Dear Uncle;

How are you? I am very sorry that I did not write to you because I was busy making up programs and when I finally got to write to you we had to pack up and get ready to move to our permanent place.

After five minutes of bus ride we went on the train, tired and hot only to find it more hot and sooty. Well, we rode on the train and oh, was it hot. On the way I saw many sandy mountains and hills. I saw many lands just covered with sage bushes and some places covered with tall trees. The best scenery were the Columbia River, the Snake River and the Twin Falls. He crossed many rivers, too.

The night we spent on the train was awful. It was so hard to sleep. Everytime when they would move the brakes it would jerk the whole car. In the night it was very cold and toward the morning it grew so hot.

The only good thing on the train were the meals. One meal we had chicken, potato, radish salad, Jello and ice-cream. We had lots of milk, too.

When we finally came here we were all disappointed at the sight of just sage brush land and we knew we were going to live in the midst of all this. When we got off of the bus we realized what a dusty place we were going to live.

Some days later I saw a rattlesnake's skeleton so I knew how long it was. Are there rattlesnakes at New Mexico? If there are, you better be careful of them!

Well I think I better end this letter and will you please write to me sometimes when you have time? Take care of yourself.
