Carlson-Bennett Wedding Dec. 15

Patricia Amy Carlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar R. Carlson, of Genesee, was married to Gary V. Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bennett, of Moscow, December 15.

The Rev. Lowell D. Messley performed the candlelight, double ring ceremony at 8:00 p. m. at the Genesee Community Church.

The altar was beautifully decorated with tall, white tapers and red poinsettias and flanked with baskets of white chrysanthemums and gladiolus.

Candlelighters were Robert Bennett and Robert Lee of Moscow. Mrs. Harold Slutz of Moscow, sang "I Love You Truly," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Through The Years." She was accompanied by Mrs. Elvon Hampton of Genesee, who also played the traditional wedding music.

The bride wore a Venetian lace and tulle-over-satin gown. It had a fitted bodice of lace with a modified V neckline and long pointed sleeves fastened at the wrist with lace covered buttons. The floor length skirt fell into a chapel length train. Her tulle veil cascaded from a pearl tiara. She carried a brown-throated orchid and miniature mums on a white Bible. To continue a family tradition, she wore her maternal grandmother's pearls.

Mrs. Donald Johnson, of Moscow, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Deloris Ochs of Genesee, long time friend of the bride; Kelda Johnson of Moscow and Camile Shelton, of Boise, sorority sisters. They wore identical sheath dresses of green changeable taffeta with tapered short bouffant overskirts and matching wedding ring veils. They carried white fur muffs with a large red poinsettia on the front.

The two flower girls, Deborah and Kathleen Johnson, nieces of the bride, wore white nylon chiffon dresses over red taffeta slips and little red wedding ring cap veils.

Guy Bennett, Jr., of Clarkston, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer. Best man was Kenneth Anderson, of Kamiah. Ushers were Robert Bennett of Moscow, and Marvin Moser and Howard Bruegeman of Genesee.

The bride's mother wore a beige, brown and gold brocade satin sheath dress with jacket and matching beige hat and brown shoes and gloves. Her corsage was of red rosebuds.

The bridegroom's mother wore a champagne sheath dress with jacket and matching hat. Her gloves and shoes were brown. She wore a corsage of red rosebuds.

The reception was held in the church basement. A three-tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom centered the lace covered table.

Presiding at the table were Mrs. James Busch of Genesee, and Mrs. Wm. Penick, of Spokane. Salley Crockett of Boise and Mrs. Robert Lee of Moscow, served the cake. Salley and Betsy Penick, nieces of the bride, served the groom's cake. Judy Giedl of Lewiston was in charge of the guest book. Mrs. Sheldon Russell, of Genesee, and Peggy Clark, of Moscow, was in charge of the gift table.

Background music, on the piano was provided by Marilyn Sather.

The bride will receive her degree from the University of Idaho in June. She is affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega sorority. The groom attended school in Sedgwick, Alberta, and graduated from Lewiston high school, after which he served four years with the Navy. He is currently employed with the Bennett Lumber Product, Inc. at Moscow.

For her going away outfit, the new Mrs. Bennett wore a turquoise wool suit with an otter fur collar and hat and brown accessories. For her corsage she wore the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

After a short honeymoon in Spokane, the couple will be at home at Terrace Gardens Trailer Court in Moscow.

David Hickman's Observe Twenty-Fifth Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hickman, of Palouse, Wash., were honor guests at a dinner party Sunday, Dec. 31 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hickman and Dale.

The occasion was in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary which was on December 29th.

The couple were presented with a beautifully decorated cake, flowers, and a gift of money from those attending, and also from relatives who were unable to be there. Bayne Hickman called from Edmonds, Wash. in the afternoon.

Attending the dinner were their two sons, Don and Larry Hickman, and Miss Donna Hill, of Palouse; Mr. and Mrs. John Platt, Mrs. Mary Tuttle, and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Flomer, all of Lewiston, and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Herman.

Robert Hickman, oldest son of the Dave Hickmans, was unable to attend. He is in the Army, and stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Adult Welding Classes To Begin

An evening Arc and Acetylene Welding school for adult farmers will begin Monday, January 8, at the Genesee High School Vocational Agriculture Building. The school will be conducted for three hours, two nights a week for five consecutive weeks. The school is for beginners and others wishing to improve their welding skill. Robert Heimgartner, Genesee High School Vocational Agriculture teacher, will instruct; teaching welding in various positions, on different kinds of metals, welding cast iron, hard surfacing and soldering, and cutting and brazing with arc and acetylene welders. A fee of $10.00 will be charged for the course.

All farmers interested in learning farm maintenance welding are asked to attend the first meeting January 8, 1962, at 7:00 P. M. at the Genesee High School Agriculture Building. Advance registration may be made by calling the office of the Genesee High School, AT 5-2441.

Enrollment will be limited.

JoAnn Kasper Receives Wrist Watch Award

Ralph Kerns, Garfield, Wash. and JoAnn Kasper, daughter of Mrs. Mary Kasper, received wrist watches Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 19. These young people ranked highest in achievement in the county 4-H program.

The watches are presented each year by First Security Bank to the boy or girl 4-H members in the county who garner enough points in the 4-H program. Points are earned for ribbon awards, meetings attended, projects completed, demonstrations, and illustrated talks; 4-H camp and committee work.

The watches were presented at 4:30 p. m. in the County Agent's office by Reuben Bauer, of First Security.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express to our kind and thoughtful friends and neighbors, our sincere thanks for the many expressions of sympathy during our recent bereavement. The cards, flowers and other comforting acts were greatly appreciated. A special thanks to The Pythian Sisters and Neighbors of Woodcraft, and for the dinner prepared for us following the services. S. O. G. NO-HOST DINNER-PARTY

Members of the S. O. G. Club and husbands enjoyed a no-host dinner-party Friday evening at the Estil Carubahn.

Following dinner, cards were played. Prizes winners were: Men: Adrian Nelson, high; Victor Danielson, low. Women: Mrs. Leon Danielson, high; Mrs. W. O. Borgen, low.

MRS. GARY BENNETT HONORED WITH BRIDAL SHOWER

Mrs. Gary Bennett, (Patricia Carlson), was honored guest at a bridal shower on December 6 in the Community Church basement.

The Christmas theme was carried out in room and table decorations. Mrs. Bennett received many lovely and useful gifts.

Card of Thanks

I shall always be grateful for the cards, flowers, and other kind thoughts and acts shown me during my stay in the hospital and since returning home. It seems that "Thank You" is entirely inadequate to express my gratitude to the friends and neighbors for all they have done. Tom Gooch

BUG-EATING BUGS can be a very powerful ally in man's battle against insect pests, says the department of Biological Control, University of California. Studies at the school show, for example, that the typhlodromus mite feasts happily on the cyclamen mite—one of the worst enemies of strawberry growers—but leaves the fruit alone.

Mrs. Clarence Trail Succumbs Dec. 28

Mrs. Clarence (Tillie) Trail, 74 passed away Thursday morning at her home in Genesee following a lingering illness.

Tillie A. Currin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Currin was born at Colton, Washington November 3, 1887.

The Currin family moved to the old town of Genesee in 1902. In 1905 she was married to Joe Fleischman. Mr. Fleischman passed away in 1920. She was married to Clarence Trail in January 21, 1921. Mr. and Mrs. Trail began farming east of Genesee in 1923. They retired in 1949 and moved to their present home.

Mrs. Trail was a member of the Genesee Community church; Neighbors of Woodcraft; the American Legion Auxiliary, and Pythian Sisters.

Survivors, in addition to the husband include two sons, Charles Fleischman of Shelton, Washington and Sim Fleischman of Spokane; seven grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Minnie Dreshner, of Moscow; two brothers, Sim Currin of Palouse, and Walter Currin of Genesee. She is also survived by several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 p. m. from the Community church with the Rev. Lowell Messley officiating.

Mrs. Elvon Hampton, organist, accompanied Mrs. Vera Harper and Dr. E. Roy Kinney, who sang "The Old Rugged Cross," and "Whispering Hope."

Pallbearers were: Lawrence Sorensen, Virgil Hulbert, D. G. Kuehl, Geo. Anderson, Joe Doyle, and Markie Springer.

Burial in Genesee City Cemetery. Shorts of Moscow was in charge.

TB Testing Program Jan. 10

Because of an apparent need, the Latah County TB Association is sponsoring a Tuberculin Testing Program in the Genesee Community for adults and pre-school children Wednesday, January 10 between the hours of 7:30 and 8:30 p. m. at Dr. Speckho's office in the Genesee Medical Clinic Bldg. There will be no charge for these tests. Those taking the tests will be required to come back for readings on Friday, January 12 between 2 and 3 in the afternoon.

The school children will be tested at a later date in the Genesee schools.

January Good Time For Winter Car Check

January is a good month for Inland Empire motorists to give their cars a mid-winter check-up.

Robert F. Keen, Emergency Road Service manager of the Inland Automobile association, said this week that extended periods of cold weather are particularly hard on automobiles and make these check-ups just as important as pre-winter servicing.

The AA official listed several points that require special attention.

Anti-freeze often will "seek out" minor radiator leaks that may not be apparent at other times of the year. If the radiator requires occasional filling, the cooling system should be carefully checked for leaks, repaired immediately and the anti-freeze re-checked.

The battery, one of the more sensitive auto parts in winter, should be frequently checked. Repeated car starting trouble may indicate a dead battery cell.

"Many of the 'dead battery' service calls handled by our emergency stations reveal that the trouble is actually an improperly functioning generator, automatic choke or voltage regulator," the AAA official pointed out.

The normal process of corrosion, or damage resulting from driving in deep snow, can cause dangerous leaks in the muffler and other parts of the exhaust system, Keen warned. Dizziness, drowsiness or a headache are some of the signs that poisonous carbon monoxide fumes are seeping into the car. Unusually loud exhaust noise is usually a sign that the muffler should be replaced.

Windshield wiper blades are another often-neglected item which should be checked regularly during the winter. In cold weather the rubber wiper blades tend to become brittle and tear easily.

"When the Automobile Club was formed fifty years ago, the car was a relatively simple machine," Keen commented, "and most mechanical difficulties could be corrected with a pair of pliers and a piece of baling wire. Today's automobile, a much more complex piece of machinery, must receive regular, thorough maintenance or its many additional devices will deprive us of the added motoring pleasure they are designed to give us."

Vehicle Equipment Check Will Be Conducted Next Week

Due to the increasing number of complaints received concerning vehicles operating without all the equipment required by law, Police Chief James Watkins announced that he and personnel from the Latah County Sheriff's Office will be conducting a series of spot checks on local cars and trucks during the next week.

While many of the complaints received involved faulty or illegal mufflers, the law officers will be checking lights, tailpipes, windshield wipers, etc.

Watkins stated that regardless of whether the driver of a vehicle with inadequate equipment owns the vehicle he will be the one receiving the citation.

Watkins also went on to say he would appreciate it if the parents of juveniles who may own cars impress on their children that if they are cited for having improper equipment the police judge will insist that the vehicle be repaired before it is driven again in addition to fining the offender.

Total rainfall in the Genesee area for the year 1961 was 21.98 inches, slightly above the six-year average. The figures were reported this week by John Luedke, who records the precipitation at his home place.

The annual rainfall for the past six years has averaged 20.54 inches, Luedke revealed. The increase this year may have come from the wet February of 1961 when a total of four inches fell. July was the driest month of the year with .40 inches.

The following is the monthly rainfall totals:

Elvon Hampton Appointed To Education Board

Elvon Hampton, Genesee farmer and a veteran of six terms in the Idaho Legislature, Thursday was appointed by Robert E. Smylie to the Idaho Board of Education.

He succeeds Mrs. Marguerite Campbell of New Meadows on the five-member board. His term will extend to April 1, 1966. Mrs. Campbell had resigned.

The naming of a member to the Board of Regents from a county in which a state school such as the University of Idaho is located has been avoided for many years. However, the precedent was broken in April of last year when Ezra Hawks of Pocatello, was named to the board. Hampton becomes the first regent from Latah county since the early days of the university, located at Moscow.

Hampton, who was speaker of the Idaho House of Representatives in his last term in the Legislature in 1957, has long been active in connection with education.

He said, "I am very honored to serve on the board and contribute what I can toward education in the state of Idaho."

He attended the White House Conference on Education in 1955 and also a regional education conference at San Francisco in 1957. He was chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the Idaho Legislature for the 1953 and 1955 sessions.

He served on the Genesee Rural School Board prior to consolidation of schools and later as a member of the Latah Co. Board of Education.

He is chairman of the board of the Genesee Union Warehouse Co. and a member of the executive committee of the North Pacific Grain Growers, Inc., Portland.

Elvon was born at Genesee in 1909, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hampton, Genesee pioneers. He received his bachelor of science degree in agriculture from the University of Idaho in 1933. He spent most of the next year as a singer in the Midwest.

He returned to Genesee and took up farming in 1934 on the home place. In 1938, he was married to Betty Eager, of Athena, Oregon. They have three children, Mrs. Martin Stout, of Genesee; Wade, 17, a junior at Genesee High School, and Mark, 15, a freshman.

Aliens Must Register

R. C. Hoffeller, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service advised this week that the annual alien address report program is again under way.

According to Mr. Hoffeller, approximately 10,000 aliens reported their addresses last year in this district, comprising the states of Montana and Idaho.

The Immigration official pointed out that the address reports are required by law and willful failure to comply with these requirements may lead to serious consequences.

Forms with which to make the reports are available at all Post Offices and Immigration and Naturalization Service Offices. It is an easy matter to fill out one of the cards and return it to the same office.

Mr. Hoffeller added that trained personnel will be on hand in all offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service to answer any questions the reporting aliens may have regarding immigration and naturalization matters. Sufficient trained personnel are not available to furnish this assistance in all Post Offices.

GEMIE The Idaho Driver SEZ:

most common CAUSE of ACCIDENTS ...

Nonresident Hunters Perform Vital Game Management Roles

By Jim Humbird Idaho Fish and Game Department It's time to get new hunting and fishing licenses again and the annual misconception, voiced by too many people who should know better, is heard that big game and fish-breaking nonresidents are killing vast herds of game that should go to deserving natives.

The Idaho record over the years proves otherwise. For example, Jack O'Connor, famed outdoor writer, who calls Lewiston his home town, uses this provincial soak-the-outside attitude as the subject for a feature story in the December issue of the magazine, "Outdoor Life."

Entitled "Damn the Nonresident," the article opines that in some places nonresident sportsmen are regarded as evil creatures living across state lines, wanting to enter in and take over, Colorado, among other states, doesn't allow the nonresident to hunt turkey, antelope or bighorn sheep—no matter how much he pays in out-of-state license fees. He can't hunt bighorns in New Mexico or Nevada. The rare game is for residents only.

Even in Idaho comments are made by a few resident hunters that nonresidents are harvesting more than their share of game and not paying for it adequately. But, the facts show that there were more than twice as many residents hunting bighorns as nonresidents in 1960. Residents killed more than twice as many rams as nonresidents, and had slightly higher hunting success.

And nonresidents paid four times as much for their bighorn hunting as residents, indicating that they pay well for the privilege of hunting sheep in Idaho. The highest cost reported by an individual hunter was $1,500 by a nonresident. Three others reported spending over $1,000 apiece. Total expenses included purchases of hunting licenses, tags and permits, equipment, taxi, travel, motel, cafe, groceries, outfitters and other items.

The same trend is found among Idaho's mountain goat hunters, who spent about $41,200 in 1960. There were 111 nonresident hunters averaging $208 apiece, while 171 residents averaged $67. The totals were $20,700 spent by nonresidents, compared to $11,500 by residents.

The record shows that less than 7,000 nonresidents big game hunting licenses were sold in Idaho during 1960, as compared with 65,000 resident game licenses and over 100,000 additional resident fishing-hunting license combinations.

Total controlled hunt permits sold for all game species during 1961 and percentage figures for residents vs nonresidents also are significant. The 750 deer permit total breaks down at 739 resident and 11 nonresident, for percentages of 99 and 1, respectively. Of 1,725 elk permits, 1,691 were resident, 37 nonresident, with respective percentages of 98 and 2. Nine hundred antelope permits went to 890 residents and 10 nonresidents; 81 moose permits went to 69 residents and 12 nonresidents; and 160 goat permits went to 123 residents and 37 nonresidents.

Although out-of-staters pay more for licenses—but not for game tags and permits—than residents, it is a source of pride to most Idahoans that the state is recognized around the world as a preeminent mecca for the sportsmen. They deem it a privilege

DISEASE TRACED TO TROPICAL NUT

"DON'T EAT the cycad until you're grown up," Guam parents admonish their children. And not even then University of Wisconsin biochemists said. These researchers are trying to establish a link between the big starchy nut that grows wild in the jungle and the fatal disease ALS (amyotrophic lateral sclerosis). ALS, which struck down famous Yankee baseball player Lou Gehrig, is contracted by 50,000 Americans each year. On Guam the percentage is 100 times as high. Even animals that browse on leaves of the cycad tree develop a disease similar to ALS, the scientists have found. They hope that if cycad poisons are found to cause the malady, similar chemicals may be occurring in the American diet and preventive steps taken.

THE WHITE CLIFFS of Dover, England's landmark, are made up of millions of bodies of foraminifera, tiny sea organisms that died millions of years ago. D.E. LEONARD, H&E, P is used to bond plywood, make laminates and perform many other tasks in industry. The materials are placed between electrodes, as bread is placed between grids of a toaster. But from that point on the process is quite different. Instead of first "toasting" the outside, Thermex dielectric heating units made in Louisville conduct heat to all parts of the material at the same time. This does the work faster and eliminates the possibility of scorching the surface before sufficient heat has reached the center of the material.

Though best known for his war devices (grappling hooks, catapults), he was primarily a mathematician. He discovered the principle of buoyancy and thoroughly examined the geometry of the circle. His discovery of the lever as a way to multiply man's strength led to his famous boast: "Give me a place to stand and aged by federal Pittman-Robertson funds, money obtained from excise taxes the nonresident pays when he buys arms and ammunition in his home town. Vigorous nationwide protests caused by extreme discrimination against "out-of-state" hunters could result in bringing about a form of national licensing such as was proposed in a bill before the last session of Congress. This plumped for interstate licensing which would permit nonresident hunters to enjoy their sport without a local license. This would bring about far greater competition than are found anywhere today and might reduce both the quality and quantity of hunting now enjoyed in many states. And, it could increase the cost of hunting to everyone.

Steelhead Punch Cards Cog In Bigger Program

By Jim Humbird Game Department Idaho Fish and Game Department The new steelhead punch card system is just going into effect in the complicated automatic machinery now being set up in motion to solve a growing problem in the Pacific Northwest: the diminishing Columbia River summer steelhead run—and what to do about it. Fish and Game commissions of Washington, Oregon and Idaho, at the behest of their governors, are attempting to reduce the sports catch as much as 25 per cent by lowering bag limits and shortening seasons in the watersheds of some spawning streams and closing others. Among other things, the punch card system is expected to collect valuable management data about the wasteful ramblings of this big ocean going rainbow trout and where—if not by whom—he is finally landed. It is, of course, not designed to tell the rest of the story, although the presumption is that commercial fishermen downstream in the lower Columbia river will not go on harvesting steelhead for the canneries at the same old rate. The brutal fact is that only 16 per cent of the average number of summer steelhead entering the Columbia river escapes the commercial and sports fisheries—a number that biologists estimate very small indeed to satisfy all other losses and still provide enough fish to spawn and perpetuate the runs. The figures are graphic. Of the estimated average ocean population of 228,900 summer steelhead, the calculated annual catch amounts to about 190,000. This leaves an escapement of something like 37,400, or 16 per cent, to spawn. The Columbia river fishery is not designed to handle that number of fish, and the result is that the spawning grounds is 125,000 a summer. In addition to the fish going into commercial and sports fisheries, there losses occurring every day as the migrants run the long river gauntlet to ancestral spawning beds nearly a thousand miles inland. For example, the Governor's Columbia River Fishery Management Committee says in a recent report: "For many years dead salmon have been noticed below Bonneville dam. In 1954 and 1955 the Oregon Fish Commission made a study of the possible loss of fish passing, or attempting to pass, this dam. It was calculated that between 17 and 21 per cent of the run passing Bonneville between June 28 and July 8, 1955, suffered a mortality. This particular mortality rate was for the most critical time of the year (high flow), but indicates that considerable difficulty in passage evidently occurs even at this low dam. . . . Steelhead first encounter the commercial fishery as the offshore troll. It continues to about Bonneville as the river gill net fishery. The sport fishery also begins some distance offshore and continues under various restricting regulations into the upper parts of the Columbia river system, including the Snake, Clearwater, Salmon and Weiser rivers of Idaho. The tri-state Governor's report says that commercial landings of both steelhead and salmon have been tabulated for many years. The average commercial steelhead catch from 1956 to 1959 was 95,000 annually, as compared to a sports catch of 9,800 below Bonneville, 85,000 above Bonneville, and another 600 by Indians. Commercial tabulations provide the most precise information on the runs now available with the possible exception of steelhead counts over the dams. Data on the sports catch are far less accurate, however, because of greater difficulties and less uniformity in collecting them. Oregon's and Washington's punch-card systems (now extended to Idaho) provide reliable information on the total state catch and less precise figures by stream and month. Heretofore, Idaho's catch data has been derived from a post-card survey and Washington's (until 1961) from a winter season punch card for steelhead and estimates from creel census and observation. Spawning ground closures, deadlines below barriers and special seasons are delinated for steelhead in separate regulations for each of the three states. All are aimed at protecting and perpetuating the resource, but are not voluminous and detailed for presentation here. In short, some of the comparable sports fishing regulations for steelhead follows: 1. Oregon requires a special steelhead license in addition to the angling license. Washington and Idaho require angling licenses only. 2. Oregon and Idaho now require punch cards at all times. Washington, beginning in 1961, also has the requirement for the entire year. 3. All three states require that steelhead shall be taken on hook and line only. The use of artificial lights for fishing is banned. 4. All three states have bag limits of two fish per day, four in seven consecutive days, and a season limit of 20 fish. The new limits go into effect January 1, 1962, in Idaho. 5. Steelhead size in all three states is 20 inches or over. 6. Open seasons in general are year round in Oregon, with closures or deadlines protecting spawning areas. Washington's season on summer steelhead is January to December. Idaho has year-round fishing for steelhead in the lower rivers; and June 4 thru October in headwater streams, apart from closures. Winter steelhead are different from summer steelhead. They (winter) run only coastal streams. Tri-state meetings of the Governor's Columbia River Fisheries Management Committee in Boise last February and Portland in August, are to be followed by another, tentatively on January 18, in Vancouver, Washington. These meetings, despite the lack of uniform methods of gathering information, nevertheless conclude that all anadromous fish species in the Columbia system are in serious trouble—the salmon as well as the steelhead. But, that is another story.

when Jimmy grows as big as his shadow . . . the free world he lives in will be using almost a million gallons of petroleum every minute. That's about 60% more than it uses today—by 1971. Where will it all come from? From hundreds of places on earth you might never expect oil to exist. Right now, for example, Standard's exploration teams are probing the ocean floor many miles out to sea . . . trekking across Arabian deserts, marked "inaccessible" on maps. Others are climbing over glaciers in Alaska, pushing through the snow into the frozen interior of Canada, slogging through the jungles of Latin America. In the last ten years, geologists from Standard and its affiliates explored in 47 countries on six continents. Is the search paying off? Yes. In the United States alone, we found two new barrels of oil for every barrel we took out of the ground. The search will continue to help make certain that Jimmy and his generation will have the oil they need for an ever-expanding number of homes, cars, mechanized farms and industries . . . and provide chemicals from petroleum that will help make possible more exciting new products. planning ahead to serve you better STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA

by ORAL ROBERTS
DO YOU HAVE LOVE?

Six months before I was born, my mother was called to a neighbor's home to pray for their little child.

At that time Francis Engles was 5 1/2 years old. He had taken the flu, which had extended into pneumonia. His voice was raspy; his lungs were so inflamed that he rattled and wheezed. His father didn't expect him to live through the night.

The boy was healed that night, at about eight or nine o'clock. His high fever left him immediately. He had not eaten for three days, but within ten minutes after prayer, he was sitting up and asking for food. The next morning he joined his family, for the first time in nine days, at the breakfast table. With childlike faith he accepted the healing of God offered him, and his recovery was rapid.

So many people do not know how to accept the love of God, because they do not know how to have childlike faith. We are simple things as we grow older.

Mr. Engles recently visited the Abundant Life Building, International Headquarters of Oral Roberts, in Tulsa, Oklahoma, for the first time. He is now 49 years of age, weighs 205 pounds and is 6 feet 2 inches in height. Since his healing 44 years ago, he has enjoyed excellent health. He has retained and lived by his original childlike faith in the goodness of God and in the power of our Saviour, Jesus of Nazareth.

Mr. Engles is a successful paving and grading contractor at Seattle, California. With his Game Trapping Continues

Figures covering the live-trapping and tagging program for 1960 and this year to date show that 445 deer, 150 antelope, 50 elk, 6 goat and 5 moose have been taken and marked for future identification. The goats were air-freighted to Colorado in exchange for wild turkeys, and the moose were transported to new range in the vicinity of Crane creek reservoir north of Weiser.

Information gained by recovering tagged deer is useful particularly in mapping migration routes of these animals. When these are known, the future hunting can be planned to permit deer harvesting in all portions of their fall range instead of relying upon deer concentrations to provide hunting.

Hunter Questionnaires Mailed

Game harvest questionnaires have been mailed to about five per cent of hunting license holders each year since 1953, and the present is no exception. The department gathers harvest information by using report cards, checking stations and harvest questionnaires—and all of them have useful parts in developing the annual summary. It will not be ready for 1961, however, until about mid-winter. Some figures from the 1960 harvest summary show the statewide kills as follows: 75,000 deer, 16,500 elk and 3,200 bear.

January Commission Meet

The regular quarterly meeting of the Fish and Game commission will be held in Boise beginning January 24. On the agenda will be the formulation of 1962 fishing and big game hunting season dates and regulations. A public hearing will be held at the first afternoon session.

In general, season recommendations parallel last year's July 4 through October 31 on north Idaho streams, and May 1 through November 30 on lakes. The rest of the state would have general trout season on both streams and lakes from June 4 thru October 31 unless otherwise specified.

Big game seasons will have opening dates corresponding to those of 1961 under a policy which stipulates that these shall be established at the opening session. Details other than opening dates will be set at the spring meeting.

The three standard opening dates for deer and elk hunting in most areas are September 15 in the back country, the first Saturday in October in much of the central area, and the third Saturday in October in extreme northern and southern units. In 1961 some of the southern units advanced to a September 30 opening.

It is the policy of the commission to establish dates for fishing and hunting seasons as early as possible so that anglers can plan future vacation trips accordingly.

Hunting Accidents Down

The differences between 17 and 9, and between 44 and 33 underscore the improvement in hunter safety from one year to the next—1960 compared to 1961. Specifically, hunter fatalities caused by gunfire dropped from the 1960 all-time high of 17 to nine, and non-fatalities from 44 to 24. Of course no record is good until the number of casualties is zero, because most accidents are preventable, resulting from carelessness and insufficient knowledge of safe gun handling habits.

The department uses the standardized hunter accident report form developed by the National Rifle Association. Gun accidents causing injury or death are listed if they occur during a hunting expedition from September 1 through December 31, the Idaho big game seasons, or en route to or from the field.

Other gun accidents are recorded separately. Thus, the death of a 14-year-old youngster last February from a shot fired from his brother's small caliber rifle while shooting rabbits is not included officially as a hunting fatality.

Steelhead Big Limits

Steelhead fishermen are reminded of regulation changes, including the new bag limits. The daily catch of fish 20 inches and over is two per person. Not more than four per person may be taken in seven consecutive days, and the annual catch limit is 20 steelhead per person.

THE FISH AND GAME department cooperation with the Bureau of Management and Owyhee county improved a five-mile section of the Mad Flat-Juniper Mountain road. CHICAGO — Many urban area motorists from snow belt states are good drivers on a "dry track" become nearly helpless in winter storms because they don't know how to drive on ice and snow, according to Harry Porter, Jr., manager of the Traffic Department of the National Safety Council.

These drivers cause thousands of property damage and fatal crashes each time Old Man Winter swoops into their communities," Porter said. "They have become so dependent on good winter road maintenance by snow removal and sanding crews of the city and state that they ignore their personal responsibility to be mentally prepared and to have their vehicles equipped for unusually severe winter driving conditions," he said.

When such drivers crash into someone or get stalled they blame the storm, the street or highway department, or the other driver, but seldom themselves, Porter said. He believes just a little know-how about winter driving would keep them out of any trouble.

"Many drivers don't use good judgment when in when to drive, and fail to equip their vehicles properly if they must be out in a severe storm," Mr. Porter stated. "They get stalled and pile snow removal equipment and add to the tough job of keeping the streets cleared," he said.

"Inadequate traction and reduced visibility are two of the six basic hazards of winter driving that cause motorists' trouble," Porter said. The other four are: (1) Effect of temperature, (2) Reduced ability to stop and steer, (3) Unexpected icy conditions, and (4) Ice and snow made slippery by traffic.

To help drivers help themselves in the prevention of accidents and costly delays, Mr. Porter urged all snow-belt drivers to consider the following research and recommendations based on research by the Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards:

Effect of Temperature

Always drive with the thermometer in mind. Braking distance about doubles as the temperature rises from 10 to 32 degrees.

Everyone realizes that the melting ice cube is far more slippery than the very cold cube as it comes from the freezer—but many drivers have not associated this fact with icy road conditions where wet ice at 30 degrees is far more slippery and offers about 10 half the traction of ice at 20 degrees above zero. A car going 20 m. p. h. takes 114 feet to stop on glare ice at zero degrees, but at 32 degrees above zero, the same car will take 235 feet to stop. Reinforced tire chains will reduce it to about 77 feet.

Reduced Visibility

Road slush and grime, ice and snow in early hours of darkness, all make it hard to see on winter roads. Drivers must double efforts to keep lights, windshields and windows in top lighting and viewing condition. Since drivers must see a hazard to avoid it, they should keep windshield wiper blades in top condition. Wiper arm blade length is needed to sweep snow and sleet off instead of sliding over it.

Inadequate Traction

Pulling away from a standstill, snow can all cause trouble—from aggravating delays to major tie-ups and accidents.

Consider these test facts during severe conditions: On glare ice, snow tires proved 28 per cent better than regular tires, regular tire chains 21 per cent better, and the committee recommends every driver carry in his trunk for emergency conditions, 409 per cent better.

On loosely packed snow, the snow tires are 51 per cent better than regular tires.

NEW TOURIST BROCHURE TELLS OF IDAHO CAMPGROUNDS

BOISE — The Department of Commerce and Development is getting ready to distribute a new color leaflet which tells about Idaho campgrounds.

Secretary Louise Shadduck says the leaflet, prepared cooperatively with the Department of Public Lands and the Department of Highways, will be mailed to 1400 travel agencies in various parts of the country and to motels and chambers of Commerce in Idaho. A map on the inside of the leaflet pinpoints the location of state parks and campsites, boating and swimming areas, golf courses and ski areas.

Miss Shadduck says that many of Idaho's yearly visitors, particularly those from eastern states, are interested in camping out. "Before they visit a state they want to know where its campgrounds are, what they're like and whether they're close to recreational facilities," she says.

The new leaflet is designed to answer the questions of prospective travelers, Miss Shadduck explains. Symbols on the map tell whether the campground has tables and drinking water and whether it has facilities for trailers.

At a cost of less than four cents each the Department had 150,000 of the new leaflets printed. More than half of them will be mailed to travel agencies around the country which request campground information. The rest will be used in the state to help answer on-the-spot tourist questions.

On the outside of the leaflet 18 photographs give an idea of the state's scenery and the kind of outdoor recreation available in Idaho. The scene is a pack string in the Sawtooth Mountains; a girl winding around Payette Lake; a road winding around Lake Coeur d'Alene, and Mesa Falls on Henrys Fork of the Snake River.

The new campgrounds leaflet is an example of the kind of publications the Department prepares. "Our campgrounds leaflet gives specific information," Miss Shadduck says. "It gives a lot of general facts. Tourists want and need useful information if they are to vacation in our state. That's what we want to provide them."

A religious and charitable woman noticed a very down-and-out sort of man standing at the corner of the street near her residence. One morning she took compassion on him, pressed a dollar into his hand and whispered, "Never Despair."

Next time she saw him he stopped her and handed her nine dollars. "What does this mean?" she asked. "It means, ma'am," said the man, "that 'Never Despair' won at 8 to 1."

A party of young men were camping, and to avert annoying questions they made a rule that the one who asked a question that he could not answer himself had to do the cooking.

One evening, while sitting around the fire, one of the boys asked: "Why is it that a ground-squirrel never leaves any dirt at the front of its burrow?"

They all guessed and missed. So he was asked to answer it himself. "Why," he said, "because it always begins to dig at the other end of the hole."

"But," one asked, "how does it get to the other end of the hole?" "That is your question," he said.

Gem Search-Rescue Unit Coordinates Operations

Idaho Fish and Game Department activities separately. A file in the Boise office indicates that at least 400 man-hours went into search and rescue operations last year, and nearly 3,000 miles on state vehicles were charged to that item.

But, the coordinating efforts, as well as experienced manpower and equipment of the IMSRU are needed to prevent lost motion, time and duplication that sometimes mean the difference between life and death.

The volunteer organization makes no charge for any of its efforts. Members give their time and work in humanitarian service. Financing for supplies, material and equipment is by voluntary subscription of many people who are interested, or who are grateful for the work of the dedicated men of the unit.

TO FILE TAX FORM 943 "January 31 is the deadline for farmers to file Tax Form 943 for the purpose of reporting farm employment who worked for them during 1961."

"In reminding farmers of this requirement, James B. Myers, manager of the Lewiston Social Security office explained that the completed tax form should list the name, social security account number and the total cash wages of each farmworker. This is to be filed not with the Social Security office, but with the Director of Internal Revenue.

Farm workers to be reported are those whom you paid $150 or more in cash during 1961, or those who worked for you on a time basis for at least 20 days during the year. 3% for each employer and employee is the amount of the tax for the 1961 report. Beginning with January, 1962 a slight raise will increase the rate of tax to 3-1/2% each.

Mr. Myers, manager, emphasized the importance of correct reporting. The high degree of accuracy has resulted in over 60,000 returns, survivorship and disability beneficiaries in Idaho receiving monthly insurance payments each month.

Proper forms for reporting and for securing farm employer's identification number can be secured from Internal Revenue Service, 914 Jefferson, Boise, Idaho.

The unit is an officially recognized and authorized organization that cooperates with all agencies concerned, including the U. S. Air Force, Idaho National Guard, U. S. Forest Service, Idaho State Police, Fish and Game Department, Civil Air Patrol, Idaho State Highway Department, Civil Defense, amateur radio organization, sheriffs' offices, Soil Conservation Service, Snow Survey, Public Utilities, private firms and individuals.

How does it work? The thing to remember in all events involving search and rescue is to contact immediately (1) the local sheriff's office, (2) the nearest office of the Idaho State Police, or (3) representative of the Fish and Game Department.

Fidelioms of the Idaho Fish and Game department have outstanding knowledge, skills and modern equipment to contribute to the cause of search and rescue work. Their detailed knowledge of the topography of the areas in which they work (no matter how rugged it may be) their radio-telephone communications skills and rescue equipment, among other assets, make their contributions extraordinarily effective.

But both state and federal laws specifically prohibit the diversion of license fees paid by hunters and fishermen for any purpose other than the emergency for the wildlife management program. Similar statutes regarding dedicated funds govern some of the other departments and agencies. Therefore the incorporation of such state laws of the department under state laws of the department is a coordinating desirable house of information and activity.

For example, when the department, in cooperation last fall with the Bureau of Land Management and Owyhee county, improved a five-mile stretch of the Mud Flat-Lumpner Mountain road, this was not construed as a diversion of funds. It was voluntary cooperation with the other governmental agencies for the long-term benefit of the Fish and Game department, which needs harvesting deer herd, which needs range management. Any benefits that may derive to travelers in a blizzard or quagmire, depending on the time of year) is strictly "plus" value to an area where someone is reported in distress, the "word" is to give all possible assistance. Conservation officers and other fieldmen report such

BE HONEST WITH YOURSELF

A big man stood at the corner of a vacant lot one day and watched two street-urchin type. One was the stout-urchin type; one was a vigorous schoolboy. They were about the same age and well matched. When they came to the corner lot, though, the schoolboy stopped while his friend took the short cut across the lot. The watching man was interested.

"Why did you stop so soon, my boy?" he asked. "It seems to me that you were a step or two ahead when you quit."

"The boy looked up. "Don't you see that sign?" he asked, pointing to a sign which read "No Trespassing." "I'm no law-breaker."

"Who owns this lot?" the man continued. "Oh, Mr. Janssen. He's in California for the winter."

"Away for the whole winter? Then how could he know if you went across his lot?"

"Maybe he couldn't, but I would know," was the simple answer. "Later, this man sent his boy, then eighteen, on an errand of trust and of much importance to them both. "I picked him out," the man explained, "because I'll discover abundant life."

I had just settled down at a high school basketball game last week when my old friend, William Haxton, Sr., leaned over and said "Did you hear about . . . and I found myself chuckling off and on until the half. His joke went like this:

When Kruschew and Pres. Kennedy had a meeting in Europe last year they were having a personal conference over coffee. Kruschew became quite friendly and leaned over and said, tell me Pres. Kennedy, when do you plan to have a man on the moon? Pres. Kennedy leaned over quite confidentially and whispered: "It might quite a while; right now I am having trouble trying to get a negro on a bus."

Sunday Fire Damages Home

Members of the Genesee Community Firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Lillie Aherin at 8:45 a. m. Sunday to extinguish a blaze resulting from a fire smothered chimney. Damage from fire, smoke, and water resulted in the living room and kitchen ceiling, walls, and insulation in the upstairs attic.

The firemen fought the fire hand-capped by near zero temperatures. According to post-fire inspection by the fire department, the blaze had its beginning in the kitchen when a fire in a small trash-burner over-heated the chimney setting some of the woodwork around the bricks afire. The blaze then worked its way up the attic where it soon set fire to paper bags containing insulating material.

Zero Temps Hold Area In Tight Grip

Genesee and the rest of the Inland Empire was held tight in the icy grip of near and sub-zero temperatures which prevailed over much of the nation arrived in the Pacific Northwest. Temperatures ranging from minus ten degrees to four above were reported each evening from Saturday night until Wednesday evening. Daytime mercury readings stayed well below the freezing mark during much of the week.

Even Lewiston-Clarkston, the "Banana Belt", felt the sub-freezing conditions, and icy roads made traveling dangerous on many roads and highways over the area. The cold was made even more uncomfortable Monday and Tuesday with the arrival of strong, gusty winds which whipped dry, powdery snow over the roads. Little new snow has fallen this week.

Keep Vehicles Locked Is Police Advice

Keep your car doors locked when parked on Main Street, is the advice of Police Chief Jim Watkins. Watkins offered this advice following a sudden rise in the number of complaints about the area of Main Street during the past few days. A patrol car was parked on Main Street during the evening hours.

Spinning Brings Fine One Genesee juvenile was cited by officer Watkins this week for reckless driving. The charge resulted when the youth was apprehended for "spinning broods" on the icy Main Street. The offender, found guilty by the police judge, had his drivers license suspended. The juvenile was fined twenty-five dollars, twenty of which was suspended.

New Bowling Series to Begin in Genesee

Plans for a new bowling contest at the Genesee Legion Alleys were released this week by alley manager Don Wright. The new contest is a "Bank" series and will be limited to bowlers who regularly compete at the Genesee lanes.

Competing either singly or with a partner, men and women bowlers will have a chance to win a portion of the "bank", that is part of the prize fund, set aside for this purpose. The women bowlers will be handicapped at 75 per cent of 200, while the men will be handicapped at 65 2/3 per cent of 200.

SCIENCE TOPICS

THEY'RE AFTER KILLER SHOCK SHOCK, called 'the herald of death' kills thousands of Americans every year. In Los Angeles County General Hospital alone more than 1,000 patients die annually after protracted shock. Statistics across the rest of the country are similar. To find out why shock occurs and to work out effective measures against it, the University of Southern California School of Medicine has begun a three-year study. A six-bed shock ward staffed 24 hours a day, has been opened at County Hospital. There, shock sufferers will receive optimum care. Physiological effects, now poorly understood, will be measured. The data will be recorded and later analyzed by electronic computers. The doctors believe their study will help the threat of shock in whatever way it strikes.

DENDROCHRONOLOGY, the study of tree rings, is poised for a great leap forward, according to Prof. H. C. Fritts of the University of Arizona. Fritts says tree rings hold accurate records of climate conditions that governed the tree's growth and that new statistical concepts make it possible to determine rainfall, temperatures, evaporation and other factors that occurred in any given year during the tree's span of life. . . . FREEDOM 7, first U. S. manned spacecraft, is now a part of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C. The Project Mercury capsule was piloted by astronaut Alan B. Shepard on its historic flight, May 1961.

FOR THE FIRST TIME, thermoplastic pipe and fittings capable of handling every kind of piping in and around the average home will be available on a commercial basis in 1962. So, dream houses can utilize new vinyl and other plastic piping that offers lower installed costs, lighter weight, exceptional corrosion resistance and virtual elimination of plumbing repairs. But many building codes will have to be changed so that home builders can take advantage of these materials. . . . WHERE THERE IS SMOKE, there's a cigarette. In 1961, cigarette sales in the U. S. reached 503 billion, up 19 billion from 1960. Americans paid $7 billion for them.

A TIMID BUT POISONOUS South American spider, not previously known in the United States, has taken up residence in all places. Cambridge, Mass., home of Harvard University. To make the effort more complete, the creature—Loxosceles laeta—was found in the basement of the school's Museum of Comparative Zoology. Harvard zoologists, however assure us that the spider is far from aggressive and will run when approached.

FARMERS TAX RETURNS DUE JAN. 15 Farmers again face early federal tax deadlines this year, January 31—social security tax for all 1961 farm employees. February 15—farmers income tax returns, unless an estimate is paid which allows until April 15 to complete the returns. New "Farmer's Tax Guide" booklets are available at all county agricultural agents and internal revenue offices.

Salmon-Steelhead Survey With tremendously increasing fishing pressure on Idaho's salmon and steelhead resources, it is imperative that the best possible information be obtained regarding sports catch and escapement to the spawning beds. This is one reason behind the new steelhead punch card system—to obtain basic fisheries management data. But this will not be available until 1963 and, in any case, is designed merely as a supplement to the annual salmon and steelhead survey. This basically is a questionnaire system contained on a postage-free self-addressed card that is mailed to a cross section of all fishing license holders.

This gives fishermen the opportunity to help manage Idaho's rich salmon and steelhead resources. As the card states to fishermen, "Even if you didn't fish for salmon or steelhead—or fished for them but caught none—it is equally important for you to complete and return the self-addressed, postage-free card to the department."

Steelhead Punch Card Here they are again, the new steelhead catch regulations, because of the considerable confusion reported by conservation officers:

- 1. A no time limit on a fisherman have more than two steelhead in his possession.
2. A total of four steelhead 20 inches in length or over may be taken in seven consecutive days.
3. Not more than 20 steelhead may be taken within a calendar year.
The new punch card, similar to those now in force in Oregon and Washington, requires a punch in the appropriate place immediately after a steelhead has been landed, and the notation of the name of the river or other water where the fish was taken. To reiterate, the punch card system is supplemental to the annual Idaho salmon and steelhead questionnaire survey now underway. If you have received a questionnaire post card and have not filled it out and returned it, please do so promptly—even if you didn't fish for salmon or steelhead or didn't catch any.

Habitat Improvement Program Approximately 2000 trees and shrubs were planted in 176 different places last year. All but four per cent were on private farms. Private farm windbreaks are put in with the stipulation that "hunting by permission" will be allowed. This resulted in nearly 60,000 acres being retained for public hunting under the program last year, with a grand total of 215,000 acres having been so committed since the program started in 1953.

STRONGER RADIO NETWORK MAKES POACHING TOUGHER

The construction of four new base stations and additional two-way mobile units in the Idaho Fish and Game Department's radio network last year development's quarterly economic publication.

The three firms are the Koelsch Corporation near Boise; Ski Pole Specialists, Ketchum, and Precast Homes, Inc., Nampa. The latter got underway in the last year or so and were picked as representative of new small businesses in the state. Descriptions of the companies are in the February issue of "Idaho Image," which will be mailed from Boise this Friday.

Department Secretary Louise Shaduck says the object of the stories about the firms is to show that opportunities for small businesses do exist in Idaho, even though problems of capital financing and market entry are not easy to solve. There are many fine small business firms throughout Idaho, but we pick out just three to write about as examples of small firm operations in our state," she points out.

The Koelsch Corporation, founded and run by William A. Koelsch, Jr., manufactures electronic manipulating arms, a product usually associated with California or eastern states. The "Idaho Image" article says Koelsch believes that an industry can locate in any state as long as the product it manufactures crosses at least five dollars a pound. "His determination to stick to this philosophy is well founded," the article says, "since the company has met and solved a number of problems arising out of the location and nature of the business."

The "Idaho Image" article brings out that small businesses cannot expect to prosper overnight. The Koelsch firm found itself repairing television sets and doing other minor electronic work until orders began to trickle in from around the country for its manipulator arms. "Koelsch feels that Idaho has a fine potential as a place to live and work," the article relates. "He feels that more industry is needed which adds to the state, bringing in additional dollars in that way."

Precast Homes, Inc., in Nampa, never has been able yet to build the kind of precast homes the firm was organized for, the article says. By the time the company was ready for production, there was a demand for ready-made fallout shelters. Harry Midby, Boise, founder of the firm, is quoted as saying that, within a week after the company announced they were making shelters, they had 30 orders throughout the Boise-Caldwell area. Midby felt that the demand for shelters was worth continuing to Idaho. The firm now expects to put up plants in other western states. A second plant is now operating in Cheyenne.

Although the firm feels confident about the future now, "Idaho Image" says, there was a time when site-finding and financing problems almost made it look as if it couldn't get started in Idaho. The third firm described in the article, Ski Pole Specialists, experienced similar difficulties in getting its operations underway. Owner Edward L. Scott says it was difficult for him to get financing, even though he held $75,000 worth of orders for the company's unique ski pole.

Scott's pole, which he developed after sizing up all other makes and types of poles, was used by U. S. Olympic Ski team members in 1960. European skiers, at first skeptical, later acknowledged the valuable features of the pole and its reputation grew.

Although Scott has been advised to manufacture his "Sticky Pole" elsewhere, he intends to stay in Ketchum if at all possible. He feels that the skiing atmosphere around the nearby Sun Valley resort helps to sell his product. "Idaho Image" also carries an article about water supply and the location of industry. It notes that the Columbia River basin, which includes most of Idaho, is rife as one of two water-rich regions in the nation. "Idaho's annual runoff is about

YOUR Social Security?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question:
I understand that there is a deadline on filing for social security disability protection for those with long-standing disabilities. When is this deadline?

Answer:
The 1961 amendment gave a worker with long-standing disabilities until June 30, 1962 to apply for benefits under the social security disability provisions. This is one year longer than he had under the old law.

FIRST AID COURSE PREVENTS ACCIDENTS, SAY STATE POLICE

Twenty-six Idaho State Police officers were presented advanced first aid training certificates Wednesday several of them for the second time or more.

For the previous nine days, two three-hour classes for standard Red Cross advanced courses were held under the direction of Officers Reid Miner and Phil Morford, both veteran first aid men. They were assisted by Officers Bert Wilson and Harold L. Moerles whose extensive training have qualified them as assistant instructors.

"Every first aid trainee is taught to give immediate and temporary care to the injured and ill is the way Miner described the course given police officers. Morford confirmed the explanation, adding, "In fact, a qualified first aid man to learn as much about what to do as he does about temporary treatment of wounds and fractures."

Even though Idaho State Police deal primarily in the traffic control end of law enforcement, their first aid training covers every phase of the course with just as much emphasis on treatment of victims of drowning, burns and asphyxiation as there is on care of traffic accident injuries.

The four instructors, who have taken the standard course several times in addition to periodic refresher courses, view the value of the indoctrination from several angles. Miner observed, "The training teaches you to think and act safely, to become safety prone and to take time to deliberate in all of your activities."

Wilson expressed the opinion that anyone should take a first aid course "even though they never expect to use a bandage or a splint." Morford asserted "The training you get in safety thinking even makes you shut all the drawers and doors in your built-in cabinets at home," while Moerles said, "A Red Cross First Aid course knocks at the portals of humanity. Contentment with the past and the cold conventionalism of materialism are crumbling away. Ignorance of God is no longer the stepping-stone to faith."

GARDEN OF PARADISE
The Weaver of Dreams drove the shadows away
In a wonderful dream, don't you see?
I dreamed that The Garden of Paradise
Was your wonderful love for me.

Your heart was The Garden of Paradise
Dear little girl of mine—
Filled with the sunshine of summer skies
And all of your love divine.

I was the rarest of roses that grew just a flower that never dies,
So The Weaver of Dreams, let me be
Your blossom for you

After enduring a period of cold, winter weather, Genesee residents basked in warm sunshine this week with temperatures up into the fifties and lower sixties. This was a real change from last week when temperatures ranging to minus zero were reported.

Bulldogs Drop Close Games
Coach Ozzie Kanikberg's GHS Bulldogs lost two basketball games during the past week. The margin of defeat in the two games was only three points.

Friday night the local five were defeated 44-42 by the visiting Elk River Bobcats. Tuesday evening of the week the Genesee team was sent home from Troy with the short end of a 58-57 tally.

Elk River barely managed to withstand a last quarter rally Friday night on the Genesee court to defeat the Bulldogs 44-42. The Bobcats were enjoying an 11-point lead when Ken Pomponio left the court with a cut that almost caught the Bobcats before time ran out.

Boy Hillman contributed 16 points to lead the Genesee scoring. Jack Jones paced the winning Bobcats with 29 points. Elk River also won their preliminary grade school contest 25-23. Lose By One Point

Scoring twenty-six points in a big final quarter, the Genesee Bulldogs failed by a single point and lost to the Troy Trojans 57-57 on the Troy court Tuesday night.

The Trojans led 36-23 at halftime and still were ahead 47-31 after three periods before Genesee unleashed their rally.

Boy Hillman scored 16 points for the Bulldogs while Jerry Linehan and Wade Hillman netted 14 and 10 points respectively.

Troy took the B contest 34-30.

Walters In Governor Race

John G. Walters, State Land Commissioner for the past three years, announced this week that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

"I will not make any sweeping promises about tax reduction," Walters said. "Such promises might get me some votes, of course, but I know that as long as the residents of Idaho ask for and get the services they feel they need it will cost money to operate our state government."

"But I will make this promise: I will do all that I can to see that every dollar in tax revenue is spent in a way that will give the residents of this state the maximum benefit possible."

"I think we can bring about some economies in our governmental operations. I think we may have offices and agencies which are no longer needed but which have been carried on from year to year simply because they were once in use."

Ten University of Idaho Army ROTC cadets are sprouting wings. Idaho cadets for the first time here are taking flying lessons as part of their training.

When completed, the students will have a private pilot's license and will be better prepared for the Army Aviation school.

"Aircraft are now being used to advantage by all branches of the Army. The flight training program is a great time saver for the government," said Colonel George W. James, professor of military science.

"My views on gambling are well known, but I want to re-state them in a way that so there can be no mistake. I am opposed to gambling and I am against any effort to legalize it, even on a local option basis. I am certain that any revenue which resort areas might obtain from the promotion of gambling would be offset many times over by the economic loss to the State from the something-for-nothing attitude which would result."

"In entering this campaign for the highest office in Idaho's State Government, I do so humbly. If I win it will be because of the trust the people of this State have in my ability to do a good job for them. I will not let them down."

Here's the Leader Idaho Needs! CHARLES "CHUCK" HERNDON Democratic Candidate for GOVERNOR Idaho Primaries, June 5th

Herndon Announces For Governor

SALMON IDAHO — J. Charles (Chuck) Herndon today announced his candidacy for governor of Idaho. The announcement came in answer to a direct question asked during a town meeting held in the attorney's home town of Salmon.

Visitors Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Johnson and family were Mr. and Mrs. Herb Bridges and family of Clarkston, Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Malley and family of Lewiston. Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Johnson were visitors during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Borgen were Sunday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Tegland. Friday evening callers of the Teglands were Mr. and Mrs. Levi Roscoe and David and Mrs. Pat Anderson and Jackie. Jackie is spent the night with Cindy.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Becker were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Don Linnehan.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Borgen and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Danielson were coffee guests Wednesday afternoon of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Danielson.

Other administrative action listed by the native Idahoan includes adequate, sensible changes in the state's approach to education; fuller development of water resources and protection of water rights; reclamation of arid lands and consolidation and economy in government.

Herndon was born and reared in the Salmon River country. He received his first college degree from the University of Idaho. Leaving formal education, the Idaho attorney was a high school teacher in the Aro-Salmon area for five years. He did this to earn enough money to go back to college and study for a degree in law. This was accomplished in 1938.

YOUR Social Security?

Questions and Answers regarding Social Security benefits and requirements.

GROUNDHOG DAY I shall remember long—the way we took, The leafless lindens and the nipping air;

"In every instance the answer to the first question was Yes. And I received a great deal of encouragement in answer to the second," Herndon said.

"I believe the people of Idaho want and are entitled to positive leadership. The reason our sister states of the Intermountain West are growing faster than Idaho is because of our long-standing need for the positive approach."

"We must put Idaho's wheels of progress back in motion by modernizing and revising our tax structure and by being more aggressive on statewide level in seeking new industries. This same goal can be aided by having an administration in Boise that will work closely with our legislators in Washington, D. C.—instead of dutifully playing partisan politics in spite of the issues involved."

FIRST SECURITY OFFICERS NAMED AT MEETING
 V. R. Steffensen has been elevated from executive vice president to president and chief executive officer, and Ralph J. Comstock from president to vice chairman of the board of First Security Bank of Idaho, N. A. The bank's board of directors reelected J. L. Driscoll as chairman of the board.

Other senior officers reelected by the board include: Ralph J. Comstock, Jr., Focastello; E. G. Chaffier, Idaho Falls; Leo W. Jesse and H. M. Emerson, Lewiston, all senior vice presidents; and C. D. Rankin, Boise, vice president and secretary of the bank. Re-elected First Security Bank officer in Genesee was James Hoogland, Jr., manager.
 Mr. Steffensen came to Boise as executive vice president in 1959. He previously had been senior vice president of First Security Bank of Utah, N. A.

The new president is a member of the board of directors of First Security Bank of Idaho and of First Security Corporation. Mr. Steffensen has for 11 years been a member of the mortgage finance committee of the American Bankers Association, and ABA's Federal Housing Administration committee. He also has recently completed a four-year term as a member of the board of governors of Mortgage Bankers Association of America.

HAY SUPPLY SMALLER THIS YEAR, SAYS REPORT
 Idaho went into the winter with a slightly smaller supply of hay than a year ago, but it will probably last until spring. That is the cautious estimate of Wayne Robinson, marketing specialist of the university of Idaho extension service, in the current issue of Economic Facts for Idaho Farm Families.
 Cold weather and snow in January increased livestock feeding. Continued cold in February would put a further dent in the supply, but no severe shortage is expected in isolated areas. The 1961 hay crop and total supply was three percent larger than the previous year. However, by January 1, hay on hand was three percent less than it was January 1, 1961. More cold weather could increase the prices.
 On the other hand, Idaho feeders had 15 per cent fewer cattle on feed than they did a year ago, and they tend to market nine percent fewer cattle and calves during the January-March period. U. S. feeder intentions, Robinson said, suggest that fed-cattle prices will remain fairly steady during the next few months and will strengthen in the spring.
 The specialist said the potato outlook for the remainder of the marketing season remains uncertain. Storage stocks of fall potatoes are still prices strengthened somewhat in January. Despite the larger 1961 fall crop, Idaho had moved 37 per cent of the crop by the end of January, compared to 38 per cent last year and the 10-year average of 37 per cent. Fresh shipments from Idaho increased early in the month but slacked off when weather got bitterly cold.
 The outlook for onions is even brighter than was expected earlier, Robinson said. This is because of severe frost damage in Texas. Onions in western states are 26 percent less than a year ago. Growers and dealers in the Idaho-Oregon area had 31 per cent less. The small onion supply caused prices to rise in the fall and winter. They soared after the Texas freeze.

TELEPHONE PROJECTS COMPLETED IN GENESSEE
 Recently construction projects totaling $13,000 to rehabilitate pole and wire facilities were completed in the rural areas served from the Genesee exchange according to word received from Bert Eklund, Southern Division Manager of General Telephone Company at Moscow, Idaho.
 Eklund reported that the rehabilitation work consisted primarily of pole replacements and wire transfers. Similar projects of this nature are scheduled for other areas within the Division for which funds have been budgeted during 1962.
 Eklund stated further that this is part of General's overall program to maintain high quality service standards in the area operated by his company.

SCIENCE TOPICS
 MILLIONS OF AMERICANS LACK POLIO PROTECTION
 THE RISK OF POLIO is being run by more than a third of the civilian population of the United States under 60 years of age. This frightening information comes from the U. S. Public Health Service whose survey shows that 45 per cent of U. S. children over a year old had no vaccine shots in 1961. Young adults—the group in which the disease is most likely to cause crippling and death—were less than 30 per cent protected, the survey showed. Children from 5 to 14 were the best protected. The U. S. Surgeon general, urges those who haven't done so to get their shots now.
 A FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH has finally been discovered. Unfortunately it's just for baby chicks and mice. Experiments say they have "suspended" week-old chicks at that level of physiological development for six to nine months without affecting normal health or behavior. Trick is to properly juggle the amino acid balance of their diets. Using this method, the scientists say, they have doubled the life span of mice. . . .
WORLD'S LARGEST scientific organization is the American Association for the Advancement of Science. It has 60,000 members and nearly 300 affiliated societies, with a total membership of more than 2,000,000.
PORES SO SMALL that a million of them would barely cover the period at the end of this sentence give industrial catalysts a large surface area that helps speed the rate of chemical reactions. The surface of a handful of some aspirin-size catalysts weighing about an ounce, says Girdled Catalysts would cover an entire football field.
UNDERGRADUATES at Harvard University eat more than graduate students—3,300 calories a day compared to 2,900. Members of the Harvard football team put it away at the rate of 4,100 calories daily, the school reports. But that's not much when compared to the food intake of a Connecticut football squad in 1890—5,700 calories a day.

Hansen to Seek House Seat
 IDAHO FALLS — State Representative Orval Hansen (R-Bonneville), majority leader of the Idaho House of Representatives, announced this week that he will seek the Republican nomination for the office of U. S. Representative from Idaho's second congressional district.
 Mr. Hansen, 57, called on Senator Henry Dworshak.
 Mr. Hansen is now at the Smithsonian Institution. . . . LONGEST paved road anywhere will be the new Trans-Canada Highway when it is completed in 1963. It will stretch 5,000 miles from Newfoundland to the Pacific. Cost: over $1 billion. . . .

LINCOLN
 I love to think of Lincoln—tall—and great.
 Of all the things he said—and did—and gave
 To save the Union—guide the Ship of State—
 And bring a way of freedom to the slave.
 I love to think that in our hearts he lives,
 A blessed remembrance for the years to be.
 And how the inspiration that he gives Still helps to make men noble—strong and free.

Christian Science Church Service
 The spiritual significance of events in the life of the Apostle Paul will be brought out at Christian Science Church services this Sunday.
 Keynoting the lesson-lesson on the subject of "Spirit", is the Golden Text from II Corinthians (3): "Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is Liberty." Paul's enlightenment is emphasized in readings from science and health by the scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, including the citation (p. 324): "When the truth first appeared to him in Science, Paul was made blind, and his blindness was felt, but spiritual light soon enabled him to follow the example and teachings of Jesus, healing the sick and preaching christianity throughout Asia Minor, Greece, and even in imperial Rome."

YOUR Social Security? QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 Question—
 My wife and I are receiving social security benefits and we both work part time. Can we earn up to $1,200 between us and still get our benefits for the year?
 Answer—
 Each of you can earn up to $1,200 in a calendar year before any benefits are withheld.
EMPLOYMENT PICTURE IN LATAH COUNTY
 Placement of job seekers improved somewhat during the past week, over the same activity for the previous week, as well as being quite a bit higher than for the corresponding week a year ago. The ten placements for the week was somewhat higher than normal being expected for this time of year, but was occasioned by calls for workers not usually received at this time of the year. Among the workers placed was a secretary, a grocery clerk, laborers, and domestic workers.
 The number of placements made during each week, while varying slightly from week to week, should remain about the same level for the next several weeks, or until weather conditions improve to the point where more out-of-doors work can be done. Improved weather conditions making some work possible in the lumber industry has again for the third week in a row reduced the number of workers filing claims for unemployment insurance, the total recipients of unemployment insurance decreased by 22 indicating that a considerable number of workers have returned to work during the past week. Most of those workers are employed in the lumber industry.
 Of the 498 persons filing claims currently, twenty-nine are claiming benefits under the Idaho extended benefit program, and four are filing claims under the federally financed extended compensation program.

CLARENCE HIGER WILL BE CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

EMMETT - Clarence H. Higer, minority floor leader in the 1961 State House of Representatives, this week announced his candidacy for Governor, on the Democratic Ticket.

Higer has a long career of public service. He has served three terms as State Representative from Gem County, and was his county's prosecuting attorney for six years.

He is an active member of the board of directors of the Idaho Tuberculosis Association, president-elect of the Idaho Public Health Association, member of the executive board of the Oro-Fido Council of the Boy Scouts of America, and a member of the Elks Lodge, member of the vestry of the Episcopal Church, and president of the University of Kansas Alumni Association for Idaho.

He said he planned an active, intensive campaign, covering all parts of the state, between now and the primary election date, June 5.

"Throughout the years, both in private life and while holding office, this has been a goal of mine. As a member of the Idaho Legislature, I have had an opportunity to close up on the operations of the State Government. It is my view that there is much room for improvement, both administratively and financially."

C. Airhart Named New Seed Manager

Charles H. Airhart has been named to replace Robert B. Hammond as manager of Asgrow Seed Company in Genesee, it was announced this week.

Hammond, who has been in charge of the Genesee and Warden, Washington branches for a number of years, will transfer to Asgrow's California branch at Gonzales.

Airhart, who worked at Genesee for a short time in 1953, has been branch manager in Fairfield, Washington. He will be in charge of all three branches with this latest change, and others in the organization are to be given more responsibility in the various branches.

The new manager has worked for Asgrow at Hamilton, Montana; Natapa, Idaho, and has been Branch Manager at Fairfield since May, 1955.

If suitable housing can be found, Airhart will move his wife, Mildred, and four children to the new town. Linda to Genesee in the near future.

New Employee

Robert Hartmeier, a recent graduate of Washington State University, joined the Asgrow Seed Company, February 5. He has been attempting to find living quarters for his wife, Marilyn, and sons, Steve and James.

Other employees at Asgrow are H. J. Hynes, Janet Wishard, Clarence Gilge, and Lawrence Hasfurther.

Asgrow came to Genesee in 1953, purchasing the old potato warehouse and seed business of Union Producers Co. The seed company has since constructed a building 100 x 200 feet to handle additional operations.

Asgrow has expanded the cooperation and service of local farmer producers of seed peas. Planning is now underway for 1962 acreage and contracting will begin in about two weeks.

Bulldogs Bow To Moscow, Orofino

Both Moscow and Orofino high school defeated the Genesee Bulldogs basketball team during the past week, but both teams had to come from behind to finally top the local quintet.

Friday evening, February 9, the Moscow Bears visited Genesee and were forced to overcome a first quarter timeout before going on and triumphing the Bulldogs 51-37. Tuesday night of this week the Orofino Maniacs had to come from behind in the last minute to play to defeat the home team 58-56.

Bears Earn Streak

Moscow's Bears ended a three-game losing streak Friday evening when they topped the Bulldogs 51-37. Genesee jumped off to a fast start and were leading 11-6 at the end of the first quarter. Moscow came to life in the second frame and tallied 18 points while holding the home team to 6. That was enough to put the Bears back in control of the game and they never trailed. Boyd Hillman's 12 points were high for the Bulldogs.

The Moscow B team won the preliminary game 71-54.

Trailers Set For Out Win

Trailing 25-14 at halftime, Genesee's offense exploded in the second half and forced visiting Orofino to come from behind in the final 16 seconds to win 58-56.

Jerry Linehan dumped through 16 points to pace the scoring effort for the Bulldogs.

Genesee won the B game, 50-43.

Committees Discuss 1962 Community Day

Committee activities for the forthcoming Genesee Community Day celebration began this week with the general meeting held Tuesday evening in the Firemen's Hall. Most of the committee chairmen were present at the gathering and discussed preliminary plans with the executive board.

Basically, the 1962 event which will be held May 19 will be much the same as the previous years with only few changes to be made in the overall pattern.

The day will begin with the usual breakfast of eggs, sausage, pancakes, etc. The next event will be the parade with the pet parade preceding the main parade down through the center of town. It is still too early to have an indication of the number of entries in the parade. At noon the committee feels that year's event can be even bigger and better than the 1961 parade.

Following the parade the trap shooting activities will begin in the field just east of the ball park. This activity will carry on through the day until darkness brings an end to the shooting. Possible opening of a concession stand serving sandwiches, drinks and coffee at the field is in the planning stage.

The 4-H lunch stand will also begin operating following the breakfast. The menu will include coffee, sandwiches, smorgasbord lunch will be served in the Legion Building. The menu for this lunch has not yet been completely decided.

During the afternoon various races, contests and concessions will be in operation for the entertainment of Community Day celebrants. There will be the fish pond and basketball throw and other events.

The highlight of the day will be the barbecue beef supper served in the Legion Hall. The meal committee will be meeting regularly during the next two months planning for the meal.

The day will be climaxed that evening with the crowning of the Community Day Queen at the dance in the upstairs of the Firemen's Hall.

Awards Presented At Cub Banquet

Genesee's Cub Scout Pack held their Blue and Gold Banquet Friday, February 9 at the Community Church. Approximately eighty were in attendance to enjoy a hot lunch supper. Guests included the Rev. and Mrs. Lowell Messley; Mr. Babin, Scout Executive from Lewiston; and six Moscow Boy Scouts, Allyn Wagonman, Rob Foulton, Melvin Morton, George Butterfield, Mike Love, and Jim Baker. These 6 youths presented the awards:

Awards presented were: Best Scout: Ward Budge; Best Scoutmaster, John Hermann; Gary Heisingartner.

Arrows Under Wolf: John Hermann, 1 gold, 1 silver; Barry Holben, 1 silver; Dick Evans, 3 silver; Danny Thompson, 1 gold, 3 silver; Bruce Ekelund, 1 gold, 2 silver; Mike Myers, 2 silver; Craig Davis, 1 silver.

Service Stars: 1 year: Nathan Sahl, Bruce Scharnhorst, Steve Kuehlberg and Mrs. D. P. Scharnhorst; 2 year: Martin Gilge, Ronald Thompson, Bear Badge: Darrell Teichner, Dale Hickman, Bobby Schwenne, Ronald Thompson, Gold Under Bear: Dale Hickman. Lion Badge: Ronald Thompson. Gold and Silver Under Lion: Ronald Thompson.

Silver Under Lion: Craig Davis. Webelos: Craig Davis.

Denner Stripes: Michael Myers, Assistant Denner.

Coffee was served by the E-Ha-Wee Auxiliary. Entertainment was provided by Marion Holben with two movies.

Community Concert Membership Drive

Mrs. Wayne Roach and Mrs. Forrest Durbin announce the opening of the Community concert membership drive. Membership will be offered for a limited time, the close of the campaign is scheduled for February 24. Concerts this next season will include The San Antonio Symphony at Pullman and the Goldovsky Grand Opera Theatre production of Verdi's Rigoletto (in English). This will be a full scale opera with a company of 50, including orchestra, chorus, costumes, and scenery. In addition four other concerts will be announced at the close of the campaign. As a bonus for new members the Association is giving admit slips to two remaining concerts in the Moscow and Pullman cities. These will include the Seattle Little Symphony in April, at Pullman, and Brian Sullivan, a tenor, in Moscow, during March.

Membership fees are the same as last year, $7.00 for adults, and $3.00 for students. If you are not contacted and do wish to join the association, call Mrs. Roach, ATias 5-3216, or Mrs. Durbin, ATias 5-3251.

WEED CONTROL OPPORTUNITY
The 1962 feed grain program offers an opportunity to control weeds. John Gaiser, Latah County Weed Supervisor.
Where weeds are a severe pest on acreage eligible for the program, farmers can get at them out in the open on diverted acres. The farmer can throw the book at them with chemicals and cultivation. It's not like trying to fight weeds in growing crops.
Diverted acres are a good place to try some of the new weed killers. After weeds are controlled, it is recommended that a soil-conserving crop be planted.

ACK HAWLEY WILL SEEK SENATE SEAT FOR GOP
Jack Hawley, a 41-year old Boise attorney who beat Frank Church early 2 to 1 in their only previous election encounter has announced he will run for the United States Senate in year on the Republican ticket.
Hawley is a former Ada County representative who led the ticket for seat by a majority of nearly 2,000 votes over Church in 1952.

Hawley, a native Idahoan is the grandson of the late former Governor James H. Hawley and the son of the late Jess B. Hawley, a former Boise attorney and Jenny Hawley. He was educated entirely in Idaho schools from the primary grades on through the University of Idaho Law school where he earned his law degree in 1950. He was a combat Navy officer in the South Pacific Theatre during World War II and was honorably discharged in 1946 after serving four years. His crew and landing craft, attached to the Third Fleet, led assault waves in the invasion of Kwajalein, Saipan and Okinawa.
He was admitted to practice law in Idaho in 1950 and served as first assistant United States district attorney for Idaho for two years beginning in 1953. He is currently practicing law in Boise in partnership with his brother Jess B. Hawley, Jr.
In announcing his candidacy, Hawley said, "Because I was born in Idaho educated entirely in Idaho schools and lived all my life in Idaho, I have a deep interest in the welfare and progress of our state. Idaho has been good to me and members of my family for a hundred years. One of the compelling reasons that I am going to make this race is to demonstrate my gratitude by devoting my best efforts to serving Idaho, her people and her interests.
Since our present Junior Senator took office he has worked for, and sponsored legislation designed to concentrate more and more power in Washington, D. C. at the expense of the individual freedom of our citizens. This is wrong! This is not his job. It is contrary to the basic principles of individual freedom inherent in our Constitutional form of government. He was elected to the Senate in 1956 by the people of this state to represent THEM. He was not sent back there to attempt to become a profane authority on international affairs—nor did you send him to Washington to preside over the obliteration of Idaho's rights as a sovereign state or of Idaho's people as free citizens. Idaho is a small state. We depend almost entirely upon agriculture and the extractive industries of mining and lumbering. We are in a life and death competition not only with similar industries in other states but with foreign countries.

"Idaho is limited to only 2 Representatives and 2 Senators in Congress. For this reason, our representatives in Congress should be constantly alert to Idaho's needs. States with greater population have an advantage in representation. Our lack of quantity in Congress must be overcome by vigorous, alert and dedicated public servants who will fight for what's right for Idaho. And believe me, anyone who thinks you can get anything done for a small state like Idaho in Washington without really working and fighting for it has never been there.
"Our Junior Senator has not given you, the citizen of Idaho, this kind of representation, Hawley said. "He has not done the job you hired him to do."
"Idaho's Junior Senator, since he has been in the senate, has advocated and promoted almost every egghead spending plan and every bureaucrat power-grab measure that has come along. He is an author of the Federal aid to education Bill even though he knows that this aid will bring federal controls to tell our teachers exactly what and how to teach our children.
"The voting record of our Junior Senator is positively proof that he is a loud advocate of stronger federal controls and more unnecessary government spending. This program will ultimately take our nation and Idaho down the road to economic socialism.
"Idaho's Junior Senator has made trips to Africa and Europe. He has talked endlessly about how we should spend billions overseas. This may be fine for Communist Yugoslavia, but doesn't put one paycheck in an Idaho worker's pocket.
"For these reasons, and many more which I will discuss with you from

RED BOMB UNLEASHED
"TORRENT OF ENERGY"
SHOCK WAVES from the massive nuclear bomb set off by the Russians in the Arctic last October caused the needle to jump off a recording instrument at Columbia University's Lamont Geological Observatory in Palisades, N. Y. The waves were so strong they circled the earth for several days, frequently crossing each other, the scientists report. The initial shock waves reached the instrument, called a microbarograph, at the rate of one every six minutes.
WATER BOILS at 212 degrees F. at sea level where the pressure of the atmosphere is 14.7 pounds per square inch. If the pressure is reduced, it will boil at a lower temperature. So in Denver, Colorado, which has an elevation of about one mile, water boils at 203 degrees F. . . . A RAINDROPP COUNTER has been developed at New York University. Not only does it count the drops in drizzle or down-pour, but also measures each one as it falls. It separates them into 18 sizes, from less than a hundredth of an inch in diameter to more than an eighth of an inch. It can count as many as 130,000 drops a minute. The counter is used by weather researchers, soil scientists, safety engineers and aircraft engineers. By the way, most raindrops are round, not teardrop-shaped.
"PILFER-PROOF" bottle caps are turned out at a rate of almost a half-million a day on new automatic machinery made in San Francisco by Votator. The thin aluminum caps are crimped around bottles in such a way that a telltale ring of metal remains if the cap is tampered with. They're particularly useful for high-purity foods, beverages and pharmaceuticals that must be sold with assurance that they haven't been opened. . . . OPERATING IN COLD BLOOD is a new surgical technique demonstrated at Stanford University. Cold blood is circulated through the patient's head, lowering brain temperature about 30 degrees. The Stanford surgeons say the method greatly increases time available for delicate operations in or near the brain which necessitate stopping the circulation.

Good Luck To a Fine Group

There's this old joke that says, "When a school has a winning season they're playing basketball; when they have a losing season they're building character." We don't know who first used the phrase, but we'd bet it wasn't an athlete and we're sure it wasn't a coach. Just as a team can lose, play basketball, win and build character; a team can lose, play basketball and build character.

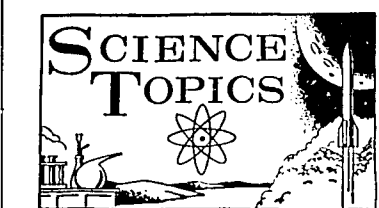

Genesee high school brings a record of 5 wins in 20 games into the forthcoming Kendrick tournament. It is not a very good record. So what? What difference does it really make? They'll play each game with all their effort and that's all you could ask.

Every school team has good years and bad years. Genesee has had some good ones, very good ones. This year they had a bad one. It's not really anyone's fault unless you'd want to blame some parents for not raising taller sons. No, let's not blame anyone, the coaching was good, the boys played hard—they just lost fifteen games—some were close, some weren't.

It takes a great deal of time and effort to coach or play any sport. The kind of season it has been for our team this year must have been, most certainly, difficult for the coach, team and school . . . probably harder than if they'd have had a more successful season . . . so we're proud of them and appreciate what they've done this season. We are proud of Superintendent Jordon Kanikkeberg, of Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg, and Coach John Merrick, and we're especially proud of every boy on the team; from the high scorers to the little fellow down on the end of the bench. They are doing their best, and more you could not ask of anyone. WR

While his partners in the Rocky Mountain fur enterprise were attending their annual Rendezvous at Bear Lake, Jedediah Smith's party of trappers was almost wiped out in the Unqupa Massacre, July 14, 1828, while returning from California.

RICE IS STAFF OF LIFE FOR A BILLION PEOPLE

MORE RICE is grown in the world than wheat. And rice consumption is increasing for a number of reasons, points out Dr. Raymond C. Crist, director of the University of Florida. Rice can be grown on poorer land than other crops, as witness Cuba where soils previously thought too poor to cultivate have been producing rice in abundance for more than a decade. Few pests and serious diseases bother rice, Dr. Crist says. The grain is a concentrated form of inexpensive calories that keeps well and can easily be shipped. Rice is the staff of life for more than a billion people, many of course, in the Orient. But even in the U. S.—not considered a rice-eating country—annual production has tripled in the last 20 years, to nearly three million tons.

PART TIME sports activity is a possibility for youths with a chronic or acute physical condition, says Dr. Herbert E. Griswold, Jr., of Postville, Ore. Dr. Griswold urges team physicians and coaches to seek out these boys and make them into specialists such as pinch hitters in baseball or punters and place kickers in football. . . . LIFE PROCESSES in individual cells are being slowed down by University of Chicago scientists. Like a show-motion picture, the technique permits a more penetrating look at the action of the vital processes.

CAVERNS are proving to be economical "vessels" for the storage of gases. So economical, in fact, that one large oil company is planning to build a large cave in history to be heven out of solid granite. But before propane gas could be stored in the huge 2.2 million cubic-foot underground receptacle in Pennsylvania, the atmosphere had to be made safe. To remove explosion hazard, Cardox pumped in 112 tons of carbon dioxide, displacing enough of the air so that the propane could be safely injected. This is believed to be the world's largest "purging" job. . . . A STERILE ATMOSPHERE for surgery in the tropics is promised with a new balloon technique developed at the Stanford University School of Medicine. A balloon of transparent plastic is fastened to the patient's skin with sterile glue. The surgeon slips his arms through the sides of the inflated bag to do the operation.

THAT UNNERVING spectacle, the small boy with a violin, soon may be less of a miracle. Captive audiences if less of a miracle. The largest A University of Nebraska project meets with success. It's the use of multiple-exposure, high-speed photographs to show Johnny exactly what happens when the instrument is played correctly. Texts illustrated by the photos will help, the school says, the they won't turn a tin ear to gold.

MANY FACTORS ENTER INTO "QUALITY" MEAT PRODUCTS

The word "quality" as it relates to meat means many things to the average Mrs. Housewife, says Dr. Leon Orme, Assistant Animal Husbandman and an authority in meat quality research at the University of Idaho. Nation-wide studies show consumers select lean cuts of meat, but in addition, there are some unusual factors which are also required before Mrs. Housewife is completely satisfied with the meat she buys. One of the most important factors is the tenderness it has after being cooked and ready to eat. In addition, she looks for juiciness and an acceptable flavor. All of these factors are in the consumer's mind.

Research in Idaho is working toward the end of producing high quality meat from beef, lamb and pork animals, reports Dr. Orme, who is collaborating on a regional and national level with other researchers. Research at the Idaho Agricultural Experiment station involves many facets which include genetic, nutritional, as well as laboratory studies to determine factors which affect the meat quality.

Guidelines are being developed to help the producer select the efficient and economical feeds. The final evaluation of these studies are, however, detailed meat carcass evaluations to see if the highest quantity and quality of good meat cuts are obtained. "We want to develop better methods of determining the ratio of lean to bone which we call meatiness," says Dr. Orme. "With these improved methods, possibly we can identify these factors in the live animal and will therefore be able to select high quality in our genetic programs."

Although the American Housewife has now available the highest quality and most economical source of meat.

Jobs In County Show Decrease

Job placements decreased somewhat during the previous week. Calls for new workers decreased, also during the week. Both were quite a bit lower than for the corresponding week a year ago. Although the decrease is noticeable, calls for workers at this time of the year is rarely very high. Logging and construction work is slow, and few if any retail sales promotions are underway at this time. Very little other work is at the point of requiring additional labor.

we can still improve this quality, concludes Orme. The ideal is an animal which has the ability to tickle the palate, calls for workers at this time of the year is rarely very high. Logging and construction work is slow, and few if any retail sales promotions are underway at this time. Very little other work is at the point of requiring additional labor.

Due to soft and muddy conditions in the woods, together with the placing of load limits on some state highways some logging activities were curtailed during the past week. Many workers from this industry filed new claims for unemployment compensation. Out of the total of 65 persons filing new claims during the week, approximately 40 were from the lumber industry. The others were from the various industries throughout the area.

Despite the fact, however, that 65 persons filed new claims for benefits during the week, the total number of persons claiming such benefits rose by only 27. This indicates that some workers returned to jobs, in addition to some who had exhausted benefits or who were determined to be ineligible for some other reasons. A total of 13 workers exhausted benefits during the week from the various industries. The extended programs and are no longer eligible for unemployment insurance.

Of the total number of workers currently drawing unemployment insurance through the Moscow office of the Employment Security Agency, 15 are filing claims against state other than Idaho, and 46 are filing against the state extended benefit program. Only 7 are filing claims based on the extended program.

Idaho Biologists Plan Booming Grounds Watch

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish-Game Department
An early spring show rivaling that of Indian powwow dancing will get underway at various times and places across southern and eastern Idaho within the next few weeks, depending on weather and altitude.

Heretofore rarely seen by man but now successfully stalked for the first time anywhere amidst the domesticity of the Jerome game farm rearing pens, this ancient ritual is the territorial and pre-mating dance of male sage grouse.

When the weather is good in the early morning and evenings, the cocks gather to dance, boom and fight until each has established his own territory. They may appear on the booming grounds where the annual life pattern begins as early as February and continues as late as May in some places, parading like turkeys. Feathers spread, wings cocked down, and silver white, course-anchored, and fixed on their breasts, the cocks make oddly high-noted plopping sounds similar to those of a Model T engine warming up many years ago.

Snow depth appears to determine the time strutting begins. After the main display commences daily strutting intensity is affected by high winds and large amounts of precipitation. Other extremes of weather do not seem to influence strutting one way or the other.

The courting and mating "honeymoon" will be followed by nesting in late April, whether in the sagebrush expanses of their natural habitat or the Jerome game farm. The eggs, much larger than those of the pheasants, are laid usually in a nest screened by sagebrush. They are pale green with brown spots and hatch in about 25 days. The downy chicks start scratching at once, grow rapidly and fly within ten days.

The ultimate purpose of the Fish and Game department's research grant at Jerome, now beginning its third year, is to make sure there always will be enough sage grouse to provide open hunting seasons. Knowledge gained from working with captive birds can be applied to the management of wild sage grouse.

