Kenneth Primus In Chicago For Meet

Kenneth R. Primus, superintendent of Genesee Public Schools, arrived in Chicago, Illinois Wednesday to attend a four-day meeting of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations. The local educator represented the Idaho High School Interscholastic Activities Association at a meeting of the national federations's football Rules Committee.

Another Idaho man, E. F. Grier, of Boise, IHSIAA secretary, attended meetings of the federation's state executive officers group. The national organization was formed to set up standards for training, procedures and rules throughout the country.

Miss Bernadette Weber and brother Pat had as guests in their home over New Years week: Mrs. Ernest Rieseiner, of Spokane, Wash., Gale Smidt, her nephew, C. A. Hanwood and Mrs. John G. Meyer.

New Wealth Is Needed To Provide Idaho With Necessary Tax Dollars

Creation of new wealth to provide more tax dollars can be realized only under a state government that does not penalize our system of enterprise, Earl W. Murphy, secretary of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, said this week.

"Only through the creation of new wealth can taxpaying capacity be provided, and Idaho's new wealth must come very largely from the natural resources of the state," Murphy said in an introduction to a booklet of fact sheets prepared for distribution to members of the 1957 Idaho Legislature.

The statistical data, taken from State Chamber files that have been compiled during the past 30 years, summarizes and compares income and expenditures in recent bienniums as reported by the state auditor's office. Processing of Idaho's natural resources through the investment of capital and thence of labor, Murphy contended, "must be encouraged under a program of state government that does not penalize or inequitably burden any factor in the complex system of enterprise upon which our economy rests."

He said it was the State Chamber's belief that those in the Legislature will find strong support throughout the state for any move calculated to: Eliminate unnecessary functions of state government. Transfer to local units of government every activity that can be efficiently performed at that level. Encourage the investment of risk capital in wealth-creating enterprises. More equitably distribute the burden of paying for those functions of government that can be shown to be absolutely essential for our state.

In reviewing the recommendations of the Legislative Budget Committee of the 1957-59 biennium, Murphy pointed out that almost 90 per cent of the total general fund budget goes for education, public assistance, public health and penitentiary administration and public protection. "The balance of the general fund covers all of the other functions of state government financed by general fund appropriations," Murphy said. Because it is the general fund alone that for all practical purposes is subject to control by the Legislature, the often-heard plea to "hold the line" or "cut taxes" means that one or all of the major general fund appropriations must be held at current levels or reduced, Murphy explained. Even drastic cuts in the remaining 10 per cent of the general fund functions would produce only negligible results, he added. "The only alternative to drastic cuts in the major general fund appropriations is added tax burdens," Murphy said.

A. and the First Security Bank of Idaho, I. A. to promote and support education, scientific, religious and charitable enterprises. George S. Eccles is president of the foundation. Trustees include: J. L. Driscoll, Marriner S. Eccles, George S. Eccles, Marriner S. Eccles, and Willard L. Eccles. "These grants and scholarships are provided with an aim toward building character and leadership among the young people in this fast growing intermountain region," Mr. Clausen said.

'Lets Finish The Job' Is Slogan Of 1957 March Of Dimes Drive

The battle cry of 1957 March of Dimes will echo across the nation this January—LET'S FINISH THE JOB. The challenge of this inspiring slogan demands immediate organization of your community's volunteer ranks. The National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis is adding bold new programs to the basic ones that have brought the American people this close to the full victory over polio.

The basic goals to be obtained by the 1957 March of Dimes are: 1. VACCINATION—The 1957 March of Dimes will provide $10,000,000 to insure vaccination for all families who cannot afford the costs of polio prevention. Until adults as well as children get full series of three Salk shots there will be no national immunity against paralytic attack.

2. REHABILITATION—Special effort must be made to restore living freedom to patients disabled over the years by crippling attacks of polio. $5,000,000 of March of Dimes funds will be provided for a wide program of rehabilitation to see that all polio victims have full chance for recovery. 3. RESPIRATORY CENTERS—Five new Respiratory and Rehabilitation Centers will be added to the 15 strategically located units now demonstrating and teaching procedures and techniques for the rehabilitation of severely afflicted polio patients helping them return to useful productive living. 4. PATIENT AID—Funds must be available to pay expenses of hospital and other care for polio victims who need financial aid in whole or in part, regardless of age, race, creed or color. More than 80,000 patients stricken in earlier years need help to achieve maximum recovery. 5. RESEARCH—Grants to institution and medical schools finance investigation into the cause of treatment of polio and help science and victims of other diseases. Search for a more effective vaccine, the quest for improved methods of treatment and study of after-effects of polio must continue. 6. PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION—March of Dimes must continue to finance training of research personnel, physicians, nurses, physical therapists and others urgently needed to fight polio and other diseases. Modern treatment requires more professional hands and skills to help victims recover.

The foregoing constitutes the basic reasons why March of Dimes must raise $49,900,000 during the period from January 2nd to 31st, 1957 which is the campaign period. Recently, on October 1, while attending a regional pre-campaign meeting in Seattle, I had the opportunity to visit the Respiratory Center located in the King County Hospital. It was during this visit that the full realization came to me of what it meant to be a worker for the March of Dimes. At the same time it was extremely disheartening to observe the several victims of polio, some of them working very hard to even breathe. It certainly make a healthy person appreciate the fortune of not being in their place. It is certainly felt that we fortunate people are under a moral duty to do what we can for those who are not so fortunate as to contract and absorb the crippling effects of polio. We would like to have the entire county fully organized for the kick-off date of January 2nd. Len Bielenberg Latah County Chairman March of Dimes

More Than Ten Million Vets Get G. I. Training

Veterans' enrollments under four federal training programs have passed the 10,000,000 mark, Veterans Administration said today. The ten-millionth person to start training most likely was a Korea veteran, VA added, since World War II training programs virtually have passed out of existence. Since World War II, VA has administered all four training programs for veterans. The first-Public Law 16 vocational rehabilitation for disabled World War I veterans—began in March 1943. More than 612,000 disabled veterans received training under this during the past 13 years. Training ended for nearly all disabled World War II veterans on July 25, 1956, however, certain "hardships" categories continue in training. The largest program—the World War II GI Bill—was enacted during wartime, in June 1944. More than 7,815,000 have received education and training. This program also terminated on July 25, 1956. Public Law 894, providing vocational training to disabled Korea veterans was enacted late in 1950. Since then, 44,000 disabled veterans have received training. The fourth program—the Korean GI Bill—became law in the summer of 1952. In four years, 1,645,000 Korea veterans have received GI training. Under present law, veterans' training will run until 1968, at which time the program for disabled Korea veterans will come to a close. The Korean GI Bill for non-disabled veterans is scheduled to end in 1965. Contributed

State Department Of Highways 1957 Program Announced

The Idaho Board of Highway Directors announced through their Chairman, Mr. R. C. Rich, that Idaho State Highway Construction projects amounting to $60,528,000 have been selected for 1957 programming, of which $4,778,000 for 75.9 miles is estimated for the following projects in District IV, with headquarters at Lewiston. Of special interest to this community is the announced plans of the department to revise the railway crossing south of the Genesee junction. Both the Genesee Civic Association and the Genesee Merchants Association have been working to get the state to take corrective measures at this spot since 1955 when two students were killed there in an auto-train accident.

The board by this action has made these projects eligible for construction when plans are completed, right of way purchased and funds are available for contracting. This further provides authorization to the Department of Highways to proceed on the approved projects as fast as time and finances permit. Approximately one-third of this work will be placed under contract in 1957. The balance of this work will follow as quickly as possible. The 1957 program includes all projects from the previous years program which did not reach contract stage in 1956, and also new projects taken from the long range planning program. The program includes about $30,000,000 of projects on the Interstate System. Since design criteria was only established for the Interstate highways by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in July 1956, it is estimated that only about $10,000,000 of the Interstate projects will be ready for construction in 1957. The program also includes more projects on the Primary and Secondary systems than the Department of Highways will have ready or the Board will have the money to contract during the year 1957. It is necessary to have a program larger than anticipated expenditures to insure advance planning and programming for maximum efficiency of the Department and planning contracts for bids at the best time to insure lowest cost. It is impossible to be assured exactly which projects may be ready to advertise for bids on schedule due to: 1. Right of way procurement difficulties due to legal court litigation, since the Department must have clear title to all parcels before construction may begin. 2. Technical engineering delays caused by lack of road material sources and unforeseen delays in processing for approval by other participating agencies, such as U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, Counties, Railroads, etc. 3. Fluctuation of state highway user revenues as well as biennial federal matching fund allocations. It is for the above reasons also that of necessity more projects are included in the 1957 program than are anticipated will be completed during the calendar year, Mr. Rich said.

Insulation Vital to 'Cape'

A style of house that gets maximum benefit from insulation is the Cape Cod with attic converted to living space. Without insulation, these attic areas are too hot for comfort in summer and drafty and impractical to heat in winter. Properly and adequately installed in a Cape Cod, mineral wool insulation changes a small house into a roomy, comfortable home. To be completely effective, however, insulation must be installed in other parts of the "Cape" as well. As shown in the "profile" drawing of an average Cape Cod, the mineral wool should form a protective "blanket" around the entire house. Put insulation in all walls and ceilings which in winter allow close a heated room on one side and are touched by outside cold on the other.
Numbered areas in the drawing show areas of a converted "Cape" where insulation is needed for all-season comfort: (1) first floor walls; (2) ceiling over part of first floor; (3) knee wall in attic; (4) sloping part of attic ceiling; (5) attic ceiling; and (6) walls and ceiling of dormers.

OUT ON A LIMB
By Stumpy McCulloch
A worm met another worm coming up from the ground one day. "Gosh, you're beautiful," he declared. "I think I'd like to marry you."
"Doesn't a worm," was the reply. "I'm your other end!"
Bucking—that's when you cut a log into sections, you know—can cause a little trouble. Specially on steep ground—cause you have to be careful not to get the cutter bar caught in the log. (That's the open space made by a saw as it cuts through a log.) Before you start bucking, it's best to size up the situation.

Accordin' to Oof Hannibal, the elephant looked down at a mouse and exclaimed, "You're just about the puniest, most insignificant object I ever laid eyes on."
"I'm not always this little," the mouse squeaked angrily. "I've been sick."

Sometimes, while bucking, it's necessary to bore into a log. Other times, boring is the easiest way of doing the preliminary bucking in order to prevent a log from splitting. Sometimes fellers have trouble getting started boring, 'cause the end of the bar won't stay put where they want it. A good way to overcome this is by starting well under the lower quarter of the log, with the tip end of the bar and chain, then saw upward a short distance before the actual boring begins. By giving the bar a slight twist as you press your weight against the machine, boring will proceed without the bar and chain kicking out of the kerf.

If a log's resin' over a rocky ridge where the cut is to be made, boring will probably be necessary. Also, when stumps and other obstructions get in the way, boring ain't no trouble, really, once you get used to it.
"Do you realize," the city feller asked, "that you're resin' your newspaper upside down?"
"Of course I realize it," stumped Oof Zeke. "Do you think it's easy?"

OMAR WHEAT REWARDS ITS GROWERS

U. OF IDAHO—Omar wheat rewarded northern Idaho growers 60-fold during the first season the new variety was tried, Howard Roylance, University of Idaho Extension Agronomist, reported this week. He said 200 bushels of seed wheat resulted in a harvest of about 160,000 bushels. Omar was recently developed by the cereal scientists of the Northwest.

Twenty-three Idaho farmers grew 400 acres of this new variety in 1956. Fields total, comprising 17 acres, passed field certification inspections by the Idaho Crop Improvement association. Roylance said this ratio of success in certification is high. Rejections under similar conditions usually run 30 percent.

Plenty of Omar for further planting will be on hand for 1957 as a result of last year's crop. Omar is a red-chaffed club wheat resistant to all known races of smut. It is a high quality, soft, white variety. Dr. Orville Vogel, plant breeder at Pullman, Washington, who took the leading part in its development, offered a reward to anyone finding smut in Omar. Nobody has collected! In Idaho, the variety is adapted to northern counties.

Important Changes Social Security Insurance Program
The beginning of 1957 marks an important development in the Social Security insurance program. About 10 million members of the law; million will come under the law; any totally disabled children over 16 will start getting monthly payments; self-employed lawyers, dentists, and some other professional groups will have complete coverage under the program, and many farm landlords will be able to report their 1956 income from their farm. Social Security purposes in the production of farm commodity.
With the start of 1957, old-age, survivors, and disability insurance becomes a significant economic factor in the future of nearly every person in the country. Marlow Wootton, District Manager of the Social Security office in Lewiston, Idaho, said today:
Benefits at the end of 1956 are estimated to be $2,000,000 persons at the rate of $485 million a month. In 1957, the total number of persons receiving benefits will be 10 million. About 3 million will be aged 62 and over and 7 million women in the 62-65 age group have started getting monthly checks.

Members of the armed forces received gratuity Social Security taxes will be deducted from the pay of military service in World War II and up to January 1, 1957, but they made no tax contribution for this coverage.

About 200,000 self-employed lawyers, dentists, osteopaths, veterinarians, chiropractors, naturopaths, and optometrists were also brought under the law by the 1956 amendments. Since they are covered by the law in their first taxable year ending after 1955, they will get social security credit for their 1956 earnings. Along with the self-employed people who were previously covered by the law, they will pay their social security tax in 1957 at the 1956 income tax rate they file their 1956 income tax returns.

Contrary to the belief of many dog owners, a confined dog does not necessarily mean an unhappy dog. In fact, a properly confined dog is not only a happy dog, but is also a better person. The advantages of confinement are many. The confined dog does not annoy neighbors.

He gave the world faith in the American Dollar

The year was 1789. A new republic had been born. On the shoulders of this slight, dynamic, young man—32-year-old Alexander Hamilton, our first Secretary of the Treasury—fell the tremendous responsibility of establishing a national currency that could be trusted.

The task seemed unworkable. The country's currency was so poor that it earned the phrase "not worth mentioning." Debts owed by the Federal Government and by the 13 colonies totaled almost 80 million dollars—a towering sum in those days. The Government had practically no revenue, and its bonds sold at ten cents on the dollar.

But Hamilton was a man of vision and a man of action. His bold, new program to re-establish the nation's credit and giving America a sound dollar was based on three simple but vital principles:

That the public debt is a sacred obligation which must be honored completely;

That the nation must balance its budget by collecting enough taxes to pay its bills;

That we must have a sound banking system working for the public interest.

Thus were laid the foundation stones for making the dollar the best money in the world today. And faith in the American dollar is, in turn, one of the reasons for the great prosperity and economic growth of our country.

There is no finer way to pay tribute to this great American on this, the 200th anniversary of his birth, than by carrying forward the great tradition of these sound financial principles.

Money invested in United States Savings Bonds helps keep the dollar sound. Take advantage of this safe investment today. Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or invest in Bonds where you bank. You'll be helping to secure your own future and America's.

FISH AND GAME NEWS

Report Session
The Idaho Landholder-Sportsman Council will meet in Boise Friday afternoon (Jan. 11) to hear reports on farmer-sportsman relations during last fall's hunting seasons, and to make plans for this year's program. A closer tie-in with the hunter safety training program is planned as it is felt that the proper training of youngsters is hunting courtesy is closely allied with hunting safety.

It was reported last fall that thoughtless youngsters, usually un-supervised by adults, were responsible for a great deal of the damage of ill will charged against hunters and the Council invited suggestions from youth groups as well as adult organizations for improving the situation in this respect. Interested organizations and individuals were invited to attend the session which will be held at the state headquarters of the Idaho Fish and Game department, 518 First Street.

Rabbit Season
Cottontail rabbit season will remain open through Jan. 31, and hunters also may go out after coons, magpies, cougars, bobcats, raccoons, jackrabbits, snowshoe rabbits and a number of other unprotected species of birds and animals. However, all should remember that it is necessary to carry a valid license of the current issue when going afield with an unlicensed gun at any time in the year. The 1957 licenses are easily available in most parts of the state, and additional vendors are being supplied as rapidly as they comply with state accounting requirements.

Ice Fishing
Inquires coming in at the Idaho Fish and Game department indicate there is still considerable uncertainty in the public mind in regard to fishing regulations. If the water were to be open to fishing without ice, it is OK to chop a hole and fish through the ice. The same rules as to fishing on bags, limits, methods of fishing, etc. apply in both cases. Also it should be remembered that last year's regulations remain in effect through March 31. You can use them for a check list to find the 40-odd waters that are open to fishing for all or most species, as well as a good many others that will be open for whitefish fishing through Feb. 28.

Emergency
A good example of emergency treatment to benefit waterfowl occurred last fall when the Squaw Creek National Wildlife Refuge in Missouri dried up just as approximately a hundred ducks and nearly as many geese were about to take off over the area on their southward migration. Drought conditions were severe, and all waters on the refuge, which is an important station on that part of the flyway, were dry. In the emergency, wells were drilled and within a week water was transforming dry lake beds in resting and feeding areas for the waterfowl. The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service reports that some other refuges get all or part of their water from underground sources, but this is the first time such an emergency development has taken place. The next nearest resting and feeding area for the southbound birds was 250 miles to the south, which would have been a rather long stretch.

RATIO COUNTS START AS PHEASANTS BEGIN GATHERING IN FLOCKS

With most of the state's better pheasant range still relatively free of deep snow, the birds continue to feed freely in fields and weed patches but are beginning to gather in flocks, the Idaho Fish and Game department reported this week.

Robert L. Salter, game bird supervisor, said the annual sex ratio counts have started so as to take advantage of the birds' habit of concentrating in flocks during the winter. He said the counts will be intensified during periods when snow cover increases the concentration of birds and makes them easier to see.

He explained that the purpose of the count is to furnish a basic ratio to be used later with the crowing-count index in figuring the relative level of brood stock numbers. "We don't make these counts to find out if we have enough roosters," Salter said. "We know we have more than we need. But we need the sex ratio—that is, how many hens per rooster—each year so we can compute the new brood stock index each spring." He added that the "index" number shows whether the stock is up or down in comparison with previous years.

Conservation officers and biologists conduct the counts in connection with other duties. Salter said. "Trained observers are needed because the hens have a habit of flocking more closely together than roosters, and are more easily noticed than the more scattered groups of roosters," he explained.

"This often gives the casual observer a false impression that roosters are scarce, but officers use binoculars in a systematic examination of the area around each flock sighted and usually come up with a ratio of about two or three hens per rooster.

You just load your beautiful washer, set the dial and go about your other duties. So simple. To dry it's that simple again. Just load, set, and forget. SHORT ITEMS

CUT HEATING COSTS
Studies by the University of Illinois have shown conclusively that insulation saves heating fuel. The researchers compared identical houses, one with properly installed mineral wool insulation and the other without any insulation. They discovered that the insulated house cost less than half as much to heat as the one without insulation.

ROOF IS COLOR KEY
A house is built from the foundation up, but it should get its exterior scheme color from the roof down, color stylists say. Asphalt shingles, which come in many colors, including greens, blues, and browns, give many color consultants a "key" from which to plan harmonizing colors on the rest of the house.

RANCH HOMES BRIGHTER
Give the exterior of ranch homes a "lift" by painting panels in the trim and doors in bright accent color. The "ranch" is a panel door of non-dross pine made especially for modern ranch homes. It has three modern-sized panels which are ideal for the accent color treatment.

TITLE AVERAGE $46
The average title home improvement loan made by FHA during 1955 was $46, according to a report released by the agency. Average monthly payments were $14.83 for a three-year term.

FARM INCOME HIGH
U.S. farmers are reaping an annual estimated income of more than $12 billion, the best level in 2 1/2 years, according to the Department of Agriculture.

OLD HOMES OUTSELL NEW
The National Association of Real Estate Boards reports that for every new house put on the market in the U.S., two existing homes are sold.

SLUM FIGHTERS GET AID
The National Association of Home Builders reports that at least nine state universities have set up special departments to help slum areas clean up slums help improve housing conditions.

NATURAL WOOD POPULAR
A strong interest in natural woodwork contrasted with painted woodwork, doors and interior trim has been noted in interior decorating surveys undertaken by a Minnesota manufacturer.

DWORSHAK WILL ASK FOR MORE FUNDS FOR LEWIS-CLARK HIGHWAY

The allocation of additional federal funds for construction work on the Lewis-Clark highway will again be high on Senator Dworshak's project work list.

In a statement released this week Idaho's senior Senator said that he has begun laying the groundwork to request top priority for the allocation of federal funds for the Lewis-Clark Highway from the Bureau of Public Roads.

Dworshak stated, "I am planning to request funds as a follow-up to the initial allocation of $420,000 of Public Lands Funds we received last year. He added, "Due to the importance of the Lewis-Clark highway to North Idaho and in view of the work which has begun on the west end of the road, it is hoped that the Bureau of Public Roads will make additional funds available this next fiscal year to carry on the work. Contacts have already been made with state and federal highway officials and I have every intention of pursuing this project until it becomes a reality."

For the second time, a Federal court has determined that the Hoxsey medicines for internal cancer are worthless. In November, after a six-week trial in the Federal court at Pittsburgh, the jury returned a verdict that these medicines, in pill form, were illegally offered as an effective treatment for cancer. Immediately after the trial, the U. S. district judge signed an order of condemnation as charged by the government and ordering their destruction.

This action does not end the menace of this fake treatment, however. It merely means that which were seized for the Hoxsey pills, which were seized shortly after the opening of a second Hoxsey clinic at Portage, Pa., will now be destroyed. An injunction is being sought to stop further interstate shipment of the pills. Federal Food and Drug officials are taking every legal means within their power to protect the public from being victimized by this worthless treatment.

Learn the Facts
In the meantime, it is of utmost importance that cancer patients and their families, who may be planning local and state action, be made aware of the facts about it. All such persons advised to secure a copy of the public report which was issued by the Food and Drug Administration last April. They may do this by writing to the Food and Drug Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

Harry M. Hoxsey has continued to promote his method for more than 30 years, notwithstanding numerous local and state actions. Proceedings under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act did not appear possible until a 1948 decision of the Supreme Court interpreting the word "accomplishing" in the definition of labeling under the Act. An injunction suit was filed in 1950, and a decree finally issued by the Federal court at Dallas in 1953.

Thousands Deceived
Over the years, thousands of persons have been deceived by the false claims for the Hoxsey liquid medicines and pills. At the Pittsburgh trial there was testimony concerning persons who may have died of cancer as a result of reliance on the Hoxsey treatment instead of seeking competent treatment in the early stages of their condition.

The Government's evidence showed that alleged "cured cases" presented by the defense attorneys were people who either did not have cancer, or who were adequately treated before they went to the Hoxsey clinic, or who died of cancer after they had been treated there.

To the public, we merely say "See your doctor" when you suspect you have any of the danger signals of cancer, or any other serious illness or disease. Cancer can be cured when detected early—but rely on com-

SHORT ITEMS

CUT HEATING COSTS
Studies by the University of Illinois have shown conclusively that insulation saves heating fuel. The researchers compared identical houses, one with properly installed mineral wool insulation and the other without any insulation. They discovered that the insulated house cost less than half as much to heat as the one without insulation.

ROOF IS COLOR KEY
A house is built from the foundation up, but it should get its exterior scheme color from the roof down, color stylists say. Asphalt shingles, which come in many colors, including greens, blues, and browns, give many color consultants a "key" from which to plan harmonizing colors on the rest of the house.

RANCH HOMES BRIGHTER
Give the exterior of ranch homes a "lift" by painting panels in the trim and doors in bright accent color. The "ranch" is a panel door of non-dross pine made especially for modern ranch homes. It has three modern-sized panels which are ideal for the accent color treatment.

TITLE AVERAGE $46
The average title home improvement loan made by FHA during 1955 was $46, according to a report released by the agency. Average monthly payments were $14.83 for a three-year term.

FARM INCOME HIGH
U.S. farmers are reaping an annual estimated income of more than $12 billion, the best level in 2 1/2 years, according to the Department of Agriculture.

OLD HOMES OUTSELL NEW
The National Association of Real Estate Boards reports that for every new house put on the market in the U.S., two existing homes are sold.

SLUM FIGHTERS GET AID
The National Association of Home Builders reports that at least nine state universities have set up special departments to help slum areas clean up slums help improve housing conditions.

NATURAL WOOD POPULAR
A strong interest in natural woodwork contrasted with painted woodwork, doors and interior trim has been noted in interior decorating surveys undertaken by a Minnesota manufacturer.

WHEN HILLS WERE WHITE

When hills were white my darling drove you thro' the snow, in my lovely sleigh—with my dappled gray.

In the golden long ago— How sweet to re-remember We sat our love ablaze, With that pure delight—when the hills were white Back in the early days—

Sweetest of all the love-dreams Reclaimed from their wayward flight That are still the best—and I know you've guessed Are the ones—WHEN HILLS WERE WHITE.

Style Rules Color Choice In Any Home

Color choices in modernizing the exterior of an older home should be governed by the size and shape of the house, the climate and the neighborhood, says Beatrice West, home color stylist.

Here are four typical color schemes suggested by Miss West for popular types of houses. In all four, the color of the asphalt shingles on the roof serves as the key to other colors used on the exterior.

1. Colonial. A roof of pastel blue siding is complemented by gray-blue siding with white shutters and trim. The entrance door is painted deep blue to complement a "modern color scheme that maintains the traditional feeling," says Miss West.

2. Tall, boxy house. Black asphalt shingles on the roof make the house appear lower. White gray siding and charcoal shutters take emphasis away from awkward proportions and large size. The eye is focused on a carnation red door, keeping the visual center of interest low. White on windows and trim adds brightness.

3. Expansion attic. Dark green shingles will make the roof seem lower than it is, yet give the house color. Dark green siding, off-white trim and garage door, and a warm coral on the front entrance door complete the color harmony.

4. Ranch. A russet asphalt roof—a light shade which will make the house appear larger—is ideal, especially if the house is in a rural setting. Good colors with russet would be coral for sidewalls and light gray trim. An accent color of bright blue on the front door, window boxes and garage door make a house stand out effectively if it is set among trees and shrubbery.

IDAHO'S HEALTH

L. J. Peterson
Idaho Director of Health

Governor Smylie, in a statement last week, urged community action to develop polio vaccine programs for youngsters in all areas of the state.

All Idaho children are entitled to the Salk polio vaccine, the benefits of which are being demonstrated.

We heartily agree with the Governor, and we hope that the physicians, nurses and parents in each community will take whatever action is necessary to conduct community immunization programs and protect the children from polio.

Adequate Vaccine Adequate vaccine is available from the State Board of Health and district health departments for immunization of children up to 20 years of age.

This vaccine, purchased with federal funds is supplied without to all physicians requesting it. Sufficient vaccine is available through commercial channels to vaccinate persons in the 20 to 35 year age group—another group susceptible to poliomyelitis.

Board of Health studies during the past year have proven that the Salk vaccine is safe for use, and that it does develop protection against paralytic polio.

To assist communities in organizing local immunization programs, syringes, needles and other supplies are available through the Board of Health.

These were purchased with an appropriation by the last legislature, and are available to all communities that wish to conduct immunization programs.

Three Shots Needed One of the most important things determined by our vaccine studies is the fact that three shots of Salk vaccine studies is the fact that three shots of Salk vaccine are needed to provide maximum protection against paralytic polio. It takes a few months before antibodies to polio are developed in the body after vaccination—and one or two shots are not enough to insure maximum protection.

If vaccination is started now, most Idaho children will be immune to paralytic poliomyelitis by the next "polio season" which starts in July.

We urge all communities to start an immunization program—now—so that Idaho children can be protected from the threat of crippling poliomyelitis.

Idaho Geology Comes to Life

BOISE—Idaho's geology came to life last week. It was the subject of the first lecture in a course in Idaho history jointly sponsored by the Idaho Historical Society and Boise Junior College, but it was very different from the ordinary dry and dusty lecture on a dull subject, according to H. J. Swinney, director of the Society.

Instead of merely talking about ancient eras with long names, Dr. Lyle Stanford of the College of Idaho, guest lecturer for the first session, described the physical stage on which the great scenes of Idaho history took place. In doing so, he handed out to the class many examples of geologic formations. He also showed objects made from the various types of Idaho stone by early Indians, and pointed out that today's commercial mineral deposits and water and transportation channels had their beginnings in the ancient geologic past.

"All through this course," said Mr. Swinney, "we shall use the museum collections freely to illustrate the stories of Idaho's history and to tell our students how people lived and worked and played in the days gone by. We are going to teach history correctly but the cooperation of a college and a museum makes it possible to go at it in an unusual way."

Almost 50 people, nearly twice as many as were expected, registered for the course which is given at the museum itself, instead of in a classroom. Swinney said that this is only one of many educational activities planned by the Idaho Historical Society. The Society has often been in the news recently as a result of its expanded activities.

4-H Pig Project

Your assistant county agent John Moore reports that it is time for 4-H members to start pigs on feed for the Spokane Junior Livestock Show to be held in May. If 4-H members are planning to exhibit hogs at the show, they should have them on feed now or select them very soon.

In selecting hogs it is very important to choose "meat" type hogs. The meat type is medium in all respects. Pigs of the meat type are medium in length, width, and depth of body. They are heavily muscled in the hams, loin and shoulders. They are thick and firm fleshed. They yield a high percentage, about 50 per cent, of the carcass in the three least cuts of hams, loins, and shoulders. They use feed efficiently and gain weight rapidly. You will want to select pigs of this type for your project.

When you have selected meat type weaner pigs the next important item is the feeding and care of these pigs. Protein is the important nutrient for pigs at weaning. When pigs leave their mother, they lose an important source of protein—the mother's milk. The sow's milk contains about 35 per cent protein. This must be replaced by adding to the ration some feed high in protein from both an animal and vegetable source. Young pigs cannot handle bulky feed, so use a minimum of hay in the ration. The following formulas are suggested for feeding your pigs from weaning to about 75 pounds in weight.

Ration 1

Feed	Pounds
Barley	25
Wheat	20
Oats	25
Ground Alfalfa Hay	10
Meat Meal	5
Fish Meal	5
Soybean Meal	10
	100

Ration 2

Feed	Pounds
Barley	15
Wheat	30
Oats	20
Ground Alfalfa Hay	5
Meat Meal	15
Soybean Meal	10

Add: 1 1/2 pounds of a mineral mixture composed of 2 pounds oyster shell flour, 2 pounds steamed bone meal, and 1 pound iodized salt.

After the pigs reach 75 pounds in weight the protein content of the ration can be decreased gradually. There are rations set up for different weight hogs and you can secure these in the county extension office. Any of these rations can be fed either by the "hand-feeding" or "self-feeding" methods.

Extreme care should be taken at all times to prevent your hogs from becoming diseased. Sickness and parasites can set the pigs back so they might not make the weight requirements for the show and this also cuts into your profits. Animals need clean lots and shelters. A warm shelter free from drafts is important during cold weather.

Hogs need water. Don't forget to supply them with all the warm water they want. It is important to keep the water from freezing. Pigs cannot drink ice.

Selection, care, and feeding are all points to consider in raising hogs for show or market. If you have any problems or questions we at the county extension office will be glad to help.

MOTORISTS ADVISED BY TRANSPORT ASSOCIATION

Drivers who venture into snow-belt areas were urged by the Idaho Truck and Bus Industry to be prepared for adverse driving conditions and to cooperate with those who have the responsibility of clearing the roads by not obstructing their operations.

This advice was issued by Ray Trautman, Genesee, member of the Idaho Motor Transport Association in connection with the group's National Courtesy and Safety Campaign which is stressing Winter Driving Hazards during January.

Mr. Trautman stated that in some areas where heavy snows create traffic problems, the police stop all drivers and do not permit them to proceed further without putting on tire chains. This prevents drivers from continuing until conditions get so unfavorable that it is impossible for them to put the chains on.

"While this system may seem to be harsh," Mr. Trautman said, "it keeps many drivers from getting stuck and possibly endangering their own lives and impeding snow removal operations by abandoning their vehicles in the road."

"For much the same reason," Mr. Trautman continued, "many cities and towns are prosecuting drivers who bring snow storms if they obstruct traffic or interfere with snow removal, unless they are equipped with snow tires or are using tire chains. It has also been the practice in snow belt areas to ban all-night parking on the street to facilitate snow removal."

In conclusion, Mr. Trautman urged drivers who get stuck in heavy snow to do everything possible to get their vehicles off the highway before taking refuge.

OUTDOOR LIGHTING WILL MAKE YOUR FARM WORK LIGHTER

Good outdoor lighting and planned wiring pay you dividends these dark months. Additional yard lights and outlets provide greater convenience for the operation of portable tools to speed work and make the job easier. Good lighting reduces accidents and assures you of greater safety in the performance of those after-dark chores, and you'll have greater security against prowlers and vandalism. Good lighting also extends the number of productive work hours for completion of outdoor chores on short winter days.

Call The Washington Water Power Co. farm representative in your area right away. He'll be glad to assist you in the expert planning of a yard lighting system best suited to your needs. He will also explain how you can finance the project through Reddy Kilowatt's Wiring Finance Plan with payments added to your light bill in low monthly installments.

Local Ball Team Defeated By Troy

The inability to hit at the free-thrown line was a big deciding factor in the game as Troy came from behind in the final quarter to defeat the GHS Bulldogs 18-10 on the home court Friday, January 18.

The contest was close all the way with Genesee holding a one point lead at the end of the first quarter; trailed at the end of the second quarter, but it was the Bulldog's coolness that the free-throw mark that cost them the game as they could only manage a 37.5 per cent from that line, making 9 of 24 tries.

Troy out to average an earlier lead at the hands of the Bulldogs kept the game close during the first half. With the help of some spectacular with the individual series: G. Pederson, Town and Country 516.

Heavy Snows Blanket Territory Reaching Depth of 18 Inches; Temps Below Normal

Temperatures continued below normal and below freezing over last week and all of this week with liberal daily applications of snow falling on the area. The weather station at Moscow reported that 18 inches of snow, on the level, was now covering that city. This figure looks about right for the Genesee area, too.

Six inches, or more, fell in Genesee Tuesday night to bring the total to the 18-inch mark. The temperatures varied from high marks in the 20's to lows of minus-zero several nights. Almost without exception, until Thursday, the sky has been overcast on this bleakly blue and clear skies which produced a dazzling effect when reflected from the powdery snow.

The heavy snows remained loose and crumbly as they fell and the roads making the use of chains for the majority of drivers their necessary for drivers there.

Wayne Roach, with his diesel tractor, assisted George Anderson with the removal of snow from the main business section. Wednesday the snow has been piled in the center of the road, making parallel parking necessary in some areas.

Although schools in Tammany, Lapwai, Culdesac, and Lenore were forced to close due to the snow this week, the Genesee schools remained open except for an early closing Tuesday afternoon.

The weather forecasters didn't see much encouragement for future improvement. In fact, the best they could come up with is a promise of cooler temperatures.

Urban Hasfurther Is Victim Of Cancer

Urban Hasfurther, veteran of many a football and basketball skirmish at Genesee High School, lost his battle with cancer last Friday night, January 18.

The 29-year-old athlete died at 11:20 p. m. at Gritman Memorial Hospital. He had been fighting the disease since midsummer.

"He was a fine player," said Kenneth Primus, superintendent of Genesee High School. "He was definitely a college football material."

But Hasfurther, a strapping youngster of 210 pounds, was never to don a college football uniform. He began taking treatments for cancer soon after his graduation from high school last spring.

Hasfurther was on the varsity football squad at Genesee High in his freshman year. He played three years on the line and switched to fullback in 1955.

He was a member of the varsity basketball squad in his junior and senior years. He helped lead the team to the White Pine League championship in 1954-55 and the runner-up spot last season.

Urban was an officer of the G-Club, a high school athletic organization, manager of the school basketball team for two years and a member of the school's Future Farmers of America Club.

He was born Nov. 12, 1936, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hasfurther at Genesee. He is survived by his parents, a brother, Larry; a sister, Marie, and three granddaughters, Mrs. Wm. Theissen and Mrs. Ed. Hasfurther, all of Genesee. Theresa Hasfurther, all of Genesee. Mike Egland, Marvin Moser, and Jerry Johnson.

Burial was at Genesee Catholic cemetery.

Among those from out-of-town attending the services were Joe Padosch and H. A. Gaertner, cousin of Mr. Hasfurther, from Seattle.

Young Sledgers Warned on Using Dangerous Spot

City Marshal George Anderson this week warned the young sledgers of the community to use the designated hills for their sledding.

Anderson said that the hill by Paul Dinsen's home and by John Hoffuf's home had been blocked off to their sleds. Above all, the Marshal warned, do not let your children sled on hills that intersect with traveled streets.

All parents are urged to cooperate in this matter.

IDAHO'S HEALTH

by L. J. Peterson Idaho Director of Health

A recent editorial in the Lewiston Morning Tribune pointed out the basic role of public health in the life of a community. It is a fine job of it that we are going to quite several of its passages since they point out the role of public health in Idaho and the nation.

In stressing the basic distinction between PUBLIC and PRIVATE health programs, the newspaper editor is concerned with the prevention of illness and disease while private agencies are mostly concerned with the treatment of individual patients.

"It is the function of public health agencies, therefore, to foster inoculation programs to prevent such contagious diseases as small pox and polio from spreading or even getting a foothold. It is a public health function to encourage the treatment of public health to campaign for the extermination of disease-bearing rats and mosquitoes.

Private Physicians' Roles "Private Physicians on the other hand, generally maintain that it is their function and not the function of public health agencies to treat patients who become ill with smallpox or polio despite the best prevention efforts of public health agencies, who fracture fracture bones, suffer tooth decay or otherwise become ill or privately ill.

"The greatest cause of confusion involved here, however, is the tendency of many citizens to mistake the function of public health programs should this basic division of functions, although there are cases of overlapping responsibilities which sometimes create confusion.

"Commenting further on the public health and public welfare difference, the Tribune says, "Any suggestion that public health programs should be limited to those unable to afford the treatment naturally is private health treatment naturally is a threat to the basic concept of public health. No public health agency can plan a water chlorination system, protect only the poor in a community, nor can a polio inoculation program be a public welfare project primarily for those who cannot afford private inoculation possibly reach all children and thus stamp out this dread disease."

To Serve Everyone "Public health's job is to serve all the people-rich and poor alike. All benefit from the work of the health department in safeguarding milk, food and water supplies; controlling communicable diseases; and promoting good mental and physical health in many other ways.

As the Lewiston Tribune summarizes: "It is important that in the mind of Idaho keep steadfastly in mind the real role of public health. It cannot possibly be confused in its essential meaning with 'socialized medicine' except by the ignorant or the deliberate purveyors of misinformation. It must not be confused with

SHOULD WIVES GO BACK TO WORK? - IT MAY NOT PAY, EDITORS SAY

If you are considering joining the other housewives who are streaming back to work these days, here are some problems you'll have to think about, according to the editors of Changing Times, The Kiplinger Magazine.

If the main purpose is to add to the family coffers, a wife must have a job that will pay at least her expenses plus her taxes, and a net return that will make the job financially worthwhile. If she files a joint tax return she pays at her husband's top rate. If he's in, say the 26 percent bracket, roughly 26 cents of every dollar she earns will go to taxes. And so, the more her husband earns, the more she pays for the privilege of working.

DAD, DID YOU KNOW?

There are over 35,000 more pupils in Idaho schools today than in 1945-46. Because of this, more than 1200 additional teachers.

FISH AND GAME NEWS

All clubs and other organizations sponsoring hunter safety training programs are requested to send reports on their 1956 programs to the Idaho Fish and Game department as soon as possible. The reports are needed for filing with a general Idaho state report to a special committee of the Western Association of Game and Fish Commissioners. The reports should tell how your program was organized and conducted, the number of persons enrolled, what other groups cooperated with you, etc. The material will be used to speed up inter-change of ideas and to help develop more effective hunter safety training throughout the west. Also, it will give your organization and your home-working colleagues the pat on the back that they deserve.

Will West Guns

BOISE—Old guns of the Northwest are being made to tell their story in new displays opened in the State Museum in Boise this week.

The development of shoulder arms is shown in one case beginning with the flintlock muskets carried by the mountain men, and ending with the breech-loading rifles of the days when Idaho became a state. The story of Colt revolvers, which may have had more influence on the winning of the days when a firearm was sometimes more important to a man than his trousers.

"These two displays are part of our efforts to tell a story throughout the museum instead of merely exhibiting objects," said H. J. Swinney, director of the Idaho Historical Society. "Whether or not our visitors are interested in old guns, and find it fascinating to see these reminders of the days when a firearm was sometimes more important to a man than his trousers."

In order to complete the displays, the College of Idaho in Caldwell loaned several pieces from its extensive collection to the Historical Society. In preparing the display, unusual difficulties were experienced since two of the revolvers were stolen from the college and quickly recovered by the Boise Detective Bureau in the return of the guns within 24 hours.

Mountain climbers rope themselves together because there's safety in numbers—and then it keeps the same ones from going home.

A couple of Scotsmen were walking along a road and one was jingling something in his pocket.

His pal asked, "Jack, you must have plenty of money in there."

"Oh no," replied Jack, "that's my wife's false teeth. There's too much eating between meals in our house."

R. E. Nordby To Head Pioneer Association

R. E. Nordby, pioneer resident of the Genesee community, was elected president of the Idaho Pioneer Association at the group's mid-winter business meeting at Latah Hotel in Moscow Saturday. He succeeds Mrs. Elva Clark, of Moscow, who presided over the business session.

Over 100 pioneers were present at the day program, including a get-together dinner in the morning, a covered-dish dinner at noon and the business meeting and program in the afternoon.

Afternoon speaker was Dr. C. J. Brown, former member of the University of Idaho faculty and authority on Idaho history. A musical program was also enjoyed.

Taxes Are Subject For Civic Meeting

Oliver Espe, Tax Assessor of Latah county, was the principal speaker of the evening Wednesday, January 30th when the Genesee Civic Association held their regular monthly meeting at Evans Cafe. Mr. Espe spoke on the tax problems of Latah County and the state of Idaho, and briefly reviewed some of the tax bills pending in the current legislature.

In explaining the tax structure of Latah County, Mr. Espe gave a general break-down on the disbursements for tax purposes, explaining how this one hundred dollars was divided among the various state, county and city agencies.

The assessor also explained to the group how his office arrived at the appraisal values of real, personal, and other types of taxable items.

Personal property, Espe explained, is the largest problem in assessing numerous laws and depreciation tables. Each taxpayer can help in solving these tax problems, knowing your problems and becoming acquainted with the assessor's office.

When a person receives their assessment notices in June and feels they have a problem or question concerning their taxes, Espe informed the assessors office to call in immediately. He stated that the assessors office would wait until December when the dollar sign is placed on the notices. "The door of the assessor's office is always open," he said.

At this same meeting, Civic President Kenneth Primus discussed briefly the topic of school problems and some of the current problems that are facing Idaho schools.

The civic group went on record as opposing the Interim report of the Minimum Educational Requirements Committee, stating that some of the recommendations for changes outlined in this report would have a harmful effect on efficient operation of the one in Genesee.

Kenneth Primus Returns From Boise Ed. Meeting

Kenneth R. Primus, superintendent of Genesee Public Schools, returned to his home last Wednesday evening, January 23, after spending our days in Boise where he attended several meetings of various Idaho educational groups.

Sunday and Monday was spent by Mr. Primus meeting with the Board of Control of the Idaho High School and Interscholastic Activities Association. The group spent time with numerous Idaho high school athletic directors and worked at future state basketball tournaments. The state high school basketball Class B tournament will be held in Pocatello March 14-15. The Class A tournament will be held in Boise on the same dates.

The state tournaments will be comprised of twelve teams; two from each of the six Idaho school districts. Other meetings were attended by the Genesee educators at the State Secondary School Principals; State School Administrators; and a joint meeting of the House and Senate Education Committee.

Temperatures Dropped To 34 Below As Area Endured Seven-day Cold Wave

Sub-zero temperatures hung over the Pacific Northwest this week as the mercury failed to rise much above zero mark for over seven days. Other than the freezing cold that preceded the weather was not too bad, with the majority of days this week dawned on clear blue skies.

But it was the almost unbroken stretch of sub-zero temperatures that brought the discomfort to Genesee residents. Saturday night and early Sunday morning saw the mercury reach its lowest mark in several years. Unofficially, a low of -34 was recorded by Charles Mauch at 3:30 a. m. Sunday morning. According to all reports available, the temperature never rose above zero Saturday, at any time during the day or night, and thermometers registered a -26 at 8:30 p. m. Saturday night.

At 5:30 a. m. Friday morning, January 25th the low mark of -26 was recorded. For Saturday morning, the early Sunday morning, a low of -22 was recorded. Sunday morning saw the mercury reach its all-time low with the frigid -34. At 3:30 a. m. Tuesday morning, the temperature had reached down to -28.

The mercury started a slow climbing process Tuesday during the daylight hours with highs in the 20-above being recorded. Wednesday was beginning to shape up about the middle of the day, although the temperatures were much warmer than previous days.

By late Wednesday afternoon, the winds had increased in velocity and snow began to fall which together gave all the morning the snow had very much with us and had drifted the snow quite badly by over a week, and was noted that snow and ice was starting to thaw.

R. J. Nelsons Honored on Golden Anniversary

On January 13, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Nelson, of Genesee, and guests were entertained at the Spokene Clubhouse honoring their 50th wedding anniversary.

The hostesses were Mrs. Ben Johnson, Mrs. Howard Jones, Mrs. Gorman, Mrs. Burns Brigham, Mrs. Wesley Peterson, and Mrs. Glen Peterson. Other guests included Mrs. Lewis and Kendrick, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson's two children, Mrs. F. W. Wallen and Robert F. Wallen.

Wheel-Barrow Ride Will Pay Off Bet

The bet was made between the two teams sponsored by the Genesee Firemen and the Genesee Firemen. C. D. Manfre of the team and H. E. Bennett of the team agreed that the winner of the match between the two teams Wednesday night would be favored with a wheel-barrow ride Saturday morning.

Who would ride and who would push was quickly decided Wednesday night as the Genesee team, who had won eight out of a possible ten games and four points from the Firemen for four points.

That Manfre was awarded a free ride that Manfre was awarded to Roach's from the team include Clark Barker, Larry Spooner 171; T. Wayne Roach and H. E. Bennett.

After trailing most of the game, the GHS Bulldogs rallied to top Orofino 52-47 on Tuesday night in a close game.

The three granddads at the refreshment table, Renee Wallen served Miss Sandra Wallen and Miss Patty Nelson poured. Miss Gladys Jones was in charge of the guest book.

Genesee's Marv Moser opened the evening by visiting his field goal shortly after the opening tip-off and two minutes the Bulldogs held a lead. A full-court press, put into effect in the local squad about midway through the game, forced Orofino into the lead 16-10 at the quarter's end.

Changing their team completely several times in the second quarter, the Orofino squad still held a lead at the half time, 22-21 midway through the period. The game was fouling heavily in favor of the Bulldogs in the first half the Manfres family will be transferred to their new home and location in Florida.

On Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Teresa Griesser and Ted were dinner guests of Mrs. Frank Kamblitz. The game was tied twice in this quarter. Lawrence and Ted were in the final period, Genesee managed to slip into the lead and had a 42-41 advantage at the beginning of the final period. Long shots by guards Danielson and Nebelsieck helped to give Genesee the edge.

In the final period, Genesee managed to hold their advantage although they met with stiff Orofino resistance. Two free throws by Jerry Hamsey and a field goal by Gary Nebelsieck sealed the win with 19 points. While Floan of Orofino netted 18.

$36 MILLION BUDGETED BY WASHINGTON WATER POWER FOR CONSTRUCTION IN 1957
A record breaking $36 million has been budgeted by the Washington Water Power Company for construction in 1957, according to W. W. P. Kinsey M. Robinson, who said the coming year's construction expenditures will amount to about $200 for each of the company's 139,000 customers.

Construction of the firm's 400,000-kilowatt Naxon Rapids dam in West-ern Montana is now in full swing and with $23 million. When work is completed on Naxon the total investment in the project including transmission facilities, is expected to reach $84 million, Robinson said. This new dam will double the W. W. P. company's power production capacity.

V. S. Caselott, Palouse division manager for W. W. P., said that total construction expenditures in his district during the coming year, in-cluding the new Palouse Division Service Center, will total nearly $700,000. The bulk of it will go into substations and transmission line im-provements.

Over $2,200,000 has been allocated for general plant improvement, in-cluding $2,300,000 for the 1957 por-tion of the construction cost of the Ross Park new General Office building in Spokane. The Spokane River new service center between Pullman and Moscow to serve the fast-grow-ing Palouse division.

Approximately $400,000 will be spent in improvements and rehabili-tation of the company's hydro plants with $144,000 of this tagged for mod-ernization of the Post Falls hydro plant. $1,278,000 will be spent in ex-panding and modernizing the trans-mission network throughout the company's service area. $327,000 of this will go into the new Millwood substation. An addition $3,700,000 will be spent in completion of the 111 mile Lewis and Clark transmission line. Over $4 million will go into ex-pansion and improvements to the 7000-mile distribution network that is now serving almost 139,000 custom-ers and includes substations in this area. Major expenditures in new transformers to handle the increased load requirements.

The company's Clarkston water systems will get special attention this year with almost $157,000 bud-geted for improvements and ex-tension. A new sawdust and exten-sion system will be installed in the Spokane steam heat plant at a cost of $90,000.

Washington Water Power's con-struction budget for last year was $22,500,000. Commenting on the increase in the 1957 budget, Rob-inson said, "We are moving in to the customers are finding more and more ways to put electricity to work in their home, on the farm, and in the residential use of electricity and the nation we don't feel that we have even scratched the surface on the huge po-tential that this willing servant has. W. W. P. will be ready to serve its customers as their needs increase. We have faith in the future of the inland Empire and we are planning for that future."

POST HELPS WORK ON LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM
Idaho's Representative Gracie Post joined with twenty-seven other Democratic congressmen this week to lay down a legislative program for the new session of congress.

The group issued a statement calling for enactment of a host of measures in a wide field, including tax relief for consumers and small business, a school construction bill, ex-tended social security coverage and increased benefits, an improved farm program, housing aids for senior citizens, and increased minimum wage and unemployment compensation.

The group also proposed that this country take the lead in trying to end colonialism by offering economic aid to countries willing to give up their overseas holdings, and stated strong support of the United Nations.

In the field of natural resources, the group called for the abandonment of the limited "partnership" program of the Republican administration, and a return "to the historic resource development partnership between the farmer cooperatives, public power districts, private enterprise and the Federal government."

In signing the statement, Rep. Post said: "My work on the drafting committee of the Democratic National Platform Committee at Chicago proved to me the importance of telling the people exactly what the Democratic party stands for. I feel that helping to formulate and make public this legislative program is a forth-right way to begin my third term in the Congress."

The group said they felt a public announcement of a Democratic party program was necessary because "for the first time since 1848 the voters of the United States have been given the President-elect a Congress of his own-party."

They further stated they believed their program could be supported by a majority of the other Democrats of the House of Representatives, and "also by a majority of those voters among the citizens who in the last election voted to elect this Demo-cratic majority."

Northwest Democratic members of Congress, in addition to Mrs. Post, who signed the statement were Reps. Edith Green of Oregon and Lee Met-calf of Montana.

Contonant Season
Contonant rabbit season closed on Jan. 31, but hunters still may go out for other species of rabbit. This in-cludes snowshoe as well as both species of jackrabbits. Trail hunting of cougar, bobcat and raccoon, wild dogs is a growing sport in some areas, but hunters are required by law to keep their dogs under control and make sure they do not chase or at-tack any type of game birds or ani-mals, or any protected furbearer.

King Duck
The duck is still king of game birds in Idaho, though the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service reports that mourning doves have outnumbered ducks in the national hunting bag. In Idaho, we have been taking about half a million ducks and 450,000 pheasants each year, with mourning doves in third place at about 100,000. The national record in 1955 was nearly 19 million doves, as compared to 12 and a quarter million ducks. The dove is classified as a game bird in 29 states, and seasons are set within a framework established each year by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service according to the current crop of birds.

DAHO'S HEALTH
L. J. Peterson
Idaho Director of Health

One function of the State Board of Health which has been watched from all parts of Idaho, as well as Idaho's health has been our Youth Rehabilitation Program. When the 1955 Legislature created the Youth Rehabilitation Act, it assigned this program to the Board of Health's Division of Mental Health, which is making Idaho one of the first states to give legislative recognition to the fact that juvenile delinquency is a mental health problem.

The basic philosophy of the Youth Rehabilitation Act is to work toward development of the best possible services and resources for the prevention and correction of delinquency in Idaho.

In creating the Act, the 1955 Legis-lature formulated the framework for a program for development of child-eren, including establishment of a professional statewide field staff for investigative, counseling, detention and supervisory services for juvenile courts; planning and supervision for juveniles released from the Idaho State Industrial Training School; establishment of diagnostic and treat-ment facilities for development of child-eren; consultation to communities for prevention of delinquency and crime among youth.

When the Youth Rehabilitation Program was assigned to the State Board of Health, it was done so with-out an appropriation to implement the program. A Youth Rehabilitation Section was established within the Division of Mental Health, but because of a limited budget, the ser-vices, to date, also have been limited. Ray W. Wootton, Chief, Youth Re-habilitation Office, and the only full time worker in the section, has done an outstanding job in getting the program into operation and in assist-ing courts with the juvenile problem. To function more effectively, however, Research by the University of Idaho shows that it pays to use heat lamps in pig brooders because 25 percent of the losses usually occur in the first few hours after farrowing be-cause of exposure, chilling, and being crushed by the sow.

COOPERATION GAINED
The Youth Rehabilitation Act has made it possible for the Board of Health, through all of its facilities, to participate in a cooperative effort with local communities in the devel-opment of delinquency prevention and correction programs. This legislation provides a framework whereby all the courts in Idaho may have avail-able to them trained personnel to provide preventive and correctional ser-vices, including pre-hearing and pre-sentence social investigations, diagnostic services, probation ser-vices, and a program of coordinated use of the facilities of existing in-stitutions as well as supervision and help for children after release from an institution.

Delinquency prevention and treat-ment cannot be solved by one single group, but through the cooperative efforts of everyone in Idaho, the

But to dwell on memories of carefree days—
Mental catarracts of the long-ago—
Of varied emotions in sweet relays.
The "Now" forgetting, I turn back the clock—
Again I live as if 'twere yesterday;
And, remembering, spring the guarding lock
That holds the confidants of minds array.
The memory of glad times is exposed
While the tangible reposes in discard;
But the sentiments of the soul laid bare,

DAIRY CONSUMPTION TESTS AT U. OF IDAHO REVEAL INTERESTING FACTS

During the past two and a half years the department of dairy husbandry at the University of Idaho has been studying the effect of quality on the consumption of dairy products. Leader of the project has been R. A. Hibbs, assistant dairy husbandman in the agricultural experiment station. A sorority group, a fraternal group and agricultural college staff members have served as test panels.

Following is a summary of the findings to date: Tests with the student groups indicate that boys and girls prefer milk served at 40 degrees or lower.

Girls are more tolerant to strong flavors, such as rancid flavor, than are boys.

When both milk and butter were placed on the table on a free-choice basis, boys on the average consumed twice as much of both as did the girls. Cost, however, was a factor in this study as the university dairy department provided the additional cream and butter, above usual consumption.

With adult groups, mostly men attending luncheons at the Student Union, milk was consumed by about 60 per cent when they had to ask for it. Consumption increased to about 50 per cent when the water asked if they wanted milk. Approximately 93 per cent consumed milk when it was on the table at each place prior to the meal.

Butter taste trials in the homes of 42 families indicate that grade AA butter was consumed fairly well accepted but that normally grade C butter is found undesirable for table use.

$6,004,798 ALLOCATED FOR FARM LOANS IN IDAHO

The Farm Home Administration has allocated $6,004,798 for farm loans in Idaho during fiscal year 1957 according to information received this week by Senator Dworschak. The Senate will vote on the FHA to make operating and farm ownership loans.

Dworschak said that information supplied him by officials of the Farm Home Administration show that $4,750,000 has been allotted for making farm operational loans in Idaho during the current fiscal year. The Senator added that the FHA has also allotted $1,254,798 for farm ownership loans during this period.

Dworschak pointed out that $245,018 of the funds allocated for farm ownership loans in Idaho is authorized by Congress yet, but are contained in a supplemental appropriation request by the FHA which will be presented to Congress for action at an early date.

"The funds allocated for this fiscal year are $1,580 less than the total direct FHA loans in Idaho during fiscal year 1956," Dworschak said, "which amounted to $6,006,378." He pointed out however, that the 1956 figure included $388,010 for emergency loans which were made from a special livestock fund and $33,705 for soil and water conservation loans which were not included in the current fiscal year allotment figure.

FISH AND GAME NEWS

WINTER SURVEY FINDS GAME WINTERING WELL

Big game herds throughout the state have wintered fairly well so far, the Idaho Fish and Game department reported this week.

Levi Mohler, chief of game management, said a mid-January survey by field biologists found deer and elk still well scattered and foraging freely in areas which normally would be covered by deep snow at this time.

"Most of the game observed is in good condition, the herds have escaped the ills of close concentration, and the forage on critical wintering areas is still intact and ready to serve as emergency rations if necessary," he said.

He explained that winter is hard and grueling an ordeal for animals, but lethal only when extremely severe weather continues unbroken for some time. "After mid-January such periods of extreme hardship are comparatively rare, and this year our herds are in good condition to face any storms that do come," he pointed out. "We may still get enough snow to bring the snowpack up to normal without any undue harm to the game."

He said big game moved to winter ranges briefly during the heavy snow last fall, but scattered again as the winter allowed, and have remained in some localities, but the general picture is highly encouraging," Mohler said.

Reports from the various areas were summarized as follows: Ray Rogers, Moscow, reporting from northern Idaho, said, "Big game is still high and scattered. The elk on the St. Joe and adjacent Clearwater river drainages were recently observed at about the 5000 foot elevation level, which is well above the rivers. The whitetailed deer are now moving down the flats, following the recent heavy snowfall. Until that storm, deer tracks along most of the roads were few and far between. At this stage it seems almost certain that our big game will get through the winter in fine shape." Reporting from Lewiston, Elmer Norberg said, "Although the major elk movements in the Clearwater river drainage from summer to winter range have taken place, the animals are widely scattered within the general winter range areas. The animals are in good conditions as a result of the mild weather conditions to date, except for a few mature bulls which appeared to be in poor condition when observed following the mature bull elk in a normal accompaniment of the breeding season and is an annual occurrence regardless of range of weather conditions. Mohler explained that in southern Idaho, as reported by Roger McCormack, "the best forage production on winter ranges in three years, coupled with mild weather has thus far spelled out excellent wintering conditions for the big game herds. The animals have been scattered on areas that would normally be unavailable to them because of snow. This, in turn, means that the forage on the lower winter ranges has not been used yet, and will be available in case severe weather develops now."

McCormack also said most of the deer in the northern part of Owyhee county are still at or near their summer range, but there has been some movement of deer to their lower winter range in the southern part of the county. On both the Boise and Payette river drainages, both deer and elk have in general stayed off their critical low winter range up to this time, he reported.

PREVIEW OF SPACE TRAVEL WILL BE GIVEN AT U. OF I. TALK

A preview of space travel will be presented by Arthur C. Clarke, dean of present day writers of science-fiction, at a public events assembly at 11 a.m. Friday, February 8, in the Memorial gymnasium at the University of Idaho.

A famed British authority on space flight, Clarke will speak of "Our Future in Space." Clarke believes that space flight is of great psychological importance and will probably occur within our lifetime.

"The whole history of mankind," Clarke maintains, "has been the extension of our powers from the time we were savages in caves to the present age. You can't have a static culture. We have now explored the Earth, and though there is an enormous amount to be done here, we must have a frontier always ahead of us or we will lose much of our zest for life."

Clarke, who has written 15 books about space travel including a Book of the Month best seller, began his career by writing science-fiction stories for his school magazine. He has since contributed stories and articles to such magazines as Holiday, Reader Digest, New York Times and Saturday Review as well as to numerous scientific publications.

Following World War II and work with radar, Clarke entered King's college in London and was graduated with degrees in physics and mathematics with first class honors. He is chairman of the British Interplanetary society and a fellow of the Royal Astronomical society.

WWP TAX BILL INCREASE $50,000

An increase of more than $55,000 in Idaho property tax payments over 1955 was noted this week by the Washington Water Power Company which delivered checks to the tax collectors of nine Idaho counties for the first installment on a $1,122,215.77 tax bill for 1956 on company properties in Idaho. . . . Bonner county from a tax standpoint has a rather unique situation with power properties inside its boundaries. There are two power plants on the Clark Fork River, on opposite sides of the county.

Albany Falls dam, a federal project, is tax exempt. Washington Water Power's Cabinet Gorge plant, just inside the county's eastern limits, this year has a tax levy of more than $450,000.

This is almost twice the total amount of taxes levied by Bonner County on all taxable properties in 1950. . . . It is fairly evident that were it not for the free-enterprise ownership of Cabinet Gorge plant, each individual resident's tax load would be substantially higher.

NOTE: Public power propaganda experts say it is the public who actually pay these taxes. Yet it must be said in defense, that they are deducted from a business-managed utility's revenues. The question is this: Why can't public power plants, with their high rates — also paid by the public — pay their share of taxes?

TO PROTECT AGAINST WRONG CHOICES UNDER LAW

Protection against the wrong choice of beneficiaries under the new Surrogate's Act will be extended to guardians of children and widows' parents now receiving compensation for the Idaho agricultural experiment station by the Idaho potato producers association. These grants, totaling $18,000, have been approved by the university regents.

Under a $12,000 grant for potato disease studies, a full-time entomologist will be employed at the Aberdeen branch station. There he will work with Dr. J. D. Guthrie, plant pathologist, on leafroll and other potato diseases. The producer association grant will finance this new study during the coming two years.

"Since the basis for a sound potato industry in Idaho is high-quality, disease-free seed stock, this new research on the leafroll disease is of great importance to the industry," explains Dr. R. D. Ensign, associate director of the university's agricultural experiment station. The leafroll disease has spread at an alarming rate during the past two years.

Under the new cooperative program with the producers association, work will be concentrated at the Teton branch station. The association has made a $6,000 grant for this activity during the coming year as a half of the foundation seed stock program is of paramount importance as the basis for Idaho's potato industry."

Ensign observed that only presently known methods of controlling many of the diseases in potato fields is the use of disease-free seed stock.

DAD, DID YOU KNOW—

State appropriations for education have increased in the last decade, yet the state is now contributing a smaller percent of the total cost than it did nine years ago.

Widows who have more than one child should put off their election until they receive information from the VA as to the exact amount of the new benefit and whether it exceeds the amount of monthly benefits now being paid.

Generally, VA said, dependent parents will find it to their advantage to continue to receive death compensation rather than to elect the new benefit.

Man, it's chilly down in my neck of the woods these days. It's so cold the wind is howling about my ears. It's a real nuisance. I'd like to see you get a house as warm as mine in the summer when you complained about it!

But the winter months give me a little time to work on my wood lot. These days I'm cutting a few trees for the local pulp mill.

Amazing things are happening in the lumber industry these days. For the lumber industry there are about 4000 wood derivatives, which are used in such widely scattered products as asphalt shingles and vinyl ice cream!

Today, they tell me plywood is the fastest-growing building material in the country. New plywood products include low-priced particle board, which is made from chips and shavings, and plastic-coated plywood with color patterns. These new products are resulting in the demand for lumber, and raising the price we tree farmers can get for our trees!

But that's not all. A lot of companies are now packaging their products with a special kind of paper — which provides protection against moisture, fire, and rodents — instead of drums. Others are using aluminum cans instead of wooden crates.

As one fellow puts it, the lumber industry is growing fast because of man's resourcefulness in finding a better income from our tree farms and wood lots!

"Dagnabbit, young fellow," Or Ezra spluttered, "why did you call me this stuff was toothpaste?" "Cause it is toothpaste," the drug-sit said.

"No, it ain't," said Ezra. "I tried for half an hour this morning, and I'll be darned if it would make my teeth stick!"

