on top of it. This caused the calf to jump up and throw the girl to the ground with the above result. Another accident occurred near Greer. Mr. Wolf and son were going down the grade in a hack, when the tongue broke scaring the horses and causing a general tear up in which the occupants of the hack were both quite badly hurt.

How We Use up Our Forest.

It is estimated that it takes twenty-two acres of spruce land to furnish enough wood pulp paper to run a large metroplitan daily just two days. The writer who makes this statement deplores the time, when, at this rate, our forests will entirely disappear, and paper be very scarce and expensive. Meantime, the art of printing continues, because there are many truths the world should know; among others that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a remedy for diseases of the stomach, such as dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, biliousness, insomnia and nervousness. This famous medicine has held the standard remedy of the American people for fifty years. Do not accept a substitute. The genuine has a private revenue stamp over the neck of bottle.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Houghton desire through the NEWS to thank the friend who so kindly extended assistance before and after the death of their child. Especially are they thankful to Mrs. Higgins and Mrs. Wyckoff.

—Goe. Steltz is building a neat parsonage at the German Lutheran church—24x38. Glad to see the German Lutheran congregation prospering. Rev. Eyrich is a popular minister and is doing good work in the church line.

—Young men who are just starting in the business of farming should make up their minds as to what kind of stock they will handle, and should secure the best of the kind that can be obtained, for by so doing they are laying the foundation for a fortune later on. There is no money to be made in raising scrub stock in comparison to better breeds, says Prairie Farmer. Suppose one man feeds a bunch of common steers and another a bunch of high grades. It will take the same amount of feed and perhaps more for the scrub lot to prepare the animals for market; then when they are sold the market will be from 50c to $1 higher in favor of the high grade cattle, and the owner of the scrub lot has lost just that much, for the labor and expense of raising the two lots have been the same. Nor is that all. The man who is satisfied to handle poor stock never has anything that will induce a buyer to offer a fancy price for from the fact that his cattle never attract any attention. The Shorthorn cattle are as good as the best. They are not only beef cattle, but they are fair milkers and average butter makers. Their fine form and beauty are attractive to the eyes of buyers. But they must be well taken care of. Must have shelter and kept in good condition.

WOMAN AND HER WAYS.

WHEN THE HEART IS HEAVY.

WORRY kills. It wears upon the brain as dropping water wears away stone. The habit must be killed by eternal vigilance, resolution and good sense. Worry, like bad air or an obnoxious person, must be driven out, and the best way to drive either out is by the introduction of the good. You can fill your mind with comforting, calming thoughts, leaving no room for the harassing ones. Don't let events depress you. Maintain your equilibrium, and let mind rule matter and good sense judge events. The emotional nature is always watching for a chance to exploit itself. Keep it in reserve, ready for every touch of human feeling, responsive to goodness, honor, cheerfulness and all healthy feeling, but do not allow it to tinge your understanding or in any way affect your sane view of business or the affairs of life. Check expression when bitter or somber feeling has the best of you. You would not spread disease; do not spread mental distress. Your desponding words, bursting impulsively from a full heart in the presence of a friend, add to the burdens of another human being —one, perhaps, already weighed down by cares and anxiety. To so speak is to allow yourself to be overborne by "things" ruled by the natural course of the world. You cannot rule the world, it is true, but you have the power to rule your part of it—that is, yourself.—Woman's Home Companion.

Fall Wraps.

Long capes and coats are fashionable. The loose box coat is again in great favor and is being brought out in a variety of colors and materials. It is strictly tailor-made, the only ornamentation it permits of being rows of stitching, strappings of the cloth, or covers of contrasting material. Ulsters will also be much worn, and will be made large and loose-fitting for greater comfort in driving, traveling and general convenience.

The illustrations show two smart wraps made by a tailor of high standing. Both have the high collars that promise to be a distinctive feature of all the autumn and winter mantles. The stylish coat has a straight back without seams. Capacious pockets are let in the loose fronts. For every day wear, on all but the most ceremonious occasions, nothing could be more comfortable, convenient and becoming than this new easy-fitting coat.

AUTUMN MANTLES.

Fortunes in the Teacup.

Here are a few very old superstitions about the cup that cheers:

When the tea is made and the lid of the teapot is forgotten for a few minutes, it is a sure sign that someone will drop in to tea.

If single persons find that they have two spoons by the side of the cup he or she will figure prominently, perhaps very prominently, at a wedding before the year is out.

If you put cream in your tea before sugar it will cross your love.

If a tea stalk floats in the cup of an unmarried lady it is called a "beau." When this happens she should stir the tea round briskly and then plant the spoon upright in the middle of the cup, holding it quite still with the fingers. If the "beau" in its twirlings is attracted to the spoon and clings to it, he will be sure to put in an appearance some time during the evening. If the sides of the cup attract him he will not come that night.

Fashion's Freshest Fancies.

Almost all of the very newest things in girls' wear are old friends—with new trappings. The hair is worn lower on the head, and not so much a la Pompadour. Somewhere at the sides there is a decided tendency toward a part. Many little curling locks are diligently cultivated, and curls in the back falling to the neck are once more to be worn.

The collars of gowns are to be lower, a fashion which can readily be adopted with audacious confidence by the young.

The newest models of stocks to be worn with shirtwaists are especially pretty, and made mostly of silk and very sheer muslin. The collar is made of silk, sometimes into a crush affair finished with a very narrow, clerical-shaped muslin collar with fine drawn-work edge.

Many shirtwaists are being made with collars of the same material—the small turn-overs being of a contrasting color.

Costumes in solid colors are the novelties of the hour—everything to match—a rather expensive fashion, but always a desirable one and indicative often of the well-dressed woman. The plain tulle and net veils—sans dots, sans borders, but just a suspicion of a fairy's web, to keep those sundry love locks in their rightful places—are affected. A second veil of chiffon—brown, biege, blue or green—is worn over the veil of tulle or net.

The hats are composite productions—"big small" hats perhaps will describe them.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A New Club Idea.

Mrs. Frances Stansbury, of Chicago, is the president of the Penny Trolley Club, having members in all the States of the Union. The club was founded at Louisville, Ky., during the G. A. is the most unique club of its kind, its initiation fees being one cent, its annual dues one cent. The requirements for admission are the possession of an amiable disposition and a mind free from the least disagreeable thought.

A Woman's Ways.

She will laugh while the tears still dim
the eyes,
She will sing a song to cover the sighs,
She will fight for the mastery over pain,
Full many an untold battle gain,
Then over a mouse will faint away,
But that is only a woman's way.

She will take her place in the battle of life,
And bear uncomplaining the brunt of the strife,
Her strength and energy ready to share,
And always trying a smile to wear;
But in a dispute the last word she'll say,
For that is just a woman's way.

She rocks the cradle of life's greatest men;
She has ruled the world since the world began;
She can reach a decision and act on the same
While a man spends the time in arguments lame,
But when she goes shopping she takes one day,
For that is just a woman's way.

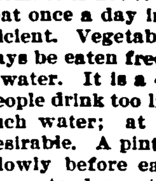
To Clean Neck Ribbons.

To restore a soiled neck ribbon to its pristine freshness is sometimes most convenient when not only lemons but new ribbons are ten miles away, says the New York Tribune. All silk ribbons of any color can be safely washed in a cold suds made of any fine soap. After the soil is removed they should be rinsed in clear cold water. The best way to dry them is to lay them while wet upon a marble mantel or a table, and with a stiff fingernail brush rub them sideways until every wrinkle and crease and all air bubbles are removed. Then leave them until they are dry. For all ribbons but white or those that are badly soiled an excellent method is to put all kinds together into a fruit jar that is half full of gasoline. Cover it tightly, shake a few times, and allow it to stand over night. In the morning the dirt will be found at the bottom of the jar. The ribbons should be shaken, not squeezed or wrung, when they are removed from the fluid, and hung in the open air to dry. White ribbon is turned yellow by gasoline.

A Hero's Sister.

Calvin P. Titus, the Vinton, Iowa, boy who became the hero at the siege of Pekin, owes much of his young life and late glory to the inspiration imparted by his sister Myrtle. She has counseled him in her daily letters since the young man entered the army and he has repeatedly written his friends of the value of these reminders.



A HERO'S SISTER.

One Secret of Youth.

If you wish to retain your youth to "a good old age," one of the most important things to remember is not to eat too much meat. Meat once a day in small quantities is sufficient. Vegetables and fruit should always be eaten freely and drink plenty of water. It is a curious fact that most people drink too little instead of too much water; at least a quart a day is desirable. A pint of hot water sipped slowly before eating is very good when a tendency to rheumatic troubles exist. Always eat slowly; nothing will age you more quickly than an improper assimilation of food, and this is one of the faults most of us commit.

VESSELS OF QUEER BUILD.

One in the Atlantic and the Other in the Pacific Ocean.

While the trans-Atlantic flyers are astonishing the world by the speed with which they race from Europe to America and back, marine men along the eastern and western coasts of the United States are discussing with interest two other vessels, both of which, by the way, are especially interesting to lake sailormen. One of these is the four-masted Americana, just arrived at San Francisco from the nitrate ports via Honolulu. She is the most peculiarly rigged craft that ever was seen at the port named, and Capt. Berry, who commands the nautical freak, is not by any means proud of her. No one can be found to assume responsibility for the rig, but judging from the schooner's latest cruise, the idea is not destined to be taken up by owners generally. The Americana was 150 days coming from Caleta Buena, and at one time 50 per cent reinsurance was paid on her. She put into Honolulu, however, and was then fifty-one days coming from that port to San Francisco. This is the record slow passage from the nitrate ports to San Francisco. The Americana carries a jib topsail, an inward and outward jib, a fore gaff topsail, a fore and aft foresail, a square foresail, a main topgallant sail, main stopsail and fore and aft mainsail, missen and gaff topsail and spanker and gaff topsail. In spite of all this spread of canvas the best the Americana could do was about 100 knots a day. She was very foul, however, having been for a long time in the water without being drydocked.

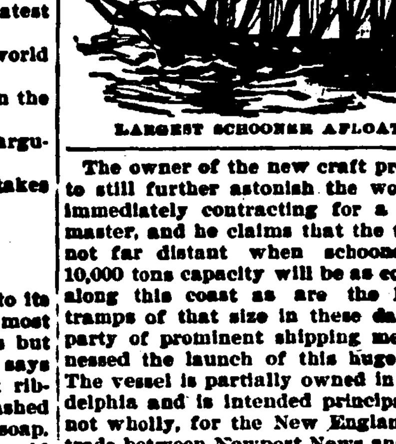
The marine novelty which is attracting attention on the Atlantic coast will doubtless do better in the way of speed than the nondescript which is exciting wonder in San Francisco. The former is the largest schooner afloat and the only six-masted vessel of the kind in the world. She has just been launched by H. M. Bean, a builder of Camden, Me. Until this new schooner took the water the John B. Prescott, a five-masted schooner, was the world's largest sailing vessel.



LARGEST SCHOONER AFLOAT.

The owner of the new craft promises to still further astonish the world by immediately contracting for a seven-master, and he claims that the time is not far distant when schooners of 10,000 tons capacity will be as common along this coast as are the British tramps of that size in these days. A party of prominent shipping men witnessed the launch of this huge craft. The vessel is partially owned in Philadelphia and is intended principally, if not wholly, for the New England coal trade between Newport News and Philadelphia. Capt. Arthur Crowley, the managing owner's brother, will command the new craft, which will be named after a prominent Taunton capitalist.

The new vessel is 2,750 tons net register, 300 feet long on the keel, 335 feet long over all, 46 feet beam and 26 feet deep. She will carry 5,500 tons of coal, about 1,100 tons more than does the John B. Prescott. This six-master will not only be a monster, but a beauty. Her masts are of Oregon pine, each 116 feet long, with 58 feet topmasts. The lower masts are 26 inches in diameter in the partners, except the foremast, which is 30 inches. The fore topmast is 20 inches in the cap and the other 17 inches. The bowsprit is 35 feet long and jibboom 75 feet. She has a forward house 26 feet long, midship-house 16 feet and after-house 35 feet, in addition to a large wheelhouse. The vessel is fitted with a double set of pumps and with engines and steam winches fore and aft.

Evaporation from Trees.

Some curious facts concerning trees have been discovered. A single oak of good size is said to lift 123 tons of water during the months it is in leaf. This moisture is evaporated and rises to form rain clouds. From this estimate of the labor of a single oak we can gain some idea of the immense force which the forests exert in equalizing the evaporation and precipitation and preventing periods of inundation and drouth.

Maude Adams' Mountain Home.

Miss Maude Adams, in addition to her well-known Long Island farm, has a cottage in the Catskills in a restricted little village and in the most inaccessible part of the village. To this house she goes for the thorough rest needed after a winter's exhausting work and to be gained in the seclusion of her mountain retreat. Her own room is sixty feet long, to permit rehearsals when desirable.

HOW KING HUMBERT WAS KILLED.

His Majesty had accepted the invitation of the Provincial Athletic Club to be present at the distribution of prizes. After presiding at the distribution, the King left the Palestra, and was just starting to return to the Royal Palace, when Bresci, who was among the crowd, took off his hat, in common with the thousands of loyal enthusiasts, and waved it in his left hand. As the King stepped into his carriage Bresci moved a little nearer, and then quickly drew from his right trousers pocket a revolver. With deadly aim he fired three shots from it point blank at the King, who was standing up acknowledging the cheers of the people. Each shot struck His Majesty, the second piercing his heart and being the direct cause of death.—London Graphic.

PINS FOR WASH DAY.

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE MANUFACTURE OF CLOTHESPINS.

Two Dollars' Worth of Log Cuts Up Into $100 Worth of Finished Products—Processes of the Manufacture—Money in It.

"The longer you lif," as a philosophic German once remarked, "the more you findt, by chiminneddy, oudt."

For instance, there's the common, every-day clothespin, on which no man has ever been able to improve, any more than he has improved upon the wheelbarrow or the old-fashioned wooden rolling-pin. Who would imagine that there was anything about the clothespin that was worth finding out? The writer was passing a little grocery where a box of clothespins was among the things displayed outside.

"How much for clothespins to-day?" he asked of the grocer.

"Four cents," was the reply.

"Four cents apiece?"

"Apiece. Great hickory, no! Four cents a dozen!"

"Ah-h-h! Are you a good judge of clothespins?"

"I should say so! I've made more than a million of 'em!" replied the storekeeper. "I've followed the clothespin, sir, in all the processes of its evolution, from the growing tree to the polishing box. Say!" exclaimed the dealer, "to look at that pin you'd scarcely believe that the manufacturer could make and sell twelve of them for a cent, and have a profit of more than 50 per cent at that, would you?

"But he can do it. He can whittle out clothespins at the rate of eighty a minute. How? Easy enough. All he's got to do is to take his maple or birch log and go to work. Say his log is ten feet long and a foot through. He won't have to pay more than $2 for it. If he pays any more than that he don't know his business. That log will whittle up into 12,000 clothespins. It will take the man two hours and a half to chew that log up into clothespins, which is at the rate of 4,800 an hour. But when they are all cut out they are worth $96.40 to the maker. He will work ten hours a day if he is smart, and will get away with four of these logs. It's easy figuring to find out that he will then have on hand 48,000 clothespins, worth $385.60 if they are worth a cent.

"The lumber for those pins has cost only $8, providing the man wasn't stuck in buying it. Now, if that was all the expense, a man with a clothespin factory would be a blamed sight better off than if he owned a coal mine. But these logs have to run the gantlet of a good deal of machinery before they are full-fledged clothespins. A saw separates the log into lengths of sixteen inches; another one saws these blocks into boards three-quarters of an inch thick, and a third saw reduces the boards to strips three-quarters of an inch square. These little strips are pushed to a big wheel, which hurries them to a gang of other saws, where they are chopped into clothespin lengths quicker than a sausage machine can chop up a pound of meat. These lengths are carried by a swift-moving belt to a machine that grabs them and sets them in a lathe. The lathe gives them their shape in the twinkling of an eye, and throws them to the man who feeds them to still another saw, which moves backward and forward as if it were madder than a snake. This saw chews out the slot that the washerwoman is to shove down over the clothes on the line one of these days, and the clothespin is ready, all except kiln-drying and polishing. Kiln-drying knocks the sap out of the wood, and the polishing is done by letting the clothespins rub against themselves in a revolving iron cylinder.

"All these processes cost money, and when the manufacturer comes to put up his goods for sale he finds that his profit on the 48,000 pins, or a day's hard work, is only about $193. I pay the manufacturer one cent a dozen, or about 84 cents a thousand, and, really, I am compelled to sell them for four cents a dozen, or $3.36 a thousand, which wouldn't be so bad if I sold a thousand every hour or so. But with care, a thousand clothespins will stay by me for a month or two, and I even have had them with me a whole year. Chinese cheap labor is pelting the life out of the clothespin trade, for Ling Sing and Wun Lung don't use clothespins in their laundries, and they're washing about all the clothes that are washed, it seems to me, nowadays."—Chicago Tribune.

Age of Fish.

Prof. Baird says that there is nothing to prevent a fish from living indefinitely, as it has no period of maturity, but grows with each year. He is authority likewise for saying that within fifty years a pike was living in Russia whose age, acording to tradition, dated back to the fifteenth century. Probably some persons will doubt what is said by Prof. Baird about the age a fish can attain. If they do, they are simply doubting the best known authority on fish. The Russian minister says that in the royal aquarium at St. Petersburg there are fish to-day that have been known by the records to have been in them one hundred and forty years. Some of them are, he says, over five times as large as when they were captured, while others have not grown an inch in length. An attache of the Chinese legation corroborates this statement. He says there are sacred fish kept in some of the palaces in China that are even older than any of those in Russia. Goldfishes have been known to have belonged to one family in this country for over fifty years.

There Are Some Drawbacks.

He wasn't looking for an argument. Indeed, he undertook to make a remark that would pass unchallenged and without conditions or amendment.

"Prosperity," he said casually, "is a great blessing, is it not?"

"It is, if you can keep it secret," answered the reasonably prosperous man.

"But why should it be necessary to keep it secret?"

"Because if you are known as a prosperous man your debtors think you are in no pressing need of the money they owe you, your creditors are of the opinion that you should discount all obligations, charitable institutions go on the theory that you have money to give away, and you are likely to have difficulty in remaining prosperous very long."

Thus we learn how difficult it is to make a statement that can't be challenged and at least in part disputed on some ground or other.—Chicago Post.

Man in Corea.

In Corea marriage is even more important and essential for a man than it is for a woman, as until a man be wed he is a being of no account. The importance of the ceremony may be gathered from the fact that if a father has not selected wives for his sons ere they reach the age of 20 years he is considered worthless and neglectful.

WHAT ROILED THE ENGINEER.

Man Was on the Track and Did Not Heed the Whistle.

The old engineer had finished grooming his engine for the night's run and was whiling away the half hour before train time in swapping yarns with his fireman. It was his turn at a story. After puffing reflectively on his pipe for a moment or two, he said, half questioningly: "I don't believe we've ever run over anybody, Bill, since you've been in the cab.

"But it isn't the running over that scares you," he continued, "though that is bad enough. It's the coming so all fired close to it and missing that takes the tuck out of a man. After you once hit anything the worst you can do in to plow right along, but when you see a man on the track and blow your whistle and shut off steam and put on brakes and then the man turns out to be deaf or drunk or something of the kind, and you know you can't help striking him, then's the time you wish you were running a steamboat or a fire engine.

"The closest shave I ever had was when I was pulling the President's special up to Albany. We were trying to make a record run. We had passed the Poughkeepsie bridge and were doing better than a mile a minute when I saw a man walking down the track toward us. The fireman blew the whistle, but the man never budged from between the rails. As we got closer, I saw he was walking with his head down and paying no attention to what was going on. I shut off steam, jammed on the brakes and reversed her, but we slid along at a pretty fair gait. He never stirred until just as the engine was going to hit him. Then he jumped out of the way, grinning up at me and put his fingers to his nose.

"'Get after him,' I yelled, but before the fireman could climb down from the cab the man was runing down the track for all he was worth—and that wasn't more than 30 cents. We didn't have any time to spare, so we hustled on again, and I've been trying ever since to decide whether our friend was drunk or crazy, or had a darned peculiar idea of humor. Anyway, I wish I'd had a little more time. I'd like to have taken a chance at him with a coal shovel."—New York Mail and Express.

Suspicious Liberality.

"It was a mean trick," said Jones, with a smile, "but I wanted my wife to come home, and it was the only way that I could think of to get her back. She went away about five weeks ago on a vacation and left me alone to get along as best I could. It wasn't long before I grew tired of the arrangement, tired of getting my meals downtown, tired of sending checks in reply to her demands for more money. Three days ago I received a letter asking me to send her $25 at once. It was then that my plan suggested itself. By return mail I sent her a check for double the amount that she had asked for, and inclosed it with a note that read: 'Don't hurry back.'

"It worked as I thought it would. My wife returned by the first train with a strange gleam of inquiry in her eyes and a set about her lips that bodes trouble for me if she confirms the horrible suspicions that she is laboring under. However, I have her at home, and I am not losing any sleep over what she may suspect."—Detroit Free Press.

Stealing His Thunder.

"The man with a slight fresco of yellow mud on his shoes stopped the patent leathered friend and exclaimed:

"Ha, ha!"

"What's the trouble?"

"No trouble whatever. This is joy. My turn has come at last. Aren't you one of the people who used to make fun of me because I lived away out in the suburbs?"

"I believe so."

"Didn't you say facetious things about 'Lonesomehurst,' and when you saw me performing feats of equilibrium with a tall bunch of bundles, didn't you make comic references to the human express wagon?"

"Yes; I believe so."

"Well, I want to call your attention to the fact that I am living only a few hundred feet from where the cars start. I'm one of the few people who are sure of getting seats on a warm evening, and who brush proudly by while you stand in the corner, and implore the conductor humbly, but in vain, to take your 5 cents."—Washington Star.

Rare Birds' Eggs.

To one not conversant with ornithology the statement that the eggs and nests of some well-known birds remain yet to be discovered must appear surprising. The eggs of the curlew-sandpiper, a bird familiar in Great Britain, were first discovered last July on an island at the mouth of the Siberian River Yenisei. There are a few other birds which make their nests in remote regions, although living part of their lives among civilized men, whose eggs have not yet been found.

A Municipal Restaurant.

For fifty years the city of Grenoble, in France, has maintained a municipal restaurant and kitchen, where meals are cooked and supplied at cost. The food is of the best quality, the cooks are skillful and the service is excellent. One may dine there on bread and soup for 3 cents and have his hunger thoroughly appeased, or may pay 12 cents and enjoy a course dinner.

To See Under Water.

An instrument for seeing objects under water has been invented by a hydrographic engineer of Russia. By its aid the bottom of rivers, to a depth of from forty-five to sixty feet, can be distinctly viewed. In the examination of wrecks this submarine telescope will be of great service.

A Woman's Mistake

It is a well-known fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured more women than any other remedy. It therefore must be the best possible medicine for female ills.

But some women make the mistake of thinking that they will try something else, simply because it is new. That mistake is often a fatal one—fatal to the health and happiness of the experimenter.

Is it not foolish to risk the possible results of such experiments? Is it not better to depend upon a medicine which has been tried successfully for thirty years, and which has never been found wanting? Do not therefore let any one persuade you to try something which they say is just as good. It cannot be just as good. Mrs. Pinkham's Compound is the best, and there can be only one best. This is not a mere assertion, but is a positive fact, admitted by hundreds of regular physicians.

Rely on your own common sense, and Mrs. Pinkham's life-long experience, and you will make no mistake. Don't experiment with your health, but take a medicine that you know is good, and is backed by such letters as these to Mrs. Pinkham:

Ovarian Troubles Always Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I had been in poor health for twenty years, having inflammation of ovaries and womb trouble. Although treated by physicians, I could not gain strength nor do my work, and was so low-spirited and tired of life. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The first bottle strengthened me, and I wrote to you. After taking six bottles can say that I am well and can even do my own washing."—MRS. M. W. MILLER, No. 1033 Canal Street, New Orleans, La.

"For three years I suffered with ovarian trouble, having inflammation and an abscess on right ovary. Had such pain in my back and head, and at times was unable to walk. Had several doctors, but they did not do me much good. One doctor said that I would have to have an operation and have the ovary removed. I became discouraged and gave up all hopes of getting well. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham and followed her directions faithfully, and am better than I have been for three years. I have taken ten bottles, and my friends are surprised at my rapid improvement."—MRS. W. H. WALTERS, Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., N. Y.

Suppressed and Painful Periods Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I was thin, sallow and nervous. I had not had my menses for over a year and a half. Doctored with several physicians in town and one specialist, but did not get any better. I finally decided to try your medicine, and wrote to you. After I had taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and three of Blood Purifier, my menses returned, and I feel as well and strong as I ever did, and am gaining flesh."—MISS LENA GAINES, Visalia, Tulare Co., Cal.

"Before taking the Vegetable Compound I was troubled with irregular menstruation, and suffered great agony. My physician gave me morphine, and I remained in bed. I doctored eight years and got no relief, and the doctors told me there was no relief for my trouble. Finally I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. While taking the first bottle I felt that I was improving. I have taken seven or eight bottles, and never had anything to do me so much good. Every month my troubles have grown less and less, and now at this time I am cured."—ELLA QUINNEY, No. 22 Stage Street, Haverhill, Mass.

Backache and Womb Troubles Succumb to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I have been for ten years an invalid with female weakness, and the torture and pain I suffered no tongue can tell. I never spent one week in the ten years that I was free from pain. My trouble was inflammation and congestion of womb. When I commenced to take your remedy I had been bedfast for some time under the treatment of two of our best physicians without receiving any benefit. You can imagine the benefit I derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I tell you that I have gained forty pounds and am well—a thing I never dared to expect."—MRS. C. E. FOLAND, Monett, Mo.

"For a number of years I was troubled with backache and leucorrhœa. I became so weak and miserable that I could not attend to my work or studies. The least effort would completely exhaust me. Physicians failed to help me. I felt that my youth was blighted, and the life before me would be one of suffering and misery. Then a friend insisted on me taking your medicine. Before I had used one bottle I was greatly relieved. I had not known a well day for four years, but now I feel better than I have since a child, and it is all due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—MISS MAY B. STEVENSON, Alliance, O.

LI HUNG CHANG IS ACTIVE

ADDRESS NOTES TO POWERS.

Yung Lu Withdraws as Peace Commissioner—Reported That Admiral Ho Was Defeated—Waldersee Expects to Crush All Opposition.

Pekin, Oct. 15.—Li Hung Chang has begun to make his formal calls upon the legations. He visited the British and American representatives. Generals Chaffee and Wilson assisted United States Minister Conger in receiveing Earl Li, who expressed anxiety to make peace. Li Hung Chang and Prince Ching will shortly address a note to the foreign ministers requesting that a meeting be held for the purpose of beginning negotiations for peace. He expressed a preference for the tsung li yamen as a meeting place. It is stated that owing to the foreign objections Yung Lu has withdrawn from the post of peace commissioner.

Li Hung Chang expressed doubt as to the authenticity of the decree banishing Prince Tuan.

Condition of Canton Shaky.

London, Oct., 15.—A special dispatch from Tientsin under date of October 12 announces the arrival at Pekin of Li Hung Chang.

According to a special from Hong Kong the rebels have again defeated the army of Admiral Ho, who was pursuing them in a northeasterly direction from Sanchun, killing 40 and capturing many of the imperial troops. The dispatch adds that the condition of Canton is shaky, as the troops there have been greatly depleted.

A special from Shanghai, dated October 12, says that dysentery is raging among the troops of Tientsin, and that Count von Waldersee intends to transfer his headquarters to Pekin shortly.

Garrisons Should Be Larger.

Berlin, Oct. 15.—The Lokal Anzieger's Shanghai correspondent telegraphs that the consuls have informed the taotai that garrison will be increased owing to the threatening aspect of the situation. The Pao-ting-fu expedition is regarded as a strategic move against Sian-fu, to be followed by a similar expedition up the Yangtse at Hankow, cutting off Sian-fu from all outside resources.

Rebels Are Successful.

London, Oct. 15.—It is rumored from Canton, says a special dispatch from Shanghai, that the rebels have captured Wei-chou city, on East river, and the imperial troops lost 60 killed. The rebels, according to these advices, attacked Tungkoon. If successful in their attack upon Tungkoon, they will march upon Sung-tong and thence upon Canton.

Waldersee Makes a Report.

Tientsin, via Shanghai, Oct. 15.—Count von Waldersee has issued an official statement summarizing the military progress made since he assumed command. He explains that the seeming delay is due to the difficulties experienced in disembarkation and transportation of German troops and also to the difficulty of the various commands to work in harmony. Count von Waldersee says the condition is now tolerably satisfactory and operations are inaugurated with the Pao-ting-fu expedition.

New Complications Arise.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Minister Wu was one of Secretary Hay's callers. He had no late advices from China, but came to learn the course of this government on the French proposition. He expressed considerable apprehension over the press reports that a large military expedition was moving on Pao-ting-fu. He looks upon this as likely to cause serious complications and a renewal of agitation among the Chinese.

Cut His Head Off.

New York, Oct. 14.—Arthur Charollais, a demented inventor, 40 year old, gullotined himself in his laboratory at Mulhouse in Alsace. He had constructed the machine himself. It was an exact duplicate of the legal French gullotine, but was made of costly woods and finely polished. The triangular knife had engraved on it: "This blade cut Arthur Charollais' neck October, 1900." Near the body was found a note reading: "Distribute my belongings among the poor and demolish this gullotine. It is intended solely for my own private use." His servants heard an unfamiliar electric bell suddenly ringing persistently, and on rushing to answer it discovered with horror the wriggling, headless body with blood gushing in streams from the neck. The head was in the basket of sawdust where it had fallen. The suicide had so arranged the knife that its fall started an electric call.

Youtsey Is Paralysed.

Georgetown, Oct. 15.—While the Youtsey trial was continued today until Monday there seems little chance that it will be resumed then. If the prisoner is in as serious condition as most people believe, he will still be in a stupor for many days. If, as the prosecution now contends, he is shamming, then of course he will still be the same Monday, and will so continue until too late to resume the trial. It seems practically certain that Youtsey is in an extremely serious condition, and may never recover.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

Halifax, Oct. 15.—Additional disasters to shipping on this coast are reported. The known list of vessels driven ashore now numbers 30, mostly owned in the province of Newfoundland. The loss all over the country and in the neighboring provinces through terrific rainfalls and washouts and damage to orchards and buildings by heavy winds will be many thosands of dollars.

The Canadian Pacific wires from Cape Breton to the rest of Nova Scotia are completely blocked at the Straits of Canso, where the cable was fouled by a schooner dragging her anchor. Rivers and lakes are everywhere overflowing and destroying property. There has been no Canadian Pacific train from Montreal in four days and a serious wreck of the Sydney express, caused by a washout, is reported in Cape Breton.

The Gloucester schooner Mystery, at Canso, reports one man lost at sea.

Ethelbert Won.

New York, Oct. 15.—Ethelbert, the gallant son of Eothen-Maori, won the Municipal Handicap at Morris park, a head before Imp. the greatest mare of the age, in the record time of 2:58 1-2. The race was at one mile and three-quarters, over the trying hill course, and five horses faced the starter.

A Miner at Butte Killed.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 15.—Dan Buckley was instantly killed at the Diamond mine. He was on the skip beneath the cage, cleaning the wall plates, and got his head caught between the timbers and the cage. His head was crushed to a pulp. He was 32 years of age and unmarried.

Had to Make an Assignment.

New York, Oct. 14.—George N. Olmstead and Charles H. Taylor, composing the firm of Olmstead & Taylor, dealers in investment securities, stocks and bonds, made an assignment without preferences.

Boers Very Active.

Cape Town, Oct. 16.—The Boers are very active in the Kroonstad district, General Dewet has proclaimed that burghers who refused to fight will be made prisoners of war.

British mounted infantry, scouting from Lindley, had Captain Willshire killed through mistaking a party of 40 Boers in Khaki uniform for friends.

Boer commands continuously harassed the British column while marching from Lindley to Kroonstad.

The Boers captured a detachment of the Chinese regiment, which was escorting an empty wagon near Frankfort. They released the driver but kept the wagon.

Casualties in Philippines.

Washington, Oct. 15.—General MacArthur has cabled the following list of casualties to the war department:

Killed—September 28, at Pili, Luzon, Forty-fifth infantry, U. S. V., James B. Ryan, John S. Pearson; September 19, at Mount Malindy, Panay, Forty-fourth regiment, U. S. V. infantry, Albin E. Carter.

Wounded—September 28, at Pili, Luzon, Thirty-seventh U. S. V., First Lieutenant P. R. Lowenberg, wounded in the shoulder, serious; Forty-fifth regiment, U. S. V. infantry, Edward Hyland, head, mortal.

Shuts Off Boer Supplies.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The exportation and transit of ammunition and gunpowder from and through the Netherlands has been prohibited temporarily, according to a dispatch to the state department from United States Minister Newell, at The Hague.

REBELLION IS SPREADING.

TO OVERTHROW MANCHU RULE.

Rebellion in Southern China Assuming Big proportions—Rebel Conducting Themselves So as to Win Respect of the Foreigners.

Hong Kong, Oct. 16.—A column of troops was dispatched this morning to the Kowloon frontier with the object of barring armed refugees, either rebels or imperial troops, from entereing British territory when defeated. The rebels are reported to be 3000 strong 30 miles north of the British frontier. A thousand of Admiral's Ho's troops are in pursuit of them, while 2000 Chinese troops have left Canton overland to intercept the rebels.

Admiral Ho has informed the government that the rebellion was carefully planned. The rebels are anxious to conciliate the villagers and gain the respect of foreigners, hence the absence of outrage and pillage. All indications point to the rising being widespread. Outbreaks occurred simultaneously in several centers of Kwang-tung and Kwang-si. Apparently Kang-wei, Kun-sun and the triads have amalgamated their force in the common cause—the overthrow of Manchu rule in south China. Some positive indication of the attitude of the foreign powers is anxiously awaited.

Answers to France.

Paris, Oct. 16.—Germany is the only power which has not replied formally to France's note on China, though she has verbally accepted its terms.

Japan's answer, received today, accepts the proposals, retaining only one condition. This refers to the permanent prohibition of the importation of arms. While agreeing with the principle, Japan offers no suggestion as to how the prohibition can best be accomplished.

A dispatch received at the French foreign office from Hankow, dated October 13, says the Chinese court arrived at Sian-fu October 12.

Will Not Fix Amounts.

Paris, Oct. 16.—It is officially understood that if an international conference at The Hague, regarding the settlement of the Chinese indemnity question, is finally decided upon, it will not discuss with China the amount of compensation she must pay, but will confine its labors to fixing and distributing the proportion of the indemnity which shall go to the several countries interested.

YOUR BODIES ARE TEMPLES

You believe that statement. But you only realize in part the obligations implied by it. Do you keep that temple of the body clean? If not, the defilement attaches to every service of the temple. Disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, affects the mind as well as the body. The dull mind stupified by poisonous gasses, enters on its service without desire, and accomplishes it without delight. A healthy body and a clear mind result from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It removes the clogging and poisonous impurities from the stomach, stimulates the flow of the juices necessary to digestion and increases the blood supply in quality and quantity. The "Discovery" is strictly a temperance medicine and contains no alcohol or whisky, neither opium, cocaine, nor other narcotic.

"I had suffered from indigestion and only those who have suffered from it know what it really is," writes Mrs. M. J. Fagan, of 1613 East Genesee Street, Syracuse, N. Y. "I had had severe attacks of headache and dizziness with cold hands and feet; everything I ate distressed me, bowels were constipated and I was growing very thin and nervous. I cannot half express the bad feelings I had when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took nine bottles of the 'Discovery.' I commenced feeling better with the first bottle and kept on improving. Now I am so greatly improved in health my friends often speak of it."

—It is a reflection upon our northwest farmers that eastern eggs and butter are regularly quoted in the larger towns, and that they are shipped in by the carload, the eggs selling 2 to 3 cents lower than our fresh product. Our northern country ought to produce all the eggs and butter used here. Then tons of these products would find a market in Alaska which is now supplied by the east.

"What's the Time?"

A booklet with this title, just published by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, should not only be in the hands of every traveler, but should have a place on the desk of every banker, merchant or other business man.

The four "Time Standards" which govern our entire system and which are more or less familiar to most of the traveling public, but by many others little understood, are so fully explained and illustrated by a series of charts, diagrams and tables that any one who chooses can become conversant with the subject in question. There are also some twenty-four tables by which almost at a glance, the time at any place being given, the hour and day can be ascertained in all the principal cities of the world.

A copy of this pamphlet may be had on application to Geo. H. Heafford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, enclosing two-cent stamp to pay postage.

—The Northern Pacific will build three bridges over the Palouse river, two at Palouse, the other two miles north.

—The United States court convenes at Moscow November 7. Some important cases will come up and it is believed the term will last several weeks.

—The report of the standing of the National banks of Idaho show them to be in a prosperous condition. The individual deposits are greater now than at any time before. J. P. Vollmer's Lewiston National deposits reach the snug sum of $361 491. Land loans can now be had at a lower rate of interest than ever before in the history of Idaho.

—At a conferance in New York of representatives of the various Protestant missionary organizations which have stations in China, it was voted unanimously that work in that empire should be suspended only, to be resumed at the earliest practicable moment. The existing treaty between China and the United States guarantees protection not only to missionaries, but to native converts.

—"It is a remarkable thing that there are neither wit or humor in any of the immortal speeches that have fallen from the lips of man. To find a joke in Webster would be an offense. The only things that Ingersoll wrote that will live are his oration at his brother's grave and his famous 'The Past Rises Before Me Like a Dream.' But in neither of these productions of his genius of jesters is there a single trace of wit. There is not a funny sally in all Burke's speeches. Lincoln's Gettysburg address, his first and second inaugurals, his speech beginning the Douglas campaign and his Cooper Union address in New York are, perhaps, the only utterances of his that will endure. Yet this greatest of story tellers since Aesop did not scorn or deface one of these great deliverances with story or any form of humor. The reason of this is found in the whole tendency of human thought and feeling—in the whole melancholy history of the race—where tears and grief, the hard seriousness of life and the terrible and speedy certainty of our common fate of suffering and death, make sombre the mastercord of existence. The immortal things are all serious—even sad."—Senator Beverage in an eloquent article in the Saturday Evening Post.

U. S. Senator Hansbrough in Genesee.

In spite of the rain Friday night Senator Hansbrough was accorded a full house. While the senator is not a polished orator, his talk was full of meat—hard facts such as the farmers want. He started out by saying the arguments used by the Bryan party in defaming McKinley now are similar to those used in 1864 in maligning Lincoln; said the opposition speakers were silent on the busy times of today while four years ago 3,00,000 people, homeless and helpless, tramped over the land. He referred to the bogy of imperialism and was hardly worth giving a thought.

He spoke of the necessity of legislation to encourage American shipping and said the low price of wheat here was due to the extortionate freight rates charged by foreign shipowners who monopolize the business; and said the republicans would bring relief, a bill was being framed. His clear explanation of the trusts, the powerless condition of the government, and how the presant administration labored to pass a bill, was well received.

The Senator reviewed the work of the republican party in behalf of the American farmer. It was the champion of every land law on the statute books, including the free homestead bill, and Senator Shoup was the most persistent man in Congress in behalf of this measure; that he was the true friend of Idaho, a constant worker for her people. The speaker held forth for two hours and held the strict attention of every voter present.

Burton L. French, candidate for the legislature, was called on for an address, but owing to the lateness of the hour he was compelled to cut his remarks short. However he talked enough to convince the people that he was perfectly familiar with the wants of this section—better road and school laws, etc. A fine appearing young man and we confidently expect to see him elected by a large majority.

MR. BASHOR, who spoke in Genesee Saturday night, was given a full house, as many republicans attending as democrats. Mr. Bashor is a good talker and made a talk that pleased the fusionists. He made misstatements, but those who do not keep posted by reading could not detect them. The speech was intended for a certain class and had its effect. Mr. Bashor is witty, sharp, is from northern Iowa where he was defeated for congress.

L. N. B. Anderson, Ex-Sheriff Frank Campbell, Bill Leasure, D. M. Eckman, Mr. Perkins, A. A. Anderson who was nominated for commissioner two years ago, all populist leaders in Latah county, are out working for the republican ticket and from reports are making inroads on the fusion party.

Water-Works for Genesee.

MR. EDITOR:—In our communication of last week it was stated that an estimate of the cost of material required in the construction of the proposed water system, would be submitted in order that an idea of the probable cost of the same might be obtained. We shall first take up the item of water mains, the same being a matter of the greatest extent, and of the largest outlay in the entire system.

The prices stated herein, are for what is known as the Matheson Joint Pipe—wrought iron, lap-welded, and tested to a pressure of from 300 to 500 pounds per inch, all delivered f. o. b. Genesee.

4210 feet—6-inch main, -	$2,121
4560 feet—4 inch main, -	1,388
8200 feet—4 inch main, -	1,722
2080 feet—2 inch main, -	327
Total - -	$5,558
Hydrants—45 assorted sizes,	$900
Two tons of lead, estimated,	100
Total,	$6,558

In the foregoing estimate, cast iron mains have not been taken into consideration; the difference in cost of the same including freight, being about $16 per 100 feet, in favor of the wrought iron, lap-welded mains, on the basis of 6 inch main.

The above item of mains, is the most expensive in any system. We have yet to obtain figures on Tees, Crosses, Reducers and Gates, also Tank and Piping outfit. The same will be submitted in a future communication, together with an estimate of the probabte income to the city from the system; the cost of maintaining the same; the bond interest levy, and other matters in connection with the proposed improvement.

10-24-1900. ANON.

THE NEWS is glad the political campaign is drawing to a close. Many discussions are taking place on the street corners and in the stores and many a person get crazy mad on matters that he knows little about. The speakers, or many of them, tell that their party contain all that is good and the opposition all that is bad. No intelligent voter should allow himself to be carried away by oratory and misstatements. Every man or woman who is worthy to cast a vote should know that neither party is all in the right or wholly in the wrong. The voter should read and think for himself. The campign is an important one and we have no fears of the result nationally. The intelligent voter, one who reads and reasons, will vote right. Hear the best speakers on both sides, speakers who have standing, merit and reputation. Compare times under republican and democratic presidents; put away prejudice and vote your convictions and as your conscience dictates. Be honest with yourself.

EX-GOV. McCONNELL has been campaigning in Latah county for the republicans. He devotes his time to state issues and is able to tell you why the fusion state board raised our assessment last year and this.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND in answer to certain newspapers misinterpreting his intention, gave this out last week: "I intend to vote for McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt. In giving my vote for the candidates of the republican party I am satisfied in my conscience that I serve the best interests of the country at home and abroad."

JUDGE W. B. HEYBURN made a splendid address in Genesee Tuesday evening to a large crowd of attentive listeners. It would be out of question to attempt to even outline the speech. He showed conclusively that the entire country was enjoying unparalleled prosperity, and that was the real issue. We are selling more goods to foreign countries than ever before and getting gold for it which goes into the pockets of our producers. Foreign countries own 93 per cent of the ships, hence the high ocean rates on grain. The present administration favored the building of more ships. His remarks on the trusts were unanswerable and showed that the opposition were not sincere, giving the action in congress as a sample. The Judge's expose on imperialism was a clincher. The Bryanites delight to scare people in the belief that McKinley is attempting to establish a monarchical government. Said such a thing was impossible in this country, and asked if there was one in the room who favored such a plan to rise. He paused, but no one stood up. The entire address was plain, businesslike and unanswerable, and we are sorry more could not have heard it.

MANY arguments used today are similar to those used against Lincoln in 1864. We could reproduce column after column of argument used against Old Abe, but we think a couple of extracts will suffice. Here is one:

Mr. Lincoln is not satisfied with the blood now shed in the southern states. For the price of the presidency he is willing to extend the area of fraternal slaughter.—R. Johnson, at New York, Oct. 21, 1864.

Here is another:

In my deliberate opinion, if Mr. Lincoln is re-elected we shall have a military despotism fastened upon us and our children, with a standing army of negro janissaries.—Leslie Coombs, of Kentucky, 1864.

We will give one more and if more are wanted drop in at this office and get them:

The liberties of the American people have been taken away; they fade one by one until it is dangerous to speak or write. Down the double-dyed traitors in this administration—with Lincoln at the head.—Ex-Gov. Campbell of Tennessee, Aug. 31, 1864.

—Joe Collins is making an effective campaign throughout the county. Joe will run best where he is best known, and election day will show that he is pretty well known in this precinct.—Troy News.

THE prohibition party in Idaho will poll a few votes that we know of. We print the ticket by request of one of the staunch supporters. The state ticket follows: Electors—Moses Fowler, Middleton; E. R. Headley, Moscow; Mrs. Rebekah Mitchell, Idaho Falls; governor, W. J. Boone, Caldwell; lieut. gov., T. A. Hedges, Kendrick; secretary, Mrs. Neal B. Inman, Lewiston; for attorney general, Wm. A. Hall, Grangeville; treasurer, Jas. Ballentine, Ola; auditor, I. P. Marcellus, Boise; superintendent, James T. Smith, Star; mining engineer, G. Klock, Orofino.

—If trade follows the flag, so does the schoolmaster, and there is a pressing demand for him in the Philippines which will show constant increase as the years go on. The Superintendent of Public Instruction there writes Present Schurmann of Cornell to recommend to him good normal graduates willing to give a service of at least three years among the islanders, and promises them liberal salaries and goverament transportation thither free of cost. There is an urgent call likewise for superintendents and teachers of high rank, with salaries proportioned to their grade and capabilities. Educational work in the islands starts off with vigor, which will not be relaxed, and is addressed to communities as sympathetic and receptive as could be desired. With the schoolmaster abroad, then there will be less room for the bandit, less need of military regulation and an increasing loyalty to the flag under which their ministers of instruction come

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver, of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in the back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c., guaranteed, at Kennedy's store.

"For three days and nights I suffered agony untold from an attack of cholera morbus brought on by eating cucumbers," says M. E. Lowther, clerk of the district court, Centerville, Iowa. "I thought I would surely die, and tried a dozen different medicines but all to no purpose. I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and three doses relieved me entirely." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Dr. W. H. Lewis, of Lawrenceville, Va. writes, "I am using Kodel Dyspepsia Cure in my practice among severe cases of indigestion and find it an admirable remedy." Hundreds of physicians depend upon the use of Kodel Dyspepsia Cure in stomach troubles. It digests what you eat, and allows you to eat all the good food you need, providing you do not overload your stomach. Gives instant relief and a permanent cure.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. Look out for them. It cures piles and all skin diseases.

It Happened in a Drug Store.

"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says C. R. Grandin, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her I could freely recommend Chamberlain Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cogh Remedy. I consider that a very good recommendation for the remedy." It is for sale by all druggists.

For County Attorney, H. R. Smith.

THERE is no office in the county in which the taxpayers are more interested, than that of county attorney. To it belongs the prosecution of the violations of the criminal laws upon which the peace, security and moral standing of the community depend in a great measure. It is to this office the various county officials look for the interpretation of the laws relating to their official duties, and from which many of the numerous questions submitted to this office arise and from which much of important service to the people comes. Since H. R. Smith assumed the duties of the office he has promptly, economically and carefully conducted the same, enforcing the laws without fear or favor. His vigorous enforcement of the gambling and cigarette laws has received general commendation, though some who are not in favor of the enforcements of these laws are opposing his re-election with determined energy, which opposition should be enough to bring to his support all those who believe in the continued welfare of our citizens and their best interests.

The economy and saving exercised meets general approval. Since assuming the duties of that office he has prosecuted those criminal cases only, which he has been satisfied after a careful investigation should be carried into court. This is verified by the fact that out of thirty five criminal cases thus far investigated this year but seven have been taken into court, four of the defendants having been convicted and three having been bound over under either cash or responsible bonds to appear before the District Court. The saving arising from this care will be appreciated by the taxpayers when they consider that it cost nearly or quite $100 per day to try criminal cases besides the cost of preliminary hearing are very expensive. By the careful investigation of the said cases twenty-seven were either found to be without merit or without sufficient evidence to convict.

The last term of the District Court was without expense in criminal cases. The criminal cases for the last three months has consisted in the payment of $6 for traveling in the investigation of criminal cases, and no other claim being before the board at this session, in this department.

The traveling expenses paid Mr. Smith for the first twenty-one months does not exceed $15. For the economical, moral and careful conduct of this office Mr. Smith is entitled to re election.

For a few weeks Dr. Lemman will do dental work so cheap that no one should miss the opportunity of having his teeth fixed or false one's made. Call at once.

—B. J. Jones, candidate for sheriff on the republican ticket, was a Genesee visitor this week Mr. Jones is a farmer living near Palouse city, at Freeze postoffice. The nomination came to him unsolicited, and now that he is in the race he wants to win if he can get the office honorably. If elected Mr. Jones is capable to run the office, and as to his record he gives as references his neighbors and Palouse business men.

—John Sherman, statesman, aged 78 years, died in Washington Monday. He entered congress from Ohio in 1855, and from that time until in April, 1898, when he resigned to live a private life, he was a man prominent in National affairs. He became famous in the great anti-slavery struggle that was at its height in 1855 60. Through his efforts the notes of 1862, issued after the suspension of specie payments, were made legal tender. This was our fundamental error, the source of all difficulties since that day. Sherman's was the only voice at first raised in the Senate in favor of the National bank bill and chiefly thro' his influence and that of Secretary Chase it became a law. In the republican convention of 1880 Sherman was nominated for President by James A. Garfield, who finally secured the nomination. His political enemies were fond of calling him the "iceberg statesman." A very able man was John Sherman.

—This writer enjoyed a good visit with Senator Hansbrough while the latter was in Genesee. In the territorial days of the Dakotas we knew the senator when he was but a poor newspaper man. We took part in three territorial conventions, and since the 'Sos Mr. Hansbrough has been continually honored by his people. The senator, of Scandinavian descent, is reliable, chairman of committee on public lands in the senate, and what he tells you you can depend on He is honest with the voters.

—The office of county commissioner is an important one. The three men elected to this position have in their hands the management of the affairs of the county. Upon their judgments depends the amount of money spent in the management of the county government. The present commissioners have managed the affairs wisely and no one charges them with extravagance. They are up for re-election. We believed they ought to be successful at the polls. No man has worked harder or more faithful for the people than J. H. Horton, from the north. He has worked faithfully to cut down expenses and salaries and is a deserving of re-election as any man on the ticket. A. H. Charles, chairman of the board, is a man of business experience and well qualified for the position. His home precinct, Juliaetta, is for him strongly which is recommendation enough. Mr. Tweedt, the third member, you all know.

In the District Court, Second Judicial District of the State of Idaho in and for the county of Latah.

MARY E. MORSE, Plaintiff,
vs.
CHARLES E. MORSE, Defendant.

To Charles E. Morse, Defendant: The people of Idaho send greeting:

You are hereby notified that there is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of said State, in and for the county of Latah, the complaint of the above named plaintiff in an action brought against you of the same in general terms as follows: Plaintiff prays that a decree be made and entered in his court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant and forever releasing them each from the other in relation thereof, giving the plaintiff the legal charge and control of the said Harry D. Morse, the minor child and decreeing that the said real and personal property be and remain the separate property of the plaintiff herein, and plaintiff pray for such other and further relief as seems to the court right and just, the particulars more fully appearing in Plaintiff's complaint on file in said office to which reference is hereby made.

And you are also notified that you must plead and answer to said complaint within ten days after the service hereof, if served within Latah county, and within twenty days if served out of said county, but within said Judicial District, and within forty days if served out of said district (exclusive of the day of service), the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief as prayed for in complaint.

Given under my hand and seal of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of the state of Idaho in and for Latah county, this 25th day of September, A. D. 1900.

POLITICAL MEETINGS.

Attorney Frank Moore, candidate for state senator on the fusion ticket against Rev. Fowler, will speak in Genesee Saturday evening, Oct. 27. Robert McGregor will also speak at the same meeting.

Ex-Gov. McConnell will address the citizens of Genesee next Thursday night, Nov. 1, on state issues.

Judge Flenner, of Boise, will speak in Genesee Friday night, Nov. 3, for the the fusionists.

The republicans will wind up their campaign work with a grad rally on Saturday evening, November 3rd. Mr. Sweet cannot be here, and Mr. Ruick and possibly Mr. Cozier will entertain the people.

The fusionists are planning on winding up their campaign on November 5, night before election. Particulars later.

—Register no

—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ward drove to Pomeroy this week.

—Dan Healey has purchased a new housekeeping outfit for his city residence.

—Peter Corbett of Stuart was looking after his interests in this section Saturday.

—The Rathbone Sisters and K. P.'s have their first social of the season this evening.

—Mr. McGowan of the Aetna Ins. Co. was in Genesee Saturday adjusting the Kays fire loss.

—The registration in West Genesee has passed the 100 mark. The East Genesee has reached 275.

—James Stewart, one of the progressive Nez Perce Indians and resident of Nez Perce county, circulated in Genesee the past week.

—Mrs. Lizzie Boliou went to Moscow yesterday in response to a message stating that the two Mrs. Sullivans were on the sick list.

—Miller Fowler returned from his trip to the coast where he did good work for the Rim Rock flour. Thinks Tacoma a fine place to live in and an enterprising town.

—G. N. Hollister is having his residence remodeled and improved and when Mr. Curtiss gets through the house will present a neat appearance. Mr. Curtiss also improved his own dwelling.

—Mr. and Mrs. V. Coombs, of Litchfield, Minn., visited his sisters in Genesee, Mrs. Kennedy and Miss Coombs, a few days the past week. They made a tour of the coast towns and will visit points in Idaho and Montana on their return trip.

—The city is doing considerable work of improving in the eastern part of town, opening a channel to Cow creek, grading, etc. Col. Hollister is in charge. Must be getting ready for the flood on November 6 when it is expected that several candidates will take a trip up Cow creek instead of Salt creek. It would be funny if the colonel was one of the victims.

—With this issue practically winds up politics as far as the NEWS is concerned. We have been very mild, abused no one, tried to treat all persons and questions fairly, and we do not believe a single person can say we have uttered a word hurtful to him. What other paper can say as much? It is right and the duty of all to study the issues and men up for office and then cast the ballots accordingly. We all want to see our country prosper and grow stronger and better. We are the most intelligent and progressive race on earth. Let us continue. Be fair, be generous, and do unto others as you would like others do for you.

—The Lewiston fair was a hummer in many respects. The attendance was very large, reaching 22,300 for the six days. There was plenty to see, and the visitors were given plenty opportunities to spend their cash. Very few were allowed to return home with more than a dime. The wind lowered the tents Thursday afternoon and the rain that followed wet the visitors in grand style. The horticultural and agricultural displays were exceptionally fine. Asotin county won the cup owing to its superiority in fruits and vegetables. The racing feature captured many of our people. The boys are still talking about the different races and how they won money. They could not have lost anything for they say nothing about it.

—Gust. Tonning and wife are in Pullman to remain awhile.

—W. R. Belvaile was down from Palouse way Saturday and attended the fusion meeting.

—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Higgins entertained a number of people from Nezperce way last week.

—Rev. Chr. Anderson will conduct services in the Lutheran chapel next Sunday at 11 o'clock a. m. Sunday school at 10.

—Mr. and Mrs. Mathews, of Winchester, Idaho, came down to visit Genesee friends and are stopping with the Daggett people.

—The rains of late have put the soil in excellent condition for plowing and seeding and farmers have been pushing work with vigor.

—Gustav Dorchow, who moved out from Dakota last spring, is taking hold of farming in good style. He is improving his fine farm and in a short time will have a handsome place.

—Mr. Wood has been turning out some excellent flour of late, as we can testify from our own knowledge. The wheat is all of the best grade and Mr. Wood is prepared to turn out No. 1 quality of flour, making bread good enough or an editor or president.

—Members of the Relief Corps will please bear in mind the meeting at the hall on Saturday, April 3rd, at half past one sharp. State inspector will be present and business of importance will come up. By order of the president.

S. E. PICKERING, Sec.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gesellchen came down from Spokane Sunday to visit their many friends and relatives for a few days. Frank is as fat and good natured as ever and city life must agree with him. His sister, Mrs. Peter Michaels, of Helena, Mont., came down on the same train for a month's stay here.

—Many were the prizes given at the Lewiston fair last week. Latah county people secured many. Genesee received a few but could have secured many more if more of an effort had been made. M. Beechler got first prize on Johnathan apples; Church Bros. were awarded first prize on Jeffries and second on Famous apples; Frank Lowen received first prize on cabbage and turnips and second prize on beets.

—Rev. Father Keyzer moved into his new quarters and is a happy man. The parsonage is nicely constructed and finished. The school building will be seated within a week when the scholars will move in. The Sisters occupy their new quarters. The premises are being graded and a new sidewalk constructed in front of the entire block. Full particulars of the fine new structures will be given in the NEWS later.

—The present board of county commissioners go before the voters with an excellent record. They can show for the year 1899 a saving in current expenses of $13,248 over the year previous to 1898 when the fusionists were in power. To elect a man to look after the wants of this part of the county, we must elect one of our number. Mr. Tweedt is up for re-election and is the only aspirant from this end of the county. Financially, Latah county was never in as good condition as it is today. Warrants are at par and the commissioners buy supplies much cheaper in consequence.

—October 20 occurred H. B. Hodgins 69th birthday and in honor of the event a few of his friends congregated at his home Sunday and passed a few hours very pleasantly. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Gaffney, Mr. and Mrs. Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Hopp, Mrs. Keane, Miss Brennan and Miss Lula, Jas. S. Dermott, Ed. Keane. A handsome easy chair was left by the visitors for Captain Hodgins to remember this event. Mrs. Hodgins invited the guests in an adjoining room where she had a long table decorated with the choicest viands of various kinds to allure the taste. She was assisted by Miss Mae Hodgins and for an hour the guests discussed the good things in a happy manner. Mr. Hodgins is a well preserved man for his age and with good care will live to see many more birthdays.

10-11-1900. R. PICKERING.

—John Swank visited Pullman on Tuesday.

—A. W. Conway was up from Cul de Sac on Sunday.

—S. S. Denning is in town talking law to some of our people.

—Mrs. Chas. Power and Miss Edna Pickering returned from Spokane Tuesday.

—D. C. Monroe, agent for the Altman-Taylor threshing machine, was here corralling business for that company.

—New dress goods at Follett Bros. & Larrabee's; also standard gents shirts to fit either democrat or republican.

—Breakfast food manufactured at the Rim Rock mill is extra fine. Try a sack and you will go back the second time for more.

—H. R. Palmerton came down from Pullman yesterday to size up our wheat pile. Jump into the pit, Pal, and push up the price.

—Fred Follett picked his second crop of apples for this year. The apples are not as large as those of the first crop, but they are all right.

—The Mark Means new residence near the Lutheran chapel has been painted and presents a neat appearance. Geo. R. Howton and family occupy it.

—A. Mathiesen returned from Tacoma Wednesday where he went with his daughter, Mrs. Lena Jacobson. Said it rained steady for eight days before he came away.

—Eli Johnson and Benj. Jackson remembered the NEWS in a substantial way, Saturday. They report plenty of work to be performed before winter calls a halt.

—Jas. S. Dermott came in from Portland last week to look after his Genesee land. His many friends were glad to see him once more. Reports Mrs. Dermott enjoying fairly good health.

—Genesee received a lot of wet mail Monday. A section of the west-bound Northern Pacific train, with a large contingent of homeseekers, was wrecked near Missoula, Montana. An earth slide had displaced a rail and the train left the track. Engineer and fireman were injured. A ton of mail went into the river.

—Geo. Watts came in from Genesee Tuesday just in time to register. Mr. Watts will remain here a few days and ha e a good fish, and will again return to Genesee to wind up some business affairs, after which he will come to Asotin to vote and remain through the winter. Mr. Watts says Asotin is his home, and there is no other place in the country so pleasant, says the Sentinel. Sorry you intend to leave us George, and so are the ladies. Better stay here.

How We Use up Our Forest.

It is estimated that it takes twenty-two acres of spruce land to furnish enough wood pulp paper to run a large metroplitan daily just two days. The waste in this use this statement deplores the time, when, at this rate, our forests will entirely disappear, and paper be very scarce and expensive. Meantime, the art of printing continues, because there are many truths the world should know; among others that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a cure for diseases of the stomach, such as dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, biliousness, insomnia and nervousness. This famous medicine has been the standard remedy of the American people for fifty years. Do not accept a substitute. The genuine has a private revenue stamp over the neck of bottle.

BLACKSMITH COAL, IRON AND STEEL, at W. J. HERMAN'S.

—The ladies of the Cong'l church will serve dinner and supper on election day in Vollmer's old store building.

—August Kibbilus, who has been wielding the clever in the meat market for the past few months, left for Syracuse, N. Y.

—The ladies aid society will meet next Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. McMahon. As there is work to be done it is desired all ladies interested in the work of the church be present.

—The Genesee merchants have lots of goods just in—and some very nice—prices more reasonable than city prices. You can get a good suit of clothes now for $6, $8 and $10. Bad trusts have fastened their wicked clutches on everything, according to the politicians, but still clothing is growing cheaper.

—The county politicians have been numerous around here the past week, among them who have registered are: J. R. Collins, candidate for sheriff; B. L. French, C. J. Munson and L. C. Kinman, candidates for the legislature, all republicans. The fusionists are: W. R. Belvaile for assessor, O. W. Beardsley for commissioner, H. H. Bangs for representative, G. W. Coutts for county attorney.

—The Crow Indians, so formidable as warriors in the early occupation of the Northwest, and later so treacherous as neighbors, have dwindled in number to about 2,000, all told, says the Oregonian. They live on their large reservation in Montana, and are considered among the best of Indians—living, of course. They are progressive and industrious, plow, sow, dig ditches and raise stock. They are much interested in the proposal before Congress to sell 1,000,000 acres of their reservation lands for $1 per acre. The purchase price is not to be given to the Indians in bulk, without restriction to its use. They are required to invest $240,000 in 2-year-old heifers for distribution among the tribe; $40,000 for the purchase of ewes which are to be divided into five bands, one for each of the five districts. Further provisions are made for fencing reservation lands, building a hospital, the completion of an irrigation system, etc., leaving a balance in the United States treasury sufficient at 4 per cent to give the Indians $12 per capita a year. Tuberculosis is the scourge to which the tribe is slowly yielding. They represent the best results of the efforts made by the government to apply the principles of civilization to the Indians.

In the matter of petition for an appropriation for the improvement of the John Lovell McGee road in district No. 26, it is ordered that the sum of $75 be expended under the supervision of Thomas Linihan, overseer of district 26, for the improvement of said road.

A number of other road matters were disposed of. Several new roads were established.

Joint statement of auditor and treasurer, from April 9 to October 6, inclusive, examined and approved.

List of claims allowed at this session was examined and duly certified to and delivered to the county treasurer.

Board adjourned to meet Monday, November 12, for the purpose of canvassing election returns and transact such other business as may come before the board.

A Ray of Light

For woman's guidance is found in the fact that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures female weakness and the diseases of the delicate womanly organs which darken the lives of so many women with suffering and sorrow. That ray of light has penetrated many darkened chambers where women moaned in misery, and has guided them out to health and happiness. "Favorite Prescription" is not a tonic, not a palliative, but a positive cure for the diseases which are peculiar to women. It gives vigor and vitality. It banishes nervousness, headache, and all the aches which come from a diseased condition of the womanly organs. A temperance medicine, it contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

"I was troubled for three years with ulceration and female weakness and my doctor gave me but little relief," writes Mrs. Lulu Hunter, of Allenton, St. Louis Co., Mo. "I saw an advertisement in the paper of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I began the use of it about a year ago. I took five bottles of it, and one bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and my health is better now than it was for years. I have also recommended these medicines to some of my friends, who suffered from female weakness, and good results have followed."

—Conditions in Porto Rico have greatly improved since the American occupation of the island. An efficient telegraphic system has been established, and roads are in process of construction which will make all parts of the island easily accessible. The judiciary has been reformed; schools have been reorganized and improved; an efficient police force has put down brigandage—once the curse of the island—and rendered life and property generally insecure. Under the new order of things it is safe to assume that, as time passes, the island will enjoy a prosperity unknown in its history.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of Philadelphia, when Dr. King's New Discovery cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. She says: "After all other remedies and doctors failed it soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, sometimes I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed to cure all troubles of the throat, chest or lungs. Price 50c and $1 Trial bottle free at Kennedy's drug store.

HEAR W. E. Borah Saturday night. He is the James G. Blaine of Idaho. Mr. Borah ran on the silver republican ticket four years ago and came within an ace of being elected. Do not miss the treat of the season.

THE NEWS desires to add just one word to what we have said in favor of Hon. John T. Morrison, republican candidate for Congress. He is a clean, able, clear-headed gentleman, and would bring credit to Idaho. He is well fitted for the high office by culture and training. Mr. Morrison has pitched his canvass upon a high plane, and does not stoop to vilify those who differ from him. Wherever he has appeared this fall he has won the respect and admiration of the better element irrespective of party. All concede he would be a representative of whom Idaho could well be proud. We do not wish to speak disparagingly of the democratic nominee, but no one classes Mr. Glenn with Mr. Morrison in ability or moral character. He is far inferior. Last week Mr. Glenn was call in by the committee, while stumping up north, reports the Bonner's Ferry Herald. Glenn is a good citizen, but he has not the ability to represent us right. It is time Idaho was represented at the national capital by men of brains. Friends of the NEWS and of right and justice, vote for John T. Morrison, a man of the highest ideals and intelligence, who at the capital will reflect honor and credit on the people of Idaho.

THE fusionists held a big meeting in Genesee Saturday night, the speakers being Frank Moore, candidate for seanator, ex-Commissioner Harland, and Robert McGregor. The fusionists seem well pleased with the speech-making, and that is sufficient. The NEWS has no desire to disturb the happiness. It desires to call attention to Mr. Harland's remarks. Of course he is an honest man, but he forgot to tell the audience that the county officials were under the fee system the first three months of 1899; that the commissioners built more than a dozen large bridges, at Kendrick, Juliaetta, Cedar Creek, White Pine, Lenville; that in 1897-8 warrants sold at 90 cents. The figures used were so constructed to mislead. The NEWS is satisfied. If we were to give an extended resume of the county business of the present excellent administration there would be fault found. Nearly every taxpayer has transacted business at the court house and should know how affairs are carried on. We'll say no more.

As both sides are claiming the state of Idaho, we will not guess on the result. In all probability the Mormon vote will decide the battle. NEWS believes in the good judgment of the people and will register no kick, whichever party wins.

B. J. JONES, candidate for assessor on the republican ticket, was in Genesee making the acquaintance of the people. As to his capability and honesty he gives as references his neighbors and business men of Palouse City. Remember him on election day.

ONE reason why Gov. Roosevelt has been attacked by hoodlums is due in part at least to his aggressive and combative disposition. As a speaker he has one advantage in that he talks like a man speaking from the most intense conviction. Teddy's speeches are like his charge on San Juan hill.

THESE republicans who have been making house to house canvass, W. C. Fowler, Burton L. French, declare that Latah county will go strongly republican. They say the appearance of J. R. Collins, candidate for sheriff, is in his favor and that he is making friends wherever he goes. They are sure Mr. Collins will win if any of them are successful, and they think they will be by 300 majority.

