Snow, Cold Weather Returns To Palouse Country

After the rains and warmer temperatures of early last week, it was expected that Genesee and much of the Pacific Northwest would have to do without a "White Christmas." But as has been the case all winter, Mother Nature did an abrupt about-face and dropped the temperature and snow Thursday dumping nearly five inches of fresh snow back on the ground.

The rains of Tuesday and Wednesday which quickly melted the heavy snow cover brought floods over much of the Northwest and even down into California, caused Cow Creek to swell over its banks and flood much farm land in the Valley. Several homes in the flats of Genesee were threatened before the high water subsided. The loss of land to erosion during this sudden run-off cannot be estimated yet, although the damage is expected to be considerable.

By Wednesday night the heavy rains had taken most of the snow from this area, leaving the ground, or at least the first inches of ground, a soft, muddy mass. The temperatures started to drop late Wednesday afternoon and snow began to fall that evening. Snow fell intermittently Thursday and early Christmas day. The sun shone briefly Christmas afternoon but the temperatures remained cold. The weather Saturday remained unsettled but Sunday morning saw another brief but severe snow storm that brought several more inches of snow. Sunday evening the skies cleared again and the mercury dipped down close to the zero mark.

Only scattered snow has been received Monday and Tuesday of this week but the temperatures have been low both during the day and at night.

December Rainfall Will Set Record

With only two days remaining, it seems obvious that the rainfall figures of this month will set at least a ten-year record high not only for December but any month since 1954. According to John Luedke's measurements of moisture, a total of 5.64 inches of rain has fallen during the first 29 days of December, 1964.

Prior to this year the wettest December was recorded in 1958 when a record of 3.86 inches fell. This month saw that figure bettered by almost two inches. Other December rainfalls which were considered above average included 1955 with 3.41; 1956 with 3.22, and 1958 with 3.86.

In addition to being the wettest December on record since 1954, this month also bettered the previous month of November, 1958 when 4.51 inches of moisture fell which was a high figure for any month.

For contrast, local residents can look back to July of 1960 when not a trace of moisture fell in Mr. Luedke's rain gauge.

Mrs. Verla Hall Appointed As Acting Postmistress

Mrs. Verla Hall assumed the duty of Acting Postmistress at Genesee effective December 27. Mrs. Hall will replace John Hickman who transferred to serve as rural carrier on Route 1.

Mr. Hickman has served as local postmaster since July 1, 1952.

The position of rural carrier on Route one became vacant when Ed Carlson retired recently.

Home Decoration Winners Named

Three winners were named this week in the annual home decoration contest sponsored by the Genesee Merchants Association. Each year the merchants award prizes to the home best decorated in the holiday spirit. This is for outside decorations only.

First place winner in this year's contest was the Jack Magee home. Second place was awarded to Ray Johann and third place to the L. W. (Jack) Jackson home.

Judging Rules

Under rules of the contest adopted by the Merchants those who were awarded prizes one year will not be eligible for judging again the following year. This rule was inserted because there are several homeowners who do such an outstanding job of decorating their homes each year, their continuous eligibility would practically preclude other homeowners from winning. It was felt by the merchants that if the new rule were in effect it might encourage more entries during the holiday season.

VOLCANIC HOT SPOTS can be mapped by a new aerial infrared detection system. The young chickens were fed a diet lacking in essential vitamins, then had their brain waves checked on an electroencephalograph. HYPERBARIC THERAPY, the administration of oxygen in a pressure chamber, shows promise in treatment of a variety of ailments and injuries including heart surgery, tetanus, gas gangrene, shock, "bends", and carbon monoxide poisoning. According to National Cylinder Gas, Chicago, the chambers available today are a far cry from the small one-room units once used to decompress deep sea divers and "sand hogs". The units now have space for an extra-large operating room separate pre-operating, post operating, decompression and scrub rooms.

Booklet Would Help In Preparing Taxes

Do you pay the correct amount of federal income tax?

A booklet that will help you prepare an accurate return for 1964 has recently been published by the Internal Revenue Service. Free copies are available in the county agent's office. The title is "Farmer's Tax Guide, 1965 edition."

Careful study of the guide can be helpful in several ways, says Virgil Kennedy, farm management specialist of the University of Idaho extension service. The guide explains new provisions of the tax law. It gives a sample return of farm income and expenses, explains depreciation, and tells how to report gains and losses from sales or exchanges of property.

Accurate records are important, the specialist pointed out in calling attention to a section on that subject. If your income tax return is audited by the Internal Revenue Service, you may be asked to explain the items reported. Adequate records are substantiated by sales slips, receipts and canceled checks They are essential. Audits are sometimes made several years after the return is filed.

New in the current edition of the tax guide is an explanation of deduction for automobile expenses. Self-employed individuals and employees may determine their deductible costs of operating passenger cars by using a standard rate of 10 cents per mile for the first 15,000 miles of business use and seven cents per mile for each additional mile. This is in lieu of all operating and fixed costs for business use.

There is a new minimum standard deduction if adjusted gross income is $5,000 or more. The guide explains this and gives the answer to many other common tax questions asked by the farmers.

Speaking Of Taxes

There is a great difference between demand and desire. Desire is expressed in the 1965-67 General Fund Budget. requests. The Legislature through the joint finance and appropriation committee will do its best to determine the demand.

The taxpayers of Idaho must help with this determination. For they must pay for needed government expenditures but they should not be expected to pay for more than the absolute need.

Total General Fund appropriation requests, as reported in the news media, are $154.9 million for the 1965-67 biennial period. Which is an increase of $53.0 million or 52% over the present general fund budget appropriations (before cutback).

Need should not be measured by percentages, neither should need be demonstrated by the averages spent by other states. Yes, both can be used as indicators

The State Board of Education is asking for a 67% increase in General Fund appropriations for state aid to local education—from $40 to $67 million which it is said will bring Idaho to somewhere near the average per pupil expenditures of the other states. Average pupil expenditures in other states should only be used as an indicator, only that, no more than should the 33 districts in Idaho which have per pupil current expenditures in excess of the average being sought after, $453.

The criteria should be, and I believe to be: To what level should teachers pay be brought? What supplies and teachers aids are necessary and could be made possible which are not now used? How much of the increase would be used to hire more teachers, counsellors, supervisors, etc? (Pupil-professional educator ratio in Idaho was 22.97 pupils per teacher during the school year ending in 1961 compared to 22.08 pupils per teacher in 1964),

In other words, and this is equally true for all government expenditures, the legislators and the people of Idaho should be told in more detail to what use the additional money requested will be put. If for example $20 of the $27 million went for increased salaries based on the 1963-64 educational staff, it would mean an average annual increase in excess of $1,300 for each. Which would increase the 1963-64 Idaho average of $4,940 to $6,243 and would make Idaho 3rd from the top in the 11 Western States. But of course the other states will probably increase their 1965-67 salaries too.

Appropriations for education, health and welfare in the past have equalled approximately 87% of the total general fund. These three functions also equal 87% of the total requests for the 1965-67 biennial period which among other things shows that the requests for the other general fund functions are also increasing rapidly.

Budget requests for General Fund appropriations for the Legislature, Judiciary and General Administrative as a group are up 25% over the previous appropriations; Department of Agriculture and Business Regulation are up 40%; all Education functions 60%; Public Health 32%; Welfare 29%; Protection and Correction 29%; Tax Administration 25%; Public Lands and Investments 57%; and all other functions not included above, 100%.

The final action by the Legislature depends on many things—an important factor though will be the attitude of the people of Idaho.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Each time the old year comes to say
"Goodbye"
It brings an emptiness I can't explain;
A memory of bluebirds in the sky,
Of daffodils stampeding once again.

But when the little naked baby year
Goes "Googley— Ogley— Ogley,—Boogan-Boo"
It brings me gladness just to know I'm here
To wish a HAPPY NEW YEAR'S DAY to you.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES

Local members of the Juliaetta congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses are leaving Jan. 1st for Wallace, Idaho where they will attend a 3-day convention being held at the Wallace High school auditorium Jan. 1-3 according to Mr. Miller, local presiding minister.

Mr. Miller who will head the delegates said, "The theme of the convention program is "Speak The Word of God With Boldness." The group will receive instruction on how to fortify themselves and others against the deteriorating influences of communism, juvenile delinquincy, materialism, and other threats to Christian living peculiar to this era.'

Assemblies such as this are part of the educational program being carried on in 194 lands. Jehovah's Witnesses last year devoted more than 162,000,000 hours to the house-to-house ministry and some home Bible study work, according to the spokesman.

Mr. Miller added that despite recent flood conditions in the Wallace area more than 650 delegates from northern Idaho and Montana will attend. The program has been arranged to encourage Bold Christian Speech and Clean Conduct

The local Witnesses will share with other conventioners in inviting the public to Sunday's 3:00 p. m. discourse, Our Divided World Is It Here To Stay?

New Insect Invader

Scientists of the University of Idaho College of agriculture are meeting the challenge of a new insect invader. Control of the mint flea beetle can be accomplished by use of insecticides and crop rotation, according to Norman Waters, an entomologist at the Parma branch experiment station.

He said the insect was found for the first time in Idaho last summer and was officially identified in October. Specimens were collected in several fields of southwestern Idaho where most of the state's relatively small acreage of mint is grown. The mint flea beetle eats holes in leaves and sometimes causes considerable leaf fall and browning of the plants. Larvae feed on the roots in the spring. Damaged plants are stunted. Some die.

Crop rotation or summer fallowing controls the beetle to some extent, Waters said. Under these practices the field and surrounding area should be kept free from volunteer or wild mints, as the beetles will survive on these.

However, he said, soil treatment with insecticides is the most effective method of control.

These insecticides are suggested: Aldrin at the rate of five pounds per acre, broadcast on the soil before planting and thoroughly worked into the top six inches; Dieldrin at the rate of three pounds to the acre and applied the same way; DDT at 25 to 30 pounds on stubble after harvest only; and Malathion at the rate of one pound as needed. The latter two are for control of adult flea

Holiday Trip Harrowing Experience For Wicks Family

Mr. and Mrs. Gale Wicks and children of The Dalles, Ore. encountered some harrowing experiences before reaching Genesee to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Jones and family.

After leaving The Dalles, the Wicks family and Virginia Brodin, also of The Dalles, but enroute to Lewiston to visit relatives, got as far as the John Day Dam on the Columbia, where further travel was blocked by rising waters. They retreated down the Columbia as far as Biggs Junction and crossed a bridge there to the Washington side, then started up the river again. They encountered a road washout which could not be passed and turned around.

Then they drove on down the river on the Washington side to beyond Biggs Junction bridge, only to encounter another slide. Then they came back to the bridge, crossed it again to Oregon, attempted to return to The Dalles, and found a bridge torn out by floodwaters. The only way for them to go then was back to Rufus, where they were stranded.

Miss Brodin who was walking out of a house at Rufus with a four-year-old child in her arms, stepped off into deep water and the youngster went under. Miss Brodin then hung the child on a wire fence that was nearby, and called frantically for help. Then she went down again, and Wicks and another fellow companion pulled her out by the hair and chin, thus saving her life.

The Wicks family and their traveling companions were put up in a private home at Rufus where they remained for four days until the highways were cleared and made passable. The host, a restaurant operator, fed his 22 guests from the stock of food in his restaurant.

The Wicks family arrived at the Jones home the day after Christmas.

Heavy Snows Again Close Genesee Schools

An all-day snow storm Wednesday forced dismissal of Genesee schools for another holiday Thursday. The heavy, wet snows of Wednesday made travel for school buses difficult Wednesday evening and as the snows continued that evening, Superintendent Lester C. Diehl announced there would be no school Thursday. At this writing it is unknown if weather would permit resumption of classes Friday.

After a comparatively mild weekend which saw only a few scattered snow flurries, the snow began to fall Wednesday morning and continued well into the night The temperatures remained around the thirty-above mark and the snow was heavy and wet. This combination of half slush and half snow made travel nearly impossible over many roads.

The skies cleared sometime Wednesday night or early Thursday morning and the mercury dipped down to twenty above zero. This quickly froze the snow and water further adding to the already difficult travel conditions.

Following the Wednesday storm, city employees Sheldon Russell and Ernie Muir had the snow piled into a ridge over three foot high down main street and trucks were beginning to carry it away Thursday morning.

Farm Credit Loans Available

These loans will open up new opportunities for rural families to improve their incomes.

Farm families that are not eligible for loans under existing FHA programs may obtain credit to finance agricultural enterprises. Farm families and non-farm families living in the country or in small towns of not more than 2500 in population may obtain loans to finance small businesses, trades and services.

These loans are a part of the nationwide effort which is going forward under the general direction of the U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity to offer new opportunities for low income families. Application for loans may be made at the County Office of the Farmers Home Administration, Room 3, Courthouse, Moscow, Idaho.

Postal Customers Appealed To During Winter Weather

Postmaster Verla Hall today appealed to postal customers on rural routes to help their rural carriers make mail deliveries during bad winter weather.

The Genesee post office has two rural routes, covering the areas of Rimrock, Thorncreek, and Pinegrove, Genesee Valley.

Mrs. Hall said that the same time she hopes all authorities concerned with rural routes where snow and other bad weather hampers the carriers will continue to cooperate to help the mailmen get through.

The Postmaster listed these points of particular concern:

1. Approaches to rural mail boxes must be kept open by customers.
2. Obstructions to delivery of mail on rural routes should be removed or minimized to the fullest possible extent.

Where rural boxes pose a problem, the carrier may leave form 4056, "Your Mailbox Needs Attention," a notice to keep box approaches clear by promptly removing all obstructions, including snow, which may make delivery difficult or impossible.

Unless approaches are cleared, it may be necessary to temporarily withhold delivery of mail, the Postmaster pointed out.

Rural carriers are not required to perform service on foot when roads cannot be traveled with the vehicle normally used, but they are expected to make every reasonable effort to serve as many of their patrons as possible without physical exertion or added financial cost, she explained.

If excessive detours are necessary to effect delivery of mail, customers should temporarily relocate their boxes on the new line of travel, arrange to receive their mail through other patron's boxes, or make other arrangements for their mail until travel on the roads affected can be resumed.

Holiday Decorations Down Saturday

Weather permitting, members of the Genesee Merchants Association and the Junior Chamber of Commerce will take down the city Christmas tree and holiday lights Saturday morning, January 9. Those who are willing to help in this operation are asked to be at the Fire Station at 9:00 a. m.

Despite earlier doubts as to the tree's ability to withstand the elements and still remain upright, the decoration withstood gale-force winds, heavy snow and drenching rain throughout the three weeks it was up. The tree was placed in a 55-gallon barrel and then sandbagged to prevent it from moving. It was also guyed with wires from four corners.

This year was the first in a number of years that the city tree has been placed out in the streets. Despite the snow and slick roads the decorations came through the season without being hit by car or truck.

Travel on L-C Highway Causes Concern

Present weather conditions have caused concern for the safety of the public traveling along the Lewis and Clark highway.

If present rain and thawing weather continues, or if thawing weather persists during any period of the winter season, avalanche conditions will be imminent and it will be necessary to close that second of US 12 between Lowell and the Idaho-Montana State line to all through traffic.

Any closure will be temporary only and be considered necessary to protect and safeguard the traveling public from possible disaster. If a closure does become necessary it will be for a minimum period only and until such a time as weather conditions decrease avalanche dangers and the route again is safe for travel.

Any motorist traveling the Lewis and Clark Highway should be continually aware of the dangerous conditions that can exist following warming trends in the weather.

HUNTER REPORT CARDS KEY MANAGEMENT TOOL

As Idaho hunters clean, oil and safely store rifles and cartridges behind locked doors, game managers are preparing to tell the story of the 1964 season in words and figures. About mid-February, it will show the composite experiences of many thousands of individuals nimrods on both a statewide and a local basis.

That is the reason why last calls are being made now for the return of laggard hunter report cards to boost the statewide total to about 50,000 as the old year wanes, and why nearly 10,000 postseason hunter questionnnaires will be mailed to a random sampling of five per cent of all 1964 license buyers.

One project gives the game management division detailed information from all state hunting units every day. The other is the basis for calculating the statewide wildlife harvest. The splendid cooperation of Idaho sportsmen contributes to the high success of these fact finding undertakings, which are so vital to sound game management. Tens of thousands of hunter report cards are returned every year, and a high percentage of the more detailed annual hunter questionnaire is completed and mailed to the Fish and Game Department in Boise.

Unlimited manpower, trained and equipped to cope with the vastness of the Idaho hinterland theoretically could lesson some of the differences of learning what happened during a hunting season. Properly nammed checking stations are unexcelled for getting good hunting data. Excellent information is obtained at major selected points at the cost of concentrating personnel and, perhaps, neglecting larger areas because of manpower limitations.

Likewise the conservation officer gets excellent information on areas where he patrols. But, he cannot be more places than one at a time, nor have last-minute hunting data except as "hearsay" about units not given his personal attention lately. Idaho's annual game kill questionnaire yields solid information after the hunting seasons are over. But, it is not scheduled or geared to provide extensive current information during, or immediately following, the harvest season.

The hunter report card, on the other hand, gives day to day information throughout the big game seasons, covering all 78 state management units and subunits. Although administrative and hunter needs are as unlike as Main Street is from a spike camp, the report card produces the data needed while remaining simple as a convenience to hunters. Requested information is limited to a few basic items. The hunter is asked to show his residence by county, to record whether or not he hunted, his success or lack of it, and the location, date and sex of the kill. This information is jotted down in pencil by the hunter on the stamped self-addressed business reply report card, which since 1959 has been combined with the required big game tags.

This data direct from the hunters is vital to game management, especially since it accumulates during the seasons and builds up rapidly towards their close, and immediately thereafter. The card results are tabulated weekly for each game species on IBM machines for fast, easy comparison between various areas, with information gathered in other years. Probably the most useful information returned on the cards are the items showing kill locations and their dates. Relative harvest figures for each management unit are compared to reports from previous seasons. This is particularly important in areas where the regulations differ considerably from one year to the next.

Levi Mohler, chief of game management cites two main uses of the data. The first is as a base for answers to questions which arise locally. When plotted on spot maps, the hunting results shed additional light on deer migrations, hunting pressure, and local conditions.

Because of the thousands of returns, such maps are self-explanatory showing the harvest distribution within the drainages without requiring computation or expansion of samples.

The second major use of current hunter report card material is to form the basis for early planning of 1965 hunting seasons.

Data from the hunter report cards accumulates rapidly during the early weeks of the der and elk seasons round the state, and it can be used in answering many questions at an early date without resorting to statistical interpretation. Mohler cites examples of how this works:

Where are the deer and elk being taken? Although early season data cannot be relied upon for accuracy it does indicate where the hunting is producing well. For example, this last fall, the early harvest seemed to be coming from the outlying units. During the first part of the season, the cards indicated the usually hot units were not producing as well as the smaller and less popular elk and deer units.

The report cards also show which part of the season produces most of the harvest. It is important to know how the first week of the season compared with the last week of the season. In some areas, the largest part of the harvest is in the last part of the season, while in others, most of the kill occurs during the first week.

Changes in the ratio of males to females is reflected by the report card returns during the season. In elk hunting, for example, hunters tend to be more selective during the first part of the season, with the emphasis on trophy bulls. During the last part of the season, hunters are generally willing to take whatever animal is available, with the ratio running closer to 50-50 in some units.

One of the biggest advantages of having a lot of report cards coming in is simply the matter of volume. The overall statewide harvest is figured quite accurately from the statistically accurate sampling surveys run during the wintertime. This is only a five per cent sample, however, and there is not enough volume of questionnaire returns from individual units to give accuracy on a unit basis. The report cards fill in this gap by providing extensive harvest information from each unit. This enables the game manager to project harvests more accurately by unit and thereby study the trend of a vest with accuracy sufficient for a agement purposes.

Other advantages of the report ca which the Game Management Div uses constantly are studying the ers themselves; Where do they c from and where do they go when are hunting? How many nonresi show up in certain units? What a harvest in comparison between dents and hunters from outside the or county where the unit is locate

THE WINTER SNOWS

The winter snows have swept away
The woodbine in the vale;
The lovely rambling rose that bloomed
Along the upland trail.

The little star-gleams in your eyes
Twinkle no longer there;
The winter snows have swept away
The sunshine of your hair.

But safe in apple-blossom-lands
Two sweethearts still I see;
For winter snows can't sweep away
The love you bear for me.

YOUR GAME DEPARTMENT

By John R. Woodworth

Idaho Fish—Game Department

SALMON-STEELHEAD QUESTIONNAIRES

About 15,000 fishermen who bought licenses last year will receive the annual salmon-steelhead questionnaire with the request to jot down the requested information and return to the Idaho Fish and Game Department in Boise postage free. The names of these anglers were selected at random and the questionnaires are being mailed to them this week.

All fishermen who have not returned their 1964 steelhead permit cards are requested to get them in the mail even though they obtained cards but did not fish for steelhead, or fished but did not catch any. These will be evaluated to develop the information needed to compute statewide harvest estimates.

Figures for 1963, which are based on the salmon-steelhead questionnaire, indicate that an estimated 49,000 anglers caught 24,000 chinook salmon and 55,000 steelhead trout

Waterfowl, Rabbit Seasons

Duck and goose hunting ends through out the state except in "bonus mallard" areas on January 7, but the statewide season on cottontail rabbits continues through February 28. The 22 counties within the 'bonus mallard' area, where the season for ducks—but not geese—remains open until January 24, are Boundary, Bonner, Kootenai, Benewah, Latah, NezPerce and Lewis in northern Idaho, and Washington, Gem, Canyon, Ada, Elmore, Owyhee, Payette, Camas, Blaine, Gooding, Lincoln, Jerome, Minidoka, Twin Falls and Cassia in southwestern Idaho.

New hunting licenses are required beginning January 1, but federal "duck stamps" issued during 1964 remain valid until the end of the current waterfowl season. The federal migratory bird hunting stamp is required for each person 16 years of age or older who hunts waterfowl. The stamp must be signed in ink with the holder's name and must be carried while hunting.

Biologists To Meet

Big game and bird biologists will discuss common problems and programming next week at Garden City, then meet separately in two groups to plan area management work throughout the state for the coming year, review hunting pressures and harvests of the recent seasons and attend the 30th annual convention of the Idaho Wildlife Federation in Boise.

Other items slated for review are checking station operations and future changes, field reports, record keeping and making plans for observation and evaluation of game conditions during the coming wintering period.

1965 March of Dimes Is Launched To Score Birth Defects Knockout

A "one-two" punch will be aimed at the problem of birth defects this January during the annual March of Dimes campaign across the nation.

"The objective of the drive is twofold," explained Dr. Daniel Bergsma, director of the medical department of The National Foundation-March of Dimes. "More than 250,000 seriously defective children are born each year in this country—one every other minute. Given the facts, the American public will recognize the problem of birth defects for what it is—a national emergency that requires immediate action. We invite the public to help us meet this emergency.

"The second goal is money. With public contributions to the January March of Dimes, we expect to establish the additional March of Dimes-supported birth defects centers desperately needed for the faster diagnosis, evaluation and improved treatment of these defects which cripple or disfigure a child before it's born. Funds are also needed to enable scientists to continue their search for the causes and possible ways to prevent birth defects."

To support medical and scientific workers in the front lines of the battle against birth defects, The National Foundation-March of Dimes has a behind-the-lines army two million strong. These are volunteers from the more than 3,000 March of Dimes county chapters throughout the 50 states—men, women and teenagers, too, who dedicate their efforts to the success of the January campaign and the year-round programs of The National Foundation.

Visit 15 Million Homes

To acquaint families with the aims of The National Foundation-March of Dimes, these volunteers will join the Mothers' March at the end of the month during which some 15 million homes are visited. Other volunteers will address about 30 million informative mailers. March of Dimes volunteers also organize fund-raising events to support the work of local chapters and the national organization.

These volunteers devote a great deal of energy to the important task of informing parents of defective children about the March of Dimes birth defects centers and in encouraging families to seek medical help for the afflicted child, whether from the centers or from private physicians.

About one in 10 American families experiences the heartbreak caused by the birth of a seriously defective child. By no means are all of these children receiving medical attention which might make such a difference in their lives.

Some Give Up Hope

"Too often families are overwhelmed by helplessness and despair," Dr. Bergsma said. "They frequently give up hope without exploring all possibilities for their child. But with the continued progress of medicine in this field, conditions which were once beyond treatment can often be helped by newly-developed methods. Also, the individual's condition may change and make help a possibility."

Her parents' persistence paid off for 4-year-old Mickey Heinicke, the 1965 National March of Dimes child. Mickey was born with a spinal deformity that paralyzed her from the waist down. At one time it seemed unlikely that she could ever walk.

Yet today the spunky youngster goes darting around with pint-sized crutches and braces. Not perfect—but certainly an improvement over crawling. The increased mobility means an expanded world to little Mickey and her family.

In research within the past few years, scientists supported by March of Dimes funds produced new or improved tests to detect inborn errors of metabolism, so that prompt treatment can prevent permanent damage to the infant's body or mind.

"The progress made thus far is significant and promising," Dr. Bergsma noted, "but we have taken just the first step on a long road. When the American people recognize the magnitude of the problem, they will demand and support an efficient and effective attack against the many birth defects that cripple or disfigure 700 infants each day. With their generous help, we can build up our chapter center programs and birth defects centers throughout the country and we will continue to support individual scientists in the quest for knowledge in this critical area."

SQUARING OFF for a knockout blow at birth defects is Michaeline ("Mickey") Lea Heinicke, 4, Denver, the 1965 National March of Dimes Child.

EXIT HERE FOR SUNKEN SHIPS AND CORAL REEFS

BRINY ROAD MAPS are being preuarel by seagoing Columbia University scientists. Blasts of high-pressure air are shot beneath the surface of the ocean, emitting sounds that penetrate the layers of sediment on the sea floor and then bounce back to the ship where they are recorded on tape. This provides a continuous profile of the ocean bottom. The air blasts, replacing TNT charges formerly used to stir up the salty deeps, are repeated every ten seconds. Columbia's research vessel, now completing its twentieth voyage, has circumnavigated the globe four times

CURATORS at the Smithsonian Institution now can tell the world's biggest fish story. A Texas philanthropist presented the museum with a mounted black marlin 14 feet, six inches long and weighing 1,560 pounds, the largest fish ever taken on rod and reel. Shots filmed at the time of the catch were used as part of the action in the motion picture, "The Old Man and The Sea" — SMOG has been accused of another crime. According to the National Bureau of Standards, the acrid mixture of smoke and fog which long has made breathing difficult for citizens of Los Angeles and several other cities, also attacks their homes. The Bureau says that ozone, a common ingredient in smog, contributes to the rapid breakdown of asphalt, a much-used roofing material.

CATALYSTS often have an amazing effect on chemical products. Producers of ammonia for the fertilizer industry were able to increase hydrogen output by 25 per cent with no change in plant size or operating conditions when they introduced one new type of 'pill' to the process, according to Girdler Catalysts, Louisville. Millions of the catalysts pellets packed inside long metal tubes accelerate the reactions between streams of natural gas and steam flowing over them.

TURTLE BLOOD has been enlisted in the battle against human heart attacks. Researchers at Emory University are studying parasites in the blood because their eggs block the turtle's arterties during a heart attack. The scientists hope to find out how turtles compensate for this, then apply the knowledge toward solution of the human problem . . . MOTORISTS who want to be "really different" now have a new option. In addition to conventional white striped tires, Detroit auto manufacturers are offering tires with red, gold or orange stripes on 1965 model cars Stylists say this means that wheels are gaining recognition as an integral part of auto design.

Jehovah's Witnesses Convene At Wallace

Cold winter weather didn't stop 685 conventioners from enjoying the Bible discourse "Our Divided World—It It Here To Stay?" by Marvin L. Holien. The discourse was the highlight of the three-day assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses held January 1-3 in Wallace, Ida.

Holien said, "We live in a very divided world and the causes are of long standing as well as of many avenues. There are incompatable political ideologies. Hundreds of religions with conflicting beliefs divide mankind. Racial discrimination has risen to paramount position in dividing our world along with economic inequality with its social divisions and hatreds that cause friction. And a contributing factor overlooked by too many is Satan, the ruler of this divided world."

The speaker brought out that Jehovah's Witnesses do not feel that this divided world is here to stay. By means of the Bible truths being spread earthwide over a million in 194 lands are now demonstrating the overcoming of political, religious and racial and national barriers.

Sunday's attendance included nine newly ordained ministers. These ministers have dedicated their lives to the will of God. Mr. Holien, district supervisior for the Watchtower Society, addressed the new ministers Sunday afternoon. He commended them for choosing the ministry as a vocation. The new ministers then traveled to the Kellogg YMCA where they symbolized their dedication to God and the doing of His will by being completely immersed in water.

The theme of the three-day gathering was "Speak The Word of God With Boldness." Saturday morning and afternoon and Sunday morning many of the conventioners made house to house visitations on the residents of the Wallace-Kellogg area.

Saturday evening the color film "Proclaiming 'Everlasting Good News' Around The World" showed how Jehovah's Witnesses boldly speak the word of God. The film was taken during the summer of 1963 as a traveling convention of Jehovah's Witnesses started in June at Milwaukee, Wisconsin went around the world and concluded in September at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, California.

Jehovah's Witnesses expressed their appreciation to the public officials of Wallace business establishments, radio and press, and also the residents of the Wallace-Kellogg area for their co-operation to make the convention a success.

The January snow survey on Moscow Mountain was carried out 31 December 1964 by Fred Chugg, Soil Conservation Service, and Vance Penton, University of Idaho Engineering Experiment Station using the University snow cat.

The survey for this month showed the snow on all five courses to be more than recorded for this date last year.

The highest course on the mountain is Moscow Mountain snow course and has a total depth of 35 inches of snow which is 11.3 inches more than last year and 13 inches over the average, to show an increase of 21.2 inches over last month. The water current of the snow pack on this course is 23.7% which counts for 8.3 inches of water which is 2.2 inches more than recorded last year for this date.

The other four courses are East Twin with a snow depth of 26.6 inches, West Twin with a depth of 18.3 inches, Howard Creek at 12 inches and Crumarine Creek at 18.9 inches of snow.

These nine courses show an of 6 to 16 inches in snow d that recorded last year for Also, the water content of shows the same relatives in all the courses.

They were attired in identical dresses of red nite lite with short bouffant skirts and fitted bodices. They wore matching headpieces, shoes and gloves and each carried one long stem-less white rose.

Miss Kathy Moden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moden, was flower girl. Her dress matched those of the bridesmaids. Young Darrell Kraut, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kraut, carried the rings on a red pillow decorated with small bows. The best man was Donald Kraut, Lewiston, and ushers were Donald Grieser, brother of the bride, and Orrin Kambitsch.

The bride's mother wore a gold brocade two-piece dress with matching accessories. The mother of the groom wore a turquoise knit suit with matching coat of brocade. Her accessories were beige. Their corsages were cymbidium orchids.

Organist was Mrs. Wilson Esser. Soloist Martin Stout sang "Ave Maria" and "The Wedding Prayer."

J. Peter Zenners Honored On 54th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs J. Peter Zenner of Lewiston were honored on their 54th wedding anniversary by their children with a dinner Sunday afternoon, January 10th at Chicken Broaster No. 2, Lewiston. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Welle, Uniontown; Mr. and Mrs. Al Zenner, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Hermann, Mr and Mrs. Andrew Zenner, Genesee; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Zenner, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zenner, Nezperce; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zenner, Craigmont; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Zenner, Cullesac, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Guettinger, Pullman. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fox, Bremerton, were unable to atend.

Mr. Zenner returned home last Wednesday from Europe where he had attended the ordination to the priesthood of his grand nephew, Father Donald Schmitz of Caledonia, Minn.

Mr. Zenner left Lewiston November 27th, first going to Spokane where he joined a Northern Pacific-Western Livestock Reporter sponsored tour for three days at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago. After visiting his sister, Sister M. Consolatrix at Belleville, Illinois, he joined other relatives from Caledonia December 14th on a chartered 150-passenger Pan. Am. flight to Rome, with only one stop enroute at London.

The ordination of Donald Schmitz, along with 61 other young men who completed their preparatory studies at the American College in Rome, took place in St. Peter's Cathedral December 16th. The next day, after the newly ordained priests had said their first masses at separate chapels, they and all the friends and relatives who had attended were granted an audience with Pope Paul VI.

A trip by train through France was next to visit relatives near Paris, then to his home town Diekirch, Luxembourgh to spend the Christmas holidays with nieces and nephews.

The chartered return flight resumed January 2nd with pickups at Paris and London, then non-stop directly back to Chicago. Mr. Zenner spent a few days in Caledonia before returning home.

Weather Warms After Sunday Snow

Following a heavy snow storm that fell all day Sunday, the weather warmed in the Palouse country and while there is still much snow cover left, the area's main roads are now free of ice and packed snow. This is a welcome relief from one week ago when highway 95 from the top of Lewiston Hill on into Moscow was almost a solid sheet of ice and snow, making travel hazardous.

The snow Sunday began falling at approximately 7 a. m. and continued almost without let-up well into the night. While it never reached anything like blizzard proportions, it was a steady storm and added another three or four inches to the snow already on the ground.

Saturday had been a clear, crisp day, giving Genesee some of the brightest sun we had enjoyed for at least a month and the snow storm Sunday was a surprise to all.

By Monday the temperatures had risen above the freezing point and they have remained about the same during the daylight hours all week.

Area weather forecasters are holding out the hope that clear skies and higher temperatures are in the weather picture for the weekend.

In all moral revolutions, from a lower to a higher condition of thought and action, Truth is in the minority and error has the majority.

Thursday afternoon everyone had free time. Most of which was spent shopping in downtown Chicago. That evening the annual 4-H Banquet was held. After the banquet a Farewell Party was held.

Friday morning everyone left Chicago with many happy memories of the friends they had made and all the wonderful experiences they had encountered.

I wish every 4-H boy and girl could attend the National 4-H Club Congress. It makes all the hours spent in 4-H work worth while.

Local Chapter to Observe JC Week

Genesee's newly-formed Junior Chamber of Commerce will join with thousands of other similar chapters through out the nation in observing the week of January 17-23 as Jaycee Week. The purpose of the week is to focus attention on young men and the work they are doing. Genesee's chapter was formed last month with the help of district and state officials.

The week celebrates the founding of the Junior Chamber in 1915, when Henry Giessenbier saw a need for a young men's civic group and organized the first chapter, according to local Jaycee president, Bill Haxton. The movement spread so fast that in 1920, the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce was formed with 24 cities represented.

Although organized only a little more than a month ago, the local chapter has already engaged in several worthwhile public activities including an orange sale, assisting in decorating the business district for the holdays, and holding a Christmas tree pickup after the holiday season. According to both Haxton and Bob Borgen, who is chairman of the Jaycee Week committee, the local chapter is planning many more activities during the coming year which will benefit both the community and the young men in the Jaycee chapter.

Built on the solid foundation of creating opportunities for leadership training through community betterment projects, the Jaycees today, over 241,000 strong, are active in 5,300 communities in the United States. National headquarters is located in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Thirty-Three Year-Old News Finds Way Back Home

After spending thirty-three years wrapped around a water pipe under a home in Spokane, a copy of the Genesee News was returned to its point of origin this week thanks to F. F. Murphy of West 47, 26th Avenue, Spokane, Washington.

Mr. Murphy sent the paper dated November 25, 1932, to the News with a note saying that while repairing a water pipe under an old home in Spokane he found this paper wrapped around a water pipe for protection. Yellow and brittle with age, the issue was still in surprisingly good condition and entirely readable.

In 1932 the paper was being published by the late E. D. Pederson and this issue contained one of 'Pete's' humorous and informative accounts of a series of boxing matches conducted at the Genesee gym.

In an advertisement from Rader's City Market, now Rice's, hamburger or sausage was selling for 17c for two pounds; veal roast for 13c a pound, and coffee at the price of 33c a pound. Follett Mercantile Co. offered men's shirts at 69c each and a barrel of Silver Leaf flour was $3.80. In the grain markets, white, sacked, new-crop wheat was going for 31c a bushel—in bulk it brought 26c bushel. Barley was selling for $10 a ton, oats at $12.25.

A year's subscription to The News could be had for $2.00 and one of the New's favorite people, Bert Gamble had a poem for Thanksgiving. Mr. Gamble's latest poem appears in this issue, we hope we're still publishing them thirty-three years from now.

Commodity Loan Deadline Near

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation officials wish to remind grain producers who are eligible for wheat, barley, oats, or rye loans that January 31, 1965 is the deadline for making applications and paying the necessary fee. Processing and receiving the loan may be delayed until February 28, 1965 if desired. Latah County wheat loans as of January 1, 1965 on 1.7 million bushels amounted to slightly over 2 million dollars. As in past years, March 31, is the last day for redeeming wheat loans, and April 30, is the last day for redeeming barley, oat and rye loans by paying principal and interest.

Also wool producers are reminded that January 31, 1965 is the deadline for turning in wool receipts for the 1964 marketing year which ended December 31, 1964.

Bulldogs Lose To Troy; Defeat Potlatch, Kendrick

After a long holiday layoff, the Genesee HS basketball team returned to action this week playing three games. Friday night the squad was at Troy where they were beaten by the Trojans 59-55. Saturday night the team was back on their own court and downed the visiting Potlatch Loggers 53-52. Tuesday evening the Bulldogs were on the road again, this time at Kendrick where they topped the Tigers 49-43. Genesee now has a 5-2 record for the season.

At Troy last Friday night the Bulldogs watched a third quarter lead disappear in the final frame as the Trojans, sparked by Craig Borman, rallied in the fourth quarter to win 59-55. Troy got off to a fast start and was leading the Bulldogs by eleven points at the end of the first quarter. Troy continued to lead at the halftime 33-25. Genesee came back strongly in the third quarter and had built up a seemingly comfortable margin before the Trojan rally wiped their advantage away. Skip Ivie poured in 25 points to lead all scorers while his teammate Larry Vestal added another 17 points. Genesee's B team won the opening game 62-57.

Pell Pulls One Out

A shot by John Pell with less than a minute to go pulled the game out of the fire for the Genesee team and gave them a 53-52 victory over the Potlatch Loggers Saturday evening at Genesee. Genesee had a 30-21 lead at halftime but the Loggers staged a late rally to tie the score at 49-all with only minutes remaining. With less than a minute to go Pell dropped in his shot to settle in the issue in favor of the locals. Bill Morscheck lead the Genesee scoring with 16 points. The B team took the opening game 48-45.

Tigers Topped

Paced by the twenty-point effort of Guard Skip Ivie the Bulldogs defeated the Kendrick Tigers 49-43 Tuesday evening at the Kendrick gym . Genesee moved out to a 12-4 first quarter lead, increased it to 23-12 at the halftime as they were never headed in the contest. In addition to Ivie's 20 points, Mark Hampton added 13 more for the Bulldog score. In the first game of the evening the Genesee B team walked away with a 62-44 win.

At Palouse Saturday

Ozzie Kanikkeberg and his boys move into Washington this Saturday evening as they invade the hardwood camp of the Palouse squad. Tuesday evening the team will be in Culdesac for a contest with the Wolves.

30TH ANNUAL CONVENTION HOSTED BY CAPITOL CITY

By Jim Humbird

Idaho Fish-Game Department

Reminiscing will be a popular, though informal pastime for officers, delegates and friends at the 30th annual Idaho Wildlife Federation convention in Boise January 15 to 17. Formal activities, of course, will review recent accomplishments and plan legislative and other action programs for the coming year. Some of the discussion no doubt will point with glowing pride to the successful launching of the Five Point program for the Future following its acceptance by the 37th session which helped put the Idaho Fish and Game Department on a sound financial footing without a dime from general taxes.

In this way, Idaho's organized sports men do more than just talk or gripe about what the Fish and Game Department does or does not do. Knowing that the Department operates under states laws and with money collected under these laws, the sportsmen, thru their legislators, actually control how much of the program for maintaining and expanding the fishing and hunting petential can be developed, and how much money can be spent in the process.

Few of the delegates will remember except as hearsay such signal triumphs as the Federation-backed Initiative Petition to establish a commission form of administration for the Idaho Fish and Game Department in 1938, or even the voter approval of the Dredge Mining initiative proposal of 1955. These milestones of historic significance do not dwarf important continuing Federation projects such as the annual statewide conservation essay contest, the hunter safety program training in the public schools and the close cooperation with the Idaho Landholder-Sportsman Council to promote better farmer-hunter-fishermen relations in every county.

Old timers recall that the Idaho Wildlife Federation organized on a statewide basis in 1934, with R. G. Cole, who still lives in Boise, as president. He had served the Ada county Fish and Game League in the same capacity. The League's official monthly publication for December of that year lists a membership of 2,065 and shows a balanced financial statement of $4,506.96.

The Idaho Wildlife Federation bro't together behind common ideals and goals loosely-knit sportsmen's organizations then existing around the state. One of these, the Southwestern Idaho Sportsman's Association, represented 16 counties as follows: Ada, Adams, Boise, Blaine, Canyon, Camas, Elmore, Gem, Gooding, Jerome, Lincoln, Owyhee, Payette, Twin Falls, Valley and Washington. Claude R. High, Boise, was president of the association. Other officers also stir memories, men such as C. A. Bailey, W. A. Broadhurst, Fred Stover, R. L. Cline, E. M. Hartman, Norman Adkison, Frank D. Ryan, Claude Duval, and F. C. Dice. Ex-officio members were R. E. Thomas, state game warden, and Guy B. Mains, U. S. Forest supervisor.

These and many other men around the state were the pioneers of organized sportsmen 30 years and more ago. They knew that a club affiliated with a state or regional organization is far more effective than an isolated one. This influence is multiplied again when it is affiliated with a national conservation organization such as the National Wildlife Federation.

By far the majority of Idaho sportsmen even today belong to no club at all. Yet this group has relatively little influence on conservation programs compared to organized sportsmen. In effect, they let others speak for them rather than joining a club and making their own voices heard collectively. When they do become a part of a group effort, they become interested in state wide and national conservation issues, thereby becoming less provincial about local matters and correspondingly more devoted and more powerful concerning good overall conservation legislation.

A well-known Idaho editor and newsman wrote recently in a column for his newspaper that at least 75 per cent of his county residents hunt and fish, but only seven individuals were interested enough in the subject to attend a meeting of the local sportsman's club.

"Those seven," he continued, "were mosly officers in the organization and spent part of the meeting time discussing whether it was worth going on trying to give county sportsmen a voice in matters of vital concern or just call it quits."

"The decision was to go on, but to go on without trying to depend upon the sportsman who hasn't been able to bring himself to provide the support the association needs."

"From now on, the officers and directors of the association will meet and make the decisions that in the past should have been expressed by the sportsmen in general."

These paragraphs are quoted without identifying the club or county by name because the situation seems to be more or less general in some parts of the state. Whether because of apathy or some other reason, members just don't come out to the meetings.

Any good sportsman's club must have local projects to stay active. Many clubs do get behind such activities as maintaining or improving public access to a lake or stream, developing a waterfowl area, building a clubhouse, opposing a Salmon River canyon road, hunter safety courses and many others. But by far the most important activity of any group of sportsmen lies in the great influence it can have in state and national legislation.

Idaho Fish and Game Director John R. Woodworth like most wildlife administrators, says the success of programs depend on organized support. Few unorganized sportsmen have enough hard conservation information to be really helpful. They do understand how their hunting and fishing license and tag money is used.

On the contrary, organized sportsmen such as those convening in Boise each week to reminisce and plan for the future are is a position to know what the statewide fish and game program is and to further help it. Through their resolutions and their legislative programs, they promote what they believe in conservation.

...way in which the immortality of ... becomes a reality for every individual will be explored in the Lesson Sermon at all Christian Science churches Sunday. The subject is Life and it is keynoted by the Golden Text from Galatians (6:8) "He that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting."

The theme is amplified by this passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Being is holiness, harmony, immortality. It is already proved that a knowledge of this, even in small degree, will uplift the physical and moral standard of mortals, will increase longevity will purify and elevate character. Thus progress will finally destroy all error, and bring immortality to light." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy p. 493).

Speaking Of Taxes

Revenues to the Idaho State General Fund for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1964 were $45,555,152 In order to balance the general fund appropriation made for the 1963-65 biennium the revenues for fiscal 1965 would have to increase by 25% which is asking a lot when the latest economy increase for Idaho was estimated at 4.8%.

Governor Smylie and the Board of Examiners recognized the situation before the beginning of this biennial period and ordered a 1.2% cutback of state general fund expenditures for each of the state fiscal quarters totaling 4.8%. It should be mentioned again that the cut back did not reduce the school foundation program—school equalization effort—since that which was cut from the state level landed on the general county school property tax levy. Actual expenditures of government were cut $3 million by the order instead of $4.9 million reflected at the state level.

While General Fund collections by the State Tax Collector for the five months ended November 30, 1964 show an 18% increase over the same period a year ago; it is too early to predict that the indicated increase will be sustained for for the full fiscal year. Particularly since the individual income tax collection for October and November reflect only a 5% increase over last year.

General fund revenues are produced by many taxes and charges but 64% were from the state income tax paid by individuals and corporations. During the past year your cigarette taxes were the next largest—$3.7 million, the insurance premium tax produced $2.9 million, and then the liquor tax, profit and licenses are next in importance. Liquor profits for the general fund are short this past year because of the demand of $1,000,000 for the permanent building fund.

These general fund revenues are vitally important and receive the lions share of the attentions of the legislature and the taxpayers but actually general fund revenues represent only approximately 27% of the total revenue and non-revenue transactions of the State of Idaho including shared revenues with the federal and local levels of government Federal aids received during the year by the state amounted to $39,712,388, mostly highway funds, but does include public welfare, public health, education, fish and wildlife funds and several others.

Other Special Funds include the motor vehicle gas tax and license fees amounting to $29.8 million, 30% of which are shared with the counties, cities and highway districts. Unemployment insurance while not a budget item, either general fund or special fund, is a tax which is collected by the State of Idaho and during the last fiscal year amounted to $8.4 million in taxes from the employers in Idaho.

Non-revenue funds include such items as revenues from the rental and sale of state lands which are invested for endowment fund income payable to the various state institutions.

The legislature because they pass the tax laws and the taxpayers of Idaho because they pay the taxes, should be equally interested in both the general fund revenues and the special fund revenues.

STEELHEAD PERMIT CARDS

Two things should be remembered about steelhead permit cards. Fishermen still holding 1964 cards are urged to get them in the mail for return to the Idaho Fish and Game Department, even though no fishing may have been done for this species or no steelhead were caught.

New permit cards must be obtained. They are available without charge from most vendors of fishing and hunting licenses. The 1965 regulations require that the permits also be carried when fishing for salmon and sturgeon. This is new. As soon as one of these fish species has been 'hooked, landed or reduced to possession" the angler must write in the spaces provided the month and date of the catch and the name of the stream from which the steelhead, salmon or sturgeon were caught.

The possession limit on steelhead and salmon this year is two fish, 20 inches or over in length. Anything less is classsed as trout. Sturgeon must be as least three feet (36 inches) or over, with a maximum length of six feet (72 inches). Sign-up Nears For 1965 Feed Grain Program

Farmers will have an opportunity to sign up in the 1965 feed grain program early in February, according to Clarence Jensen, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee. The sign up period will be from February 8 through March 26.

During the signup period, winter wheat producers who signed up in the wheat program last fall may change their intentions, except that in winter wheat areas growers may not overproduce wheat and store it under bond unless they stated their intentions to do this at the time of the signup last fall.

As in previous years the Chairman explained, the feed grain program will be voluntary and each operator of farms growing one of the three feed grains covered by the program will make his own decision about whether to take part. The program is available for corn, grain sorghum, and barley.

Farmers who participate in the program will be eligible for diversion and price-support payments and for price support loans on their entire 1965 production of the three grains. The price support payments will be made to participants whether the feed grain produced in 1965 is fed on the farm, sold, or placed under a price-support loan.

To take part in the feed grain program, the farmer will agree to take out of production and devote to an approved conservation use at least 20 per cent of the total feed grain base. Maximum diversion is 50 per cent of the base or 25 acres if this is larger. The reduction may be on any of the three acreages, and the diversion payment will be based on the crop diverted.

Diversion payments, if less than 40% of the base is actually diverted, will be made at one-fifth of the county support rate on the normal production for he first 20% diversion, and at one-half the support rate for the normal production from the remaining percentage. If 40% or more of the base is diverted for payment the higher rate will apply to all the acreage diverted.

Farmers who use the substitution clause, (plant wheat on part of the barley or oat-rye base) must sign up in both wheat and feed grain programs, and divert the minimum required.

Feed grain notices showing bases, yields, and payment rates to individual farmers were mailed Friday, January 22. Barley bases are nearly the same as in 1964, but the average county yield has raised three bushels per acre. All 1965 yields are based on production from a five year period 1959 through 1963.

A new malting barley exemption provision in effect for 1965 which permits a malting barley producer to overseed his base by 10% and retain eligibility only for a loan. The substitution provision and program payments do not apply to anyone requesting the malting barley exemption.

Merchants Hear Talk Of New Group

Seventeen members of the Genesee Merchants Association were present for the regular monthly meeting held at noon Wednesday in Carter's.

At the business meeting, presided over by president Carl Simons, the group discussed plans for the 1965 Genesee Community Day. At the last meeting of the Merchants a tentative date of early June was set for the annual celebration. At the Wednesday meeting a committee composed of James Hoogland, D. F. Scharnhorst, and Wayne Roach was appointed by the president to contact the members of last year's General Committee to ascertain if these men would serve again. It was also announced that the Junior Chamber of Commerce has agreed to assist with Community Day and representatives of this group will also serve on the committee.

Hoogland, a member of the general committee from last year, told the merchants he felt one of the reasons for the success of the 1964 Community Day was that a good cross-section of the town and surrounding area was represented on the general committee and advised that continuation of this practice is desirable.

New Organization Discussed

A proposal to change the Genesee Merchants Association from a strictly businessmen organization to a civic group whose membership would include farmers, businessmen teachers, retired persons and anyone else with a sincere desire to help the community was heard at the Wednesday meeting. It was felt by the ones advocating this change that the best interests of the area could be served by having one organization which would serve as a meeting ground where community problems—business, social, agricultural, spiritual and civic could be discussed and resolved. President Carl Simons said he would issue an open invitation to all in the community to attend the next meeting to discuss this matter.

Bulldogs Lose To Palouse 70-52

It has been a number of years since the Genesee high school Bulldogs has been forced to accept a lopsided defeat on the basketball court, but they took one last Saturday evening from the talented hands of the Palouse Falcons who unceremoniously dumped them 70-52 on the Falcon court.

This is the first year that Genesee has included the Washington squad on their schedule and the Palouse boys wasted little time getting the upper hand. Palouse ended the first half with a 33-18 lead then coasted home to the one-sided victory.

Skip Ivie lead the Genesee scoring with 15 points while Bill Morscheck netted 11 and Larry Vestal 10.

Palouse copped the B game 48-44 in a double overtime battle.

Genesee Wins

Tuesday evening the Bulldogs returned to the winning habit as they stormed to a 70-34 win over the Culdesac Wolves The game was played on the Culdesac court and Genesee moved out to a quick lead and were ahead 33-14 at the half.

Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg used his reserve strength freely in the second half to roll up the easy win. Larry Vestal paced the scoring that evening with 23 points with Skip Ivie adding 20 more.

St. Mary's School Sports

The St. Mary's School "B" team dropped the Clarkston "B's" on January 10, 36 to 25. Leroy Zenner was high for St. Mary's with 13 points. Williams of Clarkston had 11. Holy Family was the winner in the "A" game 39 to 13. On January 17, the St. Mary's Panthers traveled to Colton where they won the "B" game 15 to 14. Leroy Zenner was high with 5 points and for Colton, Gary Meyer and Doug Stout each had four. Colton dropped St. Mary's 36 to 14 in the "A" game. For Genesee Fred Morscheck and Mark Busch each made 4 and for Colton, John Wittman had 10.

Fred Morscheck had 6 points and for Holy Family, three boys tied for high point with six each. They were Brown, Scott, and Dudley.

Girl's Basketball Team Organized

The freshmen and sophomore P. E. classes of Genesee High have organized a girl's basketball team and are coached by their teacher, Mrs. Sylvia Michaud. The girls traveled to Kendrick last week and dropped their B game by one point. They won the A contest 31 to 29. Sunday evening they met Colton on their floor and in a close game all the way, were defeated in the final moments 28 to 24.

COTTONTAIL RABBIT HUNTING continues through February 28 to wind up the longest season in Idaho. It began September 1, 1964. Cottontails are cyclic in the sense that their numbers rise and fall more or less rhythmically The recent Idaho high occurred in 1959, following by the low two years later. This is not expected to be a banner year. The hunter bag in 1963 was 75,000 according to the annual hunter questionnaire compared to 198,000 in 1959.

COTTONTAILS LEGAL JACKS UNPROTECTED

Cottontail rabbit shooting, Idaho's longest hunting season with a span of six months from September 1, 1964 through February 28, 1965, still has a month and a half to run, the Fish and Game Department reminded youngsters and oldsters alike today.

The major legal difference between jack rabbits and cottontails is that jacks are classed as non-game, non-furbearing animals and may be shot anytime.

But not cottontails. This is the only species of protected rabbits or hares in the state. Another difference is that hunters often rate cottontails as toothsome table treats.

Unlike the cottontail, jack rabbit fur and flesh may be sold legally. The meat often goes as mink feed and the hides as fur pelt.

The hunting season on migratory waterfowl ended statewide on January 7 except for ducks in 22 bonus mallard counties in northern and southwestern Idaho where the cut-off date is January 24. Goose season is over through out the state. The bonus mallard counties are Boundary, Bonner, Kootenai, Benewah, Latah, Nez Perce, and Lewis is northern Idaho; and Washington, Gem, Canyon, Ada, Elmore, Owyhee, Payette, Camas, Blaine, Gooding, Lincoln, Jerome, Minidoka, Twin Falls and Cassia in southwestern Idaho.

NUMBER OF PERSONS ON UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFIT IS DOWN SLIGHTLY SAYS REPORT

The total number of persons receiving unemployment insurance benefits in Latah County was reduced slightly during the past week according to Frank Hartstein, Manager of the Moscow local office. With 21 persons filing new claims for benefits, and with a decline of 13 from the number of persons filing such claims as this time last last week, there were 335 persons still drawing benefits this week, leaving 34 persons who ceased to file such claims. Most of these workers either returned to their old jobs or found other jobs. Two persons received all benefits due them and are not eligible for any further unemployment insurance until they have again returned to work, Hartstein stated. Most of those who filed new claims during the week were construction workers, with a few new claims being filed by persons who just recently moved into the area from some other parts of the country.

Hartstein stated that eleven persons were assisted in finding employment through the Moscow Office of the Idaho Employment Security Agency during the week. Among them were workers placed as bricklayers, and laborers, secretaries, maids, and domestic workers.

There are still jobs open for a Lab Technician and an X-ray Technician, a bookkeeper, a secretary, cook, waitress, and domestic workers, as well as for a married farm hand, an auto mechanic and a meat cutter.

WANTS BORAH STAMP

Rep. Compton I. White, Jr., (D-Ida.) recently asked the Post Office Department to consider a commemorative stamp honoring the late Senator William E. Borah.

In a letter to Postmaster John Gronouski, White said that it is "extremely fitting that such an honor be shown to one of Idaho's distinguished statesmen. "Senator Borah was elected to the Senate in 1907, and served continuously until his death in 1940. His views, temperment, courage and energy, as well as his individualism, combined to make him one of the towering personages of American political history."

"He attained fame both as a national and international figure and was praised by members of both political parties."

"It would be impossible to sum up the activities of this famous Idaho figure," White said. "While his national influence was tremendous, his importance as an international figure was perhaps just as great."

GENERAL TELEPHONE NEWS

General Telephone Company of the Northwest has filed new toll rates covering intrastate rate reductions with the Idaho Public Utilities Commission. The reductions will become effective February 1.

The Idaho customers will have an estimated $28,000 on calls completed within the state," according to Walter E. Carroll, operating vice president for the firm. Additional savings will be realized on interstate calls.

Technical developments in direct distance dialing, use of microwave circuit and other automation devices makes the rate reductions possible, Carroll declared.

The new rates, applicable to station-to-station calls only, will follow the same pattern as those announced by the FCC on a national basis.

The "after 9 p. m." rates will be applicable after 8 p. m. every night and all day Sunday.

Calls all day Saturday will be at the same rate as week day calls placed between 5 and 8 p. m.

The maximum charge for the first three minutes between points with the State of Idaho will be 70c after 8 p. m. This compares with the new national rate of $1 anywhere in the nation at that time.

US DEPT. OF JUSTICE IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION SERVICE

Mr. R. G. Hoffeller, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service said today aliens in Montana and Idaho have only one more week in which to comply with the federal law requiring that aliens report their addresses to the government during January of each year.

The immigration official uregd all aliens who have not yet complied to go as soon as possible to the nearest post office or immigration and naturalization service office to file the report.

Parents or guardians must file the report for alien children under fourteen years of age.

Mr. Hoffeller said the address report is required each year from all aliens except those in diplomatic status, representatives of certain international organizations and persons admitted temporarily as agricultural laborers.

He pointed out wilful failure to comply carries serious penalties.

The official said an estimated 8,000 aliens in this area have already complied with the addres report requirements, compared to a total of 10,000 who filed address reports last year.

Cuisine Cum Laude

Last week's mustard bread was the recipe of Mrs. Del Kambitsch. We neglected to identify her. This week, Mrs. Robert Heimgartner has given us a recipe which she received from Mr. Elmer Canfield. Mr. and Mrs. Canfield and daughter Linda were residents of Genesee while he attended the University of Idaho. After completing his studies, the Canfields moved to Coeur d'Alene. This is a cake which calls for sour dough. Mr. Canfield gave Mrs. Heimgartner a "starter" which is very old and she has kept it, taking from and adding to it. One may make their own, so our first recipe is for sour dough starter. This, of course, make pancakes that "really stick to the ribs." And I'm sure many of you remember the old sour dough biscuits. Here's how:

SOUR DOUGH STARTER

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups macaroni or rice water or fresh skim milk
¼ tablespoon sugar
Use a wooden spoon to

Mix ingredients together, cover closely with a lid which has holes in it. Place in a warm place for four or five days until the mixture smells sour. Use as directed. It may be stored in a wide mouth glass jar or crock. If left out it will become too sour, so the suggestion is to store in the refrigerator until the day you wish to use it. Remove from refrigerator several hours before use, so that dough can warm up and begin to "work".

A delicious cake is the sour dough chocolate which follows:

Sour Dough Chocolate Cake

½ cup shortening
1¼ cup sugar
3 eggs
1 and one-third cup sour dough
½ sup milk
1 cup flour
1½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
3 squares dark chocolate
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition. Sift dry ingredients together. Add to sugar mixture alternately with milk. Add sour dough mix. Add melted chocolate and vanilla. Pour into 2 (for large layers) or 3 (for thin layers) greased and floured round, layer cake pans and bake 25 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven. A cream cheese chocolate icing is suggested for this cake, but you may wish to use another.

Genesee Livestock Club

The meeting was brought to order by President Butch Green. The 4-H flag pledge was led by Kris Flomer.

The club presented Madlynn Kinzer and Kay Zenner, our leaders, a gift to help show our appreciation for their work in the past year.

We voted to have our annual 4-H dance the 13th or 27th of February. We will have a live band and want to get the Scons. Admission will be $1.00 per person and $1.50 per couple. The committee for the dance is Marilyn Sorensen, chairman, Kathy Zenner, Kris Flomer, and Jill Ivie.

There will be a workday held at the warehouse the 23rd of January at 11:00 a. m. for boys and girls. Each should bring their own sack lunch.

The next meeting will be held the 3rd of February. Marilyn Sorensen and Charlotte Wedin will give demonstrations for their projects. Also, Ron Zenner and Dick Green will present reports next meeting.

Leroy Zenner lead the flag pledge and the meeting was adjourned.

Christian Science Church Service

The age-old question of What is truth is given a fresh exploration in Christian Science churches this Sunday. The Bible lesson is on "Truth" and the Golden Text is from Psalms (86:11): "Teach me thy way, O Lord; I will walk in thy truth."

One insight into the question is presented in a paragraph from the opening pages of the Christian Science textbook: "The time for thinkers has come. Truth independent of doctrines and time-honored systems, knocks at he portal of humanity. Contentment with the past and the cold conventionality of materialism ar ecrumbling away. Ignorance of God is no longer the stepping-stone to faith. The only guarantee of obedience is a right apprehension of Him whom to know aright is Life eternal." ROAD TO MEMORY

Often in vacant moments,
The road of memory swings;
Back to the used-to-be days,
Back where the west wind sings.

Then in a flight of fancy
To scenes of pure delight;
I find my heart cascading
Down orchardlands of white.

Wonderful—ROAD TO MEMORY
Bring back my dreams again;
Thrill me with apple blossoms,
Bless me with April rain.

Symbol of Superior Service

A man and wife were walking down the street. She was wearing a black fur coat which she had recently purchased with the hundred dollars he had given her. Suddenly she saw a beautiful woman clad in a five thousand dollar mink coat.

"Harry," she complained to her husband, "that's the kind of coat I wanted.

"Women women," he growled. "So if you wanted brown, why did you buy black?

Tests Topic At Monday PTA Meeting

The Genesee P. T. A. met Monday evening in the Home Ec Building. The meeting was called to order by President Verla Peterson. The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Robert Heimgartner. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Ray Stout and she reported a balance in the bank of $339.19. Savings Stamp report was given by Chairman Mrs. Don Springer. She has sold $488.20 worth to date. A committee composed of Mrs. Sylvia Michaud, Mrs. Ed. Morken and Mrs. Forrest Durbin was appointed to investigate and possibly purchase silverware for P. T. A. use. They urge everyone to save and bring any Betty Crocker coupons which they may have to the next meeting. The Executive Board voted to contribute $10 toward a fund to send a delegate to the national convention in Albuquerque, New Mexico this spring. District 1 and 2 are each trying to raise enough money to send delegates. Our contribution was sent to Harold Blood, Potlatch, president of District One.

Mrs. Peterson called on Supt. Lester Diehl, who introduced Kenneth Russell of Moscow. Mr. Russell is an instructor in the Psychology Dept. at the University and is presently working toward his doctorate. He spoke on "Interpreting and Reporting Test Scores." Mr. Russell emphasized that the "IQ" test reveals a very general measure and out side conflictions tend to influence the score. A person's "I Q" may vary by many points from one testing day to the next. Other tests given pupils at various times in their school career must be interpreted by people trained in this work, or more harm than good may be done. He feels that certain "personality" tests may be an encroachment on private life. We must realize that all individuals are different and no test is a cure-all or complete future forecast. Predictions may not be made on one test alone. Tests actually are given to help teachers understand the pupil and to help the student understand his capacities. He feels that the tests are of more definite value after the ninth grade.

Mr. Russell feels that the student's high school grades and the results of the Iowa Basic test are the main factors in determining college success. Supt. Diehl stressed that parents are welcome to come to the school to discuss results of these tests with school personnel, but he requests that they call first and make an appointment, so that the student's records may be reviewed and an overall picture given.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. Hostesses were Chairman Mrs. Robert Heimgartner, Mrs. Kenneth Jensen, Mrs. Wm. DePell, Mrs. Howard Blume, Mrs. Dick Jones, and Mrs. Wm. Erickson.

Bank Newsletter Shows 1964 Income Increase

Personal income in Idaho during 1964 climbed five per cent above that for 1963 and the general outlook for this year is excellent.

This is the report of First Security's Bank's News Letter which will be distributed soon, it was announced by Genesee Branch, First Security Bank of Idaho, N. A. Geneeee, Idaho, James Haagland, Jr. manager.

The News Letter is edited by Dr. Elmer Nelson, First Security Corporation vice president and economist.

According to preliminary estimates, First Security reports that total personal income in Idaho during 1964 was approximately $1.435 billion or $69 million above that reported for 1963. Throughout the year employment was well above 1963 levels, average wages were higher, and a longer work week prevailed. First Security reports.

Looking to the future, First Security forecasts the business outlook as generally excellent, although certain areas have been adversely affected by flood conditions. Total outlook for agriculture is good, mineral and lumber industries excellent, and trade volume is expected to increase.

Cash receipts from farm marketing in the state during the past year totaled slightly above the $466 million reported for 1963, including the sale of livestock products and crops. Better prices prevailed for major crops and meat animals in the last quarter of the year. Due to increased prices of potatoes, cash receipts from farm marketing in the first quarter of 1965 are expected to be slight ly higher than in 1964.

Cattle prices moved up significantly from a low point in June, the News Letter stated and by year end were above those prevailing since March of 1963. Prices for cattle should continue at present levels during early months of the year.

Lamb prices have been good and are expected to be slightly higher in the early spring months.

Weather was largely responsible for a wide variation in crop production during 1964, and total tonnage was down four per cent from the 1963 record because of a short growing season. Potato production at 41.6 million cwt. was down 22 per cent, and sugar beet production was down considerably. Wheat, hay and fruit production, however was above 1963 totals.

Records were established during 1964 in both lumber production and value of mineral production. Preliminary data indicate lumber production totaled 1,820 million board feet, 18 per cent above the total for 1963. The mineral production total was considerably higher than the previous year, with highest prices in ten years prevailing for lead and zinc and the highest prices since 1920 for silver. These prices reflect a completely new outlook for nonferrous metals industries in the state.

Phosphate rock production in 1964 also approached a new all time record. This also applied to fertilizer and elemental phosphorous output.

Electricity utilized in 1964 totaled 8 billion kwk, a 10 per cent increase over 1963, and construction contracts awarded in the state approached $180 million another all-time record.

Non-agriculture employment during the year maintained levels well above 1963's corresponding months. By November total non-agriculture employment has reached a figure 3,100 above that of the previous year, with the major increases in mining and processing of metals, lumber and paper, construction and in all the service and the trade industries.

Department store sales in leading Idaho cities for 1964 were reported up 9 per cent, bank loans by November had increased 12.6 per cent from the previous year, and bank demand deposits at $410 million were up 6.8 per cent. Time and savings deposits at $286 million were up 7.9 per cent.

Bulldogs Defeat Elk River, Culdesac

Genesee's Bulldogs came out of last week's basketball campaigns with a 2-1 record, bringing their total season record to 8 wins and four losses. Friday night the Bulldogs were defeated by the NezPerce Indians 54-48. Saturday the Bulldogs braved bad roads to travel to Elk River where they topped the Bob Cats 63-58. Tuesday night the Genesee team rolled to an easy 75-24 victory over the Culdesac Wolves in a makeup game.

Nez Perce won the B game 50-40.

Final score 63-58.

Easy Victory

After two tough games over the week end, Genesee got a soft touch Tuesday night as they breezed by the Culdesac Wolves 75-24. The game was a makeup contest previously cancelled out by bad roads.

Flood Control On Cow Creek Will Be Topic At Meeting

By Larry Sorensen

The severe snows and rains of this winter are proving to be a test of all the soil conserving practices applied to the land over the past several years. In addition to very cold weather with above average snow, there has also been intermittent rain and snow. The conservation practices have proven themselves to be sound and solid or weak and ineffective.

The latter part of December when major creeks overflowed and flooding occured from frozen, bare ground with low temperatures followed in a few days with warm rains, caused excessive flooding along the various streams channels but particularly within the Cow Creek watershed.

Many farmers still do not know the extent of land damage to the field roads and cropland but the problems and causes have been appraised to try to find a solution.

Pooling Agreement

The Cow Creek pooling agreement was completed in 1948. This consisted of all of the farmers along Cow Creek north of Genesee, trying to organize to realign Cow Creek and bring the whole water shed under one organization. Many farmers went along with the program but others refused to join which left sections of the creek unfinished or worked on a later date. Each individual maintaining his part of the creek in his own way, as he saw fit.

As we must learn by experience, I believe this project has proven to be beneficial to the most of the farms with the exception being at places in the channel where lack of maintenance or construction checked the creek which resulted in flooding many acres of cropland.

Under some of the agriculture programs some ways have been devised to build and maintain such flood areas. These have been used in other parts of the country and they have proven quite successful. They are as follows:

1. Small watershed districts.
2. Flood districts and drainage districts and possibly others.

Under any one of the districts the farmers may elect to form a district by a majority of votes. The Cow Creek district could be formed in any size. It may be just the Cow Creek channel or it could include all of the tributaries from the state line to Paradise Mountain. All would be eligible to receive government cost-share. Under this program the Soil Conservation District may prove very helpful. They would assist in the organization along with the various agencies that would be involved with such a district.

Betty Sue Morken Named Homemaker of Tomorrow At Genesee High School

Betty Sue Morken is this year's Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for Genesee high school. She scored highest here in a written homemaking examination taken December 1, by 552,704 senior girls in 14,236 of the nation's high schools. She is now eligible for state and national scholarship awards ranging from $500 to $5,000.

Test papers of all school winners in the state are being judged competitively.. From this, the State Homemaker of Tomorrow will be named, and will receive a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills, Inc., sponsor of the annual Betty Crocker Search. In addition, her school will be awarded a set of the Encyclopaedia Britannica by Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc. The second-ranking girl will receive a $500 educational grant.

Following her selection the State Homemaker of Tomorrow with a school advisor, will join winners and advisors from each of the 49 other states and the District of Columbia in an expense-paid educational tour of Colonial Williamsburg, Va., Washington, D. C. and New York City. Climax of the trip will be the naming of the 1965 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow. Chosen from among the state winners on the basis of her original test score, plus personal observation and interview during the tour, her scholarship will be increased to $5,000. Grants of second, third, and fourth-ranking girls in the nation will be raised to $4,000, $3,000, and $2,000 respectively

All judging is conducted by Science Research Associates, Chicago. This educational testing and publishing firm also contruct and grades the written test.

Begun in the 1954-55 school year, the Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow is designed to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career. This year's record enrollment pushes the 11-year total of participating girls past the 4 million mark, and, with the 1965 grants, total scholarship awards will stand well in excess of $1 million.

Betty is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Morken.

WINTER WATERFOWL COUNT FINISHED BY DEPARTMENT

Idaho's winter migratory waterfowl inventory, completed earlier this month on 32 ground and aerial observation areas by 40 state and federal works using five aircraft as well as ground vehicles totaled 486,000 waterfowl, the Fish and Game Department reported today.

This figure is down six per cent from last year's total and 16 per cent below the long-term average according to Elwood Bizeau, state bird supervisor for the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

A break down of the total counting estimates shows 472,000 ducks of all species on January 10, and 12,000 geese. The duck estimate is "exactly the same as last year but down 12 per cent from the long-term average, and geese are down eight per cent last year and slightly above the long-term average." Other waterfowl species such as swans and coots numbered about 2,000.

The largest waterfowl concentration by federal Fish and Wildlife Service and Fish and Game Department personnel, also counts the number of eagles observed. This year, 176 eagles were sighted of which 57 were positively identified as bald eagles, the national emblem. Bizeau explained that both species of eagles are protected my federal and state laws because most people cannot distinguish the difference between the two kinds of birds until the white feathers begin appearing on the heads of bald eagles when they are about two years old.

The vital nature of love as a power that can reshape human lives will be brought out in Christian Science churches this Sunday. The subject is "Love" and the Golden Text from I John (4:7,8) underlies the theme: "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God. . . He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love."

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mark Baker Eddy describe how men learn to love God. "Simply asking that we may love God will never make us love Him; but the longing to be better and holier, expressed in daily watchfulness and in striving to assimilate more of the divine character, will mould and fashion us anew, until we awake in his likeness" (p. 4).

Missed opportunity is the price of total reliance on comfortable security.

THINKING MAN'S FISH HAS BRAINY ANSWERS

JELLYFISH and humans think alike! The swimming movements of the transparent marine oddities, one of the simplest of all animals, are produced by rhythmic pulses similar to those of human brain waves, says the University of Wisconsin. Studies of the jellyfishe's nervous system are helping to increase knowledge of the human nervous system . . . U. S. EDUCATION COSTS increased six per cent in 1964, according to a school management magazine. The average school district in the nation spent an average of $373 on each elementary school pupil, compared with $352 in 1963, and $485 for each secondary school pupil, up from $458.

PHOSGENE, a colorless gas, plays an important role in a wide variety of industries. The gas, which smells like new-mown hay, is used in the manufacture of polyurethane foams used in applications ranging from insulation to chair and sofa cushions, reports Chemetron Chemicals, Chicago, a major phosgene producer. The name phosgene derives from Greek words meaning "light" and "to produce" because it was first made in 1812 by the action of light on a mixture of carbon monoxide and chlorine . . . . FARM RESEARCH in 1964 resulted in better farm machines, more controls for agricultural pests, higher-producing crops and healthier animals and new ways of conserving waters, reports the Department of Agriculture. Developments included a device that automatically removes silage, grain and concentrates from storage, blends the three feeds into a balanced ration and delivers it to beef cattle.

THE ATTACK on Parkinson's disease made significant progress last year, Columbia University scientists report. Mapping of the thalamus, a previously uncharted section of the brain, helps pinpoint the specific malfunctioning cells in the thalamus which cause body tremors in Parkinson's disease patients. A tiny movable electrode, connected to the brain, acts as a "loudspeaker" so that a surgeon can listen to the sound of the nerve cells, analyze them and determine where to operate.

ATMOSPHERIC STUDIES at Iowa State University gives us a better idea of the air's basic "working parts". The key to the breakthrough in knowledge is 'sonic anemometry,' the use of acoustic energy to measure atmospheric turbulence. Practical applications of such data include determination of conditions affecting application of pesticide sprays, dispersal of airborne waste and prediction of dew and fog . . . . . RULE of the Roard: Do not substitute flashlights for auto headlights. Police in Idaho Falls ticketed a woman who had run a stop sign, collided with two cars, and damaged a fence. Her head lights consisted of two flashlights stuck in the grille of her car.

Check Ice Conditions

Winter fishing is a growing sport in Idaho on the many waters that are open for year-round species and a word of caution is indicated for the safety of new recruits to the sport of angling through holes in the ice. Ice partially thaws and freezes again almost as regularly as day follows night. Unless care is taken to test the strength of the ice before venturing out on it, this may be hazardous. Several other factors add to the potential danger. For example, air pockets and warm water springs beneath the surface often weak en the ice.

Angling through openings cut through may be taken.

ice is legal in all waters that are open for other methods of fishing. The same regulations apply. The 1965 regulations now available from vendors show waters open for year-round angling in each area, and the fish species that MEET ALFRED HUNT of Cardiff Spur, Idaho. Al became a member of the PFI team on July 13, 1948, as a greaser at Camp X.

AL HAS WORKED on countless jobs since joining PFI. He has been a choker setter, hooker, log truck driver, "cat" operator and his present job is that of operating an Osgood loader. Al is considered one of the most versatile men in the woods, and is classed as a top lumberjack.

HERE WE SEE AL WORKING WITH THE OSGOOD LOADER with which he places logs onto large logging trucks at the "cat" landing in Cardiff Spur. Loading logs in close quarters, as Al does, calls for utmost safety. He must be alert at all times. The logging trucks are loaded to balance and Al makes sure the drivers will have a minimum amount of trouble. Because Al is part of a contract team paid on the basis of how many logs are hauled to the railroad landing, he must work fast and efficiently to maintain the maximum amount of production.

BETWEEN HEADQUARTERS AND PIERCE on Highway 12 is the logging community called Cardiff Spur, where Al and his family live, work and enjoy outdoor recreation such as hunting, fishing and camping. Al's family is composed of a wife and three fine children; a girl who is a Senior at the Pierce High School, and two boys. Al's wife is very woods-wise and right at home in this environment, having worked as a waitress at Camp 54 before she married Al, and settled down to raise a family.

AL IS TREASURER of the Pierce Community Church and on the Board of Trustees, Treasurer of the Pierce Cemetery Board and a charter member of the Headquarters Credit Union, of which he served two terms as vice president.

AL HUNT IS PART OF A PLAN; a plan that treats timber as a crop, to be grown, protected and harvested when mature. A plan that involves building roads, communication and buildings. This is a plan that is made by people, carried out by people, financed by people and in the best interest of people . . . people like Alfred Hunt and you, and your neighbor.

SURE POTLATCH IS A LOT OF THINGS . . . but, most of all, Potlatch is people.

[illegible]peaking of Taxes

The [illegible] personal income of Idaho [illegible]ncreased [illegible]% over 1963, according to [illegible]stimates [illegible] Business Week (January [illegible]1965).

Which brings to mind a series of questions that were asked at the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho annual Taxpayers Conference on December 9, 1964. The major question was "How can we justify a $153,000,000 budget (agency requests are $154,9 million) for the next biennium, representing more than a 9% increase over the present biennium?"

There then followed sub questions:

(1) "Has there been a comparable increase in the population of the State in the past two year?" No., the population is reported by the U. S. Department of Commerce has increased only 3% since 1960. In 1960 it was 667,191; 1961 estimate, 684,000; 1962 estimate, 700,000; 1963 estimate, 687,000. (Estimates excludes armed forces overseas). Local school enrollment increased 2.68% in 2 years, 1962-1964. National elementary and secondary enrollment increased 3.1 compared to Idaho's increase of 1.2% 1965 over 1964.

(2) "Has there been a comparable increase in the assessed values (taxable evaluations) of real property in the state?" No, the assessed value of Idaho since 1960 has increased from $683.6% to $760.1 millions or 11%.

(3) "Has there been a comparable increase in sales and profit of commercial and industrial firms in the last two years?" No, retail sales reported by Sales and Management, have increased by 9.73%, comparing 1963 data with 1962, a two year period. Proprietorship personal income, farm, increased 22% from $104 to $128 million; nonfarm proprietorship personal income remained the same at $133 million for the same two year period. Corporation profit increased 14.5% using income tax data as a basis.

(4) "Has there been a comparable increase in employment in Idaho during the past two years." No. Employment security Agency data shows total employment has increased only .84% comparing 1961-1963.

There were other questions about the state's physical plant, buildings, etc., all of which were important, and along the same line as those above. But the ques: What, in your opinion, is the reason for taxes to increase so much faster than income and volume of business?" The simple answer is because government expenditures have increased much faster. Which, of course, result from demands for far more government service, and the people—the taxpayers—either ask for the increases or have allowed them to increase because they just fail to object at the right time and place.

Actually, while Idaho government expenditures have increased at a much faster rate than any of the economic factors or the combinations of them, Idaho is still behind the government expenditures level of most of the other states.

If we were to use as a beginning point the 1961-1963 biennium, saying that was our proper level of expenditure

CALF SCOURS CAUSING WIDESPREAD TROUBLE IN STATE

Idaho Cattlemen have to hold down losses from calf scours.

The disease, serious enough some year to wipe out calf profits, is widespread in the state. The University of Idaho, working in cooperation with the Idaho Cattlemen's Association, is completing a survey which will pinpoint cost of the disease to rancher in 1963-64. Early results show death losses hit almost 40% of calves in one Idaho area.

University scientists and the Cattlemen's Association are also pooling resources in a calf scours research program. For two years, the Association provided cattle for one experimental project by University veterinarians.

and were to increase the budget by the same percentage as our economy has increased, our 1965-1967 biennial General Fund Budget would be in the neighborhood of $104 million, instead of the $125 million indicated by the Revenue and Taxation Committee or the $154.9 million which has been requested by the state agencies.

$104 million compared to $154.9.

Sobering thought, isn't it?

A control program—one that's really effective—may be well in the future points out Dr. L. Dean Miller, assistant veterinarian with the University Agricultural experiment station.

Research indicates there are many different types of scours, possibly caused by a variety of bacteria or viruses and complicated by poor feeding. Only spotty control can be obtained by medication.

The best control, Dr. Miller says, is to try to avoid scours infection. He re commends:

(1) Feed breeding cows to good nutrilive levels. A strong calf is more resistant to scours and other diseases.

(2) Protect your calves. Cold, damp weather and sudden temperature changes during calving encourages scours. Dr. Miller recommends low, portable shelters for calves, shelters which can be moved frequently and supplied with clean bedding. Warm, dry calves have a better chance against scours infection.

(3) Don't crowd cattle into the calving area. Crowding generally leads to sloppy, dirty conditions underfoot.

"University of Idaho researchers have shown scours can be transmitted with a half-teaspoon of fecal material," Dr. Miller says. "Imagine what happens when your calves are wallowing in a crowded lot."

(4) Provide dry bedding for your cows also. Frozen tents are a common problem when cattle bed down on snow or frozen ground. Calves need plenty of milk; colostrum is the newborn calf's only source of protective antibodies and Vitamin A.

(5) If your calves do get scours, know what you're using for treatment. The antibodies and sulfa in many oral drugs can't be absorbed by the calf and are effective only against organisms in the digestive tract. If you use one of these non-absorbably oral drugs, you may also need to use a supplemental injection drug to combat infection throughout the calf's body. Your local veterinarian can best advise you on the drug or combination of drugs to use.

Give me the luxuries, and anyone can have the necessaries.

GROUNDHOG DAY

I shall remember long —the way we t ook
The leafless lindens and the nipping air
The bunchgrass trail above the sheltered nook—
That led us onward to the Groundhog's lair.

I shall remember how his shadow fell
Upon the wint'ry landscape wild and gray;
And all the joy that we came back to tell—
O'—so long ago on GROUNDHOG DAY

Cuisine Cum Laude

The Spokane papers reported last week that the Wine and Food Society paid tribute to their wives with a Cordon Bleu award dinner. Some of the delicacies were:

Les hors d'oeuvres:

Les coulibiacs. (Russian caviar in small whole wheat crepes. Le fondue de boeuf, Bourguignonne. (Small cubes of beef tenderloin) each individual does the cooking at the hor d'oeuvre table—served with an assortment of sauces and tidbits.

Les escargots champignons. (French snails marinated in Burgundy wine and served in mushroom tops).

Les bouffees de Strasbourg. (Small pastry puffs filled with pate do fois gras (Goose liver).

The Epicurean feast included: La gelatine de capon Campagnande accompagne d' la salade de coeur de palmier et celeri vinegarette. (Cold breast of capon seasoned with truffles and wine gelatin, served with a salad of hearts of palm and marinated cooked celery. This is a recipe and method used by the late Victor Hertzler, first chef of the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco, and author of the "St. Francis Cookbook."

Wines served were to be from this country, France and Portugal and would broaden the members knowledge of various types. Their dessert was Les crepes pralinces, sauce framboise. (Small crepes filled with praline ice cream and served with a flaming raspberry syrup).

Just thought we would pass this on, in case you are plagued, as the rest of us with "What shall I serve for dinner?" Well, you girls may not feel necessary all of the time, but do remember this poem taken from a school book of 1917:

You may live without poetry, music and art,
You may live without conscience
You may live without heart,
You may live without friends,
You may live without books,
But civilized man cannot live without—cooks.

No problem will go away just because its feelings are hurt at being ignored.

People will believe anything if you whisper it.

"I remember my wedding day," the elderly bookkeeper told the young cashier who was taking up a collection for a forthcoming wedding. "I bought my bride home to our little house, carried her over the threshold and said "Honey this is your world, this is my world."

"And I suppose you both lived happily ever after?"

"Well, not exactly," he replied grimly. "We've been fighting for the world championship ever since."

The credit card is now so widely used that the person who pays cash may be suspected of being a bank robber.

It is sad to see people squandering money and know you can't help them.

One thing the discovery of the North Pole revealed is that there is nobody sitting on top of the world.

Failure is the line of least persistence.

Accuracy in filling out income tax returns is now more important than ever, Internal Revenue director Calvin E. Wright said Wednesday.

He explained that the new tax return forms are geared for machine-processing by numerical code, requiring the correct social security identification numbers on all tax returns.

Wright said that faulty or incomplete returns are automatically rejected by the accounting machine. Then the "patchwork" on these returns must be done by hand later in the year, which delays refunds.

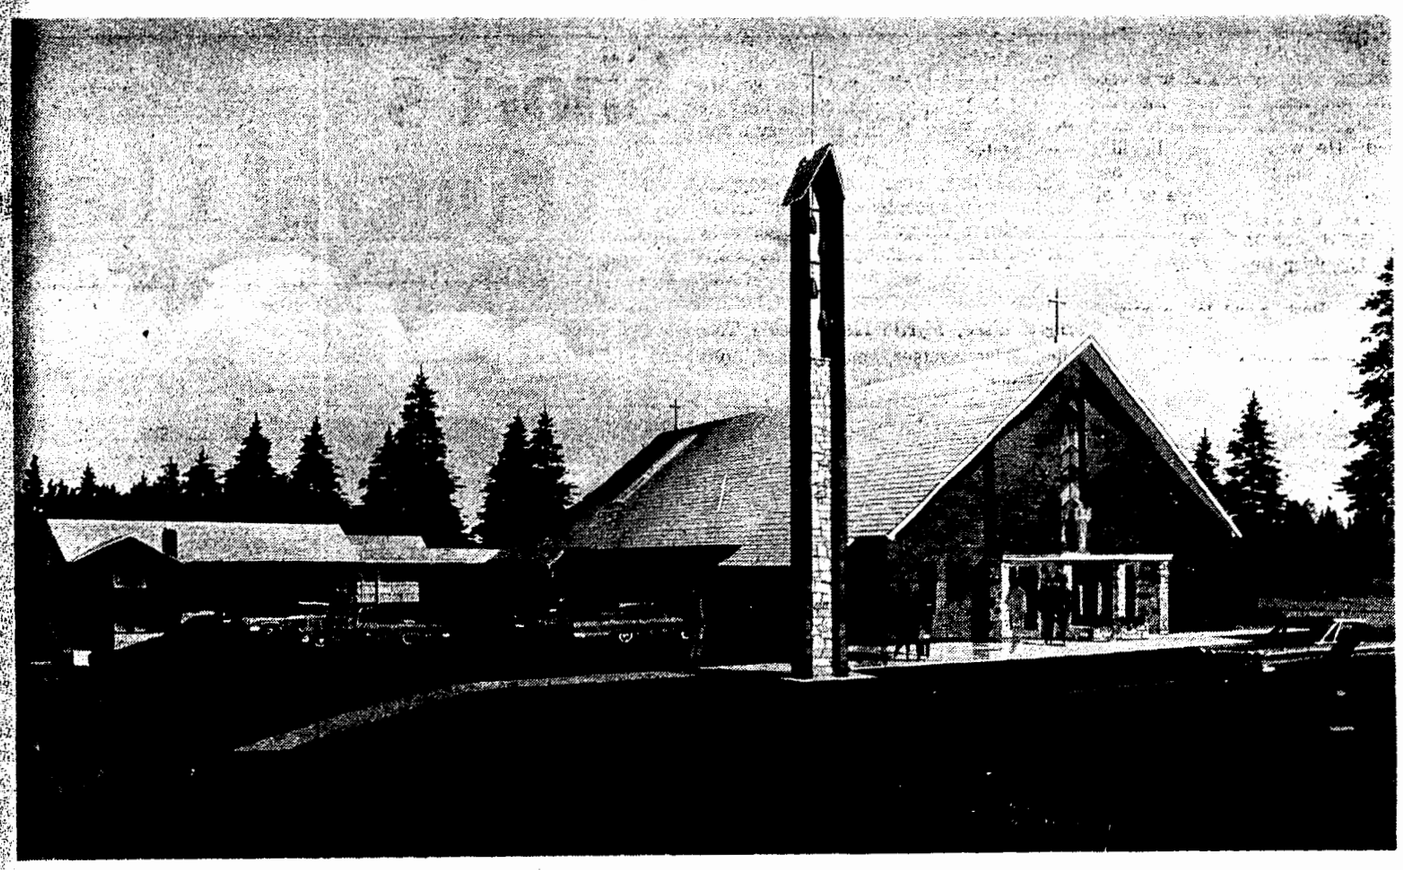
New St. Mary's Church, Rectory Nears Completion



Workmen are nearing completion of the new church and rectory for St. Mary's parish, it was announced this week by Father B. C. McCarthy, pastor, who also released this artist's drawing of the new structures. Most of the major construction work is finished, the priest noted, but there is still work remaining on the interior of both the church and rectory. The old St. Mary's church was destroyed by fire on the afternoon of September 30, 1961. Since that time worship services have been held in the St. Mary's school.

Final landscaping and lawn planting will also be accomplished as quickly as weather conditions permit.

Erosion Losses Run High In Cow Creek Drainage

By Larry Sorensen

The first part of this week was spent in evaluating the recent flood of the Cow Creek valley. After the high water subsided for the second time in two or three days, it was necessary to evaluate the damage and to try to find a solution.

Erosion on clean, cultivated fields received the high degree of damage and was rated from moderate to severe. This would be a rating of from 15 to 50 ton per acre. The flat low land along the creeks and water ways where silting and cutting of new seeded winter wheat was either washed out or covered with mud from adjacent slopes will probably have to be reseeded in the spring and this will mean that the farmers will take quite a reduction in yields of spring wheat compared to a good crop of Gaines wheat.

In talking to many farmers along Cow Creek they all agreed that for some unknown reason they had failed to do the maintenance work on Cow Creek and as the ice jams that contributed to the over flow of the creek at various places along the channel was where cattails mixed with floating ice on snow caused most of the over topping.

One section of Cow Creek that stood the flow was in the John Lawen farm about one mile south of Genesee. This section of the creek took all of the high water at peak flow and could have still taken more water. The maintenance on this part of the creek was to pasture the creek in the fall and as this was an annual practice used each fall it has proven to control cattails very well. At least this proves that annual maintenance is needed and necessary if any channel like Cow Creek is to do the job it is intended and was constructed to do.

In many cases highway and other bridges were blamed. Some of these are not large enough but most of the major causes were lack of maintenance on the creek.

R. C. and D., Rural Conservation and Development is a program set up by the Federal government to assist local people to harness potential disaster areas such as Cow Creek and provide annual maintenance by taxes or other means to assure once money is spent for construction, a lasting benefit may be assured. If you have land in the Cow Creek drainage be sure to attend the meeting next Thursday, February 11, 1965 at 1:30 p. m. at the Burr building in Genesee.

GHS Tops Deary Takes Two Losses

Genesee's Bulldogs posted a one-win, 2-loss record in basketball action for the past seven days. Friday night the team braved the elements to travel to Deary where they rolled over the Mustangs 51-38. Saturday night they were back home and became the victims of a strong, tall Mullan squad 65-49. Tuesday evening the Bulldogs hosted the Palouse Falcons and were edged out 49-43.

The Genesee-Deary game Friday evening was the only area hoop contest played that night due to poor weather conditions. Genesee moved out to a quick lead, held a 22-15 halftime advantage and then coasted home with the victory. Skip Ivie collected 19 points to pace all scorers. Bill Morscheck added 16. Genesee also took the B game 45-33.

Strong, tall Mullan high school finally overpowered the Bulldogs in the last period of play to win 65-49 Saturday evening. Genesee, despite their lack of height, made a game of it all the way and led the northern visitors 27-25 at halftime. In the final quarter Mullan exploded for 25 points while holding the Bulldogs to just 12, which made the difference. Again it was Skip Ivie who scored 23 points to lead the Genesee attack.

Palouse Wins Again

Despite the fact that two regulars, Larry Vestal and John Pell were missing from the line-up, Genesee took the visiting Palouse Falcons down to wire Tuesday night before bowing 48-43. Palouse had defeated the Bulldogs easily two weeks before but this time the home team put up a hard fight before the Falcons pulled away in the final quarter. The two teams were tied 23-23 at halftime. Ivie netted 18 points to lead all scorers with his teammate, Frank Hillman adding 10 to the Bulldog score.

The Robert Bergers Return From Panama

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berger returned Saturday evening from a trip to Panama. They left December 28, from Seattle, where they boarded a United Fruit ship for the twelve-day voyage. On the trip south two stops were made to land bananas—one at Corinto, Nicaragua, and the other at Port Armuelles, Panama, where tours were taken of the banana and cotton plantations, while the ship was being loaded.

The week in Panama was spent sightseeing. A fifty-mile tour from Balboa to Cristobal, on Atlantic side in the Canal Zone was made. They also took a trip of the jungles near the canal. An evening was spent with Captain and Mrs. Don Evans and family (Sharon Isaaksen) who are stationed in the Canal Zone.

On the return trip one stop was made at Golfita, Costa Rica, where 2600 tons of bananas were loaded for the trip north. Stops were made in Los Angeles where half the bananas were unloaded and at San Francisco where the rest of them were unloaded.

The Bergers returned to Seattle where they had left their car and visited for a couple of days before returning home.

Saturday Evening Blaze Destroys Roy Phipps Home

A fire early Saturday evening completely gutted the interior of the Roy Phipps home in the southwest section of Genesee. Members of the Genesee Fire Department who fought the flames were hindered by the strong winds which swept across the region that evening, fanning the blaze and making it difficult to bring under control. Although three of the young Phipps children were at home when the fire started, there were no injuries.

The fire apparently originated in the oil stove in the dining room and was caused when the wind blew down a chimney extension which plugged the draft. Wanda Phipps, one of the children at home, took Linda and Glenda over to a neighbor, Mrs. Miriam Vandenburg, to report the stove was going out. Mrs. Vandenburg returned to the home with the children and when she opened the door the stove burst into flames. Mrs. Vandenburg then turned in the fire alarm and by the time the fire trucks arrived at the scene the fire had already engulfed the kitchen and was working its way into the attic and other rooms of the home.

Members of the department and other volunteers fought the wind-whipped flames for over an hour before the fire was extinguished. The exterior of the home was saved but the inside of the house was virtually destroyed by fire and water damage. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Roy Phipps, who is one of the custodians at the local school, was at the school at the time of the fire, and his wife, Verna was at Carter's Broiler, where she has employment.

Benefit Ball Game

All proceeds of the Palouse-Genesee basketball game Tuesday evening were to go to the Phipps family. The benefit was sponsored by the students of Genesee high. Other organizations in town are helping with donations to assist the Phipps family replace part of the loss of household goods and clothing.

At present the Phipps' are staying with relatives until relocate in a new home.

Rapid Run-Off Again Floods Cow Creek

Rains and warmer temperatures Thursday afternoon and evening of last week caused a rapid melting of snow packs in this area which again sent Cow Creek on a rampage of floods and high water. In the wake of the sudden run-off several Genesee families were temporarily forced to leave their homes in the lower flats of town.

As the ordinarily small stream burst its banks under the pressure of snow, ice and rain, and backed water into field along its length of the valley, the families who were forced to leave their home or who had water in the houses were George Anderson, Clarence Trail, Mrs. Mary Lettenmaier, and Bill Stricker.

The high water was backed right near the homes of Lawrence Brown and Dale Bauer. Water also was covering up much of the ball park and surrounding fields.

The water started to recede Friday evening and then again rose late Saturday night, although it did not reach its previous high level. By Monday the stream was back in its banks but still running very high.

SOMETHING GENESEE NEEDS—

The recent proposal to change the Genesee Merchants Association from a strictly businessmen's organization into an area-wide civic group that would encompass businessmen, farmers, salaried persons, retired citizens, clergymen and all others interested in our community merits serious consideration.

While there is certainly no shortage of clubs, lodges, and other groups in this area at the present time and most of these are good, worthwhile organizations, the majority are limited in scope and purpose by occupation, age standards, religion or military service experience.

What is needed in Genesee then, is one organization whose only qualification for memebership is sincere desire to help improve our community. We did have such a group up until several years ago—The Genesee Civic Association—but we let it pass into oblivion. We needed such an organization then and we need it now. A community or a town is a complex, ever-changing society. For every problem solved there is another to take its place and these require more than the consideration of just the county commissioners or a city council. They need, indeed, they must have, the concern of every responsible, adult citizen in the community.

An organization that will join these responsible citizens together in strong, concentrated purpose is a most desirable goal for any community. It is hoped that many will accept the invitation of the businessmen to meet this month and plan for such an organization. wr

Employment Situation In Latah County

Job opportunities in the Moscow area rose considerably during the week ending January 30, 1965, according to Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Security Agency Office manager. A total of 20 new jobs were listed with the Office during the week, as compared with five jobs listed during the previous weeek, and ten during the corresponding week a year ago. There were fourteen workers placed through the office during the week. This is almost three times the number placed during the previous week and nearly twice the number placed during the same week in 1964. These workers were placed in a variety of jobs, Hartstein reported. Among the job filled by women were secretary, grocery checker, a green house worker, waitresses, and domestic workers. Men found work as a salesman, a farm hand, and as laborers. Hartstein reported that there were a total of 12 jobs still open at the end of the week. These included positions as secretaries, a bookkeeper, a fry cook, domestic workers, and waitresses for women, and jobs for farm hands, an auto mechanic and a meat cutter for men. The job picture looked considerably brighter this week as compared with the past few weeks, and with the corresponding periods during the previous year.

Although job opportunities increased during the week, the number of persons filing claims for Unemployment Insurance also increased somewhat during the week. There were a total of 26 persons filing new claims for benefits, according to Hartstein's report. Most of these, he indicated, were workers who had been laid-off from woods operations, with a few others who had just recently moved into the area. The total number of persons still receiving benefits as of the past week was 335. This is only slightly higher than the 327 who were being paid last week, and this is considerably below the 383 who were in receipt of such payments during the same time a year ago. The big difference is in the number of persons drawing benefits in the immediate Moscow and Potlatch areas. Hartstein accounted for the lower Unemployment insurance figure by indicating that there are still more workers engaged in woods work and construction activities this year than last.

BIG GAME TRAPPING READY TO CONTINUE

Field workers of the Idaho Fish and Game Department are all set to begin trapping, tagging and releasing elk, deer, bighorn sheep and mountain goats at a number of different locations in the state, it was announced this week.

Trapping facilities for elk are ready for operation at the Sand Creek Wildlife Management Area in eastern Idaho and on the North Fork of the Clearwater River where backwaters of the planned Dworshak dam will flood winter elk range, according to Wes Shaw, game biologist.

Deer trapping sites ready to go are located in Hells Canyon, South Fork of the Snake River in the Heise area and near Malad.

In addition, deer will be trapped, tagged and relocated to southwestern Idaho from Warm Springs Creek near Hailey. Here the snowpack is as much as six feet deep and covers most browse plants and shrubs. The plan is to trap and tag between 100 and 200 deer and release fawns near Horseshoe Bend and adults in eastern Owyhee county.

Shaw said bighorn sheep will be trapped, tagged and released in Morgan Creek Canyon near Challis in unit 36. It is hoped that enough sheep can be tagged to determine the movements and distribution of this herd on their summer and fall range.

Mountain goats also will be trapped and tagged on the north side of the Pahsimeroi Valley and moved to Mt. orah vicinity in units 39 and 4 this work is part of the Depart Five Point Program for the Shaw concluded.

FIRST SIGNS OF SPRING CAN BE NOTED EVEN NOW

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish and Game Department

June hardly is "busting out all over" this January, but sharply-attuned eyes, ears and noses can catch the subtle changes that come to field and stream long before the swelling of buds and the popping of pussy willows. Idaho outdoors holds many wonders in January, February and March. Why wait until the best part is past? Why wait for the April showers that bring May flowers to look for spring when Nature is dropping little hints every day?

Some people, like a hibernating animal, until the days gradually grow longer and the sun gives enough energy in the form of light and heat, to become active. Why look for spring when the land is wracked by wintry blasts and icy droughts that belie its very name?

But Nature does not—simply cannot—wait.

A she-bear, enjoying the deep sleep of her kind, for example produces a litter of from one to four cubs in her den in January. They are blind, hairless and toothless, weighing only six to eight ounces at birth. By the time spring is an obvious reality to everybody, the cubs toddle out into the world several pounds heavier, hungry and active.

People who want to stroll through the January wildlands but are reluctant to look for a lethargic but easily aroused sow bear with cubs can listen for the courtship talk of the great horned Owl. One of the earliest harbingers of the coming of spring, the sound is heard when the snows are the deepest and the coldest winds still in the offing. The bloom still is on the new year when the owls choose mates, build nests and lay eggs. Theirs is a long incubation and nesting time before the young can fend for themselves.

As the daylight hours stretch out the sights, sounds and smells of spring are everywhere, steelhead and other trout walk under the ice for high water to return him to ancestral spawning grounds. Flocks of robins begin to move, sometimes into snow storms. Wedges of duck and gaggle of geese start their grand passage, one of the most discussed signs of spring—and baffling to man.

Probably no man understands all of the complex changes that awaken life within the speck of any kind of seed. In general growth hormones become active and enzymes control the development of the plant. Fats and starches become sugar-like chemicals. Proteins are broken up into some 20 compounds and these go to stems and roots. The tough outer coat of the seed is softened by freezing and thawing and the attack of insects. This tenderizing is needed so that the shell will burst when the embryo starts to swell. Actual sprouting is simulated by the intake of moisture, adequate oxygen and proper temperatures.

Cold weather is not essential to pheasants. They do well in parts of New Mexico, California and Hawaii. But most of the pheasant range of the United States is beset by rigorous winters. Mortality does occur, however, where there is not enough natural food and cover. They sometimes die of starvation, but mostly from sleet and grainy "sugar snow" which also resembles sand.

Sleet covers pheasant mouths and nostrils to the extent that the birds may be smothered unless there is enough cover to give protection. Suffocation also comes as they roost in deep irrigation ditches and are covered with heavy crystalline snow. When such drifts fill the ditches, there is no escape for ringnecks.

Rarely are pheasants deprived long enough to starve to death. But they do eat more and use more body fat during bitter weather. A Michigan study bears out similar Idaho findings that at ten degrees above zero a pheasant might go without food for 30 days. The same bird might survive without food only 15 days when the themometer plummets to ten below.

All members of the deer family, like most mammals, change their coats twice a year. They have a lightweight red one made of fine short hairs that lie close to the skin for spring-summer wear. The other is gray and has course hollow bristles that defy the bleakest winds and coldest storms. It averages a thickness of two inches, and develops gradually during the fall months. Count less air spaces in the hair act as additional insulation. Deer gradually shed or moult, replacing the red with the blue substituting long hollow bristles for the fine summer hair, and hunters remark that the deer are in the blue and now work killing.

Life is not easy on the winter range. Food may be scarce and slipping or breaking through ice covers may result in unpleasant predicaments, broken bones or even drowning. Deer often cannot regain their feet unaided when they fall on the ice, thus are easy prey to predators. Conservation officers and other personnel of the Idaho Fish and Game Department frequently rescue deer in such straits. They venture out on thin ice by pushing a canoe ahead of them. If it breaks they have the canoe to get them out. The deer are lassoed and dragged back to the safety of shores.

Late winter or spring always catches a game population at its ebb. A herd, flock or whatever is at its peak just after the young are born, or hatched, in spring or early summer. From there on animals die and the population decreases until more young are born.

Thus pheasant populations are always smallest just after the end of winter. But it is doubtful that Idaho's ringnecks are much fewer each spring because of hard winters. There probably would be no more pheasants if the winters were milder.

Regardless of hard or easy winter conditions and natural attrition in its many forms, pheasant roosters will begin engaging in battle along southern Idaho roads soon squaring off, giving each other the belligerent eye and meeting in midair with a flurry of beaks, spurs and pinions. Cock crowing and fighting for territory commences in late March and peaks in early May when pheasant crowing counts are made.

Signs of spring then will be everywhere. The days will be longer, the sun climbing to its northern azimuth and wild creatures of all kinds will be feeling the fires of a new springtime.

But why wait until then to go looking for it?

Speaking of Taxes

The importance of individual taxpayer citizen expression to the legislators and government administrators cannot be stressed too strongly. An individual personal call or personal letter combined with another, and another, and another, is of value and is sincerely appreciated by those who have the responsibility of making final decisions.

Every man, woman and child, has a vested interest in government because each is a taxpayer and each is affected by the laws of government. When the legislature is in session it is the proper time for the individual to have opinions and express them to their representatives.

Too often the individual thinks of government in bits and snatches only when he files his income tax return or wants government to do something—seldom thinking of the total—total government and how this total is affecting his life, his business, or if he is a government administrator, his particular function in government.

The individual, because of the complexity and diversity of life and business competition, needs to spend most of his energies on specifics just to survive. It is the same during legislative session. The need to fight for his special interests is so important, so necessary just for survival, that all his activity and energy is given, if there is interest at all, to a specific bill, a specific tax problem a specific expenditure to the end that no effort will be made towards the growth of total expenditures, total government and the effect that the total will have on his life, business, and children.

The most important legislation which has been introduced or recommended thus far in the 38th session and which should receive attention and inspire expression to the legislative delegation is the proposed general fund budget for the 1965-1967 biennium. Requests by the agencies, including new programs are $154.9 million; and Governor's recommendations of $134.8 compared to the $101.9 million appropriated for the present biennium. The Governor's budget represents a 32 per cent increase over the present biennium.

Among the tax legislation which has been introduced or is being talked in the legislative halls, is the Sales Tax of 3 per cent which calls for reduction of the income and property tax and was recommended by Governor Smylie in his 1965 Budget Message; another is repeal of the provision for deducting the federal income tax when computing state income tax.

There are several bills for increasing property tax levies already introduced, there will be more, and all should be considered in the light of expenditure need and government cost.

There is being considered a constitutional amendment, a joint resolution, to reduce the majority requirement for the passage of bond issues from the present 66 and two thirds to fifty per cent of property owners voting.

If all of these and other legislation are important enough to be considered by the legislature, they are important enough to bear study and expression from the citizens of Idaho.

PLENTY OF ALCHOLICS

Repeal is costly to every American. The U. S. is producing alcoholics at the rate of more than 1200 a day—over 50 an hour.

Cuisine Cum Laude

Mrs. Ray Trautman has given us two recipes today, one for a salad and the other for an apple dessert. Mrs. Trautman suggests the salad either as an accompaniment for a meal or to serve with fancy crackers as a light luncheon or to afternoon guests.

RED BEET SALAD

One pkg. raspberry jello
One pkg. strawberry jello
One pkg. red cherrry jello
One No. 303 can crushed pineapple three-fourths cup pineapple juice (from same can) ½ cup sweet pickle juice
1 cup or more grated canned beets

Dissolve the jellos in four cups boiling water, let cool. Drain pineapple. When jello begins to thicken, add pineapple, pickle juice, pineapple juice, and grated beets. The recipe calls for one cup, but you may add more beets if desired. Chill until set. This topping may be spread over the salad:

one cup mayonnaise
one cup finely diced celery one tbbl. chopped green pepper
one tbbl. grated onion, (if desired)

Salad may be cut in squares to serve. If topping is not used, Mrs. Trautman often adds the diced celery to the salad with the pineapple.

The following recipe came to Mrs. Trautman from her mother, Mrs. Charles (Lena) Hermann. It is

APPLE DESSERT

One cup sugar
¼ cup shortening
one cup flour
one teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
one teaspoon nutmeg
one teaspoon soda

Work ingredients together as for pie crust. Pare and grate four apples, mix with four mixture. Grease a loaf pan or a square cake pan, turn mixture into pan and bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees or until done. Serve warm with a caramel or other sauce or whipped cream. This is a quick and easy dessert.

Mr. and Mrs. Trautman reside on a hill in the east part of Genesee in their lovely remodeled home. Mrs. Trautman is a gardener of note and offers her chrysanthemums for sale in the fall. She is an active member in the Genesee Garden Club; the Altar Society and Catholic Daughters of America. She is chairman of the parish committee for Cooperating with Catholic Charities. Mr. Trautman is a member of K. C. He is engaged in commercial hauling and drives a school bus.

Arthur C. Linehan Passes February 7 After Long Illness

Arthur Clarence Linehan, 81, native of Genesee, died at Gritman Hospital Sunday, February 7th.

Linehan, a retired farmer, married Catherine Cunningham at Genesee, Jan. 1907. Mr. and Mrs. Linehan farmed extensively near Genesee until 1940 when they moved into town.

The Linehans celebrated their Golden Wedding with an Open House at their home on Sunday, January 13, 1957. One hundred and twenty relatives and friends called to greet them.

Mr. Linehan was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church; Knights of Columbus; founder of Genesee Producers Co.; past director of Genesee Union Warehouse; organizer and past director of Inland Empire Pea Grower Assn., and past director of North Pacific Grain Growers.

Local Fishermen Catch Bluebacks

Braving rain, cold, wind and choppy water, Sonny Bruegeman and Bill Broemmeling spent the weekend at Lake Pend Oreille and returned home with 158 bluebacks. According to reports the Blueback season is just getting a good start on the northern lakes.

The two Genesee fishermen reported that the weather up on the lake wasn't quite as bad as it was down in this area but it still lacked a long way from being summertime.

All of the fish were taken on maggots and both used handlines to catch the bluebacks. The two reported the fish were taken at depths ranging from 90 to 110 feet. The fish were all about seven to eight inches long.

An Invitation

To All Community-Minded Citizens

The Genesee Merchants Association at their January meeting voted unanimously to invite interested people of the community to meet with them at their next meeting, and to expand and rename their organization to include all interested people in the community.

This action was taken in view of the fact that almost all of our projects and interests are community-wide rather than of the merchants exclusively, and because there is no longer a community-wide organization where concerted action may be taken on projects and policies which concern us all.

We urge all who are interested in forming such an organization to meet with us at 12 noon, Wednesday, February 17th at Carter's Charcoal Broiler, for lunch and discussion.

To make things easier for the cooks, please notify me of your intentions to attend, before noon Tuesday, the 16th.

Carl Simons,
President,
Genesee Merchants Assoc.

William J. Gray, 81, Passes February 5

William J. Gray, 81, a son of early-day Genesee pioneers, passed away Friday morning, February 5, at Gritman Hospital where he had been a patient for two weeks. He had suffered a broken hip in a fall at his home and his condition was further aggravated by ulcers.

The first of ten children born in Genesee to Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Gray, the deceased was born December 24, 1883. He received his early education in area schools and became an outstanding athlete, especially in baseball and he pitched in semi-professional baseball over the Northwest for many years.

He was in partnership in a feed mill in Genesee with Rollie Spurbeck until he took over the family farm at his father's retirement. He engaged in farming for over fifty years until he retired and moved to Genesee.

Even after he reached the age when he could no longer actively participate in athletic events himself, Mr. Gray never lost his love of sports and was easily the number one fan and spectator of all Geneeee high school sporting games. In 1960 he was awarded a lifetime pass to all GHS ball games, a recognition he deeply cherished. He also established the William J. Gray Athletic Scholarship which is awarded each year to an outstanding Genesee high school athlete who will be attending the University of Idaho.

He is survived by three brothers, Robert A., Genesee, Charles C., Spring Valley, California; Cecil E., Los Angeles, California, and one sister, Mrs. Mary E. Edwards, Genesee and a number of nieces and nephews.

Final services were conducted Wednesday at 2:00 p. m. from the Genesee Community Church with the Rev. Lowell Messley officiating

Thank You

We would like to thank the many people who took time to visit our brother while he was in the hospital and those who also expressed their sorrow and sympathy to us in so many kind and understanding ways. All of this was very much appreciated and will never be forgotten.

Kootenai led by a slim 26-25 score at the halftime, pulled away by as much as eight points early in the third quarter and then faded before the Genesee attack and the Bulldogs were ahead going into the final period. In that fourth quarter the lead changed hands several times before Hampton dropped in his two pointer to seal the victory.

Skip Ivie led the Genesee scoring with 19 points. Genesee took the B game 57-31.

Troy Wins 54-50

Troy staged a last quarter rally which wiped out Genesee's six-point lead and went on to win 54-50 over the Bulldogs Tuesday evening on the Genesee court. Genesee led 2523 at the halftime. The Oscar Danielson's Return From Hawaii

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Danielson returned home Saturday afternoon, Feb. 5 from a trip to Hawaii. They left by plane from Lewiston Dec. 21, and spent Christmas with their son, Danny and wife at Wahiawa, Oahu. They also visited the Islands of Hawaii, Maui, and Kauai. Most of the time was spent on the Island of Oahu, where Danny is stationed at Wheeler Air Force Base. Danny is in the flying service of the army, flying helicopters. At present training gunners for Viet Nam.