Public showing of the new paintings began Tuesday morning at 10 A. M. and will continue until 6 P. M., according to H. J. Sarver, director of the Idaho Historical Society.

OUT ON A LIMB By Stanway McCulloch On a trip to London last summer, J. Hannibal visited the battered battleship USS Oregon in many famous bays. An English sailor escorted Hannibal aboard, and as they approached the raised, was under deck, the feller removed his cap.

"Er, sir," he said, "is the spot where Nelson was killed?" "Oh, is it?" replied J. Hannibal. "Well, that ain't surprised I. Nearly wiped out the damned thing myself!"

Young Sam, down the road, asked me the other day how he sought to protect his property during periods when he's not using it. That's a good question, I reckon, for all us tree farmers. For this lot owners to consider, "Cause proper care will assure better performance from the saw."

Before storing the saw, I always clean the outside of the engine with solvent, removing all dirt and sawdust, especially around the cylinder fins. I check screws for tightness and replace any worn or damaged parts.

Then I drain the fuel tank completely and refill it with an especially light fuel mixture. For this special mixture, I use only half a cup of oil to a gallon of gasoline. This allows for easy starting in the carburetor. Then I start and run the engine for 30 seconds to fill the fuel system. This regular fuel mixture must be used in the tank-refilled with normal mixture!

Then I remove the spark plug, pour an ounce or so of 20-weight oil into the cylinder, turn over the engine by hand a few times to allow oil to coat the cylinder walls and replace spark plug. Then I clean bar and chain, and lubricate with oil. If the sprocket, bar groove or guide rail is worn the saw should be taken to a dealer's for repair.

Lately, I open the breaker box; remove dirt and moisture; and make sure the cover gasket is in good shape. I also make sure the gear case has plenty of lubricant to protect the gears during storage.

I find a little pre-storage care for my saw makes it last longer and work better!

Go to run along now! See you soon!

Windows Add Style, Color To All Homes In architectural circles, the question occasionally arises: Why not build a house without windows?

The reasons are obvious. A house needs windows for light, air and ventilation. No amount of artificial lighting can replace sunlight. Even air conditioning is no substitute for a spring breeze. And since his cavew-dwelling days, man has had an inherent need to gaze outside.

Less obvious, however, is the fact that windows are also one of the best decorating elements a house has. Various shapes, sizes and styles can enhance the architectural design and color the interior. The overall decorating scheme both inside and out.

Wood windows offer architects and home-owners both these advantages. Because they are made of natural materials, they can be painted when new to harmonize with color plans, then repainted to improve the overall decorating scheme both inside and out.

Changing exterior colors for windows, the home-owner should observe a few points of caution, according to Practical Woodworking, a magazine published by the National Woodwork Industry Association. Windows, the magazine says, should be painted with light-colored colors which harmonize with the roof, trim and siding.

Windows, the magazine says, should be painted with light-colored colors which harmonize with the roof, trim and siding. Light colors should be reserved for focal points, such as on the panels of a modern panel entrance door or on a window box. One exception, Practical Builder says, is in picture windows, which frequently are painted in a dark color.

The color of windows inside depends primarily on the size of the window and the home-owner's taste. A room can be made to appear larger by painting windows the same color as the walls. On the other hand, painting the windows in a contrasting color will make them stand out. Considerable soft warmth can be added to a room by staining the clear ponderosa pine in one of a number of shades from mahogany to the natural wood grain.

Commercial Salmon Fishing on Columbia to Be Cut The closure of commercial fishing on the Columbia river above Bonneville dam will become official as soon as published copies of the 1957 Oregon regulations are filed with that state's secretary of state, according to word received from the Oregon Fish Commission.

Ross Leonard, Idaho Fish and Game director, said the restriction is expected to benefit the escapement of the salmon and steelhead runs which come to Idaho to spawn. Leonard said the Oregon commission also has announced its intention to seek authority from its legislature to make emergency regulations on the Columbia by shortening present hearing and publication requirements. He said the Washington state fisheries director already has authority to adjust commercial regulations on the Washington side of the river on short notice.

Leonard said the Oregon commission advocates the change in procedure to enable it to meet unforeseen shifts in the timing or abundance of anadromous fish runs in the Columbia river.

SKIN AILMENTS
by E. M. GILDOW, D.V.M.
Skin ailments in dogs are as numerous as those in humans. They may be simple irritations, or they may be caused by cuts in the skin, or by infection with bacteria or fungi. Irritation may be caused by callosities, burns, chemical irritation as from lime, acid, or from irritant antiseptics, or from too frequent bathing with or without the use of irritating soaps. On the other hand, the cause may be more difficult to determine such as hormone disturbance.

turbances, allergic dermatitis from contact with certain allergic producing substances, from occasional internal or external medicinal treatments or from specific foods, from skin tumors, bacterial infections, fungi (ringworm), mange, lice and fleas. This large group of causes of skin ailments may be confusing to the dog owner. However, one can treat the simple ailments and call the local veterinarian for help if the trouble is severe or persists. Minor skin injuries can be cleaned with mild soap and water and treated with a healing powder. One of the commonest causes of summer dermatitis is the common flea. This dermatitis consists of itching areas on the back above the tail, over the shoulders, or on other areas. It is associated with a moist exudate or discharge or a bald spot with thickening and sloughing of scabs or dandruff-like material. Control of fleas and simple treatment of the area involved will usually control this skin ailment.

Feeding Tips: Dogs, like children, often prefer to eat their vegetable, meat, and potatoes. Your dog will be better nourished with a complete dog food like Friskies.

FISH AND GAME NEWS

BEAVER PRICES UP
Idaho beaver pelts brought prices as high as $28 each at a recent sale in Denver, and the whole consignment averaged $11.70 each. This will be good news for fur-trappers who went ahead and trapped their allotments in spite of the low prices then in prospect, though prices are still far below what they have been. Reports from the sale said the Idaho pelts brought considerably more than the pre-auction estimates, and totaled approximately $21,500 for 1839 pelts. Colorado pelts offered in the same sale averaged $7.17 each, Wyoming's averaged about $6.90, and those from Utah averaged about $6.60.

Arrests
Waterfowl cases made up half of the January arrests report, as might be expected, since many of the cases were holdovers from December. Fifty-seven cases were processed during the month, 29 of them being based on waterfowl counts. Also processed were 10 wrong-license-class cases, 6 for carrying an unexpired gun in the field without a license, and 12 other miscellaneous cases. Fines totaled $1124, half of which remained with the counties concerned.

Wildlife Stamps
The 1956 series of Wildlife Stamps issued by the National Wildlife Federation follows the "Wildlife Home" theme which also is the theme for National Wildlife Week this year. The stamps are made from paintings by the artist, and the proceeds of their sale support the Federation's Grant-in-aid scholarship program and other activities. For the past several years Idaho has received about $800 a year to be applied to teacher scholarships in the conservation work program. Anyone interested in knowing more about the stamps should write to the Wildlife Home, 222 Carroll St., N. W. Washington 12, D. C.

WATERFOWL MIGRATION SLOWED BUT WEATHER IMPROVING

The 1956 fall migration of waterfowl was generally normal, but hunting weather was so infrequent over the state that the season will be remembered as only fair to poor, the Idaho Fish and Game department said this week.

Robert L. Salter, game bird supervisor, said information gathered for the quarterly Pacific Flyway report indicates that there were no striking departures from normal. He said statistics on the number harvested will be furnished by the hunter questionnaires that are currently being processed and tabulated. He explained that Idaho hunters take about half a million ducks each year, and the total takes in "poor" years may actually equal the harvest in years when the hunting seemed to be better.

10 YEARS AGO
In the five northern counties the waterfowl migration was similar to recent previous years, except that boundary county had fewer birds than the bumper numbers found in that county in the early part of the 1955 season. Hugh Harper, the biologist, reported. The migration began in Idaho coinciding with fall storms in adjacent Canada, caused many of the birds to linger in Canada. The weather in Canada did not become severe, the birds seem to have moved through northern Idaho without any buildup of numbers. In general, the Pend Oreille, St. Joe and Coeur d'Alene drainages have normal numbers of birds, but the north central area had one of the poorest seasons for at least the last five years. Prairie regions north and south of the Clearwater reported fewer ducks than ever before. Except for about four windy and foggy days in the Lewiston area, waterfowl hunting success was very poor.

FORESTER TO RETIRE WITH THIRTY YEARS SERVICE

Ogden, Utah—Paul D. Kemp, forester with the Intermountain Forest and Range Experiment Station at Missoula, Montana, will retire Feb. 28, announced Reid W. Bailey, Director of the station with headquarters in Ogden, Utah.

Kemp has spent his entire professional career in the forests of the West. Entering the U. S. Forest Service in 1926, he served first on timber sales work in the Rocky Mountain Region in Wyoming. Four years later he was transferred to the Pacific Northwest Forest and Range Experiment Station at Portland, Oregon to supervise field work on the Forest Survey in Washington and Oregon. In 1937 he was placed in charge of the field inventory phase of the Forest Survey at Missoula, Montana.

During his career, Kemp has developed and improved some of the mathematical tools that foresters use in timber survey work. Many of the techniques and techniques he helped develop assisted materially in the recently completed National Timber Resources Review. POCATELLO CHAMBERS FAVOR STATE SALES TAX

The Board of Directors of the Pocatello Chamber of Commerce has voted without dissent for a two percent general retail sales tax as the best way of solving the state's financial problems, Utah.

Fourteen of the eighteen members voted, with four absent. The Board stated it favored a sales tax because:
1. It would permit immediate reduction of property taxes.
2. It would permit reduction of state income tax.
3. It would meet the revenue needs of the state, and if collected and distributed by the counties, would relieve property taxes, and meet needs of the schools.

Any alternative, such as a result of a retail sales tax, would multiply with each transaction, and consumer money in the end that would be lost to the state.
4. The sales tax is the only one relieving property tax that is not levied by increasing all present taxes, without compensating for a new industry from coming into the state.
5. Increasing the income tax would reduce the effect of driving business and industry away instead of creating an atmosphere of investment to new business and industry.

Home Improvement Loan Can Be Good Investment
Borrowing money to make improvements in a house can be a good investment for most homeowners. Improving the design of a house by remodeling or adding convenience features usually increases its market value, makes it more comfortable, improves the neighborhood, and in many cases reduces operating costs. For example, insulation correctly installed can cut winter fuel bills as much as 40 percent. Mineral wool insulation can be blown into the walls and ceilings of virtually any house, or installed in the form of batts or blankets.

Roof Adds Color
A new roof of asphalt shingles adds to the value of the house in two ways. First, it gives you protection to all the rest of the structure and to the interior. Second, in keeping with the trend to colorful modern design, asphalt shingles in a color that improves the appearance of the house.

Re-write Mortgage
Supplemental or re-written mortgage. If the homeowner doesn't have an open-end mortgage his bank offer will extend an open-end mortgage to a second mortgage with the first mortgage rate without re-writing the mortgage. Monthly payments are increased slightly or the time for repayment is lengthened.

Who has replaced the vamp?

She's as extinct as the dodo—this sultry vamp of the '20's. She went out with black silk stockings and "Yes, We Have No Bananas!" And she's been replaced by a much more exciting young lady.

The heroine of 1957 is quite a gal. Without sacrificing a single feminine charm, she has tossed away fuss and feathers and taken on new jobs and new responsibilities. She can paint a kitchen and be fresh and frail an hour later in nylon tulle. She can manage a confetti and raise a family without diapers. She knows as much about local, national and world affairs as her husband. Usually does more about them.

Often she helps earn the family income—always has a big savings plan spending it. And whether or not a family has a regular savings program depends a lot on her. She's the mainstay of our community.

That's why so many women are helping their husbands get started on a regular U. S. Savings Bond investment program. They appreciate the feeling of security that such a program guarantees. They know that U. S. Savings Bonds are one of the best investments a family can make. The principal invested in Bonds is safe—not subject to market fluctuations. And the returns are sure.

If you're one of today's efficient, modern young heroines, undoubtedly you take an active interest in your family's future financial security. Remember—one of the best ways to do something about it is to encourage your husband to start investing regularly in Savings Bonds today.

Comfort Poured Into Home

Even if you're a home-owner who's all thumbs with tools, here's one way you can get your finger into the do-it-yourself pie: Insulate the attic floor of your home with "pouring wool," which comes in big paper bags. This is one of the rare jobs that the house that doesn't require any tools more difficult to handle than a garden rake and a couple pieces of board. The procedure—so easy even the wife and children can help—is to pour mineral wool out of the bags into the space between the floor joists, rake it out to an even depth and smooth it with your hands. The wool should be leveled out to an even six inches in depth. If you deviate from this thickness, it's better to use more wool rather than less, for wool insulation thickness is what counts. Batts or blankets of mineral wool also can be installed in walls with a minimum of tools. For attic areas you'll need a knife to cut the wool to fit and blankets are installed in walls and attic ceilings with a staple gun.

IDAHO'S HEALTH
by L. J. Peterson
Idaho Director of Health

Even though most of the so-called "dread" diseases—cancer, polio and the like get most of the publicity, one of the nation's largest health problems today is dental disease. And it's the most preventable of proper care and regular check-ups.

Parents should remember that the time to develop good dental health habits in their children is when these children are young. A little extra effort now might prevent your child from suffering the rest of his life. Teeth through the rest of his life. The three guide posts to better dental health are not difficult to remember, and not difficult to do, if they are highly important to your child's health and future.

These guide posts are:
(1) After the age of three, take your child to the dentist regularly, at a minimum of sugars and carbohydrates.
(2) Teach your child to brush his teeth immediately after eating. It is important for a child to have his teeth, as good teeth will aid him in eating, in health, in appearance, in clear speech and in success in work and play. Proper chewing in healthy condition, are needed for eating. Decayed teeth may lead to infection that travels to other parts of the body and could also cause toothache which often means loss of sleep, and fatigue.
(3) A smile is a picture of good-will and happiness, but it becomes ugly picture when teeth are missing, broken, dirty, badly decayed or irregular.

Home Improvement Loan Can Be Good Investment
Veterans may allocate a part of their GI mortgage entitlement for home improvement. Since the government insures the loan, interest rates generally are lower and the loan is easier to obtain. Up to $5,500. A FHA-insured loan. New regulations make it possible for a home-owner to borrow up to $5,500 for home improvements. The repayable in five years. The Federal Housing Administration permits loans of houses less than six months old. "Own plan" loan. Many banks, savings and loan societies and trust companies have their own loan plans for home improvements. Interest rates may be higher than for a FHA-insured loan. Open-end mortgage. Many mortgages have "open-end" clauses permitting home-owners to borrow additional funds at the same mortgage rate without re-writing the mortgage. Monthly payments are increased slightly or the time for repayment is lengthened. Re-write mortgage or re-written mortgage. 20 YEARS AGO
Well, sir, I made a lot of New Year's resolutions this month. That's something that goes in one year and out the other, you know! Oh! Hummel says the only way to keep a resolution is to lock it up in the woodshed!

But there's one resolution I aim to keep this year. I'm going to keep talking to you folks about tree farming, forestry, and wood management, about our national parks and our natural resources. I'm mighty proud to count you among my readers, and I hope you'll feel free to drop me a note some time. Jest write me, Stumpy McCulloch, at 6101 W. Century Blvd., Los Angeles 45, California. That's where I get my mail.

What's the oldest living thing? For a long time, botanists thought the oldest were the gigantic, beautiful Sequoia trees of the High Sierra, which are as much as 3000 years old. But recently a fellow who studies climate by analyzing tree rings found three bristlecone pine trees in California's White Mountains which he says are at least 4000 years old!

There's one thing about planting a crop of tree seedlings—they sure don't require much management! You just let them grow till it's time for the first thinning, which may be several years after planting. But it's mighty important to protect seedlings from fire and livestock. In large forestlands, it's the woods and along highways. And firefighting equipment should be placed strategically throughout the stand. But for smaller woodlands, it's a matter of keeping grass and brush fires from spreading to timbered areas. When wind is blowing, never burn fields adjacent to woods!

My neighbor Ol' Ezra has been planting pecan trees. He says pecans and other nut trees are mighty profitable. A pecan will grow to maturity in five or six years, Ezra tells me, and begin to return some income. Scotch pine and balsam fir are good money-makers, too.

"Do you have trouble making decisions?" the psychiatrist asked. "Well, yes and no," the patient replied.

So long, folks. See you soon!

FISH AND GAME NEWS

Whitefish Ready
The long cold spell that immobilized practically all of the fish life in the state finally broke in time for fishermen to have a chance at the whitefish in waters where special seasons are open for taking this species the rest of this month.

One of the study aids used by Bjorn at the university is a scale projector which enlarges a tiny fish scale to about a foot in diameter. With the large picture, he can easily determine the age and growth of a fish by checking scale rings which look similar to those of a tree.

Unlike the tree ring which records a single year's growth, there is a ring on the scale for each time a fish grows. A year's passage is recorded where the rings of the scale come together. By the number of growth rings on a scale, Bjorn can determine if the fish was healthy and had plenty of food.

The wildlife research unit at the university will serve as an information backlog to be used in solving future problems concerning both sports and commercial fishermen.

Waterfowl Census Totalled 392,140

The Idaho portion of the North American waterfowl census this year counted 392,140 birds wintering in the state the Idaho Fish and Game department said this week.

Robert L. Salter game bird supervisor, said this is about 90,000 over last year's number, but the difference may be meaningless, since local weather or water conditions often cause large shifts of wintering waterfowl populations from year to year.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service cooperates with local agencies in conducting the survey about January 1 each year, and all important wintering areas are covered at the time to avoid inaccuracies due to such shifts, he explained.

The report shows 371,561 ducks were counted in the state, including 302,569 mallards, 17,612 goldeneye, 10,740 baldpate (widgion), 9,045 pintail and smaller numbers of 11 other species.

The 8862 geese counted included only three snow geese, 226 whistling swan, 328 trumpeter and 11,165 coots completed the survey.

Salter said the Idaho survey was completed by a ground crew of 50 men, plus a flight crew that covered the larger water areas, 26 hours and 35 minutes of time. The work was done from Jan. 3 and Jan. 10.

FASHION AUTHORITY DISCUSS SIZING, DESIGN AND COLOR

Latah County Women will have an opportunity to attend a special demonstration on home sewing by Mrs. Jane Simplicity Pattern Co. at 1:30 P. M. February 28, Conference Room 8 at the Student Union building on the University of Idaho campus. Her talk will include a demonstration of how to determine the correct pattern size for various adult figures—the prime requirement for making a well-fitting garment. Incidentally, Mrs. Scott is herself an example of a perfect half size figure.

Other subjects of interest to be included in her discussion will be: how to choose various figure styles becoming to various figure types and suitable fabrics and colors for each. Diagrams and charts will illustrate some of the features Mrs. Scott will point up. She will also show new types of fabrics and will give suggestions for accessorizing your wardrobe.

Mrs. Scott travels all over the U. S. working with adult groups. Her program was originated by the Educational Division of Simplicity Patterns for women's groups, Extension Service people, Home Demonstration and County Agents and Clothing Specialists.

Mr. She has had extensive experience in the educational field where for 12 years, she worked closely with students, right in the clothing classroom. On these visits to schools, Mrs. Scott presented simple-to-make patterns for beginning sewing students, pointing out the features which make them easy to sew. For the past five years she has traveled for Simplicity, working in various states in the cooperation of the U. S. Extension Service.

When in New York City, she also acts as official hostess for the Simplicity Pattern Co., receiving educators, clothing specialists and home economists from all over the world when they visit the work rooms and design studio of the company. She also serves in a liaison capacity between the New York Board of Education and the Pattern Co. Mrs. Scott is being sponsored by the Latah Co. Home Demonstration Council.

TV Adds Spice to Cooking

Here's food for debate in the kitchen—TV or not TV?

Television in the kitchen? Many housewives (and their husbands) would object strenuously because of the distracting influence TV could have in this "work" room. But other vision savers are sure to hail kitchen television as a morale booster, and point out how ideal it would be for cooking programs and shows on the subject of the home. The efficiently designed kitchen pictured above would find many women in delighted agreement. The handy telephone saves countless steps and the sliding windows afford a view and let in plenty of light and air.

The spotlights over the counter area are vision savers at night and the double sink of stainless steel is efficient and easy to clean. An overall atmosphere of brightness is provided by the cabinets of ponderosa pine which are stained and painted to add a touch of color.

around the house. So it's a good idea to check your kitchen, bathroom, bedrooms, garage, attic, yard, basement and closets to be sure that anything harmful is: off the floor and low shelves; away from food shelves; locked or stored away in a closet or cupboard.

For added protection: read labels carefully—including the small print; discard all prescriptions not being used; never leave household products around in containers which are around to hold food or beverages; be sure to replace the cover tightly on ALWAYS replaces the cover tightly on THE REACH and OUT OF THE SIGHT OF CHILDREN.

The Idated, an apple developed by the University of Idaho, is recommended as an all-purpose variety for backyard planting as well as orchards.

Very often, however, things that might mean danger to a child are not so labeled. Many household products, ordered and used safely in our daily lives (furniture polish, cosmetics metal cleaners, for example) could harm a child if he got them into his mouth.

Records of one large city's Poison Control Center show that some of the most common causes of poisoning in children are commonly used products such as drugs (particularly extra-large doses of aspirin, candy-flavored medicine and oil of wintergreen); kerosene; household disinfectants; insecticides (including moth balls); furniture polishes, and cosmetics (including nail polish remover and hair lotions).

It's easy to see why all of these things, as well as labeled poisons, should be kept in a safe place, especially when there is a child under five years of age.

Enjoy warmer floors, even temperature, the clean, fresh air of
ELECTRIC HEATING

Electric is the most healthful heating system in use today. A silent, even distribution of warm, fresh air heats rooms from floor to ceiling. There are no "cold" or "hot" blasts of air. Soot, smoke, dust, fuel odors and drafts are practically eliminated. Every room can be heated to just the right temperature because of individual room temperature controls. Fuel storage and furnaces are no longer necessary, and this means more "living space." Today electric is the choice of over 7,000,000 WWP customers and every year hundreds more switch from fire to wire heating. Why not convert to electric today? No need to wait until summer. A conversion can be made at any time without disrupting your present system.

See our electric heating expert at your nearest WWP Co. office. He can explain the various systems of modern electric heating, estimate your cost of operation and installation and offer you a list of the qualified electrical heating contractors in your area. Remember, it is important that you have a properly engineered system for maximum efficiency and economy. No obligation. This is a free service to any WWP customer.

FISH AND GAME NEWS
New Beaver Law
Gov. Robert E. Smylie recently signed new beaver legislation that will enable the Idaho Fish and Game commission to declare open season on beaver in areas overpopulated with this species. Open seasons were prohibited under the old law, which was enacted in the days when beaver were scarce and good beaver pelts brought $50 to $75 each. Since then prices have gone down and beaver numbers have increased, due at least partly to trapping because of the low prices. The new law will permit the commission to encourage animals into irrigation areas or elsewhere where they become a problem. In areas where the caretaker-trapper is keeping beaver in proper control, the old law will remain in effect and the caretaker-trapper's right will be protected so that he is not continuing orderly management and control of beaver in the allotment. It should be remembered that THERE WILL BE NO OPEN SEASON ON BEAVER until officially and publicly ordered by the Idaho Fish and Game Dept.
Easy Going
Big game animals enjoyed another comparatively easy month this winter. Reports from the field covering the Jan. 15 to Feb. 20 period say heavy snow and severe cold failed to cause any undue hardship, and animals continued to move around without much interference from snow. In some areas this means a shortage of water-content on the hills, but in others where deep snow did fall, there was enough wind to blow part of the range clear, also, because of the steadily low temperatures, and little trouble to the animals. One sure proof of the ease continuing having is that they have not appeared at the "feed grounds" for their winter handouts. Supplies have been on hand

Who Will Regulate the New Super PUD?
In a series of proceedings which were entirely legal, there was established in this state last week a potentially vast and powerful agency which could, in the long run, invade and direct the economic destiny of Washington.
Seventeen public utility districts have now combined their energies and resources to form the Washington public power supply system. According to the terms of the 1955 law which created the agency, the PUD will be on the road to establishing a public power monopoly in this state, practically outside the realm of any regulatory body. Virtually, the only check on the individual county PUDs is through the election of one commissioner in each county every two years. These commissioners, collectively, are now empowered to run the super PUD, float bonds, establish rate and look after their own public power interests without meeting the type of restrictions and regulations imposed upon the private power companies by both the state and federal governments.
The public power interests were largely instrumental in writing the 1955 state law which led to the creation of this super PUD. Those same interests now want to abolish the state power commission and eliminate competition there. They already enjoy "preference and priority" in the purchase of federally generated power—which for all practical effects penalizes the citizens of those areas, such as Spokane, which get their power from private water utilities.
The creation of this super PUD shows that the public power interests are gaining in economic strength, thanks to the political power which they exercise indirectly. Their instrumentalities are not normal public utility regulations. The state law does authorize the commission to lease or purchase generating and transmission facilities from the United States government. Presumably, the new operating agency will take over federal dams such as Grand Coulee, Chief Joseph and McNary if the federal government were pressured into disposing of them.
The initial plan for this super PUD, whose membership is restricted to municipal corporations, call for the construction of only a few small dams on the West Side of the state and for a 200,000 kilowatt steam power plant such as the state power commission has sought to build near the coal regions around Cle Elum.

CANDY IS FINE FOR 'ARRESTED' LAWMYER

Boise, Idaho—Idaho Legislator Arvil Millar, of Shelley, had the last word Tuesday (Feb. 26) after his House of Representatives colleagues placed him under "arrest" until he stood trial with candy for all made of pure Idaho beet sugar.

The Bingham county representative was "bailed out" by a friend, Floyd Springer sales manager for the Idaho Candy company, who came to the rescue with numerous boxes of his company's Idaho Spud Bar. Millar added samples of Idaho beet sugar to the Shelly farmer-lawmaker, was selected as target for the brief interlude of by-play to call attention to one of the state's leading products because he is president of the Idaho Beet Growers' Association and a leading champion of the state's beet sugar industry.

He praised the Gem state's sugar productivity in a brief four speech following his release from "arrest," calling the sugar beet "one of the keystones of our state's agricultural economy."

Millar said Idaho ranks third in the nation for production of beet sugar, "our farms annually pouring out more than 400 million pounds of this sweetest of all farm commodities."

He said that not only did the sugar beet mean cash income of more than $20 million annually to Idaho farmers but it also supported operation of five of "the nation's finest sugar beet processing factories in any community of our state, and it furnishes beet tops and pulp to feed our livestock."

"Truly," Millar concluded, "the sugar beet has helped Idaho break out of the agebrush and convert its fertile valleys into productive farms which are the backbone of our state's economy. Our sugar is unsurpassed in the world and we are justly proud that Idaho contributes so largely to keeping our nation's sugar bowl well filled."

He said that not only did the sugar beet mean cash income of more than $20 million annually to Idaho farmers but it also supported operation of five of "the nation's finest sugar beet processing factories in any community of our state, and it furnishes beet tops and pulp to feed our livestock."

Card Of Appreciation

First Buttercups

Between the half-thawed snowdrifts Back from the woodland shore, Your starry eyes come peering Before the March winds roar.

Sweet harbingers of springtime Cast in the frozen mould, Give to me of your riches More than my arms can hold—

Teach me the happy magic That strength of struggle brings, Help me to live for others Like you, through the coming springs

Lead me in full surrender From selfish things apart, Glorious winter blossoms, Burgeon within my heart—

TEENAGE TRAGEDY

Joan Grieser, 8th Grade

Mrs. Collins' voice was filled with concern. "Please be careful, Beth, and don't stay too late," she told her dark-haired, blue-eyed daughter. Beth and her boy friend, Gary Allen, were on their way to the college dance. After a brief good-bye they left and headed toward the car at a slow walk. "Doesn't your mother trust me?" Gary asked with a grin. "She sure looked worried."

"Oh, I'm sure she trusts you," replied Beth. "But she had some crazy superstitions going to happen tonight. Oh well, I'm not too worried," she finished with a laugh.

Their friends, Joe and Pam, were waiting in Gary's new white convertible, a recent birthday present from Gary's well-to-do father. They climbed in and were soon speeding out the wide street in the early dawn evening coolness. All four were soon laughing and joking.

"Let's go for a drive before the dance," suggested Pam. "Sure, there's plenty of time," answered Gary. "Where shall we go?" "Let's not go too far into the back woods. I don't want to have to walk three miles for someone to pull us out of the mud like that time we went for a drive in your old hot rod," said Joe with a laugh.

Beth and Pam both remembered how scared of the coyotes they had been when they were alone in the dark shelter of an old tree. Beth's attention was mostly on the back seat where Pam was suddenly heard GARY when she suddenly heard GARY yell. "Look out you crazy kid!"

As Beth quickly turned her eyes to the road ahead she saw what had caused Gary's excitement. Only a few yards in front of the speeding car a young girl was running out to catch her small dog who had darted into the street.

It caused tiredness and listlessness, and rheumatic-like Urged Prompt Treatment Urged One of the dangers of undulant fever is that its symptoms are similar to those of many other diseases. Since it is difficult to diagnose when first strikes, it is possible to mistake it for such other diseases as rheumatic fever, malaria, typhoid fever or tuberculosis.

Anyone who has any of the symptoms of this illness should see his family physician as soon as possible because prompt and proper treatment gives the sick person a better chance of cure in a shorter time.

Pasteurize Milk Since undulant fever is contracted most commonly from drinking raw milk or unpasteurized milk, persons who drink or cook with raw milk are taking chances. Pasteurization of milk kills any dangerous germs that might be in it, including the germs that cause undulant fever.

If it is difficult or impossible to get pasteurized milk, raw milk can be used safely after it is heated to the boiling point then cooled quickly by placing the heating pan on ice or in cold water.

IDAHO FARMERS GET $3.8 MILLION FOR CROP CANNING Idaho farmers received $3.8 million for vegetables produced last year for canning and freezing.

"This sum resulted from the sale of more than 165 million pounds of vegetables to processors," explained C. W. Parry, Idaho representative of American Can Co. He added that this sum was $1 million more than that paid to the state's farmers in 1956.

Last year, Parry noted, Idaho growers received the third largest amount for their produce among the 10 Far Western states. Farmers in the state last year planted 26,850 acres to such vegetables as asparagus, lima beans, snap beans, sweet corn green peas and tomatoes, he pointed out.

as he leaned forward, his hands gripping the wheel. His curly blond hair fell slightly down on his forehead which was covered with small beads of perspiration. His blue eyes were strained, glued to the road ahead. Beth glanced at the slowly climbing speedometer which was crowding ninety miles an hour. Beth turned around in the seat momentarily to see if the police were still following. The blinding headlights of the police car told her the police hadn't given up the chase but were not on their trail.

Gary also knew the police were close behind so he quickly turned off onto a dirt side road hoping to lose them, completely ignoring the danger of traveling on this bad road in the dark at the same high speed. Suddenly the long white convertible sped around a sharp corner on a high bluff above a deep gully, there was a loud bang and the car began to lurch. The right hind tire had blown out! As they swerved toward the edge of the narrow road, and they all four realized they would soon go hurtling over the bluff to meet certain death in the dark gully hundreds of feet below!

Beth vaguely heard Pam scream as she clutched Gary's arm in terror. A sickening feeling came over her as she heard Gary whisper weakly, "Sorry Beth, but I guess this is it." His mind began to whirl. Then everything went black.

The next morning radio, television and newspapers repeated again and again the story of the small girl who was hit and run over, the chase of the police, and then the tragic car crash in which four teenagers were killed.

To most people in the large city this was just another tragic story to be forgotten. But to the parents and friends of the small girl, the four teenagers, Beth, Gary, Pam, and Joe, this was a shocking and heart-breaking story. Yes, this story would haunt their parents the rest of their lives.

familiar doggy odor is submerged in the unmistakable aroma of skunk!

For tar or chewing gum, rubbing a piece of ice into the matted spot makes the sticky substance brittle, so that it can be easily removed.

Kerosene is also good for removing tar, and turpentine is effective against itching and pain. However, these substances irritate the skin, so the dog should be thoroughly bathed after they have been used.

If your dog is a long haired hunter constantly among burrs and brambles during the hunting season, his coat should be trimmed close until the season is over. For the dog that has only an occasional encounter with burrs, petroleum jelly or mineral oil may be used to loosen up the tangle.

If he has had a meeting with a skunk, give him a hot bath, using plenty of such. These will then completely saturate coat with tomato juice letting it stay in coat approximately 15 minutes. Rinse out with hot water and dry vigorously with bath towel.

Feeding Tip: A dog will sleep most soundly after a big meal. So if you value your dog as a watchdog during the night, try feeding him his big meal in the morning, and a snack at night.

DWORSHAK WANTS SPECIAL FISH AND GAME STUDIES MADE FOR NEW DAMS

Senator Dworshak suggested recently in conferring with members of the Senate Public Works Committee that they give serious consideration to the position taken by him regarding the construction funds for the Bruce Eddy Project on the North Fork of the Clearwater, and without any request for construction funds until fish and wildlife studies currently underway are completed.

The Idaho Senator stated that he would have no objections to the committee placing such a safe-guard on the omnibus rivers and harbors bill calling for the authorization of the Bruce Eddy Dam and now being considered by the committee.

It was pointed out by Senator Dworshak that in testifying before the Public Works Committee during the 84th Congress and again earlier this year during the 85th Congress he had called their "attention to the fact that if this Bruce Eddy Dam is authorized it doesn't mean that it will be constructed, it will take 18 months to 2 years, according to the Engineer Corps to complete the advance studies and before the final report of the Engineers on Bruce Eddy is submitted to this committee and to the Congress."

At that time "all of the reports currently being made on fish and wildlife by both federal and state agencies will be available and the only reason I have been pursuing my efforts with the support of this committee so far to get authorization of Bruce Eddy is to provide the funds to undertake these studies."

The Treasury also plans to offer, effective February 1, 1957, a revised 10-year Series H bond with yields generally comparable to the new E bond, and returning 3 1/2 percent if held to maturity. The new H bond like the present bond, would pay interest by check each six months in contrast to the appreciation-type E bond.

On passage of the legislation, all bonds dated February, 1957, or there after would bear the new terms automatically. Existing stocks of bonds in the hands of the Treasury's more than 20,000 E bond issuing agents would be used until supplies

MECHANIZED FEED HANDLING THEME OF SHORT COURSE

Mechanized feed handling will be the central theme of the University of Idaho's fourth farm electrification short course, February 12 and 13, announces J. W. Martin, head of the department of agricultural engineering. A program covering the handling of common feeds used by cattle feeders, dairymen and poultrymen will be presented by D. W. Works, project director with the Idaho farm electrification committee.

Idaho's extension agricultural engineer, Everett H. Davis, will summarize easier ways of farming. His talk will be a round-up of labor-saving ideas he has observed on farms throughout the state.

The short commercial equipment for handling dairy, beef and poultry feeds will be explained or demonstrated by manufacturer representatives. University college or agricultural staff members will discuss subjects in livestock health, new feed feedlot practices, and sprinkler irrigation.

Highlight of the second day will be a visit to the university poultry plant where modern choring equipment is being tested. The visit will also include the poultry department's new solar laying house.

"Whatisit?" Now On Display In Boise Museum

An Indian "whatisit" was put on display last week by the Idaho Historical Society in the State Museum in Boise. The Society's director H. J. Swinney, explained that a "whatisit" is museum cannot identify. The object on display is a paddle-shaped piece of Snake River greenstone, about 18 inches long and very finely polished. It apparently lay outdoors for some years before it was found by a hunting party.

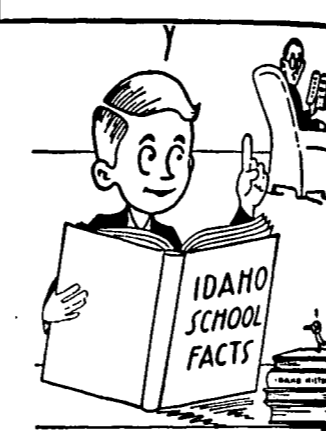

Dr. Warren Wagner, a consulting geologist of Boise, has identified the material of which it is made, but several experts in Indian objects have been baffled as to its original purpose. Swinney reported that the Historical Society hopes that some of the museum visitors may be able to explain the object. Photographs will be taken of the "whatisit" and sent to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, Swinney said.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO WILDLIFE MAGPIE PREDATION Study to determine the influence of magpies on ring-necked pheasant and waterfowl populations by their predation on the eggs.

The study is being conducted by Associate Professor Kenneth E. Jones in cooperation with Idaho Fish and Game department. Currently, the eggs of pheasants and waterfowl are being placed in artificial nest boxes to determine the predation by magpies. The study will also determine the variation in feeding habits and behaviors and preferences of magpies for different types of eggs. In March, magpies will be banded to determine the extent of their predation on lake reservoir near Hazelton in a county.

SIGNS OF SPRING

FOR THE MOTORIST Those of us who are motorists are particularly eager to welcome the return of warm weather. To us it means the end of snow-packed roads, icy streets, frost-covered windshields, and all the rest of winter's inconveniences and hazards. It means longer hours of daylight in which to do our driving. It means a return to the scenic beauty which makes it so pleasant to drive in the springtime and summer.

The highways which are now starting to clear their covering of ice and snow may tempt us to drive at higher speeds than we have been accustomed to during the winter—but we will do well to resist this temptation. One experienced motorist knows that roads and highways may be marred by numerous bumps and holes in the springtime. As a result of dangerous driving at high speed over rough pavement can do serious damage to your tires, also. And badly bruised tires can fall just at the moment when you need them most.

Another hazard to the motorist in the early spring is the appearance of snow melt on the highways. As the snow melts, water collects in low areas which are impractical to drain. The speed of the water is shattering to the pavement, and it is a matter of time before the water is frozen again.

Perhaps the greatest danger at this time of year is not to be found in the uncertainty of road and weather conditions, but in the fact that improving weather will surely increase the volume of traffic on state highways.

These pointers for safe driving in the weeks ahead are brought to your attention by Harold Davis, state traffic safety director. They all add up to this: that to reason the motorist being and safety of the motorist becomes lax and careless in his driving. The answers to these problems are: slower speeds, greater alertness and the use of sound judgment.

Government experts predict that by 1965 the country will be consuming nearly all the milk it produces.

IDAHO'S HEALTH

Preliminary reports on the polio vaccine evaluation study which has been underway in Idaho since last March show that the Salk vaccine distributed in this state does develop immunity to poliomyelitis in most of the cases.

In this evaluation study, conducted largely by Dr. Kayo Sumada, state epidemiologist, working closely with the Board of Health's virus laboratory, a total of 579 children from Pocatello, Lewiston and Coeur d'Alene received the vaccine. The children submitted blood samples before the first shot to learn if they had any natural immunity to polio. Additional blood samples were taken after one shot, two shots and three shots, to learn the effectiveness of the vaccine at each stage of immunization.

At present, virus laboratory analysis are not complete enough to enable us to tell the effectiveness of the full three-shot series, but preliminary reports on the study show that even two shots help a great deal to develop polio immunity.

Immunity Gain Noted These incomplete statistics show that 17.2 percent of the children are not polio immune to any of the three types of polio before vaccination. After one shot, this figure dropped to 14.9 per cent with no immunity; and, after two shots, 6.7 per cent had no immunity to any of the three types. We hope this figure will be even lower when results of the third shots are determined. Some 10.1 per cent of the children prior to vaccination. After one shot, this figure jumped to 47.2 per cent of the children showed complete immunity.

On the basis of these figures, Dr. Sumada estimates that more than 90 per cent of the persons who receive vaccine will develop an immunity to one or more types of polio. This definitely marks the Salk vaccine as an effective weapon against poliomyelitis.

Our virus studies show, however, that the full series of three shots

GENESEE NEWS

Once a practical, romantic young man (you and he both) married. For their anniversary, being practical, he bought his wife a U. S. Savings Bond. And, being romantic, he slipped it under her dinner plate. Then he forgot it until, drying the dishes, he spotted it in the detergent. The Bond looked all washed up. But it wasn't. After a letter from the young man, the U. S. Treasury replaced the Bond with another bearing the original date of issue—the couple's anniversary. This true story illustrates the safety of U. S. Savings Bonds. Any of your Bonds that are lost, stolen or destroyed will be replaced without charge by the U. S. Treasury. And remember—the U. S. Government guarantees the principal of your Bonds safe—up to any amount—guarantees sure the rate of interest. So start saving this safe, sure way. Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or buy Bonds at your bank.

Busy Clover 4-H'ers Met March 10

Due to the fact that one of our club members, Gene Kasper, is leaving Monday morning with the Genesee High School Basketball team for the State Tournament at Pocatello, the Busy Clovers 4-H club held their meeting Sunday night, March 10th instead of Monday night.

The meeting was held at the Wilson Esser home with all members present except Jo Ann Kasper who was ill.

The meeting opened with the group singing "Here We Have Idaho." Patricia Schlueter led the 4-H pledge. The roll call topic was: Tell how much you have accomplished in your various projects.

Jerry Esser reported that his Southdown Ewe had a lamb. The minutes were read by secretary Jo Ann Esser and approved. "Thanks You" were received from "The March of Dimes." The Genesee Society and the Ed Hasfurther family for donations given by our club.

The "Keep Idaho Green" signs that our club had erected in previous years were discussed. It was decided that the club members check them to see if they need repairing or repainting.

Parliamentary Rules Studied by 4-H'ers

Parliamentary procedure slides were viewed by the members of the Busy Clovers 4-H club at their meeting on Tuesday, March 26th at the Matt Kasper home.

Marie Hasfurther, president, opened the meeting with Joy Esser leading the 4-H Pledge. The committee were called upon for reports. Safety chairman Larry Hasfurther announced that a safety movie entitled "Practice Makes Perfect Drivers" would be shown by John Moore, assistant county agent. The members appreciated Mr. Moore's attendance at their meeting.

Mabel Schlueter gave a report on the Adult Council meeting held in Moscow on Monday night, March 25. She told the members about the Adult Council members deciding on the age limit of 14 years for 4-H'ers participating in livestock judging outside the county. She also told of the judging requirements enabling them to judge at either the Spokane or Portland shows. Chatochee Camp was another point of interest. The county personnel would like to have more leaders, parents, or junior leaders accompany the children to summer camp and help supervise. It was suggested to have one chaperon per 10 members. John Moore also told the group about the horse project.

Marie Hasfurther gave a report on the youth council held in conjunction with the adult meeting. She told the new officers were that had been elected. She also told of the new opportunity project proposed by Mr. Moore and help supervised. Mr. Moore explained the project further at our meeting. The members approved highly of this project. Marie also told about a talent show sponsored by 5 Potlatch judges for the purpose of raising money for the Chatochee camp. This show is to be held Friday night, March 29th at 8 o'clock at the new gym in Potlatch. The public is invited.

Heart Attack Claims Life Of Wm. Roy Emerson

William Roy Emerson, 63, a longtime resident and farmer in the Genesee area, succumbed to a heart attack April 1 in the Deaconess hospital in Spokane.

Born in NEZ Perce County September 18, 1893, Mr. Emerson was engaged in farming most of his life, and with the exception of a few years spent in Lewiston, lived in Genesee during the remainder of his life. He was a graduate of the Lewiston High School.

During his career, Mr. Emerson took an active part in farm and agricultural problems. For twenty years he was a member of the Clearwater Power Company and director of the Rural Electrification Association. He was also the chairman of the Genesee Electric Association. The deceased had also taken an active part in Soil Conservation Service programs in this area.

Mr. Emerson was also a long-time member of the Genesee Community Church, which he had attended since his childhood. He was also a member of the Elks Lodge in Moscow, the Knights of Pythias in Clarkston, and the DOKK of Lewiston. The Genesee Electric Association was also a member of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts in Chicago in 1947.

He was succeeded by his brother, Harry Emerson, Genesee; four children, George Anderson and Henry Anderson of Genesee, and Jesse Anderson of Roseland, B. and Jesse Anderson of Idaho. Three nephews and nieces.

Father Carey Succumbs March 31

Father Bartholomew James Carey, 65, a Catholic priest who had served various Idaho parishes since 1922, died Sunday at a Jerome hospital after a short stay in the hospital.

Father Carey was ordained into the priesthood in 1922 after theological studies in the East. He served briefly as pastor at Jerome and held the post from 1922 until 1928, when he became pastor of the St. Marys Catholic church in Genesee.

In 1937, where he continued until 1939, when he became pastor of St. John's Cathedral in Boise. He was appointed chaplain at St. Valentine's Hospital in Lewiston in 1947 and later held a similar position at St. Benedict's hospital in Jerome where he served until the time of his death.

The sounding of final "Taps" for Fr. Carey was many citizens of Genesee a tonic of sadness. While he was in the hospital, he was visited by many of his parishioners. One of his most widely felt projects was the local town hall which he organized during the years of depression. An accomplished musician, Fr. Carey spared no effort in his musical projects. He was a member of the Genesee High School band and was a member of the Genesee High School band and was a member of the Genesee High School band.

"Assuming you passed your last eye test with flying colors, do you realize what happens to your visual acuity, the ability to see clearly, when you get behind the wheel and step on the gas?" Mr. Trautman asked. "While loss of visual acuity cannot be measured behind the wheel at high speeds, it is known that the ability of the driver to see and recognize hazards diminishes as his speed increases until the point is reached when his need to see outstrips his ability to see. Therein lies one of the greatest dangers of high speed," Mr. Trautman concluded.

AIR RESERVE OFFERS MANY ADVANTAGES TO LEARN

George A. Breeze, practice 6th Grade teacher in the Genesee Elementary School, is as interested that adults have the opportunity to learn new concepts as he is interested that the children of the area learn of the latest developments in technology and national affairs. Force Reserve training program is open to all former military personnel in the area. Breeze explained, "The program offers pay for participants who can attend twice monthly meetings and pay ranges from $5.33 each two hour session to $10.14, depending on rank and prior service. The training is carried out in college-type class work which is carefully planned. There are no drills or tactical exercises in the program; instead, an attempt is made to inform the Reservist of ideas of national concern such as management techniques and world affairs. Lots of men in the Palouse country are now participating in this paid program. EYESIGHT IMPORTANT: SO IS ABILITY TO INTERPRET WHAT YOU SEE WHILE DRIVING

A representative of the Idaho Bus and Truck Industry pointed out this week that safe driving under present traffic conditions places tremendous demands on the driver's ability to see and to interpret correctly what he sees.

"Therefore," declared Mr. Ray Trautman, member of the Idaho Motor Transport Association, "Every driver should know whether or not his eyesight is up to par. If it is not, he should have the necessary correction which can be obtained from properly prescribed eyeglasses or he should learn to adjust his seeing habits to compensate for certain minor visual deficiencies. In the case of serious non-correctible deficiencies the driver owes it to himself and the driving public to get out from behind the wheel."

Mr. Trautman explained that the subject of this month's Truck and Bus Industry Courtesy and Safety Campaign is Driver Fitness and he pointed out that it is an aspect of traffic safety which is receiving increasing attention from state driver licensing authorities. "A number of states require a check of vision for older drivers," he said, "and more

ROCKEFELLER SEES HOPE FOR HOT, ARID LANDS

Nelson Rockefeller this week told the U. S. Information Agency's wide radio audience that science and technology can bring new hope and achievement to more than a billion poor people living in hot lands.

The frontiers of knowledge are moving toward the Equator and hold great promise for tropical Africa. Malaria now blights the health of some 300 million persons.

Mr. Rockefeller also declared in the Voice broadcast that tropical agriculture is on the threshold of revolutionary progress.

New chemicals will control insect damage and increase yields. And radioactive tracers are exploring tropical agricultural possibilities.

Not only may science be our ally, but we can send abroad the valuable export, but also the high speed, it is up to those nations to advance in science to help promote its benefits to others and promote humanity's hopes for the future.

Collecting bills one summer in Nez Perce County (near Genesee) a bill collector found a bachelor farmer milking his one cow.

"I'll be through in a minute, granted as the farmer, motioning the fellow to sit on a milking stool.

"He finished milking, lifted the pail to his mouth and drank deeply. Then he poured the remaining milk on the ground and hung up the pail.

"Now," he said, "the milking is done, supper's over and the dishes are washed. What do you want?"

IDAHO'S HEALTH

State Board of Health

With April proclaimed as Cancer Control Month in Idaho, and with the annual campaign of the Idaho Division, American Cancer Society, now underway, you will be hearing a lot about cancer during the month. We hope you will listen.

Cancer claimed the lives of 704 Idaho residents last year—and medical authorities believe that one-third to one-half of these victims might be alive today if they had known how to recognize early symptoms and had heeded the seven "Danger Signals."

Cancer is not contagious, and science has disproved the idea years ago that it is inherited. Cancer can be cured, but it must be discovered early. Physicians throughout the country are curing cancer victims almost every day through three medically accepted methods that you should remember—x-ray, surgery and radium.

The main thing to fear about cancer is NEGLIGENCE. When cancer is detected in its early stages and treatment begun at once, lives can be saved and much suffering and expense can be prevented.

Every man and woman should be taken to prevent cancer by understanding the disease, and, above all, by seeking good medical advice at the slightest suspicion of cancer. Competent medical advice is generally available locally—see your physician. Avoid home remedies which all too often only further the growth of cancer.

Learn all you can about cancer, and you will be better prepared to combat it. Learn these seven Danger Signals which may warn you of the disease: 1. Any sore that does not heal; 2. A painless lump or thickening; 3. Irregular bleeding or discharge; 4. Change in color or size of a wart, mole or birthmark; 5. Persistent indigestion; 6. Persistent hoarseness, unexplained cough, or difficulty in swallowing; 7. Any change in normal bowel habits.

If you discover any of these symptoms, consult your family doctor without delay. His diagnosis should tell whether treatment is required.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the sympathy and the many acts of kindness shown us in the passing of our dear sister, Mrs. Mike Darcheid and daughter, Martha of Moscow visited with Otto Baldus in Walla Walla Sunday.

RAT DAMAGE RUNS INTO BILLION YEARLY

MADISON, WIS.—Rats cause a billion dollars worth of damage annually to U. S. food, property, human being, and livestock—the production of more than 100,000,000 average American farms. This fact is brought out in a new booklet published by the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation.

Commenting on the rodent problem, George P. Lavrick, U.S. Commissioner of Food and Drug, recently pointed out:

"Contamination of food by rodents is a major source of violations of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. Every year hundreds of court actions make this charge, and thousands of tons of food must be seized because the presence of rodent filth has made it unfit for human consumption."

"Effective rodent control," he added, "is needed at all levels of food production and distribution. It is a first line of defense in our efforts to keep foods safe and clean."

Eight months in preparation, the new WARF booklet represents a most readable and authoritative source of information on rodent control.

The first section of the new booklet discusses the rodent problem; the second provides specific instructions on how to run a community campaign.

Ways of initiating campaigns to arouse community support, and most effective methods of rodent-baiting with rodenticides such as warfarin, are discussed.

The foundation announced that new copies of the book are being distributed to agricultural leaders through state extension specialists, 4-H and FFA administrators, and that additional copies are available from officials of the Branch of Predator and Rodent Control, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, or from the Foundation.

Copies of the book will be furnished without charge to any community group staging a rodent control program, and requests should be mailed to the Educational Department, Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation, P. O. Box 2217, Madison, Wisconsin.

The Foundation owns patents on warfarin, the anticoagulant rodenticide discovered at the University of Wisconsin in the laboratories of Karl Paul Link, who worked with Drs.

DON'T PLAY GUESSING GAMES ON THE STATE HIGHWAYS

Guessing games are a nightly dance on the highways, said Harold Davis, traffic safety director, this week. In today's heavy traffic cooperation between drivers is essential for safety and signaling your moves in traffic is a highly useful form of cooperation.

Signal before you turn, and the emphasis is on the "before." Too many drivers come up to the point where they want to do something, they give a half-hearted signal at the last minute and then either do something foolish or find themselves completely snarled and holding up other traffic to boot. The worst offender in this regard is the fellow who doesn't give enough warning of his intention to make a left turn in heavy traffic. If he signalled soon enough there would be ample time for following traffic to find a safe way around or to come to a safe stop. The law, as well as common sense require that a signal to change speed or direction be given for enough in advance to be an effective warning.

The laws of Idaho require that a signal be given at least 100 feet before changing speed or direction and such signal must be given continuously during that distance, warns the Traffic Safety Director.

With the almost universal installation of mechanical turn signals on motor vehicles there is no excuse for not signalling your moves in traffic. The road hog, the speeder, and the driver who fails to give signals, all show their disregard for life. Signal in time for the intended warning to do some good, urges Davis.

MOTORISTS COULD SAVE MUCH ON GAS BILLS BY FOLLOWING A FEW GOOD RULES IN DRIVING

A six weeks supply of free gasoline for Latah County's 7,000 motorists, is possible if they will follow a few simple rules in driving. An example of Mobilgas Economy Run is being given by easing up on the accelerator.

The six weeks' free gasoline for each motorist could be an annual reality if this county's drivers would extend their present average of 15 miles per gallon to 17 miles per gallon.

"Proving this is possible is the average of the Economy Run," said A. C. Pillsbury, director of the United States Auto Club, supervisory member of the run. "In recent years the state cars taken directly from dealerships and factories for the annual Mobilgas Economy Run turned in 20 miles per gallon or better. The average motorist should easily increase his mileage two miles per gallon," Pillsbury said.

Driving tips that will enable the county's motorists to increase their mileage—and save six weeks' cost of gasoline—per year include:

1. Never step hard on the accelerator. The sudden spurts of speed are the heaviest gasoline consumers.

2. Follow think-ahead driving practices, such as anticipating green lights, slowing gradually for stop signs, etc.

3. Keep your car's spark plugs and ignition points in good condition, keep tires inflated properly, regularly lubricate the car's chassis.

Tests with older cars as well as new models prove every driver can improve his mileage by following these, Pillsbury said.

explained that benefits are commensurate with the cost of the service to avoid inequities.

A new law provides the time and payment for the new form of pay cards for the new form of pay cards mailed last October to 10 widows who may be eligible for payments under the new law.

Good news for you dirt gardeners. Not long ago, weeds were a little like the weather. Everybody complained about them but nobody did much about them. Now we can grow vegetables and flowers through plastic without weeding or watering and with the expectancy that they will be stronger and more productive plants.

The new black plastic film comes in rolls 104 feet long and 40 inches wide—enough to cover a garden 18 feet wide by 18 feet long. It's called "Kordimulch" and is available through most hardware stores and some supermarkets and grocery stores.

If the reports from famous agricultural centers like Cornell University, Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Mississippi State College, Oregon State College and the University of Florida hold true, the canning job will be bigger than ever this fall.

Easy Car Wash
We read somewhere that the easiest way to wash a car is to add detergent to the water. That's fine if you don't let the wash water-and-detergent dry on the car. If you do it looks like a sebra. Just keep the hose running and wash off the siltation right after you apply it. Then it'll be dry. There's hardly a streak... and no wiping dry.

Moist Proofing Winter Clothes
Harking back to plastics, our new winter suits back in neat plastic bags. You can tell what's in the bag without peeking underneath. And they're sealed against air and moisture with regular zip food.

See you seal soon.

Modern submergers can travel faster submerged than on the surface. They can fully submerge in less than one minute.

RESEARCH ATTACKS CANCER

For the last dozen years the American Cancer Society has been mounting a massive research assault on the deadliest killer of all times. Several thousand scientists have been recruited and trained for the battle against cancer. Fantastic equipment designed to measure minute chemical and physical changes in cells and tissues has been designed, built and distributed to hundreds of laboratories. New laboratories have been constructed to house the men and the machines.

And now the attack is on. It is by far the most extensive and expensive war ever conducted against a single disease. It is also one of the most varied and imaginative approaches ever attempted to control any tragedy of mankind. It embraces dozens of disciplines of science—cytologists to seek the subtle structural differences between normal and cancer cells, biochemists to learn where normal cell and body chemistry goes awry in cancer, immunologists to try to learn what constitutes natural resistance to and to try to turn that resistance against cancer, and many other highly specialized types of scientists.

All this has been made possible by public contribution to the American Cancer Society. These have risen from total of $50,000 in 1943 to more than $27,000,000 last year. It represents a decided change in both public and scientific opinion on the question of whether cancer can be beaten.

Spring Days Spur 4-H'ers in Home, Yards Projects

In the spring a young homemaker's fancy turns to thoughts of a bright new look for house and yard. Right now 4-H Club members here are dreaming up ways and means to transform drab, out-of-date surroundings into modern areas that are functional as well as decorative.

To help make their dreams come true are two popular 4-H programs: Beautification of Home Grounds, and Home Improvement. Members may begin with a simple project like a small flower bed, and in a few years learn enough to landscape the entire grounds. Home interiors benefit from newly acquired skills that range from making pretty sofa pillows to refrigerator. The car cost the young engineer $24.50; $10 for rental of the car body and $12.50 for the surplus aircraft motor. He will return the body to a Spokane junk dealer at the end of the school year, and then inject what he has learned into a new set of plans for an electric car.

It took two weeks to get the idea off the drawing board and operating on the Moscow streets. Getting the motor properly lined up with the transmission, was the most difficult problem.

The car was built by installing a five-horsepower direct current motor in the body of a 1947 Crosley station wagon. The electric power to the motor is supplied by regular lead-acid storage batteries charged by a small charger carried in the rear of the car. The charger is plugged into any 120-volt alternating current circuit at night to recharge the batteries.

The electric control system is done completely by relays and no electric power is wasted in the complete system. The motor turns into a generator when the car is descending a hill or slowing down and this generated power is fed back into the batteries. This also acts as a braking system for the car.

Sewell adds that the car will travel 40 miles per hour at the low cost of one-quarter-of-cent per mile. Nothing gives him greater pleasure than passing the gas pumps by.

U. OF IDAHO STUDENT BUILDS A $24.50 CAR

Nearly everyone would like to have a car that costs only $24.50, operates for a quarter of a cent a mile and will start with the flick of a switch in sub-zero weather.

Robert Sewell, Spokane senior electrical engineering student at the University of Idaho, has such a vehicle. He built it as a senior research project.

Powered by a small electric motor just a shade larger than the ordinary car generator, Sewell's car has power to spare.

"The motor is actually too much for the car," Sewell said. "I hope to make another with two motors and direct drive. It should be even more efficient."

The 22-year old student drives his battery-powered car to university classes each morning and home at night. During sub-zero weather, when most drivers have problems getting their cars started, Sewell merely will turn on the current and is away. No warmup period is needed for the car.

"It makes an ideal second car because of its low upkeep," Sewell added. "There are no oil, gas, anti-freeze, spark plugs, filters, or any of the other maintenance costs needed to keep the average car on the road. All I need for a day's run is about seven cents worth of electric current to recharge the batteries."

The car cost the young engineer $24.50; $10 for rental of the car body and $12.50 for the surplus aircraft motor. He will return the body to a Spokane junk dealer at the end of the school year, and then inject what he has learned into a new set of plans for an electric car.

It took two weeks to get the idea off the drawing board and operating on the Moscow streets. Getting the motor properly lined up with the transmission, was the most difficult problem.

The car was built by installing a five-horsepower direct current motor in the body of a 1947 Crosley station wagon. Don't forget about the Soil Bank program! The government pays you an average of $10 an acre a year to turn cropland into tree farms. And timber is a mighty fine crop these days, too, because the price of wood and pulp products is going up! For more information about the Soil Bank program, check with your local county farm agent. Or ask your local McCulloch dealer.

I find growing trees is sort of like having money in the bank. As a fellow down in North Carolina puts it, "Whenever I need a little cash, I turn to the woods." From his wood lot, this fellow has already sold a great deal of saw timber and pulpwood. Has built a barn and a chicken house, and now he's getting ready to build a new home.

And when these 64 pines right behind the old house are going to give me a good start," he says.

Of Hamilton bought a diamond ring from a stranger the other day. "If this gem ain't real," he admits, "I'm skunked out of six bits!"

ELECTRIC WATER HEATING

ELECTRIC

What a bargain! All the hot water you need for just $2.80 a month. And you get it quickly, automatically, safely. It's another way you "live better electrically" when you enjoy one of the lowest electric rates in the nation.

Most people prefer ELECTRIC water heating because it's safe, dependable, and the only fully automatic system. Fast, too—new "QUICK RECOVERY" tanks deliver hot water twice as fast as older heaters. An electric tank can be placed ANYWHERE—no flues or vents to worry about. No fear of fire or fumes.

If your present water tank doesn't deliver enough hot water, have a powerful new element installed to boost hot water output as much as 60 percent. Costs just $17.50—nothing down, three months to pay. Call your WWP office for free inspection of your water tank and complete information on a new conversion element or Quick Recovery tank. No obligation.

* about 9¢ a day for all your family needs

WWP customers who heat water electrically take advantage of a 500 kilowatt hour block of extra low cost power that is not available to customers who heat water by other fuels.

*Average hot water heating cost of all WWP customers for plant usage of 150 degree hot water, temperature necessary for sanitary home laundry and dishwashing.

IDAHO'S HEALTH

By Your
State Board of Health

Although most emphasis on polio vaccination during the past several months has been on persons up to the age of 20, we strongly recommend that all persons up to 40 years of age get the complete three-shot series of salk vaccine.

Approximately one-fourth of the paralytic polio cases are found in the 20 to 40 age group, and this hits hard at the parent and wage-earner family members. Sometimes a family can suffer even more can suffer even more if a parent, and particularly the wage earner, is crippled by poliomyelitis than if a child contracts the disease.

Vaccine distributed by the State Board of Health during the past year has been limited to persons under 20 in order to comply with regulations with governing vaccine purchased with federal funds, so most emphasis for vaccination has been on the younger group.

However, both the health department and the polio advisory committee of the Idaho State Medical Association urge all persons 20 to 40 years of age to see their family physicians as soon as possible to arrange for polio immunization.

Vaccine for this age group is available through regular commercial channels and is administered by local physicians throughout the state.

The recent state legislature appropriated $100,000 to purchase vaccine for Idaho, since supplies of federally purchased vaccine are now exhausted. This money will buy $157,887 shots of salk vaccine, and it will be used primarily to complete the current immunization program for children up to 20 years of age.

We want to point out again that it is the responsibility of local communities to plan their own polio immunization programs. The state department of Health will furnish vaccine, clinic to each county health officer, and other materials needed for clinics, if these clinics are desired by communities. But it is up to each community to set up its own clinic or means of immunizing the young children.

LITTERBUG SEASON STARTS WITH FIRST WARM DAYS

The Idaho Fish and Game department this week appealed to fishermen and picnickers to renew their campaign against the litterbug.

Department specialists described the insect as a "two-legged form of pest which emerges from hibernation with the first warm days of spring and starts scattering trash along the roadsides, in streams, and through cultivated fields." The species also damages fences, cuts deep ruts in croplands, and uses posts, signs and other property as rifle or shotgun targets.

The department said the Idaho Landholder-Sportsman Council has repeatedly cited the litterbug as one of the chief causes for the decreasing number of "No Trespassing" signs that are being posted on private lands that are being used for picnicking and sportsmen.

"Sportsmen and picnickers who stop at the owners house, ask permission to go on the land, and respect the owner's wishes are usually welcome guests," the department said.

Card of Thanks

We want to extend our sincere thanks to our many friends and neighbors for the flowers, cards and kind deeds and words of sympathy extended to us in our recent loss of our father, especially the would-be thank the ladies of the community Guild for the lunch donated for the family following the funeral. We also wish to thank the services and help at the home. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Maria and Francis that are being posted on private lands that are being used for picnicking and sportsmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johann & family in this state.