THE campaign is closed, practically, in the country from ocean to ocean The country has been crisscrossed with special trains of eminent speakers The cities are appealed to now for votes. Mr. Roosevelt will concentrate his remaining efforts in New York City, while Mr. Bryan will make his final efforts at Chicago and Omaha. Which will be elected? The NEWS will predict the election of Mc Kinley and Roosevelt by a large majority.

WILLIS SWEET gave his hearers a fine talk in Genesee Tuesday night. Willis has few equals in Idaho as an entertainer and never hurts anybody's feelings. He started out by saying he was personally acquainted with both Major McKinley and Col. Bryan, having served in congress with them. As an orator Mr. Bryan stood high, but as a deep thinker and as an executive officer he was far beneath President McKinley. Said that past history, from Washington down to the present time, showed that, while people flocked to hear the best orators, they never elected one for president, and would not do so next Tuesday. Washington, Lincoln, Cleveland and KcKinley were opposed by celebrated orators—Washington and Cleveland never made a speech—and yet the people called on them to preside over them. Mr. Sweet devoted some time to trusts, expansion, winding up by by paying a high tribute to the worth and standing of Hon. D. W. Standrod, candidate for governor on the republican ticket. As a learned judge and lawyer Mr. Standrod could handle the Cœur d'Alene trouble better than any man in Idaho. Said matters were getting in bad condition again among the miners and a man of legal ability should be elected governor.

COL. BRYAN finds it necessary to return to New York occasionally to reconvert the back sliding voter.

JUST when the republicans think they have everything fixed in Illinois, Tanner's record bobs up to worry them.

THE state papers are showing up S. H. Bashor in his true colors, giving his record in Iowa for the past several years. The Boise Siftings, printed at Bashor's home, says "the people of Idaho should know the kind of dirty work to which this man Bashor is stooping in the state this fall. He is an irresponsible itinerant politician and the man whom he attempts to misrepresent is one of our leading and most respected citizens." The fusionists should send him back to Iowa as he is injuring their cause.

Latah county has one young soldier who is touring the precincts and saying the inhabitants of the Philippines are intelligent, nice people. A dispatch from Manila tells of Captain Novicio being convicted and sentenced to death for burying an American seaman alive. The dispatch further says: 'Testimony was produced at the trial showing Novicio also caused the death of Veuville, another member of Lieut. Gilmore's party, by delivering him into the hands of the native tribesmen known as Iloggottes, who under the pretex of going fishing lured Veuville into the woods and murdered him with two Spanish friends who were Veuville's fellow captives. The tribesmen bound Veuville, opened his veins and sucked his blood until he was dead. The evidence shows that Novicio killed a Filipino named Rodriguez, suspected of being friendly to Americans."

—A prominent physician says the use of fruit diminishes the acidity of urine and thus antagonizes rheumatism. The acids in fruits undergo changes which diminish the acidity of the blood and aid in the elimination of uric acid. The most digestible fruits are ripe grapes, peaches, apricots, oranges, baked apples and stewed fruits. A dietary consisting wholly of fruits is a valuable means of overcoming biliousness. Such dietary may be maintained for one or two days or a week. A modified fruit dietary is highly beneficial. The most laxative fruits are apples, prunes and peaches. For children especially fruits in their season are an ideal diet and should not be relinquished. A professor of dietetics, says "if one-half of the meat, one-fourth the bread, and all the candy given to children could be made to give place to fruit, the death rate among children would be greatly reduced, their bodies would be healthier than most are now."

—Judge Flenner, of Boise, is billed to speak in Genesee tonight. Hear him. No doubt he will entertain you in good style. He speaks for the fusion party.

—For keeping cabbage out of doors select a smooth piece of ground, choose firm heads, turn up side down and place in long rows. Cover with two feet of dirt. This is better than having the cabbage buried in a large pit, for then there is danger of spoiling when the pit is uncovered. Cabbage can also be kept in the cellar in barrels if plenty of earth is used so that the heads will remain compact.

—This week 25,000 bushels of bluestem wheat was sent out from Lewiston to Chicago, through the influence of Joseph Alexander. This wheat, it is claimed by the Chicago buyers, to be the best adapted for the use of making cereal foods. The price paid for this grain is not made public, but it is believed to be several cents better than coast markets. The freight rate to Chicago on grain is 60 cents per 100 pounds or 36 cents per bushel for wheat.

—The Designer for November is brimful of good things for all members of the household, but especially for the feminine portion. The fashion and millinery designs are the embodiment of style and good taste, and should be of great assistance to those who are preparing the winter ward robe for themselves or their families. The Russian garments in all its variations also "Mourning Attire," are given prominence in this month's instalment of fashion designs and the "Marie Antoinette Dip," and the "Juno Bust," which now characterize all modish feminine garments, are described in "Points of Dressmaking." "A Chrysanthemum Drill" is something nice for children. Many other articles follow of equal importance. December issue will mention a series of contests, with cash prizes for the fortunate ones, the plan for which will be more elucidated in the next number, we learn from an advance sheet.

A Village Blacksmith Saves His Little Son's Life.

H. H. Black, the well known village blacksmith at Grahamville, Sullivan Co., N. Y., says: "Our little son five years old has always been subject to croup, and so bad have the attacks been that we have feared many times that he would die. We have had the doctor and used many medicines, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is now our sole reliance. It seems to dissolve the tough mucus and by giving frequent doses when the croupy symptoms appear we have found that the dreaded croup is cured before it gets settled." There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contained no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

—The sensible custom of leaving cards at funerals is finding general acceptance. Attendance is usually prompted by the desire to show respect for the dead and sympathy for the living, but if it is not known whether or not one was present the act of courtesy fails of recognition, says the Ladies Home Journal.

The best method of clensing the liver is the use of the famous little pills known as De Witt's Little Early Risers. Easy to take, never gripe.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and find it to be a great medicine," says E. S. Phipps, of Poteau, Ark. "It cured me of bloody flux, I cannot speak too highly of it." This remedy always wins the good opinion, if not praise, of those who use it. Quick cures which it effects even in the most severe cases make it a favorite everywhere. For sale by all druggists.

Torturing skin eruptions, burns and sores are soothed at once and promptly healed by applying De witt's Witch Hazel Salve, the best known cure for piles. Beware of worthless counterfeits.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Six Frightful Failures.

Six terrible failures of six different doctors nearly sent Wm. H. Mullen of Lockland, O., to an early grave. All said he had a fatal lung trouble and he must soon die. But he was urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. After taking five bottles he was entirely cured. It is positively guaranteed to cure all diseases of throat, chest and lungs, including coughs, colds, la grippe, pneumonia, bronchitis, asthma, hay fever, croup, whooping cough. 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Kennedy's drug store.

PAINTS, OIL, GLASS, PUTTY, VARNISH, at HERMAN'S.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like De-Witt's. Look out for them. It cures piles and all skin diseases.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Brave Explorers.

Like Stanley and Livingston, found it harder to overcome malaria, fever and ague, and typhoid disease germs than savage cannibals; but thousands have found that Electric Bitters is a wonderful cure for all malarial diseases. If you have chills with fever, aches in back of neck and head, and tired, worn-out feeling, a trial will convince you of their merit. W. A. Null of Webb Ill., writes: "My children suffered for more than a year with chill and fever; then two bottles of Electric Bitters cured them." Only 50c. Try them. Guaranteed. J. W. HOPP
CHAS. POWER } Editors and Proprietors.

—Immigration westward has been very heavy of late according to the St. Paul payers.

—B. J. Jones, candidate for assessor on the republican ticket, was a Genesee visitor this week Mr. Jones is a farmer living near Palouse city, at Freeze postoffice. The nomination came to him unsolicited, and now that he is in the race he wants to win if he can get the office honorably. If elected Mr. Jones promises to run the office himself in the best manner.

—Look out for roorbacks on election day. Vote for the person the roorbacks are intended to hurt and thus repudiate this underhanded, last minute work, work that will not stand day light. Statements made by pamphlets the last day are generally lies. If these statements contained the truth they would appear in the newspapers. Vote against such work.

—W. G. Barge, deputy sheriff, brought over the election supplies for Genesee Monday. He said that Moscow would give at least 200 majority for the republican ticket and warned Genesee that if she wanted a commissioner her people must stand by Mr. Tweedt. Many Moscow democrats are supporting Mr. Tweedt, but if Genesee country don't want the commissioner Moscow will take it in the future.

—The census figures of the United States have been made public and show the Pacific Northwest, in growth of population, has outstripped all other sections of the Union. Washington, Idaho, Montana and North Dakota show the greatest percentage of growth of any of the states. Idaho has nearly doubled, showing a gain from 74,385 to 161,771, or an increase of more than 92 per cent. It is the banner state of the present census.

The End of the World in 1914.

A famous scientist predicts that the world will come to an end in 1914, basing his calculations on the revalations of the Bible. If this is so, it is well for us to get what pleasure we can out of the few years that remain for us to live. One of the surest ways to enjoy life is the possession of good health, and a well regulated stomach. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will enable anyone to obtain this. It is the greatest medicine for the cure of ills that arise from a bad stomach. Cures dyspepsia, constipation fever and ague, malaria, rheumatism and insomnia. No other medicine can show a record equal to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the standard medicine of American people for over fifty years.

For a few weeks Dr. Lemman will do dental work so cheap that no one should miss the opportunity of having his teeth fixed or false one's made. Call at once.

—A new line of steamers will be placed in operation between the Sound and Honolulu by the middle of December. Four ships will ply the waters and sailings will be made every fifteen days.

—Thomas Wentworth Higginson contributes an article entitled "The Mould of Fortune," in he November Mousehold. This fine publication can be had with the News for two dollars per year in advance. A snap.

—The annual convention of the Palouse district, Christian Endeavor union, was held at Pullman Saturday and Sunday, and an interesting time was had. Thos. H. Brewer was elec ted president and Genesee selected as the place for the next meeting. Prof. Hartzell Cobbs furnished a paper on "Christianity in Our College Life."

—It is reported that a quarter of a million barrels of flour will be shipped from Portland to China, Japan and the Philippines before January 1st, notwithstanding the war. Good. If our trade to that section is expanding at this rate at a time when such disturbed conditions prevails there, what may not be expected when peace shall have been re-established everywhere.

—The registrars in West and East Genesee have each a pretty full list of names of the voters residing within the two precincts. The registrars have more than complied with the law. Instead of registering voters on Saturdays as required by law, the books have been kept open every day for the past two months. The registrars have been asked several times by enthusiasts on both sides to go into the country and register their friends, when the law requires them to have an established place for registering. The claim was put up that unless the registrars went out to register many would not vote. But this claim has proven false. Never in the history of the country has a larger per cent of the voters registered than this year. Registrars refused to go out simply because they did not want to give any person a chance to charge them with dishonesty or impartiality in treatment as have been done in the past Nor have either asked a single voter how he or she intend to vote or in any way give one side the advantage over the other. If you have a kick to make, make it to the registrars.

County Examination.

The next quarterly examination for teachers will be held in Moscow Nov. 22-23, 1900. Questions in State Constitution will be taken from Article XVIII. In School Law from chapters XV, XVI, XVII, XVIII with particular reference to chapter XV.

This picture is the trade mark of SCOTT'S EMULSION, and is on every bottle of SCOTT'S EMULSION in the World, which now amounts to many millions yearly. This great business has grown to such vast proportions,

First:-Because the proprietors have always been most careful in selecting the various ingredients used in its composition, namely; the finest Cod Liver Oil, and the purest Hypophosphites.

Second:-Because they have so skillfully combined the various ingredients that the best possible results are obtained by its use.

Third:-Because it has made so many sickly, delicate children strong and healthy, given health and rosy cheeks to so many pale, anaemic girls, and healed the lungs and restored to full health, so many thousands in the first stages of Consumption.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

Hon. W. E. Borah, the talented young orator of Idaho, will hold forth in Genesee Saturday night and talk republicanism. You should hear him no matter to which party you belong. He is the equal of any orator in the northwest. If the weather is favorable the ladies declare they will take part in the parade. Red fire will light up the town as never before.

—Keep the flag flying!

—Walter Jain's little girl is seriously ill with fever.

—Senator Heitfeld will speak in Genesee Monday night.

—Miss Teresa Walby went to Spokane Wednesday morning.

—The Rim Rock is shipping flour to Portland—two carloads this week.

—Bert Easterbrooks built a barn and added other improvements to his place.

—Dan Healey and family moved to town last week and occupy their new residence.

—The merchants are getting in lots of goods and look for a good trade on election day.

—Arthur Harris has moved his family to the old postoffice building. He needed more store room.

—Breakfast Germ Food manufactured by the Rim Rock mill is the rage now. Try it. See advt.

—Mrs. Chas. Baird has been out from the Salmon river country the past two weeks visiting her numerous friends.

—The special police force could not keep up with the boys. A squad nearly trapped Frank Standish. Ask him about it.

—The Bee Hive ad contains new reading. Look it over, by so doing you may find something that will be of interest to you.

—Ed. Northern and Joe Kempf will winter in California. A farewell dance was given at the Kempf home Wednesday night.

—Ira Hanson let his machine saw a deep gash in his hand, between the thum and forefinger, which will lay him up for some time.

—Miss Hettie Burgess went to Kendrick Friday and returned the first of the week with her sister Becca who has been absence some time.

—Mrs. Goble is here from Lewiston the guest of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. McDonald. Mr. McDonald is here and will return to Yakima after the election.

—Vic Hasfurther says he is not caring much how the election turns as justice of the peace in West Genesee, he has four little girls now, the fourth arriving last Thursday, October 25th.

—A good audience filled the Methodist church Monday evening to hear Miss McBride in an elocutionary entertainment. She proved herself to be a master in her line of work. All were highly pleased.

—W. J. Herman has been busying himself in the construction of a delivery wagon for his own use. By the way, why not establish a wagon factory in Genesee? Good money for some enterprising chap.

—The Rathbone Sisters gave a delightful entertainment in Castle hall last Friday night. Games and dancing kept the people in good humor until midnight when a fine oyster supper was served. It was all right.

—The young society people had a hollow'een party at the home of Miss Pearl Owen Wednesday night, and a hilarious time was had, winding up with a taffy pull. About 30 people were present and indulged in games of various kinds.

—Right here we wish to serve notice on all people, to insure insertion of items and advertisements in the NEWS they must be handed in Wednesday or early Thursday morning. If handed in later than 10 o'clock on Thursday you must take your chances about them appearing. At noon we make up our forms and have little time to devote to typesetting, and besides, during our rush we forget many things, though the copy may be on the hook.

—Many of our country people, mostly Potlatchers, have been up to the Colville reservation to secure land. Among the "sooners" who took part in the rush were the Armstrong boys, Kilder, Ed. Cramer, H. W. Harkness, Sam and Geo. Oylear, Mart and Ray Nichols, Alice Parks, Ed. Overacker, Henry Eaton. Most of them secured good land west of Mt. Bonaparte on the western portion of the reservation. Their town—Kipman—is the coming city of the northwest and already contains several inhabitants, hotel, store, livery, town pump, and so on.

The Saving of Money by the use of Royal Baking Powder is considerable. Royal is economical, because it possesses more leavening power and goes further.

Royal saves also because it always makes fine, light, sweet food; never wastes good flour; butter and eggs.

More important still is the saving in health. Royal Baking Powder adds antidyspeptic qualities to the food.

There is no baking powder so economical in practical use, no matter how little others may cost, as the Royal

Imitation baking powders almost invariably contain alum. Alum makes the food unwholesome.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

—Mrs. Whitcomb took Wednesday morning's train for Wallace.

—Jack Harris showed up here this week for a visit with his friends.

—Our train arrives now at three o'clock. No change in time of departure.

—Our exchanges are so full of political thunder that it is impossible for us to glean any news from them. Papers of one party are as bad as the other.

—John Mertes has been carrying a smile around with him for some time and upon inquiry we learn the said smile is caused by the arrival of a new boy at his home.

—Service at the Cong'l church next Sunday both morning and evening. Communion will be administered in the morning. Let there be a full attendance of the members of the church.

—A number of young people tendered Mrs. Gilbert Crawford a surprise last week, 24th, it being her 22d birthday. A warm time was had, politics played an important part.

—The Woodmen of the World will give a dance next Tuesday night, Dr. P. S. Beck and Mike Glover inform the NEWS, and all dancers are invited to participate. Election returns will be received —The apple figures prominently in the ceremonies of All Hallow'een, and its succeeding day, November 1, was dedicated by the early English to the titular saint of fruit and seeds, and was called the Day of the Apple.

—Give our legislative nominees a vote and by so doing help Genesee. Remember, there are state institutions to be located. Vote for any five you wish, no matter if the names are opposite one another, they will be counted just the same.

—Miss Elmina E Fry, present and next county treasurer, and Miss Emma Nebelsieck, drove over from Moscow Saturday evening and returned early Monday morning. Miss Fry is giving excellent satisfaction as treasurer and will poll a heavy vote, many of the democrats and populists are giving her loyal support.

—No one put in a bid for white pine and fir timber at the sale at Moscow last Saturday. This is a disappointment. The reason given is on account of the 20-year clause allowed to clear the timber which time is considered too short by the lumbermen. This failure will probably retard the work of construction on the Moscow & Eastern railroad. Many tracts of school land, however, were sold. A number of Genesee farmers attended and came home happy in the possession of fine tracts. Messrs. A. Scoggin, Fred Hampton, Peter Johann, W. N. Gibb, Frank Lowen, Nick Jacobs, and others secured land near the L. Jain ranch, paying from $12 to $15 per acre. The land is worth double what the gentlemen paid and they are feeling jubilant over their investments. NEWS cannot understand why more of our people did not take advantage of the sale.

—Judge Flenner tonight.

—Dr. Hays had a Chicago Cottage organ hauled to his home.

—Mrs. Mathews has nearly entirely recovered and returned to her Pendleton, Ore., home the forepart of the week.

—Miss Plummer, fusion candidate for county superintendent of schools, was in Genesee Sunday and Monday looking after votes. We acknowledge a call.

—Mrs. Combs, of western Missouri, sister of Mrs. Nulph, arrived in Genesee Monday and will remain permanently in the west. She also has relatives near Asotin.

—Messrs. Baxter, Easterbrooks and Smith have been up in the Palouse City country after young stock. Report that the farmers are holding their calves at $15 and are not anxious to sell at that notch.

—T. Gaukshein, Chris Vik and Lewis Duybbig came down from the Fletcher country for a week's visit. The former enrolled for the NEWS, Reported Dave Lowery happy, notwithstanding the recent marriage of Miss Clark at the Lewiston fair. He also reported farmers happy and the Bryan people numerous.

—NEWS is glad to see a full registration. It means that the people will stand no foolishness. If a party or president becomes corrupt the people will rise up and demand a change. This is right and proper. This is a free country. The vote of a laborer counts as much as that of a president. A full vote should be had on all important questions.

—Mr. B. O. Winslow and Miss Lillian Dixon were united in marriage last evening at the Methodist parsonage, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Skipworth. The groom is a well known business man of the Palouse country and is now engaged in the grain business at Kamiah. The fair young bride arrived on the afternoon train from Pullman, and is recently from San Francisco. The happy couple will leave this morning for Kamiah.—Wednesday morning's Lewiston Tribune.

BLACKSMITH COAL, IRON AND STEEL, at W. J. HERMAN'S.

—W. A. Forgey writes for the NEWS from Marias, Mont.

—Remember the dinner and supper to be served by the Ladies Aid on election day.

—A new girl came to gladden the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Greiser on October 23rd.

—Some time last week when a gentle zephyr came this way, the weathercock and the "M. E. S." on the Methodist church were lowered to the ground.

—It's a 11-pound boy at the Zabel home that is causing so much hilarity over there since the 31st. Fred says the lusty chap already shouts for Teddy Roosevelt!

—Mr. and Mrs. Sheman Case arrived a short time ago from the Astoria, Ore., country to give Idaho a fair trial. Mr. Case is teaching a term of school in the Ingle district.

—Mike Driscoll carries a smile on his face. He has made a tour of a large portion of the county and firmly believes his chances of election are exceptionally bright. If Mike makes votes anything like he played cards last winter he will be all right when the votes are counted. Go it Michael.

—The boys didn't do a thing Wednesday night but remove signs of our business firms, scatter machinery, run wagons and hacks out of town, upset small buildings, and cutting up other didoes. It was Hallow'een and the boys celebrated. No particular damage was done as far as we have discovered.

—The following will be a part of the menu of the dinner given by the Methodist ladies on election day. Pig barbacue with sweet potatoes, chicken, all kinds of salads and sweet meats—in fact everything to tempt the palate of a hungry person. The dinner will be given in the store room vacated by Arthur Harris. For supper oysters will be a part of the bill of fare.

—NEWS wishes to say a few words in behalf of our present excellent county superintedent of schools, Mattie Headington. The lady has given entire satisfaction as you can learn from our teachers and educators. It is necessary to retain a qualified person as superintendent of our schools for effectual work. It effects every child and family in the county. The lady is attending to her office duties and is not out electioneering.

—The crop of winter apples is being harvested in this valley at a lively rate and is proving to be the best and largest in the history of the country. Quality the very finest. The crop will net the farmers a nice sum of money. Raymond & Co. are filling the Cold Storage house and have been compelled to hunt up more room. The fruit is going out to Montana and Dakota points along with fruit from many other Idaho and Washington points.

—W. J. Mervyn met with a painful accident the other day while coming to town with a load of grain. Down near the slaughter house the wagon wheels ran into a rut and threw Mr. Mervyn under the wheels. Mr. Mervyn called whoa to his horses and when they stopped the wheels rested on his legs. The limbs were so benumbed that he could not extricate himself from his painful position. It was twenty minutes before some one happened along and rendered assistance. While no bones were broken, the accident will keep Mr. Mervyn from active work some time.

—Quite a sad accident occurred near Nampa last week. A small child, Beulah Liston, was playing too near the ditch and fell in. She was drowned before the parents could rescue her. The family are new arrivals from Missouri.

—The Waverly beet sugar mill has commenced to grind in earnest, having about 2,500 acres of beets to work on, one half of which were grown by the owners of the factory. This industry will prove a fine thing for the farmers of Whitman and Spokane counties, and we understand, the acreage will be more than doubled next season and the number of tons raised per acre largely increased. The factory is now running, expecting to make an output of over 2,200 tons of sugar the present season, and report on the yield of sugar in beet are excellent, averaging about 18 per cent, as against 13 to 14 per cent for eastern and central states. Practical demonstration is being afforded by the Waverly factory that if sugar beet growing can be made profitable anywhere, it can in the Palouse, and we look for further extensions of the industry. This county is sending several carloads of beets to the new factory.

—The new volume of The Youth's Companion for 1901 will mark the paper's 75th year of continuous publication—75 years, during which it has had the approval of three generations of readers. The constant aim of The Companion is to carry into the home reading that shall be helpful as well as entertaining—reading that shall contribute to the pure happiness of all the family. Strong in the assurance that every reader gained is a friend won, the publishers offer to send The Companion free for the remaining weeks of 1900 to those who subscribe now for the new volume for 1901. There will not be an issue from now until 1902 that will not be crowded with good stories and articles of rare interest and value. Diplomats, explorers, Indian fighters, story-writers, self-made men and women in many vocations. The new subscriber will also receive The Companion's new "Puritan Girl" calendar for 1901, lithographed in 12 colors.

To remove a troublesome corn or bunion, first soak it in warm water to soften it, then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn for a few days to protect it from the shoe. As a general linament for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequaled. For sale by all druggists.

TOO MUCH

Heartsease is as bad as too little for the growing girl. It is very easy for her to overdo, and this is especially dangerous at that critical period of a young girl's life when she crosses the line of womanhood. It is not an uncommon thing to lay the foundation for years of after misery by neglect of necessary precautions at the first "change of life."

The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription must only establishes regularity, but it gives health to the entire womanly organism. It is the best medicine for diseases peculiar to women because it cures the causes of disease completely and permanently.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine nor any other narcotic. It cannot disagree with the most delicate constitution.

"For a number of years I suffered untold misery from Female trouble," writes Miss Agnes McCorrie of 1311 Bank Street, Ottawa, Ont. "I tried various remedies, but none seemed to give any permanent good. The doctors said I had a tumor and of internal trouble they ever had. I decided to write to you for help. I received very encouraging reply and commenced treatment at once. I took in all twelve bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' a weekly dose of 'Pellets' and a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' My health gradually improved, and I improving every day."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Whatever vocation the girl wage-worker settles upon she may as well accept the fact, first as last, that slipshod performance and inadequate equipment will win no favor, will not even secure a foothold," writes Margaret Sangster in November Ladies' Home Journal. "The ranks are everywhere crowded, and the second rate work must go to the wall. In most fields the supply is well in excess of the demand, and only the capable, the efficient, the competent and the trustworthy may hope to find their niche. As a grain of satisfaction let it be added that those possessed of these desirable qualities, those who are ready for service and are responsible in their work, are sure to be appreciated and will never cease to be wanted."

—Admiral Sampson has been very ill of late, and Lieut. Hobson is quoted as saying that he is dying of a broken heart, owing to the Sampson-Schley controversy, which followed the naval engagement at Santiago. In a speech at Atlanta last week Mr. Hobson said: "It has been sought to place him in a despicable light before the world. To make him an incompetent, narrow minded man, and jealous of the fame of his contemporaries, particular of one illustrious naval chief. As his junior officer, serving under him, I express the deliberate opinion that Admiral Sampson is the colossal figure of the Spanish-American war—the genius of the naval victory of Santiago. He is unmatched today as the directing mind of a war squadron on the seas."

Editor Sees Wonders.

Editor W. V. Barry of Lexington, Tenn., in exploring Mammoth Cave, contracted a severe case of piles. His quick cure through using Bucklen's Arnica Salve convinced him it is another world's wonder. Cures piles, injuries, inflammation, and all bodily eruptions. Only 25c at Kennedy's.

To prevent consumption quickly cure throat and lung troubles with One Minute Cure. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Made Young Again.

"One of Dr. King's New Life Pills each night for two weeks has put me in my 'teen' again writes D. H. Turner of Dempseytown, Pa. They're the best in the world for liver, stomach and bowels, Purely vegetable. Never gripe. Only 25c at Kennedy's Drug store.

It is well known that De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve will heal a burn and stop the pain at once. It will cure eczema and skin diseases and ugly wounds and sores. It is a certain cure for piles, and counterfeits may be offered you. See that you get the original De Witt's Hazel Salve. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

The emergency bags sent by a church society to Kansas soldiers in the Philippines contained among the necessities a box of DeWitt's Wich Hazel Salve, the well known cure for piles, injuries and skin diseases. The ladies took care to obtain the original De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve knowing that all the counterfeits are worthless. KENNEDYS PHARMACY.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers are prompt, palatable, pleasant, powerful, purifying little pills, at Kennedy's.

Dr. W. H. Lewis, of Lawrenceville, Va. writes, "I am using Kodel Dyspepsia Cure in my practice, among severe cases of indigestion and find it an admirable remedy." Hundreds of physicians depend upon the use of Kodel Dyspepsia Cure in stomach troubles. It digests what you eat, and allows you to eat all the good food you need, providing you do not overload your stomach. Gives instant relief and is a permanent cure.

In the District Court, Second Judicial District of the State of Idaho in and for the county of Latah.

MARY E. MORSE, Plaintiff.
vs.
CHARLES R. MORSE, Defendant.

To Charles R. Morse, Defendant: The people of Idaho send greeting:

You are hereby notified that there is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the second judicial district of said State, in the Moscow, county of Latah, the complaint of the above named plaintiffs in an action brought against you for divorce on the grounds of desertion and for other relief as prayed for in said complaint, and you are hereby required to appear in said action within ten days after the service hereof, if served within Latah county, and within twenty days if served out of said county, and in case of your failure so to appear, the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief as prayed for in said complaint.

Given under my hand and seal of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of the state of Idaho in and for Latah county, this 25th day of September, A. D. 1900.

The registration of votes in East Genesee this year reached 376, and in West Genesee 192—total 568. Last year the vote reached 375 in these two precincts.

THE Salubria News-Letter is a new candidate for public favors, by Smith & Smith. It is clean, newsy, and deserves the best support the town can give it.

THE business world breathes easier. There can be no denying that uncertainty and strain over the presidential contest has had its usual effect upon the trade of the county for many weeks.

THE Chicago Daily Record has been most interesting of all the dailies in the Northwest. Besides daily instalments from its able correspondent, William E. Curtis, the cartoons have been of the best. The Record is a great educator on all matters of the present day.

Now that election is over we expect to hear of many newspapers turning up their toes. Many should die. They exist only for political purposes and have been a disgrace, unfit to be read. The best papers should live and be supported rightly, as to such papers are due to a large extent the growth of our northwest country, continually singing the praises of our land. Without such papers we would have a poor country. There would be little going on socially, or in any other way.

THE time is come when it may be asked whether we, as a manufacturing nation, have lost all sense of the inititative that formerly distinguished us beyond the other nations of the world. A broad survey of the existing industrial field reveals a prospect not very flattering to the pride of an Englishman. We, the sea power, now look to Germany for records of the sea speeds. From the birthplace mechanical locomotion we must go to France and the United States for examples of railway speeds and efficiency. In electricity we are mere humble imitators, since scarcely any important modern development in this all-prevailing industry bears an English name. We are, it is true, making some feeble efforts to keep up with our neighbors in our great coming manufacturing industry—electrochemics—but he who seeks for guidance in this practically unexplored field must go to Nuremberg or to Pittsburg to find it. We are still predominant in the cotton industry, but it is simply a question of time when this industry will forsake us for its natural seat—the Southern States of America, and the Indian cotton fields. Are we, then, in danger of degenerating into a nation of brokers, depending for our commercial existence on the capital left us by the exertions of our forefathers.—London Express.

—Now all pull for water-works. Then for a creamery, starch factory, wagon factory, and so on. Pull for Genesee.

—Captain Cheever purchased four carloads of horses at Stuart for the United States army and shipped them last week.

—A cattle buyer on Camas prairie last week stated that he wanted to buy 200 or 300 head of beef cattle now and predicted the price would be higher in the spring.

—Bro. Herman of the Gazette announces in the last issue that he will leave Uniontown. The printing plant will remain if the citizens want it, if not he will remove it. He also offers his residence for sale. Mr. Herman gave Uniontown an excellent paper for the size of the town.

Genesee Schools.

School attendance is larger now than last year at this time.

B high school enjoys the first steps in geometry.

F. D. Hasbrouck has again taken charge of his school. During his short absence Mr. Adams wielded the rod scientifically.

C. High school has no particular trouble in algebra.

Mr. Kruse favored the school with a visit last week.

Sixth grade has several artists in their class and their work is creditable.

Miss Halverson's school is the fullest of any department, but she is master of the situation.

The teachers extend a hearty invitation to all to visit the school.

A good many pupils are having bad colds.

Parents should co-operate with the teachers in seeing that children are not tardy.

Lewiston Normal.

New students arrive almost daily.

The young ladies of the normal have organized an athletic association. They will play basket ball, tennis and croquet.

The Progressive Societies were at the head of a pleasant affair on Hallow'een. Miss Kroh was surprised by a number of the students.

The boys at Reid Hall were given a pleasant surprise on the eve of Hallow'een. The dinner-bell had just rang when 30 or 40 white-sheeted forms trooped into the dining room. The surprise and consternation of the young men at the sight of the 'ghosts' was comical. Each boy was bidden to accept the escort of a ghostly partner and the couples adjourned to Morris hall where the young ladies had prepared a fine supper. The games and tricks peculiar to all Hallow'een were played and not until 12 o'clock did the revel end.

—A teachers' convention will be held at Troy, November 17. An interesting programme will be had.

—John O'Farrell, who helped to lay out the town of Boise in 1863, driving the first corner stake, and built the first house there, died last week at the age of 77.

—Martin Meuli, the hotel keeper at Uniontown, has associated himself with Mr. Lomax of Lewiston to carry on gents' furnishing store at the latter town. Mr. Meuli will not leave Uniontown, but his son Milton will assist in the store.

—The Bunch boys who live at the head of Garden Valley on the Payette, came here yesterday with the hides of 19 bears, which they have killed at odd times within the last 35 days. They intend to ship the hides to Denver, as there is a greater demand there than elsewhere. The bears weighed from 250 to 500 pounds.—Statesman.

—Thos. Sheridan, who came here from Bitter Root valley, Mont., some five years ago and camped a few months, writes the News: "Will you kindly give me the address of some honest farmer or produce firm, as I would like to get a carload of wheat and other produce if prices are right. Address me at Hamilton, Ravalla county, Mont." Here is a chance for some one to correspond and do business with a person outside the trusts and monopolies. Who will take this matter up?

—Idaho in its fruits have received great advertising through the splendid exhibit of I. B. Perrine. At the Centennial the Blue Pearmain was Idaho's favorite exhibition apple, and a very showy apple it is, especially when grown in Idaho. A far better apple has supplanted the Blue Pearmain with the orchardists who are making Idaho famous for choice apples and that is the Jonathan. The reputation which this variety is securing through the efforts of Congressman Edgar Wilson, Mr. Perrine and other leading orchardists of Idaho will help every man who grows Jonathans for market, says the Port land Agriculturalist.

—There is no reason to expect that the present relative prices of wheat and other farm products will be permanent. In the natural course of events wheat will have its turn in bringing a high price and other farm products will have their turn in selling at a low price. The present conjunction of low prices for wheat and high prices for livestock, dairy products, eggs, etc., is having a very beneficial effect upon the farming industry. There will be more mixed farming and smaller wheat farms. News is glad to see farmers raise more hogs, cattle, sheep, poultry. It is hard for farmers to take up mixed farming as the raising of wheat is an easy matter.

—Raymond & Co. shipped a carload of fruit to Minneapolis this week. Had the fruit not been of superior quality it would have been difficult to place them on account of the heavy crop east.

—The Hall of Fame for great Americans, which has been given to New York University, and concerning which so much misinformation has got into the newspaper press, is the subject of an authoritative article by Chancellor MacCracken in the November Review of Reviews. The whole scheme of selection of candidates for the American Valhalla is described in this article, a careful reading of which should remove many misconceptions. Portraits are presented of all the 29 famous Americans chosen on October 10 to 12 for commemoration in the Hall of Fame, and a view of the edifice itself.

—The apple crop in New York state is an enormous one, says the N. Y. Tribune of last week. It also says the winds have knocked many to the ground. Apples are said to be excellent for cows if not given too many. A writer says: "When apples were plentiful I have always fed them to cows giving milk, and always with good results. They are worth more to feed than to be made into cider. We never make more cider than to keep ourselves in vinegar and apple-butter, or cider apple sauce. I have proved the value of apples as food for cows by actual experiment. As soon as they begin to fall they were picked up, drawn to the barn and fed by myself. Four quarts were given to each cow for the first few feeds, until the animals became accustomed to them; then the quantity was gradually increased to a peck. I had been feeding mill feed and took one-half away when I started in on apples and there was no falling off in milk. They are worth as much for cattle. In feeding to hogs the value is still greater than when fed to cows. Mill feed and apples make hogs. Horses, and all live stock thrive on the fruit if fed in moderation."

A Village Blacksmith Saves His Little Son's Life.

H. H. Black, the well known village blacksmith at Grahamville, Sullivan Co., N. Y., says: "Our little son five years old has always been subject to croup, and so had have the attacks been that we have feared many times that he would die. We have had the doctor and used many medicines, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is now our sole reliance. It seems to dissolve the tough mucus and by giving frequent doses when the croupy symptoms appear we have found that the dreaded croup is cured before it gets settled." There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contained no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

—The sensible custom of leaving cards at funerals is finding general acceptance. Attendance is usually prompted by the desire to show respect for the dead and sympathy for the living, but if it is not known whether or not one was present the act of courtesy fails of recognition, says the Ladies Home Journal.

The best method of cleansing the liver is the use of the famous little pills known as De Witt's Little Early Risers. Easy to take, never gripe. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and find it to be a great medicine," says E. S. Phipps, of Potean, Ark. "It cured me of bloody flux. I cannot speak too highly of it." This remedy always wins the good opinion, if not praise, of those who use it. Quick cures which it effects even in the most severe cases make it a favorite everywhere. For sale by all druggists.

Torturing skin eruptions, burns and sores are soothed at once and promptly healed by applying De witt's Witch Hazel Salve, the best known cure for piles. Beware of worthless counterfeits. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Six Frightful Failures.

Six terrible failures of six different doctors nearly sent Wm. H. Mullen of Lockland, O., to an early grave. All said he had a fatal lung trouble and he must soon die. But he was urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. After taking five bottles he was entirely cured. It is positively guaranteed to cure all diseases of throat, chest and lungs, including coughs, colds, la grippe, pneumonia, bronchitis, asthma, hay fever, croup, whooping cough. 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Kennedy's drug store.

PAINTS, OIL, GLASS, PUTTY, VARNISH, at HERMAN'S.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like De Witt's. Look out for them. It cures piles and all skin diseases. KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Brave Explorers.

Like Stanley and Livingston, found it harder to overcome malaria, fever and ague, and typhoid disease germs than savage cannibals; but thousands have found that Electric Bitters is a wonderful cure for all malarial diseases. If you have chills with fever, aches in back of neck and head, and tired, worn-out feeling, a trial will convince you of their merit. W. A. Null of Webb, Ill., writes: "My children suffered for more than a year with chill and fever; then two bottles of Electric Bitters cured them." Only 50c. Try them. Guaranteed. ABOUT WATER WORKS.

MR. EDITOR: In a former communication I have submitted cost of material for water works construction to the amount of $6,558. I now submit the additional items of an estimated cost as follows: Reducers, water gates, and other fixtures, $2,742. Gasoline engine and pumping outfit, $2,000. Tank and superstructure, $1,200. Total cost of material $12,500. Amount of proposed bonds, $17,500. Showing a balance of $5,000 to cover expense of placing material in position.

The amount of the proposed water bonds is well within the limit of the law, taking into consideration our realty assessment only.

The cost of maintenance of the system has been estimated by parties to not exceed $1,000 per year. Suggestions have been made that the city marshal take charge of the works when completed and in such case the entire running expenses of the system would not exceed $400 per annum in addition to the amount paid the said officer at the present time

Estimates as to the number of taps required by consumers have placed the same at 108, and even more. If 75 only were taken at $1.25 per month, a revenue of $1,125 per annum would result not taking into consideration any compensation for lawn service, public baths, etc., which item would undoubtedly add to the revenue to a considerable extent.

The use of city water would gradually increase as the convenience of the same would become more apparent, and the revenue be thereby increased.

The one item of street sprinkling has cost the city on an average of $200 (this year $250) which expenditure might be obviated by use of city water from hydrants.

The amount of tax upon the bonds could in no case exceed $875 per annum. We have to meet said interest water rents (estimated) house service in counting 75 taps at $1.25, $1125; lawn and bath service, $175; saving in street sprinkling, average per year, $200. Total revenue, $1500.

Expenditures. Bond interest, $875; maintenance of system per annum $1000, less $600 paid city marshal at present, $400, aggregating $1275, leaving a balance in favor of system of $225.

It will be observed that no reference is made in the above statement to an assessment for water bond interest for the reason that the same will not be required after the system is in operation, excepting for the purpose of establishing a sinking fund to be used in paying the bonded indebtedness.

—Geo. Watts drove over to Asotin Tuesday to give Teddy Roosevelt a vote in Washington state.

—Jesse Coverdale, Mrs. Lisne, Lue Olleges, Sam Swenson and others unloaded silver on us just before election so to be on the safe side in case Mr. Bryan was elected.

—You fellows lined up on election day and fired your ballots, have had a square fight, and now should be satisfied with the result. Idaho is but a drop in the bucket when it comes to national affairs. Let us smile and proceed with the work of improving our town and country.

—The Catholic school building is finished and is a great credit to the people building it. The scholars moved in last week and are proud of their new temple of learning. It is well lighted, heated and, as the years roll by, will prove of great help to the rising generation and to the town of Genesee.

—Last Sunday forenoon a crowd of Genesee young people drove out to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Murphy to celebrate the birthday of their son Walter. We arrived at the ranch at high noon, and although many were liberally sprinkled with mother earth, every one was in the best of humor. After a general clean-up all sat down to a bountiful repast prepared by the skilled hands of the hostess and to which all, especially George and Amy, did ample justice. The afternoon was pleasantly passed and at 4 all started for home declaring they had a very enjoyable time. The guests were: Misses Halterman, Whitted, Owen, Brennan, Herman; Messrs. The End of the World in 1914.

A famous scientist predicts that the world will come to an end in 1914, basing his calculations on the revelations of the Bible. If this is so, it is well for us to get what pleasure we can out of the few years that remain for us to live. One of the surest ways to enjoy life is the possession of good health, and a well regulated stomach. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will enable anyone to obtain this. It is the greatest medicine for the cure of ills that arise from a bad stomach. Cures dyspepsia, constipation fever and ague, malaria, rheumatism and insomnia. No other medicine can show a record equal to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the standard medicine of American people for over fifty years.

—Laura Filbert is again back to Genesee.

—Martin Williamson paid his respects to this print shop Monday. That day he received a letter from his daughter, Ellen, who is visiting her grand mother at Toledo, Ohio. The aged lady is 85 years old. Miss Ellen writes that the weather is very cold and frosty.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hopp secured railroad passes and left over the Northern Pacific Wednesday morning for a visit with their parents in South Dakota and Iowa who are nearing their eightieth birthdays. They will return about December 1. Mr. Hopp will also look after the apple market for the orchardists of this section.

—Clark E. De Bow and wife are preparing to leave tomorrow on a visit to friends in Michigan, expecting to be gone about three months—long enough to get cooled off in good shape. Clark has promised to send us a few icicles just to remind Genesee people that there is a slight difference in the climate of the two sections.

—Mrs. Kern's boy has been quite sick the past week.

—Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Case occupy the cottage next to the NEWS.

—Senator Heitfeld spoke in Genesee Monday night. The senator makes a better impression upon the people than speakers like Flenner. Senator Heitfeld is looking fine and will return to Washington next week.

—In Uniontown Wednesday a great wedding took place. Mr. Bartho Schlader and Mrs. Kaufmann, both well known there, were united in marriage. Following the ceremony many people gathered and had a big time eating, drinking and dancing.

It's Easy To Take

Thin, pale, anæmic girls need a fatty food to enrich their blood, give color to their cheeks and restore their health and strength. It is safe to say that they nearly all reject fat with their food.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA is exactly what they require; it not only gives them the important element (cod-liver oil) in a palatable and easily digested form, but also the hypophosphites which are so valuable in nervous disorders that usually accompany anæmia.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is a fatty food that is more easily digested than any other form of fat. A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health. You can get it in this way.

We have known persons to gain a pound a day while taking it.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9. 1900.

THE RESULT.

Tuesday election proved to be a republican landslide. McKinley and Roosevelt, by large majorities carried New York, Indiana, Illinois, Nebraska, Iowa, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Washington, Wyoming, Oregon, California, Michigan, Ohio, and the New England states.

In the county the republicans will probably have a small majority on the presidential electors and the state ticket, otherwise the ticket is badly mixed. In all probability the Genesee aspirants for office: M. Driscoll, H. C. Tweedt, Wm. C. Fowler and Thos. H. Brewer have been defeated. Dr. Beck's fate for coroner is still in the balance. The republicans will probably elect treasurer, superintendent, assessor, Charles for commissioner, probate judge, and French and Munson on the legislative ticket.

—Martin Meuli was up from Uniontown Monday.

—W. E. Cool and Miss Marie Nebelsieck visited Moscow Friday.

—John Swank will not farm the Dermott ranch the coming season.

—Miss Zula Wymer, of Uniontown, is assisting in caring for the sick at Fred Zabel's.

—The Woodman ball Tuesday eve. was largely attended and a pleasant time is reported.

—The ladies' aid society of the Congregational church will meet with Mrs. R. Burdic, Wednesday at 2 p. m.

—E. H. Stanton purchased a car of hogs of Nagel, Bomberg & Goodnight the first of the week for the Spokane market.

—Miss Emma Tweedt spent the forepart of the week in Genesee and returned to Lewiston Tuesday after depositing her ballot.

—W. F. Curtiss did what mischief he could, Tuesday, and then slid down hill to Lewiston to hibernate during the winter months.

—C. E. Wood and Fred Wilkinson came up from Kamiah Tuesday to vote. Fred returned yesterday to remain about three weeks longer.

—Fred Herman was in Genesee over Monday night from Uniontown. Stated that his father intends to move to some point in Oregon in the near future.

—We have had an ear to the ground since Tuesday, but hearing no unusual noise in the direction of Weiser it is tb be presumed that S. H. Bashor has not as yet celebrated the election of Bryan.

—Here is news for you. Teller of last week Wednesday says: A marriage license was issued yesterday to Ulysses G. Richardson and Frances Kent, both of Genesee." Both are well known here and their friends join the NEWS in extending congratulations. This news comes as a surprise to all.

—Election day opened rather disagreeable, a fog hanging over the country in this part of Idaho. The voters appeared on the streets early in Genesee and went to work in earnest. At 11 a. m. the sun shone brightly and the afternoon was almost perfect. Though the people worked hard, the battle was carried on good naturedly, and not a fight was reported. Glad to be able to report such good order. The saloons were closed during the voting.

—Henry Smith, the eighteen year old son of J. Smith living west of town, has become violently insane. He returned home a few days ago from Whitman county where he has been working and commenced attending the Genesee schools. He went out home Monday and his lunacy was so noticeable that his father and brotlher brought him to town. Monday night he became violent and Tuesday Andrew Schmidt, Geo. Mochel and M. C. Adams took him to Lewiston. He was taken to a cell in the jail and it was necessary to strap him in order to keep him from harming himself.

—Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Means have decided to move to Lewiston city next winter where they purchased a fine home last week. Mr. Means offers his store goods for sale at lower figures, and will sell his residence property. Mr. Means has done a very large business in Genesee since he started for himself, footing up to over $260,000, and only leaves because he desires to live nearer his other stores and allow Mrs. Means to live near her people and property. The NEWS and their many friends are sorry they have concluded to leave Genesee. Mark is a hustler and is accumulating considerable of this world's goods.

Quality

Never experiment with so important an article as the human food

It is the high quality of Royal Baking Powder that has established its great and world-wide reputation.

Every housewife knows she can rely upon it; that it makes the bread and biscuit more delicious and wholesome—always the finest that can be baked.

It is economy and every way better to use the Royal, whose work is always certain, never experimental.

There are many imitation baking powders, made from alum. They may cost less per pound, but their use is at the cost of health.

—Mrs. Gilbert Crawford went to Pullman Thursday for a visit with reletives.

—S. D. White, connected with the First National at Lewiston was up Wednesday.

—Mrs. Frank Geselichen completed her visit here and returned to Spokane Friday.

—M. F. Lee and wife and L. A. Lale of Spokane are here in the interests of Jones & Sons.

—Mrs. Jacobs, mother of Nic, left Wednesday morning for Minnesota to remain permanently.

—Angelus Lorang and aunt, Mrs. Michels, went to Uniontown yesterday for a short visit.

—Glenn Sampson, while manipulating a pocket knife, received a painful wound in the wrist.

—Artist Hanson went to Lewiston Friday to visit his people prior to their moving to Walla Walla.

—Tom Asbury, father and mother, left Monday for Harrison, Idaho, where they expect to find employment.

—Grandpa Harris was selling books to the Pullman people last week, also enjoyed a visit with his son Will and family.

—The Rimrock Mills are keeping up a constant grind now making flour to supply their increasing out-of-town trade.

—The dinners given by the Congregational and Methodist churches on election day were generously patronized, each society having taken in about $70.

—The first quarterly meeting of the new year will be held next Sunday at the Methodist church, Rev. G. H. Gibbs, P. E., will preach morning and evening.

—A. J. Fitz, alias Red, came up from Cal de Sac Monday evening to cast a vote for Willie Bryan. He denies the charge that he is married but states that he is open for engagements.

—Geo. H. Sheldon and wife, of Palouse, who have operated a hotel there some time, were in Genesee the first of the week en route to the reservation country. Scott Harrison accompanied them.

—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jain's little girl which has been dangerously ill is now recovering. Dr. Conant also informs us that Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rieck's child which has been dangerously ill is rapidly recovering.

—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Follett will leave early next week for a few weeks visit with relatives and friends at their old home in Minnesota. They are certainly entitled to a good visit and all hope they will have it.

—A warranty deed was filed today from W. C. Fritter and wife of Spokane to M. A. Means, of Genesee, conveying lots 11, 12, 13 and 14 of block 8, in North Park addition, city of Lewiston. Consideration $3000.—Teller.

GLUTTONY

Is more common than we may think, if we define gluttony as eating beyond the body's need of sustenance and beyond the stomach's capacity for digestion and assimilation of food. That is a fair definition, and it fastens the name glutton on many a person who would resent the term as an insult. The fact of this gluttony is marked by its consequences. The overloaded stomach becomes diseased. The popular term for the condition is "weak" stomach. The "weak" stomach fails in furnishing adequate nutrition for the body, and soon the "weakness" spreads from the stomach to other organs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect assimilation of food, by which alone the health and strength of the body is maintained.

"Your medicine helped me so much that I cannot praise it too highly," writes Mrs. C. L. Beha, of Poland, Androscoggin Co., Me. "The first dose I took helped me. I cannot forget how I felt when I took it; I was suffering everything with indigestion, and my stomach was so bloated that it seemed as though it must burst. My husband said he was going for the doctor, but I said if he would get me a bottle of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' I would try that. I had not taken it long when I felt relieved, and I have not had a touch of indigestion or stomach trouble since. I had been sick for four years, and less than four bottles cured me. Some people that knew me before I began to take the 'Golden Medical Discovery' tell me that they never saw such a change in any one, and they also say they don't see how I can do such large things as I do now, when I had not done a thing for so long."

Dr. W. H. Lewis, of Lawrenceville, Va. writes, "I am using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure in my practice among severe cases of indigestion and find it an admirable remedy." Hundreds of physicians depend upon the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure in stomach troubles. It digests what you eat, and allows you to eat all the good food you need, providing you do not overload your stomach. Gives instant relief and a permanent cure.

Summons.

In the District Court, Second Judicial District of the State of Idaho in and for the county of Latah.

MARY E. MORSE, Plaintiff, vs. CHARLES E. MORSE, Defendant.

To Charles E. Morse, Defendant: The people of Idaho send greeting:

You are hereby notified that there is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of said State, in Moscow, county of Latah, the complaint of the above named plaintiff in an action brought against you of the nature in general terms as follows: Plaintiff prays that a decree be made and entered in his court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant and forever releasing them each from the other in relation thereof, giving the plaintiff the legal charge and control of the said Harry D. Morse, the minor child and decreeing that the said real and personal property be and remain the separate property of the plaintiff herein, and plaintiff prays for such other and further relief as seems to the court right and just, the particulars more fully appearing in Plaintiff's complaint on file in this said office to which reference is hereby made.

And you are also notified that unless you appear and answer to said complaint within ten days after the service hereof, if served within Latah county, and within twenty days if served out of said county, but within said Judicial District, and within forty days if served out of said district (exclusive of the day of service), the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief as prayed for in complaint.

Given under my hand and seal of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of the state of Idaho in and for Latah county, this 25th day of September, A. D. 1900.

FROM HENRY NELSON.

Wetaskiwin, Alberta, Nov. 4, 1900.

EDS. NEWS: I will now try to fulfill my promise to write you a letter. Our journey from Spokane to this place was a pleasant one with but few exceptions. Between Spokane and Northport a bridge, 60 feet high and 300 feet long, gave way, wrecking a long freight train and killing five men who were stealing a ride. Our train reached the wreck a few hours later, but nothing could be seen but a long string of fire, smoke, ashes and iron. Up to that time only one man's burned shoes were found with the bones of his feet in them. We were transferred nearly a mile in wagons. Soon after we had to be vaccinated to the tune of $4 before we crossed the line. We were detained at Nelson nearly a day but we enjoyed it. Nelson has five thousand people and is a town of business. Our trip on the boat from Robson to Arrowhead, 112 miles, was the most pleasant part of the journey.

The city of Calgary is a fine looking town and will compare favorably with cities of its size in the states. From Calgary to Wetaskiwin, 151 miles, will say that the north half of said distance is doubtless a fine country for mixed farming and stock raising.

We arrived in Wetaskiwin on the evening of April 5 to the tune of $196 short in our cash account, having traveled just 896 miles. About two weeks after arriving here we wrote a letter to our daughter, Mrs. George Hobson, which appeared in the NEWS. In said letter we described the country as we found it up to that time, and don't know that we would reverse what was then said, but in a few weeks after writing said letter we found that like all good countries there were some drawbacks, one of which was that we had to contend against many millions of warriors, small but willing to attack us both day and night, and so great was the sorrow of the people that both men and women wore veils for self protection, and for the same reason men plowing in the fields carried smudges with them, and many people riding in carriages carry a smudge with them to protect themselves and horses from these mosquito warriors. And this summer here has been very much like the rainy summer in Idaho several years since. Finally we were greeted by a snow storm on the 23d or 24th of September, to the depth of 15 inches on an average, drifting in many places three, four and five feet deep. About one-third of the grain in this community was yet standing when the storm commenced, but was mashed as flat as if a heavy roller had been run over it when the ground was soft. It did not raise any when the snow was gone and was lost except by cutting for feed with a mower and then by only cutting one way. Two acres was a full days work. However, we lived through it all and have had four weeks of very nice weather.

Our grain all sold at 26 cents a bushel, and part of the oats made nearly 70 bushels per acre. Harry and Fred did the farming and the writer manipulated the saw, hammer and plane—worked five weeks in town superintending the building of an eighteen room cottage until ready for plastering. Since we have been superintending the building of a large two-story farm house for a German with a small family of only fourteen children. Will have two weeks work yet with him if winter holds off. In addition to the above we done a $35 job of painting, helped a neighbor build a four-room house and built our own house which is 16x24. We simply mention the above that our friends may see that we have not been idle, and that all may see that this country is pushing to the front.

Farm laborers get $1 a day or $20 a month. Harvest and threshing wages average about $1.25 per day. Work horses are much higher here than in the Palouse country. Milch cows and all other cattle are about the same as there except good common calves, four to six months old, are worth from $12 to $16. Hogs about the same as there except brood sows, which are quite high. Oats and barley are worth 25 to 27 cents for 34 pounds but good oats will weigh 45 pounds. No. 1 wheat is worth 50 cents. Potatoes 20 cents and no market at that. Butter 15 cents per pound, eggs 15 cents per dozen. Flour, best, $2.40 per hundred; second $2. Nearly all general merchandise is higher than in Idaho, woolen goods included. Cotton goods which sell there for $1 sell here for $1.80, so that it looks to a man up a tree like consumers here who favor high protection are a little minus in the upper story.

Carpenter wages here are only $2 per day, but we have been getting 50 cents extra for being boss. No fruit raised in this part of the country. A few kinds of small berries are grown. Eating apples are worth ten cents a pound. Land is advancing in price all around Wetaskiwin, and in our school district every acre is sold and nearly all occupied. Harry has been offered $160 advance for his quarter and pay for breaking. We look for a heavy immigration in the spring, and if so we may sell out and pull for the states as we don't like farming—never did and never expect to. Did not want to leave Genesee and would like to be with you again and still claim our citizenship with Uncle Sam. Notwithstanding our individual desires, likes and dislikes, we will say that this is a good and fine country, well adapted to mixed farming but more especially to stock raising, and any one who likes that kind of business and has money enough to enter into it right will surely make money quite fast. But we are not stuck on facing those warriors previously mentioned nor the big snow storms in the middle of harvest.

As we have already been quite tedious will close by extending our best wishes to all our friends and acquaintances, ye editors included, but especially to W. J. Bryan, the people's friend. Respectfully Yours,

HENRY NELSON.

WHILE Bryan carried Colorado by 78,385, yet compared with 1896 the Bryan vote fell off about 41,000, while the McKinley vote increased about 64,000.

THE election of 1900 has interrupted the sequence in the pendulum swings in presidential canvasses, which have been under way for many years. It has ended the see-sawing of New York and Indiana in quadrennial elections. These two coincidences were counted on by the Bryanites to continue. But superstition does not always count.—Globe-Democrat.

JOHN L. WILSON formally announced in a speech to his lieutenants at Spokane Saturday night that he would not seek political office again in the state; that he would no longer be found among the leaders of the party but would be a worker in the ranks. He has, however, reserved the right to throw his harpoon into Levi Ankney whenever it is found convenient.

THE next congress will be short two prominent figures—John J. Lentz, of Ohio, and R. F. Pettigrew, of South Dakota. Lentz has been a duplicate of Pettigrew in Washington and represented a district that had been lost but once by the democracy. But the day of reckoning has come. Pettigrew has been turned down in South Dakota as no man has in recent years. His state, his country, his ward against him, and now he is clamoring for the organization of a new party.

THE National Irrigation Congress which will meet at Chicago, Ill., Nov. 21, 22, 23 and 24 is creating wide interest and promises to be an unusual success. The national irrigation movement has become a broad popular movement and eastern commercial interests have readily taken hold of the idea of reclaiming and populating the arid west and thus creating a great home market for their goods. The best authorities on irrigation and forestry have been secured to speak and give illustrated lectures, and men of national fame and renown as orators and statesmen, will address the Congress at the great Auditorium theatre on subjects of national interest to the West.

IN Whitman county the official count reveals the fact that republicans lost all but three of the county officers and one representative. W. W. Renfrew was elected clerk over Walter Savage of Uniontown by 72 votes and we might add that Mr. Savage's defeat by so small a majority is no disgrace as his opponent has proven to be one of the most competent officials that Whitman county has ever had. William McDonald, the notorious district judge, was defeated by S. J. Chadwick, he receiving a majority of 240 votes.

THE population of Idaho is officially announced. By counties it is as follows: Ada, 11,559; Bannock, 11,702; Bear Lake, 7,051; Bingham, 10,447; Blaine, 4,900; Boise, 4,174; Canyon, 7,497; Cassia, 3,951; Custer, 2,849; Elmore, 2,286; Fremont, 12,281; Idaho, 9,921; Kootenai, 10,216; Latah, 13,451; Lemhi, 3,446; Lincoln, 1,784; Nez Perce, 13,748; Oneida, 8,933; Owyhee, 3,804; Shoshone, 11,950; Washington, 6,882. These figures show that over one-third of the population is in the five northern counties; that Nez Perce and Latah counties lead and that the total population of the state is 162,852.

THE next United States senate will in all probability be made up of 46 republicans, 27 democrats and 9 independents, with the legislatures in doubt in three states, with the privilege of electing four senators at this time, and Idaho with one senatorial chair to be filled. In our own state all is not certain that Fred T. Dubois will succeed Geo. L. Shoup, although the fusionists will have a working majority in the coming legislature. Governor Steunenberg is by no means a back number and should he develop a following in his own party and get assistance from the republicans, for it is not likely that Dubois will find many friends among the republican legislators, he may be able to cause Freddy considerable inconvenience.

A Village Blacksmith Saves His Little Son's Life.

H. H. Black, the well known village blacksmith at Grahamville, Sullivan Co., N. Y., says: "Our little son five years old has always been subject to croup, and so bad have the attacks been that we have feared many times that he would die. We have had the doctor and used many medicines, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is now our sole reliance. It seems to dissolve the tough mucus and by giving frequent doses when the croupy symptons appear we have found that the dreaded croup is cured before it gets settled." There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contained no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

If you have ever seen a child in the agony of croup you can realize how grateful mothers are for One Minute Cough Cure which gives relief as soon as it is administered. It quickly cures coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and find it to be a great medicine," says E. S. Phipps, of Poteau, Ark. "It cured me of bloody flux, I cannot speak too highly of it." This remedy always wins the good opinion, if not praise, of those who use it. Quick cures which it effects even in the most severe cases make it a favorite everywhere. For sale by all druggists.

In India, the land of famine, thousands die because they cannot obtain food In America, the land of the plenty, many suffer and die because they cannot digest the food they eat. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. It instantly relieves and radically cures all stomach troubles.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Six Frightful Failures.

Six terrible failures of six different doctors nearly sent Wm. H. Mullen of Lockland, O., to an early grave. All said he had a fatal lung trouble and he must soon die. But he was urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. After taking five bottles he was entirely cured. It is positively guaranteed to cure all diseases of throat, chest and lungs, including coughs, colds, la grippe, pneumonia, bronchitis, asthma, hay fever, croup, whooping cough. 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Kennedy's drug store.

There is no pleasure in life if you dread going to the table to eat and can't rest at night on account of indigestion. Henry Williams, of Boonville, Ind., says he suffered that way for years, till he commenced the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and adds, "Now I can eat anything I like and all I want and sleep soundly every night." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will digest what you eat.

—Will Gray left yesterday morning for a few weeks' visit at Salt Lake.

—Geo. Watts went down to Asotin the first of the week to remain for a while.

—W. E. Gage left this morning for Wardner where he goes to work in the mines.

—Mike Driscoll has again assumed his duties as chief of police and street commissioner.

—John Reilly was up from Uniontown Tuesday in connection with the John Meyer farm sale.

—C. W. Herman has discontinued the Uniontown Gazette and shipped the plant to Ranier, Oregon, where he will establish a new paper.

—Otto Lieck, a nephew of Mrs. Biram who has been soldiering in Cuba and the Phillipines with the regulars, arrived here Tuesday from San Francisco where he has been in the hospital. He will leave in a few days for Minnesota.

—Chas. Bomberg and Pete Steltz got mixed up in a double runaway Wednesday at the slaughter house. Chas'. team lit out getting astride a bard wire fence, while Pete's team chased themselves around a field. No particular damage done.

—The business of the Moscow National is to be wound up in December. The list of notes, collateral notes, stocks, securities, city warrants, overdrafts, judgments, etc., which are included in the assets is as long as the moral law and makes interesting reading.

—Joe Kern who has been very ill the past week or ten days was by his mother taken to the hospital at Moscow Monday morning where an operation was performed on him for appendicitis, that proving to be his malady. The operation was successful and late accounts from there give hope of his recovery.

—Marcus Daly, the great copper king of Montana, died in New York city Tuesday morning. He came to this country from Ireland when a boy and has been identified with all the old mining camps. So great were his business and mining enterprises at Anaconda, it is estimated that eighteen thousand men were on his payroll.

—A little yarn went the rounds last Wednesday which is worth reproducing. After listening to the reading of the bulletins at Elliott hall a small party had decided to adjourn for the night. John Magee and Dr. Beck were two of the number. Mr. Magee, believing that the doctor had been elected county coroner, and as the different ones that made up the party were about to go their various ways, he said: "Well, doctor, Genesee gave you a good majority, also Lenville, and you are in all probability elected coroner. This being so I believe the first duty you will have to perform is to sit on the corpse of 16 to 1."

—R. Jackson transacted business in Spokane this week.

—A son and heir has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Arant at Spokane.

—We are informed that Miss Kate Moore on Wednesday of this week, was married to a Portland mining man.

—C. G. Moore, of Moscow, is in the city endeavoring to organize a new lodge of Mystic Workers of the World.

—The county commissioners met Monday to canvass the election returns. The final count shows that the republicans have much the best of it, having elected three representatives, sheriff, one commissioner, probate judge, assessor, treasurer, superintendent and coroner, while the democratic, silver republican, Bryan direct legislation tickets get two representatives, senator, two commissioners, county attorney and surveyor. For representatives French, rep., received 2112 votes, Munson, rep., 1977 and Driskel, rep., 1952: Hunter, fus., 2113, Bangs, fus., 1962. For state senator, Moore, fus., received a majority of 129 over Fowler, rep. For sheriff, Collins', rep., majority over Driscoll, fus., is 54; for treasurer, Fry's, rep., majority over Hammond, fus , is 353; for superintendent, Headington's, rep., majority over Plummer, fus., is 263; for assessor, Jones', rep., majority over Belvail, fus., is 120; for attorney, Coutts', fus., majority over Smith, rep., is 147; for surveyor, Hannah's, fus., majority over Bush, rep., is 88, for coroner, Jamison's, rep., majority over Beck, fus., is 29; for probate judge, Strong's, rep., majority over Griffin is 303 For commissioner; first district, Irvin's, fus., majority over Horton, rep., is 13; second district, Beardsley's, fus., majority over Tweedt, rep., is 159; third district, Charles', rep., majority over Bencotter, fus., is 46.

The End of the World in 1914.

A famous scientist predicts that the world will come to an end in 1914, basing his calculations on the revalations of the Bible. If this is so, it is well for us to get what pleasure we can out of the few years that remain for us to live. One of the surest ways to enjoy life is the possession of good health, and a well regulated stomach. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will enable anyone to obtain this. It is the greatest medicine for the cure of ills that arise from a bad stomach. Cures dyspepsia, constipation fever and ague, malaria, rheumatism and insomnia. No other medicine can show a record equal to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the standard medicine of American people for over fifty years.

NORMAL NOTES.

The foot ball team is making a great effort in the right direction. The new coach gave them his first instructions Tuesday and they are going to beat the U. of I. boys on the 24th.

The Genesee News is eagerly read every week at the Normal.

The students were given a holiday last Tuesday. Many of them took advantage of the opportunity for voting.

The Excelsiors are always up-to-date. Their latest enterprise was a mock election. All the necessary forms of voting were gone through and an intense interest in politics was shown.

The choral class is doing fine work. A male quartette has also been organized.

Mr. Colton delivered an inspiring address to the young men of the institution on Nov. 7th. In the evening he spoke to the student body. Mr. Colton is an organizer of the Y. M. C. A. and it was in this capacity that he visited the school.

A shower party held at Morris hall by friends of the Normal was a very enjoyable affair. The girls' dormitory is the richer by the reception of many valuable and beautiful articles of furniture.

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA

will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

ADJUDGED HIM INSANE.—Henry

Schmidt was adjudged insane yesterday and will be taken to the state asylum at Blackfoot in a few days. The examination was made before Probate Judge Langford yesterday morning by Dr. C. C. Phillips, county physician. Schmidt is the young man who was brought to the city Tuesday from Genesee and confined in jail pending an examination on the charge of insanity. His insanity was of a violent character and during Tuesday night he made frantic endeavors to open the large steel doors of the cell. During these efforts he tore a large piece of sheet iron, one-third of an inch in thickness, from the door and bent it almost double. It was found lying on the floor of the cell the next morning. Wednesday night he slept soundly, and when he appeared for examination yesterday he was perfectly calm. He has temporary periods of rationality, and it is believed that with the careful treatment afforded at the state asylum he will soon entirely recover. His father, brother and sister reside near Genesee.—Lewiston Tribune.

—In this issue of the NEWS we print an interesting communication from Henry Nelson. To those who are dissatisfied with their lot in Idaho, where the climate is superb, crops of all kinds grow in abundance, this letter should be especially interesting.

—There was commenced at the Congregational church last evening a series of revival meetings. They will be continued next week. The Rev. Mr. Jones of Dayton will preach next week commencing Monday night. All are invited. Services next Sabbath both morning and evening.

—Horace Sampson was over from Deland Monday. He stated that the store had been closed out and that Mr. Pollok and himself would look up a new location and would again embark in the same business in the early spring. Mr. and Mrs. Pollok for the present will go to Tekoa while Horace and wife will remain in Leland. They have no complaint to offer for their trade at Leland since in business there but prefer doing business at a railroad point.

