Dear Jeff:

I understand that there is a "Cougar Dave" monument or small museum on the Taylor Ranch. If this is the case, I would appreciate more information.

A very good friend of mine was Hank Hedges, a U.S. Forest Service ranger who died in 1959. Hank was a very good friend of Cougar Dave and accompanied him on several cougar hunts.

As a matter of fact, Hank's family has an antique single shot pistol which once belonged to Cougar Dave.

If possible, I would like to plant a natural unmarked tree in memory of Hank in some place associated with Cougar Dave.

Hank used to tell many tales about Cougar Dave. These should be preserved for posterity. I plan to write them up. If you have a "Cougar Dave" archive, I would be happy to forward copies plus other memorabilia. If not, I will include them in my own personal archive access: c/o Dixon, David A., Humanistic Psychology Archive, Library, University of California, Santa Barbara, CA 93106.

Hoping to hear from you soon.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "David R. Dixon".