GENESEE VALLEY NEWS By Your State Health Board. Sometime within the next few months the mobile x-ray units may be visiting your community. When they do, take advantage of the opportunity to get a free chest x-ray and be sure you are healthy. The mobile units, sponsored jointly by the Idaho Tuberculosis Association and the State Health Department, have completed three full swings around the state and are starting on the fourth. The primary objective of an x-ray survey in a community is to find pulmonary tuberculosis. Early tuberculosis is not usually located by outward symptoms like some diseases—but it can be found by the x-ray. In addition, the x-rays taken at these mobile units often help physicians locate non-tuberculous infections of the lungs, certain types of heart disease, tumors inside the chest and injury and disease of the bones of the thorax. A large percentage of the non-tuberculous diseases which are extremely serious if allowed to continue untreated until recognizable signs and symptoms are produced. Tuberculosis itself is easily cured when detected in the early minimal stage. Three-fourths of the tuberculosis found by chest x-rays is of this early type, where recovery is likely, with proper treatment. People do not have to undergo to have an x-ray taken at one of the mobile units. Women are asked to remove their wraps and customs jewelry, and, so far as possible, urged to wear dresses covered with ornaments and decorations on the day they visit the unit. Men remove tops, coats and vests, and place them in a bag or in the pockets of their shirts. The average person is in the x-ray box about a minute. Actual exposure to the x-ray is only a fraction of a second. Two to four weeks later, a report is mailed to each person examined. If his chest appears normal on the x-ray film, he will be so informed. If the film requires further study, he will be notified of the places in his vicinity where he can have another film taken without charge. If the second film shows any significant departure from normal, he should be advised to see his physician promptly. Meanwhile, a detailed report of the findings will have been sent to his physician, so he will be in a position to begin further study at once. You owe it to yourself, your family, your neighbors and your community to be sure you are healthy. Card of Thanks We want to extend our sincere thanks to our many friends and neighbors for all the lovely cards that we received in the loss of our dear father and grandfather, the dearly to the Deaconesses of the church. AN APRIL SONG

And now goodbye to April
Sprinkling her showers of rain
While the bluebird of hope keeps singing.
That the sun will shine again.
He sings of the blossom-blow-time
When the willflowers nod and smile,
Of bud and bloom that will light my way
Along each springtime-mile—
Of the sweet wild apple blossoms
That the May-time soon will know,
That the bond of beauty is never broken
As the Apples come and go.

SAFE KITE FLYING

"It's all right to go fly a kite, but fly it safely," was the advice sounded this week by Harold Davis, state traffic safety director.
If youngsters interested in flying kites will follow a few do's and don'ts they can fly them in safety, according to Davis.
The do's are:
Fly kites in the open spaces away from traffic and electric wires;
See that their runway is free from obstructions and stumbling hazards;
Pull the string of kite flying safely to their playmates.
The don'ts are:
Don't fly kites in busy streets or near power lines;
Don't fly kites near electric wires;
Don't use tinsel or metal wire for string;

Junior Prom Set for May 3

Welcome to the Genesee Junior Prom. It's bigger and better than ever. The theme "Young Love" is being carried out in red and white. What does "Young Love" suggest? Hearts and cupid's, of course, and that is exactly what is being used for decorating. It's truly, a land of fantasy and a very fascinating one at heart, the walls are draped with red and white crepe paper.

Seeds of cupid's, and fun crepe paper have been used. A park scene makes a fabulous background for the pictures which will be taken by the Jim Mercer crew. We voted to have the prom at the Genesee high school. This orchestra is something new and different. Let's see them how Genesee.

Come and have fun at the Junior Prom! Time: 9:00 p. m. May 3, 1957. Place: Genesee high school gymnasium. Prices: Couples $1.50, singles $1.00.

Rains Delay Farmer's Work

After giving the farmers a couple of days in the field, the clouds again gathered and began to dump more moisture on the already saturated fields, once more delaying the spring farming.

Farmers are feeling the effects of the poor weather more than any others and it is estimated that there are now approximately two to three weeks behind, especially in the lower elevations, in their work.

Fall wheat, according to Soil Conservation agency, is in better shape than last year and only a severe storm could harm the crops at this stage in the growing cycle. The outlook for clover and alfalfa is equally good.

From the snow banks in the winter and the slow melting of the snow during the spring in addition to the rain that has fallen thus far, the ground has a very plentiful supply of moisture.

Good Weekend
After a sudden spring snow storm last week, the skies cleared and the weekend and also Monday and Tuesday with the temperature reaching 87 in Lewiston and in the high seventies in Genesee.

This warm sunny spell saw the leaves on trees make their first yearling appearance, and gave the local farmers a chance to get their feet wet in the south and southwest last Wednesday afternoon and first showers started at approximately 10:30 p. m. Wednesday evening. Thursday morning the light showers had turned into a fair-sized rain.

Weather forecasters offered little encouragement to the farmers as they predicted five days of rain.

Disability Provisions are Important Part of Social Security Program
Questions about disability are being asked by more and more people who talk to the Social Security Representative at Moscow each Monday. The disability provisions are a new and important part of the Federal Social Security program, according to manager Marlow V. Wootton of the Lewiston Social Security office.

Beginning in January 1957 some disabled adult workers will be able to receive benefits for disabled workers who have died because of insurance benefits.

Who become eligible for disability insurance benefits a worker must be suffering from a severe physical or mental impairment which prevents him from working and which has lasted at least six months, and is expected to continue indefinitely. In addition to the very strict disability requirements which have been in effect since the Social Security law was passed in 1935, a worker must have worked in employment or self-employment covered by the Social Security law for at least 12 years out of the 36 years before he became disabled and at least 5 years out of the 10 years before he became disabled.

Mr. Wootton announces that any person who feels that he meets these requirements should get in touch with the Lewiston Social Security Branch by mail or in person before July 1, 1957.

The recent announcement that the British intend to rely largely upon missiles supplied by the United States reflects the failure of our efforts in the past to enlist maximum cooperation from nations receiving our foreign assistance. And spending sixty billions abroad to strengthen our allies, we are rewarded by the constant reminder that we must be prepared to assume even greater ve-

Since becoming a member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, I have noted that most of the hearings and deliberations are executive, which means that no reporters are allowed to attend, and reports are carefully censored. And spending taken to avoid "leaks" about defense planning of nuclear power. Members hear testimony of AEC directors and thus prevent disclosure of vital details, and the public are denied specific details. This can be justified, so long as members of the Committee can use such information indirectly for policy making. Now it is reported Secretary of State Dulles proposes that funds for foreign military aid be integrated with our own military operations. This would withhold vital details, and thus prevent Americans from knowing to what extent this aid is being distributed. This is a clever device, but surely cannot be defended upon the basis of secrecy to promote security. If Americans cannot be trusted in either peacetime or wartime to have details concerning the federal budget which they make possible, we should not trust them to divulge details, claiming they were classified. This disclosure of almost complete dependence upon the United States for defense of the British Isles will have serious repercussions upon European countries like France and West Germany, which have been coping with similar problems in the building up of military and economic strength. Britain's disrupting announcement should reveal little that has not been already known by American leaders, but it does bring into the open the operations of North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations and their increasing reliance upon the United States.

"Give Wildlife a Brake" is good conservation, as well as a safety tip this time of year. As mountain areas open up and animals are on the move, many of them walk or forage along roads. Motorists will find a little extra care, especially while on winding, slightly better prices than those elsewhere in the state, too: Fishing on Carey Lake in Blaine county will be reduced to bank fishing only May 1 through July 15. The District of Lake in Custer county will be closed to all fishing May 1 through Sept. 30.

Bird Hunters
Nonresident bird hunters who used the separate bird hunting license last year totaled only 1334, but they came from a good many different places. Thirty-seven states, the District of Columbia, Alaska and three foreign countries were represented. Utah was first with 436 hunters on the list, and California next with 308. A group of nearby states was next in line, but Washington with 164 was the only other state with more than 100. Such distant states as Rhode Island, Connecticut, Massachusetts, North Carolina, Florida and Louisiana were represented by at least one hunter, and Germany were each represented by one, also. This tabulation includes all nonresidents licensed to hunt game birds in Idaho except those who may have hunted birds on their big game licenses which also carry bird hunting privileges.

Target Awards
Youngsters who live in communities where there are no organized competitions still can enjoy the competition and satisfaction of official group shooting. The National Rifle Association has set up a series of qualification courses in which each youth competes against a par score, and may obtain awards by mail. The NRA also conducts "postal" matches in which home teams fire on their own range and mail their registered targets in for judging. In addition, there is an annual National Junior Shoulder-to-Shoulder rifle championship match. Sectional scores are forwarded to the NRA, and the national championship teams are selected. These programs are good continuations of the hunter safety training program, and are fun for most young people.

Wrong Name
One of the most attractive summer birds in Idaho is the American kestrel, a small member of the falcon family that is commonly known as a "sparrow hawk." The nickname has done the bird considerable harm in the public estimation. The kestrel is a true falcon, but for many years grasshoppers, other large insects, and small rodents. Chestnut colors on the head, back and tail and a characteristic swallow-like flight make them easy to recognize, and interesting to watch in the air. Ordinarily they reach Idaho in April, and leave late in the fall.

Diary Helpful
The Idaho Fish and Game department again wants to thank all the sportsmen and hunters who received and returned questionnaires in the 1956 fish and game surveys. The information gained on these surveys is extremely helpful. Several people wrote notes on their questionnaires saying they intended to keep a fish and game diary this year so as to have an accurate record of what trips did produce exactly how many fish or game birds, and information on game observed in general. It does seem like a good way to preserve a lot of the pleasure of summer outings, and would also be an appreciated help when you fill out your 1957 questionnaires!

MAY
Yes, it was May—as up the little hill we climbed
To watch the sunset fade away, and hear the church bells chimed;
And it was May again—when you were by my side
Cascading apple blossoms fell upon my bonnie bride—

Now you are gone from me—alone I climb the hill,
I must hold back the tears—I will not cry today
Because with my heart I've learned to love the thrill
That once we knew—when first we watched the Aprils turn to May.

YOUNG NATIONAL GUARD MEN GIVEN ADVICE ON TRAINING
BOISE—Adj. Gen. John E. Walsh, Idaho Adjutant General, said this week that although new National Guard enlistees between the ages of 17 and 18½ may still get 11 weeks of basic Army training, it will still pay them to "take six."

Walsh explained that under the new mandatory basic training program which went into effect April 1, which requires that all new Guard enlistees without prior active military service enter the program, the recruit who signs up for six months of basic can substantially reduce his ready reserve obligation.

The general added that the choice of either 11 weeks or six months of training will remain in effect until October 1, 1957. After that date all new recruits without prior service will be required to take the six months program. Walsh said the recruits who enlist in the Guard prior to age 18½ and takes 11 weeks of training must continue drilling with an active Guard unit until he is 28 year old to obtain his "administrative duty" in selective service induction.

However, said the general, the man who enlists before he is 18½ and takes the six months' training needs to attend his weekly Guard drills for just three additional years, then continue the remaining 4½ years of his military obligation in the standby reserve.

The "Standby," said Walsh, requires no regular drill periods and a reservist in this category can be ordered to active duty only through Selective Service processes and then only in the event of a national emergency declared by Congress.

Walsh also noted that the 11-week choice is available only to new recruits under the age of 18½, New Guardsmen over 18½ and under 26, without prior military service, must take the six months program to obtain "administrative duty" in induction, said the general.

United States submarines destroyed a total of 214 Japanese naval ships during World War II, including one battleship, eight aircraft carriers, 15 cruisers, 42 destroyers and 23 submarines. Against this score, 52 U. S. submarines were lost.

LOW COST FARM LOANS
The best possible farm loan service at the lowest possible cost... this is the sole purpose of the Land Bank System which for 40 years has served the credit needs of farmers and ranchers.

WHAT'S THE MATTER?
Having been impressed by — and strongly sympathetic to — the current grass-roots revolt against continued high Federal spending, it was something of a "let-down" to have the President tell us that his $2 billion budget for the next fiscal year cannot be substantially cut without impairing "essential" government services.

It is also somewhat confusing when on the very same day that the President indicates a cut of $2 billion in the cards, his Under Secretary of the Treasury expresses the opinion that the budget could be cut between $2 and $3 billion, adding "that would be the sound thing to do."

Having reflected upon these and other recent budget developments, we believe that economy-minded citizens should not permit their thinking to be side-tracked by them. We believe further that if citizens continue to demand Federal spending cuts and lower taxes, their voice will be heard; and if Washington continues to hear this sincere demand from the budget will be cut. After all, the appropriation House have been cut by more than $800 million—and that is a state contains, according to Senator Dwyer and Representative Blagden, a number of new and expanded programs involving expenditures of about $1.7 billion next year.

Certainly the "spender" by now are well aware of the depth of the economic sentiment, and have begun to apply counterpressure in behalf of their favorite projects and programs.

So it is all the more important that the economy-minded citizens continue to make their voices heard, and not let themselves be lulled by the budget sideshows.

More cigarette lighters would work if they took their feet off their desks.

"Anything unusual happen at lodge meeting last night, Harry?" asked the wife at breakfast.

"Well, the boys were talking about being true to one's wife," answered Harry. "The president offered a red robe to any man who would stand up and truthfully say he's never made love to any woman but his wife during his married life—and do you know how many stood up today?"

"Why didn't you stand, Harry?" demanded his wife.

"Well—ah you see —" stammered Harry, "you know I look awful in red."

BRIGHT PLASTIC collars on sage grouse are another phase of a continuing study of these unique native birds. As with many other wildlife species, migration patterns must be known before effective management can be established. The birds are captured by driven nets while they are concentrated on their booming (strutting) grounds in the spring, usually in the dim hours before dawn. Here, Don Hunter of Rexsburg holds a bird while John Crawford, researcher in charge of the study, fastens a plastic collar around the neck of a male sage grouse. Each bird is also banded and marked with a patch of dye on the white neck feathers. Any one observing such markings on sage grouse or finding a band on a dead bird is requested to send full information to Crawford in care of the Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit, University of Idaho, Moscow, or to the Idaho Fish and Game department in Boise.

Pitched Roof Trims Costs Of Cooling

Air conditioning is more effective and less expensive to operate in a home with a pitched roof, according to a leading research engineer in the field of home cooling.

Professor Walt told an audience of air conditioning engineers and members of the National Association of Home Builders that "Doubling the amount of air space in the attic reduces heat absorption into the living areas by 75 percent."

This air space, combined with thick mineral wool insulation in the attic floor, reduces penetration of overhead heat so efficiently, Professor Walt says, that smaller air-conditioning units can be used and cooling costs are reduced by as much as 75 percent.

Professor Walt based his recommendations on research conducted at the Air Conditioning and Mechanical Engineering department of the University of Texas. "Flat or shed roofs have virtually no protective space," he said.

Under a pitched roof, air space is trapped between the roof and the ceiling, reducing heat radiated from the roof. The air space is cooled by the ceiling, and the cooled air is drawn down through the vent openings.

Many architects and cooling engineers advise light-colored asphalt shingles for the roofs of air-conditioned homes, since a light surface reflects more of the sun's rays.

The combination of a pitched roof, light-colored asphalt shingles, ventilation and thick mineral wool insulation is effective in reducing heat in any house, air-conditioned or not.

ARMY OFFERS HOMETOWN ENLISTMENT PROGRAM AGAIN

Applications are being accepted for assignment with the U. S. Army Air Defense Command at Camp Hanford, Washington, it was announced this week.

M. Sgt. Pete Wicks, Army Recruiting Officer for the Moscow area said men between the ages of 17 and 34 are eligible to apply for this unique hometown assignment under the Army's unprecedented new enlistment program.

Initial enlistment under this program was effected September 25, 1956 on a one time basis only, with 16 young men from the Inland Empire enlisting for guided missile units at the Hanford Atomic Works. The excellent reception given this program by the citizens of the Inland Empire necessitates its presentation again.

The program is the most revolutionary ever taken by the Army and this area is the only one in the United States to be granted a home town assignment program. Military service in your "own backyard" and the opportunity for a specialized education in the use of radar, guided missiles, and electronics.

Young men may apply now for enlistment between June 1 and July 31, 1957. Enlistees will flow to Ft. Lewis, Washington for eight weeks basic training, and then given ten day leaves. Upon completion of leave, individuals will report directly to U. S. Army Air Defense Command, at Camp Hanford, for duty assignment.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Sgt. Wicks at 113 1/2 Main St. Moscow.

"On today's crowded highways, there's no time for daydreaming," declared Mr. Ray Trautman, member of the Idaho Motor Transport Association. "No matter what you do for a living officially, there's always a chance that you won't be living at all if you don't watch your driving."

Recognizing that the average driver does not take his driving seriously, Mr. Trautman said that the Idaho Trucking industry was stressing Attention to Driving in connection with its March Courtesy and Safety Campaign, "Drive Fitly."

Homes Need It, Too TV Demands 3-D Scenery

Balustrades, a bookcase and a pine panel door form a three-dimensional background for this room from one of CBS-TV's Studio One dramas. Set designers say this textured background adds interest to what otherwise is a dull-looking room. Home-owners can use three-dimensional materials in much the same way to make rooms more dramatic and interesting.

Take a tip from television if you want to achieve dramatic effects and create moods in your interior decorating scheme. That's the advice of Larry Eggleton, one of the Columbia Broadcasting System's top television set designers. Eggleton, who creates the scenery for CBS-TV's popular hour-long dramatic shows, Studio One, says the key to effectively using three-dimensional appearance.

These include brick and stone walls, interior planting boxes, paneled doors, draperies, textured wall materials, and walls painted with designs.

One of Eggleton's favorite means of obtaining the three-dimensional effect is by using paneled doors also used as interior decor, from traditional to contemporary.

The home-owner can use panel doors of paneled doors with the same success achieved by TV set designers. The doors can be obtained from many material dealers and styles to fit any interior decor, from traditional to contemporary.

WAR ORPHANS ARE URGED TO TAKE TESTS EARLY

Now is the ideal time for young men and women to start taking action if they plan to enroll in school or college this fall under the War Orphans Education program, according to the Veterans Administration.

The program is for the sons and daughters of war veterans who died of injuries or diseases resulting from military service in World War I, or World War II or the Korean conflict.

Generally, War Orphan students must be between the ages of 18 and 23. VA gave two reasons for early action.

First, students will have plenty of time to arrange for admittance this fall to the college of their choice. Delay can result in learning that there's no more room in classes.

Second, prompt action now can result in expediter service by the VA, with all the preliminaries out of the way before the rush at enrollment time begins.

It normally takes at least a month from the date an application is filed to the date VA gives its final approval for schooling. VA must check its records to determine whether the young person meets basic eligibility requirements. Then it schedules vocational counseling, where guidance assists the young person's living parent or guardian to map an objective and a program of study. Final approval can come only after counseling.

By waiting, VA said, prospective students run into the peak load of veterans applying to VA for schooling under the Korean GI Bill, causing further delay.

War Orphan students may receive up to 36 months of schooling, generally in institutions of higher learning. The Government still pays up to $110 a month in school.

PUTS CONSCIENCE AT REST

When your dog isn't up to snuff, don't play doctor. If he won't eat, is listless, suffers from an upset stomach, coughs, has a high fever, bloody discharge or shows other strange symptoms or combination of symptoms, take him to the veterinarian. For even veterinarians sometimes can have trouble diagnosing diseases such as distemper, hepatitis and others which have very similar symptoms.

Don't forget that your veterinarian, generally speaking, has a more difficult time than an M.D. in determining the cause of the trouble. His usual can't say, "It hurts here, Doc" and point to a spot on his chest.

You can help both your pet and your veterinarian if you make a written list of all the various symptoms you've noted. If you don't make a list ahead of your visit, you may forget some seemingly unimportant irregularity in your dog's usual behavior that may prove a vital clue to the illness.

Even a simple, common ailment, such as curling up next to the radiator when he's usually a fresh air lover, hiding in dark corners or walking around aimlessly with a vacant stare may be pertinent. So give your pet and your veterinarian some help by being observant and marking your observations down on paper.

Even if your dog seems wonderfully healthy, it's a wise precaution to have him checked every so often. A good time to have it done is when you take him to have his booster shot for distemper and hepatitis, and again when you take him for his rabies shot. A semi-annual check-up is a good idea.

Feeding Tip: Dogs that have been ill whether from disease or injury require a better diet of easily digested protein, vitamins and energy. Your veterinarian will prescribe a good diet for your dog.

IDAHO'S HEALTH

By State Board of Health

There were fewer cases of polio in Idaho during the first four months of this year than in any year since 1946, we noted in a recent tabulation of the general health department's division of vital statistics.

So far in 1957, there have been only two cases of polio reported—one in February and one in April. This time last year, 11 cases had been reported, and by May 1 of 1955, a total of 21 cases were reported.

Although it is a little early yet to tell definitely, the health department's stepped-up polio vaccination program during the past year has been responsible for lowering the polio incidence.

As we have pointed out before, our virology studies have shown that the vaccine is effective in building up immunity to poliomyelitis. It is effective not all people who are vaccinated, so we have our own study findings on a "representative sample."

Well over a half million polio shots have been given in Idaho during the past year, and an appreciable decrease in paralytic polio—especially among the age group under 20—may, we think, be attributed to this vaccination.

Most of the vaccine distributed to date has been for use of children under 20, and pregnant women. The effectiveness of the vaccine will be reflected in the decrease in polio statistics for the peak of the "polio season"—July, August and September—but indications at this early date point to fewer cases for Idaho in 1957.

If this is the case, it should convince everyone that polio vaccine is a "must" for everyone, child or adult, in any group in which all polio is found.

Again we urge everyone under 40 to see their family physician for the polio shots. The vaccine certainly won't do you good unless it is used still not too late to build up immunity before the 1957 "polio season" so arrange to get your shots as soon as possible.

Respect and obey all traffic signs.

When a person is sitting or standing in water, an electric shock is hundreds of times more powerful than on a dry surface. Hot-rod Becomes Hot Seat. Quick thinking can often mean the difference between life and death when electric power is running wild. Recently four young men in the mid-west were riding in an automobile when a live power line fell across the top of the car. One by one the group jumped clear of the car, being careful not to be in contact with the vehicle and the ground at the same time. This action saved their lives, for if they had touched the auto and the ground simultaneously, they would have been instantly killed. One of the leading forms of home entertainment today is television—a harmless pastime if common sense safety rules are observed. Never erect a tall television antenna close to a power line. An installed antenna could hit a power line if weakened supports gave way in a windstorm and seriously injured occupants in the house. Do-It-Yourself Electrocutation. Don't touch the back of your TV! Even when a set is disconnected there is often a strong enough charge left in the instrument to cause serious and even fatal shock. Properly used, electricity provides us with the comfort and luxuries our forefathers never would have dreamed would be a reality. UNIVERSITY TO ADD STUDENT UNION BUILDING. The University of Idaho acted this week to keep pace with rapidly rising enrollment by engaging a Boise architectural firm to design a proposed addition to the Student Union building, student community center on the high campus. The contemplated addition would be financed by special student fees, would probably cost more than $1,000,000. President D. R. Theophilus said that the regents had approved awarding of the architectural contract for designing the addition to Dropping, Kelley and Finch of Boise, which will develop the architectural firm of Wayland and Clime of Boise as an associate. Plans for the addition are still in the formative stage, and Dropping, Kelley and Finch will maintain an architectural office in Moscow through the design period to work closely with those concerned. "With financing as well as designing still to be worked out such an addition would probably not be ready to serve the students before three to four years from now," said President Theophilus. "By that time enrollment is expected to be close to the 5,000 mark—approximately 1,500 more students than we have on the campus today. "The University of Idaho is a residential campus, and the community center is the focal point of student free-time activity. The Student Union building has a long history of additions in an effort to keep up with enrollments. "The present building stems from a restaurant known as the Blue bucket, which had been privately operated in the campus area. The restaurant building was purchased for $21, 200 in 1936 from the late Permal J. French, for many years dean of women at the university. Minor renovations and additions followed, then in 1950 came a major addition, costing about $700,000. This year another minor addition was made to expand the cafeteria facilities. Student numbers, however, have increased faster than the student community center's floor space.

Nearly every day we read or hear about someone who has committed unremediated suicide by ignoring the inexorable laws of electricity that separate the quick from the dead. Some 1,000 persons in the United States lose their lives each year by either their own, or by someone else's, lack of knowledge about electricity. As an example, a woman in Chicago was electrocuted when she picked up the cord of an electric heater while mopping a floor. The cord was frayed and the floor was wet—a deadly combination. farm hints By The County Agent. The busy bee does business for Idaho farmers who grow alfalfa and clover seed. The part the bee plays is so important, the county agent advised farmers of Latah county this week, that it can mean the difference between a successful harvest and a failure. Alkali bees and honey bees, he said, pollinate the blossoms so that seed develops. For many years, Alfalfa was thought to be self-fertile and to pollinate itself as peas and beans do. It is known now that tripping of the blossom by an outside agency—usually bees—is necessary for production of seed. In seeking pollen or nectar, bees trip the blossom and transfer pollen from one part to another. Large numbers of wild or honey bees or both are valuable to the seed grower, the agent said, not only to pollinate a high percentage of the blossoms, but to do it quickly. Complete pollination hastens maturity, this reduces the time during which damage from insects is likely, and in the case of second-crop seed, cuts down the danger of frost. To get an idea whether your field is being tripped properly, he suggested, look at the bloom. If flowers are abundant and beautiful it means they are not being tripped. Where bees are active the field takes on a brownish cast caused by wilting flowers and developing pods. Bees work best in warm, still days on a good supply of flowers with little competition from other plants, and where they are protected from insect sprays. It is well to avoid growing crops that bloom at the same time near alfalfa or clover seed. In areas where insecticides are applied to crops, the county agent advises spraying or dusting late in the evening or very early in the morning when bees are not so likely to be out in force.

OUT ON A LIMB By Stumpy McCulloch. "Why did you assault this police officer?" the judge asked young Tom. "Well, judge," Tom replied, "I was in a phone booth innocently conversing with my girl when this hunk opens the door and heaves me out of the booth. "And that increased you?" "Yes, sir," Tom said, "but what really made me sore was when he reached in for my girl and heaved her out, too!" "Well, sir, I see by the papers that the U. S. Forest Service is 50 years old. Congratulations, fellers! According to Mister McArdle, the U. S. chief forester, more than half of our forestlands are owned by farmers and other small landowners! Here lies the key to our nation's future timber supply," he says, "as well as a largely untapped source of income to the farmer!" "Which reminds me, I've been harvesting a few trees lately myself. I generally do it in the winter when I have a little free time. Most farmers mark the trees they plan to cut with a blaze or paint. I use white paint, personally—'cause it's easier to see!" "And how do I pick out which trees to cut? Well, sir, like most tree farmers, I try to follow the rules of 'selective cutting.' That means you cut some of your largest trees, and unhealthy or deformed trees, and you thin the stands when necessary. In this way, your forest will yield profits year after year, and your finest trees will grow to full maturity—and greatest value!" "Most fellers who grow trees at a crop occasionally seek the advice of a local forester. I do myself. "After finishing dinner in a Chinese chop-suey house, three fellers broke open their fortune cookies to read the fortune slips inside. The first paper read, "You are about to make millions in the market!" The second read, "You will soon win the heart of a beautiful red-head!" Then the third feller opened his slip. It read, "Help! Help! I'm trapped in a Chinese bakery!" "So long! See you soon!"

SEPARATE TWIN LAMBS FROM OTHERS SAYS U. OF I. EXPERT. Because twin lambs are lighter at birth than singles, C. W. Hodgson, associate animal husbandman at the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station, suggests dividing them into separate groups and picking the tops out of each for flock replacement. "Studies at the University of Idaho have shown that at weaning twin lambs average about 11 or 12 pounds lighter than singles, Hodgson reports. "Twinning is a desirable characteristic in sheep and has been estimated to be due about 15 percent to inheritance. "This could result," he declares, "in the development of a breeding flock which will produce a smaller percentage of twins. One simple method would be to divide the lambs into singles and twins and then pick the top lambs out of both groups." Phone your news items to 3221.

Annual 'Poppy Day' Set For Sat. May 25

Tomorrow will be Poppy Day when everyone in Genesee will be asked to wear a memorial poppy in memory of those who gave their lives to protect the twentieth century tyranny which has made war on freedom.

Wearing a poppy is the individual way of showing remembrance, honor and gratitude for those who died standing between America and its enemies. It is the way to give a personal salute.

Poppies will be worn on Poppy Day, May 25, to help the crepe paper replicas of the wild poppies of western Canada which bloomed in profusion beneath the poppies, to help the World War battle scars on the faces of the veterans of the American Legion Auxiliary which is sponsoring the observance of Poppy Day.

Urge Return Of Civic Survey Cards

Individuals who received the recreational survey cards from the Genesee Civic Association last week are urged by the recreation and Welfare Committee of that group to complete the cards and return them in order that the survey be completed at the earliest possible date.

Officials of the Civic Group pointed out that this is a very small percentage and would not give a true picture of the type of recreation that is desired by the community.

STATE ADVERTISING GROUP CHANGES NAME THIS WEEK

The State organization which is responsible for the advertising and promotion of Idaho's famous potatoes and onions officially changes its name this week, according to Robert L. Reichert, State Commissioner of Agriculture, and chairman of the group.

Legislative action in the past session made the new designation, "Idaho Potato and Onion Commission." Formerly, the group was known as "Idaho Advertising Commission," he said.

The reason for the change according to Reichert, is to avoid confusion with other state agencies and to facilitate promotional work outside Idaho.

Established in 1937, the Commission was first known as the "Idaho Fruit and Vegetable Advertising Commission." Two years later, when apples and fresh peas were dropped from the Commission's promotion list, the name became, "Idaho Advertising Commission."

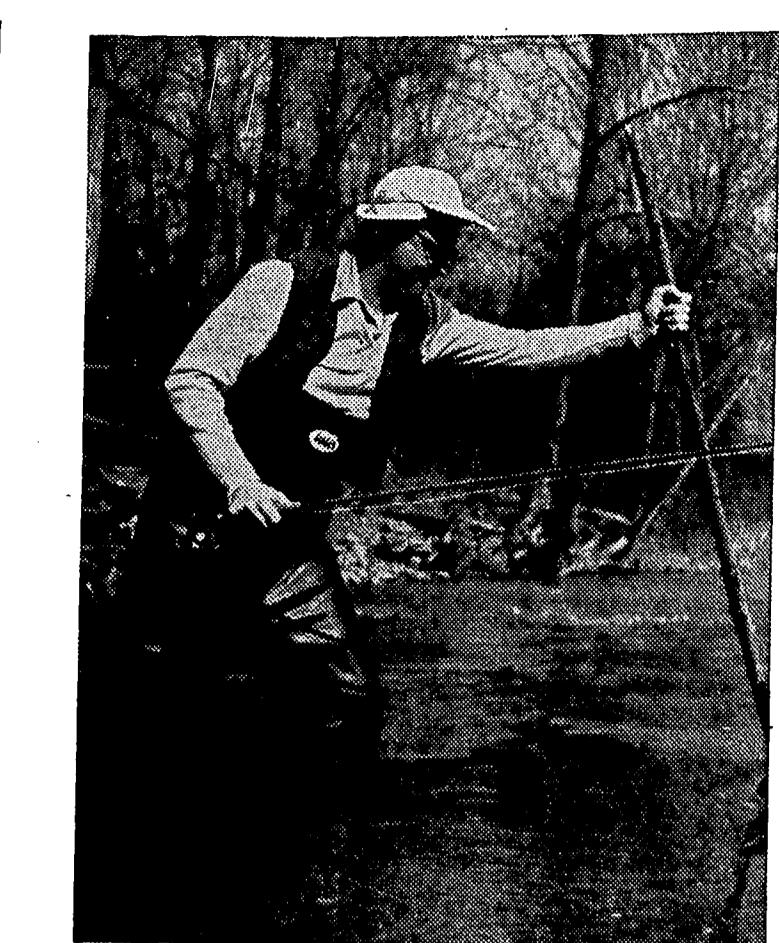

The group is made up of the Commissioner of Agriculture and seven growers and shippers or grower-shippers of potatoes and onions, appointed by the Governor for staggered 4-year terms.

A full-time secretary, Lee Heller, is employed to maintain the office and transact Commission business.

Professional advertising and marketing counselors are contacted to carry out the advertising activities of the group. Funds for the Commission's work come from a tax of two cents per hundredweight on all shipments of Idaho potatoes and onions.

In its 20 years of activity, the Commission has succeeded in making the Idaho potato to an extent the Sweet Spanish onion raised in Idaho, world famous, Reichert stated.

Feeding Tip: Protein is used primarily in building body muscle and tissue cells while fats and carbohydrates (cereals) supply most of the energy. A high-quality commercial dog food, such as Friskies, supplies between 20 and 25 per cent protein mixtures providing excellent nutrition for your pet.

YOUR Social Security?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question:—I am completely disabled but yet 50 years of age, so under the Social Security Act, I am not eligible for disability benefits. However, my neighbor insists I still should apply. Is he right?

Answer:—Yes, your neighbor is right. You should apply for the "disability freeze," which protects your earnings record from being reduced by the period of your disability. It is very important to your family and you should apply for it as soon as you are disabled more than a year or two before the date you are to be disabled for the "freeze" on time.

Growing Counts
The 1957 pheasant "crowing" counts are now under way. These crowing counts are conducted every year to help determine the approximate number of rooster pheasants in various areas of the state. This information, along with data collected during winter sex ratio counts and summer brood counts, helps determine the population of birds that will be available during hunting season. Growing counts are conducted by game bird biologists and conservation officers, with other department workers assisting. They travel to a series of "stations" set up by bird biologists along established growing routes. They listen carefully for a 2 minute period and count the number of roosters they hear crowing. Then they move on to the next station and repeat the procedure. The average rooster pheasant seldom crows more than once every two minutes so they rarely count the same bird twice. The results of these counts are compared with ones from previous years to determine whether there are more or less roosters in a particular area than in other years. We don't attempt to get a total number of birds. All we need to know is the trend.

Dogs Molesting Birds
The department is still receiving reports of dogs molesting young pheasants and waterfowl. The reports indicate many dogs are roaming at large and attacking young birds as well as molesting nesting pheasants and waterfowl. It is quite important to keep dogs under control during these few weeks when the birds are nesting and rearing their young.

Improved Rates
Improved interest rates on new purchases of Series E and H Savings Bonds were announced this week by O. J. Bothne, State Director. President Eisenhower signed the law authorizing the rate increase on April 20, 1957, and H bonds purchased currently will now yield 3 1/2 per cent per annum, compounded semiannually when held to maturity. The increase is effective for all Series E and H bonds purchased on or after February 1, 1957.

Another improvement in the new bonds is the higher interest paid to holders who find they have to cash their bonds prior to maturity. Both redemption rates for the new E and H bonds are substantially increased for the earlier years.

For example, the redemption value of new E bond is increased so as to yield 3 percent at the end of 3 years, compared with 2 1/2 per cent heretofore, and to yield 3.20 percent at the end of 6 years, compared with 2.64 per cent heretofore.

The improved rates apply automatically to all E and H bonds purchased on or after February 1, 1957, and persons who have bought H bonds before that date need not take any further action to assure getting the improved terms. This is true even where the E and H bonds purchased are Series E and H bonds which have been issued on the former (now obsolete) tables of redemption values or interest payment scales. The issue of a new table of redemption values and interest payment scales will be distributed soon in determining the actual redemption value or scale of interest payments, and banks and other paying agents have been furnished tables of the new values.

The new E bonds mature in 8 years and 11 months and the new H bonds in 10 years. Both issues formerly matured in 9 years and 8 months.

IDAHO'S HEALTH By Your State Board of Health

Organic phosphate insecticides, now becoming more widely used in Idaho, can be hazardous to persons who are accidentally exposed to them. These insecticides need not be too dangerous however if they are handled properly. But, since they do constitute a threat to health, and since one death in Idaho has been attributed to these poisons, it might be well for persons to know what they are and what can be done in case of exposure.

There are several different brand names for the organic phosphate insecticides. Some of the more common are Chlorthion, Demeton, Diazinon, Dipterex, Malathion, Parathion, Systox and TEPP.

Symptoms of poisoning from these compounds may include weakness, headache, tightness of the chest, difficulty in breathing, nervous symptoms, blurred vision, pin-point pupils of the eyes, vomiting, diarrhea and abdominal cramps.

In case of exposure, the first thing to do is call a doctor. Then, use the following first aid treatment: If the person is inhaled, induce vomiting by giving a common emetic (this may be dry mustard or baking soda in a glass of water, or a soapy water solution made by placing a piece of mild soap in water and shaking it.) Give the patient milk or water freely, and again induce vomiting.

In case of external contact with insecticides, remove all contaminated clothing and wash the skin with soap and water. Wash eyes with flowing water for at least 15 minutes. When the doctor arrives, he will take over and give treatment as necessary. The state health department recently sent notices to all doctors in Idaho listing the types of organic phosphate insecticides in use, recommended treatment and post treatment for patients who become exposed to these powerful compounds.

FOREST TREE NURSERY EXPANSION IN MOSCOW DUE
Expansion of the Forest Tree Nursery at Moscow, Idaho is now under way, according to E. H. Forester, U. S. Forest Service, Missoula, Montana. The additional trees to be produced will be used for planting on Soil Conservation Service lands. The nursery expansion follows the completion of cooperative agreements between the Forest Service, the Idaho State Forester, and the University of Idaho lands near Moscow will be developed as a nursery site. A well is to be drilled and a combination under-sprinkler and overhead sprinkling system installed. Also, a building for housing equipment and storing and packing seedlings will be constructed. This development work will be completed during 1957. An expanded production of tree seedlings can begin next year. It takes one year to produce most hardwoods and from 2 to 4 years to raise conifer seedlings.

Nearly 500 acres were contracted by farmers for tree planting during 1957 under provisions of the Soil Bank program. However, due to the shortage of trees seedlings none of this acreage could be planted this year and the contracts with the farmers will be extended until trees are available. It is estimated that 3 million conifers and 500,000 hardwoods will be planted on farm lands in Idaho during the soil Bank program.

The Conservation Reserve portion of the Soil Bank program permits farmers and ranchers to plant trees retired from agricultural production. Farmers enter into contracts with the Department of Agriculture thru their local ASC office. These contracts provide reimbursement of 80 per cent of the cost of planting the trees. During the life of the contract, farmers also collect an annual rental payment for the land which is taken out of agricultural production.

On December 5, 1929, a Marine aviator, Captain Alton N. Parker, became the first pilot to fly over the Antarctic Continent.

So this is HOMEMAKING

Breakfast should be all sweetness and light to start the day off well. But not at our house! Bill wakes up grumpy and needs at least two cups of coffee to feel human. If his bacon is cold or I cook the eggs too hard, even two cups of coffee won't do the trick.

I seldom buy anything big for the house without consulting Bill first, but this breakfast situation was becoming an emergency. So I marched right down to the appliance dealer and ordered an Estate gas range.

Reluctantly, Bill agreed to wait a couple of days before voicing any objections to my "impulsive purchase," as he termed it. Before going to bed, I plugged our electric coffee maker into the automatically timed appliance outlet on the range and handed Bill a steaming cupful next morning before he shaved.

Then I grilled bacon and set it together on the big built-in griddle and served them sizzling hot just as he sat down at the breakfast table.

For dinner that night I went all-out to demonstrate the talents of my new range. I made shish-kabob on the automatic rotisserie in the barbecue meat oven, and used the adjacent bake oven for baked potatoes and an apple pie.

During dessert Bill waved his napkin like a white flag and said, "Okay, okay, the range stays. But did the Whirlpool-Seeger instruction book give you any reducing tips for overfed husbands?"

Rescue Units CD's Good Samaritans

A "white charger," complete with a team of white-clad "knights," may some day be trapped under debris after an attack or natural disaster.

The "white charger" would be a Civil Defense "Calamity Jane" heavy rescue truck, or the recently announced light truck. Some 500 rescue trucks are now in use by local U. S. civil defense units.

Approximately 80,000 trained volunteers—some of them perhaps neighbors—are serving on civil defense rescue teams.

All are organized to aim to America's pioneer era—against the day when their community might have to take care of itself for hours or even days in the event of enemy attack or natural disaster before outside help could be spared.

Several Idaho crops such as sweet clover, white clover, alfalfa, alsike clover, and red clover, depend largely on bees for pollination. Entomologists say protection of bees in spraying operations is, therefore, an economic gain.

MILLIONTH TELEPHONE INSTALLED IN WASHINGTON

Washington State's growth was pointed up today (Wednesday, May 22) in a ceremony at the State Capitol, commemorating the installation of the millionth telephone in the state.

Governor Albert D. Rosellini today accepted a bronze, non-working telephone model from the 60 telephone companies of Washington, to mark the installation of the one millionth telephone in the state.

After accepting this symbol of progress the Governor turned it over to Mrs. Ida N. Burford, curator-director of the State Capitol Historical Association Museum, Olympia where it will remain a permanent exhibit.

Don G. Abel, chairman, and Commissioner Francis Pearson, of the Washington Public Service Commission, were with the Governor at today's ceremony. Presentation of the milestone was made by William P. Barnett, president of the Washington Independent Telephone Association and president of the Vashon Telephone Corporation, who acted for this state entire telephone industry. Others participating included Andrew J. Zimmerman, executive director of the Washington Independent Telephone Association, Ray Dalton, vice president, West Coast Telephone Company, Ben Bowling, vice president and general manager, Pacific Telephone, W. R. Jarmon, president, General Telephone Company of the Northwest, and Arwin Davies, assistant vice president, Pacific Telephone. Mr. Walter S. Taylor, Division Manager, Southern Division, said that the millionth phone not only was a reliable index of this state's vigor and growth, but recent telephone growth also emphasizes the importance of telephones in modern-day living. During the last 12 years, twice as many telephones have been added as were installed in the previous 62 years. Washington territory got its first telephone service in 1882 at Seattle. Actually the millionth telephone might have been installed in any portion of the state by any one of the 60 telephone companies which provide communications for this state's 2,600,000 people. In total telephones Washington ranks high compared with other states in the Union. Washington is the 18th state to achieve a million telephones. Some 14 other states have had a million phones for some time. The most recent additions to the million group before Washington were Connecticut, Virginia and Maryland. Panel Doors Put Interiors 'In the Mood'

Any interior decorator worth his commission knows how to coordinate furniture, carpeting, draperies, woodwork and accessories to create a mood or atmosphere.

For example, a fireplace hung with shiny pewter pots, plus a spinning wheel and a few early American knick-knacks, create the illusion of a fine, old Colonial panel door and the impression is strengthened.

Most interior decorators like to work with wood panel doors versatile wood doors are available in a wide variety of styles and they can be decorated in many different ways to harmonize with the rest of a room or to provide highlights.

Here are just a few ideas for decorating panel doors of ponderosa pine:

1. Painting. Pine panel doors of all designs may be painted colorfully in one, two or three colors. One plan is to outline the panels in a dark color, create a custom of the frame of the door in a lighter, harmonizing shade and finish the panels in a third, accenting color.

2. Appliques and cutouts. The wood panels are natural frames for all kinds of imaginative appliques. Maps or colorful magazine illustrations add charm to a den. Cartoons or sheets of music pop up in a recreation room. All types of cutouts can be cemented to the panels with thinning shellac to make a custom lacquer for permanency.

3. Decals. The technique of using the door panels as frames is especially amenable to decals. They lend themselves to children's rooms, kitchens, playrooms and dens.

4. Staining. The beauty of clear ponderosa pine's natural grain adds warmth and richness to any room. Pine panel doors can be stained in tones ranging from blond to deep mahogany. A variety of stock ponderosa pine panel doors that can be converted into Dutch doors is available from lumber dealers in the section, the Dutch door can be used for serving snacks or refreshments.

OUT ON A LIMB

By Sumpy McCulloch

"Lad," asked the tramp, "would you help a poor feller who lost his family and everything he owned in the Florida flood?"

"Why, you're the same man who lost his family in the Galveston flood, and was shipwrecked during the war!"

"Ain't it the truth," the tramp replied, "I'm the unluckiest feller in the whole world!"

There's some mighty good news for tree farmers in the government's new Soil Bank program! The program is designed to reduce surpluses of basic crops, you know. For one thing, the government will pay farmers to convert a few acres of their cropland into tree farms.

As I understand it, the Soil Bank's conservation reserve program provides for two kinds of payments to farmers who plant trees. It pays either in cash or in conservation materials—for converting from crops to trees. This could add up to 80 per cent of the cost of carrying out the program.

Secondly, Uncle Sam makes annual cash payments for the period of the "conservation reserve" contract—which, for tree farms, runs from 10 to 15 years. This amount varies according to the relative productivity of land in the area—but it averages about $10 an acre annually!

This sounds like a mighty good deal! In addition to the $10 per acre per year, a feller can grow wood for lumber and pulp mills, as well as for home and farm use. However, the Forest Service expects the new program to create a temporary shortage of seedlings. So, if you're interested, call for a good idea to get in your request for seedlings early!

I reckon you can get more information about the conservation reserve program in your local area from Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committees right at home, county farm agents, and other representatives of state and federal agricultural agencies.

Oh Hannibal says a forest fire is the forest's prime evil! He says it's what happens when a feller lets his cigarettes go out alone! And, brother, that's no joke!

"You're twenty minutes late again," snapped the boss. "Don't you know what time we start work at this office?"

"No sir," said the new employee. "Cause they're always at it when I git here!"

So loaal See you soon!

Big-Time Producers

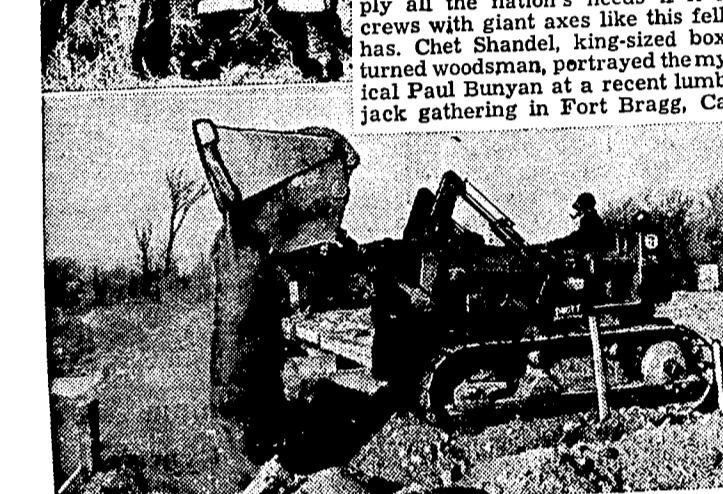

MILK PRODUCTION UP—Farmer Albert Amer, of Lexington, Mo., was expecting an addition to his Jersey dairy herd, but certainly not triplets from one cow. Cattle experts report triple births in cattle occur only once in 100,000 births. The calves were only one day old when this photo was taken.

NOT A YOGA EXERCISE—It would take a big man to handle this toothbrush and tube of toothpaste. The toothbrush is being used as an uncomfortable seat by the painter as he applies finishing touches to the tube. Both were used in a dental display at a children's show in Paris.

LUMBER SHORTAGE?—It wouldn't take the lumber industry long to supply all the nation's needs if it had crews with giant axes like this fellow has. Chet Shandell, king-sized boxer turned woodman, portrayed the mythical Paul Bunyan at a recent lumberjack gathering in Fort Bragg, Calif.

HERE'S A REAL PRODUCER—This International Dress machine can operate either as a clambake, bulldozer, shovel, or bullcane merely by a flip of a lever. Its versatility makes it an economical utility machine for any earthmoving job.

NEW-MT. SPOKANE CHAIR LIFT STARTS OPERATION JUNE 1

Commencing June 1st, summertime visitors to Mount Spokane State Park will be afforded the pleasure of riding noiselessly and comfortably to the summit of the 5,881 foot peak via the new $160,000 Mount Spokane double-chair lift.

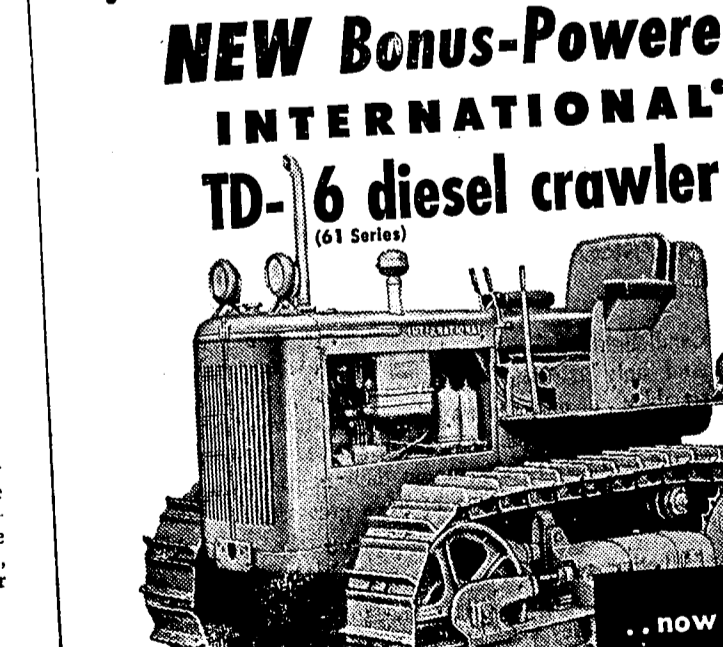

Al Mettler, president of the Mt. Spokane Chair Lift Company, reports that the new lift, which was placed in operation this past winter for the first time, exceeded all expectations. "By popular demand our company is now starting daily operation of the lift as a facility available for the enjoyment of tourists and other summertime visitors to Mount Spokane," he said.

The chair lift will be operating on every day of the week through Labor Day weekend. The planned hours of operation are from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. From the summit of the mountain dozens of lakes are in view. On clear days it is possible to see sections of four states and a Canadian province—namely, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and British Columbia.

DON'T BE A HURRY BUG—SLOW DOWN AND LIVE

"Double, double, toil and trouble..." The witches' ancient chant could well be paraphrased, "Hurry, Hurry, grief and worry" as a warning to impatient motorists who scurry along the highway with little concern for their own safety or that of others. For foolish hurry often brings much grief and worry to the Hurry Bug himself and to others who are unfortunate enough to ride with him or meet him on the road.

Who is the Hurry Bug? He's the fellow who's unable to unwind or relax. He hurries through his meals, he dashes from place to place—he crams his life full of unimportant activity and lives in a constant state of nervous agitation.

The Hurry Bug is the chimpanzee who passes you on the road at 60 miles per hour when you are going 40 in a 40 mph zone; He's the nit-wit who always passes on a curve or at an intersection; He's the yap who, causes most of the traffic crashes. The Hurry Bug lives a dangerous life. (If he lives that long). His kind of driving invites all sorts of physical and mental ills. On the street or highway it invites sudden death. Let's all make it an open season to get there. He's that "S?!" who him bite you.

House Has Comfort Built In The workman installing thick, six-inch batts of mineral wool insulation in the ceiling of this new home is paving the way for comfort for its future owners. Since the house is to be air conditioned, six inches of mineral wool were specified for the ceilings, four inches for the walls, and two inches around the edges of the thick thickness of insulation can make it possible for smaller less costly equipment to cool a house. The money saved usually operating costs are lowered by as much as half.

FISH AND GAME NEWS Bait Question Formulation of new general bait regulations to replace those repealed by the recent legislature is still waiting for a clearer expression of public opinion than has been offered to date. The repeal was particularly needed in order to enable the commission to outlaw live minnow bait in waters that are uninfested with nongame species. However, reaction following the repeal of the old minnow law has been more strongly in favor of a complete ban than was expected, though minnows for bait are equally strongly opposed to a general ban. The law which prohibits the use of any parts of fish, dead or live, and any parts of fish of any kind for bait except permitted. If a regulation can be formulated which will allow delectable changes, and still afford full protection to the uninfested waters, indicated it will give every consideration.

Access Plan Landholders along Silver Creek in Blaine county have announced they will limit fishing access to designated areas this year. The season on Silver Creek will open July 1, and a new sign posting program for the area is expected to be completed well in advance of opening day. The landholders have done all they can to discourage careless and destructive practices, and some clubs have even installed fence ladders and other improvements to reduce the sheer pressure of numbers appearing to have overwhelmed these good spots.

YOUR Social Security QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS Question: I am 62 and disabled but am earning $100 a month from a state workman's compensation because I am disabled on the job. Can I also get Social Security disability payments? Answer: Social Security disability payments have to be reduced by the amount of any other federal or state workman's compensation paid because of the disability. In your case, if you are over $100 a month, we would pay the difference. If they did not pay as the other payment continued, however, we still recommend you file an application with us so you will be protected against any possible change in situation. Also, at age 65 you can draw from both sources and filing for disability freeze now will keep you insured against any possible change in situation.

IDAHO'S HEALTH State Board of Health By Your This is the "flood" season in Idaho, and a number of communities are experiencing the conditions imposed by high water. Other communities are threatened. Residents of all places in possible flood areas are warned of the health hazards that accompany inundation. Healthwise, the most serious hazard is typhoid fever, which often occurs when ground water contaminated drinking water supplies in both urban and rural areas. Residents of flood areas—water threatened by floods and high water—should have typhoid inoculation. It takes about 10 days for the vaccine to provide effective immunity to the disease, therefore, it is important to get these shots as soon as possible. A series of three inoculations are advised for maximum protection. If you've recently had typhoid shots, one booster shot might be enough.

of Idaho extension service. The title is "Farm Sheep Equipment Layouts." The authors are E. H. Davis, engineer and Wade Walls, livestock specialist. Locate the corral on well-drained land, they advise. Protection from drafts and provision for a dry bed and good ventilation are important. Plenty of light is essential for healthy sheep and a convenience in handling the animals. One of the main things to consider in a grain feed trough, they say, is cleanliness to prevent waste. Removal of all left-over feed and other material before each feeding is recommended. The specialists also point out that sheep should have free access to all the clean fresh water they will drink. Water in corral pools may be a source of infection. A water barrel does not and chaff and has an opening so only one sheep may drink at a time. The barrel can be filled by hand or by a pipe line with a regulating float in the barrel.

U. OF I. STUDENTS GO TO LAKE TO STUDY, NOT FISH Fishermen who flock to test their skill on weekends at the southern end of Lake Pend Oreille may consider a University of Idaho graduate class crazy to pass up the fishing to scale sheer limestone cliffs looking for plants. But there is a method in this madness. Led by Dr. J. E. O'Connell, three students taking a course in advanced ecology have made the trek from Moscow to Bayview nearly every weekend for the past seven months to work on the class project—a study of plants that grow on limestone areas. "The object is to find out which plants grow in limestone areas and to determine if the plants live in other places," Professor O'Connell said. "We hope to be able to make definite conclusions on the findings this summer." The class receives puzzled looks from fishermen as they load their boat with scientific gear for a trip across the lake to Lakeview. Instead of poles and lures, the class carries shovels and ropes to be used in climbing the steep hillsides where the plants grow. Specimens which are collected are placed in a plant press which flattens the plants for later study in the laboratories.

VETERANS ADMINISTRATION STUDIES MYSTERY DISEASE

tack on a mysterious tuberculosis-like disease called sarcoidosis has been initiated by Veterans Administration hospitals at Atlanta, Ga.,

Dallas, Texas, Madison, Wis., New York City Hospital and Washington,

D. C., have begun a study to learn the cause and nature of sarcoidosis so steps can be taken to prevent and treat it.

A doctor at each of the hospitals has volunteered to study patients with sarcoidosis, not only clinically but with equal emphasis on such as environment, occupation, eating habits, and self medication. All factors which may furnish a lead to solving the cause of the disease will be investigated.

Sarcoidosis is more severe and much more wide-spread disease than has been believed, a preliminary study by a four-man medical team from

VA central office in Washington D.

C., shows.

It occurs most frequently in persons between 20 and 40 years of age and produces symptoms in men confused with tuberculosis, fungus diseases, and cancer.

The growths or nodules characteristic of sarcoidosis usually occur in the lungs but can occur in any organ of the body.

The VA Central Office research team is made up of Dr. M. M. Cummins, director of research service;

Dr. Edward Dunner, secretary of the VA-armed forces committee on chemotherapy of tuberculosis; Dr. R.

Schmidt, Jr., tuberculosis service, and William Williams, director of research statistics.

They have been investigating sar-coidosis since 1954.

Their study indicates sarcoidosis

sometimes becomes a severe disabling disease and causes death in a larger number of patients than heretofore suspected.

They find sarcoidosis occurs in a

land, North Central, and Southeastern States.

They suggest a possible correlation between distribution of the disease

W. W. P. Speeds Up Work At Clark Fork Dam

With the return of warmer spring weather in the Clark Fork River valley in western Montana, approximately 100 men are at work this week on the second year of construction of the Washington Water Power

Company's $84 million hydroelectric project.

Now approximately 27 per cent

complete, WWP's 400,000-kilowatt power development project will be one of the 6900-ft. dam's 137,500 horsepower turbines is scheduled to spin into action by the fall of 1959.

Although cold weather slowed operations during the winter, the project's construction force never dwindled below 600. With the snow all but gone from the valley floor, 12

prime and subcontractors are again on the scene to keep the project on schedule.

Five bridges, one of them almost 1000 feet long, are being built to shift railroad traffic on a Northern Pacific Mainline track paralleling the project area to higher ground. Approximately 20 miles of track are being relocated to avoid inundation by the dam's 38-mile-long reservoir.

The Noxon Rapids project is Washington Water Power's largest. Its development in its 67-year history.

Completed in 1920 will make the company virtually self-sufficient in power resources for the first time in 20 years, in addition to doubling

WWP's present generating capacity.

Retiring are Hugo Johnson, professor of electrical engineering and emeritus head of the electrical engineering department, and Claude W.

Ashby, assistant professor of languages.

Johnson, who holds the fifth electrical engineering degree conferred at the University of Wisconsin, was recently cited for his outstanding teaching career at a tri-sectional meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. When he was graduated in 1909, however, he found jobs scarce.

"In those days," he recalled, "I was more suspicious of college graduates. What we learned had its advantages, though. I had had instruction work on a radio school company because I understood alternating current."

Johnson never forgot his birthplace and the program of the Elk City

Bureau of Mines and Geology as an anniversary of the Elk City quadrangle in Owyhee county will be completed by N. R. Anderson, geologist in charge of the field study by

Dr. Howard Grant. The quadrangle will begin the geologic mapping of the Sublett range in Owyhee, Power and Cassia counties.

The limestone deposits of southeastern Idaho will be studied by Professor K. E. Grimm, assisted by Professor R. R. Beeder. Lode deposits of rare minerals in Lemhi county will be studied by Dr. A. L. Anderson,

Veterans Convert Policies to Permanent-Type Insurance

Nearly 40 percent of the World War II GI life insurance policies now in force have been converted from term to permanent plans, Veterans

Administration announced this week.

Ten years ago the figure was 21 percent and five years ago, 30 percent.

Of 5.4 million National Service life insurance (NSLI) policies in force at the end of February 1957, more than 2.1 million were of a permanent plan type, VA said.

Most popular permanent plan GI policy is the 20-pay life, held by 963,

000 veterans.

Next in order of popularity are ordinary life and 30-pay life, each held by more than 400,000 veterans.

Endowment policies range from the 20-year endowment (149,000), down to endowment at age 65 (65,000).

A total of 2,221 World War II veterans have paid-up policies on more than 90 million premiums will be due, VA said.

Permanent plan GI insurance will build up a reserve, most of which can be borrowed quickly if the policy-holder needs cash. GI term insurance has no reserve, no borrowing value, and must be renewed at a higher premium rate every five years, VA said.

Chapels have been built at the Antarctic bases by Navy sea-

working in their off-duty time.

Veterans holding GI term insurance may obtain information about converting to permanent plan policies at any VA office.

Get in the fine-car swim at the low Ford price!

There's no need to pay a "fancy price" to enjoy fine-car luxury. Ford's lowest priced* of the low-price three, yet offers values you'd expect only in cars costing far more!

But step inside. That's when you'll find the real evidence of Ford's quality!

And, on the way in, note that Ford offers door checks that hold doors open in either of two positions—for easy entrance or exit. A little thing. But, in a fine car, why not? Then, inside, notice how comfortable those plush, foam-rubber seats are. They'll stay that way. And on long trips. For they're scientifically contoured over non-sag springs. Your rear-seat passengers are treated extra kindly, too—with spring assists to help them open and close the doors—with the most leg room in Ford's field!

Fine cars are smooth—and that's another place Ford really shows its stuff! Ford delivers its famous V-8 power smooth as a whisper. That's because only Ford takes the pains to electronically balance each engine while running under its own power. Not even the makers of the most expensive automobiles go this far to bring you super-smooth performance.

Ford rides fine-car smooth and quiet, too. You can thank the new "Inner Ford" for that. Ford, for instance, has a swept-back front suspension that actually "rolls with the punch" of every road bump.

Ford's rear springs automatically adjust to give the right ride for every road. And Ford keeps things quiet, with the most sound insulation in its field.

Fine cars are built to stay solid. So's Ford!

Ford has the only frame in its field to make use of rugged tubular steel beams. Strengthening beams. Expensive car-ent's built of thicker body steel or with sounder engineering skill. Then, of course, in Ford you can have all the power assists and other conveniences found in fine cars. And they cost far less in Ford. Yes sir! In every feature, every part, Ford is the fine car at half the fine-car price. Come in and see!

My father died in 1949 and my 64-year-old mother is to receive $64.40 a month as his widow. Is she entitled to any retroactive benefits because she is over 62 years of age? Also, will she draw any benefits from a pension my father earned while he was working? M. S.

Answer:—No, your mother is not entitled to any retroactive payments. The 1956 amendments to the Social Security Act provide monthly payments to women who have attained the age of 62 on November 1, 1956. The first payment of such benefits may be paid to you whether or not your mother derives any benefits from a private pension which your father worked for. We can only advise you to contact your employer's personnel manager who should be able to tell you whether or not there are benefits payable.

OUT ON A LIMB

By Stumpy McCulloch

Soon after he got engaged to a pretty gal at a summer resort, young Amos heard some distressing rumors. "Is it true," he asked her, "that since you came up here, you've gotten engaged to Bill, Ed, George, and Harry, as well as me?"

"Well," said the gal, "what's that to you?"

"Just this," said Amos. "If it's so, and you have no objection, we fellows will all chip in together and buy you an engagement ring!"

How about a soil quiz today? I'll name five groups of trees and you name five groups with the kind of soil in which each should be grown: drained heavy soil, moist-heavy soil, light loam. Are you ready?

First group: white pine, red pine, Scotch pine, black locust, shortleaf pine, pitch pine, black oak.

Second: sugar maple, white ash, red oak, Norway spruce, Austrian pine, European larch, arbovitae, beech, basswood, white oak, hemlock.

Third: Scotch pine, red pine, pitch pine, jack pine, shortleaf pine.

Fourth: white ash, red oak, white elm, cottonwood, sweet gum, swamp white oak, arbovitae.

Fifth: black walnut, tulip poplar, basswood, white oak, red oak, black oak, white ash, Norway spruce, catalpa.

Well, according to my information, the first group should be planted in light loam, the second in well drained heavy soil, the third in sandy soil, the fourth in moist-heavy soil, and the fifth in heavy loam. Course, some species of trees can be grown in more than one kind of soil. Generally, a feller wants to plant a species that's most common to his region, and has the highest economic value—either on the market or for home use.

Course, there's no such thing as a fastest-growing tree. On the coastal plain, loblolly pine would grow much faster than shortleaf pine, but in the highlands, the shortleaf pines would win.

"What do you want?" O' Hanbital asked his blind hand.

"May I use your hand?" the feller asked. "My wife told me to ask you for a raise—and the feller told me how much."

So long! See you soon!

TRANQUILIZING DRUGS CHANGE TREATMENT OF MENTALLY ILL PATIENTS

A remarkable change in the types of treatment for mental patients since tranquilizing drugs were started is reported by Veterans Administration. Dr. J. F. Casey, VA director of psychiatric and neurology in Washington, D. C., said the changes include:

1. Electric shock treatment decreased from 4,527 patients in fiscal 1955 to approximately 1,000 patients for the first six months of fiscal 1957.
2. Insulin coma treatment cut from 1,486 patients in fiscal 1956 to only 383 patients for the first six months of fiscal 1957.
3. Neutral packs and tubs sharply reduced from 15,655 patients in fiscal 1955 to 1,471 patients for the first six months of fiscal 1957.
4. Privileged patients on tranquilizers increased from 2,500 in 1955 to 5,500 in the first half of 1957.
5. Trial visits away from the hospitals increased from 9,985 in fiscal 1955 to 12,351 in 1956.