This is good news for all sportsmen this artificial propagation of sage grouse for experimental purposes, because of the knowledge to be gained. Research workers everywhere also are glad to hear the news. They emphasize that captive sage grouse may show the way to better management of the wild populations. As everybody knows, not a few species have disappeared forever, included the famous passenger pigeon. Like the sage grouse, the passenger pigeon used to be so numerous as to darken the skies.

What has happened to this largest of upland game birds that once was found in flocks of thousands, that indeed was so plentiful a common practice among homesteaders was to rip off the meaty breast and throw away the remainder of the fowl? The enormous reduction in sage grouse numbers has been attributed generally to changes in the sagebrush understory and elimination of sagebrush in specific areas, widely believed to be an essential item in the diet of the native birds. But sage grouse at the Jerome game farm are being raised to maturity without ever seeing any sagebrush.

Despite the loss of habitat, the

LOCAL PROBLEMS LOCAL MANAGEMENT

Idaho's experimental program for raising sage grouse through complete life cycles from incubation to maturity is in competent hands. Biologist Duane Pyrah of Jerome earned his two degrees in wildlife and range management from the University of Idaho. He is now considered by these sage grouse workers to be the foremost living authority on this bird.

Prior to beginning the current study in the Gem state, he spent some two and one-half years in Wyoming working primarily on the sage grouse. This work included extensive pre-season trapping and banding these birds, as well as several preliminary phases of sage grouse research. He lists these as movement studies, refinement of brood census techniques, improvement of sexing and aging routines and related work.

His earliest work on sage grouse covered an area about 50 by 50 miles in Idaho's Jefferson, Clark and Fremont counties. This sector meets all of the year-round requirements of this species.

Pyrah now has 55 sage grouse raised at the Jerome farm—the end result of two years of artificial propagation work. Sixteen of these are two-year-olds. Thirty-nine of the others are yearlings, and 19 are first- and second year birds brought in wild. The knowledge and experience he has acquired working with molting birds, and the refinements he has developed in tagging and medication procedures now have reduced sage grouse rearing to a daily routine matter.

Idaho's experimental sage grouse work breaks logically into two parts along with hunter harvest.

Idaho's experimental program for raising sage grouse through complete life cycles from incubation to maturity is in competent hands. Biologist Duane Pyrah of Jerome earned his two degrees in wildlife and range management from the University of Idaho. He is now considered by these sage grouse workers to be the foremost living authority on this bird.

Prior to beginning the current study in the Gem state, he spent some two and one-half years in Wyoming working primarily on the sage grouse. This work included extensive pre-season trapping and banding these birds, as well as several preliminary phases of sage grouse research. He lists these as movement studies, refinement of brood census techniques, improvement of sexing and aging routines and related work.

His earliest work on sage grouse covered an area about 50 by 50 miles in Idaho's Jefferson, Clark and Fremont counties. This sector meets all of the year-round requirements of this species.

SNOW DEPTH

The snow depth on the highest snow course, Moscow Mountain, Saturday, February 17 measured 47 inches, with a water content of 14 inches. This is an increase of 7 inches of snow depth since February 1, 1962. Water content in inches remained the same. One year ago the snow measure on this course was 29 inches depth and 9 in. water content.

The West Twin and East Twin snow courses measured 27 inches and 30 inches respectively. This is an increase of 4 inches since the last measure February 1, 1962.

On the low elevation course on Howard Creek the snow depth measured 7 inches. This is a decrease of 1 inch since the last measure on February 1, 1962. There was no snow on this course one year ago.

Measurements are conducted through the cooperative efforts of Prof. C. C. Warnick, director of the University of Idaho Engineering Experiment Station; the Soil Conservation Service; and the Latah Soil Conservation District Supervisors.

Peter Stone Ogden took over the Hudson Bay Company Snake Brigade in 1824 and started on the first of his six Snake Expeditions (4 of which went through Idaho) on December 20, 1824.

—artificial propagation and ecological studies. The purpose of raising sage grouse at the farm is to obtain birds of known ages for experimental purposes such as the determination of weight and development curves, note progression, survival of chicks under various temperature conditions and so on. To Date, Pyrah, has obtained no survival of chicks from game farm sage grouse hens, although some chicks hatched last spring.

Plans for this year include temperature survival experiments on chicks, continued feeding experiments, correlation of egg-laying with ovary development, and studies of this breeding behavior.

The second major phase of the work the ecological studies, are long-range examinations to learn what makes good sage grouse range, as well as what makes bad or indifferent habitat. This involves collection of weather data on several breeding areas.

Pyrah candidly admits, however, that one of the most interesting experiments now in the offing will center around observation "of our own private strutting grounds at the game farm this spring."

Virtually all of the sage grouse now are in a 300-foot square open pen, restrained only through the technique of wing-clipping. He intends to be a deeply interested bystander through the various stages of breeding activity throughout the winter.

Some of our best friends are raccoons

In our job of exploring and drilling for oil we come across all kinds of small furry animals like these.

As a "visitor" in the forest, Standard has a responsibility to protect wildlife and keep the wilderness fresh and green. And we accomplish this in several ways, working closely with fish and game and wildlife officials.

Water wells, essential to our drilling operations, nourish thirsty plants and animals . . . and nesting and breeding ponds are built for wild fowl.

When wells are in, we assure new growth by reseeding grassland and by planting new trees in the work area.

Exploring teams in helicopters keep sharp watch for fires, and on the ground our men with bulldozers and water trucks stand ready to help when fire strikes.

Good conservation includes thousands of oil-producing areas that are also used for recreation, outdoor sports, farming and grazing.

Multiple use of the land allows more people to enjoy our heritage and the beauty of the great outdoors. At the same time, our natural resources are developed to serve the nation.

MINE INSPECTOR FLETCHER WILL SEEK RE-ELECTION

BOISE — George D. Fletcher, state inspector of mines this week announced that he will be a candidate for reelection on the Democratic ticket.

Fletcher, a veteran of 25 years of actual underground mining experience, pointed out that there were no underground fatal accidents in Idaho mines during 1961. This is the first time in the history of this office that such a safety record has been achieved. If re-elected, Fletcher said he will continue to stress the safety factor in all Idaho mining operations.

"It is on the operation of the inspector of mines office the past three years that I am basing my candidacy for re-election," Fletcher said. "At the end of the 1959-61 biennium, this office returned to the state's General Fund $3,081,000, or 733 per cent of the original appropriation allotted to operation of the office in that two-year span."

He said that his office has had a large number of United States Geological Survey Bulletins, many of which are now out of print and irreplaceable, bound in book form to preserve them for the office's reference library.

"In addition," Fletcher emphasized, "I have established for the first time in the history of the office, a detailed system of records on all daily, weekly, quarterly, semi-annual, and annual reports as experience in business, farming, or the professions to enable one to do a good job and save the taxpayers dollars. I have fostered sound legislation and have realized special privileges and class legislation, and have voted my convictions without fear or favor. I have made some staunch friends and stout enemies and if elected Lieut.-Governor, I shall hope to serve all the people of Idaho to the best of my ability."

The chief duties of the Lieut.-Governor are to preside over the Senate and to stand-in for the Governor in his absence or disqualification. It is not a full time job unless the Governor is unable to serve in which case the Lieut.-Governor acts as Governor in his place.

Senator Naegle is an Idaho Falls realtor by profession and has served as president of the Idaho Falls Realtors and president of the State Association of Realtors. ARE YOU PROTECTING YOUR CHILDREN'S PRECIOUS SIGHT?

Make sure your home lighting is adequate for healthful study habits...

Make this Better Lighting test yourself

FOLLOW THIS CONVENIENT CHECKLIST:

- Hold a pencil horizontally six inches from reading surface — if you see a definite shadow the light is too direct. Avoid shadows cast by hand on writing surface. Place lighting from left for right-handed people and from the right for left-handed people.
- If table lamp is used bottom rim of shade should be at least 15" from reading surface. Top of shade should be open to allow flare out of light adding to the total room lighting. Two pin-up lamps spaced 30" to centers, using 100-watt bulbs make excellent even lighting for the study desk.
- If room has any reflective surfaces be sure fixtures are properly placed to prevent any bounce-off of light or distracting "hot spots."
- If the light in the room seems dim, check the bulb sizes. Make sure the bulbs or fluorescent tubes are of adequate size. All fixtures should be properly spaced to give adequate all-over lighting.
- Check with an Electrical League dealer for advice on the type of fixtures that will solve your lighting problems.

FISH-GAME ACTIONS HIGHLIGHT MEETING

In addition to authorizing the state Merit System Council to examine all applicants and conduct oral interviews leading to the appointment of a Director of the Fish and Game department from among the top six applicants, the Idaho Fish and Game commission at its recent quarterly meeting in Boise also:

1. Set opening dates for deer and elk seasons for September 15 in the back country where early hunting is desired, September 29 and October 6 for most intermediate areas, and October 20 in extreme northern and southern units.
2. As usual, the general fishing season in the five Panhandle counties of north Idaho will be from June 4 to October 31 for streams, the same as it is statewide, and May 1 to November 30 for lakes unless otherwise specified. In all other areas of the state, the one general season applies to both streams and lakes unless otherwise specified.
3. Extended the ban on the use of "any double, treble or multiple hook" in the South Fork of the Salmon river and its tributaries to the waters of Bear Valley creek and its tributaries.
4. Reiterated the cutback on steelhead allowing two fish per day or in possession not more than four fish in seven consecutive days, and not more than 20 fish per calendar year. Steelhead under 20 inches long are classified as trout and apply possession limits for trout apply.
5. Reiterated that no changes were made in the bag and possession limits for salmon. These remain two fish under 20 inches long, since anything under that figure is classed as trout.
6. Retained the bag and possession limit on trout seven pounds and one fish but not to exceed 15 fish. The commission kept this regulation on a statewide basis, with exceptions stipulated only where local conditions warrant.
7. Doubled the limit on whitefish going from 25 to 50 fish. This is not effective until April 1, 1962, when last year's regulations expire.
8. Authorized $15,000 for airplane hire in enforcement and management programs.
9. Approved the purchase of a jet boat and trailer at $3,000 to be used on the Salmon and Snake rivers for enforcement and management programs.
10. Authorized the sale of 700,000 board feet of timber on department lands in Benevach county. Appraisal valuation is $3,000.50.
11. Approved regulations requiring metal tags on all beaver pelts shipped into Idaho from other states, unless tagged by another state.

Christian Science Church Service Brotherhood will be stressed at the Christian Science Services Sunday. Scriptural selections in the lesson sermon entitled "Divine Will" will include this advice of Paul: "Now I beseech this advice of Paul: 'Now I beseech you brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment'" (1Cor. 1).

(One of the correlative citations to be read from science and health with key to the scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy states (pp 469-470) "With one father, even God, the whole family of man would be brethren; and with one Mind and that God, or good, or brotherhood of man would consist of Love and Truth, and have unity of principle and spiritual power which constitute divine science."

The Lewis and Clark Expedition reached Idaho at Lemhi Pass, August 12, 1805, the first known white men to explore this State.

Most certainly First Security is a farmers' and ranchers' bank — and has been for many years. That's why we have a staff of agricultural specialists to help with planning, budgeting and the many problems that confront operators of big spreads and little ones alike.

While we are interested in making loans for feed, seed, fertilizer, machinery, equipment and the like — we are most interested in helping make farm and ranch operations more successful. This, of course, is what you want. By working together we all benefit. And this includes assistance in 4-H and FFA youth projects, too.

How to take advantage of the "know-how" of our agricultural specialists

Our agricultural specialists are at your service — without cost or obligation. To arrange for a meeting the next time one of these specialists is in this area, merely contact the manager of the First Security Bank nearest you.

SAGE GROUSE STUDY GETS GOOD RESULTS

Chances appear good that the critical downward population trends of sage grouse can be stabilized and reversed, the Idaho Fish and Game department announced today.
Once so plentiful that homesteaders saved only the meaty breast for the stew pot, sage grouse numbers dwindled over the past three decades until the Idaho Fish and Game commission found it necessary to restrict hunting, study population trends, and undertake special research projects.
A pioneer study of sage grouse growth and survival characteristics, beginning with experimental rearing of birds at the Jerome game farm, was launched in 1950. This study will be carried into the field phase involving analysis of the quality and quantity of sage grouse range. This is expected to establish procedures for arresting the present decline.

Part of the research program, which is financed with federal aid funds under the Pittman-Robertson act, reared sage grouse for the first time anywhere from eggs to maturity in sufficient numbers to yield scientific data on molt, growth and breeding phenology.
The field phase of the study was begun with establishment of weather stations, stock enclosures and range transects in several sage grouse production units of southern Idaho.
On April 12, 1961, Alexander Henry whose party was attacked by Blackfoot Indians on the upper Missouri, crossed the continental divide to seek safety on the Snake River and built Fort Henry in what later was Idaho.

DUST CLOUDS ON MOON THREAT TO EXPLORERS

BLINDING DUST CLOUDS kicked up by rocket exhaust could well be the greatest danger that arises as a space vehicle lands on the moon, says the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. This dust would not only obscure astronaut's vision, but it could jar radar and even the operation of the spacecraft itself, NASA adds. A perplexing problem for the unknown properties of lunar terrain. Should the moon have a thick layer of soft dust, the scientists say, wide treads or oversize shoes would be the answer. . . . HOW MANY people, all told, have lived on this earth? About 77 billion, estimates the Population Reference Bureau. Today's population of about three billion is approximately four per cent of the total.
NEW SILVER is produced in the world at the rate of 210,000,000 ounces a year. New commercial uses have been found for it in electronic contact points, in the framework of batteries and in especially light, strong and heat-resisting alloys. The U. S. and Canada are the chief users of silver coins. The federal government has 60,000 tons of silver stored at West Point and San Francisco, enough to make coins for the next 30 years. . . . JET PLANES would not be possible without the development of high-quality stainless steel electrode welding electrodes, reports Alloy Rods Co. The stainless exhaust sections of the planes and dissimilar metals in precision jet engines are joined by this advanced method of welding.
FEED YOUNGSTERS fewer calories per day, advise scientists of Cornell University. If protein and vitamin consumption are kept at accepted levels, the children will grow to be smaller but longer-lived adults. Average life span of 110 years and more is envisioned. . . . FLIGHT RECORDERS would be required on many non-airline aircraft if a new Federal Aviation Agency rule is adopted. The FAA seeks improved flight recording because of its value in accident investigations and analysis of in-flight accidents. All turbine-powered airplane transports and those airline craft that fly above 25,000 feet must now carry the units.
DURING WORLD WAR II America produced 41 billion rounds of small arms ammunition, enough to last 40 centuries fired at the rate of 20 rounds a minute. . . . TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS on the island of Bjarkoy, Norway, rose sharply in 1961 to a rate equal to 5,000 accidents per 10,000 registered vehicles, reports the National Safety Council. Here's why: The Arctic island's only car collided with its only car collided with its only truck at a bend in its only road!

Christian Science Church Service
Value to all mankind of the healing ministry of the Master will be stressed at Christian Science church services Sunday in a Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Christ Jesus."
Luke's account of the healing by Christ Jesus of the man with dropsy will be included in the Bible selections from science and health with key to the scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy this citation will be read (p. 180): "When man is governed by God, the ever-present Mind who understands all things, man knows that with God way to this living Truth, which heals the sick, is found in the science of divine Mind as taught and demonstrated by Christ Jesus."
The Golden Text is from Colossians (2): "As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in him and established in the faith, as ye

MARCH
Give me the mad-gad March with tempests raging
With daffodils to bloom and nod and sway;
Give me the vernalite that knows no ageing
And change the winter in my heart to May.
Give me a lane along the wind-swept willows
And walk beside me in the twilight gloom;
When nimbus clouds are tossed in stormy billows
And budding starflowers light the pathway home.
Give me your kiss with stress of longing broken,
A wedge of wild geese ploving mad-March skies;
Silence through which love's ultimate is spoken
By sweet surrender in your love-lit eyes. —Bert Gamble

SEN. FREDERICKSEN NAMED YEARS FARMER-SPORTSMAN

The Idaho Landholder-Sportsman Council will pull all stops this year in its anti-litterbugging campaign now in the offing, according to Ch. Alvin Benson of Melba.
He says members are beginning to see the relationship between people who dump garbage along roadsides, never clean up a camp site before leaving and otherwise sully the landscape and the irresponsibility of hunters and fishermen who heedlessly leave gates open, drive across cultivated fields, irrigation ditches, and seem to shoot at anything that moves or makes noises.
"Litterbugging causes farmers to pull up the welcome mat every bit as fast as carelessness around stock, gates, and other property," Benson added.
Don Fredericksen, past chairman of the group, was named farmer-sportsman of the year and awarded a plaque for his efforts over many years to improve feelings between those who till the soil and those who hunt on private property. It was noted at a recent Boise meeting that Fredericksen, a state senator from Gooding, developed a "sign-in" program as a means of keeping records of the people who hunted on his property, when, and their addresses. This fixed responsibility.
I have found it a very good thing to have a limit on the number of hunters on my place at the same time and the sign-in program sets up a very good control system," Fredericksen explained. "Actually, I've found that it is necessary to invoke the hunter limit just on opening day of the pheasant season. On all other days, no limit is necessary."
Twenty individuals and organization representatives attended the Boise meeting. These included representatives from the Idaho Wildlife Federation, Farm Bureau Federation.

PRESENTS TELESCOPE AND ASTRONOMY EQUIPMENT TO UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO

Two small telescopes and astronomy equipment valued at more than $2,000 has been presented to the U. of I. by Mrs. Lena Palutha, of Moscow.
The equipment was donated by her husband, the late Richard H. W. Palutha, whose hobby was astronomy. Memorial plaques will be attached to the two telescopes.
Dr. M. M. Renfrow, head of the physical sciences department said the equipment would be used as a student aid for students studying astronomy. The telescopes will be operated from the top of the Physical Sciences Building.

Wildlife Information Forum Streamlined for TV

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish-Game Department
Public sentiment is everything. Without it, nothing can succeed. This is a truism today just as it was a hundred years ago when A. Lincoln stated it so forcibly—and just as it was on back through the centuries before the epoch of America's 16th president.
For example, the general knowledge of man, women and children must include basic concepts of wildlife management if one of Idaho's most important resources is to be perpetuated indefinitely. If fishing, hunting and recreation for everyone—residents and visitors alike—is to be renewed annually for generations to come.
It must be common knowledge that increasing pressures of land use for agriculture and recreation already have brought many new problems, and that these indubitably will multiply. Modern wildlife management depends on research and study of the facts. This information must be applied to present-day economic conditions to arrive at the most harmonious and beneficial use of the wildlife resource.
But first, the public should be told about an impending study project before it begins, then be informed as to the results—and how the new knowledge is to be used.
For many years the Idaho Fish and Game department has presented the fundamental concepts of wildlife management to junior and senior high school students, pointing up the relationship of land use to fish and game crops. Such conservation materials were disseminated at teacher workshops and ultimately insinuated into school curricula. Gun safety instruction in the classrooms by department personnel also made use of ideas designed to preserve the sporter's tradition of abundant wildlife and freedom to hunt and fish.
But what about the adult segment of the population, the men and women now using fish and game resources? Why limit the formal instruction to the sportsmen of tomorrow? Adults too, should be "sold" on the programs and policies of the department. When ever possible, they should be acquainted with the personal responsibility for the management of wildlife resources.
A quick look around found that the idea for organized adult education on conservation subjects is not new. Montana, for instance, developed such a course for sportsmen at Hamilton in the Bitterroot valley over a decade ago. The first few sessions, given during the winter of 1949-50 under the auspices of Montana state university, dealt with the primary principles underlying the proper management of soil and water. It was the equivalent of a summer course for credit at the college level.
Getting wildlife management down to earth took some doing. But as sportsmen began to understand how a fish or game population is dependent on its environment, its habitat, its food and cover, they began grasping some of the previously misunderstood actions of the Montana department.
Not only was this story appealing—it needed to be told. For the first time a conservationist could come right out and talk without qualms about studies of the life histories of fish and game, of the compilation and use of basic facts for management, and of the many new techniques being developed to put wildlife on a businesslike basis.
These public meetings moreover led to a general understanding of the broad principles underlying the need for conservation of all renewable resources, not just fish and game.
Benefiting from Montana's experience, the Idaho program developed somewhat differently. The plan is to go right into a community, find a meeting room, gather as many people from all walks of life as possible, and

Winter Waterfowl Inventory
Summary figures from the recent winter waterfowl inventory made in cooperation with the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife show some 550,000 migratory waterfowl in Idaho. Of this total, about 622,000 were ducks, 3,700 geese, and the rest coots and swans. The overall figure is about the same as last year but 13 per cent above the long-time average for Idaho. Ducks were four per cent higher than last year and 20 per cent above the long-range average. In recent years, Idaho has harbored about 20 per cent of the wintering mallards on the Pacific flyway at the time of the inventory.
Some 384 of the rare trumpeter swans were found during the survey on the North Fork of the Snake river in eastern Idaho. This is about 30 per cent more than the usual number wintering in the state.
Duplicate Punch Cards
Remember only one steelhead punch card is issued per licensed fisherman if he wants it—and this is not transferable. Anyone who purchases more than one fishing license to get two or more steelhead punch cards with the intent of violating steelhead regulations will be prosecuted. In the event a punch card is lost or mutilated beyond use, a new punch card may be issued if the holder signs an affidavit outlining the situation and submits it to a license vendor or conservation officer.
Non-resident steelhead anglers who purchase more than one short-term tourist license must use the punch card issued to them on the first license. Vendors control this by recording the class and license number of each succeeding short-term license on the upper portion of the steelhead punch card initially issued.
Record Idaho Fish
If you can prove it, the department wants to know about your big fish that didn't get away. Maybe it was an all-time Idaho record—which often means a world's record to boot!
Following are existing Idaho records by classes. Can you top 'em?

The trout division of ten different species records the following:
Mackinaw, 51 pounds, 2 ounces; kamloops, 37 pounds, 19 ounces; steelhead, 27 pounds, 6 ounces; hybrid cutthroat-trout, 23 pounds, 4 ounces; brook, 6 pounds, 10 ounces; brown, 22 pounds, 4 ounces; golden, 5 pounds, 2 ounces; Dolly Varden, 32 pounds.
The salmon division records a 42-pound, 8-ounce chinook; sockeye, 4 pounds; and kokanee, 3 pounds, 10 oz. Others:
Sturgeon (taken on rod and reel), 334 pounds; sturgeon (set line) 675 pounds; largemouth bass, 10 pounds, 15 ounces; smallmouth bass, 5 pounds, 4 ounces; channel catfish, 19 pounds; Salmon river from Sheep bridge; Sunny Gulch (approximately 3 1/2 miles above Stanley) upstream for (mountain) 5 pounds, 4 ounces; sunfish, unknown; and ling, 14 pounds. Commission Highlights

Fishing is never out of season in Idaho. Year-round angling waters are available nearby to most residents in all areas of the state, and winter fishing is a growing sport. Now the Fish and Game commission announces the opening of four more favorite fishing waters. These are: Smith Lake in Boundary county, from February 1 through June 3; Payette river from Montour bridge upstream to the confluence of the North and South Forks of the Payette, February 1—June 3; Salmon river from Sheep bridge; Sunny Gulch (approximately 3 1/2 miles above Stanley) upstream for whitefish only, February 1—March 31 and the Big Lost river from Highway 93 A bridge one mile south of Leslie upstream to Mackay reservoir for whitefish only, January 27—February 28.

IDAHO TRAFFIC ON REPEAT CYCLE

Everything to be said about Idaho's 1962 fatal accidents has been said before.

During January it was the same old story. There were 10 fatal accidents and 13 people killed. It was the same repetitious "contributing circumstances" that are expected to be used to warn, frighten or persuade other drivers who have not yet been involved or who are not yet dead.

Three different drivers had crossed clearly visible highway center lines. All of them and a passenger died.

Married, at the residence of M. C. Harris Tuesday, Feb. 28 at 8 p. m., by L. N. B. Anderson, Arthur Harris to Miss Lydia Pinkert.

stopped dead in their tracks. There were no stop, yield or warning signs for two other drivers to see.

Millions of printed words by newspapers and pamphlets and as many more spoken over radio and television were ignored by these drivers who blamed nature for leaving ice on the highway so they couldn't stop and prevent the death of innocent persons who cannot speculate on the causes of accidents.

At least three deaths occurred where economy was more important than the gamble that a few dollars invested in signs might contribute to accident prevention. The economy phase probably was being discussed while minor violations were being spent to send a man to the moon.

To blame the fatal crashes on any single factor would satisfy no one except those who like to distort statistics. In each case where speed (such as 80 miles an hour) or liquor was involved, there were other contributing circumstances. However, most of them will be posted in convenient dust-proof files and the search will continue for the answer

SOIL TESTING INCREASED IN IDAHO IN 1961

Soil testing in Idaho increased 150 per cent in 1961 compared with the year before, Charles Painter, soils specialist of the University of Idaho extension service has reported. The summary shows 5,487 samples were analyzed for 19,000 tests. The figures for 1960 were 2,126 samples and 7,300 tests.

Painter said the increase was mainly because of intensified efforts in several counties.

Tests by the soils laboratory at Moscow showed 91 per cent of the samples from southern Idaho were alkaline. Most of these samples had a favorable Ph value for crop production.

In northern Idaho, including Valley County, about 95 per cent of the samples were acid.

About a third of the southern Idaho soil were low on organic matter. For

To Celebrate 84th Anniversary
The Genesee Valley Church will celebrate their 84th anniversary on Sunday, March 18. A covered dish dinner will be served at noon for all former members and friends of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eglund, Sr. and Mrs. Earl Parsons entertained members of the Genesee Valley Church at a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Eglund. Visitors present were State President, Mrs. H. G. Marshall, Lewiston; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Lavelle Peer, Caldwell; Mrs. George of Fix Ridge; Mrs. W. L. Haxge, and Mrs. W. O. Borgen.

The answer is no, James N. Broyles Contract Representative, VA Hospital in Spokane, said this week.

Veterans benefits are tax free. These benefits which do not need to be reported as income and must be reported as income tax return.

The only exception is interest earned by GI life insurance dividends left on deposit with the VA. It is only the interest earned by such dividends, not the dividend, which is taxable and must be reported, Broyles pointed out.

Broyles said either he or Leonard A. Clemens is at the Idaho Employment Unit.

Following his discharge from the service in 1946, he married the former Dolores Morrow of the Cottonwood-Grangeville area. They have two children, Brent, 14 and Colleen, 9.

The candidate sold a cattle ranch which he owned and operated in Eastern Oregon in 1947. He then purchased a motion picture theatre in Cottonwood. During this time he also assisted his mother-in-law, Mrs. Alberta Morrow, in the operation of her cattle ranch and timber interests in Idaho county.

In 1951, Padgett entered the College of Idaho, receiving a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science and Economics in 1953 or in a little more than two years. That same year he entered the University of Chicago Law School as a National Honor Scholar. He was awarded a Doctor of Laws degree in December, 1955.

Padgett was employed by the Idaho Department of Highways in December 1955 and submitted his resignation from that position February 1 of this year.

Padgett was chief attorney for the Highway department during the past three years when the present attorney general attempted to force his services upon the department. Several law suits arose from the attorney general's attempts, all of which were lost by the attorney general's office. As a result of one of the suits, Padgett worked without salary for seven months.

On alkaline soils about 54 per cent of the 4,400 samples tested indicated need for phosphate fertilizer. The acid soils about 44 per cent of the samples showed need for additional phosphate.

Approximately 18 per cent of the samples indicated need for potash. The areas of low potash are scattered throughout the state, relating in many cases to coarse-textured soils.

SCIENCE TOPICS

BACKACHE MAY BE INHERITED

THAT ACHING BACK may run in the family. An Ohio State University doctor reports that in one Columbus, Ohio family the father and 11 of his 12 children suffer from similar backaches. Dr. Benjamin B. Wilkber, clinical associate professor of surgery, claims that some people inherit a structurally weak back and that a sudden movement can produce a painful slipped disc. So when putting objects on the house or garden go easy on your back, the doctor warns, since treatment is time-consuming and not always successful without a bone-fusing operation. . . . WORLDWIDE AIR TRAVEL was the greatest event in 1961. International and domestic scheduled airlines of 90 United Nations members states carried 112 million people 72 billion passenger miles during the year, reports the International Civil Aviation Organization, a UN agency. These figures represent a six per cent gain over 1960, according to ICAO.

AMERICAN YOUTHS should know as much about mathematics, physics and chemistry as they know about driving a car, says Maj. Gen John B. Medaris (Ret.), former head of the Redstone missile project. Scientific knowledge won't be confined to research, Medaris says. He believes it will be fundamental to the art of living if man is to control the machines that are built for him. . . . DOZEN YEARS AGO plastic piping was something of a novelty. Today it is finding ever-increasing acceptance in industry and in the home. According to Tube Turns Plastics, more than nine out of 10 applications carrying corrosive liquids at temperatures below 225 degrees F. are handled better and more economically by plastic pipe and fittings than by metals or other conventional materials.

FRANUT OIL can be used as a fuel in an experimental turbine engine for passenger cars. It will also run on diesel oil, gasoline, kerosene, alcohol, furnace oil or jet fuel.

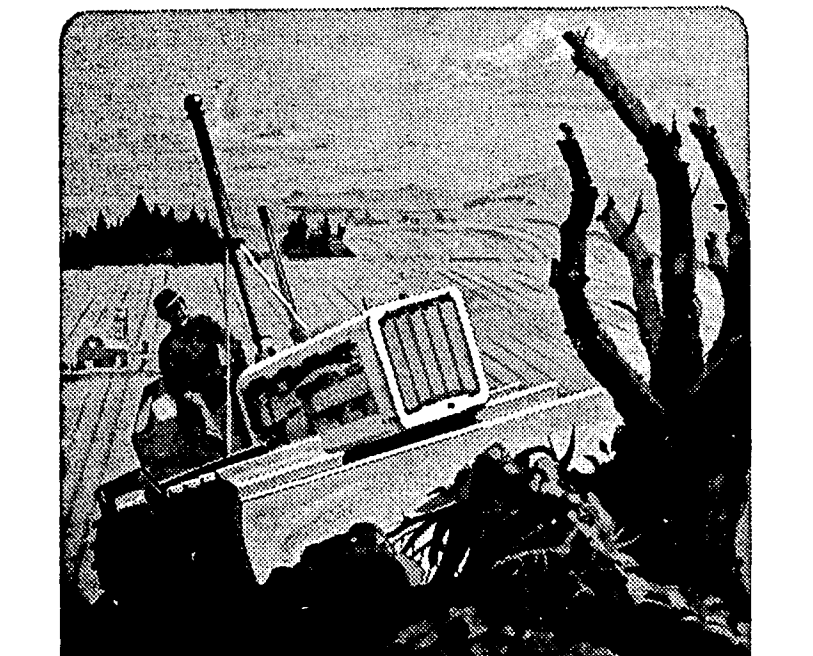

CELOPHANE is trying to push cotton out of the top of the pill bottle. About four million pounds of cellophane will be stuffed into the bottle this year by one leading maker. Adherents claim cellophane protects the pills more efficiently against chipping and breaking. . . . TAPE-RECORDED distress cries are startling starlings who endanger Tennessee Valley Authority high-power lines. Foreign objects on insulator wires may cause a circuit to the ground, permitting a surge of power which can damage equipment and cause power failures. The taped cries are played over portable loudspeakers and starlings evaluate their roosts for a half-mile around. A few repeat performances drive them away for good. How do you get those recorded distress cries? Just catch a starling, says the TVA and turn him upside down.

BOUQUET OF MEMORIES

The winter fairylands where frost-flowers came.

The cedar waxwings in the orchard row.

Where bitternweet and mountain ash aflame.

Gave—with their golden harvest long ago.

The leafless lindens by the frozen stream.

In bold array against the wintry blast Now skirt the rugged craglands of my dream.

In sweet remembrances too dear to last.

The calendar that told of lengthening days.

When daffodils would blow on upland leas;

Somehow within my heart forever stays

To brighten my

YOUR Social Security? QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: I am a waitress in a restaurant. My employer withholds social security tax on the value of the meals I am furnished. Is this correct?

Answer: Your employer is correct. Even though you do not pay income tax on the value of your meals when they are furnished for the convenience of your employer, wages in kind count for social security purposes. Your employer must withhold social security tax on the value of your meals the same as he does from your cash wages. Your social security account will be credited with the combined total of your cash wages and the value of the meals furnished to you.

Erwin Schwiebert Will Seek GOP Congressional Seat

Erwin H. Schwiebert, a former state Senator from Caldwell, this week announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Congress in the First District. He was the Republican candidate in 1954, losing to the incumbent, Mrs. Pfof, by the narrow margin of all her races for re-election. He has not been a candidate since 1954, but now has taken leave of his regular employment to re-enter politics.

"We should be taking the sounder road of constitutional government, fiscal responsibility, sound and stable money, limited central power, and greater personal freedom, integrity and responsibility so as to make the best use of the abilities and intelligence of all our people in meeting their personal and national goals."

"While Mrs. Pfof tends to encourage conflict between labor and management, I would seek greater understanding and cooperation among members of American's great productive industry. While Mrs. Pfof believes in the promotion of private enterprise, I believe that the government's role should be that of a referee guaranteeing justice and fair play."

"My greatest encouragement to enter this First District contest has come from people who, like myself, are concerned about the threat of communism, the future of our country, and the preservation of freedom and opportunity. Encouragement has come from working men and women who are constantly facing the rising costs of living due to inflation brought on by deficit spenders like Mrs. Pfof. This same encouragement has come from senior citizens of the purchasing power of their retirement income and savings. It's time we're doing something about it."

"I'm applying for the job of serving the people of the First District, and will appreciate help toward that end. I'd like opportunities to speak to groups throughout the district—business, church, civic, educational, farm labor, professional and other groups—to make my position clear on specific issues. We Americans need to think through our state and national problems together, and to work to solve them. Such an approach can unite all Republicans and attract the support of most independents and many Democrats."

"The first job during the next month will be to develop a campaign organization. I have been a candidate for office for almost eight years, so there is much to be done. I'm grateful for the many who have volunteered to help and hope that there will be many more."

Schwiebert served in the Idaho Legislature for ten years—four terms in the House and one in the Senate. He was House Majority Leader in 1947.

SWINE TESTS CONTINUE

AT U. OF ID. HO BRANCH

Four of nine litters in the third round of swine testing at the Caldwell branch experiment station of the University of Idaho passed the qualification requirements according to unofficial data reported this week. The number brings to nine the total of qualified litters in the three rounds of testing. Twenty-seven litters have been tested. The tests just concluded started last October 15.

The fourth round will begin in April. The tests are conducted by the University with the Idaho Swine Producers' association.

J. J. Dahmen, station superintendent, said final results of the third test are being compiled at Moscow. He said, however, that it appeared four litters had definitely satisfied the requirements. Boar litter mates of the tested barrows are eligible for recognition as superior sires.

Six of the pigs had more than five square inches of loin eye. Foursquare inches are necessary to qualify. Meeting this requirement has been one of the major problems of hogs in Idaho tests, Dahmen said. The best loin eye of all 27 pens was 7.11 square inches.

Average thickness of backfat on the latest nine pens of pigs was 1.39. The average daily rate of gain was 1.92 pounds. The hogs ate an average of 340 pounds of feed for 100 pounds of gain. Best feed conversion of all 27 pens was 294 pounds of feed to 100 pounds of gain.

Four breeds were represented in the tests. They are Landrace, Duroc, Yorkshire, and Hampshire.

SNOW SURVEY ON MOSCOW MOUNTAIN SHOWS INCREASE

The March 3 snow survey on Moscow Mountain shows an increase in snow cover on all the courses as compared to the February 17th survey. Water content remains high on all the upper courses.

The Moscow Mountain snow course has 88 inches of snow with 47 inches of water, as compared to 47 inches of snow and 14 inches of water on the February 17 survey. Last year's survey on March 1 showed 36 inches of snow and 11 inches of water.

The Sherwin snow course was measured on March 2 for the first time this winter. This course is located in the hills near Moscow.

Four breeds were represented in the tests. They are Landrace, Duroc, Yorkshire, and Hampshire.

Sausage-Waffle Supper

At Legion Building Saturday

Bielenberg-Schooler Post 58, American Legion, will be sponsoring a public sausage and waffle supper this Saturday evening, March 17, between the hours of 5 and 9 P. M. in the Legion Memorial Building. A dance will follow serving of the meal. Features for supper will be homemade sausage prepared by members of the Legion Post under the supervision of Ray Stout. The sausage will be served with waffles, applesauce, coffee, milk, syrup, and butter. Prices for the meal are $1.25 for adults; 75 cents for children, age 6 to 12 and pre-school children will be served free. According to Legionnaires, this is an "all you can eat" type of supper.

J. P. Hermann, chairman of the food committee, and other Legion volunteers spent Monday and Tuesday of this week at the Ray Stout ranch working three hogs up into sausage and getting it into the smoke house. Door prizes of sausage will also be an added attraction.

Larry Sorensen, chairman of the ticket committee, said this week that advanced ticket sales were going very well and all indications point to a successful evening.

Officers and members of the local Legion Post have extended a cordial invitation to everyone in the community to attend the supper and dance.

Charity Hoop Game Sunday

A benefit basketball game will be played at GHS gym this Sunday afternoon, March 18, at 2:00 p. m. The contest will match Moscos Motors squad from Moscow, composed chiefly of Genesee residents, against a make-up team from Genesee.

The Genesee team will be DuWayne Bosch, George Hines, Jim Watkins, Howard Brueggeman, Bob Jacobs, Ozzie Kanikbeberg, Dave Primus, Jim Magee and several others. On the Moscos Motors team, which has been competing in the Moscow City League this year, are Sonny Brueggeman, Bill Broemmeling, Roger Kinyon, Bob Spence, George Horde-man, and Dave Brueggeman.

Rulon Swensen Announces Candidacy

BOISE — Rulon Swensen, the first person in Idaho's history to serve as both State Auditor and State Treasurer, announced this week he will seek the Republican nomination as Treasurer.

The 44-year-old native Idahoan was appointed State Treasurer June 20, 1959, by Governor Robert E. Smylie to fill the unexpired term of the late Ruth Moon.

W. W. P. Trailblazers to be Honored March 17

A total of 272 active and 234 retired employees, including 30 from the Palouse division, will be honored at the W. W. P. Trailblazers dinner on March 17 at the 8th grade graduation banquet to be held Saturday, March 17 in Spokane.

John B. Murray, Palouse division manager, said the year's affair 24 honor employees with 20 or more years of service with the pioneer electric utility. This year's event commemorates the 72nd anniversary of the founding of WWP, March 13, 1889.

Thirteen active employees will be awarded 20-year pins and enter Trailblazer ranks for the first time. Fifteen active employees will get 25-year pins. Two have earned 30-year pins and three who are still on the job will be awarded 40-year pins by WWP president George M. Brunzell.

Murray said that of the thirty Palouse division employees who are Trailblazers, nine are still working every day. Seven of them are from Pullman, three from Moscow, three from Tekoa, two from Colfax and one each from Genesee, Rosalia and Latah. Floyd Ochs, local WWP representative is the Trailblazer from this city.

Idaho Hunters Harvested 72,000 Deer, 15,000 Elk

Idaho's deer, elk and bear harvest totals for last fall were released this week by the Fish and Game department—with an explanation. Calculated totals on deer and elk killed during the 1961-62 season, based on harvest questionnaire and showing slight losses from comparable 1960 figures nevertheless indicated that 72,400 deer and 15,700 elk were bagged in the state.

Levi Mohler, chief of game management, pointed out that this was the fourth consecutive year when the deer harvest exceeded 70,000, and the seventh straight year that the elk kill was over 13,000.

He added that mule deer amounted to 84 per cent of the statewide deer harvest and that whitetail deer represented the remaining 16 per cent. Some 87 per cent of all deer were taken on regular deer tags and the remaining 13 per cent on "multiple" deer tags in the special areas.

Mohler said the state's deer harvest last year was down four per cent under what it was in 1960—the all-time record—and the elk kill was about five per cent under the previous year's total.

Thieves Hit Service Station Monday Night

Genesee Service Station was burglarized in the early hours Tuesday, March 13. Amounts of cigarettes, candy, gum, a bucket and chamois skin were among the items reported missing by owner Leroy Harris. Most of the items were later recovered.

Entry was made by breaking the glass in the front door of the service station. In doing so, one of the culprits suffered a badly cut hand or arm, judging by the amount of blood which was in evidence in the station office.

Once inside the persons rifled through the cigarette and candy display, taking various packages of cigarettes. In this matter the thieves were choosy, taking some brands and leaving others alone. Candy and gum was also taken. One of the robbers attempted to eat a package of shrimp which was processed to be used as fishing bait. The robber apparently didn't like the taste of it.

Footprints and several empty beer bottles were also found around the scene of the crime.

On leaving the station, the robbers apparently made their way out of town carrying the stolen articles in a bucket, also taken from the station. Cigarettes, gum and candy were strewn in a path out of town. Some of the items were thrown along the roadside in front of the West End Elevators and then the thieves threw their entire haul into the creek at the Genesee Junction.

Police Chief James Watkins, who investigated the break-in with Latah Deputy Ed. Finson, stated Thursday morning that there was definite information concerning the identity of the thieves but no names could be released pending further investigation.

Police Chief James Watkins spent Wednesday in the Winchester area where he was part of a unit of area law enforcement officers engaged in a man hunt for a Winchester resident sought on four charges. The criminal was apprehended.

Variety of Weather Felt This Week

Genesee and the rest of the Palouse area endured a variety of weather conditions this week. The variety ranged from a blinding snow storm Sunday to spring-like weather later in the week.

Snow fell intermittently during the weekend, sometimes snowing as much as two inches in the night, and then melting by day time. The storm culminated Sunday with a brief but furious snow storm Sunday morning that dropped several inches of snow to the ground.

By Monday the weather began to improve and by the middle of the week Genesee was basking in sunny weather, shining down from a clear, blue sky. Only patches of snow in sheltered areas, remain on the ground.

Apply Early For Social Security

People who are nearing or past 62 years of age can save time and speed up the payment of their first social security checks if they get in touch with the social security office early.

James B. Myers, District Manager of the Lewiston Social Security office, said that an application for retirement payments can be filed as much as three months before the person actually retires. He also noted that people who plan to go on working past retirement age should get in touch with the office to find out if there is a change in the law will permit them to collect some payments in addition to their earnings.

To insure prompt payments of the first check, persons who call at the office should bring their social security cards, proof of age and date of birth and evidence of 1961 earnings—withoutholding statement (Form W-2) for employees or copies of Federal income tax returns and proof of payment of taxes for self-employment.

Mr. Myers explained that even if all of these papers are not available, no one should delay filing an application for benefits. The social security office located at 113 Main Street, in Lewiston, will suggest other proofs that may be used.

County Agent Offers Advice On Pruning Plants

Early spring is the best time to prune most ornamental plants. Just in time for activity is a new bulletin of the University of Idaho agricultural extension service. It is called, "Pruning Ornamental Trees, Shrubs, and Fruit Trees." The author is Tony Horn, extension horticulturist. Copies are on hand at the office of the county agent.

The bulletin gives tips on trimming many Idaho plants, tells what tools to use, and offers suggestions on pruning fruit trees in the back yard. "Pruning keep plants neat," says Horn. "Done correctly, it tends to hold plants in bounds and preserve their natural beauty. Pruning invigorates older plants and stimulates growth of foliage, stems, flowers and fruit. It prevents malformation and offsets loss of roots at planting time."

"Generally, it is best to prune early in the spring while plants are still dormant. Framework of the plant is easy to see before leaves come out. Early fall pruning may force the plant into new growth and make it vulnerable to winter injury."

Spring-blooming shrubs such as forsythia, spirea, flowering quince, and lilac, the horticulturist says tends to get leggy and are generally pruned just after blooming. They are pruned by cutting out all the dead and diseased canes, and weak wood and taking out some of the older branches close to the ground. Suckers are left to take the place of old branches unless the variety is budded on a different under stock. In that case, all suckers coming from the understock are removed as close to the point of origin as possible.

The bulletin also tells how to prune berry bushes, hedges, roses, vines, and grapes.

IDAHO BIG GAME HARVESTS EXPECTED TO REMAIN HIGH

By Jim Humbird Idaho Fish and Game Department. Sometime late in the month of April Idaho's Fish and Game Commission will set details of the 1962 big game regulations, basing them solidly on careful study of last fall's hunting experience and on winter and spring game surveys.

The commission already has set opening dates for deer and elk seasons this year. These are September 15 in the back country where early hunting is desired; September 29 and October 6 for most intermediate sections; and October 29 in extreme northern and southern units.

Biologists assigned to big game work likewise have their mid-winter Boise planning sessions behind them. Here they made detailed analyses of the 1961 big game season, and prepared the amount of hunting pressure in the various drainages, and the extent of game removal. They found that some management units are unlikely to get enough hunting pressure unless the seasons are opened early in the fall. And they found, too, that late hunting is especially important in white-tailed deer country.

Weather conditions have a profound effect on the success of deer and elk hunters. They also affect the psychology of nimrods and the habits of big game. For example, opening week of the season is usually in the Dwybe, Cassia, Albion, Sublett and Oneida areas held the deer kills down.

A corresponding slump was noted in the bear kill figures—only seven. The overall deer harvest, down only four per cent from 1960, exceeded 70,000 animals for the fourth consecutive year. And elk kills went over 13,000 for the seventh season in a row despite being off by about five per cent of last year's 16,500. But the bear harvest was down a whopping 38 per cent.

Usually there is only a slight year-to-year variation in Idaho's deer and elk kill figures, but the bear harvest drops sharply in the years when the early snow arrives. Accordingly, 1961 showed a drop in total bear harvested.

Bear populations are high in north Idaho and the harvest usually is more statewide than anywhere in the west except Washington. Most bear kills are made when bruin's luck and sagacity run out and he encounters an elk or deer hunter face to face, almost by accident. Actually, 88 per cent of the 2,100 bear kills reported last fall were made by resident hunters looking for other game. Non-resident hunters especially acclaim bear hunting as a truly great big game sport, comparable to trailing mountain lions behind a pack of "cat" dogs in good voice.

Snow or the lack of it not only influences the time a bear finally shuffles off to his lair for a long winter's nap. It also is probably the single most important factor affecting other big game hunting. Certainly it is the condition most discussed by hunters. The white mantle makes it easier for them to see animals. Without snow the brown autumn landscape is a perfect camouflage. Elk and deer may be all around a hunter, but if he does not see them, there aren't any in the country.

But a snow cover changes all this. Tracks, for example, give mute evidence about the unseen presence of game. When a hunter sees hoof marks in the snow, his frame of mind improves. He is better and rightly so—because that he wounds an animal, tracking will be much easier. Too, a snow cover makes for a more "quiet" hunt because it insulates or "muffles" sound. Too much snow, contrariwise, may be bad. As in many places across southern Idaho last fall, excessive snowfall made it hard for hunters to get around. Heavy wet snow clings to trees, reducing visibility. Worse, the freezing rain makes every twig brittle and noisy—perfect warning signals for game. And a snowstorm often ruins a family outing which was planned as a fair weather affair.

Excellent hunting conditions are found where there are three to four inches of fresh snow, a few days of zero temperature, a light breeze—and, of course, plenty of game. Idaho records indicate that under such conditions 60 to 70 per cent of the deer hunters are successful, and 30 to 40 per cent of the elk hunters score.

Final tabulation of Idaho's 1961 deer kill at 72,400 an elk at 15,700, precipitates the next stage—the annual interpretation of these figures by hunters from Bear Lake to Sandpoint. Hot stove leagues and cracker-point sessions all over the state will chew over this information and come up with all sorts of predictions, opinions and decisions about the present state of the big game populations.

Levi Mohler, chief of game management points out that these figures alone are not enough to go on. Numerous other factors, some of them "unknowns," must be determined and correlated with kill figures before a meaningful picture of the big game herds takes shape. Variable factors, including the numbers of hunters over several successive seasons and the amount of time they spend afield, game census or trend data, herd composition, weather influences on both nimrods and animals, range conditions and other items governing success must be available and measured before solid conclusions are reached.

So what do the kill figures mean? First, they show that Idaho's big game hunters score consistently year after year, with over 70,000 deer kills and somewhere above 13,000 elk kills more or less to be expected. They also show that considerable increase or decrease in the statewide total depend mostly upon how much local rain or snow interfered with—or aided—hunting conditions in the various areas.

Second, the harvest figures point toward good hunting for the years ahead. Three or more consecutive years of stabilized harvest from an individual unit provides assurance of game for the future since most herds contain the proportion of younger animals which have high potential for producing the next year's crop.

PETS NEED WASHINGTON HEALTH CERTIFICATES Do you plan to take a pet into Washington for the Seattle World's Fair?

If so, be sure to have a health certificate for the animal. Dr. D. A. McGill, Washington State veterinarian, reminded prospective out-of-state visitors that each animal crossing the border is required by Washington law to be covered by such a certificate.

Dr. McGill suggested that out-of-staters contact their veterinarians concerning Washington animal health regulations.

He said all dogs over three months of age must have a rabies inoculation at least 14 days prior to entering the state. Cats need no inoculations but must have a health certificate.

Fair officials have announced that no pets will be allowed on the fairgrounds.

Community Wildlife Week Idaho's chairman of national Wildlife Week, Ted Trueblood of Nampa, calls for increased local participation. Sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation from March 18 through 24, the purpose of the "week" is to help make the public aware of the need for conservation of natural resources. This emphasis is placed on the grassroots or community level.

"Waterfowl for the Future by Conservation of Wetlands which Benefit Man and Wildlife" is the theme of the week.

"This is a timely theme," says Trueblood, "since recent reports from the Fish and Wildlife service indicate a further decline in the numbers of ducks and geese. Most sportsmen are aware of the value of waterfowl not only for waterfowl but for other forms of wildlife as well. The purpose of Wildlife Week is to bring this message to the public."

Trueblood urged each club affiliated with the Idaho Wildlife Federation to select a chairman and plan some special observance during the week. Kits of materials to help in the project have been sent to each club.

Besides Trueblood, other Idaho members of the national Wildlife week committee are Pierre Pulling, Pocatello; Art Manely, Coeur d'Alene; John George, Jerome.

While the snowpack to date in many parts of the state indicates that water conditions this year will be "merely improved" over the severe drought conditions of last year, sportsmen, fishing prospects appear some brighter across southern Idaho. The drought conditions caused some reservoirs to go dry completely and others to become too warm to support trout populations. Low running streams also became so warm wild spawning populations were wiped out, thus ending natural trout production. In all such cases, it is the legal responsibility of the department to rebuild the fisheries as soon as possible.

With improved water conditions in most reservoirs, fingerling trout can be restocked in the barren waters. Results will be similar to those in waters where chemical treatment has eliminated all competition from rough fish species.

Depleted trout fisheries is reservoirs generally require two years to rebuild, whereas streams can be restocked with "catchables" six inches or more in length. And a greater volume of fish is needed in waters where all gill-breathing creatures have been destroyed.

Hatcheries are geared to meet the stocking needs of all waters of the state during the coming season; catchable trout for streams and fingerlings for reservoirs and lakes.

Idaho's continuing pollution studies of the past year or two will be continued at two places on the Snake and a 40-mile stretch of the Boise river canyon. Biologists say lack of oxygen and high water temperatures may be a critical factor in the movement of migrant downstream chinook salmon.

The Boise river quality study below Eagle traces pollution to wastes from several food and meat processing plants as well as domestic sources.

LEGAL NOTICES

IN THE PROBATE COURT OF LATAH COUNTY, STATE OF IDAHO

In the Matter of the Estate of) CARL C. OSUMUNDSON,) Deceased.)

NOTICE OF HEARING PETITION FOR DETERMINATION OF HEIRSHIP AND SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE AFTER LAPSE OF TWO YEARS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT RUBY OSUMUNDSON has filed in the Probate Court of Latah County, State of Idaho, her petition praying that said Court proceed to determination of the time of death of Carl C. Osumundson, deceased, and of the heirs of said decedent, the degree of kinship and right of descent to the real property heretofore described, and that a decree be made and entered that upon the death of said decedent legal title to the said property descended to and vested in Ruby Osumundson, his widow.

The petitioner alleges that the said Carl C. Osumundson died intestate on the 9th day of December, 1959, and that the said decedent was a resident of Latah County, State of Idaho, at the time of his death, an heir at that time being the petitioner, Ruby Osumundson, his wife, who was the owner of the following described real property situated in Latah County, State of Idaho, to-wit:

Lot 1 of the 1st Block, Addition to the City of Genesee, ALSO, commencing at the southeast corner of the southeast quarter of Section 11 in Township 37 north, Range 5 West of said Meridian; thence running north 388.2 feet; thence west 561 feet; thence south 388.2 feet; thence east 561 feet to the place of beginning, containing in all 6 1/3 acres more or less.

The petitioner further alleges that the said property was the community property of Carl C. Osumundson and Ruby Osumundson, and that upon the death of the said Carl C. Osumundson legal title to the said real property descended to and vested in Ruby Osumundson, and that the said Ruby Osumundson is now the owner and in possession of the said property. Reference is hereby made to the petition on file in this Court for further particulars.

All creditors and heirs of the said Carl C. Osumundson and all other persons interested in the estate of said decedent, are hereby notified that the said petition will be heard on Tuesday, the 17th day of April, 1962, at 9:00 o'clock A. M. of that date in the courtroom of this Court, the Probate Court of Latah County, State of Idaho, at Moscow, Idaho, at which time and place any creditor, heir or other person interested in the estate of said decedent may appear and show cause why the prayers in said petition should not be granted.

Peace Corps Need Youths With Farm Background

Men and women with farm backgrounds and 4-H or vocational training in Agriculture are being requested through the Peace Corps by countries around the world. Volunteers may select the country where they prefer to serve, says Homer Futter, Agricultural Extension Agent for Latah County.

College graduates with degrees in Agronomy, Horticulture, Agricultural Economics, Animal Husbandry, Agricultural Engineering, Vocational Agriculture and Home Economics are in demand in many countries, particularly in Latin America.

Countries that have requested farmers and agricultural specialists include India, Malaya, North Borneo, and Sarawak, Philippines, Thailand, West Territories in the North Pacific, El Salvador, Columbia, Bolivia, Brazil, Venezuela, Peru, Tunisia, and the Ivory Coast.

The Peace Corps provides all expenses for men and women who are accepted for service. This includes transportation, housing, clothing, food, medical care, vacation, and incidentals. Volunteers also receive $75 a month for each month of their Peace Corps, or a total of $1800 after two years' service.

All persons in Latah County interested in serving abroad with the Peace Corps should contact Homer Futter at his office in the courthouse in Moscow.

Graville O. Haller's punitive expedition against the Snakes in Boise Valley caught up the perpetrators of the Ward massacre on July 18, 1855, and created such ill-will for the whites that Fort Hall had to be abandoned. That Fort Hall was defeated by the Yakima Indians three months later, after which Fort Walla Walla had to be abandoned. Thus Fort Hall, cut off from supply via Fort Boise and Fort Walla Walla, was doomed.

Two Jailed For Break-In At Local Station
Jordon Kanikkeberg Resigns as Superintendent

Two young Latah County women are in the Lewiston jail this week following their apprehension and conviction on charges of petty larceny. A break-in at the Genesee Service Station on the evening of March 12.

In custody are Charlene Hull, 20, Moscow and Sandra Bartlett, 18, Moscow. A third girl involved in the break-in was not charged. The two girls were held in the Probate Court of Judge C. L. Woodward on charges filed by Latah County Prosecuting Attorney Len Bielenberg.

According to statements obtained from the girls by James Watkins, Genesee Police Chief, the three girls left Moscow on the evening of March 12, in the company of two men. They were arrested in the city of Lewiston, Idaho. They were held in the Probate Court of Judge C. L. Woodward on charges filed by Latah County Prosecuting Attorney Len Bielenberg.

Over 900 persons from Genesee and neighboring communities filled the Legion Hall Saturday evening to enjoy the sausage and waffle supper prepared and served by Members of the Genesee Legion.

Those present for the meal consumed 300 pounds of smoked sausage, 80 pounds of waffle flour, 12 dozen eggs, 9 gallons of milk, 7 gallons of syrup, 2 gallons of whipped cream and strawberry topping, 20 gallons of applesauce, 140 half pints of milk, 6 gallons of kool aid, and over 300 cups of coffee.

Ray Qualey New Manager Of Genesee Motors

Ray Qualey, former owner and operator of Qualey's Repair Shop, assumed management of Genesee Motors on Wednesday of this week.

Ray Qualey, former owner and operator of Qualey's Repair Shop, assumed management of Genesee Motors on Wednesday of this week. The announcement was made by owner Wm. M. Herman who stated this week that he has sold his building and is disposing of his merchandise at bargain prices.

Following the closing of the store, a page of Genesee history will be turned over to the new manager. The Genesee News were both started in the same year and are the oldest business institutions still operating in this town.

Herman's Store was established in 1888 by W. J. Herman, the father of the present owner. Mr. Herman came west from Iowa in 1888 with his wife and William M., who was a similar name. The family first came to Genesee, Idaho, where they took the boat to Portland, and then a stage coach from Portland to Uniontown.

It was in Uniontown that Mr. Herman first opened a store. Later that same year, 1888, he loaded a box car of furniture on a railroad work train, regular routes had not yet been established and brought the merchandise to Genesee.

Genesee was in the process of moving from Old Town down to its present location because of a dispute over land prices with the railroad and property owners in Old Town. Supplies into a wooden frame building in the exact location of the present store.

Herman's Store prospered and grew as did the town of Genesee. In a short time Herman was able to erect a modern brick building, one of the first in this city. As business increased, Herman was able to add a hardware and tin section to his store. The present owner became interested in the store as he grew to manhood and eventually took over operation of the business as his father grew older.

After disposing of his present stock of merchandise, Mr. Herman said he will be leaving Genesee in a few days. He has no immediate plans for the future.

Employment Situation In Latah County
Although the number of jobs received in the office during the past week was somewhat fewer than those received during the previous week, the number of placements made increased from four to seven. Among the workers placed in jobs in the Moscow area during the past week were a carpenter, receptionist, a clerk, a janitor, and a secretary.

The turtle committee has been busy working to make arrangements for the training and handling of the reptiles.

Due to the fact that March has five Saturdays, the City Dump Trucks will be open on both March 24 and 31 during the usual hours, from 1:00 to 3:00 p. m. In April, the grounds will be open on the second and fourth Saturdays at the same time.

Those residing outside the city limits will be allowed to use the dump grounds, provided no wires, large metal items such as car frames, old equipment, etc., is discarded. The rules prohibit dumping of such large items by anyone at anytime. R. L. Edwards is in charge of the grounds.

DINNER GUESTS IN LLOYD ESSER HOME
Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Esser's Sunday dinner guests were Mrs. Betty Thomason, San Francisco, California, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Grieser, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Esser, Marilyn and Ray. Mrs. Thomas was an over Sunday night houseguest of her brother, Lloyd and wife. On Monday, Mrs. Thomas accompanied Mrs. Esser to Clarkston where they visited with Pat O'Kelley and family.

ROVERETTES MEET WITH MRS. OBERG
The Roverettes and guests, Meses. Dewey Moser, Robert Heimgartner, and Ernest Wynn enjoyed a dessert-buffet Friday evening with Mrs. Ellis Oberg at her home.

Mrs. Don Becker and Mrs. Dick Scharnhorst won bridge prizes. Next meeting April 6 with Mrs. Scharnhorst.

Card of Thanks
I shall always be grateful to the friends and neighbors for the cards, flowers, gifts and many other kind thoughts and acts shown me during my stay in the hospital and since returning home. A special thank you to Rev. Lowell Messley, Dr. Phillip Speckho and C. D. Manfred and James Watkins.

MRS. ZENNER ENTERTAINS
Mrs. A. Zenner entertained with a dessert-luncheon in her home on Wednesday, March 14, for Mrs. Ellis Oberg and Robin, Mrs. Ernest Wynn and Margaret, and Mrs. Dick Scharnhorst. The afternoon was spent socially.

Card of Thanks
Many thanks to all the friends who remembered me while I was in the hospital. The cards, letters, phone calls, etc., really helped to make the time go faster. Thanks a lot. Ed Grieser

MOBILE DENTAL HEALTH UNIT
The Mobile Dental Health Unit under the direction of the Idaho Department of Health will be in Genesee on April 5th and 6th of this year.

Parents of children four years of age are asked to contact P. T. A. health chairman, Mrs. Winston Mader by Wednesday, March 28 for an appointment. This program also includes children in the 2nd and 5th grades, but appointments for these will be made through the schools.

Parties For Mrs. Theissen
Mrs. Wm. Theissen was honored with a party at her home Monday afternoon when friends arrived at her home to help her celebrate her birthday.

Herman's Store, Pioneer Business Firm, To Close Doors

Herman's Furniture Store, a pioneer business firm in the Genesee community will close in the near future. The announcement was made by owner Wm. M. Herman who stated this week that he has sold his building and is disposing of his merchandise at bargain prices.

Herman's Store prospered and grew as did the town of Genesee. In a short time Herman was able to erect a modern brick building, one of the first in this city. As business increased, Herman was able to add a hardware and tin section to his store. The present owner became interested in the store as he grew to manhood and eventually took over operation of the business as his father grew older.

After disposing of his present stock of merchandise, Mr. Herman said he will be leaving Genesee in a few days. He has no immediate plans for the future.

Employment Situation In Latah County
Although the number of jobs received in the office during the past week was somewhat fewer than those received during the previous week, the number of placements made increased from four to seven. Among the workers placed in jobs in the Moscow area during the past week were a carpenter, receptionist, a clerk, a janitor, and a secretary.

The turtle committee has been busy working to make arrangements for the training and handling of the reptiles.

Due to the fact that March has five Saturdays, the City Dump Trucks will be open on both March 24 and 31 during the usual hours, from 1:00 to 3:00 p. m. In April, the grounds will be open on the second and fourth Saturdays at the same time.

Those residing outside the city limits will be allowed to use the dump grounds, provided no wires, large metal items such as car frames, old equipment, etc., is discarded. The rules prohibit dumping of such large items by anyone at anytime. R. L. Edwards is in charge of the grounds.

DINNER GUESTS IN LLOYD ESSER HOME
Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Esser's Sunday dinner guests were Mrs. Betty Thomason, San Francisco, California, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Grieser, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Esser, Marilyn and Ray. Mrs. Thomas was an over Sunday night houseguest of her brother, Lloyd and wife. On Monday, Mrs. Thomas accompanied Mrs. Esser to Clarkston where they visited with Pat O'Kelley and family.

Proclamation Keys Gem Wildlife Week

Gov. Robert E. Smylie keynoted the 25th statewide observance on National Wildlife Week today by declaring that the people of Idaho are dependent upon natural resources to sustain life and contribute to the commerce, agriculture and recreation of future citizens.

He declared in an official proclamation that the week of March 18 to 24 will be observed across the nation as National Wildlife Week.

"This is a time set aside to alert all the citizens of the nation to the need for wise and proper use of all natural resources," he added.

Trueblood announced the names of the statewide winners of the essay contest sponsored annually by the Idaho Wildlife Federation.

FISH & GAME NEWS

Many License Violations
Less than half the violations of Idaho Fish and Game laws would have occurred last month if people would remember:

1. You must be at least 12 years old to carry an unlicensed gun in the field.
2. You must possess a valid hunting license to carry an unlicensed gun.

3. You must buy a non-resident license to hunt or fish unless you have lived in the state continuously for at least six months.
4. You cannot give false or misleading statements on a license application without committing a misdemeanor.

5. You must have a license to hunt if you are 12 years or older, and a license to fish if you are 14 or older—and it must be a fishing license if you are fishing, and a hunting license if you are hunting. Many cases are made because a sportsman is carrying a "wrong class license."

Biggest case brought to court last month resulted in the posting of a $200 bond at Lewiston for the alleged killing of a moose during the closed season in Idaho county.

Total penalties for February amounted to $1,427. One half of this sum remains in the 19 counties where the Non-resident Licenses Up.

For the first time in history the Idaho sales of non-resident game hunting licenses exceeded 7,000 during 1961. California hunters bought more than any other in the nation for the top six show California with 4,637; Washington, 1,289; Oregon, 237; Nevada, 208; Texas, 130; and Minnesota, 117.

The out-of-state fee for big game hunting is $75. This includes fishing privileges in season, as well as migratory waterfowl and upland game bird shooting. Non-resident hunters are on the same footing as residents in competing in public drawings for controlled hunts as long as they hold appropriate licenses and tags.

Wheat Quality Lab to Be Built
The low bid of $38,661.74 for construction of a wheat quality laboratory building at the Aberdeen Branch Agricultural Experiment Station of the U. of Idaho was entered by John Yaney, Blackfoot, it was announced today by Kenneth A. Dick, financial vice-president.

Other bidders were Loveland Con. Co., Idaho Falls, $46,500 and Brennan Con. Co., Pocatello, $48,450. Construction of the laboratory, which will be used to determine milling and baking quality of various wheats, is a cooperative project of the university and the Idaho Wheat commission. Bids will be reviewed by the university regents and commission officials before the letting of the contract, Dick said.

Campfire, Bluebird Girls Honor Fathers with Dinner

The Camp Fire girls dad-daughter banquet attracted a crowd of over 250 persons Tuesday night at the Elks Temple in Moscow. Groups from Polk, Latah and Genesee were included. The theme of brown and orange, from teepees to toilet paper, the latter made by Mrs. Lillie Mae Hermann of Genesee, the girls honored their fathers.

Dwight Kinschey, chr. of the Camp Fire dis. board, was toastmaster. Invocation was by the E-Ha-Wee group from Genesee. Mary Lee Strobel welcomed the fathers, with response given by her father, Dr. R. J. Strobel. The Ta Wan Ka group from Genesee joined other 5th grade groups from Moscow to sing "The Walking Song."

Division II: 1. Tim McLean; 2. Bernard Hermann. 3. Mabel Kuhn.

Employment Situation In Latah County

With the coming of better spring weather, new job openings coming into the Moscow office of the Employment Security Agency have increased over the number of such jobs created over the last week. New jobs are approaching the number available at this time last year. Placements, while not quite as numerous as during the corresponding week a year ago, were just slightly higher than last week. This trend, with job placements remaining nearly static, should continue for another few weeks and then placements should show a relatively sharp rise. More placements will be made as spring and better weather continue. Among the workers placed during the past week were a store manager, warehouseman, typist, waitress and laborers.

Police Records For Month of March

Police records in Genesee for the month of March indicated a diversity of calls ranging from complaints about dogs to lost children.

Breakdown of the calls to police chief James Watkins shows the following: 2 complaints concerning dogs; 1 larceny report; 1 stop sign violation; 2 burglary reports, one at Genesee Service Station and one investigation pending; 1 complaint on tampering with vehicle; 1 citation issued for loud pipes on car; 1 lost girl, who was found.

Farmers Showing Increasing Interest In Crop Insurance

Farmers are showing an increased interest in the protection offered by the department of agriculture through the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. program, says J. Ford Anderson, district director of the FCIC.

Over 97,000 indemnities amounting to six and three quarter million dollars have been paid to farmers in counties in Idaho, Oregon, Utah, and Washington since the program started in 1939. According to Anderson, these payments include those made through 1960. He pointed out that in 1960, there was a better than average year for federal crop insurance paid out 585 losses totaling almost 300 thousand dollars in the Pacific Northwest states.

Local PTA Nominates New Officers

The Executive Board of the P. T. A. met on March 26th at 7:15 p. m. in the lunch room.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Wm. Mervyn. A report on the committee on awards of pins for music students was given by Mrs. Kenneth Jensen, chairman. These will be brought before a general meeting in a later date.

New business: a committee composed of James Hoagland, Ozzie Kanikberg, and Vernon Farnell were appointed to audit the treasurer's book.

May First was listed as registration day for pre-school youngsters for the first grade. Play School May 1, 2, 3, and 8, 9, 10.

Mrs. Don Hermann is in charge of this.

The nominating committee chose the following slate of officers for 1962-63: Mrs. Ray Qualey, vice president; Mrs. Everett Robinson, secretary; Mrs. Lowell Messley, treasurer.

This group was unanimously elected to serve next year at the general meeting on May 1st. For having fulfilled their requirements as prescribed by the state, Genesee was the only group in Latah county to receive this honor.

Mrs. Dorothy Mader is chairman of a committee for treating youngsters teeth (fluoride for teeth). Tests for youngsters four years of age and in and out of school will be given by Mrs. Mader.

Park Elementary school gave a report on reading conferences. Mrs. Mader reported on the Whitmore school gave a report on their method of parent conference of Elementary school Evaluation.

Following this, the group held Buzz Sessions on: Report Cards; Written Reports; Group Conferences and Teacher and Parent Conferences.

Good and bad points of each were listed.

Topic for next meeting will be "What Is Ahead in Education." Nationally and locally.

STRICTER DISCIPLINE may be the lot of American children in the immediate future, according to a study of women's magazines made at Stanford University. Advocacy of discipline runs in cycles, the scientists say, and is reflected in the magazine articles on child rearing. Rigid control of offspring was extremely popular (with parents) in 1892, the study shows, even more so in 1910, a little less in 1925, much less in 1935 and least of all in 1950. If the magazines are an accurate barometer, the rod may be in fashion again.

PREPACKAGED COLD CUTS are becoming increasingly popular with the American shopper, reports Allbright-Nell, developer of a machine which produces more than 1,000 slices a minute. The device automatically controls the thickness of each slice and simultaneously weighs out exact amounts to be packaged and marketed. A SWALLOWABLE STETHOSCOPE has been developed for recording the sounds of the blood-flow in the aorta (the principle artery carrying blood from the heart) and to listen to the sounds which cannot be heard from outside the chest.

A COMPUTER-CONTROLLED powered arm splint for paralyzed persons is under study at Case Institute of Technology, Cleveland. The splint has joints which are moved by small motors. To program movement, normal person places his arm in the device and goes through motions such as eating. A complete record of his actions is recorded on the computer's tape. Then the paralyzed arm is placed in the splint and the tape played back. The lifeless arm is guided through the task of eating. Uniform Traffic Control Subject of Meetings

City, county and state officials will meet in three different parts of Idaho during March to discuss uniform traffic control devices. It was announced today by Mayor Ed Simmerman of Caldwell.

The Idaho Safety Council will sponsor the meetings to be held on different dates in cities to be announced in the eastern, southwestern and northern parts of the state. Joining with the Safety Council in planning the three sessions are the Idaho Municipal League and the Idaho County Commissioners Association, Simmerman said.

The Caldwell mayor, who with other city, county and state officials attended a U. S. Department of Commerce session on uniform traffic control devices in Corvallis, Oregon in February, said that representatives of all public administration agencies dealing in traffic as well as individuals and organizations interested in traffic are being invited to participate.

The main objective is to start a program to familiarize local authorities with uniform signs and markings and to encourage them to adopt the approved standards," Simmerman said. "Interest of the public will be an important factor in investigating the program. The public already is aware of our high incidence of traffic accidents and fatalities on roads with no traffic signs or markings. Now they want to know what can be done about them. These meetings will provide at least part of their answers," the Caldwell official concluded.

FISH & GAME NEWS

Fishing Regulations Mailed

Idaho's 1962 fishing regulations, effective April 1, have been mailed to license vendors around the state and should be available for free public distribution this week in most cases. They are similar in format to last year's three-way folded brochure containing seasonal regulation details by area, state map and cover picture—an attractive 17-by-22-inch leaflet that folds down to pocket size.

As usual, the general fishing season on north Idaho lakes runs from May 1 through November 30, and stream fishing is the same as for the rest of the state—June 4 through October 31.

Eleven Fishers Transplanted

Eleven much-traveled fishers, the marten-like furbearing animal from British Columbia, were released recently in the Chamberlain basin back country after being trucked from Canada and flown via ski-equipped plane from McCall to the wilderness.

It is not expected that there will be a trapping season on these animals in the foreseeable future, although they were in good supply in various parts of the state during the early days of the territory. The fisher has been absent from the annual fur harvest for more than two decades.

They are being reintroduced into the state because they are natural enemies of the porcupine and may help keep these prickly rodents from becoming too numerous.

Nonresident Bird Hunters

Of the 2,811 nonresident bird hunting licenses sold last year, 1,247 went to Utahns, 557 to Californians, 280 to Nevadans, and 229 to Washingtonians. Altogether, 43 states were represented, including Alaska and Hawaii, and two foreign countries, the Bahamas and Guam.

Other significant statistics: Total sales of resident combination hunting-fishing licenses dropped to a ten-year low of about 97,800 last year.

Resident game hunting licenses and resident fishing licenses reached ten-year highs of about 66,200 and 66,250 respectively.

Nonresident fishing-hunting combination license sales reached a ten-year high of about 7,700. Nonresident bird hunting license purchases came to 2,811, the second highest figure on record and non resident season fishing license purchases of about 14,000 was third high, over the same ten-year period.

The new tourist classes of fishing licenses for one day and additional days broke all records last year with over 30,000 and 10,000 respectively.

On the other hand, the five-day tourist license sales dropped about 14,000 licenses below the sales level prior to the issuance of the one-day license class.

Deer-elm tag sales were at an all-time high. These were 149,150 deer tags and 58,700 elm tags.

There are about 594 license vendors in 225 Idaho towns, giving adequate coverage, with 4 vendors the average per town. There were 98 applications for vendorships processed during the year. Sixty-one met department standards.

Our vendors create good will for the department. They not only sell the various classes of licenses and

Christian Science Church Service

The healing power of scientific prayer will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the lesson sermon entitled "Matter" will include an account of the healing by Christ Jesus of the lunatic boy, together with his reply to the disciples who asked him why they could not heal him (Matthew 17):

"And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you. Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting."

Correlative passages from science and health with key to the scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy will include (p. 1): "The prayer that reforms the sinner and heals the sick is an absolute faith that all things are possible to God, a spiritual understanding of Him, an unfeigned love."

YOUTH CAMP PLANS ANNOUNCED

Idaho's second Youth Conservation Camp, Camp Pioneer No. 2 will be bigger and run longer than last year's camp State Forester Roger L. Guernsey announced this week. The State Forester said that plans are being made to employ 50 boys on the forest-try projects started last year by 45 boys on the Priest Lake State Forest in far northern Idaho. He said, "Our plan and hope is to take the same number of boys from each county as the county has Representatives in the State Legislature." Camp will run from June 18 to August 19.

Guernsey said that every able-bodied Idaho boy between the ages of 14 and 17 as of June 18, 1962, and who is of good character and wants to work is eligible. Any boy wishing to try for this camp can secure an application blank from any State Forestry office or from his State Representative. Drawings will then be held throughout the State by the Representatives between May 19 and May 27 inclusive.

"I should like to emphasize that this is not a correction camp," Guernsey stated. "This camp is for all good Idaho boys who want to have a wonderful summer working in the forest and who are fortunate enough to be selected in the drawings. The boys will be building trails, planting and learning many other skills of the woodman. They will be trained to fight forest fires but will not be controlled sectors of large fires or in mop-up work."

The young woodsmen selected will receive transportation to and from camp and will be furnished with food, bedding, logger boots and socks, and medical care. In addition they are paid $30 per month.

The State Forester reported that Ken Bushby, a math teacher in the Sandpoint school system, who served as Director for Camp Pioneer No. 1 will be back again in the same capacity along with several others from last year's experienced staff. Altogether there will be 9 counselors and 3 assistant counselors to direct the field work. There will be doctor services available and a registered nurse on duty at all times.

Richland County, Utah (with its county seat in St. Charles, and most of its population in Idaho) was established January 19, 1864. The Idaho boundary was not surveyed until 1871.

YOUR Social Security QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION:

When I retire next month I'll need to get my social security check started as quickly as possible since all my income will be cut off. When should I come in to apply for benefits?

ANSWER:

You should see your nearest social security office immediately and apply. You don't have to wait until you actually retire to apply for benefits. As a matter of fact, people are encouraged to apply at least 3 months before they become 65 or 3 months before they retire at age 62 or before. This gives the social security people plenty of time to take application, help you secure any necessary papers, work out their individual case, and make any adjustments that may arise, and get your first check to you on time.

Home Economic Scholarship Offered

Senior high school girls from this area who would like to study home economics at college are being offered an unusual opportunity to satisfy their wish by the Washington Water Power Company through its seventh annual home economics scholarship competition.

R. T. Paine, district manager for WWP, said this week that the company's scholarship contest is open to all high school senior girls who are currently enrolled in an accredited home economics course or who have satisfactorily completed a credit in the subject.

Finalists will be selected from five districts in the WWP service area to perform a five-minute television demonstration. The demonstration will be judged on organization, preparation, authenticity of information, and effectiveness of presentation. The winner of the grand final will receive a two-year scholarship to any school in the WWP service area offering accredited courses in Home Economics, Paine said.

The scholarship includes normal tuition, registration and other fees up to $250 per year. In addition, first place winners from each of the five contest districts will receive an attractive table model radio. Contest entry blanks can be secured through the office of the local school or from any place winners from each of the five contest districts will receive an attractive table model radio. Contest entry blanks can be secured through the office of the local school or from any place winners from each of the five contest districts will receive an attractive table model radio.

Even if a qualified student does not plan a career in home economics, this scholarship contest provides an excellent chance to acquire specialized training that can help make any girl become a better wife, mother and homemaker," Paine said.

MINE OFFICE CANDIDATE TELLS OF CHANGES HE WOULD MAKE IF ELECTED

Don Adams, Coeur d'Alene, candidate for the Democratic nomination for office of State Inspector of Mines said this week that the mine inspectors available to the mine inspectors' office is not being utilized to the best advantage of the mining industry. "In this direction I am referring to both management and labor," Adams said. "If properly used, the facilities available to the office of the state inspector of mines can render a service that will at once represent a measure of economic relief to the mining operators and protect the safety and health interests of their employees. "The question of mine safety as a blast-charge agent is a prime example. Management and labor have joined in an investigation to determine the effects of this agent from the standpoints of efficiency and safety. The mine inspector's office should be using the facilities of underwriters' laboratories and other available agencies in behalf of these people as directed by the Idaho State Safety Code."

Adams, the first candidate of either party to file for the office of state mine inspector, has pledged himself to:

- (1) Police the Idaho State Safety Code for Mines in the manner that is incumbent upon the office of the State Inspector of Mines in the interest of reducing mine accidents.
- (2) Make recommendations to the State Senate and House of Representatives regarding such areas in the field of safety as may need legislation.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS
THE JOY OF THE LORD IS STRENGTH

A young woman working in an office was known to be quite ill-tempered on Monday morning. After a time, however, her fellow workers noticed a great change come over her. She became the week with radiance. Her work increased in quality as well as quantity.

Nothing else would help him. How do you feel when the joy of the Lord is upon you? You feel as strong as a lion. You are without a pain in your body. You have great assurance and peace of mind. You feel love for everyone around you. You are in unity with God and His universe.

When someone asked her about the change, she replied, "I have become a Christian. I dedicate my Monday's pay to God. I just bubble over with joy because I know I am working for Him."

Almost everyone wants to enjoy life and to get along with others. But often the search for happiness is futile because we look in the wrong place.

Personal joy is the product of right believing, high ideals and unselfish living. These, in turn, are the fruits of dedication to God.

When you are truly united in spirit with God, joy seems to spring up in you as from a deep well within your being. Joy comes from spiritual attainment—from digging deep into the reservoirs of God's love and grace.

The joy of the Lord is important to your total well-being. It is essential to health of body and health of mind.

When David lost the joy of the Lord, he became physically ill. "O God," he cried, "restore to me the joy of thy salvation." For David, joy was the total answer.

NEW RADIO SERIES ANNOUNCED FOR THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

A new radio series designed to highlight the essential vitality of Bible teachings was announced today by the Christian Science Church.

Starting April 9 more than 700 stations will broadcast the weekly 15-minute series called "The Bible Speaks to You." The programs describe how prayer can meet familiar problems confronting people in all walks of life. They feature well-loved selections from the Bible, read against a background of organ music. Informal discussion brings out the practical application of these teachings.

"The Bible Speaks to You" replaces the series "How Christian Science Heals" which has been on the air every week since September 18, 1953. It is produced by The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, Massachusetts. Will B. Davis, manager of Committees on Publication, is in charge of the project.

In announcing the release of the new programs, Mr. Davis said: "Man-kind needs as never before the healing and comforting message of the Bible. Our programs will show how practical and vigorous the Bible teachings can be in meeting today's problems."

People in many parts of Africa, Australia, Europe, Great Britain, New Zealand, and South America, as well as in all parts of the United States and Canada, are expected to hear the programs.

Opening the series this weekend is an introductory program on the subject "Why Read the Bible?" The commentator will be Ralph E. Wager, a Christian Science teacher, practitioner, and editor. The host will be Harry Bacon Clark, who for many years was a CBS newscaster.

Locally the series "The Bible Speaks to You" may be heard over KRPL (1400 ko) at 7:30 a. m. Sunday.

Christian Science Church Service The power and permanence of the Word of God will be stressed at Christian Science services Sunday in a lesson-sermon on the subject of Reality.

Among the Scriptural passages to be read is this verse from Psalm 107: He sent his word, and healed them, and delivered them from destruction. Nothing unspiritual can be real, harmonious, or eternal.

The Golden Text is from Isaiah (40) The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: but the word of our God shall stand for ever."

NORTH IDAHO LAKES MAKE RECORD BOOKS

By Jim Hunbird Idaho Fish and Game Department

Even without counting the big ones entered in the rainbow trout division north Idaho's two world-renowned lakes—Priest and Pen Oreille—turned out three winners in the national fishing contest for 1961 sponsored by the magazine Field and Stream. Other lunkers from the Panhandle unquestionably will figure in later standings as soon as they are announced.

The joy of the Lord is ours as we keep Christ's commandments of love. In Him, humor, wholesome fun and laughter are increased, not taken away. To be in fellowship with Christ is to share His joy and bliss.

True and lasting happiness comes with a conscious communion with God. Man was first among the animals when we live in unity with Him, real happiness and joy is found.

A 15-pound, 1-ounce brown trout caught by W. R. Williams at Lake Pend Oreille was fourth largest on the continent for brownies.

