

More extensive writings on Big Creek history can be found in separately bound booklets adjacent to this binder. These documents include:

- "The Homestead Records of David Lewis, 1921" (August 1998)
- "The Cascade Phase, an Archaic Period: Archaeological Manifestation on the Payette National Forest, Idaho," by Lawrence A. Kingsbury, Steven E. Stoddard, and Jill Frye (January 1997)
- "A Projectile Point Typology for the Payette National Forest, Idaho," by Steve E. Stoddard (June 1996)
- "Search for the Downed," by John P. Ferguson (1996)
- "American Indian Archaeological & Cultural History Related to the Frank Church – River of No Return Wilderness (Payette Unit)" (July 30, 2007)
- "The Analysis of a Late Holocene Bison Skull From Fawn Creek, Lemhi County, Idaho, and Its Implications for Understanding the History and Ecology of Bison in the Intermountain West," by Kenneth P. Cannon.
- "Archaeological Site Testing at Indian Creek (10VY492/PY-584), Krassel Work Center, Payette National Forest: A National Register Property," by Lawrence A. Kingsbury (April 1994)
- "Archaeological Site Testing at Lake Creek (10IH2561/PY-1331), New Meadows Ranger District, Payette National Forest, Idaho," by Lawrence A. Kingsbury (April 1997)
- "Archaeological Investigations at Waterfall Village and Big Creek Cave" (September 1998)
- "Archaeological Site Testing at Coyote Springs (10IH197/PY-679)" by Lawrence A. Kingsbury (January 2002)
- "1983 Excavations at 10-VY-31, River of No Return Wilderness Area, Idaho" by Frank Leonhardy and Fred Thomas (15 June 1984)
- "The Sheepeaters," by David Dominick (1964)
- "Some Ecological Clues to Proto-Numic Homelands," by Catherine S. Fowler (1972)
- "Shoshone-Bannock Subsistence and Society," Robert F. Murphy and Yolanda Murphy (1960)
- "Shadows in the Wilderness," by Sheila D. Reddy (December 1995)
- "Lemhi Shoshone-Bannock Reliance on Anadromous and Other Fish Resources," by Deward E. Walker, Jr. (April 1994)
- "'Trapped:' the Tragic Story of the Lobauer-Estep Murder Affair on Big Creek," by Peter Preston (August 2002)