Dr. Casey said the tranquilizers also have caused a beneficial chain reaction in reawakening the interest of patients in individual and group psychotherapy, with the result that this form of treatment is on the increase.

"Perhaps one of the most dramatic changes has occurred in the number of patients who can be granted greater hospital freedom as a result of the drugs," Dr. Casey said. "More and more of them are being transferred from closed to open wards, which is a therapeutic advancement of considerable significance in the treatment of mental patients."

Dr. Casey said about half the psychiatric patients hospitalized by VA are being treated with drugs. Patients receiving tranquilizers in 1955 to 1956 increased from 17,006 in the first half of fiscal 1957, he said.

The Idaho report on brucellosis for March shows less than one-half of positive reactors among all cattle one year tested and blood tested. Idaho's freedom from the disease was best of all western states except Washington.

FISH-GAME LICENSE SALES FOR 1956 SHOW INCREASE OVER PREVIOUS YEAR. Hunters and fishermen bought 5,269 more Idaho fish and game licenses in 1956 than in the previous year, the Idaho Fish and Game department reported this week.

Mrs. Fay Whitson, license clerk, said the final tabulation shows 276,151 licenses of various classes were sold in 1956 as compared with 270,882 the previous year. Increased sales of resident classes accounted for 4612 of the difference, while only 657 additional went to nonresidents. The report shows a decline in only two classes of licenses for the year. A drop of 13,245 in the resident combination license class was more than made up by the heavy increase in the separate resident game and resident fishing tickets.

Economy Drive Slows Down
With the President's appeal for public support for his budget, it is likely that the economy drive in both defense and foreign aid spending will be diminished. But Congressional leaders of both parties appear determined to maintain the economy momentum, and final results should be between three and four billions under the budget estimates.

I have pointed out that minerals like cobalt and antimony were not included, although the only antimony produced in this country is a by-product of an Idaho Silver mine. ASK THE MAN WHO KNOWS THE ANSWERS!

CHARLES VAN DOREN
Explains why U. S. Savings Bonds are even better investments now than ever before.

- Q: What two new benefits have been added to the U. S. Savings Bonds during 1957?
Mr. Van Doren: Every Series E Savings Bond bought since February 1, 1957 pays a new, higher interest—3 1/2% when held to maturity. It also reaches maturity faster—in only 8 years and 11 months.
- Q: What should every Bond owner do about his older Savings Bonds?
Mr. Van Doren: Just hold 'em! The rate of interest a Savings Bond pays increases with each year an owner holds it, until maturity. Therefore, the best idea is to buy the new—and hold the old.
- Q: Why are Savings Bonds better than cash?
Mr. Van Doren: Because cash lost, stolen or destroyed is gone forever. But U. S. Treasury will replace Savings Bonds, including interest earned, without cost to you.
- Q: What is the average investment in U. S. Savings Bonds per Bond owner?
Mr. Van Doren: Over 40,000,000 Americans now own more than $41,000,000 worth of series E and H Savings Bonds—with an average investment of more than $1,000 per Bond owner.
- Q: What is the safest and surest way for a U. S. citizen to guarantee his own and his country's future financial security?
Mr. Van Doren: By investing regularly in U. S. Savings Bonds—either on the Payroll Savings Plan where he works or by regular Bond purchases at his bank.

People who know the answers know the value of investing in U. S. Savings Bonds. So sign up for Payroll Savings where you work. Or buy Bonds regularly where you bank.

IDAHO'S HEALTH
By Your State-Board of Health

Although tularemia is not usually a serious public health problem in Idaho, a few cases of the disease are diagnosed nearly every summer in the state.

Tularemia, or rabbit fever as it is often called, is not confined to rabbits alone. It can be transmitted to man through groundhogs, mice, rats, porcupines, muskrats, beavers, squirrels or sheep, as well as bites from ticks, fleas, and flies.

The germs usually gain entrance to the body through abrasions in the skin, and the incubation period for the disease is from one to 10 days.

The onset of tularemia is sudden, with headaches, chills, body pains, fever and occasionally vomiting. Lesions appear on the skin or in the mucous membrane lining of the eyelids. The disease lasts two to three weeks.

Softball League Opened Tuesday

Paced by the one-hit pitching of Leo Johnson, Team No. 1 hustled out a 1-0 upset victory over Team No. 2 in the first game of the Summer Softball League Tuesday night on the local ball diamond.

The No. 2 team, considered to be a power squad with two coaches, two teachers and two former local baseball stars had rough going from the very first inning with the No. 1 team leading 4-0 in the first and 5-0 in the third and 6-0 in the fourth.

Johann never gave up a hit until the fifth inning although three runs were scored in the fourth on errors. The other runs came in the top of the fifth.

Despite the lack of conditioning among the players' injuries were few. The only casualty was Alving Isakson who strained a finger clawed into first base to report.

GRACIE PFOST PROTESTS FIREARM LEGISLATION Rep. Gracie Pfost has protested an Internal Revenue Service proposal to require the registration of every rifle and shotgun manufactured and sold.

She said she was in accord with the objective of the regulation which is to suppress crime but that as it is drawn it would "penalize millions of law-abiding sportsmen in the hope of curbing the comparatively few citizens who use firearms for illegal purposes."

"It would also work a considerable hardship on dealers and manufacturers of sporting arms and ammunition," she declared. The Idaho Congresswoman said if the regulation goes into effect it will considerably increase the record-keeping of hundreds of Idaho hardware and sporting goods stores, and add unnecessary red tape to their operations.

Rep. Pfost told Director Avis that the regulation would be particularly burdensome to Idaho residents, since the state is a "sportsmen's paradise, which embraces large areas of primitive, mountainous country, in which Idahoans as well as sportsmen from other states do considerable hunting."

OUT ON A LIMB
By Sumpay McCulloch

When Ol' Herkimer bought six bottles of cough syrup the other day, the druggist asked him, "Is somebody sick at your house?"

"None," said Herkimer.

"Well, then why are you buying all that cough syrup?"

"Oh," said Herkimer, "cause me and the missus shore like pancakes!"

As I was telling you the other day, my neighbor Ol' Cyprus is covering part of his cropland to a certified Free Farm—cause the government's Soil Bank program is paying him about $10 an acre a year to raise trees instead of corn. Well, sir, Cyprus is wondering how to get seedlings.

You can buy seedlings from most local nurseries, of course. If you want a list of nurseries in your area, just drop a postcard to the American Association of Nurserymen, 653 Southern Building, Washington, D.C.

When you buy 'em, seedlings generally cost $5.50 to $15 per thousand, depending on their quality and size. And graded seedlings of better height and quality are well worth the extra cost, I'd say! But lots of pulp mills and other companies these days are supplying seedlings free to farmers. For instance, the Southern Pulpmongers' Conservation Association donated 46 million seedlings last year! Some state and federal agencies provide free seedlings, too.

How many trees should I plant per acre? Cyprus asked. Well, some fellers say 1000 per acre—which would mean planting seedlings six feet apart, with seven feet between each row. Or you might plant 800 per acre—leaving seven feet between each seedling and seven feet between each row. The point is, you want to space the trees so that—after the first thinning—the culms can be sold for pulpwood. If you plant too close together, you'll have to thin 'em before they reach pulpwood size!

Nowadays, some fellers rent tractor-drawn tree planters, which can plant as many as 1200 seedlings in a row. By hand, you can plant maybe 700 a day. I've never fertilized a planting of seedlings. Course, you ought to always get planting information from local nurseries and foresters.

Well, guess I'll hit the hay, as the farmer said as he slipped off the barn! I'll see you soon!

Hay Cutting

Hay with lots of leaves makes the best feed, the Latah County Agent reminded farmers this week.

Leafiness and green color are the most important characteristics of good hay. High quality hay has fine stems, a sweet smell, with no indication of mold, and very little weeds and stubble. Such hay is more palatable and produces more meat and milk than hay that lacks these elements. Leaves are of utmost importance, says Howard Roylance, extension agronomist, because they contain most of the protein, minerals and vitamins. They also have less fiber than the stems. The proportion of leaves largely determines the feeding value.

The right time to cut alfalfa, he said, is at one-tenth bloom. If blooms are scarce and the crop is of satisfactory height, cut when new shoots begin to appear from the base or when any signs of yellowing appears. In actual practice when hay continues over a week or two, cutting should begin before the ideal stage of maturity is reached so that the greater portion may be harvested before it has become too mature to make good feed. Mixed hay should be cut when the crop that makes up the major part of the mixture is at ideal maturity.

Hay is cured with two things in mind: to reduce moisture as quickly as possible for safe storage, and to retain the feed value by avoiding loss of leaves through shattering and bleaching. Hay that is handled when

25,000TH IMPERIAL ROLLS OFF ASSSEMBLY LINE

The 25,000th 1957 Imperial rolled off the assembly line at the Chrysler Division plant in Detroit as Chrysler executives and guests gathered to witness the occasion.

Division officials noted with enthusiasm that the car's record market penetration in the United States is being maintained.

To date sales of 1957-model Imperial have topped sales of all 1955 and 1956 models combined.

"During May, 3,500 Imperials were delivered to customers, a rise of 37.1 per cent over the 743 cars delivered in the same period last year," reported E. C. Quinn, president of the Chrysler Division.

For the calendar year to date 16,801 Imperials have been delivered, up 258.7 per cent over the 4,684 delivered during the same period of 1956.

Mr. Quinn said Imperial has broken all sales records in its history during five months of the current model year and that the car has risen from nineteenth to fifteenth place in automobile sales.

"We are particularly pleased with Imperial's rising status in price group four, which includes America's luxury-class cars," Mr. Quinn said. "Whereas Imperial represented only 3.5 per cent of new car registrations in this market area in the first quarter of 1956, the car has captured 10.4 per cent of new car registrations in the first quarter of 1957."

IDAHO'S HEALTH
 By Your State Board of Health

A healthy adult can donate a pint of blood at regular intervals without harm or noticeable inconvenience. Many thousands of persons have given eight or more pints of blood through regular donations.

The human body has about six quarts of blood, more or less, depending on body size. When a pint of blood is donated, it is quickly replaced by the body so that the blood returns to its normal state.

When a large volume of blood is lost at any one time through a wound or serious illness, the body must undergo surgical procedures where blood transfusions are required to maintain the normal circulation of whole blood. Thus, ample supplies of blood must be available to hospitals for prompt transfusions to patients.

Since whole blood is usable for only about 21 days, it must be supplied to hospitals in a steady flow, instead of a trickle one week and a tremendous volume the next.

Products and By-products

Besides providing whole blood for transfusions, blood donations are used to prepare valuable products for treating the sick and the injured. Research has shown that certain fractionated protein substances (the clear part of the blood from which the red cells have been removed).

One of these is a concentrate that contains the clotting agent so helpful to surgeons. Other substances contain anti-bodies which have developed in the blood of a donor because of certain infections. These substances, called globulins, may be used to protect persons receiving them against certain infections, or may be used to modify a disease that is incubating.

DR. EARL F. COOK NAMED DEAN OF MINES AT U. OF I.

Dr. Earl F. Cook has been named dean of the College of Mines and Metallurgical Engineering at the University of Idaho. The announcement was made by President D. R. Theophilus, following regents' approval. Cook has been serving in an acting capacity since the retirement of Dean A. W. Fahrenwald.

At 37, Cook becomes the youngest dean on the university faculty. He has had extensive experience in mining operations, having conducted numerous studies while serving with the U. S. Geological Survey and various Northwest mining firms.

A native of Bellingham, Wash., Cook was graduated from the University of Washington in 1943, and later received master and doctorate degrees from that institution. He also studied at the University of Paris in France and the University of Geneva in Switzerland.

Before joining the University of Idaho in 1951, he taught at Washington as well as at Stanford University. From 1949 to 1951, he was photographer for Geophoto services, Denver, Colorado.

Cook's first position at the University of Idaho was as assistant professor and acting head of the department of geology and geography. In 1952, he was promoted to associate professor and head of the department of geology and geography. He represented the University of Idaho in 1956 at the 20th International Geological Congress in Mexico City.

Many of his field studies have resulted in publications widely used in the mining industry. He is the author or co-author of more than a dozen such publications.

A veteran of World War II, Cook served as a machine-gunner in the European theatre. He was wounded, and holds the Purple Heart.

DATING-NUART CAKE

The frosting for this cake is made first, then set aside to cool.

Frosting: Cook to gather until very thick 1 c. chopped dates, 1 c. sugar, 1/2 c. chopped nuts, 1/2 c. water.

Date-Nuart Cake: Mix together 1 c. finely chopped dates, 1 c. boiling water, 1 teaspoon soda, 1/2 c. butter, 1 unbleached egg and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Soften together 2 c. flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 c. sugar. Add to moist ingredients and add 1/2 c. chopped nuts. Bake at 350 degrees 25 to 30 minutes. Cool partially, cover with above topping. This is baked in flat pan. Serve slightly warmed with whipped cream.

STRAWBERRY DESSERT

2 cups sweetened strawberries, mashed

1 pkg. strawberry jelly

3 tblsp. sugar

2/3 cup heavy cream, whipped graham crackers or vanilla wafers

Drain juice from berries. If not enough for one cup, add enough water to make one cup. Beat sugar into hot berry juice, chill until partially set. Beat fluffy. Beat sugar into egg whites, beat until mixture. Fold egg whites into jelly mixture, then fold in the whipped cream and lastly the berries. Roll out graham crackers (about one dozen) or an equal amount of vanilla wafers, sprinkle over bottom of a long baking dish; you may leave a few if desired. Pour berry mixture over the crumbs, or spoon it out. This dessert is also good poured into a pie shell, either pastry or graham cracker crust and garnished with whipped cream.

FATHER'S DAY

Again it's Father's Day and in my dreaming

Come memories tender—filled with no regret

The sweetest of life's golden days are bearing

The days I loved—the days I can't forget—

We walk the pasture lands again together

While Sunday morning chimes ring sweet and clear,

Ring as they did in childhood's sunny weather

In memory-dreams I see the spire from here—

Down woodland ways we loved—alone I wander

Where June so lately said goodbye to May,

Where mad-red roses weep I stand

How spring could come and you be gone away.

In a small town a minister came to church one Sunday to find only one person sitting in his congregation—a cowboy from a ranch near town. The minister was upset about no audience and when he finally ended his sermon he had preached for 2 hours. When he shook hands with the cowboy and asked how he liked the sermon the cowboy replied: "Well, Reverend, it was O. K., but I wouldn't do it that way. If I hauled a load of hay to my cattle and found that they had all got out but one, I wouldn't give the whole load to one critter."

Traffic All Snarled Up!

WATER TRAFFIC—How these Venetian boatmen steer their craft without plowing into one another is a navigation miracle. This mass of gondolas and assorted vessels glide along the Grand Canal in Venice, Italy, as part of the traditional festival marking "The Wedding of Venice With The Sea," climaxed the tourist season.

TRAFFIC BOTTLENECK—This picture presents an unusual traffic "bottleneck"—two hamsters scuffling over the same bottle of milk. When this pair of two-year-olds were abandoned by their mother, an enterprising Irvington, N. J., man came up with this ingenious idea of feeding.

AIR TRAFFIC—This sight of a mass of TV antennas protruding above a ramshackle weather-beaten house in Moscow verifies Russian have TV reception problems, too. Although Muscovite factory workers seemingly earn only enough for the bare essentials of life, here's proof they enjoy modern luxury items such as TV sets.

YOUR Social Security ?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Do I include my wages from working for neighboring farmers as part of my farm self-employment income?
Answer: No. Wages earned from another farm are treated as wages, not self-employment.

Question: Which workers on a farm are covered by Social Security?
Answer: Every worker who is paid by one employer $150 or more in cash wages in a year, and every worker who works for one employer on 20 or more days during the year for cash wages figured on a time basis, that is, by the hour, day, week, month, etc.

OUT ON A LIMB

By Stumpy McCulloch

Trembling with fright, the victim pleaded with the burglar: "Please, don't take my watch. It isn't worth anything. It's only sentimental."
"I'm sentimental," said the crook.

I see where the State of Oregon puffer up its chest and announced that it topped all other states last year in total lumber production. Seems like it's the 19th straight year that Oregon has held this honor.

Friend of mine over in the next county asked me the other day what kinds of wood are used for pulp. He says he has lots of willow, cottonwood, mulberry and hickory trees that he'd like to clear off his land, but he's not sure if these trees make good pulp.

Matter of fact, seems like paper can now be made from fibers of almost any kind of wood. Only thing to watch for is that your local mill can use all woods and is probably using those most readily available in the area.

Best thing to do is check with the mill or your nearest Tree Farm information center.

Now'n then I like to tell about how all over the North American continent we're gradually winning the fight against forest fires. It's kinda slow but our losses seem to be a little less year after year.

That's because overall we're putting more time and effort into fire protection. But this costs money and I sure had no idea how much until I saw some figures the other day.

For instance, it now costs $83 million annually for forest fire protection on the 432 million acres of non-federal timberland in the U.S.

Then there was the agricultural college student who was voted by his class "the kid most likely to sack seed."

Travel Shifts Into High Gear

HERE COMES TOMORROW—Italian designers have come up with this sleek plastic bus creation which they claim will cruise over the roads at 125 mph. To be powered with a gas turbine engine, one of the planned models will carry up to 32 passengers.

LONGEST ROAD IN THE WORLD

The Kansas Turnpike, terminat-a road with no end, but not for long. Just as soon as Oklahoma allocates the necessary funds, the new four-lane superhighway will knife its way through the farmer's field and he'll have a new, faster road to get his grain to market.

ROADS FOR TRANSPORTATION—Earthmoving equipment such as these International Harvester giants are very necessary to most forms of transportation. Before sleek automobiles and streamlined buses can skim over the ribbons of concrete and asphalt, high-speed earthmovers and crawler-type tractors, must first make the roadbeds. Fleets of equipment similar to these units, move millions of yards of rock and dirt in incredibly short spans of time and at surprisingly low costs.

Teachers Win Two In Softball League

Behind the strong arm of their manager-pitcher, Jordan Kanikberg, the Teachers softball squad moved into second place in the city league this week with victories over the Motors and News team.

In the best game played to date in the softball league the Teachers squeezed out an 8-6 victory over the Motors Thursday, June 20. In this contest the winners jumped off to a four-run lead in the first inning and then withstood a final, 3-run, frame for the Motors to cinch the victory.

Ozzie Kanikberg started the game off at the plate for the teachers with a home run with nobody on base. Jordan K., Ken Primus, and Wayne Hampton also scored in the first frame. Evan Hall and Ozzie K. also tallied again in the second to add two more runs for the teachers, who also added a run in each of their remaining times at plate.

After letting four runs home in the first inning the Motors team settled down and began playing a good brand of ball for the remainder of the contest. The Motors rallied in the top of the fifth in an attempt to close the scoring gap as Eli Rice, Dick Scharnhorst, and Lee Liberg scored, but the rally fell short as Jordan K. sent Virgil Post and John Hickman back to the bench via the three-strike route.

Jordan Kanikberg was the winning pitcher, giving up only three safeties while Lee Liberg was charged with the loss.

Top News 12-6

Teachers capitalized on the mistakes of the News team Tuesday evening, June 25, especially in the second and third as they racked up their second straight win in a 12-6 game.

The News team drew first blood in the game in the initial frame as a sharp single by Don Grieser brought home pitcher Denis Jain. The Teachers quickly took the lead in the bottom half of the first as Jerry Pederson and Bob Jacobs scored on a double poled into left field by Wayne Hampton.

Two five-run innings, the second and third, proved to be the downfall of the News team, as the Teachers were quick to take advantage of six News errors during these two stanzas to bring home 10 runners, including one round-trip swat by Dick Lee, who also belted out a triple in the fourth inning. Ewald Lettenmaier connected for the only extra-base hit for the News team with a triple in the second frame.

The contest was played without incident with the exception of a collision between John Baldus and Ozzie K. in the second inning as Baldus was running back to second unnecessarily to relate to the dust.

Kanikberg was again a winner as he joined the losing.

New T. V. Antenna Being Installed By Station KHQ-TV

Television Station KHQ-TV has begun installation of a newly designed antenna atop its 826-foot tower near the south Spokane city limits. The new antenna, built by the Radio Corporation of America, embodies the most recent advances in television transmitting equipment.

The new five-bay RCA antenna is scheduled to begin operation next week. During the few days of installation, KHQ-TV will continue to telecast regular programs from a special standby antenna located near the tall steel neon-lighted tower, which has been a landmark in Spokane since 1937.

R. O. Dunning, president and general manager of KHQ, Incorporated, said that tests of the standby equipment "indicate Channel 6 pictures will not be noticeably different in the Spokane area and surrounding counties. Possibly reception will be affected temporarily during installation of the new antenna in scattered outlying locations quite distant from the tower, including some areas served by community systems."

Dunning expressed his thanks to a number of viewers throughout the Inland Empire who cooperated in a test of the television standby antenna. Many gave detailed answers over the telephone to questions about television reception from the standby tower and a number wrote postcards or letters to describe their reception of Channel 6 in response to announcements describing the transmission tests at signoff time.

Dee Waymire, chief engineer for both KHQ radio and television, pointed out that "since the big tower also transmits radio programs, KHQ radio will use a temporary antenna system during the few days of construction and good radio service will continue with very little change in normal coverage."

Specialized crews are installing the antenna. The equipment has five butterfly shaped faces called "chairs" which transmit television signals in all directions at 100,000 watts, the highest power authorized by the Federal Communications Commission.

The new antenna replaces equipment installed shortly before KHQ-TV went on the air in December 1952 as Spokane's first television station.

One of the requirements set down for the game is that each of the two teams appear in uniform and the only uniforms available and suitable for the Pony Leaguers are the old Legion uniforms.

English Farm Youth Visits In Genesee

Michael Needham, of Droitwich, Worcestershire, England, who is visiting in this country under the International Farm Youth Exchange program, is spending a week with the Robert Heimgartner family in Genesee.

Micheal, who arrived in the United States May 3, will spend his time viewing and learning about American farming methods and other agricultural practices in this country. The English youth has also spent several days with the Jack Nebelsieck family while in Genesee. After leaving here, he will visit for a week at the Kirk Rush farm near Moscow.

Needham, who, with his father and two other brothers, operates a 600-acre farm in Worcestershire County, England, found that there isn't too much difference between American and English farming methods, although certain American crops, especially in the vegetable line, are unknown in England due to a different growing season. The Exchange Youth had not tasted watermelon before and was pleasantly surprised with the American-grown vegetable.

American kitchens also proved to be a very interesting room for the young Englishman, who opined that very few English homes were so well-equipped in that department.

Mr. and Mrs. Heimgartner plan a four-day trip with Micheal over the Fourth of July to show him Grand Coulee Dam and other Northwest points of interest. Before leaving the country, Needham will attend the FFA convention this fall in Kansas City, Mo.

Mobile X-Ray Unit In Genesee July 2-3

A mobile x-ray unit will visit Genesee on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 2 and 3 and will be located in the main business district for those who wish to avail themselves of the service. The hours of operation will be from 3:00 p. m. to 8:00 p. m. Tuesday, July 2; and 12:00 noon to 3:00 p. m. and 5:00 p. m. to 8:00 p. m. on Wednesday, July 3. There is no charge for this service.

The mobile units, sponsored jointly by the Idaho Tuberculosis Assn. and the State Health department, have completed three full swings around the state and are starting on the fourth.

The primary objective of an x-ray survey in a community is to find pulmonary tuberculosis. Early tuberculosis is not usually located by outward signs like some diseases, but it can be found by x-ray.

In addition, the x-rays taken at these mobile units often help physicians locate non-tuberculosis infections of the lungs, certain types of pleurisy, some varieties of chronic heart disease, tumors inside the chest, and injury and disease of the bones of the thorax. A large percentage of the non-tuberculosis diseases thus discovered are extremely serious if allowed to continue untreated until recognizable signs and symptoms are produced.

Tuberculosis itself is most easily cured when discovered in the early minimal stage. Three-fourths of the tuberculosis found by chest x-rays is of this early type, where recovery is most likely, with proper treatment.

People do not have to undress to have an x-ray picture taken at one of the mobile units. Women are asked to remove their wraps and costume jewelry, and, so far as possible, are urged not to wear dresses covered with ornaments and decorations on the day they visit the unit.

Men remove topcoats and vests, and take pens, pencils, etc., out of their shirt pockets. The average person is in the x-ray bus about a minute. Actual exposure to the x-ray is only a fraction of a second.

1st Security Bank Receives Honors

First Security Bank's 1956 annual report has received high honors in a national contest conducted by Mead Papers, Inc., of Dayton, Ohio, it was announced here this week by Carl J. Clausen, manager of the First Security Bank at Genesee.

Many of the nation's leading printing plants were represented by their finest productions for prominent American advertisers.

Mr. Clausen said that the Mead citation read, in part: "The selection of First Security's report was based on its extremely able presentation of the corporation's far-flung operations, its excellent showing for 1956 and its plans for future development. The use of photographs throughout the book to emphasize the sound economic basis of the Utah-Idaho-Wyoming area was an astute touch to get the story over to share-holders and others interested in the corporation's affairs."

"In fact, every feature of planning, format, copy, charts and presentation of pertinent data marks this report as the work of men with not only the usual advertising skills but with that special grasp of financial matters so necessary in such work. It is a masterful performance."

First Security's annual report was prepared under the direction of W. L. Eccles, First Security's senior vice president in charge of public relations and advertising. The report was executed by Gilham Advertising Agency, Inc., and printed by Quality Press.

INDUSTRY PAYROLL SEEN ENDANGERED BY FOREST FIRES

The help of every resident is needed to keep Idaho forests green during the coming months, a prominent forest industry official declared this week.

"Warmer weather means an increased danger of fire that can do irreparable harm to this state's valuable forests," said Grant B. Potter, spokesman for the Idaho forest industries and an official of the Ohio Match Co., Couer d'Alene.

Salaries and wages from Idaho's forests and forest industries total nearly $47,000,000 annually—more than half of the total manufacturing payroll of the state, Potter said.

Every forest fire started during the coming months will have an adverse effect on that payroll by destroying some of the raw material to keep our forest industries operating, he added.

"I urge everyone to be extremely careful with matches, smoking materials and camp fires," he said. "Do your part to keep Idaho green."

IDAHO LAKES TO SERVE AS MODELS FOR ART CLASSES

Three beautiful Idaho lake areas will serve as "models" for amateur and professional artists who will take part in the University of Idaho's "Workshop on Wheels," a painting expedition through scenic Idaho July 1-20.

A three week itinerary includes Lake Coeur d'Alene, July 1-6; Redfish lake in Stanley Basin near Sun Valley, July 8-13, and the Payette lakes area near McCall, July 15-20.

The short course, which receives college credit, is taught by two nationally-known artists on the University faculty. Professor Mary B. Kirkwood will instruct in oils, and Professor Alfred Dunn in water colors. Works of both have been exhibited throughout the nation. Artists who attended the initial workshop last year painted mountains, lakes, and ghost towns and other scenes encountered on the tour.

Although accommodations were available at each location, some of the harder artists camped out and in combined a concentrated course in painting, college credit and a vacation experience. Painting sessions are held every weekday with evenings for lectures and recreation. Weekend travel from site offers additional opportunities.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question:
I am 70 years old and operate a farm. During 1956 and 1957, although my gross income was over $2500, my net income was less than $400 each year. I did not file income tax returns. Can I now file late tax returns and report my farm income under the optional method? Will I be entitled to old-age insurance payments?

Answer:
Yes. Even though your net income was less than $400, under the optional method you can report self-employment income of $900 for 1956 and $1200 for 1957. You will be entitled to old-age insurance payments of $47.90 a month.

WAR ORPHANS EDUCATION ENROLLMENT TO RISE SHARPLY

More than 3,000 more daughters of deceased war veterans attended class this past school year under the recently enacted War Orphans Education program, Veterans Administration reported.

But VA pointed out that the educational program, which went into effect after the 1956-57 school year got under way, is just now beginning to gain momentum. During the best school year, VA predicted, War Orphans enrollments probably will more than double this year's total.

The years ahead will witness even greater increases, VA said, as younger children of deceased veterans will reach the legal age for War Orphans schooling. Generally, the program is for young men and women between 18 and 23 years of age.

At present an estimated 25,000 sons and daughters of war veterans who died under conditions caused by military service are enrolled in schools and colleges and universities. Below-college-level courses are allowed by law, VA said, so long as the young person is out of high school and wants to take below-college course that will equip him for a definite vocational goal.

War Orphans education is available to the sons and daughters of World War I and World War II and Korea veterans who died of conditions caused by their military service.

Young men and women may receive up to 36 months of education, with VA paying them an allowance of up to $110 for each month of full-time schooling completed.

CONTINUE TO SUPPORT TAXPAYER GROUP MANAGER

Idaho taxpayers were urged today to counter-attack in order to hold ground gained in Washington's Battle of the Budget.

"By cutting every appropriation request so far—a trend that already indicates a total cut of better than $4 billion—Congress has accomplished economies more significant than the apportionment bill," declared Max Yost, Executive Manager of the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho.

"Attempts to 'play down' effectiveness of the economy drive should be countered by continued public demands for less Federal spending and taxing," Yost said.

In today's "battled" progress report, Yost said, the House of Representatives, about three-fourths the way through the budget, has cut $3.9 billion or about 8 per cent from appropriation requests. And the first eight appropriation bills reported or passed by the Senate add up to less than the House-approved total for the same measures.

"It seems fair to assume that Federal spending next year would be considerably higher if it were not for the strong economy tide now running," said Yost. "Some cuts that will curb fiscal 1958 spending will curb future spending. The reduced appropriations have hit hard or slowed down the more than 40 new or expanded government spending programs in the original budget, programs that invariably start small and grow larger."

"A number of Washington observers also feel that the greatest result of the economy drive may be new fiscal control procedures for both the legislative and executive," Yost pointed out.

He emphasized there is much to be gained by continued support of the economy drive and that a "let-down" on Capitol Hill could still wipe out much that has been achieved. He added:

"Success to date demonstrates that the key to budget and tax cuts is still the individual taxpayer's word to Congress: 'I'll take less from the government, if government takes less from me.'"

The "I'll take less" slogan is being pushed by the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho and the National Conference of State Taxpayers Executives.

JULY 4TH WARNING

If you are planning to take a trip during the 4th of July holiday period, a special caution has been issued by Harold Davis, Director, Traffic Safety Division. Davis states that the increased travel during the holiday period means greater danger to the motorist and pedestrian on our streets and highways.

The Idaho State Police will make an all-out effort to see that traffic accidents will not mar this year's Independence Day Celebration. Every available member of the entire State Police force will be on duty to protect law-abiding citizens and apprehend those who endanger the lives and property of others.

"Make courtesy your code of the road," Davis urged. "A driver who insists on taking more than his share of the road is inviting trouble. If you exercise courtesy, you will be surprised to find that other drivers will return your courtesy almost every time."

Davis strongly warns against trying to cover too many miles in too short a time, driving at speeds too fast for conditions, driving while you are drinking and while tired. Don't be a fourth of July statistic, SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!

A doctor writing in Your Health magazine says that accident-prone people fall into three general groups: Those who deliberately take tremendous risks in fits of anger; those who are insecure or dissatisfied; and those who react to emergencies by flying off in all directions emotionally.

RETAIL STATUS OF IDAHO POTATOES

Consumer acceptance of Idaho potatoes in the most competitive retail markets throughout the United States will be studied by the department of horticulture of the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station. The study, set up on a three-year basis, was requested by the Idaho Potato Producers association which backed its request with a $12,000 grant to help finance the undertaking. In charge of the project will be C. Sparks, horticulturist in potato research at the Aberdeen branch experiment station.

"What we are particularly anxious to find out is how Idaho Russets, long known for their quality, are faring in competition with Russet and similar varieties from other states," explains G. W. Woodbury, horticulture department head. "Idaho has been a Russet producer for a long time. Most of our competition is fairly new. With all of the big potato states expanding their Russet production, it is important that we in Idaho find out how successful we are in the competitive markets."

Although most of the attention in the Idaho study will be devoted to Idaho Russet potatoes, which account for about 90 per cent of the state's total production, Sparks also will check consumer acceptance of Early Gem and Bliss Triumph varieties. These are grown extensively in the southwestern part of the state.

Most of the market analyzing will be done in the mid-West, at markets such as Chicago, Cincinnati or Cleveland. Those markets are favored, Sparks explained, because there is where Idaho Potatoes are meeting some of their stiffest competition from other states. To get data on how they rate with Idaho Russets the study probably will shift to Philadelphia or some other large eastern city.

Into maintain Idaho status as a quality potato state we must have the answer to several questions," Sparks comments. "For instance, do people prefer Idaho potatoes when variety, price and grade are the same? Will they buy Idaho's if the price is higher than that of other potatoes of the same variety and grade? Does the consumer prefer other potatoes at the same or a slightly higher price? These are points that determine the market activity of Idaho potatoes and, consequently, the destiny of the Idaho potato industry."

NEW TELEPHONE SYSTEM FOR NP RAILWAY INSTALLED

The Northern Pacific railway put a 2,000-mile transcontinental dial telephone system—the longest of its type in the country—into service today (June 20).

The new automatic telephone hook-up links the railway's St. Paul and Minneapolis offices with offices in Seattle, Tacoma and South Tacoma. Similar to a dial system in a medium sized community, the new facility serves about 640 company telephones, according to D. C. Hill, superintendent of communications.

In addition to the dial system, the railway has also placed in operation eight new manually operated telephone carrier circuits between its offices in key cities on the railroad. The expanded communication facilities not only will speed up routine inter-office communications, but will expedite handling of passenger reservations and information about the freight movements.

The NP installed its first manually operated long distance carrier telephone circuits in 1943.

Respect and obey all traffic signs.

PRE-BUILT BRIDGE SPANS AID LOCAL ROAD BUILDERS

Abutments from existing bridges help cut costs with new precast spans.

EDITOR'S NOTE: A previous article in this series described the major role assigned to precast concrete bridge spans in the National Highway Program. This new type construction site has a strong application in local conditions.

The precast method of bridge building has been embraced by county, township and city highway officials.

Besides saving in cost, use of precast concrete spans helps overcome a shortage of engineering personnel.

Often, street and highway superintendents do not have the drafting departments required for the structural design of bridges.

However, quite capable of providing abutments and piers—all the structure that's needed in the precast bridge deck method.

Plans like those of American-Marietta Company turn out precast and prestressed concrete spans to order.

The combination of concrete reinforced with steel cables in the spans, gives them great strength and reduced weight.

Leading universities joined in the development of precast concrete methods, and the industry has developed precast concrete methods, and the industry has developed precast concrete methods.

Load distribution tests were made on a bridge in Centerville, Penn., after two years service.

The tests, under direction of Lehigh University, Pennsylvania Federal Bureau of Public Roads, State Highway Department, and Federal Bureau of Public Roads, showed that construction between adjacent spans resulted in load transfers far beyond any existing design requirements.

Local highway departments have found precast spans versatile in their application.

At Wilkes-Barre, Penn., a single-span bridge was erected on abutments in less than half a day.

Besides economy in time-savings, ease of installation, advantages of the precast bridge spans include:

- Low center of gravity. They are placed side-by-side without elaborate rocker systems. -Provision for carrying utility lines through the length of the spans. -Minimum depth-to-span, providing more clearance below, or reduced height in the bridge, with resultant economies. -Smooth bottom with attractive ceiling for overpass structures. Smooth underside will not catch flood debris that destroys bridges of other types. -Easy to widen. This can be done simply by adding additional members. -Rapid completion. On overpasses, traffic on the lower level need not be interrupted only for short periods while the precast beams are placed. -Salvageable. If relocation is required, spans can be removed and used at another location.

Because we have not made provision for effective education for the worthy use of leisure time, many of them will be involved in unnecessary and unfortunate accidents.

There will be traffic accidents, swimming accidents, and shooting accidents. For each such incident there will be a community reaction. For each accidental shooting there will be a movement against the ownership and use of firearms. Again, there will be the cry, "There ought to be a law!"

Members of the shooting fraternity have an excellent opportunity to render a moral responsibility to render a valuable public service.

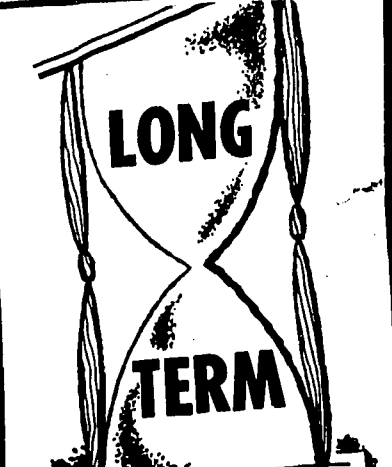

Those of us who believe that responsible citizens have the right to own and use firearms for lawful purposes must learn to know that guns are constructed to be used to build tools which will be used to cement healthy minds and bodies, to cement father and son relationships, and to develop self-discipline, initiative, and team spirit in order to mold better citizens and better sportsmen.

At the same time, we must stress the need for proper gun handling by everyone in the field, on the range, and in the home. We who own guns must be especially careful at this time of the year to see that they do not get into the hands of unformed children with proper supervision.

Our failure to act now to meet this situation will have harmful effects. The National Rifle Association of America has established an excellent Junior program. Shooting clubs and other sportsmen's groups must increase their efforts to encourage youngsters to participate. They must expand their activities in firearms safety education, maintenance training, and competitive shooting during the school vacation.

With a little extra effort on our part, many of these young people will find a new lifetime interest and learn a valuable lesson in the proper use of leisure time. (From the American Rifleman.)

IDAHO'S HEALTH

By Your State Board of Health

As we mentioned in an earlier column, this is a good time of the year to get a sun tan—but do it gradually to keep from burning.

A few persons invariably expose themselves to excessive heat and suffer either sunstroke or heatstroke.

For either sunstroke or heatstroke, move the victim to a shady or cool place. His clothing should be removed and he should be put on his back with his head and shoulders slightly elevated.

Cold, wet cloths, an ice bag, or ice should be applied to his head. His body should be cooled, preferably by wrapping him in a wet sheet which is kept moist with cold water.

Heat exhaustion, caused both by excessive sun and excessive indoor heat, usually begins with muscular weakness, dizziness, nausea and a temperature which may reach 107 degrees or higher.

Heat cramps are extremely painful muscular cramps, occurring usually in the abdominal muscles or in the limbs. They accompany heat exhaustion or may occur alone.

The patient should be removed to circulating air. He should lie down, keeping the head low. He should be kept warm. Stimulants may be used here, and a physician should be called.

Prevention of all these summer ailments is helped by drinking an abundance of water, increasing the body's intake of salt, wearing thin, loose clothing, eating light and easily digested foods, and avoiding muscular exertion and direct exposure to the sun during the hottest parts of the day.

FUTURE WATER NEEDS DEMAND CONSERVATION NOW

The history of this nation's growth is paralleled by a history of action to conserve our natural resources.

This statement is taken from the preamble to a report of a committee on industrial water use, pollution abatement, wildlife and recreation of the National Rivers and Labyrinth Congress.

Herbert G. West, Walls Walla, executive vice president of Inland Empire Waterways Association and a member of the Congress, is on the committee.

To meet foreseeable water needs will require a variety of conservation practices. Mr. West explained that in the prevention and control of water pollution and the regulation of runoffs to even out stream flows. In addition to important public health values, water pollution control is essential to permit safe re-use of the water, for all legitimate purposes, as streams flow from city to city.

The recent convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, the committee stressed that acute water shortages exist and more severe shortages are in prospect "unless held preventive actions are taken for maximum conservation and utilization of waters."

Pollution, the committee said, causes water shortages as effectively as the droughts and surface and ground water are being progressively deteriorated by manmade pollution.

The committee strongly urged a positive federal-state-local cooperative program for the maximum conservation of waters for essential uses, including effective abatement of pollution.

The committee endorsed the established policy of primary state responsibility for controlling water pollution at its source.

However, the effects of pollution are interstate and where regulation actions by the state or interstate agencies are effective, the federal government should prescribe and participate in planning of long range programs for the abatement of pollution, the committee said.

The committee also strongly urged comprehensive programs of water resource development, including flood control, irrigation needs, recreation and water pollution control and other beneficial uses, geared to meet the future water requirements of the region.

The committee called for adoption of a program which includes support of policies relating to conservation as set forth in the report of the President's advisory committee on water resources policy. Mr. West said.

Stated simply, Mr. West said, the water resource problem is one of making the essentially constant water supply of the nation meet an ever increasing demand and of providing the right quantity of the right quality at the places where it is needed.

By 1975 this country will require an increase in the current water supply of 145 percent—equal to the additional supply of 145 New York Cities, requiring the flow of about 11 Colorado Rivers.

Heat exhaustion, caused both by excessive sun and excessive indoor heat, usually begins with muscular weakness, dizziness, nausea and a temperature which may reach 107 degrees or higher.

Heat cramps are extremely painful muscular cramps, occurring usually in the abdominal muscles or in the limbs. They accompany heat exhaustion or may occur alone.

The patient should be removed to circulating air. He should lie down, keeping the head low. He should be kept warm. Stimulants may be used here, and a physician should be called.

Prevention of all these summer ailments is helped by drinking an abundance of water, increasing the body's intake of salt, wearing thin, loose clothing, eating light and easily digested foods, and avoiding muscular exertion and direct exposure to the sun during the hottest parts of the day.

a Dog's Life

DOGS ON VACATION by E. M. Gildow, D.V.M. Director, Friskies Research Kennels

The city-slicker dog who goes to the country on vacation gets a glimpse into all sorts of scrapes.

He's a wise fellow, used to such sights and sounds as big rumbling buses and walling fire engines. He's not going to let the buzz of a little bee bother him, nor will he turn tail at the sight of a snake or porcupine, and therein lies the trouble, and the reason why you should know what to do if he needs help.

Some dogs react so violently to the bite of a bee or hornet that they actually get sick to their stomachs.

If he gets stung with porcupine quills, never yank them out. They should be worked out slowly so that they come out intact. This is a job best left to the veterinarian. These barbs have quills on the tip and shaft and so constantly work inward. Therefore, they should be removed as soon as possible. If a quill is left under the skin, an abscess is apt to form and that will entail a minor operation.

If your dog gets in the path of a poisonous snake and is bitten, quickly make a cross incision over the puncture wound and press the poison out as fast as you can. If the bite is on the leg, put a tourniquet above it until the treatment is finished. Actually, this is a job for the veterinarian, but since minutes count you should be prepared to cope with the situation.

Feeding Tips City dogs vacationing in the country will use up a lot more energy playing around outdoors than they're accustomed to using on concrete lawns. It is recommended that you increase their dinner allotment. Once home in the city, you can put them back on their regular quota.

FISH AND GAME NEWS

Fellowships offering up to $1000 Fellowships have been offered by the National Wildlife Federation to aid exceptional work in conservation of related fields.

Qualified people working in teacher training, radio and TV, scouting, journalism, textbook writing and other activities connected with conservation may apply. Applicants will be interviewed at a college. The National Wildlife Federation, 232 Carroll St., NW, Washington 12, D.C., will furnish full information and forms for application. Undergraduates will apply for up to $500, the others for amounts up to $1000.

Anyone wanting some new recipes for cooking and serving fish will be glad to know that the Superintendent of Documents, (Government Printing Office, Washington D. C.) can furnish a list of eight. They range from 10 to 30 cents each. Ready To Go Ninety-seven outfitters and guides have been licensed to operate in Idaho this year, and the packing season seems to be getting under way a little earlier than usual.

Interest is heavier this year, too, judging from the increased mail received at the department from people wanting to plan camping, fishing or hunting trips in Idaho. Outfitters and guides who have not yet obtained their licenses are reminded that Idaho law requires them to do before starting to operate.

Changing Times A group to Arizona sportsmen have become so enthusiastic about hunting predatory animals for sport that they have petitioned both state and federal fish and wildlife agencies to discontinue indiscriminate control. Meanwhile, while devices are being developed for calling coyotes, foxes etc., Arizona reports. Idaho has recently experienced a similar increase of sport interest for predatory animals, but the interest here centers upon the bobcat, lynx and cougar.

Local News

Recently the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Senate members of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy reported favorably the status of the International Atomic Energy Agency. Last fall this agreement or treaty was signed by the United States and 70 other nations, although only a few, including Soviet Russia, have ratified it. This document is based on the President's address of December 8, 1953, on "Atoms for Peace". The United States would contribute 5,000 kilograms of U-235 uranium worth $85,000,000 and make available research information. The United States would also provide international inspection is provided. The Senate Committee offered a stipulation that even if Two-thirds of IAEA member nations should not ratify the original treaty, the Senate can still vote its disapproval and withdraw the United States membership. Bilateral agreements which our nation has now with about 40 nations for exchange of atomic energy for peaceful uses should provide adequate incentive and also safeguard our interests from being exploited by the Soviet Union. Therefore, I shall continue to study this proposal because of its far-reaching implications.

Soil Bank Controversy

This is not an election year, so no new farm legislation will be considered by Congress. However, there has been a preview of what to expect next year. The House in the Agriculture Appropriation Bill recommended that the acreage reserve, estimated to cost over half billion this year, be discontinued after the 1957 crop year. This would eliminate the acreage reserve. The House originally planned. The House also voted to $250,000,000 the 1958 conservation reserve program based on the longer term program. The Senate voted to increase this figure by $100,000,000 next year, and also to continue the acreage reserve. These two versions are now in conference. Although the soil bank is not effectively reducing surplus commodities acquired by the government, and notwithstanding a

EUROPEAN COLLEGES DIFFER FROM THOSE IN AMERICA

In Europe students have to wait until they get to college before they have much choice in courses. Dr. Herbert Izbicki, assistant professor of mathematics at the University of Idaho, said this week.

Izbicki, who came to the university from Vienna, Austria, in February, made his comments on education in Europe to high school teachers participating in the National Science Foundation Institute.

Each student has the same program except for a choice of languages. In addition to his own language, he must take one "dead" language—Latin or Greek, and one foreign language.

Should a student fail, he must re-examine the subject after the vacation period. If he fails again, the student must repeat the entire course. If two courses are failed, the entire year's work is repeated. That is the end of the student's education.

Firemen Swamp Motors 18-5

Exploding for ten runs in a big third inning at bat, the Firemen kept their unbeaten status in the city softball league last Thursday, June 27, with an 18-5 victory over the Motors.

Gene Woodruff started the scoring for the Firemen in the first inning by rapping a home run to left field and scoring on a sacrifice and error. Bill Emerson led the game at 1-1 in the first inning with a hard triple that took him to third and scored two pitchers' error. The Firemen went ahead again in the second frame as Esser, Emmett, and Moser scored to make the count 4-1.

The Firemen squad broke out the heavy bats in the big third inning as Bob Jacobs, the Motors pitcher, faced 15 men, giving up 10 runs and five hits including a double and triple by Howard Bruegeman, and a double by Marv Moser, who had smashed out a round-trip blow in the second inning.

The winners added four more runs in the fourth inning as nine men went to the plate. The Motors rallied briefly in the fifth frame but lost out over three runs had scored.

Ag Management Course To Be Offered By University of Idaho

A new option of study, Agricultural Management, to train Idaho young people for management positions in modern farming and farm-related industries, has just been announced by Dean J. E. Kraus of the University of Idaho college of agriculture. Department heads of the various technical departments of the college and agricultural business leaders through the state cooperated in designing the new option.

Students will be able to enroll in the agricultural management option for the first time this September. A full-four year course, the new program is in the department of agricultural economics.

"The new option gives students basic training in both technical agriculture and agricultural business management," said J. E. Kraus. "This is the greatest need today in agriculture. Even though the number of farms and farmers is growing smaller, our agricultural output is increasing. This requires a new type of force in farm-related industries to care for this increased output."

"The latest national figures show that 10 million persons are employed in the United States of 25 million—more than one-third—are employed in the production and distribution of agricultural products. Where we are accustomed to seeing a farmer engaged as farming only, we now recognize over 500 different agricultural occupations in eight fields, research, industry, finance, education, communications, and government services, in addition to farming and ranching."

Dr. W. A. Polz, head of the department of agricultural economics, emphasizes that the increasing demand for agriculturally trained people is evident in this year's graduating class. Agricultural colleges over the country received a total call for 15,000 students from 525 different industries, while only slightly over 7,000 graduates were available.

"The trend toward complexity and bigness in agriculture is creating an ever-increasing demand for young people trained in both agriculture and agricultural management," comments Dr. Polz. "Today it takes agricultural machinery, farm power, farm, but also to finance, buy and sell, store and distribute farm product and supplies. The demand for young people trained in agricultural management is growing fast in all phases of farm-related industries and will continue to expand in the foreseeable future."

Throughout the country, Dr. Polz explains, there is a need for farm-related boys who have had a combination business and technical agricultural training than for any other category. Most of these opportunities are in the farm-related industries, while only slightly over 7,000 graduates were available.

The farm becomes more technical, more centralized and further removed from population centers that consume farm products, the need for business-trained agriculturists will increase."

The agricultural management option at the university is a flexible program to give each student a wide range of choice. It allows specializing in such areas as: farm management, food processing, livestock management, fertilizers, feeds-seeds, agricultural chemicals, fruit and vegetable production, marketing, economic and business courses available include agricultural economics, farm management, marketing, agricultural prices, and agricultural production, farm management, culture, plus accounting, business law, money and banking, business writing and government regulation of business in the college of business administration.

ARMY OF VACATIONERS STARTING TO MOVE

Off we go—80 million strong—America's army of vacationers landing on states east of the Mississippi mountains, infiltrating the woods and sweeping over the highways.

Besides the increased business for hotels, motels, resorts, railroads, airlines, and the birth of the annual tourist trek means new business for clothing stores, drug stores, food stores and hardware stores.

People are rushing to buy sun lotion, sun glasses, cream, lotions, eyeglasses, sports clothes, fishing tackle, outdoor motors, and picnic supplies.

It is estimated that 15 billion dollars will be spent on vacations this year. Of the vacationers 85 per cent will travel by automobile, 14 per cent by train, 8 per cent by plane and 6 per cent by bus. Others go by boat and there are some who ride bikes or walk.

The middle Atlantic states will get the most vacationers, with the North Central states east of the Mississippi River getting the second largest number. Third will be the South Atlantic states and fourth the Pacific states.

Among the biggest attractions for tourists are listed scenery and sight-seeing. The biggest items in volume sales for tourists are aspirin, sun tan lotions, eyeglasses, insect repellents and camera film.

Pine Panel Door Keeps Youngsters Out of Dutch

Keeping a watchful eye on her children without having them underfoot in the kitchen is a problem most mothers have faced. Here's one solution—a panel door of ponderosa pine cut in half to form a Dutch-style entrance to the kitchen. A shelf on top of the lower half makes a serving counter at meal times. Dutch door also makes an attractive, practical front or entrance door. It has the advantage of keeping youngsters in-entirely the house while the upper half is left open for ventilation. It also permits the housewife to talk to callers without inviting them into the house.

Panel doors of ponderosa pine that can be converted to a Dutch-style door are available as stock doors from building material dealers. Dutch-style doors also can be used effectively on a child's room, or play room. With the bottom half closed, the youngster can be confined without feeling imprisoned. Many families use the Dutch door as a novelty entrance to a recreation room, or as an opening onto a patio.

CHURCH CALLS FOR NEW DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Philadelphia, July 4—As principal speaker at the Fourth of July observance here, Senator Frank Church today called for a new Declaration of Independence—from war, armaments, nuclear contamination and "fear itself." His remarks were made in an address prepared for delivery in the famed Square by historic Independence Hall. It was to be preceded by the ringing of the bells in Independence Hall tower, and the demonstration by the Navy's flight team, and religious services at Christ's Church. "In 1776," he said, "our utmost need was to secure liberty. By the Declaration of Independence we solemnly announced our purpose. By the waging of Revolutionary War we painfully achieved our goal. Today, our utmost need is to preserve liberty. Again we should solemnly declare our purpose to the world. But the method we must employ to achieve our goal can no longer be the waging of war. It must be the waging of peace."

Church said a declaration of "ultimate objectives" would serve as a rallying point. Then, he said, America would have to work with daring and imagination for control and elimination of large bomb tests, reduction of armaments and to strengthen the United Nations. "Patriotism is love of country," Church said. "How does one love his country? One loves his country as he loves his own child—with a will to serve its inmost needs; to see it reach fulfillment; to dream its best dreams, to labor to make them come true."

"As a child grows from infancy to maturity, so does a country. As a child's needs change with the passing years, so do those of a country, with the changing times. The true patriot, like the best parent, seeks to know his country's needs, and strives to serve them wisely and well."

Also participating in the observance were to be Dr. Manlio Brosio, the Italian ambassador to the United States, and Miss Kim Hunter, star of stage, screen and TV.

YOUR Social Security? QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS Question: I have held over my 1956 crop of hay for this year. Since I will receive no income from this crop until 1957, should I not also hold over the expenses of harvesting this crop and report them on my 1957 tax returns? Answer: Apparently you are using the cash method of reporting your income, that is, you are reporting income in the year it is received. Under this method it is necessary that deductions are taken in the year in which the expenses are paid. The answer to your question then is that if the expenses of harvesting this crop were paid in 1956, they are deductible only in that year and would not be held over for inclusion in your 1957 income tax return.

FISH AND GAME NEWS Rumor Factory Idaho's rumor factory was worked overtime during recent weeks, with "hearsay" flying in every direction. The most frequent have been reports of changes in the fishing season that have not occurred. The only emergency closure of general interest is the one on Silver Creek in Blaine County, where loss of stream channel vegetation aroused concern. Ordinarily opening on July 1, the stream remains closed this year until further notice.

Did you know that farmers—over three million of them—are the largest single group of forest landowners. Together with other forest owners, they own over half of this country's forest land. This brings to mind the fact that if we are to keep our supply of timber, we must look to the farmer. Only things he does in Washington that show these things are tree planting and range watershed reseeded are way below our real needs. Our need for timber grows along with our rising population.

animals from one place to another, or to hold them away from places where they are undesirable or unsafe, such as a railroad track," he explained. He said the department is continuing the distribution of "supply salt" about the same as always, but the management salt program has reached a new phase and is being modified accordingly. "From investigations to date, it appears that salt and other minerals are sufficiently available in natural form in most parts of southern Idaho. Hence, the infusing the salt program's artificial licks there has been less strong than in some parts of northern Idaho," Mohler said. He pointed out that the more arid conditions in southern Idaho tend to bring salt and other mineral elements to the surface, and the slow-growing vegetation also is fairly rich in these elements.

On the other hand, the more abundant rainfall in some parts of northern Idaho may reach out and wash away the needed minerals, he said. "For this reason, a special study has been set up in the Selway river drainage to test the various factors involved, and determine what influence the artificial licks actually do exert on the game herds."

He stressed that "the continuation and future course of the federal aid salt program must depend entirely upon how well it serves its intended purpose of making the animals more game salt dependent. In regard to game salt are entirely separate, and must be handled separately." "The present plan is to fly salt on a modified schedule every other year, until final determination of the influence of the program can be made," he said. He emphasized that this modification will not cause any hardship on animals, nor any loss of influence. "Deer and elk use salt somewhere they receive no salt from natural sources, and the salt program has been established long enough for any appreciable amount of salt to be dissolved into the earth. Hence it is unnecessary to re-salt a lick every year, as animals will continue to use it for the salt that remains in the ground."

U.S.—Bulwark of Freedom

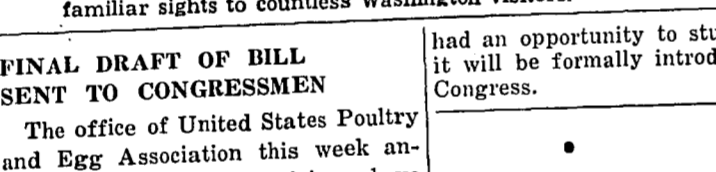

BIRTHDAY OF A FREE NATION as the Declaration of Independence was presented to Congress in 1776. Contrary to popular belief, this historic document was not signed by Congress on July 4th. Instead, the Act by which the original 13 states broke colonial allegiance to Great Britain was approved by Congress July 2, proclaimed on July 4th, and signed at various times up to Nov. 4.

SYMBOL OF HUMAN RIGHTS and freedom, the Liberty Bell in Independence Hall rang out at every festival and anniversary of Independence until it cracked in 1835.

BIRTHPLACE OF OUR NATION was Philadelphia, where Continental Congress met, Declaration of Independence adopted and proclaimed, Washington appointed Commander-in-Chief, and U. S. Constitution framed.

OUR NATION'S CAPITOL, moved from Philadelphia to banks of the Potomac in 1800, today is a majestic city, nerve center of a great democracy, sprawling office buildings, monuments, memorials, and 7,000 acres of public parks including the Mall shown here, are familiar sights to countless Washington visitors.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

By U. S. Senator Frank Church
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 20
Two Idaho young men played a major role in the nation's history today as health institutions to receive surplus property through the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

They are Congressman Grace Frost of Idaho's First District, and Mrs. Naomi Stebbins, Democratic State Representative from Shoshone County. Mrs. Frost in 1955 began a campaign to qualify Idaho under the program. She conducted a tour among Idaho hospital superintendents, county school superintendents and principals which showed them and principals in favor of the state's participation.

Mrs. Stebbins introduced and secured passage of a bill through the 1957 Legislature which provided for the creation of a surplus property agency. It became effective January 9, 1957 and thus Idaho has obtained its share of the distribution.

Slimming Down for Summer?

A slim figure is always the envy of most women. It is not the goal of every woman in the summer... especially now when she is dressed in trim, ing suits set the style... shades of the 1920's.

Sometimes it's difficult though, on a hot summer day, to plan a lunch or dinner keeping the calories within reason and all the family happy. When it comes to summer slimming, the recipe for this hot weather treat is:

Chicken Vegetable Salad
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 cup cold water
1 can (1 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
1 can (1/2 ounce) boned chicken, diced
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup thinly sliced radishes
1 teaspoon grated onion
Dash black pepper

Soften gelatin in 1/2 cup cold water; place container over boiling water and heat, stirring occasionally, until gelatin is dissolved. Blend in soup and remaining 1/2 cup water; refrigerate until slightly thickened. Fold in remaining ingredients; pour into 1 quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve on crisp salad greens. Serves 4 generously. FW

HORSE SKELTON FOUND NEAR MOSCOW NOT SO RARE A FIND AS FIRST BELIEVED
The horse skeleton unearthed between Moscow and Polatch Monday of last week during excavation for a sawmill provides an interesting study, but cannot be considered exactly "a rare find," Dr. Earl J. Larsson, associate professor of zoology, said this week.

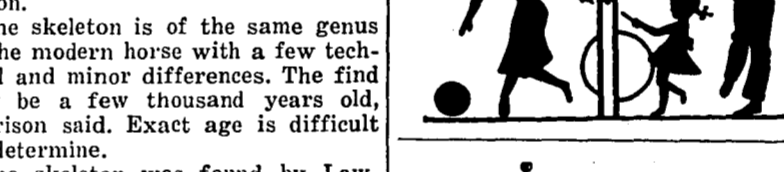

Similar bone specimens of horses are sent to the University of Idaho zoology department for identification each year, explained the professor. The finds are very widely distributed throughout the state. What makes the new find in this area of particular interest is its high-state of preservation.

The skeleton is of the same genus as the modern horse with a few technical and minor differences. The find may be a few thousand years old, Larsson said. Exact age is difficult to determine.

The skeleton was found by Lawrence Crofts of Milton-Freewater, Ore., who is supervising the installation of a portable sawmill on the Lowell Kimble farm north of Moscow. The ancient horse which once roamed a great section of the United States disappeared along with elephants and other large animals quite suddenly. By then, however, the horse had become domesticated in various sections of the world.

The modern horse was re-introduced into the United States by the Spanish around 1700. The Nez Perce Indians were the first in the Northwest to use the modern horse. The horse discovered in the clay deposit may be one of these.

GET IN ON THIS SAVINGS SECRET
that's no secret to 40,000,000 Americans!

It'll work for you, too—even if you've never been able to save before!

The secret of saving is system. And, as more than 40 million Americans who have tried it know, the simplest, most automatic saving system ever devised is the Payroll Savings Plan.

Best of all, you don't have to save through Payroll Savings. You invest your money, too, and make it grow. Here's how it works:

Tell your company pay office how much you want to save each week. That amount will be put aside for you before you have a chance to spend it. Your money will go automatically into Series E Savings Bonds which will be purchased in your name and given to you.

Then your Bonds start earning interest. And your savings grow extra fast because added to the money you're putting in is the money your Bonds earn for you. This plan will work for you even if you've never been able to save before.

And new Savings Bonds are better than ever! Every Series E Savings Bond purchased since February 1, 1957, pays 3-1/2% interest when held to maturity. It pays higher interest, too, in the earlier years, and matures in only 8 years and 11 months. Now, more than ever, it's smart to save with guaranteed-safe U. S. Savings Bonds. Buy them regularly where you bank or through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Then your Bonds start earning interest. And your savings grow extra fast because added to the money you're putting in is the money your Bonds earn for you. This plan will work for you even if you've never been able to save before.

YOUR Social Security? QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

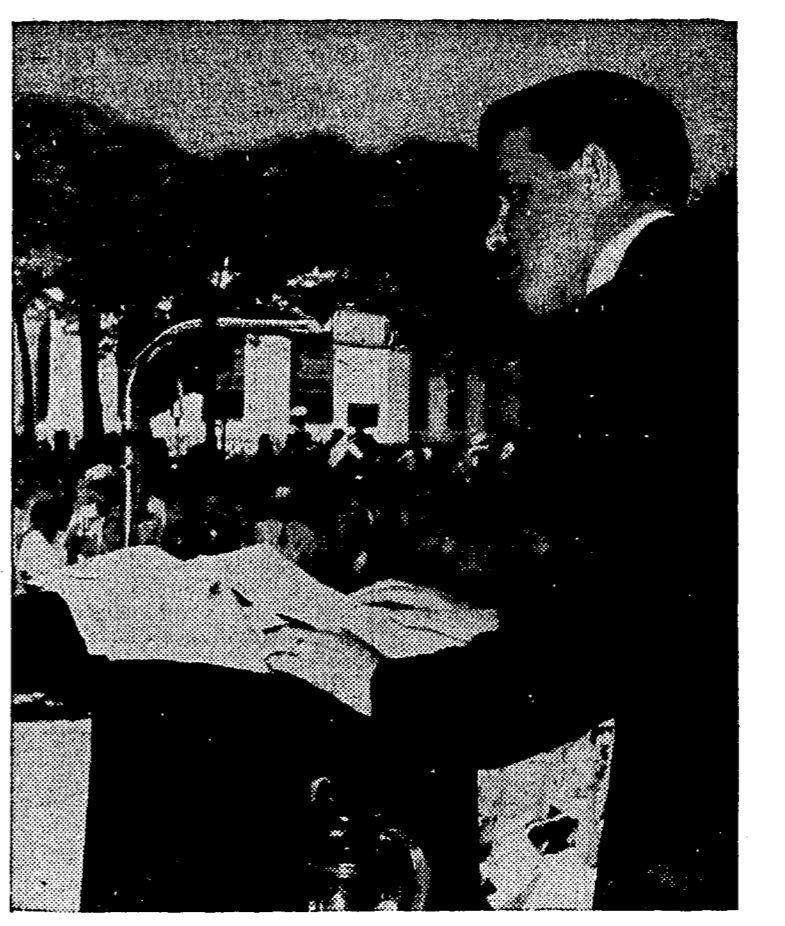

Question: I rent my farm to my son and get one-half of the crop as my share. I was told that I could not get social security credit for 1955 because this was rental income. Now, I have been told that a new provision in the law will allow me to get social security credit for 1955, since I do and plan some of the work, and make the final decisions about the crop. I am 69 and have never had any social security credit before. How soon can I get Social Security payments?

Answer: If you participate in the operation and management of the farm in the ways you describe above on a regular and continuing basis, you may get social security credit for your share of the net earnings of the farm. If your share was 500 or more for 1956 and you are still participating in the operation of the farm, you may file an application at any time on or after April 1, 1957 and get Social Security payments for as early as April, 1957, providing that you can show that your share of the gross earnings is at least $600. When your share of the gross earnings is nearest Social Security District Office for details.