But the really noteworthy thing in these listings is the absence so far of northwest waters in the rainbow trout division. That excludes Pend Oreille where the world's record Kamloops rainbow trout was given up in 1947, and the runner-up two years ago.

Word that winners from northwest waters in the rainbow trout division will be published in an early issue comes from Ted Trueblood of Nampa. He is an associate editor of the magazine and state chairman this year of the annual observance of National Wildlife Week, March 18 to 24. He says that several people were shaken a bit and phoned him when they noted the absence of northwest waters in the rainbow trout division.

Another easily-explained oddity is the fact that the magazine considers everything east of Idaho in the eastern division of the fishing contest. Thus Montana's Duck Lake boasts big rainbow—16-pound, 5 1/2-ounce specimen taken last year, for example.

The reason for this, according to Trueblood, is that the Continental Divide is used as the boundary between the eastern and western divisions for rainbow trout. One effect is to exclude steelhead, the big ocean-going rainbow trout, from consideration in the eastern division.

If 1961 entries turn true to form, Kamloops rainbow trout from Lake Pend Oreille again will outweigh and outmeasure the world's best in this division. They have, almost every year since 1945, and the all-time record 37-pounder is rivaled by the second largest Kamloops ever recorded anywhere just eight ounces short of the "champs'" best weight, this fish was pulled out of Pend Oreille on November 29, 1959—the day before the season ended—by Cecil Hulbert of Spokane, Washington.

Talk about the big ones often brushes aside the fact that Idaho's best known lake with over 125 miles of rugged shoreline also produces nearly a million kokanee or blueback salmon annually.

TRAVEL GROUPS GET IDAHO INFORMATION

BOISE—This is the time of year that the Department of Commerce and Development mails out thousands of Idaho leaflets and brochures to travel groups in all parts of the United States.

Secretary Louise Shaddock says the Department uses an up-to-date card file on hundreds of travel agencies, steamship lines, airlines, railroads and other agencies that handle travel.

Department staff members check up on the requested number of brochures, leaflets, maps or whatever else the sender asks for. Some travel agencies use hundreds of copies of Idaho material, others use only a small amount.

What time of year the material will be mailed is another matter to be tracked up. Some groups want to travel in the fall, some want it in the spring and others want it in the winter.

Spring Good Time To Fertilize Lawn

Early spring is a good time to fertilize a lawn. However, after an application while weather is still cool, fertilizer spread while ground is frosty will work into the soil at the first big thaw.

Livestock manure in beneficial but may contain weed seeds. About 10 pounds of dried, ground manure are recommended for 100 square feet. Poultry manure is more concentrated. About half that amount will be enough.

Commercial fertilizers can be thinners of soil to make them spread more evenly. Such thinners are useful if the area is small and only a few pounds are put on.

If compost is made of spring rakings, it is a good idea to mix 10 cups of fertilizer with every bushel of compost. Spread soil over six-inch layer. Manure also increases the value of compost.

Idaho's first census, taken in September of 1863, showed a population of 32,342. Over sixteen thousand were in Boise County and nearly twelve thousand in the area later to become Montana.

APPEAL IS MADE

An appeal for Idaho residents to send in their Easter Seal contributions to finance the many services to the handicapped children and adults of the state has been issued by Dean Oliver, 1962 Idaho Easter Seal Chairman.

The campaign, which began March 19, ends Easter Eve, April 21. "The majority of the funds which support the Easter Seal Services in Idaho are raised through contribution returns from the appeal letters mailed to 175,000 Idaho residents," Oliver said. "The donation envelopes cannot help our crippled unless they are returned with a contribution."

The Idaho Easter Seal Society which administers the funds, does not duplicate the work of any other group in helping handicapped persons, but provides for specific needs at the local level through local trustees, Oliver explained. In the past two years, the number of speech and hearing centers in the state has grown from one to four; each year the number of handicapped children sent to Camp Easter Seal on Lake Coeur d'Alene has increased, and each year there are more crippled persons who receive local case service through Easter Seals.

If Easter Seal envelopes have been mailed, contributions can be mailed directly to the Idaho Society for Crippled Children and Adults, 129 South 5th Street, Boise, Oliver said.

Legion Seeks to Outlaw Communist Party in Idaho

Members asking the Idaho legislature to outlaw the communist party will be distributed to local Legionnaires when two top American Legion officials land at the Lewiston airport at 10:30 a. m. PST, Friday, March 30, Commander Le Johann of the Genesee Legion post said this week.

Legion State Commander E. Russell Short of Moscow and National Executive Committee member Peter B. Wilson of Bonners Ferry will make a three-day flying visit to Idaho Posts, landing at 62 approved airports March 30 and 31 and April 1. Legionnaires are invited to meet the visitors at the airport, Commander Johann said.

Local Legionnaires will get the petitions signed and send them to Legion state headquarters in Boise.

Local candidates for the state senate and the state house of representatives will be asked to support the Legion's program. The petitions will be presented to the 1963 legislative session.

The petitions will be asked to pass a measure outlawing the communist party and establishing penalties for violation of the law, he added.

Commander Johann said the Legion has sponsored similar legislation in several other states. He added that the Legion was the first major organization to protest official U. S. recognition of Communist Russia in 1933, and that the Legion has been the only group on the Communist "black list" ever since.

The visiting officials will pick up cards for Legion members signed up by the local post during the observance of the 43rd anniversary of the Legion's founding, March 19-15 Commander Johann stated. Gov. Robert E. Smylie by proclamation designated the week March 15-21 as "American Legion Birthday Week."

A tourist walked into a bar in South Africa and was started to see a customer is full uniform yet only six inches high. The bartender finally broke the silence: "Evidently you don't know the Major."

The tourist admitted this, so the bartender picked the little man from the stool and put him on the bar and continued: "Speak up, Major; tell the Yank about the time you called the witch doctor a bloody fake."

"Beg pardon, but aren't you one of the college boys?"

"No, it's just that I couldn't find my suspenders this morning, my razor blades were used up and a bus ran over my hat."

Some people are easily entertained. All you have to do is sit down and listen to them.

Governor Caleb Lyon's council at Fort Boise with the local Snake Indians reached an agreement on October 10, 1864, by which a strip of land thirty miles wide would be open for farming in the Boise Valley—farmers had actually begun settling in the Valley as early as February of that year.

On October 23, 1873, Bishop Daniel Tuttle of the Episcopal church wrote to his home office telling of his exciting stage trip during the westward journey, he said:

"I have, this summer, traveled more than 3,000 miles, and 2,500 of these by stage, in day and night riding, along roads where sagebrush grows the most the only trees, and holes in the stage driver's head, and holes in the United States mail and passengers."

"Undoubtedly some of the readers of this column will remember one of the most famous of the stagecoach drivers in our area, Felix Warren. Felix drove the coaches in all three of our Pacific Northwest states: Oregon, Washington, and Idaho. Those who knew him seem to be unanimous in giving him credit for being a friendly but firm knight of the whip-lash.

He was certainly an expert with the whip. One old-timer said to me of him: "He could flip a flea off a dog's tail."

One day Felix Warren was driving from Lewiston, Idaho, on a run to Palouse, Washington, via the Idaho communities of Genesee and Moscow.

Mr. Russel Zanner each received an official F. F. A. tie clasp for winning the district F. F. A. Co-op contest.

Larry Hasfurth, was presented with the champion fitting and showing trophy which was won at the Latah County Fair.

Lynda Hermann was crowned as Chapter F. F. A. sweetheart for the coming school year.

The barbeque was won by Joe Kalafatis.

Closing ceremonies were given by the F. F. A. Chapter officers. An enjoyable time was had by all.

Special thanks to Mrs. F. H. A. Speer, who cooked and served the dinner.

Conservation Meeting In Troy April 6

A conservation meeting will be held in the Troy Grange Hall, Friday, April 6, at 10 a. m. local SOS men who were here to help change the minds of workers who filed claims for benefits, however, the total number of persons drawing such benefits rose only by 21. There were quite a number of workers returning to work, and a total of 32 persons exhausted their claims for unemployment insurance during the week.

Job placements made during the week equaled the number made during the previous week, although falling behind the number made during the corresponding week a year ago. Among the workers placed during the week were salespersons, waitresses, farm hand and laborers.

Minister's Letter Tells of Events In Genesee Area During 1870's

Mrs. Martha Pittman, a former Genesee resident who now resides in Springfield, Oregon, recently sent the following clipping from a newspaper. This clipping from the early history of this incident which we believe will interest our readers as much as it did us. If anyone has any information to add to this story we would be pleased to receive it.

On October 23, 1873, Bishop Daniel Tuttle of the Episcopal church wrote to his home office telling of his exciting stage trip during the westward journey, he said:

Trees Planted By Merchant Group

Ten young trees were purchased and planted by members of the Genesee Merchants Association this week.

The tree planting came about following the last meeting of the business men's organization which it was decided to add some trees in an effort to add some color and beauty to the Genesee business district.

Carl Simons, Don Springer, and Le Roy Harris were the three men who were called out to select the trees and the planting sites.

The committee purchased ten young trees from a Clarkston Nursery at a cost of approximately thirty-five dollars. Six of the trees were Paul Scharlach Hawthornes; two were flowering crab apple, and two were Flowering cherry.

They were planted Tuesday evening in the space between the Genesee Hotel and old KP Hall. Help in getting the trees were Don Springer, Carl Simons, Dick Scharnhorst, Bill Roth, Jim Hoagland, and Ray Teichner. The Merchants expressed their thanks to Farmers Union Producers for the gift of the young trees which will protect the young trees until they get a firm footing.

Felix hitched up the horses and drove carefully on to Genesee. When he arrived at Palouse, Felix found the husband waiting for the stage. As the stage driver told him about the birth of his first-born, the older woman became more and more excited. Never was a wagon hitched so fast as that young man dashed off over the dusty road through the rolling Palouse Hills toward Genesee.

A few days later Felix Warren was in Palouse again. He met the father once more on the main street. The young man said, "Mr. Warren, we would have named our baby after you, if it had been a boy, but she is a girl, so the next best thing is for you to name her." Felix' eyes twinkled, "Why, I'll be glad to," he said.

"Now you will ask me, 'What did Felix name the child?'" My answer is, "I don't know." Maybe someone who reads this column will be able to tell us all.

WVP SNOW SURVEY INDICATES ABOVE-AVERAGE WATER LEVELS

Results of the Washington Water Power company's annual snow survey conducted this month in the Bitter-root mountains of northern Idaho...

This is approximately 115 per cent of the average water content of 37 years. The highest content of the Coeur d'Alene, St. Maries and St. Joe river basins that feed the lake was recorded in 1956 when the snowpack contained 35.3 inches of water.

For the first time in its 72 year history, WVP employed helicopters in the conducting of the survey. In past years, on a six-day trip, the survey crew trudged on snowshoes over scheduled courses to obtain snow depth measurements.

According to Blair this year's snow storage will amount to about 3,600,000 acre feet of water run-off over the Post Falls dam between the period starting March 15 and ending September 30.

Weather and spring rains will determine actual distribution or run off, Blair said, "and if those two factors remain normal there is no danger of excessive floods and there will be an ample supply of water for power generation."

Greatest snow depth was measured on the Lookout Pass and Roland courses on the divide between Idaho and Montana. Here an average of 108.3 of snow was recorded, containing about 35.8 inches of water.

"Low courses showed a higher amount of snow this year, but even the higher courses were slightly above average," Blair stated.

WVP's snow survey team was made up of Loren A. Eisele, Walter E. Johnson, and Roland Benker, all engineers from the Power Supply department. Eisele and Benker made the helicopter surveys, while Johnson was making the surveys on lower courses by automobile and on foot.

MALTING BARLEY HAS SOME ADVANTAGES

The Feed Grain program allows approved malting barley varieties to be seeded at 10 per cent over a farrow grown in this area that are approved as malting barley: Heines Hanna, Haisa II, Hanna White Winter and Idaho Club.

The Idaho Crop Improvement Association lists Heines Hanna and the White Winter Club as approved varieties for Latah County. Farmers are cautioned against seeding various other varieties as the mixing of varieties can seriously detract prices in an area.

Maltsters must meet rigid specifications exacting for each use and, in some cases, brewmasters, who select the ingredients, have reputations for being "prima donnas."

Barley tests at the University of Idaho Experiment Station show the two row spring malting barleys yield comparable to the six row feed barleys. This makes the two row a good bet because if the two row barley doesn't grade malting, it still makes a desirable feed barley.

Dr. Karl Klages, Head of the Agronomy Department, University of Idaho, makes the following suggestions that may help farmers to upgrade their malting barley and have an opportunity for a premium price.

1. Seeding rate should be 60 lbs. per acre. Heavier rates give heavier foliage and increases the chance for mold.

2. Keep nitrogen application on the low to medium level. Excess nitrogen over-stimulates the plant which uses up the moisture resulting in shriveled kernels.

3. Use care in harvesting, especially wait until the barley is ripe. Leave the low areas and lodged spots and harvest separately.

APRIL

April, and I am singing Of budding things and rain; Of robins—mating—winging Down fall-sown fields of grain.

April—and let me ponder The things I hope to do; Days that I shall not squander Making my dreams come true.

Dreams that will lead me thither, Upward and out and on; Blossoms that ought can wither When APRIL days are gone.

Wildlife Workers Receive Training In All Activities

By Jim Humbird Idaho Fish and Game Department Conservation officers and most of the other field personnel of the Idaho Fish and Game department are back at their stations around the state this week after spending most of last week in Boise attending the seventh annual in-service training school.

The school is held in Boise where barracks-type housing and an auditorium and restaurant are available through the cooperation of the Idaho National Guard at Gowen field south of town.

The basic purpose of the day-and-night sessions from Tuesday morning until Friday noon is the unswerving belief of the commission and its members that the men must be trained in all phases of departmental activities.

Ernest Swift, Wisconsin conservation advisor and past president of the National Wildlife Federation, puts it this way: "The reason we have the people of Idaho on our team is that we take the time to get public support. I believe the way to keep the public on our side is not primarily to tell about programs and projects after they have been initiated, but to inform the public of our thinking—and sell the programs—before they go into effect."

He says further that a man who is a specialist in law enforcement work, for example, is very limited in the amount of information he can give the public if he has no idea about the public's operations, or the purpose of waterfowl resting and feeding areas, or how to evaluate browse conditions, how to set beaver traps, and so on.

Ernest Swift, Wisconsin conservation advisor and past president of the National Wildlife Federation, puts it this way: "In addition to knowing all the tricks of the trade in law enforcement, the officer should be well grounded in the biological field of fish and game, and have a working knowledge of forestry and land management. All these specialties develop him into the overall field man that he should be. By virtue of these additional attributes he will be less of a cop and more of a conservationist."

The most feasible way devised so far to get some kind of educated answer to the public in response to every question is the method of holding the intensive in-service training school early every spring—the best time of the year to get all the men under one roof at the same time.

Department heads know that no one will come away with all the answers on game and fish management. The public nevertheless often expects such miracles. To the average person, there is no difference between a law enforcement officer and a research worker. Anyone wearing a department uniform, driving a department vehicle or representing the department in an official capacity is expected to know all the answers concerning game and fish.

A look at last week's roster of speakers and their subjects gives a good idea of the ground covered in the four-day "crash" sessions. The guests included the Honorable Henry F. McQuade, Idaho supreme court justice; L. A. Garrison, Yellowstone national park supervisor; and Robert McIntyre, chief naturalist, Harlan Regional, Idaho Public Health department; and Kenneth Diem, University of Wyoming professor.

Subjects up for discussion included the proposed constitutional amendment to the Idaho judicial system; Yellowstone elk problems; pollution problems; public speaking; migratory waterfowl identification; fish species identification; and principles of big game management.

The run-down does not include the topics taken up in the afternoon-long classrooms and discussion groups. Neither does it mention the great amount of direct participation by all the men in general sessions and the talks by division chiefs—and the final written examination.

One of the big hurdles in developing all-round fish and wildlife work within the department is the natural human tendency to feel that one's own job is more important than the

and by most speakers that the greatest problem confronting wildlife administrators today is not the management of fish and game—but the management of people.

The job of managing people can be done only if the personnel of the department are convinced that the entire program is sound, not just their particular jobs. To be convinced of this, they must know how each job fits into the overall management program.

Swift puts it this way: "In interviewing a candidate, a director should ask himself, 'Will this man understand that he is a public servant? Will he be a good team worker or a prima donna? Will he understand that public relations is vital to both his personal success and to his department?' Will he talk to people or at them?"

For example, conservation officers operating most efficiently on enforcing the fullest with fisheries men, biologists, as well as other state and federal agents, to name a few. They also need to work closely with other local men in the area, such as Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management personnel—in addition to landholder and sportsman groups and individuals. Without these other men, no district can be managed to the fullest, and it cannot be done if the C. O. does not have a working knowledge of "the other fellows' jobs."

It's emphasized in all the literature of program the department is carrying out and hopes to accomplish.

The annual in-service training school is designed to do this systematically by means of lectures, classroom work and written examinations. The men also gain by comparing notes with each other on all phases of their work in "bull sessions" that go far, far into the night.

MORE WILD TURKEYS STOCKED ON SALMON

Eleven wild Merriam's turkeys, from Colorado are joining 17 others released a year ago in mighty efforts to repopulate the Salmon river brakes southwest of Riggins.

They were live-trapped and flown to Boise recently by the Colorado Fish and Game department, and trucked to their new homes in the little Salmon river canyon recently. Acting Director Robert L. Salter recalled the two shipments of turkeys were traded for five mountain goats from northern Idaho. He added that last year's release of four mature Tom turkeys and 14 hens in the vicinity of Whitford has doubled, at least, in size, according to reports from conservation officers and farmers in the area.

Levi Mohler, chief of game management, says these admittedly are trial releases and may result in complete failure. The best population of wild turkeys in country where nuts are available as winter food, especially acorns.

Some turkey transplants have succeeded in yellow pine forests similar to the lower Salmon river sector where nuts are not grown but other winter food is available. For example, reports indicate that transplanted turkey flocks in Montana, South Dakota and Wyoming increased even in similar country to the lower Salmon river to allow open hunting seasons in less than ten years. These states, like Idaho, are outside the original range of the turkeys.

BRAGGING ABOUT YOUR DOG, BORES

By Bob Bartos
Manager, Friskies Research Kennels

Be mindful of boring your friends with recitals of your dog's doings, even though he's a consistent winner at shows, a veritable Einstein of dogdom, or a wizard at "tricks."

Dotting mothers can get away with repeated showings of their latest crop of cute baby pictures, and reports on their offspring's sage remarks. Dog owners must be more careful.

And strangely enough, even fellow dog owners may not bend a willing ear. Their own pet may suffer by comparison and this always tends to hurt, but they may be so preoccupied trying to recall one of their own dog's bright acts that they hardly hear what you say.

It's far better to let Fido's actions speak for themselves. If he is beautifully behaved, if he obeys commands above and beyond the usual sit, stay and heel, he's certain to be noticed and you're certain to be congratulated on the intelligence of your pet.

If, when left to his own devices, he respects your neighbors' lawn and shrubbery, is friendly with deliverymen and if he performs such useful services as bringing the morning paper into the house, he'll be a respected member of the canine community. He will be pointed to often as a shining example among dogs.

Feeding Tip: House dogs fed table scraps are apt to get too fat, as leftovers are usually high in starch and fats. By feeding a top grade of commercially prepared dog food, such as Friskies, you are certain the dog is getting a balanced ration of many ingredients, including irradiated yeast, soy flour, liver, meat, milk and wheat germ.

Silver City was established on March 21, 1864, some seven months after the discovery of the Orofino lode and five months after the Morning Star Lode. It soon replaced Ruby City as the leading Owyhee mining town.

SNOW COURSES MEASURED
At present there are five snow courses being measured in this area. Four of them are located on Moscow Mt., the Sherwin course is between Bovill and Clarkia. The elevations of these courses are as follows: Moscow Mt. 4100 ft.; West Twin, 3950 ft.; East Twin, 3800; Howard Creek, 3270; and Sherwin, 3200.

On March 30, 1962 the snow on the Sherwin course measured 47 in with a water content of 17 in. Snow depth on the Moscow Mt. course measured 66 in. with 23 in. of water. This is an increase of 13 inches of snow as compared to the measurement two weeks ago. On March 31, West Twin measured 40 inches of snow and East Twin 44 inches. There is only a trace of snow on the lower Howard Creek course.

CANCER INFORMATION HELPED BOISE WOMAN IN TIME TO DEFEAT DREAD DISEASE

Hattie Pauline Gesner is an active and alert 67-year old Idaho woman who is a busy Idahoan, too—now in her 11th year as director of the Student Union building at Boise Junior College.

Yet, except for information she once read—and then acted promptly upon when the need arose—Miss Gesner might not be alive today.

As she phrases it, "I never was afraid of cancer, because I simply couldn't imagine it would ever happen to me. But when I read a pamphlet from the American Cancer Society listing the 'seven danger signals,' I studied the list and remembered it."

In 1963, that study and remembrance prompted Miss Gesner to take immediate action that may have made the difference between life and death. She detected one of the seven danger signals (abnormal bleeding), and went immediately to a doctor.

The signal's message was true—she had cancer. But the cancer was caught in time, and surgery removed the affected part of her colon. In the nine years since, there has been no recurrence—a fact confirmed by her latest examination in March of this year.

"If only I could pass on to others the assurance my experience has given me," said Miss Gesner. "Along with more than one million other Americans, I know by personal experience that cancer cures are possible—if the person acts in time."

Today, the Idaho woman is not only healthy, he leads an extremely active and busy life. Under her direction, the Student Union at Boise Jr. College provides food service for students from all parts of Idaho, as well as from other states. The lunch and dining room seats 600, and the building is also the center for student activities—with meeting space, a lovely ballroom, a fountain that serves up to 1,000 items a day, and other facilities.

James F. Hughes, Boise, president of the Idaho Division of the American Cancer Society, said, "Miss Gesner offers the people of Idaho actual-life proof of the importance of being informed about cancer. As she says, there are more than a million other Americans who offer that same proof. That is why the American Cancer Society stresses public information as one of the important points of its program—which also includes professional education for doctors, service to patients, research programs, and public education."

A major part of the funds for the program is provided by the annual Cancer Crusade. The 1962 Crusade is now underway in Idaho and the rest of the nation. Governor Smythe has proclaimed the month of April as Cancer Control month in the state, and has urged the support of all Idahoans.

As one major part of this month's Cancer Crusade, Idaho's volunteer workers will present a pamphlet to every person they call upon—upon regardless of whether that person is able to contribute to the Crusade. A large part of the pamphlet will be devoted to the listing of cancer's "seven danger signals"—the same list which Hattie Gesner credits with saving her life.

FISH AND GAME department spokesmen says the hunting of cougars and bobcats is becoming a major winter-time sport, filling the gap between big game hunting and fishing.

Cougars are reaching the status of trophy animals to many hunters, outfitters and guides. The harvest during 1960 and 1961 on these big cats was greater without bounty pay-ments than during the two previous years. Shown above with seven bobcats killed in one day are, left to right, Paul and Brooks Clark and Ray Eliason, Oneida county. How many can you find?

Idaho hog producers had three per cent less hogs January 1 than a year earlier. But in comparison with the 10-year average the number was up 2 per cent. The national survey shows that hog production is increasing slowly, about in line with demand.

Idaho potato prices got better in March, according to the USDA inventory of sheep on Idaho farms. Despite the sale of a number of hogs last summer, the total number of sheep was only about one per cent less than a year ago. Apparently a number of units that were sold were absorbed by other ranches.

YOUR Social Security?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question:
I was born in 1900 and plan to apply for my retirement benefits at age 62 early in 1962. What should I bring to prove my age?

Answer:
If at all possible, you should bring in some record that was established before 1936. Some of the proofs which would likely be acceptable include old family bibles, old insurance policies, baptismal or birth certificates, a child's birth certificate showing your age as parent, marriage licenses that show your age, old voting or poll tax records, military service records, census records, lodge records, etc. If you have no proof to bring in, you should come in anyway and discuss your problem with your social security officer.

The Busy Clovers 4-H Club enjoyed slides shown by an IFFE student who had been in Finland. Gary Stienen, a student at the University of Idaho visited the Club Monday night at the Alfred Hasfurther home and showed his slides and gave a very interesting talk to the members, their parents and friends. Mrs. Gillett was also a visitor. I will seek action to utilize the youth of the state in constructive programs of land and water improvements. Productive employment opportunities for our youth are among the means of conservation of human resources and are certainly less costly than the expenses of juvenile rehabilitation.

And, the NPA says, 42.3 per cent of that income will be spent on services, including medical and dental care.

BEWARE FLYING GOLF BALLS. A nationwide survey made by the Institute for Safety Living reveals that more than 15,000 golfers, caddies and workmen were hurt in golf accidents in 1961. Swinging clubs, heat prostration and lightning bolts took their toll but, the report states, at least half the injuries were caused by the golf ball itself, striking victims at speeds around 200 m. p. h. . . . FACTORS WHICH LEAD TO TAX RETURN AUDIT LISTED IN MAGAZINE
Whose tax returns are audited? There's no hard and fast rule, according to Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine, but there are some factors that constitute a general pattern.
An article in the current issue of the magazine states that most returns showing an income over $30,000 will be audited—that is, the taxpayer will be asked to account for all or part of the statements in his return. In addition, from 5 to 50 per cent of returns showing an income of $10,000 to $30,000 will be audited, with "the odds . . . closer to 50-50 if you itemize deductions."
The likelihood of an audit in lower brackets, though small, is growing every year as more agents are hired and electronic machines come into use, Changing Times reports. Other things that increase the chances are: big amounts of income on which taxes are not withheld, such as income of doctors, lawyers, farmers, cab drivers or proprietors; deductions running far above average for the taxpayers' income bracket; unusual transactions or unexplained items; a large refund claim, especially over $200; almost any claim for a refund on a previous year's income tax return; a sloppy or illegible return; a large expense account deduction, especially for travel and entertainment of customers.
Changing Times points out that avoiding an audit by careful preparation of returns will save time and money. "But," the magazine advises, "don't overpay your taxes just to avoid a fight. There's plenty of room to argue over how much taxes you owe, and that's what an audit is for."

CARL BURT WILL SEEK OFFICE OF SECRETARY OF STATE

BOISE Carl R. Burt, who has served five terms in the Idaho Legislature, announced Wednesday that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Secretary of State.

In making his announcement, the Boise businessman said, "It will be my intention to restore the office of Secretary of State to its right and proper functions in our state government. While the functions within the office of the Secretary of State are ministerial, its importance is that the Secretary is constitutionally delegated to serve on the State Board of Examiners and the State Land Board. These boards are keystones in the state's governmental structure. In serving on those boards I will, of course, not be a "rubber stamp." Nor will I be an obstructionist for the sole purpose of personal political advantage. I will be guided by a determination as to what will be to the best interests of the people of Idaho. "As a member of the Board of Examiners I will fulfill my responsibility to review and determine whether claims are just and valid and that the tax monies are spent in accord with the law and best business practices. "As a member of the State Land Board, I will pledge myself to work for full utilization of the state's land and water resources to provide continued growth and progress of Idaho and her citizens. In keeping with my past record of conserving the human resources represented by our young people, I will seek action to utilize the youth of the state in constructive programs of land and water improvements. Productive employment opportunities for our youth are among the means of conservation of human resources and are certainly less costly than the expenses of juvenile rehabilitation."

Following his marriage in Pocatello to the former Jane Newell, Burt sold heavy machinery in 16 counties in Eastern Idaho. For his youth work he was made "Boise Man of the Year." Burt has three children, Lois, Beth and Todd. He owns a heavy rock crusher sales business.

"I would consider it a great honor to serve the people of this wonderful state, in the office of Secretary of State," Burt concluded.

GROW YOUR OWN VITAMINS ADVISES NUTRITIONIST

"You can grow your own vitamin A and vitamin C right in your own backyard," Miss Alice Henry, extension nutritionist, University of Idaho, points out. These are especially important vitamins, she adds, because they are ones we find lacking in Idaho family diets.

Vitamin A is found in green leafy and yellow vegetables, Miss Henry explains. Examples of green leafy vegetables easily grown in Idaho gardens include spinach, mustard greens, kale and collards. Yellow vegetables rich in vitamin A include carrots, sweet potatoes, squash and pumpkin.

Vitamin C is not stored by the body and, therefore, daily intake of this important vitamin is very necessary for body health. Miss Henry's suggestions for backyard products bearing vitamin C include cantaloupe, broccoli, greens and green peppers.

The University nutritionist also reminds mothers that most growing children need something between the meals for growing health. She explains if a child gets too long without

nation of forage plants to see if they are available in sufficient quantity and variety to meet the herd's wintering needs. Trend counts are designed to learn whether herds are increasing, decreasing or holding steady rather than learning the exact numbers of animals. The department reports that big game animals in most areas come through the long winter of deep snow in good shape, but there were also local losses on some poor quality winter ranges.

lives herding sheep with eagles in sight every day and have never seen an eagle kill a lamb and have yet to find one who said, "yes." They have eagles eating dead lambs occasionally but have never seen one killed. Undoubtedly some eagles do kill lambs in rare cases, but the men who live with them do not consider eagles a menace to raising sheep. On the contrary, herders consider these birds useful on the range because they live on jackrabbits and rodents that sharply compete with sheep for feed on the grazing land."

It is not only the 12-gauge shotgun with the pistol grip—fired from airplanes by professional market hunters—now menacing remnant numbers of this country's bald and golden eagles. It's also the high-powered rifle and fine scope of the sharpshooter, out for a little springtime target practice, that places these birds on the losing end of long odds.

The eagle's cunning craftiness virtually is reduced to zero because he is on the highest peak that cross hairs are upon him and a trigger finger is gently squeezing away his life.

"The golden eagle now is protected in Scotland with support by most shepherds. "The same point is true among our Basque shepherders in the western United States," Nelson continues. "Many of these men have spent their species of birds may be used as targets for spring-time plinkers. These are English sparrows, crows, ravens, starlings, kingfishers, cormorants, magpies and pelicans. The fact is that national protection—enforced in all states—is needed to spare the golden eagle as the only means of protecting the bald. Dr. Walter Spoford, New York State University zoologist and the nation's leading authority on the golden eagle, points out that hundreds of eagles that are shot each year by professional hunters in western Texas are mostly migrating birds.

For example, John Casparis of Alton, Texas, claims he has shot down the bald eagle has declined in numbers, and then to take the necessary steps to assure its permanence among our living wildlife, these are important tasks for conservationists."

One such step already is underway. It is a bill before congress that would amend the Bald Eagle act of 1904 to accord the same protection to the golden eagle. Similar legislation already has been passed in the Senate and, on March 7, the House Subcommittee on Fisheries and Wildlife unanimously approved the Golden Eagle Protection bill, with certain amendments. The ugly truth is that the Golden eagle may be doomed along with the bald species unless something is done to halt its slaughter by market hunters and to outlaw a growing commercial trade in eagle feathers.

The nub of the problem is that the two kinds of birds are extremely hard to tell apart until the bald eagle is in his fourth year. Many immature bald eagles mistakenly are shot by gunners in some states where they have a legal right to kill golden eagles, because they honestly can't tell the difference. Carl W. Buchheister, president of the National Audubon Society, says: "The intentional killing of golden eagles and the accidental killing of bald eagles is encouraged by a growing commercial trade in eagle feathers. The wings and feathers are retailed by mail order throughout the nation and in over-the-counter trade, particularly in the Southwest, to craft-hobbyist and souvenir hunters. Many of them go into pseudo-Indian headdresses which are sold to the tourist trade."

"This is just the opposite of conclusions resulting from antelope studies made in Wyoming and Idaho on the same subject," he points out. "At several years of intensive study, he concluded that the eagles were species of birds may be used as targets for spring-time plinkers. These are English sparrows, crows, ravens, starlings, kingfishers, cormorants, magpies and pelicans. The fact is that national protection—enforced in all states—is needed to spare the golden eagle as the only means of protecting the bald. Dr. Walter Spoford, New York State University zoologist and the nation's leading authority on the golden eagle, points out that hundreds of eagles that are shot each year by professional hunters in western Texas are mostly migrating birds.

For example, John Casparis of Alton, Texas, claims he has shot down the bald eagle has declined in numbers, and then to take the necessary steps to assure its permanence among our living wildlife, these are important tasks for conservationists."

One such step already is underway. It is a bill before congress that would amend the Bald Eagle act of 1904 to accord the same protection to the golden eagle. Similar legislation already has been passed in the Senate and, on March 7, the House Subcommittee on Fisheries and Wildlife unanimously approved the Golden Eagle Protection bill, with certain amendments. The ugly truth is that the Golden eagle may be doomed along with the bald species unless something is done to halt its slaughter by market hunters and to outlaw a growing commercial trade in eagle feathers.

The nub of the problem is that the two kinds of birds are extremely hard to tell apart until the bald eagle is in his fourth year. Many immature bald eagles mistakenly are shot by gunners in some states where they have a legal right to kill golden eagles, because they honestly can't tell the difference. Carl W. Buchheister, president of the National Audubon Society, says: "The intentional killing of golden eagles and the accidental killing of bald eagles is encouraged by a growing commercial trade in eagle feathers. The wings and feathers are retailed by mail order throughout the nation and in over-the-counter trade, particularly in the Southwest, to craft-hobbyist and souvenir hunters. Many of them go into pseudo-Indian headdresses which are sold to the tourist trade."

"This is just the opposite of conclusions resulting from antelope studies made in Wyoming and Idaho on the same subject," he points out. "At several years of intensive study, he concluded that the eagles were

Early Trout Seasons
Although north Idaho lakes do not open for trout fishing until May 1, and the general statewide fishing season debut is June 4, there were several special April 1 trout openings. These were the Canyon county irrigation drain ditches, C. Ban Ross reservoir in Washington county, Crane Falls reservoir in Owyhee county and Stone reservoir in Oneida county. Of course, they are in addition to other waters in all areas open to year-round trout fishing, as specified in the 1962 Idaho fishing seasons and regulations pamphlet now available free from all license vendors.

This is a good time of year to stock up on warm water pan fishes that begin schooling and spawning in the spring. These fishes are the yellow perch, crappie and sun fishes, the two kinds of bass and three species of catfish. There are no bag or possession limits on perch and crappie, and the limit on catfish is 100 fish or 50 pounds, including bull head, channel and flathead species. The bag limit on bass is 12 fish.

Big Lake Trout
The fact that north Idaho's big Lake Pend Oreille yields an average annual harvest of about a million kokanee, give or take a few thousand fish, scarcely rates a headline. But when nine out of the ten winners in the open western trout division of the national Field & Stream magazine's big fish contest came from the same lake—that's news. Only the six-1/2 place winner came from other waters. This was a 30-pounder hooked in the Kispixox river in British Columbia by H. W. Grukke.

The first five winners in the open western division for rain bow trout were as follows: 35 pounds 14 ounces by Jewell P. Bjella; 32 pounds 8 ounces by Janice P. Eskridge; 32 pounds 8 ounces by Roy E. Jorgensen; 30 pounds 8 ounces by Donald M. Grumpech; and 30 pounds, 2 ounces by Frances Meyers.

The all-time world's record in this division, according to the Idaho Fish and Game department, is a 37 pound one caught by Wes Hamlet on Pend Oreille in 1947. The runner-up in the same class is a 36-1/2 pound Klamath trout from the same waters. Litterbugs Out Again
It's spring—and litterbug—time again. But the two are no more synonymous than are a plant or animal and its parasites—they just seem to go together. In fact, litterbugging tends to increase every year in spite of the fines and other penalties that are levied to such disorderly conduct on the highways and in camps.

Good landholder-sportsman relations are fouled up more often by the shameful litter so often left by fishermen and hunters, campers and picnickers than any other thing.

IDAHO HOSPITALS NEED NURSES NOW

Wanted: 300 more registered nurses in Idaho hospitals—today. And within five years, the 1,100 RN's working in the state's 50 hospitals must be upped 75 per cent.

These are the findings of a survey conducted by a leading medical equipment producer, the NCG division of Chemetron Corporation of Chicago.

The Idaho situation is far from unique (the NCG study reveals a shortage of 100,000 RN's nationwide) and its causes follow a familiar pattern—increasing population creating a steady demand for more nurses.

Idaho—along with the rest of the country—is apparently losing the battle to produce the increasing number of nurses needed. Inadequate nursing, while a cause for concern today, could be disastrous in the event of a major civil defense emergency, experts say.

Registered nurses constitute less than a third of total hospital nursing personnel, reports the American Nursing Association, Idaho hospital, as in the rest of the country have compensated with practical nurses. The NCG survey shows that the hospitals want to add 85 more to the 700 now employed. And in five years more than 1,080 practical nurses will be needed in these institutions.

MAGAZINE BACKS HIGHER EDUCATION FOR WOMEN

More and more girls are going to college and, according to Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine, "there are many reasons why they should be."

"Ideally, a girl will be educated for all the important roles she will have to play as an adult," the magazine states. "She won't limit her horizons simply because she is a woman but will recognize that, just as vast new opportunities are opening for men, so are they for women, too."

An article in the current issue of the magazine lists these specific reasons for higher education for women:
Marriage: Boys who go to college will be seeking wives who are well-educated. A marriage in which the partners have approximately equal education is more likely to be successful than one in which there is a wide gap. Children benefit from the mother's education, as they acquire their values and the first understanding of their cultural heritage from their mothers.

Personal stimulation. Women rural PTA's, school boards, political organizations, church groups; those who are well-educated take the lead in their communities. The college-bred woman can turn to books, art, music for intellectual stimulation. The daily newspaper, radio news, even TV are a source of greater pleasure to her because education has developed her discrimination and expanded her range of interest and appreciation.

Career. The average young woman can expect to work outside her home at intervals, for a total of about 25 years. The more education she has had, the more likely she is to work and the better her job will be. About 78 per cent of women college graduates who work hold professional or technical jobs and another 4 per cent are managers, officials and proprietors.

BARRELS OF MATERIAL AWAIT FUTURE HISTORIANS AT U. OF I.

In the year 2010, historians and other scholars at the University of Idaho should have a wonderful—and historically profitable—time delving into the contents of 17 barrels stored in the basement of the Library building. The barrels, which contain a great variety of Americana dating back to 1900, have been given to the university by W. C. Cheney of Seattle, Washington.

Most important, the barrels—originally 55-gallon oil drums—contain hundreds of recordings of radio news broadcasts and typical programs of different eras.

For most of his life, Cheney has operated a machine shop in Seattle, manufacturing custom-built torches. He is also a former college teacher, an inventor, an astronomer, and an historian. When he obtained one of the first radios in Seattle, he set it beside a recording machine. If some significant news announcement or address came over the air, Cheney flicked on the recording machine. He recorded such varied announcements as that of the death of Comedian Will Rogers and Pilot Wiley Post in an airplane crash at Point Barrow, Alaska, August 15, 1935, and the bombing of Pearl Harbor by the Japanese, December 7, 1941.

Cheney also collected restaurant menus, catalogs, World War II ration coupons and other assorted items which he thought reflected the course of American life. In 1960, he began sealing all the material into barrels. Recently, he wrote to President D. R. Theophilus of the university, and said he would like to give the barrels with their historical contents to the institution because he felt it was one which would have a concern for America's heritage and a desire to build upon it. There was only one stipulation—that the barrels were not to be opened until 2010. So a half-century will have passed before the barrels are rolled out of the Library building basement.

SAY ANIMALS OKAY

Winter this year was tough in some areas, coming early and piling up deep snow. But big game animals nonetheless came through in good shape in most management areas, the Idaho Fish and Game department reported this week.

"As yet incomplete trend counts show increased deer and elk numbers in some places, winter losses although have been found in some units—mostly in underharvested areas where there is too little forage to support large concentrations of wintering animals," Mohler explained.

"When there is enough forage of sufficient variety to meet the herd's needs, animals are able to withstand long, hard winters—fawns and calves included," he continued.

"A major aim of our management program is to bring healthy animals through the winter so that maximum production will result the following year. Our big game hunters have found that large harvests can be taken year after year from herds which have good winter range. The reason for this is that herds on good winter range increase faster than herds on poor range."

All in all, "Old Man Winter" mixed the good and the bad in 1962. To the hunter, this means that big game animals wintered satisfactorily in most areas. In others, increased hunting will be in order for 1962 to ease the pressure on ranges which were too heavily used the past winter.

GRAIN DEALERS NAME SPEAKER FOR CONVENTION

A Spokane native and former executive secretary of the Pacific Northwest Grain Dealers Association is the first speaker to be named for the 41st annual convention of the Association in Spokane June 14 and 15.

Ron Kennedy, vice president in charge of public relations for F. H. Peavy and Company, Minneapolis, was named to speak at the convention Friday morning at the Davenport Hotel by Robert M. Black, Spokane, (manager, Glover Grain Company), convention chairman.

A graduate of Stanford University in journalism, Kennedy was on the staff of the Spokane Daily Chronicle before becoming executive secretary of PNWGDA from 1934 to 1937. He left Spokane to serve briefly as public relations counsel for the Iowa Chain Store Council and then joined the Grain and Feed Dealers National Association at St. Louis.

Kennedy was on military leave from G&FNDNA for five years of duty with the Air Force in World War II. He holds the rank of Colonel in the Air Force Reserve. He returned to G&FNDNA in 1946 and then in 1948 became executive secretary of Northwest Country Elevator Association, a position now held by another former PNWGDA secretary, Pete Stallcop. Kennedy then joined the Minneapolis Grain Exchange as secretary and became executive vice president before accepting the position of executive director of the American Heritage Foundation in 1955.

He joined F. H. Peavy in 1957. Kennedy is married and the father of three children.

Senator Church Will Seek Re-election

WASHINGTON April 18 - Senator Frank Church, D-Idaho, has announced his candidacy for re-election with the following statement:
"Today I have filed my candidacy for a second term in the United States Senate. During the past six years, I have worked diligently to give upright representation to the people of Idaho. I have always valued the thought right, regardless of personal consequences. To do the same, if re-elected, is the one promise I make for the coming campaign."

New Arrivals...

Reader Born at Renton, Washington, April 6 to Mr. and Mrs. John Raeder, (nee Kay Papineau) a 7 lb., 10-oz. boy, Stephen Craig. He joins a sister, Tammy Lynn. Mother and baby are fine.
Qualey A baby boy, Galen Brett, arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Qualey on Wednesday, April 18. The baby was born April 11 and weighed 5 lbs., 13 oz. He is welcomed by a little sister, Laurie Lee.

Changes In Disability Benefits Under Social Security Are Explained

New regulations recently approved by the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare describe the criteria used in deciding when the employment is a disqualifying factor for workers who are applying for social security disability benefits. Social security disability benefits are paid to workers who have become so severely disabled that in the words of the law they are "unable to engage in any substantial gainful employment." The Social Security Administration for disability benefits has remaining functional capacities which permit him to do a substantial job for pay, or if he is working whether this employment is considered "substantial." Under the new regulations, guidelines used to measure whether a worker has the ability to engage in substantial gainful activity include what the worker has done on his own, what he has done for others, and what he has done for himself. An Easter breakfast will be sponsored by the Christian Youth Fellowship at 7:30 a. m., for those who brave the early hour, in the Community Church Social Hall.

Women's Bowling Banquet To Be Held April 26

U. S. INSECTS DESTROY MORE TREES THAN FIRE
MORE TIMBER is destroyed annually by insects and other forest pests than fire, reveals the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In 1962 many of America's 450 million acres of commercial and recreational forest land—federal, state and private—are facing insect outbreaks of unusually severe dimensions, the Department says. Most active tree killers in 1961 were the bark beetles. The government is launching a control plan in forests of Utah and western Wyoming aimed specifically at these pests. Infested trees will be logged and bark-penetrating insecticides sprayed on felled and standing trees.

TEACHING MACHINES doubled the efficiency of a class of medical students at Dartmouth College, reports the school's psychiatry department. Learning efficiency was measured by comparing test scores with time spent studying. On material covered by the machine, average efficiency was 1.85 times as great as the score on material presented in the traditional way. . . . PARALYTIC POLIO cases dropped to 864 in 1961, a rate of less than five cases per one million population, reports the National Foundation. This compares with a rate of 162 cases per million population in the period (1949-1954) just before the advent of Salk vaccine.

NATURAL ATOMIC RADIATION in underground formations enables oil well technicians to pinpoint the level at which a deep shaft should be perforated for oil. Each formation, such as shale, sandstone and limestone, contains a certain amount of radioactivity, according to experts at PGAC in Houston, Texas. By taking radiation counts at various points in the shale, they can detect formations most likely to yield oil.

ONE MOLECULE fills a large room at the university of Oregon's Institute of Molecular Research. It is a brass model scaled at a ratio of 1 to 100 million. Dr. Sidney A. Bernard of the Institute's research staff builds the complex models to facilitate study of the relationship of molecular structure to biological function.

FIFTY-YEAR-OLD BACTERIA have been imported into the U. S. from Antarctica by University of Texas microbiologist Geo. H. Myers. The bacteria have survived a half-century of polar conditions after being left on the icy subcontinent by explorers Robert Scott and Ernest H. Shackleton. Meyer is trying to figure out why they've lived so long.

SPRAY-ON AUTO UPHOLSTERY is a Candian innovation. Chopped up fabric is sprayed from a special gun onto car doors and roof interior. . . . CATS eat nine-quarter of the commercial dog food sold in the U. S., reports the American Humane Association.

WILDLIFE CONSERVATION CLASSES GO TO SCHOOL
The three-year-old public information series of the Idaho Fish and Game department—recently streamlined down to four meetings for television broadcasting purposes—also has been adopted and presented recently in two southwestern Idaho schools.

E. Kliese Brown, information and education chief, reports that the programs were presented to all biology classes first at Meridian and then at Boise.

The pilot program was developed nearly three years ago for presentation as five weekly sessions at Marsing through the courtesy of the local Rod and Gun club. To date, the series has been presented in about 30 different communities in most parts of the state. In addition to various civic and sportsmen's clubs, sponsors have included Chambers of Commerce, the American Legion, and granges.

As in the streamlined television version, the presentations in the schools used different persons at frequent intervals. Hearing the "word" directly from fieldmen in charge of the various activities in believes that is the real key to the success of the forum programs.

Current plans of the department's information-education division include continued use of the programs during winter "off-season" periods.

NEWS FROM THE LATAH COUNTY AGENT
It's time to plant hardy vegetables. They do well in cool spring weather with a touch of sun.

Garden crops such as peas, spinach, radishes, onions, and turnips can be planted now, says Homer Futter, Co. agricultural agent. It is best to wait a little before starting lettuce, beets, celery, and parsley. They are not so hardy. And the really tender stuff like corn, beans, melons, tomatoes, and cucumbers can be postponed until June. They need warm weather. If they are started too early a frost could wipe them out.

A lot of seed is wasted by planting too deep, the county agent said. In order to germinate, seed must have proper temperature and moisture. In early spring the upper surface of the soil is warmest and is usually damp enough, so plant shallow. Later on, the surface gets dry and lower layers will be warm, so plant deeper. In sandy soils, plant deeper to get to moisture.

George Woodbury, head of the horticulture department of the University of Idaho, says most people plant too much seed and don't have the heart to thin the crop when it comes up. For some vegetables it doesn't matter, but when you plant too thickly such crops as corn, tomatoes, peppers, and cabbage, you reduce yield and quality.

Plan your garden Woodbury advises. Make a list of what you will plant. Arrange the plan so late crops can be grown on the area from which early vegetables are taken. For example, you can follow peas with late lettuce, or radishes with late cabbage. It helps to have a succession of crops and companion crops.

YOUR Social Security?
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: When and where does an employer file the social security tax return on wages paid to a domestic employee?
Answer: The returns are filed within one month after the end of a calendar quarter with the District Director of Internal Revenue. For example, the return covering cash wages of $50 or more paid a household worker during January, February, and March, 1962, is due by April 30, 1962.

It happened 100 YEARS ago
The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862 . . . the same year that

IN IDAHO a steamer carrying 700 miners from the dwindling gold fields of California arrived in Idaho to search for gold in the Coeur d'Alene where E. D. Pierce had discovered it two years earlier. Early day miners enjoyed beer, when available, just as Idahoans today continue to find pleasure in beer.

For then, as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation — light, sparkling refreshment that adds a touch of Western hospitality to any occasion. Idahoans have always enjoyed the good fellowship that goes with every glass.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

kills wild oats as they sprout!

By the time you can see wild oats in your fields, part of the damage has already been done. That's why farmers are using Avadex, the post-planting wild oat killer, in their fields. Avadex kills wild oats as they sprout.

One application—properly incorporated—controls wild oats all season long. Avadex eliminates delayed seeding, so you can plant longer maturing crops. There's no critical timing with Avadex . . . just spray your fields before the wild oats germinate.

Avadex eliminates wild oats in Barley, Dry Peas, Flax, Lentils, Sugar Beets, Durum Wheat and Green Peas.

EASTER STORY
Sweet is the Easter story
Born of this holy day,
Telling of Jesus glory,
Rolling the stone away.

And from my heart's glad singing,
Singing across the years,
Future days—joys are bringing,
Bringing to dry your tears.

More of the Easter story
Attend you along life's way,
Be yours of His love and glory
Be yours on this Easter day.

WOOD LIVING IS GOOD LIVING

it will be here tomorrow . . .

The modern manufacturing methods used in the production of lumber products add to the natural beauty of wood and assures longer life.

These advantages, coupled with the economical factor of wood, both in actual building and over-the-years maintenance, is another reason to say that "WOOD LIVING IS GOOD LIVING."

SNOW SURVEY ON APRIL 14
The April 14th snow survey on Moscow Mountain was taken by Jim Logan of the University Engineering Experimental station, and Bob Vollrath of the Soil Conservation Service. The Sherwin snow course, near Bovill, was measured on April 13th.

There is a pronounced decrease in snow depth of all courses measured since the last measurement on March 12. The snow depth on the Moscow Mt. course is 48" with a water content of 18" as compared to 66" of snow and 23" of water measured 2 weeks ago. The Sherwin course measured 31" of snow with 16" of water as compared with 47" of snow and 17" of water on the March 31 survey. There is no snow on the two lower elevation courses, Howard Creek, and Crumrine Creek.

Christian Science Church Service
"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be heard in Christian Science church services Sunday.

The statement of the Master's will be included in the Bible readings, John 10: "I and my Father are one. If I do not the works of my father, believe me not. But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe the works: that ye may know and believe, that the Father is in me, and I in him."

From Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy this selection will be read: "Atonement is the expiation of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects in Truth, Life, and Love, Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this he lives him endless homeage. His mission was both individual and collective. He did life's work aright not only in justice to himself, but in mercy to mortals,—to show them how to do theirs, but not to do it for them; not to relieve them of a single responsibility." (p.18).

Mr. Otto Baldus and John, Mrs. Anna Manderfeld, Mrs. Anna Kretschmer and Mrs. Josephine Knapps. The deceased was a sister-in-law of Mrs. Knapps.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig Wellington and daughter, Lisa were houseguests in the Ozzie Kanikberg home from Tuesday until Friday. Craig, a former music instructor at GHS, entered the service last December and was stationed at Ft. Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bergman, of Spokane were over Saturday night and Sunday visitors of her father, Glen Sampson, and sister, Mrs. Gertrude Grille. The dinner Sunday honored the 80th birthday anniversary of Mr. Sampson.

A mother skunk never could keep track of her two children. They were named In and Out, and whenever In was in, Out was out, and if Out was in, In was out. One day she called Out and he said, "I'm going out and bringing In in. So Out went out and in no time at all he brought In in."

"Wonderful," said the mother skunk "How in all this great forest, could you find In in so short a time?" "It was easy," said Out, "In stink."

FISH & GAME NEWS

Idaho Game Seasons
One of the big items on the agenda of the Fish and Game commission at its regular quarterly session beginning in Boise, April 26, will be the 1962 big game seasons and regulations. According to a policy set by the commission last October, the opening dates for the year's upland game bird seasons will be set at the April meeting. Complete bird regulations will be established at a special meeting in August.

The commission has scheduled a public meeting for the afternoon of the first day, April 26, to hear testimony and consider evidence with respect to setting big game hunting seasons and regulations. Other matters of business also will be handled.

Pacific Flyway Inventory
The waterfowl on the recent winter waterfowl inventory is that overall duck numbers were near normal on the Pacific Flyway in sharp contrast with declines in other continental flyways. Duck numbers, although about five per cent under the ten-year average, still show no significant change because the probable limits of counting error for the winter inventory are much wider than five per cent. In other words, a five per cent loss or gain is interpreted to mean that overall duck numbers of the Pacific Flyway for the winter period are about the same as for 1961.

Merle Wilson Home On Leave
Merle Wilson who recently completed his army basic training at Ft. Ord, California, arrived here Saturday night and will visit until April 27th with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilson and other relatives and friends. At the termination of his leave Merle will report to Ft. Sam Houston, Texas for Military Police Training.

DAWN HODUFFER
Valedictorian

KRISTEN SCHOOLER
Salutatorian

Valedictorian of the Class of 1962 of Genesee High School is Dawn Hoduffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoduffer. Dawn has achieved a grade point average of 3.94 out of a possible 4.0 in her four years as a student at the Genesee public high school. All except two of her high school grades were "A's". In addition to her outstanding scholastic achievements she has been active in student affairs and is the editor of the 1962 Year Book. Kristen Schooler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schooler, is the class Salutatorian. Kristen has compiled a grade point average of 3.90. Miss Schooler has been an active participant in music activities as well as other student activities and church youth groups.

Dates Announced For Play School
The annual Play School for preschool youngsters will be held on May 1-3 and May 8-9 in the Home Ec cottage at the public school. These preschool activities are for children who in September Session will enter the first grade in Genesee. The children will be able to ride the busses home in the evening. "First grade registration for the Play School will be done the first day with Mrs. Regina Schooler, first grade teacher. It will be necessary to present a birthday certificate for your children when you register. To be eligible to attend school next fall a child must attain his sixth birthday on or before October 15. Parents who wish their children to attend Play School should register them at the school office. This may be done by calling ATias 5-2441.

IDAHO WHEAT COMMISSION SHOCKED BY MIDWEST RATES ON GRAIN FREIGHT
The Idaho Wheat Commission is "shocked and alarmed" by reports that four major railroads will ship Midwest wheat to West Coast points at rates which would undercut the cost which Idaho growers must pay to ship their wheat for the shorter distance to the same terminals, commission administrator Harold West said Monday.

"We have received notification that Union Pacific and three other railroads have agreed to take independent action and grant a 70-cent per hundredweight rate for the Midwest wheat shipped to the West Coast despite a denial of the rate cut by the Transcontinental Freight Bureau," West said. "We are shocked and alarmed by this proposal because there is no corresponding rate reduction for Idaho points."

He said the Idaho Wheat Commission was following progress of the railroads' proposal closely. No official action regarding the matter can be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission until the proposed rate reduction has been actually published he added.

West said a mandatory 300-day period was required after the new rate is published before it can become effective, and requests for suspension of the 70-cent rate would be heard during that 30 days. He said he had received word that several protestants against the reduced Midwest shipping rate do plan to ask suspension of the rate as the railroads' action is filed.

The wheat commission administrator earlier this month protested to the U. S. Department of Agriculture the "discriminatory" rate structure which would result if the Midwest 70-cent rate were put into effect without corresponding rate cuts for this state.

West noted in his letter to Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman that the rate for what shipped 851 miles from Idaho Falls to San Francisco was 74 1/2 cents compared with the proposed 70-cent rate for the 1,400 miles from Dodge City, Kan. to San Francisco.

"We are wondering how berserk freight rates can get when they want to haul wheat 1,400 miles for less money than you can haul wheat a distance of 851 miles," he said. "The distance of 851 miles, he said, is less than the distance of 1,400 miles for what shipped the 1,294 miles from Boise to Omaha was 98 1/2 cents. Idaho's remaining traditional markets for her wheat are the Pacific Coast and the Orient, and the threatened 70-cent Midwest rate would undercut Idaho even in these nearby markets and ports.

"We have repeatedly said that we

Daylight Saving Time Begins April 29

Cities and villages throughout Latah county will again follow neighboring Idaho Empire area people in moving clocks ahead one hour on Sunday, April 29, as Daylight Savings Time again becomes effective in this vicinity.

Affected by the changing of the clocks will be businessmen, farmers, schools, public offices, and public institutions in general. Last year when the time change was made, some objections were voiced, but this year, all people in the county seem to be going along with the change with little opposition.

At 2 a. m. Sunday morning, clocks are to be moved ahead to 3 a. m. So there will be an hour's less sleep for those who get up by the clock Sunday.

Daylight Savings Time ends September 30.

Mrs. Grace Wicks To Seek Commissioners Post on G O P Ticket

Mrs. Grace Wicks, Moscow housewife and businesswoman, has filed her declaration of candidacy for the office of County Commissioner for District Two on the Republican ticket. In filing for this position last Wednesday, Mrs. Wicks became the first woman to apply for this county office.

Mrs. Wicks is the former Grace Jain, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jain, who were early-day business pioneers. Mrs. Wicks was born in Moscow and received her primary and secondary education in this city. She is the wife of Guy Wicks, Associate Dean of Student Affairs at the University of Idaho.

Mrs. Wicks has been in the real estate business in Moscow for the past fourteen years and since 1955 has been associated with United Funds, a mutual investment firm in Moscow.

"The Wicks' have two children, a son, Donald, who is with the Army stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky, and a daughter, Jamie, now Mrs. Steven Moe, a Corvallis, Oregon.

A Deaconess in the Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Wicks also is a lifetime member of the P. T. A. and spearheaded a committee of church women in Latah County to obtain a nursing home.

Consignments Sought For Auction Sale
Anyone who has items they would like to have sold at auction for the Community Day auction are requested to contact either Larry Sorenson or Ray Stout as soon as possible. The auction is scheduled to begin at 12:30 on Community Day, May 4. The inventory sale will be handled on consignments.

Both Sorenson and Stout said that almost any kind of items will be accepted for the sale. This includes household goods, farm equipment, autos, etc. Either man may be contacted for further details.

Fred Goetz, well-known area auctioneer, has been engaged to handle the sale. The auction will be held in the Valley Tree Farm Demonstrated Club and the old KP Hall.

Worn on Shooting Within City Limits
Police Chief James Watkins reminded parents and youngsters that city ordinances prohibit the discharge of fire arms within city limits in Genesee. The warning came after four complaints of this type were received within a recent period. Watkins requested that parents instruct children in regard to this. The ruling covers not only 22 rifles but also air guns.

Several vehicle accidents have occurred recently where the vehicles were removed from the scene before procedures are initiated for the public's cooperation in this matter is requested.

GEORGE HANSEN CREED FOR A SENATOR

by George V. Hanssen, Candidate for United States Senator
Idaho needs a Senator in Washington who will work for his people. We are a state with tremendous potential and a great need for development. As Senator from Idaho, I would put more emphasis on promoting the prosperity of my home state. I wouldn't stay in Washington and cry for socialistic aid when the job could be done at home. My responsibility would be to come back and talk with the Governor, Legislature, Commissioners and other people concerned encouraging local and state responsibility so pressure for federal aid could be reduced.

I shouldn't be caught trying to push programs on my people that they don't need or want. My obligation would be to preserve the Constitution and free enterprise system that has made us

CANCER CURES CLIMB IN U. S.

CANCER will afflict one of every four Americans during his lifetime. In 1962 alone some 520,000 people in the U. S. will discover they have the disease, reports the American Cancer Society. The death rate during the year will climb to 300,000. But, these discouraging figures do not reflect the progress being made in the battle against cancer, the society says. Improved detection techniques, for example, have resulted in cures for 1.2 million Americans—people who are alive and well five years after the disease was diagnosed and treated. Doctors believe that another 800,000 to 900,000 will join this group in the next five years.

AN ANTIDOTE for overdoses of sleeping pills, alcohol or morphine has been reported by Dr. Carl D. Lunsford of the American Chemical Society. Lunsford says the drug—labeled "AHR-619"—has been tested successfully on animals and is ready for try-outs on humans. . . . A FIREFIGHTING SUIT made for the U. S. Army from aluminum and paper enables the wearer to stand within two feet of 3,000-degree-F. heat without being burned. . . . A MISSILE WHISTLE made up of five musical rods has been developed to play a siren song in space. Should a flight go awry, a special combination of tones transmitted from the ground would cause the rods to vibrate, triggering an explosive charge to blow the missile.

ARTIFICIALLY ENRICHING a greenhouse atmosphere with carbon dioxide stimulates plant growth, reports Cardox, a major producer of the versatile chemical. Tests indicate a further benefit from the practice. Since injecting CO2 directly into the greenhouse atmosphere reduces the need for ventilation to draw it in from substantially.

BUSIEST AIRPORTS in the U. S. in 1961, reports the Federal Aviation Agency, were Los Angeles International Airport (324,000 landings and takeoffs), Chicago O'Hare (318,626), Miami International (310,520), Washington National (297,085) and New York International (290,134). Chicago's Midway Airport, formerly perennial leader, dropped to 12th among the 254 airports listed with 249,869 landings and takeoffs. . . . NEUTRONS by the POUND would be a bit steep. Euratom estimates the price at somewhere between $750,000 and $2.5 million a gram.

While Defense budgets climb alarmingly in the rest of the world, Andorra has slashed her 1962 armament outlay by 13 per cent—from $5.75 to $5.00. The tiny republic (pop. 5,064) in the mountains between France and Spain will spend the five for blank ammunition for an occasional ceremonial salute.

cease trying to buy friends. Every effort should be made to stop Communism and sell liberty and individual responsibility to the world. . . . Finally, we must have a positive and realistic foreign policy that will allow no one to misinterpret our intentions. Mr. Castro should not be allowed in the driver's seat. "I'll kill 1200 men unless you send tractors" should have been rejected by us with a choice for Mr. Castro. "If you kill 1200 men, we will stand by to depose you and your ruthless way." America and Idaho need leadership and dedication. We don't need big spending programs and we do not want do-nothing conservatism. We do need action to continue the dynamic growth of a free America.

CAPITAL GLEANINGS

By Henry Dworshak
United States Senator from Idaho
Undeclared War Is Menacing. An extremely menacing situation is developing in South Viet Nam where increasing U. S. military forces are engaged. Some columnists like Alsop have been referring to recent White House conferences which have been entirely executive with no public announcements being made. How evidence of the President's intentions to provide help which may involve the United States in a hot war is considered expedient by the Red Dictators. Secretary Rusk recently unfolded a new program of U. S. obligations to act individually as well as collectively in the eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization to assist Thailand. It does not appear at this time that the United States is making any effort to terminate hostilities between North and South Viet Nam as it should. Unless extreme caution is exercised we may be facing another Korea or even worse.

Emergencies Are Made To Order. The Administration is pushing steadily toward government controls over business and industry by sponsoring legislation which takes full advantage of distress caused by ill-advised programs. It is usually easy under such circumstances to get approval of programs such as retraining workers displaced in industries which have suffered in competition at both national and international levels. The President's announcement of 20 per cent reductions in tariffs likely will mean that we are making concessions not only to those countries with which we negotiated, but under the most favored nation clause will make comparable concessions to every country with which we have trade agreements. My correspondence reflects growing concern and apprehension over the steady trend toward more concentration of power in the federal government. When the final pattern becomes more distinct and discernible, it will be too late to recall decisions which have already become effective. Congress Refused To Be Coerced. This dual package of political poison was concocted reportedly to put all members of the Senate and House on record to be subjected to political pressures of people living in the large cities and the colored population. However, it should be apparent to all Americans that there are already ten Secretaries in the Cabinet, and the President could have named a Negro when he selected his associates. There will undoubtedly be vacancies in the Cabinet in the next few years, and the President will have an opportunity to make good on his promise to appoint a Negro to his Cabinet. In the meantime, the New Frontier Administration may learn the folly of political planning deliberately to embarrass members of Congress. Likewise, it should be a source of great satisfaction that in both the Senate and the House, an overwhelming majority refused to be coerced or intimidated.

CHURCH WANTS TIMBER SALES POLICIES REVIEWED

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman has assured Senator Frank Church that he will review timber sales policies of the Forest Service. Church and other Western Senators conferred here with Freeman, and discussed timber problems ranging from Canadian imports to access roads. Freeman provided Church with a memorandum which pledged that the Forest Service plans to:

1. Strive to market the full allowable cut from each national forest working circle, and give priority to there is substantial demand and heavy mill capacity.
2. Re-examine its timber appraisal procedure.
3. Promptly review appeals procedures, and the possibility of revising Forest Service contracts.

Freeman's memorandum said the Forest Service should develop better public understanding of the $800,000,000 timber sales program. "We do not feel that additional funds above the 1963 estimates are necessary to take action along the lines indicated," Freeman continued. "However, restoration of the $800,000,000 reduction in timber sales administration and management funds, as would be required by the Appropriation Bill enacted by the House, is quite important if an expanded program of timber sales and 'double-shooting' is to be gotten underway in fiscal year 1963."

SEN. MONRONEY NOMINATES FIRST CANDIDATE IN SEARCH FOR OLDEST HOMESTEADER

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.) has nominated the first candidate for the nation's oldest homesteader in the search for the oldest homesteader, the National Association of Real Estate Boards announced this week. NAREB, which has asked its 71,000 Realtors in all parts of the country to join in the hunt for the oldest homesteader, is sponsoring the quest jointly with the Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior, which is seeking the old-timer through its western state offices. The pioneer will be recognized during Realtor Week, May 20-26, and the centennial celebration of the passage of the Homestead Act (May 20, 1862).

"I want to place in nomination a pioneer from Oklahoma, Marshall McCully, 94 years old, of Aline, Okla.," Sen. Monroney wrote on April 5, the day the search was announced. "Although I have not had time to get in touch with Mr. McCully for confirmation, the Associated Press reported on Monday of this week that he still owns an original sod house built in 1884 on the homestead he staked in the Cherokee Strip of Oklahoma in 1893.

"I think you may find that my Oklahoma nominee will fit your search for the person who has continuously held title (for the longest time) to a homestead for which he was granted the original title by the United States government. I think we may have your old-timer before you even get started in the states further west, since I understand original speculation was that the winner of this Centennial contest probably would be someone who homesteaded around the turn of the century. "My nominee built his house, which I understand still stands in a good state of preservation near the modern farmhouse built in 1909, six years before the turn of the century. I think Mr. Cully will be the man to beat."

Sen. Monroney said that he has asked Mr. McCully to submit to NAREB the papers needed to support his candidacy—in general, a photograph issued by a patent document issued by the United States to give him land title, and a notarized statement to the effect that he is the person named in patent. The full rules of the contest—open to both men and women—may be obtained from NAREB, 1300 Connecticut Avenue, N. W., Washington 6, D. C. All entries and supporting papers must be received by this office not later than the close of business on May 4. The winner, to be designated by three judges, will be awarded an appropriate plaque by NAREB and honored as a part of the centennial observance and Realtor Week. Both of the sponsoring organizations stressed that the object of the search is not to find the oldest homesteader in terms of age but rather to locate the person who for the longest Job placements held up quite well during the past week, falling just a few below the previous high week, and remaining above the number of workers placed during the corresponding week a year ago. Among the workers placed during the week were farm tractor operators, domestic workers, laborers, a service station attendant, sales clerks and stenographers. The increase in the number of jobs received in the office is accounted for by the increased demand for farm tractor operators, and workers in the retail trades and in the service industries locally. The decrease in the number of workers claiming unemployment insurance benefits is accounted for primarily by the return to work of many woods workers throughout the county, particularly in the Pollack area and by the return to work of construction workers in the Moscow and Genesee areas. Still, among the workers still claiming benefits, there are 81 filing claims under the Idaho state extended benefit program, and 32 claiming benefits under the federally financed extended unemployment compensation program. During the week, there were a total of 22 persons exhausting all their benefits, including 9 who exhausted all, even the extended benefits.

time has continuously resided on, or has continuously held title to, a homestead for which he was granted the original title by the United States government. BLM, as the successor agency to the General Land Office which administered the Homestead Act, is actively engaged in celebrating the 100th anniversary of the Law as an important milestone in national land policy. The NAREB and its constituent real estate boards and members, being devoted to the attainment of the widest possible ownership of land, are incorporating events pointing to the significance of the Act in the forthcoming Realtor Week observance.

JOHN JENNINGS, COMPLETES 20 YEARS OF SERVICE

John Jennings, Ticha Representative of the social security administration, has completed 20 years of service with the organization this month. He was presented a 20-year certificate by James Myers, District Manager of the local office. Last year, Mr. Jennings won recognition for superior work performance, winning a $50 cash award. The Lewiston Social Security District Office services Nez Perce, Lewis, Idaho, Clearwater, and Latah Counties in Idaho and Asotin and Garfield counties in Washington. Mr. Jennings handles a majority of the outside work of the social security administration in those counties.

Mr. Jennings, a native Idahoan, was born in Boise and attended high school there. He came to work for the social security administration in 1941. His first assignment was Central Office Work in Baltimore, Maryland. After a short time the Selective Service system required an Army career. John served in the Army from 1941 through September, 1945, attaining the rank of Master Sergeant. During this time he spent three years overseas with the 5th Armored Division in the 41st Day landing on Utah Beach. At the end of the war, he was on the Elbe River opposite Berlin. Following this service, he served successively in the offices of the Administration at San Francisco and Oakland, California, and Walla Walla, Washington, before being assigned to work in the Lewiston office. This latter assignment was made at his request. Jennings' service with his wife Roberta and two daughters, Susan and Nancy, at 237 Bryden Street. A son, Richard, is now an honor student at the University of Idaho. Phone your news items to 5-3221

WINNING YOUR PUPPY'S CONFIDENCE

By Bob Bartos, Friskies Research Menela... Handling a puppy is the first step in creating good rapport between dog and owner.

confidence, and once such confidence is established, contact with unexpected noise, unfamiliar sights and people will be less baffling.

As a matter of fact, subjecting him to a little tumult while you're on hand to reassure and protect him is another good way to gain his confidence.

Once your dog has complete trust in you, you'll find you often can induce him to accept something he considers rather unpleasant, such as a bath or a shot.

And remember, it's easier on the dog if he's subjected to a variety of experiences when young and still adaptable than when he's older and more set in his ways.

Feeding Tip: A steady diet of table scraps is usually lacking in sufficient vitamins and proteins. Top quality prepared dog foods such as Friskies contain these nutrients in the proper amounts necessary for good health.

WATERFOWL IDENTIFICATION HELPS SPECIES HARVESTING

By Idaho Fish and Game Department... In the spring a young drake's fancy turns to ducks, the female of the species. His brilliant plumage contrasts sharply with their drab appearance.

The ability to tell one kind of duck from another, especially on the wing takes a practiced eye and some basic knowledge. Sex differences are easy enough to spot at this time of year when the males are bright in their pre-nuptial plumage.

But it is a beginning, this relatively simple segregation in the springtime before drakes and ducks merge in appearance into the drab summer eclipse moult.

These are precise terms but not hard to understand. Drakes lose all their bright winter coloring as soon as their mating chores are over and the ducks begin their incubation duties. Replacement feathers are much the same as the female dress—drab, somber and inconspicuous.

This is known as the 'eclipse' plumage and the drake mallard, for instance, no longer is wearing the green on his head, the chestnut chest and grey side feathers.

Waterfowl management workers of the Idaho Fish and Game department take advantage of this flightless time when the wing feathers are gone, to trap and band the birds as part of international biological studies.

The second moult begins as soon as the drakes can fly again, usually about Labor Day, and the eclipse feathers gradually are replaced with varicolored winter brilliance.

Oddly enough, the eclipse moult is found only in ducks, geese and swans, and only in waterfowl of the northern hemisphere. Even in southern hemisphere lands where the climate is similar and the same species of ducks are found—cinnamon teal, for example—drakes always are males down to the last feather, and females are the dowdy sex.

Mrs. Oscar Danielson and son, Dan returned home Friday from Southern Idaho where Dan, a U. of I. student had two weeks of practice teaching at Pocatello, Idaho and Mrs. Danielson spent a week with her daughter, Mrs. Lester Diehl and family home by Miller.

George Denny, Director of the Department of Law Enforcement's Motor Vehicle Division has been named by the Governor to coordinate the meeting.

Legal aspects of state and federal boating laws will be discussed by members of the Coast Guard, according to Denny. In charge of this phase of the program will be Captain W. R. Sayer, United States Coast Guard, Washington, D. C.

Rear Admiral Peter V. Colmar, Commander of the 13th Coast Guard District, Seattle, will head a four-man team, known as a Boarding Party, who will explain and demonstrate methods of boarding water craft to check minimum operation and safety standards.

Included on the program will be displays and demonstrations of water safety material and equipment by representatives of the American National Red Cross, U.S. Coast Guard and Civil Defense will provide instructions on emergency controls which may be set up during an emergency or disaster, Denny stated.

The Ada County Sheriff's office will demonstrate underwater recovery methods by scuba divers while the Fish and Game Department will demonstrate safe fishing practices for sportsmen, it was announced.

A team from the Idaho State Police will give a demonstration on the safe trailing of boats.

WOULD PROTECT WOMEN FROM DISCRIMINATORY WAGES Passage of a Federal law that would protect women against discriminatory wage scales was urged here by Idaho's Congresswoman Gracie Pfozt.

She made her plea in a statement to the Select Subcommittee of the House Labor Committee which is considering legislation to have women paid on an equal footing with men when they are doing a comparable job in business and industry.

"The need for passage of an equal pay law is long overdue. It remains a basic tenet in the historical struggle of women for full equality under the law of their basic rights as workers," Mrs. Pfozt said.

The Genesee State Congresswoman noted there are 23 1/2 million women in the working force today, or about one out of every three, and that the Labor Department predicts there will be 30 million working women within the next 10 years.

She told Subcommittee Chairman Herbert Zelenko that discriminatory pay scales are a "built-in penalty" against many working women who may desperately need the added income for their families.

After tracing the history of the struggle of women to win equal pay rights, Mrs. Pfozt pointed out that the equal-pay principle has the support today of many diverse groups, including both Democratic and Republican parties, the AFL-CIO, the National Association of Manufacturers and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Pfozt stated that a recent Bureau of Labor Statistics survey showed a third of the companies queried admitted having a double pay standard for male and female office workers. In another survey, comparing nine specific jobs, men were found to average 9 to 12 per cent more pay per job, she added.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Davis entertained at dinner Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Rossen and Mrs. Mary Webb and daughter, Mary Lee, all of Lewiston.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Borgen were dinner guests Sunday of Mrs. Arthur Howe in Clarkston and attended the Easter Sunday service at the new Our Savior's Lutheran church in Clarkston.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Danielson had dinner Sunday with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hagen of Astoria were callers Sunday at the home of Mrs. Lilly Larson and Eleme.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Moser entertained at dinner Easter Sunday for Mrs. Moser's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Schrabach of Moscow.

McCALL MEETING SLATED FOR BOAT LAW SAFETY

McCall - Governor Robert E. Smylie this week announced a Boat Law Safety Training Meeting to be held at Shore Lodge in McCall, May 8, and 9.

Representatives of all sheriffs' offices, each Idaho State Police District and the Fish and Game Department have been requested by Governor Smylie to attend the two-day session for training by the United States Coast Guard, U.S. Fish and Game and the American National Red Cross.

The Governor also invited representatives of all Idaho organized boat clubs to attend this very important Boat Training Meeting.

POSSIBILITY OF MORE FOREST ROAD FUNDS

Idaho would receive an extra $1,640,000 for forest roads and trails under the amendment tacked onto the National Highway Act, Congresswoman Gracie Pfozt said in Washington this week.

The First District Congresswoman said the funds would be in addition to the regular budget requests of the Forest Service for its overall program in the state.

She said the Forest Service has requested $24,504,000 for Idaho for fiscal 1962, of which $5,205,000 would be for forest roads and trails. Idaho ranks second only to Alaska in total national forest acreage.

Mrs. Pfozt, a ranking member of the House Public Works' Committee which is now considering the highway measure, noted that the State has been receiving increased funds for forest work in recent years, but "that a larger increase is needed to insure that a more effective program is carried out."

The Forest Service budget for this fiscal year totaled $22.4 million for Idaho and it was $19.1 million the year before, she said.

Earlier, Mrs. Pfozt joined eleven other House Democrats in a letter to President Kennedy appealing for increased funds for national forest roads and trails in line with his special message to Congress on the National Forest Program.

In that message, Mrs. Pfozt pointed out, the President spoke of the need for $1.2 billion in forest roads and trails during the next ten years. She urged the President to implement that program through increasing funds in forest areas.

"Many of the areas where national forests are located are underdeveloped regions where the national resources represent a genuine opportunity to advance admitted having a double pay standard for male and female office workers. In another survey, comparing nine specific jobs, men were found to average 9 to 12 per cent more pay per job, she added.

Interest in seat belts is increasing. Continuous appeals for the safety devices are beginning to show some results, enough, at least, to provide national and local impetus for follow-up campaigns.

Many of the new model passenger cars are equipped with seat belt anchors. Hundreds of older vehicles in Idaho have been equipped with belts by such organizations as the JayCees while other civic groups have taken on the task of publicizing their value.

Women's organizations through their Federation of Women's Clubs have crusaded for safety belts on a national and local basis.

Idaho has no scientific laboratories to "prove" the death-and-injury-preventing value of the webbed straps and metal buckles. It can account for the number of people who are killed each year when they are ejected from vehicles involved in crashes. The percentage is somewhat higher than the national average. A few fatalities are crushed inside cars and trucks to indicate that in some isolated instances properly fastened belts would have done no good. One driver was thrown from his car and killed this year, but he had been sitting on an unfastened safety belt.

To make a broad statement that a given number of lives could be saved would be out of reason. It is a fact that there is no record of anyone having died because he was fastened in by a seat belt.

Among objections to installation and use of belts is a somewhat new and possibly sincere apprehension that a sense of false security might cause motorists to overlook other SAFETY FACTORS. IT IS UNLIKELY THAT A PHYSIOLOGICAL REACTION WAS PREVALENT WITH THE ADVENT OF SAFETY GLASS, STEEL TOPS, BETTER TIRES AND TURN SIGNALS.

No one of the known safety devices will bring about the desired results unless a safe driver is installed behind the steering wheel of each car.

SCIENCE TOPICS

AMERICAN MAY BE ON MOON BY 1966 A MOON LANDING by the U. S. might be possible as early as 1966, says Dr. John C. Humbolt of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). Dr. Humbolt suggests a plan which he says will be easier to accomplish than the usual concept of shooting a spacecraft from the earth directly to the moon: A space vehicle would be placed in orbit around the moon and a small manned "lunar lander" would separate and descend to the moon's surface. Mission accomplished, the "lander" would rendezvous with the orbiting craft which would then return to earth.

POPULARIZING LAMB with the American consumer is the objective of a U. S. Department of Agriculture study. The program, which has revealed that lamb gets its characteristic flavor from the fat, hopefully will show the way to enhance or modify the taste. TAKE A CARD, any card; a new information storage system has half a million in its "deck." It requires an average of only 20 seconds to bring any one of them to view from among the 50,000 microfilm pages. The system is about the size of a desk and costs from $15,000 to $300,000 depending on the amount of work it can do and how automatically it will do it.

LAMB-CUTTING metal parts has received a boost with a new automatic control system that guides multiple-torch machines electronically. The National Cylinder Gas system, called the X-Y coordinate drive, can translate a simple pencil drawing into as many finished parts as desired. The drawing can be used repeatedly since it is touched only by a beam of light from the control photoelectric scanning system. Flame cutting is used when the metal plate is too heavy to be stamped or the number of parts to be made is too few to justify the expense of making a die.

Idaho's Buckaroo Beans

If you aren't acquainted with Idaho's dappled beans known as "Pintos," a pot of Buckaroo Beans made with this Western favorite will provide a perfect introduction and lead you into meeting another of the famous Idaho Bean family—the Red Bean. Either can be used in this hearty low-cost all-in-the-pot meal, obligingly slow-simmered either on the newest of thermostatically-controlled range surface units or over the glowing coals of a camp fire with practically no watching and few dishes to wash. And what a meal it is! This recipe makes 6 substantial servings.

2 cups Idaho dry Pinto Beans 2 fat cloves garlic, minced 6 cups cold water 1 small bayleaf, left whole 1 large or 2 medium onions, thick-sliced or chopped 1/2 pound smoked ham, slab bacon or salt pork

Add washed beans to the water, allow to soak overnight in a heavy kettle. Or in the morning, boil beans 2 minutes in the water. Remove from heat, cover, soak 1 hour. Add other ingredients. Smoked ham should be cut in 1/2 inch cubes. Slab bacon or salt pork (salt washed off) should be sliced twice each way not quite to mid. Bring to boiling point rapidly. Reduce heat to slow simmer. Cover tightly. Cook 1 1/2 hours. Then add: 2 cups canned tomatoes 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard 1/2 cup chopped green pepper 1/4 teaspoon oregano OR 2 teaspoons chili powder 1/4 teaspoon ground cumin 2 tablespoons brown sugar salt if needed

Rapidly bring to boiling point. Reduce to slow-simmer. Taste for salt. Cover. Simmer about 2 hours. There should be enough liquid left on the beans to resemble a medium-thick gravy. If cooked at this slow-simmer stage, the beans will not stick to the pot. Serve in large heated soup dishes or over-size coffee cups, with piping-hot buttered corn bread and cool crisp relishes; dessert—lemon, orange or pineapple sherbet or simple pudding with butter cookies.

SAFETY COUNCIL CALLS FOR CAUTION TO AVOID MISHAPS

Construction of all kinds reaches a near-peak proportion during the spring and early summer months and increases public exposure to accidents "W. G. Brinkley, president of the Idaho Safety Council said this week.

Brinkley said the responsibility to prevent all types of accidents rests with the public as well as operators of heavy equipment now in operation in almost all parts of Idaho. "Parents of small children are especially urged to make certain the youngsters stay out of construction areas and off the streets," the Safety Council president commented.

"Individual industries, the National Safety Council and government agencies for several years have carried on rigid training programs for safe operations of machinery and all types of mobile equipment which must be moved or used on public roads," Brinkley said. "This safety training has paid off in accident prevention, but on rare occasions there are injuries and deaths arising from innocent and at the same time careless acts of small children who do not realize the hazards that exist," he went on to say.