The Danielsons saw many interesting places. The weather was beautiful except for rain the latter part of December, and rain and flooding conditions the first part of February. On February 2 about 10 p. m. there was a tidal wave alert. All military personnel were called out and people living along the beaches were told to evacuate. Nothing came of the tidal wave —the water raised about 12 inches. The all-clear signal was given about 1 a. m.

BUILDING PROGRAM DISCUSSED; SUPERINTENDENT RE-HIRED AT MONDAY SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

The Genesee school board at its regular meeting on February 8, voted to re-hire Superintendent Lester C. Diehl for the coming school year.

This program was only discussed at this meeting and will be taken up again at the next regular meeting when more facts and figures are available.

Figuring Value of Topsoil Requires Many Considerations

By Larry Sorensen

Harry A. Vogt, Area Conservationist, SCS, in Moscow, said this week that frequently his office is asked the value of topsoil. This is one value that needs to be considered when we are reporting flood damages or making cost-return analysis of various conservation measures. Together with Verle Kaiser, another SCS man, Vogt has provided us with some rules of thumb in discussing value of topsoil.

When one first begins to place a value on topsoil there are many factors involved. Among these are:

a. How much soil is left?
b. What kind of soil is involved?
c. Where is the soil?
d. What are you going to us the soil for?

According to both Vogt and Kaiser, here are some criteria we could use in evaluating soil worth:

1. Sale value of soil in the city for lawn building. One price is $2.50 per cubic yard. At this rate the soil is worth the following:
one acre foot—$4032.50,
one acre inch—$335.30
one ton—$2.25

2. The value of plant nutrients in top soil must also be considered. In Palouse silt loam at 3 percent organic nutrient—the value of the nitrogen, phosphate and potash only, based on current prices paid for these elements in fertilizer would be as follows:
one acre foot—$970.00
1 acre foot—$97.00
one acre inch—$81.00
one ton— .54

3. The value of topsoil where soil depth is limited to that amount needed to store annual precipitation and where moisture is a limiting factor in crop production must also be taken into consideration when worth is decided. Here are some facts on this: one foot of soil will store 2 inches of useable moisture. One inch of useable moisture equals 7 bushels of wheat each crop. One foot loss of soil is equivalent to the loss of 14 bushels of wheat per crop. This value could be figured over a period of 50-100 years with startling results.

4. Soil, for all its value to farmers, has a nuisance value that is measurable. Silt deposited in country and state highway installations must be removed An average cost of this job has been calculated by one county at $1 per cubic yard. Silt can also cause highway accidents and block efficient use of dams and reservoirs.

Finally Mr. Vogt concludes that in real estate values, frequently the sale price of the land does not immediately depreciate to that comparable to the erosion losses. We must remember that we cannot always compare real estate valuations with the true value of soil. Real estate values are quite frequently based upon what the property is able to produce over a period of 20-30 years, whereas the soil properly cared for the capability of producing food stuff for thousands of years.

Most of you, we are sure, are aware of Mrs. Lee's increasing illness over the past two years, and of her surgery one year ago this month in an effort to save her eyesight. We have just returned from Seattle where she underwent her quarterly checkup. Doctors there found her in pretty good condition at this time, although her vision comes and goes. At the present time it is not good and the uncertainty of her future has prompted us to take a vacation at this time. Snow On Moscow Mt. Less Than Last Year

The February 1st snow survey was taken over a 3-day period, starting on January 29 and ending January 31. The survey consisted of a drive on the first day to the Sherwin course between Bovill and Clarkia (taken by F. Chugg and C. Swensen of the Soil Conservation Service), a snow cat ride on the second day to two of the courses on Moscow Mountain (taken by Fred Chugg of SCS George McKean and Harvey Warlon of the University of Idaho, and, due to mechanical failure of the snow cat, long walk to the remaining three courses on the final day (taken by Fred Chugg of the SCS).

The snow pack on the Sherwin course was 16.2 inches less than the 65.9 inch record of last year for this date compared to this year's 39.7 inches. The 23 inches compared to this year's 12.4 inches compared to this year's 12.4 water content of the snow last year was inches, which indicates a difference of 10.6 inches.

The five snow courses on Moscow Mountain showed approximately 10 in. increase in snow depth over last month and are below last year's record snow pack.

The Moscow Mountain course had an increase in snow pack of 13.5 inches on top of the 35 inches recorded last month to bring the total for this date to 48.5 inches which is about 12 inches above the last 7 year average. Last year this course had a record depth of 60 inches which is 11.5 inches more than was recorded this year, However, the water content between last year and this is near the same at 15.8 inches.

The West Twin snow course on the mountain showed the greatest increase in snow pack by receiving 15.4 inches to bring the total amount on the course from 18.3 inches last month to 33.7 inches recorded January 31, 1965.

The remaining three courses are East Twin 34.8 inches of snow; Howard Creek with 18.3 inches, and Crumarine Creek at 24.6 inches of snow.

The snow survey will continue on the first of each month through May 1st, and is conducted through the cooperative efforts of Prof. C. C. Warnick, University of Idaho Engineering Experiment Station; the Soil Conservation Service, and the Latah Soil Conservation District Supervisoors.

KOKANEE HAND LINING SAID "FAIR TO GOOD"

Fishing with hand lines for kokanee, northern Idaho's renowned bluebacks or landlocked sockeye salmon is running slightly ahead of last year at this time on Lake Pend Oreille, according to Phil Swanstrum, regional conservation officer for the Fish and Game Department.

While other anglers around the state look glumly at swollen streams and murky reservoirs open for year-round fishermen, the deep waters of the "Big Hole" are clear and some days are sunny and warm.

Swanstrum says about 20 commercial fishing boats are out on good days and more on week ends when most of the sport fishing is done. Daily bag limits are 200 kokanee for licensed commercial fishermen and 50 for sport fishermen. Anglers are fishing at a depth of 90-100 feet at the present time.

The 1964 kokanee harvest from Lake Pend Oreille was over a million fish, a figure which has been exceeded eight times since 1953. Some 323,690 of these were caught by residents, 450,800 by non-residents and 370,000 by commercial fishermen last year, according to the records.

Wheat Market Program Foreign Sales Reviewed

REXBURG—Western Wheat Associates foreign market development programs which had boosted U. S. wheat sales to Japan to 63 million bushels in 1964 were reviewed by directors of the three-state organization at a conference in Portland, January 19-20, according to Jay Ricks, Rexburg, newly elected president of the group.

Ricks reported that Japan had become a primary market for U. S. grain and was especially valuable to American growers because it is a cash market. He credited the promotional efforts of Western Wheat Associates, the marketing group for Idaho, Oregon, and Washington growers with the growth in the Japanese market.

Also on the conference agenda, said Ricks, were discussions of some of the problems of market promotion in Asian countries. Among the greatest of these problems, he said, was a situation with the Pakistani government which may force discontinuation of the Western Wheat Associates program in that country. The resignation of Gene Vickers, former WWA director in the Philippines has left that Manilla post vacant for the present time.

Ricks succeeds Frank Tubbs, Pendleton, Oregon in the presidency of Western Wheat Associates. Other officers for 1965 are Gene Moos, Washington, vice president, and Ronald Rue, Oregon secretary-treasurer.

Other Idahonans who attended the Portland conference with Ricks were Dick Smith, Rexburg; Charles Gabby, Lewiston; Floyd Trail, Moscow, and Harold West, Boise administrator of the Idaho Wheat Commission.

LIVELY CANINES IGNORE MEDICAL LAW OF AVERAGES

TWO DOGS at West Virginia University are living on borrowed kidneys—and time. They received new kidneys nine and six months ago, respectively. The researchers say it is unusual to have the organs function for more than 10 days unless certain drugs and pre-treatment methods are used to prolong their operations. The scientists are trying to find out why the dogs have survived without special treatment. They hope to apply the information to the study of the rejection mechanism used to prolong their operations. ETHICAL DRUG SALES in the United States exceeded $2 billion last year, 6.4 per cent over 1963, reports the Census Bureau. For the year, all drug industry sales were $2.95 billion . . . .

LIFE INSURANCE death payments indicated that 1964 was the most tragic year in history on our streets and highways. The Institute of Life Insurance reports that death payments to families of traffic victims rose 15 per cent in the first half of the year. A record $20 million was paid during the period, $13 million more than for the corresponding 1963 period.

FIRE TRIANGLE,' dreaded by oil companies, is the name given to the combination of an ignition source, fuel and oxygen. These are the ingredients for an explosion or fire. When tanks are partly absorbed by the oil, olines are loaded with fuel oil the overly rich gasoline fumes remaining in the tank are partly obsorbed by the oil, which then draws air into the truck, creating a mixture that can be detonated by static electricity. The minimize the problem, tank trucks are inerted by injection of carbon monoxide, reports Cardox, Chicago. Heavier-than-air OO2 displaces the oxygen leg of the fire triangle.

METEROLOGISTS are hot on the track of the arctic blasts that cause Wisconsin's sub-zero winter temperatures. The University of Wisconsin uses an ex-Navy patrol plane as an air-borne laboratory in the drive to expand knowedge of the influence of Hudson Bay and the Canadian lakes on air masses, the amount of heat from sunlight absorbed by the northern air and land masses, and changes in available heat energy. This will help improve weather forecasting methods.

WHO SAID the British are reserved! The vicar of a church in Trowbridge, England discovered one of the bright young boys in the parish demonstrating his "snogometer" during a youth club meeting. "A snog" is teen slang for a kiss. The machine has metal handles which, when held by a kissing couple, activate a dial on the machine. The machine lights up and the dial swings through a series of degree markings measuring the intensity of the kiss.

Five Killed In Hunting Accidents In Idaho

One of the safest hunting seasons in recent years was reported today by the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

Official records based on standards established by the National Rifle Association list five gun fatalities during the 1964 big game, upland bird and migratory waterfowl seasons running from September 1 to December 31, and 34 non-fatal injuries throughout the state.

The National Rifle Association defines a hunting accident as one which happens after a hunter leaves home and before he returns.

Only one of the injuries resulting in death listed the shooter as unidentified, according to E. Kliess Brown, chief of the Information and Education division of the Department. Three of the other shots were fired by members of the victims' own hunting parties. The fifth fatal accident occurred when a gun being removed from a vehicle accidentally discharged.

Four other people died from gun injuries during the year but none of these were hunting situations, Brown added. One of these involved a nine-year-old boy who smuggled a gun out of the home and his friend ran into his line of fire. Another involved an 11-year-old boy who reached for a gun that was leaning against thhe family pickup at home. Another youth, thinking a gun was unloaded carelessly pointed the weapon at his companion and fired. A small girl found a gun beneath the front seat of the family car and shot her brother, age one.

Brown stressed that most if not all of the non-fatal accidents also were avoidable, although two were caused by ricochet cartridges from weapons that accidentally discharged. Many were traceable to "fast draws" and "horseplay" with pistols. Mistaking people for game, carrying loaded guns in cars, cleaning loaded guns, striking or dropping cartridges, stumbling and "didn't know the gun was loaded" were common characteristics of these accidents.

Brown said Idaho hunting accidents claimed eight lives in 1963; nine each in 1962 and 1961; 17 in 1960 and six in 1959.

"Even though careless gun handling generally is the culprit behind these tragedies," Brown pointed out, "hunting still is one of the safest of the active outdoor sports. As of November 30, 1964 some 155,300 licenses were sold entitling the purchasers to hunt in the state. Many of thesc people exercised their privilege more than once during the year."

LINCOLN

I love to think of Lincoln—tall and great
Of all the things he said—and did—and gave;
To save the Union—guide the Ship of State,
To bring a way of freedom to the slave.

I love to think that in our hearts he lives,
A bless't remembrance for the years to be,
Of how the inspiration that he gives
Still helps to make men nohle—strong and free.

Cuisine Cum Laude

The immediate past president of the Genesee Home Dmonstration Club gives us a recipe for a pie which she made and took to a "tasting luncheon" held last week at the home of Mrs. Ray Reword. Mrs. Dan Kammeyer, who has served two years as president, and is now vice president, tells us that the dishes served at the luncheon were very good and that lots of fun was had by all in trying out new foods. Here is her pie:

Purchase at a grocery store a roll of Slice and Bake Cooky dough. There are many varieties to choose from, but she used Butterscotch Nut. Slice roll in half. (Use only one half). Slice the half in one-eighth inch slices. Lightly grease and sugar a pie plate and place cooky rounds in it overlapping them across bottom and up sides. Bake at 350 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes, or until golden brown. These form a crust for your pie. Do not be alarmed if cookies puff up, for they will go down upon cooling. Set aside.

For filling, dissolve one 3-ounce pkg. orange gelatin in one and one-half cups hot water. Mix ¼ cup sugar with one 8-ounce pkg. softened Philadelphia Cream Cheese. Blend this with gelatin mixture and ¼ cup orange juice and one teaspoon lemon juice. Chill mixture until almost firm. Take out and whip until fuffy. Pour into cooled crust, and sprinkle top with grated orange peel. Chill until firm. Mrs. Kammeyer suggests placing an orange in the oven for several minutes, then grating on pie. The peeling will not stick to your grater as much as when orange is soft.

Mr. Kammeyer works in Pullman as a building contractor. They have six sons, David, Dwayne, Darryl, Derrek, Dale, and Drew. Mrs Kammeyer is a member of St. Mary's Church; is a trustee of the C. D. A., and publicity chairman for the Parent's Club.

Card Of Thanks

I would like to express my thanks for the cards, visits, inquiries, calls, and many other kindnesses I received while I was in the hospital and since returning home. These expressions have been greatly appreciated.

Campfire Dad-Daughter Banquet February 14

The annual Campfire-Bluebird Dad-Daughter banquet was held Sunday, February 14 at Carter's Charcoal Broiler in Genesee. The invitations were made by the 5th grade girls and the table decorations by the 4th grade. This group is led by Mrs. Everett Wishard and Mrs. Wayne Roach.

The tables were decorated with red and white Valentine ladies. A large styrofoam heart, bedecked with ruffling, centered the head table and red candles were used. The nuteups, made by Mrs. Charles Airhart's Bluebirds, were white, faced with a red heart. The Jr. High, 7th Grade group, Ta Wa Ten Ya, made the programs, which were shaped like a heart, in red, with Indian symbols, done in gold on the front covers.

J. P. Hermann was master of ceremonies. The program, held before the dinner, was opened by the Bluebirds singing two selections, one being "The Bluebird Song." Slides taken at the Campfire summer camp on Lake Coeur d'Alene, Camp Neewahlu, were shown with Judy Linehan narrating. Judy has attended the camp. Mrs. Airhart led in group singing after which the fathers sang to their daughters, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

The purpose of The Rural Youth on Parade program is to give F. F. A. members experience and training in speaking and to further their leadership abilities. The program is video taped ahead of its regular release time Russell and Mark accompanied by Roger Brazier, Bernie Hermann, and Mr. Heimgartner went to Spokane February 4, to tape the program which will be seen over KHQ-TV, channel 6, 6:30 p. m. on February 20.

National F F A Week To Be Observed Feb. 20-27

Vocational agriculture students in Genesee High School will join FFA members throughout the nation in activities to focus attention on the importance of agriculture during National FFA Week, February 20-27.

"Agriculture—Our American Heritage" is this year's FFA Week theme. The farm boys will undertake a campaign to inform the general public about the importance of the agricultural industry to America, the growing need for farming, and of the numerous and wide variety of opportunities that exist in the broad field of agriculture for young men who have a background of farm experience and training.

"We have such an abundance of food in America that people are taking farmers for granted," said Mr. Heimgartner, vocational agriculture teacher and FFA advisor. "Actually, farming is now and always has been our largest and most vital industry, and it is becoming increasingly important with our expanding population. In our area, particularly, most of the businesses, and most of the jobs, are basicly dependent upon surrounding farms for their existence. Take away the farms, and for all practical purposes you would destroy the entire community."

Locally, members of the Genesee FFA chapter plan a chapter meeting on February 26 when they will initiate last years Green Hand degree and the Chapter Farmer Degree. This is a step higher in the Future Farmers of America organization.

Their meeting will also include discussion, preparing and planning for their district meeting on the 13th of March. Here the chapter will compete in a Parliamentary Procedure contest, and also Crops and Meat Contest. The group will also discuss the upcoming State FFA meeting.

Membership in the FFA is made up of students of vocational agriculture in high school. The organization's activities are designed to help develop rural leadership and good citizenship, and to stimulate the students to better achievement in their study and work toward successful establishment in farming or other agricultural occupations.

The Genesee FFA chapter has thirty members.

The national Future Farmer organization has approximately 400,000 members, with 9,000 local chapters in the 50 states and Peurto Rico. Membership in Idaho totals 3500.

Future Farmers chose the week of George Washington's birthday each year for the observance of National FFA Week. Although usually recognized as a Revolutionary War General and our first president, Washington's first love was the farm. He was one of the first in the nation to practice contour planting, crop rotations, fertilization, and other soil conservation and improvement methods.

Merchants Assoc. Disbands; New Civic Group Formed

On a unanimous vote of the members present the Genesee Merchants Association approved the dissolution of their twenty-year-old organization in favor of a new style association that would include not only merchants, but farmers, clergymen, teachers, and many other area residents interested in promoting civic betterment of the community.

The action came at a noon meeting at Carter's in Genesee, Wednesday. Almost thirty persons, representing a cross section of the community were present. The meeting was presided over by Carl Simons, president of the Merchants Association.

In opening the meeting, Simons welcomed those people present who were not merchants and explained that the need for a civic service group has been felt in this community since the old Genesee Civic Improvement Association suspended operation in October of 1961 due to lack of attendance and interest. Simons said it was the desire of those who suggested the meeting to provide Genesee with one organization where residents of the area could meet and plan on matters of community interest.

Rather than to form a new organization, the Merchant's president stated, it was felt the business men could open up their association to include all members of the community interested in civic affairs. To this end, then, the merchants were willing to disband and the members could serve as a core for the new group.

In discussing a new organization, Bill Haxton, president of the Genesee Junior Chamber of Commerce, said a new group of this type would not interfere with JayCee functions and that, speaking for his chapter, he would welcome its formation. Lester C. Dahl, superintendent of Genesee Public Schools, said he and his faculty would cooperate as fully as they were able. Also present were Rev. Lowell Messley, pastor of the Genesee Community Church, and Rev. William Bash, pastor of St. John's Lutheran parish, both of whom expressed interest in the forming of a new civic group.

Marion Holben, a farmer in this area, stated he felt such an organization was needed to promote understanding and better cooperation between various groups in the area.

Following a general discussion concerning formation of the proposed organization, it was brought out that the old Civic Improvement Association did not disband but merely suspended their meetings and as such could be revived by popular vote. Inasmuch as this association was incorporated, had a set of bylaws and rules, it was decided to reactivate this association. The vote was unanimous in favor of the motion. Carl Simons was elected temporary chairman of the Association until such time as a proper election could be held.

It was also decided to continue to hold meetings at noon on the third Wednesday of each month unless an evening business session seemed warranted.

Bulldogs Top Deary, Kendrick As Season Nears Completion

Genesee high schools basketball squad began to windup their regular season of play this week with their final game of the year set for this Friday night on the Lapwai court. In the last seven days the Bulldogs marked up two victories the first coming last Friday night as they toppled the Deary Mustangs 56-42 and then beating the Kendrick Tigers 61-46 at Genesee. Genesee has a 12-win, 7-loss record for the season to date.

Friday night the Bulldogs had little trouble disposing of the visiting Deary team 56-42. Genesee stormed out to a quick lead and were never headed. They posted a 33-10 first half lead and were content to coast home. Skip Ivie paced the Bulldog attack with 17 points with Mark Hampton adding 14 more.

Genesee took the B game 56-48.

Tuesday evening the Bulldogs used their jumping ability to sweep the back boards against the visiting Kendrick Tigers and won 61-46. Making up in jumping skills what they lacked in height the Bulldogs had a 32-20 halftime lead.

Larry Vestal scored 18 points for the Bulldogs with Bill Morscheck putting in 16 more. Genesee took the B game 58-50.

JayCee-Old Timers Ball Game Feb. 27

A basketball game matching a group of Bermuda-Shorted members of the Genesee JayCees against a group of aging but eager old timers will be held at the local gym Saturday evening, February 27 at 8:00 p. m. The main game will be preceded by a contest between the second string of the high school's B squad and the public grader school team. The first game is slated for 6:30 p. m.

Judging from the condition of the majority of JayCees it will be difficult to separate the old timers and the Junior Chamber boys. The game is scheduled to go a full four quarters if enough wind can be found among the two teams.

All JayCees interested in playing are asked to contact Kent Broemeling. All old timers brave enough to suit up should contact Howard Broemeling.

SCIENCE TOPICS

SCIENCE IS DYING TO EASE GOUT PAINS

"GOUT," once called the "disease of the wealthy," because it often results from consumption of rich foods, is no laughing matter for those who suffer from the the disease, caused by excessive amounts of urie acid in the blood. They experience piercing pains from tiny needle-like crystals of sodium urate that form in the joints and irritate tissues. Now the University of Michigan is conducting experiments that take the "ouch" out of gout. The school's researchers have isolated two dyes that coat one or more faces of the crystal, blocking growth in that direction.

BEETLES defy accepted flight theory and baffle aerodynamicists because according to conventional flight theory their wings do not provide enough 'lift' to get them off the ground. To help figure out how beetles perform this aerial miracle, New York University scientists have built a mechanical wing powered by an electric motor that almost exactly duplicates the action of a beetle wing.

GRAIN ELEVATOR storage bins can be deadly. Huge caches of wheat, corn and other grain may behave much like quicksand when grain is being drawn from the bin, suddenly engulfing an unwary worker and smothering him unless he is quickly recovered. Many grain elevators now are adding portable resuscitators to their store of first aid equipment, reports National Cylinder Gas, because the compact mechanical breathing aparatus makes it possible to provide vital oxygen therapy to victims no matter how remote the area in which they are stricken.

HAIR SAMPLES may be valuable indicators of radioactive strontium 90 content in the body, reports the Public Health Service. The element, released into the atmosphere by atomic explosion, is taken in the diet and deposited in our bones and hair. Government scientist believe it would be easier to collect hair samples to measure the extent of strontium 90 pollution in the air, and are planning a monthly sampling program to test the theory.

FARM COOPERATIVES do more business every year although their numbers are dwindling. In 1963 there were 1:5 per cent few cooperatives than the year before, but sales were 6.3 per cent higher. Economists say this is because small cooperatives are merging into larger enterprises. . . . HAPPINESS has a price tag, at least for men, reports a national research organization. OVERUSED WINTER RANGES result in highlined trees like this, even though pines are poor deer feed. Big game animals—deer in this case—have stripped the tree of green needles as high as they can reach. Fawns suffer most because they cannot reach as high as mature animals do. When sharing winter range with deer, elk of course have the advantage because of their greater reach. Artifically feeding big game animals is unwise because only a relatively small number of animals can be fed during any feeding operation, and because the concentrated animals cause longterm damage to the range. Moreover, the digestive systems of big game animals seldom are ready to handle the artificial feeds when feeding operations begin.

Speaking Of Taxes

tion too much, perhaps not enough. The importance and effectiveness of the citizen in his government is at its height during the legislative session.

Basic policies are being formulated, which will, to a large degree, determine the pattern of life for the next two years. The importance of the citizen comes through his relationship with either individual legislators or the legislature collectively. He is in a position to express his opinions through private conferences with members, through letters, appearances at committee meetings, and various other ways.

To most citizens, the problems of government are extremely complicated. The average person has neither the time nor the ability to evaluate and pass judgment on the bills and resolutions which are being introduced in this session. He may have no particular thought on whether an appropriation should be increased or decreased, or whether the authority of a board or commission should be modified. He does however, have a basic philisophy of and a general understanding of how high the level of taxes should be and what type of functions should be carried out by the government.

CITIZEN'S CHECKLIST

1. Is it necessary? Or is it something that is not really needed, or perhaps already being provided by a private or public group?
2. Can we afford it? Remember, there is no limit to what we would like, but there is a limit to what we can afford.
3. What will it cost ultimately? Many proposals are like icebergs—only a small fraction of the total cost is apparent on the surface.
4. How will it affect basic liberties? If it imposes unreasonable or illegal restraints on your life or that of others, it should be vigorously opposed.
5. Is it in the balanced best interest of all? If it is designed to benefit a small group or special interests while taking advantage of others, work for its defeat.
6. Is it a "foot-in-the-door" proposition? Compromising a little now may bring an appressive burden later either in more regulations or more taxes or a combination of both.
7. Does it place too much power in the hands of one individual or group? Once decisive power is granted to a non-elected public official, a commission or a municipal authority, the private citizens lose effective control.
8. Does it recognize the importance of the individual and the minority? This is a cornerstone of our Republic.
9. Is it appeal based on emotional propaganda or facts? The farther a proposition gets away from facts, the more critical one should be.
10. Does it square with your moral convictions? If so, fight for it. If not, oppose it.

POTLATCH YOUTH WILL BE FARM EXCHANGE STUDENT IN KOREA

Jerry Howard, University of Idaho senior and a former Latah County 4-H member, has been chosen the 1965 International Farm Youth Exchange delegate to Korea beginning April 1, 1965. Jerry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Howard of Potlatch, Idaho.

During grade school and high school, Jerry's ability in numerous 4-H projects over a ten-year period enables him to win trips to National 4-H Club Congress meetings in Chicago and Washington, D. C. In 1962, his continued interest in 4-H helped him to win one of two National Milwaukee Grain and Marketing Scholarships.

Before leaving for Korea in April, Jerry will spend a good deal of time preparing himself by studying the history, politics, religions, agriculture and various other phases of Korean life. He will also study different types of American customs that people of Korea may be interested in. Learning the Korean language is also one of Jerry's goals before leaving Idaho.

The International Farm Youth Exchange is a two-way exchange. Selected farm youth from the United States live and work with farm families in other countries from six to nine months and, in turn, farm youth from cooperating countries come here to live and work with our farm families. After their return home, U. S. delegates devote considerable time sharing the benefits of their experiences with others, giving talks and participating in civic programs.

No state or federal funds are used to finance the actual exchanges. The IFYE national budget is made possible by contributions from individuals, foundations and industries interested in rural youth and international understanding. One-half of the funds are raised in the community that is sponsoring a delegate, through individuals and club groups. This helps to create interest in the delegate who will represent their community.

To help finance Jerry as an IFYE, the 4H'ers of Latah County are sponsoring a county-wide Hootenanny, Feb. 20th, with all proceeds from this going into the fund to finance Jerry's trip. The Hootenany will be held in the Ball room of the Student Union Building on the University of Idaho campus. There will be two performances—a matinee from 1:30 to 4:00 in the afternoon and the evening performance from 8:00 to 12:00—featuring the Paradoons at the dance which wil complete the evening's activities.

Don't cuss the climate. It probably doesn't like you any better than you like it.

In the shipyard, the instructor was coaching a feminine novice. "Look," he said, "I'm placing the rivet in the proper place. When I nod my head, you hit it with a hammer."

She did. The instructor left a wife and four children.

"How'd you come out in that fight with your wife?"

"She came crawling to me on her hands and knees."

"Yeah? What did she say?"

"Come out from under the bed you coward!"

Rural Route Patrons Honor Retired Mail Carrier

"In appreciation to your unselfish effort, kind and loyal service," reads the inscription on a trophy presented to Edgar R. Carlson, retired Genesee mail carrier. The trophy and a cash donation were made Thursday, February 18, by Howard Blume on behalf of the patrons on Rural Route Number 2, whom Carlson had served for over twenty years.

"Ed" retired from service after thirty-nine years with the Post Office on October 31, 1964. Twenty-two of these years was spent on Genesee Route 2.

Carlson began his career at Juliaetta September 8, 1925, receiving his appointment through Burton L. French, U. S. Representative. There were two routes out of Juliaetta at that time, Ed. having Route one which was 20 miles criss-crossing over Fix Ridge and returning down the Middle Potlatch Road. In winter the route was covered by team and buggy or on horseback. On some exceptionally hard winters he rode horseback 90 consecutive days. In 1937 he was the only carrier in the region who didn't lose more than two days during the heavy snows.

May 15, 1942, Carlson was transferred to Genesee, replacing the late A. E. Mayer on Route 2, which he served until retirment. Route 2 covered 56 and eight tenth miles, and served over 100 patrons.

During his years with the Postal Service, Carlson served under Postmasters N. M. Talbortt and Edgar Taylor of Juliaetta, and Harold Haymond; temporary postmaster, Vivian Hickman, and John Hickman while at Genesee.

While the patrons he served expressed their thanks for "Ed's" service, the retired mail carrier voiced his own appreciation to the people he served for their consideration during the years he delivered mail.

Many Topics Discussed At Monday P T A Meeting

The Genesee PTA met Monday evening, February 22 in the Home Economics Room. The Executive Board met preceding the general meeting. Mrs. Ray Wedin opened the meeting with a prayer. President Mrs. Vernon Peterson called on Mrs. John Myers, secretary for minutes of the last meetings. These were read and approved. The treasurer's report shows a balance in the bank of $499.19. Mrs. Myers read a letter from Mrs. Leonard Fisk, state goals evaluation chairman, congratulating the Genesee unit on their evaluation report.

"Dollars for Scholars," a project where money is sent to the state office for use in teacher's scholarships for young people, was discussed.

Mrs. Levi Rossebo, magazine chairman reported that she has sold 24 subscriptions to the national magazine and urges anyone interested to contact her, as an award is given in March to the unit with the most increase in subscriptions. Mrs. Sylvia Michaud reported that the school district has purchased five dozen place settings of dishes and urged members to turn in their Betty Crocker Coupons to Mrs. Ed. Morken for use in the purchase of silverware. Coupons are accepted by the company even though they are outdated, when silverware is for use of any organization.

Supt. Lester Diehl introduced the cadet teachers. He announced that Grade School Openhouse will be held Friday evening (tonight) at 8:00 p. m. in the gym.

Mrs. Peterson introduced Mrs. Homer Schooler who presented a history of Genesee PTA. Mrs. Schooler and Mrs. Charles Airhart prepared the information from the procedure books. Mrs. Schooler noted that the first records showed that Mrs. James Archibald was president in 1941. The group was disbanded in 1944 because of the war and reorganized in 1949, with Henry Lorang as president. In 1954 the local unit withdrew from the national organization and formed a Home and School Club. This functioned until 1958, when it was voted to begin anew as a PTA and apply for a charter. Several past presidents were introduced including Ed Morken, Adrian Nelson, Mrs. Elvon Hampton, Mrs. Robert Schooler, Mrs. Phil Herman, and of the Home and School Club, Mrs. Howard Blume. Former program chairmen were recognized also. Mrs. Ed. Morken presented the life membership for the year to Mrs. Forrest Durbin. Mrs. Morken observed that Mrs. Durbin has been working in one capacity or another since the first organized group, either as a parent or teacher. Mrs. Durbin is school librarian. The money for the life membership goes to a scholarship fund, and Mrs. Durbin was given a gold pin.

The president introduced Mrs. Elvon Hampton, member of the Latah County Free Library Board. Mrs. Hampton explained that a proposal is under consideration to merge the county library with the Moscow City Library, and she wanted opinions from individuals on this matter. She called on Mr. Wayne Bowers, head librarian, who explained the matter. Mr. Bower noted that libraries are expensive, and that there are approximately 8100 different library systems in the United States., 80% of these are serving less than 25,000 people. In sparsely populated areas such as ours, efficiency in buying and sharing of personnel are desired. In merging the two libraries, this might be achieved. A discussion followed and Mr. Bower answered queries from the audience. Mrs. Hampton urges anyone with opinions to let her know or the County Library Board.

Due to the lateness of the hour, a film on Physical Fitness was not shown Refreshments of Founder's Day birthday cake and coffee were served.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Howard, Potlatch.

Mrs. Howard is 2nd District Vice-President.

It was announced that the next meeting will be March 22 and will be on social services of Latah County.

The District Workshop will be held April 17 in Orofino.

The nominating committee was elected, Mrs. Forrest Durbin, Mrs. Sanford Evans and Mrs. Everett Wishard.

Hostesses for the evening were chairman, Mrs. Ray Wedin, and Mrs. Roger Schmidt, Mrs. Jim Busch, Mrs. Gordon Iverson, Mrs. Dale Iverson, Mrs. Geo. Alderman, Mrs. Wayne Hampton, and Mrs. Ozzie Kanikkeberg.

Grade School Operetta Friday, February 26

Grades 1 through 6 will present their operetta "Sliding Down a Moonbeam" on February 26, 1965 at 8:00 p. m. in the High school gym. There is no charge.

The Perry Children have exhausted every possibility in the way of entertainment on a rainy evening. They are really tired and sleepy but claim they are not and pretend to be "grownups." Three young friends drop in on their way from a movie. They are also bored. When reminded it is bedtime they are resentful, finally going to sleep in their chairs.

The Sandman appears. He has tried a new brand of sand and it does not work. The children awake and catch him. He tells them of his trips through space and finally agrees to take them along.

There will be no Open House in the rooms following the performance as the teachers will be busy with the children and properties.

C. D. A. Card Parties End

The series of card parties sponsored by the Catholic Daughters ended Sunday evening. High score in pinochle for ladies was held by Mrs. Mary Kasper and for men by Harry Egland, Jr.

Grand prize in pinochle for ladies also went to Mrs. Kasper and for the men to Ron Bielenberg. High evening bridge for ladies was given Mrs. Mahlon Follett and for men, Chet Qualey. The grand bridge prize for ladies was won by Mrs. Follett and for men by Herman Mayer. The door prize was won by Lee Johann.

Twelve tables were at play Sunday.

Genesee Motors To Close Feb. 28

After thirty-eight years of service to the community Genesee Motors will cease operation effective February 28. Its staff and facilities will be moved to Moscow and Delta Ford Sales, the parent organization.

Established 1925 as a branch of the Lewiston Ford Agency, under the ownership of Fred Jefferies, the firm was located in what is now the Genesee Fire Station. Later the business was purchased by the late J. Walter Emerson and moved to its present location.

With the death of Emerson in November of 1955, the business was assumed by his son, William E. Emerson, who operated it until he purchased Delta Ford Sales, Moscow, in partnership with Gerald Pederson and Ralph Koster. It has been operating as a branch of Delta Ford since then.

Emerson, Pederson and Koster, and Ray Qualey, who has served as manager for several years expressed their appreciation to their many patrons for their business in the past and stated they hoped they would be able to continue to serve them from the Moscow firm.

JayCee Notes-

The Genesee H. D. Club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. John Eagen. Members voted and planned on new lessons for 1966.

Miss Nancy Palmer, home extension agent, Moscow, will conduct the first in a series of six sewing lessons beginning Monday, March 1 at 1:30 in the Genesee Union Whse. meeting room.

MARCH

I love you March--because you know no sorrow,
Each time you come to wake the daffodils;
You bring the sunshine of a bright tomorrow,
And take my glad heart singing down the hills.

I love you March--because you no know no sadness,
And no happiness your wild winds bring;
You make my whole world clarion with gladness,
And best of all--
YOU MARCH ME ON TO SPRING.

MERGING OF MOSCOW, LATAH LIBRARIES IS PROPOSED

A proposed merger, on a contract basis, of Moscow Public Library and Latah County Free Library was the topic under discussion last Monday at a board meeting of the Latah County Library.

The proposal, prepared by Miss Shirley Hake, field representative of the Idaho State Library, would provide for books from both libraries to be shelved together and used as one collection at the Public Library building.

Levies, budgets and bookkeeping would remain separate and under the control of the respective boards.

The County Library, under the plan, would pay a contract fee to the city in exchange for use of shelf and office space and for serving county patrons desiring to use the city library instead of the bookmobile.

According to the provisions, both city and county residents would have access to the combined resources of both libraries. At present county residents must pay a fee to use the Moscow Library and city residents pay a fee for service from the county facilities.

The bookmobile would continue its present operation and would be able to stock its shelves from a book stock of about 40,000 volumes instead of the present 6,200 volumes.

The larger unit of operation, Miss Hake explained, would do away with considerable duplication of effort and make possible a general expansion of services through a more economical use of funds.

Don't lose faith in humanity. Six of all the people in the United Sta who have never played you a sca nasty trick.

COMMUNITY AFFAIRS ARE AN IMPORTANT PART OF TOM'S LIFE. He was the first secretary of the Potlatch Area Boosters, one of the founders of the "Annual Potlatch Community Days," a member of the Latah County Chamber of Commerce and past master and member of the local Grange. TOM YOUMANS, JR., IS PART OF A PLAN; a plan that treats timber as a crop, to be grown, protected and harvested when mature. A plan that involves building roads, communication and buildings. This is a plan that is made by people, carried out by people, financed by people and done in the best interest of people . . . people like Tom Youmans and you, and your neighbor.

Cuisine Cum Laude

This column is lobbying today for split pea soup. With so many peas being grown in this area, it behooves us to think of new ways to boost their sales. One could give them as prizes for cards or send them to relatives on the coast whose diet may be largely clam chowder. And we can eat them. Have you served this lately?

SPLIT PEA SOUP

Soak 2 cups dried split peas in two quarts of water overnight. Add a ham bone or pieces of smoked ham, if desired, and one diced onion; 1 garlic clove, chopped fine; stalk chopped celery. Cook until peas are tender. Press through a sieve and bring to a boil. Blend a tablespoon of flour with two of melted butter and add to the soup. Stir until well mixed. Season with salt and pepper. ½ cup of cream may be added for a richer soup. Garnish with croutons. Serves 6 to 8. The ham adds flavor, but soup may be cooked without it.

A young Yank fighter pilot slipped his plane out of the dense fog and landed on a carrier during WW II. He dashed up to the bridge as he pulled his life jacket over his head, and recounted the day's work:

"What a day I had, skipper!" he proclaimed: Sunk a Jap carrier, shot down seven Jay planes and left a Jap battleship listing!"

As he finished pulling his life jacket up over his eyes he heard:

Genesee Ousts Troy From Tourney; Elk River Upsets GHS

Fans watched the number 1 and 2 ranked teams go down to defeat in the opening games of the District A-4 basketball tournament at Kendrick this week in a series of surprising upsets. Troy, rated by many as a walk-away favorite, was upset by Deary 62-53 Monday evening. Genesee, coming into the competition ranked number 2, was defeated by Elk River 63-52 Tuesday night in the first tourney game for the Genesee team.

Genesee regained some composure Wednesday night and ousted the Troy Trojans from the tournament 73-66. That same evening the Elk River team continued their winning ways and outhustled the Deary Mustangs 60-46. The win for the Bobcats guaranteed them a spot in the state tournament. Genesee and Deary clash Thursday night to determine the other team going to the state.

Elk River Stuns Genesee

Tiny Elk River high school, twice beaten by Genesee in regular competition this season, came on the floor red-hot Tuesday night and upset the Genesee Bulldogs 63-52.

A devastating show of skill at the foul line provided the edge for the Bobcats in the Tuesday contest. The Elk River team shot with 85.3 percent success, making 29 out of 34 tries. Genesee outscored their opponent from the field 20-17 in field goals but the free throw margin couldn't be matched. Genesee collected 12 points in 23 tries.

The game was close in the first quarter and was tied at 9-9 and again at 14-14 at the end of the first period. Elk River had moved to a 34-26 lead at half time. Genesee rallied in the third quarter with a full court press and pulled to within three points at one time, but the full court press was costly for the Bulldogs in fouls, with Skip Ivie, and Larry Vestal each having four personals on them before the third quarter ended with Elk River in front 41-33.

Skip Ivie fouled out in the final period with three minutes left to play and the Bulldog rally, which had brought them to within five points of catching up. Final score 63-52.

Bulldogs Oust Troy

Genesee recovered from their opening game defeat Tuesday night and on Wednesday evening returned to the Kendrick gym with some surprises of their own as they scored a stunning upset over Troy 73-66 to eliminate the Trojans.

Troy, who had trounced the Bulldogs twice in the regular season, fought down to the wire Wednesday night in a close, hard contest that saw the score tied 11 times before the Bulldogs opened up an insurmountable lead in the final seconds of the last quarter.

It was Troy that stormed out to a 6-0 lead in the first minutes of play, the most they were to ever lead during the contest. It was Skip Ivie, red-hot from the field and foul line, who put Genesee ahead for the first time with a jump shot that made the score 11-10. Genesee pulled ahead then 16-10 at the end of the first quarter.

Genesee clung to the lead during the second period outscoring the Trojans 13-12 to lead 29-22 at halftime.

Troy began to whittle away at the Genesee advantage in the third quarter and outscored the Bulldogs 19-16 to trail by only 45-41 going into the final quarter of play. In the third quarter Genesee lost the services of Bill Morscheck who went out via the five-foul route.

Troy caught Genesee early in the fourth period on a jump shot by Craig Bohman to put the score 49-49 and from then on the score was tied six times, the last at 59-59. Skip Ivie scored three points after that to break the tie and Genesee started ball control tactics, forcing Troy to pressure and commit many fouls.

Ivie scored 34 points that evening to top all scorers, twenty from the field and 14 from the foul-line. Larry Vestal added 18 more and Mark Hampton put in 13.

Weather Picture Full of Changes

Surprises and changes might best sum up the weather situation in Genesee during the past seven days. Extremes in temperatures ranged from a cool 18 above up to a balmy 60-above within the past week and residents saw the weather change from a mild Friday and early Saturday to a short, but violent snow storm Saturday evening.

Friday and Saturday saw the area buffeted by a series of strong, gale-force winds and a short rain in the early hours Saturday morning, but by daybreak the skies had cleared again and the sun was shining although the wind was still strong and gusty. About ten p. m. Saturday night snow begin falling and fell heavily for about a half-hour. Sunday the winds still whipped across the Palouse country and snow pellets fell intermittently in some sections.

A warming trend began Monday, and Tuesday and Wednesday of this week could only be described as beautiful, with a warm sun beaming down from cloudless skies and the temperatures working their way up into the high fifties and low sixties.

Dr. Ernest W. Hartung, 48, vice president of the University of Rhode Island has been named president of the University of Idaho, effective August 1, it was announced last week by Elvon Hampton, Genesee, president of the Board of Regents. Dr. Hartung will succeed Dr. B. Theophilus, who will retire after serving 11 years as president and upon completing a total of 38 years at the university.

"Dr. Hartung was the first and unanimous choice of the Regents in seeking a worthy successor to Dr. Theophilus, who has so long been a potent factor in the progress of the university, said Hampton. "Rising rapidly through academic ranks, Dr. Hartung has attracted the attention of many leading educators and he comes to us with the highest recommendations from them. The fact that a major share of his experience has been at Rhode Island's landgrant university should serve him well as head of our own land-grant institution."

Dr. Francis H. Horn, president of the University of Rhode Island, commented:

"Losing Dr. Hartung is like cutting off my right arm---I have no doubt that he will prove to be an outstanding educational leader at the University of Idaho. He will, moreover, quickly be recognized as a major educational lead er in state and region."

Hatwai Canyon Termed Possible Hill Route

A route up Hatwai Canyon is almost certain to receive major consideration when alignments are studied by the State Highway Department for a new route up Lewiston Hill, it was reported Sunday in the Lewiston Tribune. The statement was made by William W. Sacht, who was the Lewiston engineer for the department until recently transferred to Boise. Sacht emphasized that other possible new routes also will be studied in the future.

The engineer, speaking at a Lewiston Chamber of Commerce meeting, reminded the Roads and Highway Committee of the group that Lewiston Hill presently is not on the highway department's five-year planning program. Aerial mapping of the hill's rugged terrain has been completed, however, Sacht, said.

In answer to a question, Sacht said repair of the present Spiral Highway would be a "major undertaking". He doubted this would be approved "unless it can be worked in with other tasks specifically assigned."

From a very preliminary look, he said, "it appears there's a good possibility Hatwai Canyon would provide a good line for a fairly high speed route. The maximum grade would be a little less than 6 per cent," he said. But the whole problem of a new route for U. S. Highway 95 on the hill will have to be thoroughly studied by his successor, Donald L. Cox.

The engineer also said with a connection on Central Grade to the Washington Water Power Dam, the Hatwai Canyon route would be no longer than the present route and would offer a saving in driving time.

Medical Building Directors Re-Elected

The annual membership meeting of the Genesee Medical-Dental Non-Profit Association, Inc. was held Saturday evening at the Genesee Fire Hall. Twenty-five were present at the meeting presided over by president Gene Woodruff.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and accepted. The auditor's report was read, discussed, and accepted.

President Woodruff gave a brief recapitulation of the year's activities. Among these was the report that inasmuch as the board had been unable to secure a dentist for Genesee the board this year decided to remodel the office in order that the present physician, Dr. Philip Spechko could utilize the space.

Following a discussion on rental charges for the building, it was moved and seconded that the present board receive a vote of confidence from the membership to conduct negotiations with the present tenants for the best interests of all concerned. The motion carried without a dissenting vote.

It was also moved, seconded and passed that copies of the by-laws be printed and mailed to each member of the Association.

At the election of officers it was moved that the secretary cast a unanimous ballot to re-elect the two outgoing directors, Geo. Erickson and Lars Liberg. Carried. The board is now Gene Woodruff, President; LeRoy Harris, Sec'y.; Lloyd Esser, Geo. Erickson and Lars Liberg.

THE STRENGTH THAT STRUGGLE BRINGS

I often wish the road of life would keep
Along the even tenor of it's ways;
Forsake the craglands and the rocky steep,
Let worst come hindmost in the after days.

And yet I know–the chastening stripes, that purge
Will tide me on to where the west wind sings;
And I will overcome this cosmic urge;
When I have known—THE STRENGTH THAT STRUGGLE BRINGS. —Bert Gamble

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Quality wool brings the best returns. The better the package at shearing time, the more the clip will bring, Homer Futter, Latah County agent, reminded sheepmen this week. Payments under the national wool act are made according to a percentage method that adjusts for such factors as grade, quality, and preparation. The percentage is determined after the end of the marketing year and represents the figure necessary to bring the national average market price up to the previously announced incentive level.

Because the same percentage is applied to each grower's net proceeds from his sales of shorn wool during the year, the higher the market price an individual gets the higher is his incentive payment. The percentage rate of wool payments for the year ended last December will be announced later in March. An incentive price of 62 cents per pound was announced earlier. County agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices will begin making payments shortly after April 1.

Improving individual clips, authorities said, provides users of wool with material that does not require extra handling in the textile mill and therefore is worth more to the producer as well as the industry as a whole.

MIND YOUR MANNERS IN THE WORLD OF THE FUTURE

COMMUNICABLE DISEASES may be virtually eliminated by 1984 and man will be able to mold minds Stanford University biologists predict. Improved organ transplant techniques and undreamed of "Porsthesis" (artificial substitution of a missing part such as a denture, arm or leg) will minimize the impact of congenital disorders and degenerative diseases. Manipulations of our minds, a la George Orwell's book '1964' including brainwashing and cures for mental illness also will be easier, they predict.

PRISONERS released from jail on their honor have a better record of reappearance than those out on cash bond, a New York study indicates. In the project, some courts released selected defendents without bond after interviews indicated they would show up for trial. Only 1½ percent of those released willfully failed to appear, compared with a 3 per cent forfeiture rate for those who made bond. . . . . BLOODLESS SURGERY may be accomplished in the future with a startlingly different kind of surgical instrument—a scalpel with a needle-like gaseous blade as bright and hot as the sun. Columbia University scientists say the instrument, operating at ultrahigh temperatures, will perform surgery at high speeds by vaporing body tissues.

ELECTRONICS are replacing the needle and thread, at least in one application, applying "heel kicker pads" to protect the driver's side of auto carpet from wear, reports Votator, Louisville. Key to the new method is dielectric heating, the uniform, rapid and controlled heating of an electrically nonconducting material over high-frequency electromagnetic field. A combination of electronic heating and pressure applies the pad in one-third the time required for conventional sewing or gluing.

SUNLIGHT appears to be a dominant factor in the aging of human skin, say University of Rochester scientists, although decling production of certain hormones also is involved. A study shows that the changes induced by the sun on the skins of young people who work outdoors are nearly identical to those associated with aging.

PENNSYLVANIA gets more snow than the North American Artic, reports the Smithsonian Institution. The average annual fall in our share of the Arctic is less than 40 inches, much lower than the Keystone State's median. Snow tend to be very thin over most of the tundra of Alaska and Northern Canada . . . . . JAPANESE WOMEN, in ancient days, painted their teeth black when they married. Shady teeth are back in fashion, but not just black. A Japanese firm has introduced tooth coloring in 25 shades, to match fingernails and gowns.

IRS LISTS COMMON INCOME TAX ERRORS

Double-check your income tax returns before mailing them, Internal Revenue officials advised Wednesday.

Among mistakes often made are (1) failure to attach W-2 forms; (2) no signatures, (3) tax information not readable, (4) failure to total deductions, and (5) failure to list social security numbers.

These oversights cause extra correction work and delay refunds, IRS director Calvin E. Wright, said.

STEELHEAD FISHING SLOW

High, muddy water of fairly low temperatures slowed steelhead fishing almost to a standstill last week in the most to a standstill last week in the Snake and Big Salmon rivers, according to field reports from workers of the Idaho Fish and Game Department. The Clearwater River from Orofino to Kooskia may become good angling if the weather stays dry. A few steelhead already have been caught between Kamiah and Kooskia. The Clearwater below Orofino is off and on again for anglers, and the river at Lewiston is turbid because of prairie run-offs. Cold nights could improve water conditions by slowing down the snow melt. The lower Snake River is out of shape because of too much water, and the fishing is poor.

The lower Salmon River in the vicinity of Riggins and Whitebird is better because cold nights have slowed the run-off. Some steelhead have been caught in the area. In the Salmon City area and the river canyon below, fishing success is poor and roads are rough. Pickups and all-wheel drive vehicles are recommended. Seventy-five fishermen were checked recently and only one steelhead was found among them.

HATCHERY PRODUCTION SAME

The 1965 fish production schedule at the 14 Department-operated hatcheries is expected to be about the same as last year—945,000 pounds of trout. This figures out to 472½ tons, a lot of fish and mostly catchables. The breakdown for last year shows 890,250 pounds of these were rainbows, 4,400 pounds of cutthroats, 1,800 pounds of brooks and 48,800 pounds of kamlooops.

The catchable-sized trout to be planted this year will be six inches or over in length and will be released into easily accessible waters. These trout were hatched from eggs during the fall and winter of 1963. They will be 13-16 months old at the time of release. Eggs are obtained from brood stock maintained at the Eagle, Hayspur and American Falls hatcheries.

Cuisine Cum Laude

This week I was loaned a cookbook belonging to Mr. Jess Myers, formerly of Genesee. Mr. Myers is well-known for his cooking arts and at one time in his life was a resident of Alaska. The fascinating cookbook is entitled "Fairbanks Cook Book of Tested Recipes" and was compiled in 1913 by the Ladies of the Presbyterian Church, Fairbanks, Alaska.

Under the Meats section, a recipe for collups tells the reader to take a piece of moose or caribou, frozen, shave into thin slices, fry and add water for gravy. This is a quick breakfast dish. If milady wishes, she may prepare Moose Roast,—as follows: First catch your moose, then cut 5 pounds rib roast, wash well in warm water, let stand overnight. Mix together allspice, cloves, cinnamon, salt and pepper and sprinkle over meat. Roast in deep pan with slice of onion 45 to 50 minutes in hot oven. She may prepare caribou, wild duck, grouse, ptarmigan, or rabbit, plain or sourdough style. A section entitled Sourdough Department has food for thought at the beginning

"Who then will win this land of snow
If not the dougty sourdough?"

The recipes are for prospectors or hunters and sound delicious. For a really tasty buffet dish, page 37 suggests calf's head in a mold, which is quite good as a relish when prepared with cold roast alternated with meat from the head.

Under the Cake Section, the Paystreak cake has been a favorite of Mr. Myers and for his birthday, his niece, Mrs. John Myers baked it for him.

Here is the recipe from the Fairbanks Cookbook:

PAYSTREAK CAKE

6 eggs, beaten five minutes; 3 cups powdered sugar; 2 cups sifted flour; 1 cup cold water; 1 cup flour sifted with 2 teaspoons cream of tarter; 1 teaspoon soda; lemon flavor. Bake in greased and floured 13 x 9 cake pan at 350 degrees, 35 to 40 minutes til tests done. Cool, split and cut in half to make four layers. Fill and frost.

Filling

½ pound unsalted butter; 1 cup confectioners sugar; yolks of two eggs; ½ cup cold coffee (drop by drop). Beat all to creamy mass, put between layers and top with coconut or chopped nuts.

Icing

2 cups powdered sugar; 4 tablespoons chocolate; 4 tablespoons coffee; one-third cup butter; vanilla flavor. Frost top and sides.

Mr. Myers is a retired barber and is a resident of Latah County Home. His daughter, Mona, Mrs. Rex Elkurn, lives in Bloomington, Indiana, where Mr. Elkum teaches. They have three children. The Elkums are well known in music circles throughout the Inland Empire. Mr. Elkum was formerly director of music in Clarkston, Wash.

Next week: More exerpts from Mr. Myer's book: "How to Cook a Husband" and "Spiritual Cake."

Christian Science Church Service

At Christian Science services this Sunday, the Bible lesson on "Christ Jesus" will include the promise recorded in March (16): "And these signs shall follow them that believe; In my name shall they cast out devils; . .They shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick and they shall recover."

Also to be considered is a related passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Jesus established in the Christian era the precedent for all Christianity, theology, and healing. Christians are under as direct orders now, as they were then, to be Christ-like, to possess the Christ-spirit, to follow the Christ-example, and to heal the sick as well as the sinning." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy p. 138).

MOST BIRDS PROTECTED

Idaho has over 260 different species of birds and all but eight of them are protected. Those that are "fair game" at any time of the year are the English sparrow, crow, raven, starling, kingfisher, cormorant, magpie and pellican.

Cottontail rabbits, classified as game animals, may be hunted through February 28 when the season closes. Jackrabbits are unprotected, as are most varmints. But tree squirrels never face an open season.

Larger species of animals not classed as either game or furbearers also are unprotected and may be hunted at any time. These include raccoon, coyote and cougar, or mountain lion.

The law requires all persons carrying an uncased gun (hunting) in forest or field to have a valid hunting license in their possession.

WEEKEND SKIERS

Ellis Odberg and G. E. Pederson were among skiers who thronged the slopes of Schweitzer Basin in Sandpoint over the weekend.

The pair stayed in Sandpoint at North Shore Lodge, new half million dollar resort which opened a few days earlier.

Snow Survey On Moscow Mountain

The March snow survey was taken on Moscow mountain the 27th of February by Fred Chugg of the SCS and Harvey Marlon II of the U. of I. Engineering Experiment Station.

An increase in snow pack and water content was shown on all four of the higher snow courses and a decrease on one of the lower courses.

The Moscow Mountain course (located at the headwaters of the South Fork of the Palouse river) showed an increase of 5.6 inches in snow and 2.5 inches in water over last month's reading to bring the total snow pack to 54.1 inches and the water to 18.3 inches. Last year, there was a record depth of 57.7 inches for this date which is just 3.6 inches more than 54.1 inches now on the course. The snow depth is about 14 inches above the average recorded depth of 40 inches for this date.

The only course that showed a decrease in snow pack was Howard Creek which was a drop from 18.3 to 15.6 inches. The water content decreased only 0.4 inches; so the percent of water increased as a usual sign of thawing.

There was an increase of 6 inches in snow pack on East Twin, 0.7 inches at West Twin, and 2 inches on Crumarine Creek over last month's readings. The percentage change in water content on most courses was increased over last month by the warmer temperatures that occurred during the month.

The Sherwin snow course (on the S. Fork of the St. Maries River) located between Bovill and Clarkia, Idaho showed a snow pack increase of 9.6 inches over last month's 39.7 inches to bring the recorded depth to 49.3 inches. The water content increased by 5 inches, thus bringing the total water content from 12.4 to 17.3 inches for this month.

The streams are flowing clear at the higher elevations while the lower flow is muddy. The frost under the snow has left the ground to improve runoff conditions at the higher elevations.

The next snow survey on Moscow Mountain will be the first of April. While there will be one at the Sherwin course the 15th of the month.

Watch Nitrogen Use On Lawns, Is Advice

Brown patch in lawns may be caused by too much nitrogen. Therefore, it is discreet to apply fertilizer moderately and distribute it evenly. That's a tip from Homer Futter, Latah County Agent. Suggestions about control of brown patch and other lawn diseases are given in a new publication of the department of agriculture. The name of it is "Lawn Diseases." You can get a free copy at the county agent's office.

The fungus that causes brown patch attacks nearly all kinds of grass. It is commonly the bentgrasses and Kentucky blue. It usually occurs during wet, warm weather after excessive applications of nitrogen. This promotes lush growth that is readily attacked by the fungus. The disease spreads by fungus threads that may be carried on shoes, grass clippings, or the lawn mower.

The first step to prevention is to go easy on the nitrogen. Enough is fine. More is apt to be bad. Another helpful practice is to water early in the day to give grass time to dry out before the night. This is not practical in some areas where evening moisture is necessary because of the heat during the day, but if brown patch has become a problem a change in the watering schedule is indicated.

IDAHO WILD TURKEY, an offspring of 39 birds transplanted to the lower Salmon River country from Colorado, was one of nine recently livetrapped and moved to Craig Mountain south of Lewiston, where it is hoped that the birds also will take hold. An estimated 500 to 1,000 wild turkeys now strut along the lower Salmon River as the result of the Colorado releases. Here Howard Livengood, Lewiston refuge manager, crates trapped turkey for shipment to Craig Mountain.

SOME DOOR-TO-DOOR CALLS IN NEW CHECKING PROGRAM

If an Internal Revenue man calls on you personally and asks you to produce copies of your tax return—don't be alarmed, IRS officials said Wednesday.

Calvin E. Wright, IRS director, explained that since all tax returns are now being processed by electronic accounting machinery, some sample canvassing is underway to see if each person or business is filing the right forms and using the correct identification number on their returns.

FARMERS INSURANCE GROUP
Symbol of Superior Service

The story is now going around about the shop worker who refused to sign up for group insurance.

No policy could be issued until all signed but he held out stubbornly. The foreman begged him to sign. The other employees pleaded with him but he still refused. The manager asked him. Still, no go. Finally the owner of the shop took him aside and said:

"Listen, you idiot. Unless you sign up, I'll fire you. All of your fellow workers want this thing, so sign now or your salary stops and you're out in the street."

The employee grabbed the paper and signed immediately.

"Now," asked the owner, " why didn't you sign this thing before?"

"Because," the man replied, "nobody explained it as clearly as you did."

GHS Bulldogs Defeat Elk River To Win Second District Championship

Genesee's Bulldogs fought their way out of the consolation bracket to win the District 2, A-1 basketball title last week. After losing their first game of the tournament to the Elk River Bobcats, the Bulldogs began a series of battles culminating in an extra game battle Saturday evening against Elk River for the title.

Genesee lost their opening game to Elk River 63-52 last Tuesday evening. Wednesday they came back to defeat Troy 73-66 and on Thursday outclassed Deary 65-45 to gain the finals. Friday night the Bulldogs defeated Elk River 60-53 to force the tournament into an extra session, since each team now had one loss. In the Saturday night game the Genesee team out-fought the Bobcats to take a 46-42 decision and the District title.

Both Genesee and Elk River will be eligible for the State Tournament which gets underway Thursday at Lewiston. Genesee, the defending State A-4 champions will meet Roberts in the first round of play Thursday evening. All games will be played in the Lewis-Clark Normal gym.

Mustangs Beaten

Genesee wasted little time Thursday night as they dropped Deary from contention 65-45. Genesee opened up a 10 point lead early in the first quarter —was ahead 19-4 at the end of the first quarter and rolled home to an easy victory. Genesee was well in the lead, 33-15 at the halftime. With an eye toward the Elk River game the next night, Genesee used substitutes freely in the final half. Skip Ivie scored 16 points for the Bulldogs with teammate Larry Vestal adding another 15 to the Bulldog score.

Elk River Beaten

Leading all the way, the Bulldogs withstood a fourth quarter full-court press to defeat Elk River 60-53 and send the District 2 tournament into an extra session.

A balanced attack proved to be the key to the Bulldog victory as three Genesee players hit identical 14 points, and three hit for 6 points. Ivie, Bill Morscheck and Mark Hampton scored 14 points while Vestal, John Pell, and Brad Airhart tallied 6 each. Morscheck and Hampton opened strong for the Bulldogs as Genesee built up a 16-6 lead mid-way in the first quarter. After leading 26-12 early in the second quarter, the Bulldogs had the advantage cut back to 35-24 at halftime.

Elk River came out pressing in the last eight minutes and at first the press badly rattled Genesee. The Bobcats cut the lead to 50-47 midway in the frame before Genesee broke Morscheck loose for three easy baskets to clinch the victory.

Genesee became District 2 champions Saturday evening at Kendrick by defeating the Elk River Bobcats 46-42, but they had an uphill battle before finally winning the first place trophy.

The Bulldog five came out strong in the final game, building up a 17-9 lead early in the second quarter. After Genesee got the 17 points they went stone-cold and couldn't manage another point the remainder of the first half, and Elk River slipped into the lead 23-17 at intermission.

Both teams slowed the pace in the third quarter and Genesee outscored Elk River 8-5 to cut the lead in half, 28-25.

Skip Ivie scored 14 points in the final quarter, hitting six of seven shots from the field. The Bulldogs went back into the lead at 30-29 and stayed in front until Elk River's Brogan hit a tying field goal with two minutes left. The score was 39-all.

Elk River went ahead 42-39 on another field goal by Brogan who was fouled in the process of scoring and also sank his free shot. Two free throws by Ivie and one by Brad Airhart tied the score with 25 seconds left. Ivie hit from the corner to send Genesee into the lead 44-42, then Airhart was fouled during a scramble for a rebound and he made both shots for the final margin of victory, 46-42.

Ivie's twenty-five points led all scoring with Airhart adding seven more.

The seniors on the Bulldog team accepted the first place trophy for Genesee.

Schlueter Escapes Injury When Plane Crashes

Don Schlueter escaped injury Tuesday morning when the agricultural spray plane he was flying lost power on take-off and crashed into a wheat field in back of the Jack Nebelsieck farm. The incident occurred about mid-morning.

According to the pilot, he had been spraying on the Earl Clyde farm and had put several loads on the field. He landed to fill up with chemicals again and on the take-off got about fifty feet in the air before the plane, without warning lost power. He attempted to coast into a flat back of the Nebelsieck farm but couldn't make it. The crash tore both wheels from the plane and damaged the motor and other parts.

The steering committee for the Cow Creek Drainage met Monday, March 8, at the Burr Building and discussed, accepted and made a formal request to the Soil Conservation Service for a preliminary survey of the area.

The survey will furnish an estimate cost and also benefit data for the entire project. In addition it will also furnish the number of acres involved in the entire project as well as erosion surveys of the water shed.

For identification purposes the name the Genesee Valley Soil and Water Flood Control District was selected by the committee.

The request will be signed by the chairman of the board of supervisors of the Latah Soil and Water Conservation District. The request will then be sent to the State Soil Conservationist, Lee Morgan, who will, if the project appears favorable to him, detail a survey crew to make the preliminary survey.

After the preliminary survey is completed and if it is found favorable these facts will be presented to the land owners and operators of the land involved and permanent board of directors elected to conduct the business.

Nordby's Return From Arizona Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Nordby returned this week from a vacation trip to Arizona where they spent sixteen days. While in Arizona the local couple lived in Scottsdale and they reported the climate was very nice with temperatures ranging from 70 to 80 degree and very dry, they said the temperatures in Arizona had been cooler than usual this year.

They saw things of interest and noted a tremendous expansion in the last 10 years. A constant building program is in progress with more and more living quarters in the form of motels, hotels, and individual housing. Building space is not as plentiful in the cities as it used to be, the couple noted, and many firms are going into the air with their larger buildings.

While in Scottsdale the couple took many trips throughout the area. Mrs. Olive Pederson and her sister and brother-in-law took them out through the desert where they enjoyed the many species of cactus and other interesting plants that survive the climate. They also drove through Mesa, Tempe, out to the State University and the Superstition Mountain, a ke resort, and back through the Camel Back mountain area Other friends also took them about to see other interesting paces and sights. They also enjoyed a couple of trips on sight-seeing buses.

Johnson's Return Home

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Johnson returned home March 2nd from a month's vacation which included stops in the Las Vegas and Phoenix area and a week in Tucson, Arizonia. In Tucson, the Genesee couple were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Langendorf, former Genesee residents, now of Silver City, N. M.

The Johnsons visited on Sunday afternoon in Mesa with Mrs. Olive Pederson who is vacationing there with her sister, Mrs. E. A. Stevens and husband, and with Mrs. Mary Skattaboe, former Moscow residents, now of Tucson.

They were houseguests of Mrs. Johnson's relatives in Hemet, California where they were joined by Iowa relatives. They visited ten days in Pasadena with their daughter, Jane before returning to Genesee. Mrs. Johnson reported Wednesday their vacation was a most pleasant one.

Our affections are our life—We live by them; they supply our warmth.

JayCee Notes-

Officers Re-Nominated

At the Wednesday meeting of the Genesee Junior of Commerce, all officers were re-nominated for another term. Nominations will stay open until next month when election will be held. Membership of the chapter now is forty-one.

President Bill Haxton reported to the group that the recent basketball game netted the chapter slightly over fifty dollars.

Fifty-five Forms Returned

Haxton said fifty-five community survey forms have been returned so far. This is approximately one-third of the forms handed out. While there is no definite return date for these forms, the chapter would like to have them back as soon as possible so results can be tabulated and studied. Forms may be left at the News office. They need not be signed.

Meetings Will Be at 8

Inasmuch as spring work will soon begin, the JayCees will begin meeting at 8 p. m. instead of the usual 7:30. This time will continue unti fall work is completed.

A district meeting and crab feed will be held at Kamiah March 20. A good attendance from Genesee is desired.

Christian Science Church Service

The parable of the prodigal son is featured in this week's Bible Lesson on "Substance" to be read in Christian Science churches Sunday. Rejoicing to see his son's return, the father said: "For this my son my dead, and is alive again, he was lost, and is found." (Luke 15).

How everyone must eventually find the substance of his own life is brought out in the Christian Science textbook: "It is only by acknowledging the supremacy of Spirit, which annuls the claims of matter, that mortals can lay off mortality and find the indissoluble spiritual link which establishes man forever in the divine likeness, inseparable from his creator" (Science and Heath with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 491).

Cuisine Cum Laude

As promised last week, here is a recipe for "Scriptural Cake" according to Mr. Jess Myers "Fairbanks Cook Book" dated 1913. Get out the family Bible and look up the verses, for I am not going to tell you the ingredients. The recipe follows the King James version, in parenthesis is the Duoay version.

SCRIPTURAL CAKE

	Chap.	Verse
4½ cups I Kings (III Kings)	4	22
1 cup Judges	5	25
2 cups Jeremiah	6	20
2 cups I Samuel (I Kings)	30	12
2 cups Numbers	17	8
2 cups Nahum	3	12
2 cups Judges	4	19
2 teaspoons Amos	4	5
2 teas. I Samuel (I Kings)	14	25
A pinch of Levicitus	2	13
6 of Job	6	6
Season to taste with II Chronicles ◈	9	9

◈ II Paralipomenon in Duoay Version

Once you know the ingredients, follow a usual cake recipe for putting them together. The cookbook says that the cake should be baked and put away several weeks. It, of course, is a type of fruit cake. By the way, the fourth ingredient is raisins, I believe two fruits are mentioned in the verse.

HOW TO COOK A HUSBAND

A good many husbands are entirely spoiled by mismanagement in cooking and so far not tender and good. Some women keep them constantly in hot water; others freeze them, others put them in the stew; others roast them and husbands are kept constantly in a pickle. It cannot be supposed that any husband would be good and tender managed in this way, but they really are delicious when properly treated.

In selecting your husband, you should not be guided by the silvery appearance as in buying mackeral, nor by the golden tint, as if you wanted salmon. BE SURE AND SELECT HIM YOURSELF! Do not go to market for him, as those brought to the door are aways the best. It is far better to have none than not to learn how to cook him properly. It does not make so much difference what you cook him in, as the method. See that the linen in which he is wrapped is clean and nicely mended with the required number of buttons and strings. Don't keep him in the kettle by force, as he will stay there himself if proper care is taken. If he sputters or fizz, do not be anxious, some husbands do this. Add a little sugar in the form of what the confectioners call "kisses" but no vinegar or pepper on any account. A little spice improves them, but it must be used with judgment. Do not try him with anything sharp to see if he is becoming tender. Stir him gently the while, lest he stay too long in the kettle and become flat and tasteless. If thus treated you will find him very digestible, agreeing nicely with you, and he will keep as long as you want.

Thus the advice given brides new and old in the Presbyterian Ladies Cook Book, Fairbanks, Alaska, just 13 years after this century began. (Still good advice).

Next Week—"Eggs for the Fanciful", vinegar pie and other recipes from Alaska.

U. of I. NEWS

The hot, spirited jazz music of nationally-known Al Hirt and his sextet will rock the University of Idaho campus when the troupe makes a first northwest appearance at the Memorial gymnasium Saturday, March 13.

Hirt, who has never performed in the Northwest before will fly with his group from Los Angeles directly to Moscow for the single performance, according to Gale Mix, University of Idaho Associated Student general manager.

Named the "virtuoso of the trumpet" by famous musicians Andrew Kostelanetz, Tommy Dorsey, Ray McKinley, Horace Heidt, and others, Hirt is undoubtedly one of the finest trumpet men of this generation.

"Known also for his exciting showmanship, jovial disposition, bearded face and size, he weighs 299 pounds,—Hirt is expected to bring one of the finest shows of the year to the campus and students at the university," Mix said.

Hirt attended the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music to gain the background which permits him to go from the wild atmosphere of the self-owned, Al Hirt club in New Orleans, to the concert stage with the New Orleans symphony and get the same amazing reception at both levels of music.

In fact, the famed Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the Boston Pops Symphony orchestra, and Hirt, recently joined forces in making the album, "Pop Goes the Trumpet."

Throughout the nation, almost one billion seedlings were set out. At the rate of a billion a year, the report said, it will take 70 years to plant the non-restocking areas of forest lands in the United States.

Recorded tree plantings to date in Idaho total 180,000 acres. Eleven percent is in windbreaks.

SALMON RIVER TURKEYS GO TO CRAIG MOUNTAIN

Somewhere between 500 and 1,000 Merriam's wild turkeys now strut along the lower Salmon River, mainly the offspring of 36 transplants brought to Idaho from Colorado in exchange for mountain goats, and some of these are being trapped and introduced into other parts of the state this winter.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department said this week that nine of the wild turkeys were trapped last week and released in the Craig Mountain area south of Lewiston. One of the birds carried a white neck marker showing it was one of eight hens and three toms brought from Colorado to Shingle Creek in March of 1962.

All but one of the nine turkeys trapped near the Rapid River fish hatchery last week were hens, and another tom or two are sought to add to the Craig Mountain release.

According to Elwood Biszau, state bird supervisor for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, turkey trapping will continue for release to other suitable Idaho locations. Two tentative sites are in northern Idaho, and others are in the Middle Fork of the Salmon River and on Wildhorse Creek, a tributary of the Snake River in Adams County.

Three separate shipments of wild turkeys from Colorado were released in the lower Salmon River county during the winters of 1961, 1962 and 1963. The introduction of exotic wildlife species where feasible habitat can be found and damaging competition with other species will not follow is part of the Fish and Game Department's Five Point Program for the future, according to Bizeau.

Human affection is not poured forth vainly, even though it meet no return. Love enriches the nature, enlarging, purifying and elevating it.

HEART ASSOCIATION WARNS AGAINST RHEUMATIC FEVER

Rheumatic fever emphasis has been set beginning in March and continuing through June, according to an announcement made this week by Dr. Lloyd Barrott of St. Anthony, President of the Idaho Heart Association.

"Rheumatic fever is most a disease of children between the ages of 5 and 15, but adults get it too," says Dr. Barrott. "It usually follows throat infections caused by a germ of streptococcus family. Rheumatic fever often starts within a month after a "strep" sore throat, tonsillitis or scarlet fever.

Through a concerted program of public and professional education regarding prevention and treatment rheumatic fever, we hope to make greater inroads into the conquest of this type of heart disease.

Since Rheumatic fever is caused by a "strep" infection, Dr. Barott urges parents to safeguard the lives of their children by consulting the family doctor when any of the following symptoms develop.

1. A sudden sore throat.
2. A pain when swallowing.
3. Pain under the angle of the jaw.
4. Swollen neck glands.
5. Fever.
6. Nausea, vomiting together with sore throat.
7. Contact with anyone having scarlet fever.

These symptons do not necessarily indicate a "strep" throat, but they can be a flag of danger.

Rheumatic heart disease is the result of inflammation and scarring of heart muscles and heart valves caused by rheumatic fever. Many rheumatic fever patients get well completely with little or no heart damage.

A child who has had rheumatic fever is particularly susceptible to another attack. The risk of recurrence is especially high following the initial attack and may occur at any time. However, all recurrences of attacks of rheumatic fever can practically be eliminated if the patient is placed on continuous penicillin or sulfa drugs under regular medical supervision, says Dr. Barrott.

Employment Situation In Latah County

Job opportunities in the Moscow, Ida. area took a big jump during the past week, according to the report released by Frank Hartstein, manager of the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employment today. Hartstein indicated that a total of 15 new jobs were received in the office, while during the previous week only 7 new jobs were received and only 5 were listed during the same week a year ago. Ten persons were placed on jobs during the week, twice the number placed during the previous week. Only 2 persons were placed on jobs during the first week in March, 1964. Hartstein reported that there were 14 jobs available at the end of the week. These included jobs for women as secretaries, bookkeeper, general office clerk, waitresses, and other cafe workers. Men could find as salesman, an auto mechanic, a year 'round farm hand and a lumber yard worker.

Despite the fact that 42 persons filed new claims for Unemployment Insurance in Latah County during the week, Hartstein reported that the total number of workers continuing to receive these benefits declined from 321 to 307 during the week just finished. Most of those who filed claims were workers from the lumber industry, and were idled because of poor working conditions in the woods and the imposition of road limits on the highways. The fact that there were fewer persons continuing to claim benefits, Hartstein said, was due to the fact that many workers returned to work in the construction industry during the past week A breakdown of persons receiving unemployment insurance in the County reveals that there are 117 in Moscow, compared with 135 last week; the Troy-Deary-Bovill area now has 97, compared with 91 the previous week; Potlatch area has 67, as against 68 the preceding week, and Ek River was 26 this week, 27 the week before. Hartstein reported that the Troy-Deary-Bovill area was the most heavily affected by curtailments in the lumber industry, whereas the immediate Moscow area was affected most by the increase in construction activities.

BIRDS

The following poem was written by Clyde S. Creel of Kansas City, Missouri and sent to her cousin, Mrs. R. E. Emmett. We think it is a lovely little verse and we hope you enjoy it:

Birds
By their songs and their colors we know them,
While they nest in the branches of trees;
They have asked our permission by singing
In their own dialect and own keys.
As they herald approach of the springtime,
All alert and expectant, they seem
To put love and delight and sweet passion
Into any melodious theme.

Card Of Thanks

My most sincere thanks to the members of the Genesee Fire Department and ambulance service and to friends and neighbors for their quick response Tuesday morning when my plane crashed. Thanks again.

Roberts, Cascade Knock Bulldogs from State Tourney

The Genesee Bulldogs, defending State A-4 basketball champions, never got out of the gate in the 1965 tourney held last weekend in Lewiston's L-C gym. The Genesee quintet were dropped into the consolation bracket following a 52-59 defeat in the opening game Thursday evening and were eliminated the following night by Cascade 68-57. Mullan, a strong, tall team from the north went on to win the state title.

Had Start Against Roberts

Genesee, perplexed by the Roberts defense, fell badly behind in the first half of play Thursday night. The Bulldogs rallied sharply in the second period but couldn't overcome the early deficit.

Roberts came off of the opening jump and moved out to a 6-0 lead within the first minute of play. Genesee tightened up for the remainder of the first quarter but trailed 9-6 at the end. In the second quarter Roberts broke away to outscore the Bulldogs 16-4, and were leading 25-10 at the halfway point.

Coming out for the third quarter Genesee rallied and outscored the Roberts team 29-17 in that quarter. Genesee threw out a pressing man-to-man defense in the fourth quarter and continued to whittle away at the Mustang's lead but the clock ran out of time before the Bulldogs could catch up.

Larry Vestal and Brad Airhart each scored 14 points to pace the Bulldogs in their losing effort.

Bulldogs Bow Out

Cascade's Ramblers poured on the steam in the last quarter and knocked the Bulldogs from the state tournament Friday evening. The main feature of the game was a scoring battle between Rod Boyd of Cascade and Skip Ivie with Boyd earning the edge 27-26.

Cascade and Genesee each scored 19 points to finish in a tie at the end of the first quarter but Ramblers had the better of it from then on. Cascade held a slim 37-35 halftime lead. Cascade moved out quickly in the third quarter and then slowed down as Genesee cut the lead to 53-47 at the end of the third quarter after trailing by as much as eight points.

Cascade scored 15 points in the final quarter while the Bulldogs could only manage 8 and that gave the Ramblers their 68-57 victory.

Committee Named To Help Work on Building Proposal

A five-man committee of local men has been named to work with the Board of Trustees to help evaluate a proposed building program within Joint School District No. 282, it was revealed this week.

Serving on the committee will be Don Hermann, Kenneth Jensen, Fred Morscheck, Adrian Nelson, and Charles Airhart.

This committee has met with the board twice thus far. Once to look at new buildings and school plants. The last meeting with the board was Sunday, March 14 at which time the feasibility and problems of building were discussed.

The board and committee felt that there was a need for more study before any proposed plan could be formulated.

Muddy Roads, Melting Snow Hurts Employment Picture

As a result of melting snows, muddy working areas, soft roads, and highway load limits, unemployment in Latah County rose slightly during the past week, according to a report made by Frank Hartstein, Manager of the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employment. A total of 32 persons filed new claims for Unemployment Insurance during the week, Hartstein said, and of these practically all were filed by workers who had been laid-off by various firms engaged in the lumber industry. "Too much mud" was given by most of the workers when asked why they were not longer employed. Although 32 persons filed new claims for benefits during the week, the total rose by only 10—from 307 last week to 317 this week. The difference is accounted for by the fact that some others returned to employment in the area. Most of those returning to work were construction workers who found employment in that industry in the area. At this time of year, last year, there were a total of 241 persons receiving Unemployment Insurance. A breakdown by area shows that there are 117 persons in Moscow receiving beenfits, the same number as a week ago, 104 in the Troy-Deary-Bovill area, compared with 97 last week, 68 in the Potlatch area compared with 67 a week ago, and currently 28 from the Elk River area as compared with 26 during the previous meeting. It is anticipated many of the woods workers will be unable to return to work for some time, but that construction workers and others will be returning to work quite rapidly now that better weather is approaching, Hartstein explained.

The placement of job seekers remained almost the same with a total of 9 persons being assisted in finding work during the week, as compared with 10 during the previous week, and only four during the corresponding week a year ago. At the end of the week there were a total of 21 jobs available as compared with 14 in the previous week, and the same number for the corresponding week last year. Hartstein indicated that employers in the area called for a total of 17 workers during the week, compared with fourteen last week, but only four during the same week a year ago. Men are needed in the area who could fill such jobs as an outside salesman, motorboat mechanic, auto mechanic, lumber-yard man, service-station attendant, seasonal and year 'round farm hands. Women are needed as legal secretary, clerk-typists, bookkeepers, waitresses, domestic workers and kitchen workers. Work was found for women during the past week as secretaries, and other office workers, cafe, and domestic workers. Men were placed as farm hands and laborers.

Warm Spell Broken; Temp Drops to 8 Above

The two-week spell of warm, spring-like weather was abruptly broken this week as temperatures dipped down to a frigid 8-above Wednesday morning.

Despite the colder temperatures the weather, for the most part, remained agreeable and the sun shone most of the week. The only really bad weather came Tuesday afternoon when intermittent snow fell until about five o'clock. The snow was not heavy and barely put a white covering on the ground which had melted by the following day.

Monday and Tuesday evenings were both very cool with temperatures dropping down to about 20-above Monday evening and then slipping to 12-above Tuesday. Wednesday evening proved to be the coolest night we have endured for several weeks then the thermometer registered an unofficial 8-above.

IRS EXPLAINS WHY SOME INCOME TAX REFUNDS ARE PAID SOONER THAN OTHERS

"When will I get my refund?" is the question many taxpayers ask about this time every year according to Internal Revenue director Calvin E. Wright.

His answer is that most refunds come about six weeks after taxpayers file their returns, but many take longer when correction or proofs of deductions are necessary.

Wright said meanwhile it is impossible to check the status of individual refunds because returns are sent to be machine-processed along with millions of others from all over the country.

OUR CIVILIZATION may be the world's most advanced but it also is the noisiest, says the American Medical Association. There may be a direct relationship between noise and such ailments as peptic ulcres, heart disease, colitis, high blood pressure and migrane headaches, reports AMA. If you live in a noisy area, it is suggested that air conditioning be installed so that windows can be kept shut, that sound-reflecting surfaces be provided with carpeting, drapes, upholstered furniture and pillows, and that acoustical ceilings be adopted to reduce the noise level.

DIGITAL MODULATION, a new term, has been added to AM and FM, the old radio familiars. The Department of of Commerce says the term, abbreviated to "DM", refers to on-off pulses of radio energy that permit transmission of thousands of pieces of information each second, over regular radio channels, in the form of pulse patterns. DM has great potential because noise or static isn't critical during reception and less channel space is required . . . . .

FISHING-HUNTING LICENSES A 'MUST' FOR SPORTSMEN

All persons 12 years old or over must have a license or permit to hunt (carry an uncased gun afield) in Idaho, and persons 14 years of age or older must have a license or permit to fish in the state.

Residents may buy fishing or hunting licenses separately at lower fees than those charged non-residents. To be eligible for a resident license, a person must have lived at least six continuous months in Idaho immediately before applying for a license. A nonresident youngster less than 14 years of age may fish without a license when accompanied by a licensed angler and provided his catch is counted in the creel of the license holder.

Non-residents who hunt big game in Idaho must pay $100 for the license, plus the usual charges for tags. Special licenses permit nonresidents to hunt specified management units for deer or bear for $25, the same fee that is charged for season bird hunting licenses. The season nonresident fishing license is $15, and a special 7-day permit sells for $5. Another short-time tourist fishing license costs $2 the first day and $1 a day for each consecutive day.

Nonresident military permanently stationed in Idaho may buy resident hunting and fishing licenses immediately, but not members of their families. For them, the waiting period is six continous months unless they are maintaining legal residence elsewhere. Nonresident military personnel visiting in Idaho must buy nonresident licenses to hunt or fish.

Idaho resident inducted into military service and assigned to permanent duty outside the state may buy regular civilian resident licenses or obtain free furlough permits covering the number of days they will be in Idaho. Nonresident military personnel and National and Air Guard personnel training in Idaho may purchase resident licenses which automatically expire when they are transferred to other stations.

HIGHWAY 95 MIGHT GET GET FEDERAL FUNDS

U. S. Highway 95 in Idaho might qualify for federal aid under new construction standards a cut below those established forth the Interstate Highway System.

This possibility was reported this week by Rep. Compton I. White, Jr. in a letter to Ernest Gaffney of Plummer, vice chairman of the Idaho Highway Board.

White said he discussed with Federal Highway Administrator Rex Whitton the possibility of 75 per cent federal financing of roads in this "intermediate" category. Whitton said recommendations by the Bureau of Public Roads will be submitted next year.

"Since there seems to be a good possibility that Highway 95 might meet the requirements of this program," White tod Gaffney, 'I think it would be wise for Idaho to consider expediting improvements to the route.

"Preent recognition of the need for increasing the usability of Highway 95 by the State certainly would put us in a better position for inclusion of the road when the new program is considered."

White said because of the problem of limited access and extremely high construction costs, there is little chance that Highway 95 could be included in an extension of the existing Interstate program. Legal limits of the Interstate system have been fully used and could not be extended without amendment of the Highway Act.

WINTERING ANIMALS BEGIN UPWARD TREK

Idaho deer and elk herds are beginning their migrations to higher ground as warm weather reduces snow depths and cheatgrass begins to green at the extreme lower elevations and on bare south-facing slopes further back, the Fish and Game Department reported this week.

Elmer Norberg, Lewiston, area game biologist reported as follows:

"Several flight were taken to the main elk wintering areas in this region during the month of February. Little change in game concentrations was observed from that of the previous month. If anything the animals may have tended to disperse.

"Although a very large snow pack exists at the higher elevations, many of the southern exposure at the lower elevations are bare of snow. The remaining snow at the lower elevations has settled, allowing the animals to move rather freely.

"Thus, unless rather drastic changes in the weather pattern occur shortly it looks as though the game animals will have little trouble during the rest of the winter."

NEWS FROM HORTICULTURIST

Early spring is a good time to prune ornamental trees and shrubs, says Tony Horn, horticulturist of the U. of I. extension service. At that time the frame work of the plant is easy to see because leaves are not out. Dead wood can be detected readily and the plant can be trimmed to a desirable shape.

Avoid "dehorning" trees, the specialist advises. Such pruning ruins the appearance. If it is necessary to reduce the height of a tree because of wires or other obstructions, it can be done with a minimum of unsightly damage by cutting back to outside laterals and preserving all possible natural beauty.

Spring-blooming shrubs such as forsythia, spirea, flowering quince, and lilac are generally pruned just after blooming. This permits full value of bloom this year and encourages production of wood for next year's flowers. Summer-blooming shrub such as hydrangea, kerria, honeysuckle, and butterfly bush can be pruned early in spring while they are dormant. Clematis and other vines that produce flowers on the current season's growth are pruned in the spring by thinning out dead and weak canes.

Annual pruning of hybrid tea roses is desirable to prevent development of a briar patch. The time is just when buds are bursting. Take out all dead canes, Horn recommends, by cutting at least an inch into live wood. Crossed branches can be corrected by removing the weaker branch. Pruning canes to about eight inches produces bigger booms. Cut about one-quarter inch above a strong bud that faces outward. Slope the cut to the inside. Healing is assisted by dabbing an asphalt compound on the wound.

A free bulletin about pruning is available at the county agent's office.

Christian Science Church Service

The temporal and illusory nature of all material objects will be explained in a Bible Lesson on 'Matter' at Christian Science churches this Sunday.

The responsive reading from Jeremiah includes this verse "Truly in vain is salvation hoped for from the hills, and from the multitude of mountains; truly in the Lord our God is the salvation of Israel."

Also to be presented are these lines from the Christian Science textbook: "The crude creations of mortal thought must finally give place to the glorious forms which we sometimes behold in the camera of divine Mind, when the mental picture is spiritual and eternal. Mortals must look beyond fading, finite forms, if they would gain the true sense of things" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 264).

Potlatch is people

MEET M. R. (Roy) BARTLETT of Potlatch Forests, Inc., Lewiston. Roy joined Potlatch in June of 1949 and has been in the Mill Pond department for his entire 16 years. First as slipman, then boatman, crane operator and presently is with the unloading crew. He worked on the big PFI log drive of 1953-54.

HERE YOU SEE ROY skillfully moving logs in the millpond with a pike pole. Logs have just been unloaded from a flatcar.

AN EXPERT "BIRLER" which is, in layman's language, the art of log rolling, Roy was runner-up World's Champion Log Roller in 1958. Right now he holds the title of Inland Empire Log Boom Running Champion. He has trained the Pacific Coast male birling champion and the last two women log rolling champions of the world.

DURING NATIONAL FOREST PRODUCTS week each fall, Roy gives a log rolling demonstration. For the first time, during the Summer of 1965, Roy will conduct log rolling classes for youngsters, working in conjunction with the Lewiston City Park and Recreation Department.

AN IMPORTANT HOBBY for Roy is astronomy. He owns two telescopes and is an assistant to Frank Mosher of Clarkston at "public star parties." He also is an amateur geologist and maintains his own rock collection.

ROY AND JEAN make their home at 812 Walk Lane, Clarkston, Washington. They have three daughters, Gail, 12, Lynne, 11 and Melane, age 4.

ROY BARTLETT IS PART OF A PLAN; a plan that treats timber as a crop to be grown and harvested, a plan that involves the building of roads, communications and buildings. This is a plan that is made by people, carried out by people, financed by people and done in the best interest of people . . . people like Roy and you and your neighbor.

SURE POTLATCH IS A LOT OF THINGS . . . but most of all, Potlatch is people.

Increase In Beef Cattle Slowing Down, Says Report

BOISE — The increase in number of beef cattle is slowing down, a University of Idaho extension economist said this week in the March issue of Economic Facts for Idaho Agriculture. The figures are still high throughout the country and in Idaho, but the cycle seems to have reached its peak, according to Wayne Robinson, marketing information specialist.

The total number of cattle on U. S. ranches and farms early in 1965 reached a new high of slightly more than 101 million head, only a shade more than the 106.7 million a year earlier. The increase in beef was two percent, compared with five percent the year before.

"The figures suggest the increase in leveling off," Robinson said. "Numbers may even decine in the near future although this does not appear likely in 1965 unless drough continues in important cattle areas. More likely, numbers will round off gradually as they have in the past except for years of severe drough like 1934 and 1936.

"The current price situation suggests that any increase in 1965 will be small. Prices are likely to stay near present levels for the next year or two."

Idaho producers had 1,589,000 head of cattle and calves on hand January 1, a decline of two percent form the previous year. Most of the decline was because of a four percent decrease in dairy cows. Beef cattle declined one and one-half percent.

The figures show that the incerase in Idaho beef cattle numbers has definitely slowed down, Robinson said, and suggests a situation similar to that of the nation—that we have passed or are near the peak in numbers.

Consumer demand for beef was reported to be still growing. Americans ate six percent more beef in 1964 than in 1963, although retail prices were down only three percent.

DAYS THAT STILL LIVE ON

With scent of wild forget-me-not
The woodland vale was teeming;
While I of days almost forgot
Again was fondly dreaming.

Was dreaming of your love divine

Eggs For The Fanciful

Break a fresh egg carefully; separate, keeping yolk whole. Beat the white with a pinch of salt and pour into a cup rinsed with boiling water. Drop the unbroken yolk into center of beaten white and stand in boiling water for five minutes. Serve at once.

Vinegar Pie

This recipe makes 2 pies.
Five eggs
Two cups boiling water
5 tablespoons vinegar
5 tablespoons cornstarch
Pat of butter, size of an egg
1 cup sugar
Lemon flavoring or fresh lemon juice
Put water, sugar, butter, and vinegar in a pan, thicken with cornstarch, add beaten yolks, flavor with lemon and pour into baked pie crust. Beat the whites of eggs with 4 tablespoons brown sugar, put over pies and set in oven to lightly brown.

The old-fashioned sponge cakes are aways the best, so we looked in Mr. Myer's Alaska Cook Book and found this recipe:

Six eggs
Two cups flour
Two cups sugar
½ cup boiling water
1 teaspoon boiling water
Pinch of salt
Juice of ½ lemon.
Separate eggs, beat yolks, add sugar. Add lemon, then boiling water. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Fold in flour Half of this recipe makes a good-sized cake. Bake as you would any sponge cake test for doneness . . .

Next Week—the old cookbook tells us a way to use mashed potatoes and the second verse of the poem given in this column January 29, 1965.

DOE SURVIVAL BETTER THAN BUCKS OR FAWNS

Nature's way of bringing a deer herd into balance with winter range forage conditions is to remove animals that are needed least for reproductive purposes so there will be enough feed for prime and vigorous bucks from two to seven years old, the Idaho Fish and Game Department declared this week.

The statement is backed by findings from about 200 post mortems performed on the carcasses of deer that did not make it through the winter of 1963-64 because of deaths resulting from the effects of malnutrition.

Charles Haynes, Boise game biologist, commented particularly on results obtained from 90 deer post mortems, which were mostly male fawns and old bucks past their prime.

"Fifty-five deer, or 61 percent of the tudy animals, were fawns," he pointed out. "The youngest always are hardest hit when wintering conditions are bad because they must compete for scare feed with bigger, stronger, older animals of the herd. Deep snow also handicaps fawns more than mature deer," Haynes pointed out.

"Nevertheless, about two-thirds of the fawns examined were bucks," he added. "This shows that the female of the species has stronger survival capabilities under stress conditions—and this is nature's way of guaranteeing a new crop in years to come."

Of 11 yearlings autopsied by Haynes, seven were bucks and four were does. This age group represented 11 per cent of the study deer.

Only six per cent of the autopsied deer were mature animals in their prime, ranging from two to seven years old. All six of these animals that had not survived wintering conditions were bucks.

Twenty-one percent of the study group were eight years or older. Thirteen of these wee bucks and six were does President W. O. Haxton and all other ficers of Genesee Chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce were re-elected for another term at a meeting of t group held Wednesday evening in JayCee Hall. The officers were lt elected late last year when the pter first organized in this category chapter but continue their first r's work with the present staff.

Community Projects Discussed

The results of the Community Survey ently taken by the JayCees were discussed by the meeting. Haxton told the group that 55 of 150 forms were returned to the JayCees. Under recreation 17 persons wanted a swimming pool for Genesee and about half of those indicated the pool should be built through the school district. Other needs indicated in this category included improving the city park and creating a recreational spot for teenagers.

Clean-Up, Tear Down

In answer to the form's query on what could be done to help beautify the town, 17 answers came back "Tear down old vacant houses and clean up vacant lots." Also mentioned was cleaning out junk cars and keeping weeds down.

Under services of the city the majority of forms mentioned better control of horses and dogs in the city limits, repairing sidewalks and building new sidewalks; clearing streets and sidewalks of snow in winter and just keeping the streets cleaner all year long.

Suggestions for better conveniences in the city were offered and the leading ideas were rest rooms in the city park, a need for a coffee shop and a short order restaurant and fountain in town, a drinking fountain on main street, and more and better street lights.

Buy In Genesee

For Community Betterment came the suggestion, "Buy In Genesee." Other items mentioned were creating an interest in a small industry for the town, need for a community center, and the thought, from one, that our tax money is not being used wisely.

Under miscellaneous suggestions was the need for a Boy Scout Troop; JayCee sponsored "card parties and dances; a kindergarten and a suggestion that the community help find a use for the Genesee Motors building.

Will Meet With City

President Haxton and Merle Wilson will meet with the city council in the near future to discuss the results of this survey and plan possible future projects which the JayCees could accomplish in line with the desires of the city residents as revealed by the survey.

W W P Report Will Tell of Activities

The Washington Water Power Co. pany will commence mailing its 1964 annual report to nearly 25,000 shareholders, several thousand security analysts, banks, investment houses, and to individuals throughout the United States on Monday, March 22

The colorful, 24-page booklet, with its 75th anniversary theme, points out that in 1964, for the first time, the companys total revenues exceeded fifty million dollars and that WWP's total plant investment now exceeds three hundred million dollars.

George M. Brunzell, WWP president, said that in 1955, just 10 years ago, the utility's total plant investment was only $140 million. "In the ten years since then," he said, "we have built a huge hydroelectric project, new office building, and service center, and have acquired or installed natural gas distribution systems in 22 Inland Empire communities."

Brunzell expressed particular pleasure at the spectacular growth of the company's natural gas business.

"We acquired our first gas system in mid-1958," he said. Since then this phase of our business has grown to where we are now serving approximately 30,000 customers, and natural gas sales account for more than 20% of our total revenues."

Brunzell said that customers accepting of natural gas, particularly for heating, had made it possible for the company to announce a $540,000 gas rate reduction last month.

The 1964 annual report covers in considerable detail what it considers "three significant events" occurring in 1964. These were the U. S.-Canada Treaty, the authorizing of the California Intertie, and the Coordination Agreement among major Northwest generating utilities. Power specialists for the company played major roles in the development of all three programs, particularly the Canadian Treaty and the Coordination Agreement.

The report also shows that WWP has added more than 18,000 electric customers in the last decade, that residential use per customer of electric power has climbed from 7,590 kilowatthours annually to 9,712 and that its annual total tax bill has jumped from $6.2 million in 1955 to $9.3 million in 1964

Also included in the report are details of the company's participation in several atomic power programs, its jointly-sponsored development of a natural gas storage field near Chehalis, Washington and other activities jointly sponsored and leading to the development of energy resources for the area.

"We are prepared for the future," Brunzell said. "The Inland Empire is beginning to get 'growing pains' and we feel that its greatest period of growth is just over the horizon. With adequate supplies of both electric power and natural gas to provide for the ever-growing needs of our customers, and with an intensive industrial development, we intend to both contribute to and participate in that growth."

State Commander Speaks At Legion Dinner

Melvin Alsager, commander of the Department of Idaho of the American Legion told Genesee Legionnaires and their Auxiliary that membership is vital to prevent outside groups from "nibbling away at veteran's benefits under the guise of economy moves." Alsager was the special guest of Post 58 in observance of the Legion's Birthday Dinner held Saturday night at Carter's. The dinner was sponsored by local Auxiliary ladies.

In addition to Commander Alsager and his wife, other special guests included Mrs. Leslie McCarthy, State Auxiliary president, and Mrs. Mullans, District Auxiliary president, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wren of Moscow.

Commenting further on membership, Alsager told the group that a good membership presents a solid front against those who would decrease veterans benefits.

Mrs McCarthy spoke on the functions and projects of the State Auxiliary.

City's 1965 Budget Shows Little Change from Last Year

The budget for the City of Genesee, published this week by the city council shows little difference from last year's budget. Based on an anticipated revenue of $35,730.30 for the coming year the present millage of 48 mills, adopted in 1962, will be sufficient to carry a normal load of expenditures, the council estimates.

A total of $20,015.00 has been budgeted for general fund expenditures, down some $300 from last year. With the exception of salaries for the Police and Fire Chief, which raised $180, most items for 1965 are below the 1964 figures, or remain the same.

In the water fund, $7,295.30 has been budgeted for 1965. This is a decrease of nearly $600 from last year. The expense incurred in this area last year came largely from the sinking of the new city well.

Total sewer budget for 1965 has been set at $2,773.00, down only slightly from 1964. Bond obligations also remain basically the same.

Assessed Valuation $342,093

Based on anticipated receipts from a total assessed valuation of $342,093.00, the budget from local taxes would bring $16,420.30 into the city treasury The 1965 valuation of the city will not be set by the county commissioners until a later date.

The General Fund levy of 25 mills would bring in $8,552.33 into the city; and provide the largest single source of revenue. Parks and Recreation, street oiling and street lighting will also bring in substantial amounts of income at the local level.

Other receipts such as from the Highway District, liquor store, liquor licenses, dog license, highway users' taxes, etc., will bring in an anticipated $6,060.00.

Receipts from the water fund has been estimated at $8,700.00.

The city finished last year with $1,381.25 in receipts over expenses, the budget revealed. The complete budgt and a more detailed showing of income and expense can be seen on page five.

Cold Weather Causes Crop Concern

As the unseasonably cold temperatures continued to plague the Palouse country this week farmers began to express concern over what damage might be occurring to the fall-planted grains.

Within the past seven days temperatures around the area dropped close to the zero mark at least twice and even on the warmest night of the week the mercury never climbed above freezing.

What is causing the farmers worry is the fact that almost all of the snow has disappeared from the ground leaving the fall-planted fields exposed to the freezing elements. The combination of freezing nights and sunny days have been causing the fields to crack and swell, exposing the delicate root system of the plants to the cold. This series of freezing and thawing also tends to lift the plants in the process making it difficult for the roots to hold in the ground.

According to reports it is still too early in the season to tell just how much damage is being done to the crops.

Thursday morning a very slight snow was falling over the Genesee area but was not enough to whiten the ground.

The cold weather was also causing concern among fruit growers in the lower elevations in the Lewiston-Clarkston area.

Boys State Delegates Will Be Selected

At least two and possibly more delegates to the 1965 session of the Idaho Boys State will be selected Friday, April 2, at a meeting of Bielenberg-Schooler Post 58, American Legion. Boys State is sponsored by the American Legion, Department of Idaho each year to give young men a chance to better understand local, county, and state government. Boys State this year will be held in early June in Boise.

There are nine boys from the Junior class at Genesee High School eligible to attend Boys State. An invitation from the local post has been sent to each of these boys, inviting them to attend the April 2 meeting and present a three to five minute talk on the subject, 'Why I Would Like To Attend Boys State." Larry Sorensen, Commander of the local post, said failure to attend the meeting will indicate the boy is not interested in going to Boys State.

The meeting will be held at 8:00 p. m. at Carter's. This will also be a regular meeting night for the Legion and a good attendance is requested.

WWP Tea for Senior Girls

Graduating high school senior girls from 84 high schools and their mothers will be honored by the Washington Water Power Company at teas throughout the company service area in April and May

WWP home economists Dorothy Smith and Peggy Lewis will hold a tea in Genesee, April 12th, honoring graduates from Genesee, Kendrick, and Colton high schools and their mothers. The 3:30 p. m. get together will be held at Carter's Charcoal Broiler.

This is the 2nd annual WWP sponsored tea which has a dual purpose. One, to honor the girls on completion of their high school studies and the other to acquaint them with the many career advantages available in home economics.

"The first series of teas held last year were so well received by educators, parents, and the senior girls themselves, that we have decided to repeat them again this year," Mrs. Smith said. "While selling careers in home economics, the program also allows the opportunity to point out the many significant changes that have taken place in the American home leading to more leisure time, new, faster and better ways of doing things but, at the same time, requiring a greater knowledge of homemaking than ever required before."

EDITORIAL

An Untouchable Subject

It took only a quick glance at the returned Community Survey sheets from the Genesee Junior Chamber of Commerce to ascertain that one of the complaints most often appearing was the subject of horses and dogs within the city limits.

While it is certainly not a humorous matter, readers must understand that it is difficult to restrain oneself from being facetious when attempting to editorialize on the subject, or rather about the subject.

First, this problem does exist. In Genesee, as in most small towns, dogs are permitted to roam at will providing they are licensed by the city. If the owners aren't willing to confine their pet, the animal is free to trod the streets, run aeross yards, trample gardens, and answer the call to nature when and wherever the urge strikes him. The city ordinances provide redress for any damage, but as in most small towns, neighbors are reluctant to do this.

Horses provide a bigger problem. In the past year the horse population in Genesee has increased and it is not unusual to see several horses on the streets (or sidewalks) during any period of good weather. We understand that is it difficult to toilet-train a dog, and almost impossible to toilet-train a horse and here is where most of the complaints originate. In addition to being unsightly and certainly unhealthy, older people don't need this added obstacle when crossing streets. Horses ridden by youngsters have also been observed on the sidewalks and even other people's yards.

We live in a nice, little town and aren't burdened with many laws that we might be subject to in a larger community. With that fact in mind it might be well if owners of dogs and horses would try to exercise as much control over their pets as possible to prevent public indigination from demanding stricter laws. It's a matter of cooperation and just being a good neighbor. wr.

POVERTY

(Ed. Note—This is first in a series of opinions written by students in the U. S. Government class at Genesee high school. The class instructor is Richard Jones. The opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the school, the instructor or this paper, but strictly of the students who wrote the article).

The following is not the opinion of the Genesee High School, nor that of our class instructor. It is not written with the intent to either uphold or downgrade any political party, and is solely the work of a committee consisting of Betsy Morken, Janet Bielenberg, Judy Kasper, Judy Krier, Mary Reynolds, and Wileen Tierney.

This year President Johnson appropriated $1.1 billion for aid to the poverty-stricken area of Appalachia, the region between Pennsylvania and Alabama. This money is to be used to build roads and to give unemployment compensations to the poor.

We do not believe in pouring money into this area that will not be used to benefit the majority of the people. The people who need and deserve benefits are not always those who receive them. On the other hand, the people who receive these benefits are not always the ones who will use them wisely.

We think that the majority of the poor people are poor, not because they want to be, but because they are victims of circumstances, because of color or environment, or because of ignorance of the opportunities available to them.

We feel that some of this $1.1 billion should be used to promote the domestic Youth Corps and other personal contact. The people, we think, should be educated to know what they are capable of achieving, so that they will want to try.

In short, we believe that, rather than give them money, we should give them the education that they need so that they may make their own money.

SURGERY ADVANCES

Advances in surgery make it possible to correct heart conditions which were considered hopeless only ten years ago, the Idaho Heart Association reports. Damaged heart value and inborn heart defects can be repaired and diseased sections of arteries can be replaced wiht synthetic tubing.

Speaking Of Taxes

To say that Idaho has changed its tax structure is an understatement. And to think that Idaho needs no further study of effort towards the end that each individual, business or corporation is equitably taxed, to carry its proper share of the total tax load, is "pausing on an uphill climb."

The passage of a retail sales tax is a big step. When it was accompanied with major tax reductions in both income tax and property tax it is an unusual step which only one or two states accomplished. Forty-five percent of the anticipated sales tax revenue is dedicated to the reduction of property taxes and income taxes.

A change in tax structure indicates a shift in tax impact—somebody loses—somebody gains. A shift in tax structure accompanied by a material increase in expenditures indicates that somebody is going to pay a lot more in taxes.

Oddly enough, however, the method used to finance the material increase in budget is not as devastating to most taxpayers and most counties as it could have been with an increase in the income tax, for example.

By using gross estimates (the only data available until we have actual experience) combined with known property tax data, we find that the taxpayers as a group in some counties will actually receive more direct benefit through increased state aid, tax reductions, and shared revenues than the sales tax will cost them.

In one county the estimated benefits will amount to $201,713 compared to $200,000 in sales tax cost. In another the benefits woud be only $1,627 less than the cost. Yet, if the increased spending had been financed by an increase in income tax the net cost to the residents in the last example county would have been $10,600 instead of the $1,627.

The retail sales in the last example county are less than half the effective buying power of the residents; indicating that over 50 percent of the purchases are made in other counties.

HOME ON SPRING VACATION

Miss Judy Holben, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Holben, and a student at Eastern Washington State College, is spending the Spring Vacation visiting at the home of her parents this week.

Through increased state aid and shared revenues some of that money is coming back home.

Somebody gains—somebody loses. The net cost in one county will be nearly $2,000,000; in another $600,000. Their only hope is that personal income because of stimulated economic activity, will increase to the point that it will offset their loss.

Taxpayers of the state, through the legislature have shown faith in supporting larger state budgets, it is now incumbent upon government administrators to return faith by judiciously using the increased funds.

ONE OF 500 deer and about half that many elk is shown in trap with Dale Jensen, Pocatello game biologist, as he places numbered tag in animals ear for future identification. These animals were trapped throughout the state during 1964-65. The purpose is to check seasonal migration routes, distribution, survival, herd composition by age and sex. Most big game animals fared well this winter because of chinook winds and thaws. Grass now is greening at lower elevations in some places.

Baseball, Track Season Claims GHS Attention

With a successful football and basketball season behind them, Genesee high school coaches and athletes have begun to turn their attention to spring sports, namely baseball and track. Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg reported this week that training has begun for both of these sports insofar as the weather would permit.

Ozzie said fifteen have turned out for baseball this season, including seven lettermen from last year's squad. The weather has not yet permitted any outside practice, the coach reported, and all the training has been done in the gym.

The schedule for this season's games has not been completed but Kanikkeberg said he hoped to have this done as soon as possible. He reported he is trying to arrange for the first game of the season on Friday, April 2, but the date has not been confirmed. Only four games are definitely scheduled; two games each with Moscow and Potlatch.

Pitching will be the strong point of the squad this year, according to the local coach. Back again will be Skip Ivie and Larry Vestal, both veteran pitchers with good reputations. Coming up on the mound is Brad Airhart and Rick Jackson.

Last year's baseball team compiled a 7-win, 3-loss record.

Orofino Meet Friday

Under the coaching of Jim Spelgatti, ten track hopefuls have been training for the opening of the track season which will begin Friday, March 26, when GHS will be in Orofino for an invitational meet with other schools in this area.

Genesee lost a number of good track men through graduation last year, but will still be entering most of the events Friday.

BIG GAME TAGGING

About 500 deer and elk have been tagged and otherwise marked for future identification by Department Fish and Game workers during 1964-65. Many elk wear luminous ear patches and collars in addition to the metal tags. The purpose of live-trapping and tagging game animals is to check seasonal distributuio, migration routes, survival, and herd composition by age and sex.

Elk were trapped and tagged on the North Fork of the Clearwater River, Trail Creek near Sun Valley, Cottonwood Flats and the Heise area on the South Fork of the Snake River, Juniper Butte, -Sand Creek Wildlife Management Area, Unit 60 north of Ashton, and Chamberlain Basin northeast of McCall.

KAMLOOPS SPAWNING CONTINUES LUNKERS

Kamloops rainbow trout once more will focus national attention on northern Idaho May 8 as residents and visitors join hands to crown the giant species "king for a day."

This outsized rainbow was introduced from Canada into Lake Pend Oreille many years ago by the Idaho Fish and Game Department, and hatchery brood stock helps to perpetuate the species.

According to the forthcoming Department publications, Summary of Operations for 1965, over 700,000 kamloops weighing 37,000 pounds were released last year. Adult fish are maintained in hatcheries and spawned in season to get eggs for propagation purposes. This work is done at the Clark Fork and Hagerman hatcheries.

The biggest of an estimated 870 kamloops trout caught last year weighed 32 pounds, 2 ounces. Idaho kamloops have scored among the top national winners in their class for nearly 20 years, sometimes taking four out of five awards in the western open rainbow division. The contest is sponsored annually by "Field and Stream" magazine.

This year's "Kamloops and Kokanee" celebration will be Saturday, May 8, at the conclusion of "Howdy Week" at Sandpoint.

TRAINING GUN DOGS

It's still illegal to molest game birds or nests, but the Idaho Fish and Game Commission has lifted the restriction on training gun dogs in the field from April 1 through August 15. These dogs must be kept under tight control while they are being trained in the field because canines running wild can cause great game bird nesting loss. Gun dog handlers must use care to select sites where nests and young birds are not likely to be molested.

Lewiston finished fourth in the Spokesman shoot. Scattergunners will now turn their attention to a series of registered trap shoots which will be held at various clubs during the coming months

MARCH WINDS

Somehow the MARCH WINDS always bring
A tender—sweet regret;
These harbingers of every spring
Bring days I can't forget.

When Mother's washing on the line
Went dancing on the blast;
When you—and you—alone were mine
In days too dear to last.

And tho' I fly my kites with glee
I long for your return;
And pray that you'll come back to me
When MARCH WINDS bless and burn.

EARLY SPRING FISHING

Fair weather fishermen in many parts of the state are joining the die-hards who like chills with their thrills and fish all winter. Waters open all year for angling of some or all species are available in every region of the state and are specified in the regulations as exceptions to general season rules. Steelhead fishing on the Clearwater, Snake and Big Salmon river is included, and reports from Lewiston and Salmon City indicate that water conditions are improving. One creel census below the Selway Falls last week found 30 fishermen with 26 fish, but this was exceptionally high.

The customary opening of lowland lakes in northern Idaho will be May 1, with stream openings following the general season date of May 29, the closest Saturday to June 1.

Priest Lake near the Canadian border will open for mackinaw trout fishing April 15, two weeks earlier than other lakes in the region.

INTERNAL REVENUE SAYS AVOID LAST MINUTE INCOME TAX RUSH

With the April 15 income tax deadline only three weeks away, don't wait until the last minute rush to file your income tax return, Internal Revenue officials urged Wednesday.

That's how many mistakes are made, IRS director Calvin E. Wright said. He suggested it is a good idea to compute the return, let it lay for a day or two, then double check the figures with the records of proof before filing it.

Wright said taxpayers who procrastinate until the end of the three and one-half month filing period, and then go to a tax accountant for assistance after he is too busy to help them have no excuse for late filing of returns.

Christian Science Church Service

The conversion and baptism of Saul of Tarsus, as told in the Acts of the Apostles, plays an important part in the Bible Lesson on "Reality" which will be heard at Christian Science churches Sunday.