DON'T STOP NOW! Big government proponents have tried hard to undermine the effectiveness of the current economy drive. Now they are quick to argue that it is slowing down. Their premature optimism underscores just how effective the drive has been.

The House has cut $4 billion from the record-high peacetime budget. That is an overall cut of about seven per cent and represents a lot of tax money.

The nationwide protest that greeted the $72 billion 1958 budget has produced a climate in Washington "politically unhealthy" for new spending programs in the original budget, including Federal aid for school construction. The drive also has brought more support for measures designed to restore control of spending to Congress.

In short, a patient public has demanded tax relief. Congress is working toward that end the best way possible—by cutting the spending that makes high taxes inevitable. To let our Congressmen know we are still behind them in their economy efforts, we should write them again that we are willing to take less from government, if government will take less from us.

OUT ON A LIMB

By Stumpy McCulloch

Last week a bunch of us fellers were discussing the way of the world. Said I, "I don't know about you fellers, but when my wife and I have an altercation, I always have the last word."

"How's that?" asked young Joe, surprised.

"If you're thinkin' about stardin' a woodlot on your land or makin' one pay you already got, maybe you'll be interested in the tools you use and what they cost. I'll tell you. All told, it runs upward of $250.

First off, you need a chain saw, of a size to make care of your timber, and I can tell you one thing, there's none better than the one named after me. They start at $195 for the lightweight model.

Next, you need an axe, double or single edge, 36" handle, weight 3 to 4 1/2 pounds, about $4.50; peavy, $8.50; a pole saw, 12' to 16' pole, 16" blade, $10.50; several wedges for felling and bucking, made of wood or metal, about $2 each; a safety helmet, $4.40; and a logger measuring tape, $3.00.

Along about now is a good time for me to trot out a favorite theory I've always held: any kind of work you want to do, you can do only as well as the tools you have to work with. Tryin' to save a few bucks on tools will cost you many hours of sweat and struggle.

Wood Windows Offer Advantages To Home Builder

Ask most any builder why he installs wood windows in his homes and he's likely to come up with reasons like this:

1. Ponderosa pine, the wood used for most high quality windows, doesn't conduct heat. As a natural insulator, it eliminates condensation on sash and frames.
2. Wood does not rust and is not corroded by salt air or chemical fumes.
3. Most windows of ponderosa pine come in units with weatherstripping installed and frame and sash fitted together at the factory. This reduces labor costs to the builder and assures easy operation.
4. New buildings settle slowly, often throwing windows and doors out of line. Windows of ponderosa pine can be readily adjusted to operate smoothly.
5. Wood takes any decorative finish, paint or stain, and can be redecorated when color schemes are changed, inside and out.
6. Wood doesn't readily transmit sound. Rating due to vibration is kept at a minimum and operation is quiet.

When fruit juice and milk are combined the milk may curdle. If stirred briskly, curdling is not so likely.

had emptied a portion of gasoline on a pile of rubbish, and the lighted paper he intended to toss on the rubbish came too near the open can, the remaining portion of gas in the can ignited and exploded. Mr. Manderfeld's right arm and face were severely burned.

Oliver Clarke is improving and expected to be home in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Al E. Mayer returned Tuesday evening from Idaho Falls where they attended the state convention of rural carriers.

Mrs. Roy Patchen left Thursday for Portland where she will join her husband and they will leave within a few days for Schenectady, N. Y. where Mr. Patchen will be connected with the General Electric Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Parks are the parents of a daughter born Wednesday evening at the Grifman hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Broening, recently married and living in the Rocher apartment were given a charity week with Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Harris.

Giant Shake For Mickey

Mickey Mantle sets another record. Here he is shown drinking the largest milk shake in the world. The tumbler contains 7 1/2 quarts of milk and 31 packages of Dairy Princess in Westchester County, N. Y. Mickey served milk shakes the day Mickey played ball with a Babe Ruth team there. P.S. Mickey needed an assist to finish the giant shake!

Dreams do come true! "At least for a group of Babe Ruth League baseball players in Pleasantville, N. Y. They played ball recently with Mickey Mantle."

Here's what happened: The team of boys between 13 and 16 years were out practicing on their diamond when they saw a big red convertible drive onto the field. Mickey Mantle was behind the wheel. The kids swarmed the baseball star.

Answering questions, Mickey said, "Sure, I should hit over .300 this year, but I don't know how much over. No, I don't think I'll break Babe Ruth's record. . . The Yankees should win the pennant. . . The longest homer I hit was in Washington; some people tell me it was 500 feet."

Then Mr. Mantle asked the team to take to the field and "Let me hit some. As towering drives and scoring grounders boomed off his powerful bat, the Babe Ruthers, believe it or not, fielded every one perfectly.

After the baseball activities, Mickey called the boys together. He was holding a giant milk shake tumbler.

"Look fellows, I had two reasons for coming today. I heard what a great little team you have, and wanted to play some ball with you. But there is another reason. Milk is mighty important to people who are growing up," Mickey said. "We're going to have milk shakes right here and we'll make them in a jiffy from this milk-shake mix."

"Then we'll spread the word about this—and hope more kids start drinking more milk and, if they don't want it plain, they can see how easy it is to make a homemade milk shake and drink it this way."

Mickey and the Babe Ruth League were joined by a group of Dairy Princess finalists sponsored by the Dairy Council and Orange from the area and Mickey, who hits the longest ball, proved he is willing to tackle the biggest milk shake, too.

IDAHO'S HEALTH

By Your State Board of Health

Breakfast means just what it says—to break a fast. It has been ten to twelve hours since you have eaten a meal; thus, you will need food to start the new day right. Whether you are awake or asleep, your body is constantly working and using up energy, and tissues are being torn down and rebuilt. Unless you eat the food you need to furnish that energy, your own body tissues are burned instead.

A good breakfast help repair the body losses that occur at night. It furnishes food energy needed for the morning activities. When you eat a little or no breakfast, you become hungry during the morning. You may be fatigued—perhaps even cross and irritable. Then, your work as well as your health suffers.

Frequently your midmorning hunger is satisfied with a snack—often made up of too little of the right food, or even the wrong food completely. These snacks will not take the place of a good breakfast, and may spoil your appetite for the next meal besides.

Needed for Efficiency

In addition to energy, foods are needed to keep the body functioning efficiently; to develop strong muscles, hard bones and teeth. Breakfast must supply its share of the protein, minerals and vitamins which the body needs every day for health protection and for growth. This meal can be simple, yet furnish all these essential nutrients.

HARD YEAR AHEAD FOR THE FAMILY BUDGET

Prices will rise again this year, and there is no end in sight to the steady chop in the value of a dollar, according to the editors of Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine.

The ravages of inflation taxes and high prices are having their effect on almost everyone. The dollar you spend today buys 13 1/2 cents less than it bought in 1950.

A tax cut, the editors say, is not in the cards this year. Next year you may get some relief, but you shouldn't expect it to make much of a dent in your money problems. Furthermore, there will be no let up in the hidden taxes, excises and local and state tax collections.

Higher prices are in the wind for the rest of this year, so there will be no relief from this quarter—unless you know how to get around them by searching out the good buys. Steel prices will go up this summer. When steel prices rise, so do the prices of steel products, such as automobiles. Also going up is the price of wool textiles. A speculative home buyer will find that house prices still edge ahead.

The dry cleaner, the doctor, the dentist, the local garage man, the laundryman, the shoe repair man and any one else providing service to the consumer will also cost more. In short, juggling the budget will be even more tricky by fall.

VA APPROVES NEW PLAN FOR TECHNICAL TRAINEES

A new kind of apprentice training, recently approved for Korea veterans by the Veterans Administration, may help aid urgently-needed engineering talent to American industry, VA reports.

The new program, leading to a job objective of "engineering technician," will train veterans for some of the more routine tasks in engineering and thus allowing graduate engineers to concentrate on advanced work.

Now, engineers sometimes spend much time at duties that could well be performed by others who have less professional training, VA said.

Approved by VA for veterans employed by the General Electric Company as apprentice trainees, the specialty work training on-the-job while you work training on-the-job college courses in the evening—will be available to these veterans in various parts of the country.

Veterans must meet all qualifications necessary to entering college. Their program will require their first year of evening classwork will count toward an engineering degree should they wish to continue studies. The evening classes will be identical with those taught full-time day students.

Norman, VA explained the state approve courses for veterans under the Korean GI Bill. But when a course is to be offered in more than one State—as in the case with General Electric—VA itself has authority under the law, to handle GI approval courses.

Job training portion of course includes more than 5,000 hours of engineering design, 1,700 hours of drafting and nearly 1,000 hours of machine shop.

Throughout the program, veterans will receive apprentice wages, step up periodically, as well as monthly Korean GI Bill training allowances.

The team, coached by Mrs. J. H. Smith, has a record of 10 wins and 0 losses. They are currently leading the league with 10 runs scored and 10 runs allowed.

The team's success is due to their excellent pitching and fielding. Their pitcher, Mrs. J. H. Smith, has pitched 100 innings and allowed only 10 runs.

Concert Pianist To Appear at U. of I. Festival

Edward Mattos, concert pianist who recently toured Western Europe under the sponsorship of the U. S. State Department, will be one of the featured soloists in the third annual Idaho Summer Music Festival to be held July 29 to August 6 at the University of Idaho, it was announced this week.

A member of the piano faculty at Oberlin College in Ohio, Mattos is well-known in the Northwest as a concert performer and adjudicator. He has served on the Idaho music faculty during several summer sessions.

Mattos recently returned to the United States following a two month concert tour in Spain, Austria and France, presented by the U. S. Information Service and the State Department. In his appearance on the Idaho campus he will give the same lecture-recital program he gave in Europe.

Hall M. Macklin, head of the music department and general director of the Summer Music Festival, announced four public concerts in the 1957 season. The first will be the evening of July 29, July 31 (Mattos), August 5 and 6. The performing groups include the Festival choir and the chamber orchestra, both of which will appear in two concerts.

Several chamber groups made up of faculty members from Washington State College and the University of Idaho will perform. Professor Leroy Bauer, conductor of the University Symphony Orchestra and a recent addition to the faculty, will direct the chamber orchestra.

Civic Committee Looking for Poles

A committee has been appointed by Civic Association President Kenneth Primus, to investigate the possibility of securing lights for the local park. Members of the committee are C. D. Manfred, Marion Holben, and Gene Woodruff.

Chairman Manfred asked this week if any trees would be available in the area that might be cut and used as light poles in this project. At least 8 or 12 poles will be needed, running in length from 70 to 100 feet. At present, the committee plans to cut and peel the trees themselves.

If anyone in this area has trees that are suitable for this purpose and is willing to let them be used, they may contact C. D. Manfred at the Northern Pacific Depot.

Danny C. Erickson Killed in Car Crash

Danny C. Erickson, an 18-year-old Washington State college student, was killed and his wife and 10-week-old son critically injured Sunday when their car crashed into a bridge abutment and burst into flames near Wilbur, Washington.

In critical condition at Colfax Hospital are Carol Ann Erickson, 18, and her infant son, Joel. The baby has severe head, chest, back, arm, and wrist injuries. Dr. D. J. Bonnington stated his condition "very, very critical." Mrs. Erickson suffered first and second degree burns, fractured leg and extensive body cuts and bruises. She is in deep shock, Bonnington said.

Erickson's father was killed in a highway accident when the boy was three days old.

Erickson, who lives at 1100 S. Washington, was driving north on Highway 101 when the tragedy struck. Highway patrolman Jack McDonald said Erickson apparently looked into the rear view mirror to see whether his friend, Marvin Biechmann, 18, was following him. "In that instant his car slammed into the abutment, rolled into the creek bed and burst into flames," McDonald said.

Biechmann, about a mile behind the Erickson car, did not see the crash. He was attracted to the spot by smoke.

Biechmann leaped from his car and pulled the three bodies from the blazing wreckage.

"It took a lot of courage to do what that young man did," said McDonald. "The Ericksons were spending the summer in Wilbur, their home town, at the home of his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Anderson. Erickson had planned to resume his pharmacy studies at WSC this fall.

Other survivors include Erickson's sister, Dianne, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Erickson, Clarkston, Washington; uncles, Walter and Geo. Erickson, Genesee, and aunts, Mrs. Reuben Hagers, of Metuchen, N. J., and Mrs. Geo. Summerside of Libby, Montana.

Funeral services for Danny are being held today (Friday) at 2:00 p. m. at Trinity Lutheran Church at Wilbur.

Youth Group Elects Officers; Teen Dance Saturday

Approximately thirty-five young people, ranging in age from 12 to 17, were present at the Genesee Youth Center building Friday evening, July 19, to help create the Genesee Youth Recreation Center. The meeting was called by the Civic Association.

Kenneth Primus, president of the Civic group, explained to the young people the purpose of the meeting and told them that all future activities of the center would be planned and carried out by the members and that the Civic Club would act only as an advisory body.

Primus then turned the meeting over to the youths who quickly and efficiently elected the following officers: President, Gene Kasper; Vice-President, Marie Hasfurther; Secretary-Treasurer, Leitha Aherin. Four other youth representatives were also chosen by the group. From the junior high age group Mary Magee and Ray Griesser were selected, and Elaine Erickson and David Baumgartner were chosen to represent the senior age group. The committee representatives and the officers will act as a planning and executive committee.

The newly formed youth council has scheduled their first social event for this coming Saturday evening, July 27. At this time a Teen-Age Dance will be held in the Legion building. The dance will begin at 8:00 p. m. and will be over at 11:30. A charge of 25c will be asked from those attending the dance. The money collected will be used to purchase records and meet other expenses incurred during the operation of the recreation center.

Mary Kleweno, 78, Passes Away July 22

Mrs. Mary Alice Kleweno, 78, former Genesee resident, and a person well-known in this area, passed away at the nursing home in Fairfield, Washington, July 22.

Mary Alice Kleweno was born in Bison, Kansas, September 25, 1878. At the age of six she moved with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Green, to Endicott, Washington. It was here she spent her childhood and received her early education at the schools in Endicott and Colfax, Washington.

In July, 1897, she married J. Peter Kleweno. To this union four children were born, two of whom survive.

The family moved from Endicott to Colfax, living there about two years, and in 1923 moved to Genesee where they engaged in farming until Mrs. Kleweno's death in 1949. Mrs. Kleweno continued to make her home at the family farm until poor health caused her to enter a nursing home at Fairfield, Washington in May of this year. It was here that she passed away, July 22, at the age of 78 from a heart condition.

Survivors include two sons, Walter P. of Seattle, Washington, Arthur P. of Latah, Washington, a daughter Mrs. Martha Ratzon, Anacortes, Washington, a sister Mrs. Ben Huntley, Endicott; 10 grandchildren, and 8 great grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 2:00 p. m., July 24th at Short's Chapel in Moscow, with the Rev. Sigurd Lokken officiating. The organist was John Larson and vocalist, Norman Logan, singing "The End of a Perfect Day," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Palbearers were Harold Berger, Ray Trautman, Harold Snow, Magee, Joe Doyle, and Bayne Hickman.

Burial was in the Moscow cemetery.

Weather Warm; Little Rain

Warm summer weather has been in evidence all of this week with the exception of Monday evening when a short but heavy rain storm struck in just the immediate Genesee area.

Temperatures this week have been in the eighties during the daytime and betweens fifty and sixty at night. Monday evening the clouds gathered and for about one-half an hour a hard steady rain with some thunder was seen over the area. The storm was apparently set over Genesee because the Genesee Fire Department answered a call from a huge barn fire four miles north of Colton, Washington shortly after the rain had hit here and the area around Colton was still under dry.

Harvesting is getting underway around Genesee with loads of winter barley and some peas reported being taken in at local elevators.

Income Up In Idaho Report Says

Total personal and disposable income in Utah and Idaho should finish 1957 at figures 4 to 6 per cent higher than in 1956, the First Security News Letter said Wednesday.

The News Letter is being distributed in this area this week, according to Carl J. Clausen, manager of First Security Bank at Genesee.

The News Letter is edited by Elroy Nelson, First Security vice-president and economist, assisted by Harvey Frazier.

The First Security report shows that retail sales in Utah and Idaho are averaging approximately the same as last year. "Total non-agricultural employment in Utah in mid-June at 255,000 was down 2,500 from last year," the report said. "Decreases were principally in construction. Employment in Idaho (May) at 173,000 was the same as last year."

Erickson and Idaho farmers from the sale of cattle are approximately 15 per cent higher than a year ago, the same on lamb, and up 25 per cent on wool. Milk is bringing slightly higher returns. Egg and potato prices are down considerably, the News Letter shows.

Copper production in the area is down approximately 8 per cent, but production is up while Utah's production of 5.5 per cent over 1956. Sugar beet production is expected to exceed last year's output. Wheat production in Idaho is down approximately 7 per cent.

Letters in reply to the protest of the closing of the Lapwai Pheasant Farm were read. The club was complimented by the commissioners for their interest in the farm and the wildlife project.

Don Schluter was asked to show the slides on his trip to Washington, D. C., at one of the coming meetings. Marie Hasfurther assisted by Larry Hasfurther gave a demonstration on "How to Wrap a Sprained Finger."

The members, parents, leaders and friends were privileged to see the slides taken by Michael Needham of Drottwich, Worcestershire, England at the Matt Kasper home on July 8th. Michael, an International Farm Exchange Youth to the United States was invited by the members to show his slides and give them an idea what his home country was like. They were very interested and enjoyable. We were much impressed by his gently rolling country and their hedge fences. He stated that he was really fascinated by the White Bird Grade, the Lewiston Hill, the Grand Coulee Dam, and Washington D. C.

JoAnn Kasper led the Flag Parade. Following adjournment members worked on the League Keep Idaho Green Sign. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Schluter.

Mrs. Josephine Knapps and Mrs. Teresa Hasfurther called on Mrs. Bill Schluter and children Friday afternoon.

For the citizens of Idaho

The United States Brewers Foundation, national trade association of the brewing industry, believes that the legal sale of beer and ale, under wholesome conditions, is a definite contribution to society and is in the public interest.

The primary purpose of the Foundation, whose members produce 85% of the nation's malt beverage output, is to maintain wholesome conditions through cooperation with state and local law-enforcement authorities, beer and ale wholesalers and retailers, and the public.

The purposes of the Foundation especially require the cooperation of the retailer. To this end, the Foundation maintains field representatives who make frequent friendly contacts with licensees to encourage maintenance of high standards of operation.

In brief, the Foundation constantly seeks to promote good community relations at all times through its program of industry self-regulation.

By The County Agent

Better Silage Packing is essential to good silage. Honer Futner, county agent, says forage tramped, weighted, and immediately sealed usually makes the best product. Quality is determined a few hours after ensiling because that's when fermentation takes place.

The agent said research shows that an important key to successful preservation is immediate exclusion of air. When silage is packed well, oxygen is used up by bacteria within five hours. Conditions then become favorable for other bacteria to start the process of changing sugars into lactic, acetic, and succinic acids.

On the other hand, the tests showed forage left loose and unsealed for two days spoiled. Spoilage was even more severe when air was forced through the forage. This forage heated abnormally the first few days and finally lost nutrients and much of the lactic acid needed for effective preservation. A build up of undesirable bacteria converted proteins into ammonia, hydrogen sulphide, and other offensive substances.

High temperature is an early symptom of spoiling silage, the agent said. If air is kept out of this heating silage is controlled and normal fermentation is encouraged.

The kind of plant used in silage is another factor in quality, of course. Agricultural researchers pointed out that USDA said they were surprised to find out that alfalfa consistently makes better silage than orchard grass, in spite of the latter's higher sugar content. For one thing, alfalfa withstands higher temperature with less nutrient loss. There is also a difference in the bacteria development of the two forages.

Mr. Davis gives this formula for summer safety: 1. Practice Defensive driving. 2. Be patient, and 3. Stop driving when you get tired.

Defensive driving means just what it says: Drive defensively against losses of others by always expecting the worst. Application of patience would move danger of head-on collisions which frequently result when a driver grows impatient in a traffic line and carelessly pull out to pass. FRUIT SALAD DRESSING
A thick salad dressing that is excellent on fresh fruit salads... and it stores well in the refrigerator for several weeks.

1 1/2 cup sugar
1 tbsl. paprika
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup cider vinegar
1/2 cup onion juice or very finely chopped onion

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question:
Bring own and operate a farm. I will be 72 years old in two months and plan to file an application for social security. What will I need to bring with me to the social security office when I apply for retirement payments?

Answer:
Bring any evidence of your age that you have and copies of your 1956 Federal income tax return and self-employment tax return together with proof that the return has been filed with the Internal Revenue Service. If you are married and your wife is age 62 or older and wishes to file for wife's benefits, she should also bring evidence of her age. If she files at age 62 or at any time before she reaches age 65, she will receive reduced benefits. The amount of the reduction will depend on the number of months between the time she starts getting benefits and the months before she reaches 65. If she waits until age 65, she will receive the full wife's benefits.

1 1/2 cups hot fruit juice, with water

SOLVES BABY-SITTER PROBLEM
Mothers wishing to practice for the University of Idaho Inland Empire Music Festival chorus and orchestra had the usual problem of what to do with the kiddies during rehearsal.

The problem was solved when high school student Claire Slaughter, of Kimberly, who is staying at a house next to the Music building while her parents attend summer school, volunteered her services as a baby-sitter.

Now, while the mothers prepare to present better music for the festival, the children play with four out of a dozen new chums during the hour-long rehearsals.

The farm workday is getting shorter. Hours of labor are less in nearly all states, according to the report of a survey received this week by Homer Futter, Latah County extension agent. The report said the average farmer in the United States put a share of less than 11 hours a day at the beginning of last June. He has lopped off 12 minutes per day in a year and minutes since 1955. Much of the change has come about as a result of less chores. Studies by USDA shows that gains in labor efficiency are possible through such things as larger flocks and herds, better arrangements in buildings, modern equipment, and planning of chore routines. In one series of tests annual dairy labor was trimmed from 225 hours per cow to less than 190 hours. Another study showed that annual time for poultry chores can be cut 80 per cent. Time-saving practices decreased the amount of labor needed to tend the flock. For example, an automatic waterer providing continuous flow can reduce the time required to water poultry by and from 42 hours to three hours.

What's a fit pig? It's a porker in the pink for the air, and as most 4-H members know, here are certain things that have to be done to get the pig in the finest condition. Feeding is important according to John L. Moore, county 4-H club agent. Use a well-balanced ration and give the pigs all they will eat so they are in good health and gaining weight. This makes their skin and hair show "Bloom." Lined feed helps make the hair glossy. You can substitute linsed meal for part of the meat meal or other protein supplement. For pigs that are thin, feed a limited amount of wet feed a day during the first month of the finishing period will bring out extra condition. Twice-a-day wet feeding will help change the pigs over to feeding so they will not miss the alf feeder so much when they are at the fair. Wade Wells, livestock specialist of the University of Idaho extension service, says brushing does a lot to bring out the gloss on a pig's coat and help train him. He advises brushing every day for about 10 minutes. A good time to brush, he says, is when you feed the pigs in the evening. Keeping pigs clean is very important in a good job of fitting. Never let them wallow in mud. Sloppy allows make the hair and skin dry and scaly. Wash with soap and water. A good time for the first wash is a month before the show. Wash once or twice more. The final wash should be the day before the show. Keep your pigs clean, clean, clean or shavings. If your pigs are black or red, apply a colorless oil soon as they are dry. If you have white pigs, use white powder instead of oil. Clip the hair on ears and tails of your pigs. Do not clip too close to the head on the outside or too far down inside the ears. Leave the ditch and that part of the tail in the curl unclipped.

TALK ABOUT ECONOMY... FORDS COST LESS PER MILE!

Fords cost less to buy! No doubt about it! Model for model, Ford cars are the lowest priced of the low-price three. And don't be fooled by those "low prices" now being quoted for some "stripped down" models in the medium-price field. Remember, a '57 Ford equipped the way most people want a car today—with automatic transmission, heater and radio—costs hundreds of dollars less than these medium-priced cars, similarly equipped. *Based on comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices.

Fords cost less to trade! Latest official auction sale figures on used cars show clearly that the new kind of Ford commands a higher price than either of its two low-priced competitors. The men who bid at these auctions are professional buyers—men whose very livelihood depends upon their expert knowledge of cars. They pay more for used Fords because they know that Fords hold up in value. Like thousands of Ford owners from coast to coast, they have discovered that Ford is worth more when you buy it... worth more when you sell it, too! IDAHO'S HEALTH

By Your State Board of Health

The Neilsen method of artificial respiration, now endorsed by many national organizations, including the American Red Cross, S. Public Health Service, Armed Forces, American Medical Assn., and Federal Civil Defense Administration, is easy to learn and easy to do. It can save lives if given right away when someone stops breathing after rescue from drowning, suffocation, electric shock or gas poisoning.

You begin by laying the victim on his back with his head on a pillow. Be careful to remove sand, pebbles or other foreign matter from his mouth. Pull his tongue out to insure an air passage, and have someone call a physician if at all possible.

Knelling in front of the victim's head, put your hands—thumbs almost together and fingers spread out—on his back just below his shoulder blades. Rock forward keeping your elbows straight. Press slowly and evenly downward on his back, adjusting your pressure to the size of his body. This pressure empties the lungs of the victim.

Then, rock back, easing up on the pressure slowly. At the same time, take hold of the victim's arms just above the elbows. Lift his arms up and toward you until you meet resistance at his shoulders. Raising the arms pulls air into the lungs. Keep your elbows straight while you do it. Then let the victim's arms fall back into place and drop your own arms.

Repeat these motions steadily from 10 to 12 times a minute. They should take about 1 1/2 seconds with a short pause in between. That's all there is to it, and it saves the victim's life.

would be well for everyone to know how to give artificial respiration. Practice it on some family member, or friend until you can do it properly. Remember, don't lose a minute in trying artificial respiration when the occasion arises to use it. Even after breathing stops, the heart usually goes on beating for a few minutes, and in that time there's a chance to save the victim's life.

Family Farming Arrangements Under Social Security Explained

By Marlow V. Wootton
District Manager of the Lewiston Social Security office

Family farming is one of the few occupations in which the family, ordinarily, works as a unit. This rather unique situation, however, has caused some question, "Which members of a farm family are rendering services covered by old-age, survivors, and disability insurance under social security law?"

In general, the social security law applies to every farm person who either employed or self-employed. If a farm employee is paid $150 or more in cash in a year by a farm employer or does farm work for an employer on 20 or more days during the year for cash wages figured on a time basis, his earnings must be reported and the social security tax must be paid. While the law does exclude coverage performed by an individual in the employ of his son, daughter, or spouse, and services performed by a child under 21 in the employ of his or her father or mother, those members of a farm family will have their services covered if they are performed in the employ of some other farm operator.

Where self-employment is concerned any member of a farm family is covered by the law if he or she operates a farm or a farming activity alone, or as a partner in a partnership, or as a leasee of the farm for a cash-rent or a share-of-the-crop under an arrangement with a farm landlord, provided net earnings (from farming) exceed $200. Law that same day we were guests at a regimental Parade at Fort Meyer, Virginia. One evening we were thrilled to see the city of Washington in the air. Several of us climbed close to 900 steps to reach the top. It seemed closer to 9000 by the time we reached it. We were quite fortunate to be able to see our tour of the University of Maryland and go through the famous Beltsville Experiment Station. Here we saw the animals used to make the well-known Beltville No. 1 Ham.

One conference consisted of many assemblies as well as tours. Each of the assemblies were different and very interesting. We heard speeches from people who were highly successful in their careers in Agriculture. We joined together in groups with members from other states and other countries and discussed different things and obtained much new information. By the end of the tour we were full of new ideas to take home with us to our own state. Entertainment was furnished at these assemblies by the bands of the U. S. Army and Navy. We were also interpreting club work.

Each delegate has the privilege as well as the duty to "take the Conference home" and share it with fellow members. This we feel is a great privilege to be able to do for the 4-H clubs in our State.

One afternoon we were quite fortunate to be able to tour the Embassies. Each country has its own representative in Washington. This was a great privilege to be able to do for the 4-H clubs in our State.

We had a fellowship party at the Washington National Airport. We had lots of fun dancing and playing games.

It was a great honor for us to be able to tour the White House and to be able to talk with President Eisenhower. The White House was beautiful and his talk was very enlightening. Later the same day we also toured the National Capitol. We were quite fortunate to be able to have a nice talk with our senators—Henry Dwozback and Frank Church. They gave us several books and took us on special tours of the Capitol. We were honored with an invitation to eat in the Senate Dining Room with General Dwozback. This was a great privilege because only Senators are allowed to eat there.

We had several interesting tours of the buildings in Washington. We toured the Department of State where we were given a "greeting" speech by the Honorable John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State. Other buildings that we toured were the Museum of Natural History; Smithsonian Institution; Supreme Court; Congressional Library; FBI Building; Lincoln Memorial; and the U.S.A. We had a wonderful time on our pilgrimage to Mount Vernon. We rode a steam train to Potomac River. Mount Vernon where we saw the tomb of George Washington and his home as it was as he lived in it. We finished our convention with a dinner and dance at the Manor Country Club in Norbeck, Maryland. It was a

Genesee Youth Tells Of Washington Trip

(Ed's Note: Although Don Schuster returned from Washington several weeks ago this is the first opportunity he has had to write of his trip due to the fact that he has been busily engaged in farm work.)

Our week at Washington, D. C. was one of interest and wonder. Mr. Dan Warren, State 4-H Leader, three others, and myself from Idaho attended the Conference. After three days train ride we arrived in Washington, D. C. on the morning of June 15th. We registered at the Raleigh Hotel, which was to be our home for the next week.

The Conference officially opened on Sunday morning. Some 200 4-Hers and about 100 adult leaders gathered here to function under the theme of "Citizenship in Focus". We had our general assembly each evening and our assemblies all during the week. During the day we went on numerous sight seeing tours. On one of these we saw the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at the Arlington National Cemetery. Last of the same day we were guests at a regimental Parade at Fort Meyer, Virginia. One evening we were thrilled to see the city of Washington in the air. Several of us climbed close to 900 steps to reach the top. It seemed closer to 9000 by the time we reached it. Peak Is Reached In Wheat Harvest

The peak has been reached in the Genesee area wheat harvest. Forrest Durbin, manager of the Genesee Union Warehouse, reported this week the wheat will have been finished next week.

Wet weather and dampness, due last week's rain delayed the harvest for several days as the grain was too damp to be stored in the warehouses. But wind and fairly warm weather seemed to hasten the drying out of the crops and allowed harvesters to get to the grain.

Durbin reported that the grain brought into the warehouse is of quality and the yield was far above normal. Very few peas being brought into the local elevators and no barley, with most of farmers concentrating on wheat.

First self-employed farmers were first brought under social security beginning in 1954. A farmer who leased his land to someone else or who arranged with someone else to produce crops or livestock on his land for a share of the crop was not considered a farm operator. This was true, even though he may have taken some part in the farming activities on that land. The income he received, either in the form of cash-rent or as a share of the total crop produced, was classed as rental from real estate rather than income from farming, and like rental income received from any other source did not count towards social security.

This restriction had its greatest impact on farmers who had passed their peak of activity and whose children had gone into other occupations. But wind and fairly warm weather seemed to hasten the drying out of the crops and allowed harvesters to get to the grain.

Beginning with taxable years ending after 1955, the law covers the landlord who leases the land to a tenant who participates materially in the production or management of the production of crops or livestock raised by the tenant. This provision makes it possible for the farm landlord to avail himself of social security coverage without terminating or changing the nature of his farming operation. The landlord must do so in order to "participate materially" in the production or management of the farm. He rents to someone else. However, the law does not require that the landlord must do so in order to "participate materially" in the production or management of the farm. He rents to someone else. However, the law does not require that the landlord must do so in order to "participate materially" in the production or management of the farm. He rents to someone else.

Moreover, if in addition the landlord also furnished the renter with tools, livestock, and farm equipment, or finances any of these, this would be further evidence of "material participation" on his part. The mere furnishing of materials or finances for the production without entering into an arrangement under which he participates in the production or management would not permit him to report his income from the farm for social security purposes. This change in the law applies to all types of farm rental including share-cropping or standing rent, share rental, and share-farming arrangements. The Social Security Administration and the Internal Revenue Service have issued a pamphlet explaining in more detail what things are taken into consideration in determining whether the landlord's activities constitute material participation. A copy of this pamphlet, ask any district office of the Social Security Administration or the Internal Revenue Service for the leaflet on farm rental including share-cropping. The pamphlet is located at 307 Weisberger Building, Lewiston.

POST STILL HAS HOPES FOR HELLS CANYON BILL

The Hells Canyon bill is not dead, Rep. Gracie Pfoef, the bill's sponsor, has declared in a "thank you" statement issued to Idaho high dam supporters.

"The bill is very much alive," the Congressman said, "and it is kicking up a big fuss back here. We haven't for a moment given up hope of passing it."

A House Interior subcommittee has voted to strike the enacting clause from the bill, but parliamentary maneuvers of the proponents have kept the full committee from taking further action.

"Each morning's mail from Idaho renews my fighting spirit," Rep. Pfoef said. "It's like a cool breeze from our pine-clad mountains to know so many Idahoans are behind me in 'last ditch' fight to save the high dam."

"I am also heartened," Rep. Pfoef declared, "by the results of the poll conducted by the IDAHO FARMER. Almost three fourths of the farmers who participated said they preferred public over private ownership and the development of the dams in the Hells Canyon area."

Her mail is running about three to one in favor of the high dam, the Congressman said. She is receiving many petitions supporting Federal development which she feels represent "honest grass-roots sentiment, because they were circulated by unpaid porkers on their own time, and no one was pressured into signing them."

"People all over the state are up in arms because Idaho Power Company employees have asked them to sign petitions opposing Federal development of Hells Canyon," the Congressman reported. "Resentment is particularly deep if they have gone to an Idaho Power Company office to pay a bill and been urged to sign while they were there."

"Many people have reported to me they signed only because they had a good friend who was an employee of the Idaho Power Company and they were afraid to offend him."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: I file for the disability freeze, but that forever fix my rate, or could I build it up in case I get well and go back to work?

Answer: You can build it up in case you are able to return to work. The period of disability would then be ended and your earnings after that date would go to your credit. Your average earnings of course will be held at a higher level by the disability freeze, because the period of disability will not be counted against you. That means that benefits will be higher at retirement or in case of your death.

OLDEST SENATOR ADVISES ON HEALTH PROBLEMS

The U. S. Senate's oldest member, Senator Theodore F. Green, 89, a democrat from Rhode Island, advises helping coffee at hand "so you can sleep through the speeches!"

The robust senator gives this advice in an interview with Doctor Editor J. Dewitt Fox in the August issue of Life and Health, a magazine published in Washington, D. C.

A hard worker, long walker, and light eater, Senator Green believes that a person should "keep a clear conscience, let moderation be your motto, enjoy your life and work and do regular exercise," to achieve life's happiest goals.

Up at 7 o'clock each morning, Congressman Green breakfasts lightly and goes to work. He usually returns to his diversity club room at 11 p. m., for a day that sees him in the role of chairman of the important Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and evening walk, streetcar or bus.

He has had a sympathetic interest in streetcars, transit lines, and their employees since he helped put the Rhode Island Company on a paying basis some 35 years ago.

A nonsmoker who prints up flights stairs in the Senate office building "Green," as his fellow senators call him, believes his walking habit pays dividends. "It gives me more time to meditate as I stroll along," he says.

He feels that his Senate colleagues would benefit by more exercise after sitting all day in committee and Senate sessions. "His zest for life is the envy of colleagues half his age."

The oldest man ever to sit in the Senate, Green is among the wealthiest yet the most unpretentious; among the most cultured yet the meekest. He doesn't drive a car, is a bachelor, and is among the most sought-after dinner guests in Washington.

According to the article, Senator Green thinks that exercise should be a habit, for he doesn't believe in "going through the winter and then taking a violent summer vacation. Walking is the most healthful yet the most neglected exercise in modern America, Senator Green thinks.

FISH AND GAME NEWS

Leftover Permits
A few permits were left over after the first drawing for the moose, antelope and mountain goat contests. The big game hunt is filled, but the following are still reported to be available for the other species: 3 for moose in hunt 312 (Barganum creek); 1 in goat hunt 601 (Big Mallow); 3 in 604 (Loon creek); 1 in 605 (Patterson creek); 31 in antelope hunt 412 (arco area); 3 in 413 (south of Mud Lake) and 35 in 414 (Clatskanie) in Clatskanie county. Applications will be received for these permits until August 12, when a second drawing will be held. Any remaining after that drawing may be obtained on a first come, first served basis. Note, however, that applications for the second drawing must be in the department's state headquarters in Boise by 5 p. m. of the closing date, regardless of postmark.

Application Call
Applications for permits in the deer and elk controlled hunts this fall will be on August 20, and the drawing will be held on Sept. 3. Applications for these hunts must be in the state headquarters by 5 p. m. of the closing date if they are delivered by hand, or postmarked by midnight of that date if sent by mail. This year there are only three controlled hunts for deer: one in the South Fork of Payette preserve, and two in the Payette preserve, headed five for elk: one in the Payette, two in Soldier Mountain, one in the Big Wood area and one in Owyhee county.

A plea for neat camps was issued this week by the Idaho Landholder Sportsmen Council. The group attributes much of the vandalism in vacation-time to poor woods habits acquired by many youths today. The Council urged camp supervisors and parents to include actual "pick-up and clean-up" activities in the regular camp program. The Council will continue its program to improve relationships between landholders and sportsmen through hunting season this fall.

New idea in fish and game license information has been put into practice in New Hampshire. Sportsmen in that state will find space on their 1958 licenses for indicating their blood type, presumably as emergency information in an accident. The insertion of the information is optional, however.

Western States Fish-Game Association to Hold Idaho Meet
The Western Association of State Game and Fish Commissioners will hold its 38th Annual conference at the Valley View Hotel in Boise, Idaho, August 19-21. The association met this week. Leonard was recently elected president of the association for the current year.

Leonard said that 400 to 600 executives and technical specialists of the wildlife agencies in the 11 western states are expected to attend the meeting. "Game management people always express a keen interest in Idaho because of the great extent and outstanding variety in our wildlife resources, and we expect a heavy attendance," he said.

The 1958 conference has been scheduled for June 21-24, Leonard said. This will be the first of the conferences to be held in Idaho since 1946. The last one was held at Twin Falls. In 1955 the association met at Moran, Wyoming.

"The history of this organization parallels that of the development of the science of wildlife management," Leonard said. "When the association was formed nearly 40 years ago the typical wildlife agency was a group of law enforcement officers headed by a single executive bearing the title Commissioner," he explained. "Since that time, scientific game management has developed to a high degree of efficiency. Most states have replaced the former Commissioner with a technical and administrative director, and placed its wildlife policy administration in the hands of a board or commission serving on a voluntary, part-time basis."

"These changes made the name of the organization a little confusing for a time," Leonard commented. "It was formed to facilitate free interchange of technical information and methods between members of the working staffs, and to provide for efficient inter-state cooperation if desirable. Also, many members of the policy-making commissions now attend the sessions, and contribute a great deal to the general interest of the program."

Leonard said the conferences are held each year to provide machinery for exchange of information, to reduce duplication of effort on common problems, and to enable coordination of planning on an inter-state level if desirable. "It will be an honor to act as host to this distinguished group,

SPEDING CAN REDUCE THE EFFECTS OF SKILL

Many drivers who habitually drive at the top speed limit or in excess of that limit have supreme confidence in their ability to avoid making a dangerous mistake.

What many a fast driver fails to realize is that he is also placing a rather-naïve confidence in other drivers. It isn't always our mistakes that cause trouble. Frequently it is the other fellow who is at fault. Suppose another driver runs a stop sign at a blind intersection. Will all our skill be of any avail if we are approaching that intersection at top speed?

The intelligent driver is one who is ready to prevent an accident by being alert at all times, and by driving at a rate of speed that will allow time to avert a possible collision.

While it may be perfectly legal to pass another vehicle driving at a speed below the posted limit, the wise driver is very careful about the manner in which he passes. He avoids riding the other fellow's bumper while waiting for an opportunity to pass. He observes traffic coming up from behind as well as traffic on the highway ahead. Needless to say, he never attempts to pass at intersections on hills or curves where the vision of other traffic is obstructed.

Inland Empire Folks Can Select Entertainer For Spokane Show

Lawrence Welk this week offered residents of the Inland Empire the opportunity to select the star for his show they would most like to see at the seventh annual Spokane Home Show in the Spokane Coliseum on Sept. 9 thru 15.

Welk told Monty Eaton, Chairman of the Spokane Home Show, that he would like to make any advanced selection of the star to appear. He would like better to allow the people who attend the show to elect their preference for a member of the band.

Eaton said the Home Show would keep track of the votes which would be mailed to Box 1329, Spokane, Wash.

Expected to be among top contenders for the trip to the Inland Empire is Little Alice Lon, vocalist of the band. Popularly known as "The Champagne Lady," Alice Lon has a big hit with Inland Empire residents during a previous appearance at the Coliseum.

Welk regularly features some performers during his personal appearances throughout the country. In addition to Alice Lon, he has featured Myron Floren; Dick Keeser; Rocky Rockwell; Larry Dale; Johnny Ytton; Jerry Bush; Artistic Aladdin; Buddy Merrill; Norm Liddel; Norman Bailey; Gene Aubry; Tiny Little; Buddy Hank; Paul Lofthouse; Curt Ramsey; The Lennon Sisters, whose appearance at the Sports Show this week drew such large crowds, will be at the Home Show.

Nuclear Reactor Program Faces Controversy

When the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy reported on recently the AEC Authorization Bill containing $259,230,000 for construction facilities for such nuclear power plants as atomic energy, it initiated a legislative battle which may materially change the status of many of the projects recommended.

Announcement of the bill's authorization of $58,000,000 to accelerate the reactor development program. One of three projects in this group recommends $40,000,000 for a natural uranium graphite-moderated gas-cooled reactor prototype designed to produce approximately 40,000 electrical kilowatts.

Although the bill does not designate the location for these three projects, the report accompanying the bill reflects the committee's view that this natural uranium gas-cooled reactor should be constructed as soon as possible, probably at the Idaho installation.

Committee Favors Idaho Location The committee generally believes that the United States is well served by the production of uranium power reactors, which has developed the Calder Hall natural uranium power reactor. The report emphasizes that the Bettis Research Laboratory near Pittsburgh is producing its own uranium fuel for the Shippingport, Pennsylvania, reactor, and that these scientists, some of whom are located in Idaho and are supervised by Admiral Rickover, will be available to undertake the work of designing the gas-cooled reactor project. One section of the committee bill provides that the electric energy generated at this plant "shall be used by the contractor for the cost of the operation of such installation."

The Atomic Energy Commission last December recommended the authorization of $50,000,000 to build a national uranium gas-cooled reactor. A proposal was not approved by the Budget Bureau and thus did not reach Congress.

Co-ops Seek Participation Another section of the bill authorizes the government to invest $129,916,000 in various kinds of nuclear reactors for five electric cooperative or municipal power systems. The committee has extended discussions of this program which it initiated two years ago. It has been apparent that Chairman Strauss of AEC has been willing to proceed with this experimental program although these five non-federal groups obviously are lacking in research, experience, and finances with which to insure successful construction of these nuclear reactors.

Do We Need Plutonium for Weapons Not only is there considerable disagreement between the AEC and the Joint Committee over responsibility for directing the atomic energy program, but Chairman T. T. Brown of the committee is leading a fight for an expanded program for increased production of plutonium. Chairman Durham has indicated that he is disturbed over the lack of reliable consideration of the necessity for ultimately establishing a stockpile of plutonium for weapons or peacetime uses but that the AEC and a majority of the members of the Joint Committee involves the question of whether this country is maintaining its leadership in developing both military and peacetime uses of atomic energy. There is some disagreement over whether testing of bombs should be continued and whether it is possible to develop a "clean" bomb which can be used for regional warfare.

Should Avoid Public Power Issue Another aspect of the controversy concerns an incipient public versus private power argument. So far the commission has been willing to negotiate with private utilities and private concerns which utilize research, build reactors and operate reactors. The large government subsidies are involved because research and experimental aspects of these programs, so far AEC has not actually constructed a reactor which should enter into the participation, but there are many who believe the government is not fully utilizing about $14,000,000 worth of facilities and research which have already been acquired by AEC for atomic energy development.

It will be extremely unfortunate if this country should enter into the deliberations and planning of maximum atomic energy in this country. Military requirements overshadow other uses at this time but application to peacetime projects is vitally important, and we cannot afford to lag behind the Soviet or any other nation in making full use of potentialities in such a program.

By making a few simple changes in the way they prepare air-dropped mines, Navy crews can now be sure 95 per cent will blow up enemy ships. The new procedures were developed by the scientists at the Naval Ordnance Laboratory, Silver Spring, Md.

TRAFFIC DRIVING

"Traffic accidents take no vacation. To stay alive, step up your vigilance on the road."

"During the vacation months, thousands of motorists are on the highways, and too many of them are intent on cramming as much activity as they can into one brief vacation."

Harold Davis Traffic Safety Director said. "The result is often tragedy." He cautioned vacationers to be on their guard against speeders, drinking drivers and drivers who disregard traffic laws. Above all he warned them to make sure they are never guilty of such offenses themselves.

"Many vacationers get into trouble by not allowing enough time to cover the trip comfortably. Davis said. "Then they try to make up time by driving too fast for conditions, by driving when fatigued or by disregarding traffic laws."

Everyone Likes Fodder

DOWN THE HATCH—Corky, a cockatoo residing in Dallas, Tex., helps itself to a "dish" of refreshing cold chocolate milk. Greeting the cream container in its beak, the bird has learned to lift its head and let the milk trickle down its throat.

EAR! EAR!—No, this tame squirrel isn't trying to make a meal of the ear of its young owner, 12-year-old Charles Ellis, Pine Ridge, Va.; it's merely taking a playful nip. Since "Oscar" was rescued by the Virginia lad, the pair have been constant companions.

FEEDING TIME ON ROAD JOB—Gigantic construction vehicles must be "fed," too. Here, a pair of diesel-powered International Model 145 Payco's are being "fed" diesel fuel to provide the energy to move 20 cu yds of material at a time.

Buddy Merrill, the bashful guitar-playing star of Lawrence Welk's television show, was the winner of the popularity voting by Inland Empire residents to pick the star to entertain at the Spokane Coliseum on September 9-15, Monty Eaton, Chairman of the Home Show committee, announced that Lawrence Welk and his band will appear at the Home Show. Merrill and Hooper will appear at the Home Show. Merrill and Hooper staged a close and exciting race for the title of Inland Empire residents in the weeks just passed.

Mourning Dove Season Opens Sept. 1

Legal hours for shooting mourning doves during the open season Sept. 1 through 15 will conform to the federal regulation set for all migratory game birds by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Idaho Fish and Game department said this week.
Ross Leonard, director, said other federal regulations also will apply to the mourning dove hunt, except that the "duck stamp" is unnecessary for hunting doves. The noon opening set for upland bird seasons also is unnecessary for dove hunters.
Leonard also voiced a warning that fire hazard is reported to be extreme in many areas, and urged hunters to use extreme caution with fire. "Many ranchers have expressed concern in this respect, and all hunters are requested to cooperate with ranchers and farmers in every way during this period of special danger," he said.
Dove hunting hours are from a half hour before sunrise to sunset, Leonard said. Due to differences in the timing across Idaho, the shooting hours will vary in the different regions.
Doves may be hunted in Boundary, Bonner, Kootenai, Shoshone, Benewah, Lemhi, Latah, Blaine, Nezperce and Idaho Counties under Pacific Standard Time during the following hours:

Savings Bond Report for County

Idaho residents placed $651,782 worth of U. S. Savings Bonds in their thrift socks in July, according to County Chairman Alec Anderson. This brings the total sales for the calendar year to $4,810,418.
While the dollar volume is less than a year ago for the same period, the July sales decreased this margin by 1 per cent. The upward in $25 and $50 bond sales has been steady. Sales of small saving bonds exceeded their previous post war peak by 3 percent.
"Series E and H bonds now may 3 1/2 percent interest if held to maturity with greater savings all along the way," Anderson stated. "Bonds purchased since February 1957 mature in eight years and eleven months. During that period, if an emergency arises—cash right now."
"It is not so important how much one saves as how it is saved. Bonds prior to all other deductions and payments taken from the monthly income, but it is important to commit one's self to a saving that is available and usable, yet safe and easy money in the purse. Left alone, bonds continue to grow and increase, building a plan for better educated children, more comfortable homes, better community living, more carefree retirement in later years."
"It is not so much what a man earns that assures his future but what he is willing to save."
County sales were $16,868, making the total sales $123,421.

Wheat Harvest About Complete; Pea Harvest Peak Is Reached

Good weather and bright sun continued to favor the Genesee farmers this week as harvesting in the area moved along at a fast clip under these conditions.
Forrest Durbin, manager of the Genesee Union Warehouse Company, reported Thursday morning that the wheat harvest in Genesee's area was over ninety percent completed with just small amounts of the grain still standing.
Durbin stated that the wheat brought into the local warehouse was running about 50 to 55 bushels per acre. This yield is slightly below that of last year's but according to the warehouse manager, all the grain is of good, number one quality.
Spike barley is just reaching the riping stage, it was reported with very little of the crop being brought into the warehouse yet. Durbin said that harvesting operations on this crop is just starting, although some farmers are now in the barley fields, mostly those who were lucky enough to get the grain in the ground before May 1st.
Peas Reach Peak
Bob Hammond, manager of the Associated Seed Growers Warehouse in Genesee, reported that the pea harvest is roughly sixty-five percent complete as of Thursday, and the harvesting operations for this crop will be in the final stages by next week.
Pea harvest yields in this area have, in general, been running behind those of last year. However, there has been no pattern in the yields with some fields averaging over 600 pounds per acre and others running as high as 2000 pounds per acre.
Quality of the pea crop, especially those planted early, reported Hammond, has been very good.

Aluminum Pipe To Be Used For Sprinklers

Members of the city council moved quickly this week in planning for the installation of a new system of a sprinkler system to be used in the city hall park. It was reported Wednesday afternoon that the new watering device should be in operation by Saturday of this week.
The sprinklers will be formed from twelve sections of two-inch aluminum pipe with each section forty feet in length. The pipe will be laid on top of the ground and the sections will come from 12 sprinklers attached to the pipe sections. It is estimated that each sprinkler-head is capable of watering an eighty-foot area.
The pipe, which was purchased through the Farmers Union Producers' Company, will be delivered in Genesee Friday, it was reported and should be in operation by Saturday. A lead from the water main was taken into the park at the Northeast corner.
Storage of the sprinkler system, when not in use, will be in the space provided by the Farmer's Union or in the city building. The city also requested local citizens to refrain from driving cars in the park area when the sprinkler is running, as also requested children not to ride bicycles over the pipes. It was further requested by the city that no other than city employees attempt to move or change the position of the sprinkler system when it is installed.
The total cost of the watering system was estimated at $50.

Don Springer Views Heavyweight Champ

Mr. and Mrs. Don Springer and children, Linda and Doug, returned to their Genesee home Tuesday evening after spending a week visiting friends and relatives on the West Coast.
Leaving home Tuesday, August 13, the Springer family drove to Bellevue, Washington, where they visited for three days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bertrand. While in this area the family also visited Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Baumgartner and son.
Watch Champion Train
On Thursday last week, Don drove his family to Kent, Washington, where he and his wife, Linda, and children, Floyd Patterson, was in training for his fight with Pete Rademacher. Don reported that he watched the champ spar four rounds with his two sparring partners and go through his other training camp routines. According to Don, Patterson looked smaller than he thought the prize-fighter would be, but was very fast with his hands and feet. He estimated that there were approximately 700 other sport fans on hand to watch the workout.
On Friday, the Springer family drove to Westport, Washington where a day was spent in salmon fishing, clam digging and watching the Westport Fishing Derby. Don said that 717 boats were in the harbor that day.
On Monday of this week, the return trip was started by the Genesee family. They drove to Portland, Oregon and then followed the Columbia River route home, stopping several times enroute to view the big dams on the Columbia.
The Springer family arrived at their Genesee home at 5:30 p. m. Tuesday evening.

Farmer's Earnings After Retirement

By Marlow V. Wootton
District Manager of the Lewiston Social Security Office
A farmer came to our office the other day and said, "I never thought making more money off my farm would worry me, but right now it is."
The farmer was talking about getting old-age insurance benefits. At the time I filed my claim because of the late planting, I didn't expect to be a plugged-in farmer, let alone make $1200. My crops look better than ever now."
Well, it was clear that this farmer and many other retired self-employed farmers in this area are going to have total farm earnings this year in excess of $1200. This will effect the number of social security payments he will be entitled to receive during the year. All of them should be happy to answer your questions and solve your problems at no expense to you.
The stage show will be at 4:00 and 9:00 p. m., Monday through Saturday. Sunday show time is 2:30 and 7:00 p. m. Doors open to see the exhibits from 1:30 p. m. to 11:00 p. m. Monday through Saturday and from 11:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m. Sunday.

Traffic Signs Important to Safety

Traffic signs and signals perform an extremely valuable function—in helping us to drive efficiently and safely. There are occasions when the presence or absence of an appropriate road sign makes the difference between life and death.
Actually, our greatest trouble in traffic is not a shortage of good road signs but human failure—just to notice them, to obey them, to sign and markings we do have. Failure to pay attention to road signs is like turning down the advice of a good friend who makes the difference between life and death.
Death is the silent—invisible hitchhiker who stands along the roadside waiting to take a ride with the motorist who is careless enough to ignore "No Passing" zones—Highway speed limits—Railroad crossing signals—and STOP signs. If you value your life—heed the signs of life along our streets and highways. Let the traffic signals—road signs and pavement markings be your guide to a long life on the roadway.
If it is important to bring your car to a full stop whenever you drive up to a stop sign. The law requires it, even if no approaching traffic is apparent at the sign. In obeying this law you set up a habit pattern which may some day save your life! Obey traffic signs just as you do police officers. The signs cannot arrest you—but they can save you. Heed the highway signs to avoid accidents.

He is the first freshman Senator to be chosen as a delegate, and will attend the conference off the Organization of American States was an outstanding honor.

In past years, Senators Alexander Wiley (R. Wis.) and George A. Smathers (D. Fla.) have acted as Congressional advisors.

Twenty one countries are represented at the conference, which will discuss general economic development, foreign trade, technical cooperation among the nations, and the development and coordination of inter-American transportation systems.

This is expected to be one of the most important such conferences yet held. The United States and all of the Latin-American countries except Venezuela, which has broken off relations with Argentina, the host country—will work on a draft of an inter-American agreement which would bind each nation to a statement that "the economic well-being of each state depends in great part on the well-being of the others."

This would advance the Reciprocal Assistance Treaty signed at Rio de Janeiro in 1947 which provides that if any one country is attacked this will be construed as an attack on all.

Two significant developments have occurred in legislation which Senator Church has cosponsored. One was the introduction, and Interior and Insular Affairs Committee approval, of a new bill calling for construction of Burns Creek re-regulating dam and reservoir on the Snake river.

The bill, jointly sponsored by Senator Dworshak and Senator Church was introduced on Saturday and approved by the full committee the following Tuesday. Originally, the Senators had introduced separate bills.

This joint effort and prompt committee approval means that there is a good chance for early action on the measure, either in this session or early in the next session of Congress.

The $44-million project calls for the construction of an earth-fill dam and power plant downstream from the Palisades Dam, and would be integrated with that project. It would pay for itself from irrigation and power revenues.

Senator Church is also sponsoring, with the Montana Senators legislation calling for the construction of Libby Dam in two stages.

The dam would be located in Montana on the Kootenai River, and would be a deterrent to the floods which annually seem to beset Boundary County in Idaho.

If Congressional hearings prove it feasible, the dam would be built in stages. The first stage would back water up to the Canadian Border, but the second stage—would back water into Canada—could not be built pending agreement by the International Joint Commission regarding usage of Kootenai waters in Canada and the United States.

Total cost of the Libby dam would be $285 million.

IDAHO'S HEALTH
By Your
State Board of Health

Despite a decrease in fatalities in recent years, the latest statistics in the United States show 13,000 accidental deaths to farm residents annually, and more than a million injuries. The nation's economic loss from farm accidents is estimated at one and one-half billion dollars or more each year. These terrific human and economic costs show that safety makes sense.

Idaho in 1956 had 14 deaths directly attributed to work accidents on the farm. In addition, there were 117 deaths attributed to home accidents and 249 deaths from traffic accidents—and farm people were involved in many of these.

Everyone Can Help
Every farm person, young and old, can help reduce the accident toll by observing safe practices and by avoiding unnecessary risks.

Safety makes sense in preventing falls, the leading source of all injuries to farm residents and the killer of some 2,000 farm people in the United States each year. Falls occur especially in barns and other buildings and barn yards, from hay racks, ladders, roofs and trees.

Safety makes sense in preventing machinery and animal accidents, that always rank high as farm trouble-makers. Whether it's alive or mechanical, it's how you handle such work helpers that keeps them helpers instead of killers.

Safety is a State of Mind
Safety makes sense in preventing home accidents, which account for about one-fourth of all mishaps to farm people. It makes sense to be constantly watchful, to remove hazards and keep an orderly place, and to train children to do the same.

Safety makes sense in traffic accidents, the main accidental killer of farm people. Courteous, careful and always watchful driving is the answer. Share the road, share the reasonable rights, and share the results in safer, better living.

Social Security benefits totalling $45,000,000 were being paid each month to one million individuals in California, Oregon and Washington as of December 31, 1956.

LIBRARIES AID VA MENTAL PATIENTS IN TREATMENT
"See you in the library."
The library is a new role that libraries in Veterans Administration hospitals are playing in helping mentally ill veterans return to health, VA revealed this week.

Libraries are becoming meeting places for a wide variety of activities that bring mental patients together, in an effort to achieve what doctors call "socialization"—the ability to "snap out" of themselves and to meet and mingle with others.

"Socialization" often is the first step to recovery, VA pointed out. VA libraries conduct discussion groups on current events or literature. At one hospital, for example, veteran-patients with a library bent are taking part in a "Great Books Group," reading and discussing, sometimes heatedly, the works of great controversial writers in fields of sociology and other subjects.

Also, some hospital libraries have been conducting quiz games for patients on such topics as geography, history and current affairs.

Hospitals, too, arrange for group visits to the library, to introduce mental patients to the many facilities the library has to offer.

One veteran, never before inside a library, acquired such a lasting interest that after he left the VA hospital he began visiting his community library regularly—not just to read books but also to take part in discussion workshops.

The VA libraries also serve as a meeting place for special interest groups such as stamp and coin clubs, drama groups, writing clinics and the like, since reference material is right at hand.

A recent VA survey indicated that veterans with mental illness take fewer books out of the library than do veterans-patients with other types of disabilities. Yet book circulation represents far from the full measure of help that the mentally ill get from libraries; it doesn't measure the new trend of "socialization" activities VA said; and these activities are performing immeasurable amount of good in returning the mentally ill to normal life.

BE CAREFUL DRIVING IN LABOR DAY TRAFFIC

We've all heard the comment that we get out of life just about what we put into it. And most people will agree that this is pretty true. It's also true of holidays. If you let the "Hurry Bug" put a lot of tension and hurry and bustle into your Labor Day weekend trip. But if you end up with a hurried and relaxed vacation, you'll return home re-energized. And you'll return home re-energized. And you'll return home re-energized.

What's more, you're much more likely to return home safely, especially if you're driving. The furious hurry of so many vacationing motorists invites traffic crashes. With time at a premium, too many people grudge an additional minute spent enroute. They speed they weave in and out of traffic, they take foolish chances. They short-change themselves on sleep and drive when they are tired. They also drive after they've been drinking or over-eating. And what heels they are! They can't take time to be courteous. They never give pedestrians or other motorists a break. And if anyone infringes slightly on their rights they never give pedestrians or other motorists a break. And if anyone infringes slightly on their rights they never give pedestrians or other motorists a break.

Family Farming Arrangements Under Social Security
by Marlow V. Wootton
District Manager of the Lewiston Social Security Office
A majority of farmers expect to depend on their farm investments as an important source of income in old age. Moreover, most farmers do not continue living on the farm after retirement. The problem in many cases, is how to keep a farm in the family. Many farms have passed from father to son, or to another near relative through several generations. This is a tradition of American farm life which still prevails in many sections of the nation. This objective is achieved by the use of a partnership arrangement. Such an arrangement will maintain or establish the social security insurance covered status of both partners in conformity with the agreement of the partnership. The father, looking to the future may enter into a farming partnership with his son. The father may furnish all land and buildings, livestock and all machinery at the beginning of the arrangement. The son may own an interest in all young stock raised and in new machinery purchased after the arrangement begins, and the father may take the receipts from the sale of original livestock or machinery. A family partnership of this type would enable the son to work in the farthest business without taking debt. The son's equity under this arrangement can gradually increase as young stock is raised and new machinery purchased.

More than 62 per cent of total annual expenditures for forest research is supplied by forest industries and government sources, he pointed out. Many companies operate their own laboratories or experimental forests.

"Two thirds of forest research is aimed at developing new uses for wood, better methods of logging and milling, and finding uses for all parts of trees and for all kinds of trees," the industry man said. "Researchers are seeking means of making woods last longer and to discover better manufacturing methods."

Potter said intensive research in tree growing also is in progress. Studies cover such subjects as superior strains of trees, forest soils, relationships between trees and their surroundings, forest insects and diseases, economics, and forest management and protection.

Such research accomplishments and the knowledge that even greater projects are underway should convince Idaho residents of the value of timberlands in the state, Potter said.

Barley Harvest Getting Underway
Early seeding of barley are now starting to be delivered to the Genesee Union Warehouse, manager Forrest Durbin reported this week. Although the early plantings of this grain are now ready for cutting, the majority of the crops are still too green for harvesting and it will be some time before the harvest is in full-swing.

According to Durbin, the quality of barley brought in thus far has varied from good to poor, with the best noted in some of the maturing barley. In general, neither the quality nor the yields have been as good this year as in years past.

Wheat, at least in the Genesee area is practically all in, the Warehouse manager reported. This year's wheat harvest, said Durbin, could be termed a "bum" year, with the grain averaging out to 50 to 55 bushels per acre. Durbin also stated that the pea harvest is almost complete, too.

The Kalafus family also spent some time at Silver Lake, Seaside, and other points of interest before returning home through the central route which they said was very scenic.

FOREST RESEARCH BY WOOD INDUSTRY MAKES GAINS
Spending for forest research in the United States rose from $2,600,000 in 1926 to $45,400,000 annually at latest count, Grant B. Potter, spokesman for the Forest Industries and an official of the Ohio Match Co., Coeur d'Alene, said this week.

Genesee Schools To Open Sept. 3rd
Final preparations are being made this week for the opening of the Genesee Public Schools, superintendent Kenneth R. Primus announced this week. Classes will begin at 9:00 a. m. on Tuesday, September 3, and will be in session for the full day.

Students will be dismissed at 3:40 p. m. except first graders, who will be excused 30 minutes earlier than the 3:40 dismissal time. However, all of these youngsters will be under teacher supervision until bus departure time.

Book fees for students in grades one through twelve will be $4.00 for all or any part of the school year. Insurance for football players will cost each athlete $7.00 and there will be a $3.00 towel and equipment fee for each participant. It is requested that all fees be paid on or before the day of school or at the time of registration.

Student insurance for all students in grades one through twelve will be available at a cost of $2.00 per child. This cost represents an increase of $2.25 for high school and $5.00 for elementary students. Purchase of this insurance is optional and obtainable through the school from the United Pacific Insurance Company of Tacoma, Washington. An insured student receives benefits from this coverage if injured, (1) while traveling directly from home to school or from school to home each school day, (2) in or on buildings or other premises assigned during which enrolled or assigned during the school year. The student is attending a school sponsored activity directly supervised by members of the faculty, and (3) participating in school sponsored or organized student activities conducted off the school premises, directly supervised by members of the faculty.