—There was great excitement Tuesday in the settlement north of Genesee over the attempted killing of Ben Borgen. Monday evening about 8 o'clock he had finished doing his work about the barn and shortly after retired for the night. He arose shortly before daylight and went to the barn to feed his horses and as he opened the barn door a rifle was discharged, a 44 callibre bullet passing through the flesh under his chin, making an ugly looking wound although not necessarily dangerous. So great was Mr. Borgen's surprise and shock that he did not wait to learn the cause of the shooting but hurried to the home of Martin Martinson, his nearest neighbor for assistance. Although his wound was bleeding badly he was anxious for revenge and together with Mr. Martinson returned to the scene of the shooting. Upon entering the barn to their great surprise they found a rifle very ingeniously arranged upon two pitchforks, a string tied to the trigger and then to the door so that when the door was pulled open the rifle was discharged. Upon examination of the rifle Mr. Borgen was astonished to find that it was his own, although he did not remember seeing it around the place for a week or two previous. As Mr. Borgen is not known to have an enemy in the entire community, being an exemplary citizen, the cause of the attempted dastardly killing is a mystery. After the excitement had subsided Mr. Borgen was brought to town and Dr. Conant dressed his wound which is not likely to result in anything more serious than to leave an ugly scar.

—The final Indian payment at Spalding, amounting to $93,000 was begun Tuesday. Thos. H. Brewer, T. Driscoll, Ed. Follett, Ed. Walters and C. W. Hanson were down sizing up the pile. This being the final payment, business men throughout the surrounding towns are present vigorously pushing collections.

—The apples from the orchard of Col. E. F. Babcock, near Walla Walla, that were sent to the Paris exposition, received the first prize and were honored with a gold medal and a diploma. So reports G. D. Bracket who was sent to Paris by the department of agriculture at Washington. Col. Babcock's apples comprized 55 varieties and were mostly from trees that bore fruit for the first time this year and were set out in 1897.—Colfax Gazette.

—An important sale of farm property was closed in Genesee Tuesday, when John Meyer deeded to W. G. Cochran his entire ranch and all stock and improvements for a consideration of $10,000. Mr. Cochran has for the past few years been mining in the Alaska gold fields with good success and now expects to extensively engage in mixed farming and stock raising. He has taken possession of the property and his family will arrive in a few days from Seattle. Mr. Meyer will move his family to Genesee to reside and expects in the future to take life a little easier. At the time of the sale Mr. Meyer was free from any indebtedness and is an example of what can be done in this fertile section by hard work and good management, as but a few years ago his property interests were small and his bank account still smaller.

—Mrs. L. Jain has been indisposed the past week.

—Work of beautifying the school grounds is now in progress. About one hundred trees will be set out, the varieties to be mountain ash and poplar. The ground has been thoroughly worked and with proper care in a few years large trees will take the place of the present barren appearance.

—Last week a delinquent subscriber said he would pay if he lived.—He died. Another said: "I will see you tomorrow." He's blind. Still another said, "I'll pay you this week or go to the devil." He's gone. There are hundreds who ought to take warning of these procrastinations and pay up now.—EX.

—A circular letter has been sent out by General Agent Hill of the Northern Pacific to all towns upon its line in this section where wheat is extensively grown, asking for information with regard to a suitable location for a strawboard factory. A New York concern desires to build a branch out here and will build a mill with a capacity of producing ten tons of strawboard per day, which will consume thirty tons of wheat straw. The prime requisites are an abundance of wheat straw and good clean water. In the matter of an abundance of wheat straw Genesee can lay claim to the establishing of this enterprise over any town in the Pacific northwest, for no other shipping point markets as much wheat and has as many acres of rich wheat-producing land tributary to it. In the requirement of good water, while not situated on a stream, good water is found here in abundance. The citizens of Genesee and the farmers in general would welcome the establishing of such an enterprise and would offer any encouragement in their power.

—The question of water works has been placed on ice. The vote on the question last Saturday resulted in its defeat by a majority vote of thirty, while it would have taken a two-thirds majority of votes cast to carry it. The First ward gave 43 against and 36 for the proposition, while the Second ward went 52 against and 25 against.

—I. L. Harader, of Payette, is reported to have an interesting study in nature. A few days ago an old cat drifted into his possession, bringing with her a family of four kittens. These kittens are half rabbit and half cat, the fore-quarters being those of a kitten and the hind-quarters those of a rabbit. They have the tail of the rabbit and jump instead of walk.

—One of the most important cases to be heard at Mt. Idaho this week is the case of Florence Young vs Frank McGrane et al. This is an action to recover $7,000, which plaintiff alleges her husband, B. Rigley Young, lost in gambling while on a spree at Grangeville in September. Heyburn & Heyburn of Spokane, represent the plaintiff, and Reid & Worth the defendants, says the Lewiston Tribune.

—A couple of work trains with large crews of men will begin the work of constructing steel bridges between Troy and Kendrick next week. It will probably take two months to complete the task..... The dryer at this place has already dried 150 tons of green prunes, making 50 tons of the dried product, and is still running. Prunes are still coming in and the dryer will probably be in operation until the holidays.—Troy News.

OPINIONS OF PRESS AND PEOPLE.

The task which the country set itself in this election was not so much the election of McKinley as the defeat of Bryan. The work has been well done, the verdict is decisi e, the result is unquestioned. This election means three things—maintenance of the gold standard, Pacific expansion, and rebuke of socialism. When the Democratic party identified itself in 1896 with debasement of the currency and compromise of the Nation's financial obligations, it made sure of the antagonism of finance, commerce and industry, not only then, but in 1900, and measurably in 1904. Dishonest money and unsound finance bear such vital menace to a people's welfare that those who espouse them are in all human probability digging for themselves graves without hope of resurrection. The adventurers who launched the Chicago platform of 1896 took their political lives in their hands and forfeited the confidence which it may take a generation to restore. The warning uttered then by Hill and Whitney, Vilas and Russell, has been abundantly and disastrously verified. * * * It is not an easy task to which McKinley and Roosevelt have been called. They are imperfect, as all men are, but they were preferable to their alternative, and such discharge as our duties get must be from them. In the critical times of the coming four years there will be grave dangers of failure in many things. Mistakes will be made. They are inevitable; but upon the main course to be followed, their path is plainly indicated. The new century will begin with promise of a grander era than the Nation has ever known. With honest money, widened markets, expanding area and enhanced National prestige, the material, intellectual and moral standards of the people will rise to greater heights than ever before. The eagle is plumed for her loftiest flight.—Oregonian.

The New Orleans Picayune sent telegraph requests to many leading democrats, asking expressions with reference to the future of the democratic party. Following are extracts from some of the replies:

Ex-Governor Boies of Iowa: "My belief is we should drop 16 to 1. Let the money question rest while conditions are as at present. Organize democratic clubs in every voting precinct to send delegates to county, from county to state, and from state to national conventions of delegates to meet periodically and formulate a platform for the party."

William Vilas: "You can not wisely operate on a patient in utter collapse. When natural revival ensues, if party conscience comes back with returning vitality, the way to democratic victory is as plain as types of fidelity and honesty. Let democracy turn from its folly and live."

John G. Carlisle of New York: "In order to achieve success or to become beneficial to the country as an opposition party the democracy must abandon all dead issues, free itself from demoralizing issues and return to the true principles and policies of the party."

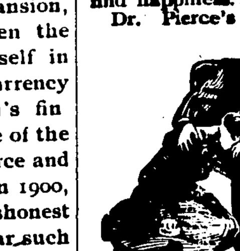
Senator John M. Morgan, Alabama: "The democratic party needs no reconstruction. It needs fidelity to its creed, which has stood for 100 years."

T. C. Catchings, Mississippi: "Drop free silver, drop fusionism, drop the cry of government by injunction, drop the cry of imperialism and militarism, drop all discussion about the Philippines until peace has been restored, drop appeals to the passions and prejudices of the idle and discontented. Revive the federal question of taxation, teach the democratic doctrine that people can not be made rich by taxation, assail favoritism and wrongs of a high protective tariff, stand for the control of trusts and combines by methods not oppressive, demand enlargement of the powers of the interstate commerce commission and the liberal improvements of harbors, and insist on local self-government and let the next presidential candidate remain at home during the campaign."

MR. BRYAN cast his vote at 11:10 o'clock. The place at which he exercised this public duty was hose house No. 3, a half dozen blocks from his place of residence on B. street. Before going to the voting place Mr. Bryan repaired to the city hall, where he filled out a certificate stating that he had failed to register because of absence from the city. The clerk at the city hall who supplied him with a certificate also dispensed to all who would receive them yellow badges bearing the inscription, "I am a Republican," and he seemed quite as much occupied with one duty as the other. There was quite a procession from the city hall to the voting place, consisting of citizens and newspaper men in carriages and a number of Mr. Bryan's neighbors on foot, who escorted him to the voting place. The presidential candidate was granted no exemption by the judge of election, the Rev. Mr. Ludden, a Lutheran minister of Republican proclivities. Mr. Bryan was required to give his place of residence, the state where he was born and also inform the officials as to how long he had lived in the precinct, the ward and the state. Having obtained this information, Mr. Ludden asked Mr. Bryan, in accordance with the law of the state, whether he wished to state the name of the party with which he affiliates. To this Mr. Bryan promptly responded, "The Democratic party," and with a smile he added, "With friendly feelings toward two others." After this Mr. Bryan took the ballot which was handed him, entered a booth and prepared his ballot. Emerging from the booth, he dropped the ballot into the tin box prepared for that purpose and the vote was given the number 183.

Sympathy

Is a good thing for the young husband to give the young wife. But sympathy will not abate one jot of her nervousness or lift her to that plane of sound health where alone the wife and mother can find happiness.



Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription meets every womanly want and need. It tranquilizes the nerves, restores the appetite and induces refreshing sleep. Its use previous to maternity makes the baby's advent practically painless and gives the mother abundant nutrition for her child. "Favorite Prescription" is a woman's medicine and has no equal as a cure for womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Accept no substitute for "Favorite Prescription." No other medicine is "just as good" for weak and sick women.

"It affords me great pleasure to be able to say a few words in regard to the merits of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. Flora Arn, of Dallas, Jackson Co., Mo. "I was tempted to try these medicines after seeing the effect upon my mother. At an early age of married life I was greatly bothered with painful periods, also a troublesome drain which rendered me weak and unfit for work of any kind. I became so thin there was nothing left of me but skin and bone. My husband became alarmed and got me a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription. After he saw the wonderful effects of that one he got two more, and after I used those up there was no more pain, and I began to gain in flesh very rapidly."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Latah County Abstract & Title Guarantee Co. Moscow, Idaho

THE ladies of Boise will tender a reception to Senator Geo. L. Shoup at the Natatorium, Boise, this Friday evening. The Senator is expected to leave for Washington about the 26th of the present month.

WHEN the new state administration takes hold of the reigns of office, T. W. Bartley, populist and socialist, of Moscow, will be state land and timber inspector, if the now existing slate is not broken before that time.

BRO. SHAVER of the Star complains of not getting his share of the county work, and possibly the kick is justifiable, although the Star has been in touch with the county administrations for the past six or eight years. As the Mirror is getting all the pie at the present time it seems quite contented. The NEWS, under the present management, has been in existence about ten years and during those ten years we have received practically nothing in the way of support from the court house. From a point of justice papers of the county not published at the county seat are as much entitled to a share of the county work as those that are, yet we will wager our office towel that not to exceed $350 has been expended for printing in the offices outside of Moscow in the past ten years. On this subject we may have more to say later on.

SEVERAL points in Idaho and in the Palouse are aroused over the prospect of securing a strawboard factory, an eastern concern having opened correspondence on the subject with the Northern Pacific railway officials. The factory will utilize wheat straw as the raw material of its product. Of course such a factory should be located in the heart of the wheat belt, and one of the towns of Kendrick, Juliaetta, Moscow or Genesee should easily secure the prize. But while only one can be selected by this concern, there seems no good reason why such towns should not start a home industry movement and build a factory themselves. Sooner or later the Inland Empire is going to find salvation in manufacturing, at least to the extent of grinding its own flour and and farinaceous foods, curing its own bacon and hams, making its own clothes and shoes, canning its own fruit and vegetables, turning its own timber into useful shapes and building its own implements and vehicles. The raw material and power are all here, and some day the people are going to demand for themselves the profit that goes to the manufacturer, the middlemen and the transportation lines both ways.—Daily Tribune.

THE wheat market is a most uncertain thing and less reliable are the various reports which are sent out concerning the crops of the different countries. Only a short time ago the news was published broadcast of a most alarming shortage in Russia, calculated to have a marked effect on the world's supply and the price of the cereal. Recently the news has reached London that the Russian crop will amount to 45,150,000 quarters of wheat, 97,250,000 quarters of rye, 82,000,000 quarters of oats and 25,750,000 quarters of barley. This crop of wheat is said to be the largest since 1896. To back up the opinion that the first reports of damage were mostly imaginary, is the fact that Russia has recently been selling wheat to other European countries. There is no predicting what erratic course the wheat market in this country may not take, but judging from the above and also the fact that exports of American wheat and flour to Europe up to the present time are below what they were last year at corresponding date, there is little encouragement to look for much improvement in price on this side of the Atlantic.—New West Trade.

IT would seem that Genesee was born under an unlucky political star, at least such has been her fate since the election of 1890. In 1892 Genesee presented two candidates, H. J. Bundy, dem., for sheriff and E. T. Platt, rep., for commissioner. Mr. Bundy was defeated by 17 votes by John L. Naylor and Mr. Platt was elected by a plurality of 367. In 1894 Genesee presented a candidate for sheriff in the person of C. F. Burr who was defeated by Frank Campbell, pop., by a plurality of 89. T. E. Miller, pop., the same year was elected state senator In 1896 we were represented by five candidates on three tickets, but even this variety had no great charm for the voters for we only elected one, Hans Knudson, pop., for commissioner, he receiving a majority of 389 over H C. J Tweedt, rep. The defeated ones besides Mr. Tweedt were M. A. Means, rep., and Dr. L. J. Harvey, silver rep., candidates for house of representatives, and E. A. McKenna, rep., candidate for state auditor. In 1898 we must have been in it for out of three candidates nominated, two were elected; H. C. Tweedt, rep., for commissioner by a plurality of 61. G. W. Daggett, rep., was elected a representative that year and David Spurbeck, dem., was defeated. This takes us down to the "late unpleasantness" which shows that we are not improving with age, for out of five candidates, viz: W. C. Fowler, M. Driscoll, Dr. P. S. Beck, Thos. H. Brewer and H. C. Tweedt not a one was elected. Now to sum the matter up, out of seventeen candidates nominated we were successful in electing five: three commissioners one representative and one state senator.

REPORTS from trades unions affiliated in the National Federation of Labor show that in 689 unions the unemployed amount to but 2 3 per cent of the total. Probably the best aspect of the report is that the percentage is diminishing and likely to disappear almost entirely within the coming month, says the Chicago Record.

To some extent this favorable showing is due to the fact that the unions embraced in the federation are strong and represent energetic and enlightened trade workers. But without general activity in trade and commercial circles it would be impossible for the best organized union to keep practically all its men at work. It is also true, though not mentioned in the federation's report, that the wages which the men receive are likely to increase rather than diminish and that the present wages were mainly fixed by the unions.

The federation's report was hardly necessary to convince the public that the trades are busy and workingmen well employed. The best of it is that this condition is likely to continue indefinitely. Ordinarily the prosperous conditions in the United States have been the result of a reaction from dull times which produced a depletion of manufactured products of every sort through the suspension of production. The present era of good times is different in a measure from anything the United States has hitherto enjoyed for the reason that it results in part from the steady growth of our export trade. That is to say, in former prosperous times Americans relied on selling to one another. At this time the United States is selling to all the world and the American manufacturer is not entirely dependent on the American consumer for a market, but may sell his manufactures abroad if he sees fit. From this fact the American may take advantage of prosperous conditions in any portion of the globe instead of being utterly dependent on the recurrence of good crops, easy times and "confidence" in his own country. With the growing tendency of the world to buy in the United States the outlook for a continuation of the present prosperous times is exceedingly encouraging, and the workingmen are fairly well assured of steady employment so long as capital and labor are agreed on terms of service.

—W. M. Watt, of North Yakima, has received an order from Shanghai, China, for a shipment of Burbank potatoes. This is to be done as an experiment to determine whether or not it will be advisable. Mr. Watt has previously made shipments of apples to that market and each time met with success. The correspondent desiring Yakima potatoes desires the price on 2500 tons. He also wants market quotations on alfalfa hay in quantities of from 10 to 500 tons. Everything in the shape of fruits, root crops and hay is wanted at good prices. The second cargo of red apples has been shipped and more will be sent later.

ALL of the land in the Fort Sherman reservation in this state, at Coeur d' Alene, has been placed under the control of the secretary of the interior for disposition. There are nine hundred acres in the reservation. When this is disposed of Fort Sherman will be a thing of the past. The withdrawal of the troops from this beautiful and picturesque spot, the abandonment of the grounds and buildings which cost this government thousands of dollars, only to reestablish the forth at Spokane a distance of eighteen miles away where surroundings are just the reverse, smacks a great deal of jobbery. It's nice for Spokane, though, and showed considerable enterprise on their part in working the deal, if a deal it was.

Stories in The Youth's Companion.

In the 52 issues of the year The Youth's Companion publishes more than 200 stories, yet so carefully are they selected that they prove inexhaustible in variety, unfailing in the power to delight. The stories already in hand for The Companion's 1901 volume show that this feature of the paper will be as strong as ever.

Among the groups of stories will be one of "Old Settlers' Day Tales"—stories actually told at some of the gatherings of pioneers in the West. There will be four stirring "Tales of Our Inland Seas," picturing the adventures of the sailors on the Great Lakes; and there will also be four "True Tales from the Zoos," told by famous keepers and trainers of wild beasts. And this is only a beginning. We shall be glad to send Illustrated Announcement of the volume for 1901 with sample copies of the paper free to any address.

All new subscribers will receive The Companion for the remaining weeks of 1900 free from the time of subscription, and then for a full year, 52 weeks, to January 1, 1902; also The Companion's new Calendar for 1901, suitable as an ornament for the prettiest room in the house.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION,

A Village Blacksmith Saves His Little Son's Life.

H H. Black, the well known village blacksmith at Grahamville, Sullivan Co., N.Y., says: "Our little son five years old has always been subject to croup, and so bad have the attacks been that we have feared many times that he would die. We have had the doctor and used many medicines, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is now our sole reliance. It seems to dissolve the tough mucus and by giving frequent doses when the croupy symptoms appear we have found that the dreaded croup is cured before it gets settled." There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contained no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

If you have ever seen a child in the agony of croup you can realise how grateful mothers are for One Minute Cough Cure which gives relief as soon as it is administered. It quickly cures coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and find it to be a great medicine," says E. S. Phipps, of Poteau, Ark. "It cured me of bloody flux, I cannot speak too highly of it." This remedy always wins the good opinion, if not praise, of those who use it. Quick cures which it effects even in the most severe cases make it a favorite everywhere. For sale by all druggists.

In India, the land of famine, thousands die because they cannot obtain food In America, the land of the plenty, many suffer and die because they cannot digest the food they eat. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. It instantly relieves and radically cures all stomach troubles.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Six Frightful Failures.

Six terrible failures of six different doctors nearly sent Wm. H. Mullen of Lockland, O., to an early grave. All said he had a fatal lung trouble and he must soon die. But he was urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. After taking five bottles he was entirely cured. It is positively guaranteed to cure all diseases of throat, chest and lungs, including coughs, colds, la grippe, pneumonia, bronchitis, asthma, hay fever, croup, whooping cough. 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Kennedy's drug store.

There is no pleasure in life if you dread going to the table to eat and can't rest at night on account of indigestion. Henry Williams, of Boonville, Ind., says he suffered that way for years, till he commenced the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and adds, "Now I can eat anything I like and all I want and sleep soundly every night." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will digest what you eat.

GERMANS AND THE CHINESE

VON BUELOW MAKES A PROTEST

It Is Against the Charge That Germany Caused the Chinese Trouble With the Powers—Tribute to Von Ketteler—Discussion in France

Berlin, Nov. 20.—In the reichstag, on the occasion of the presentation of the supplementary credit for China, Count Von Buelow, the imperial chancellor, emphatically denied the assertion frequently made abroad that the China imbroglio was traceable to the German occupation of Kiao-chou. This statement was greeted by the socialist democrats with loud cries of "It is quiet true."

Count Von Buelow expressed keen regret that such a cry was heard in the German parliament. The chancellor further declared that he did not wish at present to say anything which might be against the concert of powers in China, but he felt the need of putting himself in touch with the nation. Germany, he explained, had adhered to the aims and policy outlined in the circular to the allied governments. The allegation that the government had not foreseen the Chinese crisis was true. But most of the other nations likewise failed to anticipate the storm in the far east would burst so violently so soon.

"But," added Count Von Buelow, "the signs did not escape us. We directed the attention of the other cabinets repeatedly to these signs. We agreed to everything that our representative in China described necessary to take as a measure of precaution and dispatched a force, offering more than asked for. I wish to reproach no one, least of all Baron Von Ketteler, who in endeavoring most earnestly in the fulfillment of the duty to bring the Chinese authorities to reason, went almost without fear to his death, worthy of the land he represented and the name he bore."

This statement caused loud applause.

Reverting to the Kiao-chou allegation, Count Von Buelow recapitulated the previous territorial acquisitions and expeditions of the other powers in China, adding:

"We, with proverbial modesty, restrained ourselves longest of all the powers, even until the massacre of our missionaries at Shang-tung."

Will Return to Pekin.

Berlin, Nov. 20.—The Reichanzeiger (official) publishes the text of a telegram of the emperor of China, dated November 14, in reply to Emperor William's telegram of September 30, in which the former promises to inflict severe punishment on the authorities who were accomplices of the murder of Baron Von Ketteler, the German minister, and expressed the hope that friendly relations will soon be reestablished. He also declares that as soon as the peace commissioners attain the desired point he will fix a time for his return to Pekin. His Chinese majesty adds that the protection of the Christian missions will be especially and strictly enjoined on all the provincial authorities.

Discussed by French Deputies.

Paris, Nov. 20.—During the morning session of the chamber of deputies Monday the budget of the ministry of foreign affairs was discussed and M. de Estournelles de Constant, representing Le Fleche district of the Sarthe, asked how long the Chinese campaign would last. He said he feared it would cost a large amount. They could not depend on an indemnity to cover the expense, for it would be necessary to continue the expedition to enforce the payment. The speaker also expressed fear that the exaction of an indemnity would result in the dismemberment of China, resulting in a universal war. Thus, he pointed out, "China lays a trap for Europe to fall in."

M. Marcel Sembat, radical-socialist, representing one of the Seine districts, demanded to know by what right the government had engaged in war without the consent of parliament and questioned the government as to the truth of the press announcements of atrocities committed by soldiers. He concluded with the statement that Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee was unfit to be commander in chief of the allied forces. The debate will continue tomorrow.

Riots in Kiang-Si.

Canton, Nov. 20.—Refugees who have arrived here report ant-Christian riots have broken out in the province of Kiang-badges, and all persons not so decorated are in danger of death. The viceroy of the province has appointed a deputy to settle the French claims at Shun-tak, and French gunboats will accompany the latter with the view of enforcing his orders.

TRADE REPORT.

New York—Bradstreet's report for last week says:

The tonic effect of seasonable cold weather is again testified to by reports for winter clothing and wool ware. This in turn is reflected in increased reorders from western and northwestern and southern jobbers, and a perceptible improvement in tone of wholesale trade at the east, which hopes to participate later in the results of the existing good consuming demand. The renewed advance in cotton, another result of cold weather, has proved a stimulus to southern trade and also made cotton goods agents and manufacturers rather indifferent to new business offered at old rates. What looked like an improvement in wool demand and prices seems to have received a temporary set-back by the failure of a large commission house with woolen mill connections.

Railway returns continue favorable, the demand for iron and steel is expanding and prices are hardening; labor is exceptionally well employed; anthracite coal mining operations have been practically resumed and ruling prices for that product seem assured. New records of export trade are presented and the excess of outward trade is assuming phenomenal proportions. The market for cereals is a dragging one, with price changes few and of little importance, but stock speculation, although quieter, is strong and confident in tone. Reflection of the late enormous business in this line is found in unprecedented bank clearings, the totals lapping over the large totals of 1889.

The strength of prices is still more manifest in iron and steel, demand for which continues large, both for crude and finished materials. The action of the billet pool checked demand. Pig iron has also been affected by efforts to advance Bessemer pig, but though not as active as last week, it is strong and higher at the west, while firm and tending upward in the south. Stocks are estimated to have decreased 50,000 tons in October. In finished material the activity is most marked, and mills are generally well supplied with orders and are indifferent to business at present rates. A fair business is doing in rails at the west, and $28 per ton is the price talked of. The railways are free buyers of cars and other material and structural material tends upward, although the intention of beam manufacturers to advance prices is not confirmed. The awarding of the government contract for armor plate at $425 per ton will swell the output of the steel industry by $15,000,000. Hardware is on improved distribution at nearly all points, and tin is higher in sympathy with wire advance in London.

Wheat, including flour, shipments for the week aggregate 4,062,000 bushels, against 3,555,507 bushels last week; 4,540,007 bushels in the corresponding week of 1899; 5,569,141 bushels in 1898; 6,653,792 bushels in 1897, and 3,937,234 bushels in 1896.

From January 1 to date, this season, exports are 71,474,091 bushels against 81,779,865 bushels last season and 83,299,357 bushels in 1898-99.

Failures for the week in the United States number 227, against 161 last week; 199 in this week a year ago; 229 in 1898; 235 in 1897 and 308 in 1896.

Canadian failures number 27 against 17 last week; 19 in this week a year ago; 24 in 1898; 31 in 1897 and 47 in 1896.

WRECK OF FREIGHT TRAIN

ON SPOKANE AND NORTHERN

Near Town of Dragoon—One Man Killed and Several Wounded—One Freight Car Had Fourteen Tourists in It.

Spokane, Nov. 19.—A fatal wreck occurred on the Spokane Falls & Northern railway at 4 p. m. Sunday, two miles south of Dragoon station. One man was killed and two others sustained serious injuries.

The train was the regular southbound freight. It consisted of eight cars and a caboose. When at the point where the tragedy occurred the rails spread because of the action of snow and rain under the ties and four cars were thrown from the track down a rather steep grade. The engine and tender were left on top of the grade, also the remaining four cars of the train and the caboose.

The four cars which were wrecked were loaded with sacked lime. In one of the cars 17 men were stealing rides. One of these men, John Klein, was caught beneath a pile of wreckage and crushed to death. Several others were pinned down by timbers. Patrick Welch and Richard Hocking were dragged out later by the trainmen who had

Welch's collar bone was broken and his back and shoulders were severely bruised and cut. Hocking's right arm was broken in two places. Both men were unconscious when found by the trainmen and were nearly suffocated under bursted sacks of lime.

How the other occupants of the car escaped serious injuries is a matter of speculation. They were imprisoned in the overturned car and when the door was finally opened by the trainmen the men left the scene at once, apparently not caring what became of their wounded companions.

From letters and papers found on the person of the dead man it became known that the man's name was John Klein. Apparently he came to Washington from Indianapolis, Ind., recently, as a letter from his brother, Fred Klein, is dated at Indianapolis, September 27. In the letter some reference is made to the opening of the Colville reservation. This, together with a copy of the proclamation concerning the opening, seems to establish the fact that John Klein came to the state intending to take up land on the reserve.

The deceased was about 30 years of age. He was of medium height and ewighs about 170 pounds. He had red hair and a red beard. In his pockets were a gold watch and some money.

Lieutenant Palmer Wood Is Dead.

Washington, Nov. 18.—General MacArthur has notified the war department that Second Lieutenant Palmer G. Wood, Jr., Twelfth infantry, died of malarial fever at San Juan de Guimla, Luzon. Lieutenant Wood was the son of Major Palmer Wood, Forty-first volunteer infantry, captain of the Twelfth infantry.

Scrofula

THE OFFSPRING OF HEREDITARY BLOOD TAINT.

Scrofula is but a modified form of Blood Poison and Consumption. The parent who is tainted by either will see in the child the same disease manifesting itself in the form of swollen glands of the neck and throat, catarrh, weak eyes, offensive sores and abscesses and oftentimes white swelling—sure signs of Scrofula. There may be no external signs for a long time, for the disease develops slowly in some cases, but the poison is in the blood and will break out at the first favorable opportunity. S. S. S. cures this wasting, destructive disease by first purifying and building up the blood and stimulating and invigorating the whole system.

J. M. Seals, 115 Public Square, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Ten years ago my daughter fell and cut her forehead. From this wound the glands on the side of her face became swollen and bursted. Some of the best doctors here and elsewhere attended her without any benefit. We decided to try S. S. S., and a few bottles cured her entirely."

SSS makes new and pure blood to nourish and strengthen the body, and is a positive and safe cure for Scrofula. It overcomes all forms of blood poison, whether inherited or acquired, and no remedy so thoroughly and effectively cleanses the blood. If you have any blood trouble, or your child has inherited some blood taint, take S. S. S. and get the blood in good condition and prevent the disease doing further damage.

SPITE DROVE HIM AWAY.

British Ambassador to France Could Not Stand French Abuse.

Sir Edmund Monson, the British ambassador to France, left that nation's capital as the result of the unfriendly and at times indecent attitude of that country toward England and its Queen. For months the Paris journals made his stay the extremity of official and personal pain. He saw his country insulted in such manner as only a French newspaper can accomplish; he saw his Queen—the embodiment of all that is patriotically sacred to a Briton—lampooned in a fashion too gross for anything outside of Paris. These insults roused the British public to the pitch of war. Official coolness alone prevented overt and concrete expression of this indignation.

Sir Edmund's departure from Paris came about in this way. The artist Leandre, who has been one of the most active of the Anglophobists, was decorated by M. George Leygues, minister of public instruction. It is said that Ambassador Monson approached M. Delcasse, the minister for foreign affairs, and asked the meaning of this seemingly official recognition of the libelers and shameless lampooners of her Majesty. What reply the French diplomat made to the British one is not known. But forthwith Ambassador Monson left Paris.

This is no unimportant matter whether or not the breach be healed over. Sir Edmund has been the head of the British embassy in Paris since 1896. This office is the most distinguished and in many respects the most important in all the range of British diplomacy. Sir Edmund is the most popular man, with the exception of the Marquis of Dufferin, that has been assigned as yet to this high post. His record in the service has been notable. He entered diplomacy in 1856. In 1858 he went to Florence and thence came to Washington as secretary of the late Lord Lyons. At the outbreak of the civil war he was attache of the mission at Washington, and remained in that position until 1863. After that year he served in Brussels, Vienna, Athens, Copenhagen, in the Azores, in Hamburg, in Dalmatia and Montenegro, in Uruguay, in the Argentine Republic as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary, and in many other parts of the world.

In 1888, when the United States and Denmark were in dispute in what is known as the "Butterfield claim," Sir Edmund was chosen as arbitrator between the two countries and acquitted himself creditably.

Art of Tempering Copper.

The allegation that ancient Egyptians tempered copper and bronze to carry a razor edge is not borne out by investigation. Thomas Harper, of Bellevue, Pa., challenges any one to produce a piece of metal tempered by the ancients that can not be more than duplicated by any metal worker today. He says that in examining hundreds of specimens alleged to have been tempered to the degree that steel is tempered, he failed to find any, nor had he discovered any one who had seen such work, and the fable which has been implicitly believed for centuries is being shattered in the light of modern research.

That is not the only story believed for centuries tending to belittle the man of to-day, to make him the inferior of his forefathers, which failed under the searchlight of inquiry and science. The ancients were children in mechanical knowledge as compared to the people of to-day, and if there was a demand for any particular building or piece of work such as was produced by the ancients it could be duplicated and improved on by the skilled artisans of the nineteenth century. —American Manufacturer.

Composes Best on Trains.

Sir Arthur Sullivan was once asked where he was able to compose best, and under what circumstances his ideas flowed most freely. "There is no place," he said, "where I have so many inspirations as in a railway carriage. There is something in the rapidity of the motion, in the clanging of the iron, and in the whirring of the wheels, which seems to excite the imagination and supplies material for a host of harmonies."

Kruger Down on Bazaars.

President Kruger is much averse to gambling—in some forms, at all events. One day a lady called on him for a church bazaar subscription. He turned to her in his abrupt way and denounced bazaars as swindles.

"A bazaar and raffling," said he, "are nothing else than gambling."

The lady, accustomed to his ways, nevertheless pleaded hard. At last he handed her a donation, "on condition that my name does not appear in the swindle."

MINES AND MINING NEWS

OUR NORTHWESTERN MINES.

Items Gleaned From Late Reports—All Districts Are Being Developed —A Prosperous Year Is Predicted—Mining Notes and Personals.

At Butte Joseph A. Boyer, as executor of the estate of Alfred Boyer, has commenced suit against the Woshoe Copper Co. to recover $700,000. He alleges that the company entered beneath the surface of lots 5, 6 and 7, block 12, in Leggatt & Foster's addition, and extracted ore to the value of $600,000, and also entered beneath the surface of lot No. 4 of the same block and extracted ore to the value of $100,000. A temporary injunction pending the determination of the suit was asked for.

Republic.

The Republic Consolidated will hold its annual meeting in Republic on December 20.

The Tom Thumb at Republic was closed last week. The reason assigned by the officers of the company is that development can no longer be carried on to advantage until some of the large surplus of the ore in the mine ready for treatment is removed. Superintendent Maurice Downey will remain in charge and the mine will be kept in shape to resume on the day that a market can be secured for the ore. The reasons are given in detail to the correspondent of the Spokesman-Review at Republic by Mr. Downey.

After three years of severe experiment and testing, a successful method has been found for treating the ores of Republic camp. It is now in practical operation on the ores of the Republic company. There remains scarcely a doubt that the problem has been entirely solved—that the ores of Republic district can be treated on the ground, with a high percentage of saving, and a low cost.

The method is substantially that employed in the successful treatment of the ore bodies at Mercur, Utah, a fact of importance, because it means that the results obtained at Mercur may be attained at Republic. At Mercur, where the large mill treats 1,000 tons daily, the cost of treatment has been reduced to $1.45 per ton. The Republic works start with a daily capacity of 200 tons, but this capacity may be quickly increased, with comparatively slight additional expense, to 500 tons. Mr. Jackling, the authority who solved the treatment problem at Mercur, and also that at Republic, expects that with the present capacity, the cost of treatment will be $2.50 per ton. It is reasonable to conclude that if 500 tons are treated daily, the cost will be cut to about $2, and that when 1,000 tons are treated, the expense will approximate the cost at Mercur—$1.45 per ton.

For the present, the item of treatment may be set down at $2.50, or say $3.00 to allow for a good working margin. The ore can be mined for about $2.50 per ton. The total for mining and milling is therefore $5.50 per ton.

Mr. Jacklin expects to attain an average saving of 95 per cent of the assay value of ores. Again, to be on the safe side, this calculation will be based on a 90 per cent saving. This would mean that $8 ore would return $7.20, and would pay a profit of $1.70 per ton. Ten dollar ore would pay $3.50 profit; $12 ore, $5.30; $15 ore, $8 profit. And of course as the cost of treatment is reduced, and the percentage of saving increased, these margins will be appreciably greater.

It means that just so soon as the Republic company demonstrates that there are dividends in ore ranging from $8 to $12 per ton, there will be abundance of capital to erect other plants and buy the ore bodies.

The ledge in the Zala M., Sheridan camp, has been crosscut at the lower level and is 26 feet wide. The crosscut is 235 feet south of the tunnel, on the 300 foot level. There is about 10 per cent of this ore that is of shipping grade. The balance will pay well to concentrate. On the Maud West, Bodie camp, which adjoins the Bodie on the south, the cross tunnel is still being driven. The tunnel is in something over 200 feet. It is the belief of the owners that the ledge will be cut within 50 feet at a depth of 250 feet. Work has been resumed on the Southern Belle, in Telluride camp, Myers creek.

BRITISH CO[illegible]MBIA.

Four hundred and [illegible]-five tons of ore was put through [illegible] Athabasca mill last month and the [illegible]d was $9,200. A report from Nelson [illegible]ys: Manager Fell of the Athabasc[illegible] furnishes the following results of the mill run for October: Period of run, 29 days, 1 hour; tons milled, 445; approximate value of bullion recovered, $7,000; approximate value of concentrates recovered, $2,200. Total, $9,200. Total value recovered per ton of ore milled, $22.67.

The following is total ore shipment received at the Trail smelter from the different shipping mines for the week ending November 10, 949 tons. The same week the matte shipped from the smelter was 171 tons and the bullion 91 tons.

The Silver King, the chief property near Nelson, is to have a new plant. Part of it has arrived at Nelson and Captain Gifford is hurrying it up the mountain to the mine.

The Eagle Creek district, in the Nelson mining division, has been a good deal in the public eye during the present year, largely through the success of the Poorman mine and reports of deals involving other more or less important properties. The creek is under four miles in length, but as it runs through the heart of the great free milling belt of the Kootenays the ground is staked wherever there is a sign of mineral and almost every claim is surveyed, while many of them are crown granted. During the next 12 months a number of deals now on the tapis are likely to come to a head and add several properties to the list of producers.

The construction of the Pyritic smelter three miles below Greenwood, B. C., on Boundary creek, is progressing rapidly. All the brick and masonry work is about completed and the big timbers for the main building are being put up so that one gets an idea of the importance of the undertaking that the Standard Pyritic Smelting Co. limited, has inaugurated.

The reported consolidation of three of the leading Slocan City division properties in the British Columbia silver-lead belt, though it has not yet been confirmed, is considered by those in touch with Slocan affairs highly probable.

To give cheap power to mines is declared by the West Kootenay Power Co. to be the chief object of its proposed expenditure of $1,000,000 to add 10,000 additional horse power to the works at Bonnington falls.

Over the divide from which Forty-nine, Eagle, Bird and Sandy creeks flow into the Kootenay river is a great section of country rich in minerals.

Eagle creek mining properties have been much in the public eye during the present year, largely through the success attending the working of the Poorman mine and reports of deals involving other more or less important propositions.

MINING NOTES.

Two new claims have been located near Bumping Lake, in the Summit district, Yakima county, Wn., by Dan Sinclair.

Some of the finest specimens of gold nuggets that have ever been seen in Spokane have been brought to the city from the mines of the Idaho Consolidated Co., near Pierce City, Idaho. They were gathered from a recent cleanup which was made from the placer diggings of that section. The find was exceedingly rich and the nuggets are said to be plentiful.

The experiments with the natural gas found near the city of Spokane, which were held last week, were most successful. The gas was burned under slight pressure and furnished a clear white flame that burned steadily and clearly.

Development on the Tamarack and Chesapeake, about a mile from Burke, Idaho, on the Tiger-Poorman lead, has been in progress for about four months. In that time 210 feet of work has been done. It is believed that the adit is nearing the main pay shoot.

Judging from reports received Meagher county, Mont., is going to have the biggest mining boom of any county in that state next year. In fact, the boom is already well under way. The development of the copper properties at Copperopolis has proved that at that camp there is a rich body of copper ore, and it gets better as depth is attained. A message from there was to the effect that a fine body of copper glance ore had just been struck in the 500-foot level, on the North Pacific, one of the properties being operated by the syndicate.

The Alameda Mining & Milling Co. has commenced work on its Nine Mile property, near Wallace, Idaho, and will work four men all winter. The company was incorporated last June, but has done nothing until a few days ago.

The regular monthly dividend of 3 per cent on the capital stock was paid by the Empire State-Idaho Co. last week. The company is capitalized for 100,000 shares of $10 par value. The dividend was 30 cents per share, or $29,554. This brings the total amount paid out to stockholders this year to $325,095, which, with one more payment due in December, will bring the yield for the year to fully $350,000. The total amount of dividends paid to date is $643,133. The Empire State-Idaho has a remarkable record. It is operating the old Last Chance mine in the Coeur d'Alenes, which for years was bound up in litigation and which was finally rescued by Messrs. Clark & Sweeney of Spokane. They organized a company in New York and commenced work. The mine paid dividends from the first month of its operation and has been making a steady yield to its stockholders ever since. The property is one of the most famous of the early Coeur d'Alenes locations and it is also famous as Charles Sweeney's first great success in the district.

OREGON MINES.

It is said that the samples of ore taken from the Minneapolis property in Eastern Oregon assayed $240 and $248 per ton.

Emil Gramspacher and four associates, owners of the Parker diggings near Winterville, are said to have cleaned up $20,000 in the past season.

E. Sanderson Smith, who has an option on the Magnolia mine, in the Sumpter district, is having experts examine the property. It is rumored that a sale of the property is virtually closed.

A number of buildings are going up at Cornucopia. The Last Chance mine resumed activity last week. When the electric plant is installed the fuel question will be relegated and operations will be steady. Work on the Emmett mine has been suspended for the season.

Roberts & Jilson, at Henley, have produced $600,000 since they put in their 10-stamp mill two and a half years ago. In the past four months the product has been $400,000. There are 140 men engaged in mining in that vicinity, and nearly 100 of these are employed in the mine. The La Flesh & Miner mine has struck a new pay chute which it has been working the past three weeks.

The official estimate of the pack of the Puget Sound salmon canneries, made public, shows a decrease of over 50 per cent from the pack of 1899, due to the absence of the humpback salmon, which run only once in two years, and the partial failure of the sockeye run. The 19 principal canneries of the Sound produced this season 432.031 cases, valued at approximately $2,438,142.

HE BUSTED KENTUCKY BANK

FRANK BROWN OF NEWPORT

Got Away With $200,000—His Whereabouts Is Unknown—Gambling, Women and Wine His Hobby—Trouble Expected.

Cincinnati, Nov. 19.—United States Bank Examiner Tucker has taken possession of the German National bank at Newport, Ky., and posted a notice that the bank would remain closed pending an examination. He also announced unofficially that Frank M. Brown, the assistant cashier, was missing, and that a partial investigation showed that he was short about $201,000. Brown, who is the son of Paris C. Brown, ex-mayor of Newport and one of the leading business men of Cincinnati, has been with the bank for 18 years, and was one of its most trusted men. Experts state that his operations extend over a period of 10 years. He left on a vacation last Wednesday and is supposed to be out of the country. It is generally believed that he has taken with him a considerable amount of money.

Brown, it is alleged, has lived a fast life, with wine, women and gambling in his repertoire. His career was cut short by a jealous woman, who made his doings known to the bank's officials. Brown's alleged shortage has been rumored for some time, but the bank officials and directors have repeatedly declared that his accounts were correct and that everything was all right.

The wildest scenes were witnessed in Newport when Examiner Tucker's announcement was made public, and serious trouble is expected when the bank officials are confronted by the people who have hunted in vain for them. The capital stock of the bank is only $100,000. Brown's shortage is double that amount, and more than the reserve and all the assets, including the bank's real estate. He must have gone the full limit for a small bank.

For two weeks there have been rumors that Brown was short and some depositors withdrew their accounts. Three weeks ago the bank examiner made a good statement and the officers and directors allayed suspicion by referring to this report and to their last statement.

English Views.

London, Nov. 18.—The British specials giving descriptions of the Morgan-Satterlee wedding are almost entirely devoted to its pecuniary features, giving the impression that it was a repetition of the Bradley Martin ball. As a natural result the London papers indulge in such comment as this from the Westminster Gazette:

"The reputation of Americans of a certain type for vulgar ostentation seems to have been exceedingly well sustained at the wedding." And in a similar strain, another curious piece of information upon American matters is contained in the London Daily Telegraph's description of society among women of London, in which it is gravely asserted that "when an American has made a fortune he finds it almost impossible to live quietly in his own country. The chief attraction is England, where Americans can escape the newspapers."

This is the chief reason, according to the Daily Telegraph, why the American colony in London increases, though it admits that many love to come here for the sake of the country alone, and "because it makes them feel like being on a visit to their grandmother's home, where everything is dignified, proper and nice."

The duke and duchess of York's forthcoming visit to Australia is quite likely to be finished with a trip through Canada. Additional excursions will be made in the United States.

Another royal rumor is the engagement of Prince George of Greece, who is now here, to one of the English princesses, to which the queen is said to have given her approval.

Ministers Getting Together.

Pekin, Nov. 15.—A protracted conference of the foreign ministers was held today, at the conclusion of which there was a general expression of gratification at the progress made toward reaching a settlement. It was stated that most of the minor points had been disposed of, and that an agreement had been reached upon several essential questions. The meeting disclosed fewer difficulties over important points than was expected, which is largely due to the fact that the ministers have received definite instructions from their home governments. United States Minister Conger said he was encouraged to believe that proposals would be ready to be submitted at an earlier date than he had heretofore hoped. The ministers will meet again tomorrow.

Reliable information from Nieu-chwang indicates a disturbed condition of affairs there. Robbers and pirates are harrying the region and paralyzing commerce. The Russians are making an effort to suppress the troubles except along the railway. The weather is becoming colder, with nightly frosts, but the supply of fuel is good and the troops are not suffering.

LABOR NOTES.

The Home Builders' League is finding many converts in many rural districts.

Pattern makers are requested to stay away from Cincinnati, Louisville and St. Louis. Trouble on.

Cigarmakers' Union No. 97 of Boston has 1,000 members who paid an assessment of $12 each in installments for the benefit of the striking and locked-out cigarmakers of New York.

Los Angeles tailors have secured an advance of $1.00 per suit.

RUSSIANS MET RESISTANCE

ROBBER BANDS ARE NUMEROUS

Large Number Engaged on Both Sides—Russians Capture Guns—Little Progress at Pekin—Yu Chang Deposed.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 18.—The Russian troops are encountering a robber rebellion in the south of Kirin, Manchuria, in the mountainous basin of the Sungari. The leader of the banditti is a certain Shaidengue. According to general staff dispatches, Lieutenant Colonel Duroff with two companies of infantry and a sotnia and a half of Cossacks, while reconnoitering recently, collided with Shaidengue and two battalions of Chinese troops who were operating with him. Lieutenant Colonel Duroff captured two guns in the engagement.

General Foh, a few days later, with a mixed Russian force engaged 3000 of Shaidengue's followers in the same pass in which Lieutenant Colonel Duroff fought the bandits. General Foh also took two guns.

General Rennekampf, with five sotnias of Cossacks, had a sharp fight November 11, 20 versts from Kirin, on the Kirin-Mukden road, with Chinese regular troops. Twenty Cossacks were killed and 20 were wounded.

A reconnaissance developed the fact that Mogeasshan is enclosed with a stone wall 18 feet high and that the inner city is also walled.

Affairs at Pekin.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 18.—Despite the fact that the ambassador for Russia to China is negotiating for peace, the most influential journals apparently regret that the United States government has now withdrawn from the concert of the powers. The Novoe Vremya says that it can not believe that real progress has been made, and declares that the propositions formulated are indecisive and are necessarily preliminary, because they contain demands that China can not fulfill on account of her poverty. Moreover, says the Novoe Vremya, the military situation is becoming more dangerous. The French will probably be compelled to return to Indo-China, where revolutionary agents are active. All China is waiting a word from the emperor to begin a desperate war.

The director of the Oriental institute at Vladivostok pronounces the loss of the Chinese libraries at Pekin and Tientsin by fire as irreparable, as they contained numerous precious manuscripts on the subject of the Chinese dynasties.

England Protests.

London, Nov. 18.—Under date of November 14 a dispatch to a news agency says that Great Britain has protested against the transfer of Yu Chang to the governorship of Wu-chang. Li Hung Chang and Prince Ching, according to this dispatch, have memorialized the throne and Yu Chang probably will not be allowed to take up the new post.

Supplies Interrupted.

Tientsin, Nov. 18.—Viceroys of the Yang-tse region have stopped the shipments of tributes of rice to Tsang-yuma, being afraid they will be intercepted. The court, it is evident, will proceed to Chentu.

Designs on Canton.

Hong Kong, Nov. 18.—Chinese officials aver that a certain power has demanded leave to place troops upon a hill overlooking Canton. No foreign authority confirms the assertion, but the Cantonese continue to allege the French have designs upon the city.

G. N. & N. P.

New York, Nov. 18.—The key to the Northern Pacific situation is the fact that Great Northern interests have large holdings in the property and heartily harmonize with the Northern Pacific management as they were at the time of the reorganization. Probably the most important factor in the success of the Northern Pacific for the last few years has been this interruption of entirely friendly relations resulting from the Clearwater controversy, which has been succeeded by renewed harmony and by the renewal of a large ownership by Great Northern capitalists in the Northern Pacific property. It is natural that this should tend to increase public confidence in the company's securities, for the managers of the Great Northern are generally recognized as the dominant power in the northwest as well as the exponents of the best scientific railroading methods of the present day. Nor are they "tarred with the same speculative brush" to any extent. The record of the Great Northern in this respect is unique in railroad history. The stock has risen fully 22 points since the summer and is selling at the highest price ever recorded.

Live Stock Association.

Salt Lake, Utah, Nov. 18.—The local arrangement committee to make preparations for the eighth annual convention of the National Live Stock association, which is to be held here January 15 to 19, have met and appointed the various subcommittees, and also decided to have an exhibition of live stock which includes range as well as pure bred stock. Entries will be admissible from Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana and Texas.

Announcement was made that all railroads have made a rate of one fare for the round trip to the convention.

Pacific coast lines have been asked to make a lower rate from Salt Lake to the coast after the adjournment of the convention, running excursion trains for the accommodation of delegates desiring to visit California.

C. F. Martin, secretary of the National Live Stock association, arrived and will make Salt Lake his headquarters for the next two months.

—The boundary line between the United States and Mexico has recently been resurveyed and marked by stone monuments in the form of obelisks located about five miles apart. The shafts are ten feet high, four feet square at the base and two feet at the top, built on foundations five feet square and rising six inches above the surface of the ground.

—Robert Thomas, a practical paper maker of thirty years' experience in the south, claims to have made a discovery of a chemical process by which cotton hulls can be reduced to a pulp suitable for paper making. A company has been formed with a capital of five million dollars to control the patent. The paper thus made is claimed to be in every way equal to that made from wood pulp.

—The expression "robbing Peter to pay Paul" had its origin in the rivalry existing between Westminister Abbey, formerly St. Peter's Cathedral, and St. Paul's Cathedral, in London. In 1550 there was a deficiency in the treasury of St. Paul's and an appropriation of money belonging to St Peter's was made to cover the deficiency. The people who were averse to the action asked the question: "Why rob St. Peter's to pay St. Paul's?"

—The discovery of oil in large quantities in California will have considerable effect upon the fuel situation of the Pacific coast and may stimulate to no little degree, manufacturing in certain sections. Advices from San Francisco state that over 50 per cent of the coal consumption of last year is being displaced by the crude oil product of this year. It would seem that a more economical substitute had been found for the high priced coal of the coast.—New West Trade.

—The Linator horse cannery at Salem, Oregon, which was supposed to be closed for good is to start up again for a brief season for the disposition of 1000 cultus cayuse ponies. Samuel Kinsman, the sole owner of this establishment now, states that it will be strictly an accommodation run, as he has no intention of further engaging in the horse-canning business. The industry never has been a success, by reason of the fact that it was difficult to find a market in Europe for the output. It is Mr. Kinsman's intention to convert the horse cannery into a fruit cannery.

—The Clarkston (Vineland) water works is the latest achievement of the Vineland company. First it put in a great irrigation canal at a cost of $80,000, built roads and laid out the entire tract in 2½ to 10 acre places, built a great steel bridge at a cost of $110,000, connecting Clarkston and Vineland with Lewiston, and now they have just completed the pipe line water works system by which water is distributed under a pressure of 200 ft head throughout Clarkston. Altogether the Vineland company has expended some $360,000 in the development of that beautiful bit of country. No wonder it is an ideal community with most of the conveniences and pleasant surroundings that make life worth living.

GOV. STEUNENBERG has issued the following Thanksgiving proclamation:

"In conformity with a beautiful custom, and in grateful recognition and acknowledgement to Almighty God of the favors and blessings, which He in his bountifulness, has conferred upon our State during the past year, I hereby appoint and designate Thursday, the 29th day of November, A D. 1900, as a day of prayer and thanksgiving. Peace and order have reigned in our fair commonwealth, our every hand are evidences of progress and material development, and we have great cause to be thankful to Him "from whom all blessings flow." I, therefore, earnestly request and recommend that this day be appropriately observed throughout the state."

THE NEWS makes the prediction that fusion of political parties in Idaho is done for in this generation. The lion and the lamb will no more lie down together unless it be with the lamb on the inside of the lion. The efforts for a complete fusion at the beginning of the campaign just closed were so disappointing and unsatisfactory as to preclude all thought of further efforts in that direction. The terms of agreement entered into for this time will be carried out in good faith but after this all movements looking to other fusions will be at an end. After this there will be no more "alt and 'alf" but it will be straight goods. That is the way it looks to us. That is the way the News will try to have it for future campaigns.—Blackfoot News.

O. R. & N. CO'S INSTITUTES.

Farmers' Institutes will be held under the direction of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Co., as follows: Tekoa, November 23 and 24; Colfax, November 26 and 27; Pullman, November 30 and December 1. Hon. W. J. Spillman, professor of agriculture, Washington Agricultural College, Hon. C. L. Smith, of Minnesota, and other prominent speakers will be in attendance.

Getting Thin

is all right, if you are too fat; and all wrong, if too thin already.

Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: overwork and under-digestion.

Stop over-work, if you can; but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however, you'll pay for it.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work—you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity.

The genuine has this picture on it, take no other.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its a greeable taste will surprise you.

GEO. H. HOBSON.

—Mrs. Geo. Boliou left Sunday morning for a visit at Howell.

—Bob McGregor came over from Moscow Monday for a visit with relatives and friends.

—Loring Pickering left Wednesday morning for Spokane where he will enter business college.

—Mrs. D. J. O. Westheim, of Spokane, who has been visiting friends here, returned home Sunday.

—The United States produces 22,228 pounds of grain for each inhabitant; England only 360 pounds.

—The Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church will meet with Mrs. Nordby Wednesday at 2 p m.

—Wy. Thomas, Friday evening fell from the rear steps of the McMahon residence, breaking a leg Dr. Consant was called and administered relief.

—Fred Zabel and Pete Danielson returned Saturday from a trip of several days at Pomeroy. Fred says the buildings which were burned there some time ago have been replaced with substantial bricks and the t wn presents a healthy appearance.

—The Knights will open their social season to night with a dance, card party and supper. All Knights and ladies and Rathbones are invited to be present. It is the intention of the local lodge to have a number of social events during the next few months and the initial one will be a hummer.

—We failed to mention last week that F. D. Hasbrouck would not represent "grand old Nez Perce" in the legislative halls at Boise this winter. Like the remainder of the republicans on the legislative ticket in that county he was short of votes. He takes his defeat very gracefully, however.

—Genesee will soon put on airs with well lighted streets. The council has ordered through Wm. Smoit, twelve one hundred candle power Economy gas lamps which it is claimed will furnish as much light and give as good satisfaction as an electric light plant. They will be distributed around town about as follows: Six on main street. One at Hickman's corner, one at Conant's, one at the Follett-Kennedy-Hobson Vollmer corner, one at Rosenstein's, one in the vicinity of the elevated side walk near Geselichen's residence and one on the hill near Scroggin's. On the side streets there will be one at the Waverly corner, one at "the steps" and one near the Methodist church. On railroad avenue, one at the brewery, one at the Grand Central and one near the depot. The expense of putting in and purchasing of the lamps will be about $200, and it is estimated that the cost to operate will be in the neighborhood of $30 per month for gasoline, etc. The caring of the lamps will fall to the marshal. It will be a month or more before they will be in operation as they have just been ordered shipped from the east and it will be necessary to place poles to hang them on.

—Miss Chilton, of Pullman, is visiting at the Hardy home.

—Rev. Father Frei, of Colfax, was a Genesee visitor the first of the week.

—Otto Lieck, Mrs. Biram's nephew who has been visiting here, left Tuesday morning for Minnesota.

—Frank Edwards was up from Cul de Sac over Sunday getting acquainted with his new son which was born the 12th in this city.

—The Latah county November term of district court has been adjourned until Monday, December 3rd. About thirty cases will be on the calendar.

—By the Valley Record, published at Ashland, Oregon, we learn that D B. Grant, our former townsman, has engaged in the hardware business at that place.

—A woman tried to kill the Kaiser by throwing a hatchet at him Women never were much on the throw and the Kaiser himself realized there was not much danger.

—Lars Axleson has been adjudged a county charge and was taken to the county home at Moscow, Friday. He has been a sufferer of consumption for several years and of late his condition is such that it is necessary for some one to be constantly with him.

—A merry war is being waged against vice in New York by Bishop Potter, who scores the mayor and other officials for not performing their sworn duties. Tammany is supposed to be assisting in the work, and Boss Croker before sailing for England said: "The movement by Tammany Hall against vice means business. We have taken up the fight to purify the city in earnest and propose to carry it to a successful issue."

—On Wednesday the 21st inst., at the home of Mr. P. Stelts, W. W. Hales of Waitsburg, Wash., and Miss Laura Filbert of Genesee, Idaho, were united in marriage, Rev. C. R. Howard officiating. The bride was attired in a very attractive suit of white velvet, while the groom wore the regulation suit of black. William Biggs of Moscow, and Miss Meta Filbert, sister of the bride, acted as best man and best lady. The young couple will make their future home at Waitsburg.

—The "oldest inhabitant" never saw anything to equal the weather of the past week at this season of the year. The warm rain of Friday turned to snow Saturday and between that time and Monday evening several inches of the beautiful had fallen. Monday evening the thermometer started downward and in the morning registered six above zero. During the middle of the day Tuesday it moderated somewhat but later in the afternoon it was evident that the night would be a cold one and so it was, for the thermometer registered ten degrees below zero, which was as low, if not lower, than at any time last winter. Many of the ladies lost their house plants and we hear that a number had potatoes and apples frozen. Wednesday it grew warmer and we are again enjoying beautiful Idaho winter weather.

ROYAL BAKING-POWDER

Absolutely Pure

No inferior or impure ingredients are used in Royal for the purpose of cheapening its cost; only the most highly refined and healthful.

Royal Baking Powder imparts that peculiar sweetness, flavor and delicacy noticed in the finest cake, biscuit, rolls, etc., which expert pastry cooks declare is unobtainable by the use of any other leavening agent.

Alum is used in making cheap baking powders. If you want to know the effect of alum upon the tender linings of the stomach, touch a piece to your tongue. You can raise biscuit with alum baking powder, but at what a cost to health —Tom Campbell, who has been working around Genesee during the past season, left Wednesday morning for Seattle.

—Rev. Chr. Anderson will conduct services in the Lutheran Chapel next Sunday at 11 o'clock and Sunday school at 10 o'clock.

—Rev. D. O. Ghormley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Moscow, is assisting in the revival meetings at the Congregational church.

—Mrs. Wm. Nixon and the baby took their departure Monday morning for a visit at her former home, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. May she ha e a pleasant journey.

—Mrs. Michels, who has been visiting relatives here for several weeks past, left yesterday morning for Spokane where she will visit a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Geselichen and then proceed to her home at Marysville, Mont.

—Mr. Krier, one of two brothers who arrived here some time ago from Iowa and who have been stopping with Peter Johann, returned Wednesday morning. He will be back with the flowers in the spring and may bring some other parties with him.

—Ben Borgen, who narrowly escaped death last week by being shot, is doing nicely and nothing serious will result from the wound. The assassin is as yet unknown and may never be.

—The plats of township 40, N. R. 1, W. B. M. and 43, N. R. 4, W. B. M., have been received at the Lewiston land office. Filings in township 40 will be received on and after Dec. 5; in township 43 filings will be received on and after Dec. 18.

—Geo. Flinn came over from Genesee Monday evening, to pay a brief visit to relatives in this city. . . . . C. F. Burr and Dr. J. L. Hayes, from Genesee, passed through Asotin Tuesday for the Imnaha mining district, where they go to look after properties in which they are interested . . . . Geo W. Watts returned to Asotin Monday evening, from Genesee, and will remain throughout the winter. He has already entered the employ of Caywood Bros., the contractors, and is busy at work . . . . . G. W. Hoge and J. H. Gentry, from Genesee, were in Asotin yesterday looking over the place with a view to locating. Jack O'Keefe had them in charge and showed them every point of interest, and especially desirable property for home-building purposes. The gentlemen are looking for homes where the winter's climate is mild, and they seem very well pleased with the appearance of Asotin and promise to come again before deciding to pur chase.—Sentinel.

—Mrs. J. D. Flenner, wife of J. D. Flenner who recently addressed the Genesee voters for the fusionists, died very suddenly at Boise November 15. She had been suffering from a severe cold and while enroute to the theatre was taken with a severe fit of caughing and it is thought ruptured a blood vessel. She did not regain consciousness but passed away before the grief-stricken family could realize what had happened.

—The great Paris exposition of 1900 was officially closed the 12th instant. The aggregate attendance of 50,000,000 was phenomenal, especially when it is considered that the strained relations between England and France had the effect of keeping many English visitors away. It was but 5,000,000 less than double the Chicago World's Fair attendance of 27,500,000. Notwithstanding the great attendance the result has been that the great show was only a success in part, while in the manner of finances it has been little better than a failure.

—Whether farm life is agreeable or not to a boy depends to a very great extent on the relation between him and the other members of the family. A writer says if the son and father enjoy each other's company, they will have entire confidence in each other, and the boy will most likely grow up with a good, broad view of life, drawn from the greater experience of his father. This is largely the case with the relation between brother and sister, but it is not so important. As a people, we Americans are not in the least danger of being too polite, and the earlier we begin the better for us. But when the father and son do not understand and indeed know each other's opinions and pleasures, then is when we may expect sorrow sooner or later. In truth, it is surprising how very few farmers take any interest in their sons' interests and pleasures, except to discourage them, and how very few ever take the time to teach them to work easily and well. Notice, if you please, the way the farmer boys make room for themselves in the cities, and how they are appreciated by men of influence. These men quickly recognize the kind of stuff the boys are made of. Can any one tell why these same boys are never appreciated in the country?

The End of the World in 1914.

A famous scientist predicts that the world will come to an end in 1914, basing his calculations on the revalations of the Bible. If this is so, it is well for us to get what pleasure we can out of the few years that remain for us to live. One of the surest ways to enjoy life is the possession of good health, and a well regulated stomach. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will enable anyone to obtain this. It is the greatest medicine for the cure of ills that arise from a bad stomach. Cures dyapepsia, constipation fever and ague, malaria, rheumatism and insomnia. No other medicine can show a record equal to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the standard medicine of American people for over fifty years.

In the new "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will Eliza cross the river on an automobile?

The Sultan hasn't said that he cannot pay, but he admits that it costs him $7,000,000 a year to keep his wives in clothes.

A course in accurate counting might well be added to the curriculum of our schools, even if some fad has to be sacrificed to make room for it.

There is a man in Pennsylvania who is penniless, after having spent $400,000 in two years. Let a good word be said for him here and now. He put it in circulation.

Probably a larger percentage of applicants to the universities would be able to pass the examination in spelling if there were more of the three R's and fewer ologies in our primary education.

The Sultan of Turkey, as a jubilee gift to his nation, remitted all tax arrears of more than fifteen years' standing. This was truly generous of the Sultan, considering that taxes due fifteen years back are so very easy to collect.

The Vanderbilt boys keep on getting their names in the papers, first by taking up the work where father left off, next by getting shaved in Connecticut on Sunday and again by refusing to accept the prize won in a yacht race. Well, these things are better than social scandals, anyway.

A statute similar to the English "corrupt practices" law might eliminate from politics the abuses of the campaign assessment and its attendant corruptions. Then, again, it might not. New York State has some such law, but we do not learn that its politics has been completely purged of evil. Too much dependence is placed on laws, too little on public virtue. De Tocqueville said sixty years ago that the fate of this republic rested wholly on the virtues of its people. This was true then and it is true now.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox calls attention to the promptness with which every one helps the blind or the crippled, and says that we should show the same sympathy for the perverse and the wicked, who are morally blind. We should stop to help them as we would a blind man who asked us to help him over the street. This is a beautiful poetic idea, and in some cases, more particularly with children, it can be carried out. But the trouble is, the perverse and the wicked won't have our help. Nevertheless it is good to strive after ideals, and if the wrongdoer will not let us turn him from his evil ways we can help those who see the error of their ways. We can keep our own hands clean and refrain from pushing our fellows downward.

Great Britain is preparing for the census of 1901, which will virtually be taken in a single day, and is expected to show a population of about forty-one millions in Great Britain and Ireland. During the last week in March next, the enumerators will distribute schedules to heads of families and institutions, and upon these blanks the householder himself must enter the name of every person who sleeps in his house on the night of Sunday, March 31. Then on the following day the enumerator will collect the schedules. By our system the enumerator, who personally interviews the householder and writes down the facts given by him, is allowed two weeks to canvass a city district, and a month for a country district. Each method has its advantages. The British plan is likely to be more exact as to the population; but it is doubtful if it would be successful if answers were required to as many inquiries as are made by the American census regarding each person.

One of the most startling phenomena of the time, says a writer in the London Outlook, is the great decrease in the number of children attending Sunday schools. A safe estimate shows a falling off of 32,000 scholars in one year. The shrinkage is not more marked in one body than in another. The Church of England equally with the other Protestant churches has to lament a loss, and the loss is greater in reality than the mere numbers show, for the population naturally increases every year, and the increase ought to contribute its ever-growing quota to the Sunday school. That it fails to do so suggests an inquiry probably of greater moment than many social questions that make much noise in the world. Why should the Sunday schools have ceased to attract? The most obvious answer is that the days of what was practically compulsory attendance are over. That means, of course, that the churches are losing some of their moral hold upon the parents. The inference seems to agree with the facts. In ceasing to be dogmatic and to wield pains and penalties, social and eternal, the churches have laid aside one weapon without attempting to replace it by another.

The prominence of the United States in the work of collecting statistics is pretty generally admitted. Our census-taking methods are the subject of study all over the world. Japan has two representatives daily at the census bureau and China one, while attaches of the European embassies are frequent visitors. The census of the United States is sometimes criticised for its slowness, but the methods are painstaking and thorough and statistics are collected on many topics that are ignored by the European governments. For instance, the statistics of manufactures are nowhere so thorough and excite admiration in every quarter. Aside from these the United States has won rank as a gatherer of world statistics. The first and best statistics as to the consumption and production of gold and silver are those prepared by the director of the mint of the United States. The Engineering and Mining Journal is the first to announce the world's production of all metals each year. The weak point in American statistics is in those dealing with municipalities. The lack of uniformity makes it difficult to compile these with satisfactory result. Of late a movement has arisen in favor of such uniformity and it is to be hoped that it will spread, for no class of statistics is of greater importance.

John Murray, head of the London publishing house whose experience entitles him to a respectful hearing, lays down these rules regarding standards of judgment in reading fiction:

1. No work of fiction can really be judged until it has been out, say, six or eight years.
2. No book written to suit a passing fashion and colored with the tint of some issue or psychological "question of the day" is ever likely to have permanent value.
3. If any one wishes to test the books of to-day let him or her keep up a close acquaintance with Robinson Crusoe, the Waverley novels, Dickens, Thackeray and George Eliot. It is extraordinary how much modern work crumbles under this test.

These rules, especially the first and third, reflect the best sense of experienced readers. Novels, like animals and plants, must submit to the selective process of nature and only the best survive. A new novel may create a furore and be in everybody's mouth for a season. But wait till the frost of judgment comes. Fashions which have to do with what is fleeting come and go. The reality endures, and only those who see the reality and give it human form can command a hearing beyond the hour. If people who have not time to read everything would wait five years after the publication of a book before reading it much valuable time might be saved. The chances are as 10 to 1 they wouldn't read it because it would be forgotten. But they would have the more delight in reading the saved and saving remnant, the one worthy work surviving the stern judgment of taste and thought.

