PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

Basketball

The High School basketball team has played seven games this season, five of which they have won. High school practice lasts from 4:30 until 6 o'clock every evening.

Saturday night the team will play the Moscow High School team at the Genesee gym, the game being called at 8 o'clock. Moscow has a strong team and it will give the team an idea of just how strong it really is.

The turnout to the North Central game was very good. If the community will continue to support basketball in such a manner, the basketball season will be a decided success.

The men who are turning out every night and showing to advantage are Doyle, Weber, Flomer, Cameron, Hampton, Krier, Qualey, Blume, Putnam, Kleweno, Kraut and Bumpass. Mulalley was recently injured but will be out again in about a week.

Supt. Mushlitz Returns

Supt. Mushlitz returned to school Tuesday noon. He was forced to miss a day and a half because of the illness of his baby daughter. The little one has been in St. Joseph's hospital for the past week and is much better after a serious illness.

We are glad to have Mr. Mushlitz back again and we are all glad that the little one is so much improved.

Seventh and Eighth Grades

We have had 100% attendance to begin the new year but on Tuesday Ida Foster was absent.

The pupils in this room had a meeting Monday night for the election of officers for the last half year. The following were elected: Pearl Springer, president; Jean Freeman, vice president; Ruby Hollingsworth, secretary and Geraldine Bumpass, treasurer. A party was also discussed for sometime soon.

The following pupils were neither tardy nor absent during the month of December: Grace Currin, Michael Dwyer, George Blume, Floyd Heppner, Richard Harris, Virgil Post, Ruby Hollingsworth, Flossie Hollingsworth, Geraldine Bumpass, Jean Freeman, Wayne Hampton, Edith Craft.

We are studying for examinations, which are to be held January 18, 19 and 20. The seventh graders will take geography and the eighth graders will take history.

Fifth and Sixth Grades

Our sixth grade language class has chosen sides, calling themselves the "Wolves" and the "Coyotes." They are having a race analyzing sentences.

Ervin Hanson has been absent this week because of illness in the family. Our fifth grade pupils are making cards containing words and phrases often used incorrectly. These they will use in playing language games. Our attendance record has not been so good this week, but we expect it to improve soon.

Third and Fourth Grades

Since next week ends one-half of our school year, we are beginning mid-year reviews in most of our classes.

A week's vacation seems to have proven too much for some of us. There were four absent both Monday and Tuesday of this week, the reason presumably being illness.

Primary Room

School days are here again after a very pleasant vacation. Everyone reports a splendid Christmas.

We had many absences and tardiness Monday and Tuesday of this week. Many were late in returning from Christmas celebrations.

We are keeping our Christmas decorations this week. The children all asked to do so; they have enjoyed Christmas decorating so much.

Second graders are making new spelling books this week.

First graders are making little books for hard spelling words—each word they miss they copy into them and then we have a lesson from them once a week.

In the Wood study game Monday, Bayne Hickman came out first and Geraldine Rogers came out second.

Neighbors of Woodcraft

The Neighbors of Woodcraft held a very interesting and pleasant meeting at the home of Mrs. Carl Erikson, Monday evening, January 3. Mrs. Thatcher of Moscow met with us. The next meeting will be in January at the home of Mrs. Joe Davies. Expect a large gathering. The flowers are wonderful and the weather beautiful. Come down and enjoy it—it don't cost anything to do that. Best regards to all.

Starting Fifteenth Year

With this issue of the News, the present owner is starting on his fifteenth year as publisher of the paper, the first issue under his management being January 3, 1913, taking the management over from H. W. Brune, who had published the News for a little more than three years. While The News has been published by several different owners, we hold the second longest term as owner, Chas. Powers, from whom Mr. Brune purchased the office, having been in charge about 18 years.

While we have tried to do the best we could, we realize that there might have been someone else who could have done better. But be that as it may, we have a kindly feeling for the good people of Genesee and surrounding territory. If we have done anything to help anyone, individually, or the community collectively, we are glad of it and shall strive to give this community the best paper the income of the office will permit—and we hope to be right here another 14 years from now.

Miss Louise Herman Wed

The News is in receipt of an announcement of the marriage at Hollywood, California, of Miss Louise A. Herman of Genesee and Leslie R. Brubek of Sacramento, on Monday, December 27, 1926.

Miss Herman left Genesee about November 1, for California ostensibly for a visit with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Schlee, but all evidence points in another direction, and the marriage of the young people is the culmination of an acquaintance started in Spokane some four years ago.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Herman of Genesee and is well and favorably known here among the younger people and at the time of her going to California was an employee of the State Bank at Clarkston. She had attended the Lewiston Normal and was a graduate of Northwestern Business college, at Spokane.

After the ceremony a three-course luncheon was served by her cousin, Mrs. Chris. Schlee at Los Angeles.

The happy pair will make their home at Sacramento, where the groom has a good position with the Southern Pacific Railway company as book-keeper and timekeeper.

The many friends of the bride will wish her many long and happy years.

A Pinochle Party

The Mike Kasper home was the scene of a very pleasant pinochle party on Sunday evening, December 26, when a number of friends and neighbors gathered to pass the evening. A delicious luncheon was served during the evening by the hostess, Misses Elizabeth Hilt and Katherine Kasper.

Those present were Mrs. Wagner, Viola, Lenora, Pete and Ted Wagner, Rosie Heitstuman, Mr. and Mrs. E. Rogers, Bernadette, Anthony and Edward Weber, Stanton Becker, Harry Beach, Otto Baldus and Clifford Lundt.

SEMI-LOCAL NEWS CLIP-PED FROM EXCHANGES

18 Inches of Snow at Deary

Snow is now about 18 inches deep on the level in this section, and the roads were never better for sledding. Much teaming is being done. This is one year when everybody has plenty of feed, so that no one is dreading a long winter on that account.—Latah County Press, Dec. 31.

Squirrels Are Out

Ground squirrels are out by the thousands and may become a menace to the wheat along the Clearwater river in the vicinity of the Indian Cache ranch, according to J. M. Mayer, who farms the J. V. Mayer ranch nearby. Mr. Mayer reported that he saw squirrels around the fields as early as December 20. They are sure harbingers of spring, he says.—Lewiston Tribune.

February 1 Deadline

All automobiles in use in the state must bear 1927 license plates by February 1, if registration was made in the state last year, or must have applied for licenses after the first of the year if the car is new or from outside the state, state auto statutes say. Three hundred and thirty plates had been issued up to Friday afternoon by the county assessor's office, prior to the start of the new year.

"If you are not using your car during the winter months, it is not necessary to purchase the permit until the car is put in use. But if you use your car and don't get a license then the sheriff will get you if you don't watch out," E. J. Gemmill, county assessor said.—Star-Mirror.

Regulate Motor Buses and Trucks

Idaho has no adequate law regulating the operation of motor buses and trucks and it is hoped that the coming session of the legislature will frame a law that will effectively meet the condition. These should be brought under the jurisdiction of the state commission, providing that both passenger cars and trucks should be subjected, so far as practical, to the same regulations that now apply to railroads. If they are going to serve the public, and they undoubtedly are, then the public should be protected in the matter of service and indemnity to cover personal injury, damage and loss. Then some workable system of license should be provided as compensation for use of the highways, a system that will return a revenue that will compensate for the wear and tear of the roads, since the bus and truck owners contribute practically nothing in the way of taxes for their construction and maintenance.—Free Press (Grangeville).

Weather and Roads

There seems to be plenty of "weather," but there are no roads. On the heels of the young blizzard of two weeks ago, has come the melting of snow that has caused the roads to break up, and on the country roads there is scarcely any bottom and the highways are so cut up and dug full of holes that it makes a decidedly unpleasant ride over any of them.

The roads to Spokane are open at this time, but so full of chuck holes that it is almost impossible to make any time over them, either by way of Moscow or Pullman.

Columbus had a plan. And he got there. A sound plan of regular saving is the surest way of getting there in life. No income is too small to be adaptable to a savings plan. The important thing is to start—and start early.

To the Citizens of Genesee
Just a little hint to the people of Genesee and surrounding country: As pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, I consider it my duty to advise the people of our community to be careful to whom they extend charity. It has happened, and may happen again, that persons dressed as Sisters of Charity, or as priests, come to your place of business, or to your homes, to ask you for charitable aid and that these persons were not Sisters of Charity or priests and not even Catholics.

It is a rule of the Catholic church that when a Sister of Charity or a priest wishes to solicit for help for a charitable purpose, they must obtain a letter of recommendation from the parish priest. In order, in the future, to avoid this graft, which may go under the cloak of charity, let me advise you all to ask them for a letter from the parish priest, refuse to help them in any way whatsoever, and do not blame the Catholic church or any of her institutions for something of which she is not guilty.

L. C. Godschalk,
Pastor St. Mary's Church.

Will Give Card Party
The ladies of the Catholic church will give another card party next Tuesday evening, January 11. These ladies will welcome all friends and acquaintances to join them to take part in their enjoyments. These parties become more popular every time because they are enjoyed so much.

Coyotes Suffer

Brigadier General Cody (alias Buffalo Bill) Rader and his cohorts comprising Privates Pat Sampson and Dutch Jake Osmundson and Recruit Bob Emmett sallied forth last Saturday, just as the coyotes thought to have and spend a quiet New Year's day, and disturbed them quite badly.

It seems that, according to reports, the bunch slipped up on some pets that had been taken care of by the kind-hearted ranchers of the Rimrock section and proceeded to slay three of them as the peacefully slept in a straw stack, celebrating the first day of the year. General Rader succeeded in getting one with his celebrated coke gun. Fat got one with his gaspife affair and Jake slaughtered one with his old flintlock, while Bob Emmett declared the gun he carried had a crooked barrel and was made for shooting around corners instead of a straight line, as he claims to shoot.

The bunch went out again "one day the first of the week" and General Rader succeeded in slipping up on a crippled one that Emmett claims to have hit the day before. Anyway the General got the animal and says that his coke gun is the only shooter in the entire outfit. Bob says he got plenty of shooting, but that the rest of the outfit kept the animals so badly scared that they wouldn't wait until he could get close enough to hit one of them.

Annual Telephone Meeting
The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Home Telephone company was held Monday, January 3, when A. C. Linehan and E. M. Becker were elected to the board of directors to succeed themselves, Mr. Linehan for a term of three years and Mr. Becker for a term of two years.

Officers for the ensuing year were also chosen as follows: A. C. Linehan, president; Walt Jain, vice president, and D. L. Bressler, secretary and treasurer.

The company has just closed a very successful year and the stockholders received a 15 percent dividend as a Christmas present, on the shares of stock held.

There are few, if any, telephone companies, large or small, that are in better condition, financially or otherwise, than the Genesee Home Telephone company and the service is the best to be had; the operators are competent, accommodating, and are on the job all the time—and what more could be asked?

Seattle Sponsors First Northwest Commercial Tour to Hawaii

SEATTLE'S first commercial invasion of the Hawaiian Islands will begin in January, a big delegation at length having been organized to sail on the steamship Larline, leaving Seattle on January 15.

Governor Farrington of the Hawaiian Islands, in a communication just sent to the Chamber of Commerce, declared that the Seattle party would be shown every courtesy and hospitality during its commercial tour of the mid-Pacific Islands.

"There is an unlimited field for trade expansion between Seattle and the Hawaiian Islands," Governor Farrington advised the Seattle Chamber. "I believe that Seattle's trade excursion to the islands will add materially in bringing about this result."

Under the direction of the Pacific Northwest Products Committee of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, it is planned to occupy all accommodations on the Matson Line steamer Larline for the excursion—sixty in all. A large number of business men already have signed up for the trip.

Leaving Seattle on January 15, the excursionists will arrive at Honolulu on January 23, the trip to Hilo two days later. The return will be made via San Francisco, arriving in Seattle on February 11, a total of twenty-seven days for the entire trip. The total cost is less than $400.

Honolulu, where the Pacific Northwest party will establish headquarters, is the principal city of the Hawaiian Islands, located 2,409 miles from Seattle. It has a population of over 80,000. Hilo, on the island of

"Build Your Own Forest" Slogan Of Camp Fire Girls for 1927

Camp Fire Girls of New York start on tree planting expedition.

No more forest fires in the communities where Camp Fire Girls hold forth. This national organization of girls, with 170,000 members, has proclaimed 1927, "Tree Year," and every group all over the country is to make itself responsible for the planting of a certain number of trees, either a "Camp Fire Forest" on property belonging to or owned by the organization, or on avenues, parks or highways belonging to the municipality. Not only will the girls plant the trees, but they will make themselves responsible for their upkeep.

"The impetus for this program," says Mr. Lester F. Scott, National Executive of Camp Fire, "came from various groups which had locally undertaken the planting of Camp Fire forests. In Grand Rapids, Camp Fire girls planted 10,000 trees last spring on a bleak stretch of land, and a similar project was carried out in Cleveland. While every group cannot hope to plant so large a forest as this, there is no local organization which will not make an appreciable contribution to the beautification of the community."

In addition, a "tree year" program of educational tree activities. These will include learning the names and nature of different trees and all pertaining to their planting, preservation and growth; seed collecting; marking of trees, tree mapping, the eradication of insects damaging to tree life and the cooperation in all efforts made toward forest fire prevention.

State and local foresters and all organizations interested in conservation of national resources are expected to cooperate in this program of the Camp Fire Girls. The national committee sponsoring the project are: Dr. Edward T. Allen, of Portland; Dr. Harold Bryant, of Seattle; Dr. J. H. H. Butler, Washington; Mrs. Lillian T. Conway, Washington; Dr. Henry S. Graves, New York; Col. W. H. Grealey, Washington; Paul Kelleter, Syracuse; Prof. B. O. Longyear, Fort Collins; Col. E. B. Moore, Bowling Green, O.; Arthur Newton Park, Washington; Raymond H. Torrey, New York; Dr. William Gould Vinal, Syracuse; Fay Welch, Merrill, N. York; Dr. Charles Whipple Sprague, Harrisburg, Pa.; Mrs. J. H. Reeves, Amherst, Penn.; Mrs. John Sherman, Washington, D. C.; Mr. A. H. Hawes, Hartford, Conn.

Hawaii, is the second city and a place of commercial importance. It is the principal port of the largest island of the group, and has a population of about 10,000. Waialeale, on the island of Maui, is the county seat, Kahului being the port of entry for shipping with a harbor protected by a breakwater. Across the island of Kauai, the largest town of the island is Lihua, a rendezvous for deep-sea game fishermen. Lihua and Waimea, game towns on the island of Kauai, are the largest towns on the northern island.

Agriculture on the Hawaiian Islands will be of particular interest to the Northwest delegation. Among the important agricultural products of the islands, aside from sugar and pineapples—the principal crops—may be mentioned bananas, rice, sisal hemp, coconuts and coffee. Onions, potatoes and other vegetables and various fruits are receiving much attention at present with good prospects of becoming generally good crops.

The first sugar plantation was started on the island of Kauai in 1835, under a concession signed by the king to Ladd & Co., an American company, for the purpose of agricultural development. The Ewa plantation, near Honolulu, one of the largest, was originally a worthless area of land; but by means of artesian wells and enormous pumps the water is pumped through pipes to an elevation of several hundred feet to irrigate the cane. This is being considered one of the finest plantations on the islands. In 1925 the sugar production amounted to 776,072 tons. Shipments of merchandise from Hawaii to the United States for the year ending June 30, 1925, amounted to $104,925,273, of which $71,468,115 were for sugar (Stateman's Year Book). The United States imports approximately one-fifth of its sugar from insular possessions. Pineapples were introduced in the islands by some of the early naviga-

Old Song of Idaho

In a recent reprint of songs of long ago one was published which will be of interest to Northwest folks. The title is "Idaho, My Idaho," and like the modern day song had to do with a girl. The song is:

Way out west in Idaho, there's a gal that I love so,
 Ida, my Idaho, ho,
 Wild as any Indian she, when she yells, "You can't catch me."
 Whoa, there! My Idaho, whoa!
 Oh her bucking bronco she goes dashing 'cross the plain,
 Fast as any train, she drives me insane.
 "Shoo, shoo, don't you bother me," she yells out once again,
 Then the prairie rings with my refrain:
 Ida, ho, whoa!
 Don't go so fast, dear, my horse won't last, dear,
 So please go slow, my Idaho,
 I'll kiss you if I catch you, won't you stay, dear?
 Don't run away, dear, my Idaho, whoa.
 She's all wool and don't forget, she's a thoroughbred, you bet,
 Ida, my Idaho, ho,
 I'll catch up to her some way, take her in my arms and say:
 "Whoa, there, my Idaho, whoa."
 She has issued every cowboy's heart

In 1925 the pineapple pack amounted to over $720,000 cases. Hawaiian canned pineapples has come to be justly celebrated all over the world.

Coffee has been grown in Hawaii for upward of half a century. While the industry has made no remarkable growth, it has steadily developed, and at the present time seems to be quite profitable. The district of Kona, on the island of Hawaii, is especially noted for its high-grade coffee.

Bananas and rice culture are largely in the hands of Orientals. Most of the rice grown is consumed locally, and the markets on the coast are regularly supplied with the bananas. The small fiber is of exceptionally high grade and the expense of cultivation is almost nothing.

MOTHERS AND BABES NEED SUN

Expose a cow to the sun's direct rays and the vitamin content of the milk, which is the protective quality against the development of rickets, increases.

Expose laying hens to the direct sunlight and the antrachitic potency of egg yolks is about ten times greater than that of egg yolks from hens deprived of sunlight.

These two discoveries make evident the reason why sunlight is vitalizing to the human mother and babe and why they should court the acquaintance of their great benefactor, the sun, and indulge in sun bathing at every possible opportunity.

Every mother should consider it her sacred duty and privilege to nurse her baby on milk from a healthy, properly nourished mother, is the one perfect food for baby.

The diet is one of the most important factors in governing the mother's health and also in regulating the quality and quantity of milk for the baby. The proper diet should consist of plain, nourishing foods, selected with a view to providing the essential vitamins, whose presence are absolutely necessary to maintain one day and other foods added to the diet for the mother, and also to assure the proper growth and development of the baby.

A simple and safe rule for the proper diet is to have the diet include daily dietary: One quart of milk, cereals, eggs, whole wheat bread and butter, cooked leafy green vegetables, raw salad vegetables and fruits. Meat or fish may be served once a day and other foods added to "fill in" as appetite and common sense dictate.

Avoid all foods which cause the mother distress or indigestion and the health and comfort of both mother and baby. On the other hand a worried, anxious, overworked, nervous condition on the part of the mother, will seriously interfere with the secretion and quality of the milk and result in a cross, fretful baby.

Lament of a Brood Sow
 By J. K. FORD,
 Extension Specialist in Livestock, Pullman, Washington.

Here I lie in a dirty pen
 Haven't been fed since God knows when;
 I'm so dry I cannot sleep,
 And lice in droves still crawl and creep.

Outside my pen the pastures green,
 Oh how I long to be out where they lean,
 If I don't get some grass or pigs,
 I know right well I'll mark my wigs.

Then in the fall when it begins to snow
 And I only have a pig or so,
 My boss will threaten with the black
 And sweat he'll get some better stock.

If I could make the old fow lie,
 The trouble does not lie with me,
 I had I pasture, feed, water and shade,
 I know very well I'd make the grade.

During the day I could wallow and
 And twice a year being a bit littler home.

Be a home-town booster.

Development of Jersey Terminal Would Aid Western Shippers

PACIFIC Coast shippers who forward cargo to New York harbor and Western jobbers and manufacturers who ship westward by water from the East are interested in the move of former Senator Joseph P. Frelinghuysen, New Jersey, to further development of port facilities at Newark and Camden.

Attention has been drawn from time to time by Western as well as shippers from other sections of the country by congestion in New York terminals and the cost of handling by lighters from docks on Manhattan Island and in Brooklyn to rail terminals in New Jersey.

Former Senator Frelinghuysen declares that this delay and expense can be avoided by aiding port development in New Jersey in his statement sent in reply to a request from Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington, chairman of the committee on Commerce of the United States Senate, requesting his opinion on the subject of an adequate and permanent mercantile marine for the United States.

In his statement he emphatically proposed the plan of permanent governmental operation and urged the enactment of legislation during the present congressional session to provide Federal aid in the form of trade benefits, encouragement and sympathy or in a word, preferential treatment for mercantile shipping and private ownership to establish our maritime position among the nations of the world.

In this statement outlining his views for a merchant marine, owned and operated privately, as the most efficient and most economical system, Mr. Frelinghuysen said that New Jersey, through its port developments in Newark and Camden, can help solve this national problem and save more than fifty millions of dollars annually in the railroads, steamship lines and consignees by the location of adequate terminal and storage facilities on the Jersey side, which in turn will substantially lower cost prices for the consuming public and eliminate the present slow and expensive method of moving cargo through the ports of New York and Philadelphia.

"The great battle for an effective American Merchant Marine is now on and will be continued until we establish our position on a basis consistent with the importance of the volume of our exports and imports to the United States and foreign countries," Mr. Frelinghuysen said.

"As a result of the thirty-three hearings I have recently throughout the United States, to the United States Shipping Board, much valuable information and data has been developed. This subject, which should enable the presentation to Congress, is very near today of a comprehensive plan as a basis for the enactment of legislation during the next Congressional session to provide for the development and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

"To my mind some of the most important points developed during these hearings are as follows:

"First, the universal demand for the establishment and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

"Second, the universal demand that the government should retire from ownership and control of available direct transfer of cargo from railroads to steamships, will be completed in time to avoid the diversion of traffic from New York, and thereby demonstrate a practical manner, at least partially, how some of the handicaps under which American shipping must operate may be equalized.

"Third, the present Shipping Board should be continued for the purpose of making an exhaustive study of the shipping problem and further, to definitely establish the actual disadvantages that have prevented up to the present time the success of the shipping industry.

"Fourth, the universal demand for the establishment and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

"Fifth, the universal demand for the establishment and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

"Sixth, the universal demand for the establishment and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

"Seventh, the universal demand for the establishment and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

Development of Jersey Terminal Would Aid Western Shippers

PACIFIC Coast shippers who forward cargo to New York harbor and Western jobbers and manufacturers who ship westward by water from the East are interested in the move of former Senator Joseph P. Frelinghuysen, New Jersey, to further development of port facilities at Newark and Camden.

Attention has been drawn from time to time by Western as well as shippers from other sections of the country by congestion in New York terminals and the cost of handling by lighters from docks on Manhattan Island and in Brooklyn to rail terminals in New Jersey.

Former Senator Frelinghuysen declares that this delay and expense can be avoided by aiding port development in New Jersey in his statement sent in reply to a request from Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington, chairman of the committee on Commerce of the United States Senate, requesting his opinion on the subject of an adequate and permanent mercantile marine for the United States.

In his statement he emphatically proposed the plan of permanent governmental operation and urged the enactment of legislation during the present congressional session to provide Federal aid in the form of trade benefits, encouragement and sympathy or in a word, preferential treatment for mercantile shipping and private ownership to establish our maritime position among the nations of the world.

In this statement outlining his views for a merchant marine, owned and operated privately, as the most efficient and most economical system, Mr. Frelinghuysen said that New Jersey, through its port developments in Newark and Camden, can help solve this national problem and save more than fifty millions of dollars annually in the railroads, steamship lines and consignees by the location of adequate terminal and storage facilities on the Jersey side, which in turn will substantially lower cost prices for the consuming public and eliminate the present slow and expensive method of moving cargo through the ports of New York and Philadelphia.

"The great battle for an effective American Merchant Marine is now on and will be continued until we establish our position on a basis consistent with the importance of the volume of our exports and imports to the United States and foreign countries," Mr. Frelinghuysen said.

"As a result of the thirty-three hearings I have recently throughout the United States, to the United States Shipping Board, much valuable information and data has been developed. This subject, which should enable the presentation to Congress, is very near today of a comprehensive plan as a basis for the enactment of legislation during the next Congressional session to provide for the development and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

"To my mind some of the most important points developed during these hearings are as follows:

"First, the universal demand for the establishment and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

"Second, the universal demand that the government should retire from ownership and control of available direct transfer of cargo from railroads to steamships, will be completed in time to avoid the diversion of traffic from New York, and thereby demonstrate a practical manner, at least partially, how some of the handicaps under which American shipping must operate may be equalized.

"Third, the present Shipping Board should be continued for the purpose of making an exhaustive study of the shipping problem and further, to definitely establish the actual disadvantages that have prevented up to the present time the success of the shipping industry.

"Fourth, the universal demand for the establishment and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

"Fifth, the universal demand for the establishment and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

"Sixth, the universal demand for the establishment and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

"Seventh, the universal demand for the establishment and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

"Eighth, the universal demand for the establishment and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

"Ninth, the universal demand for the establishment and maintenance of an American Merchant Marine under private ownership.

SEMI-LOCAL NEWS CLIP

Kendrick Needs These Three In most every line of business Kendrick is pretty well represented but there are three things this town needs and there are good openings here for all three. One is a good lawyer—if there is such a thing. There is plenty of business here to keep a lawyer busy and he could make it pay. A local bakery is also needed and there is a good field here for that line of business as the territory is large. There is a splendid opportunity here for a furniture and second-hand store, or rather, a furniture and trading establishment. A flourishing business could be built up here if the right man takes hold of it. Boost for all three of these needed enterprises.—Kendrick Gazette.

Sheriff Arrests 252 During 1926

Total of 252 arrests were made by the Latah county sheriff's office during 1926, according to figures compiled Saturday. Ninety-eight, or about 40 per cent, of the cases recorded were for violation of the prohibition laws in different phases. As in past years, the Latah sheriff made some 20 arrests during the year for other county or state officials, exclusive of the number of arrests or holdups recorded against men held for federal officers. Thirty-seven men were lodged in the county jail during the year to be held for federal authorities. Fines totaling $6200 were collected from prisoners during the year, most of which were for liquor law violations. Highest fines of the year were $750. No bonds were forfeited, according to the records. During 1926, eight men were sentenced to the state penitentiary, four of which were for forgery, grand larceny and burglary. Five were taken to the state industrial school at St. Anthony, and several others were given suspended sentences and placed on parole by the probate judge. Seven insane persons were committed to the state insane asylum at Orofino during the period.—Star-Mirror.

Cougar Men Now Active

Walter Lowe of Burns, Oregon, is assisting his brother, George, who has been engaged several seasons as predatory animal hunter in the upper Selway country. George returned from the field Friday bringing with him three cougar pelts taken from big cats he killed during his first winter in the territory in which he operates. Walter Lowe, like George, is a professional trapper and hunter, and is visiting this section to take a month's run into the mountains as a change from the sage brush plains region in which he has worked for a long time. The Oregon Journal, under a Burns date line, in a recent issue contained the following: "Walter Lowe on October 1, sold to the Baker Hide and Fur company 375 coyote pelts, his catch for the month of September. The two brothers have been trapping here for the last ten years and has an average of 500 coyotes trapped every season, each season covering a period of four months. Lowe has a record of catching 35 coyotes in a single day." The two brothers leave today for the cougar range of the upper Selway where they will work together for a month, and they anticipate a lot of fun running down and killing some of the big game destroying cougars that infest that part of the Selway forest.—Kookia Mountaineer.

Seventh and Eighth Grades

The losing team in the spelling contest, whose captain is Lester Ingie, is entertaining the winners Friday evening at the home of Teat Freeman. Examinations are to be held next week on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, January 19, 20 and 21. This week ends the third six-week period. The seventh graders are working for a half holiday and thus far have 100% attendance.

Fifth and Sixth Grades

We are glad to have Ervin Hanson back in school, after a week's absence because of illness. As this week ends the first semester, we are busy with mid-year review work. It also completes our third six-week period and reports cards will be due next Wednesday. Mrs. T. H. Herman was a visitor Friday afternoon. Come again, visitors are always welcome. We are making a new sand table this week—see in Holland taken from the little story we are reading in Story Hour—The Dutch Twins. Beuletta Nordby was the winner in the word story game Monday morning. Bayne Hickman and Geraldine Rogers tied for second place. We are removing our holiday decorations and preparing for our new February decorations. Valentine's day will soon be here. The guessing game for language class Friday was much enjoyed by the children. One described an animal and the others in the room guessed what it was. Second graders had an interesting game with their tables of 3's, Monday. We have enjoyed the days of sunshine this week, after so many rainy days. Mrs. Roy Huffman was a visitor Monday afternoon. Come again. Language class enjoyed playing the story of Princess Long Nose, Wednesday. This week completes one-half of our school year so we are doing much.

There Are Other Places, Too

Los Angeles and Hollywood are not the only places that remind one of Denmark, and where it is necessary to wear a cloth cap on one's nose. Little old Spokane has taken her place in the limelight along this line and the stench is said to be something awful. If the present shakeup by county officials now going on in that city does not get results, it would seem fitting to call our "Dr." Uncle Sam out in consultation and perhaps help perform an operation—for there is a canker there that needs cutting out.

Barney Lorang Promoted

Says the Lewiston Tribune: "B. T. Lorang, formerly of Lewiston, but for several years manager of the Breier store at Walla Walla, will go to Portland February 1 to become assistant to C. J. Breier, president of the Breier company." Mr. Lorang is a former Genesee boy and is the son of Mrs. John Lorang. His wife of Chicago here will be glad to learn of his success and deserved promotion.

On Her Way

John and George, small sons of a Baptist minister, after listening to one of their father's sermons, decided that they must baptize their family of cats. The kittens made no objection. One by one they were put into a big tub of water. But when it came to the mother cat, she rebelled, and fought and scratched until at last John remarked: "Just sprinkle her, George, and let her go to hell!"—Pioneer.

RAILROAD STEAMSHIP CONFERENCE JAN. 20

REPRESENTATIVES of trans-Pacific steamship lines, railroads of Japan, China, and Manchuria and American railway lines will meet in Tokyo January 20 under the auspices of the Ministry of Railways of Japan, according to news reaching this country.

A through railway and steamer service between China, Japan and America was recently proposed by the Ministry of Railways, South Manchuria Railway, Chinese Government and the trans-Pacific lines. A definite plan is expected to be drafted and distributed shortly to the parties concerned by the Ministry of Railways. The proposed conference aims at unification of passengers' tickets. A traveler can now proceed from China to Japan on a through ticket but he must get a new ticket for passage to the United States or Canada.

A plan to avoid this inconvenience will be sought by the coming conference. A similar service covering baggage will also be sought.

At present all steamship companies operating trans-Pacific sea routes except the Nippon Yusen Kaisha and Oosaka Shosen Kaisha, are working under a passenger fare agreement. The N. Y. K. and the O. S. K. are operating independently of the stipulated fares with the exception of the former's San Francisco line. It will be necessary for the conference to agree on trans-Pacific passenger question before the question of through tickets can be settled.

Participants in the coming conference are expected to be:

RAILROADS: South Manchuria Railway, Railway Bureau of Government-General of Korea, Imperial Japanese Government Railways, Chinese Government Railways, Sante Fe, Southern Pacific, Western Pacific, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, C. M. & St. P., Union Pacific, C. B. & Q., New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania System and Canadian Pacific.

STEAMSHIP LINES: Nishin Kisen Kaisha, Hara-kai Kaisha, Nippon Yusen Kaisha, Oosaka Shosen Kaisha, Dollar Line, Admiral Oriental Line and Canadian Pacific.

J. C. Scott, chairman of the poultry committee of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, that is cooperating with the association, announces that the proposed conference will be held in Seattle on January 4 to 8th. This is one of the most active poultry associations in Washington, and has the reputation of always housing a good show. The judge for this show has not been announced.

Arthur A. Murphy, New U. P. Vice-President

ARTHUR A. MURPHY

UP to seven years ago Arthur A. Murphy, now assistant to the President of the Union Pacific system knew very little about railroads except as a means of transportation between the Pacific Coast to the Atlantic Coast on his way to war duty in France. At least that is an acknowledgment he made in an interview with a daily newspaper reporter.

He now holds one of the most responsible positions on the Union Pacific, having taken over many of the duties of J. D. Farrell, who retired as vice president of the system on December 15. He must have learned a lot about railroading in that short period.

Mr. Murphy is one of the youngest railroad men in the country holding an executive position. He will not be 41 until next February. His first railroad work started on August 1, 1919, when he joined Charles E. Cochran, a Portland attorney, then associated with Mr. Farrell, under a six months' leave of absence from the district attorney's office. His work had to do with the executive management of the Union Pacific properties then under federal control. When the government relinquished control of the railroad in May, 1920, he was offered and accepted a position as attorney for the company. He served under A. O. Spencer, general attorney, until Mr. Spencer was promoted to general solicitor in 1921. Mr. Murphy was then named assistant general solicitor at Portland, the position he held up to the time of his recent promotion to assist Mr. Gray, president of the Union Pacific.

Mr. Murphy was born at Portland, Ore., in February, 1886. He was educated in the public schools of Portland, entering Stanford University in 1908. He was graduated in 1912 with a degree of Bachelor of Arts. He was admitted to legal practice in 1908 and became a member of his father's firm. His father for many years was district attorney at Portland.

He was a deputy in the district attorney's office at Portland from 1913 to May 11, 1917, when he resigned to enter the first officer's train in the company's Presidio where he was commissioned as first lieutenant and assigned to Company B, 362nd Infantry.

NELSON LINE PLANS PASSENGER SERVICE

Plans of the Nelson Steamship Company to provide coastwise passenger service were announced this month by James Tyson, president of the company, at San Francisco. Here, before the Nelson company, pioneers of the coastwise trade, have confined its operations to freight service. Either two or four of the vessels recently acquired by the Nelson line from the Shipping Board will be equipped for passengers and more will be added later, but business is slow and also in the Lyce-Schell engagement in Flanders. He was promoted in France to captain.

Mr. Tyson is married but has no children. He is a member of Portland's leading clubs. He will make his headquarters in Seattle and will make his home here after the first of the year.

Mr. Murphy is the present state commander of the American Legion, department of Oregon, and will retain the position until his term expires next summer.

New cold storage rates put in effect by the Port of Seattle on November 29 have been filed with the state department of public works at Olympia. The new tariff shows rate increases in some cases and also some decreases. The base rate for storage for the first month was advanced from 14 1/2 cents to 15 1/2 cents per 100 pounds. The base rate for storage after the first month was reduced from 12 1/2 cents to 10 1/2 cents. Crushed fruit in barrels was advanced from 10 cents to 10 1/2 cents for the first month and the rate for storage after the first month was for 40 cents. Storage of fruit in ten-gallon kegs or cases was advanced from 20 cents to 24 cents for the first month with a 14-cent rate after the first month. The old rate was 15 cents.

Practically all the stevedoring work for the McCormick Steamship Company on Puget Sound is now being handled by the company's own organization, recently acquired by the McCormick Steamship Company at Port Ludlow and Port Gamble with C. S. Loeffler in charge. Mr. Loeffler has been chief supercargo at Seattle for some time.

The new organization has loaded all the vessels of the McCormick Line since the middle of November at those two ports as well as carrying on this work for all the outside vessels loading at those ports. This company has worked for some time past being doing its own stevedoring work at Seattle and Tacoma, as well as taking care of all the lumber loading for the McCormick Lumber Company.

McCormick forces will also handle the stevedoring work when their ships are loading at Everett, Mukilteo and Everett. At Bellingham, arrangements have been made with the Bellingham Stevedoring Company to handle the work, and similar arrangements have been made with the stevedoring department of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal Company at Port Angeles.

L. Larson, buttermaker for the Lower Columbia River Dairyman's Association, at Cathlamet, won the first prize for creamery butter at the Dairy Show in connection with the Pacific International Livestock Show at Portland. This is the same show in which he won the highest score at the Pacific Slope Dairy Show last fall at Oakland, California. It goes to show the uniformity of his work.

First Jobs of Leaders In Nation's Electric Industry

This is the second of a series of sketches, in biographical form, of first jobs of the nation's leaders in the electric industry. Frank A. Ketchum, executive vice president of the Graybar Electric Co., tells how raising pigs gave him his first bank account and gold mines his first financial reverse.

—just pigs—was my first bank account and gold mines my first financial reverse.

It was back in the '90s when I was a youngster attending high school at Saginaw, Mich. My father had a small farm just outside the city where he raised everything from parsnips and cabbage to tulips and roses. His business was that of a lumberman during the logging seasons I accompanied him occasionally on the rounds of the camps.

How proud was on these occasions at that time. I was on these occasions to be allowed to ride in the cabin of the old worn-down locomotive that pulled a goodly number of pigs and treacherous trucks, pulling behind it the dingy little flat cars piled with logs. I made and lost everything I owned to pull the bell cord and blow the whistle and those moments were the proudest of my life.

In the field of accident prevention, marked progress has been made. Although the number of employees during 1925 in the manufacturing and installation work was about thirty per cent less than in 1924, the number of accidents during the same period was reduced fifty per cent.

Philadelphia Girls Fly to Relieve Christmas Seal Famine at Capital

Misses Ethel Johnson and Margaret Preston, enthusiastic tuberculosis workers of Philadelphia, fly by special airplane to relieve Christmas Seal shortage in National Capital. Mrs. George Horace Lorimer (right), leading Quaker City society and clubwoman, delivers one million seals to fair messengers at the plane and bids them Godspeed. Pilot Musick, of P. R. T. Air Service, does not seem displeased with the task ahead of him.

REDDWOOD LINE SHIPS FOR PUGET SOUND RUN

Announcement that the new Redwood Line will enter Puget Sound ports as well as California ports has been made at San Francisco by P. L. Thromington, traffic manager for the Finkbine Guild Transportation Company of Gulfport, Miss. In his announcement he stated that this new line will operate five freighters on a monthly schedule commencing in January, 1927, until June 1, 1927, after which a 12-day schedule will be effective. The steamers to be operated in this route will be the Abnon, Dio Dochet, Manhattan Island and the Sabotawano. Ports of call on the Pacific Coast will be Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles. The new line has been organized primarily for the purpose of carrying redwood logs from California to the mills of the Finkbine Guild Company on the Mississippi River. General freight will be carried westbound.

At a hearing at Portland last month before U. S. District Engineer Maj. R. T. Joiner, little objection was voiced to the application of the Port of Portland to construct a 500-foot mole from Swan Island in the lower harbor to the east side of the Willamette River, making the island available as an aviation center. Construction would take a year. Approval by the war department is anticipated.

Selling the Pacific N. W. to the Far East

SAAN FRANCISCO has been selling its products in ten years under the present plan.

It is but natural that the cost of advertising should be paid by the principal beneficiaries of such advertising, which in this case would be the Nelson line of steamships, which manages the terminal system, valued at approximately $15,000,000, and which is doing so very profitably. The other principal beneficiaries are the trans-continental railroads and trans-Pacific steamship companies, who would reap the first advantage from increased traffic of the Far East.

It would be to the best interest of Seattle to increase tourist travel between Seattle and the Far East. In addition to selling Seattle to the Orient, it would be a good plan to aid in selling the Orient to the United States.

The people of this country, according to estimates made by competent statisticians, spend more than six hundred million dollars per annum in European travel. In fact, the profit from the maintenance of such a route is an important factor in paying the subsistence bill of the Swiss people, and the American tourist is by no means an unimportant factor in the annual budget of Paris, London, Vienna and other European cities.

While the American people go to Europe to spend their vacation in mountains, they go to the Orient in units. This is because the attractions that the Oriental countries have to offer are unknown in the United States. This situation could be changed by the maintenance of a route in the Far East of a good press agent and camera man. The field for a news photographer is virtually untouched, and it contains a wide and rich pay-stroke of unusual pictures.

While the proposition of exploiting the Far East in the United States was under tentative discussion last summer, officials of the Chambers of Commerce of Manila, Shanghai and Tokyo expressed a willingness to cooperate in a plan of joint advertising if one should be formulated, and something along this line might be worked out. But that is for the future. What is needed at present is to sell Seattle and the Pacific Northwest to the Far East. This can be done only in the same way that any other commodity is sold—by advertising, and the cost of this advertising should be borne by those who will profit from it.

While it is true that the small amount of advertising carried in the Far East newspapers, and the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, is doing some good, it is like using a spon on an excavation job that should be handled with a steam shovel. Instead of using $50,000 a year in advertising in Seattle in the Far East, we should be spending $50,000. If this is done we can accomplish as much in making Seattle known in one year as would happened in ten years under the present plan.

DIETETIC IMPORTANCE OF CANNED PINEAPPLE

WITH almost seven million cases of canned pineapple exported annually from Hawaii, an increased interest is being shown by scientists and physicians in the dietetic value of this fruit, which pineapple plays in dietetics.

Canned pineapple, rather than the fresh fruit, is the subject of a dietary cases where the canned product, which has been picked at maturity.

Experiment at the Hawaiian Agricultural Experiment Station have shown that during the growth of the fruit relatively small quantities of sugar are accumulated, but within the short period of normal ripening there is a rapid accumulation of sugar. Therefore the rich syrup made from pineapple juice and pure cane sugar.

Housewives who are using the latest part of the fruit in millions of cases of pineapple exported every year from Hawaii, will find in this product not only the delicious and nutritious tang which lends itself to a variety of uses in the meal, but valuable nutritive and digestive qualities which should give it a regular place in the daily menu.

Window Treatment

By Grace Margaret Wilson

CORRECT treatment of windows in a room of beauty is easily demonstrated by a difference in the appearance of a room, before and after it is curtained. But window-treatment alone is not sufficient. Correct color treatment for woodwork is just as essential.

While ivory or white paint is the usual standard for interior woodwork in the modern home, a taste is rapidly developing for gay colors in the wood trim of any room excepting, perhaps, the library or formal drawing-room. Even the living-room—especially in the country house—may have its woodwork painted in tones of soft green or neutral blue. The old, stereotyped natural finish is no longer a hard-and-fast rule.

Recently there has been a fair for painting the interior woodwork in different colors. The woodwork and doors were painted yellow. The doors might be decorated with a stenciled design of baskets or garlands of pink roses. The furniture should be painted yellow. The walls might be decorated with a floral design in rose, green, blue and yellow. A silk valance of a gaily-colored lampshade, cushion-covers of a rich rose, or perhaps a blue bowl or vase filled with bright flowers. The inside curtains should be of net or flax lace, through which the blue window-trim can be seen. The valance and over-drapes should be of blue silk, if this is a living-room. Flowered blue cretonne or chintz may be used, if it is a bedroom. In a sun-room or breakfast-room, jade green or Chinese red might be used in similar treatment. Window-trim, doors and baseboards, using a light cream paint for the walls. The jade or red should be repeated in the rug, black-painted floor, and the furniture should be painted to match, with touches of black. The windows might have glass-curtains of sheer cream net, and a valance and side-drapes of flowered silk, in which the red or green predominates.

A lovely color-scheme for a young girl's bedroom would be daffodil yellow and pale rose. The latter color may be used on the walls, which all the woodwork, including the window-trim and doors, would be painted yellow. The furniture should be decorated with a stenciled design of baskets or garlands of pink roses. The furniture should be painted yellow. Putting Capital to Work Ourselves and Industry

FAVORITE CREOLE DISHES AND RECIPES

On a recent visit to New Orleans I secured some of the famous old Creole recipes which I was told had attained popularity throughout Louisiana. The early French settlers taught their negro servants many secrets of the negro cookery for which their nation is famous. The negro "mammy" added certain savory touches of their own. The dishes that resulted became known as "Creole."

I soon found that only by using prepared foods does the modern housewife have time for this elaborate cookery of a day when servants were plentiful.

Corn, Creole Style—Cook 2 tablespoon chopped green pepper in 4 tablespoons butter. Add 1 tablespoon onion, chopped, and 3 sprigs parsley. Fry, and when brown add 1 chicken fat, and a sprig of thyme. Add 2 quarts of corn, and cook five minutes, then pour over lettuce-heart. Serve hot with chops or cutlets.

Shrimp Gumbo Rile — Blend 1 tablespoon hot butter or lard with one of flour. Add 1 large white onion, chopped, and 3 sprigs parsley. Fry, and when brown add 1 chicken fat, and a sprig of thyme. Add 2 quarts of corn, and cook five minutes, then pour over lettuce-heart. Serve hot with chops or cutlets.

Posters Which Have Helped in War Against Accidents

At the end of the year 1925 the Western Electric Company employed 39,400 men and women, most of them in the company's telephone works in Chicago and in the newer plant at Kearny, New Jersey. This figure represents a decrease of 4,344 during the year. The prospect for 1926, the company's report says, is for an increasing number of employees.

During 1925 there were fewer withdrawals from the ranks of employees than in previous years. The average length of service of employees is longer and the average wages paid are higher than ever before. This was initiated by the Western Electric Company during 1925, according to the annual report of the company, which says, "Industry at large pays a high price for illness on the part of employees. Every step forward in the effort to improve the general health of the employees is beneficial to the industry and to the community."

Geneese Hoopsters Win from Moscow
The Geneese H. S. basketball team took Moscow high to a cleaning on local floor last Saturday night by the score of 19 to 10, thus adding another much-coveted scalp to their belts.
The Geneese boys were too fast for the Moscow bunch and at no time was the result in danger. Moscow was unable to get near their own hoop and it was necessary for them to resort to long throws.
The Geneese players were Doyle Weber, Plumer, Cameron and Hanson. The Geneese boys substituted for Hanson with Krier as substitute for Hanson.
The Geneese Town team will play the Colton Town team on the local floor tonight (Friday). It promises to be a good game.

Abraham Lincoln's Belief
"I have never united myself with any church, because I have found difficulty in giving assent, without mental reservation, to the long complicated statements of Christian doctrine which characterize their Articles of Belief and Confessions of Faith. When any church will inscribe over its altar, as its sole qualification for membership, the Saviour's condensed statement of the substance of both Law and Gospel, 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself,' that church will I join with all my heart and with all my soul."
Abraham Lincoln.

Thinks Idaho's License Plates Thin
Idaho's automobile license plates for 1927 have made their appearance. They are somewhat akin to a thin piece of cardboard, and are manufactured in the penitentiary at Walla Walla, Washington, at a saving of two cents per set over last year.

The set weighs 10 ounces against the ordinary 16-ounce plates, and even a mild glance from the astonished purchaser causes the plates to "shimmy" and bend. It is our humble opinion and guess that even the mild zephyr from a passing jockey will cause the 1927 Idaho plates to wither and warp somewhat akin to a thin piece of cardboard before a noonday sun in June. It is our further surmise that in saving two cents, auto owners of Idaho are given a set of plates manufactured from a very low grade of scrap iron, that is moved as to tampering, and which speaks volumes for Uncle Sam's mail carriers in handling fragile packages.—Bigby Star.

The Congregational ladies aid met at the home of Mrs. V. A. Beckman Wednesday afternoon and after business meeting the time was spent socially. A lunch was served by the hostess during the afternoon.

Use Your Head
A woodpecker climbed a telephone pole and started to drill in a wee small hole; he dug his spurs in good and strong so he wouldn't slip as he drilled along, then he turned his ear to the grating sound of the little worm in the hole so round — adjusted his belt and trimmed his sail, then winked his eye and flapped his tail, and he went to the feast that Neptune spread—because the woodpecker used his head. So here's a lesson for you and me as we journey along to eternity—just set your feet on solid ground and adjust yourself to the things around, then trim your sails so your wheels won't skid, and use your head like the woodpecker did.

After the banquet the Pythians went to their Castle hall where an interesting lodge session was held, there being 40 members present. There was work in the rank of Page, when Arthur Toedland, Harry Christenson, W. O. Borgen, Harry Emerson, Reed Ingram and A. Mayer were initiated into the mysteries of the first step to Pythianism. Ten members came over from Moscow and assisted in the initiation ceremony.

Business
I am in business for your health. Why not be prepared against the influenza epidemic now taking its toll in Spain. 200,000 cases in four cities. It is not necessary to soak up all the treatments of influenza, but take care of the cold while taking it easy. I am prepared to take care of your needs for a cold and mild cases of flu.
The above statement is not all for the money that I might take in, but a precautionary measure against a neglect. If I haven't what you want you do not have to go out of town to get it, for if not on hand, I will have it in two days if in a rush. I think my prices are fair and just. I do not claim I can compete with any cut-throat house. If what I want is not stocked in Geneese, I have the merchant order it for me. I don't patronize out of town cut-throat stores against our home merchant and neighbor. There is more than one that can pull wool and is doing it.
No one can compete with a cash store that extends credit if only for one week. You have to have that basis to sell at a low price.

"Smith" Coal, though somewhat different in burning qualities, is equal to the Owl Creek, as shown by several chemical authorities.
The chief difference lies in the fact that "Smith" is much slower coal, but the U. S. Bureau of Mines give them about the same B. T. V. value, and we do not hesitate to guarantee the quality of "Smith" coal to equal Owl Creek, when judged from a technical point of view.

"Out of the West"
The feature film at the Hotel theater for Saturday night, January 15, will be "Out of the West," one of those FBO westerners that you like so well.
He was a good cowpuncher—but how he could play baseball! And his very excellent won for him the hidden emulsion of the ranch foreman! An amity which developed surprising complications. A fast-moving story of the sagebrush and the diamond, vivified by a delightful romance.
"My Official Wife"
For Sunday night, January 16, the feature picture at the Hotel theater will be "My Official Wife," with Irene Rich in the leading role.
The advertising for this picture went astray. Watch the bill boards in front of the theater for particulars.

Bartholomew in "Ransom's Folly"
On Wednesday night, January 19, you will have an opportunity of again seeing Richard Bartholomew in one of his best plays—"Ransom's Folly." Bartholomew is conceded to be one of the best players on the silver screen no matter what his role.
Lieutenant Ransom, a youthful officer, had joined the United States army for the excitement and danger it offered. After a satisfactory experience fighting Indians, he is transferred to Fort Crockett, where life is dull and monotonous. He forms an attachment for Mary Cahill, the daughter of the post trader.
A building containing explosives takes fire and Lieutenant Ransom, in violation of his orders, goes in at the risk of his life, brings out the explosives and saves the post. He is arrested for disobedience, but is later publicly commended for his bravery.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST
This week begins the second semester of school. As is usual in any school, those students that were inclined to take life easy during the first term found themselves short a credit or two at the end of the semester.
Solid geometry, commercial arithmetic and civics are being offered as new subjects this semester. Those students that have failed to come up to the standard in their studies this semester are not allowed to take part in any extra curricular activities, which includes such things as taking part in plays and athletics. This is not done as a punishment but rather so that the pupil will have all of the time possible for his regular subjects. We feel that the parents are shouldering a burden in sending many of the pupils to high school and that all that is possible must be done in order that the child will receive passing grades.
The eighth grade examinations are in progress this week. Mrs. W. M. Herman is giving them again.
Donald Brown is with us again this semester after a long absence due to illness. Delos Odenberg enrolled in the high school this semester. He has been attending the Moscow High school the past year and a half. We are always glad to have those students in this high school that belong to this community.
A fatal mistake in much consolidation talk is its appeal to the cheap and shoddy. If this work is worth doing at all it is worth doing well. When a community contemplates consolidation its advocates should strive with might and main toward the highest ideals in school perfection. While people who have made a careful study of the plan declare that in the long run a consolidated school can be run with less taxation than the many one-room schools. They insist that the new system will also bring better equipment, better instructors and more contented children.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
The following pupils were dismissed for a quarter-day last Friday while the mercury has stayed at the past six weeks: Geraldine Bumpass, Ruby Hollingsworth, Flossie Hollingsworth, Jean Freeman, Virgil Post, Wayne Hampton, Edith Craft.
The seventh grade class was dismissed for a half-day Friday. The pupils of that class have been neither tardy nor absent for twelve weeks, which is a very excellent record for a class to keep.
Last Friday evening the eighth graders gathered at the home of Jean Freeman for the party which Lester Ingie's team gave for the spelling contest. The house was decorated in the class colors. Games were played until about 9 o'clock, when refreshments were served. All reported a very delightful time.
The eighth graders held a class meeting on Tuesday after school. Eldora Edwards visited this room Tuesday afternoon.

Fined for Trapping Beaver
Game Warden Mose Martin of Asotin county and Sheriff Wayne Bezona on Saturday arrested R. W. Perry on the lower Snake river and confiscated five beaver skins and that of a muskrat.
The man was taken to Asotin and fined $75 and costs. He claims to have come from Boise.

Altar Society Elects
The ladies of the Altar society elected their new officers at the first meeting of the year. Mrs. Nellie Haymond, Mrs. J. W. Mosman and Mrs. Gus Fickens were elected for the new year.
The ladies of the Altar society will have their first meeting under the new officers next Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. E. E. Miller. All members are urged to be present.

Card Club Entertained
The card club was very pleasantly entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Gibson, when pinocle was played at six tables. The honors of the afternoon were won by Mrs. Jas. Magee while the consolation was awarded to Mrs. Glenn Sampson.
Those present, besides the members, were Mesdames Joseph Christenson, Fred Shirrod, E. W. Vanouck, Gus Fickens, T. H. Herman, Frank Hoorman, Carl Erikson, Harold Haymond, Mahlon Pollett, Jas. Magee, Ray Edwards, Leon Pollett, N. M. Leavitt, Ira Larking, A. B. Peterson, Misses Irene Mullaney and Margaret Sampson.

Weather Man Busy
The Genesee section has a little more winter to report this week. While the mercury has stayed at the place where it would do no harm, the snow man has been busy again and as a result there is again pretty fair sleighing. The snow is very wet and will make excellent sleighing if it does not turn too warm, which hardly seems likely at this time.
Since the above was put in type this section has been treated to another moderate-sized blizzard, starting Wednesday evening and continuing most of the night. The wind blew quite hard and a light snow fell, but it is not thought the roads are badly blocked with snow as the Moscow-Lewiston stage came through from Lewiston only half hour late.
The mercury stood at eight above zero Thursday morning, on the hill.

Welfare Workers to Meet
The following communication regarding the condition and needs of the Lutheran home for aged and infirm people, has been received by the News from Rev. H. J. Stolee and will undoubtedly be of interest to many in this community:
The Rocky Mountain Lutheran Charity association meets at the home for old people, located at Coeur d'Alene, on Tuesday, February 1. The society maintains a home for old men and women. Many of these are destitute and dependent upon the generosity of those who are more fortunate. This institution receives an annual appropriation from the Lutheran church, but to a large extent looks for support from the general public. It is especially this inland territory which the association seeks to serve.
This community is to be commended for what is done for this cause. Much more may be done to brighten the current expenses of more than $1,200 per month. More than $5,000 was used last year to support destitute old people.
We would urge that all who believe in practical Christian welfare work to visit this home and see how this money is spent and how the aged folks live there. The work is directed by nine men from various communities who constitute a board of trustees. The Rev. C. F. Johnson is in charge as local manager and Miss Millie Rocke as matron.
Election of three directors will take place at the business meeting and reports of the various activities will be read. The Rev. H. B. Kiddahl of Minneapolis, executive secretary of the Lutheran Board of Charities, is expected to attend the meeting.

Arrangements for Young Farmers Meeting Complete
Twelve conference rooms have been reserved at the Davenport hotel in Spokane for group meetings of the fourth annual young farmers' conference next Friday and Saturday, January 28 and 29, according to announcement received by the News from Fred W. Clemens, general secretary of the committee in charge. These rooms will be used for sectional conferences to accommodate all farm men and women who wish to consider particular types of farm and farm home problems who desire to meet separately from the others to discuss the issues peculiar to their own districts.
Last year only four such group meetings were held, one for farm women, one for those interested especially in dairying, and one each for wheat farmers of the Big Bend region of Washington and Idaho. The increased attendance that is anticipated over last year, when 350 were present, has led the committee to prepare for several additional groups.
In addition to the types of problems handled last year, there appears this year to be a demand for group consideration of two new ones—poultry, and community organization. In the expectation that probably 150 men and women will be present, the committee has made a special study of poultry questions, rooms and experienced leaders have been provided for three snappy sections on this subject, two for farmers who raise poultry as a side line and one for those who make poultry their principal business. Special notices of this feature are being sent to those known to be interested throughout the Inland Empire.
The section dealing with community organization has been arranged for at the request of those who want to learn from the fellow farmers how to form and maintain community organizations, either in the form of a social club, a community betterment association, locals of any of the regular farm organizations, or any other organization to serve the community purpose. The increasing interest in work of this kind is expected to make this division of the conference one of the busiest.

Deary Man Dislocates Neck
His neck dislocated three weeks ago in an automobile accident near Fairlatch, Edward Peterson, age 39, was taken to Sacred Heart hospital, Spokane, Saturday and the dislocation adjusted.
One of the bones in the neck was so far out of line it was pressing on the spinal cord and causing paralysis of the arms, unusual in that it was not of these injuries where paralysis results it is the legs that are affected.
His neck was placed in a cast, which must remain for six weeks, after which it is believed he will be entirely recovered.

Underwent Operation
Emery Vandenberg, now a resident of Palouse, but whom everyone in this community knows, went to Spokane Sunday and was operated upon at Sacred Heart hospital Monday morning for gallstones. He was accompanied to Spokane by his wife and mother, Mrs. John Vandenberg, and Mrs. Ben Jain.
A report from his bedside said he was doing nicely.

Have Moved to New Home
Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Olson are now occupying the C. J. Hollister residence, which Mr. Olson recently purchased from Mrs. Fred K. Bressler. They have been living in the Congregational parsonage for the past few months.
Rev. and Mrs. Barnum will move from the Masonic building, where they have been occupying rooms, to the parsonage.
Entertained at Dinner
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hove had as dinner guests last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Herman Isaksen, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peterson and son Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson and Jess, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hampton and Lars and John Johnson.

WHAT HAPPENED HERE TWENTY YEARS AGO
During the past week a large amount of ice has been harvested by Spokane. The quality varies. That portion taken from Cow Creek for use in refrigerators is very ordinary. Others who have cut ice from ponds formed by springs have secured a very good article. Some of the ice put up the forepart of this week measured 11 inches in thickness.
On Monday evening a sleigh load of Eastern Star members were entertained most royally at the W. J. Mervyn farm home, just southwest of town. A fine supper was served and card playing was indulged in. Those making up the party were Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Burr, Mr. and Mrs. Nagel, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hanson, Mrs. Brant, Mrs. Woolley, Mrs. Hanley Smith and Miss Nellie Brant.
The marriage of Sherman T. Wahl, a prominent young farmer of this neighborhood, and Miss May McFarland of Clarkston, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents in Clarkston on Tuesday morning of this week. Concerning the event, a Clarkston correspondent has the following to say: "Owing to the illness of the bride's mother the wedding was a very quiet one, only a few intimates being present. J. V. Hood of the Presbyterian church performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Wahl left on the morning train for Spokane, where they will spend a week, the guests of Mr. Wahl's mother. They will return to Clarkston to spend the winter but expect to make their home in Spokane, later."

Deary Man Dislocates Neck
His neck dislocated three weeks ago in an automobile accident near Fairlatch, Edward Peterson, age 39, was taken to Sacred Heart hospital, Spokane, Saturday and the dislocation adjusted.
One of the bones in the neck was so far out of line it was pressing on the spinal cord and causing paralysis of the arms, unusual in that it was not of these injuries where paralysis results it is the legs that are affected.
His neck was placed in a cast, which must remain for six weeks, after which it is believed he will be entirely recovered.

Underwent Operation
Emery Vandenberg, now a resident of Palouse, but whom everyone in this community knows, went to Spokane Sunday and was operated upon at Sacred Heart hospital Monday morning for gallstones. He was accompanied to Spokane by his wife and mother, Mrs. John Vandenberg, and Mrs. Ben Jain.
A report from his bedside said he was doing nicely.

Have Moved to New Home
Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Olson are now occupying the C. J. Hollister residence, which Mr. Olson recently purchased from Mrs. Fred K. Bressler. They have been living in the Congregational parsonage for the past few months.
Rev. and Mrs. Barnum will move from the Masonic building, where they have been occupying rooms, to the parsonage.
Entertained at Dinner
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hove had as dinner guests last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Herman Isaksen, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peterson and son Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson and Jess, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hampton and Lars and John Johnson.

Three U. of I. Students Offered Job
James Gartin, Caldwell; Roy Patchen, Coeur d'Alene, electrical engineer, and Hugh Carroll, Creston, mechanical engineer, were offered positions with the General Electric company Saturday by M. M. Boring and L. S. Means of the personal department of the company. Election followed interviews with members of the college of engineering graduating class. The positions offer practical experience in manufacture and operation of large machinery units, together with opportunities to study in the company's plant at Schenectady, N. Y. Sixteen Idaho graduates are now with the company.
Mr. Patchen, mentioned above, is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hampton, having married Miss Eva Hampton last fall. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hanson, Mrs. Brant, Mrs. Woolley, Mrs. Hanley Smith and Miss Nellie Brant.
The marriage of Sherman T. Wahl, a prominent young farmer of this neighborhood, and Miss May McFarland of Clarkston, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents in Clarkston on Tuesday morning of this week. Concerning the event, a Clarkston correspondent has the following to say: "Owing to the illness of the bride's mother the wedding was a very quiet one, only a few intimates being present. J. V. Hood of the Presbyterian church performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Wahl left on the morning train for Spokane, where they will spend a week, the guests of Mr. Wahl's mother. They will return to Clarkston to spend the winter but expect to make their home in Spokane, later."

Is Old-Timer
Ditliff Smith, who lives some eight miles north of Genesee on the Moscow road, was in town last Saturday and made the News office a pleasant call.
Mr. Smith will soon be 85 years of age, but is still in pretty fair physical health. He is one of the few real old-timers left in this community, having come to Genesee nearly 50 years ago, homesteading the place where he has lived all these years.
In an early day Mr. Smith operated a stage depot, or stopping place, the only one between Palouse and Lewiston. He had 16 horses and while eight of them were in use the others were resting in the city jail at Lewiston in the person of E. J. Jones, alias Smith, said to be of Coeur d'Alene. Smith has been sought by the officers for two months and Saturday afternoon a house it was claimed he had rented in Lewiston was raided, resulting in a large quantity of moonshine whiskey and near-beer being confiscated.
Arrested at the same time was Marie Martin, whose right name is said to be McEde, Ada Jennings and Harvey Harris.

Correction
We are always glad to make a correction when it is necessary—but we are sorry to have to admit that we make an error had enough to need a public correction—but we did.
In reporting the marriage of Miss Wilma Broemmeling and Ferdinand C. Bruegenan an error was made in giving the costume worn by the bride. We made it read "the bride wore a dress of crepe black satin," when it should have read "crepe back satin." We acknowledge the error and are glad to make the correction.

Altar Society Elects
The ladies of the Altar society elected their new officers at the first meeting of the year. Mrs. Nellie Haymond, Mrs. J. W. Mosman and Mrs. Gus Fickens were elected for the new year.
The ladies of the Altar society will have their first meeting under the new officers next Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. E. E. Miller. All members are urged to be present.

Card Club Entertained
The card club was very pleasantly entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Gibson, when pinocle was played at six tables. The honors of the afternoon were won by Mrs. Jas. Magee while the consolation was awarded to Mrs. Glenn Sampson.
Those present, besides the members, were Mesdames Joseph Christenson, Fred Shirrod, E. W. Vanouck, Gus Fickens, T. H. Herman, Frank Hoorman, Carl Erikson, Harold Haymond, Mahlon Pollett, Jas. Magee, Ray Edwards, Leon Pollett, N. M. Leavitt, Ira Larking, A. B. Peterson, Misses Irene Mullaney and Margaret Sampson.

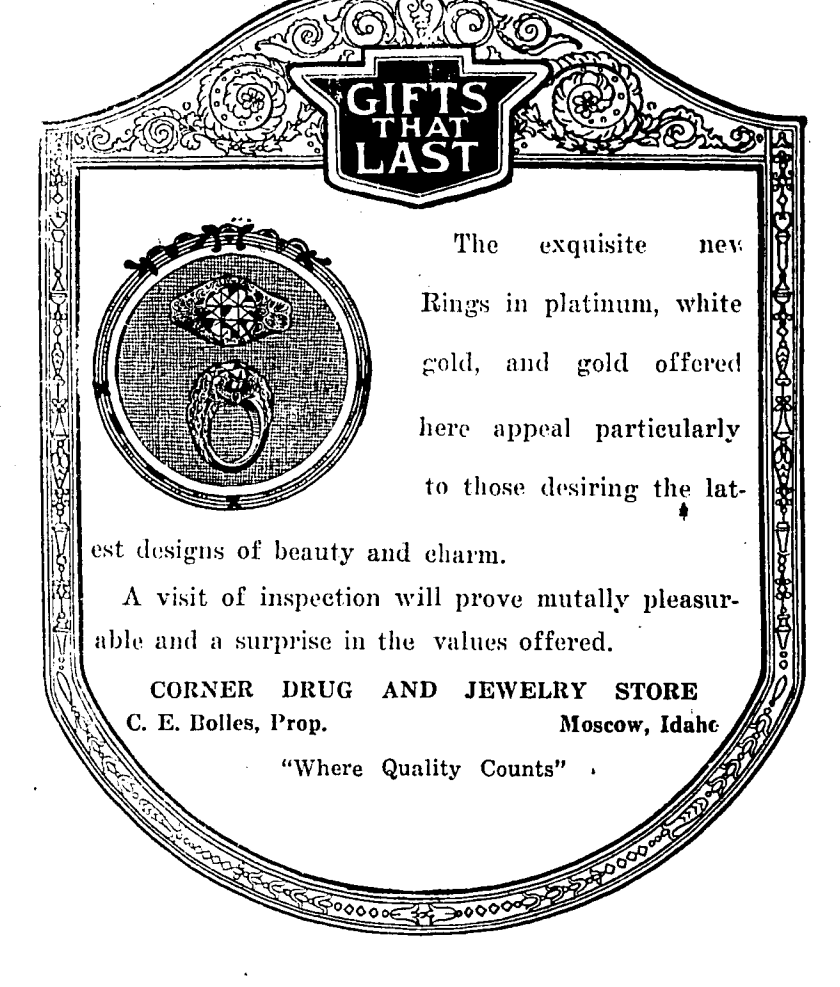

FARMERS OF MOSCOW AND GENESEE BACK McNARY BILL
Discussion of the best policy for farmers of the Moscow district in regard to farm relief legislation appeared at variance at a meeting of the Idaho Export League Saturday afternoon at the Farmers' union auditorium, Moscow. Discussion centered about the McNary-Haugen measure reported out of committee last week and recommended for passage by congress.
Several of those at the meeting Saturday afternoon expressed the belief that a resolution should be passed informing Idaho congressmen of the stand taken by Moscow farmers in backing the revised measure. Others, however, declared they could see little advantage in a resolution.
Mr. Seivers pointed out that other interests fighting the McNary plan were spending huge sums for their cause, while the farmers, without organization and united efforts, are hopelessly lost in their battle for release measure. Mr. Mix explained the McNary-Haugen measure and declared that the organization should let Idaho representatives and senators in congress know of the attitude taken on the measure.
At a very interesting meeting held by the Farmers union in Genesee Saturday afternoon took place were sent to United States Senators W. E. Borah and Frank R. Gooding and to Congressman Burton L. French and Addison T. Smith asking them to support the new McNary bill, believing it the solution of the farmers' ills at this time.

Believe Bootleg King Caught
According to the federal and state officers, the king of bootleggers of northern Idaho has been caught and is in the city jail at Lewiston in the person of E. J. Jones, alias Smith, said to be of Coeur d'Alene. Smith has been sought by the officers for two months and Saturday afternoon a house it was claimed he had rented in Lewiston was raided, resulting in a large quantity of moonshine whiskey and near-beer being confiscated.
Arrested at the same time was Marie Martin, whose right name is said to be McEde, Ada Jennings and Harvey Harris.

The Cow Creepers "Bawl"
The annual Cow Creepers "Bawl" will be held in the American Legion hall Friday night, January 28. It is hardly necessary to devote much space to telling the general public that if they do attend they will have the time of their life—and if they don't they'll always be sorry.
Isaac Isaksen and Arnold Olson are to be the official floor managers and the Cow Creek orchestra will furnish the music. A free lunch will be served in the hall.

Linger Longer Party
Mrs. Harry Scholer and Mrs. Mahlon Follett entertained the Linger Longer and their husbands at the home of Mrs. Mahlon Follett on Friday of last week. The time was spent in playing cards. The honors were won by Mrs. M. Rader and Vern Beckman, consolation prizes being won by Miss Irene Mullaney and T. H. Herman.
The invited guests were Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Lewis, Miss Irene Mullaney and Don Bressler.

"Where Quality Counts"

Turf Sportsmanship Better Now Than Ever Before

There is better sportsmanship on the turf today than there was in the supposedly "good old days," writes Peter Burnaugh, racing expert in the first issue of "The Sportsman," a publication which dedicates itself to "sport as something done for the fun of doing it, not as a business."

The turf is growing more sports-manlike, Mr. Burnaugh contends, because "it is rapidly being taken over by men who can thoroughly afford to be sportsmen. It isn't easy to be a sportsman on a shoestring. Finances will, of necessity, be a powerful factor in the very spirit of conduct of a racing stable."

During the past year, Mr. Burnaugh concludes.

testifies that he found the turfmen quite willing to speak with the greatest frankness of the quality of their horses. "Back of that frankness lay the fact, of course, that while some of them are heavy hitters, none of them depends on the fruits of betting to support the stable," writes Mr. Burnaugh in "The Sportsman."

"Such owners are interested more in establishing the quality of their horses, where the competition is keen, and in the glory of winning historic races than in winning large wagers. "All sportsmanship did not bloom and die with the old boys," Mr. Burnaugh concludes.

Southern Pacific employees who are members of the American Legion will be afforded an opportunity to attend the convention of the Legion in Paris during September, 1927, through the announcement by Paul Shoup, executive vice-president of the company, that leaves of absence would be granted to employees who are war veterans and who desire to make the trip.

Leaves of absence will also be granted under the same conditions to employees on Southern Pacific Steamship Lines, Texas & Louisiana lines and Mexico.

Employees of Southern Pacific Company, notably those who were members of the Eighteenth Engineers, took an important part in America's participation in the World War and it is expected that the company will be well represented when the roll of the Second A. E. F. is called in Paris next fall. More than 5,000 Southern Pacific employees entered the military and naval service during the war and other veterans have been added to the company rolls since the armistice.

John J. McCloy, a lawyer in his early thirties, is the new president of the new Chicago, Milwaukee & Pacific Highway Co., which will take over the assets and liabilities of the bankrupt Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and to which bankers have assigned the $140,000,000 bid they made for the property at Butte, Montana.

His only task is to sign papers until the time has arrived for lifting the receivership from the road, when an accord will be selected.

Mr. McCloy is employed by the law firm of Cravath, Henderson & De Gersdorff, of New York City. Other officers announced are young lawyers employed by the same firm or other law firms interested. Their positions are all temporary.

THE holiday season with its festivities and excitement brings the best of toothsome goodies to the fore. Shelled and salted nuts, glace fruits and nuts constitute the more distinctive type of sweetmeat. When purchased in attractively decorated tin boxes, they make excellent individual gifts. When serving sweets, these glace fruits and nuts make this service a pleasure.

Glace fruits are so easily damaged in appearance by the ordinary pasteboard box that the tin container is a real necessity. It is strong and tight, keeping the fruits in all the delicious juices that is their best quality. No danger of shrunken, wrinkled skins and gummy sugar coatings. These fruits are crisp and outside and lusciously fresh within. Glace nuts, too, are best when kept in these tin boxes, which also insure their freshness.

The growing demand for shelled nuts, so popular for table service and as culinary ingredients, is responsible for the packing of California walnuts in vacuum tin boxes. The wise housewife or hostess knows that this is the best way to buy nuts, since these glace fruits and nuts make this service a pleasure.

Keep a can of nuts for salads, cakes, puddings, poultry stuffing, and other cooking uses. They are handy, too. These fruits are crisp and outside and lusciously fresh within. Glace nuts, too, are best when kept in these tin boxes, which also insure their freshness.

Taste Tempters

By Janet Janney

DESSERT is the high light of even the simplest meal. Many a culinary reputation has been lost or won by the dessert served. The woman who has acquired the ice cream habit is sure of serving a taste tempter. Ice cream appeals to the busy housekeeper, its comparative economy, the fact of its quick convertibility into odd and delectable dishes drives home its appeal. It takes time to make elaborate desserts and they are expensive. There is also the element of uncertainty as to their perfection. With ice cream there is no risk. Its serving may be as elaborate as desired.

Ice cream is so uniformly good, with a number of kinds to choose from, that we may indulge in several kinds for a fancy dish which we may have met at a dinner or bridge party and wish to try as a house surprise. A few words about ready to use bottled sauces may interest the woman who enjoys entertaining. One of chopped fruits in a delicious sauce is served with vanilla ice cream. A specialty will be also served by the cake. Whip prepared chocolate or marshmallow sauce may be melted by setting the bottles in hot water a few minutes then turning them out. Chocolate sauce may be taken from their spray and then used with a little of the syrup over a lemon ice cream. Preserved chestnuts (marrows) chopped coarsely and added to flavored whipped cream make another delightful sauce. Large whole peaches in Grenadine syrup make a pretty addition to a dish of ice cream, the cream allowed out to receive the fruit and a little of the colorful Grenadine is turned over all. The nutted creams are especially good with the fruit sauce.

Baked Ice Cream For this dish the ice cream must be frozen very hard and in rectangular shape. Place the cream on an oven plank, or a baking sheet. Make a meringue of five egg whites beaten stiff and dry. Add white heating eight teaspoonfuls of sifted powdered sugar. Spread the meringue on the ice cream quickly, all over it, then put in a hot oven where it will brown delicately in two to four minutes. The slight melting of the cream will be also served by the cake. Whip

GOODHUE, PROMOTED; GOES EAST FOR N. P.

C. H. GOODHUE

CLAUDE H. GOODHUE, supervisor of express traffic for the Northern Pacific at Seattle, this month was appointed manager of mail, express and baggage traffic of the road with headquarters in the St. Paul general offices. Mr. Goodhue succeeds the late Dan C. Pettibone who was killed early in November in a rear-end collision at Lake Park, Minn. He left December 27 for the East.

Mr. Goodhue was previously stationed in St. Paul so that his return to Minnesota is not like going to strange surroundings. His first job connected with transportation was driving a delivery wagon during school vacation in 1896 at Walla Walla. His father was the Northern Pacific agent there at that time. After two summers he quit school and took a regular position.

In 1902 he was brought to Seattle as chief clerk of the Northern Pacific express service and in 1906 was sent to Portland to take charge of the western division of the N. P. express. In 1918 he came back to Seattle, under the federal regime, as claim agent for the merged American Railway Express. In 1920, he rejoined the Northern Pacific at Seattle as supervisor of express traffic.

During his stay in Seattle Mr. Goodhue has been active in railroad circles and a year ago was elected a member of the Transportation Club, a position he resigned from on leaving Seattle. He has retained his interest in the organization, however, by transferring his membership from active to non-resident status.

M. O. Crawford, now in the district baggage office at Tacoma, will move to Seattle to take over part of the duties handled by Mr. Goodhue, with the title of express traffic representative. The title formerly held by Mr. Goodhue has been abolished.

Dress Up Your Radiators

THE comfort-dispensing radiator has long since become an established essential in the home. But it need not be left in its pristine, bare ugliness. When painted to match the walls or woodwork, it melts gracefully into the background and becomes—if noticed at all—a decoration instead of an apparatus.

If a radiator is low, box it in, with a latticework front. Paint this cover to match the woodwork of the room. An unimproved radiator, standing against the wall, should take the wall color—usually cream or light gray.

Engineers Invent Machine to Strip Lead Sheath From Telephone Cable

... a workman drives his pick through a telephone cable, if a bridge collapses and causes a break, or if the mischief of small boys causes damage in some other way, certain lengths must be cut out and shipped back to the Hawthorne Works of the Western Electric Company in Chicago, where it is manufactured, for reclamation.

Recently engineers of the company have developed an improved method for salvaging the lead and copper in the needless industrial effort for further economies, or "saving everything of use but the squeal."

The old method consisted of placing pieces of the cable in a furnace at a temperature of 1,100 to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit. The lead thus melted off ran into a huge kettle, in which the dross or impurities were removed and the lead prepared for casting into bars or pigs. In this process, however, a certain amount of the lead contaminated the copper, rendering it unfit for use requiring the sure metal and leaving it available only for such purposes as brass and bronze making, with its market value considerably below that of commercially pure copper.

To eliminate this contamination of the copper the engineers sought a method of removing the lead sheath by mechanical means. This was a difficult problem to solve, owing to the great variety of sizes and shapes of cable received.

Finally, however, they perfected an ingenious machine which would strip the lead sheath from cable of various diameters. The cable is fed into the machine and flattened by a series of corrugated rollers, which also grip the cable and push it past two horizontal knives that slit it on each side and a revolving knife that cuts it into thirty-inch lengths.

The lead sheath is then easily removed from the wire core. It is sent directly to the lead kettle for melting, while the wire is reclaimed without its lead covering, thus eliminating contamination and producing a copper of higher market value.

NEWBOLD 1ST PLOW INVENTOR

Charles Newbold of the Soviet Union took out the first American patent on a plow in 1797, only two oxen being needed for power where eight or ten had been necessary on other plows, says the research department of the national association of farm equipment manufacturers. Skoptics started the rumor that it would poison the ground and encourage weeds. Jethro Wood, a New York Quaker, followed with an iron plow in 1813 from which has come the modern plow.

ENJOYS

The things in which we Americans take most interest are not the kind that are to be passively enjoyed. Our fondness for sports is an indication of this. The kind of wealth which Americans enjoy most is not the kind that enables them passively to register pleasurable sensations; it is rather the kind that they must actively control and master in order to get the thrills which they enjoy. . . . We are not interested in graceful consumption and elegant leisure. Our millionaires are not, as a rule, fat-necked, pot-bellied and pop-eyed; they are generally lean men who might easily be mistaken for hard-working students who burn much midnight oil. They suggest a diet of crackers and milk rather than rich viands and costly wines.—Professor T. N. Carvey of Harvard University in January Current History.

The board of trustees of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce has voted that the Washington, D. C. representative be instructed to make proper representation to the Washington delegation in Congress to the end that the question of Pullman car surcharges remain in the hands of the U. S. C. C.

This action is in reaffirmation of the previous policy. There is pending in Congress a bill designed to eliminate the surcharges by legislation instead of leaving the matter in the hands of the U. S. C. C. to whom Congress has delegated power to pass on such matters.

Reducing The Food Budget

THE best intentioned housewife is apt to exceed the speed limit, now and then. In other words, she will spend more than her food budget allows, unless she gives close attention to the market makes a careful study of comparative prices.

It is an excellent plan for her to go over the weekly or monthly bills, now and then, with Friend Husband. For "two heads are better than one" in matters of this kind. Perhaps it will be his masculine mind that discovers she has been investing too recklessly in unseasonable prices. Fresh vegetables, for instance, are only now beginning to come down to normal prices. But a little investigation will show her that even when they may be had at a reasonable cost, there is greater economy in the canned vegetables.

She will find this to be especially true, this year. Perhaps she does not know the reason, which is that certain of the staple vegetables, such as corn, peas, tomatoes and stringless beans, were very plentiful last summer. In consequence, the canners prepared for the market a much larger amount than usual and are therefore selling these products at greatly reduced prices. By taking advantage of these prices, the thrifty housewife is able to make a material reduction in her food bills.

So she watches for advertisements of canned food bargains. She finds them placarded daily in grocery windows and on printed weekly bulletins on the counters. These sale foods are usually offered at the rate of two or three cans for 25 cents—and even as low as three for 20 cents, in the case of canned tomatoes. The fact that the commercially prepared foods keep indefinitely enables the housewife to lay in a supply of them without fear of spoilage. Thus she may have conveniently at hand a varied assortment of ready-to-serve foods for her emergency shelf. And she serves not only the purpose of economy, but also of convenience.

In addition to the staples mentioned above, there are frequent bargains to be had in baked beans, evaporated milk, canned applesauce, sauerkraut, spinach, artichokes and pineapple. These things, because of their nutritive or medicinal values, are among the staples. So it means a tremendous saving to be able to buy them at such remarkably low prices as now prevail.

Moreover, a little experience will teach the housewife that not merely in actual cost are the prepared foods more economical than the fresh, but in the matter of bulk. In preparing fresh vegetables and fruits for the table, a considerable proportion of them has to be eliminated. By the time fresh peas are separated from their pods, their bulk is materially reduced. The stringing of string beans produces a similar result. Tomatoes, also, after the skins, stems and bad spots have been removed, are noticeably less in quantity. It takes, for instance, about three pounds of the fruit to furnish the same amount of edible food as is obtained from a large can of tomatoes, which may be bought at the rate of two cans for 25 cents, or about 13 cents a can.

Prepared foods, on the other hand, have had all their waste eliminated before they went into the can. What is transferred from the can to the table is solid food. The purchaser has not been compelled to pay for pods, or skins, or other inedible portions. In buying fresh vegetables, it is not easy to estimate the right amount for a certain number of people. But the housewife soon finds that when she buys without difficulty, when purchasing canned foods, because the amount is known, she can buy just what she needs and always the same, and every bit of the contents is edible.

Spinach offers an interesting illustration. The fresh vegetable, sold with such an excess, in cooking, that it takes three or four times as much fresh spinach as canned, to serve the same number of people.

The careless housewife, who does not take the trouble to look into these matters, should not be surprised if she exceeds her food budget. After all, it is the little things that count in matters of economy. Small extravaganzas eventually make big bills.

One bill seldom considered in connection with the food budget, yet which is materially affected by the type of food purchased, is the gas bill. The experienced housewife has learned that ready-to-serve foods mean a very considerable saving of gas. For they require, but little cooking, this having been done in the process of canning.

TEA DRINKING—NOW AND THEN

For many persons the informal tea hour holds the most gracious and stimulating moments of the day. The hour, so concisely garnered for relaxation and conversation after the business of the day and before the activities of the evening is regarded as a civilized and pleasurable necessity. So widely is afternoon tea taken now that it is almost to realize that in the eighteenth century tea was a curious and expensive luxury, served as a delightful novelty in some homes, while in others it was abhorred as a poisonous potion from heathen lands.—From "Arts and Decorations."

Interstate motor vehicle transportation companies are trying out the freedom from regulation with the same enthusiasm that marked intrastate traffic prior to the passage of the 1921 auto transportation act, the department of public works of Washington figures show. At present there are 30 operators on 19 different routes that cover state lines and many of the operators are found by investigators to be doing business at a loss.

Supervisors C. Rea Moore and O. O. Calderhead, who returned recently from the national convention of public utility commissioners, brought back word that not more than 1 per cent of the transportation business of the country is done by state lines and to some extent the auto transportation companies increase railroad business.

In its brief to the Interstate Commerce Commission proposing plans for regulation of interstate auto transportation companies the department of public works says: "It is the view of the department of public works that those should be regulated who are engaged in the operation of the interstate common carrier passenger and freight motor vehicles; that the enforcement of such act shall be vested as far as possible in the various state commissions acting jointly; that there should be an appeal to the interstate commerce commission when the state commissions are unable to agree upon any matter submitted for their joint action; and that the interstate commerce commission should be authorized to act for any state commission that refuses to join with other states for joint consideration of matters arising under the act."

University of Illinois experts have figured that farmers would have saved millions of bushels more of their small grain this year had there been more threshers available. In a dry season, the big rigs were well enough, but this year, few rigs got all done, and the extra work was done by three or four neighbors, more than paid for the outfit by getting all the crop.

Feed you to bring your chicks through the danger period by feeding FISHER'S CHICK STARTER MILK MASH. This is rich in digestible proteins and easily assimilated. The addition of pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil and later still of the minerals that are lacking in most other feeds, has added still further to the value of this remarkable Chick Mash.

Feed it in connection with FISHER'S CHICK FEED and you have done all that can be done along the lines of right feeding. Judge Wm. M. Coats, the nationally famous poultry expert, advised:

Congregational Business Meeting
The annual meeting of the Congregational church congregation was held Sunday after church.

There was a fine audience at the morning service, people from out of town making it a point to be present, and the basement was crowded when the dinner hour was announced. The committee in charge made a most enjoyable record in the abundance of choice things to eat. The children were carefully looked after and had a table to themselves.

After dinner the adults adjourned to upstairs and the business of the coming year was considered.

The reports showed a healthy condition, money raised and bills paid. The official board was instructed to consider certain items of improvement, secure estimates and, if the way be clear, perform the work.

The new officers to work with the hold-over members are, trustees, George Boliou and W. M. Herman; junior deacon, Walter Miller; church treasurer, Ruth Martinson; Sunday school superintendent, Mrs. Marguerite Miller; organist, Mrs. W. M. Herman; assistant organist, Mrs. Robert Emmett; church clerk, Mrs. Jennie Erikson.

Rev. O. S. Barnum had been elected pastor at the December congregational meeting.

The Sunday school is growing steadily and a feeling of hopefulness pervades the congregation.

The sixth grade entertained us with songs, readings and a story. Next Friday the fifth grade will give the program.

Our room looked rather vacant last Friday, as so many pupils earned the holiday for being neither tardy nor absent.

Our fifth grade language class are working on booklets containing a "dinner alphabet" in rhyme.

We have had several absentees this week because of illness.

Third and Fourth Grades

Those pupils being neither tardy nor absent during the past six weeks were given a quarter holiday Friday of last week. They were Emma Louise Vanouck, Grant Loncoy, Glenn Mayer, Evelyn Rogers, Howard Carrio, Winifred Dean, Gretchen Reiser, Donald Rader, Annabelle Huffman, Marie Springer, Ray Solbakken, Thomas Sanford, Bertie Wishard, Ambrose Foster and Thomas Herman. Bernice Stucker, George Reynolds and Howard Carrio have been absent from school for several days, due to illness.

The third grade are constructing a scene, on the sand table, of a home in a cold country.

Last week our room was given the Monroe silent reading test. Thomas Sanford made the highest record, being able to read 166 words in a minute with perfect comprehension.

Primary Room

We have many absences, due to illness. It seems to be a slight epidemic of colds. Some have been out almost an entire week. Friday we had ten absent and Monday twelve were absent.

Those earning the quarter-day holiday for perfect attendance were Anna Lund, Vern Carrio, Elbert Hollingsworth, Beuletta Nordby, Retal Loncoy, Lucille Rogers and Robert Scholler in the first grade. James Dresher, Betty Lou Burr, Cleora Miller and Edward Finlon in the second grade.

In our sand table we are making another scene from the Dutch Twins. We have boats, windmills, ducks and little Dutch houses.

In language class we enjoyed a picture study on "Can't You Talk?" and "The Village Blacksmith."

This week report cards go out again. This is our third six-weeks period and complete one-half of the school year. We will appreciate your cooperation in helping us to get these cards promptly signed and returned, as you have done in the past, and we take opportunity here to thank you for doing so.

In a preliminary game between Genesee high school girls and a team of girls from Lapwai, the locals won by a score of 29 to 9.

The high school team went to Endicott, Wash., Tuesday, where that evening they took the Endicott high school team into camp by a score of 21 to 20 in a hard-fought session.

Birds Should Be Fed

Reports are again coming to the News office that game birds are seemingly quite hungry and should be fed. The doctor covering of snags has made it hard for them to get food and it would be a good idea for farmers and sportsmen to scatter wheat where it will be found by the birds.

Are Now In Parsonage

Rev. and Mrs. O. S. Barnum are now nicely settled in the Congregational parsonage, where friends will be welcome.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

Many of the students are absent the last few days on account of illness. The sickness started in the primary grades and has now worked up to the high school. Those pupils who were absent first are now beginning to return to school.

Those girls who are now eligible for the Girls' Honorary club are Verona Wolff, Inez Mayer, Eloise Emmett, Genevieve Rogers, Myrtle Larson, Theresa Kraut and Mildred Roach.

Teachers who wish to have a solid basis of rational thought underneath all of their instruction must make a study of correlation. It is well for any teacher to specialize on some one or two subjects. No teacher can afford to be merely a teacher of arithmetic or of language or of history and cut off the connections with the rest of the world. This is a narrowness that cannot be tolerated in any teacher. The teacher of any special subject may well spend half of his time on the principals of his subject and the other half on the relation of that subject with the rest of the world. In such a manner a student that specializes too narrowly in one special subject becomes narrow and thus defeats the purpose of education. When the time comes when a complete consolidation program is carried out in all of the rural districts, then can we hope to give all the same broad education.

OXEN, RUM SOLD AT AUCTION IN 1849

The following is a copy of an old sale bill advertising a sale in Kentucky in 1849, and reads as follows:

"Having sold my farm and I am leaving for Oregon Territory by ox carts, will offer, March 1, 1849, all of my personal property, to-wit:

"All ox teams, except two teams, Buck and Ben and Tom and Perry; 2 milk cows, grey mare and colt, 1 pair oxen yokes, 1 baby yoke, 2 ox carts, iron foot or poplar weatherboards, plow with wood mule boards; 800 to 1000 3-foot clap boards, 1500 10-foot fence rails, 1 60-gallon soap kettle, 85 troughs made of white ash timber, 10 gallons of maple syrup, 2 spinning wheels, 30 pounds of mutton tallow, 1 large loom, made by Jerry Wilson, 300 poles, 100 empty barrels, 32-gallon barrel of Johnson Mider whiskey seven years old, 20 gallons of apple brandy, 1 40-gallon copper still, 1 dozen real books, 2 handle books, 3 scythes and cradles, 1 dozen wooden pitchforks, one-half interest in tanyard, 1 32-calibre rifle, bullet mold and powder horn, rifle made by Ben Miller, 50 gallons of sorghum molasses, 6 head of fox hounds, all soft mouthed except one.

"At the same time I will sell my 6 negro slaves—2 men, 35 and 50 years old, 2 boys, 12 and 8 years old, 2 mulatto wenchies, 40 and 30 years old. Will sell all together to the same party as will not separate them.

"Terms of sale, cash in hand or to draw on at interest with Bob McConnell as surety.

WHEAT MARKET FIRMER—FEED GRAINS STEADY

Slight advances in wheat prices at Liverpool and Buenos Aires imported some strength to the United States wheat market situation during the week ending January 22, according to the weekly Grain Market Review of the United States department of agriculture. United States wheat markets were practically unchanged with both milling and export demand of only moderate volume. A moderately active feeding demand held corn and barley prices steady but the market of corn was sufficiently large to cause a further increase in the already large stocks. Flax was firmer, influenced by higher prices in Argentina.

An increase of 7,000,000 bushels over previous estimates was made in a recent estimate which placed the Argentine crop at about 223,000,000 bushels compared with 191,000,000 bushels harvested last year. This increase has apparently been discounted in the markets however, as both Buenos Aires and Liverpool prices advanced about a cent per bushel during the week. Thrashing returns in Argentina are better than expected in the southern provinces according to trade reports.

"At the same time I will sell my 6 negro slaves—2 men, 35 and 50 years old, 2 boys, 12 and 8 years old, 2 mulatto wenchies, 40 and 30 years old. Will sell all together to the same party as will not separate them.

DEATH OF A. H. ALFORD—LEWISTON TRIBUNE EDITOR

Albert Hubert Alford, managing editor of the Lewiston Tribune, passed away yesterday while he slept at Hot Lake, Oregon, having arrived there Monday evening to take a much needed rest. The message received yesterday afternoon from Dr. Foy, in charge of the Hot Lake resort, stated that Mr. Alford had retired Monday evening with a request that he be allowed to sleep late yesterday morning. Dr. Foy reported that he visited Mr. Alford's room at 9 o'clock and at that time he was sleeping naturally. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon it was discovered that he had passed on, says the Tribune.

Mr. Alford was born at Alford's bluff, near Galveston, Texas, Oct. 21, 1862, being the oldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George F. Alford. He received his higher education at Washington and Lee university, Va., and acquired his first newspaper training in the office of the Morning Dallas News. Later he was connected with the Tacoma Morning Globe and 1862, being the oldest son of the late associated himself with his brother, Eugene L. Alford, in establishing the Lewiston Tribune.

Mr. Alford occupied the position of editor of the Tribune from the beginning and his work in this department of the newspaper has reflected his gentleness and modesty of character, his fine sense of justice and equity and his comprehensive appreciation of the public's rights. He has given to the newspaper his best effort and his work has been his life. It is perhaps not amiss to say that the results of his labor are his best epitaph. In 1896 Mr. Alford was elected to the Idaho state legislature as a representative of Nez Perce county, which would be the only political honor he would accept. He was made speaker of the house of representatives and served Idaho in an educational capacity as one of the first regents of the University of Idaho.

Mr. Alford is survived by his brother, Eugene L. Alford, and a sister, Mrs. W. L. Evans, who widowed several years ago, came to Lewiston last spring to make her home with him.

BIG CLEARWATER MILL WILL BE IN OPERATION BY JULY 1

The huge mill of the Clearwater Timber company and dam being built on the Clearwater river two miles above Lewiston, is expected to be put in operation by July 1, according to plans of the officials of the company, says a news dispatch from that city.

The mill, the largest white pine mill in operation, will have a capacity of 250,000 to 400,000 board feet each eight-hour shift. Forty-one miles of railroad are being built by the Northern Pacific and Union Pacific from Orofino to supply logs for the mill. The company is also building 25 miles of additional track from camps to the central roads.

The 300,000 acres of timber land of the company is thought to be the largest single stand of Idaho white pine. A dam 300 feet long with an average height of 30 feet, with seven flood gates, is being constructed across the Clearwater. Three hundred acres of land are being flooded by the dam construction to provide mill ponds to float logs. A dyke 7,000 feet long, 100 feet wide at the base and 12 feet at the top is a safety feature of the project.

The floor of the mill will be 365 feet by 155 feet and will include a large circular cut-off saw, five double-cut land saws and a 52-inch gang saw, the largest in the Inland Empire. Six edgers, three trimmers and a three-saw lathe mill will also be included. All saws will be run by individual motors.

Ninety per cent of the timber saved will be dried in kilns. Two storage sheds 1200 feet long and 80 feet wide will hold the rough lumber, while in a third shed 900 feet long by 80 feet wide the dressed lumber will be stored. Space to pile 40,000,000 feet of lumber will be provided in the yards.

The project, which is estimated to cost $10,000,000, has used 500 cars of material and 12,000,000 feet of lumber in the construction of the mill to date. It is estimated that 600 additional cars of material will be used before the mill is completed.

A Good Idea

Insurance companies hereafter must tell State Insurance Commissioner H. O. Fishback all about the motor vehicle accident for which they pay damages.

A new form setting forth reasons for an auto crash has been prepared and agents must designate the class in which the accident belongs.

Mr. Fishback is trying to find out what causes accidents—then reduce the number.—Cotton News-Letter.

Fire Siren Froze Up

The heavy winds and drifting snow of Wednesday was too much for the fire siren and its gentle and musical voice was hushed at the usual hour. It was supposed to notify the people of Astoria that dinner was waiting. To climb the tower and relieve the mechanism is quite a task fraught with considerable danger to the official in charge it is said. To tackle this job one must have a cool head and warm feet.—Astoria Sentinel.

Banks in Good Condition

A recent publication of the total deposits of the Bank of Julieta, Kendrick State Bank and Farmers Bank of Kendrick, shows that there is still some money left in the local banks even if the bean crop of last fall didn't amount to much. These three banks are in the heart of the Potlatch country and their condition reflects the financial standing of the community to a large extent. Their combined deposits total $640,632.70. This is a mighty good showing for the middle of the winter.—Kendrick Gazette.

County Valuations

Value of $82,418.70 was placed on the county court house, furnishings and equipment as the last act of the Wednesday session of the county commissioners, who adjourned Wednesday noon to reconvene Monday morning. Awarding of county printing contracts for the year, and minor business was considered by the commissioners.

The Genesee News was awarded the county printing bid for the coming year. Other newspapers submitting bids for the county printing were the Idaho Post, The Kendrick Gazette and the Troy News.

Five hundred dollars as a revolving fund for the use of the sheriff's office was approved by the commissioners and the petition filed by the sheriff was granted.

Consideration of a fixed wage scale for road work during the coming year was drawn up by the county fathers, and is practically the same as for the past year. Overseers are to get 60 cents an hour, or $4 per day. Men handling tractors will get 62 1/2 cents per hour or $5 per day. Common laborers will draw 40 cents an hour and teams used will get 32 cents per hour per working day of eight hours.

Inventory of the county home and surrounding property owned by the county showed the property to be worth $33,058, of which amount farm land around the home was valued at $13,400.—Star-Mirror.

MILK SHIPPERS ELECT OFFICERS

H. M. SHAFER
President

With President H. M. Shaffer presiding the Sixth Annual of the Seattle Milk Shippers' Association recently proved to be an unusually satisfactory meeting, not so largely attended as some of these annual events in past years, for there were but 148 votes cast when it came to the election of officers, which passed off without friction, and if there were any politics in the air there was no evidence on the surface, and the fact that with but one exception the old board was re-elected goes to show that affairs of the organization are working smoothly.

With the Seattle milk war satisfactorily settled and that question out of the way the only apparent disturbing issue with which the association has to wrestle is the ever present surplus question. This is a vexatious problem but one that will in time be settled in a way that will relieve the drain now being continually felt by the association's treasury through the monthly payment of bonuses to those members that must dispose of their milk as a part of their other channels than for city distribution.

Following the routine of business and the reading of the reports of the officers, both of which are herewith published, the meeting listened to an instructive talk by Roy C. Jones, extension dairy specialist of the State College, on feeding the dairy cow for economical production.

Dr. F. E. Smith, city veterinarian, explained the attitude of the city toward tuberculosis testing stating that at present the city made the test compulsory only where raw milk is sold, and he expressed the desire that any future regulation should come from the producers themselves rather than through a city ordinance.

County Agent W. V. Henry, presented the subject of signing up the county for the bovine tuberculosis test. He had several petitions in hand which he offered for signatures of cow owners in which they pledged for the test, and during the recess about 1,900 cows were registered. These petitions will be later circulated throughout the county in the hope of getting a majority of the owners of King County's 21,000 cow population on them. If sufficient signatures are procured and funds become available for the purpose King County will be included in the list of those counties seeking modified accreditation.

At noon the meeting adjourned to the banquet hall of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, where lunch was served after which the election of officers took place, resulting in the selection of H. M. Shaffer, A. A. Johnson, J. C. Burnam, C. W. Peters, Howard Nelson and August Anghen. All but Mr. Burnam were members of the old board. Mr. Burnam taking the place of Mr. Inhoff who was not a candidate for reelection.

I wish to discuss for a few moments what appears to me at present to be the most troublesome problem, our Surplus. If we could produce and market a uniform supply of milk the year around and if the market simply demanded that uniform supply, and if new demands only came as a result of the city's gradual growth, the problem would be very simple indeed. You know, however, that it does not work that way.

We may be running along with just a reasonable amount of surplus when a few hot days will send the demand up 300 cans and the production down 200 cans so that we are obliged to Seattle market if we are not working with them harmoniously.

These three Northern Counties have no surplus and the final result of that will be within a year to use our surplus and manufacture it in such a way that it will neither rest upon us or injure the marketing of their products of a like character.

On Monday, December 20th, with the Secretary, I attended a meeting of managers of the three Northern Counties, at which time certain proposals were made to us on the control of the milk in these four counties. There was at that time no spirit of wishing to force their fluid milk into this market, but they do wish to have a sales agency in Seattle where their butter and other products can be sold under their own brands and as soon as possible work toward the handling of our surplus. The proposal which they made is somewhat hazy as yet and needs further investigation but the spirit, however, was exceptionally good and it looks toward the zoning of the various markets, leaving the Seattle area as a preferred fluid milk market, only admitting their fluid milk from the North as the city may need it, and it seems to indicate that there would be a stronger control of this market.

Now the weather cools, the production rises and consumption falls lower than before. The readjustment leaves us with more milk than we had. Again, the price is made attractive when the spread is high. Production invariably rises. You may think you all feed just the same, but we know that within three days after a good price raise the surplus is increased to the extent of one to three hundred cans. Some of you buy a few more cows, others put on whole strings, new producers storm the market, some of the dairies taking only part of their milk of us cut that off because it is easy to get more outside. All this piles up the surplus and if the spread is high it costs the association a very considerable sum to buy the pool price to those off the market.

You see, therefore, that with such a fluctuating demand and supply it is impossible to get along without this troublesome problem. You see that for a dry time we must have, not simply enough milk but too much if we are to be ready to serve our trade at all times, and you see that this is what ruins us when there is a flood of milk everywhere.

It is hard to adjust the finances so that we can just meet the demands without running the risk of depleting our treasury or taking more from you than necessary. You will note that the extra spread we secured in the summer gave the Association membership $40,000.00 more money but because it was not exactly adjusted it cost our treasury over $12,000.00. It was a good trade, but I am trying to bring out the fact that this whole surplus problem is difficult to adjust.

You know that our office and our board have been working on the matter of selling this surplus to various firms. At the beginning of the year we had a proposed contract up in which we were to sell this milk to the Western Dairy Products Company, but they preferred not to understand the terms of the contract and when it was presented to them they would not sign it unless we would furnish them all the milk they wanted without their being obliged to take any. We therefore forgot about that.

You know also that later in the year we were proposing to sign a contract with another firm to handle our surplus, and we have to tell you that this also has failed, even though they have met with us and agreed that they would sign a contract which was actually made for them. They hesitated about it just before the milk war broke out in October and this is no doubt partly the reason they are not completed this contract.

The discussion over the sale of this surplus no doubt, helped to bring about a conference between our Board and the Boards of the three Northern Counties and it now appears that our surplus will be used by the Seattle Ice Cream Company made up into its various products, or by the other company we were attempting to deal with. It might come into direct competition with the products being marketed by these three Northern Counties who do at present have a city milk market, and in the long run it may be very lucky for us that we did not complete these proposed contracts, because our strongest hold on the market will result from a strong cooperation with other farm co-operatives who have the power to cause us plenty of trouble in the

All Episcopal Church Forces United for Bishops' Crusade

In the sequestered shades of the National Cathedral at Mount St. Alban, Washington, a group of bishops and laymen of the Episcopal Church are struggling with a problem which has turned political in a bold and gray. Beginning January 6, 250 bishops, standing in the name of the Church will embark on the nation-wide Bishop's Crusade to reawaken the membership of the Church throughout the world to their duties as Christian citizens. These Crusaders will work along lines similar to those of campaign workers in a great Presidential canvass. They will go where they are sent—the most eloquent and forceful leaders of the Church—and preach a practical application of Christian doctrine in the every day life of the men and women of the Community who will be urged to be Christians in fact as well as in name. The problem the group of bishops and laymen are struggling with is to meet the demands of the congregations for favorite Crusaders.

It is not too early to plan for the purchase of day-old chicks. Poultry men should remember that the average egg lay per hen in Washington is equal to, and we believe, above any other state and that most of the foremost breeders of poultry in the nation live in Washington. A few cents saved on day-old chicks may make the difference between profit and loss next year. Attention is again called to the fact that the greatest profits from commercial egg production come in the months of October, November and December and poultrymen should plan for high egg production during these months.

While sheep and wool are only slightly lower than they were a year ago, sheep raisers are inclined to look ahead in making future plans. There has been a steady expansion in the breeding flocks and the increased numbers of lambs going to market have lowered the price received favoring an increased consumption of this important meat. The average price for lambs in November, 1925, was $12.20 per cwt. while November, 1924, it averaged $11.11 for the United States.

Let us look for a moment at a bit of stone that is on its way becoming soil—a finely polished shaft of stone in a graveyard, say, a stone that looks as if it had endured unchanged forever, and in which, probably, a visitor to the graveyard might note little change in the course of a lifetime. Yet, inevitably, that stone is being converted into soil just as surely—though infinitely more slowly—as are the bodies of those who lie beneath it. For years, perhaps, it will stand seemingly unchanged, but by and by it will begin to show changes of color and to feel less smooth and glassy to the touch. The changes of temperature, the wearing of the rain and the action of the sun, will begin to wear their effects felt on it. The fragments have been loosened from the main body of it; little crevices have been opened up into which the water can penetrate; some of it will have crumbled off in pieces too small, perhaps, to be noticed and fallen to the ground below, even more so, the fragments may have been blown away as dust in the wind. After awhile, as this wearing and weathering goes on, there will be a thin coating of fine material which may be scraped off with a knife or one's finger nail. After awhile, even more so, the fragments will be seen growing on the stone; for them it is already soil, and their growth will make the decay and decomposition of it much more rapid. As they die, too, their dust mixes with that of the stone and soil is formed in which plants of a higher order can live. So year by year, century by century, the once seemingly everlasting shaft of stone is changed into soil.—Southern Agriculturist.

Refreshing up the house with new curtains and bits of bright color do not forget the kitchen. Most women spend a great deal of time in this small room, and now that color in the kitchen has become a general thing rather than glaring white, it is easy to make this room quaint and attractive.

The many gay chintz wallpapers with their bright colors and smart little designs make ideal kitchen coverings. They do so much to make the rooms bright and cheerful, that other furnishings such as curtains and furniture must be most simple and natural.

It is possible to waterproof wallpaper, either by the use of white water proof varnish, or some of the new plastic materials, or by the use of a special paper, so that it may be washed as easily and often as paint. Besides making the walls sanitary, it also preserves the paper, saving it from dampness and cracking as well as from spots and fingermarks.

The little breakfast room in the illustration has been papered with this same pattern as the kitchen paper. It depends somewhat on the size and arrangement of the rooms whether this is advisable or not. However in this case it makes the small kitchen seem larger, and the gay little paper is so decorative that its use in both rooms seems natural.

Rabbits Now Asset to Northwest States

Recent perfection of a process which will produce a thick-skinned pelts to the western pack rabbit can be felt to be turning a menace and a liability into an asset, according to W. E. Koch, state representative of the University of Idaho extension staff.

"In the past years and even during the last season," says Mr. Koch, "many thousands of dollars worth of farm crops were lost in Idaho and other states due to rabbit damage. Rabbits, while now many people are making from three to twelve dollars a day killing and skinning jack rabbits for their pelts. This new market for skins may solve the problem in keeping near the present level, many persons who have a business of killing jack rabbits. In this manner the increase will be kept in check to such an extent that comparatively little damage will be done to crops by this pest."

Arrangements have been made through the efforts of agent control agents in Idaho to receive the skins and pay cash for them before they are shipped to the hat factories in the East. Under this arrangement persons having only a few skins are enabled to find an immediate market for the pelts and the packers are relieved of packing expenses and costly transportation charges. The skins can be shipped economically only in large quantities by freight.

WASHINGTON FARM OUTLOOK FOR 1927

By R. N. MILLER and R. M. TURNER
Extension Service, State College of Washington

November marked the high point for egg prices for 1925. Commercial eggs did not sell at so high a price as in 1925 but were high enough to make fair profits possible for many poultrymen in this state. There are 7% less storage eggs than last year, but 4% more than the five-year average from 1921 to 1925. The prices for storage eggs on most markets suffered a decline in price during the past month. It is not expected that storage eggs will be as high this year as a year ago.

Receipts of eggs at leading markets have been heavier than in 1925 but part of the receipts have been storage eggs. Many authorities believe that the receipts of fresh eggs exceed those of this time last year and if this is true, storage eggs will remain at lower levels and will hasten the seasonal drop in egg prices.

It is not too early to plan for the purchase of day-old chicks. Poultry men should remember that the average egg lay per hen in Washington is equal to, and we believe, above any other state and that most of the foremost breeders of poultry in the nation live in Washington. Fourth of California Butter Made in Idaho

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow.

—One-fourth of the butter consumed in Los Angeles during the first six months of 1925 was supplied by Idaho producers, according to figures issued by D. L. Fourt, field director of the university extension service.

The Los Angeles market has been developing very rapidly. Mr. Fourt said, because of population increase and the use of more local milk for table purposes rather than in the form of butter.

In 1925 nearly 17,000,000 pounds of creamery butter was manufactured in the Pacific Coast States. The amount produced in 1920, Idaho, however, produced only about one percent of the butter of the United States and ranks about eighteenth among the states in butter production.

Most Idaho butter now goes to Pacific Coast markets. Mr. Fourt points out, however, that when production in Idaho and other Western states increases above coast and local market needs, the extra expense of shipping to the East would not be in itself a handicap. The freight rate to New York or butter from Idaho is only one and one-fourth cents per pound greater than the rate from Idaho to Los Angeles.

Idaho now has 40 creameries, 43 cheese factories, 29 ice cream plants, one condenser, and one butter processing plant. Dairy population comprised nearly one-fifth of the total animal units in the state in 1925.

Drainage turned practically worthless land on the farm of T. R. Yarr of Dabob into the best land on the place. Of the complete drainage system installed only about four acres are now properly drained, as the outlet for the balance was through a neighbor's ditch which was a cheese factory. The crop from the four acres has paid for the entire system, and an outlet on his own land will be made next year. He has also installed a water system and septic tank on plans furnished by the State College through the county agent, W. O. Passmore.

Thirty-five dairymen from all parts of Grays Harbor county have assisted County Agent Cowan in planning the dairy program for 1927. It was suggested that work be principally on pastures, forage crops, cow testing work and increased consumption of dairy products.

Active protest has been entered by Detroit retail meat dealers against the practice of the Ford Motor Company of letting the general public buy meat and provisions at its non-profit slaughtering stores, which it maintains for the benefit of its employees. It is claimed by the Detroit retailers that in addition to handling the meat without profit the Ford people are able to buy from packers at a greatly reduced price under which the trade is supplied, which gives Ford additional advantages. Many retail meat shops it is claimed have been forced out of business through the Ford competition. In answer to these charges, the Ford people have offered jobs at $6.00 a day to anyone forced out of business through his competition.

LISTENING-IN during the wee hours of the morning for American stations is the hobby of William C. Bramwell, 82 years old. England's most ardent wireless enthusiast, who has attracted a great deal of attention throughout the world of radio by his interest in the 1926 intercontinental broadcast, during which he slept through the daylight hours in order that he might tune in for the transoceanic program from 1 to 6 a. m. K. L. A. Arnold, managing director of the Fred Eisenman Radio (Great Britain) Ltd., upon paying Mr. Bramwell a visit at his home in Dingley Dell, Fordington, found him in his radio den, as pictured above, listening for KDKA and WPG.

Mr. Bramwell formerly resided in Boston, Mass., and holds the patent for Scientific Method (now ornamenting the top of his radio set) for machines of his invention. He is also a member of the American Radio Society, which he does not hope to find any other American fan who listens in as regularly as Mr. Bramwell. No Harm Done
A stack of pen straw was burned on the Nagel flat, south of town, Sunday evening that caused considerable speculation as to just what was burning, some thinking it was Mr. Nagel's temporary barn, near where there are many fence posts—but it seems that no harm was done and they got rid of the straw stack.

DaDaffils Through Ground
While the Potatch district may boast of their early frogs and things, supposed to be harbingers of spring, we also have a few "signs" up this way. Up on our homestead, in the northern part of town, daffodils are coming through the ground, some being up fully an inch—and are still coming, regardless of the fact that snow lies on the ground several inches deep.
We suppose now that the Kendrick Gazette will have something far in advance of what we have to offer—even to eggs measuring a foot and a half in diameter—or some such common thing for that part of the country.
Making Improvements
The City Market has had workmen busily engaged for the past week in making many changes in their market and grocery store, having turned their office space into more floor room for their grocery department and putting the office upstairs. They are also making an effort to have their large meat cooler set back some six feet, to make more room for their meat department. The change will give them much needed room.

The Pine Grove community entertainment was attended by about 70 persons and a good time was had by all. The program, which consisted of several dialogues by the older people and recitations by the children, was exceptionally good. The pantomime given by the young people of Grey Eagle was greatly appreciated. After the program games were played and stunts enacted. A committee was appointed for the next meeting.

"Private Izzy Murphy"
A comedy drama of Izzy's Irish woe as he climbed from Ghetto to glory in a fighting Irish regiment; a story to make your sides shake and your heart ache. A play that is even funnier than the Cohen and the Kelly's. Don't fail to see it. It's a wonderful picture.

Putting Up Ice
A large crew of haulers and workers were busily engaged, beginning Monday morning, in putting up ice for Smolt's. The ice ranged from eight to nine inches in thickness and the quality was very good. Mr. Smolt said it was the best ice they had put up for seven or eight years, for freezing and cooling purposes. Their fountain ice is made artificially in their fountain equipment. They expect to put up about 100 tons.
Chas Geltz started hauling ice Wednesday morning and is filling his ice house. He expects to put up about 25 tons.
"Private Izzy Murphy"
One of the greatest comedies that has ever been shown in Genesee will be seen here Sunday night, when "Private Izzy Murphy" comes to town.
It is the story of the Irish and the Jews, with George Jessel, the great stage comedian, in his never-to-be-forgotten role of "Private Izzy Murphy," supported by a cast that makes this production an even more noteworthy production, with Patsy Ruth Miller, Vera Gordon, Nat Carr and other notable screen stars.
It's more than a great laugh—much more! You'll laugh until you cry, then you'll cry until you laugh.

HERALDYNE RADIOS
HERALDYNE is a product of the Bernard Merft Co., Iowa City, Iowa. Their agent who placed the order with me claimed that this company is worth $400,000 concern of importance and this said company claims that the HERALDYNE is an exceptionally good radio for the money and that they are doing a wonderful business back in the mid-west where they are known, also they claim this comparison you buy a car of standard make you get just what you pay for, the same as the HERALDYNE that sells at $150.00. For the wonderful results you get—selectivity—long distance—low-wave lengths and clear tone. I have one of these sets installed in my home and the great difference you spare the time I would be glad to tune it in for you or you may tune it in for yourself.
By tuning it in yourself you will no doubt agree with the Bernard Merft Co., that you will make no mistake by purchasing one of these radios.

"Going the Limit"
The feature film for Saturday night, January 29, at the Hotel theater will be "Going the Limit," with George O'Hara in the leading male role.

There are plenty of pretty girls and George seems to be having the time of his young life. It's one of those shows you will like.

"Private Izzy Murphy"
If you never laugh in your life, you will be sure to do so if you see "Private Izzy Murphy" at the Hotel theater Sunday night.

It is the story of a Jewish boy who took the name of I. Patrick Murphy for business reasons and who carried through his bluff even to enlisting in a fighting Irish regiment and to falling in love with Eileen Connaghan. You couldn't tell he was a Jew, for sure. But when he was acclaimed as a fighting Irish war hero, he faced a rival for Eileen's hand who denounced him as a Jew. But it didn't need his buddies to point out to Eileen that Izzy was first and foremost, like herself, an American. She would have loved Izzy whatever he was.

"The Sporting Lover"
For Wednesday night, February 2, the feature picture will be "The Sporting Lover," with Conway Tearle in the leading male role.

Hats off to the king of good fellows—a prince among men, who can ride like a fool, fight like a devil, and love—oh, how he can love!

One girl, with everything that makes life worth while, stakes it on a man—does he come through? You've never cheered more for a win than you will this time.

The Eucharistic Congress
On Thursday and Friday nights, February 3 and 4, the people of Genesee will have the opportunity of seeing in pictures the great Eucharistic Congress of the Catholic church, held in Chicago last fall.

The pictures are sponsored and presented by His Eminence George Cardinal Mundelein and are the official pictures of this great gathering.

A print of this film, with titles in Italian, was presented to His Holiness Pope Pius XI.

Few of our thoughts are our own. We just can't resist the temptation to share them with other people.

Despite zero weather, work on the Chelan power project of the Washington Water Power company has been progressing very rapidly on all phases of the work, according to V. H. Greiser, chief engineer. He announces that the final portion of the two and a quarter mile tunnel, between the dam and power house sites has been excavated. The excavation is approximately 17 feet in diameter. It will be lined with concrete to form a pipe 14 feet in diameter for the conducting of the water to two 34,000 horsepower water wheels in the power house.

Meanwhile concrete is being poured on the north half of the dam which is being erected across the Chelan river a short distance from the lake. Work is nearly completed on a new cofferdam to shift the water from the south half of the river bed to the north half where the base of the dam is being poured, so that work can be started on the south half of the dam.

The power house excavation has been completed and work of pouring concrete piers and the base of the power house is under way. More than 300 men are at work on the Chelan project.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

The classes of the high school have organized for the second semester and have elected the following officers:

Seniors—President, Ormond Mesman; vice president, Ruby Roach; secretary-treasurer, Mabel Bottjer.

Juniors—President, Anthony Ebel; vice president, Arthur Kieweno; secretary-treasurer, Clark Erickson.

The high school paper, the Clarion will be published this week. The school issues five of these each year, beginning with January. The January issue is late in coming out because so many of the officers of the publication have been absent on account of illness. The subscription price is 35 cents for the five issues. We will be glad to include the names of any town person on the list of subscribers.

Endicot, Washington, is a town about the size of Genesee. That school system has a consolidated plan. Several big, comfortable school buses carry the pupils to and from school. If Endicot can have consolidation, then Genesee should be able to also.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
The attendance in this room is a little improved this week. Pearl Springer and Grace Curran were the only pupils absent Monday.

We received the returns from the state examinations and all the eighth graders passed with the majority of the grades above average. John Hickman and Jack Platt have the honor of receiving the highest grades in history for the class.

The eighth graders have begun a complete review of arithmetic. They are studying square root at present. George Blome received the highest grade in the state exam in geography from the seventh grade.

This week the seventh grade has studied the different classes of food and examples of each class.

Fifth and Sixth Grades
We have begun another contest in spelling between the "Gumps" and the "Gumps." Perhaps the "Gumps" will win this time.

Our sixth geography class has been studying "ocean movements" and has finished some good drawings of ocean currents.

We are reading a children's edition of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" for opening exercises.

We are sorry to have so many pupils out of school because of illness.

Third and Fourth Grades
Our attendance is still being badly broken, due to illness with the "flu." Most of those absent last week are back but we all seem to be having our turn. Several new pupils are absent this week.

The fourth grade again won in the spelling contest, their weekly average being 94.5 and the third grade 93.5. Those pupils with a perfect weekly record are: Sissie Dresher, Thome Sanford, Ray Solbekken, Gaynell Hanson, Bernice Stucker and Emma Louise Vanouck.

The fourth grade geography class have just completed an interesting study of the Western States. They have taken three imaginary trips across them—southern, central and northern. In each trip they visited points of interest and have studied general conditions.

Primary Room
Many of the children who have absent on account of the flu epidemic have returned to school; however, some are still absent. We have been very busy helping those who were absent, to catch up in their work.

First graders enjoyed their game in word study class Tuesday. Beulet-Nordby came first and five others tied for second place.

Hand work classes are working on some booklets of the foods we need for good health. We are using Valentine colors as much as possible.

Second graders were much excited over what the outcome of the spelling game would be—the Blues won. Neva Erickson was high point speller for them.

First grade spelling class enjoyed the oral spelling match review Wednesday.

Lincoln's birthday will soon be here. We are having some interesting stories of Abraham Lincoln.

This week begins a new month—our sixth month of school. We hope to have less absence than we had last month.

WOOL OFFERINGS SELL LOWER AT PORTLAND

Three-fourths of a million pounds of wool, the remainder of the First National Bank of Boise, Idaho, accumulation, was sold at auction and preliminary sale at Portland, Oregon, on January 25. These wools had been previously offered at a sale held in December but were withheld at that time because satisfactory bids were not offered.

Fourteen growers were interested in the wools. Prices received were from 30c to 33 1/2c per pound f. o. b. Portland. The lots were largely cross-bred wools, the quarter blood shrinking about 50%, the three-eighths blood about 54% and the half blood about 60%. The clean price basis ranged around 68c for the clips running mainly quarter blood to about 97c for the fine wool. On the whole, values received were about 10% less than prices paid for the portion of the pool sold in December.

Expenses for freight, storage, insurance and interest already paid by the growers amount to about 5c per pound, leaving prices net to the growers at from 25c to 30c per pound. These, while not entirely satisfactory to the growers, are pretty well in line with prices actually being paid in Boston and indicate the general downward trend of the wool market most of the season.

Eastern mills are opening their lines of heavy-weight cloth at about 8% below prices of a year ago and it is hoped that these openings of full lines of clothing will permit mills to take up the fine wools still remaining on the market.

Highway Closed to Heavy Traffic
The North and South highway has been closed to heavy traffic, by order of the highway department, and it will be kept closed until the highway authorities will stand for no monkey business. One heavy truck can do inestimable damage to the highway in one trip and it would cost several hundred dollars to again place it in its former state.

It has been stated that some of them, in order to avoid the traffic regulations, have been starting out at night. This also will be looked after and if they are caught they will have to pay the privilege and explain to the judge why they were traveling at night on a closed highway.

Plan Your Work
Do you plan your day's work, allowing a certain amount of time to each task? Try it, always aiming to shorten the time spent on routine activities so as to gain more for pleasant occupations.

We are reading a children's edition of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" for opening exercises.

WHAT HAPPENED HERE TWENTY YEARS AGO

Chas. Scharnhorst has leased his farm near Uniontown and at an early date will move to Genesee to reside permanently. Some weeks ago Mr. Scharnhorst purchased the residence in the west part of town that is now occupied by the Ball family. It is his intention to make some improvements about the place before occupying it as a home.

Dr. J. L. Conant was a Spokane visitor last week and a result Genesee will soon be wearing metropolitan air. He bought an automobile and the same will be delivered here from the factory within a few weeks. Four Moscow parties, Messrs. Rubdrew, Gries, Harry Moore and Dr. Gritman accompanied Dr. Conant to Spokane, and the entire party, after thorough inspection, selected Franklins. Dr. Conant's machine will be of 12 horsepower capacity. A number of other Geneseseans have the fever and it is believed that at least a large part of the number will invest before the summer is over.

Friday evening last week, upon invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Scholer, a number of the members of the ladies aid society and members of their families gathered at the George Pollett farm, the place of residence of Mr. and Mrs. Scholer. The trip was an eventful one. In going out the four-horse load experienced a runaway, yet no damage was done. In returning the same party were less fortunate. In descending one of the steep hills east of town the horses became unmanageable, the sleigh was tipped over on the steep hillside and the twenty occupants were thrown out. Very luckily no one was injured. At the Scholer home the evening was very pleasantly spent. A fine supper was served and games were indulged in.

It is reported that the Weyerhaeuser interests are to build what is reported to be the largest sawmill in the United States at the confluence of Orofino and Whiskey creeks, two miles and a half above Orofino. The mill will be but a portion of an expenditure of more than $2,000,000 in that immediate vicinity, made necessary to cut and handle the three billion feet of timber which the Weyerhaeuser people have on the north slope of the mountains to the south of the Clearwater river. The plans of the Weyerhaeuser include the damming of the North Fork at Granite canyon, which will flood 300 acres, the reservoir to be used to store logs to be brought down from the timber by the stream. From the reservoir the logs will be carried overland on a railroad to be built from there to Ahsahka, a distance of four miles, where connection will be made with the Northern Pacific, which will take the cars to Orofino, four miles up the Clearwater. At Orofino the lumber company will have constructed another railroad, which will run from that city about 45 miles into the timber belt, passing the mill site. The latter is to be one mile square. The mill, it is said, will be larger than the one at Potlatch, which is considered one of the largest in the United States. The two and one-half miles on either side of the tracks between Orofino and the mill site are to be used for storing the lumber to be cut.

In Toils After Four Years
George Carrows, former Lewiston druggist, who has been absent from that city for the past four years, having left under accusation of having handled too much "moon," has been arrested and is in jail at Moscow.

It was said that the charge accused him of having a pint of liquid fire and he thought they ought to forget a little thing like that, but they didn't, and George will probably have an opportunity to explain where he got it—four years ago.

Mr. Williamson has leased the Johnson, Olson & Johnson building at Troy for a long term of years and fixtures now are being assembled at Grand Rapids in the building, Michigan, for immediate shipment to Troy. The building has a depth of 120 feet and is 80 feet wide. At the same time, New York agents for Mr. Williamson are preparing shipments of merchandise for the venture.

The initial investment will approximate $40,000. Herman Krier of Palouse, will manage the business.

The many friends here of "Hermie," as he is familiarly known, will be pleased to learn of his success in the business world, and that he will make good no one questions.

SEMI-LOCAL NEWS CLIPPED FROM EXCHANGES

Nothing Strange About It
Several wild geese killed up north recently are puzzling some of the hunters because of a quantity of gold found in the gizzards of the birds. Nothing strange about it. Just traveling expenses; that's all.—Craigmont Register.

Latest Road Rhyme
The latest good roads rhyme going the rounds in this region is: "Show me the gravel road home, I'm tired and I want to go to bed. I just drove to town about an hour ago in mud clear up to my head. Everywhere I roam, you'll always hear me singing this song—' build me a gravel road home.'"

Winter at Uniontown
After a week's cold snap, when the thermometer went as low as 14 below zero, the Uniontown trinity is again experiencing spring-like weather, with the mercury ranging around 40 this (Thursday) morning. The heavy blanket of snow which covers the ground is being rapidly depleted.—Uniontown Journal, Jan. 28.

River Contract Half Done
Joe and Lloyd Terling, highway contractors of Moscow, were in Lewiston Saturday from Riggins, on the Salmon river, where they have a contract for the grading of 7 1/2 miles of the North and South highway south of Riggins. They report that about two-thirds of the yardage has been moved and that the project is between 60 and 60 per cent completed.

Nights and day shifts are being maintained on the gas shovel with which most of the grading is being done, Mr. Terling said. The weather has been comparatively mild on the Salmon river and work has not been hampered from this source. In fact the grading of the contract will be completed in time for the opening of travel this summer.

When this contract is done there will remain only about three miles of ungraded road in the entire Salmon river canyon.—Lewiston Tribune.

Hermie Krier Will Manage Store
A news dispatch from Moscow, under date of February 1, says: N. Williamson, Moscow business man, who now operates department stores at Palouse and Orofino, announced today plans to open a general merchandise and department store at Troy along lines similar to his other two stores.

Mr. Williamson has leased the Johnson, Olson & Johnson building at Troy for a long term of years and fixtures now are being assembled at Grand Rapids in the building, Michigan, for immediate shipment to Troy. The building has a depth of 120 feet and is 80 feet wide. At the same time, New York agents for Mr. Williamson are preparing shipments of merchandise for the venture.

WHAT LIBERTY IS IN THIS COUNTRY—MISUNDERSTOOD

One word in our language often misunderstood is the word liberty, according to George B. Lockwood, writing editorially in the National Republic. Under the caption, "The Meaning of Liberty," Mr. Lockwood says: "Liberty is the right of every man to do as he pleases. Every man cannot do as he pleases, since such an exercise of liberty would limit the similar right of others.

"Liberty is only the right to do as one pleases insofar as this does not sacrifice the freedom of others and the welfare of society.

"The savage in the jungle alone has that liberty which some conceive to be the right of every individual; that is to say, no law restrains him from working his own will.

"But in such a case the ambition of others to have that same liberty restrains its exercise. The strong preclude the rights of the weak are sacrificed.

"In an ordered state the individual must sacrifice his 'right' to maintain a public nuisance, disregard sanitation and defy quarantine, refuse schooling and satisfy his antisocial appetite in order that the people as a whole may have freedom from annoyance, disease and ignorance or violence, due to the exercise of what in a more primitive state of society would be considered natural rights.

"Our crop of anarchists—rebels against regulation in the interests of society—seems to be growing. Without counting the advantages of the protection which society gives them, they wish not to be bound by the statutes and ordinances necessary to the protection of others. Such an attitude seems to be chiefly the result of excessive self-esteem.

"Especially in respect due social regulations when the safeguards against which complaint is made have been effected by legal process in a republic where law is public opinion crystallized.

"We have no law in this country which cannot be repealed whenever a majority of the people so decide. We have provided in our federal Constitution for the preservation of certain personal rights essential to freedom which even larger statutes cannot invade. We have a larger measure of true liberty in this country—the liberty of every man to work out his own destiny—than is found in any other country in the world.

"If every citizen should turn rebel against every law which does not suit him the result would be anarchy, and the rights of all would be sacrificed. To expect society to extend to us the protection of the laws we like and in turn to denounce and defy those laws which impose disagreeable restraints upon us, is evidence of a lack of an underlying sense of fairness. People can live together only by mutual concessions and a decent regard for the rules of the game. Those who refuse to do so are not 'square.' They attach too much importance to themselves and too little to others.

We hear much praise for the spirit of revolt. When people revolt against society they revolt against themselves. Those who sneer at the past and the institutions it has bequeathed to the present generation, too lightly estimate the value of the social and political economic inheritance and the cost at which it has been gained. A little more time devoted to the study of the good that exists and a little less inventing something theoretically better out of thin air, would be beneficial to millions of Americans."

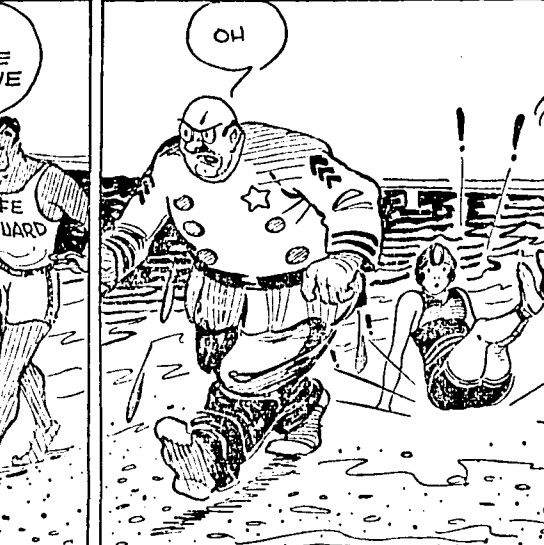

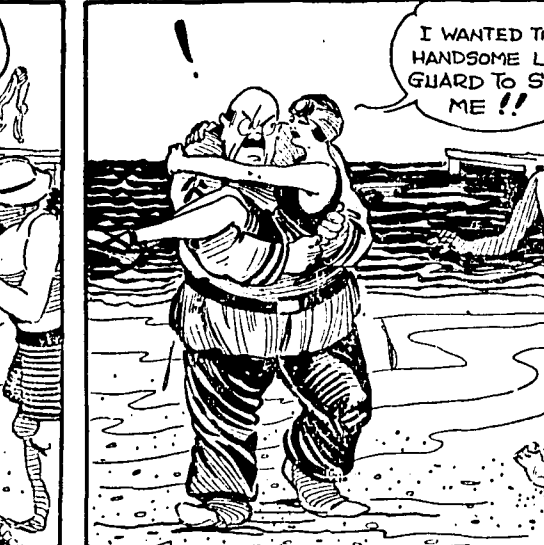

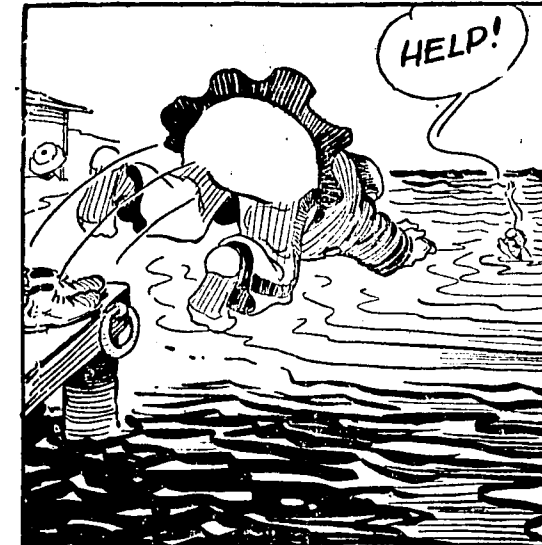

Southern mills were buying soft red winter wheat in moderate volume. Winter conditions somewhat restricted delivery at Cincinnati and resulted in the diversion of some of the trade to St. Louis, where offerings were in good demand. No. 2 red winter was quoted at the close of the week at St. Louis at $1.40 1/2, Chicago $1.38 to $1.39; Toledo, $1.40, and Cincinnati, $1.40 to $1.41.

Pacific coast markets were one cent higher with soft and western white wheats selling at Portland at $1.56 per bushel and at the good milling wheat at San Francisco at $1.47 per bushel. European export demand was very small volume at Portland and there was practically no demand from the Orient. Mills were also buying limited quantities of because of the dull demand for flour.

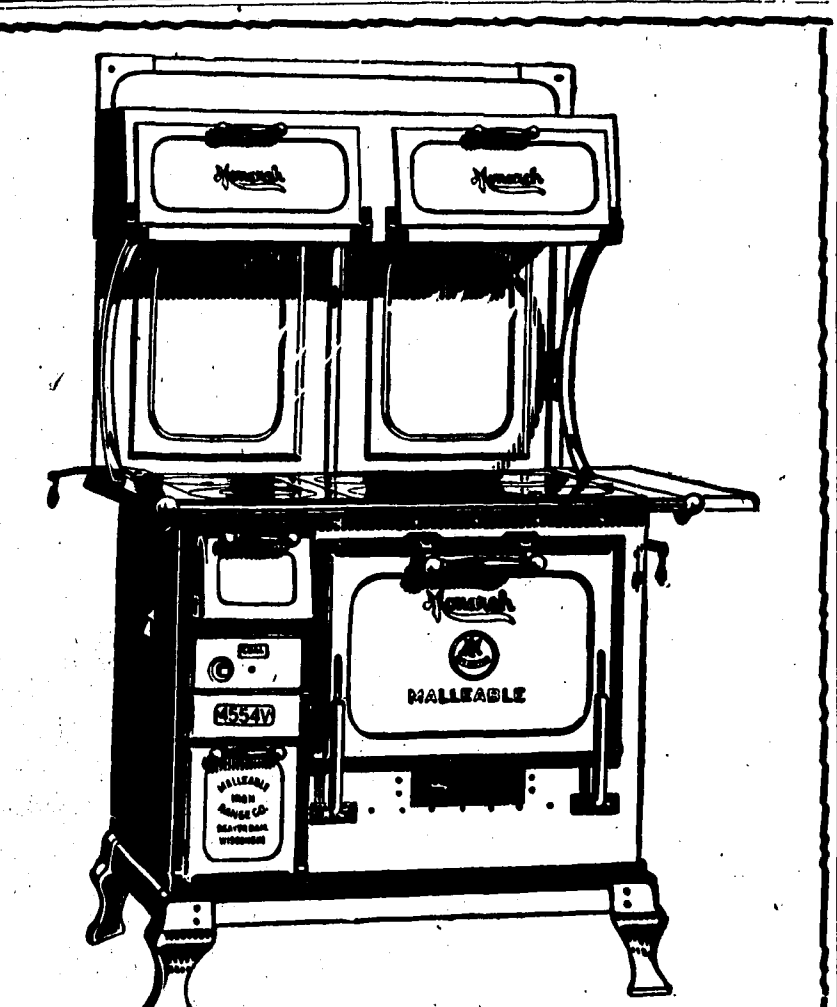

The oats market remained practically unchanged. The demand is about sufficient for the current offerings. Oats suitable for seed were bringing sharp premiums over the ordinary grades, which were quoted at from 45c to 46c for No. 3 white at the principal markets.

The barley market was relatively firmer than that for other feed grains, the prices of feeding qualities being advanced by the competition for the better milling types. Choice malting barley sold at 72c to 74c at Minneapolis and special No. 2 at 76c to 82 1/2c at Malwaukee. Feeding grades sold at from 55c to 65c in the central western markets. The demand for feeding barley is not likely to be materially changed during the coming year, according to the Outlook Report just issued by the department and the market value will be determined largely by the supply and prices of other feeding grains. Where barley can be grown advantageously for home feeding, however, it appears to offer better returns than oats. The foreign demand for feeding barley appears likely to remain dull during the remainder of the season because of the large European supplies of low grade wheat and rye in addition to the usual supplies of barley and oats.

Typewriter and Telephone Lead Fifty Years of World Progress

Sequel-Centennial to Show Revolution Begun by Two Devices First Seen in 1876 at Centennial.

By GEORGE H. JASON

WHEN the world comes to Philadelphia this summer to celebrate one hundred years of American independence and progress, the picture of how far we have come in a century and a half will be hardly less amazing than that covering the past half century alone.

The crowds which flocked to the Centennial Exposition in 1876 and saw evidence of what a century had brought forth under the world's newest civilization had only the slightest intimations of the fruits of American genius that were ripening in half that time in the future.

What our fathers and grandfathers, in their quaint linen dusters, saw at the Centennial were largely the results of a hundred years of political progress.

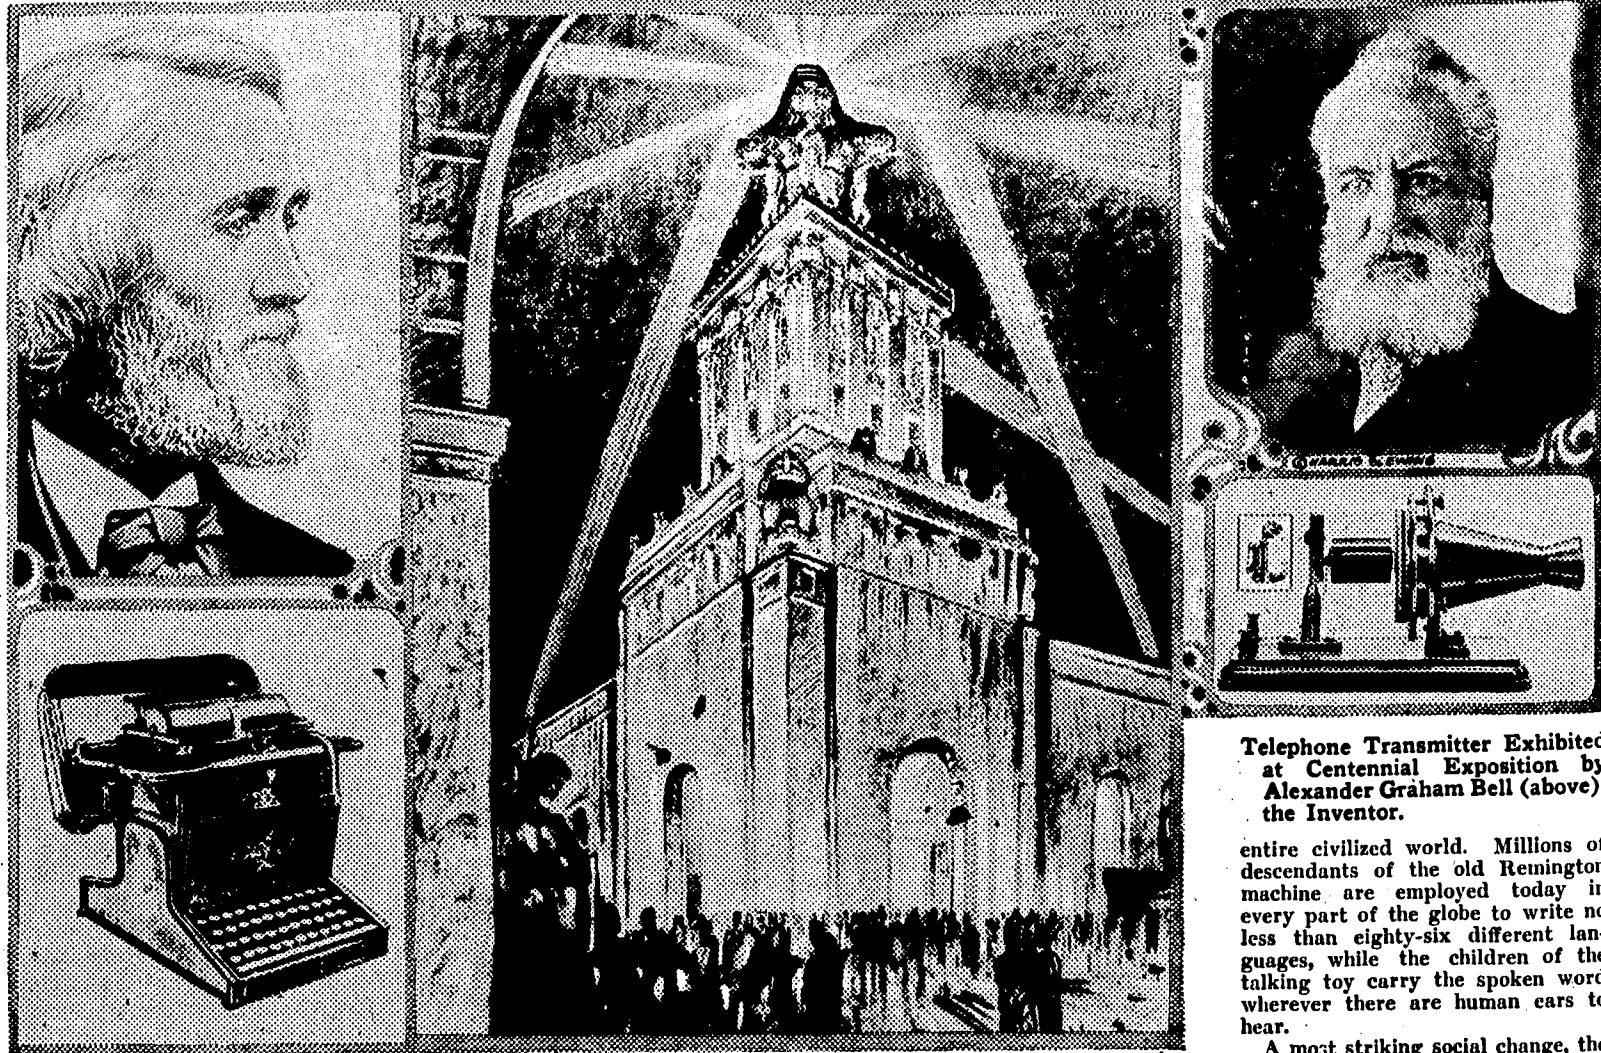

At the Sequel-Centennial Exposition this year, however, will be seen the evidences of an industrial, mechanical and commercial revolution of which no one dreamed fifty years ago, for there had been nothing like it in the world before.

Practically our modern mechanical civilization—electricity, typewriters, telephones, phonographs, automobiles, linotypes—say nothing of airplanes and radio—has developed in the half century between the Centennial and Sequel-Centennial Expositions.

Of all this, only the slightest suggestions were given to visitors to the first national exposition, of 1876. Chief of these were two new devices, designed to increase facility of international communication, the typewriter and the telephone, shown there to the world for the first time.

The Sequel-Centennial will be seen by the hundreds, in every booth, as instruments brought as near to perfection as the interval has permitted. For the Sequel-Centennial authorities have chosen the direct descendant of the Sholes' model as the official typewriter of the exposition, and the latest Bell instrument will connect up the voices of those who gather there with the outside world.

The improvement of these two machines in the past half century has, of course, been astounding.

Illuminated Column, Designed for Corner of Liberal Arts and Manufacturers Building, Now Rising in Philadelphia for Sequel-Centennial Exposition.