The school lunch program will be in operation on the opening day of school. The cost of lunches will be 25¢ per meal for students and 35¢ for adults. Milk will be served with sack lunches at a cost of .05 per glass. Registration in school sponsored activities is being conducted on Thursday and Friday of this week with registration on Friday evening for students working in harvest. A child must be six years of age or be over October 15, 1957 in order to enter the first grade this year. The state law requires that a child's birth certificate be presented at the time of registration and that there be no deviation from the deadline date.

All bus schedules and routes will be approximately the same as last year. If there are any changes in routes or schedules, the students to be affected will be notified prior to the opening of school.

Waterfowl Season Drops One Duck; Gains 15 Days
Waterfowl hunting season in Idaho this winter will open eight days earlier, and remain open seven days longer, but bag and possession limits were trimmed one duck, the Idaho Fish and Game Department announced this week.

Ross Leonard, secretary of the Commission and department director, said the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service this year authorized a 95-day season for ducks and geese to be set between Oct. 1 and Jan. 15. The Commission by unanimous decision set the season to run October 5 through January 7, inclusive, Leonard said.

Bag and possession limits for ducks were slightly reduced to offset the increased number of open days. The limit will be five ducks in a day, or 10 in possession, plus three "bonus" ducks (pintails, widgeons, the same as last year, Leonard said.

He pointed out that length of season is of vital importance in Idaho because of climatic differences. "It would take more than three months to give all parts of the state an equal break on waterfowl hunting," Leonard explained. "Most years eastern Idaho has ducks in the early October, but not later because of the early freeze-up. Northern Idaho's best time is November, and southern Idaho usually ends the major of the season in December or January." He pointed out that the present 95-day season gives a better chance of furnishing some hunting for all parts of the state than has been set for many years.

The goose limit is the same as last year, except that hunters in Bear Lake, Bonneville and Caribou counties will have a bag and possession limit of only one goose. The restricted take is set to protect goose populations. Other provisions in regard to geese remain unchanged from last year.

YOUR Social Security

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: My disability was denied when I filed last February. I'm still not able to work and need financial help. Is there anything I can do to change the decision about it?

Answer: Your claim can be reconsidered. You should keep in mind the fact that your denial was based upon the evidence you submitted with your original claim. Inasmuch as that material was not sufficient to persuade the finder you disabled, you should have something additional and material in support of your claim for reconsideration.

Question: I have a question about my Social Security card. I was told that I should have a new one made. Is this correct?

"MYSTERY MAIL" MAKES VA CORRESPONDENCE BIG JOB
No name is unusual in the central file of Veterans Administration. Even the most unique are duplicated—some of them many times over. So, says VA, when you write to the agency about your benefit claim or your GI insurance policy be sure you give your benefit claim ("C") number or the number of your policy, whichever applies. While there may be many names like yours in VA's files, your "C" or your GI insurance policy number is yours and yours alone, VA said.

VA made the plan this week in an attempt to cut down on the "mystery mail" which is costly and time-consuming to handle. VA said "mystery mail" makes up 10 percent of all letters received by the agency. This one letter in 10 is the devil of the piece. It requires additional correspondence or considerable checking to track down the veteran to whom it applies. Not only is such mail costly to handle, VA says, it also means the writer will not receive prompt reply.

The Genesee News, Genesee, Idaho, Friday, September 6, 1957 Vol. 71 No. 11

Family Farming Arrangements Under Social Security

As I said in my last article there are many kinds of farm partnerships. Whether the farming operation is a partnership or social security purposes must be determined from all the factors involved.

Last year, for example, the Social Security Administration had to make a determination on a case involving a father and his son. The question presented was whether their farming income for 1955 was covered by a social security as partners in a farming enterprise or self-employed individuals.

Under the optional method then in effect, a farmer with gross income of not more than $1,800 in a year could report for social security purposes the net income from the farm.

At the reception Mrs. Dan Rowley cut the cake and Mrs. Dick Tesarik poured punch. Mrs. Donald Hahn was in charge of the guest book. The couple will be married at E. 1507 37th, Spokane, Washington.

TREASURY CAUTIONS PUBLIC AGAINST USE OF SAVINGS BONDS IN CHAIN LETTER SCHEMES. The U. S. Treasury is cautioning the public against the current rash of Savings Bonds "chain letter" schemes. "U. S. Savings Bonds themselves are an absolutely safe investment, free from elements of risk because the principal and interest are fully guaranteed by our Government," O. J. Bohne, State Savings Bonds Director said today. "However, these schemes for acquiring Savings Bonds 'for nothing' are a risky gamble. He said that the Post Office Department's experience with endless chain schemes over a period of many years is that most participants lose their entire investment. This outcome is inevitable because the supply of interested persons is soon exhausted. The greater the amount to be invested, the sooner the saturation point is reached. "Some organizers of the new 'chain letter' plans imply that the Government and banks approve of the idea in order to increase Bond Sales," Bohne continued. "This is not true. The Treasury Department, through the Federal Reserve Bank, has instructed banks and other issuing agencies to reject applications for purchase of Savings Bonds where the applicant states, or where the issuing agent has reason to believe, that the Bonds will be used in the chain letter scheme." He reported the Treasury's stand was taken more than two years ago when the chain-letter device involving Savings Bonds was first brought to its attention. The scheme, then as now, was felt to be contrary to the Government's intended purpose in selling Savings Bonds to the public. "Savings Bonds are issued primarily for the purpose of enabling individuals and families to save safely and regularly for important long-range goals," Bohne said. "The Treasury wants to sell as many Bonds to as many Americans as possible—but always within the framework of thrift, and not as a vehicle for this or any other 'get-rich-quick' scheme."

DES AND FURS of Idaho and Boy Scouts and other youth eye-witness experience for trying the animals they may be during their camp tours. Here Milton T. Williams, Idaho Fish and Game Department conservation educator stationed at Moscow, shows a local flock to a group of scouts at Easton camp. Your first step is an interview at the Washington State Employment Service, South 309 Howard Street, in Spokane, during the week of Sept. 3. Office hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, until 7 p.m. on Wednesday evening, and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday. Secretarial positions offering a starting salary of $3800 a year require a typing speed of 50 words a minute, shorthand at 96 words a minute and four years of work experience—one year of which must be in the secretarial field. A starting salary of $3390 is offered to stenographers with a typing speed of 50 words a minute and a shorthand speed of 80 communications code clerks with a typing speed of 45 words a minute (qualified typists will be trained for these positions); and general office clerks with a typing speed of 35 words a minute. Three years of work experience is required. Business school or college education for at least five years, you can make your dreams of travel come true but you must be willing to go anywhere in the world. Salaried positions provide free housing or a housing allowance, at some posts a cost-of-living allowance, and a 10 to 25 percent post differential for duty in hardship areas. For instance, a stenographer in Saigon, Viet-Nam, receives $6700 a year; in Caracas, Venezuela, $6870 a year; and in Madrid, Spain, $4290 a year. Liberal vacations provide time for sightseeing, shopping and other activities determined by your tastes, but tempered by the customs of the land. Many interesting hours are spent by Foreign Service employees comparing notes on Sauris, skiing on the Zagspit, wild-boar hunting in Australia, golfing on sand courses or the fun of finding activities 'just like back home' in foreign lands. Between each two-year tour of duty, employees receive an additional six weeks of paid vacation at their homes in the States. All travel is at Government expense. If you are not ready to take off for foreign lands, but you would like to travel, typists and stenographic positions are available in the Department of State's "home office" in Washington, D. C. Starting salaries range from $3175 to $3415 a year. Applicants must be at least 18 years of age and able to type 40 words a minute. Applicants for the stenographic positions must, in addition, be able to write shorthand at 80 words a minute. Special appointments and additional information can be obtained by telephoning Temple 8-8201.

BEETLE BAILEY by MORT WALKER FOR COMPLETE ALL-AROUND PROTECTION I WEAR MY U.S. SAVINGS BONDS BENEATH MY BULLET-PROOF VEST! BOOM! NEW Mineral Resource Book Radioactive minerals are featured in two new Idaho mineral resources reports now available from the Idaho Bureau of Mines and Geology. Dr. E. B. Cook, director of the Bureau and dean of the college of mines at the University of Idaho, announced this week. One is a report called the "Radioactive Minerals in Idaho" written by Dr. Cook and the other is a reprint of a section of a U. S. Geological Survey paper on "Uranium and Thorium-Bearing Minerals in Placer Deposits in Idaho," by J. H. Mackin and D. L. Schmidt. "Almost no area in Idaho is ruled out as a possible source of uranium," Dean Cook said in the report. "Uranium minerals have been found at many widely scattered localities in Idaho and in a wide range of geologic environments. One commercial uranium deposit is now being exploited and several promising deposits are being explored." The Geological Survey report deals with the economic geology of the big and relatively undeveloped uranium and thorium bearing placer deposits of central Idaho. The reports may be obtained for 25 cents each from the Idaho Bureau of Mines and Geology at the University of Idaho. A few score years ago, when scientifically prepared, ready-to-use eyeglasses were not available, the blue-eyed mountain girls of the Southern Appalachians used puce from the Jimson weed as an eye application. The juice was thought to enlarge the pupil so that only a thin ring of blue showed. Today the dictionary defines the weed as being "intensely poisonous." Its use definitely is not recommended, say Murine Company researchers. The Genesee News, Genesee, Idaho, September 6, 1957 3 ANIMATED TRAFFIC WARNING SIGNS ON THE HIGHWAY Ever been to Times Square in New York City? If you have you've probably marveled at some of the animated advertising signs. Well, we have some animated traffic warning signs right here in Idaho. They are the many children under the age of fifteen. When you see these children in or near the street, reduce your speed. Treat every child you see as though it were your own. School is out for the summer—that does not mean you can become careless in your driving habits. Although most of the children are kept off the street during the summer—there is a number who play in the streets day after day, especially in the smaller communities. When you see a child, reduce your speed at once. Children are unpredictable. They might run out into the street at any moment. Who is to blame when a child gets hurt in an accident? The driver's statement usually is "I didn't see the child. I was driving down the street and suddenly there it was in front of my car." It is our duty to protect our children at all times. Make it a habit to slow down automatically when you see a child. Phone your news items to 5-3221

Now Standard refines a rare "rock" to give U.S. a new source of gasoline High pressure water jet shatters solid Gilsonite. Flame hose washes particles down mine floor to pipeline. Petroleum products are now being made without crude oil. Standard found the answer in a rare hydrocarbon called Gilsonite. But it took $16,000,000 and a vast research program to do it. Deep in the mountains of Utah our scientists worked out a better, faster way to mine Gilsonite. Meanwhile our engineers designed the nation's first pipeline capable of carrying solids suspended in water... over a rugged terrain to a spot 72 miles away. There Standard* built the nation's first privately financed refinery to make petroleum products from a material other than crude oil. Today that refinery turns Gilsonite into high octane gasoline for motorists, and the purest coke known for making steel, aluminum and other metals. In our country's search for new sources of fuel, the development of Gilsonite is a major breakthrough. It means the equivalent of 100,000,000 barrels of oil added to U.S. underground reserves—important help in meeting our country's growing petroleum needs. *Through American Gilsonite Company, a Standard affiliate a Dog's Life BUILD YOUR DOGS VOCABULARY by Bob Bartos Prominent Dog Authority A dog's intelligence is rated by scientists behind the ape, monkey, elephant and raccoon. Yet how many of these animals hold such responsible jobs as hunter, sheep and cattle Dog of the Week: WHIPPET Hound dog. Average weight; 20 pounds; shoulder height, 20 inches; coat, smooth and short, firm in texture; color, any color. Herd, guard, sled-puller, guide for the blind, TV, stage and movie star? How many won medals for bravery in World Wars I and II? Your dog might not qualify for any of these romantic titles, but he has a very important job in life nevertheless. He's your pal and companion and the more you teach him, the better job he'll be able to do. One dog is said to have understood four hundred words. Yours may not be able to compete with this canine genius, but he can easily be taught a respectable vocabulary. There's no great trick to teaching your dog to understand various words. It's a matter of repetition and getting him to associate words with objects or activities, one word at a time. His guide will be words of praise and a pat when he's right and words of disapproval when he's wrong. First, always show him what you want him to do. If you want him to sit on his bed, lead him over to it; lift him onto it, all the while repeating the word "sit." When he has come to associate the word with the action of sitting on it, you can safely embellish the command... say, "how would you like to go to bed?" Bed is the only word he'll recognize, but using a whole sentence makes him look even more intelligent. Feeding Tip: If your dog's appetite is poor, and he doesn't get between meals, he may be suffering from Vitamin B-1 deficiency. Feed him an all-purpose dog food such as Friskies, which contains liver and other sources of B vitamins, and you'll be sure that he's getting an adequate supply of this all-important vitamin.

Buck

HOW TO TELL the difference between buck and doe antelope in the field has been the subject of many discussions. This year, with a buck hunt set for the small Owyhee antelope herd, the Idaho Fish and Game department has issued an information leaflet to assist hunters, and for general distribution. The leaflet says,

Birds and Fur
Printed copies of the upland bird trapping regulations and those for fur trapping have been sent to authorized hunters in all parts of the state. You can pick up your copies any time. Fur regulations will be sent to every licensed trapper, so only a small shipment was sent to vendors. Anyone wishing to trap this fall will need a new license, as trapping licenses expire at mid-year. They may be obtained by mail or in person from the department's state headquarters. Demand is too tight to justify stocking them throughout the state.

Deer, Elk Drawing
Drawing will be held on Sept. 3 for permits in this year's controlled deer and elk hunts. Applications will be drawn for 1700 deer permits and 2225 elk permits, which will be made to the successful applicants as soon as possible. Lists will be furnished to the newspapers as soon as they can be prepared.

First Hunts
The first 1957 big game hunts to open will be those for Rocky Mountain goat and bighorn sheep, both of which will open on September 1. Nine controlled hunts for goat and two controlled hunts for bighorn sheep will be open through Sept. 25 to hunters holding permits for those hunts. General hunts in designated areas for these species will be open to any hunter holding a valid license and proper tag Sept. 1 through 8.

New Tag
A new type of paper tag is being mailed to vendors for use in this year's deer and elk hunts. This tag probably will develop some disadvantages in use, as most things do, but we hope sportsmen will hear with us in our effort to find a tag-report system that will be convenient for sportsmen and still furnish the information the department needs. Constructive criticisms and suggestions will be welcome, of course. Directions for use of the tag will accompany the new issue, and the tag itself bears most of the essentials. Vendors and sportsmen should read these rather carefully, to make sure they understand them.

Hunts Opened
All three of the deer hunts and one of the elk hunts that were scheduled as controlled hunts this fall will be conducted as open hunts, since applications filed were far too few to assure an adequate harvest. A new Idaho Fish and Game Department film shows the various types of operation used in treating lakes and reservoirs to remove non-game fish. This is an interesting program that has returned many important waters to the active fishing list, and call for the film will probably be heavy. We have five copies on hand, but requests should be sent in at least 30 days in advance of your meeting date, and a second choice should be given in case none of the copies are available for the day you specify. The new film is listed as No. 5 of the Wildlife Review series, and matches them in general format and length (1 1/2 minutes) (Color and sound, of course).

There are no rear-view mirrors on a farm

On the road a rear-view mirror lets you see what's coming up on you. But there's no such thing on a farm. Dust storms, tornadoes, livestock epidemics overtake you with hardly any warning.

By putting part of your earnings into United States Series E Savings Bonds, you save against such disasters... and for such "hair-weather" expenses as farm improvements, the youngsters' education, your own retirement. And now Savings Bonds are better than ever—paying 3-1/4% when held to maturity. New Series E Bonds mature in only 8 years and 11 months—pay you back $100 for your $75. Series H Bonds mature in 10 years, paying current income by Treasury Check each six months. See your banker.

LEGAL NOTICE

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON By U. S. Senator Frank Church

WASHINGTON — There is no doubt that the proposal to provide additional regulations for guns and ammunition has been fount.

Along with other Senators, we expressed our hearty objection to the hearings held in Washington. Four hundred persons attended the hearings held in the Department of Commerce Building, and in their applause as a speaker arose to condemn the proposal as unconstitutional.

The plan was called "a pointed out time and again the original seeking a weapon to give his right name to the all concerned."

I said in my objection that has a tradition of keeping arms, and that from the Indian Wars, our pioneers really survived by the eye upon any attempt to bring sporting arms.

Family Farming Under Social Security
While father-son joint farming arrangements are widely prevalent, a business partnership is the exception rather than the rule in farming operations. The role of women in American agriculture is primarily that of "homemaker" and any work they perform in connection with the management of the operation of crops or livestock raised for sale is usually incidental or, at most, seasonal. In most cases, the wife's agricultural activities are restricted to household duties as restricted to work in connection with the production of commodities for consumption on the farm, such as poultry tending, feeding the livestock, and growing the family garden.

IDAHO SUPERINTENDENTS SEEKING TEACHERS

Idaho school administrators report teaching vacancies, unfilled on Aug. 26, of sixty-one teaching positions—enough to staff a school system enrolling approximately 2,000 pupils.

The report is based upon a 90% return of a questionnaire sent by the Idaho Superintendents' Association, a department of the Idaho Education Association. The survey included only districts which maintain high schools.

Projected shortage on the basis of 100% report and including non-high-school districts would undoubtedly bring the total to seventy-five or more.

Thirty-one of the one-hundred five districts operating high schools reported their staffs still incomplete as of August 26. Twenty-three districts, most of them rather small, had not replied to the questionnaire at the time tabulations were made.

MOTORISTS SHOULD WATCH DRIVING ATTITUDES

Some accidents are caused by drivers who drift into dangerous driving habits unintentionally. But still others, perhaps the largest number, occur because of motorists with dangerous driving attitudes.

The driver who knows that operating a motor vehicle is a privilege and not a right, and realizes his responsibility behind the wheel, has won half the battle of being a safe driver.

Unfortunately, many people do not fully understand these two things. They do not realize the amount of traffic which, though they may be minor in nature, brand them as drivers with faulty attitudes.

You can inventory your own behind-the-wheel reactions. You probably not only have dangerous driving attitudes but already have been involved in several accidents if your answer is frequently "yes" to any of the following questions:

1. Do you feel that you are the best judge of the speed at which you should be allowed to drive?
2. Do you disregard traffic lights at night when the streets are practically empty?
3. Do you bluff your way through an intersection, figuring that the other driver will stop?
4. Do you try hard to be the first one away when the redlight turns green?
5. Do you brag about the times you broke the law and didn't get caught?
6. In your book, is the other driver always wrong?
7. In night driving, do you wait for the approaching car to dim his headlights first?
8. If the driver coming toward you at night doesn't dim his headlights, do you throw yours back on high beam?

These are the attitudes to watch in your driving; and if you're smart, the presence of even one will be enough to make you give serious reflection to driving as a whole. Otherwise, you will be very likely one of many drivers who will have an accident this year. If you're lucky, you might live to be in another.

U. OF IDAHO PROFESSOR HIAS WORDS OF PRAISE FOR KOREAN PEOPLE

Koreans are a greatly underestimated people Professor William W. Staley of the University of Idaho says. He said this week, on his return to the campus after spending a year's leave of absence in Korea.

Professor Staley went to Korea to assist the college of engineering at Seoul National University in updating its programs. The trip was sponsored by the University of Minnesota, the International Co-operating Administration, and Seoul National University.

In Korea, Professor Staley recommended equipment and methods to make mining and metallurgy in Korea more efficient. He also helped select Korean faculty to come to the United States for study.

"The Korean people are doing a remarkable and rapid job of rehabilitation through the help of the United Nations and the ICA," Professor Staley said.

Seoul National University was a battleground for some 4 different occupations during the Korean war. The communists and twice by the United Nations forces.

In the battles, much of the university was destroyed along with the surrounding countryside in a "scorched earth" type policy adopted by the communists.

What was destroyed is being rebuilt. There is a possibility of a good potential development of mineral resources in Korea. The country will probably never become a big metal producer on the world market.

Professor Staley said, but he would need some for export.

The great varieties of trees on the North American continent were introduced early settlers, it is estimated that they brought with them 29 different kinds of trees in France only 34, in Germany only 60. Even today all of the trees not counting Russia, has only a few species of trees.

On this continent there are more than 1,000. That's because this is a big piece of land with cold climate in the North and hot in the South, with mountains, valleys, and plains and all kinds of soil.

However, only about 100 species have commercial value that are suitable for manufacturing into lumber, paper and other products. And that, it, seems like plenty.

Some of you are havin' a battle with insects attacking your trees, here we help. We'll sure help. 1956, the year was a real milestone in the fight against forest pests.

The Northwest Forestry Action Council, a group of people in the forestry business who joined to fight the nasty bark beetles, reports that most tree-killing insects were well in check by the end of last year.

Only two insects continued on rampaging. One is the coniferous balsam woolly aphid in Washington and Oregon and the spruce budworm in Idaho and Montana.

New Chemical Speeds Up Plant Growth

Both African Violet plants pictured above were planted the same time. Reason for the big difference is a new pin growth stimulator called Gibrel, which will soon be available for the first time to flower lovers, home gardeners, greenhouse growers and nurseries. The photo was taken 6 weeks after plants on left was treated with this new chemical. Scientists say the effect is noticeable in 4 days, and the growth peak is reached in about 3 weeks.

A new plant growth booster which exerts a remarkable effect on household and greenhouse plants and nursery stock will soon reach market as the first product of its kind to be made available to the general public in the Spring.

It is being marketed under the name Gibrel by Merck & Co., Rahway, N. J., in the potassium salt form of gibberellic acid to formulator-distributors on a nationwide basis. It is expected that formulator products incorporating the dramatic new compound will be available to the public in the Spring.

Based on experiments by scientists and collaborating researchers throughout the country, Gibrel, which is not a fertilizer, greatly improves the growth traits of several ornamental plants. Gibrel, which is not a fertilizer, greatly improves the growth traits of several ornamental plants.

Further research is necessary before its use on food crops can be recommended. However, preliminary work indicates that a great variety of flowers, plants, nursery stock and crops.

NP RECEIVES 40 NEW DIESEL LOCOMOTIVE UNITS

The Northern Pacific railway this week received the last of 40 new diesel locomotive units ordered for delivery during the last half of 1957.

This brings the number of diesel units acquired this year by the NP to a total of 80. Cost of this fleet of new locomotives, built by Electro-Motive Division of General Motors, is nearly $14,000,000.

Of the units just received, 12 1750-horsepower road switchers and five 1200-HP switchers have been assigned to the St. Paul division. Twelve road switchers and seven switchers are slated for service on the Tacoma division while four road switchers have been assigned to the Yellowstone division.

Steam locomotive operation on the NP is now confined to portions of the railway's Lake Superior and Yellowstone divisions and the Twin Cities yards. Complete dieselization is expected by 1959.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA HAVE SPECIAL RUSH PERIOD SEPTEMBER 27, 28, AND 29

University of Idaho, Moscow — The University of Idaho's newest sorority, Alpha Gamma Delta, will have a special rush period September 27, 28, and 29. It was announced today by Mrs. Marjorie Neely, associate director of student affairs for women.

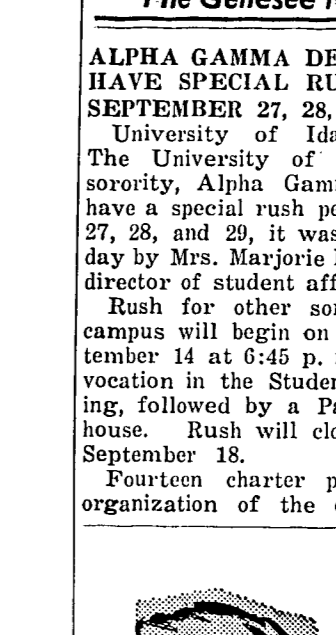

Rush for other sororities on the campus will begin on Saturday, September 14 at 6:45 p. m. with a convocation in the Student Union building, followed by a Panhellenic open house. Rush will close Wednesday, September 18.

Forty-four charter pledges at the organization of the chapter before the close of school last spring will provide the nucleus for the new sorority. It is anticipated that the Delta Theta chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta at the University of Idaho will be installed as the 68th chapter.

Alpha Gamma Delta, established in 1905, has chapters throughout the United States and Canada. In many cases a local sorority is established and then the local petitions for national membership, but national leaders of the sorority felt that the University of Idaho merited immediate colonizing of a national chapter.

The colonization of the Idaho chapter is under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Hyslop, Spokane, Wash., 3rd grand vice-president of the group.

Meetings Set
To work for better relations between landholders and hunters during the coming season, the Idaho Landholder-Sportsman Council will sponsor a series of meetings around the state during September. They will be held as follows:
Council Room, Weiser City Hall, Sept. 16;
Idaho County Court House, Grangeville, Sept. 18;
Sandpoint Community Hall, Sept. 19;
Jerome County Court House, Jerome, Sept. 25;
Probate Court Room, Idaho Falls, Sept. 26.
These meetings are designed to explain the Council program and to gather complaints and suggestions for presentation to the Council. Local organizations and individuals are invited to cooperate in making these meetings produce results.
Inquiry Invited
Members of cooperating Soil Conservation Districts who would like to take part in next year's habitat improvement planting program are invited to write the Idaho Fish and Game Department for information this month. Schedules are being arranged now for next year, and plants are being ordered. This year more than 100,000 trees and shrubs were planted in about 90 units in 14 districts. Included were Russian olive, black locust, Siberian pea and other trees and shrubs, depending upon conditions and needs. A few new plants also have been added to the program, including two whose fruits will benefit the farm food supply as well as game birds. They are the Nanking and sand cherries, both of which are valued for jelly making. The plan remains the same as before: the department furnishes trees and shrubs and plants them; the farmer prepares the soil and provides maintenance afterward.
Essay Contest
The Idaho Wildlife Federation has announced the details of a conservation essay contest for high school and senior high school students. This contest was approved at the last state meeting of the Federation, and is designed to fill the gap left by the cancellation of the similar national contest which was always so well supported by Idaho schools. Clubs, teachers and students are invited to write their essays in care of the headquarters in care of the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

YOUR DOG AND D.O.

By Dr. E. M. Glidow
Director, Friskies Research Kennels
If your dog has D.O. (doggy odor), it doesn't necessarily mean he needs a bath. If he's healthy, keep clean and regularly brushed, he should give off nothing more than a mild and rather pleasant aroma. If it's stronger, you should check for ear wax.
It could be his ears. If they're long floppy type, lift them up and take a sniff. A bad odor means there is something wrong. It could be from ear mites, irritation from a grass awn or other foreign material in the ear, from infection, cancer, or from poor ventilation of the ear duct. If the odor is bad, find out what is causing it and have it corrected. Chronic ear trouble is difficult to correct, so get the job done early.

Dog of the Week: MEXICAN HAIRLESS

Toy classification. Average weight, 12 pounds; shoulder height, 11 inches; coat, none; head, large, with a little fuzz on the tail; color, any color or combination of colors.

Bad breath is often the cause of D.O. Whoever coined the phrase "Clean as a hound's tooth" didn't know much about hounds' teeth, for tartar collects on dog molars just as it does on human teeth. Tartar is the greatest single cause of bad breath in dogs. Removing tartar is a common practice in most veterinary hospitals. Halitosis may also be caused by infected teeth, broken teeth, foreign bodies lodged in the mouth and from tonsillitis, stomach trouble or diarrhea.
D.O. may be caused by infection of glands of the skin such as those between the toes or the perianal glands.
Even dogs that have been out in the rain should not have D.O. If they're properly dried with a terry-cloth towel or a chamois.
If your dog has D.O., have a veterinarian determine the cause and correct it, if possible.

Feeding Tip: If you're feeding your dog a dry prepared dog food, it's a wise precaution to keep it in tin or plastic containers so that it stays in its original crisp, dry condition.

Hunters are asked to mark and mail the report card promptly.

ment, Boise, for information. Like the national contest, there will be local contests, followed by a state competition of the local winners. A total of $130 has been set aside for prizes in the state contest, the Federation has announced. Local prizes are to be planned and furnished by local organizations.

Kenny Foundation Head Explains Rehabilitation, Research Goals

Minneapolis, Minn.—Gradual expansion of a program that originally was concerned primarily with poliomyelitis to one that includes treatment and rehabilitation of victims of various other neuromuscular disorders characterizes the work of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny foundation today.

This expansion has resulted, too, in growth in medical and research programs, according to Marvin L. Kline, national executive director of the foundation. Doctors in various specialties have been added to medical staff of Kenny treatment centers, and its medical committees have been enlarged to include scientists, professors and department heads of a number of leading universities throughout the United States and Canada, he added.

"The Kenny foundation's primary objectives include direct treatment and care for persons suffering from poliomyelitis and other neuromuscular diseases and disorders, without regard to race, sex, color or creed," Kline declared.

"Training of registered nurses and physical therapists to become Kenny Therapists continues at our international training center in Minneapolis, and we have greatly increased the tempo of research into poliomyelitis and other neuromuscular disabilities through grants to leading medical schools and hospitals and through provision of fellowships to individual doctors and scientists. For many years, research and short courses continue as a major activity of the Kenny foundation."

Kline explained that the over-all program of providing direct patient treatment and rehabilitation is made possible through funds contributed during the foundation's annual nationwide public appeal. "The Kenny foundation is highly dependent upon generous contributions from the public which benefits from this work, because of its wide demand in terms of highly-trained personnel and many medical activities and research projects as well as the treatment and medical care it provides at no charge," Kline declared.

CARROT RESEARCH PROGRAM IN IDAHO TO BE FINANCED BY GOVERNMENT FUNDS
Announcement from Washington, D. C., that the U. S. department of agriculture has allocated $85,000 in recurrent funds for cooperative carrot research work at the Parma branch station is of considerable interest to seedsmen, according to Dr. R. D. Ensign, associate director of the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station.
"The new work to be initiated at Parma, plus continuation of studies already being carried on by the university, is almost certain to make the Parma branch station the principal carrot breeding center in the United States," Dr. Ensign explains. Expected to be completed in 1958, particularly along the line of hybrid variety development, was recommended by the Idaho Seed Council.

Under the expanded plan, studies in both shipping and processing type carrots will be carried on at Parma. Special emphasis will be given to the study of techniques in seed production.
"The fact that Idaho was given a share of the agricultural research allotment for carrot breeding is recognition of the pioneering done in this field by D. F. Franklin, superintendent of the Parma branch station," says Dr. Ensign. "For several years, Franklin has been carrying on research in the nature and inheritance of male sterility in carrots and gathering background data to guide the breeders in the actual creation of hybrid varieties."
"Development of hybrid carrots will mean a great deal to Idaho," says the Parma branch station superintendent. "They will increase yields, improve quality and insure greater uniformity. Both commercial carrot growers and seedsmen will benefit. Hybrids will insure for Idaho a greater portion of the nation's carrot seed production because this state is one of the leading producers of hybrid seed crops."

The expanded carrot project will parallel hybrid onion breeding activities at the Parma branch station. For several years that station has been one of the country's principal hybrid onion development and introduction centers. In one way or another, the Parma branch station participated in the development, testing and introduction of every one of the dozen new hybrid onion varieties that have replaced the old varieties throughout the country.

"Objective of the carrot program will be similar to that for onions," claims Franklin. "For instance, will be after hybrid varieties particularly suited to Idaho conditions. New varieties will be tested in producing areas throughout the United States and released in states where they prove most suitable."
The carrot breeding work in Idaho, 1959 to 1961; both inclusive; $200,000 in each of the years 1962 to 1966, both inclusive; $250,000 in each of the years 1967 and 1968, both inclusive; $300,000 in each of the years 1969 to 1971, both inclusive; $450,000 in the year 1972.

SCHOOLS ARE NOW OPEN WATCH FOR CHILDREN
School is open again. It means that every driver must once more pay strict attention to school zones. The children are not to be seen and thoughtless. You must be on the lookout for children who may suddenly run out in front of traffic.
Never get the idea that you can laugh off a school crossing guard who doesn't happen to be a regular policeman. School crossing guards perform a real job in protecting their kids and yours. Remember, any crossing guard can report your violation to the police.
Be on the watch out for school buses. Drive so that you can make a gradual stop when necessary.
If your children walk to school you can help them to make the trip safely by selecting a route that utilizes lightly traveled streets and which crosses the fewest heavily-traveled streets. When children must cross by signals or which is guarded during school hours.
School zones are not the only areas where school children may be a traffic hazard. Substantial numbers of children may use certain streets on their way to and from school. The chance of an accident involving one of these children is almost as great as in the immediate area of the school, and is maybe greater because of the lack of supervision of the children. Slow down and be alert.

IDAHO'S HEALTH
State Board of Health
Within the past few years, American people have become better informed on mental illness and mental health, and are recognizing that there is no shame in being mentally ill any more than there is in being physically ill.
News stories and feature articles are continually quoting psychiatrists, but there are still a lot of people who aren't exactly sure just what a psychiatrist is and what he does.
The psychiatrist is a physician who has had special training in the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of mental illness. It takes years to become a psychiatrist, because one must first complete medical school, then take special psychiatric training.
Because he has learned to understand people's emotional needs, personality traits, and the organic and non-organic factors which cause mental illness, the psychiatrist can help people in two ways: First, by helping parents and others who deal with children to learn to meet the basic emotional needs of children and help prevent future mental disorders; and secondly, by studying and treating people who develop mental and emotional difficulties.
Detective, Too
A good psychiatrist, like a good detective, must be interested in following up every clue that may help reveal the underlying cause of his patient's difficulty. He then plans a method of treatment suited to the patient's needs.
To do these things successfully, the psychiatrist must be both sympathetic and objective. He must not only have the professional knowledge gained in his medical training, but also patience, tolerance, and a genuine interest in people. He must have a great emotional stability himself in order to help others attain stability.
Psychiatrists usually work in cooperation with other mental health workers — clinical psychologists, psychiatric social workers and psychiatric nurses. This team, with the psychiatrist as "captain" plans a course of treatment and maps out the tasks each can best undertake. The team also works in prevention of mental illness and in public programs on health.

HERE'S THE ANSWER TO THAT AGE OLD QUESTION: WHY DO WOMEN CRY?
Why do women cry?
That's a puzzler men have pondered for centuries, at such varying occasions as the offering of an engagement ring, the death of a loved one, the winning of a beauty crown or the climax of a soap opera.
For those—or a million other things—Tessie turns on the tears. But how does she pull the trigger on those tears that have bedeviled helpless males since the dawn of time?
According to researchers for the Murine Company of Chicago, Tessie's tears don't gush immediately. First, her heart speeds up, her skin becomes cool, digestive action is halted and blood pressure is raised. Then, when the tension breaks, the eye lotion of the tear gland, which is located just beneath the outer bony rim of the eye socket, begins to flow.

Tears sweep across the eyeball and collect at the inner edge of the lids in sort of pool. Some overflow.
Small tubes at the corner of both eyelids collect tears, draining them into a tear sac, which lies beneath the skin and muscle tissue along side the bridge of the nose.
Another tube extends from the tear sacs to the interior of the nose. Thus, during a heavy cry, a runny nose occurs.
Is crying harmful?
On the contrary, says the Murine researchers, most psychologists and physiologists feel that crying may be helpful on occasion, since it occurs in a state of emotional transition and is almost always accompanied by a feeling of relief.
Thus, when women cry, unless they are turning on phony tears to sway a hapless male to their point of view they're simply bringing their nervous system back into balance and rephysical well-being.

Why, then, don't men cry?
They could, and readily, but from childhood they're conditioned to believe that tears are taboo to all that's masculine.
Achilles shed tears over the death of Ajax. Alexander wept on beholding the land he had conquered. Napoleon, watching his French army disintegrate in the Russian winter, sobbed in frustration and grief.
Joe Smith? He turns purple, pops a vein, gets an ulcer—and remains dry-eyed through the whole dismal mess.
The energy released in a tropical hurricane has been calculated to be the equivalent of 150 atom bombs every minute, according to the Navy's minute, according to the Navy's Hurricane Hunters.

OUT ON A LIMB

By Stumpy McCalloch

"The best way to save face," said Cy to ol' George, "is to stop shooting it."

"Ol' George turns to me, kind of tree-like, 'isn't the ups and downs of life that hobble us, Stumpy?' he sighs. 'It's the jerks.'"

If you have a highway running by your woods, you may occasionally have injury to your trees from accidents, out-of-control trucks or autos. It's sure important to know how to give your trees "first aid."

First off, you should paint the scar with an antiseptic wound dressing. Next, shade the wound to keep the sun from drying out the damaged tissue.

Last, build a ring of burlap about the wounded area, allowing several inches of air space between tree and burlap. Never wrap tightly, as you would a human wound.

Fellows often ask me what the best timing is for setting limbby-pines. An 11-year test was made by the Arkansas Experiment station at Hope. One-footed trees were set in half-size blocks each, 4 x 4, 3 x 3, 6 x 6, and 7 x 7 feet apart.

It was found to be 6' 6", though if you have a good market and smaller trees can be sold well, a spacing of 5 x 5 may be used.

But remember, it takes 10 to 15 years to plant an acre at 6' x 6' spacing, but it takes 1,742 trees to plant at 5' x 5'.

Government foresters estimate that lumber from home grown trees costs farmers only a third of that bought commercially.

Some of you may be wondering how much it costs to have your own trees custom saved. In the neighborhood when you need lumber for that big project. Mostly it costs about $18 per thousand board feet.

The special tag obtainable for use in Idaho's two-deer areas this year must be used in those areas, only. Regular tags may be used anywhere the season is open for general hunting.

This means that a hunter who kills his first deer in one of the two-deer areas should use the "two-deer" tag on that animal. Then he may use the regular tag in the same area or elsewhere, as the fortunes of the hunt dictate.

FARMERS UNION

Symbol of Superior Service

One of our local farmers has a standard reply to insurance salesmen who ask, "Do you have any insurance?"

"He has, but he replies, 'Nope! Don't intend to have any, either. I'm making sure the day I die will be a sad one.'"

"Good Heavens!" cried Whistler as he saw his mother on her knees scrubbing the floor. "Have you gone off your rocker?"

For every man who lives to be 85, there are seven women—but by now it's too late.

Lawyer: "What's to be different about your will?"

Henpecked Husband: "I'm leaving everything to my wife, providing she marries within six months. I want somebody to be sorry I died."

NO DEEP SLUMP OR DEPRESSION; NEW BOOM COMING, KIPLINGER SAYS

Current fears of a serious recession are not warranted, according to a special report by the Kiplinger organization, released this week. A period of "normal progress" for the next five or six years is predicted by the Washington business reporting firm.

Any letdown or slump will be temporary, the editors say, a pause—not a deep slump or depression.

Then, in five or six years, a new boom will set off "the greatest era of economic growth this country has ever known." Underlying the new boom are these facts:

Population: Extra high birth rates in the '40's and '50's will produce a population bulge in the '60's and '70's of young men and women marrying or ready to marry. Marriages make homes, homes make business.

New products, new ideas: Technical scientific and mechanical developments of the past few years are being rushed into use, producing a crop of new products.

Government policy: Both parties and all political groups are bullish, committed to full employment and an economy going at full speed, with the government an active partner.

The bad news is that more inflation will accompany the boom, according to the Kiplinger report. Prices will go higher—in ten years, 15 per cent higher, in 25 years, 50 per cent higher.

Behind the inflation are three major forces, pushing hard:

Wages rising faster than productivity: A continuous push for higher wages can be expected, causing the higher prices and then demand for more wages to cover increased living costs.

World-wide pressure on prices: Demand for goods everywhere else in the world is greater than the supply. Prices are going up in all countries.

Government spending: No matter what men of either party say the pressure is to expand public spending, so deficits may plague budgets.

in the future. Public pressure continues to be for big spending, regardless of inflation that comes in its wake. Not all states and localities will agree equally in the growth of the next 25 years, the Kiplinger report points out. The biggest single area of growth is the "heartland" area from Pittsburgh to Chicago.

Next in growth comes the Atlantic seaboard, New York to Baltimore. Then spectacular California, heading toward beating New York as number one state in population. Then Texas, then Florida, which is gaining at the highest rate of any state.

Business Gains Spotlighted The boom of the '60's will bring an upsurge in housing, accompanied by further suburban growth, increased land prices, more luxury homes.

New businesses will increase. All the talk about small business being doomed is "a lot of bunk," according to the editors.

Service lines will grow fast; retailing, repair, maintenance, banking, real estate, insurance, as well as recreation, travel and vacation-connected businesses.

No Tax Relief—Incomes UP Along with the boom and inflation will come a steep rise in incomes, and family spending doubles its present level in the '80's. Even with discounts for inflation and higher prices, there will be more family spending.

Lower income groups will decrease in number, as families move up the income scale—more middle and upper income families. And there will be increasing numbers of rich families of varying grades, a continuation of past and present trends.

Taxes will not decrease. Though federal taxes may be cut, state and local taxes will rise at a faster rate, so total tax bill will stay high.

No Big War Total defense spending will gradually decline, perhaps to 30 billions instead of present 40 billions. First small steps toward disarmament may take five to 10 years, but total disarmament is not in the picture.

As for the Kiplinger organization forecasts there will be no big war. Smaller wars may threaten and come and go, but no world wide conflict is likely, the report concludes.

PEOPLE ARE TO BLAME FOR MOST TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS—NOT WEATHER OR BAD ROADS

"Some folks like to blame the weather, bad roads, or inadequate traffic signals for accidents," observed Harold Davis, state traffic safety director. He added that if people are really honest with themselves they'll agree that most accidents are caused by their own carelessness and bad driving habits.

Would you ever jump off a cliff? Of course not, only a "screw-ball" would do such a thing! But isn't passing on a hill or speeding around a curve equally foolish and dangerous?

You know automobiles weren't meant for fools and show-offs. They were made for sensible and responsible people who realize what tremendous power an automobile has. Autos were meant to be a blessing to humanity. They give people the opportunity to see this great country of ours. They are indispensable for transporting people to and from work. Omar Wheat Best For Smut Problem

Although Omar wheat is susceptible to a newly developed race of smut that showed up this year, it is still the best wheat for those areas where smut is a problem.

Genetics in Omar fields appeared when we thought we were safe from smut, says J. M. Raeder, plant pathologist at the University of Idaho College of Agriculture, but it's hard to find, so hard that a single head in a field made news in that community. Smut in Omar will probably increase in the next few years, but it will be one of our least smutty wheats for some time. That time will be considerably longer if all farmers will treat all seed wheat with a 40 percent formulation of hexachlorocyclopentadiene before sowing. It cannot overemphasize the importance of seed treatment.

Raeder points out that wheat over the Northwest was slightly less smutty this year than last. Figures from a survey by the Pacific Northwest Crop Improvement association showed that most of the samples that showed smutty showed less than one percent infestation. Fewer samples smut over that figure than in past years. In some areas, however, smut fields of Elmar, Elgin, Fortyfold, and Triplet varieties ran very high.

Wheat yields over the entire Northwest were above last year's Raeder says. Most areas showed an increase of eight to ten bushels per acre over 1946-1955 average. In the Craighead-Grangeville area, however, the yield was below normal because of late, wet spring.

Writing in Today's Health, Dr. Wm. Winton says that seven basic food groups will provide an adequate diet for a normal person; green and yellow vegetables; citrus fruits, tomatoes and tomato juice, starberries, melons; milk and milk products; poultry, fish and eggs; flour cereals; butter or fortified oleomargarine; other vegetables, including potatoes.

TIME TO STUDY TAX REFORM BILL Autumn signals the regrouping of both youngsters and adults for mass education. Youngsters return to the school classrooms and adults gather again in civic, service and commercial clubs to study—and to pronounce upon—social, political and industrial problems.

Taking note of this seasonal circumstance the Twin City News, Stanwood, Washington, suggests that groups add tax reform to their studies towards a "better way of life." The News specifically recommends that study efforts be concentrated on H. R. 6452, an income tax reform measure first introduced by U. S. Rep. Antoni N. Sadlak (R., Conn.).

"We opine that great good could result from such a study, even in small towns," the News asserts. "As the facts were released it would be a suggestion to other community centers. Once a constructive thought is released, it grows and grows..."

"The (Sadalak) bill has caught on in Congress," the News explains. U. S. Rep. Jack Westland (Rep., Wash.) has added bipartisan support by reintroducing an identical companion measure. More legislators will join in an official study when the Sadlak bill is considered during public hearing by the House Ways and Means committee beginning Jan. 7.

Meanwhile, taxpayers have opportunity for advance study of the measure. This the News notes, would correct a past tax reform weakness resulting from the fact that "we just sit around and leave it to the legislature or Congress in Washington."

GENETICS HELPS ANSWER QUERIES ON DAHLIAS

Genetics, the science of inheritance, enters into the dahlia hobby as well as the patch of sweetcorn, the cattle we raise, and some of the characteristics of human beings. The gardener who plants dahlias last spring and grew his plants from home gets right into the problem this fall.

"The problem that a good many dahlia growers want solved for them is whether the roots or tubers of those dahlias will produce the same kind and color of bloom if dug this fall and planted again in the spring," explains William Snyder, flower and landscape man at the University of Idaho College of Agriculture. "The next question usually concerns the seed of these plants and whether it will produce plants of the same kind as the parents."

Snyder answers "Yes," to the first question, "No" to the second. Root systems of any parent plant will produce plants of the same kind next time, he says. Dig the roots this fall after the tops are frosted down, cure them for a week in the shade, store them right, and plant them next spring. Flowers will be the same as those you had this year. Of course, disease or insect damage could make a poorer specimen, but the fundamental plants and blooms are the same.

But this is not true of the seed produced by the plants. Plant that next year, and you're on your own; the results may be anything that has ever gone into the hybrid seed that you planted this spring. Any parent may show up through combinations of genes and chromosomes and other things that geneticists talk about.

"It all makes the production of dahlias an interesting thing for the gardener with a desire to experiment," Snyder says. "And it's an inexpensive way of having all the dahlias you want to grow. You may even be able to sell some of your productions just for the fun of feeling successful."

YESTERDAY'S LESSON— TODAY'S APPLICATION— TOMORROW'S PROGRESS

Applying the experience of yesterday to the forest practices of today, we have learned that wise use of our natural resources brings a better tomorrow. FISH AND GAME NEWS

Opening Day
 Next Tuesday (October 1) is opening day for general elk and deer season over most of Idaho. Hunters should check the official big game map and regulations for exact boundaries and length of season as there is considerable variation in closing dates. A few areas, mostly in northern Idaho, will open later, and there are a few special areas (controlled hunts, two-deer areas, etc.) where the hunter will want to be informed of special conditions. But deer and elk season opens all at once for most of the state. Game stocks are at a high level, and the simultaneous opening is favorable to hunters.

Fire Warnings
 Fire conditions have been unusually bad this season, but reports of light snows at upper elevations have aroused hopes that fire danger will be lessened by the time the season opens. However, a damp surface this time of the year doesn't go very deep. Warmup fires and camp fires should be put dead out before you leave the scene. Ground litter and

Trophy Year
 The first North American Big Game Competition since 1955 has been announced for this fall by the Boone and Crockett Club of New York. This is a national recognition for some of the big trophies they have taken in this state. Trophies taken during any year are eligible for entry in this competition provided they have not been entered before, and meet at least the minimum requirements for entry. The trophy does not have to be taken by the person submitting it. The Elk rack picked up by a member of the Idaho Fish and Game Department long after it had been abandoned by the hunter. For particulars write the secretary of the Boone and Crockett Club, Mrs. Graciel Fitz, 5 Tudor City Place, New York 17, New York. Be sure to state what animal or animals you wish to enter, as a different entry card is used for each species. Don't send the trophy itself unless and until the club asks for it. The entry is made by chart, only.

Pledge Ready
 Pledge cards are available in most parts of the state for signing by sportsmen in the current Landholder-Sportsman program to improve relations between farmers and hunters. Ask for yours at your local vendors, sporting goods store, or general store. The two-tab card has one section to be signed and mailed (it is already addressed); the other to be signed and carried during the hunt. If a question comes up about privileges, showing the card with its signed pledge to "the law abiding, respect the rights and property of others and be careful with Fire and firearms" is often a good recommendation. The card bears the triangle of the Landholder-Sportsman

Shut Hot Air Out of House For Cool Day

"Capturing" cool night air is one way to keep a house from feeling the full effects of hot summer days.

In most homes, this can be done by closing the house up as tightly as possible in the morning to keep sunlight and hot daytime air from warming the cooler air that has entered the house during the night.

Even during long, mid-summer heat waves, there is often a 20-degree difference in temperature between the cool early morning hours and the hottest part of the afternoon.

The method of capturing cool night air works best in a well-insulated house. Thick mineral wool—at least four inches in ceilings and three inches in the walls—slows down the penetration of outside heat. Owners of existing houses can have mineral wool insulation blown pneumatically into these areas. Batts and blankets are available for installation by roof-owners or professionals where the wall or ceiling construction permits the material to be fitted in place.

Awnings, shade trees, reflective screening, and vine-covered trellises are also important, since these block direct rays of the sun.

Once a house has insulation and outside shading, an insulation routine to follow for more summer comfort is:

1. Close all windows before the sun has had a chance to warm up outside air.
 2. Draw shades, curtains, or drapes tightly on the sunny side. The heavier and more opaque these are the more effective they are.

3. Keep doors closed throughout the day. Teach children to go in and out quietly.
 4. Use kitchen exhaust fan to get rid of cooking heat and moisture. Automatic clothes dryers also should be vented outside.

IDAHO'S HEALTH

By Your State Board of Health

Since the presence of Asian influenza has been confirmed in Idaho reports indicate that it may become more prevalent this fall and winter, so each community should make a study and have suitable plans to cope with any type of epidemic which might occur.

This was the opinion of State Health Department officials and physicians of the Idaho Medical Association at a recent meeting to discuss the influenza.

It is not our intent to spread any undue alarm over Asian influenza, because this disease, caused by a virus only slightly different from the one which causes the flu that is common in this country, has appeared so far in rather mild form.

But both the Medical Association and the Health Department are concerned because the illness can strike in epidemic proportions and can hit from 15 to 20 percent of the people in a community. The rapid onset of Asian flu makes it necessary to have plans to handle an epidemic prepared well in advance of that epidemic.

Vaccine Available Soon

Vaccine for protection against this Asian strain of influenza is being manufactured, and should be available soon through your local physician. Distribution of vaccine will be carried on through regular medical channels. The State Health Department will not distribute influenza vaccine.

At the moment, supplies of vaccine are quite limited, as the State Medical Association and the Health Department recommend that first preference for use of the vaccine go to those persons whose services are imperative for the care of the sick and for maintenance of essential community services. This would include medical and hospital personnel, firemen, policemen and other persons in essential services. As the vaccine becomes available, it is recommended that preference be given to persons with chronic weakening illness or disease.

One injection of the vaccine produces immunity for six to 12 months and it requires 10 to 14 days for immunity to develop after the shot. According to U. S. Public Health Service data, the vaccine is about 70 per cent effective.

able for widow's benefits even though it develops she is not the veteran's legal widow.

The other change changes the length of time the widow must have been married to the veteran prior to his death, VA said.

In the case of the widow who married a veteran only to find on his death she was not legally his widow due to failure to dissolve previous marriage bonds or other reason, the law authorizes payments of widow's benefits under certain cases.

Under the new law if the purported marriage was entered into in good faith by the woman, VA may consider it to have been a valid marriage, provided:

1. It would have been valid had not the legal bar existed;
 2. The couple had resided together for five or more years prior to the veteran's death; and,
 3. No claim for VA widow's benefits has been filed by the legal widow of the veteran.

Prior to the recent change, establishment of legal widow-hood was a prerequisite to a widow's benefits from VA.

Under the second change, some 12,000 widows may become eligible for death benefits. The new change says the date of her marriage to the veteran will not disqualify a widow for VA benefits if a child was born of the marriage, or if no child was born, the marriage existed for at least five years.

Most laws providing for widow's benefits from a VA contain a marriage cutoff date as an element of entitlement, with many different dates for verifying benefits and periods of service.

The new law does not alter the existing cutoff dates, but provides uniform qualifying alternatives if the marriage dates are not met.

Little girls beget big heartaches

From the moment they're born, girls are a lot of trouble. Little ones wiggle too much. Big ones shed too many tears. And Mothers and Dads never stop worrying about them as they take each difficult step from babyhood to adulthood.

Is your little girl starting school this year? If so, she's taking her first step towards growing up. There's so much you want her to learn. So many things she needs to know to grow up into the kind of wife and mother you want her to be.

One of the important lessons for your daughter to learn is the meaning of thrift and the value of a regular savings program. And that's what the U. S. Treasury's School Savings Program will teach her.

By the purchase of 10¢ and 25¢ Savings Stamps in their schools, children can save up for U. S. Savings Bonds of their very own. Is your child's school participating in this important program? Why not speak to your principal, school superintendent or P.T.A. group about it? And start the U. S. School Savings Program in your school today!

Your Savings Bonds State Director will gladly help you. Phone or write him or contact the Savings Bonds Division, U. S. Treasury Department, Washington 25, D.C.

OUT ON A LIMB

By Stumpy McCulloch

This Jewler was teaching his new son-in-law the business. "Here," he said, "is my best money maker. These watches cost me fifteen dollars each, and I sell them for fifteen dollars."

"That's impossible," the boy scoffed.

"Ah, my boy!" sighed the older man. "You forget something—the profit comes from repairing them."

Trees can be mighty useful to farmers living in real sandy areas. Seems like tree belts fit well into the soil bank conservation plans and also cut wind erosion.

Head from one of them university professors who says that a combination of bromegrass or some soil builder between rows of trees can help "firm up" sandy soil enough to allow a little cultivating and alfalfa seeding.

One farming down in the sand country is taking the advice. He's planning to plant strips of cedar, green ash, and Chinese elm on a portion of his soil bank land.

Trees will be spaced at intervals of 20 rods. He'll seed bromegrass between the trees and eventually plant alfalfa.

Just seems no end to the uses for trees on a farm!

Well, sis, I keep getting reports from all parts that we're sure winning the overall battle with forest fires.

Alabama reports setting a record for control over forest fires in 1956. Seems like 6,187 wild fires burned a total of 143,729 acres of the 19,990,098 acres of woodland, about 0.72 per cent of the total.

Up in the big timber territories owned by member companies of the Southern S. Lawrence Forest Protective Association only two acres were burnt over last year compared to 8,850 in 1955. Course they do admit they had an unusually wet summer, but still an all mighty fine work!

Did you know that willow bark and roots were brewed by the Indians for treating fevers? That's right and seems like it worked, too.

"Lips that touch wine shall never touch mine," said Sully. And after she graduated the taught school for years and years and years.

The 10 Commandments of Safety

- Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the first rule of gun safety.
- Guns carried into camp or home, or when otherwise not in use, must always be unloaded, and taken down or have actions open; guns always should be carried in cases to the shooting area.
- Always be sure barrel and action are clear of obstructions, and that you have only ammunition of the proper size for the gun you are carrying. Remove oil and grease from chamber before firing.
- Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble; keep the safety on until you are ready to shoot.
- Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger; know the identifying features of the game you intend to hunt.
- Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot; avoid all horseplay while handling a gun.
- Unattended guns should be unloaded; guns and ammunition should be stored separately beyond reach of children and careless adults.
- Never climb a tree or fence or jump a ditch with a loaded gun; never pull a gun toward you by the muzzle.
- Never shoot a bullet at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water; when at target practice, be sure your backstop is adequate.
- Avoid alcoholic drinks before or during shooting.

DON'T OVERCOOK THAT FISH.

SAYS COUNTY EXTENSIONIST

It's all right to overdo your fishing, but don't overdo the fish. Fish aren't tough. Overcooking and a lot of constant turning is as good a way to spoil a good trout, perch, crappie, bass, or bullhead as you could find if you went to the expert fishpinner.

Miss Barbara Branthover, extension nutritionist for the University of Idaho, says a fish is done when the protein has coagulated and the small amount of connective tissue breaks down with the cooking. If you want to go farther than that, you can do it, but the fish won't be as good as it would be if you cooked it for a shorter time. Overcook fish, says Miss Branthover, and they get dryer and chewier.

For fat fish or slender, use cooking fats in proportion. Mr. Five-by-Five Bass doesn't need much fat; he already has it. But put in plenty of fat when you cook Miss Willow Trout or her Cousin, Miss Fancyfin Perch.

Turn fish only once during the cooking process. If you must see the shade of brown to which they are cooking on the down side, lift one gently and peek under. If he isn't done to your taste, lower him gently and let him cook some more. But don't turn him back and forth. You'll come out with fish hash if you do.

"One of the things that make people like fish is having the fish whole when you serve them," says Miss Branthover. "A bass or trout fresh from the stream, well browned and nicely served is something that most people like."

County Saving Bonds Report

Idaho sales of series E bonds for Aug. were the highest of any month in 1957. Combined E and H purchases by Idahoans were the highest for the last five months. Improvement of sales was announced this week by County Chairman Acle Anderson.

"Sales of the smaller denominations continue to mark new penitence records. Purchases this year of the small-saver bonds have overshoot all previous records for the same period. The matured E bonds still held by owners were worth $15.7 billion on August 31," Chairman Anderson advised.

"One of the many reasons why the small saver continues to invest in the SAFEST investment, U. S. Savings Bonds, is the protection Uncle Sam gives against his own carelessness, as well as the acts of others. Missing bonds bring an average of 1,500 letters daily to the Bureau.

"If and when disaster strikes such as fires, floods, or hurricanes, the Federal Reserve and the local banks work together with the Bureau to cut red tape to get cash quickly to victims who have lost their bonds. This is often a godsend to a family where everything else has been wiped away.

"There is no way to lose what you have invested in United States Savings Bonds—unless you forget permanently that you own them. No matter what happens to the actual Savings Bond, its value goes marching on."

Total sales for Idaho were $662,376, making the yearly sales $5,472,794. County sales totalled $16,934.

YOUR Social Security QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: How do I qualify for a disability benefit?

Answer: The first thing is that you have a disability which is so severe that it prevents you from doing any substantial gainful work which will be long-lasting and which will be of long-lasting nature. You must have worked at least five of the past ten immediate years preceding your disability and one-half year out of the three immediately preceding your disability. If you meet these requirements, call at the nearest office for information or to file an application.

Savings Bonds Now Fit Even the Smallest Safety Deposit Boxes!

This month the Treasury starts issuing Savings Bonds in a new, more convenient form. These new punch-card Bonds are about the size of a government check. They will save money for taxpayers, help issuing agents and firms economize and be more convenient for Bond owners.

From now on, every Series E Savings Bond will be smaller and easier to keep in your safety deposit box. They'll be easier and more economical, too, for many employers to issue through the Payroll Savings Plan.

If your employer does not provide the Payroll Savings Plan, why not call this to his attention? If he does, why not sign up?

You'll find the Payroll Savings Plan the easiest way to save you've ever discovered. You simply sign the authorization card in your payroll office. Then your saving is done for you—automatically!

And new Savings Bonds are better than ever. Every Series E Savings Bond issued since February 1, 1957 pays 3 1/4% when held to maturity. It pays the higher interest, too, in the earlier years and matures in just 8 years and 11 months.

So start saving with safe, sure U. S. Savings Bonds today.

Safe as America... U. S. Savings Bonds!

HUNGARIAN REFUGEE NOW CONTINUING HIS STUDIES AT UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO

He stood on the porch of the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity house looking much like any other student at the University of Idaho. He wore a loud sport shirt, conservative slacks and a big smile.

Unlike most of the students, he has smelted burning gun powder and has heard the whine of ricocheting bullets around him. He is Mihaly Horvath, 23, a Hungarian youth who escaped from the communists in his native land to a new life in the United States in a Moscow of "friendly people."

Horvath, who is called "Mike" by the fraternity members of the Phi Kappa Tau house where he has a guest scholarship, fled last January from Hungary to Vienna, Austria. With the aid of various groups, he was in the United States 50 days later.

When he reached Vienna, Horvath was helped along with thousands of other refugees by the International Rescue committee. This group contacted the refugee student placement section of the World University service, which in turn works to place Hungarian students and professors in schools in the free world.

As in other colleges and universities throughout the United States, students at the University of Idaho were incensed over the treatment of the Hungarian students during the uprising. They wanted to help. With the aid of Dr. Christoph Reuter, assistant professor of agricultural economics, and C. O. Decker, director of student affairs, arrangements were made for Horvath to come to Idaho.

Upon reaching the United States, the young dark-haired student had still another major obstacle facing him. He knew no English. To clear this hurdle, he attended a language school for 15 weeks.

Although he speaks in a clipped and halting fashion, Horvath can make himself understood. Before coming to Moscow, he practiced his new language as a dishwasher in a New York state hotel.

At the university, Horvath is a sophomore majoring in horticulture—a study which was interrupted by the battle of the freedom fighters of Hungary.

EMPTY VICTORY
The naughty girl that my heart bleed for
In life's puppy-love-days of spring,
Is a fat old hen with a sagging jaw!
For time changes everything—

Like a water tank in a country town,
Or a bird with a broken wing,
As she waddles now in her wretchedness
For time changes everything—

But empty victory comes to me
For the sweetness revenge should bring,
For it's time that has given me
And time changes everything.

STYLES IN CHICKEN POPULARITY
Styles in poultry change. They come more slowly than the fads in women's fashions, but they are definite, according to Robert Black, poultry specialist of the University of Idaho extension service.

The White Leghorn rules the Idaho roost now, he said. The breed was second to New Hampshire for about 10 years prior to 1955. The popularity score based on the record of farms supplying hatching eggs to Idaho hatcheries.

The primary reason for the switch to Leghorns, Black said, is the decrease in number of small farm flocks and the increase in commercial egg production as a major enterprise. Leghorns seem to be better adapted to the current trend.

Austra Whites were the third most popular breed from 1943 to 1954. Their position since then has been taken over by crossbreds. In this instance again, Black said, the reason is the decline in small farm flocks and emphasis on large scale production.

White Rocks have been running fourth since 1943 and are still there. Numbers have decreased in recent years.

Idaho hatchery supply flocks last year were 86,000 birds. Of these 31,000 were White Leghorns. Total poultry population of the state is about 1,600,000 birds.

PLEASE BE CAREFUL DRIVING IN SCHOOL ZONES

"Our children have been going to school for the past four weeks," remarked Harold Davis, Idaho Traffic Safety Director. "Old friendships have been renewed, new fields of knowledge have been opened to eager youngsters, and our little first-graders have their taste of what the classroom is like.
"No doubt, during summer vacation the children had forgotten many of the safety rules, but by now responsible teachers have taken care of that, and refreshed the children's minds on the vital importance of safety. The teachers have also seen instruction in safety habits. Everything has become pretty much routine. But under no circumstance can we motorists relax our cautionment while driving a car. We must protect our children the year round, not just during the hustle and bustle of the "back to school" period.
A school zone always means slow down to 15 miles an hour. A school bus that is in the process of loading or unloading, should make you stop automatically. We know how easy it is for a little one to forget the safety rules while playing. It has happened too many times that a child running into the street after a ball has been struck by an automobile. And that is more tragic than the traffic jam of a little child.

Children are "human caution signs" which spell in giant letters, STOP DOWN OR STOP. When you see a child standing close to a curb on your guard, because often children are unpredictable and may be in front of your automobile before you have a chance to slam on brakes.
"When you drive, Please keep your child in mind," says Mr. Davis and we will have a school year out fatalities.

There is nothing to be gained participating evils that we may not let's wait until we have met face to face.

The engineer said the new lines are being erected at a cost of $30,000 per mile, or a total of $230,000. Completion date on the Spokane-Lewiston line is set for December 1.

Charles Mauch, 71, Passes October 6

Charles Benjamin Mauch, 71, died Sunday, October 6, at his home of a heart attack. He was found dead in his kitchen by his son, Lester, of Lewiston in the afternoon.
Mr. Mauch had enjoyed good health until last year. Since then he had been ill frequently.
The deceased was born in Strassburg, Germany on November 2, 1885, and came to this country at the age of six months.
Most of his early years were spent in the Yakima area, from where he moved to Genesee in about 1915. In 1919 he was united in marriage to Emma M. Schaefer of the Lewiston area. Mr. Mauch remained at Genesee until his death. In 1946 he married Grace H. Sackett at Spokane. She passed away four years ago. Mr. Mauch was Genesee marshal for 10 years, to 1955. He was a member of the American Legion and Knights of Pythias.