The Safety Council official observed that accidents of this nature are not prevalent, but he added that "the rapidly increasing amount of construction, road building, water line replacement and general improvement work is the cause of the accidents."

U. S. STANDARD OF LIVING will sink to the level of the great depression of the 1930's after a large scale nuclear attack, according to the National Planning Association. But, the group added, the nation would be off its knees again within months if a well planned recovery program were put into effect immediately.

Christian Science Church Service How divine guidance aids man in his efforts to make spiritual progress will be brought out Sunday at Christian Science church services. The Lesson-Sermon entitled "Prohibition After Death" will include these words from the Psalmist: "As for God, his way is perfect: the way of the Lord is tried; he is a buckler to all those that trust in him. It is God that girdeth me with strength and maketh my way perfect." (Psalm 18). This citation from science and health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy will also be read (p.324): "The way is straight and narrow, life in God."

which leads to the understanding that God is the only life. It is a warfare with the flesh, in which we must conquer sin, sickness, and death, either here or hereafter,—certainly before we can reach the goal of Spirit, or life in God."

MOTHER'S DAY Again it's MOTHER'S DAY—again the story Comes drifting back across the years to me; The chapel choir is singing of God's Glory In dreams of bygone days that used to be.

We take the upland trail along the wildwood Where soft winds rocked the pine trees from the west; As hand in hand we go again to childhood Where all the world was peaceful and at rest.

And then I know there is an end to sadness For as we watch the Aprils turn to May; This great big world just rings again with gladness. And love that burns anew— MOTHER'S DAY. —Bert Gamble

Many Idaho Waters Abound With Bass

By Jim Humbird Idaho Fish and Game Department William R. Ridebaugh of Boise planted 2,240 largemouth bass in the rich green waters of the Boise river some 70 years ago. Little did he realize that the descendants of these hardy and prolific game fish later would provide countless hours of fun and recreation for anglers.

It is common among knowledgeable fishermen to be secretive. It is a tradition that has been passed on from generation to generation. Such was not the case with Ridebaugh. His records show the original bass were brought in by express from Missouri in 1887. The importation amounted to 50 fish averaging six inches in length. Later he received additional stock for his pond from the U. S. Fish Commission.

These were the brood stock, whence came the fish of his own rearing for initial release to the Boise river. Ridebaugh retained the fish of another populous pond of greater acreage. Early records trace the migratory pattern of the bass from the Boise river downstream to the Snake and Columbia rivers. So rapidly did they spread throughout the basin of the lower Columbia, they were marketed fish almost from the start.

Today many waters are well stocked with black bass, particularly largemouth, and a partial list around the state from north to south to east must include at least 9 Boise river, Idaho Sheppard, Ganlin, Fernan, Hauser, Chatolet, Round, Benawah, Lowell, and Carey.

Idaho rivers in which the bass are found are the Snake, Clearwater and lower Salmon. These waters are stocked with smallmouth bass. According to the Western Bass Club's fishing guide, Norman Lawrence of Lewiston gets the credit for the first planting of smallmouth bass in the Clearwater river a few years ago. At any rate, these fish are abundant in that drainage in the Nez Perce and Clearwater counties, and the Salmon river drainage in Nez Perce and Idaho, and all along the Snake river in southern Idaho.

James C. Simpson, chief of fisheries management, points out that not all bass released over the years have been made wisely. In some cases, they have been made in trout waters to the detriment of rainbows. Also they have been planted in waters that are too cold, thus resulting in poor growth. To date, Idaho records for the two species are 10 pounds, 15 ounces for largemouth, and 5 pounds, 4 ounces for smallmouth bass.

The big drawback in generous bass population, is that they are insufficiently harvested in many waters. More fishermen are needed to take the annual crop of black bass or they will stunt out and become nuisances. It has been taken most places in April. That's the general statewide trout season. Early spring fishing calls for near-perfect conditions and such things as black eels fashioned from cork rinds.

Surface plugs work best on bass during the warm months to come. Bait doesn't seem to work as well except for an occasional run of luck in the deeper parts of lakes and sloughs. But whatever the season, a hooked smallmouth bass is a plucky, game, brave fish and unyielding in the last. It has the strong wish of the trout, the fighting strength and bold leap of a salmon—and fighting tactics peculiarly its own.

"AVERAGE DRIVER" OVERWORKED TITLE IN SAFETY SEARCH Who wants to be average? To hit this median category in any endeavor, one must compete with those in the superior group and those in the inferior group.

When a driver classifies himself as "average" he may be doing himself an injustice and at the same time unconsciously influence his driving habits downward into a category below the so-called average.

When a few cars pass you on the highway at high rates of speed, it is easy to say that everybody else is speeding when you honestly know that a vast majority of the other vehicles are traveling within the speed limits. The same can be said when comparing yourself with those who ignore signs and signals, those who cut in and hop lanes and other drivers who follow too closely.

It is easy to become part of the "majority," but most important is your correct analysis of what kind of drivers make up that majority. If you sincerely believe that most drivers break the law whenever possible and not get caught, you should never be satisfied with being an average driver. Classify yourself as better than average and work hard to improve so you can maintain that status. If you are not convinced the average driver obeys the law because he wants to and not because of the fear of statutory reprisals, the definition of oneself as average is alright as long as

The perfect nature of spiritual creation will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

Among the Bible passages to be read in the lesson-sermon entitled "Adam and Fallen Man" is this one from Genesis (1): "And God said, Let us make man in our own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them."

From science and health with key to the scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy this edition will be read: "God created all through Mind, and made all perfect and eternal." (p. 205).

The golden text is from Job (8): "Behold, God will not cast away a perfect man, neither will he help the evil doers."

Gronwell Can Be Controlled With 2, 4-D

Gronwell can be controlled with 2, 4-D when the plants are less than four inches high. Applying one to two pounds per acre in early May is effective, according to information from Robert Higgins, agronomist of the University of Idaho extension service. A leaflet about gronwell has been written by Higgins and Lambert Erickson, a weed man of the college of agriculture.

Gronwell is most common where winter wheat is grown continuously. It is a problem in other places where it is allowed to increase in fence rows and waste areas.

Studies show that the weed is less likely to develop in summer fallow and cultivated crops than in continuous winter wheat.

Clean cultivation or a cropping schedule including a cultivated crop will reduce the weed, Higgins and Erickson said. A change from winter wheat to a straight spring-cropping program is also effective.

Because of restrictions, ester formulations of 2,4-D may not be used after May 15 in some counties, the specialists warned.

The university offers these further suggestions:
Plant only certified seed. Do not feed whole screenings or whole grain containing gronwell. Grind the feed fine. Apply 2,4-D spray early, before the gronwell starts to bloom.

Yellow Swans Observed
Five colored swans—three brilliant yellow and two orange hued birds—have been observed lately in Idaho. Two of these were seen at the Pacific Bureau of Fish and Wildlife near Burns, Oregon, and one at Sandpoint. The off-color phases in the whistling swans did not improve because of a recent report from the Bureau of Fish and Wildlife concerning yellow and orange Cygnus columbianus.

It seems that 144 whistling swans were colored a bright yellow and red in the flight lanes of the Pacific Flyway at the Malheur National Wildlife Refuge near Burns, Oregon, last fall.

Pteric acid, the dye used to color all of the swans, gives them a bright yellow appearance. In time the pteric acid undergoes chemical change and turns orange. Those swans which are now sporting an orange color probably belong to the group marked at Malheur last fall.

Sturgeon fishermen are reminded that the big ones six feet and over in length and the "minnows" of the species 3 feet and under must be released. These regulations of the state Fish and Game commission, backed by similar ones in Oregon and Washington, are tailored to get more of the big sturgeons past puberty and adolescence so that more reproduction of their kind can occur.

Female sturgeon do not lay eggs until they are about 12 to 15 years old. This means that fish over six feet are the real products.

Other sturgeon fishing regulations ban the use of set lines in all waters except the Kootenai river in north Idaho, and the use of hooks measuring less than 1 1/2 inches from point to shank on set lines.

STUDENTS NEED SOCIAL SECURITY CARD FOR MOST SUMMERTIME JOBS

The time for summer vacation from school is rapidly approaching.

For some, school closing will mean a summer of care-free existence at the beach, swimming, fishing, and boating. To some, it will mean going to the mountains and the more rugged sport of mountain climbing. To most, however, it will mean summer work and the satisfaction of earning money and all of the personal gratification even a limited amount of financial independence brings.

If you are one of the vast number of students who will be working for the first time this summer, there are a couple of important things you should know.

You will need a social security account number. You may get an application for a number from your Post Office or from the Lewiston social security office located at 113 Main Street. After you receive your number, be sure you show it to your employer so that he can record it in his records.

This is of equal importance to the summer-time worker and to the graduate who will be starting his career. All employment is credited under the individual's account number. You will have only one number throughout your lifetime. If you lose your number, be sure to apply for a duplicate. If you will remember these points you will be starting your working career with the least possible difficulty.

SPOTTED ALFALFA APHID MAY BE PEST THIS YEAR

Farmers should be prepared to wage a battle again this year against the spotted alfalfa aphid, cautions Roland W. Portman, University of Idaho extension entomologist.

We don't know if the aphids overwinter in the fields and go undetected early in the season or whether they fly in from other areas," he said. For the last three years, Portman has found aphids in the same spots bordering fields in the Lewiston area, indicating they definitely overwinter in those spots.

The spotted alfalfa aphid has been found in both the Lewiston area and southwestern Idaho, although only in southwestern Idaho has it attained populations of economic importance. Portman points out that last year the aphid infestation caused an estimated $30 per acre damage from Hammett, west to the Oregon border in three cuttings of alfalfa. In infested fields planted last spring, there's doubt if the alfalfa will grow this spring. Fall planted fields also suffered heavy plant loss.

"Spotted alfalfa aphids remove an abundance of plant sap. Movement of food from roots to leaves seems to be affected. Leaves drop off and the plant dies," explains Portman. "Sticky mold attacks the abundant honeydew produced by the aphid, making the cut alfalfa unpalatable to livestock.

A MICROCALORIMETER is being awaited anxiously by chemist at the University of Colorado. The device, a 50-pound block of copper, measures tiny amounts of heat radiated over a long period. The chemists hope to import it from France duty-free. If Congress waives the duty, the microcalorimeter will be put to work in the study of the heat effect of chemical interaction in large biological molecules.

In some old established stands in south west Idaho this sticky mold situation was so serious that the entire lower eight inches of the plants were black. Control measures are: Plant an alfalfa variety tolerant to spotted alfalfa aphid, such as Lahontan; apply a ground spray of one ounce of actual demeton (systox) in at least 20 gallons of water per acre; or apply two ounces of actual material in 10 gallons of water per acre by aircraft. Do not apply control sprays before aphids appear. To prevent plant residues, the last application should be made no later than 14 days before harvest. Phone your news items to 5-3221

The Place To Be Is Genesee MAY 19

Reason Told For Setting Fish-Game Seasons Early

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish and Game Department

Idaho's 1962 big game hunting seasons and regulations, released by the Fish and Game commission following a three-day quarterly meeting in Boise last week, already have been summarized in the news columns. As usual, they will be printed in detail by the department and keyed to the deer-elk state hunting map, ready for free distribution through authorized license vendors about July 1.

Opening dates for most big game hunting seasons were set last January in accordance with commission policy adopted last year. The reason is to encourage hunters to plan vacations of a week or more in the back country where deer and elk herds need more cropping for their own good. This way nimrod can arrange to take time for his vacation in the back country where deer and elk herds need more cropping for their own good. This way nimrod can arrange to take time for his vacation in the back country where deer and elk herds need more cropping for their own good.

When the state legislature set up the Idaho Fish and Game commission in compliance with initiative petitions backed by overwhelming popular support, all seasons were fixed by the lawmakers, varying almost from county to county.

This year, the state's barbers are applauding the policy of fixed dates for trout angling. Tuesday, May 1, will mark the opening of the general Idaho fishing season, coinciding with one of their "off" days. No doubt the special north Idaho lowland lake trout season debut Tuesday, May 1, will benefit a host of other fishermen who don't work that day. Two times in seven, opening day falls on a weekend. Under this policy, everybody hits it sooner or later.

With big game hunts, the opening dates are important for still other reasons. Weather, for example, has great influence. Either snow or steady rains or hot, dry weather through the first two or three weeks can have crucial effects on game harvests. Even a dearth or snow and cold weather during the latter parts of hunting seasons can spell doom to the harvest in other areas.

Good management through proper harvesting seeks to maintain winter herds at a nutritional level which will enable them to reach their maximum productivity in dropping and rearing large crops of young. Actual checks of animals from various herds show that range which does the proper job in winter pays off handsomely by permitting the highest possible productivity during the months ahead.

Considering last year's harvest and present range conditions, the Fish and Game department believes that elk harvests for 1962 should be held at about the same level as last year in 38 management units, while increased harvests are desired in 27 management units, and harvests similar to those of last year are the goal on the remaining fifty deer units.

Hunting with pack stock is the ideal way to go after big game, particularly in the back country, the North and South Forks of the Clearwater, the Lochsa and Selway. This is rough, mountainous terrain, characterized by steep river canyons and heavy timber and high stands. Some of it is laced with logging and timber access roads, allowing considerable close-to-the-road hunting. But many Idahoans and even some out-of-state hunters had in their own pack stock to get back away from the roads. Of course, there also is a brisk business for outfitters and guides, packing hunting parties back where there is plenty of alibou room.

Hunting trips to the back country, therefore, require planning—which means advance notice about opening dates. This was done last year at the January commission meeting, as it was again this year, and resulted in goodly numbers of hunters in remote areas. The harvest, too, was good—high during the opening days and tapering off, as is normal, later on. The ratio of bulls to cows and bucks to does was higher than during later seasons when it tended to equalize. These are some of the factors that must be weighed and reconciled in the commission meeting deliberations.

EMPLOYMENT Situation in Latah County. Job opportunities dipped somewhat during the week as compared with the past few weeks. This decline appears to be as a result of the slightly inclement weather prevailing during most of the week. The number of persons placed on jobs during the past week, however, compares favorably with the number of persons finding work during the corresponding week a year ago. Among the workers receiving assistance in finding work during the past week were secretaries, sales clerks, a skilled saw mill worker, domestic workers and laborers.

LARGER ACREAGE OF CROPS FORESEEN PLANTED THIS YEAR. BOISE — Idaho farmers intend to plant a slightly larger acreage of crops this year than they did in 1961. A summary this week by economists of the University of Idaho extension service said a reduction in wheat and potatoes is more than offset by moderate increases in corn, oats, barley, sugar beets, dry peas, beans and hay.

COMPETING MEAT has been abundant. Total spring lamb marketings are expected to be about the same as last year because a larger proportion of the crop lambed early.

Genesee Livestock 4-H Club held a meeting Wednesday, May 9th. The meeting was called to order by president Glen Erickson. Stanley Green led the 4-H pledge. The minutes were read and approved. Plans for Community Day were made. There was a meeting for painting signs on May 16. The flag pledge was led by Charlotte Wadsworth. It was moved and seconded that the meeting be adjourned. Next meeting May 23. Reporter, Kathy Zenner

Washington, requires a punch in the appropriate place immediately after a steed has been landed, and the notation of the name of the river or other water (Brownlee reservoir, for instance) where the fish was taken. Multiple hooks are out in the South Fork of the Salmon river and its tributaries, and Bear Valley creek and its tributaries. Only single hooks, one to a line, measure no more than one-half inch from point to shank are lawful this year in these waters.

Someone please give a sentence using the word "candor."

"Please "m. said the bright little boy in the front seat, my papa had a pretty stenographer, but after Ma saw her candor."
A couple of sailors, laying over for a day or two in Sweden, decided to go to church. Knowing no Swedish, they figured to play it by picking out a dignified-looking gentleman sitting in front of them and doing whatever he did.
During the service the pastor made a special announcement of some kind, and the man in front of them rose. The two sailors quickly got to their feet, too—only to be met by roars of laughter from the whole congregation.
When the service was over and they were greeted by the pastor at the door, they discovered he spoke English and naturally asked what the cause of the merriment had been. "I was announcing a baptism and I asked the father of the child to stand."

Willman Paces GHS Track Team To Second Place At State Meet

Glen Erickson entered in the 880-yard run and finished fifth.
Boyd and Glen were accompanied by Marvin Grieser, manager, and Coach John Merrick.
Boyd presented the Runner-up trophy to the Student Body at an assembly on Monday. Students and President Wade Hampton accepted the trophy on behalf of the Student Body.
The Genesee track team, on the strength of Boyd Hillman's brilliant individual performance, placed second in the State High School track meet held in Boise on May 19.
Boyd placed first in the 440-yard run with a time of :52.4. He was second in the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, and the broad jump. His points earned all of Genesee's 14 points.

BLINDNESS MORE COMMON IN BACKWARD COUNTRIES

BLINDNESS afflicts at least 10 million people throughout the world, reports the World Health Organization. In underdeveloped countries, the organization says, the rate of blindness is six to ten times as high as in North America and Western Europe. In some villages of Ghana, for example, one person in every ten is blind. The organization, an arm of the U. N., says that two-thirds of the cases could have been prevented. Its theme this year is: "Preserve Sight; Prevent Blindness."

DR. ROBERT P. PARKER WILL ADDRESS THE 41 ANNUAL PNGDA AT SPOKANE, JUNE 15

Dr. Robert P. Parker, Spokane physician, will address the 41st annual convention of the Pacific Northwest Grain Dealers Association at Spokane, June 15, it was announced today. Dr. Parker will speak to the dealers on "A Further Extension of Socialization," a discussion of the provisions of the Kind-Anderson bill and why most members of the medical profession oppose it. Dr. Parker is American Political Action Committee (AMPAC) director for the fifth congressional district of Washington for the State Medical Association.

Robert Black, convention chairman in making the announcement, said the topic was one suggested by many grain dealers who themselves have been beset more and more in recent years by encroachments of the Federal government into the traditional role of the grain dealer. Dr. Parker has been active in the fight against socialization of medical services for more than a year, and has made numerous talks and written extensively on the subject. He is immediate past president of the Spokane Society of Internal Medicine; president elect of the Washington State Heart Association's Northeastern Branch, and past chair of the public relations committee of the Spokane County Medical Society. He is a graduate of Creighton University.

Black said that convention plans are rounding out with committee and directors meetings scheduled for Thursday, June 14.

The 1962 convention of the Idaho Home Demonstration Council was recently set for October 8 and 9 at Nampa.

Pronghorn Study Project Begins 7th Yearly Cycle

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish and Game Department
It's the seventh time around this spring as Idaho's major antelope nurseries in the upper Lemhi and Pahlemo valleys once more come under intensive surveillance in a continuing study program that began in 1956. And the end is not yet in sight. It may never be. The Fish and Game department wants to know the annual increase or decrease of the pronghorn herds, and this may change from year to year. In any case, the ratio of fawns to yearlings to adults must be studied every season.

Nevertheless, a sizeable dent has been made in the job of trapping, tagging and marking some of the state's 8,000 elusive desert runners. Such a roundup is possible, of course, because of the feasibility of aircraft, especially 'copters for such work. For even fawns of three days or more usually escape capture by men, and the younger ones require oversized butterfly nets.

Fawns are found by watching the does. Early morning and late evening are the best times. Observers working in teams and using 30-power scopes and walkie-talkie radio units cover distances of two or three square miles. Does get fawns up, nurse them and put them down again. A very young antelope tends to stay put, even under pressure, allowing sometimes extended searching before it can be found and marked.

Later, when bagged by a hunter or observed from a distance, a tagged and marked fawn gives evidence of herd movement. A cooperative hunter may turn in the known-age jaws for laboratory study, and this adds to growing data on age classes. Tagging and marking with bright streamers of various colors also helps separate yearling does from the adult doe-fawn count.

Deftness with the oversized butterfly net—and strong wind and legs—are only some of the qualifications a worker must bring to the antelope population study. In addition to fawn tagging and marking, he also must:

1. Measure gestative or mating success.
2. Observe marked individuals over long periods.
3. Collect weather data.

livetrapped in British Columbia. The Idaho release site was the Chamberlain Basin back country, shown above. One fisher can be seen leaving the packing case held by Fogg. These animals, a "cousin" to the marlin, will be on the protected list for the foreseeable future.

As in the case of capturing and tagging fawns, the annual roundup of adult antelope is to collect data on herd productivity. This is useful in setting hunting seasons and kill quotas in line with sound policy of harvesting herd increases and keeping herds at sufficient levels to withstand natural intrusions on their numbers.

The study during the past half-dozen years found two big population factors—weather and range. For example, low temperatures, especially when combined with rain or snow, contribute substantially to fawn mortality. This amounts to something like 20 to 35 per cent of the fawn crop in the first six to eight weeks after birth, or about mid-July. Exact figures on losses are hard to come by because the fawns are small and easily concealed. Losses some years may run as high as 50 per cent from late May to early September. Possible causes of early death include birth hazards, malnutrition, congenital weaknesses, disease, abandonment, weather and predation.

One of the most significant findings over the years is the way soil fertility and moisture influences the quality of vegetation, hence the reproduction and growth of pronghorns. A good year has its benign effects on the herd the following year—as does a poor one. Several considerations figure in the relation of range to antelope reproduction success. These include the amount of competition between pronghorns and domestic livestock for available forage; the preferred plants and shrubs in relation to others available; nutritive values of preferred forage; and trace minerals.

The recognition of soil fertility as a fundamental limiting factor is basic to the understanding of population dynamics. In this connection, it is noteworthy that the studied bands of pronghorns appeared to be largely associated with the very low sagebrush-grass type that characterizes much of the vegetation on the main valley floor during February. In keeping with the distribution of this kind of vegetation, the animals frequented the tops of the alluvial fans (locally called "bars"), the most obvious physiographic feature of the valley floors. Overgrazing by domestic livestock and overbreeding by pronghorns are evident throughout much of the antelope winter range.

Most of the state's 8,000 antelope today are found on the headwaters of the Big and Little Lost Rivers, the Lemhi and Pahsimeroi drainages, and along Birch and Crooked creeks, and from the latitude of Arco and Mud Lake in Butte and Jefferson counties north to Salmon. Some also are found in southwestern Idaho in Owyhee county, and in the Snake River plains and Raft River valley of southern Idaho.

The value of the many-phased antelope study program is pointed up by one of Idaho's earliest game laws. It

"perpetually prohibited" the hunting of antelope, along with moose, caribou and buffalo. Sound management practices, based on reliable information from the field, not only have "saved" all four species, but also have made annual hunts possible on two of them—moose and antelope.

Medusahead Weed May Be Controlled

Medusahead range weed costs millions of dollars in lost forage yield in Idaho each year and is an increasing problem in the state. Current research, however, is beginning to show promise in controlling the weed.

This was the word given at an annual research review meeting held at the University of Idaho. Meetings were with scientists from the University's College of Agriculture and College of Forestry, and representatives from the Bureau of Land Management. The Bureau cooperates with funds in the medusahead research program.

Paul Torrell, assistant agronomist of the Parma Branch Experiment station, reported he will continue research work dealing with burning and chemical control, the most promising avenue to date.

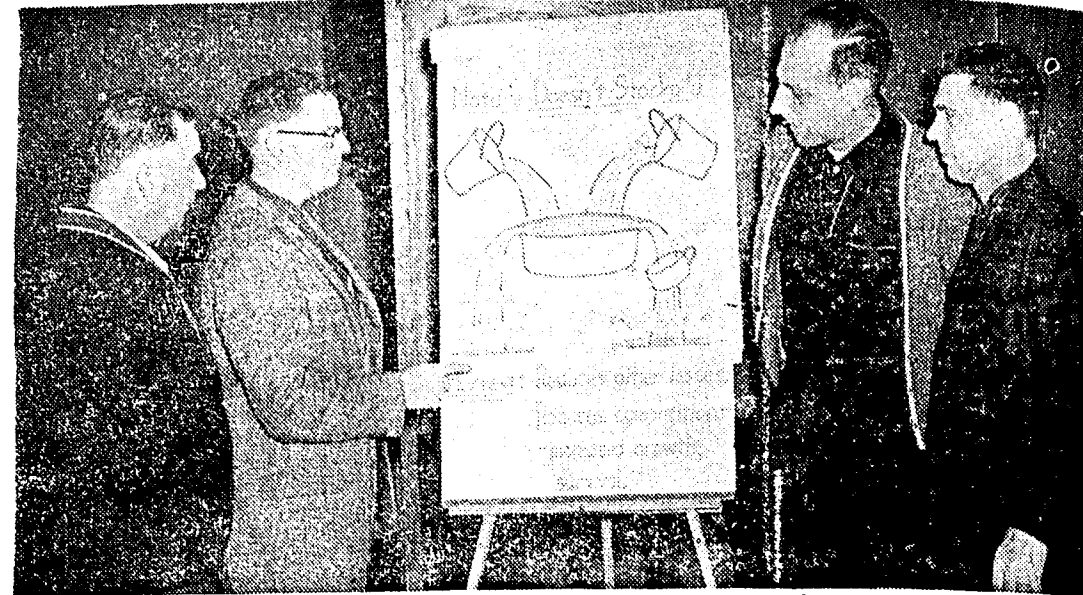

Three phases are carried out for reclaiming medusahead invaded land, Torrell explained. A controlled burn early in the summer rids the area of accumulated litter and about 85 per cent of the seeds. At the same time the remaining seeds drop to the ground where they can germinate.

The following spring the second phase of the program begins. A weed control chemical of 2 pounds of actual dalapon per acre is applied. Tests show that this chemical application destroys 98 1/2 per cent of the germinated seedlings.

The third phase of the program is a reseeding operation. This can be done during the following fall or spring. Researchers are currently studying which reseeding time is most satisfactory, although results so far show fall is best, despite freezing problems.

Desert wheatgrass is currently being planted. Any hunter who bags one is barred from all future drawings on this species. Eighty-nine moose permits are available this year.

Applicants who draw permits this year to hunt elk, deer and mountain goat may apply again next year.

For even then, beer was Idaho's traditional beverage of moderation. Beer still provides enjoyment for Idahoans, and a good living for many of them — not only the employees of the Brewing Industry itself, but also for farmers and other suppliers of the materials brewers use.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association will work constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

New Fish-Game Director Named

By Robert L. Salter The big story this week is the naming of John Richard Woodworth of Hawaii as director of the Idaho Fish and Game department. The commission made the appointment following a nation-wide competitive examination conducted by the Idaho Merit System Council.

Of course, it's also important that the Fish and Game commission created the new position of assistant director and of considerably lesser importance that I was appointed as the first man to fill it. Serving as acting director since the resignation of Ross Leonard last December, has given me a chance to get acquainted with all of the many-phased operations of the department. After Mr. Woodworth assumes his new responsibilities early in July, he will need a hand familiar with himself with his new duties and state. I know that our personnel will all get behind him and give him full support within the department, and I'm equally sure that the many cooperating agencies and organizations, and the thousands of sportsmen in the state will do the same.

The assistant director, now and in the future, can be expected to bring a new kind of continuity to departmental operations—especially during transitional periods such as now, when directors are being changed. He also can relieve the director of myriad details so that he can concentrate on the application of policies set by the commission, and on the tremendous public relations job of reporting just what is being done to provide the most hunting and fishing for everybody without endangering the resource.

Mr. Woodworth started the first long-time game management and research program ever undertaken in the Territory of Hawaii in 1949. He won international recognition for his restoration of the Hawaiian goose, a species considered a "vanishing" species and later received the 1961 award of the International Society for the Preservation of Wildfowl. The goose or Nene is considered the rarest waterfowl in the world.

Since there is no Fish and Wildlife personnel in Hawaii, Woodworth handled bureau affairs in the Central Pacific area by contract. This work included the management of a 1,200 mile Hawaiian Island national refuge. He also made initial survey for the Territory of Guam to set up its Fish and Game Department; organized the Hawaiian National Wildlife Federation; graduated from Oregon State College with a major in Fish and Game Management; won a Master of Science degree in zoology while on a teaching fellowship at the University of Hawaii.

Arlio Johnson, Commission Chairman, says Woodworth's unique conservation work is known nationally and internationally, and his programs have drawn observers from France, Venezuela, Brazil, England, New Zealand, Australia, Japan, Thailand, Canada, Germany, Austria, as well as from key organizations in the United States.

Woodworth is married to the former Barbara Van Ziepel of Portland, Oregon, and they have three children, all of whom were born in Hawaii.

ANGLERS SPECIAL BAG LIMIT Middle Fork of Salmon River Three (3) Cutthroat Trout Per Day Or In Possession

INCLUDE CUTTHROAT (3) IN REGULAR TROUT LIMIT OF 15 TROUT OR SEVEN POUNDS AND ONE FISH PER DAY OR IN POSSESSION. By Order of Idaho Fish and Game Commission

FISH AND GAME department posters such as this are posted along the Middle Fork of the Salmon river to help fishermen tell the difference between cutthroat trout and rainbows and other species of fish. The bag and possession limits on cutthroat have been reduced from 15 fish or seven pounds and one fish to three, as a means of protecting the species against heavy pressure and harvest. This bag and possession limit restriction applies only on the Middle Fork of the Salmon river.

HEART TRANSPLANT IS DOCTOR'S DREAM

HEART TRANSPLANTATION, a dream long cherished by medical science, is the subject of research by Cornell University professors. Dr. S. Frank Redo and Dr. Frank Glenn of the university's Medical College have shown that it is possible to restore to full function the heart of a guinea pig that has been dead as long as 15 minutes. They hope this work will be a guideline as to the time within which a heart must be taken from the body of a deceased person and used as a replacement for the damaged heart of a patient. A big hurdle that must be overcome before this operation is possible, the doctors report, is the tendency of the human body to reject tissue other than its own.

FISH AND GAME department's new steelhead holding pond near the Lewiston dam is shown here. It is now completed, and 80 female steelhead trout and 60 males are being held until they are "ripe" and can be spawned artificially. Partially incubated eggs later will be planted in the South Fork of the Clearwater and Lemhi Rivers as part of a continuing program to reestablish and rehabilitate steelhead spawning runs in these drainages.

New Holding Pond Aids Restoration

By Jim Humbird Idaho Fish and Game Department Steelhead trout are destined for more appearances in the South Fork of the Clearwater river, the Idaho Fish and Game department announced this week. The annual spawning runs of these fish were lost a dozen years ago when high water washed out a wood fish ladder of the Washington Water Power dam on the South Fork above Grangeville.

The salmon restoration work in other Clearwater river streams, the Selway and Lochsa, started last year and is scheduled for at least four more years. The work is part of the Columbia River Fishery Development Program and is federally financed through the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries. The funds must be used to benefit anadromous fish species rather than fresh-water trout.

According to Leon Murphy, fishery development supervisor in charge of Columbia river development work, Idaho is not required to match these federal funds. This is unlike Pitman-Robertson or Dingell-Johnson money for fish and wildlife restoration work. "The only Idaho money involved," Murphy pointed out, "is that spent for the purchase of land and rights-of-way such as the site of the new Sweetwater Spring eyeing station near Lewiston."

Experimental work last year demonstrated that live-trapped, transplanted steelhead will stay in different streams and spawn. This led to the trapping and releasing in the South Fork of the Clearwater 200 steelhead taken at the Lewiston dam were placed in the South Fork, and the others in tributary streams including Meadow creek, Newsome creek, Red River and Crooked river. Live-trapping and transplanting of steelhead spawners to restore or rehabilitate runs in depleted waters, however, merely is supplemental to the main egg-taking, eyeing and the planting program. The planting of restorable chinook salmon eggs already have been planted in artificial channels in the Lochsa and Selway river drainages. This project began in the fall of 1960 and the Sweetwater Spring eyeing station was built accordingly.

Lately a holding pond was completed on the south side of the Lewiston dam on the Clearwater river. It now contains 80 female steelhead trout and 60 males for fertilization purposes. As fish are ready to spawn they will be stripped of eggs, and these will be shipped to the eyeing station. They will be incubated until the embryos begin to show and "eye-up." On the basis of the number of eggs already stripped from 11 steelhead, each fish averages about 4500 eggs.

The anesthetic used on the steelhead before stripping eggs and sperm is called quinaldine. This, in effect, knocks them out. Experience with salmon indicates that artificial spawning produces much better results to the eyed stage than natural methods. For example, chinook eggs are extremely susceptible to damage until "eye-up." This takes place about 20 days after fertilization.

Unmolested salmon, spawning in the wild have been known to have a fingerling survival rate as high as 15 per cent at the downstream migrant stage. In controlled experiments, pairs of salmon placed under ideal conditions and allowed to spawn naturally have been able to produce about 35 per cent survival of downstream migrants, and eyed eggs planted in man-made nests sometimes have a survival rate as high as 91 per cent.

According to Murphy, more than 2 1/2 million eggs from fall and spring chinook salmon already have been introduced into artificial channels of the Selway river and its tributaries. This program will continue for at least five years. The steelhead eggs now at the incubation station should be eyed-up and ready for planting by early June.

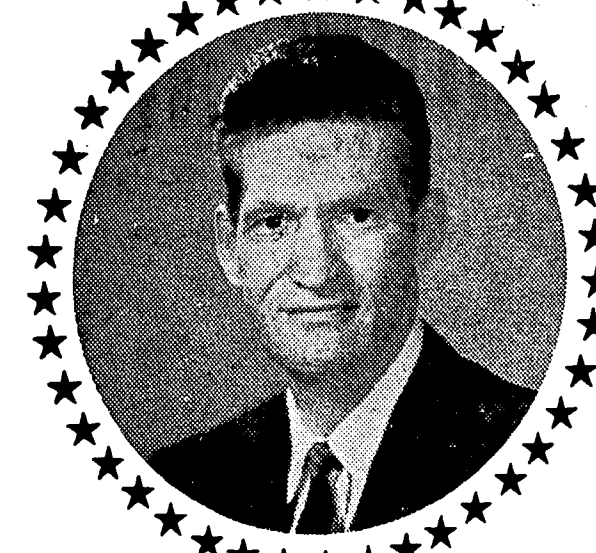

A novel feature of the new holding pond near Lewiston is the 400-foot-long pipe used to carry fish without handling from the ladder at the Washington Water Power dam to the facility on the south bank. As in the case of the salmon, provisions are made for catching downstream-migrating steelhead fingerlings to get some idea as to the initial success of the project. Plans also are to catch some of the little salmon just coming out of the gravel this spring.

ELECT JACK HAWLEY

UNITED STATES SENATOR HAWLEY WILL WORK FOR IDAHO! REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR Elect Jack Hawley United States Senator Committee, Marlon Callister, Secretary

Salmon and steelhead in individual drainages and streams are separate stocks of fish and must be managed accordingly, rather than by area or district. This fact is reflected in the many varied and complex fishing regulations for the anadromous fish—especially salmon—as compared to resident fish species. There should be no conflict in the spawning period either between the salmon and the steelhead, or between these ocean-run fishes and the "native" trout. Some three-year-old chinook salmon will begin returning to the Clearwater system in 1964. However, the average member of this species has a four-year cycle, and some do not return until their fifth year. Fully effective management in the future will require coordinated management programs with other agencies concerned with the perpetuation of the Columbia river anadromous fish runs. Research today will contribute to better Idaho salmon and steelhead fishing in the future.

Outdoorsmen Warned to Watch for Ticks

The Fish and Game department this week cautioned outdoor goers about ticks, snakes and sunburn. Ticks, the tiny insects that sometimes harbor spotted fever and other maladies, are prevalent this time of year and can be picked up on clothing when out of doors. They also can be brought into the home by pets such as dogs and cats.

The department release commented that ticks are recognized as a pest which should be inspected twice a day, especially children, after all clothing has been removed.

Although not more than one tick in 300 is infected and can transmit any of the fevers to humans, it's best to regard all ticks as dangerous. Even though more Americans die from snake bites than from ticks, ticks are more numerous and more difficult to detect. Sunburn is insidious because it may be several hours after overexposure before the damage is done. Sunburning things in areas where rattlesnakes are known to be common.

AIR CONDITIONING BIG STEP IN HOME MODERNIZATION

In a few years any home without air conditioning will be obsolete according to Rod Anderson, president of the Inland Empire Electrical League. "When you start thinking about modernizing your home," Anderson said, "think about air conditioning. With the wide variety of air conditioning equipment on the market today, you should be able to find just the equipment you need to truly air condition your home."

Anderson said that home owners have a choice of room size or central systems that can be connected with existing hot air ducts. Some of these units have a reverse cycle that heats in the winter, as well as cools in the summer. An electric air conditioning system will do more than just cool or heat. It will condition the air. It will control the amount of moisture in the air and remove much of the dirt, a real benefit for mother on cleaning day, when she has so much less to vacuum or dust.

Anderson said that today's efficient air conditioning is relatively easy to install. "Once you put it in," he said, "you'll be upgrading your home, increased its value, and taken a long step toward having a completely modern home."

The Idaho State Seed Laboratory at Boise has had its busiest season in several years in 1962. More than 6,000 samples had been tested by the end of April.

HANDLING OF SOCIAL SECURITY INFORMATION

More efficient handling of information required under the Social Security Program is the aim of a series of meetings to be held in Counties throughout the State, State Auditor Joe R. Williams announced this week.

One of the meetings will be held June 5, 1962 in Moscow, Idaho at the Courthouse beginning at 3:30 p. m. Williams said he is urging representatives of all Governmental Agencies in the County, which are concerned with Social Security to attend the meeting.

Latest information will be made available on the handling of Social Security reports. With Williams will be members of his staff from the State Auditor's office in Boise, and representatives of the Social Security Administration from Essex Construction in Baltimore, Maryland, and the Regional Office in Denver.

"All reports concerning Social Security withholding for employees should be sent to the Social Security office in Idaho must go through my office," Williams explained.

"For that reason I have arranged this meeting so we can discuss with the local persons concerned, any problems they may have in connection with the Social Security Program."

Moose Tagging Operation
Forty-one eastern Idaho moose recently were "branded" with an injection shot from a dart gun and tagged and marked for future identification. Ear tags and neck bands that can be observed from a distance were placed on the knocked-out moose to get data about their movements, migrations, longevity, annual production, herd composition and other factors needed for proper management functions and adequate protection. Increase in Construction Noted For Genesee Area

One of the largest upswings in construction is currently in progress in the Genesee area with at least six homes being built plus two commercial structures underway.

Goodman Oil Company is building a three-story office building on the opposite side of the Genesee Hardware Company. When completed the structure will consist of an office, a four-car garage and a repair shop. Contractors are Esser Construction Co., building; Electric Shop, electrical equipment; and Roach, excavation and landscaping. The entire area will be covered with black top. When the work is completed in July, the business will be operated by Howard Broemeling. Howard

Community Church To Have Day Camp

The Genesee Community Church will sponsor a Day Camp this coming week, June 11-15, in the John Myers canyon for youth in the 5th through the 8th grade (next fall). The program will begin each day with the youth congregating in front of the church at 9:00 a. m. and the day will be concluded at 3:30 p. m. with the return of the youth to the church. The program will highlight youth finding God's presence in the world around us; our responsibility to the natural resources around us, and learning to live together in a Christian community.

Mothers are advised to have their youth wear camping clothing and to bring a jacket each day. Each youngster should also bring a sack lunch for their noon meal. Drink will be provided.

Leaders for the camp will be Lois Oberg, Beverly Heimgartner, Irene Stout, and Rev. Messley.

Clarence Montag has finished pouring the footings for a new 1,224 sq. foot area he is building across the street from the H. E. Bennett residence. Judd expects to move in to his new home by fall.

Ozzie Kanikkeberg, coach and teacher at Genesee High School, is planning to begin work on a new home for his family. The house will be built on a lot across the street from the Floyd Ochs residence. The lot was purchased from Dr. Philip Speckman. The Kanikkebergs have sold their home on the hill next to Don Springer's to a Moscow couple. Springer Construction will be building Ozzie's new residence.

Also working on his own home is Chet Pelfrey, who is building the house on the Laurel Street hill. When completed this structure will be a two-level flat-roof home with a bedroom, utility room and den on the lower level and a living room and bath on the upper level. Mr. Pelfrey expects the house to be completed by fall.

Hampton House Well Along
Lloyd Esser's crew has the new home for Wayne Hampton well underway this week. This three-bedroom home is also being built on the Laurel Street hill just north of the Ray Trautman home. Built in ranch style with a cocoa colored sunstone tint, the Hampton home will feature a large, inside patio with sliding glass doors giving a commanding view of the country-side. The family expects the house to be completed by fall.

Wednesday of this week workmen from Esser Construction were just preparing to pour the footings for a new home. Being built with three bedrooms, the new home will be constructed on practically the same site as the original home built in the early 1880's, which is gradually being torn down to make room for the new structure. The new home will also be a ranch-style house with a two-car garage in the back, separated by a patio from the main house. Present plans for the exterior are of aluminum siding and the completion date for sometime this fall.

Construction is expected to begin sometime within the next few weeks on a new, four-bedroom, split-level home by the Charles Airhart family. Mr. Airhart is manager of Agway Seed Co. here in Genesee. The home will be built on the lot between the Anna Kretschmer residence and the Mrs. M. Airhart said that the exterior will be of siding and brick with a carport added. The family, now living in Moscow, hope to be able to occupy their home by the end of the year. Remodeling At Sims Home

The extensive remodeling now underway at the Carl Sims home on the Uniontown road is also worth a note. The home, being tumbled to Carl, will be given several extensive improvements.

A new house appeared in Genesee last Friday when W. J. Mervyn purchased his former residence from Carl Mervyn. The house is being occupied by a new home for he and his family at the same time as the old home. The new home for he and his family at the same time as the old home. STEELHEAD HARVEST SET AT $1 MILLION

The Idaho Fish and Game department this week set a million dollar average evaluation on the annual harvest of steelhead trout in the Clearwater river.

Acting Director Robert L. Salter said that it's more difficult to figure the dollar value of a sports fishery than a commercial one.

For example, about 60,000 fishermen-days on the Clearwater river must be included in the total because something like 70 per cent of the yearly "trout" harvest are juvenile steelhead, in the Clearwater River.

Figuring daily expenses of trout fishermen at $10.50, and multiplying by the 60,000 man-days—less 30 per cent—comes to more than $400,000. Steelhead anglers put in about 42,460 man-days a season, spending about $7.50 per day. This amounts to $318,450.

The downriver steelhead value of the run below the Lewiston dam, including both sports and commercial catches, exceeds $300,000. Thus the grand total is over a million dollars annually.

According to James C. Simpson, the chief of fisheries management, these figures are averages for good and lean years combined.

DRIVERS LEAD LIST IN TRAFFIC DEATHS

The majority of this year's fatal traffic accident victims have been drivers. Several of the drivers were listed as having committed traffic violations which led to their deaths.

A few of the driver victims had passengers who meet death in the same accident. Some of the drivers died in crashes caused by other drivers—some of whom survived and some were killed.

When last week's total of 69 traffic deaths were recorded, 44 of them, or 64 per cent, were drivers of the vehicles involved. A year ago at the same time driver victims represented about half of the total.

In the one-car fatalities, which have shown a substantial increase over those of a year ago, 79 per cent of the drivers have been the victims.

When arrests reports for traffic violations are announced, there is no possible way to "match" them with errors listed in all types of accidents.

Whether accident causes are listed as stop sign violations, driving on the wrong side of the road, drunken driving or any other indicated violation, only the surviving drivers can be cited.

Reports from all law enforcement agencies show that citations and convictions are many times greater than the number of drivers involved in accidents of all kinds. A careful analysis of this fact indicates that extensive preventive action is being taken in all parts of the states by agencies as many errand drivers as possible before they kill themselves and others.

When arrests reports for traffic violations are announced, there is no possible way to "match" them with errors listed in all types of accidents.

Whether accident causes are listed as stop sign violations, driving on the wrong side of the road, drunken driving or any other indicated violation, only the surviving drivers can be cited.

Reports from all law enforcement agencies show that citations and convictions are many times greater than the number of drivers involved in accidents of all kinds. A careful analysis of this fact indicates that extensive preventive action is being taken in all parts of the states by agencies as many errand drivers as possible before they kill themselves and others.

SOCIAL SECURITY OFFICE AT LEWISTON CONNECTED BY WIRE TO BALTIMORE, MD

The social security district office in Lewiston, Idaho this week received the first message to go out nationwide over the newly completed telecommunications network linking the 599 social security district offices.

The message was initiated by Abraham Rubioff, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, in the Washington, D. C. district office, to mark the opening of the relay center in Portland, Maine, last link the national electronic data communications system.

"I congratulate the Social Security Administration on the installation of its nationwide telecommunications network which paves the way for even better service to the public."

"By 1968, more than 30 million people will be receiving social security benefits. With this network and the electronic data processing equipment which will be tied in with it, I am confident that you will achieve new high levels of efficiency in serving well the many millions of people who look to the program for protection."

An operator at a teletype machine in the Washington social security office introduced the Secretary's message into the system for transmission via teletype facility to the Baltimore Communications Control Center. At Baltimore, it was fanned out to district offices all over the country.

The telecommunications network is now being used by district offices to request earnings data from the recordkeeping center and for wiring back some data district offices need for early development of claims. By next year, it is expected that the system will be expanded to transmit by wire messages that will effect changes in the benefit rolls.

Ultimately, the linking of all social security offices with the centralized electronic data processing equipment in Baltimore will result in a reduction of the paperwork involved in the claims and benefit operations, streamline routine clerical operations, speed the payment of benefits and provide better service to the public.

FISHING SEASON FORECASTS GIVEN STATEWIDE BY ARBAS

Idaho's 1962 fishing season is here again. The Gen state, of course, is a year-round fisherman's paradise.

The phrase "fishing season" denotes a special time of year—the period from June 1 to October 31 statewide, and May 1 to November 30 for lakes only in the five northern Panhandle counties.

It is a timeless time, when Idaho's premium fishes such as rainbows, cutthroats, browns, and brooks can be taken with a minimum of restrictions. As the ancient Assyrians knew "The Gods do not subtract from the allotted span of men's lives the hours spent in fishing."

Even so, the very hour for the kick off of the new statewide fishing season varies. It's 12:01 a. m. for streams in the five northern counties, and 4:00 a. m. for all waters of the state other than those covered by local exceptions.

That minute after midnight curtain raiser in the Panhandle results from the fact that night fishing is permitted in all water of Area 1. This, of course, means the 4 a. m. starting time does not apply, even on the first day of the season.

Excepting north Idaho again, and all waters open to year-round fishing, the statewide daily "curfew" for angling is 10 p. m.

High mountain lakes still are ice-bound. Because of the heavy snow-pack and recent downpours of rain at lower elevations, most access roads are inaccessible and many of the mountain passes will not be opened until after July 4.

On the other hand, most accessible lakes, streams and reservoirs already have been stocked and are ready for the June 4 season opening. Fish production in the state's 14 hatcheries is as good or better than last year, when it reached 18,205,158 fish weighing 770,547 pounds.

In general, streams around the state will be high and roily because of recent rains and spring runoff. Smaller tributaries sometimes are better, with accessible lakes and reservoirs usually recommended. Local checks on road conditions should be

YOUR Social Security QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question—My son is only 14, but wants a social security card. Can he get one even though he is under 16 years of age?

Answer—Yes. People can get social security cards at any age. However, you don't have to get a card until you start work.

Question—A snuck that combines potatoes and milk in a wafer is the latest thing in nibblers. The county home agent, Mrs. Ruth J. Shane, learned this week it has been developed by the department of agriculture. It is made of potatoes and non-fat milk according to a formula devised by dairy technologists.

The wafers are made by whipping air into a mixture of the main ingredients, then adding salt and other foodstuffs. The doughlike mixture is forced through a cookie press onto a screen in the form of a ribbon. This is cut into wafer bits, dried and then roasted to a light brown.

Weippe Outscores Town Team 6-5

A run scored in the bottom half of the ninth inning broke a 5-5 tie and gave Weippe a 6-5 victory over Genesee in a town team baseball game Sunday afternoon on the Weippe diamond. This was the first game of the season for the home team.

Genesee led Weippe throughout most of the game until a Weippe rally in the seventh inning tied the score.

Genesee scored one run in the first inning when Bob Jacobs sacrificed to get on base with a walk. Jim Bennett scored in the third inning on a wild pitch, after rapping out a single to get on first.

Weippe came back in the bottom of the third with four hits worth two runs to tie the game. Genesee moved back into the lead in the fourth when Don Bielenberg, Ron Bielenberg, and Boyd Hillman scored on a hit by Hal Van Tyne and a sacrifice by Jim Bennett.

After that scoring spree by the home team, Weippe pitcher Jared Jettled down and gave up only one hit to blank Genesee for five innings. Jared was the winning pitcher; the loss was charged to Wayne Winters.

A Leviston team, sponsored by the Boys Club will be at Genesee Sunday, June 17, at 2:00 p. m.

Mrs. Susie A. Lough, 82, former Genesee resident, passed away Saturday in Clarkston, Wash., following a long illness.

Mrs. Lough was the widow of Sam Lough, a warehouse manager for many years at Genesee, Culedas and Myrtle. He died Aug. 16, 1956.

Mrs. Lough was born March 15, 1880, at Mackenzie Hat, Alta, Canada, and lived there until moving to Lewiston in 1892 to live three years. She lived at Culedas from 1895 to 1898 and then at Moscow from 1898 to 1911. She was married at Moscow in 1899 to Doc Quinsell. He died in 1910.

She moved to Gifford in 1911 and was married to John F. 1912, to Mr. Lough. He was employed there in a stove and other work. Then he became a grain warehouse manager to 1916. From 1916 to 1938 he was at Myrtle, working there from 1914 manager of grain warehouses at Culedas for Prairie Flour Mill Co. and Lewiston Grain Growers, Inc. From 1939 to 1953, he operated the Prairie Flour Mill warehouse at Genesee.

The couple moved to Clarkston and Mrs. Lough continued to live there after his death.

She was a member of the Rebekah Lodge at Culedas.

Surviving are three grandsons, 10 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. at Brower-Wann chapel. The Rev. Russell Myers, pastor of the First Christian church, officiated.

Palbearers were Gordon Bozarth, Harry Clark, Irving Faling, Robert Palmer, Bruce Faling, and Robert Bullen. Burial National Hill cemetery.

The Genesee Triple Link Rebekah Lodge conducted the graveside service.

Second Half Taxes Due

The second half of the 1961 Latah Property Tax is due on or before June 20, 1962, the County Treasurer reminded Genesee residents this week.

Only approximately one-fifth of the taxes due before June 20 have been paid as of this date, the treasurer reported.

Eight percent interest is charged after June 20.

SCIENCE TOPICS

ARMY PROBES AGE-OLD ICE THE SNOWS OF YESTERDAY are being examined at Camp Century the U. S. Army research station carved out of the ice 140 miles east of Thule Air Force Base in Greenland. Using an electrically heated ring, scientists are boring through the 5,000-year-old ice floor under the camp. Samples of ice that has been formed from snowfalls throughout the centuries will, it is hoped, give new evidence of what the world was like at the start of the ice ages.

OHRYSANTHEMUMS can be fooled into flowering earlier, reports the Department of Agriculture. They normally do not bloom until the days are nights and the nights long. But if plants are subjected to several successive daily dark periods of about 16 hours, the tests showed, the mums can be made to flower before their time.

GROWTH OF IDAHO'S POTATO INDUSTRY IS TRACED Growth of the potato industry in the country, with emphasis on developments that Idaho the leading producer, is sketched in the June issue of "Economic Facts of Idaho Agriculture" published this week by the University of Idaho Agricultural Extension Service. The data was compiled by Wayne Robinson, marketing information specialist.

Acres and yield changes since 1924, the report shows, have more than doubled production in the West, and brought about a sharp increase in the relative importance of Idaho. In the early 1920's, Idaho production was less than a fifth of the whole region. It has now expanded to 50 million hundredweight from seven million and the Idaho share is 51 percent of the region.

A summary of the national picture says: "Comparison of trends in late summer and fall states clearly illustrates the increasing specialization and concentration of production. The States in which potato production has become a highly specialized enterprise are called 'specialist' states. These are represented by Idaho, Colorado, Maine, North Dakota, Oregon, and Washington. Non-specialist states are represented by Michigan, New York, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin."

The publication said the index of prices received by Idaho farmers for all farm commodities rose one percent during the month ended April 15, but was two percent below a year ago. Lower prices for hogs, chickens, eggs, butterfat, oats, and red clover seed were more than offset by higher prices for cattle, lambs, wool, wheat, potatoes and alfalfa seed.

SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS AVAILABLE AT AGE 62 Men! If you are 62 or older, you may be entitled to social security benefits now. This reminder comes from Mr. Myers, Manager of the Lewiston, Idaho district office who explained that, as a result of the 1961 changes in the social security law, it is now possible for men as well as women to draw reduced benefits at age 62. The effective date of this change was August 1961.

When asked if all men should file for benefits at 62, Mr. Myers pointed out that most men who are over 62 and still working for high earnings would be better off to wait until they are 65 to file for full benefits. He explained that high earnings would prevent payment of reduced benefits. The primary purpose of this new provision, he stated, was to enable workers who retire between 62 and 65 or workers in this age group whose earnings are low for any number of reasons to start receiving benefits.

FISH & GAME NEWS 6,620 Acres Revegetated During the past 12 years, 6,620 acres of big game rangeland have been planted in new browse vegetation in a statewide program that began in 1950 and peaked up about three years ago. The bulk of the plantation has been bitterbrush since 1959. Revegetation is needed on the rangeland that has lost most of its desirable browse plants because of fire, insects or over-use.

Often times the factor that created the necessity for range revegetation work—an overabundance of game or deer population—is the very thing that prevents the success of revegetation work. Browse re-establishment work is slow and costly. A cheaper and more desirable method is to adjust range use to range capacity. Occasionally, reduced use for several years will result in range recovery.

Duplicate Fishing Licenses Sportsmen who lose or deface their licenses will have easier times replacing them if they write down the serial numbers in a safe place for future reference. The procedure is as follows: 1. File proper application and $1 fee with the vendor who sold the original license whenever possible. He should have a duplicate license stubs and thus verify original sale. 2. When application cannot be filed with the vendor who sold the original license, the new vendor naturally will not have the triplicate license stubs. It is possible to purchase a new license at the regular fee. But this becomes expensive for non-residents who pay $75 for fishing-hunting license combinations.

No provision was written into the law for the issuance of duplicate licenses until the 30th session of the state legislature made the change about 15 years ago. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question— I have a cleaning lady that comes in three days a week. She receives cash wages plus one meal on the days she works. Should I show only the cash wages paid on my quarterly reports, or should I include the value of the meals also?

Answer— Only cash wages are reported for domestic and agricultural workers. The value of any payment in kind such as board and room is not reported as wages for this type of work.

Christian Science Church Service
How spiritual understanding of God brings freedom from weariness and fatigue will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday. Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "God the Preserver of Man" will include this verse from Isaiah (40): "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and will not be weary; they shall walk, and will not faint."

One of the correlative passages to be read from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 217): "The scientific and permanent remedy for fatigue is to learn the power of Mind over body or any illusion of physical weariness, and so destroy this illusion, for matter cannot be weary and heavy-laden."

The Golden Text is from Psalm 91: "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."

PEAK LITTERBUG SEASON
With the state general trout seasons now underway, more people are using the great outdoors. And there is more litterbugging, more careless or willful untidiness on the highways waterways and campsites. This not only is expensive and unsightly, it is against the law.

Following are suggestions to reduce litterbugging:
Leave clean camps and dead fires. If no sanitary facilities are provided, bury camp refuse or carry it to a place where it can be disposed later. Untended fires may destroy resources that can't be replaced in decades.

State law prohibits littering highways, roads and public landscapes.

Twenty-two Latah County residents assisted in locating employment during the week ending June 15, 1962 through the Moscow Office of the Employment Security Agency, according to the information released by Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager. Among the female workers placed were office workers, waitresses and domestic workers. Men found work as salesmen, a surveyor, laborers and farm workers during the week. Hartstein indicated that during the previous week twelve workers were placed in jobs through his office. At the end of the week there were still 24 jobs open. These included job opportunities for welders, bookkeepers, clerical workers, and registered nurses for women, and jobs for salesmen, a collection man and a janitor for men.

The number of persons currently filing claims for unemployment insurance throughout the county was reduced from 266 to 232 during the week. Hartstein indicated that most of these workers either found new jobs or were recalled to their former employment. There were ten persons who filed new claims for unemployment insurance during the week, in that of these persons recently became unemployed. Hartstein stated that the decline in the number of persons drawing unemployment insurance was noted in all parts of the county. He attributed the decline to the fact that additional workers had been employed in the lumber industry and some had returned to construction work in the area.

Hartstein stated that in addition to the workers who found new jobs, or returned to former employment, a total of 11 workers exhausted all unemployment benefits under that program. Although some of them are still unemployed, he has no further benefit under the program. Included in the 232 still receiving benefits are 24 workers claiming benefits under the state extended program, and 8 will receive payments under the federally financed program. Both extended programs will expire at the end of this month, Hartstein explained. However, new claims have been filed under the federal program since early April. The law establishing this program provided that those workers drawing extended benefits under that program could continue to do so until the end of June, but that no new claims could be established after April 1, 1962.

The bridegroom wore a dusty rose crepe and lace dress with a lace jacket, white accessories and a rose orchid corsage.

A reception was held at Moscow Grange Hall with Mrs. Elsie Morgan of Albany, Ore., aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Joy Woodruff, of Winchester, aunt of the bride, cutting and serving the cake. Twenty-two Latah County residents assisted in locating employment during the week ending June 15, 1962 through the Moscow Office of the Employment Security Agency, according to the information released by Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager. Among the female workers placed were office workers, waitresses and domestic workers. Men found work as salesmen, a surveyor, laborers and farm workers during the week. Hartstein indicated that during the previous week twelve workers were placed in jobs through his office. At the end of the week there were still 24 jobs open. These included job opportunities for welders, bookkeepers, clerical workers, and registered nurses for women, and jobs for salesmen, a collection man and a janitor for men.

The number of persons currently filing claims for unemployment insurance throughout the county was reduced from 266 to 232 during the week. Hartstein indicated that most of these workers either found new jobs or were recalled to their former employment. There were ten persons who filed new claims for unemployment insurance during the week, in that of these persons recently became unemployed. Hartstein stated that the decline in the number of persons drawing unemployment insurance was noted in all parts of the county. He attributed the decline to the fact that additional workers had been employed in the lumber industry and some had returned to construction work in the area.

Hartstein stated that in addition to the workers who found new jobs, or returned to former employment, a total of 11 workers exhausted all unemployment benefits under that program. Although some of them are still unemployed, he has no further benefit under the program. Included in the 232 still receiving benefits are 24 workers claiming benefits under the state extended program, and 8 will receive payments under the federally financed program. Both extended programs will expire at the end of this month, Hartstein explained. However, new claims have been filed under the federal program since early April. The law establishing this program provided that those workers drawing extended benefits under that program could continue to do so until the end of June, but that no new claims could be established after April 1, 1962.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Woodruff wore a dress of beige lace over green taffeta, beige corsage, and a green orchid corsage.

The bridegroom wore a dusty rose crepe and lace dress with a lace jacket, white accessories and a rose orchid corsage.

A reception was held at Moscow Grange Hall with Mrs. Elsie Morgan of Albany, Ore., aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Joy Woodruff, of Winchester, aunt of the bride, cutting and serving the cake. Mrs. Jim Gattung of Kettle Falls, Wash., sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Wilson Esser, aunt of the bride, poured coffee; Mrs. Lloyd Esser, Mrs. Gene Grieser, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Pilla Morgan, of Helena, sister of the bridegroom, were the hostesses.

Julien registered the guests; Mrs. Dell Grieser and Mrs. Vernon Grieser, of Lewiston, aunts of the bride, were in charge of the gift table.

The bride graduated from Genesee High School and attended the University of Idaho, majoring in elementary education. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Idaho with a masters in history, and is working for his Ph. D. He was affiliated with Theta Chi.

For her wedding trip, the new Mrs. Gaboury wore a rose beige wool suit with beige accessories and the rose corsage from her bouquet. They will make their home in Caldwell this summer where he will teach at College of Idaho.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. George Morgan, Albany, Oregon; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ball Park Lights Work Continues

Work continues on the ball park lighting project this week after a delay of several weeks which was forced because of wet weather conditions. Workers are clearing out mud and dirt from the previously excavated holes prior to hiring the equipment necessary to place the poles in an upright position. The ground on the ball park is just now drying out enough to allow this heavy equipment to operate safely on the field.

Floyd Ochs, a member of the ball park lighting committee reminded everyone who might like to volunteer their labor in preparing the holes and attaching the lights to the poles, (before they are raised, of course), that work is being done almost every evening.

Warning to Children, Parents
Parents and children are reminded that the holes around the ball park are now clear and deep. This could be very dangerous if children are allowed to play around these open holes in the ground. Parents are urged to warn their children of the danger and instruct them not to play near the poles.

Estil Carbuhn Named Moscow Grange's "Grossman of Year"

Estil Carbuhn was named Moscow Grange's contestant for Latah County Grossman of the Year at the Friday evening meeting. The county winner will compete for state honors. Officers of Juvenile Grange conducted opening and closing ceremonies of the meeting. Karen Nearing presided as juvenile master.

The next Grange meeting, July 6, will feature a 7 p. m. covered-dish dinner with a business meeting at 8:30 p. m.

Farmers Union Meeting Sunday

The Farmers Union Producers Co. will be held Saturday evening, June 23, at 8:00 p. m. in the office building of the Genesee Union Warehouse Co. It was announced that the meeting will elect two directors for three-year terms. Any other business that may properly come before the meeting will also be considered.

Sign Signals Don't "Guarantee" Safe Driving

Idaho's Department of Law Enforcement is a strong advocate of proper signs, signals and markings on all public highways and roads.

It should be noted, however, that these signs, just like the design and construction of the highway, are no warranty for accident-free driving.

A sign designating the maximum speed of 60 miles an hour, for instance, does not insulate any driver against accidents. He may have to reduce his speed to 25 or 30 miles an hour because of conditions. There's other factors to be taken into consideration at all times.

By the same token, a through street or highway "protected" by stop or yield signs on intersecting roads, can be unsafe when they are not obeyed by the "other" motorist.

When that other motorist goes, he just doesn't see them because of indifference, there is little satisfaction in contending that he was legally wrong in the event of a smashup. Calling attention to the blunders of the other driver will or bring back lives, pay hospital bills or replace a shattered at all times.

IDAHO'S NEW PEAK OUT-TOPS ALL OF NATION'S PEAKS IN TRAVEL RECORDS

Idaho has a new range of high peaks—peaks that are now out-topping all in the nation's peaks. For every day's mail adds a new peak, a new high peak in the number of tourists seeking information about Idaho, and so every peak reached by Idaho's forward surge in tourist preference, out-tops the neighboring peaks in the national average for tourist interest as shown by mail response.

The secret of all this in plain words is that Idaho is getting far more than its share of this year's increase in tourist inquiries. Idaho's increased volume of inquiries from the traveled-in public is way up in times higher than the national average.

This is pointed out by Louise Shaduck, Secretary of Idaho's Department of Commerce and Development, who also indicates that the trend is all the more amazing because Idaho has not increased its scheduling of advertising. The modest increase in cost, she comments is entirely due to a nominal advance due to the inflation spiral. The cost however, has been insignificant; the response outstanding.

Don't Delay To Apply For SS Disability Benefits

"I'm sorry, you're too late." These are unhappy words to hear if they mean you won't be able to see the first inning of a ball game, or maybe that you have missed out on a trip that you have been looking forward to.

But there are some people in this area who are going to find that they are "just too late" to get social security disability insurance benefits if they don't act soon. James Myers, District Manager of the Lewiston Social Security Administration, announced this week.

"The law established June 30, 1962, as the cut-off date for accepting social security disability claims from people who have been disabled for a long time," Myers said. This means that those workers who have been disabled for a number of years and have not applied for social security disability insurance benefits will lose monthly benefit payments for themselves and their dependents and may even lose their rights to any disability insurance benefit payments.

Don't wait until the last minute. If you are disabled and have worked at least 5 years under social security get in touch with the Lewiston Social Security Office at 113 Main Street and file a claim to protect your rights under the disability insurance program. If you know of anybody who is disabled—a friend, relative, or neighbor—urge him to get in touch with the social security office.

Don't wait because you think that you might not meet the requirements of medical reports or other evidence. The important thing is to have a signed application by the deadline—June 30, 1962.

Attends Summer School

Jack Haxton, Genesee, is attending the annual Junior Engineers and Scientists Summer Institute at Washington State University.

The Institute, familiarly known as the JESSI program, runs for two weeks in Washington, Idaho and Montana and several provinces of Canada are participating. The program provides an introduction to college level for the students and gives them a look at various scientific fields.

Sixty-one students from 45 cities in the Pacific Northwest and Canada are attending sessions of the JESSI program at Washington State University.

Isaksen Home Sold

Peter Isaksen, a long-time Genesee resident, who now makes his home in Coquille, Oregon, wrote this week to report that he has sold his home in Genesee to Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mauldin. The Mauldins have been living in the Isaksen property for some time.

In announcing the sale, Mr. Isaksen added that he probably won't live in Genesee any more. He reported that he had lived in and around Genesee for 78 years.

L. Scharnhorst Named Manager of Farmers Producers

Laverne Scharnhorst was named manager of the Farmers Union Producers Company at the annual meeting, June 23. The new manager has been with Farmers Union for a number of years, previously serving as driver of the Standard Oil Truck. The appointment was effective as of June 15.

In other business at the meeting, John Baldus and Marion Holben were elected as directors for terms of three years. They will succeed Donald Linehan and Charles Grieser, Jr.

Wayne Hampton was elected chairman of the board of directors, replacing Don Linehan. Andrew Zenner was named as vice-chairman, succeeding John Baldus. Charles Grieser, Jr. was named Secretary-Treasurer.

The auditors report was read by Don Linehan.

NEW RULING AT U. OF I. AFFECTS SORORITY RUSHES

Under a new rule, all women students planning to go through sorority rush at the University of Idaho this fall must have their permits to register with the institution before they will be permitted to sign up for rush, Dean of Women Marjorie Neely said this week.

The permits are obtained through applications to the director of admissions at the university, Dean Neely explained. Because of the anticipated increase in enrollment which is expected to tax all facilities, it is necessary to know as soon as possible how many women definitely plan to go through rush. Final date for registering for rush is August 15. Rush begins September 10.

Dean Neely also reminded new women students that they must have maintained at least a 2.3 grade average in high school to be eligible for rush.

There are nine sororities at the university, all nationalals.

New Clearwater Bridge Nears Completion

With an estimated 98 percent of the construction completed the new $627,400 bridge spanning the Clearwater River on highway 95 above Spaulding will undoubtedly be ready for completion of July 15. Being built by the W. R. Cahoon Construction Co., current operations by ten men include welding handrails and cleaning up openings.

Other highway construction work in this area includes the construction of truck bays on Lewiston Hill. Ten men are now being employed by the contractor, J. F. Koenig, and the work is thirty-two percent complete. Present operations include excavation for culverts, clearing, removing cuts and making fills. Contract amount on this work is $10,201.55.

Town Team Raps Lapwai 14-7

Genesee pushed home six runs in the third inning and then capitalized on an easy 14-7 victory over Lapwai in Lewis Clark baseball league. In marking up their first win, Genesee had the privilege of handing the Lapwai team their first loss of the season.

Limiting Lapwai team to only four scattered hits for seven innings before an eighth and ninth inning rally netted six runs for the losers.

JET WAKE CAN DOWN SMALLER AIRPLANES

TURBULENCE in the air caused by huge jet aircraft can be fatal to smaller planes, warns the Federal Aviation Agency. The big planes create the greatest amount of twisting air when, paradoxically, they are moving the slowest—particularly near takeoff or landing. Light planes caught in this turbulence can be thrown completely out of control, the FAA reports. Its recommendation: Keep your distance. . . . LAYERS OF COMPACTED DIRT just below tilled depth restrict plant growth by interfering with root penetration, not, as previously thought, by cutting air or moisture supply, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Soil is compacted by passage of machinery across cultivated fields or by repeated tillage at the same depth. In compacted untiled plots where soil strength measurements were 400 pounds per square inch or higher, the study showed, root growth was severely restricted. SHAKESPEARE was really an Arab, claims Dr. Safa Al-Khulisi, an Arab literary scholar. He supports the long held (in Iraq) theory that an Arab sailor named 'Sheikh Zubair' went to England where he became 'Shakespeare.' Dr. Khulisi points to similarities between the Bard's plays and "The Thousand and One Nights, the Arabian Nights Entertainment," whose authorship has long been in dispute.

COOPERATIVE RANGE EXCLOSURE in the Gedney Creek drainage near Selway Falls is examining the annual elk workshop in part of a regional elk management program. There are 45 game management officials met recently. Keeping

are: Pete M. Muchmore, Wyoming; Levi Mohler, Idaho; Bob Howe, Yellowstone national park; (man behind Howe unidentified); John A. Ulrich (immediately to right of sign) Idaho; Elmer Norberg, Idaho; and Vernon E. Sylvester, Grangeville.

Air Conditioning Adds Comfort, Value to Your Home

If you are one of more than a million persons who will buy some kind of air conditioning for the home this year, you may be wrestling with the question: room air conditioner or central system?

The answer depends largely on the kind of home you have, the type of heating system, your family living habits, and your personal inclination as to how to do the job and how much to spend, according to the Inland Empire Electrical League.

Room air conditioners are usually the best answer for: families who want to spend a minimum for their first taste of air conditioning; working families whose primary need is bedroom cooling; people in large, older homes which lack central duct systems.

Naturally, six million families in apartments must buy room air conditioners unless they move to a modern centrally air conditioned building now becoming common in metropolitan areas.

If room air conditioners are your choice, a handsome selection of efficient, quiet models is available this year, the IEEL advises. Small capacity models which operate on existing electric circuits are ideal for bedrooms and small living rooms. Many families cool large living-dining room areas with more powerful units and even push conditioned air into adjoining rooms.

If a physician prescribes air conditioning for allergy relief, a window installed unit can be deducted as a medical expense. Many are designed for easy installation by "do-it-yourself" handymen to reduce cost further. Homeowners with a good forced air heating system or those who must remodel their heating plant anyway find the balance tipped toward the central system. The cost is usually far less than that of several room air conditioners and it can be financed for a three or five-year period.

The dollars spent will raise the resale value of the house. The IEEL, in fact, has advised its local officials that houses without air conditioning will probably be obsolete in a few years.

A central system gives even temperatures from room to room, a low sound level, continuous control of humidity to eliminate mildew and musty odors, and a maximum of cooling per dollar of operating cost.

Even in houses without heating ducts, a separate cooling system may be considered. Ducts can often be installed in the attic or crawlspace more cheaply than several room air conditioners can be purchased.

"The new home buyer who is interested in air conditioning should insist on installation during construction because adding it later will probably increase its cost," according to the League spokesman. "And the elimination of screens and use of fixed sash for some of the windows can partially offset the small amount air conditioning adds to the mortgage."

Room air conditioners will continue to sell in large numbers, IEEL forecasts, but the installation of central systems is growing rapidly, having increased from 146,000 in 1958 to 220,000 in 1960.

"Both provide relief from heat and most allergies, a cleaner atmosphere and even improved family dispositions in hot weather," concludes the Electrical League statement. "But each family must decide which approach suits its bankbook, needs and living habits."

9 STATES REPRESENTED AT REGIONAL ELK MEET

Although this state's annual elk crop is the biggest in the nation, averaging more than 16,000 for the past several years, many Idaho units are harvested lightly compared to other places.

This was the consensus at a recent elk workshop in the Selway, where 45 game management officials representing nine states considered the impact of annual harvests of the status of elk herds.

Levi Mohler, Idaho chief of game management, all elk-producing states except Arizona were represented.

He added that hunting pressure is relatively light when many more bulls than cows and calves are bagged. Thus Idaho's traditional "either-sex" elk hunting provides a handy gauge to measure herd composition.

The discussion followed a prepared agenda, but no papers were presented. Discussion leaders were Errol Neeson (Idaho) and Bob Casebeer, (Forest Service, population dynamics and harvest problems; Faye Cooney (Montana) and Bob Howe (Yellowstone Park Staff), tools of management; Vernon Rich (Idaho) and Ken Hungerford (Idaho), nutrition and range; Jack Schmutz (Forest Service) and Roger McCormack (BLM), range ecology and land management problems.

Olaus Murie made pertinent comments concerning future problems and the inter-relationships and cooperation apparent among wild animals.

On the second day a field trip took the group to the Gedney Creek road above Selway Falls, where range research is in progress through the combined efforts of the Idaho Fish and Game Department, Forest Ser-

4-H'ERS UNDERTAKE WIDE RANGE OF AG PROJECTS

The national 4-H Agricultural program with nearly a million 4-H Club members enrolled seeks to encourage boys and girls to take advantage of training offered by extension personnel, local resource people and volunteer 4-H Club leaders.

About a dozen categories relating to farming and the multi-billion dollar agricultural industry are involved in project work supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Sponsoring of the program, including incentive awards, comes from International Harvester, a long-time backer of the 4-H movement.

Among the areas covered by the boys and girls participating are forestry, livestock, poultry, crops, entomology, garden, conservation, electric and care of farm machinery. Again this year $400 International Harvester scholarships will be awarded.

ed to the six highest 4-H'ers from all 50 states. One member in the state will be chosen to attend the 1962 National 4-H Club Congress held in Chicago. Recognition at the county level includes the presentation of a specially designed 4-H agricultural medal to as many as four outstanding club members.

For 4-H'ers who go on to college, there are plenty of jobs awaiting them in agricultural-related industries. According to the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities there were about 7,000 agricultural students graduated last year to fill some 16,000 jobs available.

HOOK YOUR OWN FISH Idaho sportsmen are reminded that the Idaho Fish and Game regulations state:

"All fish that are hooked, landed and reduced to possession shall be included in the bag and possession limit of the person who hooked the fish."

This means that the angler who hooks a salmon or steelhead, then hands the pole to his wife or buddy, still is charged with taking a fish in the event the fish is landed.

If the fish is a steelhead, the person who hooks the fish must punch his steelhead punch card as soon as the fish is landed, regardless of who actually brings it in.

How the Christ, Truth, brings freedom from sickness and sin will be brought out at Christian Science church services this Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the lesson-sermon entitled "Christian Science" will contain this verse from Jeremiah (7): "Heal me O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for thou art my praise."

A correlative citation to be read from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy state (p. 142): "Truth is God's remedy for error of every kind, and Truth destroys only what is untrue. Hence the fact that, today, as yesterday, Christ casts out evils and heals the sick."

Forest Service Will Delay Recommendations On Primitive Areas

The U. S. Forest Service will delay its recommendations to the Secretary of Agriculture on reclassification of the Selway-Bitterroot and Anaconda-Pintlar primitive areas of the Forest Service's Northern Region, Boyd L. Rasmussen, regional forester, has announced.

The 1.8 million-acre Selway-Bitterroot primitive area is in central Idaho south of the Lewis and Clark highway and western Montana. The 145,000-acre Anaconda-Pintlar area is on the continental divide in southwest Montana, southwest of Anaconda.

Rasmussen said that the decision to delay the Forest Service recommendations to the Secretary of Agriculture was made in compliance with a request from Congressman Wayne M. Aspinall. Representative Aspinall is chairman of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

Aspinall asked that the Forest Service withhold action on changing the status of existing wild, wilderness and primitive areas pending congressional action on wilderness legislation now before congress or until the end of the current session of congress.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture officials have concurred with Chairman Aspinall's request.

However, local Forest Service officials are authorized to continue necessary studies essential to public hearings at later dates on reclassification proposals for these primitive areas.

In addition to the Selway-Bitterroot primitive area in Idaho and Montana and the Anaconda-Pintlar primitive area in Montana, the Forest Service's Northern Region contains five other similar areas: the Absaroka, Beartooth and Spanish Peaks areas in southern Montana, the Cabinet Mountains primitive area in northwestern Montana, the Mission Mountains primitive area to the east of Flathead lake, the Gates of the Mountains wild area on the Missouri river north of Helena and the Bob Marshall wilderness area east of Flathead lake.

The Gates of the Mountains wild area and the Bob Marshall wilderness area have already been formally classified by the Department of Agriculture.

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862 . . . the same year that

IN IDAHO gold was discovered in the fabulously rich Boise Basin. In the great boom that followed, this area produced more gold than all of Alaska. Breweries, traditionally, became one of the first industries to be built in early mining cities of the West. The pioneer miners enjoyed beer just as Idahoans today continue to find pleasure in beer.

For that, as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation. But beer means more than enjoyment to our state. The Brewing Industry contributes more than 1 1/2 million tax dollars to Idaho each year — money that helps support our hospitals, schools and highways.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association will work constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

Don't 'Vacation' From Safe Driving

Vacation drivers might be divided into two groups like TV characters—the good guys and the bad guys. Unfortunately, there seems to be no triumph for the good guys during the last three minutes of the thrilling episode.

Idahoans have been leading the rest of the nation as outdoors lovers for several generations. As leisure time increases, more and more people are taking to the highways and back roads for week end fishing trips or picnics to avail themselves of the Gem State's extensive primitive areas.

Here there are no warning or directional signs and no center stripes. There are severe curves and steep grades and more often than not there are just two tracks frequently obstructed by rocks, trees and wash-outs. Travel is, and should be extremely slow on these mountain roads. An average speed of 15 to 20 miles an hour is not uncommon.

For the experienced driver, these roads are normally safer than a paved highway. There was a time when Idahoans bragged they could "drive such roads blindfolded." With the aid of a few daredevil Sunday drivers mountain roads are contributing to an alarmingly high increase in one-car, off-the-road crashes. They are part of Idaho's country road system where the death rate is increasing while the actual highway death rate is going down.

The forthright of these slow roads should not contribute to the week end fisherman's eagerness to get to a mountain lake or stream and cause him to forget speed limits and highway curves. The return home on these same well-marked highways should not allow a driver to become so confident to be off the bad mountain roads that he forgets all normal caution.

All too frequently, the week end vacationer crosses the center line to take a corner too fast and forgets other travelers as he pilots an overloaded car or tows a boat or camper. The few hours relaxation in the back country should never be practicing enroute to or from the favorite fishing spot.

The only proven safety equipment for any vehicle is the driver. Make sure it is not defective.

TEACHING WOMEN TO FISH CHALLENGES MEN ANGLERS
By Jim Humbird
The days of knighthood are gone but chivalry lingers on despite the invasion of countless women into traditionally men's sports such as fishing and hunting.

Most women go fishing with their husbands and families with each passing year. The reasons are not clear. Maybe better transportation is doing it; or improved camp gear, more leisure, or so-called "togetherness."

Whatever the underlying causes, the fact somehow is perplexing to many outdoorsmen, no matter how gallant, because all previous experience seems invalid.

For example, a dog can be bought already trained for the woods, but a wife must be taught personally. This veritable crisis is experienced every fishing season by many husbands. If a sportsman gets a dog when it is young, training is easy. But even June brides are out of the comparable "puppy stage".

More often than not, they are city-reared to boot.

To pursue a difficult if not hazardous outdoor sport is very different from training a dog. Obvious to the primary dog lesson is beginning to realize how much fun it can be. Awakened for the day's adventure at 3 a. m., she rates high if she hops out of bed immediately with zip and zeal and cheerfulness. More "selling" is indicated if she needs at least three routings to get any sort of response, then moans: "Only a fool would get up at this hour."

Other tip-offs as to the kind and extent of training she will need will be her reactions to threading a hook with a squirming worm, her composure at the buzz of the first snake, and her corroborative remarks about the big one that got away.

Trout are by far the most sought-after game fish in Idaho today, although early pioneers brought in the warm-water species overland from the west coast. The carp, bass, crappie, perch and catfish. These are not only top table fare, but also are plentiful in all parts of the state, providing sport and experience to neophyte anglers. Most of these new recruits soon join the ranks of veteran fishermen, however, trying for limits of trout.

All trout are of the Salmonidae family and Idaho has four main species of this great fish, not counting sea-going chinook salmon and steelhead. These are the colorful rainbow, by far the most spectacular trout; and the brown trout, the brook trout and the cutthroat trout. The rainbow, originally native on the Pacific slope from California to Alaska, has been introduced to the waters of nearly every state from coast to coast. It also has been transplanted to South America, New Zealand, Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia.

Because rainbow eggs stand shipping well and are easily propagated by artificial means, most of the annual production in the 14 Idaho hatcheries is this kind of trout. Last year the total figure exceeded 18 million fish, or over 775,000 pounds.

At one time rainbow and steelhead trout were believed to be separate species, but fish authorities today agree that the steelhead merely is an ocean going rainbow which returns to the mountain streams to spawn. Both kinds leap high out of the water when hooked in frantic efforts to shake the barb.

Although Kamloops are classed in the rainbow division and have set several world's records for weight since their introduction from British Columbia to Lake Pend Oreille and a few other Idaho waters since 1941, this primarily is a lake fish. Kamloops grow astonishingly when food conditions are right. The largest taken to date on rod and reel weighed 37 pounds. In most waters, however, they grow only like regular rainbows.

Introduced from Germany into the American waters shortly after 1900, the brown trout reaches upwards of 30 pounds, eats anything from flies to accidentally drowning mice, and is the warriest, craftiest member of the Salmonidae chain. Experiments with brown trout in Idaho waters have not been too successful. Also, most fishermen find it difficult to catch the brown. Consequently, the Fish and Game Department does not propagate many of them. Brown hold their own in the most heavily-fished waters.

The cutthroat or "native" is a handsome trout, with its dark green deep yellow sides, and belly thickly covered with black spots that run into the fins and spatter the tail. Lying on a bed of ferns or displayed on the kitchen table, a mess of cutthroats pleases the most choosy sportsman. In view of increasing angler pressure on cutthroat waters in the state and the fact that the eggs cannot be obtained commercially, the department is beginning to reduce bait and possession limits on this species. "Fishing for Fun" is the slogan this year on the Middle Fork of the Salmon river, where the limit has been reduced to three cutthroat per fisherman.

