My dear friend and Fellow-Student:

Abraham Lincoln walked a lot of miles one day from the grocery store where he earned but a mere pittance, in order to bring a poor old woman a few cents change she had forgotten and left on the counter. Mark Twain, because his name happened to be associated with an unsuccessful company, took all its debts upon himself, and, though an old man, PAID EVERY ONE.

These were big men. It takes a big person to recognize an honest debt and pay it. Yet I repeat, you are, fundamentally--HONEST. You wouldn't tell me otherwise. You are fundamentally RIGHT or you wouldn't be studying with me. You might be out robbing a bank. But you don't do those things. You want to know the fullness of the Power of the Spirit of God.

Let me ask you a question, "Don't you think you are more apt to find that Source of Infinite Power if you send me the small sum of money you owe me?" Of course you are, you know as well as I know that you can't find true Spiritual Power, with all it brings with it, unless you are fair with the man who is doing everything humanly possible to bring the True God to this earth--can you?

So then, once more, as friend to friend, may I ask you to send now the sum due me. If you will do this, you will experience a feeling of satisfaction you have never known before. And I can lead you into a Power-Realm the magnitude of which may very easily stagger you. I'm only a human being, just like you are, but I am sending my Lessons to you, knowing that I shall be paid for them.

I won't say anymore in this letter. I leave it to your sense of honor to do what you agreed to do. Thank you a lot.

Cordially yours,

Frank B. Robinson