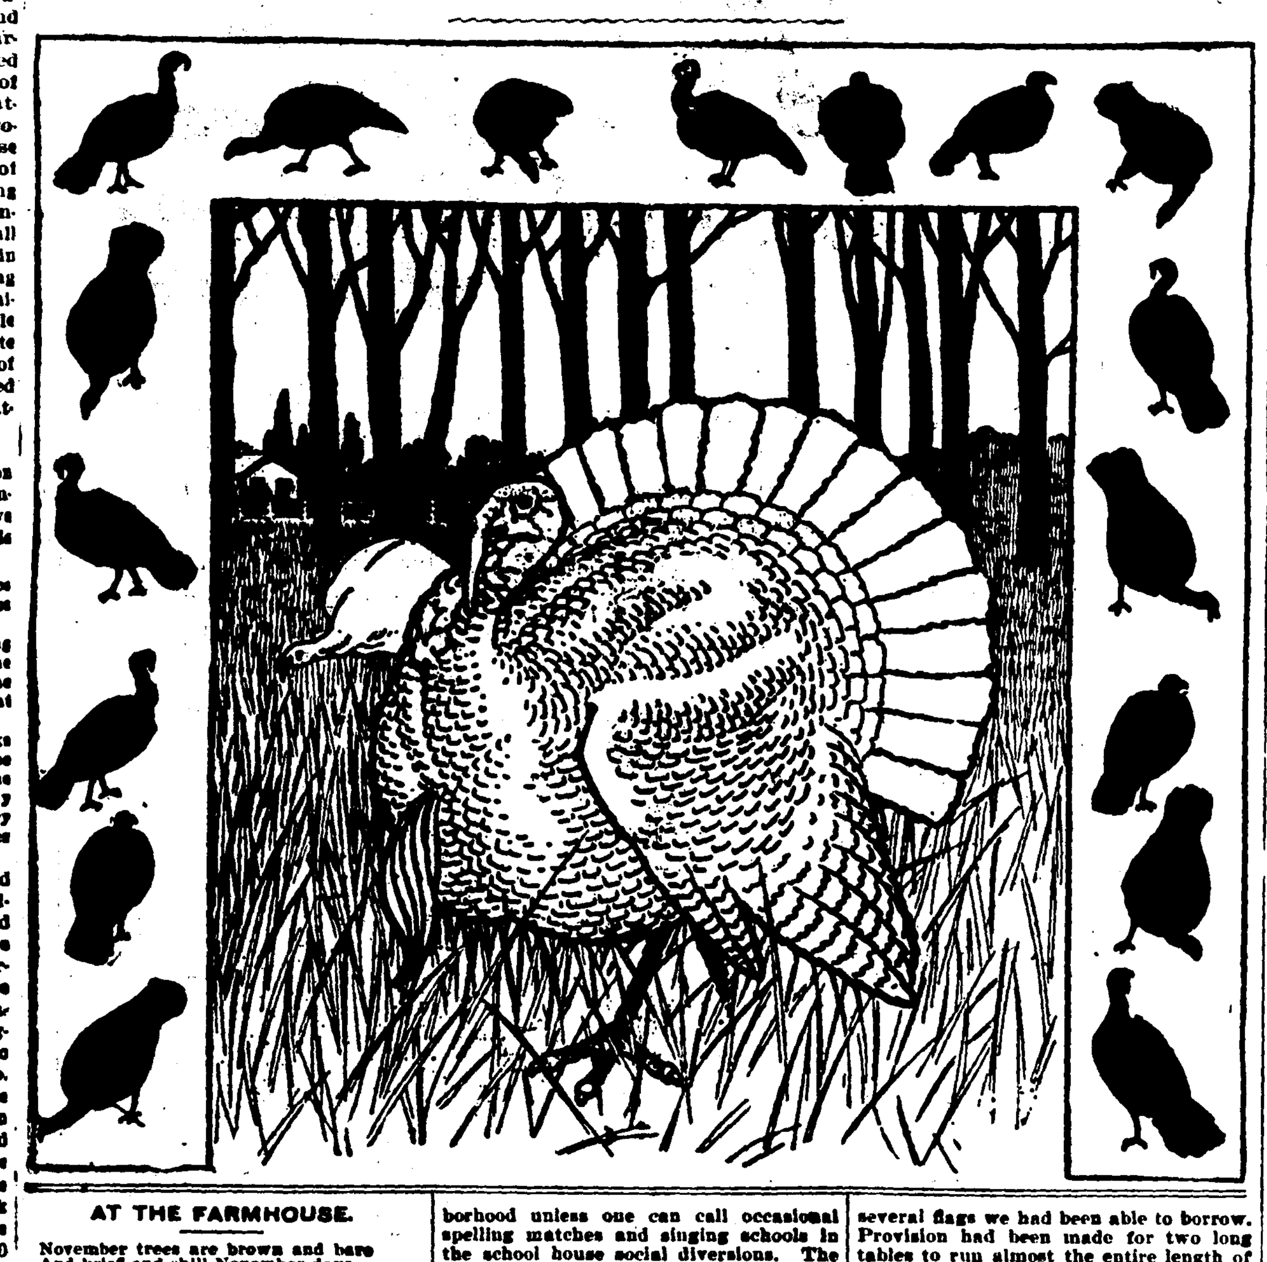
It is a fact that is frequently remarked upon by the observant, although the observant may not be supported by actual statistics, that the new generation of Americans, those of the well-to-do classes at least, is taller and better built than the old. If we watch parents and children walking together—as we may conveniently on a Sunday just before or after church time—we cannot fail to be struck with the fact that, as a rule, the young men are taller than their fathers and the young women taller than their mothers. We also see that they are healthier-looking, with broader shoulders and fuller chests, better complexions and brighter eyes. The reason for this improvement in the race is not far to seek. Physiologists have long been interested in the study of growth, and although they do not yet know why it progresses up to a certain point and then stops, they have learned something of the influences that accelerate or retard it. We know, of course, that a man's size depends upon the rate of growth as well as upon its duration, and hence anything that makes it progress at a more rapid rate during the allotted period will result in a larger man. In observations upon puppies and rabbits it has been seen that growth is favored by all conditions that promote health—exercise, fresh air, sleep and nourishing food; and is retarded by the opposites. In children also it has been noted that growth is more rapid in country homes than in city tenements, during vacation than during school time, in summer than in winter; tht is to say, it is favored by the same conditions as those which are advantageous to puppy growth. These conditions exist at the present day in fuller measure than they have ever done in the past. Golf, tennis, bicycling and other outdoor sports, an increasing appreciation of the value of good ventilation in our houses, a gradual disuse of the frying-pan, and in general a more reasonable, and consequently hygienic, way of living, are the agencies at work in making our children the superiors, physically at least, of their parents.

A Singular Occupation.

There is a celebrated cook in London about whom it is said that he makes an income of over ten thousand dollars a year. He is attached to no house, but in his own brougham sets out toward evening for the house of some rich man who is going to give a dinner, at which every dish must be above criticism. Here he alights, and, making for the kitchen, goes through the process of tasting all the soups, sauces and made dishes—advising when his palate suggests a little more salt here, a pinch of herbs there, a dash of sugar in this entree, a suspicion of onion in that salmis, etc. This done, he pockets his fee of twenty-five dollars and drives on to the next dinner-giving patron who has bidden him to his feast in this strange fashion. His nightly list comprises many houses all through the London season.

A great deal is said about the notorious lack of moral courage in men. The women are nearly as bad; when a woman is carrying a package of dry goods, and goes into a rival store, she nearly always hides it.

THE NATIONAL BIRD



AT THE FARMHOUSE.

November trees are brown and bare
And brief and chill November days,
But on the farm all are astir
And cheerfully the mother says—
"The day to all New England dear
Thanksgiving Day, will soon be here.

"So, father, choose the turkey now
And I will make some pumpkin pies,
And we will have a pudding nice
And it shall be of largest size;
There are walnuts in the garret
And there is corn that pops like snow,
There are apples in the cellar
Which all the children love, I know.

"And we will have our sons come home,
Our daughters and grandchildren, too,
Mary Ann and Jim and Joseph,
Maggie, Nellie and baby Prue."

So father gets the turkey fine
And mother makes the pumpkin pies
And home Thanksgiving morning brings
Beloved ones of every size.

The old house rings with their glad laugh,
The fireplace glows with ruddy light,
And when at table all have met
That kitchen is a pleasant sight.

The father offers sincere thanks,
The little ones impatient wait,
And then the turkey plump he carves
And from the bounty fills each plate.
Then grandma's plum-filled pudding comes
With mince and pumpkin pies galore,
While nuts and apples, raisins sweet,
And fun and feasting crown the hour.

And here the poor remembered are
And not in kindly word alone,
With well-filled hands the children speed
To neighbors' homes where want is known.

The pleasant hours most swiftly fly,
The corn is popped and stilled the fun,
And happy children rest in bed,
The glad November day is done.

But by the fire grandmother sits
And in her hand she holds a curl,—
A soft brown curl, that shone long since
Around the face of her first girl—
"Dear child," she cries, "forgotten never,
A mother's love remembers ever."
—Emily Pearson Bailey.

A RURAL PEACEMAKER.

BY J. L. HARBOUR.

THEY did not pay much attention to Thanksgiving in the country school district in which I taught in the West a good many years ago. Christmas was the chief holiday of the winter, and it was celebrated without any special demonstration, for most of the people were poor and there was not much sentiment in their general make-up. Old Hannah Dorton, with whom I boarded, was of New England birth, and she had not come to the West until some years after her marriage. She was a woman of a good deal of force of character, and no one in the neighborhood had a nimbler tongue. One evening about two weeks before Thanksgiving I said to her:

"Do the people observe Thanksgiving very generally in this neighborhood?"

"No, they do not," replied the old lady with considerable emphasis. "And it has always been a good deal of a trial to me that so little attention was paid to a day that we made so much of back there in dear old New England. It was the greatest holiday of the year to us, and how we did enjoy it!"

"Why do they pay so little attention to it here?"

"Well, I guess it is just because they have never got in the way of paying any attention to it. They never celebrated the Fourth of July as it ought to be celebrated until my husband got them started to doing it ten years before he died, and now we have a big celebration every year."

"Some one ought to start them to celebrating Thanksgiving."

"So they ought. But who is to do it?" I reflected for a few moments, and then I said:

"Suppose we start them off in that direction."

"How?" asked the old lady, dropping her knitting into her lap and manifesting eager interest.

"Suppose we get up a Thanksgiving dinner in the school house. Invite all the folks in the district to come and bring their dinner with them. There does not seem to be any social life in the neighborhood unless one can call occasional spelling matches and singing schools in the school house social diversions. The people never eat and drink together in a merry-making of any kind. Don't you think that the idea of a Thanksgiving dinner in the school house would take?"

The old lady reflected for a moment and then said:

"Yes, I think it would. It would be a novelty to every one, and I think the folks would turn out big, only—only——"

"Only what?" I asked.

"Well, the fact is, there are so many folks in this neighborhood that don't speak to each other. I never saw anything like it. There is old Squire Bent, who won't speak to his daughter because she married John Watters against the squire's wishes. There was nothing against John, excepting that he was poor, and he had a brother that had been in jail, but John couldn't help that, and he has done splendidly ever since he married, and it is my opinion that the squire would like to make up with John and Nellie, only he is too proud to make any advances, and they won't either. Then there is Kate Whiting and her sister, Lucy Patch, who had a falling out years ago, and ain't spoke to each other since, and before that one was the very shadder of the other. Reuben Hoopes and his brother Silas and their families fell out over the property after old man Hoopes died, and they ain't ever spoke since. Then the Anderson and Robey families had a falling out five years ago, and they don't speak, and before that they were as thick as flies around a molasses bar'l. Then there are other families in the district that ain't as friendly as they ought to be, so your Thanksgiving dinner might end in a riot if all these people come together in the school house."

"Not with a woman of your tact at the head of it," I said.

"Well, you go ahead and get it up, and I will aid and abet you all I can. It will be a break in the monotony of things here even if there is a fight."

I spent all of my time before and after school during the next ten days in calling at all of the homes in the neighborhood, and inviting the people to come to the school house on Thanksgiving day with well-filled baskets. The school house was unusually large, and there would be room for all if we took out a part of the seats. Three days before Thanksgiving old Mrs. Dorton said:

"WE WILL NOW SING."

"I guess you'll have the house full Thanksgiving. Nancy Ross was in here to-day, and she says that the whole district is coming, and Nancy knows if any one does, for she spends most of her time trotting about picking up gossip and retailing it out aagin. She is as good as the local columns of a newspaper for giving news about what folks are saying and doing, and she says that the idea of the Thanksgiving dinner in the school house was caught like wildfire. Nancy says she wouldn't miss it for a party."

The larger boys and girls of the school met me at the school house the evening before Thanksgiving, and we decorated the room beautifully with evergreens and several flags we had been able to borrow. Provision had been made for two long tables to run almost the entire length of the room with some smaller tables in the corners.

"I suppose that we will have to be careful how we seat the people at the tables," I said to Mrs. Dorton.

"You just leave that mostly to me," said the old lady. "I know the people better than you do, and I won't be so apt to make awkward blunders. I'll set 'em down all right."

Nancy Ross was right when she said that the whole district would be present at the dinner. The dinner was to be at 1 o'clock, and by noon the house was filled by a merry, happy crowd, including almost every family in the district.

There were baskets and boxes and even tubfuls of turkeys and chickens and doughnuts and pies and cakes. There were baskets of big red apples, and Hiram Hawkins brought half a barrel of sweet cider. Some one brought a basket of popcorn balls for the children, and there was an infinite variety of jellies and jams and preserves and pickles brought forth from boxes and baskets.

"There's enough stuff here to feed an army," said Hannah Dorton, as she bustled about from table to table, the happiest and most active person in the house.

A few minutes before 1 o'clock I heard her saying to Mrs. Kate Whiting, "Come, now, Kate; you and your husband and two children are to set at this table over in this corner. Come right along." And when they were seated the old lady bustled up to Mrs. Patch and said:

"Now, Lucy, you and your husband and the children are to sit here at this table."

"And if she didn't plump them right down with the Whitings that they hadn't spoken to for years," said the voluble Nancy Ross afterward. Indeed Nancy was so fond of telling about that Thanksgiving dinner afterward that I think I will let her tell about it now.

"Then," she said, "if that Hanner Dorton didn't set old Squire Bent down at the head of one table with his daughter Nellie at his right hand and his son-in-law, John Watters, at his left, an' their baby in a high chair at its gran'pa's side, an' it wa'n't three minutes before the old Squire had that baby in his arms and he et his whole dinner with the little thing in his lap. I heard his daughter say to him, 'Shan't I take the baby, father, so that you can eat your dinner in greater comfort?' But he held right on to it, and there he sat talkin' to Nellie and John same as if there'd never been any trouble at all. And he had that baby in his arms the whole afternoon, an' went around as proud, sayin' to folks, 'See my 'grandson. Ain't he a mighty fine boy?' It was the first time he had ever seen the child, an' the next week he made Nellie and John come and live with him. Then what did that Hanner Dorton do but put Reuben Hoopes an' his brother Silas and their families at a table by themselves, an' I heard her say to 'em, 'Come, now, you folks want to be sociable an' have a good visit together same as own brothers ought to on Thanksgivin' day.' Their wives have always wanted to make up, an' I tell you they found their tongues mighty soon, an' 'fore that meal was over they was talkin' away as if there had never been any row over property or anything else. An' before they knew it the Anderson and Robey families found themselves at the same table with Hanner sayin' to 'em, 'Now it don't make no diff'rence about the past. This is Thanksgivin' day, an' a good time to forget that there has ever been anything but a happy past between you folks.'

"Then if she didn't up an' set old Ruth Norse an' old Betty Underwood down side by side, an' they hadn't spoke to each other for years, an' before they knowed it them two old bodies was chattin' away together as if they had never had a fallin' out in the world. Then when she had got all the people that were enemies set down side by side she seated every one else, and then she said,

"'We will now sing.'

"'Blest be the tie that binds.'"

English Criticisms.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The rather severe criticisms of the English press upon the attitude of the United States relative to the Chinese complications based upon the advices of their American correspondents have naturally attracted a great deal of attention here.

Relationship of N. P. and G. N.

New York, Nov. 20.—So many conflicting stories have been told regarding the relations, present and prospective, between the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific, that a plain statement of a few well authenticated facts will not be amiss.

There is close "community of ownership" in the two properties, but no apparent design or desire on the part of the controlling owners to have these two systems managed in any other way than as separate lines. Although J. J. Hill is a very large stockholder in the Northern Pacific, "possibly the largest individual stockholder," and four or five men hold enough stock in each company to practically give them control of both, the two systems are not to be merged, and the interests of one company will not be subordinated to the other.

Existing statutes of northwestern states expressly prohibit the consolidation or joint operation of two parallel and competing lines, and President Mellen of the Northern Pacific remarked the other day that public sentiment strongly upheld these laws.

It is an assured fact, however, that while these lines will continue to engage in legitimate competition for traffic, they will not be permitted to "cut each other's throat" nor jeopardize their respective revenues by rate wars. The same permanent friendly relations will prevail in northwestern territory as now prevail in eastern territory, which is dominated by the joint influence of the Vanderbilts and the Pennsylvania roads.

Contrary to certain reports, Great Northern capitalists have not been reducing their holdings of Northern Pacific stock, but quite the contrary.

A Chinese Trick.

London, Nov. 21.—Dr. Morrison, wiring to the Times from Pekin, says: "In communicating the punishment edict, dated Sian-fu November 13, to the foreign envoys, Li Hung Chang submits it as the final punishment the court is able to inflict, and repeats the stereotyped plea of all Chinese plenipotentiaries, namely: That the emperor threatens himself and Prince Ching with punishment if they fail to induce the representatives of the powers to accomplish a compromise. The mildness of the sentences excites ridicule and strengthens the ministers in their determination to demand the death penalty. The punishments are illusory.

"Prince Tuan is merely banished to his own home and others undergo a merely nominal lowering of rank. Perpetual imprisonment means a life of honored retirement.

"Large numbers of southern Chinese now residing in Pekin, fearing further retribution during the winter, are preparing to leave for the south."

According to the Shanghai correspondent of the Times, it is asserted on good authority in Tientsin that there are still some missionaries surviving at Tai-yuen-fu under the protection of the mandarins.

Smallpox at Nanaimo, B. C.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 21.—A smallpox epidemic has broken out in Nanaimo, B. C. The municipal and health authorities of Nanaimo, which is the center of the British Columbia coal mining industry, have several times denied the presence of the disease, but Dr. Fagan, the provincial health officer, reports that there are now 10 cases in Nanaimo. Many of those now stricken with the disease were miners who went to work in the pits with a rash on their faces, pronounced insignificant, but now admitted to be genuine smallpox. All passengers arriving from Nanaimo are subjected to a rigid examination by the Vancouver health authorities.

Famous Independent Mine.

Denver, Col., Nov. 20.—John Hays Hammond, the famous mining expert, recently of Pretoria, but formerly of the Coeur d'Alenes, in Idaho, has gone to Cripple Creek with full authority to examine Stratton's Independence mine, with a view to determining whether or nor the property has been worked out after its sale to English investors for the sum of $15,000,000.

The mine has paid at the rate of $480,000 a quarter, with the belief that there were millions of ore in sight to be placed to the account of dividends.

Five Men Drowned.

New Liberty, Mich., Nov. 20.—Word has been received here by D. M. McLeod, a lumberman, that one of his scows used in transporting freight from Sault Ste. Marie to Deer Park, where he has a number of lumber camps, was caught in a storm on Lake Superior, near Deer Park, and the five men on board were washed overboard and drowned. The dead are: Joseph H. Cascaden, Joseph Billings, Herman Winsel, Baron Nizeel and a man known only as "William."

Wall Fell on Them.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Six men were injured, two probably fatally, Monday by the falling of a wall of a two story building in course of construction at 716 Forty-seventh street. The injured: August Silka, fatal; Fred Henrith, fatal; Louis Host, William Gienka, Mark Galligan, August Savlating.

The wall had been condemned by the building inspector and the men were engaged in tearing it down when it collapsed.

Six hundred "cowpunchers" (cowboys) of Nebraska, Wyoming and Colorado were included in Canada's volunteers for the front in South Africa.

AN OLD-TIME THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving long ago.

I WANT an old Thanksgiving, when life was well worth living,
And we all went down to grandma's on the dear old farm, you know;
Perhaps it might be blowing, perhaps it might be snowing,
But we never thought of weather on Thanksgiving, long ago.

There were uncles, aunts and cousins, by the sizes and the dozens,
There was such a groaning table, the cutest roasted pig,
There were puddings, pies and cherries, and apple tarts and berries,
And doughnuts, cake and raisins, and turkeys all so big.

And they did not serve in courses, and post-prandial discourses
Were not so much in fashion, but the stories had their share
Of the old-time pioneering, of the heartiness and cheering
Of the sympathetic neighbor, and the Indian and the bear.

And we found the apple cider and the old potato slicer,
And the bins for all the apples, and preserves and pickled pears,
And we ranged the gloomy garret; we were very brave to dare it,
But the box of maple sugar and dried fruit were up the stairs.

And around the barn we rollicked, and through the lofts we frolicked,
And we ranged the turnip cellar, and we tumbled in the straw,
And we heard the cattle munching, and the lowing and the crunching,
And we climbed along the mangers where the horses fed, with awe.

O that was a Thanksgiving that was worth a year of living,
And hearts seemed so much truer and life so smooth in flow;
And friends somehow were nearer, and loved ones so much dearer,
When we went down to grandma's for Thanksgiving, long ago.

Dick's Thanksgiving Dinner.

BY JOSEPHINE VOSS.

LATE on the day before Thanksgiving the boys were returning after a day spent in the wood, and all were in high spirits. They had succeeded in trapping a rabbit, which was now slung over Dick Morris' shoulder in sportsmanlike fashion, for to him was due most of the credit of capturing it, and he felt very proud.

"What are you going to do with the rabbit, Dick?" Edward White asked, gazing admiringly at it.

"Yes, that's it," exclaimed Archie Rhodes, "what will be done with it? Somebody tell."

"Why, cook it, of course," said Dick, and then a happy thought struck him. "Oh, I'll tell you what, fellows. We'll have it for dinner to-morrow. What did we catch it for if we didn't want to use it?" And glowing with pride, he gave all the boys a hearty invitation to dinner at his home the next day.

"It's a go!" shouted Fred Miller; "it's a go! I'll come early in the morning so's to be on time."

With a burst of pleasure his companions joined him in accepting the invitation, and then all went home to dream of the morrow's feast where they would partake of the spoils of the day's adventure

* * * * * * * *

"Did you bring anything from town for our Thanksgiving dinner?" Mrs. Morris was saying to her husband as Dick stepped in the door.

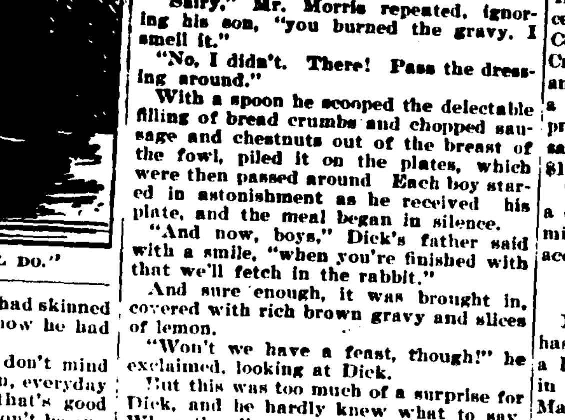
Mr. Morris laughed.

"Did I bring anything? Ha! ha! I brought a thirty-five pounder. I sold the colt this afternoon and turned all the money over to Pritchard and that just raised the mortgage on our home. I tell you, I was mighty thankful, and I thought we'd celebrate the occasion 'mong ourselves with the biggest turkey we could get. How's that?" he said, holding the fowl at arm's length.

"Couldn't we have a rabbit, too?" Dick suggested as he laid his bundle on the table.

"Mercy sakes!" exclaimed his mother, "where did you get that?"

With reluctance Dick told how in the spirit of fun he had trapped the rabbit



"OH, I KNOW WHAT I'LL DO."

and how Fred Miller's father had skinned and dressed it for him, and how he had invited all the boys to dinner.

"Well," said his father, "I don't mind havin' the boys come, but plain, everyday turkey's all they'll get and that's good enough for anybody. There won't be any frills on our dinner. And look ahere," he added sternly, "I don't 'prove of your trappin' rabbits for fun."

Dick was deeply disappointed and soon went to bed, but he couldn't sleep, and in the dead of night he stole out of his room.

"This is a nice fix," he said.

If he hadn't invited the boys, he wouldn't have cared. How would he tell them of the change in the menu of the expected feast? He simply couldn't do it, that was all. By the light of the moon that came in the window he saw on the table before him the nimble little animal that he had captured lying by the side of the big turkey, which had been made ready for the oven and was fairly bursting with delicious dressing.

"Oh, I know what I'll do! There!" he said, as he unfastened the stout cord that bound the bulging sides of the turkey, scooped out the dressing, stuffed the rabbit in the ample cavity and fastened the cord again. "We'll have the rabbit anyhow, but nobody will know till it's cooked."

Then he went back to his room.

When he awoke in the morning the first thought that struck him was that his mischievous prank might spoil the whole dinner. Yes, he was sure it would. He had never heard of such articles of food being cooked together and he became badly frightened. He hastened to undo his work of the night, but it was too late. The turkey, with its strange consort, was already roasting to a nice brown in the oven. He felt very sorry and when the boys came he took them aside and told them everything.

"Say, that's the jolliest kind of fun," Archie laughed. "I'm glad I came!"

"So am I," put in Edward. "What's the matter, Dick? You don't seem to enjoy this."

Dick thought only of the spoiled dinner and what his parents would say when they discovered his trick.

Soon dinner was ready, and the guests were seated. Then came the vital moment. Mr. Morris took his place at the head of the table and was about to cut the turkey.

"I wonder what he'll say when he pulls the rabbit out," Fred whispered to Archie Rhodes.

"Guess he'll wonder what the turkey swallowed," was the humorous answer, and then both laughed.

"Cut that turkey, Sam," Mrs. Morris said to her husband; "what are you waiting for?"

Mr. Morris looked around at the smiling faces of his guests, then dug the knife deep into the savory fowl and suddenly stopped. "Sairy!" addressing his wife, "you——"

The boys burst into a fit of laughter. Dick turned a deep crimson and stood up:

"She didn't do it; I did it," he confessed.

"Sairy," Mr. Morris repeated, ignoring his son, "you burned the gravy. I smell it."

"No, I didn't. There! Pass the dressing around."

With a spoon he scooped the delectable filling of bread crumbs and chopped sausage and chestnuts out of the breast of the fowl, piled it on the plates, which were then passed around. Each boy stared in astonishment as he received his plate, and the meal began in silence.

"And now, boys," Dick's father said with a smile, "when you're finished with that we'll fetch in the rabbit."

And sure enough, it was brought in, covered with rich brown gravy and slices of lemon.

"Won't we have a feast, though!" he exclaimed, looking at Dick.

But this was too much of a surprise for Dick, and he hardly knew what to say. When the dinner was fairly started his father arose to make a speech while Mrs. Morris tried to repress a smile.

"As this is a day of thanksgiving," he began, "we'll all give thanks. First, 'cause the mortgage is all paid now, and second 'cause by a lucky streak the rabbit got cooked alone. It was discovered just in time. When two strange feet are found sticking out of a turkey where it ain't held together, 'tain't hard to guess what's happened, especially when all the dressin's left in a bowl right beside it and everythin', generally, looks as if it had been done in the dark. But seein' 'at you'd captured the poor little thing and wanted it so bad, we just thought we'd fix it up and serve it to-day, hopin' that in the future yaou'll never trap any more."

All laughed heartily as Mr. Morris concluded. For the first time that day Dick's mind was relieved of its great burden and he joined in the merry laughter. He never heard the end of his trick, but as his parents had taken it so kindly he respected their wishes and never again indulged in the sport of trapping rabbits.

Chestnut Stuffing.

Get two quarts of large French chestnuts. Shell and boil them until the skins are softened. Then drain off the water and remove the skins. Boil three pints of the chestnuts again until soft. Then press through a colander. Season with one and a half tablespoonfuls of butter, one and a half teaspoonfuls of salt and a quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. If moist stuffing is desired, add three tablespoonfuls of cream.

Trade of United States with Canada Shows Big Increase.

This Despite the Fact of the Preferential Tariff Rates Established Between Canada and Great Britain—A Year's Record.

The Canadian preferential tariff in favor of the United Kingdom has not had the expected effect of reducing the proportion which the United States supplies of manufactures imported into Canadian territory. A copy of the Canadian Manufacturer, just received by the treasury department bureau of statistics, sharply calls attention to the fact that imports of dutiable articles into Canada from the United States in the fiscal year 1899 aggregated over $44,000,000 and from Great Britain less than $28,000,000, and that the United States is furnishing a much larger amount of manufactures of iron and steel than the United Kingdom, and adds:

"The preponderance of trade is overwhelmingly in favor of American manufactures, and tariff preference in favor of British goods to the contrary notwithstanding, American manufactures are taking the cream of the business. Is it possible that British manufacturers are entirely unable to compete in the Canadian market?"

The Canadian tariff, it will be remembered, was in 1897 so adjusted that the duty on articles entering Canada from the United Kingdom was made, beginning with April, 1897, 12½ per cent. less than the rate from other parts of the world, and on July 1, 1898, another reduction in favor of the United Kingdom was made, bringing the total reduction to 25 per cent. as against goods coming from other parts of the world. A recent announcement indicates that, beginning with July 1, 1900, a still further reduction would be made, so that the rates of duty on articles from the United Kingdom would be 33 1-3 per cent. less than those from other parts of the world. While the effect of the third reduction of 12½ per cent., which went into operation July 1, 1900, cannot yet be determined, it is practicable to compare the imports of manufactures into Canada from the United Kingdom and the United States respectively during the years ending June 30, 1898, 1899 and 1900, and thus determine whether the advantages which the manufacturers of the United Kingdom during that time have a perceptible effect upon the relative growth of the imports of Canada from the two countries, the United Kingdom and the United States.

SAVED FROM RATTLESNAKE.

Good Shot by Hunter Prevents Reptile from Using His Fangs on a Boy.

Otto Doetcher, a 14-year-old boy employed in the office of H. J. Young, manager of the National Mercantile company, of Toledo, O., had a terrible experience with a rattlesnake while visiting at the home of a relative near White House.

He desired to go out and get some frogs in the ponds which are located on the farm where he was visiting. While walking along the bank he stumbled and fell, and as he was falling he saw a huge snake under him. It was lying in the sun and was stretched out its full length.

His body had hardly struck the ground and he had just discovered the reptile when he heard the snake rattle, and a second later the reptile coiled itself and raised its head slightly into the air, showing its poisoning fangs. A man who had been out hunting happened along and saw the boy and his predicament. He decided upon his action at once, and raising the gun to his shoulder fired at the reptile's head. His aim was good and the snake's head fell to the ground. The boy was badly frightened, and could barely reach the home of his relatives.

The hunter secured the rattles on the snake's tail and now has them in his possession. There were 27 of them, and this would indicate that the snake was 30 years of age, as they are supposed to accumulate rattles at the rate of one each year after they have reached the age of three years.

SWALLOWS HIS PLAYTHINGS.

Queer Appetite Shown by a Eleven-Months-Old Boy in Pennsylvania.

An 11-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, of Rowenna, Pa., has developed a fondness for swallowing his playthings. The other day, while his mother was absent for a few moments, the little fellow gulped down two small bracelet locks, a key, and a five-cent piece.

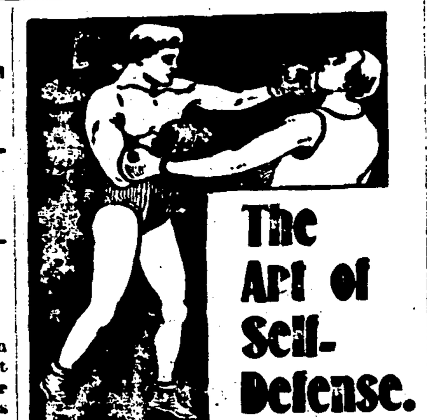
When the mother discovered that the articles were missing, she summned medical assistance, but before the physician arrived there was a revulsion in the boy's stomach and the articles came forth. Notwithstanding the child appears perfectly well, Mrs. Miller is still greatly exercised, she insisting that a breastpin, which cannot be found, was among the things swallowed.

Pays Annual Rent of a Penny.

The peasant possessor of a piece of land in the district of Itzehoe, Denmark, pays what is believed to be the smallest rent paid by anybody in the world—a single penny. The land has been in his family for generations and escapes a higher rent through the act of one of his ancestors in saving the life of Count Rantzau of Britenberg castle.

British Coal Exports.

British coal exports are about seven times as valuable as they were 50 years ago.



The popular idea expressed in the phrase, "the art of self-defense," shows the opinion that the chief enemies a man has to defend himself from are visible and external. But the real danger of every man is from minute and often invisible foes. In the air we breathe and the water we drink are countless minute organisms leagued against the health of the body.

The one defense against these enemies is to keep the blood pure. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery thoroughly purifies the blood, removing poisonous substances and accretions. When the blood is pure there is no harborage for the germs of disease which find a lodging only when the blood is impure and corrupt.

"I consider your 'Golden Medical Discovery' one of the best medicines on the face of the earth," writes Mr. Wm. Ploeter, of Redoak, Montgomery Co., Iowa. "While in the southwest, three years ago, I got poisoned with poison ivy. The poison settled in my blood and the horrors I suffered cannot be told in words. I thought I would go crazy. I tried different kinds of medicine, tried different doctors, but all the relief they could give me was to make my pocket-book lighter. I then began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Took four bottles without relief. Kept taking it. I took in all ten bottles and got entirely cured."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation.

—A dispatch was sent out the 17th stating that a gigantic railroad deal involving the Northern Pacific and Great Northern had just been completed and will shortly be announced. The statement is officially made by one of the highest executive officers of the Northern Pacific company, who admits the company is about to pass under the control of the Great Northern according to a long cherished plan of J. J. Hill, of the latter road. It is in furtherance of this colossal deal that Hill decided to relinquish the presidency of the Great Northern to his son, Samuel Hill.

ED. BOYCE is a senatorial possibility in Montana. May the gods prevent.

IT is said that it is common talk around Bloomington, Ill., that Adlai E. Stevenson has no further political aspirations.

M. G. BRUMBAUGH, commissioner of education for Porto Rico, says the school system now in operation there includes 800 teachers and 38,000 pupils. This is only a beginning; there are 300,000 children of school age without school facilities, most of whom would enroll if they could. Commissioner Brumbaugh says the hope of the island is in the public schools, and that the great illiteracy in Porto Rico must be reduced.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN, Charles A. Towne and Fred T. Dubois held a consultation in Chicago last Saturday. Mr. Bryan refused to say what was discussed during the meeting, but did not deny that the future policy of the democratic party was one of the topics discussed. "I expect to remain in politics as long as I live," said Mr. Bryan. "I shall continue to advocate and work with both tongue and pen for the principles for which I have fought so long. I shall continue to reside in Lincoln, Neb."

SECRETARY of Agriculture Wilson sees no hope of future reduction in the price of beef. He says that the grazing areas of the western states are being exhausted at an alarming rate; that the population of the United States is increasing rapidly, while the supply of beef is steadily decreasing; that the consumption of beef is growing larger every year, and that unless new grazing lands are opened up or some means found to check the present reckless destruction of the western grazing grounds there is grave danger of killing the cattle-raising industry of the United States. Accordingly, he expects prices to rise still more rather than to fall.

THERE are 16,738,362 children and young men and women being educated in the schools and colleges of the United States—1,503,921 in private institutions, the remainder in public schools. There are 244,527 school houses, dormitories and other buildings in the United States devoted to education, and they are valued at $524,689,255. There are 415,660 teachers—131,793 men and 283,867 women. In 1899 the people of the United States spent $197,281,603 to educate their children, which is $2.67 per capita of population and $3.20 per capita of children of the school age. The average salaries paid school-teachers in the entire United States in 1899 was $45.25 a month for men and $38.14 a month for women.

ADMIRAL WALKER states that the report of the canal commission will be ready for congress on the 1st of December, and will probably be sent in with the president's message. While the report is practically finished, it contains no recommendations, and the commission has not yet determined whether to express a preference for one or the other of the proposed routes. There is a general impression that the members of the commission favor the Nicaragua route, but they will not admit it, nor will they express an opinion on that subject, individually or collectively. They say that they have not given it any consideration. Their report will embrace all facts of importance relating to all the different routes, and congress and the public can draw their own conclusions. If the president desires an expression of opinion on the part of the board they will consider the matter and arrive at some conclusion, but prefer not to make a recommendation because they cannot do so without qualifications.

The Nicaragua route is generally preferred by American and British engineers, and we assume that congress has already selected it because the house has passed a bill ordering the canal built that way, and the senate committee has reported it favorably; nor is there any doubt of the advantages of the Nicaragua route, for numerous commissions have reported in favor of it. At the same time the commission would doubtless be unanimously in favor of a tidewater canal across the Isthmus of Panama provided it could be constructed with reasonable economy and the political conditions would make it expedient. These difficulties seem insurmountable. A tidewater canal at Panama would cost twice as much as the proposed Nicaragua canal—something like $300,000,000—and the fact that the shares of the Panama Canal company are held by more than 100,000 French peasants and others makes negotiations for the right of way practically impossible. —Chicago Record.

THE per capita of gold in this country is $10.60, which is greater than that of all the currency in 1862. On October 1 last the total per capita was $27.01, the high water mark, and the money in circulation has been increasing for over a year at the rate of $400,000 a day.

H. Rider Haggard, famed as the first exploiter in fiction of South Africa, in his two novels, "Jess" and "She," is the author of Lysbeth, a Tale of the Dutch, now running as a serial in Pearson's. Mr. Haggard's latest literary effort is a powerfully told story of the Spanish occupation of the Netherlands, the siege of Leyden and the horrors of the Inquisition. It is well worth the reading. The December Pearson's.

NEW ESTRAY LAW.

The season for taking up estray stock has arrived and for the benefit of our readers we reproduce the law:

Section 1362. If the owner or claimant of any estray animal be unknown, the taker up must, within ten days after taking up such animal, file with the county auditor a notice giving a description of such animal, the marks, brands, natural or artificial, as near as practicable, the name and residence of the taker up, and the time at which the same was taken up. Said auditor must immediately cause such notice to be published in a paper published nearest where said animal is taken up for four consecutive weeks. If no newspaper be published in any county of the State of Idaho, such notice must be published in some newspaper in an adjoining county for four consecutive weeks. Said taker-up must deposit with the county auditor the sum of fifty cents for filing and one dollar for publishing said notice.

Sec. 2. That section 1365 of the Revised Statutes of the State of Idaho, be amended to read as follows:

Section 1365. If any person entitled to the possession of any estray, does not appear and substantiate his title thereto, and pay the charges thereon, within forty days from the time when such notice is filed with the county auditor, such estray must be sold at the request of the taker-up by the sheriff or a constable of the county living nearest the place of sale, at public auction, upon first giving public notice thereof, in writing, by posting up the same in three of the most public places in the precinct where such estray was taken up, at least ten days before such sale, and the taker up may bid thereon at such sale; and after deducting all the lawful charges of the taker-up, as aforesaid, not to exceed ten cents per day for feeding each estray; and the fees of the sheriff or constable, which are the same as on an execution: the remaining proceeds of such sale must be deposited in the county treasury. Any estray sold as herein provided shall be branded by the sheriff or constable making such sale, with an estray brand, as follows: A circle with an initial letter E in the center, the same to be placed on the left side or ribs of all the horned stock, and on the left shoulder of all other stock. The branding irons for such purposes shall be furnished by each respective county in the state of Idaho; and the sheriff or constable making such sale shall receive for his services the sum of fity cents per head, for each animal so branded.

Sec. 3. When the taker-up of an estray finds marks or brands on such animal that are illegible, he must call a competent witness to establish said fact, whose name and address must be published in the estray notice filed with the county auditor.

Sec. 4. Any person or persons refusing to comply with any of the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than five dollars and not more than one hundred dollars.

Little Willie Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of Wolf Lodge, who was lost in the mountains north of that place from Thursday morning until Sunday afternoon, returned home safely not much the worse on account of his exposure. The particulars of the case are as follows: Willie Thompson, 12 years old, left his home at Wolf Lodge some time last Thursday forenoon astride a pony in search of stock. Arriving on the divide about two miles north of Wolf Lodge, the lad became confused and, instead of retracing his way as he intended began to descend on the opposite side of the divide. He was completely lost and spent Thursday night in the mountains without shelter and only a small blanket to protect him from the cold. Some time during the following day he arrived at the home of Joseph Guie. He stopped at the home of Mr. Guie until Sunday morning, when the latter accompanied him to within a short distance of home. The boy's clothes and shoes were in rags and tatters from contact with brush, and he presented a most pitiable appearance, but otherwise none the worse on account of his horrible experience. In the meantime neighbors and friends of the Thompson family to the number of 40 or 50 were tramping over the mountains through the storm in search of the lost child, and many did not return home until the day following the boy's return. One squad of searchers, headed by John Thompson, father of the boy, lost their way in the storm of Sunday afternoon and were compelled to spend the night out, returning home Monday afternoon.—Kootenai Republican.

A Village Blacksmith Saves His Little Son's Life.

H. H. Black, the well known village blacksmith at Grahamville, Sullivan Co., N. Y., says: "Our little son five years old has always been subject to croup, and so bad have the attacks been that we have feared many times that he would die. We have had the doctor and used many medicines, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is now our sole reliance. It seems to dissolve the tough mucus and by giving frequent doses when the croupy symptons appear we have found that the dreaded croup is cured before it gets settled." There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contained no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

If you have ever seen a child in the agony of croup you can realize how grateful mothers are for One Minute Cough Cure which gives relief as soon as it is administered. It quickly cures coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and find it to be a great medicine," says E. S. Phipps, of Poteau, Ark. "It cured me of bloody flux, I cannot speak too highly of it." This remedy always wins the good opinion, if not praise, of those who use it. Quick cures which it effects even in the most severe cases make it a favorite everywhere. For sale by all druggists.

In India, the land of famine, thousands die because they cannot obtain food In America, the land of the plenty, many suffer and die because they cannot digest the food they eat. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. It instantly relieves and radically cures all stomach troubles.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Six Frightful Failures.

Six terrible failures of six different doctors nearly sent Wm. H. Mullen of Lockland, O., to an early grave. All said he had a fatal lung trouble and he must soon die. But he was urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. After taking five bottles he was entirely cured. It is positively guaranteed to cure all diseases of throat, chest and lungs, including coughs, colds, la grippe, pneumonia, bronchitis, asthma, hay fever, croup, whooping cough. 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Kennedy's drug store.

There is no pleasure in life if you dread going to the table to eat and can't rest at night on account of indigestion. Henry Williams, of Boonville, Ind., says he suffered that way for years, till he commenced the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and adds, "Now I can eat anything I like and all I want and sleep soundly every night." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will digest what you eat.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Brave Explorers.

Like Stanley and Livingston, found it harder to overcome malaria, fever and ague, and typhoid disease germs than savage cannibals; but thousands have found that Electric Bitters is a wonderful cure for all malarial diseases. If you have chills with fever, aches in back of neck and head, and tired, worn-out feeling, a trial will convince you of their merit. W. A. Null of Webb, Ill., writes: "My children suffered for more than a year with chill and fever; then two bottles of Electric Bitters cured them." Only 50c. Try them. Guaranteed. J. W. HOPP, CHAS. POWER } Editors and Proprietors.

—A move is on foot to organize lodges of Knights of Pythias and Woodmen at Peck.

—Mrs. Viola McConville, wife of the late Major McConville, has been granted a pension of $25 per month.

—David Plank, of Woodland, Idaho, is visiting with the Hasfurther brothers. Woodland is a new post-office near Kamiah and Mr. Plank and brother are operating a saw mill there.

—The choir at a funeral of a Knight of Pythias at Abilene, Kansas, sang the hymn—"There'll be no Night There," and the singers have been busy since explaining that no personal reflection was intended.

—At the recent election Fremont county for the third time indulged in a county seat fight and St. Anthony for the third time came out winner. At the same election Bannock county decided to build a new court house.

—C. F. Burr and Dr. J. L. Hayes returned Monday from their hunting trip. They did not hunt in the Imnaha country on account of the season being out in Oregon, but in the Anatone country they succeeded in killing a fine deer.

—Pullman will have a city election soon and it can't take place too soon either, or it may be necessary to make some new nominations. Last Tuesday the candidate for mayor, A. B. Baker, and the candidate for clerk, J. J. Murray, running on opposite tickets, fought an interesting round. Mr. Murray preserved the dignity of the printing fraternity and the instigator of the trouble wears a very large hat.

—The state board of canvassers canvassed the vote of the recent election Tuesday. It shows there were 57,914 votes cast. The highest Bryan elector has 2,216 plurality. Glenn, fusion, for congress, has 1,227 and Hunt, fusion, for governor, 2,160. There were 857 prohibition votes, 213 Barker and Donnelly votes and 232 cast for the Bryan electors on what was termed the anti-fusion populist ticket.

—Mrs. Wilson, of Canada, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stinson, left for her home on day this week. Her brother, W. D. Stinson accompanied her.....The teachers' institute held here last Saturday was a success. The attendance was good notwithstanding the weather, which was indescribably bad. Teachers and exteachers and various other persons interested in education-al affairs were present from all parts of the county. An institute of like character will be held in Genesee sometime in December.—Troy News.

—It is claimed a new railroad is headed for the Inland Empire to connect with one of the big western roads seeking a route to tidewater, which is probably the Burlington system. The Bellingham Bay & British Columbia railway now building from Whatcom, Wash., to a point about half way up the western slope of the Cascade mountains, has had an engineering corps in the field for the last 90 days trying to find a pass through the mountains and the announcement of the proposed extension indicates the success of their mission.

—A Sunday edition of the San Diego Union was handed us this week. It contains valuable articles on the Theosophical movement and the philosophy and progress of the work, especially written for enquirers by members of the cabinet of the Universal Brotherhood and prominent writers. The illustrations make it doubly interesting, and for the information contained of an organization whose lodges and influence encircle the world, it is well worth the price asked, 15 cents postage paid. Address, office of Universal Brotherhood Organization, Point Loma Homestead, San Diego, California.

—Mrs. E. P. Sanford invited a number of old friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hopp to meet them at her home Friday evening last for a re-union of old timers. A very pleasant evening was spent, which ended with a bountiful repast. This is the first party given by the Sanfords since their home was remodelled. They have one of the cosiest homes in town, and the guests fully enjoyed spending a few hours there. Mr. and Mrs. Hopp are just as of old—apparently not a day older than when they lived here and took part in many just such parties with these same friends. All hope to have many similar reunions.—De Smet (S. D.) News.

—Our roll of honor contains a number of names this week, for which we give thanks. Nearly all are taking advantage of our liberal clubbing offers.

—In Elmore county the nominees for superintendent of schools, both women, received a like number of votes. It then became necessary to draw lots to see who should have the position and Miss Lodge, republican, was successful over Miss Nichols, democrat.

—Captain Joseph A. O. Yoeman of Fort Dodge, Ia., who furnished the information which led to the capture of Jefferson Davis in the Civil war is dead. The end of the famous warrior came at Washington Courthouse, Ohio, whither he had gone to visit his sister.

—It is reported that Governor Steunenberg is extensively engaging in the sheep business. The Caldwell Tribune states that the sheep business is one of the most profitable industries in Idaho, the only danger being that it has a tendeucy to make a man a republican.

—The agricultural college at Pullman has issued a prospectus of the school of dairying, to be held under the auspices of the college for eight weeks, from January 14th to March 8th. The first four weeks of the session will be given to butter making and milk testing, and the balance of the session to cheese making and pasteurizing. Instruction in dairy book keeping will extend throughout the session.

—The family of John B. Budge filed a transcript in the federal court at Spokane this week against the Northern Pacific railway. The case is one that was brought some months ago in the superior court. The plaintiffs ask the court for $40,000 damages for the death of the head of the family. John B. Budge was formerly a brakeman on the Northern Pacific and was one of the crew of the ill fated train that was wrecked on the Kendrick hill about a year ago.

The End of the World in 1914.

A famous scientist predicts that the world will come to an end in 1914, basing his calculations on the revalations of the Bible. If this is so, it is well for us to get what pleasure we can out of the few years that remain for us to live. One of the surest ways to enjoy life is the possession of good health, and a well regulated stomach. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will enable anyone to obtain this. It is the greatest medicine for the cure of ills that arise from a bad stomach. Cures dyspepsia, constipation fever and ague, malaria, rheumatism and insomnia. No other medicine can show a record equal to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the standard medicine of American people for over fifty years.

Rheumatism.

Nobody knows all about it; and nothing, now known, will always cure it.

Doctors try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, when they think it is caused by imperfect digestion of food. You can do the same.

It may or may not be caused by the failure of stomach and bowels to do their work. If it is, you will cure it; if not, you will do no harm.

The way, to cure a disease is to stop its cause, and help the body get back to its habit of health.

When Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil does that, it cures; when it don't, it don't cure. It never does harm.

The genuine has this picture on it, take no other.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

—The Springer family now occupy the Prunty residence, having moved in from the reservation.

—Eggs reached the 30 cent notch Saturday, and they are a scarce article even at that price.

—Mrs. J. B. Lees and Essington, who have been visiting relatives and friends in the east since last July, are expected home this week.

—Uncle Sam will carry free across the Pacific the soldiers' Christmas boxes sent to the United States quartermaster department at San Francisco.

—Last Friday night the K. of P. members indulged in a pleasant party at their hall. Dancing and cards furnished amusement until the midnight hour when lunch was served.

—Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, of London, England, has accepted a call to continue the work of Dwight L. Moody in this country. He will take up his labors in February, 1901.

—Walter Schmidt, a Genesee jeweler for several months, but who left here on account of ill health, succumbed to the dread disease, consumption, at Wenatchee, Wash., last week.

—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lisne left Monday for Stites, the new town at the end of the N. P. extension. Peter took up a ranch there some time ago and will now permanently reside there. The children will remain here to attend school during the winter.

—A convention in the interests of the Washington Dairy Association will be held at Cheney, Wash., on the 27th, 28th and 29th of December. Special rates have been granted at hotels of Cheney and reduced rates have been asked from the transportation companies and doubtless will be granted.

—A crew of Harry Madgwick's men under Foreman James Smyth, began the construction of a large warehouse on the railroad grounds for M. A. Means. The building is 50x60 feet and will be used as an implement warehouse in connection with the machinery business Mr. Means has in the city. He is preparing to extend this business in all lines in the coming season.—Teller.

—Star Lodge No. 5, K. of P., has elected the following officers for the ensuing term:

F. D. Seymour, C. C.
C. E. Hibbs, V. C.
Dan Moore, P.
G. N. Hollister, M. of W.
W. E. Cool, K. of R. and S.
A. Murphy, M. of F.

—A. D. Bane, at one time book keeper for Mark Means, now a traveling salesman for Crescent Spice Co., canvassed the town Monday.

—The election of road overseers in the various districts occurs next Monday, Dec. 3. Care should be taken to elect men who will vigorously push the road work. It needs pushing.

—Fred Nagel is daily expected home from his visit to Germany. He arrived in New York several days ago and from there went to Michigan for a visit with Mrs. Nagel's people.

—The NEWS would be pleased to receive items of news from every community tributary to Genesee. Any one wishing to take up the work will be furnished with all necessary writing materials.

—The new I. O. O. F. officers for the ensuing term will be:

L. Jain, N. G.
Paul Cann, V. G.
Fred Follett, Secretary.
C. F. Burr, Treasurer.

—Rev. Frank Brown, of Johnson, Wash., is assisting in the revival meetings at the Congregational church. Accompanied by Rev. Fowler he visited Johnson between trains yesterday where Rev. Fowler delivered a Thanksgiving sermon.

—The sheep owners in the vicinity of Emmett are having considerable trouble with their flocks owing to the prevalance of the "scab." There have been over 70,000 dipped and the end is not yet. We understand that Bob Noble sold a band that was moved without a permit and brought over to this side of the Snake, and now the sheep owners propose to hold the ferryman liable for damages.—Caldwell Record.

—Wireless telephone and telegraph circuits will span the world in the next hundred years. A husband in the middle of the Atlantic will be able to converse with his wife sitting in her boudoir in Chicago. We will be able to telephone to China, quite as readily as we now talk from New York to Brooklyn. By an automatic signal they will connect with any circuit in their locality without the intervention of a "hello girl."—December Ladies' Home Journal.

Royal
BAKING POWDER
-Absolutely Pure-

For the third of a century the standard for strength and purity. It makes the hot bread, hot biscuit, cake and other pastry light, sweet and excellent in every quality.

No other baking powder is "just as good as Royal," either in strength, purity or wholesomeness.

Many low priced, imitation baking powders are upon the market. These are made with alum and care should be taken to avoid them, as alum is a poison, never to be taken in the food

—There will be no preaching services at the Methodist church next Sunday, as the pastor will be absent over Sunday at Oakesdale. Sunday school at 10:00 a. m., Epworth League service at 6:45 p. m., leader, Pearlie Rogers.

—Mrs. E. T. Jacobs and three children arrived here Tuesday from Wetaskiwin, Alberta, for an extended visit with relatives and friends. Mrs. Jacobs' second oldest child who had scarlet fever during the summer, has been slow to fully recover and it is hoped this climate will bring relief.

—Henry Schmidt, who a short time ago became insane and was taken to the state asylum at Blackfoot, died and was buried there last week. From the time of his arrival at the asylum up to the time of his death it was impossible to get him to take any nourishment and his sudden death was partially due to this cause. The early demise of this young man who a few weeks ago was as rational and in as rugged health as anyone could be, is a sad happening to the Schmidt family.

—Miss Emma Nebelsieck is home.

—A. Scroggin has severed his connection with the First Bank.

—The Ladies' Aid society will meet next week with Mrs. Geo. Hobson.

—Mrs. Troutman and Mrs. Kempf visited Uniontown between trains yesterday.

—An extra fine article of yellow corn meal is now being turned out at the Genesee Roller Mills. The corn is of home production, having been raised by James Willows on the Rimrock. Get a sack and try it.

—It gives us pleasure to chronicle the marriage of A. J. Fitz to Mrs. Lois Westlake, the ceremony having been performed yesterday forenoon by Justice C. F. Burr. W. E. Cool and Miss Marie Nebelsieck acted as best man and best lady. The NEWS with their numerous friends extend best wishes.

—Mrs. Robert Broberg arrived here Saturday from Lainsburgh, Mich. Mrs. Broberg was formerly Miss Nora Putnam and her marriage to Mr. Broberg prior to her going east last spring, in Spokane, we venture is still news to some of their acquaintances. We are informed that they will live on the Nagel & Bomberg place east of town.

—Yesterday was a memorable day for the Catholic society of Genesee, Bishop Glorioux, of Boise, and a number of visiting priests were present to assist in dedicating the Catholic school building. In the morning the bishop gave an able lecture on education and the importance of observing Thanksgiving day. Of the lecture and other matters we will try and give a more extended notice next week.

—The W. R. C. and G. A. R. members with their families and a few invited friends observed Thanksgiving day by indulging in a big dinner at the K. of P. hall. There was no hard tack in evidence but the chicken pie and the thousand and one other good things were acceptable to all—even an old soldier. The members of these organizations seem to have a weakness for good things to eat, and this day their failing certainly had the better of them. One of the pleasing features of the occasion was the christening of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hibbs' little daughter, Esther Adele, under the folds of the stars and stripes, by Rev. W. C. Fowler.

Compulsory Arbitration of Labor Disputes in New Zealand.

System Has Had a Six Years' Trial and Is Found to Work Satisfactorily—Law Governing Women and Child Labor.

H. H. Lusk, formerly a member of parliament of New Zealand, was before the industrial commission at Washington the other day. He explained the system of arbitration in New Zealand, which, he said, had been extremely satisfactory. This system was in the form of compulsory arbitration, and it had six years' trial. The fact thatthere is compulsory arbitration there made both employes and employers very careful as to the justice of their cases before they act.

In these courts of arbitration in New Zealand no lawyers are allowed to appear; only the interested parties are heard.

Labor organizations in New Zealand are generally incorporated and they found no disadvantage in such incorporations.

The arbitration law had been favored by the employes and fought by employers before it was enacted. Up to last year three-fifths of all labor in New Zealand was organized. Practically the scales of wages in New Zealand are made by the labor organizations for the men outside the unions as well as those within them. The arbitration court of New Zealand never fixes the maximum rate of wages; it simply fixes the maximum rate of wages that can be paid. The operation of this system, he said, does not hamper industries, for the reason that in the six years it has been in operation the industries of New Zealand have increased one-third; this was by an increase in old industries and the springing up of new ones.

The eight-hour law prevails in New Zealand. No woman can be employed in a factory there until she is at least 18 years of age and then she can be employed not more than 44 hours a week, which allows an eight-hour day and a half holiday for her.

No child can be employed in a factory under 16 years of age. Parents are subject to fine and imprisonment if they do not send their children to school a certain number of hours daily.

Children must attend school three days out of four, and, he said, statistics show that 29 per cent. more children are in school in New Zealand than in any other country in the world.

Milwaukee Man Makes a Record Hunting Gasoline for His Vehicle.

Frederick Bredel, a civil engineer of Milwaukee, holds the long-distance record for pushing automobiles. At four o'clock the other morning he arrived in the city, having pushed his Boston gasoline machine 15 miles in five hours and 40 minutes. The record is even better than it looks, for he had the extra handicap of a young lady guest.

This is believed to surpass anything ever before accomplished in this country. Mr. Bredel and his guest went to Waukesha in the conventional style of auto riders. They tried to come back in the same way, but the gasoline gave out. They were stranded on a steep hill in a farming country at ten o'clock at night. There was no help to be found, and Mr. Bredel could not get any gasoline for love or money. The young woman had to get home, so Mr. Bredel put his shoulders to the wheels and started his slow journey to town and gasoline. Farmers refused to lend him horses, and the first place to give him gasoline was an all-night drug store in the center of the city.

DOG GOES THROUGH PUMP.

Terrier Is Sucked In and Ejected Uninjured at Bridgeport Station.

A terrier belonging to Engineer McArthur went through the pumps of the Bridgeport pumping station at Chicago the other day and was none the worse for its trip. It had been playing on the footbridge over the race, or intake, from the south branch when it tumbled into the black waters that flow from the stock yards region.

Five of the pumps were in operation and a swift current was running inward. Before the dog could reach the narrow bridge around the basin he was sucked under the arch into the center pump well. A fireman who saw the plight and apparent end of the beast walked around to the engine house to tell the engineer of the mishap.

McArthur looked into the seething waters pouring from the pump and saw his dog vomited forth. It fell into the canal basin and floated swiftly away. A few minutes later the dog, wet and staggering, came into the engine room and for half a day lay sick on a pile of waste, finally recovering completely.

Statistics of Methodism.

A return which has just been published gives the general statistics of Methodism all over the world, including Wesleyan Methodists, Primitive Methodists, the Methodist New Connection, Bible Christian Methodists, the United Methodist Free churches, the Wesleyan Reform union, the Methodist Episcopal and many other bodies. The grand totals are as follows: Ministers, 44,569; lay preachers, 133,434; church members, 7,382,146; Sunday schools, 79,192; officers and teachers, 790,850; Sunday school scholars, 6,271,748; churches, 80,031.

What Motherhood Means

Motherhood means either happiness or misery. There is scant happiness for the mother, who in pain and weakness brings into the world a weakling babe which she can neither nurse nor nourish.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription fits women for motherhood. It strengthens the maternal organism. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and brings refreshing sleep. It makes the birth hour practically painless and gives the mother the nourishment to give her child.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription," and it is absolutely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

"Words cannot express how grateful I am for your kind advice and your 'Favorite Prescription,'" writes Mrs. D. B. Barricks, of Perrows, Campbell Co., Va. "I feel that it has cured me. I had been in poor health for four years. Suffered greatly with my right side, also with bearing-down pains, and my nerves were in a dreadful state. After using four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' I am now well. I am the mother of two children. With the first child I suffered twenty-eight hours, and with the second I used your medicine and was sick only three hours. I believe Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to be the best medicine in the world for suffering females. I wish you great success, and hope that God will bless you in your noble work."

A COURAGEOUS GIRL.

Florence Foley, Aged 17, Compels a Burglar to Disgorge at Point of a Revolver.

Seventeen-year-old Florence Foley, daughter of Contractor Michael Foley, faced a burglar in her father's home in Evanston, Ill., the other day. The Foley residence is at 930 Main street. All of the family but Florence made a trip to Chicago. Just as the noon hour struck she heard the street door open, and then there was the sound of some-one going stealthily upstairs to the second floor.

Miss Foley at first thought it was her father, but as several minutes elapsed without any sound coming from above she determined to investigate. She went to a desk, secured her father's revolver, and ascended the steps without making a sound. She traversed a long hall and at the rear of the building came face to face with the robber. His pockets were bulging with the loot he had collected and a watch chain dangled from his finger ends. The brave young woman realized in an instant what was the stranger's mission and she leveled the pistol at his head.

"You drop those things or I'll shoot you," she declared in clear, even tones, and the revolver never wavered from the line with his temple.

The burglar looked down the gleaming barrel, glanced at Miss Foley and poured the contents of his pockets out on the floor. When the pocket was turned inside out the plucky girl invited her captive to lead the way to the street door, where she gave him his liberty.

And as he started down the street he paused just long enough to say: "You're the gamest little wearer of petticoats in this man's town, and I'll take off my hat to you."

PETTIGREW is again in evidence at Washington.

SENATOR STEWART, of Nevada, for the past 8 years one of the most prominent silver leaders, has had his name placed on the republican caucus list.

IT is given out that the next legislature will be made up of in the senate: 7 republicans, 10 democrats, 1 silver republican and 3 populists. In the house there will be 20 republicans, 15 democrats, 8 silver republicans and 6 populists. In this, the second district, Latah county furnishes the only republican members, they being Messrs. French, Munson and Driskel.

FROM a source which is very near the Tammany throne, it is stated that Croker's crusade for the suppression of vice in New York is inspired by vengeance rather than by virtue. The boss was much disappointed and chagrined at the results of his efforts to carry New York at the last election. He pledged the state to Bryan in exchange for the federal patronage and lost it. He predicted 80,000 majority in the city and got less than 30,000. He knows how it happened, and is determined to punish the men who are responsible. The best and easiest way to get at them is to join the crusade against vice that is now so popular and get the credit for purifying the city.

BY the following dispatch sent out from Washington, Dec. 1, it will be seen that in all probability Senator Geo. L. Shoup will be taken care of when his term as senator expires. In this capacity, should he accept, he would be in a position to do more for Idaho than any of our representatives in congress.

"Although Senator George L. Shoup of Idaho has not yet arrived in Washington, there are a great many of his friends here already. Among them there seems to be a concerted plan to keep Senator Shoup in Washington for some years to come, knowing the doubtful outlook in the Idaho legislature.

It seems to be regarded as something of a foregone conclusion that George Meiklejohn of Nebraska will be elected to the senate from Nebraska. Mr. Meiklejohn's retirement from the war department will leave a vacancy, and Senator Shoup's friends here seem determined to make him take that place after he retires from the United States senate next March.

So far as known the senator's wishes have not yet been ascertained, but there is no doubt that should he be willing to accept the place, he will have behind him such a formidable pressure that the president can scarcely refuse to give it to him, provided, of course, that Meiklejohn leaves the department."

IT is an interesting fact that among 600,000,000 passengers carried, only 206 persons lost their lives on steamboat vessels within the jurisdiction of the United States during the last fiscal year, of whom 44 were passengers and 162 members of the crews. During the same year there were 383 boiler explosions on land, which killed 298 persons and wounded 456 others. This shows that it is safer to go to sea than to stay on shore, and demonstrates the vigilance of the steamboat-inspection service, which has 9,253 steamers and 15,000 boilers under its charge. Gen. Dumont, the inspector-general, in his annual report commends the skill and carefulness of the masters, pilots and engineers in the American merchant marine, which, he says, is not surpassed and hardly equalled by that of the navigators of any other nation in the world.

Of the 500,000,000 passengers carried upon the railways of the country 221 were killed and 2,945, were injured. Of the employes 2,237 were killed and 38,749 were injured, and of others—tramps, trespassers and people who were not in trains—4,680 were killed and 6,176 were injured, making a total of 7,138 persons killed and 47,870 injured.

The danger of railway labor is greater than that of the military service, and more railway employes were killed and injured in proportion to their numbers last year than soldiers in the Philippines. In coupling and uncoupling cars alone 279 men were killed and 6,988 were injured. One out of every 447 railroad employes in this country was killed during the year and one out of every twenty-eight was injured.—Chicago Record.

Dedication of St. Joseph's School.

Written for THE NEWS.

On Thanksgiving day a solemnization took place in our town, which shall henceforth be marked with a red letter upon the annals of the Catholic church at Genesee. The happy coincidence of our National Holy-day and the special dedicatory services had gathered a large number of worshipers within the sacred edifice.

At 9 o'clock, whilst the air pealed with the lofty song of the bells, a procession of crossbearer and acolythes, preceding the celebrant of the mass, marched down to the parochial residence to invite His Lordship, the Bishop, to assist at the divine services. At this moment the alumni and teachers of St. Joseph's School had walked up from the classrooms to the pastor's dwelling. Here the crossbearer and acolythes overtook them, and now forming one procession, preceded the Very Reverend Celebrant of the mass and the Rt. Reverend Ordinary of the Diocese, vested in the distinctive robes of episcopal attire and wearing the insignia of his high office. Upon entering the house of God, the solemn tones of a jubilee-prelude sent up their prayer of Thanksgiving to the Almighty. Meanwhile the pupils went to their reserved places and His Lordship, the Bishop, betook himself to the special throne, where, with crosier and miter, he assisted at the celebration of the mass. The choir rendered excellent music throughout. After the singing of the gospel, the Bishop rose and proceeded to the alter, whence he delivered an eloquent address on Thanksgiving and the blessings of Catholic education. Was it the ennobling and christian sense of gratitude to God, which manifested itself on Thanksgiving day throughout the land? nevertheless a special reason had brought him to Genesee to mingle his thankful prayer with the generous members of St. Mary's, to thank the Lord with them for the erection of their handsome academy. Then widening out on the duties and blessings of christian education his Lordship demonstrated to his attentive hearers the paramountcy of eternal interests above mere worldly pursuits and accomplishments, and called the giving up of every daily school house to mere intellectual training as compared with the single hour of Sunday school and moral exercise, to say the least, a sad and unwise deviation from the law of just proportions. He charged the parents in the congregation not to be indifferent for their children's christian development, nor to exempt themselves of their sacred duty of raising their children for Heaven upon the plea of a Cain: "Am I my brothers' keeper." Was it true that Ignorance meant a nation's ruin? On the other hand virtue was its strongest safeguard. With God the deciding question to parents would not be whether they had raised smart and clever children, but whether they had reared a pious and virtuous offspring.