Originally native to northeastern parts of the United States, the brook trout has been introduced widely in streams of western states, including Idaho. It is easily propagated in the hatcheries and is stocked heavily in many places. Its size generally is smaller than other trout and it stunts out when it becomes too plentiful for the available food supply.

Bait fishing probably is the easiest and most widely-used method of catching trout. However, success comes to the bait dunked in the same way it does to the multitude of others who use many methods—in direct ratio to one's ability to fool a fish.

Basically there are two main kinds to trout fishing outfits—fly and spinning gear—and both are used at least some of the time with bait. The elaborate rigs in any case are unnecessary—many fish are taken on a simple woolly pole.

The important thing for the beginner to remember is that fishing is fun. Sometimes the fish don't bite, sometimes they do. The trick is to enjoy it both ways. Evaluate the trip not by the number of fish that were caught but by the amount of outdoor recreation it provided.

Mountain Lakes Booklet Published For Third Time

Many sportsmen are reviewing the new revised edition of the pocket-sized booklet, "Mountain Lakes of Idaho", taking personal pride in the fact that they served as contributing editors. They helped the Fish and Game department by telling about their high country angling success, and about trail conditions, horse feed, camp sites and the like. They also reported and helped chart the location of hitherto unmapped alpine lakes. Although the third edition is off the press and available for free distribution on request from department field personnel and the Boise headquarters office, the fisherman still has a place in the program. He must continue sharing his back country experiences regarding trout sizes, numbers, kinds, pressures, hours spent angling, and condition of fish brought to creel. Proper management of these waters depends on accurate knowledge of such things.

However, most of the fishing clan know about the high lakes only from what they have read and heard. The other may have seen some of the lakes from the windows of aircraft scurrying above the granite crags, where glaciers scooped out nearly 2,000 "gems of the mountains" ages ago. Best seen from foot or horseback, however, these vistas of surpassing beauty, replete with pine-scented air, blue waters and rocky spires, are worth every step of the way. And the fishing is for those with their feet on the ground, a bonus denied to air passengers just passing over!

Cutthroat, brook and rainbow are the main trout species found in the mountain lakes. Size and numbers of fish present vary and it is not unusual to see but not catch them. Dry flies, lures and bait all work but these fish can be choosy. Take a variety of tackle and use light leaders in the clear waters.

Roads into mountain lake areas generally are not open until some time in July. Check with Forest Service and Fish and Game department personnel to learn road conditions and to get details on lake and trail locations.

The new edition resumes the story about stocking hundreds of mountain lakes with trout since 1947. Some of them have received fish to replenish the population already present and many others have been stocked for the first time. Each year the department enlarges the fisherman's horizons by stocking additional lakes.

Five new mountain lake areas are included in the third edition of the handbook. These are the Cabinet mountains to the north, the Selway Crags, the Trinity mountains, the South Fork of the Boise river, and the Big Wood river in southcentral Idaho. Altogether, there are 23 mountain lake areas covered throughout the state. As the introductory paragraphs point out, trail and road conditions may change from time to time but every attempt has been made to present the maps and other information accurately.

The booklet first was published in 1952 following surveys to learn the high lakes which could be stocked with what kind of fish, and where the easiest route to each lake lay. This led to actually planting fish in many of the lakes and the need to publicize the work.

The little mountain lake booklet

A wealthy woman equipped from head to foot with sparkling jewels and dragging an ermine wrap behind her stepped out of her chauffeur-driven Cadillac in front of the plush hotel. She proceeded to instruct the bellhops: "You—take that suitcase. And you—please carry that one, and you will please carry my jewel case in. And you, young man, will find my son in the back seat—will you please carry him into the hotel?"
The bellhop looked into the back seat of the car and to his amazement saw a strapping young man of about 30 years of age.
"But Madam, your son looks like he is perfectly capable of walking into the hotel by himself!"
"Of course," responded the wealthy woman "but thank heavens he doesn't have to."

caught the public imagination. A revised edition in 1956 listed more lakes and attendant data. Since the last printing, many lakes have been re-surveyed by fisheries biologists and restocked as conditions dictated. Each summer area fisheries biologists attempted to survey one or more lake areas on a rotation basis to maintain as many lakes as possible on the producing list.

Thus a definite program is carried out to improve the existing fisheries. By increasing fishing opportunities in Mountain Lakes some of the pressure is removed from the lowlands.

The booklet describes in detail the lake areas with information regarding access routes and trout species to be found. It gives many tips for planning trips.

For example, the lakes are in areas where the fisherman must attend to all his own needs and comforts. Often the altitudes are enough to tax weak hearts. This means planning and accurate knowledge of how to get to the destination—and back. On trips into mountains over distances of more than eight miles, a pack trip with horses is recommended. Names of packers in each area can be obtained from license vendors, conservation officers or forest rangers.

The booklet also suggests:

1. Obtaining accurate information about a lake's exact location.
2. Planning carefully, packing essential tackle, equipment and food.
3. Wearing appropriate clothing, especially well-fitting shoes.
4. Setting aside plenty of time to get to the lake and back before dark and still have enough time for fishing.
5. Not being too disappointed if the lake has one of its "days off".

Mountain lakes are noted for producing nothing one day and limits the next. Choosing a lake with a good trail leading to it is a good idea, particularly for hikers. It's sometimes easier to walk five miles on a good trail than half a mile across rocks, deadfalls and through brush.

YOUR Social Security

Question:

I have the same name as my mother's and I have been offered a part-time job on Saturdays. Can I use mother's social security card until the time I apply for my card.

Answer:

No. Every person has his own number that identifies the social security account that is set up and kept for him throughout his entire working lifetime. You should make application for a social security card of your own before you accept employment.

Fisherman Don't

Following are reminders to anglers that it's against the law—

1. To refuse to produce license and/or fish for inspection upon request of authorized conservation officers.
2. To use more than one hand line or one rod or pole with line and hook or hooks, in taking or attempting to take fish from the waters of the state.
3. To use a hook larger than 1/2 inch, measured from the point of the hook to shank, in chinook salmon waters, except in the taking of sturgeon.
4. To use a gaff hook except in landing a fish from a boat.
5. To fish for salmon, trout or bullfrogs with the aid of artificial light.
6. To deposit any substance not attached to a hook for the purpose of attracting fish.

To transfer live fish from one watershed to another or from another state into Idaho.

8. To use a set line except in certain waters described in the general regulations.

Also, anglers are advised to consult an official copy of the 1962 fishing regulations for information on seasons, bag limits and closed areas. They are available at any of the state's 600 license vendors.

Fresh Fish, If—

Fish will stay fresh in the field if common-sense habits such as the following are practiced.

Clean them without using water as soon as caught.

Keep them cool. If ice is used, separate fish from water. One method is to wrap in aluminum foil, wax paper or the like and tuck the fish away in sleeping bag or blankets to insulate from summer heat, bugs and varmints.

Before killing, carefully remove hooks and place fish in live well or wire mesh bag so they can move about.

Keep them cool on way home. A wet, breeze-exposed burlap bag is good.

Bobby Schwenne Wins Championship At Junior Rodeo

Bobby Schwenne, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Schwenne, was named all-around champion of the 13th annual Wallowa Co. Jr. Rodeo Sunday. Bobby amassed the most points during the two-day show, which attracted 62 entrants from Oregon, Washington, and Idaho. He won first place in calf riding and the stake race in the 8-12 age group.

The Genesee cowboy won a $25 savings bond from the Enterprise Jr. Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored the rodeo; $23 in prize money, and several merchandise awards.

Runnersup were Gerald Halsey, Anatone, in the 16-18 group, and Bruce Hoistington, College Place, Washington, 8-12 group. Douglas Defour, Clarkston, received the hard-luck trophy.

1st prize winners: Ribbon—tying, 8-12, Curtis Lovell, Imnaha, Leer, Clarkston; 16-18, Jim Waller, Elgin, Oregon; 8-12, Bobby Schwenne, Genesee. Steer riding, 18, Paul Halsey, Anatone. Bending race, 8-12, Bruce Hoistington, College Place; 13-15, Julie Wilson, Enterprise; 16-18, Linda Hermann, Genesee.

Stake race, 8-12, Bobby Schwenne, Genesee; 13-15, Kathy Ward, Enterprise; 16-18, Dick Temple, Wallowa. 220-yard race, first heat, Robert Leer, Clarkston; second heat, Grace Allen, Wallowa; 440-yard race, Ted Wilson, Clarkston.

The June police blotter of Chief James Watkins revealed the following: Two citations were issued for no drivers license; 1 stop sign violation; 1 improper display of license plates; 1 improper backing, and three complaints, one on children throwing rock, 1, disturbance, and 1, children shooting rifles in city limits.

J. Kanikkeberg To California Position

Jordan Kanikkeberg, former superintendent of Genesee Public schools, has announced that he has accepted a position in the Bakersfield, California school system, and will teach at McFarland, California High School next term. Mr. Kanikkeberg will instruct classes in history, geography, and English.

Mr. and Mrs. Kanikkeberg will leave for California the middle of August. Kanikkeberg has been with the Genesee school system since 1955.

Child Swallows Stove Oil

Cindy, fifteen-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Schilling, was taken to St. Joseph hospital, in Lewiston Sunday morning for treatment and observation after drinking stove oil found in a cup at her home.

The child was given first aid at the local clinic where her stomach was pumped. Dr. Spechko thought it advisable to take her to the hospital for further observation. At last report she is recovering very well.

The child's father was dismissed from the hospital Sunday after receiving treatment for injuries received last week while working in the woods.

The Schilling family moved into a house owned by Dewey Moser two weeks ago.

Teen-Age Meeting Saturday Evening

A meeting of Genesee teen agers will be held Saturday evening, July 7, in the Legion Memorial Building at 8:00 p. m. Purpose of the meeting is to elect officers for the Genesee Youth Activities Center and plan for a summer program.

This center was originally sponsored by the now inactive Genesee Civic Association, but because of the many requests from local youngsters, the Merchants Association agreed to sponsor the group this year. The main function of the Youth Center has been to sponsor a series of record dances throughout the summer months when there is little else for the young people of the community to do. These dances are conducted with adult chaperones. A small fee is charged to cover the cost of purchasing new records for the dances.

There will be no dance this Saturday; this meeting is only to elect officers and discuss future activities. Children from the seventh through the twelfth grades are eligible to participate.

Another Book By John A. Platt

Last week the Kendrick Gazette completed and delivered to John A. Platt, former Genesee resident, another, but greatly enlarged edition of his book, "Whispers From Old Genesee and Echoes of the Salmon River." This latest edition carries 170 pages, and eight pages of pictures, all but one of which are from old photos or drawings.

Of this edition 100 books were "soft bound" and 200 were taken to Walla Walla to be "hard bound" in a book bindery there. For those interested in history of the two areas, and in stories of the early days, there is no better reading—for it's not told in the "dry as dust" way of many such books. The expanded edition contains many items of real interest not previously covered.

Copies may be obtained by contacting Mr. Platt in Kendrick, or leaving an order at the Kendrick Gazette office.

Bad Driving Habits Lead to Disaster

Habits,—good and bad—are hard to break. The habit of driving on or over the center line has been permanently broken several times this year on Idaho highways where head-on collisions have caused an unproportionately large share of the 1962 traffic fatalities.

Tourists and natives seem to be equally indifferent to Idaho's mountainous and rolling terrain where highways have had to be built with more curves than are found in the flat, open areas of the country. Fear of the right-hand shoulder of the road seems to grip many drivers who demonstrate an abundance of misplaced bravery when it comes to speed.

Far too many cars and trucks, many of them with trailers of varied lengths and widths following behind, cut both right and left hand curves. Since the paved surface is "sauced" at the same angle across the entire width of the road, the center-line hugger gains nothing—not even a few inches of distance traveled.

Even though there is clear visibility for miles ahead with no traffic approaching, it is a poor and frequently disastrous habit to leave one's own lane of traffic. The habit can and does carry over the blind curves and heavily traveled roads where head on collisions and sideswiping crashes are contributing heavily to the traffic death toll.

It might be well for Idaho's driver training instructors to expand their courses to include driving on a couple of 12-inch planks to test the drivers' apprehensions about the right hand edge of the roadway. The over-cautious driver can be as much of a traffic hazard as the dare devil. In any event, the victims of either foolhardy extremist are unable to distinguish between them.

Whether there is or is not something to do, you are always doing something.

—Martial

Frost Causes Crop Damage

Genesee's chances for an excellent pea crop this year took a setback Tuesday morning when a sudden drop in temperature sent the mercury skidding down to 30 degrees. Although it is still too early to have complete estimates on the damage the frost caused, it has been reliably reported that at least moderate damage has been done over a good-sized area of surrounding territory.

Most of the damage was reported in the draws and bottom land where peas had been planted. It will still be some time before it can be determined if damage to wheat and other crops has occurred.

A good many garden and flower beds also felt the cold frosty air. Reports of damage to potatoes, tomatoes, beans, etc., have been received.

After a warm weekend, the temperatures began dropping down Sunday evening. They reached a reported low of 39 degrees during the early morning hours on Monday. Monday remained unseasonably cool and then on Monday night the temperature dipped down to below freezing.

Those who took Wednesday, July 4th, as a holiday and went traveling or picnicking, found the weather to be cloudy, cool, and slightly wet with small amounts of rain falling during the mid-morning.

Fire Control Center To Be Set Up Soon

The Forest Service's Northern Region dispatching headquarters will be established at the Aerial Fire Depot the first week of July, Boyd L. Rasmussen, regional forester, announced. The Aerial Fire Depot is seven miles west of Missoula, adjacent to the Missoula airport, on highway 93-10A.

Starting today the Forest Service's region-wide radio network will assemble daily weather and fire-danger data from 92 observation points on the 33 million acres of public lands in the 16 National Forests. This daily report will be received at the Forest Service radio headquarters, near the Pattee Canyon road southeast of Missoula, and will then be transmitted to the U. S. Weather Bureau at the Missoula airport.

These reports will include basic data essential to developing fire weather forecasts for each of the 16 National Forests of the region. They will also include number of new fires, number of men on fires, acreage involved in fires and progress in controlling fires.

Henry J. Viche, regional fire dispatcher, will establish his base of operation at the Aerial Fire Depot shortly after July 4. The fire dispatcher will have direct connections with the Forest Service radio headquarters, the Weather Bureau, the regional warehouse, pilots, smokejumpers and all forest headquarters in Region One.

Planes for dropping smokejumpers, fire retardant and firefighting equipment and supplies are available to the regional fire-control center at the Aerial Fire Depot.

As of June 30 last year, there had been a total of 205 fires in the Northern Region of the Forest Service. "Forty-three of these were man-caused," Viche pointed out. The 205 fires burned a total of 532 acres.

By Sunday, June 30 of this year the region had experienced a total of 142 fires of which 54 were man-caused. These fires had burned an estimated 210 acres.

All Northern Region fire control operations will be coordinated at the Aerial Fire Depot through the current fire season, July, August, and September.

POEM FOR TODAY

Help me to write my—POEM FOR TODAY
Dear God—and fill each line with happiness;
With woad anemone in applique,

And homespun dreams of love and tenderness.

O—may I only write of kindly things
Of buds of promise down a spring-time-way;
Keep in my heart the song the west wind sings
And let that be my—

Janet Sprenger Begins Work With Home Agent

Janet Sprenger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sprenger, has been appointed a jr. asst. trainee in the Nez Perce Co. extension home agent's office. Janet, a 4-H member for 11 years and a winner of many honors in home economics, is between her jr. and sr. years at the U. of I.

The trainee program has been sponsored by the university's extension center for several years, in the hope that the students who participate will become home agents after graduation, according to Lucile Gray, Nez Perce Co. extension home agent. Lois Seubert, presently the home agent at Orofino, served in a trainee capacity at Lewiston.

Janet is president of Ethel Steel House, a living group at the university, attended the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago in 1957 as the state frozen foods winner. She attended the National 4-H conference at Washington, D. C., in April of this year.

She was the last Idahoan to attend the annual Pillsbury Grand National Bake-off at New York City. She participated in that event in 1958.

She is one of 20 national winners of the Chas. A. Pfizer award, for extension work.

4 H-er's Wage Safety Campaign

The impact of 660,000 dedicated boys and girls working for safety is bound to make a sizeable dent in accident statistics. These safety-minded youths are 4-H Club members representing just about every country from coast-to-coast.

Based on last year's statistics, it is estimated that around 5,000 members will qualify for the 1962 safety medal award. One 4-H'er from the state will be selected to be the safety delegate to the National 4-H Club Congress opening in Chicago, Nov. 25. The trip plus eight $400 college scholarships will again be sponsored by General Motors, donor of the national 4-H safety program awards for the 19th straight year.

Activities in virtually every kind of safety are undertaken by the 4-H'ers. For example, Jefferson Co., Colorado is credited with pioneering rifle safety in the state with the cooperation of several state, county and national agencies.

Residents of Rock Island, Ill., benefited from stepped up information on the Civil Defense program brought about through the efforts of local 4-H clubs. Safety tips on use of power lawnmowers reached about 4,000 residents of Portage County, Ohio. Club members personally delivered and explained the bulletins to neighbors.

Obedient safe driving rules is urged especially during vacation months when thousands of cars throughout the state take to the open road. Safe operation of automobiles and tractors is another facet of the 4-H program.

In 1963, special emphasis will be placed on fire prevention, including fires likely to start from faulty electrical wiring or appliances, according to the national 4-H safety development committee.

Rest satisfied with doing well, and leave others to talk of you as they please.

Employment Situation In Latah County

During the past week, a total of 29 Latah County residents were assisted in finding employment through the Moscow office of the Idaho Employment Security Agency. Among the workers placed on jobs were hay hands, carpenters, laborers, a general office clerk, a cook, and domestic workers. During the previous week a total of 30 persons were placed through the office.

At the end of the week there were 14 jobs still open, including jobs for waitresses, cooks, secretaries, general office clerks, and domestic workers for the women. Men were needed to fill such jobs as power sawyer, maintenance mechanic, salesmen, and office equipment service man.

The number of persons currently filing claims for unemployment insurance dropped to a low of 143 at the end of this week. This is the smallest number of persons claiming benefits reported so far this year. Only seven persons filed new claims during the week. The largest share of the reduced claims were from the immediate Moscow area, and could be accounted for by the return to work of a number of construction workers in this area. The workers who discontinued claims in the Potlatch area were those workers who had returned to woods work in that vicinity.

Of the total number of workers claiming benefits at this time, twelve are still receiving benefits under the Idaho Extended Benefit program and seven are being paid under the federally financed extended compensation program. Both of these programs will expire at the end of June, and those persons will not then be eligible for further benefits until they have returned to the labor market and have secured employment.

Suffers Broken Arm

Donna Post, age 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Post fell while playing on a swing set in Kendrick Friday evening and broke a bone near the elbow. She was taken to St. Joseph hospital and placed in traction. X-rays were taken Monday and they revealed a clean break. Complications have set in in the form of water blisters on the elbow and wrist and the swelling has not subsided. No cast will be placed until the swelling has cleared up.

A. & L. Glass Adds Paint Specialist

A paint and decoration specialist has joined the A. & L. Glass & Paint Co. S. Jefferson and Troy road, Moscow.

He is Curtis Larson, formerly of Lewiston, who will be available as a consultant to home owners with special decoration or paint problems.

Co-owners of the firm, Andy Stubblefield and Harold Samu, said Larson will provide a new and unique service to Moscow residents.

Little Leaguers Win, Lose

Genesee Little League baseball team had a record of 1-1 this week. Friday evening they defeated Deary 21-4 on the Deary diamond. In that game home runs were hit by Doug Springer and Terry Geltz. Darrell Green was the winning pitcher.

Tuesday evening the Little Leaguers were defeated 14-3 by the Potlatch team on the local field.

WORLD'S FAIR REPORT

SEATTLE — School's out, and the Seattle World's Fair knows it.
 True to the obvious prediction, "Once the kids are out of school, we will really start having a ball," the spectacular Space Age World's Fair is reverberating the shrieks of happy children, aged 6 to 106.
 The attendance figures last week—more than 60,000 every day—proved the claim that the Fair is the world's greatest single entertainment attraction in 1962. And attendant facts—ease of handling lodging, parking and people—substantiate the claim even further. There's room for all in Seattle and on the Fairgrounds. Fair officials aren't contending the C-21 Exposition doesn't cost money. But they do say, and following are some figures to prove it, that a trip to the Fair is no more expensive than a normal vacation, and this is the first World's Fair in America in 22 years.

The $2 adult and $1 child admission to the Fairgrounds and all you need pay for a full day—16 hours if you could hold up—without paying another cent, unless you get hungry. And you will.
 So take the Food Circus, where the booths of some 35 food dispensers can provide anything from a hot dog at 30 cents, a Mexican taco at 50 cents to a full course dinner at $6.60. Remember! All exhibits are free, except the Fine Arts Pavilion which has a 50 cent charge. The cost to ride the Space Needle elevator is 75 cents for children, $1 for adults. The Monorail trains from downtown Seattle to the Fair charge 50 cents for adults and 35 cents for children, one way.

As they say here, "you can't afford not to go to the World's Fair." Coming up this next week at the Fair is the Roy Rogers and Dale Evans Western Show.
 Getting back to the Fair per se, and this is best directed at the men, but "do you want to be kissed by Jayne Mansfield?"
 Thousands of visitors a day at the French pavilion are being kissed by fittings, reports Tube Turns, supplier of the fittings. Annual bill for gas and oil used in the system comes to more than $62,000.

TECHNOLOGICAL WONDERS of toady will be the historical relics of tomorrow. With this thought in mind, University of Rochester officials have placed in the cornerstone of a new engineering building five items representing the state of engineering, 1962. Their choices—1—a tube program, a new material used in the nose cone of a rocket; 2—a two-inch ruby rod, the core of a new light amplifying device called the laser; 3—a circuit module for a computer; 4—tiny mechanical parts representing new miniaturization capabilities; 5—a plastic-wrapped 1962 penny, for luck.

STRANGE 'HAZE' on the horizon seen by U. S. astronauts Carpenter and Glenn while orbiting 100 miles up is believed by scientists to be "airglow," the same light that makes visible on the upper atmosphere. It is the result of reactions which are varied and produce differently colored light. On earth, the phenomenon is evident only with sensitive instruments.

WHEN COMPLETED, The Narrows Bridge connecting Brooklyn and Staten Island, will have the longest single span in the world—4,260 feet. Present titleholder is San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge. . . . NEW REGULATIONS applying to launchings by amateur rocketeers have been proposed by the Federal Aviation Agency. SPARE WILDLIFE BABES
 Auto collisions with deer fawns and elk and moose calves on roadways annually cause the loss of human life and much property damage, as well as reduce the fall hunting potential. Many game birds likewise meet their end under the grinding wheels of fast-moving vehicles. Altogether, property damage is estimated by a national magazine to reach $12 million from this cause.
 Hitting the brake therefore is the best break for wildlife of all species, young and old alike. Here are some

SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS
 Social Security benefits, as a general rule, are paid promptly. Sometimes this cannot be done because the survivors of a deceased worker are not aware of the workers' social security status, according to James B. Myers, District Manager of the Social Security Administration in Lewiston, Idaho. Such was the case of Reverend Floyd Chapman who was killed in an automobile accident near Crestmont, Idaho last Christmas.
 In order for an ordained minister to be covered under the provisions of the Social Security Act, he must file a tax waiver form with Internal Revenue Service. Reverend Chapman's widow assumed such a form had been filed but could not locate a copy of it. It turned out that Rev. Chapman had not filed this form but fortunately the law permitted his widow to act for him. Once having done it, tax payments previously made by Rev. Chapman permitted payment of social security benefits to her and his children.
 Rev. Chapman was killed in an automobile accident while traveling for the Idaho Institute of Christian Education. Prior to this he practiced his ministry in Moscow, Idaho. He spent his early life in and around Great Falls, Montana. While a student at Montana State University, he met and married his wife, Betty, on June 20, 1948. In 1950, he moved to Spokane, Washington where he was associated with Whitworth College in the School of Dramatics. After oververne Andersons.

 Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Borgen had as Sunday dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Green and John of Moscow and Mr. and Mrs. Jack McKay and family tax payers were Mrs. Elaine Plichner and daughters of Moscow.
 Mrs. Hattie Kimberling, Moscow, and Mrs. Charles Hudson and boys of the Chesapeake Bay area of Maryland visited Monday afternoon with the Vernon Peterson family.

THAT POST OFFICE DEFICIT
 Writing in the Chicago publication Commerce, Alan Studny has something worthwhile to say about the problem of the Post Office deficit, which now runs to some $850 million a year.
 A pending bill would increase revenues to the extent of $600 million by raising first, second and third class mail rates. And the burden, Mr. Studny observes, "would fall heaviest on the smaller publications which can afford it least." Under the terms of the bill, the additional cost of mailing a small country newspaper a few miles would be the same as for carrying a huge New York daily to the other side of the continent.
 As for magazines, that industry has had tough sledding. Many famous dition in 1953, Rev. Chapman received his first call going to the Green Acres Christian Church in Greenacres, Wash., near Spokane. Mrs. Chapman and her sons, John age 11 and Mark, age 7, still live in Moscow, Idaho. The social security benefits that will be paid this family play a large part in keeping this family together. In this case, the law worked in favor of this family. In some other situations the reverse is true.

 All persons, be they self-employed or wage earners should know their rights under Social Security and should keep their families advised of their stake in Social Security, should death come. Any Social Security office will be glad to inform anyone regarding his particular position in relation to this program.

publications have gone out of business; others, large and small, are in serious financial trouble. A member of Congress has stated, "the estimated increase in revenue of $53 million on second-class mail exceeds the gross annual profits of the entire magazine industry."
 Mr. Studny points out that obsolete mail handling methods, hardly changed in a century, are a basic cause of the problem. If replaced by modern automated systems, as has been done in many counties, hundreds of millions could be pared from the deficit. Authoritative estimates say nearly half of the deficit represents charges that should be borne by the taxpayers at large, in that they provide for public services of a non-postal nature.
 Another thought can be added to Mr. Studny's excellent summary. Postal services of a purely commercial nature, which do not contribute to public education, information, and enlightenment, should, at the least, pay their own way in every particular. Parcel post—that chronic contributor to the deficit—is the prime example here.

Christian Science Church Service
 Communion services will be held Sunday at Christian Science Churches throughout the world.
 Keynoting the lesson-sermon entitled "Sacrament" is the golden text from the Bible (Galatians 3): "Ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ."
 Readings from science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy will include: "To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done. Outward worship is not of itself sufficient to express loyal and heartfelt gratitude, since he has said: "If ye love me, keep my commandments." (p.4).

Don't Outlaw Guns—Punish Outlaw

During recent months there has been unusually widespread publicity regarding proposed firearms control legislation. This has included federal, state, and even local control measures. Because of its prominence in recurring controversies over such legislation, the National Rifle Association (non-profit membership organization of nearly a half-million American sportsmen) believes it timely to publicly express its firm policy and stand on this subject.

Basically, the NRA believes that to be effective, fair, and consistent with other criminal statutes, penalties should properly be assessed against the improper use of firearms rather than against possession of them. The Association believes that experience has demonstrated that firearms legislation is of insufficient value in the prevention of crime or justify the inevitable restrictions which it places upon law abiding citizens.

Much proposed legislation involves the registration of firearms. "Registration" has become a much-used (but little understood) catchword. Frequently proponents confuse or combine registration with a permit system. The NRA has always strongly opposed such legislation, for very simply means an official listing or record of the firearms owned and possessed by citizens. Certainly the effect of such a listing in detecting or preventing crime would be so slight as to be virtually useless. Since penalties for violation are usually only in the misdemeanor class and violations so easy, criminals simply ignore such laws. Only the law abiding citizen (but little understood) catchword observes it, building a mass of records, useless to law enforcement agencies. It has been stated that the listing would aid in returning stolen firearms to their proper owners. Yet the victim of such a theft can readily report his loss to police, just as he does with other stolen items, without the need of maintaining a central registration listing.

Registration alone is useless. Furthermore a wealth of instances in the past decades show that such a listing is quickly seized by dictators and invaders to secure control over a nation or territory.

The permit system as written into most proposals invariably lends itself to administrative abuse. Customarily some official is given authority to decide who shall own a gun. Far too frequently this leads to arbitrary action, with either no provision for appeal or a complicated and expensive appeal procedure. Where a permit is required, such as for the carrying of a concealed handgun, the requirements under which such a permit may be obtained should be clearly set forth in the law. When those conditions are met, issuance of the permit should be mandatory and it should license the act of carrying, not the handgun itself.

Proponents of gun registration too frequently compare it to the registration of automobiles, ignoring the fact that the latter is primarily a revenue statute with issuance mandatory as recommended above.

News stories and other movements for more stringent firearms control legislation far too frequently indicate a great lack of knowledge of present applicable laws. Considering the injuries sought by families who trade up to new, better homes in 1962 according to Jim Hutsiniller of Climate Control Company in Spokane.

Each family a problem which often causes a family to seek a new home, said Mr. Hutsiniller. Better layout, more built-in conveniences and additional bathrooms will be four of the most important features sought by families who trade up to new, better homes in 1962 according to Jim Hutsiniller of Climate Control Company in Spokane.

Members of the family tend to enjoy outside activities more when they know their screens will increase the enjoyment of all other house features, said Mr. Hutsiniller.

Aid Condition Adds Value, Comfort

Full air conditioning, improved room layout, more built-in conveniences and additional bathrooms will be four of the most important features sought by families who trade up to new, better homes in 1962 according to Jim Hutsiniller of Climate Control Company in Spokane.

Improving After Fall

Miss Emma Rach, who was a patient in St. Joseph's hospital after suffering a broken hip, has returned to the Orchards Nursing Home where she is being cared for. She is getting along satisfactorily.

Think ahead of your job; nothing can keep you from reaching out for you. Do it before it is too late. Next time during the rich chance to gain strength by adversity, confidence by your success by deserving it. Do it better time. Do it better than anyone else. I know this sounds old-fashioned. It is, but it has built the world.

TESTS PROVE ACHEES ARE GOOD BAROMETER

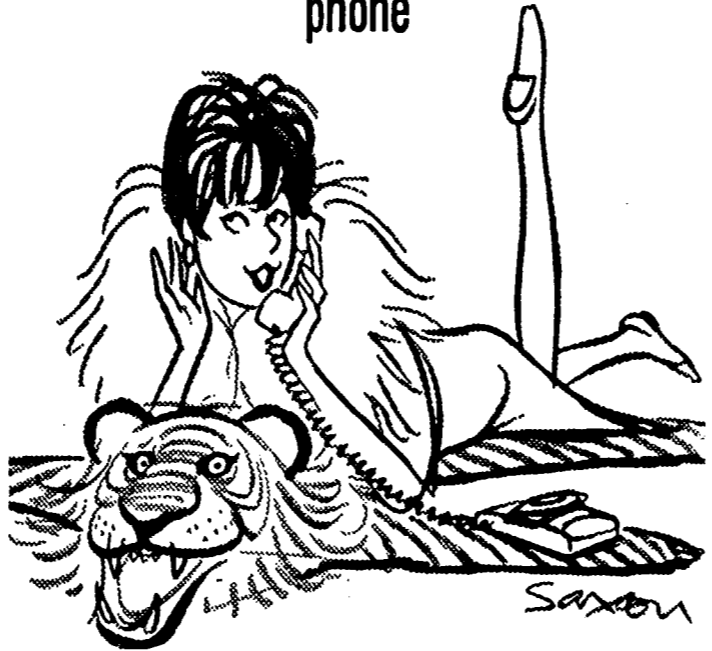

PREDICTING THE WEATHER by aches and pains, a venerable practice among elderly arthritis sufferers, has finally won a measure of recognition from medical science. At the University of Pennsylvania, victims of rheumatoid arthritis, the major crippling form of the disease, lived for several weeks at a stretch in "Climatron," a sealed chamber in which weather factors—airflow, electrical air charge, temperature, humidity, barometric pressure—can be adjusted at will. When conditions such as normally precede a storm were stimulated, the university doctors reports, a large percentage of the arthritics unfaithfully noted a definite worsening of their symptoms.
DRY ICE INSURANCE is proving an economic way for California growers to protect long-distance shipments of fresh fruit. About $35 worth of the solid carbon dioxide keeps $6,000 worth of strawberries fresh for a trip as long as 3,000 miles, reports Carlos, a major CO2 producer. The company says carbon dioxide circulating through the air also prevents fruit mold from attacking the shipment. . . . PLASTIC SUTURES, said to be stronger than cotton or silk and to knot easier, have been developed at the Baylor University School of Medicine in Houston, Tex. The stitches are made from propane gas.

THE CHINESE LANGUAGE will be taught in several high schools in the New York City area under a program developed by Columbia University. The university's department of Chinese and Japanese reports that the program is designed to ground young students in the language so that they can development sufficient skill in college and graduate school to later undertake research, translation or interpreting for the government, foreign service or business. . . . MONA LISA, Leonardo Da Vinci's famous painting, may be exhibited at the 1964 New York World's Fair. Should the painting be shown, it will be the second great work of art at the fair. The Vatican has already agreed to loan Michelangelo's "Piet" from St. Peter's Basilica.

THE SOOTHING SOUNDS of surf or rain on a cabin roof to lull the potential insomniac to sleep are faithfully reproduced by something called a "Sound-Conditioner" according to a New York firm offering it for $89. The five-pound, battery-powered machine puts you to sleep and keeps you there, the company says. "White sound" produced by the conditioner is said to shut out distracting noises and calm your rattled nerves—even in the office!

Christian Science Church Service
Freedom from enslavement of every kind is available through spiritual understanding of the mighty power of God. This is the encouraging theme of the Lesson-Sermon entitled "God" which will be presented at Christian Science churches Sunday.
Bible readings will include this verse (Revelation 11) "We give thee thanks O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power and hast reigned."
From science and health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy this selection will also be read (1. 22): "The enslavement of man is not legitimate. It will cease when man enters into his heritage of freedom. His God-given dominion over the material senses. Mortals will some day assert their freedom in the name of Almighty God."

Marriage: The result of a man getting hooked with his own line.

GOING TO RETIRE? NEW BOOKLET GIVES ADVICE

Are you about to retire? Then ask the social security office for the new booklet, "Now that You Are Retiring." It contains advice and useful information for persons nearing retirement.
James B. Myers, Social Security District Manager in Lewiston, said the publication was prepared because of numerous requests from persons at retirement age who wanted information that would help them to get full satisfaction and enjoyment from their later years. The draft of the booklet got enthusiastic approval at the recent White House Conference on Aging.
The booklet covers such subjects as decisions to make and changes to face, working while getting social security payments, part-time work available to older people, community activities, recreation, adult education, where to live after retirement, health care, stretching retirement income,

IF YOU FLY DON'T DIVE

BENDS (decompression sickness) can be the result of flying in a pressurized aircraft within 24 hours after surface diving warns the Federal Aviation Agency. The FAA reports that a pilot, flying after a day of diving at depths of 20 to 30 feet, became incapacitated and had to turn control of the plane over to his flight engineer. Pilots who are diving fans, or are thinking about it, are urged to seek medical advice before taking the plunge.

FOREST PROTECTION AGENCIES READY FOR ANNUAL BATTLE

By Roger L. Guernsey

Idaho's several forest protection agencies are now at a peak of readiness to lead the annual battles against forest and range fires. The weather has been quite cooperative so far, allowing more time than usual to train seasonal employees, give refresher courses to veteran fire supervisors, and put equipment in top condition.

Idaho and a couple of other western states are unique in that we have 4 separate types of agencies sharing fire control responsibilities. These agencies are the U. S. Forest Service, the Bureau of Land Management, the Timber Protective Associations, and the State Forestry Department. All efforts are closely coordinated thru the office of the State Forester to avoid duplication and to get most effective use of available manpower and machines. Each agency has its assigned area of responsibility and these areas are selected primarily on the basis that the majority landowner handles the protection. The land within districts protected by the State are primarily privately owned.

Idaho has good laws designed to protect our beautiful and valuable forests from fire. Probably the most important is the basic law, Section 38-107 Idaho Code which makes each owner of forest land responsible for protecting his own land from fire. This is an excellent law but one which no longer recognizes all major factors involved. It is becoming increasingly difficult for the owner to control the outbreak of fire on his land because of the increased access and public use of such lands for all types of recreation. Also, it does not seem fair that the owner should have to bear the full cost of protecting resources that give great values of many kinds to the general public as well as to the owner. Likewise, fire fighting has become so expensive that the cost of protection often exceeds the annual income of the land. Actually, most owners do not have to carry the full burden of protection. Most list their lands with one of the agencies mentioned above and in that way contract their share of the burden. The cost of protection has been averaging about 14 cents per acre throughout the forests of Idaho the last three years, all of which were bad fire years.

The owners of Class I forest land, or land primarily valuable for growing forest crops, have been paying 6 cents per acre on most districts. Owners of other lands, primarily grazing, have been paying 3 cents per acre. The balance is paid by the Federal and State governments. The larger forest owners who have elected to protect their own lands through forming timber protective associations pay bigger share and even as high as 58 cents per acre in 1959 in one district.

The listing of lands for protection is good, low cost insurance for the owner. For example, the owner of 80 acres of forest land, by paying $480 per year protection, can free himself of the possible liability for paying a fire suppression bill of $1,000 or $10,000 or even more.

The second most important law is the one establishing the closed fire season and making it illegal to burn without a permit between May 1 and October 31. This is an essential help to the forest protection agencies in controlling burning and confining it to safe periods. I would like to emphasize that burning is permitted during all these months. The only requirement is that it be safe and by

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862 . . . the same year that

IN IDAHO a steamer carrying 700 miners from the dwindling gold fields of California arrived in Idaho to search for gold in the Cour d'Alonea where E. D. Pierce had discovered it two years earlier. Early day miners enjoyed beer, when available, just as Idahoans today continue to find pleasure in beer.

For then, as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation — light, sparkling refreshment that adds a touch of Western hospitality to any occasion. Idahoans have always enjoyed the good fellowship that goes with every glass.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

For then, as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation — light, sparkling refreshment that adds a touch of Western hospitality to any occasion. Idahoans have always enjoyed the good fellowship that goes with every glass.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

By speech instead of buttons or levers is the object of research at Case Institute of Technology by Professor Harry W. Mergler. His technique turns spoken words into electrical voltage which is converted to digits that are fed into a computer. The digits are then reconstructed to form the signals for machine recognition. Dr. Mergler believes this system will eliminate the hours now spent programming instructions for computers and will make elementary devices such as elevators and machine tools respond directly to the human voice.

"Routine Notes" Repeat Death On Idaho Roads

Driver went off road on curve—car over center line—driver failed to observe stop sign—those are a few of the notations on this summer's fatal accident reports. Other notations, in passing, are the names of men, women and children who met death from a few stupid actions that caused those repetitions of comments of investigating officers to be recorded.

Oh yes, along with many of these phrases above, was that annoying little word "speed." Everyone has heard that "his word has been over-emphasized," and everyone knows dozens of self-proclaimed "excellent drivers who can handle their cars as well as 90 as some people can at 30."

It is also proclaimed that "it's everybody's constitutional right to drive as he doggone pleases as long as he doesn't interfere with someone else."

When this type does interfere it's often a matter of digging a grave or two and interring the late non-conformist and his victim. Then it's too late to take into court the guy who doesn't believe in stop signs, in speed limits, in center lines, in blood alcohol tests and few other annoying hindrances. The taxpayers save some money and the court dockets are left uncrowded for "more important cases."

Those same fatal accident reports for June and July don't contain all the names and circumstances of the survivors—you're those small children, the widows, parents, business associates and others who will feel the impact of the "routine notations" for months and years. To write or talk about such things is "silly sentimentality which should be confined to afternoon TV melodramas."

Cynical—you're darn right it's cynical. So much so that it's hard to shed a tear for the buns who tell the rest of society where to go, then end

NEW IDAHO RESIDENT IS THE LEAF-CUTTER BEE

The leaf-cutter bee, that newest and most popular of Idaho citizens, has some human characteristics.

The male of the species is perfectly willing to let the females do all the work, select the furniture, and sit up nights with the offspring. She does this by cutting up a few alfalfa leaves, lining the hole that is her home with them, and then going out after food for her unborn child. She eats pollen from Alfalfa, spits up a small pool of it on the leaves of a small plant. Then she seals off a single egg. There she seals off the room. In three or four days the egg hatches and the offspring feeds on the pool of partially digested pollen. Before you know it, he or she—and we do hope it's a girl—is a full grown larva. She pupates for some three or more weeks, and the young bee comes forth to live in the alfalfa fields.

Where is Papa all this time? Well, he's mostly out on the town, pollinating a few alfalfa blossoms and sipping nectar. He may not even come home nights. If he does, he sleeps in his own apartment.

The philandering of the male is all to the good, so far as entomologists are concerned. The unfertilized female can lay fertile eggs, but she is fertilized, however, her eggs produce both male and female offspring.

Those who wish to observe the leaf-cutter can easily do so if they live in southern Idaho. Getting the leaf-cutter to come in for observation is simple because these little insects like small holes in wood or other material for home sites. So, farmers and other folks bore holes in boxes, posts, and sides of old buildings, and sometimes in neighbors' haystacks or household furniture. The bees move in. Boxes of soda-drinking straw become beehives, portable ones that can be moved to alfalfa fields.

The leaf-cutter is not quarrelsome. She has a sting and can take care of herself but seldom goes out of her way to pick a fight. Not so the farmer who may catch anyone or anything in his alfalfa fields.

He has seen Idaho come from tenth in the nation's alfalfa seed production to second place in the last few years. Just for the sake of good relations and understanding, most people find it best to stay away from bee shelters in a farmer's fields. Chances are that for grates that visitors are curious. But—on the other hand—he may take you for a beekeeper. If he does, well, why not get some bees of your own, anyway?

COMMISSION TO SET GAME BIRD SEASONS

Closing dates on all upland game bird seasons, as well as for migratory doves, cottontail rabbits and the seasons for trapping fur-bearing animals, will be set at the next quarterly meeting of the Fish and Game Commission at Bonners Ferry beginning July 31.

The pheasant season has three opening dates, as usual. These will be October 6 in the counties of Benewah, Bonner, Kootenai and Shoshone; October 13 in Clearwater, Idaho, Latah, Lewis and Nez Perce counties; and October 27 in all other counties where seasons will be held.

Hunting for all species of grouse will begin September 15 except in portions of Custer, Idaho, Lemhi and valley counties. In those areas it begins on blue, ruffed and Franklin's grouse August 25. This coincides with the special opening on bighorn sheep in these primitive areas.

Season openings on cottontail rabbits and mourning doves are September 1 in all counties.

Alcohol, taken in sufficient quantities, produces all the effects of intoxication.

TRAFFIC ARRESTS PRECEDE ACCIDENTS

Approximately 90 per cent of Idaho State Police arrests are made before accidents occur.

This fact, coupled with the unknown ratio of other law enforcement agencies, and then compared to Idaho's current total of more than 1500 traffic accidents a month, is a good example of the amount of preventive action taken to safeguard lives.

A majority of the time spent by Idaho State Police is to patrol more than 5000 miles of roadways. During the course of their constant tours, the willful and the involuntary violators whom they contact are stopped and charged accordingly.

Actually, three-fourths of the willful violators, such as those charged with drunken driving and reckless driving, are apprehended by means of good police work before the offenders are involved in accidents.

Statistics are mere records of activity. To prove a point when so many intangibles are involved is much like finding solutions to mathematical tricks in which school children indulge.

The fact remains that Idaho's traffic law enforcement is good—and it can get better. Again dealing in figures, it is acknowledged that accidents, deaths and injuries are increasing, with one school of thought pointing to the increasing number of vehicles and more travel, balanced by the "what might have been" philosophy.

There can be no argument against the conclusion that death and injury statistics would soar to ridiculous heights without enforcement's ounce pound or ton of prevention.

And all it has in store; But make each re-born, burning day A thing worth living for.

Let me be up and doing for things that live on and on; Help me to live for others After the spring is gone.

Let me—"My Brother's Keeper" Ever and always be; I shall not squander summer But live it—dear God, for Thee.

MOUNTAIN GOATS STOCKED IN SEVEN DEVILS REGION

The Idaho Fish and Game department says it will back up unlikely stories by hunters this fall about mountain goat sightings where none ought to be in the rugged Seven Devils country above Hells Canyon. There is no record of mountain goats ever having been in the region 17 miles west of Riggin in north-central Idaho.

"Bighorn sheep were lagged by trappers and miners during the pioneer days—but not Oremosians," says Leo Mohler, chief of game management.

"Until now," he adds. "The department recently live-trapped and tagged eight mountain goats at Snow Peak on the North Fork of the Clearwater river and released them at the end of the road in the Seven Devils."

Mohler explained that original plans called for transporting the goats by helicopter to Hibbs cow camp on the Snake river or Hells Canyon side of the mountains. But the whirlybird was unavailable when needed and the goats were released at the alternate site.

The transplant totaled eight goats, half hilly and half nannies. There were two male kids. This plant may be supplemented with another release from the same trapping site in north Idaho later this month.

Mohler noted that five goats were trapped on Snow Peak and air-freighted to the Colorado department as part of a swap for wild Merriams turkeys about a year and one-half ago.

Travel Writers Guest of State The remotest corners of our nation this week contribute a top team of travel writers to tour one of Idaho's splendidly scenic areas. From the east coast, the west coast, and from the American side of our Rio Grande border much farther south than a big part of Mexico they come, and the scenic splendor of Idaho's Seven Devils' country is their destination, says a statement from Louise Shaddock, the Secretary of the State Department of Commerce and Development. The department is host to the group which is one in an annual series of such tours sponsored to build a bigger tourist interest and trade here, outdoor writer from Westaco in the extreme southern tip of Texas; Frances Colburn, of Sunset Magazine, Menlo Park, California; and Myron Glaser, travel editor of the Washington Daily News in the nation's capital. A special promotional envoy Ludwig Amtmann, executive vice president of Woodward and Lothrop's, Washington, D. C., will direct the party, points out the Secretary of Commerce and Development. The party is expected to be deeper than the Grand Canyon.

A life lived just to satisfy one's self never satisfies anybody.

Christian Science Church Service Progress depends on spiritually meaningful activity. This is a theme of the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Truth" at Christian Science church services Sunday.

Scriptural passages will include these verses from Proverbs (4): "Let thine eyes look straight before thee, and ponder the path of thy feet, and let all thy ways be established." A citation to be read from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 323): "In order to apprehend more, we already know. We must recollect that Truth is demonstrable when understood and that good is not understood until demonstrated." The Golden Text is from II Timothy (2): "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."

Mr. and Mrs. Merle S. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Wilson, of this city, recently completed eight weeks of military police training at the Provost Marshal General School, Fort Gordon, Ga. and is now stationed in Korea. Wilson was instructed in such subjects as civil and military law, traffic control, map reading, prisoner-of-war control and self-defense. The 19-year-old soldier entered the Army last February and received basic combat training at Fort Ord, California. A 1961 graduate of Genesee High School, he attended the University of Idaho.

Merle left July 15th from San Francisco for Military Police duty in Korea. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stout, visitors in Genesee. Honoring the visit here of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stout of Santa Fe, New Mexico relatives gathered Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilson for an afternoon of visiting, followed by refreshments. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hines and children and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ikard of Lewiston; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Qualey and children; Mrs. Alzina Hayden and the Stouts. Mr. and Mrs. Stout have been visiting over the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Alzina Wilson and other relatives and old-time acquaintances. They also visited their daughters, Mrs. Bill Clare and family in Portland, and Mrs. Joe Fran in Medical Lake.

Guests at Baumgartner Home Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Hasfurth, Kenneth and Judy of Pocatello were from Wednesday until Friday evening houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. George Baumgartner. Joining the Baumgartners and their houseguests at Wednesday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baumgartner and daughters, Dorothy and Jeanette and Mrs. and Mrs. Joe Schoeller, David and JoAnn. Friday afternoon and supper were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Baumgartner were Mrs. Fred Brown of Spokane and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whipple, Kathy and Mike of Yakima. The out-of-town guests also visited with Mr. and Mrs. J. Baumgartner.

Employment Situation in Latah County With having almost finished and harvest now underway, new farm employment opportunities fell off last week. Some activity has been noted in logging and construction, but hiring in the trades and services was quiet. New Unemployment Insurance claims are at or near the year's minimum and the number of persons currently filing claims is about the lowest point. Mr. and Mrs. Many persons who had been drawing benefits in June found that they were not eligible for benefits after July 1, 1962, because of insufficient work in 1961 or failure to return to work after exhausting claims.

FAMILY GET TOGETHER AT E.D. HASFURTH HOME A family get together and pot luck dinner was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hasfurth. Enjoying the delicious meal and afternoon of visiting were the Rev. F. Urban Hoorman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoorman and wife, Mrs. Ella Englund and guests from out-of-town included Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Hanson, Moscow, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ralston, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Stevens, Nez Perce; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Duncan, Farmington, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Peterson, Lewiston, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. White, Clarkston, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Barker, Spokane, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Iverson, and family, Portland.

Freedom Endangered Frank Stanton, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, came out strongly against the bill which would sharply raise the postal rates for publications. He did this, even though broadcasting would not be directly affected because "if the freedom of one medium is endangered it is the freedom of all others." The effect of the increases would be nothing short of calamitous—and particularly so in the case of smaller magazines and newspapers. Stanton used this striking example of that fact: "Last year four well-known publications—Harpers Magazine, the Atlantic Monthly, Catholic Digest and Saturday Review—operated with a combined profit of $500,000. If the proposed postal rates became law, these four magazines would have to pay $535,000 more in mailing costs—more than they earned."

Where a dent could be made in the deficit is in a function which is not which is competitive with self-sustaining, taxpaying private enterprise, and which makes no contribution to public information, enlightenment or education. That is parcel post. Its rates should be raised to the point where they honestly meet all the costs of providing the service—direct and indirect alike.

Genesee Pony League Downs Pottlach 9-2 Genesee finished the Pony League baseball season this week by defeating the Pottlach Pony League team 9-2 behind the expert pitching of Larry Vestal. The win gave the local team a 2-win, 1-loss record for the year.

Bill Morscheck's home run in the first inning started the home team, according to the Genesee Press, and Genesee out in front, 3-0. Genesee scored four more runs in the fourth including home runs by Vestal and Grieser. The home team scored twice more in the fourth inning. Pottlach marked up their only hit against Vestal in the third inning when Eacker hit away safely for a single driving in Butterfield. Vestal accounted for the other two runs and nine in posting his win.

Thanks From Coach Coach Bob Jacobs said he would like to thank the members of the team for their cooperation this year and also extended his thanks to parents of the players and other members of the community who helped the team this season.

Thursday Morning Fire Damages Home of Dick Wright

Fire of unknown origin severely damaged the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Wright late Thursday morning. Members of the Genesee Fire Department, summoned to the scene of the house fought for over an hour before the fire could be brought under control. According to reports, Mr. Wright was at work in Moscow, and Mrs. Wright was visiting at a neighbor's home when the fire started. Their two daughters were also away from the house. A neighbor, Mrs. Ralph Baumgartner first noticed smoke coming from the west side of the house, after apparently trying to contact one of the family she then phoned George Fox, who lives next to the Wright family and told him of the situation. Fox investigated and immediately turned in the alarm. Members of the Fire Department were on the scene minutes after the alarm sounded, but the fire had already turned the front room and a small entrance way into an inferno. From the front room the blaze leaped into the ceiling and up into the attic. The house is covered with asbestos siding and the roof was covered with aluminum making it difficult to reach the blaze once it had established itself in the upstairs. Before the fire was extinguished severe damage from smoke, fire, and water was inflicted on almost all portions of the home.

First Grain Of Season

Barley, wheat and peas are now being delivered to Genesee Union Elevator. The first grain of the local business said this week, Maurice Bruegeman delivered the first barley of the season to the West End elevators Thursday, July 26, Durbin waters on the scene minutes after the Thorencreek area between Genesee and Moscow. The barley was reported to be of good quality. A small amount of wheat has come into the East end warehouse. This came in July 26 from the Burford Rogers farm down on Central grade.

Barley deliveries are being taken at regular intervals this week although the peak of the season is not yet here. Wheat and peas are expected to be coming in regularly within the next week or 10 days. The hot weather which settled over the area for the past two weeks has hastened the ripening of almost all of the crops in the Palouse country. Warm temperatures are still being felt over the area although this week has not been quite as warm as last week was. Several days this week the skies were overcast during the evening and thunder and lightning were heard and seen in the skies, but little or no moisture fell.

UNDERWATER SWIMMING CAN BE DEADLY SPORT

'MYSTERY DROWNING'—where the victim was a good swimmer in excellent health—can occur when the breath is held too long under water, according to a study by the University of Rochester School of Medicine.

When the body's store of carbon dioxide is reduced, the report states, the urge to breathe is delayed, the body's supply of oxygen becomes insufficient and consciousness fades. The swimmer may pass out so quickly that other persons present may not realize he's in trouble until it's too late.

SUN POWERED emergency call boxes soon will be summoning help to accident victims or stalled cars along Los Angeles freeways. Each call box will contain a radio transmitter powered by batteries kept charged by energy from the sun's rays.

In spite of arguments to the contrary, the results of an individual's misdeeds more often than not are a guide for the severity of punishment. For instance, the drunken driver who is arrested before an accident is likely to be dealt with more leniently than is the drunken driver who is involved in an accident.

There have been instances in Idaho where prosecutors have a "policy" of not prosecuting for certain traffic violations unless they result in accidents. In spite of Idaho's rapid increase in head-on fatal collisions this year, the Gem state's one-car crashes continue at about half the total—some 10 per cent greater than the national average.

BY BOMBING a raw beefsteak with cobalt radiation, reports Dr. Royal F. Makens of Michigan Tech, you can sterilize it, place it on a shelf unrefrigerated and it will still be edible a couple of years later.

JAMMING is suggested as an antidote for ubiquitous pocket transistor radios by W. H. Jarvis of Oxford University, England. Jarvis says a tunable oscillator covering long and medium waves will cause little portables in the vicinity to whistle offensively which in turn will cause their owners to shut them off and restore peace and quiet to a noisy neighborhood.

ENFORCEMENT, EDUCATION MUST PLAY A GREATER ROLE IN ACCIDENT PREVENTION

The need for greater emphasis on prevention of traffic accident by enforcement and education is no better exemplified than in the 1962 traffic toll. Well-meaning individuals and the groups who want the law to "crack down on drivers who cause accidents" can scan the list of this year's fatalities which show that more than half of them have been drivers of fatal accident involved vehicles.

Conservation officer Tom M. Killian (left) Pollock, and game biologist Richard C. Norell, Cascade, hold two of eight mountain goats that were released recently near the Seven Devils guard station. The animals, trapped earlier this month at Snow Peak on the North Fork of the Clearwater river, were flown to the Seven Devils and released at a site where mountain goats never lived before. The two kids being held in the picture are somewhat smaller than the average 150-300 pound adult billy.

WHY DO BRAINY CHILDREN FAIL?

HIGH ABILITY "UNDERACHIEVERS"—Bright children whose school work falls far short of their ability are usually the frustrated victims of confused parents and incapable teachers, reports the University of Rochester College of Education. A new University program is aimed at identifying and correcting this type of child in a school located in an upper-middle-class Rochester suburb. Grades 4, 8 and 10 have been designated the "check-point years" during which a group therapy approach will be used in an attempt to change the damaging attitudes of child, parent and teacher.

KEEPING FIT should be fun, especially for those over 30 years of age, according to Dr. Warren S. Gurler of Harvard Medical School. The doctor, a former marathon runner, suggests that exercises such as hiking, cycling, swimming, rowing, mountain climbing and running are excellent for attaining physical fitness. But only if he insists, if they're indulged in for fun and not on a grim-duty basis.

ART AND LITERATURE may be a match made in heaven, but it takes "TASTE" to concentrate on either. The "sand-grain" snails are so small that they are very often not recognized as living creatures, except by experts.

THE CATTLE AND BUFFALO population of the world is estimated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture at 1,000,000,000 head, an increase of 20,000,000 over 1961. World numbers during the same period increased 4 per cent to 483,000,000. A "RADICALLY NEW" experimental cotton-spinning machine, developed by the Department, may open the way toward automating the country's archaic production methods.

HURRIED, HARRIED HOUSEWIVES will reel at the thought of a new electronic range that uses a microwave power source to cook eggs in 22 seconds, cupcakes in 40 seconds, a layer cake in 3 minutes and a 5-pound roast in 30 minutes. Absorption of radio frequency by the food produces the heat to cook it.

Lemhi Supplies Eggs
About 60 female chinook salmon and 50 males, a small fraction of the total spawning run in southern Idaho's Lemhi river, are being held in a special pond until they "rip" and their eggs and sperm can be taken in September.

The fertilized eggs will be air-freighted to north Idaho for planting in the tributaries of the Clearwater river. This shipment totals something like a quarter of a million eggs and represents only about six per cent of the Lemhi production.

Chinook salmon also are being trapped again this year in the main Salmon river near Stanley, South Fork near Warm Lake, and Bear Valley creek at the head of the Middle Fork. About the same number of eggs will be taken at each location.

Chinook salmon runs were destroyed in the Clearwater river drainage when dams were built in the early part of this century. With the recent improvement of ladder facilities, the department is trying to restore the salmon runs. About half the eggs for this project come from sources located on the lower Columbia river.

Insert Trout Promptly
There are many pet nostrums for keeping fish fresh in the field, including ways to keep them cool and dry, but prompt cleaning is paramount.

Here are some suggestions:
Split the fish down the belly from tail to within a quarter inch of the gills.

Insert fingers through the gills and pull. Both gills and entrails thus are removed in one motion.

Clean old dark blood or kidney line along the inside of the backbone.
If fish are washed, dry them inside and out with grass, paper or cloth.

During refrigeration, never place fish in direct contact with either ice or water.
Young Gooslings Transplanted
Although wild geese extend their breeding range naturally as habitat conditions become more suitable for nesting and rearing broods, gosling transplants have been known to speed the process. Thus, the Carey Lake wildlife management area this spring received 22 Canada goose goslings.

HOW TO ATTACK YELLOWJACKETS AT HOME

One of the worst pests at an outdoor barbecue is the yellowjacket. Where they are a real problem, the quickest way to reduce the population is to locate the nest and destroy its occupants, says the August Sunset magazine. Wait until after dark when all the residents are inside and less lively than during the daylight hours. Then, aiming the nozzle of a duster or sprayer into the entry, liberally drench with DDT, Chlordane, lindane, dieldrin, or methoxychlor. Carefully plug the entrance with cotton. Remove the cotton in a few days and repeat treatment if there are signs of renewed activity.

Sunset has detailed directions for this means of extermination and also simple trap devices that can often be used successfully to lure yellowjackets away from the eating area.

Six of Idaho's 1962 pedestrian fatalities have been children from three to nine years old. Youngsters sometimes make mistakes. Parents and drivers are responsible for actions that will prevent those mistakes from becoming disasters.

TWO ROUTES OPENED TO WORLD'S FAIR

The filling of two gaps in transcontinental highways in the Pacific Northwest this summer is opening two fine wilderness areas to motorists for the first time.

Both routes will interest Seattle World's Fair visitors looking for a "new way to get there" or for a different route home.

One of the routes is already in use but its official opening and dedication will be on August 19. This is the final gap in the Lewis and Clark Highway—the most difficult section of the two explorers confronted in their 1805 expedition between what is now Missoula, Montana and the twin cities of Lewiston, Ida., and Clarkston, Wn.

This route, the shortest between the cities, is difficult no longer, but the Clearwater and Lolo national forests that it traverses, and the Selway-Kootenai wilderness area it fringes are as beautiful and wild and have almost as few white inhabitants as they did when the Lewis and Clark party and their Nez Perce horses followed it to the Clearwater River, and the Columbia down the Snake and the Colum-

Revelstoke, B. C. For the first time, populous Eastern Canada will be linked with Canada's magnificent Far West on first-class pavement—Highway No. 1—enabling Canadians to cross their own country without detouring through the states.

There are three types of traffic law violators—men, women and children.

CARS CAN'T KILL CONFINED CANINES
By Bob Bartos
Frisbie Researon Kennels

The majority of dogs are not concerned about cars. Take a drive down a small town street on a pleasant summer day and you'll see dogs strolling leisurely down the center of the road. You may even spot a couple stretched out for a sun-bath on a warmed strip of macadam.

As far as the dog's concerned, let the driver move over. Local inhabitants get accustomed to such idiosyncrasies on the part of their canine citizenry and as a rule drive watchfully. Summer tourists, however, may be moving at a brisker clip and may not be able to avoid a strolling or sun-bathing dog.

Patronize Your Local Merchants

Two inebriated fishermen were sitting on a bridge, their lines in the water below. They made a bet as to who would catch the first fish. One got a bite and got so excited he fell off the bridge.

"Oh, well," said the other, "if you are gonna dive for 'em, the bet's off."

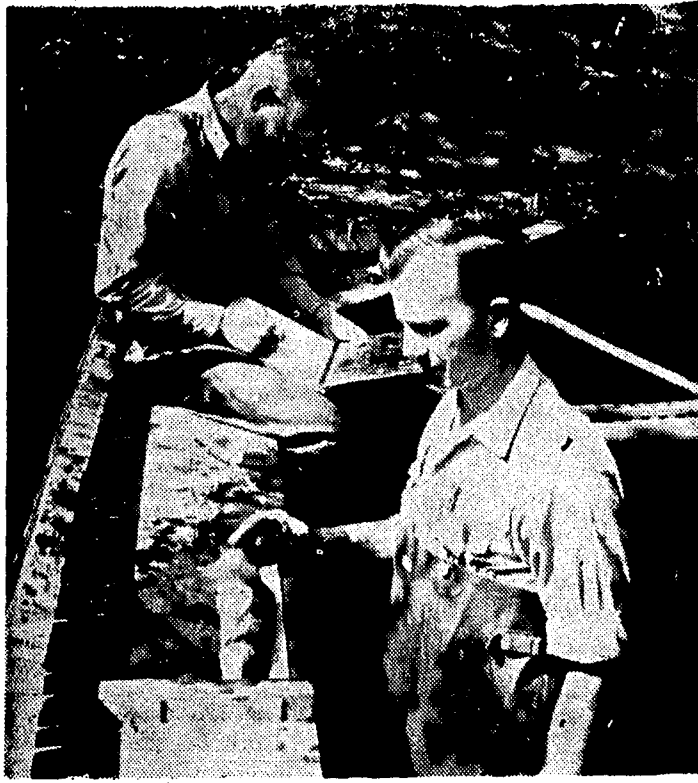

A visiting psychiatrist, wandering through the wards of a state asylum, was particularly intrigued by a patient who sat huddled in a corner all by himself, and scratched himself, for hours on end.

"My good man," the doctor addressed the patient gently, "why do you stay huddled in a corner all by yourself and scratch your self?"

"Because," replied the man wearily, "I'm the only person in the world who knows where I itch."

YOUR Social Security ?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question—

I am a farmer and employ farm hands. I know I should have reported their wages, but I haven't because they refuse to give me their social security numbers and object to having the tax withheld from their wages. What must I do?

Answer—

Report the employee by name and address with the amount of wages paid during the year. Lack of consent of the worker or the worker's failure to furnish a social security account number does not release the employer from his obligation to make a report of the earnings and pay the tax promptly.

School Board Meets Briefly Monday Evening

It was rather late Monday evening before the Board members got out of the fields and to the school for the regular Board meeting, but shortly after 10 p. m. a quorum had been assembled, the regular bills approved, and bus routes and drivers discussed. Gasoline and fuel oil bids were opened. The bus gasoline bid for 9,000 gallons for the 1962-63 school year was awarded to Standard Oil Co., at the price of 22.6c per gallon. Mobil won the fuel oil award for 1962-63 with a bid of 13.58 for 3,000 gallons. Some time was spent discussing the school lunch program which went badly in the red last year. An application was made to the State and Federal Lunch Authorities for permission to go on a Class A lunch basis for this year so that we may receive more surplus commodities. Permission has been tentatively granted and the forms were signed up this week. The state inspector will check out program early this year. The decision to sell lunch tickets only by the week with the student being given credit for any days he is ill and absent will give the cooks a better basis on which to prepare lunches without waste. Tickets may be purchased on any Monday for as many weeks in advance as the student wishes. Maintenance work was inspected and custodians Joe Kalafus and Roy Phipps were complimented on the appearance of the buildings and grounds.

Local Sportsmen Enjoy Fishing Trip

By Larry Sorensen
On Friday, July 27, Estil Carbuhn talked me into going on a fishing trip into the wilderness area. He knew where there were several hundred fish, mostly mountain trout there who were waiting to test their skill at evading all the lures and bait known to man. I said, I guess the Genesee farming community could get along without my help for a week and agreed to go along. Being one who does not possess much skill as a fisherman, I decided to take my camera along and do a little shutter bugging.

In common with the other schools of the county, the teachers' meetings will be held Friday, August 31st, and the first full day of school will be Tuesday, September 4th.

Saturday morning came around and at 5 a. m. I pulled myself from bed and awakened my son Jim from a very sound sleep to begin loading the horses and mules. There were to be three horses, five mules, and two trucks on the trip. We then began the trip to Boulder Creek Flats. This trip was without special incident and all of the stock was packed and all went well. I did want to get a photo of the stock crossing the new bridge of the Forest Service had just finished on the Lochsa River. It was here I learned that I would be riding a green-broke colt that was taking his first trip to the wilderness area. His name was George, and after a few kind words I persuaded George he would pack my camera and any other equipment I might wish to use on the trip. About the time I was aiming at the bridge, George ran into me, and I'm not sure what I took; but I was lucky to save the camera.

Merchants Will Probe Swimming Pool Possibility

At the regular meeting of the Genesee Merchants Association held Wednesday afternoon at the Genesee Cafe it was decided to appoint another committee to again investigate the possibility of building a swimming pool in Genesee. This pool project has been discussed many times in the past few years, but nothing has definitely come of it.

My son, Jim, taking his first trip was placed on Old Sugar, who did not want to leave home, as she would bawl all the time we were gone. Sugar is a light buckskin and a very good pack animal.

Another topic for discussion at the Merchants meeting was the lack of adequate housing in Genesee, especially for teachers and their families. This matter will also be considered more fully in coming months.

Estil Carbuhn, who was recently chosen "Grassman of the Year, for Latah Co.," and Bill Magee, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Magee, were there to round out the party.

Transformers Awaited At Ball Park

With virtually all the wiring at the ball park completed, volunteer workers are awaiting the installation of transformers by the WWP Co. When the transformers are installed and wiring connected, all that will remain will be to sight in the lights so they will give proper coverage on the field. It is hoped that all work will be finished within a two week period and that some of the football games this year can be played at night, under the new lights.

That night we ran into trouble when all the animals in string decided to move out on us, with the exception of one Apalouso stud. After a futile attempt to trace the stock that night, Boon and Bill started out the next morning to track the string down while Jim and I remained at camp to clean up before trying, rather unsuccessfully, to fish the larger of the two lakes. At eleven o'clock we heard one rifle shot, indicating the horses and mules had been recovered.

Mrs. Louis Hall, Children Leave for Israel

Mrs. Louis Hall and children left by plane Friday for Tiberias, Israel where they will join Louis Hall who is employed by the Hanson Construction Co. of Palouse and the Israeli government as a construction foreman on an irrigation project.

After lunch, with all our stock back by now, we packed and headed to Rhoda Creek, about six miles south of Two Lakes. Once at that location, I set up camp and made a few improvements on our kitchen facilities. That night for supper we feasted on beans and about thirty mountain trout, cooked in butter.

Roth Services Held Friday, Aug. 10

Memorial Services were held Friday, August 10, for William D. Roth, published of the Genesee News, who passed away, August 7. The services were officiated by the Rev. Raynor Smith, pastor of Moscow Methodist Church at 10:00 a. m. in Shorts Chapel.

During the afternoon we decided to turn loose two of the horses. It was a poor decision, as it turned out, and I spent until way into the evening and a ride back to camp in darkness before everything was again under control. The horses had decided to take another journey.

Card of Thanks

Even to a newspaper family mere words seem so totally inadequate to express the deep and sincere gratitude which we feel at this time to our friends, neighbors, and business associates for the cards, flowers, food, and many other kindnesses shown us during our bereavement. It is with the greatest sincerity that we say Thank You.

Open House Honors Mr. and Mrs. R. Hampton's Silver Anniversary

Ninety friends and relatives called on Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Hampton at their home, Sunday, August 12, during an open house arranged by their daughter, Mrs. D. F. Scharnhorst and family. The occasion marked the silver anniversary of the Hamptons. The lace covered refreshment table was centered by a three-tiered anniversary cake, baked and beautifully decorated by Mrs. Everett Robinson. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. James Cameron, Lewiston; Mrs. Don Jain, Bovill, and Mrs. Victor Danielson, Mrs. Walter Gehrke, and Mrs. Belle Isaksen, all of Genesee. Those pouring during the afternoon were Mrs. Wayne Hampton, Mrs. Adrian Nelson, Genesee, and Mrs. Gladys Hamil, of Lewiston. In charge of the punch were Mrs. Elvon Hampton, Mrs. Estil Carbuhn, Genesee, and Mrs. Norma Smith, Asotin, Wash. Robert, James, and Bruce Scharnhorst, grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Hampton, were in charge of the guest book.

The gift table was centered with a miniature creel, decorated with foil and flanked by silver candles. Flowers were from Mrs. Willard Sampson, Lewiston; Mrs. Ellis Odberg, Jr., and Mrs. Al Zenger, with Mrs. Adrian Nelson preparing Mrs. Hampton's corsage and Mr. Hampton's boutonniere.

Assisting the Scharnhorsts during the afternoon were Mrs. Wm. Mervyn, Mrs. Thomas Boyd, Christine Hermann, Mrs. Everett Robinson, and Mrs. Ellis Odberg, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Apperson, who came from St. Maries for the open-house, remained overnight.

Tomer Butte Barracks Met In Genesee Tuesday

Tomer Butte Barracks and Auxiliary met at the American Legion Hall in Genesee on Tuesday night for a potluck dinner and meeting. Fourteen men and women enjoyed the dinner. Commander Alex Sprouse, Dist. 2 reported on his trip to South Idaho last week, the picnic held at Laird Park for Districts 1 and 2, and the meeting at Kamiah last Sunday.

Department President of the Ladies Auxiliary for Idaho Ruth Sprouse reported on the meetings she attended while in South Idaho, and her visit to the Auxiliary at Kamiah on Sunday. She reported on the boxes of clothing taken to the Idaho Soldier's Home, in Boise.

Two large rolls of carpet rags were presented to the Auxiliary for their project for the Veterans Hospital in Boise. A report was given on the amount of clothing for the Idaho Soldiers Home, valued at $75.00.

Delegates were elected for the meeting in Boise for the National Convention in September, and Pres. Ruth Sprouse has indicated that she plans to attend.

Mrs. Miriam Vandenburg was appointed as Historian and Mrs. Grace Hooper was appointed as Patriotic Instructor for the remainder of the year.

Mrs. Lottie Taylor was welcomed as a new member and was given the obligation by President of the Aux. Nellie Handlin.

A joint memorial service was held for Harry E. Emerson, John L. Paine of the Barracks, and Gisela Rose Meyer of the Auxiliary. Taking part in the ceremony was Commander Roy Handlin, Clarence Corrin, and Forrest White for the Barracks, and President Nellie Handlin, Secretary Ruth Sprouse, and Hester Corrin, Chaplain pro-tem, for the auxiliary. The next meeting of the Barracks and Auxiliary will be held in Moscow September 4th.

Wilson Esser Winner In Tire Co. Contest

The Genesee Service Station and The Gates Rubber Co., have announced a winner in The Gates Tire Jam-boree national contest.

Wilson Esser won a six-transistor radio.

There were 77,000 contestants who vied for the more than 1,000 prizes in the Gates contest. The winners were decided by a drawing set up by The Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation in Chicago.

The grand prize, a Corvair sport coupe, was won by Jose L. Felan, San Antonio, Texas.

Injured Girl Recovered

Janice Ray Zintek, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zintek, now of Great Falls, Montana, who was injured when she fell out of a pickup truck on the Lewis & Clark Highway June 10, has now fully recovered, according to word received by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Zintek, Lewiston. The child suffered a concussion in the accident and was unconscious 10 days.

Mrs. Zintek will be remembered by many here as the former Janet Flomer.

Greg Linehan Returns From AIC Meeting In Ohio

Gregory Linehan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Linehan returned home Monday morning from Columbus, Ohio, where he attended the 34th annual session of the American Institute of Cooperation held August 5-8 at Ohio State University. Greg's trip was sponsored by the Idaho Cooperative Council and the Genesee Union Warehouse Co.

Greg left Genesee, August 2, traveling by bus to Boise where he joined the other 20 delegates from Idaho. Continuing by bus, the group traveled to Columbus by way of Salt Lake City, Denver, Kansas City, St. Louis and Indianapolis. The return trip featured a stop in Chicago with time for sightseeing. The group also traveled through Des Moines and Omaha.

At Columbus, the group joined some 1,000 rural youth from all parts of the United States and Canada. They met in general sessions with adult co-op leaders and took part in youth sessions that ran concurrently during the meeting. Speakers, representing co-ops in all parts of the nation, predicted changes in marketing of farm products, in farm technology and in consumer demand. Men like D. W. Brooks, general manager of the Cotton Producers Association, Atlanta, Ga., challenged the young farmers to prepare themselves for co-op leadership in the future. Darryl Eastwood, National FFA Vice President-Central Region, was chairman of the Aug. 3, general session. Darryl was a special guest at the Parent-Son FFA banquet held in Genesee last spring. The well-planned program also included a number of panel discussions and a tour of various Ohio farms and grain elevators.

Gregory served as a panelist for one of the discussion groups. The topic considered by his panel was "Youth and Co-operatives in My Community."

Greg won the trip in a co-operative contest sponsored by the Idaho Co-operative Council last spring. He represented the Northern District of the Idaho Future Farmers of America.

Mrs. Ella Gilbertson, 68, Passes Away Aug. 14

Mrs. Ella Francisca Gilbertson, 68, of Genesee, a resident of the Palouse county since 1904, passed away Tuesday morning at 6:25 at Gritman Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient since Sunday. Cause of death was listed as a stroke.

She had been in ill health for about eight months.

Mrs. Gilbertson was born January 18, 1894 at Truman, Minnesota. When she was a child she moved with her parents to Wisconsin where they lived until moving to Moscow in 1904. A year later her family moved to Nezperce where they operated a farm. Two years later they returned to Latah County and the Troy area. In 1910 she moved to Genesee where she has lived ever since.

She married Alfred Gilbertson at Spokane in May, 1924. She is a member of the Lutheran church. Mrs. Gilbertson is survived by her husband at home; one son, LaVerne, Moscow; one daughter, Mrs. Alfreda Stenske, Glendora, Calif., two sisters, Mrs. Kate Hall and Mrs. Emma Hansen, and a brother, William Nebbe, all of Santa Rosa, California, and seven grandchildren.

Bowling Alley Open On Sunday Evenings

Genesee's Legion Bowling Alleys will be open on Sunday evenings at 7:00 p. m. beginning this Sunday, August 19, it was announced by Leland Emmett, manager. Emmett also reminded all league presidents and secretaries that they should begin to think about calling league meetings to determine dates for the starting of the coming bowling season.

Special P. T. A. Meeting Held

A special meeting of the Genesee Public School PTA was held August 8, 1962, in the Home Economics room at 8:00 p. m. President Lois Sahl presided at the meeting.

Various topics to be covered by the PTA in the coming year were discussed. The PTA will prepare a Teachers' Luncheon on August 31. Lillie Hermann is the chairman of the committee to plan this event.

A Projects Committee was created. Its responsibility will be to seek out worthwhile projects for the PTA to sponsor. People to serve on this committee will be appointed at a later date.

The Executive Board will meet again September 10 at 7:00 p. m.

Maintenance Work At Local School

Among the summer maintenance work recently completed at the Genesee public schools was to fix and put on new tar paper, and then put aluminum asbestos coating on the bus barn roofs. Asbestos coating was also placed on all school building roofs, where needed.

Celotex tile was placed on the ceiling in the office at the high school and in the third grade room. The tables in the lunch room were given new surfaces.

Painting was accomplished in the boys and girls locker rooms as well as on the stairwells on each side of the stage in the gym, and on all outside doors, and all playground equipment. All stairs and landings were painted and waxed.

The boiler and firepot in the school heating plant were drained and cleaned, and fire clay and new brick was added to the inside of the firebox. Furnaces and stokers in the lunch building and Home Ec cottage were cleaned and checked.

The gym floor was cleaned and scrubbed with steelwool, as were the stage floors and then refinished. In addition to all of this the usual maintenance work was almost accomplished this summer.

Card Of Thanks

We would like to express our thanks to the members of the Genesee Fire Department, and our friends and neighbors for their help and assistance during and after our recent fire. Your help was greatly appreciated.

Wheat Harvest Underway As Weather Warms

After several days of rain and wet weather last week, the 1962 harvest appeared to be getting underway in the Genesee area this week. The weather began clearing late last week and when the sun finally returned, it shone down out of a clear, cloudless sky. Temperatures around Genesee moved up into the nineties, and Lewiston reported the year's high of 103 on Tuesday.

Wheat started coming into local warehouses on July 30, when the Genesee Union took delivery from Buford Rogers, Zenger Bros. and Stanton Becker. Since that time the wheat has been delivered in increasing quantities and now is starting to be cut between Genesee and Moscow.

The harvest of fall barley is nearly completed as is the pea harvest.

According to Forrest Durbin, manager of Genesee Union, all of the wheat brought into the warehouse thus far has tested number 1 quality.

Reports coming in on the new Gaines wheat have been encouraging and one report said that a field of the new variety at the Lew Jain ranch yielded over 100 bushels to the acre.

Harvest Well Underway On Pacific NW Crop

Spokane—Harvest is well underway on Pacific Northwest grain crops and a situation has developed that makes 1962 different from other years in the last decade. "We're not surprised," Merrill D. Sather, executive secretary of the Pacific Northwest Grain Dealers Association said today, "but in the Pacific Northwest we have a surplus of storage space."

Sather explained that in the decade of the 50's grain dealers in Washington, Oregon, and Idaho built new and replaced decrepit storage facilities at an unusual pace in order to keep up with the growing production of grains in the region.

"New higher yielding varieties, more use of fertilizer, and better management practices all contributed to bigger crops," Sather said.

"Acreage control programs of the Federal government imposed in the last half of the decade did very little to stem the tide. Increased exports encouraged by programs such as that carried on in the Far East by Western Wheat Associates did help in recent years, but big crops at harvest time and a longer marketing period meant more storage had to be provided by the grain dealer."

Sather said the country elevators of the region now have about 195,000,000 bushels of storage capacity; terminals have 105,000,000 and on-farm storage accounts for more than 80,000,000.

On July 1 there was 30,062,000 bu. of wheat in storage, the lowest carry over since 1952 and only a third of the average of the previous five years.

"Actually only 2,651,000 bushels was in interior mills and country elevators," Sather said. "That's about the same amount of wheat grown in Franklin county, Washington, or Sherman county, Oregon, or Nezperce county, Idaho in 1961."

Production was down in the Pacific Northwest last year—even lower than was anticipated by the acreage cut-backs. Adverse growing weather and stem rust took a heavy toll in 1961 and there was a carryover 35 per cent below average on July 1, 1961.

"But this year's crop looks good in most areas. We'll probably better the 88,000,000 bushel crop predicted in the last crop report."

New Arrivals . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith are the parents of a girl born Saturday, August 4, in Clarkston, Washington. Given the name Barbara Lynn, the new daughter weighs 7 pounds, and joins two sisters, Cindy and Susan. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stricker are the maternal grandparents.

Dr. Spechko on Vacation

Beginning Friday, August 17, Dr. Phillip Spechko, Genesee physician, will be out of his office for ten days while he and his family are on vacation.

During the doctor's absence the office will be open and a nurse will be on duty.

ON VACATION

Laverne Scharnhorst, manager of Farmers Union Producers in Genesee, is on vacation this week and is helping with harvest work.

A precedent was set in the U. S. Senate Tuesday, August 7, 1962, as Senator Len B. Jordan, Idaho, was sworn into office as the second member of the Jordan Clan in the Senate Chambers. Senator B. Everett Jordan of North Carolina is seen welcoming the Idaho Senator who was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Senator Henry Dworshak. "We can now take our place with the Smiths, Longs, Youngs, and Byrds, who have dominated the 'same name' league here," the North Carolina Senator quipped as he greeted Idaho's Senator Jordan.

OCEANS MAY PROVE HUGE POWER SOURCE

AN ANSWER to the world's fuel problems may lie in the five oceans, according to Princeton University scientists. There is enough deuterium (heavy hydrogen) in the water, they say, to supply the world with power for millions of years, adding that the deuterium contained in one gallon of sea water can produce more energy than hundreds of gallons of gasoline. "But tremendous technical difficulties" must be overcome before this immense power source can be tapped.

"LEMONADE" drunk every morning by backward youngsters at a school in Brighton, England, may be giving them a chance for a normal life. It is the first large-scale test of a drug called dimethylaminoethanol which is mixed in the pleasant-tasting drink. (In America, where it is known as "deaner," doctors claim the drug makes children more relaxed and happier). The British test, several months under way, has given encouraging results so far. . . . A NEEMOON MAP, at a scale of 1 to 1 million, has been issued by the Department of the Interior "to aid moon exploration."

SUGAR is extracted from cane by osmosis in a new process which the developer, Chematron Corporation, says can make conventional mills obsolete. Instead of the usual crushing, the cane is cut into chips and treated in a vertical column to extract the sugar. Advantages claimed include greater yield and purer end product. . . . WATER LOST from reservoirs in the 17 western states by evaporation and consumption by trees and plants is twice the amount used for public supplies in the entire country.