From the ornate, cumbersome, writing machine which the Remingtons showed at the Centennial and which may still be seen in their historical collection in New York, has come the tabulating, visible, portable, noiseless and electrical typewriter, and, suggested by the Sholes invention, the linotype, adding machine, cash register, and many other time and labor-saving devices for the business and professional world.

From the little box-like toy connected by a wire to another one, in a distant part of the building, enabling two persons separated by this short space to hear each other's voices, has been developed the modern instrument, which makes it possible this year for a visitor to the Sequel-Centennial to talk with those he has left at home in San Francisco, New York, New Orleans, Toronto, or almost any other place in North America.

Moreover, in the interval between the two expositions, these two machines have spread throughout the entire civilized world. Millions of descendants of the old Remington machine are employed today in every part of the globe to write no less than eighty-six different languages, while the children of the talking toy carry the spoken word wherever there are human ears to hear.

A most striking social change, the economic independence of women, is due in great part to the development of the typewriter and the telephone, which have afforded dignified and sustaining employment to millions of typists and switchboard operators.

Who shall say to what extent the high estate of the modern independent woman is due to the inventions of Sholes and Bell? Who can measure in years the time saved to humanity, since the Centennial Exposition, through the substitution of writing machines for the pen, or who can estimate the sum of human gain made possible by the instrument which enabled men's voices to disregard distance as a barrier to speech?

ONE ON HIM

A little old lady was taking her first ride on a railway train. She noticed that at every station the conductor descended from the train, and, after the passengers had debarked, raised his arm and waved his hand in a peculiar manner. Finally she stopped him when he passed through the car and said, "Who are you waving at in every town where we stop?"

The train was late, and the conductor was grumpy and snapped: "I don't know as it's any of your business, but that's what we call the 'highball.' It's my way of telling the engineer to get to hell out of here." A little later he remembered how gruff he had been to the old lady and his conscience smote him. He went back and said to her: "I'm sorry I spoke to you so. I did. Every thing has gone wrong today and I felt cross or I would have been more courteous."

"Oh! that's all right," said the old lady demurely, and raising her arms she gave the conductor the "highball."—Southern Agriculturist.

Recipes

Over Salted Soup
If you have made the mistake of over-salting your soup, do not thin it with water and spoil the flavor of the soup. Instead, cook a few potatoes in it, they require much salt, and will absorb it, and the flavor of the soup will make the potatoes delicious.

Cream of Celery Soup
Separate stalks of celery. Use outside stalks for making soup. Scrape off brown spots, wash, then cut in small pieces. Allow 2 cups of water to 1 cup of cut celery. Cook until celery is tender. Add salt to taste just before celery is done. Add this mixture to creamed water in which celery is cooked) to 2 cups medium white sauce. Season and serve hot.

LOBSTER QUOTCHES
2 cups chopped cooked lobster, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon mustard, dash Cayenne, egg, bread crumbs, 1 cup tartar sauce, 1/4 cup evaporated milk diluted with 1/4 cup water, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour 1/4 teaspoon salt.

Mix 1/4 teaspoon salt, mustard, and cayenne and add them to the lobster meat. Prepare a white sauce of flour, melted evaporated milk, butter, flour, and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Add white sauce to lobster and spread on a platter to cool. Mold mixture into balls, chops, or cutlets. Fry balls in hot fat having a temperature of 360 degrees F., or saute chops or cutlets in hot frying pan. Put a lobster claw or a paper roll in end of each chop or cutlet. Serve with Tartar sauce.

Prizes for 1927
Twenty-five thousand dollars has been appropriated by the Prize Committee of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America to be awarded by that association for purebred Holstein cattle at state and sectional fairs during 1927, according to an announcement made by The Holstein Association.

Sixty-seven fairs in forty states will share in this distribution of prize money. In making the appropriation the committee followed the custom of awarding cash prizes at state and sectional fairs only but provision for county fairs was made by providing for the awarding of the True Type Holstein statuette and medals. Seventy-four county fairs are included in this list.

Annual Meeting of the Committee on Relation of Electricity to Agriculture

The following are a few statements regarding the recent meeting of the committee on the Relation of Electricity to Agriculture on December 29, 1926, and may prove of interest to your readers, writes J. C. Scott, of the Agricultural Extension Service.

The committee on the Relation of Electricity to Agriculture in Washington consists of:

Farmers—J. Q. Adams, L. C. Beall, Jr., Frank Bins, Oscar Collins, W. G. Condit, O. T. Clawson, J. L. Du-mas, H. C. Davis, Charles Gaches, Houston McCroskey, C. W. Orton. Bankers—F. C. Carpenter, Dean Edw. C. Johnson, Prof. L. J. Smith, secretary.

This committee was organized in President E. O. Holland's office in January, 1925, for the purpose of making a study and investigation as to the feasibility and possibility of further electrifying the farms of Washington.

A WISE YOUTH
A small boy had just been vaccinated, and the doctor prepared to bandage the sore arm when the youngster said, "Put it on the other arm, doc!"
"Why, no," said the physician. "I want to put the bandage on your sore arm so the boys at school won't hit you on it."
"Then put it on the other arm, please. You don't know the fellows at our school."—American Boy Magazine.

Everything the Name Implies

HE IS A FIGHTER
The American Badger's habitat varies from pine forests or dry tropical lowlands to the northern plains wherever there is to be found an abundance of mice, gophers, ground squirrels, prairie dogs, or other small mammals. It is a powerful digging machine and can capture any of them at will, says Nature Magazine. Although a member of the Weasel family, the Badger is not nearly so agile as its relatives, so must make up for strength and courage what it lacks in quickness. It is short-legged and squat, so slow-footed that a man may overtake it, but when brought to bay it fights viciously.

The State Department of Agriculture gives the area devoted to berry growing in Washington at 12,058 acres. This is an increase of 4,614 acres since 1919. Strawberries are on the rapid increase and with two or three dependable weevil bates now on the market or procurable through the experiment stations, the strawberry is perhaps the most dependable of all the berries for commercial purposes. Canneries are taking all the strawberries offered and this season paid as high as 9 cents a pound for Marshalls. Western Washington has an unlimited area of cheap land suitable for growing strawberries.

Stock Show Association Issues Annual Report

At a stockholders' meeting of the North Pacific Livestock Show Association held in Everett, recently, 30 directors were elected to serve for the coming year, and were authorized to make such adjustments as seemed wise and necessary, to take steps to issue bonds from the sale of which funds would be raised to meet the current indebtedness and to finance such additional improvements as might be necessary.

The report that the receipts for the 1926 show and fair were $15,672.70, and that the disbursements totaled $16,080.15, leaving a deficit of but $407.45, a very good showing considering the very bad weather most of the week.

As an evidence of the appreciation of the year's fair the Garden City Grange sent the following letter to Dr. J. Spencer Purdy, president of the fair:

"The second annual North Pacific Fair and Live Stock exhibit has passed into history. It is a history of success for the leading aim and purpose of a group of visioned men materialized. They have given Spokane a fair ground and fair commensurate with the importance of its agricultural resources, its possibilities and the commercial value of its agricultural products.

"We of Garden City Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, are desirous to congratulate the association on the success of the undertaking and wish to express our appreciation of its earnest, far-sighted citizenship.

"Gala receipts are not always an index of a manager's success. Gate receipts are the true test of a manager's skill and ability. It is a credit of our citizens, and of a psychological condition. A psychological condition exists in Snohomish County. Everett is a lumber mill town; the county is more or less a logging camp. The average citizen is engaged in tearing down, not building up. The average citizen does not ponder the importance of agriculture in his business or living together or see its human relation to the industry that feeds and clothes him, or acknowledge duties and obligations toward the primary industry. He does not recognize the fair as a cooperative enterprise instituted for the good and welfare of all and that with the payment of the admission fee he does his 'bit' in a common cause.

"To make the average citizen 'see' his own good, to inspire him, to altruistic action is a task that takes form of organization in the country—fraternal, civic, professional, vocational.

"Hoping that next year's fair will prove a better financial success."

Wm. Eldridge of Chimsicum will irrigate his farm following plans made by A. B. Crane, extension specialist in agricultural engineering at the State College. One field has been staked out, and the crop area of the entire farm laid out. He will pump water from Chimsicum creek with a centrifugal pump set on a portable base. The outfit will be moved to the most convenient point for each field to be irrigated. The maximum lift will be approximately 20 feet.

"RAISING THE WIND"
Scratching the mast is a sailor's method, not yet extinct, of raising a breeze, says Nature Magazine. Some nautical authorities say the foremost should be chosen; others the mizzen. Still another wind-raising process is to stick a knife in the mast, with the handle pointing in the direction from which the wind is desired to blow.

The Skagit County Dairymen's Association has recently authorized the construction of a $56,000 cold storage building on its property near Burlington. The structure will be 70 by 125 feet and will occupy the South-west corner of the tract on which the association's manufacturing plant is now located.

Whatcom County boasts a poultry industry that produced an income of $4,000,000 during 1926 and it is predicted that the business will be expanded to exceed $5,000,000 during 1927. Some of the famous producing flocks of the state are owned in that county, and the world record pen of White Leghorns is owned near Bellingham.

Whatcom County Leads In Egg-Selling Agency

BELLINGHAM.—More than half the egg capacity represented in the selling agency formed by members of the Washington Accredited Hatchery & Breeders' Association is in Whatcom County. The local members of the agency are the Whatcom County Co-operative Hatcheries and the Poultrymen's Hatchery, with a combined egg capacity of 380,000 eggs at one time and a hatching capacity of about 1,000,000 chicks a season. Organization of the agency was a result of a recent tour of Idaho, Montana, Utah, and Wyoming by B. C. Young of Bellingham, its manager, who also is manager of the Poultrymen's Hatchery.

Officers of the local hatchery concerns are: Poultrymen's Hatchery—James Meek, president; E. H. Foster, vice-president; A. D. McComb, secretary-treasurer; B. C. Young, manager. Whatcom County Co-operative Hatcheries—G. E. Van Horn, president; C. P. Peterson, vice-president; John Zevenbergen, secretary-treasurer; M. S. Alyn, manager.

Southern Idaho turkey growers are reported to have marketed $250,000 of these birds during December. Idaho has a growing demand in California for its surplus poultry products. Large shipments of eggs go from that state each month to the large markets in California. Just why this is the case we cannot explain. For California is herself an exporter of eggs, sending many carloads to Eastern markets each year.

The "Ada Yon" Guernsey Cattle Club was organized recently by breeders in the vicinity of Caldwell, Idaho. E. Yoris of Parma, was elected president; Mrs. H. W. Hume, Wilder, secretary; and Arthur Powell, Meridian, vice-president. W. A. Carlson, Wilder, and J. T. Quist of Middleton, were selected to complete the board of directors. E. L. Westover, representing the American Guernsey Cattle Club, was present and assisted in the organization of the club.

"All that glitters is not gold." But here's the truth, though bitter; Lots of people that we know, Are satisfied with glitter.—From The American Boy Magazine.

GROUND HOG FASTS

North America has several species of ground hogs, but the commonest, Woodchuck is known to everyone as the Ground Hog, says Nature Magazine. Woodchucks do not store up food, but eat heavily during the early fall and become excessively fat. In October or November they retire to their burrows and fast. Their hibernation sleep lasts until spring. Length about twenty-three inches, weight eight pounds.

In December the Lewis-Pacific Dairymen's Association retired $25,000 of its bonded indebtedness, leaving but $30,000 of the original $200,000 issue to be paid off. June 30th, 1927, is scheduled as the date for the final liquidation of the remaining debt; thus in seven years to the day of the date of the original bond issue the last dollar will have been paid. This is a wonderful showing and goes to prove that successful co-operative effort is possible among dairy farmers.

PROTECT THIS HAWK
The American Hawk is found all over temperate North America, varying slightly according to different climatic conditions. It is the smallest and one of the most beneficial of our hawks, feeding largely on grasshoppers and other insects, says Nature Magazine. Even in the most heavily wooded areas, it could hardly have had more than the faintest vision of the enormous influence that would flow from their work, or how, within a few years, they would completely revolutionize the entire commercial world and become essential factors of modern life.

THIS ONE DESTRUCTIVE
The whole of continental America affords a home for the Duck Hawk, which is the swiftest, most daring of hawks, says Nature Magazine. The quick wing beat, unlike that of most other hawks, is an excellent field character. When hunting, it rises above its prey and drops directly down, seldom missing a catch. They are known to kill beyond their nest for some times the dead are left where they fall.

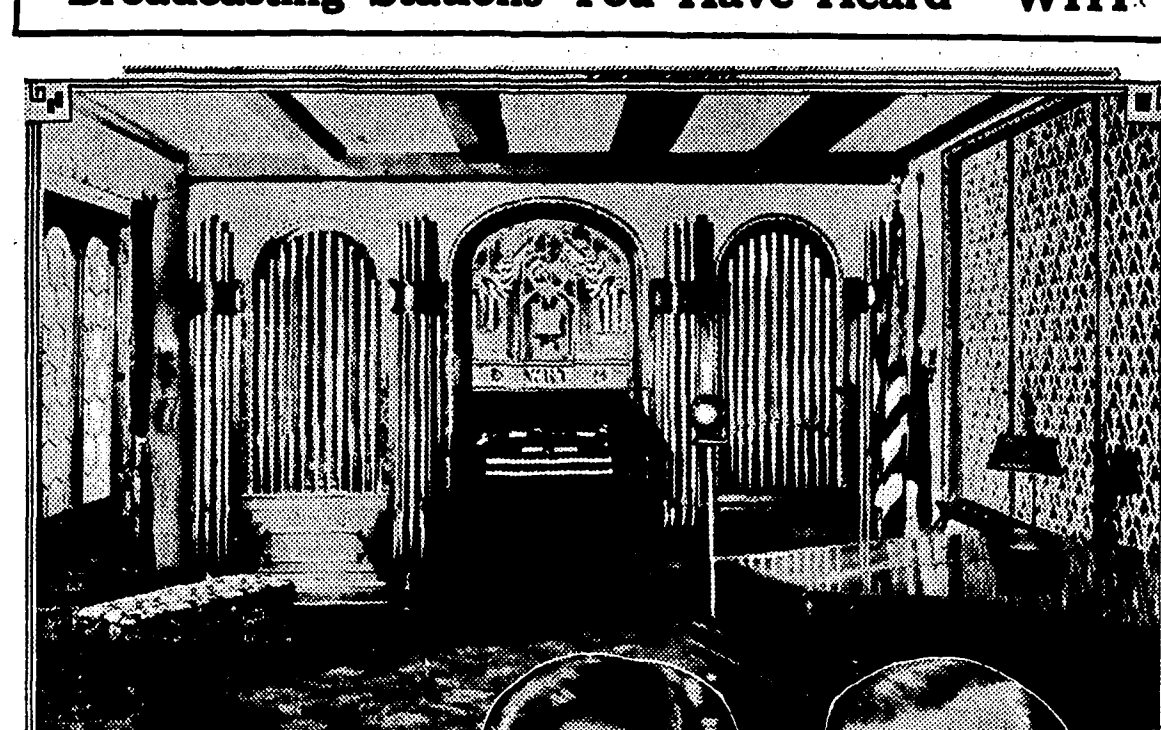

DIFFERENT KINDS OF SOIL
Soils are divided into classes by their proportions of minerals and organic matter says Southern Agriculturist. Peat soils are most vegetable matter, much of it not yet decayed. Peat soil sometimes catch fire; in parts of Europe peat is a standard fuel. Muck soil have more of mineral matter in them than peat soils have, but are still largely of vegetable origin. The soil are usually improved for agricultural purposes by an increase of their rock content. Most other cultivated soils are too largely mineral matter and are made more productive of farm crops by addition of organic matter. The difference between the top soil and the subsoil of a field is made, as a rule, chiefly by the difference in the amounts of vegetable matter they contain. So much of the difference often found between "new" soil and "old" soils. A newly cleared forest soil is rich largely because of its content of leaf mold—the thin layer of black soil just under the leaves yet undecayed. A few years of cropping often wastes that gift of fertility from the trees, and yet that inch or two of blackness may have been none thousand, five thousand, or even ten thousand years in forming.

Kittitas County stockmen are arranging for their annual banquet which will be held on January 24th, at Ellensburg. A feature of the evening will be a private program which will include a complete directory of the purebred livestock breeders of the county.

A disease control and brooder survey kept in Whatcom county shows that the pullets reared per Lorch chicks is increasing. In 1924 the pullets raised for each 1,000 chicks was 330; in 1925 it rose to 406; and in 1926 to 442. Data this year was secured from 176 flock owners, having 206,662 chicks. County Agent H. B. Carroll, Jr., will continue this project in 1927.

From the studio and control room programs are transmitted over a leased wire circuit to Deerfield, Illinois, a distance of twenty-eight miles. At Deerfield a building in the Spanish style of architecture houses the complete 5,000-watt Western Electric broadcasting apparatus. Two towers, each two hundred feet high, support the antennae, and the ground consists of five miles of wire in the form of a mat, which rests on the bottom of a pond. The site at Deerfield comprises ten acres, elaborately landscaped, and is one of the most elaborate developments of its kind in the world.

Central America, upper Canada, Japan, and England report regularly that they are hearing WHT programs. A special department is in charge of programs, and efforts are made to obtain performers of talent who will arrange a well-rounded period of entertainment. The station goes on the air from ten in the morning to one each afternoon, and from six to one each night.

An unusual feature of the studio is a gallery from which visitors may watch through a plate-glass window everything which takes place, including the program by means of a loud speaker just as if they were listening in many miles away.

The walls of the studio are composed of a special plaster which is intended to absorb sounds and to prevent reverberation or echoes.

Food Importance of Pineapple

Quee—What food elements are found in pineapple?
Ans.—Practically all protein, carbohydrates, minerals, especially iron.
Quee—Which has more food value, raw or canned pineapple?
Ans.—They are essentially the same in food elements—however, owing to sugar in which Hawaiian pineapple is preserved, the latter contains carbohydrates in far greater amount.
Quee—What about vitamins?
Ans.—Vitamins are present in notable amount in fresh pineapple and experiments have shown that canning does not destroy them.
Quee—Which has more calories?
Ans.—Canned pineapple has three times as many calories.
Quee—Which is cheaper?
Ans.—A good-sized raw pineapple, of which much is wasted, costs about thirty-five cents. A large can of pineapple, with no waste costs about thirty cents, therefore canned pineapple is cheaper.

Miss Esther Martinson was pleasantly surprised Friday evening of last week, when a group of friends gathered to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary. The time was spent in having a "good time," after which a pick-up lunch was served.

In Visiting in New York

Mrs. Ed. Purdy, formerly Miss Ida Scholer, now a resident of Port au Prince, Haiti, is spending a few weeks in New York recuperating from a long stage of typhoid. Her many friends here will be glad to learn that she is making satisfactory progress toward recovery.

Christian Missionary Society

The missionary society of the Christian church met Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Aherin.

The meeting was opened with prayer by M. S. Wilson and a short business session was held, after which the following program, with Mrs. F. B. Hampton as leader, was given:

Devotional reading, "The Old-New Freedom," by Mrs. Hampton.

Song, "I Am Thine O Lord," Lord's Prayer in unison.

Talk, "Natives at Work in India," by Mrs. Lester Hayden.

Reading, "Native Teachers in India," by Mrs. Wood Gash.

Song, "Count Your Many Blessings," Paper, "Mohammed or Christ in India," by Mrs. N. E. Beach.

Vocal duet, "There'll Be No Tears in Paradise," by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beach.

Missionary benediction closed the program after which the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Gash, served refreshments to 15 members and 16 visitors. One new member was added to the society.

Among the Sick

William McCreary is confined to his bed with flu.

Mrs. Chas. Herman, who has been sick with flu, is reported as somewhat better.

Mrs. Dale Lanphier, who has been quite ill in a Lewiston hospital, is reported as making satisfactory progress.

It is presumed that at least 25 per cent of the entire population of the Genesee section has the flu in some form.

Mrs. John Meyer, sr., who is recovering from an operation for appendicitis in a Moscow hospital, is reported as getting along nicely at this time.

Albert Peterson and son, Hugo Gehrke and Arlene Borgen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Borgen, have been quite ill for the past several days with pneumonia.

Frank Girard, who has been suffering with blood poisoning for the past two weeks, has so far recovered as to be able to go to the home of his sister, in Moscow, but it will be some time before he will be able to return to his home.

The Springs Club

The Springs ladies gathered together January 26 and had a merry sleigh ride out to the country home of Mrs. George Smith.

The afternoon was spent socially and with needlework and at 4 o'clock a very delicious luncheon was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Barthol Weber was an invited guest.

The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Miss Violet Heppner on Wednesday, February 9.

ONE OF WHITMAN COUNTY'S BEST FARMS

600 ACRES AT ONLY $85

In lay and productivity it is a close second to the Adam Schlee farm of Untontown, which I sold in six days. This should sell just as quickly. It is located midway between Pullman and Untontown, and is some of the highest quality, strongest producing and levellest tractor land in Whitman county. 340 acres fall wheat—1-3 to the buyer. At only 30 bushels and $1 a bushel, the crop alone should net $1600 above all carrying charges. Fair improvements; good fences—3/4 hog tight; lots of spring water; near school. It's a wonderful buy. I strongly recommend. But as February is usually an active month for farm sales, you must act now.

Would Have Montana Absorb Idaho

The Wall Street Journal favors the reducing of the number of states from 48 to 37 and the cutting down of senators from 96 to 74. This is how the change would be brought about:

The merger would start with Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, which, together, would have a population of 1,686,140, estimated as of 1925.

Delaware would be absorbed into New Jersey and Rhode Island would become a part of Connecticut. A single state called "Dakota" would absorb North and South Dakota, showing a combined population of 1,362,804. Utah would absorb New Mexico, Nevada and Arizona, giving a compact area with a population of 1,456,601.

Montana would take over Idaho and Wyoming with a total population almost exactly the same as the other two new states of 1,330,719. Oregon would be absorbed into its neighbor, Washington, and the geography of the Northwest corner of this fair land would be neatly rounded off.

Each of the states with an area equal to Utah, New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada would be larger than a number of European countries the Wall Street Journal might suggest that all business with the state capital could be carried by airplane and radio.—Times-Register.

Lost His Glycerine

Harry Hanson is short several gallons of perfectly good glycerine that some one drew from the radiator of his Ford a few nights ago.

Harry had shipped one over on Old Man Winter and had filled the radiator of his car with glycerine to keep it from freezing—the filling of which cost him nine perfectly good iron men—and someone slipped one over on him. Harry and took it all away from him. Now he is using ordinary water and says they can have all of that they want.

Germans Favor Kissing

The anti-kissing movement, which has gained a foothold in France and other countries, is getting a cool reception in Germany.

Physicians in sympathy with the movement to abolish kissing tell us that 38,957 bacteria (by actual count, it is supposed) are transferred from one person to another with every kiss," said a humorous journal. "Supposing a man conveys 40,000 germs to a girl. What is there to prevent a girl from giving them right back to the man?"

Disease Attacks Sheep

In the upper Salmon river region of Idaho county, the sheep industry to which that country is so admirably adapted, is being menaced at this time by foot rot among the bands.

Drastic methods are being followed by stockmen to combat the disease, paste being applied to the hoofs in many cases while others are using bluestone placed in large tanks of water set out at frequent intervals through which the sheep are forced to wade. The question of fighting this disease, which is causing more trouble than scab, will be one of the topics for discussion at the meeting of the Idaho Wool Growers' association at Weiser this week.

Legends of "Sleepy Hollow"

It seems as if sleighing is ruined for a while on account of rain.

John Kluss and J. W. Mooman butchered during the past week.

George Ebel spent Sunday afternoon and evening at the Ray Trautman home.

The flu is keeping a few of the Sleepy Hollow students from school. The Klenn family is sick and Tony Ebel stayed out of school on account of illness.

Only a few of the Sleepy Hollow folks went to the "Cotton Breaker Bawl" owing to the amount of sickness in the valley. Those who went reported a good time. (They slept the next morning.)

Tony and Mrs. Ebel motored to Lewiston Saturday and returned with Irene Ebel, who spent the week-end with home folks. George and Mrs. Ebel motored to Lewiston Monday, taking Irene back to work.

Sleepy Hollow is rejoicing over the arrival of a list of 75 new story books for the S. H. school. The books are to be loaned out to the people of the Sleepy Hollow district. They can now have a good excuse for going to bed after midnight.

Some of the Sleepy Hollow folks have been planning a sleighing party, but it either rains on that particular night or the snow melts before they get to take the ride. If it keeps on raining and thawing, the S. H. folks will have to get out their boots.

Report comes from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil of the capture recently of a snake that measured 24 feet in length and weighed 325 pounds, after a hunt of nine months. It is the largest snake in captivity in Brazil.

The snake, a securi, was captured in central Brazil. The species is extremely dangerous and hunters are wary of trying to capture them.

"Hair Trigger Baxter"

All who love the refreshing tang of the West, the spirit of adventure, romance and suspense, will want to see "Hair Trigger Baxter," Bob Custer's latest starring vehicle, to be shown at the Hotel theater Saturday night, February 6.

Bob plays the part of a crack shot, who, after a long and arduous search, manages to find his father's stolen cattle, he needs to be both quick and sure on the trigger, if he is to escape from his perilous predicaments.

"The Blue Eagle"

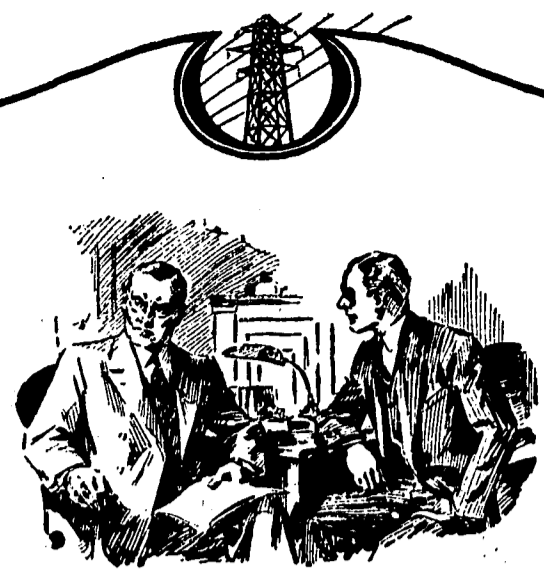

Ahoy! Sail with George O'Brien on the bounding main! See a great battle fleet in action. Witness the soul-stirring episodes when a monster of the sea is attacked by a submarine—at the Hotel theater Sunday night, February 6.

Taste that salt? This great drama smacks of the seven seas. It reveals the soul of those hardy fellows who follow the compass. And man alive, what scrapers they are! What courage they have—these giants of the main!

"The False Alarm"

Can a woman love a coward? That's the big powerful theme of this brilliant melodrama. He went "yellow" when the supreme test came. They banished him from home and friends. And he took it! Until he faced the loss of the woman he loved. Then all the fire and demons in hell had no terror for him. He fought back and won honor, home and love again.

You'll like this story because it's real and it's different.

WHEAT HOLDING FIRM—FEED GRAINS SLIGHTLY LOWER

Continued firmness in the European markets despite the continued heavy shipments of wheat from exporting countries had a strengthening influence upon the domestic market and prices held practically unchanged during the week ending February 5, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States department of agriculture.

Shipments of wheat were large from practically all exporting countries during the week and it was estimated that exports from the United States would total around 20,000,000 bushels. These heavy shipments have increased the stocks afloat to around 60,000,000 bushels, but European buyers continued to bid fairly actively not only for wheat in nearby positions but for later shipment.

PARTIAL BUSINESS DIGEST—MONEY, AUTOS, GAS, ETC.

With reports at hand covering almost all basic business operations of 1926, it is now clear that the year set a new high mark for any year of record in commercial transactions, the participation of people and commodities, employment of labor and total of payrolls disbursed, in corporate financing and in dividend payments.

The closing weeks of the year indicated some recession from high points, the storm of year as a whole remains unmatchable.

"KEELER'S KILLERS COMBAT WITH 'THE PIONEERS'"

Friday evening a group of nine girls and their coach, Miss Keeler, started for Lewiston to try their skill against the Normal girls' basketball team.

The girls went back in with lots of pep but the fresh players put in by Lewiston proved too good and at the half the score stood 7-12.

In the third quarter the girls began to get onto the style, climate, etc., of Lewiston and managed to hold them there to 12-17. But it was in the last quarter that the girls really got going.

The girls missed the support of the Student Body and town but it was somewhat made up for by their rivals of two weeks ago, the Lapwai boys' basketball team.

The girls missed the support of the Student Body and town but it was somewhat made up for by their rivals of two weeks ago, the Lapwai boys' basketball team.

On Saturday evening "Keeler's Killers" won back their laurels from the trip had its effect upon the girls' games ever witnessed by Genesee basketball fans.

"The Pioneers" put forth all they had in the first quarter, gaining a 5-2 lead. The Genesee girls came back strong in the second quarter.

In the third quarter the only score made was one foul by the high school team. In the last quarter, due to close guarding by both teams, neither side scored, leaving "Keeler's Killers" victorious by a margin of three points.

This is the first time in eight years that the Lewiston Normal girls have been defeated by a high school team. Grangeville defeated them then by four points and Miss Keeler played guard on that same team.

The game started with Madeline Hermann, Eloise Emmett and Mildred Roach as guards, Alice Hanson, Genevieve Hampton and Luella Freeman as forwards. At the end of the first quarter Evangeline Foster was substituted for Hampton and in the last quarter Hampton again for Foster.

Revenue Officer to Visit Genesee The following communication has been received by the News from Chas. N. Brealey, deputy internal revenue collector, and is self-explanatory:

"I will be in your city on February 14 to assist any and all taxpayers who may need help."

"I beg to say that I find much misunderstanding among the citizens of your community in regard to those required to file a return, especially that pertaining to 'gross' income. All that is required to file a return even though it is all paid out for interest, taxes and labor."

"The law governing returns for 1926 are the same as for 1925. Our Farm schedule Form 1040 F will show very clearly those who should file a return."

Twenty Years Ago The groundhog saw his shadow Saturday.

Mrs. Will Hickman Monday of this week. D. Scharnhorst left Tuesday of this week for Irrigon, Oregon, to look after his property interests, also the interests of other Geneseeans owning real estate at that place. He hopes to incorporate some plan of improving Irrigon property in an endeavor to advance its value.

WANT POTATO GROWERS' AND MARKETING ASSOCIATION

At the last meeting of the Genesee Farmers union the question of forming a potato growers and marketing association in Genesee was taken up and discussed at length, to the end that a committee was appointed to make inquiries as to the feasibility of such an organization and report at the meeting to be held in the American Legion hall next Saturday afternoon.

The object of the association, if formed, would be for the betterment of all potato raisers; to study the situation thoroughly and try to raise the standard of quality of potatoes for the market; to form a marketing association that would have charge of the sales, the same as the Farmers union handles the wheat, and other grains of the members; to erect and maintain a suitable warehouse and storage plant, equipped with the necessary machinery for sorting, handling and grading potatoes.

It is estimated that fully 90 per cent of the local farmers are members of the union and the organization could function along similar lines and could probably be handled by the same officers as the Farmers union.

The fact, too, that potatoes would be handled and marketed by a responsible organization would go a long way toward lending prestige in the markets and much better markets could be had than where every grower is going it independently.

The forming of such an association does not mean that the small grower would be put out of business by any means, but would give him the advantage of a better market the same as it would the larger grower and his potatoes could be pooled with the rest and he would have the advantage of the same marketing facilities.

According to E. R. Bennett, field horticulturist of the University of Idaho extension division, more than $30,000,000 have been paid for Idaho potatoes during the past two years, some 16,000,000 bushels having been grown within the state last year.

He pointed out the fact that although New York state grows more than twice as many potatoes as does Idaho, yet that state sends money out of the state every year for this product.

"Because of the distance, says Mr. Bennett, 'the Idaho potato can, under normal conditions, compete in eastern markets only because of its superior quality. Consequently, the Gem State grower has learned, or is learning, to take advantage of his unexcelled market conditions for producing a superior article and is supplementing these assets with the best known practices.'"

"There are many people who are looking for potatoes of superior quality who are willing to pay extra freight as well as a credit to the grower to get to the market. On this basis the continuance of the present enviable reputation of the Idaho potato and the prosperity of the grower are assured."

"Thus it will be seen that potatoes of superior quality are wanted and that there is a market for this kind there is no doubt, and there is no good and sufficient reason why the growers of the Genesee section should not be at the top of the list and receive top prices for their potatoes."

No Word From Bill Borah It will be remembered that some two weeks ago the local Farmers union sent telegrams to Senators Bill Borah and Frank R. Gooding and Congressman Burton L. French and Congressman Smith, asking them to lend their support to the new McNary bill then pending in congress, the local union unqualifiedly endorsing the bill.

In due time telegrams of acknowledgment were received by the union from Senator Gooding and Congressman French and Smith, but no word has yet been received from Bill Borah, who seems to be too busy playing to the galleries to heed the request of an insignificant little bunch of "haysed" farmers, such as the Honorable Hill probably thinks reside at and near Genesee.

New Picture in Serial On Wednesday night, February 10, a new serial picture will be started at the Hotel theater—"The Silent Flyer." There the ten thrilling chapters, featuring "Silverstreak," the king of dog actors. Don't miss the opening chapters. They will also be shown again on Saturday night, February 19.

The time was very pleasantly spent in playing games and in other forms of amusement, the only complaint being that the afternoon was too short.

A Way to Pay

By GEORGE F. PEABODY

It was a glorious day for Colton College. The year just closing had been one grand succession of triumphs. In football the boys had been invincible, in basketball unbeatable; the track team had cleaned up 100 per cent, and now, in the final baseball game of the season, Del Hayworth was giving Mason Tech a royal trouncing. The big bowl, swarming with screaming, howling, shouting thousands, that day was the scene of an almost perfectly pitched game. The first man up for Mason had singled. He never got any further and not another hit reached first base. Meantime Colton had clouted Red Coyne for eight runs, so the huge bowl was seething.
 At different points, poised on the edge of the wall separating them from the playing field, three men, all gray-haired, all keen-eyed, all tense-faced, waited for the game to end. Each was oblivious to the crowd, none cared a whoop for Colton College or its traditions, but all three were intensely interested in Del Hayworth.
 As the last man for Mason strode to the plate in the ninth, Toby French, one of the three, smiled a slow, victorious smile and eased one leg over the wall. He knew very well Dutch Hardy and Willis Blaine were there, but he didn't care. In his pocket was a contract signed by Prexy Holland of the Spartan Baseball Club, with the amount space left blank. And his orders were to sign Del Hayworth. His smile broadened. The Spartans were the richest club in the big league crowd, and Holland was bound to have this year's pennant.
 "I'll get him," muttered French.
 "Strike three!" roared the umpire, and as pandemonium swooped into the vast bowl the scout leaped. So did two others, but they had no chance with Toby. His seat had been ordered four months in advance and he was fifty yards nearer the plate than they.
 With the ease of a football half-back he burst through the excited players who had gathered about their great pitcher as though drawn by a magnet, and wrapped an arm around Del's shoulders.
 "A great game, boy!" he shouted. "A wonderful game! Winds up your college career just right, and before anybody else has a chance to bamboozle you into something blouie I want to sign you for the Spartans. Get the old contract right in my pocket. We'll write 'or in for eight thousand per. What say, kid? Spartans are the greatest club in the world; bound to win the flag and that'll be five grand more for you. Let's sign 'er up, boy, and that'll put an end to your being bothered any more. Ready? Let's go!"
 By that time two husky fellows had pulled the pair apart and as he went prying up to their shoulders Del leaned over to shout: "No use, French. I've decided not to sign. Not with anybody. Through with the game." And then he was borne away, leaving Scout French open-mouthed and mentally swearing. In the next instant both Hardy and Blaine reached the spot.
 "What's the matter?" they shouted above the clamor, "have you seen a ghost?"
 "Less than that," snarled French, "none of us has even that much of a chance to sign that bird. We may as well all go home. I offered him eight thousand and he turned me down flat."
 "Blas't his hide!" snorted Blaine, "eight thousand is all I was authorized to offer."
 "I can bid ten!" Hardy said gleefully and turned again to follow the pitcher.
 "Tats!" roared French, "I've got a blank contract in my pocket. Your ten thousand won't stop me a minute—I'll offer fifteen! We really want him."
 But big league scouts are not quitters, neither are they fools. Within an hour each of the three had seen Del and all three got turned down, gracefully but unmistakably.
 "Not going to play pro ball," he told them gently but firmly.
 "Why not?" each one had demanded, feeling that nothing short of the presidency should or could interfere with an American boy offered such a chance to jump from nowhere into the big league.
 "Listen," the youngster had grimaced at them, "the day I was born my dad went out and bought a desk and had a partition put up in his office. He's counting the days ever since until he can install me grandly in that waiting office and have the window and door lettering changed to read 'Hayworth and Hayworth, Attorneys at Law.' You don't know my governor. He'd go through anything to help me along any line he thought proper and just you begin a great career in a noble profession. Now the preliminary work is done and the serious business of life begins to unfold. Let us begin in the proper spirit of understanding."
 "Sure, I know all that, Dad. I sense it all. But you see I'm different from you. There's a funny streak in me somewhere. Like Mother. You know she always giggles at the wrong time."
 Thus he tried to pass it off, yet knew his jollity was forced, really a caricature to relieve the sting of strangled desires. Those cheers in the dry dust of musty law and he knew it, but the tragedy of telling his father so was too great.
 "Yes," agreed the old man, "that is so. Your mother has been a great trial to me," he said with a sigh.
 "Yup," grinned the boy, thinking of the pink-cheeked, vivacious little gray-haired woman at home, "and the greatest trial you ever won, Dad. Mother's true blue and the best ever. To hear her laugh is worth a quart of any doc's medicine. But putting everything aside, now, let's get down to cases. What's my job here?"
 The old man gravely walked around and seated himself at the opposite side of the desk. Triumph and pride gleaming in his cold eyes transformed his face into that of a high priest going about the business of his holy orders.

Among the guests at a dinner party was a clergyman who had a reputation for loquacity. To put matters right, the hostess turned toward him and remarked pleasantly, "Will you say grace, or do your prefer your soup hot?"—Southern Agriculturist.

Beauty of Face and Form Hidden in Ice Cream

BEAUTY doctors who restrict their efforts to lifting facial muscles and treating skins with creams and lotions are missing some of the best tricks of the profession. It is the opinion of Dr. Herman B. Bundezen, health commissioner of the city of Chicago, Dr. Bundezen believes that the only best way to put rouge on a woman's cheeks from the inside out is to eat ice cream.
 Dr. Bundezen's reasons for this aptly put statement are many. He knows that the only true beauty of face and figure lies in the foundation of a healthy body, and this can be obtained only through nourishing, well-balanced foods. Ice cream is a health food of the highest order in a somewhat novel idea to those uninitiated in food values, but ice cream has long been recognized for its true worth by Dr. Bundezen and other students of life.
 Because it is a milk product, ice cream offers those who eat it the butterfat, proteins, minerals, and vitamins which are contained in that perfectly balanced food. The sugar which sweetens it adds to its power-producing ability, and the fat favoring makes it more pleasing to the palate and often adds to the food value. Fruit juices, for instance, are a health food, but which is already high in vitamins A and B. The strength-sustaining qualities of the cream, and the well-known to hikers and mountain climbers. The large quantities of this popularly favored ice cream sold each year would seem to prove that instinct does help the body in selecting healthful foods.
 For the work of bone, teeth, and muscle building in growing children, as well as for the repair work constantly going on in adult bodies, ice cream is useful. The fact that the low melting point of the cream, the mouth water is in its favor, for keenly enjoyed food is easier of digestion than food which must be forced down. Treating the family to ice cream is a pleasantly distinctive treat for the day.
 Protective foods are necessary always, but particularly in the winter when those enemies of civilization, the gripe, colds and pneumonia, are rampant. Dr. Bundezen is not alone among the authorities who consider ice cream a health food. He is joined by it. Because of its affinity to milk and cream it provides to the body the most electrically balancing and often lacking in the ordinary diet.

WINTER FARMING ACTIVITIES IN WESTERN WASHINGTON

By Guy MacL. Richards.

From January, 1927, issue of Northwest Dairyman and Farmer
 ON December 3rd I took a drive down Whidby Island. It was a wonderful day for such a trip. For several days previously it had been raining quite steadily, not an unusual thing for this Puget Sound country at this season of the year, but on this particular day the weather was typical of this section for December, not unpleasantly cool, with the sun making feeble attempts to shine through a broken covering of fleecy, billowy clouds.
 Whidby Island is the second largest island within the boundaries of the United States, being second in size only to Long Island on the Atlantic Coast. It varies in width from one and one-quarter miles at about the middle to nearly nine miles wide near the southern end. The northern end of the island is also quite wide, exceeding at some points eight miles; and as the crop files its length is about 40 miles, although to drive it from north to south the speedometer would register near 60, so tortuous are its roads around the many bays and inlets that dot its scenic shore lines.
 As we traveled along I noted with interest the many farming activities in progress; and more than once made mental comparison of the scenes around me with those in the blizzard swept, storm harassed sections of the eastern part of this country that we are reading about daily in the newspapers, and the wonder of it all is that people will still continue to live in those uncertain weather sections when here in the Northwest is a climate that knows no interference with the daily routine of farm work. Here we were in the midst of some of the most important work of the year, that demand the attention of the farmer every working day of the year.
 Leaving Oak Harbor and proceeding south we passed by many fields of early fall sown grain, now several inches high and making splendid growth, and on either side of us was more land being prepared for immediate seeding, while here and there grain drills were rushing in the seed. Although limited in area as compared with the large grain growing sections farther east, Whidby Island is famous as the spot where the world record wheat yields have been harvested. She holds the world record of 117.5 bushels per acre, Government measure, harvested from a 2-acre field on Ebey's Prairie some years ago, but in more recent years when Farm Journal offered gold, silver and bronze medals with large cash supplements to encourage grain production during the war, with the entire country competing, and these prizes were won within a radius of 10 miles on Whidby.
 But lands on this island are not confined to the growing of grain by any means; diversified farming, carrying and poultry raising demand the attention of most of the farmers, with many of them keeping good flocks of sheep and small herds of hogs. And so, as we proceeded on our way on this fine early winter day, we noted the harvest of stock beefs still in progress; and on many farms good sized patches of kale were awaiting their turn to be gathered as required.
 "Can you imagine anyone going to bed with his shoes on?"
 "Who does that?"
 "My horse,"—The American Boy.
 "Reduce to music." If you will; but—produce to music. Melody lubricates efficiency; it lifts the task out of the sordid into the sublime. It may be a song, played on the piano, or it may be a symphony, played on the organ, or it may be a march, played on the brass band. It is a motive force which is not contravening.

 Send Seeds Early, Says State Analyst
 University of Idaho, Moscow.—Seed dealers will avoid the usual delays caused by the spring rush in the state seed laboratories if they will submit their prospective samples at once, says Miss Jessie C. Ayres, state seed analyst for the University Extension division.
 From the middle of February to April 5 samples arrive in great number every day, Miss Ayres says, and it is humanly impossible for any one analyst to give the desired service. So if dealers can possibly be persuaded to pick out their spring "stock" earlier they will receive more prompt service.
 All growers become dealers who sell to their neighbors any kind of clover or alfalfa seed. Therefore, it is very important that they also get their seed cleaned and tested before the grand rush if they wish prompt service.
 Sale of the sailing schooner Meteor, owned by the late Henry G. Seaborn, known as the Seaborn Sailors, to the Marine Products Corporation of Tacoma was announced yesterday by Wilbur E. Dew, ship broker. The vessel is now being conditioned at Tacoma, and will be employed in the Puget Sound waters during the fishing season. Dew also reports the following sales of fish boats: Salts by Martin Bulechek August 21, 1926, 1000 pounds; yacht Lawaway by W. C. Grady, 1000 pounds; yacht Lawaway by W. C.  Mr. Pinneo has cast eyes on the business of the halibut industry. He reports that the halibut landings for the season at Prince Rupert amounted to 26,312,000 pounds, of which American boats brought in 12,021,000 pounds and Canadian boats, 6,238,700 pounds. The value of this fish is estimated at nearly $1,000,000, and our tonnage of halibut is about 100 cars. Good available halibut is also landed at Vancouver and Seattle. Mr. Pinneo points out that the halibut trade is but part of the trade that could be attracted by the installation of suitable cold storage facilities.

Broadcasting Stations You Have Heard—WSAI

Station WSAI of the United States Playing Card Company at Cincinnati, is among the outstanding broadcasting stations of the country; it is up with the leaders in power, for it has a 5000 watt Western Electric equipment, and it is among the leaders in quality of entertainment, for it is teaching the nation to play bridge by radio.
 In conjunction with other stations, bridge games in which experts take part are regularly broadcast.
 The plan is to have four experts play a deal of Auction Bridge and to broadcast each bid and each play of the deal together with the reasons for each bid and each play. Prior to each broadcasting, listeners-in are informed as to the names of the participants so that on the night of the game any four may play the deal, and each player can see the play of the four experts and take the same relative position at the table as that occupied by each expert. The bidding is then followed after which each play is announced so that the players can play the same cards that the experts do.

 Mushrooms Came from France
 The Italian Brought Spaghetti
 The American Housewife Finds All These Foods in cans
 Chop Suey Came from China
 Hot Tomatoes from Mexico

Cosmopolitan Dishes for the Connoisseur

WHEN a friend husband or perhaps a critical family have had too much routine in their meals, the housewife can give them a welcome change by serving an occasional meal of foreign dishes. In fact, the United States is truly a melting pot than in its composition. The dishes of the world of the country go the favorite dishes of all the nations. Old dishes are no puzzle to the housewife who has been cooking for years. With the help of prepared foods, she can serve an Italian, French, Chinese, or Mexican dinner with the same ease as she can serve a French dinner of infinite variety with the help of canned foods. For French cooks have contrived to construct a vast list and the canners have supplied materials which may be combined in French dishes—in addition to these already combined before canning. The completeness with which we have taken over French cooking methods is illustrated by the words found in English dictionaries, such as bouillon, aspic, paté, soufflé, brisole, mayonnaise, meringue. Many of these French dishes are made easy by the use of canned foods.
 A French dinner that will be most easily prepared draws on canned soups for bouillon, lentils, or julienne as a first course. A mushroom omelette, creamed mushrooms, or chicken à la king may follow. Though all the world raises and eats mushrooms, the methods of canning them as well as their many uses are credited to French cooks, who use them extensively. Omelettes are a French invention and so are creamed dishes. Another good French dish which may be used as a meat substitute is the cheese fondue made of canned tomatoes or tomato soup and American cheese which also comes in cans. A typical French dessert is fruit and cheese for which the housewife can call on her reserve shelf of canned foods.
 Spaghetti is the principal element of an Italian dinner, combining well with almost any other food for a good meal. It comes in cans prepared in Italian style with tomato and cheese, and also with tomato alone. Minestrone, really vegetable soup, comes first, or if the dinner is a bit elaborate, hors d'oeuvres of sardines, pimiento, olives, all to be obtained in cans, also salsas, pickled beets, give the real Italian touch. A salad and coffee follow all other courses.
 When one mentions a Chinese dinner, the name chop suey jumps to mind immediately. About this dish the dinner may be built and no matter what the innovations the chop suey preserves the Chinese identity of the meal. It comes in cans and needs only reheating. Noodle soup, which may be added to the meal, is a Chinese dish made by adding noodles to canned consommé, is a Chinese dish and boiled rice is the inevitable supplement to the chop suey. Canned pineapple and Chinese tea, weak and clear, complete the meal.
 Something altogether different may be secured for a dinner by consulting the Mexican dishes supplied by the canners. Tamales and chili con carne, both highly flavored, are obtained already cooked and in cans. Chili con carne is an excellent way to introduce the family to red kidney beans which are high in food value. Both these dishes are hearty, need no meat served with them, and the supplementary dishes should be a salad or fruit and coffee. Mexicans drink their coffee black and very strong.
 Many more suggestions for variety in meals may be obtained from the foreign dishes prepared by canners. Of German dishes their main selection is sauerkraut. There is Hungarian goulash, Russian cutlets, Scotch haddock, Newfoundland codfish cakes, English plum pudding, California figs, foods from all over the world, from all the nations whose representatives make up the American cosmopolitan. The nation they have slowly pushed aside, the American Indians, have left some of their dishes to be had from a great value, succotash, stir fry, prepared by Indian squaws.

From 1865 until 1918 the country was fairly at peace. The small wars it had with Spain and other minor countries it had little trouble in putting down. But in 1918 came the last and most terrible of all struggles. Alas! it has survived, but its cost has been great; lives and temporary happiness paid the price.

It is wrong to say that those few men that met in 1787 made the Constitution. They did, literally, but not actually. Those honored dead are martyrs for the Constitution. They, too, have helped in making it.

We, too, must realize that the Constitution is not now and never will be complete. The coming generations will always be adding some little thing that prosperity makes necessary for happiness.

Let us then prepare so that whenever the call may come we will be ready to make, serve or support our guide.

Lincoln compared his country to a ship, so it is with the Constitution as a main mast and our laws as sails while we are the sailors. Should the mainmast break or fall because of some flaw or defect, it would take down with it the ship and together they would go to the depths to be forgotten.

So we, like true sailors, must keep our constitution in repair so that we can sail on in life with liberty in pursuit of happiness.

It has lived for years and by it our America has prospered and grown. And under its jurisdiction, if the people continue to recognize its law, as dominating, she will continue to thrive and develop.

Our government was simply an experiment when George Washington took the office of president—just in its infancy—but now that the experiment has proved successful and its durability has shown it should stand 'till eternity. If the people, one and all, realize the advantages of a government "of the people, by the people and for the people," a privilege to be found nowhere else in the world—they will continue to live and uphold the ideals of our country. If they would respect our country, our ideals and the God who has blessed us there would be less crime and less immorality.

Long live our Constitution, and may the Stars and Stripes—its emblem—forever "wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

The Forming of the Constitution

By Inez Mayer

"The" Constitution, "yours," "mine" and "our" Constitution, was not made in the few months a handful of delegates was busy at Independence Hall at Philadelphia. They only put up the "ridgeline" and we, as the years go by and necessity demands, add the rafters.

The construction of this guide has been a slow but steady process. When they were forming it they little dreamed that it was going to be such a masterpiece. They merely hoped it to be a temporary improvement over the "Articles of Confederation."

These men risked their lives and honor in forming our guide. They, too, didn't know but what the majority of their country would fall and their work prove useless.

Benjamin Franklin told, after the convention was adjourned, that he had many times looked at the half sun on the back of George Washington's chair and wondered whether it be rising or setting. Time has proven that it was then only rising.

The Constitution received its first challenge in 1812, but it held its own against one of the strongest nations of the world. It met with little opposition from then until 1860. But—then met its real opponent, "itself." It had proven to the world its power, yet some of its own people doubted it. Then followed one of the most terrible wars to date.

"Laddie"

The feature film at the Hotel theater for Saturday night, February 12, will be Gene Stratton Porter's "Laddie." Everyone loved Gene Stratton Porter and her books, and you'll love this picture as well.

All the mighty appeal of Gene Stratton Porter at her best and greatest—all the marvelous knowledge of humanity—of love and laughter—of poignant sorrow and joyous exultation with which her books are imbued—all that she gave to the world is contained in "Laddie."

"Millionaires"

Laugh! You've just got to laugh when you see "Millionaires"—at the Hotel theater Sunday night.

It is a double love story masterfully interwoven, relating the effect of sudden wealth upon a slovenly old Jewish tailor and his wife, and upon their son and the girl he loves—who suddenly attempt to take their places in society to which their wealth entitles them. It's a scream!

"Mlle. Modiste"

You've seen beautiful Corinne Griffith many times, but never to better advantage than you will see her Wednesday night, February 16, when she will be at the Hotel theater in "Mlle. Modiste"—as the little lady of fashion whose beauty rocks France and sets Paris aflame—with the world at her feet begs her soldier lover to "kiss me, kiss me again."

OF MUCH INTEREST

Friday, the eleventh, our room expects to celebrate both St. Valentine's day and Lincoln's birthday. We expect to have the usual school Valentine box and a few stories and songs appropriate for the day.

Those boys and girls having a perfect record in spelling for the week are: Susie Drescher, Ambrose Foster, Ray Solbakken, Anita Henderson, Grant Lonoceto, Emma Louise Vanouck, Gretchen Reiserer and Evelyn Rogers.

Primary Room

Mrs. W. H. Mervyn was a visitor last week. We enjoy visitors—come again.

In the first grade spelling match, Bayne Hickman's side won. Beuletta Nordby was the star speller for the side.

Handwork classes have just finished their second Good Health booklets. This book was a collection of healthful foods to eat. Some splendid work was done on them.

We still have several absent from illness but very many returned to their work.

Since Lincoln's birthday comes on Saturday this year we will observe the occasion on Friday, February 11.

The Roman numbers up to 20 and the tables of 4 are occupying the attention of the second grade number class this week.

Handwork classes will be busy Thursday making valentines. We are giving just one day in handwork class to valentine making. Our health charts are being finished.

Dallas Flomer, who has been absent for several weeks on account of flu, and measles, is able to be back in school with the doctor's permission.

Our Constitution

By Geneva Rogers

The Constitution—our Constitution—how much that word ought to mean to every citizen of the United States! It stands for our life, our freedom, and our equality. Its clauses guarantee us our homes, our property, and our protection. To one and all who enjoy the privileges of this blessed country this document should prove of great interest and study.

Our Constitution was not made in a day, nor in a year, but it was built upon for many years—by strife and bloodshed, by the breaking of home ties and developing of vast new territory, by first subjection and finally independence. Neither was it made by one man or by a committee of men, but its sentiment reflects the spirit of those—the common people—who struggled and cried for equality and freedom, and justice of men. And those whom the people chose to pen its pages were the very essence of this spirit.

Consequently as we study the principles set forth—conditions under which the officials of our country are elected, powers of national and state governments, liberties and rights of citizens and many other clauses—we

HEAVY ARGENTINE SHIPMENTS WEAKENING WHEAT MARKET

Continued heavy shipments from the Southern Hemisphere had a weakening influence on the wheat market during the week ending February 12, according to the weekly Grain Market Review of the United States Department of Agriculture. The breaking up of the country roads restricted the movement of corn to market and receipts fell off sharply and caused a firmer market situation for this grain. The market for oats continued weak and prices made further declines. The rye market was also slightly weaker but an active demand for desirable grades held barley prices firm.

Argentine and Australian wheat shipments totaled approximately 9,500,000 bushels for the week and this, together with the heavy stocks on ocean passage, weakened the general wheat market situation and resulted in a decline of 1 1/2 to 2 cents in Liverpool prices. This Southern Hemisphere movement, however, was somewhat offset by lighter shipments from North America and smaller receipts in the United States markets. Ocean freight rates remained about unchanged and Argentine wheat was quoted delivered at Liverpool at about $1.53 per bushel compared with $1.65 for hard winter wheat from the United States and $1.62 to $1.71 for spring wheat from Canada. While in export countries stocks were much larger than at this time last year, the European supply is much smaller, so that indications are the present heavy world shipments will be readily absorbed.

Cash wheat market in the United States were not materially changed during the week. Export demand was restricted by the heavy offerings from the Southern Hemisphere and mill demand was slow because of a limited demand for flour.

The market for soft red winter wheat was relatively weaker than for other classes. No. 2 red selling at St. Louis as much as 4 cents under the May price. Milling demand was dull and elevators were taking principally the cheaper grades. No. 2 red winter was quoted at the close of the week at St. Louis at $1.37 to $1.38 1/2, Chicago $1.35 to $1.36, Cincinnati and Toledo at $1.37 to $1.39. The spring wheat market was also quiet. Heavy weight dry wheat sold readily but damp lightweight types were very slow sale.

Both milling and export demand showed some improvement in the Pacific Northwestern markets with mills paying about 2 cents over the export price for milling wheats.

White wheats for export were quoted at Portland at $1.34 1/2 per bushel. Sales of the white wheats were principally to Europe and of the red wheats to the Orient. An improved demand for flour from the Orient was making a better demand for the lower grade wheats.

The oats market continued weak with receipts again large. In the future markets, September oats sold down to a new low price for that delivery. Cash prices were about one cent lower at most of the markets although light receipts at Chicago advanced prices slightly there. Best grades sold readily but the poorer grades were very dull. No. 3 white oats was quoted at Chicago at 43c to 46c, Minneapolis at 43c to 44c, St. Louis at 45c to 49 1/2c, and Kansas City at 44c to 47c. Prices in the Texas markets were two cents lower with No. 2 red oats quoted at 45c to 46c delivered at Fort Worth and common rate group points.

Future barley prices declined slightly with other grains but the cash market remained firm and sold at the high point of the crop at several markets. Good milling and malting types were scarce and in excellent demand. Choice to fancy malting barley was quoted at 72c to 74c at Minneapolis, 80c to 82c at Milwaukee and 75c to 80c at Chicago. The better grades of feeding barley ranged from 65c to 70c at most of the markets.

Highway Now Patrolled

That every effort will be made to protect the highways is evidenced by the fact that the road between Lewiston and Potlatch is being patrolled by the sheriffs and deputies in the two counties—New Terece and Latah—and those having loads heavier than 5,000 pounds (including vehicle) will be called upon to explain why they are disobeying the orders of the highway authorities.

Several of the larger trucks have been weighed up and found to contain nearly double the amount allowed on the highways and it is hoped that heavy fines will be imposed as a result. The heavy trucks from Lewiston and Spokane are the principal offenders and they should be made to pay heavily for the privilege.

Birthday Party

A surprise birthday party was given for William Scharbach at his home, Wednesday, February 9. The evening was spent in playing cards, the honors being won by Miss Angie Castle and Ernest Kraut, and the consolation prizes were won by Mabel Botjter and Willis Hordemann.

OF MUCH INTEREST

The girls' basketball team played the last game of the season on the Genesee floor on Thursday night of this week. The girls appreciate the fine support the town has given them in their various games.

The Latin class has been studying Caesar for the past few weeks. This change from pure grammar and composition to the actual reading of the Latin language at this time is appreciated.

At the present time it appears that there will be a record crowd at the basketball game Friday evening of this week. The superintendent of the Troy schools called and asked for reservations for 100 persons. Athletics have been a success this year, both in actual games won and in income.

Seventh and Eighth Grades

We had a valentine box in this room Monday and many pretty valentines were distributed.

All the pupils of this room took part in a spelling contest last Friday instead of the regular spelling classes. George Blume and Wayne Hampton were the captains. It ended in a tie score.

The seventh graders are writing drills for the Improvement League in penmanship. The eighth graders are writing for the final certificate.

The eighth graders are studying stocks and bonds in arithmetic.

Vance McCarty and Pearl Springer have been absent for two days this week.

Fifth and Sixth Grades

We had our valentine box last Friday afternoon. We also observed Lincoln's birthday at that time.

The "Gumps" and "Gumps" are still having the most silent reading. Everyone in the class with the exception of two, was at or above average.

We are learning to print, using straight-line letters. Some of us do very nice work, and the others will do better with more practice.

We tested the fifth grade class as to the number of silent readings. Everyone in the class with the exception of two, was at or above average.

Third and Fourth Grades

Friday of last week our room celebrated Lincoln's birthday and St. Valentine's day by a short program and a valentine box. Everyone had a good time and received many pretty valentines with sweet messages. We had for guests that day Mrs. Sanford and Mrs. Manderfeld.

Our room was very sorry to lose one of its members Friday, Ray Solbakken. He is moving with his parents to San Francisco.

Gretchen Reiserer was absent from school two days last week. She went with her parents to Spokane.

The honor roll for spelling this week: Geneva Rogers, Nellie Haymond, Louise Vanouck, Annabelle Hoffman, Anita Henderson, Ray Solbakken and Ambrose Foster.

Primary Room

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Emmett were visitors in our room Wednesday afternoon in the spelling review game for the second grade. Nyeva Erickson's side won. She was the star speller for the side and James Drescher for the losing side.

Penmanship classes are working hard. They would like to receive "improvement buttons." There is some splendid work being done.

The children are enjoying the story of "Reddy Woodpecker." We read about him in story hour.

We are all enjoying the sunny days—it seems almost like spring.

The children thoroughly enjoyed the Riddle game we had for language class Tuesday.

A Birthday Surprise

Frank Jacobs was very pleasantly surprised Tuesday evening, February 15, when a group of friends gathered to help him celebrate his birthday anniversary.

The evening was spent in playing pinochle. Mrs. Sim Currin and Frank Jacobs won first honors and Miss Eleanor Brommeling and Miss Grace Currin were awarded the consolation prizes.

Death of Daughter

The sad news was received by Mrs. Mary Cunningham that her daughter, Mrs. Anson (Margaret) Robinson, had passed away at her home at Los Angeles, California, Friday, February 11, flu and pneumonia being the immediate cause of death.

Deceased was married to Anson Robinson at Moscow in 1895 and has been a resident of California for the past ten years.

Mrs. Cunningham and other members of the family will have the sincere sympathy of their best of friends here.

Death of Mrs. Burdie

Word has been received by Mrs. D. E. Thomas to the effect that Mrs. Nancy A. Burdie, widow of the late P. F. Burdie, had passed away at Grants Pass, Oregon, January 6.

She was ill but a short time, although she had been in failing health for many years. She was 81 years of age at the time of her passing.

Mrs. Burdie was formerly a resident of Genesee for many years and was well and favorably known here.

Annual Shorthorn Sale

The annual Shorthorn sale and banquet will be held in Spokane next week, the banquet being held at the Spokane hotel on the evening of the twenty-third and the sale at the Spokane Union stockyards on Thursday, the 25th, commencing at 1 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Nordby expect to be in attendance at the banquet and sale, although Mr. Nordby states that they will not have any animals at the sale, they having disposed of all their available young stock.

Should Kill Magpies

Unusual activity is being carried on in the Julieta and Kendrick sections against the greatest feathered pest of this section of the country—the magpie. At Julieta the usual activity is evident against them and Kendrick is making preparations to take action against them.

It would be a good idea for the local sportsmen to get busy and limber up their splatter guns and go forth to see what they can do.

WHAT HAPPENED HERE TWENTY YEARS AGO

Crematories are now paying 36 1/2 cents per pound for butterfat.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Herman on Friday of last week.

Arthur Hampton arrived from Harrington, Washington, this week, having drove overland and will make his home here. Mrs. Hampton and little daughter, Eva, will arrive next week. Johann & Miller, who have for some time been conducting an implement business in this city, have dissolved partnership. Mr. Miller taking over the stock. Mr. Johann will continue in the harness business and the large room in the Vollmer building will be occupied jointly by Mr. Miller and Mr. Johann.

Word comes from the Salmon river that the loss by cattle owners on account of the recent bad weather will be light. John Platt writes that his loss will not be greater than on our previous year. Wes. Dorchester's loss will not exceed 20 head. On Snake river it is said that the loss will be much heavier.

From an authoritative source we are informed that to market the grain stored at the present time in the Genesee warehouses, will require upwards of 750 cars, and the prospects for a relief from the present car shortage are anything but flattering. At a low estimate it will require about five cars a day at Genesee along from now until September 1 to handle the shipments. To take advantage of the present high market for hay is an impossibility for the dealers and to hold until a later date may mean forced selling at a big loss. Timothy hay is quoted on the local market at $18.00 per ton and wheat hay $10.50 per ton.

Valentine Party

Mrs. N. M. Leavitt very delightfully entertained a large group of ladies at a very pretty appointed valentine party on Thursday evening of last week, when pinochle was played at seven tables. Mrs. Nellie Haymond won the honors of the evening and Mrs. Ira Hanson was awarded the consolation prize.

The rooms were appropriately decorated with hearts in valentine colors. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Bertha Gash. Favors of small cats, dogs, and baskets filled with red candy hearts were given the guests.

The invited guests were Mesdames Leon Follett, W. M. Herman, Glen Sampson, Isaac Isakson, George Post, Ira Larkin, Gus Fickens, Mahlon Follett, Harold Haymond, Nellie Haymond, Harry Scholer, Gibson, Clyde Meyer, T. H. Herman, R. Edwards, Frank Hoorman, Fred Nagel, J. J. Tupker, W. W. Burr, W. L. McCreey, Ira Hanson, Henry Morscheck, Misses Esther Martinson, Irene Mullaney, Margaret Sampson and Bertha Gash.

The Rimrocker's Ball

Bowling Bugs Active
The following are the results of the roll-off with the Moscow Elks' team last week on the local alleys.
The feature of the game was the double scores of Vern Beckman and Henry Morscheck, who rolled 1100 pins in three games, also the individual bowling of W. W. Burr, who rolled 583 in three games.

Burr	177	214	192-583
Edwards	164	185	149-498

Baker	158	165	139-452
759	785	812	2356

Following are the scores made on the Spokane alleys last Saturday evening:

Genesee	153	153	154-460

At the present time Beckman's team is leading and Loncosty's bunch are on the small end of the score. Burr is leading in the individual scores with an average of 184 1/2.

The features of the bowling for the past week are the rolling of 233 in a game by George Bolio and 200 by Burr. This gives Bolio the high score for the tournament. Another feature was the rolling of an all-spare game by Frank Hoorman.

A Word With the Old Folks

Elderly People Are Learning Importance of Good Elimination.
 In the later years of life there is apt to be a slowing up of the bodily functions. Good elimination, however, is just as essential to the old as to the young. Many old folks have learned the value of Doan's Pills when a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys is required. Scanty or burning passages of kidney secretions are often signs of improper kidney function. In most every community are scores of users and endorsers who acclaim the merit of Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

A Way to Pay
 By GEORGE F. PEABODY

 "We will confer, of course," he began, "but I think it best for you to take and conduct your own cases." The discussion lasted an hour longer and then both left for lunch.

On the morning of the sixth day Del went down alone, his father being out of town. "Three minutes after reaching his office he punched the secretary's bell vigorously. That efficient young lady appeared like some spirit. The junior member had the morning paper spread before him. "Good morning, Miss Smith," he said genially.

"Good morning, Mr. Hayworth," she answered, her tone, as always fresh and brisk. "The government's gone for the day," announced the boy, squinting into his paper.

"Yes," the ghost of a smile crossed his face. "Let me see!" Round the desk she came to lean close beside him. "Yes, sir! Five to three and six to two. Oh, boy! Wait till Jerry sees that. Jerry's my brother. He's a great baseball fan and he's made one of me. We've got a little bet up this year. If the Lions win I owe him a smoking set, and if the Spartans win he owes me a new hat."

Blank astonishment sat on Del's face, but speedily it faded into high glee. With a whoop he rose and grabbed the surprised young lady around her waist, whirled her about dizzily a few times, sat her on his desk and bowed low before her.

"Glorious hallelujah!" he shouted, on again assuming the perpendicular. "I'm saved! I tell you truly, Miss Smith, I was about to fly. The tinder dryness of this musty office got into my lungs and eyes and brain until I was almost wild. Now, I can stand it. I love baseball, and every day you and I will have a private conference about—the ball game. And, I may say, you've passed the test. Your salary goes up five a week."

"Be glad to serve you, Mr. Doyle," said Del, "meaning, good luck."

Next evening, after dinner, a meal at which E. J. Hayworth presided with what state and stately glances at both his wife and his son who, reunited, were having the time of their lives, called the boy into the library.

"Oh—would it be all right to go, Mr. Hayworth? I—'d love to." An eagerness almost pathetic crowded into her face. "You see, my brother Jerry pitches for the Dover team and—"

"What!" exploded Del. "Is that young Smith your brother? Why, he's to work today."

"I know it. That's why I'm so glad to go. I like to cheer for him."

"Well, that settles it, Miss Private Secretary. We're going. And we'll whoop it up plenty, too. Get that old hen rack back in here and we'll tear into the babe of letters."

"Not in all her four years' service there had the grin, child office seemed so gay, so cheery, so full of sunshine nor, she thought, in all that time had the correspondence so bristled with life and humanness, though frequently she all but gasped at the astonishing speed and accuracy of the young lawyers' lips in dictation.

"Three o'clock found Del Hayworth and his secretary in the best box sported by the Dover park. Prior to the start of the game he met Jerry and immediately liked the ruddy-faced youngster who, of course, had heard of the college star. The linking evidently was mutual. Also he met old Henry Doyle and immediately his heart went out to the old man who could not let go of the game. The old fellow, his hair white and his face wrinkled though his keen eyes still shone with deathless youth, was plainly well. "Wait till Jerry sees that. Jerry's my brother. He's a great baseball fan and he's made one of me. We've got a little bet up this year. If the Lions win I owe him a smoking set, and if the Spartans win he owes me a new hat."

"Glorious hallelujah!" he shouted, on again assuming the perpendicular. "I'm saved! I tell you truly, Miss Smith, I was about to fly. The tinder dryness of this musty office got into my lungs and eyes and brain until I was almost wild. Now, I can stand it. I love baseball, and every day you and I will have a private conference about—the ball game. And, I may say, you've passed the test. Your salary goes up five a week."

"Be glad to serve you, Mr. Doyle," said Del, "meaning, good luck."

Next evening, after dinner, a meal at which E. J. Hayworth presided with what state and stately glances at both his wife and his son who, reunited, were having the time of their lives, called the boy into the library.

"Oh—would it be all right to go, Mr. Hayworth? I—'d love to." An eagerness almost pathetic crowded into her face. "You see, my brother Jerry pitches for the Dover team and—"

"What!" exploded Del. "Is that young Smith your brother? Why, he's to work today."

"I know it. That's why I'm so glad to go. I like to cheer for him."

"Well, that settles it, Miss Private Secretary. We're going. And we'll whoop it up plenty, too. Get that old hen rack back in here and we'll tear into the babe of letters."

"Not in all her four years' service there had the grin, child office seemed so gay, so cheery, so full of sunshine nor, she thought, in all that time had the correspondence so bristled with life and humanness, though frequently she all but gasped at the astonishing speed and accuracy of the young lawyers' lips in dictation.

"Three o'clock found Del Hayworth and his secretary in the best box sported by the Dover park. Prior to the start of the game he met Jerry and immediately liked the ruddy-faced youngster who, of course, had heard of the college star. The linking evidently was mutual. Also he met old Henry Doyle and immediately his heart went out to the old man who could not let go of the game. The old fellow, his hair white and his face wrinkled though his keen eyes still shone with deathless youth, was plainly well. "Wait till Jerry sees that. Jerry's my brother. He's a great baseball fan and he's made one of me. We've got a little bet up this year. If the Lions win I owe him a smoking set, and if the Spartans win he owes me a new hat."

"Glorious hallelujah!" he shouted, on again assuming the perpendicular. "I'm saved! I tell you truly, Miss Smith, I was about to fly. "Be glad to serve you, Mr. Doyle," said Del, "meaning, good luck."

On the morning of the sixth day Del went down alone, his father being out of town. "Three minutes after reaching his office he punched the secretary's bell vigorously. That efficient young lady appeared like some spirit. The junior member had the morning paper spread before him. "Good morning, Miss Smith," he said genially.

"Good morning, Mr. Hayworth," she answered, her tone, as always fresh and brisk. "The government's gone for the day," announced the boy, squinting into his paper.

"Yes," the ghost of a smile crossed his face. "Let me see!" Round the desk she came to lean close beside him. "Yes, sir! Five to three and six to two. Oh, boy! Wait till Jerry sees that. Jerry's my brother. He's a great baseball fan and he's made one of me. We've got a little bet up this year. If the Lions win I owe him a smoking set, and if the Spartans win he owes me a new hat."

Blank astonishment sat on Del's face, but speedily it faded into high glee. With a whoop he rose and grabbed the surprised young lady around her waist, whirled her about dizzily a few times, sat her on his desk and bowed low before her.

"Glorious hallelujah!" he shouted, on again assuming the perpendicular. "I'm saved! I tell you truly, Miss Smith, I was about to fly. The tinder dryness of this musty office got into my lungs and eyes and brain until I was almost wild. Now, I can stand it. One County Produces $5,000,000 From Mines

Boundary County, Idaho, has a total mineral production to date of approximately $5,000,000, according to Bulletin No. 10, entitled "The Geology and Ore Deposits of Boundary County, Idaho," recently issued by the Idaho Bureau of Mines and Geology. The publication was written by Virgil H. D. Kirkham and Ernest W. Ellis of the Idaho Bureau of Mines staff.

The bulletin points out that geologically the area bears more resemblance to southeastern British Columbia than to the Coeur d'Alene section, with which it has been generally compared. In fact, it is emphasized that conditions in certain parts of the area are not dissimilar to those surrounding the famous Sullivan mine at Kimberley, and urges that this should be kept in mind by prospectors.

The geologic map which accompanies the report shows two major features: granite allied to the Shoshone batholith—the western half; and metamorphosed belt sediments—the eastern half.

The bulletin contains 75 pages of text, with numerous views, maps, and sketches.

So far the principal metals produced in Boundary County have been lead, silver, and gold. There are, however, according to the survey, promising prospects within the area of molybdenum and tungsten, with some zinc and copper showing, and with possibility of placer production. The high price of tungsten during the World War stimulated considerable interest in this metal. The development of the tungsten properties in the county now awaits a time of higher prices. Development of the molybdenum deposits is retarded somewhat by their inaccessibility. Time will eradicate this difficulty, no doubt, and their prospecting for lead deposits will follow long lines set forth in the bulletin.

The Idaho Continental mine, operated by the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining and Concentrating Company, of Kellogg, is the chief lead and silver producer of the district. A complete description of this property is given, including a map showing the underground workings. The Cyanide gold mine is only nearing the production stage. It lies in an entirely different geologic formation from the Idaho Continental. Of interest is the Molybdenum holdings of that of the International Molybdenum Company in the Phoebe Tip District, and the chief tungsten showing is held by the M. & F. Company in the Brush Lake district.

The keen desire on the part of the mining people of Boundary County to bring more producers to the front has been hampered largely by lack of capital coupled with a failure to understand geologic conditions. The bulletin just issued should very materially aid the mining interests of this "metaliferous province."

The bulletin may be obtained for fifty cents upon application to the Idaho Bureau of Mines and Geology at Moscow.

In the Heart of Spokane, close to stores, theaters, and the business district, the Coeur d'Alene Hotel offers the traveler every convenience. Popular prices and perfect service. "The Hotel With a Personality."—Adv.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

The six-weeks examinations are being given the first of this week. For drawing lesson the pupils made some very pretty landscape drawings last Friday.

Fifth and Sixth Grades
We had an observation of Washington's birthday Tuesday afternoon. There were poems and a short play. Our sixth grade has been studying "courts" and their jurisdiction. Last Friday afternoon we had a mock trial, carried out as in a regular court. Frank Carrio was the defendant, and he was acquitted.

Girls' Basketball Team
The girls' basketball team had a very successful season, dropping two early season games to Poltich and to the Lewiston normal. They have won two games from Lapwai, two from Moscow and one from the Lewiston normal. The girls were coached by Miss Keeler, teacher of the seventh and eighth grades.

Basketball
The basketball season for the Genesee high school is nearly over. It could not have had a more fitting climax than the game here with Troy last Friday night. The opera house was jammed to capacity and the crowd was kept in a continual uproar by the fastest game played on the Genesee court this year.

The Troy team came in force and with it about 100 fans from that community. The game was important because so much depended upon the outcome. Had Troy won it would have thrown Troy, Lapwai and Genesee into a three-cornered tie for first place. If Genesee won, the local boys remained at the head of the district and Troy was determined that she should go to the tournament.

The game started with Troy shooting a foul. A moment later Doyle scored a field basket, and from that moment Genesee was never headed. The boys played a fast, heady game, their stalling tactics completely demoralizing the Troy defense.

Troy has a team to be proud of. They are small but fast and fought hard through the entire game. Doyle, Genesee forward, was high with 16 points. In a game where the score ends 26 to 18, this is good scoring. Weber, the other forward, scored 10 points. "Skinny" has played good ball all year and much is expected of him at the tournament. The guards, Cameron and Hampton, played the best ball they have played all year. Troy did not make a close basket the entire game. This certainly speaks well for the guarding. Flowers, center, played a good game. He usually got the tip-off and he held Parr, Troy star center, to 7 points. Kieweno, who replaced "Ip" when "Ip" went out on fouls, also played a fine game.

This week the team goes to the tournament at Lewiston. The first game Genesee will play will be on Thursday night at 8:30. This game will be with Lapwai.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
The seventh and eighth grade pupils that have finished the drills for the final certificate are Wayne Hampton, Geraldine Bumpass, Flossie Hollingsworth, Jean Fineman, Grace Curin and George Blume.

Mrs. Craft and Mrs. Konjisky checked our room last week. Miss Peterson, county superintendent, visited us this week on Tuesday. Pearl Springer is again in school.

after a week's absence on account of illness. We are having six-weeks exams this week in most every class. For drawing lesson the pupils made some very pretty landscape drawings last Friday.

GRAIN MARKET UNSETTLED PRICE SLIGHTLY DOWNWARD

Uncertainty as to the outcome of farm legislation, together with dull domestic demand and prospects of some further slackening in export demand, kept the grain market in an unsettled condition during the week ending February 19, according to the United States department of agriculture.

Price changes were small but the trend of prices for most grains was slightly downward.

The world situation for bread grains was not greatly changed during the week. Winter wheat acreage in the various countries reporting to date shows a slight increase over that of last year while rye acreage shows a decrease of about six per cent. These reports, however, are quite incomplete and do not include a number of important countries. The prospect for total North African wheats which compete with our durum wheat is now due for a decrease from last year with acreages as far as reported 16 per cent less.

Crop conditions have been generally favorable except in India, where trade reports indicate drought. The winter wheat crop in the United States continues in fair to good condition in most sections.

The movement of wheat from the Southern Hemisphere continues heavy and shipments from Argentine alone for the season total nearly 30,000,000 bushels compared with slightly less than 13,000,000 bushels last year.

The movement of wheat from the Southern Hemisphere continues heavy and shipments from Argentine alone for the season total nearly 30,000,000 bushels compared with slightly less than 13,000,000 bushels last year.

The large supply destined to Europe and Asia is causing importers to buy cautiously for deferred shipment until it can be determined how well these stocks will be absorbed upon their arrival. This slackened demand is apparently being reflected in the Buenos Aires markets, which declined about 1 1/2c during the week.

Argentine wheats at the close of the week was quoted at Liverpool at $1.51. This compares with quotations of $1.64 for United States hard winter wheat and $1.70 for dry Canadian wheat.

The domestic wheat markets were dull with mills taking only sufficient wheat for their small current needs. Flour demand was slow and some reduction in mill operations was reported in several markets. The demand for soft winter wheat was even less active than for hard winter wheat, as most of the mills using this class of wheat apparently had a sufficient supply for present needs.

Some southern mills were buying low grade wheat at St. Louis in order to obtain favorable bill of lading for their flour and feed shipments.

Premiums were fairly well maintained in the spring wheat markets. Deyness was a more important factor than premium and heavyweight dry wheat brought about 1c higher premium about a week ago.

Durum prices were about unchanged. No. 1 Amber was selling at both Minneapolis and Duluth at 15c to 25c over the Duluth May, which closed $1.52.

The export demand in the Pacific Northwest continued slow but sales of around 15,000 tons to Europe for March and April shipment were reported. Soft and Western white wheat was selling at the close of the week at Portland at $1.32 to $1.34.

Montana hard winter wheat was quoted at $1.45 but receipts of Montana wheat at the Pacific coast markets have been small because of the relatively better demand for this wheat at Minneapolis.

WAS SURPRISED

Mrs. John Broemmeling was very pleasantly surprised Sunday evening when a number of friends and relatives came to her home to help her celebrate her sixty-third birthday anniversary.

Pinoche was played at eight tables. High honors were won by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bruemmeling and the consolation were awarded Mrs. C. Kraut and Frank Jacobs. A delicious lunch was served at 10:30 o'clock.

These present were Rev. L. C. Goddard and Billie; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wishard and Leslie; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kraut and Elmer, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hasfurth and Edna and Charles, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bruemmeling, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hasfurth, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pleiman, Mr. and Mrs. John Weber, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bruemmeling and children, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kretschmer, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bruemmeling, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bruemmeling and Donald, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jacobs and children, Mrs. Schlueter and Mary, Mrs. Ted Johann, Mrs. Anna Kries, Mrs. George Miller, Edna Alber, Mr. and Mrs. John Bruemmeling and Bill, Leona and Eleanor.

When the proper time came to go home many were the wishes extended Mrs. Broemmeling for many more happy birthdays.

Birthday Party
Mrs. George Hasfurth gave a very pleasant party at her home on Wednesday, February 16, in honor of her birthday anniversary, when a few friends and relatives were invited to help her celebrate the event.

A beautiful dinner was served and chief among the table decorations was a beautiful birthday cake surmounted by the proper number of candles. The time was spent in playing cards and a splendid time was had.

The invited guests were Mrs. Emma Jacksha, Moscow; Mrs. Elmer Roth and son, Moscow; Mr. and Mrs. John Jacksha and family, Moscow; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Grieser, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hasfurth and sons, Alfred and Edwin, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mousman and son, Harry.

Heads Sheriff's Association
Charlie Summerfield was elected president of the Inland Empire Sheriff's association for the coming year at their meeting held at Lewiston on Thursday of last week.

Sheriff Summerfield is looked upon as one of the foremost officers of the Inland Empire and probably has a record as many arrests and convictions as any officer in the state. He is to be congratulated upon his popularity and ability as an officer.

Summit Pop Club Entertained
The Summit Pop club and their families and a few invited guests met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Trautman on Thursday of last week. The time was spent with needlework and in social converse. A big dinner was served at 1 o'clock.

The next meeting will be an all-day affair at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Reisenauer on Thursday, March 3.

Parents of a Daughter
Mr. and Mrs. James Magee are the proud parents of a baby daughter, born Wednesday at St. Joseph's hospital, Lewiston. Weight 5 1/2 pounds. Mother and babe are reported as doing nicely.

Valley Aid Entertained
The ladies aid of the Genesee Valley Lutheran church was very pleasantly entertained Thursday afternoon of last week by Mrs. Henry Hanson. A large crowd was in attendance and a profitable time was spent.

A splendid lunch was served by the hostess at 4 o'clock. Eight visitors were present. The next meeting of the aid will be on Wednesday, March 3.

COW CREEK ON RAMPADE

The flat extending along Cow creek for several miles was under water Sunday afternoon and night, the crest of the "flood" having been reached Sunday night about 11 o'clock.

The entire flat to the south and east of town resembled a lake and the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stuecker was entirely surrounded, the water being up to the house, but not reaching the floors. The barn was several inches deep in water and Mr. Stuecker had to use a raft to get to his horses and take them to higher ground.

The water covered the highway a few miles north of town and it was also covered at the southeast part of town and at Uniontown the N. P. track was under water for several hundred feet and the "Bulleit" did not get through to Pullman until Tuesday.

And the Genesee section was not the only place that was decidedly "wet" territory. Practically the entire inland country was soaked and within the past week destructive storms have ravaged both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard and terrific storms were noted in Texas and Alabama.

Within the past week unusual temperatures have obtained in many places. The mercury has stood at a very reasonable point throughout this part of the country, but east of the Rocky mountains they had snow and unseasonable cold. At Colorado Springs, Colo., last week the mercury reached 30 below.

While we have suffered no particular damage here, there has been plenty of rain and snow and we have enough moisture to last us for some time.

The Card Club Entertained
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Sampson was the scene of a very pleasant party Wednesday evening when Mrs. J. J. Tucker, Mrs. Frank Hooper, Mrs. Nellie Haymond and Mrs. Glenn Sampson acted as hostesses to the members of the club and their husbands and a few invited guests.

Pinoche was played at five tables and a very interesting time was had by all. Mrs. Harold Haymond was awarded the lady's first prize and P. C. McCreey the gentlemen's, while Mrs. Fred Nagel and Frank Hooper were awarded the consolation prizes.

A splendid two course luncheon was served by the hostesses. Those present besides the members and their husbands were Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Dieus, E. J. Bergman of Lewiston, Archie McCoy, Wm. Cunningham, P. C. McCreey and Miss Gertrude Sampson.

The George Washington idea was carried out throughout the evening, in score cards, room decorations and the cherry-tree story.

"Hills of Kentucky"
At the Hotel theater for Saturday night, February 26, the feature film will be Rin-Tin-Tin in "Hills of Kentucky."
Rinty's down in Dixie now and you'll admire him just as much when you do in the wilds of Alaska, where you have seen him many times.
"Her Honor, the Governor"
For Sunday night, February 27, at the Hotel theater, Pauline Fredrick will appear in "Her Honor, the Governor."
Defying the political haters who would loot the public funds! Battling against her enemies, who revenge themselves by bringing a murder charge against her son! Her impassioned appeal to the jury! The verdict—guilty! And then—how a mother fights to save her boy from the rope, under the threatening shadow of impeachment.
"Rainbow Riley"
If you want to laugh, you can't afford to miss Johnny Hines in "Rainbow Riley" at the Hotel theater Wednesday night, March 2.
He went to the mountains to get a feud story—and if it wasn't much of a feud before Johnny got there he certainly developed into one after he got there.
"Rainbow Riley" is the sort of a story that starts out with a sixty-mile-an-hour clip and keeps up the high voltage throughout the entire story and winds up with a bang!

Operation a Success

A Way to Pay
 By GEORGE F. PEABODY

In came the old manager, eagerly, in a street clothes he looked older, smaller, more shriveled, and his lined old face more worried still. "I won't take me long to tell my story, Mr. Hayworth," he began almost before seating himself. "You see, I've been having hard luck for half a dozen years. Was just getting set right when along came this spell of misery to last more'n five years. Result was I had to borrow money to keep my club going. Fact is, I borrowed a pile of it. Twenty-five thousand in all, and most of it from Henry T. Purdy. I put up my club stock."

The notes are about due, and Purdy wants his coin, but I ain't got it. I've been to him and explained that in a year or two I'll be settin' pretty again, and tried to renew the notes. But nothin' doin'."

Furdy was a friend, but now I see him for what he really is. He knows that in a year or two half a dozen of the kids on my team will ripen into stars—we'll be higher in the race next year—and can be sold for a big wad of money, so I know darned well he's figuring on his own money back along with a lot that belongs to me. That's the situation, Mr. Hayworth. Now, what can I do about it?"

The conference lasted an hour and at the end of it the young lawyer looked grave. "I must say, Mr. Doyle, that the case looks dark for you. You see, the whole thing has been done legally. While there is no doubt that Purdy plans on doing just what you suspect, yet he is violating no statute and is entirely within his legal rights. The law cannot control motives. I am quite sure there is no hope through the law but we may be able to do something through moral suasion. If you wish I'll see Mr. Purdy and try to influence him to a nobler course. Meantime, too, I'll consult my father."

"All right, try it," sighed the new, "I'm sorry."

"Come in tomorrow manager."

"Come in tomorrow," suggested Del. At the doorway his professional air dropped from him like a cloak and he flung an arm across the old man's shoulders. "Doggone it, Doyle, I'm sorry!" he said and his young voice throbbled with it.

The old man wheeled and quick moisture gathered in his wrinkled, framed eyes as they searched the boy's face. His garbled old hand reached and grasped Del's and his voice was a bit husky. "Thanks, boy. You know there's only my old wife and me. She, bless her, doesn't know. Nobody knows but you—and Purdy. I'm kinda tired—carryin' it alone. To know somebody's sorry helps."

"I am, darned sorry. I'll do all I can." His arm tightened for a moment and then Doyle was gone. Afterwards Del put in half an hour of hard thinking, hunted through some law books and then went into his father's office. "Ready for luncheon, Del?" queried E. J., looking at his watch.

"Nope. Want to ask you something about my first case?"

"Certainly, delighted," said the father and he pushed a batch of papers aside and composed himself to listen.

Rapidly Del sketched Doyle's plight. "That's the situation he's in, Dad. So far as I know there's no legal recourse. Do you know of any?"

"No, I don't," said E. J. flatly and the boy puzzled over the cloud that settled quickly over the father's face. The old man drummed lightly on the desk top for a moment and then went on, "I think you'd better not take the case, Delbert. In fact, you can't take it."

"Why not?" demanded the boy blankly.

"Well," said E. J. blandly, "you see we are already counsel for Mr. Purdy. In an effort to save his loans I have agreed to take his case against Mr. Doyle. I expect to turn the case over to you, Del. There will be a generous fee."

"Fee be damned!" roared the boy, rising. "That skunk Purdy has been waiting five years for this chance. Why, it's worse than highway robbery. Dad, that poor old man is fighting to keep himself and his old wife out of the poorhouse, and me help above 'em! I guess not! I'll have nothing to do with it."

"In law," said E. J. coldly, "you will find many things that do not agree with altruistic concepts of life. You must remember, my son, that you are selling your services as an interpreter of law and not as a chivalrous adjuster of human mistakes."

"I'll not be a party to the black-jacking of a white-haired old man, even if the blackjack is the law. I can't forget that a run of hard luck in the alley you propose to do the clubbing in. No, sir! You can count me out of that party."

"Very well," smiled E. J. "You'll get over that. But I'll attend to this myself."

"Almost in horror Del looked at his father. "Dad," he pleaded, "you can't!"

"There is no sentiment in business, boy."

"Yes there is—I'll swear there is!" Del replied hotly. "This thing is wrong—dead wrong—and you aren't going to pull it off either. If I can't take Doyle's case and remain a partner here, if it's a violation of professional ethics for one firm to represent both sides of a case, then here's where the partnership ends. In fact it ends anyway. I won't be a member of a firm where even half of my work is done by a suit and in less than three jerks of a lamb's tail I'll be a member of the Dover Baseball Team. It just happens that the Spartans will hand you fifty thousand good iron men any old day for me and when they do it you're to go sit on the fence and take up a case at Frank Purdy, at al. Get it?"

The roar that the old man let out to the players swore shook the distant flag pole. Then he stood stock still, throat and lips worked but without uttering a sound. Realizing his impotence his eyes filled with moisture and then Doyle was gone. He wrinkled his cheeks. A moment he stood so and then wrapped his arms around the boy and hugged him. Young Jerry Smith came running up.

"Pinch me! Kick me in the pants! Do something to make me sure I'm awake!" yelled Doyle.

King County Cow Testing for December

The King County Cow Testing Association reports its average production for the month of December, 1926, was about one pound more than 1925, for the same month of 1925. The 542 cows considered in the average showed a production of 23.6 pounds of fat and 743.2 pounds of milk. December was the only month of 1926 in which the average monthly fat production per cow fell below 30 pounds. There were 713 cows in the association at the end of the year.

The herd of C. A. Funk, which tied for high herd last month, with the Pleasant Hill Farm, was high herd in December with an average production of 38.5 pounds of fat and 624.4 pounds of milk. This forced the Pleasant Hill Farm into second place. Their production was 35.5 pounds of fat per cow and 1,178.8 pounds of milk.

Mr. Funk had the high cow in the association for the month as well as the high herd. His grade cow Roxy made 71.2 pounds of fat and 1,113 pounds of milk. Hollywood Farm, Woodville, had all five places for the high cows of the purebred class. Hollywood Tietje Lyons led the list with 68.6 pounds of fat, very closely followed by Hollywood Segis Mercena Dekol, which produced 1,848 pounds of milk and 66.2 pounds of fat.

Author of "What's the Matter With Matrimony?" Tries It Herself—Finds Nothing

Lillian Lauferty has changed her mind. The noted adviser of the love-sick spent ten years reading a million letters in which she was told love is an illusion, romance a snare, and marriage the grand finale of any hope of living happy ever after. She was almost convinced. She wrote "What's the Matter With Matrimony?"

And then she married! Married a temperamental opera singer at that—James Wolfe, of the Metropolitan.

That was nearly three years ago.

Now, she confesses, writing in Smart Set magazine, "I'm not so free with advice any more. There are so many exceptions to all rules." And she's still happy enough to call her husband "Mr. Gray Eyes"—right out in print.

"I am a bewailing widow," she says, "the most important thing in marriage is to like the person you love. When he interests you, appeals to you, meets your approval and never makes you ashamed, you're really heading for bliss."

Difference of temperament may be an asset instead of a handicap if both strive patiently to adjust themselves unselfishly, she says.

"Both of us hate to be bored. If we weren't so different. Each of us believes that life is a fifty-fifty proposition. We are not spoiled children; life has disciplined us too well for that. We adjust our desires so that life will offer equal portions.

"Neither of us has a possessive attitude. We leave each other free to do as they please. We may be one in love and one in spirit, but we are still two separate entities. We find that married people can be friends—and everybody needs a friend."

Washington export trade in canned milk amounted to 20,000,000 pounds during 1926. This product found its way into almost every foreign country. Particularly are the people of the Orient awakening to the importance of evaporated milk as a food for their young.

Dairy Industry Needs More Milk Production

Early hatching has become very important in Idaho, according to R. T. Parkhurst, University of Idaho poultry husbandman.

In most sections of the state, he says, it is best to start hatching in March so that the pullets will be fully matured and in the laying house by August 15 or September 1. Pullets should be in full lay early in September to give the greatest profits for the year.

The high price period for eggs now extends from October 1 to January, with the peak in November or early in December. A few years ago the high prices continued into February and early March.

Jewish farmers have during the present century increased their American holdings to about a million acres. They have increased in number from 1,000 to 75,000, says a report from the Jewish Agricultural Society, Inc.—New York and Poleside.

24 PUREBRED BULLS IN SKAGIT COUNTY

A total of 29 purebred bulls have been sold to local dairymen this fall, as a result of a sire campaign. The sires ranged in production, according to the University of Idaho, from 100 to 110 pounds of butterfat. Thirteen sires replaced grade or scrub sires, while the others replaced purebreds of inferior breeding.

Keep Eliminate System Active

Good Health Requires Good Elimination

ONE can't feel well when there is a retention of poisonous waste in the blood. This is called a toxic condition, and is apt to make one tired, dull and nervous. Many symptoms are sometimes toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Many people have learned the value of Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, when the kidneys were found to be inactive. Everyone who finds a weak, inactive Doan's system. Ask your neighbor!

What to Do When Children Have Colds

Mother, most of them, know what to do when children have colds and sore throats.

How many parents know what to do when Jack or Mary has a temper tantrum? A fit of jealousy? A fear of the dark, or new faces, or new activities? A capricious dislike of necessary foods?

How many parents know that their children's thoughts and feelings and habits are as important as the state of their teeth or the strength of their muscles?

How many parents who wouldn't think of giving castor oil for every physical ailment, have only one method of treatment—a don't—for every bad habit?

How many parents realize that the spoiled child is really a mentally sick child?

Perhaps these questions will suggest themselves to mothers and fathers who read the latest bulletin of the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor.

This bulletin is called "Child Management" and is written for the use of parents by Dr. D. A. Thom, an authority on mental hygiene. Dr. Thom organized "habit clinics" for children in Boston, and has general charge of eight such clinics established by the Massachusetts State Division of Mental Hygiene.

"Child Management" is the first publication of its kind issued by the Children's Bureau. It brings to the average parent in simple and practical form the results of modern research in the mental-hygiene field. Just as the bureau's pamphlets on prenatal, infant, and child care, which have reached a circulation of nearly four and a half million, have brought to mothers and fathers the results of the research of medical and health specialists.

It is hard to overestimate the importance of emotions and mental attitudes in the happiness of the child and, later, in the success and efficiency of the adult. Dr. Thom points out:

"A child has a mental life far more delicate and complex than his physical body, far more difficult to keep in order and much more easily put out of adjustment. A child lives a real mental life, full of hopes, ambitions, doubts, misgivings, joys, sorrows, and strivings that are being gratified or thwarted much the same at three years of age as they will be at 30. The home is the workshop in which the character and personality of this individual are being molded by the formation of habits into the person he will be in later life."

How Insecticides Are Applied to Ground Crops

THE revival in dusting, caused by the development of several very satisfactory insecticides in powder form, has caused a great deal of interest among agriculturists. Despite the fact that the conservative growers will continue to use liquid sprays whenever possible, a great number of the more progressive farmers and gardeners have adopted the dusting method without reservation.

For low-growing crops dusting has long been satisfactory. The variety of methods that are practical for the application of powder insecticides has something to do with this.

For gardens and small vegetable plants, the hand duster is very practical. The traction duster is good type for applying dusts to truck crops. The power is transmitted from the axle to the blower and the dust is forced through a number of flexible metal tubes. The power dusting outfit, operated by a two or three horsepower gasoline engine, are the standard means employed by large growers. The use of airplanes in the cotton fields to combat the Boll weevil is the most advanced form of dusting. Spraying for ground crops can also be done in several different ways. The container for the liquid should be made of glass, brass, wood or galvanized steel, as Bordeaux mixture and other materials corrode tin and iron.

Using a water pot or a whisk broom is not spraying and will not save the crop, no matter how good is the insecticide that you buy. The insecticide must be properly applied or its value will be nullified.

Lillian Lauferty has changed her mind. The noted adviser of the love-sick spent ten years reading a million letters in which she was told love is an illusion, romance a snare, and marriage the grand finale of any hope of living happy ever after. She was almost convinced. She wrote "What's the Matter With Matrimony?"

And then she married! Married a temperamental opera singer at that—James Wolfe, of the Metropolitan.

That was nearly three years ago.

Now, she confesses, writing in Smart Set magazine, "I'm not so free with advice any more. There are so many exceptions to all rules." And she's still happy enough to call her husband "Mr. Gray Eyes"—right out in print.

"I am a bewailing widow," she says, "the most important thing in marriage is to like the person you love. When he interests you, appeals to you, meets your approval and never makes you ashamed, you're really heading for bliss."

Difference of temperament may be an asset instead of a handicap if both strive patiently to adjust themselves unselfishly, she says.

"Both of us hate to be bored. If we weren't so different. Each of us believes that life is a fifty-fifty proposition. We are not spoiled children; life has disciplined us too well for that. We adjust our desires so that life will offer equal portions.

"Neither of us has a possessive attitude. We leave each other free to do as they please. We may be one in love and one in spirit, but we are still two separate entities. We find that married people can be friends—and everybody needs a friend."

The Bloused Frock in Crepe When the Parisian designers wish to produce a frock with an all 'round appeal mark how invariably they turn to crepe! It adapts itself so gracefully to the slender line—which we must so unflatteringly emphasize, there are draperies to soften the straight silhouette, however, and these are the smartest when they cascade at one side of the skirt. The bloused line likewise is softening—and ever so chic when it is accented at the back, drooping decidedly over the crushed girdle. The importance—and becomingness—of contrasted fabrics is another point of definite style interest. For variety there are intriguing scarf and label arrangements to soften bodice fronts—and the vestee is excellent. Yet the Paris model at its smartest is easily duplicated by the woman clever with the needle! Copyrighted "Fashionable Dress Magazine" January 1927.

How Insecticides Are Applied to Ground Crops

THE revival in dusting, caused by the development of several very satisfactory insecticides in powder form, has caused a great deal of interest among agriculturists. Despite the fact that the conservative growers will continue to use liquid sprays whenever possible, a great number of the more progressive farmers and gardeners have adopted the dusting method without reservation.

For low-growing crops dusting has long been satisfactory. The variety of methods that are practical for the application of powder insecticides has something to do with this.

LEGISLATION FOR THE DAIRYMAN

By W. B. BARNEY
 Legislative Dairy Specialist Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

WITH the knowledge gained by an experience of three or four years in looking after dairy legislation for the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, I have come to the conclusion that the law prohibiting the use of pictures of dairy animals and the use of dairy terms in advertising oleomargarine is a most important piece of legislation.

This law, commonly referred to as the false advertising law, has now been passed in twenty-four states. If it were not of such importance, why such strenuous opposition to it on the part of the oleomargarine manufacturers?

I would have no objection to a clean and open fight by those opposing the false advertising law. I do object to the methods these people have resorted to in trying to prohibit the enactment of this statute.

For the purpose of warning the people in states that may wish to have this law enacted this winter and to show the unfair methods resorted to by the oleomargarine manufacturers, I have brought under my observation during the legislative sessions of Idaho and Indiana in 1924 and 1925. I had this law introduced in Idaho. It passed the senate by a fair majority. It went through the house with a margin of two or three votes. The night of S. O. S. call was sent out to Washington, D. C. The vote was reconsidered the next day and the measure killed.

In Indiana the oleo people were not to be outdone by their western sister states. They first cited a couple of instances brought under my observation during the legislative sessions of Idaho and Indiana in 1924 and 1925. I had this law introduced in Idaho. It passed the senate by a fair majority. It went through the house with a margin of two or three votes. The night of S. O. S. call was sent out to Washington, D. C. The vote was reconsidered the next day and the measure killed.

The public has a right to know what it is buying and should not be deceived by the untruthful statements of oleomargarine manufacturers to their product. Many statements in oleomargarine advertisements lead people to believe it is a dairy product or just as good as butter.

Let it be understood that we are not opposed to the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine if properly labeled and sold on its merits for what it really is.

Oleo has been called by some the "poor man's butter." Unless its sale is properly regulated, it will soon cease to be a poor man's butter. It is a title, as there are innumerable cases where it has been sold as butter, for butter and at the price of butter.

I have it on good authority that this product costs about 12c to 12 1/2c per pound. Is it fair to place it in competition with a much more valuable product costing more than double this price?

Here are some facts which American agriculture should know:

"The dairy industry (23,490,000 milk cows valued at $1,350,877,000, with other dairy stock valued at $1,700,000, including hives and young stock) is the largest consumer and the best market for the surplus products of American farms."

"The dairy industry consumes most of the wheat by-products, most of the hay, corn fodder and ensilage, most of the soiling crops, a large part of the coarse grains, and 65% of the cottonseed meal produced in the United States."

The oleo industry has been depending on the southern or cotton growing states for their support in legislative matters, maintaining that they are entitled to it on account of the amount of their products used in the manufacture of oleomargarine. Since coconut oil has so large an extent taken the place of cottonseed in oleo this situation has been changed.

From the government report I take the following:

"The amount of cottonseed meal used by dairy industry crop year 1925-1926—3,390,000,000 pounds valued at $60,000,000.

"Total amount of cottonseed oil used in oleomargarine for fiscal year 1925-1926, 25,608,000 pounds, valued at $2,560,000.

"The dairy industry buys twenty-three times as much of the products of the cotton plant as the oleomargarine industry buys. Which will you support?"

I would not think this a difficult question for our southern neighbors to decide. Many of the southern states are making a determined effort to get the cotton plant as an important part of their agricultural program. This is especially true since cotton is selling at such a ruinously low figure, cents, of milk produced on our farms last year, exceeds the value of all the "milk" according to Dr. W. Larsen of the United States Department of Agriculture, the farm value, in dollars and gold dollars manufactured in this country since 1886. The value of the milk on the farm was greater than the combined value of the cotton, wheat and pecan crops last year. Dairy products even exceed in value the entire motor industry or the steel industry. The value of all the building erected in all the cities over the country last year is barely equal to the dairy products on the farm. Back of the industry are $200,000 farms and their families."

Is not an industry of this kind entitled to the whole-hearted support of the public?

It is my belief that as a whole the dairy industry gives the public greater value for each dollar they invest in dairy products than in any other of the articles entering into their diet.

Professor E. H. Farrington Resigns

At the completion of 23 years of continuous service, most of the time as head of the department, E. H. Farrington has resigned from the department of dairying at the University of Wisconsin. Professor Farrington became connected with the dairy department in 1904, an associate professor, and six years later was made professor of dairying, a position he held up to the date of his resignation. Professor Farrington was one of the outstanding figures in dairy education in this country, paying particular attention to the factory end of the business.

"If I had the money, dearest," he bemoaned, "we would be married, but I am penniless."

"Don't worry, darling," she cheered him. "I've been saving all the small change that slips out of your pocket on the sofa every night."—The American Legion Weekly.

AMERICAN BANKS TRYING "Friendly Architecture" As Means To Make Their Clients Feel At Home

AMERICAN banks are undergoing a decided change, both in their business methods and in the type of buildings they occupy. To encourage thrift, and the greater use of banking facilities by the general public, important financial houses all over the United States are striving to make their methods less formidable, and to soften the harsh, forbidding atmosphere of their quarters.

According to Frederic C. Hiron, of Denison and Hiron architects, who has been the chief architect of the "Bankers' Trust Company" in Detroit, designed by Smith, Hinchman & Grylls, is a good example of this.

"In interiors also, there is a strong tendency to color, and in the buildings are arranged so as to give a clear, inviting view of the banking room, from the street.

"Other devices are also employed to make the depositor feel at home. In Detroit, for example, the Society Savings building has a cheery, welcoming, fire-place in the public vestibule.

"Beautifully colored terra cotta is being used in many instances to make the exterior more pleasing to clients. The Bankers' Trust Co., in Detroit, designed by Smith, Hinchman & Grylls, is a good example of this.

This modern age puts Camels first

THIS age tried Camels and placed them first. And it was no half-way verdict. Never in the history of smoking was a cigarette given a leadership like Camel has today.

To find why Camels are the favorite, just try them. You will find the perfect fragrance and taste of choice tobaccos, rarely blended. You will experience a mellow mildness that gives endless cigarette enjoyment!

For the choice of the modern age—"Have a Camel!"

Palmy Shawls
Palmy shawls are copies of Persian or Indian shawls. The oriental shawls are made, however, of Asiatic wool or camel's hair, while the Palmy shawls are made of the fine native wool of Scotland.

And He Still Lives
Another two-legged one has been found in the person of William F. Franklin of Washington, D. C., who consumed six dozen oysters at one sitting. He filled in the chinks with crackers, pickles and near beer.

Four-Cent Gas Tax
The state legislature, now in session, has passed a bill raising the gas tax from three to four cents a gallon and the bill will become a law just as soon as it is signed by Governor Baldrige. The proceeds of this tax will go into the general highway fund and will not be apportioned to counties in proportion to the amount of tax collected, as had been hoped for by some. Just how equitable this measure will be remains to be seen. The entire fund being left for apportionment to the discretion of highway authorities may bring about dissatisfaction in some counties where much gasoline is sold.

It is sincerely to be hoped that an equitable distribution will be made and that there will be no cause for dissatisfaction, but there is nearly always room for dissatisfaction where there is no set or fixed percentage of distribution, as has been the case with eastern and western Washington, and in some instances north and south Idaho.

The bill passed the senate with 24 members voting for it, nine against and one absent.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR BRANDING POTATOES

The potato grade and marketing regulations promulgated by A. W. E. Kjosness, former commissioner of agriculture for Idaho, and which were held up by a court injunction, have finally been made effective by a court ruling and are now in full force and effect.

For the benefit of those raising or handling potatoes and who may have overlooked the regulations, they are again published, as follows:

The following information is submitted by the Idaho Department of Agriculture in explanation of the new regulations governing the branding, marking of containers for potatoes which become effective January 1, 1927.

Brands and Marks

U. S. Grade No. 1: New or clean sacks to be used as receptacles in which potatoes graded United States Number One (U. S. No. 1) are to be packed for sale, offered for sale, sold or shipped in the interstate trade, must have stamped thereon in letters at least two inches in height, the following words: Idaho U. S. No. 1 Selected Potatoes.

U. S. Grade No. 2: New or clean sacks to be used for receptacles in which potatoes of grade United States No. Two (U. S. No. 2) are to be packed for sale, offered for sale or sold must have stamped thereon in letters at least two inches in height the following words: Gem State Selected U. S. No. 2.

Cull Potatoes: All cull potatoes packed for sale, offered for sale, or sold in the state of Idaho, shall be placed in new or clean, plain unbranded sacks and marked on the sack "Cull Potatoes" in letters at least two inches in height.

Private Brands: Any other words, designs, or phrase, in addition to the above compulsory wording may be added, stamped or printed upon the container as a private brand. Copies of sample containers showing the above compulsory wording must be sent to the department of agriculture at Boise, Idaho, for approval and registration. Any private brands are acceptable when so approved and registered.

The words "Idaho" or "Selected" may not be used in any of the above brands. The word "Idaho" may be used as a part of an address to designate the location of the packer or shipper.

Containers marked with Idaho official brands must not be used as containers for the shipment of potatoes grown in any other state, such an act would be mis-branding and a violation of the Federal Pure Food and Drug act.

Potatoes grown in Idaho must not be shipped in containers carrying the brands of dealers from other states.

Net Weight: The net weight when packed must be indicated. The words "Net Weight" when packed (weight) must be stamped upon the container or upon a card firmly attached to the container. This applies to all of the grades.

Even Weighted: All containers in any lot or shipment must be of the same weight when filled.

Exception to Even Weight and Net Weight: For early potatoes or potatoes dug between June 1st, and November 1st, the net weight and even weight requirements will not be compulsory.

Mugging: Containers must not be "mugged" or faced with potatoes of superior size or quality than the remainder of the sack. To avoid deception, the potatoes in the face of the container must be representative of the contents of the package.

Sewing: All sacks must be sewn so that the edges of the sack are not more than two inches apart.

Sacks: All sacks in which potatoes are packed for sale, offered for sale or sold must be of cloth or fibre and which are undamaged, rice paddies, or which are released, unbleached, bright undamaged No. 1 Mills.

Tags: Tags upon which the weight is marked shall be of cloth or any other strong material, not less than three and a half (3 1/2) inches by six (6) inches in size.

Suggested Colors for Brands: In order that uniformity of brands may be developed and that the brands may automatically classify the shipments, it is suggested that the words "Idaho Selected U. S. No. 1 Potatoes" be stamped in Blue color and in this order, as this color always indicates "quality" when used as a part of, or as a distinct brand.

With the Number Two grade print or stamp all letters in red.

"Cull potatoes" The wording for this grade should be stamped in black whenever used.

If this custom should be adopted by shippers the trade would soon adopt and recognize the products by the colors of the brands on the sacks.

Have Your Living Room Cozy and Bright

WHEN we move indoors for the winter, we should try to get the warmth and brightness of summer, especially into the living room, where we are likely to spend many hours during the shut-in season.

Colorful paint and fabrics will help to achieve this effect. Attach your dingy walls and woodwork first. A fresh coat of light-tinted paint, such as cream, pale gray or ivory will considerably lighten a dark or dull living room. The wood-trim may match the walls or be done in a slightly deeper shade. The ceiling should be a little lighter than the walls.

Undoubtedly the floor will need attention, to put it in good condition for the winter months. If it is painted floor, a fresh coat will make it look like new. To a great extent the floor makes the room. A shabby, lustreless floor means a shabby lustreless room.

The high lights of your living room may be supplied with touches of bright color here and there. Paint a wooden chair or two, a small table or bureau, sets of shelves or corner brackets for bric-a-brac, some bright, warm color. Where there is a built-in bookcase, paint the space between the shelves some dominant color. Repeat this in the lampshades, rugs, slip-covers and hangings. Accentuate it again in a dainty place. In short, live up your room with color. It will pay, in happiness dividends.

One particularly cozy, delightful living room which comes to mind had its walls and woodwork painted a delicate silver-gray. The floor was painted a deeper tone of gray, verging on taupe. A rich shade of orange, giving the effect of freighting, supplied the dominant color in the built-in bookcase, the interior of which was painted a rich tangerine. The gorgeous wall-pieces in orange, black and gold glowed above the mantel. The chintz window-drawers, the slip-covers for the

NITROGEN PROVIDES FOR PERMANENT PRODUCTION

By S. C. VANDEGAVEVE
Experiment Station Bacteriologist, Washington State College

ONE of the greatest assets of any nation is the fertility of its land. The soil produces the plants that serve as food for the animal kingdom. With all that modern science has been able to do to substitute for plants or plant products has yet been discovered the richest source of food for man and animal species, nor is there an indication that any will be discovered in many years to come. It was the great Liebig, the father of agricultural chemistry, who said that of all the industrial pursuits agriculture is the richest in facts and the poorest in comprehension. Agriculture is complicated, new facts are discovered slowly, but progress is steadily moving forward. Three-quarters of a century ago very little was known about the elements that make up the plants. At present it is known definitely that corn may well be produced for the growth of any plant. These ten elements are like links in a chain. If one is weakened by wear the chain is weakened proportionately. No chain is stronger than its weakest link. The ever decreasing crop yields following the practice of intensive agriculture and crop production systems have proved this repeatedly even on the most fertile soils. The numerous barren stretches of once fertile land all over the civilized world offer undeniable evidence of this fact. Yet the process is going on and on in very much the same old way in spite of the remedies now at our command. The time has come to make of these remedies in a systematic and practical way.

We know that nitrogen is one of the weakest links in the chain of plant life in many soils, but by some peculiar freak of nature it is present in inexhaustible quantities in the air. However, plants cannot draw on this supply directly. It is here that the discoveries of science can be made. Less than 40 years ago it was discovered that a certain family of plants actually possessed peculiar formations on their roots. These formations were called nodules. At first they were thought to be indications of some disease, but upon closer study they were found to contain millions of bacteria that were able to draw nitrogen from the air and pass it on to these plants. The system of operation is one of intense specialization in which plants, nodules and bacteria must cooperate. The plants are the consumers, and the nodules constitute the factories, and the bacteria serve as laborers. It is known to be only one family is known to be capable of functioning under this system. It is called the legume family and includes all the clovers, alfalfa, sweet clovers, peas, vetches, beans and cowpeas. These are sometimes called the soil builders, and justly so, for in cooperation with the nodules and the nodule bacteria they can make use of the free atmospheric nitrogen and save that which is in the soil for future crops. When the nodule bacteria work at their maximum efficiency they may supply more nitrogen from the air than the legumes can use and so add to the supply in the soil. This is one of the reasons that better crops of cereals and roots are often secured after legume crops have been plowed under. In addition to this certain legumes such as alfalfa and sweet clover have a voluminous root system which penetrates deep into the soil, keeping it in a porous, open condition, permitting air to penetrate freely. Furthermore, these roots form a dense network preventing erosion or washing of the soil during heavy rains. When the fields are plowed these decaying roots supply abundant food for the millions of bacteria necessary to make new plant food for future crops. The soil is not the inert, dead mass sometimes spoken of, but is teeming with bacterial life and must be kept so to conserve its productivity. Another factor which must not be overlooked is that the decaying roots and stubbles of legumes leave a black substance called humus which keeps the soil in a mulchy condition and prevents excessive evaporation of moisture during dry seasons.

These are some of the benefits derived from legume crops. Incidentally it should not be overlooked that they are good cash crops or that they can be used profitably as cattle feed in the form of hay or pasture. Is there any reason why they should not be taken on any farm? Sometimes it is argued that they are difficult to grow on many soils. The reasons are clear; as it has been pointed out that a cooperative system is essential to grow them successfully, the farmer and laborer to supply them with food. In other words, nodules and legume bacteria must be on their roots to give them the free atmospheric nitrogen. Nature has placed these nodule bacteria in certain soils and not in others. Just like all the other plants in the soil, some soils and not in others. But like most plants they can be introduced.

There are two methods by which this can be done satisfactorily. The old method consists in taking some soil from a well inoculated field and scattering it on the field to be planted. This is a laborious task, and the soils associated with danger of introducing plant diseases in the new fields. The new method is to inoculate the seed just before planting it with laboratory cultures of the proper nodule bacteria. This is successful, convenient and inexpensive. It eliminates the cost of labor and the danger of spreading plant diseases. When laboratory cultures were first on the market the results were not always uniform in all soils. The fundamental cause of this was that the bacteria in the laboratory cultures were more diverse and adverse soil conditions. The bacteriologists soon learned that the nodule bacteria have very much like plants and must be adapted to adverse conditions by selection of special strains. In a concrete example, during the last 25 years the corn belt has been extended 300 miles to the north. Corn is now matured successfully in regions where our fathers and grandfathers never thought it would ever have the slightest chance to grow. Careful selection of special strains to overcome adverse conditions tells the story. And so it is with the nodule bacteria. Successful inoculations are now the rule. There may yet be occasional exceptions in certain peculiar soil types in Western Washington where the cultivation of legumes is new and untried. Some of the results in trying to establish alfalfa fields there have been rather discouraging.

A year ago this situation was brought to the attention of the Bacteriology Division of the experiment station at the State College. Immediately steps were taken to find a solution. Scores of nodule bacteria were isolated in the laboratory and carefully tested for their efficiency in nodule production under various adverse conditions. About a dozen of the most promising strains giving uniform results in all the laboratory and greenhouse tests were finally tried out in the field in Western Washington. The field selected was one in which inoculated alfalfa seed had been planted for three consecutive years without alfalfa or a single nodule on any of the plants. On the same field plots were seeded again with alfalfa. The seed on each plot was inoculated with a laboratory culture of one of these carefully selected strains of nodule bacteria. When the young alfalfa nodules were ready to be examined, the results were most interesting. One of the three strains had produced nodules at all. Two out of these three showed a few nodules on widely scattered plants, but the third one was a good example of a thoroughly inoculated crop. These crops are soil builders; they conserve nitrogen; they prevent erosion; they secure good air circulation in the soil; they provide organic matter for the bacterial population which is the agency responsible for new plant food. The alfalfa is scheduled in advance for something definite and good. Personal efficiency and hard work are his job hobbies, and it was through his belief that his own example of efficiency would do good in the world if widely known that he consented to allow Thomas B. Moore, manager of the United Press, to publish his personal habits, after the following is quoted: "After arising in the morning and shaving, Mussolini tells of his breakfast: 'I go then fully attired wearing my riding breeches to breakfast. It is what I call breakfast. I wonder sometimes what an Englishman or an American or a German would call it, and what he would do with such a breakfast as mine. There is no fruit, no tea, ham and eggs, breakfast food or anything which would typify the modern breakfast. There is even no coffee, for I do not drink coffee in any form—it is not a food, it is disastrous for brain workers. My breakfast simply consists of a glass of milk and a matter of one minute. I drink it at the table in small gulps so that it may be properly salivated. 'Milk is a wonderful food, perhaps the best food known to man. This one glass of milk contains enough nourishment to sustain me until the mid-day meal six hours hence. It is always taken when I am alone, for I am not a great lover of company at table. The greatest honor I can be bestowed upon anyone is to invite them to lunch. I would even be honored for my own brother. Ceira, my servant, puts the milk on the table and then withdraws. She is 40 and silent, uncommunicative. 'It is 7:30 and I am ready to take my morning center.'"

Silverwood Diana 82940 World's Record Guernsey

The recently completed record of 20,064.4 pounds of milk and 974.3 pounds of butterfat made by Silverwood Diana 82940 makes her the world's highest producing Guernsey cow in class AA. She began her test career at 18 months of age and carried a calf for 281 days of the testing year. This great cow is owned by William H. Williams of Lyon Mountain, N. Y., and was bred by S. H. Fessenden of Holliston, Mass.

She is the fifth cow of the breed to produce over 10 tons of milk in a year, and she displaces the former world's champion in this class by just six pounds of butterfat. Incidentally, the former champion is Golden Coronet of Jean Du Luth 81283, her own stablemate.

Diana averaged a ton of milk a month for her first six months, and her highest day's milking was 76.5 pounds. She is the mother of five daughters, of which one is on test, two more will be tested at their next freshening, and another was junior champion female at the 1926 Eastern States Exposition.

Kittitas County Dairymen's Association showed an increase in business during 1926 of $39,411 over that of 1925. The rapid growth of the business of this young cooperative makes it necessary to increase the capital stock from $25,000 to 50,000, and to that end a committee was appointed by President G. McNeil, consisting of W. D. Bruton, Albert Johnson, S. P. Whipple, Walter Ronald, and Victor Stevens to consider the question. Secretary L. L. Sharp's report showed that during 1926, butterfat totaling 654,451 pounds had been received and the annual business amounted to $296,608. Dan C. Bates is the manager, and Grace C. Smith assistant manager.

Historic Long-Horn Cattle to Be Preserved

That the longhorns, or Spanish breed of cattle, once so numerous in the Southwest, may be preserved from complete extinction, the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, has announced. Plans are being made to preserve the breed in Oklahoma, according to an announcement made today by Col. W. B. Greeley, chief forester. The agricultural appropriation bill signed by President Coolidge on January 17 carries an item for their purchase and maintenance.

The department has for several years urged the necessity for a small herd of these picturesque examples of early pioneer life of the Southwest for the benefit and education of future generations interested in pioneer history. The longhorn is one of the few breeds of cattle that were introduced into the United States from Europe. It is a descendant of the longhorn cattle of the Iberian Peninsula, and is a smaller one of green and gold silk. Two wooden chairs were painted jade green, and the cushions of their rush-bottom seats done in dull orange. On the mahogany writing-desk stood a single jade green vase. The rug was the longest, severest winter in a room so full of firelight, charm and coziness.

If it is not practicable to change the entire color scheme of your living room, live it up with a few deft touches. The gray painting of a chair or a table, a wood-box or a wastebasket will add a note of cheer. For this purpose select one of the outstanding colors in the rug or drapes, or match one bright-hued cushion. You will be charmed at the results. You will want to keep on until the uninteresting transformed room is completely transformed.

Seeks to Amend the Dairy Law

S. B. No. 156, by Committee on Dairy and Livestock now on general file before Washington State Legislature would amend the code relating to the manufacture and sale of dairy products. Among changes sought it would consider as a dairy the place from which the milk from one cow is sold. The present law requires two or more cows to constitute a dairy; it would raise the minimum per cent of milk fat in cream, and in all kinds of ice cream from 8 to 10 per cent, and the allowable per cent of combined milk fats and solids is raised from 18 to 20 per cent. The term "unlabeled" as used in the present statute (for there is no such word in the English language) is changed to "misbranded" makes it specifically unlawful to sell milk or dairy products from a closed or an insanitary dairy; requires in the pasteurization process the heating of milk to at least 145 degrees Fahrenheit for a period of 30 minutes instead of twenty-five minutes and the cooling in a separate tank and container other than that in which it is pasteurized; requires the character of bottles and paillettes used in measuring milk for making determinations of the fat percentage; prescribing penalties for testing and prescribing penalties for deceitful testing; provides for the licensing of weights and graders; extending the penalty of failing to brand cheese to all retailers; pasteurized milk containing in excess of 25,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter is considered unlawful; bottling regulations, which formerly applied to first and second class grades, are extended to the entire state; puts the duty of returning branded containers to the rightful owners on the person receiving product therein, and defining standard milk which may be sold in cities of the first class as not containing over 100,000 bacteria count, instead of 400,000 as at present, and making permissible 11.75 per cent of total milk solids instead of 12 per cent as at present, and reducing milk solids fat from 8.75 to 8.50 per cent.

The Cowitz-Clark Dairymen's Association has resolved to furnish the Riverfront Dairy of Portland, Oregon, with fresh milk. The milk is to be paid for on a butterfat basis, the price ranging from 7 cents to 15 cents above sour cream prices, according to the season for the milk delivered in Portland. A clause in the contract specifies that payments shall be based on the association's tests.

At the recent annual meeting of the life members of the Pacific Slope Dairy Show Association, held at Oakland, California, 25 directors were elected, all of three being re-elected. Dr. C. L. Roodhouse, chief of the Dairy Division, University of California, was again chosen president of the association, and Robert E. Jones was retained as secretary-manager. No dates were announced for the 1927 show, but it was said that it will be held during November of this year.

Have Your Living Room Cozy and Bright

WHEN we move indoors for the winter, we should try to get the warmth and brightness of summer, especially into the living room, where we are likely to spend many hours during the shut-in season.

Colorful paint and fabrics will help to achieve this effect. Attach your dingy walls and woodwork first. A fresh coat of light-tinted paint, such as cream, pale gray or ivory will considerably lighten a dark or dull living room. The wood-trim may match the walls or be done in a slightly deeper shade. The ceiling should be a little lighter than the walls.

Undoubtedly the floor will need attention, to put it in good condition for the winter months. If it is painted floor, a fresh coat will make it look like new. To a great extent the floor makes the room. A shabby, lustreless floor means a shabby lustreless room.

The high lights of your living room may be supplied with touches of bright color here and there. Paint a wooden chair or two, a small table or bureau, sets of shelves or corner brackets for bric-a-brac, some bright, warm color. Where there is a built-in bookcase, paint the space between the shelves some dominant color. Repeat this in the lampshades, rugs, slip-covers and hangings. Accentuate it again in a dainty place. In short, live up your room with color. It will pay, in happiness dividends.

One particularly cozy, delightful living room which comes to mind had its walls and woodwork painted a delicate silver-gray. The floor was painted a deeper tone of gray, verging on taupe. A rich shade of orange, giving the effect of freighting, supplied the dominant color in the built-in bookcase, the interior of which was painted a rich tangerine. The gorgeous wall-pieces in orange, black and gold glowed above the mantel. The chintz window-drawers, the slip-covers for the

Birthday Party
The home of Mrs. Henry Hanson was the scene of a very pleasant gathering Monday afternoon when a few relatives and friends gathered to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary.

The afternoon was spent visiting and at 4:30 delicious refreshments were served, including a birthday cake.

Those present during the afternoon were Mesdames Sam Lange, Arthur Hove, Nels Lando, G. A. Bumpas and Arthur Hampton. Numerous friends also called in the evening to extend congratulations.

The hostess received several nice presents as mementos of the occasion.

Paul Johann, Bill Borgen and Frank Kluss were in town Tuesday.

The large double culvert near the J. W. Mosman place has been repaired enough to accommodate traffic again. The washout was filled with rock, obtained nearby.

J. W. Mosman dragged the roads on Tuesday. It would help considerably if all the roads would be smoothed over and the water drained off. It is next to impossible to travel on some of them.

For Saturday evening, March 5, at the Hotel theater, the feature picture will be "Tom and His Pals," with Tom Tyler in the principal role.

See boards in front of theater for further information.

"The Country Beyond"
On Sunday night, March 6, the big picture will be James Oliver Curwood's "The Country Beyond," with a splendid cast.

When we think of James Oliver Curwood, we naturally think of the great north woods. In this picture, however, we not only have a thrilling picture of the big outdoors, but also an alluring drama of Broadway night life, replete with fascinating femininity—a gripping romance of love and adventure—extending from "the great white way" in New York city to the wilds of the Canadian Northwest.

"When the Wife's Away"
The feature film at the Hotel theater for Wednesday night, March 9, will be "When the Wife's Away," and it's one of the funniest pictures you have witnessed in many a day. It is the story of an old "gink" who is inclined to be quite sporty and his wife is right on his trail all the time. You'll like it.

The Linger Longers were delightfully entertained by Mrs. George Post at her home in the eastern part of town Wednesday afternoon. The invited guests were Mrs. E. W. Vanouck, Mrs. Clyde Meyer, Mrs. N. M. Leavitt, Mrs. H. Morscheck, Mrs. Nels Liberg and Mrs. Lars Liberg.

Leon Peterson Making Good
The following was taken from "The Aramaz," a publication put out by the Associated Students of Spokane College:
"The solo numbers played by Leon Peterson at the Musical Arts Society last Tuesday were acclaimed by the audience in a way that was a real credit to Mr. Peterson."
"Mr. Peterson has been on the incline for several years in both solo and orchestra directing work and his appearance before the Musical Arts Society is only another recognition of the splendid work that he is doing."
"Mr. Peterson is violin instructor at Spokane College. He is quite well and favorably known here and his friends will indeed be glad to learn of his success in his chosen profession."

CHANGING TIMES
Manifested in Inner Kitchens of Modern Hotel Kitchens

Until very recently cooking on a large scale in the Western states was almost entirely in the hands of Oriental labor.

Today, the chef is a professional man; one of high technical training, fully conversant with the chemistry of foods.

The Raymond Hotel Cafe Kitchen (Lewiston) is now in charge of such a chef who, with his staff of six trained WHITE MEN and WOMEN is serving food to the Lewiston public.

The English Family Heard From Friends in Genesee have recently received an interesting letter from Miss Wilma English, from Sprague, Wash., where the family removed last fall, except from which follow:
"We are now quite well settled in our new home and city. We like it here fine; however, we miss our old Genesee friends.

The weather here has been lovely the past week. About a month ago the weather was quite cold, but not so cold as it has been there. It was only 12 below zero here, when your thermometers registered 20 below.

We have a nice little store here and business is very good. We have been busy all the time. During the Christmas season business was quite rushing.

Mr. Aherin stopped in for a short visit several days ago and told us some of the Genesee news.

For all you folks who fish and hunt, Sprague is an ideal place. In December there were 32 carloads of catfish shipped from Sprague Lake, which is two miles west of us. There are also a great many catfish, crappies, and bass caught there. There is a great deal of hunting of ducks, Chinese and Hungarian pheasants during the fall of the year.

The ice on the lake is fine for skating. During the cold weather the N. P. people shipped from 100 to 118 carloads of ice daily, it being 12 inches thick.

Sprague lake is a beautiful place for tourists and campers to spend their vacation.

The school here is good and it has a large gymnasium. There are six high school teachers and about 94 high school students.

Whenever any of you folks go to Spokane, or are over this way, we would be glad to have you drop in and see us.

Snake River to Be Improved
According to information coming from Lewiston further assurance has been received that the Snake river above Lewiston will be improved, the word coming from United States Senator Frank R. Gooding, who is cooperating with Congressman Burton L. French.

According to information there is a fund available for clearing the channel as far up as Johnson's Bar, 110 miles from Lewiston, and it is now desired to extend the improvement as far as Eagle Rock, 20 miles above the Bar, but this work, which will be difficult, will require an appropriation, it is said.

The news of the government's intention to improve the channel, which is a definite one easy to clear as far as Johnson's Bar, is hailed with delight by the settlers at the 42 points served on the mail and freight route by gasoline boats. As soon as the stream reaches to its lowest level the work will start, Congressman French advised.

BAILEY'S GARDEN HOME IS BEAUTIFUL PLACE

Of the many beautiful homes for which Lewiston Orchards is becoming noted, none attracts more attention of the passer-by than the Drop-In, the garden home of R. G. Bailey, flower grower, chicken fancier and Lewiston printer. Mr. Bailey is one of the original settlers on the Lewiston Orchards project when it was in the making, more than 18 years ago.

About six years ago Mr. Bailey built at his present location a handsome bungalow and began the systematic beautification of the grounds. Buying in local and foreign markets, wherever flowers or shrubs of unusual merit could be obtained, Mr. Bailey has succeeded in producing a bewildering array of color which holds the attention of passers-by from the time the snow leaves the ground in the spring until hard freezing in late fall. Frequently he has many flowers in bloom even so late as Christmas.

"The Drop-In" is purely an amateur garden, as the flower end of the business has never been conducted for profit. There is probably no privately owned collection of flowers and shrubbery in the Lewiston country equaling in numbers that at Do-Drop-In. At the Lewiston Orchards in June this place was awarded the first prize for the greatest number of plants growing in one privately owned garden.

There are at the present time several thousands of plants in his plot. The display of hybrid delphiniums from the garden made at the last rose show was gorgeous, and even rival exhibitors pronounced it the most wonderful collection ever gotten together in the valley.

Of late years Mr. Bailey has given a great deal of attention to the growing of the better and latest introductions of gladioli. Incidentally, the American Gladioli society in national convention has gone on record as favoring the pronunciation of gladioli with the accent on the third syllable. That is, on the "gla." They also favor and have pledged themselves to use gladioli as both the singular and plural form, doing away entirely with the gladioli and gladioluses and the many abortive ways recent years have witnessed the pronunciation.

Mr. Bailey grows many thousands of gladioli each year at Do-Drop-In, dozens of them the creations of the world's best growers. Several of them are varieties which within the past three years have been introduced by the originators at prices ranging from $50 to $100 per bulb. The price soon drop to from $10 to $25 per bulb, to remain steadily at these prices until something comes along which appeals to the fancier as of superior merit, when favorites drop to the standard price. All the popular favorites, which have stood the test of time may be seen at Do-Drop-In during the growing season and these gladioli constitute a whole show within themselves.

Visitors are always welcomed at the Bailey gardens and it is certainly a pleasure for every passing motorist, which has the opportunity of seeing this attractive, homey place to do as the name implies—"Do-Drop-In."

Need Paved Highway
Guy G. Harvey, district engineer of the Washington highway department, writing to Charles F. Bennett, Lewiston, advises the conditions of the highway between Sprague and the Idaho line justifies the comments reaching his office. "The traffic is entirely too heavy for the worn-out condition of the road," Engineer Harvey states, "and the real solution is paving, if such can be secured."

Between Pullman and the Idaho line, Mr. Harvey writes, the state highway department expects to resurface this season; also reconstruct and resurface between Colfax and Pullman, and resurface between Rosalia and Spangle, which will be a marked improvement.

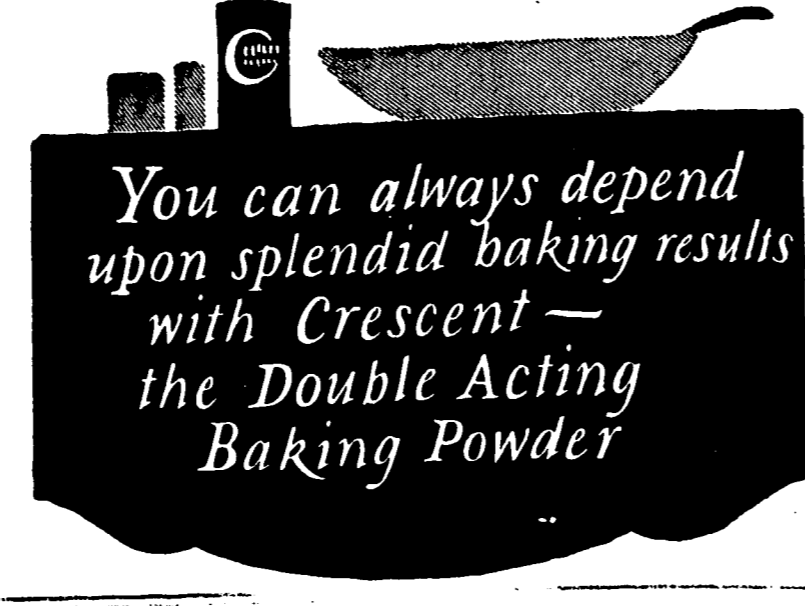

Weather permitting, the blades for smoothing the surface on the highways are working, frost conditions preventing frequently at this season of the year, and the work has also been hampered by rains, making it impossible to smooth the present surfaces and remedy the worn-out stretches, says the Lewiston Tribune.

Priced According to Age
The proud father was extolling the womanly virtue of his daughters to the young man who had called.

"Near will they be married to their husbands," the father added. "There's Mary, who is 25. She'll get $1,000 when she marries. And Betty, just past 35, she will have $3,000. And the man who takes Eliza, who is 40, gets $5,000."

"You haven't got a daughter about 50 or so, have you?" asked the young man, after reflecting a moment.

Never Been Used

A Valuable Invention
It is said that one of our enterprising young countrymen has made application for a patent on an electric contrivance that will save him a world of worry about who will take care of old "Bossy" while he is out looking after other matters. He has fixed a contrivance whereby an electric motor is fastened on the cow's back, electricity being generated by a dynamo attached to the cow's tail. It milks the cow, strains the milk, hangs up the pail and the strainer. A small phonograph accompanies the outfit and yells "So, Bossy," about every so often, or, if necessary, when the cow moves or the flies are bad. If she kicks, a hinged arm catches a milk stool and lams her over the back, to make her think she is being properly cared for and that no jokes are being played on her.

This contrivance will undoubtedly be a great boon to the farmer and it is understood they will be manufactured on a large scale just as soon as arrangements are completed.

Advance-Rumely Combine Harvesters Hillside and Prairie Types

For over seventy years Advance-Rumely threshing machinery has been building its wonderful reputation for big capacity, thorough, fast, clean work, ease of operation, freedom from repairs, and long life.

In designing the Advance-Rumely Combine Harvesters this reputation was not forgotten. These same qualities were built into the machines, and in arriving at this design the threshing principles that have been worked out in nearly three-quarters of a century of field and factory experience were built into them.

POWER DRIVEN LEVELING DEVICE
The leveling of the machine on the uneven ground is made simple and easy and is accomplished by using the power of the combine motor.

EASY RUNNING
The liberal use of ball and roller bearings throughout the machine reduces friction to a minimum and greatly reduces the amount of power required, both to drive the cutting and threshing mechanism and to move the machine on the ground.

STEEL HEADER
The Hillside machine is regularly supplied with a sixteen-foot steel header. Twelve-foot header can be furnished when desired and a two-foot extension can be supplied for either length.

ZERK LUBRICATION
Lubrication has been simplified and improved to a very great extent by the use of high-pressure fittings at all important points. Each machine carries a Zerks gun as standard equipment and practically all bearings are fitted with dust-proof Zerks fittings to suit their particular location. It is but the work of a moment to apply the gun and force in fresh grease. This forces out the old grease and assures positive lubrication.

SAFETY CLUTCHES PREVENT BREAKS
The driven sprockets at various points in the machine are equipped with safety slip clutches. The purpose of this clutch being to prevent breakage should any serious obstruction be encountered.

Scotch and English
Four separate wrecks had cast up four men on a lonely island of the South Seas. There were two Scotchmen and two Englishmen. After several years a passing steamer hove to and took the four men aboard. Standing on the beach they organized a Cal and Donald found their way to the skipper's cabin and in telling their experiences Sandy said: "It would grieve you, mon, to see the Englishmen. Congregational Aid Meeting
The ladies aid of the Congregational church held a very interesting meeting in the basement of the church Wednesday afternoon, when 50 were present.

The church basement was tastefully decorated with pussy willows and arranged by the hostesses, Mrs. Con. Steltz and Mrs. W. M. Herman. There was plenty of work and choice refreshments were served by the ladies.

The entertainment feature was a darky chorus entitled The Uniontown Grand Opera Company. It made a decided hit.

Plans were made for the holding of the annual Easter bazaar.

Better Watch Your Load
While the highways are in fair condition, it is evident that the highway authorities intend to keep them that way—and rightly they should. The 5000-pound limit of loads, including vehicle, is being enforced to the letter, only last week two trucks belonging to the Lewiston-Spokane truck lines were fined $50 each for two separate offenses, one load being 2,200 pounds overweight and the other 1,200 pounds overweight.

Under the law the district engineer has the right to close the highways and keep them closed so long as necessity requires for the protection of the highways, so when starting out with your truck, see to it that your load and vehicle, combined, weighs no more than 5,000 or you will undoubtedly have the privilege of paying for the overload.

New All-White Duco Finish THOR Electric Washers Built to Last a Lifetime

BEAUTIFUL DUCO
The new Thor is finished in white Duco—the same wonderful lacquer now used on better quality automobiles.

NO OILING
This is a wonderful feature of the new Thor. An automatic pump keeps all moving parts bathed in oil. This forced oil feed is so effective yet so simple that expert mechanics need no other proof of Thor greatness.

CYLINDER NEED NEVER BE LIFTED OUT
The new Thor cleans itself. No dirt, soap or grease can possibly cling to the patented luminoid cylinder.

It is self rinsing in 30 seconds.

Clothes are always washed in the upper clean water and suds. Please remember "the cylinder need never be lifted out."

FAST
The new Thor "8" and "8" are speeded up 25 per cent. The cylinder reverses every quarter of a minute—runs 15 seconds in one direction—then 15 seconds in reverse direction.

MOST SANITARY
Dirt settles through the cylinder and is collected in a dirt trap on the bottom of the tub.

WHAT HAPPENED HERE TWENTY YEARS AGO

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. D. Nebelsick on Thursday of this week. Mrs. Harley Smith was taken to Moscow Saturday, where on Sunday at the hospital in that city, she underwent a surgical operation. The operation was very successful and Mrs. Smith is recovering nicely.
During the past week we have made extensive inquiries among the farmers regarding the condition of the winter wheat. Not a one has given an adverse report. All agree that the prospects for a bumper yield were never better.
With a roar that could be heard for miles and which startled people out of their sleep, says a Lewiston dispatch of last Thursday, an 80 acre field of pasture land sank 150 feet below the surface of the ground three miles from the mouth of the Grand Ronde river Thursday night. Parties arriving on the scene, which is 21 miles above Lewiston, state that the ground is still settling. In the vicinity of the fault, the ground is of peculiar geographical formation, being banked on the Snake river side by a strata of basalt, while the other side is composed of limestone. The theory is that a subterranean cavern existed beneath and the unusually wet weather has caused slipping. The sides left by the sink are almost perpendicular.

A Chill Supper
Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Isakson entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ira Larkin and son, Perry, the McCreary family and Miss Irene Mulajay at a chill supper Monday evening—but Ira swears there was nothing "chilly" about the chill—after which a very interesting pinocchio session was held and a real "hot" time was had all around.

The Springs Club
The ladies of the Springs club met at the home of Mrs. C. H. Flomer Wednesday afternoon and a very enjoyable time was spent. At 4:30 a splendid luncheon was served by the hostess.

SEMI-LOCAL NEWS CLIP. PEPED FROM EXCHANGES

An Unwelcome Visitor
The clerks at the Haupt Supply store had an unexpected and unwelcome visitor Saturday when they found a small tarantula in a bunch of bananas that just came in. The intruder was small and somewhat stupefied by the cold, but was not wanted just the same. He is now pickled for preservation, Lambert Thommas having taken charge of him.—Colton News-Letter.

Got Four Cougars
Summer Stonebraker returned from the Priest Lake region Thursday where he had been for several weeks hunting cougar and giding in taking moving pictures of cougar hunting. He got four of the animals and some good views. He had along a couple of new dogs which he had purchased at Sides and states that they worked fine.—Tribune (Orofino).

Draws Stiff Sentence
Dale Gamble, 23, Moscow, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail and to pay a fine of $200 by Judge E. C. Steele of the district court here on a charge of transportation of intoxicating liquor.

Ray Morse, also of Moscow, arrested with Gamble, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and to pay a fine of $150. Both men waived preliminary hearing and were bound over to the district court last Tuesday.

They were arrested Sunday afternoon by the sheriff's office just over the Idaho line with a closed car, containing 18 gallons of illicit liquor. Officials had been warned that the car was headed to Moscow from Spokane and made the arrest on the Pullman road shortly after 1 o'clock.—Star-Mirror.

Much Stock Shipped
Cottonwood upheld its reputation as a shipping station again this week by sending out several carloads of livestock on the regular Tuesday morning train. The shipments consisted of two double-deck cars of hogs, two of cattle and one of baby beef. The hogs were sold by the Farmers Union to Ben Shaw who shipped them to Carson & Co. at Tacoma and numbered 305 head. The price paid netted the farmers $11.50 per hundred pounds. The cattle were shipped by Geoff Eckert and Henry Schmidt to Spokane and were some of their own raising and feeding, aside from a few head belonging to Alois Wambhoff which were included in the shipment. Messrs. Eckert and Schmidt accompanied the shipment to Spokane where the cattle were disposed of to butchers and packers in that city.