Also included will be these lines from 'Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (pp. 324-5): "When the truth first appeared to him in Science, Paul was made blind and his blindness was felt; but spiritual light soon enabled him to follow the example and teachings of Jesus, healing the sick and preaching Christianity throughout Asia Minor, Greece, and even in imperial Rome. . . . He who has the true idea of good loses all sense of evil, and by reason of this is being ushered into the undying realities of Spirit."

THIEVING PLANTS ON SHAKY GROUND

WATER-STEALING PLANTS such as the saltcedar tree are a problem in the arid regions of the western U. S. The non-beneficial plants, known as "phreatophytes," grow where badly needed water is within easy reach of their roots using up more than 25 million acre feet of water annually. (An acre foot of water equals 325,851 gallons.) Department of the interior researchers are working on a program to determine the cheapest and fastest means of eradicating the pesty plants.

IMPROVED TREATMENT of lung cancer may be possible as a result of a new concept developed and tested at the University of Cincinnati medical center. This technique appears to slow the rate of progress of the tumor.

Employment Situation In Latah County

Nineteen Latah County job seekers were assisted in finding employment through the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employment last week, according to a report issued by Frank Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager. This was more than double the nine workers placed on jobs the previous week. Nine were also placed on jobs during the corresponding week a year ago. Hartstein said among the women finding work through the department were a bookkeeper, a lab technician, a receptionist, waitresses, and domestic workers. Men were placed on such jobs as farm tractor operators, service station attendants, a tire changer and laborers. At the end of the week there were 19 jobs available throughout the area. Women could find work as secretaries, general office clerks, bookkeepers, cooks, waitresses, and maids. Men who were qualified could work as bookkeepers, farm tractor operators, motorboat mechanic, auto mechanic or salesmen in Moscow. At the end of last week there were a total of 21 jobs open, and a year ago there were 18 jobs open, according of Hartstein's report.

Although 27 persons filed new claims for Unemployment Insurance during the week, the total number of workers drawing such benefits declined from 317 at the end of the previous week to 293 at the end of the current week, Hartstein said. One year ago there were 348 persons receiving such benefits. Most of the workers filing new claims were the workers from the lumber industry, whereas most of the decline was among workers engaged in the construction trades. Hartstein indicated that the number of persons drawing benefits in the Potlatch area compared with 68 last week and 83 a year ago, and Elk River had 27, 28 and 37, respectively. Hartstein reported that poor working conditions in the woods was given by most workers who were filing new claims as the reason they were off work.

POTATO CAKE

2 cups sugar
½ cups mashed potatoes
1½ cups flour
2 cups chopped walnuts
1 scant cup butter (or shortening)
½ cup milk
4 eggs
2 teaspoonfuls baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves and nutmeg
4 squares unsweetened chocolate

Cream butter and sugar, add mashed potatoes. Add well beaten eggs. Add milk alternately with sifted dry ingredients Add melted chocolate and chopped nuts. Grease and flour pan and bake at 350 degrees. The 13 by 9-inch pan should do nicely.

For Frosting, the Alaska Cook Book suggests:

10 tablespoons sugar
10 tablespoons milk
small piece of butter
Chocolate to taste Mix and cook slowly. Frost when cooled.

And so we have had a taste the past few weeks of cooking in Alaska circa 1900. Our thanks to Mr. Jess Myers, Moscow, who owns the book and to Mrs John Myers, who loaned it to me. In the preface of the Fairbanks Cook Book is the poem which this column featured on January 29, 1965, but it has a second verse You may remember that this verse was inscribed around the walls of the old Spokane "Silver Grill" restaurant. This building has been torn down to make room for more modern structures, but many of us will fondly remember the excellent food served there. Here is the verse:

He may live without books—what is knowledge but grieving?
He may live without hope—what is hope but deceiving?
He may live without love—what is passion but pining
But where is the man who live without dining?

F H A Mortgage Insurance

Wallace M. Bostwick, Director of the Spokane FHA insurance office, calls attention to availability of FHA mortgage insurance for homes in smaller communities and rural areas as well as in the larger cities and towns.

FHA home mortgage insurance and improvement programs enable home owners and buyers to purchase, remodel, or refinance at reasonable monthly payment rates.

Director Bostwick invites interested groups to arrange with him to have meetings in their locality, to be attended by one of his staff who will explain FHA programs and answer questions. The Spokane FHA office address is 501 American Legion Building, North 108 Washington Street, Spokane 99201, telephone. TEemple 8-3361, extension 203.

Bostwick added that if for any reason loans are not available locally, interested borrowers should notify the Spokane FHA office and every effort will be made to put them in contact with lenders who might finance FHA loans and mortgages in the area.

Experimental Equipment For Measuring Water Seepage

Experimental equipment for measuring Water seepage from Idaho irrigation canals and methods of reducing seepage are evaluated in a special University of Idaho research published today.

The report is authorized by C. C. Warnick, associate director of the engineering experiment station and research professor in civil engineering, John J. Peebles, research associate professor, and J. A. Ross, graduate student. Project report No. 5 is titled, "A Study of the Control of Canal Seepage," and covers a continuing study being made with the cooperation of Region 1, Bureau of Reclamation, and the U. S. Department of the Interior.

E::perimental work is being conducted north of Caldwell, according to Peebles. Through use of seepage meters and ponding of canals the amount and rate of water loss is measured. Different lining materials are tried to find a suitable and inexpensive way of checking water loss.

"One of the materials that looks particularly good now is butyl rubber," said Peebles. "It resists seepage and doesn't break as easily as some other liner we have tried. But, it could be expensive to install in a canal if it isn't placed at the time the canal is built."

The rubber has demonstrated advantages over other linings tried, but is subject to damage from livestock traffic, write the authors. Laboratory and field studies were made this year to determine the effects on seepage rates of various sized lining punctures.

Test Plots Will Determine Value Of Fertilizers

Field plots to test the benefits of various fertilizers on eroded hilltop soils have been set up in four northern Idaho counties by the University of Idaho and the Pacific Northwest Plant Food Assoc.

The plots were established last fall on farms in Latah, Nez Perce, Benewah and Kootenai counties, reports Roger W. Harder, associate soil scientist with the University Agricultural Experiment Station.

Efforts of phosphate and potash fertilizers on the exposed subsoil of eroded hilltops will be demonstrated by the field plats, Harder said. Neither phosphate nor potash are generally recommended or used in Idaho's Palouse area but soil tests indicate the elements may be beneficial on these hilltops.

"Erosion has eaten away the topsoil on many hilltops in this region," Harder pointed out. "The Soil Conservation Service estimates that 10 to 12 percent of total field area is now eroded clay points—hilltops eroded down to the subsoil. Where the topsoil is gone, crop production is cut severely."

All four fertilizer plots are on farms along U. S. 95 where they can be observed from the highway Harder said. Each of the plots is divided into seven treatments. Three are check treatments on which only sulfur was added to eliminate any deficiency of this element. The other four were also fertilized with sulfur and, in addition, received nitrogen, phosphate, and potash in various combinations.

Cooperating farmers are Jim Busch, Nez Perce county, four miles south of Genesee; John Naylor, Latah county, two miles north of Moscow; Eldon Shaw, Benewah county, five miles south of Tensed; and Al Luth, Kootenai county, six miles north of Worley.

Harder said large signs will be erected at each plot this spring. Smaller signs will be placed at each treatment to identify the fertilizers applied. He encouraged farmers to observe the field plots through the season.

Goedde, Broemeling Do Well At Camas Prairie Trap Shoot

Dick Goedde and Roger Broemeling each turned in an identical score of 91x100 in the handicap division of the annual Camas Prairie Trap Shoot held last weekend at Lewiston Gun Club. Six other shooters also had scores of 91, and Goedde won a shootoff later in the day to nail down his position in the tournament.

Both Broemeling and Claude Stout, Uniontown, scored perfect twenty-fives during the Sunday competition. Sonny Stout, Uniontown, also shot in the two-day event but his score wasn't available.

Over 200 shooters from all parts of the Northwest took part in the shoot and an estimated 75,000 targets and shells were expended during the two days.

Cub Scout Pack Meeting Friday

Pack 312 held their monthly pack meeting Friday evening in the Community Church basement. A definite Mexican atmosphere prevailed and the stage was decorated with Mexican platters, pillows, vases, and jugs. A pinata hung from the ceiling.

The opening exercise was led by Den One—a flag salute.

Den Two presented a variety show "South of the Border." Denmother Mrs. Levi Rossebo announced the theme of the month and introduced her boys' skit. Michael Odberg gave the welcome. The group sang "El Rancho Grande" accompanied by Mrs. Lester Diehl. Terry Green explained the marketplace; Danny Diehl told of the peasants in Mexico, and Michael Odberg told about their parties and games. All of the boys then performed a Mexican Dance.

Other customs shown were a Cock Fight, (two Cubs dressed as roosters) and a Bull Fight, with blaming eyed bull being fought off by a gallant matador, (David Rossebo). The boys sang "South of the Border" while a winsome lace-clad Bride (Terry Green) looked wistfully at her suitor (Danny Diehl). The skit was well performed and the audience indeed felt they had taken a journey into old Mexico at the end.

A group of girls from Moscow added color when they danced "The Mexican Hat Dance." They are coached by Mrs. Nicole Ferrante, and they are Mary Ann Lothrop, Anita Stroebel, Debby Aube, and Tina Chapman.

Boys of Mrs. Bob Heimgartner's Den Three performed a skit "The Seven Best Doctors." Taking part were Jeff Diehl, Leslie Heimgartner, Ronnie Nichols, Tim Becker, Mark Lee, Keith Davis, and Duayne Kammeyer.

A skit by Den One portrayed Litter-bugs doing their dirty work, scattering paper, and trash around the beautiful countryside and in the towns, and their "good" bugs picking up the litter, and thus making our country a lovely place in which to live. The "bugs" wore paper sack masks, appropriately decorated. Boys in this group whose Denmother is Mrs. Jim Hoogland are Mike Koster, Curtis Hermann, Chip Schooler, Steve Flerchinger, Steve Hoogland, John Wedin, Mark Becker, David Kammeyer.

Ray Wedin presided as master of ceremonies and presented awards as follows:

National Board Endorses Program

The Board of the National Association of Wheat Growers has endorsed, in principle, the present voluntary certificate program for wheat but has urged Congress to boost the support price on wheat grown for domestic consumption, according to Evan Koller, NAWG vice-president from Idaho.

Koller, who attended a meeting of the National Board in Washington March 24-26, said testimony given by the NAWG to the House Agriculture Committee stated that the present wheat program was "a reasonable and workable type program for wheat."

'Just one ingredient is missing," said NAWG President Anson Horning, Larned, Kansas, in the wheat growers statement to Congress. "Income levels are still low. In order to raise these income levels we believe the domestic portion of our wheat crop should be supported at approximately $2.50 per bushel, or full parity."

Koller noted that the NAWG statement brought out that wheat prices have declined steadily since 1947 and farmers have not been able to share in the national prosperity despite the contribution which agriculture has made to that prosperity. The requested increase of about 50 cent per bushel in the value of the domestic wheat certificate would do much to achieve simple justice for the wheat farmer, Koller said.

The Idaho vice-president of the NAWG said the Board members, in addition to their appearance before Congress, discussed other solutions to the problems facing the nation's wheat growers. He said progress had been made on fulfillment of a resolution passed at the NAWG convention in January to see about establishment of a national wheat commission to finance research, marketing, promotional and other special projects to increase the quality and consumption of wheat.

He said representatives of the wheat growers have met with millers and bakers to discuss the establishment of a group which would be composed of these various sements of the wheat industry. He said one suggested means of financing such projects would be addition of a 2 cent charge to growers and millers to the domestic certificate at the time such certificates are collected by the millers. The proposed national council would operate at the national level, similarly to the Idaho Wheat Commission which has successfully promoted the interests of Idaho's wheat growing industry through projects financed with a ½ cent per bushel tax on growers at the time they market their crop.

Koller emphasized that the proposed council is in a planning and discussion stage and no firm decisions have been made.

The fall-planted grains were reported to be looking better with each passing day, but it is still too early to tell how much damage was done by the cold weather which prevailed for two weeks.

SALES TAX IN THE STATE OF IDAHO

The following statements are the sole opinions of Bill Morscheck, Kathy Harris, Jerri Moser, Gary Demuler, Dwight Mayer, and Skip Ivie, and do not reflect any opinions of the school or class supervisor, and are not intended to support any political party or social class.

GOOD—Sales tax will raise the revenue of the State Government, thus providing more money for the functions of the State. The State will benefit from the money brought in from tourists and out of state consumers. Also, the sales tax is a direct tax that is economical to administer. The sales tax will affect everyone in the State because of the necessary essentials needed by all the people. Finally, the sales tax will provide additional funds for education.

BAD—The sales tax has only a limited relationship to the ability of a person to pay. In other words, those families in the low-income group will pay a larger portion of their income on this tax. The sales tax is not dependable in that it will fluctuate according to how much people spend. The sales tax also has an avoidance factor which will have a definite economic affect on border towns throughout the State. The sales tax could, possibly, have a regressive effect upon the economy of the state.

After carefully analyzing these and several other important facts, we, as a group, decided that a sales tax is the only realistic way to solve the economic problems with the States. Although there was some dissension within the group, it was the opinion of the majority that the tax was needed. We do feel that there would be a need for exemptions. Some of these exemptions would include: an exemption for machinery used by industry for industrial purposes and an exemption for farm machinery. We feel that a sales tax law, passed with these provisions, for exemptions, would be acceptable to us; and we would urge the passage of the bill.

WATCH OUT FOR FLYING POTATO

A POTATO may tell us whether or not a man can live in outer space. Some researchers believe that living organisms on earth are regulated by biological clocks that are influenced by the earth's magnetic and electrical fields, gravity and radiation from space To test the theory, scientists at Northwestern University plan to orbit a potato around the sun where it will be free of earthly influences If the 'spudnik' dies, they theorize, it'll mean that it has gone beserk because it's clocks have stopped—and that the same thing could happen to man.

GOURMETS may protest that it's a terrible way to treat such a delicacy, but the Cortunix quail is hailed by Auburn University as an excellent laboratory animal. Advantages of using the feathered "guinea pig" for research are said to include its hardiness, ability to breed and mature quickly, and its high metabolism . . . . CARBON DIOXIDE, used to perk up the taste for soft drinks, also puts sparkle in foundry business' profits. Carbon Dioxide process molds for casting of aluminum parts and products speed up production and reduce costs, reports Cardox, Chicago. The gas is injected into a sand mix, producing a mold that turns out aluminum castings as good as those of shell-molded castings and approaching die casting standards.

ROCK SALT is a must on the streets of northern cities where it helps melt snow, but its tendency to cause rusting of automobiles makes it a mixed blessing. This can be minimized, however, says a company that has developed a rust inhibitor for the salt. Tests show that use of salt treated with the inhibitor reduces rusting up to 97 per cent . . FARMERS ORGANIZATIONS MUST DEMAND THE BEST TO MEET CHANGE AND COMPETITION

"Good enough is not enough today, but the world is full of people who are too satisfied, who would rather fight than change," J. K. Stern, president of the American Institute of Cooperation national education and research agency for farmer cooperatives said today, in urging farmers and farm organizations to reject the ordinary and to demand the best.

"Too many of today's farmers, and their cooperatives, employees, and directors are too easily satisfied with things as they are, Mr. Stern said. "They need to be challenged to do their best to meet today's conditions of change and competition. The people the world is badly in need of today are those who seek more than ordinary challenges. Those who accept these challenges today do more than exist, they live; do more talk, they say some thing.

"Too few food consumers realize they live in the greatest paradise on earth —with a choice of 6000 food items in a supermarket—for which they spend only 18 per cent of the family pay check. No place on earth is the consumer better fed, and no place on earth does she pay such a small portion of the family pay check for food.

"Unfortunately, the producer doesn't fare so well. His outstanding production job has reduced his net income because his cooperative efforts in most cases have been only ordinarily, and a very small surplus or abundance has sharply depress ed the market.

"We pay a long price for only being ordinary. Competition today is mostly between people and ideas—rather than between products. The cooperative with a good idea—not an ordinary one—and with aggressive, confident, enthusiastic directors, manager, and team of employees, is the one that will best serve farmers.

"Our farmer cooperatives must face up to hard economic facts—agree to consolidate or merge in the farmer's interests and must get together in promoting national brand names and outlets for their products.

"It is so easy to be ordinary and satisfied with things as they are. We have heard too much about less work, more pay, early retirement, pensions, the easy life. One of the best kept secrets in America is that people would rather work hard for something they believe in than enjoy a pampered idleness—they only need to be challenged.'

The Institute which Mr. Stern heads is chartered as a university in the District of Columbia, was organized in 1925, and annually holds a summer session on farm marketing, credit and cooperative operations at the invitation of a leading Land-Grant University. The 1965 conference will be at the University of Missouri, Columbia, August 8-11.

SOCIAL SECURITY OFFICES NOW ISSUING NUMBERS FOR TAX PURPOSES

Persons needing social security numbers for their income tax returns should contact their local social security office, Internal Revenue officials said Wednesday.

Formerly it was necessary to write to social security headquarters in Baltimore to obtain the numbers which are necessary because all tax returns are now machine processed by numerical codes instead of names.

While the local social security offices should be contacted to get social security numbers—all tax forms, tax payments, and questions about tax matters should be sent to Internal Revenue offices.

Banks, savings and loan associations, corporations, and other financial institutions send Form 3435, request for identifying number, to their depositors and shareholders, as required by law. Persons receiving these requests should enter their tax identifying number on the form and return it to the organization that sent it They should not mail the form to Internal Revenue offices.

Use alone constitutes possession.

Americans Give Generously For Good Causes

After a careful look at the amount people donate to good causes, it can be said that Americans as a nation are considered to be generous people.

In 1964, about 21 out of every 100 people gave something to united community fund campaigns. The nation's total donations in 1963, including those from corporations and philathropic organizations, were over ten billion dollars, and the trend is upward.

How much other people—friends, neighbors and colleagues—give has had a close look with the result available this month from Changing Times, the Kiplinger magazine. Facts that show how much people give were compiled and made available as an aid to individuals when deciding how much they should give.

Traditionally, religious causes get the biggest share of total philanthropic giving, about 49½ of it in 1963. Despite a rise in giving to religious causes, Kiplinger editors note a down trend in per-member giving.

The average church member gives about $69 a year, according to one set of statistics reported, but the figure does not include all denominations. Other philanthropic giving is divided among education, 17 per cent, welfare, 15 per cent; health, 12 percent; foundations, 4 per cent, and civic, cultural and miscellaneous causes 3 per cent.

"Many people set aside part of their income, 1 per cent, 2 per cent, perhaps 8 or 10 per cent a year and there are more nongivers than sacrificial givers," according to Changing Times. In response to fund raising the Midwest generally is considered pretty openhearted and the New York area fairly tight.

YELLOW SNOW GEESE

Anyone observing yellow snow geese, or red, green or black, for that matter, is urged to report where and when to the Idaho Fish and Game Department. The Utah Department has been color-marking snow geese for future identification since 1961, and the program is underway again this spring.

Part of the spring route for snow geese from Utah to their nesting ground within the Arctic Circle is through Idaho. Apparently a return flight of snows follows much the same route in the fall. Fish and Game Department fieldmen have sighted some of the marked geese this spring over American Falls Reservoir and Mud Lake. A flock of about 20,000 snow geese has been seen at the Mud Lake area.

In Idaho, after golf beer's the one... for good taste, good fun
After a hard-played 18 holes, it's good to settle down on a soft chair in the club house and add up the score with friends. What better time for the drink that scores with almost every golfer—cool, thirst-quenching beer? Yes, beer's great to relax with, great for refreshment, great for taste. So whatever your sport—boating or baseball—swimming or tennis—relax afterwards with the zestful taste of beer.

APRIL

Give me the mad-glad April
Peeking through buds of grass;
Flecked with it's rippling sunshine
Where rain and wild geese pass.

Let me see bluebirds winging
Down cloverlands once more;
As in the days of childhood
Gone on so long before.

Let me hear rain on shingles
Winds in the pines and then—
Find in my heart the APRIL
Singing for me again.

C. D. A. POETRY CONTEST

Div. 1, 3rd prize, Debbie Hasfurther
The Church On The Hill

Way on the hill where the green grass grew
Stood a little church, with people, oh, so few
Along came a fire, which burned it to the ground
Then all was left was a cornerstone to be found.

Along came the carpenters, masons, plumbers, too,
To build among the pines, a building strong and true
One more place on this earth's emerald sod
Where people can kneel and together worship God.

A freeloader walked up to a friend at the bar and began telling him about a hunting trip he had just taken.

"We shot a couple of bears," he said, "but the biggest thrill was tracking yures."

"What's yures?" his friend asked.

"I'll have a beer, thanks," the freeloader said.

Just as they finished the drink, the friend said:

"I must run along now. Have to go home and do the chores."

"What chores?" the freeloader said.

"A beer, please," the friend said, signalling the bartender.

A boy took his pet rabbit to a veterinarian to find out what alled it. After the examination, the veterinarian asked, "What have you been feeding this rabbit?"

"Goat's milk," the boy replied.

The veterinarian shook his head. "Don't you know any better," he asked, "than to use that greasy kid stuff on your hare?"

State Job Openings Are Explained

Merit system examinations for positions as stenographer, dictating machine transcriber, clerk-typist and ware house assistant have been announced by the Personnel Council for the Idaho Department of Public Assistance.

By passing these tests high school graduates and high school seniors who will be graduated this spring can qualify for potential employment in offices of the Department of Public Assistance or the Department of Disaster Relief and Civil Defense, according to the Personnel Council's Executive Secretary, Mrs. Catherine T. Walker.

The warehouse assistant position, located in Lewiston, is open to male applicants only and requires recent experience in warehousing or food storage and ability to perform moderately heavy work, she added.

Examinations for the office positions have been tentatively set for May 1 at six centers throughout the State. For complete information, interested persons should contact the Personnel Council at Box 1373, Boise, or any local office of the Department of Public Assistance or Civil Defense. Applications must be filed by April 10.

Christian Science Church Service

How the power of God operates in human affairs is explored in this week's Bible Lesson to be read at all Christian Science churches The Golden Text is from Luke (18:27): "The things which are impossible with men are possible with God."

Several dramatic examples will be read from the Bible, illustrating the availability of divine power in overcoming the discordant conditions of material existence. The subject is 'Unreality.' Citations from the Christian Science textbook will include these lines: "From beginning to end, the Scriptures are full of accounts of the triumph of Spirit, Mind, over matter . . When man is governed by God, the ever-present mind who understands all things, man knows that with God all things are possible" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, pp. 19, 180).

LITTER SEASON APPROACHES

With total litter cleanup costs across the nation reported to be in the neighborhood of $500 million a year, and Idaho's proportionate share equally unnecessary, it is time to renew the annual campaign against public littering. It is estimated that an ounce of paper dropper very week from every car on American roads amounts to a trash pile weighing 260 million pounds a year.

Fishermen and hunters generally are the scapegoats when blame is being placed for outdoor misconduct, even though boaters, picnickers, rock hounds and many other groups must share responsibility for littering the state and national highways, waterways and camp sites.

Littering is a major cause of forest fires, stream pollution and health hazards.

Let's keep Idaho beautiful.

Odberg Nominated For New Pea, Lentil Commission

Ellis Odberg, Jr. and B. H. Wittman, Lapwai, were chosen Tuesday night as nominees for positions on the newly-created Idaho Pea and Lentil Commission. Governor Robert E. Smylie will name the commissioners before July 1.

Wittman and Odberg were chosen as Nez Perce nominees by an advisory committee to the Idaho Ass'n. of Pea and Lentil Growers. Before the nominations are completed, each nominee must have petitions signed by at least 25 qualified pea or lentil growers.

The commission, as approved at the last legislature, will include five grower members and two members from among processors.

Nominees eligible from the grower groups must have grown peas or lentils during three of the past five years. Signers of the nominating petitions, to be qualified, must have grown peas or lentils eligible for taxation in one of the past two years.

All petitions must bear 25 names and must be returned to the Latah County agent's office by April 25. A committee of farmers will then certify all signatures as to eligibility and submit the petitions to the Governor by May 1.

The governor must appoint no more than three growers from any one political party and, for this reason, all nominees must list their political preferences. This provision was incorporated into the commission bill by the Legislature.

Adrian Nelson, Genesee, said that that there will be at least 10 names of growers submitted to Governor for his appointments. Pea and lentil growers in a March meeting, agreed that one commissioner should be predominately from Latah County.

Nelson pointed out that the act creating the commission provides that at least two persons be nominated for each position, to include one person from each political party.

Growers recommended that nominees be predominately representative of Austrian winter pea crops of Idaho County; green and yellow pea crops of Latah, Lewis, Clearwater and Nez Perce counties, and lentils of Benewah and Kootenai counties.

June 5 Selected as Date For Community Day Celebration

Saturday, June 5 has been selected as the date for Genesee's annual Community Day Celebration, it was announced by members of the General Committee for the yearly event. Some committee chairmen for the various events have been named and preliminary plans are already underway.

Once again a general committee will function as a coordinating unit for the numerous committees rather than having just one overall chairman. This year the general committee is composed of Jim Hoogland, Bill Haxton, Tom Boyd, Don Grieser, and Bill Roth.

Basically this year's Community Day will operate in the same manner as last year's celebration. There will be a breakfast, parade, trapshoot, luncheon, talent show, games and concessions, reunions free barbecue beef supper, and a dance and crowning of the 1965 Community Day Queen.

In addition, a small carnival for children has been arranged for, and will function throughout the day. The kiddie carnival is from out-of-town but part of the proceeds will remain with the Community Day fund.

Once again the big attraction for the day will be the free barbecue beef supper which will be served late in the afternoon. Last year was the first year the barbecue had been offered free and the favorable comment to this has encouraged the committee to offer it once again.

The following is the list of committee chairmen who have indicated a willingness to serve for the 1965 celebration. Each chairman is responsible for securing members of his committee.

Japan May Be New Market For Dry Peas and Lentils

TOKYO — Japan will soon be the scene of a major market development effort for United States dry peas and lentils, reports Joe Spiruta from Tokyo. Spiruta, a specialist in foreign marketing of agricultural products and Washing State Department of Agriculture employee, is on loan to the Pacific Northwest Pea Growers and Dealers Association. Washington's Department of Agriculture is also assisting by making available the services of a marketing specialist. Financing and cooperation was made possible under provisions of P. L. 480, with both sides sharing in the actual cost.

Two other representatives of the dry pea industry will soon join Spiruta in Japan to help with the marketing effort. This year Wayne Chastain of Spokane and Ed Dumas of Moscow.

Japan is the big attraction for the U. S. production is in the neighborhood of 4 to 5 million hundredweight.

The promotional effort in Japan is a cooperative one between the Foreign Agricultural Service, U. S. D. A., and the Pacific Northwest Pea Growers and Dealers Association. Washington's Department of Agriculture is also assisting by making available the services of a marketing specialist. Financing and cooperation was made possible under provisions of P. L. 480, with both sides sharing in the actual cost.

Two other representatives of the dry pea industry will soon join Spiruta in Japan to help with the marketing effort. This year Wayne Chastain of Spokane and Ed Dumas of Moscow.

Most of Japan's dry pea needs are presently being filled by Communist China. Exports of U. S. dry peas to Japan, about 10,000 tons annually at this time, are small even though consumption in the country is about ten time this amount. United States producers believe that inroads into the market are possible and will be made.

Washington and Idaho produce some 95 percent of the U. S. dry peas and lentils. Exports COOLED BLOOD, pumped through the body, may help travelers withstand the stresses of space flight. The process, called "Perfusion Hypothermia," under study at Emory University, reduces the body's oxygen requirement to as little as 25 percent of normal. Blood is drawn from the patient's neck or groin, passed through a metal tube immersed in ice water, then returned through an artery in the groin. . . . THE POPULATION of the U. BANISTEROPSIS INEBRIANS, a plant used by South American witch doctors to cause hallucinations, may be helpful in mental therapy, say scientists at West Virginia University. The researchers are trying to isolate the alkaloids of the plant which when processed, become a potent drink called "yaje" imbibed by certain natives of the Amazon valley.

AN APPARATUS has been built that will enable scientist to duplicate and study conditions 250 miles under the earth's surface. It is designed to permit X-ray analysis of materials while they are being subjected to pressures of 2,000,000 pounds per square inch and temperatures of up to 1,000 degrees centigrade, equivalent to the force of 2,500 Washington Monuments stacked one on top of the other.

INK MAKING was a grind! Normally, in order to make inks, dry pigment agglomerations (clusters) must be ground for hours before they will disperse satisfactorily into the vehicle. Now the job can be done in minutes, reports Holland-Suco Color Co., which has developed "pre-dispersed" pigments. The particles, individually coated with a special hard resin, combine readily with the vehicle and other chemical ingredients after only 15 to 30 minutes in a high-speed mixer.

Storm Adds to Snow On Moscow Mt.

The snow survey on Moscow Mountain for April was taken March 27 by Fred Chugg, of the Soil Conservation Service, Harvey Waldron III and Kenneth Lukecart of the University of Idaho Engineering Experiment Station. Due to the weekend's snow storm that occurred while preparation was made for the trip up the mountain, it was necessary to use the University's snowcat. This storm layed about 12 inches of new snow on the highest snow course, 4100 feet, to about 6 inches on the lowest, 3270 feet.

Of the five snow courses, two showed increases in snow depth and water content while the other 3 showed decreases from last month's measurements on the mountain.

The Moscow Mountain snow course had 62 inches of snow pack this month which is about 17 inches more than average and is an increase of 8 inches over last month. Last year for this date, there was a record 75 inches of snow depth on this course which is some 13 inches more than recorded this year.

West Twin snow course showed the same relative increase over last month's recorded depth by about 6 inches, bringing the snow pack to the 39.1 inch level.

The water content of the snow is up on both the Moscow Mountain and West Twin courses from last month. There is 19.1 inches compared to 18.3 inches of water on Moscow Mountain, and 11.9 inches compared to 11.6 for last month on West Twin.

East Twin, Crumarine, and Howard Creek all show a decrease in both water and snow depth. East Twin at 31.6 inches of snow, Crumarine at 14.8 inches, and Howard Creek at 9 inches. Most of the snow on Howard Creek fell over the weekend.

On the 28th, the Sherwin course near Bovill was measured by Fred Chugg. The survey found an increase of 5.8 in. over the 49.3 recorded last month to bring the total for the month to 55 inches, with 16.4 inches of water.

FERTILIZE SHADE TREES

A little fertilizer in the spring is good for a shade tree. The plant food improves color and gives the tree a chance to produce its finest foliage. A commercial fertilizer of high analysis, such as 10-10-10 is recommended by the county agent of the University of Idaho extension service. The amount is about two pounds for each inch of the trunk diameter, measured three feet from the ground. A tree 10-inches thick should, therefore, receive about 20 pounds.

Punch holes in the ground around the tree to a distance approximately that over which the branches spread. Roots of most species extend that far. It's the roots that need the nourishment Application close to the trunk is not desirable because holes near the base may damage the big roots.

Holes a foot deep will do if the tree is in heavy soil and roots are near the surface. In light soil the depth can be as much as 30 inches. Punch the holes with a crowbar and drop a little fertilizer into each one as it is made. Water the area first if the ground is dry. Moisture is required in the tree's use of fertilizer.

Cuisine Cum Laude

Our cook for this week was co-hostess for S. O. G. Club last Monday at her home and has shared with us the recipe for her main dish. Mrs. Oscar Danielson received many compliments on this chicken dish.

1 cup rice
1 pkg. dry onion soup mix
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1½ cans water
1 cut-up frying chicken, seasoned with salt and pepper

Butter a casserole dish and place rice in it. Mix soups and water together. Place chicken pieces on top of rice and pour soup mixture over this. Bake at 350 degrees one hour and 15 minutes. If rice becomes too thick, more water may be added. For a company dish, Mrs. Danielson uses the choice pieces.

Recipe serves about 4. Increase accordingly

Mr and Mrs Danielson reside in the lovely Genesee Valley where they have been engaged in farming for many years

Their three children are all married and are (Joyce) Mrs. Lester Diehl, Genesee; (Shirley), Mrs. Thomas Bucklin, Cincinnati, Ohio, and Danny, who serves with the army in the Hawaiian Islands. The Diehls have three sons, and Mr. Diehl is superintendent of schools here; Mr. and Mrs. Bucklin also have three children. Mr. Bucklin is with General Electric Corporation. Lt. Danielson is married, and he and his wife reside in Wahiawa, Oahu. The Danielson's spent some time this winter visiting in the Islands with their son.

Mr. and Mrs. Danielson are members of the Valley Lutheran Church, where she is secretary of the A. L. C. W.

IDAHO BOASTS MODERN FOREST TAX LAW

Governor Smylie last week signed a new forest land and timber tax law for the Gem State which foresters and forest land owners acclaim as the most fair, most equitable, and most modern forest tax law in the Nation.

The new law provides for annual taxes only on the land, and this valuation is based on the productivity of the land. Timber is assessed only once, at the time of harvest, and this tax will be at the same rate as for other personal property. State Forester Roer Guernsey reports that Idaho's new law should make private tree farming especially attractive in Idaho. He said the twin important features of Idaho's new law are: (1.) the tax is based on productivity of the land; and (2.) the timber crop is taxed only once, as are other crops.

The forester stated, "It is significant to note that Idaho's new law includes provisions very similar to recommendations just made to Georgia's Governor by his special Study Commission. Georgia is one of the top outstanding private tree farming states in the country."

SEARCH-RESCUE WORK

Incomplete records show that the Fish and Game Department spent over $5,000 in three years on search and rescue efforts. Participants in search and rescue work include many county, state and federal workers, as well as private individuals.

Lost or injured people who need help include picnickers and rock hounds, injured miners or sheepherders, drowned water skiiers or victims of back country automobile accidents, boat parties who are stranded in "impassable" river canyons, Boy Scouts or old folks who have lost their bearings, and Christmas tree cutters who have become stuck in the snowdrifts.

RETREAT AT ST. MARY'S

A Retreat, conducted by Fr. O'Malley, S. J. from St. Stanislaus Catholic church in Lewiston will be held for high school students of St. Mary's school on Sunday, May 2 at the church. The C. D. A. sponsored Retreat will start at 9 a. m., followed by a noon and evening meal, and closing with a high mass

Thirty-nine New Claims At Unemployment Office

Thirty-nine persons from Latah County filed new claims for Unemployment Insurance through the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment during the week ending April 3, 1965, according to a report made by Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow office manager. A combination of too much mud, and too many logs was responsible for most of the unemployment occurring during the week. A total number of workers currently receiving benefits, according to Hartstein's report, rose by only two, from 340 a week ago to 342 at the end of the current week. At this time last year 271 persons were receiving Unemployment Insurance. Most of the increase was noted in the Troy, Deary, Bovill area, and the Elk River vicinity, while some reduction was noted in the Potlatch neighborhood. Some of those who discontinued their claims returned to work, but others have exhausted their benefits, having drawn out all Unemployment Insurance available to them at this time, Hartstein explained. At the present time there are 97 persons living in the Moscow area receiving benefits, the same number as a week ago, and compared with a 123 a year ago. The Troy, Deary-Bovill area has 138 workers filing claims, as compared with 132 last week, and 11 last year. Elk River's claimants number 32, up from the 29 of the previous week, but down from the 49 of April 1964. Only at Potlatch was a decrease noted, with the current number at 74, as against 82 last week, and 88 last year. Nearly all of the new claims filed during the week were from workers in the area's lumber industry. Fifteen new jobs were listed with the Moscow department of employment during the week, the same number as for the previous week. However six workers were placed on jobs, as compared with ten during the week before. Among the workers placed were a waitress, sales clerk, secretary, and laborers. Hartstein reported that currently there are jobs available for bookkeepers, secretaries, other office workers, waitresses, cooks, maid, auto mechanic, farm hands salesmen and a motorboat mechanic.

Christian Science Church Service

The effect of our thinking on our health will be examined in this Sunday's Bible Lesson to be read at all Christian Science churches. The subject is "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?"

The responsive reading for the day begins with a verse from Isaiah: "For, behold, I create new heavens and a new earth: and the former shall not be remembered, nor come into mind."

Related passages will be presented from the Christian Science textbook, including these lines: "Instead of God sending sickness and death, He destroys them, and brings to light immortality. When Christ changes a belief of sin or of sickness into a better belief, then belief melts into spiritual understanding, and sin, disease, and understanding, sin, disease, and death disappear" Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy pp 264,6

Unemployment Claims Continue To Rise

Further curtailment in the area's woods operations caused an additional number of new Unemployment Insurance claims to be filed through the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employment, Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager, said that 52 persons filed new benefit claims during the past week, forty-four of those were workers from the area's lumber industry. Most of the workers were from the Elk River area, and others from the eastern and northern parts of the county. Although 52 persons filed new claims, the total number of recipients of benefits increased by only four, from 342 last week to 346 now. One year ago there were 372. Several persons discontinued their claims because of having returned to work, while some others exhausted their claims, drawing out all of the benefits due them at this time. At the present time there are 90 workers drawing benefits due them in the immediate Moscow area, compared with 97 last week and 126 last year. In the Troy-Deary-Bovill area there are currently 133 workers receiving benefits, compared with 138 a week ago, and 108 a year ago. There are 73 persons receiving benefits in the Potlatch area, 74 were receiving them last week, and 86 last year at this time. Checks are going to 50 Elk River residents now, compared with 33 last week, and 52 at the same time last year.

Although the number of new jobs received during the week was down to 10, from 15 the previous week, the number of workers placed on jobs doubled, from 56 to 12 for the week just completed. Hartstein explained that at the present time there were 21 jobs still available for the area's job seekers. Among these were positions for secretaries, bookkeepers, a general office clerk, a sales clerk, cooks, waitress, maid and domestic workers for women. Men could find work as an auto mechanic, year-round farm hand, farm tractor operator, insurance investigator and salesmen. During the week, Hartstein said, women were placed in and around Moscow as a general office clerk and domestic workers. Men were assisted in finding work as general farm hands, tractor operators, a stock clerk and laborers.

Importance of God

God, the Father, Mighty King
The vastest universe could not exist
Not even the tiniest germ could live
Without Your fairest presence here.

God, in all Your power and glory
Who are we so small, indeed?
That if with You, we were compared
As nothingness to infinity.

Farmers Beginning Spring Work

Farmers in the Genesee area were either just getting started, or were ready to start their spring farm work this week as the weather held good and the warm sun was rapidly drying out the fields.

The aerial spray planes have been busy all week applying fertilizer over a good many fields and the ground was dry enough that some farmers were planning to start fertilizing with ground equipment.

Farmers in the Rim section which is always ahead of closer-to-town fields are moving along with their spring work at a rapid pace.

Some farmers will be forced to do quite a bit of re-seeding on the clay knolls and also on fields which suffered washing during the severe rains and cold weather that marked much of the early spring in this area.

Temperatures have been rising into sixties during the daytime and although frost has been noted several nights this past week it seems safe to assume that spring has finally arrived.

Community Day Chairmen To Meet Friday, April 23

The first meeting of chairmen for the various Community Day events will be held Friday evening, April 23, in the Firemen's Hall at 8:00 p. m This will give the general committee and each of the event chairmen a chance to make preliminary plans for the June 5 celebration.

The general committee met last Tuesday evening to discuss the overall operation and check the supplies left over from last year's Community Day. There are a number of supplies from 1964 which can be used for this year such as paper plates, cups, spoons, beans, etc.

The committee also took delivery of a used gas grill which will greatly increase the efficiency of the breakfast and hamburger concessions this year. The grill was purchased from a supplier in Spokane.

Five Candidates Selected

Five candidates for the Community Day Queen contest have already been selected, according to the Queen committee. The girls and their sponsors are: Dorothy Baumgartner, The Electric Shop; Sandra Lettenmaier, Rice's City Market; Judy Abbott, Esser Construction Co.; Karen Schooler, Lee's Hardware and Department Store, and Jerri Jackson, Asgrow Seed Co.

There are several other organizations who have indicated they wish to sponsor a candidate but have not yet made their selections. Junior girls who are still eligible for the queen contest are: Marcia Erickson, Janet Gilje, Diane Peterson, Peggy Wright, Marilyn Slead, and Nancy Taber

New Chairman Named

Two new chairmen have been named this week. The committee reported, Pauline Hermann will be chairman of the noon luncheon committee and Geo. Anderson will be in charge of the Breakfast Committee in place of Dick Scharnhorst who was forced to resign due to the press of other business on Community Day.

There is still a need for a chairman for the barbeque serving committee and a chairman for the horseshoe pitching concession. The work of the serving committee will be reduced this year inasmuch as the preparation committee under the supervision of Wayne Roach will be cooking the beans.

Buttons on Sale Soon

Mercedes Roach has taken delivery of the Community Day buttons and these will soon be on sale. The buttons this year will be red and white with the same design as in previous years.

Reunion Committee chairman is Don Springer, assisted by Mrs. Dick Scharnhorst. Plans are underway for reunions of the Class of 1915 and the Class for 1940 of Genesee High School. A meeting will be held soon and ideas are always welcome by the committee. Anyone with information about teachers or members of these two classes who may be far away are asked to contact Don.

Complaints Always Welcome At Post Office

Postmaster Verla Hall is one person who welcomes complaints. "Customer complaints assist us," she said, "in pinpointing specific problem areas in our postal operations just as they do in any other business." Too many people, Mrs. Hall explained, have the attitude that it does not do any good to report service deficiencies or instances of discourtesy.

"This is entirely wrong" she emphasized.

The prompt reporting of errors in handling of mail, or delays is necessary if the condition is to be corrected, she added. The longer a customer waits before making a report, the more difficult the solution becomes.

"No postal employee deliberately mishandles mail," he said. "When errors are made, the employee causing it needs correcting, or possibly additional training."

"Of course, not all conditions reported can lead to change," he added. "In some instances, the necessary restrictions placed upon postal operations in knolls and also on fields which suffered bulk and also the budget, manpower washing during the severe rains and cooling, or other operating conditions cold weather that marked much of the make it impossible to satisfy every individual complaint," she said. early spring in this area.

Such matters do receive consideration though, and, if present or future postal policies and conditions allow, are acted upon or are incorporated into future programs where practicable.

Seed Is Still the Important Item

Fertilizers, irrigation, cultivation, insecticides—all help Idaho's bean farmers produce top yields But none will do its job unless you plant the right amount of seed in the first place.

The importance of bean planting rates is emphasized by University of Idaho studies at the Twin Falls Branch Experiment station. Yield of field beans was cut 400 pounds an acre when plant spacing within rows was increased from 4 to 12inches.

Bush-type beans are especially affected by spacing within the rows, studies by Marshall LeBaron, station superintendent, and Leslie L. Dean, assistant plant pathologist, show. Plants spaced an average of two inches apart within the row produced highest yields. A 22 or 24-inch row spacing is recommended.

Semi-vining field bean varieties such as Red Mexican UI-34 are more tolerant to spacing variation. LeBaron and Dean found plant populations of 70,000 to 90,000 plants per acre produced the best. This requires an average plant spacing of 3 to 4 inches within rows if rows are planted 24 inches apart. But if rows are spaced 30 to 36 inches, plants should average 2½-inch spacing within rows. Yields from the semi-vining field beans were comparable either way.

The two scientists found that plant spacing within rows affects yield more than size or uniformity of seed.

They noted a weed problem in their experiments with thinner stands. Bean plants at spacings up to 6 inches held weeds well in check. At spacings wider than six inches, the plants were unable to choke out weeds within the rows.

LeBaron and Dean point out that the seed bean contractor's planting recommendations should be followed whenever they are given. Suggested planting rates to obtain recommended stands with different bean varieties are also available at your local county agricultural agent's office.

The opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the school, the instructor or this paper, but strictly of the students who wrote the article.)

REAPPORTIONMENT

The opinions expressed by this committee, composed of Rod Gilge, Mark Hampton, Larry Vestal, John Egland, David Durbin, and Laune Odenborg, is not the opinion of the school, or instructor but that of the committee alone, and does not criticize or defend either political party.

We, as a group, feel that the judiciary branch of the national government does not have the right to interfere in the reapportionment of the states. To prevent such interference we favor a 25th amendment to the Constitution of the United States. The 25th amendment would do the following:

1. "Guarantee the citizens of every state the right to decide for themselves, by one-man one-vote means, the apportionment of their own legislature."

2. "Guarantee that this power will not be curtailed or reviewed by any federal court."

3. "Guarantee that one house of each legislature can reflect factors other than population if such apportionment has been submitted to a vote of the people."

By ruling that the states should reapportion their legislatures, we feel that the National Government is interfering in the right of the people to decide how their state should be run. Although we feel that the National Government should not interfere in reapportionment of the states, we do feel that Idaho should reapportion.

We believe that Idaho should reapportion the House of Representatives, but not the Senate. The reason that the House should be reapportioned is so that the people will be equally represented. The reason the Senate should not is so that the minorities interest will be considered, and so that the interests of the geographical areas will also be considered.

UPLAND BIRD SEASONS

A procedural change brings the Fish and Game Commission into special session at Boise in May to establish closing dates and other regulation details for most big game seasons this fall. Opening dates were set in January to allow sportsmen to make long-range plans and arrange vacations to fall about the same time elk and deer openers do in various parts of the state.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Commission is scheduled to begin April 26. Opening dates for upland bird seasons will be set at that time, as well as some of the big game regulations. A public hearing will begin at 1:30 p. m. to hear testimony and consider evidence with respect to hunting seasons and regulations. This will be in the Director's office of the Fish and Game Department at Boise.

The special May meeting of the Commission will set closing dates for big game hunting. This always has been done in April, but the extra time this year will help the Department field men do a more thorough job of collecting and analyzing post-winter data about game and range conditions before closing dates, bag limits and other regulation details are set.

Realism will at length be found to surpass imagination, and to suit and savor all literature

GAME MEAT DISPOSAL

Wild meat salvaged by Department workers from highway-killed game animals or confiscated by court order may be sold under provisions of two Idaho laws, or distributed to charitable organizations. During recent years, the courts nearly always have directed that the game meat be given to tax supported, non-profit or charitable organizations, and persons on indigent county rolls.

Sometimes meat from animals killed in highway collisions is salvaged. Other animals, birds and fish are unclaimed. In such cases the meat, fowl and fish are distributed to needy persons and organizations under orders from the Department Director.

Birds, animals and fish illegally taken are subject to confiscation by the courts following their use as evidence and disposition of the meat is left to the discretion of the courts. n such cases, written orders are given to conservation officers by the magistrates. The officers are required to obtain receipts from the recipients

Last year, 44 deer, 12 elk, 10 moose, 2 sheep and 1 antelope were allocated to non-profit organizations and needy individuals. The record shows also that the same end came to 5 partridges, 17 grouse, 40 pheasants, 9 doves, 35 ducks, 7 geese and 1 chukar.

Right alone is irresistible, permanent, eternal.

PORPOISE PROJECT STUMPS THE NAVY

PORPOISES are one of the big mysteries of the sea, even after years of observation. We still don't know how these mammals generate their sonar detection system, how they avoid the 'bends" when surfacing after deep dives, or how they get their reputation for speed. Sailors report porpoises swim rings around ships traveling 40 miles an hour but in clocked speed trails they do only 20 miles per hour for the Navy. The researchers have taught them several tricks, however, including homing in on underwater signals and retrieving hats, balls and sticks.

PLANTS can be infected by man, Louisana State University reports. The scientists have transferred to plants a disease-producing fungus carried by man. While not a threat to human life, the organism wreaks havoc with some fruits and vegetables when samples are placed in cuts made in their skin. Such research may lead to more effective controls of plant diseases, says the University . . . A MEASLES VACCINE for infants has been developed. The American Medical Association says the vaccination, done with "killed virus" vaccine, can be given to tots as young as three months old, increasing their resistance to the disease.

SHAME and guilt feelings have an inborn relationship to "instinctual drives" and perform an essential function in controlling the drives, Harvard University psychiatrists theorize. Shame, they say, is an unpleasant feeling which leads to a cautious approach to others, while guilt is a response to a special type of inner self-attack. . . . GRANDMA'S METHOD for curing hams — soaking them in barrels of brine — might have been a picturesque process but it's far too slow for today's production-line food-processing technique. Now meat packers use a machine developed by Allbright Nell, Chicago, that injects pickle (brine) into hams passing through on a conveyor belt. It can cure up to 15,000 pounds of ham an hour.

OCEANOGRAPHIC RESEARCH is tedious because current equipment is primitive, says the Atomic Energy Commission. However, a new probing device being developed by the AEC may speed up the work. It resembles a rocket and uses gamma rays to measure the density and thickness of sediment layers. By recording the amount of nuclear radiation stopped or scattered by the sea floor, the operators wil be able to measure the sediment density . . . . PASSENGERS won't need a ticket to get high on an airliner in Kansas City. It's a Super G Constellation that has been moored in concrete and turned into a bar. Owners say the plane, which originally cost $3.5 million, will even have hostesses to serve cocktails.

Christian Science Church Service

What do Jesus' sufferings and triumphs mean to us today? This is the underlying question to be taken up at all Christian Science churches this Sunday. The subject is "Doctrine of Atonement." The Bible Lesson to be read will include this verse from II Corinthians: 'Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become anew." The theme will be carried through in related readings from the Christian Science textbook: "He to whom the arm of the Lord is revealed will believe our report, and rise into newness of life with regeneration. This is having part in the atonement; this is the understanding in which Jesus suffered and triumphed." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p24).

A CENTURY OF SERVICE TO THE PEOPLE OF IDAHO

APRIL 14, OUR 100th ANNIVERSARY

When furs were money and wagons were schooners J. C. Anderson started a trading post at what now is Idaho Falls. Trappers, traders and miners brought their furs, gold and valuables to the post for safekeeping. The Anderson Brothers Bank prospered and grew through the years to the First Security System of Banks — with 44 offices in 36 Idaho communities today.

Idaho has had a great history of growth and progress to which First Security has made substantial contributions. In the past five years alone, we have paid more than 13½ million dollars in interest on savings accounts deposited with us. In addition, during these same five years, we have made over 300,000 loans amounting to more than 1 billion 110 million dollars to individuals and businesses in Idaho. This, indeed, is banking that is building Idaho!

From the past 100 years we draw inspiration as well as experience, both of which aid us in providing ever better and more helpful banking service to the people of Idaho.

Highest Rate of Natural Increases Is In Idaho

The State of Idaho has one of the highest rates of natural increases in population, according to a 60-page special research report released this week by Dr. Harry C. Harmsworth, chairman of sociology at the U. of I.

Titled "Population Trends in Idaho 1950-1960," the report indicates that Idahoans are following a national trend of leaving the rural areas for the urban places.

The report is a continuation of a study the author compiled and completed 10 years ago on the population trends during the 60-year period, 1890 to 1950. The previous report also dealt with population in Idaho.

"Population and population growth became a subject of worldwide concern during the 1950's," according to Dr. Harmsworth. "In this decade the dismal circumstances of over-population and destitution, so evident in the under developed countries of the world, bro't to public awareness the population predictions of 160 years ago."

The report, using graphs and tables, illustrates the population trends in Idaho, in comparison to other Western states, and within centers in Idaho according to size of place for the census decade, 1950-1960.

Also indicated by the report was the fact that large farms lost a greater percentage of population than did the smaller farms, particularly of Ada and Canyon counties. Many more figures and comparisons are made by the report on the in and out-migrations of the people of the State of Idaho.

ICE CREAM EASTER EGGS

A simple Easter dessert is our recipe for this week. Using vanilla ice cream, scoop into balls. Shape each oblong as an egg. Sprinkle coconut in a bag, add food coloring and shake. You may prepare several colors in this way. Roll the balls of ice cream in the different colored coconut. Replace them in your freezer on a flat pan until ready to serve. For dessert place green tinted coconut in center of plate, place two ice creams eggs (or three) in coconut, add a few Easter candies or a small chocolate bunny and you have a delicious simple dessert that will please your youngsters and your guests. Cookies in chicken or bunny shapes would compliment the ice cream, also. Of course, other flavors of ice cream may be used, such as pistachio, peppermint, or strawberry. Tint accordingly, and arrange several colors together.

4-H Girls Learn What To Wear and How to Wear It

"She walks in beauty" could well be the theme of the 4-H Dress Revue program now underway throughout the State. Scores of girls are planning to model in the county, and hopefully, in the state revue this year.

The young models make their own clothes, choose accessories, and are coached in grooming and modeling. Local 4-H Club leaders and county extension agents supervise the work.

Another valuable assist is given by Miss Eleanor Echo, 4-H stylist with Simplicity Pattern Co., Inc. sponsor of the program. Miss Echo visits many clubs and helps plan and stage the dress revue

One of the most rewarding undertakings for club members, leaders say, is learning to appraise each other's outfit and what to consider in judging the garment and the model as well.

"Taking part in a dress revue gives a girl a chance to take a walk around herself," our leader claims.

Even beginners can participate. Their first sewing effort is usually an apron or a simple skirt Older girls who have devoted several years to the project appear in complete ensembles, smart sports attire or party clothes.

Culmination of the program is the annual dress revue held during the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago. Here 50 of the nation's attractive young ladies model their prize-winning clothes The prize in this case is the trip to the week-long congress.

A set of dressmaking scissors is presented by Simplicity to the state winners at the congress. County medals are also awarded.

The sweet old lady smiled at the girl who had been left in charge of the bakery. "Don't you sometimes feel tempted to eat one of the cup-cakes?"

"Of course not! That would be stealing I only lick them."

A gangster on trial for murder bribed a juror with $100 to hold out for a verdict of manslaughter. After being out for a long time, the jury returned the desired verdict.

"I'm very grateful to you," the gangster told the juror. "Did you have much trouble?"

'Sure did," he replied. "I had a hard time. All the others wanted to acquit you."

Kathy Zenner Named GHS "Girl of the Month"

Kathy Zenner, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Zenner, of Genesee, was named "Girl of the Month" for March, 1965, at Genesee High School.

The "Girl of the Month" is chosen on: activity in the Girls Club, enthusiastic interest and participation, attitude toward school work, other outside activities, and grade average. Kathy was presented with a red carnation corsage on dress-up day, March 26.

Some of Kathy's activities are: Sophomore class secretary, F. H. A. treasurer, secretary of Genesee Livestock 4-H Club, Girls Club member, majorette and Girls Chorus member. Kathy has also maintained an "A" average in all her classes for the past two years and was recently named Assistant Editor for the 1966 Annual.

The "Girl of the Month" awards will be given each month to an outstanding Girls Club member and at the end of the school year a "Girl of the Year" will be named.

W. Bakes Named Delegate To National PTA Congress

Warren Bakes, Genesee Elementary School principal and sixth grade teachers, will attend the National Congress of Parents and Teachers in Albuquerque, New Mexico next month. Bakes was selected as delegate at the spring conference of District 2, Idaho P. T. A. Saturday in Orofino. The national meet will be held May 16 through 19. Districts 1 and 2 combined funds to send one delegate.

Saturday's conference was opened with the flag salute, led by members of Brownie Troop 447. After the invocation, a group of girls sang "Stepping Stones." Frances Portfors welcomed the delegation to Orofino.

State and district officers attending were Harold Blood, president; Mrs. Gary Morris, secretary, and Mrs. Dick Scharnhorst, publicity chairman; District 2, Mrs. Fred Wolfe, vice-president. Clearwater County, Dean Lodge and Mrs. Bill Shawley, Kamiah officers; Mrs. Arthur Oslund, Coeur d'Alene, state P. T. A. publications; Mrs. Ruby Hart, Sandpoint, District 1, president, and Paul Byrne, Lewiston council president.

Speakers included Dr. Hervon Snider, head of Department of Education, University of Idaho; Dr. Myrick Pullen, superintendent, State Hospital North, Orofino, and Dean Lodge, Kamiah. Dr. Snider called on P. T. A. members to communicate and understand with each other and members of the community. He stressed that we must not relax in striving for better education for our young. In this country, one and a half million additional children enroll each year and we must prepare for them. Everything costs six times as much as it did in 1910, including education, but an environment such as we have requires educated people. He explained "Operation Headstart" (Idahonian, April 19), which will give 2,000 Idaho preschoolers a new boost. These youngsters are from economically deprived families.

Dr. Pullen and Dr. Green talked on local problems of P. T. A. and the audience participated. They asked the question, "How Far Can We Go, as P. T. A. Members, to Get Others to Become Aware of Current Problems?"

Luncheon was served by members of the Orofino group. Mrs. Larry Holibaugh was chairman of the conference. Mrs. Dick Scharnhorst gave a poem by Mrs. Anna H. Hayes, former national president from Idaho, and poet of note.

During the afternoon, roll call of units was taken and these awards given: Gold leaf awards to units having the most parents members per child according to school population, to Lewiston Pre-School, Jennifer Jr. High, and Whitman, Lewiston; Genesee, Bovill, and Lapwai. Gold leaf award to unit with most men members per child enrollment to Centennial, Lewiston Orchards. Announcements included Idaho Mental Health Convention, April 30 and May 1, Lewiston; National Convention, May 16-19, Albuquerque, New Mexico; Workshops for officers, June 8-9, U. of I., Moscow, and state convention, Idaho Congress of Parents and Teachers, Lewiston, November.

Mrs. Myrick Pullen spoke on current legislation.

A nominating committee for next year's officers will be Paul Byrne, Lewiston; Mrs. Larry Holibaugh, Orofino, and Mrs. Helen Preeze, Grangeville. Motions were entertained for next year conference.

Workshops were held for new officers and chairmen and a general question and answer period was held. The meeting adjourned at 3:00 p. m.

Others attending from Genesee were Mrs. Vernon Peterson, this year's president, and president-elect Warren Bakes and Mrs. Bakes.

Clocks Go Ahead For Daylight Saving Time

Daylight Saving Time, blessed by some and cursed by others, will go into effect early Sunday morning, April 25. Among those who generally appreciate this yearly phenomenon are business men and wage earners who work a regular 8 to 5 shift. It allows them more time in the evenings to work in yards and garden. Farmers, as a general rule, aren't quite as enthusiastic about the time change.

Daylight Saving Time goes into effect at 2 a. m. Sunday, April 25, at which time all clocks should signal the hour of 3 a. m. Clocks will continue to run one hour ahead until the last Sunday in October, when, for better or worse, they will be set back to standard time.

It can be assumed that most people will not wait up until Sunday morning at 2 a. m. to move their clocks and watches ahead one hour—this will be done Saturday night before retiring.

Civic Association Discusses Organizational Plans, Dues

Re-organization plans were still one of the main topics of discussion at the regular meeting of the Genesee Civic Association held Wednesday noon at Carter's. Much of the discussion centered around the topic of dues for the members of the association

It was brought out by President Larry Sorensen that a budget of at least $250 per year would be necessary to carry on the work of the former Merchants Association which disbanded when the new association was formed. After hearing several opinions on the subject, it was moved that the dues be five dollars per year for each family wishing to join and each business firm would pay ten dollars per year.

The dues would be per family instead of individually and both the husband and wife would be welcome to attend meetings of the organization. Membership cards and posters will be available in the near future.

AEC'S SPACE 'DOG' GOBBLES POLONIUM

ROCKETS operating in outer space may be powered by "poodles". That's the name given to a new engine being tested by the Atomic Energy Commission. The unit is smaller than conventional rocket engines because it will be used only in outer space and won't have to generate the high horsepower normally required to escape the earth's gravitational field. Power is supplied by the radioactive decay of polonium-210, raising the temperature of the rocket's hydrogen fuel, which then is expelled through a nozzle at high velocity.

MUSHROOM LOVERS should be careful about their drinking habits. The new England Journal of Medicine reports that four mushroom hunters, who had eaten "inky cap" mushroom, become violently ill after drinking beer the next day. Inky caps may be eaten with no toxic effects, even if the meal is topped off with an alcoholic beverage, doctors say, but if the drinking be done many hours later the poison-like symptoms occur.

CONTRARY to popular opinion, you can't make ice cubes faster by filling the tray with hot water, say heating experts. However, water that has been heated and then allowed to cool will freeze faster because the heating has driven out the air bubbles . . . A NEW ORLEANS candy maker has combined forces with a Louisville food processing machinery firm to make glad the heart of youth and, incidentally, increase sales. Votator, of Louisville, reports that installation of a piece of equipment known as a scraped-surface heat exchanger, together with other production line modifications, has almost doubled a candy plant's output in an eight-hour shift, to 192,000 bars of candy.

APPALACHIA'S abundant water resources are a mixed blessing, says the Department of the Interior. Rainfall runoff from mining areas where coal has been left exposed carries sulphuric acid into streams, killing fish and vegetation and eating away bridges, piers, boats, etc. Also, floods cover six million acres of lowland on an average of once every ten years. Government water experts fear that further economic development of Appalachia may aggravate the problem.

SUICIDE is one of the first 10 causes of death in the U. S., reports the American Medical Association, with 20,000 suicides reported annually. A 35-year-old woman who feels depressed and rejected on a Wednesday night is one of the most frequently recurring types of persons considering suicide, according to the statistical picture presented by an AMA study of the problem. . . . Weeds and Grass Can Kill Young Trees

Weeds and grass kill many tiny trees in new plantings. The answer may lie in chemicals that destroy the undesirable growth, according to information the county agricultural agent had this week from Vernon Burlison, U. of I. extension forester. Research by F. H. Pitkin and Howard Loewenstein of the forestry staff at Moscow, he said, shows that competition from weeds and grass is the most important factor in the death of young trees. Test plots kept free of vegetation survive much better in dry seasons.

Treatment with Simazine was found to be an effective substitute for cultivation. An 80 per cent formulation of Simazine, mixed with water and sprayed over the trees at the rate of two and one-half and four pounds per acre gave good control of all annual weeds and grasses. Perennial plants were set back but not entirely stopped.

Burlison said tests in Oregon showed outstanding results from Atrazine. Five pounds were sprayed last April directly over an acre of fir trees two feet high. The trees had been stunted by competition with bent grass and bracken fern. They were yellow and sickly. By August the firs were dark green and had developed heavier stems and thicker buds than trees in adjacent unsprayed areas. Bent grass was killed without injury to the trees. Atrazine is said to be more soluble in water than Simazine and to be more effective against a wider range of weeds. Simazine is effective longer, however In northern Idaho plots, Simazine was found to do a satisfactory weed-control job 2 seasons after it was applied.

Either of the chemicals can be used successfully at rates that will control weeds without hurting the trees, Burlison said. The time to spray is early spring before come up or in the fall. Spring applications are recommended on light soils. On new plantings either of the chemicals should be applied after trees are in the ground.

It is right and might that govern everything in this world—might waiting on right.

ELEVEN FIND EMPLOYMENT THROUGH MOSCOW OFFICE

Eleven Latah County workers were assisted in finding employment through the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment during the past week. Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office manager reported that this compared with 12 persons finding work through the office during the previous week, and 10 finding jobs during the same week a year ago. There were 20 new job listings received in the office during the week. Women were placed as general office workers and domestic workers, while men were referred to such jobs as farm tractor operators and laborers. Currently women could find work as secretaries, typists, licensed practical nurse, cooks, waitresses, cocktail waitress according to Hartstein's report. Men who are qualified could find work as farm tractor operators, a sheet metal worker, a dairy hand, salesmen, and an insurance investigator.

The number of persons receiving unemployment insurance through the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment declined from 346 to 324 during the past week. Hartstein stated this week that some workers had returned to work, particularly in the construction field, and some others had gone to work on area farms. A few workers exhausted their claims for benefits, and therefore were forced to discontinue their claims. One year ago there were 345 persons throughout the area receiving benefits. The largest group of unemployment insurance recipients are located in the Troy-Deary-Bovill area, where 125 workers are receiving benefits. One week ago there were 133 in that area, and at this time last year 99. Nearly all of these workers are from the lumber industry. There were 65 workers receiving unemployment insurance from the Potlatch area compared with 73 last week, and 79 one year ago. Checks went to 53 persons in the Elk River area this week, compared with 50 a week ago, and 55 in April, 1964. There were 81 Moscow area residents filing claims as compared with 90 last week and 112 at that same time one year ago. Hartstein explained that most of the workers who had exhausted their benefits were those who were entitled to the minimum of 10 weeks compensation, or in some cases to just a few more. For the most part, those were workers who had a minimum of work in covered employment in Idaho in 1963. Only seventeen persons filed new claims during the week, indicating a lot less new unemployment than during the previous week, when 52 persons filed new claims. Most of the new claims were filed by workers in the lumber industry with a few having been filed by newcomers into the area, and by recently discharged servicemen.

PRAYER OF A PIONEER

Dear Lord, I have so far to go
O'er lofty mountains topped with snow
Long winding rivers, forests deep
Always a different place to sleep.

But you, My Lord, have known it, too
A very long road to walk had you
The length and breadth of Palestine
All in three years of wandering time.

"My advice, sir," said the mechanic, "is that you keep the oil and change the car."

Television certainly has increased the cost of living. Twenty years ago you could see a Western for 25 cents Now it costs you $200. Same Western, too.

Something is always keeping a body from making a heap o'money all in one Take this here wife, for instance. She took out a big insurance policy on her husband. But every time she saved up enough money to buy a gun, the tax collector came around and took it away from her.

Cuisine Cum Laude

Mrs. Harry Egland, Sr. recommends these delicious rolls, if the cook does not mind a little extra work. She says they are perfect for a brunch, as well as other meals. The recipe came from a booklet put out by the Washington Water Power Company in 1940, by their home economist.

ORANGE ROLLS

1 cake compressed yeast
1 cup milk (scald and cool)
one-fourth cup sugar
1 egg (or two egg yolks and 1 tablespoon water)
1 teaspoon salt
3½ cups flour
one-fourth cup soft shortening (part butter)

Crumble the yeast into a bowl. Add the lukewarm milk, sugar, and salt. Stir to dissolve completely. Add the well-beaten egg. Sift flour once before measuring. Add all of the flour to the liquid at once and work it in with the hands or with an electric mixer. Work in the shortening. Knead gently in the bowl or on a board Place in a greased bowl. Cover with a damp cloth and set in a warm place to rise (about two hours). Punch down and let rise almost 45 minutes. Remove from bowl, knead lightly and allow to stand on board about 15 minutes. Roll one-third inches thick into a narrow oblong, about 9x18. Spread with cold, thick orange filling and roll as for jelly roll Punch edges and seal firmly. Cut with a sharp knife into slices from 1 to 1½ inches thick. Place in a pan, cut side down. Cover and let rise 40 to 45 minutes and bake in 375 to 400 degree oven 20 to 25 minutes.

Orange Filling

2 tablespoons orange rind
½ cup orange juice and pulp
1 cup sugar
½ cup butter

Mix ingredients together in a sauce pan and cook until thick. These rolls may be glazed on top with a paste made from powdered sugar and orange juice.

Mr. and Mrs. Egland are retired farmers and now reside in town. They are the parents of six children and have 14 grandchildren. Their youngest son, John is a senior in Genesee High School. RICE-FITCH VOWS RECITED APRIL 17

Miss Linda Lee Rice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Rice, and Lawrence R. Fitch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fitch, Idaho Falls, Idaho, were united in marriage Saturday evening, April 17th at 7:30 p. m. in the Genesee Community Church.

The Rev. Lowell Messley performed the double ring ceremony before an altar of pink carnations and white gladioli.

Mrs. Stephen (nee Linda Hynes) Meyers, of Moscow, sang "Because," and 'The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Charles Airhart.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of silk organza over taffeta. The fitted chantilly lace bodice was designed with a scalloped neckline encrusted with crystal sequins and pearls, and featured a basque waistline, and long-pointed lace sleeves. The controlled bell skirt was enriched by garlands of lace down the front. The dress was also enhanced by an exquisite chapel train of silk organza with wide borders of chantilly lace, complimented by an imported lace mantilla.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenia, centered with a white rose corsage and trimmed with ivy.

Miss Dawn Hoduffer, long-time friend, was maid of honor, and Miss Barbara Fitch, sister of the groom was bridesmaid. Both wore identical floor-length gowns of peppermint green silk organza over taffeta. The fitted bodice was designed with a scoop neckline, Dior sleeves and a high waist. The A-line skirts was accented at the back by a large obi bow, with headpieces of matching flower petals and nylon net, and carried nosegays of white carnations and roses.

Pamela Rice, of Yakima, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress was pink nylon.

Gordon Graham, of Idaho Falls, was best man, and ushers were Robert Rice, of Great Falls, Montana, and Gary Rice, Yakima, brothers of the bride.

Miss Susan Zehner, of Grangeville, was in charge of the guest book.

Mother of the bride wore a lime green knit sheath and white accessories with white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a two-piece pink outfit, white accessories with a white orchid corsage.

The reception was held following the ceremony in Fellowship Hall with Mrs. Della Rice, of Lebanon, Kansas, and Mrs. Robert E. Lee, Grangeville, both grandmothers of the bride, pouring. Mrs. Gary Rice and Mrs. Robert Rice, sisters-in-law of the bride, cut and cake.

The bride chose for her going-away outfit a two-piece turquoise suit with white accessories and the white rose corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Genesee's first justice of the peace Squire Markham, was none other than the brother of Edwin Markham, the famous poet. While on a visit here the noted man was exposed to all the hustle and bustle occasioned by the arrival of spring . . . . . all this impressed the visiting Mr. M. so much that Genesee residents thought later when he wrote "The Man With The Hoe" they attributed the sights he saw here as being the inspiration for this classic.

Also included in this special of May 3, 1935 issue were early school days related by pioneer Mrs. Sarah Elliott; GHS Alumni Letters, and Alumni Rolls of GHS, and a commencement address of 1902 by Emma Christenson.

OXYGEN, WATER AND PLASTIC

A new method for transporting trout to high mountain lakes is increasing the survival rate, reducing time and labor costs. It substitutes plastic bags for 10-gallon milk cans. Fish and water, weighing only three pounds, are placed in plastic bags and inflated with oxygen. The filled bags are placed in an insulated pack box containing six to eight pounds of ice. This holds temperatures between 38 and 45 degrees.

A horse can carry three of these and a total of 24,000 fingerlings—enough fish to stock six lakes.

Modern Political "Party Line"
Everyone can join in the discussion when members of the Wenatchee Chamber of Commerce Legislative Committee get "on the spot" reports from their representatives at the State Capitol. Shown here using a two-way SPEAKERPHONE suggested by Gen Tel are (L. to R.) Lloyd V. Eastman (Chamber Manager), Craig R. Lawrence, W. H. "Jack" Ramsey, Howard C. Elmore and Glenn A. Woods of the committee. Eastman reports: "Every day we find new uses for the SPEAKERPHONE; today we'll be using it to talk with a company that is considering a new plant here."

Christian Science Church Service

The Christian's approach to final victory over death will be a central theme of all Christian Science Churches this Sunday. The subject is "Probation After Death". One of the Bible selections to be read is from Galatians: "He that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting."

Also included in the Lesson-Sermon will be these lines from the denominational textbook: Emerge gently from matter into Spirit. Think not to thwart the spiritual ultimate of all things, but come naturally into Spirit through better health and morals and as the result of spiritual growth. Not death, but the understanding of life, makes man immortal." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 485).

In truth, people can generally make time for what they choose to do; it is not really the time but the will that is lacking.

Cuisine Cum Laude

You can always count on franks to make a hit with the whole family, especially with the young folks. So, when they ask to have friends in, serve these delicious and easy to prepare "Hot Dog Bar-B-Q's." The sauce is an extra good one; not too sweet or too tangy. Prepare plenty of them, there'll be calls for seconds.

HOT DOG BAR-B-Q

½ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon fat
1 cup extra hot catsup
2 tbbl. pickle relish
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
one-fourth teaspoon salt; dash pepper
8 to 10 frankfurters
8 to 10 hot dog buns, split and toasted

Cook onion in hot fat till tender but not brown. Stir in catsup, pickle relish, sugar, vinegar, and seasonings. Score franks; add to sauce. Simmer until frankfurters are thoroughly heated, about 10 minutes. Serve in hot toasted buns.

Have plenty of baked beans and potato chips, too.

One can always trust to time. Insert a wedge of time, and nearly everything straightens itself out.

STATE PLACES FUNDS IN GENESEE BANK

The First Security Bank, Genesee, this week received a check from State Treasurer Margorie Ruth Moon, representing its share of the yearly reapportionment of state funds placed in banks through out Idaho.

The local bank received an additional $1408 to be credited to the state account maintained here. This sum was figured on the amount of capital and surplus of the bank as compared to that of all banks in the state eligible to receive state deposits under the Public Despository Law, Miss Moon explained. This brings the balance in the state account here to $14,481.

A total of $2,000,000,000 was divided among 107 banks, she reported. Not all banks of Idaho are eligible to receive deposits; only those which put up the necessary security required by Idaho law may receive a state account, Miss Moon explained.

The new allocation brings to $12,000,000,000.00 the amount of state funds in non-operating accounts in Idaho banks, the treasurer reported.

"We hope to be able to maintain the dormant balances for as long a time as possible," Miss Moon said, "since such balances play an important part in the economic well-being of an area. During 1964, we were fortunate in that we were able to maintain our dormant balances in the banks throughout Idaho without at any time having to draw in funds for the state's operating accounts in Boise. This was an improvement over previous years when the state treasurer had to bring in some of the funds from the banks outside of Boise, usually in October or November.

The company of just and righteous men is better than wealth and a rich estate.

MARY MAGEE BRIDE OF JOHN WHITCRAFT

The marriage of Miss Mary Kay Magee to John Whitcraft was solemnized Saturday, April 10 at 11:00 a. m. at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Genesee.

The Rev. Fr. B C. McCarthy officiated at the double ring ceremony in a beautiful setting of baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums and candelabra with white tapers. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Magee of Genesee, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Whitcraft, of Knox, Indiana.

Mrs. Wilson Esser was the organist, and accompanied Joy and Marilyn Esser who sang, "Ava Maria," and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Cahill original gown of white organza with venetian lace trim at the neckline and on the elbow length sleeves. Lace also encircled the waistline and extended down the front of the controlled bell skirt and around the hem which formed a flowing chapel train. She carried a bouquet of white stephanotis centered with a white orchid and matching streamers.

Mikilana Magee was her sister's maid of honor and wore a floor length gown of aqua and turquoise shantistick fashioned with a scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves. A fold of matching fabric accented the empire line of the modified sheath skirt and a watteau panel fell from a bow at the back neckline. She wore a matching headbow with a circular illusion veil and carried a nosegay of carnations and feather mums with matching streamers.

Bridesmaids were Jody Magee, sister of the bride, and Margaret Keller. They were dressed as the maid of honor with like bouquets. Margo Britzmann, flower girl, was dressed as attendants. Danny Britzmann was ring bearer and Larry McBride, best man. Ushers were Jim Hobson and Larry McMenimen.

Mrs. Magee chose a coral lace dress with matching coat for her daughter's wedding. She wore white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held at Carter's immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. George Bertrand and Mrs. Julian Lundgren served the cake, and Mrs. Don Springer and Mrs. Charles Baumgartner poured. Mrs. Dave Primus, Mrs. Duane Roach and Miss Linda Springer were at the gift table. Miss Nancy Brigham was in charge of the guest book.

Mrs. Whitcraft changed to a navy suit with matching hat and white accessories for a trip to the coast. She wore the orchid from her bouquet. Following their short honeymoon trip they will be home at 7351/2 Brent Drive, Moscow.

Both the bride and bridegroom are students at the University of Idaho and plan to continue their studies there.

Many guests attended from Moscow, Spokane, Seattle, Kennewick, Lewiston, and Lapwai.

Exhibit at Lee's Will Recall Early Motion Picture Era

Al Justin Ohlson, a pioneer motion picture technician, now retired and living in Genesee, will have a special exhibit of the silent film era and a commercial art display in Lee's Store beginning Saturday, May 8 and continuing for 1 week.

Mr. Ohlson became attracted to the possibilities of the then-new motion picture industry shortly after the turn of the century and while visiting the studios of Thomas Edison in Menlo Park, New Jersey, it was that famous inventor himself who urged young Ohlson to "get into the film business."

Taking Edison's advice, he became associated with Melies Star Films in 1910, working with that organization for three years before joining the Vitagraph Company and later going over to work with the original Paramount Studios in Long Island, New York. He also worked for Cosmopolitan Studios, owned by William Randolph Hearst before finally working with RCA in experimental sound reproduction for motion pictures.

When the movies began a mass movement to Hollywood, California in 1929, Mr. Ohlson retired from the business to accept the position as Art Director for Continental Baking Co., where he remained until retirement in 1940.

On display at Lee's will be some of Ohlson's mementos of a long and interesting career. These include an early motion picture camera; a scale model of the "Black Maria," the first motion picture studio in the world. A scale model of a nickelodeon, a forerunner of the modern motion picture theatre, and exhibits of commercial art work.

Reason for Free Barbecue On Community Day Explained

As plans progress for the annual Community Day Celebration to be held June 5, a number of people have questioned committee chairmen as to why the barbecue evening meal is given away without cost or charge. Some feel that a charge should be made in order to realize as much profit from Community Day as possible.

To answer this the general committee said they were aware that possibly some more money could be made by selling the barbecue but other factors entered into the situation. First, other than the meat which is purchased, much of the meal is donated by firms as a public relations acknowledgment and with the understanding that the meal is free. This includes beans, pickles, bread, etc. If we were to charge then these companies might not be so willing to donate —thus the cost of the meal would increase. Second, the town is staging this community celebration and people who will be visiting Genesee will be asked to pay for the breakfast, the trapshoot, concessions, luncheon, talent show, and dance. It is the thinking of the committees that since charges are made for practically everything, it is only good business to offer something free. This free meal can also serve to attract people who might not otherwise attend the day.

To help meet the cost of paying for the meat, the committees have, in the past, accepted cash donations and will do so again this year.

Meal Committees Meet Monday

The General Committee will meet with the breakfast, luncheon, barbecue and serving committee Monday evening, May 10 at 8:00 p. m. in the Firemen's Hall. Both Chairmen and committee members are asked to attend.

INTERVENTION INTO HYDROELECTRIC POWER

The following statements are not necessarily the opinions of this school, administration, or any political parties; but is the opinion of the majority of the members of this committee from the United States Government Class of Genesee High School under the direction of Mr. Jones. THE PROBLEM

Over many previous years, a controversy has developed over the control of power by private industries or state or federal government. There are three power administrations under federal control. These are Bonneville power, Southeastern power, and Southwestern power. The function of the administrations are to market power produced by the various federal projests. In our immediate area we are directly concerned with, and in contact with Bonneville Power Administration. At the present time, the power produced by B. P. A. is sold to private power companies.

We as a group feel that if the now federally controlled dams were controlled by private industry that the private industry would only be interested in making a profit. They would not be as greatly concerned with conservation, down water flood control, irrigation, and recreation, as is the federal government. It is also felt that if the dams were under state control that they also wouldn't provide the multipurpose uses the federal dams now give the people.

As it is set up now, the federal government has these dams built for other purposes besides only producing power. They are set up with the idea of down stream flood control, conservation, and recreation along with the idea of aiding people in obtaining reasonable power.

From our research, we have come to the conclusion that the limited federal government intervention into the production of power is not bad. We feel that the other policies and multi-purpose uses set by the national government in constructing hydroelectric power dams aid the people more than private industry could afford or state control would do.

Plant Lettuce Early

For Idaho salad fans, growing conditions in many parts of the state are favorable for production of several favorite varieties of lettuce, says Tony Horn, horticulturist of the University of Idaho extension service. Lettuce is a cool weather crop, It can be planted early. Once the plants are hardened off they can stand several degrees below freezing. Early planting is a safeguard against formation of seed stalks in some varieties and bitter leaves in others.

Garden soil high in organic matter and enriched with fertilizer is recommended. Application of one pound of a 10-10-0 or similar plant food to 100 square feet sets the stage for a successful crop.

Leaf lettuce—characterized by loose leaves—matures more rapidly than other kinds. Salad Bowl, Grand Rapids, and Black-Seeded Simpson are among the varieties that do well in Idaho. They reach their peak in about 50 days from planting. The Butterhead of Boston-type matures in about 70 days.

Bibb lettuce is suitable for spring or fall. Transplants rather than seed usually do best. High temperature causes some Bibb varieties to go to seed. Recent types such as Summer Bibb resist heat. Buttercrunch is similar to Bibb but larger.

Head lettuce takes more time than leaf types. The growing season may be shortened, as in the case of Bibb varieties, by using started pants. Kinds that grow well in Idaho include Great Lakes, Progress, Pennlake, Cornell 456 and the Imperial 44.

Depressed Wheat Prices Hurts Idaho Economy

Depressed prices for Idaho wheat are costing the state's main street economy millions of dollars which farmers don't have to spend for new equipment, according to a survey conducted by the Idaho State Wheat Growers Association.

Association president Myron Sorensen, Malad, said questionnaires returned by 475 wheat growers provided an inventory of farm equipment and plans for replacement on the basis of various prices for wheat. The results, he said, showed that a large proportion of Idaho's wheat growing machinery is aging and worn, but growers cannot afford to buy new equipment at anywhere near the replacement rates of more prosperous years.

The present price of wheat, he said, was about $1.20 per bushel at Idaho elevators. At this current price, the 475 operators reported they planned to buy 14 crawler tractors, 11 wheel tractors, 31 combines, 35 large trucks and 39 pickup trucks with a total value of $616,800 during the next two years.

If wheat prices were at $2 per bushel, as in recent years, these same farmers would purchase 85 crawler tractors, 100 wheel tractors, 102 combines, 179 trucks and 167 pickups with a total value of $3,526,736.

And if Idaho wheat reached the $2.36 which is the supported price in France, 437 of the operators said they could afford to buy 241 crawler tractors, 181 wheel tractors, 250 combines, 326 trucks and 228 pickups to spend $8,283,360 with equipment dealers in Idaho communities.

"With the present price of wheat," said one grower on his questionnaire, 'I will not be able to replace anything."

"My machinery is old, but at present prices I do not replace until dire necessity sets in," commented another.

Sorensen said the spread between planned equipment investment for the next two years of $616,000 at present wheat prices and the estimated $3.5 million at even $2 wheat was a drastic example of how low farm prices affected the business of Idaho communities. He pointed to one grower comment which he said summed up the situation.

"I could need many other farm items, but with farm prices as of now, many farmers are certainly headed for bankruptcy," said that wheat farmer. "In farm communities the businessman had better support farm programs or they and the farmer both will have a taste of the unpleasant."

Sorensen said the wheat growers' survey showed that only eight percent of the crawler tractors, 14 per cent of the wheel tractors, 24 per cent of the combines, 41 percent of large trucks and 33 per cent of pickup trucks owned by the wheat growers are under five years of age. At the other extreme, 18 per cent of the crawler tractors, 11 per cent of the wheel tractors and 27 per cent of the combines are ancient machines over 20 years of age.

"The farmer in Idaho is caught in a squeeze between low prices for his crop and high prices for machinery," he said. "The fact that farmers cannot afford to buy new equipment as the old machinery wears out hurts not only the businessman who cannot sell that new equipment, but also puts the farmer in a further squeeze of out-of-pocket costs to keep old equipment operable."

"BEEF EDUCATION" IS GOAL FOR IDAHO'S COWBELLES

The American housewife has been educated to build her meals around the meat course, namely beef. Therefore, the food stores have built their services around the meat counters, to please the American housewife's demands.

She must have a good piece of meat to start with and in order to have this she must have the knowledge of what, where and how to buy meat. She must know how to cook each cut of meat properly. Beef education is needed if we are going to sell more of our American grown beef.

Beef education is one of the newest projects of the Cowbelles, the ladies auxiliary to the Cattlemen's Association. The Cowbelles are determined to see, not only that her town husband is a success in his chosen profession but that her neighbors local, state and national get the break they need in the beef industry.

In order to promote beef education we need more Cowbelle members. Any housewife who is interested in joining or organizing a country or local group please contact Mrs. Carl G. Anderson, Bliss, Idaho. Mrs. Anderson is membership chairman of Idaho Cowbelles. Dues are $2 annually. They should be sent to Mrs. Robert Stringfellow, Box 347, Filer, Idaho.

Generating $80,000,000 for a better Idaho!

100 years ago Idaho's schools consisted of a few poorly lighted and heated one-room cabins with a single teacher responsible for educating those children fortunate enough to attend. First Security was just beginning, too, in a trading post no more glamorous than one of those early school houses.

Today, Idaho's schools and First Security Bank have changed dramatically . . . each a vital part of the growth of this state.

Through the years First Security has devoted a large share of its financial energy towards Idaho's development. In the past 20 years alone, we have been the principal factors in arranging for over $80 million in financing for new and expanded schools, hospitals, municipal buildings, community recreational facilities, assurance of water storage and supply, improved health and sanitation systems and other civic improvements. We are proud of the fact that the Idaho communities whose financing we have assisted have earned a sound reputation for financial responsibility in meeting their public obligations.

This is another one of the ways First Security has usefully served Idaho during the past 100 years. We look forward to providing more helpful financial services to the people of this state — the kind of banking that is building Idaho.

NEWS FROM CO. AGENT OFFICE

Heavy rains bring angleworms to the surface and facilitate their treatment. If you have been plagued with earthworms making your lawn rough, this is an opportune time for control, suggests Homer Putter, Latah Co. agent.

Treatment is more effective if the dead grass is removed and the ground is soaked. The chemicals of choice are dieldrin or chlordane used according to directions on the container. If the lawn dries, then heavy watering is necessary to bring the worms to the surface.

Although earthworms are a favorite bait for fishermen, excess numbers in lawns can be a nuisance.With the terrific numbers present we need have no concern over their total elimination—in fact, treatment in lawns should be repeated every other year in order to hold their numbers in check.

MOTHER'S DAY

Again it's Mother's Day and I am dreaming,
Come memories thronging, all too dear to last,
The sweetest of life's golden days are beaming
A tender sweet remembrances of the past.

Again the morning bells ring out the story
As hand in hand down cloverlands we go;
The chapel choir is singing of God's glory
In dear remembered songs we both loved so.

And then in orchardlands I seem to wander
Where oft we watched the Aprils turn to May;
In sweet cascading apple-bloom I ponder
The debt of love I owe to you today.

Joan had been very tiresome, so her mother gave her a pencil and paper.

"Now, dear," she said, "write down the story of your life for me."

A few minutes later mother came back to see how Joan was getting on. Picking up the paper she read: "I was born seven years ago in a horrid, dirty London slum, while my beautiful, young and selfish mother was having a good time in Paris."

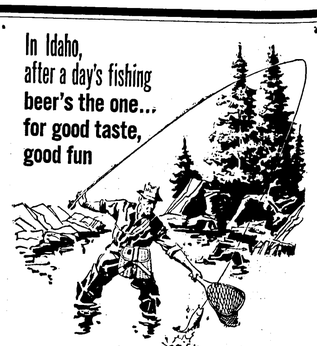
In Idaho, after a day's fishing beer's the one... for good taste, good fun



Wherever you fish for sport—on the ocean, by the booming surf, or on some quiet country pond, it's great at the end of the day to head for a rewarding glass of beer. While you're talking over the ones that got away, or pan-frying the ones that didn't, you enjoy the hearty taste and cool refreshment only a glass of beer can give you so well. Yes, whatever your sport—bowling or strolling, golfing or gardening —a frosty glass of beer makes a naturally great accompaniment.

1966 Wheat Quota Allotment Proclaimed, as Law Requires

The national wheat marketing quota and acreage allotment proclaimed for the 1966 wheat crop by the Department of Agriculture on April 14 had to be issued by April 15 under provisions of wheat legislation now in effect, according to Clarence Jensen, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County committee. Current law requires a marketing quota proclamation whenever wheat supplies are likely to be excessive without a quota.

In the absence of new legislation for the 1966 wheat crop, a referendum would be held by law not later than August 1, 1965, to determine whether or not wheat farmers favor or oppose marketing quotas for 1966.

The chairman pointed out that the voluntary wheat program now in effect applies only to the 1964 and 1965 crops of wheat. Congress currently is considering new legislation to continue this program on a voluntary modified basis. The proposed legislation would eliminate the mandatory marketing quota provisions, and hence there would be no referendum.

Under the current law's formula, the announced 47.8 million-acre national allotment for the 1966 wheat crop is the acreage needed to produce the national marketing quota of 1,292 million bushels, after taking into consideration underplantings and other factors as well as small-farm increases. Such small-farm increases (also provided for 1964 and 1965 crops) would boost the national allotment for 1966-crop wheat would be approximately 52 million acres.

Under marketing quotas, penalties would be assessed for excess production when acreage allotments were exceeded. The current law also provides for penalties of increase between the former 55-million-acre minimum allotment and the announced national allotment is not diverted to conserving uses. It also does not provide authority for payments for land retirement.

The Department has said that no announcement is planned at this time on support levels national reserves, State and county allotments, and domestic and export allocation percentages, which are authorized by legislation now in effect. Should no new legislation be enacted, these provisions will be announced prior to the referendum.

Winter wheat growers whose crop this year is not growing up to par because of winter kill or other natural cause are fortunate if they signed up last fall to take part in the 1965 voluntary wheat program, according to Clarence Jensen. He pointed out that the amount of certificates for which such growers are eligible under the program will not be reduced because the crop turned out to be smaller than expected.

For participating in the 1965 voluntary wheat program, a farm operator qualifies for marketing certificates, price-support loans on his wheat crop, and diversion payments on wheat-allotment acres beyond the basic minimum diverted from production into a conserving use.

The chairman explained that the total number of bushels of wheat for which a participating farm may be eligible for certificates is determined by applying the marketing percentage (80 percent for 1965) to the normal production of the farm wheat allotment. Since the certificates are based on the normal rather than the actual production, a small yield from the allotment acreage planted for harvest would not change the amount of certificates for the grower qualifies.

Two kinds of certificates are available: Domestic marketing certificates worth 75 cents a bushel on as much as 45 percent of the farm allotment's normal production: and export certificates worth 30 cents a bushel on as much as 35 percent of the farm allotment's normal production.

Wheat producers taking part in the program who planted as much as 80 percent of their allotments for harvest will be eligible for the full amount of certificates available for the farm. When fewer acres are planted for harvest, the amount of certificates will be reduced. Any reduction in the amount of certificates would first be made in the lower-valued export certificates.

Potato Acreage Likely To Increase This Year

BOISE — A 14 percent increase in Idaho potato acreage is likely this year on the basis of planting intentions, the University of Idaho extension service said this week. The May summary of economic conditions for Idaho agriculture by R. Wayne Robinson, marketing information specialist, said Idaho growers indicated in a recent survey that they will plant 286,000 acres, compared with 251,100 acres last year. Most of the increase is expected in eastern and south central counties. In this area of major production a boost from 232,000 acres in 1964 to 260,000 acres in 1965 is indicated. In 10 southwestern counties the estimated planting is up to 26,000 acres from 19,1000 the previous year.

Prices for the 1964 potato crop have been higher than usual .Supplies fell short of market demand

Figures from the USDA suggest the national potato crop will also be larger this year. Seven percent more acreage is going to late summer and fall potatoes. Maine growers indicate they will plant 151,000 acres in 1965, compared with 145,000 acres last year. The increase is about four percent.

An analysis of planting intentions by Idaho farmers in general shows increase in acreages of oats, dry beans, and potatoes. Larger plantings of these crops are offset, however, by reductions in corn, spring wheat, dry peas, and sugar beets. In total, the indication is three percent fewer crop acres.

The actual acreage planted may turn out larger or smaller than the report suggests, Robinson pointed out. The department of agriculture issues the prospective plantings report so farmers may adjust their operations if changes seem desirable.

Idaho cattle feeders had 137,000 head on feed April 1, the summary said. That is six per cent more than a year ago. Feeders expect to market 71,000 head by the end of June. Nationally, numbers on feed were down two per cent from a year ago. Fed-cattle prices strengthened late in the winter and are expected to continue above a year earlier during the spring and summer.

MUSTARD SEED ON DIVERTED ACRES

Mustard seed may be produced on Cropland diverted from feed grains, say officials of the Latah County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The supply of mustard seed is not considered excessive, and so may be raised as a substitute crop. Raising mustard seed on acreage diverted from barley will lower the diversion payment rate, but should raise the total income per acre. Other substitute crops are guar and safflower.

Take Care of Mail Boxes

When important mail is to be delivered to rural postal customers, names can be very important—both to the customer and the postal service. Can the customer's name be easily seen by an approaching vehicle, for example.

This is one of the things Postmaster Hall will be looking for when she conducts the annual inspection as part of National Mail Box Improvement week, May 17 to 21.

A total of 199 boxes along 105.8 miles of route are served six days a week in providing delivery service to over 753 persons.

"Your mail box reflects your personality—make sure it does you justice. Your mail box is actually the front door to your home; it is seen by more people than is your front door," explained Mrs. Hall.

"Modern equipment, both in the home and around the farm or grounds is one of the marks of a proud owner."

"How about your mail box? It is used 305 days a year. Is it up to date? Is it painted and is your name on it in legible letters one inch high? Is it securely fastened to a firm support and is the signal flag and door in good working condition?"

Actually, she noted, there are only three basic requirements to be entitled to receive mail on routes served by vehicles: 1. That the box be of a design approved by the Post Office Department. 2. That it bears the name of the patron, and, 3. That it is located so as to permit service without dismounting.

Regulations also require that the bottom of the box be approximately 42 inches above the road level, and it is important that the approach to the box be kept unobstructed and in good condition.

On country roads, filling the ruts and spreading a little gravel once in a while keeps the carrier from being delayed, the postmaster advised.

Soil Stewardship Week May 23-30

By D. A. Williams
Administrator, Soil Conservation Serv.

With dominion over the earth and the fullness thereof man bears a great responsibility to his Maker, to himself and to all the living world around him—a responsibility for maintaining and developing the natural endowment with which he cohabits the earth.

Each year we give recognition to an important part of this responsibility in observance of Soil Stewardship Week. We do so this year from May 23 thru 30 with the theme "The Challenge of Growth." We acknowledge man's dependence on the soil and his duty to care for it. We have come to know that a land of conservation is a land of plenty.

Our conservation ,responsibility is a product of the growth that characterizes the United States, and growth presents a challenge that becomes more demanding with time.

Midway the decade of the Sixties, as we venture into the total and awesome universe, we are becoming aware of an extension of man's responsility. There dawns upon us the realization that, bit by bit, man is slipping his veil of ignorance and misunderstanding, sweeping aside the aged shrouds of limidity and fear, to approach new horizons of human achievement.

In the laboratory, on the soil, beneath the sea and into space, our forays into the unknown in search of the "whys" and "hows" bring us always closer to truths we have only vaguely suspected. Our imagination leaps to engage more profound mysteries.

It is imperative in the face of this remarkable boldness, that we pause with each unfoldment to understand our role and its meaning.

We are stewards of what we survey. Whatever we may chance to discover about the world, or worlds beyond, we are privileged by a Higher Authority than ourselves. The rewards of this privilege are accompanied by serious obligations. Nowhere will we be more constrained to meet our responsibility, to honor our trust, to discharge our obligations as stewards, than on earth with its soil and water resources, the stuff on which, after all, our lives depend

We have learned from bitter experience the price of disregard for those obligations. Where we misused and abused the land we reaped subsequently the floods and dust and utter desolation.

We in America have survived those mistakes. We are earnestly endeavoring to husband and develop our soil and water resources—to heal the scars of our land. In this effort there are yet too many who believe the problems of soil and water to be problems only for the land owner and operator They must be impressed with the meaning of stewardship. They must come to know that although our resources to meet present and future needs are adequate, they will remain adequate only as we of country and city together use and develop them wisely. The speed with which stewardship becomes a fact of life in our cities can well be marked as a facet of the challenge of growth.

The best use of land and water to meet human demands on a continuing basis becomes more urgent. As each day passes, this fact looms larger in importance in both urban and rural areas.

This is the nature of the challenge of growth that confronts us: To cultivate more widely, among all our people, the conservation attitude, for conservation is the essence of stewardship and stewardship is the God-given privilege of humanity.

Dry Peas, Lentil Being Introduced To Japanese Market

TOKYO—United States dry peas and lentils are being introduced to many who had never seen them before at the Tokyo International Trade Fair now under way. These products are in the spotlight here through a planned industry effort designed to expand overseas markets.

Thousands of Japanese daily view the colorful pea and lentil booth in the Washington State Pavilion. The exhibit is designed to help popularize these products in Japan. Participation at the Tokyo Fair represents the U. S. industries first step in an aggressive worldwide merchandising effort

The Tokyo promotion is a joint effort of the Pacific Northwest Pea Growers and Dealers Association and the Foreign Agricultural Service, USDA. If the effort in Japan is successful, plans call for extending the foreign marketing work to other parts of the world believed to be expanding markets for U. S. dry peas and lentils.

On exhibit at the booth are samples of whole and split peas, Austrian winter peas, lentils, packaged and canned processed foods and the many other fine products made from these commodities. Large color transparencies tell the story of growing, harvesting, processing and shipping. A special display case high lights dry peas and lentils in meal planning. An information counter allows for meeting visitors and answering questions.

On hand at the booth talking shop with the Japanese are Ed Dumas, Wayne Chastain and Joe Spiruta. Dumas is a veteran trader in the dry pea and lentil business, managing his own company in Moscow, Idaho. Chastain is the manager of the Inland Empire Pea Growers Association of Spokane. Spiruta is a marketing specialist with the Washington State Department of Agriculture.

Several million viewers are expected to visit the exhibit before the Fair closes May 6. Many will receive recipes and samples. Japanese traders, pulse dealers, canners and importers are given special market information.

Japanese use U. S. peas much differently than in other parts of the world. Here most of the dry peas are fried, salted and then eaten as a snack with beer or sake. Some are cooked, sugared and eaten at breakfast time. A considerable quantity made into paste for use in commercial baking, serving much the same purpose as jam or custard in western baking.

Washington and Idaho producers should benefit directly from any increase in sales of dry peas and lentils to Japan. Those two states produce about 95% of the total U. S. production.

DEER KILL UP SLIGHTLY BUT ELK HARVEST DROPS

Deer harvest was slightly better and the elk hunting somewhat poorer in 1964 compared to 1963, the Idaho Fish and Game Department disclosed this week.

Data from post-season hunter questionnaires mailed to a five per cent sample of license buyers indicates a statewide harvest of approximately 67,000 deer and 13,800 elk.

Levi Mohler, chief of game management, said this is an increase of about six percent in the deer harvest and a decrease of five per cent in the elk kill compared to last year.

Compared to the average harvest of the past ten years (1954-1963 seasons) the 1964 kill is about "par" for deer but off about seven per cent for elk. Ten year average figures are roughly 67,000 deer and 14,900 elk, according to Mohler.

Hunting pressure figures, as indicated by deer and elk tag sales, show the number of deer hunters nearly identical with last year and a slight decrease in the number of elk hunters.

statewide hunter success for deer was 51 per cent in 1964 compared to 48 per cent in 1963.

Elk hunters connected at the rate of 25 per cent in 1964 compared to 26 per cent in 1963.

Mohler pointed out that statewide figures conceal a lot of local variation in individual units. Examples of this show up when the statewide kill indicated by the questionnaire is prorated among the individual units on the basis of more than 25,000 kill reports turned in by sucessful big game hunters on the report card attached to their deer and elk tags.

"Most elk units go along with the general decline indicated for the total statewide harvest, but there were at least a dozen units which each produced more elk in 1964 than in 1963. Most of these units were in central or northern areas.

"In many of the important elk areas," Mohler continued, "unusual weather conditions during the late summer apparently affected the distribution of elk and even experienced hunters had a difficult time locating the animals when the hunting season opened, not finding them in their expected haunts."

The top elk hunting area was again Unit 10 (North Fork of the Clearwater) with approximately 1,600 animals harvested. All other units indicated a total kill or less than a thousand.

FINAL SNOW SURVEY

The final snow survey of the '65 season on Moscow Mountain was completed on the first of May by Fred Chugg, Soil Conservation Service; Kenneth Lukecart and Larry Deeds; University of Idaho, Engineering Experiment Station.

Of the five snow courses, the Moscow snow course showed the only snow pack after a month of warm weather on the mountain. The other four courses were bare with only a few snow patches under the trees.

The Moscow Mountain snow course showed a decrease of about 47 inches in snow depth from last months readings, to bring the total snow pack from 62 inches down to 14.2 inches. The water content has dropped from 19.1 down to 5.8 inches, to show a decrease of 13.3 inches. The snow depth is 22.9 inches below last years record depth of 47.1 inches and is 16.8 inches below the seven year average of 21 inches.

The other four courses on Moscow Mt. are West Twin with a decrease of 31.1 inches of snow depth over the past month; East Twin with a decrease of 31.66 inches; Crumarine Creek with a decrease of 14.8 inches, and Howard Creek with a decrease of 9.0 inches over the past month.

The snow surveys on Moscow Mt. for the 1964-65 snow season was conducted through the cooperative efforts of Prof. C C. Warnick, U. of I. Engineering Experiment Station; the Soil Conservation Service, and the Latah Soil Conservation Supervisors.

POOR STEELHEAD RUN

Steelhead fishing this year was spotty but average in the Clearwater River drainage, and below par in the Snake and Big Salmon rivers and tributaries. High roily water was the basic cause. Some 15,200 steelhead have been counted over the Lewiston power dam for the 1964-65 fish year, and at least that many more are believed to have entered the Salmon River. However, no counting facilities are available on the Salmon.

Steelhead spawn in the headwater streams but winter left near-impassable roads into the South Fork of the Salmon River east of McCall. Anglers who have managed to get into this country report that fishing success is practically nil. The East Fork of the Salmon was also muddy, but Johnson Creek was reported clear late last week. The South Fork is high and muddy because of numerous slides into the stream along much of its length.

The road over Lick Creek Summit from McCall is open, but was expected to close again last week because of heavy snow run-off waters on the western slopes.

NONRESIDENT LICENSES GO TO 12,326 HUNTERS

Hunters from four foreign countries as well as 47 American states and the District of Columbia came to Idaho last year to hunt big game, bear, upland birds and migratory waterfowl, the Fish and Game Department reported today.

Kay Belnap, chief of business administration, said that the total number of all classes on nonresident hunting licenses sold was 12,326, and that almost half of these went to Californians. Utah hunters purchased 1,679 licenses but over 1,500 of them were for birds.

Other states with big numbers of residents coming to Idaho to hunt were Washington, 1,228; Nevada, 585; Oregon, 337; and Texas, 165. Foreign countries represented by hunters were Wales, Chile, Mexico, and Canada.

A break-down by hunting license classes shows 6,962 nonresident combinations 3,741 nonresident bird licenses; and 1,623 restricted deer or bear licenses.

An additional 91,460 nonresidents bought fishing licenses, including season, 7-day and 1-day permits, and another 33,682 purchased extra-day fishing permits.

How the Savings Bonds you buy help our State grow
—a message from our Governor

Many Idahoans probably live better today because of the U. S. Savings Bond program. You may be one of the people who, through the purchase and redemption of Savings Bonds, have been able to buy things for which you have saved.

During the past twenty-four years billions of dollars have flowed back into the economy of the Nation and the State in this way.

The dollars invested in Savings Bonds have eventually benefited not only the holder of the bonds but have also benefited the merchants, manufacturers and builders of the State. Americans and Idahoans today hold a record of over 48 billion dollars in Series E and H Bonds. Money that will someday be spent in worthwhile ways and provide for future growth.

I urge every one of you to help your future growth and that of the State by investing regularly in U. S. Savings Bonds.

The Girls' Club of Genesee High School were served a delicious dinner Tuesday evening at the Community Church. A committee from the C. C. W. F., headed by Mrs. Jess Johnson and Mrs. Estil Carbahn prepared the meal. Many favorable comments were received by the cooks for the potato dish. It is a new way for

Cheddar Cheese Scalloped Potatoes

Enough potatoes to make two cups, cooked and cut up
½ cup milk
1 can Cheddar Cheese Soup

Wash potatoes, boil with jackets on. This may be done ahead of time. Skin potatoes, cut up in slices or cubes as desired. Butter a casserole dish. Stir milk into soup, pour over potatoes in dish. Bake at 350 to 375 degrees, until heated through and sauce becomes bubbly.

This dish may be prepared with raw potatoes and onion, just as you would scalloped potatoes, using the soup with milk added as the white sauce. Bake until potatoes are cooked through. This recipe should be increased according to the size of your family or guest list.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES MEET IN SANDPOINT

"Locks on doors shout out that we live in a dishonest system" and "Christians expect to live in a system free from locks" were among statements made on Sunday afternoon at the Sandpoint High School in Sandpoint, Idaho according to Marvin Miller, presiding minister of the Juliaetta congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses.

The occasion was a public address on "The Moral Breakdown—What Can Be Done About It? by M. L. Holien of Brooklyn, New York, district minister of Jehovah's Witnesses, to an audience of 914 Jehovah's Witnesses and other interested persons.

Citing evidence of shocking increases in immortality and venereal diseases among the youth of many countries and the generally lax if not indifferent attitude of adults, Holien made the rather startling statement, "An immoral world shows hate for its children—Christian parents show love by discipline," then went on to prove his point by reading Proverbs 13:24: "The one holding back his rod is hating his son, but the one loving him is he that looks for him with discipline."

"Although it will be following closely after the assembly just concluded, nearly all in the congregation plan to attend a similar gathering June 24-27 in Seattle," Mr. Miller said. According to official estimate the attendance should reach 16,000 with most coming from Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. This will be much larger than the assembly just concluded and the largest of its kind for the Pacific Northwest this year.

"All normal meetings and other activities will be resumed by the Juliaetta congregation this week," Mr. Miller said

Christian Science Church Service

Mankind's quest for immortality will be presented at Christian Science churches this Sunday through the story of John the Baptist and his relationship to Christ Jesus. Subject of the Bible lesson is "Mortals and Immortals." Golden text: "Thou art no more a servant, but a son, and if a man, then an heir of God through Christ" (Galatians 4:7). The concluding Bible verse is from 1 Corinthians: "As we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly."

Related passages from the Christian science textbook will include these lines: "The real man being linked by Science to his maker mortals need only turn from sin and lose sight of mortal selfhood to find Christ, the real man and his relation to God and to recognize the divine sonship" Science and Health with key to scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy 6316.

Employment Situation In Latah County

Most of the seventeen workers who discontinued their claims returned to work during the past couple of weeks However there were four who exhausted their claims and are no longer entitled to draw benefits until after they return to work and earn subsequent wages. Most of the unemployed workers in the area are normally employed in the lumber industry. Construction workers make up the larger share of the unemployed workers living in the immediate Moscow area. Fewer construction workers are idle this year than last, but more workers are unemployed from the lumber industry than at this time a year ago.

Employment and employment opportunities are about the same as for the corresponding period a year ago. Construction activities are up somewhat in the immediate Moscow area. More workers are expected to return to employment in the area's forests within the next couple of weeks. Weather is becoming more conducive to logging operations, and some mills are getting low, and are calling for more logs.

CLOSED FIRE SEASON

The official closed fire season began Monday, May 10 in all of Idaho's organized forest protective districts, State forester Roger L. Guernsey reminded Idaho citizens this week.

All forest and range lands in Idaho are included within organized districts, the forester said.

During the closed fire season it is unlawful to set fire to logging slash or debris, or other flammable material in the forest or on the range, without first obtaining a burning permit from the local forest warden.

The Legislature provided for the permit requirement many years ago so that forest wardens could know immediately which fires are controlled and which are uncontrolled.

JayCee Teenage "Road-E-O" Set for Saturday, May 22

A teenage Road-E-O, the first ever held in Genesee, will be conducted Saturday, May 22, under the auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Young drivers from Genesee high school will compete in tests that will determine not only practical driving skills but also personal attitudes concerning driving and knowledge of proper driving etiquette and law.

The Road-E-O will begin Saturday morning at 8:30 a. m. in the area in front of the high school. In the actual driving tests, the contestants will maneuver a car through a series of trials and markers over a designated course. The course markers have been made by Bob Heimgartner and his agricultural workshop students.

After both the driving and written tests, the contestants will be scored and the winner announced at Community Day. The winner of the local contest will be eligible to go to southern Idaho later this summer to compete in the state finals. The state winner will then go to Washington, D. C. for the nationwide finals. Jerry Johnson, chairman of this JC sponsored event, said that while the competition in the state event is keen, Genesee's winner should have a good chance.

Working with Johnson as co-chairman is Wilbur Yates. Other committee members are Bill Haxton, Bob Heimgartner, Bob Bumgarner, and Bob Borgen The car used in the driving tests has been furnished by Delta Ford Sales in Moscow.

Judging the contest will be a deputy from the Latah County Sheriff's office and State Highway Patrolman Roger March.

Civic Club Offers Thanks for Work On RR Land Project

Laverne Anderson, vice-president of the Genesee Civic Improvement Association has offered the thanks of that organization for the work and contributions that went into cleaning up and leveling the area between the Northern Pacific tracks and the highway.

This stretch of land was recently rented by the city from the Northern Pacific Railway Co. and has now been cleared and leveled off, making a much-needed improvement.

Anderson said that many firms and individuals in town helped with the project, these following were among them and that "I hope I haven't left any out." Christian Science Church Service Soul and Body is the subject at Christian science churches this Sunday. The responsive reading will include this verse from Psalms: My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God." (Ps. 84:2).

Related passages will be read from the Christian Science textbook including these lines: "Belief in material suffering causing mortals to retreat from their error, to flee from body to Spirit, and to appeal to divine sources outside of themselves. (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 405).

SCIENCE TOPICS

HAIR 'PLANTED' ON BALD DOMES

TRANSPLANTS of small pieces of hairy scalp have been successful in regrowing hair on bald spots, reports the American Medical Association. Some of the skin grafts were so small that they contained only two or three hair follicles. The total number of grafts required to cover a bald area may vary from as few as 20 to as many 500 or more, and the placing of the grafts requires meticulous attention to detail.

NEWLY FILLED teeth won't be quite so sensitive if research at Georgia Tech is successful. The scientists have discovered that if dental filling materials are exposed to ultrasonic frequency when they are placed in the tooth, they harden in minutes instead of hours, minimizing pain . . . THE WORLD is headed for the greatest catastrophe in history —famine for hundreds of millions of people—says the American Chemical Society. Food production lags while the populations of Asia, Africa and Latin America are expected to increase by 900 million in the next 20 years. Unless measures to increase food production and decrease the birth rate are taken, the political and economic consequences will be massive and far-reaching, says ACS.

COLORED fertilizers will make life easier for the farmer or gardener, says Holland-Suco Color Company, which recently introduced a line of pigments for tinting agricultural chemicals. Coloring the fertilizer makes it easier to see what land has been covered and what kinds of chemicals have been used. Hues include yellow, orange, red violet, blue and green. . . . PRE-NATAL brain testing procedures are being studied by scientists at the University of Rochester. They are trying to find a system for recording infants' "brain waves" during delivery, to establish a normal electrical pattern Such tests, made with an electroencephalograph, would help in diagnosing and treating brain damage. Also, deviations from the normal pattern might be clues to causes of brain injury during delivery.

THE SKULL of an "ape man" believed to have lived 500,000 to 600,000 years ago has been found by Chinese anthropologists. The skull, discovered in northwest central China, may be oldest such specimen ever found. Yale University paleontologist theorize, however, that the ancestor of the first true man existed 14 to 15 million years ago.

INDIA'S POLICY of non-alignment is even carried through to the construction of the nation's own jet plane, complains Nath Pai, a member of Parliament. He reported to Parliament in New Dehli that the plane is being fabricated from parts manufactured in many countries, and predicted sourly that it may not even fly.

WHITE OPPOSES GUN BILL

WASHINGTON — Rep. Compton I. White, Jr., D-Idaho, says he opposes strict federal control over the sale and use of firearms

White said on a radio-television program released this week, "that control of crime and firearms within the boundaries of any state are traditionally roles reserved to state and local authorities.

"I agree with President Johnson's proposal to prohibit firearms shipments in interstate commerce except by federally licensed dealers," White said, "but cannot support legislation that goes beyond this."

He said a firearms control bill introduced by Senator Thomas Dodd of Conn. appears to go beyond federal control of interstate commerce.