FISH & GAME NEWS

By John R. Woodworth
Fur Trapping Regulations
Because of low beaver pelt prices, the Fish and Game Commission recently lowered the price on trapping tags from $1 to 50 cents each. Department findings show a need to trap beaver in the lower watersheds to close irrigation systems and in complainant areas.
Most fur trapping seasons remain the same as last year. An exception is in the ten northern counties of this state where the season will start two weeks earlier than last year. This means November 1-December 31.
In the Clearwater area beaver season was moved ahead at the recent Bonner Ferry meeting of the Commission. The new dates are December 1-15 instead of February, as in the past. This should help stimulate a greater harvest of beaver pelts.

Fines Bring $2883
July fines resulting from 114 arrests in 32 counties amounted to $2883, half of which remains in the counties where the violations occurred. Some of the charges were for trout overlimits, malicious waste of fish, illegal deer and ducks. Others were for fishing closed waters, chumming, carrying unsealed guns in the field without hunting licenses, wrong class licenses, shooting across public highway, and causing youths to come under the purview of the Youth Rehabilitation Act.
Landholder Sportsman Council
Although the Idaho Landholder Sportsman Council was organized 8 years ago and has given a great service in promoting better relations between hunters and farmers, it will have the privilege of attending my first meeting with that group on Aug. 28, beginning at 1:30 p. m. in the director's office of the Fish and Game Department.

Chas. Calvin Benson, Melba rancher sportsman says the council will plan for the fall hunting seasons now in the offing. This includes a discussion of signs for farmers and their distribution.
He suggests that each representative be prepared to answer questions, based on contacts with farmers and friends as follows:

1. Does the recent opening of the pheasant season help farmers?
2. Is more, or less, farmland being posted against hunting this year?
3. What do farmers think of the Landholder-Sportsman Council's program?
4. What suggestions do you have for your farmer friends who are participating in the council's program?

NOTICE TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS
33-1901 SCHOOL ATTENDANCE COMPULSORY. In all school districts of this State every parent or guardian of any child between the ages of seven and sixteen years shall cause such child to be instructed in reading, writing, spelling, English, grammar, geography, and arithmetic. Every such parent or guardian shall cause such child to attend a public, private or parochial school during a period equal to that portion of each year during which the public schools are in session in such district and shall cause such child to conform to the attendance regulations established by the board of trustees of such school district.

33-1902 EXEMPTION FOR CAUSE. When a duly licensed physician or psychiatrist shall certify in writing that the physical or mental condition of a child is such that it does not permit attendance at school and upon a finding by the board of trustees that the best interests of the child or the school will be served by exempting such child from the provisions of Section 33-1901, then the board of trustees may grant such exemption during the continuance of such disability. A petition for exemption for such cause may be initiated by the child or by its parent or guardian.

The board of trustees may also exempt from the provisions of Section 33-1901, any child who is an habitual truant and whose conduct is, in the judgment of the board of trustees, disruptive of school order and discipline and the instructions of the effectiveness of the school. Before a child shall be exempted for such cause the board of trustees shall notify the parents or guardians of such child and afford them an opportunity to appear and show cause why such exemption should not be granted. Any child exempted for such cause shall be deemed to come under the purview of the youth rehabilitation law and the board of trustees shall notify the probate court of the county in which the child resides.

Christian Science Church Service
Man's dominion over the bondage of materialism will be set forth in Christian Science church services this Sunday.
Selections from the Bible and corrective passages from the Christian Science textbook Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, will comprise the Lesson Sermon entitled "Savior."
The Golden Text is from Exodus 20: "I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt out of the house of bondage. Thou shalt have no other gods before me."
This citation will be read from science and health (p. 14): "Entirely separate from the belief and dream of material living, is the Life divine, revealing spiritual understanding and the consciousness of man's dominion over the whole earth. This understanding casts out error and heals the sick, and with it you can speak 'as one having authority.'"

Cutthroat Trout Cutback

Questions about the reasons why cutthroat trout bag limits are less in some places than for other fish are numerous. Studies show causes ranging from changing water conditions, higher temperatures, more silt, municipal and industrial wastes, and competition from other kinds of fish. They now are found mainly in the high country which remains relatively unchanged by agriculture and industry.

A new regulation, for example, specifies a possession limit of three cutthroat in the Middle Fork of the Salmon river, although other species may be used to bring the total bag to 15 fish or seven pounds and one fish.

Similarly, the trout limit on Palisades reservoir in southeastern Idaho where most fish are cutthroat, is five. The same limit is in effect on Riley creek in Gooding county, and some of the lakes and sloughs on Hagerman refuge.
On the Henrys or North Fork of the Snake river in eastern Idaho, the trout limit is ten fish. Likewise the bag and possession limit of trout in Soldiers Meadow reservoir and Manns Waha and Blue lakes in Nez Perce county; Moose creek reservoir, Robinson lake and Spring Valley reservoir in Latah county; and Elk creek reservoir in Clearwater county is ten fish.

If you are over 65 years of age, you should inquire at your local social security office promptly. Even though you are still working, you may be entitled to some monthly benefits because of the recent change in the social security law.

CAMPUS LANDMARK TO BE PAINTED
That familiar campus landmark at the University of Idaho—the "I" tank is going to be painted.
Unlike the old water tank with a handy ladder which was liberally painted each fall by brush welding students attending classes at rival institutions, this will be the first time the new tank has been painted since its erection in 1953. The 500,000 gallon tank holds the campus water storage. It also doubles as a radio-television tower.
Decor for the tank will remain the same. It will be aluminum overall with large yellow and black "I's" on the sides.
Bids for the job were opened from three painting firms. Hunter and Tate, Pullman, Wash. bid $1,575; Finlow Painting Co., Inc., Spokane, Wn., bid $3,344, and Gore Tank and Steeple Jack Co., Pinole, Calif., $6,490. Bids approval.

Ball Park Lighting Project Complete; Field In Use

After three years of planning, work and waiting, plus an expenditure in money of close to $5200, Genesee has lights at the City Ball Park.

The total expense of $5200 was roughly $500 less than was first estimated.

The ball park lights, which are now controlled by the Ball Park Lighting Committee of the old Genesee Civic Improvement Association, will be turned over to the City of Genesee at the city council meeting next Monday evening, September 3.

After that date the city will be responsible for the lighting project and will be the ones from whom renting the lighted park must be accomplished.

The council will decide what fees must be charged to renters for the use of the lights in order to keep the project on a self-sustaining basis.

The completion of this project will come in time for the upcoming Genesee high school football season and coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg planned a workout for his team under the lights Wednesday night.

In preparation for the football season, city supervisor Bob Jacobs has been sprinkling the football field and the grass and grounds are in excellent condition.

LIMELIGHTERS TO GIVE SPECIAL MATINEE SEPT. 30

The Limelights, a popular offbeat singing-comedy trio, will perform at a special matinee at 3 p. m. Sunday, September 30 at the University of Idaho gymnasium.

It was announced by Gale Mix, associated students general manager.

The Limelights stock in trade is a blend of vocal and instrumental folk music combined with what they call "institutional satire."

Tickets are available at the Student Union, Haddock and Laughlin, and the Music Center in Moscow, and the Student Union at Washington State University.

First Anniversary Of Genesee Hardware Co.

Jud Lee, manager of Genesee Hardware Company, has announced that his firm is currently celebrating the first anniversary of their operation in Genesee. In this line Jud is offering some special savings in school supplies, sporting equipment, and home furnishings.

Wet Weather Delays Harvest; Crops Tops In Quality, Quantity

Harvesting of the 1962 crops in Genesee and the rest of this area were delayed at least three days this week due to rain and damp weather, but clearing skies Thursday morning gave an indication that field work might be able to resume in a short time.

Latah county farmers are reporting one of the best years, cropwise, they have ever experienced. Yields of all crops have, for the most part, been far above that of last year. Farmers who have been growing the new Brevor wheat have been reporting exceptional yields with at least three farmers averaging over 100 bushels to the acre on the new short-stemmed grain. Lew Jain reported 107 bushels per acre and both Ellis Oberg, Jr. and Dave and Don Denler reported over 100 bushels. Yields in Brevor wheat have also been good with some fields averaging 75 bushels per acre.

Growers of barley have also generally had a good year. Forrest Durbin, manager of the Genesee Union Warehouse, reported the quality of Hanna barley was exceptionally good this year.

Durbin estimated that the harvest operations in this area are approximately three-fourths complete and one more week of good weather should see most of the grain in.

The delay in the fields due to poor weather gave workers at the local elevators a chance to continue repairing damage caused by last week's $400,000 fire at the East End buildings. Durbin said the East End can now take in wheat in their flat buildings and repair crews are hurrying installation of pipes and augers so that grain can be moved over into the round storage bins at that location. The manager added that this work will probably be finished within two days or less.

Remodeling Complete At Wilson's

Remodeling and refinishing work was nearly completed this week at the Wilson Drug Store, giving the Gene business house a new and modern interior. The inside of the store was redesigned by C. C. St. Denis, a consultant for pharmaceutical firm of McKesson and Robbins.

A major change in the drug store was the complete departmenting of all sections. New wall fixtures were installed and each section now houses well stocked supplies of medicines, lotions, beauty aids, gifts, gift wrapping supplies, school supplies, jewelry, stationary supplies, and other items generally found in modern drug stores.

The old display racks on the floor have been removed and replaced with large display gondolas and the display cases in the old store have also been removed and replaced with more modern installations.

According to Frank Wilson, owner of the firm, there are still some items to arrive, but for the most part, the refinishing is complete. More supplies for the gift wrapping department are being constantly improved.

One new renovation on the store is the addition of a moving display case and racks which will house a new selection of jewelry for the store.

The prescription department has also been changed and improved. All of the new finishings are in a light brown motif.

Women's Bowling League Begins Sept. 18

The Women's Bowling League met at 8:00 p. m. Tuesday evening at the Legion Hall. Presiding was President Sylvia Post.

The trophy committee report was given by Joan Stout and the prize list was approved. The schedule and rules committees were appointed. Additional committees will be appointed later. The rules to govern the league were set up and the starting date of Sept. 18 was decided upon.

It was announced that two teams are in need of new members. Any woman wishing to bowl league on Tuesday nights, please call Mrs. Wayne Roach, or Mrs. Virgil Post at your local convenience.

The business meeting adjourned and cake and punch were served to the members.

New Arrivals . . . Nilsson

Mr. and Mrs. Jon Nilsson of Lewiston are rejoicing over the arrival of a daughter, Caroline Lee born Thursday morning, August 23 in St. Joseph's hospital, Lewiston. She weighed 6 lbs., 8 oz.

Mother and daughter are reported to be getting along nicely. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Becker and Mr. and Mrs. Powell Nilsson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Elmen of Spokane are the parents of a son born August 16. The new arrival has been named Carl Edward and weighed 4 lbs. 8 oz. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Crieser are the paternal grandparents.

LADIES SOCIETY OF ST. JOHN'S

Articles from The Scope were read and discussed at the Thursday, August 2 meeting of the Ladies Society of St. John's Lutheran church.

Pastor Wm. Bush was in charge of the bible study.

During the short business session that followed, members were reminded to keep in mind the election of officers to be held at the September meeting.

Mrs. Viola Scharnhorst was hostess of the meeting which will be September 6, in the church parlors.

Stores Closed For Labor Day

Local shoppers are reminded that Genesee business firms, including grocery stores, will be closed on Monday, September 3, to observe the annual Labor Day holiday. Fishermen and campers are hoping that weather conditions remain good for this will be the last opportunity to enjoy a three-day vacation for some time.

SEPTEMBER September ushers in the autumn tide Tramping knee-deep in summer's wasted gold; And glory overwhelms the country-side; With rapture more than heart or hand could hold.

And O—the untold happiness it brings; As goldenrod and sumac stalk the land; And through the nodding pines the west wind sings As this month marches in to take command.

174,000 STUDENTS DESPERATELY NEED HOME TRAINING

Two weeks from now some 174,000 children and teen-agers will be attending classes in Idaho's public schools.

All of them will be exposed to traffic from two to four times a day five days a week for the following nine months. Then there's the remaining hours of each week when the exposure almost always exists. There will be millions of printed words and displays along with more millions of spoken words appealing to the driving public to use care when in school zones. That's as it should be. Every precaution must be taken by motorists to safeguard the welfare of others.

The serious responsibility of the parents of 19,000 kids who will be entering school for the first time as well as the families of more thousands of "upper classmen" cannot be overlooked. While it is the duty of all public bodies including the schools, to promote safety habits, it is no less than outright neglect when parents fail to indoctrinate their children in lifesaving measures.

There's the need to instruct them to walk on the left side of the road to face traffic, to walk single file and off the traffic lanes, to cross streets and highways only at designated crossings and to use every precaution available even while they are in marked pedestrian lanes. These youngsters need home counseling, along with school guidance, on how to enter and leave school buses, how to watch for cars and trucks and about the foolhardiness of using highways and streets for playgrounds.

For those high school students who drive and ride in cars to and from school last Thursday night, parental guidance is just as important. During the last school year, 26 school age youngsters and 10 pre-school tots were killed in Idaho traffic accidents. They represent almost two empty classrooms for this year.

It happened 100 YEARS ago

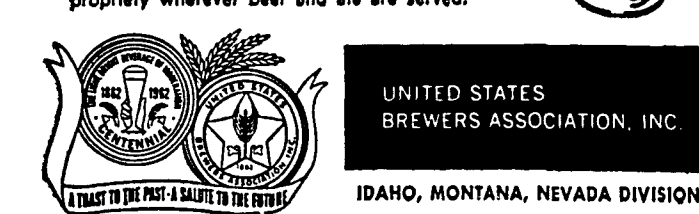

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862 . . . the same year that

IN IDAHO Fort Lapwai, a permanent military post was established as a restraint to Nez Perce Indian unrest. Early settlers and Indian fighters in this period enjoyed beer brought in from breweries on the coast just as Idahoans today continue to find pleasure in beer.

For even then, beer was Idaho's traditional beverage of moderation. Beer still provides enjoyment for visitors and a good living for many of them—not only the employees of the Brewing Industry itself, but also for farmers and other suppliers of the materials brewers use.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

WEEDS MAY HAVE CURATIVE VALUE

Those annoying weeds in your garden might help restore your health some day. A University of Wisconsin professor, Prof. S. Morris Kupchan, believes such weeds can contain medicinal drugs. He has examined a thousand species of weeds from all over the world looking for extracts. A few months ago, the University reports, Professor Kupchan isolated from an Indian plant an agent effective against a type of cancer. The search is on.

A WITCHWEED HUNT is on in the Carolinas. The parasite, discovered in 1956, attacks corn, sugar cane, sorghum, grasses, sedges and some broadleaved plants, advises the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Herbicides are being sprayed on 450,000 acres in North and South Carolina under the state-supported USDA program. ALERT PILOTS could have avoided all 21 midair collisions in the U. S. in 1961 involving general aviation aircraft, says the Federal Aviation Agency. The FAA points out that in every accident one or both pilots had ample opportunity to see the other aircraft and move out of the way. Vigilance, says the FAA, is the most effective preventive.

MOTOR VEHICLE DEATHS in the U. S. averaged 104 a day in 1961, reports the National Safety Council. Traffic accidents killed 38,000 during the year, 1 per cent less than in 1960. There were 20 times as many deaths in 1961 as in 1910, the Council points out, but there were also 100 times as many vehicles, traveling farther and moving faster. SEATTLE EATS ITS CAKE SEATTLE — This city of the great World's Fair, the Space Needle and all that, is having its cake and eating it too. That is, attendance figures have wiped smirks from the faces of skeptics and doubt from the weak-of-heart. A dedicated group, primarily amateurs, promoted the "First World's Fair" to be held in this nation in 23 years, in a far corner of the nation, in a city that ranks only 19th in population; the space-age shopping is already popular; a splendid civic center was created along with the Fair; all of which is a grand cake indeed. When the opening date approached the skeptics—and Fair officials and almost everyone else in the Northwest—were saying, "So now you (or we) really did build a splendid World's Fair. Now how and where are the visitors to be housed?" Ramona Bieleberg of Seattle lodgings would be booked solid almost until the Fair's conclusion on Oct. 21. But the cake-eating fact is that Seattle has been able to accommodate every one of its visitors and obviously will continue to do so. Fair attendance passed the 5 million mark at the end of July, and the daily rate continues above original projections. One cause of the amplitude of commercial lodging is the hospitality and regional pride of Seattleites. It is common to hear of families who have a total of 50 or 60 house guests during the first half of the six-month Fair and are expecting that many during the final half. Sleeping bag sales are at an all-time high, and rentals of cribs and cots go on apogee. Probably the basic solution to the lodging question, however, has been Expo-Lodging. This is a non-profit division of the Fair, operating as a referral agency for visitors who have not made reservations on their own. If you want lodging for any period of the Fair, write or phone Expo-Lodging Service, Seattle 9, Washington. If Expo-Lodging can't find space in a hotel or motel close to the fairground on specific dates, it can refer you to equivalent space in an apartment-hotel, frequently within walking distance of the fair. Many of these apartment-hotels are new buildings. Their initial operation for the six months of the aFair, is on a transient basis. Subsequently they will become conventional apartment-hotels. Heavy bookings into these facilities have taken much of the load from motels and hotels, both of which have space available for most dates of the Fair. Even when the adults are close to the Fair are "tight", there is space in these a few miles from the Fair. Numerous motorists take lodging 20 to 30 miles away and come to the Fair by public transportation. Frequently they are surprised to see vacancy signs on motels as their bus enters Seattle. It is not necessary to write Expo-Lodging, though queries are answered within 24 hours. Attendees at Expo-Lodging booths in 20 Northwestern cities will phone Expo-Lodging booths at the Fair, at no charge, and arrange for the hotel or motel reservations. You can also make immediate reservations at the Expo-Lodging booth at the downtown Seattle monorail terminal, or at Room 104 of the Food Circus Building on the Fairground.

GETTING UNEMPLOYED PEOPLE TO WORK IS GREATEST PROBLEM SAYS RESEARCHER Getting unemployed people back to work is America's greatest need, Carl Bond, area plans and research division of the Area Redevelopment Administration, Washington, D. C., told county leaders attending the area development conference at the University of Idaho. Bond said the programs of the ARA are based on "helping people to help themselves." He added that success must come from the community itself. "We want to know what you want and what you want us to do," he said. "We want to work with you. The emphasis is on the state, county and city level. . . things on a local level have taken on a new perspective." Factors listed in combating unemployment include improved education and retraining, creating and modernizing facilities, new opportunities for production and the creation of the feeling of responsibility on a local level. Bond applauded Idahoans for their energy, but added that in many areas of the county people should "get off their rockers" and work for the success of projects which will furnish employment. "Needed in Idaho are more research and development activities," Bond stressed. He urged Idahoans to take advantage of their opportunities. Panel sessions covering financing tourism and recreation, planning and organizing, public facilities, technical aids and implementation and resource development were held for county groups. Step by step recommendations and suggestions are given in this bulletin for achieving and maintaining high egg quality. Construction details for the cooling room and a suggested layout for an ideal storage-packing-cooler building are given.

The bulletin contains a table summarizing the United States standards for quality of individual shell eggs with specifications for quality factors of shell, air cell, white and yolk of the egg. Still another table enumerates U. S. weight classes for consumer grades for shell eggs.

The importance of correct temperature, correct humidity, frequent gathering, washing, shell treatments with oil or overwraps, and proper marketing is discussed and illustrated with charts and graphs summarizing research on quality factors at a University of Idaho Agricultural Experiment Station. An eight-page guide for production of high quality eggs is also given.

283 Enroll In Public Schools; Grades, High Show Increase

Summer vacation came to an end this week for children in Genesee Public School District 282. Classes were in session all day Tuesday, September 4 in both grade and high school.

From the office of Superintendent F. Schools Paul F. Dempsey, came the report that total enrollment at the public school reached 283. The school enrollment account for 78 pupils and the high school 105. Both of these figures are increases over the numbers attending school last year. Total enrollment on the first day of school in 1961 was 257.

Broken down by grades the numbers are: first, 15; second, 21; third, 26; fourth, 29; fifth, 25; sixth, 23; seventh, 15; and eighth grade, 24. The high school classes number as follows: freshmen, 23; sophomore, 27; junior, 22; and senior, 33.

Superintendent Dempsey stated on Wednesday that 22 of the students in the class rooms were in the Genesee system for the first time.

Fifteen First Graders Fifteen young ladies and gentlemen are beginning their school careers in the class of Mrs. Bob Scholer, the first grade teacher. The youngsters are Linda Airhart, Jeff Boyd, Cleopatra Decio, Jimmy Evans, Leslie Heisteringer, Curtis Hermann, Susan Kostner, Danny Mader, Robin Oelberg, Kim Roberts, Norman Sahl, Pamela Scharnhorst, Charles Scholer, Pamela Spence and Ronald Teigen.

W W I Vets, Auxiliary District Meeting Sept. 9 The veterans and auxiliary members of Tomer Butte Barracks met at the Latah County Grain Growers Hall in Moscow on Tuesday evening with nineteen members present.

Mrs. Roy Handlin, president of the auxiliary, announced the Dist. No. 2 meeting of World War I veterans and auxiliary members to be held in Kootenai on Sept. 9th, in the V. F. W. Hall at 1:00 P. M. Refreshments will be served by Kootenai-Grangeville Auxiliary.

Mrs. Handlin also announced the Dist. No. 1 meeting for veterans and auxiliaries at St. Maries on Sept. 10th with a one o'clock dinner and meeting to follow. The meetings are to be held in the V. F. W. Hall.

Mrs. Eva Wakefield, Americanism chairman, gave an interesting reading on the American Flag and what it stands for in this country.

After the business meetings of the two groups were completed, Mr. Donald Johnson, of Moscow, showed slides of his time in service with the Navy. There were views of Corregidor, Bataan, Manila, Pearl Harbor, Guam, and many other places of interest.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Ruby Omsundson. Mrs. Eva Wakefield, Mrs. Jessa Baugher, and the next meeting of the Barracks will be held in Genesee, Oct. 2nd, in the American Legion Hall at 8 p. m.

Ta Wan Ka Camp Fire Girls Visit Moscow The Ta Wan Ka group of Camp Fire Girls, from the Baumgaertner, Peggy Hermann, Kathy Kanikberg, Brenda Jojans, Carlene Post, Carol Roach, JoAnn Scholer, and Kathy Scholer, accompanied by their leader, spent Thursday afternoon and evening in Genesee.

The girls met with Mrs. Harold Hoffman, who reviewed their rank requirements and after the review the group sang several songs they had learned during the past few months. Afterwards the girls went to the Moscow swimming pool for the balance of the afternoon.

After swimming the group drove to Robinson's. The girls gathered around a bonfire and a ceremony was held at which time each girl was presented her "Wood Gathers Certificate" and the honor beads she had earned during the summer. Included were the ten purple beads which were given for achieving rank.

At the conclusion of the ceremonial the girls enjoyed a weller roast.

The Ta Wan Ka's will now start work toward achieving the rank of Lily Chapter, O. E. S. She will be honored with a luncheon at 12:30 noon next Spring, just prior to the next Council Fire in May.

GHS At Culdesac Friday To Start 1962 Grid Season

Coach Ozzie Kanikberg and his thirty-one man squad of football hopefuls will invade the gridiron camp of the Culdesac Wolves Friday, September 7, to open the Genesee high school football season. Game time is set for 2:00 p. m.

Relating that his reserves may not be too deep for the opening game since several players will not be eligible to play due to inadequate practice sessions, Kanikberg added that as soon as all his squad becomes eligible, he will be able to field two eight-man teams, "of almost equal ability."

Genesee will play two games away, on September 7, and again next Friday at Kendrick, before meeting Troy's Trojan's on the home field.

New Fall Program At Community Church The Genesee Community Church announces that a new Sunday morning schedule will begin Sunday, September 9.

Beginning at 9:30 a. m. there will be a Family Worship service designed principally for the parents of Sunday school children and their families.

The emphasis of the family service will be the importance of, and the strength found in, whole family units worshipping together.

Anyone interested in attending the worship service should contact the church office at 5-3281.

The girls met with Mrs. Harold Hoffman, who reviewed their rank requirements and after the review the group sang several songs they had learned during the past few months.

After swimming the group drove to Robinson's. The girls gathered around a bonfire and a ceremony was held at which time each girl was presented her "Wood Gathers Certificate" and the honor beads she had earned during the summer.

At the conclusion of the ceremonial the girls enjoyed a weller roast.

The Ta Wan Ka's will now start work toward achieving the rank of Lily Chapter, O. E. S. She will be honored with a luncheon at 12:30 noon next Spring, just prior to the next Council Fire in May.

Weather Remains Excellent As Harvest Nears Completion

A prediction of rain for last week-end failed to materialize, and farmers in the Genesee area were able to continue harvest operations without interruption. As a result, harvesting in this area is rapidly nearing completion, and Forrest Durbin, manager of Genesee Union, predicted that this week would see most of the fields harvested.

Daytime temperatures have averaged into the eighties most of this week and only on one occasion earlier in the week did the mercury rise into what could be considered "hot" weather.

Nighttime temperatures continued to be on the cool side with even some reports of frost damage to flower and vegetable gardens coming in. As the farmers hurry to complete the harvest, the Genesee Union reports they will have enough space to handle the remaining grain that will be coming in. Durbin said Thursday morning that the East End is still taking in grain for the square storage bins, but repairs on machinery and structures that would allow grain to be stored in the round concrete bins has not yet been completed.

The East End was severely damaged in a $400,000 fire two weeks ago. The neighboring Kendrick Gazette reported this week that most crops in that area are now "under the roof" or would be by the end of the week. The Gazette reported that this year's crop of beans is probably the smallest in many years, if not in the entire history since they began to be raised in that area—as it is believed that not more than 500 acres will be harvested.

Those in the know, however, says Kenneth Anderson, editor of the weekly Kendrick paper, say that the bean crop will make up in quality for what it lacks in quantity, as the cool, damp weather that preceded harvesting operations, was just what the beans needed for filling and becoming top quality.

The late season held back the local crop of sweet corn, watermelons and cantaloupes, reported the Gazette, and they are now arriving on local markets in generous quantities—with the quality excellent.

Burglars Hit At Farm Homes Thieves struck two Genesee farm homes sometime over the Labor Day weekend and stole approximately $130 worth of cash, as reported by Chief of Police James Watkins.

One hundred dollars in cash was taken from the home of Stanley Green, and approximately thirty dollars was taken from the home of Kenneth Anderson. The victim of the latter burglary was Deputy Sheriff Ed Pierson and Watkins investigated the robberies and are reported to have some suspicions as to who the thieves were.

Watkins arrested Moscow minor and two Moscow juveniles for illegal possession of beer Saturday night in Genesee. The minor posted twenty-five dollars bond and was released. The two juveniles were released that evening to their parents and will be cited into Moscow juvenile court at a later date.

Two out-of-town drivers were also issued citations for stop sign violations Saturday evening. Gasoline Taken Gasoline in the amount of fifty to seventy gallons was taken sometime this week from a tank at the Martin Stout residence here in Genesee. Officer Watkins is investigating the theft.

The teachers had a pleasant hour of "getting acquainted" and an executive meeting at the Home Ec. building. The delicious luncheon was prepared by Mrs. J. P. Hermann, Jr., Mrs. Don Jones and Mrs. Wayne Mauldin. Mrs. Gladys Pittman and Mrs. Clarence Gilje assisted.

The luncheon was presided over by Mrs. J. P. Hermann, Jr. as a cleanup committee. This luncheon was sponsored by the local P. T. A. Our local P. T. A. also had the following room representatives to assist the teachers in the first four grades on the first day of school:

1st grade: Mrs. Homer Scholer, and Mrs. Sanford Evans. 2nd grade: Mrs. Everett Wishard, and Mrs. Ray Stout. 3rd grade: Mrs. Wm. Marlon Bash, and Mrs. Ray Qualey. 4th grade: Mrs. Marion Holben, and Mrs. Merle Roberts.

On Sept. 10 there will be a PTA executive meeting at 9 p. m. at the Home Ec. Room. First regular fall meeting Mon., Sept. 24, 8 p. m.

Farmers Gas Tax Refund Claims Due By October 1 Farmers have until October 1 to file claims for refunds on federal gasoline tax paid between October 1, 1961 and June 30, 1962.

The Internal Revenue Service advises that refunds are allowed only on gas used for farming operations, but not including highway travel.

Claim forms were mailed to all farmers who received refunds last year. Extra ones are available from Internal Revenue offices.

Commercial Storage Of Grain Not Too Expensive Grain stored in commercial warehouses in the United States is costing $800 only 32 cents a month, or $8.4 a year.

Payments for commercial storage amount to only 4-8 percent of the cost of the grain. The warehouseman must return to the government, at any time the government decides, grain of the same quantity and quality that was placed in the warehouse; the cost may be paid by the government.

The responsibilities and risks of grain warehousemen are great, the association says, because grain is a living organism which must be stored in structures with adequate temperature controls and proper equipment for drying, turning, loading-in and loading-out. In addition, the grain must be observed constantly for insect control and rodent control and must be moved to keep it from deterioration. The warehouseman also assumes the risk of loss from shrinkage, fire, and other destruction of the grain.

Since ancient times grain storage has been a normal method of assuring a food and feed supply for the following year, the booklet says. It could be considered "hot" weather. Nighttime temperatures continued to be on the cool side with even some reports of frost damage to flower and vegetable gardens coming in. As the farmers hurry to complete the harvest, the Genesee Union reports they will have enough space to handle the remaining grain that will be coming in. "Shall Section 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Idaho be amended so as to permit Chinese, and persons of Mongolian descent, not born in the United States, to vote, serve as jurors, or hold civil office?"

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S STATEMENT OF PURPOSE
This proposed amendment of the Idaho Constitution is designed to give naturalized Chinese citizens of the United States and other citizens of Mongolian descent, not born in the United States, the right to vote, to serve as jurors, and to hold civil office. Section 3 of Article VI of the Idaho Constitution, as now in effect, disqualifies certain persons from voting, serving as jurors or holding civil office and among those disqualified are "Chinese or persons of Mongolian descent not born in the United States."

"Shall Section 2 of Article 6 of the Constitution of the State of Idaho be amended so as to declare every citizen of the United States, twenty-one years old, who has actually resided in this state for sixty days next preceding the day of election, if registered as required by law, is a qualified elector for the sole purpose of voting for presidential electors?"

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S STATEMENT OF PURPOSE
This proposed amendment of the Idaho Constitution is designed to give all citizens who have actually resided in the State of Idaho for sixty days next preceding the day of election, and who are otherwise qualified, the right to vote for presidential electors. Section 2 of Article VI of the Idaho Constitution, as now in effect, provides that citizens in order to vote, shall have resided in the State of six months next preceding the day of election. The amendment, if approved, would permit those citizens who have resided in the State for only sixty days to vote for presidential electors. The requirement that a citizen shall have been an actual resident for six months next preceding the general election would continue to apply in voting for all other officials.

"Shall the Constitution of the State of Idaho be amended by amending Section 2 of Article V of the Constitution of the State of Idaho to delete the designation of probate courts and courts of Justices of the Peace as constitutional courts, but preserving the designation, as constitutional courts, of a court for the trial of impeachments, a supreme court and district courts, and preserving existing inferior courts until changed by law; to give the legislature the power, by law, to establish courts inferior to the supreme court and prescribe the jurisdiction of same; and to provide that the courts shall constitute a unified and integrated judicial system for administrative and supervision by the Supreme Court; by repealing Section 22 of Article V of the Constitution of the State of Idaho, as amended, to provide that the designation of a probate judge as a constitutional court shall continue until otherwise provided by the legislature, and to provide that a probate or other county judge may be a county officer if provided for by law?"

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S STATEMENT OF PURPOSE
This proposed amendment of the Idaho Constitution is designed to vest in the Legislature of the State of Idaho power to eliminate the probate courts and the courts of justices of the peace as constitutional courts and to provide for the establishment of such inferior courts which shall constitute a unified and integrated judicial system for administrative and supervision by the Supreme Court. Section 2 of Article V of the Idaho Constitution as now in effect provides: "The judicial power of the state shall be vested in a court for the trial of impeachments, a Supreme Court, district courts,

"Shall Section 3 of Article VI of the Constitution of the State of Idaho be amended so as to permit Chinese, and persons of Mongolian descent, not born in the United States, to vote, serve as jurors, or hold civil office?"

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S STATEMENT OF PURPOSE
This proposed amendment of the Idaho Constitution is designed to give naturalized Chinese citizens of the United States and other citizens of Mongolian descent, not born in the United States, the right to vote, to serve as jurors, and to hold civil office. Section 3 of Article VI of the Idaho Constitution, as now in effect, disqualifies certain persons from voting, serving as jurors or holding civil office and among those disqualified are "Chinese or persons of Mongolian descent not born in the United States."

"Shall Section 2 of Article 6 of the Constitution of the State of Idaho be amended so as to declare every citizen of the United States, twenty-one years old, who has actually resided in this state for sixty days next preceding the day of election, if registered as required by law, is a qualified elector for the sole purpose of voting for presidential electors?"

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S STATEMENT OF PURPOSE
This proposed amendment of the Idaho Constitution is designed to give all citizens who have actually resided in the State of Idaho for sixty days next preceding the day of election, and who are otherwise qualified, the right to vote for presidential electors. Section 2 of Article VI of the Idaho Constitution, as now in effect, provides that citizens in order to vote, shall have resided in the State of six months next preceding the day of election. The amendment, if approved, would permit those citizens who have resided in the State for only sixty days to vote for presidential electors. The requirement that a citizen shall have been an actual resident for six months next preceding the general election would continue to apply in voting for all other officials.

WILL SCIENCE FREEZE LIFE?

CRYOLOGY is a new field in which scientists are looking for ways to use cold for various purposes. It is a combination of two sciences—cryogenics (extreme-low-temperature physics) and biology. A breakthrough already achieved is the freezing of cells to preserve them alive as long as possible. It may be possible some day to freeze a human being solid, put him in storage and take him out hundreds of years later to start living again in exactly the same condition as when he entered the deep freeze!

BUTTERFLIES can digest nothing but sugar, says the Smithsonian Institution. All other ingredients necessary for their adult life were stored up during its caterpillar stage. . . MACHING RUBBER is easy when it's frozen solid. This procedure is taken to remove troublesome flashing on rubber or plastic parts after they are taken from the mold, reports Cardox. The flashings are quick-frozen with liquid carbon dioxide (-100 degrees F.) and broken off neatly by tumbling or exposure to high-velocity steel shot.

A NUCLEAR GYROSCOPE under development for the Navy won't have any moving parts. The "magnetic induction gyroscope" will use spinning iron or plastic parts set by a magnetic field. It is expected to be more accurate than the best existing gyros and far easier to make. . . NATURAL GAS DIAMONDS are "grown" for industrial use. The carbon-containing gas passes over seed diamonds and deposits carbon at temperatures of 1800 degrees F.

LENGTH OF TAKEOFF necessary for an airplane increases with the above-sea-level altitude of the airport, according to a report by the Federal Aviation Agency, alarmed by accident reports indicating ignorance of this factor. A small plane which can become airborne after a 1,000-foot run at 1,000-foot above sea level needs 2,000 feet at a 5,000-foot altitude and 3,000 feet of runway at an 8,000-foot altitude. Hotter temperatures also add to the length of takeoff because the density of the air is less, the FAA points out. . . UNTREATED DENTAL MONDS are "grown" for industrial use. The only University School of Dentistry. Only 40 per cent of the population visits the dentist every year. Ninety-five per cent of those who don't should.

THE U. S. CHEMICAL INDUSTRY spends more of its own money on research than any other. In 1961 it invested $800 million in research. . . MARTINI CONNOISSEURS who demand their cocktails super dry will welcome a newly introduced product.

Christian Science Church Service
The indestructible relationship of God and man will be emphasized at Christian Science church services Sunday.

Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon on "Man" include the following verse (Psalm 18): "It is God that girdeth me with strength, and maketh my way perfect."

A citation to be read from Science and Health with Key to Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 1): "The relations of God and man, Principle and idea, are indelible in Science; and Science, therefore, lapse from nor return to the past, but holds the divine order or law, in which God and all that exists are perfect and eternal, and remain unchanged in its history."

Joe Kalafus Named To City Council

Joe Kalafus was appointed to Genesee City Council at a meeting of the group held Monday evening, September 10. Kalafus will replace Clarence W. Abern, who was re-elected in the 1961 city election has moved to Springfield, Oregon and vacated his seat at the council table.

Kalafus, who has been employed in the Genesee public school system many years, will serve as the recreation, and cemetery commissioner, according to Mayor D. F. Chalmers.

Street Closed At School
In other action at the council meeting the group approved a motion to close the street in front of the Genesee public school between the hours of 4:00 a. m. and 4:00 p. m. on school days. This action became effective immediately. This was a safety measure since many of the children play in the street during recess and lunch periods. Signs indicating the change will be placed at appropriate places.

Field-right-of-way signs are also to be placed on East and West streets near St. Mary's School as a safety precaution.

Sixty-Nine Pupils Enrolled At St. Mary's School

Sixty-nine pupils have enrolled in classes at St. Mary's Parochial school for this term. The proper grade will be taught by Sister Mary Gertrude and Sister Mary Colletta will be in charge of the four lower grades. Sister Herman Joseph will be cook and also assist at the school.

GRADE 1: Timothy Becker, Vera Neelinger, Dwayne Kammeier, Barbara Nuxoll.
GRADE 2: Teresa Baumgartner, Eugene Brownbeck, Robert Brown, Ralph Baumgartner, Phillip Schuller, James Hermann, David Kammeier, Joyce Johann.

GRADE 3: Christine Bielenberg, Stanley Green, Gary Hermann, Barbara Kraut, Albert Kohn, Mabel Kuhn, Tim McLean, Jill Morsechek, Cheryl Roach, Lonnie Wright, Kathy Zenger, Ronnie Zenger, Arthur Huffer.

Many Eligible For Social Security Have Not Applied
According to James B. Myers, District Manager, Lewiston, Idaho Social Security Office, more than one million eligible people 65 years of age and older have not yet applied for their social security payments. Many have not applied because they are still working, he said.

However, since last year it has been possible for many older people to collect their full or partial retirement benefits even though they still work.

Under the changed law, those eligible for social security retirement payments may earn up to $1200 a year and still receive all benefit checks for the year. If earnings are over $1200, the new rules frequently permit the payment of some social security benefits. The amount payable depends on how much over $1200 a person earns and on the amount he would normally receive from social security each month.

For each $2 of earnings between $1200 and $1700 only $1 of benefit payments is withheld. For earnings above the $1700 bracket, $1 of benefits is withheld for each $1 of earnings.

One example, Myers said, would be a married couple who are both 67 years old, fully retired, and eligible for $1800 a year in social security benefits. If the husband were still working and earned $2,000 a year, and his wife would be entitled to social security benefits of $1250 for that year under the new rule.

Persons who want to figure out how much they may receive in social security benefits even though they are working, have been invited to visit the social security office, 1118 Main Street, Lewiston, Idaho for more information.

IF I HAD THE WORLD TO GIVE
If I had the world to give you,
It's mountains, it's seas, it's gold;
I'd buy it all at your feet.
It's glory and wealth untold.
I would plant in your heart's rose garden
Love-seeds that would bloom and live
And all this world I'd give you
IF I HAD THE WORLD TO GIVE.

Mrs. Mayme Johann, 85, Passes In California
Mrs. Mayme Phinney Johann, 85, a native of the Culedecas area who had lived the last few years in Colifornia died Tuesday morning at Moorpark, California at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Mary Wintersteen.

Mrs. Johann was born in Culedecas Oct. 17, 1876. She was married to Pete Johann at Genesee about 1910. Mr. Johann was for many years in charge of utilities for the village of Culedecas. He died about 10 years ago.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 Saturday at the Pierce Brothers Mortuary at VanNuys, California.

Ball Park Light Charges Set
A fee of seven dollars an hour will be made for use of the new ball park lights. It was learned this week. The charge was set by the city council at their meeting last Monday evening. Any persons or group interested in renting the lighted park should contact city supervisor Bob Jacobs.

New lights will get their first official use Friday evening, September 28, when the Genesee football team plays Troy's team. The Genesee ball club had used the lighted field earlier this month for a few practice sessions.

Wm. J. Baumgartner Succumbs Sept. 6
Death came to William J. Baumgartner, age 73, at 3:45 P. M. on Thursday, September 6th. A retired farmer, he had spent almost his entire life in the Genesee area, where he was born on December 23, 1889 on the farm that is now farmed by Frank Kamitsch. When he was 1 year old he moved with his parents to Craig mountain, near Forrest, Idaho to a homestead where he resided until 1898 when the family returned and purchased the farm, southwest of Genesee that has been in the Baumgartner family until this year when it was sold. He married Kathryn Hasfurther on January 21, 1914 at Genesee, Idaho.

She survives at the family home. Other survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Kathryn Springer and Mrs. M. D. Magee of Genesee, and Mrs. Dorothy Bertrand of Bellevue; a son, Charles, of Genesee; two sisters, Mrs. John Klus of Genesee and Mrs. Rosalia Klus of Clarkston, Idaho; a daughter, George, of Genesee; and 13 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mr. Baumgartner was a communicant of St. Mary's Catholic Church here. He was a member of the Genesee Rotary Club, the Genesee Elks Club, the Genesee Masonic Lodge, the Genesee Golf and Country Club, the Genesee Tennis Club, the Genesee Bowling Club, the Genesee Chess Club, the Genesee Bridge Club, the Genesee Lawn Tennis Club, the Genesee Lawn Bowling Club, the Genesee Lawn Tennis Club, the Genesee Lawn Bowling Club, the Genesee Lawn Tennis Club, the Genesee Lawn Bowling Club.

Funeral services will be held at 10:00 a. m. on Friday, September 7, at the Genesee Lutheran Church. Burial will be in the Genesee Lutheran cemetery. Interment in Genesee Catholic cemetery.

Bulldogs Crush Culedecas 46-6 In Grid Season Opener
Genesee's 1962 version of the GHS Bulldogs spotted the Culedecas Wolves a six point lead and then went on to trounce the host team 46-6 in the season opener Friday afternoon. The Bulldogs, last year's mythical state champs in eight-man football showed they had speed and power in their first game of the year. Dave Peterson converted the second TD and the Bulldogs were ahead 33-6 after three quarters.

Bob Barbee ran five yards and Terrence Strickland 12 yards for two Genesee touchdowns in the fourth quarter. Jack Haxton ran over the last conversion. At Kendrick Genesee moves over to the Kendrick Tiger camp Friday for their second game of the season. The first home game will be played September 28 when the Bulldogs meet the Troy Trojans.

Sites Near Genesee Discussed For New Airport Location

Three possible site locations for a new airport will get the attention of the Pullman-Moscow airport study committee when the body convenes sometime within the next two weeks, chairman Allan Miller said this week.

According to Miller, Paul Mann, professor of electrical engineering at University of Idaho and a representative of Moscow's half of the committee, will offer three locations for further investigation.

Two of them, Miller said, are high on ridge tops or hills so that the ends of any runways will not be impeded by trees or structures. One is the slope or ridge north of Hatwai Creek Canyon to U. S. Highway 95 where it swings east towards Genesee. The other is the ridge area south of Uniontown and east of Highway US 95.

A third one is a wide valley flat in the Genesee region. According to Miller, Mann has said that this location has long flat areas with gradual slopes, and would afford longer runways than what exist at the current Pullman-Moscow airport. In this latter location, Miller said, it would be possible to put in alternate approaches.

Miller pointed out that as far as the committee is concerned, alternate runways "appear to be the desirable thing."

Quail, Partridge Hunting Begins Saturday, Sept. 15

Idaho's longest upland game bird seasons on quail and partridges begins Saturday morning September 15. It extends from September 15 through December 9.

The spiritual foundation of true peace and brotherhood will be set forth at Christian Science church services Sunday in a Lesson-Sermon entitled "Substance."

Featural in the Bible selections are a number of passages from the Book of James in cluding these "Who is a wise man and endowed with knowledge among you let him shew out of a good conversation his works with meekness and sharp-talented grouse.

Including all species of quail, some 48,000 birds are taken by scattersmen each year, according to hunter questionnaires sent out by the state of Idaho.

Some Idaho Sportsmen stay with it until the general statewide fishing season ends October 31. Others do both, almost to the point of carrying pole in one hand and shotgun or rifle in the other.

In any case September and October are best months for catching fat, sassy trout that have had all summer to grow big.

The reason we stress visiting the social security office as soon as possible is that our applications are retroactive for only 12 months.

The other day I heard on the radio that people over 65 should visit the social security office even though they were still working.

COMMERCIAL FERTILIZER USE IN IDAHO SHOWS INCREASE

Idaho farmers used nearly 157,000 tons of commercial fertilizer in 1961, an increase of four per cent over 1960. The investment amounted to more than $14 million. Figures compiled by the state department of agriculture were analyzed this week by Charles Painter, director of the University of Idaho's special fertilizer center. "Use of commercial fertilizer continues to rise," he said, "but soil tests listed as dry and 50 per cent more liquid. When compared with 1960 tonnage, the figures show the main difference was an increase in straight nitrogen and liquid nitrogen and a decrease in dry nitrogen and phosphorus carriers. Approximately 31,569 tons of nitrogen were used in 1961, an increase of 2,777 tons. About 20,440 tons of phosphorus were used, a decrease of 2,777 tons. The amount of potash was 645 tons, about the same as 1960. About 21 per cent of the materials contained both nitrogen and phosphorus or the ammonium phosphates. When a man finds to peak within himself, it is useless to seek it elsewhere.—Anonymous.

Local Farm Youth Groups Had Projects At County Fair

Members of the Genesee Chapter of the Future Farmers of America, Genesee Livestock 4-H Club, and Genesee Clovers 4-H Club of Genesee had projects at the Latah County Fair last week, Sept. 14-15, and many of their animals exhibited were on display Friday night at the Latah County Junior Livestock Sale. The sale is sponsored by the Genesee Livestock 4-H or FFA chapter and is a sale of 4-H or FFA animals is not a costly procedure for business firms or individuals. Packers, farmers or other meat companies guarantee a base price for the steer, hog or lamb. They will purchase the animal at a set, usually the regular market price. If the bidding goes over this price per pound, all the person who is doing the supporting has to pay is the difference between the base price and the price the animal is finally sold for. In some instances the amount involved is barely over one dollar. This system gives many people an opportunity to show their support of 4-H or other youth projects and efforts are appreciated by the market.

The station will be open from 8:30 a. m. until 8:00 p. m. during winter time and from 7:30 until 3:00 on Sundays, depending on the volume of trade.

Area Harvest About Complete

Harvest operations in the Genesee area were just about complete this week, only a few farmers still have grain left standing in the fields. This has generally been one of the most successful seasons in many years. After a delay in field work caused by rain last week, the farmers have been able to back in the fields to finish harvest. The grain fall work of plowing and seeding. Weather conditions have been excellent for the past seven days, and it is beginning to look as if "Indian summer" has arrived. Also with the arrival of the good weather has come the annual outbreak of "steel-head fever" that mysterious malady that engulfs the region this time of year. The grass is starting to grow and the WWP dam in increasing numbers. On Wednesday 407 of the ocean-going rainbows went over the dam, and the report is that both the Snake and Clearwater is low and clear.

Don't Expect To Receive Prize Fight On Local TV Cable

A word of warning to local prize fight fans... don't expect to get the Liston-Patterson fight on home TV. Some confusion has resulted about this following a series of advertisements in the Lewiston newspaper. The ads stated that cable customers will be able to get the fight on channel Two. This is a special arrangement and it will not affect local television cable service. If you want to see the fight Tuesday you can go to Spokane and view it on theatre TV, or search around in Lewiston and find a friend who is on the cable.

New Park Lights Get First Use Friday, September 21 As GHS Grid Team Meets Troy

Riding the crest of a two-game winning streak, Coach Ozzie Kanikberg and his GHS football team prepare for their first home stand of the current grid season by hosting the Troy Trojans Friday evening, September 21. This contest will draw more than usual interest among local people since it marks the first time the newly installed lighting system at the local ball field will be put to use. Game time has been set for 7:30 p. m. Admission is fifty cents for adults and twenty-five cents for children. Kanikberg reported that a ticket booth will be set up at the crossing opposite the Genesee Service Station and the remaining roads leading to the ball park will be blocked off. "It will be up for this game," was the opinion of Coach Kanikberg as he talked of the Friday night contest. Troy is winless in two starts this season. Both Trojan losses came when they were unable to convert the points after touchdowns. Last Friday night the Troy light dropped a close 20-19 decision to Deary on the Mustang field. Their previous loss to Elk River was equally close. With two heart-breaking scores on their record the Trojans will be desperately trying to get into the win column. Genesee Ramps Over Kendrick Paced by the six touchdowns of hard-driving halfback Larry Vestal, the Genesee Bulldogs won their second straight football game of the season by defeating the Kendrick Trojans 45-16 on the Tiger gridiron Friday.

Worthy Grand Matron Visits

Mrs. Hugh Benfer, of Idaho Falls, worthy grand matron of the Idaho Order of Eastern Stars, made her official visit to Lily Chapter O. E. S. Wednesday last week. COMMERCIAL FERTILIZER USE IN IDAHO SHOWS INCREASE
Idaho farmers used nearly 157,000 tons of commercial fertilizer in 1961, an increase of four per cent over 1960. The investment amounted to more than $14 million.

Figures compiled by the state department of agriculture were analyzed this week by Charles Painter, soils specialist of the University of Idaho extension service.

"Use of commercial fertilizer continues to rise," he said, "but soil tests and plant analyses indicate that many soils need further increases for efficiency in yield and quality of produce. When a balanced soil fertility program is carried on by use of soil tests and application of fertilizer, the farmer's return on dollars invested can be as high as 300 per cent."

The report said that 156,849 tons of commercial fertilizer material registered for use in 1961 was 6,821 tons more than 1960. About 70 per cent were listed as dry and 30 and 30 per cent liquid. When compared with 1960 tonnage, the figures show the main difference, the increase in straight nitrogen liquid materials and a decrease in dry nitrogen and phosphorus carriers.

Approximately 91,859 tons of nitrogen were used in 1961, an increase of about 3,000 tons. About 20,440 tons of phosphorus were used, a decrease of 2,770 tons. The amount of potash was about 21 per cent of the materials and contained both nitrogen and phosphorus or the ammonium phosphates.

WE POINT WITH PRIDE

"It's a pretty dull place, isn't it?" we had a friend remark a short time ago, as we viewed the main street of Genesee on a quiet, sunny afternoon. At a cursory glance, we admit, the town did seem dull; but then this friend did not know Genesee as we know it.

Our friend didn't know that this Friday night Genesee high school's football team will play their first home game under a new lighting system. These lights cost over five thousand dollars and we were several years raising enough money to put them up. . . but we finally reached the goal. The point of pride is that we didn't raise the money by begging for it, or taxing for it, or even asking the government for it. The money came from Community Day activities and most of the work came freely and voluntarily from Genesee people. It couldn't have been done in a dull town.

A number of things we are proud of came almost entirely by individual or family initiative; but like good friends and neighbors always will, we feel pride and happiness in their accomplishments since they reflect on our community. Under this category is the opening of a new, modern service station by Betty and Howard Broemelng. When young people are willing to stake their future on a business in Genesee it speaks well for the town. By the same token, what would a small, dull town do with a modern, up-to-date drug store such as the one we have since Frank Wilson finished the remodeling work at Wilson's Drug. You see, our merchants have faith in Genesee.

And our families? Drive around our streets (some are newly paved, incidentally) and count the number of new homes being built in Genesee. Some are being built by long-time residents, others by newcomers to our community. This is a point of pride we can all share.

Individuals? Surely we all felt pride and pleasure when Miss Lynda Hermann was chosen Queen of the Latah County Fair. And when local people had the talent and ambition to win all those ribbons at the county fair weren't you happy for them? It should even be a source of pride that we have individuals in our town who have the ambition and inclination to seek public office.

Dull? No, friend, Genesee isn't a dull town. Quiet maybe, because people around here don't believe in crowding around the spotlight, but a good many things are accomplished in Genesee and somebody should know about it. . . so we tell them. WR.

THIRTY-SEVEN IDAHO COUNTIES HAVE WEED CONTROL PROGRAMS

Thirty-seven Idaho counties have organized weed control programs and 20 have full-time weed control supervisors, Robert Higgins, University of Idaho extension agronomist, said this week in a summary. The report is based on answers to a questionnaire to county commissioners. Higgins is secretary of the Idaho Noxious Weed Control association. Seven counties have part-time weed supervisors.

"Apparently people are aware of the weed problem and are making real progress in the control effort," Higgins said. "Thirty-six counties report that farmers in general are following good weed control practices." Wild morning glory is the most common noxious weed. Thirty-five counties listed it as a pest. Thirty-four listed Canada thistle. White top and Russian knapweed are found in 30 counties. Quackgrass is noxious in 25. Leafy spurge is listed in 23. Perennial sow thistle and halogeton are listed in 22. Seventeen have puncture vine. Fifteen list blue lettuce and Dalmatian toadflax. About 35 other weeds are declared noxious by one or more counties.

We shall have no better conditions in the future if we are satisfied with all those which we have at present. —Thomas A. Edison

ARCHAEOLOGISTS FIND ANCIENT APARTMENTS THE FIRST SKYSCRAPER CITY of the Americas has been located in the Mexican province of Chiapas by a team of American archaeologists. For reasons unknown, the city fell upon evil days and died out about 1200 A. D., long before the coming of the Spaniards in 1565.

Cow-Calf Meadow County Show Production Trends

By Jim Humbird Idaho Fish and Game Department Coming out of the looming Immanuel turn, the light plane flipped back to normal flying position by making one wing groundward and being a half-roll to maintain altitude. Reversing directions and making a low pass over the narrow meadow.

But who cares about his stomach when there are more elk on the lush green ward below than he ever would have believed possible? This writer, as an observer a couple of weeks ago on a meadow elk productivity count, saw a total of 296 cows and calves on the major meadows of the Chamberlain Basin country east of Moscow. Over 50 at a time were seen grazing the largest meadows.

With Richard C. Norell, Cascade Biologist; William H. Dorris, local conservation officer; and Bill Gregory, commercial "hog" pilot, he initiated the annual aerial count, which was started in 1958. Comparison with other years show appreciable change in the adult: 25 per cent of the total elk was last time over the same count area on almost identical conditions—indicating another production year. Last year's count, for example, totaled 255 elk, 181 were adults and 74 were or 21 per cent. Bulls are dispersed, mainly because they segregate themselves by taking to the ridges at this time of year.

General minor meadows north of Chamberlain Basin were flown on the census in addition to the major meadows. This included Dillinger, White Starlan, Phantom, Hot Spring, and Meadow of Doubt. The meadows are Crane, Hand, and Lower Ramey, Haypress, Whimstock Creek, Root Ranch Meadows, and Upper, Middle and Lower Cottonwood. . . counting involves first flying over the grassy clearing, to spot any, and count the overall number of calves in the herd group. . . of the cows scatter into the meadows that fringe the meadow. . . the calves lie still, necks tucked.

Back to planes and that handy known as the "chopper," the Fish and Game department is taking a closer look and more intelligent look at the wild animals of all Oregon. Observing them in rough always has imposed big problems for biologists, especially in the days of game management. With the aid of helicopters and the biologists and other workers can go almost anywhere and take a good look. Chamberlain Basin calves are born on and in the vicinity of the meadows during May and early June—surrounded by heavy snowpack on the ridges. Since it is no easy job to round up even a newborn elk, it has not been feasible to conduct tagging operations on overgrown calves dispersed in the timbered terrain in July when men can get into the back country. Hence, the mountain meadow elk productivity trend checks are made by counting the number of calves on the ridges at this time of year.

Similar elk trend counts are made yearly in Bear Valley and Soldier Mountain areas. On the Big and Little Wood rivers and the Upper Big Lost river, both elk and deer aerial counts are made. Antelope trend counts are made on Crooked Creek, Birch creek, Lemhi River, Pahsimeroi, Warm Springs, Salmon Falls, Three Creeks, Upper Big Lost, Raft river, and Laidlow Park-Kimama, among others.

Aerial studies in sample areas indicate there are about 2,800 mountain goats in the state. About 40 per cent of these are in the Salmon river watershed and another 30 per cent in the Clearwater river drainage. Other herds are found in the Pioneer range, the South Fork of the Payette and of the mother if she decides to stay and watch the show. Unlike deer, cow elk are belligerent when their youngsters are molested. Some retire to the brush and timber but most remain at the scene, barking furiously. With neck ladders raised, Mamma stomps, lunges and makes other threatening gestures. Department workers learned—painfully—that when a calf is caught, it is sound treatment to hold the infant's mouth closed to prevent loud squealing. This call of distress, a most unusual, penetrating series of tones, invariably brings Mamma on the run.

Other states do attempt to tag a few elk calves every spring. Oregon reports that in the lower Coast Range it takes at least three men to surround a 60-pound calf when it decides to get up and run. At least two men are needed to hold and tag the calf. Over 50 at a time were seen grazing the largest meadows.

upper Boise rivers, along with the Selkirk and Cabinet Gorge ranges of northern Idaho. The value of all this inventory work on big game animals is fundamental to management progress. Everybody knows that there are going to be more hunters just as sure as shooting and greater gun pressure means the herds will be harvested more heavily—at least around the edges.

Even though you are not exceeding the posted speed limit, you may be driving too fast! Remember that it's just as deadly to drive too fast for conditions as it is to drive 70 in a 60 mile zone.

STATE DEPARTMENT GETS BIG TROPHY COLLECTION

The Idaho Fish and Game department is heir to literally hundreds of mounted wildlife specimens, including antelope, elk, mountain goat and deer trophies representing one of the largest collections in the Pacific northwest, it was reported this week.

Commenting on the gift from the estate of the late E. R. Anderson of Coeur d'Alene Director John R. Woodworth expressed "sincere gratitude" because the exhibits can be used to acquaint thousands of Idaho youths in schools and camps with the state's wildlife heritage.

Among items included in the display are six bull elk heads, one cow elk, two white deer, five moose, and five whitetail deer, two antelopes, one fawn and a full mount of a young mountain goat.

Waterfowl specimens include a whistling swan (by special permit),

FISH & GAME NEWS

Salmon Fishing Finale

Salmon fishing for this year is all but over. Most of it ended August 20 with the closing of the Little Salmon river and the South Fork of the Salmon river and its tributaries.

A Canadian ruff-legged hawk, banded for future identification on Victoria Island some 125 miles within the Arctic Circle, migrated roughly 1750 air miles before meeting a natural death near Fairfield in southeastern Idaho.

The hawk was picked up by Henry Geese and ducks. Other bird mounts are grouse, owls, quail and a bald eagle.

Genesee Edges Troy 21-14; Weippe Here Friday Night

Genesee's Bulldogs tried out the park lights Friday evening, September 21 and edged out the visiting Trojans 21-14 in the process. The first straight victory of the season for the local football team. The Bulldogs held scoreless during the first quarter, pushed across on downs in the second stanza and more in the third period before opened up with a passing attack brought them two touchdowns. The crowd on its feet at the end of the game.
Troy kicked off to open the game. Bulldog QB Wade Hillman ran the ball back up to Genesee.

Wounds Serious Injury When Car Leaves Road

Tom Bennett was fortunate to escape serious injury early Wednesday morning when the 1951 Plymouth he was driving left the highway just south of the Jerry Kasper farm. According to reports from the investigating officers, the car left the side of a right curve, traveled yards, then veered back across highway and went 75 feet before striking a bank. The car, owned by Tom Bennett, 21, of Genesee, was driven by his father, H. E. Bennett, 47, of Genesee. The steering wheel was broken through the impact of the car's head.
The car came through the accident with broken nose, chipped teeth, and bruises on both legs below the knees.

Falls Wednesday Night

A period of warm, dry weather on an end Wednesday evening. The rain began to fall around the middle of the night. The temperature had been baking in unseasonably warm temperatures. Farmers to continue with plowing other fall work, but numerous growers were waiting for rain before beginning seeding operations.

Employment Situation In Latah County

During the past week, a total of 30 Latah County residents found jobs through the office of the Idaho State Employment Security Agency. Among the workers placed were a number of tractor operators for area farmers. Other male workers finding jobs were woods workers and sawmill workers, as well as construction and other laborers. Among the female workers placed were secretaries, general office and domestic workers. At the end of the week there were still fifty jobs open for various types of workers. Most of these jobs call for experienced workers.

IDAHO DEER HUNTERS BAG MULEYS OVER WHITETAILS

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish and Game Department
About five mule deer will be bagged in Idaho this fall for each of their whitetail cousins. Just how badly the cards are stacked against the muleys shows up in statewide harvest figures based in last year's hunter questionnaire data. The totals are 60,700 mule deer, and 11,700 whitetails.
These numbers do not hint at any popularity contest or hunter choice between the two species. Both kinds of deer provide good sport and fine table fare. The fact is that Idaho's extensive deer populations are composed mainly of the bouncy, stiff-legged, long-eared muleys.
Gait, tail, ears and antlers distinguish the mule deer from the whitetail, but hunting regulations do not recognize these differences. Anyone with a valid hunting license and a regular deer tag may shoot a mule deer in any area open for general big game hunting. In addition, he may shoot "extra deer" on several kinds of special tags that are honored only in designated management units.
Actually Idaho's two deer species are as different as night and day. Whitetails are crafty beyond belief. By comparison mule deer often can be fooled because they are exceedingly curious. When spooked, whitetails take off in a flash of speed, crashing into the heaviest cover, crawling on their stomachs, if need be, to get away. Mule deer generally stay in the open, sometimes breaking their bounding gait for a second look to see what has bothered them.
Whitetails occur mostly north of the Salmon river, although many are killed below that boundary, and some even have been transplanted by the department as local projects. Mule deer are most plentiful all across the southern half of the state. This species gets its name from the familiar outsize ears.
The whitetail's tail is his characteristic badge. He is adept at flashing signals to other animals with it. Similar to the rest of the coat on the upper side, the white underside of the tail flares up and flags alarm to other deer when the animal is fleeing.
Antlers also separate the whitetails from the muleys. The rack of the mule deer lends in "Y's" or pairs on short stems leading to the main beam. The whitetail has a single beam on each antler from which the smaller branches may arise.
Muleys bounce off stiff-leggedly as they run, striking the ground with all four feet at once. Whitetails lope away.
Either species and both sexes may be taken on regular deer tags anywhere in the state that is open for general hunting. The "extra" deer tag may be used this year in management units 59 (Medicine Lodge) and 64 (Heise), as well as the older multiple-deer areas. These are units 42 and units 75, 76, 76A and 78 in the Caribou-Bear Lake corner of the state.
The new "antlerless" tag may be used only in unit 27 (Middle Fork of the Salmon river) in addition to the "Middle Fork" tag and the regular deer tag. The "antlerless" tag may be used only on deer without antlers but the "Middle Fork" tag and the regular tag may be used on either sex.
Some deer hunting areas, including multiple-deer units 26 and 27, opened along with the early back country elk season September 15. Many of the others begin September 20. Units 13 and 18, where the "Hells Canyon" tag is "good", are among these. Most deer hunting throughout the state will be underway October 6—or October 20 at the latest—depending on the region and local conditions. Refer to the big game map and regulations for details.
Deer have keen eyes, ears and noses. The average gun hunter leaves stalking to the archers, who work under different conditions. Unlike elk, deer return to the same place they were "jumped", especially bucks. They are more active during early morning and evening hours, when they leave their beds or resting places for food and water.
When muleys break from cover before a shot has been fired, a couple of sharp whistles often cause them to stop in their tracks to learn where the sounds came from. Fawns and does break first, while the big bucks slip away, generally in the opposite

TEST SHOWS SEAT BELTS EFFECTIVE

DO SEAT BELTS save lives? In one study, users of the safety devices sustained about 55 per cent fewer severe and fatal injuries than did non users according to the American Medical Association. Belts have been installed in about 4.5 million U. S. autos out of the 70 million in use. But if all car occupants used them, the AMA says in "a conservative estimate," traffic fatalities would be reduced to 5,000 a year. The organization debunks the old theory that it's safer to be thrown clear of a wreck; actually, it says, a person thrown out of a car is five times more likely to be killed than one who remains in it.
BOLL WEEVILS—cotton's No. 1 enemy—may have reached their Waterloo. The Boll Weevil Research Laboratory, State College, Miss., has isolated the substance that makes cotton flower buds appetizing to the pests. Dip a piece of wood in the extract, the researchers say, and the weevil attacks it with great appetite. Next comes ways of utilizing the extract. Mule deer generally stay in the open, sometimes breaking their bounding gait for a second look to see what has bothered them.

Whitetails occur mostly north of the Salmon river, although many are killed below that boundary, and some even have been transplanted by the department as local projects. Mule deer are most plentiful all across the southern half of the state. This species gets its name from the familiar outsize ears.
The whitetail's tail is his characteristic badge. He is adept at flashing signals to other animals with it. Similar to the rest of the coat on the upper side, the white underside of the tail flares up and flags alarm to other deer when the animal is fleeing.
Antlers also separate the whitetails from the muleys. The rack of the mule deer lends in "Y's" or pairs on short stems leading to the main beam. The whitetail has a single beam on each antler from which the smaller branches may arise.
Muleys bounce off stiff-leggedly as they run, striking the ground with all four feet at once. Whitetails lope away.
Either species and both sexes may be taken on regular deer tags anywhere in the state that is open for general hunting. The "extra" deer tag may be used this year in management units 59 (Medicine Lodge) and 64 (Heise), as well as the older multiple-deer areas. These are units 42 and units 75, 76, 76A and 78 in the Caribou-Bear Lake corner of the state.
The new "antlerless" tag may be used only in unit 27 (Middle Fork of the Salmon river) in addition to the "Middle Fork" tag and the regular deer tag. The "antlerless" tag may be used only on deer without antlers but the "Middle Fork" tag and the regular tag may be used on either sex.
Some deer hunting areas, including multiple-deer units 26 and 27, opened along with the early back country elk season September 15. Many of the others begin September 20. Units 13 and 18, where the "Hells Canyon" tag is "good", are among these. Most deer hunting throughout the state will be underway October 6—or October 20 at the latest—depending on the region and local conditions. Refer to the big game map and regulations for details.
Deer have keen eyes, ears and noses. The average gun hunter leaves stalking to the archers, who work under different conditions. Unlike elk, deer return to the same place they were "jumped", especially bucks. They are more active during early morning and evening hours, when they leave their beds or resting places for food and water.
When muleys break from cover before a shot has been fired, a couple of sharp whistles often cause them to stop in their tracks to learn where the sounds came from. Fawns and does break first, while the big bucks slip away, generally in the opposite direction.

In total deer harvest last year, the top five game management units were Hells Canyon (unit 22); Crane-Squaw Butte (32); Boise, (unit 33); Caribou (unit 76); Silver City (unit 40).

Closely following these in order were: Joseph (unit 13); Palouse (unit 8); Juniper mountain (42); South Fork Payette (unit 33) and Kootenai (unit 3). These rankings were made according to the official harvest figures for last year.

Management unit 13 gave up more deer per square mile than any other, and unit 22 (Hells Canyon) did almost as well. Other high-producing areas were Silver City, Boise, South Fork of the Payette river, and Crane Creek-Squaw Butte.
The department again urges all hunters to return hunter cards promptly because these serve as personalized checking stations and provide management information that cannot be obtained in any other way. They also bring to the office day-to-day reports on how the hunting is going all over the state.
In any case, the hunter who moves slowly, thinks a little and looks a lot will have a good chance of bringing home locker meat. Anyone who does not, who tries to outrun deer, will wear himself out for an occasional glimpse of tracks.

GUN SAFETY EMPHASIZED

With the advent of fall hunting seasons and thousands of hunters out more in Idaho's fields and forests, it is timely to remind everyone that care should be taken at all times with firearms.
Safety training programs have been provided to over 60,000 Idaho youngsters in past years and the program is continuing, but the difference between a happy hunting trip and a tragedy still lies with the individual.
National safety groups have adopted the ten rules of gun safety to cover all phases of gun handling in the field—the home—and in cars, camps or boats. Three basic points to remember are:
Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun; always carry a gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle; and, be sure your target before you pull the trigger.

Shows Black Gains Shooting Sport

By Jim Humbird
Idaho's current flap over allowing numerous visitors to domain underscores a trend may elevate bruin as one of the same animals in the state within a much better, of course, for to have the sport of going black bears than to have poaching them around the garbage in forest camps. Thus, the and Game department is living and moving bears from the to more remote areas further in the woods.
The bears apparently don't like moved. One was trapped and recently at Shoshone camp on North Fork of the Coeur d'Alene and taken 20 miles to Jordan and released.
"I took him just two days to return to Shoshone camp."
Signs put up by the Idaho Outdoor Association admonish tourists not to feed the bears—they are game animals and cannot be trusted. Although the animals are accustomed to being around humans and appear lazy and droll, they are not trained, never penned. They are wild.
About one-fifth as many black bear as elk are bagged in Idaho every year, and something like one-twentieth as many bruins as deer, according to department figures. The 1961 totals show nearly 3,000 bears killed, 15,000 elk, and 72,400 deer.
Only the five Panhandle counties of Boundary, Bonner, Kootenai, Benewah, and Shoshone have specific general hunting seasons on black bear. Shoshone county's general deer and elk archery area is closed to bear hunting with firearms during the season for bowmen. All other counties in the state are open for bear hunting the entire year, save for a few local exceptions. How the grizzly bear is protected year-round in all counties because there may be no more than 50 in the entire state. The bag limit is one black bear per year.
In the early days, grizzlies killed buffaloes, elk, deer, cattle and horses for food. Various explorers of the West reported in their journals on the number of grizzlies, including a particularly large concentration in the vicinity of the Great Falls of the Missouri River in Montana. Today an estimated 800 remain in Idaho,

Big Game Areas Open

Several Genesee hunters are planning to make their annual trips to the mountains as additional portions of Idaho open to deer and elk hunting September 29 as seasons allow more hunting around the state.
Fifteen game management units in the northern and central portions of Idaho will open on that date for both deer and elk hunting in addition to the ones which opened in much of the back country September 15.
Official copies of the 1962 Idaho Big Game Seasons and Regulations should be checked by hunters to obtain exact descriptions and hunting season dates before going afield.
Department workers use a powerful new sedative, suocetrin, on troublesome bears and other animals too big to handle by other means. The drug induces sleep deep enough to allow time for tagging and other necessary handling. It is placed in a hypodermic syringe and fired at close range as a dart from a specially designed "cap chum" gun.
The main things for hunters to remember is to never trust a bear. Head shots are risky. The shoulder is about the safest target area. Keep shooting until bruin is down—and stays down.
Department personnel, from the director to all fieldmen over the state, urge more hunters to go after Idaho's famous, though neglected black bears, adding that this renewable resource can provide much more sport than it does. They conclude that it's much better for hunters to bag them than for people to kill them around garbage cans.

IDAHO TOURIST PROMOTION MAKES TRANS-WEST ADVANCE
Puts impact on key points to bring Australian and Pacific Travelers to the Gem State.

Reaching into a worthwhile wealth of travel prospects which has already been opened up by the necessary vouchers within four months after August 31, 1962, the first publication of this notice, to the said executor at the law offices of Felton & Beienberg, 114 East Third, Moscow, Idaho, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate, in Latah County, State of Idaho.

Reaching directly into foreign centers of prospective tourists looks certain to prove profitable on the basis of the Department's successful experience in this field, Miss Shaddock points out.

The Department regularly receives inquiries from abroad, about a hundred a month, and from a variety of foreign lands. In August, which is a low month for all inquiries since the summer travel season is ending, the Department nevertheless received over 80 inquiries from 15 foreign countries.

The list selected, as reported by Louise Shaddock, Secretary of the Department, includes all the strong selling travel organizations which have featured the big national bus lines' offer of "all the travel you can use in the United States for 99 days . . . at only $99." This offer which gives the purchaser for his $99 absolutely unlimited travel by bus during the nearly one-third year life of his ticket, has proved so popular that beginning with the fall travel season of this year the two leading nationwide bus lines now make it available to United States citizens too.

The mailing reaches 204 key travel sales centers and these are all important. This covers Australia, Borneo, China, (free), Hong Kong, Indonesia, Japan, Singapore, New Zealand, Malaya, and numerous important islands.

The big cities of the United Pacific include some of the biggest and richest metropolitan areas of the world, and the names of many travel agencies are quite familiar here, such as the far-flung net work of offices operated by Thomas Cook and Son, American Express Company, Oan-

STEELHEAD EGGS HATCH IN EXPERIMENTAL WORK
Nearly 200,000 eyed steelhead eggs planted in artificial hatching channels of the Clearwater and Lemhi rivers resulted in a 78 per cent hatch on the Red River and 72 per cent on Big Springs creek, the Idaho Fish and Game Department reported this week.

The eggs were eyed up at the Sweetwater station near Lewiston. About 102,000 were planted in Red River and 72 per cent on Big Springs creek, a sidestream of the Lemhi river a few miles below Lewiston.

The young steelhead are expected to remain in the hatching areas for about two years. Eventually they will begin their downstream movement toward the Pacific ocean. At this stage they will be 6-10 inches long.

According to Leon Murphy, fishery development supervisor, most of the fish are expected to stay in the ocean several years before migrating back to spawn in the same waters where they were hatched. A few may come back after only one year in salt water.

Others may stay for three years before starting back on their long journey home to the headwaters of the Clearwater and Lemhi rivers. Old-time fishermen say the Lemhi once had fairly good runs of steelhead trout, and the Clearwater river still has good spawning runs.

It happened 100 YEARS ago
The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862 . . . the same year that

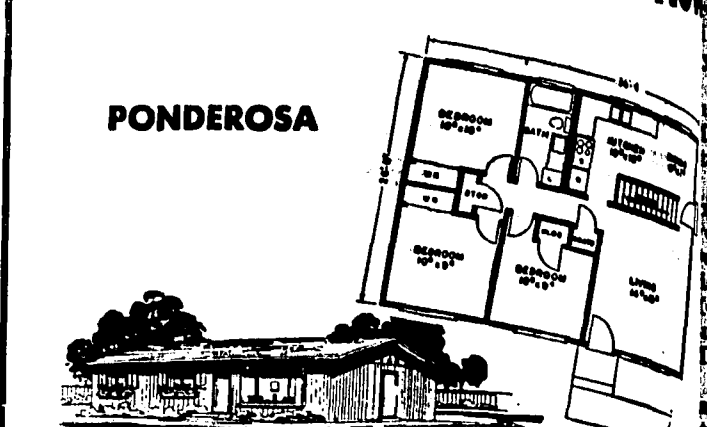

IN IDAHO gold was discovered in the fabulously rich Boise Basin. In the great boom that followed, this area produced more gold than all of Alaska. Breweries, traditionally, became one of the first industries to be built in early mining cities of the West.

For then, as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation. But beer means more than enjoyment to our state. The Brewing Industry contributes more than 114 million tax dollars to Idaho each year — money that helps support our hospitals, schools and highways.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

A Meal That's Different

Everyone will enjoy these "Shrimp Boats" by way of Stuffed Baked "Idaho's" served with Sherried Sweet Spanish Onions, and piping-hot Potato Refrigerator Rolls. Idaho-grown Russet Potatoes and large firm Sweet Spanish onions, stand-bys in everybody's meal planning, are in our markets in abundance and at a price that is kind to budgets. Shrimp Boats: For 6 to 8 servings, bake the desired number of "Idaho's," scrubbed but not oiled, in a 400 to 450 degree F. (hot) oven to make a crisp skin. Test for doneness with a thin skewer so as not to mar the skin. When tender, roll each in mitted hands. Cut top off, lengthwise. Or, if using large "Idaho's," you may wish to cut them in half. Scoop out potato, whip, mash or rice. Prepare cream of shrimp soup according to directions on can of frozen soup, using half as much milk. Add, hot, to mashed potatoes, whipping until light and fluffy. Whip in more hot milk to get desired consistency. Or use light cream instead of the soup and add chopped canned shrimp as desired, saving out a few shrimp for garnishing the tops of the stuffed potatoes. Add salt as needed. Fill each potato shell with the mashed potato mixture. Brush top with melted butter; add a sprinkling of dried Parmesan cheese. Return to hot oven to heat and brown, 10 to 15 minutes. Potatoes may be stuffed in the morning and refrigerated. Sherried Sweet Spanish Onions: for 4 to 5 servings, slice with-out peeling 3 large Sweet Spanish onions. Remove skins, separate into rings. Cook slowly in 1/2 cup butter about 8 minutes or until onions are barely tender. Add carefully with a fork to turn. Season during cooking with 1/2 teaspoon each salt, mono-sodium glutamate, freshly-ground black pepper. Add 1/2 cup sherry wine or cooking sherry. (Remember, the cooking sherry has salt in it.) Cover and cook quickly 2 or 3 minutes. As a change, instead of the sherry you may like to liberally douse the cooked onions with soy sauce. Omit salt in this case.

MIGRATORY FINGERLING TRAPPED, FIN-CLIPPED

Fall chinook salmon are back in the Middle Snake river a little earlier than usual this year and are being trapped and tagged prior to being released either at Weiser or Brownlee reservoir. The Fish and Game department reported today. The big fish are being released at two places, above and below the 55-mile long Brownlee reservoir to learn how successfully the test group can migrate through the slack waters. As many tags as possible will be recovered from the spawned-out fish later this fall. Another part of this story on fall chinook salmon involves trapping fingerlings hatched last spring below Swan Falls. Collections barges on the Snake river at the Weiser bridge are used to catch the downstream migrants. These little fish are counted and one fin is clipped to provide future identification. October is the best time for fall salmon fishing and the most productive areas are between Swan Falls and Marsing. SUCCESSFUL ELK HUNTERS GET OUT OF THE MAIN TRACK

By Jim Humbird Idaho Fish-Game Department Anywhere from 40 per cent to as much as 90 per cent of Idaho's annual elk harvest is taken by hunters on the northcentral ranges, depending on the weather and other factors. About half of the statewide kill is in the Clearwater drainage, and the counties of Clearwater, Idaho, and Shoshone are all big elk production areas. However, all but four of Idaho's 44 counties support elk and there are many places where the herds are underharvested. Some of these are parts of areas where the bulk of the total kill is made. The good harvests from the standpoint of sound management, and those so low that herds and range sometimes are out of balance, often are separated by only a few miles.

The difference a few miles makes is the difference between easily accessible and virtually inaccessible country. Hunting with pack stock is of course the ideal way to go after elk. Such forays include farm and ranch horses as well as animals owned by outfitters who make packing a business. Elk cannot be reduced contrary to their nature to accommodate ill-equipped, inexperienced hunters. It is significant that hunter success for nonresidents averages out at about 48 per cent year after year, while the figure for natives is about 30 per cent or less. Because they are fewer in number, out-of-state hunters never take more than 15 per cent of the total elk harvest, which has been about 10,000 or more the last few years.

Most nonresident hunters employ the services of packers and guides, plan plenty of time for their hunt and get several miles away from back country aircraft landing strips and the ends of jeep trails. It pays off by raising their hunting success ratio. Usually the greatest hunter success is found in the Lochsa, upper Selway and Chamberlain Basin country. These are three contiguous primitive area management units designated on the state hunting map by the numbers 13, 17, and 20. Last year the Lochsa and Selway produced more elk kills per square mile than any place in the state, closely followed by management units 10 and 11 to the north. Other "hot spots" for want-of-better names are management units 15, 16, 19, 21, 26, 27, 43, 44, and 61. Their geographical names in the order listed are: South Fork of the Clearwater; lower Selway; Wind River; Gibbonville, Big Creek, Middle Fork of the Salmon, North and South Soldier Mountain, and Island Park. Other good units are 6, 7, 8, 25, and 30 better known to hunters as lower St. Joe, upper St. Joe, Palouse, South Fork, of the Salmon and Challis. Big Creek and the Middle Fork of the Salmon each yield several hundred elk per season. In addition, they are "multiple deer" areas. Two deer may be taken by hunters using regular and Middle Fork tags in unit 26 and, for the first time this year, three deer may be taken in unit 27 by hunters using the Middle Fork tag, Antlerless tag and regular tag. Combination hunts also can be planned in "multiple deer" areas where elk are also available in units 13, 18, and 22 bordering Hell's Canyon on the middle-snake river. The first named units do not open for big game hunting until September 29th and unit 22 opens October 6.

There is a notable singleness about elk hunters in the back country. Relatively few deer are taken, especially early in the season. They are trophy hunters, shooting a preponderance of bulls to cows. Early season big game hunts in the back country begin an hour before sunrise September 15 in seven management units. These are units 9, 17, 19, 20, 26, 27, and 27A. Other big game units, largely on fringe areas of the regions with earlier openings began September 29. Most of the remainder of the state will be open for general big game hunting by October 6 and October 20, depending on the location. Consult regulation details before going afield. The basic reason for variable seasons is fundamental to game management. To allow hunters to kill elk congregated on winter range would the slaughter, undermining elementary concepts of sportsmanship. By manipulating hunting season regulations and providing access roads, it is possible to tactfully intercept migrant elk herds moving from high summer ranges to winter ranges, thus controlling game populations and fomenting good sportsmanship. Thus statewide migration and movement studies in conjunction with population and range condition investigations are part of intensive game management. The big problem game manager is getting enough hunters into areas where annual populations are out of balance with the range and need heavy cropping. Early season hunting on summer range has more than the obvious advantages over windswept ridges and snow-filled roads. There's more to it even than the orange berries of submountain ash, crimson drupes of salmon, the pines, fir, spruce, and larch. The animals are rutting, and it's hard to beat the mating call of a bull elk for a sheer, spine-tingling thrill up and down the old backbone without using a home-made whistle to imitate the piercing bugle and getting an answer.