Frank Bruegeman Succumbs October 4

Frank H. Bruegeman, 86, a native of Germany who came to Lewiston by steamboat in 1884, died Friday night at the Orchards Nursing Home. Death was attributed to infirmities.
He had been a resident of the Home since July when he moved from his home at 403 Bryden Ave.
Mr. Bruegeman was born in Germany on July 10, 1862. He came to the United States with his parents when he was 12 years of age.
He left Kansas where he was living with his parents to accompany his sister, who was going as a bride of 17 to Missouri Pacific Railroad in Kansas and Iowa for $1.15 a day.
Two years ago he recalled in an interview, the monotony of the Iowa Spooking Convention was forfeited for breakfast, fried corn at noon, fried corn in the evening," he reminisced.
He came west in 1884 to join his parents, who had settled on a farm on the North Pacific Railroad to Pasco as a delayed by snow.
"We stayed three days in Cheney before the train was washed out. Spokane at that time wasn't much more than a pile of rocks."
At Pasco the train, pulled by a wood burning locomotive, was ferried across the Columbia river since there was no bridge.
He continued by train to Riparia. There he had a three-day wait for the train to arrive. He was in the hotel the first night, but that proved too expensive, and the second night he spent in a railroad boxcar. When the steamboat arrived he gained permission to sleep aboard since it departed next morning.
Mr. Bruegeman had taken out his first citizenship papers in Iowa. He took out the final paper in Idaho. He also discussed future financing plans. Among the projects touched on by the finance officer were the 87 million dollar Noxon Rapids dam, the 48 million Cabinet Gorge project and developments in the Snake River area.

The engineer said the new lines are being erected at a cost of $30,000 per mile, or a total of $230,000. Completion date on the Spokane-Lewiston line is set for December 1.
Robert Youman, secretary of the WWP Company, spoke briefly on the various state, municipal, and federal agencies that have jurisdiction over WWP. He added that his company comes under control in their rates, services, practices and capitalization.

RATS CARRY RHINITIS DISEASE

They carry atrophic rhinitis, a serious swine disease commonly called "crooked snout".

Wade Wells, animal husbandman of the University of Idaho extension service, recently received the report from the agricultural research service of USDA. In the studies, pigs contracted the disease under laboratory conditions receiving inoculations from rats that had been subjected to infective material from pigs suffering rhinitis. The inoculated pigs not only developed the disease, but in some instances developed it sooner than pigs that were directly inoculated with germs from sick pigs.

Atrophic rhinitis was first reported in this country in 1914. It is usually not fatal, but retards the growth of young pigs. Neither cause nor cure is definitely known. The disease may be introduced in clean herds by swine obtained from breeding purposes.

Persistent sneezing is the early, and often the only, symptom. The disease may also cause nose bleeding, nasal discharge, and coughing or irritation of the snout, which causes the pig to rub his nose against a solid object to seek relief. Lesions often develop in the nasal passages.

In the experiment pigs developed the disease 15 to 45 days after being introduced with the infection from diseased rats. The research was conducted over a three-year period at Beltsville, Md.

Sodium Chlorate For Weeds You can get rid of small patches of perennial weeds by using sodium chlorate, the county agent advises. This soil sterilant can be applied with good effect in the fall.

Put it on dry, the county agent recommends, at the rate of eight pounds to the square rod. Spread it at least three feet beyond the last plan in the ditch, to take care of any sodium chlorate which stragglers. After sowing, water it into the soil or cover it with more earth.

Apply it before the ground freezes. Robert Higgins, agronomist of the University of Idaho extension service, says the material is most effective on bindweed, Canada Thistle and quackgrass. Before applying, he suggests clearing the patch of all weed growth, trash and other surface organic material. Spots treated should not be plowed deeply or disturbed by other deep cultivation.

Patches sown now may need another shot in the spring. Check them then. A good way to knock out single plants is to lift a shovel of soil where the plant is growing, put a teaspoon of chlorate on the roots, to replace the soil.

Higgins has some further tips on using sodium chlorate: Don't use it on fills of dike ditch banks. It will cause them to slough. Other soil sterilants are available for these spots. Sodium chlorate is not satisfactory on soils having a high water table or on alkali soils. Areas that have been burned require higher rates of the material. Be careful with sodium chlorate. Wear rubber boots or overshoes and avoid getting the chemical on wet clothes. There is fire hazard. Avoid leaving excess amounts where livestock run. It is poisonous. When used properly there is little danger from fire or poison. Troubles come with careless use.

More Pigs Raised in 1958

Idaho livestock men will face increased competition from pork in 1958. Wayne Robinson, U. of I. extension marketing specialist, says the latest USDA pig crop report indicates that farmers in 10 Corn Belt states will farrow four percent more sows this fall (June-November) than a year earlier. This is a one percent increase from intended farrowings reported in June and two percent above 1946-55 average fall farrowings.

The 10 states include Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, Nebraska, and Kansas. These states accounted for 72 per cent of the U. S. fall pig crop in 1956.

Farrowing in the 10 states during June, July, and August were four percent above the like period in 1956. Farmers in these states, as of September 1, intended to farrow four percent more sows during September through November than last year. If farmers stick to these intentions, the 1957 pig crop will be three percent larger than in 1956, based on the average number of pigs saved per litter. Farmers in the 10 states also reported that they intended to farrow seven percent more sows in the December 1957 through February 1958 period than a year earlier.

Patches sown now may need another shot in the spring. Check them then. A good way to knock out single plants is to lift a shovel of soil where the plant is growing, put a teaspoon of chlorate on the roots, to replace the soil.

If farmers stick to these intentions, the 1957 pig crop will be three percent larger than in 1956, based on the average number of pigs saved per litter. Farmers in the 10 states also reported that they intended to farrow seven percent more sows in the December 1957 through February 1958 period than a year earlier.

Patches sown now may need another shot in the spring. Check them then. A good way to knock out single plants is to lift a shovel of soil where the plant is growing, put a teaspoon of chlorate on the roots, to replace the soil.

Higgins has some further tips on using sodium chlorate: Don't use it on fills of dike ditch banks. It will cause them to slough. Other soil sterilants are available for these spots. Sodium chlorate is not satisfactory on soils having a high water table or on alkali soils. Areas that have been burned require higher rates of the material. Be careful with sodium chlorate. Wear rubber boots or overshoes and avoid getting the chemical on wet clothes. There is fire hazard. Avoid leaving excess amounts where livestock run. It is poisonous. When used properly there is little danger from fire or poison. Troubles come with careless use.

Wayne Robinson, U. of I. extension marketing specialist, says the latest USDA pig crop report indicates that farmers in 10 Corn Belt states will farrow four percent more sows this fall (June-November) than a year earlier. This is a one percent increase from intended farrowings reported in June and two percent above 1946-55 average fall farrowings.

The 10 states include Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, Nebraska, and Kansas. These states accounted for 72 per cent of the U. S. fall pig crop in 1956.

Most of you have been acquainted at one time or another with a "bratty" dog. He'll grab a steak off the table if he thinks nobody's watching.

Every dog fancier and trainer has his own methods and they all differ, so it's difficult to set down a list of rules.

Feeding tips: Don't think because dogs need calcium that you should keep him supplied with bones.

Alfalfa is one of the most important plants in Idaho, but it's nothing but a weed with a bad reputation.

It seems that insects dine off the alfalfa just long enough to get themselves infested with the calico virus.

Justice is the goal, but not necessarily the product, of our courts.

Alfalfa Has No Place In Potato Field

Alfalfa is fine in the alfalfa field, but it's a good idea to give it a good dose of 2, 4-D before you plow it.

Getting the horns off early—at 10 days to six weeks of age—is most desirable. When the calf is young the horn button is not firmly attached to the skull.

Perhaps, you too, will find time to send in some of your family favorites.

BAKED APPLE DOUGHNUTS
1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg
1/2 cup sugar
1/3 cup shortening
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup raw apple, grated fine
1/2 cup melted butter, or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, nutmeg, and 1/2 cup sugar. Cut in shortening until mixture is fine. Mix together egg, milk, and grated apple, add all at once to the dry ingredients and mix quickly but thoroughly. Fill greased muffin tins 2/3 full. Bake in a 350 degree F. oven 20-25 minutes until golden brown. Remove from the cups. Immediately roll hot doughnuts in melted 1/2 cup butter or margarine, then in sugar-cinnamon mixture. Serve warm. Accidents Increase

Year after year, the days grow shorter during the fall and early winter. Since this happens every year, it is not surprising that we take it for granted. Yet this simple occurrence has a profound effect on the traffic accident problem, Harold Davis, the Idaho Traffic Safety Director warns. Everybody knows that traffic accidents are a most serious threat to our safety.

When darkness comes early, we begin to do more of our driving after dark. Everybody knows that too. Unfortunately, every driver doesn't stop to realize what it means. Driving at dusk, or after darkness falls, is much more dangerous than many people think—because driving vision is cut down considerably. Safety experts tell us that most fatal accidents occur after dark, even though traffic is less heavy during the nighttime as it is during the day. Even if your headlights are good, it becomes difficult to see the careless pedestrian in time. Frequently you may be blinded by the glare of an approaching car. If you drive faster after dark, even good headlights may not give you sufficient sight-range to allow a safe stop in the event of an emergency. Davis says that there are other conditions which take for granted that can actually become a menace on streets and highways. For one thing, the many are falling again. Nothing remarkable about that. It happens every year. Yet many a youngster has been run over by an automobile while playing and burrying in a pile of leaves. The extra football game held Wednesday on at Genesee.

Merchants Meet; Discuss Projects

Members of the Genesee Merchants Association met Wednesday noon for their regular monthly meeting at Evans Cafe. Main topic for discussion at this meeting was possible future projects for the organization.

Two proposed projects now under consideration of the Association are the installation of signs pointing out the short route to Lewiston via the Coyote Grade and the planting of seedling fir trees around the town in various locations.

A sign just north of the Highway 95 junction leading into Genesee showing the route down the Coyote Grade would serve a two-fold purpose. First, it would give travelers a warning to use the short route down the hill the proper information. Second, it would serve to bring more traffic through town; a matter of concern to all Genesee merchants. Roy Harris, Joe Parks, and W. A. Roth are committee men working on this project.

Is Your Car Wrecking The Family Budget

With an average income of $6,000 a year, and an annual average of 10,000 miles of driving in the family car, the American family may well be kept broke by its automobile, according to the editors of Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine in a copyrighted article, "Is Your Car Keeping You Broke?"

A great many families, unaware of what it costs to own a car, are finding that car expenses cause sacrifice and economies elsewhere in the family budget. The actual cost of owning a new car, say the editors, is about $775 a year if driven 5,000 miles, and about $952 a year if driven 10,000 miles.

This means that only an above-average income family can drive its car 10,000 miles a year without seriously lowering its standard of living, the editors say.

The only way for the $5,000-a-year family to keep its auto expenses within 10 per cent of its income is to buy and use about every four years, and drive it only 7,000 miles a year, according to one government study.

Genesee City Council took steps this week to provide an information service to citizens of the community who have questions concerning the proposal to install a sewer system in the East and Central districts of the city.

Walter C. Woodward, an engineer from Spokane, Washington and Leota and Bielenberg, local attorney for the city will be in the city hall between the hours of 1:00 p. m. and 8:00 p. m. on Monday, October 28, to answer any question concerning the proposal. Woodward is the engineer who planned the proposed sewer installations for both the East and Central districts. Bielenberg drew up the original legal documents for the bond issue which will be necessary should the voters approve the proposal. Together, these two should be able to answer any question local citizens may have.

Failed By One Vote
This proposal for sewerage facilities for the East and Central districts was brought before the public in an election held September 24 of this year. At that time the issue failed to carry by one vote.

Because the narrow margin of defeat and the fact that the total vote count was low, the city council decided to bring the issue before the public again. The feeling of the council was that many eligible voters did not understand the proposal as a result didn't vote. This is the reason for having Mr. Woodward and Mr. Bielenberg available to answer questions concerning the sewer problem.

Funeral services for Charles Benjamin Mauch were conducted Friday afternoon, October 11 at 2:00 p. m. from the Community Church, with Rev. Merritt W. Faulner, pastor of the First Methodist Church officiating.

Wayne Hampton, sang, and was accompanied by Mrs. Elvyn Hampton. Pallbearers were Floyd Ochs, Lawrence Brown, Wayne Roach, Virgil Post, Walter Curran, and George Anderson. Honorary pallbearers were Jack McKinley, Ed. Sweeney, Charles Scholer, Roland Scholer, John Dougherty, and Earl Parsons.

Services at the grave were conducted by Bielenberg-Schooler Post of the American Legion.

ROAST CHICKEN IS OFTEN OVERLOOKED AS GOOD FOOD. Roast or baked chicken, the bird that once graced Sunday dinner tables all over America, may be the most popular to many people but it still deserves a place of honor. "We're overlooking a delicious food when we forget the baking hen or the roasting chicken," declares Miss Barbara Brambover, extension nutritionist for the University of Idaho College of Agriculture. "Both of them are inexpensive meats, nutritious, and with eye and nose appeal second to none." The nutritionist advises selecting a hen that is not too fat but that is in good flesh and with enough fat to make the meat rich and moist. If you select a young roaster, make sure that it weighs at least three pounds and that it is compact and meaty. Either the hen or the roaster should have good color with a neatly transparent skin that shows the color of the meat underneath. Set the oven at 325 degrees and allow 45 minutes to an hour's baking for roasting for each pound of the bird. Of course you will want stuffing with it, so get out your favorite recipe and make plenty. "Meats of this kind are especially good for this time of year," Miss Brambover says. "There are so many things to go with the baked or roast birds—celery, cranberries, wonderful potatoes, and pumpkin pie for dessert. You dish them all up on them on the table with a well browned roast chicken right in the middle, and you'll have no trouble getting the family to develop an appetite."

OCCUPATION HANDBOOK REVISED CHANGES IN JOBS. The Department of Labor has issued a new 1957 edition of the Occupational Outlook Handbook. The handbook, issued jointly by the Department of Labor and the Administration, describes 600 occupations and 25 industries. It includes for the first time an expanding field of jobs such as electronics, physical biological sciences, atomic radio and television broadcast social sciences. All important occupations covered in the edition have been completely revised. The handbook is primarily designed for the use of young persons entering the work force. It is a significant contribution to the efforts being made to develop adequate skilled work force. The study reveals that engineering is in strong demand due to development of complex military and increased private effort to develop new products and processes. In addition to engineering, "know-how" there will be a rapid growth employment of technicians, whose training and manual skills are increasingly vital in an era of rapid technological advance. "Traditional" professions such as teaching, medicine, law and the arts will also grow, but at a moderate rate. The scientific and engineering fields. The trend toward automation will and provision of skilled craftsman in increasing numbers, particularly in the electronics maintenance. There will be a slight decline in demand for semi-skilled workers. Clerical occupations will grow at a slower rate than in the 15 years due to increased utilization of electronic data processing equipment. Copies of the 700-page Occupational Outlook Handbook are available for $4.00 each from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C. A new punch-card form of Series S Savings Bonds, issued beginning October, 1957, will enable Treasury Department to save $500,000 a year in printing alone.

CARE FOR THE HUNTING DOG

by Dr. E. M. Gildow Director, Friskies Research Kennels Some hunters are of the old-fashioned opinion that making a dog spoils him. This isn't true because a dog's aim in life is to please his master. The better he knows him, the harder he'll try to please. That doesn't mean you should coddle your dog. But he should get some affection and proper Dog of the Week: CURLY COATED RETRIEVER Sporting dog. Average weight: 70 pounds; height at shoulder: 23 inches; coat: a dense mass of crisp, short curls that fall over the ears and tip of the tail; color: black or liver brown.

You can't keep a dog inactive for months, then, without preliminary conditioning, expect him to turn in a first-rate job on opening day. He should be worked a little each day well in advance of the season so that his feet can toughen up and he's in top condition. A dog should never be transported to the hunting area in the trunk of the car. Many a good dog has died of carbon monoxide poisoning. The wise and considerate hunter will carry a supply of water for his dog for times when a stream or lake is not available. After the day's run, check him from the tip of his tail to his nose for ticks. If one is found, grasp it firmly between the thumb and forefinger and slowly pull it out. Wipe off the area with an antiseptic. Also check the dog for scratches and cuts, evidence of irritations, and for thorns which should be removed with tweezers. Swab those wounds with an antiseptic. Feeding Tip: It is usually advisable to have water available for your pet at all times. Occasionally, however, dogs that are confined, and certain neurotic dogs may consume excessive amounts of water if it is constantly available.

A floating dam on blue clay over quicksand is under construction to provide a barrier to prevent non-game fish from re-entering Coocallina and Round Lakes, recently treated to eradicate these species. This structure is being built by the Idaho Fish and Game department as a part of its program to restore and improve fishing on the two lakes.

RINGNECKS, BEWARE! Pheasant hunting season will open at noon Saturday (Oct. 19) in the five northern counties and on Oct. 26 elsewhere in the state where seasons are to be open this year. See the printed regulations for boundaries and general regulations. See the regulations also for partridge and quail seasons. These species are hunted concurrently with pheasants in areas where the season is open on them, but of course not all areas will be open for all. They are separately listed in the regulations to make them easy to find. Good Start The big game hunting season got off to a good start in general. Oct. 26 elsewhere in the state where seasons are to be open this year. He has been hunted, netted and trapped for thousands of years in Asia, Europe and America. After doing research on pheasants for ten years in Nebraska, Minnesota and South Dakota I concluded that the pheasants had learned more about me than I had about them. The one thing we know for sure about pheasants is this: Give them the proper habitat and they will flourish and multiply with apparent disregard for predators, including man and his twelve gauge.

Recently we had a gathering of game managers, warden supervisors, researchers, etc., who took part in setting the hunting seasons. Well, not one of them expressed any concern over the possibility of over-shooting pheasants. As long as we shoot roosters only there is no chance of us over-shooting. Now, as if that statement wouldn't bring enough disagreement, let's jump in a bit deeper with this one. We can probably increase pheasant abundance by shooting more roosters. To understand this we must again realize that the abundance of all species, including pheasants, is determined by the carrying capacity of the range. The farmer knows that his pasture will support a certain number of cows—more if the water and grass are good, less if not so good. The same is true for pheasants. Each section of land will support only a given number and whether that number is large or small depends on the nesting cover, brood cover, food, winter cover, etc. Let us assume that a couple of sections of land have a winter carrying capacity of 100 pheasants. If we did not fall shooting we might start the winter with about equal numbers of roosters and hens, say about 100 of each. But the carrying capacity of the winter range is only 100 pheasants so in the spring we will have, on the average, about 50 roosters and 50 hens. These 50 hens mean a potential of 50 nests and broods. Now let's try the other extreme and shoot 80% of the roosters. That means we have 10 hens for each rooster so in the spring we will have, not 50 roosters and 50 hens but 10 roosters and 90 hens. This gives us an increase of 40 potential nests and broods which means an 80% increase OCTOBER IS INDIAN SUMMER MONTH AND CAN BE POOR DRIVING MONTH IF CARELESS. October is the month of Indian summer, considered by many folks as the most glorious season of the year. As drivers, however, this month when we must give special attention to some changing conditions that affect our own safety and the safety of others is all-important. The Idaho Traffic Safety Director: "We are all very conscious of the fact that hours of darkness are lengthening at this time of year." Each day, dusk comes a little earlier. It won't be long before most workers will have to turn their automobile lights on when they drive home. The hours of dusk is a rush period, when workers are homework bound, late afternoon shoppers are hurrying home, and children are playing after school. Since the late afternoon hours find us tired and at a low point so far as energy and alertness are concerned, we must make conscious efforts to stress safety in our driving. Many motorists are bothered by the glare of the setting sun. Tinted windshields are of some help in combating this glare, and sun glasses are helpful too, but maintaining a clean windshield and using the car's sun shield are all-important. It is well to keep in mind that even with a change in direction, allowing you to drive with the sun behind you, your safety is dependent in measure on the approaching drivers, who are meeting the sun directly. October is the month when leaves look beautiful on the trees, but after falling they become hazardous to motorists. On the roadway they collect moisture underneath, providing a slippery surface for vehicle wheels. October is a wonderful month. Try to keep it accident-free by adapting yourself to the changing weather conditions and by being extra careful in your driving habits.

WEEDS HELP SPREAD LEAF ROLL DISEASE

Weeds in deserts, along roads, or in fields may have more to do with the spread of leaf-roll disease in potatoes than scientists have heretofore suspected. Richard E. Ohms, potato specialist for the University of Idaho Extension Service, says entomologists and plant pathologists have put their fingers on the insects that spread the disease. Two weeds that act as hosts for the leaf-roll virus. Insects carry the virus from potatoes to the weeds and from the weeds to the potatoes the following year. Now scientists are pointing the finger of suspicion at pigweed as another probable offender. This complicated behavior pattern has been acquired through countless generations of matching wits with man and his other predators. He has been hunted, netted and trapped for thousands of years in Asia, Europe and America. After doing research on pheasants for ten years in Nebraska, Minnesota and South Dakota I concluded that the pheasants had learned more about me than I had about them. The one thing we know for sure about pheasants is this: Give them the proper habitat and they will flourish and multiply with apparent disregard for predators, including man and his twelve gauge.

Selfishness will destroy any association or organization of man.

10 RULES FOR A LONG AND HAPPY HAT LIFE

1. When putting your hat on, hold the brim firmly at front and back with the tips of the fingers close to the crown.
2. When placing a snap brim hat down, either turn the brim up or set the hat on its side. No brim will hold its shape if left on the "snap."
3. Hang your hat carefully, where it will not be crowded or jammed out of shape.
4. Keep your hat dust-free. A drop of rain on a dusty hat makes a mud-spot that is hard to remove.
5. Use a soft bristle hat brush to keep your hat clean. Brush with the nap; start at the bow and brush toward the back.
6. Turn the leather band up occasionally and let the air at it. This will help perspiration and hair oils evaporate.
7. Keep your hat away from radiators, stoves, etc. It is shaped with heat and heat will change its shape.
8. If you get caught in the rain, push out the creases and dents, turn the brim up and fold the leather band out. Stand the hat upright and allow it to dry at room temperature.
9. For renovating, take your hat to a qualified shop or return it to the hatter from whom you bought it for factory-renovation. It may cost more but you'll find it well worth it.
10. Be fussy about the company your hat keeps. Don't permit it to be stacked with others as the hair oil on someone else's hat may be transferred and mar the crown of yours.

WELL-KNOWN AUTHOR TO SPEAK ON CRIME AT UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO

The topical problem of crime will be headlined by Dr. David Dressler, nationally-known author, sociologist and educator, in the first public event assembly of the year at the University of Idaho Memorial gymnasium at 11 a. m. Tuesday, October 22.

Dr. Dressler will discuss "Crime is Your Problem," a lecture which explains how crime touches everyone, why it is an obligation to combat it and what have proven relatively effective means of coping with the problem.

An associate professor of sociology at Long Beach State College, Dr. Dressler has also taught at Columbia University and the University of Southern California. He has been a caseworker dealing with maladjusted children and domestic problems, a group worker in a community center, a criminologist and a penologist. For 17 years, he was associated with the New York State Division of Parole. Under his leadership, the division became ranked as the most effective parole system in the country.

A prolific writer, Dr. Dressler has authored over 100 articles in his field. His writings have appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, Collier's, Look, Coronet and This Week.

His work has been dramatized in a television production called "Parole Chief" with actor Pat O'Brien portraying Dr. Dressler. It was adapted from his popular book of the same title.

YOUR Social Security?

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question: I am getting social security benefits and have temporarily to work for $300 a month. Will this work for only four months have any effect on the amount of social security checks that I will receive?

Answer: No. As long as your earnings do not exceed $1200 a year, it matters how much you earn in one month.

The age of automation has produced a punch-card form of E. U. S. Savings Bond which is saving, labor-saving and money-saving for the Treasury and its issuing agents. Now why not this have any effect on the amount of social security checks that you receive?

IDAHO'S HEALTH
By Your
State Board of Health

A new drug called tolbutamide—trade name Orinase—was released recently for use in the management of cases of diabetes. Its purpose is to control the blood sugar of diabetic persons by taking tablets of the new drug by mouth rather than taking insulin by hypodermic syringe. Just as with insulin, the drug need only be taken once a day.

Tolbutamide has been approved by the Federal Food and Drug Commission after extensive study and use in over 4,000 diabetic patients.

All Can't Use It
Diabetics should understand that this new drug does not have the same effect as insulin and can be used only for certain carefully selected patients. It is of no value in the diabetes of young people, but usually will benefit only those patients who develop the disease after thirty years of age. It should not be used for diabetics whose clinical disease is difficult to control ordinarily, or for patients who have a history of diabetic coma or other complications. It should not be used for diabetics who are adequately controlled by dietary restrictions.

Insulin Still Needed
In young patients or older ones with severe diabetes, insulin should be used as formerly. Serious problems in the use of tolbutamide may arise if the drug is dispensed without a prescription for self administration, if it is used by patients for whom it is not indicated, or for those who are not under close supervision of their physician.

The new drug will not replace insulin in the treatment of diabetes for most patients. The best control of the disease can be maintained by the careful balance of diet, insulin and exercise. Strict dietary management is just as essential whether tolbutamide, insulin or no drug is used.

farm hints

By The County Agent

Fall is a good time to hit sheep ticks, according to Wade Wells, Livestock Specialist of the University of Idaho extension service. Control of the ticks now, he said, means that even wild goats to fall pastures, farms, lots, and lambing sheds in clean condition. Their lambs will be spared infestations that can interfere with normal gains.

Sheep ticks—also known as keds—can be controlled with sprays or dust of DDT, Chlordane, BHC, toxaphene, lindane, and some other materials. Where dipping is practical, that is a thorough method. Dusting and spraying are more common. Sheep are run through a chute and treated on all sides as they run the gantlet.

Idaho insect specialists recommend the spray contain four parts of 50 percent DDT wettable powder and one pound of 25 percent lindane wettable powder in 100 gallons of water. They say range sheep can best be treated by using a spray boom equipped with 20 nozzles. A two-nozzle hand-operated spray gun is handy for farm flocks. Recommended pump pressure is 500 lbs to the square inch. The sheep need not be treated like the Rocky Mountain wood tick, but an insect. It is a degenerate fly that has lost its wings. It feeds by crawling about through the wool and biting the skin to suck blood. The insect causes the sheep to scratch at the wool, thus damaging the fleece.

Keds spend their entire life on the animal. The adult is brown, wingless, about a quarter of an inch long, is covered with short spiny hairs. The nits are nearly round, brown, and found in the wool, particularly about the neck and along the belly.

Spraying equipment needs care before it is put away for the winter.

Everett Davis, agricultural engineer of the University of Idaho extension service, has some suggestions about what to do. In addition to taking precautions in decontamination, he says it is a good idea to clean the sprayer thoroughly. First, drain and flush the tank with clear water. Then disassemble the nozzles and strainers and wash with gasoline or kerosene. Use a soft-bristle brush or compressed air.

Before putting the parts together, pump clear water through the circulatory system until it is clean. Pour two to five gallons of new or used oil in the tank and fill with water. Run the pump. Allow the water to discharge as waste. As water leaves the sprayer a uniform coating of oil will remain on the inside of the tank, pump, valves, and circulatory system.

Examine all drainage points to be sure all water is removed. Damage might result from freezing.

Several kinds of plastic coatings are on the market to protect metal from corrosion. You can brush them on the metal. They dry in a few hours to a glossy, hard coating. In most cases, only one coat is necessary. A primer is not needed.

If the sprayer has been used for 2,4-D or related chemicals, Davis says it is imperative to soak all pieces of spray equipment in a one-percent solution of household ammonia. Then rinse the sprayer several times with clear water.

Take care of left-over chemicals. Store them safely out of the reach of children.

Look out for blue comb in the fall, advises Robert Black, poultry specialist of the University of Idaho extension service. The pullet disease usually breaks out when weather changes from hot to cool and can cause death losses as high as 50 percent.

The disease commonly comes on suddenly, Black says. The flock looks all right one day and the next it is hit. Birds go off feed, there is diarrhea, and a severe slump in egg production. Combs shrivel and turn dark. The blue color gives the disease its name. The course of blue comb is about two weeks and sanitation are the best safeguards, Black advises. There is no positive method of prevention. Because the disease strikes hard and fast, it is important to catch it in early stages. Blue comb responds satisfactorily to several antibiotics. Medication in the drinking water is generally the most efficient.

Like almost every businessman, Dick has competitors . . . other petroleum distributors who also work hard to win steady customers. Probably no one knows this better than he does. That's why he works constantly to improve his service. That's competition.

And, even though methods may differ, the entire petroleum industry believes in competition, too. For competition inspires research and experiment; the results are new processes, new and improved products, a better way of life.

This is the essence of our democratic system and our economic vitality as a nation. It's also one of the reasons you can enjoy efficient dealer service and the most advanced petroleum products at the lowest prices in the world.

Many of you may know D. F. Scharnhorst. He's worked here in Genesee for 10 years supplying Mobil products to independent Mobil dealers in your community.

On the occasion of Oil Progress Week, we join in honoring the Mobil distributors and dealers . . . and their competitors . . . for the fine job they do serving you . . . serving a nation on wheels.

OCTOBER 26—NOV. 2 SET FOR NATIONAL HAT WEEK

"The Shape of the Season" is the promotional theme developed for an industry-sponsored new style, it was disclosed this week by Warren S. Smith, Secretary-Treasurer of the Hat Institute in New York. The Institute is conducting a nationwide promotion and publicity program to help manufacturers and retailers create public awareness of and enthusiasm for the new concept in hat design called the Tela-Pinch.

The Tela-Pinch has a pre-blocked tight telescope crown, one of the most successful variants of the original flat top; a narrow brim to harmonize with the new "slender line" in men's apparel, and a modern back-bow ribbon. A blocked-in in the front capitalizes on the shaping considered flattering to most men, and resists the "battering" treatment most men give their headwear.

The new style will be furnished by all leading hat manufacturers and retailers in a variety of finishes and new Fall colors. Salesmen, who have been showing the Tela-Pinch lines for several months, report accelerated consumer acceptance in advance of the push to be given the Tela-Pinch in connection with National Hat Week.

Advertising is good for business; it's even good for our business.

SPokane Philharmonic Orchestra to Open Monday, October 28
The Spokane Philharmonic orchestra will open its thirteenth season in a concert Monday, October 28, at the Post Theatre in Spokane. With members coming as far away as Pullman and Pasco, the orchestra can truly be said to be an Inland Empire orchestra.
Noted tenor Jan Peerce will be the guest artist at this first concert, singing two groups of arias accompanied by the orchestra. The program will open with Mozart's Symphony No. 35 (Haffner) and conclude with the "Waltzes from 'Der Rosenkavalier'" of R. Strauss. Following Mr. Peerce's first group of arias, the orchestra will play Wagner's Introduction to the Third Act of Lohengrin.

IWEA RECORDS ITS 24TH SUCCESSFUL YEAR

In 1954 Inland Empire Waterways Association was an idea—a dream destined to benefit the entire Pacific Northwest. It was unknown, except in the minds of a few men who looked above the numerous obstacles to create an organization and an economy that is now just as much a part of the Northwest as the highways and railroads that traverse the region.

Now, after these many successful years, this organization will hold its Twenty-fourth Annual Meeting in Longview, Washington, on October 28th and 29th, to lay its plans for the coming year. A number of prominent speakers will be on hand to address the delegates and advance registrations indicate a record attendance.

Inland Empire Waterways Association was created to aid in the fight for deep sea locks in Bonneville Dam. Several existing organizations from The Dalles to Lewiston, Ida. were combined in the IWEA—and that was the beginning 24 years ago.

At that same time, Herbert G. West, executive vice president, saw the potential of the rivers of the Pacific Northwest. Twenty-four years ago he pictured the scene that is now common along the Columbia—barges carrying payloads of grain, petroleum, fertilizers and other products. And so the organization was created. With men like Charles Baker, B. M. Huntington, Walla Walla, and others, Herb West changed the IWEA from a one-project organization to a group with goals and visions.

From a "two-by-four" office in Walla Walla, West set out to sell the residents of the Inland Empire on the need for an organization to work for the development of the resources of the Pacific Northwest.

"We beat the bushes in those days," West recalled. "It was big money. It was no thing to work in the office all day and then drive 50 or 100 miles at night to address a meeting of farmers."

Telling the story of IWEA to the farmers of the region was important, West said, and the group missed no opportunity to address a Grange or Farm Bureau meeting or to talk with other farm or business groups.

Slowly hurdles have been overcome. Doubters have become believers until today, in 1957, Inland Empire Waterways Association has become the most important organization of its kind in the West.

From the deep sea locks in Bonneville, IWEA and its leader, Herb West, pushed for river development and Washington, D. C. Maurice Lorr, Ph.D., chief of the VA outpatient neuro-psychiatric research laboratory in Washington, D. C., said since there is no generally accepted measure of changes in patients brought about by psychotherapy, the first step in the research would be a study of how often patients should be seen for treatment and of results of therapy.

Re-evaluation of patients will be made at the end of four months, eight months, and one year of treatment, he said.

The second step will be the development of tests and other measures by which doctors can select patients who will respond to psychotherapy, Dr. Lorr said.

A preliminary phase, or "trail run" to establish procedures for the research, already has been completed by the clinics.

Such a method would enable the clinics better to fit treatment to the patients' needs and make more efficient use of psychiatrists and other source personnel, Dr. Feldman said.

The eight clinics are Albany and Buffalo, N. Y.; Boston; Bridgeport and Hartford, Conn.; Chicago, Denver, and Washington, D. C.

New Low-Cost Apple Salad

For dieters, this health salad is the perfect dish for luncheon or supper. For the big family where a salad bowl is featured at every evening meal, this apple salad is a joy to homemaker and family. Raw-food health dieters will thank you for this flavorful combination. Apples spark the mixture with fresh flavor, vitamins, minerals, and that juiciness which satisfies appetite.

JACKSTRAW SALAD 2 large red apples, French dressing, Salad greens. 3 carrots, uncooked, 4 large stalks celery, 2 large green peppers. Russian dressing.

Scrape carrots; cut in thin sticks about 3 inches long. Cut celery and green pepper in matching sticks. Cut apples in sticks, leaving red peel on ends. Combine; toss with enough French dressing to coat sticks evenly. Serve on crisp salad greens with Russian dressing. Makes 6 servings.

His classic meeting, he recalled, was in Rosalia, Washington. He was to address an outdoor meeting and half a dozen people turned up. He made the talk anyway.

That was the start. "The directors said I could pay myself $150 a month if I could raise the money and still prosecute a program," West said.

"We have not always had sufficient funds," West recalled, but we used the money we had to do the best possible job."

IWEA has always been confronted with obstacles. Not everyone agreed that the Columbia and Snake rivers should be developed to serve a now power-hungry nation.

In 1934 few people dreamed that the day would come when the West would be crying for more power. In 1934 many people felt that the passing of the sternwheeler ended navigation on the Columbia and Snake rivers and there would never have been any need for river navigation.

They felt the railroads could handle the situation and there was no need for a battle to reduce freight rates.

In 1934 there were those who did not favor reclamation, believing that "we've got more land under cultivation than we need now."

Every year since the formation of IWEA West has gone before Congress to tell the story of the Pacific Northwest. His Bible has been the story of the Columbia River and the tremendous impact it has had on the economy and development of the region.

Slowly hurdles have been overcome. Doubters have become believers until today, in 1957, Inland Empire Waterways Association has become the most important organization of its kind in the West.

Advice On Inside Flower Growing

Saying goodbye to an old friend is always hard, and seeing the last of the summer flowers disappear with the first frosts gives the garden enthusiast much of the same sensation. There's a rather "all gone" feeling.

William Snyder, flower and landscape man at the University of Idaho College of Agriculture, says gardeners can avoid part of this, at least soften the shock if they have room for some of the flowers inside the house. Such late bloomers as marigolds, Ageratium, cushion mums, and annual carnations will do nicely until they have reached the peak of flower production long after outdoor things are wrapped in Autumn brown.

Dig the plants before the first frosts. Put them in ample sized pots filled with half garden soil and half sand. It's essential that you take a good ball of earth with the roots if the plants are to go on blooming. Water them well and set them in the shade to season a bit before they go into the warm, dry atmosphere of the house. Once inside, give them plenty of sun and see that they do not dry out too much.

The flowers will not last through the winter. Most of these are annuals and are done when they have flowered and produced seed. If you like more of them, start the plants inside about January and have them ready for spring planting and eventual removal to the house.

Few things can be useless as unused statistics but there is much truth ascertainable only through the use of numbers.

Shipments of the 1957 Plymouths are running somewhat behind last year's, with prices slightly higher. Last year's extremely low prices were due to a combination of factors.

Total cash farm income for the first seven months was $1.4 billion, or 45 percent of last year's total. Total farm income for the first seven months was $1.4 billion, or 45 percent of last year's total.

BANKS LOANS IN IDAHO INCREASED OVER SIX PERCENT

Loans of reporting Federal Reserve banks in Idaho were up 6.1 per cent at the end of September, according to a report of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco. The total amount of loans outstanding in Idaho at the end of September was $1.1 billion, or 1.3 per cent more than at the end of August. Bank deposits were up 7 per cent.

That is the report of the Security News Letter distributed by the First Security Bank of Idaho. The report was prepared by Department store sales for leading cities in Idaho for 1957's first eight months. The same as last year's sales for the First Security Bank of Idaho were "almost equal to those of 1956."

YOUR Social Security?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question:
I am a 60 year old recipient of ability insurance benefits. A year ago I received old-age insurance. It fits told me that I must report my earnings to the Social Security Administration. Is this correct?

Answer:
No. Although an old-age insurance beneficiary under 72 is required to report if his earnings exceed $100, this is not required of a disability insurance beneficiary. However, you have recovered from your disability to the extent that you engage in some substantial work you should check with your security office to determine if you are doing work which affects your disability benefits. Payments would be true regardless of whether your earnings exceeded $1200 a year.

"Most businesses plan to operate for a long time. Business progress is largely due to the accumulation of savings of past years. "It is important to save with guaranteed-savings plans. The bonds we are offering are an important part of our guarantee for a better future."

FLU PATIENTS AT UNIVERSITY DECLINE
A rapid decline in the number of flu patients at the University of Idaho over the week-end left the school this week in a healthy situation for its homecoming this week-end.

"Flu patients Monday dropped to 17," said Dr. J. M. Fleming, university physician. This figure represents less than half of one per cent of the student body.

Two sorority houses had been quarantined as a precautionary measure, but both of these quarantines have now been lifted.

"We have taken and will continue to take precautionary measures in an effort to prevent any serious outbreak of flusuch as has occurred on other college campuses," said Dr. Fleming. "As a result of these precautionary measures some false rumors have no doubt circulated on our situation here. We are pleased to report that there has been no major outbreak to date."

RECORDS OF U. OF I. SONGS TO GO ON SALE SOON

The record, which will be available from the bookstore, is expected to arrive in about a month. Some of the selections include "Here We Have Idaho," "Go Vandals Go," "Silver and Gold," "Our Idaho," and "Fighting Vandals."

IDAHO'S HEALTH
By Your State Board of Health

Results of a California medical survey indicate that a test for every student in the eye, if included in every routine physical examination, could substantially reduce the high toll of blindness in the state.

A detection program conducted by the University of California ophthalmologists demonstrates that the test procedure, called tonometry, provides physicians with an "excellent opportunity" to discover glaucoma in its early stages, when vision usually can be preserved.

According to the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, which financed the research, the ultimate aim of the project is "to persuade medical leaders in medical schools, the military and industry, that tonometry should be included as part of every general physical examination in the over 40 age group."

Cause of Blindness
Glaucoma, one of the leading causes of blindness in the U. S., strikes largely among older persons. It results from a build-up of pressure within the eye. This pressure traps a fluid that ordinarily bathes our eyes, causing it to back up against vital organs of vision. Gradually these organs become damaged and permanent loss of vision results.

The Prevention of Blindness Society estimates that 40,000 Americans have lost their vision and another 150,000 have become partly blind from glaucoma.

Though science cannot yet "cure" glaucoma, it can usually control the build-up of pressure with eye drops or surgery if the disease is discovered and treatment begun early enough. However, vision once destroyed by the condition cannot be restored.

In the test recommended by the California researchers, an instrument called a tonometer records the amount of tension within the eye. An increase in tension is one of the indications of glaucoma.

LET THE KIDS HAVE FUN BUT MAKE SURE HALLOWEEN NIGHT DOESN'T END IN INJURY
One week from tonight, goblins, ghosts, witches, hunchbacks, and several hundred kids of all ages will haunt the streets of big and little cities of this country. It will be Halloween.

"And the chances are pretty good that some of those youngsters will be yours," says Everett Davis, extension agricultural engineer and safety man for the University of Idaho. "We hope they are, for it is a night that boys and girls look forward to and long remember. The important thing as we see it is that they have a pleasant evening to remember rather than one that ends with injury, pain, and expense."

Here are some of Davis' suggestions for making Halloween a safe evening. First of all, make sure that the children have on light costumes if they are to walk where cars travel. It's easy for a driver to see a light costume at night, hard to see a dark one even in good lights. They warn the youngsters that they must use all cautions in traffic. Running heedlessly in or across streets can lead to injury or death.

See that your child does not go out dressed in long sheets that can cause falls. If the party he goes to is to have candles, woken clothing is best as it does not flame so easily as cotton or some of the other fabrics. Paper costumes are "out" if safety is to be a consideration at parties having candles or open fires.

And, finally, watch out for pranks. Too many of them end up in injury of one kind or other. One little girl lost her life when some one set fire to her hula skirt as a joke. Warn your child that the windshield her soaps may be on a car that has to be used before it is cleaned. Soaping it may lead to a bad accident, Davis points out.

A rally featuring a fireworks display will get under way at 7:30 p. m. at MacLean field behind the Memorial gymnasium following a parade serpentine through the living groups starting at 6 p. m.

The annual mile-long homecoming parade will start down its route along Main street at 9:30 a. m. Two floats designed and constructed by living groups on campus, marching units and high school bands from Wallace, Kellogg, Lewiston and Moscow will be featured. President and Mrs. D. R. Theophilus of the University of Idaho will marshal the parade.

First Open House At School to Be Friday, Nov. 8

The First Open House of the school year will be Friday evening, November 8, at 8:00 p. m. The program will be given by the upper four grades.

The fifth and sixth grades will present a short play, "Robin Hood and the Merry Little Old Woman." In this play Robin Hood is helped by Dame Kate in his efforts to keep away from the King's men. Robin in turn has to rescue Dame Kate. The play takes place in Old England in the vicinity of Sherwood Forest.

The seventh and eighth grades will present a one-act comedy about a bird that not only talks, but can predict future happenings as well. This causes no end of difficulties for the bird's owners—an average American family. The title of the play is "The Mish-Mosh Bird."

GHS Carnival Set For November 1

Genesee High School's Annual carnival is set for Friday evening, November 1 at the local gymnasium. It was announced this week by the faculty of the school. According to advanced information, the carnival is being set up as an outstanding event of the school year. It is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p. m.

King, Queen To Be Chosen
Highlight of the carnival will be the crowning of the King and Queen who will reign over the event. Each class has their own candidates with the titles to be bestowed upon the couple whose class collected the most money from the jars that are now placed in various business houses around town.

Freshmen candidates are Donna Heimgartner and Richard Bauer; Sophomores, Diane Krier and Robert Spence; Juniors, Marilyn Sather and Tom Pappeneau; and Seniors, Sharon Pallwell and David Kraut.

Many booths and games have been planned to provide an evening of excitement. Lunch booths, candy booths, hat booths, football and basketball throws; dart throws; and a ring toss are among the events to be enjoyed.

New Spouse Year
One of the new and interesting booths added to this year's carnival will be the Spouse Booth. Customers may pay their money and receive the opportunity of throwing a wet sponge at the person of their choice. The Rev. will have his head sticking from a hole in the canvas backdrop. Volunteers will be used for targets.

Football Title to Remain as Tie
According to Kenneth R. Primus, the championship of the second District 8-man football conference will remain in a three-way tie between Troy, Kendrick, and Genesee rather than to extend the season for a series of play-offs.

Each of these three football squads ended regular season with identical 6-won, 1-lost records. According to Primus it was decided not to hold any play-off competition due to the fact that the weather was poor, the shortness of the days gave inadequate time for practice and also it is only a short time until the basketball season begins.

An offer for the football team to meet the Donnelly-McCall eight-man football team at that school for the mythical championship of north Idaho has been received and rejected by the local school. Donnelly was the winner of the third district eight-man championship.

Dora B. Fish, Area Pioneer Dies In Lewiston Oct. 23

Dora Belle Fish was born January 10th, 1877 at Dudenville, Missouri, a small town, near Golden City. She was the daughter of William T. and Mary D. Shirod, having some west with the family in 1892 and settling south of Untown, Washington, on the place which was purchased by her father from Benjamin Phipps.

In 1897 she was married to James W. Vestal and to this union one son, Lawrence W. Vestal was born. They were parted, and 1907 she and William Fish were married, they also had one son, Roy E. Fish.

Mr. and Mrs. Fish lived south of Untown for a while on her homestead after which they moved to Walla, Oregon where they pioneered on a farm. Mrs. Fish was quite frequently of the hardships they endured. They moved to the Genesee community where they leased some land and in 1915 purchased the William A. Craig holdings, and which they always spoke of as the home place. In 1927 Mr. and Mrs. Fish retired and moved to Clarkston, Washington, leaving their son, Roy in charge of the farm.

Mr. Fish passed on Jan. 12th, 1941 and Mrs. Fish continued to stay in Clarkston, some of the time with her brother, Perry and part of the time divided between her two sons here at Genesee.

Dora was staying in Clarkston when stricken by her last illness on the 26th of September, and was taken to the Genesee Hospital, where her sickness was diagnosed as an obstruction in the bowels and an emergency operation was performed on Friday evening, October 23rd, in which she never recovered and passed to the Great Beyond on October 23rd, 1957.

She leaves to mourn their loss her son, Roy, three brothers, Clarence, of Walla, Walla, Washington; Forrest, of Pullman Washington; Fred of Genesee; a half brother, Tommie, and a half sister, Rosa White of Lewiston, Idaho. Four grandsons, eleven great grandchildren; one uncle, her mother's brother, Henry Neuman, of Colton, Washington; nieces, nephews, and cousins. Her son, Lawrence preceded her in death on June 1st, 1956.

She was laid to rest beside her husband, William Fish in Normal Hill Cemetery on Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, October 23rd. The Rev. Edward C. Ogle, pastor of Clarkston First Church of God was officiant. Earl Wilson, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. DeVoe Miller, sang "In the Garden," and "Beyond the Sun-sets."

The pallbearers were John Madden, Leo Edwards, Jack Koenig, George Delaney, Bartel Weber, Louis Scharnhorst.

Mrs. Stanley Sturgill and Children Leave For Wiesbaden, Germany

They will be accompanied by Stanley Sturgill, the husband and father, who has been in Germany since the middle of August.

They drove East in the Sturgill Mercury which will be shipped across the Atlantic to afford transportation to Mrs. Sturgill in Wiesbaden, Germany. Stanley Sturgill is a pilot-navigator in the U. S. Air Force and was transferred from Bozeman, Montana where he has been for the last three years and employed as a teacher at the Montana State College.

Social Security Advice Given By Manager

Are you losing social security benefits? Do you know anybody who is? Under the old-age and survivors insurance you may be eligible for payment now but you cannot get them unless you apply for them.

Mr. Wootton, District Manager of the Lewiston district social security office recently called attention to the fact that a considerable number of beneficiaries lose some of the payments they should receive simply because they do not apply for them. The most frequent case is that of the worker after retirement age who is temporarily or permanently laid off, according to Mr. Wootton. The man expects to go back to his old job or get a new one and quite often he does not apply for his benefits. But in some cases he is idle for a month or more. Retirement benefits for the women workers at age 62 and the men at age 65 are payable on a monthly basis until the age and survivors' insurance program.

A test of retirement is provided by the Social Security Act to insure that only those older workers who have substantially retired from their jobs are eligible for old age benefits. In other words, Mr. Wootton pointed out, the present law permits the payment of benefits to the men and women workers under the age of 72 for every month in the year if they do not earn over $1200; if they earn more than $1200 some of the checks for that year may not be payable. After they reach age 72, there is no restriction on earnings.

The following chart describes how payments are made and the number of monthly benefits payable for those who earn over $1200:

Annual Earnings	Monthly Benefits Payable
1,200.01-$1280	11
1,280.01-$1360	10
1,360.01-$1440	9
1,440.01-$1520	8
1,520.01-$1600	7
1,600.01-$1680	6
1,680.01-$1760	5
1,760.01-$1840	4
1,840.01-$1920	3
1,920.01-$2000	2
2,080.01 or more	0

Mr. Wootton gave as an example the worker who earned $400 a month. He was entitled to $80 a month. Beginning in July he earned only $80 for the months of July through December. His total yearly earnings amounted to $2,880. But he was entitled to $80 a month for $80 in wages or render substantial services in self-employment in the last 6 months of the year, he will receive his benefit checks for all of the year. If he earned $400 a month for 11 months and $800 in January in which a beneficiary earns $80 or less, or any month in which a self-employed person performs no substantial services at his business, are the total earnings for the year. They will receive payments from old-age and survivors insurance no matter how much he earns in a year.

After workers reach 72 years of age they are entitled to benefit checks regardless of the amount of their earnings. However, in figuring the number of payments due in the year they reach age 72, their total earnings for the whole year may affect the number of payments due prior to the month they reach age 72. Mr. Wootton suggests that even if the worker earns over $1200 a year, he may be entitled to some checks for that year and should contact his nearest social security office and get more information.

E. D. Pederson, Former Publisher, Passes October 30

Edwin D. (Pete) Pederson, Genesee civic leader and for 25 years a newspaper publisher there, died Wednesday morning at 12:30 a. m. at St. Joseph's Hospital. He had undergone a gall bladder operation at the hospital Thursday morning and had been failing since then.

Mr. Pederson was born January 8, 1898, at Elk Point, S. D., and learned the printing trade as a "printer's devil" and newsboy while attending high school.

In later years he became known as a printer and county editor of the "old school," with the ability to compose news stories at a typewriter machine, discarding the usual procedures involving typewriter, copy paper and editing.

He enlisted in the Army in 1917 and in his three years of service saw action in the Aisne-Marne offensive and in the Meuse-Argonne and Fismes sectors. He also served with the occupation forces in Germany.

After the war he became a printer at Spencer, Nebraska. He married Olive Bradstreet, at Sioux City, Iowa, September 3, 1921, and the couple moved to Blackfoot Idaho, where he was foreman of a newspaper print shop until 1928.

In November of that year he purchased the Genesee News, a weekly newspaper, and they moved to the community. Mr. Pederson's hobby was his paper, and in its pages he continuously worked for projects that he considered to be beneficial to the community. He spent his days gathering news and many of his night hours "putting the paper together."

Mr. Pederson sold the paper in 1954 and after a short retirement became a compositor for the Lewiston Morning Tribune. He had a wide circle of friends at Lewiston and Genesee, and many motorists and accident-victims along his commuting route have been indebted to him for aid.

He was a member of the Shrine Club, Calam Temple, the Grand Commandery of the Knights Templar of Idaho, the American Legion and the Lewiston Typographical Union, and is past master of the Unity Lodge, AF & AM, at Genesee.

He is survived at Genesee by his wife and a son, Gerald. Another son, Dan, survives at Spokane. Other survivors are nephews, Mrs. Glenn Dine, Orna, Nebraska; Mrs. Josie McDowell, Norfolk, Nebraska, and a brother Maurice, of Norfolk.

The body is at Vassar-Rawls Funeral home in Lewiston. Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the Genesee Community church with the Rev. Merritt Faulkner of the Lewiston First Methodist Church officiating. Burial will be at the Genesee cemetery. The Unity Lodge, AF&AM, in charge of graveside rites.—Lewiston Tribune

AVOID PASTURING ANIMALS ON LATE GROWTH ALFALFA

Although the temptation to put livestock on late growths of alfalfa may be great, it's a wise farmer who resists the temptation. He will have more than enough additional alfalfa the next year to make up for what he loses by not pasturing in fall.
Plant Pathologist Harry Fenwick of the University of Idaho Agricultural Extension Service points out that hives of late pasturing animals injure the crowns of alfalfa plants. That lets in disease-causing organisms harbored in the soil or debris on the fields. The end result is a poor stand of alfalfa the next spring and resulting low yields of one of Idaho's most famous crops.
Fenwick points out two reasons for diseases' coming to the plants. The first is through injury to crowns, mostly during the wet part of the fall when ground is soft and livestock tramples in the soil or debris on the fields. The second is the result of close-cropping the plants. When there is no top growth left on the alfalfa crown, there is no reserve supply of food for the roots, and it may literally starve before spring. Add injury and an infection to the poor condition of the plant and it has a poor chance of coming through the winter in good condition.

IDAHO PROPERTY TAX PAYMENTS ARE UP

A record breaking total of more than $50,000,000 in Genesee State property taxes is indicated for this year, the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho reported today.
Max Yost, Executive Manager of the Association, said that an analysis of property tax factors projected such a figure. He explained that this coupled with a $10,500,000 increase in the result of an increase in levy in assessed valuation. The previous record statewide property tax total was $48,477,758 in 1956.
The increase this year was due in large measure to boosts in city and village levies. Yost said. The average aggregate levy of 68 Idaho cities and villages increased 35 cents per $100 assessed value. This marked the second time since 1947 that the average aggregate levy of these communities has increased more than 30 cents. The first time was in 1955 when it went up by 46 cents.
The average aggregate levy for the 68 cities and villages, the study showed, is now $10.298 per assessed valuation, an all-time high. Previous years never exceeded $10.
Yost said that levies certified by

CHICAGO TRIP, SCHOLARSHIP FOR 4-H DAIRY CHAMPS

Records of achievement in the national 4-H dairy program have been judged for the 1957 state winner. The top ranking boy or girl will be a delegate to the 36th national 4-H Club Congress opening in Chicago on December 1. This highly prized all-expense trip is being provided this year for the first time by a new sponsor, the Oliver Corporation.
In addition to the state award, they also are providing up to four gold-filled medals in each county, and six $400 college scholarships on the national level. The scholarship winners will be announced during the Club Congress when state and national champions will be guests of honor at a gala recognition banquet.

MORE ENGLISH NEEDED IN HIGH SCHOOL SAYS UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR

Emphasis should be placed on the writing of themes as well as on grammar and literature in high school, Dr. C. Norton Coe, professor of English and head of the department of humanities at the University of Idaho, told the District I convention of the Idaho Education association at Coeur d'Alene Friday, October 25.
In speaking on the preparation for high school students for college work in English, Dr. Coe stressed the desirability of having college preparatory students take four years of high school English instead of three.
"Whenever possible," Dr. Coe said, "teaching loads should be adjusted so that written compositions could be frequently assigned and carefully corrected during the high school years."

GRACIE PFOST BLASTS GOP FARM POLICIES
Farm families are getting only 77% of the income they had in 1951, and there are far fewer farm families to divide that income up, Rep. Gracie Pfost told a meeting jointly sponsored by the Latah County Kennedy Ford Grange and Farmers Union Friday night (October 25.)
"Five years ago the Republicans have been telling the farmer that 'next year things will be better,' and for five years the farmer's slice of the economic pie has been getting thinner and thinner," Rep. Pfost declared.
She said that the average parity price paid for farm products relative to the prices farmers must pay for goods) dropped from 100 in 1952 to 80 in March of this year. Net farm income, according to Department of Agriculture figures, has dropped steadily from $15.1 billion in 1952 to $11.0 billion in 1956.

"Five years ago the Republicans have been telling the farmer that 'next year things will be better,' and for five years the farmer's slice of the economic pie has been getting thinner and thinner," Rep. Pfost declared.

CROCHETING IS BECOMING MORE POPULAR THAN KNITTING, SURVEY SHOWS
The crochet hook is getting ahead of the knitting needle.

More American women do hand crocheting or embroidery than knitting, according to a report the county home agent had this week from the department of agriculture. The information came out as a result of a survey on women's attitudes toward wool and other fabrics. Personal interviews were conducted in 1955 among representative women throughout the county. Among other questions, the women were asked how their traditional handicrafts that have long offered a market for fibers and yarns.

Only one woman in 10 said she had knitted during the previous year. Two in 10 reported both crocheting and embroidery. Two in 10 had knitted in earlier years. Women who had given up knitting had done so gradually. Half the women who no longer knitted said they had no time for it, usually because of increasing activities outside the home. Other reasons were loss of interest and lack of skill. A few said they found it less expensive to buy ready-made knit apparel.

Of the women who did knit during the year—nine percent of all women interviewed—the majority said they were doing as much as ever. The findings most often knitted were infants' wear, gloves, scarves, socks and sweaters. A few said they knitted dresses.

'Prefabs' Join Luxury Class

Prefabricated house has eight rooms, three baths.

Prefabricated homes have come a long way from the plywood Nissan huts and corrugated steel Quonsetts that sheltered GIs during World War II. "Prefabs" are widely accepted in both lower and middle-priced home brackets and are reaching out for the "luxury" home market.

The home illustrated here is an example. Built in Toledo by Scholz Homes, Inc. it fits into a high-priced neighborhood as well as any of the conventional constructed homes surrounding it.

Completely Air-Conditioned
The house has eight rooms, three baths, a full basement, and is completely air conditioned and insulated. It was built to sell for $45,000, including the cost of a large lot on an exclusive street.

Despite its "custom" look, the house is a standard model and can be reproduced anywhere east of the Rockies. Framing, wall and roof panels, asphalt shingles, and ponderosa pine windows are included in the factory pre-assembled "package."

The panels are factory-assembled on large flat jigs by trained labor, inspected by supervisors, then loaded in correct sequence so that they go into place at the site quickly and fit together perfectly. "Under roof and lock and key in one day" is the "prefab" manufacturer's boast.

Rich blue asphalt shingles set the tone for the subtle gray brick exterior of the Toledo house. Preservative-treated, Colonial-style wood windows and exterior ponderosa pine panel doors are architecturally correct for the traditionally designed house.

The doors are pre-nung with factory precision. The house is fully insulated with mineral wool thicknesses recommended for maximum economy in air-conditioned homes; six inches of mineral wool between the ceiling joists, four inches in the walls. The slab model has two-inch perimeter insulation all around. Research has shown that such quantities of insulation reduce the initial cost of an air-conditioned house by permitting smaller cooling unit. Operating costs are materially reduced.

IDAHO GIRL ENJOYS LIFE ON SWITZERLAND FARM

International Farm Youth Exchange students who leave the U. S. for foreign countries develop a keen insight into the lives of the people with whom they stay while abroad.

Dan Warren, state 4-H club leader for the University of Idaho, points to a recent letter from Doris Jerome, IFYE from Kuna now visiting farm families in Switzerland. She writes that she believes Swiss farm folks are happy most of the time, happiest when they are busy and working hard. They are never idle for a moment; their work and their farms and families are their entire lives.

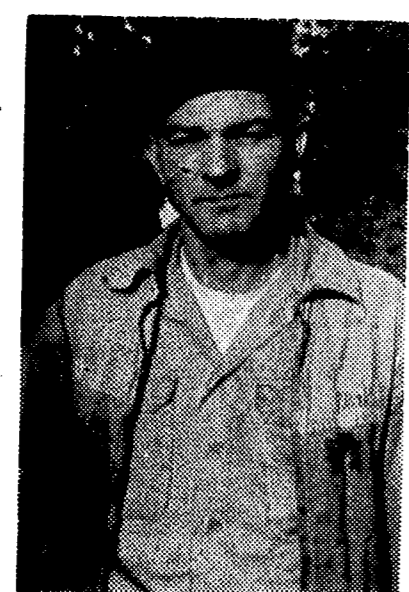

They live, if any, outside activities. Their kitchen floors are scrubbed three to four times a day and the entire house is unbelievably clean.

Doris says the daughter of the family is up at six every morning to begin her work for the day. She spends mornings in the house, afternoons in the fields. She is 25 years old but never goes out with men or boys although she is "pretty, vibrant and full of life." Nor does it seem to bother her in the least. Her brother is 33 and will be married sometime soon.

The Idaho girl says most young people of the country are considered children until they are well along in years, something that most of them resent but say little about. The father's word is final at any time, and no one argues about it.

Pegs fastened to paralyzed hands and VA-invented devices attached to standard typewriter make typing possible for some.

Others through special devices are learning drafting, photography, wood-working, metal work, and radio and TV repair.

One of the typewriter devices, a clear plastic sheet with a steel clamp and a brass rod, helps guide paper into the machine. Drafting is difficult for quadriplegics, even with a drafting machine. Some of the difficulty is overcome at VA hospitals by using a special machine that remains in place after positioning.

In electronics, quadriplegics are learning to perform testing and inspection satisfactorily by wearing special cuffs and wristlets.

Wearing individually designed braces and cuffs to stabilize the wrists and hands, quadriplegics learn to use cameras, develop film, and print the photographs at the hospitals.

Most shop machinery does not require modification for use by quadriplegics, VA experience shows. Patients operate engine lathes in metal milling machines, bench grinders, buffers, power hack saws, and disc sanders by motion from the shoulder or upper arm.

VA doctors say that only a few patients with spinal cord injury, those with quadriplegia caused by complete lesions high in the spinal cord, do not have the potential for holding some kind of job.

New Route For N. P. Mainline Trains

Northern Pacific railway's mainline trains began following a new route October 16 for 17 miles in the West from the mouth of the north fork of the Snake river to the Idaho border.

The tracks have just been relocated by the Washington Water Power Co. to make room for its new dam being built near Nix, Mont., on the Clark Fork river in a mountainous area at the northern tip of the Bitterroot range midway between Spokane, Wash., and Missoula, Mont.

NP's present main line, which follows the Clark Fork river valley, will be inundated by 17 miles of the 38-mile long reservoir. The new rail line has been built from the south to the north side of the river and located at a slightly higher elevation.

The total railroad relocation project includes 19.5 miles of new track for 17 miles in the West. The construction of five new bridges and a new dam being built near Nix, Mont., on the Clark Fork river in a mountainous area at the northern tip of the Bitterroot range midway between Spokane, Wash., and Missoula, Mont.

IDAHO'S HEALTH

By Your State Board of Health

Every member of a family, at one time or another, has depended upon the skill and knowledge of the pharmacist in time of illness. The teamwork of the pharmacist and the physician in meeting the health needs of a community is accepted as a matter of course by most residents of Idaho and the nation.

After receiving his high school diploma, a prospective pharmacist must obtain a four-year degree from an accredited pharmacy school, where he learns what drugs are, where they come from and how they are used. He learns about public health and hygiene, and how to work effectively with the physician and his patients.

When he has completed his schooling, the pharmacy student must pass a state examination before he becomes a licensed pharmacist. His skill is tested by actual practice and his knowledge is checked by examination in the main professional subjects that he will use in daily practice.

Many Things to Know The pharmacist not only knows when to dispense drugs, he also knows when not to do so. Narcotics, for example, may be harmful if improperly used, and the responsibility of handling these drugs has been placed upon the pharmacist.

The dispensing of poison chemicals having great value for use against pests is likewise his responsibility. When someone walks into the drugstore to buy some poison for a rat or other pest, the pharmacist makes certain that the purchaser has a legal and proper purpose in mind and that he knows the nature of the poison and how to use it.

The new drugs coming from the laboratories of pharmaceutical firms usually are not only more complex than older remedies, but are frequently more potent and more effective. They must be dispensed carefully and wisely, and demand an increasing amount of consultation between the physician and the pharmacist.

In short, respect your pharmacist—your health may be in his hands.

NOVEMBER I love November time with sunlight dripping Across the autumn landscape fringed with gold, I see a pheasant through the leaf-drifts slipping, A sweet remembrance of the days of old.