White singled out as unacceptable features of the Dodd bill provisions that would establish a federal licensing fee for firearms dealers and one that would prevent persons under 18 from owning shotguns or rifles.

"I started hunting with my own rifle in North Idaho when I was 12," White said, "and many of Idaho's young people today are taught the proper use of rifles and shotguns long before they are 18."

White also said he opposes 'mandatory registration of shotguns and rifles, whether it be on the federal, state or local level. This could lead to infringement of the Constitutional guarantee to bear arms for a lawful purpose."

White noted that Idaho residents "rely on the right to bear arms to hunt for wild game and enjoy the great outdoor recreation our state affords, as well as to protect their homes."

Potlatch is people

MEET GARRY RINGOLD OF LEWISTON . . . Here you see Garry repairing a sign at the Sweetwater picnic area south of Lewiston. Sweetwater is just one of eleven picnic and camp ground areas maintained by the company in northern Idaho to provide recreational facilities for the public.

GARRY JOINED PFI IN 1950 following his graduation from the University of Minnesota with a B. S. in Forestry. His first position with Potlatch was that of Forester. In 1955 he became Industrial Forester in charge of contract logging for the Potlatch mill and in charge of the forestry work in Zone 2 in the Bovill area. In 1964 Garry was named Assistant Managing Forester, his present position.

PREVIOUS TO 1950, he had been a firefighter with the Clearwater Timber Protective Association, served with the Marine Corps and had held summer jobs with Potlatch while attending college.

GARRY IS ACTIVE IN COMMUNITY AFFAIRS. He has been secretary-treasurer of the Inland Empire Section, Society of American Foresters; secretary of the Potlatch Area Boosters (local Chamber of Commerce) ; Co-chairman of the Inland Empire Section of American Foresters.

HE WAS CHAIRMAN OF THE NATURAL RESOURCE YOUTH CAMP COMMITTEE in 1962. This was a camp conducted for high school boys to acquaint them with problems of forestry, wildlife, range and soils management. The camp is held each year at Camp Hayburn, Hayburn State Park, Idaho. Boys are recruited from northern Idaho and eastern Washington counties. In 1962-63, Garry was treasurer of a local Cub Scout Pack.

HIS HOBBIES ARE carpentry, hunting and gardening. His wife Arlene has served as Den Mother for a Cub Scout Pack and was also a Boosterette. Both Garry and Arlene are members of Centennial Parent-Teacher Association.

GARRY RINGOLD IS PART OF A PLAN; a plan that treats timber as a crop to be grown and harvested, a plan that involves the building of roads, communications and buildings. This is a plan that is made by people, carried out by people, financed by people and done in the best interest of people . . . people like Garry and you and your neighbor.

SURE POTLATCH IS A LOT OF THINGS . . . but most of all, Potlatch is people.

Cuisine Cum Laude

This week's cook is a busy wife and mother who finds time to devote to young people of our community by being a 4-H leader. Mrs Ted (Madiynn) Kinzer, as a leader for 12 years, has taught many girls and boys the fundamentals of cooking. They usually begin with cookies, muffins, and go on to bread, cakes, pies, etc. Cooking, of course, is just one of the many projects a 4-Her may undertake, but probably one he will be grateful for all of his or her life. At the present time, there and 27 members in Genesee Livestock Club and about 14 girls and 6 or 7 boys are taking "cooking."

Perhaps they might even try this favorite recipe of their leader.

CHERRY CHA-CHA

Grease an 8 by 13 glass pan with butter. Crush enough graham crackers to equal one cup. Save out two tablespoons. Melt ½ cup butter and mix with crumbs. Make a crust and bake 10 minutes at 350 degrees Cool.

1 pint whipping cream, whipped
4 cups miniature marshmallows
No. 1½ can cherry pie filling (instant) already thickened.

Put marshmallows and whipped cream together and pour into cooled crust. One may put half the cream mixture in and put cherry pie filling in the middle with other half cream mixture on top for a white top, or you may put all cream mixture on bottom and all cherry mixture on top for a red top Add teaspoon sugar to graham cracker crumbs and spread over top. Refrigerate several hours or overnight for best results.

Symbol of Superior Service

A minister from the hill country went to the big city and for the first time in his life, he stayed in a large hotel.

The bell boy was very solicitous, carrying the bags for him, pressing his suits, and doing all manner of errands to make his visit easy and pleasant. However, the minister never gave him a tip

Finally, the bellboy explained, "Reverend, in a hotel, it is the custom that when somebody does something for you, you're supposed to do something for him in return."

The minister said, "Son, I'm sorry but I didn't understand that. So, tell me, son do you drink?"

"You bet," replied the bellboy.

"Then get down on your knees and I'll give you the pledge," said the minister.

"Frequent water drinking prevents you from becoming stiff at the joints." "Yes, but some of the joints don't serve water."

Orofino Mayor A. B. Curtis expects approximately 5,000 persons to make their home temporarily at Orofino during the construction of Dworshak Dam, and he thinks the number of tourists may eventually reach 300,000 a year. Curtis discussed the impact of the dam in a talk Wednesday night to the Latah Chambers of Commerce.

The meeting was held at Carter's Charcoal Broiler and approximately 40 were present for the dinner and meeting.

Describing the dam itself, Curtis said it will be the third highest in the United States and the largest in over-all size. The dam will have an initial output of 345,000 kilowatts of power with provisions made to upgrade that later on to 90,000 kilowatts of power. He said the total cost of the project will be an estimated $220 million.

"It will require a tremendous amount of local responsibility," he said of the task of fitting 5,000 persons into the community . . . the whole valley is going to swell enormously for a few years."

U. of I. AG EXPERIMENT STATION TESTS FOR WHEATS

Three new stripe rust-resistant wheats potentially important to Idaho growers are being thoroughly tested by the U. of I. Agricultural Experiment station.

Two are soft white spring varieties seen as possible replacement for Lemhi and Federation, according to R. D. Ensign, associate director of the Experiment station. The third is a hard red winter wheat in the Itana class. All are being increased this year with the goal of releasing them for production in the 1966 crop year.

The new varieties were reported by Experiment Station administrators who are meeting at Moscow with members of the Idaho Wheat Commission. The Commission provides financial support for University wheat research programs

Administrators taking part in the meeting were J. F. Kraut, dean of the College of Agriculture, Dr. Ensign, and department heads A. M. Finley, plant sciences; A. C. Wiese, agricultural biochemistry and soils, and W. E. Folz, agricultural economics.

The new winter wheat variety, Itana 65, was developed in the wheat breeding research program directed by W. K. Pope, agronomist at the university's Moscow station. Its stripe rust resistance is 'better than any commercial hard red winter wheat in the West,' Pope says. It has a high protein level and good tillering capacity. In other characteristics, it is similar to Itana.

The Lemhi-type spring wheat is a selection made by D. W. Sunderman, USDA agronomist at the university's Aberdeen Brance Experiment station. In addition to carrying resistance to stripe rust, it has yield and quality equal to Lemhi. These same factors—high yield, high quality and stripe rust resistance—are also characteristics of the Federation-type spring wheat selection.

Wheat Commission members also heard reports on the University's soil-borne desease research program, operation of the Wheat Quality laboratory at Aberdeen and a southern Idaho wheat marketing study.

Research on soil-borne deseases, principally snowmolds and foot rots, is being carried out by D. M. Huber, plant pathologist at Moscow. He is investigating affects of cultural and fertilization practices on soil organism, evaluating chemical control methods and working cooperatively with plant breeders in an attempt to develop resistant lines of wheat.

The Aberdeen Wheat Quality laboratory, headed by Martin Wise, has been an important aid to the state's wheat breeding research programs since it was opened in 1960. All potential new Idaho varieties are tested there for milling and baking quality. This facility has been a major project of the Wheat Commission.

The wheat marketing study by G. E. Marousek, associate agricultural economist, is designed to provide the first comprehensive analysis of south Idaho wheat marketing patterns, and the price cost factors which affect production and distribution of wheat in the area.

Each of these projects is supported in part by the Idaho Wheat Commission. For fiscal 1965-66, the commission has approved grant of $38,111 to aid wheat research programs underway in the University Agricultural Experiment station.

PACIFIC NORTHWEST GRAIN DEALERS ASSOCIATION

Spokane—More than 400 are expected to attend the 44th annual convention of the Pacific Northwest Grain Dealers association at the Ridpath Hotel and Motor Inn here June 9-11.

William LaFrance, Spokane, convention chairman, said the convention will actually get underway Thursday, June 10, with committee meetings. Registration and some pre-convention social activity including the annual golf tournament will take place on Wednesday afternoon. There will be a program of women's activities Thursday and Friday.

LaFrance said the main business of the convention is usually carried on by the major committees. This year two topics will have considerable discussion —grain grading and transportation.

"New grain standards instituted a year ago and with relaxed revisions which will become effective June 15, 1965 are still not entirely satisfactory to many segments of our trade," the convention chairman said.

"There are innovations in the transportation of grain that will not only be discussed but in one instance at least we'll get a look at. The Pullman Standard Company is going to display a model of its new trough-hatch grain car."

LaFrance said the transportation committee will also take up new accessorial charges imposed by the railroads-milling and loading scheduled to address the convention is Charles M. Hanna, Chicago political economist and consultant on management-labor relations. He will also address the Friday luncheon.

Roily, High Waters To Mar Opening

Area biologists and other personnel of the Idaho Fish and Game Department report many streams around the state are nearing the flood stage, with roily waters commonplace and back country roads rough to impassible because of mud and snow drifts.

Stressing that this is a report of conditions as they are now, rather than an opening day forecast for general trout season beginning May 29, the men said that lowland lakes and reservoirs appeared to offer the best opportunities for anglers, generally speaking.

Both streams and reservoirs have had pre-season fish planting where roads are passable and water conditions permit. The following is an area-by-area report of present water and road conditions, beginning with northern Idaho.

AREA I

LOWER COEUR D'ALENE RIVER
Generally fair for catfish, perch and other spiny ray species; water level is high.

HAYDEN LAKE—Good for rainbow and cutthroat trout averaging several pounds apiece.

COEUR D'ALENE LAKE—Muddy and slow for fishing.

SPIRIT LAKE—Fair for trout and blueback.

TWIN AND HAUSER LAKES—Fair for crappie and bass.

KELSO LAKE—Fair for trout.

LAKE PEND OREILLE—Blueback up after mid-season slump; near shoreline and 25-40 feet deep. Too windy for Kamloops and Dolly Varden.

JEWEL, ROUND AND MIRROR LAKES—Fair for trout; good for bass and crappie in area sloughs.

ST. MARIES RIVER—Bass, crappie, catfish and perch best; too muddy for trout.

ROBINSON, BONNER, BOND AND SMITH CREEKS—Good for trout.

PRIEST LAKE—Improved for blueback; too windy and rough for mackinaw trout.

AREA II

Small streams generally high but clear; bigger ones roily. High roads are most impassable; intermediate and low roads passable unless heavy rains bring mud. Fishing mostly fair but slower than average for opening day. Early season always questionable; picks up by July 1.

CLEARWATER AND SNAKE RIVER —Good for bass, depending on water conditions. Warm weather and rains will change situation overnight. Nights cool now.

NORTH FORK CLEARWATER—The roads are drifted and just now opening. Check locally on all back country roads before starting.

SOLDIERS MEADOW (Craig Mt.)—Can get in on road wesat of Winchester.

NEWS FROM LATAH CO. AGENT

Wormy Apples

Wormy apples can be prevented by a correct spray program, suggests Homer Futter, Latah Co. agent.

Apply a spray of 2 lbs of 50% wettable D. D. T. powder in 100 gallons of water to the apple tree 15 days after the petals fall and repeat in 15 to 20 days or sooner if heavy rains occur to wash insecticide from the trees. In this area two sprayings will usually prevent worms in the apples. Cover the tree thoroughly when spraying.

If you have only a few apple trees in your back yard use 4 tablespoons of 50% wettable D. D. T. in 3 gallons of water.

Worms in apples are caused by the codling moth depositing eggs on the fruit or foliage.

Lilacs are always doing
The things I love to know;
Ever my glad heart wooing
As the lilacs come and go.

Speaking Of Taxes

By Max Yost, Executive Manager Associated Taxpayers of Idaho

The 38th Session of the Idaho Legislature took bold action regarding fiscal responsibility, bnth in the field of taxation and government expenditure, particularly if this session is compared to those of the recent past.

The Associated Taxpayers of Idaho praises the legislators for the dedication with which they faced, worked and resolved the fiscal problems as well as the many other problems brought before them.

However, the Association neither praises nor blames the legislative action regarding the two major steps taken by the legislature; the adoption of a 3 per cent Sales and Use Tax combined with major property tax and income tax reductions or the passage of the property classification assessment law. The classification law, it is said, is the first step toward equitable uniform assessment of property values in Idaho.

It is not the purpose of the Associated Taxpayers to praise, promote or oppose a particular phase or type of tax or method of taxation.

It is the purpose of the Association to promote fiscal responsibility and efficiency in the use of the tax dollar to the end that no more taxes are levied upon the taxpayer than is absolutely necessary to operate efficient government.

It is the purpose of the Associated Taxpayers to publicize to the fullest extent of the Association's means, all of the causes and effects of a tax so that if a tax is adopted, retained or rejected it will be done after there is as complete an understanding of the proposition as is possible, and this particular activity is entered into by the Association only if there is sufficient demand from the Association's membership; a membership which represents the entire economic structure of Idaho.

It is the purpose of the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho to promote efficiency in government, to "watch dog" the expenditure of public funds at all levels and units of government, not to oppose and expenditure or function of government but to be certain that first—it is necessary and if it is—then to see that it is effectively and efficiently operated.

This is done by working directly with the administrators of government—the state level administrators, the county commissioners, the school trustees, the city councils, the legislature, etc. It is done for example by investivating budgets, property tax levies, by pre-audits and post audits.

The ultimate decisions regarding taxes public expenditures and efficiency in the operation of government are made by the taxpaying citizens and we believe that the government administrators agree that better decisions are made by an informed taxpayer citizen.

The dissemination of the information resulting from our studies is one of the tools of the Association. The weekly "Speaking of Taxes" is an example of our efforts to inform as many taxpayers as possible and the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho is deeply grateful to the news media of the state for their continued support in using the material.

SCIENCE TOPICS

TANNING YOUR HIDE CAN BE HAZARDOUS

A SUN TAN may be height of summer fashion, but the physical benefits are almost nil and there is strong evidence that continued exposure to sun weathers and ages the skin, says the American Medical Association. Continued tanning gradually changes the blood vessels of the exposed surfaces, reports the AMA, and the connective tissues of the skin degenerate, causing wrinkles and a coarsening of texture.

RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS can be related to mental health, according to the University of Rochester which conducted a study of eight sets of identical twins. One twin in each set developed arthritis. In each case, the twin who developed the disease had gone through a period of severe psychological stress while the other had been relatively free of such problems. This offers strong evidence against the theory of hereditary origin of the disease, the University says.

A METEORITE that fell near Renazzo, Italy in 1824 probably is the best-preserved example of the primordial matter from which the earth was formed reports the University of Chicago. The meteorite, differing from others in the iron and nickel are distributed within it, is believed to be a fragment from the surface of an exploded planet. Most meteorites come from the interior of such planets and are changed by heat before they fall on this planet.

ASSEMBLING an industrial piping system usually means many hours of tedious welding and threading. Now, however, a line of socket-end stainless steel fittings has been developed that makes it possible to quickly connect pipes with an epoxy bond. According to Tube Turns, Louisville, an epoxy resin is brushed on the mating surfaces of pipes and fittings and the pipe end is simply slid into the close-tolerance socket, and the system is ready for service after a 24-hour curing period.

LIGHT BULBS, one of man's more fragile creations, will be tougher in the future thanks of research at Georgia Tech. The University's scientists have developed a tough, high-temperature-resisting protective coating that makes bulbs shatter-proof and impervious to thermal shock. Even if it is dropped the bulb will keep its shape because the coating holds the broken glass particles together.

BORED with people who show their color slides every time you visit them? You haven't seen anything yet! A system that plays television pictures from a phonograph record has been developed. Audio and video signals are present in the groves and the record can be played on a convential turntable connected to the TV set.

Don't let me die in seed-time
Dear God—I could never sleep
When the bluebirds come to the hay shed
And the winds through the linden's leap.

I must be up and sowing
Casting the vitroled grain
Onto the harrowed plowed ground
Into the April rain.

Take me away in autumn
Or wild December drear
For how could they sow without me
When seed-time days are here?

GET BETTER RESULTS WITH BEEF BY TREATNG IT RIGHT

Beef, by popular demand, is one of America's favorite foods. With today's trend toward meat-type animals, producers are adopting more scientific methods of breeding and feeding to produce carcasses that yield a higher percentage of lean cuts that require less trim by the packer. The meat retailer merchandises the carcass into specific cuts and compact sizes to fit the needs and budgets of the homemaker.

Whether it is pot-roast, T-bone steak or left-over beef in hash, Mrs. America is assured of the same outstanding nutritive values for the health and welfare of every member of her family.

In buying beef, an important factor to consider is that the retailer stakes his reputation on the beef he sells. Since consistency in quality is essential in today's meat business, when you find a retailer who handles the grade, or quality,of beef you want . . and who gives you the kind of service you desire. . . your problems are largely over.

Fresh chilled cuts are available in a wide range of sizes. The cuts vary in tenderness but all can be made tender by proper cooking. This is why it is necessary to select beef cuts with the cooking method in mind, or to adapt the cooking method to the cut selected.

In buying beef it is necessary to consider not only the cut but the quality of the meat itself. Young beef (sometimes called baby beef) may not contain much fat but it probably will be tender because it is from a young animal. On the other hand, the presence of streaks, or specks, of fat in the meat is extremely important in judging mature beef. The lace network of fat in the lean is called 'marbling" and it is given top priority by government graders, packers and retailers in determining the grade that is to appear on the carcass.

Fresh beef should be stored uncovered or loosely covered in the coldest part of the refrigerator. The temperature should be as low as possible without actually freezing the meat Ground beef for best eating quality, should be cooked with in 24 hours.

To freeze beef, package it according to the number of servings needed and wrap it tightly in moisture-vapor-proof material. Label package noting date, cut and weight or servings. Freeze beef quickly and store at 0 degrees or lower for a recommended maximum storage period of 3 to 4 months for ground beef and 6 to 12 months for other fresh beef. Methods used for defrosting are; 1. in the refrigerator; 2. at room temperatures; 3. during cooking. The meat should be defrosted in its original wrapping unless it is defrosted during cooking. Cook frozen beef roasts at 300 degrees to 325 degrees, allowing half again as long as for cooking defrosted roasts.

Basically, there are two methods for cooking meat. They are by "Dry Heat" or "Moist Heat", depending upon if a liquid is used in the cooking process. Each basic method has several variations. Dry Heat methods are ideal for tender cuts whereas Moist Heat creates steam which softens connective tissue and cooks less tender cuts to juicy goodness. Dry Heat methods are oven roasting, broiling, pan broiling, and pan frying. Moist Heat methods are braising, stewing, and simmering in water.

LICENSE INVESTIGATION

Arrest records during March show that two-thirds of all persons cited either made wrong statements on license applications or did not carry any kind of license at all. People just don't seem to remember that all applications for resident fishing or hunting licenses are screened and checked out by conservation officers. Each officer serves as the immediate supervisor for an average of 9½ license vendors in his district. Sales by these outlets last year resulted in 5,727 resident and nonresident license purchasers as the average responsibility load for each district officer.

The average officer last year, for example, had sales of 3,583 resident licenses alone in his district. All such applicants are screened and checked as a means of determining unqualified and fraudulent purchases.

During March there was a total of 66 violations reported and $1,740 in fines paid. This brings the amount for the year to date to just over $5,000. Half of this money remains in counties where it was collected for general and school funds.

LET BABES IN WOODS ALONE

Most infant wild creatures are protected by Idaho law. In the unlikely event that they live in captivity until grown, many of them are dangerous to humans. These are two good reasons for leaving them in the forests and the fields.

Numerous investigations of such cases in past years inevitably show that 'lost" wildlife babes rarely are abandoned or orphaned. Their mothers, naturally spooky and reluctant to show themselves to human intruders, helplessly stand nearby as their offspring are carried away.

These delicate creatures require expert care and feeding. They do not usually survive away from their mother and out of their natural habitat. Moreover, a deer or elk becomes extremely dangerous to humans as it grows up.

MEMORIAL DAY

Sleep on a thousand years, victorious dead,
In farflung places where you fought and fell;
In Flanders field or under poppies red;
Sleep on in peace, you loved your country well.

You died that we might live—that we might know,
How sweet and all dear is liberty;
Not 'till the tides of time shall cease to flow
Shall fade from us your hallowed memory.

Through blossoms and through snow shall ever live
Your bless't remembrance through the coming years
And generations yet unborn shall give—you homage
Through a grateful nation's tears.

HISTORY OF CUB SCOUTS OF DEN TWO

On October 19, 1962, in Pack 312 of the Cub Scouts, a new den was formed. A den is a group of Cubs, led by a lady, often times a mother of one of the boys. In Cub terminology, she is called a Denmother. Her qualifications are a sense of humor, patience, and perseverance, and in that order! The new denmother was Mrs. Levi (Alice) Rossebo and the boys who began in the den with her were Mark Mervyn, David Rossebo, Ray Morscheck, Bruce Nichols, Michael Odberg, Steve Odenborg, Steve Schmidt, Roger and Rodney Teigen, and Tony Davis. They have met in the Rossebo home, 5 miles north of Genesee on the Moscow highway. The boys received their first rank, the Bobcat pins, on November 30, 1962. After completing twelve achievements, the boys earned their Wolf Badges. These were presented at a pack meeting in the Community Church on February 7, 1963.

Two boys moved away, Tony Davis and Mark Mervyn during 1963. Fred DePell, who had been a Cub in Moscow, joined the group. Terry Green joined in November, 1963. In 1964, Fred DePell and Ray Morscheck dropped out, as both had begun another activity. A new boy, Danny Diehl, moved to Genesee, transferred from the Gooding, Idaho Pack, and joined Den 2. Mrs. Roger Schmidt has been assistant denmother.

The boys participated in many activities through the years. The first year they visited Moscow Radio Station KRPL, and at Christmas time, went caroling to the Latah County Home and at homes of other shut-ins. They participated in an Indian play in the 4th grade and made the tepee and their costumes.

They toured the Moscow Fire Station and the Airport. Two different years, they were taken for an airplane ride by Pete Fountain.

The den put on many skits at the monthly pack meetings at the church. They were outstanding in their presentation and many times made clever costumes for the skits.

At the big Latah County Scout Exposition, choosing Indians for their theme, Den Two made clay bowls, and put on Indian dances and songs.

The boys spent a day at Camp Grizzly in July. They were taken on a camping trip to Moscow Mountain by Mr. and Mrs. Rossebo and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Green that summer. Rain forced the group home to Rossebos where they spent another night and cooked their own meals. The boys received their Bear Badges and in December 1964, their Lion Rank was achieved.

The boys rode on a float Community Day and sold peanuts all day with Mrs. Rossebo, Mrs. Don Becker and other mothers aiding. The money realized was turned over to the Community Day fund.

They supplied and decorated the Christmas tree for the Pack Meeting in December, 1964. During Scout week, the program was explained to the fifth grade. Mrs. Rossebo baked and decorated cupcakes for the occasion.

Journeys were made to the Dairy Department at the University and to the Luna House Museum in Lewiston. This spring, in keeping with the theme, "South of the Border," the den put on a skit and presented a variety show.

The boys of Den Two will be graduated from the group May 28th. There will be a graduation ceremony for them and those who plan to go on to Boy Scouting will receive Webelos rank. There is not an active Boy Scouting program in Genesee at the present time, but the boys may attend in other places. The group plans to attend Camp Grizzly in July.

These young men of Den Two and their denmother wish to thank the Community Church, which is sponsor for the Pack, and the men of the Pack committee, and all parents and friends who have helped during these years. The time could not have been better spent. mhs

Here is a recipe much demanded from Mrs. Ted Kinzer. It is called Sugar Popcorn and is very good for car trips, Popcorn parties or just munching. As I recall, children who rode on the school bus last summer to swimming lessons were treated to this. That is, if they rode on the bus Mrs. Kinzer was driving! She has driven children to Moscow to the Red Cross lessons for many years. The P. T. A. sponsors the program.

SUGAR POPCORN

Pop a large container of popcorn (a large dishpan full is suggested).

Boil 2 cups sugar with 1 cup water until it starts to string, then pour slowly and evenly over the popped corn and stir with a large spoon until it is dry and does not stick together. This is not shaped into balls, but rather eaten as regular corn.

WOMEN LINKED WITH BEAUTY

State Forester Roger Guernsey, speaking to the Mesa Garden Club in Boise last week, urged Idaho women to lead in the national effort to beautify the country. He said President and Lady Bird Johnson are certainly on the right track. "Finally it is recognized that the job is far greater than merely preserving the status quo as was suggested by the old slogan 'Keep America Beautiful.' There is much beauty, but there is also much ugliness in the country and in Idaho and we must make a monumental effort to first make Idaho beautiful before we can keep it that way. We should start along the highway and main travelways and in the cities.

The forester suggested that women lead the way by bringing about screening of auto wrecking yards. He noted that auto wrecking yards are not only necessary, but are actually a conservation measure.The solution is to provide adequate screening. He said signboards are not always unsightly and in fact often relieve monotony in certain areas. He stated that in his opinion, planning and zoning of sign locations and maintenance to include removal of weathered and broken signs would do much to improve the billboard image The State Forester listed the thousands of private junk yards as the third great contributor to ugliness. He said, "Education will help, but it is in many cases a very long term process and in some cases is probably hopeless. The beautifiers must somehow cope with the fact that a small percentage of people have no pride whatsoever in the appearance of their homes, farms, and businesses. A person who will tolerate and energetically accumulate junk, trash and filth in his own front yard can hardly be expected to concern himself over bottles, cans and papers in the streets and along the highways." He noted that Pocatello is penalizing unsightliness by placing a special tax of $1 on old auto wrecks.

The forester concluded by urging Idaho women to put the run on ugliness. He said women were born to lead beauty parades and there is a great challenge before us. He believes many women whose children are in school, or women who are not working outside the home can find great satisfaction in the move to beautify Idaho.

Symbol of Superior Service

A man went into a barber shop with his small son. Since all the chairs were busy, the man selected a magazine for himself and a comic book for the boy, and they sat down to wait. However, the youngster repeatedly pestered his father for answers to questions. Finally, one of the barbers looked over and said, "Say, that boy of yours certainly talks a lot, doesn't he?"

"Yeah," grunted the father as he continued to read his magazine. "And he looks like her, too!"

Baby Twins: A pair of newlywets.

Responding to a knock at the door a housewife found a man standing before her.

"I just ran over your cat," he explained apologetically, "and I'd like to replace her."

"Well, you'd better get busy," snapped the housewife, "It's almost feeding time for the kittens!"

TWENTY-TWO FIND JOBS THRU MOSCOW EMPLOYMENT OFFICE

Twenty-two Latah County residents were helped in job finding by the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment during the past week according to a report from Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager. This is nearly the same as the 24 placed during the corresponding week a year ago, and twice the number placed during the preceding week. Men were placed on a variety of jobs, including jobs as truck driver, farm tractor operators, sawyers and laborers. Women were helped to find such jobs as office workers, restaurant workers and domestic workers. Hartstein stated that there are still jobs open for such workers as cooks, waitresses, maids, nurse aide, office nurse, secretaries, sales clerks and domestic workers. Men could find work as meat cutters, farm workers, service station attendants, carpenters and a janitor.

Hartstein said that woods workers from the Troy-Deary-Bovill area and from the Elk River area raeturned to work in fairly large numbers during the past two weeks. This has been the primary factor in reducing the number of workers who have been drawing Unemployment Insurance benefits through the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment. Both areas showed fewer persons filing claims during the week. The number of persons receiving benefits in the immediate Moscow area was down somewhat also. However, the number from the Potlatch area remained constant. Only ten persons filed new claims during the week. The reduction, from 204 to 173 indicates that about 40 workers returned to work, or discontinued their claims for some other reason, Hartstein explained.

BLOAT IN LIVESTOCK

Bloat is likely to occur in livestock every year, but precautions can be taken to prevent severe losses, according to Horner Futter, county agricultural agent.

One of the practices that proves helpful is to give stock a full feed of dry hay before turning them on legume pasture. Then, after the animals are on pasture, keep them there. Avoid overeating of fresh sections of rotated pasture as much as possible by regulating the grazing Don't let stock overgraze one plot before they are allowed on a lush section.

Keep plenty of salt, and fresh water available.

Cub Scouts Hold May Pack Meeting

The May Pack meeting of Cubs was held Friday, May 28, in the Community Church. Master of Ceremonies was Cubmaster Phil Hermann. Den One had the opening, aided by Mrs. Jim Hoogland, who read about our National Flag. The boys led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance.

A history of Den Two, which had appeared in last week's Genesee News, was read by Mrs. Dick Scharnhorst The boys of Den One honored the graduating boys of Den Two with a skit. Mrs. Hoogland presented to each Cub of Den Two a copy of the program for the evening, wrapped as a diploma.

Ray Wedin, Achievements Chairman, presented the boys with their awards: Den 1, a denner stripe was awarded Mark Becker. Steve Flerchinger received one gold, and one silver under Lion rank. Boys of Den Two receiving awards were Michael Odberg, Lion badge, one gold and two silver under Lion; Danny Diehl, two silver under Lion, and David Rossebo, two silver under Lion. Cubmaster Hermann introduced Mr. Elson Fischer, Lewis Clark Council officer from Lewiston. Mr. Fischer spoke, congratulating the outgoing boys and their parents and Denmothers. He explained that there is not a Boy Scout Troop in Genesee now, because a Scoutmaster cannot be found. A committee from the Genesee Firemen has been working on this, and are certainly interested in securing a Scoutmaster. Mr. Fischer introduced three members of the Order of the Arrow of Moscow, Bob Shepherd, Dick Bauer, and John Stube. These young men, attired in full Indian regalia, conducted the graduating ceremony for Den Two.

State F. F. A. Judging Contest June 16-18

More than 400 Idaho Future Farmers and their advisors will be on the University of Idaho campus June 16-18 for the State FFA judging contests.

High school youth from most of the 68 Idaho FFA chapters will enter the annual competition, reports Prof. H. A. Winner, head of the Department of Agricultural Education. The contests are arranged each year by Professor Winner's department in cooperation with the State Department of Agricultural Education.

Seven judging contests—livestock, dairy products, farm mechanics, dairy cattle, poultry, crops and meats— and a special tractor driving contest are scheduled during the three days. Chapters may enter three-man teams in any of the judging events, and one contestant in tractor driving.

Teams winning the livestock and meat judging contests will be eligible to enter the National FFA contests at Kansas City next fall. State winners in poultry, dairy products and dairy cattle classes earn trips to Waterloo, Iowa for the nationals in those events.

Top award of the contests— the high team award—goes to the chapter whose teams make the best overall score in the seven judging contests, Prof. Winner said. Fruitland high school won this title last year.

In addition, three team prizes and 3 individual awards will be presented in each event.

University of Idaho staff members will serve as official judges.

TREASURE HUNTING? YOU NEED A GUIDE

THE SEA covers more than 71 per cent of the earth's surface . . . any many valuable shipwreck sites says the Smithsonian Institution. However, most of the rich finds can be discovered along the major shipping routes, especially in the Caribbean. If you're looking for sunken treasure, the Smithsonian suggests searching the bars and reefs near the harbors of Cumana, Cartagena, Porto Bello, Greytown and Truxillo, the approaches to the Gulf of Amatique the keys off the coast of Central America, the reefs of Bermuda and the Florida Keys, and the coast of Florida north to Cape Kennedy. Information on exploration, recovery and preservation techniques is contained in History Under the Sea, a book published recently by the Institution.

A "WINDOW" of plastic implanted in the human eye can restore sight to people with defective corneas, reports Columbia University. The clear plastic implants, inserted in the centers of corneas scarred by accident or clouded by disease, have four optical elements, individually shaped for each patient according to the optical properties of his natural cornea . . . MACHINING RUBBER IS easy when it's frozen solid. This procedure is taken to remove troublesome flashings left on rubber or plastic parts after they are taken from the mold, reports Cardox, Chicago. The flashings are quick-frozen with liquid carbon dioxide (-100 degrees F) and broken off neatly by tumbling or exposure to high-velocity steel shot.

A PEACH DRINK made from fruit too ripe to send to market has been developed, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture. USDA sponsored the research as part of its program for development of new uses for farm products. In acceptance tests consumers preferred the drink over six other fruit drinks, but rated it slightly below concentrated orange juice, according to the government survey.

ENVIRONMENTAL SHOCK produces cleft lips and cleft palates in mice, reports the University of Michigan. Tests showed that "experimental clefts" appeared in the offspring of pregnant mice when the mothers received powerful hormone injections, excess radiation, deficient diet, or insufficient oxygen at a critical point in pregnancy. The University researchers speculate that human cleft lips and palates may also result from the impact of environmental shocks . . . . MINNEAPOLIS and St. Paul, famous for their rivalry, couldn't even get together on the time of day recently. St. Paul adopted daylight saving time two weeks ahead of adjoining Minneapolis, complicating things for people who work in one town but live in the other.

CLEARWATER SALMON RETURN

Fifty-nine spring chinook salmon already have passed through the fish counting facility of the Washington Water Power Company dam just east of Lewiston on the Clearwater River, and fisheries workers believe there are more on the way. These and, hopefully at least, others to come may be from eyed eggs planted in artificial hatching channels during the 1961 brood year.

The 59 spring salmon now heading upstream probably are the first measurable returns from an eight year or two-life cycle program to re-establish a chinook salmon fishery in the Clearwater River by planting partly incubated eggs each year in tributary streams. Forty-two of these were counted during the week of May 19-25.

There never have been so many salmon counted past the glass observation window at the Lewiston Dam this early in the season. While offspring of a remnant salmon run from the old pre-dam days still persist in the river, they are summer run chinook and spawn later in the year.

Christian Science Church Service

The healing of the 'man which was taken with a palsy' told by Luke ch. 5, will be featured in the Bible Lesson to be read at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Golden Text is from Psalms (145:9,17): "The Lord is good to all: and his tender mercies are over all his works . . . The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works."

Selections from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following: "Immortal mind is the only cause: therefore disease is neither a cause nor an effect. Mind in every case is the eternal God, good. Sin, disease and death have no foundations in Truth" (p. 415).

The subject will be "God the Only Cause and Creator."

PNWGD Convention In Spokane June 9-11

Spokane—A specialist in transportation and one in cattle feeding will address the 44th annual convention of the Pacific Northwest Grain Dealers association at the Ridpath Hotel here June 9-11.

William LaFrance, Spokane, convention chairman, announced this week that Kenneth P. Tubbs, Transportation Manager of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, and Irwin A. Dyer, Washington State University Professor of Animal Science, will address the business session of the convention Friday morning, June 11.

Tubbs, who is the brother of Paul Tubbs, Almira, Washington, immediate past president of the PNWGDA, will speak on "Our Changing Concepts in Transportation Regulation," and Dyer's topic will be 'Comparative Feeding Value of Grains."

LaFrance pointed out that the two subjects are among the most important in the grain industry today . . . particularly in the Northwest. Transportation of grain from field to port or mill is undergoing a revolution with rails, barges and trucks competing strongly for the business. And Pacific Northwest soft white wheat under present government programs is going more and more into animal feed.

In addition to his position with the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, Tubbs is secretary of the Texas and Southwestern Industrial Traffic League. JUNE AND ROSES

June and roses flowering,
Here at the sagging gate;
Toiling—rejoicing—lowering
Helping me watch and wait.

June and the roses thronging
Waiting your safe return;
Filling my heart with longing
As memories bless and burn.

Telling me that from somewhere
Beyond the summer sea;
The June that brings the roses
Will bring you back to me.

UNEMPLOYMENT OFFICE NEWS

Sixteen Moscow area residents found employment through the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment during the past week, according to a report released by Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager. Among the workers placed a secretary, a window trimmer, truck weighers, farm workers, construction laborers, cafe workers and domestic workers. There are still 21 jobs to be filled for local area employers. Women are still needed for such jobs as secretary, a registered nurse, bookkeeper, sales clerk, grocery checkers, live-in housekeeper and waitresses. Men in the area could find immediate work as farm tractor operators, a service station attendant, and a meat cutter.

Workers in the area's forests and in the sawmills have been returning to their posts in rather large numbers during the past couple of weeks. The number of persons currently receiving unemployment insurance is decreasing rapidly. Although ten persons filed new claims for benefits, indicating new unemployment occurring during the week, the total number of workers still claiming such benefits decreased by 31, to 174 at the end of the previous week, and 137 at the end of this week. It was reported that 179 workers were receiving benefits at the same time one year ago. All areas of the county show the return to work movement, as the Moscow area had only 30 persons receiving benefits, compared with 45 the previous week and at the same time a year ago, Moscow had 69. In the Troy-Deary-Bovill area there were 35 persons drawing unemployment insurance, compared with 64 last week, and one year. The Potlatch area had 33 persons filing claims whereas there were 46 last week and the same number a year ago. Only 19 unemployment insurance checks were sent to residents of Elk River last week, as compared with 35 during the previous week, and 20 during the same week one week ago.

Area Pea Fields Look Good But Rain Is Needed

Pea fields in the Genesee area hold promise of an outstanding harvest this year if rainfall is received in the near future, said Charles Airhart, manager of Asgrow Seed Co. "The stands are good," Airhart said, "and the potential is there, if we get a good rain, and we've got to get the rain next week."

The soil moisture is fair, the Asgrow manager reported, and the pea roots are down about a foot, drawing moisture from that level. He added that some fields are starting to show a "bluing effect," a term used by the seed men to describe the condition when the peas start to show a need for moisture.

Many of the pea fields are now in the budding stage and should be in bloom by nearly next week.

Aphids and Weavils

Aphids have appeared in scattered fields under Asgrow contract, Airhart said, but they have not yet become a problem. However, the seedman urged farmers to keep a close check on their fields and if the number of insects start to increase substantially, spraying should begin.

Lady bugs, a larger insect that feeds on aphids, are also prevalent this year and these may be serving as a controlling element for the aphid population.

Pea weavils, another threat to a good harvest, have also shown up in the Genesee fields this season and many farmers have already sprayed fields in an effort to control their spread. Airhart said the company often uses a hand net to sweep across the plants and if three or more weevils are collected in twenty-five sweeps of the net, it is generally considered a good practice to spray the fields for control of the pests.

Genesee P. T. A. Members Attend Course In Moscow

Genesee P. T. A. members attending a Leadership Training Course at the Student Union on the University of Idaho campus Monday and Tuesday were Warren Bakes, local president; Mrs. Wm. Dezenner, vice president; Mrs. Wm. DePell, treasurer, and Mrs. Dick Scharnhorst, publicity chairman and historian. The sessions were conducted by Mrs. Fred L. Keeler, Grand Rapids, Michigan, National Field Consultant.

Mrs. Keeler said that each local unit should evaluate itself. 'Does our P. T. A. follow the Objects of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers?' should be asked by the members. The objects should be on display at each meeting and Mrs. Keeler reminded mem bers that they are printed on the membership cards. She reminded that the role of the school is to educate children and the role of the home is to send to the school well-adjusted, healthy children.

The manual is indispensable and should be referred to, along with the by-laws, constantly, Mrs. Keeler stated. Questionaires were used by the group to aid them in using their manuals. Several state officers were present at the workshops. These included Mrs. Rulon Lewis, Rexburg, state president; Mrs. Paul Shira: Dr. Leon Green, Moscow, Recreation; Dr. Hervon Snider, past state president; Mrs. Ruby Hart, Sandpoint, president District I; Mrs. D. Munson, Sandpoint, Room Representatives chr., and Mr. Harold Blood, president, Dis. 2.

The conference brought out these statistics: the P. T. A. has 1,791,431 members of which one-third are men. Idaho has 39,536 members. Our state is in Region 7. We were organized in 1905. Of the duet we pay (50c), 5c goes to the National. For 5c, 1c goes for publications, 1c for extension, 1c for general operations, 1c for communications, and 1c for administration.

Mrs. Keeler stressed the P. T. A. is not a fund-raising organization. Funds may be raised when their purpose is to provide a special service to promote the welfare of children and youth. P. T. A. should initiate action, drum up public support and educate the public to children's needs. The home and the school should be brought closer together for the needs of youth through a smoothly running P. T. A.

Mrs. Keeler, Mrs. Shira and Mrs. Lewis returned to Boise after the sessions, and from there Mrs. Keeler will go directly to Nebraska to do P. T. A. service work in that state.

New Wheat May Better Gaines

A new soft white winter wheat that gives promise of even better production than Gaines has been developed, Homer Futter, county agricultural agent, said today on the basis of a preliminary report from Howard Roylance, University of Idaho extension agronomist. Roylance and other Idaho representatives attended a recent meeting of the Pacific Northwest Crop Improvement Association at Pendleton, Oregon, at which new varieties were discussed.

The new strain—known as Sib 7 until it has a formal name—originated from the same cross as Gaines. Most of the development has been done by O. A. Vogel, a crop scientist of the Department of Agriculture at Washington State University.

Roylance said the variety is similar to Gaines in most respects and has additional characteristics that make it more desirable. Test weight is approximately one pound higher than Gaines. Yields are slightly higher than Gaines under favorable conditions. The new variety was included in nursery trials the last two years at Aberdeen, Tetonia, and Twin Falls. It had higher yield and test weight than Gaines at all three locations.

Sib 7 has short straw and the same resistance to disease as Gaines. The fact that Gaines resists stripe rust, plus its high-yielding ability, have been major factors in establishing Gaines as the number one soft wheat in the Northwest.

Eleven acres of foundation seed of Sib 7 will be harvested in 1965 at the Pullman station.

U. of I. Commencement Sunday, June 13

The University of Idaho Memorial gymnasium will double as a gigantic television studio on commencement day, Sunday, June 13, when more than 1,130 candidates for degrees cross the stage during the school's 70th and largest exercises.

The seating capacity of the gymnasium no longer can accommodate the number of persons wishing to view the annual graduation ceremony; thus, the need for televising the exercises has come about.

For the third consecutive year the radio and television department at the university will produce and broadcast live the 3-hour commencement starting at 9 a. m. The program will be viewed on live closed-circuit television where local cable facilities are available.

The exercises will be seen over channels 5, 7, and 12. Channels 7 and 12 will be on view on the campus and channel 5 in the homes and businesses where cable connections are available within Moscow proper.

Persons who wish to view the commencement exercises, but find that seating in the gymnasium is not available, will be able to see the live telecast from at least five vantage points on the campus as provided by the university. Sets and seating will be available in Rooms 104 and 109 of the Administration bldg., and rooms 6 and 12 of the Home Economics bldg. One set will also be available for viewing just outside of the Memorial gymnasium. Living groups with cable service will be open for use by parents and guests during the program.

Suffers Cut Leg

Terry Geltz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Geltz, had the misfortune to suffer a severely gashed leg while helping operate the dunking tank on Community Day. Terry was the "dunking victim" during this period and the cut occurred while he was climbing back onto the platform and the trap sprung before he had regained his balance. A number of stitches were taken by Dr. Spechko and the injured leg is reported to be healing well.

TETANUS INHIBITED BY AIRY TREATMENT

HIGH-PRESSURE oxygen therapy has been used successfully to treat tetanus (lockjaw) patients, report doctors at Loyola University, Chicago. The patients were placed in a decompression chamber and exposed to oxygen pressure 20 times above normal, so that the tetanus toxin was "dextoxified." The researchers said that oxygen inhibits the tetanus bacterium from generating the toxin and that they believe this treatment may be superior to conventional drug therapy where the mortality rate of patients still is 30-50 per cent.

BACON, sliced, prefried and then canned, soon will be commercially available, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The product will be vacuum-packed by a new process developed by USDA researchers. Dehydration of the bacon before canning prevents spoilage . . . SKY TRAFFIC is busiest at the 4,000-4,999-foot altitude, reports the Federal Aviation Agency. This segment of the airspace was most frequently assigned to planes by FFA's nation-wide system of air traffic control facilities in 1964.

TUBERCULOSIS could be almost eliminated if available knowledge were organized and used in an efficient manner, says the American Medical Association, but communities must decide whether they really want to work at the control and eradication of the disease. The AMA says TB can be curbed by instituting prompt reporting methods, isolation and treatment of infectuous cases and improved case-finding procedures including increased testing.

GRANDMA could never compete with modern canning techniques, says Votator, Louisville, whose rotary-piston fillers can fill from a few dozen to 1,200 glass, metal or plastic containers (3 to 48 fluid ounces) per minute with food, petroleum or chemical products. A "magnetic monitor" on each of the machines eliminates valve jam to guard against costly prolonged mechanical interruption.

THE NATION is experiencing one of the worst rabies epidemics in history, medical authorities report. Hardest-hit is Green county, Tennessee, where more than 100 people have been bitten by rabid foxes. Rabies among animals was reported in 46 states last year, up from 37 states in 1959. Prompt treatment has avaoided human tragedies thus far this year, but the increase of the disease is of major concern to public health officials. . . . PEANUT butter lovers now have a national shrine. A manufacturer of the popular spread has established "The American Museum of Peanut Butter History" in Chicago.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The Christian Science Board of Directors today urged its church members to find the "areas of agreement" which exist with other denominations—"rather than think of our selves as entirely different or exclusive."

From the church's earliest beginnings, said the Directors, it has been deeply involved in "the search for the real source of unity."

The message was presented before several thousand members at the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

"On the basis of its spirituality Christian Science has much in common with other denominations," the message noted.

"To every honest adherent of any God-centered faith sincerely working to uplift and unify the human race, we offer our fellowship and support . . . .

"Today we are confronted with one of history's deepest, most divisive social upheavals," the Directors continued.

"Marking this upheaval is the churning drive of the individual to find the real meaning of life and to establish his legitimate place and identity in an increasingly complex and impersonal society.

Social and governmental organizations as such do not make the necessary connection with the individual or enable him to meet his real needs. Helpful and important as these efforts are, they are not enough. They do not get at the root of the trouble," said the Directors.

"People everywhere are crying out for healing—healing in its larger and broader sense; the overcoming of sin and fear —of ignorance and sorrow . . . .

"Sooner or later both the individual and society must become willing to face up to the stark and tragic results of rooting their faith in the disappointing promises of matter." This reliance on matter, stated the message, not only "cuts men off from God," but "pulls them down and pulls them apart."

The working basis of Christian Science, the message stated, is that "that the understanding of God as divine love, all-inclusive spirit, is the one force that can truly hold men together in understanding and harmony."

Jesus "was never exclusive" the message noted; "he preached world evangelism . . . . His life of love drew the multitudes to him and established the basis for Christianity—the religion of love, the religion capable of uniting all peoples of all times."

The annual election of a new church president by the Directors was also announced at the meeting. Mrs. Frances S. Wells, C. S. B., of San Antonio, Tex., took over as presiding officer from the retiring president, Edward Frederman of Chicago Illinois. Both of them also hold positions on the Board of Trustees of The Christian Science Publishing Society.

Mrs. Wells, a graduate of Briarcliff College, N. Y. has been an active teacher and practitoner of Christian Science in San Antonio for several years.

In her remarks to the meeting, Mrs. Wells emphasized that "divine Love knows no race or creed."

Observing that resistance to Christian ideals seems "rampant in the thoughts of men," she then added: "On the other hand, the thought of mankind has never been so aroused, the desire to help so active.

"Jesus prophesied disturbed world conditions," she noted. He "foresaw the fermentation which would take place in mortal thought.

"When we learn to love and understand one another as God's perfect ideas we shall live peaceably."

In reports to the meeting by the managers of various church departments, it was disclosed that the number of Christian Science branch churches had reached the 3,300 mark with recent additions in Argentina, The Netherlands, New Zealand, and, for the first time, in Guatemala and Korea.

More church members began devoting their lives to the Christian Science healing ministry, with official recognition granted to individuals in 34 states of the United States and 10 other countries, including India, Indonesia, Uruguay, and the Republic of South Africa.

New applications for church membership were reported to be on the increase in a number of countries, particularly the Congo, Nigeria, Zambia, East Germany, Poland, South India, Cuba and various other sections of Asia and Latin America.

A Norwegian edition of the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy—was added this year to the denominations growing body of translated literature.

Several other reports at the meeting indicated that the church is continuing to broaden its communications effort through improvements in its public lectures, weekly radio series, New York World's Fair Pavilion, and various publications, including the well-known daily newspaper, The Christian Science Monitor.

U. of I. COMMENCEMENT, JUNE 13

Paintings, some barely larger than a postage stamp, and two and three-dimensional wall hangings woven from hand-dyed and carded wool comprise a bombined exhibition in the University of Idaho Student Union building lounge. As the last public art show of the academic year, the pieces will remain on exhibition through Commencement, June 13.

Some 50 delicate miniature paintings, collages, and prints by Arnold Westerlund, associate professor of art at the university, contrast with the large, imaginative weaving by Maxine Roberts, wife of George Roberts, associate professor of art.

The paintings, elaborately framed, are done with plastic paint which, Westerlund said, enabled him to imitate the fine brushwork of the Flemish style. His collograph printing plates are composed of such materials as nylon fabric, gauze, tissue paper, spackle, white glue and string.

The variety of woven hangings, by Mrs. Roberts, include rugs, a poncho, and a three-dimensional hanging. The handspun wool is colored, partially from dyes she made from flowers, lichens, and even sagebrush.

OLD FASHIONED YELLOW ROSES

Over the barbed wire tangle
Where the worn-out binder lay;
Old fashioned yellow roses
Clambered again today.

Clambered and brought me gladness
Here in a world of woe;
Taking my heart romancing
Back to the long ago.

Old fashioned yellow roses
Sing in my heart again;
But never will all their music
Thrill me as it did then.

CANADIAN THISTLE

Canada thistle is one of the most wide spread weeds in Idaho and ranks first or second in total acreage infested.

There's a good reason: it's tough to control.

But you can control it if you treat at the right time and often enough, says Clarence 1. Seely, agronomist with the U. of I. agricultural experiment station with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary with key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy—was added this year to the denominations growing body of translated literature.

"If you can hit the weed with two or three effective spray applications each season, you can usually eradicate it in two or three years," Seely says. "If your crop limits you to one application, you can only hope for control."

In cropland where Canada Thistle infestation is general, 2,4-D is still the best chemical to use. It should be applied when the thistle is in early bud stage. Rates will vary according to the crop—about 2 pounds per acre for spring wheat and barley, 1½ pounds per acre for oats, Seely says.

Rates for pasture can be 2 to 4 pounds 2,4-D per acre. The spray may also knock out pasture legumes, the agronomist warns. Pastures should not be grazed for several days after treatment.

Canada thistle control with 2,4-D is usually successful in pastures because it is possible to spray two or more times and the hay crop competes with the thistle, Seely says. You will also get a high thistle kill in irrigated crops sprayed early in the season and again after the crop is removed. But don't expect too much in winter wheat. The 2,4-D application must be timed to avoid injury to the wheat plants Thistle is usually either too young or too mature to be killed.

If you want to eradicate small areas of Canada thistle, several chemicals are available.

Seely suggests TBA, a soil sterilant effective when spray-applied in the fall at a rate of 10 to 20 pounds per acre It is too expensive for widespread use, however. Dicamba can be used at a 4- to 6- pound rate, but is also restricted because of cost. Sodium chlorate is still a good chemical for use in spot treating when properly applied. It is especially valuable on waste land or on cultivated land in non-irrigated areas.

Clean cultivation is also effective against Canada thistle in smaller areas. Farmers who can keep infested patch clean through a crop season or two can usually eradicate the weed.

Canada thistle control practices are described in two U. of I. publications: Bulletin 321 and Bulletin 338. They are available at your local county agricultural agent's office.

Cuisine Cum Laude

Todays recipe was given to me by Mrs. Jim Hoogland. She acquired it from her sister, Darlene, who with her husband lives in Berlin, Germany. Capt. Theron Ward is stationed with the armed forces there. Mrs. Ward calls this

ROULADENE

One round steak. Pound thin, spread with mustard, slices and dill pickle, chopped onion, 1 slice bacon, chopped fine.

Roll up, secure with toothpicks. Brown in butter, add ½ inch of water, add ½ cup chopped onion, 1 bay leaf, 1 bouillion cube, small amount of red wine, 1 clove garlic, chopped fine, dash ceyenne pepper, 1 tablespoon paprika, dash of thyme and if desired dash of oregano. Add one cup mushrooms, simmer this half an hour, or until meat is tender. Add desired amount of wine vinegar, ½ cup sour cream and a little butter to thicken for a gravy.

The name "Rouladene" comes from the French, rouleau, which means roll (cylinder). Thus rolled steak. Mrs. Hoogland did not know if it was German or French, but my guess is that it is a French dish. It is delicious.

FARMERS INSURANCE GROUP

(Note: This week we diviate from our normal practice of printing jokes to bring readers this heart-rending letter we recently received from a Genesee friend. We don't often do this, but we were so deeply touched we wanted to share the experience with you).

Springer Insurance Agency
Genesee, Idaho

Dear Sir:

In reply to your request to send a check, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it almost impossible. My shattered financial condition is due to Federal laws, State laws, County laws, brother-in-laws, sister-in-laws, and outlaws.

Through these years I am compelled to pay a business tax, amusement tax, head tax, school tax, income tax, gas tax, light tax, water tax, sales tax, liquor tax, food tax, furniture tax, and excise tax. I am required to get a business license, car license, operator's license, truck license, not to mention a marriage license and dog license.

I am also required to contribute to every society and organization which the genus of man is capable of bringing to life: to women's relief, the unemployed relief, and the gold digger's relief. Also to every hospital and charitable institution in the city, including the Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts, Y. M. C. A., and Y. W. C. A., as well as Way Stations for Wayward Girls and Boy's Ranch and Boy's Town.

For my own safety I am required to carry health insurance, life insurance, earthquake insurance, property insurance, unemployment compensation insurance, fire insurance, tornado insurance, liability insurance, and old age insurance.

My business is so governed that it is no easy matter to find out who owns it.

I am expected, inspected, suspected, disrespected, rejected, dejected, examined, re-examined, informed, required, summoned, fined, commanded and compelled until I provided an inexhaustable supply of money for every known need, desire, or hope of the human race.

Simply because I am requested to donate to something or other, I am boycotted, talked about, lied about, held up, held down, and robbed, until I am almost ruined.

I can tell you honestly that except for a miracle that happened I could not enclose this check. The wolf that comes to many a door nowdays just had pups in my kitchen. I sold them and here is the money.

Believe Me,
Howard

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor of the Genesee News:

Thanks to all whose planning and work made Homecoming Day such a pleasant one.

Mahlon and I were gratified to see the picture "Mount Vernon", which our class presented to the High School 50 years ago, still hanging in the assembly room.

Please do continue Community Day; it is well worth the effort.

Christian Science Church Service

Assurance of God's care for all is offered in the Bible Lesson entitled "God the Preserver of Man" which will be heard at Christian Science Churches this Sunday.

Bible readings include these verses from Psalms: 'The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon him, to all that call upon him in truth . . . The Lord preserveth all them that love him."

A correlative passage from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy will also be included: 'Dost thou love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind?" This command includes much, even the surrender of all merely material sensation, affection, and worship" (p. 9).

The Golden Text is from Proverbs (29:25): 'Whoso putteth his trust in the Lord shall be safe.'

Business Permits Due

The State Tax Collector announced this week that his office has completed the processing of aproximately 4,000 "Applications for Permit to Engage in Business" as provided by the Idaho Sales Tax Act.

The Tax Collector pointed out the fact that all persons making sales of taxible personal property, renting personal property, operating hotels, motels, tourists homes, trailer courts, golf courses, bowling alleys, pool halls, ski lifts, theaters, charging admissions, furnishing or serving food, meals or drinks, and all auctioneers are required to collect the sales tax and must obtain a seller's permit.

He went on to say that, since the Sales Tax Act becomes effective on July 1, 1965 and a "Sellers Permit" must be on display in each place of business subject to the Act, anyone who has not filed an application is urged to do so immediately. Application forms and information on the sales tax may be obtained from the office of Tax Collector, 317 Main Street, Box 36, Boise, Idaho, or from any of the field offices located at Idaho Falls, Pocatello, Twin Falls, Nampa, Lewiston, and Coeur d'Alene.

OUR DEBTS: PUBLIC AND PRIVATE

Much concern is focused on our national debt. Currently our federal debt approaches $318 billion, and our state and local government debt approximates $92 billion. People condemn government incessantly for being infested with fiscal irresponsibility and waste. Some throw up their hands and point to the seemingly large figures of $318 billion and announce the world is coming to an end.

Much misinformation concerning the public debt stems from misguided comparisons with private debt. Private debt has two characteristics. First, it is owed by one individual or organization to some other independent individual or organization. Second, the payment of a private debt involves a change in the standards of living of both debtor and creditor. Public debt differs from private debt on both of these counts. For first, the public debt is a debt we Americans owe to ourselves. If the government decided to retire the debt, it could do so by collecting taxes from American citizens and retiring the debt. Secondly, since we owe the debt to ourselves, the debt's retirement would result in no loss of wealth for the country as a whole. To retire the debt, the government would raise taxes sufficiently to redeem the bonds Americans hold. People always ask, "What will happen if the debt falls due at a certain period?" The national debt will not fall due on a certain period. A relatively small portion actually falls due during each month or year. The government can issue new bonds to pay for those that have matured.

The relative size of the public debt has been declining through the years. In 1946 the national debt was 129 per cent of the Gross National Product, or the total value of goods and services produced in that year. By 1950 this debt equaled 90 per cent of the Gross National Product; in 1960 it plunged to 55 per cent of the GNP. Per capata national debt has been declining since 1946. The public debt will have little difficulty in growing in absolute terms as long as the government can sell its savings bonds. If the market for bonds dries up, the Federal Reserve Banks can use their tremendous financial resources to buy the excess bonds.

However the public debt poses some vexing problems. Since the government has the power to eliminate the debt, we may wonder why it is allowed to exist. If the debts were eliminated, this would contribute to greater income inequality. Common sense suggests that most government bondholders are in the middle and upper income brackets. The tax revenue the government would receive would come rather evenly from all income groups, thus creating greater income inequality. The public debt also leads to inflationary pressures in the economy and dampened incentives to invest, the latter condition resulting from the $9 billion in tax money the government pays annually on interest on the public debt. The national debt may also lead to wasteful government spending because deficit financing is so readily available.

The public debt has been placed on a pedestal by some people as an example of fiscal irresponsibility. We private individuals should remember that when we point at someone, three of our fingers are pointing back at us. Our private debts of $811 billion in 1964 dwarf the public debt. During the last five years, farm debt has increased 6 times faster than the federal debt and 3½ times faster than the total public debt. Corporation debt, now about $400 billion, has increased 5 times faster than the federal debt. Who is being irresponsible financially and fiscally? As has been shown in our comparison between public and private debt, the private debt is more potent and contains more personal financial obligations. Some economists warn that the immense private debt may be one prime cause of a future depression. An old saying is: To be in debt is to be in danger. We may find this to be true in our own lives.

Those present were Dr. and Mrs. A. J. White and Mr. and Mrs. Anton Kamkitsch of Lewiston; Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Follett, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Kambitsch, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Nordby, Mr. and Mrs. Don Springer, Mrs. W. J. Baumgartner, and Mrs. W. W. Burr, all of Genesee.

Weekend Rain Helps Crops

Almost one-half inch of rain fell over the area Friday evening of last week bringing welcome moisture to farmers and gardeners. Pea growers were especially glad to see the break in the weather as the pea fields, just at the blooming stage were in bad need of rain.

The arrival of the rain also broke a warm spell and sent the mercury skidding down in the high thirties and low forties during the evenings and nights. Last Thursday a high of 86 was recorded in Genesee, probably the highest temperature reading we have had in this area this year.

The sun shone intermittently Sunday and when skies turned overcast Monday with scattered showers prevailing over most of this area. Thursday the skies were still cloudy after a brief rain Wednesday evening.

Smylie-Decker Wedding Rites Vowed

Miss Terrell Smylie exchanged marriage vows with Mr. James Daryl Decker in a floral setting of gladioli, white pennie, and snapdragons on Sunday, June 13, 1965 at Holy Trinity Lutheran church, Mercer Island. Candelabra and gladioli were along the sides of the altar and bows and greens lined the pews.

Miss Smylie is the daughter of Mrs. George Smylie, of Spokane, and the late George Smylie, and granddaughter of Mrs. Edith Alexander, formerly of Genesee. Decker is a son of Mrs. Polly Decker of Long Beach, California.

For the marriage ceremony the bride wore a classic cut, full-length gown of white silk organza over taffeta, with an elbow length veil. Her flowers were roses, ivy, and stephanotis, and she carried a white lace wedding handkerchief belonging to her grandmother.

Maid of honor, Judith Buck, of Fresno, California, and bridesmaids, Kathleen Morey of Tacoma, and Susan Mc Coy of Mercer Island were identical full-length Empire style dresses of eyelet lace over light blue taffeta. They carried arm bouquets of roses, daisies, and ivy.

Hugh Morrison of Wellington, New Zealand served as best man. Ushers were George Hunter Smylie, Jr., and Richard Jensen.

The bride graduated from the University of Washington and is affiliated with Pi Beta Phi sorority; the bridegroom attended UCLA where he was affiliated with Lambda Chi Alpha Frat., and graduated from the University of Washington.

For her going-away outfit the new Mrs. Decker chose a light blue silk suit with matching shoes, and wore an orchid corsage. Following a honeymoon tour of Canada they will be at home in Seattle.

Civic Club Met Wednesday Noon

Eleven members of the Genesee Civic Club met Wednesday noon at Carter's for their regular monthly meeting. The meeting was presided over by Civic President Larry Sorensen.

At the meeting a letter of thanks from Nancy Taber, the club's Community Day Queen contestant, was read.

A discussion of possibly having the Civic Club affiliate with the Lions Club, Kiwanis or a similar group was discussed, but nothing defipite was put forth.

The group agreed to sponsor a summer youth program consisting of a series of summer dances for teenagers. President Sorensen will serve as adult supervisor this year.

The proposed recreation pond was again discussed by the members and it was decided to contact the local Fish and Game Director and the Game Department in Boise concerning the status of the pond.

St. Mary's Church Dedication Sunday

Most Rev. Sylvester Treinan, D. D., Bishop of Boise will dedicate the new St. Mary's Church at 9 on Sunday morning. As it was 75 years ago, the Bishop will also institute the Sacrament of Confirmation to a class of candidates during the Mass following the Dedication.

Members of St. Mary's parish wish to welcome all who care to share our pleasure in our new church to a public Open House at the Church on June 20 from 3 to 5 p. m.

When the new St. Mary's Church is dedicated on Sunday, June 20, the parish will also celebrate its diamond jubilee.

Early records obtained from the Jesuits indicate that the pioneers held Masses in their homes throughout the area whenever a priest should be traveling through. A record of regular services was noted in 1887 when a priest came regularly from Lewiston once a month to say Mass.

In 1889 The Genesee Advertiser tells us that organization began and a church was to be built on land in the west section of the new town of Genesee on land donated by Judge Buck.

The old St. Mary's Church was completed in the early spring and formally dedicated on July 13, 1890 by Bishop Glorieux of Boise.

The Sacristy and basement room of the church were used for school rooms. The first teachers were lay persons and the resident priest. In 1896 the Benedictine nuns came to Genesee to conduct the school.

In 1900, under the supervision of Father Remi Keyzer the first school was built. It also was dedicated by Bishop Glorieux in 1900 to St. Joseph. During the summer of 1912 an addition of two large classroms was completed at St. Joseph's.

Many important events have occurred at St. Mary's during the past 75

Cuisine Cum Laude

Summertime—and the eating is easy—or it should be. This recipe for cole slaw is one found in a booklet put out some years ago by the American Dairy Association. The blue cheese spread is delicious on grilled meats or as a sandwich spread or would also be an excellent dip with potato chips or crackers before the party. Try it.

CARAWAY COLE SLAW

shred ½ medium head of cabbage (about 4 cups)
½ cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar
dash of pepper and ½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon caraway seeds.

Chill cabbage and shred. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over cabbage. Mix lightly and serve immediately or refrigerate until ready to use.

BLUE CHEESE SPREAD OR DIP

½ cup real butter (this is put out by the Dairy Association, remember?) one-fourth cup prepared horseradish
one-fourth teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
one-fourth cup crumbled Blue Cheese
2 heaping teaspoons catsup, chili sauce, or tomato paste

Soften the butter until it can be worked with a wooden spoon or fork. Add salt and paprika and blend. Add horseradish, Blue Cheese, and catsup. Blend thoroughly. Spread on hot-off-the-grill hamburgers, steaks, or chops. Or use as a dip. Makes 1 and one-fourth cups.

Christian Science Church Service

"Is the Universe Including Man, evolved by Atomic Force?" will be the subject of the Bible Lesson to be heard at Christian Science services throughout the world on Sunday.

Scriptural passages will include this verse from Isaiah: I will bring the blind by a way that they knew not; I will lead them in paths that they have not known: I will make darkness light before them, and crooked things straight. The concluding Bible citation is from Revelation "And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new."

The theme will be taken up further in readings from the Christian Science text book. The true theory of the universe, including man, is not in material history but in spiritual development . . . Spiritual evolution alone is worthy of the exercise of divine power. (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, pp 547, 135)

SALMON RESTORATION WORK HALFWAY MARK LOOKS GOOD

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish and Game Department

Chinook salmon restoration work in the Clearwater River drainage now at the halfway point of an eight-year program that already has cost about $200,000, is attracting national attention as one of the most crucial fisheries undertakings in the Pacific Northwest that even now is begining to show encouraging dividends.

In conjunction with the chinook salmon restoration program is the building of the Selway Falls tunnel and fishway to give easy access to miles of wilderness upstream spawning gravel. This also will give easier, safer passage to steelhead trout on their spawning runs. But separate cost accounting books are maintained for the Selway Falls tunnel.

By the end of May, 112 spring run chinoooks had entered the Clearwater River and passed through the fish counting facilities of the Washington Water Power Company dam just east of Lewiston, and fisheries workers believe there are more to come. Some 107 of these were four-year-old fish, the first measurable results from a program to re-establish a chinook salmon fishery in the Clearwater River by planting partly incubated or "eyed" eggs each year in tributary streams. The others were jack salmon, or three-year olds.

A small number of the returning chinooks were marked as fingerlings. The four-year-old fish are offspring from eyed eggs planted in artificial hatching channels during 1961, the start of the salmon restoration program. The jacks probably are from eggs put in the chanels in 1962. Both age groups that returned last month are spring run chinooks, as opposed to summer run salmon. Beginning in 1961, the Department planted eyed eggs as they became available and without discrimination over racial strain, whether of spring or summ run origins. Every year such a mixture of eggs from spring and summer runs have been used.

The main discernible difference between these two races of chinook salmon is that the spring run enters the Columbia River from the ocean earlier than the summers do and passes Bonneville Dam from March through May. The summer run chinook arrive at this point during July and August.

Because summer run chinook eggs were planted at the same time as the spring runs, fisheries workers expect adult salmon to return to the Clearwater River during June and July to flash past the glass observation window at the Lewiston dam. While offspring of a remnant salmon run from the old pre-dam days still persist in the river, they are summer chinooks and spawn later in the year. Fisheries workers therefore are assuming that the bulk of the adults returning in May are the first known results from the eyed eggs planted four years ago. Salmon returning this month and next will include some offspring from the existing remnant run as well as from the 1961 eyed egg plantings of summer chinooks.

Next year fish from three spring and summer chinook salmon brood years are expected to return to the Clearwater River to fulfill their destinies to spawn and die on the tributary streams where they started as eyed eggs. Some of them will be three-year-old jacks from the 1963 plantings. Others will be four-year-olds from the 1962 work, and few will be five-year olds started at the very outset of the restoration program.

Of course, chinooks returning this year will spawn and begin a new cycle and race, supplemented by additional eyed egg plantings. This work will continue through 1968, at least. By 1969 the first returns should be back from fish that spawn naturally this year, fish that were introduced into the river system as eyed eggs back in 1961. It is hoped that the runs of spring and summer chinook salmon will perpetuate themselves and that their spawning numbers will increase from year to year until another good sports fishery is established in the Idaho wilderness hundreds of hinterland miles from the Pacific Ocean.

The chinook salmon restoration program in the Clearwater River drainage is being carried out with federal funds which are administered by the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Selway Falls tunnel and wishway is a corollary part of it. So is stream clearance work that is vital to anadromous fish passage to the spawning gravel in headwater streams.

Over the past four years, chinook salmon supplying eggs that are used in the program have produced between 5,000-6,000 eggs apiece for an average of about 5,500 per female. This year's plans call for a million fertilized eggs, give or take a few thousand. Slightly more will be taken, if possible, to offset losses in the involved process.

Actually, only about 70 female salmon are trapped and held for spawning at each of three sites, and not more than half that number at Stolle Meadows. The quota is based on the average number of redds or salmon nests observed over the past half dozen years above the trapping sites on the South Fork of the Salmon River, Bear Valley Creek, the headwaters of the Man Salmon River and the Lemhi River. Only about 35 females are trapped at Stolle Meadows because the redd count in these waters is less than in the other streams.

The salmon restoration program involves the trapping, holding fish until the eggs are "ripe", artificially spawning males as well as females, "eyeing up" the eggs in hatchery trays until the eyes of the embryo can be seen, then planting the half-developed eggs in the streams and hatching channels and hoping that Nature will do the rest of the job. Egg taking is done during August and sometimes early September, depending largely on how fast the fish ripen. Fertilized eggs are flown to the special Sweetwater eyeing station near Lewiston, where they will be ready for planting when the eyes are visible, a matter of about 20 days. Incubation water temperature is about 51 degrees.

The objective of this long-range program is to provide enough salmon for sport fishing and still give them in their liking and suitable spawning habitat, as the ancient runs did in days of yore, the size of future spring and summer runs should increase with time. The returning fish should multiply the progeny in even greater numbers as they answer the timeless urge to return in season to spawn and die. Meanwhile, the Department will complete the next four years of the eight-year salmon restoration program.

24 FOUND WORK THROUGH EMPLOYMENT OFFICE LAST WEEK

Twenty-four Moscow area residents were assisted in finding work through the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment, last week, according to a report made by Frank Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager. This is one more than were placed during the corresponding week a year ago, and considerably above the 10 persons who found jobs that way during the previous week. Among the men placed, were a mill sawyer, service station attendants, farm workers, construction workers, and other laborers. Women were helped into such jobs as bookkeeper, grocery checker, nurse aide, waitresses and domestic workers. There were still a need for some competent workers, Hartstein explained. Jobs are available for workers who could qualify as secretaries, bookkeepers, sales clerks, waitresses, a cook and domestic workers, as well as service station attendants, power sawmen, hookers, tractor operators, a lab maintenance man a a janitor.

Coupled with the increased activity in placing workers on jobs, came a decline in the number of workers continuing their claims for Unemployment Ins. Hartstein stated that the number of workers still filing claims for benefits went down from the 101 of last week to only 70 at this time. This compares with 123 persons filing such claims one year ago. All areas of the county shared in the claims reduction Hartstein pointed out, with those from the Moscow area dropping from 31 to 25. A year ago there were 50 persons in the immediate Moscow area receiving benefits. In the Troy-Deary-Bovill area there were only 29 persons receiving benefits as compared with 40 last week and 33 one year ago. The number of persons receiving checks in the Potlatch area dropped to 13 from last week's 22, and from the previous year's 32. Only three checks went to Elk River residents, as compared with 8 last week and a similar number in 1964. Hartstein indicated the good weather has combined to permit more activity in the area's woods, and also permit additional work to get underway. New applications for work are coming into the Moscow Employment Office in large numbers, Hartstein said, as a result of the area's high schools and college. Many of the young people are seeking work just for the summer in order to be able to return to school. However, there are a number of high school graduates who are seeking permanent work, and some college graduates who are also seeking permanent employment in the area. Hartstein urged those employers who might be in need of workers to contact the Moscow Office of the Department of Employment and make their needs known there.

SNAKE RIVER FISHING

Many Idaho, Oregon and Washington anglers write and phone questions to the Idaho Fish and Game Department wanting to know fishing regulations applying to the Snake River where it forms the boundary line between the three states. Thanks to a reciprocal agreement between the State Legislatures of Idaho and Oregon, the holders of either Idaho or Oregon licenses have the right to take fish and game (principally migratory waterfowl) from the Snake River where it forms the boundary line.

The legal agreement permits sportsmen using valid licenses from either state to fish or hunt the river or islands along the Idaho-Oregon border.

However, a sportsman licensed in one state is not entitled to fish inside the estauries or streams that flow behind the watery boundary line of the other state, or to get out of a boat on the opposite shore for bank fishing or hunting. The sportsman may take only one legal bag limit, whether fish or birds—but not one for each license.

The last session of the Idaho State Legisature passed a bill regarding fishing right on the Snake River between Idaho and Washington. The Washington State Legislature did not follow suit. Consequently, the middle of the river border between these states is the barrier. Steelhead anglers with a "fish on" sometimes overlook this regulation as they drift downstream.

WWP CO PAYS TAXES

A tax payment of $980,697.56 representing the Washington Water Power Co. second half-yearly property assessment in Idaho will be paid June 19. This brings to $1,962,439.76 the WWP's 1964 tax payment in the Gem State.

Of the ten counties in Idaho receiving payment, Bonner county will receive the greatest amount $317,727.52 for final payment of a $635,455.06 tax bill for 1964.

In 1964, the WWP served approximately 94,000 residential customers in Idaho, which means that its tax payments to the ten Idaho counties is equal to $57.76 per residential customer served. Annual residential revenue per customer served in 1964 was $131.00, indicating that the WWP returns to Idaho almost one-half of the dollars it receives from these customers.

Latah County will receive $79,492 for its second half payment, bringing to $158,984 the taxes received from the WWP for 1964.

WWP's Moscow district manager, W. A. Lowry will make the payment June 18 in the county tax collector's office.

Lowry pointed out that nineteen cents out of each dollar WWP collects from its customers is paid out by the company in various Federal, state and local taxes.

MODIFIED SEMESTER SYSTEM MAY BE USED AT U. OF I.

The University of Idaho last week looked to a modified semester system which may eventually lead to classes on a year-around basis. Voted by the General Faculty Thursday, the new schedule was aproved by the Board of Regents meeting here during the Commencement weekend.

Under the modified semester system, which would go into effect in the fall of 1967, classes for the first semester would begin in late August. The second semester would end in mid-May Under this arrangement, there could be two six-week summer sessions each year instead of the eight-week session now offered.

"The new schedule i sdesigned to give fuller use of facilities," said President D. R. Theophilus. "Students not continuing on with the summer sessions would get out early enough to have a better oportunity for summer jobs."

Funds for the system calling for more teaching hours would have to come from the 1967 Legislature, explained the president.

Beginning classes early in the year would allow the university to move into a tri-semester system if a change was desired after two years of conducting the double summer session.

The idea to modify the present two-semester, one summer session schedule is not new.

"Faculty committees since 1962 have been studying various systems now operating at universities and colleges throughout the United States," said President Theophilus. "What may work at one institution, however, may not work at another. Our object is to best serve the needs of the State of Idaho."

A BOY'S ESSAY ON ANATOMY

Your head is kind of round and hard, and your brains are in it, and your hair is on it. Your face is the front of your head where you eat and make faces. Your neck is what keeps your head out of your collar. It's hard to keep clean. Your shoulders are sort of shelfs where you hook your suspenders on them. Your stummick is something that if you don't eat often enough it hurts, and spinnage don't help it none.

Your spine is the long bone in your back that keeps you from folding up. Your back is always behind you no matter how quickly you turn around!

Your arms you've got to have to pitch a ball with and also so you can reach the butter. Your fingers stick out of your hand so you can throw a curve and hold a pencil when you add up Arithmetic

Your legs is wat, if you have not got two of, you can't get to first base—neither can your sister.

And that is all there is of you. Except what's inside—I never saw that.

FATHER'S DAY

Again it's Fathers Day—again the wildwood
Burgeons anew with bud and blossom rife;
As tender memories light the way to childhood
And nature teems with re-awakening life.

Down clovelands again—how sweet my dreaming,
We see the wild wren on her tiny nest;
As sunflowers turn to greet their daygod beaming
And all the world is peacefully at rest.

And then—O—then in woodland ways I wander
Where June so lately said goodbye to May.
Where wild red roses weep, alone I ponder
How spring could come and you be gone away.

STEELHEAD EGG PLANTS

One phase of the anadromous fish restoration program is an attempt to bring back spawning runs to the Lemhi River in south central Idaho, and to the South Fork of the Clearwater, through the planting of eyed eggs. This also is an eight year project, taking the sea-run trout through two life cycles the same as salmon.

Nearly 700,000 prime eggs already have been taken from about 200 Clearwater steelhead this spring. The work will continue as the fish "ripen" and a total of about 1¼ million eggs will be spawned. These are destined for the Big Springs hatching channel, a tributary of the Lochsa River, and in the Red River channel in the Clearwater drainage.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO RECEIVES $14,000 GRANT

The U. of Idaho has received a grant of $14,000 from the U. S. Office of Education to strengthen its program for teachers of the mentally retarded, President D. R. Theophilus announced today.

Dean Everett V. Samuelson of the College of Education said Dr. L. L. Bradley Clough from the U. of Connecticut would head the program as an associate professor of psychology.

"The grant will enable us to reactivate the program for mental retardation in both teaching and research," said Samuelson. "The work will be primarily on the graduate level."

In conjunction with this reactivated program, seven Idaho teachers have been awarded federal traineeships to attend Summer School at the university. The grant for the trainees, awarded by the Idaho Department of Education, totals $4,200.

The teachers, who will be enrolled for the full summer term in courses designed for the preparation of professional personnel in the education of mentally retarded children include:

Samuelson said a child guidance clinic would be set up in one of the university dormitories where they will be demonstrations of teaching, equipment, curriculum, materials, and techniques in training exceptional or retarded children.

"The teachers will have an opportunity to observe and teach themselves. They should be well equipped to go into a classroom for the mentally retarded this fall."

LATAH CHAMBERS HEAR SALES TAX TALK

Ten from Genesee were among the fifty members of the Latah County Chambers of Commerce who met at Deary Grange Hall Wednesday evening to hear Melvin Frye, a representative of the Lewiston Internal Revenue Service, discuss the Idaho Sales Tax law which becomes effective July 1.

The meeting was presided over by Don Springer, president of the county organization.

Beginning July 1, a 3 percent sales tax is imposed on the purchase of tangible personal property sold in Idaho. The tax is computed on gross sales and the merchants of Idaho will be required to file a monthly remittance return to the state listing their sales and the tax collected.

Since it has been a long time since Idaho has had a sales tax, and this is an entirely new law, there is a great deal of confusion and unanswered questions concerning the law and provisions of it.

Speaking to the group Wednesday, Mr. Frye said, to a certain extent, the state will be fairly lienent while people are adjusting to this new system.

Union Tells of Building Progress

At the fifty-sixth annual membership meeting held Saturday, June 19, 1965, the Directors of The Genesee Union Warehouse Co. announced the following expansion:

Jess Johnson, chairman of the fertilizer committee told the meeting that Genesee Union had built a liquid fertilizer plant which consist of 4 metal tanks, two 15,000 gal. tanks for Aqua and two 10,000 gal. tanks for Uan or P2 05. The concrete slab was built large enough to hold one more tank should the need arise.

The tanks will be painted and a steel fence will be placed around the structure at a later date.

Kenneth Aherin, chairman of the building committee, announced that at the present time the Company is adding on to the steel flat house which houses the seed plant. The new addition matches the present one and is 70' wide and 128' long. The new storage space will be used for small seed lots and peas.

Sanford Evans and Ellis Odberg, Jr., co-chairmen of the seed committee, reported that the company has been able to keep within two years of Foundation Stock on Gaines seed. The company hopes to have both registered and certified Gaines seed this fall.

The membership elected Thor Gilje, Melvin Moser, and Ellis Odberg, Jr. to succeed themselves as directors for another three-year term.

St. Mary's Church Dedicated June 20

Dedication of the new St. Mary's Church also marked the diamond jubilee of the parish. Seventy-five years ago, on July 13, 1890 Bishop Glorieux dedicated the old St. Mary's Church and administered the sacrament of confirmation to a class of parishioners.

On June 20, 1965 the new St. Mary's church was dedicated by Bishop Treinan who also administered Confirmation upon a class of 29 boys and girls during a mass which followed. Bishop Treinan was assisted by Fr. B. C. McCarthy, parish priest; Fr. Patrick Phelan, Lady of Lourdes church, Lewiston; and Fr. Urban Schmidt, pastor of St. Mary's parish, Moscow. Father John S. Harrington, S. J.—son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Flerchinger, Genesee—who had said his first Solemn High Mass at St. Mary's on June 29, 1948 also assisted with the ceremonies of the day. Members of the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, Father Cataldo Assembly, acted as honor guard for the procession, Dedication and Mass.

In his sermon during the Mass Bishop Treinan said that the people of St. Mary's were seeing a dream come true, but warned against letting material things replace the spiritual.

A covered dish dinner was held at the parish hall following the ceremony. The dinner was to honor Father McCarthy for his silver jubilee in the priesthood. Father McCarthy, as toastmaster, presented the honored guests which included the assisting priests; Rev. Bash, minister of St. John's Lutheran Church, Genesee; D. Baldus, S. Becker, J. Busch, John Kluss, Mel Moser, and Andrew Zenner. Bishop Treinan in a short complimentary speech praised the parishioners for their wonderful material and spiritual co-operation in having built such a marvelous church and having it so comparatively free of a crippling debt.

Some 400 guests attended a public open house at the church and rectory held from 1 until 5 in the afternoon. Members of the building committee conducted guests on tours of the buildings. Among those who attended were Mother Augustine and Sister M. Dominica Sweeney of the Carmelite Manderfeld of St. Gerald Academy, Cottonwood. The trude's Academy, Cottonwood. latter two are young women from Genesee who have joined the Order of St. Benedict during the years the parish here has been in existence.

General chairmen for the day's activities were Mesdames Don Linehan, Clifford Herrmann, and S. Becker.

Having good feelings and public welfare are something enhanced by not publishing current events. It is sometimes much better to forget than to remember for more reasons than one. No good can result from stirring up feelings hence friends our silence of the charivari part. We were so sorry things were carried on so far.

Cuisine Cum Laude

A favorite recipe of a few southerners we know is for Chess Pies. This recipe from The American Woman's Cookbook edited by Ruth Berolzheimer.

Use individual pie pans. The foil pans that frozen tuna or chicken pies come in are grand.

Make a recipe of rich pastry, and line individual pie pans.

½ cup butter
1 and one-fourth cups sugar
3 eggs, separated
1 cup chopped raisins
1 cup chopped walnut meats
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter with one cup of sugar. Add beaten yolks and one white which has been beaten stiff. Blend well, add raisins and nuts; ½ of vanilla. Pour into pastry shells and bake in 400 oven 15 minutes or until set. Beat remaining egg whites until stiff, add remaining sugar and vanilla. Cover pies with this meringue. Return to oven and brown at 325 degrees.

Or you may just serve the pies with whipped cream or ice cream.

SUNDAY VISITORS AT LORANG'S

Dr. John Lorang and five children, his housekeeper and a family friend, a Cuban girl from Colfax came to the Lorang ranch home at Genesee with a hamper full of picnic morsels to celebrate Fathers Day and treat the youngsters with a free running around in the verdure of the lawns and in the little forest.

Mrs. Lorang is still not well enough to be out and about, however she is making great strides toward recovery from polymyocitis, a muscular disease which has kept her bed-fast for over six months.

Lois Berreman, a daughter and her two boys and a girl came up from Clarkston with fried chicken and all of the trimmings to also help in the celebration. Other members of Henry Lorang's family could not make it for one reason or another. Mr. and Mrs. Clark Armstrong (Pat) of Lapwai were forced to stay put since her 7 children had been exchanging turns in becoming ill with an attack of nausea and vomiting for over a week. The Sturgills (Joan) couldn't make it down since Joan's sturdies in Sacred Heart nurses training school demanded her undivided attention.

All other members far away; Rita, Mrs. Weston, in Berlin; Mae, Mrs. Tom Jones of Scheneetady, N. Y., and Albert of The Dalles, sent their cards and gifts and Jim of Poway, California called Dad at 7 p. m. and Henry says that he talked to all six members of the family there and reports a real Happy Father's Day.

RETURNS FROM GIRL'S STATE

Miss Sandra Lettenmaier 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Lettenmaier, returned home from Caldwell Saturday evening. Miss Lettenmaier was delegate from the Genesee American Legion Auxiliary to Syringa Girl's State on the College of Idaho campus.

"Attending Girls State was an exciting and rewarding experience—both because of participation in learning about our city, county, and state governments and because of the wonderful girls we met," Miss Lettenmaier said. The sessions began on Sunday when the Girls were welcomed by Dr. R. Curtis Westfall, vice president, College of Idaho.

Greetings were given by Kelly Jackson, 1965 president of Boys State. Miss Susan Riley, 1965 president Girl's State, and several Legion and Auxiliary officers, including Mrs. Marguerite Foote, president of Girls State Board.

On Monday, Coley Smith, mayor of Caldwell addressed the delegates on city government. Mrs. Helen Wilson, dean of women of N. N. C., spoke on Americanism.

Activities on Tuesday were primary elections, with the parties meeting prior to this and campaign speeches given. Talks were by Mrs. Eli Taylor, Idaho Falls, "Civil Defense" and Mr. Cy W. Radcliffe, Boise, who spoke on Russia. Mr. Radcliffe had traveled in Russie and the Satelite countries.

Wednesday, the girls learned about the court systems of Idaho from Peter Boyd, Caldwell. Campaigns for state offices were held and the general election took place. In the evening a hootenanny was enjoyed with girls of each of the nine cities taking part. Sandra's city gave a skit patterned after 'West Side Story.' The cities were named in relation to Idaho Mountains. Her's was 'Sawtooth.'

On Thursday, the girls organized into Senators and Representatives and drafted bills for the next day. In the evening, a formal dinner and inaugeration was held with presentation of Girls' State pins. Chief Justice Henry McQuade administered the Oath of Office.

Friday, June 18, the delegates traveled to Boise by bus and toured the capitol. They were addressed by Gov. Robert E. Smylie at a joint session. The newly elected Girl's State governor, Holly Hatch, spoke. After a picnic on the capitol grounds, the girls attended the mock legislature, voting on bills.

The bills were signed or vetoed by the governor.

They returned to Caldwell and after dinner a general assembly was held.

Mrs. Eleanor Rueter, Grangeville, director of Girls State presented certicates. Citizenship awards were given, one to each city. Candidates for Girl's Nation were presented and give their speeches. The final selection was made by the counselors with Patricia Powers, Pocatello, and Jamie Jenkins, Nampa, chosen to go. Alternates are Vicki Pearson, Preston, and Bonnie Holcomb, Caldwell. Girls Nation will be Washington, D. C. in Judy. After recognition of staff and song, the colors were retired. Sandra commented that the flag ceremonies were most impressive to her.

Busses left for all parts of Idaho early Saturday morning.

Girls State provides citizenship training for girls of high school ages.

A poet is, before anything else, a person who is passionately in love with language.

GENERAL SYSTEM PEOPLE IN PROGRESS
... wanting to grow with you

He's teaching a class 317 miles away Busy executives can now "travel" to Pullman by phone, to conduct special class sessions for radio-TV students at Washington State University. The new tele-lecture system, set up by Asst. Prof. Robert L. Davy of WSU and Jerry Fogarty of Gen Tel, brings the students teaching talent that would not otherwise be available. For example, Lee Jacobi, Seattle advertising executive (above left) recently described operations of his agency, Cole & Weber, Inc., in its Pacific Northwest and New York offices. The class heard him by SPEAKERPHONE while watching slides illustrating his talk. The SPEAKERPHONE allows two-way conversation, for a question and answer period. Modern communication equipment helps teach communication skills.

This button stopped the shouting Kennewick customer Mrs. R. E. Reed says, "Thank you, General Telephone, for solving my problem!" Faced with a hearing loss, Mrs. Reed asked us to help. We installed a special SOUND-BOOSTER (TM) phone; the button on the back controls the volume to make calls more pleasant for everyone. (SOUND-BOOSTER phones are also handy in unusually noisy locations. If one could help you, contact your Gen Tel office.)

Serves 2 customers at once No matter how busy they may be at Lyle's 66 Big "Y" Car and Truck Stop in Coeur d'Alene, the phone is answered promptly. Lyle Bennion has a special outdoor extension phone right by the gas pumps, suggested and installed by General Telephone.

Sunday Frost Causes Damage

A moderately severe frost caused damage to crops and gardens Sunday night. The mercury skidded down to nearly 30 above Sunday night. A slight frost was felt Monday evening in some areas but it was the Sunday frost that caused most of the damage.

Peas in the flats and draws in the Genesee area took the worst of the frost According to Charles Airhart, Asgrow Seed Co. manager, damage varied from field to field, but he felt it was not severe enough to be rated as a serious problem.

Airhart added that the peas are still looking good but rain was again needed to assure a good harvest, most of the peas have bloomed and pods are starting to form. It is at this time that a good supply of moisture is needed by the plants to assure good quality seed.

Gardens around town also felt the frost, with beans, peas, tomatoes, and corn getting the most damage.

By Wednesday of this week temperatures had again taken a definite rise and the weather forecasters in the region were predicting thunderstorms and warmer weather.

City Streets To Be Oiled

Saturday morning, July 3, at 7:00 a. m. crews will begin oiling Genesee city streets with a dust seal. It is requested by the City Council that all residents living on graveled streets please move their vehicles off far enough so that they will not be sprayed with oil.

Motorists should drive slowly and with caution for a few days after the oiling, so as not to splatter their vehicles.

A roadmix will be put on several blocks in the near future, but as yet it has not been determined which streets will be covered.

Board, Advisory Committee Studying School Problems

Genesee's school board, together with a 5-man advisory board, have been spending the past several months studying conditions, requirements, and possible solutions to space problems at the public school.

The two groups, working together, have studied other school plants, reviewed state recommendations and carefully assessed the present facilities at the local school.

Basically the problem they face is to find additional classroom space, plan for an adequate cafeteria for school lunches, home economic classrooms and music room and solve the problem of improving the gymnasium.

At present, the cafeteria is situated in a converted home across the street from the school. The band and home economics room is in another older home next to the cafeteria. The gym floor is in poor condition and seating at the gym is inadequate. Most important, there is a crucial lack of classroom facilities at the school which hinders both teachers and students from functioning effectively.

The architectural firm of Bellamy and Bratvold, Coeur d'Alene, has been obtained to help the two groups in determining what would be the most efficient and economical method of solving the problem at the school. This firm has submitted some preliminary plans which the board is studying and could use as guide lines at future meetings.

"QUIET CUSTOMER" EXCHANGES KNIFE AT LEE'S STORE

A very silent customer managed a knife-trading operation at Lee's Store last week, or at least sometime within the past month or so. The "trade" came to light when Judd Lee, owner of the store, was showing knives to a prospective customer. When Judd took a new hunting knife from its sheath, he found some one had taken the new knife and replaced it with a similar one, the only difference being that the one he got in trade had the tip broken and the blade showed much abuse.

This kind of thing plus a good deal of petty shop-lifting has been plaguing Genesee merchants for some time.

ST. MARYS

This year marks the diamond jubilee Of the institution of "Old St. Marys"
That suffered the fate of Gethsemane When it was waylaid—transformed to ashes.

God hath given—had taken away—
Our House of Worship from this hallowed ground
That our pioneers through zeal in their heyday,
Saw to fruition; their labours encrowned.

Time is magic—Healer of wounds untold—
An alchemy transforming mortal mind
To embrace the past, consigned to its mould,
And, submitting to fate, be e'er resigned.

Now opportunity rife with promise
Had blossomed into being and again,
Fostered by sheer devotion in its quest
St. Marys planned a new house for Gods Domain.

Dame Fortune had set our parish stage—
The director and spiritual leader,
Father McCarthy, a man brave and sage,
Coached a dream into a reality.

That our new church dedicated to God
Our own St. Marys stately and grandiose
Is awe-inspiring, gets everyone's nod
And devout ingress grants spiritual repose.

BAPTIZED SUNDAY

SAFE DRIVING RALLY WON BY PASSION PLAY ACTOR

Henry Lorang received the following interesting article from his daughter Rita, (Mrs. M. B. Weston) who is living in Berlin, Germany with her family, where her husband is stationed:

Oberammergau, Germany. — Anton Preisinger, well-known Passion Play actor, won the men's competion of the 5th annual Oberammergau German-American safe-driving rally.

Preisinger, who played the role of Christ in the 1950 and 1960 passion plays, led a German sweep in the men's division with 97 of a possible 100 points.

Victory of Preisinger came after several years of frustration. This past year he was penalized 25 point for driving too slow.

Ludwig Ehrmann with 95 points, Hans Zilser, and Siegfried Gmeiner, with 94 each, finished second, third and fourth respectively in men's competition.

Pacing the women was Mrs. Else Stadler, the only American winner in either division. She finished with 97 points. Mrs. Stadler is the wife of Sfc Paul Stadler.

Finishing second was Ericka Kronthaler with 94 points. Third place went to Irmgard Kleinhenz, 91 points, and fourth place to Anna Zinner with 89 points.

Awards were presented to the four men and women winners at a German-American dance in the Oberammergau Officers Club by Gerecke and Ernest Zwink, German coordinator of the rally.

In Idaho, after a day's fishing beer's the one... for good taste, good fun

Wherever you fish for sport—on the ocean, by the booming surf, or on some quiet country pond, it's great at the end of the day to head for a rewarding glass of beer. While you're talking over the ones that got away, or pan-frying the ones that didn't, you enjoy the hearty taste and cool refreshment only a glass of beer can give you so well. Yes, whatever your sport—bowling or strolling, golfing or gardening —a frosty glass of beer makes a naturally great accompaniment.

AIR AGENCY SHOOTS DOWN GARAGE DOORS

HOMEOWNERS may find them convenient, but the Federal Aviation Agency is upset over the performance of radio-controlled garage doors. FAA says the electronic gadgets emit signals that can be hazardous because they often are in the ultra-high frequency radio bands used for military emergency, aircraft communications and air navigation. The door openers are subject to being legally blacked out if they interfere with communications, warns, FAA. During one week in the Los Angeles area alone 58 openers were tracked down and "shut off the air."

ACETYLENE GAS, first acclaimed because of its bright flame, has become one of industry's most useful gases because it burns so hot. Actylene's brilliant flame was discovered early in the 1900's when scientists noted that, mixed with oxygen, it burned far brighter than the oxygen-hydrogen flame of the theater's "limelight" Midwest Carbide reports that about 12 billion cubic feet of acetylene is produced annually to heat metals in gas welding. But the last acetylene street light was turned off in 1929.

THE NATURE OF THE SALES TAX

"The sales tax is coming to Idaho!" This sentence is repeated continually over every form of news-media that has been invented by man. These words precede and follow each advertisement so commonly that an advertisement without mention of the sales tax is like a baseball game without the Stars-Spangled Banner. The reception given the sales tax suggests the return of The Plague. It would be good for us to stand back and analyze impartially this tax that will soon become a part of our daily living.

There are two different philosophies as to how taxes should be apportioned. They are the benefits received principle and the ability-to-pay principle. The benefits received principle asserts that those who receive the benefits from a government program should pay the cost of it. The gasoline tax is a good example of this. Gas tax revenues, which are spent usually on the construction and maintenance of highways, are provided by those that benefit from the use of such highways. However this principle is not widely used because of difficulties in its application. For example, it would be difficult to decide how much each American family benefits received principle of taxation. It would be ridiculous to tax the unemployed so they may receive unemployment compensation payments. The other tax philosophy is the ability-to-pay principle of taxation. This principle holds that the tax burden should be shifted to those best able to pay it. Those with larger incomes will pay greater taxes both absolutely and relatively than those with modest incomes. Our personal and corporate income taxes are geared to this philosophy.

We are now led to the question of tax rates and the different classification of taxes. Taxes are classified as being progressive, proportional, or regressive. A tax is progressive if the tax rate increase as the tax base increases. Income and inheritance taxes are examples of progressive taxes A tax is proportional if the tax rate is fixed regardless of the size of the tax base. A tax assessing everyone 15 per cent of his income would be a proportional tax. A tax is regressive if the tax rate increases as the tax base decreases. A tax of 20 per cent on incomes smaller than $1000, 15 per cent on incomes between $1000 and $2000, and 10 per cent on incomes between $2000 and $3000 would be an example of a regressive tax.

In what categories does the sales tax fall? The sales tax flies in the face of the ability-to-pay principle of taxation. It is levied on all persons regardless of income and financial position. The question arises: Is the sales tax progressive, proportional, or regressive? Let us use a sales tax rate of 3 per cent for our illustrations. Since the rate remains constant no matter how much is spent, we may feel the sales tax to be proportional. But let us examine the sales tax from the income approach. Suppose Martin has an income of $300 and spends all of it. Randall, however, earns $6000 and spends two-thirds of it, or $4000. Using 3 per cent as the tax rate, we find that Martin will pay $90 (3 per cent of $3000) and Randall will pay $120 (3 percent of $4000). Since Martin spends all his income, all is subject to the tax. Randall, by spending only two-thirds of his income avoids being taxed on the remaining third that is saved. As a result Martin will pay $98, or 3 per cent of his $3000 income while Randall will pay $120, or just 2 per cent of his $6000 income. The sales tax is regressive because a larger share of the poor man's income is exposed to the tax than is the case with the rich man.

Cuisine Cum Laude

Here is a cooling Fourth of July recipe called

STRAWBERRY SWIZZLE

2 packages strawberry flavored gelatin
2 cups hot water
1 cup cold water
1 large bottle (3½ to 4 cups) chilled ginger ale
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add cold water and chill until syrupy (about 1 hour).

Into each 6 chilled, 16-ounce glasses, pour ½ cup gelatin. Add half of ginger ale to the six glasses; stir. It is very important to add part of the ginger ale before ice cream, so gelatin won't harden in flecks. Divide ice cream among glasses; fill with ginger ale. Trim with whole berries.

This dessert would be elegant for an afternoon party or a cool dessert to top off a dinner out-of-doors.

The days that come to make my glad

FARMERS INSURANCE GROUP

First Cowboy: "Why do you wear only one spur?"

Second Cowboy: "Well, I figure when one side of the horse starts running, the other side will, too."

A farmer was telling his son what a good shot he was, and probably exaggerated more than he should have. To prove his point, he took the boy out duck hunting with him one day.

Ducks were scarce, but finally a lone bird flew overhead. The father took careful aim and fired. The duck kept right on going.

Turning to the boy, the father said: "Son, you've just witnessed a miracle. There flies a dead duck."

"My three boys stick together," said the mother, "when one boy gets into trouble, neither of the others will tell on him."

"Then how do you find out which one to punish?"

"It's easy. I send them all to bed without supper. Then the next morning I thrash the one with the black eye."

GEN TEL CUSTOMERS TO BENEFIT FROM EXCISE TAX CUT

SUBSTANTIAL SAVINGS to all telephone users will result from the reduction in the Federal Excise Tax, just approved by Congress and signed into law by the President.

The 10 percent tax on local telephone service and long distance calls will be lowered to 3 percent on January 1, 1966. A reduced rate of 2 percent will apply on January 1, 1967, with a further decrease to 1 percent on January 1, 1968. The tax will be eliminated entirely the following year.

General Telephone pointed out on frequent occasions that the tax was inequitable and should be removed. We wish to thank all who took the time to write their Congressmen supporting this view.

We are extremely pleased that Congress has voted to reduce the tax, and in three years eliminate it entirely.

And we are doubly pleased that the resulting savings will be received by you—our customers.

Rombaugh-Grieser Vows Exchanged June 26

Margaret Rombaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kraut, and Donald A. Grieser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Grieser, were united in marriage at a solemn nuptial mass on Saturday, June 26th in St. Mary's Catholic Church, Genesee. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Father B. C. McCarthy.

Two large baskets of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums trimmed with ice blue satin bows were on either side of the altar. Organist was Mrs. Wilson Esser. Carol and Cheryl Kraut, twin sisters of the bride sang, "The Bells of St. Marys," "The Wedding Prayer," and "Ave Maria."

The bride, given in marriage by her father was attired in a street-length ice-blue textured satin sheath with white lace coat. Her hat was a white lace pillbox with veil and she wore white gloves and ice-blue satin shoes. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of white roses and gladioli. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

The bride's sister of Portland, Oregon, Miss Joan Kraut, was maid of honor. Miss Kraut's dress was of ice blue satin with matching jacket and shoes. She wore a single white rose in her hair, white gloves, and carried a nosegay of white roses and blue carnations.

On either side of the cake were silver candelabra which held white candles decorated with tiny blue satin rosettes.

After the bride and groom cut the traditional first piece, the cake was served by Barbara Kraut, the bride's sister, and Mrs. Don Kraut, her sister-in-law. Pouring were Mrs. Kent Broemeling, the groom's sister, and Mrs. Beverly Dore, Spokane, cousin of the bride.

Carol and Cheryl Kraut were at the gift table, assisted by Mrs. Dan Kraut of Moscow. Mrs. Jay Bettesworth was in charge of the guest book.

Local Archeologists Make Good

It was reported that a group of local talent, Lloyd Esser and Barbee Ivie of Genesee and Sgt. Carl Theissen of Moscow embarked on a safari into the wilds of Montana over the Fourth of July weekend. The target was the quest of Indian artifacts, tepees, and buffalo jumps.

Leaving Genesee July 2nd the group motored into the dark of night. Finding the trip a might far, the troup made camp somewhere over the border. A fine meal was prepared and disposed of in the confines of the spacious camper.

There were numerous chefs in the party, but one was carried away and burned the spuds.

Arising early on the 3rd the boys reached the diggings before midday, any many fine artifacts were unearthed. The remaining time was spent on scouting parties, observation, and eating.

The return trip was made without incident, until back in the Gem State. Then a fine specimen of an Indian pestle was turned up, which proved to be the highlight of the expedition.

THE SUMMER SEA

Let me go down by the sea today,
Down by the summer sea;
To silvery spray—toss't up by the bay
Where the wind is glad and free.

Let me dream out my wondrous dream
Of the days that are yet to be;
Where the surges gleam—and the gray
gulls scream
Down by THE SUMMER SEA.

MAY ARRESTS HIGH

People without licenses or hunting or fishing during closed season during May amounted to slightly more than two-thirds of the total arrests. Of 72 arrests during the month, 30 were on charges of violating closed season regulations (26 fishing, 2 big game, 1 bird and 1 trapping), 15 people were fishing and 5 were trapping with out licenses, and 11 others carried invalid licenses. Eight citations were issued for unlawful fishing procedure, particularly violations of the steelhead, salmon and sturgeon permit card.

Total fines for the month amounted to $1,382.50, bringing the year's total to $7,456.50. Half of this amount goes to school and general funds in counties where it was collected.

Employment Situation In Latah County

New job opportunities offered through the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employment doubled from the previous week rising to 36 from the preceding week's 18, according to a report released by Frank Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager. Hartstein said that the number of workers placed in jobs during the week increased from the 18 placed during the previous week to a total of 27 as of the end of the current week. Hartstein explained that exceptionally favorable weather during the week made for extra demands for hay hands, as well as a variety of woods workers through-out the area. In fact, he indicated, workers in almost all out-of-doors industries were placed through the office, as well as in several other areas of employment. In addition to farm and woods workers, the office referred and placed men as tractor operators, construction laborers, and other laborers. Jobs were found for women as a secretary, a sales clerk, waitresses and domestic workers. A variety of jobs remained unfilled over the weekend according to the report. Qualified women could find work as an office nurse, a secretary, a bookkeeper, cooks, waitresses and a cleaning lady. Men could only find jobs as a laboratory maintenance man, a head sawyer, (circle saw) in a sawmill, power sawyers in the woods, an edgerman, a meat cutter, and hookers in the woods. After the long holiday, Hartstein indicated, employment prospects should be just as bright, and might even be a little better for the next few months.

Even though job opportunities increased, the number of persons filing claims for Unemployment Insurance took a slight upward jump during the week. This was the result of many workers who had been terminated from their employment during, or at the end of the previous week. Most of those workers filing new claims for benefits during the week were former University employees, with a few workers from other areas of employment. Many of those workers will find other summer work in a short time, while others might remain unemployed for longer periods of time.

Not all of these workers will remain eligible for benefits, Hartstein explained. Although 19 workers filed new claims, the number actively seeking benefits rose only 7—from 56 to 63 during the week. One year ago there were 93. This indicates that several others closed out their claims, usually because they had returned to work.

The area of the County showing an increase was the immediate Moscow vicinity where the number of claimants rose from 27 to 36, during the week. However, a year ago there were 58. In the Troy-Deary-Bovill area there are now 13 persons receiving benefits compared with 16 a week ago, and 18 a year ago. In the Potlatch area there are now 13 workers filing claims, compared with 12 last week, and 15 last year. Only one check is going to Elk River—the same as last week, and compared with 2 during the corresponding week a year ago. During the coming week, nearly all workers from Idaho and Washington will be attempting to receive benefits based on their earnings during the January-December 1964 period, Hartstein concluded.

UPPER PRIEST LAKE MANAGEMENT ACT EXECUTED

Gov. Robert E. Smylie of Idaho and Regional Forester Neal M. Rahm of Missoula, Montana have executed a joint management agreement covering Northern Idaho's Priest Lake.

Rahm said that the joint management plan identifies Upper Priest Lake as a "scenic gem in an attractive and unspoiled forest setting." The agreement sets forth plans for maintaining the lake's natural beauty.

"Travel to the now roadless lake area will be limited to riding, hiking, and by boating. Roads, commercial timber cutting, and permanent buildings will not be permitted on either National Forest or State lands. Except for five parcels of private land, the entire lakeside area is owned by the State of Idaho or is part of the Kaniksu National Forest.

The management unit is designated as a "scenic area". Formal boundaries are set by the agreement. "In general," Rahm said, "the Scenic Area includes the lands seen and enjoyed by visitors to the lake. Within the area our common objective is the maintenance of a primitive environment. Campground and picnic area, for example, will only be accessible by boat and will be well screened from the shoreline. The Forest Service guard station on the lakeshore will be eliminated as the Cooperative management plan is activated."

Gov. Smylie has designated State Forester Roger L. Guernsey as the State's liaison officer with the Forest Service. Representatives of the two forestry organizations will meet soon to discuss intensive planning for the Scenic Area.

"The Forest eSrvice has announced its interest in acquiring the private holdings on Upper Priest Lake," Rahm said Congress has recently provided the authority to add them to the Kaniksu National Forest.

- FRIDAY FORUM -

Last week we discussed the nature of the sales tax and found it to be a regressive tax that falls on all persons, regardless of income. This week we will determine the implications of the tax and our responsibilities as citizens of the State of Idaho.

Since July 1, debate has been raging about the fairness of the tax. However a more important issue has been covered up by the superficial complaints that have been heard about the sales tax. This issue concerns the ability of our state to raise sufficient revenues to finance adequately certain governmental functions it is obligated to perform. A large amount of revenue generated by the sales tax is to be allocated to education. We are reminded daily of our low level of educational facilities as compared with other states. In the school year of 1958-59, Idaho's public schools received 29.3% of their income from the state while the national average was 39.8%. In the same year school expenditures in Idaho stood at $270 per pupil, compared with $340 nationally. Also, Idaho is faced with teacher troubles. Since many schools cannot generate sufficient revenue to offer attractive salaries, few instructors seek positions in Idaho and therefore quality suffers as a result. As far as average salaries are concerned, Idaho's listing is very low. At Whitworth nearly one-fourth of the students are going into education as a career. I have talked with several concerning where they wish to teach, and Idaho ranks in popularity with Alabama and Mississippi. Attracting teachers to Idaho with salaries the way they are is like trying to grow wheat in the middle of Main Street. It is our responsibility to give our schools the financial support they need which will empower them to educate our public school pupils adequately. This may seem odd to be coming from me, for I feel I was lucky to graduate from one of the highest rated schools academically in the state. However I cannot keep from wondering about the one-room schoolhouses that still exist in which the board of education is a shingle.

The sales tax issue can be settled at the polls, as may happen in November 1966. Then and there the question of the fairness of the tax can be decided, but the primary problem of revenue source for the state must be solved first. Why? Before we can condemn one form of taxation, we must find an alternative form that will still achieve the desired goals. It will be a great challenge to the voters, for some will vote against any tax, even though they may be depriving their own children of a decent education.

The sales tax is not our legislator's fault. A majority of them felt the sales tax to be the best way of solving our revenue problems. The ultimate decision is given to the people, either to accept the sales tax or, if they reject it, to express their feelings to their representatives. The moment of truth is close at hand. We must soon decide whether or not Idaho will become a progressive state or a stagnant one. If we fail to give careful analysis to our state tax structure, Idaho will soon become a bumbling, backward state capable of teaching her children only the three R's: Reading, 'Riting, and 'Rithmetic.

MOON CRAMPS EARTH STYLE

DRILLING into the moon for rock samples may be difficult, say scientists at Pennsylvania State University. The space experts believe machines with laser beams may be needed for excavations because there is no air, precluding normal blasting. Also, the extreme temperatures make normal lubrication of machinery impossible and dust particles will fall slowly from cutting operations because the lunar gravity is only one-sixth that of Earth.

'SLUMBERMONGERS' must go, says the American Medical Association. This is the AMA's term for people who bilk chronic insomniacs out of millions of dollars by peddling non-prescription bills, powders, drinks and devices to bring on sleep. Chronic insomnia often has a "neurotic" cause and the patient should consult a competent physician. Further, most of the over-the-counter sleep preparations are more expensive but vastly less effective than a prescribed sedative, the AMA insists.

AN ELECTRIC PEN that writes on glass, metal or cereamaic surfaces has been developed at Georgia tech. The instrument, a small electric welding "pen," uses a shiny, silvery metal called "indium" as ink. The heated point of the pen is rested on a small piece of the indium for a few seconds until it melts and adheres to the point and can be transferred to another object. The University says the decorative possibilities appear quite varied.

SUPER MULTI-MOUSE is the name of an ol well perforating gun developed by Pam Geo. Atlas Corp., Houston. The gun, lowered into the well at the end of a steel shaft, fires explosive charges into rock formations to open passages for oil to flow into the shaft. Charges used have velocities (in air) of up to 25,000 feet per second . . . NEW EVIDENCE that cancer is caused by viruses has been unearthed at Argonne National Laboratory. The organization says it has found a filterable agent that produces bone cancer in mice. If it can be proved that virsuses cause cancer, the prospects for eventual prevention and cure of the disease are much brighter, says Argonne.

TWO-YEAR-OLD BOYS run a higher risk of accidental injury than any other age-sex category, a recent New York study indicates. Male toddlers in this age group had a 75 per cent higher accident rate than all other classification . . . CROCODILES in the Nile river are 'stoned' all the time without ever touching a drop of liquor. According to zoologist, the huge lizards swallow about 10 pounds of stones to overcome their naturay top-heaviness. Without the stones as ballast the crocs would wallow in the water like empty cargo ships.

Christian Science Church Service

The record of Jesus' last supper and his meetings with the disciple after his resurrection will be reviewed in the Bible Lesson-Sermon to be heard in all Christian Science churches this Sunday, July 11.

The subject is "Sacrament," and the Golden Text is from I Corinthians: 'Let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth."

One of the related passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook will include these lines: "In the sanctuary of earnest longings, we must deny sin and plead God's allness. We must resolve to take up the cross, and go forth with honest hearts to work and watch for wisdom, Truth and Love"1 Science and Health with key to the scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 15).

FUR MARKET BETTER

Better fur prices probably stimulated Idaho trappers to work harder. The catch for seven of the 15 listed species of furbearers increased last year over the previous season. More muskrats were caught than in any of the previous seven years.