Aside from the thrilling part, this characteristic of bulls has a practical hunting aspect. Many nineties use such devices to call elk into shooting range. Bulls actually can be drawn right up to the same clearing by a goal "caller." This hardly is a new development. The American Indians, and possibly more primitive tribes before them, used calls of various kinds to help hunt meat in the pot. They had more time to practice and to learn the habits of all wildlife creatures than sportsmen devote to such a calling today. They almost literally call for their supper, probably strong motivation, probably strong to lure even an oysterman. Whether bulls or cows, moose are ungainly critters with long legs, hump shoulders, and long, hook-noses. Elk are more graceful, clean-cut and should not ever be mistaken for moose. The elk moose is straight, horns rounded rather than flattened, and the buff-colored rump patch is always present. There is no hump. Black Bear Season Although grizzly bears are protected in Idaho at all times, there is a fixed hunting season on black bears in the five panhandle counties and the remainder of the state has open season on this species the year round. About one-fifth as many black bears as elk are taken annually and approximately one-twentieth as many bears as deer are killed each year. This figures out roughly at about 3,000 bears, 15,700 elk, and 72,400 deer. The five northern counties where the bear season is now underway are Boundary, Bonner, Kootenai, Benewah, and Shoshone. The limit is one bear per year per licensed hunter. No big game tag is needed. The north Idaho season is September 1 through November 30, except during the Shoshone county deer and elk archery hunts, September 8-23.

Moose, Elk Differences Every year several moose are killed for elk. Some hunters honestly cannot tell the differences between the two species. Others about first and ask questions or take the consequences, later. This year the department has issued 89 permits for moose in controlled hunts. These permits are allocated to winners at public drawings. A leaflet also has been prepared to show the differences between moose and elk. Some of these are as follows: Whether bulls or cows, moose are ungainly critters with long legs, hump shoulders, and long, hook-noses. These permits are allocated to winners at public drawings. A leaflet also has been prepared to show the differences between moose and elk. Some of these are as follows: Whether bulls or cows, moose are ungainly critters with long legs, hump shoulders, and long, hook-noses. Elk are more graceful, clean-cut and should not ever be mistaken for moose. The elk moose is straight, horns rounded rather than flattened, and the buff-colored rump patch is always present. There is no hump. Black Bear Season Although grizzly bears are protected in Idaho at all times, there is a fixed hunting season on black bears in the five panhandle counties and the remainder of the state has open season on this species the year round. About one-fifth as many black bears as elk are taken annually and approximately one-twentieth as many bears as deer are killed each year. This figures out roughly at about 3,000 bears, 15,700 elk, and 72,400 deer. The five northern counties where the bear season is now underway are Boundary, Bonner, Kootenai, Benewah, and Shoshone. The limit is one bear per year per licensed hunter. No big game tag is needed. The north Idaho season is September 1 through November 30, except during the Shoshone county deer and elk archery hunts, September 8-23.

Moose, Elk Differences Every year several moose are killed for elk. Some hunters honestly cannot tell the differences between the two species. Others about first and ask questions or take the consequences, later. This year the department has issued 89 permits for moose in controlled hunts. These permits are allocated to winners at public drawings. A leaflet also has been prepared to show the differences between moose and elk. NEWS FROM CO. HOME AGENT

If frozen food thaws it is not always necessary to throw it away. It depends on how warm the food gets. If it does not get above ordinary refrigerator temperature — around 40 degrees, then you may consider refreezing it, says home economists of the Department of Agriculture. But the first thing is to be sure it has acceptable odor, color, and texture, says Mrs. Ruth J. Shane, Extension Home Agent for Latah Co. The process of refreezing introduces no hazard, the experts say. If thawed food is safe to eat it is safe to refreeze. A rise in food temperature up to thawing reduces color, flavor, and texture. Refreezing further impairs quality. If the total time is short there may be enough quality left to justify refreezing. No health hazard is involved if temperatures of the food has not risen above 40 degrees. Food-poisoning bacteria do not grow at temperatures below 38 degrees. They grow very slowly between 38 and 45 degrees. Other bacteria can grow slowly at these temperatures. They cause off-odors and off-flavors.

County Home Agent Gives Advice On Cooking Game

If you don't like the wild flavor of venison, trim off the fat. That's a suggestion from Mrs. Ruth J. Shum, Latah County Home Agent. With the opening of the big-game season, hunters are bringing in deer and elk. Housewives are turning their attention to cooking methods that will make the meat taste best. "Game and Cooking Guide" published by the U. of I. Extension service is full of timely and useful suggestions. One tip is about "gamey" taste that some people find objectionable. "Always trim excess fat before cooking." "The wild flavor is concentrated in venison fat. Bacon and salt pork can be used to replace this fat in different ways. Larding is inserting different fats into the lean meat with an ice pick or skewer. Or you can grease the roast or fry since bacon is likely to be dry after cooking. The natural fat of venison softifies easily. Serve it piping hot." "Cooking time depends on the animal's age and condition of the meat. Most people like venison well cooked, but it gets dry and flavorless if it is cooked too much. "To make the best of the less tender cuts, the ideal for minicmeat, meat loaf, and casserole dishes. Deer and elk burgers are a tasty change from the beef variety. They are a fine way to make use of the less tender cuts. The booklet also contains information on cooking duck, pheasant, and fish. There is a section on smoking fish and game. The Guide was compiled in cooperation with the Wildlife and Game Department and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Letter to the Editor—

928 Aecnia Ave.,
Modesto, California
October 2, 1962

Dear Sir:
After almost eight years I was privileged to visit Genesee with my son, Conrad, but more especially privileged to visit my sister, Pauline Steltz.
It was nice to see the many changes and improvements in the town. I was delighted to visit Wilson's Drug Store, a real drug store, and a credit to any town as are other business houses there too.
Before I left for home, my son and I visited the city cemetery where so many loved ones rest. I do not know who is responsible for the care but we were pleased with the cemetery's clean and well kept appearance. This too, is certainly a credit to Genesee.
Through the kindness of Mrs. Ronald Galtz, my sister, my son, and myself were driven over the whole town and were privileged to see the many new homes, some still in the construction stage.
It is my plan to visit Genesee next year.
G-n-e-e-e-e spells home to me.
Very sincerely,
Emma Caldwell,
Mrs. B. B. Caldwell

Reserved License Plate Requests Being Taken Now

County vehicle owners wishing to reserve or request reserved number license plates for 1963 may now apply for their license plates. The deadline for this year is now November 23, 1962. License plates for 1963 will be issued on or about October 31 to return numbers. After that date, license plates will be issued on a first-come, first-served basis. Requests must be accompanied by correct remittance for the vehicle plus 60c mailing fee for each set of plates, also giving year, make, and type, (car, pickup, or truck) of vehicle. Owners requesting plates for more than one of the same type vehicle should designate which number is to go on which vehicle.
The schedule of rates is:
Passenger:
1961, '62, '63.....$17.50
1958 - '60.....$15.00
1955 - '57.....$12.00
1956 - '55.....$10.00
1954 and older.....$ 7.50
Trucks (maximum weight 6,000)
1956 and older.....$10.00
1957 and newer.....$17.50
Numbers requested for trucks over 6,000 weight should be made by personal application at the Assessor's office.
Persons with out-of-state titles wishing to have Idaho license plates should make personal application in the Assessor's office to be informed on the requirements and procedures.

Blue Bird, Campfire Girls Participated In Mothers Tea

Blue Bird and Camp Fire girls and mothers from Genesee attended a Tea on Friday afternoon at West Park School in Moscow.
The TaWaKa group participated in the luncheon game along with Moscow girls who attended day camp. The program was presented by the Fly-Up ceremonies of the 4th grade girls, and scarves were tied on by 6th grade girls.
Cookies were furnished by the 6th grade girls, and punch by the 3rd grade girls.
Attending Sunday's affair from Genesee were: Mrs. Everett Wishard and her blue bird group, Christine Wishard, Nyia Roach, Susan Studer, Teresa Beavart, Romona Seaman, TaWaKa group, Kathy Schooler, Kathy Kanikberg, Carol Roach, Jeanette Baumgartner, Carlene Post, Brenda Phipps, JoAnn Scholer.
Mothers attending were: Mmes. Robert Schooler, Joe Schooler, Wayne Roach, Virgil Post, Roy Phipps, Ralph Baumgartner, and Mrs. Decio.
Genesee Livestock Club
The Genesee Livestock Club held a meeting Wednesday, Oct. 10. The meeting was called to order by Cecelia Erickson, Secretary. Mrs. Billgers, Nezperce, first assistant district director; Mrs. Kenneth Grangeville, second assistant district director; Mrs. Oscar Theissen, Lewiston, secretary for Genesee; and Mrs. Veva Chetwood, Kamiah, corresponding secretary. The officers were installed by Mrs. Sam Quinn, Reubens, past district director.
A standard flower show was held on the life of Mrs. Marshall with the theme "This Is Your Year". Mrs. Walter J. Berger, Lewiston, won the sweepstakes, the triennial award of distinction in the arrangements. The triennial trophy for dried arrangements scored 95 and the award of distinction for live arrangements scoring 93.
Thomas M. Bittle, Clarkston, the sweepstakes in horticulture. Wm. Snyder, Moscow, of the 31, told of his chrysanthemum show at the meetings at the Genesee. He has found 250 satisfactorily in testing 500. He gave on their culture gained from the period and listed varieties approved satisfactorily.
The award of distinction in the arrangements were Mrs. Nicholas Powell, all of Spokane. Winners from Genesee included: Kay Zenger, 1 blue; McFerman, 1 white; Mary Lettenberger, red.
Hope plants: Mrs. Ray Trautman, 2 blue, 1 yellow.
Horticulture or specimens: Bertha Trautman, 2 blue, 1 yellow; Florence Harris, 1 white; Metta Herman, 1 blue, 1 white; David Kuehl, 2 blue, 1 red, 1 white; Norma Woodruff, 1 red.

Weather Turns Cold Rainy

The beautiful Indian Summer weather which prevailed over this area didn't last long and was abruptly ended when cooler temperatures and a chilly rain settled over most of the Inland Empire.
Temperatures dropped into the thirties on several occasions and didn't rise above the low and middle fifties during the day. Moderate to heavy rains have fallen from Sunday on through most of this week.
Most of the farmers have finished up their fall work but the rain and cold have served to hinder the steelhead fishing on the Snake and Clearwater rivers. Several good catches of the ocean-going rainbows were reported over the weekend.
Local hunters are hoping that the weather clears by Saturday so that the first day of pheasant hunting will be good.

Local 4-H Girls Win Blue Ribbons

Four of seven Latah Co. 4-H students who gave demonstrations or illustrated talks in District 4-H competition Saturday at Craigmont were awarded blue ribbons. And 12 of 22 girls from the county competing in the style show received blue ribbons.
The following Genesee girls received blue ribbons:
Style Show: Bettine Outfit: Dorothy Baumgartner. Wearable Woolens: JoAnn Kasper. Evening Elegance: Dawn Hafstuder.
Mrs. Ruth Shane County Home Demonstration agent said there were 62 girls competing in the style show. They were from Nez Perce, Idaho, Clearwater, Lewis, and Latah counties.
MID-COLUMBIA RIVER COUNTS PROMISE BIG STEELHEAD RUN
Idaho fishermen along the lower reaches of the Snake, Clearwater and Salmon rivers already are beginning to catch steelhead trout, the vanguard of a spawning run that is expected to be bigger by far than last year's above average record, the Fish and Game department reported today.
This good news for winter anglers in Idaho comes from reports of fish counting stations at three giant hydroelectric dams. Preliminary forecasts indicate a steelhead run that may break all records since backwaters of the McNary dam flooded in 1957. The run in 1957, ending forever the Indian fishery at that point on the Columbia River.
The steelhead counts at Bonneville dam through September are up 19 per cent over last year—141,978 to 168,322 fish. Even more significant is the count at McNary dam. The gain of 36 per cent over last year represents a counting increase from 108,748 through October, 1961 to 141,169 already this year. Each additional thousand steelhead yet to pass McNary this year will add one more per cent to this increase.
According to the department release, figures available for the first time at the new Ice Harbor dam a few miles above the mouth of the Snake river, show 95,492 steelhead migrating to the headwaters of Snake river streams, as of October 1, 1961. Forest Hauck, coordinator of Basin Investigations says the Ice Harbor steelhead count represents 85 per cent of the McNary count. If allowance is made for migration time between the two dams. He adds, however, that even though all counts for 1961-62 are unofficial they are fairly accurate.
Statistics disclose a tremendous gain in Idaho steelhead during the last few years. Commercial fishing closures in the lower Columbia river, beginning in 1962 for the purpose of protecting chinook salmon runs, directly benefited steelhead as well. Late fall seedlings are best in areas of low annual precipitation. The seed does not decay during the winter, and germination takes place early the next spring so that seedlings can become established before the moisture supply is gone, Samson explains. At least one additional year for growth should then be allowed before livestock are permitted to graze the land.
For best success in reseeded rangelands, a good seedbed preparation is needed. The seed needs a good firm weed-free seedbed, Samson emphasizes.
Today, with good equipment available, good seedbed preparation does not pose the problem it did in previous years.
In low rainfall areas, an excellent grass to plant is the new strain of crested wheatgrass, "Nordan." Siberian wheatgrass is also good.
A new bulletin, "Nordan-Crested Wheatgrass for Idaho," is available from county agricultural agents' offices. The bulletin No. 395, gives the reasons for the new variety's cultural needs, seedling vigor, forage production, grazing management, and seed production.

Walt Moden to Attend Engineer Meeting

Walter L. Moden, Jr. will leave Genesee on October 17 to attend the three-day annual meeting of the Pacific Northwest Section of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers to be held in Spokane, Washington, October 17-20. The theme of the meeting "Engineering for America's Largest Industry - Agriculture" is descriptive of its purpose.
Walt, an employee of the Agricultural Engineering Dept. of the U. of I., has been a member of ASAE for 6 years and will meet with Agricultural Engineers from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and Alaska. PNW membership currently comprises some 350 Agricultural Engineers who are banded together in a professional society dealing with the application of engineering to agriculture in the major fields of building, machinery, rural electrification, soil and water management and crop processing.
The three day gathering of engineers will open Wednesday evening, October 17th at the Davenport Hotel with a registration and social hour. The day will formally open on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock with a general assembly. Wm. H. Knight, Head, Technical Extension Service, Washington Institute of Technology, is chairman of the Pacific Northwest Section of ASAE will preside. During the afternoon recognition of students and the annual business meeting and election of new officers will occur. In the evening the annual banquet and installation of new officers will take place.
On Friday morning four concurrent technical sessions will convene. A tour of Spokane industries is scheduled for Friday afternoon. In the evening Agricultural Engineering students will be attending the R. M. Wade Co. annual Student Member dinner. Later in the evening concurrent technical programs will convene.
Walt is a member of The American Legion and Genesee Fire Dept.

F. H. A. Girls Hold Initiation

On Tuesday evening, October 2nd, seven Freshmen girls were initiated into the F. H. A. members of America. They were: Dorothy Baumgartner, Marcia Erickson, Janet Gilje, Sandra Lettenmaier, Gwen Lewis, Diane Peterson, and Karen Schooler. Entertainment was given by the members of the club with a solo which was sung by Judy Holben, accompanied at the piano by Janen Ensley. Jerri Moser and Kathy Harris gave a demonstration of the popular dance of today which was welcomed by Dr. D. R. Theophilus, University president.
During the two days discussion topics will include state inspectors' duties, elevators, fire hazards, rodents, research, fumigants, vacuum systems, aeration systems, insect identification.
Speakers will come from the Idaho Department of Agriculture and the three land grant colleges.
New Advisor
Mrs. Michael is the new Chapter advisor for the 1962-63 school year. Michelle Mayer was elected Treasurer to fill a vacancy.
Fun Night
On September 27, the annual fun night was held. The F. H. A. members and freshmen girls were invited. Games were played and refreshments were served.
Food Sale
We would like to thank everyone who helped make our food sale of September 22 a success.

Fall to Kill Morning Glory

Morning glory, the ome of farmers and home gardeners alike, can be given a destructive blow in the fall. The right conditions, reports Lambert Erickson, University associate agronomist.
"In irrigated areas, fall treatments work out very satisfactorily. Erickson explains, "So long as the morning glory plant is green and has ample moisture in the root level areas."
The most versatile chemical to use against morning glory is still 2,4-D, according to the University agronomist.
The process for destruction is this: morning glory stored food in its roots in the fall. As 2,4-D is absorbed from the leaves downward, it is moved in the plant's food system. Therefore, the 2,4-D's toxicity is concentrated in the root system where its effectiveness will be the greatest.
The 2,4-D should not be applied to any fall sown crop. The treatment of 2,4-D should be used on spots and areas that will not be planted until relatively late spring. The treatment is best on land which will be planted to beans, corn or plate potatoes next spring. The most efficient rate is 2 pounds of 2,4-D per acre.

Leon Danielson Will Seek Commissioners Post On Non-Partisan, "Write-In" Basis

Leon Danielson, well-known area farmer, announced this week that he will be a non-partisan, "write-in" candidate for County Commissioner from the Second District in the general election to be held Tuesday, November 6.
Danielson conducted a write-in campaign in the June primary election on the Democratic ticket after his petition for candidacy failed to get to the court house in time to file. This was through no fault of Danielson but by a misunderstanding between the County Democratic Chairman and the County Clerk.
In the Primary write-in campaign the Genesee Valley farmer opposed Glenn H. Sanders and was narrowly defeated although he carried the Genesee precinct by a sizeable margin.
Talking to the News this week, Danielson said he had already begun campaigning and will

AUTUMN LEAVES
When autumn leaves return they find me shaken,
Grieving for summer's glory passed and gone;
Leaving within my lonely heart for-saken
A vacancy that lingers on and on.
And yet I know this autumn tide
Will drift away like swallows on the wing;
When autumn leaves have helped me re-visit
The lengthening days that tide me on to SPRING.

ARTHRITIS AFFLICTS 12 MILLION AMERICANS

ARTHRITIS which afflicts 12 million Americans costs the nation two billion dollars a year, according to the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation. The disease, next to respiratory ailments, is the leading cause of absenteeism in industry. Each year arthritis accounts for 165 million lost work days, 9 per cent of the country's lost work time. Its victims lose an average of 15 work days and, as a group, $1,500,000,000 in wages.

HEN-IN-BAG SECTORS EXPANDED THIS YEAR
By Jim Hummer
Idaho Fish-Game Department
Idaho pheasant hunters harvested about 500,000 roosters and 40,000 hens last year. In 1961 it was about the same number of cocks and 26,000 hens. This year is expected to be better than average for ringnecks, with probably more than a half-million roosters and 50,000 hens in the bag.

Thus the Gem State is beginning its third consecutive year of limited hen hunting after a respite that goes back to 1949. That year the counties of Canyon, Gem and Payette were permitted the inclusion of one hen in a bag limit of three pheasants on the last day of the season.

The enlarged area to be opened this year to the hunting of both sexes of pheasants in the season is part of the gradual program to put a portion of surplus hen production in the harvest. This is expected to provide more hunting recreation and allow fuller use of the resource without endangering the essential brood stock. Measurements of the harvest rate are obtained by checking stations and the annual hunter questionnaire.

Hen hunting was sanctioned for the first time in many years by the Fish and Game Commission for 17 southern Idaho counties in the fall of 1956 during the last two days of the season. It was extended last year to include the 5 northernmost counties of the Panhandle. This season all ten northern counties have late-season limited hen hunts, and more southern and eastern counties are included.

A blanket prohibition against hunting pheasants was in effect during the last two days of the season. It was extended last year to include the 5 northernmost counties of the Panhandle. This season all ten northern counties have late-season limited hen hunts, and more southern and eastern counties are included.

Most sportsmen so far seem to be accepting the idea that they are getting more shooting and their families are setting good tables as the result of harvesting some hens that likely would be taken by nature anyway. It is a fact that from 60 to 80 per cent of both sexes of pheasants produced each year do not survive to the following spring. Substantial winter losses are normal. The turnover rate in pheasants as well as other upland game birds is rapid. The average life span of pheasants in the field is less than a year, even in areas where no hunting is allowed. Some birds, of course, live to a ripe old age of four or five.

However, winter mortality is only one of the many ways nature culls out the weaklings in a pheasant flock to keep it healthy and vigorous. Elwood Bizeau, state bird supervisor, sums it up this way:

"Each year at least two-thirds of the pheasant population must die as well as cocks—either from being shot by hunters or from one of the many devices which nature has available to keep numbers in balance with habitat. When hunters take a portion of the surplus off the top in the fall of the year, fewer die later from natural causes.

"These may take the form of mechanical accidents on farms and highways, and predation. But one way or another, the large number of birds in the field in mid-summer will be reduced by next spring to the much smaller number required for breeding purposes. This is nature's way of carrying out the immutable law that all birds and mammals must die at roughly the same rate as they are produced."

Bizeau argues that limited hen hunting in the fall puts to productive use many birds that otherwise would fall to predators, starve or be flattened on highways, never making it to another breeding season.

He adds that this is an application of the biological law of the survival of the fittest. Pheasants have done a good job adapting to their new environment in this country, after having been transplanted from Asia late in the 19th century. And the key to their survival is linked closely to their ability to reproduce. As with most wild creatures, the greater their reproduction, the greater the annual death rate.

Because of the highly polygamous nature of the species—hundreds of 7 or 8 hens are common—and because a given unit of pheasant range will support only a certain number of birds, whether they are cocks or hens it probably always will be good business to keep the breeding season sex ratio weighted toward hens.

Recent studies on population turnover in pheasants have shown that limited hen shooting can be allowed on an established ringneck population in any year without harm to next year's crop.

For example, California opened limited hen hunting in the northern part of that state during the years 1955 through 1957. Intensive studies were conducted before, during and after the period of hen shooting to learn its effect upon the pheasant population.

These studies showed conclusively that the annual hen survival during the three year period before hen hunting began was exactly the same as during the period when the hens were hunted. The annual survival rate on hens was 35 per cent in both cases.

To some pheasant hunters who have been subjected for years to the philosophy that the hen must be completely protected in order to perpetuate pheasants, the return to the practice of limited harvesting of hens may come as a shock. Nevertheless, it is based on sound research.

With limited hen hunting late in the season, the breeding season sex ratio still will be weighted toward hens. And this can be achieved while putting a portion of the hen surplus in the hunters' bag.

Employment Situation in Latah County
Among the men assisted in locating jobs during the past week were a number of farm tractor operators, laborers and a janitor. Women were placed on such jobs as general office clerks, maids, and other domestic work.

Most of the new claims during the past week were from workers temporarily laid off due to weather and road conditions in and around the elk river areas. Many of them are expected to return to work within the next week or so. Even though twelve persons filed new claims during the week, the next increase in the number of workers driving benefits was only two, indicating that ten persons returned to gainful employment during the week. Unemployment continues to be considerably below the figures shown for the corresponding period a year ago, when 117 workers were drawing benefits.

A policeman stopped a driver to tell him that he had no tail light. The motorist got out of his car, took one look at the tail light and said, "I'm sorry, but the policeman assured him his offense was not that bad. Still the motorist appeared shaken by his experience. "There's no tail light," he admitted, "but neither is there a trailer or with my wife and family in it!"

A man from a remote section of the country had found a job for the week on a ranch section gang and was leaving his family. But as he turned to go, his wife shouted: "Come back here, Sam! You haven't cut a stick of wood for the stove and you're going to be gone a whole week!"

"The man turned to his wife very much grieved.

"Honey," he said in a tone of injured innocence, "what's the matter? You've all talk as though I was taking the axe with me."

Bulldogs Win Number 6; Defeat Elk River 28-0

Genesee reignited unchallenged in the Second District. Bill Morscheck added the extra point. Only minutes later the Bulldogs turned in a repeat performance with Vestal packing the ball fifty yards for another touchdown. Larry added the conversion point himself after the first try was called back on a illegal procedure penalty. Genesee led 14-0 at the end of the first quarter. Shortly after the second quarter was under way, Genesee blocked an Elk River punt attempt deep in Genesee territory to set up the next Genesee score. Again it was Vestal who cracked across the goal line and converted to make it 21-0 in favor of Genesee at halftime.

During this second quarter speedy Dave Peterson saved the Bulldogs from a possible Elk River score by hauling down a goal-bound Elk River punt from behind.

Elk River came out strong in the second half and looked like a sure bet to score as they drove down to the Genesee two-yard line before the game was called off.

When Genesee got control of the ball deep in their own territory, Vestal took off on a 95-yard rally for another TD point to have it called back for an infraction of the rules.

Wade Hillman put the game on ice for the Bulldogs in the final quarter with a 65-yard run to make it 27-0 and then Vestal passed to Kyle Bryant for the extra point and the game ended 28-0.

At Pierce Friday Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg and his team pack up and travel to Pierce Friday afternoon to attend the regional gridiron. Pierce, with a 4 win, 2-loss record this season beat Deary last week by a 21-13 score.

John Johnson, 88, Succumbs Oct. 16

John Johnson, 88, who had lived in Genesee since he came to this country in 1911, passed away Tuesday morning at 4:20 at the Lake Side Hospital at Coeur d'Alene.

Mr. Johnson was taken to the hospital Wednesday from the Coeur d'Alene home where he had been living since August.

Mr. Johnson was a long and trusted employee for more than 30 years at the Hampton and Driscoll ranches in Genesee prior to his retirement several years ago.

He was a member of the Lutheran Church.

He is survived by three nieces, Mrs. Oscar Danielson and Mrs. Victor Danielson, both of Genesee; Miss Josephine Hanson, Starbuck, Minn.; five nephews, Jess Johnson, Genesee; and Henry and Edward Hanson, both of Starbuck, Minn.; and a nephew, and Andrea Rann of Gaunepfjord, Norway.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 1:30 p. m. at the Genesee Valley church with Rev. Wm. Bush, pastor of the church, officiating.

Mrs. Martin Stout, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Leon Danielson sang, "At the End of the Road," and "Face to Face."

Palbearers were Elvon Hampton, Fred Hove, Dick Green, Raleigh Hampton, Norman Flameo, and Herman Isakson.

Burial in the Valley cemetery.

Genesee Feels Fringe Of Pacific Coast Storm

Genesee felt only the fringe of the Pacific storm which lashed the Oregon and Washington coast late last week. Rain fell in the area over a four-day period and the moisture was pushed ahead of driving winds which reached game force.

The peak of the storm in this area was reached Thursday night with the wind and rain combining to make travel difficult. The rain continued throughout most of the night and on into Friday morning. The rain and wind subsided Friday afternoon and Saturday.

The school year is well under way with the next event to be the end of the first quarter on November 9th.

Local Sailor Witnesses Storm

Jerry Esser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Esser of this city, who is stationed at a Coast Guard light house near Cape Blanco, Oregon, wrote to his parents telling of the devastating storm which struck the Oregon coast line late last week.

The storm blew in from the Pacific ocean, causing millions of dollars damage and took dozens of lives before it blew itself out further inland.

In his letter the father-in-law reported extensive damage to the light house and adjoining property under the control of his unit. He said they lost 150-foot radio beacon, the roof of the light house and a garage, every window facing a southerly direction and the windshield on the station pickup.

He added that his room at the station was a mess the following morning with glass everywhere, plaster off the walls, and papers and books scattered all over. The station wind gauge broke after the wind reached 120 m. p. h. and the peak of the wind storm was estimated to reach 170 m. p. h.

Damage in the nearby towns was also reported as extensive with two stores blown apart, trailer houses ripped apart, and trees laying across many home roofs.

Genesee Officers Attended State P. T. A. Convention

Mrs. Wallace Sahl, president of the Genesee Chapter of the Parent-Teachers Association and Mrs. Clarence Gilge, secretary of that group, attended the Fifty-seventh Annual Convention of Idaho Congress of Parents and Teachers held October 10-12 at Coeur d'Alene.

The state-wide convention had its general headquarters at the Desert Hotel in Coeur d'Alene and held its meetings at North Idaho Junior College in Pocatello. Registration for this convention totaled 375.

"I believe there is real relation between the homes we have and the civilization we want. Home builders are opposed to gambling in any form in Idaho," the state-wide convention PTA and made a pitch for restoration of moral power, in addressing the Genesee chapter of the PTA.

The Idaho Congress of PTA adopted a platform calling for a sales and use tax, and reiterated long-standing opposition to gambling in any form. The final draft of the plank read: "The Idaho Congress of Parents and Teachers, acting in accordance with a long established policy designed for the protection of children, school, home, school, church and community without reference to partisanship, opposes gambling in any form in Idaho."

The two young sportsmen left home Sunday night without their parents' knowledge or permission, carrying with them their 22 rifles and some supplies. According to their story, they made their way out in the country along the Pine Grove road, hiding in ditches when vehicles passed and not to be observed. They reportedly spent the night in a barn before reaching their objective which was the Polatch Canyon just below the Bob Barbee ranch.

Once their absence was noted at home, the parents began an unsuccessful search for the boys. They first notified the Latah County Sheriff and then later the day reported the trouble to Genesee Police Chief James Watkins who organized a search party. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bauer and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Adams, Lewiston; Devey Moser, Mrs. Thompson, and Watkins. The boys were located Monday afternoon by the party and returned to their homes.

Hunters Hunted, Located, Returned

A youthful and unauthorized hunting expedition came to an abrupt end Monday afternoon for Robert and Michael Thompson, ages 15 and 14, respectively. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Thompson, Genesee.

CATTLE GRUBS SHOULD BE CONTROLLED NOW

Cattle grubs that will cause loss of weight and unmarketable hides next year, should be controlled now. It is time to treat cattle with a systemic insecticide, reports Leonard Burns, Latah County Agent. To effectively control cattle grubs, it is recommended that cattlemen apply one of the three commercially available systems within the next month.

To obtain the best possible results, cattlemen should follow the manufacturer's recommendations as printed on the insecticide container.

Co-Ral, a product of Chemagro Corporation, and Reulene, a product of Dow Chemical Co. can be used as a spray or in dipping vat. In stronger solutions both can be applied by the Back Line Pour-on method.

Another effective systemic insecticide is Trolene (fenitrothion), a product of Dow Chemical Co., which can be added to the animal's food.

"The most important duty of a farmer of a democratic government is to be a citizen of the United States."

Self-employed farmers who have reached retirement age and expect to have low earnings this year because of poor crops, etc., should visit the nearest social security office for information about social security benefits available to them while still operating the farm.

Men of great genius and large heart sow the seeds of a new degree of progress in the world, but they bear fruit only after many years.

STEELHEAD FISHING GOOD AS GENERAL SEASON ENDS

Steelhead trout, those mighty sea-run rainbows that make an angler's blood tingle, are in the lower Snake river in good numbers, the Idaho Fish and Game Department said today.

As the general fishing season nears its end on October 31, the steelhead are beginning to move upstream in the Clearwater and Salmon rivers, according to James C. Simpson, chief of fisheries management. Reports from as far up as Salmon City near the mouth of the Lemhi river indicate anglers are doing well.

The steelhead trout count at the Lewiston dam facility reached 11,636 on October 2. Over 1,200 of these were counted the first two days of October, 9,423 in September, 936 in August and 9 in July.

Incomplete figures from down-river counting stations at Ice Harbor dam near the mouth of the Snake river, and McNary and Bonneville dams, promise a steelhead run that may break all records since the permanent flooding of Celilo Falls several years ago. This ended the Indian fishery at that point.

Although the statewide general fishing season ends on October 31, many rivers and streams, lakes and reservoirs remain open for year-round fishing for some or all species. Fishing regulations for 1962 give details in each of the state's big watersheds.

There are two kinds of weakness, that which breaks and that which bends.

MEN MAY MINE MOON

THE PUZZLING EARTH-MOON relationship may be made clear when we are able to dig below the moon's surface, suggests American Rocket Society scientist Gordon MacDonald.

Examination of its density, heat content and chemical composition will enable us to form a positive theory on how the earth-moon system was formed, Dr. MacDonald says.

He isn't sure the earth always had a moon, for, say, the first four billion years of its existence and hopes the initial excavations will shed some moonlight on the subject.

Swimming Pool in Salmon Draws Attention In building both a luxury municipal swimming pool and a fine historical museum the lively Idaho City of Salmon is accomplishing many desirable civic objectives as well—and doing it all without piling up tax burdens; with only the community's own go-go go to do the jobs and foot the costs. "It's a great tribute to Salmon and to all Idaho, too," said Louise Shaduck, Executive Secretary of the Idaho Department of Commerce and Development. "Here are real monuments to American enterprise. It just shows what a small Idaho community can do to help its youth, its whole population, to plan for tourists, and celebrate the upcoming Idaho Territorial Centennial. It's a moral-booster and inspiration for every Idaho locality starting a Centennial project or pushing one ahead." The pool got its start as a PTA project and now it is just about ready to welcome its first water enthusiasts as a pool of super-size proportion but real country-club luxury. Since it is heated it can just about pick its own season of the year for its grand opening as it can stay in use eight months of the year. It is contemporary in design and shape and measures 45x 75-28 feet. Its fiberglass construction and general planning were adopted after considerable study for actual use in the nearby areas. It has underwater lights of real beauty; its attractive brick housing is spacious in every way and even boasts a convenient snack bar. It has three times as much patio and lounge space as bathing space. The entire project has been financed by money and work donations from Salmon and Lemhi County people. The Lemhi County Historical Museum is now ready to become an active center for exhibits with basement and first floor facilities about completed and final finishing on the way. The present plans call for completion of the museum in time for a dedication March 4, 1963 early in the Centennial Year. Both projects were brought into being by starting actual construction early, while drives for funds were moving along so thanks to this get-started and keep-going spirit, the people of the Salmon area can see their ideas moving from actual use instead of being mere dreams or blue prints. The Museum has been a JC and Jay-C-Ette enterprise from the start with Florin Beller, chairman of the committee in charge and Dick Banks, construction chairman. Mrs. Don Vial is secretary-treasurer for the Jay-C-Ettes. Jim Pope has headed the pool committee with Mary Hickman as secretary. Other active committee members include Dr. Zack Johnson Dr. Walt Blackadar, Mrs. Lucille Herndon, and Wm. Randolph.

INFORMATION ABOUT IDAHO BECOMING BIG BUSINESS The State of Idaho now has its own "Information Please" serving on a national scale. Several times a week, come callers in person to the State's Department of Commerce and Development asking for information, please; information about everything from making or marketing a new product here, to transferring a plant and manufacturing the product under the advantages which Idaho can assure.

Discussing this growing trend "to want to know about Idaho," Louise Shaduck, Executive Secretary of the Department points out that callers and delegations represent companies doing national, local, and international business; firms with special services, etc., and that calling and business cards are left to tell a dramatic story. Investors come from coast to coast, from Canada and the Mexican border, and many from the Mountain and Pacific Coast States. From Seattle came a well-backed business man to discuss launching plans for developing statewide silica operations on a big scale, a venture with highly impressive possibilities. An Idahoan, now transplanted to California, drove in to ask for a continual flow of information on the Lewis and Clark Highway development. Jack Pease, of Pocatello, an outstanding student at Sonoma State is collating the Lewis and Clark material. A Chicago firm phones for a specific freight rate. Object behind the calls; possible relocations of branches for Idaho. A Bonner's Ferry man calls to talk over expanding his business ventures. He'd rather invest his money here both to help the state and make a profit. In purely personal contacts through the Department he is soon receiving phone calls from all Idaho. One young man offered his private plane to taxi the Inquirer to the scene of operations where ventures could make big steps ahead with additional capital. And the inquiries keep on increasing. It is natural out-growth of the fact that though the Department of Commerce and Development has been in existence only about seven years—in these few years many more millions of dollars in growth have been added to the State's wealth have been brought in all the other years of Idaho's existence put together. Service offered to inquirers is real Idaho team-work. The Department teams up with Research Director to collate information. Idaho's university and colleges lend able assistance. Christian Science Church Service
What the relationship of God and man can mean in the solution of everyday problems will be brought out at Christian Science church services Sunday.
Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Doctrine of Atonement" include these words of the Master, Christ Jesus: "I and my Father are one." (John 10).
From Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy will be read this citation (p. 18):
"Atonement is the exemplification of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects divine Truth, life and Love. Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless honor. His mission was both individual and collective. He did man's work upright not only in justice to himself but in mercy to mortals—to show them how to do theirs, but not to do it for them nor to relieve them of a single responsibility."

ARE THERE THORNS IN THE ROSES YOU WEAR

Are there thorns in the roses you're wearing?
Does the smile on your face hide a frown?
Then remember there's someone whose caring,
And someone whose love is sincere,
As you come to the end of the journey,
And the future holds nought but despair;
Shall I pray for you then?
Will you come back again?
ARE THERE THORNS IN THE ROSES YOU WEAR?

St. Mary's Annual Bazaar

Sunday, Oct. 28

A large crowd is expected to be in Genesee Sunday, October 28, for the annual St. Mary's Catholic Church bazaar. This year's event, one of the highlights in the community, attracted hundreds of people from all parts of the Inland Empire. The beautiful fall weather is expected to bring in people into the bazaar to enjoy the meals and other attractions of the bazaar.
The bazaar will get underway in the morning with the food and fancy booths offering dozens of tempting items. There will also be games of chance and other amusements.
The serving of the sausage and chicken meals will begin and will continue, without interruption, until 7:00 p. m. This continuous serving means waiting in line to be served.
The meals, which will be served in the upstairs of the Firemen's Hall, will feature the famous Thiemsen sausage and fried chicken, along with a variety of side dishes.
A $1.00 for grade school children served and pre-school children served.
Members of the St. Mary's parish began the work of getting the Firemen's Hall ready for the Sunday day. The booths will be set up in the downstairs, and kitchen crews are working in the clubroom.

Genesee Police Chief Gets His Man On Spokane Streets

Police Chief James Watkins went looking for a man at Spokane and plucked him right off a downtown street corner.
The man was Charles West, 45, also known as Jack Rogers, who was charged with forging a $40 check and taking it at Hammer's Bar in Genesee.
Watkins had traced West to Spokane and spent two days there tracing the man to a hotel. He also checked employment offices in downtown Spokane. One man told him about 10:15 a. m. Friday he had seen West go down the street 20 minutes before Watkins, continuing his search for the Spokane police cruiser with Special Detective Gene Kenworthy and Mel Ulen spotted his man at Trent and Stevens at 12:20 p. m.
The incident recalled another about a year ago when Watkins, in plain clothes, was at a Lewiston restaurant and spotted a man he knew was wanted by authorities at Lewiston. He took him into custody.
The man was extradited before a Spokane justice of the peace and was brought to Genesee. Later in the day he appeared before Latah County Probate Judge C. L. Woodward and received preliminary hearing. He is bound over to Second District Court.

Party Honors Anniversary of Chris Scharnhorst's

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Scharnhorst had as their guests Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Scharnhorst, Kenny, Danny, and Carol; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scharnhorst, Janet, Karon, Joan, and Allen; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scharnhorst, Diana, and Bob; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Scharnhorst and children, Ruth Ann, Sam, Ted, Mary, and Beth; Miss Gettrude Kasper, and the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Scharnhorst.
The party celebrated the 44 wedding anniversary of the Scharnhorst.
The refreshments table was covered with a lace cloth, and candles and beautiful yellow chrysanthemums formed table decorations. A variety of good food was served. Ruth Ann poured coffee and Janet was at the punch bowl.

On the changes in the social security law. Be sure that you know the benefits you are entitled to. And be sure you don't run the risk of losing them by not applying for them.

Social Security Affects Life of All Persons

Why worry about social security? I'm not going to get it until 1990 anyway!
The attitude some young people have when they hear talk about social security or see the deductions on their paychecks. Actually, the majority of these young people will eventually become 65 and older. Eventually, they will find that social security deductions made now will pay off in social security benefits when they really need them.
But, social security is much more than old-age benefits. It is valuable protection during your working years as well as after them. It provides payments of as much as $254 a month to the families of workers who have died. It also provides payments to the worker and to members of his family should he become totally disabled, no matter at what age.
Although the people in the social security office can tell you where they can see that these payments are made properly, they cannot help you unless they know your problems. So it's important that you, the worker, and members of your family know something of the law; at least enough to know that the only way you or your family can get benefits is by applying for them. They start automatically. How do you go about it? Get in touch with your local social security office. If there is no office in your area, a social security representative probably makes regular visits to a place nearby. Your local post office can tell you where this contact station is. Or call the office nearest you.
There are three occasions when you or your family should get in touch with your social security office. When you are planning to retire, even a few months ahead of time; should you become disabled; and in the event of your death.
Of course, you can call on your social security office for information at any time. Keep up to date

Marriage Is A Rocky Road For Young Couple

A young Coeur d'Alene couple were foiled again in their attempt to establish a married life together and their honeymoon ended with the girl back with her parents and the young husband in Latah County jail. Kay Sheridan, 18, of Coeur d'Alene, is a girl her parents have Thursday and Gordon E. (Bud) Thomas, 22, is in the Moscow jail charged with exhibition of a pistol.
The couple ran away from home together last summer and were married in the Lewiston area. This marriage was annulled by the girl's parents and despite everything, all was calm for several months. Then Tuesday of this week the young couple decided to try again and left Coeur d'Alene in Thomas' car bound for Lewiston. At the Nez Perce County auditor-recorder's office Kay gave her age as 19 and said she lived in Genesee. They were wed by a minister at Lewiston Tuesday evening.
The night was spent in Genesee at the home of relatives of the bridegroom. Meanwhile, Coeur d'Alene juvenile authorities alerted north Idaho authorities to be on the lookout for the couple.
Genesee Police Chief James Watkins said Lewiston Policeman Roger McDonald advised him by telephone the newlyweds might be in Genesee at their relatives. Watkins checked out this lead and found they were there. He then escorted the couple to city hall where they waited until Kay's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson A. Duffield arrived on the scene.
Apparently Kay was bundled up for the trip home and Duffield went to Thomas' car parked at a Genesee service station to get her school books and coat, Watkins related.
Moments later Duffield announced to Watkins, who was at the police station, that Thomas had pulled a gun on him, but that his sister had wrestled it away from him.
Duffield called the cops against Thomas, and Judge Ray Johann issued the warrant. Watkins said the gun was never found, but he was told it was a .22-caliber weapon.
In court Thomas plead guilty and was fined fifty dollars. He paid twenty-five dollars of the fine but was forced by a shortage of money to sit out the remainder of the fine in Latah County jail at the rate of $5 a day. He was taken to Moscow by Watkins Wednesday evening.
Kay's parents told Watkins the marriage would again be annulled.

Court House Office Hours Proposal Statement; Retort

A plank in the Latah County Democratic platform concerning office hours at the courthouse brought a statement from the incumbent County Assessor Eugene Taylor and a reply from the Democratic candidate for that post, Katherine (Kay) Pell.
The proposal is a plank in the Democratic platform. It was adopted at the August meeting of the County central committee. It reads, "We propose to keep the County Courthouse offices open during the noon hour five days a week and until 6 p. m. on Fridays."
Late last week, Mr. Taylor had commented on the plank as follows: "It is the responsibility of Latah County's Commissioners to act in accordance with the best interest of the public of the county, keeping in mind the cost of services against the benefits derived.
"I feel anytime such a change is necessary (to keep the courthouse open until 6 p. m. on Friday) they will act in accordance with what they feel is the best interest of the county."
"I don't think it is the duty of one official to tell another how to run his office," Taylor added.
Taylor pointed out that County Commissioners, J. A. Broyles, Polatinski, Gerald Angelo, Fredrick, and Orval Snow, Moscow, all Democrats, published an order May 26, 1958 setting Courthouse hours during weekdays at 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. That same order called for the Courthouse to be closed Saturdays.
Taylor explained that Mrs. Pell was County Assessor at the time the order was published. She had been appointed to the office after Oliver Espe resigned in July, 1957.
Mrs. Pell replies
On Monday of this week, Mrs. Pell made the following statement in answer to Taylor's remarks: "All of the Democratic county candidates—Morris Nelson, candidate for county auditor, Dorothy Larson, candidate for county treasurer, and myself—are advocating that these offices in the Courthouse be open until 6 p. m. Fridays to coincide with banking hours as they now exist. This would accommodate persons who work from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. and who are unable to get to the Courthouse to transact business."
Mrs. Pell went on to explain that these candidates do not, however, claim they will be able to make this change without the concurrence of the Latah County Commissioners.
Commenting on the order (signed by the commissioners in 1958) Mrs. Pell said: "During the years I served as assessor after order, many Latah county residents complained they could never get into the office before the 5 p. m. closing.
"This would be at no additional cost to the taxpayers because each office concerned has deputies who could come to work later in the day on Fridays, or the office holders themselves could be on duty during this extra hour of service," Mrs. Pell concluded.

Elvon Hampton Attends Governing Board Meeting in Michigan Oct. 9-13

Elvon Hampton, local farmer, and a member of the Board of Regents of the University of Idaho, was in Ann Arbor, Michigan from October 9 to 13 attending a meeting of the National Governing Board of Universities and Colleges. Mr. Hampton was a delegate to this meeting.
Accompanied by his wife, the Genesee man drove back to Ann Arbor and to the campus of the U. of Michigan where the meeting was held. The Governing Board conference covers all states in the Union and each state had a delegate present.
Institutional planning was discussed by the group and speakers at the meeting included many college and university presidents who gave the delegates an overall picture of the problems and conditions that face our institutions of higher learning.
While they were back east, the local couple also visited the campus of Michigan State University at Lansing where they attended the University of Michigan - Michigan State Football game. They also visited Wayne University at Detroit, Michigan. All three of these institutions are very large and are having enrollments of near 25,000.
Mr. and Mrs. Hampton returned to their Genesee home Oct. 17.

WILL AN EGG BE LAID IN SPACE?

A MORE APPETIZING selection of food than algae may be available to America's cruising spacemen of the future. They may, in fact, have eggs fresh from the nest if a North Carolina State College experiment is successful. So far scientists have not mostly of a "closed" self-supporting biological cycle in which man would eat algae which, in turn, would be nourished by human waste. The North Carolina solution? The spaceman would take along hens to lay eggs. What would the hens eat? Algae, of course.

OUTDOOR RECREATION DEMANDS MORE SPACE

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish-Game Department

Idaho's basic need is space for outdoor recreation. This simple fact is not easy to understand because over two-thirds of the state's 53 million acres already is in some form of public ownership. Such lands provide food and living room for many kinds of wildlife creatures among the ridges and valleys and immense reaches of trees and crags barely touched by man.

But, as Fish and Game director John R. Woodworth points out, it takes a department store of outdoor recreation areas to satisfy everybody. Many people, residents and visitors alike get out for only a day at a time. Others go for just a weekend. Often it takes more time than that just to get to a favorite place in the back country. Thus the matching of the supply of areas with the large, varied demand is an enormous and complicated undertaking.

Experts predict the nation's population will double by the year 2000. This growth is expected to increase Idaho census figures from the comfortable 1940 level of about 586,000 to something like 700,000 residents this year and another 100,000 by 1975.

This inevitably means considerably more space for industrial and urban development. A parallel reduction of habitat that formerly produced its share of fish and wildlife is likely. Public access thoroughfare to streams and lakes for hunters and fishermen will become increasingly important.

To counteract such trends, the Fish and Game department is pushing a program to develop new public fishing waters and hunting areas. This is not based on untried theories. At least three such areas already have been developed successfully. These are the Elk Creek reservoir in Clearwater county; Dog Creek reservoir in Gooding county; and Spring Valley reservoir in Latah county.

Spring Valley reservoir was finished about a year ago at a cost of $117,457.31 for land purchase and $117,457.31 for dam construction. It was stocked last spring with trout to provide excellent new fishing all season for the people of the area. Budget items included a 45-foot earth fill dam across Little Bear river, creating a 52 1/2 acre impoundment of excellent trout water as well as roads, fences and public facilities.

Dog Creek reservoir was finished in 1958 at a total construction cost of $20,447.85. This created a reservoir of about 60 surface acres behind an earth filled dam 25 feet high and 557 feet long. The drainage area is about 14 to 16 square miles, providing spring runoff waters and returning flow from local irrigation systems. This now is an excellent trout and bass fishery.

The Elk Creek dam project involved the restoration of a mile-long reservoir which once was a heavy producer of eastern brook trout. This large construction project required a concrete core and spillway and necessary log booms in the earth dam across Elk Creek. It was built during the 1948-1950 biennium at a cost of about $12,000 and has remained a good trout fishery since.

Not all such creations are for the benefit of fishermen. The recent acquisition of the Port Boise Recreation area will provide door recreation to everyone who visits the field at the same time. But this also is a historical site of great interest.

Thousands of hunters and fishermen in the field at the same time is everyone licensed and tagged gets out simultaneously. Last year the total sales of all classes of hunting licenses was almost 175,000, and resident fishing licenses sold separately amounted to another 66,248.

Because of variable seasons on big game and upland game birds, hunters are urged to check regulation details.

While the people of Idaho have been busily firing opening guns for various celebrations of Idaho's Territorial Centennial Year, the state itself has stepped suddenly into a new place in the national spotlight. Idaho just now has passed Montana in population and displaced it as the forty-second state in population according to official estimates made public by the United States Bureau of Census.

The figures were released in a statement to Louise Shadduck, Executive Secretary of Idaho's Department of Commerce and Development, and show that by the federal government's count of July 1, 1961 Idaho's population had reached 684,000 and Montana had climbed to 682,000. Idaho State sources indicate it is probable that by January 1963, Idaho's population will have reached the 700,000 mark.

"The population race between the neighbor states has been close for the past three censuses, 1940, 1950, and 1960," the statement continues, and the prediction has often been made that Idaho would take the lead. Of course the comparative standings are still as close as a one-run win victory in the world series but it carries all the satisfaction of a well-earned win over a traditional rival.

"A look at the map of the original Idaho Territory will show that the present area of Montana was once a comparatively small part of Idaho. It was surrounded on all of its American sides by Idaho. The Canadian border, as it does today, bounded both areas in the north.

"The Idaho territory was established and named by an Act of Congress signed by President Abraham Lincoln on March 4th, 1863. It was the biggest single area of American land ever established and named by the Government and included all the present day Wyoming and Montana, parts of Nebraska, North Dakota, and South Dakota west of the eastern Colorado border extended north. The Idaho Territory was larger than all the Pacific states combined: larger than many of the great European kingdoms of the day.

"The creation of such a geographical colossus was occasioned by a complicated political situation. At the dawn of 1863 the area was governed by Olympia in Washington State. The governing bodies there feared the loss of their capital, their authority, and their jobs as the gold miners rushed to Idaho goldfields and shifted the entire population weight away from the coast. Gold centers quickly grew larger than the cities in the nearby Northwest. And back in Washington, D.C. Republican senators were favorable to establishing sympathetic states in the West so as to strengthen their majority against the return of southern Democratic states at the end of Civil War. The Idaho bill was politicized through the House with the name of the area stated as Montana. The name on the printed document was changed, in pen and ink, to Idaho and approved by both Houses.

"The Fort Boise garrison and the present capital city of Boise had their official beginnings on July 4th and 7th of 1863, at the time of the Union victories at Gettysburg and Vicksburg. Naturally the dates of their centennial observances will be the same."

up in Bear Valley and plunges over 100 miles through some of the wildest country on earth. Anyone wanting more of the same can travel another 90 miles on down the main Salmon river to Riggin's.

These rivers not only provide water access for hunters to the big game and goats, as well as elk and deer, but also to chinook salmon and mighty sea-run steelhead trout. Cutthroat trout, a wilderness species, often weighing in at three pounds or better, are native to these waters.

John R. Woodworth points out, it takes a department store of outdoor recreation areas to satisfy everybody. Many people, residents and visitors alike get out for only a day at a time. Others go for just a weekend. Often it takes more time than that just to get to a favorite place in the back country. Thus the matching of the supply of areas with the large, varied demand is an enormous and complicated undertaking.

Experts predict the nation's population will double by the year 2000. This growth is expected to increase Idaho census figures from the comfortable 1940 level of about 586,000 to something like 700,000 residents this year and another 100,000 by 1975.

This inevitably means considerably more space for industrial and urban development. A parallel reduction of habitat that formerly produced its share of fish and wildlife is likely. Public access thoroughfare to streams and lakes for hunters and fishermen will become increasingly important.

To counteract such trends, the Fish and Game department is pushing a program to develop new public fishing waters and hunting areas. This is not based on untried theories. At least three such areas already have been developed successfully. These are the Elk Creek reservoir in Clearwater county; Dog Creek reservoir in Gooding county; and Spring Valley reservoir in Latah county.

Spring Valley reservoir was finished about a year ago at a cost of $117,457.31 for land purchase and $117,457.31 for dam construction. It was stocked last spring with trout to provide excellent new fishing all season for the people of the area. Budget items included a 45-foot earth fill dam across Little Bear river, creating a 52 1/2 acre impoundment of excellent trout water as well as roads, fences and public facilities.

Dog Creek reservoir was finished in 1958 at a total construction cost of $20,447.85. This created a reservoir of about 60 surface acres behind an earth filled dam 25 feet high and 557 feet long. The drainage area is about 14 to 16 square miles, providing spring runoff waters and returning flow from local irrigation systems. This now is an excellent trout and bass fishery.

The Elk Creek dam project involved the restoration of a mile-long reservoir which once was a heavy producer of eastern brook trout. This large construction project required a concrete core and spillway and necessary log booms in the earth dam across Elk Creek. It was built during the 1948-1950 biennium at a cost of about $12,000 and has remained a good trout fishery since.

Not all such creations are for the benefit of fishermen. The recent acquisition of the Port Boise Recreation area will provide door recreation to everyone who visits the field at the same time. But this also is a historical site of great interest.

Thousands of hunters and fishermen in the field at the same time is everyone licensed and tagged gets out simultaneously. Last year the total sales of all classes of hunting licenses was almost 175,000, and resident fishing licenses sold separately amounted to another 66,248.

Because of variable seasons on big game and upland game birds, hunters are urged to check regulation details.

While the people of Idaho have been busily firing opening guns for various celebrations of Idaho's Territorial Centennial Year, the state itself has stepped suddenly into a new place in the national spotlight. Idaho just now has passed Montana in population and displaced it as the forty-second state in population according to official estimates made public by the United States Bureau of Census.

The figures were released in a statement to Louise Shadduck, Executive Secretary of Idaho's Department of Commerce and Development, and show that by the federal government's count of July 1, 1961 Idaho's population had reached 684,000 and Montana had climbed to 682,000. Idaho State sources indicate it is probable that by January 1963, Idaho's population will have reached the 700,000 mark.

"The population race between the neighbor states has been close for the past three censuses, 1940, 1950, and 1960," the statement continues, and the prediction has often been made that Idaho would take the lead. Of course the comparative standings are still as close as a one-run win victory in the world series but it carries all the satisfaction of a well-earned win over a traditional rival.

"A look at the map of the original Idaho Territory will show that the present area of Montana was once a comparatively small part of Idaho. It was surrounded on all of its American sides by Idaho. The Canadian border, as it does today, bounded both areas in the north.

"The Idaho territory was established and named by an Act of Congress signed by President Abraham Lincoln on March 4th, 1863. It was the biggest single area of American land ever established and named by the Government and included all the present day Wyoming and Montana, parts of Nebraska, North Dakota, and South Dakota west of the eastern Colorado border extended north. The Idaho Territory was larger than all the Pacific states combined: larger than many of the great European kingdoms of the day.

"The creation of such a geographical colossus was occasioned by a complicated political situation. At the dawn of 1863 the area was governed by Olympia in Washington State. The governing bodies there feared the loss of their capital, their authority, and their jobs as the gold miners rushed to Idaho goldfields and shifted the entire population weight away from the coast. Gold centers quickly grew larger than the cities in the nearby Northwest. And back in Washington, D.C. Republican senators were favorable to establishing sympathetic states in the West so as to strengthen their majority against the return of southern Democratic states at the end of Civil War. The Idaho bill was politicized through the House with the name of the area stated as Montana. The name on the printed document was changed, in pen and ink, to Idaho and approved by both Houses.

MOSCOW, IDAHO PHONE TU 2-1166

It happened 100 YEARS ago

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862... the same year that

IN IDAHO a steamer carrying 700 miners from the dwindling gold fields of California arrived in Idaho to search for gold in the Coeur d'Alenes where E. D. Pierce had discovered it two years earlier. Early day miners enjoyed beer, when available, just as Idahoans today continue to find pleasure in beer.

For then, as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation - light, sparkling refreshment that adds a touch of Western hospitality to any occasion. Idahoans have always enjoyed the good fellowship that goes with every glass.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

Idaho's Population Now Larger Than Montana's

NON-VIOLATING DRIVER OBLIGATED TO AVOID CRASH

Has too much emphasis been placed on "Who caused the accident?" Without condoning the traffic violator and with no thought of suggesting that law enforcement and the courts should soften their efforts to punish the guilty, the responsibility of the non-violator, who is, or who might be involved in a traffic mishap, cannot be overlooked.

One type of accident being scrutinized by the department of Law enforcement is the head-on which has accounted for an unproportionately large share of this year's traffic deaths. Many of them have occurred on well-marked highways that are complete with a center line.

It has been noted that in many instances one of the drivers had been over the center line, his speed was excessive and several other driver errors were listed. Officers have found that the driver of the second car was committing no violations for which a citation could be issued.

But what about the violation-free driver's failure to practice defensive driving and avoid the head-on crash with the law-breaking driver? Idaho traffic files are full of investigators reports which contain such statements from surviving drivers as "I saw the other car cross the white line, but I thought he would get back in his own lane," and "I saw the other driver coming pretty fast from the side road, but I thought he would obey the stop sign."

Such spontaneous remarks are strong indications that hundreds of lives could be saved and the fantastic record of suffering and rising property loss could be turned downward with general concentration on defensive driving.

What can the law do? Idaho State Police admit they don't have the full answer; only the continued effort to educate the driving public through every means available.

Some teenagers who have completed the driver education course and those who are now enrolled in the Idaho's new program might have the answer. "The school driver training program is excellent, but a similar training program for all adult drivers is necessary. Experience is not enough if it is the wrong kind.

Meekness is not weakness."

Christian Science Church Service

An inspiring message about immortality will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in a Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Probation After Death."

Opening the Responsive Reading will be these verses from the Bible (John 14): "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God believe also in me. In my Father's House are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also."

One of the citations from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 487): "The understanding that Life is God, Spirit, lengthens our days by strengthening our trust in the deathless reality of Life, its almightiness and immortality."

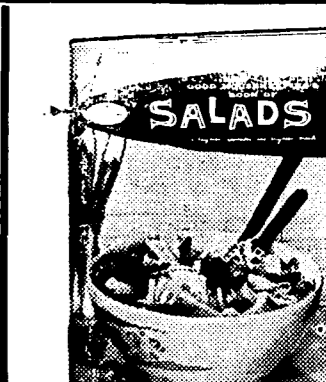

Nature knows no pause in progress and development, and attaches her curse on all inaction. Goethe

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTION: Q. If I get disability insurance benefits, will this affect the amount of my retirement benefit when I reach age 65?
A. No, not at all, because disability insurance benefits are figured just as if you had reached 65 on the day your disability began. You receive the same monthly amount as a disability benefit that you will receive when you retire at age 65.

Few men progress, except as they are pushed along by events.

ELECT LEON DANIELSON

Non-partisan "WRITE-IN" for COUNTY COMMISSIONER (Second District)

Young enough to do the job... Old enough to offer you over 40 years of accumulated directorial experience!! YOUR VOTE WILL BE APPRECIATED

Paid Political Adv. by Leon Danielson

DEMAND FOR OUTDOOR RECREATION BIGGER THAN POPULATION GROWTH

The coming of a new director is a good time for thinking, studying, looking ahead and planning. It's an opportunity to back away from the trees to see the forest, for separating goals and objectives from details of everyday fish and game management work.

Idaho's new director of the Fish and Game department, John R. Wood, is tackling his job by looking into the future, predicting public needs and reorganizing the agency to meet them. This is a task that is not easy to do in a space of only a few weeks.

There are going to be a lot of people around in the future. Already they spend $60 million in Idaho every year in pursuit of fish and game. This probably will reach $100 million by 1975.

Woodworth says it takes a department store of outdoor recreation areas to satisfy the needs of all outdoorsmen. It means the requirements of people, both residents and visitors alike. The matching of the supply of areas with the large, varied demands is an enormous and complicated task.

The major problem is to preserve open space reasonably accessible to urban populations, for their enjoyment and benefit. This means space for all kinds of people to enjoy all outdoors—a big order. It means elbow room to fish and hunt, to camp and picnic, study nature and see wild life. Topping it all must be the knowledge that such recreation is available on rights and privileges as Americans, without trespass on the rights of others.

Idaho fortunately recognized the growing need for outdoor recreation space before it was too late, acquiring land over the years that perhaps would not be available now at any price. Other states are recognizing the need belatedly, but "better late than never" is axiomatic. It means elbow room to fish and hunt, to camp and picnic, study nature and see wild life. Topping it all must be the knowledge that such recreation is available on rights and privileges as Americans, without trespass on the rights of others.

Moser-Evans Vows Exchanged Oct. 13

The marriage of Bonnie Rae Evans and Gerald A. Moser was solemnized October 13 at St. Mary's Catholic church, Genesee. Officiating for the ceremony in a floral setting of gladness and congratulations was the Rev. Fr. Scholomowicz.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Evans, Clarkston, and the groom is the son of John Moser of Lewiston and the late Mrs. A. Moser.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of blue lace and a matching crown of veiling. She carried a white orchid on a prayer nook.

Mr. Geo. Nelson of Lewiston as only bridal attendant wore a gown of pink lace and carried a bouquet of blue carnations.

Mr. Dave Peterson and Terry Stricker each scored on short games. Larry Vestal intercepted a Prairie pass and ran it back 70 yards to score. Jack Haxton, Vestal and Stricker each ran one conversion and Genesee won 39-0 half-time.

Coach Ozzy Kanikbecker, substituting freely in the second half, gave his bench strength a chance to show their wares. Prairie's first score came on a 30-yard pass from Jerry Sonnen to Matty Truckstiz. Sonnen ran the conversion. Wade Hampton gave Genesee its final score in the fourth quarter on a seven-yard run. Sonnen scored two more Prairie touchdowns on runs of 65 and 25 yards and ran one conversion.

Deary Here - Final Game

Genesee rings down the curtain on the regular season this Friday night in the Genesee field. If the Bulldogs get past Deary Mustangs they will coast home to their second straight league championship. A loss by Genesee and a win by Weippe would put the title in a two-way tie. Deary will bring a 5-win, 3-loss record into the game.

Annual Bazaar Attracts Many

Over 3,000 persons were in Genesee Sunday, October 28, to participate in the annual St. Mary's Bazaar held in the Firemen's Hall. The beautiful fall weather was a contributing factor in bringing the crowd out for this annual event.

A total of 300 chickens and 13 hogs were used to prepare the chicken and sausage meals served to 1285 paying customers. The meals were served continuously from 12 noon to 7 p. m. in the upstairs of the fire building.

The downstairs was also crowded all day long with people purchasing items from the country store, fancy work booth, candy booth, and enjoying the games.

Out-of-town visitors were from Colton, Uniontown, Lewiston, Moscow, Shoshone, Seattle and other areas. The proceeds of the bazaar will go to the church fund of St. Mary's.

Peace Corps Official To Be At U. of I.

Tight scheduling by the Peace Corps has forced the delay of one week in the appearance of Dick Stitt, Washington, D. C., associate director, university division, Office of Public Affairs, Peace Corps, on the University of Idaho campus.

Stitt will make public events address about the corps at 9 a. m. Thursday, November 8 in the Memorial gymnasium.

A former associate director of the Arizona State university news bureau, Stitt worked on the staff of the Phoenix Gazette and a local radio station. He was graduated from the university in 1958 and holds memberships in the Genesee and the National and Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity.

On the same day at 3 p. m., in the Borch theater, he will show a 27-minute documentary color film depicting Peace Corps volunteers at work in developing nations around the world. A question and answer session will follow the film.

Bulldogs Dump Prairie 39-20

Genesee's Bulldog football squad ran their season record to seven wins Friday when they crushed a visiting Prairie team 39-20. Genesee leads the second district eight-team football league with their 7-0 record with only one tie to mar their efforts on the gridiron this year.

Prairie didn't have the defensive to contain the hard-running Bulldog backs and ends. Kurt Blume scored two touchdowns on runs of 10 and 15 yards. Dave Peterson and Terry Stricker each scored on short games. Larry Vestal intercepted a Prairie pass and ran it back 70 yards to score. Jack Haxton, Vestal and Stricker each ran one conversion and Genesee won 39-0 half-time.

Coach Ozzy Kanikbecker, substituting freely in the second half, gave his bench strength a chance to show their wares. Prairie's first score came on a 30-yard pass from Jerry Sonnen to Matty Truckstiz. Sonnen ran the conversion. Wade Hampton gave Genesee its final score in the fourth quarter on a seven-yard run. Anti-Gambling Brochure Mailed

An anti-gambling brochure signed by 173 citizens representing all of Idaho's 44 counties is being mailed to residents this week by the Keel Idaho Clean Committee, Willard L. Allen, Pocatello, chairman, has announced.

Allen said the names included members of varied religious faiths and of both political parties.

"Any scheme for legalized gambling in Idaho not only is a political fraud that would create serious problems, but a moral issue with which we should be deeply concerned. It is booting every citizen to do everything in his power to defeat the gambling plan so soundly it will never again be an issue," Allen declared.

Catholic Daughters Hold Initiation

The Catholic Daughters meeting on Wednesday, October 28, was Fun Night. A film was shown on voting procedure.

Local News

Mrs. C. V. Strom and Mrs. Mary White of Julietta spent Monday in Genesee with Mrs. Florence Fallwell.

Mrs. Ruby Cernack of Myrtle and Mrs. Pat O'Kelley and children of Clarkston spent Sunday in Genesee and attended the bazaar.

Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Hampton returned Thursday from a pleasant two-day trip over the Lewis-Clark highway into Missoula. The drive was reported to be an interesting one, with added fall colors making it all the more beautiful. Roads were also reported to be in top condition. The Hamptons made a stop in Kellogg for a visit with Mrs. Hattie Alexander. The four Kuntz Sisters of Clarkston, who were Sunday afternoon visitors in the Hampton home.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hatten were Sunday forenoon visitors of Mrs. Olivia Anderson. Andy Anderson and family were afternoon visitors, along with Mrs. Alex Sprouse and Mrs. Clarence Corrigan of Moscow were callers.

Mrs. Leona Galt who had surgery last Tuesday at St. Josephs hospital in Lewiston is getting along satisfactorily.

Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Nelson, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Duncan of Farmington returned Friday from a visit in Seattle where they attended the Fair and visited with friends. They were accompanied by Vancouver, B. C., traveling over the Hope-Penticton highway. They were houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. John Croy of Chelan for two days. On Sunday, guests in the Nelson home were Mrs. Vera Heinrich, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Danielson, and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Ralston and son of Newport. Sunday evening visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Kay Nelson of Lewiston.

Mr. and Mrs. George Scharnhorst, visited in Lewiston Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Jutte. On Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Scharnhorst accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Paul Parks to Spokane where they visited with their daughter, Ann at Whitworth College. The Scharnhorsts called at the O. W. Ohland home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Alexander, former Genesee residents, now of Spokane were among the out-of-towners attending the bazaar here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cameron of Lewiston attended church services and the bazaar on Sunday. They also made house calls on the Fred Braziers, Mrs. E. Emmett and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Broemeling.

Mrs. Hermina Bielenberg and Don and Spoke Miriam of Lewiston were in Spokane Saturday. In the evening they were houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Len Bielenberg and children in Moscow. They were joined by Hermina Bielenberg and sons, Don and Leo.

He was flown to Baker by Pete Fountain, of Moscow, and will be in traction several weeks.

Two Senators, Governor To Be Elected Tuesday, Nov. 6

Voters in the Genesee precinct will go to the polls next Tuesday, November 6, to cast ballots in this "off-year" election which has attracted attention, at least in this community. Only the race for Governor has any element suspense and has been responsible for most of the discussions heard on the street corners.

Voters within the Genesee precinct will vote at the regular polling place, Burr's Building, from eight in the morning until 8 that evening. Rimrock precinct will hold their balloting at the former W. J. Baumgartner home.

To be chosen this year will be two senators, one U. S. representative, a governor, and the usual lesser state and county officials.

Frank Church, now senior senator from Idaho, will be making his bid for re-election on the Democratic ticket. Church is opposed by Jack Hawley, a republican with conservative views.

The untimely passing of the late Sen. Henry Dworshak accounts for the other senate race. The late Robert Smylie appointed former Idaho governor Len Jordan to fill out Dworshak's term until this election. Jordan is seeking the four-year term on the Republican ticket. It is opposed by Grace Pfost. Mrs. Pfost, who has served several terms as representative, will give up her house seat to Erwin Schwebert, republican, and Compton L. White, democrat, are bidding against each other for the First Congressional District seat in Washington.

Smylie vs. Smith

The interesting race for governor pits incumbent Robert E. Smylie, republican, against Vernon K. Smith and his limited casino-type gaming platform. The thought of bringing back gambling to Idaho, even on Smith's limited scale, has aroused deep feelings, both pro and con, throughout the state.

For the first time in many years, the name of Bessie Babcock will not appear on the ballot in Latah County for Republican ticket. The Idaho Supreme Court and Ex-Officio Auditor and Recorder. Poor health has forced this much-respected public servant to consider retirement. M. K. Chase, republican and Morris Norton, democrat, are seeking the office.

Christion Science Church Service

Man's God-given ability to depart from evil and do good will be set forth at Christian Science services Sunday. A number of experiences of Jacob are included in the readings from the Bible and from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy. "Everlasting Punishment" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon.

This citation will be read from Science and Health (p.303). "Rise in the strength of Spirit to resist all that is unlike good. God has made man capable of this, and nothing can vitiate the ability and power divinely bestowed on man."
The Golden Text is from Galatians: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall be also reap."

"GET IDAHO EDUCATION MOVING" IS PLEA

Wesley Frazier, GOP candidate for superintendent of public instruction, Friday declared that "we must get education moving in Idaho and this can't be done with leadership that desires nothing but to maintain the status quo."

Frazier, superintendent of schools at American Falls, made the statement while in Boise attending an annual meeting of the trustees and superintendents of Idaho.

"We can't get education moving in Idaho with the present leadership whose efforts are spent gathering statistics to show that what we have is 'good enough,'" Frazier attacked what he termed "the three R's of the Status Quo, Regulation, and Requirements" and said that this "wasted effort could best be reduced by the force of grass roots opinion from local patrons."

"People are generally satisfied with their schools in their home towns, but they are also looking for ways to improve them," Frazier said.

The potential grass roots action for better schools in latent in each community. What is needed is leadership to let the people express their desire to back education in Idaho.

"I propose that this can be done through the formation of an advisory board composed of local superintendents with the backing of the people on the local level."

"We must allow the local superintendents the right to make some decisions desired by the local patrons."

"As we now operate our schools, everything is done with the constant reference to permissive regulations of the State Department of Education."

"Schools should not be made to conform to the point where they are all exactly alike—any more than educators should try to make youngsters all exactly alike in the classrooms."

SECURITY PROGRAM ASKED FOR POWER SOURCES

Marshall L. Blair, vice president in charge of power supply for the Washington Water Power company, said this week that the company has been advised by the Defense Electric Power Administration that it should "effect at the earliest possible date, a reasonable security program."

Vivan B. ones, Area 15 director, D. E. P. A., in a letter to all electric utilities asked that they (a) restrict access to substations and plants and (b) institute such steps as each utility may deem necessary to protect against attempted sabotage.

"We will, of course, comply fully with this request," Blair said. "It will mean that any persons other than WWP employees, will have to have express permission from the Power Supply department in our Spokane office before they can enter any of our substations or power plants."

Blair said that these restrictions will remain in effect until such time as WWP is advised by the D. E. P. A. that the emergency period is over.

"We will still permit supervised visits to our power plants by school children," Blair said. "These visits have been enjoyed by many thousands of children in our area for many years and we do not feel that it is necessary to call a halt to them at this time."

BWARE OF FOOD FACTS

DO-IT-YOURSELF DIETERS, panicked into crash low-fat regimens by scientific reports linking cholesterol and heart attacks, can do themselves real harm, warns the American Medical Association. There is still much to be learned about blood cholesterol, the AMA points out, and it has yet to be determined whether the cholesterol level can be changed significantly by dieting. Even those who are reducing need food from the milk, meat, vegetable-fruit, and bread cereal groups and also certain amounts of butter, margarine, fats or oils.

One Mary Smith won't object to another's living down the street, but two Amalgamated Hairpins is one too many. One firm, the National Cylinder Gas Company, even enlisted the aid of a computer in its search for a better name. The electronic brain turned 22 consonants and vowels into 37,000 combinations of four and five letters, including a lot of unpronounceable new "words." The firm finally selected component syllables from the industries it serves—chemicals, metals and electronics—for its new name—Chemotron Corporation.

AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH is paying off in dollars and cents. If today's farmers used 1940 methods, it is estimated that the production of food and fiber for the U. S. would cost an extra $13 billion a year. . . FAT FEMALE MOSQUITOES may provide information useful in controlling fatness in humans. Biologist Emil Van Handel of the Florida State Health Department has discovered that female mosquitoes grow fatter than males on the same diet. Dr. Van Handel believes he can stop the female from turning food into fat by operating on its endocrine gland.

THE WORLDS largest absorption tube for spectographic research will be built at Penn State University to study the atmosphere of planets. The instruments, financed by the National Science Foundation, will be 150 feet long. . . RE-ELECT GOVERNOR ROBERT E.

SMYLIE

HERE'S THE RECORD OF A SOUND AND PROGRESSIVE ADMINISTRATION

IDAHO HAS MADE STEADY GAINS WITH BOB SMYLIE'S LEADERSHIP

IN:

● EDUCATION

Idaho now has stronger public schools, better paid teachers, new school buildings, a University and State College that meet the needs of a growing state.

● BUILDING PROGRAM

A grand total of $7,365,000 in new buildings and improvements completed or under construction since 1961 WITHOUT A GENERAL TAX INCREASE!

● ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

40,000 new jobs since 1954! Personal income, Idaho's net worth, electrical energy output, natural gas consumption, irrigated land, number of industrial plants, manufacturing income, rate of population increase HAVE ALL INCREASED SUBSTANTIALLY UNDER BOB SMYLIE'S LEADERSHIP!

● HEALTH AND WELFARE

Public Assistance grants kept pace with rising costs . . . hospitals now have professional staffs. We have made a splendid beginning in community mental and public health . . . medical-care program meets the needs of our elder citizens.

● AGRICULTURE

Wheat freight rates have been lowered. Meat inspection and warehouse inspection programs have given protection to the consumer and assistance to the farmer. Our biggest industry now has a vital and effective voice in state government.

● NATURAL RESOURCES

Our timber endowment managed in business-like fashion. We now harvest our forests on a sustained yield basis . . . we have a career forest service. Fish and wildlife resource has never been more prosperous. Water-rights protected.

● GOVERNMENT

Our budget is balanced. We have no unhealthy or unmanageable surplus. State departments work together as a team . . . are conservative with public money. And we have met the human needs of Idaho people.

● LAW ENFORCEMENT

All of the laws have been enforced with impartial vigor. The State Highway Patrol has been established as an outstanding career service.

● HIGHWAYS

During Bob Smylie's administrations as governor, enough miles of Idaho Highways have been built or rebuilt to go from Boise to Hong Kong; from Lewiston to Tokyo; from Bonners Ferry to Berlin; from Pocatello to Rome; from Idaho Falls to Athens . . . a total of 5912 miles of highway built or rebuilt.

PROVEN, PROGRESSIVE LEADERSHIP

DON'T GAMBLE!

KEEP GOVERNOR ROBERT E. SMYLIE ON THE JOB!

advisability of court reform, was fully consistent with the historic checks and balance system of the American form of government.

STATE BAR ASSOCIATION URGES YES VOTE ON H. J. R. 10
BOISE — Idaho State Bar President, Glenn Coughlan, this week stressed that approval of H. J. R. 10 (Proposition 3 on the ballot, November 6th), which would enable the legislature to study the need for and approval of the amendment would not set up any specific court or abolish any specific court, but would merely remove the lower courts from the deep-freeze in which they have lingered for over sixty years. The result would be to permit the elected representatives of the people in the Idaho legislature to ascertain whether court reform is needed, and if this be the case show such reform might best be carried out to safeguard constitutional rights, such as equal and certain administration of justice."

Coughlan continued: "The Idaho State Bar feels that it is desirable, if not imperative, that court reform be made possible. Only by approval of the amendment will be people of Idaho regain control over the lower courts in Idaho. For that reason, the Idaho State Bar has urged the approval of the amendment, by voting Proposal 3 on the ballot, November 6th."

LEN JORDAN STANDS TALL IN WASHINGTON D.C.!

JORDAN IS A RESPECTED STATESMAN

After his successful term as Governor of Idaho, Jordan was twice appointed by President Eisenhower to national and international positions of great importance and responsibility.

Len Jordan has stature. He didn't acquire it in the office of United States Senator. He brought his own stature with him. Len Jordan's history is a living legend of effective service to Idaho and to the nation; as an able state legislator, an outstanding governor of Idaho who cut taxes, as a two-time appointee of President Eisenhower to national and international positions of great importance and as a "get the job done" Senator, Len Jordan stands tall among men!

When Len Jordan was Idaho's Chief Executive, State law limited the governorship to one term. Jordan continued his career of public service as an Eisenhower appointee to top-level national assignments.

In January of 1951, Len Jordan succeeded former governor C. A. Robins, shown above with Jordan as the latter took the oath of office. This event marked the beginning of his outstanding career of administrative service to the state and to the nation.

Len Jordan has remained active in farming and ranching throughout most of his life. He has a working knowledge of Idaho's largest industry — agriculture — from his experience as a rancher, livestock man and farmer.

IDAHO'S CENTENNIAL FILM SETS RECORDS FOR SHOWINGS

Now being booked and requested for showings as far as a year ahead, the State's new documentary and historical film Idaho, bids fair to become an every-day-in-the-year Centennial Celebration all by itself, according to figures just made public by Louise Shadock, Secretary of the State's Department of Commerce and Development, which produced the film and released it for public showings only last month. Bookings are not solid yet though, the Department points out, and the five prints of the film are still available for showings, throughout most months of the current year.

A forty-five minute feature in sound and color, the picture was produced to celebrate the Idaho Territorial Centennial, commemorating the hundredth anniversary of the time when Abraham Lincoln signed the bill putting the Territory of Idaho on the map. It presents the whole colorful life of Idaho's colorful life the gold-rush days to atom and space-age projects reaching into the future.

Five prints were originally made and premiere performances were held simultaneously in five Idaho cities. Since then, showings and current bookings have extended into over 31 Idaho towns and cities with more on the waiting list. Most localities have displayed exceptionally intense interest; Rigby alone had 20 showings within one week to audiences totaling nearly 4,000 people. Pocatello also presented numerous showings for a week after the premiere and has booked other performances since. A special print was purchased by the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce which reports bookings to December and a record of enthusiastic receptions at showings before local Chambers of Commerce, fraternal organizations, and civic bodies throughout the entire state. Interests concerned with the promotion of national transportation and tourism have also shown special appreciation of the film and expressed interest in purchasing prints for showings throughout the nation. However, plans for the film's promotion have been concentrated on giving the picture intensive showings throughout Idaho before going ahead on a national scale.

NOVEMBER

When chill November rides the autumn blast, Somehow it comforts me and makes me strong; It would not have me grieve for summer past, When all the world was just a rippling song.

Q—may I find the happiness again

DEPARTMENT EYES INCREASE IN CATCHABLE SIZED TROUT

By Humboldt Idaho Fish and Game Department One phase of the new five-point program for developing Idaho's wild life resources in the face of growing population pressures calls for the expansion and improvement of fish production and distribution.

The goal is to increase the number of catchable-sized trout. This means overhauling existing facilities in some places rather than big construction jobs to build more hatcheries. Figures covering the 1950-60 decade show how fish production can be boosted many times without large capital outlay for new plants.

For example, the state hatchery production of rainbow trout alone soared from 191,380 pounds in 1950 to 684,544 pounds in 1960—an increase of over 72 per cent. This does not include fish raised by federal agencies and released the same years in Idaho waters.

Actually the gain in numbers produced at the end of the decade was only about 1 1/2 million fish over 1950. The figures for state hatchery production are 7,248,042 in 1950, compared to 8,722,325 in 1960. These numbers do not include other species of fish produced during those years.

Rainbows are much more adaptable to hatchery propagation and rearing than other species of trout. That, coupled with the demand of fishermen for "bows and their ability to adjust to a wide range of environmental conditions, explains why the bulk of hatchery-raised fish are of this species.

It is noteworthy that 1950 was not a poor production year. Hatchery production in poundage that year more than doubled the 1949 mark, and was 148,934 pounds greater than in 1948.

Thus the trend toward producing catchable-sized trout began soon after the close of World War II, when military personnel and industrial workers returned to Idaho. Likewise the increase in resident fishermen was paced by more nonresident fishermen in a pattern very similar to the present.

Changing over from the production of millions of little fish to about the same number of "catchables" meant planning and plant expansion work to handle the enormously greater poundage. It also required changes in distribution equipment, larger, improved hauling units, and the development of better fish foods.

Current figures will not be available until later this month but, during the 1950-60 biennium, over five million catchables were produced in state hatcheries and released in Idaho streams, lakes and reservoirs. Probably another half-million were planted within the state by other agencies.

Catchables are raised and released with the view that they soon will show up in the creel and provide trout fishing far better than a stream can naturally produce from native fish which already are adjusted to environmental conditions and will spawn and reproduce their kind.

Having been protected and almost spoon-fed in the hatcheries from one to two years, the creel-sized rainbows not only have difficulty competing with the wild species for food and resting places, but also tend to be more attracted to the baited hook.

The first state hatchery was built on Silver creek about 15 miles below Hailey in 1907. Now, more than half a century later, the Fish and Game department operates 14 hatcheries in the following: American Falls, Ashton, Clark Fork, Eagle, Grace, Hagerman, Hayspur, Henrys Lake, Mackay, McCall, Mullan, Sandpoint, Twin Falls and Warm River.

These hatcheries produced over 31 million fish of all species and sizes during the 1950-60 biennium, a matter of 1 1/2 million pounds. Production schedules are geared to planting season demands. This includes the restocking of lakes and streams following chemical treatment, as well as supplementing "wild" fish populations with hatchery stock on waters getting the burnt of ever-increasing angler pressure.

