Dear Everett Watson,

These copies of photos you have of the Camas Prairie railroad have been in my file for a year now - since I got them from you in the summer of 1982.

I hope you don't think that the project of a book on this railroad has been abandoned because it certainly hasn't! It just needed more time for me to search out photos - enough to justify the book. This past summer of 1983 was a good one in that respect and I now feel ready to go ahead with the book.

Would you be good enough to go ahead and make up prints of the two copies enclosed? Five by sevens are fine; the publisher/printer can work from them all right and that will save on paper! I'd also appreciate it if you could add information on a separate piece of paper, keyed to the photos: date, where, what and the names of people if you know. Are these your own photos you took, or from someone else? (Lawyer's Canyon bridge can't be one you took!) To whom should credit be given in the book other than "Everett Watson Collection"?

If you wish payment first, let me know what the amount is and I'll send a check, or if you want just include a bill when you send them.

I certainly appreciate your help Everett. People like yourself are the ones who are really making the book possible.

Sincerely,

Hal Riegger,