After the conclusion of the sermon, the divine services proceeded in the usual solemn manner. The beautiful and elaborate floral decoration of altar and sanctuary drew the admiration of all present. Immediately after high-mass a procession consisting of acolythes, school children, the members of the building committee and the church trustees began to march toward the new school building. Behind them followed the Rev. Fathers Burri of Wallace, Van de Ven of Sprague, De Kanter of Spokane, and the Very Reverend Cannon Jules De Becker, L. S. T., D. U. T., Rector of the American College of Louvain, Belgium; at last His Lordship, the Bishop. On reaching the sidewalk in front of the school, the pupils formed a line on each side, and the Bishop with visiting clergy entered the new building. Upon the threshold the usual prayers were recited from the Roman Ritual, recommending the institution to the special care of divine Providence; next each apartment was blessed whilst the clergy recited alternately the psalm "Miserere."

The dedication proper now being finished, the school children took their seats in their respective classroom and waited in turn the visit of their beloved Bishop. Each class had its own "Welcome-Greeting" and received in exchange some "wholesome pointers" from the Bishop. After the children were dismissed for a holy-day, the members of the building committee and the trustees had a familiar conversation with the Rt. Reverend Bishop. In the evening Rev. Father Reyzer, the pastor, entertained His Lordship and the visiting clergy at an exquisite Thanksgiving banquet. That the Bishop was highly pleased upon seeing the fine school building and the pastoral residence is a matter of pleasant record both for the congregation and the pastor. The bright and sunny morning gave our local artist the opportunity of taking an excellent picture of the buildings and the procession, whilst the pleasant breeze played with the folds of the Star-spangled Banner.

—The child that stutters must be gently, patiently and persistently corrected, stopped when he begins to hesitate, made to fill the lungs with air by a deep inhalation, and then to pronounce the difficult syllables until he can do so easily and smoothly. If this course is pursued undeviatingly cure is certain.—December Ladies' Home Journal.

—To Charles Mortimore, of Beeman, is due the honor of being the first person to make final proof on Nez Perce reservation land after a residence of five years. His final proof was made at the land office yesterday. The reservation was opened on November 18, 1895, and Mr. Mortimore participated in the memorable "rush" of that day, securing a fine quarter section near Beeman. The reservation was opened at noon and but seven filings reached the land office before the closing hour of the afternoon. F. D. Hasbrouck, of Genesee, made the first filing. On the second day there were 85 filings, the third day 53, the fourth day 68, the fifth day 68, and so on until at this date the total number has reached 3095. It is estimated that about one-fourth of the total area thrown open is still unappropriated, and filings are being made at the rate of 75 a month. The acreage represented in the filings already made is estimated at 490,200.—Tribune.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Texas has the most counties, 224, Delaware the least, 3.

The mean annual temperature of the globe is 50 degrees Fahr.

The average rainfall of the globe is 36 inches.

The greatest altitude in Idaho is Hyndman Peak, 12,073 feet, of Washington, Mt. Rainier, 14,500, of Oregon, Mt. Hood, 11,225 feet.

Immigration into the United States from 1789 to 1900 was 18,556,000.

The 7th grade grammar will spend some time on composition work the coming month. The same grade is reviewing percentage.

The grades in physical geography and civil government are advancing slowly.

LONGITUDE AND TIME.

The time elapsing from one noon to the next is divided into twenty-four equal parts, each of which is called an hour. Clocks and watches are machines so constructed that they revolve indexes over a graduated circle called a dial, on which their motions are registered. Time pieces are usually regulated to show "sun time." When a watch marks twelve o'clock in the day we expect to find the sun on the meridian of the place at which the watch is set, hence one should be able to see by his watch how far the sun is from the meridian at any time.

Longitude is measured upon the circumference of the equator or a parallel, east or west from an established meridian. These circles are perpendicular to the axis of the earth, and since the earth revolves upon its axis, the circumference of each of these circles revolves under the sun from noon to noon. Each circumference is divided into 360 equal parts called degrees, hence an arc of 15 degrees passes under the sun each hour, an arc of 15 minutes each minute, and of 15 seconds each second.

COMPOUND NUMBERS.

This subject contains more information that may be made interesting than any other topic in the ordinary arithmetic. Too often the only attention it receives is the mechanical learning of tables, definitions and rules, and the mere mechanical grinding out of results in performing problems. The 8th and 9th grades have been handling these subjects the past month.

The grammar grades spell 100 words each week. The following is the standing for Dec. 4, 1900:

Hattie Rosenstein 100, Lucinda Haskins 98, Lizzie Steltz 97, Lucile Conn 95, Hattie Lisne 95, Charlie Wolfer 93, Elva Gray 93, Webster Jamison 92, Edith Williamson 91, William Platt 88, Arta Scroggin 88, Carrie Woodley 88, Hattie Botjer 86, Blanche Carson 86, John Swank 86, Maude Spencer 83, Bertha Schutte 83, Vaughn Follett 81, Louis Lisne 79, Ernest Goodnight 79, Arthur Keane 77, Henry Schutte 77, Clayton Bowman 74, William Carson 72, Guy Hibbs 70, Bessie Thomas 70.

Use Rimrock Mill's Gluten Flour for biscuits.

The New York Independent recently compiled statistics for the year 1899, which show an increase of more than 33 per cent. in the membership of all the religious denominations, which is more rapid than the increase of the population of the country since 1899. The following is a comparison of the Independent's figures with the census returns of 1890:

	1890.	1899.	Inc., Pct.
Ministers	111,036	153,901	39
Churches	142,521	187,803	32
Members	20,612,806	27,170,004	34

According to the estimates of the bureau of statistics of the treasury department the increase of population from 1890 to 1899 was 21.38 per cent.

The following is a comparison of the membership of the religious denominations having more than 500,000 members in 1890 and in 1899:

	1890.	1899.
Roman Catholics	6,257,871	8,446,301
Methodists	4,589,284	5,809,516
Baptists	3,712,468	4,443,628
Lutherans	1,231 072	1,575,778
Presbyterians	1,278,332	1,560,847
Disciples of Christ	641,051	1,118,396
Episcopalians	540,709	709,325
Congregationalists	512,771	628,234

Interesting comparisons may be drawn from the above figures. There will be much surprise at the enormous gains among the Disciples of Christ, or Campbellites, who are found throughout the central states. Missouri has the greatest number, Indiana second and Kentucky third. The church is also very strong in Illinois, Ohio and Tennessee.

The largest gains by any religious denomination during the nine years covered by the returns were made by the Christian Scientists, who, in 1890 by census returns, had only 8,724 members, but are credited with 80,000 in 1899. The Latter Day Saints, or non-polygamist Mormons, show the next largest growth, having increased in membership from 166,125 to 343,620. The Disciples of Christ are third in the order of growth and the Roman Catholics fourth. The Unitarians show no gain. The Universalists and Spiritualists show a falling off both in membership and the number of churches sustained.

Mrs. Schmauder has rented the Lisne house and will be prepared by next Monday, Nov. 12, to keep lodgers and give meals.

Pity and Beauty

The most beautiful thing in the world is the baby, all dimples and joy. The most pitiful thing is that same baby, thin and in pain. And the mother does not know that a little fat makes all the difference.

Dimples and joy have gone, and left hollows and fear; the fat, that was comfort and color and curve—all but pity and love—is gone.

The little one gets no fat from her food. There is something wrong; it is either her food or food-mill. She has had no fat for weeks; is living on what she had stored in that plump little body of hers; and that is gone. She is starving for fat; it is death, be quick!

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the fat she can take; it will save her.

The genuine has this picture on it, take no other.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

—Mary Elizabeth Lease, the noted politician, announces that she will sue for a divorce alleging incompatability and non-support. Mr. Lease is perfectly willing and will not contest.

—The issuing of a marriage license Wednesday to Etsay-ay-ayay-awaits and A. A. Pips, two Nez Perce Indians, has a sequel to it. Etsay-ay ayay-awaits is familiarly known as coyote, and A. A. Pips has been his acknowledged wife for thirty years. Coyote is very sick, and, realizing that he is shortly to journey to the "happy hunting ground" and fearing that the white man's law might step in and deprive his faithful companion of an inheritance which she has helped him to acquire, he dispatches a friend after a marriage license and an Indian minister made them bride and groom.—Teller.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1900.

—Miss Rekdahl left for Spokane, Saturday.

—F. A. Brown of Marshall, Wash., visited with Agent Gray last Saturday.

—Mrs. E. T. Jacobs, accompanied by her little daughter, went over to Moscow Monday.

—Chas. Spurbeck shipped a car of hogs of his own raising to Seattle Saturday morning.

—L. F. Darr has been up from Uniontown this week dispensing lumber in the absence of Mr. Hoover.

—Genesee amusement lovers are indulging in light opera this week with electric belts, catarrh cure and soap as a side issue.

—Mrs. Ratcliff and children, of Cheney, Wash., have been visiting here the past week with relatives, the Bressler and Scroggin families.

—There will be services at the Methodist church Sunday, morning and evening. Rev. Howard and family returned Thursday after a pleasant week's visit with the family of his brother at Oakesdale.

—Alexander Ryrie, who for several years was one of Moscow's representative citizens, died last Sunday at San Francisco, of consumption. He was enroute to one of the southern states to spend the winter, but on reaching San Francisco his condition was such that he could not continue his journey.

—Fred. Nagel, after an absence of two or three months in Germany, returned to Genesee Sunday, looking well and feeling well. While he greatly enjoyed a visit with his aged mother and old acquaintances, yet the mother country has not great charms for him as compared with the United States.

—The Woodmen dance last Thursday night proved to be a very enjoyable affair, there being about forty couples present, many of whom were masked. The Cool restaurant furnished a very nice oyster supper. Another dance will be given Thursday evening, December 13 and every two weeks after that date throughout the dancing season.

—Rev. T. W. Walters has sold his residence property on College hill to Prof. F. N. English for $1350. Possession is to be given January 1, soon after which Rev. Walters and family will remove to Spokane, with the object of securing a more central location for his work as general missionary of the Congregational church. Rev. Walters has a call to the pastorate of the Pilgrim Congregational church of Spokane, but has not yet accepted and will probably continue in the missionary capacity which he has so ably filled for many years. Rev. Walters and family have been residents of Colfax for 18 years, and it is with regret that their large circle of friends learn of their departure. All property interests at Colfax, except their residence, are retained.—Colfax Gazette.

Use Rimrock Mill's Gluten Flour for hot cakes.

—Operator Wheeler paid a brief visit to Genesee last week.

—Two new porches add to the appearance of the Methodist parsonage.

—Attorney M. O. Reed and wife, of Colfax, were Genesee visitors Sunday.

—If you are in search of Christmas gifts, Follett Bros. & Larrabee's ad. will tell you where to buy them.

—As a result of the farmers' institute held at Tekoa last week, steps have been taken to organize a cooperative creamery.

—Ex-Congressman James Gunn has again returned to Idaho and is temporarily editing the Hailey News-Miner. He is much improved in health.

—Three government transports are expected to load at Seattle and Tacoma during this month. Three other vessels will take on grain and hay for the Philippines before the close of the year.

—A Stamps returned Saturday from an extended trip hunting for big game in the Weippe country. He succeeded in killing two deer. His son Leet with another gentleman, who accompanied him, did not return.

—Golden Rule Rebekah lodge have elected the following officers:

Mrs. James Hanson, N. G.
Mrs. Geo. Mochel, V. G.
Mrs. C. F. Burr, Treas.
Mrs. Fred Follett, F. Secretary.
Mrs. Leon Follett, R. Secretary.

—Among those from Genesee who made filings on White Pine land Tuesday were: Messrs. Nels Visby, John Bower, Henry Hanson, R. H. Russell, R. F. Crochett, F. A. Hoover, E. R. Follett, C. E. Hibbs, Ed. Keane, Nic Jacobs, John Jacobs, Ira and Lon Hanson, Wm. Brown.

—The Woodman Circle has elected the following officers for the ensuing term:

Mrs. Martha Miller, G. N.
Mrs. Ida Bell, A. L.
J. L. Hayes, Banker.
Mrs. Ida Beck, Clerk.
Miss B. Krick, Attendant.
U. G. Dickson, Trustee.
Ralston Vollmer, Magician.
Ole Miller, I. G.
P. S. Beck, O. G.
Mrs. Geo. Steltz, Musician.

—One of the pleasant weddings celebrated during the week was that of Theodore P. Lorang, of Genesee, Idaho, and Miss B. A. Schoenberg, of Spokane, Wash., which took place at the Cathedral of the Sacred Hearts Monday morning. The bride is popular and accomplished, and has a host of friends in Spokane. She was handsomely attired and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. The aunt of the groom, Mrs. Pauline R. Michels, was the matron of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Lorang will reside in Helena, and have gone to housekeeping on State street.—Helena Independent, Dec. 2.

The Delicious Fragrance

from a hot Royal Baking Powder biscuit whets the appetite. The taste of such a biscuit—sweet, creamy, delicate and crispy—is a joy to the most fastidious.

ROYAL Baking Powder improves the flavor and adds to the healthfulness of all risen flour-foods. It renders the biscuit, bread and cake more digestible and nutritious.

Royal Baking Powder makes hot breads wholesome. Food raised with Royal will not distress persons of delicate or enfeebled digestion, though eaten warm and fresh.

Imitation baking powders almost invariably contain alum. Alum makes the food unwholesome.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

—John Meyer visited Uniontown Wednesday.

—Frank Terharr was elected road overseer in the Hasfurther district last Monday.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Haymond rejoice over the arrival of a girl at their home Saturday.

—Complete line of holiday goods now on display at the Bee Hive—useful and ornamental. See ad.

—The street lights are expected to arrive this week and as soon as the poles arrive will be put in place.

—Mrs. Lees and Essington arrived home Friday from their extended eastern visit and Jimmie is smiling and happy.

—The Christain Endeavor Sock Social which was to have taken place last Thursday evening will take place this evening.

—Nagel, Bomberg & Goodnight loaded two cars of cattle for the Spokane market Wednesday. E. H. Stanton was the purchaser.

—The interior of the big Vollmer store and bank have been greatly improved this week by a coat of white paint, administered by Cann & Steltz.

—During this week at the Methodist church in Colton are being held a series of entertainments, the proceeds of which are to be applied on the church debt. Rev. Fowler of this place delivered a lecture Wednesday evening, taking for his subject "The Great Pyramid of Egypt."

Use Rimrock Mill's Gluten Flour for hot cakes.

—W. E. Cool and Miss Marie Nebelsieck visited Moscow over Sunday.

—A bouncing boy is reported at the home of August Johnson, which put in an appearance last Friday.

—Elsewhere in this issue we publish a complete list of school lands which will be offered for sale at the court house, Moscow, at 10 a. m., Saturday, December 22.

—Mrs. Dr. Lemman received the sad intelligence the first of the week, that her mother, residing at Ritzville, Wash., who has been seriously ill for some time, had died.

—The Modern Woodmen at their regular meeting Wednesday evening, elected the following officers:

Geo. Mochel, Consul.
Hartzell Cobbs, Advisor.
C. F. Burr, Clerk.
Dr. W. H. Ehlen, Banker.
Geo. Boliou, Escort.

This organization is making a steady growth, having a membership now of 23.

—Representative Shafroth of Colorado has introduced a bill which directs the geological survey to make surveys of at least four reservoir sites and ditches therefrom in each of the arid land states which are designated as Washington, Idaho, California, Oregon, Nevada, Utah, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, and the Dakotas. The bill appropriates $13,000,000. These lands are to be subject to homestead entry at $2.50 per acre.

—Smallpox is prevalent at Garfield.

—M. A. Means in his ad. gives notice to bargain hunters that his stock is rapidly moving. He has useful holiday goods.

—S. E. Bemis, formerly a Genesee carpenter, but now residing at Cul de Sac, was recently married to a Miss Cole of Kalamazoo, Mich.

—Messrs. Fuchs, Day, Olleges and Jackson returned the latter part of last week from a visit to Ruby Creek where they did assessment work on mining properties.

—It is now claimed that the Chinese discovered America 1,000 years previous to the time Columbus spied these shores, but as the inhabitants at that time had very little laundry work to do they dropped it until a more favorable time.

—About two years ago a descriptive pamphlet was sent out broadcast from this office to the eastern states. They are still doing good work. T. E. Miller last week received a letter of inquiry from a Chicago gentleman asking him if he could send him a number of the circulars. We managed to furnish him with a very few which we had reserved. The gentleman stated that he was desirous of locating near Genesee to engage in orcharding. During the coming months a large number of eastern people will be seeking homes on this coast and Genesee should take steps at once to direct a portion of the travel this way. We need more farmers and smaller farms. Raymond & Co. have during the past few months distributed six or seven thousand boxes of apples throughout the Dakotas and Minnesota each bearing a neat label printed in three colors, calling attention to the fact that apples in the famous Genesee Valley are grown without irrigation. Too much can not be said about our resources. Let us again issue a descriptive circular and have them distributed at Spokane and other points where newcomers tarry. The N. P. immigration agent and the Spokane Chamber of Commerce will willingly assist in distributing any descriptive matter which we may send them.

A New Year's Guide.

There is one book every one should make an effort to get for the new year. It contains simple and valuable hints concerning health, many amusing anecdotes, and much general information. We refer to Hostetter's Almanac, published by The Hostetter Co., Pittsburg, Pa. It will prove valuable to any household. Sixty employes are kept at work on this valuable book. The issue for 1901 will be over eight millions, printed in the the English, German, French, Welch, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish languages. It contains proof of the efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the great remedy prepared by the publishers, and is worthy of careful preservation. The almanac may be obtained free of cost, at any druggist or general dealer in the country.

—The steamer J. M. Hannaford has been leased by F. W. Kettenbach and will operate on the Snake river mainly between Lewiston and Wild Goose, but all available business will be accepted. Mr. Kettenbach has secured trafic arrangements with the Northern Pacific and grain and other freights will be exchanged at Lewiston. In the accepting of this business the Northern Pacific is infringing on O. R. & N. territory.

I have a few choice and specially selected articles in watches, chains, and rings, suitable for presents for the approaching holidays, and invite inspection by any one wanting a good article at a reasonable price. ED. WALTERS.

TALL CORN

doesn't come by accident. A fertile soil and careful cultivation are necessary to produce the towering stems and heavy ears.

Yet the farmer who understands that he can't have a healthy corn crop without feeding and weeding, seems to think that he can have a healthy body without either care or culture. But the body is built up just as the corn is, by the assimilation of the several chemical elements on which vitality depends. And what weeds are to the corn, diseases of the stomach and nutritive systems are to the body; they divert the necessary food supply from the proper channels, and the body becomes lean, sickly and ill-nourished.

The proper digestion and assimilation of food is a primary essential of health. By healing diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery increases the digestive and assimilative powers, stimulates the action of the blood making glands, and sends to every organ of the body the rich red-corpuscled blood on which physical vigor and vitality depend.

"I took two bottles of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, for stomach trouble," writes Clarence Carnes, Esq., of Taylorstown, Loudoun Co., Va. "It did me so much good that I didn't take any more. I can eat most anything now. I am so well pleased with it I hardly know how to thank you for your kind information. I tried a whole lot of things before I wrote to you. There was a gentleman told me about your medicine, how it had cured his wife. I thought I would try a bottle of it. Am now glad that I did, for I don't know what I would have done if it had not been for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels and cure constipation.

A "GENTLEMAN FARMER."

William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Buys Estate on Which to Indulge a Whim.

William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., is to build a place to rival Biltmore, the estate of his uncle. Instead of going to the south to do so, however, the young millionaire has bought the land for that purpose in the Tuxedo district.

It was said that the purchase made by Mr. Vanderbilt's agents was the largest ever made in this district, and the tracts which they had bought for him amounted to many thousands of acres. The place is near the Havemeyer estate.

The land which has been bought for Mr. Vanderbilt is for the most part wooded. There are some farms in the tract and one or two streams. The idea of the young millionaire is to have an immense model farm, where there will be blooded stock and all the things in which the "gentleman farmer" takes a delight.

Masculine Generosity.

The Chicago Times-Herald suggests that the 40 or 50 men who are in the train that is held up by the one lone bandit probably accede to his request merely because they think he needs the money.

Just Saved His Life.

It was a thrilling escape that Charles Davis of Bowerston, O., lately had from a frightful death. For two years a severe lung trouble constantly grew worse until it seemed he must die of consumption. Then he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery and lately wrote: "It gave instant relief and effected a permanent cure." Such wonderful cures have for 25 years proven it's power to cure all throat, chest and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at Kennedy's.

When you want prompt acting little pills that never gripe, use DeWitt's Little Early Risers.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

How to Cure Croup.

Mr. R. Gray, who lives near Amenia Duchess Co., N. Y., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. It is a fine children's remedy for croup and never fails to cure." When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has developed, it will prevent the attack. This should be borne in mind and a bottle of the Cough Remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale by all druggists.

Many people worry because they believe they have heart disease. The chances are that their hearts are all right but their stomachs are unable to digest food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and prevents the formation of gas which makes the stomach press against the heart. It will cure every form of indigestion.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lame back or pains in the side or chest, give it a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. Pain Balm also cures rheumatism. One application gives relief. For sale by all druggists.

Nearly $3000 is subscribed for the proposed Y. M. C. A. at Boise.

McGrew & Carmean, of Kendrick, contemplate putting in a branch store at Peck.

A committee has been appointed to solicit subscriptions for the Boise fair next year.

Taxes on Northern Pacific property in Nez Perce county amounted this year to $9064.

A scheme is on foot to purchase the Caldwell ditch and enlarge it. The cost of the ditch will be $43,000.

The present population of the state asylum at Blackfoot is 215, and the general health is fairly good although the institution is very crowded.

Idaho's University football team is for the first time champion of Washington and Idaho. The number of games played was less than that of last year but the record is the reverse.

The U. of I. enrollment is now 235, of whom 131 are in the college. This is the first time in the University's history that the college enrollment has exceeded that of the preparatory school.

A large landslide occurred on the Northern Pacific extension above Stuart Friday, shutting off travel to Stites for several days. The slide was an immense one and carried down tons of earth and rocks, covering the track for many rods.

The steamer Hannaford, after making three successful trips up the Snake river, has been withdrawn. It is said that the Hannaford had been put in the service in order to secure concessions from the O. R. & N. elsewhere, and that this had been accomplished.

J. W. Billups, a prosperous reservation farmer, is able to demonstrate in a very practical way that there is money in flax. He had 330 acres in flax this year from which he harvested over 5,000 bushels, which at the prevailing price has netted him over $7,000. Mr. Billups encouraged by the outlook will have 620 acres sown to flax for the next season.—Teller.

A party of surveyors for the Burlington is working into St. Anthony, Idaho, from the end of the line now in course of construction from Custer to Cody. Cody is near the southwest corner of the Yellowstone park and the line coming down to Fort Custer is about 200 miles long. From the end of this line the surveyors are running nearly west along the Snake river to St. Anthony. It opens up a new country rich in agriculture.

A mighty protest is going up by the people in the vicinity of Nezperce against the proposed forming of a new county out of portions of Nez Perce and Shoshone counties, the movement having originated among Orofino people. At a largely attended meeting recently held at Nezperce steps were taken to vigorously oppose any attempt to take from Nez Perce eight townships of the most valuable land on the reservation for the forming of a new county. An attendant at the meeting said: Nezperce has no objection to any other county dividing, subdividing or consolidating. We simply wish to be left alone. We are well and happy and propose to remain that way."

Mining property, title to which passed from the government to private parties, is subject to taxation in this state exactly like any other form of property. This point has just been decided by the supreme court in the case of O. J. Salisbury, respondent, vs. Carl Lane, assessor, appellant. Under this decision a mining claim is no longer a mining claim within the meaning of the statute of exemptions after it has passed to patent, but becomes property. The decision is of far reaching importance, affecting the most if not all the valvable mining properties of this state. The aggregate value of these properties is very large and if it is added to the assessment roll of the state it will make a material increase in the taxable property.

Juge Steele has rendered his decision in the cases against County Commissioners Isaman, Black and Johnson, removing the defendants from office and allowing a penalty of $500 to the informer, as provided by law. The ruling is made in the case in which Commissioner Isaman is defendant, and the decision will apply to the two other cases. In the Isaman case the information was made by John Ponting, alleging "that the defendant as a commissioner presented claims to the board of commissioners for services which were not legal charges, and that after the filing of such claims, he, as one of the board, knowingly, willfully and corruptly allowed and collected the said amounts."—Tribune.

The annual report of Ethan Allen Hitchcock, secretary of the interior, contains the following paragraph: "The delegation of the state of Idaho in congress called attention to lands embracing townships 9 and 10 south, ranges 17 and 18 east, on the Snake river, in southern Idaho, with a view to the setting of the same aside as a pleasuring ground or park for the benefit of the people, and an official examination of the region, which embraced the Shoshone falls, the Twin falls and the Blue lakes, disclosed a region of scenic attractions and great natural beauty, and, as a result the four townships above mentioned have been withdrawn from further entry or disposal, with a view to the setting of the same aside by congress, at some time in the future, as a national park."

Another flow of natural gas has been struck by water prospectors in the Payette Valley, this time on the ranch of John Ashbaugh, seven miles up the river. He was boring for artesian water, and at a depth of 860 feet was brought to a stop by a roaring and rumbling for which the workmen could not account. The sound almost immediately vented from the top of the 2½ inch pipe and upon a match being applied there a strong jet of flame ten feet in height developed. This burned steadily for several days with little or no fluctuation, except as would be caused by outside currents of air. The flow has now stopped owing to some of the well tools becoming fast in the pipe, stopping it up completely. It is expected, however, that as soon as they can be removed, it will resume. This strike was made on the same side of the river and less than a mile distant from the one on the Bivens' place, and is a flattering indication that more wells may be developed. William Bivens reports that he continues to get an intermittent flow through the pump from his well; that at the conclusion of drawing water the gas will always burn for from ten to fifteen minutes. He has brought in a sample of the water for analysis.—Payette Independent.

The Idaho Sheep, Land and Live Stock Company, limited, is a corporation recently incorporated under the laws of the state of Idaho, having for its principal place of business, Fremont county. Its officers are: M. Patrie, president and general manager; C. J. Bassett, vice-president; Ed. Smith, secretary; W. H. Gibson, assistant secretary; H. E. Neal, treasurer, and O. E. Jackson, general counsel. Boise will be headquarters. The company is organized with an authorized capital stock of $250,000, divided into 250,000 shares at a par value of $1 each. Its purposes are the buying, holding and marketing of wool, sheep and other live stock and constructing, owning and operating of scouring plants and woolen mills. The company is now the owner, by good title, of 1,240 acres of the best quality of hay lands in Fremont county, all ditched, fenced and watered except 160 acres, which is reserved for corrals, lambing purposes, etc., this property having been purchased by the corporation from Mr. Patrie and paid for in capital stock of the company at 50 cents a share, the present established cash selling price of the capital stock. It is proposed by the company to sell a sufficient additional amount of the capital stock with which to purchase 10,000 head of the best quality of sheep. It is calculated that when the hay lands shall become fully cultivated and seeded to the proper forage grasses, these lands will support from forty to fifty thousand head of sheep with safety.—Idaho Register.

Of the 232 county officers elected on the 6th of the month, the republicans secured 80, the opposition taking 152.

The republicans elected the following: Nine sheriffs, 8 treasurers, 9 assessors, 7 probate judges, 6 school superintendents, 8 attorneys, 7 surveyors, 6 coroners and 20 commissioners.

The democrats elected 11 sheriffs, 10 treasurers, 9 assessors, 10 probate judges, 11 school superintendents, 10 attorneys, 10 surveyors, 13 coroners (so as to have enough to bury the defeated enemy,) 31 commissioners and 1 auditor and recorder, the only one elected in the state, J. H. Wickersham, of Ada county.

The silver republicans elected 1 probate judge, 1 school superintendent' 1 surveyor, 1 coroner and 2 commissioners.

The populists elected 2 treasurers, 2 assessors, 2 probate judges, 2 school superintendents, 1 attorney, 2 surveyors and 4 commissioners.

The democrats, silver republicans and populists fused in most of the counties and the fusionists elected, in addition to the number of offices given, the following, the politics of which could not be ascertained: One sheriff, 1 treasurer, 1 assessor, 1 probate judge, 1 school superintendent, 2 attorneys, 1 surveyor, 1 coroner and 6 commissioners.

Oneida, Owyhee, Idaho, Bear Lake and Cassia elected men to the position of school superintendent, the other counties electing women.

The following counties elected women treasurers: Shoshone, Bannock, Latah, Bear Lake, Oneida, Lemhi, Cassia and Custer.

In two counties, Blaine and Lemhi, the republicans were shut out, and they elected only the attorney in Custer, superintendent of schools in Elmore, surveyor in Kootenai and a commissioner in Idaho.

In Oneida county there was not a vote cast for any but republicans and democrats, there not having been a prohibitionist, populist or middle-of-the road populist ballot voted. In every other county all these parties were represented.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Among the tens of thousands who have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for colds and la grippe during the past few years, to our knowledge, not a single case has resulted in pneumonia. Thos. Whitfield & Co., 240 Wabash avenue, Chicago, one of the most prominent retail druggists in that city, in speaking of this says: "We recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for la grippe in many cases, as it not only gives prompt and complete recovery, but also counteracts any tendency of la grippe to result in pneumonia. For sale by all druggists.

There is no pleasure in life if you dread going to the table to eat and can't rest at night on account of indigestion. HOPP & POWER, - Publishers.

Does it soothe your agony at all to know that coal costs $14 a ton in France?

Two street cars collided and Kazymiers Jasynski and Maryanna Iwaszkiewicz were married in Chicago—all in the same day.

The New York Journal uses the word censusitis to describe the disorder of those cities dissatisfied with the official count of their population.

The latest Armenian atrocity reported is the vandalism of the lecturer from Armenia who has been caught in the act of tearing valuable engravings from books in the New York libraries.

Twin sisters married twin brothers in West Virginia with triplets as results in both families. This, says the Kansas City Times, is the first recorded instance where the double rule of three was brought into requisition in accumulating population.

A novel advertisement for American manufacturers is given in the statement that the Witwatersrand mines have, through motives of patriotism, placed a large order for coal cars in England, though American firms offered to supply the cars for less money and in a shorter time.

About half of all the cotton goods we sell abroad goes to China, which purchased last year over $10,000,000 worth of our sheetings, drills, jeans and other grades. They are landed in Shanghai, and 90 per cent of the goods is forwarded at once to Chefoo, Tien-tsin and Newchwang for the North China markets. A little over 6 per cent is sold in cities up the Yangtse River and the remainder is consumed in Shanghai and its neighborhood.

This is an age of freedom in dress and appearance. The story books of our grandparents spoke of the eccentricity of a man who allowed a beard to grow on his face. Of twenty-two contributors to a new encyclopedia, whose portraits have been recently published, all but five are strangers to the razor. The familiar group of portraits of our Presidents shows no well-bearded man until Abraham Lincoln's time. The three military Presidents, Grant, Hayes and Garfield, each wore a full beard. Both of the leading presidential candidates to-day are closely shaven. Although the present fashion chiefly of young men is that of a smooth face, the fashion is not imperative. Every man may follow it or defy it without being queer.

A capacity for taking pains in business plans and products is more and more a condition of success. Australian butter-packing may serve as an example. Shipments are secured against deterioration by placing the butter in boxes made of plates of window glass, the edges being closed by applying gummed paper. The boxes are covered with layers of plaster of paris, and then wrapped in specially prepared waterproof packing paper. Such methods help to raise the average of attention to details. The reluctance of human beings to eat unappetizing things increases. It pays to make food offered for sale attractive in form as well as substance. The high standard is money in the pocket of the dealer and health for the consumer. The converse is true. This county has lost a once-promising trade in exporting cheese. Those who ruined the trade know how they did it, but they should be too much ashamed of themselves to tell the world how it was done.

A St. Louis man, who was young, had work and a future that might have been successful, bought a bunch of roses, arranged them on his breast and drank a fatal dose of morphine. He had repeatedly told his friends that life was not worth living. This is but one case showing the prevalence of the pessimistic spirit. Every day or so the newspapers record the deaths of persons, frequently young girls and even children, who had become imbued with that disgust of life which 'destroys hope and faith and courage. Roughly speaking, the world is divided between the pessimists and the optimists. And the strange fact is that many persons who are healthy and in comfortable circumstances are among the pessimists. This being so, it becomes the duty of all men and women of faith to do what they can to discourage the spread of despair by inculcating the gospel of good cheer. It is a matter of health and philosophy—of attitude towards life. The worth of life depends upon both the liver and the living. Life is always worth living to men who live right and see that the joy of life depends upon the man himself and not upon his outward circumstances.

In an address on "Right Living" before the Chicago Ethical Society, William M. Salter said: "To simply eat and sleep, that is not life. To be the slave of work—of work that takes the joy and serenity out of life—that is not truly to live. To have no time to think, to have no days to ourselves, to never let our minds expand under the influence of great thoughts, that is not to live. Nor is it living never to enter the atmosphere of principles and feel their compelling and transfiguring power." There is a cant of commerce as there is a cant of religion. The man who works day and night, denies himself all the joys of life getting and keeping money, who builds up a great fortune and whose soul contracts as his wealth expands—that man does not know how to live, and when he preaches the gospel of what he calls work he is guilty of cant. Agassiz once remarked that he hadn't time to make money. He was too busy working. Money getting is only one kind of work. The work of life is serving one another. When the statesman, merchant, lawyer, shopkeeper and menial realize that truth we shall have right living. No work that is vital and really worth doing is for self alone.

The census office at Washington has announced the total population of the United States to be 76,295,220, a gain of 13,225,464 over the 63,069,756 enumerated in 1890. The number is greater than the conservative estimates calculated on a study of the rate of growth, although far short of some exuberant predictions wholly based on a patriotic desire to astonish the world. The increase is approximately 21 per cent in the ten years. Out of this total population, residents to the number of 74,627,907 are found in the forty-five States, the remainder being credited to the territories and including citizens in national service abroad. The returns seem to be complete except from Alaska and from some of the foreign military stations, these being estimated from the best data obtainable. Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota are the only States touching the great lakes which show a percentage of gain greater than 21 per cent, the national ratio, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania falling below that rate of increase. Of the Southern States Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas rise to or above that ratio, Florida with 35 and Texas with 37 per cent, while Arkansas, Kentucky, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee fall behind it. The New England States are not all slow of increase, Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island being above normal, Massachusetts with 27 per cent gain. Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, however, show but 5, 9 and 3 per cent advance, respectively. Of the Atlantic coast Middle States Delaware, Virginia and Maryland fall far below the average rate, New Jersey and West Virginia rise over the datum line, while New York barely shows 21 per cent gain over 1890. Idaho with 90 per cent, Montana with 84, North Dakota with 76, Washington with 48 and Wyoming with 58 maintain the Western reputation for rapid growth, California, Colorado, Oregon and Utah passing well above the 21 per cent line, but less sensationally. Iowa, South Dakota, Kansas and Nebraska are the middle States showing slow growth, with a gain of 16, 11, 3 and 1 per cent respectively. Nevada is the only State showing a loss. The Territories, of course, outstrip all competitors, Oklahoma particularly, with a gain of nearly 550 per cent in the ten years. One of the results of the census undoubtedly will be a new Congressional apportionment. Upon the present basis of representation the national House of Representatives would be increased so as to be unwieldy. Probably a new basis of representation will be decided on.

The Hurry-Scurry Race.

In the vicinity of Montreal no regatta program is complete without a hurry-scurry race. Of course, writes a contributor to Association Men, such races are not omitted from our Y. M. C. A. camp sports.

Each canoe is anchored from twenty-five to fifty feet away from the starting-place. At the crack of the pistol the contestants dive into the water and swim to their canoes, get in, cast loose, and paddle for dear life for the turning buoy, one hundred yards away.

In the midst of their struggle the pistol barks. Every man throws his paddle overboard and follows suit himself, then returns to his canoe and continues padding until the next shot, when the same performance is repeated. The first man home is the winner.

The novice swamps his craft on the first attempt, but the expert will often finish the race with but two or three gallons of water in his canoe.

The event is made much more difficult by compelling the men at the second shot to upset their canoes and right them again. A Montrealer has succeeded in doing this in three and three-fourth seconds, turning his canoe completely over and shipping only a few quarts of water in doing it.

Another feature is to swamp the canoe, filling it to the gunwale and then emptying it. This has been done in less than one minute. These latter tricks, however, are not often tried in this race, as they make it too difficult.

Original Greening Apple Tree.

The American Cultivator says that the original Greening apple tree is still standing on the farm of Solomon Drowne at Mount Hygeia, in North Foster, R. I. The tree was a very old one when the farm was sold in 1801. The seller informed the purchaser that it was a pity the old tree was going into decay as it produced the best fruit of any tree in the orchard. The purchaser determined to see how long he could keep it alive, and it still survives after almost another century has been added to its venerable years. But it shows signs of final decay, and the parent of all the famous Rhode Island greenings, which has set its grafts on the orchards of almost all the world, will be but a neighborhood memory.

Protecting the Pump.

The cut tells its own story. The pump is thus inclosed at slight cost of labor and kept from "freezing up" during cold snaps in winter. If stock is to be watered, a spout can pass through the rear side of the covering, to be removed and the opening closed when not in use. Scores of hours are consumed on many farms in winter "thawing out" pumps. A little protection of this sort will save much labor. The water in a well from which cattle are to be watered can also be kept much warmer if the platform is closely banked with hay to keep out the cold air. It is essential not only to keep the pump from "freezing up," but also to keep the temperature of the water in the well as high as possible, since very cold water is undesirable for any stock, and particularly undesirable for cows in milk and growing young stock.—New York Tribune.

Clover Sick Land.

We used to hear much of land getting clover sick, or so that while rich enough for corn or most of the usual farm crops, it seemed not to be suitable for clover. Either the seed would fail to catch or the plants would die out before they had attained size enough to show them above the other grasses. Perhaps on a poor field nearby there would be a good crop of clover growing, sown with seed from the same bag and under the same conditions of season. When we first noticed this we saw that the farmers who had used wood ashes on their fields had no trouble in growing clover, and that in pastures where bushes had been cut and burned there were often bunches of clover, most frequently of white clover, that came in and remained until they were killed out by being fed too closely. This led us to believe the clover would be benefited by the use of wood ashes or any form of potash. Then we noticed that farmers who used a commercial fertilizer in addition to their manure had no trouble in growing clover. Later studies showed us that lime formed a considerable part of both ashes and the superphosphates, and thus we do not hesitate to advise any one to apply lime where they wish to grow clover, and to use acid phosphate and muriate of potash when they sow the seed, or as topdressing afterward. We think these are a sure remedy for clover-sick soil.—Exchange.

Rack for Fodder.

A very good fodder rack for cattle is made either of poles or of lumber. A plank will answer for the bottom of the rock proper, and the boards should be far enough apart to let the cattle get the fodder freely from the rack. The outside rack will catch the surplus and stock will pick that over later on when the supply runs short in the rack. It is built on runners so it can be moved from place to place with a team. The outside rack should be made of heavy poles, as the reaching of the cattle will break ordinary lumber.

To Prevent Calves Sucking.

To prevent calves and young stock from sucking the cows and the cows from sucking themselves, procure at your grocer's or druggists one pound of cayenne pepper, pour one-half pint boiling water on one tablespoonful and let it steep a few minutes. Tie a soft piece of cloth on the end of a long stock, and with this swab rub the pepper solution over the cow's udder. If this is persevered in you will have no more trouble.—Mrs. J. Coffee, Farmers' Advocate.

Candied Honey.

At the approach of winter, says American Gardening, extracted honey will candy or crystallize unless kept in a temperature above 80 degrees, and even then with some kinds of honey it is difficult to prevent it from candying. This is regarded by most beekeepers as a test of its purity. Honey that has been adulterated with glucose or other foreign matter as a rule will not granulate or crystallize when kept in a moderately cool place. Honey that has granulated may be restored to its liquid form by placing the bottle or jar in a pan and setting on the kitchen stove or range. The pan should be partly filled with water and heated slowly until the honey is melted. If melted gradually and only heated enough to restore it to its liquid state, it does not injure or impair the flavor in the least.

Winter Work.

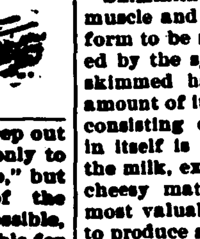
The farmer should rejoice at the approach of winter, not because it will be a season of rest, but because it will give him an opportunity to do so many things that he has neglected in the hurry of planting, cultivating and harvesting. There are many little things for which there seems to be no great haste. They can be done at any time, and that means that they are never done, or done in great haste when they reach the point where they must be done. When we were farming we used the days when it was not suitable weather to work out of doors in putting all tools and machinery in good condition, including farm wagons and carts, and they were painted, if they needed it, which most of them did even after one year's use. The work might not have been done very artistically, but the paint served to protect the wood from the weather. Then harnesses were cleaned, mended and oiled, and repairs made on gates, fences, etc., while during the pleasant days manure was drawn out, and the summer wood brought home. All this so helped when the spring work began that if we desired to go on a farm again we should much prefer to take it in November than March, unless we were sure that our predecessor had been one who spent the winter days in getting ready for the coming season.—American Cultivator.

Use Skimmilk.

Skimmilk is a food which contains muscle and flesh forming material in a form to be readily taken up and digested by the system. Milk that has been skimmed has really lost but a small amount of its value as a food, the cream consisting considerably of fat, which in itself is the least nutritious part of the milk, except to create warmth. The cheesy matter left in the milk is its most valuable part for food and tends to produce a vigorous, healthful growth when fed to calves, pigs and chickens. If chickens were fed less corn and more skimmilk, it would not only be to their lasting benefit, but it would also eventually result in financial benefit to the farmer.—Poultry Keeper.

The Crothers Peach.

Prof. H. E. Van Deman, while living in Kansas, came across a peach called Crothers, which he thinks worthy to show its merits among the best peaches of the country. He procured buds and put the peach into his trial orchard, and has been so much pleased with the variety that he mentions it as without an equal of its color and season combined. It has also been fruiting at the experiment station at South Haven, Mich., for several years, where it is much liked. The tree is a very abundant and regular bearer, strong growth and somewhat drooping form. The fruit is of medium size, nearly round in shape, not pointed, and has a slight suture on one side; color, creamy white, with a bright red cheek, making a handsome appearance; flesh, creamy white, red at pit, very juicy, melting; flavor, rich, yet mild, vinous and very pleasant.—Rural New Yorker.



CROTHERS PEACH.

Grain Weevils.

Those who are troubled by weevils in the grain bins or their barns should not forget that bisulphide of carbon is a sure preventive of their ravages. About one ounce of it is sure death to all that would be in a hundred pounds of grain and other seed, and vials of that size just thrust down into the surface and uncorked will go to the bottom of the bin, as its fumes are heavier than the air. As it is explosive take care not to carry any light near it. It is also sure death to other insects and to squirrels and rats. Do not use more than the above amount, as it may prevent germination of the seed.

Tank Heaters.

It has been many times proven that cows will give much more milk in winter and fattening stock will put on flesh much more rapidly if they have warm water than if it is coated with ice or even if of the natural temperature at which it comes from a well or a spring. There are heaters made to put in a trough or tank that raise the temperature at very small expense, and we advise those who have many cattle to water to investigate the matter.

Drilling Grain.

The Minnesota experiment station tried for several years drilled wheat by the side of wheat sown broadcast. These were field tests on considerable areas, and they found as an average that the drilled wheat yielded 50 per cent more than that which was broadcasted. The results were most marked in seasons when the soil was dry, as the seeds were well covered at a uniform depth by the drill, and thus germinated more freely and evenly.

To Keep Cider Sweet.

To keep cider sweet is not an easy proposition, remarks a New England Homestead correspondent. For domestic use on a small scale heat thoroughly for twenty minutes at a temperature of 160 degrees; then seal up in fruit jars or bottles. This, done thoroughly, will keep the year round.

Sheep's Faces.

POSTAL DEPARTMENT REPORT

RECOMMENDATIONS ARE MADE.

The Chief Wants to Reach the Farm Door—Thinks It Will Make the Farms More Valuable—Posts and Postal Frauds in Cuba.

Washington.—Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith has submitted his annual report to the president. The financial operations of the department for the last fiscal year are shown in the following statement of revenues and expenditures:

Ordinary postal revenues, $100,899,433; receipts from money order business, $1,455,145. Total receipts from all sources, $102,354,579.

Total expenditures for the year, $107,740,267. Excess of expenditures over receipts, $5,385,888.

The deficit for the year 1899-1900 is shown to be $10,008,080 less than last year. The estimated postal revenue for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1902, is $116,033,042, and the estimated expenditure $121,276,349, leaving a probable deficiency of $4,634,307.

Rural free delivery, the report says, has proved to be "the most salient, significant and far reaching feature of postal development."

Besides swelling the postal receipts the values of farms are enhanced, through the necessity for good roads and the opportunity afforded the farmer to keep abreast of the times by being put in closer communication with the outside world. The isolation and monotony which has been the bane of country life, is sensibly mitigated through the effects of free rural delivery in placing the farm within daily range of the intellectual and commercial centers. The farmer is also given cause to feel he shares the governmental advantages of the townsmen, which stimulated his loyalty and patriotism.

"Rural free delivery is here plainly to stay." It reaches millions of people scattered over a million acres of territory to whose doors it is the task of the government to arrange to carry the mails through rural free delivery, Postmaster General Smith says. By the end of the current fiscal year one-sixth of them shall have been served, and 4,300 routes in operation. The net annual cost of a complete rural free delivery system is estimated at $13,782,224. On this point the report says:

"It will hardly be disputed that the great result of carrying the postoffice to every home, if it can be accomplished at such comparatively small cost, is an object well worth undertaking."

The report says that the postal service in the new island possessions of the United States has been very materially advanced and strengthened.

"Unfortunately," says the report, speaking of Cuba, "its administration was stained for a time by frauds and peculations of the most shameful character. But this was the crime of the agents and not any fault of the system. The frauds and peculations could not have been committed by any one official, however dishonest. They were made possible only through the collusion of officers who should have been a check on each other and who entered into a conspiracy by which the safeguards dependent upon a careful plan of checks were thrown down.

"When the facts were brought to light immediate action was taken to right the wrongs and arraign the wrongdoers. The offense of those implicated was more than infidelity to the confidence reposed in them and more than ordinary malfeasance in office. Its turpitude was enhanced by the fact that it was the betrayal of a trust held for a people who were our wards, which carried peculiarly sacred obligations and it merits the severest condemnation. The cases have passed to the custody of the courts and early trial is expected."

The improvement of the last few years in the money order system has been continued and even enhanced, says the postmaster general, and free delivery extended.

The reports of the second assistant postmaster general are cited to show the increase in the number of routes over which mail is transported and the good effects to the service of the order of last February prohibiting the consideration of bids for star route contracts where the bidder resided off the route he was bidding for.

A reasonably satisfactory mail service is being furnished the people of Alaska and the number of complaints is surprisingly small. Arrangements have been made for weekly service over the two overland routes.

FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS GONE

Portland, Dec. 6.—Six masked men held up the office of the Western Lumber company, secured $4,727 and escaped in the darkness. The robbery occurred at 6 o'clock, when dozens of men were in the vicinity of the mill, which is located on Front street, opposite Seventeenth north. Four of the highwaymen guarded the two entrances to the office, while the other two entered with drawn revolvers and ordered the four clerks in the office to hold up their hands. The money was in envelopes ready to be paid out to the mill hands, this being the regular weekly payday. One robber quickly threw the money into a sack while the other kept the millmen covered with two revolvers. They backed out of the office, locked the doors and the six men made their escape before the alarm could be given. The police station was immediately notified, and a number of officers were detailed on the case.

In the private office were W. B. Ayer, president of the company, and M. F. Henderson, vice president, who were unaware that the treasury was being despoiled. Behind the paying counter in the office were H. W. Hall, cashier, and Dan Campbell, assistant cashier. The latter had just paid off two employes when the masked men entered. Quick as a flash one of the men ran around back of the paying counter, ready with his pistol to meet any "gun play" on the part of the employes. Through the paying window itself a gray-headed robber climbed, grabbed the till of money and quickly dumped it into a gunnysack that his companion held open.

Meantime, there were two diversions that threatened to break the course of the robbery. While Scott, the office boy, was near the door and attempted to dart out and give the alarm. He slipped and fell and was collared by one of the robbers and afterward closely covered. Ole Moe, the yard foreman, was outside and saw the robbery going on. He armed himself with a heavy club and stood waiting for the first robber to come out. But he, too, came under the watchful gaze of two of the members of the party. He was compelled to throw up his hands and to drop the club. When these difficulties were overcome the robbers vanished as mysteriously as they came.

W. B. Ayer, president of the company, says that the exact amount stolen was $4,727.70. In the morning $7,000 had been drawn from the bank and the smaller amount remained after the night crew had been paid off. F. H. Ransom, manager of the company, said that the theft was committed by experienced crooks. He said the men who did the work were well acquainted with the company's custom of paying off, but this information would not have been difficult to obtain.

Prices Paid Producers.

Poultry and Eggs—Chickens, old, 10@11c per lb, live weight; springs, $2@4.50 per doz; ducks, $4 per doz; geese, dressed, 12c per lb; turkeys, live, 10@12c; dressed, 12@13c; eggs, fresh, $7.50@9.00 per case.

Vegetables—Potatoes, 60c per cwt; onions, 85c per cwt.

Live Stock—Beef, live steers, 3¾@4c; dressed, 6@7c; live cows, 3c; dressed, 5¾@6½c; veal calves, dressed, 7@9c; mutton, ewes, 3c; wethers, 3½c; hogs, live, $4.75 per cwt; dressed, $7 per cwt.

Sheep Skins—Shearlings, 10c each; short wool pelts, 30@50c; medium wool, 50@75c; long wool, 75c@$1.00.

The local mills pay the following prices for grain, delivered: Club wheat, 44c bulk, 46c sacked; bluestem, 47c bulk, 49c sacked; red, 42c bulk, 44c sacked.

Twenty Persons Injured.

Philadelphia, Dec. 9.—Twenty persons were in jured in an accident on the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore railroad at Gray's Ferry station in West Philadelphia recently.

Of the 1,0000,000,000 tons of freight handled by the American railroads last year more than one-quarter or 250,000,000 tons was coal.

MINES AND MINING NEWS

OUR NORTHWESTERN MINES.

Items Gleaned From Late Reports—All Districts Are Being Developed—A Prosperous Year Is Predicted—Mining Notes and Personals.

United States Consul Hughes, at Coburg, has reported to the state department the news of the recent discovery of large deposits of coal, estimated to contain at least 1,600,000 tons, at Barmock, Hungary. The quality of the coal, he says, remains to be proved, but the deposit is to be developed on scientific lines at once.

Republic.

At the Princess Maud it is learned that the winze is down 288 or 289 feet below the tunnel level.

Superintendent Delbridge of the California mine says that work was begun on the 29th on sinking the shaft below the 100 foot level.

Bodie is much improved and the pay shoot is widening rapidly in the shaft. The work is being pushed on the large crosscut tunnel. Two blind leads have been cut, and porphyry horse is rapidly disappearing with depth. Ore has been struck on the Elk.

News received from Wauconda camp recently shows that work is progressing all along the line with energy. The big Wauconda tunnel is in 220 feet and is being driven three feet per day with two shifts. It is expected that three shifts will be put on next week.

The management of the Republic mill believes that the Republic ores, like those of the Quilp and San Poil, which cary a considerable percentage of silver, can be treated as successfully at the mill as those carrying gold only.

Work has been suspended in the shaft of the Gold Ledge. The water will be kept baled out for about ten days to permit any stockholder who may desire to examine it before letting the shaft fill with water.

There is much ore in the Quilp. The drift from No. 2 tunnel shows good milling rock. A vein is disclosed in the upraise from No. 3 tunnel that is the best in the mine. Many improvements are made in the underground workings of the mine and the property never looked better.

The reconstruction of the Republic wood flume is completed. Several short turns have been straightened and the fall has been increased to give the water a swifter flow, so that the pressure of the wood is now effected without difficulty.

It is reported that a strike of high grade copper ore was recently made on the Prairie Queen group, near Chesaw, Wash. A good sized vein was uncovered while assessment work was being done, and assays have given as high as $98.64. The Myers Creek district is expected to have an active winter.

The work in progress at the California mine is showing it up to better advantage every day. At present the shaft is being sunk deeper. It is down 110 feet and is to be carried down another 100 feet, and the ledge drifted upon east and west. While this work is in progres the ledge will be fully explored at the 100 foot level. The only hindrance to rapid work is the inadequacy of the horse whim to hoist the rock and water.

The Republic mill is running well, and the results are the most flattering character. Every part of the plant is doing good work. The most pleasing matter to record is the fact that such a high percentage of values is being saved. Twelve vats have been cleaned up, which represents 1200 tons of ore. The lowest percentage so far obtained was almost 91, while the highest is 94.85. These figures are furnished by the secretary of the company. Nothing could be more satisfactory, and it is pretty conclusive evidence that the Republic company has adopted the proper treatment for the ores of this camp. The ores treated have been taken from all the levels and may be considered an average from top to bottom.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

A splendid body of magnetite, running well up in copper, is bein opened up by a crosscut at the 250 foot level on the Crown Silver in Deadwood camp. The Crown Silver adjoins the Mother Lode mine on the east and, with the Sunset, is composed in the holdings of the recently formed Montreal & Boston Copper Co., Ltd.

John C. Holden of Slocan is working a crew of five miners on a promising property on the Republic hill, near the Tamarack and Ottawa. It is a gold proposition and the claim is made that the ore will average $60.

The ore shipments from Kaslo over the Kaslo & Slocan railway for November total 4,740,000 pounds. The Whitewater shipped nearly half that amount alone, the Payne coming second with 900,000 pounds. The shipments were as follows: Whitewater, to Kootenay Ore company, Kaslo, 2,129,000; Payne, to San Francisco, 900,000; Last Chance, to Kootenay Ore company, 705,000; Rambler, to Everett, 291,000; Ruth, to Kootenay Ore company, 192.000; Slocan Star, to Everett, 162,000; Trade Dollar, to Kootenay Ore company, 122,000; Cube, to Kootenay Ore company, 30,000. Total, 4,740,000.

This makes the total shipments for the year to the end of November as follows: January, 1,498,000; February, 794,000; March, 1,717,000; April, 1,550,000; May, 3,036,000; June, 4,573,000; July, 3,331,000; August, 2,488,265; September, 4,011,000; October, 4,898,140; November, 4,740,000. Total, 31,636,485. During the month the Payne shipped 1075 tons via Sandon; the Last Chance shipped 354 tons; Slocan Star, 142 tons; Ruth, 112 tons; Trade Dollar 63 tons; American Boy, 61 tons; Sovereign, 49 tons and Cube Lode 15 tons. Of this the Canadian Pacific railway handled 631 tons and the Kaslo & Slocan 1239 tons. This makes the Payne the largest shipper—3,468,000 pounds of ore having been shipped from that mine during the month.

The Granby smelter, which was blown in on August 21, has in 108 working days treated 45,000 tons of ore, which yielded 1650 tons of 50 per cent matte. This is equivalent to 825 tons, or 165,000 pounds, of metallic copper, in addition to the gold and silver values. It requires no extraordinary knowledge to figure out that the annual turnover of the smelter, with its daily capacity of 600 tons, will considerably exceed $1,000,000. The plant will be doubled early in the next year, when a matte converter will also be installed. Of the ores above referred to, 1000 tons was custom ore from Boundary and Republic mines, the rest being contributed by the Knob Hill, Old Ironsides, Victoria and City of Paris mines. "The Granby smelter is clearing $900 per day," was the comment of Paul Johnson, superintendent of the Mother Lode smelter at Greenwood. Under contract, 200 tons of the monthly product of the Granby smelter is sent to a refinery at Swansea, Wales. The greater part is refined in New York.

After being closed eight months, the Brooklyn mine, in the heart of Phoenix camp, started operations recently.

Fifty tons of sacked ore from the Morning Glory mine in Republic have been received at the Granby smelter. Another shipment of similar size is expected immediately.

The well known Buckhorn group, which is situated about 20 miles north of Bonners Ferry, on Deer creek, has been bonded by M. D. Winters of Spokane. The deal, which was made in Spokane a few days ago, is of great importance to the mining industry of this locality, because this group is considered the most promising property in the Deer Creek district, and if it equals expectations many other claims which possess good surface showings will be developed. A cash payment of $4,000 was made and $1,000 more advanced for development work. The balance is to be paid in 90 days.

The Rossland-Bonanza Mining company has secured the Our Hope claim adjoining the Bonanza on the dip side of the Bonanza vein.

The St. Eugene, at Moyie, B. C., has contracted to furnish $1,000,000 worth of silver-leaf ore annually to the Guggenheim smelter at Antofogasta, Chili.

MINING NOTES.

Francis T. Freeland of Aspen, Col., has been appointed general manager of the Frisco Consolidated Mining company, Ltd., of Gem, Idaho, and he has selected Gus Ehrenberg as assistant manager and A. D. Marshall as mine foreman.

The plan of employing men for the Mullan and Canyon Creek mines by an agent in Wallace, Idaho, has been in effect just a week, and during that time the oponents of the plan have expressed themselves in no uncertain terms as believing that it is a much worse and more unfair plan than the permit system, which has been the object of so many attacks during the year and a half that it has been in effect in the Coeur d'Alenes.

The Muray Development company has commenced sinking on the copper ledge which croses Prichard creek, just above Murray, Idaho. This ledge was discovered when the ground was being worked for placer gold in 1884, native copper being found on the surface and considerable chunks of it came from the sluice boxes for some distance down the creek. Little was thought of it at that time, copper ore under such circumstances having no value, but the ground was located and has been held ever since. Barry N. Hillard became one of the owners years ago, and since he began operating around Murray in an extensive way he has succeeded in having the Murray Development company undertake its development. A shaft house has been built and the work of continuing the old shaft was begun Wednesday. The ore in the bottom of the shaft is a high grade of copper, considerably better than it was on the surface.

Twenty-one unconscious and half suffocated miners were hauled to the surface by means of ropes from the Bell mine at Butte recently and laid out in rows, while nearly all the doctors in the city worked over them and by means of artificial respiration and strong stimulants finally succeeded in reviving all the victims.

The last payments on the placer ground by the Coeur d'Alene Mining company was made last week, though some of them were not due for two or three months. The company, or parties acting in its interests, now owns the full length of Prichard creek from the mouth to the highest point where pay gravel was ever found east of Murray, almost the same distance on Eagle creek and the "old wash" so far as it has ever been opened up.

REICHSTAG TO INVESTIGATE

SNUB OF PRESIDENT KRUGER.

Count Von Buelow Will Reply Personally as to the Reason—Sympathy With Boers Still Deep—Other Notes About Kruger.

Berlin, Dec. 9.—Mr. Kruger's nonreception here and the reasons leading thereto will be made the subject of an interpellation in the reichstag early this week during the first budget debate. The imperial chancellor, Count von Buelow, will personally reply. The excitement on the subject and sympathy with the Boers are still deep and far reaching, as evidenced by today's Die Nation, which contains an article by Professor Mommson, who approves of the attitude of Emperor William not receiving the Boer statesman as being more dignified and more just than if he received him and confessed his powerlessness to avert the South African tragedy, which is now going on toward the final act.

The Vossische Zeitung takes a similar view and says that "hypocritical France, which is seeking to embroil Germany with England, would have left Germany in the lurch, probably confederating with England against Germany after succeedng in breaking the bonds of Anglo-German friendship."

Queen Gave Him Audience.

The Hague, Dec. 9.—Queen Wilhelmina received Mr. Kruger in audience. As the Boer statesman was traveling incognito the visit was not attended by the ceremony usually paid to a chief of state. A court official proceeded to his hotel and accompanied Mr. Kruger to the royal palace in a state carriage. Dr. Leyds received Mr. Kruger at the door of the palace, but was not present at the audience.

Mr. Kruger wore a black coat, over which was a broad sash of the Transvaal colors and the grand cross of the Netherlands lion. Dr. Leyds wore a diplomatic uniform. The visit lasted a quarter of an hour. The queen, the queen's mother and Mr. Kruger also were present. The latterthanked the queen for placing the cruiser Gelderland at his disposal.

The crowds in the streets warmly cheered Mr. Kruger.

Holland Will Not Intervene.

Antwerp, Dec. 9.—A special dispatch from The Hague says Holland has no intention to intervene in favor of intervention in the Transvaal troubles.

Reply to American League.

New York, Dec. 9.—The consul general of the Orange Free States has received the following reply to a cablegram of good wishes sent to Paul Kruger by the American Transvaal league:

"I thank the directors of the Amercian Transvaal league and all sympathizing Americans for their greetings, and hope their kind wishes will be fulfilled.

"KRUGER."

Kruger May Seek Salisbury.

London, Dec. 9.—A special dispatch from The Hague says:

It is reported that Mr. Kruger is seeking to obtain a conference with Lord Salisbury.

Wilhelmina a True Friend.

Paris, Dec. 10.—The Echo de Paris correspondent at The Hague says:

The queen said to Mr. Kruger today: "Have confidence in God, who will protect you and yours. I will show my friendship when the moment arrives, but not now."

The more a man talks, the less wood he saws.

The fault found with a bachelor doesn't hurt.

There is always a way; it takes a will to discover it.

No one is as impudent as the fiddler when he presents his bill.

You can build a little lack of attention into an imaginary wrong if you want to.

Take out a life insurance policy, and leave a full dinner pail for your wife's next husband.

When you think a man is acting mean, decide how you would act under the same circumstances.

When a baby arrives in this world a book should come with it, giving instructions for its management.

We have an idea that disease germs have less dislike for carbolic acid than they have of the smell of cabbage.

After all, there is no real happiness for any one who has passed the age when he took an apple to his teacher.

Next to a bridal party on the streets, the funniest thing is to see two girls carrying an enormous grip between them.

The men really don't know anything about the terrors of a mother-in-law; it is the daughter-in-law who is best posted.

As women grow older, they begin to find more fault with the unbecoming styles of hats that are displayed at the milliner's.

What pity it is that girls are not naturally inclined to work as hard to get a $50 situation as they work to capture a $50 man.

When a baby smiles in front of a photograph camera, its mother thinks that that does settle it—a smarter child never lived.

When the doctors decide that a woman must go away for her health, she immediately recovers, and chases after dressmakers to get ready.

Every storekeeper has two notions: 1. That he sells goods cheaper than any other merchant in the State. 2. That he is not appreciated.

Unfortunately, the man who is "lovely" about helping around the house finds it hard to earn the money to pay the household expenses.

There should be less worrying about what the "unseen has in store," and more care of the health to be able to do the work it brings to every one.

Men don't like the kind of man who lets his wife carry the pocketbook. And that sort of man never has as much in his pocketbook as the other kind.

A CHANGE ABOUT THE PLACE.

The place don't seem just like it did before she went away,
It's all so still and lonesome—not a word from her all day;
The old mare whinnies still when I go to the stable door,
But, somehow, things seem different since she ain't here no more.

The vines creep up along the porch just as she trained 'em to;
The flowers grow along the fence, just as they used to do;
The house is left just as it was, but still it seems, to-day,
As if it wasn't just the place from which she went away.

The sun still gets to peepin' in that window over there
Along to'rds breakfast time, and there's her high-backed rockin' chair;
The creek's still flowin' where it flowed—the water's cool and clear—
But still, somehow, it ain't the place it was when she was here.

The hedge still fences in the lane, just as it did when she
Would come, at dinner time, and call across the fields to me—
But where that steeple peeps above the hill she's sleepin' now,
And everything's got all turned 'round, it seems to me, somehow.

This doesn't seem like home no more, and often through the day
I get to thinkin' 'tisn't her, but me that's gone away—
That she's at home there on the hill, a-callin' soft and low,
And that I'm goin' back, and glad it's nearly time to go.

A NEWPORT IDYL

THE ballroom at the Casino was aglow with light and pulsing with music. The ball was at its height a moment before supper.

Standing near a door was a young man whose features were drawn and white, and whose set lips made a picture sadly out of place in that gay throng. His dark eyes followed a slim, graceful girl, with a crown of golden hair and tender, violet eyes, whose dark, long lashes lent them a pathetic look just then.

They seemed to be seeking for some one, but whoever they sought was not found until the dancers had twice made the tour of the room. Then the two pairs of eyes met for a second. Those of the girl had a wistful, questioning look; those of the man an expression of stern relinquishment.

The music ceased just then, and in the little ensuing flutter they lost sight of each other in the crowd.

The man, with a sigh so deep as to be almost a groan, turned away, and, scarcely knowing how he reached there, found himself seated in an easy chair on the wide porch. He gave himself up to bitter reflections.

"I must be crazy to come here tonight. I might in time have learned to forget her, but to see her again, so sweet and so far off. I could not ask her to marry me now on 'little or nothing a year.' She has been brought up to wealth and luxury. It is part and parcel of her daily life, and I would be the most brutal of brutes to ask her to share my poverty. Poor little Nellie! She didn't look any too happy, either. Well, Jim, if you are not a coward you will start now and go—so far away that she will never hear of you again."

Just at this stage of "Jim's" reflections, several persons came along, and in their gay conversation Jim had no part. He half rose to go when he heard his own name mentioned. In spite of the old proverb about listeners, he remained in his chair, which was in deep shadow.

"Poor Jim Alden! Did you see him? He stood by the door looking like the ghost at the feast. What a pity that he went on Wall street! He might have known better. He seemed to be particularly cut up when he saw Miss Burten dancing away and never even looking at him."

"I hear that Miss Burton's engagement to Lloyd Appleby is announced."

"What, that old man! Well, he's rolling in wealth."

"She did not need to marry money."

"The ways of women are past finding out."

The figure in the dark corner glided away swiftly. He had borne all he could. He strode on down toward the Point, scarcely knowing where he was going, until with a sudden sense of a new pain he found that he was standing by the rocks where he had sat only two days before with Nellie.

Then the hot sun blazed down and the heat pulsated from the sand and sea below, and the rocks above, and then, too, there was not the knowledge that he had lost every dollar he had in the world.

The long line of silver light laid across the water suddenly wavered and grew blurred and dim as his eyes filled, and a sob was wrung from the aching heart. He remembered the dimpled fingers that had clasped the parasol, the odor of flowers at her breast, and the clinging against his cheek of a few strands of golden hair tossed there by the wanton wind. He stood there, a black outline against the moonlit water beyond.

Back at the Casino another little drama had been enacted. Nellie had seen more than her trained features had shown, and she knew that unless she acted promptly she would have looked her last upon Jim. Suddenly Jim was more to her than all the world. All the other men and women in the world were effaced from her heart and mind as utterly as if they did not exist. She must find Jim—she must.

Out on the wide portico she flew, with her Aunt Elinor and Mr. Appleby behind her. Jim was not there. With the prescience of love she knew where she should find him, and snatching a white scarf from her aunt's shoulders she said:

"Aunt, you and Mr. Appleby wait for me; I am going to find Jim."

"Nellie! Nellie! You will compromise yourself fatally——"

"I don't care; I love Jim!"

"Nellie!"

But Nellie was gone. Mr. Appleby smiled as, under the cover of the shadow of a column, he said:

"Let her go, Elinor. Nellie is right. Jim is worthy of any good woman."

"But he is poor."

"That he isn't. I brought the news to him that he had just inherited a bigger fortune than he lost. He doesn't know it yet, and, Elinor, we can all be married together. Eh?"

"O—Lloyd!"

"We've waited long enough, dear, I think."

Nellie flew like a white angel down to the Point, her slippered feet scarcely touching the ground. Yes, there was Jim. Was he about to commit suicide, as he stood there so rigidly still? Nellie caught her breath, and then advanced slowly, stilling her throbbing heart by a miracle of will power, a power such as is only given to womankind.