The shipment of baby beef was secured by E. S. Sweet, of Grangeville, from Ed. Eckman, of this place, and comprised part of a carload, the balance being filled out further down the line. The price paid for this shipment was not made public, but it is said to have been a nice figure as the young calves were in fine shape and a choice lot.—Cottonwood Chronicle.

Cars In Collision
As Walter Kleweno and family and Wm. Vanhorn were coming from Moscow on the highway last Friday afternoon, and as they were coming around one of the curves on Paradise hill, about six miles south of Moscow, they were met by a Buick sedan coming from the opposite direction. Mr. Kleweno made an effort to turn out, but his car was caught a little back of the center by the Buick and nearly demolished and the Buick suffered a broken front wheel, a sprung axle, sprung frame and sunshine chase cracked and the two had to be towed back to Moscow for repairs. None of the occupants of either car were hurt, nothing worse than a severe jaw and shock happening to any of them.

The Buick car was being driven by a Miss Odum and was said to belong in Lewiston.

Sure Enough March Weather
Without looking at the calendar most anyone could tell that this is March by the variety of weather that is almost daily being dished up to us. Warm, rain and sunshine chase each other so closely that one hardly has time to prepare for one until the other is upon them. Anyway, it's a sign of spring—and that helps some.

Regardless of the fact that we may have no summer, we are going to have spring, for it says so on the calendar and in the almanac, and we believe they know as much about it as the man who predicted a year without a summer—which is getting to be an annual prediction these times.

Some "Cackle" Berry
We know good and well we have on the Kendrick Gazette this time, for we have an egg, produced on the Arthur Hampton farm and is said to have been laid by one of his late pullets. The "berry" measured 7 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches. If Kendrick has anything to cackle about, let them produce it.

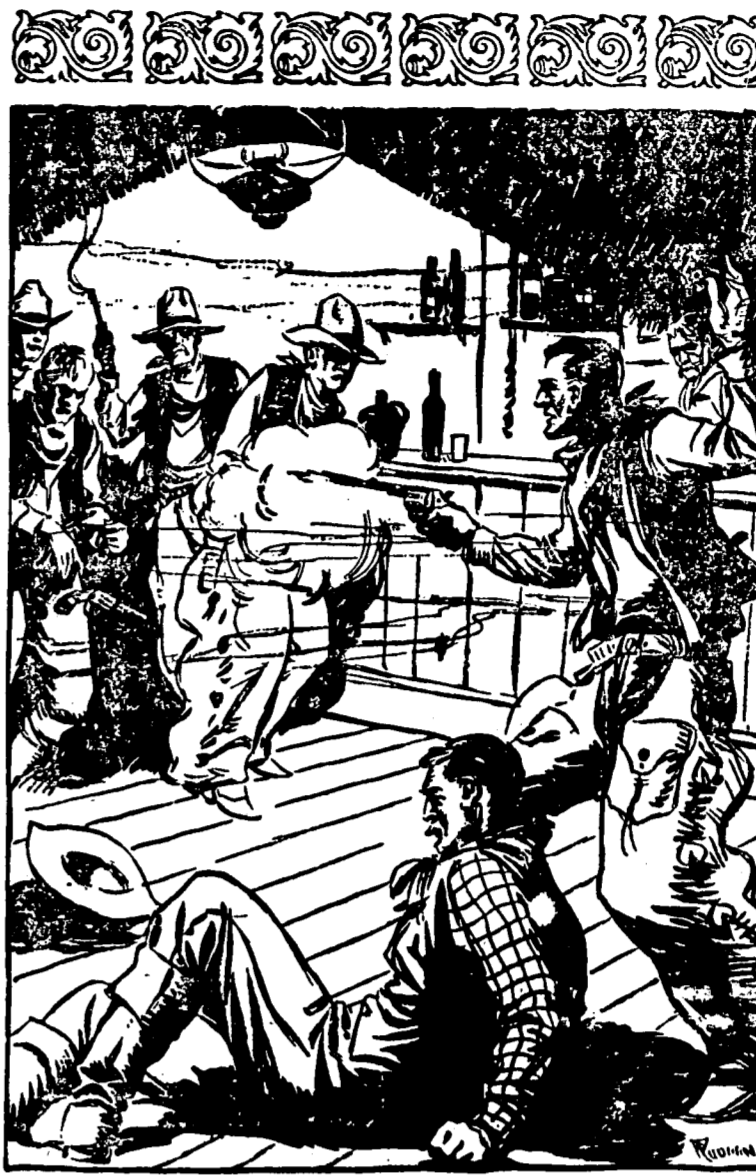

Painting Interior
The Smolt confectionery has this week been receiving a new coat of paint on the interior, which adds very materially to the appearance of the room.

The Altar Society
The Altar society of St. Mary's church will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Theo. Schlueter on Tuesday, March 22. A pick-up lunch will be served.

Parents of a Daughter
Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson are the parents of a 12-pound baby daughter, born Thursday morning, March 17. Mother and babe are doing nicely.

Marriage Licenses Slow
The marriage license business at the county seat has been rather slow so far this year, only two having been issued so far this month and only 17 have been issued so far this year against 25 issued during the same time last year, making a shortage of four for the first two weeks of March and eight during the first two and a half months.

The Linger Longers
The Linger Longers and a few invited guests were very pleasantly entertained by Mrs. Milton Rader at her home Wednesday afternoon.

State Gas Probe Is On
Plans for investigating the price of gasoline in Idaho have been launched and the machinery is already in motion, the last legislature having voted $2500 for the purpose of "investigating" whether gasoline purchasers of this state are being discriminated against.

If the "investigation" amounts to as much as most investigations that are ordered by states and congress then the $2500 is gone the thing will be at an end. Just how they figured that the consumers of Idaho are being discriminated against is hard to tell for gasoline is the same price here as in Washington or any other state in the west, freight and haulage being taken into consideration.

Indians Get Large Sum
The per capita payment of $7000 authorized by the government to be made to the 1400 members of the Nez Perce tribe has been completed, this being money from the sale of timber on tribal lands. Seven hundred adult men and women had disbursed to them $22,000, and $45,000 is held in the agency for monthly distribution to the parents or guardians of minor children and to the incompetent, totaling 700. This is probably the last payment to the Nez Perce that they will ever receive from the government.

The marriage license business at the county seat has been rather slow so far this year, only two having been issued so far this month and only 17 have been issued so far this year against 25 issued during the same time last year, making a shortage of four for the first two weeks of March and eight during the first two and a half months.

ESTIMATES WILL BE GIVEN ON POTATO STORAGE WAREHOUSE

At a meeting of the Farmers union last Saturday a committee was appointed to investigate the probable cost of the erection of a suitable potato storage house, and that committee has announced that it will be ready to submit a report and estimates on the probable cost of such a building at the regular meeting of the union to be held in the Legion hall on Saturday afternoon, March 19, and urge that every member of the union be present, and get particulars the committee have gotten together.

All farmers and others interested in storage for the coming year should be present. Those who are not members of the union can join and thus reap the benefits of such an organization as is proposed. The committee estimates that the probable cost of a building of this size will be about $100,000.

Stocks of wheat on farms and in country mills and elevators on March 1 were about 40,000,000 bushels larger than on March 1 a year ago. Stocks on farms are estimated to have been about 130,000,000 bushels or 30,000,000 bushels more than last year. This supply of wheat during the week ending March 12, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States department of agriculture. Prices in both domestic and foreign markets declined 1c to 2c per bushel during the week. The demand for feed grains was improved. While the supply of corn, oats, and barley for the remainder of the crop year is much smaller than at this time last year, the large stocks of corn and of oats in commercial channels continued to be a weakening factor and prices worked slightly lower.

The outstanding feature in the foreign market situation during the week was the sharp increase in exports from Australia, which totaled about 6,000,000 bushels. This together with nearly 6,000,000 bushels from Argentina, and about 15,000,000 bushels more for export than last year.

The heavy imports are being readily absorbed and are apparently moving directly into the millers' hands as port stocks in the United Kingdom are about a half million bushels less than at the first of the year. Argentine wheat was quoted in Liverpool at the close of the week at $1.50 per bushel, compared with $1.55 for United States hard winter wheat and $1.71 1/2 for Canadian wheat. Purchases by Liverpool importers of three cargoes of Argentina wheat afloat were reported at prices equivalent to $1.55 per bushel.

The milling demand in the domestic market was of moderate volume and premiums for cash were accompanied with future prices were practically unchanged.

Soft winter wheat was in slightly better demand as fair amounts were being worked for export. No. 2 red winter is quoted at Chicago at $1.34 1/2 and at the millers' hands as par.

Spring wheat premiums were 1c to 2c lower, except for choice heavy winter wheat. Premiums for durum were unchanged, No. 1 Ambr at Duluth selling at about 25c over the Duluth May, which closed at $1.44 1/2. No. 1 durum sold at about 10c over the May price while No. 2 durum sold at 10c discount. Export demand was more active in the Pacific northwest markets and price was advanced about 2 cents per bushel to around $1.35 at Portland for soft and western white wheats.

The market declined about 2c during the week principally as a result of the rather light demand and the favorable prospects for the new crop which is doing well in the southern and southwestern states. Needed rain was received in Texas where the condition of the crop is now good. Farm stocks of oats on March 1 were about 424,000,000 bushels, making the total supply about 170,000,000 bushels smaller than on March 1 last year. Bright heavy weight oats were in good demand, especially oats suitable for seed purposes, in the markets of the north central states. No. 2 white oats were quoted at Chicago at 42c-44c. Prices at St. Louis ranged from 43 1/2-44c, at Omaha 45c-46c, at Fort Worth No. 2 red oats were bringing 46c-48c per bushel.

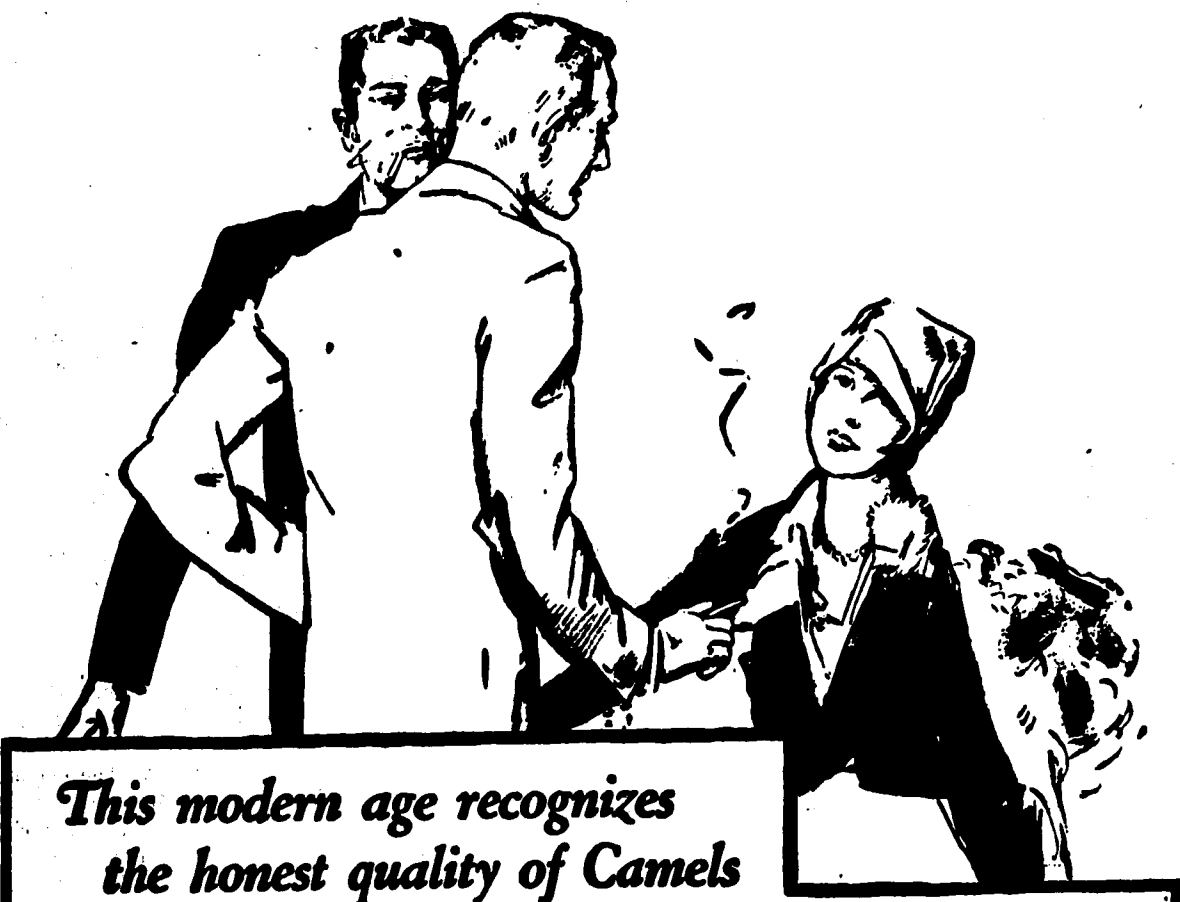

The barley market was slightly lower with the other grains, although best malting types sold at the highest price on the crop at Milwaukee. Stocks of barley on farms March 1 were about 12,000,000 bushels smaller than a year ago, reflecting the better feeding demand for barley this year in the north central states where the crop of other feed grains was short. Demand for feeding barley was rather dull. Special No. 2 barley sold at 84c-85c at Milwaukee. Good malting types at Chicago were quoted at 72c-82c and at Minneapolis at 72c-75c.

WHEAT MARKET WEAKENED — FEED GRAINS LOWER

Usually heavy shipments of wheat from Australia with the continued large exports from Argentina, together with the departments estimate of larger stocks of wheat in the United States than had been expected by the trade, had a weakening influence on the wheat market during the week ending March 12, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States department of agriculture. Prices in both domestic and foreign markets declined 1c to 2c per bushel during the week. The demand for feed grains was improved. While the supply of corn, oats, and barley for the remainder of the crop year is much smaller than at this time last year, the large stocks of corn and of oats in commercial channels continued to be a weakening factor and prices worked slightly lower.

The outstanding feature in the foreign market situation during the week was the sharp increase in exports

This modern age recognizes the honest quality of Camels

THE smokers of America have rewarded Real Quality with Real Leadership.

For Camels have always been all quality and no frills. The choicest tobaccos money can buy, superbly blended. Millions of dollars put into the cigarette. Never a penny expended for show.

There's just one way to find the smoking thrill that has won the modern world's admiration—try Camels. You'll know such taste and fragrance, such mellow mildness, as you never hoped to find. "Here's a Camel!"

VEGETABLE IS GOOD FOR DIET

Expert Tells How to Cook Vegetables to Get the Greatest Value.

By LOUISE LESLIE, Home Economist, The Washington Water Power Co.

In the last few years vegetables have received more attention as food for human beings, at least in America, than ever before. Time was not so long ago either when such vegetables as carrots, turnips and parsnips were considered only food for the farm animals. Today we hear a great deal about mineral salts, iron and vitamins being necessary for the proper nourishment of the human body, and all of these are found largely in these once despised vegetable.

Like everything else, there is a right and a wrong way to cook vegetables. Naturally the right way is the method by which the largest amount of their food value and flavor can be retained. The most common way of treating vegetables has been to boil them. Formerly, the household would cover the entire quantity of vegetables to be cooked with water and then put them on the stove to boil as hard as they chose. One could write a whole chapter on the loss of nutrients in water to form a fresh color and flavor, but more important, of the nutritive value in vegetables cooked this way. Authorities in general nowadays are advocating steaming or baking as the most efficient manner of preparing this class of food.

The first process may be accomplished either on top of the stove or in the oven, as one may wish. We fill our vessel with the desired quantity of the vegetable and then use only a sufficient amount of water to form a generous quantity of steam when the boiling point is reached. For a quantity of any vegetables large enough to serve the ordinary family this will amount to water less than an inch deep in the vessel. Of course, a very thick layer of water, one does not need to add a drop of liquid in cooking. Simply place it in a covered pan and as the heat with the steam, sufficient water will be released to furnish adequate moisture for cooking.

It is possible to cook a number of vegetables in this method of cooking. Vegetables are onions, cabbage and cauliflower—all vegetables which discolor quickly in a strong flavor. They are more delectable if covered with boiling water at first, thus enabling them to retain their color, and then partially drained to do away with the strong flavor which most people dislike.

Vegetables can be cooked at temperatures between 212 degrees Fahrenheit, which is the boiling point, and 450 degrees Fahrenheit in a roasting pan. Thus, you see, while we are roasting our meat, our vegetables may be steamed in the oven at the same time. While no special dishes are required for this sort of work, "clover leaf" or triplicate vessels are most desirable as they take up little space in the oven and are most economical to use on the surface burners. These we can always use our lightly covered Pyrex or earthen casseroles, which may be placed directly on the table. In this way we also eliminate some dishwashing, which alone would be sufficient inducement for many housewives to revolutionize their vegetable cookery.

Where the farmers of the Craigmont and Nezperce communities produced 600 acres of certified seed spuds last year, there will be an acreage of from 1500 to 1800 this year, Mr. Wade says—Register (Craigmont).

Orofino Growing
The 1920 census gave the village of Orofino a population of 537 which has been more than doubled since that time by a gradual growth and the acquisition of the Home, Gorman and Mix additions. During the past two weeks under instructions of the village board, clerk F. F. Kimble has been taking a census and Tuesday evening had reached a figure of 1087 with enough more in sight to total at least 1100. This does not count quite a number of single men who have made this their home for a year or more who would unquestionably be entitled to vote here but in order to be on the safe side were not counted. The census was taken with the idea in mind of changing the status of the village to that of a city of the second class, provided for under the state statutes, which places the deal line at 1,000 inhabitants. It is therefore certain that the village can make this change provided the citizens desire it and there are a number of advantages and little if any, expense, over the village administration. —Clearwater Tribune, Orofino.

Were Quite Modern
A story is told of an old lady living in one of the out-of-the-way spots coming out to "civilization" to visit some friends whom she had not seen for many years and was deeply impressed with the mode of living of her friends, and on her return home she was telling her family of the event. She said: "They are awfully nicely fixed. They have a new home in which they have all the modern conveniences. They have terraces over their doors, hot and cold folding doors, cemetery plumbing and incident lights in their house. It sure was wonderful.

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN

IN THIS STORY, of rapid action, Mr. Spearman has gone back to his early love—of writing tales of the West in stage coach and Indian days, when the railroad had just started to cross the frontier, when men lived enthusiastically, loved truly and were quick on the trigger. If you have read "Whispering Smith," "Nan of Music Mountain" or any of his other fascinating novels, we shall not be surprised if you find this one the best of all.

Latah Gets $30,136 Gas Tax
State highway expenditures from gasoline tax funds for the biennium 1926 and 1927 in Latah county were $30,136, a report submitted to Governor H. C. Baldrige by the department of public works shows. This figure was for both construction and maintenance.

Thirty-four per cent of the state gasoline tax, which amounted to $2,087,450 for the two years, went to maintenance of highways, compared with 22 per cent for construction and reconstruction, 22.2 per cent to purchase of equipment, and 11 per cent to reimbursement of counties and highway districts. Six per cent went to supervisors, 4.7 per cent to gas tax refunds, and less than one per cent to administration of the tax.

The tax was two cents a gallon to April, 1925, and three cents a gallon thereafter. Of the $1,100,911 spent on construction and maintenance during the two years, the report shows $188,655, the largest allotment, was spent in Idaho county. About $135,000 of this went into construction of the North and South highway. Kootenai county was second with $50,513 and Bannock county third with $75,160. Of Latah county's allotment, most of it went to the North and South highway. There were 11 counties which received larger sums than Latah county out of the 44 counties of the state. Those higher in the northern part were Bonner county, with $47,616, Clearwater with $31,984, Kootenai with $26,613, Lewis with $20,270, Nez Perce with $34,725, and Shoshone with $37,466.—Star-Mirror.

Mark Twain On Advertising
Mark Twain once edited a paper in Missouri. One of his subscribers wrote him he had found a spider in his paper and wanted to know whether it meant good luck or bad luck. This is what Mark answered:
"Old Subscriber: Finding a spider in your paper was neither good luck nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so that he can go to his store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterwards."

Advance-Rumely Combine Harvesters

The difference between profit and loss in farm operation is often a difference in harvesting methods. The Combined Harvester-Thresher is able to harvest and save at a profit crops that would, following the old of harvesting and threshing, result in a loss. It naturally follows that the heavier the crop the greater the saving.

In the purchase of a combine harvester, the reputation of the manufacturer and his ability to service must be taken into consideration, together with the ability of the machine to serve your particular needs.

Advance-Rumely Company has been building quality machinery for over seventy years and during that time has built up a reputation that is second to none.

THE ADVANTAGES AND FEATURES OF HILLSIDE TYPE
The Advance-Rumely Hillside Type machine has many features that appeal to practical combine men; one of these is an uncanny ability to stay up to the grain even on the steep hillsides without putting horses in the grain, and to stay away from the grain when the operation is reversed and the header is reaching down after the grain; this allows the operator to cut a full swath at all times and to save time, labor and grain.

This feature does not entail any freak construction. It is simply engineering applied to Hillside Combine design.

Card Club Entertained
The card club was very pleasantly entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Fred Nagel, when pinocle was played at three tables. The honors of the afternoon were won by Mrs. Glenn Sampson and the consolation prize went to Mrs. W. F. Shirrod.
The invited guests were Mrs. Carl Erikson, Mrs. Milton Rader, Mrs. Johanna Christenson and Mrs. W. F. Shirrod.
The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Miss Margaret Sampson.

Some Pinocle Hand
There have been one or two instances published in the larger papers where a perfect pinocle hand had been held, but since a Spokane woman claimed to have held the only one only one gotten together in the Inland Empire, several have bobbed up in different localities, showing that all the good dealers do not live in the Falls City.

In a very interesting game "one day the first of the week," Carl Erikson drew a perfect hand. He had melding 1500 points (and he had melded more had he had the cards). Ira Larkin, the honest butcher at the Pollett market, was playing partners with Mr. Erikson and happened to deal the hand and of course there can be no question about it. Mr. Erikson happened to hold so many hearts at one time. Anyway, it all goes to show that even a small town can match the cities in some things.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

The state eighth grade examinations will be given on April 13, 14 and 15. The April examinations are given for the seven and eight-month schools. No papers will be accepted from the nine-month schools, except holders, in any subject or subjects. We have received sets of examination papers in language and arithmetic for the fourth and seventh grades, inclusive. Geography exams will come soon. These are similar tests and are given to test the uniformity of these grades throughout the state. They also teach the pupil how to prepare for the final examinations in the eighth grade.

Odeas, Washington, has just recently voted to consolidate several of their rural schools. In this case the districts petitioned to consolidate before the actual vote was taken. One can see the movement for consolidation gaining more momentum every day. This plan, or some similar one, will have to come some day—so why not now?

Seventh and Eighth Grades

The seventh graders have completed and thoroughly reviewed their required work for arithmetic and are taking up some supplementary work. Pearl Springer is absent on account of illness.

Some very good work is being done in painting in this room. All the pupils are showing quite an improvement over the first work of this year. The seventh graders are making interesting booklets on camp life. Each pupil in the class contributes one story and each story is on some topic related to camp life.

Buford Rogers is again in school after being absent last week because of illness. Special examinations in language and arithmetic, issued by the superintendent, were taken by the seventh graders. The grades were average with the exception of two, which were above average.

Fifth and Sixth Grades

Our pupils wrote a language test sent out by the state. Very good records were made by both the fifth and sixth grades. This week ends our spelling contest. At present the grades are about equal, and both sides are working hard to win.

We have had several absences this week, due to illness in the family. Our room has begun to look like "spring has come" with the chickens and flowers. We also have flowering plants brought by some of the pupils.

Third and Fourth Grades

The attendance in our room has been very good this month. We have had a few absences, due to illness. Those making a perfect spelling record last week were Evelyn Rogers, Howard Carico, Gretchen Reiserer, Grant Lencosty, Emma Yanouck, Susie Drescher and Ambrose Foster.

The fourth grade took a state test in language Thursday and Friday. There was only one failing grade. The highest grade was 98%, made by Annabelle Huffman.

Primary Room

Mrs. Carl Osmundson was a visitor Thursday. Come again; visitors are always welcome.

Anna Lund's side won in the spelling contest in the first grade. Beatrice Nordby was star speller for that side. Charlotte Foster was star speller for Everett Smith's side.

Handwork classes made Easter bunnies and little chicks for our new board border.

Neyve Erickson presented us a new tulip plant. Thank you. Everett Smith has left for Gooding, Idaho, where he will remain the rest of the school year.

Richard Sampson has been absent on account of illness. Story hour classes are much interested in the stories of "Old Mother West Wind."

Call for Bids

Bids will be received at the office of Highway District No. 1, Genesee, Idaho, until 1 p. m. of April 2, 1927, for the crushing and spreading of 20,000 yards or more of rock to be used in said district. Further information may be obtained from the commissioner of said district.

TWO CARS BADLY DAMAGED BY SPOKANE STAGES

As Mrs. G. E. Taber, who had been visiting her parents here, was on her way to her home at Marshfield, Oregon, last Thursday morning, she met with an accident that might have proved to be much more serious than it was, when she met one of the large Lewiston-Spokane stages on one of the short curves near the top of the Lewiston hill and was crowded into the fence protecting the outside of the road and her car was considerably damaged.

Mrs. Taber was said to have had her car cover almost against the fence and that the stage driver made no effort to avoid hitting her and the rear of the long bus struck her car and crowded it into the fence, and had there been no protection there the car would have rolled several hundred feet down the hill.

Fred Nagel's new Buick car is practically a wreck, alleged to have been caused by one of the buses owned by the same company crowding him in a manner that he struck another car, on the highway between Pullman and Colfax.

A few complaints lodged in the proper place might have some bearing on the situation, if the drivers of these huge affairs are "road hogs," as they are alleged to be.

There has been considerable complaint regarding these drivers and it is high time something should be done to protect the driver of a smaller car from possible injury to himself and his vehicle. The fact is, they have no right to be using such affairs on the highways without paying a special tax for the privilege. The railroads own their own right of way and roadbed, so why should the taxpayer of the county through which the highways pass pay for the construction and maintenance of a road for someone to utilize as a private means for making money?

There's something wrong somewhere!

Squirrels Are Ripe

Some wonderful "bags" have been reported by embryo squirrel shooters already this spring—but how could they help it, if they could shoot at all, for there are thousands of them in every field and along the highways. There is one nice thing about shooting squirrels; one can say, "I got him!" just as he went down the hole after the shot at the rodent, and there is no one to gain say it, for the marksman naturally heard the bullet "plunk" when it hit. It's fun anyway, and oftentimes reduces the squirrel population a little bit.

Streets Put in Good Shape

The streets of Genesee are, on the whole, in better condition now than they have been at any time since last summer, Marshal Beachler and George Morscheck having gone over them with a tractor and the state's big lever. It is hoped that the time is not far distant when all the main traveled streets of the town will be covered with a good coat of gravel—their condition during the past two months or more indicating that gravel is what they need.

Let's pop up a nail and keep the old town above the mud.

Kendrick Will Celebrate

Machinery has already been set in motion for the celebration of the great and glorious Fourth of July at Kendrick and committees have been appointed to see that it is a success—and no doubt it will be, as Kendrick don't do things by halves.

Another Handicap

Since women have started in getting haircuts, a man has to go around to a pool room when he wants to cut.

POTATO SALES ORGANIZATION IS WELL ON ITS WAY

At a very enthusiastic meeting held in the American Legion hall last Saturday afternoon by members of the Farmers union, the organization of a potato sales organization was started well on its way and the committee in charge of securing the necessary funds for the enterprise reported that they had obtained nearly half the amount necessary to erect a storage house and install machinery for sorting and grading the potatoes, with only a small percentage of the membership present which is indeed a good start toward the desired goal.

The committee in charge of securing the money intimated that they would at once get busy and interview all members and all possible prospects who might be interested in the storage and sale of potatoes and it is believed that it will be an easy matter to raise the other half of the money necessary for the project.

According to advice from Washington, D. C., the potato crop ranks sixth among agricultural products, according to a study just completed by the bureau of railway economics. "As a table food, however," said the study, "potatoes are second only to the wheat crop. Along with the increase of the potato crop, the market for potatoes in the United States. Idaho potatoes, for instance, enter 35 states. The study also shows that 2743 cars of Idaho potatoes were shipped to Chicago alone. Then, going in the other direction, Idaho furnished the city of Los Angeles 44 per cent of all the potatoes consumed in that city during 1926.

Of course these are only two instances showing where Idaho potatoes had been shipped. The market for Idaho potatoes is south, east and west. Why? The answer is easy: Quality! So if the quality of Idaho potatoes is sufficiently high to cause them to be singled out and called for as a whole, why not get the "best" Idaho potatoes? Then, going in the other direction, Idaho furnished the city of Los Angeles 44 per cent of all the potatoes consumed in that city during 1926.

There's something wrong somewhere!

Grain Crop Endangered

The alternate freezing and thawing of the ground for the past several nights and days are likely to inflict a severe loss on the grain growers, if the weather does not soon warm up. Especially on the prairie sections surrounding this valley is this true, as the heavy frost has gone to ten or more degrees below the freezing point each night, followed by thawing during the daytime. Even in the valley ice is formed every night, while on the higher grounds the freezing is much more severe. Fall grain, came through the winter in fine shape and it will be a severe blow if it should now be badly damaged—Kamiah Progress.

An Omission

In writing up the account of the St. Patrick's party given at the Ira Larkin home last week, we neglected to mention the place cards and favors.

The place cards each had thereon, in addition to the name, a small shamrock, while favors were small green baskets filled with vari-colored candy, with green predominating. Those of the ladies bore a large shamrock leaf while those for the gentlemen were surmounted by a regulation "mick" pipe—all made of cardboard. They were indeed nifty.

Improve Market

Rader Brothers have just finished remodeling the interior of their meat market and store, it giving them much more space in the front of their room. They have moved their large cooler back seven feet and have installed a new "cooler" show case and counter and have taken it from the west side of the room and placed it crosswise at the rear. A new ice-making machine has also been installed in the basement, with a capacity of 200 pounds a day.

The Strynka Club

The Strynka met at the home of Mrs. Ernest Reiserer Wednesday afternoon. The time was spent socially and with needlework. At 4 o'clock a lovely lunch was served by the hostess. The club will hold their next meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry Floemer on Friday, April 1.

SEMI-LOCAL NEWS CLIPPED FROM EXCHANGES

Seed Pea Meeting

Forty or fifty farmers of this section gathered at the Botten store Saturday for a discussion of the marketing of seed peas. It is understood that approximately 500 acres were contracted to a Spokane firm. The growing of seed peas is one of the important industries of this section.—Troy News.

May Fish May 15

Latah county streams open May 15 or two weeks ahead of the usual season, the Elk river district remaining the same as last year. The Elk river region and tributaries are closed during the months of April and May and October and November, at which time the stock of Eastern brook trout spawning is in the only variety spawning twice a year.—Star-Mirror.

Apricot Trees in Bloom

As usual the apricot trees are the first to come into bloom again this season. Blossoming first set in about ten days ago, and many trees are now in full bloom. The trees are just ready to burst forth, particularly the peach trees. It is hoped that March, in her remaining days, will glide by without any killing frosts so that these splendid varieties of early and medium fruit may escape damage. From the appearance of all fruit trees, it is not going to be long until every variety of fruit will be in full bloom.—Asotin Sentinel.

Fifth and Sixth Grades

We were visited last week by Mrs. Blume. We are always glad to have the parents when they are interested in school.

The sixth grade took another reasoning test this week and some very good scores were made.

The spelling contest ended last Friday, with the sixth grade as winners by a few points.

The pupils are busy this week writing the drills in penmanship. Some are working for the "merit button" and a few for the Palmer Method button. Some good work is being done.

Third and Fourth Grades

Our room had a candy sale Friday. It was very successful. We made $5.08 and would have made more had we not run out of candy. The proceeds were enough to buy a baseball and bat for both the girls and boys.

The penmanship classes have completed writing their drills to be sent in for Palmer Method awards. We know we won't get them, but we have tried.

Those making a perfect record in spelling for the week are, Annabelle Huffman, Thomas Sanford, Ambrose Foster, Susie Drescher, Winifred Dean, Donald Baker, Gordon Foster and Emma Louise Vanouck.

Primary Room

Springtime seems to be here. We have boxes of daffodils in our windows. We made them in handwork class.

Several are absent this week on account of illness. Story hour classes are enjoying the "Story of Peter Mink."

Language classes played a little game called "The Circus." The children imitated the animals they represented.

This week finishes our seventh month of school and seems to be bringing us spring. We hope to have two months of sunshine now.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

The boys of the high school will give a short program the last period this coming Friday afternoon. At the beginning of last semester the boys and girls were divided in the sale of season tickets for athletic contests. The girls won by a short margin so the boys are paying by giving a short program.

The Genesee girls have voted to turn the funds in their treasury over to the book fund. Their action is to be commended as the library is much in need of some recent books.

Seventh and Eighth Grades

We received the returns from the A. M. Palmer company this week. Flossie Hollingsworth, Grace Curran and Vance McCarty were awarded the Student's Certificate, which is the final certificate awarded in the eighth grade. Ruby Hollingsworth, Geraldine Burman, Eda Foster, Jean Freeman, Virgil Post and Richard Harris were awarded the Improvement certificate.

Pearl Springer has not been in school for the past two weeks because of illness.

The seventh graders are studying Idaho civics now. They have completed the study of United States government and also took up the constitution of the United States.

The seventh graders finished the booklets on camp life and they are now on display in the room.

The seventh grade class in spelling has organized for a spelling contest with George Blume and Ruth Gordon as captains. This is to last a week or until the review is completed and scores are kept on both oral and written spelling.

The domestic demand for wheat was inactive because of a slackening in the demand for flour. Soft winter was relatively lower than other classes. No. 2 red being quoted in St. Louis at $1.31-1.34, the lowest price on the crop to date. No. 2 red winter at Cincinnati was quoted at $1.30-1.31 and at Chicago at $1.33-1.34. Prices for hard winter were rather irregular, depending upon protein content, which was being given a little more attention by the trade than earlier in the season.

Premiums in the spring wheat markets were practically unchanged but there was a slightly better demand, particularly for the offerings of the wheat with higher moisture. The durum market was firm both for cash and futures. The May durum market closed March 18 at Duluth at $1.43-1/2 and No. 1 Amber was quoted at 10c to 25c over the May quotation. The relatively high prices of durum have apparently influenced the farmers in planning their spring crop. According to their intention as reported to the department, farmers in the principal spring wheat states plan to increase their durum acreage nearly 14% over that of last year. This increase is principally at the expense of flax acreage, although about one percent decrease is reported in the acreage that is expected to be sown to other classes of spring grain.

The Pacific coast markets did not reflect the full decline in the world's markets due to the scarcity of current offerings from which exporters must obtain wheat to fill sales for April and May shipments. Exporters were paying $1.33-1/2 to $1.34-1/2 at the close of the week at Portland. Some sales of new crop wheat were reported on a basis of $1.25.

The oats market followed corn in a downward trend but there was a good demand at the markets for the bright dry, heavyweight oats, which sold at about the same price as a week ago. No. 3 white oats were

POOR WEATHER WEAKENS GRAIN MARKET, SAYS REVIEW

Favorable weather over the entire winter wheat belt, continued heavy shipments of wheat from the southern hemisphere, together with a limited demand for all grades, had a weakening influence on the grain market during the week ending March 19, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States department of agriculture. Receipts of grain were smaller than during the previous week and cash prices of food grains were relatively firmer than future prices. Notwithstanding the lower prices, farmers are planning a larger acreage of most spring grains this season, according to reports to the department.

There was little change in the world wheat markets during the week. The second estimate of the area sown to wheat in India places the acreage this year at 31,184,000 acres compared with 30,470,000 acres last year. There have been reports of insufficient rain in this country, but later reports show that rains have fallen from the south Punjab and United Provinces which should improve conditions. The movement of wheat from the southern hemisphere continued heavy and Liverpool prices declined about 2c on the whole. Owing to the poor quality of Argentine wheat from the southern provinces the test weight per bushel for contract grades was lowered from the equivalent of about 58 pounds per bushel to 56 pounds per bushel. Some arrivals of Argentine wheat have shown less gluten strength than expected, which has caused a more active demand for Canadian spring wheat, which was quoted in Liverpool at $1.74 per bushel compared with $1.48 for the Argentine wheat and $1.50 for United States red winter.

quoted at the close of the week at Minneapolis at 48c to 49c, at Chicago 41c to 46c and at Kansas city at 46c to 48c per bushel. A three cent increase in the acreage of oats in the United States is now planned. Slight increases are planned in all parts of the country but the greatest increases are in the South and drought sections of the Dakotas.

An increase in the acreage of barley is also planned in all important States, except California, the increase planned for the United States as a whole being 14 per cent. The California market declined with other food grains but good matting types continued scarce and were active in the demand at fair prices. No. 2 special barley was quoted at Milwaukee at 80c to 85c per bushel with the best matting types selling at Chicago at 72c to 82c per bushel.

Advance-Rumely Combine Harvesters

Advance-Rumely's reputation for quality power farming machinery is the result of eighty years of conscientious effort to give the farmer the type of machinery that will stand many years of hard service at the lowest possible cost. Advance-Rumely's ability to serve you is measured by thirty-three direct factory branches and warehouses with complete stocks for all machines built and a factory trained dealer organization covering the United States.

- POWER LEVELING
The leveling device is easily controlled, positively self-locking and very quick acting. The worn gear mechanism is made of steel, enclosed in a dust proof case, running in grease, and the thrust on the worm is taken by heavy-duty Timken bearings.
- EASY RUNNING
The liberal use of ball and roller bearings throughout the machine reduces friction to a minimum and greatly reduces the amount of power required, both to cut the grain and to move the machine on the ground.
- COMPARE
The Advance-Rumely with any other combine and see how carefully all these and other details have been taken care of.

FILMS

I have a full line of films. I also do developing and printing. I am an expert, but I think my work will compare favorably to others who hire kids to do their work for you. You may get a free enlargement with any three dollars worth of work that you may send them, but you pay 15% more to them than I charge you. The enlargement you get only cost 35c and you pay 60 cents in extra price for it if you are sending your work out of town. There are tricks in all of the trades and in all transactions where you get something for nothing.

Entertain Linger Longers

The members of the Linger Longers, their husbands and a few invited guests were royally entertained by Mrs. T. H. Herman and Mrs. Ray Edwards at the Herman home, on St. Patrick's day evening, when pinocle was the entertainment. At midnight a splendid two-course luncheon was served by the hostesses. The room decorations were symbolic of the day as were the place cards and favors, the latter being blooming buttercups in miniature flowerpots daintily painted—a very unique idea indeed.

Mrs. Clyde Meyer was awarded the ladies' honors after a cut of the cards with Mrs. Joe Tobin, Mrs. Virgil Sampson receiving the consolation. George Post won the gentlemen's honors and Harry Schooler was given the consolation.

The invited guests were Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Leavitt, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McGreary.

The Progressives Entertained

The Progressive club was delightfully entertained by Mrs. Glenn Sampson on Thursday of last week—St. Patrick's day in the afternoon—the first thing on the program being a splendid luncheon, which was a splendid feature, of course. The decorations were daffodils and shamrock and the color scheme was carried out in the luncheon.

Mrs. Fred K. Bressler, a member of the club, very pleasantly surprised the ladies by walking in at their meeting. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Sampson entertained a few friends at pinocle, four tables being used.

Mondays Entertained

The Monday bunch was very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. W. M. Herman. The time was spent with fancy work and a "talk fest," but the ladies report a good time.

A Beautiful Pageant

The pageant, "Children of the Nations," given at the Congregational church last Sunday evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor, was most beautiful. The play cast was attractively costumed and each performed with ease.

The nations represented were Japan by Harriet Hickman; American Indian by Virgil Post; Chinese by John Hickman; Hindoo by Irene Quayle; Hawaiian by Eloise Emmett; Eskimo by Leland Emmett; Mrs. America by Thelma Mikelsen. Mrs. O. S. Barnum was the director.

The movement was rhythmic, the reading distinct and the variety of costumes colorful and pleasing. In a few weeks a pageant taking in the younger set will be given.

The Blue Bird Club

Miss Ethel Johnson was hostess to the Blue Bird Club at the home of her mother, Mrs. August Johnson, Tuesday afternoon and a very pleasant evening was reported. The time was spent in sewing and social converse and at 4 o'clock a splendid lunch was served by the hostess. The only invited guest was Mrs. Wm. Jenkins. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Oliver Woodley on Tuesday, April 5.

Will Give S. S. Party

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Barnum will give a party to the primary and intermediate departments of the Congregational Sunday school in the church basement on Friday afternoon. A big time for the little folks.

Will Hold Food Sale

The Altar society of St. Mary's church will hold a food sale at the Hasfurther Hardware store on Saturday, April 9, beginning in the forenoon.

Christian Endeavor at 7 p. m. Virgil Post, leader.

Christian Church

N. E. Beach, Pastor Bible school at 9:45 a. m. Bible school at 9:45 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m. Subject of sermon, "The Claims of Abel." Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p. m. Preaching at 7:30 p. m. Evangelistic hour: "Jesus, the Pre-eminent One."

The superintendents and teachers of the primary department of the Bible school gave a party to all pupils, cradle-roll babies and their mothers, Saturday afternoon. A large, happy crowd of children filled the basement. Games were played and bounteous refreshments were enjoyed. The Bible school is growing steadily.

The Summit Pep Club

The Summit Pep club was entertained by Mrs. Chas. Herman on Thursday, March 17, at an all-day meeting. A big dinner at 1 o'clock was the main feature of the day. The members were busily engaged quilting a quilt for Mrs. Herman. A short business meeting was held during the afternoon. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Fred Hampton on Thursday, March 31.

Altar Society Entertained

The Altar society of St. Mary's church was delightfully entertained by Mrs. Theo. Schlueter on Tuesday, March 22. After a short business meeting the time was spent in needlework and social converse. A pickup lunch was served at 5 o'clock by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Mike Reisenauer.

Cel-O-Glass

CEL-O-GLASS is the original glass substitute. Do not be misled into buying what is called glass cloth, for it is not a good investment. Cel-O-Glass is made on a galvanized wire base and is a permanent investment. It is even better than glass on chicken houses, brooder houses, barns, hot beds, etc.

CASE HILLSIDE TYPE

The Case combine solves the problem of economical harvesting. It is dependable, durable machine of light draft with which the steepest hillsides as well as level land can be harvested with speed, with small amount of labor, and with minimum of expense. With it you may be freed from the worries and troubles of hiring harvest hands at a time of the year when labor is scarce. You can save the cost of bothering for a big crew of men and teams. Most important of all, however, you can greatly increase the profits of grain growing by the use of this machine.

Shipping Certified Seed Potatoes Kleweno Brothers are this week shipping a carload of certified Netted Gem seed potatoes to Yakima for planting in that section, thus emphasizing the fact that good potatoes can be grown here and that the Yakima people recognize Idaho non-irrigated potatoes as among the best, else they would not buy them.

The Kleweno potatoes have some 2500 sacks of certified seed potatoes, most of which have been sold to outside parties, but they still have a few that they are selling locally.

The potato business in the Genesee section is gradually coming into its own and with the completion of the organization of the proposed sales association it will be one of the leading crops with farmers.

In Graduate Sheepherder If anyone in this section of the country wants any pointers on just how to herd sheep and jump horses and pack mules across ditches, all they will have to do is to employ Don Bressler, at the Exchange bank, for he spent last week as a sheep ranch overseer at a sheer ranch down on the Snake. He knows just how to catch and hold a sheep while it is travelling at flivver speed over cactus plants and sagebrush, but he advises a good strong cinch when attempting to jump ditches when a pack mule is tied to the saddle.

Has Infected Foot Ernest Gesslichen is suffering with a badly infected foot, caused by poisoning from the coloring of his sock, a small sore being started by a blister on his foot. While he is able to be around, yet it is decidedly painful.

Has Wrenched Back Mrs. W. M. Herman is suffering with a severely wrenched back, caused by a bad fall last week.

Charles Mochel a Shipwright
The following clipping was taken from a recent issue of a Walla Walla paper:
Depicting in minute detail, a model of the caravel "Half Moon" operated by the Dutch East India Co. in the 17th century is being displayed in the window of the Crescent Drug Co., on Fourth and Main Sts. The "Half Moon" was sailed up the Hudson river in 1609 by Hendrick Hudson.
"The minute ship was made by Charles Mochel, of the Crescent Drug Co., and is complete in every detail, so far as authorities know, according to Mr. Mochel. Hand work was used throughout, even the ornaments being carved by hand out of wood. It required Mr. Mochel's spare time for four months to complete the model."
Mr. Mochel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Mochel of Genesee and is well known here.

"Tiny" Enters Competition
"Tiny" Flomer, the six-foot dwarf who has charge of the artillery that shoots trouble for the telephone company, has entered the egg competition, he having brought a sample to the News office Thursday morning, the "egg" measuring considerably less than anything when it came to the interior part. However, Tiny says he has his hens well under control—that they lay eggs in size according to the price. Just now they are very cheap and his hens are laying very small eggs. He has his henery equipped with electric lights and in the winter time when eggs are high in price, he gets up in the night and turns on the lights and old biddy at once gets busy and they lay many large ones.
He says this poultry business is very simple if you understand it.
He also has an electric incubator that doesn't lay eggs.

POTATO SALES ORGANIZATION IS PROGRESSING

While no definite action was taken at the meeting of the Farmers union last Saturday afternoon, considerable progress was made toward securing additional necessary funds for the erection and equipping of a potato warehouse and perfecting a sales organization, but at that it is not believed the necessary money to be subscribed. Of course this is just now a very busy season of the year and farmers are seemingly not interested in anything except making ready for their farm work for the spring and summer, but at that it is not believed there will be any trouble in eventually raising the necessary funds.

Just to show that Idaho potatoes are known and sold in "Little Old New York," the following advertisement appeared in a New York paper recently from Moscow, Idaho, the largest sales in that, the largest city in the United States:
"From Pocatello, Idaho, to Macey's, A whole carload of large Idaho potatoes at a very low price of 90 cents a carton. Each carton contains 15 pounds of these excellent Western potatoes, hand picked on farms in Idaho. They are large and smooth, each potato weighing 8 to 11 ounces. Never sold in bulk. The potatoes are well known for their size, good value and delicious taste, either baked or cooked in other ways. Preferred and used by leading hotels."
The above will give you an idea of what they think of Idaho potatoes in the East. But if irrigated potatoes bring that much money and find a ready market, why not get even more for the "Northern Idaho Non-Irrigated Potatoes" such as are grown in this section? It can be done if the proper grading, handling and salesmanship are combined—and the way to combine them is to organize just such a company as the one being organized right here at home and reap the benefits that are justly yours.

Linger Longers Entertained
The Linger Longers were delightfully entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Harry Schoon, the time being spent with sewing and farm work. A short business session was held during the afternoon and at 5 o'clock a delicious luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Clyde Meyer.

The invited guests were Mrs. Oscar Rader, Mrs. Ira Hanson, Mrs. Harold Raymond, Mrs. N. M. Levitt, Mrs. Clyde Meyer and Miss Louise Donnelly of Spokane.
The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Clyde Meyer on Wednesday, April 13.

Washington's New Speed Laws
The state of Washington has finally lifted the speed-law and raised the limit to 40 miles per hour. They have also placed "teeth" in the new law that says "necking" is taboo. They say teeth aren't good for necks, anyway.

While we have no particular authority for the statement, it is said that Oregon has taken the speed law entirely off their law books and leave it to the driver, but that if it can be proven that a driver has been reckless, he can be "pinched" the same as if the exact number of miles were stated.

There is no speed law in the city of Ogden, Utah. Each driver is supposed to use judgment in driving. If he is using excessive speed within the city and it can be shown that it was necessary for him to use that speed, he is allowed to do so without further question. It seems that the Mormons have a great deal of confidence in human nature.

Has Worst Luck in World
Paralyzed from the waist down and probably with a spinal fracture as a result of his ninety-seventh major accident, Ernest Lindgren, who calls himself "the unluckiest man in the world," is in a hospital at Great Falls, Montana, where a sliver that severed his stool in the vestibule of a passenger train at Belt and fell down the car steps.

Lindgren has suffered 55 bone fractures, the loss of his left arm and nine toes when he was dragged three miles here down at Lewiston the city coffers would soon be at the bursting point. Drivers of auto have to keep a sharp lookout all the time to keep from hitting some one who has walked out from between parked cars to cross the street—any old place their fancy leads them. It is a dangerous proceeding, to say the least.

Jaywalking at $1 Per Back at Albany, New York, the city fathers have placed a price of $1 per walk for all jaywalkers.
If that price were paid for the privilege of walking on the sidewalk, the city coffers would soon be at the bursting point. Drivers of auto have to keep a sharp lookout all the time to keep from hitting some one who has walked out from between parked cars to cross the street—any old place their fancy leads them. It is a dangerous proceeding, to say the least.

Wheat Moving Slowly
During March a number of cars of wheat and barley were shipped from Genesee. It is estimated that there is still approximately 150,000 bushels of wheat remaining in this section.

Cecil Lanphier of Orofino, brother of Dale Lanphier and Mrs. B. J. Pluiman, and Miss Rose Martin of Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

FAVORABLE CROP PROSPECTS WEAKEN MARKET

Continued good prospects for the winter wheat crop, together with weakness in the future markets for corn and oats, were weakening factors in the wheat market during the week ending March 26, according to the weekly Grain Market Review of the United States department of agriculture. The lack of any improvement in the commercial demand for corn, together with the large stocks in the markets, forced future prices of both corn and oats to sharply lower levels but cash markets for these were firm. The lack of any improvement in the commercial demand for wheat, together with the large stocks in the markets, forced future prices of wheat and the rye market was dull.

Considerable liquidation in the wheat market carried future prices to the lowest point on the crop but at the lower levels some export demand developed and at the close of the week the market was in a relatively firmer position. The movement of wheat to the European markets from the south-western states and the good interior demand, barley prices held near the top for the crop but rye was lower with wheat and the rye market was dull.

The movement of wheat to the European markets from the south-western states and the good interior demand, barley prices held near the top for the crop but rye was lower with wheat and the rye market was dull.

The domestic demand for soft winter wheat was slow as buyers were taking up small amounts for flour. The limited winter wheat crop was being sold at $1.30 to $1.31, at Cincinnati at $1.29, and at St. Louis at $1.27 1/2 to $1.28. Export bids for soft winter wheat were around $1.36 per bushel at New Orleans.

Premiums for high protein hard winter wheat held steady but the lower protein types were about one cent lower.
Premiums for desirable types of spring wheat were firmer, as a result of light receipts and a slight improvement in the demand for flour. Durum wheat prices held steady throughout the week, although demand was slightly less active. No. 1 Amber was quoted at $1.33 per bushel with producers selling at $1.32 per bushel and a slight improvement in the demand for flour. McCandless Draws $300 Fine
E. M. McCandless, erstwhile fine salesman, but more recently an alleged hooch peddler, was caught at Clarkston recently and on trial at Asotin was found guilty and assessed a fine of $300 and given a jail sentence of 60 days, which latter will be suspended if he pays the fine within a few days.

While McCandless was coming to Genesee ostensibly to sell cars for the Lewiston Overland company, he was also alleged to have been handling a side line of a very poor grade of moonshine, which caused no end of trouble here as he was said to have been peddling it to boys. Had he been caught at these sales he would have had a free trip to Boise as it is a penitentiary offense to sell booze to minors and he should have had the limit.

Sold Fine Cattle
George Killmar and sons were in town Monday from near Winona delivering 41 head of fat cattle which Mr. Killmar sold on the local market that day. The cattle consisted of 20 head of fat cows and 21 head of baby beef. The cows brought six cents a pound and the baby beef eight cents, the check received in payment for same amounting to within less than ten dollars of the sum Mr. Killmar had guessed they would bring.—Cottonwood Chronicle.

Ship Car of Hogs
A double-decked car of hogs was shipped to the Spokane market Tuesday by the Genesee Union Warehouse company, there being 105 in the lot, most of which were prime stock.
While the hog business is a side line in the Genesee section, still there are quite a number going out each week, which keeps considerable money in the tills of the shippers and helps things to move along nicely.

Cars Collide Near Ingle School

A head-on collision of two Star cars occurred on the highway three miles south of town Wednesday night about midnight and both machines were badly damaged, the crash occurring on top of the hill near the Ingle school.
Howard Cole and Donald Emmett of Pocatello were returning from Lewiston while R. McKenzie, who works for Fred Morschek, was headed toward Lewiston and as they met on top of the hill the Pocatello boys claim McKenzie's lights so blinded them that they could see nothing but glare and were unable to tell where they were going.

None of the occupants of the cars were hurt in the least while the cars suffered considerable damage, that of the Pocatello boys having a sprung front axle, which was torn loose from the frame. McKenzie was able to go on to Lewiston under his own power.

Eastern Stars Entertain Officers
The Order of the Eastern Star held a special meeting and banquet in their hall Saturday evening in honor of their grand officers, this being an official visit of their grand matron, Mrs. Lolo Carpenter of Salmon, Idaho, who was in town during the evening. Trade estimates of the amount of wheat that will be required by the European consuming countries have been increased and it is estimated that approximately 10,000,000 bushels will be required the remainder of the crop year. At the close of the week Argentine wheat in Liverpool was being quoted at $1.52 per bushel and Canadian wheat at $1.73 1/2. American red winter wheat was quoted at $1.46 and the lower grades resulted in fairly large sales of red winter wheat from the United States.

The domestic demand for soft winter wheat was slow as buyers were taking up small amounts for flour. The limited winter wheat crop was being sold at $1.30 to $1.31, at Cincinnati at $1.29, and at St. Louis at $1.27 1/2 to $1.28. PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

The program to have been given by the boys on last Friday was postponed until this Friday. The boys felt that more time was needed to give justice to their entertainment.
On Friday night the "G" club initiated five new members into their club. These boys have won official letters for this season. The boys initiated were Tom Ormond, Moaman, Wade Mayer, Elvon Hampton, Anthony Ebel and Arthur Kleweno. These boys won their letters for the first time this year.

The senior play has been chosen and the cast has been picked. The title of the play is "No Business Necessary." This play will be given shortly after Easter.
The third issue of The Clarion will be published this week. Two more issues will be published this semester.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
The following pupils were neither tardy nor absent during the past month of school: Grace Curran, Geo. Blume, Floyd Heppner, Richard Harris, John Hickman, Virgil Post, Ruby Hollingsworth, Ida Foster, Jean Freeman, Lester Putnam, Wayne Hampton, Edith Craft and Glen Erickson.
Geraldine Bumpass is again in school after being absent a part of last week on account of illness.

We are having reviews in most of the eighth grade subjects at present as we have completed the required work.
Ruth Gordon's side is ahead in the spelling contest this week. The opposite side is working diligently to gain the lead.

Fifth and Sixth Grades
We are reading of the "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" during story hour. We enjoy the book very much.
We are very glad to have Marjorie Nebelwick back in school again, after several weeks of absence because of illness.
Both the fifth and sixth grades have finished the Morrill Reader and are taking supplementary work from geographical books.

Mary of Illinois is with us again. She has been out the last few days because of illness in the family.
Our attendance is better at present than it has been for some time.

Third and Fourth Grades
Friday of last week our attendance the seventh month of school. Our attendance that month was very good, there being only four persons absent during the month.
Those on the honor roll for spelling this week are Evelyn Rogers, Howard Carrico, Gretchen Reiserer, Grant Lonsberry, Emma Wasonick, Bertie Wishard, Thomas Sanford and Annabelle Huffman.

Primary Room
We have a new second-grader—Raymond Cameron.
Spring seems to be here for sure. Everyone is glad for the change in the weather.
This week begins our eighth month of school and April brings us Easter. Babies and baby chicks are already in residence in our room and dollfies are setting in our windows.
Carol Rudd left us last Friday. She will attend school in the country near her home, since the weather is becoming warmer.

In the spelling matches Friday the winners were: First grade—Beulitta Nordby, Borne Hickman and Lucille Rogers spelled especially well also. Second grade—Raymond Cameron's side won over Louise Wishard's side by only one point.

Check Forger at Work
Last week a rather sleek "farmer," who claimed to have been working for Henry Loring, drew a check and signed Mr. Loring's name to it, went to the Emmett & Bollo store, made a purchase and tendered the piece of paper in payment and received the remainder of the check in cash, the check amounting for $15.
Mr. Emmett knowing that Mr. Loring's check was good, accepted it at face value and when he deposited it in the bank the forger was detected—but the "farm hand" had gone and no trace has been found of him.

This is the first instance of this kind to happen here for a long time, but it may serve as a warning to local merchants to be wary of checks presented by strangers, no matter whose name may be signed to them.

This modern age discriminates—and smokes Camels

This age is the hardest to satisfy—it's the most discriminating age ever known. That's why it goes to Camel for cigarette enjoyment. It takes real tobacco to satisfy modern smokers and Camels are made of the choicest tobacco grown, marvelously blended. Smokers of today are right in demanding Camels; no better cigarettes are made, regardless of price.

To seek a real smoke is to find Camel—the choice of the modern world. Camels are a revelation of goodness, always mellow, smooth and mild. This age shows the way to smoke contentedly—"Here a Camel!"

Spring Has Come
Not only does the almanac say that spring has come, but the feel is in the air, and, too, we have had more than 10 days of sunshine with only one day that was the least bit cloudy, that being last Sunday. Since O. O. Sol has been on the job there have been many virulent cases of spring fever developed and even some cases of fisheritis have shown up—a sure sign of spring.
F. S. and N. B.—All the nice spring weather mentioned above was almost covered with snow early Thursday morning and the severe cases of spring fever and fisheritis were very much improved. But spring is here, just the same, for it says so on the calendar.

Kids Scattering Glass

Many of the smaller youngsters have acquired the mania for breaking glass of all kinds on the sidewalks, this including bottles and old window glass. It is indeed a bad habit for much of it is bound to find its way into the streets where it will undoubtedly cause much grief to auto owners. Such practice should be discouraged by parents.

STRYCHNINE

My price for strychnine is the same as in other towns. I reduced my price to meet competition.

I don't consider the U. of I. a competitor in strychnine. I find the strychnine at a low price if the county and state paid my salary. The U. of I. extension bureau and the college as a whole are getting like the U. of W. at Seattle—they run the country, or at least they are trying to do so. If they would attend strictly to their own business and not go into the commercial business, they would hold the confidence of northern Idaho—as we well know the south are not in accord with the north.

One farmer told me that he killed 1040 squirrels with 2 ounces of strychnine, actual count. That is not so big—520 squirrels with one ounce of strychnine, at 80 cents—and now is the best time to use strychnine.

Give strychnine an equal show with phosphorus and you will use strychnine all the time!

EASY TO HANDLE

The CASE COMBINE is very simple to operate and is easy on men and horses in the field. It is not a complicated machine. Adjustments are easily and conveniently made when any necessary and progressive changes are required. The machine is simple to operate and the operator to pass almost completely around the machine and oil the greater part of it while in operation. The line of draft is such that it holds the machine to a full swath without putting the horses in the grain, and there is no side draft on the horses or the tractor. Every provision has been made for the comfort and convenience of both the men and horses.

Selwood of Sleepy Cat

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN

Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons, WNU Service.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—At Sleepy Cat Doctor

Carry tells Wentworth, fighting boss of a shooting scrape in Barrie's gambling den, in which Selwood gambled, in defense of his wounded partner, Dave Tracy, above remarkable skill and nerve.

CHAPTER II—A year afterward,

Selwood, now Wentworth's representative at Sleepy Cat, driving his buckboard comes across a trailer whose wagon has mired in a creek. He helps the old man out, and picking up girls along and seen and been attracted by the supposed owner thereof in Peter's (the settler's) wagon, Moses McCracken, a young gambler, who Selwood tells McAlpin, Selwood's bars boss.

Perceiving the awkwardness and stupidity of the young fellow, Selwood, not waiting to see his order executed, walked into the creek and, followed by the settler, splashed across to where, struggling to steady their feet, the head horses were floundering. Hastening to their heels, Selwood unhooked the singletrees, threw them over the backs of the frightened horses, and snapping them by turns smartly on the haunches, got them splashing and struggling ashore. Then bidding the teamster follow, he recrossed the creek, turned up the seat of his buckboard, took out, hand over hand, a length of heavy chain, passed it to the teamster, and, unhooking his own team, walked behind them, doubtless in one hand and reins in the other, across the creek. It was the work of but few minutes to fasten one end of the chain to the tongue of the stalled wagon and give directions to the two men as to where to stand and what to do. The settler was not with the team still hitched to the wagon. From the end of the wagon tongue the chain dangle down, touched ashore, where, on the sandy approach to the ford, Selwood had looked his own team into the chain and, passing it between them, had

Idaho's Best Customer

Los Angeles is Idaho's best customer and Idaho would be a good customer of Los Angeles if proper efforts were made to obtain the business of that state, according to Frank V. Stump, editor of Southern California Business, the official magazine of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, in the current issue. These facts, he says were brought home to Los Angeles business men during a recent trade tour. They found that other Pacific Coast cities were going after Idaho's business and were getting it, and that the business houses of Los Angeles were overlooking this fertile and profitable field.

"It is not so much the fault of Idaho people that their business is not going to Los Angeles," he says, "as it is the fault of the Los Angeles business managers."

It pointed out that Idaho last year supplied 44 per cent of all potatoes consumed in Los Angeles, Idaho also supplied 9 per cent of the cattle, 19 per cent of the hogs, 10 per cent of the dressed poultry, 11 per cent of the butter, 33 per cent of the cheese, 14 per cent of the apples and 24 per cent of the wheat and wheat products consumed in Los Angeles last year.

While Idaho is selling very largely to Los Angeles, Los Angeles is selling comparatively little in Idaho. It has been brought out that this little state of affairs exists largely because a Los Angeles business house has not made a sufficient effort to obtain the trade of the neighboring state. It is not because Idaho does not want to buy from Los Angeles, but because salesmen from Los Angeles houses are too seldom seen in Idaho.

It has been learned that one of twenty salesmen more than one is from Los Angeles, whereas the bulk of the salesmen in that field should be from Los Angeles. And it was brought out during Mr. Boyer's trip that if those salesmen were sent into Idaho they would meet with success. The business interests of that state being more than willing to buy from the city where they do a large part of the selling.

Los Angeles is helping to solve Idaho's 21 per cent of the butter, 33 per cent of the marketing problems by reason of the growth of our industries that are increasing our population, and Idaho contributes to the development of greater markets in California for Idaho products by patronizing California industries.

"The Dude Cowboy"
For Saturday night at the Hotel theater the feature picture will be "The Dude Cowboy," with Bob Custer in the leading role, the West's favorite son, in a rip-tearing picture that has more action than the penhandle ever had. A grim-faced cowboy pitchforked into a "dude" ranch. See what happens when flashing eyes take the place of roaring guns.

"The Family Upstairs"
On Sunday, April 3, you are going to have another opportunity to have a good laugh at "The Family Upstairs," to be shown at the Hotel theater.

They are all there—every one of them. Poor, funny dad, who stretches a dollar until the eagle looks like a stork. Ma, worried because her eldest daughter has no beau while the girl across the way has more men than the Y. M. C. A. "Sis," well, just Sis. You know her well. She has a habit of thinking out loud, which proves embarrassing to the other members of the family. And son, at an age when the girls begin to mean something and work means nothing. And of course, the timid lover who comes wooing the shy daughter. You'll laugh, and cry a bit, too, with them.

"Obey the Law"
For Wednesday night, April 6, the feature film will be "Obey the Law," with Best Lylell in the leading role. He laughed at locksmiths. Cells and shackles failed to hold him. Smooth, cultured, romantic, he was the gentleman crook to his safe-cracking finger tips. Then love entered his life—a love he didn't care reveal.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

Inasmuch as Latah county is not having a spelling contest this year, the Genesee schools are going to conduct a local one. The school has invited eleven local rural schools to participate in a spelling contest and a track meet, on Friday, April 22.
The spelling contest will take place in the morning, beginning at 9 o'clock, and will continue through the morning. The track meet, which will include boys up to and including 15 years of age in the grade schools, will begin at 1:30 o'clock. Points will be given according to age, in the following events: Fifty-yard dash, 100-yard dash, running high jump, standing broad jump, running broad jump, shot put, chinning the bar, and relay race.
It is hoped that all of these schools will have entries in one or all of the events. Each school is allowed only one entrant in each event. This will give the country school the same chance as the Genesee school.
If there are any rural schools that wish to enter this contest that have, through oversight, not been invited, they will be welcome to attend.

KING SPUD IS NOW IN ASCENDENCY AT GENESEE

Old King Spud is just now coming into his own in Genesee and on Saturday last was crowned "king" and monarch of all he surveys, in this territory and from now henceforth he will have to be reckoned with when a checking up is made to find out who put the most money in the "hill."
At a meeting of the members of the Farmers union who are interested in the erection of a potato storage house, held last Saturday afternoon in the American Legion hall, arrangements were practically completed for the launching of a potato growers and sales organization and the erection of a suitable storage house.
The proposed building will be in the neighborhood of 80x80 feet, with basement and two stories above, which will be frost-proof and will be completely equipped for the handling and proper grading of potatoes, the estimated capacity being from 40 to 50 thousand sacks.
While arrangements are practically completed for the launching of the organization, those interested in the enterprise are seeking all the information available on the subject of potato storage houses and equipment and will be glad to make the length of the proposed building in Genesee of the latest approved type and the equipment will be of the latest and best manufactured for this purpose.
The promoters feel that the move now on foot will be one that will place the potato grower in a position to store and market his potatoes to an advantage never before had in this territory. It will do away with the hap-hazard way of hauling a load of potatoes down to Lewiston or over to Moscow and traveling the length of several streets vending them or peddling them out from house to house in order not to be compelled to haul them back home and they will be able to get in touch with buyers who want the best and who will not be dissatisfied with a quantity of potatoes.
Northern Idaho Non-Irrigated Potatoes, grown in the Genesee fields.
Option has been secured on the lots occupied by the old Thompson hay house, now owned by the Volmer interests, and upon this the proposed building will be erected, giving good rail facilities without any extra handling.
Another meeting will be held in the American Legion hall Saturday afternoon at 1:30 for the purpose of completing the organization and the adoption of by-laws preparatory to incorporating the company.

DISTRICT COURT DOINGS JURY LIST SELECTED

Ted Rowland paid a fine of $25 on April 4 for driving a car without a license.
The case against Earl Cornwall for shooting his brother, was dismissed Tuesday morning.
Ray Morse, who had been confined in the county jail, paid a fine of $150 and was released on April 4.
A case was filed in the district court April 4, by W. B. Pasmore vs. Branch C. Cowdy, Ony C. Cramer, C. L. Yearout and J. G. Yearout. Mortgage foreclosure on a note amounting to $3,000.00.
On Saturday 35 men were drawn for jury duty by Harry A. Thatcher, county recorder, auditor and clerk; Alvan Nelson, probate judge, and Charlie Summerfield, sheriff.
The men selected are Howard M. Frazee, Carl F. Anderson, Lawrence Carlson, Robert Oldenburg, A. P. Dahl, Fred Strobel, H. M. Hoskins, John H. Horton, F. B. Schartz, H. W. Horney, Erick Oller, G. H. Wilk, C. E. Carlson, Gust Sandberg, William Lennox, Chas. G. Talbott, and E. Carlson.

GRAIN MARKETS HOLDING STEADY, SAYS REVIEW

Light receipts, together with a fairly active demand, held the grain market steady during the week ending April 2, according to the weekly Grain Market Review of the United States department of agriculture. More export inquiry for rye gave independent strength to the market. Receipts of desirable malting types of barley were below market requirements. Lighter country offerings of corn and oats as a result of the soft condition of the roads increased the demand at the markets for these grains and caused an advance of 1c to 2c per bushel in cash prices for corn.
While official estimates of abundant and condition of the winter wheat crop are not yet available private trade estimates report a condition of about 87 per cent of normal which would indicate a crop around 45,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels below that of last year. The crop in most of the area appears in favorable condition.
The foreign wheat market situation was not materially changed. Trade reports indicate that the Indian wheat crop which is now being harvested will be about the same as last season which was estimated at about 325,000,000 bushels, or only slightly more than the normal domestic requirements. Any material reduction below this figure would place India among the importing countries for the current crop year. The first official estimate of production will be available about the middle of April. The market movement of wheat in Argentina continues heavy and exports are also large, totaling a little over 6,000,000 bushels for the week. Argentine wheat was being quoted in Liverpool at $1.50-1.51 per bushel compared with $1.73 for Canadian and $1.49 for United States winter wheats.
While exporters have been taking larger quantities of Southern hemisphere and Canadian wheat, the need for dry, hard wheat has caused a continued active demand for winter wheat from this country and bids at the close of the week were around $1.44 for No. 1 hard winter wheat delivered on track at port points. Domestic milling demand for wheat continues only moderate and premiums were about unchanged. Soft winter wheat prices were slightly higher with moderate quantities being shipped via barges from St. Louis to the Gulf for export. No. 2 red winter wheat was quoted at St. Louis at $1.31 to $1.32.
Durum future prices advanced about 3/4c, the Duluth May closing at $1.45. Larger offerings of Durum, however, resulted in a reduction in the premiums for cash grain. No. 1 Amber being quoted at 5c to 7c over the May. Export business at Portland was dull, some new crop sales were reported at around $1.25 per bushel. Soft and western white was selling at around $1.31 to $1.32 with demand limited. Australian white wheats were quoted in European markets with Pacific coast wheats and were reported to be selling at about 3c under quotations from the Pacific coast markets.
The oats market was practically unchanged. There was a good demand for dry, heavyweight grain but the poor quality offerings were of slow sale. Prices were practically the same as last week.
Receipts of barley for malting were below market requirements and prices were advanced 1 to 2c per bushel. Special No. 2 was selling at Milwaukee at 70c to 80c at the close of the week. Best malting types were quoted at Chicago at 75c to 82c, and Minneapolis at 74c to 75c. Feeding grains were selling at around 60c to 70c per bushel as to quality.

BRIEF COMMERCIAL DIGEST AND BUSINESS SUMMARY

Although mild recession in various lines began to make their appearance in October and November and continued through December and January, the February balance sheet of business shows more gain than losses for the month, when compared with February, 1926.
Commercial operations for the month were practically at par with a year ago, financial transactions were greatly in excess of the previous February, transportation was heavier but less profitable to the carriers, while labor recorded some decline in the number of workers and in the total payrolls.
Wholesalers and retailers find some cause for concern as do the mail-order houses, but the chain stores continue to expand their sales volume. Early March sales indicate spring betterment.
Shipments of early truck crops have been heavy, the daily movement lately running around 100 cars of celery, 25 cars of tomatoes and 12 cars of strawberries from Florida; 200 cars of lettuce from the Imperial valley, and 75 cars of spinach from Texas. The dairy outlook in the Eastern states is more favorable than in the West. Field work has been begun in the more southern areas of the corn belt, although the land generally throughout the belt is unfit to work as yet. Winter wheat growth and conditions are reported as fairly good. Livestock have wintered well. Hog raisers are optimistic.
The average wholesale price of all raw materials at the principal markets, according to the Bankers Commodity Price Index, on the first day of March was $377.60 compared with $390.54 a month before and $410.00 a year ago, the price decrease for the year being 8%. The average wholesale price of all raw materials is now only 20% above the 1913 average. The average price of merchandise is more than 100% above the 1923 average, indicating that raw materials prices are wholly out of line. The downward trend in merchandise prices should soon be accompanied by an upward trend in the average price of raw materials, bringing the two nearer to the customary parity. Important raw materials selling at lower prices than a month ago include wheat, corn, oats, rye, potatoes, hogs, sugar, coffee, pig iron, petroleum and lumber. Those selling at higher prices than a month ago include barley, cattle, sheep, silk, cotton, tin, lead, zinc and rubber. The only important raw materials selling at prices higher than a year ago are oats, barley, rye, cattle, sheep, sugar and tin. Higher prices should be expected in the near future on corn, potatoes, hogs, sugar, cotton, pig iron, tin, lead, zinc and rubber, while prices on cattle, sheep, oats, coffee, silk and wool should be firm and steady.
Automobile production during January totaled 284 thousand passenger cars and trucks compared with 160 thousand the month before and 303 thousand in January of last year, the decrease being 23%. Although early estimates of the manufacturers themselves place the February output at 285 thousand passenger cars and trucks, it is probable that this figure is well above the actual output, although it is known that February production greatly exceeded January and the present rate of March operations indicate a further gain over February, totaled 28 million barrels compared with 27 million barrels the month before and 23 million barrels a year ago, the increase over a year ago being 20%. Imports increased 36% and exports increased 6%, compared with 1926. Domestic consumption was only 18 million barrels compared with more than 21 million barrels the month before and nearly 18 million barrels a year ago, the increase over a year ago being 2%. Stocks on hand of February 1 amounted to 46 million barrels compared with 39 million barrels a month before and 42 million barrels a year ago, the increase over a year ago being 11%. It is unlikely that motor car consumption of gasoline will gain sufficiently during the spring season to take care of the constantly increasing stocks, so that a material reduction in refinery output may be expected for the second quarter period.

NOXIOUS WEED CONTROL AND THEIR ERADICATION
A program of demonstrations on weed control and eradication will be carried out by all county agents this season, according to C. B. Ahlson, field agronomist and state seed commissioner, who will devote a major portion of his time to the weed problem of the state. Some non-county agent counties will employ weed supervisors to enforce the weed program outlined by the county commissioners. Again other counties will employ a weed supervisor in addition to the county agent.

tion Bulletin No. 65, Idaho Weeds, How to Know and Control Them. The bulletin contains drawings and photographs with detailed descriptions of forty weeds common in Idaho fields. Copies may be obtained from the county agent offices or from the university and extension division at Boise. The bulletin also contains a discussion of the seed and weed laws.

The department of agronomy has been conducting experimental work in weed control for several years. Most of this work was carried on with farmers under actual farm conditions. Clean cultivation is the only method that can generally be recommended. The disc plow, knife or blade weeder should be used on the patch or area once a week, or at least often enough to keep green growth from appearing above the surface of the soil. This plan of cultivation has resulted in the eradication of the Canada thistle in a single season, but with the morning glory two or more years may be required.

The fact that many farmers do not have the patience to continue clean cultivation and the fact that weeds cannot be controlled on ditch banks by clean cultivation has resulted in the initiation of investigations and experiments with chemicals as a less laborious and more effective method of control. Among the best that have been given excellent control, and in many instances effected complete eradication of patches of perennial weeds are carbon-bisulphide and salt.

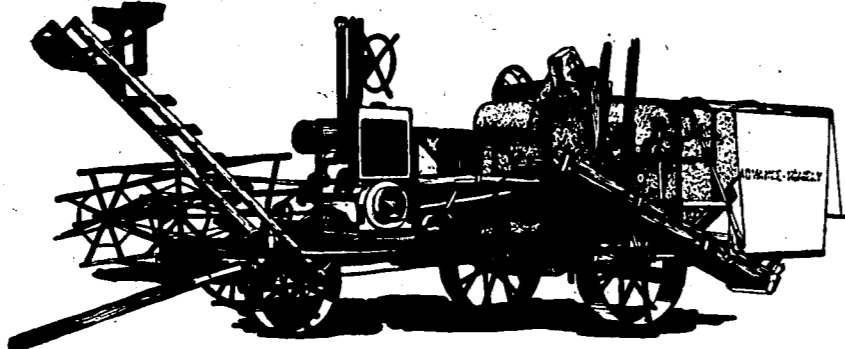

A number of chemicals used so far have given excellent results in some counties under ideal conditions of soil moisture and texture. The stage of growth of the plant is a factor in obtaining eradication.

Carbon bisulphide is a heavy liquid used to kill morning glories. It is poured into the soil at the rate of two ounces per hole 12 to 15 in. deep, two feet each way in staggered rows. The applications should be made about the time the first bloom appears, the last of May to the middle of June. This chemical is recommended for small patches only because of the expense—$200 on an acre basis.

Salt is recommended on weed patches along fence rows and on ditch banks, at the rate of 1 pound per square foot. The area is cleaned off and the salt shoveled on and incorporated into the soil by hoeing or shallow spading. The application may be made at any time of the year, preferably in the fall so the winter moisture will dissolve the salt. The total cost of the material per acre amounts to about $150.00. The cost may be reduced this season by ordering salt in large shipments. K. M. G. and sodium chlorate are two other chemicals that have given excellent results under some conditions. These chemicals are applied to the weed in the form of a fine spray.

Demonstrations of the effectiveness of these chemicals will be conducted on weed patches in county agent counties or counties having a weed supervisor. The fact that accurate records must be kept on all demonstrations makes it necessary to confine the work to counties having men who can properly supervise the work and report results.

One car, with some of the players, in order to avoid the Juliaetta hill, came around by Lewiston, only to get stuck in the mud between here and the highway, where they remained for three hours, before they were finally excavated with the aid of trucks. (Some fine road we have between here and Genesee). The play was delayed nearly two hours.

CASE
A THOROUGHLY TESTED MACHINE
To assure every buyer of a mechanically perfect machine, each combine is given a thorough test at the factory. As it is being tested highly trained inspectors very carefully go over the entire machine. Every bolt and moving part must be in place, every bearing must run freely, and no motor keys may strike or rub. Every effort is made to have the machine leave the factory mechanically correct in every minor detail. Each engine is also carefully tested and inspected before it receives the final O. K. It is slowly worked in and is then put on full load and given a thorough test.

Selwood of Sleepy Cat
CHAPTER I
CHAPTER II
CHAPTER III
CHAPTER IV

CHAPTER I
Selwood left Selwood at the mercy of the dumb appeal. The woman galvanized into a sort of life by McAlpin's words, started, rose, sank back into McAlpin's chair, checked, and murmured to herself an unimportant question: "Are you the sheriff, sir?"

CHAPTER II
Selwood walked at a leisurely pace past the well-dressed ladies, listening to McAlpin, but with his eyes, keen and grayish blue, taking in the scene before him. He was slender, evenly built, and carried himself very lightly—walking with much the springy step of a young man, and with a color in his cheeks revealed the constitutional weakness that had brought him to the mountain country—a weakness now so well checked that he looked fresh and boyish among men who, though hardly older in years, seemed to have felt more heavily the hardships of life. Behind the dark, curly hair, aggressive about his appearance; but his gray eyes chilled his manner when his face was in repose, and he soon to hold a man of a woman's type in pursuing a vain dispute.

CHAPTER III
Selwood, new Selwood's representative at Sleepy Cat, driving his buckboard, came upon a settler whose wagon was mired in a creek. He helped the settler clear, after giving the girl's shoe and seen and been attracted by the supposed owner of the wagon. McAlpin, a young man, was in a Sleepy Cat gambling den. McAlpin told Selwood the name of the gambler.

CHAPTER IV
Selwood intervened. A wrangle between Bartoe and Atkins followed. Selwood's departure forced and scornful on Atkins' part, not cheerful on Bartoe's. Atkins' counseled defiance. But Bartoe reminded Selwood of a considerable one in Selwood's case. Atkins had nothing more to do than strike the trail for fresh pastures. He was reputed to be a good shot, and he had a fine horse. Selwood, however, was a man of a different stamp. He was a man of a different stamp. He was a man of a different stamp.

He Walked Straight Toward Atkins.
Selwood walked straight toward Atkins, who was standing in the doorway of the saloon. Selwood's eyes were fixed on Atkins, and he walked straight toward him. Selwood's eyes were fixed on Atkins, and he walked straight toward him.

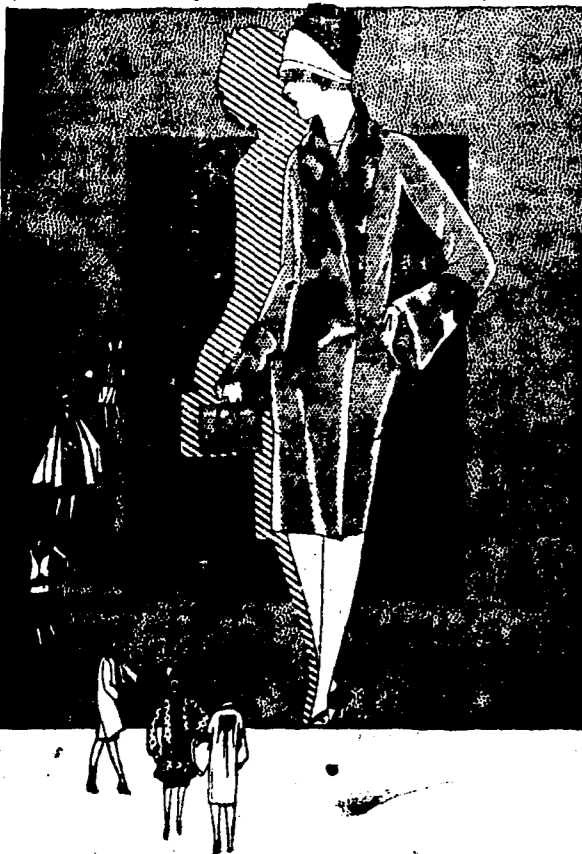

CHAPTER V
Selwood's eyes were fixed on Atkins, and he walked straight toward him. Selwood's eyes were fixed on Atkins, and he walked straight toward him. Selwood's eyes were fixed on Atkins, and he walked straight toward him.

Miniature Thunder Storm
The Genesee section was visited by a miniature thunder storm last Saturday afternoon and just to the south of town a miniature hail storm was pulled off by the weather man. It ought to be true that the more you learn the more you can earn.

For Saturday night, April 9, the feature film at the Hotel theater will be "Bigger Than Barnum"—a real circus picture that all who have ever witnessed and enjoyed a circus, should not miss.

All the glamour of the circus, from the winding parade to the striking of the tents—the smell of sawdust, the hoarse cries of the barkers, the applause of the crowds—and behind it all, unseen, the sheer human drama of life that builds up the most dramatic climax ever on the screen.

"White Flannels"
The feature picture for Sunday night will be "White Flannels," with Louise Dresser in the leading female role.

A youth from the mines fights life for a college education and finds in college life a great adventure. The heart-grIPPING drama that snatches him back to his humble beginning is the theme of this Saturday Evening Post story. Campus intrigue, thrilling football games, and the great mine disaster—and romance, sweeping all before it in the love urge of youth.

"The Early Bird"
Is the title of the picture to be shown on Wednesday night, April 13, the advertising for which failed to arrive.

See boards in front of the theater for further information.

We always regret the loss of our old teachers but any teacher must look out for herself, and when bigger positions are offered them we must be the losers.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
We have had a perfect attendance the last two weeks, with the exception of Pearl Springer, who has been absent for quite some time.

Friday evening the seventh and eighth grades gave a party at the high school opera house. The evening was spent in playing games and a good time was reported by everyone. Later in the evening a delicious luncheon was served, which everyone seemed to enjoy.

Lester Ingle was absent from school Tuesday.

Those dismissed last Friday for the quarter-day holiday were Jean Freeman, Virgil Post, Ida Foster, Ruby Hollingsworth, Wayne Hampton, Flossie Hollingsworth, Grace Curran, Floyd Heppner, George Blume, Lester Putnam, Edith Craft, John Hickman and Richard Harris.

Shirrod Reports Many Sales
Four real estate sales within the last eight days, totaling better than $50,000.00, is reported by G. F. Shirrod, realtor, of Pullman. Mr. Shirrod says the most of this was high-class land and turned at between $90 and $100 per acre. Practically three deals out of the four were for cash, which is a fine record for any country.

Lewiston Putting On Airs
That Lewiston is fast becoming a city of some note is indicated by the fact that they had a shooting scrape there the other day. Result: One man in a hospital and the other in jail.

It is the old story of the too much "fame" with what that creature they might have possessed in the first place decidedly added with the poison drink.

Attend Confirmation Services
Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Plomer and children and Mrs. Wm. Plomer and little son motored from Walla Walla Saturday to attend the confirmation services at the Lutheran church Sunday morning. They visited at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. H. Plomer and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Rader, returning to Walla Walla late Sunday afternoon.

Ill With Flu
D. Scharnhorst has been confined to his home several days with the flu.

THE PICTURE SHOWS

"Flaming Fury"
The feature film for Saturday night at the Hotel theater will be Ranger, the famous dog star, in "Flaming Fury."

At Lac du Glace the factor and his sinister helper had hated the dog—when the two men were far out in the woods, the dog drove them, trembling in fear of their lives, to make belated restitution. A masterful tale of the North woods.

"Fig Leaves"
A gorgeous, stupendous, alluring picture will be shown at the Hotel theater Sunday night, when "Fig Leaves" will be the feature picture.

Even in the Garden of Eden, Eve fed Adam "apple sauce." The girl of the film is no different, only she dresses differently. What an apple did to Adam in olden times, a "peach" does for mere man today. This picture is a rib-ticking exposure of modern reckless women—"Fig Leaves," the story of clothes that made the woman and wrecked the man.

"Remember"
For Wednesday night, April 20, the feature picture at the Hotel theater will be "Remember," featuring beautiful Dorothy Phillips.

A dramatic story you will never forget. An amazing and unusual romance where two sisters loved the same man. The love of one was as pure as the other, fair and noble. Man-like, he chose the field one. Then he went to war. It's a wonderful story.

First Court Case
The first case to be tried before a jury in the district court was that of Chris Dunn, charged with being a persistent violator of the prohibition law. The jury in the case are L. C. Wolhuter, William Lennox, B. Brigham, G. H. Wiley, Harold Cornelison, J. Wallace Emmett, A. P. Dahl, Milburn Kenworthy, J. A. Heacock, Walter E. Melgard, S. A. Ross and Harry Bensoetter.

Legion Dance
The American Legion will give one of their popular dances in their hall on Thursday night, April 21.

Allison's singing dance band will furnish the music and Bob Allen will be at the piano—and you know what that means.

Spellers. However, we have others that are very good.

In our spelling contest the girls are ahead at present.

Third and Fourth Grades
All except nine of our number were excused for a quarter-day holiday Friday for being neither tardy nor absent during the six-weeks period.

Those pupils whose drills have been accepted by the A. M. Palmer company for the Palmer Method buttons, are: Ambrose Foster, Emma Vanouck, Thomas Sanford, Anita Henderson and Genevieve Harris. Those accepted for the Morit button, are: Marie Springer, Gaynell Hanson, Susie Drescher and Annabelle Huffman. Susie Drescher's drills were also accepted for the Progress pin.

Primary Room
Those receiving a holiday for perfect attendance a period of six weeks, were: First grade—Lucille Curran, Charlotte Foster, Reta Loncosty, Beuletta Norby, Floyd Rader, Lucille Plomer, Marie Berg, Elbert Hollingsworth. Second grade—James Drescher, Neva Erickson, Dallas Plomer, Cleora Miller, Raymond Cameron.

Potato Association Making Headway
At a meeting of the Farmers union in the American Legion hall last Saturday afternoon, by-laws of the organization were adopted and preparations made for incorporating the association. Very little else was said to have been said at the meeting. None of the young men were badly hurt. They crawled out in a ditch the car had fallen across.

Easter

Easter, the great historic monument, stands high in the eternal sunshine, colossal, gigantic, overwhelming! It has stood through all the ages testifying to the generations living and yet to be, that Christ is risen to give the world everlasting life.

Easter is synonymous with the budding time, coming as it does when each living thing is reaching upward for light and life. The gnarled old apple-tree with its rheumatic joints, burgesons anew with the greening shoots of hope. Easter lilies raise their trumpets to the skies to thank the Almighty for victory over death; rejoicing in their perennial triumph over their long winter sleep.

Nearly two thousand years ago The Man of Cavalry rose from an Assyrian tomb, proving by his resurrection that death is swallowed up in victory.

That grain of corn that fell into the ground and died so long ago has filled the world with eternal light and glory, making tolerable this existence.

Out of the Assyrian tomb of our hearts Christ will rise some day; when we can live to love and serve our fellow-man as He did; when we have had a change of heart—for after all it is through men's hearts that Christ will enter to give to life its deepest, fullest meaning; for naught save Christ is real and abiding.

Christ for all—All for Christ—Easter within our hearts.

—Bert Gamble.

An Old Paper
George Mochel has in his possession the first paper of the first issue of the Pataha City Spirit, dated at "Pataha City, Columbia County, Washington Territory, Tuesday, January 25, 1881." The paper carries a good line of advertising of various kinds, including the parlors where the "cup that flows" was quite prominently mentioned.

Pataha City was at that time three miles east of Pomeroy and Mr. Mochel was one of the residents of that thriving little town at that time. It ceased to function as a trading point. In the same issue of the paper the following item appears: "The Mormon Temple. Twenty years ago the Mormons at Salt Lake commenced building a temple. They are still working at it. Already over $4,000,000 has been expended and the structure has hardly assumed shape. It is estimated that the total cost will exceed $28,000,000. However the contract has yet 60 years to run and during that time labor and materials may be cheaper than during the past 20 years. It is estimated that the contract will avoid 'losing money on the goods.' It is to be built of Utah granite and when completed will be the finest of its kind, or any other kind, in the United States."

Some present were Mr. and Mrs. John Vandenberg, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Herman, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Haymond, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Isakson, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Larkin, Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Follett, Mrs. Glen Sampson, Misses Ethel Anderson, Jessie Keeler, Mary Mulalley, Gertrude Sampson, Margaret Sampson, Irene Mulalley; Messrs. Carl Nagel, Don Bressler, Archie McCoy, Ray Hanson, W. L. Lundquist of Moscow and E. C. Bergman of Lewiston, P. C. McCreary and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McCreary.

New Telephone Rates
Some rates have been made recently on the long distance toll lines to Lewiston and Moscow. The rates to both Lewiston and Moscow have been changed from 10c to 15c for station calls and from 15c to 25c for person calls, making an increase of five and ten cents in both instances.

The new night rates are now effective at 8:30 instead of 12 o'clock, formerly, and the evening rates now at 7 o'clock instead of 8:30 making a substantial reduction in early rates. This applies to Idaho only.

Collect calls may now also be made at station rates, instead of person rates, as formerly.

It is doubtful if there is another small town in the United States that gives as good and prompt service as does the Genesee telephone office. If there is any delay we'll wager it is on the other end of the line.

To Be Finest Week Ever
According to Colonel Hayden, the local weather prognosticator, this week is to be the finest ever—so it will be safe to go out without your rain coat or umbrella, to say nothing of your heavy top coat. Anyway, the sunshine thus for this spring (what little there has been of it) has been thoroughly enjoyed and here's hoping that Hayden knows what he is talking about and that he keeps right on giving us good weather.

Dodge Sedan Turns Turtle
A Dodge sedan containing three young men from Moscow, turned turtle Sunday evening about 3 1/2 miles south of Genesee Sunday evening, when the steering gear is said to have gone wrong, allowing the machine to go over an embankment about eight feet high, heading down and turning over endwise and resting on the top, which was badly demolished. None of the young men were badly hurt. They crawled out in a ditch the car had fallen across.

WHEAT PRICES STEADY—FEED GRAINS HIGHER

Fair domestic demand and export inquiry, together with delay in shipping in the Northwest held wheat prices in this country generally steady for the week ending April 9.

Offsetting liberal market arrivals and the good domestic winter wheat crop, states the weekly grain market review of the United States department of agriculture. Moderate receipts of corn helped the market for this grain while malting barley at Milwaukee reached a new high point for the crop. Oats made fractional advances at some markets while rye and flax were practically unchanged.

Winter wheat condition on April 1 is reported by the department at 84.5 per cent or normal, the highest for the date since 1921. A year ago the figure was 84.1. All important winter wheat states in the eastern, central and north central sections show an improvement in condition since December 1. In the western states of Kansas and Oklahoma, however, it has been too dry for wheat and the condition in these states and in Texas is lower than a year ago. On the other hand, trade reports say that cold, wet weather has delayed seeding in the Northwest and is delaying plowing in the Pacific northwest.

World wheat markets were practically unchanged. Shipments from the southern hemisphere were about 1,700,000 bushels larger than the previous week but European demand continued active and Liverpool may further close April 8 at a slight advance. Trade reports indicate that European crop conditions are somewhat better than a year ago.

Mill demand for wheat was moderately active in Southwestern markets. Northern mills were good buyers at Wichita while outside mills, exporters and local elevators furnished the principal outlet at Kansas City where fair amounts of the lower grades were moving to the gulf. Export bids for the gulf averaged 10c over the Chicago for No. 1 hard winter.

Light receipts at Minneapolis forced mills to draw a large proportion of high grade wheat from elevator stocks. Mill demand at Duluth was chiefly for the high protein Montana wheat and ordinary offerings went to the elevators. Demand for durum was quiet and premiums held barely steady.

Quality offerings of good milling quality were light. Fair export sales were reported. About 16,000,000 bushels durum wheat have been accounted for this season to date, in inspections for export at United States seaboard and Canadian inspections of United States wheat, compared with around 14,000,000 bushels a year ago. No. 1 Amber durum sold at Minneapolis at 5c to 10c over the Duluth May future, which closed April 8 at $1.45 1/2.

Soft wheat advanced 1c at St. Louis where light receipts offset limited demand. Additional soft wheat was sold for export although high water was interfering with loading of barges. Demand was improved at Cincinnati where milling was more active. Southern feed manufacturers were inquiring for low grades. Wheat markets in the Pacific Northwest were dull and sales of new crop wheat were larger than those of the old crop. Dealers expected financial conditions in Japan to restrict wheat imports there. Hard white wheat was quoted at around $1.38 and soft western white at $1.32.

Prices were generally unchanged at Chicago and the Northwest demand slackened at Omaha but quotations were higher in Texas. Limited offerings and more active demand forced an advance at St. Louis and Cincinnati.

It is doubtful if there is another small town in the United States that gives as good and prompt service as does the Genesee telephone office. If there is any delay we'll wager it is on the other end of the line.

5 reasons why STEEL ECLIPSE WINDMILLS run in lightest breeze

Why does the Steel Eclipse run when other mills are motionless? The answer is, scientific design and fine workmanship. Note these five reasons— (1) It is tilted to take advantage of lightest breeze. (2) All working parts run in oil. (3) All wearing surfaces are made of the right materials and surfaces are smooth. (4) It starts on two-thirds load—not full load; quick downstart and slow upstart means less effort required on the lift or pumping stroke. (5) All bearing surfaces are in line, reducing internal strains and power loss. Ask us to show you!

Julietta May Curtail Crops
Whether the Julietta cannery will operate this summer and fall or not will probably be contingent upon the price offered for tomatoes. The contract price for the growers last season was $15 a ton. Owing to the tomato blight menace, the net yield to the growers was materially reduced. Many of the larger tomato growers will not, it is understood, contract to raise tomatoes for the cannery for less than $20 a ton.

While it has been reported that the cause of the tomato blight has been found it may be several years before the disease will be put under control or eradicated.

Last year an early frost cut down the watermelon season in that vicinity and the profits of the melon growers were said to have been reduced considerably. As a result, there will probably be a less acreage planted to melons in this district this year than last. The prevailing prices during the last two years also had a bearing in the decision of the growers to reduce their melon acreage.

Cougar Kills Dog
Word is sent out from Princeton that a cougar entered the yard of one of the residents of that place and proceeded to kill his dog before the animal could be killed or scared away. It might have been a good idea to have had a few cougars around Genesee during this winter. It might have saved the residents a vast amount of annoyance by jipping curs and Marshal Bechler a deal of trouble in trying to get rid of them.

Fashion makers are decreeing again that the waist line shall not be a waste line.

W. W. P. News
More than $4,500,000 will be expended during this year in the building and renewal program of the Washington Water Power company in the ten counties of Washington and six counties of Idaho in which it operates, according to M. W. Birkett, vice-president and general manager.

Scores of improvement items on the 1927 budget have been planned primarily for a limited exhibit which occupied only a small portion of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce assembly room, the Sportmen's and Tourists' fair has developed, until today it is pronounced one of the finest and most unique outdoor shows in America," said John T. Little, chairman of the fair.

Selwood of Sleepy Cat

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—At Sleepy Cat Doctor Carpy told Wentworth, fighting boss, that he had a new partner, a big, burly, red-headed fellow named Selwood. Selwood was a hard-boiled, hard-boiled fellow, but he was a good man for it—he is a gambler.

CHAPTER II—A year afterward, Selwood was driving his truck through Sleepy Cat. He picked up the truck, after picking up a girl who was sitting in the back seat of the truck. He was attracted by the supposed owner thereof in the truck, a young, red-headed fellow named Selwood. Selwood's name was Selwood.

CHAPTER III—McAlpin, himself, Selwood and Wentworth were driving through Sleepy Cat, when Selwood and Wentworth were driving through Sleepy Cat, when Selwood and Wentworth were driving through Sleepy Cat.

kind of slow paralysis. Nothing can put in his hands to get him up. Selwood was hard to get what he got here in Sleepy Cat, after three years in the army. This town is certainly tough—and getting tougher.

"It was tough before you and I saw it, Doctor; and it will be tough after we're laid up on the hill," replied Selwood indifferently. "If you can't help Dave through, you'll save one good man for it—he is a gambler."

"Where you going?"

"Down to the town. Carpy understood what he meant—that he was going to see his wounded partner. Tracy had been moved from the gambling-hill to quieter quarters on the edge of the tent colony of the town.

As the two men parted and Selwood walked down the hotel steps, a tall, odd-looking man accosted him. "Stranger," he said with a suspicious air, "I'm lookin' for John Selwood."

Selwood answered promptly if not powerful when not aroused, but his disposition was naturally positive, and he was known as a fighter.

He shouldered himself through the crowd without hesitation or difficulty, and he was the first to get to the newsmen encroached on his privacy until the flyer tent was pitched all back to back with his own; and all that Selwood had to do was to get his neighbor's tent—a larger and better tent than the others—was that he sheltered a sick gambler. Carlisle sat at times among the buyers' truck to the edge of the town, and Selwood and going from the gambler's tent and at times a woman—who came daily from somewhere—to bring bread and to tidy up the quarters of the wounded man.

Once Christie, at her own work had caught a glimpse of this woman's face. She was not old in years, but her complexion, ruddy by the sun and the winds of the mountains, made her look old. Her features showed traces of an earlier beauty, and her slight, stocky build, and without serious strength; it was care and unwhippedness that aged her expression. Her eyes fixed themselves in Christie's memory; they were dark, but the light of her youth faded. Meeting her again in the street, she was passed to ask questions. The response had been cold—not calculated to invite acquaintance.

Margaret Hyde, indeed, carried no acquaintances. Hyde was a woman of bright wit, but among the few that called Sleepy Cat their abiding place she walked alone. She was a housekeeper at Doctor Carpy's house; a hard-working woman, and the hardest possible conditions; but she stuck to her job and walked her way—alone. And cold and hard though she was, she was never too busy to bring delicacies to the ailing or to sit up at night to care for a sick teardrop.

On this morning that Selwood parted from the tent, Christie surprised Christie Flyer, leaving her own tent to go up street, caught sight for the first time of a new visitor at the sick man's tent. It was Selwood, the kind of man, indeed, without Selwood's seeing Tracy; he made his visits usually in the early evening, before going to the hall. On this particular morning he was in the tent early—for him—that is, before noon. He came to discuss his friend's chances. From the tent Selwood walked back to the street, and he met Selwood on the way he had to pass the old building made up into a store by the trader, Flyer—the man of whom Carpy had once bought a gun, played—and passing, Selwood moved by an impulse of curiosity, looked in.

A midway counter was in progress. Before the counter, where Selwood entered, was gathered a small crowd of men—emigrants, settlers, teamsters, and loafers; while on the counter, Selwood was waiting to purchase and taking in the money. It looked like a queer combination to Selwood, the new trader and the two Sleepy Cat gamblers, but he had no comment to record on that point, either to himself or to any one else.

Selwood, listening to Big Haynes' thundering praises of his wares and complaints of the astonishing cleverness of his buyers, used his eyes about him. He saw that the stock was of a sort not infrequently shipped to the frontier because out-of-date elsewhere. It was desperately ill-assorted for the needs of western men, though it might have suited western women, his eyes fastened on the dry, thin, and gaunt figure, with a brown skin drawn like parchment over a nose as lean as a hound's. A sharp point of the jaw, and a pair of eyes that looked down, between beetling cheekbones, and his upper lip and lower face were covered with a scraggly growth of beard—a growth that in a heavy contest would have damned Adonis himself.

Flyer looked up without recognizing his benefactor of Crawling Stone wash.

"How's that?"

"Next the money drawer," Flyer laughed. "Mighty little in it!"

"My name's Selwood," said the gambler, without raising his voice. "I look after the Russell and Wentworth freight here. My wagon boss tells me we're short some goods for you in the last shipment."

"That's all right," said Selwood, looking at him with a new interest. "You were twelve cases of boots—all I had coming; just about you got me out of business. Where were they?"

"They weren't lost. They were stolen. I came in to get a description—when you're through with the sale."

As he spoke, a man that would in attention entered the front door. He was short, almost squat in stature, and square-built—practically every inch of him was solid muscle, as measured by a right angle. He was smooth-faced, his head was square, his forehead square, his shoulders square, his feet broad and heavy, and his jaw was square. He walked slowly and planted his hob-nailed boots squarely before him. His legs were short, his arms long, and he was dressed in a pair of blue jeans and a slung at his hip, wandered on his way. Selwood directed his steps toward Flyer's tent.

Selwood's eyes fastened on the man, and he was struck by the man's monotone that took care of you; and you're young. Now, Dave is just teardrop's little attention to the dotsum of the tent colony. He had only been carried to pitch and equip a tent for his friend, a hundred yards from another tent. But Dave had fingered—refusing to do the man's job, and to get to the tent, Selwood was the first to get to the newsmen encroached on his privacy until the flyer tent was pitched all back to back with his own; and all that Selwood had to do was to get his neighbor's tent—a larger and better tent than the others—was that he sheltered a sick gambler. done to start into life a man's first dream—one that may find place even in the heart of a man already case-hardened.

Chance, which always favors the persistent, came one day to Selwood's aid. Flyer lay in the tent ill, and that day Christie had to act as cashier. Selwood put in an appearance just before noon and saw Christie in the receipt of custom. Big Haynes, nevertheless, was knocking down the merchandise glibly and Selwood worried him very much by the way he stuck to Flyer's box. Christie, her cap carefully folded and lying on a shelf behind her and her bonnet held loosely by the strings, hanging back on her neck, stood newly revealed to Selwood. It was not so much that she looked prettier, but that she presented new charms—her brown hair was only like many another woman's brown hair, but to Selwood it was something never before suspected in the world; her cheeks suffused and her eyes bright with the excitement of her unaccustomed work, were just a repetition of nature's eternal challenge to mankind.

Not for an instant did the gambler hesitate—he who so often staked a frontier fortune on the turn of a card knew too well how long it may be before the same fortune turns again. He had seen Selwood, who had been cold—not calculated to invite acquaintance.

Margaret Hyde, indeed, carried no acquaintances. Hyde was a woman of bright wit, but among the few that called Sleepy Cat their abiding place she walked alone. she could find time to what manner of these mountain men were who trusted strangers with their money. Selwood watched her. One of her weightiest cares was that of making in a stark look a resumé of each article sold. This took time and required more knowledge of goods than she could muster; Haynes kept a duplicate book under his own hand, but he jotted things down fast, never stopping his talk. Selwood, however, had taken charge of Christie's care before noon and saw Christie in the receipt of custom. Big Haynes, nevertheless, was knocking down the merchandise glibly and Selwood worried him very much by the way he stuck to Flyer's box. Christie, her cap carefully folded and lying on a shelf behind her and her bonnet held loosely by the strings, hanging back on her neck, stood newly revealed to Selwood. It was not so much that she looked prettier, but that she presented new charms—her brown hair was only like many another woman's brown hair, but to Selwood it was something never before suspected in the world; her cheeks suffused and her eyes bright with the excitement of her unaccustomed work, were just a repetition of nature's eternal challenge to mankind.

Not for an instant did the gambler hesitate—he who so often staked a frontier fortune on the turn of a card knew too well how long it may be before the same fortune turns again. He had seen Selwood, who had been cold—not calculated to invite acquaintance.

Margaret Hyde, indeed, carried no acquaintances. Hyde was a woman of bright wit, but among the few that called Sleepy Cat their abiding place she walked alone. She was a housekeeper at Doctor Carpy's house; a hard-working woman, and the hardest possible conditions; but she stuck to her job and walked her way—alone. And cold and hard though she was, she was never too busy to bring delicacies to the ailing or to sit up at night to care for a sick teardrop.

On this morning that Selwood parted from the tent, Christie surprised Christie Flyer, leaving her own tent to go up street, caught sight for the first time of a new visitor at the sick man's tent. It was Selwood, the kind of man, indeed, without Selwood's seeing Tracy; he made his visits usually in the early evening, before going to the hall. On this particular morning he was in the tent early—for him—that is, before noon. He came to discuss his friend's chances. From the tent Selwood walked back to the street, and he met Selwood on the way he had to pass the old building made up into a store by the trader, Flyer—the man of whom Carpy had once bought a gun, played—and passing, Selwood moved by an impulse of curiosity, looked in.

A midway counter was in progress. Before the counter, where Selwood entered, was gathered a small crowd of men—emigrants, settlers, teamsters, and loafers; while on the counter, Selwood was waiting to purchase and taking in the money. It looked like a queer combination to Selwood, the new trader and the two Sleepy Cat gamblers, but he had no comment to record on that point, either to himself or to any one else.

Selwood, listening to Big Haynes' thundering praises of his wares and complaints of the astonishing cleverness of his buyers, used his eyes about him. He saw that the stock was of a sort not infrequently shipped to the frontier because out-of-date elsewhere. It was desperately ill-assorted for the needs of western men, though it might have suited western women, his eyes fastened on the dry, thin, and gaunt figure, with a brown skin drawn like parchment over a nose as lean as a hound's. A sharp point of the jaw, and a pair of eyes that looked down, between beetling cheekbones, and his upper lip and lower face were covered with a scraggly growth of beard—a growth that in a heavy contest would have damned Adonis himself.

Flyer looked up without recognizing his benefactor of Crawling Stone wash.

"How's that?"

"Next the money drawer," Flyer laughed. "Mighty little in it!"

"My name's Selwood," said the gambler, without raising his voice. "I look after the Russell and Wentworth freight here. My wagon boss tells me we're short some goods for you in the last shipment."

"That's all right," said Selwood, looking at him with a new interest. "You were twelve cases of boots—all I had coming; just about you got me out of business. Where were they?"

"They weren't lost. They were stolen. I came in to get a description—when you're through with the sale."

As he spoke, a man that would in attention entered the front door. He was short, almost squat in stature, and square-built—practically every inch of him was solid muscle, as measured by a right angle. He was smooth-faced, his head was square, his forehead square, his shoulders square, his feet broad and heavy, and his jaw was square. He walked slowly and planted his hob-nailed boots squarely before him. His legs were short, his arms long, and he was dressed in a pair of blue jeans and a slung at his hip, wandered on his way. Selwood directed his steps toward Flyer's tent.

Selwood's eyes fastened on the man, and he was struck by the man's monotone that took care of you; and you're young. Now, Dave is just teardrop's little attention to the dotsum of the done to start into life a man's first dream—one that may find place even in the heart of a man already case-hardened.

Chance, which always favors the persistent, came one day to Selwood's aid. Flyer lay in the tent ill, and that day Christie had to act as cashier. Selwood put in an appearance just before noon and saw Christie in the receipt of custom. Big Haynes, nevertheless, was knocking down the merchandise glibly and Selwood worried him very much by the way he stuck to Flyer's box. Christie, her cap carefully folded and lying on a shelf behind her and her bonnet held loosely by the strings, hanging back on her neck, stood newly revealed to Selwood. A Pleasant Surprise

On Wednesday a number of friends delightfully surprised Mrs. George Follett on the anniversary of her birth. The friends assembled at the Leon Follett home, each with a portion carefully prepared for the dinner. The guest of honor was artfully detained until all were assembled and the congratulations of the party.

An elaborate dinner was spread. After the good time Mrs. Follett was asked to take a certain seat and a large umbrella was hung over her head. Each dangling string was attached to a lovely handkerchief.

The guest of honor was required to blow out a tall candle which was in the center of the lovely birthday cake.

When the dinner was over the guests adjourned to the regular meeting of the aid society.

Those present were Rev. and Mrs. O. S. Barnum, Mrs. E. Dicus, Mrs. W. H. Eiben, Mrs. Laura Phillips, Mrs. H. Martinson, Mrs. Geo. Mochel, Mrs. Con. Steltz, Mrs. Hattie Herman, Mrs. Fred Perkins, Mrs. John Klapp of Spokane, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Follett and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Follett.

Advertisers Reliable Merchants Word has reached the News office that the country is being overrun at times by unreliable peddlers, who promise to give the purchaser better goods at less money than can be gotten from a legitimate merchant.

When the price may be attractive and the goods may look very good to the eye, their wares may not be just what they claim them to be.

When in need of anything, no matter what, it might be a good idea to at least compare quality as against price, before you make the decision as to which is best.

Of course there are a few fellows who sell wares over the country that are reliable, but you should know who they are and something of their goods before buying. You take no chances when buying goods of any kind from a legitimate merchant, and if you will read the ads. in the News each week you will be sure to find just what you want--and you will also know that the goods are just what they are advertising to be and that you are taking no chances.

Blue Bird Club Entertained The Blue Bird club met at the home of Mrs. Albert Peterson Tuesday afternoon. A business meeting was held at 2 o'clock, the remainder of the time being spent in making up the names, dresses for the orphans' home at Lewiston.

A delightful luncheon was served by the hostess at 4 o'clock.

The invited guests were Mrs. Wm. Jenkins, Mrs. Fred Shoop, Miss Ida Johnson, Mrs. J. A. Hulbush and Mrs. Thos. Kimberling and two children.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Colin Wilson on May 3.

This little club has for its aims and object charity work exclusively, and the ladies believing it to have done much good in a charitable way, making articles of wearing apparel for the children's home at Lewiston and doing many other charitable acts that are very commendable. If more of the clubs had charity as their object, much material good could be accomplished.

Another "Bare Nuff Egg" Just to show that the Genesee section is still in the running with the big eggs, Sam Stucker brought to the News office Tuesday morning two White Leghorn eggs--that were real ones for hens' eggs. One of them measured 6 1/2 x 7 1/2 inches and the other measured 6 1/2 x 8 inches and the two weigh seven ounces. Sam says he has the large sized Leghorns and they give him the large sized eggs. They surely are big ones for Leghorns.

We are going to hold a "court of inquiry" over the big egg that Cliff Lund brought to the News office the other week. We are of the opinion that he was "spooing" us when he said one of his Black Minorca hens produced eggs the size of the one he brought, but Cliff is a member of one of the coyote clubs--how could we doubt his word?

SELF-LEVELING RECLEANER

The grain auger and grain conveyor elevate the grain into a recleaner built in the upper part of the thrasher. The recleaner shoe itself is made independent and is suspended on an oscillating shaft which automatically maintains a level position in going up or down hills. The grain is distributed evenly over the entire recleaner surface by the recleaner auger. To take care of the different grain conditions and to get good cleaning even under the most serious conditions the side shake is made adjustable by varying the throw from nothing to a maximum throw of a three fourth of an inch.

Has Everything You Want In a Manure Spreader

In the manure spreader you buy you want easy-loading, easy-pulling, high-grade work and durability. Note these qualities in the

the spreader with the beater on the axle and the box-roll turn

Easier loading because the New John Deere has a 5- to 10-inch lower box advantage; saves the hard work of pitching the manure high.

Easier pulling because it has high drive wheels, roller bearings, fewer moving parts, and the beater on the axle.

Does better work be- cause the beaters are low down, close to the ground. Manure is deposited evenly, making a well-defined line beyond the drive wheels before winds can cause driv- ing.

Lasts longer because the beater on the axle results in simpler construction; fewer parts, unusually high-grade materials and workmanship throughout.

Come in and see this New John Deere—the spreader with the features you are sure to want. It's on our floor ready for your inspection and comparison.

The Great American Disaster

Eye Strain

The strain of civil life falls most heavily upon the eyes, the most delicate and the hardest worked of any of the organs of the body.

There is an intimate relation between eye strain, inefficiency, and physical ills. All the physical activities of the body are made possible only through the expenditure of nerve force, which is our vital motive power.

Nerve exhaustion is the cause of most of our physical ills. Defective eyes, out of focus, use more than their allotted portion of this vital energy, thus robbing other organs of their energy and we often find under such conditions stomach, heart, liver and kidneys cease to do their work properly for lack of nerve force. This is what is known as reflex or "re- flected" nerve trouble, with which millions of people suffer.

These facts lead to another important phase of the matter. The eyes, by making an extra effort, are sometimes able to overcome a considerable amount of defect, still holding them- selves in focus so that the owner sees, although he is using much more nerve energy than he should.

Save your eyes and health by consulting a reliable, experi- enced specialist. Remember it costs no more to consult Dr. Jones, the old reliable specialist, than one of little experience.

REMEMBER, JONES' GLASSES SATISFY. There's a reason. For superior service and better glasses, call and consult

SEMI-LOCAL NEWS CLIP. FED FROM EXCHANGES

Crop Prospects Good
Prospects for good grain crops throughout the entire Palouse country have never been better, according to information from farmers of this section. Quite a little of the Feder- ation wheat that was seeded last fall was frozen out, and this will have to be reseeded in places, but fields seeded to other harder varieties are showing up well. The soil is saturated to a good depth, which insures moisture for the maturing season in the early summer when rains are less frequent.—Uniontown Journal.

Get 100,000 Trout Fry
County Game Warden M. C. Martin, in company with George Peterson, will go to Spokane Saturday and on their return trip will bring back from the state fish hatchery at that place one hundred thousand baby Eastern Brook trout, which will be planted in the various streams of the county. This is one of the largest allotments of Eastern Brook trout that has ever been made for Asotin county in any one time, and will go far toward getting this specie of trout stocked in the waters of this county.—Asotin Senti- nel.

New Water Mains
The village of Troy has let to the Pacific States Cast Iron Pipe Co. an order for 2604 feet of six-inch cast iron pipe at 87c per foot and 3,000 feet of four-inch pipe at 60c per foot. De- livery of the pipe is expected by April 20, and work on laying it is expected to begin as soon as it is received, with the work completed by May 10.—Troy News.

Wheat In Good Shape
Now that the snow has all gone, a good size-up of the condition of win- ter wheat can be had. The wheat is in fine shape. Early moisture lat- est permitted early seeding and the grain made a good growth before winter set in.—Press (Derry).

Too Late
Now comes one Egyptologist with the declaration that Cleopatra was neither a beauty nor a vamp, that she really thought she was married to Caesar, and that she was the mother of twins. It's too late to put this stuff before us, belonging as we do to the "I am dying, Egypt, dying" era of civilization.

Big Lumber Mill De Ready
The big lumber mill now in course of construction above Lewiston, will be all ready to start operations in July, according to a report published in The Lewiston Tribune.

The main plant is practically com- pleted, it being estimated that 95 per cent of the necessary machinery is now in place. The dry kiln is near- ing completion and the larger per- cent of the tracks to be used in the kilns are now in place. The building for the power plant is complete with the exception of the boilers and other equipment for this plant will be in- stalled next week.

The machinery and materials enter- ing into the construction of the mill- ing plant is in excess of 1,200 car- loads. There is approximately 15, 000,000 feet of lumber used in the construction and there are about 14 miles of pipe line in the company's water system that will afford fire protection for all buildings and yards.

Hundreds of autos visit the scene of the big mill and dam-site, which is indeed a very interesting place to go.

Captive Animals Fretful
Some wild animals are so fretful in captivity that their lives are short- ened materially. This is true of foxes and monkeys. Elephants and snakes do not seem to suffer much from cap- tivity, but are strongly inclined to long lives in any environment. The mortality among animals in zoologi- cal parks is very high.

Adjusting Nation's Backbone
Dame Nature is suffering from a chill up and down her continental spine at the thought of osteopaths get- ting "back to nature" in the Colorado Rockies, in July, coincident with the convention of the American osteop- athic association in Denver. Let's hope that they confine their adjustments to the crack of dawn.

Men In Your Town
Good Citizens

The Northern Pacific is a home-town institution—it is part of your town, your county and your state. We live here. The railroad is not, after all, essentially a lot of cars and miles of steel—it is a human organization of people. Men of the Northern Pacific and their families—your neighbors—are the kind of people we believe you will enjoy knowing and knowing well. North- ern Pacific men are in the railroad business for their life work and they are giving to that work and to transportation service for the Northwest, their best ability and skill.

TODAY'S FORD CAR

Before you buy any make of automobile, let us show you today's Ford car.

You may consider that you know the Ford car. You may have been a Ford owner for years and think you are familiar with the splendid satisfaction which the Ford gives, and yet unless you have made it a point to examine the Ford car as it is BUILT TODAY, you do not know the Ford car as it is built today.

Many of the new Ford car features are obvious—balloon tire equipment—wire wheels—pyroloxin finish—a choice of colors—improved upholstery, etc., but the big satisfaction to you, as owner of Today's Ford Car is found in the way in which it will fulfill your expectations of what a modern motor car should be.

You will be amazed at the increased power resulting from the new Vaporizer, the smoother engine operation, the increased gasoline mileage, the im- proved riding qualities, and above all, in the way in which this car handles and performs in traffic and on the open road.

In short, you must drive a new Ford car to be a fair judge of present-day car values.

We invite your inspection of Today's Ford Cars.

The doctor had taken off his hat and was scratching his ear when he appealed to his companion for help.

"Christie Fyler," interposed Christie. Just the sound of her voice pulled Selwood's eyes to her eyes.

"You know this big bulk, don't you, Christie?" asked the doctor with genial informality.

"Well, it is 'Gentleman John' you can't get rid of it," persisted the doctor. "You just tipped up your hat to her, didn't you? Nobody else with a hundred and fifty miles of Selwood that would do that. Would they?"

"And yesterday morning Mr. Atkins took possession of the store and put father out of it entirely."

"Is your father sick?" he asked without much feeling.

"He was robbed and beaten last night," she replied, looking at him and speaking quickly. "Two men came to the tent, called him out, knocked him senseless, and took all his money."

"A pocketful, too?" interjected the doctor.

"And yesterday morning Mr. Atkins took possession of the store and put father out of it entirely."

"Why?" he asked mildly.

Christie wrung one hand nervously in the other. "I don't know. I can't understand it, neither can father. He says father owes him money—he doesn't—not a penny. But he's taken all our goods and everything and put us out in the street!"

Selwood listened without batting an eye. Christie's restrained grief was plainly real.

"Carry thought it should have called forth some expression of sympathy from the gambler. Why don't you say something?" remonstrated the doctor.

Selwood asked a question of the doctor. "How bad is Fyler hurt?"

"Well, aside from his head being cut wide open and being pounded up generally with a wagon spoke, he ain't really hurt at all," replied Carpy honestly.

Selwood of Sleepy Cat By FRANK H. SPEARMAN Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons, W.W.U. Service.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—At Selwood's Cat Doctor Carpy tells Wentworth, freighting boss of a shooting scrape in St. Mary's gambling den, how he got the medicine back to Selwood.

CHAPTER II—A year afterward, Selwood now Wentworth's contractor, lives at Selwood Cat, driving his buckboard on a dirt road, when a woman's wagon has hit in a creek. He helps her out, and she is attracted to his girl's shoes and seen and heard attracted by the sunbeams that shone in Fyler's (the gambler's) wagon.

CHAPTER III—McAlpin, Selwood's barn foreman, informs Selwood that the swindlers, Barlow and Atkins, have returned to Moscow.

CHAPTER IV—Selwood, head of the crowd, gambler, remonstrates with Selwood and is sharply rebuffed. Fyler, engaged to go to the block, Bill Hayes, running a mock auction of worthless goods in the block, Dave Tracy, slowly recovering from his wounds, and a woman of mystery, housewife, enter the scene.

CHAPTER V—Selwood makes Christie's acquaintance and warns Fyler that he is a gambler. Christie, attracted, tries to persuade Selwood to believe in Selwood's plan to buy a house, but Selwood is not interested.

CHAPTER VI—Selwood, looking at his hat and that Selwood did not acknowledge Christie's presence. He got his eyes started on Carpy, and received the doctor's outburst without visible emotion.

"Why don't you say something, you big gut?" he said, looking at Selwood, fussed, to tell the truth, by the presence of the slip of a young woman at his side—so young, indeed, that she should be called a girl rather than a woman.

"What do you want me to say?" asked Selwood, without a smile. "I always ask me that when you get mad—and you're mad most of the time. What's bothering you?"

"John, here's this nice little girl"—he looked toward her and knit his brows in perplexity—"dash it, I've continued apologetically. I never can remember your name."

"Christie Fyler," interposed Christie. Just the sound of her voice pulled Selwood's eyes to her eyes.

"You know this big bulk, don't you, Christie?" asked the doctor with genial informality.

"Well, it is 'Gentleman John' you can't get rid of it," persisted the doctor. "You just tipped up your hat to her, didn't you? Nobody else with a hundred and fifty miles of Selwood that would do that. Would they?"

"And yesterday morning Mr. Atkins took possession of the store and put father out of it entirely."

"Is your father sick?" he asked without much feeling.

"He was robbed and beaten last night," she replied, looking at him and speaking quickly. "Two men came to the tent, called him out, knocked him senseless, and took all his money."

"A pocketful, too?" interjected the doctor.

"And yesterday morning Mr. Atkins took possession of the store and put father out of it entirely."

"Why?" he asked mildly.

Christie wrung one hand nervously in the other. "I don't know. I can't understand it, neither can father. He says father owes him money—he doesn't—not a penny. But he's taken all our goods and everything and put us out in the street!"

Selwood listened without batting an eye. Christie's restrained grief was plainly real.

"Carpy thought it should have called forth some expression of sympathy from the gambler. Why don't you say something?" remonstrated the doctor.

"Doctor, murmured Christie, naturally indignant, and anxious to get away from an unsympathetic atmosphere. 'ought we not to be hurrying to get the medicine back to Selwood?'"

Selwood turned to Christie. "I wonder whether I could see—your father—a minute? He's very young and 'your father,' being just a respectable fellow; Selwood wanted to say, not 'your father,' but 'Fyler'—so little was he in love with him; and being just mean enough to test the trader had 'something coming to him.'"

"Why not?" interposed Carpy. "He's down there in that tent right back of Dave's."

"I better wait till you come back," suggested Selwood, appealing to Christie.

"Come along to the office then; I'll give her the medicine and you two can go back together."

Until the two left the office, medicine in hand, Carpy kept the talk going. But when Selwood found himself on the way to the tent in company with Christie only, the situation grew embarrassing. Selwood's hardness of heart was fast giving way before the more earnest, who properly, he chided in the paraded Selwood's attempts to warm. Altogether, by the time the tent was reached, Selwood's face pale had almost faded him—he was feeling uncomfortable.

Carpy's presence was not needed to enable him to pass on Fyler's condition. Selwood had come in contact with many such men, and saw at once from Fyler's eyes that he was more scared than hurt. Selwood listened without comment to the story—told partly by Fyler and partly through Carpy's interruption by Christie. Violence was all so new to Christie, her view of it as something too horrible to refer to as a matter so native in the surroundings in which she was now condemned. Selwood regarded her as the most innocent person he had ever met, and felt sorry for her when he thought of her on the frontier.

He offered that perfunctory consolation he could, but not being listening in the sort of thing, did not really care. He asked Fyler whether he thought he would recognize his assailants. Christie intervened. "How could he? It was pitch dark; but Mr. Starbuck warned father just the other day to be careful." Selwood picked up his ear— "he said the time is bothered every night with men that come in in the evening," continued Christie excitedly. "He said he'd go and leave again before morning."

Selwood looked thoughtfully. "That doesn't tell you get off with your life," he said to Fyler. "That's better than some men do. I'll see whether I can find out anything. And then I'll come in to see how you are coming on; hope you'll be feeling better soon."

Christie followed him outside the tent and passed a few steps away. "Do you think my father will get well?"

"I'm not a doctor, Christie," he answered in a kind of gasp, the first time he had ever spoken to her—"but I've seen a good many men wounded on the head; he's said, 'dashing a little with your hands,' and he's said, 'if your father were hurt badly he'd be unconscious—and he would breathe like—well, like a man snoring pretty hard.'"

"He says he doesn't want to get well, now he's lost everything."

"If all the men in Selwood Cat have lost everything were to die, there wouldn't be Indians enough in the reservation to bury them. He'll get over that. Selwood Cat money comes easy and goes fast. Besides, I wouldn't say your father's lost everything; he'll get his store back somehow."

"And he's begun gambling, too, in this horrible place," murmured Christie, "and that's like death to me—his gambling."

Selwood turned red as a turkey topper when he saw his niece now. "Where's your father gambling?"

"He's gambling, but he's resolved to bluff it out."

"Oh, down in that horrible River quarter."

"If he's taking his money down there," observed Selwood calmly, "he's not gambling—he's just getting robbed. If he's bound to gamble he'd better pick a place where he has a chance. But your father ought to know," he continued, in fat-headed appreciation, "that wherever he plays the chances are always in favor of the house—that's what gambling places are run for—to make money for the owners."

Christie looked at him. It was as if she were placing a wholly new confidence in him, one never South of her immediate appeal. "I wish you would talk to him, Mr. Selwood—tell him that."

"Again and again I've tried to burst in—and outwardly, 'it might not do any good,' he said, to hide his retreat, 'but I could at least speak from experience.'"

"With these words he skated as rapidly as possible from that part of the pond."

"I'm driving to Point of Rocks and Medicine Bend today," he went on. "He's coming back this morning," replied Christie, with great confidence. "To talk with father about it. So I'm sure that will be all right."

"Your father is going to get well," predicted Selwood, without comment.

"You needn't worry about that, anyway." But he was not gone two or three days. That night at dusk, with the moon rising, Christie heard a man's voice outside her tent. "Is Doctor Carpy there?" She was alone with her father and made no answer. The question was repeated. Christie peeped through the fly. Selwood stood at the tent door. She opened the fly and answered him.

"I thought he might—or might not be here," he said in the same slow, even tone, "but I wanted to see you."

"I better wait till you come back," suggested Selwood, appealing to Christie.

"Come along to the office then; I'll give her the medicine and you two can go back together."

There's a joker in the "cheap" paint can!

"Cheap" paint looks like paint and smells like paint—and the low price seems to be attractive. But here is the two-sided "joker."

A gallon covers only about half the area covered by SWP House Paint — a strictly quality paint. Nearly twice as many gallons are needed. Figure that out and the low price isn't low at all.

Then it lasts only about half as long on the house—needs to be renewed oftener—costs over twice as much per year as SWP.

Come in. Let us tell you the whole story about real paint economy. We will save you money.

GUARANTEED!

SWP House Paint is guaranteed to look better, last longer, cost less per job and less per year than any house paint on the market.

Why Firestone Dealers?

Firestone Dealers

Serve You Better and Save You Money

We know tires—how to select the best—how to help you take care of them, and get the most out of them. We sell Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires and Tubes—also Oldfield Tires and Tubes.

Both Firestone and Oldfield Tires are scientifically designed and manufactured by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. Mr. Harvey S. Firestone is President and active head of the Company and under his management many outstanding developments and improvements for economy, safety and comfort in tires have been made. He is the acknowledged leader in lowering the costs and fought almost a lone battle to secure lower crude rubber prices from a foreign monopoly. He has saved, and is saving, millions of dollars every year for car owners.

Through the Firestone policy of selling and distributing tire to dealers through 148 Factory Branches and Warehouses, we receive fresh, clean stocks of tires of the highest quality at prices which are the lowest in the history of the industry, and we pass these advantages in quality and low price on to our customers.

W. W. P. News Notes

When completed, the Chelan project of the Chelan Electric company, a subsidiary of the Washington Water Power developments in the Pacific Northwest, according to M. W. Birckett, vice-president and general manager of the parent company, is expected that the first unit of the project, with 32,000 horsepower, will be completed about the middle of this summer.

Work is now going forward rapidly in all phases of this huge development. The two-mile tunnel is practically completed and the dam and powerhouse will be erected to their full height within 30 days. The project will have a developed capacity ultimately of 128,000 horsepower.

The completion of the Chelan project is an adequate indication that under private development the power resources of this state are being developed well ahead of actual demand and that the electric service industry is setting the pace for other industries in having our power resources ready for use at all times," Mr. Birckett states.

Expect to Have Some Fruit

Reports from the Lewiston-Clarkston district are to the effect that there may be a small crop of fruit in that section, as some of the fruit men have reported that they will have a small crop of cherries and other fruit that was supposed to have all been killed, although there has been no mention of apricots or peaches, which are said to have been entirely frozen.

So far as known, there should be a splendid crop of cherries in the Genesee section, where as fine cherries are grown as can be found anywhere, although they are raised only for home use.

A bad freeze in this section at this time would kill practically all fruit as the trees are ready to burst into bloom.

P. S.—There was a heavy frost on the ground Thursday morning and at 6 o'clock in the morning the mercury was hovering around the freezing point, but whether any damage was done to the fruit has not been learned.

The Springs Club

The Springs club met at the country home of Mrs. Jesse Borgen on April 27.

A very enjoyable afternoon was spent. The time was occupied with needlework and social converse.

Miss Bernadette Weber and Mrs. John Flomer have been made members of the club.

At 4:30 a lovely lunch was served by the hostess.

The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. John Flomer on May 11.

Taken to Soldiers' Hospital

Patrick (Paddy) Ryan, the only soldier of the Civil war left in this community, was last week taken to the soldiers' hospital at Boise, where he will receive the care he is entitled to. He has been in very feeble health for the past several months.

He refused to go to the soldiers' home as he seemed to think that would be asking charity. While "Paddy" is getting pretty tottery, he still has that spirit that saved the Union.

Cemetery Needs Attention
As usual, the I. O. O. F. cemetery is badly in need of attention, and some move should be made to have it cleaned up before Memorial day—not only to have it in a presentable appearance for that day, but for the sake of our loved ones who lie there and for whom we should show enough respect to at least make their resting place as neat and clean as possible.

The gates are in need of immediate attention and there are various other things that should be looked after there.

A cemetery association should be formed and some provision made for the care of the ground and graves which constantly need attention to keep them the way they should be kept.

Hotel Plans Nearly Ready
Completed plans and specifications for Moscow's hotel annex and remodeling of the present structure will be ready May 20 and bids will be called immediately that construction may start shortly after June 1, it has been announced.

KLEWENO FAMILY WILL AGAIN START SEARCH

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kleweno last week went to the woods on the Potlatch, at Grizzly Camp, and again on Sunday, and have decided to again take up the search for the body of their son, Reuben Kleweno, who was lost in that section November 30, while hunting.

Mr. Kleweno states that the snow has about all disappeared in that section and that he, with some five or six men, will leave about the 19th of this month for Grizzly Camp, where they will establish headquarters and take up a systematic search and will continue indefinitely. He states that that date the conditions will be ideal and that he will appreciate any assistance that may be given by those who have volunteered to help prosecute the search. Some have indicated that they would go in as soon as conditions were favorable and Mr. Kleweno says that information as to his whereabouts may be obtained from either Mr. Smith, at his store, or Mr. Pearson, at his oil station, at Harvard, at any time.

A concerted search will probably be made on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 20, 21 and 22, and should anyone from Genesee care to join in the search at that time it will be greatly appreciated by Mr. Kleweno. Sheriff Charlie Summerfield has indicated his intention to organize his deputies into a searching party and assist in the hunt for the missing young man, in the near future.

Headquarters will be established at Grizzly camp, where information may be had regarding the movements of the searchers.

Brings Suit to Foreclose
As will be seen by the following, suit has been filed in the District court at Moscow by the Federal Land Bank of Spokane against Jesse G. Campbell, in whose name the Genesee hotel property stands, and that the small creditors in Genesee will stand no chance of receiving anything on account:

The suit is entitled: The Federal Land Bank of Spokane vs. Jesse G. Campbell, et al., foreclosure of a mortgage in which the plaintiff alleges the issuance of five promissory notes by the defendant (Campbell), amounting to $8125 and interest.

The accounts owed by Mrs. Parker were pooled and amounted to something like $800 and of course are secondary to the mortgage of the land bank, and it is hardly possible that anything will be received on account.

Of course the land bank cannot be blamed as they are not in the charitable business and it is necessary for them to foreclose in order to protect themselves, but it places the hotel in a bad light and will naturally make those who have lost by its changing hands so many times feel suspicious and it is more than likely that it will be necessary to run that institution on a cash basis in future, no matter who takes it over.

To Test Cattle
Effective Monday, Perce, Clearwater and Lewis counties will be under federal and state quarantine until the representatives of the bureau of animal industry of the agencies finish their drive and final test for controlling and eradicating tuberculosis among cattle, says a news dispatch from Lewiston.

This means that no cattle shall be imported into the three counties unless from an accredited herd after having passed a satisfactory tuberculosis test applied by an approved veterinarian. The only exception to this rule is in the case of cattle for immediate slaughter which must be disposed of within 10 days and during this interval must be held apart from any other cattle.

SEMI-LOCAL NEWS CLIP. PED FROM EXCHANGES

The Difference
Men have a distinct advantage as the warm spring days approach. They can put on lighter clothing, but what are the ladies going to do? Probably wear a fur in addition to their present wardrobe.—Kendrick Gazette.

Idaho Good Enough
Folks, when you get to thinking the weather here is not being very good to you these days, pick up the daily or weekly city paper and read again what is happening in the old Mississippi valley. Ours is not so bad, after all, is it? Not one of us would trade a month of the weather we have been growing about the past week for a single minute of what the Mississippi valley is now having.—Press (Deary).

Many Sheep to Shear
The sheep-shearing season has again rolled around for the boys men of the Astoria creek section, but up to the present time very little has been done since the shearing crew has been assembled, because of rain. All told there are around ten or twelve thousand sheep in the section, and the weather will clear up and remain for a time it will not require more than about two or three weeks to get all of the bands cleaned up and ready for the mountain range.—Astoria Sentinel.

Craigmont Store Burglarized
Sometime during Monday night the Scott store was broken into and considerable merchandise taken, the parties gaining admittance through the small window in the rear of the building, which opens into the warehouse. From here they jimmied the door leading into the main store room.

Several rifles, a pair of boots, blazers, wool shirts and many other articles of clothing were taken; $15 in cash was also taken from the cash register, which has been broken open. The store is in charge of the store state that many other articles may have been taken.

This is not the first time that a store in our city has been broken into, but to date not a single man has been brought to trial. It seems that with each piece of work performed by the slick fingered artist, he is getting more bold.—Register (Craigmont).

Nagel Sues Stage Line
Fred Nagel of Genesee on Friday sought total damages of $476.48 from the Interstate Coach company, following a double collision with the bus of the defendant near Pullman. Suit to recover damages was started in the probate court under Judge Nelson.

Under terms of the complaint filed, Nagel seeks to recover damages to his car when the rear end of the bus struck it, and damages to the third car in the collision, the owner of which is suing Nagel for damages.

The accident occurred on the road between Pullman and Uniontown, about three miles south of Pullman, when the bus, alleged to be on the wrong side of the road, sideswiped the lighter car and forced it from the road. Another enclosed car owned by the Nespeper Flour Mill Co. of Nespeper hit the Nagel car shortly afterward.

The plaintiff seeks a total of $476.48, of which $200 is for the owner of the third car. No date has been fixed by Judge Nelson for hearing the case.—Star-Mirror.

Concert Was Success
The concert given by St. Luke's choir of Spokane at the Genesee Valley Lutheran church last Sunday afternoon was very much enjoyed by a large crowd, many coming from Moscow and other points to hear them. The choir sang without the aid of music, attesting to the high state of their training.

With the Ball Fans

The local K. of P. ball team went to Julieta Sunday and crossed bats with the ball tossers of that place, the locals bringing home the "bacon" by a score of 13 to 6.

Following is the score for the game:
Genesee K. P. AB R H
Bumpass, F 6 1 2
Fellows 6 0 0
Bumpass, L 5 1 2
Wardrobe, B. 3 1 0
Weber 4 1 0
Olson 4 3 2
Wardrobe, M. 2 1 1
Austin 1 0 0
Gray, L. 2 3 0
Springer, M. 5 2 0
Blume 4 0 0
47 13 13

There will be another game on the local diamond Sunday afternoon, commencing at 2:30, between Clarkston and the local K. P. team. This promises to be a splendid game as Clarkston has a bunch that is going to try their best to take the long end of the score home with them, while the local boys are going to give them a run for their money.

Farmers Are Busy
The farmers of the Genesee section are busy with their farm work just at this time, the ground being in excellent condition for work in most localities—and they are making the most of the opportunity.

Spring-sown grain is coming nicely and gives promise of a good crop. Fall grain, in most places, is looking fine, although it is rather thin on the clay points and where the snow and ice was slow about leaving. However, from all indications at this time, there will be a good crop of both spring and fall grain in this section.

Now that the potato warehouse and sales association are assured, a larger amount of potatoes than usual will be planted in this section of the country and more attention will be paid to the growing of the better grades so that they will conform to the requirements of state and national shipping rules.

Chautauqua Dates Given Out
According to information from the Ellison-White Chautauqua system, the dates set apart for the chautauqua at Genesee are June 21-26, inclusive.

The announcement states that there will be two marvelous plays, many fine musical numbers, some of the best platform speakers and lectures to be procured, and a junior chautauqua for the babies.

Further announcement of the entertainment features will be made later.

K. C. to Meet at Cottonwood
The 19th annual state convention of the Knights of Columbus will be held at Cottonwood on May 30 and 31, when it is expected that 300 state officials, delegates and members will be present.

The convention will be preceded by the initiation of a large class from many parts of north and central Idaho.

H. S. Baseball Season Closed
The Genesee High School Baseball team finished its season last Friday by defeating Moscow high by a score of 9 to 5. The team had only four games this year, but won all three by comfortable margins. Putnam and Cameron were the battery, with John Hayden pitching a game at Julieta. Hitting honors for the season are closely divided between Bumpass, Weber, Doyle and Blume.

Several of the boys from the H. S. team are making regular berths on the town team.

Had Much Experience
"I—I thought y-you t-tole me y-you were experienced!" a much shaken old gentleman spluttered as he crawled from the wreck of his handsome new car, which his chauffeur had just wrapped around a tree.

"I am," asserted the chauffeur. "Why, I drove three years for an officer during the war and was wounded every year."

"Wounded! Only wounded!" snorted his employer disgustedly. "By George, he must have been a rotten shot or he'd have got you the first year!"

BOLLES

Buster Brown Shoe Store Moscow, Idaho

although the total consumption of beef reached an unprecedented total, the meat consumption per capita was the smallest of any year since 1921.

This situation would seem to indicate that one thing, it doesn't necessarily mean that it is a change in our tastes but rather the result of the business acumen which is showing itself among the producers of the other food stuffs.

The substitution of other food stuff for meat food products on the American table is of vital importance to every livestock producer. There is the keenest competition between all classes of food stuffs and meat, one of the most worthy items, is not receiving its due.

The producer of livestock in days gone by has taken a rather self-sufficient attitude, feeling that his product would sell itself being as it is a human necessity. To some extent this has been true but there is a spread between the point of actual necessity and the buying power of the American public. In this spread is found the reason for the strides that have been made by the producers of commodities who have resorted to salesmanship and publicity in encouraging the public to eat their products instead of meat.

The use of so-called meat substitutes has grown by leaps and bounds in the past few years and for no other reason than the lack of effort in presenting the desirability of meat as a food before the consuming public. A fair illustration of this may be had by looking through any number of national publications and picking out the food stuffs to which the attention of the consuming public is directed. There are very few instances where one is invited to eat more beef, pork or mutton. However, there are many advertised substitutes which go so far as to direct attention to the undesirability of meat. This is not true in all cases and many food campaigns are conducted on a very high plane. These campaigns have succeeded very admirably and there is no reason to believe that the producers of meat food animals would not do the same.

Past experience has proven that when the movement one gets under way that everyone allied with the livestock industry from the producer to the marketer, the packers, distributors and consumers will put their shoulder to the wheel to make possible a successful "Eat More Meat" campaign.

If you think the future will take care of itself—that shows you haven't lived in the future.

Junior-Senior Banquet

The annual junior-senior banquet for the Genesee High school was given Tuesday evening at Smolt's, plates being laid for about 45.

Ormond Mosman, president of the senior class, acted as toastmaster and gave the first talk, followed by Ruby Roach, Arthur Kleweno and Mabel Botzler. Supp. M. E. Muhlitz gave a very interesting talk on school work and Guy Wicks followed with a talk on athletics, these were followed by Alice Hanson and Ruby Roach, on girls' athletics and Roy Cameron and Clarence Doyle on boys' athletics. There were also short talks by members of the senior and junior classes.

The decorations for the dining room were of the class colors—grey and cerise—and the junior girls, who had the decorating in charge, are to be complimented on their artistic ability. The class colors were also carried out otherwise wherever possible and the whole presented a very pleasing appearance.

The favors were unique—those for the boys resembling small boxes containing imitation cigarette holders in which was a miniature diploma, while those for the girls were small baskets containing miniature umbrellas and a small diploma, duplicating those of the boys.

Freshmen and sophomore girls acted as waitresses, wearing aprons and caps of grey and cerise. The table centerpiece was an imitation fountain and contained tulips, ducks, birds, etc., making a very beautiful appearance.

PASSING OF C. D. FLEMING, FORMER GENESEE RESIDENT

The following, taken from the Yakima Morning Herald of May 10, will be of interest to some of the older residents:

Stricken while apparently in good health, Corwin Delbert Fleming, Yakima furniture dealer and Northwest pioneer, died suddenly from a heart attack shortly after 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Death occurred in his office in his store at 102 South Second street. He was 71 years of age.

The Yakima valley was the scene of Mr. Fleming's business activities for 22 years. Thirty-two years ago he acquired and named what is still known as the Old California ranch in Parker bottom, where he engaged in diversified farming for nearly six years.

He also owned the largest hop ranch in the Moxee at one time. Six years after locating at Parker bottom, he went to Genesee, Idaho, and established a grain business. Later he moved to Lewiston and started a furniture store and moved that business to Yakima in 1916 because of the bright prospects offered by the valley.

Mr. Fleming came of pioneer stock. His father was one of the oldest settlers in Iowa and it was in Alburn, Iowa, that Mr. Fleming was born. Throwing for new country, Mr. Fleming traveled west at the age of 18 years, and for two years later became post trader at Fort Lapwai on the Nez Perce reservation. He joined the Masonic lodge in Lewiston five years ago and remained a staunch and active Mason the rest of his life.

