NEW EDITION OF AWARD-WINNING
STUDENT MAGAZINE NOW AVAILABLE

MOSCOW--The 1980 edition of an award-winning magazine covering western conservation topics published by students of the University of Idaho College of Forestry, Wildlife and Range Sciences is now available, according to Mike Hollmann, editor.

The magazine, "Idaho Forester: A Magazine of Natural Resources," includes articles about what the federal government plans for western wildlife in the 1980's, today's U.S. Forest Service fire policy, and a vision of Yellowstone National Park's future.

"If there is any one underlying theme to this issue," Hollmann says, "it is a focus on the 1980's and what the future has in store."

The "Idaho Forester" took first place for overall quality in a 1979 national contest for forestry student publications sponsored by the Society of American Foresters.

Other topics addressed in the 1980 edition include the Bureau of Land Management's wilderness inventory, new fisheries developing in the Snake River and the UI College of Forestry's initiation of scientific exchanges with Mainland China.

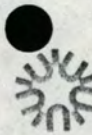

The magazine also serves as an annual for the college's students and contains articles about activities within the college and its faculty and students.

The magazine, edited by Hollmann and Lisa Strassheim, associate editor, relies almost entirely on sales to meet expenses. The "Idaho Forester" has been published annually since 1917.

Copies of the magazine are available for $4.20. Mail orders will also be accepted and must include a payment of $4.50 for each copy ordered, which includes a $.30 mailing fee.

Mail orders may be placed by writing Editor; "Idaho Forester," College of FWR; University of Idaho; Moscow, Idaho 83843.

Dear Mike:

The University of Idaho Library is one of the core needs of all students here in Moscow. Recent policy changes and proposals have led the students to become very concerned about the library continuing to meet the students needs.

In light of this, I have formed a special Presidential Ad Hoc Committee on Library Improvement. I would like you to serve as Chairman of this Committee if you would.

The structure and pursuits of the Committee will be completely independent and up to the decretion of your Committee members. The Committee will be active until October 1, 1980 at which time a report and recommendations to the ASUI President and Senate is due.

The challenge is large, but many areas possible improvement in our Library must be explored. You will need to contact the Committee members as to the time of your first meeting.

Sincerely,