"It's a lovely evening, Mr. Alden, isn't it?" she said, quietly.

"Nellie, little Nellie!" said Jim, in such a transport that it is lucky he couldn't see the sudden color leap to Nellie's cheeks. "I beg pardon, Miss Burton. I forgot for a moment."

"There is nothing to forgive."

"Ah! Where is your aunt—and Mr. Appleby?" asked Jim, stupidly.

"I left them on the porch, settling the date of their wedding day."—Boston Globe.

People Eat Far Too Much.

A Philadelphia physician of note, Dr. Edward H. Dewey, claims to cure all sorts of diseases by starving his patients. The brain, says this practitioner, never loses weight in either sickness or starvation. Usually the mind remains clear when the body has wasted away. The head is the power-house of the body. The stomach is run by brain power. When the stomach does too much work it makes too great a demand upon the brain.

"For more than twenty years," writes this doctor, "I have permitted my sick to do without food so long as there was no desire for it. Not a mouthful was enforced in any case, not one mouthful denied on the first hint of hunger.

"In this I have had all the medical text-books and the entire medical profession as authority unquestioned against me. That food is needed to sustain the strength of the sick has never been a matter of question with the medical profession.

"Many of my sick have gone for more than a month without food. One very sick, in bed for more than a month with acute rheumatism, was able to walk about the room on the forty-sixth day before the first food was taken. Another patient, a woman of 57, went until the forty-third day before she broke her fast, and without any omission of her ordinary duties. A diseased stomach was cured as the result, and now, after five years, there has been no return of the trouble."

Physicians are pretty generally agreed that Americans eat too much—especially too much meat. The no-breakfast habit may not be so very silly after all.

Gen. Stark's Lost Mare.

In an old file of the Hartford Courant, of date Oct. 7, 1777, is an advertisement sent to the paper by General Stark of Bennington fame, which shows that military hero to have had an excellent command of language and much cause for indignation.

Twenty Dollars Reward. Stole from me the subscriber, from Walloomscock, in the time of action, the 16th of August last, a brown Mare, five years old, had a star in her forehead. Also a doe-skin seated saddle, blue housing trim'd with white, and a curbed bridle. It is earnestly requested of all committees of safety and others in authority, to exert themselves to recover said thief and mare, so that he may be brought to justice and the mare brought to me; and the person, whoever he be, shall receive the above reward for both, and for the mare alone one half of that sum.

How scandalous, how disgraceful and ignominious must it appear to all friendly and generous souls to have such sly, artful, designing villains enter into the field in the time of action in order to pillage, pilfer and plunder from their brethren when engaged in battle.

JOHN STARK, B. D. G.

Bennington, 11th Sept., 1777.

His Theory.

A novel explanation of the cause of thunder showers was once given a sojourner in a little Nova Scotia town by one of the inhabitants.

"Do you know what makes thunder?" the Nova Scotian inquired of his guest. "I've got a theory of my own, and I call it a pretty good one."

"I should like to hear it," was the diplomatic reply.

"Well," said the host, slowly, "my idea this: You know we hear about the air circulating and circulating all the time. My notion is that the pure air from above comes down here in summer, and gets foul with all the smoke and dirt and grease; and then the heat drives it up again into the clouds, and when it gets up there it's pressed on all round by the clouds coming together, and it explodes! That's my theory, of course," he added, with becoming modesty, "other folks may have others."

Premium list may be procured by addressing A. C. Butcher, the secretary, at Pullman. The association will furnish all coops and pay liberal premiums, both cash and special.

—The British ships, Scottish Isles and Scottish Glens, were chartered a few days ago to load wheat at this port in January at 42s 9d and 43 shillings. These are the first charters for near-by loading that have been reported for several days, and while materially lower than the top-notch figures that were reached a few weeks earlier, are still far enough above normal figures to indicate a pretty strong freight market which is presenting but few signs of weakness. If the nitrate dealers of the west coast of South America have the freight situation correctly sized up, the 1901 grain crop from Portland and Puget Sound will not move under much, if any, lower freights than those which have ruled for the present season. The nitrate men are chartering nearly a year ahead, and if the differential which previous to this season has been granted, is considered, they are paying rates for November, 1901, which are equivalent to spot rates for wheat in the Pacific Northwest. The British ship Frith of Clyde has been chartered for November, 1901, loading at a nitrate port at 32 shillings. On account of the cheap portcharges, and the shorter distance from the nitrate ports to Europe, owners in former years have demanded 10 shillings more for vessels to load wheat at North Pacific ports than they have asked for nitrate business. It is apparently on this basis that the owner of the Scottish Isles and Scottish Glens has been figuring.—Oregonian.

—Boise has decided to imitate the practice of other capitol cities and give a grand inaugural ball and reception to the incoming state officers and the new legislature, on the evening of January 7th. The function will be held at the Natatorium in that city and no expense will be spared and no detail overlooked that will tend to make the affair the most brilliant social occasion in the history of the state. The swimming plunge will be floored over, the entire building beautifully decorated, an elegant supper will be served and a large orchestra has been secured to give a concert during the reception and to provide music for an exceptionally fine dancing program. The event will be strictly non-partisan, the idea being to show to the outside world the thorough good fellowship that exists in Idaho after a campaign has been concluded. The new governor and his brother officers, together with the entire membership of the legislature, will participate in the reception and the ball. In order to secure a complete representation and at the same time to keep out any objectionable element, and in order to cover the enormous expense necessary to make the affair a success, the price of tickets has been placed at five dollars. All representative Idaho is invited to attend this ball and in order that adequate preparations may be made in the banquet room and in other features it is desired that all who contemplate attending should send in their names with a remittance of the requisite amount for the number of tickets they desire to W. N. Donaldson, box No. 722, Boise, Idaho, at the very earliest date possible. All tickets must be secured in advance as none will be sold at the Natatorium.

—At a meeting of the school board held Monday evening, H. F. Krum resigned as a member of the board and Fred Nagel was appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. Krum has been a faithful worker in behalf of our schools and is entitled to a vote of thanks by the patrons.

—Lars Asleson for many years a resident of Genesee, died at the county home last Monday and was buried Tuesday at the county's expense. He was 53 years of age, a native of Norway and is not known to have any relatives in this section. About a month ago he was taken from here to the county home, being in the last stages of consumption.

—Our neighbors are complaining of their census ratings, claiming that the census was taken at a time when many were out of town. Genesee can also claim a greater population than the late census shows on account of the number of people who were absent on the reservation and on their farms temporarily, also a great many being out in the mountains during the month of June.

—Somebody has explained the significance of the editorial "we." It may have a variety of meanings. For example: When you read that "we expect our wife home today, "we" refers to the editor; "we are a little late with our work" includes the whole office force, even the devil and the towel; in "we are having a boom" the town is meant; "we received over 7000 emigrants this year" embraces the nation; "we have hog cholera in our midst" means that the man who takes the paper and does not pay for it is very ill.

—J. Schmidt returned Sunday from the hospital at Moscow.

—Mrs. Frank Edwards and children returned to Cul de Sac Monday.

—Sign the petition to have adopted the present duty on grain bags.

—The Rebekahs, at their Tuesday evening's meeting, had degree work followed by a lunch.

—Soren Halvorsen and family now occupy the D. R. Davis residence which was vacated by the McDonald family.

—Joe Moersch went to Moscow Wednesday, to attend a directors' meeting of the Providence Mining Company.

—The pastor of the Congregational church will on Sabbath evening commence a course of sermons on Infidelity. His subject that evening will be "Is there a Creator."

—The Coontown 400 held forth at Elliott hall last evening. They came in overland from Spalding and when part way up Coyote grade a disabled hack necessitated their walking in. As the roads are not at their best at present the 400 were somewhat dark by the time they reached here.

—Miss Annie Winterfell, very vulgarly called "Dutch Annie" by a great many, was an easy winner of the ladies' gold watch and chain given by the National Concert Company to the most popular Genesee young lady. She had votes and to spare and takes her honors very becomingly.

—We are informed that Messrs. Pollok and Sampson will locate at Harrison, this state, and in the early spring open a general store. A commodious building is now being erected which they will occupy. Harrison has a population about equal to Genesee's, is an important lumbering point and is enjoying a healthy growth.

—The Woodmen of the World have elected the following officers:

U. G. Dickson, P. C.
Robt. Wardrobe, C. C.
J. L. Hayes, L. A.
M. Driscoll, Banker.
R. Vollmer, Escort.
M. D. Glover, Manager.
Ed. Biebeau, Watchman.
Ed. Vanouck, Sentry.

At the last meeting ten applications were received for membership, and from this on meetings will be held each week instead of each alternate week.

—S. G. Kitchen, of Vollmer, and C. H. Burt, a recent arrival in this section from Pennsylvania, were yesterday by Auditor Weir installed as agent and operator at this place. Mr. and Mrs. Gray will leave in a few days for Spokane where they will temporarily reside. They take with them the best wishes of many friends and in church and musical circles Mrs. Gray will be greatly missed. Mr. Kitchen, who is a married man, will be joined by his family in about a week.

CHRISTMAS AT LENVILLE.

At a meeting at the Beulah church Dec. 9 it was unanimously agreed to celebrate the birth of our Lord on next Christmas eve in the good old way, with literary and musical exercises and two large trees for the reception and public distribution of presents. We invite the cordial cooperation of the public. There will be preaching at the church next Lord's day at 11 o'clock a. m. and 3:30 p. m. and after each service an opportunity to practice music and songs for the Xmas time. The following committees were appointed:

Literary Program.—Prof. Robbins, Mrs. Mary Kinnier, B. Brigham.

Music and Singing.—Mrs. R. N. Lewis, Mrs. Nellie Brigham, Mrs. F. Hunter.

Santa Claus.—Ed. Overacker, Melvin Lovell.

Ways and Means.—Elias Tuckey, J. J. Keane.

Decoration.—Mrs. K. Keane, Helen Linehan, S. C. Hunter, Blanche Thomason, Mrs. Chas. Shoop, Mrs. Ella Pettijohn, Mrs. Rood, J. E. Lovell.

Reception of Presents.—Mrs. Robbins, Mrs. Kinnier, Mrs. Tuckey, Miss Pearle Hunter, Mrs. B. Brigham.

To Procure and Place Trees.—J. Mourning, John Morrow, J. P. Rood.

To Distribute Presents.—Misses Rosa Harris, Mabel Tuckey, Ada Pettijohn, Damie Woodside, Katie Keane, Elva Thomason, Mabel Armstrong.

Any assistance rendered the committees will be gratefully received. Come out in the true Christmas spirit and help us to have a good time.

—Attorney Samsel has been courting at Moscow this week.

—P. W. Lawrence, of Garfield, auditor for the Puget Sound Warehouse Co., was here Wednesday.

—Dernham & Kaufmann, one of the oldest business houses in Moscow, have disposed of their stock to R. C. Beach, of Lewiston, who will move it to that point. The members of the company will remove to San Francisco.

—The members of the medicine company which was here last week, succeeded in creating a little excitement before leaving town. The company was increased Thursday by the unexpected arrival of Mrs. Daly, the wife of the sole owner of the great aggregation. No sooner had she alighted from the cars than she began to make life miserable for the "doctor." But he was not the only one she had traveled far to interview, and finding Aneta, the colored girl, in her room unmercifully thrashed her—kicking her in the stomach until she was unconscious. Supposing her victim was done for she stated that she had taken a dose of poison. Medical aid was summoned and the cause of her condition was soon learned, and although pretty badly used up was able to be out the following evening doing rag-time specialties to the delight of our theater goers.

—Mr. McGill, a grain merchant of Peck, was a visitor in the city the first of the week.

—The Knights at their last meeting after work in the rank of knight indulged in a dainty lunch.

—Leet Stamps and Ed. Holloway returned Sunday from their extended hunting trip in the Weippe country.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Platt left Wednesday on the hurricane decks of cayuses for their Salmon river ranch.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hickman are the proud parents of a nine pound boy which put in an appearance at their home Sunday.

—Miss Electa Case, of Powell Valley, Oregon, a sister of Sherman Case, arrived the first of the week to assist in caring for Mrs. Case whose condition is critical.

—An exchange says the reason why more young men are learning trades in the penitentiary than outside of it is because fathers are trying to make lawyers, doctors and bookkeepers out of material intended for blacksmiths, carpenters and various other trades.

—An effort is being made to secure the signatures of 50,000 farmers and tax payers to a petition to congress to have the present duty on grain bags, which is about 1¼ cents on each bag, abolished. Owing to our system of handling grain the bulk of this unnecessary tax falls upon the Pacific coast farmers, and in the aggregate is an immense amount. It is estimated that patrons of Genesee warehouses during the past season, for this item of duty alone paid not less than $3,000 and it is believed that the price of grain bags, if sold at any margin of profit by dealers next season, will range at even a higher price than the season past. All should co-operate with the originators of this movement to assist in having the tax abolished. T. Driscoll has a copy of the petition which is being signed by all. Don't fail at an early date to have your name attached. An effort should also be made to bring every influence to bear upon our representatives in congress to lend their aid in the matter.

A New Year's Guide.

There is one book every one should make an effort to get for the new year. It contains simple and valuable hints concerning health, many amusing anecdotes, and much general information. We refer to Hostetter's Almanac, published by The Hostetter Co., Pittsburg, Pa. It will prove valuable to any household. Sixty employes are kept at work on this valuable book. The issue for 1901 will be over eight millions, printed in the the English, German, French, Welch, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish languages. It contains proof of the efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the great remedy prepared by the publishers, and is worthy of careful preservation. The almanac may be obtained free of cost, at any druggist or general dealer in the country.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hopp are expected home the first of the week.

—It is now claimed that W. J. Bryan will be elected a United States senator from Nebraska.

—The great Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, opens May 1st and will continue for six months.

—James Gibb of this place has been chosen captain of the University football team for the coming year.

—The members of the Methodist church are requested to be present in the Sunday morning service as far as possible.

—Mrs. C. R. Howard has on hand a number of Xmas books and other choice books suitable for presents. Call and see them.

—A nine pound boy is the cause of much rejoicing at the Easterbrooks home since Thursday morning. All hands doing nicely.

—While switching last evening the engine got off the track opposite the brewery causing the train crew considerable work.

—The tenth annual convention of the Idaho State Teachers' Association will be held at Mountain Home, Elmore county, Idaho, on December 26, 27 and 28, 1900. A rate of one fare will probably be charged for the round trip on all roads.

—The dead white which proved so trying to the eye at previous Expositions will not be in evidence at the Pan-American of 1901, at Buffalo. This festal city of colossal structures will be decorated in harmonious tints and colors, soothing to the sight and most beautiful in artistic effects.

—Father Zimmerman said a few days ago that his son-in-law, the duke of Manchester, would return to England and enter politics, his grace being a member of the house of lords. Manchester, having gone through bankruptcy, is not entitled to his seat. This is a blow that may almost kill father.—Seattle P.-I.

—The initial number of The Designer for 1901 from cover to cover is replete with helpful matters of interest, to feminine readers in particular. The winter fashions and millinery are charmingly set forth in artistic colors and in black and white, and the many other illustrations are of equal merit. Designs of great originality for masquerade and fancy costumes are given in this issue, and "Points on Dressmaking" contains the valuable seasonable advice commenced in December on the "Making of Fur Garments."

How to Cure Croup.

Mr. R. Gray, who lives near Amenia Duchess Co., N. Y., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. It is a fine children's remedy for croup and never fails to cure." When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has developed, it will prevent the attack. This should be borne in mind and a bottle of the Cough Remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale by all druggists.

I have a few choice and specially selected articles in watches, chains, and rings, suitable for presents for the approaching holidays, and invite inspection by any one wanting a good article at a reasonable price. ED. WALTERS.

Common Sense Talk with Women

If a person is ill and needs a medicine is it not wise to get one that has stood the test of time and has hundreds of thousands of cures to its credit?

A great many women who are ill try everything they hear of in the way of medicine, and this experimenting with unknown drugs is a constant menace to their already impaired health.

This seems to us very unwise, for there are remedies which are no experiments and have been known years and years to be doing only good.

Take for instance Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; for thirty years its record has been one unbroken chain of success. No medicine for female ills the world has ever known has such a record for cures.

It seems so strange that some people will take medicines about which they really know nothing, some of which might be, and are, really harmful; while on the other hand it is easily proved that over one million women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

We have published in the newspapers of the United States more genuine testimonial letters than have ever been published in the interest of any other medicine.

All this should, and does, produce a spirit of confidence in the hearts of women which is difficult to dislodge, and when they are asked to take something else they say, "No, we want Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which has been tried, and never found wanting, whose reliability is established far beyond the experimental stage."

We have thousands of letters like the following addressed to Mrs. Pinkham, showing that Monthly Suffering is Always Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, also Backache and Bearing-down pains.

"I suffered untold agony every month and could get no relief until I tried your medicine; your letter of advice and a few bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have made me the happiest woman alive. I shall bless you as long as I live."—Miss Jean Saul, Dover, Mich.

"Four years ago I had almost given up hope of ever being well again. I was afflicted with those dreadful headache spells which would sometimes last three or four days. Also had backache, bearing-down pains, leucorrhœa, dizziness, and terrible pains at monthly periods, confining me to my bed. After reading so many testimonials for your medicine, I concluded to try it. I began to pick up after taking the first bottle, and have continued to gain rapidly, and now feel like a different woman. I can recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the highest terms to all sick women."—Miss Rosa Helden, 135 W. Cleveland Ave., Canton, O.

Two Letters which Prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Will Remove Tumor and Cure Other Female Weakness.

"Two years ago I was a great sufferer from womb trouble and profuse flowing each month, and tumors would form in the womb. I had four tumors in two years. I went through treatment with doctors, but they did me no good, and I thought I would have to resort to morphine.

"The doctor said that all that could help me was to have an operation and have the womb removed, but I had heard of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine and decided to try it, and wrote for her advice, and after taking her Vegetable Compound the tumors were expelled and I began to get stronger right along, and am as well as ever before. Can truly say that I would never had gotten well had it not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound."—Mary A. Stahl, Watsontown, Pa.

"After following the directions given in your kind letter for the treatment of leucorrhea, I can say that I have been entirely cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies, and will gladly recommend them to my friends."—A. B. Davids, Binghamton, N. Y.

Another Case of Womb, Kidney and Bladder Trouble Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Friend—Two years ago I had child-bed fever and womb trouble in its worst form. For eight months after birth of babe I was not able to sit up. Doctors treated me, but with no help. I had bearing-down pains, burning in stomach, kidney and bladder trouble and my back was stiff and sore, the right ovary was badly affected and everything I ate distressed me, and there was a bad discharge.

"I was confined to my bed when I wrote to you for advice and followed your directions faithfully, taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Liver Pills and using the Wash, and am now able to do the most of my housework. I believe I should have died if it had not been for your Compound. I hope this letter may be the result of benefiting some other suffering woman. I recommend your Compound to every one."—Mrs. Mary Vaughn, Trimble, Pulaski Co., Ky.

Accidentally Killed.

New York, Dec. 9.—Joseph D. Stark, aged 24, was killed in the Twenty-second regiment armory while participating in an amateur circus being conducted for the benefit of the regiment. Stark's act was to ride a bicycle up an incline 200 feet long and 35 feet high at its end and then dropping his bicycle in a net jump into a tank of water 30 feet away. The tank was filled with a copper inset six feet deep in which the water was three feet deep. The tank proper stood nine feet high. Instead of falling directly into the center of the tank, Stark struck the farther edge of it head first and then fell into the tank apparently lifeless. Members of the regiment jumped in and quickly had Stark out of the water, but death had already taken place. His head had been crushed in.

A. A. Duchnim, manager of the sports, was arrested on the technical charge of homicide and later paroled. He said that when Stark appeared at the armory in the afternoon he appeared to be very nervous and spoke of it.

Boy Pardoned.

Philadelphia, Dec. 9.—After serving seven years of a 13 years' sentence in the eastern penitentiary here, James Parker of Elledale, N. J., has been released as innocent of the crime with which he was charged.

Russian Crops.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 11.—The official estimates for this winter and spring crop in 64 departments of European Russia are as follows: Wheat, 658,800,000 poods; rye, 1,401,700,000 poods, and oats, 721,600,000 poods.

Five hundred men were thrown out of work at Niles, Ohio, by the closing of the forge and plate mills departments of the American Sheet Steel company's mills.

Prosperity for 1901.

Indications point to great prosperity for the coming year. This is a sign of a healthy nature. The success of a country, as well as of an individual, depends upon health. If you have any stomach trouble try Hostetter's Stomach Bitters which cures dyspepsia, indigestion and biliousness.

Suicide of Uriah Burnap.

New York, Dec. 9.—Uriah C. Burnap, 66 years old, a wholesale dry goods merchant and prominent in Brooklyn affairs, committed suicide by shooting. He had grieved over the death of his friend, the late William L. Strong, and had worried over the condition of a sick daughter.

Impaired Digestion

May not be all that is meant by dyspepsia now, but it will be if neglected.

The uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, sourness of the stomach, and disagreeable belching may not be very bad now, but they will be if the stomach is suffered to grow weaker.

Dyspepsia is such a miserable disease that the tendency to it should be given early attention. This is completely overcome by which strengthens the whole digestive system.

THE HAY-PAUNCEFOTE TREATY

WILL LET IT STAND AS IT IS.

Great Britain Will Not Agree to Any More Concessions—Will Back Lisbon's Contentions Against the Hollanders.

London, Dec. 9.—The Nicaragua canal creates only mild interest in England. The cable dispatches dealing with the probable action of the United States senate in its deliberations are read by the general public with comparative interest and less understanding. The report that the British government has in any way indicated its willingness to accept the amended treaty is utterly false. In fact the indications, such as they are, point to Great Britain refusing to consider any amendment to what the foreign office already believes to be a generous concession.

To quote a high authority: "We would not have abrogated the Clayton-Bulwer treaty for any other nation in the world. Unless all the traditions of Brtish foreign policy are reversed, I fail to see how we can afford to give away any more advantages, even to America."

No official representation or inquiries have been made to the foreign office, where it is pointed out that t is impossible to form any final judgment until the senate acts. That war, or even a serious misunderstanding, could ever result from such a cause receives no official or public credence.

Though the trouble between Holland and Portugal can scarcely result in war, it is far more serious and interesting than generally regarded here. Great Britain is concerned in the affairs more deeply than appears on the surface, for the Associated Press learns that it is due to a British protest to Portugal that the exequatur of Herr Pott, the Dutch consul at Lorenzo Marques, was withdrawn and the visit of the British fleet to Portuguese waters is something more than a coincidence. The Lisbon press frankly declares it was intended as a warning demonstration to other nations to keep their hands off Portugal.

The British officials also do not hesitate to admit their government's readiness to back up the action which Portugal took at its request. Hence Holland can do little more than gracefully make the best of a bad job unless she receives the support of some of the great powers, which is a very remote contingency.

The withdrawal of The Netherlands minister at Lisbon and the Portuguese minister at The Hague, though officially belittled, is the sequence of serious friction, the details of which were known to the British secretary of state for foreign affairs, the marquis of Lansdowne, some weeks ago. The unusual action of sending the whole British channel squadron to Lisbon is regarded as being one of the boldest and most successful strokes of aggressive diplomacy in recent history. With Great Britain showing such a strong hand the absent ministers are likely to return to their posts shortly and the incident will probably only produce an effective impression of the fact that an alliance exists between Portugal and Great Britain. It was effected when the question of landing South African troops at Beira, Portuguese South Africa, came up, and was announced at the time in these dispatches. In this connection it is interesting to note that the French press regard the whole affair as a fresh menace to France, and that the Spanish papers interpret it similarly as regard their own country.

KILL THE GERMS!

Spread of Germs Through the Human System Instantly Checked by "5 DROPS."

"5 DROPS" is a germ killer; a preventive of disease; a builder of nerve force; a maker of pure blood; of healthy tissue. Where it is used there can be no disease. It is a natural foe to germ life. Left to themselves, without adequate measures of prevention, the germs which enter the weak human system multiply so rapidly that their numbers become beyond human comprehension, destroying the structures of the body until death comes to the victim's relief. "5 DROPS," if taken in time, is an absolute preventive of disease. IT is the only absolute cure for Rheumatism, driving out of the system forever the uric acid and other impurities which cause it in its various forms. It is taken up at once by the blood. Hence its work is quicker, surer and many times more effective. You should never be without it. Secure a bottle today. You will then be on the safe side. "5 Drops" is harmless and can be used by a child as well as by an adult. It is used with unfailing effect in the following diseases: Rheumatism, Sciatica, Backache, Neuralgia, Gout, Dyspepsia, Asthma, Hay Fever, Catarrh, Croup, La Grippe, Liver and Kidney Troubles, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Earache, Toothache, Heart Weakness, Paralysis, Creeping Numbness, Etc.

I WAS AT DEATH'S DOOR.

Gentlemen: I want to tell you what your "5 Drops" has done for me. I was for two years a sufferer of untold misery. My feet were swollen so I could not wear shoes and my hands were drawn so I could not open them, nor could I shut them. They cramped half shut. My husband had me try every medicine he could hear of and I still suffered untold agonies. Nothing I could get would ease my pain, until last November one of my neighbors had Rheumatism so bad he could not walk. He told my husband about "5 Drops" curing him, so he got me a dollar bottle, and in three weeks I walked without a cane and could use my hands, something I had not done for two years. I give all the praise to "5 Drops." My neighbors know that I was at death's door. Now I have used four bottles of "5 Drops" and can do my work with ease. I am still taking it sometimes. If this will do any good toward getting suffering people to use "5 Drops," use this as you please. If any one doubts this, send them to my friends and neighbors. ELISABETH C. FINN, 2857 North Lyon St. Springfield, Mo. Sept. 12, 1900.

WILL PATROL PHILIPPINES

OUR SMALLEST VESSELS.

Ordered on the Long Cruise—It Will Be a Record Breaker—Commander Rohrer Will Be in Command—Via the Mediterranean.

New York, Dec. 11.—Five little cockle shells from the navy are to travel more than 13,000 miles to the Philippines. The flagship of this mosquito fleet will be the gunboat Annapolis and her consorts will be the gunboat Vicksburg, the converted yacht Frolic and the tugboats Wompatuck and Piscataqua. They are to be sent in response to the request of Rear Admiral Remey for small vessels to do patrol duty in the Philippines. They will be examined this week by a board of inspection and if their condition is satisfactory orders to sail will be issued at once.

Commander Rohrer will be the senior officer. He and his ship are at Hampton roads, which is the rendezvous, and the other vessels will join the Annapolis in a week. The cruise will be one of the most interesting in the history of the naval service. Vessels of the size of the Wompatuck, the Piscataqua and the Frolic have never made so long a journey.

The Annapolis and the Vicksburg are of 1000 tons displacement. They use sail as well as steam. The Piscataqua, formerly the W. H. Brown, is an ocean going tug of 631 tons, for which the government paid $150,000 at the outbreak of the recent war. She carries a battery of six rapid fire guns.

The Wompatuck is also an ocean going tug of 462 tons and was known as the Atlas before the government paid $65,000 for her in 1898. She carries two rapid fire guns, and made a name for herself during the war by her work in the cable cutting expeditions off Santiago and Guantanamo.

The Frolic is a craft of 607 tons, and was formerly the pleasure yacht Comanche, owned by H. M. Hanna, a brother of Senator Hanna. When the government bought her she was in Lake Erie and she was brought down and fitted with a battery of four rapid fire guns.

With the exception of the Wompatuck these vessels are at the rendezvous or on their way there.

It is understood the gunboat Topeka, now at Naples, will join the mosquito fleet in the Mediterranean.

Carter's Last Hope Is Gone.

St. Louis, Dec. 11.—In a decision handed down by Judge Hook of the federal district court of Kansas, and concurred in by United States Circuit Judge Amos Thayer Monday afternoon, Oberlin M. Carter, formerly captain in the United States army, under sentence of five years' imprisonment for misappropriation of government funds while in charge of the harbor work of Savannah, Ga., is remanded to the custody of Robert W. McLaughly, warden of the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, where Carter has been confined, the court overruling the petitioner's demurrer on the habeas corpus writ issued some time ago and sustaining the rule of the trial courts, together with the subsequent action of President McKinley, who set aside 12 of the charges under which he was convicted, but made no change of the sentence imposed by the court martial.

Tod Sloan Barred.

San Francisco, Dec. 9.—President Thomas H. Williams of the California Jockey club today sent a cablegram to England regarding the status of the case of Jockey Tod Sloan.

"If the representatives from London wire to the effect that Sloan will be refused a license by the English jockey club next year," Williams said, "I will not allow him to ride at the Oakland track."

"The California Jockey club recognizes all decisions ruling off owners, trainers and jockeys."

That Agreement of Powers.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The text of the agreement reached between the powers at Pekin has been received at the state department, and is now in process of translation from the cipher code. It is not definitely known whether the acceptance by any of the powers other than that of Japan has been had, but assurances have been received that the remainder of the powers will promptly ratify the agreement.

Japs Leaving Hawaii.

Honolulu, Dec. 11.—Statistics of immigration for the past few months show that there is a considerable movement of orientals away from the islands. During the past three months the departures of Japanese for Japan have exceeded the arrivals by over 700 and over 400 more Chinese have gone home than have come here.

Gold for Silver.

Calcutta, Dec. 11.—Half a million in gold was shipped to London December 10 for the payment of silver purchased for the coinage of rupees. The total purchases for this account since February is £4,700,000.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

TRADE REPORT.

Bradstreet's report for last week is as follows:

There was a quieter tone and a reduced volume of business doing at wholesale in many lines, but this is not usual at this season, and is partly balanced by a larger interest in retail and holiday distribution. Weather conditions are still a drawback to the trade in winter weight goods, but it is notable that a better report comes from the northwest than for some weeks past. Southern trade advices remain good, but retail business at eastern markets is still reported backward. In the larger lines of trade new features are not numerous. Textiles are quiet and rather dull, with a general suspension, awaiting the opening of the spring season. Wool and woolens are still quiet. Cotton is irregular, and the market is at a balance pending the publication of the next government crop report, which, however, is expected to approximate 9,750,000 bales. The high cost of raw cotton has not yet been equaled by the advance in manufactured goods. A hopeful feature this week was the taking of a large lot of brown cottons for export for China. The higher trend of values in November has been duplicated in the first week in December and cereals, long backward in this respect, have led the advance, which, however, has not been steadily maintained.

Finished products monopolize the activity in the iron and steel trades, with bars, plates, sheets and bridge material most active. Even in finished lines, however, there is less reported doing in new business, but Pittsburg and Chicago mills are reported sold ahead 60 to 90 days. At Chicago plates are scarce and a premium is offered for early deliveries of galvanized and black sheets. The rail market is active and 60,000 tons were sold at Chicago this week, while the total amount on the rail mill books is claimed to aggregate 1,000,000 tons. While good sales of pig are reported at some markets, business as a whole in this line is quieter, without, however, any lack of firmness. Much is heard about forthcoming reductions in cost of ore, and this undoubtedly checks orders ahead, but higher prices for finished are talked of and southern furnaces are reported heavily sold ahead. There is little or nothing doing in Bessemer pig and billets. Among the other metals copper is active and firm, but tin is weaker. The shoe trade is cheerful and eastern manufacturers report jobbers steady buyers at the slight advance made some weeks ago. Snow and wet weather are helping retail trade in shoes and rubbers in northern markets. A better report comes from the flour milling industry, but the demand is hardly what was expected. Sugar is higher for raws, but the refining branch presents the old appearance of irregularity, and another price war is foreshadowed.

Wheat (including flour) shipments for the week aggregate 3,432,159 bushels, against 3,497,880 bushels last week and 5,133,331 bushels in the corresponding week of 1899. From July 1 to date this season wheat exports are 81,231,426 bushels against 94,301,273 bushels last season.

Failures for the week number 214, against 184 last week, 220 in this week a year ago and 237 in 1898.

Canadian failures number 27, as against 28 last week, 31 in this week a year ago and 29 in 1898.

Wheat.

Portland.—Open quotations in wheat are anywhere around 53½c and 54c, and sales of Walla Walla are made at 54½c and 55c. Bluestem is nominally 57c.

Tacoma.—Wheat—Quiet and unchanged; bluestem, 57c; club, 54c.

Fighting at Manila.

Manila, Dec. 10.—While the captures of supplies and the occupation of new points are quite numerous the engagements involving actual fighting are comparatively few. Apparently the insurgents are falling back at all contested points, sacrificing their possessions in most cases and satisfied to save themselves.

A detachment of the Forty-seventh infantry from the island of Catanduanes, off the southeast cost of Luzon, relinquished an attempt to land near Pandan. On anchoring the Americans were fired upon by 60 riflemen and after a short engagement they cut the anchor chain and sailed for Catanduanes with two killed and two wounded. The names have not yet been received here.

Portland Electric Railway Sold.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 10.—The property of the East Side Railway company was today sold to Fred S. Morris for $499,499, subject to court costs, which will amount to between $20,000 and $21,000. The sale was in pursuance of a decree entered in the United States court in November in a suit by Morris & Whitehead against the East Side Railway company to foreclose mortgages against the railway company. The property consists of 23 miles of electric railway, with the equipment.

The Retail Clerks of Victor and Cripple Creek, Colo., have hopes of securing the 6 o'clock closing the first of the year. The present agreement with the merchants for 7 o'clock closing ends and a promise of the 6 o'clock closing has been made.

The coal miners at Roswell, Colo., to the number of 160, have organized into a local union of the United Mine Workers of America.

Carnegie's company, according to recent stock quotations, is valued at $408,000,000.

Pay Stopped, They Struck.

New Bedford, Mass., Dec. 9.—A big mass meeting of weavers of the Acushnet and Hathawa mills has voted to strike. The strike is due to trouble over stoppage of pay. Four hundred men are affected.

The Arbuckles have advanced the price of refined sugar five points.

At Sofia, Bulgara, the cabinet has resigned, owing to ministerial differences.

George Von L. Meyer of Boston has been named by the president as ambassador to Italy.

Secretary Gage's report has made an excellent impression in financial circles. A Berlin financier when shown the figures exclaimed: "It is magnificent and confirms the condition of the American money market as indicated by the various loans of Europe during the year."

A serious cavein occurred recently at the Hay Aug mine, near Dunmore. It is reported that 51 men are entombed. Great excitement prevails. The rescuing party, after nearly three hours' hard work, succeeded in digging into the chamber in which the men were entombed. All were rescued, not one being seriously injured.

According to a report that reached Wall street Vickers' Sons & Maxim, Ltd., of England, have instituted negotiations for the purchase of the Midvale Steel works and the Cramps Ship Building company of Philadelphia. It is believed to be the purpose of the English company to secure a share of the United States government contracts for warships, armor plate and ordnance.

Storms have been sweeping over the British coasts and the ships in the channel have had rough experiences. Several minor wrecks have been reported. The steamer Ross Gull of Plymouth foundered off the island of Jersey. Her passengers were saved, but a boat containing nine of her crew is missing.

An engine on the Grand Trunk railroad near Inglewood Junction, Ontario, crashed into a handcar on which were five section men going to work. All five were killed instantly. The dead are John Allen, foreman; Oliver Ellis, Neil McArthur, Arthur Frame, John Tettze. All the men lived in Cheltenham. The driver and stoker of the engine escaped unhurt.

A dispatch has been received from General Funston giving an account of a two hours' fight in the woods of Santo Domingo between an American force and 500 rebels, commanded by Landico. The American force, consisting of 30 natives, commanded by Lieutenant Jernigan, attacked the rebels, who retreated, leaving on the field 16 men killed, including the rebel leader Aguilar and an American negro. It was at first thought the latter was named Fagin, a deserter from the Twenty-fourth infantry, but this turned out to be a mistake. Not one of Jernigan's men was wounded.

The czar's recovery is slow, but the royal patient seems certain to regain health.

Orders have come from Washington forbidding the sailing of transports from San Francisco on Sunday hereafter.

A fire at the arsenal at Cherbourg has destroyed several workshops and a number of historic relics, including Napoleon's launch.

Dr. Thompson of Williamsport, Pa., and Adam Bailey of Panther, W. Va., were shot and kiled by James H. Chambers, a prominent merchant of the latter place.

Richard Baker, proprietor of the New Queens hotel on Leicester square, London, and other hotels, has been declared a bankrupt. His liabilities are estimated at £650,000.

Joseph Manley of Augusta, Me., the republican national committeeman, will not accept the office of commissioner of internal revenue to succeed the late Commissioner Wilson.

Henry J. Hayden, vice president of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad, jumped or fell from the fourth story window of his residence in New York City, recently, and was killed.

The Alton smelting plant of the Helvetia Copper company, 35 miles south of Tucson, Ariz., was burned recently. Loss, $100,000; partially insured. Two hundred and fifty men will be thrown out of employment.

A report from St. Luke's hospital, N. Y., says that physicians were performing an operation on Actor Roland Reed and that his condition was critical. This is the third operation which the actor has undergone.

Admiral Kautz has received orders to sail without delay to South America and in accordance with these instructions preparations were hurriedly made at San Diago for both the Iowa and Philadelphia to leave.

Under the patronage of the United States Philippine commission an experiment farm will be started some 200 miles from Manila, where the growth of all sorts of seeds and plants from this country will be tested.

A model lodging house along the lines mapped out by Mayor Harrison for a municipal lodging house, for the temporary accommodation of the worthy poor of Chicago, is to be built and operated by the Chicago Aid and Relief society.

The Illinois supreme court has denied a petition for a hearing in the case of former banker E. S. Dreyer, who was convicted last March of the embezzlement of $316,0000 of the funds of the West Chicago park board, of which he was treasurer.

The bill authorizing Representative Boutwell of Maine as a captain on the retired list upon his resignation from congress was favorably reported from house committee on naval affairs, over which Mr. Boutwell presided until his present affliction.

The secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, has announced in the house of commons that civil government will shortly be established in the Transvaal and Orange river colony. Sir Alfred Milner, he said, would be appointed governor of both.

It is announced at Vancouver, B. C., that the government will cancel naturalization papers issued in that province to some 3,000 Japanese on the ground that these papers were fraudulently obtained, the applicants not having resided in Canada during the statutory period of three years.

The complete report of the deep waterways commission was sent to the house of representatives recently by Secretary Root. The project is one for a deep waterway between the Great Lakes and Atlantic tide water. The estimated cost of a 21 foot waterway is given at $206,358,000 and of a 30 foot waterway at $317,284,500.

At Pekin.

Pekin, Dec. 9.—Captains Wingate and Ryder, who accompanied the expedition to Kalgan, have returned. During their absence they visited several places to which the Germans did not go, but they encountered no opposition. They learned that some 12 Europeans, mostly Swedish and Norwegian missionaries, besides Captain Watts-Jones, were massacred at Kwei-hua-cheng by orders of the tao-tai and that 100 native Christians had also been put to death. The details of the outrages are most revolting.

Captains Wingate and Ryder visited the Belgian station, where the priests in charge and 3000 converts had sustained a prolonged siege by Boxers and imperial troops. They were informed that other stations further west are still besieged, not only by Boxers, but by Chinese troops, acting under orders from the authorities, and this is spite of the assurances by the plenipotentiaries that the government is doing its utmost to suppress outrages.

Chinese carrying concealed weapons are arrested daily in Pekin. Natives allege that December 19 has been fixed as the date of the rising against the foreigners in the capital. No alarm is felt, however, as the troops are sufficiently numerous to deal with a rising should one occur.

Jim Hill on Subsidy Bill.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—President J. J. Hill of the Great Northern railroad was recently the guest of the Bankers' club at the monthly dinner. Mr. Hill in the first part of his remarks merely alluded to the subsidy bill by saying that he had made some inquiry concerning the building of boats in this country and upon the Clyde, and found that he could have them constructed in this country at a much lower figure than in Scotland. This, he declared, did not look much as though a subsidy was needed for shipping. If such a measure was passed it would, in his opinion, assist most those who did not need assistance, and he mentioned the greyhounds of the ocean as the most likely to be benefited.

He branched out into a talk on the manner of controlling railroads by legislation and declared the matter was one which none but experts understood, and that railroads could no more be properly handled in this way than a broken limb could be set by statute.

They Look for War.

London, Dec. 10.—Special dispatches from The Hague report the feeling there as one of alarm at the prospect of an Anglo-American-Portuguese combination, which might snatch the Dutch seaboard or seize Java.

It is reported at the Dutch capital that the possibility of war with England has even been discussed by the cabinet council. Queen Wilhelmina will give a dinner in honor of Mr. Kruger, but he has abandoned all hope of anff effective result of his visit to Europe, although he does not despair of meeting Emperor Nicholas, possibly on the Riveria.

Ex-Champion Is Destitute.

New York, Dec. 11.—Paddy Ryan, one time champion of the prize ring, is destitute. He has lost his speech and is suffering from Bright's disease. His friends have started a subscription for his benefit. The list is headed by John L. Sullivan. Sullivan's fight that made him champion was with Ryan. Afterwards Ryan traveled with him as his sparring partner.

Chicago building trades fight is still on, and it is probable that the men's side will be materially strengthened in a few days, as the "industrials" are talking of walking out. Clashes between union men and scabs are of frequent occurrence. Bosses appear to be as determined as ever to disrupt the B. T. C. The woodworkers' strike is also still in progress and being bitterly fought.

The Federal Trades Assembly has decided to declare a general sympathetic strike as a result of the trouble between the International Cigarmakers Union and the Resistencias of Tampa, Fla.

The shoe manufacturers of New England are squealing. They are talking again about forming a trust or combine of some kind, because they are being squeezed by the machinery, leather and other trusts.

The census returns of the three incorporated towns of the Potlatch, Kendrick, Troy and Julietta, have been received and have caused no little surprise to the citizens of the respective towns. Kendrick is given a population of 490, Juliaetta 287 and Troy 283. The towns fall short of their general rating about 250.

A report is current in the Potlatch that the Lawrence Bros. of Garfield have purchased the Juliaetta tramway and warehouse and will extend their business into the Potlatch. It is said they will make a strong bid for the fruit business, contemplating the building of a frost proof warehouse next spring.

On the fast mail on the Oregon Short Line, as the train was approaching Cokeville, Wyo., the side rod of the fireman's side fell down. Instantly Engineer Smith vacated the seat box, when the main rod on his side broke and swinging around tore the cab, a jacket and steampipes into shreds and ripped out one side of the bridge over which the train was passing.

A terrific rock slide occurred in the Northern Pacific railroad cut just south of Stuart last week which has stopped trains from running any further than Stuart. More than 1000 tons of rock was carried down 50 feet and buried the railroad track 15 feet in depth and mor than 100 feet in length. The rock came down with such force that it shook many buildings in town. It will be several days before the trains will be able to pass through the cut in safety. The slide was caused by the heavy rains that have been falling there recently.

F. A. Douty, of Independence, sold 50,000 pounds of wool last Saturday to the Albany woolen mill.

Last Wednesday was the anniversary of the Eugene militia company. The membership has increased from 43 to 60.

J. E. Hough shipped at LaGrande last Monday a carload of onions for the Philippines and a carload of apples for Liverpool.

Militia companies of Albany, Eugene, Woodburry and Roseburry will play a series of football games about Christmas time.

The Benton mill, which was compelled to shut down some time ago on account of a broken casting, renewed operations last Friday.

The population of certain incorporated places in Oregon having more than 2,000 but less than 25,000 inhabitants follows: Albany, city, 3,149; Ashland, city, 2,635; Astoria, city, 8,381; Baker City, city, 6,663; Eugene, city, 3,236; Grant's Pas, city, 2,290; LaGrande, city, 2,991; Oregon City, city, 3,944; Pendleton, town, 4,406; Salem, city, 4,258; The Dalles, city, 3,542.

MONTANA.

There are 12 lodges of Elks in Montana, with a total membership of over 1,000.

The Montana State Teachers' association will meet in Butte December 27, 28 and 29.

Watson E. Gally has been elected chancellor commander of Mount Parnell lodge, K. of P., at Anaconda.

Mike Campbell, employed at the state capitol, fell four stories recently in the elevator, and snows every sign of recovery. That Campbell was not killed is something out of the ordinary.

County commissioners elected at the recent election will not take office until the first of November, 1901, contrary to the general belief as to the time they were supposed to assume the duties of that position. Attorney General Nolan holds to that effect in an opinion.

Miss Martha Dilworth, of Carbon county, will be the next superintendent of schools of that county. Her certificate, which was revoked by the present county superintendent, Katherine Feeley, will be returned to her and when the time comes she will take her office.

A band of about 5,000 sheep belonging to William Turner, Jr., of the Marias, which drifted away from the herders during the recent snowstorm, were recovered after a four days' search, excepting a few which were destroyed by wolves.

Last week the round house at Blackfoot was discovered in flames and was totally destroyed, together with two engines, a rotary snow plow and much other valuable property. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is thought to have started from a spark from an engine which was run into the building.

The legislature will very likely be called upon this winter to amend the anti-gambling law by making the offense a misdemeanor instead of a felony. What threats of the penitentiary have failed to accomplish may perhaps be accomplished by fine and imprisonment in jail—especially the former. For frequent and heavy fines are apt to eat up all the profits of the game.

James Shields of Missoula, a bookkeeper was shot in the back last week by his wife. The bullet lodged in the muscles of the back, where it was extracted by a surgeon who said that the wounded man was not necessarily dangerously injured. Owing to the prominence of Mr. Shields and wife the shooting caused a sensation in Missoula. Mr. Shields is a nephew of the late Marcus Daly, and Mrs. Shields is the daughter of respected parents residing in Bonner.

According to the report of David Hilger, sheep commissioner for Fergus county, that industry had a good year in his jurisdiction. The number of sheep on hand March 1 last was 590,652 and there have been brought into the county since that date from other states 4,400. The number of lambs docked since March is 268,397, and the number of sheep and lambs slaughtered, sold and shipped out of the county has been 131,516.

The receipts of the Montana state auditor's office for the fiscal year ending November 30 amounted to $59,023.53, which is about $10,000 in excess of the receipts for the preceding fiscal year. With the exception of a small amount received from a building and loan association, all the money received by the auditor came from the life and fire insurance companies doing business in that state.

THE famous "permit system" in the Coeur 'd Alene mining district has been succeeded by the "employment bureau" plan, and the cure seems as bad as the ache—by the element of that section that are not willing to be satisfied. Under the new system a man wishing work must go to the employment agent where a blank form, containing numerous questions, is made out. The list of questions if properly answered will give a complete pedigree of the applicant. If previously employed in the Coeur 'd Alene mining district the applicant must state on what property and give cause of leaving. The application is numbered, and the name of the man, together with the kind of work he wants, is placed in a book. When an order comes from a mine to furnish a certain number of men for specified classes of work, the employment agent takes from the list of men on file who are seeking work of that nature the required number and places their numbers on a blackboard in front of the employment office, which is situated in Wallace requesting them to call at the office. If they report in time to reach the mine in the time specified in the order they are given a letter to the foreman of the mine informing him that they have been employed by the agency. If the time by which the man should leave to reach his destination in time to go to work arrives without the man called for having appeared, another is hastily chosen to go in his stead, and he will have to wait for another opportunity. The Wallace Press states: "Thus far the only genuine complaint is that there is not enough demand from the mines for men, which is owing to the fact that there have been fewer men than usual quitting recently. The mines get the men wanted at the very hour they need them, and the men get as good a chance for work as though they could be at all the mines at the same time waiting, and they have no trouble beyond making the first application." The new system may have its faults, yet some method must followed out to keep tab on those who are working in the different mines. Rioting in the Coeur d' Alenes must and will be restricted and all law-abiding citizens should co-operate in any honest effort intended to promote peace and prosperity in this great camp.

How We Have Grown in a Century.

The actual increase of population in the ten years is about 13,225,000.

The rate of increase in the period from 1880 to 1890 averaged about 2½ per cent. each year. The rate for the past ten years has been about 2 1-10 per cent. annually. This diminution in the rate is, in considerable part, due to the diminished volume of immigration. The individual effectiveness of the American population is so high that, in respect to material resources and power, it will be conceded by every one that the United States is well in the forefront of the nations. The structure of the British empire is such that, in a comparison of population, commerce, and other statistical data, there is no more reason for adding Australia to England than for adding Mexico to the United States. Our population at the beginning of the nineteenth century was, in round figures, 4,300,000 white people, and 1,000,000 negroes, being 5,308,483. Curiously enough, we had almost exactly the same population at that time as Ireland, which in 1801 had 5,395,456. After gaining very rapidly for four decades, Ireland since 1845 has declined steadily, until now it has a population of about 4,500,000. The comparison of our national position at the beginning and the end of the nineteenth century makes it clear enough that, from the standpoint of the world at large, the progress of the United States has been the most noteworthy feature of the age. When France assisted us to gain our independence, her population was at least five or six times as great as ours. Ours is now just twice as great as hers. Ten years ago our population was about 25,000,000 more than that of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland; and now it is about 35,000,000 more. In 1910, unless normal conditions are much disturbed, we shall have a population of 90,000,000, while the British Islands will have about 44,000,000. And we shall thus have more than twice as many people as the mother-country.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for December.

On Her Feet

All day long and racking with pain from her head to her heels. That is what many a self-supporting girl must experience. On those days each month, when in other circumstances she would go to bed, she must still be at the desk or counter and struggle through the day as best she may.

Backache, headache, and other pains caused by womanly diseases are perfectly cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the cause of these pains. It establishes regularity, dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

PAIN ALL GONE.

"I have taken your medicine with the greatest satisfaction," writes Mrs. George Riehl, of Lockport Station, Westmoreland Co., Penna. "Your 'Favorite Prescription' has cured me of uterine trouble that I suffered from for fifteen years, and painful monthly troubles. I can honestly say I can work a whole day and not get tired, and before taking Dr. Pierce's medicines I always felt tired. My pain is all gone and I feel like a new person. I suffered with headache all the time, but have no headache now since taking your medicine. I have been cured of troubles that I suffered from for fifteen years, and the best doctor in the state could not cure me."

BELIEVES THE BIBLE.

Reverend Professor Going to Siberia to Prove the Whole Earth Was Covered by Deluge.

Rev. Dr. G. S. Gregory, editor of the Homiletic Review, has just received a letter from Rev. Dr. George Frederick Wright, of Oberlin college, Ohio, which discloses the object of a trip the professor has started to make through Siberia. He is considered an authority on the glacial period of the earth's geological history and refuses to accept the theory that the deluge merely submerged the regions round about Palestine. He believes that when the author of the Pentateuch said the waters covered "the face of the earth" he meant it.

Prof. Wright will go through the mountains of Siberia, far from where men ordinarily go. There he will make excavations. He will dig up the earth until, with the geologist's eye, he discovers just that stratum which should have been deposited during the period in which the deluge took place. Next he will explore the Caucasus range, pass down to ancient Ararat, where tradition says the ark landed, and emerge from his travels somewhere near Smyrna, Asia Minor.

If in all the mountain regions he explores Dr. Wright finds the remains of the sea for which he looks he will conclude that the deluge was a historical fact.

Just Saved His Life.

It was a thrilling escape that Charles Davis of Bowerston, O., lately had from a frightful death. For two years a severe lung trouble constantly grew worse until it seemed he must die of consumption. Then he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery and lately wrote: "It gave instant relief and effected a permanent cure." Such wonderful cures have for 25 years proven it's power to cure all throat, chest and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at Kennedy's.

How to Cure Croup.

Mr. R. Gray, who lives near Amenia Duchess Co., N. Y., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. It is a fine children's remedy for croup and never fails to cure." When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has developed, it will prevent the attack. This should be borne in mind and a bottle of the Cough Remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale by all druggists.

Many people worry because they believe they have heart disease. The chances are that their hearts are all right but their stomachs are unable to digest food. The Boise Clipper says the spoils will be equally divided between the three parties by the solons who are now arriving on the ground.

Horsemen for Washington, Oregon, Idaho and British Columbia met at Portland Saturday and organized the Pacific Northwest Racing Association, elected officers and made dates for the various race meetings for the year 1901. The Lewiston meeting will occur October 7 to 12.

A. Vinson arrived yesterday from his granite quarries on Snake river near Wild Goose Rapids. He recently took a force of experienced workmen to the quarries and during the winter a large quantity of the stone will be dressed on the ground to supply orders already received.—Tribune

The proposition to create Clearwater county out of parts of Shoshone and Nezperce meets with the approval of Shoshone county, provided enough territory is taken into the new county. It is their wish that the St. Joe river country should be included in the new county, otherwise prefer to leave the county as it is.

Two young men, Henry Tomlinson and the other named Green, living near Payette, at a dance last week quarreled over the affections of a young lady. With a knife Greene made three severe wounds in Thompson's anatomy. Thompson, however, is reported as being several points ahead in the affections of the young lady.

By the terms of settlement of the case of Minnie J. Lemman and two minor children against the Northern Pacific Railway company for $50,000 damages on account of the death of Mrs. Lemman's husband who was killed in a wreck near Vollmer last January, the plaintiffs are to receive $6000 and costs of suit in lieu of all claims against the company. The case was compromised.

We learn from our exchanges that immigration is pouring into south Idaho this winter. This is probably partially due on account of the work of Idaho's immigration agent who is doing what he can to settle up that section. Idaho has a large amount of rich vacant lands and a great deal of it is in the northern half. Come to Idaho, you down easter, while there is a show for you to get hold of something.

A new townsite is to be established on the reservation near the Keeney school house on Beeman prairie. G. M. Lindsay from Willowa is now erecting a store building there. Keenney school house will be moved to the new location and an effort will be made to have the postoffice at Beeman or the one at Lookout abandoned and established in the new town. The Methodists have a church in course of construction.

A dispatch from Milwaukee states the the purchase of more than 10,000 acres of government pine lands in the northern part of Idaho by a syndidate of which Governor Schofield is the head has been completed. The tract is a compact one in Shoshone county, lying on the north fork of the Clearwater river. It is said to contain over 250,000,000 feet of white pine timber and cost the purchasers in the neighborhood of $60,000. A sawmill will be built on the tract next year by the syndicate.

We have seen a few press references as to the next United States Senator from Idaho. NEWS is surprised. Why, it will be Dubois. Why not? Did not the silver forces say so in the drama at Pocatello last fall? To be sure Fred T. had but a handful of silver republicans to give, but the promise must be kept and Dubois will be the next Senator. The bee may buzz and buzz, and still buzz, in the hats of some of our would-be statesmen, but the NEWS will wager its empty ink-keg that the ex-senator will bob up serenely. He knows how to play the cards.

Treasurer Lewis Hall, of the P. & I. N. road states that the road will reach Council by January 1st and the Seven Devils by September. Owing to the open winter the company has been able to push the work, but after reaching Council Mr. Lewis said he expected operations will have to cease until spring, when they will be resumed and conducted with all the expedition possible. The country that the road passes through is proving richer and richer in mineral wealth, so that there are better prospects than ever of a heavy traffic when the entire road is built.

The copper mines in Idaho—particularly in Custer and Washington counties—are receiving considerable attention. In the Seven Devils country there is probably the greatest showing of copper ore ever mining man looked upon, in several instances there being cropping of hundreds of feet in length and some of them running up to 100 feet in width. A small start in shipping ore was made this year and at least $200,000 worth was exported. When railroad transportation is improved mining people believe the camps of Idaho will produce more ore than any other state in the Union.

State Senator-elect Moody of Orofino passed on up the line headed for the state capital. Kendrick Echo editor says he occupied two seats in a first-class coach and wore the air of a man traveling on a legislative pass. But then populists never accept passes—hardly ever. The Dr. is the whole push up Orofino way, evidently. Just watch his smoke at Boise this winter. There will be a hot time in the old town—a senator to be elected, new counties to be formed, new laws made for the sake of immortalizing the new members, and—well, it's the last chance the fusionists will have to become great.

The railroad building in Idaho for next year promises to be large. Late rumors say the Burlington will surely build across the Rockies and will not miss Genesee many miles—probably strike Lewiston. The Oregon Short Line, so says the Caldwell Tribune, is about to inaugurate a season of extensive railroad construction in fair Idaho, beginning with the biggest piece of railroad work in the intermountain region in recent years—a line 90 miles long—extending from Blackfoot to Huston, the central point of the Big Lost River country. A continuation of this line into the Salmon river region by way of Challis is a part of the plan. The road will traverse lava beds and then enter a fine farming country. It is said the ultimate destination of the road will be Lewiston, and thus southern and northern Idaho will be connected. And there is to be railroad extension made in Kootenai county, the extreme north county in the state. The dawn of the new century will find Idaho up with the sister states improving and building.

The organization of the Weyerhauser timber companies to operate in the Clearwater white pine belt is reported as follows in the Seattle P.-I.:

George S. Long, resident manager of the Weyerhauser Timber Syndicate has filed articles of incorporation of the Clearwater Timber Company and the Humbird Lumber Company. Mr. Long states that the two corporations would do business in the state of Idaho, and that both were entirely separate and distinct from the Weyerhauser Timber Syndicate. The capital stock of the Humbird Lumber Company is $500,000, divided into 5,000 shares of $100 each. The limit of existence is fifty years. The other company is also capitalized at $500,000. In each case the objects of incorporation specified in the articles are the same. They are authorized to buy and sell timber lands, do a general logging, manufacturing and lumbering business, operate sawmills, planing mills, establish lumber yards, clear out and improve rivers and streams, construct telegraph and telephone lines in this state, build and operate barges, steamboats and other water craft, engage in mining, milling, wharfing and docking and construct water flumes and irrigating canals. Weyerhauser and the other incorporators have recently bought up a large area of timber lands on the Clearwater river and in other parts of Idaho, and it is to manufacture this timber that the two companies are incorporated.

The arid lands of south Idaho receive some attention from capitalists. A prominent man said last week: "The action of the irrigation congress at Chicago, recently, I think, will have the effect of securing a government appropriation for surveys for canals and reservoirs, and maybe more. But probably there will be no appropriation for the building of reservoirs for some time to come. The eastern people have the votes and we have the land. Till the people come together, come to an understanding, the east will look with disfavor upon a government irrigation project—but once let them fully understand the mattter in all its phases and I think they will become as enthusiastic as we of the west."

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poison in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run-down feeling. It gave me new strength and good appetite. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents at Kennedy's drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

In India, the land of famine, thousands die because they cannot obtain food In America, the land of the plenty, many suffer and die because they cannot digest the food they eat. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. It instantly relieves and radically cures all stomach troubles.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Among the tens of thousands who have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for colds and la grippe during the past few years, to our knowledge, not a single case has resulted in pneumonia. Thos. Whitfield & Co., 240 Wabash avenue, Chicago, one of the most prominent retail druggists in that city, in speaking of this says: "We recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for la grippe in many cases, as it not only gives prompt and complete recovery, but also counteracts any tendency of la grippe to result in pneumonia. For sale by all druggists.

There is no pleasure in life if you dread going to the table to eat and can't rest at night on account of indigestion. Henry Williams, of Boonville, Ind., says he suffered that way for years, till he commenced the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and adds, "Now I can eat anything I like and all I want and sleep soundly every night." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will digest what you eat.

Count Boni de Castellane refers to rich Americans as "pig merchants whose highest ambition should be to supply French aristocrats with money." The craze of many American girls for a title probably seems to this little ex-insurance agent sufficient reason for gratuitously insulting all Americans. Happily, he has done much to cure the craze.

In competition with European manufacturers a Pittsburg concern has obtained an order for $5,000,000 worth of rolling stock for South African railways. The American company made a bid a third lower than any other company, but in the matter of time beat the best European bidder by eight months. This winning of big contracts by Americans is getting to be almost a matter of course and is not calculated to improve the frame of mind of the British manufacturer.

A facetious paragraph-writer suggests that it will soon be necessary for some one to start a daily geography in order to keep up with the changes going on in the world. He might with as much justification have said that we need a daily history, or a daily text-book in natural philosophy, for the same reason. Events now move so rapidly that any book of information gets out of date much more quickly than at any other period in the world's history. For the present, however, it will be the daily lesson in geography rather than the daily geography that will chiefly concern the rising generation.

The Superintendent of Schools in the Philippines has called on the principal educational institutions of the country to send teachers to the archipelago. Salaries will be $900 per annum and upward, and all traveling expenses will be paid by the Government. The teacher must bind himself or herself to remain in the Philippines in the service for three years. An effort is making to Americanize education in the islands. The Spanish system, or, rather, want of system, is replaced by a more up-to-date method. One of the oddities noted is the reading of the Declaration of Independence on the Fourth of July. It seems that co-education will not be undertaken at once. Girls take kindly to learning, while the boys are slow. Whether this inequality persists beyond childhood does not appear. The field is not very tempting. But teachers with a relish for adventure may find the three-year contract desirable.

The daughter of one of America's richest men confessed to a London newspaper the other day that she was not happy. She is soon to be married and has countless millions at her command. But there is still something lacking. "Can one buy happiness with money?" she said. "Are there not many things to make us quite unhappy which money cannot change, and then are not the spoiled ones more sensitive to the principles of life than the others? No; I am not happy, and you may tell it to all and sundry who envy me." When her questioner observed that she was a philosopher, she replied: "Not a philosopher; only a thinker. It is poverty which perhaps taught others to think; I learned it through wealth." Pleasure without happiness—it is the old woe of the children of fortune. When men and women learn that happiness is an inward grace and not an outer thing they are on the way to it. The pursuit of wealth to the neglect of all else is a debauch of materialism and the consequences are seen in an exhaustion of spiritual resources which leaves the man a hungry pauper. It is not surprising that this poor girl is not happy.

The tragedy of "Leah, the Forsaken," and of Mariana, "of the moated grange," is being daily re-enacted throughout the country. Desertion of wives and of children is of frequent occurrence. On one day in the Quarter Sessions Court at Philadelphia, there were 225 desertion cases on the docket. Dejected women with dependent children fill the court rooms of the country. In most of the States it is easy for a man to shift his family burden with impunity. When it becomes difficult he has merely to step across a State line. The whereabouts of the deserter are usually unknown and the law, if there be a law on the statute books of his State, is easily evaded. The severest measures that have been taken in any State to abate the evil are those embodied in the truant fathers act of Ohio (1890), which provides as a penalty for non-support imprisonment at hard labor for a term not less than three nor more than twelve months unless the delinquent shall give bonds to the amount of $1,000 that he will pay regularly into court, for the sustenance of his family, such a sum as may be decreed by the judge. The humane society of Cincinnati in the course of the past year has collected $14,000 from recalcitrant husbands for deserted wives by virtue of this enactment; but it is only a short walk across the bridge from Cincinnati to Covington, and once in Kentucky the truant can defy the law. Federal legislation cannot be had on this matter without a constitutional amendment, and therefore it is suggested that each State Legislature be urged to pass legislation similar to that in Ohio. A forsaken wife is the most pitiable object. When poverty and children complicate the situation, the sternest demands of justice should be invoked to compel the wretch who abandons his family to take up his just burden.

The faculty committees on athletics of the principal American universities, at a conference held more than two years ago, appointed a sub-committee on which seven universities were represented, to investigate the whole subject of intercollegiate athletic contests and report upon them. The conclusions reached by the committee were recently published, and incorporated in the report, are twenty rules to be applied to the regulation of college sports. The committee found that athletics occupy too large a place in college life, but wisely concluded that it is better to mend the abuses by regulation than to end them by abolishing sports altogether. The rules reported are designed to give athletics their proper place in relation to the mental and moral training of students, and to free them from the taint of professionalism. Under these rules, college athletic committees will always include representatives of the faculty. Only students who are in good standing in their classes will be allowed to take part in contests, and a summary end is put to the practice of entering expert base-ball or foot-ball players as "special" students, in order to take advantage of their prowess in the field. No special or partial student will be admitted to the teams unless he is taking a course equivalent to that prescribed for candidates for a degree; and any student will be shut out from the teams who, before or after entering college, has received any pecuniary gain whatever from taking part in athletic competitions. Intercollegiate contests are not to be allowed on other than college grounds, and it is strongly recommended that an agreement be arrived at to reduce gate-money to a minimum. These rules are strict by comparison with the lax practices which have long prevailed, but it is probable that they will become an accepted standard, and in that case they will relieve college sports of excess and extravagance, and give them their rightful place in college life.

White House Is Rickety.

"In the plan for building a new house for the President elsewhere than on the present site it has been proposed to utilize the present mansion for offices," writes Col. Theodore A. Bingham, U. S. A., in urging the adoption of Mrs. Harrison's plans for enlarging the house, in the Ladies' Home Journal. "One plea therefor has been that the historic building should be left as it is. This is certainly to be insisted on. But it is said the mansion is too pure a piece of architecture to be marred by additions. This, however, is a specious argument, since the original design contemplated side additions, and if the building in its present state were used as offices it would be wrecked in five or six years. Those who have no experience with public buildings or with this building in particular, have no conception of the wear and tear on a President's office. It surpasses that on any other office in the country. The present Executive Mansion was lightly built, and is already expensive to keep in proper repair. Its floor beams are not strong enough to endure office use. Great difficulty has arisen in the past with the few rooms now used as the President's executive offices, and great watchfulness has to be constantly exercised. Several times the floors have threatened to break through. The stairs have already broken down, one flight being now supported by a chain. Still, to remodel for office use only, the whole interior of our historic Executive Mansion, would be not only a very expensive matter, but would fail to meet the requirements of the case, and also, it is believed, the approval of the country at large."

The Cabman Explained.

"I thought to have a little fun with a Paris cab-driver one day," said the tourist, "and so I walked up to him and told him to drive me to the tomb of George Washington. The fellow hesitated for half a second, and then told me to jump in," continued the tourist. "After driving me about half a mile he halted in front of a monument on a square, and gravely announced,—

"'Behold zee tomb of zee George Washington!'

"I got out and walked around and had a good look at the shaft, and then returned to the man to say, 'But why does the inscription refer to Christopher Columbus?'

"'Because, monsieur,' he replied as he pretended to examine a wheel of his cab, 'they were twin brothers, and died in each other's arms to save zee crown of England!'"

OLD FRIENDS.

We love them very dearly, the old familiar places,
The road where every turn we know, the trees that o'er it bend;
The meadow grasses waving, and the little flower faces,
And the lifted hills, benignant, each one a steadfast friend.

We love the soft and springing sod, oft as our footsteps press it—
The little wayside briars that reach their clinging fingers out;
The lowly nest half hidden in the dusky hedge—God bless it!
And all the common things that gird the common day about.

There's one wide branching maple that was tall when we were tending
The baby lambs beneath it in the years of long ago.
There's one great shadowy oak that stood, its friendly shelter lending
To our parents, when they courted, its tenting shade below.

The trees, the hills, the pastures, the lanes we oft have trodden,
Of us they are a part, our blood has caught a thrill from them.
We may walk to-day in purple, where once we walked in hodden,
But the selrf-same soul is in us; we are theirs in root and stem.

We love them very dearly, the old familiar places;
In Heaven I think the road will wear a look like ours at home;
The fields of living green recall the pleasant beckoning faces
Of the meadow-lands that hold us fast, how far soe'er we roam.

ROOM-CLERK BROWN

PERSONS who are naturally bright and observant, and who give their whole attention to some particular pursuit or branch of business, often develop wonderful powers of observation and memory. Thus with the teacher whose life is given to the mental growth of innumerable pupils, the physician with his recurring army of patients, the successful merchant, the commander of an army.