The average pelt price is the highest in the past 12 years. But it still is 14 cents below the 1945-46 to 1954-55 average.

The 1963-64 beaver harvest was down to slightly less than half the previous season's take. Severe winter conditions, low price for pelts, and shortening of the trapping season caused the reduced harvest.

The average season price for coyotes was $3.50 per pelt, but $8.27 average was paid recently at a fur auction at Pocatello. This was 92 cents above the 1962-63 average, the biggest price hike for any fur over the previous season. Bobcat pelts averaged $17.16, a record price for that species. The average season price was $5.56.

These furs are being used in parkas and coats mainly in European ski styles.

Cuisine Cum Laude

"Hot enough for you?" is a colloquialism most apropo, this week, in Genesee. Even though it is hot, farm wives and town wives must still cook for sometimes jaded but more often ravenous appetites. So we offer a raisin jello salad, a delicious relish, and a cool fruit combination. These dishes will perk up summer meals and are, at the same time wholesome and appetizing for your family.

RAISIN JELLED SALAD

1 can crushed pineapple
1 cup raisins
1 3-ounce pkg. lemon flavored gelatin
½ teaspoon whole cloves
one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon

Drain pineapple and divide fruit into eight custard cups or individual molds. Add enough water to juice to make two cups liquid, add raisins and spices. Bring to a boil, skim out cloves and add gelatin. Stir until dissolved and pour into molds. Chill. Unmold on lettuce and top with favorite dressing.

PIMIENTO-ONION RELISH

Two-thirds cup water
One-third cup cider vinegar
½ teaspoon fine herbs
2 tablespoons sugar
1 4-ounce can whole pimientos, quartered
1 medium onion, sliced

Combine water, vinegar, fine herbs, and sugar; add pimientos and onion. Marinate overnight. Drain and serve as meat accompaniment.

MELON BOATS WITH FRUIT

Quarter a canteloupe or other melon. Peel. Use four wedges for this recipe. Combine 2 cups mixed fruit. Suggestions are peeled orange slices, grapefruit slices, maraschino cherries, white grapes, pear or peach slices. Add 1½ cups tiny marshmallows, and ½ cup pecan halves. Toss lightly. Arrange melon halves on lettuce if desired. Fill with mixture and pass sherbert dressing. This could be used for dessert or salad. Sherbert dressing is made by combining ½ pint lime sherbert with ½ cup mayonnaise and blending.

WATCHTOWER CONVENTION IN SEATTLE JUNE 27

An attendance of 15,575 at the Seattle Coliseum, Sunday, June 27 heard L. M. Dugan, district representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, speak on the subject, "World Government on the Shoulder of the Prince of Peace." Marvin Miller, presiding minister of the Juliaetta congregation, stated that many from the local area were present.

The speaker was followed attentively as he discussed the only hope for mankind. "The tremendous problem of world government challenges citizens of this twentieth century," he said. "Men who advocate man-made world government argue that it must be supernational to rule all mankind. Even this would prove inadequate. However we have it proven the highest authority that the promised 'Prince of Peace' upon whose shoulder the world government will rest is more than supernational. He is supernatural, superhuman, far beyond anything human creatures can possibly govern duce. This one will transcend everything that is natural and will prove to be the foretold 'Prince of Peace' by making wars to cease to the extremities of the earth."

Jehovah's Witnesses look forward to the time when God's Kingdom by Christ Jesus will bring untold blessings to earth. "Even countless billions who have died will become recipients of these divine blessings by means of a resurrection from the dead," continued Dugan. 'What earthly, human political ruler could possibly make such promises?"

"All who rest their hopes on these divine promises will never come to disappointment," he concluded.

The local congregation will begin to use the new book in their house-to-house minister in the next few days, according to Mr. Miller who stated that all local meetings at Kingdom Hall will resume their schedule this wk.

SUMMER SCHOOL ENROLLMENT HITS ALL-TIME HIGH AT U. of I.

Summer school enrollment at the U. of I. appeared headed for an all-time high as 1,440 students passed through the lines at the close of late registration.

"Registration will easily go over the predicted 1,500 mark by the time students have signed for the three remaining on-campus workshops and the painting workshop on wheels," Registrar F. L. O'Neill said.

At least 82 persons will be on hand for the 11th annual Workshop on Wheels which is slated to begin July 4 at Harrison. This figure could easily go beyond the 100 mark, as many persons register while the workshop is in progress on the road.

Saturday, July 3, the closing concert of the high school music camp will be held in the University auditorium. Starting at 7:30 p. m., the concert will feature the final performances of the orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Leroy Bauer; the chorus, under the direction of Assoc. Prof. Norman R. Logan and the band, under the direction of

The Insurance of Insurance Service

This letter was started in Peoria in the hope of bringing relief and happiness to tired old husbands.

Unlike most chain letters, this one will not cost you any money. Simply send a copy of this letter to five of your close friends who are equally tired. Place your name on the foot of this list, then bundle up your wife and ship her to the man whose name appears at the top of the list. Then when your name comes to the top you may receive as many as 16,178 women and some of them will be dandies.

Have faith and don't break the chain —one man did and got his own wife back

Yours truly,

P. S. At the date of writing, a friend of mine has received 365 women. They buried him yesterday, but it took three undertakers and 36 hours to get the smile off his face.

A Voice Is Raised In Defense of Bicycles

Like most publications the News has a strict policy against printing unsigned letters. However, when we came to work Thursday morning we found someone had slipped a pencil-written note in under our door. The letter, obviously composed by a child, referred to a story in last week's News concerning youngsters riding on bicycles. The story asked parents to instruct their children to obey all traffic rules, see that bicycles were properly equipped, and not used on sidewalks.

Evidently the youthful writer felt there was another side to the story and wrote:

Dear Sir:

A while ago you ran an artical on bicycles. It would help if cars would respect bicycles. They get mad because we dount get to the side.

Because this letter, written with sincerity, contained a basic truth, we decided to set aside our policy about unsigned letters and print it.

In answer to our young letter-writer we would say: Yes, it would help if cars would respect bicycles. It would help even more if grown-ups would respect more things than merely bicycles. All too often in our adult world we, on the pretense of haste, ignore the rights of others, especially those who are smaller and weaker than ourselves. In our blind pursuit for money, amusement, and selfish, personal satisfaction we leave a legacy of cruelty, intolerance, prejudice, and sorrow.

It is not to our credit that we must be reminded by a child that to receive respect, one must first be ready to give it.

JoAnn Mayer Weds July 3

Miss Jo Ann Mayer, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Yorba of Clarkston and Glen Mayer of Renton, Washington, became the bride of Michael J. Healy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Healy of 3517 S. Grand, Spokane, at a double ring ceremony at 1 o'clock, Saturday, July 3.

The ceremony was conducted at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Cheney, Washington with the Rev. Clair Grube, pastor, officiating. The altar was decorated with two vases of white gladioli and white candles. Candelabra on either side of the altar contained white candles which were lighted for the ceremony.

The bride wore a ballerina-length white satin wedding gown. It was of princess style with scoop neck and elbow length sleeves. Her fingertip veil was of lace mantilla. Her bouquet was white roses and stephanotis.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Marilyn Mayer of Clarkston. She wore a yellow and white eyelet dress with matching hat and her corsage was yellow roses.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom was his brother, Alan Healy, of Seattle. Chris Brown, Spokane, served as usher for the ceremony, and Mrs. Wally Beard was organist.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Yorba wore a light blue satin-brocaded dress with white accessories. She wore a white gardenia corsage. Mrs. Healy wore a pink linen dress with white accessories, and her corsage was also a white gardenia.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors, with Mrs. R. H. Stevens in charge. A large table covered with a white linen cloth was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake topped with three white frosted bells and lily of the valley flowers tied with white tulle.

After the bride and groom cut the first piece of cake— Mrs. J. Edward Hill, Dayton, Washington, aunt of the bride, served the cake to the guests. Miss Sharon Renggli of Clarkston served punch, and Marie Stockberger, also of Clarkston, served coffee.

Miss Norman Davis, of Clarkston, attended the gift table, and Judith Healy, sister of the groom, kept the guest book.

Following the reception, the bride and groom left on a short honeymoon to the coast.

Mrs. Healy graduated from Clarkston High School in 1960, and from Eastern Washington State College in 1964. The past year she was a teacher of English at Moses Lake, Washington. At present she is attending the Summer Session at Eastern Washington State College in Cheney.

Mr. Healy graduated from Lewis-Clark High School in Spokane, and from Eastern Washington State College in June of this year. At present he is teaching mathematics in the Eastern Program at Fairchild Air Force Base.

The couple will live in Spokane for the remainder of the summer, and in September will move to Moscow, Idaho, where Mr. Healy has a fellowship in mathematics at the University of Idaho.

Mrs. Healy is a granddaughter of Mrs. Ida Mayer, of Genesee.

Roy E. Fish, 62, Claimed by Cancer

Roy Edward Fish, 62, well-known Genesee farmer, died at his home at 5:30 p. m. Monday, July 12, of cancer. He had been ill since March of this year and had submitted to surgery and other treatment in a vain effort to stem the disease.

He was born July 14, 1902, near Union-town, Washington, the son of William and Dora Fish, pioneer farmers of the Genesee area, who moved there in 1901.

As a child he moved with his family to the Rimrock area near Genesee in 1909 and lived on that farm since then. He attended Ingle School at Genesee.

On January 21, 1942, he married Carrie E. Olson, who survives at the family home.

Other survivors in addition to his wife are a son, William P. Fish, of Clarkston; a step-son, Capt. Stanley R. Olson, of Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.; a step-daughter, Mrs. Howard (Betty) Broemeling, Genesee; four grandchildren, Roy, Michael, Deena, and Cheryl Fish, Clarkston, and three step-children, Ron and Don Olson, Aberdeen, and Larry Vestal, Genesee.

He was a member of the Lewiston Elks Lodge for 21 years.

A Kind and Friendly Man

Once again the spectre of cancer has visited our community and taken from his family and friends a kind, friendly little man who possessed a great exuberance for life. Blessed with a cheerful, out-going personality, no one could pass his door without feeling the warmth and sincerity of his manner. Whether it was on the street, at a meeting, or in the busiest harvest time, a friend could not meet Roy without getting a smile and receiving his favorite greeting, "How are you, you old codger?" These were a very special part of Roy Fish, and will keep his memory fresh and pleasant in the hearts of all those who were privileged to know him.

IDAHO INCOME UP

Personal income in Idaho during the first six months of 1965 was estimated at $785 million, and the outlook for the remainder of the year is bright.

This is the report of the quarterly First Security Bank news letter being distributed this week, it was announced by James Hoagland, Jr., Manager.

According to the News Letter, edited by First Security Corporation vice president and economist, Dr. ElRoy Nelson, personal income for the first half of the year was almost 11 per cent higher than during the corresponding period of 1964. Increase are the result of greater employment and higher average payrolls and property and agricultural income.

The general economy of the Gem state the News Letter points out, continues to show rates in increases in production and trade somewhat above the national trend, reflecting more demand for metals and other minerals.

The value of mineral production in the state will probably established a new all-time record during the year, as will quantity production in many segments if labor problems are not encountered. Silver production for the first 4 months at 6.3 million ounces was 43 per cent above last year, and increase are also indicated for lead and zinc. Phosphate production is also approaching records and capital expenditures in both metal mining and processing have been increased since preliminary estimates in January.

Despite some decrease in the demand for lumber for housing, lumber output in the state for the first four months was 530 million board feet, within two per cent of the excellent record of 1964, First Security notes.

The agricultural picture has improved considerably with each succeeding month this year, and anticipated cash receipts from farming pursuits should bec onsiderably above that reported in 1964.

Prices for cattle have moved up considerably since spring and are generally $7 above a year ago. There has been the same increase for feeders, and with consumer demands for red meat continuing to increase, the cattle industry can look ahead with optimism. Lamb prices are also good to excellent and broiler production is increasing at a rate at least equal to an increased demand.

The outlook for crops is generally good with adequate water and good growing season all plus factors. The early and late spring potato crop is from 18 to 26 per cent above last year, although prices are not expected to equal the record level received from the 1964 crop.

Non-agricultural employment in the state continues some 3,000 above totals of last year. Increases are shown in all categories, the News Letter reports, and unemployment is 15 per cent lower.

A considerable portion of the increased wages and payrolls has been moving into retail trade, and department store sales are reported from 10 to 14 per cent higher than in the early months of 1964. Other retail trade is increasing as well, with new car sales for the first five months up 11.8 per cent.

ENROLLMENT HIGH IN 4-H FARM PROJECTS

It seems paradoxical that the number of 4-H youth engaged in agricultural endeavors is increasing although the number of U. S. farms is diminishing. The agricultural program has the second highest enrollment nationally of some 40 projects areas offered to 4-H Club members.

If the current upward trend continues, 1965 enrollment could well top the 950,000 mark. This predications is based on last years figures of nearly 893,000 members reported by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Among the reasons for the upswing, 4-H leaders believe, is recent emphasis on science in 4-H projects and a quickening of interest in working close to nature. The realization that 9 out of 10 farm youth will seek employment elsewhere is another factor.

The boy or girl who raises a calf or chicks or pigs, they say, develops an appreciation for sustaining life, good health, adequate nutrition, clean housing and sound economics.

Crops and garden require a knowledge or soils, chemicals, farm machinery, safety and conservation. Record keeping is another required task. Adults working with 4H'ers provide many opportunities for rural youngsters to learn just what jobs are ahead.

A traveling display, "Careers in Agriculture," is available from International Harvester, sponsor of the national 4-H agriculture program. The challenging educational exhibit shows scores of jobs awaiting agricultural college graduates. Prominent is the statement that "a farm background and college training help to pave the way . . . "

As one agriculture college professor observed, 'Graduates of 20 years ago would be amazed if they took a close look at what their sons are studying in agricultural colleges today."

Management, marketing analysis, animal science, research methodology and horticulture are just a few of the long list of courses, he added.

International Harvester has been interested in the future of 4-H farm youth for nearly half a century. Support thru an awards program is one of their major contributions. Besides providing educational trips, scholarships and other recognition to outstanding agricultural members, the company annually hosts a luncheon for some 2,200 boys and girls, leaders and others at the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

Christian Science Churches

The Lesson-Sermon in Christian Science churches this Sunday is on the subject of Life. It describes the nature of man's spiritual life as an idea which exists forever in the divine Mind. The Golden Text is from Proverbs 16: Understanding is a wellspring of life unto him that hath it.

The readings will also include passages from the Christian Science textbook: The understanding that Life is God, Spirit, lengthens our days by strengthening our trust in the deathless reality of Life, its almightiness and immortality. (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 487.)

I CAN REMEMBER

I can remember winds across the wheat
Peripheral glory touching every hill;
The mighty Clydesdale plodding through the heat,
A tender memory that lingers still.

I can remember orioles that sang,
Along the fences row in the evening gloam;
And how the vesper bells at twilight rang
As side by side we found the pathway home.

I can remember how you took my hand,
Kissed me and told me that you loved me so;
Each time the golden harvest stalks the land
To bring me memories of the long ago.

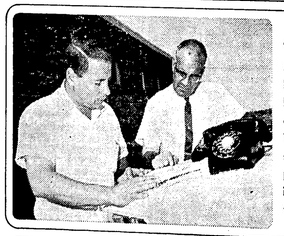
"Here's how we communicate with other police departments"

Police Chief "Dutch" Lincoln of the Kennewick Police Department shows touring members of the Explorer Scouts from Post 150 the private police teletype network. This network connects police departments and sheriff's offices statewide for quick, accurate communication and exchange of information. Messages can be sent as fast as they can be typed; a receiver-printer machine on the other end automatically types the message out so it can be read, used, and saved. Special communication equipment and service like this is just one more example of the many ways that General Telephone Co. of the Northwest is able to serve the people of this area. Whenever you have a communication problem, call the skilled, friendly, helpful people at Gen Tel.



All according to plan

Right from the beginning, Pullman builder, Fred Markley (L) planned his new Star Crest apartments for convenience, by calling on Gen Tel man John Litchfield, facilities supervisor, to pre-plan the telephone service. If you'll be building or remodeling, call Gen Tel for phone planning help.

Queen's choice! Apple Blossom Festival Queen Barbara Erickson demonstrates the newest in "phone booths" — a walk-in canopy Gen Tel recently installed by Jerry's Shell Station, Wenatchee. More of these booths are scheduled for installation.

Anyone for water skiing? . . . is the question from pretty Cassie Iverson, Miss Coeur d'Alene candidate, as she tries out a handy "dockside" phone at the lake. If you have a summer place, ask Gen Tel about a "dockside" extension.

At General Telephone, our job is to bring you the best possible telephone service. We grow by helping you grow. When you have a communications problem large or small, "check first with Gen Tel" for our free ideas and suggestions. More than 700 capable, friendly men and women work with us to help serve you better every year.

BEEF OUT DOORS

News Release by Carolyn Sue Wager, Washington Co. Exten. Home Ec. Agent

Those lucious smells coming forth from a neighbor's back yard will make your mouth water for a good ole fashion barbecue of steaks, hamburger or Kabobs. Beef is the preferred meat for most outdoor chefs. Hamburgers may be made ahead of time and seasoned with your favorite spices then kept under refrigeration until time to take them to the patio. Hamburger will surely soak up the delicious flavor of charcoal if cooked over it or fry to a golden brown on a hot grill

Less tender cuts of beef can be marianated in your special sauce to break down tough connective tissue and improve flavor then string on a Kabob stick and broil over charcoal.

This is sheer mouth watering goodness served with fresh green salad and garlic toast. Everyone loves steak. For those who like their steak on the rare side have the steaks at least one inch thick. Those who prefer their meat well done have steaks cut three-fourths inch thick.

Broil the steaks high enough above the coals not to seer the steaks but gently broil them. Serve beef from the broiler hot. To insure top flavor and enjoyment be sure to keep the meat refrigerated even in thawing until time to put it on the broiler. Cowbelles have many recipes which they consider their favorites. Ask anyone to share their beef barebecue recipes with you. Remember in the cool of the evening everyone will be in favor of a beef barbecue.

WEATHER HELPS JOB SITUATION

A total of 32 Latah County residents were assisted in securing work during the past week by the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment, according to the report presented by Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager. This compares with 27 workers finding work last week, and 31 during the same week a year ago. Hartstein said that workers were placed in a variety of jobs, all the way from secretaries to hay hands, and including a painter, a seamstress, surveyor, laborers and domestic workers. There were still 27 jobs open at the end of the week, including jobs for an X-ray technician, an office nurse, secretaries, cafe workers and domestic workers. Men were needed as a tractor operator, a chocker setter, an edgerman, a circle saw operator, a year around farm hand, a power sawyer, a lab maintenance man, meat cutters and hay hands. Hartstein indicated that the good weather of the past week prompted quite a bit of the hiring, as many outdoor jobs were underway during the week. Fairly high employment should prevail throughout the area for the past several weeks, Hartstein said, unless the the weather turns bad.

The total number of workers filing claims for Unemployment Insurance rose by 2—from 63 the previous week to 65 now, the same as one year ago. New claims were filed by 49 persons during the week. Hartstein explained that all persons wishing to claim Unemployment Insurance from either Idaho of Washington were required to file new claims, and that the 49 figure does not indicate that there were that man workers newly unemployed and were filing a second "new claim" within a period of two or three weeks. As indicated previously, most of the workers currently filing claims for Unemployment Insurance in the County are former University employees who were terminated at the end of the school year. Many of them will return when classes resume in September if they do not locate other work during the summer. Of the 65 persons throughout the County now drawing benefits, 48 of them are residents of the immediate Moscow area, as compared with 36 a week ago, and 51 a year ago. There are 8 checks going into the Potlatch area, as compared with 13 last week ,and 5 last year. Ten persons from the Troy-Deary-Bovill area are receiving jobless pay, while there were 13 during the week just past, and 8 at this time last year. No Unemployment Insurance claims are reported from the Elk River area—1 person received a check last week and 1 a year ago. Hartstein indicated that the total number of workers receiving benefits might remain about the same for a week or so and then decline until colder weather forces some curtailments in the area's out-of-doors occupations.

MOUNTAIN GOATS TRAPPED AND MOVED IN NORTH IDAHO

Seven Idaho mountain goats were live trapped and moved from their home range in the Clearwater country to new surroundings at the southern end of Lake Pend Oreille this past weekend, it was announced today by the Fish and Game Department.

Ray Rogers, game biologist from Coeur d'Alene in charge of the unusual project, said the work went smoothly over the three-day period at Snow Peak and Black Mountain high above the North Fork of the Clearwater River. A helicopter moved game crews to the mountain tops, together with nets, food and equipment.

Salt was placed earlier to entice the white, shaggy creatures into the traps. Gates were dropped in early morning hours and field men entered the arena for an exciting wrestling match.

The goats were securely tied and moved by helicopter to an airstrip at Larsons Bar. They were then flown by conventional aircraft to the Coeur d' Alene airport, taken by truck to Bayview, and finally by boat to the release site on a mountain at the south end of Pend Oreille.

Department field men said several goats had been placed in the Pend Oreille area in previous years and young animals were observed last year indicating reproduction was taking place.

Department men kept a yearling billy for use at the wildlife exhibit during the International Girl Scout encampment at Farragut this month.

A group of gals visiting the other day commented on the plain and simple fare that many had been brought up on. They noted that during depression days and while the war was on, desserts were simple, if anything. Bread pudding was a great favorite. Try it again then you'll be in for a treat.

SPECIAL BREAD PUDDING

1½ cups bread cubes
1½ cups scalded milk
1 egg yolk beaten
one-fourth cup sugar
one-fourth teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon melted shortening
½ teaspoon vanilla
optional: ½ cup thick jam, 1 egg white beaten, 2 tablespoons sugar

Pour scalded milk over bread crumbs —let stand 10 minutes. Add egg yolk, one-fourth cup sugar, shortening, and vanilla. Pour into greased pudding pan, (1 quart), and bake in moderate oven (350) one hour. — Remove from oven and if desired, spread jam on top, then cover with meringue made by adding 2 tablespoons sugar to stiffly beaten egg white. Return to oven and bake 20 minutes longer. The jam and meringue may be left out.

FRIDAY FORUM

LET'S STOP MIXING ALCOHOL WITH GASOLINE

World War I is remembered by many as one of the bloodiest and most gruesome wars in history. Americans that fought in that war remember its viciousness and their tales illustrate the evil that is the end product of hate. During the United States' involvement in the war, 49,000 Americans were killed and nearly 200,000 were injured. Yet in 1964 alone 48,000 Americans died in traffic accidents and nearly 3,500,000 were injured.

It does seem rather strange that so many lives are lost when we are accustomed to having the concept of safety drummed into our minds. Car manufacturers are straining to make their products as safe as possible. The advent of the safety belt has further emphasized safety. We are surrounded by a myriad of safety slogans such as "The Life You Save May Be Your Own,", It's Better To Be Late Down Here Than Too Early Up There," and so on. But the slogan that motorists continually remember is "The Family That Drives Together Dies Together." It seems as though safety devices and slogans have failed to halt the growing annual traffic toll. There are times when the best safety devices will be unable to prevent accidents that occur when a driver does not know what he is doing. One authority estimates that one-half of the nation's fatal accidents involves intoxicating beverages.

A person caught driving under the influence of alcohol will usually be fined or be deprived of his driver's license for a certain period of time or both. If he is involved in an accident while in this condition, a stiffer penalty may be the result, especially if someone is killed. Yet in actual severity of punishment drunken drivers are not punished more than offenders of some minor offenses. It seems wrong that a person who takes the lives of others into his own unstable hands should receive no greater penalty than a person who commits a burglary or evades income tax payments. Everyone who drinks and drives is a potential murderer, and our laws should treat them as such. There is no excuse for a person with one ounce of brain to be able to endanger the lives of innocent people. Now is a time for the legislature to act. I feel we should have a law that would state as follows: Any person who is discovered to be under the influence of alcohol shall not be eligible to receive a driver's license in the State of Idaho again. As for out-of-state offenders, I feel that through various executive agreements with other states we could be able to have out-of-state drunken drivers punished in the same manner. This proposed law may appear rather strict, but one state, Connecticut, has such a law. It is through our concern for the atrocious slaughter that is taking place that we will act to clean the alcohol-saturated blood off our highways.

MOUNTAIN GOAT HARVEST SMALL BUT SIGNIFICANT

Release of 17 wild mountain goats on the shores of Lake Pend Oreille above Echo Bay as a means of re-establishing this highly prized trophy animal where it has not been for many years gives northern Idaho residents the hope that someday this species may reach huntable numbers, the Fish and Game Department commented this week.

Although suitable habitat for mountain goats is limited, a small band of ebony-horned, sure-footed animals should occupy all that is available, reaching the point where an annual crop may be taken by hunters without threatening the breeding stock.

Idaho's yearly hunter harvest of the mountain goats was 57 in 1964 and 67 the year before, according to report cards. Thirty-three billies and 24 nannies were in the 1964 bag. Slightly more than 200 goat tags were sold each of the years.

The three out of four who recover from heart attacks are able to return to work, according to the Idaho Heart Association.

When a man is born people say, How is the mother?

When he marries they exclaim, What a lovely bride!

When he dies they inquire, How much did he leave her? A MAN CAN'T WIN.

"Mama," the little boy shouted as he rushed in from a friend's house, "they have the most wonderful thing at Terdy's. It's called a radio and you know what? You don't have to LOOK at it!"

Inflation is a lot like over-eating; it makes you feel so good, right up to the time it's too late to correct it.

Husband: You tell her.

Employer: Look her, what did you mean by telling me you had five years' experience when you've never even had a job before?

Young man: Well, you advertised for a man with imagination.

Time To Spray

The spray is mightier than the slap. Chemical control of mosquitos can be obtained, says Homer Futter, County agricultural agent of the University of Idaho extension service. Few mosquitos will enter your house if you apply an emulsion or oil solution of five percent DDT or one percent lindane to places where the insects rest or hide near the house. These sprays are potent a week or more after they are put on. As long as the insecticides remain on the surfaces they kill mosquitos that come in contact with them.

Apply residual sprays to the foundations of buildings, between logs, to tree trunks, etc. Do not spray an emulsion or oil solution on ornamental vegetation however. The chemical may burn the leaves. Instead, apply a suspension spray made from a wettable powder. Do not spray flowering plants, for obvious agent cautions. Bees may be killed.

Quick relief for a picnic or lawn party can be obtained by using (1) a 0.5 per cent lindane or two per cent malathion emulsion or oil solution or (2) pyrethrum or allethrin (obtainable ready for use from insecticide dealers), or (3), a DDT-pyrethrum aerosol bomb. A spray containing five per cent DDT may be used, but during periods when mosquitos migrate near dusk, pyrethrum or allethrin is most effective.

NO ACTION TAKEN AT FLOOD CONTROL MEETING

Land owners and operators of farms along Cow Creek drainage area met and adjourned last Thursday night at Firemen's Hall without taking further action on the establishment of a flood control district under the R. C. and D. program at this time.

The meeting was called to order by Fred Hove, chairman of the steering committee, and he introduced Gordon Price, program coordinator for the R. C. and D. of the Soil Conservation Service, who explained the duties of the board of directors of the flood district and some of the differences of flood control and small watersheds and the advantages of one over another.

Harry Vogt, area soil conservationist, talked about land treatment and taxes and stated only real property would be taxed. He said on a 3-mill levy for maintenance, this would amount to between 8 and 9 cents per acre.

Homer Moore, SCS engineer. gave some estimated figures on the cost of the Cow Creek drainage and estimated an average of about 4.5 cu. yards per running foot would be needed to re-construct Cow Creek, and also that about 2 or 3 bridges should be enlarged to meet the minimum requirements to carry maximum runoff for a 20-year storm period.

Kenneth Reisgard, work unit conservationist from Moscow, talked about land treatment and that most of the farmers in the Cow Creek Valley were already doing a good job of applying soil conservation practices to the land and that perhaps as other practices are found to be helpful, these might be used effectively in the district.

A number of questions were ask from the floor of the meeting, some were individual and pertained to personal problems that would need on site judgment. Larry Sorensen, local SCS technician, said there was still a great deal of work to be done in Cow Creek and other programs will be explored in the near future.

TRUSTEES, ADVISORY BOARD—

SCHOOL GROUPS MEET OVER SPACE PROBLEMS

Trustees of School District 282 and the advisory board held a special meeting Monday night to further consider the problem of providing more space and better facilities at the local public school Also present were architects Bellamy and Bratvold, Coeur d'Alene, who have submitted some preliminary drawings which show how this additional space might be obtained.

Present at the meeting were Ed. Morken. Wayne Hampton, Merle Roberts, Tom Boyd, and Ray Wedin, all trustees of the district. Members of the advisory board present were Charles Airhart, Fred Morscheck, and Don Hermann. Superintendent of Schools, Lester C. Diehl was also present.

Superintendent Diehl reported he had taken the architectural sketches to the State Board of Education at Boise recently for suggestions and report and said that officials down at the capitol had offered several recommendations concerning the proposed hot lunch room and home economic facilities that should be considered for more efficient use now and for future planning.

Diehl also reported to the group that government help can be obtained for certain classroom building projects if the project includes foreign language workrooms and libraries.

Although it is still too early to discuss costs with any degree of accuracy, it was felt by the trustees and the advisory board that economy should be the prime consideration in any attempt to modify the present building, but providing the best school facilities for local students must be the ultimate goal.

IRS EXPLAINS RULES FOR SALES TAX DEDUCTIONS ON INCOME TAX RETURNS

Is Idaho's new sales tax deductible on income tax returns? And if so, how much record-keeping will be necessary? Internal Revenue officials are already being asked these questions, director Calvin E. Wright said Wednesday.

He explained sales tax is deductible only for taxpayers who choose to itemize their deductions in computing their taxable income. If the standard 10 per cent deduction allowance is used, the sales tax is not deductible.

No records will be required for the ordinary day-to-day expenditures, if the regular sales tax deduction guide is used. This guide will be available for the next income tax filing period.

The guides for computing the deductions are based on averages according to income and dependencies. They are similar to those provided for all sales tax states but will be adapted to the Idaho law.

On larger payments of sales tax such as the purchase of an automobile a record of the transaction should be retained to substantiate the deduction.

IDAHO SALMON CLOSURES

Emergency closure of chinook salmon fishing in Idaho this year to allow all the upriver escapement of fish to seed the state's spawning grounds is in line with sport and commercial angling bans in the Columbia River ordered by the Oregon and Washington regulatory agency.

The complete closures by all three states on both commercial and sport fishing for the summer chinook run means that the only harvest of these fish from the time they enter the mouth of the Columbia River until they reach the spawning beds will be that taken by the unregulated Indian fishermen.

The small escapement of salmon into Idaho this year would not have provided good sport fishing anyway.

31 FOUND JOBS THRU EMPLOYMENT OFFICE

Job finding activities of the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment remained high during the past week(according to the report made by Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office manager. During the week just ended, Hartstein reported, a total of 31 workers were assisted in finding suitable work. This compares quite favorably with the 32 who found jobs through the office last week, and the 22 who were similarly helped during the corresponding week a year ago. Hartstein indicated that jobs were found for a variety of workers, both men and women. Men were placed on on jobs such as truck drivers, painters, tractor operators, laborers and farm workers. Women found work as sec'ys., stenographers, sales clerks, other office workers, a grocery checker and domestic workers. Hartstein said that there were still a number of job opportunities for both men and women who possess the necessary qualifications. Men could find work doing such things as driving truck, operating tractors, as salesmen, appliance repairmen, a stock clerk, various woods workers and a head sawyer, operating a circle saw in a nearby sawmill. Farm workers are also in continuing demand in the area. A qualified X-ray Technician could find a good job here in Moscow, as well as female sales persons, a secretary and domestic workers. Although there are not too many qualified and experienced adult workers available in the area, Hartstein indicated that there are a number of high school and college age youth seeking work in the area. While many of these are seeking summer jobs only, there are some good workers seeking permanent jobs with opportunities for the future. While these young folks are untrained, Hartstein said, they bring with them an eagerness to launch their careers, and have a considerable amount of energy and enthusaism. Jobs are needed for these young people, now, he concluded.

The number of persons continuing to claim unemployment insurance remains stable, according to the other part of Hartstein's report. An even dozen persons filed new claims for benefits, as compared with 49 during the previous week, and 5 during the same week a year ago. Several of the 12 who filed claims this week reported new unemployment, but most expected that their unemployment would last only a matter of a few days, or no longer than a couple of weeks. Of the 72 persons who are currently filing claims for benefits, 34 are men and 38 are female workers. Most of the women, Hartstein said, are present persons who have become unemployed both as a result of the closing of schools, and because of temporary curtailments in other area industries. Hartstein indicated that a decrease in the number of persons receiving benefits should take place within the next week or two, and that the number of claimants should continue to decline from now until cold weather curtails woods activities and construction work. The distribution of unemployed workers throughout the county remains quite constant. In the immediate Moscow area there are currently 54 persons receiving benefits, compared with 48 last week, and 52 last year. In the Troy-Deary-Bovill area, Hartstein reports, 9 persons are filing claims, compared with 8 a week ago, and five one year ago. There are 8 checks going to residents of the Potlatch area this week, compared with 10 during the week immediately preceding and 9 during the corresponding week one year ago. One persons from Elk River filed a new claim, and is currently the only person from that area receiving benefits. There were no claimants from that area last week, and only one a year ago.

WWP COMMENDED

Certificate of appreciation and a personal letter from vice president Hubert H. Humphrey was received this week by George M. Brunzell, president of the Washington Water Power company, praising the Company's policy of hiring college students during summer months. The award is given through the Federal Government's "Youth Opportunity Campaign".

The government recommends that business and industry hire one student in the summer months for every 100 full time employees working for a company, or one percent. Washington Water Power company has far exceeded this recommendation by hiring ten college students for every 100 employees. For many years the WWP has hired approximately 100 students for summer work. This year, well over one hundred college men and women are employed throughout the WWP divisions, working in varied varied, non-technical capacities.

The Company hires college students for several reasons, including WWP's expanded summer construction program, the opportunity for the student to earn money for continued schooling, and valuable on-the job training.

Seven college men are working on residential salesmen. Other students are employed on gas crews, making pipeline installations, utilitymen, groundmen, clerks and receptionists. Whenever possible, students are placed in jobs which fill their particular qualifications and the fields allied to their college course of study.

WWP assistant vice president for personnel, Victor S. Casebolt, reports the college hiring program has been very successful over the years and it gives the students a chance to earn money to continue their education.

"Every Inland Empire institution of higher learning has students on the Company payroll," he said. 'Fifteen colleges form the northwest and through out the United States are represented."

In his letter of commendation to the Washington Water Power Company, vice president Humphrey praised WWP for opening so generously the gates of opportunity to youth via summer employment.

PARTIAL SQUAWFISH CONTROL

Thousands of dollars may be saved on trash fish control in big reservoirs experimental work now underway at Anderson Ranch Dam on the South Fork of the Boise River north of Mountain Home is successful. The method hopefully will bring estimated costs of squaw fish control in the 493,000 acre-foot reservoir down from an estimated $29,000 to about $1,000 on a full-scale treatment.

Newly hatched squawfish fry numbering tens of thousands of tiny fish are the targets of the experimental control program, rather than mature spawners who leave the shoreline nests and reenter deep waters. The eradication of large numbers of the hatching trash fish should reduce the squawfish population over a period of time and improve the reservoir for trout and kokanee by removing this competition for food.

MACHINES TAKE OVER

Two major changes in controlled hunt procedures this year resulted in faster information to lucky winners of permits to hunt trophy big game animals, and this gives them more time to set up vacation time to coincide with controlled hunt dates.

Lady Luck still reigns supreme at the public drawings, but from there on data processing machines handle the tedium of sorting thousands of cards for permit winners. As soon as the names of winners are drawn for moose, sheep and goats, machines type them alphabetically within a few hours for newspaper publication.

Greater volume must be handled in drawing and processing winning names for controlled elk, deer and antelope hunts, but the date was changed from last year's August 10 to July 21—nearly three weeks earlier. This gives lucky winners more time to plan vacations than they had last year even though there may be a lag of as much as ten days from drawing to notification because of the bigger job.

Winners of permits for controlled antelope, deer and elk hunts must send permit fees as soon as they receive notification or be disqualified. Applicants for moose, sheep and goat permits submited fees along with their applications on a different form.

Department workers are expecting a minimum of 15,000 applications for permits to hunt deer, elk and antelope, judging from past experiences. Thus a longer processing time is necessary between drawing and notification, even with the use of machines on much of the routine work.

FISH HATCHERY COSTS DOWN WITH DRY FEED

The Idaho Fish and Game Department said this week that its 14 hatcheries produced 945,000 pounds of fish last year at a cost of 52 cents per pound for producing and planting.

Cost of fish feed, per pound of fish produced, has diminished steadily since the coming of the dry fish feed.

For example, in 1955, it required 5.6 pounds of wet feed at a cost of 38 cents per pound of fish produced. In 1964, the poundage of dry feed had been reduced to 2.2 pounds and the cost to produce a pound of fish was reduced to 17 cents, according to fisheries workers.

A big step forward has been the practice of specifying the amount and kind of ingredients in fish food. Beginning in 1963, the Department called for bids on an open formula which specified feed ingredients and the vitamin concentrate in detail.

Low bidders mix and deliver the feed to hatcheries and stations.

Cucumber time is here again. Just about everyone has a favorite recipe for pickles and here is a good one for lunchbox, or bread and butter pickles as they are sometimes called.

LUNCH PICKLES

25 to 30 medium-sized cucumbers
8 large white onions
2 large sweet peppers
½ cup salt
5 cups cider vinegar
5 cups sugar (2½ pounds)
2 tablespoons mustard seed
1 teaspoon tumeric
½ teaspoon cloves

Wash and thinly slice cucumbers. Chop onions and peppers and combine with cucumbers and salt; let stand 3 hours in cold water. Combine vinegar, sugar and spices in large preserving kettle and bring to boil. Add drained cucumbers; heat thoroughly, but do not boil. Pack while hot into sterilized jars and seal at once.

IDAHO CATTLEMEN'S ASSOC. TO TOUR U. of I. CAMPUS

A visit to the University of Idaho campus will be part of a northern Idaho tour, August 4 to 6, by the Idaho Cattlemen's Association. The auto caravan will start from Lewiston and continue to Sandpoint with numerous stops along the way to see beef ranches, educational facilities, and scenic points. Jenkin Palmer, Malad, vice president is tour chairman.

Robert Henderlider, Boise, secretary of the association, said tentative plans call for arrival at Moscow the afternoon of August 4. James E. Kraus, dean of the college of agriculture, will give a short talk at the show pavilion. The party will have an opportunity to see university cattle and make a tour of the campus. There will be a barbecue near the field house. After breakfast in the student union building the next morning the group will drive on to St. Maries and Coeur d'Alene.

The third day there will be a visit to cattle ranches, a cruise on Coeur d'Alene Lake, a visit to Farragut State Park, and lunch at Schweitzer Ski Bowl near Sandpoint. There will also be a trip to Bonners Ferry.

Christian Science Church Services

"Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day."

This supplication from Psalms will begin this Sunday's Bible Lesson at all Christian Science churches. The subject of Truth will be explored with particular emphasis on the teachings of Christ Jesus.

In addition to selections from the Bible there will be readings from the Christian Science textbook. This passage will be included: "Christianity as Jesus taught it was not a creed, nor a system of ceremonies, nor a special gift from a ritualistic Jehovah; but it was the demonstration of living Love casting out error and healing the sick, not merely in the name of Christ, or Truth, but in demonstration of Truth, as must be the case in the cycles of divine light." Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 135.

- FRIDAY FORUM -

AN ECONOMIC ANALYSIS OF THE FARM PROBLEM

As one who has just returned to the peacefulness and serenity of farm life, I find it hard to realize by my physical surroundings that there really is a farm problem. But as I talk to farmers, it soon becomes apparent this problem not only exists in economics class but in real life. It is slightly misleading to speak of "the" farm problem. There are actually two farm problems—the long-run problem and the short-run problem.

The long-run problem concerns those forces that have caused farm prices and incomes to decline over a period of years. One characteristic of the long-run problem is the inelastic demand for farm products. An inelastic demand for farm products means that consumers are relatively unresponsive to changes in the prices of farm products. For example if farm product prices decline, the resulting increase in consumer demand will be very modest. Another facet of the long-run problem is the technological advances of agriculture and the resulting increase in supply. This is largely self-explanatory, as we that raise Gaines wheat know. In 1820 each farm worker produced enough food to support four persons. In 1961 each worker produced enough to support twenty-six! The demand for these commodities has not kept pace with the supply. In our affluent society, we spend a relatively smaller amount on farm products as our incomes increase. Recent estimates indicate that a 10 per cent increase in per capita disposable income results in an increase of consumption of agricultural products of only 3 per cent. A large cause of the long-run problem is the relative immobility of farmers. In other words, there are too many of them. According to the workings of the price system, resources will leave any declining industry. True, farmers have left for cities, but this exodus has not been rapid enough. In 1910 the farm population composed 35 per cent of the national population and received 19 per cent of the national income; by 1960 the farm population had slipped to 11 per cent of the total, but farm income plunged to 4 per cent of the national income. Since farm income has fallen more rapidly than farm population, this will result in persisting low per-capita incomes. American agriculture is the nearest thing to pure competition. This poses problems for farmers because they sell their products in a perfectly competitive market and buy their resources in an imperfectly competitive one. The individual farmer has not control over his product price while the oligopolistic machinery producer does.

The short-run problem consists of extreme year-to-year fluctuations in farm incomes. This can be traced back to the inelasticity of demand for farm products which was discussed earlier. Small changes in agricultural production result in relatively larger changes in farm prices and incomes. Agriculture is composed of millions of independent producers; it is impossible for them to unite to control their production. Weather has a large influence on crop yields, so excellent growing conditions may result in a bumper crop while poor conditions will produce short crops. Therefore an unprecedented bumper crop will cause a more than proportionate decline in price and a short crop will cause a relatively large increase in price. Ironically, for farmers, as a group a short crop may be a blessing and a bumper crop a hardship.

SUMMER SALMON FISHING POSSIBILITY EXPLAINED

The Idaho Fish and Game Department said today that the reason the recent emergency closure on spring chinook salmon fishing does not apply on the South Fork of the Salmon River and tributaries and the upper reaches of the main Salmon River after July 20 is because of the possibility that there may yet be a fishing season for summer chinook salmon in these waters.

Summer chinook salmon are a completely different group of fish that enter Idaho waters later than the spring chinook salmon—and there still is a chance that the summer run will come in sufficient numbers to perpetuate their kind adequately on the spawning beds, and provide some sport fishing as well.

Salmon cannot be caught after spawning because they are not suitable for human consumption and die within a few days of procreation.

Recent special action by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission stipulated that the Salmon River upstream to the steep bridge at Sunny Gulch will reopen to salmon fishing July 20 when the summer-run chinook is due to arrive. Likewise, the South Fork of the Salmon River and tributaries, where many summer chinook go to spawn, was not specified in the Commission order because these waters do not open for salmon fishing until July 15.

Director John R. Woodworth explained that an emergency closure on these waters may be ordered if the number of spawning summer chinook salmon does not warrant sport fishing, or if it will endanger future runs by not allowing a large enough escapement of fish to seed the spawning beds in headwater streams.

U OF I BIOLOGIST HELPS GIRL SCOUTS LEARN OF IDAHO FLORA

As the 9,000 girl scouts attending the 1965 International Roundup at Farragut State Park take to the nature trail, they will be guided through Idaho flora by a University of Idaho biologist.

With experience gained from 16 summers as a ranger - naturalist at Glacier National Park to aid him, John McMullen, assistant professor of biological sciences, marked the trail. The senior Girl Scouts will follow his yellow ribbon markers through a mile of some 70 varieties of trees, shrubs and flowering herbs native to Idaho.

Since he received the invitation from State Forester Roger Guernsey, McMullen has been working weekends on the trail at Farragut.

AT FARRAGUT BASE—

GIRL SCOUT ROUNDUP FULL OF EXCITEMENT

The Girl Scout Roundup at Farragut was to our family a most memorable event. Dick, as mayor, had received an invitation early this year from the Girl Scout office in New York asking us to attend. We arrived Sunday, with our boys and Steve Kantkeberg, just in time to watch the flag raising. This is most impressive, with about 390 girls taking part. The flags are raised on poles which make up the Avenue of Flags—flags from each state plus the many countries which are a part of the world organization. And in the afternoon, the Rendezvous and Central Activities areas were a blaze of color, noise and demonstrations as patrols danced, sang, played instruments, gave skits, etc. Girls cooked corn cob jelly, barbecued, cooked with dates, made paper, demonstrated glass blowing, silversmithing, quilting, made taffy, painted barn or hex signs, and did Indian dancing. Girls from North Carolina made fishnet while Michigan scouts did semaphores. But to me, my luncheon in camp was the highlight.

I had heard from relatives in the East that a cousin's wife's niece was attending so a counselor looked up her name and number for me in the camp directory. We learned that Caryl Beth Linsenmaier was in Camp E. Area 1. The counselor arranged for me to have lunch in a nearby camp and I was taken by car around the the site. We stopped at the Administration tent of Camp E to notify them that I was in the area and then I was taken to the main counselor's tent and asked to wait. The day was extremely warm and the tents like ovens but everyone was cheerful and friendly.

"Where yawl from?" asked one lady from Virginia. I was told we were waiting for Dr. Noble. I learned later that was Dr. Jeanne Noble, associate professor of education at New York University. Dr. Noble was late, so two other guests and myself were escorted between two long rows of smiling girls to our quarters. I was greeted by some other girls in a brightly colored tent. The table was set with plastic dishes and the food was on. Never have I tasted such good cheese and onion sandwiches. This patrol was from the area around Grand Rapids, Michigan. They were delighted with the mountains and lakes and all of Idaho. "I've been looking for the potato fields," one bright-eyed little blond said—I explained the difference in the topography of our state. They asked if we had any cities—I laughingly told them about the City of Genesee. Oh, I did mention Pocatello and Boise, too. As to population—"We have only about 690,000 in our entire state." I said, "I suppose Grand Rapids has over a million people." You Idahonans are lucky, they decided.

After good-byes, one of their girls escorted me to Camping area 1 and we found C. B. Her council is named Freedom Valley from Pennsylvania, because many of our early historical events took place in the vicinity. Her patrol is the Pig Tails and each tent was appropriated decorated with a Pig's tail emblem made of felt. The girls were from Valley Forge, Philadelphia, Bucks county. They had never been to Idaho, but loved it. They gave me a box of scrapple to take home. It is a pork dish, native to the Pennsylvania Dutch, and the girls had donned gingham aprons and cooked scrapple in the Demonstration Area the day before.

I was taken to the "Bank" where all valuables had been kept, the "Press" tent, where girl reporters wrote stories and sent them to their home town papers and to the "Post Office". Army tents were served in these capacities. The Postmistress told me she had handled 18.000 pieces of mail for this camping area. Multiply that by 7 (7 camps) by 5 (5 camping areas), she said, "And you see what a monumental amount of mail we handle for these girls." I noticed six phone booths, erected between the camps, all busy, probably a very popular spot.

Returning to the Pigtail's camp, I was given one of their potlatches, gifts made at home for exchange here. There is a ceremony with the exchange and I was given a tiny pink felt piglet with a yarn tail. Inside was tucked the story of Pennsylvania scrapple.

I was invited to watch them practice the flag ceremony that afternoon. I promised to see them later, and bidding farewell, returned to the Rendezvous area, knowing that I had experienced a part of the Roundup which many visitors will only read about.

DESPITE THE SMALL CROWD—

FINANCIAL REPORT SHOWS $1182 COMMUNITY DAY CELEBRATION PROFIT

A total cash profit of $1,182.74 was realized from Genesee's 1965 Community Day Celebration, it was revealed last Thursday night at a post-community day meeting attended by the General Committee and committee members.

In reviewing the 1965 celebration, it was the consensus of the committee, that, considering the size of the crowd, it was a good day and reasonably successful. The crowd was small almost all day, and there were several other events in the area which helped take people out-of-town.

Total receipts for the day listed on the financial report as $3,287.08. These were total receipts from all the activities, donations, etc. Expenses totaled $2,104.34 and these subtracted from the gross income gave the net profit for the day.

Reviewing the itemized financial report, (printed in full below), it was again the prize tickets that turned the best profit for the day. From this activity $843.65 was realized. The Button sales, the trap shoot and the dance also contributed over one hundred dollars each to the total fund. The big cost of the day was taken by the barbecue supper which cost $479.02. Donations toward this event came to $183.05 which left a final loss of $295.97.

Other expenses and profits shown in the detailed financial report as self-explanatory. If anyone has questions concerning this report they should contact either Jim Hoogland at the Bank or Bill Roth at the News office.

Equipment Also Valued

This year, for the first time, the value of the equipment used in the operation of Community Day, such as grills, meat slicers and barbecue machines are listed in the financial report. Also listed as assets are the various supplies such as cups, spoons, forks, etc., left over. These can be used for next year's celebration. A complete inventory of all this is also listed below.

Total Cash $2,772.25

The financial report shows that Community Day now has total assets of $3,495.30. Of this figure $2,772.25 is cash. The remainder is the value of equipment and supplies. There was $1,814.51 in the Community Day fund prior to the 1965 Community Day celebration, and this was added to the 1965 figure to arrive at the total cash figure.

Suggestions Offered

After reviewing the financial report at the meeting Thursday evening, the various committee members in attendance had suggestions as to ideas that might improve future Community Days. One of the primary suggestions was doing away with the free barbecue supper. It was felt that if the barbecue could be connected with the button sale, that is the purchase of a button would entitle the wearer to a barbecue, a better profit could be realized.

There was also the suggestion that the noon luncheon be discontinued and the barbecue served at noon. This might serve to provide more of a crowd for the other events such as trap shooting, concessions, etc. It was felt by most at the meeting that the breakfast and hot dog stand should be retained.

Use of Community Day Funds

The question of what the Community Day money should be used for also came up at the meeting. After the ball park lights had been installed and paid for, some of the funds from Community Day had been earmarked for a swimming pool fund. Even after it had been a reasonably certainty that money from Community Day could not build a swimming pool, this money was not used. This year there was no specified purpose for which the money was to be used. At the Thursday meeting the opinion was expressed that some project should be started so people could see what their money is doing. Among the possible projects were rest rooms for the city park, bleachers for ball park, fences for the tennis court, and also the proposal to use some of the money to further explore the possibility of a swimming pool.

Anyone having ideas as to other possible projects or opinions as to any of the proposed projects could stop off at the bank or newspaper office and voice their thoughts.

The bride wore a white silk sheath dress with a small white hat and veil. She carried a white Bible belonging to a close friend, Dorothy Larson. Her bouquet was of stephanotis centered with a white orchid. Her strand of pearls was a gift of the groom. For "something old" she carried a handkerchief made by the late Anna Long Varo, an aunt of the bride.

"A WONDERFUL TRIP"—

GENESEE GIRL REPORTS ON FFA CONVENTION

By Karen Schooler

I left Spokane Thursday morning, July 8, for Philadelphia and the National FHA Convention. The Idaho delegation, composed of 9 girls and 4 advisors, arrived in Chicago Saturday noon, and went shopping in huge Marshall Fields Department Store. Philadelphia was first seen early Sunday morning when we checked into the Bellevue Hotel. Sunday was spent touring the beautiful city. We visited the Liberty Bell, Congress Hall, the many colonial houses and businesses, and other historic sights. Old Philadelphia is being completely restored, and it impressed me as being the prettiest and cleaniest city I saw.

July 12-15 were busy days for us. The convention theme was "Building Blocks for the Future" and was used to introduce the new 1965-69 Program of Work for FHA. The 1500 girls from 50 states, Guam. and Peurto Rico joined in lectures, general sessions, discussion groups, and singing. Several noted speakers highlighted the convention. I was one of the two Idaho voting delegates, and attended voting delegate meetings and balloted for the new national officers and the proposed Program of Work. We met many fascinating people from all over the country who contributed much to our interesting and informative sessions.The girls were all very friendly and we had many fun times together. During free time our Idaho group toured the U. S. Mint and the Philadelphia Museum of Art. The convention closed with a formal banquet Thursday night.

Friday, July 16, was spent touring the huge city of New York. There we visited Chinatown, Times Square, saw the Empire State Building and the United Nations Buildings, and ferryed out to the majestic Statue of Liberty.

We arrived in our nation's capitol late Friday night. On Saturday we were fortunate enough to be given a private impromptu tour of the White House and Capitol by former Congressman Ralph Harding. I especially enjoyed visiting the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument. Crossing the Potomac, we came to Arlington National Cemetery and historic Mount Vernon, which is beautifully kept the way it was when George Washington lived there.

We reluctantly started home late Saturday night, and arrived in Chicago on Sunday. Here the Chicago Art Museum and the Lake Michigan waterfront kept us very busy until we boarded our train Sunday afternoon and crossed into Idaho Monday evening.

It was a wonderful trip through which I gained much valuable knowledge and many unforgettable memories.

RAINS SLOW HARVEST—

WHEAT, PEAS, BARLEY ARRIVE AT ELEVATORS

Wheat, peas, and barley have been taken into local grain elevators this week as the small grain harvest started off slowly for 1965. All of the grains have been coming in from the lower Rim sections south of Genesee and these deliveries have been slowed down by rain earlier in the week.

The East End warehouse of Genesee Union took the first wheat deliveries of the current crop on Monday, July 26, as grain was brought in from the Zenner Bros., Buford Rogers, and Bartel Weber farms.

Barley was also received on July 26 at the Genesee Union. Both Spring and Winter barley has been harvested. All the grain came from the Rim area.

Just how fast the harvest progresses will depend on the weather. Even the fields south of town that are ready for cutting have not been able to be worked until later in the day due to rains and heavy dew.

Pea Harvest Slow

The rain has also slowed the pea harvest both Genesee Union and Asgrow Seed Co. reported Thursday. Charles Airhart, manager of Asgrow, said they were taking in a few loads of peas from the Rim and that three farmers under Asgrow contract had finished their pea harvest, but it would be sometime next week before cutting gets underway in any quantity. The peas are coming into Genesee Union at about the same rate.

Airhart reported that the peas brought in so far are generally of good quality but some from the Rim have shown traces of "burning" indicating a lack of moisture during the growing season.

Asgrow plant had their sorting mills going Thursday, taking advantage of the lull in harvest operations to sort and mill some of the peas already delivered.

Dave Blume, president of the Genesee Youth Activities Center, announced this week that another in a series of summer dances for teen-agers will be held Saturday evening, July 31st, in the Firemen's Hall.

BEFORE THE HEAT WAVE

Summer is a season of well-being, for persons with heart and blodo vessel diseases as well as for those who are in good health.

Respiratory infections and sore throats bow out of the picture to great extent, and the weather seems to be on our side, for the most part.

Until the first heat wave hits.

Then all of us experience a set of miseries too familar to require description. But while we may just be miserable, the consequences for persons suffering for circulatory disorders may be more serious, the Idaho Heart Association warns.

In all of us, the heart works harder under conditions of high heat and humidity and maintain body temperature at normal levels. It does this by pumping a greater volumne of blood at a faster rate, actually measurable in controlled experiments.

The normal heart has adequate reserve power to accomodate to the stress imposed by heat and humidity. But the demands placed on a damaged heart may add up to dangerous strain—as much or even more than burdens imposed by exercise or exertion.

The wise thing to do, then, is: take it easy and try to keep cool. The standard hot weather tips—eat and dress lightly, bathe or shower often, stay out of the hot sun, avoid undue exertion—are good advice for the cardiac, as well as for healthy persons of all ages.

Summer heat has another built-in health hazard of particular significance to persons with circulatory problems: salt depletion. We perspire heavily in hot weather, losing large quantities of salt as well as fluid in the process. Replacement—by drinking more water and taking extra salt, usually at the table—would seem to be a simple counter measure.

But what about the cardiac or hypertensive patient in whom the doctor is trying to lower salt intake or to promote salt excretion by means of certain drugs? For such patients, the stepped-up loss resulting from heat stress may combine with drug-induced salt loss to produce harmful circulatory changes.

The Idaho Heart Association advises these patients: don't wait for hot weather; see your doctor now, so that your medication can be checked and modified if necessary, before the summer heat sets in.

MOUNTAIN LAKES BOOKLET INSPIRES DREAMS, PLANS

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish and Game Department

Unless snow flies again in the highlands before roads are punched through packed drifts many feet in depth, and icy sheaths melt from usually placid waters, fishermen and those who tag along just to get out will not see many mountain lakes this year except from scurrying aircraft overhead.

Roads into these alpine regions generally are not open for public travel until the Fourth of July or later. But the heaviest snowpack in three decades still blocks many of the state's 25 mountain lakes areas, leaving anglers with little more than memories of past summers when they escaped from the steaming lowlands for a few days or more of enchantment and sometimes unbelievably good trout fishing.

Actually, most of Idaho's fishing clan know little about the high lakes except what they have heard or read. Being human, despite persistent rumors to the contrary, they now want to go where they can't—at least until the July sun melts more snow.

Other people have seen some of the lakes from planes scudding like clouds high above the granite crags, where glaciers scooped out nearly 2,000 "gems of the mountains" eons ago. These vistas of surpassing beauty, replete with pine-scented air, blue waters and rocky spires, however, are best seen from foot or horseback—and are worth every difficult step of the way.

Fishing is often of such quality that it sends those who indulge into peans of joy. But this nonetheless is for those with both feet on the ground, a bonus denied to air passengers just passing over.

Cutthroat, brook and rainbow trout are the main fish species found in the mountains. Size and numbers of fish vary and it is not unusual to see but not catch them. Dry flies, lures and bait all work but these fish can be choosey. Knowledgeable anglers take an assortment of tackle and use light leaders in the clear water.

Fishermen and others who like to dream are thumbing through the new revised edition—the fifth edition, no less—of the 54-page booklet, "Mountain Lakes of Idaho." One of the most popular publications ever released by the Fish and Game Department, the booklet is available for free distribution on request from field personnel and, of course, regional and state headquarters offices.

"Mountain Lakes of Idaho" resumes the story about stocking hundreds of alpine lakes with trout since 1947. Some of them have received fish to replenish the populations already present. Many others have been stocked for the first time. Each year, the Department enlarges the fisherman's horizon by stocking additional lakes.

But Department workers share credit for the monumental job of compiling the booklet and keeping it current with hundreds of sportsmen who helped by telling about their high country angling successes, about trail conditions, horse feed, campsites and the like. They also reported and helped chart hitherto unmapped lakes.

These people must continue sharing their back country experiences with the Department. Each revision of the pocket-sized booklet must update previous material regarding trout sizes, numbers, kinds, pressures, hours spent angling, and condition of fish brought to creel. Proper fisheries management of these waters depends on accurate knowledge of such things.

Altogether, there are 25 mountain lakes areas throughout the state covered in the booklet. As the introductory paragraphs point out, trail and road conditions may change from time to time. But every attempt has been made to present the maps and other information accurately.

"Mountain Lakes" first was published in 1952 following surveys—and great help from sportsmen—to learn which high lakes could be stocked with what kind of fish, and the easiest route to each lake. This led to actually planting trout in many of the lakes and the need to publicize the work.

The little booklet caught the public imagination. A revised edition in 1956 listed more lakes and relevant data. Since the last printing, many lakes have been resurveyed by fisheries biologists and restocked as needed. These men try to visit one or more lake areas on a rotation basis to maintain as many lakes as possible on a producing basis.

Thus, a definite program is carried out to improve the existing fisheries. By increasing angling opportunities in mountain lakes, some of the pressure is removed from lowland streams and reservoirs.

"Mountain Lakes" describes in detail the lakes areas with information regarding access routes and trout species to be found. It gives many tips for planning trips.

For example, high lakes are in regions where fishermen must meet all their own needs and comforts, if any. Often the altitude is enough to tax a weak heart. This means planning. Above all is to know how to get in—and back home.

On trips into mountains over distances or more than eight miles, a pack trip with horses is recommended. Names of packers in each area are available, but not in the booklet.

Other suggestions:

1. Know the lake's exact location and tell stay-at-homes the destination.

2. Throw out unnecessary items but include enough food, tackle and camp equipment.

3. Wear suitable clothing, especially shoes, for both hot and cold, dry and wet weather conditions.

4. Allow plenty of time to get to the lake—and back—before dark. If only a one-day trip, plan extra time for fishing and just loafing.

5. Prepare for letdown if lake is taking one of it "days off." Mountain lakes are noted for giving up limits one day and nothing the next.

Especially this year, check locally before trying to make a lake. Hikers particularly should choose one with an easy trail. Remember, it's easier to walk five miles on a good trail than half a mile across rocks, deadfalls and through brush.

TRUCKERS MUST PAY HIGHWAY USE TAX BY AUGUST 31

Idaho truckers liable for the federal highway use tax must file their returns and pay the tax by August 31 for the year beginning July 1, 1965.

Otherwise penalties are compulsory by law, Internal Revenue officials warned this week.

The returns are for all vehicles in use during the Month of July. For any truck later put in use, another return must be filed by the end of the month thereafter and the tax paid on a proportionate basis.

The tax was levied by Congress in 1956 for the national-wide highway construction program, and ranges from $81 to $180 according to the type and weight of the vehicle.

Any truckers in doubt as to their liability should secure information booklets and return forms from the Internal Revenue offices.

TWENTY-ONE WORKERS FOUND JOBS THRU EMPLOYMENT OFFICE

Twenty-one Latah County workers were assisted in finding gainful employment during the week by the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment. Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager, reported that workers were placed in jobs such as office workers, an auto body repairman, a maintenance man, laborers, a waitress and domestic workers. The 21 placed is the same number placed on jobs during the same week a year ago, and the jobs appear to be about the same general type as for the week in question. Currently, according to Hartstein's report, there is a need in the Moscow area for an X-ray technician, female sales persons, a wool presser and a cook, as well as job openings for a salesman, electrical appliance repairman, a truck driver, a grocery clerk a stock clerk, a head sawyer for a saw mill, a stableman and woods workers.

There are still, however, Hartstein continued, a number of young, eager workers seeking summer work to enable them to return to class next fall. Several high school age youth are seeking work, and many college age young women and women are surely need employment in order to finance their next school year. Jobs are urgently needed for these young people.

In line with the general good economic health of the area, the number of persons filing claims for unemployment insurance declined considerably from the previous week. Hartstein reported that there were only 52 persons filing current claims for benefits, a week ago there were 72 throughout the area, and during the same week a year ago there were 78. Only five persons reported to fil new claims. In each case these persons had been unemployed for some time, and had either just come to this area, or had just returned to the area from some other place. Of the total number persons still claiming unemployment insurance 31 are women and 21 are men. In the immediate Moscow area, there are 37 persons filing claims now, as compared with 54 last week, and 58 during the same week last year. In the Troy-Deary-Bovill area there are 7 claimants, the same as at this time a year ago, compared with 9 last week. There are 8 checks going into the Potlatch area, the same as last week, and compared with 12 one year ago. Most of the decline from the previous week was due to the fact that workers had returned to work, or had found other work during the past week or so. However, some were found to have not been eligible at the beginning of the new benefit year for variety of reasons.

FRIDAY FORUM

A POSITIVE FARM PROGRAM

Last week we discussed the long-run and short-run problems that plague agriculture. Also some causes of these problems were introduced. If we were to solve farm problems by John Dewey's formula for reflective thought, our next stop would be to present several solutions and choose and apply the one that would best solve the problem. With kind regards to Mr. Dewey, I admit that this method is very difficult to apply in solving farmers' dilemmas. Proposed solutions to the farmers' problems seem to breed like rabbits, for every farmer has different ideas for solving his problems. Classifying these ideas becomes a near-impossibility. Due to the pragmatic nature of American politics, proponents of different solutions are not divided into liberal and conservative streams of thought. Many people are eclectic, that is, they adopt certain parts of both ideologies and form a doctrine of their own. A large portion of Americans fall into this category, usually called the moderate wing. These moderates are not ideological, therefore a million of them may have a million different ideas how problems, such as the farm problems, should be solved.

Several groups have met to investigate the farm problems and propose solutions. One such committee is the Committee for Economic Development, hereafter referred to as the CED. The CED is a "non-profit, non-partisan, and non-political" committee composed of businessmen and scholars. This committee suggests some cures and aimed at certain farm problems that deserve careful thought. The CED contends that the $50 billion the government has spent on agriculture during the past twenty-five years has been unsuccessful in solving basic farm problems. As proof of this failure, farm incomes continue to decline and surpluses are growing larger. The present farm program has perpetuated the misallocation of resources which is the core of agricultural difficulties. Here are some ideas the CED proposes to remedy these problems.

Free markets should be restored by the gradual elimination of price and income supports. The farmer should be able to better his economic position in a way that is consistent with free markets. To do this, the supply of agricultural products should be brought in line with the demand so reasonable prices and incomes will be the result.

A return to free markets should go hand-in-hand with an effective land retirement program. The CED feels that land retirement should be based on a "whole farm" basis. This is aimed at the least productive land and the lowest income farmers that cultivate it. The government could, instead of subsidizing the incomes of low-income farmers, work toward getting resources out of production so that a more efficient allocation of resources will be the result. The CED contends that the "whole farm" approach will be more efficient to administer and will remedy a problem that persists in acreage allotments: farmers cultivate the remaining land more intensely and produce a larger output per acre.

The CED feels that the instability of farm incomes as "a special short-run aspect of the over-all farm problem." Therefore it feels that price supports to protect the farm from these short-run income fluctuations would be legitimate as long as these supports would be based on normal market prices. A surplus would not be the result if these supports kept prices from rising above the market equilibrium. These temporary supports would actually be unemployment compensation for farmers.

The CED, recognizing the problems of the low-income farmer, feels that price supports do not alleviate the poverty of this group of farmers. Why? Because these farmers do not produce enough to benefit greatly from the higher supported price. The CED recommends the establishment of special assistance programs to restrain these farmers for alternative employment. These farmers are not to be starved off their land but are to be subsidized into nonagricultural employment. Government must maintain a high degree of employment in the economy to attract low-income farmers into industrial employment.

These are but a few proposals made by the Committee for Economic Development. As pointed out earlier, many proposals have been made to cure the problems within agriculture. Which one to endorse is a decision the reader must make for himself. With careful analysis and research some satisfactory solution will be found eventually.

Cuisine Cum Laude

This reporter learned many new ways of cookery taught by a much younger group of girls at the Girl Scout Roundup last week. A patrol from Iowa, the great corn state, was making and giving out tiny cup with samples of corn cob jelly. Yes, corn cob jelly—that is using even the squeal, isn't it?

6 corncobs
2 pkg. Surejell
7 cups water
3 cups sugar

Clean corncobs and break into about 2-inch pieces. Put in cooking pan and cover with 7 cups water.

Boil 30 minutes.

Strain 3 cups broth from boiled cobs into another pan. Add the two pkgs. Surejell and the 3 cups sugar. Stir ingredients moderately and boil on stove for 5 to 6 minutes.

Pour into sterilized jelly jars and let cool.

This tasted to me like apple jelly, but is less expensive.

Tiny bags of rice were passed out by little Myra Jean Ringhoffer and Dindy Ratajack, cousins of the groom.

A reception was held at the church immediately following the ceremony. Assisting were Mrs. Joe Pavel, aunt of the bride and Mrs. David Strong, who served the cake; Mrs. Ike Broenneke, aunt of the bride, pouring coffee; and Mrs. John Bond, cousin of the groom, was at the punch bowl.

HARVEST RESUMES AFTER RAIN CAUSES DELAY

Small grain and pea harvesting resumed Wednesday after rain caused a two-day delay earlier in the week. Peas and barley started coming into the Genesee Union Warehouse Co. elevators. and Asgrow Seed Co. reported the 1965 crops started coming in Wednesday after rain on Monday and Tuesday halted all harvest operations. Forrest Durbin, manager of Genesee Union, reported Thursday morning that wheat was still a little too wet to cut but farmers should be able to get into the fields by Thursday afternoon. Barley was dry enough to cut Wednesday and truck loads of that grain came in Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning.

Charles Airhart, Asgrow manager, reported Thursday that peas began coming into his plant Wednesday after a two-day delay and he added that he expects the peak of the pea harvest to be reached sometime this weekend, possibly Saturday. All areas in the surrounding countryside are now cutting peas, although not all individual farmers have been able to start cutting.

Airhart said the smooth type peas, such as Alaskas, are looking quite good this year, but that the wrinkled varieties are showing "quite a bit of burning."

On the pea fields that are still green, farmers have been defoliating the vines or mowing and swathing the fields in an effort to hurry the drying process so the peas can be harvested. However. he added, some farmers are just going to let the vines alone and harvest them when they dry up naturally.

Airhart predicted the pea harvest should mostly be finished by August 25th, barring, of course, any more rain.

OLD BUSINESS HOUSE TORN DOWN THIS WEEK

An old, wooden frame building, one of the few remaining in the Genesee business district, was torn down this week. The building last housed the Genesee Cafe, but during its useful years it had served a variety of purposes ranging from a barber shop to a cleaning and pressing establishment.

After the Genesee Cafe closed, the building was one of two stores bought by Clarence Ivie. Ivie converted the one building which served as the restaurant dining room into a barber and beauty shop and then, this week, had Clifford Hillman move his tractors in and demolish the other old structure.

The exact age of the old building could not be determined but Glen Sampson, retired Genesee barber, was of the opinion that it must have been erected shortly after the railroad came to Genesee and the town moved from Old Genesee to its present location. This was in the late 1880's. Glen said. as best he could remember, a barber, either Charlie Morris or Bill Brown, opened a shop there. Later, another barber named Clarence Jain had a shop at the same spot and Glen's late brother, Virgil, worked there before he quit to join with Glen.

After the barber shop moved out the building and the adjoining structure were used for a number of businesses. A harness shop was located where the barber shop is now, there was also a hardware store there and a jewelry store, and a man had a cleaning and pressing shop and also sold men's furnishings for a short time. Finally Smolt's opened a restaurant in both stores and it remained as such until the Genesee Cafe closed several years ago. Shortly after Clarence Ivie bought the buildings and converted the one back to a barber shop.

Now that the lot is bare again, Clarence said he had no immediate plans for the spot but he would either seed it to grass or put gravel over it.

The tearing down process came off smoothly with the ony trouble encountered when Hillman's tractor broke the water pipe leading into the building.

Restaurant Almost Ready To Open, Says Owner

The brick fronting on Bob Broemeling's new restaurant was receiving a new cement coating this week and Bob was in the process of trying to get final inside preparations ready for the new Genesee business opening.

The restaurant will be located in the spot formerly occupied by the Genesee Theatre. The inside has been walled off to allow for three rooms, and Bob has been working over a period of months to complete the remodeling.

Bob said he hopes to be open for business by the 15th of August. He also said that for the present Mrs. Bill Beckner is serving meals in the other part of the building and full meals can be arranged for if advance notification is given.

DOVE SHOOTING OVERLAPS UPLAND GAME BIRD STARTS

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish and Game Department

Most Idaho game bird hunters will be afield sharpening their eye-hand coordination and hardening muscle tone of man and dog the weekend of September 18-19. Their quarry will be chukar, quail sage grouse and forest grouse. Adding variety will be the shiftiest, trickiest bird of them all in flight, mourning dove —whose hunting season end overlaps the beginning of quail, partridge and grouse shooting. Dove season starts, as usual, September 1. These bird species are plentiful this year, and studies show that giving hunting the maximum opportunity to bag them does not hurt the carryover to the next breeding season.

Dove management work throughout the United States is more extensive than for any other game bird. Returns from many thousands of doves that have been banded across the country in the last few years show that about four per cent of the birds are killed by hunters. Continental mourning dove population has soared during the past decade, and is believed to be much higher than before the white colonized the country. This is because land use changes have improved and extended dove habitat. The farming economy has provided more nesting areas, water and food such as cereal grains and weeds. Predictions are that the dove population will continue to rise.

This year Idaho is banding doves in cooperation with other western states. Some 2,500 birds were banded in the state last year and the goal is at least that number for 1965. Over a thousand birds already have been marked this summer and banding will continue until the hunting season. The average annual harvest by Idaho hunters the past ten years has been 140,000, but last year

The town was full of farmers Wednesday as the Catholics hold services that day which draws them from all 4 quarters.

fields before baiting and putting out decoys to lure doves out of normal flight patterns down to the traps. Over 1,000 birds were banded at Nampa in three weeks, not including 200 re-traps already banded this year and last. These doves are believed to be principally residents of Treasure Valley; adults and young-of-the-year from nests near Caldwell and Payette. Dove eggs hatch in about 13 days and squabs are flying out away from their nests in approximately a month.

Mourning dove mates both perform incubation chores on the nests to allow each of them free time to forage about the countryside. This practice serves to segregate them by sex during daily feeding excursions. For example, all adult doves found in the Nampa trap at 7 a. m. were males. This indicates that males are off the nests feeding and the females on duty. Traps are checked at 7 a. m., 11 a. m., 3 p. m. and in the evening. Females abound in the trap at 11 a. m., but at 3 p. m. the sexes are mixed in a ratio of about 50-50. This means that the afternoons are warm and nest can go unattended. By evening the trap contains all males again.

Doves have the widest distribution of any continental game bird. This distribution encompasses all states except Alaska and Hawaii. Among Idaho game birds, it is the only species known that raises as many as three broods a season, although brood size is small—averaging two young per nesting.

They are lousy nest builders. They drop twigs in the fork of a tree limb. or loosely pile them on the ground. The result is about like jackstraws. This often leads to sodden ground quarters. In trees both eggs and squabs often dribble down during windstroms. But, with widespread distribution and several broods a year, the mourning doves always populate the land in good supply.

The recovery rate on banded doves has been slightly less than four per cent. Recovery rates for ducks range from 5 to 20% and, in the case of Canada geese, from 10 to 25 per cent. Thus, it is apparent that the gun has a much lower effect on mourning dove mortality than on other game bird species.

Most doves generally are out of the farming area and in the foothills forming migration groups by September 1. the opening of the hunting season. While there may be several thousand doves in that vicinity, they form small loose migration groups ranging from three or four to a hundred. They feed on grain stubble, sunflower patches, weed seeds and even arabgrass. During the waning hours of the day, some hunters take up stands along water courses and reservoirs for excellent pass shooting. But most of them, especially on that "overlap weekend" closing dove season and opening it for chukar, quail, sage and forest grouse, will be bagged as a target of opportunity.

But most shooters agree that there is a lot of space around a dove in erratic flight, and that the overlap weekend cannot hurt the dove population, even though it does add species variety to the hunt.

An improved dehydrated alfalfa meal, high in protein and low in fiber, has been developed as a feed for hogs and poultry, according to a report to the University of Idaho extension service by the department of agriculture.

A CENTURY OF SERVICE TO THE PEOPLE OF IDAHO

When furs were money and wagons were schooners J. C. Anderson started a trading post at what now is Idaho Falls. Trappers, traders and miners brought their furs, gold and valuables to the post for safekeeping. The Anderson Brothers Bank prospered and grew through the years to the First Security System of Banks — with 44 offices in 36 Idaho communities today.

Idaho has had a great history of growth and progress to which First Security has made substantial contributions. In the past five years alone, we have paid more than 13½ million dollars in interest on savings accounts deposited with us. In addition, during these same five years, we have made over 300,000 loans amounting to more than 1 billion 110 million dollars to individuals and businesses in Idaho. This, indeed, is banking that is building Idaho!

From the past 100 years we draw inspiration as well as experience, both of which aid us in providing ever better and more helpful banking service to the people of Idaho.

IN AFTER YEARS

There will be songs when I am done with singing,
There will be rain;
And morning chimes across the dawnscape bringing,
Their sweet refrain.

There will be apple blossoms sweet, cascading,
As spring returns;
Remembrances re-born that know no fading,
While memory burns.

King Alfred daffodils and Easter glory
Will dry your tears;
I will be gone, but I will know the story
IN AFTER YEARS.

OVER 1,000 DOVES were live-trapped and banded at the Nampa airport in about three weeks as part of a cooperative program in western states to continue intensive management studies on this game bird species. Doves like open areas for landing and take-off maneuvers, the reason the Treasure Valley airport was used for trapping, although fields sometimes are leveld and baited before trapping. Tim Shea, Nampa biological aid for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, is shown here putting a band on a dove's leg.

BLACK CALCITE'S SILVER LINING

BLACK CALCITE, a common mineral heretofore considered worthless, may be a significant new source of silver, say scientists of the Geological Survey of the Department of the Interior. A sample from Hamilton, Nev. contained 1,500 ounces of silver per ton. Black calcite is abundant throughout Utah, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico.

DEHYDRATED CELERY with improved texture and appearance can be made by a process that combines freezing and explosion puffing, according to the Department of Agriculture. Unlike conventional drying methods which tend to toughen the fibers of the vegetable and impair its texture, the new process improves the quality of the dehydrated product by increasing its ability to absorb water more completely during rehydration. . . . DIET CHEESE has been developed. The low-fat product, made from skim milk, looks and tastes like very mild Cheddar but contains only 5 to 7 per cent butterfat compared with Cheddar's 31 per cent.

WELDING TORCHES can be lighted without fear of explosion by repairmen working on combustible gas containers with a carbon dioxide purging technique reports Cardox of Chicago. The CO2 is pumped into the tank or pipeline to displace most of the explosive contents and mix with the rest to form an inert atmosphere.

'BUZZ OFF', the Federal Aviation Agency warns pilots who delight in flying low over beach and resort areas. This form of pest is compared by the FAA to the bully who kicks sand in faces, but the results, the Agency adds, are far worse. In a recent 12-month period, 73 persons were killed and 62 seriously injured by such actions. And 96 planes worth $750,000 were destroyed. . . . POWDER made from the tracheal cartilage of a calf helps wounds heal faster and stronger, reports the American Medical Association. Tests were made on more than 100 incisions and 60 chronically non-healing open wounds. In all but one case healing began under the powder treatment.

SAMPLES of the earth 40 million years old have been taken from beneath the floor of the Atlantic ocean by Columbia University scientists. HANDSOME HANDS

TOUCH OF BEAUTY—Pretty hands for all seasons is beauty concept developed for the modern woman. Use lukewarm water to wash hands and wear gloves for housework. For rough, problem hands, apply special hand preparations, such as Pacquin cream for extra dry skin. It covers hands with invisible barrier to protect against water and weather.

SPRING PHEASANT PRODUCTION

This year pheasant production and brood survival is the key to another top-notch hunting season, as in the past two years, or a mediocre one. It always is. Since three out of every four birds bagged by hunters in the fall are young pheasants, brood success is the most important item in the annual cycle. Breeding population, high or low, gives no indication of the number of birds available for fall hunting. It's breeding success and brood survival that counts.

However, this spring's lower breeding population, if coupled with poor production, could result in below average pheasant shooting. This year's breeding population index for Idaho ringnecks is down appreciably from the spring of 1964 and below the long-term average. Breeding population index is based on the winter sex ratio of cocks to hens made in January, and crow counts in all pheasant areas in May.

Brood counts run in late July and early August should tell the tale about this year's production success and brood survival. If both are good. the fact that the breeding population index for all areas combined dropped 40 per cent below last year is unimportant.

BEAUTIFICATION BILLS WOULD HURT IDAHO HIGHWAY PROGRAM SAYS REP. WHITE

Four highway beautification bills being considered by Congress would "knock the props from beneath the Federal Aid Highway Program in Idaho," Rep. Compton I. White. Jr., told the House Public Works Committee this week.

The Idaho Democrat said mandatory provisions of two of the bills would unnecessarily force the state to use federal funds for scenic highways and acquisition of scenic strips of land.

"Idaho is a vast, scenic state and its highway program is geared to maintain this unique status," White said. "Our highway standards have been improved through careful use of Federal Aid Highway funds—administered under the present workable program."

The other two bills would establish a mandatory control program for junkyards and outdoor advertising signs along Interstate and primary highways as a condition of a state's receiving federal highway aid.

FRIDAY FORUM

IN DEFENSE OF OUR VIETNAM POLICY

President Johnson announced recently the commencement of partial mobilization measures to help repel the aggression the North Vietnamese, or Viet Cong have shown toward the people of South Vietnam. The President ordered the draft call to be doubled to 35,000 men per month. Also Congress was being briefed on the situation and reports were circulated that Congress may be asked to prepare for a higher defense budget next year. The steps taken by President Johnson show that the United States is standing behind the promise it made to the South Vietnamese: that we would assist them in subdueing the Viet Cong.

Yet some Americans are unhappy with Johnson's action. Certain "liberals" feel the United States should keep its hands clean of the conflict. The "liberals" themselves are standing on shaky ground, for their position is inconsistent. It is diffcult to imagine how a person could support involvement in civil rights and reject involvement in another struggle for human rights. I support the concept for equal liberty and freedom for all Americans and I feel that we should fulfill our obligations to the South Vietnamese. Civil rights supporters clamor for personal involvement to give back the Negro his freedom and rights. But certain people are ignorant of the fact that the problems faced by the American Negro and the South Vietnamese are similar in nature. The Negro is straining to acquire his rights and freedom to gain "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." The South Vietnamese is trying to keep Communism from taking away his freedoms. The Negro is trying to crawl out of the pit of poverty to gain a decent life; the South Vietnamese is trying to avoid starving. The Viet Cong have placed pieces of wood riddled with barbed nails into rice paddies. Barefooted, the South Vietnamese tries to avoid stepping on one of the millions that have been planted by the Viet Cong. Some of the American civil rights leaders and workers have been slain over a period of time. In South Vietnam, the village leaders are beheaded by the Viet Cong and are left in the middle of the streets in incite terror. How can a person call for civil rights involvement and yet close his eyes to what happens in Vietnam? Anyone who supports the civil rights movement and condemns the President's action lacks intellectual integrity.

The dissenting "liberals" feel that the Vietnamese problems could be solved at the conference table. It is said that history repeats itself, and to historians the "liberals" attitude signifies the rebirth of the policy of appeasement and the consequences of the Munich Conference. For just as Chamberlain and Daladier assisted Hitler and Mussolini in butchering Czechoslovaka, we handed Laos over to the Communists. Now some want to hand over South Vietnam to them, saying that South Vietnam is not worth the trouble. Soon they will be abandoning the whole of Southeast Asia. Apparently to some persons South Vietnam is "worth the trouble." Why would the Australians send troops to Vietnam unless they feared the consequences of a Communist take-over there? Do the Communists really want to fight America? Last May one newspaper noted " . . . there was heartening national international outcry against U. S. policy in Vietnam . . . . " The newspaper: People's World, the largest American Communist newspaper on the West Coast. On August 3, President Johnson said, "We do not want to fight anyone." But he stated that the United States would not tolerate continued Viet Cong aggression.

As of now, it appears the U. S., with power to destroy any nation, will continue to fight a "no-win" war, hoping to show the Communists that the war is hopeless for them. Then we will bring the Communists to the conference table, rather than they bringing us talks to make concessions for a doubtful peace. The Reds say they will not participate in a conference until all U. S. forces are withdrawn from Vietnam, a move that would be foolhardy and disasterous. Air raids in the North will continue, but vital targets will be avoided. As the war drags on and as American casualties mount, the Vietnam war may become damaging to the party in power. If this happens, the air attacks in the North may concentrate on vital industrial targets to hamstring Communist activities. These escalated air attacks may take place as soon as mid-1966. We must show the Communists that we intend to defend people from aggression. We must stop the disease of Communism before it spreads further. If the Reds want to fight for a year, we will fight for a year; if they want to fight for two years, we will fight for two years; if they they want to fight for three years, we will fight for three years. And if necessary, we will fight for ten years.

FARMERS INSURANCE GROUP
Symbol of Superior Service

An old farmer was an incurable grumbler (he didn't live in Genesee). One fall he had the best apple crop for miles around. One neighbor stopped to congratulation him. "Well, Hiram, you sure ought to be happy now. Yours is the finest apple crop ever raised in these parts. "

But the grumbler didn't even smile as he groaned, "Well. I suppose it will do, but where's the rotten ones for the hogs?"

The conscientious father was dispensing advise to his son who was about to get married.

"Co-operation is the foundation of successful marriage," Pop said solemnly. "You must do things together." For instance, if your wife wants to go for a walk, go for a walk with her. If she wants to go to the movies, go to the movies with her, if she wants to do the dishes, do the dishes with her." The son listened dutifully, then asked: "Suppose she wants to mop the floor?"

She was insulted when she was offered a drink, but being a lady, she swallowed it.

Cuisine Cum Laude

This week we have two excellent salad recipes which just go with summertime. The first has already been published in the Catholic Daughter's "Best in Cooking in Genesee." However, if you do not have that book, clip this out.

MARINATED BEAN SALAD

1 can (15½ oz) cut green beans
1 can (15½) wax beans (yellow)
1 can (15½ oz.) kidney beans
1 small grated onion
1 cup vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon pepper

Drain juice from beans, add green pepper and onion. Cover with the following dressing. Combine sugar, vinegar, water, salt and pepper. Pour over beans and let stand over night. Shake once in a while to get all beans well coated.

STUFFED TOMATO SALAD

Choose two cups of one of the following: lobster, shrimp, salmon, crabmeat, turkey, chicken, or duck. Cut or break the canned or cooked fish or meat into pieces. Combine with 1 cup diced celery, ¾ cup mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon salt, and one-fourth teaspoon paprika. Chill four tomatoes. Cut a thin slice from stem end of tomato, scoop out centers and fill with salad mixture. Serve on lettuce, top with a dab of mayonnaise and sprinkle with paprika.

IF I COULD HAVE MY WAY

If I could have my way there'd be no sorrow,
No unkind things—unhappiness or pain;
I'd bring ret roses back with each tomorrow
And bless them with a powder-puff of rain.

If I could have my way there'd be no sadness,
No nimbus clouds to turn the skies to gray;
For I would make the whole world ring with gladness
And love divine—

IF I COULD HAVE MY WAY.

GENESEE SCHOOLS WILL OPEN AUGUST 30

The opening date of Genesee Public Schools has been set for Monday, Aug. 30, Supt. Lester C. Diehl announced this week, with a full day's classes held on opening day. A Teacher's Meeting has been scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 28th.

High school registration will be on August 25 and 26, with grade school children registering with their classroom teachers on opening day.

St. Mary's Catholic School will begin their 1965-66 school year on Monday, Aug. 30, it was revealed this week by the Rev. Fr. B. C. McCarthy. He also added that teachers for the parochial school will not be named until after August 15th.

Supt. Diehl stated that most of the repair work and planned general improvement in the classrooms and buildings have been completed and they now stand ready for the coming school year. Most of the work during the summer months has been routine maintenance and repair variety. This general maintenance program has been carried out under the supervision of school custodian, Joe Kalafus, and his assistant, Roy Phipps.

In addition to enlarging the school library, some new equipment has been purchased. New text books, new desks, and new dictaphones for the business department of the school have been added as school improvement. SCHOOL BOARD ASKED TO CONSIDER POOL

School trustees heard a request that they consider including a swimming pool in the proposed building projects for the Genesee public school system. The request came Monday evening at the regular board meeting and was made by D. F. Scharnhorst, J. Wayne Roach. and W. A. Roth.

The three were present at the school board meeting as a result of a Community Day committee meeting several weeks ago when ways of securing a swimming pool were discussed. At this time it was agreed that proceeds from Community Day activities could never build or support a municipal pool in this town. Inasmuch as a certain portion of past community day funds had been set aside for a swimming pool, it was felt that possibly some of this money could be used to investigate other ways of financing a pool for this area.

Knowing that the school district is in the process of planning and investigating ways of securing more class room and gym space, it was decided to ask the trustees about the feasibility of including plans for a pool in their considerations.

Members of the board listened to the requests and asked questions as to what type of pool might be built, costs involved, whether there might be government help available, how the pool would be operated, etc.

During a discussion period that followed, the school board advised that probably the best course would be for the Community Day committee to meet with the school architects, tell them what they had in mind and let the architects offer plans that would include a pool. It was understood that Community Day funds and not tax money would be used in these preliminary drawings.

The architects will be back in town next week and the committee will try to meet then and begin planning.

Quick work by farmers who were nearby saved the fire from spreading into ripe grain fields on either side of the road. It was not known how the fire started.

A combine belonging to Winston Mader caught fire at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday evening and was seriously damaged before the blaze could be extinguished. Origin of the fire was also unknown.

WHEAT CERTIFICATE PAYMENTS BEING ISSUED

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation officials announce certificate payments are now being mailed to farmers who reduced wheat production, and placed the diverted land in other uses. $232,800.00 has been issued which is about one quarter of the estimated one million total wheat certificate value in Latah county. This is based on domestic wheat at 75c per bushel and export wheat at 30c per bushel. Each farms' share in the domestic wheat is 45% of its' normal production, and the share in the export wheat is 35% of its normal production.

Also being made at this time, are $20,134.00 in payments for reducing barley production and diverting land to other uses such as permanent grass cover. Participating farmers are also eligible for wheat and barley loans based upon warehouse receipts or bin measurement for farm storage. Before wheat and barley program payments can be made, the operators signature and ASC committee approval is necessary.

Agriculture Conservation Practices received a big boost in 1965 with the Latah ASC county committee approval of $80,838.00 for cost sharing the establishment of sod waterways, permanent grass seeding, forest improvement, weed control, field stripping, rangeland improvement. construction of springs and ponds for livestock, tile drainage, diversion ditches and terraces and channel clearance to control floodwater. Farmers may approximately 50% of the cost of the listed ACP conservation practices with part of the cost-sharing funds coming from counties that do not use their entire allocation. Many farmers complete conservation programs on their own without cost-sharing since ACP is primarily an incentive program to encourage resource conservation for future generations.

RAIN STALLS HARVEST OPERATIONS IN AREA

Rain, which began late Wednesday night and continued intermittently through Thursday morning, brought harvest operations in the Genesee area to a complete standstill. The weather had been threatening since early in the week and scattered light showers were reported over a wide area since Monday, but most farmers were still able to push ahead with the small grain harvest.

The first showers, heavy enough to wet down the ripened fields fell shortly after 8 p. m. Wednesday, accompanied by moderate to gusty winds. The thunderstorms then continued to break throughout the evening and were still falling early Thursday morning.

The delay in the harvest operations came just as most farmers were getting well into cutting. Both Asgrow Seed Company and Genesee Union Warehouse reported that the pea harvest was nearly finished. Forrest Durbin, Genesee farmer, was the only one able to push ahead with the small grain harvest.

A combine belonging to Winston Mader caught fire at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday evening and was seriously damaged before the blaze could be extinguished. Origin of the fire was also unknown.

Idaho Drivers Must Learn New Rules on School Buses

Idaho drivers, long accustomed to stopping for all school buses loading or unloading children, will have to get used to a new set of rules and regulations this year.

The new regulations, designed to clarify laws enacted by the 1965 Legislature, were outlined Monday at a press conference called by the State Department of Education and the State Department of Law Enforcement.

Under the old rules, everytime a school school stopped, the driver activated a stop sign on the side of the vehicle warning all drivers, both approaching and overtaking the bus, to come to a full stop.

The new rules provide that cars must stop only if children alighting from the bus will be crossing the roadway.

Carl Warner, assistant superintendent of public instruction, said the drivers will activate their stop signs only when students indicate they desire to cross the road.

Warner also said school buses will not stop on four lane highways except to discharge children not desiring to cross the road. He said the buses will travel up and down such roads so children can be discharged on the side of the road they desire to travel on.

He said, however, in the event of an emergency, students will be allowed to cross four lane roads. He said in such cases the stop sign will be activated and that all cars will be required to stop.

Fitzwater said that the sites are particularly significant as the first such excavations in this area and should yield a quantity of material pertinent to the history and prehistory of the Nez Perce.

He said that it is too early yet to predict dates of occupation for the sites, but that they appear to have been occupied for a long period stretching from prehistoric into historic times.

He said that the preliminary testing indicated that the sites were used year-round, rather than just seasonally.

While working at the White Bird site, the crew will headquarter at a tent city at Robber's Gulch near Slate Creek. The camp will include living facilities for the crew, as well as a tent laboratory for preliminary checks of material recovered from the digs.

Working with Fitzwater on the digs will be the same crew that assisted him at the Malad Hill excavation earlier this summer, Chester King, a University of California of Los Angeles graduate student, and 20 men and 10 women students from colleges and universities across the country.

The White Bird excavation is covered by a long-standing salvage agreement between the ISU Museum and the State Department of Highways.

O, let me walk a country mile
In the peaceful afterglow;
And climb the fence at the rustic stile
As I did in the long ago.

At the end of --- A COUNTRY MILE.

White this year already had broken the state record with bluegills weighing 2 pounds, 10 ozs., 2 pounds, 6 ozs., and 2 pounds, 4 ozs. The new record is over a foot long.

NEW INDUSTRIES IN IDAHO

On August 14 a million dollar meat packing plant opens its doors in Gooding. In Twin Falls, two new industries are bringing increased prosperity to the area. In Caldwell, a woodworking company reaches new markets with its products.

Each of these industries were cited this week by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho. as examples of the results of one type of federal assistance to area progress.

In each case, Church said, local businessmen and civic leaders banded together to solve economic and employment problems for their own communities. They formed local development companies, attracted federal loans to implement their programs.

Church pointed out that each of the local groups applied for and received funds from the Small Business Administration's Office of Development Companies.

"Since the inception of this program," Church said, "the three development companies have received $1,107,612 in loans from this special office of SBA.

"The industries supported by these loans have created 231 new jobs in Idaho and the overall increase in gross and net income to the state is still growing."

"While SBA loans are available to individual Idaho businessmen," Church said, the unique nature of so-called 502 loans to local development companies combines cooperative community effort with governmental assistance.

"In Twin Falls. Gooding and Caldwell, Church said, concerned residents have gotten together to solve their own problems. They have put up their own money along with help from local financial arrangements.

Church pointed to the million-dollar Stockmen's Meat Packing Corporation opening in Gooding August 14 as a current example of this kind of cooperation.

"The people of Gooding and its surrounding neighborhoods formed the Good ing Development Corporation," Church said. "When this new industry, employing 51 persons, goes into operation, it will be operating on the investment of 1300 stockholders. One of these shareholders is the federal government with its $350,000 SBA loan to the development corporation."

Church said that the diversity of the four projects already initiated indicate the wide scope of possibilities available to all communities in Idaho for similar self-help programs.

"Thus far," he said, "local area development companies in Idaho have sponsored a frozen food company, a plant for the manufacture of alfalfa pellets and granules for feeding stock, a meat packing and processing plant, and a wood-working manufacturer."

WATERFOWL PRODUCTION GOOD

Idaho wild duck production appears good this year in contrast to a poor brood season in the Canadian prairie provinces, whence 80 per cent of the ducks shot in the United States are hatched and raised. The reason Idaho duck production will be better than normal is that there has been plenty of water during the current nesting season and lots of broods have been seen.

Department representatives met with other bird management people from other western states last week to make annual recommendations to the Pacific Flyway Council before the Federal framework of regulations for the migratory waterfowl season are established by the U. S. Department of Interior.

The Idaho Fish and Game Commission meets in Boise August 19-20 to set state waterfowl seasons, bag limits and other regulation details within the federal frame work. The Commission also will be on hand to dedicate the new headquarters office building of the Fish and Game Department.

Remember bean bags? "Beanie the Clown" is one, but this is no ordinary toss-about bag for a game. Small Fry will love him, to be sure. The young sophisticate college girl will treasure her "Queen of Hearts" girl clown. Work-weary husbands, using the little clown as a paper weight, will find his antics (he seems to be double-jointed and reversible in his poses) are a most effective nerve sedative.

Who has the fun? You will have a Three-Ring Circus stitching up a family of clowns from your scrap bag and part of the contents of a bag of Idaho-grown dried beans. What is left of the beans should be tucked into a bean pot to slow-bake while you fashion these funny little clowns. Recipes? A booklet of "Whole Meal Bean Dishes" is included with the pattern. They're perfect for family and for Pot Luck dinners. Both clowns and bean dishes are popular bazaar and gift items.

DOVE SHOOTING HOURS SCHEDULED FOR IDAHO

Legal hours for shooting mourning doves during the open season September 1 through 19 will conform to the Federal regulations set for all migratory game birds by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Idaho Fish and Game Department announced this week.

Director John R. Woodworth said that the bag limit will be 12 birds daily and 24 in possession after the first day. The Federal 'duck stamp" is not required for dove hunting. However, other Federal regualtions such as hunting with a 'plugged" shotgun incapable of holding more than three shells in magazine and chamber combined — as with waterfowl—will be enforced.

Dove hunting hours are from a half hour before sunrise to sunset, Woodworth said, on all days of the season including opening day. Due to differences in the timing across Idaho, the shooting hours will vary in the different regions.

Regular exercise gives your circulatory system a bonus, the Idaho Heart Association advises. Additional pipelines —collateral circulation: develop in response to the need of active muscles for more oxygen. In the heart muscle they provide good insurance in the case of a heart attack, scientists have found.

TOOTH DECAY SUGAR-CURED?

SUGAR may hurt teeth, but a sugar-coated phosphate compound has stopped tooth decay in experiments with rats at the University of Rochester. The small amount of tooth decay in animals that ate phosphate-supplemented food could be reduced nearly 40 per cent more by combining the compound, dicalcium phosphate dihydrate, with the sugar in the diet, the experiments showed. Paradoxically, phosphate can best stop decay if present in the mouth with sugar, the major source of tooth-decaying acids.

THE TENDENCY of nylon-cord tires to flat-spot after standing may be licked by a new fiber, EF-121. a combination of nylon and polyester said to retain the strength of nylon while smoothing out the ride. Properties that minimize flat-spotting are high immediate elastic recovery, low primary creep and low moisture regain. . . . INNOVAR, a new pain-killing drug, 100 times as powerful as morphine, reports West Virginia University Hospital. Injected intravenously, Innovar deadens the body against pain in 10 to 20 seconds. The effects lasts several days.

"TORTURING" ice cream is a science at Purdue University where a new kind was subjected to "heat shock", repeated exposure to drastically varying temperatures. This treatment, which normally makes ice cream taste like cold sand, had little effect on this product, frozen in a special low-temperature "Votator" freezer. the university said. Smoother taste and extended product life are among the benefits.

SKATEBOARDING has caused five fatalities and at least 200 injures since spring, reports the National Safety Council. Four of the five deaths occurred when the skateboarder ran into a car. Skateboards, the Council suggests, should not be used on public streets and the "surfer" should emphasize control, not speed. . . . GREEKS of pre-Roman days kept drinking water in silver pitchers because they believed that fewer diseases came from water in these containers.

REDUCING ART to a science is not always possible, Ohio State University researchers discovered when they rigged a trombone player with a minute pressure-sensing device to find out how a horn player achieves tone by varying air pressure in his mouth. But the research showed that a skilled musician can achieve the same tone in several distinct ways, accounting for the delicate shading that distinguishes the gifted musician from the beginner.

PHYSICAL ACTIVITY

Physical activity offers an effective outlet for release of tensions, if used in summer in moderation. They also help reduce the possible factor in the coronary risk picture. As Dr. Lyn Anderson, of Pocatello, President of the Idaho Heart Association, has noted, "one does not need sedatives or tranquillizers if one becomes physically, muscularly weary."

More Vulnerable

POISON IVY—Medical studies show blondes and redheads are sometimes more vulnerable than brunettes to poison ivy. But no matter what color your hair is, avoid touching suspicious plants. If you do, wash immediately with harsh soaps. If you develop poison ivy, relieve the itching with special lotions, such as Calmitol. Don't scratch affected areas, it will slow the healing.

WHEN THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER IS GONE

When the last rose of summer has faded
And the song-birds are singing farewell;
When the fading leaves at your feet lie
And the harvest moon shines in the dell.

Will the love that you vowed nought could sever
Find a way to remain and live on;
Will you still love me then—will you come back again
WHEN THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER IS GONE?

GOVERNMENTAL FISCAL POLICY

Governmental fiscal policy is an issue every June 30, when the government reports its financial transactions for the past year. The government uses fiscal policy to stabilize the economy and to help curb inflation. Some feel that a balanced budget is the goal to strive for, while others see nothing wrong with continued deficits. Before we can formulate an opinion concerning fiscal policy, let us examine the three budget philosophies and their advantages and disadvantages.

On one extreme, some favor an annually balanced budget. This view is the most conservative of the three. It was accepted before the Great Depression as people identified incorrectly public finance with private finance. This policy is of little value in stabilizing the economy and, in fact, it intensifies the business cycle. If the economy becomes heated with inflation, peoples' incomes will rise and government revenues will increase. To balance the budget, the government will have to : (1) reduce taxes, (2) increase spending, or (3) some combination of the two. All these measures inject more money into the economy and increase inflation. On the other hand, if deflation occurs and prices fall, government revenues from taxation will fall. To balance the budget, the government will have to (1) increase taxes, (2) reduce spending, or (3) some combination of both. It is obvious that these policies are deflationary and will dampen investment. In conclusion, the philosophy of annually balanced budgets is of no value in stabilizing the economy.

On the other extreme, the most liberal philosophy is that of functional finance. Proponents of this philosophy feel that as long as the resources of the economy are employed efficiently, it makes no difference if the yearly fiscal result is a deficit or a surplus. If continued deficits or surpluses are the result but the economy is moving at full employment, then so be it. Advocates of functional finance are criticized because of the resulting huge federal debt. Defenders of this policy argue that the federal debt if often confused with private debt and that it is not a serious problem. They point to the sound credit standing of the government. Also they are quick to say that a deficit of $5 billion in any given year tends to be more inflationary than the mere existence of a debt of 317 billion dollars. Yet the numerous economic problems posed by the large public debt can be a disadvantage of functional finance.

The third philosophy is presented in terms of a cyclically balanced budget. This policy, which stands between the other two, is simple and appealing. Instead of balancing the budget over a period of twelve months, why not balance it over the length of the business cycle? By running deficits during deflationary years and surpluses during inflationary years, the government can balance its budget and stabilize the economy simultaneously. This policy would work perfectly, but its main disadvantage is that the numbers of good years and bad years are not always equal.

This preceding discussion does show that no policy is perfect, but the reader will have some facts on which to make a decision.

LAND FOR DINGLE SWAMP WILDLIFE REFUGE PROPOSED TO BE WITHDRAWN

The Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife has made application for the withdrawal of approximately 17,573 acres in Bear Lake County, according to Orval G. Hadley, land office manager for the Bureau of Land Management. The land is to be used for the proposed Dingle Swamp National Wildlife Refuge.

The Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife indicates that this area immediately north of Bear Lake in southeastern Idaho is a valuable nesting ground for Canada geese and a variety of ducks and other waterfowl.

Establishment of the Dingle Swamp National Wildlife Refuge would facilitate management of the migratory birds that use the area for which the United States has the responsibility under national treaties and for the purposes of the Migratory Bird Conservation Act. Also, management of this area for wildlife will benefit the nation's migratory bird resources, the outdoor recreationists of Idaho and neighboring states and the economy of the local area.

Some of the lands are already withdrawn for the Bureau of Reclamation. The application temporarily segregates the remaining lands from disposal under the public lands and mining laws pending final action on the application by the Department of the Interior. Mineral leasing has not been excluded. Use of most of the area by private parties for grazing and the raising of hay will continue as a refuge arrangement, too, according to the application.

A 30-day waiting period is provided during which written comments or objections may be submitted by the general public to the Land Office.

A detailed description of the lands will appear shortly in the FEDERAL REGISTER and is posted in the Land Office.

NRA SIGHTING-IN-DAY

Clubs affiliated with the National Rifle Association will again open their facilities to their fellow sportsmen for the purpose of sighting-in- their firearms in preparation for the coming hunting seasons. This is the fifth year of nationwide sponsorship of sighting-in events by NRA.

The program includes the provision of ranges for firing rifles and shotguns, assistance by range personnel in making sight adjustments and the information on the performance of sporting guns at various ranges. In addition, many clubs conduct running deer matches and provide gunsmiths for minor gun repairs.

A properly sighted-in- gun increases the chances of successful hunting, produces more clean kills and enhances the enjoyment of hunting. Not to be overlooked is the opportunity for sportsmen to refresh themselves on the fundamentals of safe gun handling and good mark manship.

Hunters attending the NRA Sighting-In-Day will learn the capabilities of their rifles at practical hunting distances, shotgun patterning and slug testing, trajectories of various rifle calliberts. differences between uphill and downhill shooting, bullet performance during rain, the effect of cant on the point of impact, plus other items of importance to accurate field shooting.

Complete information on NRA Sighting-In-Day is available to individuals and organizations by writing to the National Rifle Association, 1600 Rhode Island Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., 20036.

Loss of salt through heavy perspiration in hot weather can pose special problems for people with circulatory disorders, the Idaho Heart Association points out.

Moser-Barbee Wedding July 17

St. Mary's Catholic Church in Genesee was the setting for the wedding of Miss Janice Moser and Robert Barbee. The church was decorated with two large baskets of pink lillies and white daisies.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lucile Moser and the later Florent Moser and the bridegroom is the son of Bob B. Barbee of Juliaetta and Mrs. Ilse Mestrovich of Raymond, Wash.

The Rev. Fr. B. C. McCarthy officiated at the double ring ceremony which was held Saturday, July 17, at 10 a. m.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Marvin Moser, wore a wedding gown of white lace, and her finger-tip veil was held in place by a pearl and rhinestone tiera. She carried a white orchid on a white Prayerbook.

Maid of honor, Jerri Moser, the bride's sister. wore a pink satin sheath, with pink chiffon overskirt and pink accessories.

NEW WHEAT RELEASED

A new hard red winter wheat with excellent stripe rust resistance has been approved for release to Idaho growers this fall, reports Dr. R. D. Ensign. associate director at the University of Idaho Agricultural Experiment Station.

The new variety, named Itana-65, was developed by Dr. Warma F. Pope, station agronomist, and Paul Wetter, former research assistant, from a single plant selection made in 1961 from Itana.

Approximately 600 bushels of Itana-65 seed will be available to certified growers this fall through the Idaho Crop Improvement Association, Ensign said. This seed is now being harvested at the Universitys Tetonia Branch Experiment Station. It is expected that Itana-65 seed will be generally available in southeastern Idaho in the fall of 1966.

The new wheat has stripe rust resistance that is better than any commercial hard red winter wheat grown in the Northwest, Pope says. Under stripe rust conditions, Itana-65 has outyielded by 15 bushels per acre.

The variety also has good milling qualities and the excellent resistance to shattering that characterizes its Itana parent. This non-shattering characteristic is Itana-65's most important advantage over Tendoy. Pope adds.

LOS ANGELES— THE TURNING POINT

On the night of August 11, 1965, at Los Angeles, California, a white police officer made a routine arrest of a drunken driver. But the arrested driver was a Negro, and a crowd of 1,500 assembled and soon became unruly. The next night the mob was even larger—6,000—and efforts of clergymen and social workers were unable to quell the terror that followed. Elderly persons were beaten while Negroes shouted. "Kill! Kill!" Stores were looted and personal property destroyed for no apparent reason. One man was beaten so badly that one of his eyes was hanging from its socket. Over thirty have been killed and over 700 injured in rioting which, at this writing, has not yet abated.

What has caused this return to savagery by man, earth's most intelligent being? Poverty, overcrowdedness, unsanitary conditions, the sticky weather, and other characteristics of a ghetto are some reasons for the violence. But there is one sinister characteristic of the riots that can be traced. For, according to witnesses, the rioters were not protesting their own miserable condition but were rioting against authority.

Our society is built upon a "social order" of laws, written and unwritten. The weakening of part of this order will lead to total collapse and will result in chaos and mob rule. According to one prominent law enforcement official. intentional breaking of laws by civil rights and other groups can impose a shaky condition upon this "social order." In actuality, to the Negro certain laws are to be broken because they are "Whitey's" laws. Certainly, certain laws imposed by a tyranny should be directly opposed, but this does not mean that highway laws are tyrannical or that a Negro cannot be arrested for drunken driving. Because a Negro was arrested for drunken driving a revolt against authority ensued, in which the rioter said, "Anyone with any sense will stay out of here tonight, because we're really going to show these cops." It was a revolt against authority because Negro policemen were beaten just as white policemen, and Negro clergymen who tried to disperse the crowd were called hyprocrites. According to police, there was no apparent reason for the violence, just a "rebellion against authority . . . any authority."

Overseas opinion and leaders' reactions to the riots came swiftly. Our allies sat by in stunned disbelief. They cannot understand why human beings would act so senselessly, without thought or reason. However the Chinese Communists applauded the riots and said that the "struggle of the American Negroes will be crowned with victory." President Johnson condemned the riots for he realizes that such exhibitions can be disasterous to the party in power. Dr. Martin Luther King also denounced the violence for he knows that the Los Angeles and Chicago disturbances will give the civil rights movement a black eye. Public reaction cannot be determined so swiftly. Any changes in the American political scene will not be detected until 1966 but I fear the civil rights movement may suffer great damage as a result of the riots.

The outcome of the August 11 incident is not yet decided. The implications may be far-reaching and it may represent a turning point in American history. For August 11, 1965 may signal the advent of lawlessness and the commencement of an accelerated decline in our system of laws and it may represent the turning point when the civil rights movement began to lose the support of the American people.

State Safety Conference

Work has begun and speakers are being contacted for the 1965 Governor's Annual State-Wide Safety Conference.

The conference will be in the Hotel Boise, October 21 and 22. Idaho Commissioner of Labor, W. L. Robison, is chairman of the pilot committee.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie, as he does every year, will keynote the conference, and there will be general sessions and individual panels on all the major categories of safety.

Traffic safety is of continuing concern as Idaho records high numbers of traffic deaths this year. The State Department of Labor, the Mine Inspector, unions, and Industry. have been pushing hard throughout the past year for better standards of industrial safety. Many Idaho leaders believe that farm and home safety may be the most neglected area in the field.

The pilot committee has contacted speakers from all over the nation and throughout Idaho to lead this annual effort to increase safety consciousness in the Gem State.

Mourning Dove Season And Bag Limits Explained

The Federal regulations governing the hunting and possession of mourning doves in Idaho are currently being distributed throughout Idaho reports Jim Johnson, U. S. Game Management Agent for the Fish and Wildlife Service at Boise.

The daily bag limit for mourning doves in the western management unit that includes Idaho is 12 birds and the possession limit after the first day of the season is 24 birds.

The season in Idaho this year is from September 1 through September 19 and the shooting hours are from one half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Johnson says that hunting by means of falconry is legal but that all shotguns used must be incapable of holding more than three shells.

The regulations are available from the large sporting goods outlets in the state and from offices of the State Fish and Game Department.

WAHL POND DAMSITE NOT GOOD, SAYS FISH DEPT.

James Keating, a Fish and Game Department Fisheries biologist from Lewiston, told members of the Genesee Civic Association that the proposed Wahl Pond was not a good damsite and he would recommend not constructing the recreational pond at that spot. Keating was speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Civic group held Wednesday noon at Bob's Cafe.

The construction of a recreational and fishing spot on land belonging to Tom Wahl, about 4.5 miles south of Genesee had attracted the interest of the Genesee Civic Association.

Keating told the group that the Fish and Game Department was vitally interested in constructing and improving fishing facilities all over the state, but with a limited budget the department must build new reservoirs where they consider is the most economical, assessible and efficient. He said since there are very few lakes in the Palouse region, the department is especially interested in building such facilities in the region. The construction of the Spring Valley reservoir was typical of the type of lake the department favors.

"We are trying to locate as many potential reservoir sites as we can. Right now we're in the process of looking at a number of them, but this doesn't mean we'll build at every site we find," Keating told the group.

The fisheries biologist said he and an engineer had looked the Wahl pond site over and "it just didn't have promise." He said the erosion problem and runoff conditions would be too great and the dam would have been too big for the amount of water surface obtained.

He told the members of the Civic Association that some excellent sites for new reservoirs have been located up in the Bovill area and these locations, in timber area, are more what the Department prefers.

