

Morgan + Bunting
on the road

Holly + Jim Atenson
Taylor Ranch
Cascade, ID

be really good. To better this one your hospitality and interest were special. It made our ~~stay~~ stay all the better. We're both feeling a few sore muscles and saddle sores (sore butts!) from the Rush Point Ride, but they're worth it. I liked driving the team and meeting you both.

We've been discussing some research possibilities, and may come up with some more ideas over the next several weeks.
We would appreciate it if you would note any cone producing whitebark pines that you see when you're in the high country.
It does not seem to be a good year, so you may not find any. This year's cones are dark, almost purple or burgundy, at the tops and tips of the upswept branches.

Please stop by when you come into Moscow - you're always welcome to stay with us. We'll let you

Falco peregrinus
PEREGRINE FALCONS NC-67-100
©1985 original design by Wendy Morgan
CRANE CREEK GRAPHICS
Box 367 • Wilson, Wyoming 83014

Henry + Steve

Thanks again - it was quite a 3-days, full of interesting sights (my 1st mint) + exciting opportunities + memories and some new friends, we hope. The fact we take care of by you and Rocky + Topper -

Have a good August!

ride probably. Next one - we'll see.

This summer we'll work through an outfit there on a long may prove useful if we end up horse-packing instead of backpacking. The little bit of contact we had with your horses + mules excited. The research goes in the Absaroka wilderness, we're

3

Dear Holly and Jim,

We've arrived back in Idaho Falls - it feels less civilized here than there, especially with so many kids around. We had a good fight up over the Ship Island burn and the Craggs. We both decided that there was country there that we would like to explore someday. Henry took lots of pictures. He said that all his life he's wanted to fly into the backcountry, preferably wilderness, to look around and talk about fire management.

We all had a great time - lots of good discussions about fire management, politics, prescribed burning, etc. It was HI and I's first Western Fire Ecology Congress, so I don't have much to compare, but the next one will have to