Leviston was also the place of his marriage, May 16, 1888.

Members of the family are: His widow, Mrs. Fannie E. Fleming, and seven children, Esther Fleming, Mrs. Eloise Carpenter, Mrs. Eloise Tibbling and Delbert B. Fleming, all of Yakima; Mrs. Florence Ayres and Mrs. Leone Dawson of Seattle, and Earl Fleming of American Falls, Idaho. There are six grandchildren, five in Seattle and one in Yakima.

Mrs. Fleming is a step-sister of C. H. Spurbuck of Pine Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Spurbuck and Mrs. Thos. Johnson attended the funeral at Yakima, returning home last Friday.

Game Wardens Appointed The reappointment of H. L. Walrath of Orofino as assistant chief deputy state fish and game warden for northern Idaho, has been announced by E. E. Thomas, state game warden.

E. C. Collins of Moscow has been appointed deputy game warden for Latah county and it is to be hoped that he will be able to straighten out some of the numerous complaints of isolation of law that have been made in the past and will undoubtedly be made in the future.

Of course it is impossible for an officer of any kind to be in many places at the same time, but when a complaint is made that violations are being made, they should at least be looked into—and here's hoping he sees many things that have not been heretofore.

Another Ball Game Sunday While Genesee suffered defeat at the hands of the Clarkston ball-throwers last Sunday afternoon, they are going to "come back" and take to the Kendrick team next Sunday afternoon, the game to be played on the local diamond.

The Genesee team was defeated by a score of 13 to 10. The visitors made 13 hits while the locals scored only seven. The Clarkston team was credited with four errors while the locals were credited with only two.

The batteries were: Clarkston, Weeks and Sheridan, Fouts; Genesee, Lindsey and Putnam, Austin. The umpires were Whalen and Robinson.

St. Joseph's School Entertainment The entertainment given by the pupils of St. Joseph's Catholic school Tuesday night in the opera house was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience.

The youngsters each took their part well, showing the intensive training they had been given.

Such entertainments are not only good for the youngsters, but for older people as well.

The Syringa Club The Syringa met at the home of Miss Bernadette Weber on Wednesday, May 11, when a very enjoyable afternoon was spent. At 4:30 o'clock a splendid luncheon was served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Paul Heppner on May 25.

WHEAT CROP BELOW LAST YEAR — MARKET STEADY

Continued delay in the preparation of the ground and in the planting of the new crop, together with light receipts, caused a further sharp advance in corn prices during the week ending May 14, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States department of agriculture. Oats and other feed grains were also firm, particularly barley, receipts of which were below market requirements.

A winter wheat crop materially below that of last year is indicated in the May estimate but increased stocks of old grain will probably bring the supply near that of last year. The market remains firm as European demand continues to absorb the heavy export movement from the principal exporting countries.

According to the department's May 1 estimate less than the average abandonment has occurred in winter wheat this year and the average to be harvested will be about 1,800,000 acres more than last year. The condition was 85.6% of normal which is nearly 2 points above the average for the past 10 years on May 1 and indicates a crop of about 594,000,000 bushels, or about 33,000,000 bushels less than was produced last year.

The principal wheat areas in the principal hard winter wheat states but this reduction in the central west is somewhat offset by an increase of about 15,000,000 bushels in the west coast.

The foreign wheat market situation also continues firm. The current heavy receipts in European markets are being absorbed directly into consuming channels with no material increase in port stocks and substantial supplies apparently will continue to be wanted for the remainder of the present season, which may be somewhat extended by a later harvest in the northern hemisphere this year.

The delayed seeding of spring wheat in the United States and Canada with somewhat unfavorable seeding conditions for winter cereals in Argentina and Australia have contributed to the firm tone of the market. Indications for the European crop this season so far also point to only an average or slightly better crop than was produced last season.

Supplies in the principal exporting ports are being held in adequate and over 100,000,000 bushels more than were taken during the remainder of the season last year remained for export in North America, Australia, and Argentina on May 1.

Prices in the high wheat belt held generally firm but the demand from mills and exporters was slightly less active. There were a few bids for old No. 1 hard winter wheat at around $1.51 1/2 delivered at gulf ports. At about $1.52 was being bid for new crop No. 2 hard winter wheat at the last half of July shipment. No. 2 hard winter wheat was being quoted at Liverpool at the close of the week at $1.61 per bushel compared with $1.60 per bushel for 63 pound Burrasso from coast to coast at $1.42 to $1.43 at St. Louis and Chicago.

There was a better demand for soft winter wheat and prices for which advanced to a parity with hard winter wheats at most markets. No. 2 red was being quoted at $1.42 to $1.43 at St. Louis and Chicago.

Pacific coast markets also continued firm. The first new crop wheat arrived at Los Angeles during the week. It graded No. 1 soft white and was quoted at $2.60 per hundred pounds. Old hard winter wheat was selling on the market at $2.70. Good milling wheat was quoted at San Francisco and was scarce at $2.60 per hundred pounds. There was a good demand at Portland both from millers and exporters.

Big Bear milling wheat was very scarce and mills were paying $1.57 to $1.58 per bushel for desirable qualities. White wheats for export were quoted at about $1.51. Some purchases of new crop wheat were reported with bids ranging from $1.31 to $1.36.

The oats market was firm with corn and also as a result of light offerings and unfavorable weather conditions for the new crop in the north central states. The crop in the southern states varies in condition ranging from 60 per cent of normal in North Carolina to 55 per cent in Florida. Texas conditions are about 60 per cent of normal and Oklahoma about 70 per cent. New oats are being marketed in Texas and are quoted at about $2.45 per hundred pounds. No. 3 white oats are selling at the principal markets at 48c to 52c per bushel.

SECOND LIBERTY LOAN BONDS ARE CALLED FOR PAYMENT

Secretary Mellon has called for payment on November 15, 1927, all outstanding Second Liberty loan bonds. Interest on these bonds will cease on November 15, 1927. Approximately $1,700,000,000 of these bonds are now outstanding.

While the bonds will be paid on November 15, 1927, it is quite probable that during the next six months the Treasury will extend to the holders of the Second Liberty loan bonds the opportunity to cash them for other government securities. No announcement has as yet been made as to the type of security to be offered in exchange, or the date on which the exchange offer may be expected.

The Treasury explains the terms of the bonds require that a notice be given to the public six months in advance of the redemption date. The secretary's announcement, therefore, does not mean that the bonds will be paid at the present time, but merely that the holders on notice that their bonds will be redeemed on November 15, and will cease to bear interest if that date.

If holders of second liberties desire to have their bonds redeemed, they should present them for payment on November 15, 1927, but if they desire other government obligations in place of their secondos, they should watch for further announcements and notify their bank to keep them informed of any exchange of the bonds which may later be made by the treasury.

In 1917 and 1918, it will be recalled when the government was selling bonds of the several issues, a nationwide campaign was conducted, every available facility being used to reach the public and sell the bonds. The situation is now practically reversed and the government is preparing to redeem or exchange some of these bonds. While no such elaborate campaign is contemplated for the redemption notice was undertaken in 1917, the treasury nevertheless is making a special effort to inform the holders of second liberty loan bonds that their bonds will cease to bear interest on November 15, 1927.

Companies throughout the country will be asked to cooperate with the government in spreading the news of this call for redemption, and in advising the holders of the bonds that the treasury will probably offer new securities in exchange. For the first time the radio will be used by the government as a means of reaching the millions of bondholders. An announcement will shortly be broadcast from the larger radio stations of the country.

The importance of acquainting bondholders with the fact that the bonds have been called for payment is emphasized by the treasury's record of previous calls for redemption or exchange. These records show that there are still outstanding at the present time, in the hands of the public, about $300,000,000 in government securities upon which the interest has ceased. Included in this amount are $5,600,000 in Victory notes which were issued in 1922 and 1923. There are also outstanding $14,500,000 in temporary bonds of the several Liberty loans, to which were attached only a limited number of interest coupons, and until such coupons were attached, and until the face of these facts the treasury is especially anxious that the present announcement reach as many second liberty loan holders as it is possible to reach through the press, the radio and the banks of the country.

The second liberty loan which was issued in November, 1917, was the second large loan floated by the government during the world war, and while this loan does not mature until 1942, the conditions of the money market and of the government's finances makes it possible and advisable to call the bonds for redemption in November.

Knows Her Onions "Peaches" Browning is said to have gone to Bermuda, but not because she doesn't know her onions.

Card Club Entertained The card club was delightfully entertained by Mrs. Glison Tuesday at three tables. Mrs. Nellie Raymond was awarded first honors and Mrs. McMahon the consolation.

The invited guests were Mrs. McMahon, Mrs. E. W. Vanouck and Mrs. Jas. Magee.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Harold Raymond in two weeks.

ENTIRE PALOUSE COUNTRY VISITED BY HEAVY WIND

Genesee got its share of the heavy wind and dust storm that hit the Palouse country early Tuesday morning, which did considerable damage to trees and loose roofs.

The storm broke Tuesday morning about 1 o'clock and continued to increase in violence until it reached an almost hurricane velocity and continued for more than two hours without abatement, when later a lull came, but it again rained and blew quite hard almost all day Tuesday, accompanied by a thick cloud of Snake river volcanic ash dust, which covered everything, regardless of whether it was in the house or outdoors, for there was no shutting it out of the tightest houses.

Many trees lost limbs and tops and a few roofs were lifted—especially the tin ones, where the wind could get a hold. Otherwise, no damage has been reported here.

The following is a report of the storm at Lewiston, taken from the Tribune:

All records for high wind at the local government weather bureau were exceeded early Tuesday morning when two distinct blains attained a velocity of 50 miles per hour at the government station in the valley, and estimated by Weather Observer W. W. Thomas to be as high as 75 miles per hour on the hill.

The wind played all sorts of tricks with small and light buildings over the valley, broke in windows, crashed over tree and tore off limbs, effecting more minor destruction than any like storm in recent years.

The storm broke shortly before 2 o'clock and between 2 and 3 o'clock the wind blew an average of 35 miles, attaining for a period of five minutes a record of 46 miles per hour. It was during this five-minute period that heavy gusts of a few seconds duration attained a velocity of 60 miles per hour.

The substantial homes and buildings of the city were not affected by the heavy gale, but those of lighter construction suffered. The road house recently constructed on the Lewiston hill by Hamlin and Merrigan, was caught by a heavy gust of wind and deposited in sections about 250 feet away on the property of the Indian Cache ranch, being blown across the hill and across a fence.

At various places in the city, Lewiston Orchards and Clarkston fruit and shade trees were damaged by the wind. Limbs were torn from the trees and not a few entire trees were crashed over. Small outbuildings sustained some demolition in a number of instances.

Lettermen Banquet The Smoot confectionery Monday evening was the scene of a very pleasant gathering when Guy Wicks, athletic coach for the Genesee High school during the past two years, gave a banquet for the lettermen of the school consisting of four courses, all of which were thoroughly enjoyed by the boys. Assie from the host and the lettermen, Supt. M. E. Muhlitz and Dr. N. M. Leavitt were the only guests.

The evening was well taken up with a general good time—the only talk of the evening being made by Mr. Wicks. The lettermen of the school and what they were awarded letters for, are as follows: Those receiving three letters—for football, basketball and baseball—are Clarence Doyle, Edmund Weber, Roy Cameron, Irvin Flomer, Paul Mulalley and Frank Bumpass. Others receiving letters were Ormond Mosman, football; Archibald Putnam, football and basketball; Chester Qualset, football and basketball; Elmer Krier, basketball; Wade Mayer, football; Arthur Klewena, football and basketball; Anthony Ebel, football; George Blume, baseball; Ernest Kraut, football and baseball; Elvon Hampton, baseball and athletic manager; Lester Hayden, baseball; J. Hayden, baseball.

During the evening the lettermen presented Mr. Wicks a combination set of Sheaffer large-size pen and pencil, bearing the inscription, "To Wicks, from G Club."

Altar Society Entertained The Altar society of St. Mary's church was delightfully entertained by Mrs. John Krier and Mrs. John Kries at the home of Mrs. Krier, on Wednesday, May 18. The time was spent with needlework, social converse and pinocle and in the pinocle games Rev. Fr. Godschalk was awarded first prize and Mrs. Nellie Raymond the consolation. At 4:30 a delicious luncheon was served by the hostesses.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Arthur Linehan on May 31.

The best way to find out who the matter with your car is to ask the dealer in a rival car. He will tell you that everything is the matter.

Death of Infant The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tobin of Clarkston died Sunday at St. Joseph's hospital. Funeral services were held from the Vassar chapel at 10 o'clock Monday morning. Father Bruket was in charge of the services. Interment was in Normal Hill cemetery—Lewiston Tribune.

N. and S. Highway Open Local and long distance travelers report that the North and South highway is now open through the Salmon river canyon, and news from New Meadows south states that the highway from that place to Weiser is in good shape for this time of the year.

While it is true that surfacing is going on near Council, and there are a few soft spots yet, according to tourists from Illinois who were interviewed, the road is in good condition.

Beyond Riggin, where the eight-mile sector is being finished, there is a mile or two of road that is not too smooth, but it is getting better every day, and will soon be in the condition. Cars can make it to Boise by way of Weiser with perfect safety, is the report—Free Press (Grangeville).

More History Made County eighth grade school examinations are not without their humorous side, teachers correcting test papers in the Moscow district have found, according to Miss Ellen Peterson, county superintendent in charge of the exams here.

Identification of prominent figures during the past century as part of the history examination brought forth several answers that aroused more than a chuckle from the correctors.

The corrector is a kind of guy they eat in China, one pupil wrote on a question relative to the wireless telegraph inventor. "Booker T. Washington was George Washington's father," another wrote of the famous negro educator.

GENESSEE SCHOOLS COME TO CLOSE—DEAN DAVIS SPEAKS

With the closing of the school year, students and teachers have been about as busy as it is possible to be, Superintendent Muhlitz trying to be in many places at the same time—and making a remarkably good record in the effort. With the closing of Thursday the school year will be at an end and teachers and students will leave for their homes.

The class day exercises were held in the opera house Wednesday evening, when the following program was given:

Class Song—"Genesee High"—Class Class History Alice Hanson "Hush Thee, Rest Thee" and "Heart Song" Quartet Class Poem Thelma Michelson Pianologue Ruby Roach Class Prophecy Theresa Miller Commencement Song Boys' Quartet Class Will Geneva Rogers Class Song Geneva Rogers

On Thursday evening the commencement exercises were held, when the following program was carried out:

Processional March "Bernice Nordby and Myrtle Larson "De Coppah Moon" Ladies' Quartet Salutatory Lester Hayden Solo—"The Song of Spring" Miss Alfreda Hampton Address Dean Davis Valedictory Ormond Mosman Presentation of Class to Board of Education Supt. Muhlitz Presentation of Diplomas

The address of the evening, given by Robert McNair Davis, Dean of the School of Law, University of Idaho, was well delivered and well received and the entire program was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience in attendance.

A Correction

It would seem, from a communication received from the members of the junior class of the high school, that there were several errors in the write-up of the junior-senior banquet last week. In justice to myself, we will say that we tried to print it as it was given to us, and in justice to the members of the junior class, we will try and make the corrections they suggest, which are as follows:

That "Anthony Ebel, president of the junior class, was toastmaster, and not Ormond Mosman, as stated, and the principal speakers for the junior class were Anthony Ebel, Art. Kleweno, vice-president; Clark Erickson, treasurer; Elvon Hampton spoke on athletics for the boys and Mildred Roach spoke on athletics for the girls. Ormond Mosman, president of the senior class, was the first speaker for the seniors."

We are always glad to make corrections when mistakes occur, but since we are only human, we confess we do sometimes make them.

TIGHTEN RULES ON IDAHO POTATOES--BAN TWO STATES

Potatoes shipped from Idaho need not be branded, but when they are branded they must comply with requirements for their respective grades as set forth on the container, according to regulations which the state department of agriculture has announced would become effective within six months--on November 1.

Other regulations provide that sacks need not be of even weight, cull potatoes must not be branded, bags and containers must be new or clean and whole, and may not be faced with potatoes of superior quality.

These rules were drawn up by John Welch, commissioner of agriculture, from resolutions adopted by accredited representatives of Idaho potato growers and dealers.

No provisions were made for establishment of a commercial grade. Only U. S. No. 1 or better quality potatoes may be marked with the word "Idaho." U. S. No. 2 potatoes must be marked "Gem State Seconds," while culls may not be marked at all.

The regulations adopt the standard of the United States department of agriculture grades. "Fancy Idaho Potatoes" being the highest. Idaho selected potatoes are equivalent to U. S. No. 1, and Gem State Seconds equivalent to U. S. No. 2.

If branded, each sack must be branded with the name of the potato grade. Potatoes of U. S. No. 1 grade, when packed in branded containers, also may be tag as "Idaho bakers."

Private brands and trade names may be used within the limits of the regulations, if the brands or trade names are registered with the department of agriculture.

Richard Ryalls, horticultural inspector at Lewiston, has given notice to wholesale and retail dealers that a quarantine had been ordered against Idaho grown potatoes.

The invasion of the tuber moth in this action in order to keep the shipment from Washington, Oregon, Montana, Utah and Colorado received here must bear certificates that the potatoes were grown in these states and not in those under quarantine and reshipped.

Offerings of growing wheat were small at Minneapolis and premiums were slightly higher. The durum market did not share in the strength in the market for other spring wheats.

The wheat market on the Pacific coast continued firm with an active demand for all offerings. No. 1 hard winter was quoted at $2.62 per 100 pounds at the California, Florida and Texas and in cases where these were found, seizure and confiscation would result.

The oats market continued firm but prices were not materially changed during the week. Stocks are being reduced by the grain elevators.

UNFAVORABLE WEATHER ADVANCES GRAIN MARKET

Continued wet, cold weather over much of the corn belt and also in the spring wheat area of both the United States and Canada continued to be a strengthening influence in the grain market during the week ending May 21, and corn prices were forced to the highest point on the crop with other grains holding very firm, according to the weekly Grain Market Review of the United States department of agriculture.

Corn planting is much behind an average season throughout practically the entire corn belt and considerable yet remains to be done. Prospects are also that some replanting may be necessary.

Considerable spring wheat seeding remains to be done and trade reports indicate that an increased acreage of durum wheat may be seeded where it has become late for seeding in other grades.

Winter cereals crops in Europe are reported generally in favorable condition but dry weather in Argentina is delaying seeding of the crop.

The result of this less favorable condition in that country offerings of wheat from that country have become smaller and this, together with the unfavorable North American spring wheat condition, has caused continued firmness in the Liverpool market.

As of July wheat at that market advanced about 8 cents during the week although prices for May delivery held almost unchanged. Argentine wheat shipments for the week were little more than one-half of the recent weekly exports and totaled only about 3,500,000 bushels.

Argentine wheat was quoted delivered at Liverpool at $1.61 per bushel compared with $1.54 for Canadian spring wheat and $1.59 for United States hard winter.

The domestic market advanced 2c per bushel at the principal markets. Flour with premiums holding firm and all offerings of desirable quality readily found winter. Eastern and Northwestern mills were rather active buyers of hard winter wheat, particularly high protein types. Trade reports indicated some deterioration in the new hard winter wheat crop but conditions generally were considered favorable.

Few domestic buyers were bidding for new wheat but export bids were around $1.52 1/2 for No. 1 hard winter delivered at Gulf ports.

Offerings of durum wheat were small at Minneapolis and premiums were slightly higher. The durum market did not share in the strength in the market for other spring wheats.

Prices declined sharply early in the week but advanced to about the previous week's close. The demand for durum was limited although it was more active at the lower prices.

The wheat market on the Pacific coast continued firm with an active demand for all offerings. No. 1 hard winter was quoted at $2.62 per 100 pounds at the California, Florida and Texas and in cases where these were found, seizure and confiscation would result.

FOUR BOYS IN HONORED REST

Ten years after the declaration of war by the United States against Germany in the year 1917 there remain in Europe few traces of the American Expeditionary forces which proved the deciding factors in the conflict.

For the most part, the battlefields have grown up with weeds, or have been restored to cultivation by the plow. The hotels, the barracks, the hospitals we used have been returned long since to peace time duty.

A few unofficial monuments mark certain battle scenes, but the official battle monuments are yet in the preliminary stages. The American Legionnaires who return to Europe for their convalescence at Paris next September will miss a great many sights which were familiar in 1917 and 1918.

For there are eight permanent, plain and prominent monuments of the Legionnaires of ten years ago--the eight American military cemeteries overseas.

These cemeteries, the final resting place of more than 30,000 of those who followed Pershing overseas, are now handsome, well-kept, solemn fields of honor. At dawn the flag is raised over each of them. Each sunset it is lowered. In each the crosses stand in stately rows, white against a background of green sod, and a few of July wheat are recently let by the state to Lyons and Price, highway contractors, and this week has seen the arrival of much of the equipment for the resurfacing job. The huge crusher plants have arrived and are now being assembled at the crusher plant just south of town. Plans and specifications for the work provide for resurfacing and resurfacing and it is the intention of the company to work day and night as soon as surfacing operations are commenced.

About 20 men with the exception of numerous bequests to orphanages, mission schools and other institutions of the Catholic faith.

In addition to his 320-acre farm he owned the building where the post-office and the Hazelwood cream station are located, his residence property in Genesee and several building lots in Spokane, all of which, together with a competency of money, he left to his wife, Mary S. Sullivan, she being the only survivor of his immediate family, never having had any children.

Mr. Sullivan acquired most of his education after coming to this country and it is doubtful if there was a better posted man on general topics, current or past, than John Sullivan. He was a great reader and he always read those things of the higher order and was well versed on all subjects. His mind was clear and alert until the very end and he gave minute directions regarding the purchase of his casket, vault and monument and seen to it that they were paid for before his passing.

He was a devoted member of the Catholic church and when the end was near he said he was ready to go. There are few who have, or ever will, face death as fearlessly as did Curly John Sullivan and there are few who have been so true to their word as that journey from whence no man returns.

The funeral was held from St. Mary's Catholic church Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, Rev. Father L. C. Godeschalk conducting the services. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. The pallbearers were Matt Kambsch, Otto Kretschmer, Jas. Montague, Joe Trautman, John Friedrichs and Herman Broemmeling.

Twenty Years Ago Great growing weather and the grain is looking fine. N. Edwards, Frank Williamson, F. Burr, Paul Cann, Barney Cagle, Thos. Keane, John Vandenberg, Louis Olleiges and J. A. Jones left Monday morning for Newport, Wash., a short distance north of Spokane, where they expect to locate timber claims in the Priest river section.

Thursday afternoon of last week, while returning from Lewiston, Ernest Peterson and Miss Erickson had a very narrow escape from drowning in crossing the slough leading to the Central ferry. Owing to the present high water in the Clearwater the slough at this time is a fair-sized river and very dangerous to cross. The horses driven by Mr. Peterson were carried down stream and the occupants of the buggy were forced to take to the water, when they had a difficult time in making shore. The team, after going some distance, managed to reach shore.

DEATH OF JOHN SULLIVAN OCCURRED Sunday MORNING

John Sullivan, one of the oldest residents of the Genesee section, passed away at his home in Genesee, Sunday morning, May 22, at 3:30 o'clock, at the age of 84 years, three months and two days, the immediate cause of death being cancer of the stomach.

Mr. Sullivan was born at Cloherson, Ireland, February 20, 1843, and came to the United States when a young man, going first to Oregon, where he spent several years and later coming to Genesee and taking up a homestead about a mile and a half northwest of town, which he still owned at the time of his death. His farm consisted of 320 acres of fine land as can be found in the Palouse country and "Sullivan's grove" is known to everyone in this section. In former years it was a great point for picnic parties of various organizations and schools.

We were unable to get the exact dates of Mr. Sullivan's life as pertaining to his various movements, but he left the farm several years ago and bought property in Genesee, where he had since resided.

Mr. Sullivan led a very quiet life, keeping much to himself, although he has always been active, physically, and attended to his town property and his home place, always spading his garden, sowing his own seed and keeping his own stock. He was recently let by the state to Lyons and Price, highway contractors, and this week has seen the arrival of much of the equipment for the resurfacing job. The huge crusher plants have arrived and are now being assembled at the crusher plant just south of town. Plans and specifications for the work provide for resurfacing and resurfacing and it is the intention of the company to work day and night as soon as surfacing operations are commenced.

About 20 men with the exception of numerous bequests to orphanages, mission schools and other institutions of the Catholic faith.

In addition to his 320-acre farm he owned the building where the post-office and the Hazelwood cream station are located, his residence property in Genesee and several building lots in Spokane, all of which, together with a competency of money, he left to his wife, Mary S. Sullivan, she being the only survivor of his immediate family, never having had any children.

Mr. Sullivan acquired most of his education after coming to this country and it is doubtful if there was a better posted man on general topics, current or past, than John Sullivan. He was a great reader and he always read those things of the higher order and was well versed on all subjects. His mind was clear and alert until the very end and he gave minute directions regarding the purchase of his casket, vault and monument and seen to it that they were paid for before his passing.

He was a devoted member of the Catholic church and when the end was near he said he was ready to go. There are few who have, or ever will, face death as fearlessly as did Curly John Sullivan and there are few who have been so true to their word as that journey from whence no man returns.

MARKET CONTINUES FIRM

WEATHER DOMINANT FACTOR

Weather conditions were the dominant factor in the grain market during the week ending May 28 with continued cold and wet weather in the corn belt and the spring wheat areas and drought in the southwest, prices of most grains were forced to new high levels on the crop, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States department of agriculture. The volume of trading in cash grain was not large and the demand, particularly for corn, became less active at the higher quotations.

Winter wheat suffered further deterioration in Oklahoma where the outlook is now generally poor. The crop is poor also in western Kansas where high drying winds have caused serious damage. Harvest is progressing under favorable weather conditions in Texas and Oklahoma, but only fair because of rust damage and droughty conditions. Conditions were also favorable for seeding spring wheat in the northeastern portion of the belt, including southwestern North Dakota and also in Montana and some of this area may be planted to wheat. Wheat growth is slow because of cool weather the early seed grain continues good color and stand.

A survey of the Canadian prairie provinces by the Manitoba Free Press indicates a decrease of about 25 per cent in wheat acreage in Manitoba, 20 per cent in Saskatchewan and 10 per cent in Alberta. This would indicate a total acreage of about 17,900,000 acres compared with 21,807,000 acres harvested last year. About 90 per cent of the wheat seeding has been completed, according to this report.

European crop conditions continue generally favorable. The condition of the French crop is very good. The acreage is about 2 per cent less than was harvested last year. A fair yield is expected in Italy. Slight local deterioration is reported in some parts of the Danubian countries but the average. Russian conditions are also about average.

Future prices on wheat advanced about 11c per bushel during the week ending May 27 and cash prices generally followed the advance. The demand from mills for the better grades of hard winter wheat with less attention paid to protein. The advancing prices have brought larger offerings but these were readily absorbed and storage stocks were reduced. The first new winter wheat was marketed in Texas. It tested 62 pounds and sold at local shipping point at $1.25 per bushel.

Northwestern millers have recently been active buyers in the northwest. The export demand for hard winter wheat was not active but bids were said to range around 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ c over Chicago July, which would be equivalent to about \$1.61 $\frac{1}{2}$ c per bushel for No. 1 hard winter on tracks at Gulf ports. No. 2 red winter wheat was quoted in Liverpool at \$1.68 per bushel, compared with \$1.66 $\frac{1}{2}$ c for Argentine Barusso and \$1.73 $\frac{1}{2}$ c for No. 1 Manitoba.

Soft winter wheat was in fairly active demand from southern mills which were replenishing depleted stocks. Receipts of barley in the central western markets were not equal to the urgent demand, particularly for malting grades, and prices were advanced to the highest point on the crop to date. The best types sold as high as 91c per bushel at Duluth and from 80c to 92 cents at Minneapolis. No. 2 special sold at 96c to 98c at Milwaukee. Prices were also higher on the Pacific coast, new barley of malting quality being contracted for at San Francisco at 96c to $1.03

Colben Swenson dies at age of ninety-five. Another of Genesee's pioneer residents, Colben Swenson, has answered the summons to the Great Beyond, he having passed away at the home of his son, Nels Swenson, Friday, May 27, 1927, at 1:30 p. m., the immediate cause of death being old age and a complication of diseases, at the age of 95 years, eight months and one day.

Colben Swenson was born at Espnes, Norway, September 26, 1831. When a young man (the date not known) he was married to Miss Ingeborg Marie Stenland. They came to the United States, landing in this country on July 4, 1850, going to McFarland, Wisconsin. From there they moved to Lambert, Minnesota. In 1883 Mr. Swenson and his wife and four sons started for the West, coming as far as Helena, Montana, on the first train that entered that town, and continuing their journey by wagon to Genesee, the trip occupying three weeks.

His faithful wife passed away June 16, 1903, and in the spring of 1910, he removed with his sons to Devon, Montana, where they took up homesteads, and remained there with them until 1920, when they again came to Genesee to make their home, and he had resided here until the time of his death.

Mr. Swenson was a great reader of both English and Norwegian papers and literature and had read much until the failure of his eyesight, some 40 years ago.

Mr. Swenson was the father of six sons and one daughter, five of the sons surviving: Charlie, Tom, Colben C. Engle and Nels. There are also 24 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren left to mourn their loss. One son, Sam, passed away October 24, 1905, and the daughter, Mrs. Lars Erickson, followed him June 3, 1920. Four of the sons and three grandchildren were at his bedside when he died.

The funeral was held from the Genesee Valley Lutheran church of the Fire Girls organization he was a faithful member, Monday, May 30, at 2:30 p. m., conducted by Rev. Jensen of Clarkston, Wash., and interment was made in the cemetery near the church, by the side of his wife.

The pallbearers were Henry Halverson, Leo Miller, Henry Hanson, Oscar Nordby, Henry Martinson and Einer Johnson.

Card of Thanks. Members of the Swenson family wish to express their deep appreciation of the many kindnesses shown during the illness and after the death of their father and grandfather and wish to thank them, each and every one for their help in a time of need.

San Francisco at $2.45 per 100 pounds for June delivery and $2.40 for July. The oats market was firm with other grains but price advances were not so great. The crop made generally good progress although growth was slow in the central northern states and continued too wet in some central valley districts. Harvesting of the new crop will become general within the next week in Texas. No. 3 white oats were quoted at the close of the week in the principal markets at from 58c to 55c per bushel.

Receipts of barley in the central western markets were not equal to the urgent demand, particularly for malting grades, and prices were advanced to the highest point on the crop to date. The best types sold as high as 91c per bushel at Duluth and from 80c to 92 cents at Minneapolis. No. 2 special sold at 96c to 98c at Milwaukee. Very little trading was reported in old crop wheat on the Pacific coast. Millers were buying old crop Big Bend bluestem at around \$1.62 per bushel. White clover for export were selling at Portland at \$1.60 $\frac{1}{2}$ to \$1.64; Cincinnati, \$1.51-\$1.51 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Big Year for Road Building

The United States is out for "bigger and better roads," and the construction program shows that 26,841 miles of road and the maintenance of 239,847 miles are included in the 1927 state highway anticipations of 47 sovereign states. The programs also include many bridges. Every state expects Connecticut shows up in the estimates. That automobile owners have effectively supplemented other kinds of taxes is apparent when one reads official government figures showing that the highway movement for the current year will cost $68,483,000. In addition to this, many states are counties, cities and towns that will kick in an additional $745,000,000. Thus more than a billion dollars will be spent in highway work in this year of our Lord.

States that will build more than 1,000 miles of new road this year are Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Texas and Wisconsin.

Asotin Mill Burned. The Arthur Farrish sawmill, at Asotin, was entirely destroyed by fire, Monday, May 23, the fire starting about 9 o'clock in the evening.

A heavy wind prevented the saving of the mill or its contents, but the fire department was able to confine the fire to the mill and lumber piles nearby. It was the intention to have the mill busy for a few more weeks before the disaster occurred.

The loss was said to be about $15,000, with no insurance. It is quite likely that the mill will be rebuilt, says the Asotin Sentinel but set further west from where it has heretofore stood, and the motive power may possibly be electric instead of steam.

A force of men has been engaged in clearing away the remains of the fire.

Many Poppies Sold. Saturday of last week was national Poppy day and members of the Camp Fire Girls organization sold the little red tissue-paper flowers, made by disabled soldiers of Idaho, and regarded as the fact that the day was held, quite a goodly number of the little emblems of the World War were disposed of and a neat sum realized. Disabled veterans, who made the poppies, received one cent each for their work.

In the spring of 1919, amidst complete devastation, the poppies bloomed in abundance on the battlefields of France, where so many of our men had fallen in battle, and because of this the poppy has become the memorial flower of the American Legion and the auxiliary.

Discovery of gold in the Boise basin in 1862 comes in for its part in the fifth scene. A roaring mining camp is reproduced in the pageant. One of the most popular features four years ago was the cowboy dance. This has been retained in this year's pageant, coming as the sixth scene.

The epic of the Nezperces in 1877 brings the pageant to a climax. This is divided into two parts. The first part tells of the Nezperce warriors who to please their chiefs closer together than they have usually been doing, in order to conserve space. The distance suggested is set at three feet from the car in front and the chief of police has issued orders to that effect to the city where cars are parked parallel with the curb, and where cars are parked at an angle the distance should be not more than two feet nor closer than one foot, to the other car.

The down-town speed limit has also been prescribed, stating that a driver is supposed to go not more than 20 nor less than 12 miles per hour. These things might be well to remember when you visit the metropolis of the Banana belt.

Pythian Sister Club Meets. The Pythian club spent a busy and profitable afternoon Friday at the home of Mrs. Oscar Rader.

The next meeting of the club will be on Friday, June 10, at the home of Mrs. Nels Liberg.

All Pythian Sisters are invited.

Memorial Day Observed. Memorial day was quietly observed in Genesee. There was no regular public program and no addresses were made, but the graves of soldiers of all wars were decorated by members of the American Legion, who went to the various cemeteries and decorated the graves with flowers and planted a small flag at each mound.

All stores were closed for the day, as was the banks, postoffice and other places of business excepting the pool hall and Smol's confectionery.

History of Idaho and the Northwest in music and drama will be presented by the Associated Students in "The Light on the Mountains" pageant Saturday night, June 4, at 8:30 o'clock.

An out-door rehearsal of the entire cast will be staged about the middle of the week for final preparation before the pageant is presented to the public.

Talbot Jennings' version of pioneer history of the state in the production is considered by critics to be unique in pageantry. Revision of the original manuscript by Mr. Jennings for this spring's presentation gives a more unified and dramatic pageant than was presented in 1923. Students of the university make up the cast, with persons taking Indian parts wearing original costumes from the Nez Perce Indian reservation at Lapwai.

The overture, "The Light on the Mountains," written by David Nyvall, Jr., professor of piano, who wrote all of the music for the pageant, will open the production. The university Pep band will play the overture and other selections. Following the overture will come the prologue, "And Romance Lies in Her Name," by H. Carter Davidson, member of the public relations staff. In the prologue Mr. Davidson will relate the theme of the pageant.

Scene I portrays the Nez Perce Indians on the prairie, where they have unmoored control of the wide plains. During this scene, Sasajawa, the Bird Woman, is stolen by hostile Indians and carried away. She appears again in scene II, when she leads the Lewis and Clark expedition through the Lo Lo pass into Idaho in 1805.

In scene III the audience is carried farther north to Lake Pend d'Oreille, where David Thompson, noted Columbia basin country explorer and geographer, established a trading post, called Kullyspell house, in 1809. Here is pictured the loneliness and mystic spell cast by this lake country. The Oregon trail in 1852, with the thousands of emigrants making their way to the West, is portrayed in the fourth scene. A camp fire scene shows the travelers camped for the night and singing. Then comes an attack by Indians.

Discovery of gold in the Boise basin in 1862 comes in for its part in the fifth scene. A roaring mining camp is reproduced in the pageant. One of the most popular features four years ago was the cowboy dance. This has been retained in this year's pageant, coming as the sixth scene.

The epic of the Nezperces in 1877 brings the pageant to a climax. This is divided into two parts. The first part tells of the Nezperce warriors who to please their chiefs closer together than they have usually been doing, in order to conserve space. The distance suggested is set at three feet from the car in front and the chief of police has issued orders to that effect to the city where cars are parked parallel with the curb, and where cars are parked at an angle the distance should be not more than two feet nor closer than one foot, to the other car.

The down-town speed limit has also been prescribed, stating that a driver is supposed to go not more than 20 nor less than 12 miles per hour. These things might be well to remember when you visit the metropolis of the Banana belt.

Pythian Sister Club Meets. The Pythian club spent a busy and profitable afternoon Friday at the home of Mrs. Oscar Rader.

The next meeting of the club will be on Friday, June 10, at the home of Mrs. Nels Liberg.

All Pythian Sisters are invited.

"Homestuck"

The feature picture for Saturday night will be "Homestuck." The advertising failed to arrive so no account can be given.

Chapter 6 of the "Fire Fighters" will be given, as will a "Krazy Kat" comedy.

"Whispering Wires"

For Sunday night the feature picture will be "Whispering Wires," with Anita Stewart in the leading feminine role.

If you want to catch up with your sleep, or if you are inclined to be nervous, for goodness sake stay away from "Whispering Wires" for it's a rip-roaring, blood-curdling, super-buffing, laugh-provoking thriller that's distinctly in a class by itself.

Modern smokers demand quality and put Camel first

THIS experienced age knows the good tobacco it demands in a cigarette. And it has made Camel the greatest leader any age has ever known.

Camel's choice tobacco and its blending for smoothness and mellowness have made it supreme with modern smokers. Camel today is world favorite, because of quality.

Camel was made to succeed in an age that knows merit. Just try Camels and you'll know why no other cigarette can compare with them. Let the choice of the modern world show you what smoking enjoyment can really be.

"Have a Camel!"

His Affliction Hostess—You can't imagine how bad my husband's eyesight is getting. Only today he mistook me for the nursemaid.

Were No Good Master of House—Where is the sponge I told you to buy for me so I could wash the auto?

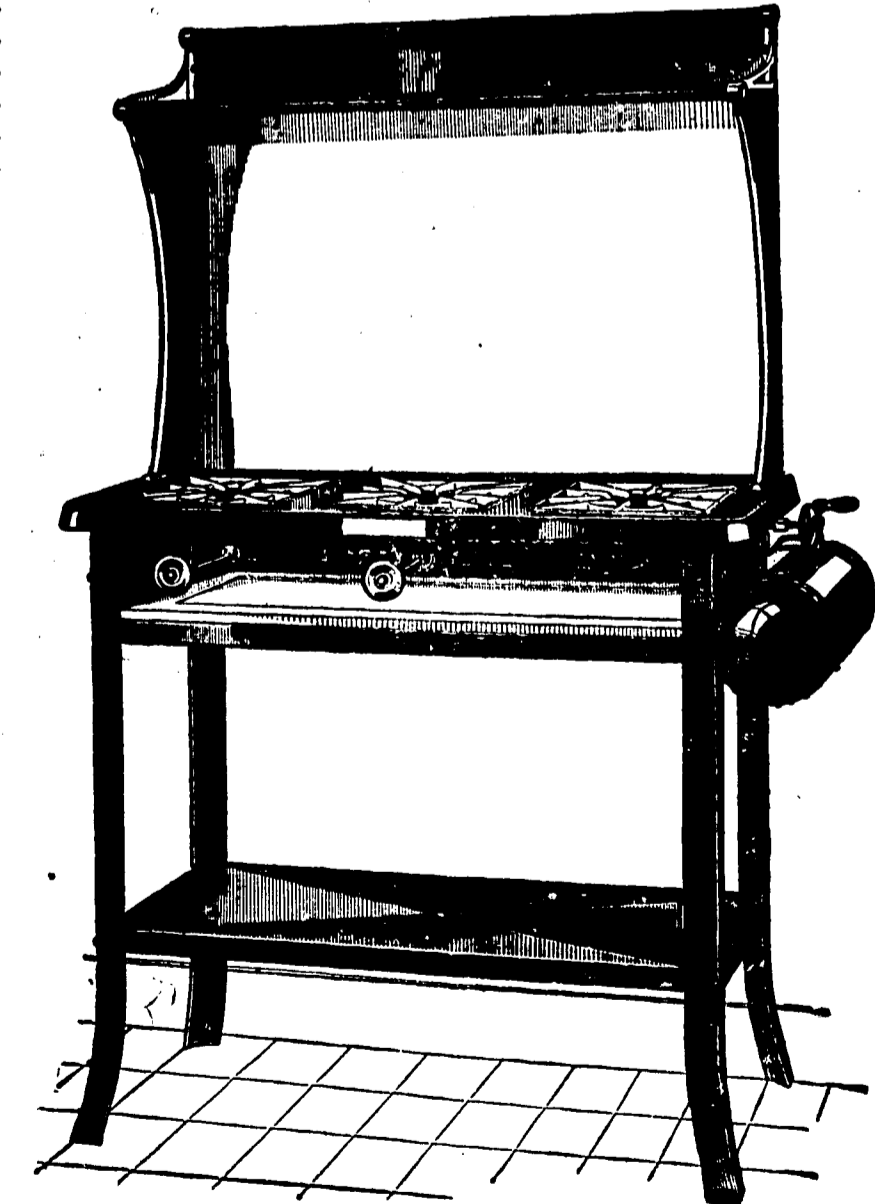

She Knew It Observing a young lady standing alone, the young man stepped up to her and said, "Pardon me. You look like Helen Black." "Yes," she replied, "I know I do, but I look far worse in white."

Friend—And she's such a pretty girl, too.

Servant—The ones they showed me were all full of holes and I wouldn't have 'em.

GRADE CROSSING ACCIDENTS ON INCREASE — 5921 IN 1926

Possible means of reducing the number of highway grade crossing accidents which in 1926 took 2,492 lives and maimed 6,991 persons, was the principal subject of discussion at the seventh annual meeting of the Safety Section of the American Railway Association held in Chicago last month.

In view of the increase of nearly 300 fatalities in 1926 over the year before due to such accidents together with the constant increase in the number of automobiles in use, this subject is recognized as one of the foremost problems that face the railroads today.

In connection with and in addition to the methods already in force to provide greater safety at grade crossings and in order to create increasing interest on the part of both the railroads and the public in the necessity for continued care being exercised at highway grade crossings, the railroads this year will conduct an intensive campaign in an effort to reduce the number of such accidents.

In 1926 there were 5,921 highway grade crossing accidents compared with 5,479 in 1925. In 1920, 4226 accidents were reported. While the number of grade crossing accidents has not increased as rapidly since 1920 as the number of automobile accidents on the highways, railroad officials believe a considerable proportion of the accidents at railroad crossings can be prevented if adequate precautions are taken at such places. While the entire elimination of grade crossings would be the ideal solution of the problem, this is both physically and financially impossible.

Marked progress has already been made by the railroads in an effort to provide greater protection at grade crossings. Safety devices of various kinds have been installed while obstructions which obscure a view of the tracks have been removed. In addition many other steps have been taken to increase the safety of the public at crossings. Engineers are also devoting more attention than ever before to the giving of adequate warning when their trains approach grade crossings and are doing everything possible to avoid accidents at these points.

Greater realization on the part of the motorist, however, that he, too, must cooperate with the railroads and use increased care in approaching grade crossings is necessary.

In conducting the campaign the railroads hope to impress on the public the necessity for continued precaution being exercised at grade crossings and that if there is to be a reduction in the number of such accidents, motorists and carriers must cooperate to a still greater extent in order to bring about the greater safety possible at those crossings.

Report Idaho Deaths Cancer, heart disease and cerebral hemorrhage were tied during April as the largest cause of death in Idaho, with 25 deaths from each reported today in the monthly report of the bureau of vital statistics.

Deaths totaled 282 during the month, 153 being males and 129 females.

Five drownings headed the lists of accidental deaths. There were two deaths from burns, one airplane accident, one dynamite explosion, three railroad fatalities, one mining accident and one automobile fatality and three deaths by crushing. Two suicides and one homicide were recorded.

Births totaled 628, or 320 males and 308 females, including four sets of twins. Forty-six births were of foreign parentage.

Must Speed Up

Under the above caption an article appeared in the Lewiston Tribune quoting Chief of Police Eugene Gasser as saying that the provisions of the city's traffic ordinance governing the rate of speed to be maintained in the business section of the city would be enforced henceforth. The law provides a car shall not travel less than 12 miles an hour and is prohibited to do so at the rate of miles downtown. Numerous complaints have been received by the police charging drivers with "window shopping" from their cars, and also with double parking, that is, stopping their machines toward the center of the street when it is not possible to reach the curb at a point where they desire to stop.

To Remodel Court House

The Nez Perce county commissioners have approved the plans submitted for the remodeling of the court house at Lewiston and September 13 will call for bids. This step will follow the making of a tax levy for that purpose, which will amount to two mills and produce about $28,000 on hand. The work is estimated to cost $70,000 and will include a new front, a general re-arrangement and enlargement of the present offices and a jail and sheriff's quarters on the third floor to be capable of housing 65 prisoners. The old jail building will either be removed or used as a garage.

FACTS about used car allowances

Most new car sales now involve the trading-in of a buyer's used car. More and more people are asking: "Why should my used car seem to have several values? ... Why should dealers in different makes of cars offer me allowances differing materially? ... Does the largest allowance offered mean the best deal for me?"

Here are basic facts:

1 Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.

2 Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value: what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.

3 The largest trade-in allowance which is offered on your used car is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; but sometimes it is not.

4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.

5 Judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car.

WHEN YOU are ready to trade-in your present car, remember that after all you are making a purchase and not a sale. You are buying a new car and simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of a new car.

American Legion News

Our Memorial Day program went through very successfully in spite of the rain Sunday and Monday. About 20 members turned out to decorate the graves of our soldier dead.

The Camp Fire Girls sold nearly all of the poppies, also. A few good (?) citizens of our community gave them the cold shoulder. How anyone who knows what the poppies signify and for what the money derived from the sale of them is used, could refuse to buy one, is beyond us. In fact, it leaves only one consolation.

We sincerely thank the Camp Fire Girls for helping us handle the poppies.

U. OF I. COMMENCEMENT—TWO GENESSEE GRADUATES

Monday, June 6, was a big day at the University of Idaho, when two hundred and forty-three of the choicest and most highly trained youth were presented diplomas and degrees. The printed program was carried out with remarkable accuracy, the academic procession forming at about 10 o'clock, marching a distance of three blocks and resting in double lines awaiting the procession of the university president with faculty and distinguished visitors. The procession then moved to the auditorium and remained standing until the vast hall was filled. The university band played stirring airs on the campus and the orchestra within the hall. In the silence of the great audience Rev. Charles E. Miller gave an address of blessing. He was recovering when pneumonia set in and he passed away suddenly Thursday morning, June 2. The body was taken to Spokane for burial and the funeral was held from Our Lady of Lurdes cathedral, Saturday, June 4, at 9 a. m. The address was given by Rev. Clark, the interim was made in Fairmont cemetery, the Very Rev. Father Verhagen officiating.

Arthur Charles leaves to mourn their loss his mother, Mrs. B. L. Keane of Spokane, a brother, Thomas J. Keane, of the Spokane office, a sister, Mrs. Roy LeBaron, of Coevendish, Idaho, two aunts, Mrs. Mary K. Walsh and Miss Jane Brennan of Spokane, also a cousin, Miss Lulu Brennan, a teacher in the Spokane schools, besides many relatives in Sioux City, Iowa, Graple Creek, Colo. and Boise, Idaho. His father, J. W. Keane, passed away in 1917.

Arthur Charles was loved by all who knew him. Besides his many Genesee friends he had many who loved him in the Salmon river valley. The pallbearers were Reed Klapp, Ormond McMahon, Roy LeBaron, Frank Burns, George Burns and John Auld.

Mrs. Nellie Haymond and Mrs. Walter Jain were in attendance from Genesee.

FORMER GENESSEE RESIDENT PASSES AWAY AT MULLAN

(Contributed)
Arthur Charles Keane, aged 42 years, passed away at Mullan, Idaho, June 2, 1927.

Arthur Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Keane, was born in Highland, Wisconsin, May 6, 1885. At the early age of seven years he moved with his parents to Genesee, where he grew to young manhood.

At the opening of the Salmon river country he took up a homestead, where he engaged in the sheep-raising business for several years. In 1922 he sold his Salmon river interests and engaged in mining in the Coeur d'Alene country. At the time of his death he was a lessee in the Morning mines at Mullan.

He was sick but four days. He had an attack of flu and was slowly recovering when pneumonia set in and he passed away suddenly Thursday morning, June 2. The body was taken to Spokane for burial and the funeral was held from Our Lady of Lurdes cathedral, Saturday, June 4, at 9 a. m. The address was given by Rev. Clark, the interim was made in Fairmont cemetery, the Very Rev. Father Verhagen officiating.

NOXIOUS WEEDS BECOMING A MENACE TO FARMERS

The weed situation in and around Genesee is becoming an alarming problem. Certain weeds, such as fanweed, Walla Walla kale and a variety of weeds belonging to the mustard family, have been increasing very rapidly in our neighborhood northwest of Genesee, where mustard has been practically unknown until a few years ago.

A few of the farmers in this vicinity have been cooperating with one another in trying to stop the invading army but the control of the weed pests is so formidable that in another year or so, at the present rate, we will be well nigh unable to combat the intruders.

Consequently, if we want to play the same safety game as the farmer, we must multiply our efforts. We must have a few ears so much said about morning-glory and Canadian thistle—but while perhaps these are more persistent than the annuals, they are confined to specific areas, and in my mind, are not nearly so dangerous to successful farming as the varieties that blow for miles and miles and, in a night, seed destruction into one's perfectly clean summer-fallow sown to fall wheat, or into valuable pasture areas.

The sufficient I had summer-fallow in which I was proud and my fellow-farmers were as free from noxious weeds as any garden spot, but the following spring I came to grief. In my perfectly good wheat crop were thousands of Jim Hill mustard plants—many of them as tall as a man's head, and they were as hard to collect and now, in my alfalfa field, that I seeded a year ago, I am facing the same sort of task. Besides this, there are thousands of weeds of various specimens in neighboring fields that threaten to multiply and take over the soil in thousands of acres, causing untold grief and inestimable damage.

At one of our Farmers union meetings we met with the county agent and other weed experts from the University of Idaho. One meeting was held in the afternoon when many of our friends gathered at the home of her parents and gave her a kitchen shower, when she received many beautiful and useful gifts.

The main feature of the day was a mock wedding, which caused much merriment.

Mrs. Nola Wilson, as bride, wore a bungalow apron and carried a bouquet of grass, dandelions and withered apple blossoms. Her veil was a bolster cover. Martha Roth acted as groom and wore a grey suit and straw hat. Fern Herman was minister, reading the marriage ceremony from a family album. Mary Krier and Mrs. Ray Trautman acted as parents of the bride. Miss Krier wore grey trousers and grey coat and hat, while Mrs. Trautman wore a black taffeta dress and hat. Madeline Herman facilitated the wedding march.

The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Herman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smolt, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Smolt and children, Mrs. John Knappe, Mrs. John Johann, Mrs. Andrew Klemm and children, Agnes, Dolores and Arthur, Mrs. Matt Baumgartner and Elizabeth and Frederick, Mrs. R. F. Kluss and son, Harold, Mrs. John Kluss and children, Mrs. W. J. Mosman and Ormond and Harry, Mrs. Otto Kretschmer, Misses Martha Roth, Helen Fruth, Martha Darchied and Nola Wilson, Mrs. John Kambitsch, Mrs. John Friederichs, Mrs. Theo. Schueter and Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Ebel and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Matench and daughter, Elizabeth of Spokane; Bruno Ebel, Miss Norma Brennan and Miss Helen Walters of Kellogg; Mrs. Joe Trautman, Miss Florence Bielenberg, Mrs. Jess Borgen, Miss Irene Ebel of Lewiston and Mrs. W. C. Ebel.

The afternoon was spent in singing songs and playing the piano.

At 4 o'clock a delicious luncheon of ice cream, cake and coffee was served, after which the guests departed.

BETTER WEATHER WEAKENS MARKET—DEMAND IS LESS

More favorable weather in the winter wheat area, together with a less active demand at the higher price levels caused some recession in grain prices during the week ending June 4, according to the weekly Grain Market Review of the United States department of agriculture. The higher prices brought out considerably larger receipts of corn which tended to weaken the market. Offerings of barley and rye were below current market demands.

Rains in the drought areas in the southwest improved winter wheat crop prospects but private trade estimates at the first of June indicated a drop of 25,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels below the department's May 1 estimate. The condition above average in the fertile regions of central Russia but in the northern portions spring seeding has been delayed. The second estimate of the Indian wheat crop places production at 330,000,000 bushels, an increase of about 5,000,000 bushels over the crop wheat is now being exported, preceding forecast. Some of this new rains in Argentina improved soil conditions for seeding but further heavy rains are needed.

Wheat prices receded from the high point reached a few days ago. Flour demand fell off as prices advanced and mills became less active buyers. Export demand also became very limited. New crop wheat began to arrive during the week at Fort Worth, where mills were bidding, June 3, 10c over the Chicago July or around $1.54 per bushel for No. 1 hard winter wheat, delivered at Texas common points. Export bids for winter wheat for ten days delivery to Texas Gulf ports were around $1.55 per bushel. For June delivery bids averaged about $1.63 per bushel. No. 2 red winter wheat for immediate shipment from the United States was quoted at Liverpool at $1.67 1/2, compared with $1.70 1/2 for Argentine Barossa, due to arrive, and $1.76 1/2 for Canadian No. 2 Manitoba, also about due to arrive.

Pacific coast markets continued firm, particularly in California where there was an active demand for the limited receipts. New milling wheat was quoted at Los Angeles at $2.40 to $2.50 per 100 pounds for June shipment. New No. 1 hard white for June shipment was quoted at San Francisco at $1.24 1/2 per 100 pounds. Local prices at Portland, which had not followed the recent advance in the Central West because of the favorable crop prospects in the Pacific Northwest did not decline materially during the week.

Oats prices remained practically unchanged but demand weakened with the decline in corn prices. The crop is reported doing well except in some interior districts. No. 3 white oats were selling at 14c at Fort Worth. The bushel in the principal distributing markets at the close of the week.

The scarcity of good malting qualities of barley held the market firm for that grain although prices declined slightly as a result of the lower quotations on other grain. More malting barley could be absorbed readily than is being received at the market. Best types sold at Minneapolis at 90c to 94c per bushel; special No. 2 at Milwaukee sold at 99c to $1.01. Barley prices on the Pacific coast also held very firm with exporters bidding about $1.03 per bushel for good malting types at San Francisco.

Big Game Increasing

Big game animals in the national forests of Idaho show a greater proportionate increase than those in any other state in the Union, according to R. E. Thomas, state game warden, the summing up being made upon receipt of estimates compiled by the forestry service for the past three years.

Deer in Idaho forests increased from 49,423 in 1924 to 60,105 in 1926, while elk increased from 40 in 1924 to 6840 last year.

Similar increases in other big game animals, except black or brown and grizzly bears, are also shown. Antelope in the same period dropped from a total of 1853 to 1745; caribou from 20 to 64; moose from 198 to 737; mountain goats from 2682 to 3042, and mountain sheep from 1014 to 1276.

The Genesee Chautequa will open on June 21 for a six-days entertainment course.

There will be two plays—"The Fool" on the opening night, one of the best of the season, and "The Successes," and "Applesauce," the play that made applesauce famous; the Haskell Indian Symphonic band, the Lucile Elmore Revue—and many other entertainments that will be worth many times the price of a season ticket—in fact, there will be six days chock full of good entertainment at a price that everyone can afford to pay—but you should buy a season ticket in order to save many dollars on the week's entertainments.

You can buy season tickets at any of the business houses.

Is Difference in Climate?

Here is a problem for real anglers and those intimately acquainted with Rainbow trout to try a set of figures on. Is the discrepancy in weight of the Washington trout, according to length, caused by climatic conditions, or is the discrepancy in the length of the Colorado trout, according to weight, caused by climatic conditions, or the condition of the two anglers at the time of landing their fish?

Here are two articles, the first one taken from the Colorado Springs (Colorado) Independent, and the second from the Astoria (Washington) Sentinel. Which one is correct:

"One of the largest trout ever exhibited in Colorado Springs was brought in last Thursday night by John Henry of the Street Railway company. He caught his monster rainbow, weighing 6 1/2 pounds, near La Veta pass. The fish measured 24 inches from snout to tip of tail."

"Arthur Shellman is about the proudest boy in Astoria this week, because of some of his fishing success. On Monday he thought he would go out and do a bit of fishing, but before starting out, took his tackle and stepped down to the creek, which is but a few yards from his home, to see if the fish would do any biting. He had no more than tossed his line in the water than he jerked out a Rainbow trout which measured 25 inches and weighed 3 1/2 pounds."

Congregational Aid

The ladies aid of the Congregational church will meet next Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Kenoski, who will be assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Gordon.

DROUGHT REDUCES WINTER WHEAT CROP—GRAIN STEADY

Prospects for a winter wheat crop in the United States of about 50,000,000 bushels less than that harvested last year, together with the latest strengthening factors in the grain market during the week ending June 11, according to the weekly Grain Market Review of the United States department of agriculture. Wheat prices advanced but corn and oats prices declined somewhat from the recent high level as a result of the improved weather conditions during the week.

According to the June 1 estimate of the department present prospects indicate a winter wheat crop of around 537,000,000 bushels compared with about 627,000,000 bushels harvested last year. This shows a reduction of about 90,000,000 bushels from the May 1 estimate. Practically all of this reduction is in the hard winter wheat states, particularly Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. The soft winter wheat crop in the principal producing states, according to present indications, will be about 38,000,000 bushels, smaller than was harvested in those states last year.

The condition of the spring wheat crop on June 1 was much better than a year ago on that date and nearly up to the 10-year average, being 87% of normal. While the crop is late, moisture conditions are favorable and the condition of the crop was reported good in every important spring wheat state except Illinois, Colorado and Washington.

European crop conditions were improved during the week. While reports indicate that the harvest will be from two to three weeks later than usual the information available at present suggests that the crop in important producing countries will be about average this season. Harvesting is reported in progress in Italy.

Weather conditions in Argentina were also improved during the week but further rain is needed to facilitate plowing and seeding, which should be completed by the end of July.

Spring wheat seeding was continued in the Canadian prairie provinces during the week but was practically completed. While the later seeding will increase the acreage, the outcome of such seeding will depend upon growing conditions and the time of frost next fall. Harvesting conditions are very favorable and the condition of the crop on June 1, according to the Canadian official estimate, was 95 per cent of the 10-year average, it is that date compared with 103 per cent a year ago.

Cash wheat prices advanced with the futures and also as a result of light offerings. New crop wheat was being marketed in increasing quantities in Texas and Oklahoma, new No. 1 dark hard winter wheat being quoted at $1.54 to $1.56 delivered to Texas common points. Harvesting began a small way in southern Kansas and is expected to be quite general during the coming week. Early marketing is expected as a result of the increased use of combines. Mills were good buyers of high protein wheat. Export bids for new hard winter wheat for June delivery at Gulf ports were reported to be about 6 cents over the Chicago July, for around 1.53 1/2 per bushel. There was also a good demand for good quality soft winter wheat. No. 2 red was quoted at St. Louis at $1.50 to $1.52 and at Chicago at $1.46 1/2 to $1.47.

The condition of the oats crop on June 1 was 79.9% of normal, compared with 78.8% on June 1 of last year and a 10-year average of 86.1. The condition was the poorest in the South Atlantic states. The cloudy weather has retarded growth but as a rule good root systems have been established.

Celebrate Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Herman were successfully surprised Sunday afternoon by a number of their friends, relatives and neighbors, who gathered at their country home to help them celebrate their silver wedding anniversary.

The late afternoon was the scene of a mock wedding, featuring Wade Mayer as bride; Fern Herman, groom; George Ebel, best man; Mr. Al. Mayer, bridesmaid; Frieda Ebel, flower girl; Ira Hanson and Mrs. John Krier as father and mother of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ingle acted the part of the bride and groom ten years later, and Wilma Ingle, dressed as an up-to-date flapper, attended by her "shiek" husband, brought it down to 1927.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman received many presents of silver, consisting of salad forks, pickle fork, berry spoon, etc.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Krier and Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ingle and family and Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Nelson of Pullman, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Herman and little son, Mr. Matt Diethelm of Moscow, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ebel and family, Mrs. Walter Ebel, Mrs. Ida Mullaney, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quayle and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hanson and Rowena, George Ebel, Wade Mayer, James Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Trautman, Mr. and Mrs. Al. Mayer, Inez and Glenn.

A delicious luncheon was served, after which the guests departed for their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Herman twenty-five years more of good luck and that they would again enjoy such a day.

Invent New Loud Speaker

Invention of a loud speaker with a range of approximately one mile and with great volume, has been announced by the Westinghouse company at Pittsburgh, Pa.

C. R. Hanna and Dr. Joseph Slepian are the inventors. The speaker is called "the exponential horn" and, according to its inventors, reproduces all tones, especially deep bass, at full volume without distortion. Perfect reproduction, they said, is brought about by proper coupling between the diaphragm and the surrounding atmosphere, as well as the peculiar internal curves of the horn. These curves, they added, make it possible to reproduce all pitches, low and high, accurately and with volume.

While the horn used in the experiments was 48 inches square, it produced sound effect of a horn 14 feet long. Despite the great volume of sound, it requires less electrical energy than a flashlight lamp.

In the first outdoor demonstration of the speaker it was heard clearly three-quarters of a mile away.

lished and where water has not been excessive the crop should improve rapidly with warmer clear weather. While oats prices declined with corn during the week, the market was relatively firmer because of the rather unfavorable crop outlook and the light receipts. No. 3 white oats were quoted at the close of the week at the principal markets at 46c to 48c per bushel.

The barley crop at the first of June was 81.5% of normal compared with 81.5% a year ago and 86.9 the 10-year average. The crop is late in the north-central states and some acreage intended for barley may be put in corn. The market held firm, particularly for malting grades, prices of which remained at the high point on the crop. Best malting types were quoted at $1.03 at Milwaukee, 95c to 97c at Chicago and 93c to 95c at Minneapolis.

PRETTY JUNE WEDDING AT ST. MARY'S CATHOLIC CHURCH

A very pretty but quiet wedding took place Thursday morning, June 9, at St. Mary's Catholic church, in Genesee, when Miss Sophia Marie Kambitsch became the bride of William T. Marineau, Rev. John E. Foley of Bovill officiating, with Rev. F. L. C. Godschalk of Genesee, assisting.

The bride was attractively and girlishly costumed in pale blue georgette gown and a pink picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas. She was attended by Miss Adeline Marineau of Coeur d'Alene, a sister of the bridegroom. Mr. Marineau was attended by the bride's brother, John A. Kambitsch.

The guests included only relatives and very near friends. A wedding dinner was served by the bride's mother and sister of the groom, the bride and groom left by automobile for Coeur d'Alene, from which place they expected to leave the next day for a three-weeks honeymoon trip to Chicago. After their return they will be at home to their many friends at Elk River, where Mr. Marineau owns and publishes the Elk River News.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kambitsch of Genesee and was born and reared here. She attended St. Joseph's school and later took a position in the Home Telephone office. Mr. Marineau is a conservative estimate when he places the release number at over 6,000 birds.

Some of the young birds are already large enough to fly and will be ready to release in about two weeks. The planting of Chinese pheasants will be completed by the end of the month. At Adkinson of Clarkston was found to be the lowest bidder, contract price being $12,216.00.

The dimensions of the house will be 60x150 feet, two floors. The building will be of wood construction and will be frost proof, the walls being 12 inches in thickness, ten inches of which will be sawdust and shavings, and a four inch air space on either side. It is expected that work will be begun on June 25 and the building completed in time for use this fall.

The building will be placed on the grounds over the prospects of a good yield and good market facilities through the newly-organized company, which will handle the crop for its members.

Hold High Mass for Bishop Gorman

TO PLANT MILLION TROUT IN CENTRAL IDAHO STREAMS

The state of Idaho will plant approximately one million young trout in the streams of central Idaho this season, according to the statement of R. E. Thomas, state game and fish warden, who was a recent visitor at Lewiston. Mr. Thomas is giving considerable attention to the state game farm at Lapwai during his visit here.

He reports the state hatchery at Grangeville will hatch for planting nearly 800,000 trout, the larger percentage being sent to the state game farm at Lapwai. The hatchery has already been brought to Lewiston for planting and another shipment is due. He states the large flow of the springs this season, due to the heavy precipitation during the past several months, will keep the creeks in good stage throughout the season. A very conservative estimate when he places the release number at over 6,000 birds.

Mr. Thomas is much pleased with the work at the state game farm and stated the prospects are favorable for releasing more than 6,000 Chinese pheasants in the state over the next month there are about 2,500 young Chinese pheasants at the farm with about 4,500 eggs under hens. Superintendent Charles W. Myers is making a fine record in the matter of rearing the young birds and Mr. Thomas thought he is making a very conservative estimate when he places the release number at over 6,000 birds.

Some of the young birds are already large enough to fly and will be ready to release in about two weeks. The planting of Chinese pheasants will be completed by the end of the month. At Adkinson of Clarkston was found to be the lowest bidder, contract price being $12,216.00.

Chautauque Starts Next Tuesday

With the coming of next week will come the Chautauque. Miss Pauline Dutton, of Grand Junction, Iowa, will be the director of the Genesee Chautauque, arrived Monday from California and is on the job lining things up for the big show.

Miss Dutton speaks very highly of a number of the best entertainments, among them being the Haskell Indian orchestra, but she laid special stress upon the entertainments given by Lucile Emure on the second day.

Miss Dutton said: Lucile Emure, who will be here on June 22, is an exponent of art for the sake. She is a daughter of a Topeka, Kansas, banker and is a niece of Fred Stone. She is an actress of note, having played on Broadway for a year. She is a charming and talented impersonator; carries more than a dozen costumes and makes lightning changes from school girl to preacher, from Dutch boy to army officer, from an old fashioned girl to a 1928 speedster model flapper, from a French doll to a Ted Lewis impersonation.

Miss Dorothy White, who will arrive in time to start the kiddies out, is a supervisor of the public relations and will hold a meeting of the kiddies each morning and she has some very interesting things for them. You can get season tickets from any of the business houses and by so doing you will save many dollars on admissions.

Contract Is Let

At a meeting of the stockholders of the newly organized Farmers Union Producers Co., Monday, bids were opened for the construction of a potato storage warehouse and J. R. Adkinson of Clarkston was found to be the lowest bidder, contract price being $12,216.00.

RURAL LETTER CARRIERS HOLD ANNUAL CONVENTION

The rural letter carriers of district No. 5, I. R. L. C. association, met in annual convention at Moscow, June 4, at 3 p. m., in the I. O. O. F. hall. The meeting was called to order by the convention committee chairman, C. W. Pasmore, of Moscow.

The assembly rose and sang America and the invocation was given by Rev. Smith of Moscow. The address of welcome was then given by Mayor H. T. Smith of that city, who, on account of past experiences, has an warm place in his heart for mail carriers, and postal employes in general. The response was ably given by Post-District President Geo. O. Post of Genesee, who pleaded for better organization and closer cooperation.

Other speakers on the program were J. H. Mitchell, fifth vice-president of the postal carriers' association, and L. C. Macomber of the railway mail clerks' association. Both speakers stressed the necessity of association organization and gave a review of the benefits to be derived from organization, not only to members, but also to the public in general, and as Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bellamy expressed it, when the employes and the department are benefited, the patron surely must receive some benefit from these meetings.

L. Wheeler, state president of the I. R. L. C. association, and Mrs. Wheeler, state president of the Ladies Auxiliary, were present and gave very interesting and instructive talks and reports on the last national convention.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: J. E. Wilson, Culldesac, president; T. P. Doudy, Moscow, vice-president; A. E. Mayer, Genesee, secretary and treasurer. Delegate to the state convention at Idaho Falls, July 8 and 9, are: Delegate at large, A. E. Mayer, Genesee; rural letter carrier, J. S. Wilson, Culldesac; C. W. Pasmore, Moscow, W. A. Estes, Viola.

Mrs. L. A. Wheeler, president of the Ladies Auxiliary, organized the ladies of District No. 5 and those elected to office for the ensuing year were: Ida Mayer, Genesee, president; Mrs. C. W. Pasmore, Moscow, vice-president; Mrs. T. P. Doudy, Moscow, secretary and treasurer. Delegate to the state convention at Idaho Falls, July 8 and 9, Ida Mayer, Genesee.

At 7 o'clock everyone went to the dining room where the ladies served a feast, cafeteria style. After supper, President Wilson introduced L. E. Thayer of Lewiston, being the oldest rural carrier in actual service, also a member of the association. Mr. Thayer is serving in his third extension since reaching the retirement age.

After supper a short time was given over to getting better acquainted and listening to a few well chosen "Tune-Full Tidbits" by C. Sample and Rex Brainard, also a solo by Paul Cole. The meeting was then adjourned to meet at Lewiston on the Saturday after Memorial day, at 3 o'clock p. m., 1928.

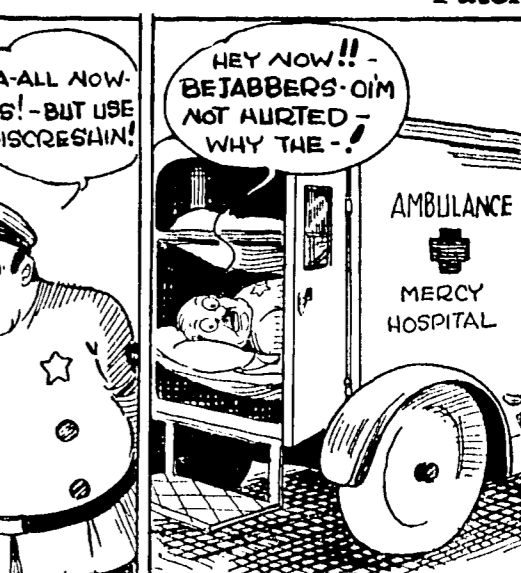

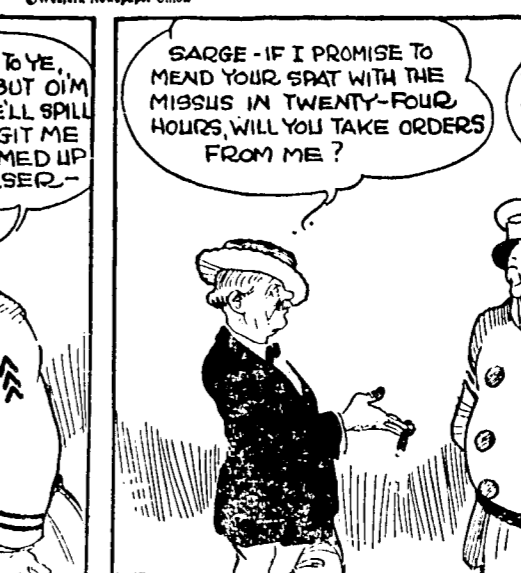

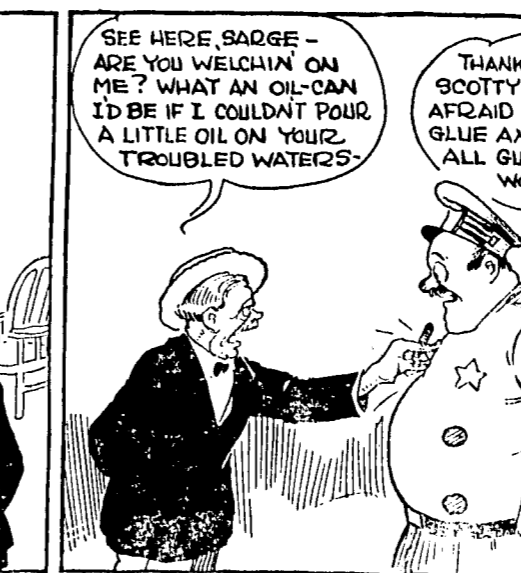

Many of those in attendance at the convention stayed over to witness the pageant. The light on the Mountain" put on by the students of the University of Idaho.

The convention was a great success from all angles. Harmony prevailed throughout and the attendance was the best ever had in District No. 5, there being over 60 present. Many problems and difficulties were worked out from which the public will receive the benefit.

A FEW THINGS EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW—DO YOU?

That most of the dice used in playing African golf are made of cotton? How logical! The southern negro makes his money picking it; the northern darkey loses his money rolling it.

That your "ivory" mirror and hairbrush backs, comb, button-book handles, pin trays, powder puff boxes, etc. are made of cotton? That your tortoise shell hair pins and combs, your carmine umbrella handle, your auto curtain window lights, even the leather-like coating on your chairs and lounges are also made of cotton?

That fiber "silk" or rayon is made of wood? And that "real" silk contains a large proportion of steel and tin which were certainly never produced by the industrious silk worm?

That cotton is the base of one of the stickest and most waterproof varieties of cement; that it is the base for the hardest and most waterproof enamel; that the toughest and most transparent lacquers are of the same material?

That paraffin—the "new skin" of surgery and invaluable as a sealer of wounds—is another cotton product? That the powerful blasting powder that rends the hardest rock in our quarries and the anthracite in our coal mines is made of such seemingly harmless and common things as charcoal, soda and sulphur?

That two of the most important ingredients in dynamite, the mighty explosive, are common ammonia and glycerin—the same ammonia you use in washing dishes, linoleum, painted woodwork and glass and the same glycerin used in your soap; in the glycerine and rose water preparation you use to soften the skin of your hands?

That most of the fast, brilliantly colored dyes are made out of coal-dirty, black coal?

What makes dynamite the powerful explosive it is? Its ability to resolve itself into a body of gas many times more voluminous than itself. A little stick of dynamite eight inches long and one inch in diameter is detonated. It instantly changes into gas. This gas fills a space many times 8x1. If the dynamite was packed tightly in earth or rock or coal when detonated, filling a space 8x1 inches, it becomes necessary for something to give way when the much more bulky gas takes its place. Result: The coal, rock, or earth is violently forced aside—so forcibly that pieces sometimes fly hundreds of feet away. This describes what happens in a dynamite blast or riot.—Ex.

First of 1927 Wheat Crop Sold

W. C. Halsey, the well-known rancher, is the first to dispose of any of the 1927 wheat crop. Of course the crop is yet to be harvested, but nevertheless he has contracted to sell at least 10,000 bushels of this year's crop to the Prairie Flour Mills company at a price of $1.25 per bushel, which is recognized as a very satisfactory price.—Asotin Sentinel.

the body, causing distress which nothing will remove till the real trouble is corrected.
Whatever may be the cause of your suffering—weak or broken down arches, weak ankles, painful heels, crooked or overlapping toes, excessive perspiration, corns, calluses or bunions—you can rid yourself of it permanently and easily.
On the above date a Foot Comfort
Expert from the Staff of Dr. Wm.
M. Scholl, will be at our store. He is thoroughly trained in Dr. Scholl's methods of foot correction and he will make X-ray impressions which reveal the exact nature of any foot trouble, and demonstrate how the correct Dr. Scholl Appliance or

There were no picture shows this week on account of the chautauqua and the fact that the picture house is being redecorated and another picture machine installed, giving a continuous show—no waits for changing of reels.

The show for the reopening night, Wednesday, June 29, will be Corinne Griffith in "Into Her Kingdom," and the last chapter of "The Fire Fighters." Also a new serial story will be started, "The Return of the Riddle Riders."

You will note that the name of the show house has been changed to the Cozy Theater—a very appropriate name.

Mr. Zell states that he has signed up for Paramount pictures, which will be shown as soon as the contract for the present run has expired.

Knodgrass-Madden Marriage

The following item was clipped from the Lewiston Tribune:

A very pretty wedding occurred at 7 o'clock Monday morning, June 27, at the Holy Family church, in Clarkston, when Miss Maud Knodgrass became the bride of John F. Madden. Rev. Walter J. Fitzgerald, S. J., president of Gonzaga university, and uncle of the bride, officiated at the nuptial mass. The bride was attended by Miss Elizabeth Yachum of Lewiston, and Cornelius Griffin of Clarkston acted as best man. The wedding march was played by Miss Martha Fuchs, and little Phyllis Hasterlick was flower girl.

Following the ceremony a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, 1310 Chestnut street, to about 40 friends and relatives of the bride and groom, after which Mr. and Mrs. Madden left for a motor trip to Portland and other coast points, where they will visit for several weeks, after which they will return to make their home in Clarkston.

Mrs. Madden is a daughter of Mrs. Belle Knodgrass, and of one of the pioneer families of the Peola section, the family coming west in 1880. For the past two years Mrs. Madden has been an instructor in the Lewiston Business college. Mr. Madden is associated with the Mark Means Seed Co. of Lewiston. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Madden, residents of Thirteenth and Sycamore streets.

Mr. Madden was raised on a farm just south of Genesee and is well and favorably known here and in the neighborhood where he spent his boyhood. A few years ago the Maddens sold their farm and removed to Clarkston, where they have since resided.

The friends of the Madden family and the News join in wishing them everything they are entitled to in this life.

Big Saw Mill Completed

The main saw mill building of the Clearwater Timber company, capable of sawing 400,000 feet of lumber in an eight-hour shift, is now completed and ready for action.

The first unit of the power plant also is complete, and after a natural drying process of three weeks it will be ready to develop with steam, with which the carriages of the band mills, the riggers and kickers are to be operated. Steam will also be used to operate the dry kilns.

The five double-action band mills are installed and ready for action, except for putting on the big band saws, and this is but a short task. The gang saws are installed, and the numerous edgers and cut off saws and countless chains and conveyors are all in place and ready for their appointed tasks. The painters have finished their work in the mill and in the majority of the other buildings.

The exact date for beginning of operations cannot be named as it is not possible to know when a number of the finishing jobs will be completed. The tentative starting date had been set at July 15, but it is now believed it will be August 1, before the start is possible.

Woods operations will be resumed just as soon as the mill gets under way in the regular cut. At the present time only brush burning crews are building the spurs from the main line to the logging camps.

Around 30,000,000 feet of logs are cut in the various woods camps and these will be removed to the mill pond just as soon as the logging spurs and main line are completed so that heavy logging trains can be operated over them. It is expected now that it will be around July 1, or perhaps after the Fourth before the first of the logs can be moved into Lewiston.

"Our" town is what we make it.

SEMI-LOCAL NEWS CLIPPED FROM EXCHANGES

Four Feet of Snow

Ranger Lloyd Kerr was at Cook Mt. last Saturday and reported a depth of snow of four feet at that time, the snow line being 2 1/2 miles down the trail toward the river but disappearing rapidly. It is reported that most of the snow is gone between Pierce and Oxford. The service is packing supplies over this stretch with mules.—Tribune (Orfino.)

Lightning Strikes House

About six o'clock Thursday evening of last week, the thunderstorm that visited this section was too close for comfort at the home of Frank P. Busch, a mile south of Johnson.

One flash was sharper than the rest, and the bolt, a ball of electric blue, struck the house, rolled into an open door and exploded, stunning the occupants momentarily.

No damage was done, the bolt was cold and did not set fire, but it is an experience that Mr. and Mrs. Busch do not wish repeated.—Colton News-Letter.

Will Locate at Genesee

Miss Naomi Manring and Walter Knorr, former Grangeville residents, were married Saturday at the Methodist parsonage in Lewiston, it is announced. The newlyweds departed on a visit to coast points and will locate at Genesee in September.

Mrs. Knorr is a member of the well known Manring family of Camas prairie and is a graduate of Grangeville high school and the Lewiston state normal school. For the past two years she has been teaching school in the Lewiston section.

Mr. Knorr is the son of C. B. Knorr, prominent Idaho pioneer, and was born and raised near Grangeville, Mr. Knorr has been engaged in farming and in the mercantile business for a number of years on Camas prairie and at Moscow.—Free Press (Grangeville.)

Are Improving Highway

Work of improving the road from the Thorncreek school house to the Washington state line toward Uniontown, within Idaho, has started through action of commissioners of highway district No. 1, crews working now on the western end of the road where it forks from the North and South highway.

Approximately 4 1/2 miles of construction will be done on the Idaho side and efforts will be made to have Whitman county commissioners approve construction of a similar stretch just across the Whitman county line to join with the Idaho road and complete the Uniontown link.

The road has been one of the poorest stretches in Latah county, but work now started will result in the road becoming a standard highway stretch full width and crushed rock surfaced, with all grades completed and many curves eliminated.

To facilitate the work and provide a standard highway road, commissioners of the Idaho district have sought Whitman county commissioners to slightly alter that portion of the road which joins that within Latah county, as the projected Idaho stretch will not reach the county line along the present projection. Commissioners in Whitman county have graded and surfaced a portion of their road but have been unwilling, it is said, to complete the stretch to the county line or to accede to the request to alter that last portion to provide a more uniform highway.

Commissioners of highway district No. 1, doing the present work in this county are: Edwin Snow, chairman; Oscar Anderson and Charles Grieser.—Star-Mirror.

The wages of sin is death, but there is always a man for the job.

GRAIN MARKET IS LOWER—WEATHER MORE FAVORABLE

Improved crop conditions lowered grain prices during the week ending June 25, although cash quotations hardly followed the full decline in futures, states the weekly Grain Market Review of the United States department of agriculture. Favorable weather in the United States as well as in Canada and Europe weakened the market for wheat and rye while less pessimistic reports on corn caused sharp recessions in coarse grains.

Conditions were generally favorable for wheat. Harvesting was resumed in the Southwest after the recent heavy rains there and the crop made good progress in other sections. Cutting was progressing as far northward as central Missouri and wheat in northern Ohio was ripening under favorable conditions. Prospects indicated a bumper crop in the Pacific Northwest where the harvest in the early sections was expected to start after July 4.

World wheat conditions also showed a slight improvement for the week. The Canadian crop made good progress and the outlook for European wheat was unchanged to slightly better than a week ago, while rains in Argentina were beneficial to seeding operations there. These improved conditions were reflected in lower Liverpool quotations. July futures there declined 4 cents for the week ending June 24, closing at $1.60 per bushel. European port stocks showed some further increase but this was counterbalanced by reductions in stocks on ocean passage and smaller shipments of bread grains. Attractive prices in European countries are bringing out the remaining surplus of domestic wheat.

Movement of new wheat in the Southwest increased although recent wet weather there has restricted threshing operations. Many of the cars arriving at southwestern markets have contained considerable moisture and have sold at discounts. In spite of the general decline in wheat prices, old wheat of good quality at Kansas City and Omaha advanced slightly, largely because the wet weather in the Southwest may have lowered the quality of some of the new wheat. High protein wheat was in best demand but ordinary grades were slow. Export demand was quiet with export bids reduced to 4 1/2c over the Chicago September future for No. 1 hard winter f. o. b. gulf ports.

High protein wheat, especially with favorable billing, moved readily in the Northwest but damp and damaged wheat was draggy.

Good milling types of soft winters were in fair demand at reduced prices but low grades were dull. Southern mills were buying wheat at Cincinnati to piece out their stocks till new wheat should be available. Demand was slow in the Pacific Northwest for both export and milling wheat with prices about 2 cents lower.

Oats declined in sympathy with the weakness in corn, together with favorable developments in the new crop. Much of the recent advance in oats was ascribed to the possibility of their substitution for corn. Cash demand was only fair and market stocks recently have shown only a slight decline.

Barley worked sharply lower with malting grades weaker than feeding qualities. With new crop prospects excellent buyers were awaiting lower levels. Quotations declined 10c to 12c at Milwaukee where some local buyers were out of the market altogether, while demand also fell off at Minneapolis and Chicago. No. 2 special barley at Milwaukee was quoted at 88c to 90c with best malting at Minneapolis at 82c to 84c and feed grades at 70c to 76c. Malting barley at Chicago sold at 84c to 88c with good feeding quoted at 80c to 83c.

CAMAS PRARIE SWEEP BY DEVASTATING HAIL STORM

Severe hail storms, sweeping a 10-mile square with Cottonwood as the approximate center, caused heavy damage to fall wheat in that vicinity and left barely a house without broken windows there late Sunday afternoon says a Cottonwood report to the Lewiston Tribune.

The entire region from the John Knop farm three miles north of Cottonwood to Fenn on the south and from Cottonwood butte on the west to the Greencreek country on the east was struck with a deluge of hailstones which ranged in size from those of peas to pigeons' eggs. Definite estimates of the damage were not available, but it was feared that they will reach well into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. It is said that comparatively little hail insurance was carried by the farmers, particularly those in the Cottonwood vicinity.

Hail pellets were so large and fell so fast around Cottonwood that 57 windows were broken in the house and outbuildings on the J. F. Jenny farm a mile north of there. The old Cottonwood Hardware company building on King street lost its entire front of plate glass, which was crashed in by the thickly falling hail. Dozens of windows were broken in the Rooke hotel building here and hardly a house in the west end of town but had from one to a score of damaged panes.

The hail storm appeared suddenly and was not accompanied by much rain in this region. It struck the standing fall grain at its most vulnerable stage, when the heads were well filled and the wheat more than fence post high. The hail pellets shelled the grain in the head like peas and lodged so much of it flatly that it is not expected to ever recover.

A report from Grangeville says hail peppered on Grangeville for more than an hour, leaving the town under a white blanket and the local countryside looking like the return of winter. The storm was reported to have come from the Whitebird country. At Tolo lake it seemed to have split, part going on to Denver and Cottonwood and part coming to Grangeville.

Marion Weber, postmaster at Fenn, stated indications were that the entire country between Fenn and Cottonwood was pretty well cleaned by the storm. Hundreds of small and large farm owners are involved in the general sweep of the hail, which was most severe between Cottonwood and Fenn. With few exceptions, the insurance carried by the farmers concerned is reported as small.

Apparently a strip six to eight miles wide through Denver, Fenn and Cottonwood was swept by the hail. Serious losses were also reported in the Greencreek and Red Rock regions.

The storm divided in velocity and seriousness as it reached the Harpater country, where heavy rains were reported. These showers, however, are said to have lodged much of the standing grain and to have permanently damaged some that had been flattened by the rain several days ago.

The hail was fairly general in the central Camas prairie region and was reported not to have crossed lawyers canyon. Showers, but no hail, fell yesterday afternoon in the Craigmont and Nezperce regions.

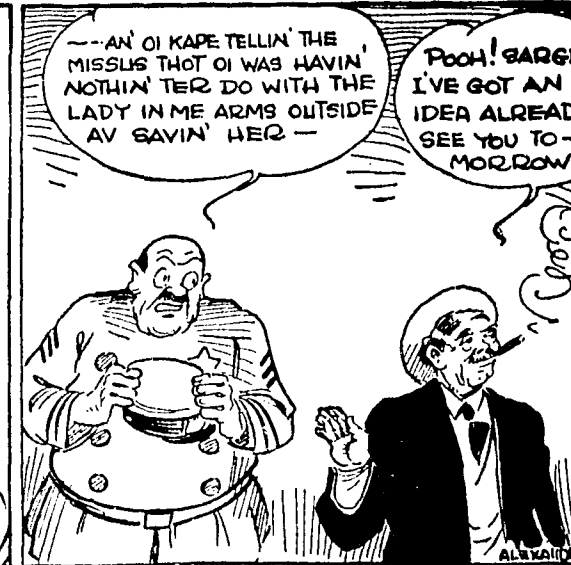

The storm is said to have been the worst on the prairie in 20 years and everyone is apprehensive that the 1927 crop, which promised to be heavier than normal, now will be cut seriously.

NEW ALL STEEL Rotary Rod Weeder

The great problem has been to keep your summer fallow free from weeds and prevent the evaporation of moisture.

MANY IMPLEMENTS HAVE BEEN DEVISED TO MEET THIS NEED, SOME GOOD, SOME BAD, AND SOME DIFFERENT. MOST OF THEM DEPEND MORE OR LESS ON A CUTTING EDGE WHICH WOULD GET DULL WITH USE, CLOG WITH WEEDS AND TRASH, OR SLIP OVER OR AROUND SOME OF THE WEEDS.

THE ROTARY ROD WEEDER WAS INVENTED AND PERFECTED TO OVERCOME THESE DEFECTS. THERE ARE NO BLADES OR CUTTING EDGES TO GET DULL AND WEAR OUT. THE CONTINUOUS ROD LEAVES NO LOOPHOLES OR WEEDS TO SLIP THROUGH. THE REVOLVING OF THE ROD PREVENTS CLOGGING. THE ROD REVOLVES WITH A REVERSE MOTION AND CAN BE FORCED FROM ONE TO SIX INCHES BENEATH THE SURFACE OF THE GROUND, THUS STRIKING THE WEEDS WHERE THEY LIVE, CRUSHING, TEARING AND UPROOTING THEM. AT THE SAME TIME IT FIRMS THE LOWER HALF OF THE FURROW SLICE, PRESSING OUT THE AIR SPACES, MAKING AN EXCELLENT SEED BED AND LEAVING A LOOSE LUMP MULCH ON TOP. THIS LUMP MULCH READILY ABSORBS THE RAIN FALL, DOES NOT CRUST AND PREVENTS BLOWING.

THIS IS WHY ONCE OVER WITH THE ROTARY ROD WEEDER DOES MORE THAN SEVERAL TIMES OVER WITH ANY OTHER IMPLEMENT. IT IS A CULTIVATOR, WEEDER AND PACKER COMBINED, AND DOES THE WORK OF ALL THREE IN ONE OPERATION.

THE PICTURE SHOWS

"The Sonora Kid"
 The feature picture at the Cozy theater for Saturday night, July 2, will be Tom Tyler in "The Sonora Kid," and is full of thrills from start to finish.

The story goes that Tom McLeady, the new foreman of the Butterworth ranch, has only been on the job a few weeks, but he is already deeply interested in Phyllis Butterworth, the boss's daughter. Aunt Marie is incurably romantic and urges Phyllis along. The ranch owner returns from a long business trip with a prospective son-in-law, James Poindexter, and orders Tom off the ranch when he finds out how affairs are going with his daughter. Tom, however, meets Phyllis secretly, and they plan an elopement. That is when the real fun begins—and, besides, you'll want to learn how to elope—if you have never done such a thing.

The Midnight Sun
 One of the biggest and best pictures that has ever been shown in Genesee will be on the screen at the Cozy theater Sunday and Monday nights, July 3 and 4, when the "Midnight Sun" will be shown, with Laura La Plante in the leading feminine role.

The picture is laid in Russia during the Czarist regime and is one of many scenic beauties.

The story:
 Through the influence of Ivan Kusman, Russia's most powerful banker, Olga Balashova, young and beautiful has been advanced from the ranks of the Imperial Russian Ballet to premier ballerina. The year is 1912. Innocent and unworried, Olga follows the advice of her maid, and accepts the favors of all her admirers. Not only is Kusman enamored of her but the Grand Duke Sergius also. While these powerful men are exerting every influence to possess the girl, Olga meets Alexei Koneff, officer in the Grand Dukes guard. A great love develops between the boy and the girl. The revolutionary tendencies of Alexei's brother have brought about the latter's arrest. In order to secure his freedom, Olga, unknown to Alexei, visits the Grand Duke's apartments. On leaving the apartment she is confronted by Alexei who misconstrues the situation. Alexei denounces the girl, insults the Duke, renounces the government and joins the revolutionaries. Out of all this comes a powerful dramatic picture story, set down in the midst of lavish scenes, colorful surroundings and presented by a cast of favorites.

Cars Collide on Highway
 A collision of autos occurred last Thursday night, about 10:30 o'clock when a Studebaker car from Pullman and a Star driven by a Mr. Horvath of Moscow, came together at the intersection of roads just south of the Ingle school house.

The Star car was said to be going toward Lewiston and the Studebaker was coming from the road straight south and that the light from one car blinded the driver of the other with the result that they came together with a side swipe, damaging both cars pretty badly. None of the occupants were seriously hurt.

New Cement Walk
 A new cement walk was laid from the hotel a half a block south, completing the walk to the south street, adding much to the comfort of pedestrians who travel that street.

Expect Bumper Harvest

It will take more than 200,000 agricultural workers to harvest the crops in Washington, Idaho and Oregon this year, which will be the greatest this region has known in decades, according to W. C. Selwood of Sleepy Cat

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN

Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons. WNU Service.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—At Sleepy Cat Doctor Carpy tells Wentworth, freighting boss of a hauling outfit in Butte, of a gambling den, in which John Selwood gambles, in disguise of his wounded partner, Dave Tracy, shows remarkable skill and nerve.

CHAPTER II.—A year afterward, Selwood, now Wentworth's representative at Sleepy Cat, drives his buckboard, comes upon a settler whose wagon has been overturned. He helps get the outfit clear, after picking up a girl who is evidently a gambler, by the supposed owner thereof in W. W. Gray, a gambler, who is Selwood's brother-in-law.

CHAPTER III.—Selwood, himself powerless before Selwood of the livery, and Selwood forces the swindler, Bartles and Atkins, to return the money.

CHAPTER IV.—Starbuck, head of the crooked gamblers, remonstrates with Selwood and is sharply rebuffed. Selwood opens a dry goods store, with "Big Selwood" running McCreary's uncle, and Selwood, in the place, "Big Selwood" runs McCreary's uncle, and Selwood, in the place, "Big Selwood" runs McCreary's uncle.

CHAPTER V.—Selwood makes Christine's acquaintance and falls in love with her. He is a crook. The storekeeper, Fyler, tries to ingratiate himself with Christine. Fyler's mind is poisoned against Selwood.

CHAPTER VI.—Fyler is beaten and Selwood and Christine are married. Selwood and Christine are married. Selwood and Christine are married.

CHAPTER VII.—Selwood warns Selwood of the livery, and Selwood forces the swindler, Bartles and Atkins, to return the money.

CHAPTER VIII.—Selwood, himself powerless before Selwood of the livery, and Selwood forces the swindler, Bartles and Atkins, to return the money.

CHAPTER IX.—Selwood, himself powerless before Selwood of the livery, and Selwood forces the swindler, Bartles and Atkins, to return the money.

Selwood of Sleepy Cat

CHAPTER X.—Selwood furnishes Diplomat.

General Roper waited only 10 minutes to get to the station. He said very little to Wentworth before he started; only that when he came back he would have a talk with Selwood.

Wentworth himself spent the week between Selwood and Tracy River, disturbed only and surprised by Selwood's resignation as superintendent of the freight line. It required a big fellow—her look of sudden, deadly fear. Bill had a pretty good idea now. He shook his head to her question. "No. Nothing like that at all. Christine. But what's wrong between you and John?"

Pardloe was treading on thin ice for a mile boss; and among the dangers he had not counted on was the reaction in a woman's feelings after she has betrayed her secret.

With a flush of anger Christine suddenly called out: "I'm sure I've no idea what you're talking about, Bill. And it's very silly to keep on talking about it." So saying, Christine became very quiet, and Selwood and left Pardloe looking after her retreating heels and studying the floor with even more than his habitual concentration.

But he was not easily discouraged. Having thought seriously over the situation and braced himself slightly for a second attempt, Pardloe returned to the store an hour later to straighten up the girls' room, to be greeted by Christine—troubled out.

"Christie," he insisted gravely, "I ain't no use or better around the bush. There's trouble between you and John." She protested, denied, interrupted—it was all one. Pardloe argued until poor Christine took refuge in a woman's last weapon—tears. This argument threatened to reduce Pardloe to the same state, but it cleared the atmosphere, and Christine, touched by his honest interest, told him the story of the scene between Starbuck and Selwood and herself that evening of the morning in the store. "It wouldn't have been so bad," trembled Christine.

ZERK SYSTEM	Self Initiating Bearings

MEYER & SON

We Exercise Our Brains More

The London Times is doubtful as to whether British prosperity can be secured on the American plan of high wages, mass production and increased consumption, as urged by the British investigators who studied American conditions. It seems to feel that America has special advantages of resources and individual initiative which are not common to Great Britain.

Probably, with unconscious British conservatism, it reacts against the thought of the complete turnover that might have to be made in British ideas to adopt the American system.

In this country, the old doctrine of class conflict is being rapidly replaced by the idea of cooperation in industry. Our greatest industrial organizations, public utilities and railroads have broken up their stock ownership and sold their securities to millions of employees, customers and capitalists. The American Federation of Labor has formally subscribed to the view that higher wages can only come out of increased production.

There is nothing in the American labor or capitalist system which cannot be adopted by Great Britain, its workmen and capitalists, if they desire to do so.

It is not so much the utilization of natural advantages, as it is to the exercise of common horse sense coupled with unhampered initiative, that has built the United States into the nation it is today. It is well for the other nations to realize that America has no corner on brain power, although the average citizen in this country may give his brains more exercise than the average citizen of other lands, because he has been encouraged to do so, and his ambition has not been crushed by paternalism, as in many other lands.

A Notable Achievement

Some say that the blond is the most notable achievement of modern chemistry. Many a woman has dyed her hair.

Some Freight Train

If all the freight handled by U. S. railroads in 1926 were loaded in cars at one time, it would form a train long enough to girdle the earth eight times.

A Birthday Party
On Saturday, July 2, Mrs. Albert Peterson gave a birthday party for her seven-year-old son, Vernon, to which several of his young friends were invited, and a right jolly good time did the youngsters have. Games were played and refreshments dear to the hearts of youngsters were served. Master Jack Magee, whose birthday anniversary came upon the same day, and who is also just seven years old, was the guest of honor.

Besides the host and the guest of honor those present were Bonnie, Maxine and Vern Lange, Floyd and Elaine Howe, Galford and Vivian Olson, Arthur Jenkins, Norman Johnson and Clifford and Lois Hillman of Paulose.

Willful Potato Disease Meeting

A potato disease meeting will be held at the farm of Sam Lange, north of Genesee, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, July 19, to which everyone interested in the growing of better potatoes are invited.

J. M. Raeder, plant pathologist of the University of Idaho, will demonstrate the roguing of potato fields and the identification of diseases.

High Priced Letter

"I see that a letter written by John Adams has been sold for $658.

"That's nothing. A letter of mine recently brought $10,000."

"Indeed?"

"Yes; to a girl who sued me for breach of promise."

Too Strong to Save

Chuych—I thought you promised to save me some of that liquor you had.

Wally—I tried to, but it ate holes through everything I put it in and I finally had to drink it.

Spreading Tervia Resumed

The work of spreading Tervia on the highway north of town, which was started last fall, was resumed again last week, and the work is going forward under very satisfactory conditions at this time, the road being dry and the surface is being put in fine condition.

The resurfacing crews about nineteen miles of highway and is an extension of that put on last fall. The dressing is being put on under an entirely different process from that used last fall and should be at least 40 per cent better.

Chas. E. Ehlen, who is in charge of the maintenance work. Washed gravel is being used for the finishing coat for the entire job, which gives a better penetration of the tarvia.

Autoists should drive slowly through the fresh tar as it is a very sticky substance and it is quite hard to remove from the car when it once sticks there.

Salchert in Federal Toils

A new turn has been taken in the case surrounding Huber Salchert, arrested several weeks ago at Pierce City on a charge of being implicated in the attempt to assassinate Federal Prohibition Agent James F. Rice by placing a bomb at his home in Lewiston March 13, 1926, when department of justice agents arrested him at Walla Walla.

The state charge is still pending but it is now thought this will give way to federal action. The warrant on which Salchert was arrested charges criminal conspiracy. Salchert was returned to Lewiston and lodged in jail and Tuesday was arraigned before the United States commissioner. He has been at liberty on bond.

Spreading Tervia Resumed

The work of spreading Tervia on the highway north of town, which was started last fall, was resumed again last week, and the work is going forward under very satisfactory conditions at this time, the road being dry and the surface is being put in fine condition.

The resurfacing crews about nineteen miles of highway and is an extension of that put on last fall. The dressing is being put on under an entirely different process from that used last fall and should be at least 40 per cent better.

Chas. E. Ehlen, who is in charge of the maintenance work. Washed gravel is being used for the finishing coat for the entire job, which gives a better penetration of the tarvia.

Autoists should drive slowly through the fresh tar as it is a very sticky substance and it is quite hard to remove from the car when it once sticks there.

Salchert in Federal Toils

A new turn has been taken in the case surrounding Huber Salchert, arrested several weeks ago at Pierce City on a charge of being implicated in the attempt to assassinate Federal Prohibition Agent James F. Rice by placing a bomb at his home in Lewiston March 13, 1926, when department of justice agents arrested him at Walla Walla.

The state charge is still pending but it is now thought this will give way to federal action. The warrant on which Salchert was arrested charges criminal conspiracy. Salchert was returned to Lewiston and lodged in jail and Tuesday was arraigned before the United States commissioner. He has been at liberty on bond.

Willful Potato Disease Meeting

SOON COMPLETE MILL AND DAM—LOGS DUE THIS WEEK

With the completion of Lewiston's saw mill, power and railway development now a reality, contractors are building and completing the various phases of the three great projects, and they will be finished and ready for operation almost simultaneously.

Although the saw mill will be put into operation soon after the first of August, the entire plant will be completed about September 1, the date the railway engineers have set for the completion of the railway. By September 1, the power plant and mill race will be done and ready for operation, and the only phase of the work which is likely not to be finished by that date is the dam, and that may require a few weeks longer, depending on how long it takes to make the excavations in the middle of the river, says the Lewiston Times.

Contractors are unwilling to name a time at which the several projects will be wound up, but at the present time the major part of the milling plant will be done by the first of next month, and the power plant and railway by September 1. The saw mill will be put into operation just as soon as possible, but indications now are that it will be some time after August 1 before the try-out cut can be made at the mill.

Logs are due to arrive from the woods by the end of this week, but it will take several weeks to get a quantity ahead so that a regular cut can be started. Efforts of the railway contractors the past few weeks have been directed to the completion of the main logging road from Orofino to Jay Pee station where the Clearwater Timber company has 30,000,000 feet of logs ready to be moved to Lewiston.

Pumps were started last week at the dam, emptying the cofferdams which it built about pier three and the base section between piers three and four, and excavation and pouring of concrete on this sector will start this week. A large eight-inch pump started last week at the dam to pump water into the forebay to keep it at a level for receiving of logs.

Evaporation and seepage had caused the mill pond to fall several inches daily, following the drop of the river from high water stage.

The Clearwater Timber company is keeping its construction crews at full force to hurry the completion of the buildings and installation of machinery, and splendid progress is reported on all phases of the work.

The loading hoists to be used at the logging camps for loading the logs level for receiving of logs were constructed at the mill, will be sent out to the camps in the vicinity of Jay Pee, to be used when the logging trains start. The equipment for the 400 flat cars for logging service is about done and the train equipment will be ready by the end of the week, when the service is scheduled to start.

The tie-in of the Pacific Power & Light company system with the new power plant and the mill was completed June 30, and the attention of workmen at the power house has been to completing the installation of the turbines, generators and the complicated switch room equipment. The first generator unit is practically complete and the second will be done soon after the first of August, and the tie-in plant ready to operate September 1, providing there is the proper water height in the forebay at that time.

Genesee congratulates the City of Lewiston and the Clearwater Timber company on the completion of this project, and while it is problematical whether the big mill will be of the benefit first dreamed of by Lewiston, it will be of decided benefit, not only to that city and the immediate territory, but in a measure to the entire surrounding country.

Some Egg
A man saw a message and an address on an egg he got for breakfast. The message read:

"This egg was packed by a girl thousands of miles away from Lewiston. She is supposed to be the prettiest girl in the neighborhood, and is prepared to marry the man who eats this egg."
The man cabled her: "I'll marry you."

He received a reply from the girl: "I am flattered by your proposal, but I am now married and have three children."

Idaho Lambs Break Decline

A higher trend in the prices paid for fat range lambs from Idaho and Washington is seen at the Chicago stock yards after three weeks of continued declines in which values dropped $4.75 per hundred pounds, resulting in heavy losses to sheep raisers. This is encouraging news to sheepmen in this part of the country who have been anxiously watching for an upturn in lamb prices.

A shipment of fat lambs owned by Domingo Aguirre of Mountain Home, Idaho, were sold on Thursday's market, June 30, by the Farmers Union Live Stock commission at Chicago yards, turned the market upward. T. J. Lynch, sheep salesman for the commission, said the market was up, and that a large delegation of students and instructors from the American Institute of Cooperation, which held its annual session at Chicago this year, witnessed the sale of these lambs to Swift & Co at $14.50 per hundred pounds. Nine hundred lambs in the shipment were purchased at this price and the sale was 25 cents higher than the preceding day.

It is hoped that the upturn in lamb prices will continue until a large part of the decline has been recovered. Lambs reached the high point of the year on June 9, when a string from Washington sold at $18.75. The low point on Idaho was $14.00.

Auto Killings
The number of deaths resulting from automobile accidents is considerably less this month than it was at the same time last year. In fact, only about 21 persons out of every 100,000 were killed by automobiles in June, whereas 23 out of the same number lost their lives in June, 1926.

That's All
Blie—Pa sent me for a piece of rope like this.
Merchant—How much does he want?
Blie—Just enough to reach from the goat to the fence.

Foreign Debtors

Thirteen foreign governments paid Uncle Sam $88,995,881 on June 15. Of this amount France paid $10,000,000. We say a lot of sarcastic things about these foreign nations but "money talks" and the remittances indicate that they aren't such bad debtors after all.

There is no satisfactory reason for believing that a woman who is always harping will make a good angel.

Hugo Manderfeld Badly Burned
Hugo Manderfeld, who has been working at Cloverland for some time, met with a painful accident Thursday of last week which might easily have proven much worse than it was. He had emptied a portion of gasoline on a pile of rubbish he wanted to burn—in fact, he had emptied the can—and had lighted a paper that he intended to toss onto the rubbish to ignite it, but in doing so had allowed the lighted paper to come too near the open can, the fumes and remaining small portion of gas igniting and exploding, burning Mr. Manderfeld's right arm and face rather severely, although he does not anticipate any lasting serious results from the mishap.

The cherry crop from that little city, the late frosts and the tomato growers and cannery officials having failed to reach an agreement as to prices, it is said that both crops will be sold on the open market and shipped in boxes.

Tomatoes have made good growth and thus far no blight has been discovered, which usually manifests itself during the extremely hot weather, and thus far very few really warm days have been experienced.

The early ripe tomatoes are expected about August 1, according to report from the growers of the early varieties.

Better and Less Radio

The determination of the government to "regulate radio" is producing good effects because there has been considerable reallocation of wave lengths. But the old rule of supply and demand seems to be doing the most work. The bunk little radio broadcasters are gradually dropping out of the game for want of public support, and the result is that we are getting better radio principally because there is less of it.

County Commissioners in Session
The Latah county commissioners went into session Monday for the quarterly meeting and aside from unforseen business, they will probably only transact the regular routine business.
The commissioners have been sitting as a board of equalization since June 27 and they will continue in such capacity until July 18. Several complaints have been entered by taxpayers regarding their valuations and as-essment.
Sealed bids for the construction of a new $20,000 jail were opened at 2
p. m. on Thursday. Awarding of the contract for construction was postponed from the call for bids during the early part of June, the delay being due to the delay in furnishing plans by the architects.
On Thursday morning at 10 o'clock the annual sale of property upon which the 1922 taxes were delinquent was held at the front door of the court house, when some 40 or 50 tracts were offered for sale.

The Monday Bunch
The Monday Bunch was delightfully entertained Monday afternoon at the country home of Mrs. Fred Shir-
rod. Fancy work and social intercourse was the order of the day and a splendid lunch was served by the hostess.
The guests were Mrs. Hattie Herman, Mrs. Dora Etter and Mrs. Clyde Meyer.
The next meeting will be held with Mrs. W. W. Barr, July 25.
Didn't Blow It
Traffic Cop—Did you blow your horn?
Fair Motorist—No, why? Does it look like it needed blowing?

Getting Harvest Rigs Ready
Most farmers are now actively engaged in getting their harvest and threshing rigs in order for the large harvest that is rapidly coming on.
Binders are being overhauled and separators, bundle wagons, etc., are being put in shape for the binding of what which will commence in about another week, according to ranchers to the south of town. If weather conditions remain favorable, and combining will commence about two weeks later, according to the calendar doped out at this time. Of course a great deal depends upon weather conditions but with a fair amount of sunshine and a heavy crop of grain crops harvested in this section in many years will be ready within the next three or four weeks at the outside.
Cliff Lundt, residing a short distance south of town, says he has a piece of land that he has planted with wheat crop in that it will yield 30 bushels to the acre—something almost unheard of in this section of the country heretofore.

Blue Bird Club Entertained
The Blue Bird Club was very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs.
Arthur Hampton Wednesday afternoon. A splendid luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Roy Patchen.
The invited guests were Mrs. Elmer
Johnson, Miss Sylvia Johnson, Miss
Genevieve Hampton, Mrs. F. D. Hawley and children of Walla Walla, who have been visiting at the Hampton home.

People Will Smoke
It requires more labor to raise an acre of tobacco than any other major crop. An acre of Burley tobacco, yielding from 800 to 1,000 pounds, requires for growing, preparing for market, and marketing, from 250 to 400 hours of labor. Cotton can be raised with about half of the amount of labor, and good old Irish potatoes will take less than 100 hours of labor per acre.

Work is Progressing
Work on the new potato storage house is progressing nicely and the work will be rushed in order that the house may be ready for the fall crop of spuds, which will undoubtedly be one of the largest ever harvested here.

Selwood of Sleepy Cat

THE STORY
CHAPTER I—A Sleepy Cat Doctor
Carry felt the weight of the big pill on the hill that had cost so much money—these queries the Scotsman reverted rapidly in his mind, until Selwood, treating him so lightly and with the briskness of unreckon-ing manhood, turned the first corner and disappeared from view. But fate, grinning at the doctor, had not understood how to upset a posse indifferent to the threats of men; just as Sel-wood turned the corner it presented to him almost three men in armor, rounding the corner from the other way and walking as briskly as he was—Christie Fyler.
"Don't talk nonsense," he did in-vitably. Then in the suddenness of the encounter Selwood—never quick to adjust himself to meeting the woman whose name he could never remember, stiffly, almost ostentatiously, stopped aside, touched his hat, and hurried on with a little faster. But after that, with his heart beating harder, he began to feel that he had not to surprise and to question himself and, of course, to regret.
Their eyes, in this sudden and unexpected way, had met. It was only an instant, but the picture came back to him now of a sad expression in Christie's eyes—sad, at least, until she woke up and realized that she had run into Selwood, and then her eyes had quickly dropped; she had passed on.
It was his fault, he told himself.
He had not even heeded the fact that he had given her time to speak. He prided his stiffness and contemptible refusal for not having given her even an opportunity at such a time—a time pregnant with threatening possibilities for them both as well as for Sleepy Cat. He longed for a chance to meet her again, still, his vanity would not allow him to turn back.
So while Christie was reproaching herself for not making the quick advance she wanted to make and new felt it had been her pipe to make when she saw the only man's face in the world that meant anything to her —woth, unhappy, passed on, little remembering of when and where they should meet again.
Selwood quite knew that his mistake to Tracy would call for fact. He sat down on a camp stool beside his

Trucks Damage Payment

The huge gravel trucks now engaged in hauling gravel to resurface the state highway from the top of the Lewiston hill to Pullman are sure playing havoc with Uniontown's Main street. At the northern extremity of the street several large holes have been broken through the pavement which in turn has started to crack for a considerable distance around the holes. It's a hard proposition, but it seems that something should be done before the street is entirely ruined.—Uniontown Journal.

Raft Down Clearwater

Wm. Duross and Phil Schooler and helpers came down the North Fork the first of the week from the mouth of the Little North Fork with a couple of large rafts loaded each with a small engine and other logging equipment used at the Holmes camps which have been logging on the Little North Fork for two years. The cats were pretty heavy loads and were not ideal for the raft as the weight was not distributed. They had some trouble getting the rafts launched and out into the main river but after that the run was made without mishap and the loads landed at Ahsahka. The drive of the three million feet landed on the river by Holmes and McElwain was started the fifth. This timber will be sawed at Magill—Tribune (Orofino).

"Salvation Jane"

The feature picture for Saturday night, July 16, at the Cozy theater will be "Salvation Jane," with Viola Dana in the leading feminine role.

Captain Carrie Brown of the Salvation Army, is troubled by "Salvation Jane," a tenement girl who continually uses her as a scapegoat for her mischievous deeds. Jerry O'Day, a crook, is prevented from robbing a woman through Jane's vigilance.

Later Jerry discovers where she lives and offers to outfit her if she will "work" with him to rob his wealthy neighbors, but she refuses. However, he later induces her, through force of circumstances, to join him in his work. But Jane is not all bad.

"We're in the Navy Now"

For Sunday night, July 17, the feature film will be "We're in the Navy Now," with Wallace Beery and Ray Hatton in the leading roles.

Hit the deck mates! They're in again. This time as the two most glib gobs that ever trod a poop deck—a comedy of the high seas with a prize ring for an act, and intrigue, and sea life, and a world war gobs tangled amidships. Rise an' shine, sailor!

"We're in the Navy Now" is colorful and full of action. It scintillates with unexpected laugh situations. The scenes are real, carrying a genuine high seas atmosphere. All the airplanes, navy's fighting units, submarines, destroyers and battleships, swing into action during the battle scenes.

"Variety"

Wednesday night, July 20, the main picture will be "Variety," with Emil Jennings and Lya de Putti in the leading roles.

A picture with a thousand punches. All the glamour and glitter, jealousy and romance of show life. With Jennings as an ace serialist and Lya de Putti as the girl, with a breath-taking, three-fold death-defying leap in mid-air as a sample of the thrills—love scenes such as you have never thrilled to. Gripping, colorful, romantic drama of the theater and its people.

The boy who used to punch a hole in his sister's doll to see the sawdust run out, now takes his automobile apart and send for the garage man to come and put it back together.

New Jail Contract Let

The official building company of Spokane was the successful bidder for general construction work, with an original bid of $18,448, from which they got $600 to receive the bid at $18,048.

Witter Plumbing and Heating company, Moscow, was successful on the plumbing contract, with a bid of $3150 and Powell & DeLong, Moscow, were awarded the heating contract at $4161 while Maxwell-Franks, Spokane were given the electric wiring at $8270.

Three equipment bid bids were received and the commissioners went over them in an effort to select equipment. No decision has yet been reached.

Estimated cost of the jail building, to be one story, brick structure, erected in the rear of the present court house, was $25,000, and will be paid for in cash from present county funds.

The street grader under the control of Robert Beechler, Genesee city-marshal and propelled by four horses in the hands of Frank Jacobs, did a much needed and greatly appreciated job of grading, or more properly speaking, surface smoothing on Fir street, which, by the way, is the street intersecting main at the location of the First and Exchange banks. It is to be hoped that some of the other thoroughfares received similar treatment.

Luven Shower

A shower was given at the home of Mrs. T. H. Herman by Mrs. W. M. Herman and Mrs. T. H. Herman in honor of Miss Esther Hicman.

The afternoon was spent in hemming dish towels for the prospective bride. A cook book was also passed to each guest and was expected to write a recipe in it. She received many beautiful gifts and a lovely luncheon was served by the hostess.

Bridge Club Meets

An interesting session of the Bridge club was held Friday, July 15 at the home of Mrs. T. H. Herman (Elberton, Washington), dated July 12, 1927; Arthur J. Yeomans officiating.

E. C. Puckett (Klamath Falls, Ore.) and Ethel Evelyn Oberg, (Moscow, Idaho), dated July 12, 1927; Adrian Nelson officiating.

Ernest J. Thibodeau, Emlid, 23 and Muriel M. Green, Emlid, 17.

Thrown From Horse

Morley Platt, young son of Will, received quite a severe cut over the eye when thrown from a horse Monday, while on a visit to his aunt, Mrs. Hickman. Dr. Ehlen sewed the wound and the young man is forgetting his trouble.

Parents of R. C. Kleweno Leave For Orofino

Relatives of R. C. Kleweno, who has never been seen since starting on a hunting trip last November were notified the first of the week that the bones and clothing of a man had been found on Dick's creek about 20 miles from Harvard and that it was thought to be that of R. C. Kleweno.

The coroner took the body to Orofino, where the parents went Wednesday to identify it.

The highest esteem in which Rouben Kleweno has held the peculiar circumstances of his disappearance, coupled with the fact that hundreds of his friends combed the woods for miles around where he was last reported seen, for days, and the further fact that the distracted parents have spent every possible Sunday since that time searching, combine to make the news of the find of more than ordinary interest to the people of this community.

D. Smith Family Reunion.

D. Smith and wife, 87 and 67 years of age respectively, returned to their home since 1877, gathered their kin folk in their family reunion at their home last Sunday, July 17.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. D. Smith and Miss Harriet; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Odenberg and Mrs. Addie Foster; daughter of T. Foster of Genesee, was married to Charles D. Clever at 4:30 p. m. the 18th by the beaming justice of the peace in the court house at Asotin. The groom is in the employ of the W. W. P. Co. of Spokane. The couple are at home to friends in Clarkston.

State Lands To Be Sold

In response to state-wide demands, Idaho's land board has ordered large acreages of state lands prepared preparatory to offering them for sale this summer.

Grading, dry farming and semi-irrigated tracts will be offered at reasonable prices. It is probable that state lands in the Jerome district, now under American Fall reservoir, will be offered for sale this summer.

On July 10 the state sold 10,000 acres and in the Gem district, The sale was held at Homedale by I. H. Nash, state commissioner. The land now has water pumping but with the completion of the Owyhee project it will be under gravity flow. The state land department will supply information desired on these lands.

Transferred to Moscow

D. E. Thomas, for seven years manager of the Miller elevator, has been transferred to Moscow, where he is still to be employed by the Miller Elevator Co. Mr. Thomas and his entire family have been residents of Genesee for the past seven years and many friends regret their departure. They moved to Moscow this week.

Injured In Wreck

Word has been received in Genesee to the effect that Mr. and Mrs. John Vandenburg were in a car wreck last Tuesday, a week ago, near Pablo, Montana, in the car of Mr. Vandenburg's brother. Both were severely shaken up. They are to return soon.

Fans Lining In

Local brass band fans gathered at Morsechek Bros. garage Sunday and lined in on the radio report of the battle games in Spokane, the Miners vs. Upstairs Price, and the same against Sad Slim Smith. The radio was a grand success. It is a real machine. The only fault we could find was in the absence of cushioned chairs and lounges for the audience.

R. E. Edwards In Collision

R. E. Edwards, while negotiating a sharp curve on the old Coyote grade, last Thursday, had the misfortune to collide with another Ford car coming from the opposite direction. Mrs. Edwards was slightly injured and cut by being thrown against the windshield of the car. The damage was slight on both cars.

Cattle Shipped

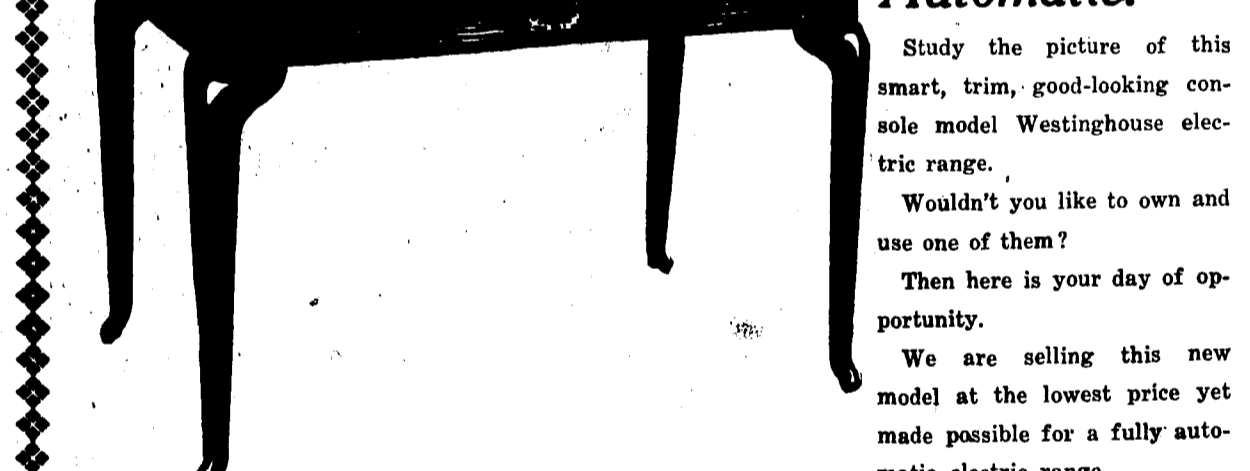

Two cars of stock were shipped from Genesee last Tuesday. One car of hogs being shipped by the Farmers Union and one car of mixed by Fred Perkins. The stock went to Spokane.

A resolute man is often found to be remarkably shy on resolution.

"Cumulative" Means a Dividend Safeguard

A worthwhile safeguard for the customers of this company who purchase the 6 1/2% Preferred Stock now offered to them is that the dividends are "cumulative". That means that all quarterly dividends due on the Preferred Stock from the time it is issued must be paid or funds set aside for their payment at the rate of $6.50 per share per annum before new dividends may be declared on the Common Stock.

As the Common Stock has the long record of 27 years of uninterrupted quarterly dividends, and the Preferred Stock must receive full quarterly dividends before Common Stock dividends may be declared, this 6 1/2% Cumulative Preferred Stock may be considered a sterling investment for the customers of this company.

Pay $5.00 a Month

Liberal terms are made to customers for the purchase of this stock. A first payment of $5.00 and monthly payments of $5.00 a month a share, or a full cash payment, will make you a "partner" in this Electric service company, 38 years in the business.

This offer is made to customers who now hold less than 10 shares of stock in the company.

favorable than indicated by the July 1 estimate which placed the crop in these states around 104,000,000 bushels. Winter wheat harvesting was progressing rapidly and new crop white wheat for August shipment was quoted at Portland at $1.34 to $1.35 per bushel. Larger receipts weakened the San Francisco market and No. 1 hard white there was quoted at $2.30 per hundred pounds. Receipts at Los Angeles were also larger than usual for this season but demand both from millers and dealers was active. Good milling qualities were quoted at that market at $2.22-$2.27 per hundred pounds.

Favorable weather during the week caused some decline in the corn market although indications are that the crop this year will be the smallest since 1901.

The oats market was quiet. Future prices were lower with corn, but limited offerings of cash were in good demand and cash prices were fairly steady. A crop about 95,000,000 bushels larger than last year was in prospect for the first of July but trade reports indicate that much of the crop may be of only fair quality offerings. No. 3 white oats were selling at 45c to 46 1/2c.

Prospects for a large barley crop, estimated at the first of July at 243,000,000 bushels, or more than 60,000,000 bushels larger than last year, weakened the market for that grain. 73c-76c per bushel was being bid at Milwaukee for No. 3 barley, while best malting types at Chicago sold at 76c to 80c and at Minneapolis at 81c to 83c.

The flax market held steady with the limited offerings in very good demand. N. 1 seed was quoted at Minneapolis at $2.17 to $2.25 per bushel.

The picture show at the Cozy theater for Saturday night will be Fred Thompson in "Don Mike."

In this picture a startling departure from ordinary western practice is made in basing his latest production on the activity of the carpetbaggers in California just following the acquisition of that state from Spain in 1848. The picture has a large historical as well as entertainment value and is the most pretentious film he has yet made.

Clara Bow in "It"

Alexander, Caesar, Cleopatra, Du Barry, Helen of Troy, Salome, Calan had all possessed "It," which Elinor Glyn describes as the invisible something from certain humans rendering them irresistible to members of the opposite sex.

To illustrate her definition, Elinor Glyn has written a story entitled "It," or Clara Bow. In "It," Miss Bow is presented as a little flapper who rises to the heights because of this mysterious magnetism and in spite of her overtly and ignorance.

When you look sadly over your fields of ruined grain, it will be too late to think of what a comfort a

Something New In Binders
Frank Jones of the Pine Grove district purchased from Meyer and Son a tractor-binder of McCormick-Deering make. This is the first sale in this section, so far as we know of this new machine for binding grain.

Differing from the ordinary binder the sickle is driven by direct power from the tractor. This means that the bull-wheel has nothing to do but carry the weight of the binder, while the sickle travels with steady or increasing speed, irrespective of the speed of the binder. That is, the binder may be at a standstill and the sickle traveling at normal speed, or the binder may be at a standstill and the binder still in motion.

The operation of this machine will be watched with more than ordinary interest by wheat growers.

The assembling of the machine was performed by Fred Meyer, who with his wife, recently returned from California. The driving mechanism is equipped with the Alemite system of lubrication, which is exceptional in regard to binders. The construction seems more than usually sturdy, especially the connections linking the driving power with the cutting knife, insuring positive motion of the sickle bar in heavy grain. Mr. Jones has a Cetrac tractor which will be used for motive power.

The "Canucks" are crying to the thirsty Yanks, "Hello you Hicks." They are expecting about 150,000 Yankee visitors this season, all of course, thirsty.

Blue Bird Club Entertained
The Blue Bird club was very delightfully entertained by the members of the Clover Leaf club, on Thursday, July 14, at the Paulson home on Thorn Creek.

The afternoon was spent in listening to a program and in playing games. A delicious two course luncheon was served at 4:30. The luncheon being served at small tables, all being decorated in the same color plan. There were about fifty present and a wonderful time was reported by all.

Cleaning Elevator
The Mickelson Grain Co. is cleaning house, so to speak. Their new possession, the Miller Elevator, is the place of considerable activity, preparing for incoming harvest grains.

Haying Soon Be Over
Haying is about over, only a few scattered fields remaining to be taken care of. The crop has been exceptionally heavy this year and it is expected that the alfalfa and red clover will yield another very heavy cut.

A late estimate of Idaho's potato crop this year is the modest figure of 21,925,000 bushels. An increase over last year of approximately 5,000,000 bushels. Which means a lot of spuds. The papers are saying that 200,000 men will be needed to harvest the Inland Empire crop.

Selwood of Sleepy Cat

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—At Sleepy Cat Doctor Carpy left Westworth, a grunting boom of a shooting scarp in barrow's gamboling den in which John Selwood, gambler in defense of his wounded partner, Dave Tracy, shows remarkable skill and nerve.

CHAPTER II.—A year afterward, Selwood, in a new motor, drove his truck, came upon a settler whose wagon was mired in a creek. He helped the settler, after picking up the girl's shoe and seen and been attracted by the supposed settler's wagon, whose driver, a woman of mystery, housewife at Doctor Carpy's home, Selwood learns the girl whose shoe he picked up is Christie, Fyler's daughter.

CHAPTER III.—McAlpin, almost powerless, informed Selwood of the robbery, and Selwood forces the awindarer, Barlowe and Atkins, to confess the money.

CHAPTER IV.—Starbuck, head of the grooved gambler, remonstrates with Selwood and his double-decked hand. Selwood opens a dry goods store, with "Big Selwood" as the name. He is engaged by Selwood as a freighter, and Selwood, slowly recovering from his wounds, slowly recovers from his wounds, slowly recovers from his wounds, slowly recovers from his wounds.

CHAPTER V.—Selwood makes Christie's acquaintance and warns Fyler that he is a bad man. Starbuck, attracted, tries to induce Selwood to join him. The girl's mind is poisoned against Selwood.

CHAPTER VI.—Fyler is beaten and robbed. Christie, seeking Doctor Carpy, seeks Selwood. Selwood, in a new motor, drives his truck, came upon a settler whose wagon was mired in a creek. He helped the settler, after picking up the girl's shoe and seen and been attracted by the supposed settler's wagon, whose driver, a woman of mystery, housewife at Doctor Carpy's home, Selwood learns the girl whose shoe he picked up is Christie, Fyler's daughter.

CHAPTER IX.—Following a poker game with General Roper Selwood discovers the fact that the settlement of his grandfather, Selwood, declares Selwood's birth, son of his son, Lieut. Harry Roper, Selwood's father, to die at the hands of Indians, and refused to acknowledge the fact, Selwood, in a new motor, drives his truck, came upon a settler whose wagon was mired in a creek. estimated, of all men, meanest in the hill country.

The holes in the canyon, the tumble-down shacks that sheltered these denizens of Calabasas were still as dead when the wagon, guided by Selwood, by lantern, by Scott's instinct, and by main force, halted with its engine noise as possible near what Selwood pronounced Tracy's cabin. Selwood got down from his horse and, calling to Scott for the dog, stepped into the cabin. The manstir whinnied and jumped at him, licking his hands as he caught her by the collar and led her toward the cabin door.

Selwood hoped that, with Saturday night and the constant probability that any stranger occupant, who more likely to be sleeping there in the daytime than at night, the shack might be unoccupied.

Crawling on the ground and feeling his way to the door from the side, where he was partly protected by the willow log, Selwood got his hand on the lower part of the battered door. It hung, he remembered, on iron strips, and it stood now in the night partly ajar, seemingly supported only by the upper thong. Chloe, his hand on the door, pushed it open into the opening between the door and the jamb and strained at the latch, but she did not growl. Selwood advanced to crawl inside, which she did with great grace, and he entered at the least's length, and then released her. He could hear the dog scurrying about inside, but knew at once that the animal was not there, and he went to the wagon. Scott passed out a lantern, and Selwood, returning, carefully pulled open the door.

The lantern light revealed a rough table, a rickety chair, and a homestead stool. In the upper left-hand corner stood the double-decked bunk. Tracy had built, and in which Selwood had slept the first night—and the only night—he had ever slept in Calabasas. There was coarse bedding in both decks. A rough rock fireplace stood at the lower end of the cabin. Beside the fireplace stood an empty box-upended. Selwood knew well its use. Like a candle snuffer for a candle, it was there to set over and conceal instantly a fire on the hearth.

In a few moments the three men, by the light of the lantern, had cleaned out this place. The bedding was dumped outside, together with a battered frying-pan and coffee-pot and some canned goods. Kerosene was poured from the can upon the floor of the bunk, rubbish was pushed on the hearth and lighted. And with Chloe blinking at the flames, Tracy, still asleep on the cot, was lifted from the wagon backed up to the door into the shack and placed in the corner farthest from the bunk and the open fire. When Fyler, beside Tracy, Selwood had been long too busy with life to think of death; but in Tracy's appearance it had seemed more than once that he stared at him; tonight the old face looked more like death than ever.

The thought of Christie kept flaring, like the fitful flame on the hearth, in his heart. She would have listened to him, he felt, had he been anything but what old Dave was, a common gambler. And what had he to expect but a death as sudden as his? Only, at best, a quicker death, a violent death at the hands of some other outcast like himself.

He looked at his watch. To make his rendezvous by midnight he must be on the way home. Home! He had spoken the word in his mind. What right had a homeless man to such a word. Without a woman to make it, there was in his lexicon no such word as home—he had known one home. He was Scott's man, and he had been unmercifully asked the Indian to water his horse, and gave him such instructions as there were to give a case he should be backed by daylight—namely, to run Tracy up river until things had quieted down in Sleepy Cat; and if they heard the gambling hall was burning, to tell Tracy. Selwood had gone West.

He swung into the saddle with a light heart, for action is what the soldier, the adventurer, the gambler craves.

Half way into town, emerging from the breaks that skirt the valley of the Rat, he caught a glimpse of a red glare on the northern horizon. He had no need to pause or to surmise what it might be; the Vigilantes were abroad.

Selwood presently halted; he struck a match and looked his watch; it was only eleven o'clock—something had precipitated the fight—he might be too late to make defense. The faint crackle of gunfire reached his ears—told him more than he needed to know. He quickened his pace; if he were too late to fight for the hall, there was company to protect his horse, and he had promised to meet them.

Reaching the river bottom, Selwood reconsidered the bridge. He heard that he was to go forward, he dared not risk crossing it. If the bridge were to give, he would be hurt, and he would be eager to shoot from ambush. He rode slowly down the river some three hundred yards, located an old ford, and, pulling his horse cautiously into the rapid, he allowed it to drink, crossed slowly, headed the horse up the rocky bank, rode up under the bluff, found a break he could get the horse into, and rode out on the river bench, in full sight of the town.

No more than a glance was needed to give the quick-witted gambler the situation. The Vigilantes were making the River quarter below him, and burning as they went. But the sunfire, ceasing at times and breaking out again, told him they were meeting resistance.

He rode well toward the area of the flames and the fighting on the outskirts of the town. In the darkness he was unmolested; indeed, encountered no one, and came out unobserved on the Falling Wall trail, where he could command the lower end of Fort street, which was on fire. Between him and the conflagration stood his gambling hall, but this lay below the brow of the hill in complete darkness.

Down Fort street, silent and completely deserted, he rode, wondering whether the smoke rising in the foreground indicated the ruins of his own building or others; and then, crossing the brow of the hill, he saw the gambling hall just below him.

To his amazement, it stood apparently unharmed. Lights were burning inside. Through the partly shaded windows of his place he could see no one moving, nor could he hear any sound. The cause of his surprise, with as little noise as possible, he rode into the grounds north of the hall, dismounted, secured his horse, and with his hand on the grip of his holster gun, walked to the door of his office, in the rear of the building, slipped a key into the door lock, and, standing to one side, pressed the latch and threw the door wide open.

Silence greeted the move. Selwood would have given much for a dog but he had none, and, convincing himself that he might as well take a shot from the dark then as one in the light later, walked boldly into the room, struck the door behind him, and closed the door behind him. The room was empty. Everything appeared as he had left it at dusk.

He threw open the door into the gambling room. The lights were on—not a soul was in sight. But signs of disorder and evidences of hasty departure were everywhere. Glancing collectively about, drawing rapid inferences from whatever he saw, Selwood looked at his watch. It lacked but a minute of twelve o'clock—perhaps the Vigilantes were coming back to face his threat and slash him and the hall together. As to Big Fyler and Elmer Stone, Selwood had never seen for a moment cherished any illusion; everything about the room indicated they had run like rabbits at the approach of danger.

He walked to the front door. He stood wide open. He looked up and down the street; not a soul was anywhere in sight. Yet the hall, open, deserted; it was as if death had suddenly and completely wiped out its denizens—players, onlookers, dealers, overseers. He had returned to find his place only to find that no one appeared to challenge its right to exist.

Fuzzed at the situation, Selwood strode down the broad steps and started for the horse barn. He noticed that the barn lights were burning, particularly the stationary lanterns on both sides of the front door. At the moment he approached the front of the barn, in the shadow of its side a masked man, apparently a Vigilante, hurrying up street, and a good-looking shoe he had brought from the Crawling Stone, and to which he still stubbornly clung. He set aside the horse and turned the shoe into his coat pocket. Turning, he saw on the wall the print of the padre. He tried it loose, folded and put it into a breast pocket, and, going back to the door, he unlocked it, and, down the big center lamp.

It was a large, old-fashioned kerosene lamp, raised and lowered, in its own frame, by means of pulleys. Of all the lamps in the hall, the big center lamp was Bull Page's pride, and its glass bowl held a quart lamp was not. The blaze scorched Selwood's eyes as he looked into it. He lifted the bowl carefully out of the frame and handed it to the man, who looked at him. Then, drawing back, he hurled the burning lamp with both hands far across the floor.

It crashed into a thousand pieces. There was a blinding explosion. A burst of flame leaped toward the ceiling. A hundred darting tongues leaped from the broken hangings, and ran like blazing powder up the siltken shades; they creased wildly along the burning floor and wrapped their curls and tongues over the tables and mahogany tables. Step by step, Selwood retreated before the destruction. At the door he paused—as if to be sure that his lighted doom had not been extinguished. He sprang into the saddle.

Heading for the river, he spurred relentlessly. And not looking back, he saw the man who had hurled the Vigilante a fearful blow across the head with a club.

The Vigilante, evidently a man of great strength, staggered, but grappled with his enemy, only to receive a second blow that would have felled any man but the strongest. The handkerchief, symbol of the raiding party, slipped from his hand, and he was, clutched with his assailant and struggled with him. Selwood, little as he liked the red handkerchief, liked a game fight, and watched the struggle with interest. The man was making against one evidently no better than a cowardly murderer. Though it might be one of his own men, Selwood did not care. The man, stiffened with the night chill and the red, roused himself for his turn and pulled his shotgun out of the scabbard, and Selwood, gripping the throat of the coward, looked up at McAlpin. "Who's this man, Jim?" demanded Selwood sharply. McAlpin, amused at the sight of Selwood, was at no loss for words. "A frober," he replied. "Kill him! They're after horses. I caught him and he tried to murder me."

"Throw me a couple of hatter straps or a piece of rope. You look to Cole," exclaimed Selwood. With a skull clearly chip-proof, the lightning blacksmith was following in his feet. Cole recognized Selwood. "That was a close squeak, John, eriel Cole. He'd had a knife into me. I know the blasted thing. He's fine of them river rats—kill him."

"Turn him over to your Vigilantes with my compliments," responded Selwood, siding from the man he had tied. "Why don't they come my way up the hill?" he asked of Cole, tauntingly.

"The girl was over to see if they could get a team and a wagon. John. She was afraid they'd be after her father. I told her to come back for it—she did come. I drove it down to the store. The place was dark and locked up. They were gone—God knows where. I seen Bull Page. He's been here to see if he can get a team and a wagon. John."

"Where are your hostlers?" demanded Selwood, upset.

"I don't know," replied Selwood. "I couldn't hold 'em back—not a man Jack of 'em. Lefever got his teamsters over in the warehouse and the business was over."

The gambler hardly heard the answer. A panic had seized him. Too late he realized the danger to which Christie had been exposed—the danger to which he had left her.

He ordered McAlpin to put out the lights, close the barn, and shoot anybody who tried to get in. Down street he rode, shouting to the Vigilantes to come to the store. He was coming to get the horse thief McAlpin, with all speed, was closing the barn doors. Selwood, stooping, saw the red handkerchief that had fallen from Cole's neck, and thrusting it into his pocket, slipped around the corner of the barn and hurried up the hill.

Selwood, alone, he stood alone in the center of the gambling-hall. His eyes, running over the room, told on the shelf behind his desk. There stood the glass-covered safe, and on the wall behind him, apparently a Vigilante, hurrying up street, and a good-looking shoe he had brought from the Crawling Stone, and to which he still stubbornly clung. He set aside the horse and turned the shoe into his coat pocket. Turning, he saw on the wall the print of the padre. He tried it loose, folded and put it into a breast pocket, and, going back to the door, he unlocked it, and, down the big center lamp.

CHAPTER XII

The Night at Calabasas.
Tracy in the shack in complete darkness, after the death of Selwood, was alone. He was alone, without a soldier and hardened to discomfort, had stood his watch outside. When at the end of it, he called Pardaloe, who was in the room, and Selwood, stiffened with the night chill and the red, roused himself for his turn and pulled his shotgun out of the scabbard, and Selwood, gripping the throat of the coward, looked up at McAlpin. "Who's this man, Jim?" demanded Selwood sharply. McAlpin, amused at the sight of Selwood, was at no loss for words. "A frober," he replied. "Kill him! They're after horses. I caught him and he tried to murder me."

BLEACHED BONES MUTE TESTIMONY OF TRAGEDY

The bleached bones of a grown man, found on Dick's creek in Clearwater county, and thought at first to be those of Mr. J. P. Kleweno's son, Ruben were minutely inspected by Mr. Kleweno, his wife and his son Walter and his wife, George Wilson and wife and Grandma Green, but with the result that there was positively no resemblance. The teeth did not correspond, the skull was at least one and one-half inches larger than that of Ruben. The left arm had been broken close to the shoulder, which was also not the case with the lost boy.

The only articles found near the body were the shoes, a jack knife and a pipe, none of which were articles had or worn at the time of his disappearance.

Mr. Kleweno reports that a thorough search of the spot and its surrounding territory for 200 feet in all directions failed to give any evidence that would in the slightest degree lead to any identification. The skull was about 50 feet from the main portion, several of the main vertebrae were gone as was also all the bones of the hands, but the bleached condition, Mr. Kleweno thinks indicates the tragedy must have happened at least two years ago. There were no marks to indicate how the man came to his death. No reports of missing ones coming in from that section, merely mute testimony of a tragedy unsolved and that probably will remain a mystery, although within two miles of a farmer's residence.

The coroner who accompanied the viewing party, packed the bones into an ordinary suitcase, greatly to the astonishment of Mr. Kleweno and his party, it seeming almost incredible that the bones of a grown man would be no more bulky and light enough to be easily carried by one man.

Somebody's son, or somebody's father, somebody's husband or somebody's lover. Nobody knows or probably will know how, why or when the tragedy happened that took the life.

As Mr. Kleweno says, maybe somewhere loved ones are hoping, waiting, longing for the lost to return. Probably no man knows quite so well as he what it means to be always listening for the loved footsteps or imagining you hear the call, waking from slumber at every sound, the uncertainty, the suspense, the knowledge that somewhere their exists, just as in the case here mentioned, the mute evidence of just what happened and how all are contributing causes to sleepless nights and restless weary days. Truly these people have the sympathy of every heart that knows parental affection.

Bridal Shower

A bevy of ladies and others not so old gathered at the home of Mrs. Art. Hove, Tuesday, July 26, to shower with wedding gifts and well wishes, Miss Dolly Smith from Los Angeles, who is to be married to Max Spaulding of Los Angeles.

Many beautiful and useful presents were given, and a delicious luncheon was served at 4:30.

Instead of the usual mock wedding, a 3-act comedy was given. The first act being a metaphor of broadcasting the wedding.

The second act was entitled "The Lying Doll," and the third "The Worst Is Yet To Come." The play was wonderfully entertaining, being funny as well as instructive to the extent of preparing the mind of the bride to be for what was in store for her. A number of solos were sung by Miss Theo Smith.

Miss Dolly and Theo Smith left for Los Angeles Thursday.

Are Sprinkling Streets

The long wished for street sprinkler has finally arrived and Robt. Beechler, city marshal and Ed Vanouck were very busy with fire hose and sprinkling wagon, laying the dust on the city streets. It was a large job, however, as the accumulation was very deep, being the result of some weeks of car churning, but the improvement was felt at once and the only remark heard was, "Why didn't they do that three weeks ago."

It is surely to be hoped that the sprinkling will be kept up, for dust will blow and stocks of goods must be kept clean.

MORE ABOUT OILING THE IDAHO STATE ROADS

Why hasn't Idaho done something this summer to oil its highways? is the plaint that has gone up in many quarters of the state. The murmurings have been growing as motorists see the work that is being and has been done in Oregon, and as they contemplated the situation following the test portions that were oiled last fall.

From the state capital, where this year a testing engineer whose principal study has been oiling processes for Idaho roads, has been added to the bureau, comes quiet rumors that soon the "bomb" is to burst and that within a few weeks we will see oil tanks spreading their black petroleum products over Idaho highways in car-load lots.