HARVEST AT PEAK IN GENESEE AREA

Harvesting operations in the Genesee area reached its peak on Wednesday and Thursday as farmers were able to continue with small grain cutting after a three-day delay due to rain late last week.

Rain fell Wednesday evening of last week and continued on through Thursday soaking the grain fields just as farmers were getting a good start on their harvesting. The rain was severe enough to keep workers and machinery out of the fields until late Saturday. Genesee Union Warehouse reported that a little barley was brought into the elevators Saturday night but it was not until Sunday that the grain began coming into the warehouse at a steady flow.

As the weather stayed clear and sunny through Wednesday evening the peak of the harvest was reached rapidly. As of Thursday noon, it was considered that over half of the grain in this area is now harvested and it was the opinion of Genesee Union manager, Forrest Durbn, that the next seven days should see most of the cutting complete, weather permitting.

Charles Airhart, Asgrow Seed Company manager, reported Thursday that the peas under Asgrow contract were practically all in. There are still a few fields still to be cut, he said. as farmers have left some of the late-maturing peas in the fields and turned to harvesting wheat. These fields will not be cut until the wheat and barley is finished.

Neither Durbin nor Airhart felt that the rains of last week had too much effect on the quality of either peas or wheat and barley. Some of the peas now coming in show some bleaching and Durbin reported that the rain brought the test rate on grain down slightly.

KRAUT INJURED FRIDAY

Donald Kraut, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kraut, was seriously injured Friday afternoon when he accidentally touched a 7,200-volt electric line near Culdesac and fell with a rescuer 30 feet to the ground from the top of a pole. Don is a lineman with Clearwater Power Co. Don and his wife, the former Jackie Green, live at 2313 13th Ave in Lewiston.

He was taken by ambulance to St. Joseph's Hospital in Lewiston in serious condition with extensive burns on his left hand, left arm, and right chest. Sunday morning he was transferred to Sacred Heart Hospital in Spokane for further observation and treatment.

'Kraut apparently grabbed the high voltage line, other linemen said, mistaking it for a dead line. The jolt burned him and knocked him backwards in his safety belt. leaving him hanging on the pole, about one-fourth mile from the new section of the North-South Highway through Culdesac Canyon and about one-half mile from Culdesac.

Another lineman, Gary Nelson, of Lewiston, climbed the pole after Kraut, but Kraut slipped out of his belt just as the rescue attempt was being made. The combined weight forced Nelson out of his bolt and he fell backwards to the ground along with Kraut.

The accident occurred about 2:30 p. m. Friday.

RESTAURANTS CONDUCTING NATIONWIDE PROMOTION

Restaurants throughout this community and the nation are conducting a nationwide promotion in October aimed at getting men to take their wives and children to eat at a restaurant.

Robert D. Parks, chairman of the public relations and trade promotion committee of the National Restaurant Association, said it will be the biggest monthly promotion ever conducted by the industry. "Restaurants including drive-ins, cafeterias. coffee shops, and fine dinner houses are planning special treats during the month which will make a hero out of every guy who takes his wife and kids out to eat."

Parks, who is also executive vice president of Howard Johnson's, explained that the theme of the Restaurant Month promotion is a salute to The Greatest Guy In The World. He defined the "greatest guy" as the man who takes his family out to eat often.

Eating out in the public mind has become associated with relaxation and pleasure, according to surveys made by the National Restaurant Association. The eating out occasion means side-tracking dull routine—cooking and washing dishes— and having fun for all instead.

The widespread growth of diverse types of eating establishments and the great variety of fine foods offered has contributed to the growing popularity of "eating out for fun."

For many people eating out has become a family tradition and restaurants here want more families to experience the same pleasures.

LANDHOLDERS, SPORTSMEN FIGHT VANDALISM MENACE

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish and Game Department

Idaho promoters emphasize that most homes are within a few minutes of good fishing and hunting wherever they are located around the state. This is a basic consideration for industry surveying places to relocate because employee morale is better when workers and their families have outdoor recreation nearby.

Boise, the state capital, is such a place but does not stand alone. Idaho's rugged interior is fringed by lowland plains, valleys and foothills that throng with people. The closeness of back country to populated areas, however, is a mixed blessing.

Whether in the wooded hills north and east of Boise, or near other crowded sectors, landholders grumble that townsmen often trespass against them. More often than not, boys are blamed, especially those armed with small rifles. But in all truth, city dwellers of all ages and both sexes seeking brief outdoor respite from hurly, burly ways of living are tarred with the same brush. Only in the narrow sense that maturity sometimes does not bring respect for individual and property rights can the callowness of youth be held entirely responsible.

Vandalism is ugly no matter whence it stems and undoubtedly will be given great weight in the deliberations of the Idaho Landholder-Sportsmen Council on August 27 in the Boise meeting room of the Fish and Game Department. Not that either fishermen or hunters—collectively called sportsmen—are vandals. Wearing a beat-up old fishing hat or bright-colored vest does not transform a normal respectable. law-biding citizen into a vandal. Neither do the deeds of irresponsible or even vicious characters resemble the actions of typical hunters and fishermen. But responsibilty for good outdoor manners rests squarely on all on all sportsmen and their representatives to the Idaho Landholder-Sportsman Council. They are in the best position to do something about it.

Vandalism is commonplace in outdoor recreation areas. Vandals are responsible. It is time that hunters, fishermen and sportsmen in general be disassociated from vandals. Even the simplest of definitions is clear on that point.

The Idaho Landholder-Sportsman Council is working hard to ease the existing confusion that groups fishermen, hunters and vandals in the same class. The great majority of Idahoans are good people, obey the laws and are fine sports men. It is the tiny one or two percent that cause all the headaches underlying the popular association of sportsmen with vandals.

It is noteworthy that the upcoming meeting of the Council marks the 11th year of statewide work toward bettering landholder-sportsmen relations. Keynoting these labors is the slogan., "Hunting By Permission." It is based on sound legislation passed several years ago, and has been successful most places. This year the Idaho Fish and Game Department, in cooperation with the Council and organized sportsmen in a dozen major concentration points, are spreading the message across the countryside with outdoor billboards to bolster the newspaper-radio-TV drive to respect public property.

The root problem is enormous, as big as the spiraling number of people who take to the hinterlands during all four seasons of the year for some of their recreation. Idaho's public domain is great. In fact, hunting for deer and other big game animals is done mainly on Forest Service and other public lands. But finding enough public access thoroughfares to them is the crucial issue and a hardcore part of the Department's Five Point Program for the Future. During the last budget year ending on June 30, Sportsmen acquired 630 more acres of land in small parcels all over the state as public access sites to good fishing and hunting grounds. The cost of these purchases for the 1964-65 fiscal year was $103,400.

Much of the Five Point money charged to public access goes for land development costs. Such work involves building roads. parking areas, fences, cattleguards, boat ramps and sanitation facilities as needed. Budget figures reveal that $90,000 will be spent for such improvements form July 1, 1965, to next June 30. About half of this revenue comes from federal aid sources.

Actually, making places for people to play as well as fish and hunt is a cooperative venture. These places attract picnickers and others along with sports men and some are litterbugs and even vandals. Several areas are fast becoming garbage dumping grounds. Yet no money is available for clean-up jobs, or retaining a caretaker even on a part-time basis. Department funds cannot be diverted for the benefit of recreation programs other than those related to expanding fishing and hunting opportunities throughout the state.

Idaho fortunately recognized the need for public access sites before it was too late, acquiring land over the years that perhaps now would not be for sale at any prices. Many of these still must be developed and maintained, and others acquired under the systematic Five Point Program. Such work must be a cooperative effort enlisting resources of the state, counties. municipalities and civic and sportsmen's organization.

Meanwhile. the Idaho Landholder-Sportsman Council attempts to build up overwhelming public sentiment against the segment of people who inevitably are thieves, scoundrels, wife beaters, murderers, and even cheat in a game of solitaire. Some of them steal game, cut fences, ignore 'No Trespassing" signs and shoot cows.

There are laws on the books to help enforcement officers deal with them. For the rest of us, remember:

"Every Litter Bit Hurts."

GAME TAG REGULATIONS

People who buy more than one license of any class for the purpose of getting extra big game tags or permits are asking for trouble. The law clearly prohibits such a ruse and the purchase or possession of more than the specified number and kinds of tags. Getting a second license and using its serial number to obtain additional big game tags is a misdemeanor and punishable as such.

Briefly, the allowable number of big game tags that may be issued to any license of any class, whether resident or nonresident. is as follows: One elk tag at $3, three deer tags (regular, extra and Middle Fork) at $2, one bighorn sheep tag at $10, one mountain goat tag at $10, plus moose and antelope tags if permits for controlled hunts are won at public drawings. Tags are not required for black bear.

Nonresident buyers of restricted $25 deer or bear licenses, which are valid in 28 designated game management units, are permitted only one deer tag and no elk or other species tags.

The heart works harder in hot, humid weather to keep body temperatures normal, the Idaho Heart Association reminds. Ease its work by avoiding exercise or exertion in the hot sun.

Exercise improved the heart's efficiency, the Idaho Heart Association points out. The athlete's heart pumps more blood with fewer, but stronger, strokes per minute than the loafer's heart.

It's a busy Loafing Shed! We put extension phones wherever people want them. George W. Hoggatt, cattleman of Stemilt Creek, Washington, wanted one in the "loafing shed," placed high enough so the cattle couldn't disturb it. We did, and George reports: "It's even handier than I thought it would be. It saves me quite a bit of time, and many errands."

"Real Cool!" — and really convenient! Teen-age Kathy gives the recreation room phone a real workout at the James Toomey home, Post Falls. It's ideal for 4-H meetings and other activities—while allowing quiet and privacy in the rest of the house.

"Pushbutton" speed on phone orders At the Montgomery Ward's catalog office in Kennewick, supervisor Bobbie-Peters can assign calls to the staff faster and easier, thanks to the "pushbutton key strip" suggested by Gen Tel. Any of 9 lines can be switched to any phone.

Genesee needs a strict speed ordinance as there are times both day and night when it is positively dangerous for little innocent children and grown up people to cross the street without fear of being run down by a speeding auto.

RESTAURANTS CONDUCTING NATIONWIDE PROMOTION

Restaurants throughout this community and the nation are conducting a nationwide promotion in October aimed at getting men to take their wives and children to eat at a restaurant.

Robert D. Parks, chairman of the public relations and trade promotion committee of the National Restaurant Association, said it will be the biggest monthly promotion ever conducted by the industry. "Restaurants including drive-ins, cafeterias. coffee shops, and fine dinner houses are planning special treats during the month which will make a hero out of every guy who takes his wife and kids out to eat."

Parks, who is also executive vice president of Howard Johnson's, explained that the theme of the Restaurant Month promotion is a salute to The Greatest Guy In The World. He defined the "greatest guy" as the man who takes his family out to eat often.

Eating out in the public mind has become associated with relaxation and pleasure, according to surveys made by the National Restaurant Association. The eating out occasion means sidetracking dull routine—cooking and washing dishes— and having fun for all instead.

The widespread growth of diverse types of eating establishments and the great variety of fine foods offered has contributed to the growing popularity of "eating out for fun."

For many people eating out has become a family tradition and restaurants here want more families to experience the same pleasures.

LANDHOLDERS, SPORTSMEN FIGHT VANDALISM MENACE

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish and Game Department

Idaho promoters emphasize that most homes are within a few minutes of good fishing and hunting wherever they are located around the state. This is a basic consideration for industry surveying places to relocate because employee morale is better when workers and their families have outdoor recreation nearby.

Boise, the state capital. is such a place but does not stand alone. Idaho's rugged interior is fringed by lowland plains, valleys and foothills that throng with people. The closeness of back country to populated areas, however, is a mixed blessing.

Whether in the wooded hills north and east of Boise, or near other crowded sectors, landholders grumble that townsmen often trespass against them. More often than not, boys are blamed, especially those armed with small rifles. But in all truth, city dwellers of all ages and both sexes seeking brief outdoor respite from hurly, burly ways of living are tarred with the same brush. Only in the narrow sense that maturity sometimes does not bring respect for individual and property rights can the callowness of youth be held entirely responsible.

Vandalism is ugly no matter whence it stems and undoubtedly will be given great weight in the deliberations of the Idaho Landholder-Sportsmen Council on August 27 in the Boise meeting room of the Fish and Game Department. Not that either fishermen or hunters—collectively called sportsmen—are vandals. Wearing a beat-up old fishing hat or brightcolored vest does not transform a normal respectable. law-biding citizen into a vandal. Neither do the deeds of irresponsible or even vicious characters resemble the actions of typical hunters and fishermen. But responsibility for good outdoor manners rests squarely on all on all sportsmen and their representatives to the Idaho Landholder-Sportsman Council. They are in the best position to do something about it.

Vandalism is commonplace in outdoor recreation areas. Vandals are responsible. It is time that hunters, fishermen and sportsmen in general be disassociated from vandals. Even the simplest of definitions is clear on that point.

The Idaho Landholder-Sportsman Council is working hard to erase the existing confusion that groups fishermen, hunters and vandals in the same class. The great majority of Idahoans are good people, obey the laws and are fine sports men. It is the tiny one or two percent that cause all the headaches underlying the popular association of sportsmen with vandals.

It is noteworthy that the upcoming meeting of the Council marks the 11th year of statewide work toward bettering landholder-sportsmen relations. Keynoting these labors is the slogan.. "Hunting By Permission.". It is based on sound legislation passed several years ago, and has been successful most places. This year the Idaho Fish and Game Department, in cooperation with the Council and organized sportsmen in a dozen major concentration points, are spreading the message across the countryside with outdoor billboards to bolster the newspaper-radio-TV drive to respect public property.

The root problem is enormous, as big as the spiraling number of people who take to the hinterlands during all four seasons of the year for some of their recreation. Idaho's public domain is great. In fact, hunting for deer and other big game animals is done mainly on Forest Service and other public lands. But finding enough public access thoroughfares to them is the crucial issue and a hardcore part of the Department's Five Point Program for the Future. During the last budget year ending on June 30, Sportsmen acquired 630 more acres of land in small parcels all over the state as public access sites to good fishing and hunting grounds. The cost of these purchases for the 1964-65 fiscal year was $103,400.

Much of the Five Point money charged to public access goes for land development costs. Such work involves building roads. parking areas, fences, cattleguards, boat ramps and sanitation facilities as needed. Budget figures reveal that $90,000 will be spent for such improvements form July 1, 1965, to next June 30. About half of this revenue comes from federal aid sources.

Actually, making places for people to play as well as fish and hunt is a cooperative venture. These places attract picnickers and others along with sportsmen and some are litterbugs and even vandals. Several areas are fast becoming garbage dumping grounds. Yet no money is available for clean-up jobs, or retaining a caretaker even on a part-time basis. Department funds cannot be diverted for the benefit of recreation programs other than those related to expanding fishing and hunting opportunities throughout the state.

Idaho fortunately recognized the need for public access sites before it was too late, acquiring land over the years that perhaps now would not be for sale at any prices. Many of these still must be developed and maintained, and others acquired under the systematic Five Point Program. Such work must be a cooperative effort enlisting resources of the state, counties. municipalities and civic and sportsmen's organization.

Meanwhile. the Idaho Landholder-Sportsman Council attempts to build up overwhelming public sentiment against the segment of people who inevitably are thieves, scoundrels, wife beaters, murderers, and even cheat in a game of solitaire. Some of them steal game, cut fences, ignore 'No Trespassing'' signs and shoot cows.

There are laws on the books to help enforcement officers deal with them. For the rest of us, remember: "Every Litter Bit Hurts."

GAME TAG REGULATIONS

People who buy more than one license of any class for the purpose of getting extra big game tags or permits are asking for trouble. The law clearly prohibits such a ruse and the purchase or possession of more than the specified number and kinds of tags. Getting a second license and using its serial number to obtain additional big game tags is a misdemeanor and punishable as such.

Briefly, the allowable number of big game tags that may be issued to any license of any class, whether resident or nonresident. is as follows: One elk tag at $3, three deer tags (regular, extra and Middle Fork) at $2, one bighorn sheep tag at $10, one mountain goat tag at $10, plus moose and antelope tags if permits for controlled hunts are won at public drawings. Tags are not required for black bear.

Nonresident buyers of restricted $25 deer or bear licenses, which are valid in 28 designated game management units, are permitted only one deer tag and no elk or other species tags.

The heart works harder in hot, humid weather to keep body temperatures normal, the Idaho Heart Association reminds. Ease its work by avoiding exercise or exertion in the hot sun.

Exercise improved the heart's efficiency, the Idaho Heart Association points out. The athlete's heart pumps more blood with fewer, but stronger, strokes per minute than the loafer's heart.

IDAHO FLOOD RELIEF

Flood damages for the repair and replacement of fishery facilities in three Pacific Northwest states will amount to nearly a million dollars. Idaho's share will total $365,000. Oregon gets $535,000 and Washington's allocation will be $96,000.

The Idaho money is earmarked for stream improvement involving the removal of a large log jam and sand deposits on spawning areas of the Salmon River, the replacement of roadways and coffer dams, and the repair of cave-ins on the Selway Falls tunnel and fish ladder.

The Department will do the work under the Columbia River Fishery Development Program, which is administered by the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, Fish and Wildlife Service and the Department of Interior.

"INSTANT DICTATION" FOR DOCTORS

Doctors at Eastern State Hospital, Medical Lake, Washington, have a fast new method for dictating lab reports, patient progress reports, and other data regarding patient care: they just pick up any phone in the hospital. Dialing three numbers connects them with a recorder in the dictation section, and their message is automatically put on tape. Trained secretaries transcribe and type the tapes. One more example of how Gen Tel helps make dependable telephone service even more valuable.

Tisdale To Asia On Dry Grazing Study

Problems affecting dry grazing lands of Asia, East Africa, and the Eastern Mediterranean area will be studied by a University of Idaho professor and his wife September through June 1966.

Dr. Edwin W. Tisdale, professor of range management and associate director of the forest, wildlife and range experiment station at the University of Idaho, will be sponsored on his trip by the Dry-Lands Research Institute of the University of California at Riverside. He will be on sabbatical leave from Idaho both semesters of the 1965-66 academic year.

Dr. Tisdale said he is to make a study of conditions and problems in dry grazing or range lands in India, Pakistan, Iran, Kenya, Sudan, Egypt, Syria, Israel, Greece and Tunisia.

"All of these countries have important dry land grazing resources," Tisdale said. "But most of these resources are currently producing far below their potential, and all are short of the animal products that could be produced with better management.

"Most of the areas to be visited have been grazed for a very long time, and offer a wonderful opportunity to evaluate the effects of different grazing practices on a great variety of vegetation and soil types," said Tisdale. "In some cases, as in Kenya, big game animals are a major factor in utilization of the grazing resources making an additional complication in management. Watershed and forest values are also involved in many areas, so I will be actually studying multiple use of lands with emphasis on the grazing resource."

Dr. Tisdale said the extensive project would require that they spend only two to four weeks in most countries, collecting data in the form of notes and photographs. As well as helping with these records, Mrs. Tisdale plans to record much of the area in watercolor paintings. She is an accomplished artist who has toured often with the University of Idaho's summer Workshop on Wheels.

The Dry-Lands Research Institute, supporting the trip, is a recently organized institute sponsored by the Rockefeller Foundation, said Tisdale. Its objective is to aid in educational and research activities aimed at increasing food production in the dry land areas of the world. At present, the institute is primarily concerned with obtaining first hand information on these lands and the people and institutions who are working with problems concerning their use.

He said emphasis will be placed on graduate scholarships for students from these countries, exchange of faculty with institutions in the area and, probably eventual establishment of research and teaching centers abroad.

"The Institute's work will be focused largely on three major regions," he said "Two of them, Northwest India and Western Pakistan and the Arab countries will be covered in our trip."

Preparation for the trip has included contacts with people who are already working in these countries, such as the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, and the Agency for International Development of the United States' Department of State. Tisdale will rely on these people to show him typical grazing areas of the countries concerned and to aid in contacts with educational institutions and faculty engaged in land management.

"I believe this trip will provide a perspective on dry land problems which can be obtained in no other way," he concluded.

BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT SPECIALISTS TRANSFERRED TO PORTLAND

Two bureau of Land Management staff specialists in the state office in Boise have been assigned to the new BLM service center in Portland, Ore., according to Joe T. Fallini, state director.

Robert D. Martin, range conservation specialist in the state office since 1960, will move into the soil and watershed division at the Portland center on Aug. 22. In his new assignment he will serve as special consultant on soil and water shed management problems to state and district offices in California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Nevada.

Martin has been with the Bureau of Land Management since his graduation from the Utah State University in 1952 with a degree in range management. He worked as a range manager in the Shoshone, Idaho Falls and Boise districts before coming into the state office to serve on the director's staff.

Donovan Yingst will become the new lands appraisal specialist in the Portland service center, reporting for duty there on September 13. He is a 1950 graduate from the University of Idaho with a degree in forestry. Starting as range manager with BLM in the Burley district in 1952, Yingst moved nto the state office as a land examiner in 1955. Since 1960 he has served on the state director's staff as reviewer for land appraisals. In his new assignment he will provide consultant services in the five state area served by the Portland center.

"Both men will be hard to replace," said Fallini. "Their professional competence has been recognized, and it is an honor to them to have been selected as staff consultants in the Portland service center."

The heart works harder in hot, humid weather to keep body temperatures normal, the Idaho Heart Association reminds. Ease its work by avoiding exercise or exertion in the hot sun.

This may be the jet age, the age of leisure time such as our grandmothers could only dream about, but whenever or wherever parents are raising children and making a home, there is work to be done. In many cases, in our area, the mothers combine housekeeping with a job—not a 9 to 5 office job, but driving a truck on the family farm. Even with the aid of automatic household equipment and help in the kitchen, the combination of two jobs takes planning. Our cook this week is an example of such a farm mother. Mrs. Mel Moser says meals which may be made ahead and stored in the freezer are a boon to her during harvest. Her "Lasagne" is this type of meal. She sometimes doubles the recipe and divides it into meal size packages and freezing them. She simply removes the meal from the freezer and heats it in the oven for her main dish harvest meal.

LASAGNE
1 large onion
1 clove garlic
6 sprigs parsley
¼ cup oil (olive or salad)
1 can tomatoes (3½ cups)
1 small can tomato paste
2 bay leaves
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup water
1 pound ground beef
1 small onion
4 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
¾ cup grated cheese (Parmesan or cheddar)
2 cups milk
2 cups cottage cheese (optional)
1 pkg. noodles, 1 lb. lasagne
2 eggs

First: Make tomato sauce. Chop onion, garlic, parsley fine and fry slightly in oil. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, bay leaves, salt, pepper, water and stir till mixed. Add loose ground beef. Cover and cook over low heat 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Set aside.

Second: Make cheese sauce. Chop small onion fine and cook in melted butter a minute or two. Mix in flour, grated cheese and a little salt. Gradually add milk and continue cooking over low heat, stirring constantly until sauce is thick. Beat eggs slightly, mix in a little cheese mixture, then add altogether and cook ten minutes. Remove from stove. If desired, add cottage cheese. Cook lasagne noodles according to package directions and drain. Start oven at 325 degrees. Grease a large baking dish, put layer of noodles on bottom of dish, pour enough tomato sauce to cover. Add some cheese sauce to this. Continue with layers until all ingredients are used. Finish off with covering of cheese sauce. Bake twenty minutes, then broil until surface is bubbly and gold. Makes 6 to 8 generous servings.

The Mosers live four miles northeast of Genesee on the former James Magee farm. They are members of St. Mary's church, and both are active in the Parent's Club. Mrs. Moser is a member and former Vice Grand Regent of the Court Mother Cabrini, C. D. A. Their children are Ron, 12; Doug, 10; Cheri, 8; Pat, 5, and Mary Beth, 1.

GENESEE AT ELK RIVER OPENS GRID SEASON

Twenty-eight football hopefuls drew uniforms last week as Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg began putting the 1965 version of the GHS Bulldogs through the training paces in preparation for the first game of the current season which will send the Bulldogs to Elk River on Friday, September 3, for a contest with the Bobcats.

Genesee's first home game will be the following Friday night, September 10, as the Genesee squad hosts the visiting Pierce Foresters under the lights.

Gone from the Bulldog squad this year will be the outstanding back field which guided the fortunes of the team for two years. Larry Vestal, Skip Ivie, and Bill Morscheck all graduated last year, leaving a deep hole in the Bulldog offense.

This year's football team will lack the weight of previous year's squads, too, reported Coach Kanikkeberg. Quarterback Brad Airhart, tipping the scales at 170 is the heaviest man on the squad this year.

Kanikkeberg said Thursday morning that it was still too early in the training season to pick a starting team for the first game of the year.

The schedule for the coming season is as follows:

September 3:
Genesee at Elk River
September 10:
Pierce at Genesee
September 17:
Genesee at Prairie (Cottonwood)
September 24:
Genesee at Deary
October 1:
Culdesac at Genesee
October 8:

October 13:

October 22:

October 29:

Ivie Sparkles With Lewiston Ball Team

Skip Ivie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ivie, has proven to be a great asset to the Lewiston American Legion baseball team this season. Lost from the squad since early in the season due to a broken arm. Skip recovered in time to participate in the state tournament at Wallace and is now with the squad in the Region 7 American Legion Baseball tournament in Billings, Montana.

The Genesee athlete put in his first appearance of the Billings tourney Sunday evening in a relief role. Skip was called out to the mound in the seventh inning of the game with Billings to relieve starting pitcher Rick Robeson, who began to tire. In the two and one-third innings he hurled Ivie gave up one run and the game ended 7-4 in Lewiston's favor.

Ivie went all the way on the mound Tuesday evening as the Lewiston team defeated Yakima 6-1 to gain the final round in the tournament. Skip gave up just five hits, grouped in the fifth and sixth innings, struck out nine and issued only two walks in posting his victory.

Social Security Checks To Be Increased

The first visible change in the Social Security Act Amendments of 1965 will be the increased amount of the monthly checks.

The monthly rate for all people drawing benefits was increased 7 percent effective January, 1965. This means that in September, beneficiaries will be an extra check which will include the back pay from January 1, 1965 through August of 1965.

The check received in October, 1965 will include the monthly increase for September. This will be automatic. There is no need for anyone to visit. telephone, or write the Social Security office about it.

Persons who were receiving the maximum monthly payment of $127.00 will have their benefit increased to $135.90. Another example is the worker, age 65 who was receiving $60.00 a month. He will now receive $64.20. A person receiving $75.00 before the increase will now receive $80.30.

The new law provides that benefits will be automatically refigured if a person goes back to work. His benefit may be increased. No application will be required as it was in the past.

Another feature of the 1965 amendments to the Social Security Act will be discussed in the next issue.

September An Important Month For Disabled Persons On Social Security

September 1965, is an important date for disabled persons according to James B. Myers, Social Security District Manager in Lewiston. Idaho.

Beginning September, 1965, persons who have been disabled for more than six months may be able to draw Social Security benefits.

The Social Security Amendments of 1965 liberalized the definition of the time the disability has to last.

The former law allowed disability benefits only if the worker's disability was expected to result in death or to be of long and continued duration. The new law removes this requirement and provides that an insured worker who has been totally disabled for a continuous period of 6 months and whose condition has continued or is medically presumed may receive social security disability to continue for at least 6 more months benefits. Under the new definition of disability, persons who have broken bones or had severe operations which are not expected to heal in less than a year may be able to draw social security disability benefits, Myers said.

Persons who think they might qualify under the new law are urged to get in touch with the Social Security Office in Lewiston in person if possible. If they are unable to come to the office they should write the Social Security Office at P. O. Box 643 in Lewiston. If you notify the office by mail, arrangements can be made to take an application from the person involved, Myers said.

Job Openings Increase In Latah County

Over twice as many jobs were received at the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment during the week ending August 21, 1965 as were received in that office during the previous week ending August 14. Thirty new jobs were received this week as compared with 14 the previous week and 23 during the corresponding week a year ago. Twenty-two of these jobs remained unfilled as of the end of the week. Women were needed who could qualify as a secretary, dictaphone operator, X-ray technician, waitresses, fry cooks, sales clerk, bookkeeper, and bobsyitters. Twenty-three workers were assisted in finding employment through the Office during the past week, the total ed with 19 last week and 18 during the corresponding week one year ago. Among those workers placed were sales persons, secretaries, domestic workers, truck drivers, warehouseman, engineering Aide, farm laborers, and construction laborers.

Although 8 new claims for Unemployment Insurance were filed at the Moscow Office during thep ast week, the total number of recipients of Unemployment Insurance Benefits in the County dropped from the 58 persons receiving benefits last week to 48 this week. Sixty five persons were receiving such benefits one year ago at this time.

DOVE, COTTONTAIL SEASONS

Dry weather, low humidity and electrical storms combine forces to make the early fall hunting season a critical time for grass and forest fires. The shooting begins for mourning doves and cottontail rabbits September 1, followed within a few days by bighorn sheep and mountain goat seasons. A word of caution is enough to alert hunters and fishermen of the extra danger. Actually more people afield is a safeguard when they are careful because they act as observers to report fires. This speeds up the work of fire control.

Sportsmen as a class of people are courteous and do respect the rights of landholders. They do not look kindly on the actions of a very few people who are heedless of the Golden Rule.

A good hunting season is shaping up in Idaho for upland game birds, migratory waterfowl and big game animals. The majority of sportsmen are on the lookout for the few who try to spoil it through trespassing, littering and even vandalism.

HEAVY RAINS HALT HARVEST OPERATIONS

Heavy rains blanketed the Inland Empire this week bringing harvest operations to a complete halt just as farmers in the area were reaching the peak of the cutting season. John Luedke, who records rainfall for the Soil Conservation Service, reported that .08 of an inch of rain fell during the past week.

The 1965 harvest of small grains had been delayed several times already prior to the latest storms which swept across the region and the farmers were right at the peak of harvest Thursday when the storm struck. Rainfall was heaviest Friday with .34 inches coming down. The rains continued to plague the farmers all week. The storms, accompanied by thunder and lightning, appeared to be scattered and of varying intensity. Some areas around Genesee would be practically deluged with rain for a short period of time while other sections of the country would barely get a sprinkling of moisture.

According to the 10-year average, the amount of rain is only slightly above normal for Genesee, but what made it so unfavorable was that it struck when the grain was ready for cutting. While the month is still not complete the 1.26 inches of moisture which has fallen thus far is well below the record set in 1960 when August produced 2.14 inches of rain. Since 1954. the driest August on record was in 1958 when only .21 inches of rain was received.

According to reports from other sections of north central Idaho, Genesee has not suffered crop damage as great as some. The greatest damage appeared to be centered in the NezPerce-Craigmont area, where half the 1965 grain crop remains unharvested. Some areas reported rain totals of more than two inches in the last seven days. Hail also added to the farmers plight up on the Camas prairie.

Homer Hutter, Latah County Agent, said this week that summer fallow south of Moscow has been hit by erosion and that grain crops at Kendrick and around Genesee have developed spots.

FRIDAY FORUM

TO GAMBLE OR NOT TO GAMBLE

For the third time in twelve years, legalized gambling may be an issue in Idaho's next election. The public has been dazzled with figures showing how legalized gambling can solve the Gem State's financial problems. They propose that all present forms of taxation be done away with. However, it becomes clear that gambling is the worst thing for the State of Idaho.

For one reason, the dream that gambling can solve all of Idaho's financial problems is completely ridiculous. Gambling has not solved Nevada's problems—witness the Nevada sales tax. Nevada continues to be plagued with financial problems because they spend more than twice as much for law enforcement than we do. Secondly, legalized gambling tarnishes a state's reputation. What is the first thing you think of when you hear the name "Nevada?" Do we want to attract law-abiding people to Idaho or do we want to attract the type that hangs over crap tables? Because gambling attracts undesirable people and raises the crime rate, a state's reputation suffers as a result. When we go to some other state, we want to be able to say we are from Idaho and be proud of it. And now we come to the most obvious disadvantage of gambling—that of crime itself. Nevada does not boast of its crime statistics. Here are some figures taken from FBI reports for the year 1959. Nevada had 9.7 murders per 100,000 population, while Idaho had 2.4. Suicides were twice as prevalent in Nevada as in Idaho, and the auto theft rate was three times higher in Nevada. In addition, Nevada had 4½ times as many robberies and 3½ times as many burglaries, per 100,000 people. Is this progress? If you favor legalized gambling, then you also favor more crime and violence. It seems apparent that gambling kills more business than it generates. Gamblers that lose money will go to any means to pay their debts.

At this early stage of the state elections, it cannot be determined which road the pro-gambling group will follow. But both political parties should be able to recognize a losing issue when they see one. Idahonans can decide if they want a clean state or if they want to turn it into a cesspool of crime and violence.

HEADQUARTERS BUILDING DEDICATION AUGUST 19

The Department's $347,326 new headquarters office building in Boise will be dedicated August 19 by Governor Robert E. Smylie and the Fish and Game Commission, among other state, county and municipal dignitaries. Department employees donated game meat, fish and fowl as hors d'oeuvres for the public at the day-long open house and guided tours through the 20,000 square feet of office space.

The special meeting of the Fish and Game Commission will establish hunting seasons, bag limits and other regulation details for upland game birds and migratory waterfowl, probably Friday. Opening season dates for upland game birds were set earlier by the Commission so that vacation time could be arranged for people who want to spend it afield. The closing dates, bag limits and other details are established after biological data has been collected statewide on the success of the spring hatch and brood survival. Probably three-fourths of all birds shot by hunters in the fall are young of the year.

HOUSING AND CLASSROOM SPACE TIGHT AT U. OF IDAHO

New housing and classroom facilities will be processed into service this fall to accommodate a record number of about 5,500 students expected at the University of Idaho.

"Even with our expanded facilities we have had many more requests for admittance than we could handle," said Director of Admissions. Frank Young. "If we had not been unusually selective with out-of-state students this year, we would have a runaway in enrollment—many more than the university could serve."

President Ernest W. Hartung commented:

"The new University Classroom Center will provide a much needed tool to accommodate the oncoming mass of students seeking admission, but thus far our dormitory building program has been unable to keep pace with the demands of those seeking places here."

The groundwork for the fourth and final wing of the Wallace Residence Center is being rushed, but completion for that unit will not be before the fall of 1967.

Classes at the university will begin at 8 a. m. Thursday, September 23. There will be extensive activity on the campus before that date, however.

Women's Rush will be held September 12 to 17, and Men's Rush. September 13 to 17. The president's convocation— the first meeting of the class of 1969—is scheduled at 7 p. m. Sunday, September 19. New Student Days, which start with the convocation, will carry on through the rest of the week.

SCIENCE TOPICS

SS JOINS THREE R'S

KIDS who usually get their knowledge of space science from backs of cereal boxes will get it straight from the teacher's mouth, reports Northwestern University, where a Workshop in Space Science deals in classroom material for kindergarten through eighth grade. For example Newtons law of action and reaction, a basic principle of space flight, is described: "You throw a rock while standing on a skateboard. The rock goes one way and you move the other way with equal force."

A COLLISION in space 590 million years ago is responsible for most of the meteorites that plunge to earth today, claims University of Chicago scientist Deiter Heymann. The meteorites' unique structure and mineral composition strongly indicate that they originated from one major crash which broke up the parent asteroids into chunks from 10 to 100 miles in diameter. Subsequent collisions between the pieces of the common family, Heymann theorizes, produced the small bodies that plummet to earth from time to time. . . . PICKLES account for more than half the U. S. cucumber crop, which in 1963 amounted to nearly 722,000 tons with a farm value of about $57 a ton.

PROCESSING, heating or cooling, thick slurries in the chemical industry is easier with a newly developed "Votator" scraped surface heat exchanger. The Louisville firm's "Cleanwall" unit is 20-ft. long with a 10-inch interior diameter, providing 50 square feet of heat transfer surface. Material pumped thru the unit is constantly scraped from the walls by fixed blades, preventing fouling common with other equipment . . . WOOD PLASTIC has been developed by West Virginia University. Wood impregnated with liquid plastic, a monomer such as methyl methacryiate, then treated with ionizing radiation to polymerize the plastic molecules, has many improved properties while retaining the natural beauty of wood.

A SOLAR STILL devised by the U. S. Department of Agriculture: dig a hole 40 in. in diameter and 20 in. deep. Put a cup in the center. Cover the hole with a plastic sheet and place a small rock in the center. Water drops, evaporated from the soil by solar energy, condense on the underside of the plastic, run to the center and drop into the cup. In a test, the still extracted a quart of water per day from a dry stream bed near Tempe, Arizona. . . . A PLASTIC SADDLE, with stirrup, girth and saddle horn, is offered by a toymaker for $5. But not for a toy horse, It's for dads who submit to children's demands to play "horsey."

INCOME TAX FEATURES HELP US SAVINGS BOND SALES

Federal Income Tax deferments features of the Series E Savings Bond seem to be a major reason why people buy and hold bonds," Volunteer County Savings Bonds Chairman Acie Anderson said in Moscow in his monthly sales report.

"Sales in this county last month amounted to $18,142 while July sales for the entire state totalled $656,519." he continued.

"Nationally, Savings Bonds sales last month were $388 million while national Bond holdings are at an all time high of $48,894,000,000."

As to tax deferment, the chairman said, "E-Bond interest, unlike earnings of many other forms of savings or investments, need not be reported each year for income tax. Thus, owners of these bonds gain full benefit of guaranteed compound interest as long as the securities are held. Many persons plan to hold their bonds until a time when they may be in a more favorable income tax situation, possibly with higher exemptions or loss income due to retirement. This, of course, can give a real advantage when the tax is finally due as the bonds are cashed.

"Also, more persons seem to be aware of the fact that U. S. Savings Bonds are never subject to state or local income tax."

Mammals have been the dominant form of life on earth for 70 million years, adapting to every known type of environment.

Platforms and tubs for goose nesting are built in several major Idaho migratory waterfowl breeding areas, and others are added every year.

Garden corn seems to be coming on rapidly at this time, and nothing is more succulent than fresh, hot buttered ears of corn. However, there are those who cannot eat it on the cob, or who prefer a softer dish. For them, or just a delicious treat, try a corn souffle. Incidentally, canned or frozen corn works just as well.

CORN SOUFFLE

Cook enough ears of corn for 2 cups cut off.

2 cups corn
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
½ tsp. salt
½ cup milk
2 egg yolks beaten
⅛ teaspoon paprika
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Melt butter, add flour and salt and stir until smooth. Add milk, cook and stir until mixture thickens. Gradually add this to beaten yolks, add corn and paprika. Let cool, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a greased casserole dish. Set dish in a pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

A little boy was just closing the deal for a newly-weaned puppy. He had picked the one he wanted from the litter and was prepared to depart when the kennel owner had a moment of doubt.

"Oh, dear," she said, "perhaps I shouldn't let that one go. I'm not sure he is big enough to eat yet."

A look of alarm flashed across the boy's face.

"Gosh, lady," he said, "I don't want to eat him . . . . . I love him."

Grandma Jones, though suffering from many of the ailments of old age, stubbornly refused to see the local doctor or permit any sort of medical examination.

Her daughter, worried, decided to call in a well-known physician from a nearby city. When he arrived, she told him to quietly conduct his examination and not pay any attention to what Grandma Jones might say. After he had left, the daughter went up to her mother's room.

"Who was that new lawyer who was here to see me?" asked Grandma.

"That wasn't a lawyer, that was a doctor from the city that I called."

"Oh," said Grandma Jones in surprse. "I thought he was a bit familiar for a lawyer."

Proper Conditioning Aids Comfort, Success During Hunting Season

This fall upwards of 100,000 hunters will take to the Idaho hills, woods, fields, and wetlands in pursuit of a cornucopian supply of upland game birds, migratory waterfowl and trophy animals of many species. Other thousands of fishermen will be on the state's 35,000 miles of rivers and streams, and many of the 2,000 lakes in the high country until the close of the general trout season October 31. All of them will have fun, but many will find their joys diluted by the blisters, bruises and assorted sprains and contusions.

Today's mechanized society robs the people of much of the physical labors which keep muscle tone and body coordination good. The sudden switch from factory, desk and farm routines to the rigors of the chase is bound to result in some discomfort. But a small amount of conditioning adds measurably to the pleasures of field and stream, or rod and gun.

Dove shooting starts September 1, the earliest hunting in the state except for cottontail rabbit beginning on the same date. These are not rated as man-killing sport, although good hand-eye coordination is essential for success, especially when the quarry is an unguided missile called called dove. Four days later, on September 4, the earliest hunts on mountain goats and bighorn sheep begin. Unless nimrods have strong hearts, good wind and are overflowing with stamina, success may elude them on the tortuous crags.

Dr. Lowell Bakes, Boise dentist, usually hunts the massive curls of the bighorns, and the ebony, rapier sharp, curved horns of mountain goat even though residual damage from a dislocated knee gives his quarry a sharp edge in the competition. What most of his friends do not know is the disciplined rigors Dr. Bakes undergoes for several weeks in late summer before venturing out for even a chukar partridge hunt. Otherwise, he climbs and descends backwards over precipitous places. He is stocked with suggestion for limbering and toughening muscles that bear the brunt of a day's hunt.

Hunting exercise mostly is walking. Dr. Bakes, therefore, recommends getting oxygen on the hoof above all other prehunt conditioning activities. His idea is two or three miles daily for at least two weeks before safari time, increasing the distance to at least four miles a day toward the end of the stint. Walking without a purpose can be a bore. Dr. Bakes advises substituting shank's mare for short trips which usually are made in the family car—to the store, to and Chukar hunting can be as hard on man and beast as going for big game. Rover, the same as all kennel dogs, gets soft from easy living, too. Dr. Bakes says he takes his two shorthairs out for hardening exercise and refresher training about three times a week the month before he puts them before the gun. This prevents their feet from blistering and the pads from becoming raw when they go to work. He also trims their claws (or has it done by a veterinarian) to keep them from cracking and splitting on the rocky outcroppings of Owyhee County and other rugged chukar terrain.

Dogs also are good company and help relieve their master's boredom on his walks. Dr. Bakes suggests that the hiker begin in easy stages and add gradually to the distance and speed. He should be clipping off three or four miles without strain within two or three weeks, within two or three weeks, with head high and arms swinging. Walking is one of the most healthful yet least strenuous of exercises. It can hardly be overdone unless the countryside is folded steeply by hills and ravines.

Another item for consideration during hunting "warm up" exercises is wearing regular field boots or shoes the last week of conditioning. The extra weight helps toughen muscle tone. It also shows up poor fits, creases or other weaknesses in the foot gear that can spoil a trip. All this is doubly important, of course, for the man who invests in a new pair of boots. They must be worn regularly ahead of time to allow for gradual breaking in and later comfort.

A few flights of stairs daily will bring muscles into play that are seldon used. Such climbing removes the surprise element from the first held encounter later on a hunt. Hills don't get steeper every year, as hunters often maintain. Muscles merely get softer as time slips away. As with walking, begin climbing gradually, a leisurely flight of steps or two a day. Then add steps and speed of climbing until five or six flight no longer bring on porpoise-like blowing.

For overweight individuals, slack off on the groceries. Shedding ever a few pounds will add noticeably to endurance in the field. The combination of reduced poundage and increased vigor may achieve prime condition for the first time in year, thus multiplying the pleasures of hunting which can be taken easily in stride.

Certain refinements to walking and climbing condition a man or woman in less tme. Exercises involving the motions of Russian Cossack dancers are not difficult when broken down into separate parts, yet highly effective for toughening heavy upper leg muscles that ordinarily don't get much workout. Dr. Bakes describes these as "squat and jump" routines. He goes down on his haunches with one leg extended, with knee locked and foot off the floor. Then supporting leg slowly raises his body, then lowers it into position for a shift for position with the extended leg taking over and doing the work. There are several variatons of this exercise, all of them good.

The following suggestions, prepared by the Idaho Heart Association, are valuable tips for all hunters with or without cardial symptoms:

—Dress for the climate both day and night. Clothing should be light but warm.

—Know simple first aid rules.

—Be moderate in eating, drinking and physical exertion.

—Drive safely, taking turns at the wheel with other members of the party.

—Drinking does not mix with driving or hunting. At high altitudes, the effects of alcohol are more apparent than usual.

The following is most important for hunters with heart conditions:

—Tell at least one member of the party about the condition, medicine used, etc.

—Plan to get some rest (preferably a night's sleep) before hunting.

—Don't hunt alone.

—Use time and energy efficiently by —To save energy, take a stand near camp and wait for game. Let others flush. The man who stays close to camp is just as important in the hunting party as the roving members.

HARVEST MOVING AGAIN AFTER WEEK DELAY

Harvesting operations in the Genesee area began again this week after a nine-day delay due to heavy rains which swept across the country right at the peak of harvest. Forrest Durbin, manager of Genesee Union, reported that some barley came into the elevators last Saturday, but it wasn't until Tuesday of this week that the wheat was dry enough to cut.

Durbin said it would be his rough guess that as of Thursday morning about 70 to 75 percent of the 1965 crop had been cut and that, weather permitting, the next seven days should see most of the small grain crops harvested and delivered to the bins.

Heavy frost settled over the area Sunday and Monday evening and unofficial temperature readings of 25 above were reported by people in town. The frost damaged many gardens in town, blackening cucumbers, beans, tomatoes, and other produce still in growing process.

The cool air coming in on the warm ground during the night produced heavy dew which kept farmers from getting into the fields until later in the day early this week. The dew was not quite as heavy Thursday morning and grain came in earlier this week than previously.

The wet weather caused a test weight loss of about two pounds per bushel on wheat, the Genesee Union manager reported. Hanna Barley brought in after the rains was "pretty badly stained," Durbin said.

SWIM LESSONS A SUCCESS

Swimming cards have been received this week by youngsters who passed certain requirements in the American National Red Cross swimming program. If a card was not received, the instructors were not satisfied that the student could perform all the skills required for that particular course. For instance, a student who qualifies as an Advanced Beginner in Swimming has learned a series of swimming skills that enables him or her to pass the following tests: 1. Rhythmic breathing: 2. Swimming in place, 3. Changing positions, 4. Elementary backstroke, 5. Hand over hand stroke, 6. Diving and underwater swimming, 7. Use of life jacket, 8. Rescue techniques, and 9. Diving into deep water, swimming three body lengths below the surface, staying afloat in a confined area for 30 seconds, then swimming 20 yards using the elementary backstroke and or hand-over-hand stroke.

One of the instructors commented that very few cards were given out this year as they were very careful that the students qualified on all counts. A card is, after all, just a piece of paper, whereas the overcoming fear of the water, the knowledge of swimming skills, learning to save oneself and the techniques of saving others are the primary reasons that we in Genesee make the effort to see that our children learn to swim. If anyone has a doubt as to whether this project worthwhile, let him accompany some of these children to the pool and observe. All they need is a chance.

Mrs. Everett Wishard and Mrs. Dick Scharnhorst wish to thank the P. T. A. members who faithfully drove the buses, Mrs. Ted Kinzer, Mrs. Ralph Koster, Mrs. Ray Stout, Mrs. Wayne Roach and Mrs. Laverne Anderson. A thanks to the mothers who brought children to the buses and who chaperoned. A special nod of appreciation to the Genesee School District who supplied buses, to Snuffy Lettenmaier, who maintained them, and to the Genesee Fire Department for providing insurance coverage.

A letter has been received by Mayor D. F. Scharnhorst inquiring about a former Genesee resident, Mr. Red Fitz. Mr. Fitz was town marshall here between the years 1910 and 1915. The inquirer wonders if he is deceased, where buried and if he left children. If anyone has information about Mr. Fitz, please call ATlas 5-3116.

Job Placements In County Show Steady Increases

Continuing the trend set a few weeks ago, the number of persons finding jobs through the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employment rose slightly from the previous week. There were 25 Latah County residents placed on jobs during the week, compared with 23 during the previous week, and 21 during the corresponding week a year ago. Among the men placed were Engineering Aides, a meat cutter, farm hands, and laborers. Women received help in locating jobs as a secretary, a stenographer, waitresses, a cocktail waitress, a sales clerk and domestic workers. Currently there is a need in the Moscow area for women who can qualify as secretaries, bookkeepers, cooks, waitresses and domestic workers to live in. Men could find work as electric appliance repairmen, a TV repairman, a typewriter repairman or a trainee, a salesman, welder, log truck driver, farm tractor operators, and a dairyman.

There are still a number of students seeking work for the balance of the summer, and at the beginning of the school year there will be an even larger group available for part-time employment in order to permit thm to continue on with their education. Employers are urged to place orders for workers with the Moscow office of the Department of Employment whenever the need for workers arises.

A slight increase was noted in the total number of persons receiving Unemployment Insurance through the Moscow Office. The rise from 48 to 51 is not significant, however, as there were a total of 69 persons receiving such benefits this time last year. Five persons filed new claims for benefits, including one recently discharged serviceman, and two persons who have just come into this area from having been laid off jobs in other parts of the country. Two local workers filed claims after having been laid off jobs at a construction site, but they expect to return to work within the next week or so. Mose of those persons receiving benefits reside in the Moscow area, there are 40 as compared with 38 Moscow residents last week and 54 one year ago. In the Potlatch area 7 are receiving benefits, the same as a week ago, and compared with 9 last year. 2 have been added in the Troy-Deary-Bovill area, to bring the total to five for the week, compared with 6 last year.

Fall Potato Large Says U. of Idaho Report

The fall potato crop is large but should be no cause for alarm. That's a view taken by R. Wayne Robinson, marketing information economist of the University of Idaho agricultural extension service. There are more mouths to feed every day and consumption of potatoes per person has increased, he said today in the September issue of Economic Facts for Idaho Agriculture.

Idaho's crop is forecast at 59,525,000 hundredweight as of August 1. That's 50 percent more than last year. Robinson pointed out, however, the 1964 crop was short and below average. The 1965 crop is only 11 percent above that of 1963 and only three percent larger than that of 1961. The estimated 1965 U. S. fall crop is 206,246,000 cwt., only five percent above 1963 and one percent above the big 1961 crop.

Population of the nation has increased about 12 million since 1961. It is now about 192 million. Per capita consumption of potatoes has gone up three lbs. to 108 lbs. a year.

"Considering the growth and development of processed potatoes since 1961 and the continued growth of population," Robinson said, "it would appear that the United States should be able to use more potatoes than we did in 1961.

"It is only realistic to recognize that prices for the 1964 crop were the result of a short harvest. Only a born optimist would expect prices at that level for 1965. Although prices for the 1965 crop will undoubtedly be lower than for last year's crop, comparisons with previous crops, growth in population and per capita consumption suggest there is no reason to be overly pessimistic."

All species of Idaho hawks, owls and eagles are protected from hunters all year.

L. ESSER LOCAL CHM. OF STEELHEAD GROUP

Lloyd Esser, local builder and contractor, has been named membership chairman of the Association of Northwest Steelheaders, a group dedicated to preserving and increasing the steelhead fishing for private anglers throughout the Pacific Northwest.

Organized in Hood River, Oregon in 1960 the Association is mainly interested in increasing and perpetuating for future generations the runs of old famous steelhead trout, which enter the many beautiful rivers of Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

The Association of Northwest Steelheaders adopted for its slogan at its formation "More Steelhead for the Angler." The Association still believes that these fine fighting fish should not be canned, nor their migration routes blocked with out provision for passage, nor their spawning beds unnecessarily destroyed, nor subjected to an unregulated off-reservation Indian fishery. The Association believes these should be mitigation for all losses to fish as a result of river development, and that sound programs should be supported. The economic value of a steelhead sports fishery has been ignored for too long, as has the economic value of our salmon sports fishery.

Organizing sportsmen to watch over the destiny of the steelhead is a prime goal of the Association and the effectiveness of the group will be determined by the number of steelheaders who will support them in some way.

Esser, a "steelheader" for many years, says he hoped that all local fishermen who try for these fish each year will join the Association. Membership is just $2.50 per year. Emblems and decals are also available. Those wishing to join or secure more information can do so by stopping at Esser's Store or by contacting Lloyd Esser.

Steelheading on the Snake and Clearwater opens Sept. 15.

BULLDOGS TO ELK RIVER FRIDAY -- GRID OPENER

A light but fast Genesee high school football team opens their 1965 season Friday evening, September 3, when they travel to Elk River to meet the ER Bobcats under the lights in a game beginning at 7:30. The Genesee-Elk River contest is the first match in the 8-man league this year; the other teams will not see action until the following Friday, Sept. 10.

Even though the Bulldogs lost some outstanding players through graduation this year, Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg will be able to field a team composed of 7 returning lettermen on his starting offensive lineup.

Barring injuries, Coach Kanikkeberg said Wednesday night his probable starting line-up, offensively, for the Elk River game would be:

Center: Ronnie Zenner,
Right Tackle: Gary Hermann, Right End: Dave Blume,
Quarterback: Brad Airhart,
Left Half: Butch Green,
Right Half: Russell Storey.

Changes in the lineup when the team goes on defense will see Bernie Hrmann and Leo Bielenberg on in at tackle; Ronnie Zenner will convert to Left Line Backer with Russell Storey serving as Right Line Backer. Doug Mayer and Brad Airhart will be defensive half backs. The ends, Mark Zenner and Dave Blume, will stay.

Injuries haven't been too serious so far this season, Kanikkeberg said. Early this week quarterback Brad Airhart pulled a tendon in his leg, but it is responding to treatment. Ray Esser, a veteran lineman, has seen limited action in practice this season due to minor foot surgery this summer but should be active again soon and pushing for a first-string position.

Assisting Kanikkeberg this year will be Warren Bakes, grade school principal. Roger Brazier and Marvin Bish are managers this year. Cheerleaders will be Diane Peterson, Barbara Kraut, and Kris Flomer.

All Genesee home games will be played at night with the games starting at 7:30. Two games away, at Prairie and Weippe will be afternoon games. These will start at 2:00 p. m.

The first home game of the season will be Friday, Sept. 10 when Genesee meets Pierce on the local gridiron.

THE POWER OF THE PRESS IN AMERICA

Very few people fully realize the immense power the press possesses in America. The nation's newspapers do far more service to America than just reporting the latest baseball scores and publishing household tips from a woman named Heloise. The most obvious characteristic of this power is the way the press functions as a form of news-media. The press serves the American people to inform them of local, national, and international events. Its power in this area is greater than that of radio and television, for newspapers can cover news events in greater detail. Also the newspaper can cover many more accounts on different spheres of interest; the announcement of a forthcoming dance or social event in the bottom corner of a newspaper may not receive any attention from a radio or television station.

The subliminal power the press possesses is couched in terms of the exchange of ideas that is established. People in general do not know that this power rests upon them; in fact its very existence is dependent on some degree of interest by some persons. Most people do not realize that a newspaper will print any letters, as long as they are signed and are, of course, in good taste. Mr. A. writes the newspaper and says the sales tax is an excellent form of taxation. But Mr. B may disagree and write to the paper giving several disadvantages of the sales tax and present which he feels to be a better tax.

It is not difficult to see this exchange of ideas working. Both the Lewiston Morning Tribune and Spokesman-Review carry special columns where readers can write the paper. Usually these columns are found on the editorial pages. Or, for a local example, Genesee police officials warned bicycle riders to obey regulations. The Genesee News received a letter from a youthful rider defending bicycles.

This exchange of ideas really can exist. My purpose in writing these articles for The Genesee News for the past summer was to establish an exchange of ideas. If people merely discussed some points I exposed, I would consider my original purpose to be fulfilled. My time of residence in this area is almost gone, so I heartily encourage others to take advantage of our newspaper's co-operation in forming an exchange of viewpoints. Subjects ranging from national to local issues would be excellent ideas for written discussion. And who knows, a person with an axe to grind may learn a fact or two from someone who answers his letter.

Last year the U. S. Government class at Genesee High School made a big step towards the establishment of an exchange of ideas when they touched upon several issues in a weekly column. The people, if they choose, can take advantage of a newspaper's liberal policy towards letters from readers. The power of exchanging ideas is almost uniquely that of the press. That is why the press is one of the most potentially powerful institutions in the nation today.

VIOLATIONS MOSTLY FISHING

July found 43 resident anglers in court on charges of fishing without licenses, and 11 others involved in different kinds of license violations, bringing the total to well over half the 89 persons arrested. Three persons were cited for fishing or hunting species without seasons, eight during closed seasons, nine with over-limits, one with illegal gear, and 14 for unlawful procedure. Altogether, $1,729 in fines was meted out in August, bringing the total for the first seven months of the year to $11,288. Half of this amount stays in the counties where the violations occur and is divided between general and school funds.

Bullfrogs first were introduced into Idaho in about 1895 by William R. Ridenbaugh of Boise, who brought them overland from the East and South.

HEART MURMURS IN CHILDREN

School days are here again and in recent years a new rule has been added.

That is the almost universally-observed rule that every child entering school for the first time have a physical checkup. For many children, this is often the first comprehensive physical examination since infancy.

These pre-school examinations may provide some disconcerting moments for parents of children in whom a heart murmur is detected, Dr. Lynn Anderson of Pocatello, president of the Idaho Heart Association, notes.

The term "murmur" is used to define unusual sounds produced as the blood circulates through the valves and chambers of the heart and heard through the stethoscope. Doctors speak of two classes of murmurs: "innocent" or functional murmurs, which are harmless; and organic murmurs which may indicate the presence of a heart ailment or defect.

Parents of children with both types of murmurs have an especially important role to play in their children's development. Offering reassurance rather than anxiety can make the difference between psychological health or invalidism. For a free copy of the pamphlet: "Innocent Heart Murmurs in Children", drop a postcard request today to the Idaho Heart Association, 1209 South Capitol Blvd, Boise, Idaho.

SPRING CHICKEN TO LAST LONGER

CHICKEN PASTEURIZATION experiments at McGill University, Montreal, and at U. S. Army facilities at Natick, Mass., show that a radiation process extends the shelf life of chicken carcasses from 10 to an expected 15 to 20 days. The pasteurization is said to be effective in doses of 250,000 units of radiation, or 'rads." It yields a fresh chicken carcass in which normally occuring bacteria are greatly reduced and spoilage slowed.

QUASARS, which are mysterious ,distant and energetic sources of light in the universe, are a gleam in the eye of Case Institute of Technology scientist who are testing a theory that quarsars are formed by collisions of two galaxies, one consisting of normal matter and the other of anti-matter. Quasars, only recently discovered, are approximately 100 times as brilliant as a whole galaxy such as the Milky Way, of which the earth is a part.

A PROMISING LEAD to the cause of a mysterious condition called hyaline membrane disease which causes many premature babies to choke to death and was responsible for the death of Patrick Bouvier Kennedy is announced by the University of California Medical Center. There are many theories about how the disease blocks the lungs. A team of American and Malaysian doctors now believe that the basic cause of the deadly breathing impairment is a constriction of thousands of tiny artery branches that carry blood to the lungs.

MOSQUITOES threatened to end activity at NASA's new Mississippi Test Operations Center, Bay St. Louis, Miss., during the construction period. Astronomical numbers of the pests drastically reduced efficiency of workers building the 13,500-acre Saturn rocket proving ground out of pine forest and hardwood swamp. But aerial spraying of the insecticide Malathion ended the problem with an added benefit. It not only knocked out misquitoes. but controlled hordes of black flies, deerflies, dog flies and sand flies.

MIDDLE FORK FLOATERS

A check station report from Loon Creek from July 6 to August 11 counted 198 rafts with 857 passengers floating the Middle Fork of the Salmon River. This is an indication of the amount of fishing pressure this wild river is getting in the heart of one of Idaho's Primitive Areas.

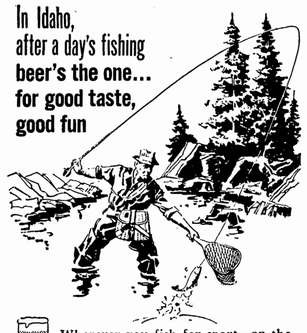
In Idaho, after a day's fishing beer's the one... for good taste, good fun



Wherever you fish for sport—on the ocean, by the booming surf, or on some quiet country pond, it's great at the end of the day to head for a rewarding glass of beer. While you're talking over the ones that got away, or pan-frying the ones that didn't, you enjoy the hearty taste and cool refreshment only a glass of beer can give you so well. Yes, whatever your sport—bowling or strolling, golfing or gardening—a frosty glass of beer makes a naturally great accompaniment.

CLOSING DATES ESTABLISHED BY GAME COMMISSION

A busy two-day special meeting of the Idaho Fish and Game Commission hosted dedication ceremonies and open house for the new headquarters building of the Department in Boise August 19. and established closing dates, bag limits and other regulation details for upland game birds, migratory waterfowl, trapping seasons and cottontail rabbits. These already have been announced. Mourning dove season, established earlier, is Sept. 1-19, overlapping the first weekend of chukar partridge, quail and sage grouse hunting.

Although migratory waterfowl shooting does not start until Octover 9, hunters already are asking why half the bag limit in the 22 western Idaho counties of the Columbia Basin Mallard Area must be mallards, and why regulations for the rest of the state specify that half the bag limit may be mallards. The big difference is that wintering concentrations of mallards of the Columbia Basin area (including 22 Idaho counties) are in need of additional harvest.

A portion of the mallards which migrate through eastern Idaho do not winter the Columbia Basin Mallard Area. notably southwestern Idaho. They come from the Canadian prairie provinces where the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service wants to send more mallards back next spring as breeding stock. This was not essential during the drought years because conditions were not right for good reproduction anyway.

This year, however, there was plenty of water in the Canadian prairie provinces but the breeding stock was too low for enough reproduction and the short supply mallards expected this fall in many parts of the United States is the result.

The Idaho counties in the Columbia Basin Mallard Area, where the season will be 100 days except for geese are as follows:
Ada, Benewah, Blaine, Bonner, Boundary, Camas, Canyon, Cassia. Elmore, Gem, Gooding, Jerome, Kootenai, Latah, Lewis, Lincoln, Minidoka. Nez Perce, Owyhee, Payette, Twin Falls adn Washington.

Duck season in the Columbia Basin Mallard Area runs from October 9 to January 16, but goose season ends statewide January 6. Bag limits are six ducks daily and a possession limit of 12—provided three a day are mallards and six in possession are mallards.

LANDHOLDER-SPORTSMEN POSTERS MEETING NEED

Thousands of posters printed by the Idaho Fish and Game Department in cooperation with organized sportsmen around the state are being posted throughout major pheasant areas to remind hunters to respect private property rights.

E. Kliess Brown, chief of information and education, said the signs are catching on with farmers and are available to them without cost. They are available on request from the Boise headquarters office of the Department, and from regional offices at Coeur d'Alene, Lewiston, McCall, Jerome, Salmon, Rigby and Pocatello. Conservation officers stationed at many points also have supplies for free distribution.

Brown explains that two major complaints of landholders, whether farmers, ranchers or others, are (1) shooting from the highway toward buildings. livestock and other vulnerable property, and (2) hunting without permission. Both practices are against the law.

Another common compliant is that fishermen and hunters are careless in littering, whether on private property or public access sites adjacent to private lands.

The posters are reminders, particularly to hunters, that they must obtain permission to hunt on most private lands and that they must respect property rights while guests on it.

COUGAR KILL DOWN

Last year's statewide cougar kill was 22 per cent below that of the 1963-64 season, but still 63 per cent higher than during the last two years under the bounty system. The figure was 127 cats reported taken for 1964-65. Hunters made 94 per cent of the reported cougar kills, compared to 81 per cent over the past six years. Nine of the big cats were taken by the predator control division of the Fish and Wildlife Service, compared to 33 the previous year.

FAMOUS NAMES COMMON IN STATE OF IDAHO

Persons impressed by name-droppers might do a double take if they had an opportunity to overhear some Idaho students answering questions in the registration lines when they return to the University of Idaho this fall.

According to an article in the September issue of the "Book-Mark." a quarterly publication of the University of Idaho library, name-dropping by many persons in Idaho is often nothing more than stating the name of the home town in which they live.

Many persons living in Idaho, or persons who have just visited here, might do some fancy name-dropping that would impress a scholarly group with such titles as Cambridge, Harvard, Oxford, Princeton, Purdue, Reed, Stanford, Vassar. Wellesley and Yale, all of which are just names of Idaho towns and communities.

Although national capitol names are limited to Moscow, Paris, Amsterdam, and Vienna, the world traveler might be impressed with such places as Aberdeen, Bern, Cardiff, Adelaide and Argentine, or Virginia, plus Cape Horn or the Rubicon, not to mention Troy. Ulysses and Uncle Tom's Cabin.

For the Christmas season we have the North Pole, Santa, Snow, Sweet and Sugar Loaf. And if these names are not impressive enough, the "dropper" might try Blowout, Beer Springs, Bottle Bay or Big Bar.

Regardless of the worldly prominence of the name used, few will raise the eyebrow of the registration takes when the students answer routine questions at the start of school later this month.

Most Idaho hunters know that the Chinese or ringnecked pheasant is an exotic bird that has been naturalized in this country from the Orient. However, the species probably would not have establised itself before the coming of the white man and agriculture.

Drive Carefully Over Labor Day Holiday Urges State Safety Council

The Idaho State Safety Council and Idaho Department of Law Enforcement are embarked on a joint program to urge good driving practices which will make motoring safer and more enjoyable for the 78-hour Labor Day holiday weekend.

Duane Alters, Department of Law Enforcement Traffic Safety Director, said radio announcements were being taped for distribution to all radio stations in the state to be broadcast prior to and during September 3-6 weekend. The broadcasts will urge drivers to practice defensive driving and observe safety rules to hold down the accident toll on Idaho highways and roads.

The program is under the direction of State Police Superintendent A. E. Perkins and Safety Council President Ollie Arbelbide, both Boise. Also participating in preparation of the taped safety messages are George Denney, Department of Law Enforcement; Darrell Dorman, President of Idaho State Federation of Labor, and Kenneth Miller, manager of the Idaho Automobile Association.

The various tapes will promote not only defensive driving, but also boating safety, the lights-on safety reminder campaign of the Idaho Motor Transport Association, and General safety program to make the Labor Day weekend a happier holiday for all Idaho residents.

Alters said Idaho had a fair record for the Labor Day weekend in 1964 with only two highway deaths, a lesser fatality rate than on most weekends. The 1963 holiday was far more tragic with five highway deaths recorded.

"We are hopeful that constant reminders being broadcast to Idahonans prior to and during the Labor Day weekend will help eliminate tragedies which would mar enjoyment of the holiday," Alters said.

"School's Open—Drive Carefully" Campaign Theme

The AAA's annual SCHOOL'S OPEN . . . DRIVE CAREFULLY campaign is underway once again and is designed to alert motorists to be particularly careful in school areas and around school buses. Colorful posters and bumper strips have again been distributed thru out region as a part of the AAA's nation wide program to curb traffic accidents involving school-age youngsters.

Dewitt E. Wallace, president of the Inland Automobile Association, this area's AAA affiliate, reminds drivers that many kindergarten and primary school children are on their own in traffic for the first time, many of whom have not had any previous traffic safety education. Not all school pedestrians have access to streets that are protected by traffic aids . . . . signs, signals, police, patrols, crossing guards or pedestrian crosswalks. Many children are reminded, will have to walk in or along a roadway . . . . particularly in rural and new suburban areas which, quite often, have no sidewalks.

The AAA official urges parents to prepare their children to be safe pedestrians by making certain they know and use a safe route to and from school. "Warn your children to be extra careful when crossing unprotected corners, and to keep on the alert even at stoplight protected corners," Wallace said.

Wallace noted that motorists have the greater responsibility and should be particularly cautious now that schools are open once again.

HOT WEATHER FISHING TIPS

Here are some tips for hot weather fishing:

Angling is most successful at dawn and dusk, but bass and trout can be taken out in the noon-day sun at fishing off the bottom.

Polarized sun glasses reduce glare and help anglers see fish lurking below.

Plenty of suntan lotion and insect repellent in the tackle box add comfort.

Long sleeves, light clothing and warm bedrolls for mountain excursions help.

Above all, clean fish at once adn keep dry and cool until ready for the pan.

HOPKINS LANDING on northeast side of Blackfoot Reservoir is a popular fishing spot. This aerial photo shows extensive public use of the only primary access site on the reservoir. Caribou County Waterways Commission used the funds from boat taxes to put in gravel road and wide boat ramp. Idaho Fish and Game department, as part of its Five Point Program, placed cattle guard at outer end of road and toilets at the parking area.

Early Fall Best Time To Plant Lawns, Say Experts

Early fall is the best time to seed a new lawn, advises W. H. Snyder, assistant horticulturist with the University of Idaho Agricultural Experiment Station.

Fall's cooler temperatures and better moisture conditions favor lawn grasses, he points out. Snyder cautions that grass must be seeded in time to become well established so it can withstand possible early frost. It won't be nearly as difficult to water as spring-seeded lawn. And it won't have as much competition from weeds.

If you already have an established lawn, Snyder suggests that you take advantage of these favorable conditions to fertilize and repair it where necessary

Even if the lawn is in good shape, it needs feeding. One pound of actual nitrogen per thousand square feet will probably be enough. If the lawn is in poor condition, two pounds of actual nitrogen will help reconditon it.

"Remember, I'm talking about actual nitrogen," Snyder emphasizes. "If you are using a fertilizer that contains 20 percent nitrogen—that is 20 pounds per 100 pounds of material—you will need to apply 5 pounds of the material to get 1 pound of nitrogen on the lawn.

Bulldogs Top Elk River 26-13 In Opening Football Contest

Genesee's 1965 Bulldog football team survived a rugged rally in the final quarter Friday night to win their first football game of the season and stretched their unbeaten streak to 34 games as they defeated the Elk River Bobcats 26-13 on the Elk River field.

The usual number of bobbles, mistakes and first game jitters were witnessed by the small crowd, but those who traveled to Elk River were also treated to some good running. and fine defensive action by the Bulldogs who possessed more speed and drive than their opponents.

Genesee drove deep into Elk River territory the first time they got the ball but a fumble gave the ball back to the Bobcats. At this point Genesee defensive showed their strength and held the Elk River team to downs. A blocked punt put the Bulldogs back into scoring position and then halfback Russ Storey brought the ball past the twenty-yard line setting up the stage for Airhart to score on the next play. Butch Green ran over the extra point.

Green scored his own touchdown later in the first quarter as the Genesee team moved well under the quarterbacking of Brad Airhart. Driving down to the Elk River twenty-five, Brad Airhart flipped the ball to Green on a pitchout and Green galloped around left end for the score. The extra point try failed and Genesee had a 13-0 first quarter lead.

Elk River's defense stiffened during the second quarter and there was no scoring although Green had a forty-yard touchdown run called back by a rule violation. Penalties were to plague the Bulldogs throughout the game as this was the first of three touchdown play nullified by penalties. The first ended with the score 13.0.

Another pitchout from Airhart to Green scored six more points try for the Bulldogs and made the score 19-0 as the extra point try failed again. At this point in the game Elk River took to air in an attempt to get past the Bulldog defense and they scored two touchdowns in the final period to stage a gallant comeback that rattled the Bulldogs. With less than three minutes to play Airhart passed to end Mark Zenner who took the ball on the twenty and slipped across for the score. The extra point try was good and Genesee had their 26-13 victory.

Receives Savings Bond Commendation

Postmaster Verla Hall has been commended by William H. Neal, National Director of the U. S. Savings Bond Division for her leadership and service to the Treasurys school savings program.

In a letter to the Postmaster, Mr. Neal pointed out a successful school savings program, through which pupils buy U. S. Savings Stamps at school on a regular basis, "requires the joint cooperation of teachers, parents. and volunteer workers, and above all, good service by the post office and the understanding leadership of the Postmaster."

School Savings, which operates in Genesee schools, is a part of the nation wide Savings Bonds program and, in Mr. Neal's words, "has launched the thrift careers of billions of boys and girls." Then, commenting on the fact that the bond program will observe its 25th anniversary in 1966, he said: 'Many of those who began with School Savings during World War II are now regular buyers of Savings Bonds. and as parents, are anxious for their children too to enjoy the benefits of this patriotic thrift program."

Postmaster Verla Hall commented that "the sale of Savings Stamps to the public, and especially to our young people through the School Savings Program is a service we are proud to render. I know of no finer way to build a better tomorrow than by training our youth in the sound American heritage of thrift."

Savings stamps in denominations from 10 cents to 50 cents are on sale at all times at the Genesee post office and on Stamp Day in schools.

Harvest About Complete For Genesee

The 1965 harvest season is practically complete in the Genesee area and despite the fact that rain caused several delays, it was completed in reasonably good time.

Following the last rains which interrupted harvest right at the peak of operations, farmers were able to complete their work with little delay. Earlier in the week heavy dews kept the combines out of the fields until later in the morning but these gradually diminished until Thursday most of the farmers had their wheat and barley in the elevators and were able to turn their attention to fall plowing and other work.

Temperatures never did regain their seasonal highs which had prevailed prior to the last rainy spell. For the most part the temperatures seldom raised out of the seventies even during the afternoon peak and then would drop down to thirties and low forties at night.

The combination of rain and cool weather served one good purpose; the number of fires this season in the Genesee Rural Fire District were held to a minimum. Only three calls came in during the harvest season. The first was a combine fire at the Winston Mader farm, the second a pickup truck burned on Fix Ridge and the most recent was a fire in the stubble at Harry Druffel's ranch. Little, if any grain was burned in these fires.

IDAHO EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

The Idaho Education Association announced today that the turnover of school superintendents in Idaho for 1965-66 was less than for many years.

Eleven, only, of the 106 districts in the state have new superintendents. This is slightly more than a 10 % change of administrators. Such a percentage compares with an average replacement of more than 19% during the preceding 5 years when as many as 25 superintendents changed in a single year.

Most of the turnover for 1965-66 occurred in small school districts—the largest being at Rigby which enrolls 3,400 pupils. No changes took place in the 10 largest districts.

One of last year's superintendents is deceased, another retired and Richfield-Dietrich districts hired separate superintendents instead of expecting one head administrator to serve both places.

Wayne York, executive secretary of the IEA. indicated that the small turnover of school superintendents may indicate fewer financial problems and improve morale among school leaders in Idaho.

York said, "when it is realized that the school superintendent is the professional and educational leader of a school district, this apparent improvement is a major cause of satisfaction."

A state law makes litterbugging a misdemeanor and punishable as such.

SOCIAL SECURITY
Series No. 3

The age widows may receive benefits was reduced to age 60 by the 1965 amendments to the Social Security Act. The first month these benefits are payable is 9-65. A widow will receive a reduced amount if she elects to take her Social Security benefits before reaching age 62.

Divorced wives and divorced widows may be able to draw Social Security benefits if they had been married to the ex-husbands for 20 years immediately before the divorce. The divorced wife must be age 62; must not be married; must have been receiving one half of her support from her ex-husband, pursuant to a written agreement, or there must be a court order providing for substantion contributions.

The above conditions must be in effect at the time the husband filed for Social Security or died.

However, if a widow age 60 or over had married, such marriage is deemed not to have occurred. In other words, it may be possible for a widow over age 60 to marry and still get widow's benefits based on the record of the previous husband if she was married to him for twenty years immediately preceding the divorce. In all cases, an application for Social Security benefits must be filed. The above benefits are payble for September of 1965.

It might be interesting to note that widows 72 and older who could not draw benefits under the old law because they or their husbands had not worked long enough under Social Security. may now be eligible for a special monthly benefit based on a shorter period of work. Some of these older women will be eligible for Social Security because they worked for as little as 9 months; others may be able to receive wife's or widow's benefits based on their husband's work.

U. of IDAHO EDUCATIONAL TELEVISION STATION KUID-TV

The University of Idaho Educational Television station, KUID-TV, Channel 12, began daily programming on Monday, September 6, according to an announcement last week from station manager Gordon Law. The station has been on the air with music and test patterns since early in June.

Programming will begin at 6:30 p. m. daily and will run through 9:30 or 10 o'clock each evening, on a five-day basis, Monday through Friday. The station became an affiliate of the National Education Television Network Sept. 1.

Broadcasting with a power of 115,000 kilowatts. the station is the most powerful in the Inland Empire and will reach most sets within a radius of 80 miles.

"We are being received in cities as far away as Yakima, Wash., Grangeville, Sandpoint, Spokane, and Walla Walla, Wash.," according to Program Director Peter Haggart. "Although most sets are not adjusted to tune-in channels as big has ours on the band—channel 12—we are receiving reports of strong signals throughout our predicted coverage area."

The station broadcasts from the 160-foot tower atop Paradise ridge just outside of Moscow.

According to Law, Acting Head of the department of communications and station manager. the eventual plan for Idaho is to have educational television stations at Boise and on the Idaho State university campus at Pocatello. Both campuses have made application to the Federal Communicatians Commission for channel licenses. With a relay tower at LaGrande, Ore., the Moscow signals would be carried to Boise and from there to Pocatello. The Pocatello and Boise channels would be able to broadcast to Moscow via the LaGrande relay point.

"We hope by September of 1966 to cover 99 per cent of the State of Idaho with the network," Law said.

Starting at 6:30 p. m. Monday, the station will broadcast directly to the listening and viewing audience. The first program, according to Haggart, will be a National Educational Television show "What's New." The show will be a daily program directed to the child audience.

Following the 6:30 show, there will be a National Education Association program dealing with the high school drop out. The program is entitled The School Story. At 7:30 another NET show will deal with "Men of Our Time," and at 8:30, a half-hour show dealing with medical topics will feature the Kyle Rotes World. The final show of the first evening will be "World of Music," which starts at 9 and ends at 9:30 p. m.

The station will originate many of its own shows when the school term begins. according to Haggart, and will be on a continuous schedule from now on.

YOUR GAME DEPARTMENT

By John R. Woodworth, Director
Idaho Fish and Game Department

EARLY, LATE HUNTING

Idaho's earliest elk and deer hunting starts September 18 this year, and the latest ones end December 12; but these are not necessarily continuous seasons.

Elk-deer hunting in back country areas begins earliest with two other blocks of big game units opening Oct. 2 and Oct. 16. General seasons for bighorn sheep and mountain goats stated Sept. 4. Some mountain goat hunts are by permits obtained during the summer at public drawings.

All Idaho big game hunting seasons now call for Saturday openings. The earliest elk-deer hunts in rugged, often roadless central interior portions of the state, are tied to "the Saturday nearest September 15," under a policy laid down several years ago by the Fish and Game Commission.

A big block of hunting units surrounding early-opening sectors, where access usually s easier, start deer-elk hunts Oct. 2. This includes many popular areas across southern Idaho. among others.

The third major opening of elk-deer units occur two weeks later, Oct. 16. Many of these units also are in southern Idaho, but not all of them. Big game regulations are printed and available through license vendors statewide.

Moist Fish Food Pellets

Northern Idaho trout hatcheries operated by the Department are experiencing better growth characteristics for Kamloop and cutthroat trout through the use of a new moist pellet fish feed developed by the Oregon Fish Commission. Only two and one-half pounds of the moist pellets are needed to produce one pound of fish, compared to five pounds of the feed previously used.

Cold water temperatures in northern Idaho hatcheries do not allow for the feeding of dry trout feeds. A similar situation exists at the two salmon hatcheries operated by the Dept. The new pellets provide moisture, vitamins, and minerals necessary for proper digestion of food at low temperatures.

Better survival of planted trout is expected because of the changeover to moist pellet fish feed. So far, the trout are vigorous and healthy as a result.

Don't Waste Game Meat

Hunters and fishermen are reminded that "wantonly killing, wasting, or destroying" game animals or fish is a misdemeanor and punishable under the law

The last session of the Idaho State Legislature amended the law to include mountain goats on the list of game animals whose meat must be salvaged along with trophy horns and hide.

Part of the law specifies that whoever "detaches or removes from the carcass . . . . only the head, hide. antlers, horns, tusk or tusks, tooth or teeth, or any or all of the aforesaid parts, or captures or mutilates any such animal while alive by removing or detaching a tooth or teeth, or tusk or tusks therefrom, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Further along, the law states that "the failure of any person to properly dress and care for any game animal killed by such person or persons, if reasonably accessible, within 24 hours, and to take or transport to camp of such person or persons such carcasses and there properly take care of the same. shall be prima facie evidence of the violation of the provisions of this section."

Generating $80,000,000 for a better Idaho!

100 years ago Idaho's schools consisted of a few poorly lighted and heated one-room cabins with a single teacher responsible for educating those children fortunate enough to attend. First Security was just beginning, too, in a trading post no more glamorous than one of those early school houses.

Today, Idaho's schools and First Security Bank have changed dramatically . . . each a vital part of the growth of this state.

Through the years First Security has devoted a large share of its financial energy towards Idaho's development. In the past 20 years alone, we have been the principal factors in arranging for over $80 million in financing for new and expanded schools, hospitals, municipal buildings, community recreational facilities, assurance of water storage and supply, improved health and sanitation systems and other civic improvements. We are proud of the fact that the Idaho communities whose financing we have assisted have earned a sound reputation for financial responsibility in meeting their public obligations.

This is another one of the ways First Security has usefully served Idaho during the past 100 years. We look forward to providing more helpful financial services to the people of this state — the kind of banking that is building Idaho.

Every time we hear a disc jockey playing the top 40 popular tunes, I get the shakes thinking what the bottom 40 must be like.

A waiter in a chic restaurant stumbled accidently pouring a drink, ice cubes and all down the back of a lady customer.

The woman gasped, giggled, wriggled and writhed as she tried to get the ice cubes out. With all eyes on her she leaped to her feet, overturning the table and knocking her escort to the floor. Then the two hurried out in wild confusion.

"Waiter," called an onlooker on the other side of the room, "we'll have two of whatever they had."

Married man to good-looking bachelor: "How in the world have you managed to stay single so long?"

Good-looking bachelor: "It's easy. Every time I look at television I know at least 180 million women are anemic, having stringy hair, large pores, are overweight and have rough hands."

Cuisine Cum Laude

Our cook this week is the busy president of the St. John's American Lutheran Church Women, Mrs. Geo. Scharnhorst. The Scharnhorsts are active members of St. John's church and have been residents of this area for many years. Her recipe is

APPLESAUCE CAKE BARS

1 cup sugar
½ cup shortening
1 cup applesauce
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
one-fourth teaspoon cloves
one-fourth teaspoon salt
one-fourth cup nuts (walnuts)

Cream shortening and sugar, add applesauce and dry ingredients. Mix well and add chopped nuts. Spread in greased 15½x10½-inch pan or on a cookie sheet. Top with a topping made of two-thirds cup crushed corn flakes

one-fourth cup sugar
one-fourth cup walnuts
2 tbbl. melted butter or margarine

Crumble ingredients together and spread over batter. Bake at 350 degrees 26 to 30 minutes. Cut into squares when cool.

Mr. and Mrs. Scharnhorst have four grandchildren, all boys, who reside in Post Falls with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lackey. The boys always enjoy coming to their grandparent's farm home west of Genesee. And if they are served Applesauce Cake Bars, I can certainly see one reason why.

Community Machinery Accident Survey

Do you realize the number of farm accidents in our community? In order to fulfill 4-H requirements, John Hermann has made a machinery accident survey. Between the dates of August 1963 and August 1965 there were five combine accidents, one pea viner, five trucks, and three haying accidents. There was also one airplane which was mechanical trouble. Location of these accidents were: in our community. Causes of these accidents, with the exception of a couple of mechanical failures, were due to carelessness and failure to observe safety rules.

Most of these accidents could have been avoided if people had been more careful and conscientious. Caution and safety precautions can help to lower the rising amount of farm accidents in our community and others. Because farming is an important industry in this area it is necessary to make an effort to put safety first. It involves many people and a lot of machinery equipment that needs to be properly handled and safely equipped for the protection of those who are working with and around it. Of course it is impossible to prevent all accidents, but quick reactions and good judgment is important in times of danger. Being level-headed instead of panicing could save a lot of expensive equipment or maybe even your own life.

August Steelhead Count Exceeds Other Averages

Disappointed Idaho salmon fishermen are rekindling hopes of catching big sea run fish this fall with reports from Bonneville dam on the lower Columbia River that the steelhead trout run for August was ahead of most years, the Idaho Fish and Game Department said today.

The steelhead count at the end of August was 120,000 fish. Some of these will spawn in tributary streams of the upper Columbia and lower Snake River; but most are destined for the Clearwater and Salmon rivers of Idaho, according to Ted Bjornn, fisheries research supervisor.

Genesee Clips Pierce 48-12 For Season's Second Grid Win

Genesee's 1965 Bulldogs football squad debuted before the home town fans last Friday night and scored a convincing 48-12 victory over the Pierce Foresters. The win was the second straight this year and the thirty-fifth game without a loss for the Bulldogs over a four-year period.

In the Pierce game, Genesee rolled up a 27-0 halftime lead and coasted home without trouble. Pierce looked like a threat only on the opening kickoff as they picked up Butch Green's kick and returned it to the 21-yard line. The Foresters fumbled the ball on the 25-yard line the next play and Genesee recovered. On the second play from scrimmage Green ran the ball down to the Pierce 35 before being hauled down. Two plays later quarterback Brad Airhart faked a handoff and cracked through center and guard for the touchdown. Green ran over the extra point.

Later in the first quarter Genesee moved into scoring position with half back Russ Storey banging the Pierce line hard to bring the ball deep into Forester Territory. Green swept around end from ten yards out to score the second TD with Storey adding the point after touchdown. Genesee lead 14-0 going into the second quarter.

A 38-yard line run by Airhart at the beginning of the second quarter gave Genesee their third TD of the game but the extra point try failed. Genesee drove down to the Pierce 4-yard line again later in the quarter only to have the drive stymied by a stiff Pierce defense and two penalties. Pierce gained control of the ball but couldn't work their way out and was forced to punt. The punt was blocked and rolled back into the Pierce end zone where Mark Zenner fell and the ball giving Genesee another touchdown. The extra point try was good and Genesee had control of the game 27-0 at halftime.

Pierce scored early in the second quarter from one-yard out after interrupting an Airhart pass two plays previously. Green turned in a brilliant 70-yard touchdown play just after the Pierce touchdown but had the run called back as the referee ruled he had stepped out of bounds at the 49-yard line. Doug Mayer, running out of the half-back position, sparked the Bulldogs down to the Pierce 8-yard line and then packed the ball over for the next Genesee TD. Green added the extra point. Green added another touchdown to the Bulldog score crossing the goal line after an eight yard run. The extra point was good.

Pierce scored their second and final touchdown of the game after this climaxing a drive from 22 yards out. The extra point try failed.

A 45-yard run by Green added the final Genesee tally of the game. Doug Mayer ran the conversion to make the final score 48-12.

Cold, Wet Week, Steelheading Not Good

It has been a cold, wet week in Genesee. Rain fell in various degrees of intensity since the weekend, hindering some of the farmers efforts to get on with their fall plowing and seeding.

Temperatures have been edging downward steadily and reached a low of 24 above Wednesday night when the skies cleared after a sudden rain storm late Wednesday afternoon. It is expected that a heavy frost damaged the late gardens and flowers to a considerable degree.

The steelhead season opened on the Clearwater River in Idaho Wednesday morning but not too many sportsmen were down on the river due to cold, rain, and wind. Among those who did try it, however, was Stub Geltz, bartender and local braggart. who was back behind the bar Thursday morning shoving some fresh salmon eggs under everyone's nose and trying to tell his customers that he took the eggs from the steelhead he caught the previous day. Everyone knew, of course, that he got the eggs from Carrie Fish and Betty Broemeling who had just returned from the coast where they had the good fortune to hook and land five fine salmon. It was a typical Geltz act, trying to claim credit for someone else's angling ability.

PUBLIC ACCESS JOBS TOP FISH AND GAME "MUST" LIST

Acquisition and development of simple access to hunting and fishing areas will require the Department's top priority work for some time, Director John R. Woodworth pointed out today in summarizing recent accomplishments under the Five Point Program.

"The accelerated access program as approved by the Idaho legislature in 1963 has resulted in a total of 125 projects scattered all over the state," Woodworth reported.

"Many of the access projects are quite easy to develop," he added, "and about all that is needed is the initial acquisition and perhaps a little fencing or a cattle guard. Others get quite involved such as the Garfield bay access on Lake Pend o'Reille where a boat ramp and a rather extensive breakwater had to be constructed to make the access property usuable."

Woodworth said that the program would go forward just as fast as funds become available, asserting that time is always of the essence is acquiring access to good fish and game areas. The recently renewed interest in outdoor recreation has increased the price of these good access points, and often the Department is competing with other recreation interests for good projects instead of with agriculture or industry.

The Department head also stressed that even if all passable public access sites were acquired and developed, the need for outdoor recreation on private lands is still very important.

"Hunting by Permission" and the practice of the "Golden Rule" will always keep more hunting and fishing available to the free lance recreationist than all of the costly access programs," he continued, adding that Idaho has made such progress in the matter of improving landholder-sportsman relations in the last ten years.

YOUR BODY NEEDS ENZYMES' SPEEDS

BODY CELLS can do in one minute what would other wise require several thousand years due to the action of enzymes, which make life possible. Ensymes speed up vital biochemical processes such as the breaking down of foods and the releasing of energy, but, like catalysts, they are not changed themselves by the reaction. Without enzymes, our bodily functions would proceed too slowly to sustain life.

ELECTRON BEAMS have been used to drill misroscopic holes and etch grooves in tiny parts before, but there had been no way to see the work as it was being done. Now holes four one-thousandths of an inch in diameter can be drilled in metal. yet be "visible" to microelectronics technicians. A new device developed by Pennsylvania State University uses electrons to drill and etch and create a picture of the process.

FALSE ACTUATON of a fire-extinguishing system is prevented by a unique Cardox smoke detector. The ceiling mounted detector operates in two stages. In the first stage a detecting photoelectric cell triggers a warning when small amounts of smoke pass thru the detector. Then, if some smoke increases, a second stage activates the extinguishing system.

TOO LOW for satellites and too high for conventional aircraft, the lower ionsphere is one of the least understood areas of space. Important because of its ability to reflect radio signals downward, the ionosphere, 30 to 60 miles up, is being studied by university scientists. These researchers are scanning it with short pulses of radio signals to watch for changes caused by natural or artificial disturbances such as sun spots, solar flares or astronomical explosions.

AMINO ACIDS are the basic building blocks of pretein, says the American Medical Association. Every living organism depends upon pretein made up of amino acids. Proteins in the foods we eat cannot be utilized directly by our bodies and are broken down into amino acids in the digestive tract. Distributed in the body by the blood stream the amino acids are then reconstructed to form the required body proteins.

Speaking of Taxes

September 13 is Levy Day for 1965. On that day the County Commissioners and the County Clerks are responsible for fixing the state and county property tax levies and applying the tax levies which have been certified to them by the school districts, cities, cemetery districts, drainage districts, fire districts, flood control districts, junior college districts, flood control districts, forest protection districts. highway districts, hospital districts, irrigation districts, library districts and some eight other type districts.

Levies set this September 13 are the result of the budgets adopted last Spring by the governing body of the units certifying the levy. The school trustees for the school district levy, the city council for the city levy, the county commissioners for the county levy, and so forth.

In reality the taxpaying citizen is responsible for he had an opportunity to sit in on the budget adoption last Spring. If he hadn't, then by his absence he gave his acquiescence to the board's fiscal plan for the operation of the unit of government.

The taxpaying citizen may have, in the interest of good government, actually cast his vote for a particular levy which has become a part of the total.

At any rate, the budget which was adopted last Spring becomes a levy in September. and a tax bill next November, and a tax payment on or before December 20, 1965.

Not long ago a taxpayer at a protest meeting stated that he had just found that his property tax had doubled in 9 years - which is about par for the course with his house changing, only to get older. He wanted to know why, who is responsible? When asked if he had ever attended a county, school district or jr. college budget district hearing, he said, "Well, no," which again is par for the course. He had not even taken the time to study the budgets of these units which are published in the local paper.

In 1961 the total property tax bill in the State of Idaho was $65.6 million, in 1962 it was $68.4 million, in 1964 it was $78.2 million. The total may be down some this year, 1965, for the Sales and Use Tax Law includes the repeat of the state ad valorem levy, the teachers retirement levy and the levy for local education social security, totaling approximately $4.3 million in 1965. Increases in other unit levies should not amount to that much.

In 1964 the school districts received approximately 55% of the property taxes, counties 21%, cities and villages 14%, the state 4%, and the many various other units 6%.

If you have something to say when you receive your property tax bill next November. good or bad, say it, and then say it again at the budget hearings next Spring when the die is cast for the 1966 property tax bill.

Coral Sea Becomes Unrep Centurian

The following article was handed to us by Mrs. Mary Kasper. It was sent by her son, Donald Kasper, USN, who is serving about the USS CORAL SEA.

South China Sea: The year 1965 has seen many new records logged in the annals of the U. S. Seventh Fleet attack aircraft carrier USS CORAL SEA (CVA 43). The aircraft of her embarked Air Wing have recorded over 10,000 traps and launches, her communications center has processed more message traffic than was handled during World War II, and for the first time in her 18 years of commissioned service, CORAL SEA engaged in combat missions, to mention a few of her accomplishments.

Adding another chapter to this impressive record, CORAL SEA recently completed her 100th underway replenishment since a unit of the U. S. SEVENTH Fleet in January.

On August 21. CORAL SEA took station on the USS VEGA (AF-59) and edged her way alongside. As the first shot lines found their mark on the VEGA, a piece of canvas bearing the 3-foot high numeral "100," stretched between the two ships signifying the occasion of CORAL SEA becoming an unrep centurian.

On number one elevator, a huge cake and a plaque were carefully placed in a cargo net and shuttled to the VEGA commemorating the milestone.

During her seven and a half month tour in the Far East, CORAL SEA has been alongside 50 fleet oilers, 35 ammunition ships, 11 stores ships and four general cargo ships of the SEVENTH Fleet logistics force. From the fleet oilers, the 63,000-ton carrier received 18,940,669 gallons of fuel oil. 11,508,442 gallons of JP-5 (jet fuel) and 1,052979 gallons of aviation gasoline.

Over 13,000 bombs, totaling 3,242.96 tons; 46,652 rockets and 44 tons of guided missles were received from the 35 ammunition ships and from the 15 stores ships, 2,034 tons of food, clothing and other supplies were received in the seven and a half month period. Don added that "this doesn't mean what we brought aboard in port!"

Following the underway replenishment with the VEGA, members of CORAL SEA'S deck group were honored with cake and ice cream commemorating the occasion.

The 973-foot carrier, an operating unit of Task Force 77 whose ships have engaged in continued combat and support operations in North and South Viet Nam, is the only carrier currently serving with the SEVENTH Fleet that participated in the first aerial reprisal strikes over North Viet Nam on February 7.

IDAHO EDUCATION ASSOC.

In a report publicized today, the research department of the Idaho Education Association showed that 13 school districts in Idaho held summer school classes for nearly 3,000 elementary and high school boys and girls during the summer of 1965.

Also, 16 districts enrolled an additional 1,695 five year olds in pre-school kindergarten classes.

Donovan Douglas, director of research for the IEA, said, 'Each year more districts operate more classes for an ever-increasing number of students. Last summer, enrollments, including five-year olds, reached an all-time high of nearly 5,000 children. Enrollments in summer classes in 1965 were 2½ times as great as in 1962."

Douglas indicated that the favored summertime subjects were either remedial or advanced reading and math classes in elementary grades and English, typing and higher mathematics in high school.

Douglas said, "Many high schools offer driver education classes in the summertime. However. these courses were not included in the IEA survey of summer programs."

He summarized the report by indicating that if the districts of the state have adequate financing, year-round schools via the summer-class route may not be too far removed for Idaho.

A Scotsman was arguing with the conductor whether the price of fare was 25 cents or 50 cents. In desperation, the conductor tossed the Scotsman's traveling bag out of the window and it landed in a river with a loud splash.

"Hoot mon," screamed the Scot. "First you try to rob me and now you've drowned my little boy!"

Her father asked his prospective son-in-law if he could support a family, and we have to admire the young man's answer—"No, sir. I was only planning to support your daughter. The rest of you will have to take care of yourselves.

Cuisine Cum Laude

For those of you whose children come home for lunch, this recipe for open faced hamburgers sounds truly good. The recipe is by a Home Economics teacher from Lancaster. Pa.

1 pound ground beef
½ cup catsup
one-fourth teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons onion, chopped
½ cup Parmesan cheese, grated salt and pepper
8 hamburger buns, split
Pickles and olives is desired

Combine hamburger, catsup, mustard, onion, cheese and seasonings. Butter halves of buns, spread mixture on halves. Broil five minutes. Cross with strips of cheese and place under broiler until cheese begins to melt. Serve immediately with pickles and olives. Try this with a salad and fruit and cookies for dessert. Your child should be, if not satisfied, at least full. By the way, did you know that any rural or suburban mother can state her role in one sentence: it is to deliver children. Once obstetrically, and by ear forever after.

Bulldogs Defeat Prairie 27-12 For 36th Game Without Loss

The Genesee Bulldogs scored two first quarter touchdowns and stayed ahead all the way to defeat the Prairie Pirates of Cottonwood 27-12 for their third straight victory of the 1965 football season. This win also marked the 36th game that the Bulldogs have played without defeat.

Genesee has not lost a game since October of 1961 when Elk River upset the Bulldogs 26-13. Only two ties have marred the GHS record since that game. Pierce tied the Bulldogs 18-18 in 1962 and Cascade drew with Genesee in a post-season state championship game the last contest of 1964. The other 34 games have been victories for the Bulldogs. The closest contest, other than the draws, was a play-off game with Cascade in 1961 when the Bulldogs squeezed by 18-13. The biggest point spread was rolled up over Prairie in 1963 with a 58-7. Twice during the past four years Genesee has exceeded sixty points. Both were in 1964 when the Bulldogs trampled Troy 61-31 and Nez-Perce 62-25. Genesee exceeded fifty points per game eight times.

Storey Scoes First

Halfback Russ Storey broke away for a 60-yard touchdown run in the Prairie game to score the first points for Genesee. Quarterback Brad Airhart added another first quarter touchdown, crossing over from 1-yard out. Butch Green scored both conversions.

In the second quarter Cottonwood's Truckositz scored to make the tally 14-6 at halftime.

Butch Green climaxed a Genesee drive in the third quarter to score from the nine-yard line and Truckositz ran 60 yards for a Pirate score. In the final quarter Green scored again from the eight yard line to give Genesee the 27-12 win.

At Deary Friday Night

Genesee, leading the District 2 football league with three wins takes on the Deary Mustangs Friday night at Deary. Deary is undefeated in two games this season, beating the Culdesac Wolves 47-0 last Friday afternoon.

Cuisine Cum Laude

We are pleased this week to share with our readers a "Blue Ribbon" recipe for candy. Mrs. Wayne Roach used a basic recipe with several variations to win her first place ribbon.

BASIC FONDANT

Melt in a 2-quart saucepan over low heat. one-third cup butter or margarine.

Remove from heat and mix in three tablespoons water and 1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix in, about ½ cup at a time, until smooth and creamy, a mixture of one pound powdered sugar (sifted), and one cup instant nonfat dried milk (Pet). If your fondant seems too dry, you may add a few drops of water. This makes about two cups of fondant. The following are the variations which Mrs. Roach exhibited:

Coconut Flavor: shape fondant into balls and roll in chopped coconut.

Date-nut Roll: Blend ½ cup fondant with ½ cup cut-up, pitted dates. Shape into roll, 1 inch thick. Sprinkle one-third cup finely cut, unsalted nuts on waxed paper. Roll candy in nuts to cover the outside. Wrap in waxed paper and chill in refrigerator. Let stand at room temperature a few minutes before cutting into ½-inch slices. Makes 2½ dozen slices.

Fruit Roll: Blend ½ cup fondant with one-fourth cut-up mixed candied fruit. Shape in roll one inch across. Wrap in wax paper and chill. Let stand a few minutes before cutting into 18 slices.

Peanut Butter Drops: Blend ½ cup fondant with one-fourth peanut butter and 2 tablespoons corn syrup. Drop from teaspoon onto waxed paper to form drops one inch across. Makes 2 dozen.

Maple Nut: Blend ½ cup fondant with one-fourth teaspoon maple flavoring. Shape into 18 balls and press a walnut half on top of each.

Chocolate: Roll fondant into small balls and roll each in shaved-sweet chocolate bits.

Mrs. Roach, in addition to her fair activities, has worked in Campfire for a number of years. She is leader of the sixth grade group this year. She is a communicant of St. Mary's Catholic Church, a member of the Altar Society, the Bazaar board. and has been one of the most active bazaar workers each year. Mr. Roach, a former mayor of Genesee, runs the General Repair Shop and is a general contractor. Mrs. Roach acts as his bookkeeper.

The Roachs have two children at home Jay, a second grader, and Nyla, a sixth grader at St. Mary's School. Karol, a freshman, and Cheryl, a junior at St. Gertrude's Academy in Cottonwood. An older son, Duane lives in Genesee with his wife, Julie, and two children, and is associated with his father in business.

SNOOPY NEUTRONS PROSPECT SILVER

'SILVER SNOOPER' an atomic device used for detecting silver, is now being tested by the U. S. Department of the Interior. The machine hurls at the ground neutrons which enter silver atoms in rock fragments, making them unstable and radioactive for about 10 minutes. As the radioactive silver atoms disintegrate they can be measured with a radiation detector.

AN UNWELCOME IMMIGRANT is emigrating. The Japanese beetle, which annually causes an estimated $25 million worth of damage in the eastern United States, is spreading westward.

MASSIVE ROCK MOVEMENTS and slides in nearby fiords caused the giant seawaves that battered Seward, Alaska before and after the 1964 earthquake that leveled major portions of that city and Anchorage. Dr. Gene A. Rusnak, U. S. Geological Survey, explains that a sudden movement of rock masses on the east floor of the deep fiords buckled the overlying sediment and caused sudden rushing waves to smash nearby shorelines. He said this local wave action occurred before the arrival of seismic sea waves that hit Seward later. The seismic waves resulted from a general uplift of the seas floor near the earthquake's center.

ACCIDENT VICTIMS trapped in automobiles and trucks often can be quickly removed to safety if firemen know how to "put the heat on." A dramatic demonstration of oxyacetylene flame cutting by Capt. Harry G. Maker, Chicago Fire Academy, showed firemen attending the recent 41st Illnois Fire College how the cutting touch knifes through jammed doors and other obstructions. Equipment for the demonstration was donated by National Cylinder Gas, Chicago, Illinois.

ECHO SOUNDING, used to detect submarines and chart ocean bottoms, is being utilized to zooplankton, minute organisms that are an important food for fish. University of Wisconsin limnologists say layers of plankton are detected by suspending a transducer from a boat. The device emits sound pulses that are reflected by plankton. The reflected impulses are received by the machine, amplified and recorded as to their depth.

YOU DO have a tailbone. At the end of the spine is a small terminal bone. When you accidentally sit down too fast on an edge, this is what you hit. It's all we have left of a tail.

The greatest difficulty with the world is not its inability to produce, but its unwillingness to share.

INAUGURATION OF PRESIDENT AT UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO

The University of Idaho will hold its first inauguration for a new president in 38 years, it was announced today by Curtis Eaton, Twin Falls, president of the Board of Regents.

Dr. Ernest W. Hartung, who became the 12th president of the university August 1, will be inaugurated at ceremonies in the University auditorium at 10 a. m. Saturday, October 30. He will give the principal address.

The traditional procession of faculty members, including representatives of other universities and colleges, will be part of the ceremonies. Representatives from other schools march in the order of the founding of their institutions

One of the primary purposes of an inauguration for a president is to provide a formal introduction. No inauguration was held for the last three university presidents as all had previously served on the faculty. They were Harrison C. Dale, 1937-1946; Jesse E. Buchanan, 1946-1954; and Donald R. Theophilus, 1954-1965. The last previous inauguration was for Mervin G. Neals in 1930.

I know, and all the world konws, that revolutions never go backwards.

Two main speakers for the annual convention of the Idaho Dairymen's Association at Moscow, November 17 to 19, were announced today by Joe Hall, executive secretary. They are Ernest W. Hartung, president of the University of Idaho. and Troy Kearn, Cooper, Tex., president of the American Dairy assn.

The meeting will be the first on the university campus by the dairy group in many years. A new dairy science center of the College of Agriculture will be dedicated. R. S. Davis, Kuna, president of the Idaho association, is planning details with Richard Ross, head of the dairy science department. and members of the staff.

Married man to good-looking bachelor: "How in the world have you managed to stay single so long?"

Good-looking bachelor: "It's easy. Every time I look at television I know at least 180 million women are anemic, have stringy hair, large pores, are over weight and have rough hands."

She: "Do you know any nice boys in the Navy?"

Her: "Oh. just gobs and gobs."

The visiting child psychologist was giving the second grade teacher some good advice.

"You don't hold the interest of your pupils, Miss Jones, and when they come in I'll prove to you that they are not paying the slightest attention to what is going on."

Presently the youngsters filed in and took their places. The visitor asked the class for a number, and a little girl gave 35. The visitor, in large, clear, figures, wrote 53 on the blackboard, and called for another number. Receiving 19, he wrote 91, and for 47, 74. After several minutes of this. the visitor glanced triumphantly at Miss Jones, when suddenly a voice called out:

"Sixty-six. Let's see what you can do with that."

DISABILITY RE-DEFINED BY NEW SOCIAL SECURITY ACT AMENDMENTS

Several important changes in the Social Security Act. These involve a change in the law's disability definition, as well as others.

In the past disability benefits could be paid only to a person whose disability was expected to be "of long-continued and indefinite duration."

Now, a worker will be able to get disability benefits if his impairment is expected to last 12 calendar months. even if he is expected to recover in the future.

However, under the new law as under the old, a worker is considered disabled only if he is unable to perform any substantial gainful activity because of his impairment. (However, a blind person 55 or older may be considered disabled if he is unable to perform his usual work.) There is no change in the degree of impairment considered to be disabling.

Benefits payable by reason of this change in the definition of disability will be paid beginning with September 1965.

Workers under 62 who become entitled after 1965 to social security disability insurance payments and workmen's compensation benefits may be affected by a new offset provision in the law. This provision prevents a disabled workers from getting more in total benefit payments than he earned before he became disabled.

The offset provision requires that the social security benefit be reduced so that the combined benefit (social security and workmen's compensation) does not exceed 80 per cent of average monthly earnings from covered work before the worker was disabled.

For instance a worker with a wife and child under 18 and had average earnings of $450 a month, is disabled and qualifies for both types of benefits. His workmens compensation is set at $208 a month. His own social security disability benefit is $140 and his wife and child each get $70, for a total family social security benefit of $280 a month. The two types of benefits total $488 a month. His average earnings of $450 a month are less than his total benefit payment. Eighty per cent of his average earnings is $360. Therefore, the family social security benefit is reduced to $152 a month so that the total amount payable in benefits is no more than 80 per cent of average earnings.

Two provisions will affect blind people. One eases the work requirements for young people who are disabled by blindness. Under this provision, a blind worker who is disabled before he reaches age 21 will be insured if he has worked about one half of the time after he reaches age 21 and before his disability begins.

A minimum of one and one-half years of work is needed by young people who become blind before they are 24.

The second provision affects the blind worker 55 years of age and over. Such a worker may now be eligible for monthly payments if he is unable to engage in his former occupation. Under the old law he could receive benefits only if he was unable to perform any gainful substantial work.

Under the new law as under the old, benefits cannot be paid if the person is working despite his blindness.

Benefits payable by reason of these changes affecting the blind will be payable beginning with September 1965.

Bulldogs Stop Deary 42-20

Genesee rolled up their fourth straight victory of the new football season and their thirty-seventh game without a loss last Friday evening as they defeated Deary 42-20 on the Deary field.

Deary unbeaten in two starts this year weren't impressed with Genesee's record as Ed. Lundstrom scored by twelve yards after Deary had pushed Genesee down the field after the opening kick. Deary's conversion try failed. Butch Green broke in the open later in the first quarter and galloped 60 yards for Genesee's first touchdown. Russ Storey banged across the extra point and Genesee gained a 7-6 lead and was never headed after that point, but the Mustangs continued to give the Bulldogs trouble throughout the game.

The Mustangs, easily the best team Genesee has faced this year, forced open the Bulldog defense with quick-openers and off-tackle plays that were consistent ground-gainers.

End Mark Zenner, a stand-out on both defense and offense for the Bulldogs. set up the next Genesee tally with a thirty-yard run and Butch Green scored from six yards out shortly afterwards. Quarterback Brad Airhart scored the extra point. A 55-yard run by Bob Kellom of the Mustangs and a successful conversion made the score 14-13. Doug Mayer punched over from two yards out after Zenner had again brought the ball deep into Deary territory for the Bulldogs. Green added the extra point and Genesee led 21-13 at the half.

Deary scored again shortly after the third quarter began with Lundstrom going 15 yards for the talley and Lonnie Olson converting the extra point.

Deary was passing more frequently in the second half and were gaining yardage until Ron Zenner intercepted a Mustang pass on the forty-yard line to halt the drive. Airhart passed to Green from the twenty and Green scored to give Genesee a 28-20 lead after Mayer converted the extra point.

A beautifully executed pass-lateral play was good for forty-five yards and another Genesee touchdown as Airhart passed to End Dave Blume who then lateraled the ball off to Green who scored.

Russ Storey added another touchdown and conversion in the final period to give Genesee their 42-20 victory.

Culdesac will be at Genesee Friday night.

Retired after 15 years in the Washington State Employment office in Spokane, Mrs. Harding also was owner-manager of an apartment house at 1927 W. Second Avenue, Spokane, before taking residence at Rockford Manor. as a founder member.

She had been a long-time railway employee in the early days when she and her husband were agent-cashier team for the Union Pacific in Cheney, Kellogg, Rockford, and Burke. She is survived by an aunt, Mrs. Lottie Brazier, Genesee, and three cousins, Gerald Hodgins, Moscow, Idaho; H. Bayard Hodgins. San Diego, California, and Marjorie Burt, San Francisco.

Interment services were at the family plot in Genesee on Tuesday, Sept. 28.

Pants Trouble Gives National Publicity

Skill on the football field has gained Genesee state-wide recognition, but it took weak elastic in their new uniform pants to give the GHS Bulldogs nation-wide publicity.

The dark blue football pants were purchased by the school this year and the team donned them for the Prairie game September 17 at Cottonwood. Everything seemed all right until the game began and then the elastic started to give-out. The game was played by the team with one eye on the ball and one hand on their pants. Genesee went on to win the game 27-12 for their 36th victory.

The Associated Press wire service picked up the story and it was printed in many papers throughout the country. Local people have been getting clippings of the story from all sections. The News received one from a former resident. John Stevens, now living in San Diego, California. Another clipping came from Florida.

School Groups Hear Architect's Plans For Building Proposal

Architects from the firm of Bellamy and Bratvold in Coeur d'Alene met with the Genesee School Board and the advisory group Tuesday evening to further discuss plans on a proposed remodeling and building project for the Genesee public school system.

Since early this year the firm has been making preliminary plans and studies to find what would be the most efficient and economical way to bring the school district's facilities up-to-date.

The two architects showed drawings which would convert the present gymnasium into a multi-purpose room handling the home economics department. hot lunch serving space, band room, and still retain the present stage and auditorium. A new structure would be built west of the present gym under this system which would provide new classrooms, service facilities, heating plant on the ground level and a new gymnasium with seating capacity of over 1,000 on the upper level. The new building would become part of the older buildings.

As requested by a Community Day committee, the architects had also included a drawing showing how a swimming pool could be built on the west of the new building that would utilize facilities already available.

The architects also brought with them samples of the various building materials which are especially adaptable to school construction. They showed how each of these materials could be used and what the different costs would be.

The architects were on their way to Boise where they were going to discuss building requirements with the state and to find out if the present preliminary plans met State Board of Education requirements.

Reservation Necessary For Special Vehicle Plates

Latah County Assessor Eugene Taylor announced today applications for reservation of special license numbers for 1966 will be taken starting October 4th. First consideration for a number will be given the present holder until October 29. After that date all unreserved numbers may be requested until November 19.

Regardless of how long an individual has had the same number, reapplication must be made each year. Numbers 1 through 12 will be assigned to state and county officials.