Down lover's land in Indian-summer-madness I go—where dreams of yesterday abide. Where your love made my whole world ring with gladness And you were mine in wild November-tide. —Bert Gamble

TIPS ON CARING FOR BULLS DURING WINTER Young bulls need special care during the winter after their first breeding season on the range, says J. J. Dahmen, animal husbandman of the University of Idaho extension service. Usually they are thin, and if they do not get the treatment they deserve, they may never develop as they should.

When a coming three-year-old bull is rejected after his first year on the range, Dahmen said, it is usually because he lacked attention at the end of the season.

In growing out and preparing a bull for the range, he said, it is well to remember that from the beginning of the next grazing season he must live entirely on forage and roughage the rest of his life. Changing a bull from show condition to breeding shape is a gradual process. The most successful plan is to reduce the feed for several weeks until the bull is accustomed to subsisting on forage before going on the range.

Experienced cattlemen have found that as much skill and care are required to reduce a fat young bull to breeding condition as are needed to fit an animal for show. The change cannot be made abruptly. The experienced bull buyer learns from the seller the feeds to which the bull is accustomed. At his new home, the bull is kept on a grain ration that is gradually reduced. Instead of the fattening feeds of barley, wheat, or corn on which the bull may have been fitted, a gradual switch is made to lighter feeds such as oats or bran.

Hominess can be a factor, too, the livestock specialist said. While the young bull is getting adjusted he may be lonely. It isn't nonsense, but a known fact. If two or more bulls are becoming adjusted, the problem takes care of itself. If there is only one bull, it may be well to turn in one of two yearling steers about the same size and age. It is a mistake to run a young bull with older bulls in winter quarters.

There are motorists who seem not to have ever heard about a speed limit.

FISH AND GAME NEWS

By now probably every hunter in the west automatically looks for leg bands on every duck and goose he shoots. This is good business. The more band recoveries we have, the better our flyway's waterfowl can be managed. If we know the routes used by the different segments of the flyway population, and can chart the ups and downs of those groups, we have a better chance both of protecting them, when they need it, and of getting an increased harvest almost whenever when numbers are up. So send in any bands you find, along with information as to when, where and by whom the bird was shot. We will let you know what the banding records show about your bird. We'd appreciate any bands found on birds dead of natural causes, too, of course. Address: Idaho Fish and Game Department, 518 Front Street, Boise.

Social Security Coverage Extends to Many Occupations

The 1956 Amendments to the Social Security Law extended social security coverage to lawyers, dentists, osteopaths, veterinarians, chiropractors, naturopaths and optometrists, according to Marlow V. Wootton, the Manager of the Lewiston Social Security office. (The only major group presently excluded are doctors of medicine.) Many of these professional people made their first contribution to the social security insurance system when they filed their 1956 income tax returns. This amendment was effective with the first taxable year ending after 1955. For most self-employed persons this will be the calendar year 1956. Therefore, some of these people who have reached retirement age can now qualify for old-age retirement benefits. Also if death occurs on a person's average earnings over a certain period of time. For most people, particularly those in these newly covered groups, this period would begin with 1951 and end when they reach retirement age or die. UP to five years of low or non-covered income may be excluded in computing the average monthly wage. Consequently, in the case of most of these professional people, the non-covered years 1951 through 1955 can be omitted and will not reduce the monthly average. A retired or semi-retired person is able to earn up to $1200 net income in a year and still draw all social security insurance checks he is entitled to for that year. If he makes between $1200 and $2080 he may still receive some checks. Income from sources other than personal services does not have to be considered. Also a self-employed person may receive social security insurance payments for any month that he does not render substantial services in his business or profession. Mr. Wootton stressed that it is extremely important for all members of these newly-covered groups to become acquainted with the new social security provisions. Also any of these professional persons who are now 65 or over should call at the Lewiston Social Security Office at 307 Weisgerber Building to discuss their status under the new law whether or not they intend to retire at this time. A representative of the Lewiston Social Security office also visits Moscow every Monday and can be contacted in the Council Chambers, City Hall Bldg, from 9:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m. on those days. These offices will be glad to explore with them the most advantageous time to make application for payments and the steps to be taken preparatory to claiming them, Wootton concluded. To be a successful seller you must know what the buyers want then the buyers know that you have it.

Survey Shows Drill Boxes Plant Many of the Weeds

Drill boxes plant a lot of weeds on Idaho farms, according to a report the county agent had this week from Robert Higgins, agronomist of the University of Idaho extension service. He said the analysis of 225 samples from drill boxes collected by county agents and weed supervisors in 27 counties showed that although the growers are improving the quality of seed they are still planting weeds when they sow crops. "Sometimes it is caused by lack of adequate cleaning," Higgins said. "Planting seed from the home farm without proper cleaning, planting seed purchased from other farmers without regard for the contents, and using feed grain for seed are poor practices that usually increase the weed problem. "Overloading cleaning facilities is a cause of weed infestation. Give your dealer a chance to do a good cleaning job. Many weed seeds can be removed by proper cleaning. When the machinery is rushed, some weed seeds will get through." Analysis of the drill-box samples showed weed seeds in 40 per cent. All the weedy samples contained wild and agricultural needs throughout the intermountain area totaling $205,638,715.99; another 1,904 real estate loans for the purchase and construction of homes totaling $18,452,444.89; and $1,826 Timeway installment loans for home repair, appliance and automobile purchases, and other personal needs.

During the first nine months of 1957, First Security banks have made 4,455 more loans, totaling approximately $20 million, than were made during the same period last year. "This, we believe, indicates our desire to make every effort to meet all the legitimate credit demands of this fast growing area," said George S. Eccles, First Security president.

"These figures also indicate First Security's program of putting to work where needed in this intermountain region, the growing funds of our depositors."

NEW 4-H LEADER NAMED AT UNIVERSITY
Donald R. Mitchell, Terreton, a University of Idaho graduate who recently returned from Iran, has been appointed assistant state 4-H club leader at the university, President D. R. Theophilus announced this week, following regents' approval.

Mitchell, who will succeed Howard Shephard, served two years as a poultry husbandman with the International Voluntary Services, Inc. in Iraq. He has also been a food inspector for the U. S. Army.

Named general librarian on the University of Idaho library staff was Ronald V. Glens of Emporia, Kas. Formerly on the staff of White Library at Emporia, Glens is a graduate of Kansas State college. He holds a master's degree from Kansas state Teachers college at Emporia.

There will be friction in the United States, and elsewhere, as long as policemen promise more than they can deliver.

YOUR Social Security QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question:
I am employed for $120 a month throughout the year. The social security representative told me that I would be entitled to receive checks for nine months during the year. How did he arrive at the number of checks which I can be paid?

Answer:
When your earnings are more than $1200 a year, one month's check is withheld for each $80 or any portion over the $1200. Since you work all the year and your earnings annually are $1440, you would not be entitled to checks for three months.

DRIVE CAREFULLY DURING NOVEMBER
November is Pedestrian Safety Month—and we can help to keep it that way by showing ordinary courtesy in traffic. When we drive let's show consideration for the pedestrian. When we walk let's not make it tough for approaching motorists. Mutual understanding and helpfulness can save lives on Idaho streets and highways. Here are some safety suggestions from your Idaho traffic Safety Division:

DRIVERS:
1. Always be prepared to give

The Genesee News, Genesee, Idaho, November 8, 1957 5

pedestrians a brake.
2. Obey all traffic signs and pavement markings.
3. Approach all intersections with extra care.
4. Watch for persons getting on and off buses.
5. Reduce speed to 15 miles per hour in school zones.

PEDESTRIANS:
1. Cross at intersections, not in mid-block.
2. Leave curb only when you have time to cross safely.
3. Watch for vehicles backing out of driveways.
4. On rural roads, walk facing the traffic.
5. At night, wear white or light-colored clothing.

The Idaho Traffic Safety Director urges both motorists and pedestrians to be especially cautious at dusk, the most dangerous hour of the day. If motorists and pedestrians alike take serious the above mentioned suggestions, we will have fewer pedestrian accidents on our highways and in our cities.

Man's Favorite—Apple Pie!

Do you sometimes wonder if your family will ever get enough Apple Pie? It's a favorite, there's not a doubt about it. . . and perhaps one of the reasons is that it is such a versatile dessert! Serve it hot . . . serve it cold . . . it's good! Top it with whipped cream or ice cream—It's delicious! And here's one more way to provide the family with a delectable treat: an apple pie made in the good, old-fashioned way, but with a wonderful flaked coconut and butter topping.

COCONUT DUTCH APPLE PIE

Pasty for one-crust pie
 3 tablespoons flour
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 5 cups tart apple slices, sliced 1/4 inch thick
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1/2 cup butter
 1/2 cup flour
 1/2 cup butter, melted
 1/2 cup Baker's Angel Flaked Coconut

Line a 9-inch pan with pastry, rolled 1/4 inch thick. Place apples in pan, alternating with flour-sugar mixture. Sprinkle lemon juice over top of pie and dot with butter. Bake in hot oven (400°F) 45 minutes, or until apples are tender.

Combine 1/2 cup sugar and 1/2 cup flour. Add melted butter and mix well until crumbly consistency. Add coconut. Sprinkle coconut-crumm mixture over top of baked pie. Return to oven and bake 7 minutes longer, or until topping is browned.

WASHINGTON WATER POWER LAINS POWER PROBLEMS

THE INLAND EMPIRE

Problems encountered in providing the rapid growth in the inland empire's demand for electricity were discussed this week by Kinsey Robinson, president of the Washington Power Company, at the opening session of the North Idaho Chamber of Commerce meeting at Ferry.

A talk scheduled for delivery Friday morning, Robinson, whose company has increased its own investment in plants and equipment from $78 million in 1951 to $143 million in 1956, discussed the need for additional construction required to meet an electrical load which has increased nearly a 10 per cent annually over the last four years in the Pacific Northwest Power area.

"New people seem to realize," said Robinson, that private utilities do not have other non-federal agencies having approximately 4.6 million watts of hydroelectric power under construction, just completed, or to be licensed by the Federal Power Commission. This new power is about equal to the output of all dams built in the past 25 years. It is the largest hydroelectric dam at any one time in any single year in the history of the nation," according to Robinson, growing requirements in the Pacific Northwest will require expenditures of $1,000,000 per day for the next ten years (3 billion dollars) in order to keep ahead of demand. MINES COLLEGE GETS NEW STAFF MEMBERS

Appointment of 2 new staff members to the Idaho Bureau of Mines and Geology was announced this week by Dr. Earl F. Cook, director of the Bureau.

They are Careleton Savage, an economic geologist, and Richard S. Kopp a minerals analyst.

Savage, who came to the bureau as an associate professor of geology from the faculty of Kent State University in Ohio where he taught for 10 years, will do research on alluvial placer deposits in central Idaho and do a mineral resource survey of Ada, Payette, Gem and Canyon counties.

He has served as an economic geologist with the U. S. Department of State in the office of research and intelligence and the office of strategic services under the joint chiefs of staff. Savage, who has had a number of geological papers published, has also worked as a geologist with the Panama Canal commission, the Maine Geological survey and the Quebec department of mines.

Kopp, from Fredonia, N. Y., is a graduate student who will work half-time as a mineral analyst during the school year and full-time in the summer months. A graduate of Colorado college, Kopp has worked two summers for the U. S. Geological survey in Nevada.

U. OF IDAHO PROFESSOR BELIEVES SPUTNIK II DOOMED TO SHORT LIFE

The belief that Sputnik II will have a shorter life span than its predecessor was expressed this week by H. Ward Crowley, an assistant professor of mathematics at the University of Idaho, who has frequently linked his mathematical studies with astronomy.

"Sputnik has a fairly even orbit around the earth," Professor Crowley said. "The second satellite has an egg-shaped orbit which swings over 1,000 miles away from the earth at the extreme of its orbit to within about 100 miles of the earth on its 102-minute round trip. The satellite, hitting the denser atmosphere about 100 miles high, will gradually slow down and fall to the earth."

The Russian scientists did a magnificent job of controlling all the factors that would make a satellite flight a seemingly impossible feat, he observed.

"An error in velocity of 1 per cent below the required speed would doom the orbiting flight as the satellite would fall back to earth. A 2 per cent increase in velocity would also end in a failure as the satellite could not be observed in its flight."

As little as one and a half degrees off in the direction in which the rocket carrying satellite is fired can also spell either success or failure.

The dog in Sputnik II will certainly come back to earth, Prof. Crowley believes.

"But whether it will be alive and if it will ever be recovered is another question," he said. "The process would involve a fired reverse rocket to slow the satellite in its flight causing the gravitational pull of the earth to take effect. To survive, the dog must have protection from the tremendous heat which will be created as the satellite falls into denser atmosphere."

A parachute will have to be used to brake the fall. However, even if the dog falls to the earth unharmed by the flight, the animal will be difficult to locate and will probably fall in some ocean. It must be remembered that the satellite circles the globe in its orbit, he explained.

An even greater degree of accuracy than that needed in aiming Sputnik will be necessary if a successful rocket flight is made to the moon. It will be a study of motion. The earth is spinning, the moon is travelling through its orbit and the rocket will be leaving the earth at approximately 25,000 miles per hour. The rocket must meet the moon and intersect its orbit at the proper time to be successful. The gravities of the earth, moon and the sun and the decreasing speed of the rocket in its flight will be important factors in the problem. If the calculations are not accurate, the rocket may circle the moon and come back to earth or keep heading into outer space.

The Russian scientist must have the fuel to power a rocket capable of the 25,000 miles per hour velocity necessary for a flight to the moon.

IDAHO'S HEALTH

By Your State Board of Health

Flouridation, the time-tested method of reducing tooth decay—is now helping a great many children in Idaho grow up with stronger and better teeth, according to Dr. Wesley O. Young, director of the State health department's division of Dental Health.

Because large numbers of people have used water with flourides for as long as 30 to 50 years, it has been possible to study the effects of this measure to a great extent, and results show that flouridation can reduce tooth decay by 65 to 70 per cent. The evidence is so conclusive that water flouridation is beneficial and safe that every reputable health organization in the United States has endorsed this procedure. Among these are the American Dental Association, American Medical Association, U. S. Public Health Service, National Research Council and American Public Health Association, in Idaho, the program is endorsed by the Idaho Dental Association, Idaho Medical Association, Idaho State Health Department and others.

Flouridation is a scientific advancement—like chlorination of water and pasteurization of milk—that is helping to make this nation a healthier, happier place to live. A total of 18 Idaho communities now add flourides to their drinking water, and 13 others have natural deposits of flourides in the water and do not need to add additional amounts by mechanical means.

YOUR Social Security?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Are household workers employed under social security like those who are employed in mines or on farms?

Answer: Household workers employed in homes covered under social security just like other farm workers, employed in homes not on the farm must be paid as much as $60 a year for each worker to be covered a quarter of a year to be covered. If they are paid as much as $600 during the year, or work 20 days or more during the year and are paid on a time basis.

FISH AND GAME NEWS

New Design
Idaho's big game tag and report card will be redesigned before next year's season. The report card used this year worked very well, but the Idaho Fish and Game Department has been disappointed as the sportsmen in the quality of the tag. The unit included a paper tag with dated, perforated tabs and a snap lock, attached to a report card form. Many sportsmen realized the tag had not turned out as planned, and made a sincere effort to make it serve its purpose. Apparently the snap lock worked fairly well for most people, but the paper stock was neither strong enough nor sufficiently water repellent. We appreciate the effort by many sportsmen to make the best of a poor tag and their fine cooperation in sending in the report card. The department will bend every effort toward finding a tag-report combination for next year that will work to everyone's satisfaction.

Bird Hunt Closes
Sundays (Nov. 24) will be the last day of upland bird hunting in central and southwestern Idaho. Bird seasons elsewhere closed on Nov. 17. Hunters wishing to go out during the closing days should check the regulations to make sure which areas remain open.

Fishing Shifts
Interest in fishing in northern Idaho will shift Nov. 30 when the general trout season closes in the five northern counties. However, many waters in that area will remain open to fishing for all species except trout, some remain open for all the species including trout, and there are numerous special whitefish seasons lasting through February. These are listed in the regulations, as printed on the back of the fishing map for this year.

Raccoon Rules
Raccoon may be taken in Idaho without a trapping license, but if the hunter wishes to carry a gun he must have a hunting license. Most raccoon hunting is done with trail dogs, and a good many people still seem to be uncertain about the rules applying. The raccoon was removed from the furbearer list a few years ago, as the market no longer offered any incentive to trappers, and the animals were causing trouble in poultry and waterfowl areas.

Tree Forestry Program Planned By U. of I.

Initiation of a forest tree breeding program for southern Idaho, including appointment of a forest geneticist to head the project was announced this week by Dean E. W. Wohletz of the University of Idaho college of forestry following approval of the university's board of regents. Major attention will be concentrated on Ponderosa pine and Douglas fir, the leading commercial trees in the region.

The new project, Dean Wohletz explains, is a supplement to the white pine breeding program for northern Idaho forests recently announced jointly by the University of Idaho and the U. S. Forest Service. That activity seeks a species of white pine resistant to the ravages of blister rust. With the addition of the southern Idaho project, Idaho's forest tree breeding work now is statewide.

"With three geneticists working on the forest trees of Idaho, we will have one of the top breeding and forest genetics programs to be found at any state educational institution in the United States," Wohletz reports. Two of the geneticists, employed by the forest service, are working in the area where white pine is the most important species. The third, employed by the university, will be concerned with ponderosa pine and Douglas fir.

Cooperators in the new southern Idaho forestry association, the Idaho state division of forestry, and the U. S. forest service. The geneticist, to be stationed at Boise, is Dr. Lawrence Inman. He comes to Idaho from the University of Minnesota. His Boise headquarters will be at the Forest Service research center. All cooperators are contributing toward financing the undertaking.

"This project, which means so much to the future of forestry in southern Idaho, was made possible by the interest and enthusiasm of a far-sighted people in that section," says Wohletz. "These men fully appreciate the importance of planning and preparing now for the future timber needs. This group included John L. Aram, former president of The Boise Payette Lumber company and now the president of the president of the Weyerhaeuser Timber company; George Crookham, large-scale vegetable seed breeder and grower at Caldwell; George Hopt, an official of the Boise Cascade Lumber company, and Robert Naylor, Emmett, stockman and head of the Keep Idaho Green committee."

Objective of the tree breeding will be the development of a superior tree from the standpoint of growth rate, wood quantity and quality, Wohletz reports. The tree breeder will start his work with ponderosa pine, later turning to Douglas fir.

"Obviously this is a long-time undertaking but we believe that some results will begin to show within three or four years," says the former dean. "Our main target, naturally, is a distant one. We believe that to obtain the greatest return for investment, superior types and strains of trees must be secured. We also believe that great improvement in the natural types of strains of trees will come through planned forest tree breeding."

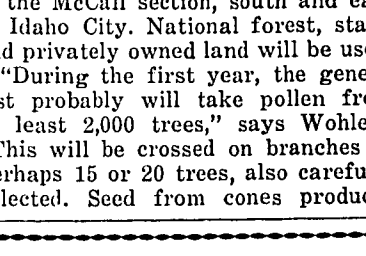

First assignment for Dr. Inman will be the location of test plots and selections of trees for the initial breeding work. Plots will be picked in the McCall section, south and east to Idaho City. National forest, state, and privately owned land will be used.

"During the first year, the geneticist probably will take pollen from at least 2,000 trees," says Wohletz. "This will be crossed on branches of perhaps 15 or 20 trees, also carefully selected. Seed from cones produced by the crosses will be planted in the test plots. Within a year or two seedlings with faster-growing tendencies will begin to show up in those plots."

Year to year operation of the tree breeding program will be guided by a steering committee consisting of a representative from each of the cooperating agencies.

What's happened to gasoline prices?

If you've wondered... here are some things you should know

GASOLINE COST OF LIVING

Gasoline prices have not risen as much as other products. The only fair way to compare is with other things you buy. The U. S. Cost of Living Index shows the over-all cost of living is up 102.3% since 1939. During that time the price of gasoline rose only 62.8% not including taxes.

YOUR GASOLINE DOLLAR

Taxes add about 8¢ to the cost of every gallon. Thus, nearly 30% of your gasoline dollar does not buy gasoline... it's for state and federal tax. These taxes go to help build and improve the roads we all enjoy. However, we must include them as part of the price you pay for a gallon of gasoline.

Research also helps keep gasoline prices down. Standard and the oil industry employ more than 15,000 full-time researchers... invest more than $160 million each year to develop ways to find and produce oil more efficiently, and to make more and better products at a lower cost.

Gasoline quality is much better. There's a performance bonus for motorists in the big improvements that have been made in gasoline over the years. Quality has risen so fast that the regular gasoline you buy today is comparable to the premium gasoline of just ten years ago.

Oil is getting harder to find and more expensive to develop. In 1956 our average cost for a well was $149,000... up 40% over the past five years. In 1956 we completed 101 wells in the Gulf of Mexico where drilling costs can be six times as much as on land.

Competition helps keep gasoline prices low. There are 300 oil refining companies in the U. S. Each tries to make better products and give better service than the others. At the same time the refiner must keep his prices competitive or face the loss of customers.

Here's why gasoline is still one of your biggest bargains: Today the average worker can buy 85% more gasoline with an hour's pay than he could in 1939.

COMPENSATION BACK PAYMENTS POSSIBLE FOR DISABLED VETS Back payments of compensation for service-connected disabilities may be made to one of three different dates, the Veterans Administration asserted in answer to numerous inquiries. VA said retroactive payments are determined by three different sets of circumstances based on the date of application: 1. If the veteran files his application within a year of the date of his release from active service and if VA finds his service-connected disability was severe enough at separation to be compensable, payment may be made retroactive to the day following his release. 2. If the veteran files application within a year from the date of his release, but his disability was not severe enough at release to be compensable, payments may not be made for periods earlier than the date the evidence shows the disability became severe enough to be compensable. 3. If the veteran files his application later than one year after release, payments may be made retroactive to the date of filing. VA said this does not mean there is a time limit for filing. Veterans may apply for disability compensation at any time during their lives.

Accident Report The year's hunting casualty record through October is about the same as last year's, according to a preliminary tabulation. The official reports show 19 gun casualties due to hunting since the opening of dove season on September 1. During the same period in 1956 and 1954 there were 21 such accidents, and in 1955 there were 26. Fatalities were six this year, five last year, eight in 1955, and seven in 1954. Accidental discharge of firearms was listed as the cause of 10 of this year's 19, covering victims in swinging on game, mistaking victim for game, etc. Several reports are incomplete, and all officers in the field as some unofficial reports prove to be inaccurate, when checked. The final report will be issued after the end of the year.

Game Assignments Two game biologists have been assigned to new Fish and Game department posts in southern and southeastern Idaho. Les Trout, one of the Clearwater big game study, has been assigned to the Cassia deer herd area, with headquarters at Burley. Trout served as conservation officer at Caldwell before transferring to the biological study, which he recently completed his part of the big game salting study in northern Idaho, has been assigned to big game management studies in southern Idaho. Soda Springs will be his headquarters. Whitefish Report Reports from the field say whitefish are beginning to gather in schools, and whitefish fishermen should soon start working the deep pools for this popular winter species. Whitefish may be taken in some of the waters that are open the year around, and several special winter seasons are set for taking this species usually through Feb. 28. Anglers should check the printed regulations on the back of the fishing map for details. Please? If you haven't already marked and mailed the report cards that came with your big game tags, the Idaho Fish and Game department will appreciate it if you'll do this as soon as you are through big game hunting for this year. As announced last week the big game tags will be redesigned for next year as there was considerable complaint of both quality and form for this year.

NEW EUROPEAN TOUR PLANNED BY U. OF IDAHO A new European study tour—this one of five emphasis on community life—has been scheduled as part of the University of Idaho summer program, it was announced this week by Dr. J. DIAGNOSIS OF DIABETES Diabetes, which ranks seventh in the list of causes of death by disease in the nation, is a chronic condition which develops when the body can't use some of the food eaten, especially sugars and starches. Diabetes can be fatal unless properly treated. It is estimated that there are more than two million diabetics in the United States and almost half of them are unaware they have the ailment. In other words, one person in every 80 in this country is a diabetic. About 5,000 persons become diabetic each year and about 4,750,000 persons living today are potential diabetics and will develop the disease sometime during their lives. Symptoms of Diabetes The usual symptoms of diabetes are increased thirst, constant hunger, frequent urination, loss of weight, intense itching, easy tiring, pain in fingers and toes, changes in vision and slow healing of cuts and bruises. However, diabetes may be present without any symptoms at all. The most likely targets are persons who are overweight, past 40, or related to diabetes. Diabetes is hereditary and a person called a "carrier" yet be free of the condition. For a woman over 40, the chances of becoming diabetic are about one-third higher than for a man. Diabetes can strike anyone at any time. Cases of the disorder in a nine-day-old boy, in a 99-year-old woman and a 101-year-old man are on record. Control of Diabetes Diabetes can be controlled by diet, exercise and insulin. In some older and milder diabetics, recently developed oral tablets seem to be effective in reducing blood sugar levels but they do not eliminate the need for dietary restrictions. Neglect of the condition may lead to development of complications, the most serious of which are heart disease, failing eyesight, hardening of the arteries, kidney disorders, gangrene, cerebral hemorrhage or diabetic coma. It would be well for everyone to see a physician for a diabetes detection test.

Ground Observer Corps Posts to Be Placed on Ready Reserve Status

Filter Centers and observation posts will be placed on "ready reserve" status on January 1, 1958, according to Sgt. Dave Senko, Sector Sergeant for the Ground Observer Corps in Latah and Whitman Counties.

This announcement was based on information given the following day by State and Territorial Civil Defense Directors in a special Air Defense briefing by Colonel Owen F. Clarke, GOC Project Officer, Headquarters USAF, in Washington, D. C., November 14th. This latest modification will put the GOC throughout the entire nation on "ready reserve."

According to Colonel Clarke, the decision to place the entire GOC on "ready reserve" status was based on three factors, Senko stated:

1. Technological advances in electronic air surveillance systems.

2. Experience gained from tests and exercises in starting GOC units which reverted recently to "ready reserve" status.

3. And the obligation originally accepted by the Air Force to reduce the volume of responsibility of civilian "Skywatchers" as soon as feasible.

In his briefing, Senko stated, Colonel Clarke listed the following elements which make starting of GOC units possible:

A. Completion and successful testing of the Distant Early Warning Line (DEW) across the Arctic Circle and a similar radar chain across Mid-Canada.

b. The progress in developing the operational capabilities of the new Warnings Radar Network over the Atlantic and Pacific oceans with radar equipped aircraft and the Navy surface ships.

WWP Co. Increases Palouse Area Budget For Expansion Program

More than $302,526 has been budgeted by the Washington Water Power Company for expansion and improvement of power facilities in the Palouse Division, it was announced today.

S. Casbolt, WWP Palouse Division manager, said that construction of the project in the division added such items as extensions to customers, distribution line improvements and new communications lines. Local coordination of the project will be handled from the district center completed $200,000 project on the Pullman-Moscow highway.

Casbolt said the company's overall budget for the next year will total more than $33 million. The largest item in the program is a $25,000,000 allocation for the construction of the Snake River project in western Montana. Now about 50 per cent completed, the project will deliver the first of its 400,000 kilowatts of new electricity in the fall of 1959.

Commenting on the 1958 construction budget, the second largest in the company's history, WWP Vice President George Brunzell said the utility is in the third year of a five-year program of expansion and improvement which will approximately double the utility's investment in plants and equipment by 1960. When WWP's Noxon project comes into full production in 1960, the company will be "nearly self-sufficient" in its ability to provide power to customers from its own generating resources, Brunzell stated. He emphasized, however, that new power sources will be needed in 1961 to meet increasing rural, residential, commercial and industrial loads on the company's eastern-Washington, northern-Idaho service system.

WWP is one-fourth partner in the Pacific Northwest Power Company proposal to build a two-dam project on the Snake River, and would have 295,000 kilowatts of new power available from its share of the project upon completion. Progress on the Co's Mountain Sheep-Pleasant Valley project has been started for more than two years, however, by the intervention of public power agencies in PNFCA application for a license to construct the $234 million installation, he said.

"If it hadn't been for this unwarranted obstruction," Brunzell said, "there could have been more than a million kilowatts of new electric energy available by 1960 to aid the Northwest's industrial development."

Area youngsters have been invited to the three-hour coaching clinic sponsored by the Idaho Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, Don Weiskopf, clinic director and member of the Idaho physical education staff, announced this week.

Grade and high school athletes will be coached by Skip Stanley and the entire Idaho football team demonstrated gridiron tactics. Players from the Tri-City area, including Jerry Kramer, Ken Hall, Gary Kenworthy, and other Vandal stars will show how various positions should be played. Moscoso high school coach, coach Seth Parkinson will explain fundamentals of offense. He will be assisted by Idaho basketball players.

Essentials of baseball will be covered by Gaby Williams and Lewiston and Wayne Anderson and Weiskopf of the Idaho faculty. Vandal baseball players will illustrate how to play the game more efficiently.

Coaching clinics will be held at the school on December 10, and those for nearby points should be mailed by December 15.

The postmaster has asked the cooperation of all business firms to forward the mailings of circulars and catalogs until after December 25 to keep the mails clear for the Christmas rush.

Merchants Association to Decorate Streets

Genesee's main business section will receive its annual Christmas holiday look this Saturday afternoon as members of the Genesee Merchants Association prepare to string lights on the streets, decorate the city Christmas tree and add a general Yuletide look to the business section.

In addition to decorating the streets, the merchants are also busy making arrangements with the fire department so that the town will be prepared for the annual visit from Santa Claus. More information on the Christmas party will be published when plans are completed.

Citizens Meet With Council

Approximately 20 persons from the East and Central sewer districts appeared at the last meeting of the city council to discuss ways and means by which they might get sewer service near their residences.

The most recent attempt to locate sewer disposal facilities was lost when the $33,000 bond issue that would have provided the necessary funds for such an undertaking was defeated. This marked the first time in two months that such a proposal went lacking for support.

Members of the council stated that they will discuss this matter further and see what action would be feasible if it was added that another sewer issue will be for the third time, brought before the electors. This would not be done until next year but would be voted on so that the work could start in the early spring should the issue be approved.

The council also discussed the fact that face those who are attempting to revive the bond issue is trying to find why the people, especially those in the West end are opposed to it.

New Section of Water Main to Be Installed

A new section of six-inch water main is going to be added to replace the old one in the city water department. The project was approved by the city council Monday afternoon.

The pipe will extend from the corner of the Catholic school to the Vera Heinrich home and will serve at least six patrons nearby.

It is expected that the work on the project will begin within a week or ten days depending on when the pipe arrives and if the weather helps. The project will be a two-fold purpose; first, it will allow the city to have a reserve pipe in case of a section of town, and second, will provide better fire protection since the new pipe will give increased pressure.

RADIOACTIVE TRACERS BEING USED IN PLANT STUDY

Radioactive species of elements often called "radioisotopes"—useful because they emit detectable radiations—are opening new vistas of scientific research which will serve as a threefold tool for a new era in agricultural science.

"With radioactive tracers, we are hoping to establish why and how plants grow by following the tracers through the plant systems," Dr. J. V. Jordan, associate professor of agricultural chemistry, said this week. "In the past, such investigations as now under way would have been impossible."

Dr. Jordan, who received his master's and doctorate degrees from Oregon State college, has attended the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies. He has been a chemist for the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, and is now working on specialized phases of the problem.

"This is the first time a radioactive experiment has been run on a private farm in Idaho," Dr. Jordan said. On the Malby Anthony farm at Joel, a soil and plant analysis is being made, using radioactive phosphorus as a means of tracing water movement through soil and the nutrient.

Attend 1957 National 4-H Congress

An aspiration shared by many Idaho 4-H'ers will be fulfilled for the top ranking club members when they arrive in Chicago on Dec. 1 for the opening of the 36th National 4-H Congress. They are the 1957 state winners in their special 4-H projects and their awards are being presented to them at the Congress. They will be among the 2,000 participants attending the five-day event.

Barbara Silvers, Lary Cross, Carol Crow, Eugene Kasper... home improv... entomology

Barbara Silvers, 17, of Jerome county, is winner of the way to a successful career as a home-maker. She was named state winner in the 4-H Home Improvement project. Her award is a flower and her reward is an expense paid trip to the Club Congress provided by Sears Roebuck Foundation.

A 4-H'er for eight years, Barbara found that her own home is the ideal laboratory to test her skills. After careful study and hard work, she can look with pride to the family furniture she designed and refinished.

Barbara's achievements also include attractively designed picture frames, indirect lighting and safer, more convenient floor plugs. She earned over 20 district Blue 4-H awards in clothing, food preparation, canning, and electric program.

During the past two years, she has been indirect leader of her local club. When the bug bit Lary Cross, 16, of Jerome county, he was named state winner in the 4-H Entomology program. He dreamed of winning the state award and a trip to Chicago. Now after seven years in club work the dream came true.

Lary's Holstein herd had to be sold when the farm was incorporated into the city limits. Left with no 4-H project, he investigated electricity and welding course. The prize-winning machinery was shown at the Latah County Fair.

He served as president and vice president of the Busy Clovers 4-H Club the past two years. In addition, Eugene was a member of the district-winning Genesee high school basketball team.

These 4-H award programs are under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service.

Women Workers Important to Economy

Women workers are no longer just fill-ins, but are part of the nation's permanent labor force. Rep. Gracie Foster told members of the Business and Professional Women's Club at a meeting in Boise last week.

"The chances are that today's teen age girl will spend about twenty years in paid employment, part of it before she marries, and part of it after her children are grown," Rep. Foster said. "Her paycheck will help maintain the strong demand for new products which keeps American economy on the upswing."

She said the growing place of "womanpower" in the country emphasized the need for improved vocational guidance for young girls, so they would have the necessary skills to earn a decent living. It also makes more important the drives for equality of opportunity in employment and equal pay for equal work for women, she declared.

Rep. Foster recalled that it was the support of the Caldwell BPW club, to which she belongs, which first inspired her to run for Congress and she urged other BPW clubs to get behind women they felt were "qualified" for any type of public office.

"It isn't completely a man's world any more," she said. "Men are already willing to accept a woman in either a good job or in public office provided she has the ability to fill the spot."

She said she approved of women's fight for "status" but felt they should be equally concerned about "stature." "Lack of preparedness for a job at hand may keep a woman from getting it," she stated.

BE PREPARED FOR WINTER DRIVING SAYS SAFETY EXPERT

"Like money in the bank for a rainy day," is the way Harold Davis, Idaho Traffic Safety Director, described a motorist's preparation for the winter months ahead. Davis pointed to several seasonal tip-offs which, when heeded, will save the motorist from headaches and grief when winter conditions prevail.

The State Traffic Safety Director listed the following among the most outstanding warning signs for the motorist: 1. Lower Temperature Readings these days are a tip-off to even lower temperatures in the near future. The seasoned motorist is changing oil to a lighter grade and protecting his radiator with antifreeze.

2. Reduced visibility occasioned by earlier darkness and adverse weather conditions are a tip-off to even worse weather to come. Make certain that windshield wiper blades and arms and defrosting equipment be made ready to operate upon such emergency.

3. Frost is a tip-off to the falling snow and the formation of ice on streets and highways during coming months. To assure reliability to traction on slippery roads, tires should be of good tread, and brakes should be of tip-top shape. Reinforced tire chains should be carried in every vehicle as "first aid" equipment for use when needed for dangerous snow conditions.

"Investing in safe automobile equipment and developing safe driving habits will yield dividends which cannot be obtained in any other way," Mr. Davis declared.

"These dividends include peace of mind in knowing you have done right comfort for you and your passengers because you have protected yourself against the mistakes of other motorists because you are ready to deal effectively with any emergency," he concluded.

4-H CLUB WORK BRINGS COLLEGE FUNDS

As a result of excellence in 4-H club work, a university of Idaho freshman and a Heyburn high school girl will have a total of $2,000 to help them through their college careers. Both are national winners in 4-H projects.

Dan Pence, Mackay, freshman in the University's college of Forestry, received word this week that he had won a $1,000 scholarship for further study. Junitta Taylor, high school senior at Heyburn, was notified at the same time that she will receive $400 as winner in national competition in 4-H club clothing.

Donors of the scholarships are respectively the Honorific Division of Texttron, Inc. of Port Chester, N. Y., and Coats and Clark, Inc. of New York, N. Y.

The Genesee News, Genesee, Idaho, December 13, 1957 3

State 4-H leaders at the University's College of Forestry. Young Pence says he can put the $1,000 to good use in furthering his education. His father runs a small grocery in Mackay, and there are three younger brothers who must also start on the ladder of education as they become of college age. Jobs with the United States Forest Service during summers gave Pence enough money to get started at university this fall, but he has to have additional money to pay further expenses. Authorities at the University say his chances of completing four years of college with the covered high grade point average are much improved by the scholarship which will take financial worries off his mind for this first and probably most difficult year of the four.

LEARNING how a gun works is part of every hunter safety training course. Here, George Nichols, Idaho Fish and Game Department conservation educator, demonstrates the mechanism of a bolt action rifle for Irene Brady, 14, during a course re-shows 109 courses processed. These were fairly evenly divided among the usual common violations of the hunting laws. There were 34 big game, 37 upland bird, and 31 waterfowl cases. In addition, 20 hunters were arraigned for failure to stop at a checking station, 19 for shooting from vehicle or public road, and four miscellaneous. Attempts to use resident licenses by ineligible persons brought 27 persons to court, failure to tag beaver pelts accounted for two, and one outfitter attempted to operate without a license. Fines totaled $3,902, half of which goes to the county where each case occurred. The heaviest fine was one for $250 levied for killing a trumpeter swan.

The Landowner-Sportsman Council reports that more than two thousand Sportsman's Pledge card stubs have been turned in this season. The purpose of this campaign was to place the sportsman on record in recognition of his intention to respect private property and public safety as a way of encouraging landholders to permit him to hunt. Reports from farmers and others commenting on the program have been encouraging, the Council reports. Walter Little, chairman, would appreciate receiving any additional pledge card stubs that may be on hand in any of the distribution centers. They may be mailed to the council in care of the Idaho Fish and Game department in Boise.

There is an historic tradition in America's attitude toward firearms. They represent a priceless freedom won by our forefathers, which is reflected in the memorable stories of our early pioneers. It lives in our history books and our literature. We find it in the movies, in radio, in television, and in the active participation of millions of Americans in our various shooting sports. will be better than hindsight when about half of the state's 40,000 hunters start calling on their vendors for 1958 licenses to cover the last week of the season, Jan. 1 through January 7. The Idaho Fish and Game license section has cleared their books and order supplies of the new license issue. Very few have compiled. We are permitted to supply new licenses only when the surety bond is sufficient to cover 1957 licenses retained, as well as 1958 licenses ordered. The best thing is to keep only a few of the 1957 licenses to cover possible calls until the end of the year, and return all the rest with your order for the 1958 licenses you expect to need. The heaviest demand for the new licenses is in the southwestern and south central Idaho and in the Lewiston area, but there will be some call throughout the state. And, all rumors to the contrary notwithstanding, the 1957 licenses positively will expire on Dec. 31, and the 1958 issue must be used if you hunt on Jan. 1 or after. The current waterfowl stamp, however, does remain good.

The arrest report for November shows 109 courses processed. These were fairly evenly divided among the usual common violations of the hunting laws. how well trained the person who handles it is. For this reason, instruction in safe gun handling is being given in school and organization groups throughout the nation. Every parent sooner or later will be faced with the request for a real gun for Christmas. Pending that day, or at least at that time, every parent should see to it that the child is well trained in firearms and firearms safety.

In many homes there is at least one cherished old gun. It may be a flintlock from the Revolution, a cap-and-ball from the Civil War, a modern military rifle, or merely a well-used specimen which is or was someone's special possession. If your youngster has a proper sense of responsibility and knowledge of safe gun handling, his first real gun will become, for him, his most cherished possession.

THEY'RE COOKING HAMS GIVEN BY HOME AGENT The time it takes to bake a ham depends on the process it comes through before it goes over the fire. The Latah county home agent, Mrs. Ruth Shane, gave some pointers this week in view of the fact that many households will be eating ham for holiday occasions.

Mrs. Shane pointed out that hams come in three styles—wooden, iron, and tin. The wooden hams are the best to eat, and canned. Here's the system for uncured and ready to eat types. Remove wrapping from the ham, but do not remove the rind. Rewrap the ham loosely in heavy baking paper. Place fat side up in a shallow, uncovered baking pan. If you have a rack, place the ham on the rack. Allow 20 minutes per pound for small hams, 25 to 30 minutes for a 12- to 14 pound ham, and 35 to 45 minutes for a 16- to 20 pound ham. Half an hour before the ham is ready, remove paper and cover with a glass. Bake at 325 degrees.

To carve a ham, first cut a slice from the side of the ham opposite the cushion side. Turn ham so the shank end is to the right of the carver, and cut out side. Make first cut straight down to bone about six inches from the shank end. Cut next to the bone and remove wedge of meat. Slice down, working toward the left, cutting to the bone. Remove enough slices to serve your guests. Then loosen all slices by a cut beneath them. Turn the ham from the other side in the same manner.

WWP Pays First Part of Tax The first half of a $71,337 property tax bill in Latah County for 1957 is being paid this week by the Washington Water Power Company. It was announced today by WWP's Moscow District Manager, John Murray. Murray said the company's total property taxes in the state of Idaho this year are more than $1,261,000 on company's facilities in northern Idaho. The increase of approximately $148,900 over 1956. Biggest of the company's individual property tax payments for 1957 is in Bonner county, where WWP's tax bills have jumped from $250,000 in 1956 to $465,205 this year, due primarily to the completion in 1952 of the company's Cabinet Gorge Dam on the Clark Fork River. Federal dams pay no taxes. Murray said that Idaho and Nez Perce counties would also benefit when construction of the two-dam power project on the middle Snake River by the Pacific Northwest Power Project Company is completed. The project would produce 1,183,000 kilowatts of electricity and provide considerable local tax benefits in the area. Nez Perce County is the largest Nez Perce site being backed by federal environmental advocates, which pay no taxes. By counties, WWP's 1957 property tax bills in Idaho are: Benewah, $29,996; Kootenai, $244,839; Bonner, $456,205; Clearwater, $45,513; Idaho, $50,324; Latah, $71,337; Lewis, $32,644; Nez Perce, $191,732; and Shoshone, $135,284.

Choosing Gilts For Brood Sows Needs Special Care A gilt that is to be a good brood sow, must be active and sound on her feet and legs. Homer Fuller, Latah County agent, advises swine producers to select gilts that have good quality bone, wide, flat hocks, and straight feet. He says it is wise to steer clear of animals with small inside toes or long, weak pasterns. The under the gilt must be sound if she is to develop into a productive brood sow, says Wade Wells, livestock specialist of the University of Idaho extension service. Choose gilts who have 12 or more teats. Some have only 10 or 11. That number is acceptable. The head of a gilt is a good indicator of the kind of mother she will make. Wells said. A gilt's head should be typical for the breed, with bright, open eyes and a neat ear. A sow with impaired vision or hearing is a poor specimen. Always select the larger gilts in the litter, the agent and specialist recommend. A small gilt may be just as good in most respects, but an inexperienced breeder might not be able to tell. A gilt's head should be as big as her offspring. It is advisable to choose gilts from litters on which production records have been kept. The Pacific Northwest swine program a sow must farrow and raise a litter of eight or more pigs on an official 66-day weight gain test. The sow must produce a litter of at least 320 pounds. A sow may be admitted to registry when she has raised 15 lb. piglets or five two-star piglets, or 10 one-star piglets. Mrs. Kuehl Entertains Monday Bridge Club The Monday Bridge Club met with Mrs. D. G. Kuehl on Monday of this week for their Christmas party, gift exchange, and no-hostess dinner. High School, attended the Unity of Idaho one year where she was affiliated with Alpha Phi sorority. Santa Claus Arrives Saturday, Dec. 21 Biggest news of the week is the report that Santa Claus has agreed to pay a pre-Christmas visit to Genesee and greet all the little boys and girls of the community. According to word received from the North Pole late this week, Santa said he will arrive at the City Christmas Tree at 2:30 p. m. on Saturday, December 21. Since his reindeer must get all the rest they can before making their big trip Christmas Eve, Santa Claus said that the Genesee Firemen have offered to provide him transportation to and from the Christmas party. Santa also said that he will have a sack of candy and fruit for all the little children who come to visit him Saturday afternoon.

McAlmonds Send Holiday Greetings Mr. and Mrs. Lyle McAlmond, former Genesee residents who are now residing in Texas, sent their best wishes to all their friends in this area in a Christmas card that arrived at the Genesee office this week. "Extend our warmest wishes for a happy holiday season to our many friends in Genesee," the couple wrote. They then resorted to some Texas talk by adding, "We see by the weather reports that a little heat would come in handy up there. Oh well, everyone can't be lucky and live in Texas."

LAND USE, VALUE STUDY A PROJECT AT U. OF IDAHO

A new research project to study land value, land use, and economic effects of highway development in the public domain was jointly announced this week by Dr. D. E. Theophilus, president of the University of Idaho, and Bryce Bennett, state highway engineer of the Idaho Department of Highways. Also announced was the appointment of Dr. Alfred N. Nybrotten, former Idaho faculty member and since 1948 professor and agricultural economist at West Virginia University, as research professor and project leader.

President Theophilus said that the university regents had approved at their Boise meeting this week authorization both for the university to enter into agreement with the Idaho Department of Highways for conducting the cooperative research project, and for the appointment of Dr. Nybrotten. Funds will be provided by the highway department.

"This study will evaluate the economic effect of highway construction on the land value and land use of public lands," said Bennett. "One of the main standards for determining equitable sharing of costs." Dean David D. Kendrick of the college of business administration in whose division the research will be conducted, will be chairman of a supervisory committee for the project. Also on the committee will be the deans of the college of agriculture, engineering, forestry and mines, and the graduate school.

"This joint project with the Idaho Highway department is to turn a cooperative effort with the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads," Dean Kendrick pointed out.

"Similar cooperative studies are being conducted in other states for urban, rural and other types of highway construction. It was felt that Idaho is particularly suited for the study on construction in the public domain because of the large areas of land in the state coming under this classification. The various studies will be combined by the Bureau of Public Roads in a report to Congress."

Dr. Nybrotten, who will be in charge of the Idaho project, is not only a professor and associate agricultural economist at the University of Idaho, he was on the faculty from 1939 to 1948. He left here to accept a full professorship at West Virginia. For 20 years, in addition to teaching duties, he has conducted research in economic fields, mostly in marketing and land matters. He did extensive research in land economics

Common materials are sawdust, shavings, shales, and chopped straw. Mechanical theory, he says, is that the body heat of the birds, which is about 107 degrees. This warmth keeps the house warm only if there is proper insulation.

Another factor is moisture, a problem in the poultrymen during winter. One hundred hens give off about five pounds each day. Fans remove it. The fan system works on the principle that the moisture-holding capacity doubles with each 20-degree increase in air temperature. Cool air brought into the warm poultry house picks up moisture. Fans remove the warm air and the moisture. In order to do a satisfactory job, Black said, the fans should move two cubic feet of air each minute per bird.

If things go wrong in spite of insulation and fans, Black suggests checking the following points: 1. Not enough birds in the place to warm the house warm. Figure on 1.5 square feet per bird for light breeds and 2.5 square feet for heavy birds. 2. Too much cold air coming in at a few spots rather than through more openings, with less at each spot. 3. Litter must be dry when put into the house. 4. Too much window space. The correct area is one square foot for 20 square feet of floor.

EXAMINING MINK SKILLS IS one of the winter tasks of the Idaho Fish and Game department's fur survey. Here Biologist Roger Williams checks the age of animal trapped during the season for a comparison with standard mink populations in order to determine the effect of the trapping season on the Idaho pink supply. Studies of this kind keep the harvest in proportion to the actual production.

FISH AND GAME NEWS

Rush Starts

Christmas is not the only rush going on during these last weeks before the year's end. This year the waterfowl hunting season runs seven days into January, and about half of Idaho's waterfowl hunters will be looking for 1958 hunting licenses before the year's end. The first shipment is going out to vendors this week, and includes a supply for all who cleared their books and got their orders in by December 13. Later orders will be processed as rapidly as possible. All should remember that the 1957 licenses expire Dec. 31 and the new issue must be used on and after Jan. 1. The licenses may be sold, of course, as soon as they are received.

Thanks Expressed

Winter is records and summary time for the Idaho Fish and Game Department personnel, which reminds us that this is "Thank You" time, too. We want to express our appreciation for the willing cooperation of hunters at big game and upland bird checking stations this fall. The information collected during the period will be compiled and summarized within the next few weeks, and the essentials will be released to the public as soon as ready.

Snowed Under

Thanks also to the thousands of hunters who have been mailing in their tag reports during the past couple of weeks. The clerk who is processing these reports is "snowed under" by about 3000 a day, but there are no complaints from him or the game management division. The sooner the reports are in, the sooner the information will be available for use in connection with winter surveys. All hunters still having tags are requested to request to fill in the form and mail the card. The Idaho Fish and Game Department pays the postage.

Trapping Review

Trappers are reminded that the mink, otter and fox seasons all close on Dec. 31. The beaver season will remain open to allow a spring harvest of lower elevation beaver as a control measure, and the muskrat seasons will remain open in a few areas. Trappers should check the printed regulations for particulars. Trappers also are reminded that the trapping license runs from July 1 through the following June 30, so the current license should be retained in possession.

News release from the New Mexico Game and Fish News reprints a Colorado report of a bull elk head, "one of the largest ever taken in the U. S." which scored 342 points and a fraction. Such a head would make the Boone and Crockett club list, but one brought to the Idaho Fish and Game Department office last week appears to score a bit better.

"Old Number Five" (a rack of antlers picked up by a department man in Nez Perce County months after the hunter had abandoned the trophy on his way out of the woods) made fifth place in the all-time list in 1951 with a score of 390, plus. Since then numerous good trophies have been added to the list. The rack brought in last week is a year old, and apparently scores out at about 355. Meanwhile, we wonder if a 400 head is hanging on some barn wall

BUYING LOTS BY MAIL

DANGEROUS, EDITORS WARN

New schemes for selling real estate by mail are growing, according to the editors of Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine, with the result that many thousands of people who think they are buying a nice retirement spot wind up with a treeless and raw piece of land, often far from highways or towns.

Ordinarily, anyone buying real estate near home knows what he is getting. Buying property hundreds of miles away and sight unseen through advertisements and fancy brochures can be dangerous without thorough investigation.

Do you know who the promoter is and what his performance record is? Does price mentioned cover a large enough lot for building purposes or will you be required to buy more than one lot to comply with zoning requirements? How far is the property from highways, towns, schools, and churches, etc.? What is the value of land in that area? Are there sanitary sewers, or must septic tanks be put in? Is the land dry or must it be drained? What about land taxes and local zoning restrictions? What are the full details on financing you lot? The answers to these questions should tell you something about the development. Many times you pay almost as much for a lot in the development as you would for an entire acre in the area. And, although the ads may show palm-studded beaches, lovely girls on water skis and a community house with golf course, all that may be there is what has always been there—scrub palmetto and a muddy pond.

What you do not see is whether or not this is the spot you really want. Make a personal visit to look at it, even if this means driving hundreds of miles to a spot where you live near the area to be inspected for you.

Whatever you do, know before you invest.

YOUR Social Security

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question: I broke my leg two months before I can go back to work. Can I draw my disability benefits for at least 6 months? Answer: No. In order to qualify for disability free or payment of 50 your disability you must be expected to continue for an indefinite time.

In order to estimate whether or not this is the spot you really want, make a personal visit to look at it, even if this means driving hundreds of miles to a spot where you live near the area to be inspected for you.

Does Your Family, Inc. have an annual report?

In some ways it certainly makes a lot of sense to look at your family as a business.

For instance, businesses set aside money each year to meet their future needs. Your family should, too, because you'll have a lot of future needs... college educations for the children... a new house... a retirement fund.

You might call the money you'll need for these things a reserve fund, future operating expenses. And you should start building that reserve right now.

One of the best ways to do this is by regular purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds. They're a safe, sure investment that's backed by the strength of the greatest nation on earth.

And now they're better than ever. Every U. S. Series E Savings Bond purchased since February 1, 1957 pays 3 1/2% interest when held to maturity. It matures earlier, too—in only 8 years and 11 months—and pays higher interest in the earlier years.

So this year look at your family's finances with a businessman's eye. And make it your New Year's Resolution to start building a fund for the future by buying Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan at work—or regularly where you bank.

SAFE AS AMERICA... U. S. SAVINGS BONDS

Christmas season is a time of year when most persons are happy, and when homes and stores are gaily decorated with Christmas trees, colored lights and decorations. It can become a tragic season if a few simple precautions—particularly around the Christmas tree—are not taken.

A good start for your Christmas tree and for the safety of your family is to set up the tree in a water-containing holder and then keep that holder filled. Make a fresh saw cut across the trunk base before setting up the tree.

Don't attach too many light strings to one outlet, and be sure that insulation is not worn or that sockets are loose. A blown fuse is the signal of a dangerous overload. Be sure fuses are of the right size, and never use a penny in a fuse socket.

Watch Candles For safety's sake, don't use lighted candles on the Christmas tree or with other decorations. Place the tree well away from the fireplace or other location where it is exposed to sparks or strong heat. Be sure the candles are flame resistant, and be careful not to hang metal foil over wires or tree lights.

One further safety tip is to keep a fire extinguisher handy on Christmas Eve or Christmas morning, whenever your family open gifts—for disposal of gift wrappings. Keep these tissue wrappings away from the fireplace or other heat source.

Just a few precautions like these can help keep the Christmas season a happy one.

ADVICE ON DISABILITY INSURANCE PAYMENTS UNDER SOCIAL SECURITY

Disabled workers who were eligible in July 1957 or social security disability insurance benefits and who fail to apply before the end of December will lose up to $65.00, Charles I. Schottland, Commissioner of Social Security, said this week.

Mr. Schottland pointed out that under the law eligible persons who make applications for disability insurance benefits before the end of December can be paid benefits back as far as July, when such benefits first became available.

For those who file after December no back benefits can be paid. The law provides that in such cases payments can begin no earlier than the month in which the claim is filed.

Disability payments range from $30 to $108.50 a month, depending on the worker's average monthly earnings under social security.

Persons who are eligible for disability insurance benefits are payable to persons between 50 and 65 years of age who have worked under social security in the past but are now so severely disabled that they cannot do any substantial gainful work.

To qualify for these benefits, a disabled worker must have social security credit for at least 5 out of 10 years before he became disabled, including at least a year and a half out of the 3 years past before his disability began.

Applications for the benefits can be made at any social security office. If a disabled person is unable to go to the office he may write or telephone for information or someone else may call for him. The Social Security office serving this area is located at 307 Weisberger building, Lewiston, Idaho.

SAFETY RULES FOR BOY'S FIRST GUN

If you are giving your son a gun for Christmas, don't just hand it to him with the simple admonition "be careful," warn the editors of Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine. You should see that he gets adequate instruction and that he uses the gun only under the supervision of an experienced adult.

Competent instruction is widely available today through rifle clubs, many of which are in high school and junior highs. Membership in such a club solves the problem of where a boy may do his shooting after he has learned how.

In addition to this basic instruction, there are five safety rules which your son should learn by heart for his future well-being:

1. Treat every gun as if it were loaded.
2. Keep the muzzle pointed in a safe direction—away from everyone, including yourself.
3. Be sure of your target.
4. Be sure of your backstop. Backstops have one purpose—to stop the bullet. Continued firing may wear some away.
5. Know your gun and ammunition.

Only a clean gun in good condition is safe. And make sure your ammunition is the right kind for the gun you are using.

SOCIAL SECURITY COVERAGE FOR TEACHERS

An agreement to bring Idaho public school teachers under social security coverage, retroactively to January 1, 1956, will become effective December 31, 1957.

Marlow V. Wootton, Manager of the Lewiston Social Security Office, said all teachers must have a social security number recorded with their school offices so that their wages may be properly reported. The State Auditor's office advised that many teachers have not obtained or reported their social security number on preliminary reports filed with him to be used in preparing individual earnings records for the retroactive period.

Teachers who find it inconvenient to contact their local social security office to make application for a number, may obtain application forms from their local post offices.

To wish you Joy at Christmas . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Fickens

One reason neither side will win the continuous war between the sexes is that there is so much fraternizing with the enemy.

A hardy fixture of the old sod left Ireland and came to live in America. After a year he sent for his wife. "Goodness," she exclaimed on her first day, "but don't you talk funny in this country?"
"You think they talk funny now?" exclaimed her husband. "Why you 'Genesee' heard 'em when I first got here."

These days, it seems, there are too many people in too many cars in too much of a hurry going in too many directions to nowhere for nothing.

Modern idea of roughing it: Driving a car with a standard shift.

1958 PROGRAM FOR IDAHO FARM BUREAU "With a Farm Bureau Program for the development of machinery and procedures through which farmers may solve more problems locally, it is significant that an authority such as Dr. Kenneth Hood of the American Farm Bureau staff in Chicago is to be one of the speakers and instructors at the second state-wide Idaho Farm Bureau Leadership training Conference," John H. Webb, Pocatello, secretary-treasurer, IFBF, said this week. Dr. Hood is director of the Commodity Division and Assistant Secretary of the AFBF. The conference is scheduled to be held at Hotel Boise January 6 and 7. Other speakers and instructors for the Farm Bureau Conference include: Dr. R. Long, Chicago, director of field services division, AFBF; Leonard Johnson, Salt Lake City, Western Regional organization assistant, AFBF; and Idaho Farm Bureau staff members. About 125 county Farm Bureau leaders are expected to attend the conference. Following the successful procedure used at Pocatello last year, this attendance will be limited to designated county leaders. These leaders will have the opportunity to learn those things which will assist them in their own positions and in turn, each shall be charged with the responsibility of teaching a similar course to county Farm Bureau leaders at a county school in his own county shortly thereafter. "In this manner, achievements in leadership training are expected to equal or exceed last year's program, which more than 700 volunteer Farm Bureau leaders received training in their positions of service," Mr. Webb added. YOUR Social Security QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS Question: I worked part-time under Social Security while I was going to school and had a Social Security number. I am a self-employed lawyer. Do I have to get a new Social Security number? Answer: No, if you still have your original card, you should use that. However, if you have lost your card, you should apply at your Social Security office for a duplicate. Each person should have only one number. Happy New Year Day May all the lovely things you've done, And may the kindly things you've done, To lighten others ways, Shine down upon you like the stars, In HAPPY NEW YEAR DAYS. —Bert Gamble A Subscription To The Genesee News Is A Good Investment

IDAHO'S HEALTH By Your State Board of Health The danger of carbon monoxide—the silent killer which claims many lives each year—is increased during winter months when ventilation from heaters is decreased and when there are more hazards from heating facilities and automobiles. Carbon monoxide is formed when solid, liquid or gaseous fuel is incompletely burned. It may be produced during the burning process in space heaters and hot water heaters, during combustion of coal and oil furnaces and stoves, and during combustion of gasoline in automobiles. As temperatures go down, windows are kept closed in our homes and, frequently, in our automobiles. This increases the danger of carbon monoxide. Precautions Necessary A few proper precautions can do a great deal to reduce the hazards of carbon monoxide. When operating a car, remember not to run the engine in a closed garage. Leave the car windows open a little when driving as leaks sometimes develop in the engine exhaust to allow carbon monoxide to accumulate inside the car. If you feel a headache or dizziness developing on a long trip, ventilate your car even more thoroughly. You may be suffering ill effects from small amounts of the gas. Don't run the engine when sitting in a parked car, either, unless the windows are open, and do have your car's exhaust system checked frequently for defects. Gas burning hot water or room heaters should be of proper design, should be properly located, and must be vented to the outside. Ordinary gas cooking stoves do not require a vent, but they should not be used for room heating. First Aid If you find a person overcome with carbon monoxide poisoning, open doors and windows wide, and remove the patient to fresh air at once. If breathing has stopped, start artificial respiration or use inhalator immediately, and continue until natural breathing is restored. Have someone call a doctor. Meantime, keep the person as quiet and warm as possible. Phone your news items to 5-3221.

COCOANUT DREAM COOKIES

A few of you may still be wanting to try a different cookie recipe for a New Years Eve snack. Here is a good recipe that you might like to try:

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
1 cup flour

Put above mixture in 8x8 inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Allow to cool while preparing the following:

1 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tbl. flour
1 cup walnut meats
2 eggs
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
1 1/2 cups cocoanut
1 tsp. baking powder

Beat sugar, eggs, and vanilla; then flour, salt and baking powder. Mix in cocoanut and walnuts. Spread evenly over the baked crust and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Cool slightly before cutting into small squares. This makes 25 squares.

SPORTSMEN'S CLUBS ALERTED FOR ESSAY CONTEST JUDGING

Eighty-eight wildlife conservation essays from 13 Idaho schools have been sent to the appropriate sportsmen's clubs for preliminary judging in a contest sponsored by the Idaho Wildlife Federation, it was announced this week.

H. T. Jones, Secretary, said additional essays are in the hands of a few clubs which sponsored active local contests of their own, in compliance with the general rules. The winning essay from all local contests will be judged during January, and are to be submitted to the state contest by Feb. 1, Jones said. Local winners are to be mailed to Jones at 201 Maple Street, Boise.

Equal prizes are offered to state winners in the junior and senior divisions, ranging from $25 for the first prizes to honorable mentions at $5 each, Jones said. The subject for the essays was "Wildlife: Conservation through Harvest."

At 10:00 a. m. the telephone at a reception desk of a large hotel rang frantically.

"What time does your bar open?" "At twelve noon, Sir," answered the clerk.

At 11 o'clock it rang again. "Say, Mac, when do you bar open up?" asked the same voice.

"At twelve noon, sir. This time the clerk was emphatic.

At 11:45 the telephone rang again. "Shay, fren, pleesh tell me . . . scuz me . . . pleesh tell me when wosh yer bar open up?"

"At 12 noon, Sir," the clerk answered, "but Im afraid that in your condition you won't be allowed to come in."

"Come in. I wanna get out."

Isn't at the Truth? By the time we get old enough not to care what anybody says about us, nobody says anything!

Turkey Wings Make A Good Meal

Turkey wings are meaty and tasty. As a variation from the general turkey meals of the holiday season, Mrs. Ruth J. Shane, the home agent of Latah County puts in a word for wings fricassee.

One wing is a generous serving. Four will be ample for four people.

Here's the recipe. Four wings, 3 tablespoons cooking fat, 2 1/2 cups of water, 3/4 teaspoon salt, pepper, two tablespoons flour. Brown the wings in fat. Add water, salt, and pepper. Cover pan. Simmer until wings are tender—about two hours, turning once. Add more water if needed. Blend with a little cold water and add to cooking water for thickening. Cook 15 minutes longer.

Turkey wings creole is another popular dish. Take four turkey wings, a mixture of salt, pepper, and flour, three tablespoons cooking fat, one chopped onion, 1/2 cup chopped green pepper, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, one bay leaf, cayenne pepper, one clove garlic, and 2 1/2 cups cooked or canned tomatoes.

Dip wings in flour mixture; brown in hot fat in large fry pan 20 minutes. Add onion and green pepper and cook these in fat a few minutes. Add other ingredients and cover pan. Simmer about two hours until wings are tender. Add a little water if needed to prevent sticking.

DAHMEN'S GARAGE

June 1, the anniversary date will be June 1, 1958.

The dividend declarations do not include the nonparticipating post-Korea type of GI insurance since the law makes no provision for dividend payments on those policies.

World War I and II policyholders who will share in the dividends are requested not to inquire in advance about payments so as not to delay the processing time.

The two dividend declarations are:
1. National Service Life Insurance (NSLI), which originated in World War II, $240,000,000 payable to approximately 5,000,000 policyholders.
2. U. S. Government Life Insurance (USGLI), which originated in World War I, $22,000,000 payable to approximately 300,000 policyholders.

Dividends will be paid to both and permanent plan policyholders. The NSLI policyholders should receive about the same dividend as year.

The USGLI permanent plan policyholders also will receive approximately the same amount in 1958 as in 1957.

Term USGLI policyholders may receive slightly higher dividends in 1958, because, among other factors, the mortality and disability experience for this group is becoming favorable, VA said.