And so, in a way, was it with Brown, room clerk of the Ridgewood. He had accepted the position as a distinct rise in his fortunes, and had taken to it a naturally good memory and a genial disposition. Guests came to look upon him as a rather pleasant feature of the house, and the proprietor realized that to him was owing much of his own growing reputation as host of a select family hotel. Transients who stopped for a few days, and then went away for years, came back to be surprised and warmed by the cordial recognition of Room-clerk Brown. And not only were they recognized, but their preferences and peculiarities were remembered. This guest was assigned a sunny room, and that a quiet one on the back, and very likely at the end of a passage; the man who loved checkers was unobtrusively made acquainted with others of like tendency, and the golfers and fishermen and confirmed trampists were not forced to wait for slow circumstances to bring them into contact with congenial associates, but were being introduced to them within an hour or two after their arrival. And it was all through the watchfulness of Brown.

Hecker, the misanthrope and wanderer, who did not have a tie in the world, and who rarely remained at a place more than a week at a time, was one of these. He had once spent three days at the Ridgewood, and ten years later, happening to be crossing that section of the country, had again gone there.

It was during the height of winter travel, and as he stood behind the group that was pushing eagerly forward to register, he wondered if he would be able to obtain accommodation.

But at that moment he caught a glance from room-clerk Brown, cordial, reassuring; and a few moments later, when he had edged his own way forward to the desk, he was accosted with: "Glad to see you back, Mr. Hecker. Your old room, 37, is all ready; and we will have the evening papers sent up, as usual. I suppose you will want a carriage in the morning? Yes, well, we will have it round at the same hour, and the same driver, too—the one you said knew how to keep still, you remember? He is still driving."

Mr. Hecker actually smiled as he went up to his room. He did not have a home in the world, and scarcely a friend; but this, he was pleased to think, seemed very much like both.

He had come with the intention of staying two or three days, or perhaps a week; but he had no place planned for the week following. So he spent that at the Ridgewood, and the succeeding week, and month, and then did not go. Two years had slipped away, and he was still in his old room, 37, to which the evening papers were sent up, as usual. And every pleasant morning the same carriage and driver came round at the same hour and took him for a drive somewhere out into the country.

Of course, Mr. Hecker was rather an extreme case, and one to which the proprietor was fond of alluding when speaking of his room-clerk, Brown; but there were others who came for a day or week or month, and who lingered on indefinitely. In time the permanent and regular guests of the Ridgewood became so numerous that transients were often forced to seek accommodation elsewhere; and so the name of Room Clerk Brown went abroad.

One day, as Mr. Hecker was going down a side street near the railroad station, he saw the Ridgewood porter grasping a shrinking figure which seemed too frightened to protest or even to attempt escape. The porter was hurrying him toward the hotel, and appeared to be both exultant and angry. As they came opposite, Mr. Hecker looked at the porter inquiringly.

"What's up?" he asked.

"It's a thief I've catched, sir," the man explained; "he was stealing a ride on the south-bound train, and the conductor put him off. I knew the fellow soon's I set eyes on him. Stand up, you?" to the prisoner, "don't go to falling down now. Wait till you get into jail for that. You see, sir, he came here twelve years ago and said he lived ten or fifteen miles back in the woods somewhere, and that his children were starving and he must have work. I felt sorry for him, and went to Mr. Brown, who got a job for him as assistant porter. And, sir, would you believe it," shaking the prisoner violently and becoming red in the face as he did so, "the villain worked just three hours, and then stole Mr. Brown's watch. He said his wife was sick and needed medicine, and that his children were starving; but they always say that. Why, sir, he was so obstinate that he wouldn't even give up the watch at first; he said if they'd only let him sell it and send the money home, they could put him in jail for all the rest of his life. Just think," contemptuously, "nobody but a fool would ever say a thing like that. But then, the fellow ain't over and above sensible, as anybody can see."

"Perhaps you have made a mistake," suggested Mr. Hecker, mildly. He was looking at the pitiful, shrinking figure before him, and not at the porter. "You know people often do. It was twelve years ago, you say, and the man only worked a few hours. Perhaps this is not the one. He has not acknowledged it, has he?"

"Not he, sir; he ain't opened his mouth yet. But I know. He escaped the very first night after stealing the watch, and slipped up north somewhere. We've heard of his sending a few dollars home now and again, in a roundabout way. I suppose he wanted to see his folks, and tried this way to get to them. Maybe he didn't have any money. No, sir, there ain't any manner of doubt it's him. But if you'd like to feel sure, you can come along with me. You know, Mr. Brown's way; if he says it's him, it's him; and if he says it ain't, why then I've been mistaken, that's all. I'm not putting my memory up against Mr. Brown's—and then, it was Mr. Brown's watch."

Mr. Hecker looked at them and hesitated. He disliked to be mixed up in anything of this sort. But there was something irresistibly pitiful and appealing about the prisoner, and he was interested in the room-clerk's memory; so he turned and accompanied them.

Mr. Brown was behind his desk, but looked up as they entered.

"Now you just go right up to him and ask for a job," whispered the porter hurriedly; "Mr. Hecker and I will look the other way and pretend we've got business of our own. Now do just what I say!"

Obediently the prisoner shuffled forward.

"Have ye got any work for me, sir?" he mumbled.

Not a muscle of Mr. Brown's face changed.

"Well, no, I don't think we have anything just now," he answered pleasantly; "but let me see, though, can you chop wood?"

Slowly the wavering eyes were lifted to his face; but the man seemed dazed.

"Yes, sir; hit's what I've allers did," he answered mechanically; "I have done lived——" then he stopped suddenly.

"Well," reflectively, "we could use about fifty cords of pine and oak wood for our winter fireplaces. If you're willing to do the work we'll pay you market wages."

"But look here, Mr. Brown!" exploded the porter excitedly, "don't you know that man? He's the fellow who stole your watch twelve years ago."

The room-clerk's eyebrows rose a trifle.

"I don't think you were cut out for a detective, Thomas," was all he said.

The porter stared and changed color.

"Then it ain't him after all," he ejaculated wonderingly; "or—or Mr. Brown's falling off some. Oh, I—I beg your pardon, sir; I——" and overwhelmed by his confusion and chagrin the porter turned and rushed away.

Mr. Hecker rubbed his hands understandingly, for the room-clerk had stepped from behind his desk and whispered a few words to the shrinking figure, at the same time slipping something into his hand. Then he said aloud:

"There, now you run down home for a few weeks and see your folks. When you are ready to begin on the wood, let me know."

As the man shuffled out, Mr. Hecker went forward to the desk.

"I would like to shake hands with you, Mr. Brown," he said quietly; "and at the same time express my opinion that the porter was mistaken about your 'falling off.'"—Frank H. Sweet.

As She Is Spoke in China.

The Chinese, if they have mastered the mysteries of the laundry, have not yet surmounted the more serious difficulties presented by the English tongue. The following neat little circu'ar has been sent round to prospective English customers in Hongkong by a firm just starting business: "Ladies and Gentlemen: We, the washer of every kind of clothes, blankets, and so on; newly established the company and engaged the business. Contrary to our opposite company we will most cleanly and carefully wash our customers with possible cheap prices. With your wages we will work the business."

Every mother of a spoiled child says proudly, as she "fixes" its clothes, "It's a wonder it isn't spoiled."

Making Cheese.

I have made an occasional cheese throughout the year and enough in the spring and summer to go a great way toward paying the grocery bill, says Louise A. Nash in the American Agriculturist. Three milkings may be used in winter and two in summer. Care must be taken to cool the fresh milk before adding it to the other. Place your double boiler on the back of the stove, the inner one resting on something, and put in the milk. Pour warm water into the outer boiler and bring the milk to 82 degrees. For from five to seven gallons of milk add about half a teaspoonful of the coloring fluid and half that quantity of rennet previously mixed with a little water. Stir thoroughly and leave it to coagulate at the same temperature.

When the curd will break off clean from the bottom of your finger, it is time to cut. A long carving knife or anything that will reach down to the bottom of the pan will do. Cut each way, leaving about an inch between the cuts. The heat may now be raised gradually about two degrees every five minutes to 98. Begin in a few minutes by shaking the boiler to help the flying off of the whey, but gently, so that the fat does not escape. Presently stir and repeat the stirring every two or three minutes. In about half an hour the desired temperature ought to be reached. The curd will soon be half its size, and when pressed between the finger and thumb the clots don't stick together. It is now time to take off half of the whey. Leave it covered an inch or two that it may develop more lactic acid and the curd mat together, after which remove it from the remaining whey.

At this point I take up the inner boiler and place the curd in the two colanders, leaving it there to drip into the large boilers. This, the cheddaring process, goes on at 90 degrees. Occasionally change the bottom of the curd to the top. When cheddared, instead of a tough, spongy mass, the curd is the texture of cooked lean meat, elastic and fibrous. About the same quantity of salt is required for cheese as for butter.

When the heat is lowered to 78 degrees, it is ready for the press. At a higher point the fat is liable to escape, and if too cold the curd particles do not adhere. Bandages are easy to make of cheesecloth. Sew a strip the circumference and height of your tin to a round piece the required size. Another round piece will be needed to lay on the top of the cheese before folding the wall piece down on it.

Commission Dealers.

Farmers would often receive more satisfactory returns from goods shipped to the commission merchants if they would take a little more pains to put them up in a neat and attractive manner and send them so that they would arrive in good order and condition; but the men who do this are apt soon to find regular customers to take their goods and do not need to consign them. The inexperienced man, who does not know how to assort, grade and pack his produce, and the careless one, who will not try to have them look their best, or the dishonest one, whose goods are not of the same quality when they are out of sight as they are on the surface, does not keep a steady customer long and is obliged to accept what prices the commission dealer may obtain or be willing to remit. And if he doubts the quality of the goods he does not offer them to his best customers, or try to get a high price for them. He is ready to dispose of them at the first offer. Delays in transportation are also responsible for low prices many times, because produce of a perishable nature loses quality rapidly and must be sold quickly after decay begins, even if sold at a loss.

To Filter Cider.

Cider is greatly improved by filtering as soon as it comes from the mill. If the very best results are wanted a charcoal filter is necessary. This can be quite easily made from an ordinary cider or whisky barrel. Remove one head and make of it a false bottom two inches above the other head. On the false bottom nail strips of hard wood. Between these strips bore holes. Have a faucet near the bottom of the barrel. Above the false botom place three inches of charcoal broken to the size of birdshot, first laying down a piece of coarse oloth. On top of this charcoal put another layer of cloth and four or five inches of clean, well washed wheat or rye straw. Above the straw put a circular, hard wood grating with openings an inch or so square. Fasten this in place. Turn water into the barrel and keep it running through until it issues entirely tasteless. When this is accomplished, the filter is ready for use. Of course the filter will become clogged, when it must be recharged. When properly filtered, the cider will be free from albuminous and mucilaginous material and will keep much better than when not treated.—American Agriculturist.

Selecting Seed Wheat.

The experiment stations and farmers who have trained themselves to close observation of cause and effect have given evidence many times that the amount and quality of the wheat crop, and of other grain crops, depends largely upon the quality of the seed used. The larger and plumper seed gives the most vigorous growing plant. It stools out more, usually has a stiffer straw, if it is not forced by the use of too rank a fertilizer, by which we mean one too rich in nitrogen, and therefore the better the crop. But there are other things desirable in a good grain crop. One is to secure large heads well filled, and it may also be desirable to have the grain grow rapidly and mature early, either to obtain the best result in a short season, or to escape insect attacks. The best way to secure this would be to select the earliest maturing large heads to be found, and reserve them for seed. The farmer who sows large areas may think this too much trouble to get all the seed he needs, but he should remember that if there is a profit in doing so for one acre, there would be a greater profit in doing so on a hundred. A modification of this plan is to select in this way enough to sow a small plot very thin, so that each plant will have a chance to do its best, and then reserve a piece of the best land to sow that on it to produce seed wheat. A continuation of this process for a few years would result in the production of an extra early, hardy and prolific wheat. Even easier but less effectual would be the selection of heaviest grain for seed when winnowing it. We think the first-named plan the best, because the type of the entire crop might be fixed in that way, so that a permanent improvement would be made.—American Cultivator.

Institute Lectures.

The holding of farmers' institutes has been of great advantage in many localities. Even when the chief speaker or essayist has not been of the best, and sometimes just because he was not the best, he has helped to bring out opinions from local farmers whose ideas, no matter how poorly clothed in language, were adapted to the locality and more valuable there than the opinions of one who had obtained experience upon different soil, in different climates and under different conditions. There is also in many places a disposition on the part of the hearers to ask questions. They are not content to be told the best way to do their work, but they want to know why it is better than some other way, that they may judge if it will be a better way under their conditions, or is only better when conditions are better. Every step taken in this way is a step in advance. Farming is not a railroad where one must follow a certain line of track, but often a route through an unknown territory where one must explore to find the best path for himself.

House Plants.

Many people have poor success with house plants because their houses are too good. They are kept at a uniform heat by hot air furnaces, which furnish a dry heat, and the rooms are so carefully closed against cold in the winter that not a breath of fresh air gets in. Plants need pure air, and they need moisture for their leaves as well as for their roots. The woman who has a few plants in the kitchen where they get the steam from the laundry work, and where the outer door is swinging open often, or windows are opened to let out the heat or odors, will have thrifty plants though she devotes but little time to them, while they may fail to grow well in the bay window of a modern comfortable sitting-room.

Harrowing Wheat.

Often a rain may come after wheat has been sown, and on clay land so beat down the soil that it will crust over or bake when the sun comes out so that many of the plants cannot get through. The use of a light harrow with fine sharp teeth will remedy this very quickly without injury to the plants that are up, or those that are germinating. Nor does it injure wheat to use such a harrow on it in the spring when the clover seed is sown, unless the roots have been thrown out by the frost, in which case a roller is needed to press the plant roots back into the earth.

Hardy Oranges.

The Department of Agriculture is trying to produce an orange which will endure frost, by crossing our native orange with the hardy, trifoliate orange of Japan. They do not expect success at the first trial, and may get a bitter or heavily seeded fruit, but from even such fruit it may be possible to produce better and still retain the hardiness. It is well worth the trial.

Too Much Salt.

Too much salt is used by many butter makers. The whole tendency among consumers is toward fresher butter. In England and on the continent butter made in those countries is served particularly fresh and white. In the best restaurants and hotels in the largest cities of this country the butter contains very little salt.

D. A. Mills, the owner of the Oversight claim, is pushing development thereon with a large force.

The Malbra has resumed work, but it may be discontinued as soon as the annual assessment work is completed.

Superintendent Matt Hodges of the Princes Maud states that he expects to begin drifting on the 300 foot level of the mine immediately.

At the 100 foot level of the Quilp the face of the north drift is full of high grade ore and is apparently as rich as any heretofore taken out.

Some fine looking quartz is coming out of the Silver Dollar. It closely resembles that found in the Ben Hur, and is undoubtedly on the same ledge.

The Mountain Lion is crosscutting for the east ledge. On account of the fault the exact location of the ledge could never be accurately determined by survey.

The Tom Thumb is kept clear of water in order that no damage may be done to the machinery, and also that the mine may be ready to resume at any time.

Some good reports are coming from the Hercules mine. The quartz at the bottom of the shaft is reported more solid than ever before, and the values are said to be improving.

The showing on the new level of the Morning Glory, in which a strike of importance was reported a few days ago, has proved of quite remarkable richness.

The Hawkeye shaft is down to the first level. Late assays have been highly satisfactory and a large showing has been made. A large market for its copper ores is promised in treatment of Republic dry ores.

Drifting has begun on the Herculas at a point in the shaft 75 feet below the surface. The ore that is being taken out is looking well and is said to carry average values of about $15 per ton.

The Butte & Boston is getting into better ore every day. The ore that is coming out of the raise from the 285 foot level compares favorably with that from the Quilp or San Poil, and greatly resembles the latter.

The Republic mill is running as steadily as an 8-day clock. There can no longer be a reasonable doubt that the mill is a great success. It is doing all that Mr. Jackling ever promised that it would do. There is but one fault that can be found with it. It is entirely too small.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

A strike has been made on the Queen Bess mine, operated by the Duncan mines, Ltd., of Nelson, B. C.

The assays from samples across the face in the tunnel on the Royston, near Nelson, B. C., have turned out satisfactory.

The recent location of the Black Bear ledge at Rossland by means of a diamond drill on the 350 foot east level of the White Bear makes it clear that diamond drilling is destined to play an important part in mining in the camp.

The old O. K. mine near Rossland has been bonded by John Baker of Tacoma, the principal owner of the I. X. L. property, and the two mines are soon to be consolidated under the one ownership. The O. K. mine is well known property.

George A. Sonneman, mining engineer of Spokane, has secured a year's bond on the Butcher Boy group, above Beaverton, up the west fork of the Kettle river. The consideration is said to be $100,000. The group adjoins the Carmi mine, which was also bonded by Mr. Sonneman, who in turn bonded it to E. H. Thurston, representing English capitalists, for $25,000, the final payment being made this week.

St. Thomas mountain lies about 18 miles north of Rossland, and is attracting a great deal of attention by a strike of uniformly high grade ore on the Bonanza, the property of the Rossland Bonanza Mining company. The claim is only three and one-half miles from Gladstone, on the main line of the Canadian Pacific to the Boundary district. No shipments will be made until spring, when the company hopes to be able to market 300 or 400 tons of ore, the proceeds of which will enable it to commence operations on a more pretentious scale.

The winze on the Evening Star at Rossland has attained a depth of 300 feet below the tunnel level, or 400 feet in all. As soon as a sump has been sunk a small station will be cut out and drifting on the ledge will be started both to the east and west. Some very fine ore has recently been encountered in the winze, and consequently the management has every hope of opening up an extensive ore shoot by the prosecution of the contemplated work. The Evening Star is one of the two Rossland mines being worked that are still controlled by Spokane capital. It has been vigorously handled during the past year.

For the first time in the history of the district the ores from properties along the Kaslo & Slocan railroad are coming to the smelter at Nelson, B. C. The Hall mines institution is receiving the product of the Last Chance, Antoine, Whitewater, Ruth and American Boy mines, all of which has been shipped elsewhere for treatment up to a few weeks ago. A shipment of 200 tons came into the smelter on Monday from these points and the aggregate output is estimated at 1200 tons per month. The smelter is running full blast and ore shipments are growing steadily, although the lack of snow on the wagon roads and trails has interfered with shipments from several important properties.

MINING NOTES.

William R. Ball, who is doing development work on the Leo group, on Beaver creek, about 18 miles from Sumpter, Oregon, and three miles from the famous Bonanza, has just opened up 10 feet of ore that assays $33.20 and but one wall has been cut. This is the first work done on this ledge, and the owners are jubilant over the discovery. There are five claims in the group, which are traversed by four ledges. Charles Wilson, who is doing some work on the Jerome group, on Little Beaver creek, near the Leo group, reports the uncovering of a body of good ore.

Certificates from the United States assay office at Boise were shown recently, giving returns from bullion shipped from the Gold Ridge mine, four shipments in as many days aggregating $5,796. The mine is equipped with a 10 stamp mill and concentrators. The returns are the results of amalgamation only.

General C. S. Warren sent word from Butte that the Montana stockholders have approved the contract to run a 600 foot tunnel on the Diadem mine, recently let to Charles Bonner, who cleaned up $20,000 at Cape Nome last summer. The mine is located in the Greenhorn mountains, about one mile from Robinsonville and seven miles from the Bonanza.

There is apparently no question but what J. Frank Watson of Portland has an option on the famed Golconda mine, owned by J. English and son. There are two experts at the mine making an examination. The option runs to February 1, but the consideration could not be learned. Mr. Watson is interested in the Quartzburg district, owning the Keystone mine, which adjoins the Present Need, recently purchased by Fred Morey.

Senator W. A. Clark of Montana has completed the purchase of mining property offered by the Rosario Mining company of Fort Worth for $800,000. The mines are gold and silver producers and are in Chihuahua. They have not been worked since 1835 and the expert whom Senator Clark sent to examine them reported that there are large bodies of ore still on hand that would pay working.

Word has reached Butte that Tim Downey, a well-known miner, has made a very rich gold ore strike on a claim in the Cataract district, north of Basin, Montana. It is understood that several Butte men, including Sheriff P. H. Reagan, are interested in the prperty. According to the information of those who have heard of the strike, it is one of the biggest made in a number of years.

News of the striking of ore in the No. 5 tunnel of the Keep Cool was received by President Thomas S. Griffith recently at Spokane. The No. 5 tunnel is the lowest working on the well known Lake Pend d'Oreille property and has been run to crosscut the lead 285 feet in, in what was supposed to be practically a barren place in the ledge. The ledge was just reached when the news was sent, and it showed 18 inches of good re. This is considered a good showing at that point.

Work has been commenced on the Lucifer, on Silver creek, South Half. The property was recently incorporated in Spokane.

The Blue Jacket, in the Seven Devils, Idaho, has again closed down, owing this time to lack of funds. It is expected that the mine will not be idle long.

Nine Mile (South Half) prospects are reported to be showing up well.

Presidential Nominations.

Washington, Dec. 16.—The president today sent the following nominations to the senate: Albert Wheaton to be register of the land office at Pierre, S. D.; Henry E. Cutting to be receiver of public moneys at Pierre, S. D.; Second Lieutenant James Hanson, Fourteenth infantry, to be first lieutenant; James E. Boyd of North Carolina to be United States district judge for the western district of North Carolina, which appointment was made during the recess of congress.

'Varsity Plans Accepted.

San Francisco Dec. 16.—Architect Bernard's revised plans for the projected University of California buildings have been accepted by the regents. They contemplate an expenditure of about $10,000,000. Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, the donor of the plan, says that work will soon be begun on the mining building, which will be a splendid structure of stone.

Given His Liberty.

Butte, Mont., Dec. 16.—John J. Mason, convicted of highway robbery two years ago and sentenced to 20 years, has been given his liberty. He secured a new trial from the supreme court about three months ago. Since the first trial nearly all the witnesses against him have disappeared, and the county attorney had the case dismissed.

ALLIED TROOPS ATTACKED

EIGHT MILES FROM PEKIN.

Attack Occurred by the Boxers—McPherson Distinguished Himself—Arms and Ammunition Discovered—Englishman Refuses to Sign.

Pekin, Dec. 16.—Colonel Tullock has returned here. He reports having had an exciting experience. His detachment was fired on eight miles from Pekin. He could not discover the assailants, as they used smokeless powder and modern guns. He camped for the night at a place called Kaoli-ying, 18 miles from here, meeting with slight opposition, but he was informed he would be attacked the next day by Boxers from Dohhalp-ying, and sent for reinforcements. Fifty men under Lieutenant McPherson of the Twenty-sixth Beluchistan regiment were sent to his aid. Immediately after their arrival Tullock attacked the town, which had been entered by the use of scaling ladders.

In the attack McPherson distinguished himself. He led the scaling party which reached the town, jumped down into the place and emptied his revolver, killing five men. He then drew his sword and defended himself until his men arived in force and saved him from impending death. Colonel Tullock speaks highly of the lieutenant's action. He says he believes he did a deed which merits the Victoria Cross in his jump to what was apparently certain death in order to lead his men who were coming up the ladder. Fortunately the Chinese had only a few carbines and were bad shots and none of the British troops were wounded during the fight. Forty Boxers were killed, a number were wounded and many captured and brought to Pekin. Owing to the killing of the informer no treasure was obtained.

Tullock says the people of Pekin do not realize the contempt in which they are held in the country districts. He adds that one of the wounded Chinamen said while dying: "You can kill me but you can not kill the Boxer movement, which will exist until every foreign devil in China is killed."

The country is reported to be in a general state of anarchy, necessitating the scheme of frequent pacifying expeditions which was drawn up by Count von Waldersee, allotting spheres to the various nationalities, and which was unanimously accepted.

The opening of the railroad has been postponed indefinitely, efficient engineers not being obtainable.

Berlin, Dec. 16.—A dispatch from Pekin dated December 14 says the Foershoit column found a quantity of arms and ammunition at Tsang. Several 15 centimeter guns were also found.

According to the same dispatch the Russians have bought 120,000 piculs of rice, to be distributed half free and half at a low price.

Satow Will Not Sign.

Pekin, Dec. 16.—The British minister, Sir Ernest Satow, has received a communication to the eeffct that at present he is not authorized to sign the joint note. He expects definite instructions tomorrow.

The Germans report that their detachment at Ho-si-wu was attacked while forming. They killed 13 and wounded 20 Chinese. The Germans had four wounded.

Santa Fe Strike.

Topeka, Kan., Dec. 16.—Opinions concerning the telegraphers' strike have materially changed. Instead of the indifference which has been manifested by some of the railroad officials during the past few days a disposition to be constantly on the alert has shown itself.

The officials of the Santa Fe have at last become convinced that the strike means something. The cause of this is the unrest prevalent among the engineers, conductors and brakemen. It is regarded as almost a certainty that some of these workers will go on a sympathetic strike within two days unless the differences between the company and the operators are speedily adjusted. The reason of the trainmen taking this step is not thought to comprehend so much sympathy for the operators as it does their own interests.

Said a prominent engineer today: "If we suffer this thing to go by unquestioned the right of the company to do as it pleases will be permanently established and in spite of anything we can do the rights and privileges of organized labor will be lost. It is the principal we are striving for, and come what may, the principle must and will be maintained that organized labor must have rights."

As far as can be learned there have not yet been any conferences held between the telegraphers and representatives ot trainmen's organization. There is an apparent stableness in all the transactions which makes it amount to a pracitcal certainty that there will be something done shortly.

Holdup at Butte.

Butte, Dec. 16.—Three men went into a South Butte butcher shop and at the point of guns demanded all the cash in the till. Henry Strader, who was in charge, refused to deliver. One of the highwaymen shot Strader through the body. All three then ran. Strader went to the telephone and notified the police, who an hour later arrested a man giving the name of Harry Smith. He admits firing the shot. He and his companions were released from jail yesterday because the prosecuting witnesses in the robbery charges against them had disappeared. Strader's condition is serious.

Arrests in Venezuela.

Kingston, Jamaica, Dec. 16.—Advices received here from Demarara, British Guiana, under date of December 5, announce the arrest in Caracas, Venezuela, of 50 prominent citizens on the charge of plotting a new revolution. The arrests, it is added, have created great excitement.

Wreck in Montana.

Butte, Dec. 14.—Great Northern passenger train No. 3, west bound, was wrecked near Brockton, 81 miles east of Glasgow. Four passengers are reported killed and many injured. The cause of the wreck is said to have been a broken rail. Railroad officials claim not to have any information of the accident.

Later information states that the train was running about 45 miles an hour, making up lost time. The accident took place near the switch east of the little station. The track here is on a high hill. The train was coming 45 miles an hour, as Brockton is only a flag station, when it struck a broken rail. The engine, baggage car, mail and express cars passed over safely. The second class coach was derailed, but remained on the grade. The first class coach, tourist sleeper and diner went down into the ditch. The three last cars were pretty badly smashed up. A physician on the train did much to alleviate the sufferings of the injured while waiting for the arrivtl of the company physician, who accompanied the wrecking crew from Williston. The coroner was notified. The train was in charge of Conducter Hawley. L. Hoffman was the engineer.

The dead: An aged woman, name unknown, and her daughter; Mrs. Watson, residence unknown, thrown through window, glass severing her jugular vein; a Russian child, name unknown.

VALUE OF FRUIT AS FOOD.

Not Very Nourishing, Though Exerting a Beneficial Effect.

Recent experiments of the Department of Agriculture show that fruits in general contain remarkably little stuff that is convertible into muscle and blood. Bananas and grapes have 2 per cent, while apples, cherries, strawberries, huckleberries, cranberries, lemons and oranges are able to lay claim to only 1 per cent—this, too, when skins and seeds are put aside. On this account such articles of diet are obviously ill adapted to sustain human life for any length of time, though they possess great medicinal value and contribute much to health.

Fruits are, however, relatively rich in sugar and starch, and hence are useful as fuel to keep the bodily machine going. Bananas have 27 per cent of these materials, grapes 21 per cent, apples 16 per cent, cherries and cranberries 11 per cent, oranges 9 per cent, lemons 8 per cent and strawberries 7 per cent. In this case, as before, only the edible portions are considered. Blackberries and grapes have 2 per cent of fat and the other fruits mentioned contain 1 per cent. Watermelon pulp is 92 per cent water, says the Saturday Evening Post.

Among vegetables lima beans have the highest food value, containing 32 per cent of nutrients. Sweet potatoes come next, with 29 per cent, green peas next with 22 per cent, white potatoes next with 21 per cent and string beans next with 13 per cent. Green sweet corn has 19 per cent of nutrients, beets 12 per cent, turnips 11 per cent, cabbage, cauliflower and spinach 8 per cent, turnips, eggplant and lettuce 7 per cent, tomatoes and asparagus 6 per cent and cucumbers 4 per cent. Dry beans and rice are about the most economical foods one can buy, containing as they do 88 per cent of solid nutriment.

Fish has high food value—in fact, is nearly as nutritious as chicken or turkey. A pound of eggs, on the other hand, yields only half as much nourishment as a pound of lean beef, notwithstanding a well-known popular theory.

Canadian railway employes petitioned government to enact laws to pro[hibit] importation of working people from the United States.

BOERS AGAIN VICTORIOUS

BATTLE NEAR ORANGE RIVER

A Party of Brabant's Horse Captured—Boers Released Prisoners Captured at Magaliesburg—Many Engagements Occur—War Will Continue Some Time.

Aliwalnorth, Dec. 16.—A party of Brabant's horse, consisting of raw recruits, engaged a superior force of Boers near Zastron, Orange River Colony, losing four killed, one wounded and 120 taken prisoners.

The Previous Battle.

Pretoria, Dec. 16.—Fifteen officers and 316 men, Magaliesburg, have been released. The Boers surrounded and captured 120 of Brabant's horse in a defile in the Zastron district. Colonel Bonfield, moving on Vryheid, defeated the Boers with heavy loss, driving them from Scheeper's Nek and capturing a quantity of arms. The Scheeper's Nek movement occurred December 13.

The Boers were attacked at Vryheid December 10, and lost 10 killed and wounded before they retired. The fighting lasted all day, the enemy drawing off at 7:30 p. m. British loss was seven killed and 19 wounded and 30 missing. Our casualties include two officers, who died of their wounds.

Writing from Pretoria Sunday, Lord Kitchener, after announcing that the released Magaliesburg prisoners had arrived at Rustenburg, says that the Boer force divided into two portions, one moving south and the other west.

Agree on Ten Demands.

According to credible Chinese sources of information, Emperor Kwang Hsu will agree to the following 10 demands of the powers:

First—Indemnity to the amount of 700,000,000 taels, payable within 60 years and guaranteed by the likin.

Second—The erection in Pekin of a suitable monument to the memory of Baron von Ketteler.

Third—An imperial prince, a near relative to the emperor, to go to Berlin to apologize and express regret for the murder.

Fourth—Foreign troops to hold the lines of communication between Taku and Pekin.

Fifth—Punishment of the Boxer officials.

Sixth—Candidates from districts where antiforeign outrages have been perpetrated not to be allowed to compete in the Chinese examinations in Pekin for five years.

Seventh—Abolition of the tsung li yamen.

Eighth—Foreign envoys to have access to the emperor at all times.

Ninth—Importation of arms and ammunition into the province of Chi-li to be abolished.

Tenth—The land and sea forts between Shan-hai-kwan, Taku and Pekin to be destroyed.

Put Marshal in Jail.

St. Louis, Dec. 16.—Five unidentified men, garbed as tramps, who asked shelter in the calaboose at midnight last night overpowered the village marshal of Brighton, Ill., locked him in a cell and then broke into a bank and two stores. They attempted to get into the vault of Blodgett Brothers' bank, in which there was a large amount of money, but were unsuccessful, although the strong box was partially wrecked by several explosions of dynamite. Failing there, the robbers entered the general store of E. Butler, where they broke into the safe and secured $100. Soon afterward Butler's store was discovered on fire. A loss of several thousand dollars resulted. The robbers escaped on a handcar. When the marshal was liberated he organized a posse and started after the robbers with bloodhounds.

Loss Was Half a Million.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 18.—Fire almost entirely destroyed the big plant of the Brown Hoisting Conveying Machine company. Five out of seven buildings used by the company are in ashes and property estimated to be worth over $500,000 entirely consumed. Eleven hundred workmen are thrown out of employment. The company, considered to be one of the largest concerns of the kind in the world, has many contracts with the government for hoisting apparatus to be erected at coaling stations that are being established in various parts of the world.

Prices Paid Producers.

Poultry and Eggs—Chickens, old, 10@11c per lb, live weight; springs, $2@4.50 per doz; ducks, $4 per doz; geese, dressed, 12c per lb; turkeys, live, 10@12c; dressed, 12@13c; eggs, fresh, $7.50@9.00 per case.

Vegetables—Potatoes, 60c per cwt; onions, 85c per cwt.

Live Stock—Beef, live steers, 3¾@4c; dressed, 6@7c; live cows, 3c; dressed, 5¾@6½c; veal calves, dressed, 7@9c; mutton, ewes, 3c; wethers, 3½c; hogs, live, $4.75 per cwt; dressed, $7 per cwt.

Sheep Skins—Shearlings, 10c each; short wool pelts, 30@50c medium wool, 50@75c; long wool, 75c@$1.00.

The local mills pay the following prices for grain, delivered: Club wheat, 44c bulk, 46c sacked; bluestem, 47c bulk, 49c sacked; red, 42c bulk, 44c sacked.

Smallpox Spreading.

Colville, Wash., Dec. 16.—The smalpox plague is spreading rapidly all over the county and reports of fresh cases come in every day from different points.

De Soto, Mo., Dec. 13.—A head end collision occurred on the Missouri & Iron Mountain railway at Desare, Mo., between two freight trains, resulting in the death of Engineer James Britt of Olney, Ill., and Brakeman Ed Bradley of De Soto, Mo. The latter was caught under the wreck, which took fire and cremated his body.

Fireman B. Barrett fell under his engine and could only be rescued from being burned alive by cutting his left arm off with an ax. W. N. Ralston, conductor, and Red Scott, brakeman, and G. L. Scott were slightly injured.

Eight cars loaded with lumber and cotton caught fire and were entirely consumed, causing a loss to the railway company of about $15,000. The wreck is said to have been caused by a disregard of meeting orders.

—Hardware Herman got in a car of fine furniture suitable for holiday presents.

—Miss Jacobs, a sister of Mrs. John Kempf, visiting in Genesee since Thanksgiving, returned to her home at Uniontown Monday.

—Charley Bomberg started out Saturday to visit his sisters at Medical Lake, Lamoure, Dak., and his aged people in Michigan. He went via N. P. and intends to return over Union Pacific.

—W. M. Thompson is handicapped in not being able to secure cars for his hay shipping but manages to send out a car occasionally. Farmers who have diversified enough this year to have a few tons of hay to sell are money ahead.

—The Sunday schools are largely attended now by the children. The holiday season approacheth. Give the children pretty and useful presents. Make them glad. Christmas of all the holidays should be observed. Let us have a merry time and make all the young folks happy. A Merry Christmas to all!

—The incubator business promises to be quite extensive this year. The machines are being sent out now by the Petaluma Incubator Co. M. A. Means is the local agent for these celebrated machines. With the present high price of eggs and poultry there ought to be a gold mine in operating one of these machines for a couple of seasons.

—Genesee will have another store. Wilton & Scott, of Palouse City, will open a second-hand store the first of the year, having leased the iron building for a year for that purpose. Genesee is located in a fertile valley and with better roads and more diversified farming, smaller farms, the town should double in size.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jake Hopp left Monday for Portland, N. D., where they will visit with Mrs. Hopp's brother for a few days before proceeding to their Genesee, Ida., home. We have their word for it that they had a most royal time with their old-time friends.—De Smet News.

Arrived from Dakota Monday afternoon. A sketch of the journey will appear in the next News.

—Mrs. Meyer, Martin Meyer and Geo. Bullwinkle returned Friday from their visit to California. After reaching Pullman Mr. Bullwinkle suffered a severe stroke of paralysis and was taken from the train here in a helpless condition, not even being able to speak. He is now able to make himself understood but on account of his advanced years chances are against his recovery.

—While D. R. Davis did not get rich off his prune drier this season he feels satisfied from the experience he has gained. Had his drier been properly operated he would have had a car load of the dried article and would be in better shape to realize on the same. Next year he will have everything in apple-pie order at the commencement of the season and will make a full capacity run the entire season.

—The public schools will close today for the holidays. They will reopen Wednesday morning, January 2, 1901. The scholars should devote the intervening time at sport of various kinds so when school opens they will feel like studying. Time passes swiftly by and every moment spent in the school room should be devoted to the books. You may not think so now but you will think so later on in life.

—The Great Northern R'y tunnel through the Cascade mountains is now complete, the first train pushing over the steel Wednesday of this week. The Great Northern is forging to the front rapidly and when those large grain ships are afloat our people expect much from the road. Through train service from the coast to St. Paul is the very best as this writer can testify. H. A. Jackson, commercial agent at Spokane, is a pleasant gentleman, accommodating, is always willing to give you any information you may want concerning that road.

☞The Great Western Feather Renervator, working in Genesee the past week, is giving excellent satisfaction. Feather beds and pillows entrusted to their care receive careful and prompt attention. Prices reasonable and satisfaction guaranteed. A trial is solicited. Will be found in the iron building for a short time.

DAVIS & BIVENS.

—Remember this, young man, be careful what you say about a woman's character. Think how many years she has been building it, of the toils and privations endured, of wounds received, and let no suspicion follow her actions. The purity of a woman is the salvation of the race, the hope of greatness and the redemption of man. Wipe out her purity and the man sinks beneath the wave of dispair, without a star to guide his life into the channel of safety. Think, then, before you speak, and remember that any hog can root up the fairest flower that ever grew; so the vilest man can ruin the purest woman that ever lived.—Ex.

THE high position of the United States among commercial nations and the enormous development of our foreign trade will not only gratify but surprise every patriotic citizen, and the comparison with other nations will astonish the world. For example the following statement shows the development of the foreign commerce of Great Britain and the United States during the century:

Great Britain, imports, 1800, $81,310,000; 1899, $2,043,896,450. Per cent. of increase, 2400.

United States, imports, 1800, $52,121,891; 1899, $685,441,892. Per cent. of increase, 1215.

Great Britain, exports, 1800, $111,107,000; 1899, $1,287,151,345. Per cent of increase, 2400.

United States, exports, 1800, $31,810,903; 1899, $1,203,931,222. Per cent. of increase, 3681.

The first comparison shows how much more able the people of the United States are to supply their own wants than those of Great Britain. The imports of this republic in 1800 were nearly two-thirds as much as those of Great Britain, while at the end of the century they are less than one-third. At the same time our exports have increased three times as rapidly as those of Great Britain. Although in 1899 they were still short by $80,000,000, in 1900 we surpassed Great Britain, with a total of $1,394,483,082, of which $433,851,756 were manufactured articles, in which we came in direct competition with the manufacturers of that country.—Chicago Record.

A New Year's Guide.

There is one book every one should make an effort to get for the new year. It contains simple and valuable hints concerning health, many amusing anecdotes, and much general information. We refer to Hostetter's Almanac, published by The Hostetter Co., Pittsburg, Pa. It will prove valuable to any household. Sixty employes are kept at work on this valuable book. The issue for 1901 will be over eight millions, printed in the the English, German, French, Welch, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish languages. It contains proof of the efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the great remedy prepared by the publishers, and is worthy of careful preservation. The almanac may be obtained free of cost, at any druggist or general dealer in the country.

—Mrs. E. T. Jacobs and daughter returned from Moscow Friday.

—Fred Wilkison was here from Kamish over Sunday, renewing acquaintances.

—A. W. Conway was up from Cul de Sac Friday and reported things very orderly down his way.

—The W. R. C. will hold a special meeting tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon to practice and transact some special business. All members are urged to be present.

—Charles Daniel rigged up his mud yacht Tuesday and navigated to Genesee and back making the round trip in one day. He says Genesee is a busy place.—Troy News.

—By the stove pipe falling down one day last week in Mrs. Spurbeck's room resulted in a small sized panic. One little boy thinking he would be safer on the outside made his escape out of a window. However, order was soon restored.

—Mrs. Kern returned from Moscow Tuesday and reports that her boy who was operated on some time ago for appendicitis is doing nicely and will be able to return home in about ten days. His sister Jennie is now keeping him company.

—Alfred Miller has been down from Mohler the past week renewing acquaintances and visiting relatives. He denies the allegation but we are still suspicious. He states that his section is prospering and that prospects are good for the establishing of a creamery there at an early date.

—Sarah Grace, the seven year-old daughter of Mrs. Mattie Headington our county superintendent of schools, died at Moscow Thursday morning of last week after a brief illness. This was Mrs. Headington's only child and coupled with the loss of her husband about a year ago is a sad happening.

—Prof. Ben. C. Camp of our public school has just copyrighted a new game of cards, which he calls "Camp's Curious Cards." We can not enter into any description of it here, but it is very novel and interesting and will afford much amusement. He will have them for sale soon.—Kendrick Gazette.

—Marshal Driscoll this week sold to J. C. Welch 130 acres of his ranch which is located near Lenville.

—Mrs. L. Jain has recovered from her recent illness and is now as spry as any young lady of twenty summers.

—John Matson feels prouder now than he did over the election. A son was born at his house on December 16th, reports Mrs. Rogers.

—A century watch party is to be held in the Jamison hall Monday night by the young people. Printed invitations have been sent out.

—John Dresher has been granted a divorce from Mrs. Dresher. We also understand that Mrs. Carson has been granted a divorce from Mr. Carson.

—Geo. Flinn left Tuesday morning for Wallace. Mrs. Flinn and the children accompanied him as far as Tekoa where they will visit for a while.

—The Rathbone Sisters will this Friday evening tender a farewell reception to Mr. and Mrs. Gray. All Rathbones, Knights and ladies are invited to be present.

—Dan Moore accompanied the Misses Cunningham to American Ridge the first of the week. If one can judge from appearances Dan must have had an eventful trip coming home.

—R. W. Gardner, formerly fire man on this run, came up from Lewiston Saturday for a brief visit with friends. He left for Spokane Monday and will be assigned a run on the main line.

—Mrs. E. A. McKenna and three children came down from Sprague Saturday for a visit under the parental roof. Mr. McKenna has gone to his old home at Montreal, Canada, to the bedside of his sick mother.

—James Dutton came in from Ashland Tuesday. Reports the D. B. Grant people as happy and contented. The new residence will be ready for occupancy the end of this week. Jim likes the town and will go back as soon as he can arrange his matters in Genesee.

—Pretty soft weather for Christmas times. All have been hoping for cold weather, frozen ground and snow for the holiday season. It rained pretty hard yesterday and people can hardly navigate with teams—the bottom seems to have dropped out of the roads.

—Trade at the stores improves as the holiday season advances. Pretty and useful articles will be found at the stores of J. P. Vollmer, Follett Bros. and Larrabee, J. L. Conant, The Bee Hive, J. Rosenstein, Kennedy, M. A. Means, T. Driscoll, Jeweler Walters. At Wm. Smoltz's you can get cigars that will please your gentlemen friends. Be liberal and make your friends happy by remembering them with some present.

—NEWS is in favor of inaugurating a good roads movement in this community. Over one-half of the labor and money expended on our thoroughfares the past eight years have been as good as wasted, if we are to judge from conditions. Let Genesee take the initiative and build a stone or gravel piece of road, if only a few rods in length. Another spring the city will have close onto a $1,000 in the road fund and several hundred dollars of poll tax. Let every cent of this money be expended for securing and hauling rock, gravel and cinders. Manufacture a block, or half a block, next year, of good road, and there will be no trouble to have the work continued. Business men and people generally will willingly contribute money for such a purpose when they know it will do good. NEWS has written to Washington, D. C., for information regarding road making, taking cue from the following received at Kendrick last week from the Agricultural department:

"In order to secure the co operation of the government in the building of an object-lesson road in your state it will be necessary for you to interest your senators and representatives in Congress in the matter. If the interested parties will furnish the labor and material the government will furnish the experts and machinery. We have built these object-lesson roads in many of the eastern and southern states and in some western states, but on account of our small appropriation we have been unable to go as far as Idaho. An effort is being made to increase our appropriation and if you will interest your members of congress in the matter and help us to secure the necessary funds we will be glad to extend our work of education to your state."

Obituary.

Mrs. Minnie Case, wife of Sherman Case, was born in Trinidad, Colorado, November, 15, 1873. In 1877 she with her adopted parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Ames, moved to Knapp, Oregon, where she remained till her marriage March 19, 1890. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman moved to Seaside, Ore., where they remained for a number of years. Here the lady was afflicted with the la grippe which settled on her lungs and developed into the dread disease consumption. Finding her health failing they removed to Vancouver, Wash.; finding no relief here they removed to Lewiston, Idaho; from there they came to Genesee Oct. 28, 1900.

The lady departed this life December 15, at 1:40 P. M. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon, the 17th, from the Congregational church conducted by Rev. W. C. Fowler, and remains buried in the Odd Fellows cemetery.

The bereaved husband and the two children have the sincere sympathy of the entire community.

My children and I wish to express our sincere thanks to those kind people who so kindly and sympathetically came to our assistance during the last sickness and death of our beloved mother and wife.

A mail route has been established direct to Elk City, by stage from Stites, Idaho. This will make a day's difference in the time it takes for the delivery of the Elk City mail. A new postoffice has been established at Callender, Idaho, in the Buffalo Hump country. The mail will be carried to Callender by stage.

Nothing has demonstrated more emphatically the possibilities of the country tributary to the Clearwater line of the Northern Pacific than the volume of freight business that has been hauled over it in the year that is about to close. Yet this year's business is only considered the first step on the rounds of the business ladder.

The property which Shoshone county bought in for delinquent taxes five years ago last July and which became the absolute property of the county five years after the date of the sale, was sold at public auction Monday by order of the board of county commissioners. There were about 400 different parcels of it, scattered all over the county, and it generally brought good prices.

One hundred and twenty-one instruments were filed for record at Wallace last week, with an aggregate valuation of $71,516.78. The fee collected was $40.60 for the nominal consideration of $1 each. There was one patent and five mortgages filed. The mining locations included 11 quarta lodes, five placer claims and three water rights. Five new companies filed articles of incorporation and three marriage licenses were issued.

The Northern Pacific has decided to reduce passenger rates in Montana from four cents to three cents per mile. The reduction will be carried into effect after New Years. The reduction has been stubbornly fought by the Great Northern and Union Pacific.

A good test of the efficacy of vaccination is said to be the fact that no school children have taken the disease, although many of them live in unsanitary and infected sections of the city. All the children were vaccinated a year ago, and care is taken to insure that all new pupils have been subjected to the precautionary operation.

State Auditor T. W. Poindexter has estimated the receipts of the state from all sources for the next two years at $1,390,000, including the balance of $60,000 that remains on hand at the end of the present year. During the fiscal year of 1901 he estimates that the receipts of the state will amount to $2,462,000, while the expenses of running the state government during the year is estimated at $526,239.

The secretary of the Miners' Union at Rossland, B. C., reports that he has a large number of applications for membership and that prospects are good for a large increase in members during the next few weeks.

ANOTHER BATILE OCCURRED

IT WAS WON BY THE BRITISH.

Boer Forces Were Surrounded—Fought Desperately, With Heavy Loss in Killed, Wounded and Captured—Dewet Twice Repulsed.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The report of another severe battle, resulting in a British victory, is current here. According to the story the fighting began at daybreak and lasted for several hours. The Boers, who numbered from 1500 to 2000 men, were surrounded at the Orange river and totally defeated, with very heavy losses in killed and wounded. A number of Boers, it is added, were captured.

Dewet Repulsed.

Maseru, Dec. 18.—It appears that Dewet's force was twice repulsed before breaking through the British lines in the neighborhood of Tuaha N'Chu. In the third attack Dewet led in person. With a few determined men he charged and broke the british lines, the rest of the command following. He was forced, however, to leave in the hands of the British a 15 pounder and 13 wagons of ammunition and stores. Commandant Hausbrook, with a commando and two guns, tried to get through Springhaan's Nek, but was driven back, losing 40 men.

No Favors Shown.

Washington, Dec. 18.—Monday was individual suspension day in the house. Every speaker of the house first recognized Mr. Bromwell of Ohio, who moved to suspend the rules and pass the bill reported by the civil service commission to give preference to honorably discharged soldiers in the executive departments. It provides that honorably discharged soldiers of the Spanish and the war in the Philippines be given preference both in appointment to office and retention therein, and that loss of limbs or other physical impairment, which does not incapacitate, shall not disqualify them.

After an interesting debate this bill was defeated—55 to 107.

A bill was passed authorizing the secretary of the interior to fix the boundary between Texas and Oklahoma and to inquire into the claims of the state of Texas for moneys expended while Greer county was a part of Texas.

Bills were passed to divide the states of West Virginia and Kentucky into two judicial districts.

The senate bill to provide for an additional district judge for the northern district of Ohio was passed. The bill is designed to relieve from duty Judge Ricks, who has been incapacitated for some time.

Boycott Santa Fe.

Topeka, Kan., Dec. 17.—Should the Santa Fe officials persist in refusing to arbitrate the treaty between it and the O. R. T. a boycott will, it is said, be sprung by the members of 30 orders all over the country and an effort made to bring the road to time by cutting off its business. The O. R. T. has about 15,000 members, comprising telegraphers and station agents in every state. If no agreement can be reached an order may go out to all the members of the order to route all passenger and freight business both from the east and west by some other line than the Santa Fe.

Agents instead of routing California traffic over the Santa Fe will turn it to other lines. Principally the Union Pacific. Freight business will be handled in the same manner.

"We can bring the Santa Fe to terms," is the substance of striking telegrapher today, "if we are compelled to adopt this method. We have tried it before, in October, and won the east on the Burlington. In each instances we were successful, as we ruined the business of the company for the time being. Others grew suspicious and came to the conclusion that the men were counterfeiters and reported the fact to the secret service of the western division of the secret service.

Mr. Hazen procured a fieldglass and on Wednesday went up on top of the postoffice building, where he watched the two men. His observations confirmed the conclusions of the workman, and will we a search warrant he went to the place and found the men engaged in "faking" $10 gold pieces. The men are prosecuted and $3200 in coin captured.

Two Negroes Lynched.

Rockport, Ind., Dec. 17.—Two negroes, Jim Henderson and Bud Rowland, who murdered and robbed Hollie Simons, white banker, early Sunday morning, were lynched in the jail yard by a mob of 1500. The negroes were arrested soon after the murder occurred, and although Rowlands' clothing had blood stains on it they claimed they were innocent. In the meantime Sheriff Clemens of Union county, Kentucky, arrived with a trained bloodhound. When the dog was placed on the trail he followed it to the house where Rowlands lives, six blocks from the scene of the murder, and went barking to the bed the negro had occupied. This was enough for the excited citizens.

Explosion at Wardner, Idaho.

Wardner, Idaho, Dec. 16.—Eric Johnson, trackluyer in the Bunker Hill mine, was blown up by a premature explosion of giant powder. His skull is completely crushed, leg broken, both eyes out and he is generally bruised and injured internally. He lies at the hospital, and his death is hourly expected.

Alabama miners have had their wages out 2½ per cent, and the chances are that a big strike wil come.

TRADE REPORT.

R. G. Dun & Company's Weekly Review of Trade for last week says:

Holiday trade increased moderately and in wholesale sample lines no relapse was seen either in volume of trade or in prices. Cold weather helped New York, but it is still behind the rest of the country, for some recent losses from failures in the textile markets have fallen rather heavily here. Collections in the country continue good, and this relieves any anxiety which might otherwise be felt over the higher rates for money. Merchants' accounts are in good condition, so that new sales of commercial paper are light even for this season. Industrial conditions continue, with no great accumulation of new work beyond that in any quarter. In spite of the break in cotton the demand for fabrics is still good, sellers having little to offer and nothing at cuts in prices.

General conditions as to partially manufactured and finished products in the iron and steel industry are little changed. Prices are hard and mills are working on old orders that will take them well into the new year. As Pittsburg there is still complaint that new business is not offered, but Chicago concerns have no such difficulty, more idle mills have resumed and little new coming or in hand. It is estimated that 1,200,000 tons of rails have been ordered for next year's delivery. Structural steel has secured another triumph in the African bridge contract, secured in the face of British competition.

Most of the footwear manufacturers have booked sufficient business to keep them well occupied for many weeks and are refusing new contracts except at further advance in price.

New England factories are mainly working on spring goods, and mail orders come freely from distant points. Improvement is noticed in the local jobbing trade, aside from rubber goods, and the war in the Philippines be given preference both in appointment to office and retention therein, and that loss of limbs or other physical impairment, which does not incapacitate, shall not disqualify them.

PALOUSE NEWS.

Farmington is organizing a brass band.

The enrollment is now over 400 at the Pullman Agricultural college.

Strawberries, buttercups and daisies are reported numerous on the hillsides of the canyons.

Fruit trees are being planted in the various sections of the Palouse, and here it is Christmas time.

Typhoid fever has appeared at Moscow in the Campbell family. One member has died and others are on the sick list.

The gamblers at Colfax keep the officers on the move. The Whitman county sheriff says it is impossible to enforce the law against gambling.

The merchants of Pullman have decided to close their stores at 6 p. m. from and after December 25 until the first of August, except on Saturdays.

Palouse city officials have cut down the expense of running the city about $800. Economy is the mountain trail which leads on to a state of financial fatness.

The empty cars are coming to the Palouse towns in great numbers now. They do not stay long before they are sent out filled with the products of the soil, mostly 40-cent wheat we presume.

Lewiston is to have the third newspaper. Booming town. We had been laboring under the impression that this field was pretty well filled by the two enterprising papers, Tribune and Teller.

Several Pullmanites lost Belgian hares recently. Supposed to be the work of dogs, but the circumstances in some instances were so peculiar as to lead the losers to believe the canine has only two legs.

The Oakesdale Sun editor and a Methodist dominie are having a set-to over the best soul-saving methods. Editoress Sargent of the Pullman Tribune says the editor has the best of it for the press can run the pulpit a merry race and come in winner on the home stretch.

A lone highwayman with a white rag over his face, held up the Warwick saloon in Spokane this week. Five men were lined up and made to look pleasant while the tables were cleared of $700. The robber did not get many blocks away before he was landed in the patrol wagon.

The Kendrick people are organizing a good roads movement and propose to ask congress to make an appropriation for them. The whole Palouse might join hands and work to that end if work will do any good. A farmer coming in from the east now looking for a home would become disgusted with the country before he got off from the train. If we cannot get governmental aid let us seek help from nearer home. If we can gravel only a short distance each year it is something. Let a start be made and NEWS will venture the people will continue the good work.

Natural gas has been found northwest of Colfax, along Thorn and Pine creeks and comes within five miles of Rosalia. Prospecting is carried on by thrusting an iron rod down until gravel is reached, when it is withdrawn gas bubbles to the surface. An inverted funnel, almost completely closed at the upper end, is placed over the spot and a bottle filled with water is turned over the funnel end. As the gas flows into the bottle the water is forced out, and when filled with gas the bottle is hermitically sealed. It can then be carried about and burned at pleasure. A scientific test is being made by experts and if found to be a good article it means much to this whole country.

The Garfield Enterprise rises to remark that beef and pork, butter and eggs and poultry, fruit and vegetables find ready sale in the adjacent mining camps at prices that make 40 cent wheat look like small potatoes. And yet we are supplying only a fraction of this demand. While the average Palouse farmer is not "feeling at his best" with nothing but 40-cent wheat to sell, his more wise neighbor of the east is smiling because much of his mixed farming goods find a ready market in the mining and lumbering camps of the west. Butter, eggs and meat come west over the mountains every day. If we read the signs aright all this will be changed. A few of us may go broke first.

Paid Dear For His Leg.

R. D. Blanton of Thackerville, Tex., in two years paid over $300.00 to doctors to cure a running sore on his leg. Then they wanted to cut it off, but he cured it with one box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Guaranteed cure for piles. 25 cts. a box. Sold at Kennedy's drug store.

NO MAN IS STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH.

The stomach is the vital center of the body. It is the organ from which all other organs are fed. A weak stomach means a weak man. There never was a strong man with a weak stomach. What is called "weak stomach" is in general a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, which prevents the proper digestion of the food which is taken into the stomach, and so reduces the nutrition of the body. When all food is taken away the body starves. When the food eaten is only digested and assimilated in part it only nourishes the body in part, and so the body is partly starved. And this starvation is felt in every organ of the body dependent on the blood which is made from food.

The great variety of the cures performed by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is due to its remarkable power to heal diseases of the stomach and allied organs. It cures through the stomach diseases seemingly remote, but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and the other organs of digestion and nutrition. "Weak" heart, lungs, kidneys and weakness of other organs is cured with the cure of the weak stomach.

Mr. Thomas A. Swarts, Box 103, Sub-Station C, Columbus, Ohio, writes: "I was taken very sick with severe headache, then cramps in the stomach, and food would not digest, then kidney and liver trouble, and my back got weak so I could scarcely get around. The more I doctored the worse I got until six years passed. I had become so poorly I could only walk in the house by the aid of a chair, and I got so thin I had given up to die, thinking that I could not be cured. Then one of my neighbors said, 'Take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and make a new man out of yourself.' The first bottle helped me so I thought I would get another, and after I had taken eight bottles I was weighed and found I had gained twenty-seven (27) lbs. in about six weeks. I have done more hard work in the past eleven months than I did in two years before, and I am as stout and healthy to-day, I think, as I ever was."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation.

STRONG MEN MADE WEAK.

Big Ones in Harvard's Football Squad Given Astonishing Exhibition of Hypnotic Power.

Jack MacMaster, Harvard's veteran trainer, gave the crimson pigskin chasers one of the most exciting experiences of their lives the other day. MacMaster brought on the field William H. Mack, a young man weighing about 140 pounds, and challenged any one of the squad to lift him (Mack) off his feet. This was easy, all thought, but of 22 men who made the try not one man accomplished the feat. After about all had made a try Capt. Daly said he would do it, but was equally unsuccessful. Then Head Coach Ben Dibblee tried and failed.

Mack uses what may be called by some hypnotic power, or the power of mind over circumstance. When a man would try to lift him Mack would place his index finger lightly on the side of the neck of the lifter and by some unseen power destroy the strength of his opponent. When his finger was removed he was lifted almost as a child by the sturdy footballists.

Innumerable tests were made, until Mack was completely exhausted from the terrific strain under which he was laboring.

Just Saved His Life.

It was a thrilling escape that Charles Davis of Bowerston, O., lately had from a frightful death. For two years a severe lung trouble constantly grew worse until it seemed he must die of consumption. Then he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery and lately wrote: "It gave instant relief and effected a permanent cure." Such wonderful cures have for 25 years proven it's power to cure all throat, chest and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at Kennedy's.

When you want prompt acting little pills that never gripe, use DeWitt's Little Early Risers.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

How to Cure Croup.

Mr. R. Gray, who lives near Amenia Duchess Co., N. Y., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. It is a fine children's remedy for croup and never fails to cure." When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has developed, it will prevent the attack. This should be borne in mind and a bottle of the Cough Remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale by all druggists.

Many people worry because they believe they have heart disease. The chances are that their hearts are all right but their stomachs are unable to digest food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and prevents the formation of gas which makes the stomach press against the heart. It will cure every form of indigestion.

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lame back or pains in the side or chest, give it a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. Pain Balm also cures rheumatism. One application gives relief. For sale by all druggists.

A TRIP THROUGH THE DAKOTAS, MINNESOTA AND IOWA.

On November 7, the day after the great landslide to McKinley, this writer and wife boarded the Northern Pacific train for St. Paul, passing through eastern Washington, northern Idaho, Montana, North Dakota and Minnesota—from the green wheat fields of the famous Palouse to the snow-covered soil along the Mississippi river. Sunshine and rain to show!

Through the kindness of Chas. S. Fee, Gen'l Pass. Agt. at St. Paul, and his assistant at Portland, A. D. Charlton, we were enabled to take a rest from work. The cars are elegantly furnished, electric-lighted and steam-heated, and every accommodation given the traveling public. The road passes through some fine scenery. The first day out of Spokane the train hurled us by rapidly increasing grandeur which delight the eye at every turn. The first hills we see are only the advance couriers of the majesties, the mighty Rocky monarchs, that will soon be seen. As we near the Yellowstone National Park what stupendous upheavels we pass! Rocks weighing tons stare at us from many hundred yards above. What force elevate them to such heights—some even so high as to be snow-capped the year round. Towering ledges of rock advance which seem determined to block the way of the iron horse. We quickly pass curves and the scenery is changed.

When darkness falls we pause and note what we have seen. On the train are many globe-trotters who are always willing to impart to you what information they possess of all the important places as we reach them—and sometimes a little more. Tunnels entertain us at intervals. After passing over and around the lofty mountains and up the Yellowstone valley for many miles we come to the Bad Lands in eastern Montana. Though the people are hungry, they almost begrudge the time given to the claims of appetite, there is so much for the eye to feast upon. Red clay hills by the hundred greet one on either side and the people who crowd the windows wonder what the Bad Lands are good for. We were told that the finest grazing country exist a short distance back. We have passed the towns of Missoula, Butte, Helena, Livingston, Billings, Miles City and Glendive, all good sized towns and are lively and prosperous. They are kept up by the great mining industry and stockraising. We passed many herds of cattle and sheep.

The curtain of night was drawn over us before we reached Mandan and Bismarck on the Missouri river. Here is being constructed a Fort, one of Senator Hansbrough's gifts to the people. When morning dawned we were near Fargo, the metropolis of eastern North Dakota. The air was keen and after breakfast we noticed a thin coating of snow covered the ground in Minnesota. Little Falls has grown to be quite a city. The Twin Cities were soon reached and a few hours pleasantly spent at the big show windows in holiday attire.

Being anxious to reach our destination in South Dakota, we boarded the C. M. & St. Paul train and a few hours ride landed us at our former home. The "Milwaukee" is finely furnished and the system is considered the safest, swiftest and best in the central states. When you take in the states go over the Milwaukee.

We spent two weeks or more at De Smet, our former home and were royally entertained by our old associates. The time passed only too swiftly. No town of its size contain a better or more hospitable people than De Smet. The best creamery butter manufactured is made here and furnish the good people with about all the cash they have. Drought cut the grain very short in the two Dakotas.

We visited our birthplace in northeastern Iowa, which we left twenty-three years ago, and though many of the old landmarks have been removed, yet in many respects the country had changed but little in some localities. Many of our school friends are still living on the same old farms and think Idaho out of the world. The country is improved, and land selling for $35 an acre ten years ago is now held at from $75 to $100 per acre. Young peoole and poor people wanting homes must crowd west, and as the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas contain thousands of acres of cheap lands, those states of course will get the bulk of the homeseekers, though very many will cross the Rockies on account of our milder climate. Iowa's wheat crop this year was rather moderate, but her corn crop is immense, aggregating 345,000,000 bushels. Corn is relatively higher than wheat, so that our sister state is rich beyond the dream of averice.

Times generally are very good and land continue to grow in value. The farmer did not grow anything this year but that it brings a good price. It is no wonder they voted as they did. Old democratic friends told us that they were afraid of Bryan's financial policy and could not afford to take chances at this time, hence they voted the republican ticket.

The weather was fine during our stay in South Dakota and Iowa, but had just commenced to get colder a day or two before we left. When we reached North Dakota on our return trip we encountered below zero weather and good sleighing around Fargo and Jamestown. To look out through the car window after dark and see the people bundled up in fur overcoats it reminded us of Greenland's icy mountains with their Eskimo population. We visited here two days in the Red River valley—at Portland—and we cannot say we enjoyed the cold blasts. This fall will compare with the fine fall of 1880. Us old timers well remember that memorable winter and the storms which swept across the then territory like a typhoon on the ocean. But despite the great storms of '80-1, the old-timers had "lots" of enjoyment out of the winter tie-up. We ground up wheat in coffee mills, twisted hay for fuel, ate antelope and an old ox now and then. Great times. The Dakotas look pretty in the spring time when mother earth is covered with a carpet of green. The surface is as level as the floor and one can see for miles, as far as the eye can penetrate.

Again we boarded the Northern Pacific and glided serenely westward over the steel rails. The country we passed over at night time going east we saw by daylight coming west. In addition to the 44 passenger cars, two dining cars ordered recently, the Northern Pacific has contracted for about $600,000 worth of new motive power, which will be built at the Tehenectady works. The order includes 50 engines, and the company has reserved the right to order 75 more locomotives at the same contract price if the conditions of trade warrants the additional order. The entire cost of new engines and cars will not be less than $850,000. A great road is the Northern Pacific.

We are hurried by innumerable and fascinating scenes along the Yellowstone, over the Rockies and through tall pines in Idaho, and in the Pacific Northwest once more. Our thoughts are toward the Orient, with all its centuries of grim and ghostly history, its present of perplexing problems, its future store for us—the shore of the newest world facing that of the oldest! Business men of the east look for great things in the Pacific.

We are at home! We have been asked, "Would you rather live east or west of the mountains?" That is a hard question to answer. People are best satisfied where they can do best in a financial way. Dakota has many good qualities—perfect wagon roads and nearness to cities which furnish excellent markets. Give our coast the same markets this would be the best country by far as nowhere can they raise such crops as here in the Palouse. The markets will come in time.

—The Northern Pacific has decided to reduce passenger rates in Montana to three cents after January 1st.

—Mrs. Judge Steele left Moscow last week for Ohio where she was summoned by a telegram announcing the death of her father.

—New opposition has developed to the sugar trust—the American Sugar Refining Co. Arbuckle's are planning, it is said to build a new refinery equal in capacity and every other respect to and adjoining the present one in Brooklyn.

—A $40,000 ship is being built for the Oriental trade, at Everett.

—A steamer is to be built at Aberdeen on the sound to cost $70,000. More laboring men are wanted to perform the work on hand.

—Hope seems to spring eternal in the breast of Paul Kruger, the patriotic Boer. He hints the Transvaal is still a nation and that the war is not yet over. He thinks the powers will yet intervene to stop the war.

—The British ship Hyson, which arrived in Tacoma last week, is the largest steamer ever on the Sound. Her length is 468 feet, 54 feet beam, and 33 feet deep. Gross tonnage 13,416. The steamer will load 8,000 tons of wheat for England which will be taken by way of Cape Horn, besides 1300 tons of coal for the voyage.

—Congress is grappling with the appropriations for the improvement of rivers and harbors, state buildings, and so on. We hear much for an appropriation for irrigation purposes. This last question effects the entire country west of the Mississippi river. Time is ripe for the west to take a firm and decided stand on the question of irrigation and something good may be accomplished. Heretofore congress has been making large appropriations for river and harbor improvements in the east and much of it has done but little good outside of the localities where the money was squandered. The irrigation of the millions of acres of land would make more homes and the business of the country would be vastly increased. The benefit would be general. The expenditure of several million dollars annually would stimulate business enormously. The western press should be unanimous in urging the representatives in congress to work for an appropriation of this nature. The west is certainly entitled to more attention along the line of internal improvements than it has had in the past. The government is spending large sums in aiding in the development of foreign trade and the opening of foreign markets for American manufacturers. The NEWS believes the home markets should be improved for American products. This could be done by reclaiming the arid land and settling them with industrious home builders.