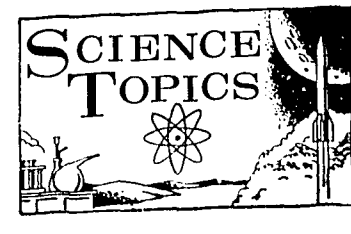

Fish allocation is based on requirements of different waters. Decisions must be made about the species to be planted, sizes and timing. Such considerations require constant referral back to a big volume called a "catalogue of Idaho streams and lakes," a looseleaf notebook that is adjusted continually as new facts are available.

With the increased fish production, a new type of balanced diet, fortified with vitamins, is being developed in pellet and meal forms to replace the traditional red meats, offal and other animal products. This not only increases the quality of fish, but also reduces labor costs. Moreover, it cuts down disease resulting from dietary deficiencies.

At several hatcheries a blower-type fish feeder, mounted on a pick-up truck, is used to feed the pellets to trout. It not only saves time and labor, but also distributes fish food more evenly on the water by measuring the required amount necessary for each raceway or rearing pond.

The next 50 years or more new hatcheries built around the state to keep up with the demands of sport fishing. There probably are not that many good sites available. But fish farming is here to stay, for restoring depleted waters, planting after eradication of trash species, replenishing waters without adequate spawning grounds, and providing "put-and-take" angling in heavily-fished waters.

This means planning and plant expansion as need to handle the enormously greater poundage of fish, and improved methods of distribution in better fish-hauling equipment.

DIRTY MAY CURE HEART TROUBLE

COMMON ORDINARY dirt may be instrumental in prevention of heart attacks, according to Dr. Michael A. Pisano, St. John's University biologist who is searching for an enzyme that will dissolve blood clots. He thinks this substance can be separated from common dirt organisms. The U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare apparently has agreed to fund his research into the problem.

'CONJOINT PSYCHOTHERAPY' is a new psychiatric approach of marital problems, reports Dr. Andrew S. Watson of the U. of Michigan Medical Center. Treating the couple in a joint session, Dr. Watson says, is usually more successful than seeing only one spouse or each separately.

PRESS YOUR fingertips against your closed eyes. The light and color you "see" are a sensation known as a "phosphene." Pilots of powerful aircraft may also experience this when accelerating, and mistake the phenomenon for actual lights on the ground or on other aircraft. The Hummingbird is the world's smallest warm-blooded animal. It is three inches long, weighs less than a dime and can beat its wings up to 80 times a second. It burns energy at a rate equivalent to 10 times that of a running man during the day and at night sinks into a sort of hibernation to avoid starvation. The female incubates bean-sized eggs in 12 to 16 days. . . . A PHOSPHATE-RICH diet may be as effective as fluorides in reducing tooth decay, according to a report at a Massachusetts Institute of Technology symposium. Combining the two chemicals might reduce cavities by as much as 87 per cent.

Researcher say. A 'LIE TEST' has been developed for smokers. Acetonitrile is the key. This substance is consistently found in the body fluid of smokers, reports the Southwest Research Institute, in proportion to the number of cigarettes smoked. It does not appear in non-smokers, the scientists say.

Christian Science Church Service The enlightened nature of the man God's creating will be explained today at Christian Science church service.

Selections from the Bible in the sermon on the subject "Adam and the Man" will include these verses from Ephesians (5): "Be ye as followers of God, as dear children. . . For ye were sometimes darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord, walk as children of light."

Readings from Science and Health by Mary Baker Eddy will include (p.200). "The real truth in the Science of being, is that the real man was, is, and ever shall be perfect, is inconvertible; if it man is the image, reflection, of God, he is never inverted nor subverted; but upright and Godlike."

The charity that hastens to promote the good deeds, ceases to be charity, and it only pride and ostentation. —William Hutton

BLACKFOOT RESTORATION PLANTS CUTTHROAT EGGS Restoration of southeastern Idaho's big Blackfoot reservoir to a good trout fishery at a cost of about seven cents per acre for treatment was announced today by Fish and Game department.

The cost of treating about 11,000 surface acres of water with 1,620 gallons of concentrated toxaphene, used at .045 parts per million, to eradicate rough fish actually was a small part of total rehabilitation costs, according to Jas. C. Simpson, chief of fisheries management.

Almost 4 1/2 million fish were used to restock the reservoir, which varies from 15 miles in length to narrow sections and wide bays. Twelve regular boats and one air-thrust craft were used to disperse the chemical in waters that generally ran less than a foot deep.

One unusual feature involved the planting of some 628,000 cutthroat trout eggs in Spring creek, a tributary of Blackfoot river. This formerly was one of the main spawning streams into the reservoir. Simpson says there was a good enough hatch and fingerling escapement to insure future runs, although livestock destruction of the artificial hatchery nests.

Some 238,000 catchable-sized trout up to 12 inches when released, were planted. These were held over at Grace hatchery last winter for stocking in Blackfoot and should weigh about 1 1/2 pounds each on opening day of the fishing season next June 4.

Other fish plants in Blackfoot reservoir include: About 1 1/2 million cutthroat fingerling in the reservoir and tributaries after treatment; 1 1/2 million rainbow trout fingerling; and 100,000 rainbow cutthroat hybrid fingerlings. These fish now are about eight inches long. Simpson conceded that this was not a complete kill or rough fish in the reservoir, adding that some carp have been observed.

Rabbit Hunting Good Contrary to popular opinion, early rabbit hunting before the snow flies is best. The reason is that their numbers right now probably are double what they will be later on when most hunters start going after them. Na-

Homecoming at U. of I. Set For Saturday

Alumni of the U. of Idaho from throughout the Northwest are expected to return to the campus this weekend for the annual Homecoming program.
Weekend activities begin Friday evening, November 9, with a pajama parade and fireworks and rally at MacLean field. Registration will be held Friday afternoon for visiting alumni.
At 9:30 a. m. Saturday the Homecoming parade will move down Moscow's main street. It will feature student floats, the University of Idaho band, the Vandalettes Drill team and bands from neighboring high schools.
An alumni brunch will be held from 11:15 a. m. to 12:45 p. m. at the Moscow Hotel.
Highlight of the day will be the clash between the Vandals and Oregon state University at 1:30 p. m. at Neals stadium. Idaho is fresh from an upset victory over highly rated Arizona last Saturday at Tucson.
One of five Homecoming Queen candidates will receive her royal crown from Larry Mills, Boise, alumni president, during halftime activities. Finalists in the contest to be decided by an all-male campus vote are Nancy Yount, Spokane, Wash.; Nadine Naslund Lewiston; Jeanne Marshall, Idaho Falls; Pat Matheny, Eden and Lynda Knox, Boise.
The University of Idaho band will perform a special routine during the halftime show.
Open house will be held at all living groups on campus following the game. An alumni buffet is scheduled from 5 to 9 p. m. at the Moscow Elks club followed by the Homecoming dance in the Memorial gymnasium beginning at 9 p. m.
However rich or elevated we may be a nameless something is always wanting to our imperfect fortune.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES MET MONDAY NIGHT

All members of the Board were present at the regular meeting Monday evening. After conducting the routine business, bus routes were checked, and a discussion of the State Legislative program was held.
In cooperation with Federal and State agencies, a program was approved to meet peril or disaster situations by early warning and immediate transportation of the children to their homes.
A transistor radio is on during all school hours, tuned to a Conelrad station to bring us immediate warning. Buses and bus drivers are ready and will leave school at once when loaded.
It is suggested that parents discuss with their families the procedure to be followed if the parents are away from home and the children should come home unexpectedly.
Genesee is probably as safe as any place in the United States, and we will not need to hold drills, but will be ready in case of trouble.
Testing Completed
Dean Hackett and Del Scoonover assisted by fifth students of the Psychology Department of the University, completed the fall program of testing and counseling in the local school Tuesday. Tests were administered in grades three through eight and to the High School freshmen and juniors.
A new booklet on scholarships will be available from the university about January 1st.
"Sneeze Bar" Installed
Following the recommendations of the State Health Department and School Lunch authorities, a sheet of heavy plastic eight-foot long and two-foot wide has been installed over the food counter at the school lunch room to protect the food.
Sophomore Dance Friday
The sophomore class is sponsoring a record hop in the gym Friday evening from eight until eleven o'clock.
"B" Team Cheerleaders
An assembly to elect cheerleaders for the B team will be held Friday. Football letters will also be awarded Coach Kanikkeberg. "A" team cheerleaders were elected last spring. They are Carol Kraut, Cheryl Kraut and Diane Hasfurthur.
Banquet Held
The annual football banquet was held Thursday evening at the Fireman's Hall. Elroy Anderson acted as toastmaster and Dee Andros, head football coach at the University was featured speaker.

DUCK MIGRATIONS SLOW

The number of ducks moving into and through Idaho so far this fall is about 40 per cent below the comparable period last year, according to waterfowl counts taken each week at major concentration points in the state during September and October. The number of Canada geese now in the state is about the same as last year. However, they do not respond to weather conditions in the same way as ducks do. Geese come when the calendar says it's time to migrate. Ducks wait for storms to get them moving.

It's noteworthy that many thousands of ducks and geese are Idaho residents, staying here most of the year to brood, nest and rear their young ones. These birds provide early hunting and are supplemented later by the migrants from the north.

ELECTRICITY is the "NEATEST HEAT"

★ Work-saving Cleanliness Cheered by Housewives & Building Owners

"Housekeeping" drops dramatically with electric heat, a recent survey shows. Ladies told us that walls, rugs, furniture and draperies stay clean — cutting hours off housework. Building owners are pleased about lowered maintenance.

With all this, comfort goes up, thanks to room-by-room temperature control and quiet, automatic operation. Electric Heat is the economical, practical way to bask in wonderful warmth!

HAROLD LOUGH

It happened 100 YEARS ago

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862 . . . the same year that

IN IDAHO Fort Lapwai, a permanent military post was established as a restraint to Nez Percé Indian unrest. Early settlers and Indian fighters in this period enjoyed beer brought in from breweries on the coast just as Idahoans today continue to find pleasure in beer.

For even then, beer was Idaho's traditional beverage of moderation. Beer still provides enjoyment for Idahoans, and a good living for many of them — not only the employees of the Brewing Industry itself, but also for farmers and other suppliers of the materials brewers use.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

YOUR Social Security?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question—
 I am self-employed and understand I can receive social security benefits if I do not "render substantial services" in my business. How can I tell whether my services in self-employment are substantial?

Answer—
 This depends on the amount of time you devote to your business, the kind of work you do, how your work compares with the work you did in past years, and other circumstances of your particular case. You can get a special booklet that gives more details about "Substantial Services" from your local social security office. Ask for Booklet 23.

ADVICE ON WATERING TREES AND SHRUBS IN FALL
 When to water and when not to water trees and shrubs in the fall perplexes many gardeners. William H. Snyder, University of Idaho horticulturist, has some answers.
 "The best rule is to let plants 'dry off' without early fall irrigation," he explains. "This practice allows plants to set buds and harden up for the cold months ahead."
 Snyder recommends waiting until after leaves fall, or in the case of evergreens, until they have been subjected to a month of chilly weather. Then water the trees and shrubs copiously so that the soil is moist during the winter.
 Evergreens lose water through their needles all winter long, the horticulturist explains. If the soil in which they are rooted becomes dry during the winter, water loss exceeds uptake and burned foliage may result.
 Some evergreens are especially susceptible to winter burning, he warns. The oriental arbovitae are such examples. And the Japanese yews, so highly prized, often burn during winter from the late winter sun's heat or a combination of factors, including inadequate moisture.
 If tender evergreens such as the yews have not been planted in protected areas such as the north side or beneath tall trees, wrap them with burlap or a screen woven of tall

Dave Kuehl reports that there are always 2 things to worry about.
1. Live or die—
If we live we have nothing to worry about.
2. If we die we still have two things worrying us—Heaven and Hell.
3. If we go to Heaven we have nothing to worry us.
If we go to the other place we still have two things to worry about—all our friends that we don't have time to worry.

A young man working in an office had been watching the construction of a building across the street. Suddenly he turned to an associate and said, "See that fellow over there?
I've been watching that loafer for the last two hours and he hasn't done a stroke of work!"

There was a loud explosion in the back room of the drug store. The pharmacist staggered onto his face and his jacket in shreds. He said to the lady customer, "Have your doctor write out that prescription again—and this time tell him to PRINT it."

Special Christian Science Thanksgiving Service Set

A special Thanksgiving Day Service, traditional in Christian Science churches all over the world, will be held in this area by the Christian Science Society.
Everyone is welcome to the service which begins at 11 a. m. Thanksgiving morning, in the church edifice at 725 Washington.
Hymns, prayers, and a specially prepared Bible Lesson-Sermon are all part of the service, which also includes a period for spontaneous expressions of gratitude by church members in the congregation.
The entire congregation will join in reading these Bible verses included in the Responsive Reading: "Now therefore, our God, all this store that we have prepared to build thee new of thine hand, and is all thine own."
(1 Chron. 29:15, 16).
On the Sunday before Thanksgiving, a special radio program entitled "The Time for Gratitude" will be present-

Banquet Honors Football Team

Members of the Genesee football squad, their coaching staff, and cheer leaders were honored at a banquet held Thursday evening, November 15, at the Firemen's Hall. The banquet was sponsored and planned by parents of the players and the meal was served by the girls of the GHS senior class.
Approximately 120 were present for the evening's activities. Special guests that night were Dee Andros, football coach at the University of Idaho; Wm. J. Gray; members of the school board and their wives and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones. Seated at the head table were Coach Andros,
Mr. and Mrs. Ozzie Kankkeberg, Mr. and Mrs. John Merrick, Mr. and Mrs.
Elvon Hampton, and Supt. and Mrs.
Paul Dempsey.
Elvon Hampton served as master of ceremonies for the evening and he introduced Coach Kankkeberg, who in turn introduced each of the members of the football players. Superintendent of schools, Paul F. Dempsey also spoke briefly.
Guest speaker of the evening, Dee
Andros, spoke to the group on teamwork and warned against it in both sport and life.

Chili Beans, Sun Valley Style

Chili Beans, Sun Valley Style, is a sturdy dish to be enjoyed at winter's ski parties and summer-time cook-outs, and may be served in a variety of ways. Made of plump perfect Idaho-grown Pinto or colorful Red beans and tender juicy lean beef—lazy-simmered, tantalizingly seasoned with choice chili spices—a hint of ground cumin, bayleaf, garlic, onion, plus the flavor of Home—here is a famous recipe for year-round eating pleasure, family and guests alike.

Chili Beans, Sun Valley Style (about 10 servings, 1 1/2 cups each)

Part 1
 4 cups Idaho Pinto Beans
 12 cups (3 quarts) water
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 large peeled onion, whole

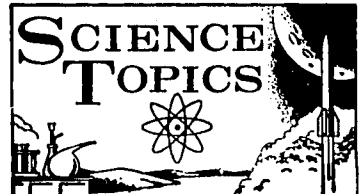

Part 2
 1 large bayleaf
 1 fat clove garlic, thin-sliced
 2 tablespoons salad oil

To prepare Pinto or Red beans, combine in large heavy sauce pot or Dutch oven the washed beans and the measured amount of water, cold or hot. Bring to boiling point and boil rapidly for 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Cover tightly. Let stand for one hour. Beans are now ready to cook. Note: beans may be soaked overnight if desired. Add ingredients to beans and soaking water. Bring to boiling point rapidly, reduce heat to simmer. Cover pot tightly. Simmer about 2 hours or until not quite tender. Lift out and discard onion and bayleaf.

Part 3
 1 1/2 to 2 pounds lean ground beef
 2 tablespoons fat or finely-chopped suet
 1 cup water, beef stock, or tomato juice
 1 to 4 tablespoons good chili powder seasoning
 1 1/2 teaspoons ground cumin salt as needed

Brown meat quickly in the fat, breaking into small pieces. Add to beans. Add liquid to frying pan and heat to boiling point to bring up the browning bits and drippings. Add to beans. Measure into small dish 3 tablespoons of chili powder and the cumin. Mix to smooth paste using some of liquid from the bean pot. Add to bean mixture. Bring to boiling point, reduce heat to simmer. Cover tightly. Slow-cook for 1 to 1 1/2 hours, tasting in the meantime to find if more salt or chili powder is needed. Tastes and chili powder blends vary so much.

This makes 3 1/2 generous quarts which means 10 servings allowing about 1 1/2 cups per serving. Any leftover may be packaged and frozen. In fact, why not do another batch of the beans and plan to freeze one. They are so good for many occasions, help to pad the most courses, and all ages enjoy them.

IS MOON PROGRAM WORTH THE COST

THIRTY BILLION DOLLARS or more may be spent by the U. S. to put a man on the moon. Is it worth it? Emphatically yes, says Dr. Wallace O. Fenn, University of Rochester physicist. The stated goal of man on earth should be to acquire as much understanding of life and the universe as possible. Dr. Fenn says, "The solution of the mysteries of space will contribute much to this end. He proposes this need for expanding knowledge as the most basic justification for the space program."

TRAFFIC JAMS were far in the future in 1900 when Americans owned only 8,000 autos. Today, reports Northwestern University, there are more than 62 million. PRESCRIBING new "pills" can have a miraculous effect on chemical products, according to Girdler Catalysts. One new type of catalyst enabled producers of ammonia for the fertilizer industry to increase hydrogen output by 25 percent with no change in plant size or operating conditions. Millions of catalyst pellets packed inside long metal tubes accelerate the reaction between streams of natural gas and steam flowing over them.

THE ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION is looking for engineers and scientists to work in the fields of reactor development, physical research, biology, medicine and AEC regulatory activities. Salaries range from $8,025 to $17,925 to start.

A BUILT-IN TOASTER that can be installed in a standard 4-inch wall is new on the market. It is tilted out when in use, removed completely for cleaning. When it's recessed in the wall, a safety switch turns off current. . . . THE BLIND may someday be able to throw away their canes and move about normally with the aid of a newly developed radar unit, reports the Aerospace Industries Assn. The unit, modeled after the sensitive mechanism bats use to fly in the dark, enables a blindfolded person to detect and avoid large objects such as cabinets, cars and other people. With further refinement, the scientists say, the instrument will locate chairs, curbs and even steps on a stairway.

A LUXURY MOTEL is offering in addition to swimming pool and gymnasium a "frustration room." Guests are invited to step in and smash things.

WHAT YOU CAN DO TO FIGHT COMMUNISM AND PRESERVE

Alert yourself—learn the true nature and tactics of communism.

Make civic programs for social improvement your business.

Exercise your right as voter—elect representatives of integrity.

Respect human dignity—communism and individual rights cannot coexist.

Iform yourself; know your country—its history, traditions, and heritage.

Combat public apathy toward communism—adiffidence can be fatal when national survival is at stake.

Attack bigotry and prejudice wherever they appear—justice for all is the bulwark of democracy.

"GOOD NEIGHBOR" POLICY APPLIES IN DUCK BLINDS

Many duck and goose blinds in the state are built on public lands, causing the Fish and Game Department to remind waterfowlers today about some of the rules of outdoor etiquette.

If a duck blind is on public land, for example, even the builders have no property rights, according to Elwood Bizeau, state bird supervisor. "The party of hunters who constructed a blind last summer have no legal right to throw out anyone they find occupying it," he says. "No problems arise when sportsmen have good codes of ethics and standards of fair play."

Bizeau says the complicating factor here is that both parties have about the same legal—if not moral—rights.

It's another story when duck blinds are built on private property—sumably with the owner's permission.

He added that so much is written about the outdoor manners—or lack

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH SERVICE

How spiritual understanding of God as Soul helps mankind will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

"Soul and Body" will be the subject of the Lesson-Service. From the heading of Christ Jesus of the centurion's servant, which includes this verse: "And Jesus said unto him, 'Centurion, go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee. And his servant was healed in the selfsame hour.'"

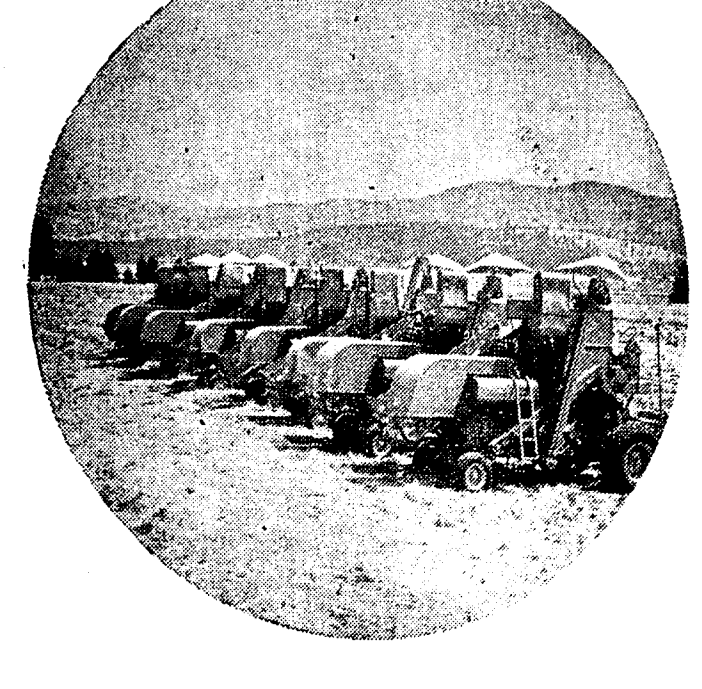

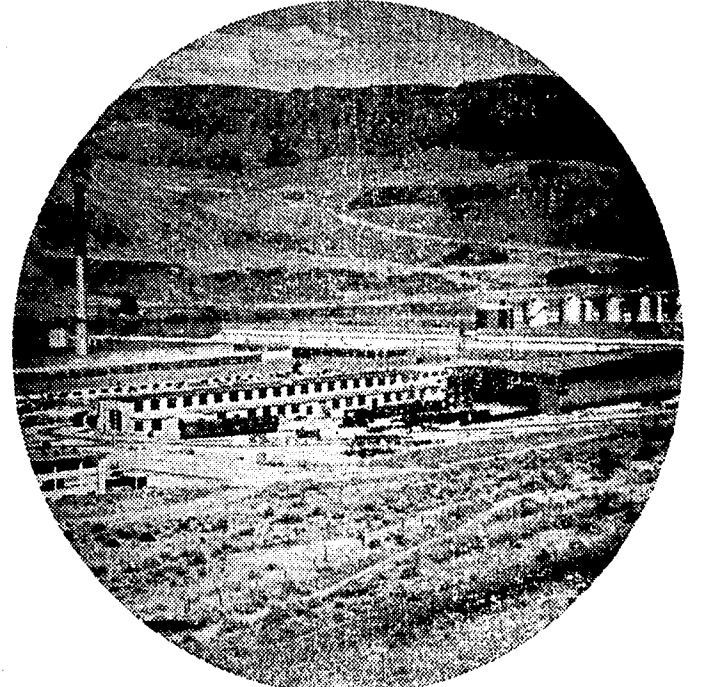

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Elizabeth Eddy this selection will be read, 210: "Knowing that Soul and He who through man, the Master healed the sick, gave sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, feet to the lame, and bringing to light the scientific and the divine Mind on human mind and bodies and giving a better understanding of Soul and salvation."

Our thanks should be as fervent for mercies received, as our petitions for mercies sought.

$9.5 MILLION WORTH OF FAITH!

It's a lot of money. But General Telephone doesn't believe you can put a price tag on this great land of ours. Nor on its future, and the good people who are building that future, our neighbors. So to better serve homes and industry in this great, bustling heartland of the northwest, General Telephone is initiating a 36-month expansion and service improvement program to cost over nine and a half million dollars! This is a confident investment, a profession of faith, the practical implementing of a bright vision of tomorrow. For we take pride in our land and its citizens . . . in our rugged shoulders of mountains . . . our carpet of forests and lakes and prairies. And we sincerely express our intention to grow with this mighty region . . . in progress and prosperity . . . toward the great destiny still being hewn from a vast and rich wilderness!

DIVIDEND DECLARED BY MURPHY-FAVRE COMPANY

A dividend of 9 cents a share from regular investment income has been declared by the directors of Composite Bond and Stock Fund, Inc., a balanced open-end mutual investment fund sponsored by Murphy Favre, Inc., Spokane investment banking firm. The dividend is payable Nov. 16, 1962, to shareholders of record Nov. 15, 1962.

This is 94th consecutive quarterly dividend paid by the Fund, and brings to 30 cents a share the total paid during the investment income period during the fiscal year—the largest yearly total the Fund has paid from its source since 1940," said George R. Yancey, Composite Bond and Stock Fund president.

A distribution of 20 cents a share from realized capital gains has also been declared by the Fund's directors with the same payment and record dates. This is the second distribution from realized capital gains made during the year, and with the 20 cents a share distributed to Fund shareholders February 28, makes a total of 46 cents a share in such distributions during fiscal 1962.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Kinyon and boys spent last weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Ole Knutson in Clarkston.

Russell Storey and David Blume attended the WSU and U. of I. game Saturday afternoon in Moscow.

GRAND TOTAL

The entire revenue of the City of Genesee, Idaho for the fiscal year ending on the 31st day of December, 1962 was $26,919.22, not including the revenue from special assessments. The anticipated revenue for the fiscal year ending on the 31st day of December 31, 1963 is $28,562.21. This increase in revenue over the previous year will result, if adopted, from an increase in revenue over the previous year will result, if adopted, from an increase in city taxation from 38 mills and 48 mills. The present millage has been in effect since May, 1958, and with recent expenditures and reductions in revenue, the City Council favors this increase of 6 mills to street lighting, revenue, the City Council favors this increase of 6 mills to street lighting, 2 mills to parks and recreation and 2 mills to streets. The city trusts that the taxpayer is aware of this increase over past levies.

Notice is hereby given that the expenditures of the amount of money specified in the above estimate, will require a levy in excess of ten (10) mills, and that pursuant to the provisions of Section 50-1102 of the Idaho Code, a public meeting will be held at the next regular meeting of the City Council, a public meeting will be held at the next regular meeting of the City Council on Monday, December 3, 1962, in the City Hall of the City of Genesee, Idaho at which time and place, the Mayor and City Council will hear and consider objections and protests to the passage of an appropriation bill pursuant to, and in accordance with the foregoing estimate.

Published by order of the Mayor and City Council of the City of Genesee, Idaho this 23rd day of November 1962.

VALLEY OF THE PINES. Of when the birds are waking. The scene my heart enrines. At dusk of dawning breaking. Is the Valley Of The Pines.

Pines I so little heeded. Along life's Springtime ways. That all too soon stamped. Out of my childhood days.

Now from the vale are singing. Of the golden past. Memories again they're bringing. Of days too dear to last.

Dawn winds with me are weeping. As the day-gods' vanguard shines. On the little girl that sleeping. In the Valley Of The Pines.

HOMEOWNERS ADVISED TO DEDUCT CASUALTY LOSSES ON TAX RETURNS

Most homeowners are not likely to forget big casualty losses, such as damage from fire, hurricane or floods, when figuring their taxes. But there are smaller losses which may be overlooked, according to the Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine.

An article in the current issue of the magazine notes that "Generally, roll members and beginners at the church basement."

was built, to Huntsville, Ala., where it will be tested, was accomplished in a rather mundane manner. The move, mostly by water, included an 1,100-mile trip up the Mississippi River by barge.

SLEEPY RATS are being studied at the University of Florida because, it develops, rats react the same way people do to getting up in the morning.

to be deductible, a casualty must be sudden, unexpected or unusual. You can deduct the loss to the extent it's not covered by insurance. The magazine advises homeowners not to overlook such small items as: —A hot water boiler that bursts. —Water pipes that freeze and crack. —Nearby blasting or sonic boom that shatters windows. —Damage to the house caused by vandals. —Damage to trees and shrubs caused by storm, sudden cold spell or lightning. —Damage from a sudden invasion of termites, say within a year after the house was inspected and found clear of termites.

"The amount of loss, basically, is the decrease in value of the property immediately before and after the casualty," the article states. "Ideally, an independent before-and-after appraisal by an expert would be the best method of establishing your loss. But the Internal Revenue Service will often (though not always) accept repair bills, if not excessive, as a proper estimate of the loss. You can claim the casualty loss even if you do not actually repair the damage. Figure the loss from an estimate of what repairs would cost."

From Mrs. Customer... OVERWHELMING APPROVAL OF ELECTRIC HEAT! Hundreds of home and building owners testify to the growing popularity of ELECTRIC HEAT. A recent customer survey shows overwhelming endorsement of ELECTRIC HEAT for its Clean, Convenient, Carefree comfort and low-cost installation. Housewives were particularly pleased with the way their homes stay clean and their housework is cut to a minimum. Building owners stressed the money-saving, maintenance-free operation of ELECTRIC HEAT and the economy of individual room-by-room temperature control. Whether you are planning to build, remodel or add a room, call an Electrical League Contractor—he will show you several types of heating units designed to handle any heating requirement and to fit any decor. BLIND DOGS HELP SIGHTLESS PEOPLE

COLLIE DOGS are helping doctors at Stanford Medical Center study an eye condition—detached retina which blinds many Americans every year. Collies are the first known animals in which the condition occurs naturally. The doctors estimate that 5 per cent of the U. S. blind population and 30 per cent of the country's collies have detached retinas.

THE DOMINANT ANIMALS on earth for about 150 million years, reports the Smithsonian Institution, were trilobites, ancestors of insects, spiders, crabs, and lobsters. They became extinct 250 million years ago.

FOR MORE than 100 years, direct-current motors have employed metallic commutators with carbon brushes to change the direction of the flow of electric current. Now from Duke University comes word of an experimental "brushless" motor fitted with tiny silicon controlled rectifiers to direct current where it is needed. The development will reduce maintenance and parts replacement, the developers say, and extend the uses of high-speed motors.

Christian Science Church Service The need for spiritual vigilance will be stressed at Christian Science church services this Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Ancient and Modern Neocromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism," is the Golden Text from Romans; "If God Be For Us, Who Can Be Against Us?"

One of the citations to be read from Science and Health with Key to the Scripture by Mary Baker Eddy states (p.324): "Be watchful, sober, and vigilant. The way is straight and narrow, which leads to the understanding that God is the only Life. It is a war with the flesh, in which we must conquer sin, sickness and death, either here or hereafter, certainly before we can reach the goal of Spirit, or life in God."

FISH & GAME NEWS STATEWIDE HARVEST TRENDS In general, the statewide deer kill is reported by hunter report cards through November 16 is 86 per cent of the comparable period.

This, then is a reminder to all hunters who have completed their trips afield and not returned their postage-free report cards to get them on their way promptly.

As of early November, reported deer kills in 33 units were larger than last year, and 35 units had lower kills.

Eighteen elk units reported more kills this year than last, while 32 reported lower elk harvests.

as indicated by the hunter report cards. This especially is true in the Boise, Albion, Cassia, Sublett, Oneida and Bear Lake units, where blizzard conditions on opening week end last year drove thousands of hunters out of these areas.

Many important elk and deer harvests still are underway in major areas, which may improve the overall outlook when the cards are all in this fall. Too, hunting conditions have not been ideal until lately because of continued warm, dry weather in many parts of the state.

Who Pays For Schools?

In Washington, the investor-owned electric companies paid school taxes that averaged $7.61 per pupil. In contrast, the PUDs paid only $2.40 and the municipal utilities $1.11.

The astonishing unevenness in the way this tax load is spread has been detailed in the Lock Research report just released. The comparative smallness of public power's "payments in lieu" shows up clearly.

It is true, taxes collected from customers by both public and investor-owned utilities help pay for public schools. The big difference, however, is the fact that investor-owned electric companies pay about three times as much out of each revenue dollar collected from customers as do PUDs. If investor-owned paid taxes of only $2.40, instead of $7.61, they could reduce electric rates and in addition continue dividends to many thousands of stockholders (something PUDs don't believe in), continue good service, community helps, steady payroll, and local purchases.

To put it another way: if PUDs and other public power in Washington were required to pay a fair share of taxes now being collected from customers, but withheld, our schools could be improved by $3,000,000 annually.

STREAM BRUSH CLEARING AIDS FISH PROPOGATION

Stream improvement projects at opposite ends of the state to improve fish habitat were announced today by the Idaho Fish and Game department.

One involved the clearing of trees, brush and drift logs from a tributary of Priest Lake in northern Idaho as a means of opening the stream channel to permit cutthroat trout and Dolly Varden to make spawning runs.

Much of this was done by members of the youth camp at Priest Lake under the supervision of department personnel.

A similar north Idaho stream clearance project was undertaken in the Clearwater and Selway river drainages to help steelhead trout make their spawning runs from the ocean.

Improvement work also was initiated on the Drifto river of eastern Idaho in Fremont County, according to James C. Simpson, chief of fisheries.

SCIENCE TOPICS

ATOM POWER MAY BE 'HIDDEN HAND'

SPECTACULAR IMPROVEMENTS IN agriculture are being made about as far as they can go without a breakthrough in application of nuclear energy to food problems, according to Sir William Kershaw Slater of the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations.

Atomic nuclear power, Sir William predicts, will enable mankind in years to "tame deserts" and grow food in the far north. Radioactive substances, he believes, will bring heavier crops and greater livestock yields and help control pests of all types as well.

ELECTRICITY is safely flowing through plastic conduit in places where galvanized steel deteriorated to uselessness in as little as 6 months reports Tube Turns Plastics. Virtual freedom from maintenance and a minimum life of 20 years are expected from rigid polyvinyl chloride conduit and fittings even when they are used in corrosive atmospheres.

NEW DEVICE which attaches to car belts prevents the auto from starting if the belt isn't fastened.

SPRINGS half the diameter of a human hair are being made of fused quartz. The springs are stronger than steel yet so delicate they can measure the weight put on by feeding bacteria.

SCHOOLS OF FISH may some day be tracked down by nuclear submarines. The Department of the Interior's Bureau of Commercial Fisheries says the subs have the high speeds, maneuverability and long-term submergence needed for the work.

AN 'ECONOMY SIZE' plasma generator is the proud possession of Stanford University's Electronics Laboratory. Plasma, the mysterious "fourth state" of matter that lies beyond the gaseous, liquid, and solid states, consists of atoms in such a high state of agitation that their nuclei have been stripped of electrons, or "ionized" resulting in a chaotic mass of charged particles racing about at tremendous energies.

This cooperative work used some of the first funds available to the Farghee National Forest for fish and wildlife habitat improvement. Materials, part of the labor costs and equipment were provided by the U. S. Forest Service while area sportsmen, along with Fish and Game department workers, provided additional labor.

Simpson disclosed that a total of ten improvement structures were built. These consisted of 36-foot-long wings and six-by-six rock filled cribs.

These verses from Psalm 121 will also be read: "The Lord shall preserve

SALMON, STEELHEAD RESTORATION LOOKS GOOD IN PROGRESS REPORT

By Jim Humbird Idaho Fish-Game Department

The twin programs to rebuild chinook salmon and steelhead trout spawning runs in the Clearwater drainage and steelhead in the Lemhi river are off to good starts, according to Leon Murphy, fishery development supervisor.

Part of the Columbia River Fishery Development program, this experiment in steelhead restoration involved planting of over 2 1/2 million of spring chinook eggs further upstream on the Selway river.

The success of this experiment depends, in part on the construction of adequate fish ways around Selway Falls.

To learn whether steelhead trout can be transferred successfully to other tributary streams with a major drainage, 42 adult fish were taken from a fish ladder at the Lewiston dam and transferred to Meadow creek on the South Fork of the Clearwater. Two weirs were built to contain the fish in a one-mile section of the stream so that observations could be made of their behavior.

From April 4, to May 31, 1961, a minimum of 15 steelhead spawned naturally.

The planting of fertilized, half-developed or "cyes" salmon and steel head eggs has proved a successful method of restocking barren waters, at least experimentally. But the process of eyeing or developing embryos in eggs is a tricky, delicate step in the artificial propagation of salmon.

Constant water temperatures, for example is a key factor.

Murphy says that Idaho became an active participant in the Columbia river fishery development program in July, 1956. This program, federally financed except for land purchase, provides funds to aid the production of anadromous or ocean-going fish species. Much work has been done in this way to determine the location of barriers to salmon and steelhead passage, fish losses in irrigation diversions, sources of water supply for hatching and rearing purposes and the availability of adequate spawning areas.

One example of this work is the Dagger Falls fishway, constructed on the Snake river above Oxbow dam and the lower Columbia river to return the Clearwater drainage to complete their life cycle.

AN AIRPLANE-LAUNCHER system using six jet engines has been designed for the Federal Aviation Agency to launch huge airliners in the event of a normal take-off run . . . WALKED through any glass door lately? Apparently too many people have, because the Federal Housing Administration has increased strength requirements for the transparent panels. The new regulations go into effect the first of the year.

Approximately one-half million eyed eggs from the federal Spring Creek hatchery were planted each year near the mouth of the Selway in Warm Springs creek, a tributary of the Lochsa. Last year, about 250,000 were planted. Murphy says the feasibility of establishing these areas of fish by eye-egg plantings will be judged from the number of adult fish returning in the next three years.

Murphy says an even more important restoration experiment involved the planting of over 2 1/2 million of spring chinook eggs further upstream on the Selway river.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Borgen returned Thursday from several days spent in Portland. While there they visited with Mr. and Mrs. John Buter and lady, (Jill Hanson) formerly of Genesee and will be remembered by many. They also spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Borgen at Lewiston, Wash. Mr. and Mrs. Borgen spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Leon Danielson.

Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Roscoe and David returned their houseguest to her home in Spokane, and completed over 30 toys at our first work meeting at the Schluter home Sunday, Dec. 2. We are having another toy work meeting Dec. 9 at the Schluter home. We would like to thank all the people who gave us toys to repair.

Mrs. Schluter reported that Dawn Haskins was awarded a writ of habeas corpus for the highest achievement in the county this year. We wish to congratulate her on her excellent work. Reuben Bauer of the First Security Bank of Moscow presented the award to Dawn at the Co. Agents Office on Dec. 7th.

4-H pledge was led by Dawn Haskins. Linda Weber, reporter.

DON'T WAKE ME UP I AM DREAMING

Don't wake me up I am dreaming. Of days long gone to rest; Dreaming of your eyes breathing And how you loved me best.

Even with dawn-rays streaming Gladsome and bright and free; Don't wake me up, I am dreaming Dreaming of your love for me.

SOCIAL SECURITY TAXES—

cause of high wartime earnings, were best able to adjust themselves to the increases. It was not until 1950 that the rate was permitted by law to go above one percent.

In the years since, benefits have been added for the families of workers. In addition, benefits have been increased several times to keep pace with rising levels of living and price changes. Under present law, the range of monthly benefits paid to retired workers 65 or over is $40 to $127. The maximum family payment is $254.

Under the law as it now stands, there will be two more increases in the social security tax rate, one in 1966, and the last in 1968. Each increase will amount to one-half of one percent, so that beginning in 1968 and every year thereafter, the worker and the company will each be paying 4 5/8 percent of the worker's annual earnings up to $4,800 toward social security protection.

The difference between the originally planned top tax rate and the rate that will go into effect in 1968 will go partly to pay for the additional protection and higher benefits. It will also help make up for the money not collected because the tax increases scheduled for the 1940's were postponed.

Then there's the movie starlet who complained: "In Hollywood, drivers are not only unsafe, but dishonest. Every time I stick out my hand to signal a turn somebody steals the olive out of my Martini!"

A harassed father, with four lively children in tow, paused before a "Deposit your litter here" sign in one of the state parks. With a heartfelt sigh, he turned to a bystander and said, "Don't think I'm not tempted."

Little Susan saw her mother's new evening gown, which had just been delivered. "Oh, Mummy, how lovely!" she cried. "Will you wear it tonight?" "No dear, not tonight," replied the mother. "This is for when ladies and gentlemen come to dinner."

DR. PAUL GENSTLER AND FAMILY

Send Greetings From Africa
P. M. 54
Jos, Nigeria
Christmas 1962

Dear Friends,
The close of the old year and the beginning of the new finds the Genestler family looking forward with keen anticipation to seeing all of you soon and every year again in the very near future. We've all been busy bitten and smitten by the furlough bug with all its ramifications of planning impossible side trips, straggling piles of strawberries and ice cream, just indulging in the bright prospects of relaxation. But be what it may, we also realize that we are leaving a bit of ourselves behind as we depart from Africa once again. I can easily be said that we'll make major changes. The bush trails will soon be replaced by sidewalks, the bartering trader for U. S. high priced Peaches, pears, and apples will replace the mangos and papayas and the rhythmic cadence of the African drum will seem far away as the drone of a motorized society meets our ears. It is not without some regret that we will again bid farewell to the people of Nigeria—a people in need of so much help.

But let me not get carried away with much dreaming. Needless to say, we're still much wowed to do here in Africa. This past year has been very busy for all of us. For six months Paul was "the staff" as far as doctors were concerned while the second doctor was home on furlough. He may have been "bought" her with the price of a dowry but no one ever loved his wife more than he. At the present time I'm busy getting some little things ready for the evening in February. The boys plan to help me make a crib for the little new comer. Elijah has already told me that if the baby is a boy his name will be Darrell. So there is always something to keep us busy and happy. Our furlough plans are beginning to crystallize as we see the exciting day approaching. We are planning a little more extensive touring this year. We got to the church in the Middle East, and from there to Athens. We also plan again to get a car in Germany and go as far north as Copenhagen and as far south as Rome. There's a lot to be done in Merry Old England and we'll be steaming shortly thereafter into New York harbor! My, that was all so quick and easy—now if only there wasn't so much to do between now and then. If all goes as planned, we should be on U. S. soil by the first part of July. However, we realize that only God's plans are sure and so we live each day as it comes.

But of course we must make some long range plans for it. Little girls have a way of growing up, and because clothes don't do the same, I'm trying to get some things planned. I'm frequently very difficult to find the right colors or kind of cloth you need for your particular project. In fact, in my recent excitement, Santa almost lost his way to Africa. Let me hasten to explain. I needed some red cloth for the lining of this coat but somehow red seemed not in vogue at the time. After all, the reds were all in shades of red, but trousers three times and not even down a chimney, and we've never encouraged the old boy to stick around all year so those baggy pants would probably be just the thing. But I'm sorry for him, just before I found what I needed. So Santa is still trousered and we expect him to make his usual "dignified" appearance again this year.

School continues to plague the boys but we are bearing down on the closing date. The old hickory stick is still intact and I might add, the teacher is too, though sometimes by the end of the day she seems a bit unraveled at the ends. Arla Jean pursues her education with considerable nonchalance. She said she didn't want to study her first year, but she's now sharing "so she's doing a bit of study" a full schedule next year. She thinks she is really going to wow that first grade teacher!

Our future plans are still not settled. Education for our children presents a problem we must not ignore. However we feel the Lord will direct and guide us as we work in His name. Truly, He has led and protected us wonderfully in the past and we have every confidence that He will in the future.

The Christmas season again reminds me of the gifts that all mankind shares—the Gift of the world's Redeemer. We pray that this season may not depart without each of us renewing our love and devotion to the One who has done so much for us. Let us use our gifts to the best of our efforts to emulate the Spirit of Christ more and help bring peace and good will toward all men. We wish one and all God's richest blessings in the coming New Year.

Sincerely your friends,
The Genestlers

Send Greetings From Africa

Dear Friends,
The Rev. Charles Dion of Holy Trinity Lutheran church, Mercer Island, of which Mr. Smylie was a member, officiated. Burial was at Greenwood.

Mr. Smylie, a pilot for West Coast Airlines, came to Spokane from Canada as a child and lived in Spokane for some 20 years. He was a Navy veteran of World War II and a member of American Legion Post 8 and the Spokane Elks Lodge.

Engagement Revealed

Hayden J. Hynes announces the engagement of his daughter, Linda Diane, to Stephen Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Meyer of Coldwell, Washington.

High School Music Department Active

The High School Girls Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Ann Cook, will present a short program on the Kermie Home hour over KRLC at 7:30 a. m. Monday.

Santa Claus Will Visit Here Saturday

A message from the North Pole this week said that Santa Claus will arrive in Genesee for a short visit this Saturday afternoon, December 22, at 2:00 p. m. Although it is only a short time until Christmas, Santa said he would be glad to come to our town to visit with all the good boys and girls.

Since it is so close to Christmas, Santa has asked the members of the Genesee Community Firemen, Inc., to provide him with transportation. Santa will arrive at the Christmas tree riding on the city fire truck.

The day is Saturday—the time is 2:00 p. m.—so don't miss seeing Santa Claus.

Florence Fallwell Passes Suddenly

Mrs. Florence Fallwell, 74, widow of a Genesee farmer and a former Lewiston resident, was found dead in bed at her home by neighbors Wednesday afternoon. Death was apparently caused by the infirmities of age.

She was born December 14, 1888 in Kansas and was married September 21, 1910 in Texas to Orville Fallwell. They lived at Los Angeles and Corvallis, Oregon before moving to Lewiston in 1917.

At Lewiston they operated a cherry orchard. In 1946 they moved to Genesee, later lived at Julietta for several years and returned to Genesee. Fallwell died September 22, 1954. She had lived alone since then.

Mrs. Fallwell was a member of the Genesee Community Church and the Ladies Guild.

Survivors include two sons, John, Kamiah; Chester, Coos Bay, Ore.; two daughters, Mrs. Eloise Green, San Francisco, and Mrs. Virginia Blair, Orange, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Lula M. Hale, Hillsboro, Ore., and seven grandchildren.

The body is at Shorts Funeral Home, Moscow.

Pythian Sisters Elect New Officers

Mrs. Shirley Schooler was chosen Most Excellent Chief of the Pythian Sisters at the annual election of officers for that group held Wednesday, December 12.

Other officers chosen for the coming year include:
Past Chief: Hazel Robinson, Excellent Sister: Verla Hall, Excellent Junior: Vera Heinrich, Manager: Gladys Danielson, Secretary: Mabel McKinley, Treasurer: Gladys Liberg, Protector: Opal Benjamin, Guard: Dolly Gehlke, Pianist: Mabel Emmett, Trustee: Ethel Postivo

Installation of the newly chosen officers will take place on Wednesday January 9, 1963.

Thank You . . .

Our grateful thanks to all the dear friends and relatives whose aid and sympathy have lightened the load of our sorrow.

Legion Meeting Friday, Dec. 21

Leo Davis, Commander of Bielenberg-Schooler Post 58, American Legion, reminded all members of this post that a meeting will be held Friday evening, December 21 at 8:00 p. m. in the Memorial Building. All members are seriously urged to attend.

Love maketh everything lovely; hate concentrates itself on the one thing hated.—George McDonald.

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank my friends and neighbors for the flowers and cards I received, and other kindnesses extended to me while I was in the hospital and since returning home. Your thoughtfulness was greatly appreciated.

Merchants Vote To Close Dec. 26

At a meeting of the Genesee Merchants Association held Wednesday noon at Genesee Cafe, it was voted that all business houses who can close will do so on Wednesday, December 26. It was also decided to close on Wednesday, January 2, the day following New Year's. It was felt these closures would give the merchants an extra day at home to visit with friends and relatives.

Community Church To Have Special Music Program

The Genesee Community Church will be having a special music program this coming Sunday. The entire service will be centered around Christmas music. Through the medium of Scripture, Junior and Senior Choral groups, duets, special instrumental numbers, and congregational singing the Christmas story will be told. Everyone is invited to attend this service which will aid in setting the tone for our Christmas observances.

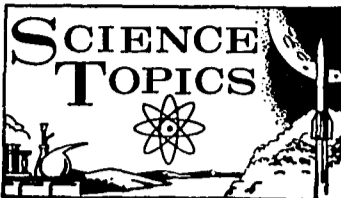

A reminder is made to the Church congregation that there will be no teachers were out of the building and clear in less than one minute.

Sunday school will begin at 10 a. m. The Education Chairman of our Church reminds all parents and children that the Special Christmas offering will be received this Sunday and that the children may place their offering boxes in the offering either at Sunday school or church.

The Community Church extends seasons greetings to all and best wishes for the coming year.

THERE'S A LASER IN YOUR FUTURE

A LASER (acronym for Light Amplification by Stimulated Emission of Radiation), the new "wonder-kind" of the world of science which many feel will be a household word in a year or two produces radiation 20 million times hotter than the sun. Its focused beam can burn through any material. Lasers can be used now as carriers of microwave signals and their future in communications is exciting. A single laser beam, it is estimated, could carry a hundred million television programs simultaneously. Lasers also may be used eventually to "spot weld" tissues in surgery, transmit power to satellites and ignite the plasma in a controlled release of thermonuclear energy. Grinding heat-sensitive materials like plastic—to convert them to granular form—can be a problem because heat generated by the processing will melt the plastic before it can be turned into powder. Shaved dry ice, reports Carbox, is the answer. The dry ice (popular name for solid carbon dioxide) is mixed with the bulk material as it is being ground up and keeps it cool and firm until the operation is completed. . . . A SOLID FUEL rocket now in advanced development stage by an aerospace firm will consume more than 107 tons of fuel at the rate of a ton a second. It will be started by an igniter that produces 50,000 pounds of thrust, more than the power of a turboprop airplane.

LIGHTED superhighways make for safer driving, judging from Chicago's experience with its $237-million Northwest Expressway. The roadway, continuously lighted over its 16-mile length by mercury and fluorescent lights, had a fatality rate during its first full year of operation that was one-third less than the national average for expressways.

OBESSE PERSONS will need an appeal to their pride as readily as they'll respond to a veiled threat to their health, reports Dr. Frederick J. Stare of the Harvard School of Public Health. A Boston study also revealed that "overnutrition" is rarely caused by high-fat or starch-rich foods, he adds, but simply by too much food. Finally, he notes a distinct tendency among fat people to consume the bulk of their calories at night. . . . A COW'S VANITY may be salvaged, but her milk production is the real reason an aging Bossie gets her teeth capped. Worn incisors and related front teeth capped with a stainless-steel alloy help her get the grass down and production up. Bovine caps last at least three years, usually much longer.

GENESEE SAILOR DUE BACK AFTER FAR EAST CRUISE

Raymond J. Teichner, fireman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Teichner of Genesee is scheduled to return to the United States on December 20, after spending six months in the Western Pacific aboard the aircraft carrier USS Hornet. The Hornet operated as part of the Seventh Fleet, a major element of American seapower abroad. The ship will arrive in Long Beach, Calif. where it normally homeported when not on deployment.

While in the Far East, the Hornet visited Hong Kong, the Philippines, Japan and Hawaii. During her visits to foreign ports, several thousand persons visited the ship on guided tours.

The ship was a unit of Task Force 704, anti-submarine warfare group.

Delicious Candies Can Be Made From Mints

Camp Fire and Blue Bird girls are busy selling Mints, Apples and Cakes for the holidays. Now is a good time to purchase a few extra boxes of these delicious little candies as gifts or to try out the recipes that can be made from them.

Here are some recipes using Camp Fire Mints we hope you will use:

- Camp Fire Mint Refrigerikake
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
1 tablespoon cold water
1 ounce sq. of semi-sweet chocolate
24 chocolate Camp Fire Mints
Dash of salt
1/4 cup water
4 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
2 dozen ladyfingers

Soften gelatin in water, set aside. In top of double boiler melt chocolate, chocolate mints, with the 1/4 cup of water and dash of salt (at this time do not let the water in the bottom of the double boiler get too hot). Stir until all the chocolate is well melted and mixture smooth. Add gelatin mixture, stir until dissolved and remove from over hot water. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each is added. Then place this mixture over boiling water and cook two or three minutes, stirring constantly, add vanilla. Let this mixture cool, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in whipped cream. Line bottom and sides of mold with ladyfinger halves. Four chocolate mixture into this. Chill

MOUNTAIN GOAT TRAPPING GIVES ANIMALS NEW HOMES

Already widely distributed in the mountainous parts of Idaho north of the Snake river plains, mountain goats are being introduced into several new ranges of the state and the Fish and Game department reported this week.

Altogether, 24 mountain goats have been trapped in north Idaho and crated for redistribution during the past three years. Plans call for more of this kind.

The majority of these goats were trapped on Black Mountain on the north Fork of the Clearwater river near Canyon Ranger station. The others came from Snow Peak, according to Levi Mohler, chief of game management.

The biggest goat trapped to date was a billy that weighed in at about 200 pounds. Four men subdued him and, so they say, "he was a real hand, blindfolded and hog tied . . ."

Of the Black Mountain goats, eight were shipped to north Idaho's Lake Pend Oreille in the vicinity of Echo Bay, and five went to the Colorado Fish and Game department in exchange for two shipments of wild turkeys, according to Mohler. Three Snow Peak goats were transplanted to Lake Pend Oreille and eight to the Seven Devils mountains.

Unlike highland sheep, which mainly are confined to the Salmon river watershed, mountain goats tend to range in small, scattered groups over much of the state. Each group lives in a rather restricted area.

This presents management problems because the more accessible groups are hunted heavily while the isolated groups are underharvested.

The amount of wool in world production during 1961 was a record 822 million pounds, according to the department of agriculture. U. S. imports were 336 million pounds, an increase of nine percent over 1960.

Gumperson's Law Accounts For Many Mistortunes

(Editor's Note: From the 1963 edition of the Changing Times Calendar and Engagement Book comes this satire discussion of one of the most frustrating of all natural laws. It has plagued mankind for many years.)

January is a good time to think about the law of perverse opposites—or, as it is known to most laymen, Gumperson's law. It will refresh your understanding of the universe and steel you for the year ahead, a year that is not going to be any better than the last one, as you know perfectly well. Why not? Gumperson's law is still unrepented.

For those of you who are unaware, Gumperson's law neatly explains a number of irritating events that might otherwise be put down to mere chance. It Gumperson's law, for example that causes blue grass to grow in the cracks of concrete sidewalks but not on your lawn.

It accounts, too, for the fact that you can throw a burnt match out the window of your car and start a forest fire while you can use two boxes of matches and a whole edition of the Sunday paper without being able to start a fire under the dry logs in your fireplace.

The law, stated simply, is that the contradictory of a welcome probability will assert itself whenever such an eventuality is likely to be most frustrating. Readers familiar with these matters will perhaps recognize another version of the law: The outcome of a given desired probability will be inverse to the degree of desirability.

A brief elucidation of the law, with details on its origin and development is presented herewith for the benefit of the lay reader.

Dr. R. F. Gumperson, internationally famous divicist, began serious work in 1938 on a phenomenon long known to scientists but up until then considered as a mere curiosity. This was the fact that the forecasting record of the weather bureau, despite its use of the most advanced equipment and highly trained personnel, was not as good as that of The Old Farmer's Almanac. After four years of research, Dr. Gumperson enunciated his now famous law and was able to make a series of predictions later confirmed by other scientific workers in the field. Some of the better known of these include the following:

- That after a raise in salary you will have less money at the end of the month than you had before.
-That the girl at the race track who bets according to the color of the jockey's shirt will pick more winners than the man who has studied the past performance of every horse on the program.

-That children have more energy after a hard day of play than they do after a good night's sleep.

-That the person who buys the most raffle tickets has the least chance of winning.

-That a child can be exposed to the mumps for weeks without catching them but can catch them without exposing the day before the family goes on vacation.

-That the dishwasher will break down the evening you give a dinner party for ten people.

-That good parking places are always on the other side of the street.

Dr. Gumperson served as a consultant to the armed services during World War II and evolved the procedure whereby the more a recruit knew about a given subject the better chance he had of receiving an assignment involving some other subject.

There is no knowing to what further glittering heights Dr. Gumperson's genius would have led him had it not been for his untimely death in 1947. Strolling along the highway one evening, he was obeying the pedestrian rule of walking to the left, facing traffic. He was struck down from behind by a Hillman-Minx driven by an English visitor hugging the left side of the road.

METHODS OF IDENTIFYING GAME MEAT NOW AVAILABLE

Conservation law enforcement officers now have a tool they have wanted for many years. It is a reliable method of identifying the origin of game meat, even when cooked or mixed with the flesh of domestic animals.

The State Department of Health is offering its laboratory facilities and professional help in conducting such tests as needed. The cooperative arrangement with the Fish and Game department extends from the laboratory into the court room in cases calling for expert testimony.

The search for a rapid and simple method for identifying game meat began several years ago as a joint venture between the New Hampshire Fish and Game department and the state university. The project eventually succeeded.

This is a good demonstration of cooperation involving the Idaho departments and departments in another state. It eventually will benefit wildlife law enforcement throughout the nation and may help other types of police work. It could even curb livestock thefts.

Christian Science Church Services
The great significance of the birth and life of the Master, Christ Jesus, will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural readings will include the account of Matthew of wise men who followed a star to Bethlehem; "And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him; and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold and frankincense and myrrh."

From Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, the following will be read (p. 315): "Jesus' spiritual origin and understanding enabled him to demonstrate the facts of being,—to prove irrefutably how spiritual Truth destroys material errors, heals sickness, and overcomes death. The divine conception of Jesus pointed to this truth and presented an illustration of creation."

The little girls in the primary department in Miss Nesbit's room gave a program recently. Among the little companions as they might be. Witness the number of dogs you see parked in the poorly ventilated cars while owners go shopping. These dogs may suffocate or die of heat stroke for just this reason.

Remember that a dog needs more oxygen than humans do, so having the car window open an inch or two isn't always sufficient. On hot muggy days when little air circulates, the situation can be particularly acute.

So if you're planning to have the pleasure of your dog's company this summer on brief trips to town or on your vacation trip, do take precautions when Fido must be left in the car. Be sure to park in the shade and in a spot that will stay shaded for as long as you'll be away. Open windows as wide as you can without fear of your pet's jumping out. Vent panes can be opened completely unless your dog is small enough to squeeze through.

It's always a wise precaution to carry a wide-mouthed jar filled with water in the car. When you leave your pet, uncap the jar so that he has access to the water while you're away.

Feeding Tip: The old-time theory that a dog craves variety in his diet may be true. If you feed him a modern quality prepared dog food such as Friskies, he will be getting 10 or more different ingredients including meat, fish and liver and he will happily eat it every day of his life.

Steelhead Punch Cards
By John R. Woodworth
Steelhead fishermen are urged to pick up new punch cards and return them as soon as they are sure their last trip has been made for this year. New ones will be available from license vendors by January 1, when they are effective. New fishing licenses, of course, also are required by all anglers beginning New Year's Day.

The punch cards, first required last January 1 for steelhead but not for chinook salmon, still will be without charge. However, a proposal will be placed before the State Legislature in January asking that fees of $1 each be permitted at a later date for both salmon and steelhead punch cards.

The return of all steelhead cards, whether punched or not, is vitally necessary to show the number of big ocean-going rainbow trout that are harvested in relation to the number of steelhead and steelhead punch cards. This is the ratio of catch to escapement for management purposes. This figure should be about 50 per cent of the total Idaho spawning run.

Returned steelhead punch cards reporting catches will be compared with the success shown on the forthcoming fishing harvest survey cards. Except for current experiments in the planting of eyed eggs in the Clearwater and Lemhi drainages, Idaho's steelhead and salmon sports fisheries are dependent entirely on natural reproduction.

The 1962 steelhead punch cards may be mailed directly to the Idaho Fish and Game department in Boise, or left with local vendors of fishing and hunting licenses to be forwarded to DeReus Named Supervisor.

Gene DeReus, whose combined score on written, oral and experience evaluation under the Idaho Merit System Council placed him first among all applicants taking the state wide open competitive examinations, was appointed land management supervisor this week. He will move his home from Lewiston to Boise. He has a wife and two children.

Although the Fish and Game Department is not a land management agency, DeReus will supervise a wide program under which food is grown for wildlife. This includes planting shrubs and trees as cover for game and windbreaks for farmers, reseeding big game winter range, building fences and cattle guards as needed, taking erosion control measures, developing and maintaining public access sites, and arranging with farmers on a share-cropping basis where wildlife will benefit from the cover and food thus provided.

DeReus first was employed as a conservation officer in January, 1952, having majored at Montana State University as a wildlife technician and won his Bachelor of Science degree in 1950. He moved up to game warden in 1950, to game biologist in 1953 and qualified as a game biologist in 1955.

Age-Weight Data
Animals from areas where feed is scarce are lighter for the same age, classes than those on good ranges, according to studies showing sex, age and weights of hog-dressed big game species. Similarly, herds which are hunted lighter have a larger proportion of males and older animals in the hunter kill.

Through analysis of such information, adjustments are made to provide increased benefits to hunters and to maintain herds at their highest production levels by obtaining a better distribution of hunters and kill.

Retriever Dogs Important
Tired of leading a dog's life, after wading marshlands and swift rivers and good sportsmanship require that every effort be made to retrieve all cripples.

National studies show at least 3 out of four ducks that are crippled over water or marshland never were recovered. Yet a well-trained retriever dog will "fetch" 95 per cent of these ducks under the most rugged conditions.

Present indications, based on last winter's waterfowl counts in the Pacific Flyway, are that the duck population is down this year—another good reason for retrieving all downed ducks.

Upland game bird hunters also use well-trained dogs to good advantage. The success ratio of pheasant hunters who use good dogs is higher than it is for those who do not. They not only find more birds but also recover most of the cripples.

More Regulations Mailed
Waterfowl and trapping regulations now are in the hands of authorized vendors of fishing-hunting licenses. By way of review, the duck and goose seasons begins at noon, October 1.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO NEWS
University of Idaho students will be heading home for the holidays at 5 p. m. Friday, December 21, for a 16-day reprieve from classes. Classes will resume on Monday, January 7.

Students will be packing their books home with them, however, as final examinations for the first semester get under way on Friday, January 25.

Firm packing of silage is important because it keeps out air that causes spoilage, University of Idaho extension specialists say.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT EXTENSION URGED FOR MOTORISTS
Expectations that Idaho's December driving conditions are likely to be less hazardous should intensify every motorist's efforts to use extreme caution—and consideration.

So far, weather conditions through out the state have been fairly normal, fewer roads have been reported covered with ice and snow and traffic deaths have not climbed as they do in the nation as a whole during December. Idaho's annual shows a trend in reverse of the rest of the country during the last month of the year.

Families planning holiday trips are urged to be prepared for sudden bad weather that can bring ice, snow fog and tragedy. Each driver should estimate the time it will take to drive a given distance, then add at least 50 per cent more time allowance to prevent an urge to drive too fast, beat the other car to an intersection or pass the slow driver ahead of him.

No one can predict the volume of traffic on streets and highways during the last minute shopping days nor can an estimate be made about the impulse actions of any given number of drivers. Any one of the hundreds of factors contributing to Idaho accidents cannot be latched onto as the sole means to prevent further highway slaughter; all of them must be considered by the individual motorist.

The Spirit of Good Will cannot begin in December and end in January. Consideration for others can neither be newly adopted nor cancelled when a driver's license is received for the first time. Both attitudes must be contagious.

YOUR Social Security

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question—
I intend to go on working just as long as I possibly can. How will my earnings affect my social security benefits after I reach 72 next year?

Answer—
You can get a social security check developed from birth, but the effort to improve them can be accelerated at all times. All of the traffic laws ever written, the most rigid enforcement program ever conceived and assessment of penalties to the limit of all constitutional rights cannot prevent the hundreds of accidents fostered by inconsideration.

Every driver must do more than merely obey the law. He must avoid accidents with others who might disregard the rules as well as do more than his part to prevent others from making mistakes. Christmas courtesy can become contagious.

STATE AGENCY CUTS REPORT PROCEDURE FOR TRUCK OPERATORS

"Idaho is believed to be the first state in the nation to combine its special fuel's permits and vehicle registration for the trucking industry into a single document," according to Jack F. Farley, director of the Department of law enforcement's motor carrier division.

Farley said the new system has been adopted and will affect all special fuel's vehicles covered by Idaho's uniform registration act. "Many states require as many as seven different permits for each truck operating within its boundaries," Farley commented. "For several years we have been successfully attempting to eliminate the duplication of records and reports as well as the necessity for truckers to register and file reports with more than one state agency," he continued.

"Several years ago we were able to confine the trucker's business procedure with this one agency and our latest improvement is another step forward in reducing paper work and cost," Farley reported.

The director said a letter from an out-of-town manufacturing concern, which operates trucks in 36 different states, was read to the group and exemplifies industry's acceptance in the Idaho system. The letter, in part, stated, "not only are your fees reasonable in comparison with other states but the simplicity and ease of your reporting system is without parallel."

H. D. CHRISTMAS PARTY
The Genesee Home Demonstration Club members with their husbands as guests held a pot luck supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johann on Saturday evening.

Following the meal, an election of officers was conducted, naming Mrs. Daniel Kammerer the new president and Mrs. Harry Eglund, Jr., secretary. The club will meet on January 17 with Mrs. Dale Becker.

time for the trucking industry," the motor carrier director stated. "At the same time we have been able to collect all of the highway taxes due the state with a minimum of defaults," he said.

At the first annual meeting of the motor carrier investigating auditor's meeting in Boise this week, all procedures were reviewed and a working manual prepared for office and field work, Farley reported.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING "ELECTRICALLY"

Christmas shopping "electrically" can cut down pre-holiday exhaustion and step up your gift giving success, according to Dorothy Smith, Home Economist for the W. W. P. Co.

"A small electric appliance that you use often carefully," Mrs. Smith said, "will show the receiver that you like him or her well enough to give something useful as well as attractive."

When you shop at the housewares counters you'll see that today's small electric appliances are newly designed and color-styled to be as handsome as other contemporary home furnishings. They are equipped with improved automatic controls, they operate more efficiently and are easier than ever to use and to clean.

It's a good time, Mrs. Smith pointed out, to first list all the people to whom you're giving Christmas gifts and then to make another list of all electric housewares you can think of, from blenders, toasters, coffee makers, and broilers, to skillets, shavers, toasters and waffle irons. Chances are when your list is complete you'll have covered the right gift for most everyone. After that shopping will be easy.

Here are some suggestions from Mrs. Smith to help you choose perfect presents:

For homemakers: electric blender, broiler, can opener, coffee grinder, coffee maker, food grinder, food warmer, toaster, griddle, saucepan, skillet, steam iron, toaster.

For a Man: electric blanket, clock, knife sharpener, shaver, hair cutting set, meat slicer, ice crusher, dog clipper.

For a Senior Citizen: electric blanket, fan, heating pad, hair dryer, massager-vibrator, heating vaporizer, or any of the electric housewares that make cooking or other household easier.

For Young People: electric blanket, clock, pop corn popper, ice cream freezer, shaver, and if they're in college, an electric iron, portable heater, hot plate or coffee maker.

For Baby: electric baby food warmer or bottle warmer. Parents of young children also appreciate electric vaporizers, portable heaters and hair dryer.

Mr. Bours, who obtained his undergraduate degree at Princeton and Masters at Columbia is director of sales of Du Pont's Organic Chemicals Division in Philadelphia. Mr. Rundt is director of sales of the East-West Trade Upsilon, honorary chemistry fraternity, and Signi Xi, honorary research society.

Mr. Rundt heads an organization of consultants on international business whose clients include banks, industries and service houses both here and abroad, and which is widely known for two publications, Rundt's Market Reports and Rundt's Weekly Intelligence Briefs. An intelligence officer during the war, he served as Chief of Counter Espionage at General Mark Clark's headquarters and subsequently as Chief of Economic Intelligence of the East-West Trade Committee in Vienna. He was personally cited by General Eisenhower and the British Imperial General Staff.

Asgrow is a widely diversified Co. with subsidiaries in Canada, Mexico, Argentina, Italy and Germany. It distributes vegetable and field crop seeds to more than 80 countries and is also prominent in lawn and garden supplies and chemicals for agriculture. Through 24 stores in 10 states and Canada, it operates a chain of retail service units for farmer customers.

30 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Alexander, Pearl Perkins and rural carriers, Geo. Post, Harold Raymond, and Leo Edwards, the latter substituting for Al Mayer, worked until after 10 o'clock Tuesday night sorting the mail that patrons of the office might have their Christmas, and other mail as soon as was possible when it became known that the engine on the local train became disabled between Moscow and Pullman. Wedding bells rang out for the 3rd time in 2 months for Pine Grove young people, when George Whitte and Ella Lunder motored to Asotin and were married on Saturday.

50 YEARS AGO

Agnes and Will Wardrobe arrived here Christmas day from Sublett, Idaho where they have been the past two years. They commuted on their claim 2 weeks ago and expect to remain in Genesee indefinitely. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rosenau are expected home today from Leduc, Alberta and will make their home here after the good old Palouse. A number of High School students took a job sled ride out to Spurbucks Saturday night where they spent the evening as guests of Pearl and David Spurbuck.

It was a White Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. Dedrick Scharnhorst drove overland to Cameron early on Monday morning.

Miss Ernest Rosenstein of Seattle is home on a month's vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rosenstein. Fred Morscheck, who accidentally shot himself in the right hand while cleaning a revolver a week ago last Sunday is now much improved.

December 22, 1883. Pete and Chris Stelz are over Asotin way murdering geese. Marshal Hayes had one of our young men pulled this week for riding a horse on the sidewalk last Monday.

Knute Uhrl and Chris Oberg are now going to school. The Poor Man's Dance occurs on Monday of next week: Dance, 34c; supper at Ralphs, 24c. All come and dance until morning.

Dr. Reese is grading and beautifying his residence lots this week. The Rohendahl and Koelzer salon property at sheriffs sale did not sell for big figures. Joe Richards got the building cheap.

Ask Gen Stelz about his skating experience and how deep he found the water. The gold hunters Messrs. Bell, Davidson and Raymond have returned from the trip up the Snake river.

Herman Nebelstuck now plays the organ for the Congo's Sunday school. Merchant Glass has purchased the Barney Rohendahl dwelling from the Bank of Genesee.

The following is a report of school district for month ending Dec. 22. Those present every day were: Ices Morrison, Alan Morrison, Bert and Henry Moersch, Emma and Samuel Knudson, Soren Soby, Clarence Jain and Irma and Maud Jackson.

INTELLIGENT LIFE ON DISTANT STARS? IF INTELLIGENT LIFE exists elsewhere in the universe it is quite sparse, according to a thesis advanced by Dr. Su-Su Huang of Goddard Space Flight Center. Beings comparable to humans could exist only on 1 to 2 per cent of the stars of the vast Milky Way galaxy within some 6 quadrillion miles of the sun, Dr. Huang says. Within 50 trillion miles of the sun he adds, there are only two planets that appear capable of supporting this type of life. Chances of finding and communicating with extra-terrestrial contemporaries are rather slim, Dr. Huang concludes. But he still thinks it's worth trying.

THE NILE RIVER, lifeline of Egypt, being its long history, very nearly dried up 15,000 to 20,000 years ago, according to Rhodes W. Fairbridge, Columbia University geologist. But 11,000 years ago came tremendous tropical rains that brought the Nile to flood stage regularly and paved the way for the golden age of Egyptian culture. . . HELPING TO SATISFY the huge U. HARD-TO-WORK aerospace alloys are now being frozen into shape. An unformed metal blank is placed against a die in a water-filled cylinder which is then refrigerated until the water turns to ice. The expanding ice behaves like a piston to force the alloy into the desired design. . . AN ARTIFICIAL HEART is being tested in the chest cavities of animals at the Cleveland Clinic. External air pressure actuates a double-end cylinder which pumps blood from the heart chamber. This piston-type heart is said to offer important advantages over other designs currently being evaluated.

COMMERCIAL HYBRID WHEAT may soon be a reality according to the Department of Agriculture. Producing a hybrid seed necessitates growing plants whose flowers are made, sterile and unable to fertilize themselves. These plants get pollen from a normal plant to produce seed. The resulting plant is crossed with another that will restore male fertility to produce kernels. Result: A greatly increased per acre yield and reduced production costs.

Old-Fashioned Bean Soup

Into the making of Old-Fashioned Bean Soup with its heart-warming goodness goes Idaho's plump perfect large white Great Northern beans cooked with a ham hock too large to eat. Please don't bother to put the beans through a sieve. Let them hobnob with the carrot cubes, the diced ham, the cut celery of the finished dish. The trick to the soup's not seeping, an all-time common fault with the average recipe, is the addition of one-third potato. Could be leftover or instant.

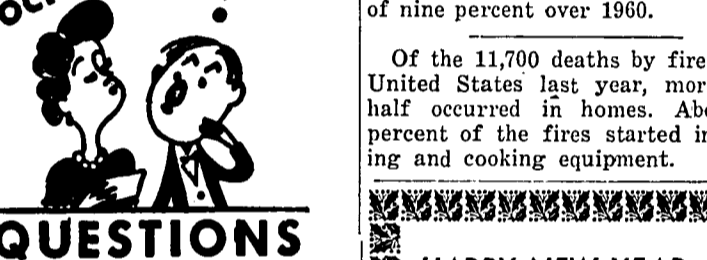

Old-Fashioned Bean Soup, Idaho Style (makes 10 generous servings)

- 2 1/2 cups (1 pound) Idaho Great Northern Beans 12 cups (3 quarts) water 1 large onion, finely chopped 2 cloves garlic, minced 2 small bay leaf 2 cups (1/2 cup) celery 1 cup diced raw carrots salt and pepper as desired

Add to beans and ham bone. Taste for seasoning. Cover and simmer 1 hour longer. Remove ham bone and cut off the meat. Dice it and add to soup. Reheat to just boiling, stirring carefully to avoid breaking beans. Makes 10 hearty servings. To serve: One-half cup heavy cream or undiluted evaporated milk may be stirred into the soup just before serving. Or a dusting of cheese-grated Parmesan or shredded Cheddar. Or, if little or no meat on the ham bone, put 1/2 sliced frankfurters over top of soup. Or crumbled broiled bacon bits. Or tiny bread cubes browned in butter.

P.S. These good-tasting Idaho-grown large white Great Northern beans, by the by, are wonderful when used in any of your recipes calling for white beans. One cup of the dry beans will make 3 1/2 cups when cooked.

YOUR Social Security ?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: I am 66 and still working fairly hard. Would there be any social security payments for me at this time?

ANSWER: That's difficult to answer without more details about your case. This is one of the reasons it is best for you to visit the social security office as soon as possible. Because our applications are only retroactive for one year, you may lose benefits if you put off your visit to the social security office.

MORE FISHERS PLANTED IN IDAHO

Seventeen more fishers have been fire-trapped in Idaho and released in Idaho as part of a long-range program to reintroduce this tubercular species, which resembles an out-sized marten, on ranges where some biologists believe they lived many years ago. The first shipment of Canadian fishers was received by the department last March and another is expected later this winter.

The fishers received earlier this year were released in the Chamberlain Basin primitive area. The current shipment was taken by Sno-Cat over the Montana road and turned out west of the Rid River near Mountain Meadow. The third group will go north of Mountain Meadow near Powell.

The main purpose of this federal aid project is to restore a rare and interesting species of wildlife to its native range in Idaho. However, the successful releases conceivably can result in some beneficial effect on the porcupine damage problem and possibly future fisher harvesting.

SALT USEFUL IN KEEPING ROADS, WALKS FREE OF ICE

Homemakers who live in the snow belt states can help their families get through the winter with less chance of accidents and injuries if they adapt the modern "bare pavement" highway maintenance measures to their own streets and walks.

In reporting increased reliance on salt for quick removal of snow and ice from the nation's streets and highways the Salt Institute projected safety and savings based on accident records. The projection indicates that efficient "bare pavement" winter highway maintenance will save 325 lives, avert personal injuries to 32,000 persons and avoid half a billion dollars in storm losses.

Records from New York City showed that traffic accident fatalities and injuries were cut in half after the city began using salt to remove ice and snow from the streets. Homemakers can easily control ice and snow hazards around the home by using salt in much the same way the safety and street officials do:

1. If possible, spread salt just as soon as the first snow flakes begin to fall. Sprinkle about one-fourth pound of salt per square yard of guests and Christmas day guests of the Odenborgs were Mrs. Odenborg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Tunnel of Lewiston and the Misses Dollie and Theo Smith of Moscow.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Peterson and family entertained at dinner Christmas Day, Pastor and Mrs. Wm. Bash and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gilge and boys and Mr. and Mrs. Thor Gilje, Janet and Marilyn.

Mrs. Lily Larson and Elmo visited with Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Carlson in Lewiston, on Wednesday. Sunday they had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Arvin Nordby in Moscow. Saturday they attended at dinner Christmas wedding at the Emmanuel Lutheran church in Moscow. Christmas Eve guests of Mrs. Larson and Elmo were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Nordby, Mr. and Mrs. Arvin Nordby, Mrs. Bernice Nordby and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nordby of Palo Alto, Calif. Mrs. Blume, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward guest of the Larsons. The Larsons and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Nordby will attend the 40th wedding of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Nordby in Lewiston.

5. Spread another light application of salt after the walks and drives are cleared. This prevents an icy glaze from forming when temperatures drop. As a final note, the Salt Institute suggests: always carry emergency equipment such as tire chains, small shovel and a bag of salt in the trunk of the car. A few handfuls of salt applied at the rear wheels for traction can be a time and chill saver when stuck on slippery ice at the curb. This may be a life-saver when stranded on ice in some dangerous intersection or hilly area.

Big Game Harvest Down This Year

This fall's unusually mild, snow-free weather at most Idaho elevations provided outdoor Idaho folks with the season-long opportunity of getting into many areas which are often snow-bound by early fall. It also resulted in statewide elk and deer harvest figures that are lower than those of last year, according to returned hunter report cards. Similar reports have been received from all neighboring states and British Columbia.

However, over 10,700 hunter report cards returned by elk hunters to date indicate that hunter success was the same as last year. This could change as later reports are received. In any case, the total elk harvest in 1962 will be less than last year's.

The same was true for the deer harvest as determined from over 28,700 report cards received by December 20. The 1962 deer hunter success was slightly better than last year, according to the cards, especially in southern Idaho.

But new indications are that the total deer harvest this fall will be less than last year's.

Final harvest figures for this year will not be available until information from the post-season harvest questionnaire and from late report cards is tabulated in mid-winter.

On the brighter side, the prevailing mild weather all fall and into mid-December in most places kept big game animals high and scattered on the summer range where the forage is good. This made hunting slow in Idaho and all western states, but spared more constricted winter ranges where browse is limited.

How to stand guard for freedom Today

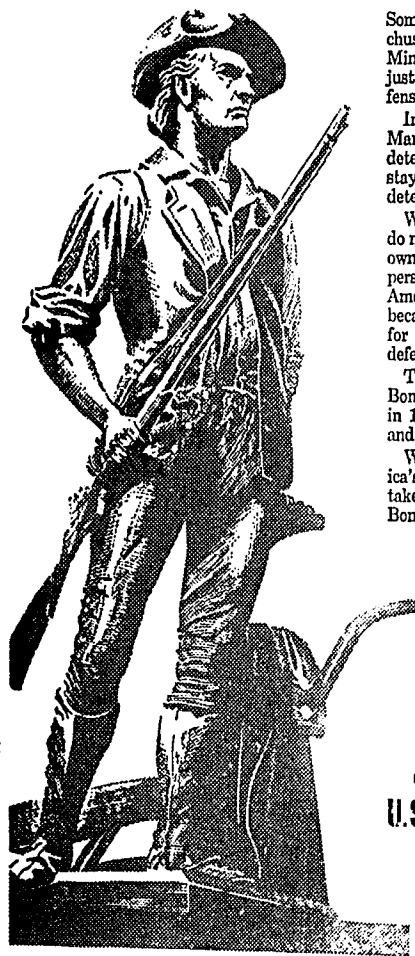

Some men of Concord in old Massachusetts once got themselves called Minute Men because it took them just 60 seconds to come to the defense of freedom, day or night.

In the years since, the Minute Man has become a symbol of our determination to stay strong and to stay free. Other symbols of that determination are Savings Bonds.

When you buy a Bond today you do more than invest money for your own future. You also show your own personal determination to keep America strong and free right now—because the same dollars you save for tomorrow help the government defend freedom today.

That's why buying U.S. Savings Bonds is the way to be a "Minute Man" in 1962. And Bonds work for you and your country around the clock.

Why not join the ranks of America's modern Minute Men? All it takes is $18.75 and a visit to the Bond window at the bank.

Lola Explores "Tower of Hope"

Life is a "many-splendored thing" to eight-year-old Lola Lucas, serving her second term as National Poster Child for Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America. Despite the braces and wheelchair on which she depends, because dystrophy is progressively weakening her muscles, Lola is filled with zest and ambition.

She loves to go places and do things. She has traveled from coast to coast, charming audiences with her unaffected poise and spontaneous wit. She has at the same time impressed them with the sober realization of the tragic effects of muscular dystrophy.

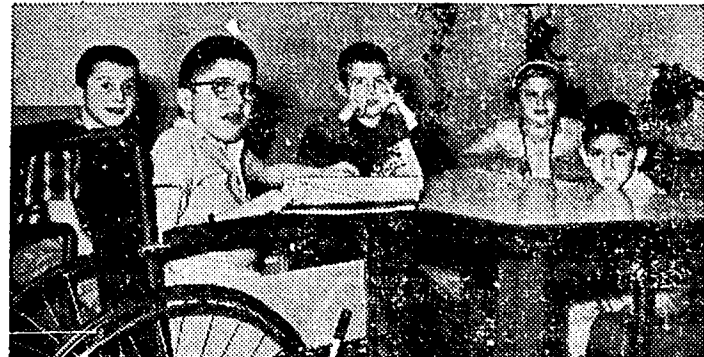

A "must" during Lola's recent trip to New York City was a visit to the Institute for Muscle Disease—a tower of hope for her and for the many, many thousands of others whose lives are shadowed by this crippling disease.

ALL THOSE WIGGLES—are they the cause of muscular dystrophy? Lola's latest ambition is to be a scientist and to help "make everybody healthy."

UNFAZED BY BIG WORDS, Lola takes a dig at a scientific abstract on muscular dystrophy in the Institute's library. She likes stretching her mind.

TIME OUT FOR A VISIT with "the boys," patients in the IMD's Metabolism Unit. Lola brings a welcome note of relaxation into their strict schedule.

winter ranges in good condition by not over-browsing them with too many animals for the amount of food available cannot be overstated. This achieves the primary goal of assuring good hunting for the future without damage to the winter range. The 1962 deer regulations were established following last spring's trend counts, which were the highest in several years for many parts of the state. Slow hunting conditions resulted when these deer were widely dispersed on the snow-free ranges and not readily available to nimrod.

Next year's hunting regulations again will be based upon range big game populations as they exist in the late winter-early spring period of 1963. In view of the underharvesting of both elk and deer in some areas, next year's crops should be better than average.
