Dear Holly and Jim,

Enclosed is a copy of the news release we worked on. I was a bit distressed that they changed the start, but I guess that is the breaks! I'm also including the story from the Idahonian that was printed from it.

Are you ready to do some more? Beth Grubb of the "Idaho--the Magazine" would like to have a cover photo and feature on Taylor Ranch. I talked to Ed Krumpke about it and he said to write you first and see if you could send me some slides of some of the things they want. The magazine is coming out in November with a wildlife picture on front, so they don't want that. But Ed said he seems to remember that you have a beautiful ~~sunset~~ photo of the mountains, the airstrip and lots of scenery. Do you remember such a shot, Jim? If so, if you could send it to me, I'd get it to Beth and you would have another credit for your portfolio.

She would also like to have me write up a short story on you two and your life at Taylor, which I guess we'll have to collaborate on. I took some notes last summer, but will need more information if you two will cooperate.

The story, along with one on Frank Leonhardy and his research would go in the January edition of the magazine. I'm working on that one up here. I could really use some photos from you, for example:

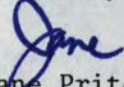

1. Photos of you conducting research in the winter.
2. Winter shots of the solitude at the ranch.
3. Interior shot of the cabin that is being converted to the field lab.
4. Exterior shot "
5. Plowing the snow off the air strip.
6. Meeting the mail plane in the winter.
7. A good scenic or two of winter at Taylor.

I will be trying to negotiate with Beth to see if there is something they can pay you for the photos, but who knows? A copy of published work at least helps when job applying and to get other jobs, so maybe this will be incentive enough.

The photos and article would be featured in the January edition of the magazine, but the deadline for all of this is November 10 so we need to get working on it pronto. (Is it even possible?)

Well, I better get this in the mail to you. Hope all goes well. Sure enjoyed working on the attached story with you!

Sincerely,

Jane Pritchett
