The following article appeared in the Portland OREGONIAN on February 9th. this year. It is worthy of note only because it goes to show and show very clearly what the actual objective of the Roman Catholic church is in America. It has been my contention for ~~#####~~ years that the Roman church would very much like to control the governemnt of these United States. It never will, because any and all religions founded on untruths of tradition instead of on truths of God are about doomed. The article is interesting though, for it is a deliberate attempt in my opinion, to go back to a proven fallacious system of government which was in vogue in the dark and middle ages. No one outside of the R.C. church would have the audacity to advocate such a system here in America. The system will never be adopted. Neither will the Roman church, smooth as it may be, ever be in a position to do any dictating in this country's affairs. It is trying hard, because this is the only country left which allows that church free and undisturbed licence to teach its system of idolatry, for that is exactly what the whole Roman Catholic structure is. It is the greatest system of paganism and idolatry this world has ever known, and at the end of this article I will prove that statement. First, read this brazen article-----

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP)

Sixteen prelates of the Catholic church in America called Thursday for the re-establishment of a "guild" system, "which will bind men together in society according to their respective occupations, thus creating moral unity."

With this, they declared, "a reform of morals and a profound renewal of the Christian spirit" will aid the nation to effect social reconstruction.

Under the "guild or corporative system," both employers and employes would be organized (as Pope Pius XI suggested), "not according to the position they occupy in the labor market, but according to the diverse functions which they exercise in society."

(Guilds governed the craftsmen of Europe during the middle ages.)

Prelates Against Extremism

Rejecting both "extreme individualism" and "collectivism" in government policy, the archbishops and bishops who comprise the administrative board of the national Catholic welfare conference declared:

"Our economic life must be reorganized, not on the disintegrating principles of individualism, but on the constructive principle of social and moral unity among the members of human society."

In "The Church and the Social Order," a 34-page statement on conditions in the United States, the prelates presented what Catholic sources considered their response to the recent encyclical which Pope XII addressed to the church in the United States.

Utterance Held Milestone

The N. C. W. C. called it "the most important utterance made by the Catholic hierarchy since the bishops' program of reconstruction of 1919."

The prelates declared that:

The state must regulate the social responsibility of property so that the burden of providing for the common good is equitably distributed.

To protect its rights, labor must be free to bargain collectively, but "the principle of force" is equally wrong when used by labor or capital.

"Security of the workingman as against unemployment, old age, sickness, accident and death, must be frankly accepted as a social responsibility of industry jointly with society."

A living wage must provide decent support both for the workingman and his family, and must make possible savings to meet unemployment, sickness, death and old age.

State Declared Burdened

Surveying the entire field of economic life, the prelates said:

"It is manifestly impossible to expect good economic order if wages, prices, working conditions and the public are left to chance or to the haphazard methods of so-called free enterprise."

While the state cannot be relegated to the role of mere policeman or umpire, however, the prelates declared, "the state has been encumbered with all the burdens once borne by associations now extinct." (Presumably the guilds.)

"In conformity with Christian principles," they said, "economic power must be subordinated to human welfare, both individual and social; social incoherence and class conflict must be replaced by corporate unity and organic function; ruthless competition must give way to just and reasonable state regulations; sordid selfishness must be superseded by social justice and charity."

Guild 'Ideal Type'

Chief qualifications of the "guilds," the prelates said, are that "they are autonomous, embrace whole industries and professions, are federated with other constituent groups, possess the right of free organization, assembly and vote, and that they should dedicate themselves to the common good and with governmental protection and assistance function in the establishment of justice and the general welfare."

The prelates said the state itself and the existing free organizations of economic life should prepare the way for this "ideal type of vocational groups."

Government

Of course, the object of this suggestion is that after the "guilds" were established, the Roman church could then start teaching them the "Christian" religion. And, of course, that means Catholicism. For that church alone (it says) is the only appointed agent of God on this earth. Jesus Christ ordained the first Pope, and so on and so on and so on. Now I made the statement that the Roman Catholic church is the greatest system of paganism and idolatry in the world today. It has come to the end of the trail however. For if this church attempts to interfere with the government of the U.S., it may find that there are many people of other religious "persuasions" who have other ideas.