Last fall several processes were tried on various highways. One such test was applied north of Moscow, on a section of road where two types of crushed rock surfaces were joined. Valuable information was secured at this point. Laboratory tests have been undertaken at Boise in an effort to find the best oil and the best surfacing and covering for greatest absorption of oil. Idaho materials and Idaho roads are peculiar in themselves. Oregon engineers, after years of study, have evolved a highly successful method for Oregon roads. Obviously, however, each road system needs separate and distinctive treatment varying with the materials used and available.

We hope the reports from Boise are correct, and we believe they are. Idaho is sold on the oiling process; it couldn't help but be sold after it has viewed the success in Oregon both from a service and financial standpoint. We can't be in a hurry; we're going to get it, but we want what we do get to be right.—Star-Mirror.

Music Everywhere

In the olden time, a town to be of any consequence at all had to have a brass band. Genesee in her younger days had no exception to the rule and some of the older residents still look with more or less wistful eyes upon the long discarded instruments used in putting the town on the map in the early days.

At the Ehlen's home is a silver and gold plated Conn B flat cornet. It is in a splendid state of preservation, but the doctor's eyes sparkle as he relates his earlier experience instructing and organizing bands in different sections of the country.

But that has been changed. Then we took great pride in our local band, puffed that it was not hired to play for every function, yet today we have music, and the best the world knows, not only in restaurants and theaters but on the streets and in the homes. Modern instruments make it possible for Mr. Smolt and the Hotel to entertain the visitors, while eating their broths, with selections from the best singers and players in the world.

At Morschecks, over the radio, you hear the latest just as it is produced.

Times have changed, and we hear the world's masterpieces with no effort and little expense, wonder if they are not becoming a little common place, and are not appreciated as when we paid $2.50 to hear a single entertainment.

The old brass band, after making noises that were very discordant and boisterous, yet how we clapped, and went home satisfied. We had to go to hear it, we had to pay dearly for it, yet we loved it. We get a thousand times as much now, its quality is better and costs little or nothing, yet we pay little attention, take it without enthusiasm or apparent appreciation. Times have certainly changed.

Road Work Progressing

Road work in Highway District No. 1 is progressing very rapidly and the results are all that could be expected. The fine rock having been laid from the city limits to the rock crusher, just north of the Wm. Mosman home, a distance of about three miles.

The coarse, or base rock, is now belaid from the rock crusher north and west, toward the North and South highway, coming out near the John Hove home. This road enters what is sometimes known as "The Sleepy Hollow," and is surely a boon to those living on or near it, for much of it runs through a bottom land, which becomes almost a quagmire in winter.

Cooperative Marketing

There are more than 3,300 cooperative grain marketing organizations composed of 500,000 members among the farmers of the United States.

COLLECT VALUABLE DATA ON SNAKE RIVER ROAD

Engineers engaged in the collection of data for the projected railroad along the Snake river from Homestead, Oregon, to Lewiston, returned Wednesday after a six day trip up the river in their preliminary survey.

The trip was made in a gasoline launch and extended about 100 miles up the river. Engineers included in the party were C. C. Vanarsdol, John Kopelman, chief engineer of the Idaho utilities commission, and Miles E. Clark, transportation engineer of the department of public works of Washington.

Data collected on the trip included photographs, reports of studies made for bridge locations and other information. The data, according to the engineers, will be presented at a hearing before the interstate commerce commission. The party carried with it notes of the railroad survey and plans and profiles of the United States geographical survey, with which comparisons were made.

Similar data for presentation at the hearing are to be collected at the Homestead end, the engineers said. The data are being collected by traffic experts of three states and the work is being done under the auspices of a railroad committee composed of representatives of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, the engineers said. Headquarters for the survey are at Lewiston.—S-R.

Ribbons in History

Many of the decorations that bedecked the breast of young Lindbergh owed their beauty to their background of ribbons. It is not definitely known where, when and by whom ribbons were first used. Presumably the earliest forms of dress required some sort of a band for keeping them in place, or for keeping the hair in place.

Ribbons as we know them, were referred to in the sixteenth century. Chaucer, the first poet to write in the English language, tells us that ribbons were used to portray the stories of dukes and kings and, like tapestries, were important mediums upon which to illustrate historical events.

Many textiles can be used in making ribbons, and now the newest of all yarn—rayon—has established itself for good. Ribbons are being made of rayon alone as well as with combinations of cotton and silk. An extra filament yarn has been devised by the manufacturers of ribbons that is of exceptional softness, and this super-extra rayon ribbon is in high favor among manufacturers and dealers in ribbons. Rayon ribbon has become important in the creation of lingerie, and in the millinery field. In fact rayon is almost as popular as the young man whose name appears in the opening paragraph of this article.

Crops Ripening Fast

Crops are ripening fast even in the draws and north hill slopes lying to the north of town and it is only a short time until the harvest will be in full swing. Barley has been cutting for the past week and the wheat will soon be ready for the binder and combine, several of the machines preparing to pull out and start their run about the first of August, and unless the unlooked for happens this season will be another bumper crop, but it is not believed that the acreage sown is as large as that of last year.

There is some wheat down but the percentage is not large and the loss will be almost negligible.

Hotel Genesee Happenings.

Landlord Zell and his family have been the happiest people in the town this week for their loved ones from near and far were here. They entertained father, mother and niece Josephine of Spokane; sister and her husband Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Wilson of Salem, Oregon. Mrs. Wilson was just returning from a buying trip to New York city, replenishing the Wilson ready-to-wear store in the Oregon capital city; brother Allen and wife of Owelein, Iowa, who were accompanied by a niece, Miss Margaret Ogden of Spokane.

Funeral of Amand Kern

The funeral of Amand Kern, Genesee pioneer, was held from St. Mary's Catholic Church, in Genesee on Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock. Rev. Fr. Godschalk having charge of the services. Interment was made in the Catholic cemetery about a mile west of town.

We sincerely wish to thank our many friends who so willingly aided us in our recent bereavement and also those who tendered the beautiful floral tributes.

Beach Showing Up Well

Clarkston Beach Park is showing up well these days and seems to be claiming a good share of the patronage of the people of both cities as well as the travelling public. Grain Ripening Fast

Hot days, needed for the maturity of the grain crop, are ripening the fields rapidly in the Lewiston district, and the outer fringe of harvest is being extended back toward the mountains and praries and this week will witness scores of combines and threshers taking the field in the upper levels of Nez Perce and Asotin counties.—Lewiston Tribune.

A total of eight divorce actions have been filed in the second district court since June 1, and in the same period seven decrees have been granted by Judge Edgar C. Steele. The total is greater than for the months of June, July and August in the past several years.

Tendered Shower

Thursday afternoon of last week at the home of Mrs. Amelia Rader, a shower was given in honor of Mrs. Robert Erickson, daughter of Mrs. Rader. She receiving many beautiful gifts.

The afternoon was spent in embroidering hand and tea towels and later a mock wedding took place. Those taking part were, Theresa Miller as the minister, Mrs. Art. Springer as bride, Fern Herman as the groom, Mabel Bottjer as best man and Angie Castle as the ring bearer. A large pillow was used to bear the ring, which was a large fruit jar rubber.

The brides bouquet consisted of catnip, beet tops and grass, all being tied up with a stocking. The wedding march was, "We're Back in Love Again," played on the Victrola.

The guests were many, numbering about sixty. The afternoon was enjoyed by everyone and a delicious lunch being served about 4:30, after which the guests departed.

Work On Potato Warehouse

The work on the potato warehouse of the Farmers Union Producers Association is going forward nicely. A large part of the concrete work being done and a portion of the walls in the process of erection. The paper lining of the walls being worked upon at the present time. This being a part of the work of making it frost proof, which is only one of the safeguards which will be employed in properly caring for potatoes.

This warehouse will prove a big boon to the farmers of this community, as it will permit the storage of potatoes without danger of freezing as well as providing a co-operative marketing and grading system.

Cooperative marketing always has a tendency to steady and at the same time raise prices, as a one grade to all is insured the buyer.

The acreage of potatoes harvested in and near Genesee this year is expected to exceed that of all previous years and with the favorable season the tubers should be of a better quality than those of recent years.

Weather Quite Warm

The weather man was surely smiling down on the neighborhood with a vengeance for the past few days. Thermometers in various parts of town recording as high as 98 degrees about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

This is the hottest day so far reported, but as all crops are in the ripening stage, the weather is just what we need and it is sincerely hoped that it will stay fair and warm.

PRICES STEADY — WHEAT MOVEMENT BELOW LAST YEAR

The grain market held generally throughout the week ending July 23 but price changes were unimportant and reflected the inclination, particularly of export buyers, to await further crop developments, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the United States Department of Agriculture. The movement of new wheat is somewhat below trade expectations. New soft winter wheat and new oats are just beginning to arrive on the markets. Offerings of old crop rye and barley brought considerable higher price than the offerings of new crop grain, as a result of small spot supplies and the favorable prospects for the new crop. Less favorable weather in the corn belt, together with only moderate receipts, strengthened the corn market and caused some slight advances in prices.

There were no important changes in the foreign market situation. Liverpool prices declined slightly during the week, probably reflecting the approach of harvest, which, however, in the United Kingdom, the Netherlands, Germany and Scandinavia is from one to three weeks late. Recent bad weather probably caused some deterioration in France and Czechoslovakia. Present indications are that this year's European wheat crop is unlikely to be larger than last year. Hot, dry weather is favoring the Danube and Balkan harvest where good yields and good quality are reported.

Hard winter wheat harvesting is nearing completion and soft winter wheat harvesting is well under way. Spring wheat made generally favorable progress. Rust damage is now unlikely in Colorado, Montana and western North Dakota, and western South Dakota, according to Dr. E. C. Stacman, in charge of the grain rust studies of the United States Bureau of Plant Industry. In eastern North Dakota and in Minnesota rust developed very rapidly during the week ending July 21 owing to heavy rains, dews and warm weather.

In the Red River Valley rust is present on practically 100 per cent of all wheat plants with a severity of infection on sheath and neck varying from a trace to 5 per cent. At present cool weather is checking the further development of the rust but unless this weather continues severe losses may result in southern Minnesota where considerable damage has already been done.

The cash wheat situation varied considerably in the different markets. The early heavy movement has fallen off sharply at Fort Worth, suggesting the completion of heavy marketing in that territory. Receipts at Kansas City and Wichita have been less than expected but the movement increased considerably during the week at Omaha and Chicago. The percentage of the arrivals that are of high protein continues much below that of last year and high protein offerings are bringing higher premiums. 13 per cent protein No. 2 hard winter was quoted at the close of the week at Kansas City at 11c-13c over the September price, which closed July 22 at 1.31%. 14 per cent protein sold at 15c-17c over the September price and bids for No. 1 dark hard winter to arrive were at the September price with 2c premium offered for each half per cent protein over 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. Export bids for No. 1 hard winter at the close of the week were around \$1.49 per bushel f. o. b. gulf ports. No. 2 hard winter wheat was quoted in Liverpool at \$1.60 per bushel compared with \$1.61 for Argentine Rosoffo and \$1.76 for Canadian No. 1 Manitoba.

Soft winter wheat receipts were increasing but quality disappointing. Best qualities were in excellent demand but poor grades were discounted sharply. At St. Louis discounts for garlicky and smutty wheat ranged from 1c-15c under prices for good milling quality. Receipts from nearby territory at Toledo showed better quality than wheat from more distant sections. Increased receipts at Chicago and respective shipments from Omaha and Kansas City weakened the Chicago market and widened the discounts on lower grades. No. 2 red being quoted at that market at \$1.42-\$1.43 $\frac{1}{2}$ and No. 3 red at \$1.40-\$1.42 $\frac{1}{2}$. No. 2 red sold at St. Louis at \$1.45-\$1.49 and Cincinnati at \$1.38.

The movement of spring wheat, particularly durum, was light and prices, especially for high protein, continued firm. 13 per No. Dark Northern spring sold at Minneapolis at 10c-23c over Minneapolis September, which closed July 22 at $1.38, practically the same as previous week showed.

Larger offerings weakened the Pacific coast markets. Harvesting was in full swing in the northwest under very favorable weather conditions. Prices were practically unchanged at Portland. Mills were active buyers at San Francisco where No. 1 hard wheat was quoted at $2.25 per hundred pounds. Good milling wheat was quoted at Los Angeles at $2.27-$2.30 per hundred pounds with a good demand from millers and feeders. Receipts were almost entirely from California.

Rye held because of the light receipts and tight market situation. Offerings of new rye crop, however, were liberal and bids for later delivery were under spot prices.

Corn prices at the close of the market July 22 were about 2c higher than at the corresponding time last week. Light offerings and unfavorable weather were contributing factors.

Oats prices were practically unchanged but the market for cash buyers at San Francisco where No. 1 hard wheat was quoted at $2.25 per hundred pounds. Good milling wheat was quoted at Los Angeles at $2.27-$2.30 per hundred pounds with a good demand from millers and feeders. Receipts were almost entirely from California.

Very light receipts of barley held the market firm for that grain. Best matting types were good sellers.

Will Open Bids
Bids will be opened in Boise soon for the surfacing of 21.25 miles of the North and South highway north of Challis for $21,175.

the market for distrie against America and Americans declines, presumably the output will fall off. Bouts for Europe are running regularly. At least Professor Ansell has shown the good taste to spend most of his time abroad. A good sized fund to furnish free fares for others who find living in this country burdensome could easily be raised. Unfortunately we have to rear high immigrant walls to prevent Europeans who have not read these books from rushing to benighted America in such quantities as would swamp us. Perhaps the solution of the immigrant problem would be to ensure a wide circulation of the works of our dyspeptic intelligentsia in Europe. It is to be feared that the paucity of the advanced nations do not buy three dollar books as matters now stand.

Knocking The Knockers
By G. B. Lockwood

Dr. Norman Angell has just issued a weighty tome chiefly given over to a disage of what ails America, and it seems from the report that it is a hopeless case. Dr. Angell was born in England, educated there and in France and Switzerland, came to the United States in 1890 and has spent most of his time since in Paris and London. A few of the faults observed in the United States by one in whom, evidently, Americanism never "took" are:

Americans are boastful.
We criticize England for her wars of conquest, but waged one when we liberated Cuba.
American press demagogues intensifies and fixes more firmly nationalism and race hatred.
Americans have a fear of intelligence.
The voice of democracy is usually the voice of Satan.
A fit companion work for Prof. Angell's production is a volume entitled "Where Freedom Falters," recently published by Charles Scribner's Sons. Here are a few of our shortcomings as described by the anonymous author:
The United States is a plutocracy or possibly an oligarchy, rather than a democracy.
Our constitution is faulty.
There is an "entire absence of the sense of proportion in the United States" and Americans are indifferent to "the ignorant of the relative value of words."
The American press is "redolent of a reckless use of language amounting often to absolute inaccuracy."
President Coolidge is "somewhat insignificant."
Europe has an "absolute distrust of the protestations of American idealism."
Benjamin Franklin would be horrified if he could spend a week-end in the United States.
America's advantages "have not yet served to produce an intellectual or even a highly civilized race."
The most extraordinary feature in American life is "the general ignorance" where everyone reads and very few think.
American novels are "appallingly dull and lifeless."
American newspapers are full of mistakes, contradictions and "flabby" editorials.
In American colleges "specialization flourishes, but humanistic culture is at a discount."
"Practically no men of scholarly distinction are to be found in American public life."
"The American school system seems to have degenerated."
"The lack of liberty can be observed and felt at all times in the United States."

Julietta Cherries
Cherries shipped from Julietta this season were not as large as last year, but prices were higher and cash at the time of selling was paid. The first carload brought $24.49; the second and third $24.19 each. Last year there were 19 carloads of cherries shipped from that town. Bings and Lamberts are the principal crop and brought 17 and 18 cents a pound this year.

Most of the big jobs are held by men who couldn't even name three naughty magazines.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Burr and children returned Tuesday from Chatcolet after a few days' fishing trip. Mrs. E. L. Phillips returned Tuesday from a few days visit at the Charles Grey home about six miles this side of Pullman.

S. P. Burr, brother of our townsman, W. W., accompanied by his wife, visited here last week. Their home is in Helena, Montana.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Burr went to Spokane Sunday morning where Mrs. Burr will enter St. Luke's hospital to have a cataract removed from her right eye.

Mrs. Maree Paris, of Lewiston, visited her mother Mrs. G. A. Bumpus Tuesday. She was on her way to Welser, a delegate to the state convention of Legion auxiliary.

Francis Bumpus, while working in the hay at the Kieweenaw farm Tuesday, ran one time of the hay fork into his ankle just below the joint. No serious result so far.

Smolt's ice cream factory is a very busy place. Few men could hold their smiles and bigness so consistently whose daily hours begin at 5 in the morning and end slightly before midnight.

The following guests were on the register of the Hotel Genesee: Wm. Salmon, Salmon; Ralph Culver and P. Haberman, Seattle; Alfred Cann, L. Freeman and John Siegel, Genesee; Geo. Batman, Lewiston; F. Leidicks, Portland.

James Montague, a resident of Genesee since '97, or thereabouts, is assisting his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Stach, of Nes Perce during harvest. He was in Genesee a few hours this week looking after business affairs, returning to the children yesterday.

Master Eugene Paris and sister Margaret, 5 and 6 years of age respectively, are guests of their grandmother Mrs. G. A. Bumpus, during the extreme hot weather over in Lewiston, where it is said the temperature is slightly lower than at Yuma, Arizona. And at Yuma, they have the distinction of being but two degrees below the proverbial hot region.

Through the kindness of Mr. Dicus the News reported was published last ten in on the report of the big fight. The news of that event is of course history now, but a statement that his radio is a most splendid one may be made with truth. Many machines on that day did nothing but record static but we heard every word clearly and distinctly.

Ed. Carey, a typo connected with a Lewiston printing firm thinks that he may brag on his brawn by taking his outing in the harvest fields. Was in Genesee Monday looking for a job. Brave lad with soft hands and muscles, tender skin—presto, change—boiling sun, early rising, long hours, blisters, sunburn, sweat, sore muscles, dust, aching back. All typos everywhere will do their hats to Ed.

Thinks He Was Poisoned.
Emmett Stiel, manager for Hazelwoods at Genesee, thought he was flirting with old man death last Sunday. He took some fresh oranges to the folks at home and after preparing one offered the baby a bite of the peel. The child refused to take it so daddy proceeded to show daddy how good orange peeling is. One bite is all he took, for he immediately became very sick, vomiting during all the remainder of the day and the greater part of the night. He thinks there must have been the element of some spray compound remaining on the bit of peeling he took on. His physical condition can be explained in no other way. On the job the next day, but very weak and lackadaisical.

Congregational Church
Rev. O. S. Barnum, Pastor
Sunday school at 9:45
Preaching at 11 a. m. Pastor's subject, "Pressing Onward In The upward way."
The of our people who went to Pine Grove last Sunday had a delightful time. The Grove vicinity was well represented. Every family had brought a basket of lunch and hot coffee was made at the school house. Everybody had an abundance. Rev. Barnum conducted services at the close of dinner. The residents of the grove take great pride in their Sunday school, and well they may!

Noting for Business
Howard Elliot, of New York City, chairman of the board of directors of the N. P., accompanied by J. E. Carver, general superintendent of lines west of Paradise, with offices at Seattle and James Shannon, division superintendent, with offices at Spokane, visited Genesee with a special train Monday, looking into the matter of service and prospects for future business.

Agent Hilliard evidently satisfied the gentlemen that he was on the job and would correct all the business in his bailiwick and render service real without their assistance, for, as soon as the locomotive emerged from the Y, the gentlemen entered the coach with satisfied mien and signaled departure, waved goodbye to the smiling watchdog of their interests and were gone.

Gas Tax Yields Big Revenue
Tax from gasoline sold in Idaho will bring $1,600,000 into the state treasury in 1927, says Fred E. Lukens, commissioner of law enforcement. Receipts for the first four months of 1927 were $410,000 and for more than half of this time the tax was but three cents per gallon.

Automobile registrations will exceed any in the history of the state, the commission thinks. Reports for the first four months of 1927 show an increase of over 1000 cars for the same months in 1926. Fees collected in these two months amounted to $815,161.20, an increase of $22,271.77 over fees for January and February, 1926. Ninety per cent of all fees paid for licenses stays in the counties where collected.

Woodmen May Build
A new building to be made of logs is the thought that may result in a reality in the near future in Genesee. A local camp for Genesee is an assured fact, the doctor has been busy with medical examinations, and the local organizer is still skinning for new additions, but the matter has gone far enough under her madcap pranks, eventually orders her to go to college, under penalty of marrying one of her rather imbecile suitors, and the ensuing complications with the college football hero and Alberta's efforts to pose as a poor girl in order to win his sympathy, are full of delicious comedy and plenty of action.

Let It Rain!
The feature offering at the Cozy theater on Wednesday night will be Douglas McLean in "Let It Rain." In "Let It Rain," MacLean's current Paramount starring comedy, the star appears in the familiar marine colors and endeavors to prove himself as good as the best man who ever wore the blue. Tracy threw a sharp question at him. "What do you mean by that foolishness?"
"Well, I'll tell you," remarked Tracy. "If you'll take me back to Sleepy Cat you'll see. I oughtn't to've sneaked me out of there. You've been away from there, too; to talk it flat out, I don't like it."
Selwood tried to jump it off. He spoke with half a laugh and in the manner of his partner. "Didn't think you'd take it that hard, Dave. I did what I thought was right."
"Yes, but—"
"Sorry I bothered you. It won't happen again. I hope I shan't be bothering anybody very long."
Tracy threw a sharp question at him. "What do you mean by that foolishness?"
"Is there any particular objection to my meaning exactly what I say?" The retort was too keen to pass unnoticed. Tracy was silent for a moment. When he spoke he made a grunt of complaint. "Whenever you get a chance, you like to take the hard—don't you? Anything I say—"

Desert Gold
The feature picture at the Cozy theater for Saturday evening will be Shirley Mason in Zane Grey's popular novel "Desert Gold." Miss Mason is barely five feet high but every inch an actress, when mentioning her the old bromide, "Little—but oh my!" might well be brought into use.

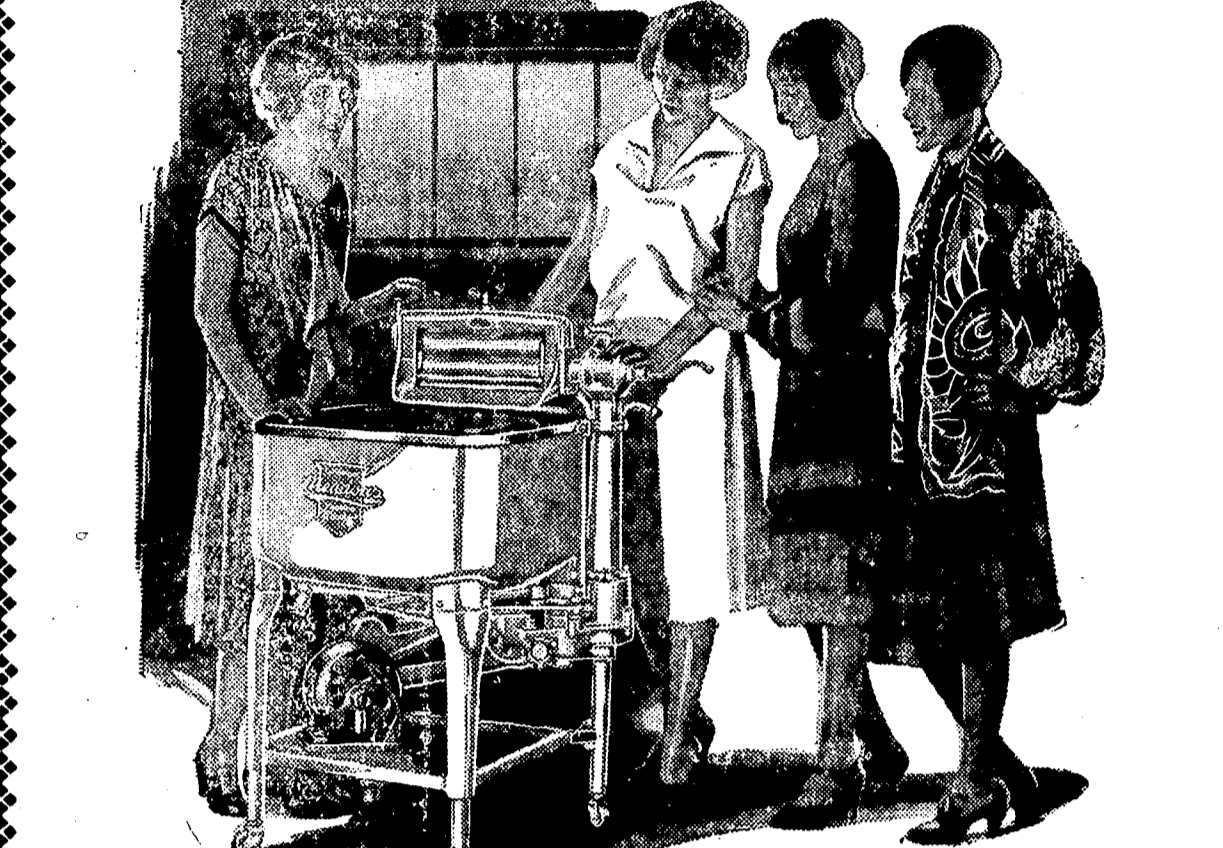

In this picture Shirley is seen as Mercedes, Neil Hamilton's sweetheart. William Powell and Robt. Frazier complete the cast of featured players.

Collegiate
The feature picture at the Cozy theater for Sunday night will be Alberta Vaughn in "Collegiate."
The story is a delightfully amusing and exciting tale of a wealthy girl whose love of adventure continually gets her into hot water. Her father, long suffering under her madcap pranks, eventually orders her to go to college, under penalty of marrying one of her rather imbecile suitors, and the ensuing complications with the college football hero and Alberta's efforts to pose as a poor girl in order to win his sympathy, are full of delicious comedy and plenty of action.

Idaho Potato Certification
Sixty-six potato growers of Latah county have secured 884 acres for state certification, according to a list compiled by L. E. Taylor, county agent. Netted Gems are the leading variety planted. It is a merciful and laudable form of thrift that has for its object the alleviation of human suffering. It is not possible to measure the human emotion from the standpoint of dollars but it is necessary to use the monetary formula in order that the relative progress now being made in the conservation of life and health may be shown.

Hence it is that we find the insurance department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States estimating the annual economic loss to the country through ill-health at $2,000,000,000 and of premature deaths at $900,000,000.

Impressive economic gains are shown through control of widely prevalent diseases such as tuberculosis, diphtheria, influenza and pneumonia. An estimate of $2,000,000,000, for example, is given as the annual saving made since 1900 in the tuberculosis fight alone.

A prominent manufacturer whose annual pay role is $5,000,000 estimates the total cost of illness to his business, including idle machinery and loss in production to be $287,500. He estimates the loss to individuals and the community, due to the illness of his employees, to be $303,000, making a total loss of more than 10% of the value of his payroll.

A survey in a number of the leading stores revealed that the average time lost per individual each year from illness and injury was 6 days. It is pointed out significantly by the insurance department that a large proportion of such sickness and injury as well as death may be prevented through simple precautionary measures.

More attention must be given to these matters. It is a phase of thrift that will go far in promoting human happiness and accomplishment.

SEMI-LOCAL NEWS CLIP

First Load of Wheat

R. B. Parks brought the first load of wheat to Kendrick this season, delivering it to the Rochdale company, Tuesday, July 26.

Wm. Wolff started hauling to the Vollmer Clearwater tramway on last Wednesday. His wheat tested 50 pounds. No reports are available at this time on yields per acre.—Kendrick Gazette.

Surfacing Arrow Road

Travelers will be glad to learn that the Lewis and Clark highway between Arrow Junction and Spaulding is now being hard surfaced and will be completed some time next month.—Orofino Tribune.

First Combine Started

The first harvesting of this season's big crop was started last Monday afternoon when John Tady pulled his combine into the field at his farm on the Rimrock section about six miles south of town. This section being on the slopes leading down toward the Snake river is nearly always the first to ripen and many adjacent fields will soon be ready for the combine and thresher. The Tady combine is operating in Riddit wheat with the yield so far running around 35 bushels to the acre, which is very satisfactory, Mr. Tady stated Wednesday afternoon.

Many farmers started binding this week and a few on the Rimrock section have been in the shock awaiting the thresher.—Uniontown Journal.

GRAIN HAULING STARTS EXCELLENT YIELD REPORT

Grain hauling opened in good style Monday morning with six combines in the field, working on the Edgar Evans, Jesse Bowers, N. E. Beach, Fred Nagel, William Fish and Clearwater ranch places. The grain coming in "semi-bulk", that is, sacks which are dumped at the elevators and returned to the owners for use again. All of the wheat so far to arrive in town has arrived by truck, not one teaming report.

The wheat is of excellent quality, all so far testing No. 1 with a 60 test. It is very clean, there being no trace of rust or smut, and only one percent dockage.

Only one yield report is available, that of Jesse Bowers, who on 55 acres of Riddit wheat reports a yield of 45 bushels per acre, which is an excellent yield for that type of grain.

Roy Evans, of the Rimrock section finished threshing his barley last Monday. It was White Winter with a test of 48 and is of excellent quality and of splendid yield.

The grain this year is as clean and free of contamination of any sort as has ever been seen, it is said, and with excellent yields reported.

The carover of local grain in the warehouses and elevators is at a minimum and the new grain can be handled with dispatch.

O. Fiamore and his large outfit took the field at the Edgar Evans ranch Thursday morning, and there were good outfits will take the field and harvest will be in full swing.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT NEAR POMEROY ON TOOLE GRADE

On of the most dramatic and dangerous accidents to happen this year occurred Wednesday afternoon when the car of F. Mehan of Gray Bull, Wyoming, left the Toole grade near Pomeroiy, turning over and over on its way toward the bottom of the canyon. In the car at the time of the accident were Mr. and Mrs. D. Smith, Mr. Smith Latah County's oldest resident, Mr. and Mrs. Mehan and their two year old daughter.

Of the occupants of the car Mr. Mehan was the most badly injured, suffering a broken ankle, the others just being badly shaken up and bruised. The party, with the exception of Mrs. Mehan, who is at the White hospital at Lewiston, returning to their homes Wednesday evening. She will remain there for medical treatment for a short time.

The accident happened when the car, which was descending the grade, ran over its brakes and got from control. For almost a mile Mr. Mehan managed to keep it in the road, but a curve finally proved too much and the car rolled down the declivity. Mrs. Smith was able to get out and summoned aid from laborers in a nearby field. Later their relatives at Genesee were notified and Des Moines Gilchrist went to Pomeroiy for the party. It is a miracle how all of them escaped with their lives, let alone with only minor injuries.

MISS EMMA SATHER BRIDE OF DAVID HARDING ALLEN

Emma Lou daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sather, well known pioneer residents of the Genesee section was married on Tuesday, July 26, 1927 to David Harding Allen, business man of Ventura, California, where he is interested in business ventures.

Miss Sather was born and grew to womanhood here, attending Genesee High school from which she was graduated with the class of 1921. She was very popular in all school activities and well and favorably known for her activities.

Miss Sather is also a graduate of the Lewiston State Normal, when, after graduating, she taught in the public schools at St. Maries for the past year in charge of the summer studies of the United States bureau of plant industry. Susceptible durum varieties in that area are moderately to heavily attacked but the earliest common wheat fields have escaped the rust. Rust infection is light in western North Dakota but in Minnesota the rust situation is the most critical since 1926. Spring wheat is practically ruined from Minneapolis to Canby and the situation is critical in the Red River valley. Late oats are also virtually ruined in these infected areas.

The fourth crop report of the Manitoba Free Press shows substantial development of the Canadian spring wheat crop with a large percentage yield headed 10 or 15 days ago and the whole crop is expected to be in full head by the end of the first week in August. No serious black stem rust has occurred, although it is reported at forty points in 85 in Manitoba and twenty points out of 162 in Saskatchewan, but the percentage of such loss of the total crop will be small.

Harvesting in Europe was delayed by unsettled weather and local storm damage was reported in some sections. The harvest in southern Russia began two weeks earlier than that of last year. This may to some extent offset the later harvest in other sections. Early samples of the new French crop are of good weight and quality. Trade reports suggest that the Italian harvest may be below expectations, which may later strengthen the demand for durum from the United States. India continues an active shipper but stocks are becoming low. Smaller shipments from Argentina and Australia are also indicative of the decreasing amount still available in these countries.

With an indicated increase of 9,500,000 bushels in stocks of wheat in merchant mills and elevators the carryover of old wheat in the United States at the first of July totalled about 124,000,000 bushels compared with 100,000,000 bushels on July 1 of last year. While the movement of winter wheat from Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas is becoming smaller, the movement of winter wheat from Nebraska during a good crop is being harvested in its stage and receipts, particularly at Chicago, were quite heavy during the week but the receipts at this market included some shipments from Southwestern markets to be applied upon July contract.

Both the domestic and export demand for wheat slackened during the week. Flour demand is limited and mills generally were buying only moderate amounts. Exporters were not active and export bids were reduced 3c to 4c per bushel, about \$1.44 being bid for No. 1 hard winter wheat delivered at Gulf ports. Premiums for hard winter wheat were well maintained, 13 per cent protein No. 2 hard winter being quoted at Kansas City at 12c to 13c over the September price, which closed July 29 at \$1.28 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Soft winter wheats prices also declined with receipts increasing and demand only moderate. Declines at St. Louis were more pronounced than at other soft winter wheat markets but prices have been relatively high at that market since 2 red winter wheat was quoted at the close of the week at St. Louis at \$1.36-\$1.39; Cincinnati \$1.33 $\frac{1}{2}$; Toledo \$1.37-\$1.38; and Chicago \$1.36 $\frac{1}{2}$ to \$1.37.

Cash wheat was very firm in the spring wheat markets early in the week but weakened as mills withdrew from the market. 13 per cent protein Dark Northern spring was quoted at the close of the week at Minneapolis at 9c to 21c over the September price, which closed July 29 at \$1.30 $\frac{1}{2}$. Durum was very firm because of light receipts. No 1 Amber was quoted at Minneapolis at \$1.48-\$1.58 per bushel. Pacific coast markets were active although heavy receipts weakened the market at the close of the week.

WHEAT MARKET WEAKENS — LARGE RECEIPTS CAUSE

Increased receipts, together with a falling off in both domestic and export demand, weakened the wheat market during the week ending July 29 and prices tended downward, according to the weekly Grain Market Review of the United States Department of Agriculture. Heavier offerings of new crop rye and barley weakened the market for these grains but the corn market held firm, reflecting the general backwardness of the crop.

A strengthening factor in the market was the rust damage to the spring wheat territory. But developed rapidly in eastern South Dakota during the week, according to Dr. E. C. Stakman, in charge of the summer studies of the United States bureau of plant industry. Susceptible durum varieties in that area are moderately to heavily attacked but the earliest common wheat fields have escaped the rust. Rust infection is light in western North Dakota but in Minnesota the rust situation is the most critical since 1926. $300,000,000 For Wheat Farmers

The newspapers are saying that the administration was prepared to sanction a bill at the next session authorizing farmers to borrow up to 100 per cent of the value of their crops from a fund of $300,000,000 to be set up by the government for this purpose.

The fund would be administered by a farm bureau to be selected by the president and the secretary of agriculture and would be loaned chiefly to cooperative marketing organizations to enable them to hold crops when surpluses arose. Some persons close to the president believe such a bill has already been drafted, but there is no official word on it from President Coolidge nor will any person make a direct statement on it.

However, such a plan has been favored by the administration in the past, and it is considered likely that it will be ready to endorse such a move again should congress be content to give it sanction.

This age finds Camel worthy of leadership

THE people of this modern, busy age are always anxious to recognize quality, and they have placed Camel first among cigarettes.

Modern smokers have an experienced taste that quickly learns to know good tobacco. Camel is their favorite, because they recognize in it the choicest tobacco grown, blended to bring out their exquisite taste and fragrance.

Camel has won its way to the top in the hardest-to-please age ever known because it has the qualities of goodness that make smoking a pleasure. You will revel in the enjoyment of these cigarettes. No better smoke can be made.

A LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift

There are in the United States various large groups of persons who practice thrift in one way or another. We now have, for example, nearly 11,000,000 members of building and loan associations. There are 47,000,000 depositors in savings banks, besides the 59,000,000 owners of life insurance policies. There are also several million who save money through investment in sound securities, real estate or in some other way. These figures would make it appear that practically everyone in the United States saves money.

However, there is much duplication in the various groups above mentioned and only a little inquiry upon the part of any of us will reveal that many persons of our acquaintance do not save in any way whatever. In the aggregate the number of non-savers must run high into the millions.

The serious part of this situation is not entirely that these persons are not putting any resources back of them for opportunity or emergency. The most regrettable feature lies in the fact that they will not exert the will-power to begin saving. In this they reveal a weakness of character that is more lamentable than their absence of material possessions.

The old saying that "where there's a will there's a way," applies to the ability of saving money. Those who do not save or think they cannot, are, to a great extent, not honest with themselves. They are unwilling to make certain sacrifices. Their minds are biased by false pride or egotism. Their viewpoint is incorrect.

If the problem of the sufficient serious study they would be able to find ways by which they could save something though the amounts were very small.

Those who are not sufficiently interested in their own welfare to lay by a certain portion of their earnings for the future lack those qualities of ambition and self interest that are absolutely necessary in order to achieve a substantial place in the affairs of men.

Lack of thrift is lack of will to succeed.

Taxation and Politics.

Inasmuch as legislative bodies—local, state and national—are constantly considering the tax question, the classic discussion of taxation which William Bennett Munro, the Harvard political scientist, gives in his book on Municipal Government is of interest.

He says: "Economists define taxation as the levying of certain compulsory contributions upon individuals and corporations in order to provide revenue. The assumed purpose of taxation is to provide public revenue; its justification is the common benefit which comes from the expenditure of this revenue. That is taxation as the economist sees it. But tax laws are not enacted by economists; they are enacted by politicians. And the politician has a very simple philosophy of taxation. To him taxation is a system of levying compulsory contributions in whatever way will produce the least outcry. From the politician's point of view, the measure of taxation is not ability to pay, but inability to resist. His favor leans to the element that can produce the most clamor. He tempers the wind, not to the shorn lamb, but to the ram with horns. Public sentiment, he says, demands a high tax on some things and a low tax on others. What he means of course, is that one element of organized selfishness is more audacious than another. That is why the most desirable tax, in the eyes of the political representative, is a tax on the estates of deceased persons, for dead men have no votes."

The foregoing is rough but simple and it hits the bullseye of truth. If the politician doubt this they should check over the emphatic manner in which the people have voted down new tax-raising schemes and office-creating laws offered for their approval at recent elections.

The Department of Agriculture says that rats are probably decreasing in numbers in the United States. Present day sanitary requirements and modern building are having their effect. But in spite of all that has been done, the rat is still mankind's greatest enemy in the animal world. The department has just issued a new bulletin on Rat Control. It points out that you should rat proof all new buildings. Close all openings through which rats can gain entrance. Remove all shelter for rats. Promptly dispose of all garbage, trash and other waste on which rats can feed. Kill the rats!

State Seed Show

The state seed show for the state of Idaho will be held at Malad, December 14, 15 and 16. Announcement to this effect was made following a meeting of the directors at Twin Falls recently. Cash prizes will amount to $300 and it is planned to give medals this year in some of the more important divisions. The state will also have an exhibit at the international hay and grain show in Chicago and will feature grading and standardizing of Idaho farm crops.

Get Tanned and Be Healthy.

The beneficial effect of sunlight is not obtained unless the rays reach the skin directly. Clothing or window glass keep out the ultra-violet rays. It is only when the skin begins to be tanned that any benefit may be expected. Sun baths in the direct sunlight are the simplest method of giving the baby enough ultra-violet light. Of course each mother must use discretion and begin by exposing her child gradually, for short periods, and keep him protected from the wind.

Harvest-totally changed with No. 3 yellow way, under favorable weather with outturns promising a large crop. The white wheats for export were quoted at $1.33-$1.34 at Portland with a fairly active demand from Europe but practically no demand from the Orient. No. 1 hard winter wheat was quoted at $2.20 per hundred pounds at San Francisco and wheat of good milling quality at $2.26-$2.80 per 100 at Los Angeles.

The ry market was weaker with wheat and prices declined about 2 1/2c.

The corn market tended slightly upward as the result of light receipts and general backwardness of the crop. Good progress was made by the crop

Miss Irene Mulalley, who went to Spokane with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McCreary returned with Dr. and Mrs. Leavitt.

Dr. and Mrs. Leavitt spent Sunday in Spokane visiting with Guy P. Wicks, former instructor in the high school here.

Mrs. Fred K. Bressler and daughter, Mrs. Frank Girard, left for Spokane Friday to make their home, Mrs. Bressler having purchased a home there.

J. D. White, field man for the Vollmer estate, was in and out of Genesee last week. Tried to get some data from him relative to estate farm activities. The gentleman gave the information that it was not a part of his job to enlighten the newspapers concerning the activities of his employers. However success attended our effort in this much: J. D. drives a Ford; has trouble with tires and tubes; travels this time of the year almost day and night; over a territory including five counties; been on the same job for twenty-five years; likes to have the newspapers leave him alone; does not want newspaper notice; is too busy to talk over the phone; disposed; looks a little tough and feels a lot worse than he looks because of almost incessant traveling; brown as a badger, keen, alert, straight as an arrow, slightly gray, high forehead, keen eye—all of which is conclusive that J. D. knows his onions.

We certainly do progress in some ways. Only a few years ago it did not matter if silk stockings had little tops.

American cooperating associations marketing poultry or eggs, both have a total membership exceeding 50,000 and do an annual business estimated at more than $40,000,000.

Some Shovelers

Now the regular run of men who handle dirt use a shovel, but when that man Ed. Vanouck started to clean the surplus soil from Fir street the other day he used a regular scoop. Moved more dirt and sweat more in an hour than three ordinary men.

THE PICTURE SHOWS
Yours To Command
The feature picture at the Cozy Theater for Saturday night, Aug. 6, will be George O'Hara in "Yours to Command."
George is at the wheel of a powerful roadster which has been going at full speed for miles before a curve in the road brings them within a few feet of the gats. It is impossible to stop the car, and George with his passenger go crashing through the barrier. The star insisted on doing the dangerous stunt himself, and it has been photographed to advantage, making one of the most thrilling of feats ever shown on the screen.

"The Canadian"
The feature picture at the Cozy theater for Sunday night, August 7, will be Thomas Meighan in "The Canadian." It is a drama of the wild west fields where a shift in the wind can mean fortune or failure to any man, and of an aristocratic Englishwoman who is tossed among the stern realities of life and conquered by an unpolished he-man.
Its a hang-up human interest play.

"The Bluff"
The feature picture at the Cozy theater will be Kolb & Dill in "The Bluff." The story of a leader of a chemists laboratory who tries to find a formula for making gold out of junk, although he knows nothing of chemistry, he begins his experiments. The result is a terrific explosion. He manages to save his formula and then goes to seek the aid of a millionaire and a country store keeper to help him in a discovery he knows nothing

Road Census Being Taken
It is a great surprise to many to know the number of automobiles that are travelling over certain sections of Idaho roads. It is the aim to ascertain as nearly as possible the burden carried by different sections. On Saturday, the 30th, the form of the Genesee district, C. M. Elton, counted 330 automobiles on Genesee on the highway, between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. Of this number 340 were carrying auto plates from other states.

Selwood of Sleepy Cat
CHAPTER XIII
Barbanet is Persuaded.
Selwood jerked back without further incident, and deposited his queer-looking bundle with care inside a cupboard in the harness-room. Scott had returned and had covered the River quarter, unharmed. His report confirmed all information that Bunt's Barcoe's place had not been burned, and Scott added, was now noisy with Starbuck's movements, and they were out, and were celebrating their victory.

"Is Starbuck there?" asked Pardaloe.
"It was a question Scott could not answer."
Selwood's mind worked as he listened. "I've got to know for sure," he thought. "Get him here quick." Pardaloe moved from face to face of those listening about him. "Where's the Bull Page?" he asked after a moment's disquietude. "The Bull Page?" he asked after a moment's disquietude. "The Bull Page?" he asked after a moment's disquietude.

This hard-to-suit age chooses Camel

MODERN people are hard to satisfy. But Camel has pleased them and they have made it the most famous cigarette of all time.

Present-day smokers are "tasty" and they recognize in Camel the choicest tobacco grown, blended for smoothness and mellowness. Camel leadership in this modern world is an overwhelming tribute to the taste and fragrance of this quality cigarette.

Camel will prove itself to you. What a cool, satisfying smoke! When you try Camels, you will see why they are first and favorite with present-day smokers. "Have a Camel!"

Genesee Camp No. 249, W. O. W. The boosters for the new camp of the Woodmen of the World in Genesee held a meeting in the Cozy theater Friday night, August 5, at which time the new camp was formed and the following officers elected: Camp Clerk, R. J. Zell. Banker, J. J. Berg. Past Consul Commander, Geo. Follett.

Managers, E. E. Putnam, Lars Linder and Carl Erickson. Consul Commander, Ralph Gordon. Adviser Lieutenant, Geo. Erickson. Escort, Arthur Kleweno. Watchman, Don Jain. Sentry, Orvel Putnam.

At the present time there are 56 members on the books of the new camp, which is to be known as Genesee Camp No. 249, W. O. W. A grand banquet to be given in the hotel Genesee dining room about the 15th of September is promised, and the boys are working with watery mouths.

Better Land Cannot Be Found. Mr. Hordeman, a resident of this section since 1877, says that in all these years there never has been a crop failure in the Genesee section. Is there another such country on the earth?

A Baby Boy Mr. and Mrs. Lester Gray are the proud parents of a baby boy, born Monday evening, August 8. Mother and babe are doing nicely.

Not Her Failing "Did my wife speak at the meeting yesterday?" "I don't know your wife, but there was a tall, thin lady who rose and said she could not find words to express her feelings." "That wasn't my wife."

Bringing 'Em Up. Haughty Man: "Tenth floor, please." Elevator Boy: "Here you are son." Haughty Man: "Of all the nerve! What's the idea of calling me son?" Elevator Boy: "You're not my father." Haughty Man: "Well, I brought you up, didn't I?"

McCormick-Deering Potato Digger
6 foot and 7 foot

MEETS VARYING SOIL CONDITIONS. The agitator of the apron on the McCormick-Deering digger can be regulated to suit varying soil conditions and to shake out the soil, yet carry enough up the elevator to give the necessary assistance in elevating the potatoes. The apron travels on oval shaped sprockets which give it the necessary up and down motion. As assembled when the digger leaves the factory, the up and down motion is regulated. Likewise, for soil conditions usually encountered. If the soil is light and easily shaken out, a slight change in the arrangement of the sprockets, and the substitution of rollers for the bottom sprockets give a gentler agitation. Likewise, for soil that is hard to shake out, the throw of the rear shaker can be adjusted to give more agitation, and for extremely difficult soil the extension elevator will give the added agitation desired.

Regular Equipment for All Sizes:
Two Wheel Tongue Truck
Spade Lugs
Standard Size Shovel

Special Equipment and Attachments:
Roller Truck
Short Shovel
Side Hill Lugs
Four Horse Hitch for Six Foot Diggers Road-Rings
Rolling Coulters
Tractor Hitch
Parts for Attaching New Way Collis or Cushman Engines

EQUAL TO HARD WORK — It takes real stamina to enable a machine to stand up to the hard work of digging potatoes. The McCormick-Deering digger has a frame built of very heavy angle bar steel. The sides are made of heavy steel plates. The whole frame is solidly braced to resist excessive strain.

The beams are made of extra heavy I-beam steel. There is ample clearance under the beams for vines and trash. There is also good clearance between the tongue-truck axle and the ground. The elevator links are made of 7-16-inch high-carbon steel, which is very hard. The links are tempered to give the best wearing qualities. They are arranged to form pockets to keep the potatoes from falling back down the elevator.

REAR SHAKER AND VINE TURNER — No. 4, 5 and 6 diggers are equipped with rear shaker and vine turner. Under normal digging conditions these diggers are the most satisfactory to use, as the vine turners deflect the vines to the side so that they do not fall with the potatoes. As the mass of vines and potatoes leave the elevator, the vines and trash are kicked free and thrown to the side out of the way, while the potatoes are deposited on the shaker rods where they are shaken clean and drop to the ground free from vines and easy to pick up.

AUTO-STEERING TONGUE TRUCK — The especially designed tongue truck permits the McCormick-Deering digger to be turned in a remarkably small space. The wheels are pivoted separately, like the front wheels of an automobile, so that each wheel can follow its own path. There is no tipping or straining when turning or working over uneven ground. The truck carries the front end of the digger, relieving the horses of neck weight.

THE RIDDLE TYPE DIGGER — The McCormick-Deering six-foot digger can be supplied with the riddle or bar-grate type of elevator when wanted. This type of elevator is best adapted to very stony ground, as the bar grate permits the stones to get away instantly. The riddle digger cannot be converted to the rod link type nor vice versa.

CONVENIENT ATTACHMENTS — The rolling cutters will be found very useful where the vines are green and heavy, or where the ground is weedy or tassy. Under usual conditions rolling cutters are not necessary.

For extremely light soils where the regular truck wheels would sink too deep in the ground, the roller-type tongue truck should be used. It can be furnished instead of the regular truck, or as an extra.

Where the digging is extra heavy some users prefer to operate the elevator by means of an engine mounted on top of the digger. Parts can be supplied for this purpose if desired.

H. S. Cutting a veteran railroad man from Cheney has been assigned the run from Genesee to Pullman.

Miss Grace Willoughby of Spokane is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Willoughby.

Leon Follett with his wife and Mrs. Jack Barnes and her husband started Sunday on a trip through Yellowstone park.

Miss Ester Martinson is in Seattle renewing old acquaintances and viewing Mt. Rainier. Will return about labor day.

J. E. Bailey, of Clarkston, has control of the First Bank of Genesee during the absence of the cashier, C. P. Whalen.

Mrs. J. L. Keiser, mother of Mrs. Grant Clark, is visiting with friends at Colfax. Mrs. Keiser was a resident there for nearly 50 years.

Mr. Byland, until recently engineer on the N. P., stationed at Genesee, will visit for a time in Seattle before taking up his new run from Lewiston to Stites.

Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Leavitt will go to Spokane Saturday, where Dr. Leavitt will attend a meeting of the officers of the Inland Empire Dental association which takes place the following Monday.

Carl Flomer, lineman for the local telephone company is now enjoying a vacation, the first in two years. He is quite sure he will enjoy it for he has had two years in which to savor the shady spots.

A company of about twenty-five farmers whose lands are more or less infested with wild morning glory, listened to an interesting talk by E. R. Northrup, of Palouse, Friday evening on the subject of exterminating the weed.

C. P. Whalen, cashier of the First State Bank of Genesee, accompanied by Mrs. Whalen, son Rodney and daughters Marie and Monica, started Sunday for a two-weeks vacation visiting and fishing in and around the city of Spokane.

Miss Grace Guinther, cook at the hotel Genesee, experienced a serious accident Sunday morning. While removing a kettle of boiling mush from the stove, the utensil slipped from her control and spilled on her limb causing a burn of large proportions and very painful. She was relieved for an hour or so by Mrs. Miller, and then went pluckily on with her duties.

The selling force at Follett's were as busy as the bee in the tar tub Monday morning, and quite as uncomfortable from the heat. It just seemed as if everybody and their uncles, their cousins and their aunts all wanted to buy at one and the same time, and the time was that instant, and it wasn't crazy, either.

Constrain Them To Come Governor H. C. Baldrige was a guest of the Rotary club at Coeur d'Alene. In a talk he stressed advertising Idaho, and suggested that south Idaho should spend more of its vacation time in northern Idaho, which abounded in places for rest and recreation. The governor also laid much stress on the Coeur d'Alene aviation field, in connection with the Spokane air derby. He characterized the time as a "transportation age," and proposed that the business of the future would be done by plane.

In speaking of the development of Idaho, Governor Baldrige said: "We must build up a program of invitation to outsiders to invest in industrial Idaho. To make their investments permanent, they must get value received and must have a show for a fair return on their investment. There must be no recurrence of the recent experience with invalid highway district bonds."

Your The Loser You are the loser if you do not read the ads in this paper. They are real money savers.

Underwent Operation Miss Kathryn McMahon was operated on at Sacred Heart hospital Spokane, Monday morning, for appendicitis. At last report she was doing nicely.

Miss Pauline Steltz went to Spokane Sunday to be with her for a time.

Office Will Be Closed The dental office will be closed Monday, August 15.

You Must Experiment!

We are all agreed that extinction of that terrible crop destroyer, Wild Morning Glory or Bindweed, if at all, must come thru scientific experiment.

K-M-G (Kills Morning Glory) is a spray, applied with an ordinary sprinkling can, and is said to have killed as high as 95 per cent within 17 days in other sections of the country.

These results justify the farmers of the Genesee district in making experiments to determine its efficacy when applied to the weed in these soils.

The undersigned has dedicated this space to the work of checking up on results obtained by local farmers in these experiments, and we want to know just when and how the application of K-M-G was made and the results of the root examinations. Our people feel they dare not wait results of experiments by the eolles.

County Assessors Hold Meeting

Thirty-nine of Idaho's 44 county assessors answered roll call Monday of last week at the opening session of the state board of equalization. The board is composed of Governor H. C. Baldrige, chairman; F. E. Lukens, Secretary of State; Frank L. Stephan, attorney general; E. G. Gallet, state auditor and Byron Defanbach, state treasurer. The board meets for two weeks each year and in that time fixes a valuation for taxation purposes of all public utilities of the state and equalizes assessments on similar types of land in several counties of the state. The reported assessment this year of $337,348,650 is $5,708,528 short of the assessment reported last year but this is due, officers think, to the confusion that has resulted among assessors because of the new tax law passed by the 1927 legislature. This law would separate the personal property from the real property of the taxpayers owning both real and personal property in their rolls and others have not. It will be impossible to know the exact valuation of the state, for comparison with last year's report, until December when the personal rolls are reported, said the state auditor. The early part of the week was given over to hearing representatives of the railroads and other public utilities of the state present their arguments for reduction in valuation. The remainder of the time was given over to the assessors and they will show how they arrived at their valuations. Barn Burns A barn belonging to Mrs. W. M. Thompson of Lewiston, and used by Chas. Geltz for his draying outfit, was burned to the ground Monday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock. The fire was first discovered by Mrs. Robt. Emmett, who told her husband and he immediately went to the barn and extinguished a small fire in the alley, just in front of the barn and after that had been accomplished he noticed a small blaze just inside the door, which Mr. Geltz had taken extra precautions to fasten tightly shut for the reason that he had just filled the place with hay and he wanted to get the door open and he was unable to get the door open and sought assistance and the alarm of fire was turned in, but by the time the volunteer fire boys were on the job, and when the door was finally opened, the hay burst into flames and it was soon seen that the building could not be saved and the attention of the firemen was turned to saving near-by buildings and due to the absence of much wind the flames were held in check. The garage of Dr. Ehlen was within a few feet of the burning barn, but it was saved, only the roof being damaged. Mr. Geltz lost about six tons of hay, 650 potato sacks, which he had just bought, many small tools and other things naturally stored in a barn. He had no insurance. It is understood that there was some insurance on the barn. Whittman-Latah Fair An exhibit of dairy and beef cattle of the finest types and conformation will be one of the big features of the coming Whittman-Latah Fair, Garfield, August 31 to September 3. Much emphasis is being given to the cattle show this year, and many plans are being made to work up interest in the show. Entry blanks and premium lists are being sent to every farmer and breeder in this locality, and the largest entry in cattle in years is forecast. Everything possible will be done by the fair management to make this year's show a banner one. Liberal premiums have been set aside for the leading breeds of dairy and beef cattle. All of the most popular breeds of cattle raised in this vicinity have been recognized in the premium lists. Classifications have been worked out for animals of all ages and both sexes. In the beef class will be found Short-horns, Herefords, Aberdeen Angus and a special class for fat cattle. Interest in the livestock show will not be limited to the cattle department. Much progress is being made also in the horse, sheep, swine and poultry departments and the superintendents of these departments are preparing for a record-breaking year. That which you get from books was known by others, but that which you get from experience or your own mental activity is what really counts.

Good Wheat in Asotin County Harvey Huester has completed the harvesting of his grain crop for this year, and is very well satisfied with his returns. Had three hundred acres, and after cutting his winter's hay, threshed 3250 sacks of wheat. This is a good thirty bushel yield or better. Anyway, he is not kicking. The grain is being hauled to the warehouse in Asotin—Asotin Sentinel. Stray Cows Accident While motoring home Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gray of Johnson met with an accident that would have resulted seriously had he been driving the car at a high rate of speed. In turning on the road at the Harper place a horse running loose on the highway became blinded by the lights and jumped at the front of the car. The car was badly damaged, the horse's head going through the windshield and barely missing Mrs. Gray.—Colton News-Letter. New Wheat Pouring In The warehouses of both the Vollmer Clearwater Co. and the Kendrick Rochdale Co. are busy receiving new wheat. While some good yields have been reported, the managers of the warehouses were unable to give the Gazette much information along this line. Wm. Wolff reports having received 38 1/2 bushels to the acre on a 55 acre strip and Frank Benschoter stated his wheat was making 38 bushels to the acre. The Vollmer Clearwater Co. shipped two carloads of new wheat to the coast Monday and two more are expected to be shipped today.—Kendrick Gazette. Latah Roads Nearing Completion Approximately two miles remain to be macadamized on the county road between Troy and Tropic, a stretch of about seven miles, according to Harvey J. Smith, engineer. Work on the route started more than two months ago and will be finished by the end of the present month. Between four and five miles have been graded and surfaced to the present time and a full crew is on the job at present. It is probable that when the highway is completed, it will be accepted by the Idaho roads bureau as a state highway, thus entitling it to state maintenance, Mr. Smith stated. Commissioners of highway district No. 2, in which Moscow is located, early this spring announced that the sector between Moscow and Joel had already been accepted as part of the state system. Prospect that the state highway cutoff started two miles east of Thorn Creek and coming into the city limits of Genesee, would be completed this week was expressed by the construction engineers. The section is more than five miles long and only about half a mile of top macadam remains to be laid. The crushed rock base having been laid on all the road, the finer rock is now being applied. The new cut-off would shorten the route from Moscow to Genesee by about three miles, and follows the course of an older river grade road. Leviston road contractors are doing the work. Work is progressing rapidly on regrading and resurfacing the Thorn Creek-Uniontown road, in which both Latah and Washington commissioners are co-operating. Washington commissioners are working from Uniontown and Latah men from the Thorn Creek side. The route cuts off about seven miles from Moscow to Leviston, by way of the Washington town.—Star-Mirror. The New Ford There having been so many inquiries made and descriptions handed out, regarding the new Ford car that Walt Emerson gave us the following interview on the new machine, which, he says, covers all he knows about it at this time: "The new Ford will be powered with a gasoline motor, developing several horsepower. It will run on four wheels, each of which will be equipped with a pneumatic rubber tire. It will be guided by a steering wheel and will be so constructed that it may be driven at one of many speeds. It will be equipped with a windshield and top in open models, and there will also be several closed models. Like most of its predecessors, it will require a set of license plates when being driven on a public highway."

SPOKANE ROAD BE IMPROVED FROM IDAHO STATE LINE

People of this part of Idaho are almost as much interested in the improvement of the road to Spokane as are residents of the State of Washington, in which the improvement is to be made. In order that Spokane visitors may know just what is contemplated we reprint a news dispatch sent to the Spokesman-Review from Pullman, as follows: State highway work totalling nearly $400,000 is under contract on state road No. 3 in Whitman county and will be in full swing within the next 10 days, according to District Engineer Guy G. Harvey, who was in Pullman checking up on the Colfax-Pullman highway. The contractors under way are as follows: Pullman to Idaho line, regrading, 20 miles, $55,000. Colfax south, resurfacing, 26 miles, $65,000. Pullman-Colfax, regrade and surfacing, 14 miles, $130,000. Res-Thornton concrete paving, three miles, $90,000. Rosalia-Stoneham, regrade and surfacing, $50,000. In addition to the above a new connection with the eastern division of No. 2, about one mile south of Rosalia, will be contracted the last of this month and will cost about $10,000. The Great Northern Railway company is preparing to build the Stoneham under-crossing at an expense of $10,000. This work was delayed until after the season's paving commences in order to reduce inconvenience to travel which will then be diverted via Oakesdale. During construction of the Pullman-Colfax contractors autoists are advised by the engineers to go to Spokane over the eastern division of the highway. The Pullman and Colfax will be rough. In addition to the work under way in Whitman county, 13 revisions are under construction between Rosalia and Spangle at a cost of $80,000, including the resurfacing of 11 miles. Paving with concrete of seven miles from Spangle north was awarded a few days ago with the expectation that it may be completed this season. The cost will be $200,000. A good gravel detour 12 miles in length was built by the state a month ago. "All work under way between Pullman and Spokane is to obtain proper alignment and good drainage for the paving in the very near future," said Mr. Harvey.

Cuvier Ehlan Promoted

After four years of faithful and efficient work as highway maintenance man on the Genesee section of the North and South highway, C. M. Ehlen has been promoted to a place on the surfacing department of the state highway system and left for Twin Falls Monday to enter upon his new duties. While all who know Cuvier will be glad to learn of his much deserved promotion, they will be sorry to learn of his departure for the reason (a very selfish one, of course) that Mr. Ehlen has kept the highway in the very best of condition and all who have traveled far will agree that the highway through Genesee is one of the best in the country, and all because it was properly handled at a time when work was necessary. No better gravel road can be found in this or any other state, considering the length of time it has been built and Mr. Ehlen is to be congratulated upon the splendid road he has maintained and also upon his deserved promotion. Dale Lempier, who has been connected with the Genesee Highway district for the past few years, will succeed Mr. Ehlen and there is every reason to believe that he will have as good roads in the future as we have had in the past. Dale understands the job and it not afraid of work—a good combination for good roads. 144,000 Dairy Cows in Inland Empire In Monday's Spokesman-Review a summary of dairy business in what is designated as "The Inland Empire," comprising a circle within 150 miles of Spokane, was given. It was stated that about one million of the 144,000 dairy cows that contribute $8,677,000 annually to the wealth of this district. Of this amount Latah county furnishes the following: 3,636 milch cows, producing 1,919,808 gallons of milk; 171,186 pounds of butter; 107,859 pounds of butterfat, all of which is valued at $238,111. Genesee's share of this vast amount was 58,776 pounds of butterfat, valued at more than $26,000. This amount was received and paid for at the Hazelwood station and does not include a number of independent shippers who send their cream to various places, probably amounting to several thousand dollars a year. Only a few years ago it was almost worth a man's life to mention dairy cows to the farmers of this section, but many of them find they are not only a good source of income but they aid very materially in helping as "mortgage lifters" in that they will bring in many dollars at all seasons of the year. The winter wheat crop showed a further reduction of more than 25,000 bushels from the July 1 estimate and at the first of August was forecast at 553,000 bushels. A large part of this reduction was in hard winter, principally in Kansas and Nebraska, although there is a reduction of about 5,500,000 bushels in principal producing states. The condition of spring wheat on August 1 was 86.4 per cent of normal and indicated a crop of about 298,000,000 bushels, slightly over 80,000,000 bushels of which are the four principal producing states of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Montana is durum. The durum crop according to this estimate will be around 80 per cent larger than last year in these states. The cash wheat market followed the advance in future prices with milling demand slightly more active as a result of some improvement in the flour market. Exporters were not active buyers although bids were advanced 2-3c per bushel and were around $1.51 per bushel for No. 1 hard winter wheat delivered Texas Gulf ports. Good milling quality soft winter wheat was in active demand at prices 3c-5c higher. While the supply of soft wheat this season is but little larger than domestic consumption last year considerable of this wheat is being put up for export both from the Gulf and eastern ports. The movement of new crop spring wheat is increasing and premiums at the close of the week were slightly lower although some offerings are being readily taken. There was an active export demand on the Pacific coast with receipts increasing and export shipments expected to get well under way toward the latter part of the month. Harvesting is progressing very rapidly with export white wheat selling at Portland at $1.34 per bushel, and milling wheat slightly higher. There was a good demand for choice milling grades at San Francisco where No. 1 hard winter was selling at $2.20 per reported this season in this vicinity. (Continued on second page.)

GRAIN MARKETS ADVANCE—CROP PROSPECTS LESS

Light frosts in parts of the Canadian prairie provinces, together with reports of further rust damage to the United States spring wheat are strengthening factors which caused sharp advances on wheat prices during the week ending August 13, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States department of agricultural economics. Continued slow progress of the corn crop forced prices of that grain to new high levels while continued unfavorable threshing returns gave oats additional strength. The rye and barley markets were also firmer while flax made sharp advances upon unfavorable crop news. While considerable of the spring wheat crop is now past the heading stage from rust there are sections where damage still may occur. The crop in South Dakota is mostly harvested or safe from rust danger except in the northwestern corner where probable danger ranges from five to twenty-five per cent, according to Dr. E. C. Stakman of the United States bureau of plant industry. In the northern Red River Valley of North Dakota and Minnesota wheat is also mostly ripe or cut. Rust was abundant in this area but damage has been little damaged. Rust losses may range up to 15 per cent in southeastern North Dakota from Jamestown eastward to the Red River valley but the crop is cut or ripening with little injury in the southwestern and northwestern sections of the state. In late August and in grain along the Canadian border where harvest is about ten days away, losses may depend upon the weather. There was no important changes in the European wheat market situation during the week. A slight increase in the northern hemisphere crop over that of last season is indicated by recent reports. The most uncertain factors at present are the final out-turns in Canada and Russia. The Canadian crop was officially limited August 1 at 37,000,000 bushels, an increase of about 32,000,000 over the July forecast. The crop is late, however, and the possibility of further frost damage or rust infection may materially change the situation. The winter wheat crop showed a further reduction of more than 25,000 bushels from the July 1 estimate and at the first of August was forecast at 553,000 bushels. A large part of this reduction was in hard winter, principally in Kansas and Nebraska, although there is a reduction of about 5,500,000 bushels in principal producing states. Present-day smokers find their sheerest enjoyment in Camels

THE people of this age spend millions for the good things of life. And they place Camel first among cigarettes. Modern smokers make money, but when they spend they insist on quality, and more people today buy Camels than ever bought any other cigarette.

Camel value has won the modern world. Money cannot buy choice tobacco, nor a more glorious blending. That's why increasing millions in the modern age single out this famous smoke as their favorite. You, too, will find it yours.

"Have a Camel!"

Supreme Court Speaks to Motorists.
T. Bailey Lee, associate justice of the supreme court, has put into a dozen words a fundamental law of the road, which must be recognized as the law in Idaho, to-wit:
"No one traveling at excessive speed may assume a safe fairway ahead."

A. M. Dale and Aaron Steadman, living in Moscow, were automobile guests one night in September, 1924 of W. E. Jaeger on a trip from Sandpoint to Spokane. Jaeger "opened up" and hitting a pace of 60 miles an hour, struck a sharp curve, and the car crashed into a telephone pole, injuring all the occupants. Dale and Steadman sued their host for damages and a jury gave them a verdict.

The supreme court now, however, reverses the judgment on the ground that the passengers shared the blame by their contributory negligence. The plaintiffs denied they did not notice danger from the "way the car was riding."

GRAIN MARKETS ADVANCE — CROP PROSPECTS LESS
100 pounds. Milling wheat at Los Angeles was quoted at $2.30 per 100 pounds.

The supply of oats for the coming season from present indications will be nearly 50,000,000 bushels smaller than last year. The crop according to the August 1 estimate will be about 25,000,000 bushels larger than last year, but stocks on farms and in commercial channels are only about half as large as a year ago. Thrashing returns are showing very unsatisfactory yields and the quality of this has given the market independent strength and caused a continued upward trend in prices. No. 3 white oats being quoted at around 46c-49c per bushel at the principal markets.

A barley crop of about 249,000,000 bushels was in prospect at the first of August and is the largest crop but one on record. Receipts at the markets to date show much quality barley which is in good demand at steady prices. No. 2 special was selling at the close of the week at Milwaukee at 82 1/2c-85c while good malting grades were quoted at Chicago at 72c and 79c, and at Minneapolis at 71c to 76c.

Five thousand Chinese pheasants have been hatched at the Lapwai state game farm this spring, says a report to R. E. Thomas, state game warden. Over 400 of the young birds have already been liberated. The farm has also produced 142 Hungarian partridges, all of which are living. Quail, considered hard to propagate in captivity have been hatched and all are living.

McCormick-Deering Potato Digger
6 foot and 7 foot

MEETS VARYING SOIL CONDITIONS. The agitator of the apron on the McCormick-Deering digger can be regulated to suit varying soil conditions and to shake out the soil, yet carry enough up the elevator to give the necessary assistance in elevating the potatoes. The apron travels on oval shaped sprockets which give it the necessary up and down motion. As assembled when the digger leaves the factory, the up and down motion is correct for the conditions usually encountered. If the soil is light and easily shaken out, a slight change in the arrangement of the sprockets, and the substitution of rollers for the bottom sprockets give a gentler agitation. Likewise, for soil that is hard to shake out the throw of the rear shaker can be adjusted to give more agitation, and for extremely difficult soil the extension elevator will give the added agitation desired.

THE RIDDLE TYPE DIGGER
The McCormick-Deering six-foot digger can be supplied with the riddle or bar-grate type of elevator when wanted. This type of elevator is best adapted to very stony ground, as the bar grate permits the stones to get away instantly. The riddle digger cannot be converted to the rod link type nor vice versa.

CONVENIENT ATTACHMENTS
The rolling coulters will be found very useful where the vines are green and heavy, or where the ground is weedy or trashy. Under usual conditions rolling coulters are not necessary.

For extremely light soils where the regular truck wheels would sink too deep in the ground, the roller-type tongue truck should be used. It can be furnished instead of the regular truck, or as an extra.

Where the digging is extra heavy some users prefer to operate the elevator by means of an engine mounted on top of the digger. Parts can be supplied for this purpose if desired.

We all like good bread and that kind is homemade. As long as we demand our wives and cooks to make bread, cookies and cakes why not furnish them with the best material to do it with and that is Blue Ribbon Malt. With this malt you can make the dough any consistency to suit the most delicate taste, so stiff that you can break your false teeth on it or so thin that an invalid can drink it and still be the best.

FACE PREPARATIONS
I carry seven leading brands and the price is just as low as other places except cut-throat stores. I can't compete with them for the reason that they have so many things that they manufacture themselves and that comes from their manufacturers at an enormous price. These they never cut on. The cut is on well established goods and the price used for a bait the same as scorpion is used to bait the poison for squirrels. This is absolute facts. Once they eliminate all competition we will pay their price and buy just what they offer, and that will be of their own manufacture for there will not be enough small dealers to keep other manufacturers running.

At the present time 8 per cent of the business is done by stores with less than $7,000.00 capital. If you don't think this correct show me where any corporation that has the chance don't use it.

You Must Experiment!

We are all agreed that extinction of that terrible crop destroyer, Wild Morning Glory or Bindweed, if at all, must come thru scientific experiment.

K-M-G (Kills Morning Glory) is a spray, applied with an ordinary sprinkling can, and is said to have killed as high as 95 per cent within 17 days in other sections of the country.

These results justify the farmers of the Genesee district in making experiments to determine its efficacy when applied to the weed in these soils.

The undersigned has dedicated this space to the work of checking up on results obtained by local farmers in these experiments, and we want to know just when and how the application of K-M-G was made and the results of the root examinations. Our people feel they dare not wait results of experiments by the ecologist.

SHOES — SHOES — SHOES
Our stock of ladies' and children's shoes has not been as large as we wished because we could not get delivery of those we ordered. We have now been promised an early delivery of a big order of the newest fall numbers, so watch our windows and our ads for their arrival. We have several dozen children's and misses' shoes that have all been marked down way below wholesale price in order to clean up. This week we are going to make another cut and put these out at 10 per cent discount. Remember if we have your size you can get the best buy you have ever made in boys' and girls' shoes. Ladies who can wear a 3, 3 1/2, 4 or 4 1/2 can find a real buy in some snappy dress pumps at 10 per cent discount.

If you are using our meat, we do not have to say any more about quality or price. If you are not, why not give us a trial? That is all we ask.

FOLLETT'S WEDDING BREAKFAST COFFEE
The only complaint we have on this coffee is from the manufacturers of canned coffee, for it is sure just as good as canned coffee and 10c per pound less. Why pay for the can?

SUIT CASES
If you are planning a trip this fall, or are going away to school, see us for a popular priced suit case.

Flowers That Point the Way to Fall Styles

OSHKOSH B'GOSH
Denim is heavier, extra strong and gives more wear than the lighter weight "220" which is generally used for standard overalls.
Double Dye is a special process of dyeing the cloth with genuine indigo which makes the color absolutely fast and no-fade.
This 8 oz. mill shrunk, no fade, double dyed cloth is America's best denim and every yard goes into Oshkosh Overalls.

Signs
The tired business man had been made usually so by sitting through the entire performance at the theater without a smoke. Waiting in the lobby, while his wife put on her hat and powdered her nose, entirely ruined what he hoped for his disposition. Stopping a fair usher he demanded in a hard-boiled tone: "Where the hell is the men's smoking room?"
"Go right down this hall," she said sweetly, "and turn to your right. You will see a sign that says 'Gentlemen.' Pay no attention to the sign. Go right in"—Ex.

"Mule-Kick" Enamel Cleaner

"Mule-Kick" Enamel Cleaner has lightened the labors of the housewife in a way that has been universally enjoyed. It is as safe as soap and contains none of the chemical ingredients usually found in cleaning powders which are injurious to painted or polished surfaces.

Use as Ordinary Scouring Powder
Just as you would use an ordinary scouring powder, so "Mule-Kick" is used. A little on a cloth gives astonishing results. And after scouring with "Mule-Kick" simply rinse off and dry—and all the original beauty and lustre of your fixtures will again shine forth.

Seven Times the Power of Lye
"Mule-Kick" Waste Pipe Cleaner is a scientifically prepared product which has seven times the dissolving power of lye and does the work in one-seventh the time. It will not combine nor mix with any waste ingredients. The chemicals used in "Mule-Kick" Waste Pipe Cleaner give it the dissolving power which carries all waste matter away.

Here is a well located farm on a rock road near Geneese that is the buy of the country at only $80 an acre. This is good land. The lay is average. All is in cultivation. THE PICTURE SHOWS

Harold Lloyd in "The Kid Brother" Saturday and Sunday nights, August 20 and 21, the people of Geneese have the opportunity of seeing Harold Lloyd in one of the most laughable pictures he has yet produced, "The Kid Brother."

"The Kid Brother" is one of the swift-moving type of comedies Lloyd has associated himself with. As the youngest brother of a family of strong men, Lloyd suffers all the indignities a kid brother invariably has to endure. But when the final test comes, it is this same "young 'un" who saves the family honor, and proves to the satisfaction of his father and brothers that he is of the same sturdy stock they represent.

In the screen world Harold Lloyd stands alone and unique. He is a beloved American institution. The bare announcement that his newest picture is to be shown at the Cozy theater should fill it to the doors both evenings. If you miss it you will always regret it, for it is said to positively be Lloyd's funniest picture.

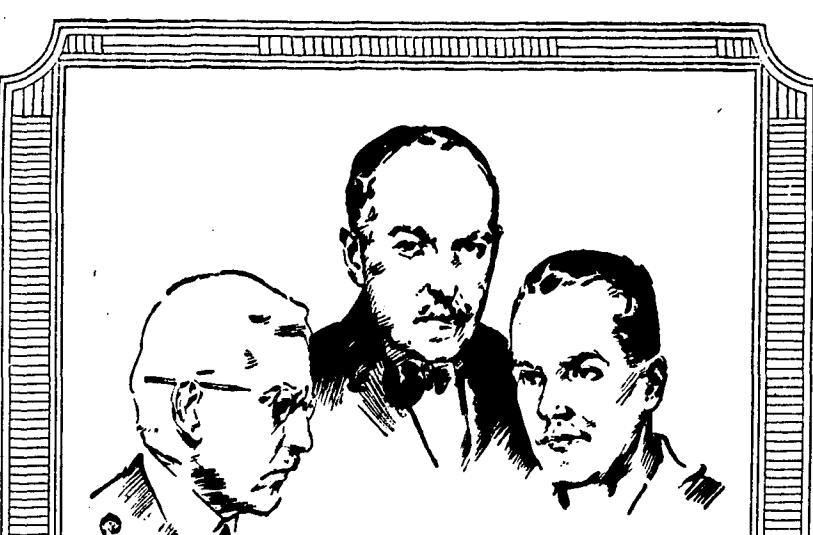

Bebe Daniels in "Senorita"
For Wednesday night, August 31, the feature film will be Bebe Daniels in "Senorita"—and a real picture too. According to all the signs Francisca Hernandez should have been born a boy. At the hour of her birth, thunder and lightning filled the air. At anything that a man can do in the field of sport. She can ride, shoot, and is handy with a sword.

At the ancestral Hernandez ranch in South America, Don Francisco's fortunes are ebbing, through the depredations of his ancient enemies the Oliveros. All these years he has believed that the grandchild born in San Francisco is a boy and in his hour of need he sends for the "grandson" whom he has never seen. Bebe responds believing that her grandfather will be reconciled to her sex when he sees her. But she is appraised of the situation when she reaches South America, and realizing her grandfather's need, she impulsively dons the garb of a swashbuckling caballero and appears before him as the boy he believes her to be.

A house-to-house peddler is with us again, selling everything. Your money is your own to spend as you like, but why not investigate before buying. Compare quality, then the price, then use your own judgement. We do not ask favors, but we do ask for your business if you find that we are right when we say we can beat any peddler's price, quality considered. Contrary to the house-to-house man's statement, it has been proven that this is the most expensive form of merchandising, for while he is going from house-to-house and selling an order here and there, your home town merchant can be selling several times as much, and it is volume that enables us to sell cheaper. A dollar spent with a peddler never returns, while a considerable part of the money spent with your home town merchants go toward making your city and state a better place to live.

McCormick-Deering Potato Digger

6 foot and 7 foot

MEETS VARYING SOIL CONDITIONS. The agitator of the apron on the McCormick-Deering digger can be regulated to suit varying soil conditions and to shake out the soil, yet carry enough up the elevator to give the necessary assistance in elevating the potatoes. The apron travels on oval shaped sprockets which give it the necessary grip and down motion. As assembled when the digger leaves the factory, the up and down motion is correct for the conditions usually encountered. If the soil is light and easily shaken out, a slight change in the arrangement of the sprockets, and the substitution of rollers for the bottom sprockets give a gentler agitation. Likewise, for soil that is hard to shake out the throw of the rear shaker can be adjusted to give more agitation and for extremely difficult soil the extension elevator will give the added agitation desired.

MISS KATHRYN McMAHON BRIDE OR RAILROAD MAN

At a very quiet and prettily appointed wedding on Thursday evening, September 1, at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Con. Steltz, Miss Kathryn McMahon became the bride of Don H. Johnston, Rev. O. S. Barnum, pastor of the Congregational church, officiating, the beautiful ring ceremony being used.

The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. Henry Morscheck and Miss Alfrida Hampton sang "Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold" and "Indian Love Song," accompanied by Miss Genevieve Hampton.

The bride was becomingly attired in a white satin and lace dress, beaded with pearls, with headress of orange blossoms. The bride and groom were unaccompanied.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with autumn flowers and only a few immediate friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Wm. McMahon of Lewiston, but has made her home with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Con. Steltz, practically all her life. She is a graduate of the Genesee High school and attended Lewiston Normal for two years. She has been teaching for the past two years and will again take up her duties as teacher after a short honeymoon trip. She has a host of friends here who will shower congratulations upon her and wish both the best of everything this life affords.

The groom is a construction engineer for the Northern Pacific railway, stationed at Glendive, Montana.

The News joins in extending Mr. and Mrs. Johnston hearty congratulations.

Off For Paris Convention

Idaho will be represented by a delegation of about forty at the ninth annual convention of the American Legion at Paris, France, September 19 to 23, it is announced by Ernest W. Ellis, assistant professor of mining and metallurgy at the University of Idaho school of mines, chairman of the Idaho delegation. Mr. Ellis, a former state commander of the Idaho legionaires, has been granted a leave of absence by the school of mines.

Official delegates from Idaho are: Ernest W. Ellis, Moscow, chairman; Jay L. Downing, Pocatello; Lester F. Albert, Boise; Frank Jacobs, Lewiston; Andrew Ajdukovic, St. Maries; Earl H. Helphrey, Emmett; M. W. Wood, Boise; J. E. Edell, Downey; E. J. Therkildsen, Pocatello.

Those scheduled to go from Genesee are Roy Hanson, Wilson Archibald and Phil Schooler. They will leave Lewiston Saturday morning for Quebec, Canada, from which place they will sail for Paris.

Potato Warehouse Nearing Completion

The big potato warehouse being erected by the Farmers Union Producers Co., is rapidly nearing completion and it is expected that all carpenter work will be done within the next ten days, at most, and when completed it will not only be of decided advantage to potato growers, but will be a credit to its promoters and builders as well as the city.

Its construction is of wood throughout with the exception of a concrete foundation and the north wall to the second floor, which is of concrete, 12 inches in thickness. The construction throughout is first class and it is built to stand all demands that will be put upon it. It is 60x150 feet in size and has a capacity of 40,000 sacks of potatoes. The upper, or receiving floor, will be used for all sorting, weighing and re-sacking while the lower floor will be used principally for storing seed and those made ready for shipment. The contract price was $12,216.

Given Farewell Party

A farewell party was given Mrs. John C. Meyer last Friday evening by members of St. John's Lutheran church in the basement of that edifice, on the eve of her departure for Germany, where she will spend a year visiting relatives.

The evening was pleasantly spent and a splendid dinner was served, which all thoroughly enjoyed. The table was decorated with a very beautiful centerpiece, the ingenuity of Miss Ruth Wolff, it representing a miniature pond surrounded by beautiful flowers and yellow candles, the whole making a very pleasing effect.

TWENTY YEARS AGO CLOUD-BURST DOES DAMAGE

The storm of last Saturday was without a doubt the most severe in the history of the Inland Empire. While quite general the greater part of the storm hit a strip of country a few miles west of Genesee. At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon a rather wild looking cloud gathered in the southwest but later developed into a storm of huge proportions.

Beginning at a point near the Hatwai canyon and extending north for a distance of several miles a cloud-burst took place, doing a vast amount of damage to hay and grain, in many cases drowning sheep, hogs and chickens. Residents in the affected territory stated that walls of water several feet in height, washed down the ravines and gulches, tearing out fences, bridges, etc.; and carrying away all loose objects in their path.

At a point near Leon the force of water was so great that 360 feet of railroad track was washed away from the grade, compelling the afternoon passenger train to turn back to Uniontown until the damage was repaired. Beginning at a point near the Nebelseick farm the rain was accompanied by a severe hailstorm, which did a vast amount of damage.

The strip of territory affected by the hail was nearly identical with that which was struck by the hailstorm some weeks ago, and in many cases made the loss to farmers complete. Hail fell to a considerable depth and being washed by the flood waters piled up to a depth of two or three feet. Fruit trees in the path of the storm were literally stripped. In a number of cases where threshing had been done and the grain left in sacks on the low ground, a good portion of it was badly damaged. Mrs. H. J. Herman suffered the loss of 13 sheep by drowning and in an effort to save them got into water up to her arms, nearly losing her own life.

Following the cloudburst and hailstorm a general rain storm took place, and extending over a large strip of territory, fell in torrents. The streets of Genesee were turned into miniature rivers and it is estimated that in the space of one hour more than an inch of water fell. At Lewiston the rainstorm was more severe, 1.05 inches having fallen in 30 minutes.

Rains Halt Threshing

Threshing has been rather spasmodic during the past week and there is much of it yet to be done. The heavy rain of Sunday and the showers of Monday, as well as those of last week, have delayed many outfits and those using combines as well.

Isaac Isaksen pulled in his big outfit Sunday evening and now has it under cover until next season. His threshing time was only 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ days. Asked about yields, he stated that the section he threshed this season did not compare favorably with that threshed last year, but of course it was in a different locality. However, he reports the yield as generally satisfactory and some of it going as high as 40 bushels per acre, which was not so bad.

A Correction

In giving a list of teachers for the Genesee school last week an error was made in putting in a correction. The list as it should be follows: M. E. Mushlitz, superintendent, mathematics; W. E. Jones, science, English and coach; Mildred Gupit, commercial; Ruth Wolff, history, English and music; Villa Leeper, seventh and eighth grades; Francis Ptoff, fifth and sixth grades; Bernadetta Weber, third and fourth grades; Alice Winegardner, first and second grades; Joe J. Tupker, manual training.

The date for opening is September 5, and parents are asked to see to it that their children are ready for school on that date—especially in the grades.

Card Club Entertained

The Card club was very pleasantly entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Harold Haymond, pinocle being the entertainment of the afternoon. Mrs. Jas. Magee won first honors and Mrs. Ira Hanson was given the consolation.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. W. M. Herman.

School Election Next Tuesday

All taxpayers are asked to remember that the school election for Independent district No. 2 will be held in the school house next Tuesday, September 6, when two directors will be chosen for a term of three years.

SEMI-LOCAL NEWS CLIPPED FROM EXCHANGES

Troy Mica Mine Working

The Troy Mica Company has recently booked an order from a Utah firm for upwards of 30 tons of scrap mica, which is now being mined and hauled to Avon for shipment. Scrap mica is shipped just as it comes from the mine without treatment other than racking, the larger pieces being first sorted out and laid aside for cutting.

Mr. Wright brought a load of mica from the mine recently some of which would cut as large as 4x5 inches. Mr. Wright states that work at the cutting sheds here will be resumed as soon as the order for scrap mica has been filled.—Troy News.

Got 50 Bushel to the Acre

One of the best yields reported this season was harvested on the Martin Thomas ranch on American ridge, farmed by Carrol Cox. From 170 acres there were threshed 3666 sacks, or over 50 bushels to the acre. Alfalfa and wheat crops have been rotated every three years on this land for a period of 10 or 15 years.—Kendrick Gazette.

Big Yields on Prairie

Now that harvest operations are well under way some very good yields are being reported from sections outside of the hail belt around Cottonwood. John Seger, of the Winona country, recently reported a yield of 77 bushels of winter barley and other yields of from fifty to seventy-five bushels have been secured. Edgar Fry, residing north of town, this week completed threshing a 160-acre field of Forty Fold wheat which produced 50 bushels per acre and Frank and George Arnszen, of the Greencreek country, report a yield of 43 bushels per acre from an 180-acre field. A yield of 49 bushels per acre from a 43-acre tract was reported by Ed. Harman, of the same locality.—Cottonwood Chronicle.

Boy Accidentally Shoots Companion

An unusual accident occurred near Lewiston Sunday, when Harry Sipes, aged 16, of that city, was shot through the head by a boy companion, riding in the back seat of an auto, who tried to pick off a bird with a revolver shot. Four boys—Sipes, Bert Eddy, Floyd Akers and Leonard Kuntz—were riding in the Sipes family car. Kuntz was carrying a revolver with which he claimed expert marksmanship. As they were driving along the road, Kuntz saw a bird perched in a tree at the left of the road.

"Watch me get him, fellows," he exclaimed, pulling the gun and taking a pot shot as they passed by. The kick of the gun to the inexperienced youth is believed to have so deflected his aim that the bullet crashed through the head of young Sipes, who was driving.

Sipes slumped in his seat and the car was kept from going into the ditch by the quick work of his companion in the front seat, who grabbed the wheel and stopped the car. The frightened boys rushed the wounded boy to the Lewiston hospital, where he died at 6 p. m. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sipes, and four brothers.

Rosanna Trautman Wins Honors

Word from Northwestern Business College, that Miss Rosanna Trautman, who is a student there, is making wonderful progress in her studies and recently won a Remington jeweled pin for writing at the rate of 73 words per minute on a Remington typewriter.

The president of the school, A. E. Kane, says of Miss Trautman's accomplishment: "This accomplishment on the part of Miss Trautman is rather unusual, and the rate of speed is very high. Miss Trautman is one of our best students and we are sure she will be able to secure a very fine position just as soon as she graduates."

Miss Trautman is a graduate of the Genesee High school and has a host of friends who will be more than glad to learn of her success.

The Syringas

The Syringa ladies enjoyed a delightful afternoon last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Carl Simons. It being her birthday anniversary the ladies took with them many pretty gifts so she would not soon forget the day. A 4:30 a delicious luncheon (the table being decorated for her birthday) was served by the hostess.

Mrs. John Meyer and Mrs. Fred Meyer were the invited guests. The next meeting of the club will be with Miss Violet Heppner, September 7.

STREET IMPROVEMENT — HOW IT WAS ACCOMPLISHED

The street running north from the Herman stores is being surfaced with gravel a width of ten feet and now the residents along that thoroughfare will be able to get up and down without getting in mud up to the hubs of their vehicles.

Some residents are wondering how it is that this street is being improved. The answer is easy. The residents along the street paid for every rock that was put in place, including the intersections, and the city paid not one penny for the gravel, hauling or the grading, with the exception of a small amount of filling in low places, done with a power shovel, some weeks ago. This improvement has been talked of by the residents of that street for more than a year and it is finally being accomplished.

Some have the idea that the city has done the work and that it interferes with the graveling of the streets leading to the junction with the new highway in Highway District No. 1, but let us say that such is not the case and that so far as the present street improvement is concerned, there will be no interference with the graveling or improvement of any street in town.

It is up to the city to meet the new highway district at the northwest part of town and this will undoubtedly be done this fall. In fact, it must be, if the city would retain the good will and business of the residents who have spent more than $40,000 getting to our corporate limits.

The statement has been made that there is no money in the city treasury that can be used for street purposes. This statement is erroneous. According to the treasurer's books there is at this time fully $3,000 in the city treasury, a portion of which, at any rate, can be used for street purposes. The Genesee Highway district has offered to advance sufficient tax money to make the project possible and the city council has expressed a willingness to meet the new highway at the city limits. The only question now seems to be to get enough rock for the purpose. Johnson and Deatley had partially promised to furnish the coarse rock, at least, but Mr. Johnson's injury very evidently changed the situation and the contractors say it is impossible for them to furnish it. However, there has always been found a way out of a dilemma and there is little reason to doubt that some way will be found to overcome such a hard question as "rock."

The reason of this article is to set people right as to the improvement of the street mentioned in the beginning of this article and to show that other streets can be gravelled without bankrupting the town. But don't charge any of the gravel, grading, hauling or other expense of fixing the above-mentioned street to the city, for they are not guilty.

Pine Grove News

Charles Knave and family from the Yakima Valley visited with the Spurbeck family last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Johnson are the proud parents of a son, born August 25 at the Gritman hospital.

Miss Pearl Langdon from California, a former teacher of the Pine Grove school, visited the Fred Brazier family last week.

The Freeburn and Spurbeck families spent Thursday afternoon at the Warren Brigham home where they enjoyed a musical treat by the Brigham brothers.

Last Saturday after a visit with home folks, John Brigham and family left for their home in Stillwater, Okla., where Mr. Brigham is engaged to teach vocal music the coming school year. They are going over the North and South highway and expect to make the trip in eight days.

Where Genesee Girls Will Teach

Following is a list of Genesee teachers and the schools they will teach during the coming school year: Miss Thelma Hanson and Kathryn W. McMahon, near Palouse; Miss Agnes Johnson, Aurora school; Miss Ethel Qualey, in district No. 27; Miss Mayme Krier, Smith school, north of town; Miss Johanna Dwyer, Danielson school; Miss Helena Dwyer, near Deary; Miss Eva Qualey, near Troy; Miss Bernadette Hasfurther, Kluss school (Sleepy Hollow).

Miss Kathryn McMahon having been married Thursday evening, Miss Olive Mulalley will teach in her place for a few weeks.

There are probably others who will teach of whom we have failed to learn and we will appreciate it if someone will tell us about it.

LARGER EXPORT DEMAND STRENGTHENS WHEAT

Good export demand toward the close of the week ending August 27 checked the decline in wheat prices which set in earlier in the week as a result of favorable reports on the Canadian spring wheat crop, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States bureau of agricultural economics. The rye market was independently firm with export demand the principal strengthening factor. Threatened frost in the corn belt held market firm for that grain and barley and oats held generally steady.

Wet weather which delayed harvesting and lowered the condition of the grain crops in England and central Europe was principally responsible for the increased export demand which strengthened the domestic wheat market toward the close of the week and offset the weakening influence of the continued favorable prospects for the Canadian spring wheat crop. Recent private estimates placed the Canadian wheat crop at around forty million to fifty million bushels larger than the official August 1 estimate, barring further crop damage during the next two weeks. The Canadian crop is maturing rapidly and harvesting has commenced at a number of points in each province. Most of the crop is in the dough stage and cutting should become general by the first of September. Export bids were advanced to around 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ c over the Chicago September for No. 2 hard winter c i f Montreal. This is equivalent to about \$1.48 on the basis of the close of the market August 26.

Export bids delivered gulf ports were around \$1.48-\$1.48 $\frac{1}{2}$ for No. 1 hard winter. No. 2 hard winter for October shipment was quoted at the close of the week in Liverpool at \$1.60 per bushel compared with \$1.59 for Argentine Rosaf arrived and \$1.78 for No. 2 Canadian Manitoba afloat. European prices were working toward a new crop basis, domestic wheat in France being quoted at \$1.75, in Germany at \$1.77 and in Italy at \$1.75 on the basis of the current exchange.

Premiums for high protein spring wheat were very firm but low protein high moisture wheat sold slowly. Mills reported an improved demand for flour and were active buyers of good milling grades.

Premiums for durum milling quality remained very firm. No. 1 amber being quoted at 5c to 35c over the Duluth September which closed August 6 at \$1.33 $\frac{1}{2}$. Premiums for high protein hard winter wheat weakened but mills continued to be active buyers of good quality dry wheat. Wet weather in the central west has limited the supply of dry grain and dry milling wheat was being shipped into interior Kansas where mills were unable to obtain supplies in their own communities.

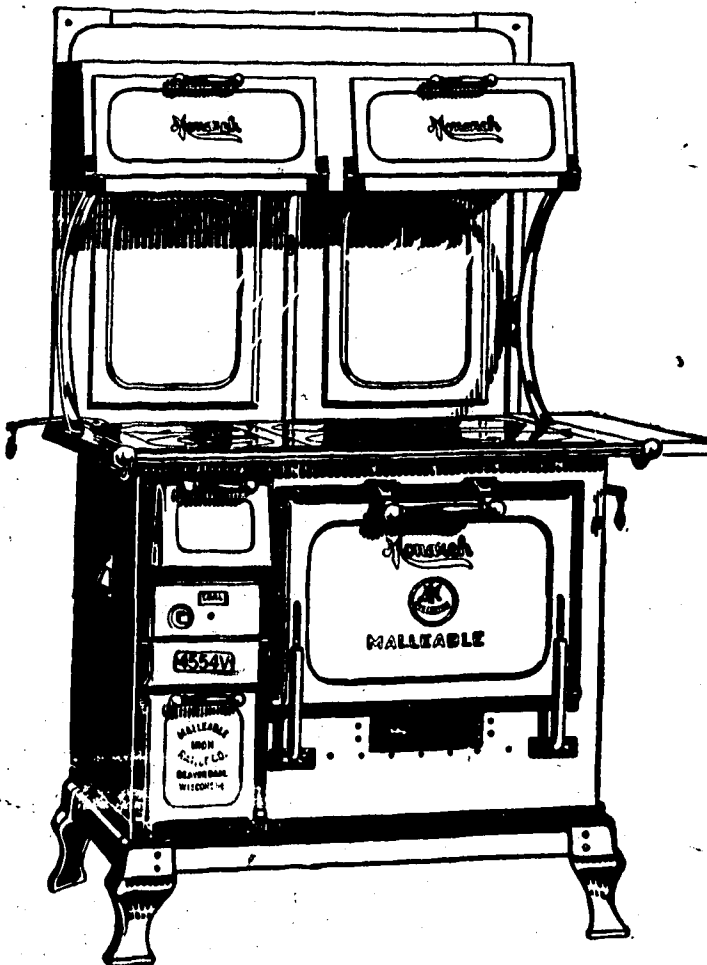

Damp tough wheat sold at 3c to 5c discount under dry wheat of the same protein content. Elevators are buying damp wheat and drying for export.

Soft winter wheat was relatively firmer than hard winter, particularly at St. Louis where prices advanced about 2c during the week. No. 2 hard winter being quoted at \$1.47 $\frac{1}{2}$ to \$1.48. These prices are 9c to 10c above Cincinnati and Toledo prices and in line for shipments from the Pacific northwest. No. 2 soft white was being offered at St. Louis from the Pacific northwest at \$1.47 $\frac{1}{2}$. Milling demand was more active at Cincinnati and No. 2 red winter sold in that market at \$1.39 and at Toledo at \$1.38 to \$1.39 $\frac{1}{2}$. A heavy movement of wheat was under way in the Pacific northwest, around 500 cars a day being received at Portland and other northwestern terminal points. Exporters were heavy buyers and chartering of ocean freight space was reported to be the heaviest on record for those markets. Threshing returns are equal to expectations. The quality is good and the crop is especially free from smut. Export white wheats were quoted at Portland at \$1.39 $\frac{1}{2}$ to \$1.41. Mills reported poor export flour business and were not active buyers of wheat. Reports from the Orient state that sufficient native wheat is available at Shanghai to maintain mill operations in that market at about 80 per cent of capacity during September and October. Considerable wheat is being held in the interior China which with Manchurian and North China supplies are expected to care for this season's local requirements.

The oats market held fairly steady although there was considerable hedging pressure due to the increased movement of new grain. Threshing

SPOKANE TO HAVE MONTH FEATURE ENTERTAINMENT

Jumping from a looping airplane to be flown by Lieutenant William H. Williams of the 4th division air service unit, Washington national guard, at an altitude of 2000 feet is one of the nation's most thrilling and spectacular stunts to be staged on the feature program of the national air races at the Spokane air port, September 21 to 25.

Major John T. Fancher, managing director of the National Air Derby association of Spokane, and Lieutenant C. V. Haynes, regular army flying instructor, have prepared the most dare-devil stunt program possible to secure anywhere in the country.

Harry Dodge of Quincy is the balloon man and parachute jumper who will make the "near-death" leap as Lieutenant Williams speeds his plane at 100 miles an hour into a series of complete loops. This special stunt, which is so dangerous that Dodge does not care to make the leap daily, will be the big feature on the opening afternoon program, September 21, when the contestants of the National Air Derby will take to the air from the Pacific Coast Air Derby race from San Francisco will roar into Spokane to grab the lions share of the $25,000 prize money offered.

A race from the clouds by six parachute jumpers leaping from an eight passenger observation plane at an altitude of 3000 feet is the big special stunt for Thursday, September 22. These jumpers will be aviators from the regular army, navy and marine corps. Standing on the wing of the big observation ship, these jumpers will not put their feet on their parachutes until the last minute, and then they will open only half a chute in order that they might beat the other fellow to the ground.

Sky writing with "smoke screen" airplanes and the blowing up of a balloon, which will be subjected to an airplane attack, will thrill the throngs of spectators on September 23. All the cunningness of the most skilled aviator will be mastered into action as the "sky writers" dive, loop and perform as they spill out and hurl by the attacking planes as they dive from dizzy altitudes at the enemy balloon.

On Saturday, September 24, the day on which the biggest and fastest events in the national air races will be held from the field to diving heights, only to dive at a village, which will be bombed to destruction in a demonstration of how "they did it over there" during the world war. It will be a reproduction of an air raid as the people of France saw during the war.

The most daring flying will be done by First Pursuit Group of airplanes from Selfridge, Michigan. Nine of the pursuit planes have been ordered to Spokane by the war department.

"The 'hat' travel 180 miles an hour," said Major Fancher. "They are the fastest airplanes in existence. In the pursuit race the pilots of these ships climb to a 1000 foot altitude, and then nose their planes directly downward in a diving start. It is not out of the ordinary for the pilot of one of these ships to have the top of his helmet torn out because of the terrible rate of speed at which they travel."

"The Mysterious Rider" The feature film for Saturday night will be Jack Holt in Zane Grey's great novel, "The Mysterious Rider." Briefly, the story concerns a group of homesteaders who find themselves in danger of losing their meager desert lands because of the existence of an ancient Spanish grant that supersedes their own claims. This grant is held by Cliff Harkness, who finally agrees to relinquish it for a consideration of $25,000. The ranchers entrust the money to Wade who pays Harkness and receives a receipt.

But Harkness double-crosses. He resells to Mark King, who represents a rich power company, for $150,000. Holt's receipt proves to be a blank piece of paper, and the ranchers believing him crooked turn on him to lynch him. He is forced into outlawing, copied and confined in jail from which he escapes to ride' about the country masked, warning the settlers not to give up their lands.

"The Volga Boatman" On Sunday night, Sept. 11, will be shown an epic picture of the days of the czar, "The Volga Boatman," a melodramatic picture of Russia—the reigning screen hit of the season, with Elliott Fair and William Boyd in the leading roles.

It tells of the yawning gulf between royalty and serfdom which had been spanned by a fair-haired giant—a lowly boatman who loves a Russian princess and she him—comes a political and social cataclysm, dragging in its trail carnage, untold peril, degradation, fear, and yet—here is a ideal drama, poignant, suspenseful, alluring, deftly woven together by a master producer—the wonder picture of the year.

"The Last Frontier" At the Cozy theater on Wednesday night, September 7, will be shown an unusually strong and absorbing photograph, "The Last Frontier," with Jack Hoxie as the famous Buffalo Bill, in a captivating picture of an era when guns barked with deadly effect and force was mightier than the law.

An epic picture of the days of the west when brave men and women faced death at the hands of savage Indians and base renegade white men, as they sought to build up a mighty empire—a romantic, thrilling, appealing theme superbly produced and interpreted by a cast of brilliant screen artists. Don't fail to see it.

GRAIN MARKETS DEVELOP WEAKEN TONE, SAYS REVIEW

Weather more favorable for harvesting grain crop in Europe together with very satisfactory progress of the Canadian spring wheat crop weakened the domestic wheat market during the week ending September 8 and caused a downward trend in prices, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States bureau of agricultural economics. More favorable weather in the corn belt together with slightly larger receipts at the markets lowered the corn prices.

Oats were also lower although private estimates show a further reduction in the crop and much poor grain. Continued dullness in export demand weakened the rye market. Barley was slightly lower with export demand but demand was active. Flax was slightly lower with the movement of new crop seed increasing.

European weather was favorable for harvesting throughout the week and harvesting operations made rapid progress. Weather was also dry in Canada and while frost occurred no serious damage was reported and beyond further damage from frost or rust. Private estimates now place the Canadian crop at 100 million bushels over last year's harvest. Offerings of domestic wheat in European markets were increasing and prices on locally grown wheat showed a material decline in both France and Italy. Domestic wheat being quoted in Paris at prices equivalent to $1.02 per bushel at current exchange rates, and at Milan, Italy, at $1.67 per bushel. This decline may also reflect the generally poor quality of the offerings. German prices were higher, domestic wheat being quoted in Berlin at $1.81 per bushel.

At this time the Lewiston hill is in very poor condition, especially in many of the turns, where the gravel has been worn and pushed away until it is necessary to take the turns with extreme caution to keep from being jolted from the seats. When a permanent surface has been applied and a few other improvements made, this will be, indeed, one of the finest drives in the entire northwest, and one long to remember in a pleasant way by the tourists.

Cash demand for wheat continued active in the United States markets and premiums, particularly for the best milling types held very firm and were advanced for certain desirable types. Export bids for hard winter wheat were advanced although the export trade during the week was reported of only a moderate volume. No. 2 hard winter was quoted in Liverpool at $1.56 compared with $1.54 for previous Argentine Darsoa affoot and $1.65 for No. 2 Canadian Manitoba October and November shipment. Export bids for No. 1 hard winter delivered at Gulf were around 18c over several bids for September or equivalent to about $1.45 per bushel. Some improvement in the flour demand caused a more active buying by mills which were in the market particularly for dry, high protein wheat, 13 percent No. 2 hard winter was quoted at Kansas City at 16c to 18c over the September prices which closed September 2 at $1.28 1/2. Eastern, as well as Central Western mills were reported to be taking the offerings of milling wheat in the Central Western markets.

Soft winter wheat prices continued relatively firm, particularly at St. Louis with country run No. 2 selling at 10c to 14c over the soft winter wheat market. These sharp premiums reflect the scarcity of dry soft winter wheat in that territory. Elevator offerings of No. 2 red wheat were not meeting a very active shipping demand even at considerable discounts under the best grades of country shipments. No. 2 red was generally quoted in that market at $1.47 compared with $1.40 for No. 2 red at Cincinnati $1.37-$1.38, at Toledo and $1.34 at Chicago.

Premiums were irregularly higher for cash grain in the spring wheat markets. Dryness and other factors tended to widen the premiums for the various protein types, some of the best Montana spring wheat sold at Minneapolis as high as 30c over September prices.

The improved demand for flour caused considerable buying of wheat against flour sales and tended to offset the hedging pressure of this and crop movement. Durum wheat continued firm and prices did not follow the decline of other classes. Duluth September closed practically the same as a week ago. No. 1 Amber durum sold at 5c to 5c over Duluth September at both Minneapolis and Duluth. The new crop is of rather low protein, offerings at Duluth averaging less than 11 per cent. The scarcity of choice milling durum, for which there was an active demand was holding the market steady.

The demand for wheat at San Francisco was active.

OILED ROAD PROGRAM FOR STATE LARGE ONE FOR 1928

In spite of handicaps usually attendant upon the initiation of any new type of work, the state bureau of highways has carried out Governor H. C. Baldrige's oiling system with such vigor that before winter weather sets in eleven different projects will have been completed in various sections of the state totaling approximately 90 miles.

Not the least of these handicaps was the lack of equipment. The state had never done any oiling work experimentally, and consequently there was no equipment on hand. Contractors wanted prohibitive prices to move their oiling equipment on the job. The highway department found it could save money by owning its own equipment in view of the fact that it is a first one project was started and then another and another as the equipment arrived until eleven are being worked on as follows: Downey, six miles; Twin Falls, 10 miles; Pocatello-American Falls, 18 miles; Hansen-Murtaugh, six miles; Payette, Washington county line, seven miles; Kellogg-Coeur d'Alene, 20 miles; Sandpoint, six miles; New Plymouth, seven miles; Caldwell west, six miles; Glenns Ferry west, six miles, and Preston north, six miles.

Genesee offers a complete high school course. Pupils who graduate from this school are admitted to the university with the same standing as those from the larger schools of the state.

The following courses are offered this year: Algebra I and advanced algebra, geometry, Latin, four years of English, two years of manual training, typewriting, bookkeeping, two years of history, commercial arithmetic and law, penmanship and spelling, physics, general science, and short hand.

Sheriff Captures Large Still Suspicions of five weeks were confirmed by the Latah county sheriff's office when Charlie Summerfield and his deputies raided Long Meadow on Friday evening and caught the operators of two alleged moonshiners on a charge of manufacturing. The finished product and much equipment was seized, says the Star-Mirror.

The men when brought to Moscow took a short morning nap, after which they intended to plead guilty to the manufacturing count, and it is probable that the two men, Irl Hammers, 30, and C. E. Rathbone, 45, both from near Cavendish, will be arraigned before Judge Edgar C. Steele of the district court this morning.

The men when taken were in the operation of bottling beer, officers said, and one of the largest hauls in the past two years was made when a 20-gallon still, 40 gallons of moonshine liquor, 80 bottles of beer and several barrels of mash and other equipment was seized.

The larger portion of the outfit was destroyed by the officials although some of it was retained as evidence of manufacturing. Whether or not the additional charge of possession will be held against the pair is uncertain. The men had been under suspicion for some time and already two trips had been made into the region in an effort to catch them, officers said.

The men were operating practically on the border between Latah and Crocker counties, arrest taking place east of Paris. The raid was made Friday night by the sheriff and three deputies.

The men are lodged in the Latah county jail pending appearance in the district court.

Miss Gladys Johnson Given Shower A miscellaneous pre-nuptial shower was given for Miss Gladys Johnson, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson, last Friday afternoon, when a large number of friends and relatives gathered to help celebrate the coming happy event and many were the pretty and useful gifts received.

Of course there was the usual mock wedding. Mrs. N. L. Lunde was the blushing bride and Mrs. E. Nord by carried the part of the groom. Miss Olive Mulalley acted as best man and Miss Hope Nielsen was bridesmaid, while Miss Esther Hickman and Mrs. M. M. Leavitt acted as parents of the bride. Miss Inez Mayer was the minister and Miss Rowena Hanson carried the flowers—a beautiful bouquet of "flowers" appropriate to the occasion.

All in all, the event was a very happy one and the afternoon was enjoyed by the ladies present.

Not Her Falling "Did my wife speak at the meeting yesterday?" "I don't know your wife, but there was a tall, thin lady who rose and said she could not find words to express her feelings." "That wasn't my wife."

GENESEE SCHOOLS OPENED MONDAY—MANY ENROLL

The Genesee public schools opened Monday with a large registration. The large number enrolling in the primary grades again this year made it necessary to secure the services of another teacher. Mrs. Nels Liburg has been placed in charge of the second-grade. Mrs. Liburg has had several years' experience; is a normal graduate, and taught one year in the primary grades in Genesee.

The enrollment in the grades up to and including Wednesday, is as follows: First grade, 22; second, 20; third and fourth, 20; fifth and sixth, 33; seventh and eighth, 17. This makes a total of one hundred twelve enrolled in the grades at the present time. There will be several more to come in the next few days.

The enrollment in the high school is as follows: Freshmen, 29; sophomores, 18; juniors, 30; seniors, 22; special, 2. This makes the enrollment in the high school 101, with several more to enter in a short time.

Genesee offers a complete high school course. Pupils who graduate from this school are admitted to the university with the same standing as those from the larger schools of the state.

The following courses are offered this year: Algebra I and advanced algebra, geometry, Latin, four years of English, two years of manual training, typewriting, bookkeeping, two years of history, commercial arithmetic and law, penmanship and spelling, physics, general science, and short hand.

The common impression, Mr. Lukens states, "that a resident of Idaho who should help to build Idaho roads, particularly if they are using them. He said, "Three dollars spent for a California license by an Idaho resident doesn't in the least help to pay the maintenance charge upon the Idaho highways. Furthermore those who buy Idaho licenses are not protected if other residents of the state are allowed to operate their cars throughout the year contrary to law."

The department has employed six men to work throughout the state during the next two months to check this matter, and perform other duties in connection with the motor vehicle laws. The cooperation of the sheriffs and other local law enforcement officers is being asked in order that this particular violation may be entirely checked. With this force working on this matter the secretary of state is confident that the car owners who rightfully should buy Idaho licenses will do so.

U. of I. Opens September 14 The thirty-fifth academic year of the University of Idaho opens Wednesday, September 14, the first day on which all new students must be in the campus for preliminary English and entrance tests, it is announced by Dr. A. H. Upham, president of the university. Registration for classes is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, September 16 and 17, with class work to commence the following Monday morning.

The first faculty meeting will be held Tuesday morning, September 13. The southern Idaho student special, which leaves Pocatello Monday morning, September 12, at 11 o'clock a.m. will arrive at the Campus Tuesday morning. Faculty committee meetings, President and Mrs. Upham's reception for faculty members and their wives, and freshman mixers complete the program for Tuesday.

Freshman assembly will be held at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. Wednesday evening a reception for all new students will be held at the gymnasium. Freshman students and all new students will take entrance tests and be photographed for the university records Wednesday and Thursday.

Were High Honor Students According to information just given out, two of the Genesee students attending the University of Idaho last year were among the ten high honor students of that institution, they being Margaret Becker, who attained a standing of 5.646 and Grace Jain, whose average was 5.452, both qualifying for high honors. An average of 6.000 is perfect, and when it is considered that only ten out of the entire enrollment reached the "high honor" mark, these young ladies are indeed to be congratulated and our community is justly proud of their attainments.

A Birthday Dinner A very pleasant event took place at the Arthur Hampton home Sunday when three birthday anniversaries were celebrated, that of Mrs. W. J. Jones of Fort Smith, Arkansas, and those of Joe Hampton and son, Billy, of St. John, Wash. Of course a big dinner was served and the occasion was very much enjoyed.

Those present were Mrs. W. J. Jones and daughter Norma and son Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hampton and family and Mrs. G. A. Bumpuss and Geraldine.

FOREIGN LICENSES WILL BE CHECKED BY STATE OFFICERS

The department of law enforcement, under the direction of Secretary of State Fred E. Lukens, is beginning a systematic clean-up of foreign licenses being used by residents of Idaho. It is well known that this has been the best tourist season in the history of the state, and that many of the foreign licenses are now being used entirely within the law, but many cases have come to the attention of the department at Boise which indicate that not a few of them are abusing the privilege given to non-residents. Within the last week there have appeared four cases in which people were fishing with Idaho resident licenses and using foreign licenses on their cars. On investigation it should help to check one of the four was a bonafide resident of Idaho and not entitled to operate his car under a license from another state.

The secretary of state is very decidedly of the belief that those who live in Idaho should help to build Idaho roads, particularly if they are using them. He said, "Three dollars spent for a California license by an Idaho resident doesn't in the least help to pay the maintenance charge upon the Idaho highways. Furthermore those who buy Idaho licenses are not protected if other residents of the state are allowed to operate their cars throughout the year contrary to law."

The department has employed six men to work throughout the state during the next two months to check this matter, and perform other duties in connection with the motor vehicle laws. The cooperation of the sheriffs and other local law enforcement officers is being asked in order that this particular violation may be entirely checked. With this force working on this matter the secretary of state is confident that the car owners who rightfully should buy Idaho licenses will do so.

Sub-Station Fire Caused Shutdown The Washington Water Power substation at this place was badly damaged by fire early Friday morning, the result of a short circuit over the lines, which caused the fuses in the local plant to blow out. Manager M. L. Sweeney was on the ground promptly just after the trouble started, and found the "juice" running rampant in the substation. A hole had been blown through the top of the station and at the time of his arrival, blue flame was shooting out of the opening. Mr. Sweeney had the fire with chemical extinguishers. The trouble was caused, it is stated, by a pole going down near Moscow, which fouled a telephone line, causing the short circuit which was transmitted over the wires to the local station.

It was necessary to keep the power off until nearly noon on Friday, when the damage was repaired. G. R. Beckman, district manager at Moscow, and M. L. Sweeney, local manager, stated that they regret very much having the trouble come during the busy harvest season, but that everything possible was done to speed up the work for a resumption of power.—Uniontown Journal.

Equalized Valuation Higher The equalized valuation of Idaho's real property is slightly more than $1,000,000,000 higher for 1927 than it was for 1926. It is announced in a preliminary report of the state board of equalization which has closed a two week's session.

As a final result the board hopes to get the state valuation up to about $480,000,000 which will represent an increase of about $7,000,000 over 1926. The greater part of this increase, however, will be effected through the utility valuations which have not been completed yet.

The state levy for this year will be approximately 60 cents. This was fixed by the legislature before it adjourned when it authorized the levying of a tax to raise $2,350,000 for each of the years 1927 and 1928. This levy is about 15 cents higher than the 1926 assessment but increased appropriations by the legislature called for the higher figure.

The levy is based on 1926 valuations and the tax charge is made to the counties on the same basis. Any changes made in the county valuations which necessitate the counties changing their levies in order to raise the amount of the state tax.

Lost Valuable Sheep Archie May stated this week that someone had shot three of his valuable sheep while they were in the field. Two of them were registered rams and the other was a registered ewe. All three of them will probably die, according to Mr. May. It is believed that the shooting was done by boys. It was a heartless, unprincipled act from every standpoint.—Kendrick Gazette.

Check Card On N. and S. Highway Four hundred eighty-six motor vehicles passed over the North and South highway at a point near Grangeville, according to Harry Vincent, maintenance supervisor, who made the traffic survey to obtain data upon travel over the road.

Two hundred forty-two of the motor vehicles were Idaho licensed and 128 carried foreign licenses. Eighty-three light trucks and thirty-three heavy trucks were counted.—Free Press (Grangeville).

Class Reunion The Class of '26 was delightfully entertained at the home of Miss Fern Herman Saturday evening, September 3, with Miss Agnes Sweeney and Harold Hallman as assistant host and hostess.

The rooms were becomingly decorated with the class colors, pink and green, and pink gladioli.

Those present were Gladys Johnson, Mary Mulalley, Francis Platt, Florence Rader, Fern Herman, Agnes Sweeney, Mabel Botzger, Jessie Peterson, Laurence Kraut, Harold Hallman, Robley Nation, Ronald Gertz and Roy Harris.

A luncheon of pie a la mode was served and the class departed at a late hour wishing class reunions would come often.

Billions Go Abroad The sentimental propagandists who are continually weeping over our indifference to Europe and its plight, and who believe that as a preliminary we should at once proclaim free trade, so that European products can come into this country, would do well to appreciate that while we are anxious to be sympathetic, if any horde of unemployed are to walk the streets, we have a first-hand feeling, selfish, perhaps, but human, that we would prefer to let European, rather than American workmen, be put to such straits.

BUICK for 1928

When Buick improves upon Buick — the standard for the year is set

Buick for 1928 introduces a higher standard of beauty and luxury than the world has ever known. Buick interiors are as modish as exquisite drawing-rooms — as harmoniously colored — and as comfortable. Buick's new Fisher bodies are low-slung without any loss of head-room or road-clearance.

And so, down to the smallest detail of construction, wherever refinements could be made, Buick has made them. Again Buick has improved upon Buick. Again the standard for the year is set.

Genesee Valley Lutheran Church
There will be English services at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with Rev. L. N. Fields of North Dakota as the speaker.

Among the Sick
Jas. Hanson was quite sick the first of the week, suffering with stomach trouble.
P. F. Mulalley, who has been quite ill for the past two weeks, is reported as somewhat improved.

Many a man who gave marriage serious thought is still in the bachelor class.

Ford Turns Turtle
As Olaf Steele, employed at the Genesee hotel was speeding on his way home one evening, he thought to look at his watch when about two and a half miles off, and in trying to return the time-piece to his pocket took his eyes off the road and in so doing allowed the obnoxious Ford to have its own way—and he landed in the ditch, with the four wheels sticking up in the air. The top and windshield were badly mused up, but young Steele escaped with a badly wrecked car and a few other minor bruises. He was picked up by Harold Carburn of Lewiston, who happened to be coming this way, and was brought to Dr. Ehlen's office where he was again put in repair. The car was brought to the Ford hospital where it will undergo the necessary surgical work at the hands of Walt Emerson.

Harvest Again Delayed
Old Jupiter Pluvius seems to have the upper hand in the making up of the weather. He has been handing it to the farmers who are in the midst of their threshing, and combining when the flood gates were opened—and while it isn't quite so bad as the big Mississippi flood of last spring, there are those who are ready to say just as bad things about the particular brand of weather as they were entitled to say down south.

It is estimated that not more than half of the threshing is done in this section of the country, which means that there are many hundreds of acres of grain to be taken care of yet.

Sustained Broken Leg
Lyle Seely of Postland, who has been working with the John Klus threshing crew, is suffering with a broken right leg, sustained when the bundle wagon he was driving tipped over. Dr. Ehlen reduced the fracture and reports the young man doing as well as could be expected.

If a penniless man has nowhere else to go he should go to work.

GRAIN MARKETS DEVELOP WEAKER TONE, SAYS REVIEW

Wheat was rather dull. No. 1 hard winter being quoted in that market at $4.25 per hundred or about $1.05 per bushel.

The oats market declined slightly, or about 2c per bushel for the week ending September 2 because of the weakness in the corn market.

The demand for good malting barley continued active at most markets although receipts were larger and tended to weaken the market for the ordinary grades.

"Millions for Defense" An announcement states that the National Confectioners' association has raised $1,000,000 for an advertising campaign to uphold the market for candy.

"The Cozy Theater, Saturday night, September 10, will be shown one of the most stirring dramas that has been put good fortune to see for many a day.

"Blow me" — a thief — yet, with all the world against them, she loved him—and love was not blind.

"Come out or we'll blow you to blazes"—roared the bandit leader—but the spirit of Clara still lived.

"Rough House Rosie" For Sunday night you will have another opportunity to see Clara Bow, "the girl men love to love."

"Blow me" — a thief — yet, with all the world against them, she loved him—and love was not blind.

"Hold That Lion" That's what Douglas MacLean said when he discovered that he was being chased by one of the big cats.

Some of the most side-splitting situations ever incorporated in a comedy have been woven into the plot and woof of "Hold That Lion."

Trying to make love to the girl and careening concealing the fact that he is wearing his trousers.

Attending a formal ball in a pair of stolen Scotch kilts and attempting to live up to his disguise when a real Scotchman comes along.

WHAT HAPPENED HERE TWENTY YEARS AGO

The board of county commissioners met the first of the week at Moscow and fixed the annual tax levy for all state and county purposes at 21 mills, being an increase of one mill over the levy of last year.

At the Grifman hospital, in Moscow Monday morning of this week, a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Dicus. Jacob Rossmoog being the home of the first child.

Mrs. John Meyer returned last week from her trip to Germany. Mrs. Meyer reports that her entire trip was one of pleasure—barring the loss of a trunk for a considerable length of time, it having been delayed in transit. Enroute home Mrs. Meyer visited for a few days at Henderson, Minn., with Rev. and Mrs. C. S. A. Eyrich, former Genesee residents.

Swine Raisers Meet Nearly 300 people attended the meeting of the hog raisers of this section of the country held in Lewiston last Saturday and a very interesting and profitable time was spent by those interested in the swine business.

While Idaho products are shipped both east and west the Gem state is fast becoming the dairy for the Pacific Slope. California consumed three-fourths of Idaho's 1926 butter output which was over 20 million pounds.

Cooperative creameries in Idaho have made excellent records under alert management and with sufficient capital. William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, in a recent Idaho speech endorsed the cooperative movement saying it was the proper foundation on which to build a producing and marketing organization.

What Badly Damaged Farmers from various sections report that wheat still in the shock is being badly damaged by the continued wet weather and that that standing in the field is also being damaged. Much of the wheat in the shock has begun to sprout and if saved at all only the minor portion of it will be good, the balance only fit for feed.

Students to College The following Genesee students will attend college the coming year: To U. of I.—Fred Dicus, Orland Mayer, Eugene Tupker, Margaret Becker, Ormond Mosman, May Mosman, Mrs. Jain, Clarence Doyle, Edmond Weber.

IDAHO PRODUCED 20,000,000 POUNDS OF BUTTER IN 1926

In the few short years since the post war adjustment started Idaho has climbed from a position of practical unimportance in the dairy industry to a place where Idaho by government experts show Idaho butter to be the best in the United States.

This is due, they say, to the fact that in Idaho climate, sunshine and forage conditions combine properly to make the fertile valleys unequalled for dairying.

The winters are not severe and the summers bring floods of sunshine that stimulate animal and vegetable growth. While other dairy states require from two to three acres of pasture to maintain one animal, Idaho pastures will maintain two animals per acre for a season varying from five to seven months. The cost of producing feed in Idaho is the lowest of any state in the Union.

Idaho creameries made about five million pounds of butter in 1926. In 1925 the production was over 16,000,000 pounds and for the first six months of 1927 the total was 10,743,655 pounds.

Butterfat producers in Idaho get the highest prices for their product. During the first six months of 1926 the average price was 43.7 cents and for the same period of 1927 they were receiving 44.9 cents as an average price.

While Idaho products are shipped both east and west the Gem state is fast becoming the dairy for the Pacific Slope. California consumed three-fourths of Idaho's 1926 butter output which was over 20 million pounds.

Cooperative creameries in Idaho have made excellent records under alert management and with sufficient capital. William M. PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

The second week of school has begun with a record enrollment in the school. The high school has an enrollment of one hundred and four with some more to come. Genesee schools have been growing every year for the past few years and there is no reason to doubt that this will be true for some time to come.

The state of Idaho has the highest enrollment in the high school enrollment in the past two years. The short hand class in the commercial department has proven very popular with something over thirty students enrolled.

The school has done all that is possible to keep down the cost of the books for the students. The book store in town has kept within a very legal price on books, yet it is impossible to keep this cost as low as it should be. The school has used the same texts for the last two years so that it would be possible to have the pupils use second hand books. Yet the publishing companies put out new editions each year which are so different from those used the year before that the students are obliged to buy new books.

Footbal practice started last week with sixteen men turning out. The squad this year, for the most part, are raw and inexperienced. The latter men returning are Paul Mullaley, tackle; Art Klewenko, guard and Tony Ebel, guard. The new men trying out include Blume, Engel, Springer, Emmett, Nebelsieck, Miller, Schooler and Wagner.

The seventh and eighth grades had special exercises on Wednesday in which they studied the "Constitution."

Fifth and Sixth Grades We have two more pupils enrolled in the fifth and sixth grades bringing our total enrollment up to thirty-four. The sixth grade history test marks have shown effort. "Let's improve the next one!"

Dan Abern has been ill. We shall all be pleased to have Dan back again. Many pretty flowers were brought to the school room. These have helped to cheer our room in this rainy weather.

We feel proud to display in this school room the Modern Health Crusade Penant—won by the fifth and sixth grades.

Third and Fourth Grades Ernest Craft started school in our room last Thursday. This makes a total of 22 in our room.

Genevieve Harris was absent from school last Thursday and Friday on account of illness. But we again glad to have her back with us again this week.

We are glad to have on display in our room a penant won by the third and fourth grades. The penant was given by the National Modern Health Crusade.

Second Grade School opened with an enrollment of twenty in the second grade. So far the work has consisted mostly of review of the first grade work.

There are a few who have not yet been able to get all their books, but we hope to have them soon, as the best work cannot be done until all have their own text books.

In handwork class the children are making paper fish on which are written various number combinations. They are going to have a fish pond game in number work class as soon as they are finished.

First Grade We have an enrollment of 23 in our room. We are sorry to lose one of our pupils, Violet Beckman, is moving away. We hope Violet likes her new home and school.

MUCH HARVESTING TO BE DONE—GRAIN DAMAGED

The following items have been clipped from neighboring papers relative to the condition of grain crops and the amount of damage done. These items were all taken from last week's papers:

Unitowntown Section Suffers Heavy rainfall at least a good share of every day this week brought a definite stop to harvest for a week. Examinations show that grain has become soft and it is stated that when it again hardens the shrinkage will entail a loss of five cents a bushel.

Fall grain in this section was well cleaned up before the severest rainfall and it is the spring grain that has received the damage. Reports from farmers are to the effect that late sown oats have molded some—Unitowntown Journal.

Harvesting at Standstill All harvest work has been at a standstill since Monday evening on account of the heavy rains.

Tuesday's rainfall was the heaviest in many years and gave not only the soil, but the standing grain in the fields a heavy soaking.

It was dry enough Monday for combines to get in three-quarters of a day and some of the outfits finished by night.

There is much grain in the country still standing, and the fall rains seem to have set in in earnest, so it will be some time before the harvest work can be finished. The heavy rainfall will cut down the yield, as some of the grain is spoiling, according to reports. Colton News-Letter.

They Recall '93 and Shivers—It has been nearly 40 years—in '93—since wet weather during harvest ruined practically the whole of the crop in the Inland Empire, but the old timers have not forgotten that season and even the most insignificant harvest cloud snooting up now during harvest scares 'em sick. Good reason, too, when they recall their experiences of that year. How the wheat which they did get threshed got "mussy" and the warehouses wouldn't "buy" it, nor would the mills grind it into flour. Lucky the farmer who owned or lived near one who owned a choppin mill, or had access to one of those old-fashioned-crank mills that screwed onto the wall and held about a peck of coffee. They called it "whole wheat" flour.—Troy News.

Canas Prairie Crop Damaged. A million dollars' worth of wheat on Canas prairie is being seriously jeopardized by the persistent rain, which has visited this section for two weeks. Standing grain is falling down and some of the heads are sprouting. That in the shock also is beginning to sprout in many fields, and the situation daily grows more serious, says a news dispatch from Grangeville.

Rain started falling again Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock after only a short lull on Thursday. The fall was one of the hardest of the present wet period, with the rain coming down in sheets for several hours. While rain was falling on the prairies, the mountains and foothills back of Grangeville were being covered with snow.

Heavy Rains at Walla Walla Additional heavy rains Sunday have set back completion of the harvest for an unknown period. A week of dry weather would be required to put the grain in condition to harvest. Considerable harvested grain has not been hauled to the warehouses and is damaged. About twenty outfits are tied up and to clean up all grain uncut in sheets or awl hours. While rain was falling on the prairies, the mountains and foothills back of Grangeville were being covered with snow.

Soft winter wheat continued firm at all markets and quotations except on the Atlantic seaboard and in the Pacific Northwest were above an export basis. The St. Louis market was still 5c to 8c above other Central Western markets and wheat was being shipped to that market from as far north as Michigan and as far west as Idaho. Idaho wheat was also being bought to arrive at Kansas City. Mills in the Central West are buying this wheat to supplement the small and inferior crop of soft red winter in that territory. No. 2 red winter was selling at the close of the week at St. Louis at $1.45 to $1.48, at Chicago at $1.32½, at Cincinnati at $1.40 and at Toledo at $1.38.

Demand for export wheat continued active in the Pacific northwest. Shipments for August were the largest on record at Portland and charters for September indicated heavier movement for the current month. $1.27 was being paid for western white wheat by exporters. Milling wheats were quoted at $1.32 to $1.33 and western red wheat at $1.25. The principal movement is to Europe as the Orient is not taking much wheat at this time. The wheat market at San Francisco was dull with offerings light. No. 1 hard wheat was quoted in that market at $2.25 per hundred, equivalent to $1.35 per bushel.

IMPROVED SPRING WHEAT PROSPECTS LOWER MARKET

Continued favorable progress of the North American spring wheat crop with prospects of larger output than were expected earlier in the season weakened the wheat market during the week ending September 10, according to the weekly Grain Market Review of the United States department of agriculture. Good growing weather over a large part of the corn belt, together with a continued heavy movement caused a further decline in corn prices. The rye market had independent strength caused principally by unfavorable reports relative to the German rye crop and some improvement in export demand. The oats market was also higher and the flax market held steady.

A spring wheat crop of 308,000,000 bushels for the United States was indicated at the first of September, making a total domestic crop of 851,000,000 bushels which would be 10,000,000 bushels greater than indicated August 1, and about 28,000,000 bushels larger than last year's harvest. The increase in spring wheat is attributable for the most part to the fact that the August weather was more favorable than usual for spring wheat and rust damage less than feared a month ago. While official estimates are not yet available for the Canadian wheat crop the weather was favorable during the week and the crop made good progress. The weather was more favorable than usual for spring wheat and rust damage less than feared a month ago. While official estimates are not yet available for the Canadian wheat crop the weather was favorable during the week and the crop made good progress.

Reports to date from European countries, exclusive of Russia, show a slight increase over last year. Trade reports indicate, however, that because of unfavorable harvesting conditions in some of these countries the grain is of inferior quality which would reduce the effective supply.

In addition to the more favorable spring wheat prospects the movement of new crop grain was increased and the hedging pressure was fairly heavy in the domestic spring wheat markets. Millers were good buyers, however, and cash premiums remained very firm, particularly for wheat showing 13 per cent or more protein. Thirteen percent protein No. 1 dark Northern sold at the close of the week at Minneapolis at 10c to 20c over the September No. 1 Amber was reduced to 9 at $1.32½. Fourteen percent protein sold at 16c to 25c over the September and best protein types of Montana sold as high as 30c over the September.

Larger offerings of durum wheat caused a sharp decline in premiums for this class. According to the September 1 estimate the durum crop will be about 82,000,000 bushels this year compared with 45,000,000 bushels last year. Good milling quality with high protein was in good demand but premiums for No. 1 Amber were reduced to a range of 1c to 2c over the Duluth September at Minneapolis. Premiums were slightly above these figures at Duluth where No. 1 and No. 2 Amber sold as high as 32c over September, which closed September 9 at $1.29½. No. 1 red durum was sold at $1.20 per bushel at Duluth.

The market for hard winter wheat held but practically unchanged, with offerings of desirable milling quality light. Premiums for the better grade with high protein were advanced 1c to 2c at Kansas City with the supply below the current demand.

Soft winter wheat continued firm at all markets and quotations except on the Atlantic seaboard and in the Pacific Northwest were above an export basis. firm the September estimate confirming the reports of unfavorable threshing returns and showed a reduction of about 88,000,000 bushels over the August 1 estimate. A crop of 1,191,000,000 or 59,000,000 bushels smaller than last year is now indicated. There was an active demand for the desirable qualities but a large percentage of the receipts were light-weight and otherwise of only fair quality. Stocks at the markets, however, increased materially and reports indicate that movement will soon become considerably smaller in the Central states. No. 3 white oats sold at the close of the week at Chicago at 45 1/2c and at Minneapolis at 44 1/2c to 45 1/2c per bushel.

Larger receipts and rather heavy hedging pressure caused some decline in the barley market. At Minneapolis arrivals showed generally good quality and the spread between prices of malting and feed grades was narrow. Best malting types were quoted at 71c to 73c with feed grades at 68c to 69c. At Chicago best malting barley sold at 78c to 82c and at Omaha special No. 2 was quoted at 73c per bushel. Receipts of barley at Denver were principally of poor quality and were sold locally.

COPPER CARBONATE
Copper Carbonate and Blue Stone are the same in this way—both are made from copper. Blue Stone (Copper Sulphate) is made by the action of dilute Sulphuric acid. Copper carbonate is made by treating copper with another ingredient at a high temperature. The copper is the ingredient that kills the germ and the acid used to make the Blue Stone is what kills the wheat.

Wheat treated with Copper Carbonate will grow better and in no way damage the wheat. It is a fertilizer and can be sown any time regardless of weather and it will germinate even better than if not treated at all, and you use one-fifth less of wheat and it costs about 5/8c cents per bushel, so you save about 20 cents per bushel on wheat treated with Copper Carbonate.

Dead Give Away.
"Did her father give the bride away?"
"I should say he did. He got rattled and said as he handed her over to the groom, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'"

WHEAT MARKET LOWER ON INCREASE IN CANADIAN CROP

ing quoted in Liverpool at $1.53 per bushel compared with $1.56 for No. 3 Manitoba and $1.02 3/4 for white soft wheat from the Pacific coast. Soft winter wheat continued relatively firmer than other classes at the principal markets with the supply of good milling quality below market requirements in the more central west. No. 2 red winter was quoted at the close of the week at Kansas City at $1.31 to $1.34, St. Louis $1.42, at Chicago at $1.28 1/2, at Cincinnati at $1.34 and at Toledo at $1.32.

The demand for Pacific coast wheat for export continues of large volume but principally for October and November shipment. Shipments during the current month are the largest on record, totaling over 11,000,000 bushels for September to date from the Pacific northwest markets. Rains have lowered the quality but a large supply of good wheat is still available. Quotation at Portland range from $1.23 to $1.24 per bushel for soft white wheats for October and November shipment. The oats market continued independently firm throughout the week and price changes were unimportant. Receipts have fallen off and arrivals at the principal markets for the crop year to date are about 3,000,000 bushels smaller than year ago although they have increased materially during the past three weeks. No. 3 white oats were being quoted at the close of the market September 16 at Minneapolis at 44c to 44 1/2c per bushel and at Chicago at 46c to 47 1/2c per bushel.

Barley prices also declined during the week but at the close of the market were somewhat firmer with good malting barley quoted at Chicago at 76c to 80c per bushel and at Minneapolis at 68c to 69c per bushel. Special No. 2 was quoted at Milwaukee at 75c to 85c per bushel. The Pacific coast barley market were holding quite firm with a large percentage of the crop already marketed. Best malting barley was quoted at the close of the week in San Francisco at $1.15 to $1.20 per bushel.

Pedestrians Must Be Careful
The chief constable of one of the British cities has expressed the opinion that "it is a pedestrian who is as careful as the average motorist, many of whom drive fast, but safely, there would be fewer accidents. Walking to the common danger seems to be more prevalent than driving to the common danger."

And Yet We Kick at a Second's Delay
In England the telephone system is owned by the government and is operated through the postal department. If anyone in London desires to talk across the Channel, he must go to the central post office and make an appointment, possibly for the following day. He must then be on hand at the hour appointed to attend to the call.

What a contrast to our own private, owned telephone system. In our country anyone may place a call from his own home and in a few minutes talk with anyone in any part of the country, and even across the ocean to London in a few hours.

Trade with advertisers. They have reliable merchandise at fair prices.

Migratory Birds Increase

A statement by Deputy Chief United States Game Warden Talbot Denmead says that many migratory birds are increasing as a result of protective legislation by the federal government and by the states. A few years ago the great feeding grounds occupied by ducks, geese, and other migratory birds, were greatly depleted. Then came "federal interference." This "interference" was backed up by all of the good sportsmen of the country as well as by the manufacturers of guns and ammunition. It was not long before the results began to manifest themselves with the improvement referred to in Warden Denmead's statement. That official urges better enforcement of the existing laws; curbing of the "boot-legging" of ducks killed unlawfully; further provisions for wildlife refuge; discouragement to drainage projects where the gain to agriculture will not offset to public welfare the loss of the birds and other wild life, better protection of the natural food supply for birds, studies of bird losses from sickness caused by too great concentration, by alkali poison, disease, and oil pollution; and scientific investigation of bird life as a basis for improved legislation. The game birds listed on the increase in recent years are wild geese, canvasback, mallard, redhead, wood and black ducks, the whistling swan, pintails and coots.

Tipping the Porter
Official reports show that there are 10,000 porters employed in the service of the Pullman Car company, and careful count shows that 96.5 per cent of the passengers whose shoes are shined and clothes brushed by these faithful men, call all porters "George." The highest pay received by any porter is $72.50 a month. The patrons of the railroads add $7,000,000 in tips each year.

The faithful employees of the Pullman service recently sent some of their ablest advocates to Washington, and their grievances were presented to the Interstate Commerce commission. Because the Pullman company does not pay them a proper wage the men are compelled to obtain their living off the charities of the travelling public. The porter told the commission that the Pullman company should pay them about $150 a month each for their services.

If the commission will bring the company to its senses the "Georges" will no longer be compelled to bend the "hinges of the knee that thrift may follow fawning."

Workers Oppose Radicals

"Who, in this country, are most effectively leading the movement against communists and radicals?" was a question asked by David F. Houston, formerly secretary of the treasury under President Wilson, in an address a few days ago. "Not the government, not professional and industrial leaders, but the leaders of the workingmen themselves. And so it is that when the people rule they can be depended upon to take care of those who instill poison into the public mind."

"Why is it that here, where the people, labor is, in the main, contented, has higher wages and higher standards of living than can be found anywhere else in the world, while in Europe labor tends to be mutinous and radical? I do not wonder that in many sections of Europe labor is mutinous and radical. I can easily imagine myself being an extreme radical in some parts of Europe and a rank conservative here. The things confronting the average man in Europe never existed here.

"Few leaders in eastern and southern Europe have developed to the point where they can formulate programs which would be in the best interests of those which have long been incorporated in our life and have become commonplace. And yet, there are among us persons of alien origin, unaware of differences, unaware of the spirit and meaning of America, who presume to tell us what to do. They can advise us to revolutionize our institutions. These people do not talk our language. They have no respect for the people of this nation."

American Way Best
The representatives of the National Farmers' Union of England, visiting the fertile fields of Oregon, says that good farming and poor living go together; that high standards of intensive cultivation are impossible without cheap labor, content with a low standard of living.

The American idea is to substitute power for human labor, wherever possible; to put steam and gas and electricity into the fields in lieu of overworked men and women and children, and so make humanity free.

The basic facts are alike, in England, America, everywhere—that a cheaper, stronger, more tractable labor is essential. But here we vision it in machine, like the marvelous tractor and in a reasonable tariff to protect American production, not in low-browed, bedraggled serfs toiling for an overlord who is a "Good Farmer."

A Birthday Dinner

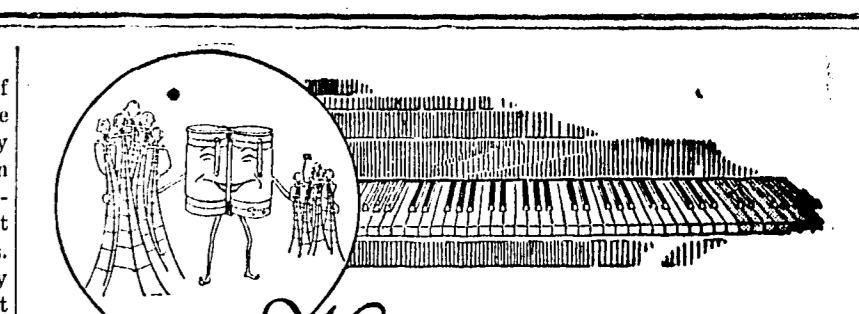

One evening last week the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Larkin was the scene of a very pleasant little party when a few friends were invited in to help celebrate the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Isaac Isaksen. It was planned as a surprise by Mrs. Larkin and it all worked out very nicely—even to a birthday "cake" which was smuggled in and placed on the table when Mrs. Isaksen wasn't looking. The culinary masterpiece was decorated with a certain number of candles (all by guess of course) and of a very imposing appearance. The reason we did not tell the particular evening the little party was held was for fear that someone might get reckless and guess the age of the surprised.

The McCreary family was invited in to help celebrate the event and made dinner served hands at the big chicken dinner classed by Mrs. Larkin, who knows how such things should be done—and the Isaksen family was there too.

WHEAT MARKET GENERALLY STEADY, SAYS REVIEW

The market for both wheat and rye had generally steady during the week ending September 24 but corn prices fluctuated sharply as a result of the threatened frost damage, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States bureau of agriculture.

Barley and oat prices tended upward on light receipts and active demand but the flax market was weakened by increasing receipts and lower foreign prices.

There was no material change in the general wheat market situation. The threshing of Canadian grain was resumed after a delay of several days. Wide spread rains in Argentina about the middle of the week improved the wheat prospects in that country but reports from Australia indicate a serious lack of moisture except in the western part. Rainy weather retarded the threshing in England and rains here indicate that an appreciable percentage of both the wheat and rye crop in Germany is unmillable.

Liverpool prices held practically unchanged during the week but native wheat in both France and Germany declined to $1.58 per bushel at Paris and $1.72 at Berlin. Prices in Italy advanced and native wheat was quoted at the close of the week at Milan at $1.81 per bushel.

