As President of the Idaho Chapter of The Wildlife Society I would like to offer you my services and those of my organization for the coming year. With an ever-growing demand for legislation pertaining to ecological problems and environmental protection, you may from time to time feel in need of professional advice. If so, we would be glad to help you.

The Wildlife Society, and its affiliate, the Idaho Chapter, is a professional organization of practicing ecologists. Although specialists in wildlife, most of our members have a broad background of education and experience in ecology. I believe ours is one of the few professional groups whose members are proficient through knowledge, experience and application of ecology to the political and economic facts of life.

I certainly hope you will take advantage of this offer if needed. If you have need for information or advice in our area of expertise, we have approximately 200 members willing to help. You may write or call (885-6434) and I will see that you get the required information.

Sincerely,

Richard R. Knight, President
Idaho Chapter
The Wildlife Society