Now if the Roman church was honest in its attempts to really do something for humanity, I should have nothing to say. But it is not honest. In the first place, this Roman church is the organization which is responsible for the bringing in of the false system of theology which teaches us that the Great Creator of this universe--the Spirit of God--was, of all things, born in the womb of a virgin. Can you imagine such a preposterous statement as that ever being really believed? Then, it tells us, after God Almighty had grown up to manhood, this Great Creator of all mankind, after making man out of the goodness of His own heart, suddenly decided that he had made a very bad man. Therefore, the Catholic church tells us, it was necessary for God Almighty to be crucified on a cross in order that all who believe that story might be "saved". Of course, the Roman church was given the exclusive authority to do the "saving".

Now, if that isn't hypocrisy, paganism, and idolatry, I don't know what it is. For the Roman church is very careful not to tell the world that millions of people knew the story of the virgin birth, the crucifixion, the resurrection, and the ascension, thousands of years before the Christian religion was ever heard of. This church also neglects to tell us that before the time of the "crucified god" of its church, about 35 other "crucified gods" had also come down from heaven to "save" the world, and they all failed just as the "crucified god" of the R.C. church has failed. The reason they have all failed is because the story is not of God, but is a human church fabrication. Whenever it was deemed necessary to start a system of religion in the old days, there had to be in it, a "crucified god". Otherwise the people would not have believed it.

But in spite of all these "crucified gods" and in spite of everything any church organization can do to reveal God to man, this world today, as I write this, is closer to destruction than at any time in its history. And nothing the Pope or his church, or the Protestant church can do, can stem the tide of destruction which is sweeping all before it today. Now what is the reason for that? The answer is that no church organization which teaches that the Great Almighty God was ever born of a virgin or crucified on a cross, knows anything at all about the truths of God. For these "virgin" and "crucifixion" stories, with the rest of the stuff that goes with them--ARE EASILY PROVEN PAGAN MYTHS AND SUPERSTITIONS, AND THE SPIRIT OF GOD IS NOT IN ANY OF THEM.

We do not want the Christian viewpoint of God here in America. Neither do we want any other viewpoint, if we have to accept that viewpoint on the asinine assumption that Almighty God--the Great Invisible Spirit of God, was born in the ~~dirty~~ womb of any virgin. Away with such twaddle as that about Almighty God. It is this philosophy which has left the world Godless today. And the world certainly is Godless, in spite of the puny efforts of either the Catholic or Protestant churches to bring God to the world. They do not know what the truths of God are. They have never known them.### And as long as they hold the old thread-worn virgin-born crucified god theory, they cannot possibly know the liberating truths of the present existence of the Spirit of God.

No beloved--^{neither} the Roman Catholic nor the Protestant church can reveal to the world, not God^{but} only its own system of religion as it calls it, which system, in each instance, is a relic of religions which we now call "pagan" and "heathen". (Read "Gleams over the Horizon"). This dispensation is coming to a close. The world will shortly see the most ghastly massacre of human beings by mad-men dictators it has ever seen. And in speaking as plainly as I speak, I am only trying to bring to this world the truths of God, and the Power of the Spirit of God, for this is the only Power which can ever save this world and humanity from complete annihilation. ~~And~~ ^{the} story of a "virgin-born" "crucified" god will never do that. It cannot do that. The story is not true. It has been believed in by over 50 different systems of religion, all having their pet theory of a "virgin-born crucified god". And, in spite of all those "god" theories; this world--well--look at it, and ask yourself how much of the Power of the Spirit of God the Roman Catholic church has been able to bring to the earth since it came into being? If it were not so heart-rending it would be laughable. God damns the whole human race. Then God gives to the Roman church the power to liberate what God himself damned. What a travesty on the name of God! The quicker the U.S. gets rid of that type of "religion" the quicker will it find God. ^{not for} ^{dogma}

God exists on the earth today. He exists as He has always existed--an invisible Spirit. ~~And~~ ^{the} Power of that invisible Spirit of God can be found and used by all, and there is no need of any church ^{form} or theory necessary to find God. All those things can do is to present a false picture of God, thereby hiding the true picture. But the day is at hand when the Spirit of God will manifest the TRUE conception of God to this world. It will be done through the "Psychiana" Movement, and not through the Roman Catholic church; or any other church teaching that God was born of a virgin and crucified on a cross. That is paganism. That is idolatry. That is an insult to God. And we who love this Country will do well to watch every move the Catholic church makes insofar as suggesting "guilds" or anything else. Let the Catholic church first find the truths of God. Then, perhaps, we might listen to it. But we shall not listen to any religious theory which puts the Great Creator of this universe inside the womb of any woman. ^{is concerned.}