Spring wheat in the United States continued to move in good volume and receipts at the principal markets totaled about twice as much as a year ago when the spring wheat crop was smaller. The domestic demand continued active and premiums were well maintained. Export demand was not of large volume. 13 per cent protein or better spring wheat sold at Minneapolis at $1.25 1/2. Durum premiums were about the same as a year ago when the spring wheat crop was smaller. The domestic demand continued active and premiums were well maintained.

WHAT HAPPENED HERE TWENTY YEARS AGO

The threshing of wheat throughout the Genesee section for the present season is about a matter of history and the majority of the machines have been pulled in for the season. There still remains a small amount of stacked bundle grain to be threshed but a few days of favorable weather will put this grain in the sack. To the north of Genesee there still remains several hundred acres of oats to be threshed, a good portion of which is still uncut. The damage to wheat from rain throughout this section has been greatly overestimated and taking price into consideration the crop will run close to an average one. A good percent of the farmers have completed hauling their crop to the warehouse.

Wednesday of this week the McMillan and I club were entertained at the Emmett home in honor of Frank Harris, who is slated to join the ranks of the benedicti at an early date. In the early evening a "stag" supper consisting of fried chicken and all the delicacies of the season, was served, following which tidbits and other names were given to the club. The party was given by Mrs. Frank Harris, Geo. McMahon, Fred Miller, Roy Shoemaker, Will Herman, Dr. J. L. Conant, Jr., Dr. J. E. Reilly, Elmer Vanocck, Reed Clapp, Elmer Ball, F. E. Dicus, J. K. Bell, Tom Keane and Robert Emmer.

The marriage of John Fredricks and Miss Clara Knapp was solemnized at the Catholic church in this city Tuesday morning of this week, Rev. Fr. Baerlocher officiating. Miss Edna Driscoll acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Fredricks as best man. Immediately following the ceremony the wedding party partook of a wedding breakfast at the Grand Central hotel. The newly married left on the morning train for Spokane and the Sound on a honeymoon trip east of town. These young people have a host of friends who wish them a long and happy married life.

Miss Ida Peterson a Bride A romance of high school days culminated in matrimony on Monday at 10:30 a. m. when Miss Ida Magdalena Peterson became the bride of Mr. Adrian Nelson. Rev. N. E. Beach a former pastor and an intimate friend of the family, pronounced the wedding ceremony. Miss Peterson was attended by Miss Lena Fosberg, who acted as best man.

Only intimate relatives and a few close personal friends witnessed the marriage. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Peterson of Eighth and Highland, who have extensive ranch holdings and who were well maintained with $1.60 for No. 1 Manitoba for October and November shipment and $1.51 for Argentina Rosa Fe for September shipment and $1.61 1/2 for soft white wheat from the Pacific coast. The supply of high grade soft winter wheat continues below current demand and prices are relatively higher than for hard winter wheats. No. 2 red winter was quoted at St. Louis at $1.43 per bushel and soft white wheat from Idaho was being shipped in to supplement the supply. No. 2 winter was being quoted at Cincinnati at $1.35 - $1.36 at Toledo at $1.32 to $1.33 and at Chicago at $1.29 1/2.

The oats market continued firm with a good demand for the light receipts. Prices tended upward and at the close of the week were about 25 higher than for the previous week. No. 3 white cars were selling at the Chicago markets at 48c to 51c, and at Minneapolis at 45c to 46c. Heavy-weight oats continued to bring about 3c to 5c premium over the ordinary No. 3 white.

High receipts, together with an active demand both from domestic buyers and exporters, caused a firm barley market and prices advanced 4c to 6c at the principal markets. While a larger percentage of the receipts at Minneapolis are bright and clean, lots desired by the maltsters. Farther west the barley is not of such good quality and the light receipts at Denver were mostly of an inferior grade, most of which was being used locally although a few cars were reported shipped to California where the price of barley are relatively higher than in the Central Western markets. Choice Wisconsin barley sold as high as 86c at Milwaukee with No. 2 special being quoted at 70c to 76c. The best malting grades sold at Chicago at 82c to 86c and at Minneapolis at 73c to 74c per bushel.

Can't Do It The girl who has a boyish bob and who wears knickers still has one thing to be thankful for. She can't raise one of those cute little woolly-worm moustaches, no matter how hard she tries.

Warehouse Ships More Hogs The Genesee Union Warehouse Company on Tuesday shipped a double-deck car of hogs containing 163 porkers, to the Spokane market.

Threshing Halted Second Time After eight days of as fine sunshine as one ever looked at, rain began falling last Friday and kept it up most of the day. However, Saturday the weather again cleared and on Sunday threshing again continued and again resumed in earnest and every minute that could be utilized was crowded full of activity and many thousands of bushels of grain were brought to the warehouses. Rain began falling again Tuesday morning and machines were again tied up, with several hundred acres yet to be combined and threshed.

The Syrina Club The Syringas gathered at the home of Mrs. John Weber on Wednesday last week to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary. She was presented many useful and pretty gifts. The ladies reported a very joyful afternoon. At 4:30 a wonderful luncheon was served by the hostess.

SEE US FOR FARM LOANS

MEAT LOAF MOST ECONOMICAL DISH

Some of the Cheaper Cuts Can Be Utilized.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
If every dinner could be equally easy to prepare, tasty, different from the last one, inexpensive and popular with the family, we housekeepers would cease asking ourselves this eternal question. Meat loaf or roll is one of the most economical meat dishes you can serve. Some of the cheaper cuts can be used in making it and every bit that is not eaten hot is useful for serving cold in slices or for sandwich filling. Any lean meat may be used if gristle and skin are trimmed off. From one-fourth and one-half as much pork as beef is a good proportion. Too much pork makes an overrich, greasy loaf. Many homemakers prefer to have a fresh piece of meat cut off and put through the grinder under their direction, or some like to take it home and grind it themselves. A very good loaf may often be made at considerable saving per pound from the meat. The butcher accumulates from the more expensive cuts. If the pork is not added to the beef a small amount of fresh suet should be put through the chopper with the meat.

So many different seasonings may be used in a meat loaf that it is difficult to give an exact recipe. Unless the family objects to the flavor, chopped or grated onion should be added to the meat. Thick cream sauce or brown gravy or eggs will be needed as a binder. Fine dry bread crumbs, or cracker meal also will help to hold it together. The flavor is greatly improved by combining canned tomatoes with the meat mixture or serving in a sauce over the loaf.

For your loaf you will need 2 pounds of ground beef; 1/2 pound of ground pork; 1 onion, grated; 1 cupful of thick cream sauce or gravy, or 2 eggs; 1 cupful dry bread crumbs, or cracker meal; 1 to 2 cupfuls canned tomatoes; salt and pepper to taste; dried celery tops or other seasonings if desired. Mix all these ingredients together thoroughly. Shape the mixture into a loaf, laying a strip or two of salt pork or small pieces of suet on the top, and place it in a heavy baking pan. Cook in the oven for 1/2 to 3/4 of an hour. Have the oven hot at first but reduce the temperature toward the end. If the sauce or gravy is used as the binder for the loaf make it with 3 tablespoonsful of flour and 2 tablespoonsful of butter and 1/2 cupful of milk, or other fat, or other fat to one cupful of liquid.

Waxed floors should be swept with a soft brush or mop entirely free from oil. Oil softens wax and should never be used on it any way. About once a week a waxed floor should be given a more thorough cleaning with a cloth wrung out of warm soapy water, or moistened with turpentine or gasoline. Occasionally after cleaning, the entire floor may be given a very thin coat of wax and polished with a weighted brush or woolen cloth.

Chicken Loaf Appetizing When Served Hot or Cold

An old chicken may be simmered with seasonings until tender and then prepared in many different appetizing ways. One of the best ways to use it is to make a chicken loaf, which can be served hot or cold. The following recipe supplied by the United States Department of Agriculture requires two cupfuls of cooked chicken.

Chicken Loaf
1 cupful finely cut cooked chicken
1/2 cupful fine bread crumbs
1/2 cupful milk
1/2 cupful onion and green pepper, finely cut
1/2 cupful milk
1/2 cupful milk
Heat the milk and moisten the crumbs with it and combine with the other ingredients, adding the beaten eggs last. Place the mixture in a greased baking dish or pan and bake in a moderate oven for one hour, or until firm and brown. Turn out on a platter and serve hot or cold. Dressing, cold, garnish with sliced tomato.

Simple Cooked Dressing

If you have on hand some sour cream, you may prefer to make a cooked dressing. A good method is as follows: Beat an egg very light, and add to it quarter teaspoonful of mustard, half teaspoonful of salt, quarter teaspoonful of paprika pepper, half teaspoonful of sugar, quarter cupful of vinegar, and one cupful of sour cream. Mix well and cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. If this dressing has any tendency to separate, strain it before cooling.

PLAN OF SELLING EGGS BY WEIGHT BEST

Eggs by Dozen or Weight.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Apples, potatoes, string beans and other products handled by the green grocer or fruit stand are now usually sold by weight instead of by count or measure, but for some reason the habit of handling eggs by the dozen still persists. As every egg is different in size, there is the greatest difference in the size of eggs, even in the same box; and the most up-to-date cooks will call for a cupful of egg whites or even better, so many ounces of egg white, rather than a specific number of eggs.

CARE FOR FLOORS IMPORTANT TASK

Good-Sized Boy Can Do the Polishing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
If you have a good-sized boy in your family, enlist his help out of school hours to reconduct the floors. If they have been varnished, they should be swept with a soft brush, a mop, or a broom covered with a cotton-flannel bag, and then rubbed with a cloth or mop slightly moistened with floor oil or kerosene. The oil gradually dries out of varnish after it has been applied to wood, and unless restored by an occasional rubbing with an oiled cloth, the varnish becomes exceedingly hard and brittle. Use only enough oil to moisten the cloth or mop.

In general, says the United States Department of Agriculture, varnished floors retain their color and luster better if polished by a boy.

Good health is the first thing to look after in all children and proper food is one of the most important factors in health. Plenty of fresh air and exercise are hard to get.

The child should be started out in the morning with a nourishing, easily digested breakfast. A dish of good cooked cereal with milk or thin cream, a piece of toast or a muffin with an egg will suit him until noon. Hot milk in cold weather, cocoa occasionally, but coffee or tea never.

For luncheon when possible a hot drink or hot soup with sandwiches and a lack of appetite in the morning is the result of sleeping in poorly ventilated rooms or keeping too late hours. A child from five to twelve should sleep at least nine or ten hours. The food for growing children should be easy of digestion. The habit of many mothers is to warm the milk with a little coffee. Those who have studied the subject tell us that such a drink causes fermentation in the stomach and of course the coffee itself is a stimulant and highly injurious to a child.

Highly seasoned foods and condiments should never be given to the growing child. They unduly excite the digestive juices and upset the stomach.

Variety in the lunch basket is a help. Children like to eat the same things. Tuck in a little surprise as often as possible; all these things add to the appetite.

The child's luncheon should be planned for and put up as carefully, as a grown person's lunch. Have it as dainty and attractive as possible. The selection of a fairly good quality small task. Use plenty of cheap paper napkins and waxed paper to separate the foods and keep them dainty.

Small cups and plates of the same color, bought very cheaply, so that it adds in making the lunch easier to serve and also lighter to carry.

A dessert of fruit with any good fruit is always a good one for the children and one which they will enjoy.

Ways With Peas

Peas are among our most nutritious vegetables. Belonging to the proteins family, they take the place of meat in the diet.

Green Pea Soup—Take one quart of green peas, shuck them, and put in a quart of water (chicken is best), a small bunch of parsley—mint if you like, and a teaspoonful of salt. Cook all together and put through a sieve, then reheat. Season with butter, salt and pepper and serve hot.

Pea Souffle—Cook a pint of peas until soft, put them through a sieve, add two tablespoonfuls of butter, a pinch of salt, and a dash of pepper. Season with salt and pepper and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake twenty minutes.

Salmon and Pea Salad—Flake a can of salmon, removing the skin and bones. Take an equal amount of cooked peas and mix well with the salmon. Serve on lettuce with a boiled dressing to which a sour pickle has been added, chopped into bits.

Combination Salad—Take one cupful of peanuts cut into bits, two cupfuls of peas, one-half cupful of olives, a bit of chopped onion and mayonnaise dressing with seasoning of salt and pepper.

Peas and Peppers—Take the tops from six even-sized green peppers, remove the seeds and soak in strong brine overnight. Soak them in the liquor from a can of peas, fill the shells with one-half cupful of minced meat, one cupful of peas, one-half cupful of bread crumbs, a little onion juice, salt and pepper to taste. Bake until the peppers are tender.

When green peas are not obtainable, the split dried pea makes a satisfactory soup. Soak the peas overnight and cook them in the same water with a good-sized piece of salt pork. Cook for three or four hours, then put through a sieve or serve unstrained. An onion and a stalk of celery add to the flavor of the soup.

Creamed peas served round a steamed salmon loaf makes a fine dish. Cook the salmon loaf in a small bread pan, turn out on a hot platter and pour the peas around the loaf.

Peas with peanuts and chopped sour pickles, adding a good dressing, makes a delicious salad, well liked.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Go to it! Even an electric button won't accomplish anything unless it is pushed. When men and women have their ideas and work in common, the result is something like electric speed.

CHILDREN'S LUNCHEONS

With vacation days over the lunch problem again confronts the mother who has children who go some distance to school.

The importance of a good nourishing lunch is being better understood and appreciated.

Many a dull pupil is often undernourished and not getting the right kind of food.

Good health is the first thing to look after in all children and proper food is one of the most important factors in health. Plenty of fresh air and exercise are hard to get.

The child should be started out in the morning with a nourishing, easily digested breakfast. A dish of good cooked cereal with milk or thin cream, a piece of toast or a muffin with an egg will suit him until noon. Hot milk in cold weather, cocoa occasionally, but coffee or tea never.

For luncheon when possible a hot drink or hot soup with sandwiches and a lack of appetite in the morning is the result of sleeping in poorly ventilated rooms or keeping too late hours. A child from five to twelve should sleep at least nine or ten hours. The food for growing children should be easy of digestion. The habit of many mothers is to warm the milk with a little coffee. Those who have studied the subject tell us that such a drink causes fermentation in the stomach and of course the coffee itself is a stimulant and highly injurious to a child.

Highly seasoned foods and condiments should never be given to the growing child. They unduly excite the digestive juices and upset the stomach.

Variety in the lunch basket is a help. Children like to eat the same things. Tuck in a little surprise as often as possible; all these things add to the appetite.

The child's luncheon should be planned for and put up as carefully, as a grown person's lunch. Have it as dainty and attractive as possible. The selection of a fairly good quality small task. Use plenty of cheap paper napkins and waxed paper to separate the foods and keep them dainty.

Small cups and plates of the same color, bought very cheaply, so that it adds in making the lunch easier to serve and also lighter to carry.

A dessert of fruit with any good fruit is always a good one for the children and one which they will enjoy.

Ways With Peas

Peas are among our most nutritious vegetables. Belonging to the proteins family, they take the place of meat in the diet.

Green Pea Soup—Take one quart of green peas, shuck them, and put in a quart of water (chicken is best), a small bunch of parsley—mint if you like, and a teaspoonful of salt. Cook all together and put through a sieve, then reheat. Season with butter, salt and pepper and serve hot.

Pea Souffle—Cook a pint of peas until soft, put them through a sieve, add two tablespoonfuls of butter, a pinch of salt, and a dash of pepper. Season with salt and pepper and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake twenty minutes.

Salmon and Pea Salad—Flake a can of salmon, removing the skin and bones. Take an equal amount of cooked peas and mix well with the salmon. Serve on lettuce with a boiled dressing to which a sour pickle has been added, chopped into bits.

REALLY WORRIED

One of the youngsters who hang around the Hal Roach studio came in the other day in tears.

"What's the matter?" the comedy producer wanted to know.

"It's this way, boss. I never had a suit & hobbit in my life, except the things my old man got through with, and then they was cut down for me to wear."

"That's that, though," agreed Hal, "but if that has been going on for a long time, why start crying about it at this late date?"

"Cause the old man has just gone and shaved his face at 'now I suppose I'll have to wear those darn red whiskers of his."—Los Angeles Times.

Standards of Living Highest in America

In one or two points there is a difference between actual conditions in the average American home and the general impression concerning them. On the whole a survey substantiates what has been generally believed. Bathrooms and sanitary plumbing are everywhere. Thirty-six towns from Alaska to California have submitted to scrutiny. It is revealed that in villages, towns and cities standards of living are about equal, all being high. Americans are rightly proud of the physical comforts and conveniences put into almost every home by American mechanical ingenuity and American seamanship. It is splendid to be able to keep clean easily, to talk to a relative a thousand miles away, to prepare a guaranteed pure-food meal in 15 minutes from sanitary cans, to motor, to keep a household with an electric cleaner. But we may be missing some of the blessings of a more leisurely day, a writer in the New York Times comments. The pleasures of conversation about books, art, people or music are not catalogued. Perhaps they could not be. The subject of a scientific survey.

Long Enough
The young man's patience was nearly worn by a friend who, for nearly an hour he had stood on the corner waiting for her. Finally she came up.

"Oh, John," she began, "I'm sorry I'm late, but do you mind waiting just a minute more until I can run in the store here?"

For a moment the faithful John only looked at her.

"Why don't you really mind, do you John?" the girl asked in surprise.

"No, I suppose not," he answered. "But I've been standing on this corner so long already, people think I'm a recruiting officer."

Better Than Gas or Ether
In Chicago the other day a hypnotist put a patient to sleep in a dentist's chair and the dentist performed a long and painful operation on four teeth. The patient obeyed the instructions of the dentist, opening and closing her mouth on the proper closing. She felt no pain. Plenty of things can be done with the mind when we develop more experts who know how to use it.—Capper's Weekly.

MRS. BASSETT ALWAYS TIRED

Now in Good Health by Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lansing, Michigan—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for you know how long whenever I needed it. When I first used it I was so tired I could hardly walk across the room without crying. I was tired all the time. I think my troubles was coming on me for six months before I realized it. I read of your wonderful medicine in the paper and I bought one bottle, and after the first few doses I felt better, so kept on taking it until I was well and strong. I take it at times when I feel tired and it helps me. I will always have a good word for your medicine. I read of one woman who had done me. I recommended it to my neighbor for her. She is sixteen years old, and it was just what she needed. She is feeling fine now, and goes to school every day."—Mrs. E. J. Basset, 215 South Hayford Avenue, Lansing, Michigan.

STREET GRAVELING FINISHED
WILL MEET HIGHWAY No. 1
The Graveling of Laurel street, running north from the Herman store, has been completed and the residents of that thoroughfare will now be able to reach their homes without going into the mud up to the hubs of their vehicles, although the street is still a little soft, especially where it has been filled in.
Trucks will not be allowed on the street during wet weather as they would soon ruin it and make it as bad as it was before the gravel was placed. Signs will be placed in conspicuous places so there will be no excuse for anyone driving a truck over it and then saying they did not know they were forbidden.
All arrangements have been completed for the graveling of the streets to meet Highway District No. 1 at the northwest city limits and work will be commenced as soon as the weather will permit, after which gravel will be spread on the street running north past the news office, which will be paid for by private subscription.
After these streets have been gravelled, if the residents will be careful about putting too heavy vehicles on them while wet, they will have streets that will last a long time, but heavy traffic on light gravel will soon ruin them and they will soon be as bad as they were in the first place. Heavy vehicles can be excluded from the highways, and they can also be excluded from graveled streets, and this will be done, especially on the streets that are graveled by private subscription.

"Silver Comes Thru"
A cracking western drama of sage brush and turf will be shown Saturday night, October 2, at the Cozy theater, when Fred Thompson and his famous horse, Silver King, will be seen in "Silver Comes Thru."
Opening in a whirlwind blizzard of the range country of the West, Thompson is seen in a heroic portrayal as the rescuer of his employer and of a tiny colt which later shares honors with the star as "Silver King."
"The Quarterback"
On Sunday night the screen's speediest star, Richard Dix, will be seen in "The Quarterback," one of the best football pictures ever filmed—and there's a lot of comedy in it, too.
Imagine the kick you'll get in comparing the game of 1892 as opposed to that of 1925. The different stadiums, uniforms of the players and costumes of the spectators are all good for a laugh.
Audiences will scream on seeing Dix and Butler combine their milk deliveries with football practice, using glass containers in place of pigskins, and working out a series of signals and trick plays for the big game.

"Whispering Smith"
Romance and thrills go hand in hand in "Whispering Smith," the offering at the Cozy theater for Wednesday night, October 5.
It is a thunderbolt of mystery, thrills, spills and wrecks—the greatest railroad melodrama ever filmed.
A woman's honor was at stake—he'd crossed the continent for this and more—death followed him like a shadow.
A whirlwind of human emotions, staged in the great west where heroes fought the elements and strong men battled for the women they loved.

INHERITS MILLIONS, STAYS A HOME BODY

Wealth Doesn't Alter Life of Ina McEachran.

Detroit, Mich.—In the midst of the old-fashioned "back yard" behind the big, gray frame house at 1024 Pershing...

For nearly ten years the McEachran family lived in the house on Pershing...

There were no beads, no dances; Ina does not approve of dancing very much.

So the neighbors describe the heiress. At times she wears glasses. She is plump and does not move too briskly.

There was a brother, but he died a couple of years ago after a long illness.

The family came to Detroit from Jackson. The father, R. B. McEachran, is an employee of the D. U. H.

But she hasn't changed a bit as yet. Ina, the heiress, would not let the floor and prepared the dinner as usual.

But she hasn't changed a bit as yet. Ina, the heiress, would not let the floor and prepared the dinner as usual.

The kitten seemed to enjoy her first flight so Loveloy decided to take her along regularly.

"We haven't had to jump yet," and the kitten, "but when we do, we are going to be all set, and Birdie is going down with me."

Gambler's Card 6,000 Years Old Is Found. London.—Scraped of the mud of many centuries, a tablet dug up at Ur of the Chaldees reveals a gambler's score card at least 6,000 years old.

The tablet with other trophies taken from Ur, 140 miles southeast of Babylon, the birthplace in Mesopotamia of Abraham, is now on exhibit at the British museum where it was brought by C. Leonard Woolley, head of the expedition.

Recognized gamblers of about 4,000 B. C. were honored by a notice on their tombstones immortalizing their achievements. Tablets have been discovered which were used as card tables, and also a number of playing pieces.

Card sharks trying now to reconstruct the game as it was played by the ancients have concluded that some of the plays approximated the "red and black" of the modern roulette table.

Alternate and interesting triangles were used for the "blanches," the colors to be backed being mother of pearl and pure red made from a paste.

Sees Noiseless World. Chicago.—A noiseless world forecast by Prof. D. A. Wood of Colgate university. He says London pays $5,000,000 annually for "unnecessary noises."

TOLD ON PALS, NOW HAS ANOTHER NAME

Denver "Squealer" Said to Have Staged Comeback.

Denver, Colo.—Five years have brought a new grip on life to George E. Reamey, former confidence man, who turned state's evidence and enabled the state to send twenty of his associates to the Canyon City penitentiary.

After giving his testimony, Reamey was spirited out of Denver by Andy Koehn, investigator, and Deputy Sheriff "Doc" Edwards. He was branded the "Squealer" by his former associates and their friends, who swore vengeance.

He joined his wife, who was waiting for him 1,000 miles away, and the pair took up their life anew in a small town far from Denver. Reamey changed his name, altered his appearance, and his life began anew.

Today he is the owner of a small but flourishing hotel business, a leading member of a luncheon club, a Sunday school teacher and one of the town's leading citizens.

"Len Reamey has staged one of the greatest comebacks ever seen in the underworld," Roy O. Sampson, detective, says. Reamey ever since he left Denver. He refuses to disclose the name of the town in which Reamey and his wife are living for fear he would turn members of the gang sentenced as a result of Reamey's testimony might wreak vengeance on him as was threatened five years ago.

"If I should divulge where Reamey is living I would in that breath most likely utter his death sentence," he said. "The feeling still runs high against him among the 'gits' in the mesa he helped send to the Canyon City penitentiary as well as among the members of the gang sentenced as a result of Reamey's testimony might wreak vengeance on him as was threatened five years ago."

When Reamey sought defense money from the leaders of the confidence gang he was refused aid, Sampson says. Then Reamey's wife was offered immunity for her part in the turn state's evidence. She persuaded him to do so.

Irish Would Keep Ogham Stones. Valencia, Irish Free State.—Kerry-men are up in arms because the most ancient of their monuments, the Ogham Stones, are being removed by one to British museums.

But the Irish haven't changed a bit as yet. Ina, the heiress, would not let the floor and prepared the dinner as usual.

Training a King. Sinala, Rumania.—Michael, the boy king of Rumania, is to be reared like any ordinary American boy.

Verastile Apple Tree. Glen Cove, N. Y.—An apple tree here, subject of many grafting operations, is bearing 35 varieties of apples, according to James Holloway, in whose orchard it stands.

Halts Liner at Sea to Mail His Report. New York.—The skipper of the Nantucket shoals lightslip believes he has discovered a 700-foot ocean liner to help him out.

Before the advent of the decorative spotlights there had been plenty of places for a little quiet necking. But all that was changed.

TREASURE IS FOUND BY INDIAN'S DREAM

Ancient Pagan Temple in Mexican Wilds Revealed.

Mexico City.—A dream-guided search for treasure by the descendant of an ancient chieftain who fought against Cortez has discovered most amazingly in the eschewed of one of the most splendid temples yet known of the pagan gods of pre-Hispanic Mexico.

Dr. Eduardo Noguera, inspector of the department of archeology of the Mexican government and conducted systematic excavations there. He states that one of their number, Panilo Sanchez, is a descendant of Xicotencatl, former lord of Tlaxcala and one of the rulers of the Tlaxcala nation and a bitter adversary of Cortez.

Other Indians, believing in the vision, went with Panilo to the designated spot to dig. They came upon prehistoric ruins and in their thirst for treasure cleared away a large amount of earth in two weeks.

The temple remains are on the crest of a hill overlooking the Indian village of Tlaxcala and are under the ruins of an old Christian church believed to have been built by Cortez after the destruction of the heathen temple more than 400 years ago.

The ruins belong to the Aztec culture. Dr. Regaydas Vertiz, director of the department of archeology under the ministry of education says that the find is one of the most important of recent times because the building contains polychrome paintings considered to be real frescoes, on the walls of the temple are pictures of the Aztec gods.

True codices are found on very few Aztec ruins, Doctor Regaydas says. Most of the codices now in existence are on maguey paper, made from the leaves of a common Mexican plant, and are in European museums. Even of these but few are left, because the conquerors and the missionaries who followed them destroyed all the Aztec books.

Ogham was a manner of writing on stone and wood used by the ancient Irish. It is somewhat like some of the modern shorthand characters, consisting of straight or slanting lines, to represent the consonants, and short straight lines to represent the vowels.

A floor about eighteen feet wide and thirty-seven feet long has now been excavated, and the rectangular space was found to be perfectly ornamented with the cardinal points. On this space stand two raised stone platforms, both beautifully ornamented with brilliantly colored symbols.

Better Than Chimneys. Seattle, Wash.—An offer to buy chimneys for a large church being financed here was turned down by its pastor, who replied that he has a well-planned newspaper advertisement announcing the Sunday features, he contends, will draw more folks to church than noisy chimneys and that the drop in demand for chimneys will be a boon to the chimney makers.

Why the Big Stamps Are Not Very Popular. New York.—Retail prices of the public to expend the energy and time needed to obtain and affix a large stamp is given by post-office officials as one reason for the slow sale of the stamps.

VIOLET RAYS GOOD FOR SICK MONKEYS

Valuable Zoo Animals Are Restored to Health.

New York.—How ultraviolet radiation, used on sick humans, saved the lives of five valuable and desperately ill animals in the New York zoological park is told by Dr. Charles V. Nohack of the department of comparative medicine.

His furry patients consisted of a red howling monkey, a grivet monkey and three lemurs, which are small animals belonging to the same order as monkeys but lower in the evolutionary scale.

They are all expensive animals and their threatened death from "rage paralysis," which is a disease very similar to rickets in human beings, was regarded by the zoo authorities as a genuine calamity.

Other Indians, believing in the vision, went with Panilo to the designated spot to dig. They came upon prehistoric ruins and in their thirst for treasure cleared away a large amount of earth in two weeks.

Washington.—Fathers and mothers seem to be getting more indulgent in the matter of their children's habits and mothers themselves are consuming more candy, chewing gum and ice cream, because the production of these three children's favorites is setting new all-time records nearly every year.

The nation now produces $47,538,300 worth of chewing gum, $17,000,000 of the pre-war figure of $17,000,000, and the product still sells for a nickel a package.

How the Marshes Were Created. At the time of the Roman republic, in the fourth and fifth centuries B. C., the Pontine region seems to have been a treeless, healthful and densely populated. Then, a little before 300 B. C., near the time the Appian road was built, something happened that has not been fully understood.

Water of the Marshes Confined. The large quadrangle formed by the foothills of the Alban mountains, the Laticlavian marshes, the Tiber, and the Tyrrhenian sea, along the border of which runs a large sand dune covered by a wonderful oak forest some 20 miles in length.

At the extreme end a solitary mountain rises, to all appearances from the sea. It is Mount Circeo, the cornerstone of the Pontine marshes. This mountain was an island in bygone ages, as geologists have proved, and Homer, in his Iliad, speaks of it as the "Odyssey" as an island, though probably it was not so any longer.

The PONTINE MARSHES

View of the Appian Way.

Pompeii of the Middle Ages, as Gregorovius called it, covered with ivy and brambles. This is one of the most poetic spots of the world.

These are the inhabited places to be seen in the whole land. They are densely populated and highly productive. Twenty-three towns are supposed to have existed where now one sees not the trace of a single building.

When you leave the Eternal City on this classic road you pass at first along a wonderful array of old Roman sculptured monuments; then you climb up the Alban hills, extinct volcanoes of prehistoric times, and from there you gradually descend upon a great plain some 20 miles from Rome, known to history as the Pontine marshes.

On the left, as you travel toward Terracina, are the olive-covered Lepine mountains, of grey limestone, that at sunset are veiled by that beautiful purple haze one sees so often reproduced on the background of the sea.

The localities is also a wonderful shooting resort. There the ducks come from the sea, seeking shelter and food in that maze of ponds and canals distributed throughout the dense growth of reeds.

At the time of the Roman republic, in the fourth and fifth centuries B. C., the Pontine region seems to have been a treeless, healthful and densely populated. Then, a little before 300 B. C., near the time the Appian road was built, something happened that has not been fully understood.

The natural outlet of the waters in the depression between the whole land, the ground became water-soaked. The great Appian road, not a long time after being built, began to sink in places and had to be raised by Trajan and other Roman emperors during the eighth century. It went completely under water and the road from Rome to Naples had to be shifted to the foothills, passing near Nifita.

In winter the mountain streams pour their waters into the sea, and the lowland, flooding thousands of acres; the rich mud slowly settles, coating the fields with a silt which is an excellent fertilizer; then the waters gradually flow out through narrow channels until, in summer, only the lowest portion of the land, that which lies practically at sea-level, remains in a swampy condition.

A dense, luxuriant growth of water plants springs up with the approach of the warmer season; the stagnant, lukewarm waters teem with life of every description, and toward the month of July the treacherous Anopheles mosquito drops its filmy larval net over the marshes, and the flies and gnats in search of a living for itself, soars death upon humanity.

Many centuries ago most of the inhabitants of the mountains, built their towns on some steep hills, made from these vantage points made dashes into the plain to work the fields and tend the cattle. Such a place was ancient Cori, founded by the Trojan Dardanus, with its city walls constructed of huge polygonal blocks and with its beautifully preserved temple of Hercules.

Ancient Towns of the Hills. A little farther on rose Norma, on the very edge of a vertical cliff 600 feet high, as ancient as the city of Rome, if not more so. In olden times it was called Norma, and the cyclopean walls, formed out of huge, carefully trimmed boulders, are still a marvel to those who visit this not easily accessible place.

SERIOUS CROP DAMAGE

RESULTS FROM HEAVY RAINS

With 40 percent of a three million dollar prairie grain crop and 90 percent of a $50,000 bean acreage still standing in the rain and rapidly deteriorating and in some cases actually molding or rotting, the central Idaho region faces the heaviest weather loss in the history of the country, it was reported Monday by grain dealers, said Tuesday's Lewiston Tribune.

Unless there is an immediate letup of the heavy rains and a period of bright and drying weather, the remainder of the crop will not be worth harvesting, according to R. W. Wallace of Kerr-Gifford & Company, who visited many sections of the prairie Sunday.

Up until the rains of the last two days, farmers and grain men had been hoping for a respite from the long grain and beans, but the warm rains of Sunday and Monday have started them moulting and actual rotting in many fields, Mr. Wallace says. Fields visited in the Craigmont and Winchester sections on Sunday by Mr. Wallace showed the grain growing in the heads and shocks and moulting started.

There were some hopes of harvesting beans which were still uncut up until the rains of the last few days, but the heavy warm rains experienced Sunday and Monday were in proportion to the amount of work done. The second prize is $20.00 in gold—well worth working for in your spare time. Your friends will be glad to help you in the rain and normal drying weather.

Beans which have been cut are now thoroughly soaked and moulting on the ground and farmers have little hope of saving them. With another few days of rain the bean crop will be abandoned as far as any hopes of getting them harvested for general sale, and farmers will have to save what they can by feeding them to their stock.

There is but very little grain threshed in the Craigmont, Winchester, Mason prairie and Westlake country, according to Mr. Wallace, and very little prospect of saving some of the spring grain which has not matured yet. The nearer your name is to the larger percentage of the crop is finished, but the grain still standing in the fields is certain to be destroyed with a continuance of the rains. The loss already is very heavy from sprouting and moulting and many of the fields will be fit only for hog feed.

With a shortage of hogs on the prairie and in the entire Inland Empire country, there will be little opportunity to feed out the grain on the farms this year. Many farmers have already given up hopes of harvesting their crops and some of the grain men do not see their way possible to save any portion of the remaining wheat on the uplands, unless there comes an exceptional period of good weather.

The rains have been quite general over the district since Saturday night, in Lewiston the heaviest late Sunday night and has continued intermittently ever since, with almost a half inch recorded up to 5 o'clock on Monday evening.

Much damage has resulted in the Genesee section from the extremely heavy rains, but not so much damage some of the prairie sections. Some threshing and cutting was done Saturday and Sunday, of both wheat and oats. The oats were reported very good, but the wheat was nothing extra. However, even if it is saved for feed it will be better than losing it all.

BIG SUBSCRIPTION CONTEST

STARTED OFF WITH RUSH

That some of the young ladies of Genesee are alive to the fact that they can draw down a handsome prize in real money by taking part in the big subscription contest just started by the Genesee News, is indicated by the young ladies who have already made their intentions known by making an active start in the contest Saturday.

As stated in the big ad on the seventh page, this is not a popularity or beauty contest, but a contest to see which of the young ladies taking part will bring in the largest number of subscriptions—old and new—for which they will receive real gold—$50 for the first prize.

There is no drawing of any kind. It is merely a question of getting out and getting busy and keeping every cent of the money you bring in to the contest. There is a good field to work in. There is no restricted territory. While The News has a large percent of the people of the Genesee section already on its list, yet there are many new ones who can be added to the list. There is nothing to prevent the contestants from going to any other communities and getting new subscriptions or renewals.

Of course you will work for the first prize—and that means $50.00 in gold. But should you fall short of first prize you will get a prize in proportion to the amount of work done. The second prize is $20.00 in gold—well worth working for in your spare time. Your friends will be glad to help you in the rain and normal drying weather.

Beans which have been cut are now thoroughly soaked and moulting on the ground and farmers have little hope of saving them. With another few days of rain the bean crop will be abandoned as far as any hopes of getting them harvested for general sale, and farmers will have to save what they can by feeding them to their stock.

There is but very little grain threshed in the Craigmont, Winchester, Mason prairie and Westlake country, according to Mr. Wallace, and very little prospect of saving some of the spring grain which has not matured yet. The nearer your name is to the larger percentage of the crop is finished, but the grain still standing in the fields is certain to be destroyed with a continuance of the rains. The loss already is very heavy from sprouting and moulting and many of the fields will be fit only for hog feed.

DR. AND MRS. EHLEN HAVE SERIOUS AUTO ACCIDENT

As Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Ehlen were on their way to Uniontown Friday evening of last week after their daughter, Miss Maxine, who is teaching in that place, they met with an auto accident that was quite serious, but could easily have been much worse.

Mrs. Ehlen was driving and as they neared the junction with the Uniontown road at the Collins place, four miles south of Genesee, the sun blinded Mrs. Ehlen and she was unable to see a car approaching from the direction of Uniontown, with the result that a collision occurred in which both cars were badly damaged and Mrs. Ehlen was quite seriously injured by being thrown against the front of the car.

While Dr. Ehlen is still confined to her bed and has hardly been able to move since the accident, Dr. White was called from Lewiston in consultation with Dr. Ehlen but they were unable to tell the extent of her injuries, although it is quite certain that several ribs were torn loose, and she was otherwise severely bruised.

The occupant of the other car, Fred Straw, of Lewiston, was not injured.

MARION MAYER HELD UP

AND SHOT AT LEWISTON

M. M. Mayer, night attendant at the Continental Oil company service station at Main and Eighteenth street, was shot through the right thigh and robbed of $83, the afternoon and evening receipts at the station, Monday evening at 11 o'clock as he was closing the place, by an unknown assailant who disappeared on foot down Eighteenth street leaving the wounded man at the station.

As Mr. Mayer was leaving the station he was accosted by the man, who stepped from behind a car and ordered him to "put 'em up" Mr. Mayer did not at once realize he was being held up and he said, "What?" In an instant he heard the shot and felt the bullet in his thigh, the man shouting threateningly at the station.

"Where is the money?" the robber demanded of Mayer, and started to lead him toward the station. Mayer said at first he thought he would tell him it was locked in the station, but realizing he had been shot and the injury and immediately took him to St. Joseph's hospital. At about the same time Motorcycle Officer Beck came by and was notified of the robbery and shooting. Chief of Police E. Gasser and Police Officer Harry Dent, day service men, were notified and all searched the vicinity for the robber.

According to Mayer, his assailant was a young man, judged to be around 23 years of age, wearing leather puttees and had on a dark short coat. He said he felt he could identify the man if he ever saw him.

Mr. Mayer's injury is not serious and he was reported to be resting easy an hour following the shooting. Mayer resides at 418 Seventeenth street—Lewiston Tribune.

Mr. Mayer is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Mayer, Genesee and is well and favorably known here and his many friends will hope that no lasting results will be felt from his injury.

At last reports he was getting along nicely.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

OF MUCH INTEREST

The contest between the two divisions of the high school for the sale of season athletic tickets was won by the sophomores and seniors. The losers, the Juniors and the freshmen, will give a program to the winners.

The school is again sponsoring the sale of the Curtis Publishing Company's products. These magazines are good clean documents and contain wholesome reading. We are allowed to keep a certain percent of the money taken in.

On Friday afternoon of this week the football boys will have their first contest of this year. Lapwai comes here on that date. Last year Lapwai refused to play Genesee. They feel that they can win this year, so they have consented to play. The boys here feel as equally confident, so a good game can be expected.

Miss Wolf has several plays under advisement. The first all-high school play will probably be given sometime near Thanksgiving time.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
We are anxiously awaiting the arrival of our new song books. Word has been received that they should be here the last of the week.

We have completed our free hand drawing and are planning on starting our composition booklets this week. They will be of uniform size and color. The cover design will be original and we hope to make them very attractive.

Up to the present time the seventh grade have had perfect attendance. They are working hard for their holiday.

We are still taking great interest in our arithmetic charts in which we record our daily grades and weekly averages. At present Floyd Heppner has the highest average in the seventh grade and George Blume in the eighth grade.

Fifth and Sixth Grades
Eva Jones was absent Monday morning but was with us again Monday afternoon.

George Dean has returned to school and has been absent a few weeks. Mrs. Arthur Springer was our first visitor. We hope we will have more as we enjoy it.

The "Mohawks" and "Automobiles" were winners in the spelling race last week.

Third and Fourth Grades
Paul Omundson and Emma Lou Vanouck were absent last week. We have another new pupil in our third grade.

Health chore cards were taken home by the pupils. We are working for Knight pins.

We have learned the poem, "Autumn Fires" in the fourth grade. Our third grade are learning "How the Leaves Come Down".

Mrs. Arthur Springer visited our room. Visitors are always welcome and we hope to see more.

Second Grade
Lucile Rogers and Anna Lund were absent from school on Monday.

The second grade have been cutting out pictures for a Nature Study chart which they have named "Mother Nature's Children." We have been studying especially those of Mother Nature's children which help us most. The following pupils have a perfect attendance record for the first month of school: John Dean, Elbert Hollingsworth, Donald Gordon, Everett Smith, Rita Loncosty, Adeline Herman, Bernice Mervyn, Bayne Hickman, Cicely Rogers, Richard Sampson, Charlotte Foster, Floyd Rader, Francis Dresher.

First Grade
The first grade welcomed a new pupil, Lester Miller, to their room this week. Richard Lund and Robert Meyer were both absent a day on account of illness, this week.

After having completed our study of vegetables, we are making a vegetable village, with little onions, cucumbers, carrots, beets, potatoes and turnips in inhabiting the village. The pumpkin houses are connected by paths lined with watermelon, squash and pumpkin seeds. The names of the vegetables are learned, for silent reading, from cards attached to each little man.

We are very interested in the work of Jack Frost and his helpers who are painting the autumn leaves. We are making a detailed study of the common leaves, as to names, shapes and colors.

SERIOUS CROP DAMAGE

RESULTS FROM HEAVY RAINS

With 40 percent of a three million dollar prairie grain crop and 90 percent of a $50,000 bean acreage still standing in the rain and rapidly deteriorating and in some cases actually molding or rotting, the central Idaho region faces the heaviest weather loss in the history of the country, it was reported Monday by grain dealers, said Tuesday's Lewiston Tribune.

Unless there is an immediate letup of the heavy rains and a period of bright and drying weather, the remainder of the crop will not be worth harvesting, according to R. W. Wallace of Kerr-Gifford & Company, who visited many sections of the prairie Sunday.

Up until the rains of the last two days, farmers and grain men had been hoping for a respite from the long grain and beans, but the warm rains of Sunday and Monday have started them moulting and actual rotting in many fields, Mr. Wallace says. Fields visited in the Craigmont and Winchester sections on Sunday by Mr. Wallace showed the grain growing in the heads and shocks and moulting started.

There were some hopes of harvesting beans which were still uncut up until the rains of the last few days, but the heavy warm rains experienced Sunday and Monday were in proportion to the amount of work done. The second prize is $20.00 in gold—well worth working for in your spare time. Your friends will be glad to help you in the rain and normal drying weather.

Beans which have been cut are now thoroughly soaked and moulting on the ground and farmers have little hope of saving them. With another few days of rain the bean crop will be abandoned as far as any hopes of getting them harvested for general sale, and farmers will have to save what they can by feeding them to their stock.

There is but very little grain threshed in the Craigmont, Winchester, Mason prairie and Westlake country, according to Mr. Wallace, and very little prospect of saving some of the spring grain which has not matured yet. The nearer your name is to the larger percentage of the crop is finished, but the grain still standing in the fields is certain to be destroyed with a continuance of the rains. The loss already is very heavy from sprouting and moulting and many of the fields will be fit only for hog feed.

With a shortage of hogs on the prairie and in the entire Inland Empire country, there will be little opportunity to feed out the grain on the farms this year. Many farmers have already given up hopes of harvesting their crops and some of the grain men do not see their way possible to save any portion of the remaining wheat on the uplands, unless there comes an exceptional period of good weather.

News Notes
It's a Privilege to Live in
IDAHO

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—In an effort to prevent the importation of an insect known as the alfalfa weevil, Governor Len Small has ordered an embargo against importation of alfalfa and hay of all kinds stored in Utah, Idaho, Colorado, Nevada, Oregon and Wyoming.

BOISE—Bids for the surfacing of 6.2 miles of the Grace-Freston highway and three and a half miles of the Bancroft-Central branch of the Old Oregon trail highway will be received at Potomac on September 24, the Oregon highways announced. The surfacing with 10,000 yards of crushed gravel will extend from Grace to Bancroft and Central. Work is to be completed November 25. The cost is estimated at $20,000.

ROOSEVELT—Citizens of Duchesne City, thirty-three miles west of here, are protesting the construction of a dam on the junction point of the Strawberry, Duchesne and Indian Creek streams, have been warned to be ready to see immediately to the surrounding area. The Strawberry dam was reported to be crumbling on one side under the tremendous pressure of water from recent heavy storms.

MALAD—Ray J. Smith, county agricultural agent, received a carload of Karmont registered seed wheat Monday along with Turkey Red wheat, all under the same conditions, and the county agent says that the Karmont wheat outyielded the Turkey Red as much as twelve bushels to the acre. The seed of the plots was and entirely free from smut.

ODDEN—Utah and the states of the Pacific northwest are in the favored district for prospecting in agriculture and livestock during 1927, according to W. F. Callender chief of the division of crop and livestock estimates in the United States department of agriculture, who arrived in Salt Lake Thursday afternoon to visit Frank Andrews, crop statistician, and George A. Scott, livestock statistician for the department in Utah and Nevada.

BLACKFOOT—Idaho will ship 6000 cars of apples this season, a letter issued by the J. C. Sewell Produce company reviewing the crop and market outlook, reveals. It is estimated that shipments from southwestern Idaho will total 4500 cars. The letter says Idaho is now maturing the greatest crop in her history, and that the apple will produce no less than 35,000 cars of the finest perishable products ever grown on earth.

SALT LAKE—Strong demand for Utah and Idaho dairy cows has been causing increased shipments to southern California for several months. Joseph H. Mandersfield, general manager of the Salt Lake Dairy Co., said today Thursday that fifty-two carloads of dairy stock had been shipped during August. With the exception of a few cars from Wisconsin and other states, all of the cows were from Utah and Idaho ranches.

NAMPA—Immediate tariff, sufficient to protect onion growers, is sought by the Nampa chamber of commerce in a telegram sent to Senator Frank R. Gooding. Although there is a large 'error of omission' in this section this year, the bottom seems to have fallen out of the market and dealers report that it is due to the large importations to this county. In an attempt to help the growers, the commerce body sent a telegram to Senator Gooding following a meeting of the board of directors.

ROOSEVELT—Traffic in the Utah basin is again moving slowly. Mail from Pricie is coming in one day less on the Nine-Mile creek route, and temporary bridges over the Strawberry and Current creek streams are allowing an outlet to traffic through the Strawberry valley, although the road has been badly washed and cut by the violent storms which lashed nearly a week.

TWIN FALLS—Aspirations of many years' standing were realized Thursday noon of last week when the last link in the direct motor route between Twin Falls and Jerome was welded as the new Twin Falls Jerome highway bridge was opened to traffic. During the first ten hours 250 cars carrying nearly 200 persons crossed the structure. The majority were on their way to the county fair at Jerome.

VERNAL—Drive against pariahs dogs in Utah county has resulted in the treatment of 93,500 acres of land with poison grain for bait, according to the September issue of "The Pied Piper" published by the United States biological survey, released Tuesday. The article states that approximately 200 farmers participated in the work, 2000 pounds of bait being distributed. About 248,000 acres of federal lands have been treated so far this year will probably close next Thursday, according to the report.

BURLEY—Thirteen is not unlucky. At least Casita county's thirteenth annual fair was a success. Tuesday, the thirteenth of the month, the gates were opened for exhibits and the force of clerks was swamped with entries while old man had luck tried to drown enthusiasm with heavy showers.

BRITISH ROYALTY IS SAFE FROM ASSASSINS
Own Acts, Though, Often Invite Violence.

London.—The British royal family, generally acknowledged to be the only members of European royalty practically immune from the danger of attempted assassination, nevertheless, by their own acts, frequently court violent death.

The simple act of inviting any member of foreign royalty to Britain increases manifestly the chances of tragedy to British royalty.

The foreign visitor is accorded a royal welcome with its accompanying drive in an open carriage through the crowded streets of London. The danger is always there of a foreign fanatic, nursing a supposed grievance against the royal visitor, being a member of the cheering crowd.

This apparent danger to the reigning house of Britain on the occasion of state visits was impressed sharply on the public mind during the visit of King Fuad of Egypt. The troops and police escorting King Fuad, King George, the prince of Wales, and the duke of York from Victoria station to the royal residence were started to hear two loud reports resembling revolver shots from a section of the crowd lining the route.

Surrounding the crowd, they arrested a youth who had discharged a toy revolver. A trivial incident, happily, but it might easily have been serious.

Fearful Egyptian anarchists also disturbed the visit Scotland Yard was further disturbed when it was reported from Paris that an Egyptian extremist had escaped the vigilance of British police and was heading for England for the alleged purpose of wreaking his vengeance on King Fuad.

King Alfonso of Spain is a frequent visitor to London. The numerous attempts to assassinate him are legend. The special branch of Scotland Yard is taxed to the utmost whenever the king is to visit to his royal court in King George.

Scotland Yard, entrusted with the safety of royalty, is perhaps the most efficient organization in the world and it has accomplished wonders in preventing attempts to get at royal visitors, but there is always the danger of a slip.

British royalty fears nothing from its own public. It has long been the admiration of the public, and foreign visitors have been averted by the magnificent organization in the world and it has accomplished wonders in preventing attempts to get at royal visitors, but there is always the danger of a slip.

High and low members of the exclusive Jockey club, race track tout, gamblers and thugs—all combine to give them a royal welcome should they recognize a royal visitor among the members of the club. The British royal family mingle with the people. Especially is this illustrated on the race track. King George and the prince of Wales are to be seen from their escort and refuse to join fray with the throngs playing their particular pony.

It will be recalled that only last year an American visitor shook hands with King George and the royal family. It was a favorite trick of King Edward's—and incidentally the despair of his escort—for him to durt away unseen and mingle with the gossamer on Epsom Downs during Derby race week.

Foreign monarchs sitting on tottering thrones view with envy this—in their eyes—remarkable freedom. If and when they are deposed they have no hesitation in making for the hospitable shores of Britain to renew the threads of their broken life under less propitious conditions, but with a great deal more safety.

British royalty are experiencing an exceptionally busy time this year welcoming foreign rulers to Britain. President Doumergue of France, the king of Spain and King Fuad of Egypt, have already come and departed. The president of Liberia has just arrived, while King Boris of Bulgaria, contemplates a visit in the near future.

HOME OF ADAMS TO BE MADE SHRINE

Historic Structure Is to Be Opened to Public.

Quincy, Mass.—America is soon to have another national shrine, the historic old Adams home with its wide grounds, old trees and old fashioned garden, beloved of two presidents of the United States and their distinguished descendants.

Although the old home is to remain in the ownership of the Adams family, as it has since the very early days of the republic, the grandchildren of Charles Francis Adams have decided to give up the house to the public and it will be opened soon as a national shrine.

Tradition has it that Abigail Adams sat down on the horse block before the house and cried when she saw that the house was not large enough for the new furniture she had bought in France. That was why John Adams, the second President of the United States, added some rooms to the original structure, built in 1722 by Leonard Vassall, a San Domingo planter.

Vassall was a Loyalist and he fled the country at the time of the Revolution. The new American government bought the house and John Adams in turn bought it from the government.

Five generations of the Adams family were rocked in the cradle that is still in the house. In the wing chair that stands in the study, upstairs the President died a year after his son, John Quincy Adams, had been inaugurated President.

In the stone library which Charles Francis Adams built in the garden in 1872, he sat at his desk at which John Quincy Adams died in the house of representatives in Washington.

In addition to the furniture brought from France, Abigail Adams, in 1774, bought a Dolly Madison's that came from the White House. There is the old sofa on which President John Adams sat at 90 to be painted by Stuart.

There is a bed that was obtained from Daniel Webster for a bad debt. This is in the middle room in which Lafayette once slept.

The house always has been lived in and the passing years have seen each generation of the noted American family add to its heritage.

TELEVISION TOO SLOW YET TO BE PRACTICAL

But Short Step Now Towards Seeing by Radio

New York.—Forty thousand electric impulses a second, riding wireless waves which travel 185,000 miles a second—that is radio television today, and still it is not fast enough to be practical.

Now that the transatlantic beam radio transmitter and television have been accomplished, laymen may regard it as a short step to the time when scenes and speeches from a Geneva peace conference can be carried into their homes.

But the scientists and engineers who are interested with the task of bringing about something of that sort are doubtful. They point out a multitude of obstacles, and say that general use of television, especially for live broadcasting, will require a great deal of time.

Yet while they doubt they are industriously attempting to remove the obstacles of television for such practical organizations as the Radio Corporation of America and the American Bell Telephone company.

In actual use, beam transmission for messages and photographs is not only practical; it is in actual use for messages from London to Cape Town, Canada and Australia. This autumn the Radio Corporation will put a beam line into operation between London and New York, in addition to its "undirected" broadcasting lines.

But the beam, which takes only about one-fourth as much power as generally radiated broadcasting, is not the slim pencil of energy visualized by amateur prophets. It is rather a cone, which spreads out as it travels 500 miles across the Atlantic that nobody really knows how broad it is at the base.

The power picked up at the end of the line is too weak to overcome interference sufficiently for flawless work in the delicate task of transmitting scenes of persons and things in motion—but that is probably one of the minor obstacles which will be dissolved with time. Increased speed of transmission may prove to be the real solution of the problem.

The Radio Corporation has machines which can send and receive 250 words per minute, about eight times as many as the human operator is capable of sending. The waves that travel with the speed of light. This speed of transmission gives security to messages.

But television requires a speed that makes 250 words a minute seem nothing at all. Using a transmitter that would fill a fair sized room—and size of equipment that is not yet in the stages to commercial television at present—the best available apparatus of the Bell Telephone laboratories manages to transmit over wires or cables a picture about three inches square. Engineers consider this far too small a space to portray a king's coronation or a football game.

The three-inch picture consists of 2,600 dots of light and darkness, flashed on the screen separately, but so fast that the eye sees only one continuous picture. To get motion into the picture, at least sixteen slightly different scenes must be flashed on the screen each second, each representing a fraction of a second of actual electrical impulse. The dots have been enlarged to a maximum that gives a blurred picture two feet square, but it lacks clarity with amplification.

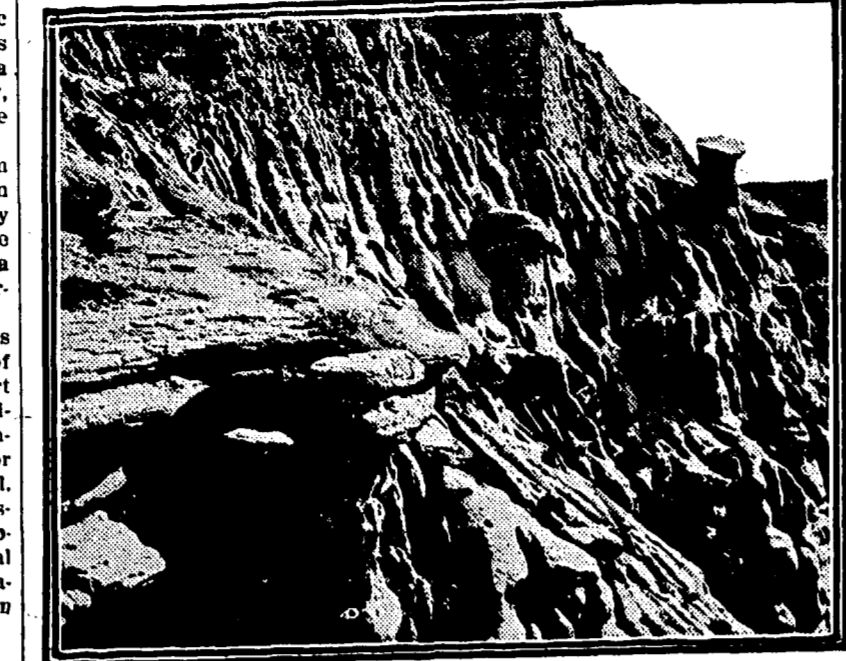

To transmit these "dot" impulses, energy for synchronization of machines and for conversion, requires factories that would carry four to six telephone conversations. Enlargements would be possible by dividing a scene, for instance, into quarter sections and transmitting each on a separate picture and then recombining them as a single view. But this would require four transmitters and four receivers.

Some of the difficulties that the prospective hunter might merely to write: "I, the undersigned, ask for a hunting license," etc.

A Frenchman doesn't have to depend on an official's "kindness" for a hunting license, comment some critics, and he doesn't have to show any "great respect," but merely conventional, decent politeness.

ALBERTA'S FOSSILS

Slope in Alberta Where Erosion Has Exposed Ancient Skeletons.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.) EXPOSED the days of our jungle for bears the quest of big game has appealed to man, his appreciation of the sport being measured chiefly by the size of the game and the difficulty of obtaining it.

Today we must go to Africa for the biggest game; but there was a time in the dim, distant past when America produced animals larger than any now living. That was so long ago that nothing remains of these creatures except their bones, and they are turned to stone.

The animals are dinosaurs; for the moment we will call them lizards—and the northern part of the United States enjoyed a climate similar to that of Florida, for fig trees and palm leaves are often found in these same rocks. Numerous coal veins and petroleum wells bespeak the tropical abundance of the vegetation.

Along the Red Deer river, in places the canyon walls are nearly perpendicular, and the river winds its narrow valley two to five hundred feet below the prairie, touching one side, then crossing to the other, so that it is impossible to follow up or down its course any great distance, even on horseback.

For many years the American Museum of Natural History of New York city made a systematic collection of fossils along this river, sending an expedition there every summer, and each succeeding expedition returned with notable results. As the only feasible way to work these banks is from a narrow path, the parties proceeding to the town of Red Deer, where the Calgary-Edmonton railroad crosses the river.

There, with the aid of several carpenters, a flatbed, 12 by 30 feet, was constructed, similar to a Western ferryboat. Supplied with a season's provisions, lumber for boxes, and plaster for casting bones, the fossil cruises started down the canyon.

At intervals the party tied up the boat and went ashore to search the banks, that fossils might not be overlooked. No large fossils were found in rocks of the Paskapoo age, but as soon as the Edmonton rocks appeared in the banks large bones of dinosaurs became numerous, and in the picturesque exposures at the mouth of Big Valley they were especially abundant.

At the foot of a little hill scattered fragments of bone and the scattered, scarred hillside other fragments appear, as we trace them up the waterways. Finally, ten, twenty, or thirty feet above, other pieces protrude from the bank, and this is our level. Continuously the explorer follows in from the exposed surface, uncovering the bone with crooked awl, and whitestones, careful not to disturb the bone itself; for, although stone, it is usually checked and fractured in many places by former disturbance of its bed or crystallizing of mineral salts, and is rarely strong enough to permit removal.

When the bones are uncovered and brushed clean they are saturated with shellac till all small pieces adhere to each other; then the dirt is taken away from the sides, more shellac applied, and finally each bone stands on a little pedestal of shellac.

If the specimen is a skeleton it is next determined where the bones may be separated or broken to cause least damage, and each part is covered first with tissue paper, and then with two or three layers of master-of-Paris bandages—strips of burlap dipped in plaster. When this is set and thoroughly hard, the block is undermined and turned over and bandages are applied to the lower surface to form a complete plaster jacket.

Charming Frock A charming, easy-to-wear evening frock comes in black and white. Stockings with a darker tone heel have been most fashionable for street wear, but now a white sports shoe of silk, with heels of red, blue, green or black, to match the trimmings on the white sports shoes, are being sold for summer wear at country clubs and resorts.

Fashionable Belts Belts, ranging from half-inch style to wide bandings of six or even eight inches, have an increasing vogue. Tiedowns are that belts will be useful.

Goos Bankrupt Trying to Make French Bath

Paris.—The scarcity of bathtubs in most of France is often the subject of jokes, but sarcastic critics have a hard time to get substance to their humor.

In the town of Bedarieux, near the southern coast, there are 7,000 people and only two bathtubs. A forward-looking gentleman transformed a villa into a public bathhouse, in a spirit of civic pride, relying upon promises of a good subscription list. He set out to get the wealthy to buy season tickets, good for a bath a week. He finally got 30 to agree to take a bath a month for a year.

After the first few weeks, according to reports of the enterprise, the subscribers reverted to primitive ideas of hygiene and demanded part of their tickets to be taken up.

"A bath a month is too often; once every three months is enough," they are quoted as saying.

The bathhouse finally closed its doors, unable to make a go of the bathing business, although there was no competition.

French Politeness Includes Officials Paris.—Just how polite one ought to be is debated, even in France. A new discussion has been aroused by the ubiquitous tone of a form that hunters must sign if they wish a license in the deer department in central France.

"M. le prefect: I have the honor to solicit, through your kindness," etc., runs the preamble of the form. It concludes: "And I ask you to accept the expression of my great respect."

A Frenchman doesn't have to depend on an official's "kindness" for a hunting license, comment some critics, and he doesn't have to show any "great respect," but merely conventional, decent politeness.

Ten "Health" Rules In an exchange was found the following ten health rules, as promulgated by the dean of women of the University of Illinois: "Eat less, chew more; worry less, work more; clothe less, bathe more; lie less, play more; talk less, think more; go less, sleep more; waste less, give more; scold less, laugh more; preach less, practice more."

They all seem reasonable with the exception of the third "commandment," which says "clothe less"—and, so many of the schools and colleges have been advising and making it compulsory, in some instances, that girls wear more clothes. For the lu'va mud, what's the woman thinking about! Some men are so busy beginning things that they have no time to finish anything.

Cupid Sloughing on Job According to word from the county recorder's office at Moscow, little Dan Cupid has been playing "hooky" or something of the sort as only twelve marriage licenses were issued during the month of September. A little judicious advertising on the part of the recorder might help business some.

County Commissioners Will Meet The regular quarterly session of the board of county commissioners will meet on Monday, October 10, to take up the business of the county.

Pine Grove News Chas. Spurbek is building a hog shed. Roy Sweet went to Felton's mill after a load of lumber last Saturday. The Community club are planning on a Halloween social. More about it later. Mr. and Mrs. Leon Baker are the proud parents of a baby girl, born October 2. Everyone is anxious for the weather to settle so they can proceed with farm work. R. F. Lambert, who has been having an attack of rheumatism, is somewhat improved.

Our idea of a modest man is one who can keep his opinion of himself to himself. In all cases where votes are issued, money must accompany the entry. The full amount of money must be sent by mail or brought to contest headquarters before votes are issued—thus playing no favorites. No contestant will be guaranteed a certain prize for a consideration of so many subscriptions or money—prizes must be won in accordance with conditions.

A Planter, All Right Fred—I understand your father is a Southern planter. Ned—Well, er, yes, in a way, he is. You see he's in the undertaking business down in Alabama. A patent medicine testimonial occasionally thrusts greatness upon a small man.

Camel Climbing to new heights of popularity Government figures show that more Camels are being smoked today than ever before. One after another Camels passed them all. If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobacco.

You need never change your oil if you own a Buick

Tests by Buick at General Motors Proving Ground and by Buick owners in every section of the world—under every climatic condition—have proved that you need never change your oil if you own a Buick. Replenishments and inspection of the Buick oil-filter only are required. This is still another Buick contribution to the economy and efficiency of motor car operation... another indication of Buick's greater value.

AMERICAN LEGION DISTRICT CONVENTION BE HELD HERE

The local Post of the American Legion will be a busy place for the rest of this month, for on Saturday, October 29, the district convention of the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary, will convene at Genesee for an all-day session.

This will be quite an affair as it takes in all the Posts from as far south as Grangeville and as far north as Potlatch and Elk River. We will probably entertain about 150 visitors and delegates.

This is the first convention we had here and it is up to us to do it right, as the other towns in the district have made a big thing of it when it met with them.

The tentative program calls for a business session, morning and afternoon; and a big banquet will be held in the evening, in the K. of P. hall, at which Genesee will be hosts to the visitors. We will have good speakers at the banquet. Then a big dance will be held later in the evening, to which we want everyone to come and help us show our visitors a good time. More and fuller particulars will be given later.

The Legion has secured the services of Thomas Elmore Lucey for Thursday, October 27, for an afternoon and evening entertainment, which promises to be the best of its kind ever given here. Mr. Lucey is a high-priced man and we were very fortunate in securing him. He is called "the man with forty faces," making quick changes on the stage. He also gives humorous dialogues and songs. Mr. Lucey has recently toured the west, giving his entertainments and he traveled through Europe with General Pershing.

He is a well-known author, his best known book being "Sammy, His Book," which was one of the best-selling books written during the war. He also entertained a million soldiers here and in France during the war, so there are many of the ex-service men who have already heard him, or have read his book.

Our object in giving this entertainment is to help defray the expenses of the convention, without calling on the business men and public for help, directly, as has been done in other towns. So by attending this entertainment you will help us show our neighboring towns that we are on the map, and you will also enjoy a good entertainment. It has many money-back guarantees—if you are not satisfied, Committee.

NEW GAME PRESERVE IS CREATED EAST OF TOWN

On petition to the Idaho state game and fish department at Boise, a game preserve has been created in the little Potlatch district, east of Pine Grove, and Deputy Game Warden E. C. Collins came over and posted the necessary warning signs. This is the second preserve within the borders of Latah county, the other being in the Paradise hill section, near Moscow. The Palouse river district of Latah county has been closed on all pheasants for some time and will remain closed. The boundaries of the newly-created preserve will be found in another part of the paper and it might be a good idea for the hunters to look them up before venturing into this section of the country.

An opinion has also been secured from the prosecuting attorney regarding the new trespass law, which should be read and heeded by all hunters. The opinion follows:

"Under the new law cultivated land which is enclosed by any kind of fence and upon which the owner or tenant or employee resides need not be posted and the hunter who goes upon such premises without first obtaining permission is subject to a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $500 or imprisonment for not more than six months or both, at the discretion of the court. Land is considered to be cultivated if 50 per cent of the area enclosed is used for cultivated or crop purposes or is artificially irrigated pastures.

"This means that hunting in stubble fields without the owner's permission is thing of the past and any hunters are also forbidden to shoot from or across a highway a great deal of care must be exercised. Permission need not be secured to hunt on unposted or timber land or pasture lands, but such land is part of a farm or upon which the land is cultivated, permission to hunt must be obtained. Hunters should be, therefore, careful about hunting in small canyons or breaks."

GERALDINE BUMPASS WINS EXTRA CONTEST VOTES

The News' subscription contest is now well into the second week and the girls are working hard for the head prize—$500.00 in gold—and that they are fully alive to the situation is demonstrated by their activity in securing new subscribers and renewals. They are only fairly started on the list of old subscribers and the territory has many new names that may be gotten for the asking. If you cannot get to the contest, you may still have your friends help you. They will be glad to help you win the first prize. You have the privilege of having as many helpers as you can get. The main thing is to get the new and old subscribers and bring them to the News office and get credit for them.

This week we gave 5,000 extra votes for the most new subscriptions brought to the office by any one of the contestants. This was captured by Geraldine Bumpass. Not only did she bring in the most new ones this week, but the most renewals and she is to be congratulated upon her energy.

For next week, we are going to give 10,000 extra votes to the contestant who brings in the most new subscribers and 5,000 to the one who brings in the most renewals. We will count all and help to swell the total number of votes—and it is going to take votes to get that $500.00 in gold, and it also is going to take votes to get the second prize of $200.00 in gold. You know, many pretty things are being bought for $200.00, and also many many pretty things may be bought for $200.00—or even one of the lesser prizes.

While the number of contestants is short of what is expected, yet it will give those in the contest a better opportunity to show their string of votes. Have your friends help you get new names—they are the ones that count the most. It is easy to do and the new ones count 3,000 as against 2,000 for a renewal. Get helpers—that is the way to win out.

Our other two contests were a decided success and we do not expect this one to fall short of their record—and we know the contestants will not want it said that they did not do as well as the others.

Get up on your toes and stay there! Following is the standing of the contestants:

Florence Rader 61,000
Geraldine Bumpass 54,500
Marguerite Rosenau 45,000
Mary Mulalley 33,000

While Florence Rader is in the lead, Geraldine Bumpass is a close second—and right here is where the fun begins. It is anybody's race until the evening of the last day—at 6 o'clock.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

The Curtis Publishing Company's contest has closed. This side known as the "Greens" won this contest by a few subscriptions. The high school will receive an incomplete for their six weeks grade. To make this up will require an extra amount of effort on the part of those absent.

The high school gymnasium has been lately completed. New lockers have been installed and the movement of showers put in last year the school now has a comfortable place to put on the athletic contests. The remodeling of the stage will make the building warmer and at the same time insure a modern place to stage plays.

Athletics

The football team came out of the Lapwai contest without any serious injuries. The team needs practice on fast charging and defense against passes. Four first string men did not report for Monday practice. Irregular turnouts handicap a team's chances to win a great deal.

Our next game is with Troy this (Friday) afternoon on the home field. Troy defeated Palouse 36-6 Saturday, which means a real test for our boys Friday afternoon.

Seventh and Eighth Grades

The seventh grade have been having an interesting study of food. They are at present preparing food charts as a review of their previous work. We have started our collection of wood samples and before the end of the term we expect to make an interesting exhibit of them.

According to our grade charts Floyd Heppner is still in the lead in arithmetic in the seventh grade and Michael Dwyer in the eighth grade.

The seventh grade are beginning the study of Europe. They have been making maps and mounting them.

The pupils of the seventh grade are eagerly looking forward to a holiday vacation Friday afternoon. Their attendance record has been perfect up to the present time.

GRAIN MARKET FIRM — WHEAT IN GOOD DEMAND

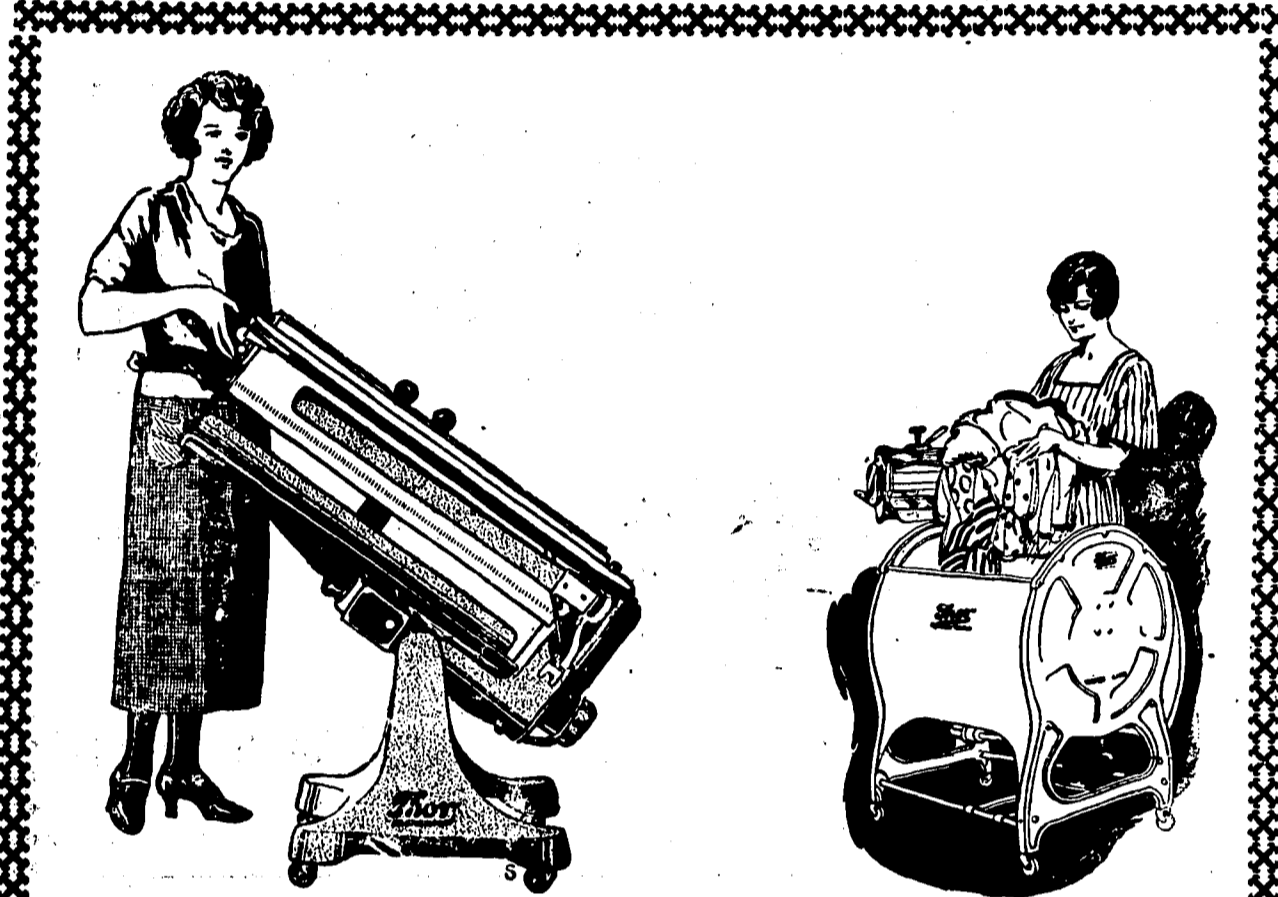

The grain market ruled generally firm during the week ending October 8 with milling wheat in good demand and the limited offerings of corn being readily absorbed at steady prices, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States bureau of agricultural economics. Higher foreign markets, as a result of delayed marketing in Canada and considerable uncertainty as to the quality of the crop both in that country and in Europe, were strengthening factors in the wheat market. The rye market held firm, influenced by an active export inquiry, particularly from Germany. Markets for other grains were practically unchanged.

Rains and snow in Canada have delayed the start of the new crop wheat. Only about one-third as much wheat was received at country points during September as for the same period last year and receipts at Fort William and Port Arthur were only a little over one-third as much as last year. Stocks on the markets are also only about half as large as at this time a year ago. More favorable weather in the southern hemisphere improved wheat prospects in the Argentine and Australia but the uncertainty of the crop both in that country and in Europe, were strengthening factors in the wheat market. The rye market held firm, influenced by an active export inquiry, particularly from Germany. Markets for other grains were practically unchanged.

An active demand for good milling wheat was an additional strengthening factor in the domestic markets. Export demand was rather dull as exporters were said to be awaiting a larger movement of Canadian spring wheat. American exports during September, however, were about three million bushels larger than last year and the bulk of these exports were of United States wheat. Exporters were bidding around $1.40 to $1.41 for No. 1 hard winter wheat, delivered Texas Gulf ports and at Berlin and $1.17 1/2 per bushel.

There was practically no hard winter wheat selling at Kansas City at 11c to 14c over the December price which at the close of the market on October 7 was quoted at $1.25 1/2. 13 per cent protein was bringing about 6c over these quotations.

The scarcity of good soft red winter wheat caused an advance of about 5c in prices of No. 2 red winter in St. Louis. Other soft winter wheat markets were also quite firm but the price advances were less marked. The price of soft winter wheat markets were also quite firm but the price advances were less marked. The price of soft winter wheat markets were also quite firm but the price advances were less marked.

GENESEE SHUTS LAPWAI OUT

Genesee high school, defeated only by the state champion Lewiston team in 1926, opened the football season Friday with a crushing 62-0 defeat of the Lapwai eleven, says Les Robinson in the Lewiston Tribune, who had his hope put upon when he said Genesee has a weak team.

Five players who comprised the 1926 eleven, are with the Farmers again this year and with a husky group of second team men and some good new material, the team promises to be almost as formidable as the 1926 eleven, especially if Friday's performance is a true indication of the team's power.

Scoring easy to the Farmers with a varied attack, combining power plays and a few open formations. Cameron, the fiery quarterback, is again directing the play and doing a lot of the ball lugging. Young Kleweno, a sub-half-back last year, is making a good back and new leads are filling out the backfield in good shape.

The two giant tackles from last year, Flomer and Mulalley, and the regular center, Ebel, form the basis of a line that is almost as husky as a few that have split from too fast growth and some that have hollow centers, but on the whole, the crop is said to be fine and the yield very satisfactory.

ARE DIGGING POTATOES

Growers have started digging potatoes and some of them are being turned in to the new warehouse, but as yet most of them are hardly dry enough for storage. The new warehouse is completed and in readiness for the receipt of tubers and Mr. Payne, the manager, is on the job all the time.

Another week of good weather will start them coming in in good shape and it is expected that it will not be long until many thousands of sacks will be housed in the new house, which has a capacity of 40,000 sacks.

So far as learned the yield is good and the quality is splendid, outside of a few that have split from too fast growth and some that have hollow centers, but on the whole, the crop is said to be fine and the yield very satisfactory.

DEATH OF KNUTE HOSEID

Knute Hoseid, well known farmer residing seven miles east of Moscow, died Saturday morning at the family home.

Mr. Hoseid was born in Norway, December 17, 1881. Eighteen years ago he came to Moscow and located on a farm east of town. October 24, 1917, he was married to Miss Agnes Danielson of Moscow. His widow and four children, Oscar, Kenneth, Anna Marie and Helen, ages 9 to 3 years survive.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at 10 o'clock from the Genesee Valley Lutheran church. Rev. E. M. Hegge of Moscow, pastor of Our Savior's Lutheran church conducting the service. Interment was in the Genesee Valley cemetery.

ENTERTAINED BRIDGE CLUB

The Bridge club was very pleasantly entertained last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. W. Vanocque. Mrs. Gus Fickens received high score and Mrs. Virgil Sampson low score.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Ira Hanson, October 21.

MISS MARCELS A BRIDE

According to announcement in the Lewiston Tribune, Miss Elsie L. Marcells of Moscow and Herbert E. Boon, Jr. of Libby, Mont., were united in marriage at Lewiston by Judge E. L. Parker of the probate court.

THRESHING AGAIN RESUMED

Threshing in this section was again resumed Sunday and the "hum of the threshers is heard in the land." Much of the wheat that has been combined at this time is being docked only two per cent, which is remarkable from the fact that it has been soaked most of the time for the past several weeks. Shocked grain is also being threshed. Some of it is said to be fairly good with considerable of hog feed. Had the weather man not interfered, the crop this year would have been one of the largest ever harvested in this section of the country.

ADVISES HOLDING POTATOES

"Hold your potatoes, Idaho growers, if you would get the most for them." This is the information sent to the Idaho state department of agriculture by J. C. Farneshon company of Minneapolis, credited by the state department with being "one of the largest and most reliable dealers handling Idaho potatoes."

Jack Barnes left us Monday. He will go with his folks to Kondrick, where he will attend school.

Donald Gordon's side won the automobile race in spelling. However, Richard Sampson's side was not left very far behind.

In the nature study class we have been learning how Mother Nature provides for her next year's gardens. Many kinds of seeds have been collected. We have many different kinds of seeds prepared for growth so we can watch how the various plants grow, and what things are necessary for growth.

In the language class we have been having stories about Columbus and the discovery of America.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Beginning with Wednesday of next week, all Genesee merchants have agreed to close their stores, Saturday night excepted, at 6:30.

A daughter of very tender age put in an appearance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Burr Tuesday morning of this week. Papa Dan wears his honors very becomingly.

Monday of this week John Magee delivered to Steuber & Hall two large wagonloads of fat hogs and in return received a fat check, the price received being 6 1/2 cents per pound.

WORD FROM THE LARABES

A short note from Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Larabee, from Sacramento, Calif., is to the effect that they are getting along nicely. They state that they have had no rain this fall (different here) and that the wind is real chilly there at times. They state that their son, Leon, is now city salesman at Sacramento for the Standard Oil company and is doing nicely.

The News is always glad to hear from former Genesee people, that we may tell their friends how they are faring in their adopted homes. News of and from them is always welcome.

HAS SPRAINED ANKLE

Mrs. Henry Morscheck is suffering with a badly sprained right ankle and is unable to walk upon her foot and as a consequence is aided by a pair of crutches. The sprain is a very painful one.

FIFTH AND SIXTH GRADES

This week is the end of the first six-weeks period, so we will be busy taking examinations.

We had a "spelling match" in our room last Friday. Anita Henderson was winner for the fifth grade.

The following pupils have had perfect attendance: Betty Lou Burr, Raymond Cameron, James Dresher, Billy Edwards, Noyva Erickson, Gordon Foster, Harriet Hottinger, Barbara Huffman, Grant Loncoesty, Donald Rader, Gretchen Reiserer and Margaret Springer.

The fourth grade are working on a "Columbus display" for Columbus day.

Second Grade

Geraldine Rogers is back in school after having been absent three days with flu.

Jack Barnes left us Monday. He will go with his folks to Kondrick, where he will attend school.

Donald Gordon's side won the automobile race in spelling. However, Richard Sampson's side was not left very far behind.

In the nature study class we have been learning how Mother Nature provides for her next year's gardens. Many kinds of seeds have been collected. We have many different kinds of seeds prepared for growth so we can watch how the various plants grow, and what things are necessary for growth.

In the language class we have been having stories about Columbus and the discovery of America.

SEVENTH AND EIGHTH GRADES

The seventh grade have been having an interesting study of food. They are at present preparing food charts as a review of their previous work. We have started our collection of wood samples and before the end of the term we expect to make an interesting exhibit of them.

According to our grade charts Floyd Heppner is still in the lead in arithmetic in the seventh grade and Michael Dwyer in the eighth grade.

The seventh grade are beginning the study of Europe. They have been making maps and mounting them.

The pupils of the seventh grade are eagerly looking forward to a holiday vacation Friday afternoon. Their attendance record has been perfect up to the present time.

THIRD AND FOURTH GRADES

Glen Mayer, Evelyn Rogers and Louise Wishard were absent last week.

THE PICTURE SHOWS

"Cyclone of the Range"
The king of Western thrillers—
Tom Tyler in "Cyclone of the Range" —will be the feature film at the Cozy theatre for Saturday night, October 16.

The romance is shared with the beautiful Elsie Tarron who gives a charming portrayal of the girl whose high courage and faith made her wait for her sweetheart in the face of great opposition and doubt. Little Frankie Darrow and "Beans" have a fresh supply of comedy that is bound to win them a hearty round of laughter.

"The Covered Wagon"
Most people have seen "The Covered Wagon"—and most people want to see it again. It is one of those pictures that never grow old. You will have another opportunity of seeing it at the Cozy theatre on Sunday and Monday nights, October 16 and 17. J.
Warren Kerrigan, Lois Wilson, Ernest Torrence and other well known players have important parts in this wonderful picture.

The romance between Will Banion and Molly Wingate "the belle of the town" is not only beautiful but inspiring. There is all the strength of romance, the rugged charm and the wilderness sweetness that characterizes the country in the days of '48.

A bitter rival in the character of Sam Woodhull causes untold trouble, but everything comes out all right in the end. The production is one of exceptional massiveness. Thousands of persons appear in the varied scenes, fully one thousand being Indians, all descendants of the savages who crossed the plains during the gold rush of 1849. There are many dramatic scenes, the chief of these being Indian attacks on the wagon trains, a real buffalo hunt and a thrilling prairie fire.

"Sunny Side Up"
A beautiful, delightful and sparkling comedy, "Sunny Side Up" will be the feature play at the Cozy theatre for Wednesday night, October 18.
Sunny Duroow, a girl with a sunny disposition, works in a pickle factory.
Bert Jackson, her chum, is a gloomy lad who thinks the world in "ag'in him." To cheer him up she decides to take him on an outing in the country, and to obtain funds, she sings in the street. On a rainy Saturday night,

FACTS

—AND THE OPEN MIND

THE MOST important element in business success—and the most difficult—is to be sure that you have all the facts before you act.

TO GET them all, from every possible source, is the first objective in General Motors. The Research Laboratories contribute some. These are nuggets, left in the crucible, after hundreds of ideas that looked good have been burned away. The Proving Ground contributes others. Dealers contribute. The public contributes. Every department contributes.
Through the whole organization runs a spirit of inquiry and of rigid insistence on proof.

OUT of such thinking come the new models announced from time to time by Chevrolet,
Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick, LaSalle,
Cadillac—all with Fisher Bodies. And by Frigidaire.
Each new model is a tested step forward. Nothing goes into it as a result of habit or guess or pride of opinion.

Nothing counts but hard-won facts, gathered and used with an open mind.

News Notes It's a Privilege to Live in IDAHO

BOISE—Assurance has been given Idaho fruit growers and shippers that Senator Frank E. Gooding will make every effort to induce President Coolidge and the tariff commission to put an emergency tariff on onions, according to a telegram received here by the chamber of commerce in response to a message sent him asking for his cooperation.

BLACKFOOT—Farmers near the Plingal beet dump two miles northwest of Aberdeen, have formed the Plingal Potato Growers' association. Officers of the association are as follows: President, H. L. Lowe; secretary, Benmonds. Other members of the new C. Johnson; manager, A. E. McElroy; organization are Otto G. Risner, R. J. and Dick Slauch, Ben C. Johnson, Jackson McElroy, A. E. McElroy, H. L. Lowe and L. H. Phillips.

DUCHESS—Contractors A. G. Young & Co., who have the contract for building the road from Duchesse to Dead Ox flat, nine and three-quarters miles, are making good progress, having completed the grading of about half the distance. The rock crusher will be in operation this week. The contractors are making every effort to finish the project before winter.

SODA SPRINGS—Members of the Carbon County Hampshire Sheep club are to have an exhibit of their sheep in Del Panting building, Soda Springs, recently. The county commissioners have shown that they are backing the club work by offering premiums for the five classes to be shown. The prizes will be as follows: First, $2; second, $2; third, $1. Ribbons will be given to the fourth and fifth winners.

HEBER CITY—Opening of the upper Provo river highway extending between Kamas and Mirror Lake Wednesday was announced by Sheriff E. C. Sheppard, supervisor of the Wasatch forest. The work of completing the road, which was done entirely from forest funds as a forest development project, has taken five years. The highway was built to make accessible a great stand of timber.

BOISE—Noxious weeds are not confined to any one county or section of Idaho, according to C. B. Allison, Field Agronomist and State Seed Commissioner, of the University Extension Service, who has been conducting experimental demonstrations throughout the southern and eastern part of the state. The four most persistent perennial weeds; Morning glory, Canada thistle, white top henry, crazy and Russian knapweed—are present in a majority of Southern Idaho counties. The patches vary in size from a square rod to a considerable acreage.

SALT LAKE—Utah-branded merchandise to the approximate value of $25,000,000 was produced in 1926, and during the year Utah industrial workers received more than $9,000,000 in wages.

AMERICAN FALLS—Plans for the dedication of the American Falls dam and reservoir, second largest artificial body of water in America and completed at a cost of $3,000,000, have been completed, and will occupy the entire day on September 28.

TREMONTON—"I feel sure that the coming session of congress will pass an appropriation of $50,000 for the construction of dykes necessary to make the Bear River bay one of the great bird preserves of the country," David H. Madison, state fish and game commissioner, said Wednesday on returning from a trip to the northwest, where he attended a national conference of fish and game commissioners of the eleven western states.

BOISE—Bids will be received here September 30 for the construction of two concrete bridges, each twenty feet long, on the old Oregon trail highway north of Payette, the bureau of highways announced. The estimated cost of the two bridges, which will span irrigation canals is $6000.

PHOENIX—Thousands of people from every section of the county visited the county fair. From early in the morning the crowds began to arrive and continued throughout the day. During most of the afternoon the auto traffic to the fair became so great that University avenue south of the railroad crossing became a one-way road.

BOISE—Producers of variegated alfalfa seed in the province of Ontario, Canada, will have a negligible quantity of seed for export this year, John E. Welch, commissioner of agriculture announced from advice furnished him during his recent trip to Minneapolis.

CALDWELL—Contracts and reasonable agreements for the landowners of the Black Canyon irrigation district are now available for use. Work by the government on the project, including the construction of the proposed Deadwood dam on the Payette river, will not be commenced until after 50 per cent of the land in the district has been contracted to government, according to the contract submitted to the landowners recently by the reclamation attorney. A formal election for ratification of the contracts will be held Friday, September 30.

NEW COLORIMETER AID TO INDUSTRY Device Measures Color With Extreme Precision.

Cambridge, Mass.—Human judgment in the measurement of color has been eliminated from industry by a new instrument developed at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, called a colorimeter, used for automatically measuring the color of any substance rapidly and with extreme precision.

In all previous instruments human judgment has entered into the matching of an unknown color with a standard color, accuracy of such color matching depending entirely upon the skill of the observer and the quality of light. It can only be made with accuracy by instruments by persons whose color vision has been carefully standardized.

The new colorimeter developed at Technology by Prof. Arthur C. Hardy on the 17th of June, 1926, is a department of physics, does not depend upon any human judgment, and the accurate records of colors come from the matching of the samples can be fed to it. The instrument is such an instrument in its value to industry, in nearly every branch of which control of color of its products is necessary.

Accurate measurement of color is the first concern of manufacturers of fabrics, particularly in the delicate shades which often decide the eye. Color control is also important in the manufacture of dyes, paper, and many other commodities. In the manufacture of confections, one common problem is the making of different colors, each of which must be kept at a standard shade.

Makes Record on Paper. The new machine not only measures color accurately, but makes a record on paper by which it is possible to match that shade at any time. A powerful optical system and electrical devices are employed in registering the color. The specimen color placed in the holder is illuminated by a special tungsten filament lamp which gives an illumination 50 times more intense than full sunlight. Water filters are used to prevent the light from setting fire to the sample. In making the measurement, magnesium carbonate, the whitest white, is used as the standard of comparison. Light alternately reflected from the specimen and the magnesium carbonate acts upon a photo-electric cell in which it sets up an alternating current.

This amplifier is fed to a vacuum tube circuit which increases the current ten thousand times (10,000,000,000,000) times and notes the amount of light from the specimen and the magnesium carbonate balanced. The color of the specimen is analyzed at each wavelength of the spectrum and the record is reproduced automatically by a pencil moving over a revolving drum. The result is a delicate color chart, by means of which the identical shade may be reproduced as often as desired.

Colorimetry is a science that is still in its infancy, but a good start has been made toward establishing standards for colors. With this new machine much delay and tedious experimentation is eliminated. It will even go to the point of establishing just what shade of color is in a given color or possible, down to the most delicate that are practically impossible of differentiation by the human eye.

Needed in Industries. Color standardization is something that enters into hundreds of industries, and in them is of paramount importance.

Take, as an example, cottonseed oil. Reduced cottonseed oil received in this country during the last year was valued at around $25,000,000, the market value of which is determined largely by its color. Very minute differences mean variation of hundreds of thousands and even up to the millions of dollars in the market value. Sometimes, because of a disagreement between buyer and seller of a consignment, over the color, there will be suit over the amount involved.

In one case seven tank cars of cottonseed oil which carried for a color which varied from 7.5 per cent red, which made a difference of $15,000 in the value.

Colorimetry also enters into health studies, such as the skin and blood tests, eye protective glasses, etc. In standardizing and testing colors the United States bureau of standards is co-operating with the light-house service, the railways, the steamship companies, and agencies dealing with highway traffic. And yet, the bureau people say, the problems which have been solved and the things that have been done are insignificant compared with the things that still await solution. Tests of study and research will be required to develop the science of colorimetry to a point where most of the demands can be met.

Worth It. New York.—Joseph Minktel probably will concede that it was worth it, in court for parking his car in forbidden territory he explained that he saw another motorist who was fined $150, left his car, ran after the creditor, got the money. "Then you won't miss a $1 fine," said Magistrate Bridges.

FINDS ROMANCE IS OUT OF EXPLORING Amundsen to Devote Time to Lecturing.

Moscow.—Capt. Roald Amundsen, the man who had peeped at the top and bottom of the world, is through. "The airplane and dirigible have taken the romance out of exploration," he said. "Dog sleds nowadays fly through the air. The good old times when terrific hardships were a pleasure are gone.

"The man who starts north or south in a dog team today feels like a piker. Some 'Byrd' comes along and sneezes a year's trip in one day of twenty-four hours. He packs up a couple of chicken sandwiches, and then he is too excited to eat. We in the old days dragged a ton of outfit over the ice and were glad to munch every crumb."

Though resolved to spend the rest of his life lecturing about the history of civilization, Amundsen believes there is much to be done. The eleven-day train trip across the steppes of Siberia put him in a reflective mood. He visited the ruins of the weekly express at Vladivostok and it pulled into Moscow three and a half hours late.

"This undoubtedly started to dig a hole in the ground," he mused. "Think of the unlimited possibilities of such a venture. We go down a couple of thousand feet and bring up limitless treasures. There must be something on or near the surface of the earth, or nothing in the 8,000 miles down from New York to China."

Judged by comparative developments up to the present time, Amundsen planned his hopes for future commercial and scientific flying on the dirigible as against the airplane. With a little greater perfection of maneuvering apparatus, he said he had no doubt but that dirigibles could be anchored over any given spot on the face of the globe while scientists descended by means of rope ladders to make observations on the ground.

"Lost" Fort in Canada Found After Century Montreal.—Old Fort Halton, a Lizard river canyon, abandoned about 100 years ago by the Hudson Bay company, has been rediscovered by Alaine Delzell, a trapper, who has reached the site of the old British Columbia, from the river country. In the '80s an attempt was made by an expedition of the geographical survey to find the old post, but without success.

Delzell probably is the first white man to visit the place since the traders abandoned it a century ago. He found an old cabin, built of squared timbers, near a stretch of water called Fish lake by the Indians. Inside the cabin was a quantity of powder and lead as well as a number of ancient muskets. Parchment made from caribou skins covered the windows, but Delzell believes that the parchment was provided by the Indians, who apparently made use of the old fort from time to time.

Delzell told of an exciting race between himself and a pack of 26 wolves. He was crossing the ice on Fish lake when he saw the wolves approaching in fan formation. Unarmed, except for a 22 automatic pistol, he was compelled to roost in a tree for several hours until the wolves went in search of easier prey.

Bees "Kill" Line York, Neb.—When a telephone circuit went "dead" near here, linemen found a swarm of bees had taken possession of the transformer box. The linemen removed several pounds of honey and service was restored.

German Matrons Taxed on Their Shorn Locks Berlin.—If women want to wear shingled hair, they shall be made to pay for it. It is the decision of the municipality of Wartenburg in East Prussia.

A tax of 12 marks per year has been imposed on every shingled post. Girls up to fifteen years of age are exempt. But married women who have sacrificed their locks have to pay double tax.

Other townships are preparing to follow suit in taxing the new source of revenue. At Schwanau the tax is 20 marks per year up to twenty years of age, and 30 marks after.

The Spanish Main

The Town Laundry, Macuto, Venezuela.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C. "The Spanish Main" is familiar to us all, but few of us have ever read a pirate story; but just what is it? Few expressions in English literature have given rise to more confusion. Applied originally, it does appear, to the waters of the Caribbean sea and that part of the Atlantic ocean traversed by the trade winds from Spain, it gradually included the adjacent coasts of the continent, until, with most modern writers, it has come to mean this alone, and "sailing the Spanish Main" is to sail hereafter by an anachronism until such time as airships shall have become popular in Caribbean countries.

Let us use the term in its original sense as applying to the sea only—"the golden, open sea," which, deserted by its galleons, bereft of its romance and its mystery, deserves, surely, to retain its memories and its ancient glorious name.

The coast has its historic memories as well—its far-famed coast of Tierra Firme which Columbus declared to be the site of the earthly Paradise, "the most beautiful (land) in the world, and very populous."

After Columbus came Alonso de Ojeda, who sailed westward to the Gulf of Maracaibo, where he chanced upon some Indian villages built on piles, and so named the land Venezuela, or "Little Venice." In the next year—the opening year of the sixteenth century—Pere Alonso Nino sailed over the same course and, before returning, took reports of his predecessors as to the richness of the vegetation and its numerous inhabitants, was fortunate enough to secure a quantity of pearls. Here, then, was a land yielding pearls and tobacco gold, for the treasure seeker; and, Indians, suitable for slaves, so the Spaniards thought. To Tierra Firme, therefore, he set out on his voyage, and found its way, and the horrors of the Spanish conquest began.

Strang along the coasts washed by the Spanish Main are quaint towns worthy of investigation by tourists, Cumaná, or New Toledo, as it was formerly called, has the distinction of being the first European settlement in Venezuela, and with the exception of a supposed settlement of the Portuguese upon the Amazon, the first on the continent. Gonzales Ocampo, who founded it, was needed just one year by Cortés in Mexico, and it was ten years later that Pizarro set out for Peru.

Cumaná and the Mountain Wall. Cumaná today is a humdrum city of about 10,000 inhabitants, the capital of the state of Burzuque, and an important port in the "Orient," as the eastern states of Venezuela are called. It certainly presents a sorry contrast to the town of a century ago, then the independent capital of a large province, or rather of two, and the usual viceregal residence of the Spanish settlements upon the coast, having been repeatedly attacked by pirates and foreign fleets.

Maracaibo a Good Port. Maracaibo is coupled with Cumaná and La Guaira, though not truly of the Spanish Main. Maracaibo is situated upon the lake of the same name, or rather upon the strait connecting the lake with the outer gulf. Like La Guaira and Puerto Cabello, it has excellent steamer communications with Cumaná and New York. Maracaibo should long since have been one of the most important ports in Caribbean countries, for behind it lies a vast lowland region, rich in all manner of tropical products and well rendered inaccessible in places by the very profusion of its wealth.

In recent years the city has come into its own through the development of a great oil field adjoining the lake and even beneath it. The population has increased to more than 80,000. Furthermore, Maracaibo is the port of a considerable section of Colombia, and nearly all of the coffee that bears its name comes either from across the country from the Venezuelan Cordillera region south and east of the lake.

There is the hum of commerce at Maracaibo. Green vessels come and go and fleets of sailing craft ply to various towns upon the lake, as well as to up-river ports. It is a city that has a house of electric light, tramway lines, telephones, telegraphs, a submarine cable, a splendid theater, a legislative palace, seven churches, a back-yard and many other adjuncts of much larger cities.

DOUBLE WINDOWS NEED CURTAINS

Two Openings Treated as One in Hanging Draperies.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Two or more living-room windows placed in a group are usually curtained as one unit. Depending on the height of the ceiling, and the appearance of breadth given by the group as a whole, they may have only enough side draperies to give the effect of a frame for the whole group, connected by a valance at the top of the window, or there may be a separate pair of side draperies at each window. In the latter case only one valance would be used, extending from side to side of the group. Great care would be necessary to see that the repetition of vertical lines in using individual hangings for each win-ow in a large group did not become monotonous or distort the lines of the entire room.

Curtains for a Group of Two Windows in a Living Room.

For a group of two windows, the curtains shown in the illustration, which was made by the United States Department of Agriculture, are very satisfactory. Each window has its own glass curtain, for convenience, but the two windows are treated as one in hanging the side draperies. The double window is framed by the darker material and the formal, plaited, scalloped valance which carries the eye from one side to the other. In this case the draperies are rose in tone, and the glass curtains are ecru.

CREAM PUFFS ARE NOT DIFFICULT

Method of Mixing Differs From Other Pastry.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

You have doubtless wished more than once that you knew how to make cream puffs at home. They are not at all difficult to make, but the method of mixing is different from that used for other pastry and cakes. Here are the directions, given by the bureau of home economics, and a recipe for a custard filling in case you prefer it to whipped cream:

Cream Puffs.

1/2 cup butter 4 eggs
1 cup hot water 1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup flour

Add the butter to the hot water and bring to the boiling point, and add the flour and salt, all at one time. Stir rapidly and constantly until the paste leaves the sides of the pan. Remove from the fire and when cool add the unbeaten eggs one at a time, beating until thoroughly blended with the paste mixture. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased baking sheet about two inches apart. During baking the dough expands to twice or more its original size. Bake in a hot oven 450 degrees to 475 degrees F. until puffed and a golden brown. When cool cut and fill the lower half with seasoned whipped cream, crushed fruit or custard mixture. Cover with other half of the puff and sprinkle powdered sugar over the top. The quantity makes eight medium-sized puffs.

Custard Filling for Cream Puffs.

1 cup cream or rich milk 1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons cornstarch 1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons sugar 2 egg yolks

Heat the cream or milk in the upper part of a double boiler. Mix the cornstarch, salt and sugar thoroughly, then pour over them the heated cream or milk. Return to the double boiler, stir until thickened, then cover and cook for ten or fifteen minutes. Add the well-beaten egg yolks and cook for a minute longer. Beat well, add the vanilla and butter. When cool place the custard mixture in the puffs.

Three Tricks in Making Good Corned Beef Hash

A good many people do not know exactly how to make an appetizing corned beef hash. There are several "tricks" to it, according to the bureau of home economics. One is having about equal amounts of cooked meat and potato. Another is in grinding the meat and potato together. A third point is in flavoring with a little minced onion and a dash of cayenne pepper for piquancy. Generally there is enough salt in corned beef to season the mixture.

SEASONABLE SAUCES.

All sauces are in most seasons seasonable, yet there are some especially good with foods served only in spring or fall.

The foundation sauce for all creamed soups, sauces, au gratin dishes and those escalloped, as well as souffles, croquettes and such combinations, only varies as to the amount of thickening and fat for each dish to be served.

The one-to-one proportion, using one cupful of liquid, one tablespoonful each of butter and flour, is the type of sauce used for thin sauces and soups. These sauces are varied by different flavors and seasonings and may be used for pudding sauces as well as for vegetables where a thin sauce is liked.

A tablespoonful always means a full spoon leveled off with a knife; a cupful is a half pint. Measuring spoons and cups are now made of the standard size and one should have several to use in cookery. Be sure that your cup is really a half-pint cup when you make your purchase, as failures in cookery are too frequent with careless measures.

The kind of liquid used determines the sauce. Veloute sauce is prepared with white stock for the liquid. Allemand is made like Veloute, adding the yolk of an egg and a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Soubise is prepared with a cupful of Veloute, two cupfuls of onion puree and one-half cupful of cream.

The one-to-two sauce is the one most generally used for almost all dishes. It is thicker than the one-to-one and is better liked for creamed vegetables. When preparing sauces for escalloped dishes, use the same quantity of sauce as food, adding in alternate layers. Cover with buttered crumbs which have been evenly buttered by stirring them into melted butter. When the crumbs are browned the dish is ready to serve.

With the knowledge of the foundation sauce, one with little skill may prepare the most delightful dishes with appropriate sauces.

Things That Help.

For those who cannot eat meat or very little, or few kinds, there are dishes which will substitute it nicely.

Potatoes served with a cream sauce and made rich with good grated cheese.

A rich cream soup served with fingers of nicely buttered toast.

Desserts when served with a meatless meal may be of richer quality. Ice cream with chocolate sauce, steamed puddings with rich sauces, and pastry of various kinds may be served if desirable.

A salad of crisp lettuce with peanuts and French dressing or any kind of nuts with mayonnaise.

Loaf of nuts may be most appetizing, using the clopped nuts in the preparation instead of meat. Serve with a sauce such as tomato or brown sauce with mushrooms.

Mock Sausages.—Soak one-half cupful of lima beans over night in water to cover. Cook until tender, season with salt and pepper; after putting them through a coarse sieve add one cupful of bread crumbs, three tablespoonfuls of butter, a pinch of sage, one beaten egg, with seasoning needed. Shape into small sausage forms, dip into eggs and crumbs and fry in deep fat. Serve with apple rings of fried apple overlapping, around the sausages.

Stuffed Eggs.—Cook in three quarts of boiling water six eggs. Drop the eggs into the water, cover closely and set back where they will keep warm but not cook. Let stand 30 minutes, then they will be well cooked and the yolks menly. When cold, cut each egg into halves lengthwise and take out the yolk. Mash the yolks with one teaspoonful of finely minced parsley and six teaspoonfuls of anchovy paste. Fill the whites with this mixture and arrange them in a buttered baking dish, stuffed sides up. Cover with a white sauce made by cooking together one tablespoonful each of butter and flour, and add one cupful of milk. Bake covered with grated cheese and bread crumbs, until well heated.

When preparing brown sauce remember that browning destroys some of its thickening qualities, so more flour should be added to make it of the required thickness.

A roll of adhesive tape is one of the indispensables in the household. It will, with a wad of absorbent cotton, keep a wound covered nicely. It softens a corn or bunion and may be used to mend a leaky water bottle in an emergency.

Find Throws Light on Old Times and Customs

Kitchen utensils of the Greeks and Romans of the Fourth century, B. C., have just come to light at Canopus, near one of the mouths of the Nile, according to Prof. Ralph Van Deman Magoffin, president of the Archeological Institute of America. Excavation at a temple near this site has yielded up mementos or offerings left by thousands of pilgrims that make clear many phases of life in antiquity. The collections include many kitchen utensils and a nearly complete set of Greek and Roman weights. Many of them are tokens vowed by soldiers who hoped for success in war. "Some are sling shots," explained Doctor Magoffin, "while many are tiny replicas of the soldiers themselves on elephant or horseback. Grain baskets and camels seem to have been the favorite gifts from merchants; weights from looms were found in considerable numbers. Many of the pieces are unique, and their publication and exhibition will add much more to our growing knowledge of ancient times."

The Rarer Sort

Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service, said at the Army and Navy club in Washington the other day:

"Young Colonel Lindbergh is remarkable for the nonmercenary character of his ambition. He's ambitious to do better and better work, but he cares nothing about money."

"Now most of us are like Jones. A man said to Jones one day: 'Jones, what would you do if you had $1,000,000?'"

"Do?" said Jones. "Why, I'd do the same as anybody else would do, of course. I'd overwork myself into dyspeptic neuroasthenia trying to make it $2,000,000."

Does Weakness Detract From Your Good Looks?

San Francisco, Calif.—"About two years ago I was weak and rundown in health. I suffered so much with backache and pain in my side, and did not get any relief until I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. A few bottles of the 'Prescription' was a permanent benefit to me and I am glad to recommend it to others for I believe it will do for them what it did for me."—Mrs. E. Webb, 1103 Laguna St.

Early Caterpillar Train

A Hampstead correspondent recalls that nearly 70 years ago he saw in Hyde park a trial of a military train of wagons loaded with soldiers dressed in fatigue jackets and drawn by a steam engine bearing the name India. This engine, he says, laid and raised its own track, each "slipper" being apparently about 4 feet long, mounted, and revolving on rollers much like the modern caterpillar movement. The experiment, according to the London Post, appeared to aim at improved military transport, and the men hauled would probably number about 200 in eight wagons.

HOW MRS. WEAVER WAS HELPED

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

As Mrs. Weaver herself says, "I was never very strong." This is a mild statement describing her condition, for, according to her letters, she was subjected to no small amount of ill health. Fortunately, her sister was familiar with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged Mrs. Weaver to try it. "After three or four weeks," writes Mrs. Weaver, "I felt a great difference in myself. I would go to bed and sleep sound, and although I could not do very much work, I seemed stronger. I kept on taking it and now I am well and strong, do my work and take care of three children. I sure do tell my friends about your wonderful medicine, and I will answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Lawrence Weaver, East Smithfield St., Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

If you knew that thousands of women suffering from troubles similar to those you are enduring had improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, wouldn't you think it was worth a trial?

In some families, the fourth generation is learning the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

POINTS IN FITTING A ONE-PIECE DRESS

Using a Skirt Gauge in Fitting a One-Piece Dress.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

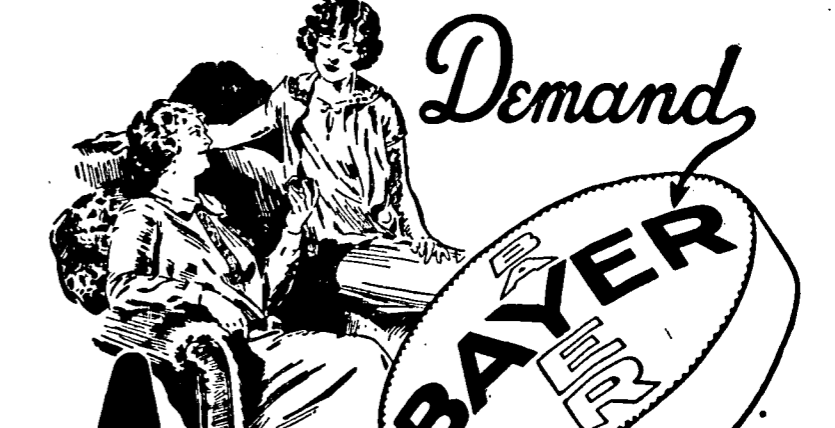

The points on which attention is centered in fitting a one-piece dress are the shoulders, the under-arm seams, the sleeves, the neck, and the hemline. Any decorative features must be planned with care so that they are of the right size to harmonize with the entire costume and the build of the wearer, and they must be located with reference to the other lines of the garment as well as to their use. For example, the length of the front opening, or the depth of set-in plaited sections, or the size and position of pockets, are matters to be decided for each individual.

Shoulder Seam Acts as Anchor.
A properly placed shoulder seam acts as an anchor to a well-fitted garment, says the bureau of home economics. It influences the set of the waist and sleeves and the hang of the skirt. Therefore it should be located most carefully, and the shoulders should be the first part fitted.

The under-arm seam in a one-piece dress should be perpendicular to the floor. If it tilts backward or forward, the back or the front of the dress will swing out correspondingly at the bottom. Sometimes this defect is corrected by taking darts in the front section below the armhole and at the hip line, and sometimes it may be necessary to raise the back of the dress at the shoulders and trim out the armhole, rather than to turn up the hem at points where the bottom seems to sag.

When ready to turn up the hem it helps to place the dress on a form on a table, so that the fitter can measure the distance accurately to the level surface of the table. If a dress is to have a belt, a tape-line or other means of confining the waistfulness it should be correctly placed on the form before measurements from the floor are begun, or the finished dress will be shorter than was intended and possibly uneven. A rigid skirt gauge is a help, either one made especially for the purpose or a ruler, but not a tape measure. The height of the skirt from the floor is partly a matter of the height, weight and figure of the person who is to wear the garment and partly a matter of the season's styles.

Basting, Sketching and Pressing.
Accurate basting and stitching and careful pressing are essential in a well-fitted garment. Stitching must follow near enough to the line of basting that the size of the garment will not be altered. Press each seam as it is finished, especially when working with silk or wool materials. One final pressing will not produce the same results. Turn the shoulder and underarm seams toward the front if they are not pressed open. Turn the armhole seam and shoulder darts toward the neck. Many other finepoints about fitting and making a dress will be found in Farmers' Bulletin 1530-F, "Fitting Dresses and Blouses," which may be obtained by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C.

"Trail Dust"
The new 101 Ranch super-special which comes to the Cozy theater on Saturday night, October 22—matinee and night—was filmed in its entirety on the famous Miller Bros. ranch of Oklahoma.
The "101 Ranch" is said to be the largest ranch in the world, comprising as it does over 200,000 acres. There are always from 40,000 to 50,000 cattle and 10,000 to 15,000 horses on their ranges. They also have one of the few remaining buffalo herds in captivity, comprising 300 buffalo and 50 calves.
"Trail Dust" is a pioneer story of the early seventies and tells a true story of the cattlemen's fight against the outlaws and cattle rustlers of that time. It has one of the most beautiful love stories of all time, of the leader of the cattlemen for a minister's daughter.

Another feature of the show is the world famous "101 Ranch" orchestra, which plays during the showing of the picture. Also of added interest is "Dusty," the real, live American buffalo, which travels with the show.

"Barbed Wire"
A new Pola Negri, mighty in a role that permits her to give full sway to her talents as the preeminent emotional actress of the screen, will be seen here Sunday night, October 23, at the Cozy theater.
The great tragedienne plays Mona, a Normandy farm girl who, in spite of her bitter hatred of war-time Germany and its people, falls in love with Oskar, a German prisoner in a French camp near her home. The play, in one sense, is not a "war" picture; it is rather a tremendous story of the back-currents of the war, an angle never before approached.

"Arizona Bound"
A thrilling Western picture, with Garry Cooper, a new Paramount star, in the leading male role, will be the feature at the Cozy theater on Wednesday night, October 26.
The story deals with the adventures of Cooper, regarded as rather a "no-do-well," but transformed by his love for his sweetheart and the necessity of relieving himself of unjust suspicion. How his problems are finally solved makes a strong, swiftly-moving story.
Mrs. Walter Jain III
Mrs. Walter Jain has been confined to her home by illness for the past two weeks.

Have Returned from France
Roy Hanson and Wilson Archibald arrived home from France Tuesday afternoon, Wilson stopping at Lewiston on his way. Phil Scholer, who accompanied the boys, stopped in Missouri for a visit.
While we were unable to get in touch with the boys, we understand they had a wonderful time. They took the airplane trip across the channel from Paris to London and were sorely cajoled while they were winging their way over the English channel.
We would have liked very much to be able to give an account of their trip, but are unable to do so at this time.
Coach Jones Preparing Boys
Mumps and potatoes have created havoc with our football squad. Two sick and two more out of school, harvesting spuds, Coach Jones will be hard pressed to plug the holes in our line sufficiently tight to hold the fast coming crew of Manias from Orofino today. He hasn't permitted himself to think of Wicks' crew to deal with next week.
However, unless additional misfortunes come our way, we can look forward to two real football scraps—today and next Friday. Orofino is coming today flushed with two decisive victories to her credit—Nezperce and Lapwai.
Moscow, next week, with a still more brilliant record and high aspirations of a north Idaho championship. We will not venture to predict the result of either of these games but you can rest assured that Coach Jones and his squad of youngsters are doing all that is humanly possible preparing a warm reception for each visiting team in its turn.

FARMER KILLED AND BODY LEFT TO HOGS Flimsy Motive for Crime Seen by Officials.

Hot Springs, S. D.—Hans a twenty year old boy, born and raised on a South Dakota farm, walked to the home of a neighbor three times his age, a man of reserved, pensive habits, and at the edge of the man's own corn field, in broad daylight, killed him with a shotgun and left his body to be mangled by hogs released from the adjoining pasture. And his crime being committed, not from any one of the three ordinary motives, for money, love or revenge, but merely to gain possession of a truck and a rifle?

The supposition seems incredible. Yet Gerald Bowker, twenty years old, slight, round faced, boyish appearance, is in jail at Hot Springs, charged with the murder of Fred Tisner, thirty-eight, a bachelor, whose home is a few miles from that of Bowker's parents, highly respected farm folk who live near the village of Oral, on the prairie lying along the east side of the Black hills of South Dakota.

Traced and Arrested. Bowker was followed by officers who started on his trail as soon as the untold body of Tisner had been discovered, several days after his death, and was arrested by the side of the girl wife who he married last June. They were riding on a truck bearing the license number of Tisner's truck. And in the truck were a shotgun and a rifle, the latter corresponding to the description of one Tisner always kept in his house.

Fred Tisner was a bachelor who, German born, came to America when a month since, twice as large as ever before, Gooding College will observe its annual faculty reception Friday night, the lower class classes Saturday, the incoming picnic, dinner and basketball game Saturday night and the Gooding College "annual" anniversary at the Methodist church Sunday morning, as its share of the week, which is being celebrated in Gooding, the educational center of Idaho, September 28-30.

KING'S DERBY HAT WORTH $100,000

Diamond Ornament Saves Headpiece From Fire.

Bangkok, Siam—King Sisowath of Cambodia has died, leaving behind him the most expensive hat in the world, Cambodia is a French protectorate which once was a corner of Siam.

King Sisowath inherited from his father a brown derby which was valued at $100,000, because of a huge knob of diamonds which adorned its top, and he wore it on many state occasions.

According to royal custom the hat should have been burned upon the death of its first owner, but one of his numerous widows appealed to King Sisowath to save it from extinction because she admired it so. The new king gratified her wish.

More than 500 widows survived the monarch—more than the number of the death of King Solomon.

He visited Paris before the war accompanied by 200 of his wives, and wearing red shoes, a diver's coat and a battered opera hat which he soon replaced with his favorite bowler.

"The French women," he said, "could never forget their husbands' conversation without fear of punishment."

On his way to France the monarch became seasick. That worried him, for he could not understand why a king should be seasick like common folk.

One day he became concerned about his whereabouts after seeing nothing but water for a number of days. He sent for the captain of the boat, who assured him that they would sight land the next day. They did sight land the next day, and his majesty was so pleased that he ordered a special hymn of joy to be sung for the occasion.

His surprise at the captain's "prediction" coming true was so great that he decorated him with a Cambodian order, observing at the same time that he was a Christian and to have been born in 1840. He succeeded to the throne of his brother, King Norodon, in 1904.

HARD TO CHOOSE

Once there was a woman who had three suitors. She didn't know which one to marry. One was a grocer, one a doctor, and one a preacher.

If she married the grocer, she could get her groceries for nothing.

If she married the doctor, she could be well for nothing.

If she married the preacher she could be good for nothing.—Progressive Grocer.

MAKING SURE

"I'm afraid of the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C."

"In the heart of the world, about a hundred miles east of Angola, the traveler interested in the past will find a rich field. It is Hoggar, Keouy, the ruined capital of the Hittites."

"Bogharz Keouy means the 'village of the theater' for it is at the end of a deep valley that the modern Turkish village lies, in northern Cappadocia, and the Hittites of the Sixteenth and Fifteenth centuries B. C. built their great fortified city on the rocky hill-sides above the mouth of this valley."

Whether it was Sobhi Lullium or some other musically named gentleman who laid out the city of many great buildings and strong fortifications, he certainly possessed an appreciation of natural beauty as well as statesmanship, for, as one citizen told me to point—from the palace up to the great citadel;—one rocky, crowned with massive ruins, to another still more stupendous—one hardly knows which to wonder over and admire more, the strength and skill displayed in these three or four thousand-year-old remains or the glorious views that greet one's eyes at every turn.

From one corner of the citadel, by the remains of a round tower, you look straight down the five hundred feet of rock into the gloom of a narrow ravine, and from the other corner you look down the five hundred feet of rock into the gloom of a narrow ravine, and from the other corner you look down the five hundred feet of rock into the gloom of a narrow ravine.

Shepherds and laborers who wander over these hills pick up occasionally broken pieces of tablets, and, knowing that any writing on an ancient tablet is precious in the eyes of "these queer Europeans," they offer what they find for sale to any passer-by. As one of these itinerant buyers, and spinning on his heels, produces a few bits of clay from his girdle, or wrapped in a handkerchief, which challenges comparison in age and interest with the Hittite contents, or one is awakened in the early dawn by a head stick between the curtains of the tent and an hour's waiting, the owner thereof being anxious to strike a bargain quickly, before he takes his sheep up to the hills above.

The sudden stopping of the history which the tablets tell, as well as the condition of the ruins unearthed, shows us that some time in the Thirteenth century B. C. the great city was destroyed, probably by a sweep of some barbarian horde, thus anticipating (long ages before) the story of the destruction of Rome.

And this Hittite capital was never again inhabited or rebuilt, for there is apparently no trace of Greek or Roman work or influence in the remains. The Hittite power, however, was not destroyed then. Cilicia and the southern part of Cappadocia have numerous monuments which show occupancy by Hittite people till about the Eighth century B. C.

Amazon on the Eastern Gate. As one walks away from the citadel in Dogharz Keouy to see the various points of special interest within the five-mile circuit of the ancient walls, he comes first to the one place on this site where there has been any inscription in the Hittite hieroglyphics (these hieroglyphics which are so common all through the more southern Hittite country). This one inscription of Dogharz Keouy is so badly worn by time and weather that it is quite illegible. Further down the hill slope is the Eastern gate. Like the other city entrances, this has two parts, with a square room between from which a long passage leads to the door of the main city.

As they once formed a pointed arch, this Eastern gate has long been a mere wall of masonry. The gate, but it is only recently, by the workmen discovered, almost by accident, on the inner side post, a remarkable bas-relief. This relief, about ten feet high, of an Amazon, apparently, and bears little resemblance to the figures found in other distinctively Hittite places.

Following the wall, we come to the famous Southern gate, which admitted to the city the commerce and travel from Cilicia, and which is still guarded by the lion posts, always pictured in every description of Dogharz Keouy. Fine, unsparring lions they are, too, with wings and legs of curly hair.

From between the lions one looks outward and downward to a marvelous stretch of hill and dale, white with the snow of the mountains, and a number of the city limits, sloping down from this point 870 feet to its northern end. Here and there on the slope rise a great rock fortress, each bearing on its summit more or less of Hittite masonry.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

Monday and Tuesday on account of illness.

In language class we have been studying and interpreting the picture "Saved." We have also been learning a Halloween motion recitation. We now have up our Halloween decorations, which we made in handwork class.

The following people received quarter-day holiday Friday for being neither tardy nor absent during the six-weeks period: John Dean, Elbert Hollingsworth, Donald Gordon, Evert Smith, Bernice Loncosty, Adele Herman, Bernice Mervyn, Cicely Ann Sherman, Robert Schooler, Richard Sampson, Charlotte Foster, Floyd Rader, Francis Drescher.

First Grade
Myra Lamphier has been absent from school the last two days.

The first grade has had several visitors in their room, they being Mrs. M. Follett, Mrs. Nordby, Mrs. R. Edwards and Miss Gray. We enjoyed having these visitors and hope they

WHEAT MARKET CONTINUED FIRM — OATS ARE LOWER

Word reached Genesee friends last week that John Hudson, known here by all the older residents, had met death under an auto truck somewhere over on the west side of the mountains.

John was a familiar personage here for many years and long after he had ceased to reside here he was nearly always on hand at election time to see that everything went off in good shape. He had many warm friends here who will be genuinely grieved at his violent death.

"I think there's company down stairs."

"How d'ya know?"

"I just heard mamma laugh at one of papa's jokes."

Mr. Lucy traveled on the big Pacific coast chautauqua circuit, and we are very fortunate to have such a splendid entertainer in Genesee—Thursday, October 27.

MISS LLOYD TO SING OVER KGW

Miss Marie Lloyd, vocalist, who is quite well known in our music circles, will be heard over KGW, Portland, during the next month. The Sunday Portland Oregonian has carried a picture of Miss Lloyd and has this to say regarding her:

Supplementing the regulation Sunday schedule of microphone services with 30 minutes of vocal and instrumental music from 5 to 5:30 o'clock, a new series of afternoon musicales will be launched under the sponsorship of the Levin Furnace company. The concert will be continuous throughout the current month, each performance featuring Marie Lloyd, popular Portland soprano, as soloist with the concert trio.

Through the addition of the new series KGW folk will henceforth be provided with a continuous musical entertainment consistent on Sunday from 5 o'clock in the afternoon until 11 o'clock. The character of the new programs will be essentially classical in theme with the 30-minute period arranged into a continuity of instrumental renditions interspersed with solos by Miss Lloyd.

Miss Lloyd is widely known in the local musical profession for her theatrical and concert work and she has also been featured on several occasions from local microphones. She has been featured at the Rivoli theatre and very shortly will have solo roles in several public and civic club functions.

Death of J. J. Owen

Word has reached Genesee that J. J. Owen, an old-time resident of Genesee and postmaster here for a number of years, had passed away at the Washington old soldiers' home a few weeks ago.

He was well and favorably known and remembered by all the old-timers, who will be grieved to learn of his passing. He was a soldier of the Civil war and answered the final taps, no doubt, as he had done while in the service of Uncle Sam.

A Birthday Surprise

A birthday surprise party was given Mrs. Geo. Post last Friday evening and a very pleasant time was had by the ladies. Bridge was played and very delicious luncheon was served.

Those present were Mesdames Ray Edwards, Clyde Meyer, Ira Hanson, Walter Emerson, Gus Fickens, Harry Schooler, W. W. Burr, N. M. Leavitt and W. C. Jones.

Rain Again Interferes

Jupiter Pluvius has again interfered with things in this section of the country and has effectually put a stop to potato digging for a few days at least. Rain began falling Sunday evening and continued almost unintermittently until sometime Monday night, thoroughly soaking the ground and making the roads quite soft.

Genesee Eleven Loses to Orofino

Orofino passed its way to a 20 to 13 victory over the Farmers Friday, taking advantage of the absence of four Genesee regulars who were out of town. The warhorse touch-down came when an Orofino end grabbed the ball off Cameron's hand as he was ready to pass, and raced for a touchdown.

While Genesee pounded through the Orofino line for about three yards to one end of our classmates. The pass to the air with good effect and completing pass after pass, got within scoring distance, going over once on end and once through the line. Genesee scored on an end run and a pass.

Genesee's big game will come today (Friday) when Moscow will come here to meet the local team on the home lot.

MISS NORA HANSON MARRIED AT JUNEAU, ALASKA

Word was received by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanson the latter part of last week from their daughter, Miss Nora, who left Genesee for Juneau, Alaska, only last month to take charge of a beauty parlor, that she had been married to Charles A. Kramer, a United States marine engineer.

The Juneau paper had the following to say:

"Charles A. Kramer and Miss Nora Hanson were united in marriage this afternoon (Thursday, October 13) at 2 o'clock at the U. S. consular office, by Judge Frank A. Boyle.

Mrs. Kramer is employed at the American Beauty parlor and at the present time is in charge of the establishment, while the groom is first class engineer aboard the United States coast guard cutter 'Aliga'."

"Mrs. Kramer is employed at the Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanson of Genesee and had spent the greater portion of her life here, she having been born on a farm north of town.

She attended the Genesee public schools and later went to Spokane where she attended Northwestern Business college, from which institution she graduated. Returning to Genesee she was employed for a year in the Genesee Exchange Bank. She returned to Spokane where she was employed as stenographer for about a year and then came to Moscow, where she held a like position for about a year, later going to Seattle where she took up beauty parlor work, going from there to Juneau, where she remained until last spring when she came to Genesee, where she spent the summer and then came to this city last month to again take up her work.

Mrs. Kramer is well and favorably known here and her host of friends will extend hearty congratulations.

The Legion Convention

The time is drawing near and the local American Legion post is a scene of great activity, for of course there are many last minute details to be looked after for the coming convention.

Responses are coming in from the invitations, and we are assured of a good crowd in spite of the rainy weather and bad roads.

The local Legionnaires must all be on the job Saturday to show our visitors a good time.

The program is as follows:

Business meeting at 10 a. m.

Noon recess 12 to 1:30 p. m.

Business session 1:30 to 4:30 p. m.

4:30 to 6:30.

Banquet at 6:30. During the banquet we will have some state speakers.

At 9—the big dance with the 101 ranch orchestra playing.

The banquet and dance are free to all delegates and visitors.

Now Shipping Potatoes

Shipping potatoes from the new warehouse started Wednesday morning and they will be going out from now on at the rate of three to four cars per day. The warehouse was filled almost to capacity by Monday of this week, some 30,000 sacks having been brought in.

The capacity of the new warehouse is rated at 40,000 sacks, but from the fact that so many different shippers have been bringing in spuds, and as it is necessary to leave many alleyways on the floor, much valuable storage space is lost. However, with shipping started, more room will soon be available for new storage.

It is estimated at this time that only about one-third of the potatoes have been brought in, making a total of some 100,000 sacks, taking into consideration the independent shippers.

Seventh and Eighth Grades

We are very much pleased with our reading circle books. Several have started their book reports.

Lester Ingle, Richard Harris, Wayne Roach, Hazel Foster, Daisy Dean and Edwin Hanson were absent from school the past week.

Mrs. Craft and Mrs. Smylie were visitors in our room Friday morning. We hope that they will come again and that others will follow their example and come to see what we are doing.

On Friday morning we were very much interested in welcoming to our seventh grade Lewis and Clark, Sacajawea and others of the Lewis-Clark expedition and Thomas Jefferson, who told us very interesting stories of their travels and the times in which they lived.

Fifth and Sixth Grades

George Smylie, Tom Herman and Ambrose Foster are back in school after being absent for the past week.

Howard Hanson and Gail Sampson were absent this week.

The fifth grade have completed their portfolios in arithmetic class. We have some very good portfolios on display.

The sixth grade have started an arithmetic contest. They have as their leaders Gail Sampson and Merle Austin and have chosen the names "Witch" and "Cats."

Third and Fourth Grades

The following pupils were absent last week, Betty Lou Burr, Ernest Craft and Gordon Foster.

Mrs. Craft and Mrs. Loncosty visited our room Friday afternoon.

The fourth grade under the leadership of Glenn Mayer and Winfred Dean, are having a contest race on the tables. Glenn Mayer's side now has made the first score.

The third grade have completed the study of fish as a food and are now beginning the study of vegetables and fruits.

Second Grade

Mrs. Loncosty was a welcome visitor in our room Friday afternoon.

Anna Lund left school Friday as she will go with her parents who are moving away. We were sorry to lose one of our classmates.

The pupils in our room are working on a sandtable project in connection with our health work. We are building a "House of Good Health" on the sand table. This house and its surroundings are made entirely of foods which are good for children to eat. Our fountain in the yard represents a bottle of milk.

First Grade

The first grade was very sorry to lose one of their pupils. Richard Lund moved to Orofino. We hope Richard like his new home and school.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

Most of the students are back in school again after the harvest. There are some out now because of mumps. This epidemic seems to be dying out and it is hoped that all students will be in school again in a short time.

The program given in the assembly last Friday was very good, considering the length of time that was given to it in preparation. Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Leavitt, Mrs. Craft and Mrs. Smylie were in attendance at the program.

The play books have been given out to the children and the contest is on. The following students are at present representing the cast: Paul Mulalley, Tony Ebel, Donald Plunkett, Irvin Plymer, Inez Mayer, Verona Wolff, Myrtle Larson, Audrey Pleiman and Roy Cameron.

Dean Hainsworth, head of the department of music, University of Idaho, was in Genesee Wednesday afternoon and addressed the school regarding the organization of a school band here. Prof. Hainsworth will be here again on Wednesday of next week to try and complete the organization and we would like to have all parents who have children in school from the fifth to the tenth grades who are interested in music, talk the matter over and come to some decision by that time. The necessary information may be had from Supt. Mulalley. The things dear to a girl's heart are so close during the football game this (Friday) afternoon when the strong Moscow team, under the leadership of Guy Wicks, will come here to play the local boys—who will need your encouragement. Please close your stores and be at the game at 2:30.

ONLY FIVE MORE DAYS FOR CONTESTANTS TO GET VOTES

The contestants did very well last week and again this week they did considerable work toward getting in subscriptions, but there are many yet on the old list, as well as many new ones that may be had by just going after them. It isn't necessary for those people unnecessarily, but most anyone will subscribe for the local paper just to help you out—and after doing so we sincerely hope they will like the paper well enough to keep after them. It isn't necessary to fight to win, but it is a chance to get your name in the papers, and after the votes—and votes is what it is going to take to get you that big $50.00 in gold.

It has been intimated that some of the contestants have been "holding back" subscriptions that have been fighting to win. This is a very bad thing to do. Generally favorable weather in the spring wheat areas of both the United States and Canada brought out heavy shipments of spring wheat, receipts at Canadian country points being much the largest for the season. These, together with a dull demand caused by the decline in prices in both in Winnipeg and in United States markets. The declines in the North American markets were not fully reflected in the Liverpool market which declined only about 3c for the week ending October 21, influenced principally by large receipts of spring wheat in the Canadian markets and continued heavy movement in the American Northwest according to the weekly Grain Market Review of the United States bureau of agricultural economics. Weather favorable for maturing the late corn crop, together with increased receipts and lower wheat prices, weakened the corn market and reaction in sharply lower prices. Our declines, influenced by the weakness in corn, but rye and barley were independently firm with receipts relatively light and a continued good demand for export. Flax prices declined to a low point on the crop with receipts and hedging pressure heavy.

May Complete Road

A special appropriation of $300 was made a short time ago by the Nez Perce highway board to assist the Rimrock highway district in the completion of the surfaced road from Uniontown to Genesee, via the Lawen and Mandan places.

The road has been finished to the west line of the Lawen place for several months and the completion of this will shorten the distance to Uniontown several miles, especially during muddy weather, as travelers no longer have to go through the Lawen instead of via the head of the Lewis-ton grade.

Mrs. Meyer Surprised

Mrs. Clyde Meyer was given a very pleasant birthday surprise party Monday evening. Bridge was played at three tables and at midnight a splendid luncheon was served by the self-invited guests.

Those present were Mesdames A. Patsch, N. M. Leavitt, W. W. Burr, Gus Fickens, Ira Hanson, Harry Schooler, Mahlon Follett, Ray Edwards, T. H. Herman and Geo. Post.

Soft Winter Wheat Prices Declined

Soft winter wheat prices declined practically the same as other classes this week. While receipts were light mills were not active buyers. Offerings, however, were well absorbed and prices are still relatively higher than for hard winter wheat. No. 2 red winter wheat being quoted at 1.32c, No. 1 hard winter wheat at 1.34c, and No. 2 hard winter wheat at 1.31c. Offerings for No. 2 hard winter at Liverpool were about 6c lower, at $1.51 compared with $1.45 for No. 3 Manitoba for December shipment and $1.53 for Argentina Rosa Fe, 6 1/2c pounds, for October shipment.

Camel

The cigarette preferred by experienced smokers

In the remarkable growing popularity of the cigarette many brands have bid for favor, but Camel continues to lead by billions. Quality put it there; quality keeps it there.

If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobacco.

WAYS TO BLOCK CROOKED PROMOTERS

By W. R. MOREHOUSE
Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association
(This is one of a series of articles exposing the tactics of promoters who are after your money.)
MANY reliable corporations, firms and individuals are engaged in developing mining properties, drilling for possible new oil wells and promoting new inventions and enterprises. On the other hand many unreliable persons are ostensibly engaged in the same pursuits, but in reality they are only promoting frauds. Therefore, every investor should first divide the sheep from the goats before he hazards his savings. Because there are many dishonest manipulators using mining, oil, invention and promotion terms to deceive does not mean that all promoters in these fields are crooked. The truth is, there are many trustworthy men engaged in promoting enterprises that are honest investments. The problem is to know the difference between promoters of the reliable type and the high-pressure variety. The former are engaged in legitimate business. The other group is engaged in fleeing the public.
The number of those who deliberately scheme to defraud is large and they are everywhere. In order to divide the sheep from the goats—to distinguish between reliable and unreliable promoters, to lead the good investors from the worthless—the inexperienced investor should consult his banker or let the National Better Business Bureau, whose headquarters are in New York City, advise him. It costs nothing to get such advice from either source. It is safe to say that if those who have lost their savings through fraudulent schemes had followed this simple advice, they would still be in possession of their money.
Get the Facts
Invariably, get the facts and take no substitute. There is nothing better and nothing just as good as the facts when it comes to withdrawing your savings from the hands of a fraudulent promoter. The facts about an investment either strengthen its position or show it up to be risky—often times too risky for the person who cannot afford to lose.
Others you know something about. Some time you may be approached to make a trade by a plausible person claiming to have better investments to offer than these you have. Recently a woman offered a block of gilt-edge public utility stock was approached by two smooth shapers and urged to exchange it for stock in a fruit company which she would, was not only very valuable but would increase rapidly in value and soon make her independently wealthy. Fortunately she told her neighbor about her offer. It happened that the neighbor had recently been defrauded in a similar way. She advised the second woman that she was not to exchange her business shares. Having handed many similar situations the bureau instructed the woman to make an appointment for the traders to meet her in her home.

Recently a woman offered a block of gilt-edge public utility stock was approached by two smooth shapers and urged to exchange it for stock in a fruit company which she would, was not only very valuable but would increase rapidly in value and soon make her independently wealthy. She advised the second woman that she was not to exchange her business shares. Having handed many similar situations the bureau instructed the woman to make an appointment for the traders to meet her in her home.

Good Advice that Prevented Disaster

New schemes to defraud are being hatched each day. The unscrupulous promoter never sleeps but is continuously plotting new methods of attack on the savers' hard-earned accumulations. The investor who takes with the law and the schemes he designs for belittling the sound advice of responsible persons makes it even more essential for investors to get the facts.
Remember that anything that is worth investing in is worth knowing about as to its safety, its income, and its marketability. Any investment which is entangled with a series of glowing promises or is so complicated that neither you nor your banker can fathom it and get the hard facts put in an investment you can afford to put your money into.
Make it an unbreakable rule to get all the facts, whether the investment be large or small, and you will hardly blame him who becomes a victim of appointment of losing your savings. Millions of dollars which have unfortunately been lost through poor investment might have been saved if the investors had taken time to investigate before investing. There is always need for capital in safe, honest business and so great is the legitimate demand for investors' funds that not a cent need be wasted by them on fraudulent schemes.
Don't Trade Good for Bad
(A future article will tell of more schemes by which people are defrauded of their savings.)

Beauty a Town Asset
In spite of the apparent commercialism of the age in which we live it is evident to any observer that the American people are rapidly developing a greater appreciation of the beautiful. This is not confined to the wealthier classes but extends to the great masses in the towns and villages and in the rural districts.
New towns and sections of the older ones are being laid out with wider streets, with provision for much larger lawns, more trees, shrubbery and flowers and a more attractive setting generally.
New homes show better architecture and greater harmony with their surroundings, while unsightly yard fences have largely disappeared. The net results of all these modern developments is beauty. And aside from the satisfaction it affords the eye, it pays in dollars and cents.
Beautiful cities, towns and villages attract people. They attract permanent residents, they attract tourists, and they attract trade. It is natural that a person while seeking a trading center will choose a town that is very beautiful and clean in appearance, to one that is unsightly and dirty, if equal conditions are anywhere near equal.
Therefore, it behooves the authorities of any community as well as of the individual citizen, to make the most of their opportunities for improving the appearance of the place in which they live. Beauty and cleanliness are a town's best assets.—Free Press (Grangeville).

The reason the average man can't tell a woman anything is because she would rather talk than listen.

IS A HEALTHIER STRONGER GIRL

Because She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The fertile valleys of Oregon help to supply the tables of America. This is possible through the diligent efforts of the able and hard-working men and women who are engaged in the raising of the various crops. In one of the number of the family is a young girl, Julia Schmidt, who is employed in the work of the field. It was strenuous work and she was not a strong girl. Often she forced herself to work when she was hardly able to sit at her machine. At times she was unable to stay at home for she was so weak she could hardly walk. For five years she was in this weakened condition. She tried various medicines. At last a friend of hers spoke of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she gave it a trial.
"Everyone says I am a healthier and stronger girl," she writes, "after recommending the Vegetable Compound to all my friends who tell me how they suffer and I am willing to answer letters from women asking about it." Julia Schmidt's address is 113 Willow St., Silverton, Oregon.
Girls who work in factories know just how Mrs. Schmidt felt. Perhaps they, too, will find better health by taking the Vegetable Compound.

The BABY

No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost any little ill. Flatness and fever, too; it seems to me until everything is serene.
That's the beauty of Castoria; its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, without shock to the system. Without the evil taste. It's delicious! Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as care and feeding of babies that require; or need to aid sound, natural sleep.
Just one warning: it is genuine Fletcher's Castoria that physicians recommend. Other preparations may be just as free from all doubtful drugs, but no child of this writer's is going to test them! Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold.

PLAN TO MAKE SWEET CUCUMBER PICKLE

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Dill pickles are used for making the sweet cucumber pickle described below. If you want to make the dill pickles first yourself, send to the United States Department of Agriculture for a copy of Farmers' Bulletin 1438-F, "Making Fermented Pickles." Otherwise use any good, firm dill pickles.
50 firm dill pickles
12 soaked sterile buttons
3 pint tarragon vinegar
3 cupful whole allspice
1/2 cupful whole black pepper, or 6 hot red pepper pods
10 pounds granulated sugar
1 pound brown sugar
1 cupful olive oil
Cut pickles in cross slices one-half inch thick, and drain in a colander overnight. In a three-gallon stone crock (with lid) pack the pickles in layers, using two garlic buttons to each layer. Put together the vinegar, sugar, and spices for 15 minutes, watching carefully that this does not boil over, and pour at once over the pickles. Next morning stir in the olive oil. Stir the pickle well each day for ten days. It is then ready to serve.

TWO RECIPES FOR HOMEMADE CANDY

Can Be Tried at Next Candy Pull by Young Folks.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Here are two recipes for homemade candies that can be tried at the next candy pull given by your young people. The United States Department of Agriculture supplies the recipes.
Peanut Brittle.
1 cup white corn 1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup brown sugar 1 cup fresh
1 tablespoon vinegar 1/2 cup peanut
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cupful whole allspice
1/2 cupful olive oil
Cook the corn syrup, vinegar and salt in a saucepan until a little dropped in cold water forms a soft ball. Put the peanuts and the moment you see them on the surface of the syrup, move from the fire and stir in the vanilla. Have ready a shallow buttered pan, pour candy in and spread out in a thin sheet. Allow to cool, then remove from pan and crack into pieces.
Nut-Coated Marshmallows.
1 cup blanched almonds
1 cup pecan kernels 2 1/2 cups brown sugar
1 cup English walnuts 1/2 cup, or 120 nut kernels
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cupful whole allspice
1/2 cupful olive oil
Chop the nuts very fine, and shake through a sieve to get the pieces uniform. Add the salt to the chopped nuts and stir well.
Make a syrup of the brown sugar and water, boiling it to 108 degrees C. or 228 degrees F. If no thermometer is available the syrup should be boiled until it threads from the spoon; but this method of determining the right moment to take it off the fire is not so accurate or satisfactory. Remove the saucepan from the flame when the temperature of 108 degrees C., or 228 degrees F. is reached, and set in a larger vessel of hot water. At once drop the marshmallows one by one into the hot syrup, and stir to handle them. Remove promptly, and roll at once in the chopped nuts. Place on oiled paper to dry. If the syrup gets so cool that it begins to harden, place it over the flame to reheat, but do not allow it to come to a boil.
If there is a coating of loose starch or powdered sugar on the marshmallows brush or shake it off before dipping them into the syrup.

ARRANGEMENT OF COOKING CENTER

Equipment Placed to Avoid All Unnecessary Steps.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
In the ideal kitchen arrangement the equipment is placed so that one moves with the fewest possible steps from one task to the next. There will be a definite center for each type of work—a food preparation center, a cooking center, a service center, and a clear-away and dishwashing center. To some extent these centers may coincide or be placed very near each other. For example, the food preparation center must be fairly close to the sink, which is the main piece of equipment in the dishwashing center.
One of the best ways to arrange a kitchen so that these various requirements will be met is to plan a pass closet in the wall between the kitchen and dining room in such a way that the sink is at right angles to it on the outer wall of the kitchen, so there can be plenty of light from a window either directly over or very near. The pass closet will have shelves for dishes, which can be put away as fast as they are washed, to be taken out on the dining-room side. It will have a counter below the shelves, and thus become part of the cooking center, with the stove next to this counter, so that the housewife can stand freely in one spot to handle foods as they are made ready to go into the dining-room car, carried out from it. The illustration, which was made by the United States Department of Agriculture, shows how easily this arrangement can be carried out in a relatively small space.

