Dear Friend,

It has been several months since we recieved a payment from you. Believing that you would soon find yourself in a position to make the payments for the lessons you contracted for, we have waited patiently without sending you any bills.

When you signed and sent to us your application for Dr. Robinson's lessons, you accepted a contract offer which we immediately performed by sending you the lessons and information for which you subscribed. We were then both bound under the law to perform our respective obligations under the contract entered into between us. By the very nature of the arrangement, we were obliged to forward you the lessons on a credit basis and to trust in your good faith that you would perform your part of the contract. Had you no intention of making the payments required at the time you requested the lessons, then we were, in effect, defrauded in forwarding your material on a credit basis.

We cannot believe you intend to defraud Psychiana. However, this account must be liquidated. It is an honest debt and paying it would dispel any obligation which you have assumed as a matter of law. We do not wish to turn this account over to a correspondent attorney in your city, but if your remittance is not received promptly, after receipt of this letter, we will have no alternative.

Sincerely,

PSYCHIANA, Legal Dept.