Superintendent For New Nez Perce Park In Idaho

Robert L. Burns has been appointed to be the first superintendent of Nez Perce National Historical Park in Idaho. The announcement was made August 23 by the Office of the Secretary of the Interior.

Mr. Burns is no stranger to the West and its problems. He received his degree in Forest Recreation from Colorado Colorado State University in 1949. Also much of his career in the National Park Service has been in the West. He started in June 1947 as a seasonal Park Ranger at Grand Canyon and had later assignments at Lake Mead National Recreational Area, Bryce Canyon and Yellowstone National Parks and at Big Hole Battlefield National Monument. He then moved East on promotion to Superintendent of Perry's Victory International Peace Memorial. He goes to Idaho from his present job as Superintendent of Lincoln Boyhood National Memorial, in Indiana.

Robert Burns is particularly well qualified to handle his new assignment because of his experience in administering historical parks of the National Park system. Lincoln Boyhood is a new area and Burns has launched it in the Park System. His term of duty at Big Hole Battlefield, near the Idaho-Montana border brought him into close association with the Nez Perce, for it was at the Battle of the Big Hole that Chief Joseph and the Nez Perce defeated the Seventh Infantry under the command of Colonel Gibbons.

Nez Perce National Historical Park is new in the National Park System, having been authorized only on May 15, 1965 by Act of Congress. This park is also a new concept in that that it will involve the acquisition of three detached parcels of land in Idaho, by the Federal Government. not to exceed 1,500 acres under scenic easement. The authorization also provides for cooperation with the State of Idaho park system, county and city parks, Bureau of Indian Affairs, U. S. Forest Service, private owners, and the Nez Perce Tribal Council.

The historic units of the park will be scattered over an area roughly 100 miles north-south by 130 miles east-west, located in north-central Idaho between the North Fork of the Clearwater River and the Salmon River. Location of the headquarters for the National Historical Park has not yet been determined. It will probably be in the vicinity of either Lewiston, Lapwai, or Spaulding, Idaho. Mr. Burns began his new job Aug. 29.

In all moral revolutions, from a lower to a higher condition of truth and action Truth is in the minority and error has the majority.

DEEP BEEPS HELP SCIENTISTS STUDY FISH MIGRATIONS

BEEPING BASS in Lake Mendota are helping University of Wisconsin scientists to study fish migrations. The experiments are to try to determine how some creatures find their way "home" over long distances.

"Yet the physical processes involved cannot be regarded as known." Controlled studies will verify or refute present theories and discover new facts about the wind water interaction.

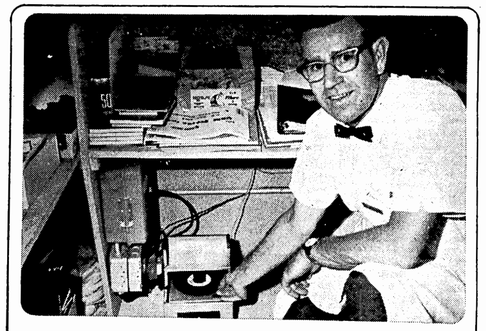
Just how handy can one extension phone be?

Mrs. Dennis Mahlum, West Richland, would be a good person to ask! She and her husband (he's a biochemist with Battelle-Northwest) have this extension in the daylight basement bedroom-study of their home, where it's just a few steps from his workshop, the laundry room, and the patio. Especially important to this busy family, it's also handy to the corral, for they raise and sell Welsh ponies as a hobby. Whatever activities your family enjoys, you'll probably find an extension phone equally handy. It's a real step-saver, and the cost is low. Why not call your nearby Gen Tel office, and ask about it?



Box with a brain . . . the ELECTRONIC SENTRY®

Manager Jim Howard of Rosauer's Super Market #11, Coeur d'Alene, points out the little "night watchman" that guards the temperature of five freezers and coolers in the store. If anything goes wrong while the store is closed, this ELECTRONIC SENTRY® automatically dials the manager's home phone, and a recording alerts him to the problem. If he's not home, this "box with a brain" calls the refrigeration repair service instead. Sentries like this are widely used to monitor power lines, pipe lines, water levels at dams, burglar alarm system, and machinery operation. Where could you use one?

Mighty midget!

Just installed at Wenatchee Valley College, this compact "telephone turret" will help solve the rapidly-growing communication needs of the school. As Gen Tel's Gene Erickson (L) points out to college president, Dr. William E. Steward, the typewriter-sized center does the work of a much larger traditional switchboard. It serves all inside and outside phone lines. One feature is the panel of lights on top to show which phones are busy.

At General Telephone, we're specialists in progress—contributing to the growth and prosperity of those we serve by providing modern, dependable telephone service. More than 700 alert, capable, helpful men and women work with us, helping us serve your needs. When you have a communication need, it pays to "check first with Gen Tel."

HUNTING SEASON IS HARD ON THE HEART

Hunting season is here again, but with In a recent series of experiments, the season on hunters.

"Among the hazards of hunting is accidental death from gunshot. Not so dramatic, but at least three times as prevalent, is the tragedy of heart attack deaths," says Dr. Lynn Anderson of Pocatello, president of the Idaho Heart Association.

Unlike the deer, who can only try to outrun their stalkers, hunters can take certain precautions to avoid falling prey to the risks of the hunt.

Deer hunting often demands a level of energy output which may be triple or quadruple the level at which most part time hunters operate during the rest of the year. Extremes of weather, change of altitude, rough terrain and the stress of the chase can levy a heavy tax on the heart's capacity, points out Dr. Anderson.

In a recent series of experiments, the heart stress on a big-game hunter "who not only gets his deer but who drags it out of the snowy woods single-handed" was measured. It was too much for 11 percent of a pre-screened group of men over 40 who had no evidence of heart trouble. The men who underwent the tests had previously been examined and found to have apparently normal hearts.

The suggestions are offered by Dr. Anderson:

Don't drag the bag! When you've downed your deer, let it lie until you can get a couple of able-bodied men to hlp move the carcass.

If you have a heart condition, take at least one member of your party into your confidence. Tell him what medicine you take, how it is given and the symptoms which indicate the need for medication. He should know which pocket you keep it in and the container should carry clearly typed instruction.

Never hunt alone.

Get a good rest, preferably a full night's sleep, before you set out to hunt.

If you're hunting at a higher altitude, go a few days early. This will give your heart time to adjust to the lower oxygen content of the thin air before the stresses and strains of hunting are added.

Rest as often and as long as you have to, before you get too tired.

Remember: the biggest game is getting back in good shape, Dr. Anderson says. If you take as good care of yourself as you do of your gear, you can enjoy hunting for many seasons to come.

DEER AND ELK OPENINGS

Twenty-seven more units open for elk and deer hunting October 2 around the state, and 11 others open for deer hunting only. These include the popular elk regions in the Lochsa, Selway, and Clearwater, and the Hells Canyon, South Fork of the Payette, and Boise River drainages. Hunters are urged to study the elk-deer hunting maps and regulation details now available from license vendors before going afield. Four more two-deer areas open October 2. These are units 13, 18, 22, and 37A, and are in addition to units 26 and 27 which opened for two deer and one elk on September 18 to begin the Primitive Area hunting in Idaho.

The statewide elk kill over the past ten years has averaged 15.000 animals a season, and the deer kill averages 67,000 per year.

Men often mistake themselves, seldom forget themselves.

Cuisine Cum Laude

This week's recipe comes from a small cookbook, Patterns for Parties, published by the Edison Electric Co. It is a frozen dessert and can be made ahead of time and brought out for company at the last minute. It is especially delicious anytime of the year.

FROZEN LEMON PIE

1 egg and two egg yolks
½ cup sugar
one-fourth cup lemon juice
peel of one-fourth lemon, cut in strips
1 cup heavy cream
½ cup crushed vanilla wafers

In saucepan, beat 3 egg yolks well; add all but 1 tablespoon sugar, lemon juice and peel. Cook slowly over low heat 10 minutes, or until thick, stirring constantly. Chill; remove peel. Beat egg white until stiff but not dry; beat in remaining sugar; fold into cooled custard. Whip cream and fold in buttered ice cube tray; coat with one-fourth cup crumbs; pour lemon mixture into tray and sprinkle top with remaining crumbs. Place in freezing unit and freeze at coldest setting until firm. To serve, remove just a few minutes ahead of time and cut in pie shaped pieces. Top with whipped cream. This will make 6 to 8 pieces, double recipe accordingly to serve more.

"Daughter," exploded the father, "you can't marry that young pup. He doesn't make more than $100 a month."

"Oh, but, Daddy," pleaded the girl, "a month flies by so fast when you're in love with each other."

A nickel goes a long way today. You can carry it around for weeks before you find something you can buy with it.

"They tell me your spinister aunt died quite happily."

"Yes, somebody told her marriages are made in heaven."

They were looking at a sign in the country store window which read: "Ladies Ready to Wear Clothes."

"Well, it's darn near time."

W. W. P. Returning To Envelope Billing

The Washington Water Power Company announced today that on September 27, it is returning to envelope billing for its services. John B. Murray, Palouse Division Manager, said that WWP changed from envelope billing to postcard billing almost twenty years ago but that the development of flexible and highly efficient envelope inserting systems has made it feasible for the company to again use envelopes.

"There are a number of reasons why envelope billing is becoming increasingly popular with utility companies across the nation," Murray said. "First, there are indications that more and more customers have come to view their utility service bills as a personal matter, and as such, to be handled more confidentially. Secondly, each year more and more of our customers have asked that we include a return envelope with our statement and we obviously could not do this with a postcard-type statement."

"When WWP changed to postcard billing 20 years ago most of our customers still came to a WWP office or pay station to pay their utility bill," Murray pointed out. "Today, these same people pay their bills by check. Just the single fact that envelope billing provides them with a return envelope, already addressed, will be a convenience greatly appreciated by our customers."

The electronic inserting machine to be used by WWP will be the largest of its kind west of the Mssissippi River. After inserting the customer's utility bill and a pre-addressed return envelope it can insert special notices such as greetings to new customers and information for the company's electric, gas, water , and steam users. The company processes and mails about 8000 customer service accounts each working day, a total of approximately 168,000 a month.

"We do not intend to load our service bills with any large number of additional inserts," Murray said, "but we will resume sending 'Timely Cooking Tips' to all of our customers as a part of the little 'Gazette' they will receive with each statement. This popular booklet folder will be remembered by many of our customers, particularly housewives who were WWP customers before we went to postcard billing. Some of our customers still have bound volumes of these recipes and they prize them very highly. Additional items to be published in the 'Gazette' will cover use and care of electric and gas equipment and appliances, fabric care, vacation ideas, party ideas and information about the company we feel our customers should know."

October Mail Election For ASCS Committeemen

A mail election will be conducted in late October to select Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation community committeemen for 1966, according to Clarence A. Jensen, Chairman, Latah ASCS County Committee.

The following list of eight communities is unchanged from last year: Farmington or A community; Kennedy Ford B; Deary C; Troy D; Cornwall E; Moscow F; Genesee G; and Kendrick H.

Ballots will be mailed to all eligible voters October 26 and must be postmarked or returned not later than Nov. 5. Anyone failing to receive a ballot may obtain one at the county ASCS office. Each farm's number and community letter will be stamped on the envelope to verify the community in which the voter participates.

Three regular committeemen and two alternates will be elected from each community from a slate of nominees prepared by the incumbent community committee. Nominations may also be made by petition which must be signed by six for more eligible voters, and be postmarked or delivered to the ASCS office not later than October 15. Names of incumbent committeemen may be included and will be placed on the ballot if eligible and willing to serve. If a nominee is determined to be ineligible he will be notified and has the right to appeal to the county committee. The county and community committeemen may make additional nominations as required or as it considers desirable.

Mr. Jensen emphasized the importance of nominating and electing active farmers who are qualified for the job and who will actively represent the type of agriculture in their communities. The ballots will be tabulated in an open meeting November 9 at the ASCS office. A county convention will be held November 19, 1965 to elect the 1966 county committee. All committeemen take office December 1, 1965.

Heavy Winds Cause Two Fires Monday

A strong wind and dust storm that whipped across the area Monday evening was responsible for two fires that evening. The wind, which reached peaks of over thirty miles per hour raised huge clouds of dust from the dry fields being worked by farmers. Over in the Colton area the wind and dust blocked a highway between that town and Uniontown for a period of time.

The first fire alarm was sounded shortly after nine o'clock Monday night. The wind had whipped a smoldering pile of trash in the back of the Farmers Union Producers yard into flame. The fire was quickly extinguished and no damage was done.

The second alarm was sounded at eleven o'clock when a fire broke out at the rear of the Mary-Claire Hall home (formerly owned by Claude Harpole). The fire was confined to the garden and a fence row with little damage reported.

NEVER ENOUGH WORKERS TO GO AROUND

One of the most serious shortcomings of a small town always seems to be the lack of available and willing volunteers to work on the numerous civic, fraternal and church projects that inevitably come up. The trend nowdays is for every small town to offer the same services found in larger communities. Fund drives are held, youth groups sponsored, bazaars held, special days are staged and as the year continues one finds that there just aren't enough volunteers to go around. A few of the willing workers soon discover that they have over-extended themselves. . . . these few durable workers need help.

A case in point is our local Cub Scout and Camp Fire groups. In Genesee these two excellent youth organizations have been struggling to keep alive mainly the sheer determination of a handful of dedicated parents. At present there are many young boys and girls who could benefit from the training and experience of belonging to the Cub Scouts or Camp Fire Girls. Some of these children will be denied the opportunity because there just aren't enough adults leaders willing to work with them.

Parents of children who are eager to join these youth groups should realize that two or three overworked adults can't effectively manage these programs . . . one afternoon a week isn't too much to ask for training that will last a lifetime . . . especially if it is your child.

If you can possibly spare the time . . . offer to help.

Think of it you farmers— a dozen eggs are worth more than a bushel of wheat. Buy a chick and make a break for liberty.

I will pay for No. 1 wheat, sacked, delivered in any whse. in Genesee, 20c on store account. Jno. P. Vollmer.

New Wheat Said Promising

A soft white winter wheat that's even better than high-yielding Gaines has just been named and approved for release in the three Pacific Northwest States.

The new variety is called Nugaines. It has the same parentage, the same general appearance and yielding ability at last equal to the record-setting Gaines. As a bonus, it has superior milling qualities and slightly higher test weight.

Nugaines was released jointly by the Colleges of Agriculture of the University of Idaho, Washington State University, and Oregon State University in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. A. M. Finley, head of the Department of Plant Sciences at the University of Idaho, said the variety has performed equal to or better than Gaines in tests at Moscow. Aberdeen and Tetonia.

Its greatest advantage is in milling quality. Nugaines has shown a marked superiority over Gaines in milling tests conducted at the USDA's Western Wheat Quality laboratory.

Seven-year production comparisons also give Nugaines an edge in test weight. It has averaged 61 to 62 pounds per bushel, about one pound higher than Gaines.

Neither variety is resistant to stripe rust, but Nugaines has shown a slightly greater tolerance to the disease. The two varieties are also similar in their reaction to smut. Both are susceptible to dwarf bunt and resistant to most races of common smut found in this area.

Nugaines seed will not be available for commercial production until the fall of 1967, Dr. Finley pointed out. Only about 250 bushels of foundation seed will be planted for increase in the three states this year.

Both Nugaines and Gaines were developed by Dr. O. A. Vogel, USDA plant breeder stationed at Pullman, Wash. Their ancestry includes Norin-10, a semi dwarf Japanese wheat; Brevor, a soft white winter wheat; Orfed, a soft white spring wheat, and Burt, a hard white winter variety.

Both are short-strawed. bearded varieties with long, common heads and an ability to yield well with heavy nitrogen fertilization. Gaines yields of more than 100 bushels per acre on dryland and over 150 bushels on irrigated land are frequently reported.

It is estimated that Gaines has boosted Pacific Northwest wheat yields by 20 to 50 bushels an acre on 100,000 acres of irrigated land, by 10 to 15 bushels per acre on a million acres of dryland, and by 5 bushels per acre on an additional 100,000 acres of dryland.

THE END OF SUMMER

Ripples of sunshine through vine-tangles dripping.
The hawthorn bush down pasturelands aflame;
A pheasant through low, rustling, leaf-drifts slipping
In rapture more than I can ever name.

And in this glorious, sweet, autumnal setting
That thrills me more than words can ever say;
I still remember, and I'm not forgetting
The summer-madness that has passed away.

'BAA!' SAY SHEEP TO NEW BEDPADS

SHEEPSKINS may become standard hospital equipment. Shearlings, which are sheepskins with the wool trimmed but not removed, may be used to prevent bedsores thanks to a new tanning process developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Prior to its development use of shearling bedpads had been limited because of the special care required in laundering them.

A HIGH-MELTING synthetic industrial wax is now produced by Chemetron Chemicals, Chicago. It is designed for the plastics and allied fields where its internal and external lubricating properties make it useful in resins and plastics applications where mold release anti-tack, anti-block and lustrous finish are desired. The new wax has additional uses in lacquers, varnishes and enamels.

DON'T BE LULLED into a false sense of security because of the overwhelming success of Salk and Sabin vaccines in controlling polio. cautions the American Medical Association. These vaccines have not eradicated the viruses which cause this paralyzing disease; they only trigger the body's defenses to build up anti-bodies that can combat the viruses. All persons who have not been properly immunized against polio are still vulnerable.

THE NUMBER of active civil aircraft is expected to reach 107,000 by 1969, predicts the Federal Aviation agency. There were 90,935 of this type aircraft on FAA rolls at the close of 1964. The ten states leading in number of active civil aircraft for 1964 were, in order, California, Texas, Illinois, New York, Ohio, Michigan, Florida. Pennsylvania, Kansas and Indiana. Those states accounted for 51.2% of the aircraft total and, coincidentally, also have 51.2 per cent of the U. S. population.

SWIMMING SALMON are having their noses counted by sonar in Alaska. The simplified, relatively inexpensive sonar system was developed and successfully tested to help the state's Fish and Game department regulate salmon fishing. Sonar was discovered to be the best means of counting the fish as they swam upstream to spawn.

IF THE U. S. switches to the metric system, as strongly advocated by many science and industry leaders, American men will have to stop thinking of the ideal woman in terms of 36-24-36, 91-52-91, anyone?

Cuisine Cum Laude

A young mother who comes from a long line of good cooks shares a bread recipe with us this week. Mrs. Ray Qualey carries on the tradition of her grandmothers, Mrs. Alzina Hayden and Mrs. Happie Wilson, and her mother, Mrs. Lloyd Wilson, as she practices good cookery in her kitchen. Her bread won a blue ribbon at the Nez Perce Co. Fair and a red ribbon there from the Wheat Grower's Association. This is actually three recipes with her own improvising.

WHITE BREAD

Scald 1½ cups milk
Stir in ½ cup potato flakes
½ cup corn oil
6 tablespoons sugar
4 teaspoons salt
Cool.

In large bowl mix 3 cups lukewarm water and 3 pkg. Red Star yeast. After yeast has dissolved stir in cooled milk mixture. Then beat in 6 cups unsifted white flour. Beat until smooth. Add additional 6 to 8½ cups unsifted flour. Knead until smooth, about ten minutes. Put in large, greased bowl and let rise until light. Punch down and let rise until almost double. Knead down and shape into four loaves. Put into greased pan and let rise until double. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes.

Mrs. Qualey and her husband are both Genesee natives. They live in town, but Mr. Qualey farms land in the Rim area. The family attends Genesee Community Church, where Mrs. Qualey sings in the choir, is a substitute Sunday School teacher and a member of the Women's Evening Circle. The couple are members of the Mariner's Club and hold the office of 'Log Keeper.' Mr. Qualey, a member of the Genesee City Council, is an aviation enthusiast and has built his own plane. The Qualeys have two children. Laura Lee, a sixth grader, and Galen, who is three.

Pastor and Mrs. William Bash attended the North Pacific District ALC Pastoral Conference at Holden Village. Wn. September 27-29. Featured speaker was Dr. Arthur Becker, seminary professor, from the Lutheran Evangelical Seminary, Columbus, Ohio. 275 were in attendance.

Holden Village is a former mining town in the Cascades acquired by the Lutheran Church in 1960. It is nestled at 3,500 feet in a valley surrounded by 9,000 ft. mountains. Holden Village is now used for special retreats and its programs geared for the whole family. The only way in is via a 40-mile boat ride up beautiful Lake Chelan, and a 10-mile bus ride up to the village from the Lake.

Doctor: "I don't know, madam; tell me what you're hoping for."

An insurance agent, writing a policy for a cowpuncher, asked if he'd ever had any accident.
"No," said the cowboy, then added, trying to be helpful, "A brone kicked in a couple of ribs and a rattlesnake bit me once."
"Well," said the agent, "don't you call those accidents?"
"No," said the cowboy, "they done it on purpose."

School Building Proposal Will Be Topic at Civic Meeting

The proposed school building project will be the main topic of discussion at the monthly meeting of the Genesee Civic Association to be held Wednesday evening, October 20, at 7:00 p. m. in the Genesee Cafe banquet room.

Civic Club president Larry Sorensen, said Lester C. Diehl, Genesee school superintendent, will have a complete set of plans which the school board and advisory group have worked out with the architects showing exactly the type of building and remodeling which they feel will provide the space and facilities the school needs. These plans will be available for review by the members attending the meeting.

At present the board has completed plans which would utilize the present gym as a multi-purpose room which would accomodate an auditorium, hot lunch room and band room. A structure to be built West of the present school and adjoining the current buildings. would house a new gymnasium, classrooms, home economic class rooms and hot lunch kitchens. At the request of the Community Day committee the architects have also drawn plans showing how a swimming pool could be built and utilized in conjunction with the new building. All of these plans will be on display Wednesday.

Because the meeting is so timely and important, the Civic Club has decided to hold it during the evening instead of at the regular noon time. President Sorensen has invited everyone interested to attend. This will be a dinner meeting and both husbands and wives are cordially invited to attend.

Bulldogs Stretch Unbeaten Skein to Forty Contests; Kendrick and Troy Fall

Behind their fast, strong linemen the Genesee Bulldog football team brought their unbeaten record to forty games this week defeating the Kendrick Tigers 27-20 Friday evening and the Troy Trojans 35-20 Wednesday night. In reaching the 40-game mark the squad has set a record for the local school and may well have set a state or national record, although information to confirm this is not available.

While Genesee's backfield looked good in both the Kendrick and Troy games, it was the Bulldog forward wall that held the key to the victories. Tough and determined on offense. the defensive line rose to the occasion in both contests to pour into the opposition backfield and harass their men. Kendrick and Troy had reputations for being a passing team but the charging Genesee line gave the Tiger and Trojans quarterbacks little time to get rid of the ball.

Kendrick Tough

The visiting Kendrick Tigers scored first last Friday night and staged a last half rally before going down to defeat 27-20. at the hands of the Bulldogs.

Gary Craig passed to Ken Heimgartner for a seventy-yard touchdown play early in the first quarter to give Kendrick the 7-0 lead. Quarterback Brad Airhart climaxed a 60-yard drive minutes later when he passed to Dave Blume for a 30-yard scoring play. The conversion was good and it was tied 7-7 at the end of the first quarter. In the second quarter Butch Green scored on a 35-yard pass play from Airhart and then added the extra point and Russ Storey boomed over from one-yard out with Airhart adding the conversion to give Genesee a 21-7 halftime lead.

Genesee started the second half with a touchdown play as Airhart passed to Zenner who in turn lateraled oft to Green who scored in a play covering fifty yards.

In the third quarter Kendrick faked a kick on a fourth and one situation with Bruce Vincent going 48 yards through line for a touchdown. Minutes later, in the fourth period, Kendrick connected on another pass play good for 65 yards and another touchdown. For the remainder of the quarter Genesee fought a delaying game and was in control of the ball when the final gun sounded.

Over Troy 35-20

It was homecoming at Troy high school Wednesday evening and the Trojans wanted to score the upset of the season against the unbeaten Bulldogs and for a while in the first quarter it looked as if they might succeed as Troy pushed the Genesee team around during much of the first half. Troy drew first blood in the game as Bob Brocke recovered a blocked punt in the end zone and then ran the conversion to make it 7-0. In the second quarter Troy scored on the first play on a 45-yard end, by Steve Brown but failed to convert. Mark Zenner, Genesee end, set up the first Bulldog touchdown as he moved the ball to the Troy 28-yard line after a 30-yard run. Two plays later Green scored from 8-yards out and Storey converted. Genesee began to move behind the charging line which was opening huge holes in the Trojan defense. Doug Mayer, quarterbacking for an injured Brad Airhart, packed the ball from his own 45 down to Troy one-yard line just as the first half ran out with Troy leading 13-7.

In the second half it was all Genesee as Zenner started the rally going with a 35-yard touchdown run. The extra point try failed but Genesee had a tie game. Zenner scored again minutes later after Genesee had brought the ball down to the Troy ten on a fifty-yard run. An interception by Doug Mayer gave Genesee possession of the ball shortly before Green had made his run. Genesee made the conversion good and lead 20-13.

It was Butch Green who turned in the most spectacular play of the season at the beginning of the fourth quarter. Green took a hand-off from Mayer on the Genesee one-yard line and rambled 99 yards up the left side of the field to score for the Bulldogs. Genesee failed to convert. Russ Storey added two points to the Bulldog score when he tackled Craig Bohman in the end zone for a safety. Storey later scored a touchdown from seven yards out and Dave Blume raced around left end for the conversion to make it 35-13 for the Bulldogs. With bench strength playing for the Bulldogs, Troy scored a 60-yard touchdown on a pass play from Bohman to Brown and converted to make the final score 35-20.

Employment Situation In Latah County

The number of requests for workers made to the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of employment diminished to only 17 from the previous weeks 35, and was even slightly below last year's 22. This easing off of the demand for workers, coupled with the fact that available applicants seem to be at an all-time low, reduced the number of placements made by that office during the past week. Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager, said that there were a total of only 13 jobs filled during the week by his office. During the previous week there were 28 workers placd on jobs, and during the same week one year ago, the total was 17. Men are in real demand, Hartstein stated, and there are many jobs opene for them The jobs range from TV repairmen, with color TV experience to carpenters, laboratory technicians, a oofer, electrical appliance repairmen, janitors, waiters, and dishwashers. Although there are more women available for work in the Moscow area now, there are still jobs open for a bookkeeper, cooks, experienced waitresses, and some domestic workers. Hartstein urged any interested workers to contact his office to make application for any of the jobs now open.

Only three workers filed claims for Unemployment Insurance during the past week through the Moscow office. All were women. and none are expected to remain unemployed for a very long period of time. The total number receiving benefits, however, was reduced from 31 to 26, indicating that 8 workers returned to work during the week. At this time a year ago there were 56 persons receiving benefits. Of the total, 17 are from the immediate Moscow area, compared with 19 last week, and 42 one year ago.

ENROLLMENT AT U. OF IDAHO REACHES 5,934—ALL-TIME RECORD

Enrollment at the University of Idaho had climbed this week to 5,934—almost 800 above a year ago.

In spite of the fact that the University of Idaho had ready for the opening of school this fall a new dormitory unit in the Wallace Residence Center) to serve 315 students, the unexpected and unprecented increase in enrollment jammed housing facilities.

Actnually the new dormitory unit, in accordance with past planning, was scheduled to serve the university's housing needs for the next two years.

In the university's budget presentation to the State Legislature for 1965-67, enrollment for 1965-66 had been estimated to be 5,593, and for 1966-67, 5,773. The unanticipated 5.900-plus enrollment this year will put a heavy strain on the budget in providing extra teachers and equipment to serve the students.

Fortunate was the fact that the University had ready this fall the new, $1,261,881 University Classroom Center, financed by student fees through Regent's bonds. This building was designed to provide classroom facilities for 2,021 students.

As one official put it, "The University was well-prepared for a normal flow of students; then the dam burst."

IRANIAN NAVY PERSONNEL BEING TRAINED AT U. of IDAHO

Lacking its own naval academy to train personnel, the Imperial Iranian Navy is sending cadets to the University of Idaho for naval science tutoring.

Four Iranian cadets will enroll at the university next week, according to Capt. Harry Davey, professor of naval science. They include Iraj Pour Jabor Alizadeh, Seyed Ali Mohammad Akrami, Mohammad Farsi and Morteza Klooshani.

Davey said they would be housed in Chrisman hall with other ROTC students.

Currently Imperial Iranian Navy cadets are sent each year to British, French, Italian and West German academies. Since the Iranian navy receives candidates whose language is addition to Persian is English, British quotas are swamped. Britian can allot only 10 spaces a year to Iran. Six will come to the United States—four enrolling at Idaho and two at the University of Utah.

"Advanced training for Imperial Iranian Navy personnel is almost exclusively U. S., and their ships are U. S. built," said Capt. Davey. 'So they desire to have their cadets familiar with U. S. methods equipment and doctrine."

Application for enrollment was made by the cadets with the Government of Iran paying expenses. United States legislation permits enrollment of foreign midshipmen. but limits the number of trainees at an ROTC unit to five from one country.

AUGUST ARREST REPORT HIGH SAYS FISH AND GAME DEPT.

Idaho arrests for fish and game violations continued high during August, a month that generally brings a lull because lowland fishing waters are in their summertime doldrums and the fall hunting pace has not quickened yet. There were 93 license violations and 65 fishing citations issued, forming the bulk of the 169 arrests made.

Idaho Fish and Game Department policy is to place as much emphasis on prevention through thorough explanation of regulations as the enforcement division gives to apprehension of violators. Nevertheless, 76 arrests were made in August because people were fishing without licenses, and 17 others had wrong class licenses. One hunter was cited for being without a license and another on a miscellaneous charge.

Other violations and numbers arrested included three for fishing where there was no season, 17 during closed season, 24 overlimits, 3 illegal gear, and 27 for unlawful procedure. During the month $3,884.50 was collected in fines. half of which remains in the counties where the violations occur. Total for the year so far is $15,172.50.

U. of IDAHO NEWS

The Moscow Hotel will be used this semester to take care of an overflow of men students at the University of Idaho —perhaps about 60, it has been announced by President Ernest W. Hartung.

Resident enrollment this fall now appears certain to rise above any expectations. Earlier, predictions had been made that it would pass the 5.500 mark. Just what it will be will not be known until after registration September 21 and 22 because previous statistics are not holding true to form.

Dr. Hartung, who has long been dedicated to the philosophy of bringing higher education to the greatest possible number of qualified young men and women, commented:

"Higher percentage of applicants than in previous years, both among old and new students, are showing up at the university, and it is vital that we do every thing possible to help the students find living quarters. We are grateful to Mr. Nicholas Bodie, operator of the Moscow Hotel, for his cooperation in setting aside a section of the hotel for the students."

SPEAKS SUNDAY

The above pictures Missionary and Mrs. Leonard Showalter with their mules in the jungles of Bolivia. The Showalters have been in Bolivia for 20 years, serving at the Mission Station in the little village of Ayata. Ayata is some distance in the mountains from LaPaz, the Bolivian Capital. They have completed their 5th term of 4 years under the World Mission Prayer League.

Missionary Showalter will present his work with a message at both services at Genesee Valley and St. John's Lutheran churches on Sunday morning, October 24th. The Sunday Schools will be combined at St. John's to see colored slides of the Mission Field and its work. At 3 p. m., Sunday afternoon, a more informal program will be held at Genesee Valley, where Missionary Showalter will show many curios, Bolivian clothing, and speak of the customs of South America. The community is cordially invited to any one or all of the programs. Consult the church listings for times of services.

Missionary Showalter is a native of Moscow and Mrs. Showalter is a native of Troy.

ST MARYS SAUSAGE DINNER IS SUNDAY

Members of St. Mary's parish have been completing plans and setting up equipment as they prepare to offer their annual Sausage Dinner this Sunday, October 24 in the Firemen's Hall. This affair, always one of the highlights of the Fall season in Genesee, is well-known throughout the Inland Empire, and attracts many people to this town.

Because of the many other activities, both in and outside of the parish, the members decided to curtail some of the bazaar activities this year. Missing will be the country store, candy booth, and games. A fancy work booth will be operated by ladies of the parish, however.

Chicken and Sausage Meals

While some of the other activities have been curtailed, the meals will remain the same. Eleven hogs have been butchered and made into sausage by Theissen and Son. In addition to the sausage there will be fried chicken, mashed potatoes, sauer kraut, vegetables, hot rolls, dressing, cranberry sauce, relish, and pickle plates, pies, milk and coffee.

Serving begins at 12 noon and will continue on without delay until 7 p. m. This system was initiated several years ago and proved to be very popular and greatly reduced the length of time required for people to be seated and served. The meals will be served in a combination family and cafeteria style.

Mass Changes For Sunday

Father B. C. McCarthy, pastor of St. Mary's, reminded all members of the parish that Mass hours will be changed for Bazaar Day. This Sunday Mass will be at 7:00 and 9:00 a. m. Regular 8 and 10 a. m. Masses will be resumed the following Sunday, Father said.

Navy Man's Canal Plunge Saves Life of Boy

Idaho Falls police credited a Navy man's quick action Wednesday afternoon with saving the life of Allan Taber, 8, of Idaho Falls, after the boy fell into the Idaho Canal and was being swept down stream.

Laurence (Larry) C. Fitch stationed at the Atomic Energy Commission site, plunged into the 14-ft. deep waters at the foot of Lovejoy Street at Northeast Bonneville Drive and pulled Allan out after the boy had fallen in.

Allan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Taber, 1156 Irving, was rescued by Larry approximately 46 yards down stream from where he had fallen in.

City Police Sgt. Marshall Havemann said Fitch was alerted at a nearby friends house where he was visiting for a little while, by a young girl whose name was not learned. Fitch said the girl wanted to use the phone to call the authorities, and he learned Allan was in the Canal when he asked whom she wanted to call.

The Navy man, who lives at the Uptown Trailer Court immediately ran outside and jumped into the Canal after Allan.

After the rescue, the boy said he felt all right. He had on a lot of winter clothing and heavy boots when he tumbled into the roaring canal.

The Idaho Falls Fire Department arrived at the scene of the near-drowning, but found no use for the resuscitator inasmuch as Larry had applied artificial respiration and Allan was out of danger and apparently unhurt, but cold. Larry for his quick thinking received a Bravery citation from his commanding officer and has been recommended for bravery to Admiral Richover, U. S. Navy.

—Post Falls Register, Idaho Falls, Idaho

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Rice received the clipping and a picture showing Larry and Allan standing at edge of Canal where Allan fell in. Larry is married to the former Linda Rice.

CIVIC CLUB HEARS PLANS ON PROPOSED SCHOOL PROJECT

Many Attend Open House For Mrs. Wishard

About seventy-five relatives and friends attended Open House on Sunday, October 17, honoring the 80th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Ella Wishard. The affair was held from 2 to 5 p. m. in the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Wishard.

The centerpiece on the refreshment table was an arrangement of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums and four tall, yellow tapers. The cake was frosted in tinted colors of bronze, yellow, and orange, decorated with small yellow and bronze flowers. Mrs. Clifford Wishard and Mrs. James Wishard, served.

Chris Wishard was in charge of the guest book and Cammie Sue and Jerry welcomed their grandmother's guests. The honored guest wore a red rose bud and white carnation corsage. She also received many lovely gifts and cards.

Nearly seventy people crowded into the banquet room of the Genesee Cafe Wednesday to hear School Superintendent Lester C. Diehl discuss plans for a proposed school building project. The dinner meeting was sponsored by the Genesee Civic Association and was the first time the plans for the new school building were unveiled to the public.

"There is nothing fancy here," Diehl said, referring to the new plans, "All we want is just the facilities to give your children the best education possible." He outlined the four basic reasons for the proposed new building project as follows: 1. To provide needed classroom space. 2. To upgrade and enrich the curriculum. 3. To provide space for a guidance and counseling service for students, which, at present, the school needs desperately but does not have. 4. To replace inadequate facilities.

The school board plans to bring the proposed project before the taxpayers at a special election on Tuesday, November 23. This would be in the form of a bond election necessary to raise money for the construction costs. The bonding company of Foster and Marshall Seattle, has been hired by the school district to set up the bonding issue. This firm will draw up the proposal so it meets all legal requirements, prepare brochures, and provide for the election.

Two Plans Offered

According to the school, two alternate plans will be offered to the taxpayers of the district at the November 23 election. Plan 'A' will provide for a new school cafeteria, home economics room, music room, five class rooms, remodeling of the old gym into a multi-purpose room, new first-aid room. remodeling present first grade room and new gymnasium. Total cost of this proposal has been set at $525,000. The cost would be met by selling 20-year bonds and setting an 8½ mill levy.

Alternate 'B' will also appear on the ballot. Under this plan the same buildings and classroom space would be obtained but in addition, a building housing a standard-size swimming pool would be constructed west of the other new building. This would be a year-round heated pool which would be utilized by both the physical education classes and also by the public, at separate times, of course, Cost of this plan has been set at $625,000 and would be met by selling bonds and repaying with a 10-mill levy.

Both cost figures are complete, the school said, and includes architect fees, legal fees, and bonding costs.

Plans Explained

Mr. Diehl has six architectural drawings with him showing plans for the new school and he explained how the students would benefit if the proposal is approved.

On the lower level, actually a daylight basement, the school plans to move the seventh and eighth grade classes over from the basement of the old building. Also on this level would be two other future classrooms; a large storage space, badly needed by the school; locker rooms, and this level would give the school space to house students, especially younger ones, during bad weather when they cannot get outside.

On the ground floor the present gym would be converted into a multi-purpose room, the superintendent said. The present stage would be retained for school plays and public meetings but the rear of the gym would be walled off to accomodate a band and chorus room and several smaller rooms necessary to the music department. The west side of the gym would be converted into the hot lunch department and would hold the hot lunch kitchen, storage space, freezers, etc. Students would be fed in the present gym area in a space designed to seat 280 places. Diehl stressed how important it would be to have this new facility. He said the present hot lunch room, located across the street from the school is small and inconvenient. Often times students are forced to wait outside in line to be fed which is a serious health hazard in bad weather. Because of the limited seating capacity of the present lunch room, classes are forced to eat in shifts which, necessitates too much teacher supervision time, taking teachers away from other more important duties.

On the first floor of the proposed new building, Diehl stated, would be social science classrooms, business and foreign language classrooms, and a new home economics classroom area. These new facilities would help take the pressure off of the present space and would give the school an opportunity to increase their curriculum plus utilizing the teaching staff more effectively. "We're sending teachers to supervise study halls right now," Diehl said. "just because we don't have the classrooms for them."

If the bond issue passes on November 23, it was estimated that bids would be let early in the spring and the school would work to have the new facilities available by next fall.

FOUR WILL SEEK SECOND WARD COUNCIL SEAT

Interest in the November 2 municipal election quickened this week with the announcement that four petitions of candidacy for councilman from the Second Ward have been filed with City Clerk C. D. Manfred. Two petitions have been filed for councilman from the First Ward. In the contest for mayor, two petitions have also been filed. Closing date for filing petitions of candidacy was Wednesday, October 20.

The last to file for councilman for the Second Ward were Edward Jutte and J. P. Hermann. Jutte is a retired Genesee farmer, and Hermann is presently in partnership with his brother, Don, farming east of Genesee. A petition had been filed on behalf of Lawrence Hasfurther earlier this month. Incumbent Raymond Qualey has also announced his intentions to seek another four-year term. These four names will appear on the ballot as candidate for councilman from the Second Ward.

In the race for councilman from the First Ward, incumbent George Anderson and W. A. Roth are the only two who have filed for this seat on the council.

Mayor D. F. Scharnhorst's bid for another four-year term will be opposed by Judd Lee.

According to City Clerk C. D. Manfred this is the first time that all council seats and the office of mayor has been contested within recent times.

The various contests have brought increased voter interest as the city clerk reported that as of Wednesday, 151 residents are now registered and eligible to vote. If this interest continues this will be the largest city election for mayor and councilman on record. The last city election, held in 1963, saw 107 votes cast for the office of mayor and councilman. The largest vote ever recorded in a city election was in 1959 when 178 people voted in the election which approved the new sewerage and lagoon system.

Manfred said that if registration continues at the same brisk pace as it has the last few days, the record 178 who voted in 1959 would be surpassed.

Check Your Registration

Once again the city clerk urged all eligible voters to check at his office to make certain they are registered to vote November 2. He said many people have been confused as to registration for city elections and those for the county, state and federal elections. Even though you have voted in county, state and federal elections, you have to be registered with the city clerk for the municipal election or have voted in the last two city elections to be on the registration books of the city.

Registration books close Saturday evening, October 30.

ECONOMY EXCELLENT SAYS BANK REPORT

The economy of Idaho in 1965 is excellent, and increases over last year in production, trade, construction and personal income are running above national trends.

This is the bright picture painted by First Security Bank's News Letter, distributed this week, it was announced Monday by James Hoogland, manager of the First Security Bank's Genesee Branch.

The News Letter, a quarterly publication, is edited by Dr. Elroy Nelson, First Security vice president and economist.

According to the report, main factors accounting for gains over last year are accelerated demands for metals, minerals and building materials. Other significant factors reported by the News Letter are a high total dollar volume of construction, a high level of employment, and few labor problems.

Payrolls are reported ranging from two to 18 per cent higher in all categories, and net income from agricultural endeavors is significantly higher, says the News Letter.

The value of mineral production in the Gem State should easily establish a new all-time record, and quantity production in many minerals should do likewise Silver production, at eight million ounces, is up 34 per cent from 1964. while lead and zinc production have increased at a slightly lesser rate. Phosphate rock production should also establish a recrod output for the year.

A new all-time record in cash receipts from farm marketing is also forecast for 1965. Higher prices for potatoes through June and general improvement of livestock prices since early spring have been significant factors, and record receipts of almost $500 million should be reached before year's end.

Prices from farm products for the first three quarters of the year were generally higher than a year ago. Cattle prices are $3 to $4 above 1964 and are expected to continue through December well above last year's prices. Wool prices average $3 per cwt, higher, and lamb prices are expected to increase because of greater demand in wool markets.

Production of principal crops in the state is generally higher than a year ago, despite the shorter season. Major increases are in potatoes, sugar beets, beans and hops, with some increases shown in wheat and feed grains.

Early September frosts will decrease somewhat the projected production of both potatoes and sugar beets. The Sugar Act of 1965 is slowly moving through Congress and is of vital importance in marketing the 1965 production of sugar and sugar beet planting of the 1966 crop.

Although considerably higher than in previous years, lumber production in Idaho for the first eight months was approximately eight per cent below the record year of 1964. Preliminary data, however, show an increase in output of paper and plywood.

Value of all construction in Idaho is expected to establish a new record. Including highways and utilities, total estimated construction for the first eight months of the year was about $310 million, and increase of $30 million from the year 1964.

Non-agricultural employment in all categories has continued on a month-to-month basis some 5,900 above totals shown last year. Unemployment is also 15 per cent below a year ago, a ratio of less than three per cent of the total work force, says the News Letter.

Retail trade is from 8 to 11 per cent higher than a year earlier and corresponds generally to increased personal income. New car and truck sales for the first eight months of the year were up 10-11 per cent.

Bank loans in 1965 have continued to increase on a month-to-month basis, and at the end of August, loans as shown by reporting Federal Reserve Member banks totaled $480 million, up 11.4 per cent from 1964. Demand and time deposits totaled $709 million. an increase of eight per cent.

The Bear River, which crosses the southeast end of Idaho, is the largest river in the U. S. which does not flow into the ocean. It empties into the Great Salt Lake.

While I of days almost forgot,

RETURN GAME TAGS URGES DEPARTMENT

Extensive marking of game animals for future identification is a continuing job in Idaho, and the success of the program hinges on people reporting their observations of marked animals, especially where and when, and the return by hunters of ear tags from bagged elk deer, mountain goat, bear, moose, and antelope.

In addition of ear tags, which should be returned to the Fish and Game Department when retrieved, other identification markers are used such as colored ear patches, neck bands, and bells. Rather than mail these things, hunters may keep them as mementos and report color and type of marker, animal species, hunting site by drainage and county and the date of kill. Such information is helpful in learning whether the proper number of animals are being bagged by hunters during the season. It also is useful in plotting the dispersion of game from winter concentration site, their drift routes from summer to winter range and return.

All but one of Idaho's major waters are classified as excellent for irrigation usage. The other is classified as good.

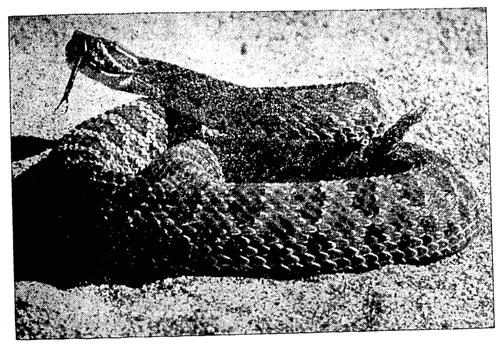
THE WASHINGTON WATER POWER CO.



MORE PEOPLE DIE each year from bee stings than from the effects of snake venom. But it pays to be watchful when fishing or hunting where snakes may be encountered. Leather or rubber boots are good precautions. Chilly nights do not drive snakes to their dens as long as fall weather continues sunny and warm. Chukar partridge hunters go into good snake habitat—the dry, rocky ledges and outcropping—because that is where the birds most likely will be found.

HARDEST PLACES TO GET OFFER QUALITY HUNTING

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish and Game Department

Anyone who thinks hunting elk is like shooting cows in a feed lot faces a quick change of opinion unless he buys his meat over the counter and his trophy from a taxidermist shop.

It's not entirely a man against beast proposition, either, because a hunter alone and on foot certainly does not have the advantages of those who go hunting well equipped to work the rugged back country. Experienced nimrods think in terms of saddle and pack horses even before deciding which windswept ridgetops are likely to have the most game during the week or two they plan to hunt.

Stories are heard every fall that somebody shot an elk which practically rolled downhill into a pickup truck. Some of them are true. But most of these magnificent big game animals usually match wits with sportsmen in rugged, timbered regions far from roads and the haunts of men. Moreover, the carcass is too heavy to bring to camp without horses. One quarter is more of a load than the average man wants to backpack.

Elk are altogether unlike deer because they are not tied to one particular locality. During the September and early October hunting season, bulls are fighting each other and herding together all the cows they can defend. Tomorrow they may be many miles from where they were yesterday or today. Except by accident, a man on foot cannot keep up with their wanderings. The only other means of ground transportation that will go most places elk do is a horse.

Rubber tires carry elk hunters to the ends of roads and shoe leather gets them back a few miles into more remote sectors. But the difference a few miles make often is the difference between easily accessible and virtually impossible hunting country.

It is noteworthy that elk hunter success for nonresident in 1963 was about 39 percent, while the figure for residents was about 22 per cent. Because they are fewer in number, out-of-state hunters bagged only 20 per cent of the total elk harvest. Over the past ten years, the average annual elk kill in Idaho has been about 15,000 bulls, cows and calves

It's against elk nature to accommodate themselves to ill-equipped, inexperienced hunters. and generally works out the other way around. Most nonresident hunters hire outfitters and guides to get them into wapiti country. They plan plenty of time for their hunts and get several miles away from back country airstrips. It pays off in quality hnuting, prized trophies and meat for the locker.

Anywhere from 40 to 90 percent of Idaho's annual elk kill by hunters is made on northcentral ranges, depending on weather and other factors. About half of the satatewide harvest is in the Clearwater drainage and the counties of Clearwater, Idaho and Shoshone are all big elk producers.

However, all but four of Idaho's 44 counties support some elk and there are many places where the herds are underharvested. Some of these are parts of areas where most of the total kill is made. The good havests, from the standpoint of sound game management, and those so low that herds and range sometimes are out of balance, often are separated by just a few steep trail miles.

Horseback hunting generally follows a basic pattern. The most common is for riders to dismount as soon a fresh elk sign is found, hunting quietly and slowly on foot. Elk sometimes can be taken completely by surprise — provided the stalking is from the downwind side—and a shot can be squeezed off with deliberation. But if they get a trace of human scent, elk break for cover without waiting for their natural enemy to come into sight. However. they are not the speedsters that smaller members of the deer family are. They are bigger, easier targets. Escape routes often are predictable, and guides often cover such crossings with hunters taking strategic "stands." Success again depends somewhat on favorable wind currents.

There is a notable single-mindedness about elk hunters in the back country. Relatively few deer are shot, especially early in the season. They are trophy hunters, shooting more bulls than cows until time begins running out and the tyranny of clocks calls them back to responsibility on the home front.

Despite long seasons from mid-Sept. to early December, and increased license sales, elk hunting pressure in the Lochsa, Selway and Salmon River drainages has not increased significantly. Figures from a 1960 report show, for example, an average of about 2,300 hunters in the upper selway, and 1,400 in the wilderness part of the Salmon River. Taken from hunters questionaire and checking station data over the previous seven years, these averages fluctuated only slightly up and down from season to season. Their relative stability clearly shows that the number of hunters in these wild river drainages is not increasing in proportion to license sales. Actually, the number now seems to be declining.

Errol Nelson, big game supervisor of the Idaho Fish and Game Department, says the evic idaho can accomplish more desirable elk harvests (and wilderness deer) only by distributing available hunting pressure over the entire area more uniformly so that a better success ratio can be achieved. This will require the encouragement of more residents to leave the roads and go deeper into primitive regions.

Idahoans also must accept the outfitter and his pack string and the airplane as valuable game management tools. Nonresident hunters must be recognized for their present and potential capacity to provide hunting pressure where it is needed most. Nielson says too many Idahoans wrongly believe that huge numbers of law-breaking nonresidents are killing vast herds of game that should be going to residents.

He adds that some Idahoans believe that long seasons have been set as a means of showing favoritism to outfitters and guides, allowing them to make more money from exploiting big game herds. The truth is that longer seasons do give people more opportunity to hunt in the back country, but has not increased hunting pressure to the desired amount.

Back country penetration up steep, rocky canyons is touch but pays dividends in quality hunting. Color is everywhere—in the orange berries of mountain ash, the crimson drupes of sumac and the gold of aspen against contrasting hues of pines, firs, spruce and larch. The elk are rutting and for thrills that chill the old back bone, the bugling of a challenging bull is hard to beat. It's an arpeggio of sounds ranging form a high-pitched whistle to a few throaty grunts.

Simple whistles, store bought or home made, duplicate the mating call. When it is answered the "caller's" heart quickens even more.

American Indians of yore gave more time to studying wildlife habits than is possible for most people today and it is said that they could lure anything from big game to an oyster to get meat for the pot. But the element of sport was missing and theey quite literally were calling for their supper.

Federal Crop Insurance Totalled $685,000 For Idaho

Nearly $685,000 will be paid to Idaho farmers for 1965 crop losses covered by the Federal Crop Insurance Corp., J. Ford Anderson, Lewiston, district FCIC director for seven Western daho Counties, reported this week.

Anderson said this estimate was released at a FCIC director's meeting he attended recently in Spokane.

Amounts paid to Idaho farmers this year will exceed premium income by $100,000 and will top other Pacific Northwest states. Washington farmers will receive $570,000 this year and Oregon farmers $235,000 said Anderson.

This will be the second year in a row he said that Idaho farmers will receive more than they paid in under the USDA insurance program established in 1938. One out of every six insured farmers is receiving an idemnity check this year said Anderson.

Major losses due mainly to winter kill, disease, frost and excessive moisture occurred in Idaho wheat, bean and potato production areas.

Anderson said that the official signup on winter wheat and barley ends October 31. This means that farmers who desire to become policyholders must sign an application by October 31 in order to have FCIC all risk protection on winter wheat and barley during the 1966 growing season.

In making the transition from civilian to sailor he is being taught by experienced Navy petty officers. They will teach him the basic skills of seasmanship as well as survival techniques, military drill and other basic subjects.

On completion of his recruit training he will be assigned to a school, shore station or ship, according to the results of his Navy classification tests, his own desires and the needs of the Navy.

EMPLOYMENT OFFICE PLACES 19 ON JOBS

Workers continue to find jobs through the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employment in increasing numbers, according to the report made by Mrank J. Hartstein, Moscow office manager this week. Hartstein reported that a total of 19 eprsons were given job finding help during the week just ended. This compares with 13 workers receiving such help last week and 16 for the same week a year ago. Among the men placed on jobs were loggers, tractor operators, and laborers. Women were assisted in finding such jobs as a secretary, a sales lady, nurse aide, kitchen helper, waitresses and domestic workers. There were still a total of 28 jobs unfilled at the end of the week. These included jobs for cooks, kitchen helpers, waitresses, a sales clerk, and domestic workers. Men could find work as carpenters, TV repairmen, an electrical appliance repairman; a laboratory technician, a roofer, power sawyer, waiters and a farm tractor operator. Hartstein urged anyone who is qualified for any of these positions and interested in them to contact the Moscow Employment Office for immediate consideration. It is expected that job opportunities will continue to be adequate for the next few weeks. However, when winter weather arrives many of the area's out-of-door work activities will be curtailed and jobs will not then be quite so plentiful.

Although twelve persons filed new claims for unemployment insurance during the week, Hartstein's report continued, the number of workers claiming benefits increased by only 6. This means that 6 workers either found jobs, moved away, or for some other reason decided to discontinue drawing benefits. There were 19 men and 13 women receiving benefits throughout the area, compared with a total of 68 persons receiving such payments at this time last year. In the Moscow area there were 17 persons filing claims, the same as last week, and compared with 51 a year ago. Four checks were going to residents of the Troy, Deary, Bovill area as compared with 3 a week ago and five at this time last year. The Potlatch area recorded 10 persons receiving jobless pay, as compared with only 6 the week before, and a comparable 11 during the corresponding week in 1964. One person filed a new claim from Elk River. If previous year's trends are followed, Hartstein indicated, the total number of persons receiving unemployment insurance will raise slightly during the next three or four weeks, and then jump more rapidly as winter sets in and causes curtailments in out-of-door work activity.

1966 Fair Date Set

Latah County Fair Board set the date for the 1966 Latah County Fair for September 15, 16, and 17th.

This action was taken at a regular meeting of the Board held Tuesday evening, October 5 at the courthouse. Preliminary plans for the 1966 fair include completion of several buildings and improvement projects. New bleachers and judging stand for the riding arena are being planned. New facilities for exhibits and expansion of hobby-type exhibits are in the mill for 1966.

In selecting a time for the fair, the problem of harvest completion, conflicting neighboring fair dates and other local events were considered before the final selection of Sept. 15-16, and 17.

METEORS, COMETS DUST EARTH WITH SPACE PARTICLES

DUST ON YOUR PATIO may have come from outer space. Traces of the elements iridium and osmium found in sediments at the bottom of the Pacific ocean indicate that about 100,000 tons of cosmic dust fall on the earth each year, according to John C. Barker, a University of Chicago chemist. The dust presumably originates either as small particles or as products of larger objects such as meteorites and comets.

FRESHWATER CANALS may be used as barriers against infiltrating sea water, making it possible to cultivate thousands of acres of rich delta land in many parts of the world that cannot be cultivated now because of underground intrusion of salt water. Dr. Marion Carstens, of Georgia Tech, holds that the use of canals on the edges of deltas is practical from a technical or physical standpoint. He also says that a system of levies and alternating drainage ditches and canals would make it possible to reclaim shallow mud flats from the sea.

APPLE PIE is regarded as practically the "most typically American" thing, but the original apple grew wild somewhere between Europe and south of the Black and Caspian seas, says Gladys Holton, curator of history at the Rochester Museum of Arts and Sciences. She said that apple seeds may have been carried to distant places by nomadic tribes. She also pointed out that the native American apple was a small sour crab apple.

INDUSTRIAL PIPING SYSTEMS are being "glued together" with a brush and an adhesive. In some cases gluing has shouldered aside the use of bolts, rivets, clips, screws and other methods. The adhesive isn't animal glue or paste but epoxy resins. Epoxy's tremendous adhesion to metal and its chemical inertness have prompted one major manufacturer, Tube Turns, Louisville, to develop a line of adhesive-bonded fittings.

Potlatch To Open Two New Production Plants

Potlatch Forests, Inc. will dedicate a multi-million dollar plywood mill at Jaype, Idaho, November 30, and the nation's largest hardwood sawmill at Warren. Arkansas, December 2. Addition of the Jaype mill will increase the company's annual plywood productive capacity to 300 million square ft, 3-8" basis. Thisi is more than double present plywood production.

Benton R. Cancell, president of the San Francisco-based forest products' company, said start of operations at the two new mills continues a long-range program to expand and improve the company's production facilities.

The Jaype mill is located near the heart of the Potlatch logging area some 90 miles east of Lewiston, Idaho. It is built on a 45-acre site with seven acres under roof. The mill will produce 150 million square feet of sheathing plywood and 50 million board ft. of studs a year. The main building is 900 feet long and 300 feet wide.

One of the major products to be produced in the Jaype mill is ⅜", 3-ply plywood. This plywood sheathing which Potlatch calls Triple-Dek, is formed of thicker plies than standard plywood and is gaining increasing acceptance in the home building and heavy construction industries.

The Warren hardwood sawmill replaces a mill built more than 30 years ago. It will have a yearly output of more than 40 million board feet. The mill will be operated by Potlatch's Bradley-Southern Division and will furnish lumber to the company's furniture parts plant and hardwood flooring mill located on adjacent property in Warren.

GENESEE - NEZPERCE CLASH FOR GRID CROWN TONITE

The Genesee Bulldogs, unbeaten in eight games this season and with a four-year, 41-game unbeaten record puts it all on the line this Friday night as they host the strong Nezperce Indians in a contest to decide the championship of the District 2, Eight-man Football league

Nezperce is also undefeated in seven games this season and will easily be the toughest team the Bulldogs have faced this year.

Plagued By Injuries

As Genesee prepared for the most important game of the season, Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg was faced with two injuries that might be decisive factors in a close battle. Butch Green. the speedy Bulldog halfback, suffered a partial muscle separation earlier in the week during a practice session. The shoulder was painful at first but has responded to treatment. "We think he'll be all right," Kanikkeberg reported Thursday, "and we'll try to use him."

Bill Erickson, defensive halfback, came up with an ankle injury and has been unable to scrimmage with the team this week. Kanikkeberg said Erickson's ankle is much improved, but whether or not it will stand up under competition is another matter.

On the bright side, Kanikkeberg reported that Brad Airhart has fully recovered by a head injury suffered in the Kendrick game and is "looking real good." Airhart missed the Troy game because of the injury and saw limited action against Weippe.

Weippe Defeated 40-14

Last Friday the Bulldogs invaded the gridiron camp of the Weippe Gorillas and came home with their eighth win of the season after outscoring their hosts 40-14.

Mark Zenner put the Bulldogs out in front 6-0 early in the first quarter with a 30-yard run and the Genesee team was never behind. A pass from Doug Mayer to Butch Green made it 12-0. Touchdowns by Howard Jones, Dave Blume and Zenner in the second quarter put the Bulldogs well out of danger and the squad coasted home. Zenner scored again on a four-yard run in the third quarter to close out the Genesee touchdowns. Russ Storey converted for the extra point.

PROPOSITIONS REVEALED FOR SCHOOL ELECTION

The actual election propositions for the forthcoming school bond election were received this week from Foster and Marshall and are being published for the first of three times in this issue of the Genesee News. The bonding issue will determine the success or failure of a proposed building program in the public school system.

The election will be held Tuesday, November 23, at the hot lunch room of the local school. Two propositions will be offered to the qualified voters at this time. Proposition One will ask for approval to issue bonds in the amount not to exceed $625,000. With this money the school would then proceed with building which would result in the construction of five classrooms, music classrooms, home economic areas, and audio-visual and meeting rooms, gymnasium, kitchen, multi-purpose rooms, other remodeling and the construction of an indoor swimming pool.

Proposition Number Two would provide for construction of all of the above classrooms, gym, locker rooms, home economic area. kitchen, etc., but would exclude the swimming pool. The approval of this proposition would give the school the authorization to issue bonds in the amount of $525,000.

The complete wording of each of the two propositions may be found under "Legal Notices" on page three of this paper.

The election will be held from 1:00 p. m. until 9:00 p. m. in the hot lunch room

LOCAL STEELHEAD DERBY SET FOR NOVEMBER

A steelhead Derby for fishermen from the Genesee area will be held during the month of November, it was revealed this week by Larry Sorensen, president of the Genesee Civic Association, the group sponsoring the contest.

Beginning Monday, November 1 and continuing on through the month, the derby will give weekly prizes and three grand prizes. The weekly prize will be given for the entry that weighs closest to the average weight of all entries for that week. It was felt by the Derby Committee, that this method of determining the winner would tend to increase the number of persons participating in the derby.

At the end of the month the records will be examined and grand prizes will be awarded to the person bringing in the largest fish. the nearest average fish, and the smallest fish. All categories will be judged by weight.

DIVIDEND DECLARED

A dividend of 7 cents a share from regular investment income has been declared by directors of Composite Fund, Inc., payable October 31 to shareholders of record October 15. This is the 64th consecutive quarterly dividend paid by Composite Fund, an open-end mutual investment fund sponsored by Murphey Favre, Inc., Spokane Investment banking firm.

The Fund's directors also declared a distribution of 30 cents a share from realized capital gains, with the same payment and record dates. Added to the 12 cents a share distributed from realized capital gains January 31, this brings the amount paid to shareholders from this source during the past twelve months to 42 cents a share.

On October 15 net asset value of the Fund's shares was $9.99. Yancey said total net assets of Composite Fund during the year had increased 16 per cent—from $21,498,808 on October 16 last year to $25,203,843 this October 15.

Wright said many farmers have had to pay penalty charges which are mandatory by law for failure to make timely deposits of the tax.

PLANTING REMOTE LAKES by helicopter is the latest fish stocking technique used by the Idaho Fish and Game Department. Through a cooperative arrangement with the U. S. Forest Service, the Department subleases the whirlybirds at half price when they otherwise would be idle. Eighty-nine high mountain lakes were planted in this way recently in the Salmon, Big Lost, Little and Big Wood river drainages, the headwaters of the South Fork of the Boise and Trinity and Red Mountain areas.

HELICOPTER PLANTS FISH IN HIGH MOUNTAIN LAKES

Among the occupational risks of planting fish in Idaho's high mountain lakes is taking a chance on being accused of herding game animals away from hunters. For the first time this year the Idaho Fish and Game Department used a helicopter for this job. Previously, fixed wing aircraft, pack horses, and backpacking had been the means by which high mountain lakes were planted with fish. These methods are still being used where the use of 'copters cannot be economically justified.

Although the advantages of using helicopters have long been recognized, the expense involved in using them has been prohibitive until this year. The advantages includes greater safety and better accuracy in depositing the fish. For its fire fighting work the U. S. Forest Service maintains helicopters on call, and because fires do not occur constantly, the 'copters are often idle. By splitting the cost fifty-fifty with the Forest Service, the Idaho Fish and Game Department can afford to use the helicopters, and the Forest Service does not have to foot the entire bill for a 'copter that is not being used at the time.

According to Stacy Gebhards, state fisheries management supervisor, rainbow and cutthroat trout ranging in length from 1 to 1½ inches are used for mountain lake stocking. They were carried in three gallon plastic bags according to the formula: three quarts of water, 18 ounces of fish, and the remainder of the bag inflated with pure oxygen. Fish can be kept under these these conditions for 12 hours with no mortality.

Gebhards added that the best time of the year for planting the lakes is August through September. Lakes cannot be planted before this because most of them are not usually free from ice until July, and it is necessary to allow some time for growth of food organisms before the fish are planted. Because the hunting season opens early in the remote areas where these lakes are situated, hunters have observed the 'copters in the area and have jumped to the unbelievable conclusion that they are being used to herd game animals.

This year a total of 89 lakes were planted by helicopter. Because of a lack of natural reproduction it will be necessary to replant many of these lakes in the future, and the frequency of planting depends on the amount of fishing pressure. Consequently, some of the lakes will be planted again next year while some will not be planted again for four years. The lakes stocked during 1965 were located in the following areas: Salmon River drainage, Big Lost River drainage, Little Dood River drainage, Big Wood River drainage, South Fork of the Boise River drainage, Trinity Mountain area, and the Red Mountain area.

A total of 63 lakes were planted by horseback out of the McCall fish hatchery. Included among these were lakes in the following areas: Selway-Lochsa drainage, Seven Devils Mountain area, McCall area, and the Gospel Hill-Buffalo Hump-Powell area. As in the other areas, rainbow and cutthroat trout were planted in these lakes.

GENERAL FISHING SEASON CLOSES OCTOBER 31

Except for lowland lakes in the five northern Idaho Panhandle counties, and other specified waters managed as year-round fisheries throughout the state, the general trout season ends for the season on October 31. All areas of the state have some good fishing waters that are maintained as year-round fisheries for anglers who want to continue with rod and reel throughout the winter months. These rivers, streams, and reservoirs are listed by name in the 1965 fishing regulations.

Since 1900 the State of Idaho has maintained control over its wildlife resources with a state agency, the Department of Fish and Game.

SOCIAL SECURITY

The impact of the 1965 Social Security Amendments was clearly visible in the number of Social Security claims received during the month of September, 1965. The Lewiston Social Security office received 293 claims in September, 1965, compared with 100 claims during the same period in 1964.

Many of the new claims were filed by persons age 65 and over who were still working. These people filed applications to take advantage of hospital insurance and medical insurance under Social Security, according to James B. Myers, District Manager in Lewiston.

People age 65 and over who have not filed application for Social Security before must file an application for hospital and medical insurances before March, 31, 1966 to take advantage of the protection, Myers said.

Idaho's great underground water resources have been largely untapped because of the readily available surface water supplies. However, the state has two of the greatest ground water flows in the United States, the Rathdrum Prairie and the Upper Snake River Basin: and almost every other area of Idaho has more than enough ground water to meet future needs.

The cannibals stoked up the fire under the pot in which an explorer was being cooked.

The chief came up and asked the victim, "Do you have anything to say?"

"Yes," the explorer said, "I am smoking more now and enjoying it less."

Their cars having collided, Jock and Pat were surveying the situation. Jock offered Pat a drink. Pat drank and Jock returned the bottle to his pocket.

Pat: "Aren't you going to have a drink yourself?"

Jock: "Not until after the police have been here."

Way out West, a rugged hombre entered a saloon, accompanied by his wife and five-year-old son.

Our friend ordered two double shots of whiskey—no chasers.

"Hey, Pa," yelled his son "Ain't Ma drinkin'? "

Bulldogs Capture Grid Crown; Defeat Nezperce 27-12

Fighting back from an early 6-0 deficit, Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg and his Genesee High School Bulldogs overpowered the Nezperce HS Indians to win their fourth consecutive Eight Man Football championship and extend their unbeaten winning streak to 42 games as they won 27-12 on the home field Friday night.

Nezperce, undefeated in seven games this season, took the opening kickoff from the toe of Brad Airhart and moved 70 yards in 9 plays to score the first touchdown of the game. Nezperce failed to convert the extra point. The Genesee fans were stunned at the speed and power of the Indian attack while a large contingent of Nezperce people roared their happiness.

While the crowd of on-lookers may have been stunned the Bulldogs weren't as they took the return kickoff and marched back up the field in a drive that was culminated with Doug Mayer banging through guard and end from 12 yards out to score for the Genesee squad. Mayer also ran across the extra point and Genesee lead 7-6.

The second quarter saw the game settle into a bruising defensive contest with Nezperce threatening to score once inside the Genesee ten-yard line. It was at this point that the tide of the battle began to turn as the brilliant Bulldog forward wall held fast and forced Nezperce to give up the ball. When the half ended Genesee had possession of the ball and were marching back upfield.

After the scoreless second quarter, Genesee came back in the third period and moved well behind the smooth ball handling of quarterback Brad Airhart and durable, driving attack of halfback Doug Mayer. Mayer picked up a vital nine yards for the Bulldogs on a fourth down play deep in Nezperce territory and set the stage for Russ Storey to score from one-yard out a few plays later. Mayer converted this touchdown and Genesee had control of the game 14-6.

Mark Zenner made it 20-6 in the third after Genesee had recovered an Indian fumble. Zenner out-raced a group of would-be tacklers in a 55-yard ramble for the touchdown. The conversion try failed.

Genesee had things their own way in the final period as they were able to pick up yardage when they needed it. During the early and middle part of the final quarter Nezperce had control of the ball only four plays and gained a total of six yards. The final Genesee touchdown came on a pass from Airhart to end Dave Blume from six yards out. Airhart slipped over to score the extra point.

A fifteen-yard pass play scored for Nezperce late in the game to make it 27-12, but the Indian passing attack was handled without trouble by the Bulldog defense. Bill Erickson, playing with an injured ankle stopped the final Indian rally with a brilliant one-handed interception just minutes before the game ended.

Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg said this week there would be no post-season games this year. Offers had been received from Greenleaf Academy and from St. Johns but were refused because of the numerous injuries, and the fact that the games would have had to have been played too close to the start of the basketball season.

Pioneer Business Firm Changes Owners This Week

Follett Mercantile Company, a pioneer business in the Genesee community, passed from existence this week with the announcement that Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bennett had purchased the interest of Mahlon Follett, a nephew of the store's founders, and assumed management Monday. The store has been renamed Bennett's Grocery.

Follett Mercantile Company was founded in 1896 by Leon and Fred Follett, who came to this area in the early 1880's. The two brothers opened their business in a wooden-frame building brought over from Old Genesee. It had originally been a grocery store in Old Town and was operated by Levi's. This old building was later moved down in back of what is now Don's Service Center.

In 1898 the two brothers built the present store and it has remained basically unchanged since that date.

After some years Fred Follett sold out his interest in the firm to a man named English. Another man named Jackson also had an interest in the store until Mahlon returned from service in 1919 and began his association with the firm on the first day of June, 1919.

In his forty-six years as a groceryman in Genesee. Mr. Follett has seen merchandising methods and shopping habits change radically. He recalls most vividly that Saturday night was the big night in the grocery store. Almost all the farmers came into town that evening to do the week's shopping and "every body brought a 5-gallon kerosene can in to be filled," the retiring merchant remembers. In his early days with the store, Mahlon recalls that they didn't stock bakery bread, milk, butter, very little meat and practically no vegetables except what was locally in season.

In addition to operating the store, Mahlon has served with the School Board for forty years and is still the clerk of the board, a position he intends to retain. He is also a member of the Latah County Selective Service Board and has been an active worker in the old Merchants Association and the Genesee Civic Association. The Folletts have two children, George, Lewiston, and Dorothy. Moscow.

H. E. 'Bus' Bennett has been associated with Folletts since February 1, 1946 when he purchased the interest from Harry Hanson. Bus and Evelyn took over the operation of the store Monday. A work crew from Esser Construction company has completed putting a new room on the building and Bus said he plans other remodeling work in the future.

EDITORIAL

THE WORLD OF TOMORROW NEEDS YOUR SUPPORT TODAY

There is far more at stake Tuesday, November 23, than granting or denying the Trustees of Joint School District No. 282 the right to indebt taxpayers for a twenty-year period. We are being challenged, once again, to prove that local control over the education of our children is the best system in the world.

Americans have always claimed that they know better the type of education their children need than does the government or any bureau of self-styled experts. To prove this we have formed school districts, elected trustees, hired teachers, and levied taxes. Admiral Rickover to the contrary, it is generally accepted that we educate our young people better than any other nation.

Because we demand the right to determine our children's learning we also shoulder the burden of keeping abreast of the changing requirements of preparing young people to take their place in our society.

Education is never static. It is always changing because the world is ever changing. The last important improvement made in the physical structure of the local school system was in 1938. Consider the changes that have occurred since that date. We do not use 1938's farm machinery, drive 1938 vehicles, wear 1938-style clothes nor do we face a 1938 world. How can we possibly equip our children mentally and physically with a 1938 school system? The answer is, of course, we can't.

The days when one classroom could be used for English, mathematics, business, and science is gone. The ever-increasing complexity of modern teaching methods means specialization. Either a school system must have the facilities to fully utilize the skills of its faculty or it wastes much of its money and, worst yet, denies its students the learning they need to prepare for the future.

More children than ever before are crowding into colleges and universities and these institutions of higher learning have already raised their standards far above what they were a mere ten years ago. If our young people do not receive the necessary preparation for college from our secondary school system they face, at best, time-consuming remedial courses in college or, at worst, a possible rejection from the university of their choice because of inadequate scholastic background.

If a child decides not to go on to college his secondary or high school education becomes even more important because it is the last formal education he or she will receive and it is with this learning that they must face the world. The quality and depth of high school English, math and science and social studies must serve them on the job and in the world in which they live.

This, then, must be the most important factor in determining your support or rejection of the bond issue: Do we, as the people responsible for the future of our children, feel that our present school system is adequate or do we feel that better facilities are necessary to make certain these young people are fully prepared to cope with the world in which they live?

Regardless of how much this improvement is needed, no responsible person should be asked to buy something without knowing its cost. There are two propositions on the ballot. Proposition One includes the new classrooms plus a swimming pool. Proposition Two is the classrooms without the pool. Total cost of the first is $625,000—cost of the second is $525,000.

If Proposition One is approved a 10 mill levy would be added to the present 30 mill levy. If Proposition Two is approved a 8.5 mill levy would be added to the present 30 mills.

Just what do these total cost figures and mill levy figures mean to the average taxpayer in the way of increased taxation. According to Eugene Taylor, Latah County Assessor, a house in Genesee worth $10,000 is appraised for tax purposes at about $1,250. In this instance, the owner's share of retiring the bond issue would be $12.50 a year if they approve both the swimming pool and the new building, and $10.63 per year if they vote for just the building alone. The average assessed valuation of farm land in the District is about $30 per acre. If you are a farmer, your annual share for land owned would be 30 cents per acre under Proposition One and 25½ cents per acre under Proposition Two.

If the largest of these issues pass would Genesee be taxing more than any other school district in the county? The answer is a definite No. Even if the added 10 mills is used, Genesee's school taxes would be 2.5 mills lower than the next lowest levy in the county and 12 mills lower than the highest.

No one likes to increase taxes; Heavens knows we have enough of them. But for those who ask, "Is there anything worse than raising taxes?" we would, in this case, answer: Yes, much worse than raising taxes would be to send today's young people out into tomorrow's world with yesterday's education. war

Mrs. Martin Liberg of Coeur d'Alene, has sent a bread recipe and a new idea about yeast. She purchases her yeast by the pound and freezes it. The bread is much lighter. She suggests buying Baker's yeast. Her idea came from a friend on the coast who sold homemade bread very successfully.

Ethel Liberg's White Bread

Slice a fourth-inch slice of yeast off a one pound Baker's yeast cake. Freeze remainder of yeast until next time.
2 tablespoons salt
3 tablespoons shortening
1 cup dried milk
4 cups hot water
12 cups flour
2 tablespoons instant potatoes
Dissolve yeast in one-fourth cup water
Place rest of ingredients in bowl, stir in yeast and add flour gradually. Work flour in, knead well about 8 to 10 minutes. Let rise in greased bowl until doubled in bulk. Punch down, let rise until doubled. Divide into four or five portions. Let rest a few minutes. Shape into four large or five smaller loaves. Place in greased bread pans, let rise until double. Bake in hot oven 40 to 45 minutes. Bread is done if it shrinks from pan and sounds hollow when tapped with finger. Brush butter on top for softer crust.

Anyone having a good recipe which he or she would share with out readers is asked to write or call ATlas 5-3221 or Editor in care of Genesee News.

A California podiatrist says emotional tension may cause corns. Conversely, hell hath no fury like a woman corned!

A housewife called the local police station to report a skunk in her cellar. The officer receiving the call told the woman to make a trail of bread crumbs from the basement to the yard and to wait for the skunk to follow it outside. A little later the woman called back. "I did what you told me," she said, "Now I've got two skunks in my cellar."

A motorist cut in front of the big truck trailer unit. With screaming brakes the truck's driver swerved to avoid a collision. When he cooled off, he growled: "One of these days I'll let one of those guys have it. I'd have done it long ago, but gosh, you oughta see the reports you have to fill out!"

NOVEMBER

November gales are singing
A requiem for the rose;
November days are bringing
The cold of winter's snows.

Fair summer's song-birds vagre
To distant southlands sail;
Where moc-oranges wild and fra
Blorns in the haven-vale.

And so in life's November
When time has crowned us Gray,
When life's fast-dying ember
Must surely pass away.

God's love will still remember,
Will silence all our fears;
When snows of Life's November
Have crossed the Vale of Tears.

Banquet Honors Kanikkeberg, Genesee HS Football Team

Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg, his assistant Warren Bakes, and members of the 1965 Genesee football team were honored at a banquet Wednesday evening in the Firemen's Hall. The banquet was arranged by the Civic Association and parents of the football squad. Approximately 180 people were present to show their appreciation to the coaches and the team.

Following a delicious meal, Miss Kathy Kanikkeberg, daughter of Coach and Mrs. Kanikkeberg, presented a vocal solo, "It's a Grand Night for Singing," accompanied by Miss Karen Schooler on the piano.

Vernon Storey, who served as master of ceremonies during the evening, introduced Coach Kanikkeberg who received a standing ovation from the crowd. "It's fine to be here with all this fine support," Kanikkeberg responded. "Genesee is a great place to be," he told them. The coach then thanked his assistant. Warren Bakes, and introduced each member of the team and the cheerleaders and managers.

Lowell Messley, pastor of the Genesee Community Church, told of the childhood and educational background of Kanikkeberg and gave a resume of his coaching record at Culdesac, Troy, and Genesee. Forty-two candles, forming a "V" were lighted to represent the forty-two game, four-year football winning record the GHS Bulldogs have compiled under Kanikkeberg's coaching. In this record Genesee has scored a total of 1629 points while limiting their opponents to 570. "We're proud you're a part of the community," Rev. Messley said, and added, "Coach, we thank you."

Storey next introduced Larry Sorenson, president of the Genesee Civic Association, who thanked the committees who had worked on the banquet, and then presented guest speaker, Steve Musseau, head coach at the U. of I. with 25 pounds of Genesee sausage. In response to the gift Musseau said, "Thank you and we'll have all this for breakfast Sunday." A reference to his family of twelve children. Sorensen then presented Coach Kanikkeberg and Bakes with gift certificates from a men's clothing store in Lewiston.

"Coach of the Year"

Al Barackman, sports editor of the Daily Idahonian in Moscow, on behalf of his newspaper presented Ozzie with a plaque naming him "Coach of the Year."

Mrs. Maria Scharnhorst, wife of Mayor D. F. Scharnhorst, read an original poem. "To Our Coach." Robert Herman, chairman of the Civic Association's banquet committee was introduced next. Mr. Herman thanked all who worked to make the banquet a success, and on behalf of the community, presented Kanikkeberg with a monetary gift. Obviously overwhelmed by the recognition and gratitude of the people of Genesee, Kanikkeberg offered his thanks and then added, "I don't know what you're supposed to say at a time like this."

Kanikkeberg introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Coach Steve Musseau. Musseau added his own congratulations to the Genesee coach and told him, "You're probably one of only 20 or maybe 30 coaches in America to ever compile such a record."

Musseau's speech was entitled, "What It Takes To Be a Champion." In it he listed six things he felt is required to be a champion: 1. Spirit of Competition. 2. Coachability. 3. Desire to Excell. 4. Stick-to-itiveness. 5. Ability, and 6. Courage. The University coach gave many examples of champions. and the obstacles they had to surmount to become truly great.

In closing, Mark Zenner, a co-captain of the GHS football team, on behalf of the squad thanked both coaches, the team's parents and the public for their help and support this year.

Bob Herman, chairman of the banquet, was assisted by Mrs. Andy Zenner in planning the evening. Table decorations were made by a committee of mothers and each member of the team and the coaches received a picture of the 1965 football squad. Eight senior girls assisted at the tables and the meal was prepared by the staff of Bob's Cafe.

Thanks To All

Bob Herman said Thursday morning that he and his committee were very grateful to all who worked to make the banquet the success it was and he thanked the members of the public for their excellent support and cooperation.

THANKSGIVING

Dear God—We thank Thee for so many things,
For singing stars that burn with every dawn;
We thank Thee for the song the West wind sings,
For Christian faith to lead us on and on.

Plant in our hearts on this Thanksgivingtide,
Seeds that will burgeon—bloom, and nod and sway;
Of Thy great deathless love that must abide
When life—and death—and worlds have passed away. —Bert Gamble

Local Barber Treated Cruelly By Newspaper

Clarence Ivie. Genesee's youngest, most handsome tonsorial artist was treated rather unfairly by the News office last week. The trouble started when we printed some posters for the football banquet. On the posters we had that tickets were available at his shop, which they were, only we spelled his name IVY (you know, like the poison weed). Well, that was bad enough. but then in the local news column we had his name Clarence Pelfrey. Clarence's daughter, Jill, did marry Jim Pelfrey but that didn't give us the right to change his name, too.

Ordinarily we wouldn't be too upset about a thing like this but in a one barber town it just doesn't pay to have that barber angry with you, especially about the time he gets to trimming your neck with a straight-edge razor.

Evan's Steelie Wins 1st Weekly Prize

Sanford Evans, with a 12-pound, 12-ounce entry, won the first weekly prize in the Genesee Civic Associations annual steelhead derby. The derby runs throughout the month of November with a prize given each week for the fish closest to the average weight of all entries received during the seven-day period.

There were eight fish brought into Lee's Hardware Store to be registered for the derby. The total weight of the fish averaged slightly over 100 pounds. The steelhead weight ranged from a whooping 21 pounds down to a six-pound entry. Both of these were brought in by Snuffy Lettenmaier.

The eight steelhead entries for last week were:

Sanford Evans: 12 lbs., 12 ozs.
Emma Lou Harris: 10 lbs., 2 ozs.
Warren Bakes: 11 lbs., 12 ozs.
Marion Holben: 11 lbs., 12 ozs.
Snuffy Lettenmaier: 21 lbs.
Ed. Morken: 13 lbs., 3 ozs.
Dave Ackerman: 14 lbs.
Snuffy Lettenmaier: 6 lbs.

It must be noted that Evans is back at his winning ways again in this year's derby. Sanford won the grand prize last year for having brought in the biggest steelhead during the entire month.

The contest is open to all fishermen living within the Genesee shopping area.

More Entries Needed

The derby committee this week urged all local fishermen who are lucky enough to catch a steelhead to be sure to take a few extra minutes to come in and register their fish. There is no charge, nothing to buy, and a good chance that they could win a valuable prize.

HATCHERY WORK VARIED BESIDES FISH HAULING

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish-Game Department

There is a simple way of knowing how many fish are loaded into a tanker truck without counting each one.

Water temperature kept at 42 degrees inside a fish tank anesthetizes fish and they remain docile and inactive during hauling.

Rainbow trout eggs hatch in 24 days in 55 degree water; brook trout hatch in 35 days in the same water.

Newly hatched or "swim up fry" are kept in rearing tanks for about a month before being released into outside raceways for rearing to whatever planting size is needed.

Fish of the same age, like people, have a differential growth rate. Cannibalism among fish is reduced by frequent grading and sorting by size to prevent bigger trout in the same age class from eating the smaller ones.

Anyone can observe these activities and much more by visiting any of the 14 hatcheries operated around the state by the Idaho Fish and Game Department, where the public always is invited. Work does not come to a standstill in the fall of the year just because the fish planting trucks are more or less idled after having planted over a million pounds or nearly 20 million fish during the season.

Too much handling is damaging to fish. But the Department must keep accurate inventories of the numbers of fish produced and planted. To reduce the amount of fish handling that otherwise would be necessary, much of the work is done mechanically. Even fish loading from raceways into trucks is mechanized. Fish are netted manually and placed on an endless belt device that elevates them to the opening at the top of the tanker 15 feet or more above, where they drop a few inches into water of the same temperature as the raceway.

The amount of handling is reduced to a minimum through the use of the water displacement method to learn how many fish are loaded into the hauling units. Workers start with a predetermined amount of water in the hauling tanks. Fish are added. Their numbers are based on the weight of the water displaced by a pound of fish.

For example, the average is 1.02 lbs. of trout for one pound of water. Thus, the total number of pounds of water displaced, multiplied by 1.02, equals the number of pounds loaded. Each tank is calibrated to measure the water level in it at any point during the process. One of the large truck and trailer units carries a payload of 4,200 pounds of fish. Most of the hatchery-based distribution units haul 1000 pounds of catchable-size fish per load.

Rainbow trout in the wild spawn during the spring months, but selective breeding produced fall spawning rainbow many years ago.

Fingerlings from these fish have the winter months to grow under ideal conditions and reach a length of about four inches by planting time, which is more or less the same as spawning time for wild trout.

Catchable-sized fish, of course, are held longer in the hatcheries before release and quick response in somebody's creel. Four-inch fingerlings liberated in lakes and reservoirs add from one-half pound to a pound of growth within the first year of freedom, depending on the availability of food. Catchables are carried in hatchery raceways for a year or more and average three or four to the pound when released.

"Swim up fish" are infant fish, usually less than a week old, still carrying the egg yolk sac and absorbing it as food. As the sac disappears, the fry surface for food and become "swim ups" even though they may be young mackinaw lake trout, German brown, brook, rainbow or kokanee.

Feed for "swim up fry" is milled or ground to the consistency of flour. It is richer in protein than regular hatchery production fish feed. Some difficulty is found in starting infant fish to eat, and chow time during their first month occurs above every 45 minutes, or ten times per day. Small bellies can not hold much and must be filled more often. As they grow older, a point is reached when feeding is necessary only every other day.

Modern fish feed in Idaho is a dry diet, except at cold water stations where moist pellets are used. Cold water in northern Idaho hatcheries does not allow for the exclusive feeding of dry trout feeds. A similar condition exists at the salmon hatcheries operated by the Department. This type of pellet fish feed provides moisture, vitamins and minerals necessary for proper digestion of food at low temperatures. It takes only two and one-half pounds of moist pellets to produce one pound of fish compared to the five pounds of feed previously used, according to Paul Cuplin, state hatchery supervisor.

"All other fish feed formulas used in Idaho are dry," he adds. "They contain a complex formula of the proper amounts of proteins, vitamins, minerals, fats and carbohydrates for fast growth. The conversion rate here is 1.5 pounds per pound of fish.

Data covering the 1964-65 production year at the 14 Department hatcheries now is being compiled. The last fish year ended September 30. But annual and biennium figures for 1963 and 1964 show that 946,107 pounds, or 19,886,952 fsh were produced during 1962-63; and 945,886 pounds or 17,892,349 fish for 1963-64. The biennium totals are a whopping 1,891,993 pounds, or 37,779,301 fish.

Most people have seen the fish distribution trucks hauling fish over the state, and some have followed them to wet a line or two wherever trout are released. Thousands of people, particularly biology students and tourists, visit fish hatcheries every year. But few realize the amount of year-long work behind the glamour of these trucks, emblazoned across their sides with the words: "Idaho Fish and Game Department."

Cuisine Cum Laude

This week's cook is the artiste who fashioned the cake at the banquet honoring the football players and coaches on Wednesday evening. The cake, decorated as a football field, complete with yard-lines, players, goalposts, football and tiny gold trophys, was truly delightful to the eye as well as the palate. Mrs. Viola Scharnhorst, a caterer by hobby, lives on and manages a farm near Genesee. Her cakes are very much in demand for parties, weddings and the like. Her recipe today is a white cake that sounds very good.

BUTTERMILK WHITE CAKE

1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup Crisco
1½ teaspoons vanilla

Mrs. Scharnhorst has three married children, all residing in or near Genesee with their families. They are Mrs. Neal Kinyon, (Helen), Mrs. Bertle Spence, (Norma), and Carl L. She has nine grandchildren, including twin boys. Howard and Gordon Scharnhorst, Mrs. Scharnhorst, a member of St. Johns Lutheran church is secretary of the church, a Sunday School teacher of the Nursery Class, and incoming president of the Ladies' Group, the A. Musical Prodigy from Milwaukee Is National March of Dimes Child

Music hath charm for five-year-old Milwaukee miss, Lori Ann Wagner, National March of Dimes girl for 1966.

In fact, music charmed little Lori onto her feet when nothing else could. Her first steps were taken not toward her doting parents or a favorite cuddly toy. This youngster headed straight for the family piano. She was 2½ then and she's been tickling the ivory ever since.

Granted, Lori's first steps were taken later than most children's—and at greater cost, because she was born with a crippling spinal defect that paralyzed her legs.

There's nothing, though, that handicaps Lori in the music department. This little lady has a great ear and can often pick out a tune after hearing it just once. She also knows all the words to numerous songs including "Hello, Dolly" and "Supercalifragilistic-expialidocious." Despite her leg braces, she can take to the dance floor for an uninhibited frug, monkey or swim.

Music and show business are in Lori's blood. Her father, Henry (Skip) Wagner, is a bandleader. He plays the trumpet and 10 other instruments. The basement of the Wagner home resembles a musical instrument shop. Anytime she wants to, Lori can toot'e a trumpet, trombone, tuba or tenor saxophone; she can strum a guitar, mandolin, bass fiddle or banjo; she can beat out a rhythm on the drums, squeeze notes out of an accordion or warm up that grand piano which was her first love.

To complete Lori's theatrical genealogy, Skip's father was a vaudeville performer with a roller skating act. And two of Lori's aunts had a sister act as dancers. They still work together—operating a theatrical costume house, and both are active in March of Dimes special events.

Apart from the family tradition, Lori is something of a pro in her own right. As the Milwaukee County Poster Child for the March of Dimes last year, she was the star of the local campaign and made 12 television appearances. As the National March of Dimes Child for 1966, she might well call on the President at the White House, meet United States Senators and Congressmen, stage and screen personalities, and make public appearances all over the nation. None of it is likely to faze trouper Lori.

MUSICAL MISS fingers the keyboard with great ease, but walking is a more difficult matter for five-year-old Lori Wagner of Milwaukee, the 1966 National March of Dimes Child. She is a victim of the crippling birth defect of open spine (spina bifida).

Her parents, who will accompany her on a March of Dimes tour during January, are bracing themselves for all eventualities. Last year, when their strawberry-blonde bombshell was introduced to the mayor of a large city, she was asked if she knew who he was. "Sure. He's the big shot," responded Lori as her parents smiled weakly at the mayor.

Another time after meeting a British woman, Lori noted that "She had an English accident."

When she was nine days old, Lori had corrective surgery for her birth defect. This could not prevent paralysis but it did protect her against infection. She was fitted with leg braces when she was 18 months old, but it was another year before she could walk. It was then she headed for the piano. Doctors are hopeful that, in time, Lori may walk without the crutches and braces she now uses.

She has physical therapy exercises every day. Her mother, Mary Ellen, is trained by professionals to help out at home in every step of this important part of Lori's rehabilitation.

For the past two years, the Milwaukee County Chapter of the March of Dimes has helped finance Lori's medical care. One of their most zealous volunteers is Lori's mother, who heads the Mothers' March in her section of the city.

The Wagners have two younger children, both boys, who are healthy and very active.

Job Opportunities Continue to Be Better Than Last Year

Sixteen Latah County job seekers found gainful employment through the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment during the week just ended. Frank Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager said that this was twice the number placed during the corresponding week a year ago, even though it was three less than the 19 workers placed during the previous week. He said that there were 19 new jobs listed with the office during the week and 27 jobs remained unfilled at the end of the week. Among the women workers placed during the week were secretaries, a clerk typist, waitresses and domestic workers. Men found work as a carpenter, a tractor operator and laborers. At the end of the week, Hartstein said, there were jobs available for women who qualified as secretaries, bookkeepers, grocery checkers, x-ray technicians, salespeople, cooks and domestic workers. Men could find work through the Employment Office as loggers, a trailer court manager, a bartender, refrigeration mechanic, TV serviceman, carpenters, salesmen, a laboratory assistant, and a roofer. Continued good weather coupled with a sustained demand for goods and services throughout the area has resulted in exceptionally high employment in the area for this time of year, and had reduced unemployment 'way below normal levels for November.

Hartstein indicated that the number of persons continuing to claim Unemployment Insurance benefits declined again from the previous week. He said that this is quite unusual that unemployment would continue to decline at this time of year. While the decline is not large, it does indicate that conditions are quite good throughout the area. Six persons filed new claims during the week, and eight persons who were formerly filing claims returned to work. The number of persons continuing to receive benefits declined from 32 to 30. At this same time last year 22 persons filed new claims, bringing the total up from 69 to 80 for the corresponding week a year ago. Although all areas of the county share in the declining unemployment, the figures show that the immediate Moscow area has only 16 workers receiving benefits, compared with 17 a week ago, and 53 a year ago. Two workers in the Troy-Deary-Bovill area are receiving benefits, the same as last week, but less than one-fourth of the nine who were receiving benefits last year. The change is not too significant in the Potlatch area, where 21 persons were receiving benefits, 12 last week and 17 last year. One person is currently filing a claim for Unemployment Insurance from the Elk River area, the same as last week, and the same as for one year ago. Ideal weather conditions, Hartstein said, have enabled wood and construction work to continue on at a relatively good pace, maintaining high payrolls, and keeping unemployment in this county to a minimum.

GET PERMISSION EACH TIME PRIVATE PROPERTY ENTERED

The Idaho Fish and Game Department reminded sportsmen that upland game bird hunting will continue in many areas for weeks to come and that permission must be obtained each time private property is entered.

"It's not enough to visit with a farmer or rancher and receive permission to hunt on his place, and then return again and again to hunt without asking him again," said John R. Woodworth, department director. "All property owners like to know who is hunting on their places, and when."

He said that the season on Hungarian partridge and four species of quail ends November 14 in Benewah and Kootenai counties; Hungarian, chukar, and quail November 21 in southeastern counties; December 5 in Butte, Custer, and Lemhi counties; and December 31 in the rest of the state where these birds have season.

Forest grouse, blue, ruffed and spruce, seasons end November 14 except on Craig Mountain during the special deer season ending November 28.

Many Enrolling In Medicare Program

Enrollment of the Lewiston area's older people in the new medicare program indicates that an overwhelming majority of those on the Social Security rolls are choosing to participate in the voluntary medical insurance portion of the program, James B. Myers, Social Security district manager in Lewiston said this week.

The Social Security Administration has completed its mailing of information and medical insurance enrollment cards to 15½ million Social Security beneficiaries 65 or older, Myers reported.

"Nearly 9,000 beneficiaries in Asotin, Garfield, Clearwater, Idaho, Latah, Lewis, and Nez Perce counties are eligible for medicare coverage," Meyers said. "Throughout the country, more than 85 per cent of the people who have already returned the cards have chosen to take medical insurance coverage."

The medicare program set up under the 1965 Social Security amendments, provides two different kinds of health insurance benefits for practically all Americans 65 or older. The basic hospital plan will pay much of the cost of hospital and hospital-related expenses. A supplementary medical insurance is available on a voluntary basis at a cost of $3 a month. This plan helps to pay doctors' fees and certain other medical expenses. The two health insurance programs do not begin until July 1966, and no monthly premiums for medical insurance are due before then.

Social Security beneficiaries can sign up for medical insurance coverage just by checking 'YES' on the enrollment card, signing their name, and returning the card in the prepaid, addressed envelope which comes with it. The $3 monthly premium will be deducted from their benefit checks when the program starts in July.

A person should visit his Social Security office if he is over age 65 and has worked under Social Security but has never applied for benefits. An application for monthly Social Security benefits will also be an application for hospital insurance. Those who wish to enroll in the medical insurance program will be advised of what they must do.

People who will be 65 or over by Jan. 1, 1966 but have never worked under Social Security should visit a Social Security district office by March 31, 1966.

Pheasant season end November 14 in northern Idaho, November 21 in eastern Idaho, and December 5 in southwestern and southcentral parts of the state.

ASSOCIATED TAXPAYERS OF IDAHO

A pro and con discussion of the sales tax will be one of the features of the 10th annual Taxpayers Conference in Boise December 8.

Ralph J. Comstock, Jr., Boise, president of Associated Taxpayers of Idaho said other topics scheduled for the one-day program include administration of the sales tax, the impact of recently-enacted medicare legislation and a review of unemployment insurance bills pending in Congress.

The annual meeting of Associated Taxpayers of Idaho will be combined with the conference, Comstock, said. The public is welcome to attend the general sessions, he added.

Dr. Reuben A. Zubrow of the University of Colorado is to be the luncheon speaker. Zubrow, a professor of economics and a consultant to the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, will talk on 'The Concept of Federal-State Fiscal Relationships."

Idaho State government officials participating in the conference include Bill Child, commissioner of public assistance; Floyd West, tax collector, and K. M. Tipton, deputy tax collector in charge of sales tax administration.

Comstock said ample time would be allowed for discussion from the floor. "The subjects included on this conference program are vitally important and demand study and expression by all taxpayers," he added.

Civic Club Will Sponsor Christmas Party December 18

Members of the Genesee Civic Club, meeting at Carter's Wednesday noon, again decided to sponsor a Christmas party for youngsters of the Community to be held Saturday, December 18. Arrangements are being made to contact Santa Claus and ask him to visit with the boys and girls and bring a treat for them.

In other business the Association heard a report of the Steelhead Fishing Derby from chairman Judd Lee, who said the derby was now in progress and successful, but urged that more entries be registered.

Mrs. Marie Scharnhorst gave a brief report on the football banquet held last week, and also gave a financial report of the project.

President Larry Sorensen appointed Bob Bumgarner and Bill Roth to work with the Genesee JayCee Chapter on the decorating of the Business District for the Christmas holidays.

President Sorensen also reminded Association members that dues for the coming year are payable now. Dues for the Association have been set at five dollars for family and $10 per business firm. The added money from the businessmen is used to pay for the Christmas party for children.

After a general discussion, the Association voted unanimously to go on record as favoring the School Bond Issue.

Rev. William Bash suggested that possibly the Association might meet two times a month instead of the usual one. He said some people might even be in favor of a weekly meeting and asked the members to consider these possible changes.

GENESEE SCHOOL BOARD POLICY

The Genesee School District Board of Education at its last regular meeting on November 9, 1965, stated that in accepting any of the federal money from the Elementary and Secondary Act of 1965, Public Law 89-10, that any program started at the public school with the use of this money would be made available to all children of the school district. The school district would not make any special time available, but, students other than public school students could attend the program along with the public school students.

Legion Meeting Hear Boys, Girl Staters Report

By Larry Sorensen

The American Legion and the Ladies Auxiliary of Bielenberg-Schooler Post 58, held a joint dinner-meeting November 11. The highlight of the meeting were reports from the Girls State and Boys' State Delegates.

The general public was invited to attend the meeting and about 50 legionnaires, auxiliary and parents of the delegates attended.

Among the guests to attend this meeting was Mr. Dillon Wasson of Princeton, who is Department Chairman of the Boys State Committee of the American Legion.

The meeting was called to order by Commander Sorensen who introduced the distinguished guests, and Mrs. Hazel Schooler, president of the Legion Auxiliary, and Mrs. Marie Scharnhorst, chairman of the girls' state committee. Mrs. Scharnhorst introduced this year's girls' state delegate, Miss Sandra Lettenmaier. Miss Lettenmaier gave an excellent report of her activities while attending the convention at Caldwell.

Following Sandi's report, Russell Storey was introduced. Russell had been appointed to develop a program for the six boys state delegates to avoid repetition. Each boy chose one day of the week for his report with the chairman reporting on the overall Boys' State Movement and the lasting value he hoped they would all retain to use throughout their lives.

Dillon Wasson was then introduced. The delegates had told of the serious side of boys state during their reports but Mr. Wasson added some amusing sidelights to the convention such as the fact that nearly all of the shaving cream in Boise was purchased for a shaving cream fight. This was used in place of the old water fights which caused damage in past years.

Wasson also praised North Idaho boys on their behavior as well as the Legion Posts for choosing the kind of delegates we have sent over the past years. Dillon left the post with the thought and wish that debate teams could function with the same public support in the schools as is given athletic teams of today.

The Kricks were presented with a monetary gift.

Lloyd Esser Wins Steelhead Derby's Second Weekly Prize

Lloyd Esser, Genesee contractor, walked off with the Genesee Steelhead Derby's second week prize. A prize is given each week for the fish coming closest to the average weight of all entries received during the seven-day period. Esser's mighty steelhead tipped the scales at 3 pounds, 12½ ounces. The actual average weight figured out at 4 pounds, 1 oz. and Lloyd's fish came nearest this figure.

This was down considerably from last week when Sanford Evans won the prize with a fish weighing over 12 pounds.

Future of New School at Stake In Tuesday Bond Election

Free Transportation To and From Election

In an effort to encourage a large turn-out at the bond election Tuesday, November 23, members of the Genesee JayCee chapter will make free transportation to and from the polling place available to anyone wishing it, Bill Haxton, JayCee president said Thursday morning.

This service will operate between the hours of 1 and 5 p. m. Anyone desiring transportation to and from the polls is requested to call ATlas 5-3463.

Property owners in Genesee Joint School District No. 282 will be ask to approve a bond issue that would result in a remodeling and building program for the public school in a special bond election to be held Tuesday, November 23.

Two propositions will be on the ballot Tuesday, and eligible voters are asked to VOTE ON BOTH PROPOSITIONS. Proposition No. 1 on the ballot asks for approval to issue negotiable coupon bonds in an amount not to exceed $625,000 for the purpose of adding to and improving the Genesee elementary and high school building. If this proposition passes, five new classrooms, a music classroom, home economics area, and audio-visual and meeting room, kitchen, multi-purpose room, gymnasium, and locker rooms, and other alterations and improvements would be made. In addition an indoor swimming pool which would be used on a year-round basis by both the school and the community would be built. The cost of meeting expenses of this program would be met by levying a ten-mill tax over a period not to exceed twenty years.

Proposition No. 2 would provide for the same building and remodeling work, but the swimming pool would not be built. Cost of this project would be $525,000. Repayment of bonds issued to build under this proposition would be made by levying 8.5 mills for a twenty-year period.

The election will be held at the school lunch room between the hours of 1 p. m. and 9 p. m. Persons voting at the election must be qualified electors of the school district, and shall have been a bona fide resident for more than thirty days, and must in addition be either a taxpayer or the husband or wife of a taxpayer paying taxes upon real property (or who is obligated as an owner or as a contract purchaser to pay real property taxes) within the school district.

Vote on Both Propositions

People are requested to vote on both propositions, since a vote on Proposition No. 1 only will have no impact on the outcome of Proposition No. 2. For instance, if you are in favor of the entire improvement program, including the swimming pool, you should vote "Yes" on both propositions.

Superintendent of Schools Lester C. Diehl conducted a public hearing on the bond issue Tuesday night at the high school gym with approximately 80 people attending. Plans of the proposed building were shown and explained, and Diehl told the group why the school needs these added facilities. During a question and answer period following his talk, Diehl said a gymnasium is used for more than just basketball. 'It's in use almost every minute of the school day," he said, "Especially in poor weather when the younger children use it for recess periods and recreation."

In answer to another question as to when the new building would be ready for use if the issue passes, Diehl stated it would probably be ready by next fall; at least that was the school board's goal

He also stressed that absentee ballots were available for those who will be out-of-town on election day. Absentee ballots are available from the clerk of the school board, Mahlon Follett.

Only A 'Yes' Vote

The present educational facilities of the Genesee Public School system are inadequate to give the students who use these facilities the necessary training they need for future college, business or society-adjustment preparation.

The school lunch building and kitchen facilities used by the majority of children attending public school is outdated, poorly arranged, and even a health hazard on occasion.

The present gymnasium at Genesee High School is in poor condition, without adequate seating space and is too small to accommodate the flow of traffic which must use it from the beginning of the school day to the ending of the school day.

There is no space available for student guidance and counseling service, a part of secondary education that increases in importance with each passing year.

These are a few of the problems facing children, parents, the board of trustees, and the faculty of our school district. As the superintendent said at a public hearing Tuesday, these problems just didn't appear overnight. They have been accumulating for a number of years.

Only a modern, comprehensive building and remodeling program can relieve the situation and this is what the board of trustees is asking for at the Bond Election Tuesday. Only a Yes vote on both issues can solve the problems facing our school. A No vote won't solve anything. If you, as a voting taxpayer, oppose the bond issue you have the privilege of voting against Proposition No. 1 and No. 2. But before you cast a No ballot—Stop and Think—you can kill the bond issue with No votes but you can't make the problems go away. There will still be a shortage of classroom space; still a poor hot lunch room; still a worn-out gym; still a crowded school inadequate to properly educate your children.

Only a Yes vote can solve the problem; only a Yes vote can guarantee that the quality of education received by Genesee children is equal to any in the state. It is with this thought that we urge you to give approval to both Proposition No. 1 and No. 2 at the election Tuesday afternoon.

Employment Situation In Latah County

Job opportunities continue to be unseasonably plentiful in Latah County, according to a report made by Frank J. Hartstein, Manager of the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employmen today. Hartstein said that there were 24 new jobs listed with the office during the week, compared with 19 last week and only 8 during the same week a year ago. 22 workers were placed on jobs through the Moscow Employment office during the week, compared with 16 last week, and only 10 a year ago. Among the workers assisted in finding work were a truck driver, a logger, a warehouseman, cook, several laborers and domestic workers. At the end of the week there were a total of 33 jobs still open. Women qualified as a legal secretary, stenographer, grocery checker, cooks, waitresses, sales clerk, cocktail waitresses and domestic workers could find work here in Moscow now. Men could find work as carpenters, salesmen, auto mechanics, a refrigerator repairman, a draftsman, service station attendant, a lab assistant, bartender, dishwasher, and woods workers. Two farm couples are also needed, Hartstein added.

Although the number of persons filing claims for Unemployment Insurance is increasing slightly, the total number of workers receiving benefits is only 40, compared with 94 persons receiving jobless pay one year ago. The 40 represents an increase of 10 over the 30 who were filing claims last week. 11 persons filed new claims during the week. Last year 23 persons filed claims during the corresponding week. All areas of the county share in the increase over last week, and also show fewer unemployed workers, than during the same time last year. In the immediate Moscow area there are now 23 workers receiving benefits compared with 16 last week and 59 last year. There are 13 persons seeking jobless pay in the Potlatch area, compared with 11 a week ago, and 18 a year ago. Three persons are receiving checks in the Troy-Deary Bovill area, one more than last week, compared with 11 a year ago. One worker continues to claim benefits from the Elk River area. A year ago there were six.

HEAVY FLU EPIDEMIC PREDICTED THIS WINTER

When winter comes, can flu be far behind? Not this year, according to the nation's medical forecasters.

The prediction is for a heavy outbreak of influenza this year, based on the two-to-three year cycle typical of the disease, says Dr. Lynn Anderson of Pocatello, President of the Idaho Heart Association. The last major outbreaks in the United States generally were in 1962-63, and, on the West Coast, in 1963-64.

Because people with a heart or circulatory problem are likely to be more seriously affected than others if they develop flu, Dr. Anderson recommends that they check with the doctor on the advisability of vaccination. Immunization with flu vaccine has been recommended by public health authorities for a number of high risk groups. These groups include:

Persons of all ages suffering from chronic diseases, such as rheumatic heart disease, other heart and circulatory problems, respiratory ailments such as asthma and emphysema, and diabetes..

Persons in older age groups, Influenza deaths are disproportionately higher among those past 45, and much higher in the over-65 bracket.

Pregnant women.

Patients in nursing homes and chronic disease hospitals.

Vaccine developed for use this season offers protection against five different types of virus, all capable of causing influenza. While it will not insure complete immunity, vaccination has in past years produced a marked degree of protection for a large majority of those who received it.

Flu vaccine is administered in two doses: the first in the fall, the second about two months later. However, the interval can be reduced if an epidemic threatens. Those vaccinated within the past two years need only one booster dose this fall.

Whether an individual has a heart problem or not, Dr. Anderson suggests asking a doctor about influenza protection.

COMMISSION ESTABLISHES 1966 TROUT REGULATIONS

The 1966 "opening day" for general trout season next year will be June 4 except on lowland lakes in the five northern counties of the Panhandle where it will be April 30, the Idaho Fish and Game Dept. announced this week.

This is in accordance with a general policy laid down by the Commission two years ago that the general statewide fishing season opening day be tied to "the nearest Saturday to June 1."

Closing dates, bag limits and other fishing regulation details for 1966 are about the same as they are now. Printed regulations will be available for public distribution before the end of the year.

The general fishing season, including Panhandle rivers and streams. closes as usual October 31. Lakes in the region, however, remain open until November 30, 1965.

Commerical fishing for Kokanee or blueback salmon and whitefish on Lake Pend Oreille remain unchanged—January 1 to May 31, with the daily catch limited to 200 fish.

Noteworthy changes in general fishing regulations include the use of more than one pole, line and hooks when fishing through an opening broken or cut through ice, the classification of ling, a freshwater cod, to the list of game fish species, the use of artificial light to attract bullfrogs (but not trout or salmon), an dthe use of fish calling devices provided they do not have artifical lights. do not electrically shock fish or contain chumming material.

All these things heretofore have been illegal.

The Commission also opened the Snake River from the mouth of Pine creek up to 200 feet below the Oxbow Dam fishway to fishing for all species of fish, effective November 1. Formerly this was closed to salmon and steelhead fishing.

Other action included:

Expanded the area of the post season deer and elk hunt in eastern Latah county scheduled for November 29—December 19.

tice is hereby given that on the first Monday in December, 1965, towit; on Monday. the 6th day of December, 1965, at the City Hall in Genesee, Latah County, State of Idaho, an election will be held for the election of a commissioner from Sub-District No. 3, for a term of four (4) years, which election shall be open at 1:00 p. m. of said election day, and will continue until 7:00 p. m. of the same day.

1966 Vehicle License Plates On Sale Dec. 1

Latah County Assessor today announced that 1966 vehicle license plates would go on sale December 1, 1965 and that all vehicles must be licensed by January 18, 1966. He stated that there would be strict enforcement commencing January 19, 1966 for vehicles operating with expired license plates. The Commissioner of Law Enforcement has extended the registration time to January 18, 1966. This will allow expeditious handling of all applicants at the state and county level as well as providing at least one pay period after the holidays in order that all registrants may comply before the deadline authorized. The Assessor advised those persons who have purchased a new vehicle during the year and have not transferred the title to do so prior to registration as all vehicles except small two-wheel trailers must be titled prior to registration. The Assessor warned all passenger vehicle owners to register in the county of their residence. Failure to register in your home county is a violation of the Idaho registration act.

For County residents interested November 19 ends the period of time allowed for reserving special numbers. A branch outlet will again be maintained in Kendrick Saturday, December 4 and January 8 from 9 to 5 in Brock's Radio and T.V. Store.

On one of those sad TV shows where the person who's been having hard luck tells his woes and gets help, appeared a woman who said she wanted a bed for her baby.

"What are you using for a bed now?" asked the sympathetic MC.

"Oh," she replied, "I'm using the box the TV set came in."

Money will buy a dog but it won't buy the wag of his tail.

Stoop: 'That's a queer pair of socks you have on—one red and the other green."

Stupid: "Yeah, and the funny thing about it is that I've got another pair at home exactly like this one."

A drunk on the cruise stood looking through a porthole the entire afternoon and finally mumbled, "What a lousy television show."

Many a man has admired a handsomely tanned blonde, never guessing that her beauty was only skin dope.

Bulldogs Open Hoop Season Against Nezperce December 3

A successful football season behind them, Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg and his GHS athletes have turned their attention to basketball as they prepare for their first game of the season against the Nez Perce Indians Friday evening, December 3, on the Genesee hardwood.

Coach Kanikkeberg has five returning lettermen to form the nucleus of his 1965-66 basketball squad. Back this year are Frank Hillman, Dave Blume, Mark Zenner, Russell Storey, and Brad Airhart. In addition to the returning veterans, Kanikkeberg is carrying nine others on the varsity roster. These are Roger Brazier, Ron Zenner, Doug Mayer, David Schooler, Bob Scharnhorst, Butch Green, Art Hasfurther, Gary Herman, and Howard Jones.

Tallest among the Bulldog hopefuls this year is Dave Schooler, who stands 6 foot, 4 inches. Art Hasfurther is measured at 6 foot, one inch, while Brad Airhart and Gary Hermann each reach the even six-foot mark.