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders. You simply must keep your kidneys active and clear at the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders. Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful drink. A little water and drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

News Notes
It's a Privilege to Live in
IDAHO

MOSCOW—Large shipments of sheep and lambs from this section early in the week were sent to the southwestern portion of the state and not to market outside the state, as was first thought. The shipment was announced to sixty-two cars, containing over 12,000 animals.

MALAD—Trial plots of dry land seed potatoes planted this year have convinced many farmers in this county that this section is well adapted to the raising of potatoes compared with those that are raised on irrigated land makes them much more desirable for export purposes.

BOISE—District and resident engineers of the bureau of highways have recommended the opening of 300 miles of Idaho highways next year, Joe D. Wood, commissioner of public works, announced. The recommendation for application of the oil by what is known as the mixing method, as most contractors on the long run, followed the Friday conference of engineers with Commissioner Wood.

NAMPA—The largest apple shipment of the season from this district for one day was reported Saturday by the local P. E. & C. distributor when 136 carloads of the product moved out to eastern markets. Shipments of practically all kinds have been on the increase during the last month, as is shown in the following report of the O. S. L. car distributor for September.

BOISE—Leroy Lisenby, deputy game warden for Valley county, has checked sixty-two deer killed in the Yellow Pine basin of the Salmon River mountains since the opening of the season. This year 276 have been taken in the basin via trap on the opening day. Lisenby is under instructions of Warden R. E. Thomas to keep track of all parties, how long parties expect to be out, and to organize search parties in the event any party is lost.

BURLEY—After surveying one of two proposed fields for commercial airplane landings in plots adjoining this city, Airway Extension Superintendent Bert H. Creighton, of the bureau of lighthouses, left Friday for Brigham City, Utah, to continue the survey authorized by John Welch, director of commerce for locating airway beacon lights.

BOISE—Oiling of 300 miles of Idaho highways by what is known as the mix or match method has been recommended to the department of public works by the district and resident engineers of the highway bureau, announced Joe D. Wood, commissioner of public works. The recommendation revealed by the commissioner was made at the close of the conference of highway engineers in Boise.

IDAHO FALLS—Mercury in the government thermometer here dropped to 25 degrees above zero Tuesday night for a new record low mark of the year, Miss Arturas told. She had not received any reports of freezing damage. Cold winds made Wednesday miserable. A light snow fell several minutes Wednesday afternoon.

BOISE—Bean growers of Idaho are urged to insist upon prices at least equal to those obtained last year in a statement issued by John Welch, commissioner of agriculture, in which he charges the recent decline in prices to manipulation of the market. Michigan and Montana producers joined with Commissioner Welch in declaring reduced prices for beans are not due to any economic conditions.

BOISE—One thousand acres of seed potatoes will be tested in the Teton basin this year. C. Stephens, agricultural inspector of Victor, reported to the state department of agriculture. The entire acreage has been certified and per acre yield and quality were reported exceptionally high.

SHELLEY—Plans for the "first annual Idaho Spud day" to be held at Shelley, October 19, have been approved by the Shelley chamber of commerce in its weekly dinner meeting at the White Lunch cafe. The celebration is being sponsored by the potato growers of the Shelley district and the chamber of commerce.

POCATELLO—cocatello's first ram sale held Wednesday proved successful, according to Donald McLean, secretary of the Idaho Woolgrowers' association, who had charge of the event. Total sales amounted to $16,022. It is expected that the sale will be an annual event under the auspices of the chamber of commerce.

GLENN'S FERRY—It is understood that the stretch of road under construction east of here will be ready for the traffic within a few days. Recent rains are reported to have been of great help in completing the surface gravel. Completion of the new road will eliminate two railway crossings, as well as a stretch of hazardous grade bordering the north bank of the Snake river.

STILL GET THRILL
AT PENNY ARCADES
New York Sticks to Ancient Amusement.

New York.—Eight o'clock in the morning in the city of New York. Nothing remains, apparently, but to crawl into a taxi and give the driver your home address. That is, of course, if you do not belong to that class of New Yorkers who know all the little intricacies of the city. For instance, when it's eight o'clock in the morning, when you've dissipated the best part of your bank roll, when you still prefer the excitement of the city to the strains of a mechanical piano in a penny arcade, the thought of a morning recreation problem has been solved by this thoughtful amusement resort that flings wide its doors at 7:30 and within an hour has collected a swarming throng of customers.

The sliken and the seamy citizenry of New York is there. Don't be surprised to see the former in his and the latter in his, both from an open victoria at the curb. Gold Mine to Arcade.

These rich ones-in-a-whiffers are a gold mine, for they "do" the work on the entire 150 machines designed for the public's enjoyment. They may even give another dollar to the grapher before the entire scene of a bar painted with such sentiments as "Drink Here and Die at Home."

The average customer, however, is good for only three cents, and that change from a breakfast of cold slaw, an ice cream sandwich and orangeade at a cheap restaurant next door.

Thy, the florid faced manager, is probably the worst cynic on Sixth avenue. It beats his Irish understanding how crooked a guy can be in the matter of a cent.

"You'd never believe it, but there are people that will swear falsely they put in the money and the machine wouldn't go," he deplures. The man asserts that his employees get gipped out of plenty of money a year this way. He's been changing nickels for pennies during two decades of service for the single corporation which monopolizes ownership of the few remaining peep palaces in New York.

Thy says that about 1,700 people come every day. And at least 1,007 are out on the pretext of visiting the Sixth avenue employment agencies that cluster around the district at the rate of ten to a block. Although the arcade keeps open till midnight, business falls off perceptibly as soon as the job exchanges close.

The arcade offers a diversity of amusements. The athletic, the superstitious, the musically bent, the practical, and, of course, the seeker for thrills, have all their pleasures.

Visitors come to be fifteen or sixteen fortune telling devices. The Little Gypsy, for the small consideration of a copper, will answer briefly, "Can I trust my love?" "Am I liable for these any hope for me?" "Is my salary going to be raised?" She won't give you any particulars, except registering "yes," "no" or "maybe." But who would say that it isn't worth the price?

The mystic wheel also assures you that you can have a preview of your bridegroom. The wheel also assures you comes across with his photograph, there's a facility in it that. The man looks ready to leap on a bicycle built for two. If he is still alive, somewhere he probably wants a wife who can run a wheel chair.

The surprising attire is the crank driven microscope or peep show that gives you two eyes for the same reasonable price asked in 1807. The shapely ladies have stood the strain remarkably well.

"The Death Chair at Sing Sing" has exhausted its melodramatic horrors and goes no longer. The attraction called "What Girls do When They Are Alone" gives the educational information that they slip rope clad in flannel night dresses. Another well worn one is the caption, "For Men Only." Here you have a whimsical little picture about an artist who falls asleep while drawing a skeleton. In his dreams his model assumes the well rounded lines of a 1906 chorus girl, whom he is painting. The scene is discreetly covered with tights of a heavy woven texture.

On your way out treat yourself to a penny snuff of perfume and stop to listen to Edison's first conception of a gramophone. If you've never heard "Valencia" or "The Prisoner's Song" stick your nose in your ears and turn on the current.

DOOM IS SEEN
OF BATTLESHIP

Big Craft to Give Way to Speedy Vessels.

Washington.—The battleship is likely to be scrapped or relegated to a subordinate position when the Washington disarmament conference convenes in 1931, or at the latest when the Washington treaties expire in 1930.

The new ten 10,000-ton cruisers President Coolidge wishes to have congress authorize next winter will be built with a new conception of the navy in mind which will call for greater surface speed and a wider use of the airplane than was possible when even the latest battleships were built.

The airplane carriers Lexington and Saratoga, which the United States has been building since 1922, have caused a complete revision of the ideas of capital ships of the future. The details of these ships are still secret, but the Navy department is greatly pleased with the vessels as engines of war. They have a displacement of 33,000 tons and a speed of 33 knots, or greater than 60 miles an hour. Each will carry, it is said, as many as 100 airplanes.

The 10,000-ton cruisers also have a speed of 32 knots an hour and 7,000-ton cruisers, of which we have ten afloat, have a speed of 33.50 knots an hour.

Into a fleet of which these fast ships with a minimum of 22 knots speed are an important part, the dreadnought battleship with a speed of 21 knots its just about as well as the old monitors, which survived after the Spanish war with their speed of eight or ten knots, fit into the more modern battleship fleets of fifteen or twenty years ago.

No fleet can move any faster than its slowest member, and the effect of the battleship would be to slow down the new powerful and speedy cruisers and airplane carriers. At least that is the way naval thought is now trending.

"You'd never believe it, but there are people that will swear falsely they put in the money and the machine wouldn't go," he deplures. The man asserts that his employees get gipped out of plenty of money a year this way. He's been changing nickels for pennies during two decades of service for the single corporation which monopolizes ownership of the few remaining peep palaces in New York.

Formosa's
Head-Hunters

Kampanzan Savages of Formosa.

FORMOSA, where a recent earthquake took heavy toll of life, is still inhabited by savage head-hunters who have resisted the development of the island's resources. Formosa is larger than Maryland and Rhode Island combined but the region between the higher land is systematically planted to sugar cane, tea, sweet potatoes and tobacco. Farther back toward the hills, camphor trees, rice, date bananas, men and women work side by side in the fields. Because of their loose-fitting garments and mushroom hats, one cannot detect the sex of the workers at a distance.

Its Products Are Large. Although thousands of miles of the island have scarcely been touched by civilization, in a recent year Formosa produced approximately 25,000,000 bushels of rice, 25,000 tons of sugar, 12,000 tons of tea, 1,000,000 tons of coal, 3,000 tons of camphor, and 5,000 tons of camphor oil. Petroleum, gold, silver, copper, date, opium, tobacco and salt also are important products.

Opium is sold only to old licensed smokers and the number of users is reduced each year. Among the products are such as a well-wooded guard. Heavily guarded gates at frequent intervals permit the savages to trade with the Formosans but no savage is allowed to come into the "foreign" territory and no "foreigner" is allowed to enter the savages' domain without special permission of the Japanese police and a well-armed guard.

Back in the mountain recesses, the tribesmen live in compact villages, so camouflaged that one is within their confines before they are detected. The houses are built of large slabs of slate with thatched roofs that resemble the thick foliage of the forest. There is no furniture. When the savages dine, they sit as if ready to spring upon his prey, or lie on the floor.

No tribesman's life is complete without a skull about his neck. The skulls of his victims are hung in the mountain recesses, each containing the skull of a human being. It is as indicative of his glory as the trophy cabinet of a modern Olympic star.

Women Insist on Heads. The women have been blamed for maintaining this ghastly custom, for among some tribes the maidens will not marry until they have a hundred pig-blebs, each containing the skull of a human being. It is as indicative of his glory as the trophy cabinet of a modern Olympic star.

Peril of Camphor Workers. Many of the camphor stations are near the head-hunter's district. While the Japanese are bringing the savages under their control each year, and a heavy guard is constantly on duty among the workers, accidents on these stations are not uncommon occurrences. The huge trees are felled and then chipped with a scorpionic cutting instrument. When small cars, the workers use on a narrow gauge track, are filled, the load is consigned to a camphor still where the cuttings are transformed into pure camphor by a boiling process. Attached to the still bamboo pipes take off the camphor oil. A large quantity of the wild-production of camphor of which Japan's three-fourths comes from Formosa, is used in the manufacture of celluloid, perfumes and drugs. As is the case with many of the larger industries of Formosa, the Japanese government has a monopoly of the camphor business and dictates its own price by which the product is purchased from the individual producer.

In the wilderness, one cannot mistake a head-hunter for a harmless native if he keeps his head long enough to see one return. Attached to the neck are a single piece of cloth that reaches from their armpits to their knees, around their hips is a huge knife encased in a bamboo scabbard, and some of them carry bows and arrows to assist them in their head-hunting activities.

Most of them are tattooed with a blue substance that adds to their already uncomely features. Every savage child is forced to submit to the cruel operation which is performed by holding the child in a bamboo net out of the ground while wooden chisels and hammers are used to break the skin.

Natives and savages of Formosa are fond of fishing. Instead of using a hook and line, the savages throw a narcotic fluid into the water, which lures the fish and causes them to float on the surface. Then, in their handmade craft of bamboo trees lashed together, they collect their catch.

Most of Julietta Bean Crop Saved
According to a news dispatch from Julietta, reports are coming in daily to the effect that the damage to grain and beans has been overestimated. The fine weather that prevailed in the Potlatch section has enabled most of the farmers to complete their threshing of grain, and another week of good weather should enable bean growers to get their beans threshed or in sheds. Some of the latter will not be threshed before next spring. On account of scarcity of men, more women have been "drafted" for work in the bean fields of the Potlatch section than ever before and have proved efficient. They are largely responsible for the saving of the crops this year.

Regulate Idaho Traffic
In the interests of public safety and the standardization of federally designated highways, Joe D. Wood, commissioner of public works has ordered traffic regulations which require full stops by vehicles entering arterial highways.

Stop signs will be erected on all roads intersecting the old Oregon Trail highway, from Weiser to the Wyoming state line; the Yellowstone park highway from the Utah state line to Ashton; the North-South highway from Grangeville to Moscow and from Coeur d'Alene to Bonners Ferry and the Coeur d'Alene-Yellowstone trail, from Mullal to the Washington state line.

Full stops on entering the main highways will be required after Sept. 1. Vehicles on the main highways are given right of way over vehicles on intersecting roads and streets. Vehicles entering the main highways must come to a full stop unless the highway is clear of traffic for 300 feet in each direction.

height with the telling and illustrating of stories, learning poems with motions, singing "Goblin and Jack-o-Lantern" songs and discussing Halloween as to its origin and meaning. We are trying to make this Halloween as safe and sane as did the boys and girls in "Wake-Up Town". Our hand-work has been centered around Halloween and we now have several different pictures and studies on exhibition in our room.

The first grade, having twenty-two pupils enrolled, was divided into two groups. As we know, the smaller the group the more attention is given to each individual and much better results are obtained. The terms "A" and "B" were chosen to distinguish the two groups. The "A" division, having been the first to use their books, does mean that it is any brighter than the "B" group. The stories written on the board of the "B" division are fully as difficult as the work taken up in the books.

Reading is not the only subject in the curriculum for which the pupils receive grades. Their ability to sound the letters, to write, to relate their experiences and to do handwork receive their due attention. After all education is striving to help the child to better understand nature and its relation to man and to be able to profit by mistakes that have been made by others.

When some people tell the truth it is only for the purpose of making trouble.

Notice to Creditors
Estate of Knut Hoesid, Deceased.
Notice is hereby given by the estate administrator, Knut Hoesid, deceased, to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers within six months after October 28, 1927, the first publication of this notice, to the said administrator at his residence, Route 2, Moscow, or at 73c to 75c per bushel. No. 3 white oats were quoted at the close of the week at Minneapolis at 42c to 43½c, Chicago 45c to 47½c and Kansas City at 46c to 49c per bushel.

A continued and good demand both from local malsters and from exporters held the barley market independently firm. While prices declined slightly with other grains, malting grades held quite firm with U. S. Special No. 2 quoted at Milwaukee at 76c to 85c per bushel and best malting types selling at Minneapolis and Chicago at 73c to 75c per bushel. No. 3 barley was quoted at Denver at 72c to 77c per bushel.

HEAVY SPRING WHEAT MOVEMENT WEAKENS MARKET

Exporters were buying less actively. The oats market declined about 1c for the week, influenced principally by the decline in other grains. Demand was less active but receipts continued of small volume and good quality grain sold readily. Light weight oats and the lower grades sold more slowly. No. 3 white oats were quoted at the close of the week at Minneapolis at 42c to 43½c, Chicago 45c to 47½c and Kansas City at 46c to 49c per bushel.

GENESEE FARMERS WILL BE TEST FOR LEWISTON TEAM

That Lewiston is not unmindful of the possibilities that may attend the football game to be played this (Friday) afternoon between the Lewiston Bengals and the Geneese team, is voiced in the following article taken from the Lewiston Tribune, and fall from the prolific pen of Les Robinson, who, at the outset of the season stated that both Lewiston and Geneese had weak teams—and Saturday will show which is the weaker of the two.

Last Friday Moscow came to Geneese with a dope not filled to the brim—filled with the idea that the score would be 50-0 at the close of the game, in favor of Moscow. They did beat Geneese a little—but why shouldn't they? Their city is five times as large as Geneese and Coach Wicks had the advantage of knowing the strength and weak spots of the Geneese boys—but they went home with nothing to crow about under the circumstances.

The Lewiston Tribune article follows:

How much of a contender Lewiston high school will be in north Idaho football this fall will be determined Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the Lewiston turf gridiron, when Kieffner's Bengals clash with the Geneese Farmers.

Unless Lewiston can dispose of the hill boys by a touchdown or two, or at least win the game, there will be little hopes of making Moscow a contender on the Lewiston turf gridiron, when Kieffner's Bengals clash with the Geneese Farmers.

They did beat Geneese a little—but why shouldn't they? Their city is five times as large as Geneese and Coach Wicks had the advantage of knowing the strength and weak spots of the Geneese boys—but they went home with nothing to crow about under the circumstances.

The Lewiston Tribune article follows:

How much of a contender Lewiston high school will be in north Idaho football this fall will be determined Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the Lewiston turf gridiron, when Kieffner's Bengals clash with the Geneese Farmers.

Unless Lewiston can dispose of the hill boys by a touchdown or two, or at least win the game, there will be little hopes of making Moscow a contender on the Lewiston turf gridiron, when Kieffner's Bengals clash with the Geneese Farmers.

AMERICAN LEGION CONVENTION HELD HERE SATURDAY

The district convention of the American Legion was held in Geneese Saturday, October 29, when more than a hundred delegates and members gathered for the event. A business session was held during the morning and the adjourned session was again taken up at 1:30 and continued until the business of the convention was completed, after which a meeting of the "40-8" was held and initiatory work handled with speed and alacrity.

A real banquet was served at 7 o'clock by the ladies of the Congressional Club, at the home of Mrs. Pythias Hall, who is estimated that some 150 Legionnaires and business men of Geneese and their wives and sweethearts sat at table, when a splendid two-course banquet was served and from the happy vein of the speakers during the evening, was a most interesting talk made during the evening. John G. Meyer gave a short welcoming talk, as did Frank Hoorman, commander of the local Legion Post. The most interesting talk made during the evening was that of Captain Ernest Ellis, of Moscow, who gave a brief outline of the trip of the Idaho division to the great Paris convention. While Mr. Ellis made the remark that he did not know where to begin or where to stop, everyone listened to his narrative with rapt attention. He not only gave a few sidelights on the convention, but also told of some of his experiences with the Frenchmen, stating that he did not believe they understood their own language, and he might have drawn that conclusion had he not seen a hard job making them understand him.

R. L. Showalter of Moscow made a plea to the Legionnaires to make an effort to hold the veterans' hospital now located at Boise, which, he said, efforts were being made to remove to the city of Denver, and to help celebrate his birthday anniversary. (We can't state which one because she refused to let us count the candles.) It was also the birthday anniversary of Wood Gash, who was a guest of honor and he, likewise, had a very large cake filled with candles. It had to be a very large cake for there were so many candles necessary to bring out the thought in the mind of the maker.

It was indeed a very pleasant evening. Some of the guests played cards, some talked and some (so it seemed) did not do anything but eat. Of course it wouldn't do to mention names, but some of us hung around just about as long as there was anything left. A splendid lunch was served and of course the high birthday cakes were cut and all who were not invited were rather slow to sample them and they proved to be masterpieces of the culinary art.

The hostess received several pretty presents as mementoes of the occasion, both from the self-invited guests and her immediate family.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Follett, Mr. and Mrs. Wood Gash, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Dicus, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Follett, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Isakson, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McCree, Mrs. Rachel Loving of Spokane, Mrs. Fred Perkins of Moscow, P. C. FLORENCE RADER WINS FIRST PLACE IN NEWS CONTENT

The Geneese News high subscription contest came to a close Monday evening at 6 o'clock and the results are very satisfactory to the News man, the girls having put on many new names and cleared the list up in very good shape, although there are still a few names which might have been gotten and still a few old ones who were not seen by the contestants, but on the whole the girls did remarkably well and the News wishes to thank them for their work done.

The prizes were distributed as follows: Florence Rader, first, $50.00 in gold; Mary Mulalley, second, $20.00 in gold; Marguerite Roseman, $20.00 in gold; Geraldine Bumpass, $15.00 in gold; Geraldine Bumpass, fourth, $10.00 in gold.

The counting of the votes and handing of the contest throughout was in the hands of Mrs. Henry Marchand, who the book is open to the inspection of anyone who might want to see it. The contestants and the number of votes received by each, follows:

Florence Rader 390,000
Mary Mulalley 196,000
Marguerite Roseman 177,000
Geraldine Bumpass 145,000

A "Sure-Nuff" Surprise
If Mrs. Ira Larkin was never surprised before in her life, she was treated to a real one Friday night of last week, when twenty-three friends and some of the neighbors gathered to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary. (We can't state which one because she refused to let us count the candles.) It was also the birthday anniversary of Wood Gash, who was a guest of honor and he, likewise, had a very large cake filled with candles. It had to be a very large cake for there were so many candles necessary to bring out the thought in the mind of the maker.

MARKET GENERALLY STEADY SPRING WHEAT SALES LARGE

There were no marked trends in the markets for the principal grains during the week ending October 29 and prices held fairly steady at about the same level as a week ago, states the weekly grain market review of the United States bureau of agricultural economics.

Marketings of spring wheat, particularly in Canada, continued heavy but were readily being taken at prices slightly firmer than a week ago. Receipts of corn were larger and new grain from the corn belt was arriving at the markets but prices at the close of the week showed no material change from last week's quotations. The oats market developed some independent strength which caused an advance of about 2c in prices of desirable quality grain. Rye and barley also held steady but flax made a further small decline.

The heavy country movement of Canadian wheat which averaged between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 bushels daily tended to weaken the wheat market but this was offset by strength in foreign markets and continued export demand of fair volume. The new wheat crops in both Argentina and Australia are approaching a critical stage but progress was reported favorable during the week. Prices of native wheats in Europe declined 3c-5c per bushel except in Italy, but the market appears to be quiet for some time as a week ago, reflecting the demand for imported wheat. Native wheat at Hamburg was quoted at $1.02, at Paris at $1.52, at Milan at $1.83 and at Copenhagen at $1.36 per bushel.

The movement of United States wheat to the markets continued large and stocks have been increased to around 90,000,000 bushels which is about 11,000,000 bushels larger than the amount in store at the corresponding time last year. Daily receipts, however, were fairly well taken but the market appears to be quiet for some time as a week ago, reflecting the demand for imported wheat. Native wheat at Hamburg was quoted at $1.02, at Paris at $1.52, at Milan at $1.83 and at Copenhagen at $1.36 per bushel.

Premiums on durum wheat on the other hand were well maintained as a result of light offerings of high protein grain. Nos. 1 and 2 Amber durum were quoted at Duluth at 15c to 20c over the November price which closed October 28 in that market at $1.14. The demands for the lower grades of durum were rather slow but the No. 2 durum being quoted at 5c over the November and Nos. 1 and 2 mixed durum at 14c over, while No. 1 red durum sold about 7c under the November price.

Premiums for hard winter wheat had practically unchanged with prices of milling wheat considerably over an export basis. 12 per cent protein No. 2 hard winter was quoted at Kansas City at 9c to 14c over the December price, which closed October 28 in that market at $1.18. 13 per cent protein of the same grade was quoted at 17c to 22c over with the higher premiums being paid for choice Kansas wheat. No. 2 hard winter 12½ per cent protein was quoted at Omaha at $1.18 to $1.30 per bushel. Export bids were around $1.33 to $1.34 for No. 1 hard winter delivered quill ports and some wheat for export was reported moving from Omaha and St. Louis. No. 2 hard winter for November shipment in Liverpool was quoted at $1.46 compared with $1.48 for the Argentina Rosa Fe, 6½ per cent wheat for November shipment and $1.64 for Canadian No. 1 Manitoba for October and November shipment. Premiums for soft winter wheat were again advanced 2c to 5c per bushel in the central western markets, principally because of the scarcity of the offerings rather than any increase in demand. No. 2 red winter was quoted at St. Louis at $1.45, at Chicago at $1.33, at Cincinnati $1.37½ to $1.38½ and at Toledo at $1.35 to $1.36.

The oats market was again independently firm. With light stocks and small receipts oats for December delivery were in demand and December prices were advanced about 2c per bushel. Cash oats were also firm with heavy quality grain being taken as rapidly as offered. No. 3 white oats were quoted at Minneapolis at 44c to 45½c, at Chicago at 46c to 47c.

ATHLETICS

We are through with Moscow, though not victorious, we are well satisfied. The boys held Moscow on even terms after the first quarter.

With everything being so seriously injured we are preparing to the best of our ability for Lewiston. Lewiston, with the flashy Lee and Casseto, are clever at the passing game. Casseto is a constant ground gainer around the ends. With everybody doing their bit, Geneese should play Lewiston a close game.

The game will be played at Lewiston Friday afternoon at 2:30.

Hallow'een Party

On Saturday evening from 7 until 9 o'clock a Hallow'een party was given for the grade school by their teachers. All grades from the third to the eighth grade were present.

The boys and girls were met at the door and told they could not enter ghost-land unless the ghost would welcome them by shaking their hand. After this was done the ghost commanded each to enter, go down three steps, stop, make a wish and pass to the second ghost. The second ghost turned each one around three times while the third ghost asked everyone to turn around and walk backwards into the room.

At the foot of the stars all were tagged with a pumpkin-face or cat-face.

The rest of the evening was spent in contests between the pumpkin and cat-faces. The sides were very evenly matched, but the cat-faces proved to be the winners and were given a box of candy as a prize. Several individual prizes were also given, such as prizes for the widest grin and for the best stunt. Each one was allowed to fish for his fortune and at 9 o'clock refreshments were served.

All decorations, prizes and refreshments were of a Hallow'een nature and everyone seemed to have a very enjoyable evening.

SEVENTH AND EIGHTH GRADES

Several of our members are planning on joining the band when it is organized.

Wayne Roach is seventh grade reporter for November and Lester Ingle is news editor for the eighth grade.

Daisy Dean is back in school after a two-weeks absence on account of illness.

The seventh grade were very much interested in the talk given by Fern Erickson on her "trip to Sweden." The talk was correlated with geography and the study of Europe. The Swedish money and souvenirs from Sweden were of great interest to the class.

FIFTH AND SIXTH GRADES

Gail Sampson has been absent during the past week, due to illness.

Geo. Dean has returned to school after being absent for the past few weeks.

Tomis Platt has entered the fifth grade. This makes a total of 34 pupils in room.

Mrs. Smylie visited our room during music period last Friday. We hope to see others follow her example.

The fifth grade have begun their work in fractions in arithmetic.

THIRD AND FOURTH GRADES

Gretchen Reiserer was absent last week. We are all hoping that Gretchen will not need her crutches when she returns to school.

Harriet Hettlinger has left Geneese.

HUNTERS RETURN

Cody Rader and Art Springer left Sunday morning for the Salmon river country, near Riggins, after deer, and returned Thursday morning with two fine ones.

Iowa Woman Found Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound Always Helpful

"When I was seven years old I had to stay at home for a week as well as I can be in bed. I finally had to quit school. I was so weak, I suffered for about two years before I took Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound, then I picked up one of your books and read it. I began taking the medicine before each one was born. I can't tell you all the good I have received from it. When I am not as well as I can be I take it. I have been doing this for over thirteen years and it always helps me. I read all of your little books I can get and I tell everyone I know what the Vegetable Compound does for me from the Falls, Illinois, 510 7th Avenue, Vinton, Iowa.

How We Get Aluminum

ONE who was told that Arkansas was the principal source of bauxite in the United States would probably yawn wearily and ask, "what of it?" But if told that the same state produced most of the ore on which the rich and swiftly-growing aluminum industry is based, he would show much keener interest.

Aluminum, known in British countries as alumina, was first produced in the United States in 1855, although in that year only 83 pounds was produced. But in 1890 an inventor by the name of Hall perfected a process for extracting metallic aluminum from its ores, and so laid the basis for a swiftly-growing industry.

Many girls in the fourth generation are leaving their homes from school, and their mothers are glad to recommend it to their daughters. For over half a century, women have praised this reliable medicine.

RIGHT AND WRONG SPORTS COSTUMES

Usually Safest to Plan Entire Outfit as a Whole.

Clothing that looks attractive in a store or catalogue, when considered alone, often proves unsatisfactory when seen at home as part of a costume. This is particularly true of separate blouses, sweaters, jackets and skirts. Unless these are definitely selected to be combined with garments one already has or new ones

Aluminum is known chiefly for its excellence as a conductor of heat or electricity and for its rust-resistant qualities. Lately, however, aluminum has found its greatest usefulness in automobile body construction, where its lightness, together with a considerable strength, gives it marked importance as less weight and consequent higher mileage per gallon are sought by motor car manufacturers. It can be used to make a car at points where little or no stress need be resisted, as it has far less toughness than steel.

One of the most interesting facts about aluminum is that ordinary clay, such as we all see almost daily, is an oxide rich in alumina, but is an "ore" that is useless outside the laboratory, as no method of reducing it to metal has yet been found that is also cheap enough to warrant commercial exploitation.

Discovery of Nickel at Cobalt BY COMPARISON with the amounts of iron, copper, or steel used in the industries of the world, the quantities of nickel that enter into commerce are comparatively small. In 1927 the total consumption was set at 1,000 tons a year, and at that time a single nickel, the Societe Le Nickel, owned by the Rothschilds, produced more nickel than the world could consume, deriving it from mines in New California, the French nickel colony.

For many years prior to that time there had been interest in iron ore that occurred north of Sudbury, in eastern Canada, north of Lake Erie. These ores also contained copper. Efforts to smelt them into a satisfactory iron proved futile, however, because of the large amount of sulphur in the ore. When expert technological men gathered from the iron to the copper ores, they were still disappointed. In the copper was some whitish substance which hardened to so great an extent that it was of little use.

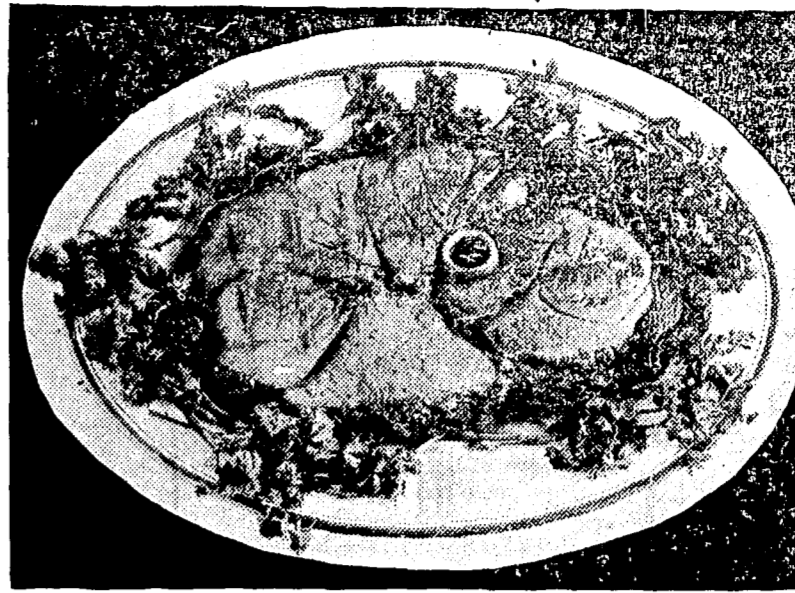

Various chemists and metallurgists worked on this problem, and the element was discovered that the element in question was nickel. The worthless iron ore was to become one of the most important sources of this metal in all the world.

In those days nickel was chiefly a decorative metal. Presently the great war gods took a hand. Makers of armor plate for battleships discovered that steel in which some nickel was included was much harder and more resistant to shell fire than ordinary steel plates. This increased the demand for the nickel that the Canadian companies entered an era of great prosperity.

Some of the larger of them were merged into a concern named the International Nickel company. Other Canadian deposits were owned by the Mond family, English millionaires. And the demand had grown so large that all three concerns prospered, including the French company, although each was producing as much or more nickel as would have supplied the world but a few years earlier.

As a by-product of the Canadian nickel smelters considerable quantities of copper are recovered, but the iron ores have not yet proved satisfactory to be smelted into pig iron. Cobalt ores, the brilliant coloring matter that is familiar to almost everyone, is an oxide of nickel, and the principal city in the Canadian nickel district is appropriately named for it. Cobalt. There is also a considerable extension of silver in that district. (Genesee News-Advertiser, 1927.)

SERVE SLICED HAM IN MANY NICE WAYS

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. Sliced ham is one of the easiest and nicest meats to serve. There are several appetizing ways of preparing it. Select a lean slice of ham from the center of a large heavy leg. Have it cut about three-fourths of an inch thick. If it is too thin it will dry out and become hard when cooked. Trim off any rind, and score the edges so the slice will lie flat while cooking.

If experience has shown that the brand of ham you use is a little too salty for the family taste, freshen it either in sour milk or buttermilk, or by covering it with cold water and bringing it to the boiling point. Soaking it in sour milk makes it tender, combination, yet equally bad ones are frequently seen.

The "right" model wears a two-piece dress that is plain and loose enough to permit active movement of any kind. It is truly intended for sports. The neutral color of the dress is relieved by having bands of two tones of orange on both blouse and skirt. These not only harmonize in color with the background and with each other, but they run in the same direction and so make the lines of the costume pleasing. A tie of one shade of orange is used. Sleeves are also appropriate to the purposes for which a sports costume is worn.

The "wrong" model has up and down lines in the striped skirt, and frequently seen. The "right" model wears a two-piece dress that is plain and loose enough to permit active movement of any kind. Many stories have come out of Spain of the way he kinged it around the place in infancy. In the nursery he was corrected for putting a knife in his mouth. "Gentlemen never eat that," he was told. He retorted, "I'm not a gentleman, I'm a king."

A Real Boss This generation has seen a number of child monarchs. King Alfonso of Spain was born after the death of his father and became king at birth. He seems to have taken himself seriously as a king from boyhood and to have rebelled lustily against his mother's regency whenever it took the form of reproof or punishment.

Many stories have come out of Spain of the way he kinged it around the place in infancy. In the nursery he was corrected for putting a knife in his mouth. "Gentlemen never eat that," he was told. He retorted, "I'm not a gentleman, I'm a king."

Many a man who believes that the earth revolves on its axis also believes that he is the axis.

bought for a complete costume, and unless the colors in the two separate articles harmonize, the effect may be very unfortunate. It is usually safest to plan an entire costume as a whole, even when it consists of two or more pieces, as in the model illustrated.

Appropriateness, simplicity and color harmony produce charm in the "right" model, and lack of these qualities gives an undesirable effect to the "wrong" one. It seems almost incredible that anyone should wear such a Young Carrots Should Be Quickly Cooked in Water Now, young carrots should be quickly cooked in a small amount of water. The seasonings suggested in this recipe are commonly used for soups. The use of Agriculture are not only appetizing, but they add to the food value of the dish.

Allowance for Clothes Contrary to the commonly accepted idea that farm families spend less on clothes than their city counterparts, an investigation by the bureau of home economics of the Department of Agriculture indicates that the allowances are approximately equal in the two groups.

Pertinent Remarks on People of Prominence

Some of Lady Oxford's thimble sketches of prominent Englishmen are quite clever. Albrecht, the already brief, he quotes from her characterization of Lord Ribblesdale: "He listens to himself, but his brains—which are of the most remarkable—sometimes go to his head and he hears confused noises."

The Cecil family, she says, have "minds and morals of distinction, but have unconsciously allowed away some of the more active muscles of their conscience."—Boston Transcript.

Europe has discovered a scheme for holding in check the pre-1914 rate. Various nations have created a demand in London alone for rat skins that amounts to very nearly $200,000 a year, and there is every indication that the consumption of this material will increase.

Indies' gloves are among the uses to which the skins are put. After the passing of the rat act in Denmark some time ago, the great body of unemployed laborers took immediate advantage of the bill, and the individual rat-catcher's earnings averaged between $1.75 and $1.90 a day. It is estimated that the damage by rats in England alone amounts annually to many millions of dollars, so that any inducement to promote their capture should be encouraged as far as possible.

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria will do the trick.

The doctor often tells you to a few drops, and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

THE GENESEE NEWS
Genesee, Idaho

Word from California
A short note from Mrs. F. H. Meader to the News, in renewing her subscription, says, "All Geneseeites are just fine in health and all seem to be doing well in a business way. Most all are working hard, except on Sundays, when we try to get together in some park and eat our dinner. Lots of sunshine and roses."

We are always more than glad to hear from former residents and hope they will send some news regarding themselves and others whom they might happen to know who are former residents of this section. Don't be so bashful, please.

Mrs. Meader's address is 150 North Robinson street, Los Angeles.

Claim World's Record
Lewiston Orchards now claims to hold the world's record in yield per apple tree. Two Rome Beauty trees on the John W. Wilks place averaged 54 boxes to the tree, each box weighing in the neighborhood of 50 pounds, an average of 2700 pounds to the tree.

Signed statements have been filed by the four people engaged in picking, vouching for the yield as reported. It is figured that this would allow an apple for every man, woman and child in Lewiston proper and in the Orchards.

Ladies, I am still in the hat business. Also do your sewing or the your comforts. Call at my residence 19-2x Mrs. Hayden.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

We hope Harriet likes her new school. Mr. Loncosty visited school last week.

The fourth grade, now under the leadership of Winifred Dean, won the contest on the multiplication tables.

Second Grade
Friday afternoon our room went to the primary room where the pupils enjoyed a Halloween party.

Mr. Loncosty visited our room Friday morning. We are always happy to have the parents visit us.

We are beginning a study of Holland and the Dutch children, in preparation for the Pilgrim story which we are going to take up a little later.

First Grade
The first grade welcomed a new pupil, Curtis Rhodes, to their room last Monday.

The Halloween party for the first and second grades was celebrated in the first grade room Friday afternoon. After recess the children entered a darkened room with only gleaming Jack-o'-Lanterns to show them where to go. Two songs were sung by each class and Halloween poems were given. The children were busily engaged for several minutes in making masks with paper, scissors and string. The brownies had promised to visit all the good boys and girls at the party, so in order not to frighten them away the children went to sleep. Every girl and boy must have had good, for when the brownies had gone the children awakened to find black cats drawing little orange carts, filled with candy, across the desks.

We are beginning the study of Indiana correlating with reading, nature study, language, art and literature.

First Touch of Real Winter
The Genesee section experienced its first touch of real winter weather Monday morning of this week, when the mercury registered 35 above zero and the ground was frozen for the first time this fall. No doubt the mercury was some four degrees lower on the flats. However, no damage was done to green stuff, only flowers, which felt the withering effect of Jack Frost's visit.

The first real snow of the season fell Tuesday evening and the ground was completely covered for a short time.

The preaching hour will be given over to a special program bearing on the event.

The choir, under the leadership of Mrs. W. M. Herman, will reassemble. The first part of the hour will be taken by the adults in selected readings, songs and an anthem by the choir. The remainder by the children of different ages. One phase is preparatory to the Red Cross membership drive, commencing Armistice day. Miss Ruth Martinson, chairman of the Genesee Red Cross, will speak briefly on this and the mayor if in town, or another leading citizen, will speak, urging our citizens to respond liberally to this call.

We extend a cordial welcome to friends the town and community over to be present.

On Monday night there was a big party in the basement of the church. Mrs. Emmett, superintendent of primary, and the teachers managed the affair and the children had a wonderful time.

On Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be English services conducted by Rev. Stubbjor of Montana. The Genesee Valley ladies aid will hold their annual bazaar November 18, at the Parish hall.

Some Cauliflower
John Eikum does not pretend to be an expert gardener, but that he knows how to raise cauliflower was proven when he brought to town Monday morning a head of cauliflower that weighed 17½ pounds and measured 42 inches in circumference. It was of the Danish Giant variety and the plant was bought from Tom Herman—together with others of course.

If any of the would-be gardeners of the Potlatch country want to try something better in that line, let the Kendrick Gazette man bring them forth as "Exhibit B."

Street Graveling Going Forward
Graveling of the street running north past the News office has been in progress during the past few days. It is being gravelled as far north as the F. W. Loncosty residence, a distance of two and a half blocks, from the 1st north of the News office.

Gravel has been spread on the streets leading to the junction with highway district No. 1, in the northwest part of town, to a point about a block east of the Catholic church.

Chink and Hun Season Opens
The chink and Hungarian pheasant season opened Tuesday morning and many hunters sallied forth—and quite a few birds were brought in. Some say birds are plentiful while others say they are quite scarce—and they probably are both plentiful and scarce—depending a good deal upon the locality and the hunter, however, many good kills were made Tuesday morning.

THE PICTURE SHOWS

"The Mohave Kid"
Something new in western film productions—a new star in a new type of story—will be seen at the Cozy theatre Saturday night, November 5, when Bob Steele will appear in "The Mohave Kid."

The story deals with a young and fatherless westerner, who sets out to find his long lost parent. In the pursuit, he not only finds him but finds the girl he loves, who has been raised in complete innocence among one of the toughest gangs that ever jeopardized the safety of the desert country.

The dawn of love in the girl, the reunion of father and son, the conversion of the bandit leader—these are the high points of dramatic intensity, while plenty of thrills are provided by Steele's master horsemanship, a mammoth explosion and a stirring fight between the hero and the bandits.

"Beau Geste"
An amazing story of three brothers in the French foreign legion—"Beau Geste"—will be the feature film at the Cozy theatre Sunday and Monday nights, Nov. 6 and 7. This is one of the outstanding pictures of the year—something different.

Recreated from the four corners of the globe, the French Foreign Legion, spreading the gospel of France in the wastes of the burning Sahara desert, is the retreat of cheats and robbers, bandits and forgers—"The Exile of the Self-Condemned"—here is gathered an motley group of men as ever defended a nation's flag. What a fertile setting for intrigue, mystery and stark romance.

And into this sordid atmosphere the thrilling tale of "Beau Geste" is interwoven, and the year's greatest melodrama is brought forth! The picture that successfully withstood the acid test of Broadway for nearly a year.

"Stark Love"
The feature film at the Cozy theatre for Wednesday night, November 8, is "Stark Love"—a story dealing with the hill people of North Carolina. His girl the newly wed wife of his father! That's one of the dramatic situations found in "Stark Love" Karl Brown's thrilling tale of life in the Great Smoky mountains. There, half a dozen miles from where we call civilization, when one woman dies another is immediately needed to step into her place. The working of the farm and the raising of children can not stop and no man will stoop to do such menial labor. Man is master and woman the slave.

Have Gone Hunting
Glenn Sampson, Cliff Lundt, Harry Beach and Matt Kasper left Tuesday for the wilds of the Salmon river country above Biggins, after big game—and no doubt it will suffer mightily, especially from Friday, as the party is made up of a mixture of two coyote clubs, which bode evil for the four-footed denizens of the upper reaches of the Salmon and contiguous territory.

They gave out the information when they departed that they would stay until the 15th of the month unless they got what they went after, and one man was mean enough to remark that "you needn't look for them back before that time."

Attention Bowlers!
All those desiring to bowl this year, or those wishing to enter teams please notify the committee, which consists of Al Mayer, Mahlon Follett, Chas. Goltz and F. W. Loncosty, before November 1. 18-2

SNAIL NO DELICACY IN OLD STONE AGE

Beloit Scientists Make New Discoveries in Africa.

AMERICAN FALLS—With the opening of the duck season one week ago, hunters report that duck shooting this year on the Snake river will be on a par with that of previous years.

Beloit, Wis.—The nice people of Mechtia, Africa, in the days before history began, were shamefully backward in their diet.

FOCATTELLO—The University of Idaho southern branch eleven, formerly the Idaho Tech, will play the first football game of the season under the standard of the university with the Utah Agricultural college freshman at Hutchison field.

Such are the deductions of Alonzo W. Pond of the Logan museum staff of Beloit college, Beloit, Wis., from discoveries made by himself and others on the recent Logan museum expedition to Africa.

BOISE—Improvement of the refrigerator car supply for Idaho growers, was announced by Will H. Gibson, president of the state utilities commission, from reports of facilitated return cars from markets and assurances of car service officials that every effort is being made to keep Idaho shippers supplied with refrigerator cars.

Regarding the diet, Mr. Pond said: "They ate snails—big snails, little snails, medium-sized snails, long snails, short snails, broad snails, narrow snails. They must have eaten snails for breakfast, snails for lunch, snails for dinner. Probably they had small soup, small hors d'oeuvres, snails for the fish course, even snails for dessert."

AMERICAN FALLS—A. C. DeMay, superintendent of the Southern Idaho association, which was formed in this city on September 29 to seek to bring about the restoration of the American Falls dam, was a part of the government's tentative ten-year reclamation construction program, has called a meeting of the executive committee of the association for Tuesday, October 9, at American Falls.

"But just when one becomes convinced," he added, "that snails were their sole food, a pick uncovers the leg bone of a huge ox or the jawbone of some ruminant. One marrow must have been a delicacy, for all the bones were broken so that it could easily be extracted."

MOUNTAIN HOME—City health officers are carrying on a strenuous campaign against a threatened outbreak of diphtheria. The disease has claimed a 3-year-old child and five more cases have been reported.

Washington—Sawdust is no longer considered a waste product. Its many uses range from the manufacture of dolls to dynamite, according to a statement made by Axel H. Oschm, director of the national committee on wood utilization, Department of Commerce.

PARIS—During the last week, according to Station Agent C. Pierce, sixteen cars of miscellaneous quantities were loaded out as follows: Eight cars of wheat, six cars of cattle, three cars of hay, one car of sugar beets and also a great amount of cream and eggs.

London—English justice has the reputation of moving fast, but Judge Macklinson in divorce court stepped on the accelerator so hard that the bandage over the eyes of the Goddess of Justice was almost blown off.

MALAD—Onda county has more registered and certified wheat planted for seed purposes than any other county in the state, according to information furnished by Ray J. Smith, county agricultural agent.

London—English justice has the reputation of moving fast, but Judge Macklinson in divorce court stepped on the accelerator so hard that the bandage over the eyes of the Goddess of Justice was almost blown off.

OLD WOMEN IN FRANCE Carry Loads of Stone Dieppe, France—Nearly all old women do the heavy work of porters here in the fish markets and on the beach, where they carry loads of stone weighing 150 to 200 pounds on their backs.

London—English justice has the reputation of moving fast, but Judge Macklinson in divorce court stepped on the accelerator so hard that the bandage over the eyes of the Goddess of Justice was almost blown off.

AMERICAN FALLS—A new meat packing plant with a capacity of about a million dollars business annually is under construction by George King, proprietor of King's Market. The plant, which will be one of the largest in Idaho, will be of reinforced concrete and frame in every detail.

SARAJEVO SINKS INTO LETHARGY

That's Where War Started, If You've Forgotten.

Sarajevo, Yugo-Slavia.—This little Bosnian town, where the World War started, is getting the reputation of being one of the most picturesque and sleepy towns in the world.

Such are the deductions of Alonzo W. Pond of the Logan museum staff of Beloit college, Beloit, Wis., from discoveries made by himself and others on the recent Logan museum expedition to Africa.

Women dressed in fairly modern European style allow the gleam of their eyes to be black draped, heavily veiled Turkish women. Gayly clad Moslem girls, with bright woollen scarves over their heads, slide deftly in and out through the crowd.

Adrift With Humor COMPLETELY LOST

Two men who had traveled were comparing their ideas about foreign cities.

"London," said one, "is certainly the foggiest place in the world." "Oh, no, it's not said the other. 'Tis been in a place much fogger than London."

"Where was that?" asked his interested friend. "I don't know where it was," replied the second man. "It was so foggy!"—Youth's Companion

Jewel Brocaded Georgettes One fabric house is manufacturing a series of jewel-brocaded georgettes. The stones are simulated by velvet patterns on a sheer georgette.

DEAD CITIES of CARTHAGE

Ruins of the Temple of Tanit.

Another period quadrilateral. It is said that as many as 200 galleys could be anchored at one time in the harbor. Actually a series of harbors, they were of imposing architecture and were marked off by gigantic columns, between which the ships were moored.

Carthage a Great City. The sea has risen three and one-half yards since Roman days, and there are many ruins under water in the gulf and at La Mars, north of the rebuilt city.

From the summit of the ancient hill called Byrsa (meaning "hide," and reminiscent of the Dido story of the bull skin), is unfolded the landscape which was once the scene of the tragedy of the Mediterranean. To the east, lies the magnificent Gulf of Tunis, of azure blue shading off into emerald green near the shores.

On the opposite banks arise the majestic twin summits of the sacred mountain of the Carthaginians, the Jout-Korneh. There stood the temple dedicated to Baal, but only a few stones mark the spot where the flames of votive offerings once paid homage to the insatiable Phoenician gods.

Under Earth and Water. The excavation of Carthage is a difficult because of the great topographical changes that have taken place since Punic days. For these changes the Medjerda river is responsible to a considerable degree, as its alluvial deposits have encroached upon a large part of the peninsula, completely covering a portion of land which in all probability was once occupied by the city.

Chemistry Catches Up with Cotton The extraordinary growth in the chemical manufacturing business of articles made from cotton during the past 20 years has constituted in the aggregate an enormous expansion in American business. These articles include such things as toilet sets, eye shades, fountain pens, spectacle frames, motion picture films, spraying powder, leather substitutes, paper chips, automobile curtain windows, washable window shades, rayon, fibers, some types of dynamite, and Duco finish, which is used on nearly all automobiles and for furniture finishing, the finishing of surgical and optical instruments, safes, railroad cars and locomotives.

Twenty Years Ago A special meeting of the city council was held Tuesday evening and Ordinance No. 85 was placed upon its first reading. The ordinance is entitled "An ordinance requiring the proprietor or proprietors of each saloon or barroom, who sell or cause to be sold, by agents or otherwise, any spirituous, malt or fermented liquors within the corporate limits of the City of Genesee, to obtain a license for the sale thereof." etc. The license fee was set at $5 a month. The item further stated that "At the present time there are five saloons in the city and a monthly revenue of $25 will be collected."

The use of cotton in the manufacture of many diversified objects is constantly increasing and each year shows new articles of great value to "Chickens that come home to roost" have more sense than some people.

Just a word about radio: If you are interested we would like to demonstrate the advance that radio has made in the past year. The cheapest radio will receive, but you will soon tire of distorted and jumbled reception. Quality and selectivity alone count in the long run. Do not buy until you have heard different kinds of sets. We will be pleased to demonstrate them in your own home, and you are welcome to come and hear them in our own home. You are under no obligation to buy, if you are not convinced that it is the best you have ever heard.

New Plant Furnishes Juice
The new hydro-electric plant at Lewiston has been in operation and one unit of the plant was turned on the other evening and 4,500 horsepower was developed with only about 60 per cent capacity. The juice was handled over the Pacific Power and Light company's wires, of which the new Lewiston plant is a part. The hope has been expressed by many Genesee "juice" users that when the lower plant is put in full operation, Genesee will be able to have a little more power and that the fluctuation will not be so great. The W. W. P. Co. has been furnishing Lewiston a part of her juice.

His Choice
An old Scotchman was threatened with blindness if he did not give up drinking. "Now, McFavish," said the doctor, "it's like this. You'll either have to stop the whiskey or lose your eyesight, and you must choose." "Aye, well, doctor," said McFavish. "I'm an old man now, an' I was thinkin' I ha seen about everything worth seein'."

W. W. P. News Notes
Work has been started on the installation of the turbine for the second generating unit at the new Chelan power station of the Washington Water Power company, according to the announcement of M. W. Birkett, vice-president and general manager. The first generating unit has been in service continually since it was put on the line September 16, with a rated capacity of 32,200 horsepower, which has been increased temporarily with added water pressure. The turbine parts for the second unit have arrived and the second generator is expected at the project after the first of next year.

While the Chelan power station has been tied into the general system of the Washington Water Power company, the demands on the Columbia river territory are more than sufficient to consume the output of the first generating unit at Chelan.
When completed, with four units, this power station will have a capacity of 128,800 horsepower.

MRS. OLI HAGAN PASSES AWAY AT TROY HOSPITAL

The funeral of Mrs. Oli Hagan, who passed away at a Troy hospital, Wednesday, November 2, was held Sunday, November 6 at the Troy Methodist church at 1 o'clock, Rev. Forbit, pastor of that church, officiating, with interment in the Moscow cemetery.

Bertha Melliza Martinson was born near Genesee, August 20, 1888, where she resided with her parents until young womanhood. On October 3, 1919, she was married to Oli Hagan, and they went to Troy, near which place they took up their residence and where they resided at the time of Mrs. Hagan's untimely death November 2.

To this union two daughters were born, Verma and Dolours, who, with her husband, Oli Hagan, survive. She also leaves a sister, Mrs. Isaac Isken of Genesee, and three half-sisters, Miss Grace Crossett of Lewiston, Mrs. John Cameron and Miss Lucille Crossett, both of Moscow, to mourn their loss.

Mrs. Hagan was a devoted member of the Methodist church, a member of the Rebekah lodge and Neighbors of Woodcraft. She was a loving mother and wife and will not only be greatly missed by her immediate family, but by all who knew her for she had endeared herself to all. While she had not resided at Genesee for many years she was well and favorably known by many who will feel in a measure the deep grief of her family and the hearts of this community will go out in sympathy with the loved ones she left behind.

The funeral was one of the largest ever held in Troy and the floral tributes were numerous and very beautiful, attesting the high esteem in which Mrs. Hagan was held.

The family and sisters wish to extend their sincere thanks to all friends and neighbors who so willingly aided them in their hour of need, and especially to those who gave the beautiful floral offerings and those who put forth special efforts to aid them in time of need, for all of which they are duly appreciative.

Death of Columbus Clark
Columbus N. Clark, 56, one of the best known and most prominent residents of Latah county died Saturday night at 8 o'clock at the home of his son, Lawrence, three miles from Julietta on Fix ridge, death ensuing from a heart attack. Mr. Clark returned to his home a couple of hours before he was seized and evinced no symptoms of suffering. He had spent the day in Lewiston and upon reaching Julietta, stopped at the store of an old friend, John Heacock, visiting for a brief period before leaving for the country.

Columbus N. Clark was born in Missouri and when a boy came with his parents to this region. For 35 or more years his family home was maintained on the old homestead place, now being managed by Lawrence Clark, a son. Mrs. Clark died about one year ago. Aside from being engaged in extensive farming operations Mr. Clark was also active in politics. He served Latah county as commissioner for several terms and also represented his constituency in the state legislature.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the school house on Fix Ridge. Interment in the cemetery on the ridge.

Rain Finally Ceased
But it began again. After a week's fall, without hardly a let-up, the sun came out Monday morning about 8 o'clock and shone intermittently during the day, but Tuesday no sun was to be seen and very little has been seen since. Old Sam's weather began falling again Tuesday night and, well, it has rained a plenty since that time. However, we should not make a fuss about a little thing like that. Just read the press dispatches of what is happening in other parts of the family home near Cadogan, Alta, Canada, November 4, the cause of death not having been fully determined.

South American Markets
A communication, which has been referred to the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, was received by the Idaho public utilities commission this week from the Port of Portland commission urging the Idaho apple and potato growers to take advantage of the markets that will be opened in South America through the initiation of service from Portland to east coast countries. Steamers have already left for Buenos Aires and Argentina with part of their cargoes consisting of apples.

Will Give Free Radio Party
The American Legion will hold open house in their hall this (Friday) evening, when a free radio party will be given—where everyone may come and listen to radio music, absolutely free of charge—and those so inclined may dance to their hearts' content.

Boost for OUR town.

MOSCOW SCHOOLS CLOSED TO PREVENT SPREAD PARALYSIS

The board of health and the school authorities on Sunday decided to close the public schools in Moscow for an indefinite period, effective Monday morning, and at the same time the edict went out that during the pendency of this precautionary step, all children, 15 years and under, will be prohibited from attending Sunday schools, picture shows or gatherings in groups in public places, says a Moscow news dispatch.

Infantile paralysis is the cause of this step being taken. Saturday night the disease claimed its second victim within one week, when P. Wineman, a little girl in the second grade succumbed. On Wednesday, Lowell Shivers, a high school student, died from the dreaded disease, until Saturday two other cases were under quarantine, these being released Sunday.

Every precaution will be taken by the municipal and school authorities to prevent the disease from spreading. The disease should it again make its appearance.

Superintendent Fulton Gale, of the public schools announced that the closing of the schools and the order prohibiting the gathering in public places will be enforced.

The University of Idaho is not affected by the order. The public schools of Boise have also been closed for the same reason.

Los Angeles Steak Deadly
A struggle with a tough piece of steak resulted in the death of the diner, Carl Naran, 32, at Los Angeles last Sunday.

"This steak is plenty tough," Naran told his waiter companion, Jack Neagles, the latter reported to the police. "Why don't you pick it up and eat it like a sandwich?" was Neagles' suggestion.

Naran acted on the suggestion and with the first bite he choked.

When he realized the steak was serious Neagles took Naran to a nearby drug store where an ambulance was called. Naran died on the way to the hospital where surgeons removed a large piece of steak from his throat.

They may have plenty of sunshine and flowers down there, but the quality of the breakfast they have to contend with must be something fierce.

The Idaho steak has never been known to cause immediate death to the eater, at any rate—another reason why our steak is the best. It was a resident of this particular part of Idaho.

Football Dope
In sizing up the football results and handing out the dope, Les Robinson, football dope mixer for the Lewiston Tribune, has the following to say regarding the Genesee team:

Lewiston kept its record clear last week and won the right to meet Moscow in the title contest by taking a close game from the Genesee Farmers 6 to 0. The Bengals were hard put to win this game, but managed to send their fleet halfback, Casetto, around the end to score in the third quarter. The Lewiston-Moscow game was postponed a week on account of infantile paralysis in Moscow.

Genesee's showing against Moscow and Lewiston the past two weeks stamps the Farmers as entitled to third rating in the north Idaho conference. On account of meeting none of the weaker panhandle teams Genesee has no conference wins on its list but the two defeats by Lewiston and Moscow.

Hansman Boy Dies in Canada
Mr. and Mrs. John Krier received a telegram last Friday that their nephew, Joe Hansman, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hansman, former Genesee residents, had died at the family home near Cadogan, Alta, Canada, November 4, the cause of death not having been fully determined.

Mrs. Hansman and Mrs. Krier are sisters.

SEED PLOTS MAY BE REQUIREMENT FOR CERTIFICATION

Growing a seed plot will probably be made a part of the certification requirements for seed potatoes hereafter, according to E. R. Bennett, university extension horticulturist.

Under this plan each grower will produce his own seed under the most rigid conditions. The plot is to be an acre or more in size and is to be isolated. Every precaution will be taken to see that both seed and plants are thoroughly clean and diseased plants will be immediately removed.

Growers, therefore, will have to start this fall to prepare for their crop of two years hence. The first step will be to collect seed from the healthiest and longest plants for use in planting the plot next year. The seed plot will furnish its first seed for the 1929 growing season.

Addition of this requirement is made because of the unusual prevalence of the disease in seed potato fields this year. The situation is not peculiar to Idaho. Similar conditions prevail throughout the northwest and in many eastern and middle western sections conditions are even worse.

In Idaho, however, more than half of the fields grown for certification cannot get rid of blighting to the extent that doesn't carry the disease. Seed treatment will prevent the spread of the disease in storage but it is not, in any sense of the word, a remedy.

Mr. Bennett estimates that the output of all possible precautions is 400,000 and 500,000 bushels. It will not be much greater than last year's despite the fact that the requests for certification have been 200 per cent more numerous than ever before. Mr. Bennett has had Eugene Whitman as regional assistant in the field this summer helping with certification work and several other specialists from the experiment station and extension division have given aid.

"Sanitary" Pigs Top the Market
The system of swine sanitation development by the United States department of agriculture in Illinois is now being used successfully in Georgia, according to Dr. E. M. Nighbert, federal specialist in swine-parasite investigations, stationed at Moultrie, Ga. One livestock owner recently marketed his second crop of pigs raised under the swine-sanitation plan. Ten pigs, approximating six months old and averaging close to 200 pounds in weight, topped the market, and 32 additional pigs that are nearly ready for market are equally promising.

The system of raising the pigs involves methods which control infestation from parasitic worms. Tests showed that the parasite control in the pigs marketed was almost complete, which accounts largely for their healthy condition from time of farrowing to the finishing and marketing date. The system of swine sanitation has also stimulated interest in pure bred breeding stock. When parasites are effectively controlled the superiority of well-bred livestock over inferior kinds is so apparent that progressive swine owners, quickly improve their herds.

What Do You Think?
Some judges are crazy and some just foolish. Judge Burnett of San Francisco, a federal official, is out with a statement advocating five-year marriages as a panacea for the divorce evil. He said that the divorce laws are making fires. Burnett and his ilk are merely progressing toward an advocacy of universal common-law marriages.—Idaho Pioneer.

And about Little Judge Ben B. Lindsey's (former juvenile judge of Denver) barnyard marriages he has been advocating throughout the country and it is managing since he has declared out of the position he had held for so many years?

Are his ideas on marriage and divorce any better?

There should be a law restraining such men from running at large.

Vacations Necessary
Marriage is often a failure because neither of the interested parties has sense enough to take an occasional vacation from the other.

The Reason
Passenger—Why are we so late?
The Porter—Well, sah, de train in front is behind, and we was behind besides.

STATE ISSUES BULLETIN ON INFANTILE PARALYSIS

For the past several weeks, Idaho has been surrounded almost completely by a severe epidemic of infantile paralysis, or anterior poliomyelitis, and it has been nothing short of a miracle that this disease has not gained a greater foothold in this state. However, recently a number of authentic cases have appeared in the various sections of the state and the department of public welfare feels it advisable to advise the people to be on guard against the appearance of this disease in their respective localities.

This disease is extremely infectious and is usually carried either directly from child to child, or from an adult carrier to a child by the nasal secretion. Contrary to the general belief, the disease does not start as a "cold" but the first thing noticed with the child usually is that the patient is listless, has a temperature which may be not more than 100, complains of headache, has vomiting without apparent reason and go on from this state either to a recovery or to paralysis or death.

In view of the manner in which it is distributed, patients are urged to keep their children out of doors as much as possible, keep them away from crowds, do not let adults breathe in their face or kiss them on the mouth, and as soon as any of the above mentioned symptoms appear have the case diagnosed by your family physician in order that treatment may be instituted at once.

While we hope that this disease will not assume epidemic proportions in this state, it is felt that owing to the severity of it, it is advisable to urge that all possible precautions be taken to protect against it until the onset of cold weather.

Hold Interesting Meeting
The north Idaho division of the Idaho State Editorial association held a very interesting meeting at Moscow Saturday last when many editors and news representatives of the north part of the state gathered for the occasion.

The visiting editors were banqueted and entertained by Delta Sigma, journalistic fraternity of the University of Idaho, and were loud in their praise of the entertainment given them.

The sessions were addressed by several Moscow business men and newspaper men of the north part of the state. Music for the occasion was furnished by the University Stringed quartet and the Pep band.

The spring meeting of the association will be held at Sandpoint, the invitation having been extended by Don J. D. Moore of the North Idaho News and J. G. Parsons of the Sandpoint Review.

Want to Clear List
There are still a few subscribers to The News whom the girls in the contest did not get to see, and to all these have been mailed gentle reminders regarding their subscription. It is our earnest desire to get our list brought right up to date. We do not want you who have been sent these little reminders to feel that we are treating you any differently from any one else, but we must have our subscription money in order to pay for the paper we use in printing the News—and we do not want you to feel either hurt, or elated, or slighted, for we have treated all just alike—and the main object is to bring our subscription list right up to date, just to see how it will look, if for no other reason.

Please accept the notice in the spirit in which it was meant and then you will see it as we do.

Supt. Mushlitz Made President
At the meeting of superintendents and coaches held at Lewiston last Saturday, Supt. M. E. Mushlitz of the Genesee public schools was elected president of the district athletic association, comprising the counties of Latah, Nez Perce, Clearwater, Lewis and Idaho, to fill out the unexpired term of U. N. Terry of Nezperce, who has removed to the southern part of the state.

Supt. Mushlitz is fully qualified to fill the position to the entire satisfaction of all fair-minded people and will see to it that a square deal is given everyone connected with the association.

Third and Fourth Grades
Raymond Cameron, Henry Dean, Gretchen Reiserer and Louise Wishard were absent last week.

Both the third and fourth grades are doing handwork concerning "Dutch Life in Holland," in preparation for the "Pilgrim Story."

The third grade are very much interested in the story "Alice in Wonderland." We are trying hard to read our list every day.

First Grade
Everett Smith and Geraldine Rogers were absent on account of illness. Mrs. Mervyn was a welcome visitor in our room Friday morning.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

We have good prospects of having an excellent band organization in the schools here. There are about 20 pupils that have already signified their intention of joining this organization. All students from the fifth to the tenth grade, inclusive, are invited to belong. This arrangement was made with the cooperation of the music department of the University of Idaho. Mr. Hoisington, or one of the members of the Pep band, will come to Genesee once a week and give lessons. The cost of the whole thing is mainly the initial cost of the instrument. The instructional cost will not be very much, probably not over a dollar per month per pupil.

Mr. Hoisington is a noted organizer of bands. For the past two years he had charge of band organization for the state of Montana. We feel that if students in the grades mentioned form this organization that by the time most of these people will be upper classmen Genesee will have a band of which to be proud.

The Genesee faculty has stood one hundred percent in membership of the Idaho Teachers association for the last three years. This ranks the Genesee teachers high among the progressive teachers of the state.

Athletics
Football is over for the 1927 season, as far as Genesee high school is concerned. The Polatch and Pomeroy games to be played November 11 and 18, have been cancelled by those schools because of an epidemic of mumps.

W. O. W. Banquet a Success

The banquet and get-together meeting of the Woodmen of the World held Thursday evening of last week, was well attended and proved a very profitable and entertaining evening for those fortunate enough to be present. The banquet was all that could have been expected and the entertainment features of the evening were of a pleasant nature.

Adeline Drescher was crowned "spud queen" during the evening, she having received the most votes for that honor.

Ladies, I am still in the hat business. Also will do your sewing or tie your comforts. Call at my home. 19-2x Mrs. Hayden.

Auxiliary Will Meet

The ladies auxiliary of the Christian church will meet at the home of Mrs. Wood Gash Tuesday afternoon of next week. All members are asked to please be present.

Linger Longers Meet

The Linger Longers met at the home of Mrs. Mahlon Follett Wednesday afternoon and the ladies spent a very enjoyable time. A dainty luncheon was served by the hostess at 4:30. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Ray Edwards, November 22.

New Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Giese, living east of Pine Grove, are the proud parents of a baby daughter, born November 3. All concerned are reported as doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Cameron are the parents of a daughter, Irah Rose, who arrived Saturday night, November 5, to make their home with them. Mother and babe are reported as doing nicely.

Mrs. Cameron is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Springer.

No Change in Game Law

Reports that there would be a curtailment of the Chinese pheasant season by the state game department were denied this week by R. E. Thomas, state game warden. The season will run in accordance with the dates printed on the backs of the licenses.

Already the game department has started its winter campaign against predatory animals and Mr. Thomas said the department is encouraging individuals to take out permits for the trapping of these animals on game preserves. The department has eight men working in various sections of the state on the predatory animal campaign and many individual permits have been issued.

Bridge Club Entertained

The bridge club was entertained Friday afternoon of last week by Mrs. Ira Hanson. Mrs. Mahlon Follett received high score and Mrs. Clyde Meyer low score.

The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. W. W. Burr on Friday, November 18.

Highways Depend On Oil Industry

Taking the country as a whole, the motor vehicle drivers last year paid taxes averaging 2.38 cents per gallon, on almost 8,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline. The aggregate of this tax was $187,608,231. In addition they paid $288,292,352 in motor vehicle registration and license fees.

About 95 per cent of gasoline taxes and 93 per cent of the motor vehicle registration fees went to building and maintaining highways. If to this total be added special taxes imposed on motor coaches and motor trucks, property taxes on motor vehicles, taxes paid by the petroleum industry and the motor vehicle manufacturers, a total of above $1,200,000,000 is to be reached.

That is the people who buy, operate and manufacture motor vehicles, and produce, buy and burn gasoline are more than paying the nation's road bill which now runs about one billion annually.

Any man who works only for pay seldom does his best.

ALLEN'S HEAT RADIATING FINS

The Biggest Feature Developed During Recent Years in a Heating System

100 per cent Increased Heating Surface

Air is not warmed by heat rays, but is heated by coming in contact with hot surfaces. In the New Allen's with the Heat Radiating Fins the hot surface over which the air passes is doubled. Due to this improved construction the heating capacity of Allen's is greatly increased—circulation of warm air is more rapid—a big saving in fuel is effected. These Heat Radiating Fins also strengthen the casting and prolong the life of the heating unit. Only in Allen's do you get this big feature.

A Furnace Above the Floor

Allen's is the original Parlor Furnace that is placed above the floor, in a room or hall where there is a fire connection. Heats the whole house. Circulates clean, moist warm air like a fireplace. Finished in porcelain enamel, natural walnut effect. Harmonizes with the finest furnishings. As easy to clean as a piece of furniture. To see it is to want it. Come in at your earliest opportunity.

Ready to Begin

"Have you given him anything, or done anything to relieve him?" asked the young doctor, who had fared far into the backwoods to see a patient in the dead of a stormy night.

"Well, no, doc—that is to say, nothin' to speak of," said the wife of the patient. "I had him soak his feet in almost 'b'llin' water with a lot of mustard in it, an' I clapped a red-hot plaster on his back, an' another one on his chest, I've put a couple of blisters under his arms, an' a bag of cracked ice on the back of his neck, an' had him drink a pint of ginger tea with a dash of rum in it, an' I folloed that with some yarb bitens one of the neighbors sent over, an' I had him take five or six pills out of a box I got one day from a man that come along with medicine to sell, an' he's had three or four spoons of Quaker's pain-killer an' one of them siddeltz powders, but I didn't feel like as if I art to try to do much for him until you come an' see what you think ailed him."

Town and Country

How the country has come to town is indicated by the fact that there are approximately 2,800,000 telephones on the farms of the United States, or about 44 farms out of every 100 are equipped with telephone service. Radio manufacturers estimate that close to a million receiving sets have been installed on the farms. The United States department of agriculture is cooperating with state bureaus and educational institutions in broadcasting market reports daily for the benefit of the farmer. The weather bureau furnishes daily reports on wind, rain, hail and snow.

Will Sow More Wheat

Washington farmers are intending to sow this fall an acreage of wheat 8 per cent larger than sown last fall. This increase would give 1,382,000 acres as compared with 1,280,000 acres sown in the fall of 1926, according to G. S. Ray, of the Federal division of crop and livestock estimates at Spokane.

The intended acreage for this fall is based upon reports from farmers in all parts of the state who indicated about August 1 the acreage they expect to sow to winter wheat. The amount of fall rains and the time at which they will occur will of course have an influence upon the actual acreage planted in some parts of the state.

Three Spuds Weigh Six Pounds

Three netted Gem potatoes which weigh six pounds are on display in the Free Press windows this week. They were raised by E. Dady, who also has a four-pound tuber which he is saving for the Spokane potato show. — Cheney Free Press.

In Winchester Section

Between three and four inches of snow is reported to have fallen in the Winchester section Sunday afternoon and evening, giving things a pretty wintry appearance. It is said that between a thousand and twelve hundred acres of grain still remains to be harvested in that section and not more than half the potatoes have been dug, so winter wear is decidedly out of order there at present.—Cottonwood Chronicle.

Elk River Mill Closes

The Potlatch Lumber company has posted notices about the sawmill that operations will cease on November 12 for three months, during which time extensive repair work will be done about the mill. One shift only is running at this time, the day shift having been taken off Monday.

Overhauling of the generators is going on, and the completion of one should be made in about two weeks and work on the other will then begin. The work is expected to be complete sometime in January.—Elk River News.

Car Misses Turn

Friday evening of last week a Ford sedan coming from the north, left the road at the turn at the northeast part of town and moved off several fence posts before the obstreperous thing was brought to a standstill. The car was damaged considerably but none of its occupants were injured beyond a slight shaking-up.

Steward-Warner are the largest manufacturers of radios in the world. 98% of our parts made by the Steward-Warner. Millions of people are using Steward-Warner products and good judgement on the part of Steward-Warner would not allow them to put a radio on the market if it was not of the best with the least money invested. They are backed by more money than any other radio manufacturer in the world (I don't mean incorporation) they have their own service station in Spokane and that is something to depend on.

I have the No. 300 at home and I get all the music there is to get in the west — this set will cost you complete only $106.50.

The above claim made by the Steward-Warner that they had perfected one of the best radios on the market for the money must be true. If I am any judge they have one of the best.

I have a No. 520 model installed in the store and can say I never heard a more perfect tone and one almost void of noise. The piano music received was as near real as can be and that is the music to get to test out a radio.

Why don't I go out and demonstrate? Because I don't get the discount that others give. The Steward-Warner company claim they are giving their customers more than what they pay for instead of too much advertising and big discounts.

We have ground corn for fattening your old hens and cockerels and cracked corn to mix with your wheat for scratch.

Feed your lime grits instead of oyster shell—it is cheaper and contains 97% lime. It grinds the food and furnishes the lime for shell.

A joy juggle with a kick! A jocular mirth gag that does not let up until the final fadeout and will make you quiver with merriment like the fenders of a worn-out flivver. Say it with smiles—gasp it with giggles—get limp from laugh spasms—jar you with merriment—all this and more is embraced in this superb and laughable Christie comedy production.

"The Million Dollar Handicap"

—and such a picture it is, too. Laughter has the right of way! A carload of comedy with Conklin, the bit of "McFadden's Flats," and Barcroft, the roaring, roistering roughneck of "Old Ironsides" is impossible to resist.

Here's the scream team of the screen for whom the phrase "a natural" was coined.

"Clancy's Kosher Wedding"
A Jewish mirth! An Irish kist! A comedy whirl! Oh, what a girl!—It's one of the greatest comedy smashes that these two famous Jewish-Irish comedians have ever attempted—and they will be seen at the Cozy theater Wednesday night, November 16.

Hyman Cohen and Tim Clancy are established as proprietors of side by side clothing stores. Both resent the fact that Leah Cohen and Tom Clancy are exceedingly fond of each other. A freud is added to the combination by the attentions of Izzy Murphy, a prize fighter, to Leah.

Affairs reach a climax at a big Irish-Jewish picnic. A free-for-all nounced the words to the batter, who spelled them if he could. If he missed, the catcher had to catch the word and spell it. If the batter spelled the word correctly, he went to first base, and so on. Scores were kept for each side as in regular baseball. During this game we had a complete review of all the work so far this year.

In spelling we have made "Turkey" spelling booklets. In these booklets each child will have a record of his daily lessons. Those booklets having all perfect lessons will be put up as part of our "Thanksgiving" decorations.

Banns Are Announced
The coming marriage of B. H. Bielenberg and Miss Fronz, daughter of Colton was announced last Sunday at church in Colton. —Uniontown Journal.

Vic Goes To Bovill
Vic Casabell, electrician for the Washington War Power, left the first of the week for Bovill. He will make his headquarters there this winter to look after that end of the line. —Kendrick Gazette.

Won First on Corn
Virgil Mattson of this place, took first prize on his corn at the manufacturers and land producers show of the Pacific International Live Stock Exposition held at Portland, October 29. Mr. Mattson is one of the leading growers of the Culedesa region and was winner of the first prize at the Culedesa corn show last month. The Culedesa corn is hard to beat when it comes to raising good corn, or anything else in the line of farm products. —Culedesa Enterprise.

Easter Lilies Blooming
The weather this fall has been so warm and encouraging to things growing in the ground that during the last few days thousands of angling worms have been brought out of the ground, reminding one of the approach of spring. Many flowers are still in bloom out in the open and Easter lilies, delphiniums and other flowers are blooming in beautiful color. Just think of it! Easter lilies on Armistice day. The Sentinel knows what it is talking about, because the publisher has plucked them from his own yard. —Asotin Sentinel.

Employ Eight Mica Cutters
The Troy Mica company is comfortably installed in its new quarters in the office of the Olson Johnson Motor company. They are now employing a force of eight women to sort and cut the mica, and these having become accustomed to their duties are moving more of their product than heretofore. With the increase in speed comes also a better grade of mica, in larger books. It is found that the fungus that once infested the mica is absent from the firm's texture and the more flawless. The stone is now being driven about 1100 feet in, with a number of cross cuts and drifts being worked out.

A shipment of 1,000 pounds is about ready to be sent to New York. —Troy News.

Radio Wave Lengths
Henry A. Bellows of the federal radio commission, warned the members of the National Electric Manufacturers association that the radio industry is on perilous ground. Nearly 80 per cent of the broadcasting stations now operating in the country are owned by individuals having no direct interest in any form of the electrical manufacturing or selling activity.

The Washington Post states that not more than ten stations in the country are able to show an even break between revenue gain from the sale of time and operating expenses and it adds that those who broadcast must secure and retain the good will of the public or their plans will be doomed as a failure.

In the relocation of wave lengths only a small minority of stations were allotted rights in the preferred bands. The rest of the stations are dissatisfied, although most of them will go ahead jacking up the air and prosecuting legal battles that may eventually result in a scientific design of broadcasting system.

"The Absent-Minded Bridegroom"
The students of the Genesee High school will give the first of their plays for the year on Wednesday evening, November 23, in the High School opera house. This is said to be one of the funniest plays ever put on by local talent.

The cast of characters is as follows: Timothy Shea (bridegroom) Mrs. Minnie Springer last week received word that her grandson, Kenneth Sampson, had been married at Fruitland, Wash., near Hunters, to Miss Grace Hill of that place.

Mr. Sampson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sampson, former Genesee residents.

The newly-weds will reside on a farm, which Mr. Sampson has rented, near Fruitland.

The News joins his many friends here in extending congratulations.

Deaths of Mrs. Olson, well-known resident of Latah county since 1884, passed away at the family home, 446 Lewis street, Moscow, Friday, November 11, 1927, at 10 a. m., the result of a long season of failing health.

Mrs. Olson was born at Hjeraga, Sweden, January 23, 1859. In 1879 she came to this country with relatives and in 1881 was married to Andrew S. Olson at Portland, Oregon, immediately after which they came to Latah county, where they settled on a homestead midway between Genesee and Moscow, and where the family resided until 1912, when they removed to Moscow to make their home.

Mrs. Olson's six children, her husband and a brother, J. B. Williams, of Everett, Wash., were at her bedside when she died.

The children are Arthur and Floyd of Moscow, Clifford of Genesee, Mrs. Minnie Durrant of Portland, Mrs. Frances Graham of New York City and Mrs. Ellenora Wood of Stratford, Wash. Other surviving relatives are Swan Williams of Seattle and O. J. Williams, now visiting in Norway, and five grandchildren.

DEATH OF MRS. OLSON, LATAH COUNTY PIONEER

Mrs. Olson was born at Hjeraga, Sweden, January 23, 1859. In 1879 she came to this country with relatives and in 1881 was married to Andrew S. Olson at Portland, Oregon, immediately after which they came to Latah county, where they settled on a homestead midway between Genesee and Moscow, and where the family resided until 1912, when they removed to Moscow to make their home.

Mrs. Olson's six children, her husband and a brother, J. B. Williams, of Everett, Wash., were at her bedside when she died.

The children are Arthur and Floyd of Moscow, Clifford of Genesee, Mrs. Minnie Durrant of Portland, Mrs. Frances Graham of New York City and Mrs. Ellenora Wood of Stratford, Wash. Other surviving relatives are Swan Williams of Seattle and O. J. Williams, now visiting in Norway, and five grandchildren.

Mrs. Olson was a devoted member of the Lutheran church and the first edifice of that faith ever built in the state of Idaho was erected on the Olson homestead upon land donated by Mr. Olson, and the edifice still stands, although it has not been in use since the removal of the Olson family to Moscow.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the First Lutheran church, Moscow, where she had been a member for many years, the Rev. Roger P. Oliver, pastor of the church, conducting the service.

The choir sang a number of Mrs. Olson's favorite hymns, Chris Christoffers, Nils Bjorklund, A. J. Lundquist, Frank Ober, George Stevens, and Carl Smith, were pallbearers, and L. A. Dehle, Thomas Huntbach, John Randall, William Schumacher, old-time friends of Mrs. Olson, were honorary pallbearers.

Be Careful
Over two hundred American citizens are killed every day by accidents, and most of these accidents are preventable.

Hunters are abroad in all parts of the land and accidents are being reported in all the newspapers. Practically all of them are the result of carelessness.

The gun that "wasn't loaded" has been described as the "most deadly weapon." Thousands of people have been killed by it.

Possibly five hundred boys and girls are being maimed this year by picking up and playing with blasting caps left by careless workmen to be found by children. Careless children pick at the cap with the result that hands are blown off, eyes are blown out, and young faces are disfigured for life. Everyone of these five hundred accidents each year may be traced to carelessness.

About nine thousand people are killed at grade crossing accidents each year, and most of these accidents would be prevented if people would obey the signs they see, and "look out for the cars."

During the period of ten years near 25,000 workers were killed and over 1,820,000 workers injured in industrial occupations in the State of Pennsylvania. Most of them were killed because of carelessness on their own part.

It's so easy to get killed by an auto that great care should be exercised by every individual. The ordinary automobile if carefully driven, is not apt to get its occupants or pedestrians into trouble. Ninety per cent of all automobile accidents are due to carelessness.

About twenty persons are drowned every day in the United States. Nearly all of these tragedies are due to carelessness.

There is a modern saying, which if you can't be good, be careful.

NEW IDAHO TRAFFIC LAWS BE IN FORCE JANUARY 1

The department of law enforcement is considering plans for a special traffic detail on the state's highways next year, when the new road code goes into effect, as an educational measure, Fred E. Lukens, secretary of state and head of the department has announced.

"The legislature did not provide for financing any such force," said Mr. Lukens, "but we feel that as an educational measure we should do something of that kind. It may require light figuring to put it across, however."

The new code, repealing all previous laws on the subject, establishes a uniform law governing all traffic. It bans operation of vehicles by persons under the influence of liquor or narcotics, making such a misdemeanor. Reckless driving is also a misdemeanor. A code of regulations defining what is meant by a "reasonable and prudent" rate of speed, declares that the driver must have due regard for the traffic, surface and width of the roadway and of any other conditions then existing, and the speed limit shall be such as is consistent with the safety of life, limb or property of any person.

The speed limit approaching a railroad or interurban grade crossing, passing a school during recess or when children are passing to and fro, or approaching a highway crossing when the view is obstructed, or going around curves or traversing a highway grade when the view is obstructed within 100 feet, shall be 15 miles an hour.

On highways in business sections, where traffic is controlled by officers, the maximum speed of 15 miles an hour on stop and go signs, the speed limit where there are such controls in a business district and in public parks, unless otherwise specified, is set at 20 miles an hour, with 35 miles an hour the maximum speed under other conditions. Local authorities, however, are given authority to increase the speeds.

A complete stop at grade crossings when a train or car is approaching is required, while the commissioner of public works has authority to require a complete stop under all conditions at any particularly dangerous crossings.

The "keep to the right" rule, the provisions for passing or overtaking another vehicle, for turning to the right or left, for signaling, for yielding the right of way to other vehicles, as to through highways or passing street cars or driving through safety zones, and parking are virtually the same as at present.

Rules set forth for driving on mountain highways providing that it shall be unlawful to coast with the gears in neutral, and the down-gear vehicle must yield the right of way to the driver traveling on the up-grade.

The driver of any vehicle involved in an accident resulting in the death or injury to any person or other damage to property must immediately stop. He is required to give his name, address and registration number to the victims of the collision, and shall render any reasonable assistance. It is made his duty also to report accidents to the department of law enforcement. Garage keepers also must report damaged vehicles.

Size, weight, equipment, and lighting of vehicles is strictly regulated. Of special interest to pedestrians is the provision in the new law which provides that "the driver of any vehicle upon a business or residence section shall yield the right of way to a pedestrian crossing such highway within any cross walk or any regular pedestrian crossing, except at intersections where the movement of traffic is being controlled by traffic officers or traffic directing devices."

Pedestrians crossing high ways at other points must yield the right of way to the vehicle.

The Weather
This is a mighty poor subject—far the weather has been mighty poor for the past "some time" and seems to be getting no better fast. Just once in a while Old Sol shows himself, just to let us know he has not deserted the job entirely, but old Jupp-er Flavin has the whip and handle has been drenching things semi-occasionally for a long time. If the present weather conditions keep on the people of this section will have to go to the coast in order to use their wet feet, which will surely grow.

Many a man who calls himself conservative is only a coward.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

The all high school play, "The Absent-Minded Groom," will be presented at the High School opera house on Wednesday evening, November 23, at 8 o'clock. As stated before, this is an extremely funny play, and as stated by the advance posters of the publishing company is "the funniest play in seventeen states." Don't miss two hours of great fun.

In-as-much as a great deal of school has been missed because of delayed harvests and holidays it has been deemed advisable to have school on the Friday following the Thanksgiving holiday. So school will be dismissed for Thanksgiving day only.

One of the favorite indoor sports of educators is defining education. In his book, "Four Essentials of Education" Dr. T. A. Jones gives the following objectives: 1. Health of mind and body. 2. Honest and honorable labor for a livelihood. 3. Communion with God, family, friends and fellow countrymen. 4. Physical, mental and spiritual refreshments and recreation as a part of the rhythm of living.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
Ervin Hanson and Wayne School have been absent from school the past week.

We have been learning several Thanksgiving songs and planning on a few special numbers.

Last Thursday the seventh and eighth grades had Armistice Day exercises in correlation with English, history and reading work.

The seventh grade have completed the study of Europe and have been reviewing and outlining in preparation for their six-week's test.

Fifth and Sixth Grades
The following students have returned after being absent the past week because they had the mumps: Howard Blume, Eva Jones, and Donald Springer, Charles Roderick and Bernie Wisnard.

Anita Henderson and Bernice Stucker were absent on Monday.

The fifth grade geography have finished their study of Europe.

In the sixth grade the following had an average of 100 for the past week: Elsie Flomer, Janet Rader, Kenneth Aherin, Merle Austin, Norman Berg, Ormond Hickman and Ruth Alice Vanouck.

Third and Fourth Grades
Henry Dean was absent on account of illness last week.

Mrs. Carl Osmundson was a welcome visitor in our room.

We are keeping the average grade in our written arithmetic in the fourth grade between the boys and girls in the class. Each pupil finds the daily average for his or her group.

Billy Rhodes is a new pupil in our fourth grade.

Second Grade
The second grade welcomed a new classmate Monday, Gairford Olson, who has been attending school in the country, has moved to town with his parents and will attend school here.

John Dean and Bernice Mervyn were absent from school two days.

We have just had a complete study of Dutch life in Holland in preparation for the study of the Pilgrims.

GRAIN MARKET STEADY — WITH MODERATE RECEIPTS

The grain market ruled generally steady during the week ending November 10, and prices of grain were 1c to 2c higher than at the close of the previous week, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States bureau of agricultural economics.

Heavy offerings of Canadian wheat were a weakening factor in the wheat market but continued active demand for good milling quality held domestic prices fairly steady. Light receipts of corn, together with unfavorable weather for husking and cribbing were strengthening factors in the market for that grain. Oats continued firm on light receipts while rye and barley prices were further advanced as a result of continued good export demand. The flax market was generally firmer and prices tended upward.

While Canadian wheat marketings continued heavy the country movement became smaller with snow and rain interfering with marketing operations. According to the Canadian official estimate on November 1 the wheat crop will total 444,282,000 bushels this season, a reduction of about 14,000,000 bushels from the earlier estimates. Southern hemisphere crops made good progress with weather more favorable in Australia. Harvesting of wheat and flax was begun in Argentina and early samples of wheat were reported good. The Italian crop is now officially estimated at about 202,400,000 bushels, a reduction of about 12,600,000 bushels below last year's production. The smaller Italian crop is apparently being reflected in local prices which were advanced to $1.91 per bushel at Milan during the week. Other foreign markets were practically unchanged from last week.

There were no new features in the domestic cash markets but there was the usual good demand for the best protein types of wheat and premiums held firm at 15 per cent over No. 1 dark northern was quoted at Minneapolis at the close of the market, November 10, at $1.40 to $1.45 per bushel and the best types of Montana wheat ranged at $1.52 to $1.57 which would compare in a general way with Winnipeg quotations of $1.40 for No. 1 northern in that market. Less activity in the export demand weakened the market for durum wheat but good milling lots were scarce and in good demand. No. 1 Amber was quoted at Minneapolis and Duluth at $1.20 to $1.41 per bushel, depending upon the quality.

Offerings of high protein types of hard winter wheat were light and 12 per cent protein No. 2 hard winter was quoted at Kansas City at $1.34, $1.35 per bushel at the close of the market on November 10, 15 per cent protein brought 2c to 3c more. Low grades predominated in daily receipts and had damaged and musty lots sold at discounts of 11c to 34c under the Kansas City December wheat. Soft red wheat continued in good demand although the receipts exceeded the limited demand early in the week at St. Louis as a result of increased shipments from Indiana and Chicago.

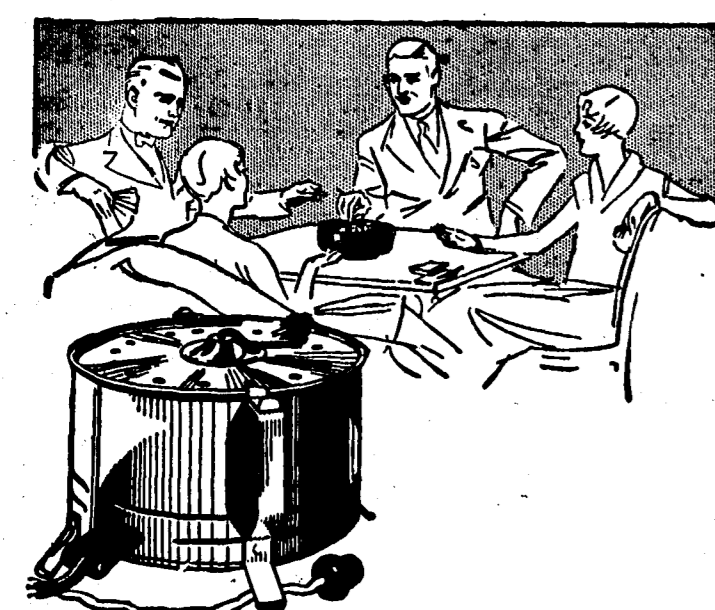

Prices of No. 2 red winter wheat a little being quoted at $1.41 to $1.42. No. 2 red was quoted at Chicago on November 10 at $1.35 to $1.40. The market for soft winter wheat on the Pacific coast was weak with white wheat for export quoted at Portland at $1.23 to $1.24. The northwestern markets are still over-supplied with damp wheat which is difficult to dispose of. Competition from Vancouver which is offering wheat at lower prices is restricting new export business at Portland. Export demand at other United States markets was of only moderate demand with exporters bidding around $1.35 to $1.36 for No. 1 hard winter delivered Gulf ports. No. 2 hard winter for November shipment was quoted at Liverpool at $1.41 compared with $1.40 for the Argentine Rona Fe for January and February shipment and $1.67 for No. 1 Canadian Manitoba for November shipment. Australian wheat for December shipment was quoted at $1.67 per bushel in Liverpool.

The wheat market tended higher, but light offerings of good quality grain. No. 3 white oats were selling at 45c to 51c per bushel at the principal distributing markets at the close of the week.

The barley market was quite firm and prices advanced 2c to 3c in the Central Western markets. There was a general good demand for all receipts but buying by exporters was the principal feature in the market.

WHERE FLYERS ALIGHT AND CABLES RADIATE

The Azores Important Communication Center.

Washington.—When Miss Ruth Elder tried to fly across the Atlantic and dropped into the sea near the Azores she failed in her purpose but emphasized the increasing importance of the Azores as a mid-Atlantic communication center, says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"And within the Azores group Fayal is the most important so far in contact with the outside world is concerned. Sao Miguel is larger, and Angra, the capital on Terceira, is a better port than Horta, on Fayal.

"That Fayal is the communication hub of the Atlantic, with spokes reaching out to Europe, the two Americas, and Africa. On Fayal Island there are four cable companies, two American, one English and one German. There are more than 150 young 'news pushers,' as the dispatching operators are called, and each group has its own mess.

"Arriving at Fayal in the daytime one sees a ribbon of road around the island, and the whitewashed villages and the white-washed houses appear as if by a pendant among the ivory bits that are strung along this 35-mile circular tour. Out near some detached rocks near the west end there is a lighthouse which appears at first to be a minaret. From there Horta, the town, is a steep declivity several hundred feet high so that the road has to sweep up to avoid washing itself to death in the glistening surf.

"Amid surging seas the Azores, from November to March, usually wear a cloud blanket so that the fine cone of Pico, which sounds like Orange Pekoe but simply means 'peaks,' is hidden as an approaching ship swings to the north. Pico has a separate island to itself and since Pico is an active volcano, this is as it should be.

"The 'Fairy Town of Horta.' " "Twilight has fallen when the writer's vessel finally came alongside the fairy town of Horta, now dark up of white blotches against a dark hillside with electric lights, hiding the details like the nun's candles during the change of scene in 'The Miracle.' Horta is not really a port, since it lacks a green light to complement the red one on the end of the single breakwater. So passengers land in a launch which tosses up and down in the sea until it gives the folks a thrill for their money."

"A Portuguese, with wide-brimmed fuzzy hat, V-neck white sweater and slippers, ran the launch. ANCIENT TEMPLES BROUGHT TO LIGHT

Excavators in Palestine Make Rich Find.

Alexandria, Egypt.—Further important discoveries have been made by the Palestine expedition of the University museum at Philadelphia under Alan Rowe which is excavating at Beisan, the Bethshan of the Bible. Two new Canaanite temples of 1500 B. C. have been unearthed.

In one of them among the other objects of value and interest there have been found a bronze figurine, covered with gold, representing a god seated, with his right arm raised and a beautiful lapislazuli scarab with a cartouche of hieroglyphs.

On a level previously identified with Ramesses II, a door jamb has been discovered showing for the first time the actual figure of the builder of the Temple of Dagon, mentioned in the first book of Chronicles, together with an inscription supplying missing titles.

Here also have been found scarabs of Ramesses II, and Thothmes IV, and a curious stone, having at the top the head of a deity with a figure holding a captive whose legs are kicking the air and below a stand with four human-shaped legs. The identity of this deity and the significance of the stone are unknown.

Other discoveries include a fine Egyptian falconer finger ring, bearing the sacred eye.

Further proof of Cretan and Cypriot influences in this area 3,000 years ago is revealed in the shape of the handle of a pottery vessel with two groups of linear signs, similar in part to Cretan linear writing and in part to the Cypriot Archaic alphabet.

There also have been unearthed a finely made figure of a bull, a child's rattle of pottery with a couple of stones inside it, a very unusual pot with a strainer spout and a movable disk-like strainer fitting its mouth, a beautifully made bronze ashtray and two hawks of Isis.

The expedition has been working at Tell-El-Hoss, which means mounds of fortresses—where eight levels have been identified as existing from before the time of Amenophis III to that of the crusades, covering 13 centuries. Most of the treasures, whereof those mentioned are only a part were, except where otherwise stated, made at the earliest levels. The expedition is now engaged on the lowest level which promises to yield rich deposits.

British Grant Beloit Permit for Research

Beloit, Wis.—Permission to do research work in British East Africa has been gained by Logan Museum of Beloit college, according to an announcement of Dr. George L. Collier, curator, and the next few years may see the museum doing work there.

The territory is rich in remains of American man which Doctor Collier says, was the first real man. He existed 25,000 years ago and rapidly spread all over the world, he says.

American remains have been found in France, Czechoslovakia, Algeria and in southern Africa. In British East Africa 60 skeletons have been uncovered in two years, while Europe has spent 100 years in uncovering 40 such skeletons.

The college museum already has two skeletons, both from Algeria. One, the skeleton of a child, was found a year ago, while the other, of a mature man, was uncovered only a month ago and will soon be brought to the museum for permanent housing.

Had System of Highways

Machu Picchu was first found after a climb over mountain ridges along sheer cliffs. Later the remains of old highways were found. It thus appears that the builders of Machu Picchu had an elaborate system of highways throughout this little known and almost unexplored country which lies between the Urubamba valley and the Apurimac valley.

Lock of stone, which they were tied may still be seen.

The next most conspicuous feature of Machu Picchu is the quantity of stairways, there being over 100, large and small, within the city. Some of them have more than 150 steps, while others have but three or four. In some cases each step is a single block of stone 3 or 4 feet wide. In others the entire stairway—six, eight, or ten steps, as the case might be—was cut out of a single granite boulder.

The largest level space in the city was carefully graded and terraced, so as to be used for agricultural purposes, or for the products of which the inhabitants could find back for a time in case of a siege.

Hidden City of the Incas

Mountain Valley in the Machu Picchu Region.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.

One of the most remarkable accomplishments in uncovering the secrets of the past in the Western hemisphere was the discovery a few years ago of Machu Picchu, hidden refuge city of the Incas. In the mountain fastnesses of Peru the different types of architecture were found to be of the Incas and of the Incas that had been better defended by nature.

A stupendous canyon, where the principal rock is granite and where the precipices are frequently over 1,000 feet sheer, presents difficulties of attack and facilities for defense second to none. Here on a narrow ridge, flanked on all sides by precipitous or nearly precipitous slopes, a highly civilized people—artistic, inventive, and capable of sustained endeavor—at some time in the remote past built themselves a city of refuge.

Since they had no iron or steel tools—only stone hammers—its construction must have cost many generations, if not centuries, of effort. Across the ridge, and defending the builders from attack on the side of the main mountain range, they constructed two walls. One of them, constituting the outer line of defense, leads from precipice to precipice, utilizing as they could the natural steepness of the hill.

Beyond this, and on top of the mountain called Machu Picchu, which overlooks the valley from the summit of the most stupendous precipices in the canyon, is constructed a signal station, from which the approach of an enemy could be instantly communicated to the city below. In the outer wall they constructed an extensive series of agricultural terraces, stone lined and averaging about eight feet high. Between these and the city is a steep, dry moat and the inner wall.

When the members of an attacking force had effected a lodgment on the precipitous and easily defended sides of the moat, they would still find themselves outside the inner defenses of the city, which consisted of a wall from fifteen to twenty feet high, composed of the largest stones that could be found in the vicinity—many of them as large as a man's weight in tons. This wall is carried straight across the ridge from one precipitous side to the other. These defenses are on the south side of the city.

On the north side, on the narrow ridge connecting the city with Huayna Picchu, strong defensive terraces were built, which were intended to render null the danger of an attack on this side.

Construction of the Houses. On entering the city, strikes the first characteristic that strikes the eye is that a large majority of the houses have gable ends, and that these gable ends are marked by cylindrical blocks projecting out from the house in such a way as to suggest the timber and nations that occupied the major part of the central Andes from earliest times down to the Spanish conquest.

Lock of stone, which they were tied may still be seen.

The next most conspicuous feature of Machu Picchu is the quantity of stairways, there being over 100, large and small, within the city. Some of them have more than 150 steps, while others have but three or four. In some cases each step is a single block of stone 3 or 4 feet wide. In others the entire stairway—six, eight, or ten steps, as the case might be—was cut out of a single granite boulder.

The largest level space in the city was carefully graded and terraced, so as to be used for agricultural purposes, or for the products of which the inhabitants could find back for a time in case of a siege.

It seems probable that one reason why the city was deserted was a change in climate resulting in scarcity of water supply. At the present time there are only three small springs on the mountain side, and in the dry season these could barely furnish water enough for cooking and drinking purposes for 40 or 50 people.

JUSTICE AT LAST

It was the usual domestic storm. "Oh, dear! oh, dear!" moaned wifely in tears. "I wish I'd taken poor mother's advice, and never married you!" Hubby, the strong, silent man, swam round on her quickly, and at last found voice.

"Did your mother try to stop your marrying me?" he demanded. Wifely nodded violently.

A look of deep remorse crossed hubby's face.

"Great Scott," he cried in broken tones, "now I wronged that woman!"

"What's all you know 'bout nature," replied Sam scornfully. "By'm-by de sun's going to be on dat side and den Ah won't hab to move."—Boston Transcript.

What Brand Apples?
There are 304 varieties of apples grown in the United States, according to a government authority. Notwithstanding all this opportunity to select different kinds of apples only eight are popular with the apple-eating public. A study of the "apple-wise" in New York city showed that the consumers select apples that "look good" and pay practically no attention to trade and brand names. The Jews of New York are found to be the most selective in apple buying, and 58 per cent of the Jewish families making purchases of apples buy them because of their brand, and not on account of their shape and color.

Europe, falls madly in love with Elizabeth Foster, an American heiress. The chef tells Albert that she'll never admire a head waiter. He isn't convinced until Elizabeth and her father enter the dining room. Albert loses his nerve and hides behind a screen. He learns that they are about to leave for the Swiss Alps. Albert demands a vacation and boards the same train.

Seeing a runaway horse about to kill Betty Jewel, Gary and Flash leap off the train in time to rescue her. Then, with a "thank you" Betty rides away. Then the real story begins.

MANY OF CITY STREETS IN NEED OF ATTENTION

Residents along the main street running west, living beyond St. Joseph's school, are complaining that there are such deep mudholes in the street that it is almost impossible for vehicles to get through and that when the wheels drop in the ruts the vehicles drag on the ground, and that a few minutes with a spade would aid very materially toward letting the water out and making it possible to get through.

There are many places in the streets of Genesee where a few minutes work would add very materially in the usefulness of the thoroughfares and there seems to be no good and sufficient reason why our streets should not be put in shape for winter instead of allowing them to become full of impassable mudholes.

That the streets of Genesee have been shamefully neglected during the past three or four years is well known to every one, even main street being so full of chuck holes that a speed of more than five miles an hour is out of the question, and it should not be allowed to continue. There is ample money in the treasury to take care of the streets and it should be done. They are a disgrace to any town—no matter how small. There is between $5,000 and $9,000 of city money in the Genesee Exchange bank, a portion of which, at least, can be used for street purposes. Some $7,000 of this amount has been accumulated by the water fund, but which, according to a ruling by the state attorney general, can be transferred to any fund where it might be needed, so there is no excuse for not spending a little of it where it will do some good. Is there any good and sufficient reason why our town should be known as a "mud hole"?

Whitman Limits Loads
Permanent highways and other county highways of like character in Whitman county have been closed to trucks and stages of gross weight for vehicle and load over 4000 pounds, by order of the county commissioners at their session last week. The order became effective November 10 and continues until April 15, both dates inclusive, unless otherwise ordered by the commissioners.—Uniontown Journal.

Hunting Season Closes
Season on elk, deer and other big game closed Tuesday in Idaho county after an open period of 45 days. Hunting was good during the time game could be killed and hundreds of deer and many elk were bagged by the hunters from all parts of the state. Recent heavy snow drove the deer to the lowlands and heavy slaughter resulted the last few days before the season closed.—Free Press (Grangeville).

Genesee Students Have 30-Piece Band
A thirty piece band, composed of Genesee students, has been organized and will begin rehearsals immediately, it was announced by Carl W. Hoisington, of the wind instrument department of the university. Within a few weeks the band will be sufficiently trained to give a concert, said Mr. Hoisington. Students taking wind instrument work at the university are doing practice teaching with the band, and also helping with the direction.

Mr. Hoisington stressed the good that may result from university students assisting in the teaching and directing work for the Genesee band. At the present time there is a lack of band directors in schools of the state and the University of Idaho placement bureau is finding difficulty in meeting all the calls for this type of work.

Clarence Bell, of Moscow, a member of the Idaho pep band, is directing the Genesee band.—Star-Mirror.

Work on the Troy-Moscow road has been halted, at least temporarily, due to the heavy and unceasing rains. The highway has been made passable, however, by the laying of gravel on the old road. WHAT HAPPENED HERE TWENTY YEARS AGO

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hampton Monday of this week.

A big boy is reported at the Adolph Grieser home, born Saturday of last week.

Will Burr came in the first of the week from the Ramey Ridge mining district in Idaho county, he and an associate having brought some horses to winter at Grangeville. Mr. Burr expects to remain out until following the first of the year. Robt. McGregg or will remain in the camp during the winter. Mr. Burr states that the Ramey Ridge section has made an excellent showing the past season and in his opinion some excellent properties will be opened up. He and his associates have been successful in bonding some of their claims. He says the Thunder Mountain camp has been very quiet during the past season.

At the United Norwegian church at Moscow, Thursday of last week, Rev. Sweger officiating, occurred the marriage of Miss Anna Dahl of Moscow and Oscar Nordby, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Nordby, residing just east of this place. At the ceremony, which was attended by about one hundred relatives and close friends, Thoro Dahl and Lillian Nordby acted as bridesmaids and Julius and Rudolph Nordby as best men. The newly married were the recipients of numerous presents. Following a wedding trip they will go to housekeeping on the O. B. Walton ranch, east of town. Numerous friends extend hearty congratulations.

Catholic Bazaar Success
The big Catholic bazaar, dinner and supper, as well as the well-stocked "country store," was a success from every angle. There was a very large crowd in attendance and the ladies were kept busy for many hours serving all with their delicious eats. If those who partook of the bountiful eats didn't get what they wanted, it was their own fault and no blame could be attached to the ladies for their deficiency.

This was one of those yearly occasions where everybody gets together and rubs shoulders with their neighbors and under the "melting" influence of a full stomach they are at peace with the world.

Card Party Well Attended
The Eastern Stars gave a very enjoyable card party in the Masonic temple Thursday evening of last week, when cards were played at 12 tables. Mrs. Isaac Isakson won the ladies' honors of the evening and those of the gentlemen went to Leon Fallick. The "boobys" went to Miss Martin. Son and Iru Larkin respectively—but they claim to have had as much fun as anyone there.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

This week terminates the second six weeks period of school. Those students that are low in grades at the end of this period will probably have a hard time in making their grades for the semester.

The senior class of the school have organized for the purpose of again publishing "The Clarion," the second semester of school. Officers elected are the following: Business manager, Elvon Hampton; editor in chief, Myrtle Larson; art editor, Anthony Ebel; sport editor, Irvin Plomer; literary editor, Mildred Roach; alumnae editor, Audrey Pleiman. This paper is published every four weeks of the second semester. The charges for the five issues will be 35 cents.

The Thanksgiving offering for the children's home at Lewiston amounted to over $20.50 in the school here. The second grade turned in the largest amount. The sum they collected was $8.16.

Athletics
Basketball practice started November 14 and the boys are working out daily trying to find a successful offensive and defensive combination.

We played Uniontown with only four days practice and succeeded in winning by the score of 20 to 11. The play was very ragged, with much individual play. This week is being kept with the hopes of developing to a certain degree a five-man offensive. Team work counts for much while individual play counts for little in basketball. The boys realize this and are working consistently to become a smooth playing team.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
The pupils of the seventh and eighth grades receiving a quarter holiday for being neither tardy nor absent this six weeks are: Lucile Ashard, Fern Erickson, Hazel Crand, Thelma Dreyer, Michael Dwyer, Ruth Gordon, Arwin Nordby and George Blume.

Wednesday afternoon, for one period, the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades joined together in singing Thanksgiving songs they have learned during the singing period.

The eighth grade have started the review of their history work in preparation for the January examination. A collection of $2.70 was taken by the seventh and eighth grades for the Thanksgiving offering for the children's home at Lewiston.

Mrs. H. Halverson and Mrs. W. Rhodes were welcome visitors in our room on Tuesday afternoon.

Fifth and Sixth Grades
The following have been absent during the past week: Eunice Rader, Howard Blume and Merle Austin. We are studying the Pilgrims in connection with our history and

Celebrated Birthday Anniversary
Mrs. Minnie Springer celebrated her seventy-seventh birthday anniversary very quietly at her home on Friday of last week. While no particular celebration was planned, she received many very pretty presents as mementoes of the occasion.

WHEAT AVERAGING STEADY—MOVEMENT RATHER SLOW

Strength in foreign markets, together with a fair demand for milling wheat, held domestic wheat prices about steady during the week ending November 19, states the weekly grain market review of the United States department of agricultural economics. Barley continued its upward trend largely because of export inquiry, while a more active demand for corn coupled with reports of disappointing husking returns turned corn prices upward. Rye was irregular and higher while oats showed fractional gains but flax prices were influenced downward by indications of a large crop of seeds in Argentina.

Beneficial rains in southern Argentina improved wheat prospects there and the official Argentine report gives the condition of wheat as good but a private report claims that conditions are less favorable. Liverpool prices were fractionally higher. Prices of native wheat declined 2c at Hamburg but advanced 3c at Milan, with the other markets holding steady. Offerings of German wheat were abundant but the quality was poor while French farmers were not pressing sales. The wheat growers were complaining of dry weather in southern Russia and Rumania.

Domestic wheat markets ruled quiet with demand principally for good milling wheat although an advance in Canadian prices widened the export outlet for United States wheat. Receipts were light at Minneapolis and wheat with moderate protein content was in best demand, since mills were cautious about premiums for the very high protein offerings. 12 cent cent protein Dark Northern sold at 5c to 8c over the Minneapolis December; 18 cent, 18c to 24c over; and 14 cent 20c to 25c over the December future, which closed November 18 at $1.23 1/2. Best types of Montana wheat sold at that market at $1.51 1/2 a bushel. Durum wheat continued firm with offerings of best grades not equal to current needs. No 1 Amber sold at Minneapolis at the Duluth November price to 22c over with No. 1 durum at Duluth quoted up to 5c over the November future, which closed November 18 at $1.22. Export grades were also advanced at Duluth.

Most of the offerings at Kansas City were of rather low grade wheat and arrivals of milling wheat were very light. Liberal amounts of low grade were offered daily with export inquiry light. Export bids were generally 8c over Chicago December wheat for No. 1 hard winter on track at the gulf. 12 cent cent protein No. 2 hard winter sold at Kansas City at 9c to 14c over the December future; 12 1/2 cent, 13c to 18c and 13 cent 16c to 23c over the December, which closed November 18 at $1.23. Northwestern wheat was buying high protein at Wichita.

Soft winter wheat held practically steady in Central Western markets. No. 1 soft winter wheat was offering the decline at Cincinnati and Toledo. Mills bought sparingly at St. Louis and buying by southern mills was light at Cincinnati, where it was claimed that some southern mills were securing wheat from the Pacific Northwest. Prices were nominally higher in the Pacific northwest but demand from exporters was very limited, although millers were taking fair amounts of hard wheat. Soft and white wheats were quoted around $1.27 1/2 at Portland. Prices were practically unchanged in the California markets.

Oats ruled firm with even the light weights moving well at Minneapolis. Heavy weights oats continued in best demand with offerings at some points in the Northwest to the current demands of cereal interests. No. 3 white oats were quoted at 45c to 51c at the principal Central Western markets.

Barley prices continued their recent advance with quotations of 88c at Minneapolis the highest for the crop. Malsters were bidding for the arrivals at that market. Offerings were light at Minneapolis where prices advanced 4c to 5c a bushel, although inquiry fell off at the higher levels. Export inquiry was again reported active for the week. Choice fancy malting was quoted at 79c to 80c at Minneapolis and 80c to 87c at Chicago. Feed grades sold generally around 75c at Minneapolis and 74c at Chicago.

Mrs. Minnie Springer celebrated her seventy-seventh birthday anniversary very quietly at her home on Friday of last week. While no particular celebration was planned, she received many very pretty presents as mementoes of the occasion.

Camel

One of life's great pleasures is smoking

Camels give you all of the enjoyment of choice tobaccos. Is enjoyment good for you? You just bet it is.

If all cigarettes were as good as Camels you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobaccos.

Home, Sweet Home
Newly wed, to the real estate salesman who is trying to sell her a home. "Why buy a home? I was born in a hospital ward, reared in a boarding school, educated in college, courted in an automobile, and married in a church, get my meals at a cafeteria, live in an apartment; spend my morning playing golf, my afternoons playing bridge; in the evening we dance or go to the movies; when I'm sick I go to the hospital, and when I die I shall be buried from an undertaker's parlor. Why should we buy a house, I ask you? All we need is a garage with a good room."—Outlook.

"Don't you think Mary looks like a lovely flower?"
"Yes; like one of those century-plants."

"What are the chances of success for a young person today as compared with the opportunities of a generation ago?"

This question was recently asked of this writer by a correspondent, who received the answer that never before were the opportunities for worthy success better than now.

It should be borne in mind that environment has now and always had had less to do with personal advancement than the individual attitude toward the problems of life. Generally speaking, one's own fate is in one's own hands. Perhaps one of the most common errors made by those who fail to make advancement lies in their lack of concentration and thoroughness.

Superficiality is but another name for thriftlessness in time and opportunity.

The problems of life are so large and complex and the range of human endeavor is so wide that individual effort, to be effective, must be limited to definite lines. The young man of today has a limitless range of opportunities before him and he can successfully fit into the scheme of progress if he will realize that there is never need for those who can do things well.

Our schools and colleges are sending their young men and young women out into the world. While they have completed their academic lessons, they still have before them those larger reasons which can be learned only in the practical school of life. In entering this new life the one practical lesson they should learn first of all is that it is better to know one thing well than to know a score of things superficially, and that it is better to be able to do one thing right than to have twenty slipshod accomplishments.

Not doing things well is no better than not doing them at all. The very best of us can do things well only if it is only through this thoroughness of performance that any one can make adequate advancement.

A woman always has a tender feeling for a man who pays her a compliment.

New Motor Vehicle Laws

Now is the time to prepare for the new motor vehicle laws which go into effect January 1, 1928, and Fred E. Lukens, commissioner of law enforcement is urging all owners, in the interests of saving during the rush for new licenses, to equip themselves with the information they need.

Most important of all changes is the certificate of title and anti-theft law. No car owner may be granted a 1928 license until he has been granted a certificate of title and he must prove his title, to his car by his bill of sale, conditional sale contract or other recognized means. Liens and other encumbrances against the car must be listed when the application is presented and in proper form and approved certificate of title, which is equivalent to a deed, will be issued. Every automobile owner in the state will receive within the next two or three weeks an application and when it is properly filled out it should be presented to the local county assessor together with proof of ownership.

SICK WOMAN SOON RECOVERS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"A neighbor advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which she said had helped her so much. So I bought a few bottles and tried it. It sure helped me wonderfully. I felt much better. My work was no longer a dread to me. It had done me good. I will gladly recommend the Vegetable Compound to them and I will answer any letters in regard to the same."

MA. BETTIE MACHIAN, 1134 N. Penn. Ave., Lansing, Mich.

I am more than glad to tell you of the experience I had with your wonderful Baby Syrup. My little boy is now seven months old and has never given me a moment's trouble. The first time he was teething he was so miserable that I had to give him your Baby Syrup. It was a relief to me and to him. I have since bought several more bottles and I can say that it is the best thing I have ever used for cutting teeth. Good Idea to Prepare Supply for Christmas Gifts.

Within two or three weeks of Christmas plan to make up your supply of Jellied Peel. Grapefruit peel will yield the largest and most attractive pieces, but orange and lemon peel may also be used. Each has, of course, its characteristic flavor, and after using the peel you have the pulp left to be served as breakfast fruit or in salad. With a pound or two of sugar and the use of the cook-stove for an afternoon you can make any of these into a delicious confection. Keep a little on hand to use in puddings, in cakes, and to serve at holiday parties.

The method is the same with all three kinds of peel. Thick, soft, unblemished peel from smooth fruit is best, according to the bureau of home economics. Strip the peel from the fruit in even sections, including just as much of the white part as you can.

"Shanghaied"
Patsy Ruth Miller, the girl who started the world with her acting in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," has the leading feminine role in "Shanghaied," the feature film to be shown at the Cozy theatre Saturday night, November 26.

The story deals with the love between a sturdy sea captain and the dancer in one of the sailor's dance halls that line the harbor front in the city of the Golden Gate. After she has been forced to participate in a plot against her lover, he shanghaies her and carries her to sea on his vessel, planning to avenge himself by working her until she has paid back in labor what she helped steal in money. The manner in which she wins back his love is the dramatic climax to the tale of adventure.

DO YOU REALIZE

That Christmas is just around the corner—only four weeks and two days from today?

As is customary, The News will again this year put out a special Christmas edition—two of them—on December 9 and 16.

The merchants have already begun unpacking their Christmas things and getting them ready for your inspection, and it is time to tell prospective buyers that you, too, should be making up your minds just what you will want for this joyous occasion. And from advance information, you will be able to get about everything necessary from advertisements that will appear in The News, so reserve your decision until you have seen the first copy—December 9—then it will be time enough to look elsewhere.

"We're All Gamblers"
Every picture fan knows and likes Tom Meighan, because he is a real "feller," and you will like him just as well in "We're All Gamblers" as in anything you have ever seen him in at the Cozy theatre, Sunday night, November 27.

It's a great story. It shows the star as a youngster at the start—wait on a New York East River dock who is picked up by a policeman and taken in by a kindly woman as her son. By the time he reaches manhood he is a contender for the heavy-weight championship, a celebrity who stirs the interest of aristocratic women. An automobile injury prevents him from winning the title and he eventually becomes the proprietor of a night club.

"The Yankee Clipper"
The feature picture at the Cozy theatre for Wednesday night, November 30, will be "The Yankee Clipper"—a thrilling page from the most glorious era in American history.

One of the finest sea pictures seen here since "Down to the Sea in Ships" is "The Yankee Clipper." This is an epochal picture story of daring when the American flag waved triumphant in the rigging of the greyhounds of the sea—the clipper ships. The story of a historic clipper race is graphically told in a series of thrilling sequences. The leading roles are in the capable hands of William Boyd and Elinor Fair, both of whom scored artistic triumphs in "The Volga Boatman."

Hunters Return
A hunting party composed of Sam Lange, Wall and John Gehrke and Oscar Danielson, returned Thursday of last week from a hunting trip bringing with them a very large elk—the only animal brought down by the hunters—but it was said to be a very fine animal.

Carl Grieser got home last week from a few days hunting trip spent in the Kamiah country, and brought out a deer, the only one he saw, which shows that his aim was deadly.

A dinner party that will long be remembered by those in attendance was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hordemann on Thursday of last week, when Mr. Hordemann celebrated his seventy-ninth birthday anniversary. Mrs. Hordemann had prepared a very delicious turkey dinner, with all the accessories, for the occasion and a number of their friends and neighbors were invited in to help them celebrate the event. Many came at the noon hour and more came in the evening, all of whom were served from the bountiful tables spread and many were the felicitations extended Mr. Hordemann on his having arrived at a milestone in life that not many reach—and from his present physical condition, he will celebrate many more of the happy occasions.

Mr. Hordemann is one of the really pioneers in this section and his store of knowledge of what it takes to build up a new country would make a large book. He came here just 50 years ago this fall—in 1877—and took up a homestead on Thorn Creek, northwest of town, which he still owns and upon which he resided until some 20 years ago, when he bought the residence property in the west part of town where he now lives.

There are very few who came to the Genesee section as early as did Mr. Hordemann and it is doubtful if any of them experienced any more hardships than did he during the years when the country was in the making.

The definition of real pioneering is unknown to the present generation, but Mr. Hordemann can give you the entire definition as he was one of those who helped hew this country from a wilderness and has seen it grow from an uninhabited country, only by the Indian, to one of the best and most highly cultivated parts of the United States.

Following the musical numbers, Consul Commander Gordon introduced Mr. Boak, the speaker of the hour, who gave a fine address on "The Duties and Privileges of W. O. W. Lodge Members." He especially stressed his pleasure on the development and activities of the local camp and his appreciation in being honored by it.

Following the address Commander Gordon announced a dance to be given by Lewiston Camp 205, Monday evening, November 28, and a banquet and entertainment Monday evening, December 5, and a joint installation to be held in Lewiston. All candidates from surrounding camps are to be inducted at that time.

In spite of the bad condition of the roads and the luncheon hour conflicting with school, the camp was well represented, a goodly crowd being seated at the tables, which were attractive in W. O. W. symbolic decorations of stumps and hatchets.

R. C. Beach Company
Rummage Sale—Nov. 25-26
Friday and Saturday

The "R. C. Beach Company Week" was a big success, thousands of dollars worth of merchandise was sold and many small lots have been left in the store.

On Thursday, December 1st, we will open our Christmas store, this means that all small lots, lines of merchandise we wish to discontinue and every available inch of space that it is possible to get, must be had to make room for our usual large Christmas stock.

This is the reason for our rummage sale—former price cuts no figure, small lots, odds and ends must be sold during these two days.

The reputation of the R. C. Beach Co. rummage sale is known by those who have attended and you should make every effort to be here.

Family Has Hard Luck
The A. C. Linehan family has been having more than their share of sickness during the past few months. First it was Mr. Linehan, who underwent an operation for appendicitis, and who is just beginning to feel like himself again. A few weeks ago Mrs. Linehan was taken sick and taken to a Lewiston hospital, where she remained for two weeks, having been brought home only last week, and who is still far from well; next their son Donald suffered a badly sprained knee and on Monday of this week their son, Raphael, was taken ill with the mumps—and Mr. Linehan says he hasn't had them—and the end is not yet.

Mr. Linehan says they are all getting along as well as could be expected but that it does look as though the cards had been stacked against them.

WATER BOTTLES — FOUNTAIN SYRINGES
I have only an unlucky number of water bottles left — 13 out of 36. I saw the same bottle in Spokane in a cut-rate store window marked special at $2.99. My price is $2.25. Also spirits of camphor at 25c an ounce, 2 ounces for 45c. My price has been 20c an ounce, 2 for 35c.

My rubber goods are guaranteed by the company I buy from, and I guarantee them to you. I do not pass the "buck," if the bottle proves to be faulty, I don't pass it back to the company. If I tell you anything and I don't do all I can to right it if you may tell me to my face I am not a man of my word and I will swallow it. Any time you fail to tell me (and that is not very often) you are going to tell somebody else and therefore you are doing both yourself and me an injustice.

No mail order house will guarantee, exchange or take back a water bottle or fountain syringe. I will not take one back — will explain if desired — but I do guarantee them.

FRIESLAND HOME OF WONDERFUL CATTLE
Netherland Province Celebrated Dairy Center.

Washington.—"The province of Friesland, in the Netherlands, which recently held an agricultural fair at the provincial capital, Leeuwarden, is one of the most important dairying regions of Europe," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Black and white Friesian cattle, a breed known in America as Holstein-Friesian, have found their way into most of the milk and butter countries of the world.

"Friesian cattle were mentioned by the Roman historian Tacitus as being of importance as early as the year 28 A. D. Perhaps because of this early start, or by reason of the favorable location of the province in regard to industrial cities of northern Europe, Friesian farmers have grown prosperous through many years of furnishing their neighbors with butter and cheese.

Grazing Land Below Sea Level. "This northern province of the Netherlands lies between the fair at the ocean known as the Zuyder Zee and the North sea. It is bordered by a rim of dikes and high sand dunes behind which the country is so low that were these dikes to break the entire province would be submerged. During the summer months the climate of the flat plain is so low that the water level is in the grip of a heavy rain and snowstorm, according to reports of motorists traveling from Boise to Twin Falls into this city.

CALL YOU CAMEL?
SHE'S FROM PARIS

French Women Have Variety of Pet Names.

Paris.—"Cabbage," "White Rabbit" and "Five-footed Cat" are among the multitude of pet names the Frenchwoman picks out of the vegetable, animal and mineral kingdoms to bestow on those she loves.

"Zoujou," formerly applied exclusively to little dogs of the Fido variety, is hung on husbands and sweethearts with great generosity these days. Ordinary names seem to lack the broad scale of feeling women wish to express.

"My Little Cabbage" is used currently by the push-cart fruit and vegetable sellers who gather in the city markets in convenient side streets. It is applied to servant girl or mistress alike regardless of size or shape.

"My Little Blue Doll," "Green Rabbit," "Kitten," "Cat," "Golden Angel," "Duck," "Yellow Chicken," "My Sugar Hen," "Love," "Agile Rabbit" are terms of endearment that flow from the mouths of women in France.

One extravagant phrase is "My Camel of the Desert," which is capable of several meanings. As an expression of affection it might take a prize, but shouted at a taxi chauffeur it would start a fight. "Camel," for some occult reason, is a challenge and a battle cry, in anger, but a mother or wife can make it a poem.

Then there are a dictionary full of names spoken in mock anger such as "Sewed-Up Mouth," "Mute Head," "Indescribably Individual" and "Twisted Head."

Indians Erect Hall for Tribal Dances. Tower, Minn.—Nature's limitless theater has given way to a snugly heated hall for the Indian's savage dances.

Poets have sung of the beauty of the Indian dance performed on the rolling plains, against a background of towering trees and myriads of twinkling lake or two. But when the Chipewyan Indians in the Lake Vermillion country of Minnesota get ready to observe the change of the seasons with savage steps they repair to a well-lighted and heated hall, take down their clubs and head-dresses from neatly labeled hooks around the wall and do the dances their forefathers in comparative comfort.

They erected a building just for that purpose because it's more comfortable. There is a concrete floor and a pit for the drummers. John Wauvau-gan, son of an old chief and one of the drummers, explains that when the dances were held outdoors the dust from the terpsichorean grind, which frequently ran into days all but smothered the drummers.

An orchestra pit in the center of the hall accommodates the drummers. Headdresses, bands, bells, rattles and other paraphernalia hang on the wall with a peg for each person.

Dances soon will be in full swing in observance of the fall harvest of wild rice and blueberries.

British Government Builds Million Homes. London.—The millionth house to be built under the British government's housing scheme, inaugurated after the World war, has been completed and is ready for occupation.

Government statistics show that England is becoming a nation of small property owners, each individual a shareholder in his own right.

More than 600,000 new houses will have been bought outright during the period from 1923 until the end of 1927 by middle-class and working-class persons.

A great majority of these houses have been obtained through the installment plan and building and loan societies, by bank mortgages, or by special facilities afforded by speculative builders. British building and loan societies advanced $200,750,000 in 1927 for the purchase of houses, helping 114,000 people to become the owners of their own property.

Money invested in war savings certificates is more than $3,220,000,000, nearly all from the small capitalist.

False Teeth of Steel. Berlin.—False teeth made of steel are among the poorest products which the Evanson steel works are turning out now. Various grades of non-rusting steel have been on the market for some time, but the new so-called V. A. steel is acid proof as well.

Lower California Islands

Cliffs of a Lower California Island.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.) THE Islands of the west coast of Lower California are widely scattered over a section of the ocean which provides a very scant rainfall. As a consequence, desert conditions prevail among them.

The most interesting of these islands is Guadalupe. It rises precipitously from abyssal depths, a volcano some 12,000 feet high but with only 1,500 feet above the sea. It has never been visited by man, and is therefore, an oceanic island in every respect. All of its animals and plants have come to it either over or through the water.

This enforced isolation of the species which come to Guadalupe has caused them to become modified into many distinct forms which are of great interest to students of biology. But, aside from this "esthetic" value, the island has been of very considerable commercial importance because of the great quantity of guano which it has produced.

Guadalupe is the sole remaining home of the only remnant of a herd of mammoth seals in the northern hemisphere. Its fine herd of fur seals was hunted and persecuted until apparently the last survivor succumbed to the bullet of the hunters. At least 200,000 skins of this valuable fur-bearing, which, at present prices, would be worth more than $5,000,000, are now taken from the island.

Guadalupe, Mexico's westernmost possession, located 180 miles southwest of San Diego, Calif., is about 100 miles long and six miles wide. It is known to have been visited by fur seal hunters in the early part of the nineteenth century.

The world's greatest herds of fur seals have been so long commercially extinct that people have come to associate the name only with the species which range to the north in Alaska, where, by long and bitter fighting of diplomatic and legislative battles, the United States has been successful in securing this important herd now in existence. But once there were several other herds, much larger, in the southern hemisphere.

Fur Seals All Killed. The species which lived on Guadalupe was akin to these last and not to the Alaskan forms, although the furs were almost equally valuable and brought good profits to the hunters. Guadalupe being such a distant outpost of man and six miles wide, it is a single official of that government had the faintest conception of the war of extermination at the time it was taking place.

So far as the available records show, the last living fur seal was seen on Guadalupe in 1892. Since then several expeditions have gone to the island and searched for the animal without success.

Former fur-seal rookeries have been examined with scrupulous care, the great expanse of the timber of California and planted in some of the parks. The oaks, which apparently have been neglected, are said to have the largest acorns ever known and compared favorably with the major breeding grounds of the Pribilof Islands today.

The entire Guadalupe herd must have numbered at least 100,000 animals when it was in its prime. Without printed records, how do we know this, thirty years after the last of the animals died? They left their own records, which can be read almost as plainly today as if each animal were in its place; and this makes the reconstruction of the facts all the more bitter.

The animals chose the roughest and most rocky shores for their land houses and congregated in large compact rookeries, in conformance to the habit of fur seals generally. The constant trampling of thousands upon thousands of flippers over the land blocks and bowlders of lava rock wore them down to the smoothness of polished marble. And there they are today, silent monuments to a helpless animal which paid dearly for having a skin covered by man.

The great slaughter of the Guadalupe fur seals took place between 1800 and 1850. The hunters then thought they had killed all the animals, and the animals were at once forgotten for many years; but about 1850 it was rediscovered and several thousand seals were killed in a few succeeding seasons.

Stories are still heard in San Diego of the last killings which took place. The fur-bearers were pursued into the dark recesses of volcanic caves and shot or clubbed by the light of torches.

The Elephant Seal. Another interesting sea animal is the Guadalupe elephant seal—a huge, clumsy beast with a long flexible trunk. The animals were at one time widely distributed and abundant on many of the remote islands of the Antarctic region, but the whalers soon learned that a fine quantity and quality of oil could be obtained from each carcass. So the slaughter began, and ended only when the species was commercially exterminated.

Mr. Follett's car was pretty badly damaged and was taken to Spokane for repairs. The speedwagon lost a front wheel and was otherwise damaged.

More Money For Highways. Collections from Idaho's state gasoline tax have totalled $1,237,300 in the nine-months period ending September 30, the bureau of motor fuels and the department of law enforcement announced today. This will provide a revenue for the state highway fund $336,046 larger than the amount collected in the same nine months period a year ago. September collections totalled $187,676.

Dr. Dora Louise Grayson, in spite of ailing health, worked bobby hair and starchy blue eyes, found herself at twenty-five a full-fledged doctor of medicine, working in the clinic of the Children's Hospital, Spokane, Wash.

Somehow, worn, anxious mothers looked at her with so much trust and confidence, she wondered how it had all come about. Sometimes she doubted her own powers of endurance to go on.

Talmadge Scott, after several false starts and several years of business, at thirty found himself in possession of his degree of doctor of medicine. He wondered sometimes how it had ever occurred to him that he could possibly be anything else besides a doctor.

For several weeks Doctor Scott had been stopping every day at the Children's Hospital to speak to Doctor Grayson, who received her little patients in the room right across the corridor from the s m a l l operating room where he worked two hours every morning.

In all his life he had never known a woman doctor before; he tried to im a g i n e a b u t could not conclude, what sort of person she must be. "Clinic is closed tomorrow," he remarked the Wednesday before Thanksgiving.

"Suppose you will have dinner with friends?" "Thanksgiving," he queried. "An afraid I don't feel a very thankful mood. I'm thousands of miles from home. Do you still believe in turkey and cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie?"

"It's a pretty myth," he said. "If Dora had been a keen observer she might have noticed that a look of disappointment passed over Talmadge Scott's face, and if he had been a mind reader he might have been aware of her own disappointment. Not being so gifted they parted with a bit of farewell.

The Thanksgiving Myth by Jane Osborn. DORA LOUISE GRAYSON, in spite of ailing health, worked bobby hair and starchy blue eyes, found herself at twenty-five a full-fledged doctor of medicine, working in the clinic of the Children's Hospital, Spokane, Wash.

Thanksgiving. "Are you going to dinner?" she asked, and Dora admitted that she was going out in search of something to eat. "Thanksgiving?" she queried. "It's a pretty myth," he said.

Suppose you will have dinner with friends? "Thanksgiving," he queried. "An afraid I don't feel a very thankful mood. I'm thousands of miles from home. Do you still believe in turkey and cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie?"

Thanksgiving. By TOM BRADSHAW, in Chicago Herald-Examiner. JEHOVAH, God of lands and seas. Of winter's winds and summer breeze, Lend ear today while from the east Of millions swell a prayer of thanks

For all that hope and faith hath brought, For summits reached, for lessons taught, For life and health and peace and love, Jehovah, harken from above! Of saint and sinner, youth and old, Give ear today—th' peoples stand

With thankful hearts abroad the land, To give Thanks for blessings new That come with ev'ry morning's dew— That follow on till night is nigh, That aid them live and help them die, That shower on them through the years, That mingle happiness with tears, That stop not till their race is run, And centuries sing, "Thy will be done!"

WHERE GENESSEE PEOPLE SPENT THANKSGIVING DAY

Mrs. Neils Lande and Earling, Ronald Lange of Moscow, Miss Alice Hanson, home from the Lewiston Normal over Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Kenjasky had as Thanksgiving day guests Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rohwer and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. Cutting and son, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Craft and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. Gordon and family and Adam Kenjasky of Spokane.

The McCreary family entertained Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Griffith and Marjorie of Spokane.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mochel had as dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Mochel of Walla Walla and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bolton of Coeur d'Alene and Geo. Bolton.

Several Items Delayed

Owing to the fact that the News was published on Wednesday of last week, several items of interest were received too late for publication and we this week publish them.

Under ordinary circumstances items received on Wednesday, or even Thursday morning, can be used, but it so happened that last week it was necessary to leave out several items on account of their late arrival at the office. This we regret very much, but we are using most of them this week.

The Linger Longers

The Linger Longers were very pleasantly entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ray Edwards. The time was spent with needlework and socially and at 6 o'clock a very fine lunch was served by the hostess. Mrs. Ira Hanson was the only invited guest.

Mrs. Gus Fickens will next entertain.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

being neither tardy nor absent during the six weeks period: Beuletta Norbury, Donald Gordon, Reta Loncasty, Adeline Hartman, Bayne Hickman and Charlotte Foster.

First Grade

We have had several people out of our room with the mumps. They were Chris. Hanson, Dorothy Follett, Edgar Smith and Loren Kambsch.

We are reviewing the preparations made for winter by people and animals and plants. We are to begin our Eskimo study right away. The Christmas story will be woven in with this study.

We are progressing very nicely in our readers, having covered several pages the last week. Much of our reading material has been written on the board.

We are at last on our way to visit Health Land. The Health Land Flyer is rapidly being prepared. We have visited the town of Waterville, where everybody drank at least four glasses of water a day. We had to comply to the rule of the city before we could go to the next town. The next station was Milky Way. There everyone drank three glasses of milk a day. To be sure we obeyed the rule—a milk bottle was placed in the depot to remind us. Our next station will be the town of Clean Teeth. We will report our progress next week.

Twenty Years Ago

The copious rains the past ten days have put the ground in excellent condition for plowing and a good percent of the farmers are now daily in their fields.

The Nels Flamco home during the past few days has been sheltering a number of visitors. They are Nels Nelson, brother-in-law of Mr. Flamco, Mrs. Christenson, a niece, and F. I. Nelson, all of Sioux Falls, S. D. The two Nelsons are also cousins of Mr. Fidemann. These people are favorably impressed with this region.

Mrs. Con. Steltz left Wednesday for Troy to spend Thanksgiving with the family of her daughter, Mrs. Caldwell.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Weber Friday of last week. Emery Vandenberg left Tuesday of this week for Quincy, Wash., near which place he has a homestead. He expects to be gone several months.

John Geselchen, with his family, left Monday of this week for Spokane. From there Mr. Geselchen will visit the coast in search of a location.

Vanderpool-Cann

The Lewiston Tribune of Saturday, November 26, stated that a marriage license had been issued in that city to Alfred Cann and Miss Bertha Vanderpool of Moscow. The ceremony was performed by Probate Judge E. L. Parker last Friday at Lewiston.

Mr. Cann is the son of Paul Cann of Moscow, formerly a resident of Genesee for many years, and was born and reared here while the bride has made her home in this section for the past two or three years and is quite well known here.

The News joins in extending congratulations.

Funeral of Mrs. Tiele

The funeral of Mrs. Margaretha Tiele, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Herman Theuerkauf on Saturday, November 19, was held at the Theuerkauf home Tuesday, November 22, and burial was made in the Cornwall cemetery.

Rev. N. E. Beach, pastor of the Genesee Christian church, conducted the services. Two duets were sung by Rev. Beach and Miss Alfreda Hampton, "Does Jesus Care" and "Rock of Ages."

Margaretha Kruse was born in Germany in 1848 and came to America with a sister when a young lady, going to Chicago and Iowa, where she visited relatives. After a few years she was married to Charles Tiele at Topka, Kansas. The family moved to Idaho in pioneer days and settled on a farm east of Moscow.

She is survived by numerous relatives in the East and in Germany, and by four daughters: Mrs. Mary Blume, Genesee, Miss Anna Tiele, Genesee; Mrs. John Yochum, Clarkston, Wash., and Mrs. Herman Theuerkauf, Genesee, and nine grandchildren. Mrs. Tiele was 79 years and two months of age at the time of her passing.

We wish to thank all the kind friends and neighbors for their assistance in our bereavement and for the flowers and Rev. Beach and Miss Hampton for the service and singing.

Mrs. Mary Blume, Miss Anna Tiele, Mrs. Alvina Yochum, Mrs. Herman Theuerkauf.

Seed Potatoes Hold Attention

Seed potatoes will command a large share of the limelight at the 1927 Idaho potato show, to be held in Malad, December 14, 15 and 16. The potato class, according to C. B. Aulson, state seed commissioner and secretary of the show, will be the biggest class on exhibit.

The potato's part in the show is also being anticipated with keen interest because of the opportunity it furnishes for competition between the northern Idaho growers and the seed producers of the upper Snake River valley and other parts of southern Idaho. The northern district growers won 35 prizes out of 74 at the Northwest potato show in Spokane November 16 to 18.

F. M. Harrington, horticulturist of the Montana agricultural college, who has charge of seed potato certification in Montana, will be the official judge.

The last day of the show, December 16, is to be Potato Day. All the phases of potato growing and marketing will be discussed.

The Weather

An old topic, but new weather—when it doesn't rain.

The weather season has been a peculiar one all over the United States, and even in Missouri it has been a little peculiar. Floods and storms have been the rule for several months, and while this section has not been visited by what might be termed real storms, yet we have had our full share of rain.

It is hard to say just when the rain began falling or when it will stop, but that we have had our full share goes without saying. During the past few days Cow creek has been out of its banks and some of the N. P. track was damaged at Uniontown Monday and the Genesee Bulletin was delayed considerably.

The Snake and Clearwater rivers at Lewiston has been at flood stage during the past week and streams all over the west have been out of their banks.

Many acres of potatoes are still in the ground and will likely remain there as some of the farmers have said they would not bother to dig those still in the ground.

The New Ford Prices

At a meeting of newspaper men, held recently in Detroit, with Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Co., when those present were given an opportunity to drive the new Ford car and to observe its beauty, remarkable pick-up and unusual speed of this new low-priced car.

It will be noted that the prices of some of the models are practically the same as those of the old Model T, while others are only slightly higher. You will find a complete description of the new car on the last page of this paper.

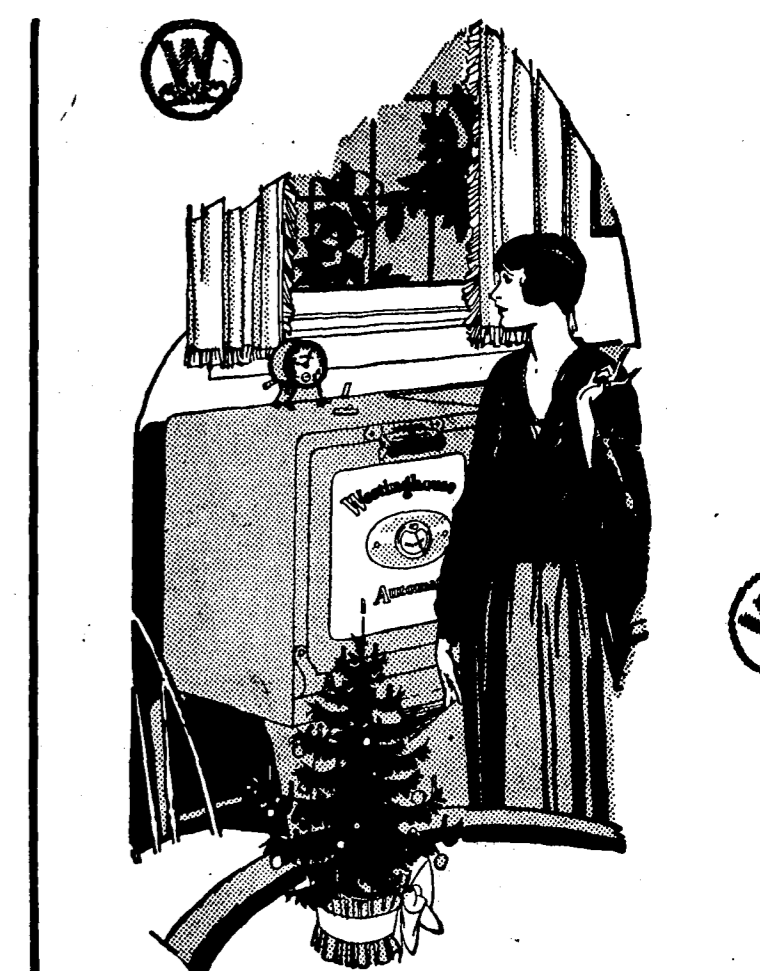

Confined to Home Miss Olive Mulalley is confined to her home by illness and was unable to go to her school near Troy the first of the week.

This Christmas give her Freedom from Cooking Worries

With the Westinghouse Automatic Electric Range in her kitchen, a woman can spend most afternoons out of it. She can shop, go to a club meeting or a matinee, and still serve a piping hot, deliciously browned roast for dinner. When she puts the food in the oven, she sets the clock and the thermostat. Then she's free from cooking worries until mealtime.

The Clock Is the Cook The clock turns on the current automatically at the time set. When the oven reaches the right heat, the thermostat turns it off. Cooking is finished economically, by stored heat.

 Elza Desjardins, a jeweler from Lewiston, has leased the room formerly occupied by the F. C. Shork jewelry store, and will open a jewelry store and repair shop, and has already brought part of his material here.