Brave Men Fall

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poison in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. J. W. Gardner, of Idaville, Ind., says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he don't care whether he lives or dies. It gave me new strength and good appetite. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents at Kennedy's drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

Among the tens of thousands who have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for colds and la grippe during the past few years, to our knowledge, not a single case has resulted in pneumonia. Thos. Whitfield & Co., 240 Wabash avenue, Chicago, one of the most prominent retail druggists in that city, in speaking of this says: "We recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for la grippe in many cases, as it not only gives prompt and complete recovery, but also counteracts any tendency of la grippe to result in pneumonia. For sale by all druggists.

There is no pleasure in life if you dread going to the table to eat and can't rest at night on account of indigestion. Henry Williams, of Boonville, Ind., says he suffered that way for years, till he commenced the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and adds, "Now I can eat anything I like and all I want, and sleep soundly every night." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will digest what you eat.

GREAT ALARM IN ALASKA

INDIANS ON THE WARPATH.

Are Causing Great Uneasiness at Sitka—An Outbreak Seems Imminent—Every Precaution Is Being Taken—More Troops Needed.

Seattle, Dec. 25.—Advices have been received from Sitka, Alaska, stating that that town is in a condition of suppressed excitement, fearing an outbreak of Indians. The United States marines stationed there are under arms and the marshal and deputies are taking every precaution to protect the whites in case of trouble. The aspect of affairs is very serious at Sitka, as the Indians are by far the strongest numerically. There are 55 marines, commanded by Captain Pendleton, at Sitka.

Banker in Jail.

Berlin, Dec. 23.—Public attention was occupied wholly this week with crimes in high places. The sentence imposed on Sternberg, the millionaire banker, of two and a half years' imprisonment and five years' deprivation of civil rights, for crimes against morality, satisfies the public conscience and is well merited retribution. Sternberg rapidly acquired a fortune, estimated at 18,000,000 marks, by shady methods and maintained social relations with high officials for years, which disguised his most loathsome crimes in the lowest Berlin life. He was related by marriage to high officers and was a free giver for charitable purposes. It was said in his defense before the court that he had made a will leaving to the Prussian government the bulk of his fortune to establish an institution for insuring laborers against loss of work.

The Sternberg case is working widespread ruin among others. The death of Count von Merchheid Huellesm, the suspended chief of the criminal department, announced at the same hour as Sternberg's sentence, had a peculiarly tragic effect.

NEWS ITEMS.

San Francisco merchants will try to obtain direct steamship communication between that port and Manila. The San Francisco board of trade has petitioned the Pacific Mail Steamship company to run their vessels to Manila. As an alternative it has been suggested that a line of steamers be established to connect at Hong Kong with the Pacific Mail and carrying Philippine freight.

It is learned at Washington that the agreement signed by the ministers of the powers at Pekin naming conditions as a preliminary to the negotiations of peace terms contains a demand for the severest penalties that China can impose in the punishment of the high officials believed to be responsible for Boxer outrages. This refers particularly to the 11 Chinese nobles whose names have been mentioned in the press dispatches as those whom all of the nations contended should be executed.

Smallpox in Kentucky.

Louisville, Dec. 25.—The Courier-Journal says:

"The smallpox situation in Greenup county is critical. There are several hundred cases and the death rate has been 20 per cent. The state board of health has ordered that every person in the county be vaccinated and has ordered all the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad agents to discontinue the sale of tickets and to refuse all freight to or from the county. Guards have been stationed to prevent any one leaving the county. Several persons have been stopped who attempted to cross the Ohio river in skiffs."

Kidnaper and Robber.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 25.—Hobart Clayberg, a 17 year old boy, whose father, J. B. Clayberg, is a prominent citizen of Helena, Mont., was kidnaped in this city by two men. The boy was blindfolded and compelled to walk to Mattewan, a distance of 11 miles. It became so stormy that the kidnapers released young Clayberg at Mattewan, after robbing him of a small sum of money. The boy telegraphed here for help and was brought home during the night.

Thought to Be a Murderer.

Pueblo, Col., Dec. 25.—Maggie Hoel has been missing since 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon and it is feared she has been murdered. The girl, who was about 18 years old, lived with her sister, Mrs. Charles Beatty, in a lonely spot about three miles west of the city. Sunday Mrs. Beatty left Maggie in charge of her little child at home. Upon her return two hours later her sister was gone and the baby was alone in the house.

Was F. Connelly of Omaha.

Seattle, Dec. 24.—The coroner ascertained that the true name of William Burke, who died Friday as the result of a knife wound received in a saloon brawl a week ago, was probably F. Connelly, formerly of Omaha, Neb. Burke, or Connelly, steadfastly refused to tell the name of his assailant and died without divulging the secret.

Tragedy at Washington.

Washington, Dec. 24.—F. H. Morris of Ohio, auditor for the war department, was shot at 2:15 this afternoon in his office in the Winder building by a man named McDonald, formerly a distributing clerk in the office. Morris was shot through the heart and died almost instantly. McDonald, who did the shooting, then cut his own throat and shot himself.

Bank Vault Dynamited.

Dalton City, Ill., Dec. 24.—Between $3000 and $4000 was secured by a gang who dynamited the vault of the Dalton City bank. Although a posse was quickly formed, no trace of the robbers has yet been found.

TRADE REPORT.

Bradstreet's report for last week is as follows:

Seasonable conditions rule in trade at present. Holiday trade activity is wider and comparisons with previous years are favorable at most markets, with the possible exception of some parts of the northwest, where the spring wheat shortage and unseasonable weather have checked distribution. Notably cheerful reports come, too, from western jobbers, who have been called on for reassorting orders, and who report collections good. Quietness in wholesale lines is usual at this period, but it is to be noted that specially good advices come from the iron and steel, hardware, grocery, fancy goods, toys and confectionery trade, while a distinctly cheerful tone is found in shoes, leather and lumber, although eastern shipments of the first named are still considerably smaller than last year. Industrial lines are fairly well employed and strikes are few and far between. Prices show few changes, most staples being steady, but it might be noted that most farm products are slightly higher than last week and well above 1899.

New business in pig iron is small, but values are steady, which indicates confidence in the future outlook in spite of reiterated stories of a large cut in ore prices next season, the probability of which is being denied. Bessemer pig and steel billets are firm and the latter market is reported well under control. Here production is increasing, but stocks are smaller. Finished products are a trifle quieter, but much more active than usual at this time of the year. Plates are active and hold all the late advances.

Business in hardware is very active and at leading western points the season's business is reported the best on record. In structural material an immense amount of business is still being placed, and specifications are coming forward freely. Export trade is quieter and there are cabled reports of shutdowns of Scotch iron producers. The other metals are steady except in tin, which is weak on reports of larger shipments from the far east.

Speculation in the cereals has been narrow, dull and featureless, but prices have been aided by short covering on Argentine crop reports, advices of an exportable surplus from that country of only 40,000,000 bushels and the poor grade of receipts at the northwest. Corn receipts are large, but little of it grades to contract, while the export business holds up the price of the cash article. Cotton, following the reasoning as to a large supply being needed to satisfy even a much reduced consumption, signs of which are yet presented, and favored by smaller receipts, is slightly higher on the week and quotations are now about where they were before the late break.

Wool is fairly active, mostly for territory grades, but the woolen goods situation is still unchanged. Lumber is dull at retail, but firmly held by wholesalers, who look for a good trade next year. Bad weather restricts logging operations in the northwest. Eastern shoe manufacturers are well supplied with orders and leather firm, but hides are generally reported dull and easier.

Wheat (including flour) shipments for the week aggregate 4,123,350 bushels, against 4,785,577 bushels last week, 2,813,714 bushels in the corresponding week of 1899, 5,513,231 in 1898, 4,757,559 bushels in 1897 and 2,011,703 bushels in 1896. From July 1 to date this season wheat exports are 90,140,253 bushels against 100,383,636 bushels last season and 117,320,084 bushels in 1898-1899.

Business failures in the United States for the week number 260 as against 247 last week, 211 in this week a year ago, 212 in 1898 and 280 in 1897.

Canadian failures for the week number 28 against 18 last week, 29 in this week a year ago, 34 in 1898 and 30 in 1897.

Wheat.

Portland.—Buyers are still paying 54 @54½c for Walla Walla and 57c for bluestem, with fairly free selling movement.

Tacoma.—Wheat—Quiet and steady; bluestem, 56½c; club, 53½c.

English Are Weary.

New York, Dec. 24.—A dispatch from London says: Something very serious is happening to the British in South Africa. Lord Kitchener has completely shut off the news and serious cabinet meetings and numerous portentous conferences are taking place at the war office, while reinforcements of cavalry and irregular troops are being hurried out with all possible speed. There is growing discontent among the volunteer troops now in Africa and an inducement has been offered to them in the form of increased pay and multiplying the time credited to them.

The imperial yeomanry are clamoring to come home. They went out for a year and saw the pampered favorites of the household cavalry and the City Imperial volunteers relieved, while they have been given the nastiest work of the whole campaign. The government now offers to pay them a dollar and a quarter a day if they stay. This is an increase from their present pay of 28 cents. The colonials are demanding to be returned. This in the face of great Boer activity.

Accused of Murder.

South Berwick, Me., Dec. 25.—Edwin H. Knight was arrested at his home at South Berwick Junction on a warrant charging him with the murder of Mrs. Fannie Sprague at South Berwick last May. Mr. Knight is 41 years of age, a native of South Berwick, and a successful business man.

Roosevelt Will Be a Mason.

New York, Dec. 24.—Governor Roosevelt has been elected a member of Mattincock lodge, No. 846, A. F. and A. M., of Oyster Bay, L. I.

THE TELEGRAPH SUMMARY

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF.

A Complete Review of the Events of the Past Week—In This and Foreign Lands—Taken From the Latest Dispatches.

Oom Paul was given an enthusiastic reception by the people at Amsterdam recently.

England's poor and the Boer war are the two problems Lord Salisbury admits annoy him.

A resolution to appoint ex-Congressman Boutelle a captain on the retired list has passed both houses of congress.

Two electric cars on the Greenfield & Indianapolis line collided headon recently near Jim, Ind. Emory Scott and John Glasscack, motormen, were fatally injured. Six pasengers were badly hurt.

Discussing the Nicaragua canal the Novoe Vremya says Russia is not interested in the matter, but naturally sides with America.

At Malaga the body, in uniform, of Captain Krelschman, commander of the wrecked German training ship Geniesenau, was recently washed ashore and was buried. This is the first body recovered on the beach.

United States Ambassador Choate denied the report that he is about to resign his post, which he says is based on the belief that the death of his partner, Charles C. Beaman, would necessitate his return to his law practice.

Lord Salisbury's gloomy reference to South Africa recently at the conference of the national union of conservative associations is causing much heartburning in London. The conservative press, reluctant to admit that the situation is worse, complains of the premier's needless pessimism.

Officers at Manila consider that the return of volunteers will necessitate the abandonment of stations and that congress will provide for the increase in the regulars. It is believed that many volunteers will reenlist if bonuses are offered, the amount to be about equivalent to the expense of equipping and bringing out a recruit.

During a heavy fog at Ashland, Ky., recently two electric cars, both well filled with passengers, collided near the center of the city. They were running at a rapid rate of speed. Motorman John Scisco was pinioned between the cars and is believed to be fatally injured. Motorman William Campbell is also in a critical condition, being cut with glass about the body and face. Conductor Walter Hutchinson was badly cut about the body and face.

John (alias Red) Corbett, who has served several terms in the penitentiary, was shot and instantly killed at Chicago recently by Edward J. Grady, who surprised him with a companion in the act of committing a highway robbery. Grady fired, he says, only after Corbett had turned his revolver on him and there seems to be no doubt that it was only his quickness and true aim that saved his life. The bullet from Grady's revolver struck Corbett in the heart and he fell dead in his tracks. Corbett's companion escaped.

American scouts are searching the Luzon mountains for the rebels.

The comptroller of the currency has appointed J. Frank Alrich temporary receiver of the American National bank of Baltimore.

Former Governor Roger Wolcott of Massachusetts died at his residence in Boston recently. He became ill with typhoid fever several weeks ago.

A. C. Muir, chief engineer at the Esquimalt navy dock, is dead. J. W. McKay, wha came there is 1884 for the Hudson Bay company, is also dead.

At Wichita, Kans., H. F. Stevens, traveling salesman for Robeling & Co., of Chicago, made two desperate attempts at suicide in the city jail recently.

The postmaster general has accepted the resignation of J. R. Pitkin, postmaster of New Orleans, and has temporarily appointed P. H. Milner to take the office.

The Russian bank, according to a dispatch from St. Petersburg to the daily Express, is endeavoring to raise a loan in New York for rebuilding the Manchurian railroad.

General Osman Pasha, who led the Kurd rising in 1878, told a representative of the Daily Mail that he would leave London to head another uprising to free Kurdistan from Turkish rule.

Senator Hanna, chairman of the republican national committee, has announced the appointment of General Francis V. Greene of New York, to be chief marshal of the inaugural parade March 4 next.

Persevering to the last the silence with which he has shrouded his identity, John Owens, alias Redcliffe, went bravely to an ignominious death on the gallows at Paris recently, for the brutal murder of James F. Hogue of this city on September 2.

A serious shooting affray occured over business matters at Sopchoppy, 30 miles from Tallahassee, Fla., between State Senator W. C. Rouse, Edgar Nims, A. F. Edwards and Frank Walker. Nims was shot dead and Rouse has since died.

Justice Cooley in the U. S. circuit court has decided in favor of the American Bell Telephone company in the royalty suit brought by the Western Union Telegraph company. The case is known as the stock ticker case and has been in the courts since 1894. The amount involved is $12,000,000.

Dewet broke through the British lines and made a daring escape with the Boer army. Practically surrounded by the British pursuers, the whole force galloped to safety in a storm of hostile shells and bullets. Steyn led, Dewet in the rear.

The pig iron slump is keenly felt in the Cleveland district, Stockton-on-Tees, England. More furnaces will have stopped by December 31 than have known to shut down since 1886. The production of the district has decreased 35,000 tons monthly.

The strike of the telegraph operators of the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe railroad has been called off. It is presumed that there will be issued at once an order calling off the strike on all branches of the Atchison system, but the committee or the Order of Railway Telegraphers on the Gulf line has jurisdiction over Texas alone. The strike was begun in Texas 15 years ago. No concessions were asked by the men or offered by the company as a preliminary to calling off the strike.

Contents of the Joint Note.

Washington, Dec. 24.—The state department has made public the text of the joint note of the powers to China.

After reciting the events which transpired during the four months of the siege, the powers enumerate irrevocable conditions which they deem indispensable to expiate the crimes committed and prevent the recurrence.

The powers demand an apology to Germany by an imperial commission; a monument for Baron von Ketteler; the severest punishment of persons designated by the powers; the suspension for five years of civil examinations in cities where massacres occurred; monuments in desecrated cemeteries; the restriction of importations of arms; indemnities for governments, societies and individuals who have suffered. Also the right to garrison and fortify legations; the destruction of forts between Pekin and the sea; military occupation of forts designated by the powers between the sea and the capital; punishment by death for membership in anti-foreign societies; a decree making viceroys responsible for protection of foreigners; revision of treaties of commerce; reform of the department of foreign affairs.

"Until the Chinese government has complied with the above conditions to the satisfaction of the powers the undersigned can hold out no expectation that the occupation of Pekin and the provinces of China by the allied forces can be brought to a conclusion."

Search for Kidnapers.

Omaha, Dec. 24.—Detectives at work in the kidnaping case of Edward Cudahy, Jr., who was seized and forcibly carried from a point near his home Tuesday night and held for $25,000 ransom, beside the discovery of the house in which the young man was imprisoned, have other clues which promise to develop into something more definite in the near future. From persons living in the vicinity of the building the police have secured a good description of members of the gang and their methods of operation, the time they left the city and the direction in which they started. Mr. Cudahy is taking personal account of all that is being done and watching keenly the developments. He will not talk of the matter, however, beyond stating his belief that the police have the matter well in hand and will soon effect the capture of part or all of the gang.

Holdup in Oregon.

Reno, Nev., Dec. 24.—A special to the Evening Gazette from Lakeview, Ore., says: Saturday night the Lakeview and Parsley stage was held up the other side of the Odd Fellows' cemetery by a lone highwayman, who demanded the letter mail sacks. After throwing off the pouches the driver whipped up his horses and within 10 minutes after the holdup Sheriff Dunk and Marshal Wharton were at the scene. The sacks were found cut open and all the letters gone.

Chinamen Want to Vote.

Honolulu, Dec. 24.—Chinese here who are citizens of the republic of Hawaii are preparing to make an appeal against the ruling of the treasury department that they were not made citizens of the United States by the territorial bill. They base their appeal on section 4 of the bill, which says that all citizens of the republic are made citizens of the United States. There are nearly 400 Chinese affected by the ruling of the treasury department.

Diamond Swindlers.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—J. M. Bredt, a diamond merchant, and Mrs. Bertha Feitag were arrested and brought before Justice of the Peace Prindeville, charged with being involved in an extensive diamond swindle. It is asserted that scores of persons were victimized.

Express Car Burned.

New Ulm, Minn. Dec. 25.—An express car attached to a Minneapolis and St. Louis train was burned near Searles, seven miles from here. The car was heavily loaded with Christmas goods and the contents were destroyed. The origin of the fire is not known.

Caught a Desperate Man.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 24.—The police have arrested A. H. Long, alias J. A. Long, on the charge of robbing the safe of the Blue Mountain Ice company of $135 and checks and notes Wednesday night. He had been shadowed by detectives.

President Was Killed.

Lima, Ohio, Dec. 24.—William Reddick of Findlay, president of the Producers' Explosive company, was blown to atoms by an explosion of nitro glycerine in the magazine of the company's factory near here.

San Francisco, Dec. 24.—T. J. Sloan made application to the San Francisco Jockey club for a jockey's license, in accordance with the rules of the San Francisco Jockey club.

The Suicide of Allen Long.

Dayton, Wash., Dec. 24.—Allen Long committed suicide at the home of Newton Rayburn, about 15 miles west of Dayton, on Whisky creek, where he had been employed by Mr. Rayburn.

BOERS ARE MORE AGGRESIVE

COMMUNICATION IS CUT OFF.

British in a Bad Plight in Cape Colony—Sharp Encounters Between the Scouting Parties of Both Armies—Admiration for Dewet.

London, Dec. 24.—Since Lord Kitchener's recent dispatch, reporting the crossing of the Orange river into Cape Colony of two bands of Boers, official news concerning events in South Africa have been suppressed. Reports were received from Cape Town that the railroad had been torn up in three places north of De Aar. A column of 500 of all arms, under command of Major Shute, left Colesburg December 18 by the Philipstown road to relieve a post of 20 yeomen who were invested on a farm at Hamlefontein. The Boers had been beaten off by the yeomen before the relieving column arrived. Two wounded Boers were captured. They stated that their party had lost two killed and 12 wounded.

A Standerton dispatch, dated December 18, says that a sharp encounter took place with two parties of Boers near Kalspruit, 10 miles south of the railway. One of the Boer parties numbered 300. Both were routed after obstinate resistance. One retired in the direction of Gobelsaar's Drift and the other toward Villiersdorp. It is supposed that they lost severely. The British force lost two wounded and captured a quantity of live stock and forage.

Many people of all classes gathered about the war office last evening, anxious for the welfare of friends engaged in the war, and especially for that of those connected with the regiments which were engaged in the Nooitgedacht battle.

At a late hour a list of the casualties to noncommissioned officers and men was posted, showing that 60 had been killed and 102 wounded.

Dewet Compels Admiration.

London, Dec. 24.—General Dewet would be by far the most acceptable Christmas box to the average Englishman, though there seems little likelihood of the wish being granted. The desire for the suppression of this wonderful Boer leader, however, is accompanied by great admiration of his latest feat.

"It would be unworthy of the British name," says the Times, "to refuse the credit that is due to a feat of arms so brilliant as the unexpected dash backward of Dewet ad his men through the British lines."

Other papers take the same view, comparing the ride to Springhaas Nek with the charge at Balaklava. In fact, admiration for the extraordinary daring displayed by the Boers on this occasion almost predominates over the chagrin over the failure of the British officers to cope with their enemies. There is springing up a philosophy of indifference to the incapability of generals in South Africa. Reverses have become no longer unexpected.

Last Christmas the public almost went crazy over plum puddings and chocolate hampers sent to the soldiers on the veldt. This year they are not mentioned. In fact the public is unutterably weary of the long drawn out struggle, whose only interesting features are the sensational successes of Dewet. This in no way affects the government, whose determination to fight it out to the bitter end is evident from its intention to reinforce the already huge army in South Africa. Several members of the cabinet, however, would be heartily grateful were the Boer leaders to sue for peace.

Boers Well Commanded.

Cape Town, Dec. 24.—The Boers who have invaded Cape Colony are commanded by Generals Herrgoz, Philip Botha and Haasbroek. Besides the commands already reported, another force has crossed at Zoutzpan to reinforce all the Boers occupying Philipstown.

Rumor as to Kimberley.

London, Dec. 24.—The Evening Standard says it hears a report has reached London that Kimberley is seriously threatened by Boers.

Governor Roosevelt Makes Changes.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 23.—Governor Roosevelt announced that he had removed from office Asa Bird Gardiner, district attorney of New York county, on charges preferred by Deputy Attorney General H. H. Hammond. At the same time the governor made it known that he had appointed Eugene A. Philbin of New York city, commissioner on the state board of charities and a democrat, to fill the vacancy.

Strikers Fight.

Antwerp, Dec. 24.—The striking dockmen became more defiant and their attitude resulted in several conflicts with the police, one of which was serious. During the morning groups of strikers interfered with the men who were coming from the provinces to take their paces, and in several instances the new men were maltreated.

McKinley's Inauguration.

New York, Dec. 25.—President McKinley's second inauguration on March 4 next will be marked with a ceremonial splendor never before attempted in the city, says the Washington correspondent of the World. The inaugural committee, of which John Joy Edson is chairman, intends to make the inauguration a magnificent spectacle.

For Moran Bros.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Senator Turner of Washington and one of the Moran brothers of Seattle called on Secretary Long and made an urgent request that a contract for the construction of one of the new battleships lately bid on be awarded to Moran Bros.

A New Governor.

Manila, Dec. 23.—The Philippine commission has appointed H. Phelps Whitmarsh, governor, and Otto Scherer, secretary of the province of Benguet.

UPON A CATARACT'S BRINK.

Thrilling Experience of a Voyager on the Ottawa River.

The horrible experiences of one who has been swept away by some merciless current and finds himself at last at the brink of a cataract may possibly be imagined, but there are few who survive to relate to us the particulars of such an ordeal. Yet there is one instance where a man was saved at the very edge of the falls.

There are few more imposing bits of scenery in Canada than where the Ottawa River pours thundering and foaming over the Chaudiere Falls. When the water in the river is low, as it is in autumn, there is a fall of about forty feet, but when the river is swollen by melting snows in the spring the apparent depth of the fall is lessened. At any time the rush and swirl of the great river over this ledge of rock is a sight worth seeing.

In some places the water pours over in a dense and irresistible volume, while at other points a shallow stream will spray itself over a higher table of rock.

On the upper Ottawa are floated booms of logs which feed the large lumber industries of that region. Handling these wet logs is a treacherous business, and it is easy to lose one's foothold and fall into the swift stream. Accidents of this kind occur frequently. The only case that did not have a fatal termination is the one referred to here.

The man was busy forking these logs with those sharp tongs used to swing them about and draw them in, when he missed his footing and fell into the river. Though a strong swimmer, he could not withstand the current and was swept out into the stream and on toward the falls. Nearing the falls, he found himself still conscious, and it happened that he was being floated over one of those tables of rock where the water was so shallow that he felt himself touch. He struggled to regain his feet, and was successful in so doing, so that he found himself standing in, perhaps, a foot of rushing water, at the brink of the cataract, a great current surging by him on every hand.

But it seemed hopeless. He saw no way of getting to shore, and no one from the shore could get to him. Many people on the banks of the river were watching him and trying to study out some plan to save him. Finally a large derrick was brought to bear, such as is used in building operations. A great arm with ropes was swung out over the current, and when the man had fastened himself securely with the ropes he was raised up high and swung in, just as a large stone would be raised in constructing a building.

WALES SETS A NEW STYLE.

Heir to England's Throne Eschews Creased Trousers.

This is the new photograph of the Prince of Wales, which has caused consternation among the chappies of New York. It is the proof indisputable of the fact that his royal highness is wearing his trousers without creases and has been wearing them so for some little time. The Prince's trousers are pressed "even all around" so as to give the leg a perfectly cylindrical "set." A Chicago exquisite was asked what effect this change of fashion on the part of the Prince would have on swelldom in America. He said: "There is no doubt that the Prince of Wales sets the fashion for London and that we follow the London fashions in general. It is hard to say, however, whether the crease wil go or not. We are largely elastic in our modes. The crease is without question desirable and pretty. I should say that if we wish to we can have creases in our trousers without the consent of any other nation. But if the business once gets a good start it is more than probable that the round leg will come into vogue again. Meanwhile I would advise my friends in the words of Pope:

WALES' NEW PICTURE.

"Be not the first by whom the new are tried, Nor yet the last to lay the old aside."

An Army Guards the Sultan.

When the Sultan of Turkey attends the Friday midday prayer at the mosque in Constantinople the garrison of 30,000 men are stationed along the route in such a way that he shall be safely guarded from the moment he leaves his palace until he is on his carpet in the sacred edifice.

Russian View of the Canal.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 24.—The Novosti, discussing the Nicaraguan canal, says: "England is evidently incapable of opposing the canal, ... being the American ... proportionately as England is losing prestige."

Fire a Shot 20 Miles.

The United States will fire a shot twenty miles, which will be a record breaker for the distance. The gun from which it is to be fired will be a marvel of American ingenuity and workmanship. Another marvel of American ingenuity is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. For fifty years it has cured constipation, indigestion dyspepsia and biliousness.

The Cleveland Citizen gives some statistics showing what labor receives for producing goods, and what the goods bring when sold, which is as follows:

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No cure, No Pay. Price 25 cents.

The Russians have suppressed two more newspapers in Finland.

It is well to remember that GARFIELD TEA cleanses the system, purifies the blood, regulates the liver and kidneys, and cures chronic constipation.

THE GENESEE NEWS.

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT GENESEE AS SECOND-CLASS MAIL MATTER.

Subscription rates, one year, $1: six months, 5o.

J. W. HOPP, CHAS. FOWLER — Editors and Proprietors.

—Ex-Sheriff Sims of Whitman county, pushed through Genesee the first of the week.

—The prohibitionists want a state paper and A. E. Gipson is talked of as editor in-chief.

—Dubois may not be senator. It is said the Mormons may oppose him. Jim Hawley may shy his caster along with Moore of this county.

—The Grand Central hotel boarders were treated to a big dinner on Christmas day and have been complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Robinson ever since. Turkey galore.

—The vote of the late election has been counted and McKinley is found to have received the largest plurality vote of any president ever elected—something like 800,000. Poor Idaho!

—Last Friday the public schools closed till next Wednesday. Exercises, trees and treats took place in every department, and all went home happy and with presents, even to the instructors.

—Every day for the past ten days the turkeys have been very uneasy—large numbers of the emblems of the American Thanksgiving for Christmas have disappeared with cranberry sauce. The gobble, gobble gobbles no more.

—Taxes become delinquent on the first Monday in January and consequently considerable cash has found its way to the collector's safe. We have yet to hear of the first man to enter a kick because he thought the amount of his tax was too low.

—Rim Rock precinct for the next two years will have a court of its own. Judge Ingle, justice-elect, and Geo. Blume propose to qualify and deal out justice to all. It will be quite a saving as many cases have gone to Lewiston in the past for want of officers to enforce the laws in that community.

—Special Agent Steunenberg sold 1800 acres of school land on the reservation last week, in the Nesperce section, the price averaging $12 per acre. Charles Hutchins secured a quarter section for $1,840. During the coming year other reservation lands will probably be offered, in response to a general demand.

—Grover Cleveland comes out from his hiding place and tells the democrats that they need not reorganize, but should return to their old faith and "give the rank and file a chance." In a lengthy article Cleveland reviews the party's record, and discusses its defeats since 1864 in detail. He attributes the last two defeats to "the fallacy of free silver and populism." Bryan has the floor.

—Services at the German Lutheran church, Genesee: Lydvester-eve, Monday, Dec. 31st, at 7:30 p. m. New Years day, Tuesday, January 1st, 1901, services combined with the Lord's supper, confession at 10 a. m.; services at 10:30 a. m. January 7th, 1901, the annual session of the German Lutheran congregation will take place, opening at 2 p. m. All votive members are requested to be present. A cordial invitation is extended to those who wish to become members. Sunday, Dec. 30, Sabbath school at 10:30 a. m.

—People in this vicinity and Juliaetta were surprised last week to hear of the marriage of Miss Effie Plummer of Juliaetta, and Dr. Baker of Chewiah, Wash. It took place in Spokane last Wednesday. Miss Plummer is the well known daughter of Dr. Plummer of Juliaetta, and has twice run for county superintendent of schools on the democratic ticket of Latah county, and made a good run both times. The groom is a successful physician in Chewiah.—Kendrick Gazette.

—Two dead horses in the bottom of a well, a broken buggy and two scared and bruised occupants is the net result of a runaway accident that occurred on Normal hill at Lewiston Friday last, reports the Teller. Clarence Snyder, of Genesee, had driven down to the normal school to take his sister home for the Christmas holidays, and just as they were leaving the horses, startled at something, made a sudden spring, broke the coupling pole and threw the occupants to the ground where, though bruised and shaken up, they escaped serious injury. With the wreck of the buggy the horses escaped in the gathering darkness and brought up in the bottom of an old well on the Yantis tract where the owner discovered them as soon as he could follow.

—For two-bits you get a chance at drawing a prize at Vollmer's.

—Typhoid fever is reported at Troy and other towns in the Palouse.

—A postoffice to be known as Cold Springs will be established on the reservation with W. W. Fairburn as postmaster.

—Section-foreman Bell has been promoted. Soon he will take his departure for the coast and take charge of a construction crew. Billy Lytle, a young gentleman from Lewiston will have charge of the Genesee section and made a visit here this week.

—The ball Christmas night, given by the Woodmen of the World lodge, was quite largely attended and an enjoyable time had. Some sixy people took supper at the Cool restaurant. We understand another dance will be given by this order on New Year's eve—dance the old century out and the new in.

—S. G. Kitchen came back from Genesee, where he is now stationed, to straighten up the affairs of the depot here and to pack up his household goods preparatory to moving to Genesee, to which place he returned Wednesday, his wife following Thursday. Mrs. Kitchen came to this town when it was first started and has resided here continuously ever since.—Troy News. The paper also states: "Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Brown contemplate moving to Genesee in a few days."

—Did you get something in your stocking Christmas morning? Judging from happy faces many of the children did. If the older ones failed to get presents let their hosiery be kept full of contentment if nothing more. Grumblers against fate, the commonwealth, and general kickers against the pricks, should disappear from view with the close of this century. We have no room for the pessimist, for he sits down to turkey and cranberry sauce like other people and would ask know real sorrow if he saw it in the road. The world owes you nothing except that which you earn by toiling. Turn over a new leaf and start in the new century happy and determined to bring cheer to all you come in contact.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

LUMBER, SASH, DOORS, SHINGLES, at W. J. HERMAN'S.

—The Potlatch was on a rampage last week and as a result quite a washout occurred between Troy and Kendrick, a bridge and about 200 feet of the track going down stream. The heavy rains early last week and the chinook melting the snow in the mountains are responsible for the swollen streams in this part of Idaho. The Lewiston train was hemmed in Saturday, Sunday and Monday and the mail had to be transferred via Uniontown. The rapid rise in the water caught the woodmen who had rafts worked up on the beach. One Orofino man had fifty cords swept away. The Clearwater reached the highest point since June, coming up nearly five feet in twelve hours. The Northern should take a tumble and extend its line from Genesee and thus avoid these semi-annual and expensive washouts.

—Miss Emma Nebelsieck came over from Moscow to get her Christmas presents. Miss Emma seems to be well pleased with her position at the court house.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Asbury will, after the first of the year, take a trip to the Coeur d'Alenes and from there go to the coast and see what there is to be seen, and, may locate.

—Women were elected superintendents of schools in every county in the state, excepting only Oneida, Owyhee, Idaho, Bear Lake and Cassia—sixteen women to five men.

—Some one burned a stack of straw and hay belonging to Theo. Lorang a few nights ago. A penitentiary sentence awaits such fellows and they will get their deserts if such depredations are continued.

—Christmas evening the snow commenced falling and Wednesday the most was buried by the "beautiful." The diamonds were heard planning on expeditions for the extermination of rabbits, deer and bear.

—R. F. Crockett, brother-in-law of Mr. Hoover, spent a couple of days here this week. He and Mr. and Mrs. Hoover went to Uniontown to celebrate Christmas with the L. F. Darr and other friends.

—Several families, acquaintances of the Lorangs, are expected out from Wisconsin before the first of March next. They come, we understand, to buy homes. Rev. Eyrich also expects a number of people out from Minnesota during the next six months to reside in Idaho.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Weger, of Spokane, came down to Genesee Monday to spent Christmas with his sister, Mrs. John Reed. Christmas evening about a dozen of the young people invaded the residence and had a royal time, keeping Mr. Brewer in a happy frame of mind for several hours.

—All the Genesee stores report having very heavy trade both Saturday and Monday, two last days before Christmas. The streets presented much activity on those days. Old people as well as children were seen looking around with smiling faces, laughing and joeling, telling what they were expecting in their stockings. The merchants were happy, and with extra clerks, had all they wanted to do.

—The NEWS wishes its many patrons and readers a Happy New Year. While this paper does not take a back seat for any of its neighbors when it comes to local news, the proprietors will strive to improve its state and Palouse news department. All news now and no more politics. We should have a few more subscribers, and with the present amount of advertising, or a little more, we can shove out the best local paper in the country. We thank heartily those who patronize the paper, for without this support the NEWS would not shine.

—Eggs, two for a nickel!

—Henry Bottjer is down from Spokane college for the holiday vacation.

—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore and Lawrence came down from Spangle Saturday to spend Christmas week with the Geo. Hobson family and visit their many friends.

—The NEWS is in receipt of complimentary tickets to the poultry show to be held at Pullman January 23-6, next century. Thanks; but that is not the kind of hen party we attend.

—Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Beck, of Harris, Kansas, arrived here Monday evening just in time to eat Christmas turkey with our mayor and Mrs. Beck. Prof. Cobbs assisted in devouring the aforesaid bird.

—Geo. Vennigerholz sends the "stuff" and requests the NEWS be sent him at Chesaw, Okanogan county, Wash. He also sends a happy new year greeting with a pen picture of his nearest bachelor neighbor.

—Sam Johnson, everybody knows Sam, has sold his place near Melrose and with his family moved to Grangeville to let the children take advantage of city schools. Mr. Johnson will drive his stock to the Salmon river country in the spring.

—The Rathbone Sisters held a farewell reception Friday night in honor of Mrs. Gray who will leave Genesee. Progressive high five entertained the people until a late hour when elegant refreshments made them happy. Hopp snatched first prize, Mrs. Gray second and Wm. Brown the handsome booby.

—C. H. De Bow received a letter from his brother Clark who is visiting the Michigan relatives. Clark is having fun bracing up against the zero weather and when his visit is out will be glad to return to Idaho. Master Merritt is growing stronger and enjoys the high living which he evidently gets.

—Miss Carrie Smith, Mrs. Orcutt and Ai Wycoff came down from Murray and Wardner to spend holiday week with Genesee people. Ai is looking well. He has a mining claim adjoining one which recently was bonded for $150,000 and is sanguine he will wear diamonds, or something better than Idaho opals.

—The ladies make a protest the way the boys congregate in the postoffice lobby during the distribution of the mails. The boys scuffle and use the place for a play house. This nuisance should be stopped. Parents should either instruct their children to remain away from the postoffice until the mails are overhauled or request them to keep quiet while in the building. The room is always filled by business people who have keys to lock boxes, and by a few ladies, and there is no room for noisy children. Postmaster Owen has written to the department at Washington relative to the matter.

—Good-bye, old year and old century! Welcome New Year of 1901 and new century! The next year and the next century will solve many questions of great importance to this country. Much is left over to be performed—so let us all rejoice that the dawn of a new century is loaded with unused time that can be utilized for good purposes. The twentieth century should be welcomed, while the retiring century, with its work for civilization and humanity, is entitled to a great deal of praise. Let the heart go out in thankfulness for all that is good and great and helpful in the century left behind. The left-over problems of the past are to be solved by the future, and during the next hundred years in human history evolution to civil government, in social affairs and in every other field cultivated by the energy and intellect of the race, will bring forward many questions that will tax the heart and the conscience of mankind. Welcome the new that it may bring wider opportunities for the spiritual and intellectual development of man, a keener and better appreciation of the fraternal relationships of the race and the unity of human efforts in climbing to a higher goal. Let us strive to do better, improve.

—Christmas has come and gone! Genesee people celebrated the event in a quiet manner. Each of the churches observed the day by song and prayer. The German Lutheran building was crowded with people who came out to listen to the fine program which was successfully rendered on Christmas eve and to get presents which Santa had provided and hung on two large evergreen trees. At the Methodist church Santa Clause held forth in a snow house in which he had presents; he also had presents on trees and the children were all kindly remembered. At the Congregational church jolly St. Nicholas tastefully decorated two evergreens with dainty presents for the young. After the program was rendered the youngsters went home as chipper and talkative as you please. Christmas exercises were held at the Norwegian Luther chapel. The Catholic church was decorated with evergreens and appropriate services were held that day at 5, 8 and 10:30 o'clock a. m. The day was given up to visiting and feasting, business being entirely suspended. The weather was mild—cloudy in the forenoon, in the afternoon the sun came out so warm that many people fearing sunstroke took to cover. In the early evening Mother Goose's dish pan was kicked over by a gosling and the feathers commenced to fly. Somebody yelled "going to have sleighing" when the marshal appeared around the corner and hustled the man off to the skookum house. As everybody had presents the day terminated happily. But how modest were the wants of the youth of 100 years ago compared to those of the children of the present day! A few sweetmeats, perhaps a clumsy toy or two, an apple, or a handful of nuts—these were enough to gladden the hearts of our ancestors who happened to be the boys and girls at the dawn of this century. It is different at the close.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Simmons, son and wife and a number of children, arrived in Genesee the past week from the territory of Oklahoma. These came on the recommendation of the people who came from there last summer. All will become residents of Idaho.

—S. P. Burr is home from the University for the holidays.

Winter Homes in Vineland

Are enjoyed by scores of ranchers and miners. They make garden homes here for their families because of the excellent schools, churches, mild and healthful climate, good roads the year round, near neighbors, social advantages, pure cheap water, and all the rest that go to made life worth living. The fine gardens and orchards and poultry on the two to ten-acre tracts make a good living for the families. The ranchers and miners keep up their business on the hills and in the mountains and make their money there. Is this plan of living worth your investigation? Write a postal card for our new illustrated pamphlet. Or, better, come and see for yourself.

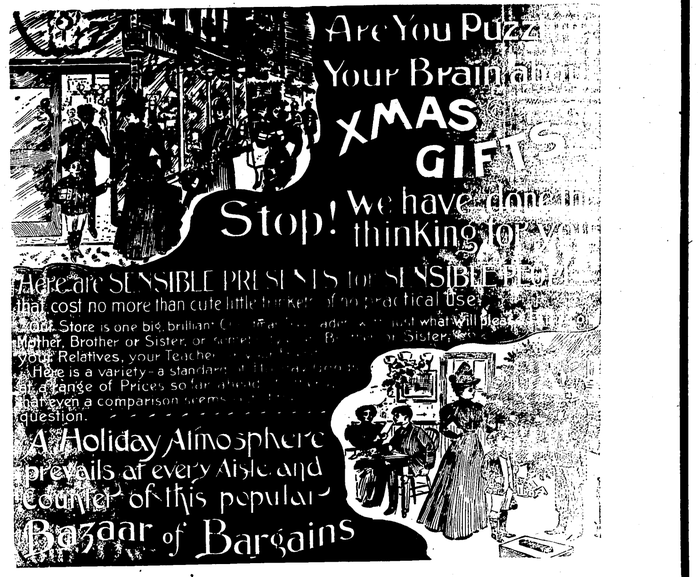
A MERRY CHRISTMAS!



JNO. P. VOLLMER,

LARGEST DEALER IN IDAHO.

JEREMIAH STAYED A LONG WHILE.

She lingers 'neath the mistletoe,
With blushes all her features glow;
She's just been kissed with vim, and so
She lingers 'neath the mistletoe.
Comes only once a year, and so
She lingers 'neath the mistletoe.
—H. M. Saumenig.

"Well, in the first place, there's them movers that ye let camp down by the spring—the woman's dead. She was buried this mornin'. The man says she was sick when they came. This ought to be a warnin' to ye, never to let campers settle on this place again."

"She was left a widow, an' her brother was takin' her back where he lived, so he could take keer of her," was Jeremiah's explanation.

"Take keer of her! He ain't got sense enough to take keer o' himself!" retorted Miss Minervy with scorn. "I wisht he'd hitch up an' go along, wherever he's a goin'."

Jeremiah looked thoughtfully out of the window, towards the leafless oak trees at the foot of the hill. The canvas-covered wagon was still down by the spring; he could just see the top of it. Miss Minervy expected that he would immediately go down the hill and request the camper to move on, but he did not do so till late that evening.

Jeremiah stayed a long time. Dusk came, and dark. At last she heard Jeremiah's step—a shuffling step, as of one feeling his way. Presently the door opened and Jeremiah stood there with a big bundle in his arms.

"Minervy," he said, and stopped.

"Well!" replied his amazed sister. "What in creation have you got there, Jeremiah?"

"Minervy," said Jeremiah again, floundering helplessly.

But the bundle answered the question for itself, for it all at once began to wriggle, and at one end of it appeared two ragged little shoes; and at the other end a tangled, golden head and a dimpled, 2-year-old face.

"Jeremiah! Whose child is that? And what are you doing with it?"

"It's the dead woman's baby," said Jeremiah, ... fire and sat down, with the baby on his knee.

"Jeremiah, you go right straight an' ...

MONTANA.

The game law is a dead one; so says Supervisor Moser. He says the game wardens are powerless.

Matt Levin died last week in Anaconda of congestion of th lungs. He was a pioneer of Montana.

All school children in Helena who have never felt the vacine points, must become vacinated within the next week.

Joe Ryan's lodging house and saloon of Butte, was destroyed by fire recently. The loss was about $6,000; insurance, $3,000.

The nine cases of smallpox at the home of Louis Norman, in the Ruby valley, are getting along nicely on their way to recovery.

J. H. Butler, formerly chief dispatcher of the Montana Central at Great Falls, who went to Texas to accept a similar position on the Cotton Belt, has returned to Great Falls, where he will probably make his home.

The smallpox in Butte is confined almost entirely to persons not vaccinated. Some doctors are charged that they are responsible for the spread of the disease because they do not report all cases.

R. N. Adams, a young man employed at the Reese tunnel sawmill in Tom Miner basin, about 30 miles south from Livingston, was probably fatally injured last week by being struck by a falling tree.

It is expected that there will be a meeting of the fruitgrowers called to assemble soon after Christmas in Missoula for the purpose of discussing changes that have been proposed in the fruit and tree inspection laws.

Oscar Moallo, one of the brightest of the young finlanders in Red Lodge was recently killed in the Rocky Fork coal mine. He was at work in No. 6 incline, 600 feet under ground, when a mass of rock weighing tons fell upon him and completely buried all but his head.

W. E. Lynch and J. A. Graham, two of the best known passenger conductors on the Kalispell division of the Great Northern, have been notified that their services are no longer required, the reason assigned being that the recent wreck near Belton was caused by their negligence.

The new railroad from Kalispell to Flathead lake will be completed and ready for operation by the first of the new year. This road is twelve miles long, and has been built entirely by private capital, but it is understood that the new line will eventually be made a part of the Great Northern system.

The Supreme Court of Montana has affirmed the judgment of the district court in the case of the Helena Water Works company against the city of Helena, holding that the contest for water between the two was not legal, because the city has exceeded its constitutional limit of indebtedness.

J. F. Wilkins, of Boseman, was in Butte last week with some fine specimens of buffolo heads and hides which have been secured from the famous Allard herd on the Flathead Indian reservation. This herd is now considered the finest in the United States, as the roam the hills almost the same as before the state was settled.

The increased use of books in Montana during the year indicates an advance in the right direction. In June, 1899, there were 160,000 books in the public and semi-public libraries of the state. One year later there were 191,000, a gain of 19 per cent. The loans for home use in the state amounted to 300,000 volumes during the year. Helena leads in the number of libraries and books.

IDAHO.

Idaho woolgrowers will meet at Boise, January 7.

E. H. Levy will establish a small sampling plant and smelter at Boise.

A new and complete 60-ton smelting plant is to be established at Mineral.

B. C. Church is building a launch for navigation of the stream above Asotin.

The artesian well now being sunk on the Yantis tract on Normal hill has reached a depth of about 30 feet.

A serious accident occurred to the Neely family near Moscow recently. They were thrown from a wagon, the wheels striking a chuck hole, tongue broke and the horses ran away.

The Lewiston water and power company began grading last week for its boulevard at Vineland, which will extend a mile and a quarter south from the bridge along the top of the bluff. The boulevard, which will be 60 feet wide, will be covered with fine basalt gravel.

The Lewiston-Spokane train encountered a washout last week and both mail and passengers were returned. About two hundred feet of track was destroyed two miles from the mouth of Potlach creek. The water was almost to the flood stage. This city was without mail or travel facilities again from the same old cause—high water in Potlach creek.

Clyde Coons, a normal school student died at Lewiston last week after a brief illness. A rumor was current to the effect that death resulted from injuries received in a foot-ball game at Grangeville, Thanksgiving day. Prof. Hunter, the manager of the team denies the story. The doctors failed to diagnose the case satisfactorily. Young Coons was from Grangeville. He was 18 years old.

Frank Nye and George Hinman, two woodchoppers residing near Ramsey, had a desperate fight recently. They have been living together for several weeks, occupying a cabin about half a mile from Ramsey. At the breakfast table they came to blows, Hinman landed on Nye's eye and Nye retaliated by sticking a fork in his adversary's neck. The fight was continued for several minutes, Nye using the fork and Hinman his fists. Nye was getting the worst of the encounter when he seized an ax, his opponent grabbed a shot gun and it looked for a few minutes like there would be one less woodchopper in that section of the country. Hinman kept his opponent at bay with the gun until he saddled his horse and rode to town. He swore out a warrant for Nye but he escaped.

The almost impassable condition of the roads throughout the country from the 1st of December until the following April has been taken up with the department at Washington, D. C., by citizens of the Potlach with a view of ascertaining if the government can give any assistance, either in the way of furnishing data for building good roads or financial aid.

Frank Annett, builder and promoter of the New York ditch, and his attorney, have been in Nampa in consultation with Colonel Dewey and business men, to the end of extending the New York ditch so as to bring the water to the short line track east or Nampa, and several miles above the Ridenbaugh canal. The time for the construction of the reservoir of the Ridenbaugh ditch as provided by United States law—five years from date of filing—is now within sixty days of its limit and something must be done in the near future.

The Spokane city library will be a free institution after January 1st, and its 8000 volumes will be open to public choice with absolutely nothing to pay. The council yesterday voted to throw the doors of the library open to one and all alike. It is estimated that the result of the move will be the doubling of the demand on the library within a short time.

The excitement over gas and oil in the Rosalia district continues, and preparations are being made to develop the field to ascertain the extent of the gas, and if it is here in paying quantities. It is reported that Luke Rawls, who owns a tract of land in the "Hole in the Ground" at the head of Rock Lake, has bonded his land to Spokane capitalists, who will sink a well and that a cash payment on the bond has been made.

Hon. A. J. Splawn has returned to North Yakima from Chicago, where he was in attendance at a stock show. He selected from a lot of 200 carloads of Herefords two bulls under one year that took the first prize and purchased them to add to his fine farm known as Springdale on the Cowiche creek. The animals cost about $3,000 delivered in this city, and are said to be the finest in the world.

If the plans adopted at a meeting recently held in Spokane develop properly, Spokane will be the scene of a huge exposition in 1902. The meeting adopted strong resolutions and appointed a committee of 11 citizens to work on the preliminaries. Thirty well-known business and mining men were present at the meeting. A government appropriation of $250,000 is to be asked for the exposition, the purpose of which is to show the mineral resources of the northwest. The name adopted was the Pacific Northwest International Exposition. It is projected to be opened in June and closed in November.

OREGON.

The Corvallis Poultry Show was a great success.

There is a shortage of about 15,000 bushels as a result of an investigation at the Junction City warehouse.

A fire broke out in the washed wool stored in the picker department of the woolen mills recently, probably from a steam pipe, but was extinguished before the damage was extensive.

The Ashland city election passed off very quietly. Very little interest was taken in the polling, outside of the anti-saloon league, on the license question, and a very light vote was cast.

Articles of incorporation have been filed in the county clerk's office by the Dalles Driving Association, which has recently been formed here for the purpose of providing a permanent track and proper grounds where trials of speed, district fairs, public games, etc., can be held.

MINES AND MINING NEWS

OUR NORTHWESTERN MINES.

Items Gleaned From Late Reports—All Districts Are Being Developed—A Prosperous Year Is Predicted—Mining Notes and Personals.

From a silver-lead to a gold mine, from a gold mine to a copper mine, all in one shaft, is not a "far cry," for Nature is wonderful in her capacity for change. Evolution is her pet law and why should this law not be as effective in the mineral world as in the creation of a monkey from a mouse. Wonderous are the works of nature, in fact only equalled by the fecund imagination of some promoter of mining companies.

Republic.

Superintendent James S. Wyatt, of the Mountain Lion states that he has commenced sinking the main shaft. When work was resumed the shaft was 425 feet below the surface. It will be continued until a depth of 200 additional feet has been reached, which will make it far the deepest shaft in the camp.

D. A. Mills exhibited some fine specimens of copper ore recently that he had taken from the Oversight. It is entirely different from any ore heretofore found in the camp. Its extent has not been ascertained.

The California continues to improve and is fully meeting the expectations of those who long ago predicted that it had a great future.

The Quilp raise from the 200 foot level is still in 12 feet of high grade ore.

Shipping ore is being taken out of the northeast drift on the Flag Hill. There is four feet of ore, all of which will pay to treat.

Work is progressing quite rapidly on the Admiral Dewey claim. The property lies nearer the granite contact than any other mine under development.

Considerable surface work is being done on the Chespa-Blue Jay. An effort is being made to uncover the ledge near the Morning Glory tunnel. The wash gravel is quite deep, and hence the work of reaching the ledge is considerable. The work is being done to catch the north and south ledge that passes through the Morning Glory.

It is understood that the Golden Chariot is soon to resume. The property has had considerable work done on it, and it is claimed that some good ore was struck. About that time the treasury became depleted and work was suspended.

The pay-shoot in the Chico ledge has widened out to six feet. The ore body has increased its width two and one-half feet within the past few days. It gives promise of growing still larger. It is not unreasonable to believe that in time it will become as large as the shoot in the Republic.

Two men are driving a tunnel in the Racket. It is in about 160 feet. Some fine stringers of quarts is now in the face of the tunnel. From the dip it is predicted that the ledge will be encountered in a short time.

The drifts on the Princess Maude have commenced. They will be driven 100 feet north and 100 feet south. This will be the third, or 300 foot level below the tunnel level.

The new crushing machinery for the Republic mill will be installed in a short time, as every preparation has been made for its reception. It is not considered probable that the mill will be able to take much if any custom ore until these auxiliary crushers are working, and the mill has been brought up to its full capacity of 200 tons.

Letters received from the Superintendent of the Morning Glory state that the ore on the 250 foot level, where the shaft recently encountered the ledge and where a drift has been started, is stadily improving with progress. This means that there is a remarkably good showing.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Material progress has been made in mining in the Slocan division during the past summer, and developments have taken place sufficient to place the resources of the camp beyond the experimental stage. Springer creek has seen the greatest activity, though Lemon, Twelve Mile and Ten Mile have received more or less attention. Fully $500,000 has been spent in development and outside improvements and about $300,000 worth of property bonded. Employment has been furnished to 500 men during the summer, diminishing to 250 or 300 of a permanent and present pay-roll. Outside improvements include wagon roads up Springer and Lemon creeks, trails to various properties, a ten stamp mill at the Chapleau, sawmill, office and ore shoots for the Arlington, and numerous new camps at other properties. Almost all of the capital seeking investment here during the summer has been American, and success has followed in each instance. The American investors have been shrewd enough to see that the dry ores of this division warrant and guarrantee large returns upon the capital invested. The indications point to even a better season in 1901, though 1900 is the best on record.

Mr. Jay Graves says the Granby Smelter company has signed a three years' contract to deliver monthly 700 tons of copper matte to New York, and 200 tons to Liverpool. Mr. Graves was reticent as to values, but being pressed, stated that the filling of these contracts would reach a yearly total of from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000. He confirmed the rumor that the Granby smelter, the Knob Hill, Old Ironsides and Grey Eagle would be amalgamated early in the new year, the new company to be known as the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting & Power Company, with a capital of $15,000,000, $2,500,000 treasury and $12,500,000 alloted pro rata to the shareholders of the four companies above named. Mr. Graves also made the important announcement that the enlarged company would probably pay a dividend as soon as reorganization is completed.

A few days ago after pumping steadily for five days the water was taken out of the Brooklyn mine and the compressor is now running and development being prosecuted. The Dominion Copper company is the owner of these properties, and already has about 45 men at work. This force will be largely augmented as soon as room can be found for the additional men. It is said that the company is figuring on a largely increased capacity for its machinery plant to be installed some time in the coming year.

By reason of the delay of the arrival of machinery there is little hope of seeing the Greenwood smelter blown in before the end of January next. The machinery that has already arrived is being rapidly assembled, and Paul Johnson, manager of the smelter department of the British Columbia Copper company, is busy superintending its installation.

The Mother Lode mine has sent down to the smelter 4440 tons, and by the time the plant is ready to commence operations there will be an abundance of ore ready for treatment.

The winze on the drift of the Waterloo, in Camp McKinney, was down nearly 30 feet at last report, and a very considerable further improvement in the quality of the ore has been shown, according to reports at the office of the company. The showing in the bottom of the winze is remarkably fine and it assures a large and rich body of ore. It is probably that the sinking of the permanent working shaft through the stope from the old working shaft through the stope from the old drift will be commenced before long.

John Dorsey, of Grand Forks, during his recent visit to Chicago, organized a development company, which has just bonded two well known Summit camp properties, the J. S. and the Blue Bell. The former is owned by James Jarrell and Henry Snibley. The amount of the bond on it is $27,000.

The mining possibilities of the Similkameen district in British Columbia are probably as little known as those of any district of equal promise in the northwest. The district has long been isolated by lack of transportation facilities, and what development has been done, of immense importance though it has been comparatively little heard of.

It was decided recently at a meeting in Nelson of the shareholders of the Exchequar Gold Mining company, limited, for to accept the offer of the Athabasca Gold Mines, limited, for the Exchequer group on Mourning Mountain. The basis on which the sale was effected was that the capital stock of the Athabasca be increased by 10,000 pounds, the vendors of the Exshequer to receive this stock in both properties in payment for their interst in the Exchequer.

MINING NOTES.

At Baker City several mining experts representing eastern and foreign capital are here looking over properties, and there is a particularly lively demand for copper mines. Recently the American Gold Mining company, through M. Barroch, of Denver, purchased the Turner Oliver group of claims, near Cornucopia, for about $25,000. The property is said to be very rich, and includes 160 acres of placer ground. Agents are expected this week from Spokane to close several deals ranging from $100,000 to $1,000,000.

The Last Chance mine, three miles up Packer creek from Saltese, Montana, which has been worked under lease most of the time for several years, is being worked by the company. There is five or six carloads of ore ready to ship, but it cannot be brought down until there is snow enough for sledding Ore is still being taken out, however, and will be as long as the ground now opened up pays to work. The ore is high grade silver, carrying traces of lead and copper.

The tonnage out of the Couer d'Alenes continues to increase. The regular train up the hill each morning consists of 30 carloads of ore, or about 750 tons of concentrates. Some days there are full loads from here, and then the concentrates from the Morning and Hunter have to wait.

The mills of those two companies are handling 1300 tons of ore daily, producing upwards of 150 tons of concentrates, or six carloads.

The Silver creek mining camp in Central Washington, is on the boom now, and it is predicted there will be a stampede to that district in the spring. The Mammoth is putting in a new compressor, machine drills, 72 horse power boiler and steel rails for tracks, in consequence of which the mill is temporarily idle. As development on that property progresses the prospects improve. They are now in a rich body of ore. Recently a body of $200 ore was struck in the Ninety-nine mine, development work upon which is steadily going forward, and now with renewed energy. The progress made has already demonstrated that the Ninety-nine is a mine, and disinterested persons state that it is one of the best properties in the northwest. Large quantities of supplies have been put in for the winter, so there is to be no let up on either property.

The largest stock of gold and silver bullion ever held in the United States is now accumulated in the treasury and its branches. The total has been rising steadily during the whole of the present year and is now $474,108,336, or about $76,000,000 greater than at the close of 1899. This gold is not all the direct property of the United States, but is held against outstanding gold certificates.

ANOTHER AID TO MATRIMONY.

The Ring-Bearer a Feature of Up-to-Date Weddings.

At many of the up-to-date weddings the ring-bearer is an important feature of the bridal procession as it slowly marches up the aisle. Usually this functionary is a small boy—not so small, however, that he will lose the precious circlet with which he is entrusted—dressed as a page and carrying with much importance the satin pillow that holds the ring.

This is not an absolutely new feature of weddings, but it is one that should be encouraged by fond parents who would have the ceremony go off without a hitch. As things are now, the wedding ring is a fruitful source of trouble. When the groom take charge of it himself he invariably forgets in which pocket he put it, and it is only produced after a nerve-racking pause and much fumbling.

When it is intrusted to the care of the best man, it is as like as not to be dropped by his nervous fingers as he awkwardly essays to hand it to his friend. Therefore, the little ring-bearer in doublet and hose is not only a picturesque addition to the wedding procession as he walks along beside the flower girl—he is also important for the preservation of peace and tranquillity.

It is prophesied, by the by, that the fashionable wedding with its brides maids, its maid of honor, its flower girl, its music and flowers and chatting, criticising host of spectators will soon be a thing of the past.

A goodly number of young folks in smart circles have recently slipped quietly away after their engagements have beene announced and been married at a clergyman's house simply to avoid this ostentatious display.

Men have always been restive under a custom which is to them theatrical and trying in the extreme, but they have yielded as the American man usually does to the wishes of the women.

Now, however, even femininity seems to begin to look upon the fashionable wedding as a great bore and as unnecessary expense, and in consequence slips away quietly with the man of its choice, foregoing the pleasure of court trains and tulle veils, and is married with the gardener and cook of the rector as the sole witnesses.—Baltimore News.

The Officer Was Satisfied.

Sir William Turner, a Scotch savant of note, is an authority on electric fish, having given much study to their peculiarities. At a "smoker" recently given by the British association he told, with much gusto, how he once got the best of an unduly inquisitive customs officer. "When first I went to Edinburgh," he said, "the professor to whom I was assistant possessed a very rare specimen of an electric fish. Though, in a general way, like any other fish to all appearance, anyone who touched this specimen received an electric shock of such severity as to put an end to any further desire for close acquaintance with it. A professor on the continent who was greatly interested in electric fishes expressed a strong desire to see this Edinburgh specimen, and at the beginning of the autumn vacation I was intrusted with the duty of conveying it, in a specially constructed box, across the channel for his inspection. On arriving on the other side I assured the customs officer that I had nothing to declare, but, unfortunately for him, the appearance of this box excited his suspicion. I repeated my assurances of bona fides and informed him that the box contained a fish. As he still appeared unsatisfied," continued Sir William, speaking in characteristically measured tones, "I advised him, in—the—most—courteous manner, that an investigation of the contents of the box was inadvisable. He, however, was a somewhat determined man and observed that he had better see about it for himself. Accordingly he opened the lid of the box, inserted his hand, and—— Well, I had no more trouble with the custom house."

On Wheels.

Not only is the bicycle in Cathay a fact, but the Coreans have taken to wheeling. Consul General Allen reports that two ex-cabinet ministers may be seen on the streets of Seoul on wheels, getting more pleasure out of their machines than they ever got out of their offices. The consul general there thinks there is a good field in Corea for American bicycles, which already constitute a majority of those owned in that country.

As soon as a man discovers a new thing good to eat, the women make the discovery that it can be fried.

Died of Severe Burns.

New York, Dec. 24.—Carrie Hanley, the 14 year old girl who was burned in public school 44 while playing Santa Claus, died.

Wool sorters in the Arlington mills at Laurence, Mass., received a cut in wages of 15 per cent. Colorado smelters have announced a reduction of from 75c to $1.00 per day in wages. Seven hundred women employed in the Smith Carpet Works, at Yonkers, N. Y., suffered a reduction of 23 per cent, and to permit them to make up for the loss sustained their hours were increased from ten to twelve per day. Here are some evidences of the forerunner of "prosperity."

—A ten-stamp mill will reach Buffalo Hump by the first of the year when work will be pushed.

—Over a million pounds of sugar was manufactured this year by the Corbin Sugar Co. near Spokane. The company received its state bounty last week which amounted to $11,300.

—Mr. G. I. Martin of Moscow met with an unfortunate accident. While in the woodshed getting an armful of wood, a garden hoe hanging to a rafter fell and struck him across the nose almost severing it from his face.

—The Cudahy 15-year old boy, last week was kidnapped at Omaha. The boy was held for a $25,000 ransom and the plan worked. Detectives believe they will get the robbers. Since then an Iowa boy has been kidnapped.

—Among our well known young people whom rumor hath it will be joined in wedlock soon are Mr. Edgar Hunter and Miss Grace Bangs. Mr. Hunter is the oldest son of Mr. Wm. Hunter and Miss Bangs is the daughter of Mr. Henry H. Bangs. By a singular coincidence the fathers of the affianced are members elect of the legislature, says the Star. From the same source we are told that Charles V. Jones, who has been Assessor Gammel's right hand man, will remove to the sheriff's office when Sheriff-elect Collins assumes the reins of office. He will take Deputy Barge's place.

—Since the horse-slaughtering establishment at Linnton was started up a short time ago over 500 horses have been killed and pickled there. They come mostly from Warm Springs Indian reservation, and they are said to be in good condition. About 500 more will be killed before shutting down for the winter. The agents on Indian reservations are recommending the Indians to get rid of their surplus horses and to get cattle in their place. Now that cattle are bringing a good price, the grass on the reservations would feed a great many and they would prove much more profitable than the cultus cayuses.

—NEWS is told by its friends that the reservation country people will sow a large amount of flax another year owing to the high price this year. The raisers realized from $1.20 to $1.60 per bushel this year and put them in easy circumstances. Several farmers had forty acres into flax and received a big price, putting them out of debt entirely. One man near Nezperce raised 320 acres of flax and got 5000 bushels, for which he received $1.50 per bushel, making $7500 in all. Those who can appreciate the gift of 160 acres from Uncle Sam which allowed them to raise this crop, are indeed happy.

—Lewiston is shipping flour to the Philippines. When the islands are restored to peace, schools and churches established, much is expected. The wonderful latent riches will be developed. Wages will rise. At first necessaries, then comforts, then luxuries, will be within reach of those men who today are barely able to keep soul and body together. Under American methods and with American ideas the Philippines will expand and develop as no Oriental country has done. Their commerce will grow with great rapidity. Their mountains will pour forth their wealth. Their fields will be cultivated with an intelligence and thrift heretofore unknown. They will become great producers and great consumers.

—"Marvel of production" is well applied by the Oregonian to our magnificent Inland Empire, in reviewing a circular sent out by the Lewiston Commercial club as a plea for the opening of the Columbia river to navigation by a canal around the rapids at The Dalles. Productions including 40,000,000 bushels of wheat, or 60,000 carloads; 3,600 carloads of fruits; 1,700 carloads of wool; 4,000 carloads of live stock, and above 10,000 carloads of other products, make up a grand total of more than 80,000 carloads from the Inland Empire for the year 1900, of which fully fifteen per cent is credited to the district of the Clearwater and Upper Snake rivers, centering at Lewiston. Yet we all know that more railroads and an open river would benefit every part of this interior country and increase its productiveness many fold. Every man interested should write the congressmen and senators demanding that the government shall at once build the Dalles Celilo canal.

Paid Dear For His Leg.

R. D. Blanton of Thackerville, Tex., in two years paid over $300.00 to doctors to cure a running sore on his leg. Then they wanted to cut it off, but he cured it with one box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Guaranteed cure for piles. 25 cts. a box. Sold at Kennedy's drug store.

Fire! Fire!!

When that cry sounds how people rush to help and sympathise! And when some fireman rescues a woman from the flames, the streets echo with applauding shouts.

And yet if that woman had perished in the flames it is possible that she would have suffered less than she suffers almost daily from the inflammation which disease has lighted in the delicate womanly organism.

That fire of inflammation can be put out. The gnawing ulcer can be cured. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription not only establishes womanly regularity and dries enfeebling drains, but it heals inflammation and ulcerations and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I suffered for four years with what four physicians pronounced ulceration and prolapsus of the uterus," writes Mrs. Ada Brooks, of Kirtsville, Taney Co., Missouri. "Also inflammation of bladder and urethra. My case was chronic and complicated. Had several good physicians, but kept getting worse. Had been confined to my bed five months when I wrote to you. I received your reply very soon and then dismissed my physician and began taking Dr. Pierce's medicines. I took eight bottles of his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and began to get better at once. In two months I could sit up in a chair, and kept getting better. In four months could do all my house work, including washing and sewing."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

—The mines of the Cœur d'Alenes are to be harnessed by electricity early in the next century. So a capitalist informed the NEWS man on his return trip from the east last week. With electricity the mines can be operated with almost one half the expense as now required. When once installed that section will take a great jump forward. Idaho will see great activity in the near future—it may be a year and it may be two years. It's coming in spite of ourselves. This is the opinion of men east and west who are in close touch with the business of the country. The wheat sections of the west are the only spots that are not prosperous.

Just Saved His Life.

It was a thrilling escape that Charles Davis of Bowerston, O., lately had from a frightful death. For two years a severe lung trouble constantly grew worse until it seemed he must die of consumption. Then he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery and lately wrote: "It gave instant relief and effected a permanent cure." Such wonderful cures have for 25 years proven it's power to cure all throat, chest and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at Kennedy's.

When you want prompt acting little pills that never gripe, use DeWitt's Little Early Risers.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

How to Cure Croup.

Mr. R. Gray, who lives near Amenia Duchess Co., N. Y., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. It is a fine children's remedy for croup and never fails to cure." When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has developed, it will prevent the attack. This should be borne in mind and a bottle of the Cough Remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale by all druggists.

Many people worry because they believe they have heart disease. The chances are that their hearts are all right but their stomachs are unable to digest food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and prevents the formation of gas which makes the stomach press against the heart. It will cure every form of indigestion.

KENNEDY'S PHARMACY.

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lame back or pains in the side or chest, give it a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. Pain Balm also cures rheumatism. One application gives relief. For sale by all druggists.

Are grand, but skin eruptions rob life of joy. Bucklen's Arnica Salve cures them, also old running and fever sores, ulcers, boils felons, corns, warts, cuts, bruises, burns, scalds, chapped hands, chillblains, Best pile cure on earth. Drives out pains and aches; only 25c a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by T. ennedy, druggist. 2