The Bulldogs will be facing a sixteen-game schedule this year—eight games at home and eight away. In addition they will participate in two invitational tournaments. The first will be a Latah County Invitational tourney in Moscow December 7 and 8 and an invitational tourney at St. John's, Washington, December 29-30.

Sixteen On "B" Squad

Sixteen young hopefuls have turned out for a spot on Coach Warren Bakes' "B" squad, including some tall freshmen who show promise of developing into top-notch players.

By Bill Roth

This has been a full, deeply satisfying week. Full because we have had to crowd four days work into three in order to print the paper early and enjoy the Thanksgiving holiday at home. For this reason we have omitted some news which might otherwise have appeared and may have made more than our usual allotment of errors.

The week was deeply satisfying, too, because of the approval given the school board to proceed with the remodeling and building project needed by the district. It must be admitted that there was a feeling of disappointment that the swimming pool issue failed to carry, but the people did approve the important, fundamental project and that is a source of pride that all can share and be grateful for at Thanksgiving time.

When one considers how much effort and trouble some school districts encountered in getting new educational facilities, it is, indeed, amazing how easily the issue carried in the Genesee area. The neighboring community of Kendrick tried several times before they finally approved a new school and some southern Idaho towns went to the polls as many as five times before gaining the necessary two-thirds vote.

The final credit for the new school must, of course, be given to the people. It was their interest, their understanding and their willingness to make financial sacrifice which resulted in the favorable vote. But if I had to single out any individual factor in the election issue it would have to be Les Diehl. I feel his intelligent, effective presentation of the proposal and the efforts he made in bringing the facts to the people played a great part in the success of the bond issue.

Genesee received its first taste of the coming winter season this week as snow fell for two hours Tuesday morning. The ground was too wet for the snow to lay, but it looked like Christmas for a time. After an unusually dry October and early November rain has figured prominently in the weather picture. We couldn't get the actual rainfall figures for the paper because our source of information, John Luedke, is in southern Idaho for the holiday.

P. E. Classes Perform At P. T. A. Meeting

The P. T. A. met Monday evening at the school. The program was presented by the boys and girls of the Jr. High P. E. classes. President Warren Bakes welcomed the audience. The show began with the Girls' P. E. class singing and doing a little dance. They did calisthenics, tumbling, etc. Connie Herman climbed the rope. The boys demonstrated many feats of skill, including rope climbing, hand stands, tumbling, and building a pyramid of human bodies. Dennis Adams, 7th grade, ran, climbed the rope and walked with his hands along the beams under the balcony. About 50 students participated. Mrs. Joan Butler, 7th grade teacher, introduced the finale, a native dance from the Philippines, called the "Ting-cling," where the students danced to music between four bamboo poles, manipulated by four students. The dance was well done and the entire program very well received.

The short business meeting was held in the Home Ec room. Minutes were read by Mrs. Ray Stout, secretary. Reports were given. Twenty-eight magazine subscriptions have been sold and saving stamp sales, conducted by Mrs. Don Springer, are going well.

Supt. Lester Diehl reminded the group of the bond election November 23, and introduced two student teachers, Mrs. Warren Bakes and Mrs. Robert Heimgartner.

There will be no meeting in December

The January meeting will be reports by the Bakes' on their trip to the National convention last May. State convention reports will also be given at that time.

Hostesses for the Monday's meeting were Chairman Mrs. Alton Anderson, and the mesdames Wm. Bash, Warren Bakes, James Busch, Lester Diehl, Forrest Durbin, Wilson Esser, and Everett Wishard.

ALTAR SOCIETY

The Altar Society met Wednesday in the all-purpose room at St. Mary's school. Mrs. Don Linehan presided at the meeting. Miss Clara Neyens read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Mrs. Elmor Kraut, treasurer, gave a report of the coffee hour and food sale held November 14. The Christmas sale for the St. Joseph's Childrens Home on November 28 was discussed, and anyone wishing to donate gifts are urged to do so.

Mrs. Kraut and Mrs. Linehan gave a report on the Bishops Visit to the U. S.

Members are reminded that more quilt blocks are needed, and anyone having any to donate, please turn them in to Mrs. Stanton Becker.

Hostesses were Mrs. Lawrence Broemeling and Mrs. Omer Kries.

Piroline Approved For Malting and Brewing

Malting Barley Improvement Association has announced that the 2-row variety Piroline has been classified as an acceptable malting and brewing variety for production in the malting barley growing areas of eastern Washington and northern Idaho, subject to acceptance by industry in future commercial production. In industry plant scale tests to date, Piroline has had malting and brewing properties comparable to Hanna when barley of suitable quality has been available. Piroline is not classed as an acceptable malting variety in other malting barley producing areas.

Classification of Piroline as acceptable for malting and brewing was based on pilot and plant scale tests to date. The future use of Piroline will depend on its performance in commercial malting and brewing, compared to other acceptable 2-row varieties.

Piroline barley, as is the case for all other malting varieties, must meet malting barley quality requirements established by industry. Piroline should be marketed in pure carlots (unmixed with other varieties) of bright, sound barley with a high per cent of plump kernels, acceptable protein content, a low percent of skinned and broken kernels and be free from injury by weathering, mold and frost. High, uniform vigorous germination is essential in malting barley. Kernels of Piroline are easily identified by the short hairs on the rachilla while all other widely grown 2-row varieties have long-haired rachillas.

Piroline is a European introduction which has been tester in western states for a number of years. This variety is well adapted to growing conditions in the Palouse and Camas Prairie areas where it has had a distinct grain yield advantage over Hanna. Piroline is resistant to lodging and is superior to Hanna in straw strength.

Twenty-Two Assisted In Finding Employment

Twenty-two Latah County workers were assisted in finding suitable employment through the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment during the past week. Frank Hartstein, Moscow Office manager said that this is the same number of workers as placed on jobs during the preceding week. He indicated that this is an unusually large number of workers to find work during any week at this time of the year. During the same week a year ago, only 9 workers found jobs in the area. Men were placed on jobs as carpenters, laborers, a farm hand, a greenchainman, a truck weigher, a gravel checker, and a sales representative. Women were placed as waitresses, a practical nurse, a seed sorter and domestic workers. Hartstein said that at the end of the week there were still a total of 28 jobs available. These range from legal secreatary, x-ray technician and stenographers for women to such jobs as a tractor operator, carpenters, and salesmen for men.

Wet weather at the end of last week caused some curtailments in logging operations in the county. According to Hartstein's report, one operator in particular laid off quite a few workers, many of whom filed new claims for Unemployment Insurance. As a result of this and other curtailments, both in the woods and some construction jobs, the number of workers claiming unemployment insurance increased during the week from 40 to 65. A total of 32 workers filed new claims during the week. During the same week a year ago there were 50 workers filing new claims and a total of 138 receiving benefits. Two years ago there were 207 workers receiving jobless pay. In the immediate Moscow area there are 28 workers currently filing claims, compared with 23 last week, and 80 at this time last year. In the Troy-Deary-Bovill area there are 16 workers requesting benefits, compared with 3 a week ago, and 24 last year. The number remains the same at Potlatch, 13 now, the same last week, and 25 last year. Seven workers from Elk River filed new claims, bringing the total up from 1 to 8 from last week. A year ago nine checks were being sent into the Elk River area.

Hartstein pointed out that most of the workers laid-off this past week are from the Troy-Deary-Bovill area and the Elk River area, but that many expect to return to work during the next week or two. In any event nearly all of these workers will return as soon as the ground freezes, and most will work all winter.

Although the number of persons requesting jobless pay will increase during the next few months, he said, it is not expected that the number will be as high at any time as it had been during either of the last two years.

School Building Bond Passes; Swimming Pool Issue Fails

Genesee voters went to the polls Tuesday, November 23, and approved a $525,000 bond issue for building and remodeling the public schools in Joint School District No. 282. In one of the largest elections ever held in the District, 395 people cast ballots and approved Proposition No. 2, 282 to 110 to give the proposal the necessary two-thirds majority to carry.

While approving the building and remodeling proposal, the voters failed to give the necessary two-thirds majority to Proposition No. 1 which would have included a $100,000 swimming pool in the building program. On this proposition, 226 voted Yes and 161 voted No. This gave the issue a 58.4% approval; six percent short of the needed majority.

In approving Proposition No. 2 the school board will now proceed to construct and equip five new classrooms, a home economics area, an audio-visual and meeting room, kitchen, multipurpose room, which will serve as a play area, auditorium, and hot lunch serving room, a new gymnasium and locker rooms and remodeling and improving other classrooms at the school.

The cost of this work will be met by selling bonds which will be redeemed within twenty years. Repayment of the bonds will be achieved by levying an 8.5 mill tax on real property within the district.

Now that this issue is approved, the architectural firm of Bellamy and Bratvold, Coeur d'Alene, will proceed with drawing up the final plans. When the plans and specifications are completed the bids on the construction work will go out to contractors in the area. In the mean while, Foster and Marshall Co. of Seattle, physical agents for the school district on this project will be looking for buyers for the $525,000 worth of bonds.

If present plans proceed on schedule, construction work on the building should start in the spring and the school and gymnasium completed by next fall.

Social Security Proof Of Age Rules Are Changed Says Manager

New rules involving proof of age for Social Security purposes have been published James B. Myers, District Manager of Social Security Administration, announced today.

Myers said that hereafter, whenever proof of one's age is required, that proof must show that date of birth or age must have been officially established before the individual's fifth birthday. Such proof can be a birth certificate, baptismal certificate, school record, or any document that was made before the individual was five years old.

In the rare instance when one cannot produce evidence of date of birth established before the fifth birthday, then the eleventh birthday may be substituted.

Myers went on to say that a delayed birth certificate will, in many instances not establish proof of age. These birth certificates have been issued by the State using as a basis for the issuance many types of evidence of age, that-although good, will not now meet the new criteria.

YOUR GAME DEPARTMENT

By John R. Woodworth, Director

Horsethief Basin Dam

One of the goal of the Five Point Program of the Idaho Fish and Game Department is the creation of new fishing and hunting potentials. The planned Horsethief Basin Dam, about eight miles east of Cascade, is such a project. Contractors interested in submitting bids for this work later toured the area this week on a "show me" trip.

Although bids will not be let until next spring for the 50x250 foot earth-filled dam structure across Horsethief Creek, the Basin will be snow-filled at that time and interested contractors had a look at the site this week. The dam will create an impoundment of about 270 surface acres. New fishing waters is the only purpose of the project, which will have no irrigation, flood control or hydroelectric uses.

One Feathered Wing

One fully feathered wing must be retained on each bird, whether upland species or migratory waterfowl, to help conservation officers identify the kind of bird and sex. In past year the Department asked that head, feet and wings be left unplucked at the option of hunters. Now the regulation is more specific and covers all species of game birds. One feathered wing must remain on the otherwise dressed bird until the hunter arrives home or at a commercial locker.

Regulations also require that any package or container in which game birds are transported must have the name and address of the shipper and consignee, and an accurate statement of the numbers and kinds of birds being shipped. This must be clearly and conspicuously marked on the outside of the package.

Deer On Roads

There was a 24 per cent increase in the number of deer killed by automobiles throughout the United States in 1 year—1964 over 1963. The figures, based on confirmed and estimated reports, are 70,000 deer killed on roads in 1963 and 88,000 in 1964. The 1964 totals include 64,402 reported kills in 31 states, and an additional estimated loss of 33,525 in 14 other states. The loss for all 50 states, base on these reported averages, is over 96,000 animals.

Motorists should remember that deer are on the move in the fall because they are mating and because many hunters are out. These conditions cause this type of accident to peak up during the fall months.

OFFICE OF TAX COLLECTOR

The State Tax Collector announced Thursday that there is a good deal of misconception as to the status of the sale of a business with respect to the Idaho Sales Tax Act. He advised that the Idaho Sales Tax Act provides that the 3% sales tax applies to the sale price of tangible personal property included in the sale of the business. Tangible personal property includes, but is not limited to, vehicles, equipment, office furniture, hotel and motel linen and supplies, furniture, counters, tables, chairs, etc. The purchaser pays the tax which is to be remitted by the seller.

Where a business is sold, the seller will be provided with form ST 127 by this office for the purpose of reporting the sale of the business. The sale of inventories or merchandise bought for resale is not subject to the sales tax. Only the sale of tangible personal property as defined in the Act is subject to the tax at the time the business is sold. This is not considered to be an occasional sale under Section 10 of the Act.

For an example: Seller sells a grocery business for $20,000. The purchase price is allocable as follows: $10,000 to inventory, $3,000 to accounts receivable, $3,000 to a delivery truck used in the business and $4,000 to fixtures such as display counters, cash registers, freezers, etc. The inventory is purchased for resale and is not subject to tax, the accounts receivable are intangible and not subject to tax. The part of the price allocable to the purchase of the truck and fixtures is taxable, thus, the seller will collect a tax of $210.000 computed at 3% on $7,000 which would be in this example, $4,000 for the fixtures and $3,000 for the delivery truck. On the sale of a business the successor is liable for any sales tax due.

New Dairy Center At University of Idaho

"The University of Idaho's new Dairy Science Center exemplifies the type of service that a people's university can give to the state—and we must never forget that we are a people's university—," said Dr. Ernest W. Hartung, president of the university, in giving the dedicatory address for the modern $475,000 center.

The president spoke in a classroom of the center which, instead of blackboard, has cow stanchions for judging stock. The ceremonies were held in conjunction with a three-day meeting of the Idaho Dairymen's association and affiliated organizations.

In a surprise tribute at the dedication ceremonies, the Idaho Dairymen's association, presented President Emeritus Donald R. Theophilus with a plaque honoring him for his contributions to the dairy industry of the state. Dr. Theophilus began his career at the university in 1927 as an association professor of dairying, later becoming head of the dairy department, then dean of college of agriculture.

Elvon Hampton, Genesee, a member of the Board of Regents, accepted the new dairy buildings on behalf of the board. "The University of Idaho has done much for agriculture through research," said Hampton. "Important to remember is that this research also has great benefits for non-farmers. Our whole state is better for it."

Annual 4-H Congress

The annual 4-H Congress doesn't begin until after Thanksgiving but state and national club leaders have already spent many hours preparing for it.

Mrs. Dorothy Hole, assistant state 4-H club leader at the University of Idaho, spent the past two weeks in Chicago as one of a 12-member committee charged with selecting the national 4-H award winners. The judging committee examined and evaluated records for each of 1,670 winners who are competing for national scholarships.

Winners of awards in the 31 different 4-H project areas and the special scholarship programs will be announced during National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago November 27 through December 4. Idaho 4-H'ers will be represented at the congress by a 27-member delegation

Although state trips are awarded on 4-H project work done by the club members the judges look for more than learned and applied skills, according to Mrs. Hole. The judges evaluate the concepts, ideas, principles and understandings that the club member has gained through 4-H experience. These are often revealed in the member's career record and achievement story.

"The overall growth in qualities of leadership, citizenship and personal development are considered in all areas of competition," Mrs. Hole said.

PICKING AND EATING WILD MUSHROOMS IS 'GARDEN ROULETTE'

PEOPLE who pick and eat wild mushrooms are playing a deadly "garden variety" of "Russian Roulette," warns the American Medical Association. Only a true expert can determine whether a wild mushroom is safe or poisonous, and even experts are sometimes fooled by varieties that look alike. The AMA says people who enjoy eating mushrooms should stick to commercially grown varieties.

CLAIMS of commercial cloud seeders that seeding can increase rainfall have been confirmed by a University of Chicago scientist. However, says Roscoe E. Braham, Jr., the local rainfall increases could possibly be at the expense of rain decrease in nearby areas. He bases his statements on the findings of a six-year study of cloud seeding over part of Missouri.

ANIMAL FOSSILS at least 720 million years old have been discovered by a Dartmouth College geological team in the Canadian Arctic. The fossils, older than any heretofore known to zoologists are expected to help clear up part of the mystery of how advanced forms of life evolved. In addition to finding the fossilized remains of small, clamlike creatures called brachipods, the geologists discovered fossilized tracks and trails made by burrowing wormlike animals and small tubes and spines of an as-yet-unknown species.

RIPENESS of fresh fruits and vegetables can now be determined rapidly and accurately by a new meter, according to the Department of Agriculture. The instrument, called a difference meter, also reveals hidden internal defects. The meter measures the amount of light penetrating food items. Unlike the "pinch" test utilized by millions of shoppers, the meter does not damage samples.

FARMERS INSURANCE GROUP
Symbol of Superior Service

Those who say you can't take it with you never saw a car packed for a vacation.

A Kansas farmer sat on the beach at Atlantic City watching a fair and very fat bather disporting herself in the surf. He knew nothing of tides and he did not notice that each succeeding wave came a little closer to his feet. At last an extra big wave splashed over his shoe tops.

"Hey, there!" he yelled at the fair, fat bather, "quit yer jumpin up and down! Do ye want to drown me?"

If you've given up on trying to get something open, tell a four-year-old not to touch it.

A supervisor in charge of complaints at the telephone company received a call from a new subscriber. "I have much more phone cord than I need and it gets in my way. I wonder if you would mind pulling in some of it from your end. I'll tell you when to stop."

Retriever Dog Are Urged

Good retriever dogs are valuable to bird hunters, whether of migratory waterfowl or pheasants. They give added comfort to a hunter and are a reliable conservation measure.

National studies show that about one in four ducks and geese that are shot never are retrieved. One reason is that only about 20 per cent of the waterfowl hunting parties use dogs. Moreover, the success ratio of pheasant hunters who use good dogs is higher than it is for those who do not. They not only flush more birds but also recover more cripples.

Karen Schooler, HS Senior, Named State Wheat Queen

Karen Schooler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schooler was named Idaho's 1965 Wheat Queen Tuesday night at a meeting of the Idaho Wheat Growers Association in Boise.

Miss Schooler, who had been chosen 1965 Nez Perce County Wheat Queen at the Nez Perce County Fair, is a 5-foot, 11-inch blonde-haired senior at Genesee High School.

Karen's father is a wheat farmer in the Genesee area. Her 500-word essay, written on some phase of wheat farming for the contest, was on the part the Northwest plays in the United States production of wheat in underdeveloped countries.

Karen is currently Miss Genesee and is on the church board of the Genesee Community Church. Last year she was junior class president. She is president of the school's Future Homemakers of America chapter; FHA district vice president and FHA state treasurer.

Dan Lorang Weds Spokane Girl

Peter D. Lorang took Janet Shollenberger of Spokane as his bride in a November 6th ceremony at St. Paschal's Catholic Church, Spokane. The Rev. Fr. Frederick Bromham officiated.

He is the son of Henry Lorang of Genesee and Mrs. Marguerite Lorang of Spokane. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex T. Shollenberger of Spokane.

The newlyweds will be "at home" to callers at 1603 Third Street, Lewiston. Phone No. is SH 3-4494.

For the ceremony in a floral setting of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums, the bride wore a gown of brocade, a veil of silk illusion and a pearl crown. The gown featured a neckline trim of sequins and a detachable train. She carried a bouquet of white and gold roses.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Stanley Sturgill, of Spokane, the bridegroom's sister, wore a gown of holly green satin brocade in ballerina length. Identically gowned were bridesmaids Chris Johnson and Karen Forsell, and junior bridesmaid Marilyn Shollenberger, the bride's sister, all of Spokane. They carried bouquets of autumn-colored chrysanthemums.

Dr. John Lorang of Tekoa was his brother's best man. Ushers were Robert Sturgill of Spokane and Harvey Schumacher of Uniontown.

The reception was held at the Orchard Avenue Community Club. Assisting were Miss Irene Shollenberg, Mrs. Lyle Barton and Mrs. Charles Shollenberg, aunts of the bride, and her cousin, Miss Aileen Shollenberg, all of Spokane.

Family Will Move To France

Mrs. Tom Jones (Mae Lorang) and son, Tommy, aged seven months came from Schenectady, N. Y. by plane to Spokane on November 17 where she was met by Dr. John Lorang for a short visit with members of the immediate family prior to leaving the United States on a consignment abroad.

Mr. Jones, who is a graduate from Colorado University in aeronautical engineering, is employed by General Electric, and his committment to go to France deals with working in the electronics field with the French scientists. They are scheduled to go by plane from New York on December 1 directly to Paris where his superiors will collaborate with him in designating an area more southerly situated as a permanent site during the two years that Mr. Jones expects to work there. They will live on French economy and will have to learn the French language necessary to exchange ideas. Mae will have to buy "desoeuf" instead of eggs, and "pommes de terre" instead of potatoes, and pain instead of bread—no end—her money will be centimes and francs but no foreigner will ever turn down a good old U. S. $1.00 greenback.

While Mae and Tommy were here they visited on the Lorang farm, in Lewiston, and Lapwai and in Tekoa, and in Opportunity, and Dan took them to the airport in Spokane for the return trip to Newark, New York and home at 1 a. m. on Thanksgiving morning, and the plane lifted off in swirling snow. Due to a layover in Chicago they did not get back to Schenectady until 1:15 p. m., but in time for a turkey dinner with husband, Tom and his sister and mother from Canada.

Mae phoned and said that the flight was just fine and routine.

Taking a new step, uttering a new word, is what people fear most.

Idaho Wheat Growers Back Sales Tax

Idaho wheat growers attending their ninth annual wheat conference overwhelmingly endorsed Idaho's new sales tax Tuesday, provided property taxes are not raised.

The stand was taken in a resolution adopted with just two dissenting votes at closing business sessions. The conference ended with a banquet Tuesday night.

Dick Smith, chief spokesman for the resolution, argued that wheat growers had a responsibility to prevent laying of sales tax opposition "at the feet of Idaho agriculture." He said that could be the result if wheat growers joined "another major agricultural group" in opposing the tax.

He mentioned no names, but one large group that has taken a stand against the tax is the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation.

The provision against raising property taxes referred to action by the 1965 Legislature reducing state property and income taxes while the sales tax is in effect.

In another resolution, the wheat growers registered "strenuous objection" to any action against improved rail service between Ayer, Washington and Lewiston, Idaho.

The growers also resolved to continue efforts to lower intermountain freight rates.

The conference was sponsored by the Idaho State Wheat Growers Association.

The growers re-elected Myron Sorenson of Malad as association president.

New officers elected were Ellis Odberg, Genesee, vice president and Ralph Bitters, Worley, secretary. Lyle Smith of Felt and Keith Amende of Albion were elected directors.

Attending from Genesee were Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Odberg, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Evans, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schooler.

Carmen Wedin Wins Final Weekly Prize In Steelhead Derby

The largest number of entries in a single week were recorded last week in the final seven days of the local Steelhead Derby. Twelve successful fishermen registered their catches at Lee's Store during the week and while none were very large, the number of entries prove that steelhead can be caught even during poor weather.

Mrs. Carmen Wedin's 4 pound, 7½ oz. steelhead won the weekly prize as the fish coming closest to the average weight of all twelve entries. Six of the last week's entries came from the Wedin family with Carmen's husband, Ray, entering one fish; Carmen, two; John, one, and Charles, two.

The average weight of the twelve steelhead figures out at 4 pounds, 4 ounces. Carmen's fish edged out her son John's steelhead by a slim one-half ounce to win the weekly prize.

The steelhead registered last week ranged from Snuffy Lettenmaier's two pound, 12 ounce fish up to Sid Evans' 6 pound, 12 ouncer.

The entries were:
Snuffy Lettenmaier: 2 lbs., 12 oz.
Lloyd Esser: 5 lbs., 4 oz.

Donation to Needy Family Brings Book to 7th Grade

Money collected from a bake sale and originally intended to finance future class parties by the seventh grade has been offered to a needy family in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, by members of the class.

The class first read of the plight of a family in Brazil who were faced with the task of raising triplets despite the fact that fourteen of their previous children had died of malnutrition and lack of medical care. Only two children survive in the family.

After reading the article in a Spokane paper, the children, through their teacher, Mrs. Joan Butler, ask the paper if they could get help in trying to see that the money was sent to the poor family. At present the paper and the Associated Press is trying to locate the family.

Mrs. Edith Williamson Robertson, who writes under the pen name Amy Russel, read what the children were trying to do and sent a letter to Mrs. Butler offering to send an autographed copy of one of her children's books to the class to show her admiration.

Second Snowfall Stays On Ground

The first snowfall of the winter season melted almost as rapidly as it hit the ground, but the second one arrived shortly afterwards and this time it stayed without melting and is, in fact, still with us.

Tuesday morning Genesee got the first of the winter snow, but the ground was wet and warm and the snow melted quickly. Wednesday evening the temperatures took a sudden dive and what had been rain throughout much of the day turned to snow shortly after 5 p. m. last week. By Thursday morning, Thanksgiving Day, Genesee and the surrounding area had about three inches of snow. The cold weather settled over the area and despite sunshine on several days since then, it has not been warm enough to melt the snow. The temperatures have been dropping to around 20 above at night and never getting much above 35 degrees during the daytime.

The sudden arrival of the first snow of the year brought theh usual number of traffic accidents on the area's highways, and several accidents were reported on the top of Lewiston's Spiral Highway, which was slick and icy. Roads are now said to be practically clear with only a few icy spots still remaining.

Hermann, Jr. Balloting in this election will be at City Hall in the Firemen's Building.

Bulldogs Open Basketball Season Against Nezperce

Pining his hopes on the speed rather than the height of his squad, Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg sends his 1965 Bulldog basketball team out against the NezPerce Indians this Friday night in the opening game of the season. The game will be played on the Genesee court with the preliminary game starting at 6:30 p. m.

Although the first game of the season hasn't been played yet, injuries are starting to plague the team. Brad Airhart, center and a returning letterman, is a doubtful starter for the Friday game due to a back injury. If Airhart is unable to play, Kanikkeberg indicated he will start Dave Schooler in the center slot. Other starters for the Nezperce game will be Dave Blume and Roger Brazier, forwards, and Frank Hillman and Doug Mayer, guards.

"We're going to try to go on speed," said Kanikkeberg, "and use the fast break when it's there." Of his first five players, only Schooler is over six foot tall. Dave measures 6-4. On defense Kanikkeberg said he would be using man-to-man defense and occasional a half-court press.

Tuesday afternoon the first string was in Moscow to practice scrimmage with the MHS Bears. There was no score kept, but the coach said he was well pleased with the way his team kept up with the taller, stronger Bear squad.

Tourney In Moscow

Next Tuesday and Wednesday, Genesee will participate in a two-day tournament held at Memorial gym at the University for Latah County teams. JOB PLACEMENT ACTIVITY IN COUNTY SLOWS DOWN

Winter weather and a long holiday finally caught up with the job activity in the Moscow Office of the Idaho Department of Employment. According to the report made by Frank Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager, only eight persons were placed on jobs during the week just ended. This is considerably less than the 22 persons who were helped in their job search during the previous week, and is somewhat below the 111 persons placed on jobs during the same week a year ago. Only 11 new jobs were listed with the Office during the short week. During the week before, 29 jobs came into the office. During the same week last year the number was also eleven. During the week jobs were found for a carpenter, a cook, a seed sorter, laborers and domestic workers. At the end of the week there were 27 jobs still open according to Hartstein's report. He said that men could find work as an accountant, a mechanical engineer, as salesmen, a laboratory technician, a TV repairman, an auto mechanic and a used car lot attendant. There were jobs available for women who qualified as secretaries, and other office workers, an X-ray technician, cooks, waitresses and domestic workers. With the coming of the winter season, Hartstein indicated that jobs would probably become less plentiful.

The curtailment of a second large logging operation and one small sawmill in the county resulted in a rise in the number of persons filing new claims for unemployment insurance Hartstein said. He indicated that most of the 35 persons who filed new claims for benefits this week were employees of these two organizations. One operation is expected to resume next week, but the other may be down for a considerable length of time. Although a total of 35 persons filed new claims for benefits, the total number claiming such allowance rose only by a net of 25. This was due to the fact that a number of workers returned to work or found new jobs. Many construction workers who had been idle for a week or two in the immediate Moscow area resumed employment during the week, reducing the number of unemployed workers in this area somewhat. Most of the increase, as well as most of the new claims were filed by workers in the Troy-Deary-Bovill area and in the Elk River area where the curtailments took place. At the end of the week there were a total of 90 workrs receiving benefits. This is an increase of 25 over the previous week. One year ago there were 162 workers receiving benefits, and two years ago the total was 228. The 26 persons receiving benefits in the immediate Moscow area compared with 28 last week and 81 a year ago. In the Troy-Deary-Bovill area there are 39 unemployed workers seeking benefits, a week ago there were 16, and last year 34. Fifteen checks are going into the Potlatch area compared with 13 a week ago, and 30 a year ago. From Elk River there were 10 workmen filing claims, while eight filed last week, and 17 during the corresponding week a year ago. Hartstein said that he felt the number of workers who are drawing unemployment insurance would increase somewhat during the next several weeks, but did not anticipate that there would be any more unemployed this year than last.

NO STRAIN! HOLES STRENGTHEN BARS

DRILLING HOLES in load-bearing metal bars that are grooved or notched to fit as parts of a larger structure can make them up to 70 per cent stronger, a Stanford University research team has discovered. All you have to do is drill the holes in the right places. The Stanford investigators found that the holes dedistribute strain over a wider region within the metal.

9 MORE BIGHORN SHEEP INTRODUCED IN OWYHEES

Nine California bighorn sheep arrived from British Columbia last Friday and were released in south-central Owyhee county at the site where 19 other animals of the same species were liberated 2 years ago, it was announced today by the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

Bighorn sheep ranged in the Owyhee Mountains during early mining days. Part of the Department's five-point program for the future is introduction of big game, birds, and fishes where they will fill unoccupied niches in existing habitat.

The initial introduction of bighorns of the California subspecies was made in October, 1963, when 19 animals were released on the East Fork of the Owyhee River. They were live-trapped from the Risk Creek range above the Fraser and Chilcotin rivers. Their range in British Columbia was similar to their new home in the Owyhees.

Department director, John R. Woodworth, said that native bighorns in the Owyhees became extinct many years ago because of a combination of factors, including scabes, which was introduced by domestic sheep, competition from livestock, and overshooting during the early mining era.

A yearling and new-born lamb were observed in a band of ten bighorns last spring, indicating that conditions in the Owyhees are satisfactory for reproduction. This is a primary concern when introducing a new species. Naturalization of exotic species never is considered successful unless the animals can maintain themselves by natural reproduction

CROWTHER RESERVOIR closed with the statewide general fishing season October 31, but many waters in southeastern Idaho and other parts of the state will remain open for year-round fishing. This is not a large body of water, only about 35 surface acres when full, but provides good trout angling during the season. Public access site shown here is at the south end and was developed as part of the Idaho Fish and Game Department's Five Point Program for the future. Crowther Reservoir is at the northern edge of the city limits of Mala

MacARTHUR DAM WORK NEARING COMPLETION

Enlargement of MacArthur Dam and reservoir located in the Boundary County Wildlife Management Area, is scheduled for completion early next year. Increasing the size of the reservoir behind the dam for the use of fish, waterfowl and to some extent for furbearers is part of the Idaho Fish and Game Department's Five Point Program. However, according to Ivol Sies, improvement supervisor, the job is a federal aid project with 75 per cent of the total coming from Pittman-Robertson funds and 25 per cent coming from Fish and Game Funds.

The original dam had deteriorated to the point where it was necessary to rebuild it. Consequently, it was decided to enlarge the dam and therefore to increase the surface area of the reservoir. The new structure is about 20 feet high and 500 feet long, or just double the size of the old dam. The reservoir surface area will increase from 200 acres to about 600 acres. The dam is an earth fill with a concrete spillway and fish ladder.

It is hoped that the additional surface area will attract greater numbers of waterfowl during migrations, and also increase local production. Before the reservoir was enlarged, up to 50 broods of ducklings were produced each year, and there was also some Canada goose production. In addition to increasing the amount of water available, islands are being constructed which should also increase waterfowl production.

In the past, no hunting has been allowed on the area, but now a portion of it may be opened to hunting. Almost every species of duck found in Idaho has been observed there with the largest percentage being mallards. In recent times as many as 5,7000 birds have been censused in only day on the reservoir.

Fishing is primarily for rainbow and brok trout. In the past, this has be considered a quality fishery. The D partment plans to continue stocking gerlings of both species.

Return Hunter Report Cards

Current hunter report card figures returned to the Department by November 2 compared with the same period ending October 30 last year, show the following statewide big game kill trends: Deer 5,624 compared with 6,452 animals reported last year, a decrease of about 13 per cent; elk 2,406 compared with 2,333 last year, an increase of about 3 per cent this year. These are not total statewide kill figures to date. They are the numbers of deer and elk reported killed on the hunter report cards received and tallied by November 2.

Indian sumer weather during most of the big game hunting season is believed to be responsible for the somewhat below average reported deer kill to date. Weather is the prime controlling factor in deer hunting but elk are taken whenever available.

Other comparable figures gleaned from hunter report cards for the same periods during 1964 and 1965 show 13 moose killed this year compared to 16 reported by October 30 last year; 38 bighorn sheep compared with 29 last year; 108 mountain goats compared with 75 last year; and 570 antelope this year compared with 518 last year.

DECEMBER

Powered by a boreal blast, the wild December
Comes storming in again to take command;
Comes in to quench the summer's dying ember
And scatter wilderness across the land.

And in this unkind wintertide transition
From which I try to hard to find release
I know that God will help me re-envision
The month that gave the world—

Genesee has many wives who work side by side with their husbands in the running of his business. And whether it is helping set a boy's broken arm, or getting medication ready for a baby, or just comforting an anxious person over the phone, Mrs. Spechko is ever willing and ready to help. She is also a good cook as testified by her

List of Genesee Men and Women In Armed Forces

Each year as the Christmas Holiday season approaches the News is often asked for addresses of various young people who are in the armed forces, in order that friends may remember them with cards and letters. We hope the list is completed but we realize that we may have, inadvertently, omitted some names and addresses. Bulldogs Win One, Lose Three Games

After winning their opening basketball game of the season last Friday evening the Genesee Bulldogs absorbed three straight losses in competition this week.

Last Friday night the Bulldogs packed a season full of thrills into one game as they came from behind to defeat the visiting Nezperce Indians 60-58. Saturday evening the GHS squad was handed their first loss of the season by the Lapwai Wildcats in a 70-46 rout.

Tuesday and Wednesday evening Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg took his Bulldog squad to Moscow to participate in the Latah County Invitational tournament. In their first game the Bulldogs went down to a 51-48 defeat administered by the Deary Mustangs and were then edged out Wednesday night by Troy in a 54-49 contest.

Nezperce Game a Thriller

After leading at the end of the first quarter the Bulldogs fell behind in their first game of the season against Nezperce Friday evening and then had to stage a rally that finally sent them ahead with only seconds remaining in the contest.

Nezperce moved out to a 5-0 lead early in the game before Doug Mayer finally dumped in the first Bulldog field goal. Genesee sliced away at the Indian lead and Frank Hillman's shot from the side of the court tied it at 8-all. Genesee was ahead 13-11 as the second quarter started. Genesee began fouling heavily and started throwing the ball away in the second quarter and Nezperce quickly capitalized on this lapse and took over the lead with three minutes remaining in the first half. In the third quarter Genesee outscored the Indians but were still trailing going into the final period 38-36.

Nezperce ran up three quick baskets in the opening minutes of the final quarter before Genesee called time-out. From that point on the Bulldogs began closing the scoring gap. With less than two minutes to play Ron Zenner brought the score to 56-55, then Nezperce scored to make it 58-55. Dave Schooler hit from the key for Genesee and the score was 58-57 Nezperce leading. With 32 seconds left Ron Zenner, with a half-jump, half-push shot from 8 foot off to the side put the Bulldogs in the lead 59-58. With only two seconds remaining Hillman dropped in a free throw to give Genesee their 60-58 victory.

Hillman paced all scorers with 28 points.

"B" Team Beaten 50-37

In the opening game of the evening a battling junior varsity team from Nezperce lead all the way in winning a 50-37 victory over the sluggish Genesee "B" squad. Nezperce was leading 23-18 at the halftime.

Lapwai Wins

Genesee managed to post an early lead but couldn't hold off the Lapwai Wildcats Saturday night as the Lapwai team came back to lead 28-22 at the halftime and then staged an overpowering scoring spree in the final half to demolish the Bulldogs 70-46 on the Lapwai court. Lapwai kept control on the backboards and used a good defense which baffled the GHS quintet.

Frank Hillman again paced the Genesee scoring threat with 17 points that evening.

In the preliminary game the Genesee B team was defeated 55-41.

Deary Edges Bulldogs

Tuesday evening the Bulldogs met Deary's Mustangs in the third game of the opening round of play in the Latah County Invitational Tourney at Memorial gym. In a close game the Mustangs finally edged out the Bulldogs 51-48.

Genesee had a slight 13-12 lead at the end of the first quarter but the Deary team had taken it away and were ahead 29-24 at halftime. The contest remained close during the final half.

Troy Wins 54-49

Despite the 27-point effort by Brad Airhart, the GHS Bulldogs dropped their second game of the Latah Tourney Wednesday night as they were defeated by Troy's Trojans 54-49. Troy was enjoying a 33-22 halftime advantage which the Bulldogs couldn't overcome.

Three District Units Elected Commissioners

Three district taxing units in the Genesee area held elections last Monday, December 6, and elected a total of four commissioners for terms of four years each. Elections were held in the Genesee-Rimrock Highway District, The Genesee Community Cemetery Maintenance District, and the Genesee Rural Fire Protection District.

Voter interest in the three elections could be termed 'average.' The number of ballots cast in the Monday election was down from the previous voting in 1963 but was still well above the number usually cast.

Rice and Morken Chosen

Eli Rice and Ed. Morken were re-elected in voting for two commissioners from Sub-Districts 1 and 2 of the Genesee Community Cemetery Maintenance District. Morken was re-elected from Sub-District 1, receiving 35 votes, and Rice from Sub-District No. 2, receiving 39 votes. Four write-in votes were cast.

BIG BOOSTER CAN LAND EARTH MEN ON MARS BY '85

STROKES occur when the blood supply to a part of the brain is reduced or cut off, according to the American Medical Association. The blood supply can be interrupted by a clot or hemorrage. When this occurs, the nerve cells of the brain are deprived of blood and the part of the body they control cannot function normally. The result may be weakness or paralysis, difficulty in speaking or loss of memory.

NEW USES are being discovered for the gas you exhale, carbon monoxide. A growing application for CO2 is that of hardening foundry molds, says Cardox, Chicago. The gas is injected into a sand mix, producing, at lower cost and less time, molds that can turn out castings as good as shell-molded ones.

SLUSH HYDROGEN, a mixture of solid and liquid hydrogen, is being investigated by National Bureau of Standards scientists for use as a potential advanced rocket fuel. Tt has two advantages as a fuel for sophisticated rocket engines: it requires less storage space and has a considerably longer storage time than the present liquid hydrogen fuel.

Letters to the Editor

Lewiston, Idaho
3 December 1965

Genesee News
Genesee, Idaho

Gentlemen:

Plans for a 'LETTERS FROM HOME' campaign in support of our Armed Forces confronting the Communists in Viet Nam and elsewhere around the Globe were announced at the December 2, 1965 lodge meeting by Dean B. Brown Exalted Ruler of Lewiston Elks Lodge No. 986.

"We are urging all of our members to write personal letters to the men of this community serving in the Armed Forces especially those fighting in Viet Nam. We are going to let them know that we understand why they are fighting there and what they are fighting for, and that we appreciate the sacrifice they are making and are behind them 100 per cent," the Elks head explained.

He added that more than 2,000 Elks Lodges were joining in the nation-wide campaign to reaction to the recent organized wave of agitation in support of our withdrawal from Viet Nam. The "LETTERS FROM HOME" campaign is sponsored by the Elks National Service Commission and was begun at the suggestion of R. Leonard Bush of Englewood, California, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Fraternity.

"All patriotic Americans are disturbed by the organized efforts to create dissension in our country and to weaken the morale of our Armed Forces," Exalted Ruler Dean Brown said. "We, too hate war, but we do not want peace at the price of surrender to Communist tyranny, a price that many of the leaders of the so-called pacifist demonstrations appear to welcome. It has been wonderful to see the overwhelming repulation of these sentiments by our fighting men, our college students and by our people generally. But we cannot go back to sleep. We must continue to work for unity at home and for close support of, and unity with, our men who are compelled by Communist aggresion to fight for PEACE and FREEDOM."

Exalted Ruler Dean B. Brown emphasized that the 'LETTERS FROM HOME' campaign was not limited to Elks only. He invited all residents of the community to join in the program. "The best morale booster is letters from the home town people, and the more we can get to cooperate in this campaign, the more effective it will be in letting our sons, brothers, and fathers know we are for and with them."

He said the lodge hoped to get a complete list of names of men from this area serving with the Armed Forces along with their APO addresses, and added that this information would be made available to all who wished to support the campaign.

The Elks will canvass their members at subsequent Lodge meetings and thru the bulletin, but we would like to enlist your cooperation in making an appeal to the public to send in names and addresses of men in the services so that they can be supplied to the Elks and others wishing to support this campaign.

Sincerely Yours
Wilber W. Perry PER

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO NEWS

Changes in United States foreign policy, particularly as it relates to Viet Nam, can be expected within a few months, Dean Boyd A. Martin of the University of Idaho College of Letters and Science said today.

Dr. Martin made this prediction upon his return to Idaho from a White House Conference on International Cooperation He attended the four-day meeting of 1,250 leaders of the private segment in society at the request of resident Johnson.

Active discussion on most of the 29 topics indicated to Dr. Martin that there could be marked alterations in foreign policy, not only in Southeast Asia, but also in Western Europe.

The assemblage, "one of the largest aggregations of high-level talent ever," was asked by the resident to take a look at foreign policy and international cooperation, then criticize it, evaluate it, and make recommendations for improvement.

"The President made it clear that we were to criticize everything and anything. There were no attempts to throttle any lines of discussion," said Dr. Martin.

The Washington conference is the culmination of International Cooperation Year set up a year ago by President Johnson. At that time, a National Citizens' Commission was established to designate teams to work in 29 areas of international cooperation. The printed reports, prepared by 'some of the greatest experts in the world today,' were presented last week.

Dr. Martin, a professor of political science at the University of Idaho worked on four of the 29 teams—"population," "education and training," peaceful settlement of disputes," and "peacekeeping operations."

YOUR GAME DEPARTMENT

By John R. Woodworth, Director
Idaho Fish-Game Department

BIG GAME FINALE

Following is a list of game management units that will remain open during part of December:

Unit 8 (southern part) will continue post-season hunting for both elk and deer through December 19, unit 27 (private pilots should check weather and snow depth conditions, preferably from State Department of Aeronautics) through December 12 for both elk and deer, units 33 and 35 (south fork of Payette) Decem her 12 for deer only unless a quota of 1,800 deer has been checked out earlier, and units 59, 64, 66, 67, 74 and 76.

Two deer may be bagged in unit 27 by using the regular and Middle Fork tags. Other two-deer units, calling for regular and extra tags, are units 64, 66, 67 and 76. General snow storms around the state have improved hunting conditions.

Return Report Cards

As the last hunting seasons for 1965 draw to a close, Idaho nimrods were urged today to fill out and return the report card portions of their tags for elk ,deer, moose, mountain goat, bighorn sheep and antelope which are used as part of the base for estimating big game harvests throughout the state.

Final figures will not be available until the year end hunter questionnaire results have been processed. But hunters are reminded now while the hunts are still fresh in mind.

Even though the final totals are not available yet the results from thousands of report cards already received, plus information gathered at check stations around the state, indicate some general trends of this year's big game harvest. The early deer and elk hunts in September started out under good conditions with hunter success well above last year But the return of summer weather thru October and early November was a disadvantage to hunters.

Incomplete hunter card reports for these two game species now is running well below last year for deer and some what below last year for elk. However, mountain goat, bighorn sheep, antelope and moose harvests appear to be significantly above last year.

Whitefish Fishing Fun

Wintertime angling, especially for whitefish, is catching on in many parts of the state. Averaging about a foot long, whitefish are found in schools in deep pools at this time of year. They are fun to catch and good food fish for the locker, either fresh-frozen or smoked. Many anglers use stoneflies obtained from riffles as bait. A white grub now on the market also is found in plant gall, the swollen, woody growth of golden rod, sunflower, milk weed and other common plants.

In northern Idaho, whitefish are abundant in the St. Joe, Coeur d'Alene and Clearwater rivers. Other popular waters in season include the South Fork of the Boise between Anderson Ranch Dam and Danskin Crek and the South Fork of the Payette River from Banks unstream, and many eastern Idaho streams. Regulations should be checked for open fishing seasons because some of these do not begin until January 1.

SIXTH YEAR OF BOOM AHEAD; PACE OF PROGRESS QUICKENS

Here comes 1966 and one thing is certain: The pace of progress quickens as the country heads deeper into the second half of the 60's. There's almost most total agreement on a sixth year of boom. In fact, Changing Times, the Kiplinger magazine, reports there is less concern over a possible drop in business than at any time in the past 15 years.

Looking at what this will mean to the individual, Changing Times suggests these for the months ahead:

TAXES WILL BE UP. At least you'll pay more—despite lower levies on income this year. Social security tax is the culprit. Even employees and self-employed in the lower income brackets will feel the higher taxes, though in lesser amounts.

Price boosts can be expected and mortgage interest rates which are pushing upward could increase a quarter to a half percent in a few months, according to Changing Times.

Christmas trade is expected to inflate credit to a level 'far above anything in the past" and the biggest source of cost it expansion is the automobile. People owe almost 32 billion dollars for the purchase of new cars alone, and there's no sign of a slow-down.

SNOW SURVEY NEWS RELEASE

The first of the monthly snow surveys on Moscow Mountain was completed on December 4 by Frederick Chugg and Bob Walter of the Soil Conservation Service. The three hour trip was accomplished under cloudy skies and above freezing temperatures. Heavy, wet snow on slopes made chains required for the trip up and along the top ridge of the mountain where three of the five snow courses are located. The two remaining courses are on Howard Creek which heads at West Twin and Chumarine Creek which heads at Moscow Mountain. Both of these creeks are part of the South Fork of the Palouse River Drainage.

The Moscow Mountain Course at 4100 feet is the highest course measured by the SCS on Moscow Mountain. The depth on the course was 9.6 inches which is 4.2 inches less than that recorded last year for this date. The records show that this year is 1.9 inches below the last eight year average of 11.5 inches. The water content is about the same as last year with 2 inches. The high-low snow depths for this date are 24.9 inches in 1961 and a low of just a "trace" in '59.

The remaining four courses are East Twin with 6 inches of snow, The water content is between 20 and 30 percent of the snow depth. All the snow courses are about 3 to 5 inches less snow that last year for this date.

The snow survey will continue on the first of each month through May 1, 1966 and is conducted through the cooperative efforts of the University of Idaho Engineering Experiment Station, the Soil Conservation Service, and the Latah Soil Conservation District Supervisors.

PERMIT CARDS NEEDED FOR 3 FISH SPECIES

About 600 vendors selling licenses and distributing other materials throughout the state for the Idaho Fish and Game Department will be supplied with 1966 fishing licenses, a packet of necessary forms and permit cards for salmon, steelhead, and sturgeon, it was announced today.

The first shipment of these materials will be mailed about December 10 to vendors who have ordered them, according to the license division in the Boise office of the Department.

"Effective January 1, 1966, anglers must have fishing licenses and permit cards for salmon, steelhead and sturgeon before fishing for these species," says Kay Belnap, chief of business administration. "He must record in the spaces provided the month and date of catch for any salmon, steelhead or sturgeon, and the name of the stream where it was taken."

Persons exempted from the fishing license requirements, such as youngsters under 14 years of age, and senior citizens 70 years of age and older who have free fishing permits, still must get salmon, steelhead and sturgeon permit cards. There is no charge.

Cuisine Cum Laude

Christmas is two weeks from tomorrow. Many of you have been baking for weeks, but for many others, these last days will be the busiest, especially in the kitchen. And even in this day of frozen dinner, pre-cooked foods and dishwashers, the cook is still the important person who knows how to make a really "old-fashioned Christmas" in this jet age. One of our recipes today is an old one, handed down to Mrs. William Posivio from her mother, Mrs. August Johnson. Mrs. Johnson, was born in Sweden, but came to the States as a child. This fruit cake was a family favorite and is not as expensive to make as some. Mrs. Posivio calls it

EVERLASTING FRUIT CAKE

2 cups brown sugar
¾ cup butter
1 cup cold coffee
2 cups flour
1 cup raisins
1 cup chopped nutmeats
½ cup cut up dates
3 eggs
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon allspice
one-fourth teaspoon salt

Beat eggs. Cream butter and sugar. Mix together. Add coffee, sifted dry ingredients, raisins, nutmeats and dates. Bake in a greased loaf pan at 350 degrees. Bake until done, (check to see when cake pulls away from the sides of pan). This cake may be baked in individual loaf pans. It has great keeping qualities. Mrs. Posivio's other recipe is for

CHINESE CHEWS

¾ cup sifted flour
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
one-fourth teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped dates
1 cup walnuts (chopped)
3 eggs, well-beaten

Sift dry ingredients. Mix with dates and nuts, then eggs. Spread in greased 10½ by 15½ pan and bake in slow oven (300 degrees) about 30 minutes. When partially cooled, cut in squares and roll in powdered sugar. Makes 3 dozen.

Mrs. Posivio and her husband, Bill live north of Genesee on a farm. She is a member of the Genesee Community Church, the Guild, and is a trustee of the Pythian Sisters.

Did you hear about the Genesee man who called his girl Stadium for there seemed to be room for everyone in her heart?

Hotel Manager: "Did you find any towels in that sailor's suitcase?"

Detective: "No, but I found a chambermaid in his grip."

A widely-traveled sportsman was boring guests with a series of long talks about his exploits. "While I was wandering through the deserted village, I spotted a leopard," he said.

"That does it," said one of the listeners. "I always knew he was a liar. Leopards come that way."

Karen Crowned 'Miss Idaho Wheat'

Blonde, 5-foot, 11-inch Miss Karen Schooler, a Genesee High School senior, was crowned Miss Idaho Wheat - 1966 at the Idaho State Wheat Growers conference in Boise.

Miss Schooler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Schooler, won the title and a $100 Savings bond over four other finalists representing their home districts in the state contest. She was crowned by Idaho Congressman Compton I. White, D-Idaho, who addressed the final banquet of the 9th annual conference.

Other finalists for the honor included Miss Ginny Lee Harris, Ririe; Miss Sharon Amende, Albion; Miss Geraldine King, Weston, and Miss Patty Thompson, Moscow.

Mrs. Theresa Grieser, 92, Daughter of Pioneer Area Family Passes Dec. 15

Mrs. Theresa Grieser, 92, the widow of Adolph Grieser, a farmer of the Genesee area, died at St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday, December 15 of the infirmities of age.

Mrs. Grieser had remained active until last February, when she suffered a heart attack. Her health failed rapidly after that and she had spent some time at the hospital and in a nursing home. She was living at her home at Bryden Avenue when she took a turn for the worse Tuesday and went back to the hospital.

She was born Theresa Baumgartner, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Baumgartner, on September 12, 1873, in New Ulm, Minnesota. The family traveled by train to Riparia in the fall of 1881, came from there to Lewiston by riverboat and from Lewiston traveled by wagon to a homestead at Thornereek, a farming community between Genesee and Uniontown.

She was married to Adolph Grieser on November 26, 1891, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Genesee.

The couple operated the farm at Thorncreek until 1925, when they moved to Moscow. Mr. and Mrs. Grieser returned to the farm in 1933. He died March 5, 1941, and in 1959, Mrs. Grieser and their son, Lawrence, moved to Lewiston Orchards.

Mrs. Grieser was active in the Altar Society of Our Lady of Lourdes Church in Lewiston and was a charter member of the Thorncreek Altar Society. When the family lived at Thorncreek, Mrs. Grieser made altar linens and cared for the church, which for many years was served once a week by a priest who arrived on horseback Saturday night. She and her husband provided meals and lodging for the priests.

Two children, Mrs. Joe Broemeling and Theodore Grieser, preceded Mrs. Grieser in death and eight others survive. They are Mrs. Lawrence (Kathryn) Hattrup, of Uniontown; Mrs. Louise Busch of Colton; Lawrence Grieser at the Lewiston Orchards home; Mrs. Frank (Mary) Kambitsch of Lewiston; Martin Grieser and Mrs. Elmer (Emaline) Krier, both of Genesee; Edward Grieser of Lenore, and Mrs. Ernest (Edna) Dugan of Seattle.

Also surviving are 30 grandchildren, 90 great-grandchildren, and three great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Grieser was the last survivor of nine brothers and sisters and of the eight brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law of her husband's family.

Rosary will be recited at St. Mary's Catholic Church at Genesee Friday evening at 7:30 p. m. and a funeral mass will be celebrated Saturday at 10 a. m. at St. Mary's Church with the Rev. Fr. B. C. McCarthy officiating. Burial will be at St. Mary's Cemetery at Genesee under the direction of Shorts Chapel in Moscow.

Pallbearers will be grandsons: Chris Busch, Pullman; Gary Krier, Lewiston; Don Hattrup and John Elmen, Spokane; Howard Broemeling and Orrin Kambitsch, Genesee.

Christmas Concert At GHS Gym

The Genesee School Music Department will present their annual Christmas concert on Friday, December 17, at 8:00 p. m. in the gym. Admission price will be 50c for adults, 35c for high school, 25c for grades, and pre-schoolers will be admitted free.

Christmas Vacation

School will be dismissed for Christmas vacation at 1:30 on December 23rd and will start again on January 3rd.

School Lunch Menu Will Appear One Week Late

Beginning next week and continuing hereafter the menus at the Genesee Hot Lunch program will be one week late; that, is the menus listed will have been served during the previous week. This is being done at the request of the school. It seems that children are picking their meals in advance from the printed menu. On one certain day the school may be serving something that especially appeals to the children and 160 students may be at the hot lunch—the next day the menu may not be so appealing to childish tastes and only half the previous day's total may eat at school. This situation has made it difficult for the school and the cooks to plan how much food to prepare each day and it is hoped that this new system of listing meals will help the situation.

Colder Weather

Temperatures in the Genesee area took a nose-dive this week as the thermometer readings slipped down to their lowest point of the winter season. On Monday and Tuesday evening an unofficial low of 18 above was recorded in the town and Wednesday it is doubtful that the temperature ever rose above freezing throughout the day.

The cold weather started to settle in Saturday and members of the JayCees and Civic Association who decorated the streets found a cold wind made their work uncomfortable.

A slight skift of snow fell around midday Sunday and the cold weather allowed it to remain all week. Fog also moved in Sunday night and froze on the highways making it very slick for drivers Monday morning. The thin layer of ice has since disappeared and driving conditions are good once again.

Santa Claus To Visit Genesee Saturday Afternoon

Word was received from the North Pole that Santa Claus will be in Genesee this Saturday afternoon, December 16 to visit with all the good little boys and girls who wish to see him before Christmas. Santa will come to town at 2:00 p. m. and will be in front of the Community Christmas tree between The Electric Shop and Springer's Insurance building.

The Genesee Civic Association contacted Santa Claus and asked him to come to Genesee for their annual party for the little children. This will give all the good boys and girls a chance to see and talk to Santa.

Treats For Everyone

Santa also said that he would have treats of candy, nuts, and oranges for all the children who come to see him Saturday afternoon.

Because it is near Christmas and he doesn't want to make his reindeer tired, Santa has asked the Genesee Firemen to bring him into town on their new, red fire truck. Santa said he will be in Genesee at 2:00 o'clock sharp and hopes to see all the boys and girls at the party.

Streets Decorated

Members of the Genesee Civic Association and the Genesee JayCees worked Saturday to decorate main street with Christmas lights. The lights are starting to show signs of old-age and until they are replaced it will be necessary to limit stringing the lights just in the main intersection and on the Community Christmas Tree.

Home Decoration Contest Announced

At the regular monthly meeting of the Genesee Civic Club held Wednesday noon at the Genesee Cafe, the Association announced they would sponsor a home decoration contest for the best outside decorations in a Christmas holiday theme. The contest will be open to all families within Genesee School District. In previous years the contest was limited to within the city limits.

Larry Sorensen, president of the Civic group said prizes of fifteen, ten, and five dollars would be awarded to the best three homes as judged by the ladies of the Genesee Garden Club.

Since this year's contest embraces a much larger area, the Civic Association has asked that those people who wish to have their homes entered in the contest, especially those in the country to phone either Bob Bumgarner or Larry Sorensen. This will assure that no homes will be missed in the judging.

Under rules adopted several years ago, those homes who have won first prizes during the last three years will be ineligible to be awarded first prize this year.

Winners names will be announced after the holidays.

Lee Opens New Basement Store

"A good turn-out" was the way Judd Lee described the grand opening day at his newly-remodeled basement store in the bottom of Genesee Hardware Co. For the past several months Judd has been in the process of pouring a new floor, building new side walls and ceilings, and cutting an entrance into the hardware basement.

With remodeling complete he moved his stock from the Department Store into the new area. The basement now carries his stock of clothing, toys, footwear, jewelry, and other incidentals. Access to the new department store was made by cutting a stairway in the center of the hardware store.

The basement also includes a new ladies rest room and a fitting room. The basement provides over 1300 square feet of space for the department store.

Door prizes of gift certificates were awarded and free coffee and cookies were served all day. Judd also said he will provide free coffee for customers during the holiday season.

The gift certificate door prizes were awarded to: Mrs. Ewald Lettenmaier, 1st; Mrs. Gene Woodruff, 2nd, and Mrs. W. O. Borgen, 3rd.

In the Culdesac game Genesee was enjoying a comfortable 35-25 halftime advantage then saw it dwindle away until the Wolves finally went ahead with three minutes left in the final quarter. The lead changed hands several times in those final minutes until Glen Baldwin dropped a lay-in through the hoop with 18 seconds left in the game.

Pastor Bash told the young people that the prophecies and their fulfillment should give greater clarity of the purpose of Christ's coming and greater confidence to the Christian in his Lord and Savior.

Federal Land Bank Association of Moscow

As a service to farmers and ranchers, the Federal Land Bank Association of Moscow will join in a national program of public information keyed to the 50th anniversary of the Federal Land Bank System. The Moscow Association, along with some 700 other associations and the Federal Land Banks, will carry out the program to make all Americans aware of the importance of agriculture. Gainford Mix, the local Association manager, stated that large segments of the country's population, such as city dwellers, factory workers and the like, are not aware of the vital part which agricultural people take in adding to the basic strength of the nation.

With agriculture moving into a "challenging new era of development for rural America and of production for the world wide battle against hunger," it becomes increasingly necessary that the true, complete story of agricultural progress and potentials be told, he said.

Mix noted that numerous meetings, commemorative activities and special anniversary events will get underway in the coming months, leading up to the nation-wide 50th Anniversary in 1967. The 12 Federal Land Banks were established in 1917 under the Farm Loan Act.

The 50th Anniversary comes as a timely opportunity, Mix commented to translate the accomplishments of agriculture into terms of interest for all people everywhere. He said the Federal Land Bank Association of Moscow welcomes the chance to take part in this effort.

Speaking Of Taxes

We often hear the expression "The changing society of America." Each of us has our own definition, so we are thinking our own thoughts when the expression is used instead of the thoughts or definition of the other fellow. The cliche "The changing society of America" is usually used in discussions to demonstrate that we as individuals and governments must change in order to keep pace.

The changing society certainly does demand that we as individuals and as governments, federal, state and local, must change with it to keep pace.

Our educational system must change. We still need reading, writing and arithmetic. However, the knowledge which has been developed in the last 20 years or less demands different emphasis and methods to keep pace. The change in our society demands that each individual must acquire a better education This, coupled with the increase in population, increases the emphasis on education, both in curriculum and facility.

Our changing society with respect to mobility demands improved transportation facilities, both public and private. It is necessary for governments to build better and safer highways and street systems to cope with the changing transportation demands.

It means changes in the operation of our farms, in business methods, in merchandising, in fact the total commercial pattern. Our changing society demands improved community health standards. It means a change from outdoor plumbing to indoor plumbing with septic tanks and then to elaborate necessary community sewer systems and sewer treatment plants to keep our communities free of pollution.

It means community health standards regarding the prevention of the spread of disease among the communities and areas of our nation.

It has been said, and properly so, that as our society changes it becomes more complex; and as it increases in complexity it demands that government, because of its authority is called upon to expand its services because government represents the community at the call of the citizens of the community.

To some, the changing society, calls for minor changes in religious codes, but certainly no changes in the basic religious concepts, the belief in the Superior Being.

Similarly, the demand for expanded government services does not require that the original concepts of our American way of life must be discarded or eroded. It does not mean centralization of government authority at the federal level of government. It does not mean the loss of individual rights and the decay of individual responsibility and morality. It does not mean expansion of the socialistic attitudes any more than the minor changes in religious codes mean a change in the belief in the Superior Being.

Some are promoting the expansion of centralized government authority; some are resisting it; many are accepting the take-over without desiring it by not realizing that in the name of changing society these otherwise unacceptable programs are being promoted.

We need a definition of the expression "Our changing society" each time it is used.

HUNTER REPORT CARDS REVEAL SLOW HARVEST

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish and Game Department

Shirt sleeve weather that lingered in the hills of Idaho through October and on into November this year is being held as a key factor behind a downward trend now showing up in the statewide elk and deer kill figures. Nobody can be sure yet, but based on about 10,000 returned hunter report cards (or about one-third the total number finally returned by late January) the decrease appears real enough that it is not expected to go away.

The overall trends now showing up likely will remain when the calculated harvest figures are put together early next year—both deer and elk kills down from last year's 67,000 deer and 13,800 elk.

Exact percentages are not attempted at this stage of evaluating hunter success—or the lack of it—during the 1965 big game seasons. One reason is that hunter report cards must be collated with results from the annual hunter questionnaire to determine final harvest figures.

The questionnaire will be sent out in January, as usual, to a sampling of five per cent of all persons who bought Idaho hunting licenses in 1965 and the number of returned hunter report cards is expected to triple by that time.

The hunter report cards are important to game management in other ways, too. Beyond their use in estimating the kills by units, they give detailed information about all the management units that are open on a day-to-day basis; location of kills within the units and how they change as seasons progress and some herds migrate as hunting pressure shifts; how sex ratio of animals taken changes from early to late part of open season.

Now that most elk and deer hunting is over for the year, residents and non-residents alike are urged to fill out and return their report cards promptly, whether they bagged big game or not.

Information from checking stations on age, sex and condition of animals brought out is used to augment data supplied by report cards and questionnaire. Such stations operated at strategic points throughout Idaho this year. Some of the locations were at Sage Junction, Pine, Mores Creek, Banks, Kooskia, South Fork of the Clearwater and near Wallace.

But this is the partial story written by some 10,000 men and women who returned hunter report cards to the Boise office of the Idaho Fish and Game Department by the end of November. The final chapters will be added by other nimrods who are just winding up their 1965 hunts to clean out pockets of hunting jackets, bureau drawers or where ever unreturned report cards may be, and return them when filled out in the proper spaces. It is just as important for unsuccessful hunters to make their reports as it is for those who bagged game. The cards provide the best means of appraising local big game harvests and hunting pressure—information vitally needed in making plans for the 1966 seasons.

Simple arithmetic based on cards received for the period ending November 30 indicate that deer and elk hunting was slow and that the total harvest, compared to last year, may be down when all the facts are known. Game managers who have worked with such preliminary figures for years say that it is too early to tell for sure, but that there are clues that deer harvesting especially will be down somewhat from other years throughout the Intermountain West. The weather will be held chiefly responsible if that proves to be the case, but slumps do occur in all game species over a period of years.

QUAIL, PARTRIDGE SHOOTING STILL OPEN IN 24 COUNTIES

Quail and partridge shooting, always good Yuletime sport, continues through December 31 in 24 Idaho counties including Latah and Nezperce, John Woodworth, director of the Fish and Game Department reminded this week.

Quail hunting seldom attracts many shooters, although the birds often are locally abundant. Hunting along creeks in the foothills of Elmore, Owyhee and Nezperce counties can bring bags of mountain quail. Valley quail are found along the Snake River bottom from Twin Falls to Lewiston; Bobwhite in Gem, Payette and Canyon counties.

Hungarian partridges are chunky birds, smaller than any grouse species but larger than quail. They are found throughout the agricultural areas and grassy foothill areas of the state. In southwestern Idaho, they have been found more than 50 miles from the nearest cultivated lands.

Chukars thrive in rough, semi-arid regions where cheat grass is abundant. Some low bushes or shrubs are needed for loafing and escape cover. They are larger than the Hungarian but smaller than the pheasant.

WASHINGTON WATER POWER

The Washington Water Power Company announced today that it will make the first payment of its 1965 Idaho property tax bill on or before December 20. J. P. Buckley, WWP Tax Agent, said that the utility's first-half payment will amount to $935,230 with payments going to ten Idaho counties.

The WWP spokesman said that the company's total Idaho property tax bill for 1965 will be $1,870,423.

Tax payments by counties, (with the 1965 total in parenthesis: Latah, $81,-945 ($163,690).

THE MYSTERY OF CHRISTMAS

'Midst the oncoming of winter's holidays
The firmament in its splendrous glory,
With twinkling stars to respond in mute displays,
Lends an air of ceremonious solemnity.

By magic one's mind drifts out like cosmic rays
In quest of tranquility and peace of mind
That one might dwell on—"What doth the scene portray?"
"What revelations in store for all mankind?"

As we delve into the age-old chronicles
And decipher many cryptic words of yore,
We see two lone figures in uncharted lands
Silently wending their way without decor.

From Nazareth their adopted habitat,
On to Palestine again to be enrolled.
And, as they in darkness groped at journey's end,
'Tis here we note a holy mystery unfold.

Mary and Joseph had become well aware
That suitable housing must now soon be found
For an angel had unto Mary declared,
That she was "The Mother of God" to be crowned.

So when they reached the capitol city's gate
And applied for stable and housing within
The guard stood fast—"We cannot accommodate"—
So they sought refuge in a dank caves stabling.

Among dumb beasts, their rest became a haven—
A solace to weary hearts—and anodyne
To a Virgin's aching breast; for there and then
This crude inlet had become a Holy Shrine.

The guiding star had come to rest from the East
And quires of angels from Heaven's Heights did sing—
As Joseph and Mary adored on bended knees—
"Hosanna In the Highest To Our New Born King."

SONS OF DOCTORS AND LAWYERS LEAN TO DAD'S LINE OF WORK

SONS of doctors and lawyers tend to follow in their father's footsteps more so than do young men whose fathers are employed in other ocupations. Some 23 per cent of the Harvard class of 1965 plan careers in the same field as their fathers. Of lawyer's sons, 41 per cent plan to enter law; and 38 per cent of doctor's sons plan careers in medicine. However, only three per cent of the sons of men in government and politics are attracted to their father's calling.

ACNE, the scourge of adolescents, may be helped as much by a cordial relation with the family doctor as by treatment with antibiotics, according to Dr. Robert G. Crouse, University of Miami School of medicine. "It is clear that sympathtic and enthusiastic physician-patient relationships can markedly benefit many acne patients even in the absence of active medication," he said. In his investigation, he said, he found "no significant statistical differences" in results between those patients actually given antibiotics and those 'treated' with placebos (non-medicated pills given for psychological effect).

CHEMICAL STERILIZATION of insect pests is a promising method of controlling or eradicating them, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In laboratory tests designed to control pink bollworms, only four eggs hatched of 13,622 eggs laid by females that had mated with chemically sterilized males. Later tests showed that even these four probably would not have developed into normal adults. Egg laying by treated females mated to untreated females was reduced considerably, but six per cent of those eggs hatched.

Gymnastic and Basic Movement Classes, January 8

U. of Idaho—A series of six Saturday morning classes in gymnastics and basic movement will be offered to Moscow area boys and girls by the University of Idaho, it was announced by instructors Lucy McIver and Rosemary Aten, of the women's physical department.

Boys, age 8 to 12, and girls, age 13 and 14, will have an opportunity to learn and participate in creative dance, vaulting, balance beam, trampoline, ropes, and tumbling. Classes will begin January 8, at 9 a. m.

Enrollment will be on a first-come basis for each age group, the instructors noted. To insure a place in the class, preregistration must be made by calling the University between Dec. 20-24.

"A parent may call University extension 6273 between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m., Dec. 20-24 and make arrangements for his child to be enrolled in one of the three age groups," Miss Aten noted.

"A $5 fee is being asked of each child attending," she added.

Several citations were issued during November for the unlawful possession of moose in various parts of Idaho, bringing the total number of violations for the month to 203, it was announced today.

Altogether, there were 85 big game violations in a number of categories, including no license, no season, closed season, over limit, illegal gear and unlawful procedure, according to Hawley Hill, chief of conservation enforcement.

Of the 203 violators apprehended, 47 were charged with license irregularities, 22 resident fishing offenses, 6 anadromous fish, 85 big game, 27 upland birds and small game, 10 migratory birds, 2 fur bearers and other wild animals, and 4 miscellaneous and inanimate.

Although large, the number of violations citied was smaller than the 254 during November a year ago. The total for 1965 so far is 1,223, compared with 1,296 last year for the same period.

RETURN REPORT CARDS

It's that time of year again. Big game hunting is virtually over and all report cards still on hand should be filled out and returned whether game was killed or not. They provide direct information for appraising local harvests and hunting pressure—information which is needed in making plans for the 1966 seasons.

The Idaho Fish and Game commission is scheduled to meet sometime in January to establish opening dates for 1966 hunting seasons. Analysis of report card data will provide the Commission with first-hand information from the hunters themselves. The system, now in its ninth year, already has proved its value to game management workers by accumulating a backlog of harvest data from every unit in the state.

Report cards are attached to all big game tags and should be torn off across the perforated line, filled out in the proper places and mailed before Christmas.

Fox Hunting Sport

Now that big game hunting is all but over, and tracking snow is abundant, fox hunting should pick up. This is the first season the red fox has been "unclassified," along with such animals as the cougar, coyote, bobcat, and raccoon among others. The fox was added to the unclassified list of animals last September by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission as a result of a new law passed by the last legislature.

For several seasons Idaho sportsmen were confronted with the cumbersome requirement of purchasing both a trapper license and a hunting license to hunt the fox with a gun. Now they can be taken with either type of license and with gun or trap.

Intensive studies in Michigan, New York and other states point to the fact that foxes don't influence pheasant populations through predation enough to get excited about. But they are sport to hunt, especially behind a pack of musical inclined hound dogs.

FARMERS INSURANCE GROUP
Symbol of Superior Service

A beautiful chorus girl sued a wealthy man for breach of promise and the judge awarded her $10,000. Then, as she left the courtroom and started to cross the street she was hit by an automobile and suffered eight broken ribs. The same judge awarded her $8.00 damages in a later suit.

Moral: Never play with a woman's heart; kick her in the ribs!

The old minister was, without question, the world's worst golfer. One day, on a fairly, long, straight hole he uncorked a towering drive dead to the pin. The ball hit the hard turf and began rolling. As if it were drawn on by a magnet, it continued to roll.

The ball reached the apron, crossed it, then headed over the green straight for the flag. With its last shudder of momentum it dropped into the cup.

The astonished clergyman turned his eyes supplicatingly toward heaven.

"Father, please," he pleaded, "I'd rather do it myself."

Cuisine Cum Laude

One of Genesee's most renowned cooks is Mrs. George Anderson. Whether she is cooking for many or just for her family, the food Mrs. Anderson prepares is delicious. She tells me that she doesn't know how many Firemen and American Legion dinners that she has prepared or been in charge of, but they are many, I know. Today and next week, we will feature three of her recipes. If you are making candy for Christmas, the pralines will be well received. Del Easton, who stayed with the Andersons for a year while attending the University, sent the recipe from Texas. The other recipe today is for Oatmeal Cake, and next week, a new treat—an Oatmeal Pie.

PRALINES

½ cup thin cream
1 pkg. butterscotch pudding mix
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tbbl. butter
1 cup pecans

Put mix, cream, sugar and butter in pan. Cook and stir until soft ball stage.

Remove and add vanilla. Beat and stir until heavy. Add nuts.

OATMEAL CAKE

1 cup quick oats
1½ cups boiling water
Let stand 20 minutes

Mix in bowl, ½ cup shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup white sugar, 1 tsp. nutmeg, 2 eggs. Cream together.

Add 1½ cups flour, 1 tsp. soda, 1 tsp. baking powder, salt and vanilla. Mix this and creamed mixture.

Blend together one-fourth pound of margarine, one-fourth cup cream and two-thirds cup brown sugar, 1 cup coconut, and 1 cup nuts. Pour this over the cake batter which has been placed in a 9x13 pan. Bake 350 degrees for 40 minutes or until done

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have lived for many years on the south edge of Genesee. They have raised five children, Ralph, who is deceased; Dorothy, (Mrs. Jon Andrews), Ephrata, Washington; twins, Ruth and Ruby, and Kenneth of Pullman. The couple has seven grandchildren. Mrs. Anderson cooked at the Hot Lunch room for six years. Mr. Anderson, whose term on the City Council will expire at the end of the year, has recently been appointed Chief of Genesee Fire Department.

DON'T OVEREAT AT HOLIDAY SEASON IS HEART ASSN. ADVICE

How would you like your Christmas dinner piped through a tube at the mere touch of a button? You could have all you want, in the form of a commercial liquid formula that is 20 percent protein, 30 percent fat and 50 percent carbohydrate, reports Dr. Lynn Anderson of Pocatello, president of the Idaho Heart Association.

No one is suggesting that feeding machines will ever take the place of roast turkey and all the trimmings, or that they should. However, the better the food looks, smells and tastes, the more you are tempted to overeat.

If a heaping plate loaded with stuffed turkey basking in a bath of rich gravy, cuddling up to a mound of candied sweets and surrounded by hot butter biscuits, isn't there, you aren't going to eat it. But let a well-meaning wife or hostess mount such a production for your benefit, and you're helpless, says Dr. Anderson.

Once a year won't hurt you, of course. It's the long-running repeat performances, three time a day, every day, that add menacing pounds to the other burdens we carry.

While the Idaho Heart Association doesn't suggest taking the meal away from the man, it does propose taking some of the calories away from the meal.

This requires forethough, some knowledge of calorie and nutritional values, and a few cooking tricks. The results can be just as palatable as the fattening feast described above.

Let's take that Christmas menu for a starter. Turkey is fine for the main course (better than fatter type fowl). Try basting it with consumme instead of fat. Use fat-free bouillon to moisten the stuffing.

Try acorn or butternut squash instead of candied sweet potatoes. Baked with a light glaze of brown sugar and cinnamon, they're in the holiday spirit at half the rice in calories.

Mushrooms, which are low in calories, can add glamor as well as savor to the main course. Toss the salad with lemon juice or low-calorie dressings spiked with herbs. And for the sweet touch top it off with a variety of fruit or whipped gelatin desserts to take the place of rich pie or pastry.

One basic rule for this and every meal you serve, be it for two or a crowd: don't push seconds. Moderate portions will help keep the calories down, Dr. Anderson says.

LATAH COUNTY FAIR BOARD

The Latah County Fair Board met on Wednesday, Dec. 1, 1965 at Moscow.

The board reviewed the remodeling at the fair grounds and made plans to build bleachers and judges stands at the new riding arena.

4-H members of the county are encouraged to enter a fair theme for the 1966 Latah County Fair. The board will select the best theme and award a $10.00 prize to the winner. Themes are to be sent to the Latah Co. Agents office in Moscow.

Themes for past fairs have included: "Farming in the Past," "Idaho Centennial," and "The Space Ages." Exhibitors use the theme in decorating their booth.

The largest Idaho fish hatchery is located at Hagerman in the famous Thousand Springs area. One of these springs furnishes 65 cubic feet per second of ideal water at a temperature of 57 degrees F. Almost a third of the total state production of trout is reared at this hatchery.

Pend Oreille lake, Idaho is famous for its large kamloops (world's record 37 pounds.)

COTTONTAIL RABBIT SHOOTING

Idaho's average yearly bag of cottontail rabbits is about 95,000. The nations average runs into eight figures, although exact data is not available. Thus the furry little hopper with the powder-puff behind is a game animal of signnificance here and across the land. It is fun to hunt, is found in all of the "south 48" states on both cultivated and wild lands and has no peer in the skillet. Yet it is found nowhere else in the world. In Idaho this rabbit is most numerous in southern regions along the Snake River plains, in brushy draws, rock piles near canals, stream-side cover and even in sage brush near water.

The season, the longest on any Idaho game animal, runs from September 1 through February 28.

Sturgeon fishing in Idaho attracts a great deal of attention because of the size of the fish. A number of fish weighing upward of 400 pounds have been taken with rod and reel and is rapidly becoming one of Idaho's most interesting sports.

Potlatch Drops Genesee In Close 55-53 Contest

Genesee's hard luck basketball squad found themselves the victims of a late rally they couldn't check Tuesday night and dropped a 55-53 decision to the visiting Potlatch Loggers on the GHS court

This game marks the fourth loss in a row for the Bulldogs who have been winless since defeating Neperce in the opening game of the season. At least two of these losses came after close, hard-fought games that saw the Bulldogs lose in the final seconds of play.

Tuesday night the GHS quintet moved out to a 12-7 first quarter lead and still had control of the game at halftime by a slim 21-20 advantage. In the third quarter Potlatch took over the scoring lead and Genesee trailed 37-34 going into the final period. The game was marred by a number of technical fouls.

Dave Blume and Doug Mayer each scored 13 points to lead the Genesee scoring effort. Frank Hillman contributed 13 points and Mark Zenner 10.

Other officers are Roy Beenders, Nezperce, vice president; R. Loren Kambitsch, Lewiston, secretary, and Eugene Thompson, Moscow, treasurer.

The association went on record as favoring the relocation and rebuilding of Union Pacific railroad tracks between Riparia and Lewiston. The present tracks will be flooded after the completion of Lower Monumental Darn on the Snake River. The Army Corps of Engineers is considering paying indemnity to the company instead of rebuilding the tracks above the reservoir.

A pattern was set for developing membership in pea producing counties. Representatives from each area will head committees for the membership drive. Potential membership lists and procedure for contacting members will be handled by the committees.

A recommendation was sent to the Idaho Pea and Lentil Commission requesting a newsletter be formulated providing growers with information and projects conducted by the commission.

Their son, Donald and family of Pocatello were unable to attend, but Mr. and Mrs. Don Wright and family and John Stanton, Jr. and family of Kamiah were there, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Trautman, neighbors, dropped by on Sunday afternoon to congratulate them and had cake and coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanton met and were married in Montana, December 23, 1915. Mr. Stanton came there to homestead at Galata from Butler, Tennessee, and Mrs. Stanton's parents also came there to homestead from Moscow, Idaho, having come originally from Minnesota in the early 1900's.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanton drove in a buggy across the Montana prairie from Galata to Shelby, a 30-mile round trip, in weather that was 10 degrees zero to be married.

Around 1920 they moved to the Camas Prairie in Idaho, where they farmed between Craigmont and Nezperce and where their three children were born. They later lived in Lewiston Orchards and Spokane before moving to Genesee six years ago where they have made their home since.

Their three children are John Stanton, Jr., Kamiah, Idaho; Donald Stanton, Pocatello, Idaho, and Mrs. Donald Wright, of Genesee. They have 10 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Mr. Stanton occupies his time with his garden and flowers, and Mrs. Stanton likes to sew and crochet.

They would like to say thanks to everyone for the remembrances, and to wish everyone a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Since 1900 the State of Idaho has maintained control over its wildlife resources with a state agency, the Department of Fish and Game.

Home Decoration Contest Judging Information

Larry Sorenson, president of the Genesee Civic Association, said this week that judging for the home decoration contest sponsored by the Association will be done sometime between Christmas and New Year's Day. The contest judges are ladies of the Genesee Garden Club.

This year's contest includes all homes within the local school district. Prizes will be awarded for the home best decorated in the holiday spirit. In order that the judges do not miss any homes, those wishing their houses to be included in the contest should contact either Larry Sorenson or association secretary, Bob Bumgarner.

Christmas Party Success

The annual Genesee Christmas party, complete with a visit from Santa Claus, was pronounced a definite success by the Civic Association and the Genesee Firemen, who worked on the project last Saturday, December 18.

The weather was cold and windy, but it didn't dampen the enthusiasm of either Santa Claus or the many little children who gathered in front of the Community Christmas Tree to greet him. An accurate count of the number of children attending was not made, but judging from the sacks of candy and oranges given out, the firemen estimated that well over 200 children were present.

The candy and nuts left over from the party were taken down to the Lewiston Children's Home by Fire Chief George Anderson.

Anniversary Surprise

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Hermann were pleasantly surprised Monday evening when relatives and friends arrived at their home to help them celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Schwenne, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Varbo of Clarkston were invited, but unable to attend.

Guests brought a decorated anniversary cake which was served with the refreshments.

The Hermanns were presented a gift of silver.

Carter's To Close Until New Year's Eve

Charles Carter, owner and manager of Carter's Charcoal Broiler in Genesee, said Thusday morning that his establishment will take a week's vacation beginning tonight, (Thursday) and will not reopen until Friday evening, December 31, which is New Year's Eve.

Mr. Carter said his lounge, bar, and restaurant would be open New Year's Eve and he extended an invitation to everyone in the community to celebrate the New Year at Carter's. He added that he has booked a dance band for the evening.

Elemo K. Larson Fatally Wounded In Hunting Accident

Elemo K. Larson, a well-known Genesee Valley farmer, was fatally wounded Thursday afternoon, December 16 in an accident which occurred two miles south of Helmer on Park Road.

Investigating officers of the Latah County Sheriff's office said Larson was apparently killed when his .270 caliber rifle discharged while the deceased was removing it from a gun rack in his truck. The sheriff's office theorized that Elerno had seen game, stopped his vehicle and jumped from the cab, then attempted to pull the gun out of the rack. The rifle had a hair-trigger, according to Sheriff R. C. Lange. The discharge struck the victim in the left side of the chest.

The body was found beside the truck at about 4 p. m. Thursday. The accident was discovered by Stanley Wolf, St. Maries, and two companions who were logging in the area. The area in which the accidental death occurred is described as a heavily-used deer crossing.

Elemo Kieffer Larson was born August 11, 1912, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Larson. He received his schooling in the Genesee area and graduated from Genesee High School in 1930. He was engaged in farming in the Genesee Valley at the time of his death.

He was united in marriage to Carol Reynolds on January 8, 1965, who survives at the family home in Genesee.

Elemo was an active member of the Genesee Valley Lutheran Church, and had served the church in various capacities for many years.

In addition to his wife, Carol, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lilly Larson, Genesee, and a sister, Mrs. Myrtle Jacobson, San Diego, California.

Final services were held Monday morning in the Genesee Valley Church with Rev. William Bash officiating.

Rev. Bash sang, "In Heaven Above."

Pallbearers were Oscar Danielson, Delos Odenborg, Harvey Hagen, Ray Wedin, Leon Danielson, and LaVerne Anderson. Interment was at the Genesee Valley Lutheran Cemetery.

Members of the church and friends served a dinner for relatives of the deceased at noon in the church basement.

Winter, Snow Arrive Same Day

The first heavy snow of the season arrived Tuesday, December 21, the date the calendars proclaim as the first official day of winter. Accompanying the snow was night time fog and colder temperatures.

Snow began falling during the night and by Tuesday morning the ground was covered. The snow continued to fall all through the day and into the evening hours and dumped almost three inches of covering on the ground before it subsided.

Roads in the immediate Genesee area were extremely slick and icy this week making traveling hazardous. This section appeared to be center of a cold snow belt because once motorists were able to cross over the divide on the way to Moscow the remainder of the trip could be made without trouble. The streets in Genesee were very slick, and school buses had great difficulty getting up the hill to the school house. By Thursday city supervisor Sheldon Russell had most of the streets sanded down and travel within the city improved considerably.

Since Tuesday the temperatures failed to rise above the freezing point so there has been little melting of the snow. The night time temperatures dropped down near the 10- above mark on several occasions.

Tired of Farming?

Tired of farming? Want to get rid of your land? Here's the recipe: Cut one medium-sized farm into irregular pieces. Add several successive cash crops to remove the humus. Stir the thin layer of topsoil frequently until the soil particles are ready to be carried off by the next hard rain or wind. Carefully work the land up and down the slope so that the furrows will form waterways for rapid disposal of excess water and soil. Keep doing this until the hardpan shows through on the hilltops and slopes. Then cut into deep, irregular gullies and leave out in the sun to bake. When done, season with an unpainted house, broken down fences, some old worn-out machinery, a rickety barn, a good sprinkling of unpaid bills, with a pinch of despair. Garnish with weeds. Serve with a tax sale and move on. (Taken from the Portneuf SWCD Newsletter).

SPECIAL PARTIES

Mrs. Bruce Robertson entertained several ladies for a Christmas coffee on Wednesday morning. Her table was centered with Swedish Angel Chimes flanked by red candles. The Robertsons reside in the former Ralph Koster home.

Ladies of the Genesee faculty, wives of men teachers, and wives of the school board members were entertained at a holiday coffee hour by Mrs. Les Diehl in her home Wednesday afternoon.

ADULT WELDING CLASS MAY BE OFFERED AT SCHOOL

Some farmers in this area have shown an interest in attending an evening class in Arc and Acetylene welding, the Genesee school said this week.

There will be a general organizational meeting for all who are interested in this type of class at the vocational agriculture building on January 6, 1966 at 7:30 p. m.

If you are interested, the school said, attend the organizational meeting or call Mr. Diehl at the high school (AT 5-2441) or call Mr. Heimgartner (AT 5-3433).

Card of Thanks

The family of Elemo Larson express their deep thanks for all floral expressions and memorial gifts and for all expressions of sympathy shown.

Football Banquet Report

The committee which arranged this year's November 10 Football Banquet, found a surplus of funds after bills were paid. A project was suggested such as a scoreboard for the football field or a projector for the High School students. However, in being contacted, the parents of the boys did not reach a unanimous decision about a project, so it was decided to reimburse the football team members for their dinner tickets. Thus, the boys were guests this year of each person who purchased a banquet ticket. In previous years, the parents have hosted the affair. This year, the community was invited and the Civic Club appointed Robert Herman as chairman. His assistants were Tom Boyd from the Civic Club, and Mrs. Andrew Zenner and Mrs. Dick Scharnhorst from the Parents.

Thank You

I want to thank the Genesee Garden Club for the beautiful Christmas swag they gave me recently. I appreciated their thoughtfulness and it has helped make my Christmas a much happier one.

CARBON MONOXIDE IS SILENT KILLER

AN INVISIBLE KILLER may be loose in your house. The silent assassin is carbon monoxide, a colorless, odorless, tasteless gas produced every time a material containing carbon burns.

Carbon monoxide combines with blood 200 times more easily than oxygen, says the American Medical Association, and if you breathe air containing a normal amount of oxygen and moderate amount of carbon monoxide, your blood will be starved for oxygen. Permanent brain damage or death can result. Dangerous quantities of the gas usually accumulate when a cool, slow fire burns in a limited space.

BRAIN WAVES of unborn babies will be measured by a University of Rochester scientists in an effort to find clues to the origin of some congenital brain defects. Dr. Mortimer Rosen has already recorded electrical activity in the brain of newborn infants and believes that earlier recording of electrical impulses will enable him to establish a normal pattern and to recognize deviations from it, indicating potential dangers to unborn babies.

TELEPHONE EXCISE TAX REDUCTION WILL LOWER RATES IN 1966

The cost of telephone service will be reduced by 7 per cent on January 1, General Telephone of the Northwest reminded its customers. The reduction comes via the first step of the gradual elimination of the Federal Excise Tax on telephone service.

The bill to repeal the excise tax on telephone service which was imposed as a so-called "luxury" tax during World War II, was passed by Congress and signed into law by President Johnson in June. According to the new law, subsequent reductions of 1 per cent will be made on January 1 of 1967, 1968, and 1969, when the tax will be eliminated completely.

In reminding its customers of the tax reduction, General Telephone pointed out that it applies to both local and long distance service. In addition, the tax on many business telephone services, such as Private Branch Exchanges, sound and paging systems, and intercom channels, will be eliminated January 1, 1966.

The 1966 telephone excise tax reduction will save General Telephone customers in excess of $800,000.

A CHRISTMAS PRAYER

Dear God—we ask Thy blessing
Here at the Christmas day;
We come to Thee confessing
Things we should throw away.

We—who have weathered often
Abandonment of dreams;
Turn us from fears that soften
To goodness that redeems.

Lift up our faith—and lifting
Help us to know and see;
That never could we be drifting
Other—than on to Thee.

FIRST SECURITY BANK NEWS

Election of Ralph J. Comstock, Jr. to the presidency of First Security Bank of Idaho, N. A., has been announced by George S. Eccles, president of First Security Corporation, and J. L. Driscoll, chairman of the board of the bank. Comstock, who was executive vice president of the bank, succeeds V. R. Steffensen, who died in a plane crash last month.

Announcement was also made of the following senior management promotions

E. G. Chaffer, senior vice president, and supervisor of First Security Banks in Eastern Idaho, was elected executive vice president. He will continue to maintain headquarters in Idaho Falls.

Spences F. Eccles, Boise, and James E. Phelps, Twin Falls, were both elevated to the rank of senior vice-president. Eccles is affiliated with the bank's head office, and Phelps is supervisor of First Security Banks in the Magic Valley and Sun Valley areas of Idaho.

The four executives are all directors of the bank.

Comstock, executive vice-pres. since 1962, will be the second of his family to serve as president of the statewide banking operation. His father, the late R. J. Comstock, Sr. was president from 1956 to 1962.

Born in Rexburg, Comstock received his schooling in Nampa and Pocatello and graduated from the University of Utah in Salt Lake City in 1939. He is also a graduate of the Pacific Coast School of Banking, University of Washington, Seattle.

Comstock began his banking career as a messenger while attending high school. He gained experience in all departments of the bank with extensive training in all phases of credit, and for the past 9 years has been a member of the bank's senior loan committee. He served as vice president and manager of First Security's Pocatello office from 1949 to 1957, and subsequently was elected senior vice-president and supervisor of all First Security banks in southeastern Idaho. He was elected executive vice-president in 1962 and moved to Boise. He is currently president of the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho, treasurer of the Idaho Cancer Society, and is a director and member of the executive committee of the Greater Boise Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the executive committee of the Idaho Bankers Association.

Chaffer, the bank's new executive vice president, has been prominent in Idaho banking affairs for many years. He began his carrier in 1926 with the Stockman's National Bank of Nampa, and joined First Security when it acquired that bank in 1927.

Chaffer is a former president of the Idaho Bankers Association and has also served as vice president of the American Bankers Association for Idaho.

Eccles, a native of Ogden, Utah, has been with the First Security organization since 1960. A graduate of the University of Utah, he was elected to the position of vice-president and director of First Security Bank of Idaho, N. A., in 1964.

Phelps started in the banking business in 1948 with First Security at Craigmont. In 1962, he became president of First Security Bank of Twin Falls, a unit state-chartered bank, which last year merged with First Security Bank of Idaho, N. A. He was named a director of the bank and supervisor of the South Central Division last January.

Idaho produces seventy-two kinds of precious and semi-precious stones. It is said that Idaho gem beds cannot be duplicated in any other state and that they are second only to those of Africa.

1966 LICENSES NEEDED

Waterfowlers wanting to finish the Idaho duck and goose hunting seasons will need 1966 licenses, beginning January 1, but the federal migratory bird hunting stamps will be valid throughout the season. New fishing licenses also will be needed by winter anglers, and permit cards for steelhead, salmon and sturgeon must be in the possession of fishermen trying for these species.

New hunting and fishing licenses have been mailed to vendors from the Boise office of the Department and should be on sale now throughout the state. The so-called "duck stamp" must be in the possession of all persons 16 years of age or older who hunt ducks or geese anywhere in the United States.

The statewide goose season ends on January 6 in all counties. The duck season ends on the same date in 22 counties, and January 16 in 22 Idaho counties within the Columbia Basin area. Regulations should be checked for details.

Cottontail rabbit season runs through February 28, and quail and partridge shooting extends through December 31 in many counties.

PUBLIC ACCESS STES GOOD CHRISTMAS GIFT

The Idaho Fish and Game Department today listed public access sites either acquired or developed this year, and in keeping with the holiday mood, added "Merry Christmas" greeting to one and all.

John R. Woodworth, Department director, said several land purchases during the last fiscal year brought the total budget for this purpose to over $100,000.

These include the Fort Boise Wildlife Management Area in Payette County, $38,000; Teton River access in Teton County, $27,000; Boundary County Wildlife Management Area, $10,000; Magic Reservoir access in Blaine County, $6,500; Murtaugh Lake in Twin Falls Co., $4,000; Hauser Lake in Kootenai Co., $12,000; Marsing access to Snake River in Owyee Co., $8,000; and Bell Rapids access to Snake River in Gooding Co., $5,000. New access acquisitions in the counties of Elmore, Lembi, Bannock, Franklin, Ada, Idaho and Camas brought total costs up even more. Real property now surplus to Department needs and sold during the year amounted to over $27,000.

More than $30,000 was spent during the 12 months of new areas and the improvement of older areas providing public access to many of the waters of the state. A list of these includes Treasureton Reservoir in Franklin Co., Chesterfield Reservoir in Caribou Co., Horseshoe Bend Mill Pond in Boise Co., Three Island Crossing in Elmore Co., Bell Rapids in Gooding Co., Magic Reservoir in Blaine Co., American Falls in Power Co., Big Lost River in Custer Co., Grace Hydroelectric Plant access site to Bear River in Caribou Co., Medicine Lodge Creek in Clark Co., and Henrys Lake in Fremont Co.

Woodworth said that through cooperative arrangements with the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, which pays half the cost, just over 1,000 acres of deer winter range have been purchased near lucky Peak Reservoir for $76,000 and a 220-acre ranch to give public access to Silver Creek has been bought for $72,000.

Aliens Must Register

District Director R. G. Hoffeller of the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service stated that the period within which aliens must report their addresses is almost at hand.

The month of January has been set for the address reporting period. All aliens in the United States, with few exceptions, must report their addresses to the government during that period.

Mr. Hoffler said that forms with which to make the report will be available to all post offices and offices of the Immigration and Naturialization Service during the month of January.

Mr. Hoffeller urges all aliens to comply with the reporting requirements, as willful failure to do so may lead to serious consequences.

With weather conditions as unpredictable as they have been the past two weeks it is expected that many Genesee people will be trying to avoid travel over the holiday and will take advantage of the chance to celebrate the New Year without leaving town.

The dance will begin at 9 p. m. and will continue on through until the New Year's hours. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Dave Kuehl orchestra. Admission price is $1 for men Women will be admitted to the dance without charge.

A party for members of the Fire Department, their families and guests will be held prior to the dance. A buffet meal of turkey and ham, prepared by Mrs. George Anderson will be served. A social hour from 6 to 7 p. m. will precede the dinner with the meal being served at 7.

Chinook Wind Melts Snow

A warm chinook wind swept across the Northwest this week and took most of the snow that had fallen late last week. Moderate to heavy snows had fallen Friday and Saturday of last week leaving nearly six inches of snow covering the ground in the Genesee area.

In the wake of the snow, traffic conditions were extremely hazardous over the Christmas holiday, and it was not until Sunday that road crews had put enough sand and gravel on the area's highways to make traveling comparatively safe.

The chinook wind moved in late Monday evening and by Tuesday mid-day the snow was rapidly melting and turning the snow-pack

How about a party to see the old year kick its last?

Christmas in Genesee passed quietly but was pleasantly observed.

The Oddfellows will hold their New Years ball at Conant hall where the people will dance and in society hall where they will be treated to a sumptuous repast.

Hiram Broemeling called at the office this week and tickled the printer with a year's subscription.

Charley Moore is home from school at Spokane for the holidays.

Ingwall Smith was in from Blaine and greatly tickled the printer for his visit allowed us to swallow turkey in the right style.

Several little incidents the past week would sure make spicy reading if the News desired to give predictions but the prime actors, "oh, hush, hush," silence in golden.

A sled load of Genesee young folks who tried to dodge a coach on the Y-crossing were dumped in the snow.

The News greatly regrets to refer to an occurrence that took place in Genesee on Christmas when two of our young men, who should have had better sense, encountered a young man to one side and went through him relieving him of what little money he had. Their names will be withheld (only for the present) owing to the very excellent status of their families. We think these lads need punishment for such deviltry and may get it yet. A few years in the pen would probably work.

FEDERAL GRANTS FOR IDAHO OUTDOOR RECREATION PROJECTS

Grants totaling $170,000 from the Land and Water Conservation Fund for six outdoor recreation land acquisition and development projects in the State of Idaho were announced this week by Under Secretary of the Interior John A. Carver.

The Federal grants will be matched by an equal amount of State money.

Sponsored by Idaho's Department of Parks and Department of Fish and Game the projects cover the cost of construction, renovation, rehabilitation, and expansion of State park facilities. They will aid in meeting the State's increasing demand for water-based recreation and camping areas.

Development aspects of the projects include tent and trailer camp sites, boat launching ramps, docks, roads, parking areas, sanitary facilities, utility buildings and water systems.

Area covered by the projects are: Indian Creek Recreation Area in the Priest Lake are; Ponderosa State Park on the shores of Payette Lake; Hayburn State Park on the south end of Lake Coeur d'Alene; and Winchester Park and Recreation Area in Lewis County. The Winchester Park Project will include rehabilitation by the State Fish and Game Department of a reservoir for public fishing that formerly was a log pond.

To establish eligibility for acquisition and development grants, a State must submit a statewide outdoor recreation plan which the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation finds adequate for purposes of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act. Idaho's initial plan has been found adequate until April 1, 1967.

The Land and Water Conservation Fund was established by Congress in 1964 and derives revenues from the new $7 Federal Recreation and Conservation Permit and other entrance and admission fees, the sale of surplus Federal real property, and the Federal motorboat fuels tax.

Congress appropriated $95 million from the Fund for State purposes in the 1965-66 fiscal years. Two fifths of the States' share from the Fund are apportioned equally among all the States and three-fifths are apportioned on population and other need factors. Idaho' apportionments for the 1965-66 fiscal years totaled $932,177.

IDAHO'S BEAN BAG

FEATURING BROWN BEANS - - - - POTLUCK FAVORITE

Beans can make a meal and a bean dish like this Scandinavian favorite, as a potluck contribution, can build a reputation. Traditionally, Brown Beans are called for, but they are hard to find in many areas. Idaho's dappled Pinto beans, used in this authentic recipe, become a rich brown in the saucing and cooking. They may be found in our markets in abundance and at a reasonable price. Idaho-grown dried Red Beans may be used.

This dish can star in a buffet supper, good anytime of the year. The menu might include meat balls with the Brown Beans, a jellied fruit or vegetable salad, a tray of cheese with dark breads and rye wafers, dessert of your choice, coffee of course.

EMMA'S BROWN BEANS

First Step

2 pounds (4 and two-thirds cups) of Idaho Pinto Beans
12 cups water
½ teaspoon soda
4 teaspoons salt
4 tbbl. cooking oil or butter

Place washed beans in large kettle, add water. Bring to boiling point. Boil 2 minutes only. Remove from heat, add soda to cut down cooking time. Cover. Let stand 1 hour. Or, soak beans with soda in measured amounts of water overnight. To cook, put kettle of beans with soaking water on high heat. Add salt and oil or butter to keep down the foam. When boiling, reduce heat to simmer. Cover tightly and cook two hours or until tender. This may be done the day before. In fact, the entire recipe may be made ahead, to be reheated as needed. It is a good freezer idea.

Second Step:

8 slices of bacon, cut in 1-in. pieces
one-fourth cup diced onion.
1 medium-size clove of garlic, sliced one-fourth teaspoon coarse-grind black pepper.
one-fourth cup light molasses
1 cup catsup
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1½ cups light brown sugar
½ cup cider vinegar
one-fourth tsp. dry mustard
3 tbbl. cornstarch, mixed with one-fourth cup cold water

Beans, whether in soup tureen, salad bowl, bean pot or casserole, can make the meal Good Eating! All of the Dried Bean Family are substantial foods, rich in energy-giving nutrients and B.-vitamins, especially thiamine. By the way of minerals, there are calcium and iron aplenty. Added to all of these is high-quality useful protein for body building and upkeep.

a shake or 3 of Tabasco sauce

Mix together all ingredients. Add to the cooked beans, stirring carefully with a wooden spoon to avoid breaking beans. Cook slowly, covered, on surface unit of range for about 1 hour. Or place in a 325 degree F. oven (moderately slow) for 1½ hours. Serve hot. Really improves with standing and re-heating.

IDAHO'S 1966 HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

The Idaho Board of Highway Directors approved a 1966 Highway construction Program which will range between $30 to $35 million for construction contracts, engineering work and acquisition of needed right of way. In conformance with the availability of state and federal highway user funds it is estimated that projects can be scheduled for expenditures of $20 to $25 million on the Interstate Highway System and $10 million for improvements on the primary, secondary and urban road systems.

Interstate Highway projects are financed with 92 percent federal highway-user funds and 8 percent state highway-user matching funds. Primary, Secondary, and Urban Projects consist of 63 percent federal and 37 percent state highway user funds.

Also the above mentioned figures do not include the following 1966 construction work approved for other highway systems or required maintenance on the state highway system:

(1) Seven forest highway projects, estimated to cost $3.1 million are scheduled for construction by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads with 100 percent federal funds.

(2) Projects estimated at $6½ million on the county Federal-Aid secondary system.

(3) 100 percent state fund expenditures which are required for routine and special maintenance work on the State Highway System. Betterment maintenance projects and stockpiles falling in this category are expected to approximate $1½ million.

Projects, orginally scheduled for construction work in 1965 but not yet under contract, have been carried over to the 1966 program. This has been occasioned by unforeseen delays with right of way matters, utility and railroad agreements and other problems.

Since "time" requirements to complete come preparatory phases of a highway project are unpredictable, more projects are actually approved for construction in any one year than can be financed with one year's funds. This allows step by step work to proceed on a sufficient number of projects to assure a full construction program even though a few projects may be delayed for any one of the above mentioned reasons.

Nine State Projects are scheduled in District Four—with its headquarters in Lewiston. The location and millage of these projects approved for construction in 1966, The Board of Highway Directors has authorized the Department of Highways to proceed with construction on these projects when plans and specifications are completed, right of way acquired approval of U. S. Bureau of Public Roads is obtained and funds become available.

The nine projects listed are:

1. US 95, Cottonwood City Streets, 0.3 mile.
2. US 95, Winchester Hill Rest Area (Bureau of Outdoor Recreation Funds).
3. SH 42, Spaulding Bridge—Arrow Jct., 3.6 miles.
4. US 95, Moscow Mountain Rest Area.
5. US 12, Orofino, West 5.1 Miles.
6. SH 7, Orofino Bridge, North Approach, 0.1 Mile.
7. US 12, Greer Rest Area (Bureau of Outdoor Recreation Funds).
8. SH 11, Pierce Underpasses, 1.0 Mile.
9. US 12, Jct. US 12 and SH 13, Kooskia, 0.1 Mile (Intersection Improvement)

WATERFOWL HUNTING CONTINUES INTO JANUARY

Migratory waterfowl hunting in Idaho continues into January, although all quail and partridge shooting ends December 31. The cottontail rabbit season runs through Feb. 28 in all parts of the state.

Goose season ends statewide January 6. This also is the closing date for duck hunting in the 22 counties outside the Columbia Basin Mallard Area. Duck shooting in the Columbia Basin Mallard Area continues through January 16—but not goose hunting. Counties with this longer season are Ada, Benewah, Blaine, Bonner, Boundary, Camas, Canyon, Cassia, Elmore, Gem, Gooding, Jerome, Kootenai, Latah, Lewis, Lincoln, Minidoka, Nez Perce, Payette, Owyhee, Payette, Twin Falls and Washington.

New licenses are required for all hunting (and fishing) beginning January 1, but the Federal migratory bird hunting stamp (duck stamp) will remain valid in Idaho throughout the season. It is required for each person 16 years of age or older who hunts ducks or geese.

SURPLUS GAME, FISH?

Anyone having more game or fish then he can use is urged to get in touch with one of the many charitable organizations in Idaho so that it can be distributed to less fortunate people. These organizations are listed in the yellow pages of the telephone directory under Social Service and Welfare Organizations. Give one of them a call soon if you can't use all of the game and fish you now have on hand.

Eight Workers Placed On Jobs In County

Eight Latah County workers were assisted in finding jobs during the week ending the day before Chirstmas thru the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employment. Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager reported that this is fewer than the 14 persons placed on jobs during the previous week, but somewhat more than the 5 who were helped to find work during the same week a year ago. Snow early in the week, coupled with the fact that hiring was curtailed somewhat because of the holidays contributed to the decline in placement activity from the preceding week. Workers found such jobs as a survey worker, a parts clerk, a stenographer, service station attendant, laborers and domestic workers. During the week only four new jobs were listed with the office. This compares with three new jobs listed during Christmas week a year ago, and with 14 new jobs listed last week. Hartstein said that at the end of the week there were still 25 jobs unfilled. These included a need for a library assistant, scretaries, stenographers, an X-ray technician. Kitchen workers and domestic workers, as well as a need for a mechanical engineer, an accountant, a TV repairman, a laboratory assistant, a parts manager, a farm hand and salesmen.

Forty-one persons filed new claims for unemployment insurance during the week, Hartstein said, reflecting new unemployment, occuring during this or the week immediately prior to this. Nearly all of these persons had been engaged in construction activities throughout the area, and were terminated either because of bad weather this week, or the completion, or near completion, of projects during the previous week. Good weather in the area's forests during the past 2 weeks enabled two large logging operators and a couple of smaller ones to resume operations, thereby returning to work several workers from thoughout the county. Although 41 persons filed new claims, the total number of workers continuing to seek benefits rose by only 7—from 137 to 144 during the week. This 144 compares with 306 persons receiving benefits a year ago and 350 at this same time in 1963. In the immediate Moscow area there are now 57 workers seeking unemployment insurance, compared with 50 last week, and 112 at the same time last year. Fifty-nine persons are receiving benefits in the Troy-Deary-Bovill area, compared with 62 a week ago, and 89 a year ago. Nineteen workers from the Potlatch area have signed up, compared with 16 last week and 55 last year. Nine checks are going to Elk River, the same as a week ago, but far fewer than the 50 who were receiving benefits from there last year.

Winter Waterfowl Count

January 3-8 are the dates selected for Idaho's part of the continentwide annual migratory waterfowl inventory. Some 50 observers will participate in the state federal program, both by land and by air. The inventory normally finds about half a million ducks and 11,000 geese on the usual wintering areas, but this year the numbers are expected to be somewhat lower for undetermined reasons.

The purpose of the annual migratory waterfowl inventory is to follow the trend of wintering waterfowl numbers throughout the North American Continent from year to year. The Idaho count is broken down into 15 species of ducks and geese. The bulk of the counting will be done by three aircraft in about 25 hours flying time. Ground observers cover drain ditches and other small water areas that are difficult to count from the air. Both state and federal management workers participate in the survey.

Wildlife Film Will Be Shown In Moscow

Gordon Eastman has discovered true adventure again in the unexplored and unknown MacKenzine mountains of Canada's northwest territory. The first to hunt and film this great primitive area just 60 miles south of the Arctic Circle, he proves again the excitement, beauty, and drama to be found in the wildlife of North America.

Eastman spent three months in this new Canadian Hunting and Fishing Bonanza, back packing 80 pounds of professional 16MM camera equipment, recording on film the true story of the last great area in North America where man has not upset natures own balance. The camera records the story of the Arctic wolf and his place in the wilderness, the beautiful Dall sheep as they observe man for the first time. The most outstanding wildlife footage, of arctic big game, ever to be shown in the United States.

Len Mabbott presents this new 2-hour color film that not only brings you the fascinating Dall Sheep Story of the high plateaus, but takes you into the valleys of the MacKenzie Mountains to observe world record moose, beautiful caribou, the rare barren ground grizzly in its last great stronghold, Arctic Grayling fishing and gold panning in un-named streams.

Eastman is a professional free-lance photographer, making his home in Jackson Hole, Wyoming. When not producing his own wildlife adventure films, he works for such productions as "Disney's Wonderful World of Color," "Wild Kingdom," 'Larry Lansburg Productions," and "Educational Films," working on both 16MM and 35MM productions.

Many will remember the outstanding films that he has brought to this area, including, "Hunting Alaska Today," "North of the Sun," "High Country," and now the all new "Challenging the Northwest Territory." Narrated and edited by Eastman for complete family entertainment.

Aliens Must Register

District Director R. G. Hoffeller of the Immigration and Naturalization service estimated today that 10,000 aliens will report their addresses in Montana and Idaho during January under the federal alien address report program.

The immigration official said that almost 9,500 aliens reported their addresses during January, 1965.

Mr. Hoffeller said that all non-citizens except those in diplomatic status, foreign representatives of certain international organizations and those admitted temporarily as agricultural laborers, are required to file the address report.

He added that any alien who willfully violates the address report requirement may be subject to serious penalties.

In addition, aliens who are not in the United States during January must report their addresses to the service within ten days after their return.

District director Hoffeller said that address report cards will be available at the Immigration and Naturalization service office at Room 412, Post Office building, Helena, Montana, or 336 Sonna Building, Boise, Idaho and local United States post offices beginning January 1, 1966.

Cuisine Cum Laude

It's New Year's Eve. Get set to ring in the new. Set a festive table, pass out noisemakers and balloons, put on the paper hats. Include this good dip in your buffet with corn chips and potato chips.

RIO GRANDE DIP

2 1-pound cans (4 cups) pork and beans in tomato sauce, sieved,
½ cup shredded sharp process American cheese,
1 teaspoon garlic salt,
1 teaspoon chili powder,
Dash of cayenne pepper,
2 teaspoons vinegar
2 teaspoons Worchestershire sauce,
½ teaspoon liquid smoke, (if available)
4 slices crisp-cooked bacon, crumbled,

Combine all ingredients except bacon; heat in double boiler or chafing dish if you have one. Top with crumbled bacon. Serve hot. Makes about 4 cups.

Other buffet suggestions: Slice tiny icebox rye loaf paper thin. Place on single layer on baking sheet, heat at 300 degrees till edges curl. Takes about 30 minutes. Dip in hot garlic butter to serve. Fix tray of assorted crackers, side it with dish of pineapple or other marmalade. Scramble, (cereal mix) is good. Edam or Gouda cheese and raw apples compliment each other. Nestle caviar in crushed ice with wedge of lemon nearby. Guests may spread it themselves on crisp crackers or fancy breads.

To all our readers, a Happy New Year's Eve, and a Wonderful New Year.

Eight Workers Placed On Jobs In County

Eight Latah County workers were assisted in finding jobs during the week ending the day before Chirstmas thru the Moscow office of the Idaho Department of Employment. Frank J. Hartstein, Moscow Office Manager reported that this is fewer than the 14 persons placed on jobs during the previous week, but somewhat more than the 5 who were helped to find work during the same week a year ago. Snow early in the week, coupled with the fact that hiring was curtailed somewhat because of the holidays contributed to the decline in placement activity from the preceding week. Workers found such jobs as a survey worker, a parts clerk, a stenographer, service station attendant, laborers and domestic workers. During the week only four new jobs were listed with the office. This compares with three new jobs listed during Christmas week a year ago, and with 14 new jobs listed last week. Hartstein said that at the end of the week there were still 25 jobs unfilled. These included a need for a library assistant, scretaries, stenographers, an X-ray technician. Kitchen workers and domestic workers, as well as a need for a mechanical engineer, an accountant, a TV repairman, a laboratory assistant, a parts manager, a farm hand and salesmen.

Forty-one persons filed new claims for unemployment insurance during the week, Hartstein said, reflecting new unemployment, occuring during this or the week immediately prior to this. Nearly all of these persons had been engaged in construction activities throughout the area, and were terminated either because of bad weather this week, or the completion, or near completion, of projects during the previous week. Good weather in the area's forests during the past 2 weeks enabled two large logging operators and a couple of smaller ones to resume operations, thereby returning to work several workers from thoughout the county.