Mr. Desjardins has had much experience in the business—in fact, he says he was born in a jewelry store, and has followed that trade all his life, having had experience in the Waltham watch factory, one of the largest institutions of its kind in America, as well as other large establishments.

While he will have a stock of jewelry, his main business will be repairing of watches and jewelry of all kinds.

Another Large Shipment of Hogs
 On Tuesday afternoon of this week the Genesee Union Warehouse Co. made a shipment of four cars, containing 363 head of hogs, to the Spokane market.

 Clyde Sweet spent the Thanksgiving vacation in Clarkston.
 Mrs. R. F. Lambert visited with Mrs. Fred Brazier Tuesday.
 Miss Nelita Lemons returned Sunday after spending the Thanksgiving vacation at Winchester and Forest.
 Kenneth Whitted is visiting at Kookia. While there he went hunting and secured a deer.
 All the hunters from this section were lucky, as each secured a deer and these that stay at home were also lucky in being remembered with a portion.
 Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller and Mr. Butzein went to Moscow Sunday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Christenson.

Owing to the rain and bad condition of the roads, only 41 braved the elements and came to the school house to partake of the annual community banquet, of which there was a great quantity of excellent quality. After dinner there was a fish pond, which was the hit of the day and furnished a great deal of amusement for the bunch. Then the committees on Christmas tree and program were appointed and everyone went home satisfied in mind and body.

A Social Gathering
 The neighbors of Woodcraft held one of their social gatherings at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Shirod last Monday. The evening was spent at pinocle, C. P. Erikson making the highest score.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Shirod, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Larkin, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Isakson, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Erikson, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Olson, C. B. Bates, Mrs. Johanna Christenson and Miss Maggie Botjter.

The R. B. C.'s Entertained
 The R. B. C.'s were delightfully entertained by their president, Mrs. R. Gordon, on Wednesday of last week. The afternoon was spent with needlework and social converse, after which a dainty luncheon was served by the hostess.

THE NEWS

Camel

The cigarette that knows how to "be itself"

There is no "pose" about Camel. It's just a good honest cigarette—the best ever—and it doesn't try to be anything else.

If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobaccos.

THE PICTURE SHOWS

"Breed of Courage"
 The feature picture for Saturday night, December 3, at the Cozy theater, will be held to elect one commissioner of the said Genesee Highway district, for a term of four years, at which election the polls will be open at 1 p. m. and will continue open until 5 o'clock p. m. of the same day.
 Dated this 3rd day of November, 1927.
 D. L. BRESSLER, Clerk of the Board of Highway Commissioners, Genesee Highway District.

"The Rough Riders"
 That rough, tough, happy-go-lucky lot, "The Rough Riders"—sowboys and college men, hoboes and millionaires—all gathered to join Teddy's Rough Riders—the roughest, toughest, shootiest outfit ever gathered together in one bunch—will be at the attraction at the Cozy theater Sunday and Monday nights, December 4 and 5.
 A triple-barreled story—a boy's, a regiment's, a nation's! Romance, comedy, history—all dominated by the character and personality of Theodore Roosevelt.
 America—1898. Cuba struggling for liberty. Spanish oppression—America protests. The Maine goes to Havana harbor. Suddenly, without warning, one night the Maine is blown up. War comes: Volunteers are called for. With his friend, Leonard Wood, Roosevelt organizes the Rough Riders.

"Figures Don't Lie"
 Figures don't lie—especially when they belong to such beauties as Esther Ralston—and you'll say so, too, when you see her in "Figures Don't Lie," at the Cozy theater Wednesday night, December 7.
 A beautiful secretary standing close to her employer as he starts to clasp a necklace around her rounded throat. Enter the wife—and trouble.

Mr. Hordemann Honored
 (Contributed)
 On Thursday, November 16, Wm. Hordemann celebrated his seventy-ninth birthday anniversary and in his honor a beautifully gotten-up stag party was arranged for by Mrs. Hordemann, when covers were laid for twelve.
 The dinner table was beautifully festooned with smilax and fern; the center-piece was of rose pink larkspur and bronze poinsettias. Each place was marked by a rosebud, arranged into a tiny bouillabaisse with fern, and at each place were favors, which added to the merriment; and there were also decorative pink baskets containing unique champagne bottles and "shag" like champagne and chocolate coating of each was a delicious cordiale.
 The dinner was served in six courses, commencing with oyster cocktail and ending with real English plum pudding and "hard" sauce.
 The birthday cake, baked by the Model bakery of Spokane, was a work of art and was as delicious as its appearance. It was served in the living room with after-dinner coffee and was served with coffee to friends who dropped in during the evening to congratulate Mr. Hordemann.
 Delightful music was furnished by Miss Lemna Diana Moore of Lewiston, who is accomplished in voice, piano, violin and pipe organ music.
 Her beauty and charm add to the pleasure of hearing her perform.
 The celebration came to a close at a late hour, but not before everyone had voted Mrs. Hordemann a most charming hostess.
 Mr. Hordemann was the recipient of many gifts and good wishes for many happy returns—and some came all the way from Europe.

Miss Nelson Pledged
 According to advice from Seattle, Miss Mildred Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Nelson, former Genesee residents, but now making her home at Seattle, has been pledged to Miss Estlin, women's music honorary society at the University of Washington.
 The many friends here of the Nelson family will be more than pleased to learn of Miss Mildred's success as a singer and musician.

The Bridge Club
 The Bridge club was very pleasantly entertained on Friday afternoon, November 18, by Mrs. W. W. Burr. Miss Estlin, women's music honorary society and Mrs. E. W. Vanouck low score.
 The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Virgil Sampson this (Friday) afternoon, December 2.

IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT

THE NEW FORD CAR

Complete Details of the New Model "A"

Features of the New FORD

55 TO 65 MILES AN HOUR

The new Ford has unusual speed. It will do 55 to 60 miles an hour with ease. This is a conservative statement. In many road tests it has exceeded 65 miles an hour. So well does the new car hold the road that you can travel at high speed for long stretches with a new feeling of comfort and safety. Even bad roads may be taken at fast pace. You will be delighted, too, with the way the new Ford climbs the hills. You will face the steepest grades with confidence, knowing you have power and power to spare to climb them all without greatly reduced speed, without strain, or unnecessary shifting of gears.

40-HORSEPOWER ENGINE

At 2200 revolutions per minute, the new Ford four-cylinder engine develops 40 horsepower. This r. p. m., or revolution speed, is low for such power and shows that the engine is unusually efficient. It also means long life, for the lower the speed of the engine, the less the wear on its parts. The bore is 3 3/8 inches and the stroke 4 1/4 inches. (S. A. E. and N. A. C. C. rating for license purposes, 24.03 horsepower.)

REMARKABLE ACCELERATION

The new Ford is remarkably quick on the get-away. In tests in high gear, with a Tudor sedan body and two passengers, it has accelerated from 5 to 25 miles per hour in 8 1/2 seconds. This acceleration is an outstanding feature of the new Ford car.

PREVENTING VIBRATION

The engine in the new Ford is practically vibrationless. This is due in part to its lower r. p. m., the statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft, and the aluminum pistons. To insure quiet, the timing gears are made of bakelized fabric instead of metal, and the cams on the camshaft are so designed that the valve push rods follow them closely, preventing valve clicking.

GASOLINE ECONOMY

You will get from 20 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline, depending on the speed at which you drive. Feed to the carburetor is by gravity from a unique, welded, one-piece steel tank integral with the cowl.

UNIQUE NEW OILING SYSTEM

The oiling system is distinctly Ford in design, being a combination of pump, splash, and gravity feed. The pump delivers the oil to the valve chamber, from which it flows by gravity feed to the main bearings of the crankshaft. An oil dipper is provided on each connecting rod bearing cap, so that the force of rotation of the crankshaft drives oil into the connecting rod bearings, as well as splashing oil over all working parts within the engine. This is a simple but entirely dependable system, assuring proper lubrication of each bearing and each cylinder without pressure.

PERFECTED COOLING

The new Ford car has a centrifugal water pump and large radiator. The fan runs on the pump shaft and is made according to airplane propeller design. It is exceedingly difficult to make the new Ford engine overheat; only abuse will do it, such as running without enough oil.

IGNITION SYSTEM OF NEW DESIGN

The ignition system of the new Ford is unique in mechanical design, extremely simple, and will give the car owner exceptional performance with a minimum of trouble. The new generator is of the power-house type. There is only one coil in a waterproof case. The distributor, located on top of the engine, is easily accessible. Connections are made to the spark plugs by short bronze springs. The coincidental lock is placed in the ignition circuit. It not only replaces the regular ignition switch, but in the "off" position grounds the entire circuit. From the switch to the distributor a steel cable protects the primary wire. This wire is grounded to the distributor casing, thereby making it impossible for anyone to wire around the device.

STANDARD, SELECTIVE GEAR SHIFT

The new Ford transmission is of the selective sliding gear type, with standard shift. It has three speeds forward and one reverse. The main shaft runs on ball bearings, the countershaft on roller bearings, and the reverse idler on a bronze bearing. This is the highest type bearing mounting and is unusual on light cars. All gears are made of heat-treated chrome alloy steel. You will be delighted with the easy, noiseless shifting of gears in this new transmission. You can go from one to another easily, silently, with the pressure of a finger.

EXCEPTIONALLY EASY TO STEER

The steering gear on the new Ford car is irreversible. Shocks are not transmitted back to the hands of the driver. You need not grip the wheel tightly. A light touch is enough to guide the car safely. Large steering wheel is made of steel, covered with hard rubber. Light switch and horn button are conveniently located on top of wheel.

NEW 4-WHEEL BRAKES

The brakes on the new Ford car are an exclusive development. They are of the mechanical, internal expanding-shoe type and are self-centering. This is the most reliable and the simplest type of four-wheel brake and the easiest to adjust. All adjustments are made from the outside without removing any parts. No special tools are needed. Uniform correct adjustment on each wheel is quickly and easily obtained. The brake pedal and the hand lever each operate all four brakes. Total braking surface is 168 square inches. All brake working parts are cadmium plated to make them rust-proof.

MULTIPLE DRY-DISC CLUTCH

The clutch in the new Ford is of the multiple dry-disc type, which is the most reliable. It is also the easiest to operate, for it takes hold gently and smoothly. It has four driving discs and five driven discs.

COMFORTABLE, SAFE TRANSVERSE SPRINGS

The springs are of the transverse, semi-elliptic type, designed and built for the new Ford. This type, which was used in the Model T, was adapted to the new car because no better spring type could be found. They are built of the finest steel, and the leaves are wide and thin. Each spring is built up of varying sizes and number of leaves to give flexibility and to meet riding requirements of the different body types. The size and number of leaves used in these springs are one of the reasons why the new Ford is such a comfortable car. The construction of the transverse springs also contributes to the safety and efficiency of the 4-wheel brakes.

HYDRAULIC SHOCK ABSORBERS

The finest type hydraulic shock absorbers are standard equipment on the new Ford. These combine with the low center of gravity, the minimum unsprung weight, and the easy riding qualities of the transverse springs to make the new Ford one of the most comfortable cars on the road today.

THREE-QUARTER FLOATING REAR AXLE

The rear axle of the new Ford is of the three-quarter floating type. The axle housings are made entirely of steel, built up by welding steel forgings to steel tubing. The differential housing, to which these axle housings are bolted, is made of rolled channel steel. The axle shafts carry none of the weight of the car, the wheels running on roller bearings on the housing. All bearings in the rear axle are of the roller type. Drive is by spiral bevel gear.

FORD-DESIGNED STEEL-SPOKE WHEELS

Original design and great strength are two features that mark the unique, Ford-designed steel-spoke wheels. Each wheel is assembled by welding, and becomes one piece of metal. Spokes cannot work loose. Each spoke has a tensile strength of 4,000 pounds. Outside spokes do not cross, so that the wheels are easy to clean. There are only 30 spokes in each wheel.

BEAUTIFUL NEW LOW BODY LINES

There is a bit of the European touch in the coachwork and contour of the new Ford. Bodies are steel. Fenders are of the full crown type. Appointments and hardware are of a luxurious type seldom found in a low-price car. Upholstery is of rich, durable material. Cushions are deep and easy. Door handles and window lifts are fully nickled. Speedometer, gasoline gauge, ammeter and ignition lock are mounted on an instrument panel of satin-finish nickel, illuminated by a lamp in center. Headlamps and radiator shell are fully nickled. Closed cars have the new military-type sun visor and crown roof. Great care has been taken in designing the new Ford to provide generous seat space and ample leg room. Clear, unobstructed vision is assured at front by unusually narrow pillars and at sides by specially designed doors with large windows.

CHOICE OF FOUR COLORS

The color combinations used on the new Ford are especially artistic and attractive. Four color choices are offered for each body type—a most unusual feature in a low-price car. Purchasers may choose any one of the following colors—Niagara Blue, Arabian Sand, Dawn Gray, and Gun Metal Blue. Belt and reveals are finished in contrasting colors, with attractive striping. The finish is pyroxylin lacquer, one of the finest and most enduring finishes for automobile bodies. It is not affected by heat or cold, withstands all kinds of weather conditions, and is not easily marred or scratched. The lustre actually improves with washing.

A QUIET CAR

In designing the new Ford, every precaution was taken to prevent squeaks, rattles and drumming sounds. Body panels and frame sections are welded and riveted together wherever there is possibility of the body weaving. In all structural details the new Ford bodies are built, to afford the utmost quietness and comfort.

GREASE GUN LUBRICATION

The chassis of the new Ford is lubricated by the pressure grease gun system, the simplest and most effective method of lubrication.

STANDARD EQUIPMENT ON ALL NEW FORD CARS

- Five Steel-Spoke Wheels
- Windshield Wiper
- Speedometer
- Gasoline Gauge
- Ammeter

ARE WE CHILDISH?— ENGLAND SAYS SO!

In commenting on the failure of the Geneva conference, the London Spectator loftily remarks that "after all we must remember that the United States is only a child in international affairs."

Maybe so. Uncle Sam has always fought better than he could dicker after the fighting was over, and two of our greatest international assets have always been the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans. But we can't help feeling that since the close of the World War we have been learning. In the first place we remained out of the League of Nations, and successfully fought European propaganda and domestic international influence to do it. Then we refused to go into the World Court without safeguarding American traditions, and we set our interests up so tightly that the European diplomats couldn't see any advantage in getting us in at all.

Then there is the case of Russia. The more experienced John Bull "recognized" Russia and got his fingers badly burned. Uncle Sam refused to recognize the Reds and has been going along getting business which John Bull expected to get by lying down with the Soviet. Surely we were not the "child" in this chapter of world diplomacy. Nor can it be said that we came off so badly in the recent Chinese unpleasantness.

To be sure there is the late lamented Geneva conference. We were expected to give up everything in the interest of international brotherhood, to accept little cruisers that couldn't get far away from the home plate, manned with guns which could only match those with which other nations could equip their super merchant fleets in time of war.

But we had some real representatives at Geneva and a real government back at home and the expected didn't happen. Maybe it was a little childish on our part to stand up for cruisers which would be of some use to us in time of trouble, but if so, then it was a brand of childishness which has been hailed with satisfaction by ninety-five per cent of the American people.

Minding one's own business, keeping out of trouble which doesn't concern one, and looking after one's own interests first may be childish, but those who practice it are usually associated with maturity in America. But if this really is childishness we are very much afraid that the European governments will have to make the most of it.

We want peace, and we are willing to go some distance to get it, but not as far as the lambskin went when he trusted himself to take a cot immediately adjacent to the couch of the hungry lion.

The Tariff As An Equalizer

During the past year the government has collected on imports to this country, the record sum of $605,828,000 on products valued at $4,430,890,000.

To let foreign commerce, with low production costs, caused mainly by a very low wage scale, enter our country free of tax would play havoc with American industries and agricultural crops. Even public-minded American citizens in moderate circumstances would not buy American products if they could purchase imported ones of the same quality at a lower price. It is the desire of our government to see that a fair deal is given both American and foreign industries, and it has very well succeeded.

American wages are the highest in the world today and they must be protected. Were the tariff abolished, the American working man would unquestionably buy a number of commodities at decreased prices, including farm products. But the American manufacturer, to meet cheaper foreign competition, would have to cut costs, and wages would drop accordingly.

The tariff has not hurt our foreign trade as was amply proved when over four billion dollars worth of goods was imported last year. What it has done is equalize selling prices so both the foreign and home industry can sell in the home market. It may not be perfect but it works fairly well.

Watch Your Step

He—You must economize. Think of the future. If I were to die, where would you be?
She—I should be here all right. The question is—where would you be?

American women are now the best dressed in the world, according to a French style expert. What does he mean, dressed?

RUSSIAN REDS ARE BUSY IN THE UNITED STATES

One of the offensives now being conducted by the Reds is pretty well advertised. It is the offensive in Mexico, which has already succeeded to a point quite satisfactory to the heads of the movement in Moscow. This offensive is now entering the second phase, which has for its purpose the bolshevizing of the American continent from the Rio Grande to the Panama Canal. It has become pretty well known because of certain activities at Washington which have been necessary to safeguard American interest and the peace of the western world.

But there are other red offensives which are not quite so well understood by the American public. One of these is being conducted in far off China. The Chinese situation, where civil war seems to be the prevailing fashion, and where armies are led against each other by generals with unpronounceable names, generally spells confusion to the average American who knows little of oriental affairs.

It ought to be pointed out, however, that the crafty gentlemen at Moscow have a hand in the Chinese puzzle. Cantonese armies, it is quite generally believed by those in touch with the situation, are under the influence of the Moscow government, and those armies opposing them have the support of the British and French governments. So in China again we are having a phase of the conflict of communism against western civilization.

It might be said that with this red offensive the United States has little concern, but there are other activities nearer home which will bear watching. In the United States the reds are fighting, not with armies, but with propaganda. They are seeking to break down the morals of the American workers and in doing this are attempting to destroy the American labor unions.

One of the labor organizations which has been most subject to the fire is that of the miners. The official organ of the United Mine Workers of America, which the Journal says, "is merely a part of the campaign which communists sympathizers are waging against the United Mine Workers of America." The Journal advises its miner readers to pay no attention to the mouthings of blatant demagogues" and says that the offending pamphlet was probably written by one of those reds in New York City who are known as "Greenwich Village coal miners."

Those comfortable Americans who believe that communism is merely a bogey man with which to frighten children to sleep will find some direct evidence here to the contrary. The American labor leaders know something about the activity of communism because they are constantly dealing with it.

Of course if communism were fighting alone in America it would never "get to first base" as the saying is. But it has the support of Greenwich Village miners and other kid glove socialists and parlor pinks who are constantly adding fuel to the flame and keeping communism alive in America.

Abraham Lincoln Said That

"The legitimate object of government is to do for a people whatever they need to have done, but can not do at all, or can not do so well for themselves in their separate and individual capacities. In all that the people can individually do as well for themselves, government ought not to interfere."

"The desirable things which individuals can not do fall into two classes of things: those which have a relation to wrongs and those which have not. Each of these branches off into an infinite number of subdivisions. The first—in relation to wrongs—embraces all crimes, misdemeanors and non-performance of contracts. The other embraces all which in its nature and without wrong, requires concerted action, as the public roads and highways, public schools, charities, pauperism, orphanages, estates of the deceased, and the machinery of government itself."

Mrs. Murphy—No, 'e was 'alf way under a train.

WHAT HAPPENED HERE TWENTY YEARS AGO

A large number of English sparrows are in evidence in the Dayton section.

The Genesee Fruit Products Co. to date has manufactured about 300 barrels of pure cider vinegar. The greater part of same is being stored in the basement of the Brewster building.

As a further indication that the financial flurry is clearing, O. E. Miller has received word from his company at Tacoma to again resume buying grain, payments for the same to be made with real money. The new market opens at 68 cents for club and 65 cents for red.

A year ago at this time this section had experienced its severest winter weather and nearly all the users of ice had completed their harvest. Conditions are quite different this year. To date the thermometer has scarcely gone below the freezing point and not enough snow has fallen to be worthy of mention.

This week in conversation with a leading Adventist of the Pine Grove section were advised that their colony now numbers about fifteen families. These people have centered here from the various Eastern states and in the course of a few years it is believed the colony will be a large one as those at present making up the membership are well pleased with the country. A few families are living on five and ten-acre tracts, one or two on 80 or 160-acre tracts, but the majority are farming 40 acres. During the past season the colony members have erected a school house 20x30 feet in size, are now conducting a school with an enrollment of 30 scholars. Religious services are also held in the school building, a minister from outside places paying an occasional visit here. A Sabbath school holding regular meetings has a membership of 65.

Another Touch of Winter

Monday night the mercury registered 16 degrees above zero. It thawed very little Tuesday and Wednesday nights the mercury again took a downward trend and landed at 14 above zero Wednesday morning. Many water pipes were stuck, the drop not being realized until the water wouldn't run. Anyway, it's better than so much rain.

Not Spring, But—

Although it is not spring, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Martine had some apparatus on the table from their garden Monday noon that had grown during the rainy weather this fall and was as good as if it had been the right time of year.—Colton News-Letter.

County Commissioners Meet

Latah county commissioners went into session Monday morning at the courthouse here for consideration of protests on the personal property tax rolls for 1927, several protests being registered.

Most of those filed will be relative to merchandise, which, under terms of the state law, must be assessed as personal property if the owner is a renter. Other minor assessments will receive attention at the hands of the commissioners.—Star-Mirror.

A Freak Season

Weather conditions this fall have been decidedly out of the ordinary. While this country has experienced an over-abundance of rainfall, severe frost has been slow in making their appearance. Last Saturday Melvin and Stanley Murphy brought a perfectly good buttercup to the Gazette office, which they found on the hillside back of their home. Buttercups in November is something new under the sun. Last Sunday Walter Biggam saw a number of ground squirrels out feeding on the green vegetation on the south slopes of American ridge. It is presumed that the weeks and weeks of rainfall has finally soaked into the winter quarters of the squirrels and driven them out.

Tuesday of this week Don Miller shot a ground hog, thus exploding the age old theory that ground hogs won't come out of their winter quarters until February 2.

H. H. Sparker says that he shucked his corn not long ago and found the husks unusually light. He says that is a sign of a mild winter. It is reported that Indians are predicting a hard winter because the fur on muskrat, coyotes, etc. is unusually heavy. About next April we will have a very good idea of whether the winter is to be a mild one or otherwise.—Kendrick Gazette.

THINGS OF INTEREST WITH THE CHANGING TIMES

The teacher who used to give the bad boys and girls a "licking" is now a snow-haired old lady and hasn't taught school for many a year. Perhaps children aren't as naughty as they used to be or perhaps teachers have found better ways of managing them than the birch rod their grandfathers knew so well. Anyhow, school is a much more pleasant place than it was. Many little girls find arithmetic very hard and not a few young gentlemen think grammar a most disagreeable institution, and ever so many children think that science was invented purely for the annoyance of youthful people in the grades.

If they realized that without science they wouldn't be nearly so comfortable and that many good times would be impossible, they would become more interested in it.

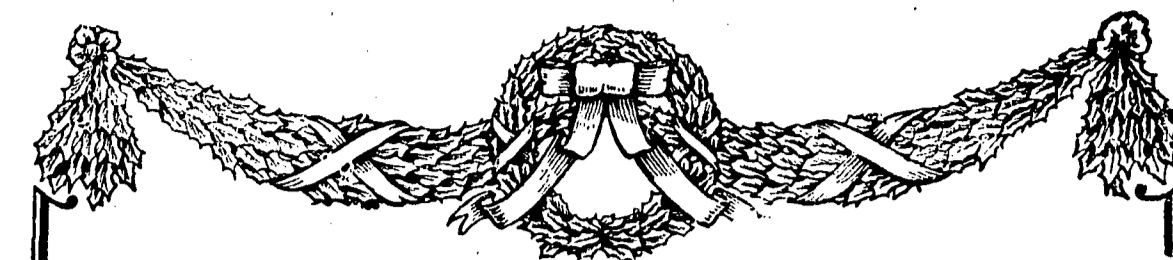

The pretty pink silk stockings on Dolly's feet and the rosettes in her hair were probably never spun by a silk worm, but were once a part of the trunk of a tree in some northern forest. The clever scientist found out how to convert the wood into the lustrous rayon hose and ribbon that help to make us well dressed.

There seems very little relation between the sand that is so much fun at the sea shore and the bright glass windows of school houses and home parlors, but, long ago, before science found a way to change sand into glass the children had to peer through windows of smudgy oiled pig-skin on the rainy days.

The leather like upholstery on the touring car and the pretty Morocco pencil case that was under last year's Christmas tree was never worn by a cow, and if the lazy tortoise had to supply shell rims for the spectacles of all the school teachers all over the world he would have to step in a much more lively manner than is commonly supposed. Tortoise shell rims and leather pencil cases are good things to mix up in one paragraph, but when it is realized that before the scientist got hold of them and changed them into Fabrikoid, a pyroxilin coated fabric, and Pyralin, they grew side by side in a Georgia cotton field, and one can see that they are quite compatible after all.

NATURAL GAS LINE BUILDERS MOVE CREW TO GREAT FALLS

The following was clipped from a Great Falls, Montana, paper:

"Preparations will be begun today by the Hope Engineering company, which is laying the pipe line from the Kevin Sunburst oil field which will bring natural gas into Great Falls, to start operations from this end of the line, it was announced at the local offices of the company Wednesday afternoon.

"Equipment of the company, located at the Telstead camp, near Shelby, since operations were begun several months ago were loaded into cars spotted at the camp Wednesday and will be removed to Great Falls today. The camp will be set up about seven miles north of Great Falls on the route of the line.

"Nearly all of the crew from this camp will be removed to the Great Falls end of the construction work, it was announced. A small working force will be left in Shelby. It was thought Wednesday that about 100 men would be worked at the local camp.

"Laying of artery lines in the field adjacent to Shelby is not yet half way completed, it is said, but the crew and machinery is being sent here in order to get the main pipe line completed and brought into Great Falls as soon as possible.

"With more than 20 miles of main line pipe in the railway yards here and the camp equipment on route to Great Falls, it is expected that work on the pipe line will start from this end not later than the first of next week. Pipe which is on hand here will be hauled in trucks and distributed along the route that the pipe line will follow.

"The company has contract to hook up about 12 gas wells to the pipe line in the field, but this work will not be completed until after natural gas has been brought to the city through the main line, it was said Wednesday. Three wells are hooked up to the main line now and will furnish the first flow of gas into the city."

It may be interesting for members of the Latah Idaho Pool to know that one of the last three gas wells mentioned above belongs to said pool. The officers of the pool have just returned from Shelby where they have been for the past week looking after company interests. Plans have been made to drill one or more wells next summer to protect leases, of which the pool now possesses 2000 acres located about 2½ miles out of Shelby. The pool has one of the largest gas wells in the south end of the Shelby field and chances are excellent for oil. Conditions look promising for the future of the pool as the gas has been sold to the above mentioned company for $30.00 per million cubic feet, to include all gas produced on 50 acres. The U. S. has placed a price of $50.00 per million feet on its gas land. The pool is confident of finding gas or oil or possibly both, on all its leases and should eventually have a valuable asset.

Art and Science in Toys

While the making of toys is an art that is probably practically as old as the world itself, it has only been within recent years that science has bothered itself about them. Less than half a century ago they were regarded merely as playthings—amusing diversions for the children that were by no means necessary to their well being. Today, however, science insists that there is a well defined philosophy underlying the use of the toys; that they are the tools with which the little ones ply their trade; that dolls for example, are more to them than the associates that help to entertain them in that they aid them in the attainment of their mental growth by stimulating the natural emotions which may be expected later in life.

Whether this theory of the scientists is correct or not the fact remains that children have always had the playthings requisite for their imitations of the domestic life and business affairs of older people; that they have always required their elders to provide them with such inventions and that, when they could not obtain these toys by any other means they themselves have sought and found objects that might be made to suit their purpose. Even in the middle ages it did not put an end to their pastimes. The toys in which they found diversion may have been much more simple, but they met the demands of nature, they played their allotted part in the scheme of human development.

Bring Smiles of Gladness

It is not so much the thought of receiving the customary holiday gifts which most pleases the fancy, but rather that pleasure the heart derives from dwelling upon joyful surprises it may bestow upon others. To bring a smile of gladness upon another's face is indeed a boon more precious than a Christmas gift, and the joy of the bestowing can never be equalled by the receiving.

Make Out Gift List Early

The buyer who really puts some altruism into her Christmas gifts makes out her list several weeks in advance. If she is a canny somebody she has kept her list of the year before and is able to see what were her gifts of the preceding season and thus avoid the risk of repeating herself. Still more canny if she has made mental or written notes from time to time for articles for which she has heard a desire expressed by friends. Such note taking will greatly lessen her labors.

For it is no light thing to choose the Christmas gifts judiciously. The whole secret of their acceptability lies in their fitness. Not only must they be appropriate to the person from whom they come and to whom they go, but to the circumstances in which the latter is placed. For instance, there are few housekeepers who do not welcome an addition of fine linen to their store. But if to a housekeeper who lives simply in plain surroundings one sends a superb lace trimmed tea cloth or doilies that throw all her other possessions into the shade, there is an unsuitability about the gift that robs it of much of its charm.

Christmas Week in England

Many and great are the changes which have occurred in England since Dickens wrote "A Christmas Carol," but they have not affected the national love for the festival and the determination to preserve unimpaired the traditional warmth and heartiness of its celebration. Christmas week is still the great week of the year for the English people. It is the one week when scattered families are reunited, when tender memories and old associations are revived, when a friend greets friend with a chery expansiveness in striking contrast with the characteristic reserve of the English nature, so undemonstrative to those who do not know it well, apparently so distant and unsympathetic toward all.

Best of All Holidays

Taking it all in all, it may be safely asserted that Christmas is the merriest and best of all holidays, and one which is likely to be observed for ages yet to come. Nations may rise and fall, new beliefs and religions may sweep away the old, but that would seem indeed, a dreary and empty year which brought no merry Christmas in its annual round. May old Father Time long spare his holiday to mankind to gladden the hearts of all with its coming, and may each Christmas be merrier than the last.

Merry Christmas

After all what better Xmas Present could you give than an account at this Bank?

THE PICTURE SHOWS

"Tarzan and the Golden Lion"
Flaming like a meteor across the heavens of entertainment — trembling with the mystery and the lure that is Africa — the story of "Tarzan and the Golden Lion," one of Edgar Rice Burroughs' most famous books, will be shown at the Cozy theatre Saturday night, December 10.

The heart of unknown Africa. The magic veils with its weird and thrilling. The horrors of the jungle with the hidden menace of wild animals lurking with every move! Then the cataclysm of chilling thrills—the trek to the hidden, forbidden city — where the mysteries of centuries were sealed in the hearts of a lost tribe!

A picture that will get right under your skin and make you gasp with amazement!

Clara Bow in "Hula"
Clara Bow, the "It" girl, will again be seen at the Cozy theatre Sunday night, December 11, in "Hula," her latest picture. She had to blow up the top of a mountain to keep the man she loved.

Laid in the Hawaiian Islands, against a background of beauty and a strange mixture of high, but "fast living" society life in which an American girl is growing up, the tale is one of a thousand enjoyable kinks. Clara Bow appears as "Hula" a child who loves the out-of-doors rather than the set which surrounds her devoted but somewhat dissolute father. She has been brought up by Uncle Edwin, whose ideas on life differ from those of "Old Bill" Cahoun, Clara's parent. "Hula" clings to Uncle Edwin until

Hold Interesting Meeting
Star lodge No. 5, Knights of Pythias, held a very enjoyable meeting Tuesday evening of this week. As a good many of the members were present, "Ed," the K. P. chef, was called upon to serve sandwiches, pie and coffee, which he did very willingly.

After the lunch, the quartet sang several numbers and the K. P. orchestra made its usual appearance.

MAKE IT A GREBE XMAS!

Almost any radio will supply volume and music, but Grebe has great volume, and still retains its beautiful tone quality. Grebe, loud or soft, has always been the Musical Instrument of Radio. Our advice is to "ask the man who owns one."

Hear a Grebe and Be Convinced!

Connected to the 20-20 Natural Cone Speaker it can not be surpassed. This speaker is Grebe's latest contribution to the radio world, and is built on the orthophonic principle.

We now have the most complete line of radios in Genessee, and our prices are very attractive. We also have a varied assortment of speakers, tubes, batteries, eliminators and power sockets. Nationally advertised lines, backed by houses of long standing.

Authorized Dealers for GREBE, KOLSTER, and BOSCH RADIOS

When you buy, buy where you get service. We like to sell, but service brings the business. Our aim is to serve after we sell. FREE BATTERY WATER, and we now have two battery chargers at your service.

Bridge Club Holds Session
The Bridge club was very pleasantly entertained last Friday afternoon by Mrs. Virgil Sampson and a right merry time did the ladies have, for each and every one of them was made happy.
As had formerly been agreed upon, at the sixteenth meeting of the club members were to be drawn and each member was to receive a prize, they being allowed to select the prize in the order in which the numbers called for.
It would seem that there might be "some sense to that," when each and every member gets a prize without having to cause a lot of brain fag trying to win one.
The next meeting of the club will be with Miss Esther Martinson.
Entertained at Dinner
Mrs. Chas. Kraut entertained a number of friends and neighbors at dinner Sunday in honor of the seventeenth birthday anniversary of her mother, Mrs. A. Kern.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES OF MUCH INTEREST

The taxation committee of the State Chamber of Commerce is co-operating with the State Teachers association and the State Board of Education in making a general survey of school conditions in Idaho.
One phase of the survey has to do with the question of whether it is possible to change the present plan of operation for the various schools of the state to have nine months of school, providing that it is the desire of the taxpayers of that district to have a nine months term, or whether a more centralized plan would be more economical.
Another phase of the survey has to do with the experience of other of the states in placing the school districts of the county under one board of education. At the present time there are approximately 1600 school districts in Idaho. Findings of the committee will be published in the Idaho Tax Payer.

Traditions of Christmas Festival

In the records of every nation we find traditions of the Christmas festival, traditions which have been handed down from generation to generation in old tales which thrill the hearts of the listeners with alternate fear and delight. Sir Walter Scott tells us that they are born upon Christmas or good Friday will car.

Some men will stand up for the fair sex everywhere—except in a street upon Christmas or good Friday will car.

GRAIN MARKET STEADY — COARSE GRAINS ADVANCING

The wheat market held firm during the week ending December 3 while prices of coarse grains advanced to new high points on this season's crop, according to the weekly grain report of the United States Department of agricultural economics.

Higher prices in Canadian markets, together with continued good demand from mills and moderate inquiry from exporters, were the principal strengthening factors in the wheat market. Light country offerings of corn, together with an active demand for practically all the markets, contributed to the advance which carried the price of corn to a new high point on the crop. The rapid disappearance of the oats supply and an active demand for barley caused a continued upward trend in the prices of these grains.

Rye was firm with wheat but the demand for the moderate receipts also helped to maintain a firm market for this grain.

While European import requirements are expected to be larger than last year, the supply in exporting countries is also larger, so that world prices are reflected at Liverpool which have held practically unchanged. December wheat prices being quoted at that market December 2 at $1.52. Developments in the Southern hemisphere are important factors in the world's wheat market at present and conditions were very favorable in both Argentina and Australia during the week. Trade estimates now place this season's surplus in Argentina slightly above last year but the Australian crop is about 50,000,000 bushels below last season.

Wheat seeding is now in progress in India but the monsoon rains which determine the out-turn of the Indian wheat crop have been considerably below normal in some of the most important wheat producing sections. There were showers in the Punjab and good rains in some other sections during the week but more rain is still needed. The surplus of wheat in last season's crop appears to be practically exhausted as India is now reported to be purchasing some Australian wheat for December shipment.

European markets for native wheat held firm with prices unchanged from the week ending December 2. Prices at Paris were advanced to $1.59. Millers were taking mostly home grown wheat so that the demand for the foreign wheat was slow. Prices of the American wheat were slightly advanced at Liverpool with No. 2 hard winter wheat quoted at $1.39 and No. 4 Manitoba for December shipment was quoted at $1.38. Some low grade Canadian wheat was purchased in Europe for feed and this has been quoted as low as 81c per bushel f. o. b. American seaboard ports.

While the domestic demand for cash wheat was fairly active premiums were not materially changed. In the spring wheat market December contracts which is tending to restrict mill buying, 13 per cent protein Dark Northern spring was quoted at the close of the week at Minneapolis at $1.45 to $1.50 per bushel. Best types of Montana wheat were selling in that market at $1.55 to $1.62 per bushel. These prices compare in a general way with quotations of $1.45 for No. 1 Northern Manitoba at Winnipeg. Premiums of good milling quality, however, were held in Europe for feed and this has also been readily taken. Receipts at Duluth, Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Chicago since the first of July have totaled around 40 million bushels, the largest movement to these markets for this period for the past ten years. A large percentage of this season's marketings have been taken for export, exports for the eastern United States from July to November totaling about 18 million bushels.

Christmas in Days of Yore

There are many old and stately ceremonies and many historical events connected with Christmas that are well worth perusing, and that gives us glimpses of ye ancient times when our fathers and father's forefathers celebrated and revelled and gave of their abundance to those for whom nothing was prepared.

There are quite a few real nice girls in this community that we happen to know that might be willing to cast their lot with the right sort of man. And we know one "right sort of man" who is going to make a very "loud" bid for some of those very same young ladies—and that same fellow is no more or less than our fellow-townsman, Ole Flamos. And the reason for all this is that Ole has placed his order for one of the new Ford sport coupes—"sport," now mind you—and he is the very first one in Genesee to place his order and he is going to be one of the very first to get busy and see whether those new Fords are worth anything in the eyes of the young ladies or not.

Ole says if he cannot find some nice girl who is willing to put in with him now, he is going to give up all hope. Of course all of the girls know that Ole would make a perfectly good husband; that he is one of the big stockholders in the "Latah Idaho Pool" and also one of the proprietors of a pool hall—and what more could a young lady ask—especially when he gets that new sport coupe?

EVERYONE had wished for snow and now it was snowing with a white, calm dignity all its own, and a cheery merriment about it so much in keeping with the season. Snow was not unusual. They had all seen plenty of it before but they wished for it because it was Christmas time and snow at Christmas time was lovelier than at any other time of the year. It seemed so fresh, so new, so clean. There was a new-found wonder every year in snow at Christmas.

THE AIR was crisp and keen and alive. There seemed to be new life in the air, new, joyous life. There was a new-found wonder every year in the crisp air of Christmas time.

WEATHERS hung in the windows of houses, lighted Christmas trees could be seen, busy people were being busier than ever, taking around presents, arranging presents at home, filled with the light-hearted joy of the Christmas rush and excitement. There was a new-found wonder every year in the busy days around Christmas.

CHILDREN were on their way to bed, thinking of nothing save Santa Claus, who would soon be speeding across the roofs of the world with his fleeting reindeer, ready to pick from his overflowing pack, presents for them. There was a new-found wonder every year in the boundless generosity of Santa Claus and his merrily understanding reindeer.

YOUNG people who had grown older came back home for Christmas. Every corner, every store, every house had its childhood memories for them. They felt happily young again. Their thoughts danced and skipped. There was a new-found wonder every year in coming home for Christmas.

THERE was laughter in the hearts of everyone, so that everyone felt young. Laughter is the secret of youth. All who know this secret know perennial youth. There was a new-found wonder every year at Christmas in discovering this glowing truth.

FOR THE wonder of Christmas is the wonder of the beauty of the usual, elevated and enhanced into the unusual. For the spirit of Santa Claus and his never-failing reindeer speeds not only over the roofs of the world where children dwell but into the hearts of everyone.

The following girls are members at the present time: Marie Roseman, Andrea Flisman, Marie Nordby, Mildred Beach, Myrtle Larson, Verona Wolf, Mabel Tierney and Eloise Emmett. These girls will have charge of the Christmas program again this year.

The freshmen entertained the freshmen at the open house Saturday night after the basket ball game. The entertainment was in the form of an initiation. The freshmen feel that they are now good members of the student body.

Members of the University of Idaho Men's Glee club and other members of the music department gave an excellent program at the open house Friday night. This program was enjoyed by all that were there. We are fortunate to have these people entertain us. This was given as a school band benefit. They will appear again after Christmas and it is hoped all will avail themselves of the opportunity to be there.

Will Give Cash Sale
A cash sale will be given by the Girls' Basketball team Saturday at Emmett's store. The proceeds of this sale will go toward paying for the new basketball suits the girls are getting.

We have had a number of absences this week because of illness. Those who were absent are Geynell Hanson, Thelma Proper, Anita Henderson, Bernice Stucker, Susie Drescher, Edgar Stucker, Glenn Harris, George Dean, Florence Dean and Eleanor Bergen.

Third and Fourth Grades
Ernest Craft, Dallas Flomer and Harriet Hettinger were absent last week.
The fourth grade are working on a health booklet. We are making a Christmas cover for them.
We have very much interested in our new reader, in which is the story of Hiawatha.

We are now busy during handwork classes making Christmas decorations for our room.

First Grade
The mumps are still causing absences in our room. Lucile Flomer is ill with them.

We are learning several new Christmas songs. For language we are memorizing Christmas poems.

We are exchanging names in our room and getting gifts for each other. The gifts are not to be over 20 cents.

New Motor Vehicle Law
In order that there may be a little misunderstanding as possible of the new motor vehicle anti-theft law, Ralph E. Lukens, secretary of state in planning to use station KPAU at Boise on Tuesday, December 20, at 9 p. m. and broadcast information concerning this law. He wishes to get before the public the fact that this law was enacted for their protection and, furthermore, he wants to make it clear that the department does not desire to work an injustice or unnecessary inconvenience upon anyone.

Definite written instructions have been sent out by the office to all motor vehicle owners of the state, giving directions for the making of applications for title. It is recognized that in many cases it will be difficult for owners of motor vehicles to furnish bills of sale but if they can show that they have been in possession of their cars and have licensed them for a reasonable period of time, the recommendation of the assessor will go a long way toward the issuing of title without delay.

"Many people," Mr. Lukens says, "are inclined to feel that this law is not necessary but when it is considered that in the state of Oregon the percentage of non-recovery of stolen cars during the year of 1927 is only 1.9% under the operation of a similar law, and that in Idaho for the same period, without a title law, it is apparent that the law is successful. It makes it impossible for anyone to sell a car without having to prove that it is not a stolen car. It is a well known fact that automobile theft rings quit operations in the state of Oregon as soon as the title law was put into effect."

WASHINGTON PAPER MAKES DEFENSE OF IDAHO POTATOES

The following items and comments were taken from the Idaho Pioneer, Boise, published by Frank Burroughs, who is always looking for an opportunity to boost for Idaho:

The recent action in Idaho of issuing the 1928 automobile license plates, bearing the design of an Idaho potato, has caused considerable comment in the Pacific northwest. The Idaho plan was adopted to call attention to that state as a great producer of fine potatoes, and it has already done that.

Some Washington papers have commented on the Idaho license plates, saying that Washington, not Idaho, excels in potatoes. This brought a reply from the Yakima Republic, a newspaper published in the heart of one of the finest of Washington's potato regions.

"It is very seldom that this newspaper calls down anyone who stands up for Washington, but, in the event of this case," says the Republic.

"Neither Washington nor any other state produces potatoes that excel those of Idaho. It is an interesting circumstance that the hard times of the last ten years have brought some branches of farming in the Gem state away up to the front. One of these lines is potatoes. Under the stress of necessity, intelligent men have gone into potato raising and on lands as rich as those of Yakima they have worked the business for what it is worth.

"Idaho spuds are today, as a result, as good as any grown in Colorado, Maine or Yakima, and we don't know but that they have all the rest backed off the map. Yakima potatoes have been the standard of excellence all over this part of the country for many years. They will soon take a seat back behind those of Idaho unless our growers wake up to the necessity of utilizing their advantages in every way. The Idaho potato is invading our markets and is winning recognition by sheer force of merit."—Oregonian.

According to Julius Jacobson, Idaho crop reporter, Idaho's potato crop has turned out a yield of an average of 212 bushels per acre on 115,000 acres for a total production of 24,280,000 bushels. In 1926, the acre yield was 178 bushels on 91,000 acres for a 16,198,000 bushel crop. Quality this year is only 87 per cent in comparison with 90 per cent last year. A large percentage of number two was being graded out this year due to roughness and some sunburn. There was very little field frost, so October weather was very favorable for completing maturity and harvest of the tubers. Idaho is now the fifth state in importance in potato production, being exceeded by Minnesota, Main, New York and water shipping distance she ranks second, being topped by Maine, with 228 bushels.

The United States potato crop is placed at 400 million bushels, an increase of about five million bushels over the October 1 estimate. This gain is due to substantial increases in the crops of Maine, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Idaho, Colorado, Washington and Oregon. The national average acre yield is 114.6 bushels against 112.7 bushels last year.

That Yakima editor who became the champion of Idaho potatoes, however, some Washington papers intimated that Idaho "had plenty of nerve" putting a potato on her 1928 automobile license plates did not have long to wait for a confirmation of his judgment.

He said that neither Washington nor any other state produces potatoes that excel those of Idaho. He added that Idaho spuds today are as good as any grown in Colorado, Maine or Yakima and probably have all the rest backed off the map.

Then came the Pacific Northwest Potato show. It was held in a Washington city, Spokane. The best of Washington potatoes were entered. From Montana, Oregon, Idaho, Oregon and British Columbia. And how did they measure up?

Idaho took 18 prizes in commercial grades. Montana took three and British Columbia two.

In the potatoes from Montana, Oregon and British Columbia 13, Oregon six, Washington four and British Columbia three.

When the Idaho business women made a big fuss about Idaho potatoes at the national convention of their organization this summer, delegates from Maine made remarks similar to those of the Washington papers. They said everybody knew Maine was the potato state. What did Idaho mean trying to steal the honors?

But even New York, within easy rail and water shipping distance, Maine has glorified the Idaho potato. An Eagle woman has sent to the Statesman (Boise) excerpts from a letter written by her sister in New York. This sister, a student at Columbia university, says:

"I have just heard Idaho spuds were choice ones but not until I saw thousands of them being individually wrapped and boxed in groups of six to ten to the exclusive hotels (Waldorf, etc.) for baking did I know how they stand in the trade. I asked a workman about them and he said, 'Oh, yes, our best baking potatoes and the highest priced ones come from Idaho.' That's a good deal for a New Yorker to admit about anything.

"There's no lack of proof. Idaho potatoes are a first quality product in the nation. Those who make the statement are not boasting patriotically. They are expressing simple fact.—Statesman.

Advertising Comes Into Its Own

"Public utility companies will spend $28,000,000 for advertising this year." Here, in this business item, is food for thought. It makes one wonder if there are still reactionists who insist that advertising is useless and a waste of investor's money.

Statistics on the strides that advertising expenditures and space have taken, would be of tremendous value to the student of modern industry and business. In the past twenty years it has unquestionably doubled itself many times. Through the various mediums, and most important of all, the newspapers, advertising and publicity have grown to proportions where they are among the greatest forces known for further progress and forwardness. The recent unprecedented growth of the public utilities are directly responsible, in a large degree, to the effect of wide and intelligent advertising. Far from being a waste of investors money, it is a safeguard in that the company or product advertised is honest and worthwhile, that company's business or sales will increase in direct proportion to the amount of advertising. Progressive business is learning that the only thing better for business than extensive advertising is more extensive advertising plus a good product or service.

A plumber came up the walk of a house and was met at the door by the young son of the family. "I've come to fix that old tub in the kitchen," announced the plumber. "Well, wait a minute," gushed the youngster, who was proud of knowing the slang of the day. "Oh, Mama! Here's the doctor to see the hired girl!"

M. Goodwin, an attorney at Washington, for compensation for lands in the Walla-Walla valley disposed of by the United States as "public lands," the claim growing out of the use and occupancy of the lands during the hunting, fishing, grazing and summer residence.

Those making the trip of inspection to arrive at the point were C. Kador, president of the St. Louis Association of Foreign Language Newspapers, and Andrew Fay Flacher, editor of the Hungarian Miner's Journal at Hillview, Ky.

BOISE—Estimated car requirements for the movement of perishable commodities from Idaho, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska, as reported by commodity committee of the Central Western Shippers' advisory board, were within 3000 cars of the actual number of cars shipped in the third quarter of the present year. W. J. Smith, Omaha district manager, reported to the Idaho public utilities commission.

LABRADOR BECKONS SUMMER YACHTSMEN
Also Being Discussed as Source of Wood Pulp.

Washington—"Labrador, since the definition of its boundary with Canada, is being discussed as a possible summer haven for yachtsmen and a source of wood pulp," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Though the southern end of Labrador is in the latitude of London and the northern tip opposite Leningrad, no warm ocean current washes its shores to produce the temperate climate of northern Europe. Cold winter winds sweep from the Arctic coast, a rocky and sparsely inhabited coast, though explorers say the short summer is desirable for hunting, fishing, grazing and summer residence.

"The entire region at present has only about 3,000 population, about 500 less than forty years ago. North of the settlement of Hopedale, half way to the coast from Newfoundland, the country is peopled mainly by Eskimos, who have been largely Christianized and live in neat wooden houses supplied with the necessities of life and cod fisheries. In the interior scattered Indians and half-breeds hunt the fox, marten, bear, walrus and other furs, green woods stretching as far north as the Arctic boundary of forestation.

"Rich in Lumber and Water Power. This fir belt covers large areas of the interior of Labrador and of paper pulp this hitherto little regarded region is of immense value, and already a few mills have been established and concessions granted for forestation. Another asset is unlimited water power of the numerous coastal rivers. "White settlements are mainly on the coast in a district known as the Scotch and Scandinavian extraction, together with a few French Canadian, carry on cod and whale fisheries. The number of white inhabitants is quadrupled during the summer months by Newfoundlanders who come north for cod fishing, the principal industry. Of late years the whale, seal and cod have all decreased in numbers in Labrador waters. This is thought to be one reason for the steadily decreasing population of the coast. Another factor is that contact with diseases of civilization has proved fatal to whole communities of Eskimos and Indians. Missionaries are making heroic efforts to save the remainder of the native races from extinction by teaching them to adapt their mode of living to changed conditions, and these good offices have met with considerable success.

Scenery Rivals Norway. "One effort to compensate for the diminishing number of sea animals has been the introduction into Labrador of the salmon. This has for centuries been the main support of the Lapps of northern Scandinavia and which has been successfully introduced into Labrador. It is predicted that when this method of introduction has been extended and cods are better charmed and lighthouses built that Labrador with its rocky inlets and bracing climate will become like Norway, a rendezvous for summer yachtsmen. During the last northern summer Labrador is pictured as a land of supreme beauty. Rocky headlands run far into the sea. Deep fjords cut the fir-covered hills of the interior, where subarctic vegetation flourishes, and salmon streams lure the fisherman. Grand falls, on the Hamilton river, is nearly three times as high as Niagara.

U. S. Tests Solutions For Moth-Proofing
Washington.—Clothes moth really do have a hard time chewing up woolen cloth and other fabrics of animal origin that have been impregnated with one of the various moth-proofing solutions now in wide use, according to Dr. R. A. Bacon of the bureau of entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture.

It is misleading, however, to offer an absolute guarantee of protection, he states, and the common method of merely spraying the fabrics offers but little protection. The only way to do the job thoroughly is to wet the cloth through while it is still in the whole piece, and many manufacturers have devised special machinery for this purpose.

One of the favorite and most widely advertised moth repellents consists of 97 per cent of water with 3 per cent of sodium stannate, still from fluoride dissolved in H. Though this solution sells at a very high price, it is for use in the most effective way, it does work, if thoroughly applied. Another newly marketed class of compounds is made up of the chlorine alcohols, chemically allied to quinine.

Machine Can Be Made to Stop by Scream
London.—Machinery can now be made to stop instantly in case of an accident by the voluntary or involuntary cry of the endangered person.

"Audible control" has been perfected to such an extent that it is now possible to control even a railroad train through wireless waves.

Maj. Raymond Phillips, demonstrating his invention with a model railway, stands before a microphone.

"Ahead," he shouts, and instantly two model trains begin racing around the miniature track. "Stop!" and the trains draw into a tiny station.

"Back!" and the trains reverse. The microphone is so sensitive that it will disregard ordinary conversation.

Major Phillips believes that train alarm bells will be replaced by microphones which, upon registering an exclamation of alarm, will open the train. Doors will actually open to the command "open sesame!"

WOMAN JUDGE IS ALLY OF CUPID
South Carolina Jurist Has Issued 10,000 Licenses.

Greenville, S. C.—Cupid's greatest ally in a state which has no divorce laws is Mrs. Fannie Davis Scott, judge of probate in Greenville.

She is still a young woman, but during the seven years she has been in office she has issued more than 10,000 marriage licenses and performed many of the ceremonies.

She advises with virtually every couple that comes for a license and occasionally when some of them come back later reporting their marriage is about to "go on the rocks," she tries to relieve the trouble. Usually she succeeds.

"If you are not happy apart," she sometimes tells them, "there must be a reason, and that reason is love." Interference of parents or other persons and the difficult task of adjusting personalities are given by Mrs. Scott as two of the principal causes of trouble in the lives of the newly married.

Issuance of marriage licenses is only one of the duties of her court. She is also judge of wills, and executor of estates and also presides at lunacy hearings. All wills in the county are filed in her office.

Regarded as one of the leading women in South Carolina, Mrs. Scott has held office since 1921. The following year three men decided they wanted her job. She defeated them. While Mrs. Scott performs some of the marriage ceremonies, she turns most of them over to Assistant Judge of Probate J. P. Battenger.

Bones of Mammoth Found 10,000 Years Old Found
New York.—Discovery of the bones of a large animal, which are believed to be mammoth, has been made in a desert waste near Carlsbad cavern in New Mexico more than 10,000 years old, according to a dispatch from the New York Times from Carl B. Livingston, assistant to Willis T. Lee of the National Geographic society.

The society's explorers, Livingston said, had suspected that mammoth had once lived in the desert waste, 35 miles southeast of Carlsbad cavern, because ivory beads had been found buried there in cave tombs in the Guadalupe mountains, overlooking the region.

Picking up a mammoth tooth at the mouth of a small creek, the party proceeded along the windings of the stream and found fragments of a massive jawbone.

"Reaching some water holes, which turned out to be briny," the dispatch said, "we saw tracks of mammoth and other animals, and many bones that had cut through the gravel bars and clay banks. Apparently a herd of 25 or 30 mammoths had died in this one spot."

"Evidently all these animals during ages past had been lured there by the tempting appearance of good water. Mr. Livingston continued: "It is equally easy to surmise how they met their deaths. We were walking along what seemed a dry crust in the stream bed—then suddenly, down it went, hip deep in quicksand and soft clay."

Colored Paper Cutouts
Get Into Art Gallery
Paris.—Colored paper "cutouts" have graduated into the galleries of an entire exhibition of pictures made by all shapes and kinds of colored paper pasted on canvas instead of the usual oil paint, has attracted much attention here.

Mme. Chonmansky, deprived of paints during the revolution in Russia, has been using colored paper to prove the softness and the beauty of the technique she has developed.

Such a method, much more economical in outline, has been used by cubists, but the "painting" of marines and landscapes with irregular bits of colored paper is greeted as something quite new.

Medical Sermonettes
By W. E. LEONARD, M. D.

(By 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)
Early to bed and early to rise
Makes a man healthy, wealthy and rich.

Some of these sayings that have come down from the earlier generations and from other times, are really now quite obsolete. Ask most of the toilers in the factories and on the land if this has come true to them, even after years of such toil. For instance, industry and regularity of labor are essential to any kind of life. Leaving off the work and waiting for parents or other persons and the difficult task of adjusting personalities are given by Mrs. Scott as two of the principal causes of trouble in the lives of the newly married.

"Diseases are a tax on ill pleasures." This proverbial condemnation of high living and of indulgence in the pleasures of indulgence of any kind to an extreme, are as sure to bring their full reward, being quite "as sure as death" or "hugged down" in a suit creek in the desert waste near Carlsbad cavern in New Mexico more than 10,000 years old, according to a dispatch from the New York Times from Carl B. Livingston, assistant to Willis T. Lee of the National Geographic society.

The society's explorers, Livingston said, had suspected that mammoth had once lived in the desert waste, 35 miles southeast of Carlsbad cavern, because ivory beads had been found buried there in cave tombs in the Guadalupe mountains, overlooking the region.

"Times change and we change with them." This common saying is credited to a poem of one Matthias Bortolus, who lived some time in the dim past, and who was evidently a shrewd observer of men and their ways. For no action is more full of wisdom. But it is not often applied to medical matters, as it can be most aptly. To one looking back over a few decades of medical experience, there is nothing more evident than the frequent changes in the habits of the profession itself and of the people they minister to. There is a large dust heap of discarded ideas and practices in the background than there is of solid accomplishment in the cure of disease along the way. Experience and practice is like the millinery shop of a little backward village away off in the wilds, full of shapely hats which cannot be disposed of at any price except to the yokels who know so better. Yet the up-to-date physician is not necessarily the one who only keeps to the old, but who has tried the new methods, and has no fixed regard for the things tried and true. There is a middle ground for the doctor as well as for the patient, which is up many experiments and mistakes of the doctors with both drugs and the surgeon's knife, the mechanical and drug boxes, and the mechanical and drug boxes, and the doctors wonder why they languish and are well-nigh forgotten.

"Can one desire too much of a good thing?" asks Cervantes in "Don Quixote." Most assuredly, when it comes to indulging the appetite in the good eatables and drinkables at the table, Everbody knows this, but it is apt to be forgotten when something they are especially fond of is set before them. A second or third helping is taken before one stops to consider the probable result, and repetition and discomfort follow. This is true enough, to be sure, but it is only by repeated warning and by the help of the gods we are to remember at the right time. Habit is the most baneful thing to overcome when once established, and it is the most difficult to break. It is not, however, so difficult to break as it is to form, and it should be always held in check by temperance and moderation at all times. Nothing adds more to the joy of living or pays better in the long run.

This does not for a moment imply that the good things of the table are to be despised. When survivors are on occasion, I only plead for that forbearance that will make all these natural pleasures last through a long life, and that will be enjoyed to the utmost and over and over again.

Ridge Never Crossed
The famous Matterhorn, at the head of the Zermatt, in Switzerland, is one of the most difficult of all mountains to the climber, has on its left flank a ridge that has never yet been crossed. When survivors returned to Kamchatka from Berling's voyage which discovered Alaska, a ledge of this nature thrust its way into the sea, and it was the Alutians, exploiting, enslaving and killing the natives in a mad search for furs. With these white men came the first of the first of nature's spectacular phenomena to thrill man. It presents one of the few obvious problems about which science has no satisfactory hypothesis.

Intensive study of portions of the region are to be begun in the spring of 1928, as an expedition of the National Geographic society under the leadership of Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, who for years has studied the great Kilauea volcano in Hawaii from a laboratory on its brink.

ALEUTIAN VOLCANOES

One of Bogoslof Islander Proteron Formas.

When in the early Nineteenth century Russia established a sort of colonial government in the islands and on the Alaskan mainland, and introduced Christian missionaries, the natives fared somewhat better; but the Aleutian Islands have never recovered from the early days of exploitation and most of them are now uninhabited. It was because they were opened up from the east that the islands are known as the Aleutians. The name is derived from that of a Kamchatkan cape.

Climate is Chilly and Foggy.
Although the Aleutians are as far north as central Canada, their climate is not severely cold. Rather they may be said to be always chilly, damp, and foggy. The Aleutians have been spoken of as the future air road between Asia and America. For it is a thing but an asset to the flyer; but the Aleutian fog has the good point, at least, of being less dense than the fog of more southern lands.

The islands are for the most part very rough. They are treeless, save for a few scrubby willow along water courses. Dense growths of grass and moss cover the hills and mountains and the small patches of lowlands. The islands can be rather easily reached by the coast of northern Scotland, and to Iceland; and, like those regions, could produce hay and support cattle. The large Aleutian islands, on the other hand, have a volcanic character, and are covered with a covering of volcanic ash and lava.

Dutch Harbor, Unalaska, is the chief community on the islands. This deep, land-locked harbor is one of the finest in the North and has played an important part as a way station for ships during the gold rushes to the Yukon and to Nome. It is connected with the rest of the world by a radio station. Dutch Harbor is on the shortest route from Seattle to Tokyo, and with the establishment of coaling stations may conceivably become such a Pacific way station for the northern route as Honolulu is for the southern.

Attu, one of the stopping places of the United States army flyers on their round-the-world flight in 1924, is approximately the half-way house of the Aleutian chain and on it is the last settlement but one west of the mainland. Nazan bay, which gives an excellent harbor to Attu, is often clear of fog when it hugs heavily outside. It is a volcanic island, and it is volcanic action, and it is always probable that the next outbreak will occur.

"Jack in the Box."
One of the most remarkable bits of volcanic phenomena within historic times is that of the Bogoslof island which lies within 150 miles of the Aleutians' chief port, Dutch Harbor. "Jack in the Box" is the nickname of the island, which is up one day and down the next. It is no safe to give the dimensions of Bogoslof island.

Legend takes its name from a Russian admiral who discovered it in 1700. At that time it was but one island, now called Castle Island. In 1802 Bogoslof Island in the Bor activity began to be known. A new companion to Castle Island appeared which was called Perry Peak. At first the two were connected by a low American navy officers visited the place in 1800 the land "rhyphen" had sunk. Observations at that time showed that Bogoslof was really a deep sea volcano. Less than four miles away the ocean is 6,000 feet deep.

In 1905 a new peak appeared between the two older promontories and was duly named Perry Peak. Then a still newer and larger peak absorbed it. By the year 1907, this last peak had disappeared, leaving in its place a flat little harbor. A few months later Bogoslof exploded, threw its top into the air sixty or more miles away, and left only a smoking shell above water.

But in spite of the volcanic character of the island, it supported rather a heavy population of few centuries ago and some of them are now scarcely peopled. A century and three-quarters ago they were as a people as the first of nature's spectacular phenomena to thrill man. It presents one of the few obvious problems about which science has no satisfactory hypothesis.

Intensive study of portions of the region are to be begun in the spring of 1928, as an expedition of the National Geographic society under the leadership of Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, who for years has studied the great Kilauea volcano in Hawaii from a laboratory on its brink.

WHEAT MARKETS LOWER—LARGER RECEIPTS WEAKEN

Relatively large stocks of wheat in commercial channels, together with increased offerings of new crop grain in Argentina weakened the wheat market during the week ending December 10 and prices tended downward, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Light offerings of good milling wheat caused some advance in premiums but demand was only of moderate volume and it is doubtful whether larger offerings could be absorbed at the higher prices.

Hard winter wheat markets were rather irregular. Local mills were the principal buyers at Kansas City while northwestern mills were taking moderate amounts at Wichita, with the eastern demand increasing at Omaha.

Pacific coast markets were practically unchanged. There was a good demand at Los Angeles where Hart wheat was quoted at $2.25 per 100 pounds. The market at Portland was rather dull with exporters generally out of the market because of the limited export demand. Soft winter wheats were quoted in that market at $1.27 to $1.27 1/2. Large quantities of soft wheat are still available in that market but this is moving rapidly into feed and is competing with barley as a feed grain.

The oats market held independent of firm, influenced by decreasing stocks and light offering of good quality grain. The high price of mill feeds and the scarcity of screenings in the north central states is causing heavier feeding of oats and prices are being well maintained.

The barley market also continued firm, but prices again reached new high crop levels at several of the markets.

"Who is a roadhog?" asks the author. That's an easy one. He is some other motorist.

GENESEE SNOWDRIFTS STOP LEWISTON FORGER MONDAY

Snowdrifts in the Genesee section Monday stopped a new Pontiac coach and prevented the getaway of L. C. Bentley, who not only had forged a check for $400 to the Gusman Motors as down payment on the machine, but a number of other checks on Lewiston banks.

Bentley, who gave the names of Rankin, James, Rowland and Smith as worthless checks he wrote the last few days, has been a resident of this section for many years. Recently he was employed in Lewiston, and the record gathered by officers show that he started writing worthless checks Saturday, signing many different names.

When the Gusman Motors received notification of the work of names of the down payment check on the new car, A. Gusman, owner, began to scour the city and vicinity for Bentley. Parties who had motored from Elk River yesterday reported to Mr. Gusman of having seen a new Pontiac coupe with yellow wheels stuck in the snow near Genesee.

Mr. Gusman knew of no other Pontiac coupe in this region with yellow wheels but the one which he had sold to Bentley. The suspicion that Bentley might be at Genesee was communicated to the county officers and Deputy Cal Martin, Mr. Gusman and Del. Bolick, of the Gusman company, left late in the evening for Genesee to investigate.

Bentley was found registered at the Genesee hotel under the name of L. C. Smith, and the car was in a garage. He was arrested and brought to Lewiston and the car returned to Mr. Gusman.

In checks written by Bentley the initials "L. C." were used in every case the officers report.

YOUNG FARMERS' CONVENTION, JANUARY 27 AND 28
 The fifth annual Young Farmers' conference, to be held in Spokane again this year at the Davenport hotel on January 27-28, is most auspiciously in the making, and already hundreds of farm men and women of eastern Washington and northern Idaho are formulating plans to attend. From present indications, it is possible that this year's conference will even exceed the record gathering of last year when more than 500 "young farmers" and farm women helped to make that event the greatest informational meeting ever held in eastern Washington—a distinction that agriculture can be proud of.
 Again this year, the conference will be conducted on its characteristic informal, extemporaneous basis, giving farm people of the Inland Empire an unusual opportunity to meet one another in a spirit of farm fellowship and discuss together their mutual problems. Something mighty worth while for everyone!
 In conformity with the unique policy of the convention, there is no program arranged in advance, no speech making, no urging of any particular plan, no propaganda to turn loose, no elections, no officers, no membership or organization or fees. No other farm meeting is quite like it.
 Attending "young farmers" and farm women themselves constitute the program by selecting the topics they wish to consider, then thrashing them through in round table discussion, resulting in final group consideration and recommendation.
 It is certain that many new subjects will be discussed this year, with farm relief a prominent possibility, suggested by the committee in charge when it met recently to outline new worthwhile features. For the benefit of farm people who have attended previous conferences, special provision will be made to continue with advanced studies.
 Just as last year, the conference again will be divided into smaller sections to take up particular subjects in which attending farmers express interest. It is likely that several wheat sections will be organized, on a rainfall and geographic basis, similar to the arrangement of last year, but more complete.
 There will be other sections too—as many as the conference itself wants—for the consideration of special subjects, like dairying, poultry raising, marketing, live stock, diversification, soil management, etc, but as usual, no effort will be made to assign anyone to a particular section. The entire program will be flexible and made to fit the desires of those present.
 Farm women for the second year will have an entire section to themselves, and many captivating and worthwhile features are promised. Leave it to the women. They always put their meeting over!
 The annual Young Farmers' banquet, which in itself has become a notable jubilation tradition in eastern Washington, will be held Friday night, January 27, offering many entertainment surprises and a wonderful time for all.
 The Davenport hotel and all its luxury has almost entirely been turned over to the farm people who attend the conference, and a thoroughly enjoyable time is assured amid a democratic, neighborly atmosphere. There are no fees or charges for the conference. The only expenses are those for personal needs and the banquet. All farm men and women "young in spirit" and interested in better and more profitable farming are asked to attend.
 The Young Farmers conference was introduced five years ago by the Washington Farmer (in conjunction with the Idaho Farmer) simply as a means of getting farmers together occasionally in a neighborly way and exchange experiences as an aid to the solution of any common problems.
 Success of the four previous conferences has demonstrated that the effort was extremely worth while—a conference "of farmers, by farmers and for farmers."
 If a young man sows wild oats mixed with old rye he is reasonably sure to raise a disturbance.

WHAT HAPPENED HERE TWENTY YEARS AGO
 Fine weather for plowing and a large amount is being done.
 Neil Swenson, who recently underwent an appendicitis operation at Spokane, returned home Tuesday.
 Johnnie Broemmeling and Antone Miller left Wednesday morning of this week over the N. P. for a visit in Minnesota. Mr. Broemmeling will spend the greater part of his time in California and rumor has it that upon his return he will have a different traveling companion.
 School Notes
 (By Henry Lorang, Maurine Scroggin and Olive Larrabee.)
 The seniors have taken up the work of Tennyson.
 Imogene Ingle and Mable Steltz have ceased their studies at the high school.
 Ernest Gage and Gerhard Broemmeling have entered the high school.
 The debate held in the school last Friday was, Resolved, "That the U. S. should not have seized the Phillipine Islands." Some very fine points were discussed on both sides. The judges cast the vote in favor of the negative.
 The question to be discussed next Friday: Resolved, "That it would be advisable to erect a new school building at the close of this term." This is opportunity for ample discussion on both sides.
 The debate held in Mr. Emmett's room was also very interesting. The question was: Resolved, "That grammar is more useful than arithmetic." The decision was cast for the negative.
 Moscow Has Burglary
 Moscow had a burglary last Friday night or early Saturday morning, when the variety store of A. Fonkalarud and the Cosmopolitan pool hall were entered, the burglars securing some $250 in cash and merchandise from the two establishments.

"Where Quality Counts"

Nearly everyone has read "Chip of the Flying U" and "The Flying U Ranch," but if you happen to be one who has not, you'll enjoy the picture just the same, which will be shown at the Cosy theater Saturday night, December 17, with Tom Tyler in the leading role.

Senior Miguel Garcia, grandly clad and with a supercilious manner, fails to impress the residents of the Flying U Ranch, who include the owner, Chip Bennett. Only Chip, Jr., takes a liking to the young, handsome Spaniard.

A number of Flying U cattle have been missing, Dunk Whitaker, a neighboring rancher, realizes he is suspected as the thief. He manages to steal the contract which gives the Flying U ranch the right to water its cattle at his water-hole—and then the fun begins.

"Fireman, Save My Child!"
Oh, for the life of a fireman! It's just one laugh after another. "Behind the Front" boys, Beery and Hutton, the best comedy team on the silver screen, will be seen at the Cosy theater Sunday night, December 18, and you're invited to meet them there. This picture has been acclaimed the greatest and funniest of the Beery-Hutton comedies, but it has the added novelty of being one of those rare productions in which the spectator is carried through a successful and heart-stopping thrills while being convulsed with laughter.

New Ford Car Shows Here

One of the new Ford cars, a Tudor sedan, was shown here Wednesday afternoon and many hundreds gathered at the Genessee Motors to look it over. It is a nice looking car and is said to be a wonderful performer.

DEATH OF ORA CARSON—AN OLD-TIME RESIDENT

The past week was marked by the death of an old-time Genessee resident, Ora Carson, who passed away Saturday morning, December 10, at the Mark Dean home, where he had been cared for during the past two weeks.

Mr. Carson was born in the State of Maine in 1853, being at the time of his death seventy-four years of age. He was married in 1881 to Hattie Smith, and to this union were born five children, of whom four are living. These are Blanche of Aberdeen, Washington, Mabel Stetson of Santa Meda, Calif., Will Carson of Lewiston, Idaho, and Earl Carson.

Mr. Carson lived for some time in the Black Hills of South Dakota and engaged in freighting. He came to the Genessee country about 35 years ago and for a number of years drove stage or hauled freight from the Genessee terminal to the Lewiston and Grandview country.

For more than a year he had been feeble in health, but managed to keep going until the past two weeks, when he was taken to the Dean home for care, where he remained until his passing Saturday morning.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. O. S. Barnum at the Congregational church and burial was made in the I. O. O. F. cemetery. Appropriate music was rendered by the choir and the casket was adorned with beautiful floral pieces.

The last rites were attended by many old-time friends and acquaintances.

Mullaney Best State Tackle

In the mythical all-Idaho interscholastic football team, selected by Guy Wicks, and also by Les Robinson, the Lewiston Tribune sport deposer, Paul Mullaney of Genessee is given as the best defensive tackle in the state. He is the only one mentioned from Genessee and the Genessee school is justly proud of his record as a football player. Wicks should know what he is talking about as he coached Mullaney for two years.

Among the Sick

Miss Olive Mullaney, who has been ill with pneumonia for the past two or three weeks, is so far recovered as to be able to sit up a good portion of the time each day.

John Liberg, a quite ill with pneumonia at the home of his brother, Lars Liberg.

A Good Idea for Christmas Gifts

There are so many people who say, "Oh, I don't know what to give, can't you make a suggestion?" That's an easy one. When you are making up your final list, just add a few subscriptions to the Genessee News to be sent to your friends or relatives—or both. If they have ever lived here, they will appreciate it, and if they have never lived here they will be glad to learn through its columns what their relatives and friends are doing and what is going on in this part of the country.

Joe Anderson on Tuesday came to the News office and subscribed to the paper for four of his relatives and friends for Christmas presents—and they will have cause to remember him and his family every week for a whole year.

The News is $2.00 a year, sent anywhere in the United States; $2.50 to Canada and $3.00 to all foreign countries. Subscribe now, so we can start the paper out right away.

The News this week comes out with a colored cover—showing that it is in the "pink" of condition and hopes to survive another year.

FARM KITCHEN WITH ALL CONVENIENCES

Modern Sink Placed at Height Convenient for Housewife—Tea Wagon Made by Her and Her Husband, Gloucester County, New Jersey.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Here's a New Jersey farm kitchen which has all the conveniences of a city home and some of the advantages of a country house, too. The very convenient for a housewife, properly placed at a height from the floor, is a drain board of its own and there is a little extra shelf at the side for better handling of the dishes as they are washed. Soiled dishes are brought from the table on the tea wagon, which was made by the woman and her husband. A high stool, which is on casters, like the tea wagon, enables the housewife to sit down while washing dishes if she wishes to. Under the handy shelf above the sink all the small miscellaneous utensils in constant use are hung as soon as they are washed. A drain basket is used to stimulate some of the wiping with a towel, since dishes may be placed in the basket and drenched with scalding hot water, then left to dry.

Suggestions for improving this kitchen were made by the Gloucester county home demonstration agent. It may be noted also that the floor is covered with linoleum so as to be easily kept clean.

GOOD RECIPE FOR DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE

Something Every Housewife Likes to Have on Hand.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every woman likes to have a good recipe on hand for making devil's food cake. It is a matter of conjecture whether this cake is so named because of the contrast of its dark brown color to starchy white breads or because it frequently turned out to be quite reddish in color. The bureau of home economics, however, much so that when devil's food is made with sour milk, and as overuse of soda is not desirable, this ingredient should be carefully measured.

Devil's Food Cake.

1/2 cup butter 1 1/2 cups flour (soft 2 cup sifted)
2 eggs 1 white 2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk 1/2 teaspoon vanilla 1/2 cup cocoa 1/4 teaspoon salt
lup. melted

Cream the butter and the sugar and add the well-beaten eggs and mix with the dry ingredients and add to the first mixture alternately with the milk. Add the chocolate, which has been melted over steam, and the vanilla and beat until well mixed with the butter. Bake in a greased pan in a sheet for 35 minutes at a temperature between 300 and 325 degrees Fahrenheit.

Cover lightly with powdered sugar and serve. Or, if preferred, bake the cake in two layers and make a vanilla filling.

This cake mixture sour milk can be used in place of the sweet milk. In that case dissolve one-half teaspoonful of water and add to the cream and add to the mixture. The chocolate can also be increased by one square if one likes a strong chocolate flavor.

Orange Drop Cakes for the School Lunch Box

Children will like these wholesome, easily made drop cakes flavored with orange. Make them occasionally so as to have them fresh for the school lunch boxes. The bureau of home economics furnishes the recipe.

Orange Drop Cakes.

2 cups flour 4 table spoons orange juice
1/2 cup sugar 2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon oil 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream together the grated rind of the orange and the butter. Gradually beat in the sugar, the beaten eggs and the orange juice. Add the flour and the baking powder, which have been mixed together. Drop the batter by teaspoonfuls onto a greased baking sheet or an inverted pan, and bake in a quick oven.

Crabberies Have Many Savory Uses in Cooking

Crabberies are in season a good part of the fall and winter, and they have many delicious uses besides being made into sauce and jelly to serve with the turkey. One of the nicest desserts is that of crabberies in a pie—made as directed below by the bureau of home economics:

Crabberies in Pie.

1 quart crabberies 2 table spoons butter
1/2 cup sugar 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup water

Select firm berries and wash them well, rejecting all that are withered. Prepare a syrup of the sugar, water and salt, and when the sugar is dissolved add the fruit and cook for five to eight minutes, until the berries have a glazed look. Add the butter and cool. Line a pie tin with pastry, put in the crabberies. Place on the top crust after moistening the lower crust and press the edges together to hold in the juices. Cut a slit to allow the steam to escape. Bake until the crust is golden brown.

Helps Dressmaker

The United States bureau of home economics has made a valuable contribution to the fitting problems of the home sewer, by assembling information needed when one works with the patterns now available. If a woman understands what should be the main lines of a well-fitted garment, the methods of correcting common defects in each part of the garment, and the ordinary mistakes she should avoid, she can either make her own clothes or alter those bought ready made with greater confidence. This information will be furnished to anyone who makes application for it to the bureau at Washington.

The Kitchen Cabinet

(6, 127, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Dine well and wisely and the cares of life will slip from you as its vexations and annoyances will divide into nothingness."

"The world's mine oyster which I with sword will open."

THE UNEXPECTED GUEST

After having a few experiences of unexpected guests and little in the larger for an extra two or three, the housewife will forestall any more of such unpleasant conditions by providing for just such emergencies. At a moment's notice she can have a few easily prepared dishes which may be made from materials at hand, but often even the simplest recipes will be spoiled in the duster of preparation. An emergency closet or shelf is one of the great comforts of the woman who enjoys having her friends drop in at any time and take "pot luck." In the closet there are cans of various foods such as salmon, shrimp, lobster, oysters, canned soups of various kinds, also in fruit, jellies and pickles, which always add to a meal a delightful dessert.

It is unwise to let the cake box or the cookie jar get empty if one has many visiting friends, though a short-cake may be quickly prepared and that is always a delightful dessert, using any canned or fresh fruit. An orange shortcake is especially luscious.

When the main dish is at hand, salad materials may be getting dry, cold water, a pie can be prepared rather quickly, if there is time for fruits like dates, figs and prunes, are always enjoyed. An especially delightful dessert is prune shortcake. Of course the prunes will have to be ready, stewed and stoned and chopped. Top with whipped cream.

A quick supper dish which is well liked is:

Cheese Custard.—Spread slices of buttered bread with a half-inch layer of fine cut, rich cheese. Lay the pieces of bread in a baking pan, making a layer or two. Cover with custard, using one egg to each cup of milk, a little salt and a dash of paprika. Be sure that there is milk to well cover the bread. Bake in the moderate oven until the custard is set. Serve from the baking dish.

Panned Oysters.—Have a large iron frying pan smoking hot. Drain the oysters quickly and add to each twenty-five oysters a tablespoonful of butter, a dash of cayenne, ten drops of onion juice and half teaspoonful of salt. When boiling hot and the edges curled, serve on buttered toast.

Sandwiches.—Prepare each day, lunchest may be prepared each day, the following will be helpful:

Pepper and a d-wiches.—Remove the seeds from two peppers. Chop them very fine and stir in ten minutes in two table- spoonfuls of butter. Add a dash of salt and spread on bread; cover with a layer of grated American cheese.

Ham Sandwiches.—Mince fine some cold boiled ham, chop fine some peas and use as meat. Butter—half as much as ham. For each cup of ham add a heaping tablespoonful of chopped sour pickle and one-half cupful of chopped celery. Mix to a well-blended paste with salad dressing, then use as filling for any kind of buttered bread.

Cheese and Almond Sandwiches.—Blend a cream cheese and a dozen olives chopped. Spread on butters' white bread.

Pepper Sandwiches.—Use leftover boiled fish, removing all the bones and skin, flake and add such seasonings as are needed; add two tablespoonfuls of chopped capers or nasturtium seeds and enough salad dressing to make a smooth paste. Spread on bread and cover with water.

Crab Sandwiches.—Mix the mashed yolks of a hard-cooked egg with one teaspoonful of softened butter. Add one-eighth of a can of deviled crab and one tablespoonful of lemon juice. Mix to a paste. Spread on buttered brown bread. Cut into triangles.

Spanish Sandwiches.—Spread slices of bread with a little prepared mustard, a light layer of cheese, minced olives and a thin slice of Spanish onion. Cover with a slice of buttered bread.

Cream Cheese Sandwiches.—"Hop a handful of hickory nuts, pecans or walnut meats, with white cream cheese which has been softened with cream and seasoned with paprika. Spread on brown, buttered bread and bake in a moderate oven. This is a principle of a quick cure for indigestion. The principle contains a vegetable pepsin.

One housekeeper saves time by keeping fresh spoons in the sink and washing them as they are used, they are always ready for measuring. This is a good idea for the coffee can, too.

Baroniu Olive Adapted for Pickling When Ripe

Olive as familiar to the American table are usually the green olives picked whole or with pits removed and stuffed. In the Mediterranean countries it is customary to use the ripened fruit cured in salt, which forms a staple part of the daily diet of the workers. The ripe olive cured in salt is only rarely used here. The United States Department of Agriculture has introduced a new variety called the Baronioli olive, specifically adapted for pickling ripe, which is a native of north Africa, and an original stock of three trees has expanded until there are now orchards of about 100 acres total area in California.

The department has recently published in pamphlet form an account of Baronioli olive introduction as separate No. 947-Y from the 1926 Yearbook of Agriculture, which reports that "methods of processing and canning the ripe fruit have been developed which have resulted in a product greatly relished by many who have become familiar with it."

At this time of the year when lunches must be prepared each day, the following will be helpful:

Pepper and a d-wiches.—Remove the seeds from two peppers. Chop them very fine and stir in ten minutes in two table- spoonfuls of butter. Add a dash of salt and spread on bread; cover with a layer of grated American cheese.

Mountains Deep With Snow Mountains of Central Idaho are deep with snow that has fallen recently.

There is the report received at local forest offices from residents of the mountains who will spend the winter there. Recent storms which poured rain onto Camas prairie descended in the higher altitudes in the form of snow and the entire regions are covered with a deep white blanket. It is reported. Mining activities in most of the mineral areas have been suspended for the season.

Game is not suffering from the snowfall, the mountain men say, although deer and mountain sheep have migrated to the river canyons.

Deep snow in the mountains at an early season is good insurance of plenty of moisture during coming summer months.—Preston (Grangeville)

Highway Was Blocked The North and South highway was blocked Monday until evening, north of Genesee, and was opened only when "Coug" Ehlen got out his old road "cat" and snowplow and shoved the stuff out of the way. The road was not blocked between here and Lewiston.

Winter Hits Elk River Nine below was registered in town Tuesday morning at about seven o'clock. As the day went on the thermometer gradually rose to 19 and 20 above, but fell again as night came on, and was about the same Wednesday.

Nine inches of snow fell during Wednesday night and Thursday morning, breaking the cold snap of a few days previous.—Elk River News of Dec. 9.

Five or six inches of snow covered the ground at Genesee Tuesday morning and it is very evident that we will not lack for good evidence of snow at the Christmas season. However, it would hardly seem like Christmas without snow, and the chances are that no one will be disappointed.

Might Try a Traffic Dove When Noah sailed the ocean blue, He had his troubles same as you; For days and days he dreged the ark; Before he found a place to park.

Protect your car from freezing with Eveready Prestone, the new anti-freeze solution. The advantage over alcohol and similar solutions is that alcohol will boil and evaporate at 176 degrees, water at 200 degrees, Eveready Prestone at 386 degrees, consequently, your car would have to be almost twice as hot as the boiling point for water to make Eveready Prestone evaporate. One solution for your radiator will last you from year to year, providing your radiator does not leak. Furthermore, it flows as freely as water, does not injure your radiator or paint. Cheaper and safer to use, in the long run.

MAKE IT A GREBE XMAS!

Almost any radio will supply volume and music, but Grebe has great volume, and still retains its beautiful tone quality. Grebe, loud or soft, has always been the Musical Instrument of Radio. Our advice is to "ask the man who owns one."

Hear a Grebe and Be Convinced!

Connected to the 20-20 Natural Cone Speaker it can not be surpassed. This speaker is Grebe's latest contribution to the radio world, and is built on the orthophonic principle.

We now have the most complete line of radios in Genesee, and our prices are very attractive. We also have a varied assortment of speakers, tubes, batteries, eliminators and power sockets. Nationally advertised lines, backed by houses of long standing.

Authorized Dealers for GREBE, KOLSTER, and BOSCH RADIOS

When you buy, buy where you get service. We like to sell, but service brings the business. Our aim is to serve after we sell. FREE BATTERY WATER, and we now have two battery chargers at your service.

As another year is coming to a close, we wish to thank all our friends and patrons for their patronage the past year, and extend to you and yours Heartiest Wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Prosperous New Year.

Where Price and Quality Meet

A LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift

While not in any sense minimizing the value of saving money, we are all learning more and more that it is not the part of true thrift to make savings the supreme object in life.

It is not thrift to save simply for the sake of saving. Economy in money matters should be merely the means to an end. Saving money just to hoard it, suggests too strongly the processes of a miser.

Save for a definite object. This means that thrift will have a different meaning for each of us. Within the circle of our own friends and acquaintances, we can note the various objectives. A father and mother are saving to give their children an education. A young couple are saving to buy a home. A man well on in years is saving so that he can some day live on the income from his investments.

"What Price Beauty?" Can you imagine the conservative Women's Bureau of the United States department of labor putting out the above newspaper release under the above heading? It is such a peppy thing that it deserves extra quotation marks.

Who says the government is not human? The item itself estimates that American women spend approximately $1,825,000,000 a year on cosmetics and beauty care. The beauty trade is "unstandardized" and therefore the women's bureau gives its support to proposals to check up on the ways and means by which the profession of beauty doctors serve the public. Likely the attention of the bureau has been attracted to some big damage and which resulted from women losing their hair, and beauty, when amateurs tried to make their patients look pretty.

Releases
The funeral of C. C. Swenson, who passed away at his home, a mile east of town, on Thursday, December 15, was held from the family home Saturday afternoon, December 17, at 2 o'clock, the services being in charge of Rev. N. E. Beach, pastor of the Christian church. The immediate cause of Mr. Swenson's death was rheumatic conditions brought on by a fall sustained some 4 years ago, from which he had suffered more or less since that time.

Colben C. Swenson was born in Olmstead county, Minnesota, January 6, 1865. He came to the Genesee section 4 1/2 miles northeast of town. On October 26, 1891 he was married to Miss Hannah Ourland at Vermilion, S. D. They came to Genesee and took up their residence upon the Swenson's homestead, where they resided until 1902, when Mr. Swenson bought a small place a mile east of town, to which they moved. He continued to farm his homestead until 1908, when he sold it, but leased land from his brother and continued to farm until a few years ago when he was compelled to give up his chosen work on account of ill health.

While Mr. Swenson was a member of no church or lodge organizations, he lived up to a code closely following the Golden Rule and his square dealing and high manhood made him universally liked by all who knew him. He was of a rather quiet and unassuming character but was always alive to the best interests of his friends and the community at large.

Mr. Swenson is survived by his widow and two sons and a daughter; Paul of Tacoma, Wash., "Mig" H. Potach of Los Angeles, and James of Lewiston.

The pallbearers were H. T. Smith, Ed. Erickson, Henry Halverson, M. S. Wilson, C. N. Herman and L. C. Rogers.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to all the friends and neighbors who so willingly aided us during our late bereavement.

Mrs. C. Swenson and family.

On October 26, 1891 he was married to Miss Hannah Ourland at Vermilion, S. D. They came to Genesee and took up their residence upon the Swenson's homestead, where they resided until 1902, when Mr. Swenson bought a small place a mile east of town, to which they moved. He continued to farm his homestead until 1908, when he sold it, but leased land from his brother and continued to farm until a few years ago when he was compelled to give up his chosen work on account of ill health.

While Mr. Swenson was a member of no church or lodge organizations, he lived up to a code closely following the Golden Rule and his square dealing and high manhood made him universally liked by all who knew him. He was of a rather quiet and unassuming character but was always alive to the best interests of his friends and the community at large.

Mr. Swenson is survived by his widow and two sons and a daughter; Paul of Tacoma, Wash., "Mig" H. Potach of Los Angeles, and James of Lewiston.

The pallbearers were H. T. Smith, Ed. Erickson, Henry Halverson, M. S. Wilson, C. N. Herman and L. C. Rogers.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to all the friends and neighbors who so willingly aided us during our late bereavement.

Mrs. C. Swenson and family.

Only One Week Left
Just one week remains for World War veterans to file their claims for "adjusted compensation," declares C. H. Hudson, regional manager of the United States veterans' bureau office for Idaho.

January 1, 1928, is the last day on which a claim may be filed, the manager says. Veterans are cautioned by the manager against confusing "adjusted compensation" with compensation paid by the veterans' bureau for disabilities incurred in the service.

"Adjusted compensation," says the manager, "is better known as the 'bonus.' Every man or woman honorably discharged from the army, navy, marine corps or their branches from World War service, is entitled to this additional pay and the U. S. Veterans' bureau is making an intensive campaign to see that everyone gets his compensation. It is computed on the basis of the number of days the man or woman was in the service and is paid in the form of an endowment insurance certificate which matures in 20 years. After two years it has a loan value which increases from year to year until at the end of 20 years it is worth 100 cents on the dollar.

"So, Mr. Veteran, check up on yourself. Make sure that you have filed your claim or that you have your certificate. Application forms may be secured upon request from the U. S. Veterans' bureau, regional office, Boise, Idaho, or any American Legion post or Red Cross secretary throughout the state. Fill out the application and be sure that it is postmarked not later than January 1, 1928."

Idaho Scores at Chicago
Idaho products again scored at the International Hay and Grain show held recently in Chicago, by taking the principal prize in the alfalfa seed division and the principal prizes in all the small seed and grain divisions.

Competition was not limited to the United States as all Canadian provinces had entries in the show. In the alfalfa seed section the competition was especially keen but the Idaho growers took more than half of the premiums offered.

At the University
Over at the University of Idaho Kenneth Platt has been chosen one of 30 men on the permanent varsity rifle squad for intercollegiate competition this year.

Grace Jain has been named a member of the committee on junior party, one of the functions during Junior week at the university, which is one of the outstanding events on the spring social calendar. Junior week is from April 8 to 14.

A Lively Corpse
Greenwald later staggered into a roadhouse nearby with a story of having been attacked and killed by bandits.

The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Ray Edwards.

Bridge Club Entertained
The Bridge club met at the home of Miss Esther Marston last Friday afternoon when bridge was played at two tables. Mrs. T. H. Herman won high score while Mrs. Virgil Sampson received low score.

The score cards were unique and quite clever, each card having suspended from the top a small phial of perfume, tied to the card by a green ribbon.

The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Ray Edwards.

Our Appreciation
At this time we wish to extend to our subscribers, business associates and friends the season's greetings and wish each and every one of the brightest, happiest and merriest Christmas you have ever experienced and to express the hope that the New Year may bring you blessings ever greater than any of us are entitled to.

On January 1 we will have had charge of the News for fifteen years and during all that time our relations with all have been of the pleasantest. We hope we have made a few friends, at least, and no enemies, and while we have fallen short in many instances of what we would have liked to have done, yet we feel that our efforts have not been entirely in vain and we want all to know that we appreciate your friendship and your business and will always give in return the very best we have to give.

Idaho Potatoes Stop Traffic
Traffic in the teeming city of Chicago was stopped on Idaho Potato Day in the Illinois metropolis, writes Warren T. Atchinson, a former resident of Lemhi county, in the Recorder-Herald of Salmon City.

Big Idaho potatoes were displayed in all the restaurant windows and advertised at 25c served piping hot with plenty of butter. The letter says that "many, many thousands were eaten."

The usual price of an Idaho baked potato in Chicago restaurants is 40 cents, especially for those who have partaken of them there so that the 25-cent price was a bargain.

YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS OUR NEW YEAR'S EVE MID-NIGHT MATINEE! SOMETHING NEW FOR GENESEE! DON'T MISS IT!!!

Geneese Weather

Of course the weather items in the News do not interest local people, for they know all about it, but they must remember that the News goes each week to several hundreds of former Geneese people who are always wondering what kind of weather while many of them have been basking in the sunshine of a warmer clime.

The coldest point reached on the hill during the past week was two degrees above zero, and as there is some four degrees difference between the hills and the flats, it must have been a few degrees below on the lower ground.

The mercury each night has reached a point all the way from two to 17 above, with only a slight thaw during the day. There are at this time some six inches of snow on the ground and sleighing and coasting are good and the youngsters, especially, have been taking advantage of it. The sidewalks are so slick that one needs chains on to negotiate the hills, the kiddies using them for coasting purposes.

Several serious accidents have occurred in nearby by coasters crossing the highways and being struck by cars. This practice should not be indulged in as it is impossible for a car or a coaster to stop or make a quick enough turn to dodge each other when they do not see each other until they are almost together—and then it is too late.

Better be safe than sorry.

Geneese Annexes Another Seal

Geneese hoopers won another game on the local floor last Friday night from the Clarkston quintet after playing two overtime periods. At the end of the regulation period of 32 minutes the score stood 19-19 and at the end of the two extra periods stood 23-22 in favor of Geneese.

The first overtime period was scarcely Geneese winning in the second by one point. At the half the score stood 11 to 7 in favor of the visitors but Geneese came back fast in the second and tied the score at the end of the regulation period 19-19. Cameron was high man for Geneese and Edwards was top-notch for Clarkston.

After the big game was over the Geneese girls' team and the Clarkston girls team held the floor, the Geneese girls winning by a score of 27 to 22 — landing 5 more points than did the boys.

When Christmas Was Young

In the midst of the rush and excitement of Christmas preparations certain questions will flash across the mind, and we find ourselves wondering why it is that we do the very same things Christmas after Christmas. In ancient Egypt in Assyria, in Greece, on Roman soil and in the north these festivals were celebrated year after year and always about the same time, the winter's one being held on New Year's eve.

Wherever the Roman eagle was to be found, the feast was called the Saturnalia and it was marked by universal license and good feeling.

All at once Christianity appeared on the scene. As the policy of the early church was to reconcile heathen converts to the new faith by adopting some of the heathen customs and festivals, the new religion accepted and retained many, and the result, as it is to be easily seen, has been the strange medley of pagan and Christian rites which we use at Christmas time today.

After Britain was Christianized by the Romans, the Saxons and northern tribes, bringing with them their old pagan rites, and as Christianity at last replaced paganism the Christians kept the old pagan rites, merely changing their meaning.

For many years no two lands celebrated the same day as the birthday of Christ. They did not know the exact day, and we do not know it; but this date has now become the most important one in the world's history.

News Notes
It's a Privilege to Live in
IDAHO

SHELLEY—Southern Idaho is reaping a golden harvest from its bonanza 1927 crop. It was stated by Mayor C. Ben Ross of Pocatello, Idaho, who was in Ogden on business. Mr. Ross said that the Gem state is favored by good prices with a little letting-up in the values accorded famous Idaho potatoes. Fruit growers have fared well, he said.

POCA TELLO—Referring to Idaho as the outstanding agricultural state of the west and one of the most important from an agricultural viewpoint, in the nation, E. F. McDonough of Los Angeles discussed retrospectively the trade between California and this state at the forum luncheon held at the Bancroft hotel.

BURLEY—Burley has an industry that has turned out to be of much benefit to the farmers of Blaine and Minnetonka counties. It is the casing plant of the Mini-Cassia Cooperative Dairy-men's association.

MALAD—W. J. Fry, one of the successful poultry raisers of the county gave a talk at Tuesday's luncheon of the Lions club and convinced his hearers that poultry raising was a profitable industry in this county.

MOSCOW—Seed potatoes will command a large share of the limelight at the 1927 Idaho state seed show, to be held in Malad, December 14, 15 and 16. The potato class, according to H. Albright, state seed commissioner and secretary of the show, will be the biggest class on exhibit.

LEWISTON—Lewiston valley is known as a region adapted to growing a greater variety of fruits, vegetables and nuts than almost any other part of the United States, including its products practically all varieties except those peculiar to tropical and semi-tropical climates.

BOISE—Many members of the Idaho Turkey Growers' association were present for the opening of the Idaho Christmas turkey pool which resulted in the top price of 42 1/2 cents for turkeys. The pool of thirty-five turkey carloads of turkeys was sold to the Central Poultry company of Caldwell and will bring around $450,000.

BOISE—Cattle rustling, made unprofitable and sometimes unwholesome by the "old-day" vigilantes, seems to be having a revival. Fred James, brand registrar of the Idaho department of agriculture, announced upon the receipt of an unusually large number of complaints of stock lost, strayed or "trapped and misbranded."

BURLEY—Prices for the polts of jackrabbits have taken a jump and 50 cents a pound for blacktails and 70 cents for whitetails is offered by a Boise dealer.

WASHINGTON—The Interstate commerce commission ordered suspended until June 28, 1928, railroad schedules proposing to increase rates on canned goods and vegetables in the territory including California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

BOISE—The season's take of cut-throat trout above at Henry's liver, to be approximately three and a half million eggs, W. M. Kell, fish commissioner, announced. Of this total 600,000 were hatched at the lake for final distribution and 2,700,000 were planted out.

BLACKFOOT—All is not smooth sailing in the red clover seed world. When the first bid was opened it did not satisfy the majority and was rejected; the second bid was 1.25 per pound less than the first and now the members have broken away from the pool and sold their seed at the lower price. Ten others have been released on account of having inferior seed.

MALAD—During the past year the business of the Malad Creamery and Cheese factory shows a most substantial increase, according to W. E. Evans, the manager. In 1926 the factory's products 1,200,000, while during 1927 the business increased 30 per cent. This year the farmers of this valley were paid $218,000 by the local creamery and cheese factory.

WENDELL—Sammy brothers of Idaho were awarded the contract call for the improvement of the grade leading from the Clear Lake bridge to the canyon rim on the north side of the Snake river by the commissioners of the West Point highway district. Their bid, the lowest received, was $310.

WESLEYAN—Gooding college bulletin, giving the class schedules for the second semester and the summer session and a complete alumni list, showing where all graduates are living, and what they are doing, came from the press and will be distributed to trustees, teachers, old students and other friends.

MALAD—Featuring potato culture which is now having such an impetus in the Lost River valley, a series of meetings was held Tuesday to which all those interested in growing seed and commercial potatoes were invited. The first gathering was held at Moore in the school house at 2 p. m. At 5 p. m. a meeting was held at Mackay. The meetings were given under the auspices of the Lost River Valley Potato Growers' association, recently organized at Arco, and were addressed by Charles J. Carlson and Gene Young, both of Idaho Falls.

FROM NUMBERS, B. C., TO THE U. S. CENSUS

First Counting of Noses Was Done by Moses.

Washington.—All Turkey stayed at home one Friday recently while 50,000 officials took the first census of the Ottoman empire.

"Turkey has made up for tardiness by asking questions far more thorough than appear in the famous first census of history," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Take ye the children of Israel, after their families, by the house of their fathers, with the number of their names every male by their polls; from twenty years old and upward, all that are able to go forth to war in Israel."

"Thus spoke the Lord to Moses, and Moses, with Aaron's assistance, counted the figures for the first census report, which may be found in practically every home and hotel room. It is appropriately entitled 'Numbers,' the fourth book of the Bible.

"By its breadth of scope the census William of Normandy ordered for his new kingdom of England, resembles modern surveys. He commanded his militia in 1085 A. D. to record every lord and peasant, every acre, every ox, every mill, every manor, every weir and every plow, the value of the land—and this is forward looking—the natural resources, woods, fields and streams capable of development and revenue. The report to William the Conqueror became the Domesday Book, unreadable today except by scholars, yet protected in the public time before the time of the first regular counting of noses until ten or twenty years later. Russia took no census until 1807.

"Deeply religious settlers of America nearly upset our first census when they harked back to another less fortunate Bible census. 'Satan stood up against Israel,' an anonymous poet wrote to the Central Poultry company of Caldwell and will bring around $450,000.

"God was displeased; therefore, I will visit upon Israel; and there fell of Israel 70,000 men."

"Fears that our first census would bring misfortune upon the nation did not materialize, so the marshals delivered their reports to President Washington within nine months for all the original states, except Vermont, Rhode Island and South Carolina. Vermont and Rhode Island entered the Union later. The marshal of South Carolina found workers scarce at $1 per 150 hours counted.

"Today a visitor at the census bureau may see the names of famous Americans and the answers given to the first census taker's simple questionnaires. John Hancock's family consisted of two free white males of sixteen and upward; three white females, seven other persons (servants no doubt) and no slaves. 'Progress in 70 years presents a contrast with data for Abraham Lincoln collected in 1820: 'Age, fifty-one, married, lawyer, value of real estate $5,000—personal estate $12,000, Kentucky, place of birth."

"From one census every ten years the census bureau has increased to 104 censuses, in addition, to many special surveys such as that made to supply data to congress for immigration quotas. One census collected every week shows the number of babies born. Using these figures the bureau sets up its large and now famous exhibit and every 20 seconds announces to the world that the millions of Americans has been increased, for example, by baby No. 118,972,331.

"Not content with counting men, women and children, where they work, whether they are in school and if so, how long; not satisfied with tabulating the value of wheat grown and tons of manganese ore dug out of the ground; not resting even with summing up the business of hats and hammocks, shoes and sulphuric acid manufactured in the United States, the census bureau presses to complete the picture." To finish the portrait in figures of the whole United States, it is necessary, they say, to have a census of distribution. That means an accounting of what is sold to the housewife over the grocery, drug and meat counters, and what the wholesaler sells to the retailer.

"Recently the census bureau released its first experimental distribution survey for which Baltimore served as a laboratory specimen. The survey's figures found that in Baltimore 283 people are required to support one neighborhood grocery; that Baltimoreans spend $467.22 per year in stores; that the department stores take the most; that Baltimore spends more on automobiles than on furnishing its houses and that in the average family purchasing budget food requires 31 per cent, clothing 20 per cent and the family automobile comes next with 9 per cent. The same survey has been extended to ten other cities; Chicago, Atlanta, Denver, Fargo, N. D.; Kansas City, Providence, San Francisco, Seattle, Springfield, Ill., and Syracuse, N. Y. Some day it will be extended to the whole nation."

BURY LUNCH FOR PREHISTORIC DOG

Indians' Custom Revealed in Finding of Bones.

Washington.—Discovery of two deer bones painted red is a bit of evidence that Indians who lived in America 2,500 years ago placed food in the graves of pet dogs so that they would follow on their journey in the next world. The deer bones were found inside the skeletons of a prehistoric dog by Dr. F. H. R. Hooters, Jr., of the bureau of American ethnology, who has just returned from an archeological expedition to Chaco canyon, N. M.

The dogs appear to have been buried with humanity by the Indians, said Doctor Roberts in discussing his expedition. Whether the dry bones were painted red to fool the spirits and to think that there was good meat on the bones can only be conjectured.

The dogs belonged to Indians of the last days of the basketmaker civilization before the time of the Southwest. The dogs before the Pueblos, he said. Very ancient tribes are known as the basketmakers because they wove all their vessels and containers in the course of centuries pottery-making was learned.

Despite evidence of the Indians who lived at the time when the change from baskets to pottery began was discovered by Doctor Roberts. Fifteen skeletons were found in two layers of earth. The burials in the lower level had no baskets or containers for food, such as have been found in similar burials. The baskets had been evidently fallen apart and disintegrated from the weight of the earth. But in the layer of earth above them were bodies accompanied by crude clay jars and bowls.

The skeletons of the transition period are of great interest to ethnologists who are studying the types of Indians who inhabited America in the days before the time of the first complete pieces of four bowls which could be patched together, even after so many centuries, were found by Doctor Roberts, as well as quantities of fragments of the rough, coarse clay containers made by the first artisans of the region who tried the potter's trade.

High Shoes for London Girls Are Coming Back

London.—High shoes reaching half way up the calf and reminiscent of styles ten years ago will be in vogue this year with English girls, before the exhibit at the shoe and leather fair which was held here.

The models shown were plain in style and had none of the swanlike flaring flares of the Russian boots. It is predicted that black and brown shades will be worn by the business girls, while the ultra-fashionable women will prefer scintillating boots and three-inch heels or opalescent kid boots radiant with every color of the rainbow.

It was evident at the exhibit that hard sets will continue to be a popular trimming for shoes this winter.

Storm Center Shows Barometer Far Down

Port Townsend, Wash.—The birthplace of storms south of the Aleutian islands is hard on barometers, reports Capt. Y. Kavassianis of the Yokohama Maru on arrival here. While passing through the storm nursery he noted the lowest barometric reading ever observed on the Pacific, the indicator showing 28.37.

The vessel experienced no rough weather, but the Japanese navigator believes he just missed a typhoon or monsoon. Most of the severe storms that sweep the Mississippi valley originate in the Aleutian area, where violent currents of ocean water influence the atmospheric conditions.

Clever Chinese

New York.—Clever, these Chinese are. A detective arrested a dozen when he found them in a room with money on the table. One explained to the judge in excellent English that they were taking up a collection to buy a book on cross-word puzzles. They were freed.

Deer's Appetites Ruin Golf Course Greens

Glard, Calif.—The Glard golf club in the world that finds it self up against a costly burden is a club of deer. The deer have destroyed the wild herbage as a result most of the deer are now "hardened" to the club. Officers of the club say a man or boy with a lantern will be hired to keep the deer on the run after nightfall.

Community Building

Interests of Country and City Indivisible

It is a matter of good business, not to mention plain justice, that the children of rural Missouri should be given the same educational opportunities comparable to those afforded children in the cities of the state. How the line between country and city is being blurred is shown by Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, president of the University of Missouri, in his address in Kansas City. The interests of the two are not easily to be separated.

In matters of commerce and trade the inter-relationships are commonly understood. Kansas City and other centers have displayed due enterprise in stressing and in seeking to strengthen further the community of interests in this respect.

Educationally, however, the welfare of the two is not so easily to be separated. The cities of Missouri were alert in pushing forward a highway system that would penetrate rural districts even from the standpoint of the value of such an improvement to every community in Missouri was obvious. Mud roads clearly were seen to be a handicap to the entire state and a handicap to its development. The small, poorly equipped rural school is today a detriment to the state, when the relation of the home to the school, in terms of future citizenship influence is even more serious.

Good schools, in a more genuine sense, are being developed in the Southwest. The time covered by the joint declaration of France and Great Britain that the territory should be neutral. This agreement did not work very well, and in 1900 a protocol was entered into stating that the islands should become "a region of joint influence" by Great Britain and France, with separate administrations for the northern and southern islands, separate British and French police forces, and a joint court presided over by a Briton, a Frenchman, and a third judge selected by the king of Spain.

Both languages are official, but neither is very useful in dealing with the natives. For the New Hebrides natives are still savages. They believe in witchcraft and all sorts of signs and omens, particularly in the spirits of their departed ancestors and in the spirits of certain stones or animals. Every village has its dancing ground. Here the natives meet on moonlight nights and perform wild and fantastic antics to the booming of their deep drums, some of which, six feet or more in height and carved from the trunks of trees, are capable of making terrible noise.

What the Natives Are Like

For years the natives of the islands were the prey of the "Blackbirds," or labor pirates, because they are generally ignorant of uncultivated lands and sturdy of build than the average Kanaka. They are reputed to have cannibalistic tendencies, to be treacherous and of unclean temper, facts probably due in some measure to the treatment to which they were subjected by these traders. They are of medium stature, below the medium in height and build, with the medium receding foreheads by sticking out over their heads and adorning their ears and fat noses with rings. They pride themselves upon their weapons—spears, clubs, bows, and poisoned arrows—some of which are made of iron. Believing he has discovered the great southern continent which was at that time the dream of Columbus, the Portuguese navigator thought he had found a route to India when he sighted the palm-fringed shores of the West Indies.

He called his discovery Australia and named it after the first white man to see the rugged outline of the coast of the islands, which rise abruptly out of the tropics. Believing he had discovered the great southern continent which was at that time the dream of Columbus, the Portuguese navigator thought he had found a route to India when he sighted the palm-fringed shores of the West Indies.

New Hebrides

A Patriarch of New Hebrides.

(Provided by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

FRANCE and Great Britain in the administration of the New Hebrides Islands, which lie in the Pacific ocean about a thousand miles east of New Caledonia, were not formally under the control of any European country. But both France and Great Britain have since agreed to the annexation of the New Hebrides, so that the problem was solved at least temporarily in 1878 by the joint declaration of France and Great Britain that the territory should be neutral. This agreement did not work very well, and in 1900 a protocol was entered into stating that the islands should become "a region of joint influence" by Great Britain and France, with separate administrations for the northern and southern islands, separate British and French police forces, and a joint court presided over by a Briton, a Frenchman, and a third judge selected by the king of Spain.

For language class Monday we wrote letters to Santa Claus, telling him what we would like for Christmas. On Thursday afternoon we had a little entertainment in the form of an imaginary trip to Santa Claus Land.

First Grade We still have several out of the mumps, Helen Edwards, Jackie Flomer, Leo Heppner, Wayne Hickman and Robert Meyers. The "A" division are progressing very nicely in their readers and the "B" division are doing their Christmas stories on the board.

In our language work we discussed "Christmas in Other Lands," noting the different customs in different countries. We have spent most of our time in preparation for Christmas and our trip to health land has been delayed. We will finish it later. The enthusiasm is still very much alive, however.

We have learned some Christmas songs and a motion poem for our Christmas party Thursday afternoon.

Community Christmas Tree The community Christmas tree, sponsored by the Women of the World and the Women of Woodcraft, and backed by the Genesee business men and others, was put in place Monday and looks quite "Christmasy" indeed. No carrier is required to work after 12 o'clock on that day, it being a legal holiday, since Christmas comes on Sunday.

"South Sea Love"

Three on a tropic isle—no woman! A woman who had mocked, scorned them, when she held high revel along the "Roaring Forties" of Broadway. But here, at 20 degrees latitude she was no longer mistress of the situation—Pasty Ruth Miller in "South Sea Love" will be the feature at the Cozy theatre Friday and Saturday nights, December 22 and 24 (commencing immediately after the community Christmas tree exercises). Dreamy shadows, the soft languid beauties of the tropic night—the haunting refrain of a deathless love song calling—wailing from the throbbing strings of the ukulele, borne on veering winds across the tropic seas to ears weary of jazz, eyes weary of the bright white lights of Broadway—and a heart, oh, so weary of passing loves! Poor Charlotte! Tired, disillusioned child of ever flutters into the port of true love!

Depends On the Yard

Rastus was proudly sporting a new shirt when a friend asked: "How many yards does it take for a shirt like that?" Rastus replied: "I done got three shirts like this out of one yard last night."

Arctic Winter Very Severe

An indication of the severity of the present Arctic winter is given in a letter to the Nome Nugget from Wainwright, 75 miles north of Point Barrow.

The letter which reached Nome by dog team, told of the loss of two reindeer herds during a severe storm October 15. Although the entire village of Wainwright turned out in the search for the reindeer, the animals were supposedly frozen to death and covered over with snow.

An abundance of Polar bear is reported on the Arctic coast in the vicinity of Point Barrow and in Wainwright. Five bears were killed in one day at Wainwright and many of them were seen passing by that place on icebergs.

Advices from Point Barrow to the Nugget indicates a prosperous winter at that village, the farthest north point of the United States.

When cigarettes are lacking.
With many a sigh and groan,
He takes his sack-o'-backer out,
And calmly rolls his own.
When modern styles are calling,
With puff, sigh and groan,
She grasps her hair before her knee
And calmly rolls her own.
When these two meet they woo and wed,
And build for them a home;
Then in a carriage down the street,
They calmly roll their own.

The feature picture at the Cozy theatre for Saturday night, December 31, will be Adolphe Menjou in "Serenade."

The advertising failed to arrive for this picture, but you have all seen Menjou and know that he is one of the best in his line.

A Midnight Frolic

The doors for the midnight frolic will be opened at 10:45 and the fun will commence promptly at 11 o'clock. This will be something new for Genesee and will comprise fun-making features. Besides, there will be a feature picture, "Up in Mabel's Room," with Marie Prevost in the leading role.

Remember this show will be entirely different from the regular evening show, which starts at 7:15 and 9:00.

"Jake, the Plumber"

See the shrieking comedy of a shrieking plumber when "Jake, the Plumber" comes to the Cozy theatre Sunday night, January 1.

Flo Ziegfeld never boasted a beauty like Jake, the plumber—Harem-scarem of torch and soldering iron; with a face that only a mother could love and a complex that would bust up any sultan's harem. The screen never saw such a flood of laughs as pours from the faucet of this howling burlesque on the plumber's profession.

And Have Your Aces Trumped

Life is a game of bridge, I say,
With simple honors, and
An inclination to play
To overbid your hand.

nighman, Harold Haymond and Mrs. Nellie Haymond.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Olson entertained Mr. and Mrs. James McCorkell from Craigmont, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Smith from Klamath Falls, Oregon, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Olson and young son, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Gray and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lange served a delicious dinner to the following guests Monday at noon: Mr. and Mrs. Nels Lande, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peterson and son, Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Tegland and family and Ronald Lange from Moscow.

WHAT HAPPENED HERE TWENTY YEARS AGO

Gustav Oksenau returned Sunday from his trip to the Wetaskiwin section. He says to date the weather in Alberta has been very mild, the mercury having reached only ten degrees below zero.

The first snow of the season fell Friday of last week, covering the ground to a depth of about three inches. But all hopes of Christmas sleighing were blasted Saturday with heavy fall of rain. We now have mud galore.

The absence of Will Beckman from his accustomed haunts east of town for several days was fully explained Tuesday by his return from Rathdrum. Mr. Beckman was united in marriage to Miss Damie Woodside, who for the past few months has been residing with her parents near Rathdrum, but who for some years was a resident of the Pine Grove section. Mr. Beckman is one of our most successful young farmers, while the bride is a young lady of many excellent qualities. They have gone to housekeeping on the farm formerly owned by Charles Spence, east of town. They and their host of friends wish them a long and happy married life.

A Car, a Dead Soldier, a Skirt

It looks as though some deep, dark crime had been committed recently down in the Hatwaij canyon. Messer Sunday, the Pine Grove section, that at the bottom lay a wrecked car, a dead "soldier" and a woman's skirt.

Now, just what this pertends is beyond us, but it is a notorious fact that coyote hunters who infest that part of country are not too loquacious to say they don't know anything about it and are "not guilty."

Walt Emerson, head surgeon at the Ford hospital, states that the news was brought to him from a very reliable source, yet he hesitated to take the subject to the police, but he failed to stop. It was also suggested that Fat Sampson might be able to give the desired information, but nothing was forthcoming from that source.

It is very evident that there has been some understanding of some place and the guilty party will undoubtedly be brought to justice. It was suggested that Hank Herman might know something of the tragedy as he was seen in that part of the country last Sunday where he succeeded in bringing down a coyote. He was seen making fast time dragging the animal up the road by the snuff of the neck, making tracks for home.

It is also very evident that it will be necessary to put the village coyote-sleuth, Brigadier General Buffalo Bill Cody in the case and have him report as soon as possible. Buffalo says he has a new gas-pipe gun which is very effective and he is said to be quite fearless when accompanied by that trusty piece of machinery.

Rebekah Party

Misses Ruth and Esther Martinson delightfully entertained a group of Rebekahs and a few invited guests Thursday evening. At 6:30 a delicious pick-up dinner was served. Following this was the exchange of presents, which were hung on a beautifully decorated tree. The rest of the evening was spent in visiting and "tuning in" on the radio.

The invited guests were Miss Frances Ploff, Miss Alice Winegardner, Miss Bernadette Weber, Mrs. Geo. Follett and Mrs. Geo. Mochel.

Entertained at Bridge

Miss Rowena Hanson entertained several of her friends Wednesday afternoon at a bridge party, given at her home. A delicious luncheon was served by the hostess during the afternoon.

Those present were Miss Helen Milken of Moscow, Miss Grace Jain, Mrs. W. L. McCarty, Miss Margaret Sampson, Miss Bernadette Hasfurther, Mrs. N. M. Leavitt and Miss Irene Mulally.

"What's the matter with Madge?"

"Oh, she wants overtime because the boss kissed her after the whistle blew."

CHOMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE GREAT SUCCESS

Genesee's first community Christmas tree, sponsored by the W. O. W. lodge and the Women of Woodcraft, aided by the business men and others of the community, was a decided success from every angle. There was a good program and a large crowd, estimated at from 600 to 700 people, in attendance.

News Notes
It's a Privilege to Live in
IDAHO

IDAHO FALLS.—Usual early winter dullness continued to prevail in potato markets during the past week. Under the slow demand, prices at Idaho shipping points declined another dollar, according to Wendell Cathorn, market news representative, of the federal department of agriculture, at Idaho Falls.

TWIN FALLS.—Twin Falls county and southern Idaho in general have brought to a close one of the most successful agricultural years in the history of this section of the state, according to the annual report of R. E. Brossard, county agricultural agent.

AMERICAN FALLS.—Eik which were placed in Power county several years ago by the Idaho state game and fish department and which are protected by law are increasing in numbers so rapidly that they are becoming a nuisance to ranchmen and farmers in the Arbon valley. Last week R. E. Thomas, state game warden, received a formal complaint from John E. Myers, who says he is suffering serious losses from the depredations of the elk.

BURLEY.—Turkey raising, an important industry in Cassia county, especially in the outlying districts where range is plentiful and highway traffic light, is being recognized by the university extension department of the University of Idaho.

GR. ANTONIO.—After a most thorough examination of the property, Dr. Bradford took samples of the coal which he secured himself back to Salt Lake where he had a careful analysis made, which was included in a report made by Dr. Bradford which clearly shows that the Teton company mine, frequently referred to as the Samuels mine, not only has an immense tonnage, but that Idaho's only developed coal mine is producing a grade of coal superior to any coal mined in the state of Utah.

BOISE.—Federal and state agricultural inspectors certified 3281 cars of Idaho produce during November, more than twice as many cars as were certified in November last year. L. G. Schultz, federal supervisor, announced. This brings the total number of cars inspected since July 1 to 12,815, compared with 5897 for the like period a year ago.

NAMPA.—To provide for the overflow of turkey growers who will deliver their turkeys in Nampa, arrangements have been made by the Nampa Chamber of Commerce to provide an auxiliary receiving station in the Phillips building across from the Press Press building, formerly occupied by the Roosevelt garage. The other receiving station will be at the Nampa Creamery, formerly the Nampa Co-operative Creamery.

NAMPA.—Construction in Nampa for 1927 will exceed $300,000, it is indicated in the report of Edward Healdson, city engineer, for the eleven months of the year. This showed a total of $291,835 in building permits. November building called for expenditure of $13,210, the largest November total for more than five years.

HAILEY.—Under the direction of H. H. Neal of the First National Bank in Hailey, Blaine county sheepmen are forming a wool pool for the season of 1928. Indications are that this will be the largest pool ever formed in the county. Last year the pool had 53,000 fleeces and brought 32 cents a pound. Next year the growers expect 70,000 fleeces, and judging by the Hagerman pool, which sold a short time ago, they expect to get 44 cents. Payment is to be made of $1 a fleece when the pool is sold and the remainder when the shipment is made.

IDAHO FALLS.—Mercury in the government thermometer here dropped to 11 degrees below zero Wednesday morning of last week, a new low mark for the year. The thermometer sobogannng starting about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and fell around twenty degrees between that time and 11 o'clock. At 8 o'clock Wednesday morning thermometers were registering about 10 below.

BOISE.—Prices said to be 10 per cent higher than the average at this time a year ago were paid when southern Idaho stockmasters sold their 1928 clip of approximately 175,000 fleeces at a figure which will bring more than $500,000. The sale, growers said, was probably the largest ever held at one time in Idaho and ranks among the largest single sales in the history of the western wool industry.

MALAD.—Field tests at Malad show that the Idamite oats, sown this year for the first time in Oneida county, made an average yield of eight-fifty to ninety-five bushels per acre. In the spring of 1927, 10,000 bushels of certified Idamite oats were purchased for seed purposes from growers in the Arbon section, who obtained their seed from the Aberdeen experimental station in the previous season.

MOSCOW.—With the water level of Lake Coeur d'Alene creeping upward steadily as the result of the steady rains for the past week, the lake is nearing the flood level stage. It is feared that the fort grounds in Coeur d'Alene, where many residences are located, will be flooded within a short time.

BOISE.—With moderation of the weather, Boise was visited by a light fall of snow. The weather moderated from 16 degrees above to 33 degrees above zero.

MODERN 'CINDERELLA'
OUTDOES FAIRY TALE

Now Rich, Badger Girl Plans to Go to College.

Janesville, Wis.—A modern Cinderella who outdid the fairy tale by leaving for a month in a comfortable fairyland provided by her "prince," now contemplates a future made golden by the generosity of her benefactor.

The girl is seventeen-year-old Jean Buchanan, whose quiet life with three sisters and a widowed mother in this city was interrupted this fall by a visit to London as the guest of their granduncle, Baron Woolvington, accompanied by her elder sister, Catherine.

Of their sojourn in this fairyland Jean spoke recently. She had returned to her high school studies and expects to graduate next June, after which she contemplates attending the University of Wisconsin. The plans of her sister, Catherine, are not yet known.

$150,000 Trust Fund. Funds are assured, for it was learned that Baron Woolvington has made permanent arrangements for their future. He has established a trust fund for them that was reported to be approximately $150,000.

"It was one of the most pleasant," Jean said. "With Miss Bortolphi, a stepdaughter of Baron Woolvington, we went to museums and historical places in the daytime and to theater and ballrooms at night. At day we toured the city, riding in our uncle's limousine, which had two chauffeurs. Every morning we had breakfast in bed."

Baron Woolvington, Jean said, had started from his country place in Scotland but became ill and did not meet them until a week later.

Tells of Shopping Tours. "As soon as we were well enough to see, Miss Bortolphi took us shopping," she said. "We found that most of their clothes are like ours, except their shoes and hats. Their shoes have low heels and are thick soled, and their hats are worn well down over their eyes."

"Uncle did everything he could to show us a nice time and was not in any way as a miser. He had his own daughter, Catherine McDonald Buchanan, came down from Scotland, where she had been visiting Princess Mary, to meet us."

"When the time came for us to leave, Baron Woolvington told us with tears in his eyes about the trust fund he had created. He thought he would never see us again."

Gets Photograph of Famous Encke's Comet. Chicago.—The first photograph to be obtained of the famous Encke's comet as it approaches the spot in its orbit nearest the sun, has been taken by Prof. V. Y. Yerkes, of Yerkes observatory, University of Chicago officials announced.

Using the 24-inch reflector, Professor Van Biesbroeck photographed the comet, which is 10,000 miles farther than a star, just visible to the naked eye, in the constellation Pegasus.

The comet completes its journey around the sun every three and one-third years. It will be nearest the sun for this return on February 20, 1928.

The comet has not been dislocated in its orbit by the gravitational pull of one of the other members of the solar system since last seen, Professor Van Biesbroeck said.

Encke's comet was discovered 141 years ago by Mechain of Paris. Thirty years later the German astronomer, J. F. Encke, found the comet was periodic.

Devilfish Is in Demand Again by Coast Orientals. Dungeness, Wash.—Recent high prices have stimulated fishing for octopus in the harbor after several months cessation.

Devilfishing was a well-paying occupation for several score men here, but the market slumped badly last spring. Now the strange job is flourishing with news that Orientals in Seattle, Tacoma, and Portland are paying six and seven cents a pound for the octopus meat. They consider it a delicacy.

For octopus traps fishermen use empty barrels attached to buoys and sunk in deep water. A few strands of wire fastened across the open end coaxes the devilfish to entwine his tentacles thereon. Each morning the barrels are hauled up and generally one or two octopus are found in each. They are shipped alive in tanks to market and executed with wild.

VOLCANIC ISLAND
RISES FROM SEA

Ocean Floor Changes on the Alaskan Coast.

Seattle, Wash.—News of the new evidence of seismic and volcanic disturbances along the far-flung Alaskan coast, such as an island rising from the sea, and the occurrence of faults in the ocean floor which snapped the cable which connects territorial towns with the outside world, has been brought here by officers of the United States coast guard cutter Northland.

In a channel off Bogoslof Island, in Bering sea, north of the Aleutian chain, a volcano, 175 feet high and shrouded in steam, has reared its head, according to Commander James P. Hattel of the Northland.

"The new crater has risen from approximately 1,000 fathoms of water," said Commander Hotel, "is a quarter of a mile across and about two and a half miles in length."

The eruption of the new volcano has made life one of terror for the marine animals and birds, say members of the crew of the steamship Santa Ana, the last vessel to report in from Bogoslof Island.

Sea lions on the island's shore roared with fear. Birds, in distress, circled about, making shrill cries that flew swiftly away. Sudden changes in water temperature and climatic conditions killed millions of fish.

An earthquake recently rocked the southeastern Alaska coast. One was in Chilcot inlet, a few miles south of Skagway, and another near Wrangell. They were sharp, showing that the line had been snapped by the raising or shifting of the sea floor. The breaks were repaired by the United States cable ship Delwood.

An earthquake recently rocked the southeastern Alaska coast line, but did virtually no damage. The center of the disturbance, apparently, was at sea.

France Renews Debate Over Voltaire's Grave. Romilly-sur Seine, France.—Discovery in the cellar of the chateau of Scellieres of a skeleton partly buried in quicklime has reopened a one hundred and thirty-six-year-old controversy as to whether the bones of Voltaire really lie in the Faubourg in Paris.

The skeleton, said to resemble strongly the form of the philosopher, had been buried in quicklime. It was found in the cellar of the chateau of Scellieres, near the village of Scellieres, then occupying the site of the chateau. He did this, the story goes, because his uncle had been denied burial in sacred soil. According to this theory the body lying in the Pantheon is that of an old gardener.

The bones of the Voltaire remains in the Pantheon were carefully examined 30 years ago and found to be genuine, doubters are demanding a new examination of the bones. The century-old skeleton, which is now in the Pantheon, can be directly compared.

Patent Applications Set New U. S. Record. Washington.—Applications for patents, trademarks, and legal registrations containing under the supervision of the United States patent office set a new high record for the fiscal year 1927, Commissioner Thomas E. Robertson reported to the Commerce department. The total number was 113,783, or 8,753 more than for 1926, and 189 more than during 1922, which was the previous high record year.

In the face of this flood of applications for patents Commissioner Robertson's department has been forced to fall behind schedule. The average patent application now takes three and a half months for granting, whereas a year ago issues were being made, on an average, two and a half months after receipt.

The difficulty is in maintaining a force of examiners sufficient for the work, the commissioner says. Wage increases for examiners and an enlargement of staff, he concludes, now is necessary in the interests of the country's industrial efficiency.

Fixes Own Salary. Reading, Pa.—The job of city treasurer pays $500 a year and fees make the office worth between $15,000 and $20,000. William C. Havert, Socialist, treasurer-elect, thinks $6,000 is enough salary for any job at city hall and all over that sum he intends to turn over to the city.

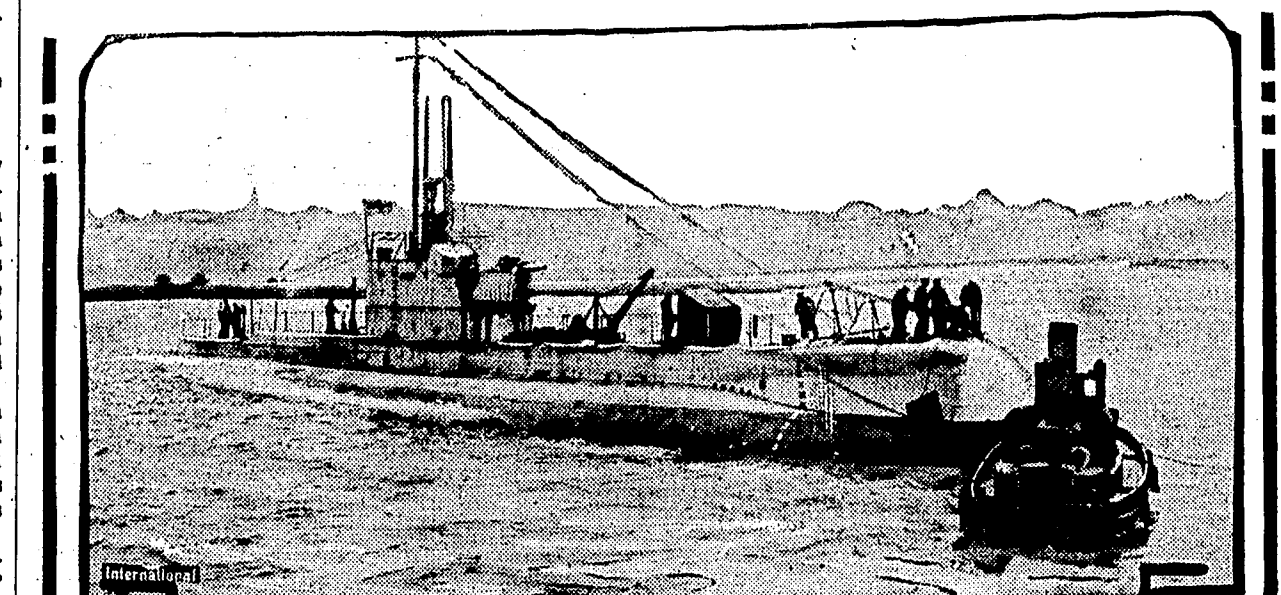

New York Holds Lead in Cabbage Growing. Albany, N. Y.—New York still maintains its lead this year as the foremost cabbage-growing state in the country, according to a state-federal report issued by the state department of agriculture and markets.

Of a total of about 62,000 acres of cabbage in the United States this year New York has more than one-half, while Wisconsin, its nearest competitor, has less than one-fourth the total acreage. Considering production only, New York has much more than 50 per cent of the total production of the country.

Polish Women Resent "Permit to Work" Order. Warsaw.—All the "emancipated" women of Poland have been aroused by the order of Minister of Posts and Telegraphs Miedzinski requiring married women employed by his office to obtain permission of their husbands to remain in employment.

A few months ago the minister provoked the women of the capital by introducing measured telephone service, thus interrupting many long-winded chats which had monopolized the telephone service.

Fine New Submarine for Australia's Navy

Australia is acquiring quite an efficient navy of its own, one of the latest additions being the submarine Otway, which was built in England. It has all the equipment of the best of the modern submarines.

Gen. Hugh Scott Was Real Pacifier

Aged Soldier and Famous Indian Fighter Guest at Peace Celebration.

Medicine Lodge, Kan.—Among the notables who gathered at Medicine Lodge, Kan., recently to celebrate the signing of the Indian peace treaty there, 60 years before, was Maj. Gen. Hugh Lenox Scott, whose diplomacy and tact brought him favorable recognition as a genuine fighter and student of the Indian mind.

This former chief of staff of the United States army, now retired, was called "Mole-Tie-Gu-Op," "The Man Who Talks With His Hands," by the red men.

He came all the way from his home in New Jersey to participate in the celebration. His best years he has dedicated to the service of his country and he enjoys today the reputation of being the best authority on Indian affairs. He uses words sparingly and is direct in his statements.

Planned Indians' Welfare. Despite his seventy-four years, he has animation and yet is dignified. He was the ideal representative at the celebration of the conquering invaders who secured the West for the united America. He dealt with Indians many years and always planned their ultimate welfare in relation to the constantly expanding population.

General Scott began his career on graduation from West Point in 1876. That was in June, and in the same month Custer rode to his death at the battle of the Little Big Horn. The general had been popular in school. It is to be noted that he accompanied for neglect of duty by assuming blame himself.

A great-grandson of Benjamin Franklin, Scott was moved by a pioneering instinct and it was natural that the West should demand his attention. He secured the position of second lieutenant in the Seventh cavalry which had been spared Custer's tragic fate, and engaged in the campaign against the rebellious Sioux. It rendered him as a governor of the island while Gen. Leonard Wood was absent. Wood said to him: "He has always been successful in the work assigned to him and has always gained the respect of the officers under whom he served."

After a five-year stay in Cuba, Scott went to the Philippines as governor of Sulu province and commander of the military post at Jolo. His efforts to halt the slave traffic aroused the enmity of the Moros who were armed with modern implements of warfare.

In a battle he was shot through both hands and had to be lifted to his tent. Almost all of them were killed or captured. Returning to the post, the soldiers were told that Blitting Bull, instigator of Indian opposition and unrest, was in the vicinity and ready to aid the surviving Nez Perces.

Volunteers for Battle. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, realizing this threat, sent eleven men under command of Lieut. Marion F. Maus. Maus not knowing the size of the Nez Percé force, Maus asked for volunteers and Scott with his six men joined him. After a sharp fight the small troop captured forty-two warriors. Maus then called Scott one of the most valuable soldiers in the service.

Crow Indians broke away from their reservation in southeastern Montana in 1883 and carried the horrors of Indian warfare into the sparse settlements. They were marauding for livestock and if necessary they would shoot settlers. Scott, then a first lieutenant stationed at Fort Meade, N. D., was directed to placate the Indians. He was in command of two junior officers, ninety men and fifty pack mules.

His command pushed on to the Little Missouri river, which was raging with April freshets. Two men volunteered to take a line across the river so that a makeshift ferry could be rigged. They found it, but came out quickly, explaining that the water was too cold to be endured.

Scott stripped off his uniform and tied a rope around his waist. Then he plunged in and struggled with the icy current more than five hundred feet. Gaining the opposite shore, he secured the rope to a tree and his men crossed safely on an old wagon bed which they used as a float.

Coming across the Indians, Scott showed no hostility. He talked to them in the sign language and assured them of his friendship. They submitted and returned to their reservation. After this uprising of the Crows, there was comparative peace among the Indians and the Cheyennes under the Big Wolf flared up in 1890 with their ghost dance activities. By this time Scott had gained a reputation as a pacifier, and the government assigned him to the Cheyennes. He succeeded again, and clever Big Wolf termed him Mole-Tie-Gu-Op, "The Man Who Talks With His Hands."

Crow Indians broke away from their reservation in southeastern Montana in 1883 and carried the horrors of Indian warfare into the sparse settlements. They were marauding for livestock and if necessary they would shoot settlers. Scott, then a first lieutenant stationed at Fort Meade, N. D., was directed to placate the Indians. He was in command of two junior officers, ninety men and fifty pack mules.

His command pushed on to the Little Missouri river, which was raging with April freshets. Two men volunteered to take a line across the river so that a makeshift ferry could be rigged. They found it, but came out quickly, explaining that the water was too cold to be endured.

Scott stripped off his uniform and tied a rope around his waist. Then he plunged in and struggled with the icy current more than five hundred feet. Gaining the opposite shore, he secured the rope to a tree and his men crossed safely on an old wagon bed which they used as a float.

Coming across the Indians, Scott showed no hostility. He talked to them in the sign language and assured them of his friendship. They submitted and returned to their reservation. After this uprising of the Crows, there was comparative peace among the Indians and the Cheyennes under the Big Wolf flared up in 1890 with their ghost dance activities. By this time Scott had gained a reputation as a pacifier, and the government assigned him to the Cheyennes. He succeeded again, and clever Big Wolf termed him Mole-Tie-Gu-Op, "The Man Who Talks With His Hands."

like and most turbulent section of the Moro people. He accomplished a great work and his work in the abolition of slavery and suppression of the slave trade has effectually terminated these curses of the Moro people."

Pacific Hopi Redskins. In 1911 the Hopi Indians of Arizona notified authorities that they would no longer permit their children to attend a government school. The Indians preferred to keep their offspring at home and rear them according to tribal practices. President Taft was asked by the Department of the Interior to assign Scott as mediator.

Arriving at the reservation, Scott was met by a hostile group. Unarmed and unarmed he advanced boldly. The Hopis perceived that his mission was peaceful, and approached him, throwing aside their arms. There was the following conversation in the sign language.

"Wagons will take your children away tomorrow," Scott signaled. "Have them ready. What have you to say?" "If you order the children to do we have nothing to say. The children will be ready."

Settles Navajo's Troubles. Nobody had ever placated the Navajos. So when they rebelled against federal agents in 1913 it was believed that Scott would have little success in arbitration. But he had methods of his own. He left his soldiers in Albuquerque, N. M., and rode, unarmed, 150 miles to a buckboard wagon with chiefs were surprised to see him without weapons, and they discarded theirs. Quietly, he convinced the Indians that they were in error, and peace was arranged.

The Plute reservation in southern Utah teemed with dissatisfaction in 1914, and an outbreak was feared. Again Scott was called, and he brought peace out of the unrest. Shortly after the world war broke he was made chief of staff. Not long afterward he retired because of advancing years.

As an astute Indian diplomat he is today without a living peer. His success undoubtedly was due to his fairness. He was conscious that the Indians had reason for opposition, and since he first entered the service he strove to arrive at a just solution of the problem. He realized that the Indians believed they were justified in attempting to block the encroachments of the white invaders.

Understood Indians' Ways. "I have come to understand how their minds work and to comprehend their character," he once said. "Perhaps it is because I know them that I can do business with them. No could I describe Indian character off-hand. I would want to sit down and think about it. I'll say, however, that the Indian always believed he was fighting for his liberty and to protect his property. White men, when the matter is put that way, will sympathize, I think, with the red men. Liberty and property are just as sacred to the Indian as to anyone else."

"The old warpath Indian was worthy of respect. He was accused of being treacherous. I never knew of but one Indian scout who deceived the white soldiers he was leading. Another thing: Give any Indian a task to perform, and he will stick to it until it is done—he won't lean on his shovel, look at the sun every five minutes, or kill time in other usual ways."

Kolster Holds First Place in Sales in U.S. Today

What To See In Jamaica
Going to Market With Hand-Made Baskets.
In 1802, followed by disasters of fire and hurricane, its people, fearing further revolt of Mother Earth, moved to the mainland and established Kingston, with its great harbor, nine miles long and about two miles broad.
Kingston is the center of island activity from the standpoint of both government and business. The streets are clean, well ordered, and dotted with traffic officers, for even in this Garden of Eden the fiercest gasoline steed races its way about. The shops are many and varied, and those catering to the white trade have excellent quantities of merchandise, home-grown as well as imported, from England.
There is no bargaining in these emporiums, for the prices are fixed and fair and you are waited upon by grave-mined colored clerks who have all the savvy and dignity of a Regent street draper. It is a different story, however, in the cheaper stores, for in this stratum bargaining seems to be the natural order.
Visitors in foreign climes usually feel it necessary to visit the market place; why, no one really knows, but here it is worth while. The market women are a cheery lot, and while displaying their small stock of really tropical products—pepper pods, cocoa, sour sops, breadfruit, mango, pimento, and "blackcase" rope, as native tobacco is termed, together with a score of fruits and vegetables unknown except by name to the Northern visitor—they carry on a cross-dress of good humor. They can spot a Yankee with the eye of a sharpshooter.
All sorts of strange things are offered here, from a shabby-bibonee strung on metal and turned down until it is fashioned into a cane, lace bark whips—the butt and long-plaited lash made from one piece of wood—the horse-drawn cart is locally known, and ride out into the suburban area, where the odors of tropical fruits and flowers and the songs of brightly colored birds are welcome after the hum-moll of the marts of trade, and if interested in human nature one can learn much of the humble life of the island by encouraging the "Jehu" to talk. He is generally willing to do more than make fun of his island home.
We pass the lovely Myrtlebank hotel, fronting on the beautiful harbor, with its tropical architecture, its enticing gardens, shade, and creature comforts—both liquid and solid—and presently are driving up South Camp road. What lovely little villas and bungalows, each with its own rose-embowered gate and its own winsome name! Far ahead rises Blue mountain peak, back of you the azure Caribbean, to your right a broad main plain, and to your left the white and green capital city.
The sunshine is hot, but the doctor comes valiantly to your relief. Don't know the doctor? Well, every Jamaican loves him. For he is the fresh wind that blows from the sea to the Blue mountains every day—a sort of perpetual electric fan, whose breezes temper the white sunshine. At night the Jamaican capital, born of the small place—a cooling wind from the mountain. But the undertaker deserves no such inglorious name.
New Material for Winter
A charming new imported wool material is of fawn color with a pattern in deeper tones and gold threads. A coat and hat for the little girl of six are delightful when made of this material.
Fur Wrap
Beautifully manufactured Manchurian wendel skins fashion an evening cape that has a housed upper section and a tight, swathed lower portion.
Fur Lined Tweed Coats
An excellent coat for boarding school or college girls is a straight well-tailored model of the new small patterned tweed, lined with dyed coney and collared with Australian opossum.
Vestee Dress
A malign ring suggestive of the old Princes silhouette, has a polka-dotted vest in red and pink, for distinction.

A Few Little Smiles
AN IMITATIVE PET
"Well, you have the house all to yourself while Mrs. Peckton is away."
"Not quite," said Mr. Peckton. "I share the premises with Mrs. Peckton's poodle, who was left in my care. I'm afraid the impatient animal has modeled its behavior on that of its mistress."
"How so?"
"When I try to make myself comfortable with a cigar and a newspaper it eyes me with marked disfavor."
UNTHINKABLE
"She's so dumb she thinks the queerest things."
"I thought she was too dumb to think at all."
Get the Name Wrong
A man traveling to New York by automobile, being near the state line between Virginia and North Carolina, wished to know exactly whether he had crossed.
Seeing a negro girl on the side of the road, he called out:
"Say, is this Virginia?"
She replied: "No, sah; this here's Lucy."
Feminine Logic
It was dusk as she stepped at the roadside garage.
"I want a quart of red oil," she said. The man snaped and hesitated.
"Give me a quart of red oil," she repeated.
"A quart of r-r-red oil?"
"Certainly," she said. "My tail light has gone out."
Yes, It's Ended
"Don't you think, darling, it would spoil the curtains if I were to smoke in here?" asked Newward as he entered the drawing-room.
"Oh, what a dear, thoughtful boy you are. Yes, perhaps it would."
"Very well, then, pull me down."
Place, Not Parent
An English motorist was touring Scotland. One day, not being sure of his location, he slowed down to question a girl he saw approaching.
"Mother!" he asked hesitantly.
"Yes, sir, thanks," said the girl, "how's yer own?"

Golf Playing at Night
With Luminous Balls
It looked at first like a jubilee celebration as the stars after flare streaked the night horizon of Van Cortlandt Park golf course, New York City.
But these rocket-like streaks were nothing other than "luminous" golf balls being tried out by their inventor, M. J. Bloomer, scientist of Columbia University. These luminous balls keep their light for ten minutes after being hit from the tee, and thus, with the aid of electric lights over the greens, the night becomes as day to the insatiable golfer.
